A message was received from his Excellency, the Governor, A. Harry Moore, by the hands of his Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk:

The First Annual Message of A. Harry Moore, Governor of New Jersey to the One Hundred and Sixty-third Legislature of New Jersey.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
January 10, 1939.

To the Legislature:

Our State Constitution provides that the Governor "shall communicate by message to the Legislature at the opening of each session, . . . the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient." In the discharge of that obligation I am pleased to submit herewith my First Annual Message in my third term as Governor.

MESSAGE LIMITED

In my several inaugural, annual and special messages during my service as Chief Executive of our State I have discussed in some detail the whole range of important problems with which we have been faced, and have offered definite proposals looking to their solution. I shall not undertake to cover the whole field in this message; I shall limit it, rather, to my observations on some of the more significant matters now of general public interest and a discussion of some of the pressing problems that must occupy your immediate attention at the opening of this one hundred and sixty-third legislative session. Other questions I shall leave for consideration in conference and for treatment in special messages as the need may appear.

CONTINUING PROBLEMS OF OUR GOVERNMENT

Some of the problems I have discussed in other years, arising out of emergency or other particular circumstances or conditions, have run their course or measures for their solution and disposition have been provided as a part of our accepted procedures in the conduct of our public business. Our basic and fundamental problems of public concern, common in great measure, of course, to all of the States and local governments in the Nation, yet remain. On our success in finding acceptable and sound ways of meeting them will depend the measure of our success in the discharge of our public duties.

In a growing, expanding State, such as ours, there is no point in our progress when we may say that we have found the complete answer to such problems as public finance, taxation, education, public welfare in its broad sense, unemployment relief, a highway system adequate for all our needs, ample supplies of pure water for the long future, the protection of health and the elimination of the dangers of insanitation and pollution, the conservation and the best use of our natural resources, the development of the State to its highest possibilities, the perfection of our administrative processes and others of like character. Our needs and conditions with respect to these matters change constantly. Our task has been, and will continue to be, the formulation and application of sound procedures capable of effective, economical and equitable application and sufficiently elastic to meet the changing needs of our people. This is government in action. This is of the essence of democracy.

COURAGE AND CO-OPERATION REQUIRED

As the representatives of the people of our State, and clothed, for the time being, with authority to act in their behalf, it is your responsibility and mine, in our respective fields, to consider again these public problems and take such action as seems best designed for their solution and disposition. The situation calls now, more than at any other time in our generation, it seems to me, for determination, forthrightness and courage in the discharge of these responsibilities. I am confident that we can work together in full co-operation and understanding as we apply ourselves to the work ahead.

ALERT CITIZENSHIP

As we face the problems of the new year it is well, I think, for all of us, both those in official responsibility and citizens generally, to keep clearly in mind our public responsibilities, our duties and the protection we enjoy as free citizens in a free Nation. The record of conflict, of suffering and oppression, written over most of the world in the twelve months past, is a sorry commentary indeed on human progress. It emphasizes again that might, rather than right, dominates the thinking and action of most of mankind. It should call us, in our Nation, in our State, and in our several communities, to a new realization of the values of citizenship in a free country and the necessity for constant and vigilant watchfulness against the encroachment of doctrines alien to our institutions and our ways of life.

Chesterton, in his "Everlasting Man" defined a Despotism as "a tired democracy." "As fatigue falls on a community," he says, "the citizens are less inclined for that eternal vigilance which has truly been called the price of liberty, and they prefer to arm only one single individual to watch the city while they sleep." The only alternative to that condition, it seems to me, is a virile, an understanding and an actively interested citizenship in the affairs of government.

LIBERTY VERSUS LICENSE

No people and no combination of peoples can take our liberties away from us. But we can lose them by our own indifference and neglect. We have seen, recently, the seeds of dissention, of group consciousness and conflict develop in ways that are new and strange to us. We have long taken it as a matter of course that, as a people, we have been and are completely devoted to our political and social institutions as they were established at the beginnings and have developed over all our history. We see today the truth of the principles of liberty upon which we were established a Nation questioned boldly and deliberately in many places. There are those who question the soundness and the possibilities of democratic government, of the values of thrift and industry and individual effort. There are those, likewise, who challenge openly the tenets of American faith and life. There are evidences, too numerous to be ignored, of efforts to draw our people away from their old faith in democracy and to give it to new and alien philosophies—not new in fact, but alien to us, and recorded all down the centuries as failures when put to the test. I am against that sort of thing under whatever guise it may appear. To be so is merely to be American, and that needs no apologies to anybody anywhere.

I like to think of our Nation as assuring liberty without reservation to all who dwell within her boundaries, but I do not understand freedom as the guaranty of license to all who demand it under the guise of civil liberty. It is time that those who have found a home, and safety, and opportunity among us, but who are enemies of our system of government, understand that the protection of civil liberties does not carry to them the right to organize enemy groups among us, to seek to inculcate disloyalty in the minds of our people and to attempt by such methods to destroy the very liberties under which they seek protection. Every race and color and creed in our State is welcome to protection, in the full meaning of the term, but we ought to make it clear that efforts to organize against the orderly processes of government, and to disturb to the point of danger the orderly life of our State and our communities, are not in harmony with our notions of good citizenship and will not be tolerated. It is peculiarly true that in our Bill of Rights "lives the sum of man's victories over the forms of barbarism and oppression," as a prominent writer has recently put it, but it is as strongly true that we shall not keep these rights alive except we stand constant guard in their defense. We need more clear thinking by the mass of our citizens as well as by those who seek to lead. We need a clearer interpretation of civil liberty lest the lack of it betray us into the tolerance of license which destroys liberty.

I am constrained to make these observations, addressed not merely to you, but to every citizen of the State, and not as applying only to those who now and then are found among us who are out of sympathy with our philosophy of government and our ways of life, but also to many of our citizens who are inclined to think out of balance and who are tolerant only for the things which they consider good from their own point of view.

CONSTRUCTIVE AND DESTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

Constructive criticism by individuals and citizen groups of the acts and policies of their responsible officials serves a useful and essential purpose. The watchfulness of the people is a better safeguard of wholesome official attitude and practice in the conduct of public business than codes of procedure and statutes, however complete and binding they may be. Carping, chronic criticism of every act or undertaking in connection with our public business destroys in great part the capacity for good citizenship of those who indulge in it.

Our State government has direct and heavy responsibilities to the citizens who compose it and who look to it for many kinds of service and for constructive leadership in these days of stress that are not yet fully behind us. We should make sure, of course, now and at all times, that we are handling our State affairs wisely, honestly and with due regard for public interest. Our State government is sound and it must remain so. But we must view our governmental problems as a whole. Those of us who advocate greatly reduced expenditures or the complete abandonment of relief, for instance, with crusading zeal and regardless of cost, are no more helpful in the selection of the right course to pursue than those who stand continually with one foot in Utopia advocating largess for all who may ask and inordinate expenditure of funds which we do not possess and are not likely to obtain. Well-reasoned consideration, tolerance and deliberate judgment are needed in our present situation, rather than apt shibboleths, intolerance and specious argument.

We need to remind ourselves often that patriotism does not reside solely in certain small groups, and that public virtue is not the special inheritance of those only who have no public responsibility. To express it in another way, in our individual and group search for easy solutions of all of our public problems we should remember that the destruction of respect for government and the breaking down of public faith in the agencies of government are dangers that should not be lightly brushed aside. Our State is fortunate in the faithful men and women who administer its affairs and do its work. They invite critical examination of their work. They ask, as fellow citizens, to be judged by their stewardship.

STATE DEVELOPMENT

The problem of first importance to our country in this new year is that of finding employment for all of our people who are without work and who are anxious to take their places again in private industry. There can be no prosperity, no end to depression and wholesale relief, no economic and social security except through the recovery and the encouragement of industry. This problem is especially emphasized in our own industrial State. It exceeds all others and affects directly our State Government, our local government, our business and agricultural interests and our individual citizens. It is incumbent upon us, as public officials and as responsible citizens, to face this problem in a realistic way and to seek earnestly a constructive solution.

Our State has three major forms of wealth-producing activity:

First: Our industries produce annually goods valued at three and one-half billions of dollars and provide employment for half of New Jersey's workers;

Second: Our agricultural industry produces products valued at over one hundred million dollars a year, provides employment and homes for our whole farm population and for thousands of other workers as well;

Third: Recreation in our State as in many others has assumed the proportions of a major industry. Our recreation industry produces an income of one hundred and seventy-five millions of dollars a year.

New Jersey can prosper only as these three major forms of wealth-producing activity are maintained and increased. New Jersey can provide more employment for her people only as these activities are extended. There are no other important sources of employment for our people than these.

The other great businesses of our State, called in these modern days the service industries, likewise grow and prosper and provide added employment opportunities only as our wealth-producing activities grow and prosper. By reason of these basic facts, not always given full consideration in the search for short cuts and easy solutions to difficult problems, I remind you that it is of utmost importance that we shall pass no laws in our State which will place these wealth-producing forces and the industries making up these forces in a position of unfavorable competition with comparable industries in other parts of the country.

In its zeal to correct all of our social and economic errors at once, government frequently forgets, it seems, the basic character of the partnership that must obtain between business and labor and government in the maintenance of our economic system and in the realization of that security sought for all our people.

There is ample proof in the statutes and the accepted procedures in our State of enlightened thinking as well as enlightened practice in this field. I am happy to have had a part in the development of these relationships and these policies, for I consider the right solution of these matters as of the highest statesmanship and of vital importance to our whole economic and social structure. The thing most needed at this time, it seems to me, is confidence in governmental policies and procedures on the part of industry, and assurance in turn by government, in action as well as in word, that industry is to be looked upon and treated as a source of wealth, a source of payrolls, a source of employment and security for all of our people and not as an objective toward which may be constantly aimed punitive and destroying legislation.

We in New Jersey will help ourselves most and we may well point the way for others if we will demonstrate to industry by our actions that we look upon it in this light. Let us continue wise and effective regulatory industrial measures but let us make every legitimate business feel at home in our State—feel that it is welcome as a part of our progress and our prosperity, and that it can count upon friendly consideration and equitable treatment.

New Industries and Homes. In the past year I have been glad of the opportunity to co-operate with numerous State-wide trade and civic and labor organizations together with our various State departments, in encouraging one thousand two hundred and sixty-three manufacturing industries to start operations in the State. These industries are providing employment for approximately twenty thousand of our citizens. I have no available statistics as to the numbers of people who have come into the State during the past year to establish permanent homes, but there is unmistakable evidence that that number is considerable and that it is continually growing. This trend to New Jersey will continue if we can maintain the economic inducements that we offer today as a matter of course We must constantly keep in mind that industries contemplating expansion or relocation of plants today are extremely interested in the disposition shown by State governments toward both industry and business and to the whole industrial situation.

You will agree with me, I am sure, that we should not seek those industries that demand special inducements in the form of free land, free buildings, tax exemptions or sweat-shop labor. Such enterprises do not prove in the long run to be advantageous to either business or labor. We should seek those industries that can locate here logically and profitably and that will provide yet greater industrial and business diversity than we now have. It should be our policy in New Jersey to see to it that all branches of our governments, both at the State and local levels, shall do all in their power to protect our great industrial assets by continuing to maintain conditions favorable to the profitable operation of legitimate industry in the State.

Agriculture. By the maintenance of sound procedure in the agricultural field we shall continue the unbroken record of our State in the encouragement and expansion of our agricultural interests. Through the aggressive expansion of our farm marketing plans we shall be able to compete more favorably with other parts of the country. Our leaders in this field advise me that an extension of the grading, packaging and merchandising of our farm products promises wider markets, better prices and higher income from our farm population. These matters should be given your official encouragement and support.

The New York World's Fair. I have referred to our recreational activities as one of our major industries. Tied up with its expansion and growth is the further development of our facilities for recreation not only for the accommodation of the millions of visitors and vacationists who are attracted to the State but for our own use. This development includes playgrounds, inland, seashore and mountain parks, forest and game reservations, the cleansing and conservation of our lakes and streams and the like. We need more recreation and forest reservation space now. We have not made wise provision for these in the past, and we cannot well afford further delay in the planning and acquisition of these essential facilities.

I shall leave this matter, however, for possible later discussion, but the opening of the New York World's Fair presents a problem for which we must prepare immediately and which promises substantial and material returns to New Jersey interests and New Jersey people. This great exposition will bring twenty-five million people to our "front door" and into our State. Millions of these visitors will seek housing accommodations in New Jersey and hundreds of thousands of them will want to include a tour of our own renowned shore resorts, our inland recreation areas, our historic shrines and our great industries. Through proper and dignified publicity and adequate and intelligent information we may make millions of new friends for the State, increase our recreational income and employment opportunities of our people and attract new home owners, new businesses and new industries as well. The people of New Jersey have a direct interest in this great undertaking, and we cannot afford to lose any time in making our own preparations.

This great influx of visitors will bring to us many problems and will accentuate others which we already have. Naturally we want to be seen at our best, and provision must be made to welcome our guests, to give them the information they seek, to protect them while they are with us and provide for their needs. Under the direction of the Superintendent of the State Police, information stations are being set up at the several gateways to the State and at other strategic points within the State. The New Jersey Council has well-designed plans for a continuing courtesy campaign and for publicising our advantages and attractions in co-operation with our several trade and civic organizations. The Highway Department is working intelligently to provide maximum traffic facilities, and the Motor Vehicle Department is carrying forward its plans for traffic safety. I shall call upon the State and local health departments to take extraordinary action through co-operative planning to insure complete sanitation for all places and businesses which undertake to cater to the needs of the travelling public. I shall call upon the police and law enforcing agencies to exercise vigilance in the protection of these anticipated throngs. I shall appeal to all our civic and social agencies and to every citizen to consider the proper representation of the State as his or her personal duty and obligation.

I have faith in the industrial, the agricultural and the recreational resources of New Jersey. If we in the administration of government, and this applies to local as well as to State government, will do our part in maintaining New Jersey's favorable position in these respects we shall see expansion programs begun, greater production, greater sales of our products and greater employment for our people.

STATE FINANCES

Financing the cost of unemployment relief continues to be our most difficult problem. In this we are no exception, as the same conditions prevail, in the same way and largely to the same degree, in all other States. During the depression period we have used practically every available cash surplus and balance, in our efforts to avoid additional borrowing to meet the relief emergency. The State is now faced with the necessity of making definite provisions for financing its relief costs.

According to the figures of the State Financial Assistance Commission, the cost of relief, excluding administration, approximated $23,000,000 for the calendar year 1938. Early last year, the State Financial Assistance Commission provided by resolution that the municipalities should be required to pay twenty-five per cent. of the total cost of relief, excluding administration, during the year, and in no event should municipalities pay less than $4,000,000. On this 75/25 basis and an expenditure of $23,000,000, the State and municipal shares are $17,250,000 and $5,750,000, respectively, for the calendar year 1938. As the State has already contributed $10,000,000, an additional $7,250,000 will be required as the State's share, and if the State pays the total cost above $4,000,000, then its share will be $9,000,000. This money has been spent, but there are no available, existing funds from which payment can be made.

The Financial Assistance Commission estimates that relief expenditures for the calendar year 1939 will amount to $22,000,000. It may be more. I trust it will be substantially less. Using this figure with the same 75/25 formula, the State must provide $16,500,000 of new money, or $18,000,000 if municipal contributions are limited to $4,000,000.

It is important that these figures and facts be understood both officially and by citizens generally. It is important, also, that both officials and citizens understand that the revenues of the State are definitely limited, that the State cannot spend money it does not have, and that it has no way of obtaining funds except through its revenues and through borrowing. Upon this Legislature, therefore, falls the heavy and direct responsibility of providing funds to pay outstanding relief bills for the last half of 1938 and prospective bills for all of 1939 in the minimum sum of $23,750,000 and a possible maximum of $27,000,000.

My Executive Budget, which is being presented today, carries recommendations from the State Fund in the sum of $39,355,387.33 and shows this fund in balance as the law requires. In reaching this result, I was faced with the responsibility of providing for essential State activities and of absorbing an anticipated deficit as of June 30, 1939, in excess of $2,000,000. This was not an easy task. I call your attention to the fact that the small anticipated free balance shown in my budget computations cannot be realized if the Legislature adopts a budget greater than that recommended, unless anticipated receipts are further increased or provisions for other revenue are made. The 1938 Legislature made supplemental appropriations of $2,842,825.43, of which $2,224,825.43 was applicable to the current year. These supplemental appropriations explain entirely the anticipated deficit as of June 30 next of $2,016,563.36. It will not be safe to repeat this procedure.

The Highway Budget shows something of the same situation. There is a limited amount only earmarked for new construction. As I have proposed elsewhere, it is my conviction that we shall help our unemployment situation most by providing the maximum amount of work possible. It is my proposal that available highway funds for construction and reconstruction purposes shall be used as far as possible as the State's share of the cost of further highway undertakings in connection with WPA funds that may be made available.

Some confusion has been caused by the reports of the State's financial agencies with respect to actual and anticipated deficits in the State and Highway funds. It is unfortunate that there is not complete agreement at a time when it is of first importance that our whole financial picture shall be presented clearly and accurately so that every citizen may understand the exact condition of the State's finances. In my examination of these reports I am convinced that the differences in the conclusions reached lie in the premises and procedures adopted rather than in any real differences as to the amount of moneys actually available. It is my purpose to call a conference of State accounting and fiscal officers in the near future and charge them with the responsibility of developing a bookkeeping procedure which will produce accurate and understandable figures with respect to the actual financial status of the State and its several funds at any given period.

In several of my Messages in earlier years I presented my views with respect to essential economy in the routine operations of the State Government, the importance of first providing revenue for new programs of activity and expenditure and the urgent need for improving our assessment and collection procedures and our whole revenue system both for the State and local governments. I pointed out that the taxing sources for local and State purposes have been so restricted by Federal taxing policies that almost any additional taxes laid, other than those upon real property, would rest upon sources already taxed by the National Government. I expressed the belief that we could not continue much longer without some comprehensive consideration of this whole problem in an effort to arrive at some understanding as to what sources should be taxed for Federal purposes and what kinds of taxes should be preserved to or shared by the State and local governments. In view of the revenue necessities of the Federal Government it would not appear that progress in this direction is likely to be made in the immediate future. The need for such concerted consideration and agreement remains. Such an agreement must be reached before any sound and equitable taxing system can be evolved.

The Tax Law Revision Commission, created by the Legislature in 1938, has carried on its studies during the year. It has already made some preliminary announcements. I understand that it proposes to render a complete report and recommendations to the Legislature at this session. I am hopeful that its findings will be of constructive aid as you seek a sound and an equitable solution of the difficult financial problems which we face. The existing situation compels your immediate attention.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

From the foregoing it is apparent that the provision of adequate relief, while a social and an administrative problem, is, with us as with every other State, our most difficult financial problem. It is a disturbing fact that nearly ten years have passed since the Nation and the State entered this period of economic distress, the proportions of which are even yet beyond our capacity to measure accurately. Businesses have been ruined, fortunes swept away, fear and uncertainty have beset a substantial portion of our whole population at a time when we were producing heavy agricultural crops and our mills and shops were able to flood our markets with their goods. The losses in financial values during this period have been bad enough, but the tremendous, almost universal, human suffering has been a great deal worse. Over the greater part of this period public and private relief measures have been improvised on bases of expediency and to meet one emergency situation after another.

At the outset, we undertook to centralize our relief administration in the State Government. We found quickly that that procedure was too bureaucratic and too expensive. Two years ago we turned the administration of relief back to local governments. We have found weaknesses in this plan. In the meantime we have gathered experience and improved our perspective with respect to these matters so that some basic facts now stand out with reasonable clearness.

It is evident that the wide-spread want which appeared to come upon us without warning in 1929 was not a sudden thing, but rather the culmination of forces and conditions having their origin ten or even twenty years earlier .Our chief difficulties seem to have had their sources in the lack of right relationships between our capacity to produce and our capacity as a people to purchase the fruits of our mass efforts for individual consumption and use. Though many men have studied these problems intensively, there has not yet been found a satisfactory and acceptable solution.

A second fact, which compels attention, is this: While our relief problems are not generally understood in all of their complexities, it is gradually being recognized that assistance only for the unemployed is not a complete program. I have heretofore advocated the segregation of our unemployables from the unemployment relief load. This, it seems, to me, is a step in the right direction and should be followed up. The care of the unemployable group to the extent to which they must have public assistance belongs in the hands of the Department of Institutions and Agencies with its resources and experienced personnel.

Out of this proposal arises, naturally, a whole series of questions regarding relief and the individuals requiring it. Notwithstanding increasing business activity we yet have more than seventy thousand unemployment relief cases on our State rolls, comprising over two hundred thousand individuals. Unemployables among these cases vary from seventeen to nineteen per cent. of the whole load. It is both practicable and possible to segregate the chronically ill unemployables from the total numbers and to plan that reasonable care for them which they must have. To be sure, the division between the employable and the unemployable is not sharply defined in many cases and the two classes tend to merge at their common boundary, but for all practical purposes the division can be made. Many unemployables require medical and surgical treatment and others need retraining to fit them to resume their places either as self-supporting or productive members of society. It is unfortunate, but we may as well face the fact that we must prepare to carry, for some time to come, a relief burden far in excess of any that we have considered normal heretofore, and we should plan to find out without further delay exactly who are on relief and the reasons why they are there.

Recently I took steps to initiate a central index file for all of our relief cases in order that we might form some idea of their composition. That step should be followed by an effective classification program as an indispensible tool for a realistic handling of our relief problem. Such a procedure would serve to segregate the chronics, the permanent unemployables, and those temporarily incapacitated for useful labor. It would provide us with the highly essential information of whom among relief recipients need work and what kind of work they are able to perform. Out of that information we could formulate intelligent work programs as well as plans for care and treatment. The Department of Institutions and Agencies has been utilizing a classification procedure in the handling and treatment of State wards for many years. I propose that we apply the same procedure to our relief wards, using the knowledge and experience already available.

It is well that we keep constantly in mind that this relief problem is not merely a mass of statistics, nor can it be solved on a dollars and cents basis alone. Behind these relief figures, behind the orderly routine of relief procedure, behind the evictions, broken homes and broken spirits, we read about, are people—human beings—trapped by misfortune not of their own making, not knowing which way to turn and appealing to us for help. More than forty-two per cent. of those on our relief rolls are children. These children are the future citizens of our State. It is not too much to say that what happens to the State will depend upon what measures we take to bring these children of relief families through the difficulties and trials of these times, and to what extent we are able to preserve their impressionable characters from the evils of chronic delinquency and dependency. It is a heavy responsibility that we face and we must find an effective way of discharging it. I commend to your thoughtful consideration the report already made by our Unemployment Relief Commission, presented to me and to the legislative body which preceded yours, and to the further report which I understand will be made to me and to you in the coming weeks.

FEDERAL-STATE RELATIONSHIPS AND WORKS PROGRAM

Under its policy of relief administration, the Federal Government has held, of course, a dominant place in the whole relief picture. The national social legislation initiated and in process of initiation, and the national program for public works, should go far, in the coming year, toward lightening our own relief load. The greater provision for our so-called categorical groups; old age assistance, dependent children and the blind, and the added provisions for other miscellaneous groups such as civilian conservation camps, student aid, the national youth administration, etc., have likewise been of great assistance to us both in a social and financial way. The payment of unemployment insurance, now being initiated by our Unemployment Compensation Commission, under the Social Security Board, and the wide extension of our Employment Service, administered by the same department, will also help greatly in our relief problems.

Beyond these provisions, however essential and important as they are, our fundamental needs are jobs and an outlet for productive labor. For more than three years the Federal Government has been engaged in a policy of creating work programs for such of the needy as are able to work. I was glad of the opportunity to initiate a twenty-five million dollar road building and road improvement program shortly after my inauguration. This project involved the expenditure of five million dollars of State and local government funds, supplemented by twenty millions of dollars of Federal money. The reports coming to me of this undertaking are extremely encouraging. These reports demonstrate the fact that work which they can do and which represent worth-while contributions to the development of the State may be found for a great proportion, if not all, of our employables among our relief groups. This project alone, or rather this series of projects, provided work opportunity for more than fifteen thousand men.

In spite of the great expenditures for modern highways, made in this State in the past twenty years, our main traffic arteries are overloaded beyond any reasonable point of safety, and we seem to be constantly fighting a losing battle in our efforts to provide enough improved roadways to carry the constantly increasing traffic which grows month by month and year by year. Without adequate highways we cannot expect further industrial and business development. I particularly urge that this Federal-State partnership be broadened and that additional work on our State highways be planned with the aid of the Federal authorities in charge of recovery work programs.

In looking forward to our traffic requirements, we should not forget the rapid expansion in air traffic. In the years just ahead, aviation promises to become the new giant in the field of travel and transportation. Improvements and extensions to airports and landing fields are needed now. The Federal Works Project at the Newark Airport is an example of what may be done in this field.

There are many other projects which lend themselves to the Federal-State Works Programs. There is, for example, the Delaware and Raritan Canal, now the property of the State, which should be utilized for public benefit. I am advised that this right-of-way, through constructive treatment, can be used as a potable water distribution medium and as a part of the greater water supply system that must be provided in the near future to permit normal growth in our populous northern areas and to prevent an actual and dangerous water shortage that threatens. I shall refer to the subject of potable water supply in another part of this Message, but if this property can be used for this purpose it lends itself readily to a Works Program project which would supply a great volume of work of the kind that can be done effectively by relief employables.

I have referred earlier to our preparations for the New York World's Fair. There is a great volume of housekeeping chores to be done by the State and by every municipal and county government. This work should be done also as a part of our work relief program.

Another construction problem which presses for solution is that of providing adequate office space for State departments and agencies. It has been recognized and acknowledged for years that the State does not have available quarters to house its essential agencies and required working forces. We have adopted one make-shift scheme after another as a means of delay in facing the problem. The situation is more acute now than at any other time. Most of our major departments are scattered around in various buildings and only a limited number of our State agencies are properly housed. It is not possible to maintain a satisfactory level of administrative efficiency under these conditions. Besides, we are paying from public funds annual rental of more than enough to provide carrying and amortization costs of an office building fully sufficient for our needs even though the full cost of construction were derived from State funds. It is a matter of good sense and good business for us to make provision for the construction of proper office quarters in space adjacent to the Capitol, where sufficient ground is already available.

There are numerous other projects which may be undertaken as a part of our relief program, but it would not seem necessary to list them here.

While New Jersey has maintained cordial relations generally with existing agencies of the Federal Government established for the purpose of supervising the Federal works program for employables on relief rolls, questions of administration and administrative procedure have arisen, from time to time, upon which we have not been able to agree with the Federal authorities. I had occasion, recently, to protest to the President of the United States more than once over the announced policy of the Federal Works Progress Administration of summary dismissal of all persons over sixty-five years of age and of mothers with dependent children on the ground that they are entitled to assistance under categories of aid created by the Federal Social Security Act.

The proposed procedure, it seems to me, was unfortunate and largely indefensible. If these groups are to be eliminated from relief work, as a matter of deliberate policy, it should be done, of course, in an orderly way, after due notice to both the individual and the agency or agencies to be affected, and with every possible precaution against privation, particularly in mid-winter. Furthermore, the automatic dismissal of able-bodied elderly people from work projects foreshadows a philosophy which I am unable to accept. The time has not come, I think, when we should or can establish a policy in this country of enforced retirement from active participation in the life of the working community of all people over sixty-five years of age. Honorable active work for all those physically and mentally capable should be our determined aim in America. I do not believe that we should undertake to deny this in our public works program.

In the case of mothers with dependent children, those who know the provisions of the New Jersey law know that the aid goes to the children and not to their mothers. If the State should grant assistance to mothers, the Federal Social Security Administration itself would not share the cost, since mothers' aid is not contemplated under the terms of the Federal statute. I have urged on the President the desirability of a conference between the Federal Works Progress Administration officials and our own representatives in an effort to reconcile these divergent points of view. I have had in mind, in this, that the time may have now come when we can, with propriety, urge upon the Government of the United States the necessity for these and possibly other changes in the Federal Works Program as it applies to our State in the light of the experience of the past three years.

The Federal Program, of course, has not achieved all that was hoped for it, namely, the provision of a job for every employable person in need of relief. Its policy of dealing directly with hundreds of local subdivisions has resulted in placing the State in the anomalous position of having no control over local projects but of having to underwrite unpredictable deficits in local relief costs. It appears to me that the better method would be a system of grants-in-aid by the Federal Government, leaving supervision of projects on a State rather than on a local level. The grants-in-aid have been used in the Federal-State plan of co-operation for many years in the fields of agriculture, education, highway building and categorical relief. It is a tried method of Federal-State partnership for the welfare of the people. I fully endorse the principle now being given consideration in Washington of a further decentralization of our whole relief and work relief program.

SURVEY AND STUDY COMMISSIONS

Several studies by commissions have been started or carried on during the year, the results of which should be of direct interest and value to the public, to State and local administrative officers, and to the Legislature. These studies are not directly a part of our relief activities but some of them have grown out of the social, economic and fiscal problems which our relief situation has brought, and all of them have some bearing on it since they seek better ways to improve administration and promote the public welfare.

I have referred above to the Tax Revision Commission and the Unemployment Relief Commission. The reports and recommendations of these bodies warrant your careful study and consideration.

During the year the Department of Labor and the Financial Assistance Commission, at my request, have made a survey to determine the effect on the State relief load of unreasonably low and inadequate wages paid to employed workers who have been asking relief grants to supplement their earnings. Some interesting information has already been developed and the study will be continued during nineteen hundred and thirty-nine.

In line with the objectives sought in this survey, the Department of Labor is planning to extend the enforcement of the Minimum Wage Act of nineteen hundred and thirty-three. In April of nineteen hundred and thirty-eight, the Commissioner of Labor made mandatory his preliminary order, of September, nineteen hundred and thirty-seven, fixing minimum wages for women and children in the laundry industry. The whole procedure was carried out and agreed upon by representatives of owners, workers and the public. The Commissioner's order affects approximately six thousand workers and it is estimated that it involves an increase in their annual earnings of approximately seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Directory orders are about to be issued and wage boards set up in several of our light manufacturing industries, such as toys, novelties and clothing, under the nineteen hundred and thirty-three act. This effort, through co-operation and agreement of representatives of owners, workers and the public, warrants your consideration and support.

This procedure points the way, it seems to me, to the solution of many of the differences arising between employers and employees. I hope to see the same principles enlarged and expanded in the handling of all of our industrial relations. It is my hope that the nine-member committee which I have appointed to study the whole problem of industrial relations will be able to reach agreement and that it may present a program of legislation upon which all interests can agree—a plan socially and economically sound and in public interest. I look forward to seeing the enactment of such legislation as one of the most important tasks of this session. As I have said elsewhere, New Jersey will prosper only as our industries prosper and work is provided for our people. We shall be serving the State in the truest sense when we are formulating and setting up procedure for wholesome relationships and better understandings between Industry and Labor.

The temporary commission established to examine and report upon the economic, cultural, health and living conditions of the urban colored population of the State and to recommend constructive measures for the improvement thereof has been engaged in the survey directed under the statute creating it. Its report is due not later than March first next. I am hopeful that the Commission's report will point the way for increased opportunities for our colored population.

Under authority provided in a joint resolution, I appointed a Good-Will Commission representative of the different racial and religious groups of our whole population and designed to foster racial and religious understanding and good-will among our people. The establishment of this body is more than a graceful gesture. It is the outgrowth of a real desire on the part of many representative citizens to develop that friendliness, tolerance and social understanding which represent basic factors in the relationships of our population drawn from so many sources and from varying backgrounds.

For the past two and one-half years the New Jersey Juvenile Delinquency Commission has been devoting its energies to a determination of the causes of wrong-doing among children. At the last session of the Legislature the Commission presented a report containing much valuable data on the problem of youthful offenders. It is continuing its studies and will have a further report to make during the present legislative session.

In recent years juvenile delinquency has assumed increasing importance in all of our plans to cope more effectively with the problems of crime and its prevention because every discussion of the means to stop crime leads to a consideration of the measures necessary to safeguard youth. Those who are conversant with the problem of trying to find the cause of adult crime are convinced that one of the prolific sources of adult crime is the incidence of juvenile delinquency, and that to prevent youthful transgressions will go a long way towards reducing crime.

The New Jersey Juvenile Delinquency Commission pointed out in its preliminary report that the number of persons sixteen to twenty years old arrested in the past few years has dropped substantially. Our satisfaction in this is quickly shattered, however, when we discover that persons sixteen years of age are arrested in greater proportion for serious offenses than those of any other age, and that persons twenty-one years of age are taken into custody for all offenses, both serious and trivial, in greater proportion than persons of any other single age year. This is the same as saying that people sixteen years old contribute more than their share to arrests for serious offenses, while persons twenty-one years old contribute more than their share to arrests for all offenses.

Children are not born "bad". They become so oftentimes because of their environment. The Juvenile Delinquency Commission has found much proof of this fact. As that Commission went to the offenders themselves and questioned them as inmates of our State correctional institutions, these delinquents assigned bad company as the largest single factor leading to their first wrong-doing. The data gathered showed also that school difficulties are a potent force leading to delinquency. When children are truants it is certain that they are running away from something. Too frequently that something is likely to be school work not very well designed to meet their needs. It is not a good commentary on our society that the Juvenile Delinquency Commission found two out of every three offenders examined had been persistent truants; two out of every five had been committed to institutions for truancy; thirty-nine per cent. had violated the law at eleven years of age or younger and that a majority had been in trouble with police at least twice before the age of sixteen.

The point I am making is this: There is no possible way of discovering how many children are on the way to delinquency, but it is highly important that adequate and uniform information about crime and its beginnings be gathered in one place so that the data can be studied and facts developed which will help us in our efforts at its solution.

I have no doubt but that measures looking to the protection of children and to aid them in meeting the problems of our complex life will be proposed during this session of the Legislature. By giving such proposals your thoughtful consideration and support you will be helping in a very real degree to safeguard the welfare of those generations who will be our State in the years to come.

Two months ago I called a conference to consider the health and welfare needs of New Jersey with special reference to the medical care available and actually received by our needy citizens and those in the low income groups. National surveys have resulted in the claim that approximately thirty per cent. of relief cases and twenty-eight per cent. of low income workers receive no medical care whatever. As a result of these conditions plans were presented to a recent national conference, called by the President, to establish a far-reaching health and welfare service to be financed by the Federal Government and the several States on a matching basis over a ten-year period.

This proposal has not yet been established by legislation but there is every likelihood that bills will be submitted to the new Congress for this purpose. It was my thought that we in New Jersey should study our own problems in these fields and our possible relationships to such a program. I asked the conference to make an objective survey of the State's hospital needs, the distribution of facilities to care for maternal and child health, to enumerate the facilities we have for the care of crippled children, and to evaluate the services of the State to those afflicted with cancer and tuberculosis presently being treated as patients in New Jersey institutions.

Dr. Robert C. Clothier, President of Rutgers University, has accepted the chairmanship of the conference. Under his leadership technical committees of physicians, health and welfare workers and representative citizens have been appointed and are making progress. I want to record a word of appreciation to Dr. Clothier and his associates, to the State and county medical, dental and nursing organizations, to organized labor and to the public-spirited citizens who are participating in this study. It is my hope that some reports of the conference may be available during this legislative session.

WELFARE INSTITUTIONS

The activities of the Department of Institutions and Agencies has continued to be, of course, a vitally important factor in all of our welfare and relief problems. In addition to the twenty thousand individuals housed in our State institutions and under constant supervision and care, the department has supervised, through its several divisions and agencies, the program of aid to the aged, the dependent children and the blind, comprising more than fifty thousand additional persons. It has continued its efforts along broad and constructive lines to make our institutions agencies for treatment, rehabilitation and re-training rather than mere places of custody. The mental hygiene and tuberculosis clinics which the department has established and fostered are the best methods, to my mind, of keeping the problems involved in these classes of potential wards of the State within manageable proportions. At the same time these clinics have rendered valuable preventive and curative service to the patients in their own homes.

New Jersey has been in the vanguard of States in the enlightened care it has provided for its wards. Our Department of Institutions and Agencies has served as a model for many other jurisdictions. It is pleasing to note that we continue to hold the high regard and approval of all those throughout the country who are best informed about welfare administration.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

I have dwelt upon the social problems even more than the financial problems in reporting to you upon "the condition of the State," to which I referred at the outset, because while sound financial procedure is essential to the stability and well-being of any government the social problems and their implications are more difficult to measure and they are of equal if not greater concern to the modern State in all its complexities and in this particular period of stress and adjustment.

In our present situation public education holds a more important place, perhaps, than was foreseen by its most devoted advocates in the days of our early development and expansion because it is the very basis of competent citizenship. I am glad to be able to report, therefore, satisfactory progress in this essential part of our public activities.

The annual report of the Commissioner of Education, submitted a few days ago, sets forth a wholesome educational philosophy in the training for citizenship in a free democracy. The emphasis placed upon character training in our elementary schools, the trend in curricula changes and the greater emphasis being placed upon vocational and health education, are especially significant. The analysis of enrollment changes at the high school level which the report carries shows that the students themselves are turning from the purely cultural subjects, however desirable they may be, to business and vocational subjects and to the social sciences designed to prepare for responsible citizenship.

We must continue, of course, to provide in our public schools the academic training essential for admission to institutions of higher learning, but we must not forget that our job in public education is the training of the masses of our children for profitable living, to enable them to become earning, productive units in our society, and to discharge the exacting duties of twentieth-century citizenship. I am glad to see this more general recognition of the basic purposes of public education so soundly enunciated and this more rapid movement toward sound and practical vocational education.

From this report it appears that we are not only faced with a shortage of skilled labor in several lines now but that our needs for mechanics in the newer types of industry will grow more acute. It seems to me that one of the most promising things we can undertake in the public educational field is the quick development of a system of apprentice education, especially in new industrial enterprises that promise greatest growth in the next few years.

I have looked with some concern upon the apparent misunderstandings that have arisen recently with respect to the existing and required reserves of the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund and the necessity which the Legislature has seen for making available some of these reserves for relief purposes as an emergency measure. The State is solemnly obligated to maintain the integrity of this fund so far as its own contributions are concerned. I am sure that the educational forces ask nothing more than that, and that they ask it as a matter of simple protection and contractual faith. It has occurred to me, however, that the teachers themselves should want to know the actual conditions of the fund established for their own particular protection and that it might be well to have some further actuarial studies made so that the whole question of the needs of the fund may be known and the matter cleared up once and for all.

I am sure that the Legislature has before it the recognition of the fine and indispensible services rendered to the people of the State by the teaching profession and of the fact that teachers, together with other public employees, have made real sacrifices during the years of the depression in which human need was greatest. It is my hope that whatever further sacrifices the Legislature feels compelled to ask of them, it will bear in mind constantly that our teachers, through their long and constant contact with our children, through their work of influencing character among the young, are one of the most potent influences for good citizenship possessed by the State.

POTABLE WATER SUPPLIES

For a dozen years I have been much concerned regarding future water supplies for New Jersey. The increasing population demands larger supplies and the intensity of its development renders the nearby supplies unfit because of the resulting pollution from such increase in population. To meet this situation New York City is now embarking on a quarter of a billion dollar project in the upper reaches of the Delaware River. New Jersey must not be remiss in its duty of meeting this situation nor derelict in maintaining its rights to the waters of the Delaware.

I have sent several messages to the Legislature dealing with this subject during my several terms as Governor. On May 24, 1938, I sent a Special Message dealing with the possibility of utilizing the Delaware and Raritan Canal and our water rights in the Delaware River as a basis for the next major water supply.

Since then I have caused a report to be made on this subject by the engineers of the various State agencies charged with supervision of our water supplies, and have sought the advice of other competent engineering and legal authorities. These authorities insist that the use of this property for water supply purposes is not only possible and entirely feasible but that it has superior advantages. I am advised that the utilization of this canal and its attendant water rights in the Delaware River have a value of upwards of ten million dollars as the basis for a State-wide water supply, and that through its use we will not only be able to draw one hundred and fifty million gallons of water per day from the Delaware River to the northern metropolitan section of the State, but also an additional fifty million gallons per day may be diverted southward for Trenton and the cities in the South Jersey area when the need arises.

The various studies which I have caused to be made are being printed and will be submitted to you later in the form of a special report.

GENERAL DEPARTMENTAL ACTIVITIES

There are many other departmental activities that merit particular mention and approval. The limits which I have set for this Message, however, will not permit even a brief presentation of the significant activities of all of them. Failure to comment upon the work of any particular department is not to be interpreted, therefore, as cause for Executive dissatisfaction or as indicating that I do not regard the work of such departments as essential.

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that I am able to say that I have found the same willing and generous cooperation with the Executive Office among all of the departments and agencies of the State Government, the same high degree of devotion to public interest, as they see it, of those in responsible authority, and the same high level of devotion, capacity and industry among the classified employees in all departments, as characterized my previous terms as Governor.

By reason of the fact that a few of our larger departments touch directly the interests of so many of our citizens, I am including here some brief comments upon their particular work and activities.

Banking and Insurance. The Department of Banking and Insurance reports continuing progress in the restoration of our financial institutions to their old position as repositories for savings and sound investment, and for making credit available in the expansion and operation of our business and industrial enterprises. The Banking Advisory Board has been extremely helpful in the solution of problems involving measures of recapitalization, merger, and reorganization, as well as in the field of effective regulation.

Due to dissolutions, liquidations, and mergers, the number of our building and loan associations has gradually decreased. A promising activity in the disposal of foreclosed real estate has been developed and the general condition of these associations has steadily improved.

Our insurance companies continue in excellent financial condition and reflect evidences of their traditionally sound administration.

Agriculture. The progressive and forward-looking activities of the Department of Agriculture, the Experiment Station, the Milk Control Board, the State Grange and other agricultural associations, have been of inestimable value to the farming interests of the State as well as to the consumers of our agricultural products. The record of helpful service to the farmer in the fighting of pests and diseases of plant life and the improvement of varieties and methods has been maintained as heretofore and new advances have been made in the standardization of our agricultural products and in their more advantageous marketing, to which I have already referred.

Motor Vehicle and State Police. The expansion of personnel in the Motor Vehicle Department and the State Police has been noticeable in the greater protection of the lives and property of our people. The safety-testing work of the Motor Vehicle Department, in an effort to remove unsafe vehicles from our highways, has been will established, is proving its merits and has, apparently, wide public endorsement. The program of safety and education and the training policies set up by both these departments have been effective in reducing the number of fatal and other accidents and in the reduction of crime and law-breaking generally. I look forward to even closer co-operation between these two important departments.

Tax Collection and Appeals. The Tax Department has been active in the further interpretation and application of our taxing laws and some progress has been made in this direction. The fully effective functioning of the department has been hampered by inadequate and improper office facilities. I am hopeful that the time when this department can be adequately housed in contiguous office space is not far distant.

The State Board of Tax Appeals has continued to struggle with the great influx of appeals from distressed property owners against high assessment rates with resulting confiscatory taxes by reason of our almost sole dependence upon real property as a source of revenue for local government. That department has maintained a relatively high degree of success, it seems to me, in keeping the scales balanced between the public and individual interest.

I am hopeful that you will be able to conclude an equitable arrangement with the railroads in your deliberations already under way in order that the delinquent railroad tax situation may be finally determined to the benefit of our municipalities and taxing districts.

I commend the extended program of preventive health work of the State Department of Health and the vigorous administration maintained by the Labor Department. I record my appreciation of the helpful co-operation of the Departments of Finance, of the Budget, of Purchases and of the Civil Service Commission with the Executive Office in the discharge of my administrative tasks during the year.

PROBLEMS AHEAD

I am making no recommendations in this Message respecting the further reorganization of the State Government or the consolidation and shifting of activities and responsibilities among existing departments. I have expressed my position on these matters a number of times heretofore. My subsequent observations and experiences have convinced me that the principles involved in these previous recommendations are sound and that we should proceed as promptly as possible in the further improvement of State administration. I am not now urging this matter for your first consideration because I am convinced that we need to take immediate steps to set our financial house in better order and also that we need recovery of normal business activity and enterprise more than we need reform just at this time. Our wider experiments in this field, in recent years, it seems to me, have indicated conclusively that we should attack these problems consecutively and not concurrently.

The tasks ahead of the people of our State for our further orderly development and for our maximum general prosperity and well-being are serious and far-reaching. We need to be thinking about them now. They involve not only the satisfactory maintenance of our institutions and activities as they now are but also for the formulation of sound principles and policies for future development. Existing institutions require constant current repairs and replacements, routine procedures must be given continuing thought for their effective adjustment to changing needs and conditions, and the usefulness of completed major projects must not be permitted to be destroyed by neglect.

A single typical illustration sufficiently emphasizes this point. The State has invested more than a million dollars in the revision of our general statutes. Year after year the Legislature passes a body of new laws. It is highly important that provision be made for the continuous revision of our laws in order to prevent the disintegration of this valuable piece of work and the loss of this heavy cash expenditure. In order that the State may never again be required to lay out such a large sum of money in the revision of its laws, it is imperative that this service be provided. To be really effective, it must include the examination of legislative bills during sessions and the procedures should be such that no measure shall be advanced for passage until it is certain that it is in proper form and will fit into its proper position in the whole body of the Revised Statutes.

There are many other important problems, some of them already in sight, which are bound to present themselves for consideration and action in the near future. These problems are so complex and of such fundamental importance that they require careful and consecutive study in order that we may be in position to move with confidence when the time for action comes. Some of them extend beyond our own boundaries and involve long and important negotiations with neighboring States.

Prior to 1930, the State, the several county and municipal governments and school and special districts, spent approximately one hundred millions of dollars of public money per year for capital improvements. That total has been greatly reduced during the depression years, but with the apparently inevitable expansion of governmental activities, even at the State and local levels, with our growing population and consequent needs, that schedule of spending is almost certain to be restored if not exceeded in the near future. These required future improvements involve highways, institutions, school buildings, parks, recreational areas, water supplies, shore protection, flood control, sewage disposal plants and others of like character. They also include the protection and improvement, for the people's greater use, of the Delaware River Basin, the further development of the New York and adjacent port facilities as the center of the Nation's domestic and world trade, and the development of traffic and transportation facilities in our own metropolitan areas so that what we do will be a part of an integrated system of improvements which will serve effectively the people and the interests of the whole metropolitan areas and of our whole State. There is much study and much careful planning required. Major mistakes will not only be costly in the extreme but will hinder and divert solid and possible development for many years.

I invite your attention to and support of the efforts of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin, the Interstate Sanitary Commission undertaking the task of improving the sanitary conditions of the Port of New York, the work of the New York Port Authority in its study of the transit and allied problems in our northern metropolitan area and the other numerous efforts under way looking to the better solution of some, or at least some phases, of these important problems. Our several departments whose activities touch directly any of these larger matters of our intra-State or inter-State development should be encouraged to maintain their interest in them, and the Legislature will do well to keep these major problems in mind in all matters involving future policy. For the better co-ordination of the thinking and effort along these lines we need an Inter-Departmental Council, which shall meet at stated periods to consider these problems, study the programs and progress of the several departments and formulate broad policies for further action. It is possible that the State Planning Board could become eventually the agency that should furnish the necessary impartial technical information to the Governor, the Legislature and the Departmental interests to which I have referred. I plan to call a conference on this general subject in the near future. By taking some forethought now, we can hardly fail to advance both sound action and confident decision later on.

CONCLUSION

Your work in devising wise laws and sound procedures for meeting the existing situations calling for legislative action will be difficult. I am satisfied that acceptable and constructive solutions can be found for all of the problems with which we are faced.

Legislative responsibility is always heavy and important in a free government. Your responsibilities this year are probably as heavy and as important as those of any of the one hundred and sixty-two Legislatures that have preceeded you. I urge fewer laws, better laws and none that are not expressly required. I urge, likewise, that you approach your several tasks with that courage and devotion which befit the representatives of a responsible citizenship in a great State.

I shall want your counsel and assistance in meeting the problems which now confront and will confront me as Governor. I shall seek to give you my full co-operation in the performance of the business of the people for which we have been elected and whose interests only we are pledged to serve.

Report No. 2 of State of New Jersey Unemployment Relief Commission, dated January 16, 1939—

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

To the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor of the State of New Jersey and to the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

Herewith the New Jersey State Unemployment Relief Commission submits Report No. 2, which is a progress report directed primarily to certain administration and financial recommendations. The Commission has concentrated upon the material for this report through frequent meetings of the Commission as a whole and by active investigations conducted largely through a sub-committee of five of its members who have devoted largely of their time to studies of the administrative and financial problems reviewed herewith.

This sub-committee and the Commission as a whole have conferred with State fiscal officers, as well as with representatives of the State Financial Assistance Commission, with the end in view of preparing for the Governor and the Legislature a report which would meet some of the immediate, pressing and practical problems in connection with the relief situation.

One of the major problems confronting the Governor and the Legislature has to do with the question that has been raised as to whether the same formula used by the State Financial Assistance Commission for the early part of the 1938 calendar year in reimbursing municipalities should apply to the relief reimbursements for the latter part of the calendar year. It was the unanimous vote of the members of this Commission that it would recommend to the Governor and the Legislature, that while they recognize that there may be some question as to the legal and technical matters involved, it would seem to us that it would be advisable for the State to complete its relationships with the municipalities for the year ending December 31, 1938, by pursuing the same reimbursement formula as obtained in the earlier months of the year.

The Commission is in agreement on practically all matters that are covered in the enclosed report. However, as you will note, two of our members have asked to have appended a supplemental statement, expressing their views on one of the recommendations made by the Commission as to the necessity of new sources of revenue. A third member has submitted a special supplemental statement presenting his views regarding Federal-State relationships.

The Commission felt that it could not evade the responsibility of advising the Governor and Legislature regarding financial considerations. While it recognizes that there are undoubtedly differing points of view on such a highly controversial question, we have pointed out in the report itself, that the deficit which accumulated in the calendar year of 1938 amounts to over seven million dollars; this added to the amount recommended as required as a State contribution toward relief needs of twelve million, makes a total of nineteen million for State contributions to complete 1938 and provide for 1939. We do not think this total is to be denied as a practical matter. As we further pointed out, with the provision of such an amount, further diversion, postponement and economies seem to most of us to be out of the question. We believe to allow a further accumulation of unpaid obligations simply makes the situation more acute. The majority of the Commission are therefore compelled to advise that some temporary tax that will provide about nineteen million dollars, less whatever can be secured by the other alternatives we have mentioned, is necessary.

We commend to the Governor and members of the Legislature the detailed studies which were contained in Report No. 1, which I transmitted on behalf of the Commission under date of October 17, 1938. We feel that many of the conclusions and recommendations reviewed in Report No. 1 are still pertinent and worthy of further study in connection with the considerations of the attached Report No. 2.

The members of the Commission realize the tremendous burdens placed upon the Governor and Legislature in attempting to reach a wise and constructive solution of the pressing problems of unemployment relief, and hold themselves in readiness to confer with the Governor and appropriate committees of the Legislature with respect to the considerations that enter into any part of this or the previous report.

Respectfully submitted,

For the New Jersey
Unemployment Relief Commission,

JOSEPH BERNHARD, Chairman.

January 16, 1939.

REPORT NO. 2 OF THE NEW JERSEY UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF COMMISSION

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

This report, on the financing of State relief, has reference only to the calendar year 1939 with the exception of Section 4 (i) which applies to the calendar years 1938 and 1939.

The continuing nature of the State's relief finance problem obviously makes this a current or partial report. As a continuing agency of the State, under the provisions of Chapter 92, P. L. 1938, the Commission proposes, from time to time, to submit further reports to the Governor and the Legislature.

The Commission sets forth its suggestions and recommendations at some length in the following pages. For purposes of ready reference they are here summarized as follows:

1. That present relief rolls be divided into "unemployables" and "employables".
2. That full responsibility for administration, together with provision of funds needed for direct (home) relief of all "unemployable" persons now on local relief rolls, be assumed by the State, after a proper determination of their classification and status as such has been made.
    a. Such administrative and fiscal control to be vested in the State Department of Institutions and Agencies with administrative decentralization through County Welfare Boards.

3. That responsibility for providing not less than fifty (50) per cent of all funds needed for direct relief of all "employable" persons remaining or placed on the local municipal rolls after deducting "unemployables" be assumed by the municipalities, together with full administrative control.
   a. Revision of the present State relief financing formula, in use by the State Financial Assistance Commission, so that the State's obligation or commitment for financial aid to the municipalities for direct relief of all "employable" persons will not exceed fifty (50) per cent of the total costs of such municipal expenditures.
   b. Revision of existing State laws relating to State financial aid to municipalities for direct relief expenditures for all "employable" persons, so as to limit specifically the obligation of the State for the next fiscal year, for such purposes, to a maximum of $8,000,000.
   c. Administration of (a) and (b) by the State Financial Assistance Commission.

4. That State funds for relief be sought as follows with definite inclusion of same in the appropriation bill.
   a. Allocation out of State revenue receipts of a sum not in excess of $4,000,000 to the Department of Institutions and Agencies, for administration and expenditures for direct (home) relief of all needy persons now on local direct relief rolls who may be properly classified as "unemployable".
   b. Suitable legislation for allocation of $1,000,000 from excess balance remaining in the "Educational Aid Reserve Fund", amounting to approximately $2,000,000, for State relief purposes for "employables"—consistent with the precedent established in 1938.

c. There has been some discussion of the actuarial status of the State Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund and the State Retirement System. Proper investigation should be made of the actuarial status, in order to eliminate this comment and discussion.

The teachers' association, with a membership of 28,000 teachers, recognizes this need, because it has endorsed such a plan. Its endorsement of an actuarial investigation of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund was sent to each member of the Legislature by letter of January 4th, wherein the teachers of this State said that "Our association will welcome any actuarial investigation of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund.

"If an actuarial investigation will clear up current misunderstandings, the teachers heartily endorse such a proposal and will be grateful to the Legislature which makes it possible."

Therefore, it is recommended that a prompt legislative inquiry be made into the actuarial status of the State Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund and the State Retirement System with the view of determining the feasibility of reducing, or suspending, for the next fiscal year, the State's contribution to those funds.

d. Continuation of every feasible economy in the operating expenditures of all State departments, which may yield substantial amounts of money from the State Fund for diversion to State relief needs.

e. Continue Executive authorization for diversion of State funds.

f. Recent proposals of the Community Mobilization for Human Needs, as yet in their tentative stages, offer an attractive field for direct exploration by the Legislature through early negotiation with the Federal authorities. These proposals involve turning back to the respective States, the full administration and control, by the State, of work relief programs now controlled by the Federal agency, for co-ordination with State-local administration and expenditures for direct (home) relief, under a system of Federal grants-in-aid to the States, conditional upon State conformity to certain standards to be approved by the Federal Relief Administration.

g. Payment of Unemployment Compensation Benefits beginning January 1939 will tend to reduce relief needs.

h. Reduction of the State bonded debt will allow the application of interest saved thereby to be used for relief purposes.

i. After allowing for all of the foregoing, the deficit then existing be financed by an emergency relief tax, to take care of the State's share of the relief deficit for 1938 and the State's share of relief for the calendar year 1939.

5. That local funds for relief be sought as follows with definite inclusion of same in the local budget:

a. Continued enforcement of every feasible economy in local, school and county administration which may release substantial amounts for local relief needs.

b. Immediate suspension of mandatory salary laws for 1939 (as in 1933) and creation of a commission to study mandatory laws looking toward repeal in order to help municipalities to finance their increased share of relief through an economy program under proper Home Rule.

c. Enforcement of Section 10, Title 44, Chapter 8, of the Revised Statutes (Chapter 213, P. L. 1938) relating to public assistance administered by the municipalities. This Section directs

(1.) Monthly investigation of every relief case.

(2.) Reconsideration from month to month of the amount and nature of assistance given.

(3.) Devise ways and means for bringing persons to self-support.

GENERAL STATEMENT

The conclusions and recommendations as respects the calendar year 1939 presented in the preceding pages of this report are based upon factual material already submitted in our Report No. 1 and upon some additional material to be submitted herein; they are also based upon general considerations and upon judgments of the Commission concerning which we wish briefly to present here explanatory statements so far as seems necessary.

There are four fundamental questions with which the Commission has been occupied in its efforts to arrive at specific recommendations. Although they are closely interrelated and the answer to one cannot be secured independently of the answers to the others, we discuss them separately as follows: (1) How should the relief work basically be organized? (2) To what extent should the State assume financial responsibilities for relief? (3) How should the State's financial burdens for relief be financed? (4) Can the municipalities finance their part of the relief burdens?

1. How should the relief work basically be organized?

We have already reported our opinion that the administration of relief should continue to be a responsibility of the municipalities. This has been the system in effect for more than a century, it was the original basis of relief operations of the first State emergency relief administration beginning in 1931, and it was adopted again by the Legislature in 1936, and is the present system.

We believe, however, that the "unemployables" should be directly a responsibility of the State for the reason that this part of the relief problem is essentially the same as that involved in Old Age Assistance, and other forms of categorical aid which are recognized to be best treated as a function of the State government. The methods of determining the need for relief and of providing for it are quite different in such cases than those properly applicable to the care of persons who are in temporary need solely by reason of lack of employment opportunity. The latter constitute a class of cases in which in general no special treatment is required, and which disappears with opportunities for employment, and which will be in part cared for by Unemployment Compensation Benefits.

We do not wish to imply that "unemployables" are necessarily permanently so, or that special treatment is in all cases necessary; but it is a fact that in these cases the question of the need of treatment or of the condition of being unable to accept employment is the important one and does require special consideration for each case.

Nor do we wish to imply that the treatment of "unemployables" as a State function requires centralization of administration. On the contrary, decentralization of the work to county welfare authorities, as in the case of other kinds of categorical assistance, is contemplated.

This proposal is not new. It was undertaken experimentally as respects Morris County in 1935 by the State Relief Administration and the extension to other counties would undoubtedly have been urged and provided for later had the State Relief Administration not been discontinued in 1936.

The placing of the "unemployables" under the direct responsibility of the State will relieve the municipalities of approximately 20 per cent. of the cases now carried by them as unemployment relief cases, and will reduce municipal expenses correspondingly.

2. To what extent should the State assume financial responsibility for relief?

The recommendations we have made for application in the calendar year 1939 would result, if the relief costs were equivalent to those of 1938, in a transfer of approximately 10 per cent. of the total costs from the State to the municipalities and limit the State's contribution to not more than 50 per cent. of costs incurred in any municipality and to an aggregate of not more than $12,000,000 including the cost of relief of "unemployables" to be assumed as a direct charge of the State. These recommendations do not represent the judgment of the Commission as to the proper proportions for subsequent years. We believe that a larger proportion of the costs should be borne locally, but limit the recommendations as respects 1939 only because a more radical change at this time might introduce too great disturbance of municipal financial programs in some instances.

There is strong opinion that all of the costs of relief (except of "unemployables") should be borne by the municipalities. The principal grounds for this opinion are two:

(a) If the administration of relief is a local obligation, proper attention to expenditures and adequate control of relief procedures will not be secured if the funds are provided by the State. Although not all municipalities receiving State aid are to be criticized from this point of view, it is, we think, undeniable that in important cases municipal management of relief has been careless and reprehensible and in some instances has been operated with a view to partisan political advantage because the State has been assuming all but a small proportion of the expense. In some of these cases we believe that the State subvention has not operated to relieve local taxpayers at all, but has merely relieved the local administration of the necessity of proper economy in the municipal affairs generally. In such cases State subsidies to local relief expenditures have been in effect a contribution to the costs of local government as a whole—something not intended and not justified by any theory relating to the relief situation. In other cases, the effect has been a State contribution to the reduction of local debts. In such cases the municipalities have been in effect improperly favored under the guise of relief subsidies.

From this standpoint it is clear to us that it is unsound for the State to assume in any case the major part of the local relief burden. In this connection it should be noted that the existence of WPA, the proposal that the State assume the costs of "unemployables," and the generally solvent conditions of the municipalities present an entirely different situation than that of 1932-1933 when many municipalities were not solvent and were practically unable to assume any substantial part of the relief burdens.

(b) A second basis for our opinion is that the present system involves a substantial degree of inequity as between municipalities. Many of our municipalities secure no State aid. Even if attention is confined to the larger municipalities it is clear that the disparity between them as respects the extent of State aid is out of all proportion. As is shown by the table immediately following, large municipalities such as Elizabeth, East Orange, Bloomfield, Irvington, received less than half their expenditures for relief in 1937 from the State, whereas many others received more than 75 per cent. from the State, and several more than 80 per cent. Except for temporary emergency periods there can be no justification for such discrepancies. They in effect penalize the people of well managed municipalities for the benefit of others, some of which may not have been well managed.

We see no reason for such extremes. New York State does not subsidize relief costs to more than 40 per cent. We see no differences in conditions that now call for a widely different treatment in New Jersey.

To the above reasons for our recommendations in this matter we would add the practical consideration that the variations in conditions will be best provided for financially through the municipalities rather than through the State. It is not possible to estimate reliably either for the State as a whole or for specific municipalities what the relief load or relief costs will be. Assuming no radical change in WPA policies, it is likely that in 1939 the burdens will be reduced, but they may be greater, or they may vary widely in different municipalities. Much less disturbance is created if the variations are dealt with by the financial operations of individual municipalities than by throwing the effect of them upon the single treasury of the State, with constant uncertainty and confusion of State financial plans. The correction of this condition for the future calls for a definite limit to the State's expenditures for relief.

* Exclusive of central office administrative costs incurred by State Financial Assistance Commission

 Includes costs of local office administration

Source: State Financial Assistance Commission—1937 Relief Report

This tabulation shows the relative shares of total 1937 general relief costs paid by the State and by the respective municipalities in thirty selected municipalities, including urban and suburban areas, industrial and residential sections. The wide variation in State aid for municipal relief can be seen from the table. Grants from the State range all the way from zero in Maplewood to 88 5 per cent of Union City's relief costs for the year. In more than one-half the number (17) of these municipalities the State paid more than three-quarters of the relief bill. In 22 municipalities of the 30 listed, the State furnished more than one-half the relief costs. In only eight of the jurisdictions was the State called upon to furnish less than one-half the money for relief.

3. How should the State's relief expenditures be financed?

Although in some respects the question of financing relief expenses may be considered to be a problem separate from that of relief policies and organization, the costs of relief are so substantial that it has never been possible since 1931 to divorce these subjects. This Commission has not been assigned the task of making recommendations as to tax policies or specific tax legislation, but it has been obliged to consider the sources from which funds might be secured because the amount of the State's contribution to relief costs, the amount of municipal contributions, and the relations between them, are affected in important degree by the character and extent of the resources available.

Having in mind the declarations of the platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties, the adverse effects which taxes tend to have upon employment itself, the general desire to avoid new taxes and the strong personal reluctance of the members of this Commission toward new taxes, we have made very determined efforts to discover the possibilities of meeting the necessities from the funds and revenues presently available. Our first and an important conclusion from this point of view is the proposal to limit absolutely the State's contribution to relief costs to $12,000,000 in the calendar year 1939, a limit we now think should probably be reduced in subsequent years.

We have next endeavored to find and state what diversions, postponements and economies could be used to secure the funds. Our findings are presented in the first part of this report. Even if we all were agreed that each of the proposals presented are proper items for development—and there is some dissent to some items—the majority of us are convinced that we cannot hope to secure the required sum for 1939 by these means, and that probably they would fall far short of the necessities. We are in general agreed that each of them should be energetically investigated to secure as much as is proper from them in any event.

If only the calendar year 1939 were to be considered it is possible that notwithstanding what has just been stated we might think it wisest to do nothing more, reserving for future treatment the deficit that would probably accrue by this method. What defeats this proposal is the deficit already accumulated for the calendar year 1938 amounting to more than $7,000,000. The situation it creates cannot be avoided by disavowing State responsibility for it and throwing it on to the municipalities. Taking into account the whole situation, we believe that the State should accept the obligations for municipal grants in 1938. This means that we have a total of more than $19,000,000 to provide during 1939 for the $12,000,000 of State contribution in that year and the unpaid contribution of 1938 to the municipalities. We do not think the total thus computed is to be denied as a practical matter.

Provision of such an amount by further diversions, postponements and economies seems to most of us out of the question, and we believe to allow a further accumulation of unpaid obligations merely makes the situation acute. We are, therefore, compelled to advise that some temporary tax that will provide about $19,000,000, less whatever can be secured by the proposals previously made, is necessary.

4. Can the municipalities finance their relief burdens?

We believe that the municipalities should be relieved of mandatory salary prescriptions and that the whole matter of mandatory legislation should also receive thorough consideration. To require municipalities to assume relief costs and at the same time to impose arbitrary financial burdens upon them creates a condition that finally compels the State to accept more financial responsibility than is warranted by an orderly conduct of affairs.

In general it is evident that with the possible exception of one or two small and a few large municipalities, there would be no serious difficulty in 1939 in the financing of the entire relief costs, with the "unemployables" cared for by the State, through the municipalities. There is some prospect of reduced unemployment, and the payment of Unemployment Compensation Benefits now in effect will be a substitute for relief in some degree. We do not suggest that the burden be completely placed on the municipalities, however, but that a limit be placed on State assistance, and that the State Financial Assistance Commission continue to provide for special situations (within the limit) by whatever formula it may find appropriate. We believe this plan is a practicable one for the present. There is no longer justification for involving the entire State financial program by reason of the importunities of a few municipalities.

SUPPLEMENTAL STATEMENT REGARDING RECOMMENDATION 4 (f)

Following is a supplemental statement requested to be appended to the report by Robert W. Allan, a member of the Commission, on his personal behalf:

Incontrovertible records of past experiments in public work relief methods in the nation and in New Jersey indicate the only logical course of future public action for solution of the unemployment relief problem.

The facts of actual experience as opposed to theory of future practice, and the findings of research surveys on the subject, together support the view that (a) present public expenditures for unemployment distress alleviation can not be materially reduced until private occupational indices indicate absorption of idle labor; (b) the control and administration of emergency public works programs must continue under direct Federal auspices.

These conclusions are in no sense arbitrary, but are well supported by proved, experienced and tested economic principle, and thereby do not permit my concurrence in any Commission recommendation which involves suggested exploration by the Legislature for the purpose of turning back to the State the full administration and control of work relief programs as now operated by Federal agencies.

Taking into account the conditions of such a plan, under a system of Federal grants-in-aid to the State and contingent upon the State's conformity to standards to be specified by the Federal government, I can not share the opinion of the Commission that the proposal offers an attractive field for the Legislature's attention.

Explicit in such a proposal is the elaboration of technical difficulties already reduced to a minimum by intelligent centralization of administrative functions and uniformity in operation control. Implicit in the suggestion is an invitation to undesirable interferences with operation efficiency which do not now exist to hamper efficiency.

As presently designed, emergency public works programs respond readily to fluctuations in the unemployment index and the purpose for which the programs operate is amply served within the restrictions of available appropriations. Pending the amelioration of basic employment conditions presently existing, the elasticity of emergency employment provisions under Federal administration and control has proved desirable and effective.

Under a less centralized effort in this direction, temporary steps, diversely localized, may too easily assume the character of unalterable status quo and thereby permit the underlying problem of mass unemployment to deepen into permanence.

The factor of administrative cost is also an important current consideration. Administrative cost has been reduced so drastically under intelligent centralization of function that the present recommendation of the Commission seems at once to be contrary to our economical intentions and the best interests of the State. With administration and control, as presently exercised, continuing under direct Federal auspices and with administrative personnel, already experienced in its routine, functioning under Civil Service, whatever objectionable factors which may now exist—actually or theoretically—in the present method will be entirely obviated.

For these reasons, so evident to me and so important to our consideration, I must herewith submit my dissent to the Commission's recommendation under Paragraph (f) of this report.

(Signed) Robert W. Allan.

SUPPLEMENTAL STATEMENT REGARDING RECOMMENDATION 4 (i)

Following is a supplemental statement requested to be appended to the report by Michael J. Hickey and Donald R. Stevens, members of the Commission, on their personal behalf:

The undersigned members of the Commission dissent from the recommendation 4 (i) that the State finance such deficit as may result from the overgenerous and questionably legal State Financial Assistance Commission allocation of State funds to a small minority of municipalities in the calendar year 1938 and to provide for the sum which the Commission now sets up as the State's maximum obligation for grants to the municipalities in 1939.

New State taxation for continued State subsidies to a small number of municipalities will effectively preclude any reasonable economy in the expenses of State government. It will open the way for an early, if not immediate resumption of non-imperative new highway construction, encourage unnecessary and unwarranted retention of many State boards, commissions and high-salaried public employees.

The majority recommendation for an "Emergency Relief State Tax" for State revenues in 1938 and 1939, is, moreover an evasion of the real problem involved, namely, honest, efficient and non-political control of "relief spending."

The taxpayer is caught as usual in the dilemma that while he has continually opposed waste and unwise expenditure for relief, nevertheless waste and unwise expenditure has increased. It has increased to the point that the State claims it cannot find funds to meet its obligations.

Hence, the taxpayer is again outmaneuvered and is told that the only way out is with a new relief tax.

We do not believe that a new relief tax will guide us to any economies or any solution of the relief problem. The suggestion of a tax makes all preceding suggestions in the report more or less of an empty gesture.

We stand with the public pledges of both parties in favor of economy and against new taxes because we know that new money will prolong the difficulty. New money will not protect the working man but will tend to destroy his job and reduce his purchasing power. The new tax will rest heavily upon the poor.

We further dissent from the new tax recommendation because we believe that the $350,000,000 present tax load, now resting upon 4,300,000 men, women, and children is already too much for them to bear.

The Senate message was then taken up, and

Mr. McClave moved that the House concur in the Senate concurrent resolution.

Which motion, upon a viva voce vote, with the ayes and nays being called, was declared adopted.

Just prior to adjournment, Mr. Pascoe made the following statement:

Having been advised that a hunger march would be made upon the Legislature principally consisting of people from the city of Newark, the Speaker made a public statement to the effect that the Legislature would not tolerate any undue demonstrations; that they would not permit themselves to be intimidated or harassed by any group of citizens while engaged in their Assembly deliberations. An offer was made that the Majority and Minority Leaders and the Speaker would be glad to confer at any time in an orderly manner with any authorized delegation of citizens who had a legitimate interest in the affairs of the House of Assembly.

There appeared before the Speaker this afternoon a group of seven representing themselves to be spokesmen for the Workers' Alliance and the CIO, at which time they made certain propositions as to their views on the present relief situation, which were accepted and taken under advisement by the Speaker and the members of the House who were present at the conference. These included, in addition to the Speaker, Majority Leader McClave, Mr. Wickham, Mr. Donahue, Mr. Bogle, Mr. Connolly and Mr. Alexander Crawford.

At the conclusion of the conference, the Speaker offered to give to the delegation a limited supply of tickets for the galleries on the stipulation that those accepting them would not attempt any undue demonstration, would not endeavor to harass or harangue or intimidate the Legislature during the legislative session, but would conduct themselves the same as all other citizens, in a dignified manner while within the confines of the House of Assembly. Mr. Spain, the spokesman for the Workers' Alliance, declined to accept these conditions and he was advised by the Speaker that they would not be permitted to enter the galleries or the Assembly Chamber at tonight's session.

