PREFACE TO SUPPLEMENT

The Story of New Jersey's Civil Boundaries, 1606-1968

Bulletin 67, published in 1969, has happily been helpful to a number of New Jersey history enthusiasts and others, both professionally and avocationally. As is often the case with the first printing of a comprehensive reference, as this is intended to be, several omissions and errors have surfaced. Most resulted from my subsequent research; some were pointed out by users. In addition, there have been numerous annexations and name changes since publication. The sale of the book has been insufficient, however, to justify a revised edition. I no longer live in New Jersey, and the revisions predate 1978, but I believe that for most users the earlier boundaries have been of more interest.

Several revisions are refinements or involve small annexations, especially in Bergen County during the 1890's. There are no state or county boundary changes, except for a correction to Map 4 to make the Somerset-Middlesex boundary agree with Map 11 and the law in 1700. Three township lines at the time of the Revolution (on Maps 6, 25, 26, and 31) are corrected: Bernardston-Bridgewater (1749-1806), Perth Amboy-Woodbridge (1693-1798), and Middletown-Shrewsbury (1693-1847), the latter with my thanks to Elaine D. Anderson. For changes more recent than 1977, I refer the researcher generally to the N.J. Session Laws (1977 and later), to the municipal files in the Office of the N.J. Secretary of State (from no. 1050), the U.S. Census of Population (from 1980), and to accurate recent county or municipal maps for comparison with earlier ones to find clues to annexations. Unfortunately, some changes are not listed in any of these sources, due often to oversights.

My thanks to the New Jersey Geological Survey and especially to the late Harold J. Barker, Jr. for his active role in making the book and these revisions available.

EXPLANATION

Spelling and date corrections, additions and deletions of certain items throughout the book are self-explanatory. The data compiled under III, Municipal Incorporations and Boundary Changes, including various headings and symbols such as *, () etc. are printed in the same format found on pages 67 through 248 (symbol and heading explanation pages 65 and 66) in the volume. The reader should have no difficulty in annotating the book to reference the changes in proper numerical or chronological order. If there is no contrary assertion with the entry listed, it is a new entry to be inserted chronologically under the county or municipality preceding the entry. In the case of citations which partially duplicate those in the book, the appropriate wording in this listing should be substituted for the original. The left-hand column starting in the middle of page 6 in this listing headed "Bull. Page" refers to the page number in Bulletin 67 on which the change should be noted.

The page providing corrections for 11 maps in the book is also self-explanatory. For the reader's convenience, locations of the various Civil Outlines by page number are listed below:
