Stephanie Andrus, a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Board of Education of the Borough of New Providence, Union County, was advised on May 16, 1991 that the Board had determined to withhold her employment and adjustment increments for the 1991-92 school year A statement of reasons was given. In a petition filed in the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education on July 22, 1991, petitioner alleged Board action was arbitrary and in contravention of her rights under N.J.S.A. 18A 29-14. The Board's answer in general denial was filed with the Commissioner on July 29, 1991. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 1, 1991 for hearing and determination as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

Prior to the scheduled hearing dates, the parties entered into settlement discussions and advised the administrative law judge the matters at issue had been amicably resolved, subject to approval of the administrative law judge and the Commissioner of the Department of Education. Thereafter, a stipulation of settlement was submitted.

CONCLUSION

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE as follows:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to settlement as evidenced by the signatures on the stipulation of settlement;

2. Settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is in the interest of parties and public.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT between
NEW PROVIDENCE BOARD OF EDUCATION and
STEPHANIE ANDRUS
OAL DOCKET #EDU 7453-91

WHEREAS, the New Providence Board of Education and Stephanie Andrus are desirous of resolving all current and pending litigation by and between them under the docket number set foth above;

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS AGREED AND STIPULATED AS FOLLOWS:

1. Ms. Andrus will withdraw her appeal of the increment withholding for the 1991-92 school year, docket #EDU 7453-91.

2. Effective September of 1992, Ms. Andrus will be restored by the Board to her proper place on the Guide for the 1992-93 school year, which is BA+60 (Masters Column, Step 12), so that the impact of the 1991-92 withholding will be limited to that one school year. It is understood by the parties that the New Providence Board of Education and the New Providence Education Association have not yet settled their Labor Agreement for the 1992-93 school year and that, therefore, the initial salary for the above noted Column and Step is $49,029, which will be adjusted in accordance with the final negotiated Agreement.

3. The parties hereby agree that there will be no public statements regarding the settlement of this matter other than the necessary Board Resolution authorizing Ms. Andrus to the Step and Column on the Guide referred to in paragraph #2 above.

Kevin C. Watkins, Esq., on behalf of petitioner

Record Closed: August 10, 1992 Decided: August 12, 1992

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner, A.A., in his capacity as guardian ad litem of N.A., a minor, from a determination arrived at by respondent (the Board) wherein the Board suspended N.A. from his participation in academic instruction and activities for a period of ten days at Haddon Heights High School, Haddon Heights, New Jersey. The matter was heard on an emergent basis on February 5, 1992 and on that date petitioner's motion for a stay was denied and the matter was scheduled for plenary hearing to be conducted on May 5, 7 and 8, 1992.

On May 5, 1992 the parties were able to structure a settlement of the appeal. The terms of settlement have been set forth by a proposed order prepared by Kevin C. Watkins, Esq. on behalf of the petitioner, which was received by my office on August 6, 1992. By letter dated August 10, 1992, Robert P. Becker, Jr., Esq., counsel to the Board advised that the proposed order is satisfactory and consequently sets forth the terms of settlement.

The terms of settlement are as follows:

It has been agreed that the petition of A.A. on behalf of N.A. shall be dismissed upon the following terms and conditions:

All records concerning this matter created, received and retained by the Haddon Heights Board of Education shall be destroyed by the respondent no later than the beginning of the 1992-1993 academic year of Haddon Heights High School:

All records related to the January 29, 1992 suspension of N.A. from Haddon Heights High School, include, but are not limited to:

a. The January 29, 1992 letter from George W. Reeves, then principal of Haddon Heights High School to A.A. formalizing the suspension of N.A, from said secondary school;

b. The January 24, 1992 letter/incident report of Mary Fallon, a teacher at Haddon Heights High School, detailing her complaints about the alleged in-school misconduct of N.A.;

c. Any inter-office letters or memoranda between Haddon Board of Education officials or employees or agents generated as a consequence of the January 29, 1992 suspension of N.A.;

d. All other documents, correspondence or memoranda otherwise existing and now in the custody and control of the Haddon Heights Board of Education relating to the investigation, suspension and discipline of N.A., as a consequence of alleged in-school misconduct on January 22, 19912, January 24, 1992, or otherwise arising from or related to conduct allegedly occurring on or about January 22, 1992 and January 24, 1992.

It is also been agreed that proof that the indicated records relating to the investigation and discipline of N.A., as a consequence of the alleged in-school misconduct events have been destroyed pursuant to the terms of this order shall be supplied the petitioner no later than September 15, 1992, in the form of a letter from George W. Reeves, principal of Haddon Heights High School, or anyone acting in the capacity of principal of Haddon Heights High School at that time to Kevin C. Watkins, Esquire, attorney for petitioner, certifying that the indicated records have been duly destroyed; and

It is also been agreed that petitioner, A.A., and his attorney, Kevin C. Watkins, shall be allowed access to the permanent record of N.A., the minor, as maintained by the Haddon Heights Board of Education for the purpose of inspecting the complete contents of the same and that said inspection shall be allowed, on a reasonable time and basis, by the respondent and completed by the petitioner no later than thirty (30) days from the time of this order.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." - A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

FOR PETITIONERS, Robert DeChellis, Esq.

FOR THE BOARD, James P. Granello, Esq.

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed by faxed transmission on September 24, 1992 seeking a stay of the Board's determination of September 21, 1992, imposing a ten-hour Saturday suspension on R.W., a senior at Hunterdon Central Regional High School, as a result of his alleged complicity in a streaking event during commencement ceremonies at respondent's high school last spring.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on the application for emergent relief by faxed transmission on September 24, 1992, and the hearing was conducted on September 25, 1992.

Upon careful consideration of the arguments raised by the parties, which review includes consideration of the oral arguments of the parties at the hearing conducted by the Office of Administrative Law, as well as the ALJ's decision, the Commissioner DENIES the Motion for Emergent Relief, petitioners having failed to meet those standards articulated by the Court for pendente lite restraints as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents appealed Board's handling of disciplinary case. Parents contended their son R.W., who was charged with conspiracy to disrupt graduation (he drove car for four streakers at graduation), was denied due process prior to imposition of discipline.

ALJ found although R.W. was not involved in act of indecent exposure, his behavior was certainly disruptive within the meaning envisioned by district policy. Also, penalty of 10-day out-of-school suspension and 60-day suspension from extracurricular activities, which was modified to detention on 10 consecutive Saturdays beginning senior year, was the result of "multiple levels of meaningful review" by Board. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

James P. Granello, Esq., on behalf of respondent

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This controversy arises under the education law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, and regulations promulgated thereunder. A petition seeking emergent relief was filed with the Department of Education on September 24, 1992, and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing the following day pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. The motion was heard and denied on September 25, 1992, which decision was affirmed by the Commissioner. A hearing on the merits was convened on October 14, 1992, in Readington Township.

The primary basis for petitioner's appeal is that his son, R.W., now a senior in respondent's high school, was denied due process prior to the imposition of discipline, contrary to holdings in Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 95 S. Ct. 729, 42 L. Ed. 2d 725 (1975), and Tibbs v. Bd. of Ed. of Franklin Township, 59 N.J. 506 (1971), affirming the opinion of Judge Kolovsky in the Appellate Division at 114 N.J. Super. 287. Additionally, petitioner maintains that R.W.'s conduct was not an infraction of any of respondent's written disciplinary rules.

Paul Grimm, vice principal, testified on behalf of respondent. He is responsible for the day-to-day management of the school. On June 22, 1992, at approximately 6:00 p.m. four junior boys disrupted graduation by running naked in a field adjacent to the location of the ceremony. Dr. Grimm was present and observed the incident. He was informed by a guard that one boy had been arrested by Raritan Township Police, and he proceeded to police headquarters. There he spoke to Detective Glenn Tobasko, who informed him that R.W. had been taken into custody. Detective Tobasko told Dr. Grimm that a station wagon driven by R.W. had been stopped near the scene, and an officer observed numerous articles of clothing of varying sizes in the back seat. Dr. Grimm testified that Detective Tobasko then told him that once at the police station, R.W. admitted that he was the driver, and that he let the streakers out and was to pick them up one-half hour later. Dr. Grimm asked to speak with R.W. but was not permitted to do so because of the ongoing police investigation.

Dr. Grimm testified that June 22, 1992, was also the last day of school and he was involved in supervising the graduation party. He returned to the school and spoke with R.W.'s mother, who was a parent volunteer that day. He did not wish to create a scene and asked R.W.'s mother to see him in his office. Dr. Grimm relayed the information he had, and told her generally that the consequences were severe; he did not go into details about penalty at that time. A few days later he spoke to petitioner by telephone. Petitioner contended that R.W. had violated no school rule, since he was not among the streakers; he did not, however, deny that his son was driving. On June 26, 1992, Dr. Grimm wrote a letter to R.W.'s parents notifying them that he was imposing a ten-day out-of-school suspension and a sixty-day suspension from extracurricular activities, commencing at the start of the next school year. At or about the same time he also provided R.W.'s parents with a copy of his report of misconduct, which charged that R.W. "[c]onspired to help disrupt the graduation . . ." (J-2).

Dr. Grimm acknowledged that he did not speak to R.W. himself about the incident before reaching his conclusion. He also acknowledged that the student handbook contains no offense for conspiracy or aiding and abetting; it does contain an offense for disruptive behavior (J-1, p. 12). Dr. Grimm testified that he did not pursue an investigation beyond what he learned at the police station on the evening in question, because there was no factual dispute as to what occurred. Dr. Grimm did not believe that there was any meaningful distinction between R.W.'s conduct in driving and the other boys' conduct in streaking, and each of the boys involved received the same penalty.

Dr. Grimm testified that he received a police report from Raritan Township, some three weeks prior to the date of hearing in this matter. This was admitted to corroborate his testimony concerning his conversation with Detective Tobasko on the evening of the incident.[1]

Dr. David Myers, school principal, testified at the emergent relief hearing and the parties agreed to utilize that testimony here. Dr. Myers testified that the student handbook establishes a series of appeals from disciplinary actions, beginning with the teacher, when that is applicable, through to the school board (J-1, p. 15). The appropriate levels of review were provided in this case. Once an appeal of discipline is taken, the penalty is stayed until the school board takes final action.

Dr. Myers testified that petitioner appealed to him from Dr. Grimm's decision. He had discussed the matter with Dr. Grimm, who told him that R.W. had admitted his involvement to the police. Dr. Myers did not feel he had the authority to adjust penalties provided for in the student handbook, and he simply sustained Dr. Grimm's decision.

[1] Petitioner objected to the entry of this document in evidence, first because it was not available to the decision makers when they evaluated the matter, and second because of an attachment to the report containing R.W.'s admission. Petitioner argued that this admission is the subject of a motion to suppress in an upcoming municipal court disorderly persons proceeding arising from this incident. The main function of this report was to corroborate the information that Dr. Grimm had on June 22, 1992, and no question was raised concerning its authenticity. Moreover, the mere fact that a motion to suppress has been filed elsewhere does not preclude entry of an admission here.

Dr. Myers testified that at no time during any of his conversations with R.W.'s parents, or with the parents of the other four boys involved, was any question raised about their culpability; mainly, the parents felt that the penalties imposed were overly severe.

Raymond P. Farley is the school superintendent. He met with R.W.'s parents and their attorney, Robert DeChellis, on August 6, 1992, to review the decisions of Drs. Grimm and Myers. Mr. Farley testified that R.W. did not speak on advice of counsel. R.W.'s parents did not deny his involvment in the incident; they felt that the penalty imposed had been harsh and Mr. Farley agreed. Mr. Farley eliminated the ten-day out-of-school suspension, and instead imposed detention on ten consecutive Saturdays, commencing at the beginning of the school year. Mr. Farley testified that participation in athletics is a privilege and he chose not to decrease the sixty-day exclusion from school activities.

Petitioner appealed to the School Board and was invited to the August 1992 meeting where the suspensions of the other four boys would be reviewed as well. Petitioner requested that he be permitted to attend instead the September Board meeting, because of a pending prosecution in municipal court. This request was granted. At the August meeting the Board again modified the penalty by eliminating the sixty-day exclusion from extracurricular activities. As this was done for the four boys present, the ruling was extended to R.W. as well.

Petitioner presented no witnesses. Counsel did enter a letter in evidence from petitioner to respondent, dated August 26, 1992, written in connection with his request that he be allowed to pursue his appeal at the September 1992 board meeting. In the letter petitioner wrote, "we do not believe [R.] is guilty of indecent exposure" (P-1). R.W. began serving his penalty on September 26, 1992.

This is the substance of the record.

Petitioner argues that the due process deprivation arises primarily from Dr. Grimm's handling of the case. His decision was based on the oral representation of Detective Tobasko on the evening in question; no further investigation was undertaken. Further, Dr. Grimm communicated exclusively with R.W.'s parents; at no time did he speak to R.W. Finally, the offense R.W. was charged with, essentially conspiracy to disrupt the graduation, is not listed in the manual of discipline. These arguments are without substance.

Initially, we should note that this is not a de novo proceeding to determine whether a preponderance of the credible evidence supports the contention that R.W. was involved in this incident; rather, we are here to review respondent's decision and the process provided, to determine whether it acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner. Thomas v. Morris Tp. Bd. of Ed., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div.1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966). The heavy burden of persuasion rests with petitioner.

Goss and Tibbs are inapposite. Goss involved the imposition of ten-day out-of-school suspensions without providing students an opportunity to tell their side of the story. Here, there was no preliminary suspension, first because under school policy an appeal normally stays a proposed action, and second, as a practical matter, summer vacation intervened. Tibbs raised a question of procedural fairness during the hearing process before a school board, where unsigned statements were accepted in lieu of testimony, because students feared physical reprisal. There is nothing in the case at bar that suggests this type of error.

It appears that this matter was handled properly. Dr. Grimm, who was fully credible, attempted to acquaint himself with the facts on the evening in question as best he could. He informed R.W.'s mother immediately and spoke to petitioner by telephone a few days later. Though petitioner in effect argued a legal point to Dr. Grimm, i.e., that the conduct complained of was not an offense under school rules, there was no denial that R.W. was the driver. Thus, there was not much to investigate at that juncture. Additionally, because the penalty was stayed we need not focus narrowly on Dr. Grimm's role, but may look to the process afforded overall. Petitioner presented no transcript or minutes of the school board meetings in August and September, but there is not even an allegation that R.W. was deprived of the opportunity to confront his accusers or otherwise present a defense in these proceedings. To the contrary, it appears that there have been multiple levels of meaningful review, at which no denial has ever been made. The petitioner's declaration in his August 26, 1992, letter to the school board that "We do not believe [R.] is guilty of indecent exposure" hardly serves as a denial, in the face of the numerous opportunities petitioner was given to present his side of the story.

As to the question of notice, there is no doubt that R.W.'s parents were acting on behalf of their minor child, and that he was fully aware that he could make a rebuttal if he so chose.

As to the argument that R.W.'s conduct is not covered in the student handbook, it appears that although he was not himself involved in an act of indecent exposure, a specifically listed offense in the manual, his behavior was certainly disruptive, which the manual also lists as a separate offense. He was charged with conspiracy to disrupt the graduation, which it appears falls within the latter category. In any case, school boards are not required to establish an exhaustive shopping list of infractions with specified disciplines, see, O.P. v. Board of Education of the City of Paterson, 1976 S.L.D. 658, 660. R.W.'s conduct clearly violated the letter and spirit of school rules.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that petitioner has failed to establish that R.W. was deprived of due process, or that the offense charged is beyond the norms of behavior established by respondent. The action taken by respondent is AFFIRMED and this petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents sought emergent relief alleging there was disparate treatment of their son, T.J.P., when he was required to repeat 7th grade after failing three subjects in 1990-91 school year. Parents contended Board had waived its policy of requiring retention after three subject failure for another student, D.B., at the end of the following school year, and thus sought promotion of T.J.P. to ninth grade.

Initial decision concluded petition was untimely filed and the matter was dismissed. Moreover, in the case of D.B., the Board had rescinded its decision to promote her but the ALJ reversed, recommending promotion on equitable principles and reliance. Petition as to T.J.P. was dismissed because Board's action was therefore consistent with its policy of requiring retention after three subject failure.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with modification. Commissioner concurred with ALJ that petitioners did not demonstrate disparate treatment of their son because Board acted consistently in enforcing its retention policy. Commissioner did reverse ALJ's finding that petition was untimely as petitioners filed after becoming aware of the D.B. matter.

IN THE MATTER OF T.P. AND D.P.
ON BEHALF OF THEIR MINOR CHILD, T.J.P., Petitioners,
v.
THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF OAKLYN, CAMDEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

D.P., petitioner, pro se

Record Closed: September 4, 1992 Decided: September 4, 1992

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

Petitioner, D.P., alleges that there was improper disparate treatment of her son, T.J.P., by the Board of Education of the Borough of Oaklyn, hereinafter Board, when it required him to repeat the seventh grade for the 1991 school year after T.J.P. allegedly failed three subjects during the 1990-91 school year. The Board counters that there was no disparate treatment of T.J.P. and seeks dismissal of the instant matter. The Board also asserts that the petition for emergent relief was untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), commonly referred as the 90-day rule.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, hereinafter OAL, on an emergent basis, on September 2, 1992, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14-B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. The hearing was held on September 4, 1992, at the Trenton, OAL, Mercerville, New Jersey. The hearing record was closed on September 4, 1992, and the decision was rendered on the record on the same day.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The relevant and material facts are not in dispute. During the 1990-91 school year, T.J.P. was a seventh grade pupil under the jurisdiction of the Board. During the course of the 1990-91 school year, T.J.P. failed three subjects; is that he was unsuccessful in passing social studies, mathematics and home economics.

The Board of Education has enacted a policy which states, in effect, that any pupil who fails three subjects must repeat the grade for the entire year. It is also part of the policy that the subjects may not be made up in summer school.

Subsequent to the close of the 1990-91 school year, T.J.P.'s parent, Mrs. D.P., appeared before the Board of Education to request that consideration be given for T.J.P. to take the subjects failed in summer school. The Board of Education denied D.P.'s request. T.J.P. therefore was assigned to the seventh grade to repeat that grade which he did during the course of the 1991-92 school year. T.J.P. has been assigned to the eighth grade commencing September 9, 1992.

At the close of the 1991 a school year, a matter was brought to the Board of Education involving the pupil, D.B., who had failed three subjects in the seventh grade. The three subjects failed were language arts, home economics and industrial arts. This matter is set forth in a initial decision rendered by the Honorable August E. Thomas, Administrative Law Judge, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5669-92 and AGENCY DKT. NO. 302-7-9. I refer to some of the facts set forth therein:

In the D.B. matter, D.B.'s mother attended a Board of Education meeting on June 15, 1992 and requested that the Board of Education make an exception to the three subject failure rule. After some debate, in executive session and irrespective of the objections voiced by the Board's superintendent, the Board voted five to four to waive its retention policy "with the stipulation that D.B. pass English and summer school." That was exhibit J-5 in the OAL DKT. NO. 5669-92 matter. D.B. was enrolled in summer school and successfully completed the summer school program. However, within a week of the Board's decision to rescind its policy, the herein petitioner, D.P., appeared before the Board of Education requesting that the Board of Education permit her son to attend summer school to take eighth grade courses and, therefore, waive the eighth grade and be assigned to the ninth grade commencing September 1992. Thereafter, on June 22, 1992, a special meeting of the Board of Education was called, where it went into executive session and subsequently rescinded the decision made in favor of D.B. It also denied the application by D.P., with respect to allowing to T.J.P. to attend summer school for the eighth grade. Those are the essential facts in this matter.

The facts also should indicate that T.J.P. has successfully completed the seventh grade for the second time; that T.J.P. has taken no eighth grade courses during the course of the summer school or the academic year and that he will be assigned to the eighth grade commencing in the 1992-93 school year beginning September 9, 1992.

Having reviewed all the testimony before me and the documents submitted with the pleadings and the one offered as J-1, I CONCLUDE that there was no disparate treatment of T.J.P. Inasmuch as the Board of Education rescinded its decision with respect to D.B., D.B. was granted the opportunity to go into the ninth grade on the basis of the decision rendered by the Honorable August Thomas, ALJ. I repeat part of Judge Thomas' conclusions. Judge Thomas states in part, at page five of his decision, that D.B. acquired no vested right with respect to the promotion. Judge Thomas recommended the promotion of D.B. on equitable principles and reliance. D.B. relied upon the Board of Education's actions on June 15, 1992, notwithstanding its rescission of that decision on June 22, 1992. In addition, Judge Thomas asserts that "this determination for D.B. does not extend to any other pupil. If a pupil was aggrieved in a prior year, actions should have been taken at that time."

I concur with Judge Thomas and CONCLUDE that this matter was filed out-of-time with respect to the 90-day rule. The 90-day rule provides, in part, that when an individual is aggrieved or has notice of an action, they must take the action within 90 days. No action was taken subsequent to T.J.P.'s failure at the close of the 1990-91 school year. On that basis alone, this matter is rendered DISMISSED.

The Board has reestablished its policy and is maintaining it with respect to the three-failure rule. T.J.P.'s record, notwithstanding repeating the seventh grade, was not one that would be considered to the outstanding. It appears that he does have some academic problems, which I understand the parents are willing to remedy. I don't believe however, it would be in his best interest or of the best interest of the Board of Education or the other pupils in the school to have T.J.P. skip the eighth grade and go to the ninth grade. For those reasons expressed, petitioner's motion for Emergent Relief is hereby DENIED and DISMISSED.

This recommended oral decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended oral decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended oral decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

I, Janice Zuczek, certify that the foregoing is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my ability, of Judge Law's oral decision rendered in the above matter on September 4, 1992.

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF OAKLYN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and the transcript of the Initial Decision on Motion rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, including the tape recording of the hearing on emergent relief heard on September 4, 1992, the Commissioner hereby determines that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of demonstrating those standards articulated by the court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for the grant of the extraordinary relief sought herein.

The record is absent altogether of any reference to the first prong of the standards extant for pendente lite restraints, that is, that were the stay of the Board action not granted, the moving party would suffer irreparable harm. Herein, T.J.P.'s mother has expressed only her belief that her son was disparately treated by the Board's determination, made in June of 1991 in accord with district policy to retain T.J.P. in the seventh grade, he having failed three subjects. T.J.P. has now successfully repeated seventh grade, and has now been placed in the eighth grade. Thus, although petitioners contend that T.J.P.'s retention removed him from his peers, which was socially difficult for him, the Commissioner finds no irreparable harm visited T.J.P in the Board's decision compelling him to repeat the grade wherein the preceding year he had failed three academic subjects.

The second prong of the Crowe standards requires that for a stay to issue, there must be a showing of likelihood of success on the merits established. In this regard, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have failed to meet such standard. Albeit that the Board attempted to rescind its policy regarding automatic retention where a student fails three subjects, in the case of another student, D.B., during June of 1992, such action was rescinded on June 22, 1992. Hence, petitioners are unable to demonstrate disparate treatment of her son because the Board has acted consistently, in the end, in enforcing its retention policy.

That an ALJ in an initial decision not yet the subject of a final decision by the Commissioner (D.B., supra) reversed this Board's recision action concerning D.B. on equitable principles, does not represent the law insofar as an initial decision is a recommendation by the Office of Administrative Law and does not become decisional law in the matter until the Commissioner has reviewed the matter or his 45-day period to review such recommended initial decision has been exhausted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. Hence, the ALJ's opinion in D.B. as yet has no force of law, and is not properly referenced in this case. Consequently, the Commissioner finds that petitioners herein have failed not only to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of their claim under the Crowe standards, but also have failed, upon full review of the merits of this matter, which the ALJ fully explicated in his thorough initial decision, to demonstrate that the Board acted in an arbitrary manner in retaining their son in 1991.

As to the third prong of the Crowe standards, the Commissioner determines that in the review of all of the circumstances of this case, the Board's concerns with providing a thorough and efficient education for the pupils in its care in a uniform and consistent manner outweigh petitioners' concern that their son ought to be promoted to the ninth grade, without having attended or completed grade eight based on their assertion of disparate treatment in 1991. The Commissioner would be loathe to substitute his judgment for that of a local board of education on a retention/promotion determination absent the most convincing evidence that T.J.P. had satisfied all the requirements for promotion from the preceding grade level. This record is devoid of any such suggestion. Accordingly, in reviewing the equities of this case, petitioners have likewise failed to meet their burden.

One last point requires attention in this case. The ALJ determined that this matter was filed out of time, again relying on the ALJ's initial decision in the D.B. matter. Not only because said case does not represent decision law, but also because the record of this matter makes plain that T.J.P.'s parents did not become aware -- and indeed, could not have been aware -- of a disparate treatment claim against the Board until the Board acted in June 1992 to make an exception for D.B. of its retention policy, the Commissioner reverses that finding of the ALJ below that this petition is untimely.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Commissioner finds and determines that petitioners' request for emergent relief be and hereby is DENIED. Further, upon consideration of all of the merits of the case, the Commissioner dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal for the reasons expressed in this determination.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE GREENWICH SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION

SEPTEMBER 28, 1992

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE GREENWICH SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

For Petitioner, Alan R. Schmoll, Esq. (Capehart & Scatchard)
For Respondent, Gary W. Stuhltrager, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on May 5, 1992 through the Greenwich Board of Education's (Board) filing of an appeal of the cap waiver defeated by the voters of the Greenwich School District on April 7, 1992. On July 13, 1992 Gary W. Stuhltrager, Attorney for the Township of Greenwich, notified the Commissioner that the governing body had no objection to the cap waiver appeal.

On August 6, 1992, the Board submitted a position statement pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8(a)2, thus it was on that date that the record in this matter closed.

It is the Board's contention that in addition to the current expense budget disapproved by the voters of the Greenwich School District on April 7, 1992 in the amount of $4,886,983 but sustained by the governing body by resolution on April 28, 1992, there is a need for an additional $143,700 in current expense in order for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students.

On March 6, 1992, Peter Contini, Gloucester County Superintendent of Schools, conditionally approved the Greenwich School District's budget subject to the cap waiver amount of $143,700 for tuition which was deemed necessary for a thorough and efficient education by him.

Therefore, the amount in dispute before the Commissioner is set forth below.

	Proposed tax levy adopted by Board of Education	Amount of tax levy certified by governing body
Current expense	$4,886,983	$4,886,983
Capital Outlay	NA	NA
Cap waiver:
Current expense	$ 143,700
Capital expense	NA
Total	$5,030,683	$4,886,983

As indicated above, the $143,700 in cap waiver monies are deemed necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient education to its students in order for the Board to meet its tuition obligations to the Paulsboro School District in order to provide for increases in tuition and back tuition adjustments, the particulars of which are set forth below:

CAP WAIVER PURPOSE: TUITION INCREASE, INCREASE IN PUPILS, AND BACK TUITION ADJUSTMENT FOR PAULSBORO SCHOOL DISTRICT.

BREAKDOWN FOR CAP WAIVER

TUITION AND PUPIL INCREASE	162 PUPILS X	$	7,495
	=	$1,214,190
	+	$ 170,702*
	=	$1,384,892

* BACK TUITION ADJUSTMENT
 TUITION EXPENSES FOR PAULSBORO 1992-1993

TUITION EXPENSES FOR PAULSBORO	$1,384,892
LINE ITEM 114 - TUITION ALLOTTED TO PAULSBORO	-1,241,192
REQUIRED CAP WAIVER =	$ 143,700

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the extensive documentation provided by the district in support of the necessity of the cap waiver funds, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Greenwich School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989)

Accordingly, the Gloucester County Board of Taxation is hereby ordered to adjust the Greenwich School District's tax levy for the 1992-93 school year to reflect an increase of $143,700 for current expense which results in a total current expense tax levy of $5,030,683.

Kenneth A. Sandler, Esq., for respondent (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE

The Gloucester City school district filed tenure charges of incompetence against John Madden.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 8, 1990 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

After notice, a prehearing conference was held on March 11, 1991. Among other things, the matter was set down for hearing in October 1991 and the parties indicated they were pursuing settlement.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached letter indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The settlement is reasonable under the circumstances. The petitioner is not unjustly enriched and the charges are not of a type that the public interest would demand an adjudication or an action against the respondent's teaching certificates or both.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Dear Judge Campbell:

This is to advise that Respondent John J. Madden has been been granted a regular service pension by TPAF and that the settlement agreement entered into by the parties shall accordingly go into effect. I enclose for your reference the "Quotation of Retirement Benefits" statement issued by TPAF, which reflects that Mr. Madden has the requisite twenty-five (25) years of service.

If Your Honor believes any additional information is needed or a telephone conference needs to be scheduled, please let us know. In any event, thank you for your good efforts in assisting the parties in effecting this settlement.

GLOUCESTER CITY EDUCATION ASSOCIATION and JOHN J. MADDEN, Charging Party.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, on or about September 26, 1990, the GLOUCESTER CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION ("BOARD OF EDUCATION") certified tenure charges on grounds of incompetency against teaching staff member, JOHN J. MADDEN; filed said charges with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education; and suspended Mr. Madden's employment without pay;

WHEREAS, on or about October 24, 1990, JOHN J. MADDEN filed an answer to the aforesaid tenure charges denying his incompetency to serve as a teaching staff member with the Board of Education;

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-6, the Commissioner of Education on or about November 8, 1990 transferred the controverted matter of the Board's tenure charges to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing;

WHEREAS, on or about January 11, 1991, John J. Madden and the Gloucester City Education Association (Association) filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission an unfair practice charge against the Board of Education alleging that the Board's filing of tenure charges against and suspension of John J. Madden was in reprisal for and was wrongly motivated by Mr. Madden's July 18, 1990 appeal to arbitration of the Board's prior withholding of his employment and adjustment increments;

WHEREAS, on or about February 11, 1990, the Board of Education answered the aforesaid unfair practice charges and denied any wrongful motivation for its filing of tenure charges against and suspension of John J. Madden;

WHEREAS, on or about March 14, 1991, the Public Employment Relations Commission found that the allegations of the aforesaid unfair practice charge, if true, would constitute violations of the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1, et seq. and issued a complaint and notice of hearing at Docket No. CO-H-91-172;

WHEREAS, John J. Madden has been enrolled in the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) since the commencement of his employment with the Board on or about September, 1967;

WHEREAS, the TPAF provides for ordinary retirement after the accrual of service credit in the amount of twenty-five (25) school years;

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, the Board of Education is authorized upon certification of tenure charges to suspend the person against whom the charge is made either with or without pay;

WHEREAS, the matter of the tenure charges filed by the Board against John J. Madden is now set for hearing before Administrative Law Judge Bruce R. Campbell (in September, 1992);

WHEREAS, the parties hereto have now agreed to amicably resolve their respective actions against one another, it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. The Board shall amend its suspension of John J. Madden issued on September 26, 1990 concurrent with its certification of tenure charges so as to provide and to take all action necessary in order that said suspension be a suspension with pay. The Board shall further make any and all contributions to the TPAF on Mr. Madden's behalf for the entire period of his suspension and shall file any and all adjustment and/or other forms or documents required by TPAF.

2. John J. Madden shall retire from employment with the Board of Education effective June 30, 1992 provided that, at that time, the TPAF has determined that he has the service credit necessary for ordinary retirement.

3. Upon TPAF's acceptance and approval of John J. Madden's application for ordinary retirement according to the terms set forth above, the parties will withdraw their respective actions as follows:

(a) The Board of Education shall withdraw with prejudice its tenure charges filed against John J. Madden and shall so advise the Commissioner of Education and/or the Administrative Law Judge assigned to hear the tenure charges.

(b) John J. Madden and the Association shall withdraw with prejudice their aforesaid unfair practice charges filed against the Board and will so advise the New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission.

(c) John J. Madden and the Association shall withdraw with prejudice their appeal to arbitration of the April 27, 1990 action of the Board withholding John J. Madden's adjustment and employment increments.

WHEREFORE, the parties hereto set their hands and seals on the dates indicated below.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN MADDEN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF GLOUCESTER CITY, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and initial decision in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

The Commissioner approves the settlement terms as they comport with the Cardonick standard for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. (In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983) The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. In light of respondent's retirement (see Letter of August 6, 1992) and the nature of the tenure charges, i.e., incompetency, the Commissioner perceives no need for the matter to be transferred to the State Board of Examiners.

Petitioning candidate appealed denial of Educational Services Certificate with Student Personnel Services endorsement. State Board of Examiners refused to issue certification based on lack of qualifications. Petitioner did not possess a standard New Jersey instructional, administrative or educational services certificate as required. Also, petitioner lacked one year of teaching experience.

ALJ found petitioners' ten years of counseling experience at various institutions of higher education in New York State could not be considered as meeting the teaching experience requirement as guidance functions in a public school with young pupils are different from guidance/counseling functions in an institution of higher education with adult students. ALJ further found that petitioner's objections to requirements themselves were inappropriately raised in the administrative forum. ALJ concluded State Board of Examiners acted properly in denying endorsement. (N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 91-4/91

ELLEN MORSE MILLER,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Ellen Morse Miller, petitioner, pro se

Arlene Goldfus Lutz, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Robert J. Del Tufo, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 10, 1992 Decided: August 12, 1992

BEFORE DANIEL B. McKEOWN, ALJ:

Ellen Morse Miller (petitioner) appeals a determination reached by the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) by which it denied her application for the endorsement of Student Personnel Services to an Educational Services Certificate. After the matter was transferred May 20, 1992 to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq., a hearing was finally conducted July 9, 1992, after two scheduled hearing dates were adjourned at petitioner's request, at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville. The record of the matter closed thereafter.

The conclusion is reached in this initial decision that petitioner failed to show that the decision of the Board regarding its refusal to issue her a Student Personnel Services endorsement based on the qualifications she presented was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

FACTS

Neither the facts, nor the applicable governing regulations regarding the issuance of teacher certificates and endorsements thereon by the Board, are in dispute between the parties and they are as follows.

A student personnel services endorsement is required of any person who is assigned in a New Jersey public school to perform services such as study and assessment of individual pupils with respect to their status, abilities, interests and needs; counseling with teachers, students, and parents regarding personal, social, educational, and vocational plans and programs; and, developing cooperative relationships with community agencies in assisting children and families. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11.

The same administrative rule requires that in order for an applicant to be issued such an endorsement, the applicant must possess and present evidence of having completed a bachelor's or higher degree; a standard New Jersey teacher's certificate, or college transcripts indicating completion of the professional course work required for such a certificate; one year of successful teaching experience; and, either a graduate curriculum approved by the New Jersey State Department of Education as the basis of issuing the endorsement, or 30 semester-hour credits of post-baccalaureate work in five specific areas.

Petitioner does not possess a standard New Jersey instructional, administrative, or educational services certificate as is required. Neither does petitioner possess one year of successful teaching experience at any level.

Nevertheless, another administrative regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.24, authorizes

> (a) Any applicant lacking required preparation may provide the State Board of Examiners with evidence of alternative education and/or experience ***

The Board then considers the alternative education and/or experience as submitted by an applicant to determine whether the requirements for a particular endorsement are met.

After having been advised by the Board that the absence of a standard New Jersey certificate and one year of successful teaching experience did not qualify her for the student personnel service endorsement, petitioner, under authority of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.24, submitted the following letter request with supporting documents to the Board on or about June 2, 1990.

> I am requesting an individual credentials review before the State Board of Examiners in order to obtain certification in the area of Student Personnel Services.
> It is my goal to be a high school guidance counselor, but in reviewing the requirements to become certified I believe I meet all of the requirements except the one year of successful teaching experience. I would like to present to the Board as a substitute for this experience, what I believe to be a substantial counseling background in both my educational and work experiences. It is my sincere hope that my request will be favorably considered based on the presentation of my background information.
>
> I am a graduate of the Bronx High School of Science, S.U.N.Y. at Albany and New York University. Extracurricular activities included being secretary of my high school senior class, treasurer of my college sorority, and a legislative intern to the New York State Assembly.
>
> I have been employed by Baruch College of the City of University of New York for over ten years in the Office of Curricular Guidance of the School Business and Public Administration. My responsibilities include advising students on: the courses they need to complete their degrees, the choice of a major, whether or not to go to graduate school, and a variety of other matters that may come up in the 45 minute counseling session.
> I am certified to teach English in New York City high schools, but I never pursued teaching as I have been employed by > Baruch in a position that affords me the opportunity to counsel and advise students.

> Once again, I would appreciate it if you review all the materials that I have enclosed and consider my experience as a substitute for the teaching requirement. Thank you.

Thereafter, petitioner was invited to address the Board at its meeting December 6, 1990 when it considered petitioner's application of alternative credentials. On January 17, 1991 the Board determined that because petitioner's experience is limited to counseling at the college level with no teaching experience at any level her alternative qualifications were not equivalent to the requirements for the issuance of a student personnel service endorsement. (R-1)

EVIDENCE AT HEARING

At hearing, Ms. Elizabeth Struther, a supervisor of examiners at the Bureau of teacher certification and who initially evaluated petitioner's application in 1989 for the student personnel service endorsement, advised petitioner of her need for specifically an instructional certificate and of the need for one year of full-time teaching experience. According to Ms. Struther, the difficulty with petitioner's application for the student personnel services endorsement is that petitioner has not been academically trained as a teacher and she has no experience as a teacher. Petitioner's academic training, it is noted, is in English, sociology, and counseling. While petitioner presently holds a license issued by the New York City Board of Education to serve as high school English teacher in the City schools, that license is not equivalent to a regular New Jersey instructional certificate because, according to Ms. Struther, the New Jersey Department of Education has no reciprocity agreement with the New York City Board of Education regarding certificates to teach in respective school districts.

Petitioner emphasized at hearing her desire to perform the duties authorized in New Jersey by the student personnel service endorsement, together with her over ten years of counseling experience at various institutions of higher education located in New York State. Petitioner cannot understand why with her counseling experience at the college level she is not being considered qualified to be issued the endorsement in order to perform a similar function at a New Jersey Public School. Moreover, petitioner has no desire to be a classroom teacher for one year in order to meet the one year of full-time teaching experience requirement. When it was pointed out to petitioner during the hearing that the administrative regulations requiring the issuance of the endorsement in terms of an instructional certificate and one year full-time teaching experience appear on their face to be reasonable and whether petitioner had any evidence beyond that which was already submitted, petitioner suggested that this judge had already predetermined the case prior to hearing it. However, it was pointed out to petitioner that while I did not prejudge this dispute prior to the commencement of hearing, one of my functions is to be persuaded by the evidence heard at the time of hearing. Furthermore, it was pointed out to petitioner that if one presumes to perform the duties authorized by a student personnel service endorsement and as set forth above then it appears reasonable, absent evidence to the contrary, that eligibility and/or actual possession of an instructional certificate and teaching experience, are necessary. Guidance functions in a public school are different than guidance/counseling functions at an institution of higher education. The former requires work with pupils who have not reached adulthood; the latter requires work with adult students capable of reaching independent decisions.

CONCLUSION

The State Board of Examiners is authorized to issue appropriate certificates to teach or to direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of pupils in public schools operated by boards of education under rules promulgated by the State Board of Education upon recommendation of the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38; N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.2. In this case, the rules for the issuance of student personnel services endorsement are stated at N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11. The rules are clear and, on their face, reasonably related to the goal of insuring individuals who carry out the functions authorized by the endorsement are properly trained and have demonstrated an acceptable capacity to be an elementary or secondary teacher. The rules are not overbroad, nor are they vague. In fact, the State Board of Education provided at N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.24 an alternative way for applicants to be issued the student personnel services endorsement by presenting alternative education and/or experience that would be substantially similar to what is contained within the authorizing rule.

In this case, petitioner is not in possession of a standard New Jersey certificate nor does she possess one year of successful teaching experience. While her desire to perform the duties as are authorized by the sought after endorsement is real, it remains that the State Board of Education, the Commissioner, as well as the State Board of Examiners must insure that only individuals who are properly qualified to perform specific functions and duties in our public schools do so.

One other matter remains. Ms. Struther testified at hearing that substitute teaching may not be used in the place of the required one year successful teaching experience. Petitioner asserted that the conclusion she would draw from that position is if the regular teacher assigned to her child's classroom is absent from school one day, then a substitute teacher is nothing more than a wasted school day for her child. Nothing could be further from the truth. A substitute teacher is to carry out the planned activities for a particular day when the regularly assigned teacher is absent. Those planned activities are easily ascertainable in the regular teacher's plan book or in emergency substitute plans.

Having found no evidence to show the State Board of Examiners acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner or somehow in violation of rule or law, the Petition of Appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." R-1 State Board of Examiners decision

ELLEN MORSE MILLER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were replies thereto by the Board.

In her exceptions, petitioner objects to the manner in which the ALJ presented her testimony in his initial decision, alleging that certain statements are mischaracterized or taken out of context, while others are omitted. Specifically, she mentions arguments to the effect that, given the problems of today's students, teachers should be required to take counseling courses and that it is inherently unfair for there to be an alternative route for teachers but not for counselors. In reply, the Board notes that it acted fully in accord with State Board of Education regulations which reflect educational policy decisions on teacher training and are not subject to facial challenge in this forum.

Upon review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has not met requirements for certification and that the Board of Examiners did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in denying her application. He further finds that petitioner's objections to the characterization of her testimony cannot be addressed in the absence of a hearing transcript and that, even if true, they would have no bearing on the outcome of this case. As properly observed by the Board above, petitioner's substantive objections reach to the efficacy of the controlling regulations themselves and not to the Board's application of them; petitioner must therefore abide by those regulations or seek their modification through action of the State Board of Education or challenge in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons well expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 28, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Ellen Morse Miller, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Arlene G. Lutz, Deputy Attorney General (Robert J. Del Tufo, Attorney General)

Ellen Morse Miller (hereinafter "Appellant) filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education on October 28, 1992 from a decision of the Commissioner of Education denying the issuance of an Educational Services Certificate with Student Personnel Services endorsement due to lack of qualifications and experience.

Appellant was informed by letter dated October 30, 1992 that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1.6, her notice of appeal must be served upon the Commissioner of Education. In response, Appellant filed proof of service on November 12, 1992. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.11(a), Appellant's appeal brief was due on November 17, 1992. Appellant, however, failed to file her brief by November 17. By letter dated November 18, she was notified of her failure to file a brief in support of her appeal, and advised that this matter was being referred to our Legal Committee for consideration of her failure to perfect the appeal. The Appellant has still failed to file an appeal brief. Nor has she at any time requested an extension of time for her filing or provided any explanation for the delay.

Thus, while we are mindful of Appellant's status as a pro se litigant, inasmuch as she has failed to file a brief in support of her appeal or to otherwise respond to the notice to her, nor has she provided a telephone number whereby we may contact her, the State Board of Education dismisses the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioner, former second grade teacher, appealed Board's action withholding her increment and salary adjustment for the 1991-92 school year. Petitioner alleged, among other things, that the Board's action to withhold was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The Board contended, among other things, that its actions with regard to petitioner were proper and in accordance with the law.

Initial decision found that petitioner had been transferred to a higher grade (4) as a reading teacher allegedly because of difficulty relating to younger children, but thereafter experienced difficulty with classroom management. ALJ found that 15 classroom observations conducted of petitioner during 1990-91 school year showed some improvement but not enough to result in restoration of increment. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and conclusions in initial decision noting his acceptance of the principal's testimony, as well as that of Ms. Schaeder (teacher advisor/teacher support person), but also finding that even without her testimony, observation reports provided sufficient basis for withholding.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Roslyn Brickman Gnatt, appeals from an action by the Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District (Board) to withhold her increment and salary adjustment for the 1991-92 school year. Petitioner alleges, among other things, that the Board's action to withhold her 1991-

92 increment and salary adjustment was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The Board contends, among other things, that its actions with regard to petitioner were proper and in accordance with the law. The Board request that the Petition of Appeal be dismissed.

The instant matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 4, 1991, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. ; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. ; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. A prehearing conference was held on January 6, 1992. The plenary hearing was held on June 23, 24 and 25, 1992, at the Monmouth Hall of Records, Freehold, New Jersey. The hearing record was closed on June 25, 1992.

BURDEN OF PROOF

Petitioner carries the burden to affirmatively demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's action to withhold her increment and salary adjustment for the 1991-92 school year was arbitrary, capricious and/or unreasonable.

BACKGROUND FACTS

Petitioner has been employed by the Board for 23 years. During the 1984-85 school year petitioner taught second grade under the supervision of Ruth Jackson, Principal of the Taylor Mills School.

In or about January 1985, petitioner's husband suddenly became critically ill. Petitioner's husband was hospitalized and, at some point in time, was transferred to the Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer, New York City. Rather than take a leave of absence, petitioner used sick leave and personal leave days to attend to her husband. Petitioner visited her husband every day until his death on June 17, 1985. Petitioner was absent from school intermittently during the period of January through June, 1985.

Petitioner continued to teach at the Taylor Mills School for the subsequent years following her husband's death through the 1988-89 school year. At the conclusion of the 1988-89 school year Principal Jacobson recommended that petitioner be transferred from the second grade to a higher grade level because, in Jacobson's considered opinion, among other things, petitioner was having difficulty relating to seven and eight year old children (R-1).

Petitioner was transferred to the Milford Brook School and assigned to teach the fourth grade beginning September 1989. Petitioner appeared for her assignment on the first day of school but did not appear thereafter. Subsequent to exhausting her sick leave petitioner applied for, and was granted, a health leave of absence. Although the Board and its agents were uncertain as to when petitioner would return for duty, she remained on the health leave of absence for the remainder of the 1989-90 school year.

Petitioner was under medical and psychiatric care beginning in the Summer of 1989 and continuing for four months thereafter. Petitioner was in counseling for grieving. As a consequence, petitioner did not believe she could effectively teach for the 1989-90 school year. She also felt the need to take care of unspecified personal matters during the 1989-90 school year.

During the Summer of 1990, petitioner contacted Harriet Bernstein, Assistant Superintendent of Personnel, to request that petitioner be assigned to a reading teacher position available at the Board's Pine Brook School for the 1990-91 school year. Petitioner was interviewed and accepted for the position as teacher of reading in the Board's Development Reading Program commencing September 1990.

This concludes a recital of the background facts which are hereby adopted, by reference as FINDINGS OF FACT.

TESTIMONIAL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

Ruth Jacobson, Principal of the Taylor Mills School, testified, among other things, that she had supervised petitioner from the 1984-85 school year through the 1988-89 school year. Principal Jacobson asserted she recommended that petitioner be assigned from her then second grade to a higher grade level because petitioner was having difficulty relating to seven and eight year old children. Petitioner exhibited a lack of warmth toward the pupils in her second grade class and Jacobson was in receipt of negative feedback from parents whose children were assigned to petitioner's classroom. Parents requested of Jacobson that their children not be assigned to petitioner's classroom. Ms. Jacobson had to remove two pupils from petitioner's class due to conflicts between petitioner and the pupils. All of these observations are a part of Jacobson's evaluation of petitioner; which were discussed with petitioner as a part of petitioner's Annual Performance Review (R-1).

In addition to Principal Jacobson's recommendation that petitioner be assigned to a higher grade level, Jacobson also recommended that petitioner be assigned a teacher advocate for the 1989-90 school year to aid and help petitioner get established on the new grade level and to assist petitioner in areas where she had demonstrated weaknesses; i.e., motivation, communication, and continued development of teaching skills (R-1).

On cross examination, Jacobson testified that she noticed a decline in petitioner's performance during the 1986-87 school year following the death of petitioner's husband. Petitioner became lax with regard to classroom rules and demonstrated a lack of warmth toward pupils in her classroom. Ms. Jacobson had to remove two pupils from petitioner's classroom. One of the pupils Jacobson removed had become antagonistic towards petitioner. Subsequent to the removal of these two pupils, petitioner was able to maintain control over the class.

Principal Jacobson discussed petitioner's shortcomings with petitioner in an attempt to help petitioner improve her performance. Ms. Jacobson conducted a number of formal and informal observations of petitioner's classroom activities including the two annual required formal observations and evaluations. Ms. Jacobson conferred with petitioner following each of the observations in an attempt to help petitioner improve her performance. Jacobson also discussed with petitioner the Board's Employee Assistance Program where it provides psychological counseling to staff members upon request. Petitioner did not wish to discuss the Employee Assistance Program with Jacobson.

Harriet Bernstein, Assistant Superintendent of Personnel for the Board, testified that petitioner was transferred to teach the fourth grade at the Milford Brook School, commencing in September 1989. Ms. Bernstein asserted that petitioner arrived at the Milford Brook School for the first day of her assignment, however, petitioner did not appear thereafter. Subsequent to petitioner having exhausted her sick leave, petitioner applied for and was granted a health leave of absence. The Board was not certain when petitioner intended to return to her assigned duties. Petitioner did not return to duty for the entire 1989-90 school year.

During the Summer months of 1990, petitioner contacted Ms. Bernstein to request that petitioner be assigned to a reading teacher position for the 1990 school year. Petitioner interviewed for the reading teacher position and appeared to be enthusiastic about the assignment. Petitioner was the successful candidate for the position. Ms. Bernstein assigned Catherine Scheader, Supervisor of Reading, Language Arts, Library and Basic Skills, as petitioner's Teacher Advocate, commencing September 1990.

A Teacher Advocate is a program to aid and help teachers in transition from one teaching position to another involving a different assignment. The Teacher Advocate may conduct informal observation of the assigned teacher's classroom behavior and performance, assist with lesson plans, provide teaching materials for specific classroom projects, confer with the teacher about observed or perceived problems, goals and objectives; among other things. The Teacher Advocate's observations or assistance is not to be included in any formal evaluation of the teacher staff member observed and assisted by the Teacher Advocate.

Assistant Superintendent Bernstein became aware early in October 1990, that petitioner was having difficulty with classroom management in her new assignment. On or about October 17, 1990, Ms. Bernstein met with petitioner's Teacher Advocate and other school administrators to discuss petitioner's problems and methods to solve her classroom management problems. It was determined that petitioner should be removed from the Teacher Advocate Plan and placed on the Board's Teacher Support Plan; a more structured performance plan with specific written goals and objectives for teaching skills improvement. Ms. Bernstein assigned Ms. Scheader to work with petitioner under the Teacher Support Plan. Under the Teacher Support Plan, petitioner was subject to classroom observations and follow-up conferences by school administrators as well as Ms. Scheader.

Ms. Bernstein testified she did not ordinarily conduct classroom observations of teachers, however, she observed petitioner on December 4, 1990. Ms. Bernstein testified she observed that it took ten minutes for petitioner to distribute the teaching materials to begin the lesson; that most of the pupils were off-task; petitioner spent an inordinate amount of time dealing with discourteous and disruptive pupils; that there was a lack of mutual respect for teacher-pupil, pupil-teacher; and, that there was a lack of teacher motivation for learning.

Ms. Bernstein reviewed observations and evaluations of petitioner's performance conducted by other administrators and concluded that learning was not taking place in petitioner's classrooms. Ms. Bernstein discussed petitioner's performance with the Superintendent and other school administrators and it was determined that tenure charges were to be brought against petitioner to the Board, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, alleging inefficiency.

The Board considered the charge of petitioner's alleged inefficiency in executive session on January 8, 1991. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, petitioner was provided 90 days in which to correct and overcome the inefficiency. Petitioner was advised in advance of the Board's action of the specific charges against her. On January 9, 1991, the Board Secretary/Business Administrator provided petitioner with a copy of the written charges and the written statement of evidence in support of the charges together with the 90 day notice.

On January 17, 1991, Robert D. Hagler, Principal of Pine Brook School, submitted a 14 point Improvement of Performance Plan to petitioner. In addition, the principal transferred three additional pupils out of one of her classroom sections. The Improvement of Performance Plan provided, among other things, that petitioner's classroom to be observed weekly on an informal and formal basis to provide petitioner with feedback. Ms. Scheader was to continue with the Teacher Support Plan with petitioner.

Ms. Bernstein testified that on April 17, 1991, the Teacher Support Team of Mr. Hagler and Ms. Scheader submitted its interim evaluation of petitioner where the Support Team Members found that petitioner had achieved moderate success in meeting the established goals. Petitioner's handling of pupil discipline was still a major concern of the Support Team, notwithstanding that several disruptive pupils had been transferred out of petitioner's classrooms. It was determined to continue the Teacher Support Plan because petitioner was still not meeting the school district's standards for classroom management and pupil discipline.

Ms. Bernstein asserted that Principal Hagler submitted a memorandum to Superintendent Joseph Scozzari, dated May 6, 1991, wherein Hagler documented 15 classroom observations of petitioner together with an assessment of petitioner's performance with regard to the 14 point Improvement of Performance Plan dated January 17, 1991. Principal Hagler found some improvement in petitioner's performance. However, petitioner did not meet the school district's standards for classroom management, pupil motivation, and pupil-teacher relationships, among other areas. Hagler recommended that petitioner be offered a 1991-92 contract because there was potential for improvement. However, Hagler aLso recommended that petitioner be denied her salary and adjustment increment for the 1991-92 school year due to her inability to deliver an acceptable program for the entire 1990-91 school year.

Subsequently, on May 14, 1991, the Board determined that it would not file tenure charges against petitioner but, rather, it took official action to permanently deny petitioner's increment for the 1991-92 school year when it unanimously adopted the following resolution:

> WHEREAS, the Board has reviewed the employment file of Roslyn Gnatt, a tenured teacher of the District; and
> WHEREAS, the Board has determined to permanently deny Roslyn Gnatt her increment for the 1991/92 school year for the following reasons:
> 1. Lack of consistent application of classroom management techniques.
> 2. Ineffective implementation of lesson plans.
> 3. Unable to effectively motivate and sustain students' interest.
> 4. Inability to develop an atmosphere where there isa display of positive regard and a sense of community which are conducive to learning.

Melvin C. Reid, Assistant Principal of the Pine Brook School, testified, among other things, that he had observed petitioner's classroom performance during the 1990-91 school year and asserted that it was the worse pupil classroom behavior he had ever observed. Assistant Principal Reid was in charge of the Pinewood School pupil discipline and asserted that petitioner had made 45 pupil referrals to his office between the period of September to November 29, 1991. This was the highest incident of pupil referrals for discipline in the school. The next highest was 25 referrals by one teaching staff member, while the remainder of the referrals were in the single numbers.

Mr. Reid observed petitioner on October 9, 1990, November 27, 1990 and February 20, 1991. Reid asserted he had never observed pupils so unmotivated or a teacher so unprepared. Following the February 20, 1991 observation, Reid conducted a conference with petitioner, however, petitioner could not recall the lesson Reid observed. Reid testified he was unable to engage petitioner in a dialog about his observation. Rather, Reid was only able to report to petitioner what he observed. Petitioner was passive and did not engage in any discussion of Reid's observation and evaluation.

Thomas William McNearney, Assistant Principal at Pine Brook School, testified, among other things, that he also observed petitioner during the 1990-91 school year and that petitioner did not perform up to the standards of excellence required by the Board. He asserted that quite a few of the pupils assigned to petitioner's classrooms expressed concerns about petitioner's discipline methods. In addition, between eight and ten parents telephoned McNearney to complain about petitioner's classroom performance and methods. Subsequent to the parent telephone calls to McNearney, McNearney spoke with petitioner about the complaints and arranged for petitioner to hold conferences with the parents. McNearney asserted that the parent complaints commenced in December 1990 and continued through January, February and March 1991.

Mr. McNearney testified that he participated in one of the parent-teacher conferences with petitioner. McNearney acted as a mediator between the parent and petitioner. At the conclusion of the meeting the parent insisted that his/her child be removed from petitioner's classroom. McNearney did not remove this pupil from petitioner's classroom. However, during the course of the school year, it was necessary for McNearney to removed between eight and ten pupils from petitioner's classes.

Assistant Principal McNearney asserted he first observed petitioner on October 21, 1990, with an informal observation on January 16, 1991 and a follow-up on January 30, 1991. He expressed his concerns about petitioner's deficiencies he observed in his first observation on October 21, 1990, and continued in January 1991. In a subsequent observation held on February 12, 1991, McNearney observed a more successful lesson performed by petitioner. However, he observed and noted that the classroom time was not well spent. He observed that petitioner spent an inordinate amount of time talking about the homework assignment and that she threaten to lower the pupil's grade if the homework was not presented on time. McNearney noted that petitioner was still deficient in classroom management and in her relationship with pupils.

Mr. McNearney asserted he met with petitioner after each classroom observation to discuss his observations and offer suggestions for petitioner's improvement. He asserted that petitioner offered excuses for her poor performance and objected to his criticism rather than accept responsibility for the conduct in her classroom.

Catherine Scheader, Supervisor of Reading, Language Arts, Library and Basic Skills, testified she observed petitioner on a regular basis during the 1990-91 school year as petitioner's teacher advocate and supervisor. Ms. Scheader continued to observed petitioner formally and informally after the Teacher Support Plan was initiated on or about October 17, 1990. The observed needs for petitioner's improvement included, among other things; lessen design, rapport with the pupils in her classrooms, effective use of time and planning, and the general conduct of the specific lessons.

Ms. Scheader testified she observed petitioner on October 17, 1990 where the classroom was completely out of order. Subsequently, on October 20, 1990, Ms. Scheader observed a lesson by petitioner where there was confusion among the pupils about petitioner's directions. It seems that petitioner devoted an inordinate amount of time explaining an assignment to the pupils which they had already completed. In the conference which followed these observations, Scheader recommended to petitioner that petitioner's lesson planning must be very specific. Ms. Scheader suggested to petitioner that petitioner write a script of her lesson plan and follow the script in teaching her classes.

Ms. Scheader observed petitioner during the months of January, February and March 1991, under the Teacher Support Plan. Ms. Scheader maintained a Teacher Support Log of her observation and conferences with petitioner (R-21). In addition, Ms. Scheader arrange for petitioner to observe three reading classes conducted by a fellow teaching staff member. These teacher observations were followed by a conference where petitioner and Ms. Scheader discussed what they each had observed and how those positive elements of the observed lessons could be adopted and incorporated into petitioner's program.

Ms. Scheader asserted she continued to observe deficiencies in petitioner's classroom performance. Those deficiencies involved petitioner's planning, motivation of the pupils and discipline. With regard to discipline in the classroom, Scheader testified she observed 41 incidents of disciplinary behavior by pupils in one 48 minute class period.

Ms. Scheader provided petitioner with the publication, Foundations of Reading, known as the reading reachers "Bible," and a series of articles published in the Journal of Reading by noteworthy authors to aid petitioner in improving her teaching performance. In addition, Ms. Scheader conducted seven meetings for Reading Teachers during the 1990-91 school year where topics such as testing, teaching techniques and other timely subjects were discussed.

Ms. Scheader testified that petitioner had made some improvement in her teaching performance. However, pupil discipline problems continued to be a major deficiency and continued well into the Spring of 1991. Scheader had observed other reading teachers performance and had never witnessed such lack of control as she observed in petitioner's classrooms. Ms. Scheader testified that even in the months of April and May 1991, after several disruptive pupils had been removed, petitioner could not control the pupils in her classrooms. Ms. Scheader opined that petitioner's lack of pupil control was due to the lack of rapport between petitioner and the pupils in her classes.

Petitioner contends that when she was assigned as a Reading Teacher at the Pine Brook School commencing in September 1990, she was assigned to teach seventh and eighth grade pupils. When she arrived at Pine Brook prior to the opening of the school year, petitioner located the textbooks in the classroom, however, there were no information about the reading curriculum provided nor was there a class list of pupils assigned to her various classes. Petitioner was assigned five classes or five periods daily. Her largest class consisted of 23 pupils while her smallest class contained only six pupils.

Petitioner asserts that discipline at the Pine Brook School was a major problem as evidenced by the Disciplinary Survey conducted by the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) (P-2). Petitioner also contends she had an inordinate number of classified pupils assigned to her classes by the Board's Child Study Team for the purpose of mainstreaming. Petitioner maintains that when she sent a pupil to the Principal or one of the Assistant Principals for disciplinary action, nothing was done to punish the pupil As a consequence, the pupil returned to petitioner's classroom gloating that nothing had happened to him or her.

Petitioner testified about a memorandum she received from Assistant Principal Reid subsequent to petitioner having referred two girls to Reid for disciplinary action. Petitioner asserted that the two pupils had left her classroom without permission and, therefore, she sent them to the principal's office. Petitioner opined that it was not unusual for eighth grade pupils to be defiant and insubordinate. However, Assistant Principal Reid followed this with a memorandum in which he asserted that the two girls alleged that petitioner had called them both "stupid." In a subsequent meeting, petitioner denied the allegations. Assistant Principal Reid followed up by interviewing 19 other pupils in petitioner's classrooms and quoted four of the other pupils as alleging that petitioner had, indeed, called them and others "stupid" (P-5).

As a consequence of these allegations, a letter of reprimand was placed in petitioner's personnel file. Subsequent to grievance filed by petitioner, the letter of reprimand was removed from petitioner's personnel file.

Petitioner invited the Pine Brook School Principal to her classroom to help her establish a pupil discipline program and show his support for petitioner. Petitioner testified that the principal visited her classroom on December 16 and 17, 1990. On the first day the principal observed petitioner's classroom performance but said nothing to the pupils. On the second day, the principal made no remarks to petitioner. However, the principal wrote an evaluation of his observation of petitioner where he cited petitioner's strengths and weaknesses. In his evaluation the principal stated it was the teacher's responsibility to establish discipline in the classroom.

Petitioner testified as to the change in roles of Ms. Scheader from Teacher Advocate to the Teacher Support Plan. It was petitioner's understanding that under the Teacher Advocate Program, Ms. Scheader's notes of observations were not to be used in evaluating petitioner's performance but, rather, such information was to be used to facilitate and aid petitioner to improve her performance. However, when Scheader's role changed from Teacher Advocate to Teacher Support in October 1990, petitioner testified that Scheader's past informal observations were used as a basis to criticized petitioner's past performance. As a consequence, petitioner filed and prevailed in a grievance to have Ms. Scheader's Teacher Advocate notes expunged from petitioner's formal observations and evaluations.

Petitioner admits that beginning in September 1990 and continuing throughout the 1990-91 school she was observed and evaluated by Principal Hagler, Assistant Principals McNearney and Reid, Supervisor Scheader and Assistant Superintendent Bernstein. Following each observation petitioner met with the observer to discuss differences in perception of the observation and evaluation of petitioner's performance. While there were some positive comments, petitioner concedes that the observations were generally negative in nature.

Petitioner also admits that the Superintendent received a variety of complaints from parents who did not want their children assigned to petitioner's classroom the subsequent school year. Petitioner was scheduled to teach the fourth grade commencing in September 1991 for the 1991-92 school year. In a meeting held in July 1991 with the Superintendent, a Teacher's Association representative and petitioner; the Superintendent had a file with 14 letters from parents who did not want their children assigned to petitioner's fourth grade classroom. The Superintendent also advised petitioner that parents had attended a meeting of the Board to express complaints about petitioner's performance. Petitioner testified that the letters from the concerned parents indicated that petitioner abused children, that she called her pupils stupid, that she would not allow pupils to go to the bathroom when necessary, among other things. Petitioner denied the allegations.

Petitioner conceded that it was the classroom teacher's responsibility to establish discipline and control over the pupils under her charge. She admitted that the school administrators removed certain pupils from her classroom during the 1990-91 school year in order to improve the classroom climate. Petitioner continued to assert she received no support from the school administration with respect to the disciplinary problems extant in her classroom.

It was at the meeting in July 1991, where the Superintendent encouraged petitioner to retire. Petitioner refused.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having reviewed and considered the testimony and other evidence proffered at the hearing, and having assessed the demeanor and credibility of the witnesses, and having given fair weight thereto, I FIND the following FACTS in this matter:

1. Petitioner is a veteran teacher with 23 years experience.

2. Petitioner volunteered for and was assigned to a position of reading teacher for the 1990-91 school year upon her return from a voluntary health leave of absence for the 1989-90 school year.

3. Due to a change in assignment from the fourth grade to reading teacher, petitioner was assigned a teacher advocate to aid her in making the teaching transition beginning in September 1990.

4. The Teacher Advocate, Catherine Scheader, conducted informal observations of petitioner's teaching performance and counseled with petitioner concerning teaching methods and techniques. The Board's Teacher Advocate program is an aid to a teacher new to a grade level or instructional program, which is advisory and non-threatening in nature.

5. In early October 1990, Assistant Superintendent Harriet Bernstein became aware that petitioner was having difficulty with classroom management.

6. On October 17, 1990, the petitioner was removed from the Teacher Advocate program and placed on the Board's Teacher Support Plan. The Teacher Support Plan is more formal and structured with specific written goals and objectives to be met for petitioner's improvement in performance. Supervisor Scheader was assigned as petitioner's Teacher Support Plan consultant.

7. During the period October 17, 1990 through January 8, 1991, petitioner's classroom was observed by Ms. Bernstein, Assistant Principals Melvin Reid and Thomas McNearney, Principal Robert Hagler and Supervisor Scheader.

8. On January 8, 1991, the Board took action, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and charged petitioner with inefficiency. Such a charge requires a period of 90 days in which petitioner may correct the alleged inefficiencies prior to the Board certifying the charge to the Commissioner.

9. On April 17, 1991, an interim evaluation of petitioner by the Support Team members demonstrated that petitioner had achieved a moderate success in meeting the established goals, however, petitioner's classroom management and her handling of pupil discipline remained a major concern and a goal not met.

10. On or about May 6, 1991, Principal Hagler submitted a written memorandum to Superintendent Joseph Scozzari which reported 15 classroom observations of petitioner together with an assessment of her performance with regard to the 14 point Improvement Performance Plan dated January 17, 1991. Principal Hagler found some improvement. However, he also found petitioner did not meet the school district's standards for classroom management, pupil motivation or improvement in her pupil-teacher relationship, among other things.

11. On May 14, 1991, the Board determined it would not certify tenure charges to the Commissioner against petitioner.

12. On May 14, 1991, the Board took action, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, to permanently deny and withhold petitioner's employment increment and/or adjustment increment for the 1991-92 school year.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The controlling statute in this matter is found at N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, which provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

> Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full member ship of the board of education.

The Appellate bench of our Superior Court established the standard of the Commissioner's review of a local board of education's action pursuant to statute in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960) where it said:

> "▪▪▪▪▪the scope of the Commissioner's review is ▪▪▪not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had reasonable basis for their conclusions."

In Kopera, the Court held that there are only two determinations to be made when reviewing a board's determination to withhold a teaching staff member's employment increment; i.e., (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluations claimed, and (2) whether it was unreasonable for them to conclude as they did based upon those facts. The burden of proving unreasonableness lies with petitioner.

The facts in the instant matter clearly demonstrate that petitioner had, among other things, difficulty with classroom management which interfered with the teaching-learning process. The evidence shows that, even after the school's administration removed certain pupils from petitioner's classrooms, petitioner had a measure of difficulty in controlling pupil behavior. There was, as pointed out in her evaluations, a lack of mutual respect exhibited between pupil-teacher and teacher-pupil. The overall assessment of petitioner's performance for the 1990-91 school year demonstrates that petitioner did not meet the expectations or standards of excellence required by the Board in her assignment as reading teacher for the 1990-91 school year.

Our Supreme Court addressed the purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, in the matter of Bernards Township Board of Education v. Bernards Township Education Association. 79 N.J. 311 (1979), where it stated, among other things, that:

> [t]he decision to withhold an increment ....is ...dependent upon an evaluation of the quality of the service in which the teacher has rendered ... The purpose of the statute is thus to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance. In determining whether to withhold a salary increment, a local board is therefore making a judgment concerning the quality of the educational system. It is reasonable to assume that an adversely affected teacher will strive to eliminate the causes or bases of "inefficiency." The decision to withhold an increment is therefore a manner of essential managerial prerogative which has been delegated by the Legislature to the board [of education] .... [citations omitted]. (at p. 321). (emphasis supplied)

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that a comprehensive review of the herein record demonstrates that the Board had a reasonable basis for its action to withhold petitioner's employment and/or adjustment increment for the 1991-92 school year.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's action was unreasonable, arbitrary and/or capricious. Kopera, supra. See also, Melinda Shafran v. Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, 1984, S.L.D. 969.

I CONCLUDE that under the facts and circumstances of this matter, the Board's action must be SUSTAINED. Bernard's Township, supra.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the action by the Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District to permanently withhold the employment increment and/or adjustment increment of Roslyn Brickman Gnatt for the 1991-92 school year is hereby AFFIRMED AND SUSTAINED.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that the Petition of Appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ROSLYN BRICKMAN GNATT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANALAPAN-ENGLISHTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions and the Board filed timely reply exceptions thereto pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's Exception No. One claims the ALJ allowed inadmissible testimony and documents to be entered into evidence, which tainted the record and prejudiced petitioner's case. She reasserts that argument raised at hearing that the evidence must be confined to the events that led to her alleged unsatisfactory performance for the year in which her increment was withheld, that is the 1990-91 school year, and that all other evidence should have been determined as being irrelevant to the controversy. Petitioner contends that the testimony and evidence related to her evaluation prepared by the principal, Ms. Ruth Jacobson, should not have been permitted because the witness' testimony was outside the scope of the 1990-91 school year in question. She further argues such evidence presented by Ms. Jacobson as to years earlier than the 1990-91 school year prejudiced petitioner's case and the proper issues to be decided, that is, the events of the 1990-91 school year. She claims none of Ms. Jacobson's testimony concerned any of the specific incidents or charges alleged by the Board as reasons for its action against her. She would also have stricken from the record inclusion of R-1 in evidence, petitioner's 1988-89 Annual Performance Report (APR) alleging it is irrelevant to the instant withholding.

Petitioner contends that even if Ms. Jacobson's testimony were relevant, the consideration it received should have been greatly reduced, since her testimony related to events prior to the timeframe in question. She cites Trautwein v. Bound Brook Bd. of Ed., 1979 S.L.D. 876, rev'd on other grounds by Appellate Division 1980 S.L.D. 1539, cert. denied 84 N.J. 469 (1980). Petitioner further objects to Ms. Jacobson's testimony because she was not listed as a potential witness, and therefore her appearance at hearing constituted an unjust surprise because petitioner was unable to prepare a rebuttal to the testimony offered.

Exception No. Two avers the dual rule of Catherine Schaeder as both a teacher advocate and teacher support person created an unjustifiable conflict in her observation of petitioner's performance and, therefore, the testimonial and documentary evidence with regard to her observation of the petition should not have been admitted. Petitioner submits Ms. Schaeder's sharing first the role of advocate, which was solely for the benefit of petitioner, with her role after October 17, 1991 as a teacher support person, which was adversarial in that Ms. Schaeder could share her thoughts with the administration concerning petitioner's alleged shortcomings, produced confusion and was improper. Petitioner argues that Ms. Schaeder's role as advocate negatively colored her perception of petitioner and information gathered during her tenure as petitioner's advocate was improperly used to bolster the Board's allegations against her.

Further, petitioner asserts that Ms. Schaeder offered no evidence that she has the proper credentials to evaluate her performance pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.12(h) [N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.21(h)]. Petitioner contends Ms. Schaeder does not hold the proper certificate nor has she been designated by the Board to supervise instruction. She claims that the ALJ allowed Ms. Schaeder to testify about her teaching performance, and refers to her testimony in the initial decision. Petitioner finds such testimony improper and that Ms. Schaeder lacks the requisite credentials to offer such evaluations pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.12(h) [N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.21(h)]. Petitioner would have such testimony disregarded.

In sum, petitioner submits that the ALJ committed reversible error by admitting tainted and improper evidence at the hearing. She seeks reversal of the initial decision and seeks an order directing a new hearing.

The Board's reply exceptions regarding the testimony of Ms. Jacobson note that the ALJ's ruling was absolutely correct insofar as petitioner herself, during her initial testimony, spoke of the history of her teaching and the impact that her husband's illness had on her teaching. The Board notes the ALJ's inclusion of such information at pages 2-3 of the initial decision, citing R-1 in evidence. Thus, the Board contends that petitioner herself provided grounds to have Ms. Jacobson testify and provide background information, which, the Board avers, explained petitioner's historical problem and her alleged inability to perform.

The Board also contends that R-1 was pertinent and of no surprise at all to petitioner in that reference to and discussion of it was made a part of the documentation which was presented by the Board in its filing of charges of inefficiency on January 8, 1991. The Board claims such APR was attached to those charges, and was referred to in writing in the written charges. Thus, petitioner cannot argue surprise, the Board contends, in that she was well aware of and, in fact, received the APR as part of discovery well before the hearing began. However, even if petitioner had been unaware before hearing that Ms. Jacobson was going to testify, there was no prejudice because of petitioner's prior knowledge of the APR and due to her ability to cross-examine the witness and to present any other witnesses she chose. The Board notes that petitioner's only witness was herself.

The Board contends that petitioner's reliance on Trautwein, supra, is misplaced in that the State Board decision in that matter supports the Board's position that past history is acceptable in a matter such as this one. It cites a decision mentioned in Trautwein, In the Matter of Joseph A. Maratea, 1966 S.L.D. 77, aff'd State Board 106, aff'd Appellate Division 1967 S.L.D. 351 for the statement that "past conduct over a reasonably relevant period of time may properly be considered by a board of education in determining whether or not a teacher's increment should be withheld." (Trautwein, 1979 S.L.D. at 877) (Reply Exceptions, at

p. 3) The Board contends there can be no question of relevancy that petitioner's activity based on her own admission greatly changed at the time of her husband's sickness and that it continued thereafter. It further claims that the denial of increment occurred within a reasonably relevant time to the behavior changes noted. Thus, the Board submits, any testimony by the principal, including regarding the annual performance report, is proper and necessary for consideration.

As to the testimony of Ms. Schaeder, the Board avers she is a highly qualified reading supervisor, qualified by the ALJ, and strictly testified within her expertise. The Board contends Ms. Schaeder is the district's most academically qualified staff member in the area of reading, that she does hold appropriate certification as supervisor, and for 8 years has been preparing formal evaluations of teachers. Because petitioner was a reading teacher, the Board submits Ms. Schaeder's testimony is relevant in regard to her observations of petitioner during the 1990-91 school year. It cites the initial decision with accord at pages 9 and 10 in this regard.

As to Ms. Schaeder's purported change in roles, the Board contends petitioner was notified by Principal Robert D. Hagler of the change, which the Board supports by quoting petitioner's counsel's brief wherein it is stated "[o]n or about October 17, 1991, Ms. Schaeder's role changed from that of Teacher Advocate to that of Teacher Support Person." (Reply Exceptions, at p. 4) The Board also claims that petitioner's argument that no procedural guidelines were produced at the hearing also has no basis in fact and is contrary to the evidence. It avers that not only was this issue discussed by Ms. Schaeder, but also by petitioner. It notes the procedural guidelines were marked into evidence as part of R-9. Thus, the Board submits, petitioner had full knowledge of Ms. Schaeder's role as a supervisor and the ALJ properly permitted the supervisor of reading to testify on those observations in conformance with guidelines.

The Board seeks affirmance of the initial decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, which it is noted does not include the transcript of the hearing below, the Commissioner adopts as his own the finding of the Office of Administrative Law that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of demonstrating that the Board's action in withholding her 1991-92 increments was unreasonable. See Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960).

The Commissioner's review of the record of this matter concurs with the ALJ's that petitioner had difficulty during the year in question with classroom management which interfered with the teaching-learning process. See R-4 through R-7. See also P-7 A, B, C, D, E and F. It bears noting that because tenure charges had been filed against petitioner during the same time, the district was obliged to provide extensive monitoring and support to petitioner during the 90-day period for correcting alleged inefficiencies it perceived in petitioner's performance. Such careful aid and reportage belie petitioner's concerns expressed in her response to observations conducted during the 1990-91 school year of lack of support from the administration in handling student discipline. Moreover, R-9, the exhibit setting forth the procedures of the teacher support program extant in the district lends further credence to the Board's contention that it provided able assistance and support for petitioner toward improving the perceived inefficiencies and difficulties petitioner experienced.

As to petitioner's exceptions that Ms. Jacobson's testimony should be stricken for referring to petitioner's teaching history, the Commissioner deems such exception to be without merit. As noted by the Board in reply exceptions, petitioner herself "opened the door" to such testimony being admissible in referencing her husband's illness and how such circumstances affected her prior satisfactory teaching performance and perspective. Moreover, a teacher's performance history may be reviewed in evaluating whether to withhold an increment. See, for example, Dr. Joan Byorek v. Board of Education of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood School District, Union County, decided by the Commissioner August 14, 1992.

The record of this matter demonstrates clearly that the administration had been concerned with petitioner's performance since sometime before the 1988-89 school year, and that the Board was in the process during the 1990-91 school year of reviewing her teaching performance under the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. The evaluations conducted of petitioner during the 1990-91 school year make plain that the problems petitioner was experiencing as a reading teacher were of sufficient magnitude and duration to have warranted intervention by its teacher advocate and teacher support programs early on in the 1990-91 school year. The Commissioner deems that testimony adduced from the principal relating to petitioner's history of teaching performance, as well as the APR of 1988-89 (R-1), are thus relevant and admissible in his hearing.

However, even were such testimony and exhibit not considered in the Commissioner's review of this matter, the formal evaluations conducted by various other members of the staff as embodied in Exhibits R-4 through R-7 and P-7 provide sufficient basis for upholding the Board's determination to deny petitioner her increment for the 1991-92 school year. In so deciding, the Commissioner thus rejects petitioner's contention that Ms. Schaeder's role as both advocate and support person created a conflict that should have foreclosed her testimony from entering the record, and also because she allegedly lacked a supervisor's certificate. Although the Board's reply exceptions rebut the suggestion that Ms. Schaeder lacked a supervisor's certificate, the record is devoid of information pertaining to such argument. As noted earlier, the record of this matter does not include transcripts of the hearing below, and thus the Commissioner is without the ability to review whether this argument was raised before the ALJ and therefore ruled upon in his determination to permit Ms. Schaeder to testify. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). Thus, such contention is not considered in the Commissioner's consideration of this matter not only for failure to cite transcript references in presenting this exception, but also because even were Ms. Schaeder's testimony and evaluations stricken from the record, the other exhibits made a part of this record, as well as the testimony of the other witnesses, lead the Commissioner to the conclusion that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the facts averred were not true as claimed and that the Board was unreasonable in withholding her increments. See Kopera, supra.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, as clarified herein, the recommended initial decision is adopted as the Commissioner's own. The Petition of Appeal is therefore, dismissed, with prejudice.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE NORTHFIELD SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY. : DECISION

SEPTEMBER 28, 1992

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE NORTHFIELD SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

For Respondent, James E. Franklin, II, Esq. (Megargee, Youngblood, Franklin & Corcoran)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on June 10, 1992 through the Northfield Board of Education's (Board) filing of an appeal of the cap waiver defeated by the voters of the Northfield School District on April 7, 1992. On June 24, 1992, James E. Franklin, II, Attorney for the City of Northfield, notified the Commissioner that the governing body would not participate in the appeal so long as the Board did not reverse its determination to reduce the budget by $100,000.

On August 14, 1992, the time expired for the Board to submit a position statement pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8(a)2, thus it was on that date that the record in this matter closed.

It is the Board's contention that in addition to the current expense budget certified by the governing body of the Northfield School District on April 21, 1992 in the amount of $3,947,535, there is a need for an additional $431,154 in current expense in order for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students.

On March 11, 1992, Sandra Lowe, Acting Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools, conditionally approved the Northfield School District's budget subject to the cap waiver amounts set forth below which were deemed necessary for a thorough and efficient education by her.

03-213	Grades 6-8, Salaries-Teachers	$322,150.00
00-640	Utilities	23,000.00
00-820	Insurance & Judgments	4,000.00
00-870	Rentals Other than Lease Purchase	81,996.00
	Additional Current Expense Appropriations	$431,154.00

On July 2, 1992, Martin Ney, Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools, approved the $100,000 reduction to the Board's proposed budget due to unanticipated monies being available to the district for health insurance. The monies in contention in this matter are, therefore, as set forth below.

	Proposed tax levy adopted by Board of Education	Amount of tax levy certified by governing body
Current expense	$4,047,535	$3,947,535
Capital Outlay	NA	NA
Cap waiver:
Current expense	$ 431,154
Capital expense	NA
Total	$4,478,689	$3,947,535
Amount in Dispute before Commissioner:
Current expense		$ 431,154

The $431,154 in cap waiver monies set forth above are necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the Board's students in order for the Board to reopen an elementary school which it closed 10 years ago. The information set forth below summarizes the necessity for the cap waiver monies:

The Northfield Schools consist of three elementary schools and one middle school. One of the elementary schools, The James E. Locuson School is currently rented to the Atlantic County Special Services District for $252,000.00. The Northfield Schools currently have a total of six portable trailers on site, four at the Charles M. Kresge School, two for use as a library, one for a Multiple Handicapped classroom and one is shared for Basic Skills Instruction and a Learning Resource Room, and two at the Mount Vernon Avenue School, one for Basic Skills Instruction and one for a Learning Resource Room. These trailers will be removed at the end of the 1991/92 school year. Due to increasing enrollment, the James E. Locuson School will be reclaimed for the 1992-93 school year and we will be able to remove the six substandard trailers. The Special Services District has added ten Modular self-contained classrooms on the Locuson site which the Northfield Board of Education intends to utilize for its programs.

The major increases in our budget are directly related with the recapture of the Locuson School. The loss of $252,000.00 in rental income, the modular classrooms at Locuson will cost $81,996.00, the school is all electric and we estimate an annual cost of $20,000.00. When we closed the school ten years ago, we sold most of the furnishings, we plan on sending various items from our other three schools, however we will need to stock a library, an office, a nurses office as well as three classrooms. We will also have to hire a secretary, custodian and part time nurse in addition to a principal. In addition to these costs we will be hiring three new classroom teachers due to increased enrollment and an additional MH teacher due to grade level changes from our current levels. We have always tried to be conservative with our budgets in the past and this year is no exception. All of our negotiable contracts are up for renewal this year and we have kept as many line items as possible to very modest increases.

(Budget and Cap Waiver Appeal, Section 3)

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the extensive documentation provided by the district in support of the necessity of the cap waiver funds, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Northfield School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989)

Accordingly, the Atlantic County Board of Taxation is hereby ordered to adjust the Northfield School District's tax levy for the 1992-93 school year to reflect an increase of $431,154 for current expense which results in a total current expense tax levy of $4,378,689.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:
APPEAL OF THE KINGWOOD SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE KINGWOOD SCHOOL : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Gaetano M. DeSapio, Esq., for Petitioner

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on May 5, 1992 through the Kingwood Board of Education's (Board) filing of an appeal of the cap waiver defeated by the voters of the Kingwood School District on April 7, 1992. On June 25, 1992, Mary E. MacConnell, Clerk of the Township of Kingwood, notified the Commissioner that the governing body had no objection to the cap waiver appeal.

On August 17, 1992, the Board submitted a position statement pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8(a)2, thus it was on that date that the record in this matter closed.

It is the Board's contention that in addition to the current expense budget certified by the governing body of the Kingwood School District on April 28, 1992 in the amount of $1,912,652, there is a need for an additional $99,249 in current expense in order for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students.

On March 19, 1992, Robert Sopko, Hunterdon County Superintendent of Schools, conditionally approved the Kingwood

School District's budget subject to the cap waiver amounts set forth below which were deemed necessary for a thorough and efficient education by him.

Required for Thorough and Efficient Education			$99,249.
Line 54	213	Pre School/Kindergarten Salaries	$35,000.
Line 56	213	6-8 Salaries	35,006.
Line 60	214	Other Instructional Staff	5,000.
Line 63	220	Textbooks	5,000.
Line 64	230	Library & Audio Visual Materials	4,000.
Line 65	240	Teaching Supplies	5,000.
Line 99	730	Purchase New Equipment	5,000.
Line 106	820	Insurance/Judgments	5,243.
TOTAL AMOUNT REQUESTED:			$99,249.

On April 28, 1992, the governing body acted to reduce the proposed budget by $100,000, an action approved by the Hunterdon County Superintendent of Schools given factors that were not present upon initial review of the budget. (See memorandum of May 18, 1992 to Commissioner Ellis.)

Therefore, the amount in dispute before the Commissioner is set forth below:

	Proposed tax levy adopted by Board of Education	Amount of tax levy certified by governing body
Current expense	$1,995,454	$1,912,652
Capital Outlay	$ 20,821	3,623
Cap waiver:
Current expense	$ 99,249
Capital expense	NA
Total	$2,115,524	$1,916,275

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the documentation provided by the district in support of the necessity of the cap waiver funds, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall and is hereby granted in that the governing body has no objection to the cap waiver appeal and the Board has demonstrated that these funds are necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Kingwood School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989)

Accordingly, the Hunterdon County Board of Taxation is hereby ordered to adjust the Kingwood School District's tax levy for the 1992-93 school year to reflect an increase of $99,249 for current expense which results in a total current expense tax levy of $2,011,901.

Record Closed: August 4, 1992 Decided: August 19, 1992

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On January 15, 1992, petitioner, J.B., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting a determination that his son's suspension for one day was improper and unjustly imposed. Respondent filed an answer on January 31, 1992, denying petitioner's allegations and requesting that the Commissioner dismiss the petition.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

On February 7, 1992, the matter was transmitted by the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. A telephone prehearing conference was held on April 13, 1992. At that time, the issues were isolated and a hearing was scheduled for August 4 and 5, 1992, at the Office of Administrative Law.

As a result of settlement conferences held between the parties on August 4, 1992, a settlement was reached; the parties have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioner, tenured elementary teacher, alleged Board improperly riffed her in June 1991. Petitioner contended she had more seniority than intervenor.

ALJ concluded petitioner did have more seniority than intervenor and was entitled to back pay for that portion of 1991-92 in which she did not work and seniority credit for the period in dispute. ALJ concluded that although petitioner had been paid during the opening weeks of September-October 1979 as a per diem substitute, her service during this time was in all respects that of a regular teacher (a title to which she was duly appointed in mid-October 1979) and she was not hired to replace another person as contemplated within the meaning of law defining substitute service. Therefore, petitioner was entitled to seniority credit for the period at issue and back pay for the portion of 1991-92 during which she was riffed. No pre-judgment interest was allowed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral [illegible] decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

The following constitutes my oral decision with respect to the instant matter.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is a seniority case which was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. The individual whom the Board had hired rather than Valentino, Ms. Janice Matthews, had been granted permission to intervene as a respondent, and an order had been entered to that effect, I believe in March, prior to the prehearing conference. It was agreed at that telephone conference that the following issue was to be determined by me: "Were petitioner's seniority rights violated by the respondent Board as alleged and, if so, to what relief is petitioner entitled?"

A plenary hearing was conducted on June 11, 1992, posthearing briefs were filed in accordance with an agreed schedule and the record closed on July 22, 1992, for purposes of the commencement of the running of the 45-day period for issuance of an initial decision pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

The matter is presently now the subject of an oral decision in accordance within OAL rules within the 45-day time period.

STIPULATION OF FACTS AND TESTIMONY

At the outset of the plenary hearing in June counsel submitted a joint stipulation of facts, which was marked Exhibit C-1. That document consisted of 12 stipulation paragraphs covering four pages, together with 15 attached exhibits designated as J-1 through J-15. The stipulated facts are as follows: If I were going to render a written decision, I would here lay out the joint stipulation. I would dictate it verbatim and it would be printed out. What I will do at this juncture, rather than read it to make it part of my decision, I will say the joint stipulation set forth the following undisputed facts. I can read them now, but rather than do that I'll just indicate that I will incorporate by reference at this juncture the paragraphs beginning with paragraph 1 through the last paragraph, paragraph 13, rather than have to read them. We all have them and just to extend an oral decision by reading them doesn't seem to make any sense to me. But certainly the joint stipulation is part of the record in this case both as an exhibit and as part of my oral decision.

JOINT STIPULATION

1. Petitioner, Carolyn Valentino ("Valentino"), has been employed by the respondent Board of Education of the City of Hoboken ("Board") as an Elementary Teacher as follows:

1979-80 - The Board's hiring resolution makes Valentino's appointment effective October 16, 1979. (J-1) (J-1A) Valentino's service in the school district from September 1, 1979 to October 15, 1979 is the focus of the present legal proceedings.

1982-83 - Valentino's position was abolished pursuant to a reduction in force in April, 1982. (J-3) She was reemployed pursuant to a resolution adopted in October, 1982, effective October 18, 1982. (J-4) (J-5) Valentino's service in the school district from September 1, 1982 to October 17, 1982 is part of the focus of the present legal proceedings.

1985-86
1986-87
1987-88
1988-89
1989-90
1990-91

A copy of Valentino's employee record card is attached hereto as Exhibit J-6.

2. Valentino possesses an Instructional Certificate with the following endorsements:

   Early Childhood
   Elementary

3. As the result of her employment in the Board's school district and possession of the certification and endorsements required for such employment, Valentino gained tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

4. On May 21, 1991, the Board adopted a resolution terminating Valentino's employment effective June 30, 1991, as part of a reduction in force. (J-7)

5. On November 19, 1991, the Board adopted a resolution reemploying Valentino as a teaching staff member, effective December 2, 1991. (J-8)

6. Valentino's salary for the 1991-92 school year is $32,825 per year, prorated to the time of her reappointment. The salary is based upon placement on Step 13 of the B.A. column of the salary guide.

7. The intervenor, Janice Matthews ("Matthews"), has been employed by the Board as an Elementary Teacher as follows:

A copy of Matthews' employee record card is attached hereto as Exhibit J-13.

8. Matthews possesses an Instructional Certificate with the following endorsement:

Elementary

9. As the result of her employment in the Board's school district and possession of the certification and endorsement required for such employment, Matthews gained tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

10. Matthews was reappointed by the Board as a teaching staff member for the 1991-92 school year.

[11. Paragraph 11 not included in the Joint Stipulation.]

12. The following additional exhibits are attached hereto:

Exhibit J-14 - Principal's Monthly Report of the Time and Attendance of Teachers (September 10-17, 1979; September 18 - October 3, 1979).

Exhibit J-15 - Composition Book of Per Diem Substitutes, covering the following periods of time: September 10, 1979 to January 4, 1980 and September 9, 1982 to January 10, 1983.

13. The maiden name of Carolyn Valentino is Carolyn Branda. The maiden name of Janice Matthews is Janice Stole. This information is provided solely to assist in the examination of certain exhibits attached hereto.

In addition to the joint stipulation of facts (Exhibit C-1), testimony was offered at the hearing by Valentino on her own behalf. She explained that she was hired by the Board and began working in September 1979 having applied for an elementary teacher position in July or August of that year. Valentino insisted that she did not apply for, nor did she seek, a position as a "substitute." She maintained that she was interested solely in a regular position, made that known, and was ultimately so hired. At some point at the beginning of the 1979-80 school year, and it's not clear to me exactly when that was. It may have been before the first day of day of classes, it may not have been. It's not clear. In any event, at the beginning of that school year, Valentino received a telephone call, perhaps from the Board secretary (she did not exactly remember) telling her to report for an assignment. She then came to work during the first or second week of September (this is her testimony) and was assigned to a sixth grade class at School No. 4. Let me note here that there is no indication in the record as to what day in September 1979 was the first day of classes. Labor Day that year fell on September 3, and one of the exhibits reflects that Valentino's pay began as of September 10, which would have been the next Monday. There is no indication whether school started on the 4th, the 5th, the 6th or the 10th. It would appear that she did not come to work on the first day of school, at least. Maybe she didn't come until the beginning of the second week, and that's why I said she reported for work during the first or second week of September. She testified, by the way, that she thought it might have been during the first week, but it's really not clear. Nevertheless, she maintained, in any event, there was no teacher for the class that she took over prior to its being assigned to her.

Thereafter, during the entire course of the 1979-80 school year Valentino was the regular teacher for that class and testified that all of her activities were undertaken without any differentiation from any other regular full-time teacher and she assumed that she fell into that category as well. For example, she prepared lesson plans for herself, not for anyone else, and followed them, she attended staff meetings, etc. Also, she testified that both the principal of that school and the superintendent told her that she was not replacing anyone and that she would be receiving a formal appointment. However, she was paid the substitute's salary for the days she worked in September and for the first half of October.

With respect to the absence in Board minutes for August or September 1979 of any reference to her appointment as a regular teacher, Valentino recalled that although she expected that a resolution would be offered including her, the Board meeting where that was to take place was cut short as a result, according to my notes, of some sort of an altercation. Essentially that was her testimony in addition to the stipulation of facts.

One witness was called on the Board's behalf. That was Grace Corrigan, who's been the payroll clerk in Hoboken since 1978. Corrigan testified that she reviewed all of the Board's business records and found no indication of any retroactive payment or salary adjustment to compensate Valentino for the difference between the substitute pay she received during September and half of October 1979 and regular pay for the remainder of the school year. Valentino had testified that she did receive some sort of an adjustment of a couple of hundred dollars in October. However, that was not the amount which would have represented the difference between the sub-pay and the regular pay. I don't think there's any dispute over that. It may be that Valentino didn't recall how much it was. There was some confusion over that. In any event, it was Corrigan's testimony that from the Board's business records, there is nothing to indicate that any official action was taken to reimburse or to bring Valentino up to speed as it were with regard to what regular teachers were receiving during September and October.

The last witness was Ms. Matthews, the intervenor, who simply testified that she began working in September 1979 as a regular teacher and that she had been hired by a Board resolution in a regular meeting at the end of August 1979, and of course that testimony was corroborated by Exhibit C-7, which are the official minutes of the Board meeting of that night and include Matthews as one of 11 teachers hired for that school year. She is referred to as Janice Stolte, which was her maiden name.

As the result of references made to Board action or inaction in 1979, I directed counsel for the Board to provide copies of the Board minutes for August and September of that year, and as a result both the agendas and minutes for the meetings of August 14, August 29 and September 11 were submitted, together with the minutes of the September 27, 1979 Board meeting. No agenda, as such, could be located for that last meeting presumably, according to Board counsel, because it was devoted strictly to the topic of construction bids. Certainly, the agenda for that meeting has no reference to the hiring of teachers. As I have previously indicated, for purposes of the record I have marked the agenda and the minutes as Exhibits C-2 through C-9 respectively, and I have already designated for the record which exhibits relate to what dates.

The posthearing briefs filed by the parties appropriately focus attention on the primary legal issue involved in the matter; namely, whether the period of Valentino's service beginning in September 1979 through mid-October 1979 when she was designated by formal Board resolution as a regular teacher should count toward her "seniority." If it does, then according to the stipulated facts she would have had a superior claim to employment at the beginning of the 1991-92 school year over Janice Matthews. As it turned out, she was not hired at the beginning of that school year, but was recalled from her reduction in force a few months later. So at issue in the case is whether or not she is entitled to back pay for that period of time. But in addition to that, of course, the parties would like a determination by me of her seniority in the future. In ascertaining whether or not the period of service in question counts towards Valentino's seniority, the essential question is whether or not she was performing during the six or so weeks in question as a "substitute." If she was, then pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1, she could not acquire tenure credit based upon that service and, therefore, no seniority credit would attach either.

The leading case in the area with respect to substitute service vis-a-vis that statute as it pertains to this case is the decision of the Appellate Division in Sayreville Education Association v. Board of Ed. of Sayreville, 193 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1984). In that case the court held that the statute which I have just mentioned, 18A:16-1.1, is applicable in those situations where the services of the teacher are required because of the temporary absence, even if protracted, of a regularly employed teacher whose return to duty is contemplated. However, the court indicated that the statute is not to be construed to authorize the use of a "substitute" to fill what more accurately would be described as a vacancy on a long-term basis. Where, for example, a relatively substantial balance of the school year remains when a vacancy occurs and the Board is prepared to fill that vacancy until the end of the school year, it may not resort to a long-term substitute technique to accomplish that purpose. See the Sayreville decision at page 434. Accordingly, employees hired to fill such long-term vacancies are entitled to teaching staff membership and all the emoluments thereof, including tenure credit and, where appropriate, seniority as well.

Thus, in the Sayreville case the petitioners were granted teaching staff membership, notwithstanding they were labeled "long-term substitutes" and not withstanding they received a contractually established per diem rate of pay for substitute teachers. In other words, the court in Sayreville made plain that the applicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 does not turn on what rate of compensation is paid to the individuals involved. I would also refer counsel to the decision in Gruber v. Board of Education of Fair Lawn, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6001-80, decided April 1, 1989, adopted by the Commissioner on May 22, 1981, finding substitute service ineligible for seniority credit notwithstanding there was credit on the salary guide to that for regular teachers, which I guess is the flip side of what the court in Sayreville said. So if you don't get regular pay and you're paid as a substitute, that doesn't necessarily mean you're a substitute, and if you do get the regular pay, that doesn't mean you're not a substitute.

Do the facts in this case demonstrate that Valentino was a substitute and therefore not entitled to claim seniority credit for the period in question? Both the Board and the intervenor argue, and correctly so, I believe, that as the petitioner, it was Valentino's burden of proof in respect to that critical inquiry. My analysis of her proofs in light of that obligation leads me to conclude, for the reasons I will get into shortly, contrary to the assertions of both the Board and Matthews, that during the period in question Valentino was not a substitute, and therefore her service should have been credited toward her seniority.

The evidence surrounding the precise events which took place at the time of her hire is somewhat sparse, consisting almost exclusively of Valentino's own testimony. She began her employment as the result of her submission of an application for a position as an elementary teacher and was told to report as the result of the telephone call she received, she believed, from the Board secretary. She immediately was assigned as a classroom teacher for a sixth grade class. There is no evidence that at any time did she seek substitute employment as such, nor is there any evidence to contradict her credible testimony or to reject her assertion that she was never advised that she was only being hired temporarily, or filling some vacancy until some other teacher returned. In short, I find nothing in the record to contradict Valentino's claim, which I believe, that she was not hired to replace another employee whose return to reclaim the position was contemplated. In that regard, the fact pattern in this case is totally distinguishable from the facts in the case of Ward v. Westfield, cited by the Board, a 1988 School Law decision, wherein Ward was just replacing a named individual. That is not the case here at all. The fact that Valentino may have been called a substitute and referred to as a substitute in payroll records, is not, in my judgment, dispositive in light of the language of the court in the Sayreville case. We have to look at what she did and when she did it, and not what she was called and what she was paid and the precise context of her hire. Valentino testified credibly that she functioned in every respect as a regular elementary school teacher. She prepared, for example, her own lesson plans without reference to anyone else's or without having to prepare for the return of anyone else.

My scrutiny of the agendas and the minutes of the various Board meetings does not militate against the result which I have reached here. Although there is no Board resolution mentioning, no less hiring, Valentino in August or September 1979, there is not, on the other hand, any reference in those minutes or agenda items to her employment as a substitute within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. Although Valentino refers to that portion of the minutes of the August 29, 1979 Board meeting (Exhibit C-7), wherein the superintendent requested that 12 teachers be hired and only 11 actually were, it is unclear what conclusions can be drawn from that difference. Counsel for Valentino argued that they really meant to hire 12, and something happened, and they only got around to 11. The Board, on the other hand, said that's a typo error, she was never intended to be hired, and wasn't. My judgment on those minutes and the agenda items is that the testimony it represents is neutral, and it would be pure speculation for me to decide either that she was omitted by accident or that something else occurred to prevent the Board from hiring her or that there was a typographical error. We just don't know. In fact, as I indicated, not only is there a reference to 12 recommended and only 11 hired, the agenda item for that meeting anticipated a recommendation by the superintendent for 10 people. I could speculate and say that it was a little bit of a fluid situation, the Board wasn't really sure, nor was the superintendent, how many sixth grade teachers they were going to need. It turned out that there were too many kids and they just needed another sixth grade teacher, and they called Valentino in. We just don't know. And then she was paid as a substitute waiting to see how things shook out. As it turned out, they needed her for the rest of the school year and the next 11 years as well. It's all speculation. The minutes really don't decide in that regard.

Nevertheless, I reject the proposition that since the Board appointed 11 regular teachers by formal resolution on August 29, 1979, not including Valentino, that her later hiring was strictly intended as, and must be construed to be, that of a substitute. The undisputed facts, not speculation, the undisputed facts are that she began work during either the first or the beginning of the second week of the 1979-80 school year in a classroom situation identical to that of all regular teachers. No evidence exists to support the notion that her service prior to October 16, 1979 was, in the words of the Appellate Division in Sayreville, "required because of the temporary absence, even if protracted, of a regular teacher whose return to duty is contemplated." That definition of what a substitute is for purposes of the statute does not fit what Valentino did in this case.

In essence, then, the absence of any specific reference to the appointment of Valentino as a regular teacher in the August or September 1979 Board minutes is not dispositive. As I indicated, what is important are the factors which the Sayreville court mentioned with respect to the statute. In that light, absent testimony and/or documentary evidence to rebut Valentino's credible testimony, I CONCLUDE that her service during the month of September 1979 and the first half of October 1979 should be credited for seniority purposes. Therefore, in light of the contents of the joint stipulation of facts, Valentino's seniority is superior to that of the intervenor, Janice Matthews, and she therefore, that is to say petitioner therefore, is entitled to appropriate relief, including back pay for the portion of the 1991-92 school year that she did not work, subject to normal deductions that would be taken from that salary and any mitigation if it applies, although there was no evidence of that in this case. Also, of course, she should be credited for seniority purposes for her entire period of employment in 1979-80. No prejudgment interest is to be allowed. I don't believe that the facts of this case warrant any prejudgment interest.

I will therefore, in accordance with OAL rules, have this oral decision transcribed and it will be filed as an initial decision with the Commissioner of Education for consideration, and counsel will receive a copy of the typed transcript of the decision, and it will processed by the Commissioner in normal fashion. That is to say, he will have the 45 days within which to accept, modify or reject. And, of course, counsel will have 13 days from the date they receive the typed version of this oral decision to file written exceptions with the Commissioner of Education.

Finally, just let me note for the record, which I would do in a written initial decision, the witness list was Carolyn Valentino, Grace Corrigan and Janice Matthews. Exhibit C-1 was the joint stipulation of facts and C-2 through C-9, were the agenda and actual formal minutes of the Hoboken Board of Education.

END OF TRANSCRIPT

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

I, Angela M. Robinson, certify that the foregoing is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my ability, of Judge Weiss' oral decision rendered in the above matter on August 4, 1992.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF HOBOKEN, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
		DECISION
RESPONDENT,	:
AND	:

INTERVENOR-RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board and Intervenor Matthews pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were replies thereto by petitioner.

In its exceptions, the Board renews its post-hearing arguments that petitioner's testimony was not credible and that she failed to carry her burden of proof with competent evidence. From a policy perspective, the Board further contends that it must have the flexibility to hire substitutes without being penalized if they are later appointed as regular teachers. Intervenor raises similar arguments and adds a discussion of how petitioner was not appointed to fill a vacancy so as to qualify for regular teacher status under Sayreville, supra. In reply, petitioner reiterates that she was not employed to take the place of another teacher and therefore was not a substitute within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. Petitioner further avers that the statements of Board agents on which she relied in believing that she was not being hired as a substitute constitute admissible evidence under Evidence Rule 63(9) on vicarious admissions.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that notwithstanding petitioner's having been paid as a per diem substitute during the early weeks of the 1979-80 school year, there is no evidence to contradict petitioner's credible testimony that she functioned in all respects as a regular teaching staff member and from the beginning filled a regular classroom position rather than temporarily replacing another teacher; indeed, nothing whatsoever about either petitioner's service or the nature of the position she was filling changed when the Board took formal action to hire her in mid-October. Under such circumstances, the Board and intervenor cannot rely on petitioner's payment status during the period at issue or the Board's delay in hiring her as a regular staff member to claim that the benefits of fully creditable work should be lost to petitioner.

Nor is the Commissioner persuaded by respondents' claims of insufficient evidence, as he finds no basis in this record (which does not include a transcript of hearings) to challenge the ALJ's determination that petitioner's testimony was both credible and uncontradicted. Finally, the Commissioner does not agree that crediting persons who perform duties under circumstances such as those present herein will in any way hinder boards of education in their legitimate use of substitutes within the meaning of that term set forth in controlling statute and case law.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, affording petitioner seniority credit for the period at issue, awarding her back pay less applicable mitigation and deductions for that portion of the 1991-92 school year in which she did not work due to the improperly effectuated RIF, and denying pre-judgment interest as unwarranted under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16(c)1, is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Gary A. Kraemer, Esq., for respondent
(Daggett & Kraemer, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 22, 1992 Decided: August 10, 1992

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

The Board of Education of the Town of Newton, Sussex County, filed and certified to the Commissioner of the Department of Education on June 5, 1991, 15 charges of unbecoming teacher conduct against Lawrence Beatty, a tenured teaching staff member. The Board determined there was probable cause to credit the truth of the charges and that, if sustained, they warranted respondent's dismissal or reduction in salary, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. Respondent's answer in general denial thereof was filed on June 14, 1991. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on September 16, 1991, for hearing and determination as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. Respondent alleged no procedural irregularities under N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1.

On the first two days of hearing the parties entered into settlement discussions and advised the administrative law judge the matters at issue had been amicably resolved, subject to approval of the administrative law judge and the Commissioner of the Department of Education.

CONCLUSION

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE as follows:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the agreement;

2. Settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy, is in the interest of parties and public and comports with Cardonick v. Bd of Ed. Bor. of Brooklawn, 1983 S.L.D. -- (slip op. at 2); and

3. The board's filing and certification of tenure charges are hereby DISMISSED, being in accordance with settlement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, subject to effectuation of its terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." OAL Docket No. EDU-08754-91N

Dear Judge Ospenson:

Please be advised that after several negotiations and with Your Honor's assistance, a settlement of the above matter has been reached between the Newton Board of Education and Lawrence Beatty.

Both parties have tentatively approved the settlement pending its acceptance by the Commissioner of Education. In doing so, the Board has fully considered this matter by voting in an executive session to authorize counsel to enter into the attached Settlement Agreement. The Settlement Agreement, as well as the Releases, have been executed by both parties and are being held in escrow in the usual manner pending approval by the Commissioner of Education.