Mr. Goldsmith, speaking for the CIO, asked permission to have three representatives of the various groups address the House of Assembly, which request was denied. The Speaker then directed the representatives of the State House police as well as the New Jersey State Police to clear the balconies and the Assembly Chamber; that no effort to establish a sit-in strike or otherwise occupy the Legislature would be permitted.

On motion of Mr. McClave the House then adjourned.

In accordance with the direction of the Speaker, the Clerk carried the following bill to the Senate and informed it that the House has passed the same without amendment.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Washington, D. C.

February 2, 1939.

Hon. Herbert J. Pascoe,
New Jersey Assemblyman,
Elizabeth, N. J.

MY DEAR MR. SPEAKER—I am advised that the New Jersey Legislature is about to consider a proposal by Assemblyman Ferster for the establishment of a so-called Fair Labor Standards Act, and one by Assemblyman Muir providing for a commission to study this question.

The subject of Wage and Hour regulation is one that warrants careful consideration. Hastily considered action may easily result in serious harm to labor and industry as well, even though its sponsors have the best of intentions.

As a citizen of New Jersey, I respectfully request the opportunity of appearing before the appropriate committee having under consideration proposals of Assemblymen Ferster and Muir, or any others on this subject.

I trust in view of my ten years service as a Member of the Labor Committee of the House of Representatives that my request will not be interpreted as presumptuous.

With kindest regards and esteem to yourself and your colleagues in the House of Assembly, I am,

Yours very truly,
FRED A. HARTLEY, JR.

Assemblywoman Doremus gave the following address in commemoration of Abraham Lincoln's natal day.

There is so much that one could tell about Lincoln of one's own impressions of this great man and the wonderful things that he did—so much valuable material has been written by historians and biographers that it is difficult in a talk of this kind to know where to begin. The many anecdotes that tell us of his sense of humor and the stories that tell of his tenderness, his kindness to others, you all know. Here, tonight, in the few minutes permitted I shall recall to your minds something of Lincoln's education—Lincoln as a lawyer, legislator, and politician.

Having had only one full year's schooling and thirsting for knowledge he borrowed books wherever he could. He used his spare time in reading. Books became his constant companion. When he plowed and the horse needed a rest at the end of every long furrow, Lincoln read from a book. The books with which he became familiar at this time were the Bible, Pilgrim's Progress, Aesop's Fables, Robinson Crusoe, a History of the United States, Weem's Life of Washington. These books he read and re-read, studied and restudied until he knew them from cover to cover. He literally devoured them and assimilated them into his mind as he assimilated food into his body. The dictionary also was always at his elbow.

He once told a friend that there was not a book he had not read within a radius of fifty miles of his boyhood home. Legends say that he walked as far to get a treatise on law as to get a volume of poetry or biography. Everything excited his eager curiosity, his hungry desire for new thought and expression. He did not simply read the books—he absorbed them—copying long extracts, making them literally his own—something which he could and did recite as he worked and which furnished him with material for the long discussions with every passing neighbor.

At the age of twenty-one he clerked in a store at New Salem, Illinois, for a year. While working there he undertook a trading expedition to New Orleans for his employer. The venture was a financial success. It was, also, valuable to Lincoln in many ways—his retentive memory enabled him thirty years later to follow movements of the vessels of Farragut and Porter and armies of General Grant.

In 1832, war with the Indians broke out in northern Illinois. Lincoln, being out of a job, enlisted to march against Black Hawk and his Indian braves. He was elected Captain of his volunteer company, a success, he declared, "gave me more pleasure than any I have had since." By the time Captain Lincoln's Company reached the front the war was over.

Returning from the Black Hawk War the campaign for Legislature was at its height and he was persuaded by his friends to enter the campaign. He was now twenty-three years old. He had only ten days to campaign and cover the district. He introduced himself to the voters in a way that won their respect: "I was born . . . in the most humble walks of life. I have no wealthy or popular relatives or friends to recommend me . . . If the good people in their wisdom see fit to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointment to be very much chagrined." His first campaign speech was made at an out-of-door meeting, where he had to restore order by getting down from the platform and thrashing a disturber. This won him the full sympathy of the crowd. The speech that followed is simple and boyish: "Fellow citizens, I presume you know who I am. I am humble Abraham Lincoln. I have been solicited by many friends to become a candidate for the Legislature. My politics are short and sweet, like the old woman's dance. I am in favor of a national bank. I am in favor of the internal improvement system and a high protective tariff. These are my sentiments and political principles. If elected, I shall be thankful; if not, it will be all the same."

He lost the election, but in his own neighborhood of New Salem he received all but three votes out of over two hundred. The defeat instead of discouraging him only aroused his ambition. He realized that he must keep on studying men and must know as much as the men with whom he had to deal. He made friends with the village school teacher, Mentor Graham, and being determined to learn how to make what he had to say perfectly clear to the most ignorant of his hearers, he borrowed an English grammar from Mr. Graham and began to study the science of language. From others he borrowed the works of Robert Burns and Shakespeare which he read until he had many of the better passages by heart. He was fitting himself to become one world's master of English and literary style.

When the opportunity came, not long afterward to buy the New Salem store on credit, in partnership with a man named Berry it offered him just what he wished—the opportunity of making a living and pursuing his studies at the same time. While not busy he would read and study; in summer, outdoors lying on the ground, feet up against a tree too absorbed to notice passers-by. If cold, he sat in the back room studying. During the day farmers were working and there were few customers. But the fortunes of New Salem soon began to decline, the store of Berry and Lincoln "winked out" (as Lincoln described it), his partner went to the bad leaving unpaid a mass of notes whose magnitude led Lincoln to call them the "national debt," but all of which he finally paid in full.

It was during this unfortunate business enterprise that a happy accident put into his hands his first law book and strengthened his determination to become a lawyer. A man who was migrating to the west drove up with a wagon full of household goods. He asked Lincoln to buy a barrel for which he had no room; said it contained nothing of value. Lincoln gave him fifty cents for it. Some time later emptying the barrel he found a complete edition of Blackstone's Commentaries. Lincoln said, "I began to read those famous works and I had plenty of time as it was summer and farmers were busy with their crops, my customers were few and far between. The more I read, the more intensely interested I became. Never in my life was my mind so absorbed. I read until I devoured them."

After the failure in business he was appointed postmaster by President Jackson. He became a surveyor, being offered a position to assist John Calhoun, a public surveyor, a Democratic official, who needed an assistant on whose honesty and intelligence he could rely. Mr. Calhoun persuaded him to study surveying and take the place, assuring him that he might retain his political independence. He soon mastered the science of surveying and found himself, for the first time, earning more money than the bare needs of life required.

In 1834, a young man of twenty-five, who had been common laborer, farm-hand, carpenter, ferryman, flatboatman, peddler, grocer's clerk, soldier, unsuccessful merchant, postmaster, and surveyor, and, all the way along, dreamer and thinker and student, became for a second time a candidate for the Legislature, and was successful.

His work as lawmaker satisfied the people, and he was elected again in 1836. The announcement of his candidacy for the Legislature in 1836 contained one political principle which proved him a statesman rather than a politician. It was: "If elected, I shall consider the whole people of Sangamon my constituents, as well those that oppose as those that support me."

In the legislative session of 1837, he brought about the enactment of a law which removed the State capitol from Vandalia to Springfield. This victory showed that, while other legislators were playing party politics, he had learned how to get things done.

Far more significant than this venture in practical politics was the protest he made against slavery, which he caused to be recorded in the legislative journals.

Meanwhile, Lincoln had been diligently reading law, and in 1837 his great ambition was attained—he passed his examination for admission to the bar.

The removal of the State capitol that same year to Springfield, chiefly through his own efforts, as we have seen, led Lincoln to believe that in Springfield he would succeed best in the practice of his new profession. Putting into his saddle-bags a little clothing and two or three law books, he borrowed a horse and rode to the new capital.

In 1844 the Whig party nominated Henry Clay for President. Lincoln was no longer in the Legislature. He was put on the electoral ticket and sent to make speeches in every part of Illinois. People outside of the State asked for him and he went back to the old home country in Indiana. To be able to campaign for Henry Clay, whom he idolized, to go back to Indiana, to find himself respected as an orator and a party leader, seemed to him to be the realization of his fondest ambition.

In 1846, Lincoln was elected to Congress. His eight years in the State Legislature, together with his close study of politics, and history of his country helped make his influence felt in Washington. There isn't time to discuss his work on the slavery question. When he saw that negroes were bought and sold in the District of Columbia, he conceived the idea of persuading the people to sell their slaves and paying for them out of the United States Treasury and forbidding slavery in the District of Columbia for all time to come. But Lincoln's plan failed.

Lincoln thought in terms of democracy; spoke its speech; lived its life; and died triumphant in its defense.

He was his own pedagogue and pupil in government. His like has not been recorded in biography for thoroughness and efficiency in research and study of foundation facts and first principles.

The Bible gave him the ethical side of government, the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, Constitution of Indiana, the Ordinance of 1787, as contained in Turnham's Revised Statutes of Indiana, gave him the political side of government.

His intelligent and enthusiastic interest in the subject of government cropped out at a very early age, considering his handicaps. Several of his reliable biographers say that when he was seventeen years of age he wrote a composition on American government, giving particular attention to "the necessity of preserving the Constitution and perpetuating the Union."

Strange that this boy of seventeen should be writing an essay on perpetuating the Union, when thirty-five years later he was to be the great central figure in the conduct of the Civil War for the purpose of "perpetuating the Union."

Much has been written of Lincoln the Leader. Our own experience and records of history demonstrate that leaders are born, not made. This is peculiarly true as to leaders of public thought. Evidences of his leadership appeared at a comparatively early date. In games in which he was not a participant he was always chosen as referee, umpire, judge.

Unusual respect was paid his physical powers as well as mental capacity. He was a helper to everyone in need. He was friend of everybody and enemy of nobody. Even as a boy it could be said that he always had "charity for all and malice toward none." In one speech he said, "Every man is said to have his peculiar ambition. Whether it be true or not, I can say, for one, that I have no other so great as that of being truly esteemed of my fellow men, by rendering myself worthy of their esteem. How far I shall succeed in gratifying this ambition is yet to be developed."

Whole chapters in books have been written about Lincoln's passion for justice. That dominating element, unaffected, uniform, unchanged and unchanging, all through his life was recognized as much a part of "Honest Abe" as were his arms and legs.

The abiding confidence of the people in his judgment, in his sincerety, in his honesty, coupled with the fact that he spoke their simple speech, gave him tremendous persuasive power in moulding their judgment and their action.

We have noticed with what diligence Lincoln contined the practice of law after his return from Congress in 1849, until the campaign of 1854. By common consent of his fellow lawyers, a rather unusual thing, he was easily the leader of the Illinois bar, at least of the eighth circuit.

We have seen that leadership recognized by his frequent choice of his fellow lawyers to preside in the trial of cases in the absence of the regular judge, a most unusual honor and recognition of leadership, for there were giants in those days. But Lincoln not merely physically, but mentally, was the master of them all. The people believed it and the lawyers of his day generally admitted it.

Few great historical characters who were possessed of the ambition of Abraham Lincoln were so utterly free from envy and jealousy of their fellows.

Lincoln had but one code, the code of justice, the code of the Golden Rule, the code of conscience.

Abraham Lincoln needs no marble shaft to perpetuate his name; his words are the most enduring monument and will live forever in the hearts of the people.

His farewell speech to his neighbors on February 11, 1861, as he left to assume the duties of the presidency, his Springfield address, his second inaugural address, his campaign speeches, and that wonderful masterpiece, his Gettysburg address, will live in our memories forever.

Who among us can visit that wonderful Lincoln Memorial at Washington, walk up those steps, see that wonderful statue of our Lincoln, without experiencing a thrill? And reading that wonderful Gettysburg address which is, also, in the wall of that shrine—does it not have a message for us? Part of it might have been written for us today—

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting-place of those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."—Gettysburg, 1863.

Though they laid him down on a quiet hill,
Abraham's ghost will not be still.
Abraham's ghost, as man alive,
Has trodden the boards since '65.
For, martyr, statesman or gangling boy,
At Washington, Gettysburg, Illinois,
In the rural jeans that they snickered at
Or the rusty coat and the stovepipe hat,
That homespun figure will always seem America's legend, America's Dream.

—Phyllis McGinley

Mr. McClave moved that Assemblywoman Doremus' address be spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

Assemblyman Cavicchia made the following address upon Abraham Lincoln:

It has been said that "The way to fame is like the way to heaven—through much tribulation." Indeed, the life of Abraham Lincoln, at once pathetic and heroic, was a long series of private and public trials, privations and discouragements; nevertheless, it was also a life exalted by glorious attainment.

A review of the life of any great man would be mere commemorative narration, unless there could be singled out some extraordinary accomplishment or outstanding sentiment worthy of emphasis and exemplification. Longfellow said that

> Lives of great men all remind us
> We can make our lives sublime,
> And, departing, leave behind us
> Footprints on the sands of time.

While the complete story of Abraham Lincoln is always inspiring, for my theme it is sufficient to condense into a single paragraph his noteworthy contributions to the Nation particularly, and to humanity generally:

Born in a log cabin, he surmounted every obstacle and ascended to the Presidency of the United States. There he served during the most crucial period in the Nation's history. There, in 1863, opportunely he set free the slaves in the States that were in rebellion; but his Emancipation Proclamation in reality paved the way for the Thirteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, which forever abolished slavery in the United States. In his second inaugural address, holding steadfast to his previously expressed conviction that "A house divided against itself cannot stand," he declared that the Nation could be reunited and its idealism renewed with the help of God, with the people's firmness in the right, and with constant interchange of good will and kindly feeling among the people. Specifically, his prayer was that liberal thought and action be sustained always "With malice toward none; with charity for all."

If there existed no other reason to entitle Lincoln to a place among the immortals of all time, this sentiment was sufficient to earn for him the gratitude and veneration of posterity. The passing years, in view of the complex emotions they induce, serve only to strengthen this plea for good will among the people as testimony of Lincoln's magnanimity, and as proof of his noble leadership.

Though the South has been vanquished; though victory had been the North's, to the victor were not to belong the spoils; because, to Lincoln, triumph meant no more—and no less—than the advancement of his hope of reuniting the Nation. To that end, malice was hopefully banished, good will was proffered abundantly. Without common understanding and a general feeling of brotherhood among all the people, the surrender of Lee and the formality of peace would not conduce to Union in accordance with the intent of the founding fathers. In view of the toll of war and the scars of conflict, and because of the time-honored custom of conquerors to exact reprisal and wreak vengeance, Lincoln's sentiment was a plea for toleration that exceeded all expectation.

