Cherry Hill Facility Marks Company's Continued Commitment to New Jersey Residents with Developmental Disabilities

Trenton, NJ - This morning, Acting Governor Kim Guadagno joined local officials and Bancroft leadership in celebrating the grand opening of Bancroft's new corporate headquarters in Cherry Hill. As part of the ceremony, participants in Bancroft's adult vocational program who work on "Maggie's Farm" planted cherry trees at the new headquarters.

"I commend Bancroft for its hard work and dedication to our residents with developmental disabilities and their families," said Acting Governor Guadagno. "This organization started by reaching out to help one person, and now it serves as a model for programs across the country."

Bancroft began providing services to one student in Haddonfield in 1883. Today, Bancroft provides early childhood, education, supported employment, community living, behavioral treatment, and other services to 1,700 individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

"Bancroft employs more than 2,500 people throughout the region who are dedicated to making a difference in the lives of the people we serve," said Toni Pergolin, President and CEO of Bancroft. "Our goal is finding new opportunity to engage our community partners to join us in our mission to help those we serve achieve their highest potential."

Additional information on Bancroft's services is available on its website at www.bancroft.org.