This matter having been brought before the Office of Administrative Law (Honorable James A. Ospenson presiding) upon the joint application of counsel for the parties to the action, Robert M. Tosti, Esq., attorney for the Town of Newton Board of Education ("Board") and Gary A. Kraemer, Esq., attorney for Lawrence Beatty ("Mr. Beatty") appearing, and the Court having been informed at the hearing conducted on May 21, 1991, that the Board and Mr. Beatty wished to present a comprehensive settlement to the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education for their consideration and approval in connection with this dispute, and the parties having further advised the Administrative Law Judge that their desire to reduce to their agreement of settlement to writing for the consideration of the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education;

WHEREAS, the Certification of the above charges by the Board was originally predicated on the Board's belief that the charges of unbecoming conduct and the evidence in support of those charges would be sufficient to warrant a dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; and

WHEREAS, the charges have been substantially based upon criminal allegations in the matter State v. Beatty, Superior Court, Sussex County Docket No. 89-06-0112 even though Mr. Beatty was acquitted in that case; and

WHEREAS, because much of the evidence upon which the Board seeks to rely relates to matters in the district's past, and the Board has therefore encountered the unavailability and unwillingness of witnesses to testify, as well as the recantation of witness testimony, the Board believes that using the settlement process to achieve the prescribed result of removal is prudent; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Beatty is also willing to withdraw his petition for back pay against the Board which is now on appeal before the State Board of Education in the matter Larry Beatty v. Board of Education of the Town of Newton, Agency Ref. No. 35-2/91; and

WHEREAS, the Board believes that the return of Mr. Beatty to a teaching position where he would be in contact with students would not be in the parties' best interests; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Beatty has indicated an intention to resign from all employment from the Board upon the terms and conditions set forth herein;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties contained herein, and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted below, as well as the delivery of documents as required hereby, it is mutually agreed as follows;

1. Mr. Beatty has submitted a resignation from all employment with the Board. The Board, by separate resolution will publicly accept Mr. Beatty's resignation at a public meeting conducted on _____.

2. It is recognized that the parties have claims against each other arising from Mr. Beatty's employment with the Board. The parties wish to settle all claims in connection therewith in consideration with the Boards agreeing to make the payments as set forth in this agreement, and in return for Mr. Beatty's relinquishment of employment as a teaching staff member and claims regarding back pay, the Board agrees to pay $155,000 to Mr. Beatty. No other payments will be made.

3. Mr. Beatty agrees to release and waive any claim which he may have for sick days, vacation days or any other emoluments of employment, except health benefits. Additionally, and more particularly, Mr. Beatty also agrees to withdraw his petition for back pay against the Board in the matter of Larry

Beatty v. Board of Education of the Town of Newton, Agency Docket No. 35-2/91. This shall be accompanied by the withdrawal of the Board's appeal. Moreover, Mr. Beatty also waives any claim for reimbursement or repayment of salary withheld for the 120 day period as specified by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

4. This agreement and any actions require hereby, shall not be binding upon the parties until (a) Mr. Beatty has delivered the letter of resignation as required by this agreement; (b) the Board adopts a resolution at a public meeting authorizing the execution of this agreement together with the acceptance of Mr. Beatty's resignation as set forth therein; and (c) Mr. Beatty delivers an executed and duly acknowledged general Release to Board counsel.

5. Mr. Beatty shall supply the Board with a release which shall discharge the Board and all its current and past members, employees, agents and representatives for any possible civil liability for damages, attorneys' fees or otherwise which Mr. Beatty might assert arising from the investigation or prosecution of the tenure charges or claims of back pay which are to be settled in this stipulation.

6. The parties recognize that the effectiveness of this agreement shall be subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge assigned to hear this matter and the Commissioner of Education. In the event this agreement is rejected, the parties shall revert to their respective positions as of May 21, 1991.

7. Further it is acknowledged by the parties that each reserves unto itself the right to file separate memoranda with the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education to support a rationale for approval of this settlement by the Commissioner.

8. ALL THE TERMS OF THIS SEPARATION AGREEMENT AND RELEASE ARE DEEMED MATERIAL. THIS DOCUMENT CONSTITUTES THE ENTIRE UNDERSTANDING OF THE PARTIES AND MAY NOT BE ALTERED, AMENDED, MODIFIED OR REVOKED EXCEPT BY AN INSTRUMENT IN WRITING EXECUTED BY THE PARTIES. Further, this separation agreement incorporates the complete financial obligation of the Board with regard to its employment relationship with Mr. Beatty and its separation of employment as a teaching staff member. This agreement incorporates and settles all claims and disputes which were exhibited between Mr. Beatty and the Board arising from his employment and otherwise.

9. Further, this agreement incorporates the complete financial obligation of the Board with regard to its employment relationship with Mr. Beatty and his separation of employment. The Board will be obligated to make to no further payments to Mr. Beatty except as specifically stipulated herein.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have set their hands and seals of the first date mentioned above.

HEARING OF LAWRENCE BEATTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF NEWTON, SUSSEX	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed. Upon examination of the decision, however, the Commissioner is unable to approve the settlement for the reasons expressed below.

While the ALJ states in the initial decision that the terms of the settlement comport with the standards for the acceptance of settlements of tenure charges set forth in In re Cardonick, supra, there is no explanation as to how the sum of $155,000, a large amount of money by any standard, specifically comports with Cardonick. Nor is there any settlement term which sets forth that in accepting the settlement, respondent understands that the matter will be referred to the State Board of Examiners for its review and possible action. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert B. Olek, School District of the City of Garfield, Bergen County, decided September 5, 1990.

Accordingly, the matter is remanded for further clarification as to how the sum of $155,000 meets the Cardonick standard and for incorporation of an acknowledgement by respondent that he understands that even if the Commissioner accepts the settlement, the matter will be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: February 2, 1993 Decided: February 10, 1993

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

This matter is on remand of settlement of a tenure charge matter under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8754-91. The Commissioner of the Department of Education in reviewing the record and initial decision of the administrative law judge on August 10, 1992, remanded, saying:

> . . . There is no explanation as to how [illegible] $155,000, a large amount of money by any stan[illegible]y comports with [In Re Cardonick, 1983 S.L.D. [illegible] 2]. Nor is there any settlement term which se[illegible] accepting the settlement, respondent understa[illegible] will > be referred to the State Board of Examiners for its review and possible action . . . [citation omitted].

PROCEEDINGS POST REMAND

The parties reviewed and jointly reaffirmed their settlement. In written acknowledgment on January 20, 1993 (J-2), respondent said:

> Despite the settlement of tenure charges brought by the Town of Newton Board of Education without any determination by the Office of Administrative Law or admission by me that any of the charges have been sustained, I am aware the record in this matter may be referred to the State Board of Examiners for its review and possible action against my teaching certificate [pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5, 3.6(a)]. With this understanding, I am willing to be bound by the terms and conditions of the settlement of the tenure charges with the Newton Board of Education as expressed in the settlement documents.

In joint submission (J-1) of January 28, 1993, the parties noted:

> The agreement itself calls for the sum of $155,000 to be paid to respondent, such that his final salary payment will be received in January 1995. While this is indeed a substantial sum, it is in settlement of two administrative matters arising out of respondent's alleged misconduct. Specifically, In the Matter of Larry Beatty v. Board of Education, Town of Newton, Agency Ref. No. 35-2/91, the respondent successfully claimed before the Commissioner that he was due back wages from the Board's suspension without pay. As a result, the respondent may be due an excess of $75,000, pending a ruling on appeal by the State Board of Education. . . Further, as outlined in the agreement, it is also clear that the time and expense involved in processing the tenure charges at this point is also a factor strongly supportive of settlement. . . Ultimately, given respondent's successful claim for substantial back wages before the Commissioner, and the relinquishment of his tenure rights under the circumstances of his acquittal, it is clear that the payment of $155,000 for settlement would certainly be in the public interest.

In Cardonick, the State Board noted that tenure charge settlements presented to the administrative law judge and Commissioner should be accompanied by (1) supporting documentation as to nature of the charges, (2) circumstances justifying the consent or authorization of the Board of Education and the teacher to the proposed settlement, and (3) the administrative law judge's conclusion that the teacher entered into the agreement with full understanding of his rights and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest. Id., slip opinion at 5-6. It continues to be my view that documentation supporting the settlement agreement comports with requirements of the State Board of Education and readily supports my affirmation of conclusions earlier made under OAL Dkt. EDU 8754-91. Specifically, based on all submissions then and now, I CONCLUDE as follows:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the agreement;

2. Settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy, is in the interest of parties and public and comports with Cardonick v. Bd. of Ed. Bor. of Brooklawn, 1983 S.L.D. -- (slip op. at 2); and

3. The Board's filing and certification of tenure charges are hereby DISMISSED, being in accordance with settlement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, subject to effectuation of its terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LAWRENCE BEATTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEWTON SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
SUSSEX COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision on remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the supplemental information brought to the record upon remand of the previously rejected settlement, the Commissioner approves the terms of the settlement as they comport with the standard of review for tenure matters set forth in In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, aff'd State Board 846. Such supplemental information documents respondent's understanding of the fact that even with acceptance of the settlement, the matter will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for its review and consideration. Also, the record now reflects that at least $75,000 of the $155,000 stipulated in this settlement is monies owing to respondent as a result of his successful claim against the Board for back wages as decided by the Commissioner in the matter entitled Lawrence Beatty v. Board of Education of Newton, 1991 S.L.D. 1001, which currently is pending on appeal before the State Board.* Thus, the sum of $155,000 is in actuality for disposition of not one but two litigated matters involving the parties herein.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommended decision of the Administrative Law Judge approving the settlement as set forth in his August 10, 1992 initial decision and as elaborated upon with the supplemental information that has been brought to the record as explicated herein. The determination to approve the settlement is based heavily upon the representation of the Board that the tenure charges are substantially based on the criminal allegations of which respondent was found not guilty and that much of the evidence upon which it sought to rely for the tenure charge matter is now not within its reach due to the unavailability and unwillingness of witnesses to testify, as well as the recantation of witness testimony. See terms of rejected settlement at page 2.

Therefore, the matter is dismissed, subject to compliance with the settlement terms by the parties. It shall forthwith be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for its review and consideration.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

JACK KATINSKY, PRESIDENT, EVERYTHING ELECTRONIC,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PENNSAUKEN, CAMDEN COUNTY, AND BITS 'N' BYTES,
Respondents.

Jack Katinsky, for petitioner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4

James F. Maloney, Esq., for respondent Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken (Maloney & Finley, attorneys)

M. Ramachandran, trading as Bits 'N' Bytes, respondent, pro se

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was commenced by Jack Katinsky, President, Everything Electronic, on July 21, 1992, with the filing of a petition of appeal and an application for temporary emergent relief. The petition alleged that the respondent Board of Education had improperly awarded the contract for computer equipment to Bits 'N' Bytes, a bidder whose bid did not conform to the specifications furnished by the Board. An answer was filed on behalf of the Pennsauken Board of Education and on July 29, 1992, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

Oral argument on petitioner's motion for temporary emergent relief was scheduled for August 5, 1992, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. On that date all parties appeared and agreed to maintain the status quo pending the plenary hearing which was scheduled for August 11, 1992. The hearing took place as scheduled on August 11, 1992 at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. Following the close of testimony an additional exhibit was forwarded to the undersigned by Bit 'N' Bytes via facsimile machine. It was marked into evidence with the consent of all parties, whereupon the record closed. By letter order dated August 13, 1992, copy attached hereto, the undersigned advised the parties that no temporary restraints would be issued pending the final decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Most of the facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

The Pennsauken Board of Education advertised for bids for computers and associated products for the district's elementary, middle and high schools. The specifications with respect to computers called for "IBM compatible;" brand names were designated for printers only. The bids were opened on June 12, 1992, by Barbara Heubel, Purchasing Assistant to Edwin N. Ragone, the Board Secretary and Business Administrator. After the bids were opened either Ms. Heubel or Mr Ragone had telephone conversations with each of the four lowest bidders to advise that the Board would be requiring a performance bond pursuant to paragraph 19 of the instructions and directions to bidders. That paragraph had provided:

> A CERTIFIED CHECK OR A BID BOND DRAWN TO THE ORDER OF THE PENNSAUKEN BOARD OF EDUCATION IN THE AMOUNT OF FIVE PERCENT (5%) OF THE TOTAL AMOUNT OF THE BID MUST ACCOMPANY EACH BID. THE CERTIFIED CHECK OF THE SUCCESSFUL BIDDER WILL BE RETAINED BY THE BOARD UNTIL COMPLETION OF THE CONTRACT. THE BOARD MAY REQUIRE A PERFORMANCE BOND IN THE AMOUNT OF THE CONTRACT.
> PLEASE NOTE: IN THE EVENT OF THE BIDDER'S TOTAL AMOUNT BID IS $1000.00 OR LESS, A BID BOND OR CERTIFIED CHECK WILL NOT BE REQUIRED. THIS DOES NOT APPLY TO BIDS FOR SERVICES OR CONTRACTS. (Emphasis added. P-4 in evidence)

Jack Katinsky, president of Everything Electronic and the second lowest bidder, wrote to Ms. Heubel by letter received on June 22, 1992, objecting to the telephone inquiry as follows:

> Please be advised that we consider your telephone inquiry regarding Performance Bonds to be inappropriate.
>
> The bidding procedure for your computer procurement was by sealed bid and all qualified bidders were required to supply bid bonds.
> Award of such contracts is to be made on the basis of clearly defined criteria including price and ability to perform. If a Performance Bond is required it should be part of the award package and the award should not be subject to prior conversations with individual bidders regarding this subject. (P-14 in evidence)

A number of the other bidders also complained that the Board was requiring a performance bond after the bids had already been opened, thus requiring the bidder to pay for the bond outside the cost as bid.

M. Ramachandran, the owner of Bit 'N' Bytes, who had submitted the lowest bid also had a telephone conference call after the bids were opened with several members of the Board. Discussed during that call were such things as whether the equipment to be supplied by Bits 'N' Bytes would meet the specifications and Bits 'N' Bytes' experience in the industry. On June 25, 1992, the Board of Education awarded the contract for all computer equipment to Bits 'N' Bytes. The award was recorded in the minutes of the special business meeting as follows:

> WHEREAS, advertised proposals were received, opened and read on June 12, 1992, for the purpose of purchasing COMPUTER EQUIPMENT for the Senior High School, Howard M. Phifer Middle School and Elementary Schools of Pennsauken Township: and
> WHEREAS, the following responsible bidder submitted the lowest price in conformance with the specifications:
>
> RESOLUTION: Purchase of Computer Equipment (cont'd)
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | BITS 'N' BYTES, Highland, NJ | $241,000.00 |
> | Elementary School | 151,932.00 |
> | Howard M. Phifer Middle School | 30,186.00 |
> | Senior High School | 57,734.00 |
> THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken that purchase orders be issued to the bidder named, in the amount shown, payable from the 1991-1992 Budget. (Year-end spending) Acct. #730 D)

> Other bidders were: Micro Tree Corp., Everything Electronic, Smart Computer Co., United Resources, P C & T, Judge Computer, IBM Corp. (P-3 in evidence)

Mr. Katinsky, on behalf of Everything Electronic, immediately complained about the award of the contract; he confirmed his complaints in writing by letter dated June 30, 1992, sent to Mr. Ragone and to the Board attorney. That letter provided:

> This will confirm our conversation of Thursday, June 25, 1992, during which I advised you that our company considers the contract award for the procurement of computer equipment to Bits and Bytes to be improper.
> I noted at the bid opening, and advised your purchasing agent, that the bid from the above referenced firm did not meet the requirements of item #7 of your bidding instructions since the manufacturer of the computer equipment to be supplied was omitted from the bid. Item #7 clearly states "When quoting substitutes or equal, please specify manufacturer, brand and catalog number.
> I was later advised that your purchasing agent called this vendor to inquire as to what brand they intended to supply, received an answer, and the vendor subsequently called back to change the brand of equipment and the equipment specifications. All of this took place after the bid opening and before the award.
> I hereby request that all of the documents relating to this bid, including the original bids, notes of telephone conversations between your purchasing agent and any bidder, and notes taken during any meeting relating to this bid, be submitted to your Board attorney for a determination as to the validity of this award. (P-5 in evidence)

By another letter dated the same day, Mr. Katinsky complained to Mr. Ragone and the Board attorney that he had been denied access by Barbara Heubel to a copy of the purchase orders issued to Bit 'N' Bytes for their computer procurement. He subsequently received copies of those documents under cover letter from Mr. Ragone, dated July 6, 1992, which provided as follows:

> Pursuant to your letter of June 30th, 1992 as to the validity of the Computer Bid award, we have had the Board Solicitor review the documents and upon his findings we are informing you that the award made on June 25th, 1992 will stand.
> You already have a copy of the bid documents and the copies of the purchase orders that you requested are attached.
> If you have any other questions, please feel free to call me at 609-8500, ext. 209 (sic). (P-12 in evidence)

By letter dated June 30, 1992, Ms. Heubel returned to Mr. Katinsky the certified check which was submitted with his bid for computer equipment. The envelope containing the check was mailed from the Pennsauken post office on July 1, 1992.

Another purchase order dated July 14, 1992, was issued to Bits 'N' Bytes for one "NEW 386 DX with 3 1/2 drive as per your specifications on bid." The purchase order also stated "This machine is to (be) installed first for use by Personnel to see what your machines will be like." That unit was shipped and received in Mr. Ragone's office on July 27, 1992. The performance bond required by the Board of Education was issued by Amwest Surety Insurance Company on July 13, 1992 and was submitted by Bits 'N' Bytes to the Board on July 14, 1992. This concludes the recitation of the uncontested facts.

Mr. Ramachandran testified that his bid had not mentioned a brand name of computer because the specifications issued by the Board had requested only "IBM compatible." He testified that the computers he will be providing will meet or exceed the bid specifications. He indicated that he had not regarded paragraph 7 of the Instructions and Directions for Submitting Bid Proposals, which states, "When quoting substitutes or equal, please specify manufacturer, brand name and catalog number," to be relevant to his bid because he had bid as specified without substituting or offering an equal. He denied that he had ever guaranteed any specific brand name computer to the Board members or to Ms. Heubel in any conversation which had taken place after the bid opening. He acknowledged that a conversation concerning what kind of computer he would be supplying had occurred and during that conversation he had mentioned Fountain as a possibility. When he had discovered that Fountain computers would not be available to him to fill the contract he subsequently advised the Board that Bits 'N' Bytes would assemble its own computer using a Chicony motherboard. The sample unit supplied to the Board after Bits 'N' Bytes was awarded the contract was this kind of computer, he testified. Mr. Ramachandran also testified that it is fairly common for Boards of Education to issue contract specifications without requesting a particular band name computer. One reason for this practice, he suggested, was that the computer industry is very fast paced and any particular manufacturer's model availability can change very quickly.

Edwin N. Ragone, Board Secretary and Business Administrator for Pennsauken Board of Education, testified that the specifications for computer equipment had been prepared by a committee of school district employees with expertise in computers. With the exception of Everything Electronic and perhaps IBM, none of the bidders had specified a brand name for the computers to be supplied and none had been required, Mr. Ragone testified. Mr. Ragone testified that it was his understanding from a conversation with Ms. Heubel that Mr. Katinsky had refused to provide the performance bond requested by the Board after the opening of bids unless the bond was paid for by the Board of Education. Accordingly, Mr. Ragone thought that Mr. Katinsky was not a qualified bidder eligible to receive an award of the contract in any event. He further testified that the evaluation model provided to the Board by Bits 'N' Bytes had not been requested or received prior to the award of the contract; he indicated that the purpose for ordering this sample had been two fold, one to provide a needed computer to a member of his staff and two, to evaluate whether the unit would meet the specifications. To date, however, he indicated the computer has not been used because programs from the existing computer have not been transferred to the new model nor has the new model been evaluated yet. Finally, he indicated that it had been important to award the contract and issue the purchase orders for the computer equipment before July 1, 1992, because the monies budgeted had been for the 1991-92 fiscal year ending June 30, 1992.

Jack Katinsky testified that Barbara Heubel had advised him during a conversation after the bid award that Mr. Ramachandran had originally said he would be supplying Fountain computers and called back a day or two later to say that he could not get Fountain and would be supplying his own brand. He explained that Fountain had an agreement with Everything Electronic to supply the computers called for in the specifications and therefore would not sell them to Bits 'N' Bytes. He stated that all computers with the same specifications are not the same and, therefore, it was his opinion that paragraph 7 of the Instructions and Directions for Submitting Bid Proposals required the supplying of a brand name so the Board would know what it was getting. He stated that if the specifications did not require the supplying of a brand name that they were deficient as being too vague.

With respect to the contested facts, I FIND that the specifications did not require the providing of a sample unit and that the evaluation model provided by Bits 'N' Bytes to the Board was provided after the awarding of the contract and played no part in the award process. I further FIND that no specific brand or manufacturer's model was promised by Bits 'N' Bytes to the Board and that the award of the contract was not premised upon expected receipt of any particular brand of computer as long as the computer was IBM compatible and otherwise met the specifications. The testimony of Mr. Ramachandran and Mr. Ragone in this regard was straightforward and sincere and Mr. Katinsky had no competent evidence to the contrary.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

It is clear that petitioner, as an unsuccessful bidder, may not not challenge the legality or sufficiency of the specifications pursuant to which respondent school board awarded the contract to respondent Bits 'N' Bytes, the low bidder. Camden Plaza Parking, v. City of Camden, 16 N.J. 150 (1954); Waszen v. City of Atlantic City, 1 N.J. 272 (1940); Albert F. Ruehl Co. v. Bd. of Trustees, Industrial Ed. 85 N.J. Super. 4 (Law. Div. 1964) The rationale of these holdings is "that one cannot endeavor to take advantage of a contract to be awarded under illegal specifications and then, when unsuccessful, seek to have the contract set aside." Waszen, Supra at 276. If petitioner had a problem with the clarity of the specifications, the time to raise that issue was before the bids were opened, not after.

Petitioner's alternate position is that the specifications clearly require the providing of a brand name for computers proposed to be supplied. The evidence on this issue is to the contrary, however. The specifications simply call for "IBM compatible" and accordingly, any computer which is IBM compatible and otherwise meets the specifications listed may be supplied. Paragraph 7 of Instructions and Directions for Submitting Bids Proposals, which states, "When quoting substitutes or equal please specify manufacturer, brand name and catalog number," obviously applies only where a brand name or specific manufacturer has been requested, as with the printers required under the specifications in this matter. Further, as pointed out by respondent Bits 'N' Bytes, there is no place on the specification form for indicating brand name of computers and with the exception of petitioner and possibly IBM none of the other bidders supplied a brand name. Since the specifications did not call for a brand name and no bidder was required to supply any, no bidder could obtain any unfair advantage by omitting that information. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish that the bid submitted by Bits 'N' Bytes did not comply with the specifications.

Belousofsky v. Bd. of Education of City of Linden, 54 N.J. Super. 219 (App. Div. 1959), cited by petitioner is not applicable to the within matter. In that case the court held that when essential information is missing from a bid when it is opened, it may not be supplied then or thereafter by the private understanding of the bidder and the board, nor otherwise. The facts in this matter reveal that the Board did not require a brand name to be specified with respect to the computers to be supplied. Although there apparently was some conversation between Mr. Ramachandran and the Board concerning the type of computers he anticipated supplying, that conversation was only incidental to the purpose of the call which was to advise that a performance bond would be required. Mr. Ramachandran testified convincingly that he had promised the Board nothing other than that the computers would meet the specifications and that the brand names mentioned were only possibilities. Such conversations should be discouraged as contrary to the paramount aims of the bidding statutes that all bidders bid upon the same thing and that the public know clearly what the bidder must give and the Board must receive for a consideration plainly stated. The bid submitted by Bits "N" Bytes conformed to the specifications furnished, however, and no information supplied during the conversations either altered or supplemented the proposal or induced the Board to award the contract to other than the lowest bidder, and as previously noted whether the Board should have specified a name brand or equivalent is an issue petitioner has no standing to raise.

Petitioner's other contentions are likewise without merit. In the absence of an order from the Commissioner or a court of competent jurisdiction restraining the Board from issuing a purchase order to Bits "N" Bytes, there was nothing improper about the Board's determination to proceed with the contract as awarded. Petitioner had his remedy in the within forum when the parties agreed not to implement the contract before a full hearing on the merits before the undersigned. Petitioner's allegation that the Board's purchasing assistant acted improperly in not returning checks to the unsuccessful bidders immediately after the award was made is not supported by the facts or applicable law. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-36 provides in pertinent part:

> . . .Within 3 days after the awarding of the contract and the approval of the contractor's performance bond the bid security of the remaining unsuccessful bidders shall be returned to them forthwith, Sundays and holidays excepted.

The performance bond provided by Bits "N" Bytes was not received by the Board until July 14, 1992, and petitioner's bid security was returned to him by first class mail on July 1, 1992, even before it was required to be. Petitioner also complains that public documents he requested were not supplied to him promptly; the facts reveal that the purchase orders he requested on June 30, 1992 were supplied to him on July 6, 1992. N.J.S.A. 47:1A-2, the Right to Know Law, requires that every citizen shall have the right to inspect and hand copy certain public records during the regular business hours maintained by the custodian of the records. The custodian of the records is required to make copies available upon payment of the fees established in the statute. Mr. Katinsky could not hand copy the purchase orders in question himself on July 30, 1992, because at the time he was present at the Board office the purchase orders had not yet been prepared. After they were prepared later that same day, copies were made available to him less than one week later. The statute is silent concerning the length of time permitted between a request for copies of the records and their provision by the custodian and therefore a reasonable time must be presumed. Less than one week was not an unreasonable period of time, and petitioner suffered no prejudice from the brief delay.

For all the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that he is entitled to the relief which he seeks, and accordingly the within matter is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Everything Electronic v. Bd. Of Ed . of Pennsauken and Bits "N" Bytes
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5708-92

Dear Mr. Katinsky, Mr. Maloney & Mr. Ramachandran:

I have reviewed the entire record in this matter and the relevant statutes and case law. As I indicated at the hearing on Tuesday, it is clear that petitioner as an unsuccessful bidder has no standing to challenge the adequacy of the specifications. Further, it appears that Mr. Ramachandran's bid conformed to the specifications furnished. I see no other circumstances which would warrant vacating the award of the contract or requiring the contract to be rebid. Accordingly, no temporary restraints will be issued pending the issuance of a final decision in this matter. My initial decision has been delayed briefly because of an injury to my right shoulder, but I expect to issue it tomorrow.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PENNSAUKEN, CAMDEN COUNTY, AND BITS 'N' BYTES,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. A letter of exception, without proof of service, was filed by petitioner pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. This letter essentially reiterates arguments already raised before the ALJ and need not be set forth at length herein.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the specifications promulgated by the Board of Education did not require bidders to provide a specific brand name for the computers offered; it required only that they be IBM compatible. Therefore, the successful bidder was not offering a substitute or equivalent such as to have invoked the requirements of Item No. 7 in the bidding instructions, and his bid fully conformed to the published specifications. Petitioner's objections to the Board's having elected to draft its specifications in this manner, including his concern about the possible educational problems which may arise from a bidder supplying multiple brands, reach to the adequacy of the specifications themselves and are, therefore, outside his ability to raise in this context as noted by the ALJ.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons well stated therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed in the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on September 8, 1992 following dismissal of the same matter without prejudice to file before the Commissioner of Education for exhaustion of the administrative remedy by Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Cape May County; and

Whereas, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing on the application for emergent relief on September 10, 1992 and was heard on September 14, 1992; now therefore,

Upon careful consideration of the arguments raised by the parties, which review includes consideration of the oral arguments of the parties at the hearing by the Office of Administrative Law, as well as the ALJ's oral decision as contained in the tape recording of the hearing of September 14, 1992, the Commissioner hereby DENIES the Motion for Emergent Relief, petitioner having failed to meet those standards articulated by the Court for pendent lite restraints as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1992). In so finding, it is noted that no exceptions were filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

D. E. S. (petitioner) sought an order of the Commissioner of Education that the Lower Township Board of Education's (respondent) kindergarten admission policy is arbitrary, capricious and an abuse of discretionary authority. The petitioner sought (1) to amend the policy, (2) testing of her daughter for eligibility to attend kindergarten this year and (3) admission to kindergarten this year if her daughter's test results so indicate.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13 for a hearing on application for emergent relief. Oral argument was heard at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, on September 14, 1992 and the judge rendered a bench decision on the same day. For the reasons expressed on the record, the application was DENIED.

On October 5, 1992, the Commissioner affirmed the judge's decision. No appeal was taken. On November 10, 1992, the judge wrote to the petitioner, stating

> Dear Mrs. [S.]:
> On September 14, 1992, this tribunal denied your application for emergent relief in this matter. On October 5, 1992, the Commissioner of Education affirmed the decision.

For the Board, Vito Gagliardi, Jr. (Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on July 9, 1992 through certification of tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent, a tenured teacher in the Board's employ, on grounds of abandonment of position and absence without leave beginning September 3, 1991 and continuing to the time of filing; and

Whereas, the Commissioner directed respondent by two notices to file an Answer to the charges against her; and

Whereas, respondent filed no answer as of this date and the second of the Commissioner's notices, which was sent return receipt requested, certified mail to two separate last-known addresses, was returned marked "Returned to sender -- forwarding order expired" and "Returned to sender -- unclaimed"; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 2nd day of October 1992 that the Board's charges against respondent are deemed to be admitted, so that summary judgment shall be granted to the Board. Respondent is accordingly dismissed from tenured employment as of the date of this decision and the instant matter is referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a) for further action as it deems appropriate.

THOMAS J. BOLES, Petitioner, v. BOARD OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION IN THE COUNTY OF BERGEN Respondent	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 5392-91 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

Petitioner Thomas J. Boles ("Boles") and respondent, the Board of Education of the Vocational Schools of the County of Bergen ("the Board") hereby stipulate to the following terms and conditions of settlement, the same terms which were placed on the record before the Honorable Ken R. Springer, A.L.J. on July [illegible], 1992:

1. The Board shall by resolution reinstate Boles for the 1992-1993 school year at full salary based on his appropriate step and level of the teacher's salary guide and Boles shall receive all benefits normally due to a teaching staff member. Said salary shall be subject to all normal payroll deductions, including but not limited to, pension deductions. The payment by the Board to Boles will be subject to the approval of the within settlement by the Commissioner of Education. Boles' teaching assignment for the 1992-1993 school year shall be as designated by the Board.

2. The Board shall restore Boles' salary for the salary year 1990-1991 by paying Boles the sum of $25,943.20. That amount represents the full-time contract amount minus the actual payment made to Boles previously by the Board for the 1990-1991 school year. That amount also includes the appropriate TPAF pension contribution to be credited to Boles' TPAF account for the 1990-1991 school year.

3. Boles' reinstatement for the 1992-1993 school year shall become effective on September 1, 1992. On or before September 1, 1992, Boles shall sign and submit to the Board an irrevocable letter of resignation from all employment with the Board, to be effective at the close of business on September 30, 1992.

4. Boles shall waive any seniority claims arising out of his employment with the Board for the 1990-1991 school year and for the period of September 1, 1992 through October 1, 1992. Counsel for Boles has provided a letter opinion to counsel for the Board regarding the legal issues addressed by this settlement, specifically the legal and binding effect of (1) a waiver of seniority; (2) an irrevocable resignation; and (3) reinstatement of employment without prejudice to the position of the Board regarding the seniority and tenure rights of Boles as asserted in the above-captioned litigation. Counsel for Boles has rendered the opinion that the above waiver by Boles is effective and legally enforceable.

5. The settlement and resignation of Boles as outlined above are contingent upon the approval by the Board of the terms outlined in paragraphs 1 and 2 herein.

6. The parties further agree and acknowledge that the settlement agreement is contingent upon the review and approval by the Commissioner of Education of its terms as outlined herein.

7. This settlement is not contingent upon the favorable action of the Division of Pensions with regard to the pension application of Boles and Boles enters into this agreement knowing that the Division of Pensions' grant or denial of his pension application is not a factor or term of this settlement agreement.

8. Boles shall execute a general release in favor of the Board in the form accompanying this Agreement. However, nothing in this agreement, or the general release given by Boles shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any term of this Agreement should there be a default in performance. Said release shall be held in escrow by the Board attorney until September 30, 1992 and shall not be released from escrow unless the Board has fully complied with this Agreement on or before that date.

9. Boles shall withdraw and dismiss with prejudice the litigation known as Boles v. Bergen County Vocational Schools of the County of Bergen, Docket No. EDU 5392-91, now pending before the Office of Administrative Law.

10. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel of his or its own choosing and that they sign this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

11. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Stipulation of Settlement and bind the Board to its terms. Boles, hereby acknowledges that he has consulted with counsel prior to entering into the within agreement and agrees to be bound by the terms as set forth herein.

SHIP, OCEAN COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, two unsuccessful candidates for election to Board, sought inquiry into alleged violations of election law (improper electioneering).

Initial decision determined petitioner failed to produce sufficient evidence to establish truth of any complaint of improper conduct by Board member. ALJ found Board member's persuading store to take down campaign sign was not a violation of election law. Request for inquiry was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision, affirming results of election as originally announced.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2999-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 105-4/92

IN THE MATTER ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE JACKSON TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,

Curtis M. Briggs and Joshua J. Reilly, petitioners, pro se
Vickie Rickabaugh, pro se
Russell Weiss, Jr., Esq., on behalf of the Jackson Township Board of Education

Record Closed: August 20, 1992 Decided: August 21, 1992

BEFORE DANIEL B. McKEOWN, ALJ:

Curtis M. Briggs and Joshua J. Reilly (petitioners) were unsuccessful candidates for election to the Jackson Township Board of Education at the annual school election held April 7, 1992. On the very date of the election, petitioners filed a letter complaint with the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools who forwarded the letter to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner's office treated the letter complaint as a request for an inquiry and transferred the matter April 29, 1992 to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq., A hearing was scheduled and conducted August 19, 1992 at the Jackson Township Municipal Building, Jackson Township.

Findings are reached in this initial decision that petitioners failed to produce sufficient evidence to establish the truth of any complaint of improper conduct by Board Member Vickie Rickabaugh. Therefore, the conclusion is reached that the entire matter should be dismissed and the announced election results affirmed.

FACTS

Petitioners' letter complaint is reproduced here in full:

We have been informed that a member of the Jackson Board of education may have engaged in improper electioneering. As candidates in the Jackson Board of Education election we have been posting our campaign literature in various store-fronts - with the permission of the store-owners and managers - of course.

Not long ago, it was reported to us that a certain Jackson Board of Education member, the name given to us was Mrs. Vickie Rickabaugh, had attempted to have our literature removed by intimidating and harassing store employees, and in some instances she may have vandalized or defaced our signs. In accordance with State ethics code, and is common practice in Board of Education elections, we as candidates and citizens request that an inquiry or investigation into these matters be undertaken by Board of Elections, and/or the County Superintendent's office.

While we do not know conclusively whether or not these statements are fact, we believe that an investigation is appropriate and should be conducted to determine their validity.

Please make note: we request this letter be filed as a formal complaint. We would appreciate if prompt attention be given this matter.

Three three year vacancies were filled at the annual school election. The total vote received by each of six announced candidates is as follows:

Name	Total Votes
Michael W. Gilbertson	968
Twila M. Rust	740
Earl Crawford	895
Curtis M. Briggs	397
Frank R. Reilly	405
Joshua J. Reilly	283

Candidates Gilbertson, Rust, and Crawford were declared successful candidates for membership to the Board.

The essence of petitioners' complaint is set forth in an affidavit of Faye Powell which is reproduced here, not for the truth of its contents because the affidavit is not in evidence, but simply to provide a background for the complaint.

1. I [Faye Powell] am employed by the WaWa Corporation, at their store on the corner of 528, and Bennetts Mills Rd. Jackson, N.J.

2. My responsibilities include waiting on customers and acting as Cashier, as well as Shift Manager.

3. Prior to the incident in question, which occurred about the second week of March 1992, the exact date escapes me. Joshua Reilly, a candidate for the Board of Education brought into my WaWa store several signs. They stated "Briggs & Reilly for Board of Education" as well as "Vote Yes for Education". Joshua asked if I would place them in the outer window(s). Seeing no problem with the request, I placed the signs in the window(s) immediately.

   I feel it is important to mention that no other candidates for the Board of Education asked to have their election materials displayed either before or after the Briggs and Reilly posters were in place.

4. Several days after the Briggs & Reilly signs had been posted Mrs. Vicki Rickabaugh came into the store and made a loud announcement. Mrs. Rickabaugh said "I didn't think that WaWa participated in politics."

5. Mrs. Rickabaugh then made such a ruckus, and was so insistent that the Briggs & Reilly signs be removed that Barbara Cuddy, the district supervisor, feeling so intimidated by Mrs. Rickabaugh, and fearing that she would lose customers, due to the outburst reluctantly took down all posters pertaining to the Board of Ed. election; namely those mentioned previously ("Briggs & Reilly" and "Vote Yes for Education")

6. After hearing Mrs. Rickabaugh's complaint from the back room, I came out to the main register area of the store were [sic] I was also confronted by Mrs. Rickabaugh.

7. I asked Mrs. Rickabaugh, "What is the trouble?" and I asked, "Why [sic] the posters were removed?"

8. Mrs. Rickabaugh replied, in an extremely rude and intimidating fashion, "Why would I vote for an eighteen year old?"

9. I now know that she was derrogatoraly [sic] referring to Curtis Briggs, however, at the time thinking she was referring to Joshua Reilly I said, "He is not 18."

10. Vicki then asked "Do you want your taxes to go up?" I replied by saying that taxes go up anyway no matter who is on the Board.

11. I additionally said, "I think is it s a good thing to have youth on the Board of Ed. especially someone who went to the Jackson school system and is now attending college. I think he knows what the school systems needs. Josh comes from a fine family and in my opinion is qualified for the position on the School Board."

12. Then, I walked away to assist a customer.

13. Vicki continued on being negative towards Curtis Briggs and Joshua Reilly for some while longer, until the signs were all down and she eventually left.

14. I do not recall how many patrons were in the store during Mrs. Rickabaugh's tyrade [sic], but I hope that statements she made did not hinder Joshua Reilly or Curtis Briggs in the School Board election, as that was clearly her aim.

15. I told Joshua Reilly what Mrs. Rickabaugh had done a day or two after the incident.

Personally, I feel Mrs. Rickabaugh's actions the day of the incident were completely improper. She has a great deal of influence in Jackson, as a Board of Ed. member, and as a member of other civic groups. I believe that her attack on Joshua Reilly and Curtis Briggs - two young people trying to make a difference in their community - was completely unfounded and just plain wrong.

Petitioner called as a witness Barbara Cuddy, the WaWa district supervisor to whom reference is made in the foregoing background affidavit. Ms. Cuddy says that WaWa does not make political statements nor does it allow its stores to be used for political purposes. However, because she has 13 stores to supervise she relies upon the judgment of individual managers whether to accept election materials, such as here, for posting in the individual store's window. In this case, Ms. Cuddy testified that she recalls seeing Ms. Rickabaugh and another women whom she did not identify in the WaWa store in Jackson and the subject of the posters for petitioners being in the windows was brought up. When the topic was brought up, Ms. Cuddy testified she went to the window area, removed the posters, and that was the end of that. According to Ms. Cuddy, Ms. Rickabaugh did not at any time intimidate her nor did Ms. Rickabaugh harass her in any form. Ms. Cuddy did claim that the woman who was with Ms. Rickabaugh was more vocal than Ms. Rickabaugh but that even that women did not intimidate nor harass her.

Ms. Cuddy acknowledge that WaWa Corporation is a private employer; that if her supervisor instructed her to allow petitioners' posters to remain in the windows, they would have remained; Ms. Cuddy was emphatic that she did not remove the posters because of any "order" from Ms. Rickabaugh nor because of Ms. Rickabaugh's membership on the Board; and, that the posters were removed simply because WaWa does not make political statements.

Petitioner Briggs testified that in addition to the foregoing WaWa incident, which this judge assesses to be the pivotal incident in this matter, he was in a strip shopping mall about one or two weeks before the April 7 election handing out literature. He testified that he observed Ms. Rickabaugh tearing down election signs he had placed on unoccupied store fronts. The signs were to be advocating his and Reilly's election. This incident was to have occurred before the WaWa incident. Sometime before April 6, petitioners wrote a joint letter to the Board in which they complained of reports being made to them that Ms. Rickabaugh was attempting to have their signs and literature removed from stores in which they had already been placed. They also complained to the Board that Ms. Rickabaugh was harassing and intimidating owners and employees and that she may have vandalized or defaced their signs. No mention is made in this letter (B-1) of Mr. Briggs' personal observation he says he made of Ms. Rickabaugh tearing down signs he placed on unoccupied store fronts. However, he says that this letter was written prior to that observation. However, if that be so there is no explanation in this record why the letter was received in the superintendent of schools' office on April 6, 1992.

Moreover, no mention is made of this personal observation in the letter complaint filed with the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools which letter forms the basis for this inquiry and as that letter is reproduced above. Finally, petitioner-Briggs wrote a letter (B-3) on April 7, 1992 to the Board Secretary complaining of Ms. Rickabaugh's conduct but nowhere in that letter is his asserted personal observation reported.

In each of the three letters discussed (B-1, B-2, B-3), petitioners complain of the conduct of Ms. Rickabaugh and predicate those complaints upon other unidentified people reporting to them. Petitioner Briggs explained at hearing that he was reluctant to report his observation in order not to become the target of a defamation suit and he was uncertain whether the other individuals who were complaining to him of Ms. Rickabaugh's conduct would testify at hearing. Petitioner Briggs also testified that a local pharmacy removed their signs from the windows because of a complaint received from a female who was described in a manner that leads Briggs to believe it was Ms. Rickabaugh. Finally, Briggs testified that both he and petitioner Reilly found signs torn down from various locations throughout towns and that the signs were defaced but that he does not know if Ms. Rickabaugh is responsible.

Ms. Rickabaugh testified under oath that at no time did she remove, tear down, deface, or mutilate any signs which had been posted by either petitioner Briggs or petitioner Reilly. Ms. Rickabaugh further testified with respect to the WaWa incident, she was not rude, intimidating, angry, boisterous, and she denies engaging in any conduct which could in anyway be considered inappropriate.

ANALYSIS

The pivotal WaWa incident occurred on essentially private property, though that property is used as a public accommodation, and consisted of discourse regarding an election. While it is true that school elections are to be nonpartisan, the election process in school election certainly engenders discourse on opposing views. Even if everything asserted in the affidavit of Faye Powell as reproduced above is true, none of what is asserted is contrary to any school election law in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-1, et seq. What is asserted constitutes discourse in the election process and as such is a highly protected form of speech both by the United States and New Jersey Constitutions. No reasonable person could read the representations made by Faye Powell and conclude that Ms. Rickabaugh improperly used her office as a Board member. If the WaWa Corporation, through Ms Cuddy or her supervisor or someone else in authority, elected to allow the signs of petitioners to remain in their windows, they would have so remained. True, the WaWa Corporation is concerned about community relations and maintaining a solid customer clientele and would, it so appears, not engage in conduct which displeases its customers However, those kinds of economic concerns do not eliminate the basic rule that Ms Rickabaugh engaged solely in election discourse. That WaWa removed the signs following the visit of Ms. Rickabaugh is either happenstance or a direct cause of the visit. In either case, nevertheless, the conduct of Ms. Rickabaugh is not contrary to any school election law.

Petitioner Briggs' argument that Ms. Rickabaugh's conduct contravenes N.J.S.A. 18A:14-101 is simply without merit. That statue provides in full as follows:

> No person shall by abduction, duress or any forceable or fraudulent device or contrivance whatever, impede, prevent or otherwise interfere with the free exercise of the elective franchise by any voter at any election; or compel, induce or prevail upon any voter either to vote or refrain from voting at any election, or to vote or refrain from voting for any particular person or persons at any election.

Ms. Rickabaugh's conduct as is represented by the background affidavit above cannot be considered interference with the free exercise of the elective franchise by any voter at any election nor may it be seen as the compulsion, inducement, or the prevailing upon any voter to vote or to refrain from voting at any election or to vote or refrain from voting for any particular person at any election. In short, the WaWa incident is a private matter as between WaWa and petitioners, and, if not solely a private matter, then it is a matter over which the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction.

In regard to petitioner's Briggs' testimony that he observed Ms. Rickabaugh tear down signs he placed on the store fronts of unoccupied buildings at a strip shopping mall, I do not find such testimony persuasive in light of the absence of any comment Briggs easily could have made in any one of the three letters referenced earlier (B-1, B-2, B-3) and in light of Ms. Rickabaugh's denial of having engaged in such conduct. Neither petitioner offered any evidence suggesting Ms. Rickabaugh had any role in the tearing down of any signs throughout the community which were subsequently, to use the words of petitioner Briggs, defaced.

In short, I find that evidence presented by petitioners in support of their complaint wholly insufficient to establish as fact that Ms. Rickabaugh, as a sitting member of the Jackson Township Board of Education, engaged in any conduct with respect to the 1992 annual school election which in any way could be considered a violation of any election law. Therefore, the complaint is DISMISSED. The results of the election earlier announced and as set forth above are AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JACKSON TOWNSHIP, OCEAN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.*

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that no violations of election law were shown to have occurred herein even if the affidavit of Ms. Powell were accepted arguendo as true in its entirety, as the actions complained of in that affidavit do not constitute violations of election law and petitioners' other allegations were insufficiently supported by competent evidence.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing petitioners' request for inquiry and affirming the results of the election as originally announced is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: August 19, 1992 Decided: August 20, 1992

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the tenure charges filed against the respondent, Michael Butynes, by the petitioner, the Berlin Township Board of Education. The respondent requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 11, 1991, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

There was a prehearing conference on December 11, 1991, before Administrative Law Judge Richard J. Murphy, and at that time it was decided that the hearing would start on June 8, 1992.

Thereafter, the matter was reassigned to me and I adjourned the hearing dates since the parties were discussing a settlement. Prior to the rescheduled hearing, the parties agreed to a settlement. This settlement is contained in the attached signed stipulation which is incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms, and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily reached a settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I further CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT
OF TENURE CHARGES

This Stipulation of Settlement of Tenure Charges ("Stipulation of Settlement") is entered into by and between the Berlin Township Board of Education ("Board") and Michael Butynes ("Butynes").

WHEREAS, Butynes was a tenured elementary school physical education teacher employed by the Board; and

WHEREAS, in April, 1991 the Board eliminated the elementary physical education program due to budgetary constraints, thus eliminating Butynes' teaching position; and

WHEREAS, the legality of said reduction in force has not been challenged; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 10, 1991 tenure charges were filed against Butynes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11; and

WHEREAS, on June 27, 1991 the Board adopted a resolution certifying tenure charges against Butynes for conduct unbecoming a teacher; and

WHEREAS, said tenure charges were filed with the Commission of Education ("Commissioner") on or about July 15, 1991; and

WHEREAS, Butynes has denied the allegations set forth in the tenure charges and has challenged said charges before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 and administrative regulations promulgated thereunder; and

WHEREAS, to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainty of future litigation, and in view of the unique circumstances in which the tenured position at issue has been eliminated due to a reduction in force, and considering that the tenure charges do not involve criminal or immoral conduct, the Board and Butynes desire to amicably settle and resolve this matter and to bring these tenure charges to a final resolution; and

WHEREAS, Butynes and the Board agree that the settlement of the pending tenure charges as set forth herein is consistent with the criteria set forth in In re Cardonick and is otherwise in the public interest; and

WHEREAS, the Board has expressly authorized the entering into of this Stipulation of Settlement as per the resolution of the Board attached hereto and incorporated by reference as if full set forth; and

WHEREAS, Butynes has had the benefit of advice from his own legal counsel in connection with the terms of the Stipulation of Settlement;

NOW THEREFORE, Butynes and the Board agree to the following stipulations supporting a settlement of the within tenure charges:

1. The Board shall provide Butynes and all prospective employers with a neutral employment letter from the Superintendent of Schools, a copy of which is attached hereto and incorporated herewith, which recites Butynes' dates of employment, job responsibilities and other school activities in which Butynes participated while employed by the Board.

2. Butynes shall submit his unconditional letter of resignation to the Board immediately, effective July 1, 1991, and the Board shall accept said resignation. Butynes understands and agrees that his resignation cannot be later revoked or rescinded.

3. Butynes understands and agrees that his resignation and the entering into of this Stipulation of Settlement extinguishes, terminates, waives and/or revokes any and all tenure, employment and reemployment rights he may have as a teaching staff member with the Board. Butynes further understands and agrees that his employment relationship with the Board and tenure rights are permanently and irrevocably severed, that he will not seek reemployment with the Board, and that the Board has no obligation, contractual, statutory or otherwise, to rehire, re-employ, recall or place him on any tenure eligibility list.

4. The Board shall forthwith withdraw the tenure charges pending before the Commissioner.

5. The Board and Butynes hereby release, remise and forever discharge each other from any and all claims, demands, rights, actions, damages, or liabilities of any description arising out of or related to Butynes employment with the Board, including but not limited to the aforementioned tenure charges, claims for additional compensation, or wrongful termination of employment.

6. This Stipulation of Settlement is not, and shall not be construed to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party. Rather, the parties have entered into this Stipulation of Settlement for the sole purpose of resolving the aforementioned tenure charges and all other issues arising from Butynes' employment without the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of litigation.

7. This Stipulation of Settlement shall be binding upon and run in favor of each parties' heirs, assignees, agents, servants, employees, officers, board members, and successors in interest.

8. The tenure charges filed by the Board do not involve immoral, abusive or criminal conduct. Rather, the essence of the charges stem from discord between the parties that developed after notice of the elimination of the physical education program and concomitant reduction in force. For those reasons, as well as the monetary risks involved, potential legal fees, delay, the uncertainty of the outcome of tenure hearings, and the desire of both parties to bring these tenure charges to a final and amicable resolution, Butynes and the Board agree that this settlement is in the public interest.

9. It is expressly agreed that this Stipulation of Settlement is contingent upon the Commissioner's approval of the parties' agreement to withdraw the tenure charges. Should the Commissioner fail to approve the parties' application for withdrawal of the tenure charges, this Stipulation of Settlement shall be null and void, and the parties shall attempt to restructure the settlement to obtain the Commissioner's approval. If the parties are unable to obtain Commissioner approval, this Stipulation of Settlement shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent tenure hearing.

10. This Stipulation of Settlement is freely and voluntarily executed by each party hereto. Butynes acknowledges that he has had the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement fully explained to him by his own legal counsel and that he understands such terms and the legal implications arising therefrom.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto set their hands and seals on this 12 day of August, 1992.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, riffed high school industrial arts teacher, sought restoration of pay and benefits when he was not recalled from preferred eligibility list for position in new high school program, Students Exhibiting the Need for a Structured Environment (S.E.N.S.E.).

ALJ found petition was filed untimely as petitioner filed more than 90 days after September 21, 1990, date of meeting at which he became aware that the S.E.N.S.E. position had already been filed. ALJ determined relaxation of 90-day rule was not warranted. (N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15)

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision. Petition was dismissed.

(Ribis, Graham & Curtin, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 18, 1992 Decided: August 20, 1992

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Dewayne Davenport (petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) on June 18, 1991 seeking restoration of pay and benefits and other relief from the Butler Board of Education (respondent). Respondent filed an answer on July 12, 1991, in which it raised the alleged untimeliness of the filing of the petition as an affirmative defense. The DOE subsequently transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on July 18, 1991 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14-1 et seq.

An initial telephone conference was conducted on April 27, 1992. Subsequent conferences were held, and a hearing was scheduled for August 19, 1992.

The parties filed prehearing memoranda in July 1992. On July 23, 1992, respondent filed a formal motion for summary decision, arguing that the petition had been untimely filed with the DOE. Petitioner filed a brief in opposition to the motion on August 10, 1992, and respondent filed a reply thereto on August 13, 1992. At this judge's request, petitioner filed citations of unreported cases relied on by him on August 14, 1992.

A telephone conference was held on August 17, 1992, at which time the parties were advised that the motion for summary decision would be granted and that an oral initial decision would be rendered on August 19, 1992, unless the parties preferred not to appear on that date. Telephone communications on August 18, 1992 confirmed that the parties would not appear on the scheduled date and would await the issuance of an initial decision. The record was closed on August 18, 1992.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery that have been filed, in addition to any affidavits, demonstrate that there is no genuine issue regarding any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. I am persuaded that the material facts relating to respondent's motion for summary decision are not in dispute.

I FIND the following to be FACTS:

1. As of April 27, 1989, petitioner was a tenured teacher with 17 years of seniority as a high school Industrial Arts teacher employed by respondent.

2. On April 27, 1989, respondent undertook a reduction in force (RIF) in which petitioner's position was abolished effective June 30, 1989. The RIF was implemented because of declining enrollment and defeat of a school budget. At the time of the RIF, petitioner was placed on a preferred eligibility list, on which he still remains.

3. In 1990, prior to the start of the 1990/1991 school year, respondent implemented a new program in its high school, referred to as S.E.N.S.E. -- Students Exhibiting the Need for a Structured Environment.

4. On July 30, 1990, respondent appointed Bernard Stiroh (Stiroh) to the position of S.E.N.S.E. teacher.

5. By letter dated September 6, 1990 to Frank Stranzle (Stranzle), respondent's Superintendent of Schools, petitioner noted his understanding that a new position, known as a S.E.N.S.E. teacher, would be started at the high school in September 1990. Petitioner stated that he was qualified and "in line" for the position, and he requested a response by September 21, 1990.

6. Stranzle responded to petitioner by letter dated September 11, 1990, scheduling a meeting for September 21, 1990.

7. A meeting between petitioner and Stranzle was held on September 21, 1990. Petitioner was accompanied by Allan T. Fox (Fox), a New Jersey Education Association (N.J.E.A.) field representative. At this meeting, Stranzle advised petitioner that the S.E.N.S.E. teacher position had already been filled for the 1990/1991 school year by Stiroh; Stranzle also stated that Stiroh had taught English at the high school and had substantially more seniority than petitioner (26 years of seniority as of that time).

8. Petitioner was not recalled from the preferred eligibility list to fill the S.E.N.S.E. position or any position.

9. By letter dated November 28, 1990, Fox communicated with Stranzle regarding petitioner's claim to the S.E.N.S.E. position. By letter dated February 13, 1991, Jim Kelly, president of the Butler Education Association, requested that Stranzle forward a copy of the seniority list. By letter dated March 5, 1991, Zella Felzenberg, an N.J.E.A. field representative, advised Stranzle that a seniority list still had not been received.

10. Petitioner and/or a union representative received a seniority list from respondent pertaining to petitioner sometime in March 1991.* The reasons for any delay in providing the seniority list are not apparent.

11. Davenport filed a peittion with the DOE on June 18, 1991 alleging that his seniority/reemployment rights had been violated in relation to the S.E.N.S.E. position.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDERS

Local boards of education have the authority to undertake RIFs. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. A teacher dismissed as a result of a RIF is to be maintained on a preferred eligibility list based on seniority pertaining to any vacancies in positions for which he is qualified for purposes of reappointment. Id. §12. Local school boards are required to notify staff members of their seniority status. N.J.S.A. 18:28-11.

The Commissioner of the DOE has general jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. Id. §9. The DOE has promulgated regulations regarding the prosecution and hearing of such cases, N.J.A.C. 1:24-1.1 et seq. The regulations incorporate a 90-day time limit on the filing of petitions. A petition must be filed no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of notice of an official order, ruling, or other action by a board of education, individual party, or agency which is the subject of the requested case hearing. Id. §1.2(c). The rules pertaining to consideration of controversies and disputes may be relaxed, in the Commissioner's discretion, where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice. Id. §1.15.

* There is a disagreement between the parties, as evidenced by the documents filed, regarding the date on which the list was received. Respondent avers that it was faxed to a union representative on March 7, 1991; petitioner states that it was received in late March 1991. The resolution of this question is not determinative.

Petitioner argues that the 90 days began to run from the date of receipt of the seniority list. Respondent argues that the 90 days began to run on September 21, 1990. I am persuaded by respondent's arguments.

The statute of limitations reflected in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 applies to claims alleging a violation of tenure or seniority rights. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Township, 255 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1992) (Kaprow); Gordon v. Passaic Township Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1929, aff'd (N.J. App Div., May 27, 1986, A-3294-84T7) (unreported), certif. den. 105 N.J. 534 (1986) (Gordon). The 90-day rule is to be strictly applied. Gordon, supra. Dennis Moreland v. Passaic Board of Education, 3 N.J.A.R. 276 (1980).

Kaprow and Gordon are factually analogous to the instant matter. Both involved claims of alleged violations of the right to reemployment. In each case, the petition of appeal was dismissed as having been untimely filed under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. In Kaprow, the court concurred with a ruling of the State Board of Education that the applicable 90-day period commenced on the date on which the petitioner was advised by the local board secretary of appointments to positions to which the petitioner later laid claim. In Gordon, the State Board of Education ruled that petitioner's cause of action, and his obligation to file a petition of appeal, arose at the time he first became aware of a newly-created position and the appointment of someone else thereto.

In Kaprow, the court upheld dismissal of the petition although the local board had "stonewalled" Kaprow by not answering his letters in a timely fashion and had failed to comply with the statutory requirement of creating a preferred list.

> While we find it difficult to understand the Local Board's failure to comply with the statutory requirement of creating a preferred list and of notifying Kaprow of the openings, followed by their unexplained failure to promptly respond to his letters, we cannot disagree with the State Board's conclusion that Kaprow deliberately slept on his rights by his failure to file his petition within 90 days. Kaprow at 91.

Davenport's petition alleges that respondent failed to reemploy him for the subsequently-created S.E.N.S.E. position, in violation of his tenure and seniority rights. At least as of September 21, 1990, petitioner had actual knowledge of the existence of the newly-created S.E.N.S.E. position, of respondent's appointment of another member of the teaching staff to that position, and of respondent's stand on petitioner's seniority claim. The applicable 90-day period for the filing of his petition expired on December 20, 1990. Although respondent's failure to provide a seniority list until March 1991 is not condoned, it is not determinative.

I am also persuaded that relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted. As noted hereinabove, the applicable statute of limitations is strictly applied. It was not relaxed in Kaprow, notwithstanding the fact that the local board had failed to create a preferred eligibility list and to promptly respond to petitioner's claims of entitlement. In Gordon, a claim for relaxation based on petitioner's pursuit of an amicable resolution of his claim, prior to the filing of a petition of appeal, was rejected. The situation in this case does not call for relaxation of the 90-day rule.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that Davenport's petition was not timely filed with the Commissioner of the DOE pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c); that the 90-day statute of limitations reflected in that regulation should not be relaxed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15; and that respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted.

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED. It is also ORDERED that Davenport's petition be and is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner adopts as his own the findings of the Office of Administrative Law concluding that the instant Petition of Appeal is untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and that no basis has been demonstrated for relaxation of the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the Office of Administrative Law, the Commissioner dismisses this matter with prejudice.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured industrial arts teacher at secondary level, alleged Board improperly riffed him while retaining less senior individual, Intervenor Jeffrey Faherty.

ALJ dismissed petition finding that petitioner did not have the required certificate to teach the vocational courses in printing and graphic arts taught by intervenor who did possess a vocational graphic arts certificate.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 249-7/90

HOWARD ACKERMAN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF CITY OF HACKENSACK, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., for petitioner (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Frank N. D'Ambra, Esq., for respondent (Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

Alfred F. Maurice, Esq., for Intervenor Jeffrey Faherty (Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 10, 1992 Decided: August 17, 1992

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On July 19, 1990, Howard Ackerman, petitioner, filed a petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education alleging that he was subject to a reduction in force (RIF) for the 1990-91 school year while the Board of Education of City of Hackensack (Board), respondent, continued to employ intervenor, Jeffrey Faherty, an individual with less seniority, in a full-time position within the scope of petitioner's tenure and seniority.

The Board filed its answer on August 20, 1990 denying the allegations of the petition. On October 29, 1990, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

After receiving notice of the proceeding, Faherty, the present incumbent of the disputed position, was granted leave to intervene.

In a series of conferences with the undersigned, it was determined that the parties would develop a joint stipulation of the facts in this matter and, in lieu of testimony, obtain a written response from the appropriate official of the State Department of Education to jointly submitted questions as to the nature of intervenor's certification and endorsements and the certification and endorsements required to teach the disputed position.

Hearing dates were scheduled for June 4 and 5, 1992. At the time of hearing, testimony was taken only as to the curriculum and content of the disputed courses. The record was held open until July 10, 1992, when the final submission was received.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

I FIND these FACTS to be as set forth in the following stipulation by the parties

1. Ackerman was continuously employed by respondent as an Industrial Arts teacher at the secondary level from February 5, 1973 through June 30, 1990

2. Ackerman has never taught Offset Printing I or II or Graphic Arts.

3. Faherty was employed by respondent in September 1973. For 1984-85, he took a personal leave of absence without pay. From 1985-86 through the present he has again taught Offset Printing I and II. In addition, in 1987-88, he also taught Graphic Arts. He has always taught at the secondary level.

4. Ackerman received a regular instructional certificate endorsed for Industrial Arts in January 1972. He holds no other certificates or endorsements.

5. Faherty had an emergency Industrial Arts certificate from October 1973 through July 1976. He was issued a regular instructional certificate in May 1977, endorsed for Graphic Arts. He holds no other certificates or endorsements.

6. By letter of April 24, 1992, Ackerman was advised that he would not be reemployed full-time by respondent for 1990-91.

7. Faherty was employed full-time by respondent for 1990-91. His schedule consisted of: Two periods per day of Offset Printing I, one period per day of Offset Printing II, one lunchroom supervision duty period per day, and two periods during which Faherty did printing jobs for the school district.

8. Faherty is employed full-time by respondent for the 1991-92 school year. His schedule for that year is the same as that for the 1990-91 school year.

9. If Ackerman had been employed by respondent for 1990-91, his salary would have been $58,555 (MA + 30, Step 14).

10. By letter of April 18, 1988, respondent's Superintendent of Schools requested an advisory seniority opinion from the Commissioner of Education.

11. An advisory opinion was issued by the Department of Education's Advisory Panel and signed by the Commissioner on July 13, 1988.

12. By letter of April 7, 1988, Faherty wrote for an opinion from the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools.

13. By letter of April 11, 1988, the Superintendent responded.

14. By agreement between the parties and the administrative law judge, a letter was transmitted to the Director of State Teacher Certification for an opinion.

15. At the request of the Director of Teacher Certification, the parties' request for an opinion with attachments was redirected to Thomas A. Henry, Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Vocational Education.

16. By letter of July 23, 1991, Dr. Henry responded. He attached the 1990-91 Fall Report, Manual for Coding Certificated Staff Status Report, and a copy of N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3 to his response.

REVIEW OF EVIDENCE

The course outline for Offset Printing I begins with an "introduction to printing" and "methods of printing" and proceeds through an "introduction to shop equipment," "construction of layouts," "arrangement of copy prints," "shooting the negative," "stripping the negative," "processing the plate," "preparing the Chief 15 and AB Dick 350 presses for printing," "operation of the presses," "maintenance of the presses," "preparation of the printed job," "basic operation of other printing equipment," and concludes with "careers in graphics."

The course outline for Offset Printing II starts with a review of the work and operations learned in Printing I, a "study of common job sizes," "advanced darkroom procedures," "advanced plate procedures," "studies of parts and functions of the presses," operation of another press (the Chief 17), maintenance of all three presses, a further discussion of "careers in graphics," and ends with "silk screening." The Graphic Arts I course requires as prerequisites Art I, Photography I, Mechanical Drawing I, or Offset Printing I, and an interview with the printing and art instructor. The course is designed to > develop the student's understanding of the fundamentals of design and composition through various graphic art processes. Specific emphasis will be placed on the use of student's original art and layout production. Various graphic techniques will be explored. . . .

The performance objectives of the course include the ability to "operate the present printshop equipment in a safe manner," the ability to "utilize various art media and art techniques to meet commercial needs," the ability to "complete basic paste-up and mechanical skills necessary for various graphic procedures," and the exploration of "employment opportunities in Graphic Arts and Design." Students are taught to operate the Compugraphic Edit Writer 7500, the Kenro 187 Camera, and the AB Dick 360 Offset Press and, generally, "to develop an understanding of the use of Graphic Arts for commercial application."

According to Faherty, not only are the course materials designed to give the students a working knowledge of the printing trades, the more advanced students actually run the print shop which produces the printed materials for the school district. They learn all aspects of printing from the assessment of the job, including ordering the materials needed, operating and maintaining the presses, binding the product, packaging it, and delivering it. The operation is run like a business to expose the students to the way a print shop should run. Students learn how to estimate the cost of jobs. When his students complete the course, they are ready for an entry-level job in the printing field.

Faherty uses all hands-on methods, and there is no textbook for the course. In September 1992, his program received special recognition from the National Association of Printers and Lithographers, who picked it for their new pilot program called "Workplace." This is a program designed to develop more advanced printing skills at the high school level.

The Printing I students are not at job entry level when they finish. Little more than half of the Printing I students go on to Printing II and can and do secure positions in the printing trade upon leaving school. Faherty also teaches a course called Exploratory, half of which is devoted to mechanical drawing and the other half to printing. Another teacher teaches the mechanical-drawing component of the course; Faherty teaches only printing.

Ackerman has never taught printing or graphic arts. His experience is in teaching auto-body repair. His only practical knowledge of printing is nine months of employment in commercial printing in 1968 and 1969. He also took a course in printing as a requirement for his Industrial Arts certificate at Montclair State College in about 1975 or 1976. He has no knowledge of the area subsequent to that time and is unfamiliar with modern printing techniques and machinery.

Anthony Marseglia, the Superintendent of Schools in Hackensack, testified that Faherty provides a valuable service to the district. If Faherty did not do the printing for the district while teaching the students how to run a print shop, the work would have to be contracted out by the district at a much greater expense. It is the opinion of the district that if Ackerman replaces Faherty in the position, Ackerman would be unable to run the print shop and, therefore, the course may have to be abolished because of the expense involved. Faherty's experience allows the course to support itself in large measure Marseglia stated that the course was never intended by the district to be anything but the vocational education program which it has always been. The courses taught by Faherty are vocational, but the district concedes that they are not embedded in a vocational education program as described in N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3 and do not satisfy the minimum number of minutes per week for a "program" as set forth in the regulation.

In 1988, it was decided that, for budgetary reasons, the district would have to reduce its staff. In order to receive guidance as to whether Ackerman (Teacher A) or Faherty (Teacher F) should be subjected to a RIF, the district decided to seek an advisory opinion from the New Jersey Department of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11.

In a letter dated April 18, 1988, Dr. Seymour Weiss, director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, was asked the following questions:

> Teacher F
>
> Employed since 9/73 on an emergency Industrial Arts certificate. Received Teacher of Graphic Arts certificate 5/77. Teaches Printing I and Printing II exclusively, and has done so since 9/73.
>
> Teacher A
>
> Employed since 2/73. Has Teacher of Industrial Arts certificate dated 1/72. Has taught a variety of Industrial Arts courses but has never taught Printing.
>
> Question
>
> 1) Does the Teacher of Industrial Arts certificate entitle Teacher A to teach Printing as an endorsement right since Printing is listed under the Skilled Trades endorsement? Graphic Arts is, however, listed under the Industrial Arts endorsement.
> 2) Teacher A is not qualified to teach Printing nor is anyone else in the department. Given the fact that Teacher F has taught Printing under a Graphic Arts endorsement, does he have a seniority right to the position?

An advisory opinion written by an advisory panel on June 30, 1988 was reviewed and approved by the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the district on July 13, 1988. The advisory panel concluded:

> A review of the authorization relative to the Teacher of Industrial Arts endorsement indicates that the holder is authorized to ". . . teach industrial arts . . ." which ". . . normally includes: graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, metal working arts and power mechanics." Based upon the aforesaid, therefore, the industrial arts endorsement does not grant entitlement to teach printing.
>
> In response to your second question, consultation with representatives of the Bureau of Teacher Preparation and Certification indicates that the endorsement of Teacher of Graphic Arts, which is no longer issued, did at the time of its issuance include within its authorization the right to teach Printing.
> Consequently, based upon the aforesaid, the holder of the Graphic Arts endorsement is authorized to assert a seniority claim to a teaching schedule which includes Printing.

Based upon the advisory opinion, Ackerman was RIFed by the Board.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11, the determination of the advisory panel is not binding upon the Board, any other party in interest, the Commissioner, or the State Board of Education in the event that a dispute arises with respect to the subject of the opinion.

On April 7, 1988, Faherty wrote to A. Castellano in the Bergen County Superintendent's office to verify whether or not he was teaching courses with the correct certification.

> As per our phone conversation, I am enclosing a copy of my "Teacher of Graphic Arts" certification and the course outline, Offset Printing 1 and Offset Printing 2, which I have taught at Hackensack High School the last fourteen (14) years.
> I would like to know:
> 1. Is my certification a Vocational Certification?
> 2. Does my "Teacher of Graphic Arts" certification certify me to teach Printing as I have been doing, or is another type of certification necessary.

On April 11, 1988, M. Ray Kelly, county Superintendent, responded as follows:

> 1) your certificate, "Teacher of Graphic Arts" (5/77) was issued under the 2600 category and is a Vocational Certificate;

2) although the skilled trades category has been revised several times since then, your certificate did (and still does) authorize you to teach Printing.

In the course of the present appeal, the parties determined to write a letter to Celeste M. Rorro, the director of Teacher Certification of the Department of Education, seeking clarification of the department's position rather than calling a witness from the department to testify at the hearing. They presented Rorro with the following information and list of questions:

> Petitioner has an Industrial Arts endorsement issued in 1972. The intervenor has a Graphic Arts endorsement issued in 1977. Petitioner has not taught printing. The intervenor taught printing for several years under an emergency Industrial Arts certificate and has taught it since 1977 under the Graphic Arts endorsement. Neither party has any other endorsement. The local district's course descriptions for Offset Printing I, Offset Printing II, and Graphic Arts are enclosed.
> Petitioner's essential inquiry is as to the meaning of the words "graphic arts" as they are used in the definition of the scope of the Industrial Arts endorsement. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(13). Petitioner asks why he cannot teach printing as one of the "graphic arts" his endorsement includes.
>
> The intervenor contends his Graphic Arts endorsement is a vocational endorsement and that this distinction is relevant and gives him the sole right to teach the courses attached.
>
> Finally, since it appears that the Graphic Arts endorsement is no longer issued, the parties wish to know when its issuance stopped and what currently issued endorsements would authorize instruction of the enclosed courses.
>
> Succinctly put, the questions for you are as follows:
>
> 1. Are any of the enclosed courses within the scope of an Industrial Arts endorsement under the definition of "graphic arts" as referred to in N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(13)?
>
>   (a) If so, which courses are included?
>
>   (b) If any course are not included within that endorsement, please explain why they are not.
>
>   (c) Would the answer have been different in 1977?
>
>   i. If so, in what way.
>
> 2. Are any of the enclosed courses within the scope of a Graphic Arts endorsement?
>
>   (a) If so, which such courses are included?

(b) If any such courses are not included within that endorsement, please explain why they are not.

(c) Would the answer have been different in 1977?

i. If so, in what way.

3. What currently issued endorsements would authorize the teaching of the attached courses?

4. When did the State stop issuing the Graphic Arts endorsement?

Rorro referred the matter to Thomas A. Henry, Ed.D., assistant commissioner of the Division of Vocational Education. On July 23, 1991, he provided the following responses (a repetition of the questions has been deleted):

1. Yes. The enclosed course outlines appear to be within the scope of the Industrial Arts endorsement. . . . (1990-91 Fall Report, Manual for Coding Certificated Staff Status Report. Pages eight and nine, codes 1872 and 1876.)

1a) Offset Printing I
Offset Printing II
Graphic Arts I

1b) Not applicable.

1c) No.

2. No. The enclosed course outlines do not appear to meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3(c). Advanced, Skilled Vocational and Technical Education.

2a) None.

2b) The course outline does not seem to prepare individuals in a specific occupational area. . . . To be within the scope of a Graphic Arts endorsement, the courses must be developed to prepare individuals for entry level employment in the occupational areas.

2c) No.

3. If the attached courses are developed to prepare individuals for employment in a specific occupation and they meet the requirements for an approved secondary Trade and Industrial Education Program . . . , a person with a vocational Graphic Arts endorsement would be qualified to teach those courses. However, if the attached courses do not meet the requirements of an approved secondary Trade and Industrial Education Program, are designed to be exploratory programs which expose students to a variety of careers, then the person possessing the Industrial Arts endorsement would be qualified to teach those courses.

4. The exact data that the State discontinued issuing endorsements for Graphic Arts is [sic] unknown. The records are no longer active and are in storage. Endorsements for Graphic Arts are lifelong and do not have to be periodically renewed. Although the Graphic Arts endorsements are no longer issued, the holders of such endorsements are eligible to teach those programs which originally fell under the auspices of the original endorsement.

It now appeared that the Bergen County Superintendent and the advisory panel for the Department of Education were of the opinion that Faherty had the appropriate certification to teach the disputed courses. In Henry's opinion, based upon the information provided to him, the appropriate teacher would be Ackerman.

A review of the seemingly divergent opinions of the advisory panel, the county Superintendent, and Henry makes it clear that the difference in opinions is based upon the difference in the perception of the curriculum and content of the courses in question. Therefore, a hearing was held solely as to this issue.

N.J.A.C. 6:43 contains the regulations governing vocational instruction. N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3(a) states:

> Vocational instruction shall be primarily designed to prepare individuals for employment in a specific occupation. It may also prepare individuals for enrollment in advanced or highly skilled postsecondary vocational and/or technical education programs.

A vocational "course" is defined in N.J.A.C. 6:43-1.2 as > an organization of subject matter and related learning experiences designed to meet a vocational objective provided for the instruction of pupils on a systematic basis, usually for a predetermined period of time.

Based upon the testimony of the witnesses, I FIND that Offset Printing I, Offset Printing II, and Graphic Arts I are primarily designed as a sequence to prepare students for employment in a specific occupation -- that is, the printing trade -- and the students are, in fact, equipped to fill an entry-level position in that trade upon graduation. I further FIND that it is the intent of the district that these courses be taught in this manner for this purpose: the advanced students in the program provide the district with its printing services.

These are vocational courses as defined by N.J.A.C. 6:43-1.2 which are not embedded in a vocational and technical education program as defined by N.J.A.C. 6:43, subchapter 2. The Bergen County Superintendent and the Commissioner's advisory panel recognized the program as vocational.

Henry opined that it was not vocational because he was given only the course outline, which he said "does not seem to prepare individuals in the specific occupational area" and was not "developed to prepare individuals for entry level employment in the occupational areas." Henry was never provided with the information that the courses were taught within the limits of the course outlines in a hands-on fashion without text in a fully functioning modern print shop run by the advanced students in the courses, and he was not told that the students go directly from high school into entry-level positions in the printing field.

For this reason, I FIND that Henry's opinion as to the appropriate certification for teaching these courses is not inconsistent with that of the advisory panel or the county Superintendent since it appears that, based upon his response to the questions, had he been given all of the missing information, it would have been his opinion that these were vocational courses to be taught by a teacher with a vocational certificate. It may be that Ackerman, with his instructional Industrial Arts certificate, could teach printing. However, the courses which he would be able to teach would be those described by Henry as "exploratory programs which expose students to a variety of careers" -- an overview of printing and graphic arts.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that it is Faherty, with his vocational Graphic Arts certificate, who is entitled to teach the vocational courses (Offset Printing I, Offset Printing II, and Graphic Arts I) and not Ackerman with his instructional Industrial Arts certificate.

The question of whether vocational courses can be taught separate and apart from a vocational program as defined by the regulations was not addressed by the parties to this appeal. It appears that the Commissioner of Education, the advisory panel, and the county Superintendent had no problem with the setting in which the courses, which they acknowledged to be vocational, were given.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the intervenor, Jeffrey Faherty, was appropriately certified to teach the program containing the courses in question and is therefore entitled by seniority to retain the position against the claims of Ackerman, who does not possess the required certification. I therefore CONCLUDE that Howard Ackerman is entitled to no relief in this matter.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the petition of Howard Ackerman be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions and the Board filed timely reply exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Such submissions, as well as the post-hearing briefs of the parties, are duly noted in the Commissioner's review of this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner adopts as his own those findings and conclusions of the Office of Administrative Law that Intervenor Jeffrey Faherty was appropriately certified to teach the programs in printing and graphic arts at issue in this matter and therefore is entitled by seniority to retain his position against petitioner, who does not possess the appropriate certification to teach the courses under consideration herein.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the Office of Administrative Law, the Commissioner adopts as his own the initial decision and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal with prejudice.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF HACKENSACK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 5, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus (Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Frank N. D'Ambra, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Intervenor, Springstead & Maurice (Alfred F. Maurice, Esq., of Counsel)

The basic facts herein were stipulated by the parties. Howard Ackerman (hereinafter "petitioner"), a tenured teaching staff member who possessed certification in industrial arts, had been employed by the Board of Education of the City of Hackensack (hereinafter "Board") as a teacher of industrial arts at the secondary level since February 1973. The intervenor, Jeffrey Faherty, held an endorsement in graphic arts and had been employed by the Board since September 1973 teaching Offset Printing I and II and Graphic Arts at the secondary level. Petitioner had never taught Offset Printing I or II or Graphic Arts.

In April 1988, the Board requested an advisory opinion from the Commissioner of Education in order to determine the relative seniority rights of petitioner and intervenor in a reduction in force ("RIF").[1] On July 13, 1988, the Commissioner issued an advisory opinion prepared by an advisory panel which concluded that an industrial arts endorsement did not grant entitlement to teach printing, but that an endorsement in graphic arts, which was no longer issued, did at the time of its issuance authorize the teaching of printing. Consequently, the opinion concluded, under the information presented, the holder of the graphic arts endorsement, who had taught Printing I and II, could assert a seniority claim to a teaching schedule which included printing.

In April 1988, the intervenor requested a determination from the County Superintendent as to whether his graphic arts endorsement was a vocational certification and whether it authorized him to teach printing. The County Superintendent responded that intervenor's endorsement was vocational and that it did authorize him to teach printing.

By letter dated April 24, 1990, the Board notified petitioner that he would not be reemployed in 1990-91. The Board retained intervenor on a full-time basis in 1990-91, teaching Offset Printing I and II and doing printing jobs for the district. He was also employed full-time in 1991-92. Petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner, alleging that the Board, in continuing to employ a staff member with less seniority than he, had violated his tenure and seniority rights.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 provides that district boards may request an advisory opinion from the Commissioner with respect to the applicability of seniority standards to particular situations. No such determination, however, "shall be binding upon the board of education or any other party in interest or upon the commissioner or the state board if any controversy or dispute arises as a result of such determination and an appeal is taken therefrom pursuant to the provisions of this title."

While this matter was pending in the Office of Administrative Law, the parties requested information pertinent to this case from the director of the Office of Teacher Certification in the Department of Education. On July 23, 1991, the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Vocational Education responded that the course outlines for Offset Printing I and II and Graphic Arts I appeared to be within the scope of the industrial arts endorsement, and not the graphic arts endorsement, stressing that the course outlines did not appear to meet the requirements established in N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3(c) for vocational programs. He explained that if the courses were developed to prepare individuals for employment in a specific occupation and they met the requirements for an approved secondary trade and industrial education program, then a person with a vocational graphic arts endorsement would be qualified to teach those courses. But, he added, if the courses did not meet such requirements and were designed simply to be exploratory programs which exposed students to a variety of careers, then the individual possessing the industrial arts endorsement would be qualified to teach them. The Assistant Commissioner noted that the course outlines in this particular case did not seem designed to prepare students for employment in a specific occupational area.

On August 17, 1992, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition, concluding that the intervenor was appropriately certified to teach the program containing the courses at issue and was therefore entitled by seniority to retain the position as against petitioner, who did not possess the required certification. The ALJ found that the seemingly divergent opinions received in this matter were based upon a difference in the perception of the curriculum and content of the courses in question.

Based upon the hearing held in this matter, the ALJ found that the courses were designed primarily as a sequence to prepare students for employment in a specific occupation and that it was the district's intent to teach the courses in this manner so that advanced students could provide the district with its printing services. Accordingly, she determined that the courses constituted a vocational program, as defined by N.J.A.C. 6:43-1.2, which were not embedded in a vocational and technical education program as defined by N.J.A.C. 6:43, subchapter 2. The ALJ therefore concluded that intervenor, by virtue of his vocational graphic arts endorsement, was entitled to teach the controverted courses, and not petitioner, who held only an instructional industrial arts endorsement.

On October 5, 1992, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education, maintaining that his industrial arts endorsement encompassed the courses at issue and that, as a result, he had superior seniority rights thereto as against the intervenor. He argues that the courses did not meet any definition of "vocational" which would mandate possession of a vocational endorsement in order to teach them.

After a thorough review of the record, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner.

Teaching staff members holding industrial arts endorsements are expressly authorized by the certification regulations to teach graphic arts. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(13).[2] Consequently, in order to conclude that petitioner, who held an industrial arts endorsement, was not authorized to teach the courses at issue herein, it would be necessary to find that the assignment was of such nature as to require possession of a "vocational" endorsement in order to fulfill the responsibilities thereof. The record before us does not support such a conclusion.

"Vocational education" is defined, in pertinent part, as:

> organized educational programs offering a sequence of courses which are directly related to the preparation of individuals for paid or unpaid employment in...trade and industrial occupations....Vocational education programs include competency-based applied learning which contributes to a pupil's academic knowledge, higher-order reasoning and problem-solving skills, work attitudes, general employability skills, and the occupationally-specific skills necessary for economic independence as a productive and contributing member of society. Vocational student organization activities are an integral part of the programs.

N.J.A.C. 6:43-1.2.

There is no indication in the record that the courses herein were designed or structured by the Board as part of an organized secondary trade and industrial education program or,

2 N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(13) provides:

> Industrial arts: This endorsement authorizes the holder to teach industrial arts in all public schools. Industrial arts normally includes: graphic arts, drafting, woodworking, metal working, arts and power mechanics.

indeed, that they met the explicit requirements established by the State Board for such programs. N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3 expressly provides that:

> ....
>
> (c) An approved secondary trade and industrial education program is conducted a minimum of 600 minutes per week for three consecutive instructional periods per day and includes:
>
> 1. A minimum of 200 minutes of trade and industrial related instruction, including scientific principles and practices applicable to the occupation; and
> 2. 400 minutes of competency-based applied occupational training.

The contention that the courses may have been taught in a certain manner and that some students moved on to entry level positions in the printing field does not render courses "vocational" which were not designed or structured as such or intended to be part of an approved educational program. We agree with the then Assistant Commissioner of Vocational Education that the course outlines do not appear designed to prepare students for employment in a specific occupational area, and we find nothing in the record that demonstrates otherwise. Nor does the record indicate that the courses satisfy the minimum standards required for an approved secondary trade and industrial education program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.3(c).

Accordingly, we conclude that petitioner was qualified by virtue of his industrial arts endorsement, which expressly includes the authorization to teach graphic arts, to teach the courses at issue herein. Consequently, the Board violated his seniority rights in terminating his employment. Seniority accrues within the secondary category of the instructional certificate in the subject area endorsement under which the individual has actually served, N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(1)(17)(i), and it is undisputed herein that petitioner had been continuously employed under his industrial arts endorsement since February 1973. As a result, although he had never taught printing or graphic arts, petitioner had entitlement by virtue of seniority to the controverted assignment as against the intervenor, who did not commence employment in the district until September 1973.

We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner and direct the Board to reinstate petitioner with back pay and other emoluments, less mitigation.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents alleged Board engaged in racial discrimination in assigning failing grade to their high school son, G.M., for his Marketing Education II class. Petitioners contended 1) denial of opportunity to graduate in 1990-91 because of disparate and discriminating treatment in connection with failing grade and 2) Ewing school system had de facto two-tier system of education in violation of Constitution and N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20.

ALJ dismissed petition. ALJ found petitioners failed to carry their burden of proof on the alleged impropriety of the educational system and that G.M.'s failure to graduate was due to any discipline imposed on him or discrimination. Rather, the ALJ found G.M. did not have sufficient credits to graduate.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, CHIEF ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, Mr. W.M., his wife Mrs. J.M. and their son, G.M. brought this action alleging that respondents engaged in racial discrimination in connection with the assignment of a failing grade to G.M. for his Marketing Education II class which resulted in his failure to achieve a sufficient number of credits to graduate with his high school class at the conclusion of the 1990-91 school year. Petitioners also alleged that respondents have violated Article I, paragraph five of the New Jersey Constitution and N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 in the context of the education provided to G.M. Petitioners also seek the initiation of tenure charges against Mr. Quentin Hausser. Respondent Ewing Board of Education and the individually named respondents, Dr. Dennis G. Kelly, Superintendent of Schools, Wayne Fuller, Ewing High School Principal, James Pocetti, Ewing High School Guidance Counselor and M. Quentin Hausser, Ewing High School teacher, deny the allegations and seek dismissal of the complaint.

A prehearing conference was conducted on January 6, 1992 and in accordance with agreed upon procedures in that Order, the Board moved to strike the third paragraph of petitioners' Prayer for Relief seeking an order from the Commissioner relieving Mr. Hausser of his tenure. The Letter Order issued by the undersigned dated May 5, 1992 struck paragraph three of petitioners' Prayer for Relief. No interlocutory appeal was taken from this Order.

An evidential hearing was conducted in this matter on June 17, 1992, July 8, 1992 and July 16, 1992. At the conclusion of the proceeding on July 16, 1992, the record was closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioners' case consisted of essentially a two-part presentation. One part related to petitioners' allegations that G.M. was denied the opportunity to graduate with his class at the conclusion of the 1990-91 school year because of the disparate and discriminatory treatment he received in connection with his failing grade for the Marketing Education II class taught by Mr. M. Quentin Hausser. The second part of petitioners' presentation consisted of testimony and documents in support of petitioners' allegation that a de facto two-tier system of education existed in the Ewing school system in the context of the education provided to G.M. in violation of the New Jersey Constitution and N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20. These two parts to petitioners' case will be addressed separately in the discussion below.

Failing Grade

It is undisputed between the parties that G.M. was told that he would receive a failing grade in his Marketing Education II class in 1990-91 due to having received an "F" for the first three marking periods, and, that upon receiving this information, G.M. transferred to Trenton High School. The Marketing Education II class would have provided G.M. with 15 credits toward the 113 needed to graduate from Ewing High School. Trenton High School required only 100 credits to graduate. To date, G.M. has not earned his high school diploma.

The Marketing Education II program consists of two components, and did for purposes of considering the 1990-91 school year when G.M. took the class. Fifteen credits are awarded for successful completion, with five credits being generated by classroom work and ten credits being generated by the required work experience component. These credits may not be awarded separately. One grade is issued for both parts of the program. Marketing Education II is part of the high school's cooperative education program. As testified to be Mr. Hausser, if a student cannot secure or maintain employment to meet the work experience portion of the program, alternate experience may be substituted. This may include class projects simulating work-setting issues, such as a simulated entrepreneurial experience utilizing a workbook and class projects or, for example, participation in interscholastic athletics where the team coach would be called upon to assess the student's initiative, attitude, effort, commitment, dependability and like judgments, as any employer would be required to evaluate a student employee. This description of the program is accepted as fact.

G.M. and his parents contend that in repeated conferences with Mr. Hausser, the school principals - Dr. Miller and later Dr. Fuller, and G.M.'s guidance counselor, Mr. Pocetti, they were told that if G.M. would do his work in class, he would graduate. They variously recalled being told that G.M. needed to turn in weekly his time clock punch card. Students were required to time punch-in and punch-out for their work in the school store during classroom activities. As his reason for failing to do this, G.M. stated that he lost his punch card. Neither Mr. M. or Mrs. M. recalled being told anything more specific that G.M. should do in the classroom.

Moreover, Mr. and Mrs. M. voiced concern that G.M. received a failing grade because he did not remain employed throughout the school year. This was denied through the testimony of Mr. Hausser and Mr. Pocetti and the alternatives to work experiences were elaborated upon as set forth above. As explained by Mr. Hausser, if employed, it is the student's responsibility to provide the employer with an evaluation form and stamped, school addressed envelope which the school prepares for the student to deliver to the employer. No such form was provided by G.M.'s employer as of the close of the third marking period. When Mr. Hausser talked with G.M.'s employer, he was told that G.M. never presented such a form. Moreover, G.M. did not turn in pay stubs for his weeks worked. This resulted in G.M. being initially given an "Incomplete" for the third marking period, although Mr. Hausser testified that he held the marking period grade open for ten additional days so G.M. could bring in these documents. After the ten days elapsed, the Incomplete automatically converted to an "F" per the school district's computerized records on student grades. This occurred for G.M.

Finally, in support of the claim of disparate treatment regarding the failing grade in Marketing Education II, petitioners contended that G.M. was not permitted to participate in the Distributive Educational Clubs of America (DECA) competitions that annually take place on a regional, state and national level. At the regional conference in which any Marketing Education II student could theoretically compete, students role play and are evaluated on the basis of their performance. A written test is also administered. Winning students are eligible to compete in the statewide competition and, if successful, move on to the national competition.

G.M. testified that his Marketing Education II teacher, Mr. Quentin Hausser, would not let him compete at the regional level. He testified that he did not understand Mr. Hausser's position because he did not owe any tab at the school store which the Marketing Education II students ran as part of their classroom curriculum - a reason he understood Mr. Hausser to give to other students when denying them an opportunity to go to the DECA regionals.

This last contention was denied by Mr. Hausser who categorically stated that no student was told he or she could not participate in DECA competitions due to running a tab at the school store.

Mr. Hausser testified that during the 1990-91 school year, the regional DECA conference was scheduled to take place on January 8, 1991. On the day before Thanksgiving vacation, he provided each student in his Marketing Education II class with a packet containing information on past workshops run at the regional level, sample of tests given at the regional, along with answers for them to study to help them prepare to do well. The past test that was included in the packet on that date turned out to be the test that was ultimately given on the date of the regional conference on January 8, 1991. Therefore, the students had an opportunity to review the answers and an opportunity to do well at the January conference. Although G.M. attended school on January 8, 1991, he did not participate in the DECA regional competition. In order to permit G.M. to earn the 100 points which were available as a score on this test, Mr. Hausser gave G.M. the test that was given at the regional conference as part of a makeup exam. Out of a possible score of 100 points, G.M. received only 16 or 18. Furthermore, G.M. did not want to do the role play portion of the testing experience.

Mr. Hausser's testimony explained the grading system used for the Marketing Education II class. Everything is done on a point basis. All activities that a student performs in class is assigned a point average. For example, handing in the time card is assigned a point value. Errors on the time card result in deductions from the amount of points a properly executed time card would receive. Submission of wage forms and weekly pay stubs from employers, DECA activities, individual classroom assignments are all assigned point valuations. Extra credit points are given for word searches for business vocabulary which the students may look up and report on. Marking period quarters may differ in the amount of total points available. For the first quarter of 1990-91 school year, 460 points were available, with more points being possible to be earned through the use of extra credit. The grade average is computed by taking the total points actually earned by the student and dividing it by 460. That percentage is assigned a grade. A percentage of 90 to 100 is a grade of an "A". A "B" is a percentage of 80 to 89; a "C" is an average of 70 to 79; a "D" is an average of 60 to 69 and an "F" grade is given to anyone who achieves 60 percent or less. In the first quarter G.M. earned 170 points of a possible 460. This computed to a 36.9 percent or, rounded up, 37 percent grade which was the equivalent of an F. In the second quarter out of a possible 697 points which a student could earn, G.M. earned 117 points. This computed to a 16.7 percent score, or an "F" grade. In the third quarter, 485 points were available to be earned by the students. G.M. earned 119 points or 24.5 percent. This was the equivalent of a grade of "F".

Mr. Hausser elaborated on G.M.'s employment during the school year. When he entered the program shortly after the first week of the school year, he was working for Pizza Hut. Mr. Hausser asked G.M. if wanted to continue working at Pizza Hut and G.M. responded that he did. Thereafter, G.M. was terminated from Pizza Hut for a failure to follow a company policy. This information was not relayed to Mr. Hausser by G.M. He learned this when he went to see the manager and was told that G.M. was no longer working there. Mr. Hausser testified that he waited two to three weeks to see if G.M. would tell him that he had been terminated, but G.M. did not come forward to provide Mr. Hausser with this information. When Mr. Hausser finally confronted him with this information, G.M. acknowledged that it was true. During his second marking period, G.M. found another job at the Lawrenceville Car Care Center. During this quarter, the employer assigned G.M. a grade of "B" for the work portion. As Mr. Hausser explained, the employer is allowed to assign the grade for the work portion of the student's activities. In connection with this work experience, Mr. Hausser testified that through the school year that G.M. attended Ewing High School and the Marketing Education II class, he recorded only one pay stub for the entire year. As noted above, submission of the pay stub counts toward the accumulation of points for purpose of calculating the classroom grade and, therefore, has a direct relationship on the grade that the student achieves.

Mr. Hausser summarized the class as one that required little homework; most work was done in class. There are few major tests, but some pop quizzes and a midterm and final exam which were added into the point average that the students would be assigned. G.M. tended to sleep through class, a phenomenon which worried Mr. Hausser. Mr. Hausser indicated he questioned G.M. about this because he was concerned that G.M. might be working at night and be tired during the day in class. G.M. informed him that this was not true. This combination of not submitting any wage forms, no punching in and turning in his time card at the end of the week and not doing classroom assignments, contributed substantially to the low grade point average and the failing grade which was assigned to G.M.

No homework activities were involved that impacted upon this grade. G.M.'s lack of effort and interest in performing in class were duly noted to him and his parents in mid-quarter progress reports in each of the three marking periods while he attended Ewing High school. Each informed G.M. and his parents of the possibility of failure for the pertinent quarter. Progress reports evincing similar concerns about G.M.'s class performance were sent home in classes for Ceramics (first and second quarter) Art II (second quarter) and Physical Education (first quarter).

Mr. Pocetti, G.M.'s guidance counselor, testified that he had numerous conversations with G.M. which he referred to as "counselings". These sessions appeared to be largely informal conversations between Mr. Pocetti and G.M. but did result in Mr. Pocetti maintaining frequent contact with G.M. in an effort to spark more interest and activity by G.M. in his school work. Mr. Pocetti told G.M. that he would stop into his class to see if there was a problem between Mr. Hausser and G.M. as G.M. had alleged that Mr. Hausser "did not like him." On one day that he stopped in, he observed G.M. with his head down on his desk sleeping in class. He awakened G.M. and told him that he would come back the next day. On the next day, Mr. Pocetti observed the class and it was one in which the students were expected to deliver a speech to the other students in the class. When G.M. was called to deliver his speech, Mr. Pocetti observed him get up from his desk and as he approached the front of the room, take a speech off of another student's desk and deliver that speech as if it was his own. Mr. Hausser did not permit G.M. to do this and, accordingly, G.M. received no credit for this classroom project.

Mr. Pocetti's recounting of meetings that he attended with G.M. and with G.M.'s parents were helpful in providing an accounting of the information that was being exchanged between Mr. Hausser and Mr. and Mrs. M. It seemed apparent to the undersigned in observing the witnesses and hearing their testimony that up until the end of the third marking period, Mr. Hausser and Mr. Pocetti had been telling G.M. and Mr. and Mrs. M. that it was still possible for G.M. to graduate if G.M. would take more of an active role in his classroom activities and perform the required activities which contributed to the point valuation for his class grade. I am convinced, having heard this testimony and observed these witnesses, that it there was not nor could there have been an unconditional guarantee that G.M. would be permitted to graduate.

Indeed, Mr. Pocetti recalled specific conferences in February 1991 where Mr. Pocetti and Mr. Hausser told G.M. specific things that he needed to do to improve his grade in the Marketing Education II class. These were simple tasks that he could do in class, and that would improve his performance and secure higher than a failing grade in the third marking period, thus avoiding a certain failure for the year's grade which determined credits earned for graduation. Less than two weeks later, at another progress meeting between the same three people, G.M. was told he was not doing the five specific things that Mr. Hausser had told him he should do. At this meeting, Mr. Pocetti testified that G.M. admitted that he was not doing these things. He stated he was working at the Lawrence Car Wash and that the work was "good." It should be noted that midway in his senior year, G.M. attained 18 years of age and he informed the school district of his desire to be treated as an adult pupil. Despite this status, not long after that meeting in late February, early March, a meeting took place between Mr. and Mrs. M., the principal and Mr. Pocetti regarding G.M., in which Mr. Pocetti related to Mr. and Mrs. M. the five things that G.M. had been told he needed to do in class. Mr. Hausser was then called into the meeting and he repeated almost verbatim what Mr. Pocetti had said. Those five things were described as follows:

1. Bring in wage forms from G.M.'s employer.

2. Punch the time clock and be sure to sign it and turn it in at the end of each week.

3. Try to increase the number of hours at work. 540 hours is what all other students were doing and Mr. Hausser wanted G.M. to try and approach this number. Although he need not reach this number to get credit, Mr. Hausser encouraged G.M. to increase his number of hours.

4. Pay attention in class.

5. Do daily classroom assignments.

By way of example of some of the classroom projects, Mr. Pocetti recalled G.M. being asked by Mr. Hausser to do a poster for Valentine's Day, complete an old application for employment for Korvettes and complete a wage card.

In his closing argument, respondent has described this case as one in which the student failed himself. This description is apt. While it was alleged that petitioner failed because of his work portion of the Marketing Education II course, there is simply no evidence in the record to substantiate this charge. Furthermore, for purposes of calculating his point average for his third marking period grade, G.M. was given additional time beyond the close of the third marking period to provide his employer evaluation form and pay stubs which may have avoided his failing grade in the third marking period. The record was replete in this matter with competent evidence that this student, G.M., did not do his class work, no matter how minimal the demands were in the Marketing Education II program. The description by Mr. Hausser and Mr. Pocetti of G.M. in class with his head down on his desk were never denied by petitioners. Nor was any competent evidence brought forward by petitioner to suggest that the grading assigned to G.M. was any different than the grading would have been assigned to any other student who did as little work in connection with a course as G.M. has done for this course. Indeed, G.M. admitted taking the other student's speech and not doing things in class that Mr. Hausser had urged him to do to improve his grades. These admissions against interest are competent evidence for purpose of this hearing and I note that no rebuttal evidence was provided by petitioners to contradict to these statements.

Having heard the objective assessment used to assign grades in this particular course, I find no basis to rule that G.M. was subjected to any disparate treatment in the assignment of his failing grade. Moreover, I do not FIND that G.M. was ever promised that he would graduate, he was just told that if he did do certain things, he could graduate. Unfortunately, G.M. never performed even close to a level to have avoided a failing grade in any of the three marking periods that he attended Marketing Education II at Ewing High School.

Finally, with regard to the allegations regarding the DECA conference, I simply found the testimony of G.M. to be not reliable. Mr. Hausser had specifically denied ever preventing any student from participating in the DECA conference because of a school tab. This approach was consistent with his treatment of other students in previous years. To the extent that G.M. made this statement, I note that G.M. was less than candid in his relating of information in this case.

Specifically, G.M. was asked by the undersigned whether he graduated from Trenton High School. G.M.'s response was not forthcoming, and only a half answer. His response was he was "partially successful". Only through further probing did G.M. reluctantly admit that he did not graduate because he did not pass "Gym" and had to go to summer school. Further probing was required in order to get an answer to the question of whether or not he graduated. Ultimately, G.M. stated that he brought in a doctor's note to be excused from Gym in summer school. Further questioning was required to learn that this was not accepted. He also had to take summer school for English. Ultimately, he did not graduate even after summer school because he did not pass Gym. This exchange was insightful as to the character and credibility of G.M. and has made the undersigned reluctant to credit the testimony of G.M. on his rather incredible statement that he was prevented by Mr. Hausser from participating in the DECA Conference.

G.M. sought to bolster his statement through the testimony of T.K., another student in his Marketing Education II class. T.K. testified that Mr. Hausser read a list of names of people who owed a tab at the school store and he further stated that these students were told that they may could not participate in the DECA regionals. He stated that he was not on this list but that he did not participate in the DECA conference because his participation in interscholastic football caused a conflict the weekend of the regionals. T.K.'s testimony was successfully rebutted by the Board when it proved the regionals occurred in January 1991, long after the conclusion of the football season.

Moreover, T.K. admitted to a hostile exchange between himself and Mr. Hausser on the last school day in which he was denying the owing of tab to the school store. This exchange resulted in him cursing Mr. Hausser and calling him a "racist pig". According to T.K., Mr. Hausser told him that he must stop this confrontation or Mr. Hausser would ask him to leave the classroom. T.K.'s response was to say to Mr. Hausser that he would not make him leave the classroom, that T.K. would leave on his own and he walked out of school. Later conversation between T.K.'s mother and Mr. Hausser resulted in her payment of the fine and her telling Mr. Hausser that T.K. would come in to apologize. T.K. never did apologize.

T.K. appeared to be a biased witness presumably caused by the hostility of this event between himself and Mr. Hausser on the last day of class in 1990-91. This bias and hostility toward Mr. Hausser coupled with the obviously erroneous testimony offered with regard to his reason for not participating in the DECA Conference renders his testimony suspect. Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, I FIND petitioners' allegation that G.M. was denied an opportunity to participate in the DECA Regional Conference by Mr. Hausser, to be unsubstantiated on this record.

Two-Tier System of Education

Petitioners have alleged that a two-tier system of education is at work in Ewing High School. This two-tier system was alternatively presented as 1) a faculty composition that fails to reflect the racial mix of the community and student population, 2) disparate disciplinary treatment of minority students, 3) segregation of minority pupils in Mr. Hausser's classroom, and 4) different and better treatment of the "elite" student population identified as those students operating at an "A" or "B" level compared to students operating at a "C" level or lower.

Taking the last contention first, petitioners submitted no proofs to support this sweeping statement. To the extent that they have alleged that Mr. Hausser "cared more" and showed more of an interest in students who did better in class than G.M., these allegations were rebutted by the testimony of Mr. Hausser and Mr. Pocetti as well as the testimony of past pupils from the Marketing Education II class, S.W. (a "B" or "C" student) and J.D. These general allegations are belied by the extensive amount of attention G.M. received from Mr. Hausser in an effort to secure from G.M. a modicum of interest in his classroom work. Mr. Hausser sought out reasons for G.M. sleeping through class; Mr. Hausser sought out G.M's employer at Pizza Hut and then waited, patiently, two to three weeks for G.M. to come and tell him of his difficulty with his employer so that G.M. could be on record as the initiator of resolving this loss of employment; it was Mr. Hausser who gave G.M. a make-up midterm, for which G.M. never showed up for the second part; and it was Mr. Hausser who sought out G.M.'s employer in the third marking period to determine why G.M.'s employer evaluation had not been submitted and who kept the marking period open an additional ten days so G.M. could have another chance to submit his employer evaluation and pay stubs. G.M. received a considerable amount of time and attention by both Mr. Hausser and Mr. Pocetti all in an effort to assist him to achieve a passing grade and get the credits he so needed to graduate. No other proofs having been offered by petitioners on this issue, I decline to credit their allegations that an actionable two-tier system was in place for "elite" students and that this worked to the detriment of G.M.

Second, petitioners claim segregation existed in the seating arrangements in Mr. Hausser's classroom. They contend that on one side of the classroom virtually all desks seated minority students, whereas on the other side, separated by a walking aisle, all non-minority students were seated. This allegation borders on the frivolous.

Mr. Hausser testified that students selected their choice of seats at the outset of the course and after a few days were told that they must keep their chosen seats for purposes of a seating chart required for administrative purposes related to the sometime need for a substitute teacher to handle the class. Mr. Hausser credibly explained that he has found the classroom more conducive to a pleasant learning environment to allow students to sit with friends, and therefore, he lets the pupils self-select their seating. This was corroborated by the testimony of T.K. through cross-examination. There is nothing discriminatory in allowing students to select their seating arrangement. The claim of a discriminatory practice in this arrangement was unproven.

Petitioners point to portions of a State monitoring report (P-1) as support for their claim that a district-wide two-tier system permeates the Ewing School System because its faculty racial composition fails to reflect its pupil composition. This report, on careful examination does not support the petitioners' claim. The cover letter refers to an unacceptable rating for element 8, indicator 8.2, which relates to the third and sixth grade levels of basic skills testing failing to meet State minimum standards for proficiency. It is irrelevant to petitioners' claim. Attached to this cover sheet, petitioners affixed the Level I work sheet for element 9, indictor 9.1, which concerns the following:

> Where applicable, the district shall implement a desegregation plan approved by the Commissioner of Education. N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.3(a)9i

The district was assigned an "acceptable" rating for this indicator based on the following finding:

> Documentation on the district's progress in implementing the State approved desegregation plan indicates that > programs and activities to address correction of identified deficiencies are acceptable. Based on a letter dated September 28, 1990 from the Office of Equal Educational Opportunity (OEEO) the district's desegregation status is conditionally approved through June 30, 1991. According to OEEO's report full approval requires each phase of the district's plan to be implemented in an efficient and timely manner.

Second, the petitioners affixed the portion of the State monitoring report for element 9, indicator 9.2 which provides:

> Annually, the district shall review progress toward the objectives of the Sate approved affirmative action plans for classroom and employment practices of the district. N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.3(a)9ii

Again, the district was assigned an "acceptable" rating for this indicator, based on the following finding:

> The district has reviewed progress toward the objectives of State approved Affirmative Action plans for both classroom and employment practices. Affirmative Action objectives have been revised for 1990-91. The Annual Review of Progress for 1989-90 was acceptable as indicated by the Office of equal Educational Opportunity in a letter dated September 28, 1990. There is evidence that the Internal Monitoring Guide was used by each building principal and the district to assess compliance activities pursuant to law and code.

Lastly, the petitioners affixed the monitoring report portion concerning element 9, indicator 9.1 which concerns the following:

> Annually, the district shall implement the affirmative action plans, including in-service training. N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.3(a)9iii

Again, the district was assigned an acceptable rating for this indicator, based on the following finding:

> Documentation shows that the district is implementing the affirmative action plans on an annual basis. In-service training has been provided to all staff as follows:
> November 7, 1989 "Strategies for Teaching and Learning"
> March 22, 1990 Affirmative Action topics
> July 9-13, 1990 "Teaching and Learning Styles"

August 9, 1990 "Teacher Expectations, Student Achievement and Self Esteem"

None of the above supports petitioners' claims of a racially discriminatory two-tier system of education contrary to New Jersey Constitution Article I, paragraph 5, or N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20

Dr. Kelly, Superintendent of schools for Ewing School District testified in a most forthright way concerning the school district's assessment via the monitoring system. He stated that the district met all indicators except 5.2, relating to facilities and the failure to meet certain life/safety standards due to the use of some portable facilities instead of permanent structures. This indicator is in the process of being met through implementation of a facilities plan.

Dr. Kelly further testified that the district is under a desegregation order because one of its six elementary schools is not within the minimum-maximum range for its minority-majority pupil ratios. The district-wide minority population is approximately 31-32 percent; the high school minority population is 36 percent. The elementary school which does not meet the applicable district range for minority population is being addressed in the context of the district's facilities plan, mentioned above, which will involve the elimination of one elementary school and the reassignment of pupils among the remaining schools.

Further, Dr. Kelly addressed petitioners' claim that the faculty minority population, specifically administrative staff, do not reflect the pupil composition See P-4. As of Spring 1992, of 316 teachers, 282 are white, 28 are black, one is asian and one is hispanic. Only three administrators are black as testified by Dr. Kelly.

Dr. Kelly explained that as the staff of the school district has aged, the district has aggressively recruited minority candidates as replacements and has commenced required in-service training to make existing staff more sensitive in dealing with children of today, be they black or white, male or female. Dr. Kelly's testimony was credible, forthright and reliable. It is accepted as fact. Based on the district's favorable monitoring reports on all indicators involving affirmative action and equal educational opportunity as assessed through classroom and employment practices, coupled with Dr. Kelly's elaboration of the district's further efforts in these areas, I find petitioners have failed to carry their burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence that a discriminatory two-tier system of education as it pertains to G.M. is provided in Ewing School District by virtue of the faculty racial composition.

Lastly, petitioners claim proof of a two-tier system on the basis of statistical data relating to Ewing High School discipline (P-8). This data shows in 1990-91, the year pertinent to G.M., a greater number of minorities versus white students sent to the vice principal's office (260 v. 209), given an out-of-school suspension (144 v. 50), and given an in-school suspension (289 v. 224). No other evidence on this issue was offered by petitioners.

Respondents, through Dr. Kelly has offered the following explanation relating to these statistics. This review of high school discipline was done at his request after the issue was initiated by a member of the Board of Education. The report generated a review of the student handbook by a parent committee, who met afterward with administrators to discuss the revisions and to emphasize the need for consistency in interpretation of the revised policies. The significant changes to the discipline policy were:

1.) The committee wanted extraordinary efforts made to contact parents before sending a student home as part of a suspension. A confirming letter was also requested; and 2.) Changes were made in the acceptance standards for excusal notes submitted by parents.

Dr. Kelly's testimony also revealed that it is a vice principal in each school who administers discipline, and in the high school the vice principal who performs this task is black. This testimony is found as fact.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Petitioners have raised serious allegations of discrimination within the educational opportunities offered by the Ewing School System, citing Article I, paragraph 5 of our New Jersey Constitution (1947), which prohibits "...[being] discriminated against in the exercise of any civil...right,... [or being] segregated...in the the public schools, because of religious principles, race, color, ancestry or national origin."; and N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 which provides:

> No pupil in a public school in this State shall be discriminated against in admission to, or in obtaining any advantages, privileges or courses of study of the school by reason of race, color, creed, sex or national origin.

While not cited by petitioners directly, it is well recognized that schools are places of public accommodation, as that term is understood within the Law Against Discrimination, and as such may not invidiously discriminate in the offering of its "advantages" and "privileges" of which curriculum program, and course of study are a core. N.J.S.A. 10:5-4. See Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 523 (1978). Issues of this type are peculiarly within the province of the Commissioner of Education to decide. Id. at 534.

The Commissioner's authority to prescribe minimum courses of study, to require local boards to submit course of study for approval, and to supervise curriculum generally is a matter of legislative delegation. See N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23,-25 and -34. Implementation of the course of study devolves upon the various local boards of education.

In this instance petitioners have challenged the privileges provided to G.M. in connection with his Marketing Education II class at Ewing High school. As petitioners, the burden of proof falls to them to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that G.M. was treated in a disparate way regarding his course work. For the reasons expressed earlier, I FIND that petitioners have not carried this burden regarding the failing grade assigned G.M. for the year's work in Marketing Education II.

With regard to the various allegations relating to a two-tier system of education, petitioners also have failed to carry their burden of proof. In three of four of petitioners' allegations regarding this part of their case, petitioners' proofs were utterly lacking in substance as set forth in the factual discussion earlier.

As to the statistical data regarding suspensions, case law has established that the presentation of statistical data may shift the burden of persuasion from the complainant to the respondent in a racial discrimination claim, requiring the respondent to come forward with an explanation for the data. See Watson v. Fort Worth Bank and Trust, 487 U.S. 977, 101 L. Ed. 2d 817 (1988). However, the burden of proof remains on the complainant. Id. at 994; 101 L. Ed. 2d at 845. Further, the complainant must show the specific practice which caused the impact on the protected group even in a disparate impact analysis.

Here there is no evidence that the black vice principal administering discipline in the high school is doing so in a way that treats like offenses as between a white and black student more harshly for the black student. Imposition of pupil discipline involves an inherently subjective analysis, that is dependent upon the unique factual circumstances of each incident. Petitioners never identified nor presented proofs on a specific aspect of the discipline process to establish the causation of any discriminatory disproportionate impact on minority students. Furthermore, no such criticism of the existing system was found by the parent review committee. The elaboration by Dr. Kelly regarding discipline of students militates against any finding of discrimination. Petitioners simply have not carried their burden of proof. Moreover, I note that this case does not involve any issue of discipline imposed on G.M. It is undisputed on this record that G.M.'s failure to graduate was not due to any discipline imposed on him. A pupil's discipline record is irrelevant to the computation of credits earned to qualify for graduation.

Accordingly, for all of the reasons set forth herein, I FIND that petitioners have failed to carry their burden of proof on their various allegations of discrimination in their petition of appeal. I ORDER that the petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents of D.B., 7th grade student, appealed Board's determination to deny her promotion to 8th grade after she successfully attended summer school for the courses she failed Board had voted to waive its policy (failure in three or more subjects meant grade must be repeated) if D.B. passed English Later the same month, Board rescinded its action and required D.B. to repeat 7th grade.

ALJ granted promotion based on equitable principles. Board had not followed its own policy and D.B. had relied on Board's determination to waive policy, despite Board's later rescission. ALJ granted petitioners' prayer for relief and D.B. was to be promoted to 8th grade. Request for counsel fees was denied.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision, stressing this matter was strictly limited to facts pertaining solely to D.B.

Record Closed: August 25, 1992 Decided: August 27, 1992

BEFORE AUGUST E. THOMAS, ALJ, t/a:

Petitioner is a seventh grade pupil who appeals the determination of the Board of Education of Oaklyn (Board) which denied her an opportunity to be promoted to eighth grade despite repeating in summer school the courses she failed in the regular school year.

The matter was filed in the office of the Commissioner of Education on July 8, 1992 and transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on July 28, 1992 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. A hearing was conducted in the Office of Administrative Law, Trenton, on August 25, 1992. Sixteen documents were submitted in evidence and testimony was educed from the pupil's mother and the school superintendent. The record was closed after oral summation by counsel.

FACTS

The salient facts are not in dispute and are listed as follows:

1. D.B. is a seventh grade girl who failed three subjects in the 1991-92 school year (Language Arts, Home Economics and Industrial Arts).

2. Between September 27, 1991 and May 7, 1992, D.B.'s parents were notified by fifteen interim reports from her teachers concerning D.B.'s poor performance in her classes (J-4).

3. The parents do not contest any of the grades received by their daughter.

4. The Board has a policy which provides that "Failure in three or more subjects means the grade must be repeated." (J-12)

5. Failure in one or two subjects can lead to promotion if those subjects are passed in summer school.

6. D.B.'s mother attended a Board meeting on June 15, 1992 in an attempt to have the policy changed where non-academic subjects are involved (home economics and industrial arts) so that D.B. could be promoted. (J-5, J-7).

7. After some debate in executive session, and irrespective of the objections voiced by the superintendent, the board voted 5 to 4 to waive its retention policy "with the stipulation that [D.B.] passes English in summer school." (J-5)

8. The day after its June 15, 1992 meeting, another mother (P) called the superintendent about concerning son. She had been in attendance at the meeting the prior evening where the waiver was voted upon.

9. Thereafter, a special meeting of the Board was called on June 22, 1992. The Board went into executive session to entertain the concerns of (P) about her son who failed three subjects one year earlier and at that time the Board denied her request to promote him. One subject he failed was home economics and P believed this subject should not be counted. P. allegedly spoke to a "legal examiner" at the state department who advised her to confront the Board about her situation. (J-11)

10. After discussion with its attorney and debate among its members, the Board voted 6 to 1 to rescind its action respecting D.B. on June 15, 1992 "on the grounds that such action is a violation of administrative policy and to require student D.B. in accordance with the policy to repeat 7th grade." (J-11)

11. The superintendent testified that the promotion policy had never been waived except for D.B.; that there is no distinction in the policy between academic and non-academic subjects; that there was no discussion of D.B. in the executive session attended by P; and that the promotion and retention policy submitted by petitioners (P-1) applied only to elementary school pupils in grades K-6. D.B. is a pupil in the 7 through 9 junior high school.

I accept the superintendent's testimony as fact.

DISCUSSION

This is a classic case of a board of education creating a problem for itself by its failure to abide by its own policy and its failure to adhere to the advice of its superintendent. The superintendent understands that policy is designed to keep the institution on the straight and narrow path and that deviations from policy are fraught with danger.

D.B.'s mother testified that she and her daughter were called to the superintendent's office on June 23, 1992, the day after the meeting in which the promotion policy waiver was rescinded. They were very upset and cried when they heard the news. Nevertheless, D.B. began her non-academic subjects on June 16, 1992 and had paid the tuition at Collingswood for her summer English class which would begin on July 1. This suit followed.

Now that she has passed English with a grade of "B" and made up home economics and industrial arts requirements with passing grades to the satisfaction of the school district, D.B. seeks promotion as a regular eighth grade pupil beginning in September 1992.

The Board argues that D.B. has acquired no vested right since she was notified before she began her English course in Collingswood and that she would be reimbursed for any tuition paid for that subject. (The other two courses were offered in the local district at no charge to the pupils). Therefore, D.B. should be required to repeat seventh grade pursuant to its retention policy.

in McDowell v. Board of Education of Island Heights, 1974 S.L.D. 1316, that board of education rescinded its resolution permitting entrance to school for an under age kindergarten pupil. The Island Heights board cited its statutory and discretionary authority to make, amend and repeal rules pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. Relevant portions of that decision are quoted below:

> The Board asserts . . . that when a board of education acts within its discretionary authority, the Commissioner should not interfere or substitute his judgment for that of the local board. Kopera v. Board of Education of West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (1960) . . .
> The Board argues, finally, that the infant acquired no vested right since he had not been enrolled, nor did he attend any classes; therefore, his right to a free public school education has only been postponed for a year.
>
> In previous decisions by the Commissioner, it has been held that an acquired right through the adoption of a resolution by a board of education cannot be invalidated by a rescinding of the resolution at a subsequent meeting." Marion S. Harris v. Board of Education of Pemberton Township, Burlington County, 1939-49 S.L.D. 164 (1938) (at pp. 165-166) See also Samuel Hirsch v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, 1961 S.L.D. 189; Anthony Amorosa v. Board of Education of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, 1964 S.L.D. 105; Leon Gager v. Board of Education of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District No. 1, Camden County, 1964 S.L.D. 81; James Docherty v. Board of Education of West Paterson, Passaic County, 1967 S.L.D. 297; Leonard V. Moore v. Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle, Union County, 1973 S.L.D. 526.
>
> The Board avers that this matter is distinguishable from the cases cited, ante, in that the persons represented therein had signed contracts with their boards giving them vested rights.
> In the hearing examiner's judgment, pupils also have rights. They have a right to be treated equitably and a right to expect that those persons charged with the responsibility of charting the educational future of children will do so in their best interest. The hearing examiner finds in the instant matter that the infant acquired a right to attend kindergarten in the Borough of Island Heights because of the several actions of the Board . . . (at pp. 1319-1320).

The Commissioner adopted the report of the hearing examiner as his own and directed the Board to admit the kindergarten pupil holding also that no new underage applicants need be considered for entrance.

I FIND and CONCLUDE:

The matter herein is similar. D.B. had a right to rely on the determination of the Board to waive its promotion policy thus making it possible for her to be promoted on the successful completion of summer school. The fact that D.B. acquired no vested right is not germane to the fact pattern here. D.B. must be promoted according to equitable principles. Black's Law Dictionary defines equitable as --

> Just; conformable to the principles of justice and right.
> Just, fair, and right in consideration of the facts and circumstances of the individual case.

Now that D.B. has satisfied the requirements to be promoted to eighth grade no educational or rational purpose can be served by forcing her to repeat seventh grade.

This determination for D.B. does not extend to any other pupil. If a pupil was aggrieved in a prior year, action should have been taken at that time.

The Board's promotion policy is not questioned. It appears fair and designed by its professional staff in the best interest of the school pupils. This problem arose only because the Board did not follow its own policy.

In his closing argument counsel for petitioner sought to amend his complaint on the ground that there was a discussion of D.B. with another parent at the executive session of the Board on June 22, 1992, in violation of the rules concerning confidentiality of pupil records. It appears that D. B. was mentioned at this meeting (J-11); however, the superintendent testified that there was no such discussion while P was in attendance.

I am convinced from the record as a whole that any mention of D.B., if it occurred at all, was only in the context that a waiver had been authorized for her and not for P's son who had a similar problem in an earlier year. Accordingly, the motion to amend the complaint is DENIED.

The Commissioner has no authority to award counsel fees. As stated in Balsley v. North Hunterdon Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990) " . . . the absence of express statutory authority is fatal to the claim for counsel fees." (at 443) Accordingly, petitioner's request for counsel fees is DENIED.

Based on all of the above, petitioner's prayer for relief is GRANTED She will begin in grade 8 in September 1992.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to the prescriptions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and thus are not considered in the Commissioner's disposition of this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner adopts as his own those findings and conclusions of the Office of Administrative Law that for the equitable reasons as expressed in the initial decision, and because D.B. has satisfied the requirements to be promoted to eighth grade, petitioners' prayer for relief seeking D.B.'s promotion to grade 8 in September 1992 be granted. In so determining, the Commissioner stresses, as did the ALJ below, that this matter is strictly limited to the facts pertaining solely to D.B., and does not extend to any other pupil.

Accordingly, the initial decision is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: August 27, 1992 Decided: August 28, 1992

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, CHIEF ALJ:

On April 2, 1992, Parents for a Better Solution filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking relief from a proposed school district reorganization, which it alleged was based on erroneous and incomplete cost information and without educational justification. On April 21, 1992, respondent, Board of Education of the East Windsor Regional School District, filed its answer denying the allegations of the petition and seeking dismissal of the petition with the Commissioner of Education. On May 15, 1992, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

A telephone prehearing conference was conducted by the undersigned on July 20, 1992, during which petitioner's attorney advised that petitioner had determined not to pursue the matter, and respondent's attorney advised he would file a motion to dismiss. Thereafter, on August 8, 1992, respondent's motion to dismiss was filed with the undersigned. The motion seeks dismissal on the basis of (1) petitioner's representation at the prehearing that it was abandoning its intention to affirmatively prove at a plenary hearing the factual basis for its allegations that the board's decision regarding the reorganization plan was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable; (2) no Open Public Meetings Act violation occurred; and (3) the board's action is not ultra vires merely because the completion of the reorganization plan will continue into the term of a subsequent board.

On August 27, 1992, a letter submitted on behalf of petitioner was received indicating that petitioner joins in the motion to dismiss, stating that to prolong the process would be counterproductive.

Therefore, based upon the lack of opposition to the motion filed on behalf of respondent, and petitioner joining in the motion to dismiss, I direct that this matter be DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner no longer wishes to pursue this matter as evidenced by its joining in the Board's motion to dismiss the matter as a controversy before him.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:
APPEAL OF THE NEWFIELD BOARD OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

OCTOBER 15, 1992

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE NEWFIELD BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION

For the Petitioner, Carl W. Cavagnaro, Esq. (Reuss & Cavagnaro)

For the Respondent, Colleen A. Maier, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Newfield Board of Education (Board) on May 27, 1992 appealing the cap waiver defeated by the voters of the school district on April 7, 1992. On June 19, 1992 the Borough Council of Newfield (Borough) submitted its Answer to the Petition raising the following separate defenses:

1. That the Board appealed the defeat of the cap waiver in the amount of $183,258 without having provided the Borough with the opportunity to identify and provide reasons for specific line item reductions in the cap waiver requests. It is contended by the Borough that the Board in its meeting on April 23, 1992, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, did not address itself to the cap waiver items nor provide reasons for their restoration.

2. That the Board's decision to accept reductions of $12,000* from its basic school budget is inconsistent with its request to the Commissioner for approval of a cap waiver.

* The Board accepted the $12,000 budget reduction effectuated by the Borough which the Gloucester County Superintendent agreed could be sustained due to respondent's willingness to do grounds care and trash removal and anticipated savings for utilities.

On June 24, 1992 the Borough adopted Resolution #71-92 in which it amended its tax levy by increasing such levy by $34,063 and setting forth its position by specific line item as to why the remaining requested cap waiver of $149,195 should not be granted by the Commissioner. Subsequent to the receipt of the Borough's Statement of Reasons, the Board submitted its Response to the Borough's position. No additional documents were filed by either party thereby closing the record.

It is noted by the Commissioner that the Gloucester County Superintendent of Schools conditionally approved the 1992-93 Newfield School District budget on March 3, 1992 upon its advertisement of the following cap waiver proposal:

Account Title	Account No.	Amount
Preschool/Kindergarten, Salaries-Teachers	01-213	$ 7,535
Grades 1-5, Salaries-Teachers	02-213	37,670
Grades 6-8, Salaries-Teachers	03-213	7,535
Salaries-Other Instructional Staff	05-214	31,644
Other Salaries for Instruction	05-216	5,220
Textbooks	05-220	1,222
School Library and Audio/Visual Materials	05-230	2,304

Special Education, Resource Room-Other Expenses	18-290	1,200
Basic Skills/Remedial-Other Expenses	24-290	500
Additional Current Expense Appropriations		$183,258

Subsequently, upon defeat of the proposed budget and cap waiver, the Board met with the governing body on April 23, 1992 as required pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 at which time the Borough reduced the proposed budget and tax levy by $12,000, said reduction being accepted by the Board. The Board's Petition of Appeal requesting approval by the Commissioner of the cap waiver constitutes the matter controverted herein.

The amounts in contention in this appeal are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board		Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Borough
Current Expense		Current Expense
$686,191		$674,191*
183,258	(Cap Waiver)
$869,449

BOARD'S POSITION

Line Item		Amount
01-213	Preschool/Kindergarten, Salaries-Teachers	$ 7,535
02-213	Grades 1-5, Salaries-Teachers	$37,670
03-213	Grade 6-8, Salaries-Teachers	$ 7,535

The above line items represent teacher salaries for the district's art, music and physical education programs which are provided by specialists three days per week, three days per week and two days per week, respectively, by certificated specialists in those areas. Should the cap waiver request be denied, the programs

* On June 24, 1992 the governing body resolved to amend the tax levy for current expense to add $34,063 for cap waiver purposes but certification to the Gloucester Board of Taxation was not accomplished because no statutory authority exists for a governing body to tax above cap.

would be eliminated and responsibility for art, music and physical education would be placed upon classroom teachers.

05-214 Salaries - Other Instructional Staff $31,644

The amounts in this account represent the salaries for a three day per week librarian and the salary for the school nurse who acts as coordinator of the child study team two days per week. Elimination of the librarian's salary would require classroom teachers to assume the responsibility of teaching library skills and providing enrichment. Since the child study team consists of part-time persons providing per diem and per case services, the Board contends that elimination of this coordination function would inhibit required communication between teaching staff members and parents.

05-216 Other Salaries for Instruction $ 5,220

The salary in this account is for a basic skills coordinator who completes the Chapter I applications for federal aid, determines the extent of the program, completes the state-required evaluation and schedules meetings with parents. The employment in this area is for 30 days per year and its elimination would place the burden for these activities on the existing staff to the detriment of their other duties.

05-220 Textbooks $ 1,222

This line item is for replacement of textbooks for social studies which is a district adopted T&E objective.

05-230 School Library and A/V Materials $ 2,304

The district contends that materials in this line item were eliminated in the 1991-92 budget and their elimination in this budget would mean that no new materials would be purchased for two consecutive years.

05-240 Teaching Supplies $ 3,078

This line item is primarily for the art program and represents paper and other supplies.

05-250 Other Expenses $ 1,000

This line item is for the purchase of new software for existing computers. The Board contends these funds are necessary in order to update computer systems which are an integral part of the curriculum of Computer Assisted Instruction.

05-260A Purchased Professional Educational Services $11,500

The Board points out that the amounts in this account are for child study team services which are mandated by law.

00-410 Salaries - Health $17,190

This line item represents 60% of the full-time school nurse's salary, the other portion being paid out of Account 05-214. Nursing services are mandated by state law and therefore cannot be eliminated.

00-520c Trips Other Than To and From School $ 3,200

This amount is provided in order to permit one field trip per class per year. These monies are to meet the expenses for such trips, particularly to meet the mandate to provide funds for students whose parents cannot afford to contribute toward such trips. Elimination of these funds would eliminate all field trips for pupils.

00-720 Contracted Services $41,000

The services for which the Board contends it must contract are as follows:

1. $30,000 for repair to corridor doors which was required by the Borough's Fire Code.

2. $6,000 to improve ventilation in the nurse's room.

3. $5,000 for general repairs included as part of the district's five-year facility plan.

00-820 Insurance and Judgments $ 3,632

Of the above amount, $1,132 is required for purposes of providing insurance coverage for the music, art and physical education teachers while $2,500 is required for the cost of undertaking a total fixed asset appraisal as recommended by the auditor in the 1991-92 school budget audit.

00-1020 Student Body Activities - Other Expenses $ 1,100

The funds in this account are for purchase of graduation and attendance certificates. The Board, however, acknowledges that a surplus of $775 in the 1991-92 school year permits them to accept a 50% reduction in the amount requested to $550.

18-210 Special Education, Resource Room - Salaries $ 6,728

The amount required in this line item is for the payment of the salary of a supplemental Resource Room teacher for one day per week. The Board argues that it must finance one day per week in order to receive a matching federal grant for an additional day per week.

The Board contends without the salary in this account students will be denied supplemental instruction as well as reinforcement on the computer.

18-290 Special Education, Resource Room - Other Expenses $1,200

This line item provides materials for 15 children in the Resource Room which the Board maintains are necessary to meet the requirements of the IEP's of these pupils.

24-290 Basic Skills/Remedial - Other Expenses $500

The Board contends the amount in this account represents the minimum required to provide supplies for special education, as well as computer supplies and software for this remedial program.

BOROUGH'S POSITION

The Borough's position in each of the foregoing accounts is set forth in its Resolution #71-92 as follows:

>
> The proposed cap waiver presented to the public included an art program that is only four years old and could be reincorporated into the regular classroom curriculum as it was prior to its institution with no adverse effect on the regular education of the children. The Physical Education Program could also be incorporated as part of the normal days work of the regular classroom teachers, who normally provide recess and physical activity for the students, anyway. The music program should be continued with the [bare] minimum of time that the program would need to be effective one and one half days per week. This program provides the students a special interest outside of the classroom. ($43,095.00 reduction)
> LINE ITEM - 05-214
>
> We believe that the librarian could be cut to one day per week and that the CST coordinators position and responsibilities should be done by the administration, which would eliminate $24,916.00 from this line item.
>
> We have seen no adverse affect to the education of the children by the existing employees performing the work in this line item, and that was an alternative presented by the School Board. ($5,220.00 reduction)
>
> With the possible regionalization of the school district, we feel that the purchase of the text books should be held off until that is decided. ($1,222.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 05-230

With the total or partial elimination of the library staff, the need for this expense should be removed. ($2,304.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 05-240

We are recommending that the art program be removed, therefore, the need for these items is no longer needed. ($3,078.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 05-250

We must realize that at times we need to hire within our means. With the possibility of regionalization, we should keep this cost out of the budget. ($1,000.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 260A

If state law does not require that we have our own CST, then we see no need to include this item. We feel that the support staff of the district should be able to handle these duties. ($11,500.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 00-[410]

School Nurse - If allowed to remain, the nurse should be given some of the support duties that we have eliminated in other line items. We need to consolidate the staff in order to make the staff more efficient.

LINE ITEM - 520C

There are other ways of providing the needed money for field trips. This should be privately funded  and not be included in the budget. ($3,200.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 00-720

These repairs should be held up until we know whether there will be a regionalization of the district. ($41,000.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 00-820

As the admission of the statement, this line item can be eliminated and the fixed asset recommendation certainly does not [affect] the education of the children. ($3,632.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 00-1020

We would hope that the parent organization would be able to fund this program. It seems logical that this type of activity certainly does not [affect] the education of our children. ($1,100.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 18-210

The elimination of this program would keep the children in the classroom and the needed help should then come from the staff already in place. (classroom teachers) ($6,728.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 18-290

If the Line Item 18-210 was eliminated, the items in this line item would no longer be necessary. The supplies could come from the normal classroom equipment. ($1,200.00 reduction)

LINE ITEM - 24-290

We agree that if there is a minimum needed to support this program, we should allow the on staff people the equipment to effect this program to the students.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The Commissioner has carefully reviewed the arguments presented by the parties, as well as the record of the concessions made by them towards each other's position. In so doing, the Commissioner notes that, apart from the $12,000 concession by the Board in the basic budget which was formally approved by the Gloucester County Superintendent, neither party to this dispute had the authority to grant such concessions.

The Commissioner finds that the Borough's action in conceding certain programs within the cap waiver request by its additional appropriation of $34,063 is entirely outside that body's authority. When a cap waiver request is presented to the voters upon the authorization of the Commissioner and then defeated by the voters, only the Commissioner himself has the legal authority to determine whether any or all parts of that cap waiver request are necessary in order to assure the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education. The governing body has no authority to authorize a tax levy funding all or part of the cap waiver request.

The Commissioner further notes that the Board in conceding to the reduction of its music program and agreeing to provide coordination of its child study team by other administrative personnel, rather than by the means originally contemplated in its cap waiver request, has likewise exceeded its authority. In so concluding, the Commissioner notes that the budget when presented to the County Superintendent for permission to advertise was approved as providing a thorough and efficient system of education conditioned upon the presentation of a cap waiver to the voters of the community. Consequently, that conditional approval status cannot be abrogated by the Board through specific line item concessions without the specific approval of such concessions by the County Superintendent. In the matter before the Commissioner, no such approval of concessions was sought or approved.

The following represents a line item by line item determination by the Commissioner in each area of specific reduction put forth by the Borough in its position statement.

In regard to the art and music programs, the Commissioner finds such programs to be a significant contribution to the totality of a thorough and efficient education. To require such programs currently in existence and taught by specialist to be taught by regular classroom teachers would represent a significant retrogression. Therefore, the Commissioner concludes that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for this portion of the cap waiver and directs that $52,740 in these three accounts be added to the 1992-93 tax levy.

Line Item 05-214

The Commissioner agrees with the Board that there is the necessity for continuing the services of a school librarian at the existing rate of 3 days per week. The Commissioner finds the Borough's argument of reducing the librarian to one day of service per week to be untenable. Further, as indicated above, the Board's concession to have the administration assume the child study team coordination role cannot be sustained.

Consequently, the Commissioner determines that the $31,644 in cap waiver in this line item is necessary.

Line Item 05-216

The Commissioner finds the Board's request for a part-time coordinator of its Basic Skills program to be necessary for meeting its responsibility to prepare applications, conduct evaluations and schedule meetings with parents. He therefore approves the inclusion of the $5,220 in the Board's cap waiver request.

Line Item 05-220

Approval of the cap waiver request for purchase of social studies textbooks in the amount of $1,222 is granted. The Board has established this as one of its district T&E objectives and the Commissioner finds the Borough's argument relative to possible regionalization to be irrelevant. Regionalization and/or a sending-receiving relationship is speculative at this time and may not serve to hold the district's present needs hostage.

Line Item 05-230

The Commissioner finds persuasive the Board's argument that a reduction in this area, after a total elimination of expenditures in this account in 1991-92, would seriously hamper it in providing a thorough and efficient education. The $2,304 cap waiver requested in this account is granted.

Line Item 05-240

Having granted the Board's request for a cap waiver to employ an art specialist, the $3,078 for classroom art supplies is hereby approved.

Line 05-250

The Board's request in the amount of $1,000 for purchase of computer software is granted. The Commissioner finds the arguments presented by the Borough to be unresponsive.

Line Item 05-260a

The amount of $11,500 for purchase of child study team services is granted. These services are mandated by law and therefore must be provided.

Line Item 00-410

Nursing services are likewise mandated by law and cannot be eliminated. The Commissioner notes that the Borough concedes the continuance of these services by virtue of its additional appropriation of $34,063 contained within Resolution #71-92, therefore the $17,190 cap waiver for this line item is granted.

Line Item 00-520c

Opportunity for field trips is an integral and necessary component of a thorough and efficient education. While the current status of the law permits parents to contribute to such trips, children unable to pay must be permitted to attend at public expense. Therefore, a $3,200 expenditure for one field trip per year per class is a reasonable amount and such amount is to be added to the district's cap waiver request.

Line Item 00-720

The projects contemplated by the Board are reasonable and necessary. The $41,000 cap waiver requested by the Board is granted. Necessary repairs cannot be delayed pending the speculative possibility of regionalization.

Line Item 00-820

The Commissioner concludes that the Board's request for fixed asset appraisal is reasonable and necessary, therefore the cap waiver of $3,632 is granted for this line item.

Line Item 00-1020

The Commissioner grants the $1,100 for award certificates and assemblies requested by the Board.

Line Item 18-210

The $6,728 in cap waiver monies for purposes of providing a part-time supplemental teacher is granted. The Borough's argument that such services be provided by regular classroom staff is inconsistent with law.

Line Item 18-290

The Board's request in the amount of $1,200 is granted. The necessity for providing supplies and instructional materials to Resource Room pupils cannot reasonably be argued. The Borough's position that the supplies are in some way related to the hiring of the part-time supplemental teacher is without foundation.

Line Item 24-290

The Borough in its Resolution #71-92 has conceded the $500 in this account and has already included it as part of its $34,063 supplemental appropriation. Therefore, the Commissioner sustains this cap waiver amount.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that an additional amount by way of cap waiver of $183,258 is required by the Newfield Board of Education in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education to its students. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989)

The Commissioner hereby directs the Gloucester County Board of Taxation to adjust the Newfield School District's tax levy to reflect the aforesaid $183,258 for current expense which shall result in a total current expense tax levy of $857,449 for the 1992-93 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

JANUARY 15, 1993

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE NEWFIELD BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION ON MOTION

For the Petitioner, Colleen A. Maier, Esq.
For the Board, Carl W. Cavagnaro, Esq.

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of Motion for Stay with accompanying affidavit from the Mayor of the Borough of Newfield seeking a stay of the decision of the Commissioner dated October 15, 1992. An extension was granted until December 14, 1992 for counsel for the Borough of Newfield to file a brief in support of the motion, which by letter dated December 2, 1992, counsel determined would not be submitted. No responsive papers were filed by the Board, although it was properly served with the motion and affidavit.

The affidavit accompanying the Motion for Stay filed by the Mayor of Newfield would have the Commissioner grant a stay of the cap waiver appeal rendered on October 15, 1992, observing that discussions are underway between the Newfield Board of Education and the Buena Board of Education with regard to a sending/receiving relationship, which, if formalized, would substantially change the demand for the programs and expenditures as requested in the cap waiver. The mayor's affidavit further contends that insofar as it is halfway through the school year, the immediate implementation of new programs and expenditures will cause disruption and will result in the unnecessary use of taxpayers' money should the appeal of the Borough of Newfield be successful. Finally, the mayor argues that in the event the Borough of Newfield is successful in the pending appeal of the cap waiver before the State Board of Education, there will be a detrimental impact upon the School Board, the teachers and students, should the Board be forced to lay off teachers hired, and cut back programs implemented pursuant to the cap waiver.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner denies the request for stay insofar as the Borough has failed to meet those standards articulated by the Court for the grant of the extraordinary relief sought herein as stated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Those contentions raised in the affidavit tendered by the Mayor of Newfield constitute mere speculation and therefore are not persuasive as to either irreparable harm, likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying claim of the matter or that the balancing of equities enures in favor of the Borough of Newfield.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED on this 15TH day of January 1993 that the instant Motion for Stay be and hereby is DENIED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: August 13, 1992 Decided: August 31, 1992

BEFORE NAOMI DOWER-LABASTILLE, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted on June 25, 1992, as a remand of OAL Dkt. Nos. EDU 9287-91 and EDU 1167-92 (consolidated), by the Commissioner of Education who disapproved the consent order filed in those dockets. The parties have revised their stipulation in hopes that it will be consistend with the Commmissioner's directives.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached stipulation indicating the terms of settlement.

1. I have reviewed the record and the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARRISON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

For Petitioner, J. R. Powell, Esq.
For Respondent, Russell E. Paul, Esq.

On September 16, 1991 the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Harrison, took Board action to rescind its existing busing policy. On October 3, 1991 the Petitioner, C.C. on behalf of her minor child, T.C., brought a Petition of Appeal with Motion for Emergent Relief before the Office of Administrative Law acting on behalf of the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner sought a stay of the Board decision of September 16, 1991 rescinding its existing busing policy.

On October 3, 1991 the Commissioner of Education issued a Decision on Motion which granted a preliminary injunction to the petitioner during the pendency of the transmittal of this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing to determine whether, under the facts of this case, the respondent, Board of Education, failed to give adequate notice and whether the Board's action in ceasing its discretionary practice was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable due to insufficient notice, and if so, what remedy would be appropriate under the circumstances.

Subsequent, thereto, on October 11, 1991 the petitioner filed a Motion for Interlocutory Appeal, with Brief, to the State Board of Education (Docket No. 51-91). Petitioner contended that the Commissioner of Education had failed to hear and decide certain alleged Constitutional issues. The respondent contended that the matter was moot in that the Commissioner of Education had heard and decided the case except as to adequate notice.

On February 5, 1992 the State Board of Education issued a decision in the above captioned matter (Docket No. 51-91) and remanded the entire matter back to the Commissioner of Education through the Office of Administrative Law for a full hearing on the merits of the substantive claims raised by the petitioner subject to any jurisdictional limitations as to constitutional matters , and also a hearing as to the question of adequate notice. Said hearing before the Office of Administrative Law was scheduled for April 14, 1992. Pending the recommendation of the Administrative Law Judge to the Commissioner of Education and the Commissioner's of Education Decision, the status quo is to be maintained and the Board of Education is not permitted to amend its existing busing policy.

Prior to the aforementioned hearing then scheduled for April 14, 1992, the respective parties have held settlement conferences in an effort to resolve the instant matter to the satisfaction to all parties without the necessity of further proceedings. The Petitioner and Respondent recommend to the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education that they adopt a rule embodying the procedure set forth below for all school districts in the State of New Jersey which seek to change existing busing policy. The Petitioner and Respondent acknowledge that same is a "recommendation" and that the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education are not bound to accept same.

Based on the above, for purposes of judicial efficiency, for deciding this matter pursuant to the entire controversies doctrine, and for good cause shown

THE PETITIONER AND RESPONDENT BY WAY OF STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT do hereby on this 10th day of August, 1992 AGREE AND STIPULATE as follows:

1. The Petitioner and Respondent mutually request that the Commissioner of Education rescind its injunction restraining the Respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Harrison, from amending its existing busing policy for the purpose of permitting said Respondent to adopt a proposed amendment to its busing policy as attached hereto and as set forth on Schedule "A" being Transortation Policy 7:9 and Transportation Policy 7:10.

2. The Petitioner and Respondent mutually agree that the following proposed amendment to the busing policy as set forth on Schedule "A" shall be adopted in accordance with the following procedures which shall be deemed to be mandatory in the future for adoption of the particular changes to the existing busing policy as set forth on Schedule "A".

Respondent shall be required prior to any change in any busing policy to adopt any proposed change to any busing policy at a regularly scheduled school board meeting on first reading, and prior to any final adoption a second reading must be held at a regularly scheduled school board meeting, which second meeting shall be no less than 20 days or no more than 40 days after the first reading, and a third and final reading of said proposed change to any busing policy shall be held at a regularly scheduled meeting of the board of education which shall be no less than 50 days and no more than 70 days after the first reading of same, and that any actions taken at the aforesaid three regularly scheduled meetings shall be in accordance with the Open Public Meetings Act of New Jersey (N.J.S.A. 10:4 et seq), and notice of the aforesaid change in any busing policy must be publicly placed at the place adopted by the board of education for public notices immediately following the first reading.

3. The Petitioner and Resondent agree that upon the Respondent carrying out the procedures as above set forth for a proposed change in its existing busing policy as set forth in Schedule "A" attached hereto, the within captioned action shall be dismissed with prejudice.

DATED: Aug 10, , 1992.

The attorneys for the Petitioner and the Respondent having read the above proposed Consent Order do hereby consent to same as to form and content.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HARRISON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this remanded matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that two of the three concerns raised in his previous decision remanding this matter for revision of settlement terms have been adequately addressed, namely the inappropriate drafting of the settlement document as a consent order and clarification of the nonbinding nature of the parties' request that the Commissioner adopt statewide directives on local board transportation decisions patterned after the procedures agreed to by the parties in this matter.

The third and most important concern, however, remains unaddressed in the revised stipulation, which, like its predecessor, appears on its face to improperly bind future boards as to what procedures shall be used to revise district policy. Nonetheless, in the interest of judicial economy, rather than rejecting the revised settlement and remanding this matter yet again, the Commissioner determines instead to accept the settlement with the express understanding that language deeming agreed-upon procedures for adoption of changes to busing policy to be "mandatory in the future" shall apply only during the life of the present Board, that is, until organization of the new Board following the annual school election in April 1993. Should any new Board in the future desire to examine and/or alter the procedures set forth in the settlement agreement, it is not bound by the terms of same.

Accordingly, subject to the above-stated limitation as to the effective term of the agreement, the Commissioner accepts the initial decision and settlement as the final disposition of this matter subject to compliance by the parties with the terms of the agreement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning transport company sought money damages when State-operated district rescinded contract awarded by prior Board of Education.

ALJ found initial award of contract to petitioner violated rules and regulations as petitioner was not lowest bidder and did not meet specifications of 36-passenger buses. (N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5(d) and (e) and N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37) ALJ further found that Board's action was ultra vires as it was in violation of State order to suspend awarding of contracts. Therefore, rescission was proper and petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

David F. Corrigan, Esq., for respondent (Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 24, 1992 Decided: August 31, 1992

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On December 13, 1989, Hudson County Transport, Inc. filed a complaint with the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Hudson County, Docket No W-03100689, seeking a judgment against the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City (District) for damages allegedly sustained when the District rescinded its contract with Hudson County Transport for the transportation of pupils.

The suit sought damages from the District in the amount of $275,040 in net profits lost as a result of the alleged breach of contract, punitive damages, cost of suit, attorney's fees, and such other relief as the court deemed appropriate. The District filed its answer on March 14, 1989. On April 27, 1990, Maurice J. Gallipoli, J.S.C., entered an order dismissing the complaint and/or transferring the matter to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to the doctrine of primary jurisdiction.

The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 19, 1990 for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. After a number of adjournments, hearings were held on June 12 and 13, 1992. The record was held open to allow the parties to submit briefs, and it was closed on July 24, 1992.

At a prehearing conference held on January 15, 1991 before Marylouise Lucchi-McCloud, ALJ, it was decided that the following were the issues to be resolved at hearing:

1. Does the Commissioner of Education have jurisdiction over an action alleging breach of contract and the power to award damages for the breach?

2. Did the District violate N.J.S.A. Title 18A when it rescinded petitioner's contract or reject petitioner's bid?

   a) Did the Jersey City Board of Education (Board) have the power/authority pursuant to the Order for Emergent Relief of the Commissioner of Education dated August 9, 1988 in the matter entitled Walter J. McCarroll v. Bd of Ed. of City of Jersey City to approve the award of a contract for transportation by its Resolution 5.20 on September 20, 1989?

3. To what relief, if any, is petitioner entitled?

JURISDICTION OF THE COMMISSIONER

The education statute, N.J.S.A. Title 18A, specifically N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, grants the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under school law or under the rules of the State Board of Education or the Commissioner of Education. Accordingly, the Commissioner and, therefore, the OAL have jurisdiction over school transportation contract disputes which fall under Chapter 39 of the education statute.

This jurisdiction over school bus contracts was affirmed by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Rankin v. Bd. of Ed. of Egg Harbor Tp. 134 N.J L. 342 (Sup. Ct. 1946), aff'd 135 N.J.L. 299 (E. & A. 1947). I therefore CONCLUDE that the Commissioner of Education has the jurisdiction to hear the present dispute concerning the awarding of school bus transportation contracts.

However, purely contractual disputes do not fall under the school laws. The Superior Court has jurisdiction to hear breach-of-contract cases involving the transportation of pupils where money damages are sought. Fair Lawn Bd. of Ed. v. Fair Lawn Plaza Taxi, Inc., 55 N.J. Super. 357 (App. Div. 1959). Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction to award money damages in the event that Hudson County Transport had a valid contract for transportation of pupils which was breached by the District.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

On May 23, 1988, Walter J. McCarroll, assistant commissioner, Division of County and Regional Services, Department of Education, brought an Order to Show Cause before the Commissioner of Education why the Commissioner should not recommend to the State Board of Education the issuance of an administrative order establishing a State-operated school district in Jersey City pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-14 and 15. The order was accompanied by a Verified Petition and a Motion for Emergent Relief.

The Commissioner issued an Order of Emergent Relief on August 9, 1988 affirming the order of Ken R. Springer, ALJ, of July 25, 1988 resulting from the Motion for Emergent Relief.

Under the terms of the order, the Board was obligated to provide the "assistant commissioner for county and regional services with prior notice of its intended action with only four days' notice" relating to any of its personnel and fiscal affairs.

In order to be sure that the Board complied with the order, it was directed by the Commissioner to submit agendas of its meetings and copies of proposed resolutions to Dr. Elena Scambio, now superintendent of the District, for review. After review, she could either enjoin the Board from taking any action on a resolution or permit it to consider the resolution and take whatever action it deemed appropriate; the Board was forbidden from taking any action on a resolution without prior permission from Scambio.

Two State Board members, Laura Mays and Judi Granick, were assigned to monitor every Board meeting to observe and report to Scambio. The Board agendas and proposed resolutions were to be submitted to Scambio for review through the monitors.

REVIEW OF EVIDENCE

Since it came into existence in 1976, Hudson County Transport has been in the business of providing buses for pupil transportation to the Jersey City school system.

The Jersey City Board of Education (Board) provides transportation for special education pupils. Each year, it prepares specifications and invites bids on 154 different bus routes. William Massa, the chief attorney to the Board in 1989, testified that the bid specifications for the 1989-90 school year were prepared by James Seaman, an assistant attorney to the Board.

Massa was chief attorney to the Board between September 1960 and October 4, 1989, except for a brief period in 1984 and 1985. He resumed the position in July 1985. Seaman had primary responsibility for reviewing bidding specifications and bus contracts for the Board. He operated as assistant to Massa, who had the overall responsibility.

On May 17, 1989, the Board approved the special education transportation specifications prepared by Seaman for the school year 1989-90

Potential bidders were provided with a packet containing the specifications and "route sheets" designating each numbered route individually by means of a list of the addresses of the students along the route and the type of vehicle which would be required to pick up the students at the listed addresses and take them to and from the A. Harry Moore School in Jersey City. An "inter-office memo" from the Transportation Department dated July 20, 1989 was sent to the bus transportation vendors from Robert J. Roggenstein, the principal in charge of transportation and food services in the central office, informing them that they would be required to provide the type of vehicle specified on the route sheets.

On the basis of the bids submitted, Hudson County Transport was awarded the contracts for Routes 433, 445, 475, 477, 478, 479, 482, and 516. The specifications for all of these routes called for a 36-passenger bus.

A 36-passenger bus is a bus designed to carry 36 passengers. A 54-passenger bus is a bus designed to carry 54 passengers. The terms have specific meanings in the industry and designate two different types of vehicles. A 36-passenger vehicle is approximately 8 to 10 feet shorter in body length than a 54-passenger vehicle. Its wheelbase is between 149 and 170 inches. A 54-passenger bus has a wheelbase between 224 and 260 inches. The 36-passenger buses were required on routes traveling through certain streets in Jersey City because many of the streets are narrow and have cars illegally double-parked along the side. The 54-passenger bus, with its longer wheelbase, could not always make the turn into the street.

The students served by the buses are children with special needs. The buses have an aide provided by the vendor who rides along with the driver and helps to pick up and drop off the children and generally maintain order. The students are picked up from their homes in the morning, taken to school, and dropped off at their homes in the afternoon. If a bus is unable to turn into the street to leave a child at his or her house, the aide must accompany the child from the bus and deliver the child safely to the door. This means that the driver is left alone on the bus with the remaining children while the aide is gone. The driver does not always take care of the remaining children, creating a potentially unsafe situation. If the buses were able to leave the child at the child's door, the aide could deliver the child and return to the bus almost immediately. A second aide on the buses would increase the cost of transportation significantly.

Janet Gaita, superintendent of transportation in the District since April 1990, testified that when the District receives complaints about transportation from parents, they are filed and used to make changes in subsequent years. Parents called the District to complain that the buses were not taking the children directly to their doors. It also takes longer to cover a bus route when the bus has to wait for an aide to walk a child down the street and return to the bus. When the District called the bus company to complain about the situation, it was told that the buses on the routes were too big to get around cars double parked at the street corner and that the streets themselves were too narrow.

Gaita also explained that 90 percent of the students transported are neurologically or psychologically impaired; by the end of the day, they become hyperactive on a large bus because there is more room for them to run around and get into trouble. They are more safely confined on the smaller buses and much better control can be maintained.

The bids for bus transportation for the 1989-90 school year were opened on August 3 1989 by the Board's business office. At the meeting of the Board on August 23, Resolution 5.102 was adopted awarding transportation contracts to various vendors, including those to Hudson County Transport for the routes mentioned above. The contracts were awarded even though Hudson County Transport did not specify in its proposal the type of equipment it would provide. New Bergen Livery, the next lowest bidder for these routes, was able to provide 36-passenger buses.

Between August 23 and September 7, 1989, the District attempted to inspect the vehicles to be provided by Hudson County Transport to comply with the specifications under the transportation contract. This inspection was authorized by Paragraph 49 of the Outline of Services required in the bid proposal, "to insure that proper vehicles and proper number of back-up vehicles are on hand to fulfill all obligations to be met to comply with all specifications as set forth."

When Christopher Genes, bus inspector, went to Hudson County Transport to inspect the required 36-passenger buses, he was told that they were not available.

Gaita requested legal advice from Seaman on September 6, 1989. She also spoke to Judi Granick, who became the State executive assistant to the State District superintendent on October 4, 1989. Seaman responded to Gaita's inquiry on September 6, 1989 that he had been directed by Granick not to award the contracts to Hudson County Transport. The routes in question were to be rebid.

On September 6, 1989, Gaita wrote a letter to Allan Manzo, president of Hudson County Transport, canceling the contracts for Routes 433, 445, 475, 477, 478, 479, 482, and 516 because Hudson County Transport did not have the necessary 36-passenger buses to operate these routes and did not meet the required specifications. The Board adopted Resolution 5.102 ratifying the action of the director of transportation, canceling the routes awarded to Hudson County Transport, and awarding them to New Bergen Livery, the next lowest bidder. The routes were to be serviced by this vendor for 30 days on an emergency basis until the contracts could be resubmitted for bids.

A hearing was held on Wednesday, September 13, 1989, between the Board and Hudson County Transport. Manzo appeared and was represented by counsel. Manzo's attorney argued that in all prior years, vendors were allowed to substitute a 54-passenger bus for a 36-passenger bus. Gaita stated that even though this was true, the Transportation Department had changed its policy. Nevertheless, the pupil transportation contract which was signed by Hudson County Transport on August 23, 1989 was signed by the president of the Board on September 14, 1989.

On September 18, 1989, Massa issued a memorandum to the members of the Board expressing the opinion of counsel that > it was the opinion of the Board's Transportation Committee and the Attorney that the original award of the contract was proper and legal. The rationale being that the specifications herein were too restrictive and did not promote competitive bidding as evidenced by only one vendor's ability to comply. Support for this conclusion may be found in N.J.A.C. 6:21-15 92)(c) [sic] in part:

>
> > " . . . To accomplish this purpose, the specifications must be definite and precise. Common standards must be set up. In order that all bidders shall be on an equal basis, the same information must be furnished to all Numerous bidders create competition. Therefore, the specifications must not restrict healthy bidding and make competitive bidding difficult."
> While the same information was furnished to all bidders, it should be noted that the said specifications were heretofore not rigidly enforced and that prior practice was to award contracts for buses whose capacity was greater than 36 passengers.

He recommended that the Board reinstate the transportation contract of Hudson County Transport.

Granick was provided with an agenda for the meeting of the Board scheduled for September 20, 1989. There was no mention of the Hudson County Transport contract in the materials submitted to Granick prior to the Board meeting During the course of the meeting, the Board went into closed caucus. According to the transcript of the caucus, it discussed the Hudson County Transport contract and decided that, pending an actual State takeover of the District, it had the authority and the responsibility to reaward the routes to Hudson County Transport.

Having apparently resolved to do this, the Board then called in Granick to ascertain what action the State would most likely take if they were to carry out their intent. The Board members explained to Granick that based on the findings of Massa following the hearing of September 13, 1989, it was their opinion that the vendors had always supplied 54-passenger buses on routes for which 36-passenger buses were specified and that it would be unfair to deprive long-standing vendors of their opportunity to receive contracts from the Board, particularly where Hudson County Transport's proposal was $21,000 lower than the next lowest, and only other, bidder for the routes in question.

At this point, Granick requested that the meeting go off the record. During the off-the-record discussion, she pointed out to the Board that the State would almost certainly take over the District in the near future and that if the Board pursued its course of reinstating the Hudson County Transport contract, it would expose itself to litigation because the Commissioner would not approve the reinstatement.

Shortly after this, Granick left the caucus and hurried to the telephone to inform Scambio of this development in accord with her instructions to report anything which caused her concern.

Before Granick could return to the meeting room, the Board had left its caucus, returned to the public part of the meeting, and adopted revised Resolution 5.20 reinstating the transportation contract with Hudson County Transport effective at the end of the 30-day period during which the emergency contract had been awarded.

In October 1989, the State of New Jersey took over the school district, replacing it with the State-Operated School District of Jersey City. The new District rescinded revised Resolution 5.20 and authorized the director of transportation to rebid the special education routes served by Hudson County Transport as soon as possible. Massa was removed as chief attorney to the Board on October 4, 1989.

By letter dated November 16, 1989, Manzo was informed by Melindo A. Persi, interim school business administrator, that the State District had decided to rebid the routes, and she sent him a copy of the resolution of November 3, 1989 authorizing the rescission and resubmission for bids.

1. I FIND that the Board's specification for 36-passenger buses on certain of its routes was reasonable and designed to promote the safety of the special education students to be transported.

2. I FIND that the requirement of 36-passenger buses was a substantial condition imposed upon bidders since it directly affected the safety of the pupils transported.

3. I FIND that the Board awarded the transportation contract to Hudson County Transport knowing that the vendor could not fill the specifications and supply 36-passenger buses for the specified routes; the contract for transportation was signed by the Board on September 14, 1989 with full knowledge that Hudson County Transport was unable to comply with the specifications which the Board approved on May 17, 1989.

4. I FIND that the Board reinstated the transportation contract at its meeting of September 20, 1989 in a procedure which violated the Order for Emergent Relief dated August 9, 1988, in that the resolution by which this was accomplished was not submitted to Scambio for review prior to the meeting.

DISCUSSION OF LAW AND CONCLUSIONS

Every contract or agreement for the performance of any work for which the contract price is to be paid with school funds must be awarded only by a board of education after public advertising for bids and public bidding rules unless specifically exempted from this procedure by law. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4. The contracts must be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37.

The regulations at N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.1 governing the responsibility of district boards of education to annually bid transportation contracts provide in pertinent part:

> (b) The district board of education shall reserve the right to reject any or all bids.
>
> (d) All bidding shall be designed to prevent fraud, favoritism and extravagance, to safeguard the taxpayers and protect the lowest responsible bidder.
> (e) The specifications must be definite, precise and impose common standards.

> (f) These specifications and any revisions to these specifications shall be furnished to all prospective bidders and shall not restrict competitive bidding.
> (g) Variations from the specifications prescribed by the State Board must be reasonable and are subject to review by the Commissioner and the State Board.

N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5 further requires that:

> (c) Contracts for the transportation of handicapped children to and from any other school district shall be awarded by formal action of the district board of education in a public meeting to the lowest responsible bidder and whose bid the board has determined is the least costly method. . . .
>
> (d) Any award of a contract made by a district board of education after advertisement must be according to the terms advertised to prospective bidders. Each bidder shall be compelled to conform to every substantial condition imposed upon other bidders.
>
> (e) After a contract has been awarded, a bidder cannot be relieved from conforming to the conditions imposed upon him or her in the specifications and cannot substitute something which does not conform to the specifications.
> See N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22 of the Public Schools Contracts Law.

The practice of competitive bidding for public contracts is "rooted deep in sound principles of public policy " Hillside Township v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317 (1957).

> The purpose is to secure competition and to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagence, and corruption. Statutes directed toward these ends are for the benefit of the taxpayers and not the bidders; they should be construed with sole reference to the public good; and they should be rigidly adhered to by the courts.
> Id. at 322. See also Belousofsky v. Bd. of Ed. of City of Linden, 54 N.J. Super. 219, 223 (App. Div. 1959).

The aim of competitive bidding is to put all actual or potential bidders on the same footing. Carbro Construction v. Utilities Authority, 233 N.J. Super. 116, 122 (App. Div. 1989). These statutory aims would be defeated "if a bidder were permitted to supplement his bid in essential details by private understandings or otherwise" and can only be achieved by "curtailing local discretion and requiring strict compliance with bidding guidelines." Belousofsky at 223; Carbro at 123.

> So it follows that all bids must comply with the terms imposed, and any material departure therefrom invalidates a nonconforming bid as well as any contract based upon it. If this were not the rule, the mandate for equality among bidders would be illusory and the advantages of competition would be lost.
> Hillside at 323, 324. See also In re Award Contract Construction of Bayonne Park, 168 N.J. Super. 33, 38 (App. Div. 1979).

A bidder not in compliance with specifications may not qualify to win the contract, or acceptance of his bid may be reversed. See Lowenstein, supra; Hillside at 328 (defendant's nonconforming bid was not subject to acceptance by the township); Belousofsky at 222 (bid held too uncertain to be validly in conformance with specifications); In re Award Contract Construction of Bayonne Park at 45 (award of contract reversed and matter remanded to Commissioner where low bidder failed to fulfill post-award requirement of submission of contract and performance bond). As was held in Hillside, > the significance of the expression "lowest bidder" is not restricted to the amount of the bid; it means also that the bid conforms with the specifications. . . . [Citations omitted.] [A]ny material departure stands in the way of a valid contract, and the defaulting person cannot be classed as a bidder at all.

> Id. at 324.

It appears from Hillside, supra, and I CONCLUDE, that Hudson County Transport was not the "lowest bidder" for the pupil transportation contracts because it could not conform to the specifications. I therefore CONCLUDE that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37, the Board could not legally award it the contracts. A bidder is required by this statute to be "responsible" as well as to offer the lowest cost.

I CONCLUDE that the award of the contracts violated N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5(d) in that the award was not made in accord with the terms advertised to prospective bidders. I CONCLUDE that it further violated N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5(d) in that Hudson County Transport was not compelled to conform to a substantial condition (the provision of 36-passenger buses) imposed upon the other bidder, New Bergen Livery.

I CONCLUDE that the award of the contracts violated N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5(e) in that Hudson County Transport was relieved from conforming to the specifications and allowed to substitute vehicles which did not conform to specifications.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that the award of the transportation contracts to Hudson County Transport was in violation of the laws and regulations governing public school contracts and was therefore an ultra vires act by the Board. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the award of the contracts could and should be reversed since the Board could not have accepted the bids; there was no need to rescind the contracts.

I further CONCLUDE that the Board could not reinstate the contracts with Hudson County Transport because it could not have awarded them initially. I CONCLUDE that, in addition, the Board had been deprived of the power to enter into contracts without the review of the state monitors pursuant to the Order of Emergent Relief dated August 9, 1988.

I CONCLUDE that there is no merit in petitioner's argument that it was entitled to the award of an illegal contract because such contracts had been awarded illegally in the past. It even appears that Hudson County Transport, along with the other bidders, was given specific notice of the Board's intent to require conformity with the specifications for the 1989-90 school year as part of the packet sent to potential bidders, although Manzo could not recall whether or not he saw the memorandum by Roggenstein prior to submitting his bid.

I CONCLUDE that there is no merit in petitioner's argument that the requirement of 36-passenger buses is too restrictive and discourages competitive bidding because most vendors do not have this equipment. The specifications are definite, precise, and impose a common standard as required by N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.5(e). The specifications were properly developed to address the special needs of the student population to be served, not the vested interests of prospective bidders. A bidder willing to obtain the equipment will presumably plan for it and account for the cost in the bid submitted. Bidders with no interest in obtaining the required equipment need not bid. There is no restriction here on competitive bidding, only on noncompetitive bidders.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner is entitled to no relief in this matter.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Hudson County Transport's petition be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

HUDSON COUNTY TRANSPORT, INC.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that because petitioner could not conform to material and properly drafted specifications, the Board's initial contract award to it was in violation of law and ultra vires, as was its attempt to reinstate such contract following rescission. Moreover, the Board's actions in reinstating the contract were in direct violation of the State order limiting its ability to award contracts in view of impending establishment of a State-operated school district.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, finding that petitioner has no entitlement to relief and dismissing the Petition of Appeal, is affirmed for the reasons well stated therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning 18-year-old pupil classified as neurologically impaired since 1989 appealed denial by NJSIAA's Eligibility Appeals Committee to waive Article V, Section 4J of the NJSIAA Bylaws (eight semester rule). Petitioner contended he should be allowed to participate in interscholastic sports because of his classification and the fact that he has participated in interscholastic sports for, at most, only three semesters.

After careful review of record, Commissioner found no reason to reverse NJSIAA's decision. Commissioner found petitioner failed to demonstrate emergent relief was warranted in that participation in interscholastic sports has been adjudged by Courts of this State as a privilege not a right. Further, petitioner failed to demonstrate application of rule worked hardship upon him that outweighed harm to Association and other student-athletes conforming to law. Association properly applied its eligibility rules. Petition was dismissed.

PETITIONER,	:

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Bernard E. Malin, Esq.

For NJSIAA, Picco, Mack, Herbert, Kennedy, Jaffe, and Yoskin (Michael J. Herbert, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter was opened by way of petition to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, which authorizes the Commissioner to hear and decide appeals from decisions of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA).

J.F., hereinafter petitioner, is an 18-year-old pupil classified as neurologically impaired since 1989 whose request with regard to football and wrestling for a waiver of Article V, Section 4J of the NJSIAA Bylaws was denied by the Eligibility Appeals Committee of NJSIAA on September 11, 1992. Said article of the Association's Bylaws provides that no student shall be eligible for high school athletics after the expiration of eight consecutive semesters following his/her entrance into the ninth grade. Petitioner avers he has participated in sports for only two semesters, although he concedes that when he originally entered ninth grade, which he later repeated, he did participate for eight or nine days of practice, thus amounting, at most, to participation in interscholastic football for only three semesters. He claims he did not engage in athletics during school years 1988-89 and 1989-90 except as to practice days because he believed himself ineligible to participate and because he was having intensive therapy and emotional problems at the time.

Petitioner claims his situation is not a "red shirting" situation and relies on the transcript of the hearing before the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee to establish that although he would be a starting player were the waiver granted, he is not someone whom the coaches tried to hold back to develop until he became bigger as a fifth-year player because he is not a large player by any means. Moreover, petitioner avers that during his first and second freshman years, his situation as a neurologically impaired student, "unmanageable and uncontrollable, frustrated and confrontational" (Brief in Support of Petition on Emergent Relief, at Point Three), was beyond his control. He submits that if the situation were beyond his control, then he should not be responsible for the fact that he did not participate. Combining this fact with the fact that the child study team in his district indicates that sports participation has been extremely important to his morale, petitioner advances the position that the philosophy of the NJSIAA would be best served by the grant of an exception to the eight semester rule.

Finally, by certification from petitioner's mother, attached to the petition and brief, it is asserted that petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if he is denied a waiver of the eight semester rule in that "[h]e does not participate in any other scholastic sports and does love football." (Certification dated October 1, 1992)

Respondent NJSIAA argues the Commissioner should affirm the decision of the NJSIAA denying eligibility on the basis of the eight semester rule and for failure to meet the standards for pendente lite restraints as set forth by the Court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Citing Burnside v. NJSIAA (unpublished decision of the Appellate Division, Docket No. A-625-84T7, decided November 15, 1984; cert den. 101 N.J. 236 (1985)), at page 5 of NJSIAA's Letter Brief for the dual propositions that students do not have a right to participate in interscholastic athletics, NJSIAA contends neither the Commissioner nor the courts have ever viewed the denial of athletic eligibility as constituting irreparable injury warranting the extraordinary relief sought herein.

Further, NJSIAA argues that participation in interscholastic sports is subject to eligibility requirements as established by NJSIAA, subject to review and approval by the Commissioner of Education, and more particularly in this case, to Article V, Section 4J of the NJSIAA Bylaws, and NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines for Student-Athlete Eligibililty, Handbook, at p. 66, wherein it is stated that "'participation' in any sports season will begin on the very first day that a student-athlete participates in or attends practice in a particular sport." (Reply Brief, at pp. 8-9) It contends that petitioner participated as a member of the football team in 1988, 1990 and 1991 and could have participated in his second year, since his academic deficiencies were waived by virtue of Article V, Section 4H of the Bylaws.

The Association argues further that although petitioner repeated a grade after becoming a classified student in the Spring of 1989, he never interrupted his schooling, he remained eligible to participate through all four years of high school, he never transferred, missed a year of schooling nor interrupted his high school years due to hospitalization or illness. Noting that the eight semester rule does not guarantee a student eight semesters of competition, but instead speaks to eligibility for interscholastic sports participation based on eight semesters of attendance at a secondary school, the Association submits petitioner has had an opportunity to participate in four years of athletic competition. It claims there are thus no circumstances beyond the student's control which justify granting him an extra year of eligibility in this case.

In support of the application of the eight-semester rule, the Association cites such cases as R.A.S. v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 1698; D.S. v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 211; R.S.R. et al. v. NJSIAA, decided by the Commissioner November 13, 1986; T.S., Jr. et al v. NJSIAA, decided by the Commissioner November 7, 1983; S.S., on behalf of his son, M.S. v. NJSIAA, 1986 S.L.D. 2314; and Kirk Snyder v. NJSIAA, 1983 S.L.D. 1076. Based on such precedents and the arguments mentioned above, respondent argues that the Eligibility Appeals Committee's decision was grounded on the rules and regulations of the Association, and thus, petitioner has no substantial likelihood that the decision will be overturned on appeal. Thus, the Association advances the position that petitioner has failed to meet the second prong of the Crowe, supra, standards.

Finally, NJSIAA submits that petitioner will suffer no undue hardship pursuant to the third prong of the Crowe, supra, standards insofar as he has had four years of eligibility, and participated in football for three of those years. On the contrary, the Association contends that as a starting player on the football and wrestling teams, petitioner would displace a student who has met all of the eligibility requirements of the Association and who has not been awarded an extra year of eligibility. If the stay is granted, this situation would cause hardship both to the Association, which maintains an interest in seeing that its eligibility rules are properly enforced, and especially to those displaced students.

The Commissioner, upon a careful review of the record, including the transcript of the hearing before the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee, the arguments submitted by the parties and the exhibits petitioner presented to the Eligibility Appeals Committee, finds that petitioner has advanced no compelling reason to reverse the decision reached by NJSIAA denying him a waiver of the eight semester rule, Article V, Section 4J. See Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259 (If due process has been granted and there is an adequate basis for the decision being reached by the NJSIAA committees, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the Association, even when he would decide otherwise in a de novo review).

While perhaps unfortunate that petitioner herein mistakenly believed himself ineligible to participate in interscholastic sports during the 1989-90 school year, the fact remains that he was in attendance at school continuously from the start of the 1988-89 school to date. The record is devoid of any evidence to suggest, moreover, that his therapy sessions encroached in any way on his regular attendance during the school year or rendered him incapable of attending practices or games had he participated. Thus, a waiver of the eight semester rule under these circumstances is not warranted because petitioner has set forth no evidence that his participation in sports during the years in question, including his participation during the 1988-89 school year when he attended 8 or 9 days of practice, was prevented because of circumstances beyond his control. (Article V, Section 4J, and NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines for Student-Athlete Eligibility, Section 3a and c) See, for example, S.S., supra. See also, R.A.S., supra.

Moreover, in the Commissioner's judgment, petitioner has failed to meet his burden of demonstrating emergent relief is warranted in this matter because participation in interscholastic sports has been adjudged by the Courts of this State as a privilege not a right (see, Board of Education of the City of Camden, Camden County v. NJSIAA, decided by the Commissioner February 7, 1991, aff'd New Jersey Superior Court Appellate Division February 14, 1992, aff'd New Jersey Supreme Court February 21, 1992), because he has failed to advance persuasive arguments on the merits of his claim for the reasons expressed above, and because he has failed to demonstrate that the application of the rule at issue herein has worked a hardship upon him that outweighs the harm to the Association and student-athletes who have conformed with the law as set forth in the NJSIAA Bylaws, Rules and Regulations as embodied in its Handbook.

Accordingly, for failure to meet those standards articulated by the Court in Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, for the grant of the extraordinary relief sought herein, and because the Commissioner finds no support in the record before him to find that the actions of the NJSIAA in applying its eligibility rules to the facts in this matter were clearly and demonstrably arbitrary and capricious as required by Burnside, supra, the Commissioner hereby DENIES petitioner's request for emergent relief and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal, with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association representing five teachers at Adult Learning Center claimed tenure and other emoluments for said teachers who worked hourly without a contract.

Citing Spiewak and Rabolli, ALJ found petitioners met requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and were tenured. ALJ also determined petitioners were entitled to all salary and emoluments granted other teachers in district and ordered prospective compensation from August 2, 1991, date of petition.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's determination that teachers were tenured. However, Commissioner remanded matter for factfinding and recommendation on whether or not the affected teachers meet requirements of specific statutes and regulations controlling benefits they seek. Commissioner did concur that any relief would be awarded prospectively from August 2, 1991.

TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,
Petitioner,
v.
CITY OF TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Michael T. Barrett, Esq., for the petitioner (Bergman & Barrett, attorneys)

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., for the respondent (Sumners, Council & Inniss, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 14, 1992 Decided: August 5, 1992

BEFORE AUGUST E. THOMAS, ALJ, T/A:

Petitioner, the Trenton Education Association, represents five teachers employed by the Board of Education of the City of Trenton (Board) as part of its Community Education (Trenton Adult Learning Center) program. The teachers claim tenure and/or other emoluments offered by the Board to its other teachers.

This matter was filed in the office of the Commissioner of Education on August 2, 1991, and transferred as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on September 20, 1991. After a pre-hearing conference, the matter was scheduled for hearing on March 3 and 4, 1992, however counsel later agreed to its submission on a joint stipulation of facts and their letter briefs. The record was closed on July 14, 1992, after receipt of a fax from petitioner which included a copy of a June 7, 1992, letter providing information I had requested. However, the original letter of June 7, 1992, was never received. Although no joint stipulation was submitted, petitioner's stipulation was accepted in its entirety by respondent.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The individual complainants, Ann Brooks, Sonia Foderaro, Steve Krimstock, Mary Catherine Paci and George M. Zofchak, are all teachers at the Trenton Adult Learning Center.

ANN BROOKS is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University and has taken post-graduate courses in psychology and remedial education. She is a teacher certified by the State of New Jersey and was hired to teach at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in October 1969 and has been employed at the Center since that time. She presently teaches and acts as a student advisor. Ms. Brooks is a member of the National Education Association and the New Jersey Education Association and other various professional organizations.

SONIA FODERARO received a bachelor of science degree in 1961 and a masters degree in education in 1963 from Bloomsburg State University. Ms. Foderaro has six (6) additional post-graduate credits in English as a second language (ESL) from Trenton State College. She is a teacher certified by the State of New Jersey. She has taught in elementary schools in Hazelton, Pennsylvania (4 years) and Bristol, Pennsylvania (1 year) and was hired at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in January 1977. Ms. Foderaro is also a member of several professional organizations.

STEVE KRIMSTOCK received a bachelor of arts degree from Pennsylvania State University in 1977 and has taken post-graduate courses at Trenton State College. He is certified by the State of New Jersey and, before being hired at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in March 1986, he substituted in both Hamilton Township and Lawrence Township schools. Mr. Krimstock teaches adult basic education and English as a second language.

MARY CATHERINE PACI has a bachelor of arts degree in English from St. Xavier College in Chicago, Illinois, and taught in both the Chicago and Boston school systems before becoming certified by the State of New Jersey in 1979. She has taught at the Villa Victoria Academy (1983-1984) and has been a substitute teacher in both Ewing Township and Trenton schools. She has taught at the Trenton Adult Learning Center since 1990. Ms. Paci teaches adult basic education and general equivalency diploma (G.E.D.) classes.

GEORGE M. ZOFCHAK is a 1960 graduate of Rider College with a bachelor of science degree in business machines and has taken post-graduate courses at Trenton State College. He was certified by the State of New Jersey in 1970 and taught at Cathedral High School, at Trenton State Prison and in the Trenton public school district before being hired at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in March 1989, where he teaches adult basic education and G.E.D. classes.

All of the above teachers work five (5) days per week from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. each day.

Each teacher now makes $16.00 per hour effective September 1991. For the three-year period prior to that, each teacher made $12.00 per hour.

No teacher has a contract. They receive no paid sick days, no paid vacation days, and no health benefits, although they can co-pay into the Trenton school district health benefits plan. No pension contributions are made on their behalf. All teachers have been paid on an hourly basis.

ISSUE

At issue is whether or not these certified teachers are tenured or eligible for tenure and all other benefits offered by the school district.

DISCUSSION

Petitioner argues that these five teachers are entitled to tenure in their positions pursuant to Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), where the Court held remedial and supplemental teachers eligible for tenure where they met the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Respondent argues that the matter is controlled by Capella v. Board of Education of Camden County Vocational & Technical School, 145 N.J.Super. 209 (App. Div. 1976), in which the Appellate Division affirmed the Commissioner's and State Board's decisions that adult evening high school guidance counselors could not become tenured in those positions.

N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 provides:

> "Teaching staff member" means a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education, or any board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the state board of examiners and includes a school nurse.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 further provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers...and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners...shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (a) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
>
> (b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

These requirements were discussed in the context of the tenure status of non-contract teachers in Spiewak, supra, relied upon by petitioner as decisive in this matter. In Spiewak, petitioners were remedial and supplemental teachers, not under contract, who were paid hourly, without sick leave, personal days, health insurance, holiday pay, vacation or pensions benefits. Each held a state-issued teaching certificate appropriate to her position. Each had been employed with the school district for over three years. Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 67-68.

The Court examined the roots of the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq., which "specifically defines the conditions under which teachers are entitled to the security of tenure. The statute makes tenure a mandatory term and condition of employment. It therefore supersedes contractual terms." Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 72. The Court then examined the literal terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, defining teaching staff members, and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, setting forth the requirements for the entitlement to tenure. Id. at 73-74. Since the teachers fell within the express terms of the statute, the Court found they were presumptively eligible for tenure unless a statutory exception applied. Finding no relevant exception, the Court found "no evidence of legislative intent to exclude remedial and supplemental teachers from the express language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5," and concluded that they were eligible for tenure. Id. at 75. In so doing, the Court reversed Point Pleasant Beach v. Callam, 173 N.J. Super. 11, certif. den., 84 N.J. 469 (1980), which had upheld a board of education's refusal to grant tenure to noncontractual, temporary teachers who staffed the district's remedial reading program on the ground that they were not "teaching staff members" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1:

> The decision in Point Pleasant relies on the wrong legal principles. By focusing on the contractual relations between the parties and not the statutory criteria for tenure, the court in Point Pleasant overlooked the authority which holds that tenure is a legal right governed by statute rather than contract. [Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 76]

The Court also decided in two companion cases that no exception existed to deny tenure to Title I teachers whose jobs are funded by federal rather than state money. Id. at 82.

Respondent relies on Capella, supra. In Capella, the Appellate Division upheld decisions of the Commissioner and the State Board that part-time guidance counselors, employed for more than three academic years in an adult evening high school, were not entitled to tenure in those positions under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The court expressed its agreement with the Commissioner that "the 'over-protection petitioners seek would be a disservice to the schools... and is not intended by the school laws.'" Capella, 145 N.J. Super. at 211. Relying on Schulz v. State Bd. of Ed., 132 N.J.L. 345 (E. & A. 1944), the court further held that although petitioners came within the the literal terms of the statute as possessors of the necessary certificates who had been employed for the requisite period of time, as part-time employees petitioners were not intended to be considered "teaching staff members" within the meaning of the Tenure Act. Id. at 211-213. Further, "[a]n analysis of the school laws indicate[s] that tenure was to attach only in those school programs which are required to be provided by a school system, and not to such optional programs as an adult evening high school which a board of education 'may' maintain." Id. at 214.

However, Spiewak distinguished the holding of Capella and dismissed its reliance on Schulz as "incorrect," stating:

> To the extent those decisions imply that the right to tenure derives from contract rather than statute, they are wrong. To the extent they suggest that courts may create exceptions to the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 based on policy considerations, they are disapproved. [Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 80]

Respondent contends that Spiewak merely limited the Capella holding to the extent that the source or manner of funding is irrelevant to determine a teacher's tenure status, but did not overturn the specific holding. Therefore, as the Learning Center program is not mandated by New Jersey Title 18A educational requirements, it is an optional program for which teachers are not afforded entitlement to tenure under the law.

Although Spiewak did not expressly reverse Capella, subsequent cases have followed Spiewak, considering Capella overruled. See Rabolli v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational Technical Schools, Bergen County, 1983 S.L.D. 196 At 1983 S.L.D. 210, the Commissioner upheld the administrative law judge (ALJ) in Rabolli, who dismissed the Board of Education's reliance upon Capella and Perth Amboy Federation of Teachers, Local 857 v. Board of Education of the City of Perth Amboy, 1981 S.L.D. ____ (December 24, 1981) (denying tenure to teaching staff members and secretarial/clerical staff in a daytime adult school program based in part upon reliance on Point Pleasant and Capella). The ALJ concluded:

> I find the holdings in Perth Amboy and Capella to have been determined by policy conclusions of the Commissioner and the court, and not those of the Legislature. I further find those holdings overruled by the Supreme Court in Spiewak, which is dispositive of the instant matter. [Rabolli, 1983 S.L.D. at 208]

See also Ruby v. Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools, Hudson County, 1983 S.L.D. 941, in which it was held that the Commissioner's holding in Rabolli that employees of an adult school can become tenured is "authoritative," and Milwit v. Board of Education of the City of Jersey City, OAL DKT EDU 465-87 (November 24, 1987), aff'd, Commissioner of Education (January 8, 1988), in which it was held that the full-time adult basic skills teacher achieved tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and Spiewak.

Further, the Spiewak rationale has been extended to eliminate the Capella distinction between "mandatory" and "optional" educational programs. Bergen County Vocational-Technical Schools Education Association Inc. v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational School District, OAL DKT. EDU 5971-82 (August 15, 1983), aff'd, Commissioner of Education (October 3, 1983) ("Bergen Vo-Tech"). Bergen Vo-Tech addressed the significance of the Spiewak "mandate" upon the statutory framework of tenure entitlement:

> Until Spiewak was decided by the Supreme Court, a growing line of cases grafted various exceptions onto the statutory right of teachers to attain tenure in their employment, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Some of these exceptions to the attainment of tenure related to teachers whose employment depended upon federal funding, teachers designated as supplemental instructors, teachers involved in remedial programs, teachers engaged in compensatory education programs, and those whose initial positions depended upon a contractual offer and acceptance of temporary employment. [Citations omitted.]
> In Spiewak, the Supreme Court eliminated the non-statutory exceptions to tenure eligibility...[and] rejected the holding by the Appellate Division in Capella, supra, that teachers in an adult evening school program were ineligible for tenure. [at 9; emphasis added]

The decision emphasized Spiewak's intent to overrule Capella, saying that while the Court > approv[ed] of the method used by the Capella court in examining the statute in order to reach its determination, it is obvious that the Supreme Court, in Spiewak, determined that the result of that examination was nevertheless incorrect. [Ibid.]

CONCLUSION:

Based on the above and particularly under Spiewak and Rabolli, if the five individuals petitioner represents are able to meet the statutory criteria of N.J.S.A.

18A:1-1 and N.J.S.A.18A:28-5, they are entitled to tenure in their positions as teachers at the Trenton Adult Learning Center.

Having determined that all of those teachers who meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are tenured, there remains the question of the appropriate relief, considering the employment history of each of these five individuals.

Each named individual is entitled to an ordinary teacher's salary at the appropriate step on the salary guide with full consideration for each teacher's total number years of experience. Each is entitled also to all the emoluments granted the other teachers in the district. However, this relief must be prospective. The record shows that the teachers and the Board had a clear understanding concerning their contractual relationship until this appeal was filed on August 2, 1991, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. This provision allows aggrieved persons 90 days to appeal to the Commissioner from a condition or known cause of action. Consequently, I CONCLUDE that a fair date for the beginning of their proper compensation would be August 2, 1991, the date this appeal was filed.

The decision to award relief prospectively is based on Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 145 where the Court denied appellant retroactive benefits based on the doctrine of laches. In my judgment, the situation here is analogous to that in Lavin; therefore, the result should be the same.

So ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply was filed by petitioner. It is noted that the time for rendering of the Commissioner's decision in this matter was extended to October 31, 1992 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

In its exceptions, the Board reiterates the arguments of its primary brief and urges the Commissioner to reject the interpretation of Spiewak, supra, embodied in the line of cases relied upon by the ALJ, instead revisiting the issue and ruling in line with Capella, supra.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejects the Board's position and affirms the ALJ's determination of the affected teachers' tenure status for the reasons stated by him in his initial decision, further noting that Milwit, 1988 S.L.D. 11, was affirmed by the State Board (June 1, 1988) and the Appellate Division of the Superior Court (May 8, 1989).

However, the Commissioner cannot concur with the ALJ's conclusions regarding entitlements flowing from the instant teachers' tenure status:

> Having determined that all of those teachers who meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are tenured, there remains the question of the appropriate relief, considering the employment history of each of these five individuals.
>
> Each named individual is entitled to an ordinary teacher's salary at the appropriate step on the salary guide with full consideration for each teacher's total number years of experience. Each is entitled also to all the emoluments granted the other teachers in the district.
> (Initial Decision, at p. 8)

Nothing in the tenure statutes entitles teachers to employment benefits as a corollary of tenure; rather, such benefits are controlled by the terms of the specific statutes conferring them or negotiated agreement between the parties. Moreover, a school district is not prevented from utilizing different salary schedules and levels of benefits for different classes of teaching staff members, so long as applicable statutory minimums are met. Therefore, in order to ascertain the salary and benefit entitlements of the teachers herein, it is necessary to remand this matter for factfinding and recommendation on whether or not the affected teachers meet the requirements of the specific statutes and regulations controlling the benefits they seek, including but not limited to the question of whether they are full-time employees for purposes of eligibility for the statutory minimum teachers' salary and whether or not the Board's collectively negotiated agreement with other teaching staff members constitutes an employment policy binding on the Board with respect to the teachers herein for benefits over and above those provided in statute. Frances W. Hyman et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Teaneck, State Board Decision 1985 S.L.D. 1940, affirmed Superior Court Appellate Division February 26, 1986, cert. den. 104 N.J. 469 (1986); Middlesex County Educational Services Commission Education Association v. Board of Directors of the Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, Middlesex County, State Board Decision 1987 S.L.D. 2642; Scotch Plains-Fanwood Education Association et al. v. Board of Education of Scotch Plains-Fanwood, State Board Decision 1987 S.L.D. 2690. The Commissioner concurs, however, that whatever relief the teachers herein may be granted is to be awarded prospectively from August 2, 1991, the date of filing of the petition in this matter, so that no further proceedings on the question of retroactivity are necessary.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed in its determination that the affected teachers are entitled to tenure status, but rejected in its findings regarding salary and other emoluments of employment and remanded for further proceedings as set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association representing five teachers at Adult Learning Center claimed tenure and other emoluments for said teachers who worked hourly without a contract. In decision of October 19, 1992, Commissioner concurred with ALJ's determination that teachers were tenured but Commissioner remanded matter for fact-finding and recommendation on whether or not the affected teachers met requirements of specific statutes and regulations controlling benefits they sought.

On remand, ALJ found (1) petitioners were full-time tenured teachers; (2) petitioners were due back pay from August 2, 1991 (date of petition) based on his/her appropriate step on salary guide in each relevant year; (3) petitioners were to be credited with accumulated sick leave; (4) petitioners were eligible for all other emoluments set forth in current collectively negotiated agreement, absent any agreement to the contrary; and (5) pension claims were to be directed to Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund by Board. (Scotch Plains)

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with modification. ALJ determined that the August 2, 1991 date of retroactivity should not apply to petitioners' accumulated sick leave. Commissioner determined to limit petitioners' crediting of accumulated unused sick leave to six years prior to filing of petition of appeal on August 2, 1991. Commissioner further directed that for purposes of current salary guide placement, petitioners should be credited with employment from six years prior to August 2, 1991. INITIAL DECISION

(ON REMAND EDU 8945-91)

TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,
Petitioner,
v.
CITY OF TRENTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Michael T. Barrett, Esq., for the petitioner (Bergman & Barrett, attorneys)

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., for the respondent (Sumners, Council & Inniss, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 1993 Decided: August 12, 1993

BEFORE AUGUST E. THOMAS, ALJ, T/A:

An initial decision was rendered in this matter on August 5, 1992 (OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8945-91; AGENCY DKT. NO. 289-8/91). After his review of the initial decision of the administrative law judge (ALJ), the Commissioner of Education rendered his decision on October 19, 1992, affirming "the ALJ's determination of the affected teachers' tenure status for the reasons stated by him in his initial decision," and remanding the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for further fact-finding on the teachers' entitlement to salary and the other benefits they seek. The matter was transferred to the OAL pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.7 on January 25, 1993, and reassigned to me on February 5, 1993.

Following several telephone conferences with counsel, they agreed that the relevant facts would be stipulated and that the matter could be decided after the submission of letter briefs. The final letter brief was filed on June 30, 1993, closing the record.

The initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL DKT. NO. 8945-91) dated August 5, 1992, and the decision of the Commissioner dated October 19, 1992, are incorporated herein by reference, in their entireties.

Stipulation of Facts

There are five (5) individual complainants; Ann Brooks, Sonia Foderaro, Steve Krimstock, Mary Catherine Paci and George M. Zofchak. Each of the complainants teaches from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. five days per week, twelve months per year.

1) Ann Brooks holds a bachelor of arts degree in education from Pennsylvania State University. She has post-graduate credits, but no master's degree, in psychology and remedial education. She is certified by the State of New Jersey. She has been employed as a teacher at the Trenton Adult Learning Center since October 1969.

2) Sonia Foderaro holds a bachelor of science degree and a master's degree in education (1963) from Bloomsburg State University. She holds (6) post-graduate credits in English as a second language from Trenton State College. She is a teacher certified by the State of New Jersey. She has elementary school teaching experience in Hazelton, Pennsylvania, (4 years) and Bristol, Pennsylvania (1 year). She was hired to teach at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in January 1977.

3) Steve Krimstock holds a bachelor of arts degree from Pennsylvania State University, which he received in 1977. He has taken post-graduate courses, but holds no master's degree. He is certified to teach by the State of New Jersey. He has been teaching at the Trenton Adult Learning Center since March 1986, prior to which he substituted in Hamilton and Lawrence Townships.

4) Mary Catherine Paci holds a bachelor of arts degree in English from St. Xavier College in Chicago, Illinois. She has been certified by the State of New Jersey since 1979. She taught at the Villa Victoria Academy in 1983-84 and substituted in both Ewing Township and Trenton in the interim.

5) George M. Zofchak holds a bachelor of science degree from Rider College (1960). He has been certified by the State of New Jersey since 1970. He was hired at the Trenton Adult Learning Center in March 1989 and previously taught at Cathedral High School, Trenton High School and the Trenton State Prison.

It is the position of the Trenton Board of Education (Board) that all individual complainants be placed on the Salary Guide as though they were hired August 2, 1991, the date of the filing of the Verified Petition.

It is the position of the Trenton Education Association (Association) that all individual complainants be placed on the Salary Guide from the date they commenced continuous employment in the district at the Trenton Adult Learning Center.

With their memoranda, the Board and the Association submitted their calculations both for salary and retroactive pay based upon their divergent theories as set forth above.

Counsel for the Board and the Association have revised the calculations under both theories and while both agree that the calculations are mathematically correct, both seek to advance their theories of setting present and future salary and retroactive pay.

The calculations were submitted as part of the separately submitted legal memoranda.

Issue

The issue in the original petition was whether or not the affected teachers were entitled to tenure and other benefits offered by the school district. The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's determination that the affected teachers had acquired tenure in the district; however, he remanded the matter for "factfinding and recommendation on whether or not the affected teachers meet the requirements of the specific statutes and regulations controlling the benefits they seek, including but not limited to the question of whether they are full-time employees for purposes of eligibility for the statutory minimum teachers' salary and whether or not the Board's collectively negotiated agreement with other teaching staff members constitutes an employment policy binding on the Board with respect to the teachers herein for benefits over and above those provided in statute."

Full-Time Employees

The Commissioner determined that each of the five petitioners is tenured (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5). The litigants disagree as to whether or not the petitioners are full-time employees. In that regard, full-time is defined as the "number of days of employment in each week and the period of time in each day required by regulations of the State Board" (N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5). State regulations set forth that "full-time employment shall mean the number of hours in a day and the number of days in a week the district board of education prescribes for a teaching staff member to receive full salary designated for their step on the district board of education's salary scale." N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6(b). In the Trenton school district, the collective negotiating agreement between the Board and the petitioners governs the number of hours in a day and the number of days in a week a teaching staff member must work to be regarded as full-time and to receive full salary as set forth in the collective negotiating agreement salary scale. Article XII (A) (2) provides in pertinent part that:

> The regular school day for assigned teacher, planning and consultation functions including arrival and departure shall consist of no more than six and one half hours (6.5) which shall include a lunch period.

Notwithstanding the Board's certification submitted by its director of State and Federal Funded Programs/Adult Education, the record discloses that each of the petitioners is a full-time employee. Each works from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (six and one-half or seven hours) each day during a twelve-month work year. Each teacher takes a lunch period, lasting for one-half hour or one hour, without compensation, according to the director's certification.

In Scotch Plains-Fanwood Educ. Ass'n et al., Petitioners-Respondents v. Board of Educ. of Scotch Plains-Fanwood, Respondent - Appellant, 1987 S.L.D. 2690, 2694, the State Board of Education reacted to the argument that an unpaid lunch hour did not count in a teacher's working day as follows: ". . . the one hour each day allocated to Petitioners' lunch must be considered part of their work day." It concluded that this lunch hour, when considered with their remaining work hours, was sufficient to make them full-time employees.

District boards of education have been given the authority to define full-time employment so long as the number of hours required each day is more than four hours. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.13. In the instant matter, the collective negotiating agreement provides that the regular school day for teachers is six and one-half (6.5) hours, which includes a lunch period. Article XII (A) (2). The record shows that petitioners work six and one-half to seven (6.5 to 7) hours each day; therefore, each qualifies as a full-time teaching staff member (N.J.A.C. 6:20-5.6 (b)).

Based on the Stipulations of Fact and other evidence in the record concerning petitioners' working arrangements, I FIND as FACT and CONCLUDE that all petitioners are full-time teaching staff members as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. This latter statute was interpreted clearly in Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 83 (1982), which put aside several previous limitations and exceptions used to judge so-called special situations.

> We hold that all teaching staff members who work in positions for which a certificate is required, who hold valid certificates, and who have worked the requisite number of years, are eligible for tenure unless they come within the explicit exceptions in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or related statutes such as N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. The remedial and supplemental teachers in the cases decided today are covered by the statutory language. We find no exception in any statute that would deny them eligibility for tenure. We hold that those teachers who have satisfied the statutory conditions are entitled to tenure, no matter what the source of the funding for their salaries.
> [Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. at 81]

Salary Eligibility

Having determined that each of the petitioners is a full-time employee pursuant to regulation, it must now be determined to what salary, sick leave, pension, and other benefits each is entitled. Specifically, are petitioners entitled to all other benefits delineated in the current negotiated agreement between the Trenton Education Association and the Trenton Board of Education?

In Hyman et al., Petitioners - Respondents v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Teaneck, Bergen County, Respondent-Appellant, 1985 S.L.D. 1940, 1941, aff'd, No. A-3508-84T7 (App. Div. February 26, 1986), the State Board quoted the Commissioner, who stated in Spiewak that a board of education "may negotiate differences in salary compensation between supplemental teachers and full-time classroom teachers." The Commissioner went on to conclude that the teachers in Spiewak were entitled to placement on the full-time teachers' salary guide because there was no separately negotiated agreement for auxiliary teachers (Ibid.). The State Board went on to say: "Thus, we conclude that the decision in Spiewak does not grant to supplemental teachers any statutory entitlement to benefits beyond that which may be conferred on them by existing statutes" (Id. at 1943). It stated further,

> In sum, we conclude that the decision in Spiewak does not mandate the placement of supplemental teachers on the salary guide for regular teaching staff members and that such right is contained in neither the tenure statutes nor those governing compensation. Because supplemental teachers are not entitled to guide placement as a matter of law, we hold that separate guides covering supplemental teachers are permissible so long as such guides conform to the requirements established by the school laws. However, we emphasize that where a board has adopted a salary schedule for any group of full-time teaching staff members, all full-time members must be covered by a schedule. Finally, we reiterate that under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, boards and teachers are free to negotiate terms of compensation within the statutory framework of the school laws.

In regard to salaries, the Board contends that any retroactive salary due petitioners must be limited because they are paid with grant monies based on a sixteen-dollar-per-hour scale. This argument is without merit. It is well settled that the source of funding for teachers does not matter in determining tenure eligibility so long as legal conditions are met. Spiewak, supra, 90 N.J. at 81-82. In my judgment, it follows also that a teacher's salary may not be controlled because of federal grant monies for special programs.

In the present matter, it is stipulated that there is only one salary guide for full-time teachers. Absent a separately negotiated salary guide for teachers in the Adult Learning Center, each must be compensated according to the only salary guide which exists, beginning August 2, 1991. This retroactive date was established by the Commissioner in the earlier decision (OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8945-91).

In limiting a board's liability for retroactive salary payments, the Supreme Court set forth guidelines in Rutherford Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ. of the Borough of Rutherford, 99 N.J. 8 (1985), as follows:

> There is no question that in this case the school boards acted properly and in good faith in relying on prior law. Further, it is unquestioned that applying Spiewak retroactively would have a substantial impact on the finances of many communities. "Municipal financing is predicated on a pay-as-you-go principle." Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 145, 154 (1982). Boards of education prepare budgets on a cash basis. Presumably, they did not budget for expenses that would arise from a retroactive application of Spiewak. Therefore, providing tenure and its emoluments retroactively would not only have a serious adverse financial effect on the boards of education, but also may have serious consequences on the tax structure of many communities and other community services.

In Elma Milwit v. Board of Educ. of Jersey City, Hudson County; Jersey City Learning Center; and William A. Beebe, Director, 1988 S.L.D. 11; aff'd, Comm'r of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 28; aff'd, State Board of Education, 1988 S.L.D. 30; aff'd, No. A-5965-87T1 (App. Div. June 8, 1989), the Commissioner accepted the determination of the ALJ restoring Milwit to her full-time position teaching adult basic skills in the Jersey City Learning Center. Notwithstanding the earlier decisions of the Commissioner and the courts, particularly the guidelines in Hyman, supra, Milwit, a full-time adult basic skills teacher, was awarded back pay only at "the same contractual rate of pay that she was receiving at the time of her termination, less wages or salary received by her in substitute employment. . . ." Milwit, supra, 1988 S.L.D. at 26.

Nevertheless, a review of the facts as stipulated in this matter indicates that each of the five teachers is a full-time employee, each teaching thirty-five hours per week, twelve months per year.

In Hyman, supra, the State Board made it clear that each teacher's salary must be determined by a salary guide. The only salary guide which exists in the district for teachers is the guide that is subsumed within the current collective negotiating agreement between the parties.

Since there is but one collective negotiations agreement with one salary guide for teachers and since these teachers possess all of the qualifications necessary to fit within that agreement and under that guide, this Board is bound by the collectively negotiated agreement with other teachers as the salary and benefits relate to the teachers herein. See, Scotch Plains-Fanwood, supra, 1987 S.L.D. 2690; Hyman, 1985 S.L.D. 1940.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners are due retroactive pay for their appropriate step on the guide for the academic year beginning August 2, 1991, and the 1992-93 academic year.

Sick Leave, Pension and Other Benefits

Sick leave is a statutory entitlement for all eligible teachers (N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 to 30-8) and sick leave accumulates (N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3). Accordingly, the Board is ORDERED to calculate and credit the number of sick days due each petitioner beginning with the date of their first employment less any days they may have called in ill during their employment. The date of retroactivity should not apply to sick leave because this is not an immediate monetary benefit which would burden the Board and ultimately the taxpayers (Rutherford, supra, 99 N.J. at 28-30).

Regarding pensions, in Scotch Plains-Fanwood, supra, 1987 S.L.D. at 2691, the State Board commented as follows:

> Although observing that the Commissioner had refused to assert jurisdiction over disputes involving enrollment in the Teacher Pension Annuity Fund (TPAF), the ALJ found that the Commissioner did have the authority to direct the Board to inform TPAF of the pertinent details regarding the employment of individual Petitioners, and directed that the Board do so. He found that Petitioners were eligible for all statutory benefits accorded regular teaching staff members similarly situated, including accumulated sick leave, and, although the collective negotiations agreement was not part of the record, to carry-over benefits conferred on other teaching staff members covered by that agreement. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination in the matter with the modification that petitioners were entitled to full retroactive relief.

In my judgment, and absent any agreement to the contrary, petitioners are also entitled to the remainder of benefits afforded all teachers in the current collectively negotiated agreement. That agreement is binding on the Board for benefits over and above those provided by statute. And relying on the language of the State Board in Scotch Plains-Fanwood, supra, the Commissioner has the authority to direct the Board to inform the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund of the pertinent details regarding the employment of the individual teachers.

SO ORDERED.

SUMMARY

Based on all of the above, I FIND and CONCLUDE that:

1. Each petitioner is a full-time teaching staff member and each has acquired a tenured status with the Board.

2. Each petitioner is due back pay from August 2, 1991, based on his/her appropriate step on the teachers' salary guide in each relevant year.

3. Each petitioner is to be credited with accumulated sick leave.

4. Petitioners are eligible for all other emoluments set forth in the current collectively negotiated agreement, absent any agreement to the contrary.

5. Pension claims must be directed to the TPAF by the Board.

SO ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION ON REMAND

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board of Education pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioner's reply was untimely filed, having been mailed on September 14, 1993 and received on September 16, 1993, following August 31, 1993 service of the Board's exceptions by both facsimile and regular mail.

In its exceptions, the Board renews its arguments that petitioning Association members are not full-time employees, and therefore are not entitled to regular guide placement or sick leave, or alternatively, if they are found to be full-time, that their sick leave entitlement not be reckoned from the date of their first employment as such reckoning would impose an unacceptable burden on the Board and taxpayers.

Specifically, with respect to calculations of petitioners' hours of work, the Board urges rejection of the State Board's decision in Scotch Plains-Fanwood, supra, granting credit for unpaid lunch periods, averring that application of this decision in the present instance amounts to conferring a benefit not negotiated with petitioning teachers. (Board's Exceptions, at pp. 2-4) With respect to sick leave, the Board argues that there was no basis in the record on which the ALJ could conclude that retroactive crediting of sick days would not result in immediate monetary benefit to teachers or create monetary difficulties for the Board, and that, to the contrary, substitutes must be paid for absent teachers and contractual monies are payable for unused sick days upon retirement, death or disability; moreover, the length of Petitioner Brooks' employment alone could result in a windfall sick payment of up to 144 days, at severe financial hardship to the Board and taxpayers. (Board's Exceptions, at p. 4) Finally, with respect to the salary guide placement of the affected teachers, the Board initially notes that the ALJ appears to have left this issue unresolved, then argues that these teachers' years of service should not include periods prior to the time of filing of the Petition of Appeal, that is, August 2, 1991, so as to limit damages and not create a serious adverse financial impact on the district. (Board's Exceptions, at pp. 5-6)

Upon review and consideration of the issues on remand, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision with modification and clarification as noted below.

With respect to petitioners' employment status, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that Scotch Plains, supra, controls in this matter and that petitioners are, under that decision and other applicable law, clearly full-time employees. The Commissioner further concurs that petitioners are to be placed on the district's negotiated teacher salary guide, as no separate agreement exists for Adult Learning Center or other discrete categories of teachers, that petitioners are due all benefits and emoluments of the negotiated contract, and that the Board has an obligation to direct pertinent information regarding petitioners' employment to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF).

The Commissioner modifies, however, the ALJ's determination that the August 2, 1991 date of retroactivity should not apply to petitioners' accumulated sick leave. Although crediting of such leave would not necessarily result in a direct and immediate adverse fiscal impact on the district, the length of petitioners' respective employment histories is such that their accumulated entitlements could, as noted by the Board, result in significant outlays for retirement, substitution or other related costs; the rights of petitioners must, therefore, be balanced against the rights of the public to have damages limited in these circumstances. Accordingly, consistent with the principles of Rutherford, supra, and the decision of the State Board of Education in Middlesex County Educational Services Commission Education Association v. Board of Directors of the Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, Middlesex County, 1987 S.L.D. 2642, the Commissioner determines to limit petitioners' crediting of accumulated unused sick leave to a maximum of six years prior to the filing of the Petition of Appeal on August 2, 1991, depending on length of employment.

Similarly, with respect to petitioners' placement on the district salary guide, the Commissioner clarifies and modifies the ALJ's determination by holding that, in order to balance the rights of petitioners with those of the public, such placement should reflect crdit for service rendered in the district subsequent to August 2, 1991 and for up to six years previously, depending on length of employment. Rutherford, supra; Middlesex County Education Association, supra Accordingly, the initial decision on remand of the Office of Administrative Law is modified and clarified as set forth above, and otherwise affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

TRENTON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER-CROSS/APPELLANT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY, RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:	DECISION

Remanded by the Commissioner of Education, October 19, 1992

Decision on remand by the Commissioner of Education, September 23, 1993

For the Petitioner-Cross/Appellant, Bergman & Barrett (Michael T. Barrett, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Sumners, Council, George & Dortch (Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

By Petition of Appeal filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 2, 1991, the Trenton Education Association (hereinafter "Association") claimed that five individual teachers employed by the Board of Education of the City of Trenton (hereinafter "Board") at the Trenton Adult Learning Center were tenure eligible teaching staff members and entitled to the benefits of such status.

On the basis of a stipulation submitted by the Association and accepted by the Board, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued his Initial Decision on August 12, 1992, finding that, pursuant to Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), the teachers involved in this case were entitled to tenure if they met the statutory criteria of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The ALJ also found that each teacher was entitled to the salary and benefits granted to the other teachers in the district, but, based on Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 145 (1982),[1] he recommended to the Commissioner that any award of salary and benefits should be prospective from the date on which the Petition of Appeal in this case was filed.

In a decision issued on October 19, 1992, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the teachers involved in the case were tenure eligible. The Commissioner also adopted the ALJ's determination that any relief should be prospective from the date on which the petition was filed. The Commissioner, however, remanded the matter for factfinding as to whether the affected teachers met the requirements of the specific statutes and regulations controlling the benefits which they sought. Neither party appealed from that decision.

On remand, the ALJ found that the teachers in this case were employed full-time. He concluded that, therefore, each was entitled to the benefits provided by the District to its full-time teaching staff members. In accord with the Commissioner's decision of October 19, 1992, the ALJ recommended awarding salary benefits from August 2, 1991, when the Petition of Appeal was filed. However, contrary to the Commissioner's decision of October 19, 1992, the ALJ determined that the accumulated sick days due each of the teachers should be calculated from the date of their first employment because sick leave was a statutory benefit.

[1] In Lavin, the New Jersey Supreme Court held that a time limit for filing claims did not apply to a claim for military service credit because that benefit was a statutory benefit unrelated to service as a teacher. The Court further held, however, that the equitable doctrine of laches may apply so as to bar retroactive relief where there is a delay in making such a claim.

The Commissioner concurred with the substance of the ALJ's decision. However, in contrast to the Commissioner's earlier determination, the Commissioner relied on the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Rutherford Ed. Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of Rutherford, 99 N.J. 8 (1985) to conclude that both sick leave and salary credit should be awarded retroactively to the teachers involved here for the period commencing six years prior to the filing of their Petition of Appeal.

The Board appealed the substance of the Commissioner's decision, maintaining that the teachers involved are not full-time teaching staff members. The Association cross-appealed, challenging the six year limit the Commissioner placed on retroactive relief due to them.

Initially, we reject as entirely without merit the Board's claim that the five teachers in this case did not work the requisite number of hours to warrant considering them as full-time teaching staff members. As detailed in the ALJ's decision of August 12, 1993, the collective negotiations agreement between the Association and the Board establishes the maximum number of hours, including a lunch period, that full-time teachers staff members may be required to work. As the ALJ found, the hours that the five teachers here were required to work conformed to or exceeded that maximum, although they were not compensated for their lunch period. Under the circumstances presented in the record of this case, we find that, as the ALJ concluded, these teachers must be considered as full-time teaching staff members. See Middlesex County Educational Services Commission Education Association v. Board of Directors of the Middlesex County Educational Services Commission, 1987 S.L.D. 2690. In this respect, we emphasize that the Board can not avoid its statutorily imposed obligations to any category of its teaching staff members based on the fact that it may not pay them for their lunch period. See id.

However, for the reasons that follow, we find that, as decided by the Commissioner on October 19, 1992,[2] the relief to be afforded the individuals involved in this case should be prospective from August 2, 1991, the date on which the Petition of Appeal was filed.

First, we recognize that questions of retroactivity are not simple ones. Rutherford, supra at 20-21 (1985). Generally, the overruling of a judicial decision is retrospective in nature. E.g., Rutherford, supra; Darrow v. Hanover Twp., 58 N.J. 410 (1971). However, because "the basis for the doctrine of retrospective application is pragmatic rather than theoretical," Rutherford, supra at 21, the presumption in favor of retroactivity may be overcome when there is "a clear demonstration in a particular case that there are policy reasons for according a judicial decision prospective application only." Id., citing Cogliati v. Ecco High Frequency Corp., 181 N.J. Super. 579, 583 (App. Div. 1981), aff'd, 92 N.J. 402 (1983). Such reasons may be present when a new rule of law has been announced representing a clear break in the law. See, e.g., Rutherford, supra at 21.

2 We note that although the Commissioner decided the question of retroactivity in that decision, Commissioner's decision, at 13, neither party questioned the ALJ's subsequent consideration of the issue or sought to bar consideration of the issue in this appeal.

The New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Spiewak, supra, upon which the relief in this case is predicated, represented such a break in the law. Accordingly, while it found that the teachers involved in the Spiewak litigation were entitled to the reward of their efforts, the Court concluded that, contrary to the general rule, the Spiewak decision should apply only prospectively to those parties not before the Court. Id. at 83.

In Rutherford, supra, the Court settled that those remedial and supplemental teachers who had filed Petitions of Appeal to the Commissioner of Education prior to June 23, 1982, when the Court had decided Spiewak, were among those entitled to retroactive application of Spiewak. However, the Court limited retroactive relief to this category of teachers in two ways. First, only those who were still employed on the date of the Spiewak decision were entitled to relief. Second, because of its concern with the financial impact of unlimited retroactivity, the Court held that calculation of benefits under Spiewak for this category of petitioners was to be limited to six years prior to its decision in Rutherford. Rutherford, supra at 30-31.

It has been over a decade since the New Jersey Supreme Court decided Spiewak. Thus, the teachers in this case were obviously not "before the court" in the Spiewak litigation. Consequently, contrary to the Commissioner's determination, Rutherford neither controls nor limits the award of retroactive relief to the teachers in this case.

Our inquiry, however, does not stop here. Lavin, supra. Despite the fact that the claims involved arose as early as 1969,[3] the petition in this case was not filed until August 2, 1991. There is no indication in the record that Petitioner provided any explanation for this delay at any point during the proceedings.[4] We do not suggest that the underlying claim to tenure eligibility should be time-barred. See Spiewak, supra at 83 n. 2. However, in the absence of any explanation which would excuse the delay in the filing of this petition, we conclude, as did the Commissioner's prior decision in this case,[5] that calculation of the salary and sick leave benefits to which these teachers are entitled should date from August 2, 1991, when they filed their petition to the Commissioner claiming to be tenure eligible. Lavin, supra at 151-155.

[3] We note that one of the claims here involves a teacher who was first employed by the Adult Learning Center in 1969. The others were initially employed in 1977, 1986 and 1989.

[4] We note that Petitioner did not even file any exceptions to our Legal Committee's Report in this case.

[5] In his decision of October 19, 1992, remanding the matter, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination that relief should be awarded from the date on which the petition was filed.

PARTIAL INITIAL DECISION
DISMISSING INEFFICIENCY CHARGE AND DENYING DISMISSAL OF UNBECOMING CONDUCT CHARGE
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1364-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 32-2/92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF PETER LORIA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.

Carolyn Ryan Reed, Associate Counsel, for petitioner
(Marvin L. Comick, General Counsel)

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for respondent
(Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 6, 1992 Decided: September 21, 1992

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter involves a hearing under the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, seeking the removal of respondent, a teaching staff member, on charges of inefficiency and unbecoming conduct.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 24, 1992, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone prehearing conference was held on May 13, 1992, and a prehearing order was entered on June 1, 1992. The prehearing order provided a schedule for submission of motions with respect to the legal issues dealt with herein, and, in accordance with the schedule as amended, respondent filed a motion to dismiss on July 17, 1992, and petitioner responded thereto on August 5, 1992. The record closed with regard to submissions on August 6, 1992.

BASES FOR MOTION AND APPLICABLE STANDARD

There are two bases for respondent's Motion to Dismiss. First, respondent seeks dismissal of the tenure charge of inefficiency against respondent because of petitioner's alleged failure to comply with N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)(4). Second, respondent seeks dismissal of the tenure charge of unbecoming conduct because of petitioner's alleged failure to comply with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b)(4), (b)(5), (b)(6) and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13.

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, found at N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, do not deal directly with motions to dismiss such as has been submitted by respondent. However, a summary decision

> . . . may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. [N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b)]

Accordingly, I shall deal with respondent's motion as a motion for summary decision.

ALLEGED FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)(4)

N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)(4) states:

> Concurrent with notifying the employee of such charges of inefficiency, the district board of education shall direct that there be a modification of the individual professional improvement plan mandated by N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.21(f) to assure that such plan addresses the specific charges of inefficiency and comports with the timelines established for correction.

It is not disputed that on August 27, 1991, petitioner adopted a resolution which recited that on August 1, 1991, tenure charges were filed against respondent alleging inefficiency, that the board reviewed the charge and evidence and was of the opinion that there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge. The board resolved that respondent be allowed 90 days in which to correct and overcome the inefficiency alleged in the charges, that respondent be served with a copy of the resolution along with a "90-day notice," that respondent be evaluated during the 90-day correction period and that at the expiration of the 90-day notice the board be apprised of respondent's correction efforts (Exhibit C-2).

Petitioner board does not assert and has produced no affidavit, certification or other documentation to establish that it directed that there be a modification of the respondent's individual professional improvement plan to assure that such plan addresses the specific charges of inefficiency and comports with the timelines established for correction (Exhibit C-4). Rather, it asserts that the professional improvement plan for respondent dated June 19, 1991, was based on the specific charges of inefficiency. Petitioner asserts without contradiction that respondent was evaluated during school year 1990-1991, and that in the evaluation report certain inefficiencies and recommendations for improvement were brought to his attention. It asserts that the June, 1991, professional improvement plan was based upon these inefficiencies and that it made recommendations for improvement. It alleges that the charges of inefficiency were based upon the inefficiencies cited in the June, 1991, professional improvement plan and teacher evaluation reports and that the inefficiency charges were filed in July, 1991. It takes the position that since the school year and respondent's 90-day period for improvement did not begin until September, 1991, there was no need to direct that the professional improvement plan be modified since the plan already complied with the requirements to address the specific charges and inefficiencies. Thus, petitioner takes the position that the existing professional improvement plan addressed the inefficiencies and that there was no need to modify the professional improvement plan (Exhibits C-4 and C-5).

Respondent asserts without contradiction that the resolution adopted by petitioner does not contain any language directing the modification of respondent's professional improvement plan. In addition, respondent certifies that he was never advised of the existence of a modified plan (Exhibit C-2), and none of the documents provided by the parties in this matter show the existence of such a document. Thus, respondent asserts that the charges of inefficiency are fatally defective for failure to comply with the specific requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)(4).

Respondent relies upon the Commissioner's decision in a case entitled In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Julio Triana, OAL DKT. EDU 2537-87 (June 25, 1987), modified and adopted, Commissioner of Education (July 23, 1987). In that matter, the Commissioner held that the failure of the board to develop a professional improvement plan for respondent at the time of notifying him of the charge of inefficiency was sufficient grounds to dismiss the tenure charges based upon the violation of N.J.A.C. 6:4-5.1(c)(4), but without prejudice to the right of the board to recertify properly in a manner totally consistent with the statute and regulations. The Commissioner emphasized that the intent of the regulation is to promote correction of the inefficiencies through carefully supervised specific guidelines established at the time the teacher in question has been formally apprised of the nature of the inefficiencies. The Commissioner went on to point out that the language relative to modification of the plan was added to the regulations at the express direction of the State Board of Education to emphasize the importance that it placed upon the exact procedure required of local boards prior to certifying a tenure charge of inefficiency. See also, Rowley v. Bd. of Ed. of Manalapan-Englishtown, 205 N.J. Super. 65, 71-72 (App. Div. 1985).

Based upon the clear mandate of the regulation, and based upon petitioner's failure to comply with this clear mandate, I FIND that the tenure charge of inefficiency filed by petitioner against respondent should be dismissed for failure of the petitioner to comply with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)(4).

ALLEGED FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 AND N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4(b)

Respondent argues that the tenure charge of unbecoming conduct should be dismissed based upon petitioner's failure to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4(b).

It is undisputed that the charge of unbecoming conduct was filed on August 1, 1991, and a letter transmitting the charge and statement of evidence was provided to respondent. After respondent was provided an opportunity to submit a reply, the petitioner had 45 days in which to determine by a majority vote of its full membership whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge and whether such charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary. Respondent argues that a resolution adopted by the board on August 26, 1991, indicates that the only probable caused determination related to evidence expressly pertaining to the charge of inefficiency.

It is noted that the board did not file the August, 1991,charge of unbecoming conduct with the Commissioner, but instead, on January 28, 1992, the board adopted another resolution indicating that on December 16, 1991, the tenure charges against respondent were refiled and on that same date respondent was notified. The resolution goes on to indicate that the board has reviewed and examined the charges against respondent, the statements of evidence in support thereof, supplemental statements of evidence and other documents, and is of the opinion that there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges and is of the opinion that the charges, if credited, warrant dismissal or reduction in salary as said charges constitute inefficiency and unbecoming conduct.

I have reviewed the resolution adopted by petitioner on January 28, 1992, and I FIND that petitioner has substantially complied with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4(b). I FIND that the charges and supporting evidence make it clear, and provide respondent with sufficient notice, that he is charged with unbecoming conduct. I FIND that the resolution adopted by petitioner makes it clear that petitioner board has reviewed the charges as well as the documentary evidence supporting the charges and finds probable cause supporting the charge of unbecoming conduct. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent's Motion to Dismiss the charge of unbecoming conduct based on petitioner's alleged failure to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4(b) should be DENIED.

PROVISION FOR IMMEDIATE REVIEW

This matter is scheduled for hearing by the OAL on October 22 and 27, November 6, 12, and 17, 1992. Under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e), the ALJ may submit a partial summary decision order to the agency head for immediate review as an initial decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3(c)12, for the purpose of avoiding unnecessary litigation or expense by the parties. I FIND that delaying review of that portion of this order dismissing the charge of inefficiency until the end of the contested case may result in unnecessary litigation and expense, in the event this decision is reversed or modified. Accordingly, I have rendered this as a partial initial decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) in order to afford to the Commissioner of Education the opportunity to consider whether his immediate review of this decision would be appropriate.

The use of this procedure shall not delay the scheduled hearing on the remaining tenure charge of unbecoming conduct. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(f)

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the tenure charge of inefficiency be is the same is hereby DISMISSED without prejudice. It is further ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss the tenure charge of unbecoming conduct be and the same is hereby DENIED.

This order for partial summary decision dismissing the charge of inefficiency and denying the dismissal of the charge of unbecoming conduct is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education who by law is empowered to make the final decision in this matter. However, if the Commissioner of Education does not so act in forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF PETER LORIA, SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the partial initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, submitted to the Commissioner for immediate review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) and by concurrent request of respondent for interlocutory review of the ALJ's ruling on charges of unbecoming conduct, have been reviewed. Exceptions to the ALJ's dismissal of charges of inefficiency were filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were replies thereto by respondent. Briefs on the issue of the ALJ's denial of respondent's motion to dismiss charges of unbecoming conduct were filed by both parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10.*

In its filing, the Board takes exception to the ALJ's procedural dismissal of its charges of inefficiency, reiterating its argument that respondent's PIP was not modified at the time of the Board's consideration of tenure charges because it already reflected the areas of inefficiency that were of concern to the Board. The

* It is noted that the Board's exceptions and brief were incorporated into a single document.

Board, therefore, substantially complied with the controlling statutes and regulations, and its technical oversight did not prejudice respondent; to dismiss its charges on procedural grounds, as the ALJ did, is to place form over substance. Respondent replies that compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(c)4 is a fundamental obligation of the Board, and that its oversight in this case left respondent with a PIP giving him a year to correct deficiencies while the Board filed charges against him for not correcting them within 90 days.

In his filing on the question of unbecoming conduct, respondent renews his argument that the Board's actions in this area were also fatally flawed because its implementing resolution fails to state a probable cause determination regarding unbecoming conduct as opposed to inefficiency. Charges of unbecoming conduct were filed on August 1, 1991, yet the Board's August 27, 1991 resolution refers to and directs action on only charges of inefficiency. The Board's January 28, 1992 resolution likewise lacks a statement of probable cause determination, but if this failing is overlooked and the certification accepted, then the Board's determination came well beyond 45 days after respondent's response period expired following filing of charges on August 1 and the Board's refiling of charges on December 16, 1991 cannot cure this defect. In reply, the Board reasserts that its actions and intentions are clear from its filings as a totality and that it fully complied with all requirements for probable cause determination.

Upon consideration of the record, the partial initial decision and the arguments of the parties, the Commissioner determines to affirm the decision of the ALJ in its entirety. On the charges of inefficiency, the Commissioner fully concurs that the language and intent of controlling regulation are clear and that the Board's failure to abide by regulation, however lacking in malice, cannot be excused so as to allow the charges to go forward at this time; however, as noted by the ALJ, there is nothing to prevent the Board from recertifying charges in a manner consistent with regulation. On the charges of unbecoming conduct, the Commissioner concurs that, notwithstanding respondent's arguments on the deficiencies of the Board's August 27, 1991 resolution, the refiling of charges on December 19, 1991 opened the matter anew, and the Board's subsequent actions, including its resolution of January 28, 1992, were clear, procedurally proper and fully in accord with applicable law; therefore, there is no basis for dismissal of charges on the grounds pled by respondent.

Accordingly, the partial initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, so that this matter is to move forward to further proceedings as scheduled on the charges of unbecoming conduct.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF PETER LORIA, SCHOOL : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, : DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 21, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Carolyn Ryan Reed, Esq.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Bucceri & Pincus
(Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., of Counsel)

In August, 1991, the Board of Education of the City of Newark (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges of inefficiency and conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member against Respondent. Acting on motion by Respondent, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued a partial initial decision in September, 1992, granting dismissal of the charges of inefficiency but denying Respondent's motion to dismiss the charges of unbecoming conduct. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision and directed that the matter proceed as scheduled on the charges of unbecoming conduct.

Characterizing the Commissioner's decision as interlocutory, the Board then moved before the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-2.3 for leave to appeal the Commissioner's dismissal of the inefficiency charges. Respondent opposed the motion.

Initially, we find that, despite the Board's characterization, the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the charges of inefficiency represents his final decision on the matter. As such, our leave is not a prerequisite for hearing the Board's appeal of that determination. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1(a)(1).

Accordingly, we have reviewed the substantive arguments of counsel with respect to the Commissioner's dismissal of the inefficiency charges, and for the reasons expressed in the decisions below, we affirm that determination. In so doing, we note that our decision has no impact upon the charges of unbecoming conduct which are proceeding to hearing before an ALJ.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning mother and high school student (S.L.) alleged Board unlawfully denied admission of S.L. into advanced placement English class for junior year.

ALJ found Board had reasonable basis to deny admission. S.L. had equal opportunity relative to admission to class. ALJ found he lacked recommendation of his sophomore English teacher, which recommendation was deemed essential for admission to the class. ALJ also found that even without such required recommendation, Board's decision was not unreasonable based on S.L.'s academic record. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioners, S.L., a student in the respondent Board of Education's ("Board's") Livingston High School ("LHS"), and K.L.L., his mother, contend that the Board and Principal Robert Grady unlawfully denied S.L. admission into the LHS advanced placement English class for junior year ("AP English III") and they demand an order directing that S.L. be admitted to the class.

The respondents deny any wrongdoing and allege that the denial was consistent with reasonable standards already in place and resulted from a competent and good faith professional judgment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 30, 1992, the petitioners' petition and supporting papers were filed with the Commissioner of Education. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") where, on August 4, 1992, it was received and filed as a contested case. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq., N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.1. On August 11, 1992, the Board's letter brief and supporting papers in opposition to the petition were filed in the OAL. Also on August 11, 1992, Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") Stephen Weiss heard argument; denied the petitioner's application for emergency relief; and scheduled the case for a plenary hearing on August 26, 1992. On August 17, 1992, the petitioner's attorney entered his appearance. On August 26 and August 31, 1992, the case was heard in the OAL's Newark office. On September 2 and 3, 1992, the parties' post-trial briefs were received.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The LHS AP Program, the LHS English Department and the Requirements for Admission to AP English

LHS, which is an excellent school, offers the following types of classes: "Advanced Placement" ("AP"), "Honors," "Standard," "Fundamental" and "Basic."

Class rank, which is a factor used by undergraduate schools in deciding upon admission, is determined by use of a weighted grade point average ("GPA"), and, relative to class rank, LHS's "Student Handbook" provides the following:

> Rank is determined by a weighted grade point average which is calculated by multiplying the grade equivalent, (A = 4.0, B = 3.0, C = 2.0, D = 1.0, E = 0.0), times the following course weighted quality point system:
>
> | | |
> |---|---|
> | Advanced Placement | 8 |
> | Honors | 7 |
> | Standard | 6 |
> | Fundamental | 5 |
> | Basic | 4 |

> The sum of all quality points earned is then divided by the number of marking periods plus one for the final grades earned in full-year courses and the number of marking periods plus .5 for the final grades earned in semester courses to determine a quality point average. Divide the quality point average by 6 to obtain the weighted grade point average. [P-1]

During relevant times, relative to admission into AP English III, the "LHS Course Guide" provided the following:

> ENGLISH 3 - ADVANCED PLACEMENT (131) — 5 Credits (8)
> Prerequisite: English 2, writing sample, teacher recommendation or demonstration of comparable proficiencies. — Full Year, Grade 11
> This course is open to students selected on the basis of ninth and tenth grade work of superior quality. A writing sample and a recommendation from the sophomore English teacher are necessary for admission. The main emphases of the course are techniques of research, writing skills, and an intensive study of the works of American authors. [P-2]

Given the above, compared to an LHS student who attains an "A" in the other English classes, an LHS student who gains admission to and attains an "A" in the very rigorous AP English class gains more weight for his GPA. However, many LHS graduates who were in the standard classes have gained admission to many of the finest undergraduate schools in the United States. Also, a junior who has taken the standard English class and who meets the requirements therefor, may be admitted to the advanced placement class for senior year (and this has occurred numerous times).

During the 1991-1992 school year, petitioner S.L. was a sophomore in LHS and he was in Roberta Bramhall's English class.

In 1958, Mrs. Bramhall received a B.A. and, in 1968, she received an M.A., from Montclair State College. She is certified to teach high school English; since 1958, she has taught English; and, since 1963, she has taught English at LHS. See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-34 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2.

Since at least 1963, when Mrs. Bramhall began there, LHS has offered AP English classes and, as a teacher of standard English classes, she has been requested to consider whether her students should be recommended for admission to AP English classes. Further, Mrs. Bramhall has taught AP English classes. Therefore, she is fully familiar with the AP English program's purposes and selection process, as well as the performance of students in the AP English program.

During the 1991-1992 school year, Steffi Poss was the supervisor of the LHS English Department.

In 1964, Mrs. Poss received her B.A. in English and English education; in 1975, she received an M.A. in English; and, in 1987, she received an Ed.S. in English education, all from Rutgers University. Mrs. Poss, who is certified as a teacher of English and as a supervisor, has taught English since 1972 and, in 1990, she began as supervisor of LHS's English Department.

As demonstrated by LHS's students' scores on standardized tests, by admission of LHS's students to the finest undergraduate schools and by LHS's students' performance in the finest undergraduate schools, LHS's English Department is excellent.

Before the distribution of applications for admission to AP English III for the 1992-1993 school year, Mrs. Poss conferred with the four LHS sophomore English teachers and she expounded upon the requirements for admission to the class, which, in her view, included the following: 1. teacher recommendation based on experience with that student in class, 2. grades in English courses, 3. counselor recommendation, 4. student application, 5. writing samples submitted with the application, and 6. standardized test scores if necessary for verification. See R-1.

Insightful interpretation and appealing expression in English are often the product of a person's artistic sensibility. However, artistic sensibility is often not quantifiable, e.g., by grades or standardized test results, although it may be intuitively perceived. Since they all believed that superior artistic sensibility was necessary for AP English III and since (of course) they all believed themselves to be sufficiently sensitive to detect that artistic quality, consistent with the Course Guide, Mrs. Poss and the English teachers all felt that a teacher's recommendation was essential for admission to the class.

The Petitioner's Record, His Application to the AP English III and the Rejection of His Application

The petitioner has indicated that his "intended college major" is "biological sciences" and that his "intended career choice" is "health and medical professions."

He is a diligent student and has completed several honors classes at LHS. See P-4. He has also worked on the LHS school newspaper and been a member of the golf team. He has an interest in literature and has read a substantial number of quality books. See P-4, P-5 and R-3.

During the 1991-1992 school year, the petitioner was a sophmore in Mrs. Bramhall's English class and her opinion relative to the petitioner, which I accept as FACT, includes the following: The petitioner's comments have shown little insight into literature, his classroom contributions have not been significant, his essay writing has shown neither creativity nor individual skill, he has difficulty and usually does not write well in his first or second drafts, and he generally writes well only after receiving a great deal of input from his teacher. After comments, advice, etc. from Mrs. Bramhall, the petitioner's final essays received the following grades: five "As", three "Bs", one "C" and one "E". See P-8, P-9, P-10, P-12, P-13, P-14, P-15, R-7a, R-8, R-9 R-10 and R-11. The petitioner, received the following report card grades from Mrs. Bramhall: a "B" for his first marking period, a "B" for his second marking period, a "B" for his mid-term examination, an "A" for his third marking period, an "A" for his fourth marking period, a "B" for his final examination and a "B" for his final grade. (At the petitioner's request, Mrs. Bramhall changed a "B + " to an "A-," which was then recorded as one of the two "As".) See P-5.

On or about February 10, 1992, Mrs. Bramhall announced to petitioner's class that applications could be made for admission to the "English III AP" class; Mrs. Bramhall announced when applications should be submitted; and the petitioner asked for and received an application.

The petitioner has testified that he left his completed application in Mrs. Poss' mailbox in the LHS English Department and that, thereafter, when he met with his guidance counselor to compose his junior year class schedule, he saw that he was not listed among those who had been admitted to the two AP English III classes then constituted (each of which had about 16 students).

On or about February 25, 1992, the petitioner met with Mrs. Poss, who told him she would review his application. In the days thereafter, the petitioner and his parents met with Mrs. Poss and Mr. Grady, at which time Mrs. Poss stated that she did not have an application from the petitioner; that the petitioner should complete and submit another application; and that his application would be reviewed relative for admission to AP English III.

and submit another application; and that his application would be reviewed relative for admission to AP English III.

On or about March 2, 1992, the petitioner submitted a completed application to Mrs. Poss. Mrs. Bramhall and Mrs. Poss then carefully read the application and they both determined that the petitioner's work was not of superior quality. For example, the petitioner certainly had not demonstrated that he would make insightful classroom contributions, which is essential for a successful AP English class. Further, Mrs. Bramhall felt that the petitioner's work was not close in quality to that of the students she did recommend; he was better suited for standard English; and she could not recommend the petitioner for AP English III.

After March 2, 1992, with Mr. Grady's approval, a third and final AP English III class was selected, so that a total of 48 students were admitted and 30 were rejected. Also, among the 30 rejected, were students whose work was superior to the petitioner's, but whom the sophomore English teachers did not recommend for AP English III. That is to say, the petitioner is not the "49th" student who might well have been admitted to the class.

All of the students admitted had the recommendations of their sophmore English teachers. Among the more quantifiable pre-grade 10 data relative to the students admitted, the following appears: (1) Relative to "Reading Comprehension" standardized test results: 37 were higher than the petitioner and 7 were lower. (2) Relative to "Language" standardized tests results: 34 were higher than the petitioner and 10 were lower. (3) Relative to (another) "Language" standardized test results: 32 were higher than the petitioner, 4 were equal and 9 were lower. Among the more quantifiable "Grade 10" data relative to the students admitted, the following appears: (1) Relative to "Reading Comprehension" standardized test results: 14 were higher than the petitioner, 7 were equal and 27 were lower, (2) Relative to "Language" standardized test results: 26 were higher than the petitioner, 4 were equal and 18 were lower. (3) Relative to (another) "Language" standardized test results: 46 were higher, one was equal and one was lower. (4) Relative to final English grades, 41 were higher and 7 were equal. (5) Relative to GPA, 37 were higher and 11 were lower. (6) Relative to rank in class, 38 were higher and 10 were lower. Therefore, in 8 of the 9 quantifiable categories, the petitioner's data was clearly inferior to that of the majority.

LEGAL CONCLUSIONS

The State of New Jersey must provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of children, such as the petitioner, and local boards of education, such as the respondent Board, are charged with operation of those schools. See N.J. Const. (1947), Art. VIII § IV, par. 1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1 et seq. Further, no state may enforce any law which shall abridge a privilege of a citizen, such as the petitioner; no state may deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law; and no state may deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the law. See U.S. Const., Am. XIV § 1. That is to say, the State, its subdivisions and local public entities may discriminate (make choices) in making their limited resources available in response to the public's expanding demands, so long as such discrimination (choice) is not invidious or otherwise unlawful.

As a governmental entity, the respondent Board must be presumed to have acted lawfully and in good faith. See Fitzpatrick v. Civil Service Co., 91 N.J. Super. 535, 539 (App. Div. 1966). Therefore, the petitioner bears the burden of proof by a preponderance (the greater weight) of the credible evidence that there was no reasonable basis for the denial of his application. That is to say, he must prove that the denial was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. There is no authority for the reviewing entity to substitute its judgment for that of the respondents and it is not enough for the petitioner to prove merely that his admission would have been reasonable. See Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960), and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

I CONCLUDE as follows: At the excellent LHS, the respondents have satisfied their duty to provide a thorough and efficient system of education, including that related to English. The petitioner has been provided with an opportunity equal to that of other LHS sophomores relative to admission to AP English III. The Course Guide's requirements for admission are unchallenged and, in any event, they are reasonable and lawful. The requirements include "a recommendation from the [applicant's] sophomore English teacher for admission," which is necessary given the nature of English and the AP English III class (P-2). The petitioner's teacher reasonably declined to give the petitioner such a recommendation and, therefore, the petitioner cannot prove that the respondents lacked a reasonable basis for their action. (Further, given the petitioner's record in English, the petitioner cannot prove that the respondents unreasonably determined that he lacked "Grade 11 comparable proficiencies.")

ORDER

I DISMISS the petition WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LIVINGSTON, AND ROBERT GRADY, PRINCIPAL, LIVINGSTON HIGH SCHOOL, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to the prescriptions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, having reached the Commissioner's office one day beyond the period provided for by regulation, with the envelope marked "Postage Due 23¢." Accordingly, such exceptions are not considered in the Commissioner's review of this matter nor is the Board's reply to such exceptions. The Board's primary exceptions were timely received, however. It is noted that petitioners' counsel submitted a reply to the Board's reply exceptions, but because petitioners' exceptions are untimely and also because there is no provision in law for the consideration of replies to reply exceptions, such arguments as are made therein are also not made a part of this determination.

The Board's exceptions fully support the ALJ's determination to dismiss the instant matter, but it takes exception to three portions of the opinion of the ALJ, all of which relate to the list of respondents' exhibits compiled at page 11 of the initial decision. Such exceptions are recited herein verbatim:

> 1. The list should include Exhibit R-2a, a redacted version of R-2, which differed from R-2 only in that the full names were changed to initials and a number was affixed in front of each name.
>
> 2. Exhibit R-7 was a letter from respondent's attorney that was marked for identification but not admitted into evidence, as Judge Tassini held it was subject to the attorney-client privilege. It should be omitted.
>
> 3. Exhibit R-12, a certification from Dr. Arlene E. Zielinski, should have been admitted, as it set out the history of a phrase in P-2 that Petitioners believed was of great importance. (The phrase, "or demonstration of comparable proficiencies," was at the end of the list of prerequisites for all course requiring prerequisites.) Dr. Zielinski noted that the phrase was inserted in the list of prerequisites for all courses requiring prerequisites at the "direction of representatives of the New Jersey State Department of Education several years ago," "During the monitoring process," to accommodate transfer students, "Plan B" students, and special need students. The Department of Education should take into account its own directives, if it deems that phrase to be important. Judge Tassini correctly held the phrase to be irrelevant, and held, in any event, that petitioners did not meet it. (page 8) We make this Exception only in an excess of caution since Judge Tassini's Opinion is obviously correct whether or not one misreads P-2, as do petitioners, who read P-2 to not require a teacher recommendation, despite the language in P-2 that "a recommendation from the sophomore English teacher [is] necessary for admission."

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this case, the Commissioner adopts as his own those findings and conclusions of the Office of Administrative Law that petitioners have failed to meet their burden of demonstrating that respondents unreasonably determined that S.L. lacked the proficiencies necessary for acceptance into the Grade 11 Advanced Placement English program at Livingston High School. In so finding, the Commissioner notes the Board's exceptions but finds they do not alter the disposition of this matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, the Commissioner dismisses this matter with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANALAPAN-ENGLISHTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent, whose son was denied admission to first grade on basis of age, alleged Board's transfer admission policy discriminated against pupils who resided within district and attended nonpublic schools or out-of-district schools on a tuition basis, as opposed to those who transferred into first grade from outside the district. Petitioner contended admission policies for kindergarten and first grade were void on constitutional grounds.

ALJ concluded Board acted properly when it applied age-entrance policy in denying first-grade admission to petitioner's child, as the policy was rational, nondiscriminatory and fairly applied. ALJ found matter wholly within discretionary authority of Board. (Thomas v. Morris) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

H.A.B., Esquire, pro se
Sanford D. Brown, Esquire, for respondent (Cerrato, Dawes, Collins, Saker & Brown, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 31, 1992 Decided: September 8, 1992

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner alleges that the admission policy of the Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District (Board) discriminates against pupils who reside within the school district as opposed to those pupils who transfer into the Board's first grade from outside public schools.

This matter was transmitted from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), on June 10, 1992, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

On or about July 16, 1992, petitioner propounded and served a Motion for Summary Judgment upon respondent and this tribunal. Due to the Board's attorney, Sanford D. Brown's scheduled vacation, the Board was granted leave to submit its response and cross-motion for Summary Decision later than the time required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.2 (c). The Board's Notice of Cross-Motion, Affidavit, Brief and Proposed Order were received on August 5, 1992. Oral argument was heard on August 17, 1992, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The record was considered closed on August 17, 1992.

MOTION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

Subsequently, on or about August 21, 1992, petitioner propounded a Motion for Emergent Relief before the Commissioner. Because the matter was at that time before the OAL, the Commissioner declined to entertain petitioner's Motion. Rather, on August 25, 1992, the matter was transmitted to the OAL for determination. The respondent Board, by way of letter dated August 25, 1992, did not oppose petitioner's motion. It asserts, however, that its policy with respect to the placement of S.T.B. in its kindergarten rather than its first grade, is valid and in full compliance with state and federal statutes as well as case law.

Oral argument on the Motion was held on August 31, 1992, at which petitioner was able to set forth, on the record, his position with respect to the application for emergency relief.

This tribunal, having heard the arguments of the parties determined that there was no issue which was separate and apart from petitioner's case-in-chief. Therefore, petitioner's application was denied.

MOTION AND CROSS MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

This matter comes before this administrative tribunal on Motion and Cross Motion for Summary Decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Having carefully considered the criteria for summary judgment, as established by our Supreme Court in Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954) and, having carefully considered the entire record before me; I CONCLUDE that the instant matter is ripe for summary decision.

ISSUE

The sole issue to be resolved by this administrative tribunal is whether the Board has the authority and/or discretion to establish educational policy as to the chronological age children may enter and enroll in its schools?

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The relevant and material facts giving rise to this controversy are not in dispute and are set forth as follows:

The Board has adopted a pupil placement policy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. Thereunder, children reaching the age of five on or before October 1 of any year will be eligible for entrance into kindergarten at the beginning of that school year. Children reaching the age of six on or before October 1 of any year will be eligible for entrance into first grade at the beginning of that school year. In the case of children who transfer into the Board's District from another district and who have completed a public school kindergarten program, the Board will consider placement into the first grade based on certain considerations.

S.T.B was born on October 31, 1986 and presently resides within the Board's jurisdiction for school attendance purposes. S.T.B. completed a preschool program (kindergarten) in June 1992 at Temple Shaari Emeth, a private institution licensed by the New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS).

The Board's admission policy provides, in pertinent part, as follows:

> Policy 5111 ADMISSION
> Entrance Age
>
> C. First grade
>
> Children reaching the age of six on or before October 1 of any year will be eligible for entrance into first grade at the beginning of the school year. Children reaching the age of six on or after October 1 will not enter first grade until the beginning of the following year. (A year's attendance in kindergarten is not necessary.)
>
> D. Transfers from public schools
>
> . . . .

> Grades kindergarten to one:
>
> In order to assure assignment to the grade best suited to a pupil's needs and readiness, placement is left to the discretion of the school principal working in cooperation with the pupil's parents/guardian. Such placements are governed by the following considerations: (1) age, health and maturity of the pupils; (2) quality and extent of his/her reading skills and needs; (3) record in writing from his/her previous school; and (4) results of standard district tests that the principal will administer after pupil is in attendance.
>
> . . . .
>
> E. Transfers from private schools
>
> Children who apply for admission from private or parochial school to grades two through eight on the basis of schooling outside the district shall be placed under the requirements described above. Applicants for grades kindergarten and first are eligible, if the child is five or six years old on or before October 1. (emphasis in the original).

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

PETITIONER'S POSITION

I

S.T.B. has a Constitutional Right to a Free Education

Petitioner observes that the New Jersey Constitution of 1947, Article VIII, Section IV, paragraph 1., provides as follows:

> The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the state between the ages of five and eighteen years.

The court held in West Morris Reg. Bd. of Ed. vs. Sills, 110 N.J. Super. 236 (Ch.Div. 1970), a school busing case, that "education in our state is essentially a state supervised function, and this includes private schools as well as public, religious as well as secular." West Morris at 243. Our state statutes require that public schools be free to persons over the age of five and under the age of twenty if they are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

It is clear that the State's duty to educate its children is a matter of constitutional demand. The Supreme Court in State vs. Vaughn, 44 N.J. 142, 145 (1965), stated that the State of New Jersey holds the education of children to be of supreme importance. The point was reiterated in Pingry Corp. vs. Hillside Tp., 46 N.J. 457, 460-461 (1966) wherein the court held that the constitutional right that the children of New Jersey have is the fundamental right to a thorough and efficient system of education. The court must "afford an appropriate remedy to redress a violation of those rights. To find otherwise would be to say that our constitution embodies rights in a vacuum, existing only on paper." Robinson vs. Cahill, 66 N.J. 133, 147, (1975) citing Cooper vs. Nutley Son Printing Co., Inc., 36 N.J. 189, 197 (1961).

The essential purpose of the Constitution's free education clause is to maximize public education so that our children will be prepared to function politically, economically and socially in a democratic society. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-4; Levine vs. Institutions & Agencies Dept. of N.J., 84 N.J. 234, 249 (1980). State laws have provided guidelines for the achievement of this legislative goal and implementation of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-5. State educational goals and standards are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:8-2.1(b)(c). The respondent implements these guidelines on behalf of public school transfers. The respondent refuses to implement these guidelines for private school transfers.

There can be no dispute by the respondent that petitioner has a Constitutional right to a free education.

II

There Shall be No Discrimination in the Implementation of the Constitutionally Mandated Guarantee to a Free Public Education

The respondent is required to provide a free education to all children in the state equally. Admission standards cannot be applied with distinctions. N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 states "no pupil in a public school in this state shall be discriminated against in admission to or in obtaining any advantages, privileges, or courses of study of the school by reason of race, color, creed, sex or national origin.' N.J.A.C. 6:4-1.5(a) states "no student shall be denied access to or benefit from any educational program or activity solely on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, sex, ancestry, national origin or social or economic status."

It is a parent's sole right to determine whether a child should be enrolled in a free educational system or a private educational system. Since Pierce vs. Society of Sisters, etc., 268 U.S. 510 (1925) the courts have given parents the constitutional right to select the type and character of education they feel is best suited for their children, whether that be secular or sectarian. West Morris Reg. Bd. of Ed., Supra at 236; N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25.

There is no requirement for a Board of Education to accept, by transfer, a child not eligible by reason of age for admission on October 1. However, the board may, in its discretion, admit any such pupil if the entrance requirements established through the rules and regulations of the board are met. The respondent has chosen to accept children who have not met the October 1 deadline pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 states in part:

> No board of education shall be required to accept by transfer from public or private school any pupil who is not eligible by reason of age for admission on October 1 of that school year but the board may in its discretion admit any such pupil if he or she meets such entrance requirements as may be established by rule or regulation of the board." (emphasis added)

Respondent's policy, with regard to the admission into first grade provides that a pupil transferring from a public school and enrolling in grade one will be placed pursuant to the discretion of the school principal working in cooperation with the pupil's parents/guardian, subject to four conditions. However, a pupil transferring from private school will automatically be placed in kindergarten if the child has not yet reached the age of six on or before October 1 of that year. The respondent's policy distinguishes between transfers from public schools and private schools. No such distinction is made or permitted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. There is no basis to distinguish between state accredited schools (public versus private). It is this arbitrary distinction which violates the constitutional rights of the petitioner pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution and Article I, Paragraph 5 of the New Jersey Constitution and is discriminatory. The respondent is required to treat the transfer from public and private identically. In this matter both types or transfers require an individual evaluation.

The distinction between admissions from private or public schools is extinguished when applications are made to transfer into grades two through eight. There can be no rational basis for the policy modification. The respondent's policy, in creating the distinction between private and public school transfers for kindergarten and first grade, in conjunction with the modification for transfers into grades two through eight, furthers the violation of petitioner's constitutional right and intrusion on petitioner's fundamental right to a free education.

III

Respondent's Admission Policy into First Grade is Unconstitutional. The Policy Fails to Pass either the New Jersey Balancing Test or the Federal Three Ties Approach Test.

It has long been recognized that Article I, Paragraph 1 of the New Jersey Constitution requires, just as the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, equal protection. Article I, Paragraph 1 of the New Jersey Constitution states:

> All persons are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty of acquiring, possessing, and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

Equal protection claims under the Fourteenth Amendment are analyzed under a three tier approach. In the First Tier statutes which regulate either a "fundamental right" or a "suspect class" are subject to "strict scrutiny". A suspect class is one "saddled with such disabilities, subjected to such a history of purposeful unequal treatment or relegated to such a position of political powerlessness as to command extraordinary protection from the majoritarian political process" San Antonio Indep. School Dist. vs. Rodriquez, 411 U.S. 1, 28 (1973). Fundamental rights are those which are "explicitly or implicitly guaranteed by the constitution" San Antonio at 33. There can be no dispute that the right to an education is a fundamental right guaranteed by the Constitution. State vs. Vaughn, 44 N.J. 142 (1965); Pingry Corp vs. Hillside Tp. 46 N.J. 457 (1969); Robinson vs. Cahill, 66 N.J.133 (1975) In addition, the respondent's distinction between private school children and public school children creates a suspect class as private school children are most often coming from religious schools. In order to withstand strict scrutiny the regulation or statute must further a compelling state interest and there must be no less restrictive means of accomplishing that objective. Graham vs. Richardson, 403 U.S. 365 (1971); Brown vs. City of Newark, 113 N.J. 565, 573 (1989).

The Second Tier is for regulations of a "semi-suspect" class or one that substantially affects a fundamental right in an indirect manner. This level is tested under intermediate scrutiny. To withstand intermediate scrutiny the classification must be substantially related to the achievement of an important governmental objective Craig vs. Boren 429 U.S. 190 (1976); Brown vs. City of Newark at 573.

Finally, if neither strict nor intermediate scrutiny applies the classification will be subjected to a "rational basis". To withstand this level of review the classification need be only rationally related to a legitimate state interest, Dandridge vs. Williams, 397 U.S. 471 (1970); Brown vs. City of Newark at 573.

New Jersey has rejected the multi-tiered analysis of the Federal Constitution that has employed a balancing test. Brown vs. City of Newark, at 573; Barone vs. Department of Human Services 107 N.J. 355, 368 (1987); Greenberg vs. Kimmelman, 99 N.J. 552, 567 (1985) Although the analysis is different under the New Jersey Constitution and the Federal Constitution, the result may be the same. Brown vs. City of Newark at 574. Under the New Jersey Balancing Test the court, in striking the balance, considers "the nature of the affected right, the extent to which the governmental restriction intrudes upon it, and the public need for the restriction." Brown vs. City of Newark at 574, Greenberg vs. Kimmelman at 567.

In applying the New Jersey Balancing Test to the instant matter, the nature of the affected right is a fundamental right, the right to an education (see prior citations). The respondent's intrusion on that right is significant. Pupils who have gone to private school and are attempting to transfer into the district's first grade are required to repeat kindergarten if born after October 1 of the school year. The extent to which the restriction intrudes upon the fundamental right to an education is to deny admission unilaterally although transfers from public schools are admitted pursuant to the discretion of the principal and subject to four conditions. There is no basis for the restriction upon transfers from private schools in contrast to transfers from public schools. Such a distinction is impermissible N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. There is no public need for such a distinction. Accordingly, it is respectfully submitted that under the New Jersey Balancing Test the respondent's policy of entrance into first grade must be stricken as violative of the due process rights of petitioner.

Under the federal test it is submitted that the strict scrutiny test must be applied as clearly a fundamental right is involved. Arguably, a suspect class is involved. There is no compelling state interest in distinguishing between transfers from private and public schools. Such a distinction is impermissible N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. There is obviously a less restrictive means of determining if pupils are qualified transferring from private schools. Private school transfers should receive the identical admission standards as public school transfers, admission pursuant to the discretion of the school principal and parent/guardian, subject to the four conditions.

While it is petitioner's belief that the strict scrutiny test would be applied, the respondent's policy is unconstitutional under the intermediate scrutiny test and the rational basis test as well. Under the intermediate scrutiny test, again, there is no important governmental objective achieved distinguishing between private and public school transfers. Under the rational basis test, once again, the distinction between private and public school transfers is not rationally related to any legitimate state interest.

Petitioner submits that the distinction between private school transfers and public school transfers is arbitrary and capricious. The right effected is a fundamental one. There is no compelling state interest, or important governmental objective in making such a distinction.

With regard to the respondent's policy of admission into grades two through eight, as compared to grades kindergarten through one, the same analysis, concerning the admission policy into first grade would be applied. Accordingly, it is respectfully submitted that the modification of the policy beginning in grade two is arbitrary and capricious. The modification does not further any compelling state interest nor does it further an important governmental objective. What justification can there be to permit identical treatment beginning in grade two and not in kindergarten. A child's fundamental right to an education begins at age five N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

Under the balancing test of New Jersey again the fundamental right to an education is affected. The modification would require a private school student to obtain further private school education, both kindergarten and first grade, to qualify for transfer and admission into second grade. The policy, in effect, removes from the parent the ability to choose the type of education their child should obtain (private or public) and places it in the hands of the respondent.

IV

Conclusion

As the respondent's policy presently stands a pupil who has gone to a private school kindergarten, and was born after October 1, is faced with a dilemma. If the parent exercises the parent's constitutional right and decides that it would be best for his child to enroll in a public school and receive his free education, then the child is punished and must repeat kindergarten. If the parent cannot afford to continue a private education the child is punished and must repeat kindergarten. If the parent does not wish the pupil to repeat kindergarten, the parent must pay for a private education, and subsequently seek a transfer into second grade. The respondent's policy creates an unconstitutional dilemma for both the parent and child at the parent's expense. It is only a parent who should and must decide what type of education his child should have, secular or sectarian. Pierce vs. Society of Sisters; West Morris Reg. Bd. of Ed. vs. Sills, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25. In applying respondent's policy, such a choice is taken from a parent. Petitioner seeks the court to remedy the respondent's violation if his Constitutional rights. Robinson vs. Cahill, 66 N.J. 133 (1975).

It is the respondent which has chosen to admit students who have not met the age requirements pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. Having done that, the respondent is not permitted to discriminate against private school transfers pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20 and N.J.A.C. 6:4-1.5(a). The respondent's policy allows greater rights to public school transfers than private school transfers. The respondent's unconstitutional policy infringes upon an unalienable fundamental right, a child's right to receive a free education from the state. State vs. Vaughn, 44 N.J. 142 (1965).

For all the foregoing reasons it is respectfully requested that the respondent's policy for transfers into kindergarten and grade one be stricken as unconstitutional as it violates equal protection clauses of both the New Jersey Constitution and the United States Constitution. For all the foregoing reasons it is respectfully requested that the respondent's policy distinguishing between transfers into kindergarten and first grade are discriminatory and violative of the protection clauses of the New Jersey Constitution and the United States Constitution.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

I

The Board Policy as Written and Applied is Valid and Should be Upheld.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 reads in pertinent part:

> . . . No board of education shall be required to accept by transfer from public or private school any pupil who was not eligible by reason of age for admission on October 1 of that school year, but the board may in its discretion admit any such > pupil if he or she meets such entrance requirements as may be established by rules or regulations of the board. (emphasis supplied.)

N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 reads in pertinent part:

> The board shall . . . make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the board , for . . . the government and management of the public schools. . . .

The granting of authority to local school boards by the New Jersey Legislature as cited above is clear indication of its intent not to substitute its judgment for local boards relative to pupil placement. Turtz v. Bd. of Ed. of Tp. of Randolph, 1979 S.L.D. 499, 501. A.H.A. and I.J.A. v. Bd. of Ed. of Boro of Glen Rock, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6175-87 at 6.

The rules for the promotion of pupils within local school districts are established without the discretion of the Commissioner of Education and at the discretion of the local board of education. Shenkler v. Bd. of Ed. of the Bor. of Ho-Ho-Kus, Bergen County, 1974 S.L.D. 772.

A local board of education may promote or place pupils enrolled into public schools for its district according to the prescription of its own rules. Boulogne v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Jamesburg, Middlesex County, 1964, S.L.D. 107; Wilcox v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Oceanport, Monmouth County, 1954-55 S.L.D. 75; Staats v. Bd. of Ed. of Montgomery Twp., Somerset County, 1938 S.L.D. 669. Shenkler, supra, at 777.

The Commissioner of Education in the Shenkler case analyzed the authority of local boards based on cases decided prior to that time. There, the Commissioner noted at pages 777-778 that:

> In Boulogne, supra, the Commissioner was concerned with a policy of local board of education which required that pupils be six years of age on or before December 31 in order to qualify for entrance to first grade. Such policy was consistent with another Board policy with respect to qualifications for entry to kindergarten. The Commissioner said:
> It has long been held that it is the right and responsibility of the local board of education to establish rules for the promotion of pupils from grade to grade. In 1914, the State Board of Education in reversing the decision of the Commissioner in Staats v. Board of Education of Montgomery Township, 1938 S.L.D. 669, 671, said:

> The State Board of Education holds that a local board of education has authority to prescribe its own rules for promotion. It is given that express right by statute.

More recently, in the case of Wilcox v. Board of Education of Oceanport, 1954-55 S.L.D. 75, the Commissioner directed the admission of a child on transfer from a private kindergarten, concluding, at page 77, with the statement:

> The Board of Education of the Borough of Oceanport, Monmouth County, will determine in its discretion the grade in which the child shall be placed. (See R.S. 18:11-1.) [Now, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1]

That a board of education may give consideration to age as a factor in determining promotion policies is set forth in the statutes. R.S. 18:11-1 requires boards of education not provide suitable school facilities and accommodations for the education of the children who reside in the district. Such facilities

> . . .shall include . . . courses of study suited to the ages and attainments of all pupils between the ages of five and twenty years.

In fulfillment of its duty to provide suitable school facilities, the board has no obligation under the law to employ formal testing procedures to determine a child's fitness to enter a particular grade. The statutes specifically reserve to the local school district the right to prescribe its own rules for promotion. R.S. 18:3-16 [now N.J.S.A. 18A:4-24] empowers the Commissioner to 'ascertain the thoroughness and efficiency of any or all public schools and any or all grades therein, by such means, tests, and examinations as seem proper to the Commissioner,' but after giving such power, the statute concludes:

> Nothing contained in this section shall impair the right of each district to prescribe its own rules for promotion.

While the board may use tests for grade placement purposes, it is not required to do so. In the case of Gutch and Fugger v. Board of Education of Demarest, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner March 13, 1963 [1963 S.L.D. 85], affirmed State Board of Education May 1, 1963 [1963 S.L.D. 89], one of the questions was whether a board of education could make psychological testing a prerequisite to early admission to kindergarten. On this question the Commissioner said:

> . . .respondent is under no obligation to obtain the results of psychological testing as evidence of readiness for schooling of a child under the age of five years. If, on the other hand, respondent > desires such guidance in the exercise of its discretion given it by R.S. 18:15-1, supra, the Commissioner is convinced that there is implied power for respondent to employ such professional assistance or advice as it may reasonably require.

>
> In the instant matter, respondent could have directed that petitioner's child be tested to determine qualifications for admission to first grade. that it did not so direct does not constitute a denial of any right. Petitioner admits that her daughter did not qualify for admission to first grade on the basis of age under respondent's policy.
> The Commissioner finds no evidence of arbitrary or discriminatory action in the board's modification of its policy to make children born on or before December 31, 1957, eligible for admission to first grade if they had satisfactorily completed the kindergarten program in its own or a suitable private kindergarten. Such a modification was obviously necessary to avoid inconsistence with its own rules. Petitioner lost no rights thereby which she had previously enjoyed. (1964 S.L.D., at pp. 108-109) (emphasis supplied.)

Thus, the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education have had occasion to interpret the pertinent statutes and policies, recited above, on prior occasions. While such interpretations are not binding on the Commissioner and or the Courts, they may not with impunity be set aside. The uniform administrative interpretation of a statute over a considerable length of time will be afforded respect. Safeway Trails, Inc. v. Furman, 76 N.J. Super. 90 (Law Div. 1962); Hudson County National Bank v. Provident Institution for Savings in Jersey City, 80 N.J Super 339 (Chan. Div. 1963).

Petitioner herein, as others in the past, has attempted to argue that the Board admission policies for kindergarten and first grade are void on constitutional grounds. The case herein is similar to the aforementioned Shenkler case where a father of a child five years of age claimed that the local board decision to deny the child admission to the first grade class was unconstitutional and arbitrary, unreasonable and unlawful. The Commissioner upheld the board policy which required children admitted to the first grade to be six years of age before October 1 of the school year. Citing to the past decisions upholding discretionary admission policies, the Commissioner found that these interpretations were,

> . . .not overturned by petitioner's constitutional argument that his son is being denied equal protection of the law. While the age criterion which the Board has utilized is not that which petitioner deems appropriate, there is no allegation nor > evidence that such criterion was not uniformly applied by the Board with respect to petitioner's son and all other similarly situated pupils.

> The findings in the matter, sub judice, are similar to those of Boulogne, supra. the Commissioner finds no arbitrary nor discriminatory action on the part of the Board. The Board has done nothing it was not empowered to do. It is well established that absent a clear showing of unlawful action or abuse of discretion, the Commissioner will not interfere in a matter lying wholly within the discretionary authority of a local board of education. Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965); Boult and Harris v. Passaic Township Board of Education, 1939-49 S.L.D. 7, 13, affirmed State Board of Education 15, affirmed 135 N.J.L. 329 (Sup. Ct. 1947), affirmed 136 N.J.L. 521 (E.&A. 1947); Pepe v. Livingston Board of Education, Essex County, 1969 S.L.D. 47. (1974 S.L.D. at 778-779)

Here, as in Shenkler, there is no allegation that the Board has allowed in other private school students in violation of the Board policy.

This case is also similar to the case of Kelleher v. Bd. of Ed. of the Boro. of Northvale, Bergen County 1971 S.L.D. 546 there, the petitioner sought entrance to kindergarten and argued the board policy was unconstitutional and discriminatory against private and kindergarten students. The board there had adopted a cut off date of October 1 of the school year but also provided an exception for admission to kindergarten of children moving into the local district, "who had been enrolled in approved public school kindergartens in other school districts, even though under age with respect to [the local district's] policy for children in its own community." Kelleher, supra, at p. 546.

The Northvale policy also had language similar to the Manalapan-Englishtown's relative to admission into first grade:

> (3) Except as noted in Item No. 4, a child will be accepted for first grade only if his sixth birthday falls on or before October 1 of the school year for which entrance is requested, or if he had successfully completed an approved kindergarten program and if his birthday is no later than December 31 of the school year. the district reserves the right to screen entrants to provide for their appropriate placement into kindergarten or first grade.
>
> The petitioner in Keller alleged that the:
>
> Board's policy discriminates against private and parochial kindergarten pupils because the only exception to the cited cut off date pertains to children who have been previously enrolled in public school kindergartens. (Emphasis supplied).

In finding that the case was res judicata, the Commissioner in Kelleher upheld the board policy on all grounds:

> The most recent decision on kindergarten entrance age was Davidson v. Board of Education of the Borough of Glen Rock, [1970 S.L.D. 296] decided by the Commissioner etc. which reads in part as follows:
>
> The Commissioner determines that the statutes are clear and that petitioners unfortunately have no claim for early admission that can be supported by law. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 reads in part as follows:
>
> > No child under the age of five years shall be admitted to any public school, except such as may be provided pursuant to law for children of his age. . . but the board may in its discretion admit any such pupil. . . (emphasis supplied.)
>
> The legislative intent here of the words 'shall' and 'may' is definitive. This provision makes early kindergarten entrance permissive, and the Commissioner cannot construe the statute, supra, otherwise.
>
> There is no issue of constitutionality in this matter applicable to petitioner's appeal. Petitioner's son does not meet the minimum statutory age requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5, supra, nor is there a showing that any of the other provisions of the Board's admission policy apply to petitioner.

Kelleher, supra at 548.

This case is also similar to the challenge to the admission policy in Turtz v. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of Randolph, supra, 1979 S.L.D. 499. There, the petitioner alleged his son was automatically entitled to admission to the first grade. The policy was agreed to permit admission to the first grade if the child either was six years of age before October 1st or had a year of approved kindergarten experience or was classified by the Child Study Team as qualified. Id. at 500. The petitioner contended that the Board had to admit his son automatically into the first grade as was his "statutory entitlement", and that failure to do so would deny the child his "constitutional rights as an individual and result in the claim and determination that the Board's policy itself is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable." Id. at 501.

The Administrative Law Judge in his initial decision noted that residents should not be able to circumvent Board policy and sneak children into classes ahead of others based on economic advantage:

> The Board's policy in each sub-title includes the word "must" and therefore must be applied in pari materia. To do otherwise would make it possible for residents with sufficient economic resources to enroll a child in private kindergarten who did not meet the Board's kindergarten age requirement, and then transfer the child to the public school in grade one (1) and circumvent the kindergarten admission policy. Id. at 501

The Commissioner based on stipulations of facts as to the board policy upheld completely the board's policy and ordered that the child be enrolled in kindergarten and observed per board policy. Id. at 504.

The Commissioner has recently and consistently reaffirmed the right of local school boards to pass and enforce varied discretionary policies involving student placement into kindergarten and/or first grade. A.H.A. and I.J.A. v. Bd. of Ed. of Glen Rock, supra; L.B. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hillsborough, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8323-89 (Comm. of Ed. 102-90, 5/1/90); Supuran v. Mount Laurel Tp. Bd. of Ed., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7366-88 (Comm. of Ed. 304-88, 12/1/88).

Of greatest relevance is the Commissioner's decision in Supuran, supra, where an admission policy very similar to Manalapan-Englishtown's was upheld. The policy denied admission into kindergarten to any child not five years of age by October 1 except for certain qualifying pupils transferring from other public school districts. The policy read in pertinent part:

> 2. A child transferred into the Mount Laurel School District from a public school may be accepted although the child may not meet the age requirements stipulated in paragraph A1. In order to determine whether to accept an underage student transferring into the district, the child will be tested to determine whether he or she meets the standards for grade level placement.
> 3. A child transferred into the Mount Laurel School District from a private school who does not meet the age requirement will not be accepted.