Indeed, tolerance that contributes to the common happiness of the people and to the maintenance of domestic tranquility is as much desirable in the present day as it was in Lincoln's time. Although emphasis upon that virtue may arise from dissimilar exigencies, to people of human hearts the practice of intolerance anywhere, at any time, is beyond the pale of reason. It defies the refinements of modern thought and feeling.

Conditions prevalent abroad, for instance, may of necessity affect the economic life of the people of the United States; but hatred, prejudice and persecution must remain always as foreign to us as the shores of the Old World are distant. However much they gall, certainly they need not restrain our interrelations at home, regardless of our ties with nationalities of the past or with beliefs of the present.

The emigrants of many nations have made material and spiritual contribution to American progress. In accepting the privileges of American citizenship, they have ever been conscious of their responsibilities as constituents of a great, a free government. But their appreciation of their rights has always been equally as keen.

While justly taking pride in the antecedents of birth or nationality or religious faith, the collective conduct of each people represented has always been exemplary and responsive to the constitutional intendments of freedom of religion, speech and press; the right of assembly and petition; and the protection of life, liberty and property. Always reassuring, moreover, has been the knowledge that this Nation was conceived in rebellion against oppression and was born of a declaration that the right of persons to the pursuit of happiness is kindred to their inalienable rights of life and liberty.

Intolerance, wherever practiced abroad, may not be ours to analyze. Yet, no one dare challenge our godly duty to implore all residents of the United States to have no part in perpetrating the hatreds and prejudices that abound abroad, but rather to recognize the necessity for a godly Nation to remember, through the prayers and petitions of its people, the plight of downtrodden and suffering members of the human race anywhere on the face of the earth. No one, moreover, can deny our right to exhort all those who are enjoying the unspeakable blessings of American citizenship and residence to continue to live in the peace, amity and harmony interpretive of the true letter and spirit of American ideals, as laid down by Constitutional requirements and guaranties and as reflected in the very life and force of American tradition.

Indeed, the pursuit of happiness for people in America will be possible only so long as it is mutually recognized that all creeds and peoples that have been incorporated into the United States as one nationality are interdependent. This constitutes the moral, the social, indeed the very practical, palladium which sustains and glorifies American life.

While the Declaration of Independence originally set forth the American design for living, and according to its specifications the structure of American life was reared—the Constitution its foundation, the Bill of Rights its citadel, nonetheless it was Abraham Lincoln who demonstrated the method of its popular utility as the resort of all the people by whose consent it is permitted to endure; and who revealed that it would become a cold and abandoned stronghold unless the very people it was designed to protect could willingly and heartily abide by its purpose, "With malice toward none; with charity for all."

The design for living in America is simple and is easily understood by those who pause to ponder. Adhering to it, therefore, our dwelling together in friendly spirit will receive the blessings of the Almighty. Failing in this, however, God help the future of America!

Mr. Platts offered certain suggestions for the solution of the relief problems, which were referred to the Emergency Relief Committee.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows—and was read by the Clerk:

SPECIAL MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR A. HARRY MOORE ON THE USE OF THE DELAWARE AND RARITAN CANAL AS A WATER SUPPLY TO THE 163D LEGISLATURE OF NEW JERSEY. ALSO TRANSMITTING CERTAIN DOCUMENTS AND REPORTS

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
To the Legislature: February 13, 1939.

On May 24th, 1938, I sent a Special Message to the Legislature dealing with the subject of our water supply for the North Jersey metropolitan water district. In that message I outlined a plan for utilizing the Delaware and Raritan Canal right of way and the water rights in the Delaware River as our next major water supply. I had previously obtained an opinion from the Attorney-General's office that the Delaware and Raritan Canal bed could be so used and that the supply of water utilized for the operation of the canal could be converted to another and greater public use; namely, a public water supply.

The plan which I recommended to the Legislature was, briefly, as follows:

To transport the water through the old Delaware and Raritan Canal from the Delaware River at Bull's Island above Stockton, approximately 150 million gallons per day; through the canal to Trenton, thence northerly to a point on the Raritan River opposite Bound Brook; there establishing a pumping station, and pump the water to a comparatively small reservoir to be located at Dock Watch Hollow. From Dock Watch Hollow it was to pass through filters and be distributed to the metropolitan district, tying it up with the present supply at Wanaque.

I have estimated that this work could be done for $28,000,000. I recommended to the Legislature that this plan be adopted and that the money, or so much of it as was possible, be obtained from Federal agencies. The last Legislature had other problems and did not give this plan the consideration to which it was entitled. In order that the present Legislature might be in a position to take up this important water supply matter and give it proper consideration I have caused further studies to be made of this plan by established State agencies. I appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Charles H. Capen, Engineer of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission; H. T. Critchlow, Engineer of the State Water Policy Commission; and H. P. Croft, Engineer of the State Department of Health, to investigate the feasibility of this plan and report upon its probable cost; also to report upon the quality of the water obtained from the Delaware River and the physical condition of the feeder and canal and their adaptability as a part of a water supply project. I set up this committee, composed of employees of the several State departments, because these men were already employed by the State and the taxpayers were thus saved any additional expense. The files of the various State departments are filled with a tremendous amount of data relating to the State's water supplies, all of which has been available to a committee such as the one I appointed.

These gentlemen have now reported on the feasibility of this project in a voluminous report, which is incorporated herewith. In their report they have advised three plans for the utilization of the Delaware and Raritan Canal and its water rights. These three plans vary from $29,433,000 to $33,743,000, depending upon the extent to which the canal is covered. The Delaware project has a present yield of 150,000,000 gallons daily, with possibilities of its being increased up to 210,000,000 gallons per day; this being the amount of water which it is estimated we have abstracted in the past from the Delaware River for canal purposes. They compare these costs to two projects which heretofore have been submitted to the Legislature; namely, the Bunnvale project, one of the earlier Water Policy Commission's projects, with an estimated cost of $47,945,000, and the Chimney Rock project by the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, as modified by the State Water Policy Commission, with an estimated cost of $51,994,000.

The Bunnvale project has an estimated daily yield of 152,000,000, the waters of which were to be taken from the Black River, the south branch of the Raritan River and the Musconetcong River.

The Chimney Rock project has a yield of 145,000,000 gallons per day, the water being taken from practically those same water sheds.

From this report the Legislature will be able to draw the conclusion that the Delaware and Raritan Canal practically can be converted into a water supply for approximately 60 per cent of the cost of developing the Bunnvale project.

I wish, however, to call your attention to certain advantages which the Delaware and Raritan Canal project has and which are not touched upon by the engineers in their report it being largely a fact-finding report.

The first of these advantages, to my mind, is the speed with which the Delaware and Raritan Canal can be converted into a water supply. No condemnations or extensive land purchases are required, no water rights are to be obtained by either purchase or condemnation; the State is already in possession of these rights and properties. Because of this the bulk of the money expended on its development will go to labor and manufacturing establishments in New Jersey. We will be able to speed up the development of this project because such preliminaries are already out of the way. We can also utilize almost all of the funds for making work for the unemployed. Because of the low first cost and because the ownership of the land on which the main parts of the works are to be built is already vested in the State it lends itself admirably as a Works Progress Administration project. If we can provide the State's share from funds already available the work can be started at once as such a project.

The canal is 52 miles in length and transverses many municipalities in the State, practically all of which are urgently in need of a project that will give employment to their idle men.

Further, I wish to especially call your attention to the fact that this is the first water project that has been advanced for the metropolitan district which lends itself also to supplying water to Central and South Jersey as well. It is my thought that 150 million gallons of this water can be brought down the Delaware and Raritan Canal feeder to Trenton and thence sent northerly through the old canal bed for the use of the metropolitan section of North Jersey, and another 50 million gallons of water can be brought down for the use of Trenton and the cities to the south of Trenton; thus making this project a really State-wide project. The delivery of the water to the northern part of the State at or near Bound Brook and New Brunswick makes it readily available for the municipalities in Middlesex and Union counties, both of which contain fast-growing industrial centers.

I recommend this project for your earnest consideration, and urge that it be given your immediate attention to the end that legislation for its furtherance may be passed at this session of the Legislature. It is my intention to submit to you at an early date a bill which would set up legislation to bring about this desirable end.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

NEWARK TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Hon. Herbert J. Pascoe, Speaker,
House of Assembly,
State House,
Trenton, N. J.

MY DEAR MR. PASCOE:

At last Tuesday's general meeting of this association the following resolution was authorized to be drawn and forwarded to the Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

WHEREAS, There is constant recurrence of allegations of wholesale incompetence, political chicanery and fraud in the administration of relief in the city of Newark; and

WHEREAS, In the face of such patent allegations coupled with the inordinately high cost of Newark relief, claims by relief officials that various investigations have given Newark relief a clean bill of health are considered by the citizenry to be highly colored, misleading and not representative of all the facts; and

WHEREAS, Newark relief accounts for about one quarter of the State's relief bill; and

WHEREAS, Attempts by the Newark Taxpayers Association to have information made available to it by local relief officials which would enable the association to give effective aid to said relief officials in endeavors to check abuses of relief have been consistently rebuffed by the same relief officials; now therefore

Be it Resolved by the Newark Taxpayers Association that it hereby petitions the Legislature of the State of New Jersey to institute a prompt, thorough and nonpartisan investigation of relief in Newark so that evils found may be definitely remedied; and it is Further Resolved, That the Legislature be urged not to be deterred in such resolve by consideration of genteel decorum towards commissioners of the city of Newark now pressed by court action because said commissioners on their part were never swayed by feelings of kindly propriety in their dealings affecting the taxpayer.

Respectfully,

NEWARK TAXPAYERS ASSOCIATION,

Mr. Huntington addressed the House in commemoration of George Washington's Birthday as follows:

On Wednesday of this week the peoples of these United States celebrate the birthday of our number one American, the first President of our country, George Washington. As we pause for a few moments here tonight, facing as we do the problems of our great State of New Jersey, it would be well for us to consider the great courage of the father of our country.

Much has been written of the great mental courage of George Washington. Born in 1732, of average parents, he experienced little of actual schooling, but by his own efforts and study advanced rapidly and was reputed to be a man who was not afraid to trust the conclusions of his own mind and one who never minced words.

Of his physical courage there can be no question. As a boy he was known as one who tamed the wildest horses and dominated the most unruly of his schoolmates. As years rolled on he entered the military and it has been said of him that neither savages nor treacherous guides, nor ice-gorged rivers could prevail against so bold a heart or so keen an eye. Verily, the historical story of George Washington at Valley Forge is ample substantiation of his physical courage.

His courage as a statesman is traced through the weary years that elapsed between his taking command in July, 1775, and his laying down his office in December, 1783. Had he lost heart at the supineness and bickerings of the people at large, had he grown weary of correcting the blunders of incapable subordinates, had he disdained to control a fatuous Congress, had his nerves given away at the sight of the sufferings at Valley Forge, had his spirit wavered at frequent defeat—in short, had he been anything but the noble patriot and great commander that he was, the course of history might have been changed, and the United States might have died in its birth and forever. But he was Washington—the noblest figure that any people has ever set in the forefront of its life and history. The characteristics of George Washington's statesmanship—his dignity, humaneness, steadfastness, uprightness, serenity, wisdom—all contribute to what proved to be probably his greatest courage—his moral courage. It was the moral courage of Washington that demanded the rights of the peoples who made up his United States. It was his moral courage that has permeated down through the ages to the present day and has given us the freedom and liberty that you and I enjoy.

Truly George Washington personified courage in all its types and it is such courage that is needed today in this land of ours in face of all kinds of adversity. Courage to face and overcome the efforts to upset the Constitution of these United States—courage to meet and destroy the un-American "isms" that have sprung up here and there in our country—courage to demand from all who make their home in our country proper respect for the Stars and Stripes and everything for which it stands—courage to continue in the belief that Right is the master of Might—courage to promote peace and good will on earth—and courage to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy.

The fortitude of George Washington—his wisdom and ability—his understanding and good judgment—his will to do—and his courage—started these United States on the right course. It is the duty of you and me as one hundred per cent Americans to contribute everything in our power, small though it may be in comparison, to keep our ship of state on an even keel and thus weather all storms that may cross its bow. So may be measured our thanks for the life of George Washington, the Father of Our Country.

Mr. McClave moved that the address be spread in full upon the Minutes and that a vote of thanks be extended to Mr. Huntington.

TOWN OF MONTCLAIR
Office of the Mayor

March 1, 1939.

Honorable Herbert J. Pascoe,
State Assembly,
Trenton, N. J.

MY DEAR MR. PASCOE:

I have read over the report of the N. J. Unemployment Relief Commission and believe that it talks an awful lot of sense.

I appointed an investigator to go through our relief rolls in 1937 and as a result we were able to reduce our relief load about 20 to 25 per cent. This investigator is now our Overseer of the Poor and Director of Relief. We are keeping up to the standards which were set by the investigation.

Our total relief costs in 1938 were slightly less than in 1937, although the State as a whole showed an increase of 42½ per cent. The purpose of this statement is to show you that we have tried to do a good job. I believe we have.

With regard to refunding of relief I would like to speak for two things.

1. That whatever the amount of the refund it should be given in the form of a percentage so that there will be a definite incentive to municipalities to do a good job in holding relief costs down. I have fought consistently against the FAC formula which I think is absolutely unbusinesslike

2. I hope that if it is at all possible the refund will be placed on an equal percentage for all municipalities in the State.

With best wishes, I am,

Very truly yours,
WM. E. SPEERS,
Mayor.

Mr. McClave moved that the communication be received and spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

The following communication was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

SALVATORE CIVIC ASSOCIATION, INC.

March 3, 1939.

Herbert J. Pascoe,
Speaker of the House of Assembly,
State House,
Trenton, N. J.

DEAR SIR:

The Salvatore Civic Association, composed of E. R. A. recipients, and W. P. A. workers, have requested me to call your attention to the relief situation in Newark, New Jersey. The association has aided about two thousand (2,000) people and has a large membership. It distributes bread and other food stuffs every Monday from its headquarters, No. 224 Academy Street, Newark, New Jersey.

Overseer of the Poor Malady recently told Senator Foran that a family of five residing in the city of Newark receive $73.35 every month. The organization recently investigated and discovered the following:

Rent, $15.00; clothes, $10.01; light and gas, $2.40; coal, $5.40; milk, $3.90; food, $26.22; or a total of $62.93.

When E. R. A. recipients get an order for clothes, they do not get the full amount, although they are charged with getting same. The organization discovered clothes being distributed by city trucks to persons who are not entitled to same. The relief authorities hire trucks to transport the relief goods at a great expense, when there are sufficient city trucks to use.

There are a great number of district leaders who are case workers. The rule should be that either they give up politics or the job. This puts the E. R. A. recipients at a disadvantage, they vote the way the case worker or district leader directs. Recent election at Newark exhibited this.

The organization knows of a case where the recipient has an income and receives relief with the knowledge of the case worker. Many recipients have automobiles.

Relief should be separated from the five departments at the City Hall. It should be independent. The E. R. A. recipients are paying dearly because the grocers have not been paid for the past five months. The prices are raised and the weight is cut. Landlords refuse to accept city checks.

There are a number of items the association could mention, but it will leave same for a later date. If you are interested in securing information about the city of Newark the organization will be glad to aid you.

Yours very truly,

JAY SPIELMAN,
Legal Advisor.

Mr. McClave moved that the communication be received and spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

The following communication was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY

Trenton, April 24, 1939.

To the President of the Senate,
To the Speaker of the House, of the State of New Jersey:

In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 184, Laws of 1931, there is hereby submitted a report of the State House Commission, comprising the Governor, State Treasurer, Comptroller of the Treasury, the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations and the Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations.

This report covers the period from July 1, 1937, to June 30, 1938.

There were twenty-two meetings held during that period, at which were present the members of the Commission, and in the absence of the State Treasurer and Comptroller of the Treasury, their respective deputies functioned.

Eighteen leases covering rental of quarters for the various State agencies were executed for and on behalf of the Commission.

Fifty applications for allotments from the Emergency Fund, Account L-1-A, were granted by the Commission, totaling $99,999.85, leaving a balance of 15 cents of the original sum of $100,000.00. Five applications were not approved.

The Commission declared fifteen exigencies to exist in connection with the various State agencies, permitting contracts to be entered into for purchases, etc., in excess of $1,000.00 without advertising for bids.

There were 152 transfers of appropriations between accounts, fiscal year 1937-38, and eleven transfers for the fiscal year 1936-37 granted, which were previously submitted to the Commissioner of Finance and the Budget Commission for action. Five transfers were not allowed.

WHEREAS, The State Military Board duly appreciates the reasonable allowances made from year to year by the Legislature for instruction, training and maintenance of National Guard units, yet, at the same time, feels it to be the duty of such Board to call attention to His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the National Guard and to the State and House of Assembly of this State of the necessity of making adequate provision for the proper repair and maintenance of military property in this State, which for the past several years has been so sadly neglected; now, therefore

Be It Resolved, By the State Military Board of the State of New Jersey, this twenty-fourth day of April, 1939, that His Excellency the Governor and the Legislature of this State be requested to make adequate provision for all necessary repair and maintenance items for the various armories of this State, and to make adequate provision for the completion of the armory heretofore authorized in the county of Cumberland and that heretofore authorized in the county of Morris, it hereby respectfully requests the passage of Senate Bill No. 340, Assembly Bill No. 69, and Senate Bill No. 36; and

Be It Further Resolved, That attention be called to the fact that if the monies provided in Assembly Bill No. 69 are promptly made available, it will be possible to secure Federal aid to the extent of approximately $215,000.00, the total of which sums the State Military Board believes to be adequate for all present needs for extraordinary maintenance and repairs, and which sums should place all of the armories and military buildings in New Jersey in a reasonable fair state of repair; and

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution, certified by the Adjutant-General, be forwarded to His Excellency the Governor and to the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Assembly.

WILLIAM A. HIGGINS,
The Adjutant-General.

Mr. McClave moved that the communication be received and filed.

Which motion was adopted.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT-GENERAL

It is certified that the records of this office show that the following resolution was adopted at a meeting of the State Military Board, held in Trenton, Monday, April 24, 1939:

WHEREAS, A meeting of the State Military Board was called at the State House, Trenton, for Monday, April 24, 1939, to consider the seriousness of the condition of the armories and other military property within this State; and

WHEREAS, The State Military Board carefully considered this problem, involving approximately twelve million dollars' worth of armories and other military buildings in New Jersey, wherein is now or soon will be housed approximately fifteen million dollars' worth of Federal military equipment furnished the New Jersey National Guard; and

WHEREAS, Reasonably adequate appropriations have been made from time to time for the training and maintenance of National Guard units in this State and for the construction of additional armories to house new units ordered by the Federal Government to be organized in New Jersey, in conjunction with the present policy for national defense of the United States Government of expanding all the components of its army, including the National Guard; and

WHEREAS, However, the Legislature of this State has for the past several years overlooked the necessity of making adequate appropriations for the proper repair and maintenance of the armories and other military buildings in this State, as a result of which many of the armories are in a sorry condition of neglect to such an extent that many of them are unsafe for the occupancy of the National Guard and for the use of the general public; and

WHEREAS, This continued failure to properly provide for maintenance and repair is rapidly deteriorating and depressing the valuable military property of this State to an extent which may require the abandonment of certain armories within this State and the loss of the use of valuable military property for national defense purposes; and

Mr. Huntington addressed the House briefly in commemoration of Flag Day, as follows::

On Wednesday, June 14th, this nation celebrates the 162d anniversary of the birth of the Stars and Stripes. Several stories are told relative to how the design of the design of the American Flag originated but history tells us that on June 14th, 1777, the Continental Congress adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The meaning of this new flag was splendidly interpreted by George Washington when he said: "We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes thus showing that we have separated from her; and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing liberty."

In the years that have passed since the United States adopted the Stars and Stripes as its emblem, the flag has become to the American people a symbol of national growth, power and influence, of Union and of liberty. It is today the symbol of Americanism—that trait said to be peculiar to the people of the United States—a trait of genuine attachment to American institutions.

Franklin K. Lane, a member of President Wilson's cabinet, once said that if the Stars and Stripes could talk it would say: "I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts."

As we celebrate Flag Day this week let us all—everyone in these United States—pause and thank God that we are privileged to live in a country such as this; a country whose citizenship consists of people from every part of the world—living as good neighbors in liberty and peace under the most glorious of national emblems—the Stars and Stripes.

In closing may I quote a few verses of Henry Halcomb Bennett's stirring poem—"The Flag Goes By":

Hats off! Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off! The flag is passing by.

Blue and crimson and white it shines
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.
Hats off, the colors before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.

Sign of a nation, great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong.
Pride and glory and honor,—all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.

Hats off! Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high:
Hats off! The flag is passing by.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, NEW JERSEY,

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 91

This bill provides for Saturday holidays for municipal and county employees during the months of July and August.

During the campaign we heard much of mandatory legislation and the effect it has upon cities and counties. It seems to me that if the local governing body is desirous of giving its employees a holiday on Saturdays it should do so without passing the responsibility for such action to the State. It has been my experience that most of the municipalities and counties have but a skeleton force working on Saturdays during July and August, and generally only in the departments required by law to be open.

While this bill makes Saturdays during the months of July and August legal holidays for counties and municipalities, it does not affect the State offices.

Finally, it does seem that if the State can make satisfactory arrangements for Saturdays during July and August, the municipalities and counties could do the same without legislation.

Mr. McClave moved that the message from the Governor be received, spread in full upon the Minutes and that Assembly Bill No. 91 lie over.

Which motion was adopted.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his secretary as follows—and was read by the Clerk:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, NEW JERSEY,
July 12, 1939.

ASSEMBLY BILL No. 200

The objective sought in this bill; namely, the commitment to institutions of persons who are addicted to the use of narcotic drugs, is no doubt a laudable objective. However, there are no State, county or city institutions for the care and treatment of drug addicts, as contemplated in this act, unless such addicts have been determined to be suffering from a psychosis, in which case they can be regularly committed, under the provisions of Title 30 of the Revised Statutes, to appropriate county and State mental hospitals.

The drug addict who does not have a psychosis would constitute an administrative problem for whom no financial provision is made in this bill, if sent to any city hospital or county or State institution.

Under existing procedure, such individuals are ordinarily controlled by the law-enforcing authorities and have become a particular responsibility of the Federal Government, under the Federal Statutes. The Federal Government has a procedure for placing such users temporarily in county jails, where the Federal Government pays an agreed-upon daily rate of board, and if they can be shown to have violated the Federal Narcotic Statutes, they may be committed for purposes of treatment and cure to the Federal institution in Kentucky, which is designed especially for the treatment of drug addicts.

It is hoped that if any State legislation is desired to provide for the care of drug addicts, some proper provision be made for meeting the cost of care, and that some different provision than is indicated in this bill be provided for the discharge of such persons when cured.

From a legal standpoint, it would appear that a question could be raised as to whether the bill is properly described in the title, inasmuch as it amends the chapter dealing with the sale of narcotic drugs and practically provides for imprisonment by commitment. It would have the effect of placing such committed persons as an extra and unusual responsibility upon State, county and city institutions, many of which would not be equipped or prepared to treat or control this type of patient.

I believe that while some controls in addition to those already existent may be desirable, it would be important for the introducer of the bill to work out some solution of the several problems which appear inherent in the application of Assembly Bill No. 200.

Mr. McClave moved that the message from the Governor be received, spread in full upon the Minutes and that Assembly Bill No. 200 lie over.

Which motion was adopted.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his secretary as follows—and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
July 18, 1939.

To the House of Assembly:

I return herewith, without my approval, Assembly Bill No. 418.

This bill provides for the retirement of Motor Vehicle Inspectors on half pay after twenty years of service and age fifty.

No able-bodied public employee should want to retire at age fifty, and if he does retire it is likely that retirement will be for the purpose of obtaining other employment. This kind of retirement policy is too expensive for the State to maintain. I see no reason why we should undertake to further burden the labor market.

It is represented, of course, that Motor Vehicle Inspectors, by reason of their hazardous employment, should be given special protection. If an inspector is disabled for any cause, he may retire under our existing statutes on the same basis as other public employees, and if he is disabled in line of duty the law already contains generous provision for his retirement.

Attention should be called to the fact that pension systems must be maintained at reasonable cost, otherwise they will destroy themselves. Our State Employees' Retirement System is generous and sound. I propose that we keep it so.

In the final analysis, the large proportion of the pension money comes from the general funds of the State and the general funds of the State are not sufficient to sustain any added burden.

I do not believe that the temper of the people at this time is such as to look with complacence upon the enactment of this kind of legislation.

Proponents of the measure assert that these inspectors are in the same class as policemen and firemen, but the police and firemen pensions were passed long ago. Then, too, policemen and firemen are properly entitled to special consideration because they may be called upon at any moment to risk or even give their lives in the performance of their duties.

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:

HUGH KELLY,
Secretary to the Governor.

Dear Sir:

I have received and filed today, the original of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 6, which is a Concurrent Resolution proposed to amend Article 9 of the Constitution of

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows—and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

August 10, 1939.

To the Legislature:

With the passage, practically unanimously, by the Federal Congress of the amendments proposed by the Advisory Committee on Social Security, of which J. Douglas Brown of Princeton served as Chairman, it is possible for New Jersey, due to the fact that its Legislature is now in session, to be the first of the States to make amendments to its Old Age Assistance Act which will permit the State to take advantage of the more liberal provisions now possible under the Federal Social Security legislation.

As a result of the passage by the Congress of these amendments, the Federal Government agrees to match Old Age grants on a fifty-fifty basis up to $40 a month (that is, the Federal Government will pay $20 of the maximum grant of $40 a month), instead of on a matching basis limited to a maximum of $30, or a $15 Federal grant, as in the past.

I am, therefore, asking the Legislature to consider a bill amending section 44:7–12, Revised Statutes, increasing the upper limit from $30 to $40 a month, so that New Jersey can take advantage of the increased Federal matching.

I am advised that the Department of Institutions and Agencies, through the Division of Old Age Assistance, finds that there are certain instances among our aged where the increased grant will be a great help, particularly in those instances where nursing home care is required for aged persons suffering from a chronic physical condition.

In the past, of necessity it has been the practice of the County Welfare Boards to meet these situations as emergency cases and to make a grant of the maximum allowed; namely, $30 a month. They have then had to apply to the Municipal Relief Department for supplemental help to meet the cost of care in excess of the $30 limit.

Estimates which have been made as to what would be involved in the proposed amendment indicate that while the present average monthly grant is $19.59, on the basis of the limited number of cases which would be affected if the maximum were increased to $40, the average grant might go to $20.32, or an increase of $0.73 on the average. This is not a real increase in expenditure, inasmuch as these funds have hitherto had to be supplied by local relief agencies.

It is not contemplated that there would be any change in the careful individual budgetary practices used by the County Welfare Boards in establishing grants of Old Age Assistance. However, the State would be assured that all grants beyond $30 a month, up to $40 a month, would be matched by the Federal Government, and these could be carefully regulated by the County Welfare Boards and the Division of Old Age Assistance, and this liberalized plan used to meet the exigencies of special individual problems.

I would strongly advise, therefore, that New Jersey avail itself of this opportunity to extend this assistance to the worthy needy aged, inasmuch as it would apply primarily to those individuals for whom at the present time the County Welfare Boards have to apply for supplemental assistance to the local relief agencies.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:

HUGH A. KELLY,
Secretary to the Governor.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

October 2, 1939.

To the House of Assembly:

I return herewith, without my approval, Committee Substitute for Assembly Bill No. 681.

This bill provides for a temporary commission to examine into the living conditions of the colored people.

The commission is to consist of three Senators and two other persons, at least one of which persons shall be of the colored race, to be appointed by the President of the Senate; three members of the House of Assembly and two other persons, at least one of which persons shall be of the colored race, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Assembly; and two other persons, at least one of which persons shall be of the colored race, to be appointed by the Governor of the State.

The members of the commission shall receive no compensation, but shall be entitled to all necessary traveling and hotel expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The commission shall have the power to employ counsel and such other assistants as may be needed, and may fix their compensation. The sum of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000.00) is appropriated for this purpose.

This is a bill similar to the one I vetoed last year. I am still of the opinion that this work could be done by the Department of Institutions and Agencies, which is equipped with people skilled in this sort of work. It could even be done by the Good-Will Commission, which is a commission of citizens, including one or two members of the colored race.

There is no need, in my opinion, of adding another expensive commission to our already unnecessarily long list.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
HUGH A. KELLY,
Secretary to the Governor.