The parents who were new residents of the district became aware of the policy and removed their child to their former district in New York where he attended kindergarten for six days. The child's fifth birthday was not until November. Even though the child performed well on a pre-registration test, the child was denied admission to the new district. The Commissioner found no flaw in the policy or its application and in so doing analyzed the intent and principle of the policy as stated by the board superintendent:

> Policies, like rules and statutes, are defined by their language. The words used are to be given their ordinary and well understood meanings in the absence of any explicit indication to the contrary. Only if an ambiguity exists is it necessary to go beyond the test itself. Ruehl Co. v. Bd. of Trustees for Education, 85 N.J. Super. 4 (Law Div. 1964). One of this tribunal's goals is to carry out legislative and administrative purposes and plans. The history of a policy, as testified to here by the superintendent, may be referred to as indicative of purpose and plan. See, Schinek v. Gibb Truck Rental Agency, 69 N.J. Super 590 (App. Div. 1961). In determining the intent of a policy, just as in determining the legislative intent in a statute, the intent of the entire piece is controlling, and all sections must be read together in light of general intent so that the auxiliary effect of each individual part is made consistent with the whole. Febbi v. Bd. of Review, Div. of Employment Security, 35 N.J. 601 (1961).
> Viewing the pertinent part of policy No. 502 in its entirety, it is clear that the Board and administration of Mount Laurel Public Schools have carefully considered the age of entrance question. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 is clear.
> Nothing in the portion of policy cited above is inconsistent with the statute. I FIND policy No. 502 to be consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5 and well within the compass of general powers delegated by the Legislature to boards of education by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. I also FIND that subparagraph A.2, if read strictly, would seem only to require that an underage student attempting to transfer into the district test at an acceptable level. And, indeed, that has happened in the present case.

A review of the superintendent's testimony in Supuran, supra, shows great similarity to the expressed purpose for the Manalapan-Englishtown Board policy as expressed by it's superintendent:

> The superintendent of schools testified that policy No. 502 was revised in 1983 at his request. Under the former policy, parents were appealing in cases wherein their children had attended other, usually private, schools. He believed the district should set an age criterion irrespective of attendance in other schools. He also asked the Board for some administrative leeway. The superintendent stated that the wording of the present policy is intended to provide for administrative discretion.
>
> The district's primary concern is the social and emotional readiness of children. Based on local informal studies as well as nationally recognized research, the district believes that chronological age is the most important factor in determining whether a child, particularly a male child, will do well not only in his first year of school but throughout his school career.
> The superintendent stated that he determined to deny N.S.'s admission on the basis of age. The superintendent had no > background of previous success in a kindergarten to review. The six days' attendance in the Long Island school district were insufficient to base any judgment upon. The superintendent believes, based on age, that N.S. should not be admitted to the Mount Laurel Schools. There is no other child N.S.'s age in kindergarten in the Mount Laurel school district at this time.

Similar to the case in Supuran, supra, the Manalapan-Englishtown Superintendent's declarations of policy per his affidavit herein and in support of the Board's decision, convincingly shows that the intent of the Board policy read together is clear, carefully considered and is consistent with and in conformance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5.

> 2. The Board has determined that children must turn five years of age by October 1 of the school year in order to be admitted to Kindergarten. Likewise, children must turn six years of age by October 1 of the school year for admission into first grade.
> 3. The Board has made a determination that it does not wish parents in the district to try to jump ahead of others the same age by enrolling their children into a private child care facility which purports t provide an early Kindergarten program. Thus, the Board does not want to encourage early admission for five year olds. It is the general philosophy of the Board and its Administration that such is not advantageous.
>
> 4. The Board has further determined that it does not wish to penalize the few families who move into the District and who have relied on their former board's policies which called for entrance into Kindergarten at an age prior to the age which Manalapan-Englishtown determined to be proper. Even in those few instances, while credence is given to the former district's policies, the ultimate placement is determined based on certain considerations.
>
> Under Section D. of the Board policy, there are four factors listed which would determine ultimate placement of public school transferees for grades Kindergarten through eight. While the factors are listed for general purposes for all grades in the District, in actuality the fourth consideration, which is post admission testing, is not utilized for five year old children such as the petitioner's son. There are no tests available in the District for kindergarten age students. In the past, the Board had in fact used Gesell tests for consideration, but it was determined that there were problems with the testing and they were discontinued. The Board has found no substitute testing to adequately monitor the developmental level of children the age of petitioner's son.

Also of relevance is the recent decision in L.B., supra, where the Commissioner upheld the local board's decision to maintain a child in kindergarten even though the child had completed a full year in a public accredited kindergarten program in an adjacent municipality where she had been promoted to the first grade. As the Commissioner noted, "the Board's action in returning S.B. to kindergarten, under the circumstances of the instant matter, was an appropriate, reasonable extension of the Board's discretionary authority." Id. at 10.

Thus, in summary, the present Board has determined in its discretion and as permitted by statute to set initial admission into its school based on an October 1 cut off date of the school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5; 18A:11-1. The only exception for admission is for students who have moved from out of district and had relied on that other district's discretionary decision to start children in kindergarten at an earlier age. The Board policy does not permit parents who reside within the District to take economic advantage over those around to jump ahead of their immediate neighbors by enrolling their children in what they perceive to be an early kindergarten program. And while the Board will give credence to another public district's decision to start kindergarten at a prior cut off date per statute, the Board also double checks the advancement of these children before considering advancement.

Petitioner's allegation that there is a suspect class created because private school children "are most often coming from religious schools" is irrelevant and in the very most has already been decided by the Commissioner to not create a violation of pupil placement policies. Kelleher, supra, Boards can pass policies which distinguish between completion of public programs and private programs. Supuran, supra.

The board has done nothing it was not empowered to do. Petitioner cannot come close to meeting his specific burden which is to clearly show an unlawful action or abuse of discretion. Therefore, the Commissioner should not and cannot interfere with a matter lying wholly within the discretionary authority of the respondent Board. Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Ed., supra at 332; Shenkler, supra at 779.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner properly observes that the New Jersey Construction (1947), Art. VIII, Sec. IV. par. 1 holds that it is the State's duty to educate our children and that such education is of supreme importance, State v. Vaughn, supra.; Pingry Corp. v. Hillside Tp., supra. The Legislature has undertaken the duty to satisfy this constitutional goal by providing for the public education of every child and youth within this State. Title 18A, Education Law. In so doing, the Legislature has granted the State Board of Education, the Commissioner and local boards of education certain powers and duties to satisfy the constitutional mandate to ". . . . provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." N.J. Const. Art. VIII, Sec. IV., par. 1. The Legislature has enumerated general mandatory powers and duties of local boards of education through enactment of N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which provides as follows:

> The board shall --- > a. Adopt an official seal;
>
> b. Enforce the rules of the state board;
>
> c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees, subject, where applicable, to the provisions of Title 11[A], Civil Service, of the [---] Statutes; and
> d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

In addition, the Legislature has enacted a series of statutes concerned with attendance at the State's public schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et. seq. Among those statutory provisions for school attendance is N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5, which provides that:

> No child under the age of five years shall be admitted to any public school, except such as may be provided pursuant to law for children of his age.
> No board of education shall be required to accept by transfer from public or private school any pupil who was not eligible by reason of age for admission on October 1 of that school year, but the board may in its discretion admit any such pupil if he or she meets such entrance requirements as may be established by rules or regulations of the board.

The Legislature, in its wisdom, provided local boards of education with wide discretion to admit or not to admit a child into its schools who was not eligible to be admitted by reason of not having attained the age for admission on or before October 1 of the school year. The herein Board has, through N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, adopted a rule, which is not inconsistent with any provision of Title 18A, not to accept children into its kindergarten who have not attained the age of five years on or before October 1, of the school year. The Board has extended its rule to exclude those children within its jurisdiction who seek to transfer into its first grade from a private kindergarten or day school program who have not attained the age of six years on or before October 1 of the school year. Within its discretionary authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5, the Board has made an exception for those children who do not meet the age requirement for admission into its first grade and who moved into its school district after attending a public supported kindergarten. Petitioner claims, among other things, that the Board's application of this statutory discretion is discriminatory and violates his constitutional rights of equal protection under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution and an intrusion on his fundamental right to a free public education under the New Jersey Constitution.

Petitioner asserts, without proof, that "private school children are most often coming from religious schools" and, thereby, attempts to create an unconstitutional classification of pupils for equal protection analysis. After an extended discussion of multi-tiered analysis of the Federal Constitution imposed by Federal Courts, petitioner concedes that New Jersey has rejected such analysis in favor of a balancing test. Borough of Collingswood v. Ringgold, 66 N.J. 350, 370, (1975), appl. dism., 426 U.S. 901, 96 S. Ct. 2220, L. Ed. 2d. 826 (1976). In the final analysis, moreover, petitioner has failed to demonstrate that private school pupils constitute a suspect classification in New Jersey. See, Barone v. Department of Human Services, 107 N.J.

335, (1987), where the Court held at 369 that, "Neither poverty nor disability is a suspect classification in New Jersey." (citations omitted).

The Commissioner has had occasion to determine constitutional equal protection claims as to age-entrance requirements enacted by local boards of education. The Commissioner has, universally, rejected such claims. Shenkler, supra. ; Kelleher, supra. Rather, the Commissioner has construed the legislative authority conferred upon a local board of education to make and enforce rules for its own governance under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, to include policies adopted by it consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-5. The herein Board has done just that. It has determined to use its discretion in admitting children to its first grade who are new to the school district who have completed a public school kindergarten program and who would otherwise not be eligible for such admission, while rejecting admission to children who live within the school district and have completed a nonpublic school kindergarten program. As Mr. Justice Stewart said, speaking for the Court in Rinaldi v. Yeager, 384, U.S. 305, 86 S. Ct. 1497, 16 L. Ed. 2d 577 (1966):

> To be sure, the constitutional demand is not a demand that a statute necessarily apply equally to all persons. The Constitution does not require things which are different in fact . . . . to be treated in law as though they were the same (citations omitted). at U.S. 308-309.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board has not acted in an arbitrary or discriminating fashion when applied its age-entrance policy to determine that petitioner's son is not eligible for admission to its first grade.

I CONCLUDE that the Board has done nothing it is not empowered to do.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE that neither this tribunal nor the Commissioner shall interfere in a matter lying wholly within the discretionary authority of the Board Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Ed., 89 N.J. Super 327 (App. Div. 1965).

Accordingly, Summary Decision is hereby ENTERED on behalf of the Board of Education of the Manalapan-Englishtown Regional School District and petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED AND DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MANALAPAN-ENGLISHTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful review of the arguments and facts herein, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board was neither arbitrary nor discriminatory in denying first-grade admission to petitioner's child on the basis of age. Therefore, as found by the ALJ, the Board's actions were within its lawful discretion and are not subject to interference by this tribunal.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MULLICA, ATLANTIC COUNTY.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The announced results of the balloting for one member of the Board of Education for an unexpired three-year term at a special school election held in the school district of Mullica Township, Atlantic County, on September 15, 1992, were as follows:

Candidates	At Polls	Absentee	Total
Anthony J. Butterhof	164	8	172
Maryann T. Agnew	170	4	174
Butterhoe (Write-in)	1	0	1
Nobody (Write-in)	1	0	1

Pursuant to a written request from candidate Anthony Butterhof, filed September 21, 1992, an authorized representative of the Commissioner of Education from the Office of the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools was directed to conduct a recount of the machine ballots cast. The recount was conducted on October 6, 1992, at the Atlantic County Voting Machine Warehouse by the Atlantic County Superintendent of Schools.

At the conclusion of the recount, the tally stood as follows:

Candidates	At Polls	Absentee	Total
Anthony J. Butterhof	164	8	172
Maryann T. Agnew	170	4	174
Nobody (Write-in)	1	0	1

There was one write-in vote (for "Butterhoe") invalidated during the recount because it was "machine cancelled." The absentee tally given above reflects the results as originally announced, since no request was made to Superior Court for a recount of absentee ballots.

This concludes the report of the Commissioner's representative.

* * * * *

The Commissioner has reviewed the report of his authorized representative and adopts it as his own.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that at the special election held on September 15, 1992, Maryann T. Agnew was elected to the unexpired three-year term ending in April 1995 on the Mullica Township Board of Education.

For Petitioner, Stephen J. Mushinski, Esq.

For Respondents, Denis C. Germano, Esq. (Hulse & Germano)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on April 16, 1992 by the Board of Education of the City of Beverly (Board) appealing the budget set by the Beverly Board of School Estimate and the local tax levy certified by the Common Council of the City of Beverly (Council) and seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of the reduction in the current expense tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. These reductions were made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-14 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.2(a)1.

The total proposed and certified budgets, as well as the amounts in dispute in this matter, are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board		Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Council
Current Expense	$978,310	Current Expense	$938,310
Capital Outlay	2,825	Capital Outlay	2,825
Amount of Reduction by Council		Amount of Reduction in Dispute before the Commissioner
Current Expense	$ 40,000	Current Expense	$ 40,000
Capital Outlay	-0-	Capital Outlay	-0-

The reductions at issue were effectuated by the Board of School Estimate after a public hearing on March 16, 1992 and certified by the Council by resolution on March 24, 1992. The reductions to specific current expense line items determined by respondents and being appealed by the Board are as follows:

Line Item 50 - Account 120b - Legal Fees $ 7,000

Based on past average expenditures

Line Item 52 - Account 130 - Other Administrative Expenses $ 4,000

Defer purchase of computer

Line Items 65/66 - Accounts 240/250 - Teaching Supplies and Other Expenses $ 5,000

Based on past average expenditures

Line Item 90 - Account 630 - Heat $ 4,000

Based on past average expenditures

Line Item 91* - Account 640 - Utilities $ 8,000

Based on past average expenditures

Line Item 102 - Account 700 series - Maintenance $12,000

Based on past average expenditures

*Respondents' Answer incorrectly identified this line item as 90, but clearly referred to Utilities, which is Line Item 91.

On May 4, 1992, respondents filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal, admitting the amounts set forth above, but denying allegations by the Board that the reductions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and would result in insufficient funds to conduct a thorough and efficient system of schools. On June 1, 1992, a position paper was filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8 and, additionally, on July 22, 1992, a summation was filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

Mindful, then, of the balance to be applied in his standard of review, the Commissioner makes the following determinations with respect to the specific line items reduced by respondents.

Line Item 50 - Account 120b - Legal Fees $7,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures over the past three years and the determination that $6,000 was budgeted for legal fees in 1991-92 and $17,200 was budgeted in 1992-93. Based on this review, respondents reduced this account by $7,000. The Board responds that the budgeted amount of $17,200 includes expenditures for auditing and automated payroll services as well as legal fees. It must be noted that the budgeting for these other professional/technical services should not have been included in Account 120b which is solely for legal fees. The other expenditures should have been budgeted in Account 120d which is specifically for "Purchased Other Professional/Technical Services." All parties agree that the Board is currently involved in pending litigation. Since the amount budgeted for legal fees is significantly less than that thought necessary by respondents and is, in fact, less than the amount respondents had determined to allow for legal fees, the $7,000 reduced from this account is restored. The Board, however, is directed to correct the budgeted appropriations for Accounts 120b and 120d as noted above.

Line Item 52 - Account 130 - Other Administrative Expenses $4,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures over the past three years and the determination that the purchase of a computer be deferred. The Board responds that the increase in this account is primarily for publication of a quarterly newsletter, begun in the spring of 1992 and sent to every home in the City of Beverly. As the Commissioner deems the development of programs and operations responsive to changing technological demands is necessary and consistent with the goals of a thorough and efficient education, and that parental and community awareness and involvement are essential to a thorough and efficient education, the $4,000 reduced from this account is restored.

Line Items 65-66 Accounts 240/250 - Teaching Supplies and Other Expenses $5,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures over the past three years and anticipated for 1991-92. The Board responds that the increase in these two accounts is due to costs for new instructional programs initiated in 1991-92 and increasing enrollment. It is determined that teaching supplies and other instructional materials are essential to provide a thorough and efficient education and that reducing appropriations for these materials would negatively impact the development of educational programs initiated this past year. The reduction in these accounts is deemed to be arbitrary and the amount of $5,000 is therefore restored.

Line Item 90 - Account 630 - Heat $4,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures over the past three years. The Board stated that there was no increase in this line item for 1992-93. They further note that the current school year had a particularly mild winter season and that they must plan and budget sufficiently to heat the buildings appropriately. The Commissioner determines that since this line item has no increase over the prior year and it is proper and prudent to budget for necessary heating levels, the amount of $4,000 is restored.

Line Item 91 - Account 640 - Utilities $8,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures for the past three years and anticipated for 1991-92.

The Board responded that there was no increase in this line item for 1992-93. It further notes that it anticipates increased costs in this account for 1992-93 because it has added a gas-heated hot water system, additional telephone services and fax machines.

The documentation submitted by the Board indicates that this account will have a surplus at the end of 1991-92. It is determined that the Board has valid reason because of the increased utilities to anticipate increased expenditures for 1992-93. However, it is further determined that the Board has offered no compelling reason for the restoration of the entire amount of the reduction. Therefore, $4,000 of the reduction is sustained and $4,000 is restored for the increased services in utilities.

Line Item 102 - Account 700 Series - Maintenance $12,000

Respondents' reduction was based on a review of expenditures for the past three years and anticipated for 1991-92. The Board responded that the 1992-93 budget included funds for the removal of a 7,000 gallon oil tank. The amount included was based on estimates it received from its consultant. It is determined that the removal of oil tanks and correction of any related hazardous conditions are essential to comply with statutory mandates. The amount of $12,000 is therefore restored.

SUMMARY

ACCOUNT	REDUCTION	SUSTAINED	RESTORED
120b	$ 7,000	$ -0-	$ 7,000
130	4,000	-0-	4,000
240/250	5,000	-0-	5,000

Accordingly, the Burlington County Board of Taxation is directed to make the necessary adjustment as set forth below to reflect a total of $974,310 to be raised in tax levy for current expense purposes by the Board for the 1992-93 school year.

For Petitioner, Dennis J. Oury, Esq. (Oury, Mizdol & Brovarone)

For Respondent, James J. Deer, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on May 29, 1992 by the Borough of Fairview Board of Education (Board) seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of the reduction by the Mayor and Council (Council) in the capital outlay tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. A copy of the Board's notice of said appeal to the governing body was received by the Commissioner on May 13, 1992. These reductions were made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.2(b)2 following voter rejection of the Board's proposed budget on April 7, 1992 and after consultation with the Board as required by law. The total proposed and certified budgets, as well as the amounts in dispute in this matter, are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted By Board		Amount of Tax Levy Approved By Voters (Current Expense) and Certified By Governing Body (Capital Outlay)
Current Expense	$6,755,139	$6,755,139
Capital Outlay	$ 80,000	-0-
Amount of Reduction By Governing Body		Amount of Reduction in Dispute Before the Commissioner
Current Expense	-0-	-0-
Capital Outlay	$ 80,000	$ 80,000

The reduction at issue was effectuated by Council in a resolution dated April 28, 1992 to reduce the capital outlay tax levy as follows:

> [T]he Board of Education of the Borough of Fairview has adequate surplus monies to pay for the necessary Capital Outlay Proposition. (R-92-89)

On July 27, 1992, the Council filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.6 admitting to the amount set forth above, but leaving the Board to its proof in all other respects. In its Answer, the Council also listed six items of defense as follows:

> 1. The Petition does not comply with the format required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3.
>
> 2. The Petition does not attach the information regarding the matter complained of required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.5.
>
> 3. The amount of the proposed capital outlay does not correlate with the repairs and improvements purportedly required for the school.
>
> 4. The capital outlay funds demanded by Petitioner are not necessary to comply with the constitutional mandate of providing a thorough and efficient education.
> 5. The Petition was untimely filed.

6. The Board of Education failed to provide proper notice of its intention to appeal the reduction.

On August 19, 1992, a position paper was filed by the Council pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8. On September 4, 1992, a position paper was filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

Mindful, then, of the balance to be applied in his standard of review, the Commissioner makes the following determination with respect to the reduction in the capital outlay tax levy effectuated by the Council.

Reduction to Capital Outlay $80,000

The Board's Petition of Appeal stated that the proposed tax levy to replace the stairwell fire doors at two schools was necessary because a State monitoring report cited the existing fire doors as not meeting the requirements of the Fire Code. The Council's position stated in the resolution reducing the tax levy and in the position statement filed with the Commissioner is that the amount requested had not been verified by specific bids and that the Board has surplus funds which are greater than the amount requested for the project. The Council also states in the position paper that the monitoring report does not find the asserted deficiency so significant as to affect the students' education or the integrity of the school buildings, and that the Board had not provided to correct this condition in two budgets following the State report of December 1990. It should be noted that the Board did not provide for these repairs in the 1991-92 budget, but did attempt to provide in the 1992-93 budget which is here in dispute. In its Answer, the Council also listed six items, identified earlier in this report, challenging not only the amount of dollars and necessity of the project as noted above, but also the format, attachments, timelines and procedures followed for the Petition of Appeal.

In the instant matter the petition was filed on May 29, 1992, one day beyond the 90 day filing requirement of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). However, it must be noted that, although N.J.A.C. 6:24 details the procedures and rules for controversies and disputes, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 allows a relaxing of the rules by the Commissioner in any case where a strict adherence may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice. The overriding priority of any review and decision must address the legislative mandate for a thorough and efficient system of education. Therefore, it is found and determined that the circumstances of this matter warrant relaxation of the filing requirement, given the Commissioner's obligation to assess if there are sufficient monies available for the provision of a thorough and efficient education in the Fairview School District. Further, it is determined that the remaining claims of procedural flaws do not warrant dismissal of the petition.

The Commissioner must note that the Board definitely had a responsibility to correct the code deficiencies in the stairwell fire doors, and the Council's position reducing the necessity and importance of this work is certainly arbitrary. The requirements of the Fire Code are written to ensure the health and safety of occupants of a building in the event of a fire. These requirements should not and may not be ignored. Although the Board should have made provisions in the 1991-92 budget to correct the doors, tardiness in action should not result in additional deferral or elimination of action. While the Commissioner affirms that there should be valid estimates by appropriate professionals of the costs for major projects, he likewise agrees with the Board's assertion that seeking bids prior to confirmation of funding is not an acceptable school business procedure.

The Board in its position paper states that the corrections required for the stairwell fire doors have already been completed and were funded with money from the surplus account. A review of the Board's revised budget indicates a projected free balance for June 30, 1993 of only $170,137 which represents only 2% of its Total Net Budget which brings the surplus to only 2%. Therefore, the Commissioner finds and determines that $80,000 must be restored to the Fairview 1992-93 budget to ensure the provision of a thorough and efficient education to the pupils of the Fairview School District.

Accordingly, the Bergen County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the Borough of Fairview tax levy for the 1992-93 school year to total $6,835,139, $80,000 of which is for capital outlay and $6,755,139 for current expense.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, high school English teacher, alleged improper withholding of her increment for deficiencies in areas of instruction, planning and preparation, and classroom control as shown in year-end evaluation.

In light of Board policies and evaluations, ALJ concluded petitioner failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that Board's action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Petitioner failed to prove that denial of increment was procedurally defective. Increment withholding was upheld.

Citing Kopera, Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision. Petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, Ellen Sturn, a tenured teaching staff member employed by respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of South Plainfield, Middlesex County (the Board) is appealing a determination withholding her adjustment increment for the 1989-90 school year. Ms. Sturn argues that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, withholding of the increment was arbitrary, capricious and lacking in substantiation or justification. She also contends that the Board's decision to withhold her increment contravened various procedural safeguards and policies, notably those set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.21 in respect to classroom observations.

The Board asserts that its action in denying Ms. Sturn's increment was proper and justified both substantively and procedurally.

The matter was initiated by the filing of a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on July 11, 1990. The Board's Answer was filed on August 22, 1990, after receiving an extension of the time within which it should have been forthcoming. Thereafter, on or about August 29, 1990, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the appeal to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. A prehearing conference was conducted in the matter on November 8, 1990, before the late Administrative Law Judge David J. Monyek. The matter was then scheduled to proceed to plenary hearing in May 1991, but was adjourned and shortly thereafter the case was reassigned to my office. By letter dated July 31, 1991, Richard A. Friedman, Esq., counsel to Ms. Sturn sought with Mr. Cirafesi's consent to amend the Petition of Appeal by asserting that in addition to the increment being improperly withheld for the reasons already alleged, the withholding was "substantively arbitrary and unreasonable, because it was neither supported by the facts nor warranted by the alleged deficiency." Letter July 31, 1991 to Administrative Law Judge. In addition, as an incident to Mr. Cirafesi's acquiescence to this amendment he noted that the Board would reserve the right to claim that this portion of the petitioner's claim is timebarred because not asserted within the 90 days of the withholding of the increment. Thereafter the matter proceeded as scheduled to hearing and was heard on January 22, and January 23, 1992, at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville, New Jersey.

At the conclusion of the testimonial phase of the proceeding, counsel requested the opportunity to obtain a transcript of the proceedings and to submit briefs following their receipt of those transcripts and the opportunity to review them.

By letter of October 30, 1991, Mr. Friedman submitted the petition as amended setting forth in detail the summary which was provided by him in his letter to my office of July 31, 1991. Thereafter on November 21, 1991, my office received a letter from Mr. Cirafesi enclosing the Board's Answer to the Amended Petition of Appeal. Following receipt by the attorneys of the transcripts of the proceedings on May 18, 1992, my office received Mr. Friedman's post-hearing brief dated May 18, 1992.* On June 23, 1992, my office received Mr. Cirafesi's post-trial memorandum, dated June 19, 1992. On receipt of the latter submission, my office contacted Mr. Friedman and he advised by telephone that he intended to submit a responsive brief.' Thereafter, and after waiting for a reasonable period of time and not yet having received any further submission from Mr. Friedman, my secretary at my direction, contacted his office once again to inquire as to the status of that submission. She was advised that Mr. Friedman had reconsidered and that he intended to submit no further argument in the matter. At my request he was directed to submit a letter to that effect. On July 28, 1992, my office received a letter from Mr. Friedman, dated July 20, 1992, advising that the petitioner would rely upon the brief previously submitted and would submit no reply brief. Accordingly, the record in these proceedings closed on the date upon which Mr. Friedman's letter indicating that he would submit no further argument was received, July 28, 1992.

ISSUE AND BURDEN OF PROOF

N.J.S.A. 18:29-14 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded role called majority vote of the full membership of the board of education.

The standard of review of a local board's action pursuant to the statute is set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960), where the court stated that: "[T]he scope of the Commissioner's review is. . . not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." The Commissioner, therefore, cannot properly redetermine for himself whether the petitioner had in fact been unsatisfactory as a teacher. Id. at 295; see also, Littman v. Bd. of Ed. Cranford Tp., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5026-80 (July 14, 1981), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Aug. 25, 1981).

* By letter of May 8, 1992, Mr. Friedman confirmed that at both counsel's consent the briefing schedule was extended.

Since the challenged action is a discretionary power of the local board of education, the administrative law judge must accordingly confine his review to determine whether the Board had a reasonable basis for its conclusion. Accordingly, and pursuant to this standard, the only two issues to be resolved by the Commissioner of Education and, derivatively, by the Office of Administrative Law when reviewing the determination of the local board of education to withhold the Ms. Sturn's increment are the following:

1. Were the underlying facts as those who made the evaluations purport them to be? and

2. Was it unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious for the Board to conclude as it did based upon those facts?

The burden in respect to seeking to establish that the facts are other than they were set out to be before the Board and that the local Board's determination based upon an evaluation and analysis of those facts was unreasonable, arbitrary , and capricious rests with the petitioner.

FACT AND ANALYSIS

The petitioner, Ellen Sturn, is a tenured teacher of English employed at South Plainfield High School since 1970. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and a Masters Degree in educational media. Ms. Sturn obtained her New Jersey teaching certificate as a media specialist. But for the denial of the increment at issue, for the 1989-90 school year, the petitioner has received salary increments for every year of her employment with respondent South Plainfield Board of Education (the Board).

Year-end evaluations of teaching personnel employed the Board is based upon a rating system with a range of one (1) through three (3). That system is defined in the Annual Performance/Professional Improvement Program utilized for both tenured and non-tenured teaching personnel at the Board. It defines the ratings as follows:

1. One who is contributing in a successful manner. There are no major concerns about his/her effectiveness.

2. One who is meeting the job responsibilities but might enhance total effectiveness by responding to the suggestions itemized on the attached evaluation sheet.

3. One is is not meeting job responsibilities in an effective manner and needs to correct the specific deficiencies itemized on the attached evaluation form. [Exhibit J-9]

For the past ten years, excluding the 1989-90 school year, Ms. Sturn has received a year-end evaluation of 1, the highest rating under the guidelines.

For the school year 1989-90, the petitioner was given a total performance evaluation of 3 [J-9]. The Board concluded that of those major areas of teacher responsibility and performance, Ms. Sturn was not meeting her job responsibilities in an effective manner and was required to correct specific deficiencies in the areas of instruction, planning and preparation, and classroom control. She was given a rating of three in each of these areas. While she was also given ratings of 1 and 2 in each of the other 8 overall areas of performance, i.e., teacher/pupil relationship, personal qualities, curriculum development, the Board concluded that based upon the evaluation of 3 in the areas mentioned above Ms. Sturn's overall rating for the 1989-90 school year was a 3. As a consequence the total Performance Evaluation/Professional Improvement Plan for the 1989-90 school year, which was provided to Ms. Sturn on April 6, 1990, while recommending her reappointment, recommended the denial of her salary increment.

Counsel for the petitioner seeks to set aside as invalid the decision of the Board denying Ms. Sturn's increment based upon two fundamental arguments. The petitioner asserts that the Board's action was arbitrary and capricious in that its conclusions that Ms. Sturn was not meeting her job responsibilities in an effective manner in respect to instruction, planning and preparation and classroom control, resulting in an evaluation of 3, as well as the conclusion that based upon the foregoing an overall assessment for the year merited an evaluation of 3, was arbitrary and capricious and without a reasonable basis.

Secondly, petitioner argues that even if the record in this matter would support the determination that the underlying facts justified the evaluation given and the concomitant increment denial. The process and procedures utilized by the Board in assessing Ms. Sturn's performance and arriving at its decision to deny the increment contravened its own policies and regulations such that the denial must be set aside.

I shall address first the argument raised by Ms. Sturn that from a substantive perspective the denial of her salary increment cannot be supported by the factual record.

The person primarily responsible for recommending to the Board that Ms. Sturn be denied the increment at issue is the principal of South Plainfield High School, Dr. Leroy E. Seitz, who has been principal of the high school since 1986. Dr. Seitz testified at the hearing and identified five specific areas of Ms. Sturn's performance which he deemed deficient and upon which he based his increment denial recommendation. Dr. Seitz noted that he was the individual who observed Ms. Sturn's class on March 29, 1990, which was the last of three classroom observations for the year. He also indicated that he prepared the performance evaluation document recommending the increment denial [J-9]. (T II:104*) In arriving at the overall decision to recommend the increment denial, Dr. Seitz noted that the decision was culled from evidence that he received and obtained throughout the entire school year and was not based on the two or three classroom observations alone. He took into consideration contacts which he had both with Ms. Sturn as well as those which he had with parents, students and other staff members including the coordinator of discipline, guidance counselors and the director of guidance and counseling (T II at 106:16-25).

Dr. Seitz noted as well that since his tenure as principal of the high school began in 1986, he had made it clear to his entire teaching staff through verbal directives as well as through promulgation in the Teachers' Handbook (J-25)that of critical significance to him was that teacher's enhance the student's ability to learn and that one of the ways in which this objective could be accomplished was by commencing each class lesson by articulating the objectives of that lesson on the blackboard. In Dr. Seitz's view one of the failure's of Ms. Sturn directly relating to the decision to rate her 3 in classroom instruction was her systemic non-compliance with what he described as a long-standing policy to state the objective of the class on the blackboard. Dr. Seitz noted that in the first observation in the classroom of Ms. Sturn's performance for the 1989-90 school year, supervised by Ms. Erickson (J-3), Ms. Sturn failed to write the objectives of the lesson on the chalk board. Very specifically Ms. Erickson specifically states, "In the future, please be certain that objectives are clearly displayed throughout the class period." (J-3 at 2). In the second class visitation for the school year, conducted by Mrs. De Simon in February 1990, Ms. Sturn apparently continued to fail to comply with this simple yet effective pedagogical tool. In the final teacher observation for the school year, conducted on March 29, 1990, the same deficiency is explicitly identified. The observer notes: "In the lesson observed, Mr. Sturn did not present an introduction to the lesson. There was no clearly stated objective stated on the blackboard or presented to the students." (J-5 at 2) Although the teacher observation indicates that the March 29, 1990 lesson was supervised by Mrs. De Simon, in his testimony Dr. Seitz notes that it was he who observed the class. [T II at 104] The March 29, 1990 teacher observation resulted in an evaluation of Mr. Sturn's performance of 3.

A second area of deficiency identified by Dr. Seitz in respect to Ms. Sturn's purported inability to meet her responsibilities in an effective manner both in respect to instruction and planning and preparation was Mr. Sturn's failure to provide for "closure" at the conclusion of each classroom period. Closure in Dr. Seitz's perception involves the articulation by students at the end of a class lesson of a summary of what they had learned. It seeks to ensure that the learning process is successful and effective. Merely asking the student at the conclusion of a lesson whether he understood it is, in Dr. Seitz's judgment, just insufficient. He noted that since September 1986, he had directed his teachers to provide "some type of closure, some type of lesson summary and that direction was given verbally. . . at faculty meetings and it was also placed in the record so far as the Teacher Handbook from 1986 on." (TII 107-08) Dr. Seitz's review of Ms. Sturn's performance as set forth in the October 26, 1989 teacher observation as well as the February 21, 1990 observation confirmed his own observation that Ms. Sturn failed to engage in closure or to summarize for her students the objective of that day's lesson.

Dr. Seitz also indicated that in respect to Ms. Sturn's purported deficiency in the area of instruction and preparation she either was untimely in the submission of lesson plans or failed completely to submit them. (T II at 188-89) Dr. Seitz noted that teachers are required to submit lesson plans to their immediate supervisor on a weekly basis. He noted that he received "direct input" from Ms. Sturn's supervisor that the petitioner was "constantly late in submitting these lesson plans and that [her supervisor] had spoken to Ms. Sturn about the lateness in submitting these lesson plans. (T II at 119: 1-11) The principal further noted that another of Ms. Sturn's supervisors sent a memo to her in February 1990 when it was discovered that she was absent on a particular day and, when a lesson plan was sought out to provide to the substitute teacher, none was available. "This resulted in a day of instruction being wasted." (T II at 119) See also exhibit R-2.

Dr. Seitz, in support of his determination that Ms. Sturn's performance in the areas of instruction and planning and preparation were deficient, specifically voiced his concern that procedures and techniques which she employed in respect to grading of tests were unacceptable and also resulted in parental complaints. Dr. Seitz related in his testimony an incident involving a parent coming to him in the 1989-90 school year and presenting to him copies of tests which were taken by both of her children who attended Ms. Sturn's classes. In comparing the answers the parent had identified specific areas where either the answers were marked differently or where different answers were marked the same. Dr. Seitz had a conference with Ms. Sturn following some investigation and it was concluded that Ms. Sturn had made a number of mistakes in grading of those tests and quizzes. As a result he placed into Ms. Sturn's record the deficiency alluded to. Dr. Seitz continued by noting that throughout the year questions were raised concerning Mr. Sturn's practice of allowing students to grade tests of other students in the class. He noted that the practice had also been discussed with the petitioner and she had been verbally directed by the principal to cease the practice. Dr. Seitz also sent a memo to Ms. Sturn because he noted that the practice, notwithstanding his verbal admonition to the contrary, continued and directed her specifically that it was not to be done except in very specific situations where the exchange of papers was appropriate. (T II at 123). Ms. Sturn in her testimony acknowledged discussing the practice of allowing students to grade their own quizzes and tests with Dr. Seitz and also acknowledged receiving parental complaints about the practice.

The final area which was identified by Dr. Seitz as one which demonstrated Ms. Sturn's failure to meet her responsibilities went to classroom control for which Ms. Sturn received a 3 rating. Dr. Seitz essentially concluded that Ms. Sturn failed to demonstrate reasonable and sufficient classroom control based upon what he deemed to be an excessive number of disciplinary referrals. Dr. Seitz reviewed a the record of the disciplinary problems experienced by Ms. Sturn in her classroom for the school year which was prepared by Mr. Steven Novak, Jr. Mr. Novak has been employed by the South Plainfield Board of Education for some 24 years and has served as the Coordinator of Discipline for the South Plainfield High School for the school year 1989-90. The memorandum chronicles what may reasonably be described as a significant number of disciplinary referrals undertaken by Ms. Sturn during the school year at issue. Mr. Novak notes that there were some 63 disciplinary forms written concerning some 21 students for which various actions were required to be taken. In addition many other requests were made by Ms. Sturn in writing for which no action was taken by his office. He notes as well that on many occasions, citing specifically some 4 to 5 per week, students were sent out of Ms. Sturn's class at her behest and required to sit in his office. Mr. Novak in his testimony and in his memorandum noted that he met with Ms. Sturn some 8 to 9 times to discuss the problem and he also met with Ms. Sturn's supervisor on 2 or 3 occasions to discuss the problem as well. The memorandum, which was dated March 27, 1990, indicates that during the last three weeks matters "have been worse than usual." (R-1 at 9) Attached to the memorandum is a photocopy of a computer printout which catalogs the students in Ms. Sturn's classroom who on various occasions were required to be sent out of her room for disciplinary reasons. In addition Dr. Seitz testified that he had received parental complaints concerning problems with discipline in Ms. Sturn's classroom as well. Based upon those complaints and based especially upon Dr. Seitz's review of the record of disciplinary problems in Ms. Sturn's classroom prepared by Mr. Novak, Dr. Seitz concluded that Ms. Sturn was not reasonably taking proper action to control her class. He notes in his testimony that he found the number of disciplinary referrals to be excessive and unsettling. The assessment indicated to him that Ms. Sturn:

> had never clearly established control of that class. Discipline is an ongoing process. Its not simply a matter of setting up rules and regulations and then sending the kids to the coordinator of discipline when they violate those rules and regulations. There's a need to establish a rapport with the students. A need to establish a relationship with the students where you demonstrate respect for them and they demonstrate respect for you. In reviewing the report from Mr. Novak, R-1, it was clear to me that Ms. Sturn had not done that. She had not established effective procedures, routines for dealing with the students. In addition, just the sheer number from her classes were very unsettling. (T II at 125:8-4)

While Dr. Seitz did not specifically observe disciplinary problems in her classroom during the March 29, 1990 observation, he did testify to an incident that he observed which supported his overall assessment of Ms. Sturn's failure to take appropriate control. During the class Ms. Sturn had indicated to the students that the lesson was going to address itself to a variety of questions which had not been addressed during an earlier lesson. Dr. Seitz testified:

> At that point the students started to call out and say that they had not covered 4 questions the day before. So after a brief exchange, Ms. Sturn decided to go back over the four questions again. At the time I didn't know whether or not she > had covered them. If found out yesterday that she indeed had covered them. So rather than establish that she was in control of the class and not proceed to repeat the four questions and waste instructional time, she gave into the students and repeated the 4 questions. I found that unacceptable. [T II 126 at 17-127-4]

In independently assessing the records set forth in R-1, Mr. Novak indicates that Ms. Sturn had 63 formal referrals plus an additional unreported 14 referrals within two days after she had acknowledged that she was unable to control a study hall after her request to be relieved of that duty had been denied. Mr. Novak's testimony also indicated that in March 1990, six months after the school year had begun, things had gotten worse and Ms. Sturn was sending students to him at the rate of 3 to 4 times weekly. In addition, some 4 or 5 students whom she had characterized as being particularly difficult were no longer being referred for discipline by other teachers. Mr. Novak also testified that during the school year he had conversations with a number of students and they informed him that in their judgment Ms. Sturn was overreacting to circumstances in the classroom. Some of these students also informed Mr. Novak that "they were not in trouble in other classes, only in this particular class. Those were the contents of a lot of the conversation. That the teacher had lost control of those classes." (T I at 186.)

Dr. Seitz reaffirms the assessment that was made in his testimony and in the various exhibits in support of that testimony when he memorialized his concerns in the Total Performance Evaluation/Professional Improvement Plan provided to Ms. Sturn on April 6, 1990 (J-9). In addition to identifying those areas that have been discussed in which Dr. Seitz concluded that Ms. Sturn was not meeting her responsibilities, i.e., instruction, planning and preparation, and classroom control, the principal also indicated that Ms. Sturn needed improvement in the areas of contribution to the total school effort, professional growth and personal qualities. these latter three areas of performance along with classroom management resulted in Ms. Sturn's being rated as 2. As will be recalled a rating of 2 in these areas indicates that a teacher is meeting the job responsibilities but might enhance her effectiveness by suggestion. In respect to instruction, Dr. Seitz specifically suggests as a means of improvement that Ms. Sturn:

> Provide opportunity for students to identify and to summarize in their own words at the close of each class period. This recommendation for instructional improvement had been made in 1988 and 1989 with no apparent improvement in the current school year. [J-9 at 3]

Clearly the foregoing refers to the issue of closure.

Dr. Seitz at page 4 of exhibit J-9 specifically addresses himself to his perception that Ms. Sturn's grading of tests and quizzes employed unacceptable procedures and techniques. The principal notes:

> Administers tests to evaluate student achievement in knowledge and skills - A review of tests administered by Ms. Sturn reveals gross inaccuracies in the grading practices. As a result, student achievement in knowledge and skills is not accurately evaluated. Ms. Sturn must personally grade each test and quiz and insure that each item is evaluated consistently from student to student, from class to class.

Dr. Seitz also addresses Ms. Sturn specifically in respect to his perception that her submission and preparation of lesson plans was wanting. He notes that she should:

> Plan[s] on daily and/or long term basis - weekly plans for classroom instruction should be submitted more punctually. [J-9 at 4]

The issue of classroom control is addressed specifically and at length. Dr. Seitz notes that Ms. Sturn should establish:

> [S]ystematic and effective procedural class routines. A review of referrals made by Ms. Sturn to the coordinator of discipline's office indicates that she has not established effective procedural class routines. In a two-day period in March Ms. Sturn sent 14 students to the coordinator of discipline's office. This type of effectiveness is unacceptable. [J-9 at 4]

Dr. Seitz then proceeds to set forth the protocol of action which he recommends Ms. Sturn take which is designed increase classroom control.

It should also be noted that in J-9 Dr. Seitz acknowledges and notes the strengths that he perceives in Ms. Sturn as a teacher. He perceives that she demonstrates a knowledge and comprehension of her subject matter; that her lessons evidence "preparation and organization," and that she provides reinforcement of learning and immediate feedback to her students. He also observes a variety of other characteristics which warrant more than satisfactory performance. Thus, while the decision by Dr. Seitz to recommend an increment denial certainly was convincing to him and did not require any undue deliberation, Dr. Seitz was not unmindful that Ms. Sturn does possess qualifications of a teacher that are positive and proving. Indeed this should be the case given that Ms. Sturn has been a faculty member for some 20 years having been given tenure and having been awarded increments for at least the last 10 of those years. Thus while Dr. Seitz clearly viewed Ms. Sturn's performance with skepticism in respect to its quality, in my view he also viewed her work in its entirety in areas which were also positive. In my judgment this reinforces the credibility of the observations, perceptions and conclusions arrived at by Dr. Seitz in respect to the recommendations which he made to respondent that the increment be denied.

The challenge by the petitioner to the substantive basis under which the decision to recommend the increment denial was made shall now be addressed. It bears reemphasis, however, that this challenge must be viewed within the limited scope of the Commissioner's review as set forth and articulated previously in this decision. Neither I nor the Commissioner can properly redetermine for himself whether the petitioner had in fact been unsatisfactory as a teacher. Rather the scope of review is for the Commissioner not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions. Accordingly, and pursuant to that standard in respect to the substantive basis under which the respondent Board denied Ms. Sturn's increment, the petitioner's challenge to that decision can only be viewed based upon the following:

1. Where the underlying facts as those who made the evaluations purport them to be?

2. Was it unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious for the Board to conclude as it did based upon those facts?

The burden in respect to seeking to establish that the facts are other than they were set out to be before the Board and that the local Board's determination based upon an evaluation and analysis of those facts was unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious rests upon Ms. Sturn. In my view and giving the petitioner's arguments every favorable interpretation she has not been able to meet her burden of proof in respect to establishing that from a substantive perspective either the underlying facts were other than they were purported to be or that the decision of the Board to conclude that the increment denial was justified based upon those facts was arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious.

In respect to the issue of "closure," Mr. Friedman in his post-hearing submission argues that the obligation of a teacher to utilize this technique applies only to the conclusion of a "lesson" rather than to the conclusion of a class "period." While it is correct that the Teacher's Handbook in defining the parameters of the instructional program notes that at the end of "the lesson" students should be able to identify the learning in their own words, I am satisfied that from Dr. Seitz's testimony and his expertise as an educator that the notion of closure encompasses matters beyond the niceties of a distinction of what is a lesson and what is a class period. Dr. Seitz in his testimony noted specifically as well that the issue of closure was discussed personally with Ms. Sturn not only during the school year 1989 but also in the school year 1988. He also noted that it was mentioned as an incident to the observations conducted of Ms. Sturn on February 21, by Ms. De Simon. (T II 110) The argument offered by Mr. Friedman that in order for an increment withholding to be sustained, it must be demonstrated that the staff member's superiors notified him or her of a deficiency during the school year upon which the increment withholding was based does not apply to the facts relative to closure as Dr. Seitz's testimony demonstrated that Ms. Sturn had been specifically advised on several occasions in respect to a failure to properly close during the school year in which her increment was indeed denied.

In respect to the deficiency perceived by respondent concerning Ms. Sturn's practices of grading tests and quizzes, Mr. Friedman offers no substantive argument in opposition to the Board's findings; rather he relies exclusively on a procedural argument that will be addressed subsequently in this opinion the gravamen of which is that the petitioner was never placed on proper notice that her methods of grading were deficient.

In respect to the assessment of Ms. Sturn as being unable to properly and reasonably control or discipline her class, Mr. Friedman initially asserts that the proofs of respondent were based solely on hearsay with no competent evidence to support it. While Mr. Friedman may be correct in citing the proposition that an increment withholding must be supported by a residuum of competent evidence, see E. G. Colavita v. Hillsboro Board of Education, 1985 S.L.D. 1882 (app. div.), that proposition does not address itself to the narrower question of whether the underlying facts were those that the evaluators purported them to be. In respect to the issue of discipline, the evidence went beyond mere hearsay and included a variety of information available to respondent including Ms. Sturn's classroom discipline record (R-1), the parental complaints that were made directly to Dr. Seitz and Ms. Sturn's own acknowledgment that she made "far greater referrals" for discipline than in "any ordinary year." (T I at 60) In addition, as will be recalled, the testimony of Mr. Novak, the coordinator of discipline, also furnished support to respondent's determination that a disciplinary problem did exist from the facts presented. While one can, of course, never conclude that the mere numbers alone of disciplinary referrals justifies a determination that it is the teacher who is responsible for the referrals rather than the students themselves, the numbers presented by respondent were by comparison excessive and when combined with the other evidence adduced, i.e., Ms. Sturn's acknowledged inability to control the study hall and her request to be relieved of this duty, it cannot be said that the decision that the Board made which relied upon Ms. Sturn's inability to discipline her classroom was unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious. I say this without being unmindful of the other plausible explanations that may be elicited in respect to the disciplinary issue given that there were students who also experienced problems with other teachers. The record, however, is sufficient and its scope of review concomitantly narrow that the decision arrived at in this regard should not be overturned.

It should also be noted that to the best of my knowledge the petitioner did not seek to overturn as substantively improper respondent's justification for the increment denial which rested upon Ms. Sturn's failure to set forth the objectives of the class on the blackboard and her failure to timely and consistently provide lesson plans to her supervisors.*

Accordingly and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence that the action of the Board in denying the petitioner her increment was arbitrary, capricious and without a reasonable substantive basis.

The other prong of Ms. Sturn's appeal addresses itself to the position that the Board decision which denied her increment was inconsistent with its own policies and regulations. The language used in these policies while providing some general

* While there was some reference raised by the petitioner at hearing in respect to absenteeism as serving as a basis for increment denial, and while petitioner also discusses the issue in his post-hearing submission, see petitioner's post-hearing brief at 22-23, it was clear by the representation made by counsel and by the absence of any evidence presented by Mr. Cirafesi in this regard, that absenteeism played no role in the increment denial.

assurances, in my view allows for flexibility in making increment - withholding decisions. There is no indication that the policy statements were all inclusive or were intended to be so. Specifically the petitioner argues that the Board's decision was inconsistent with a provision of its Staff, Evaluation, Purposes and Procedures (J-6) as well as inconsistent with its Personnel Regulations No. 4016 "Withholding an Increment" (J-7). The Board argues that its actions were not inconsistent with its stated policies and were in all respects reasonably based.

The proper approach to considering increment denial cases is well established and should apply to arguments addressed to any purported procedural irregularity as well. The withholding of an adjustment and/or an employment increment is generally an exercise of "essential managerial prerogative" authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, which provides that a board of education may withhold for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment and/or adjustment increment of any teaching staff member in any year. See, e.g., Probst v. Haddonfield BOE, 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). In the Probst decision, the New Jersey Supreme Court reminds that (quoting Board of Education v. Bernards Township Education Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311, 321 (1979)) "The purpose of [Section 14] is thus to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance." The Court also reinforces its earlier recognition in North Plainfield Education Ass'n v. Board of Education, 96 N.J. 587 (1984), that salary increments are a "reward for meritorious service." Id.

As noted, the above-mentioned guideposts for traversing the typical increment denial cases are firmly in place. In the instant matter, however, the local board has erected a few additional "signs" (in the form of certain policies) which must also be considered. Indeed, a definitive interpretation of the following policies is central to resolving this dispute.

A. Staff Evaluation Purposes and Procedures (Exh. J-6)

The South Plainfield Public Schools', "Staff Evaluation Purposes" document, dated September 1989 (and undisputedly in effect at all relevant times in the instant matter), at paragraph numbered 11 states, in pertinent part:

> . . . . Any tenured staff member who has an overall evaluation of three (3) on two (2) consecutive evaluations will be subject to having his increment withheld. Each administrator will be responsible for documenting and recommending those staff members whose lack > of performance warrants withholding of increments. (J-6, Staff Eval. Purposes and Procedures, Para. 11, page 3).

B. Personnel Regulation No. 4016 (J-7)

The Board's Personnel Regulation No. 4016, entitled "Withholding an Increment," states, in pertinent part:

> . . . . As a general policy, the Board will not withhold a salary increment on the basis of a single poor evaluation or a single incident except in flagrant cases. A staff member will generally be given a minimum of 90 days to demonstrate the effectiveness of the recommended remedial action before punitive action is taken. (J-7).

Local school boards are charged by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c) with making, amending, and repealing rules for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of their employees. The "policies" here at issue are rules which fall comfortably within this mandatory power. But, once a board has established such rules, logic and case law suggest those policies are then binding on the board. See, Matawan Teachers Ass'n v. Matawan-Aberdeen Reg. Sch. Dist., 223 N.J. Super. 504 (App. Div. 1988) ("[i]n the absence of any statute to the contrary, the board's bylaw . . . is binding"); Bergen County Vo-Tech Educ. Ass'n v. Bergen County Vo-Tech BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1428-87 (May 27, 1987), rev'd, Comm'r dec. on remand from app. div. (July 8, 1987) (the Commissioner, while acknowledging that a board is not absolutely bound by its own policies when no vested rights are involved, overturned the board's action since it failed to follow its own properly adopted policy which had created an additional procedural right.) Thus, it seems clear that if the board's decision to withhold Ms. Sturn's increment is found to be inconsistent with the policies, the failure to follow its own policies should be viewed as arbitrary and unreasonable.

Preliminarily, it should be noted that since both policies deal with the same subject--the withholding of increments -- and taken alone are not unambiguous, it will be appropriate to construe them together (as with statutes in para materia). Still, it is helpful to first examine them on their own terms.

A. Staff Evaluation Policies and Procedures (J-6)

Petitioner first challenges the consistency of the Board's decision with paragraph 11 of the S.E.P.P. document. Since the Petitioner received only one overall evaluation rating of three (in 1989-1990), with ratings of one on her previous nine years' overall evaluations, petitioner correctly notes that the Board's decision could not possibly have been based on two consecutive overall evaluations of three. Petitioner then reads paragraph 11 as requiring two consecutive overall evaluations of three before a teacher's increment is subject to withholding. Petitioner cites no case law nor principles of construction to support this reading, apparently relying upon the plain meaning of the statement.

The Board, on the other hand, posits that the statement was not intended to be all-inclusive, or intended to place a limitation on the circumstances in which an increment can be withheld. The Board argues that specifying that two consecutive overall evaluations of three will subject a teacher to increment withholding does not preclude withholding under such circumstances as are present in the instant matter.

There is no reported case involving this particular policy or involving any similar policies concerning the use of a certain number of evaluations in increment withholding decisions. The Board is correct in noting that there are a variety of decisions in which increment denials have been upheld for reasons both inside and outside the formal evaluation process. Respondent's brief at 2. Indeed, in one case based on evaluations, the Commissioner of Education noted, as did the ALJ, that "even a satisfactory summary year-end evaluation does not necessarily preclude a Board from acting to withhold an increment related to activities which took place during that school year.* Darden v. Butler BOE, OAL Dkt No. 4386-85 (Jan. 17, 1986), adopted by Comm'r (Mar. 7, 1986). Such increment cases, however, merely tell us that in the absence of such a policy (as paragraph 11 of the S.E.P.P. document), there has been no requirement for the withholding to be based on any specific number of evaluations. Thus, the question remains whether the policy as stated creates such a requirement.

There is only a vague indication of the Board's prior practice in interpreting the policies. In his direct testimony, Dr. Seitz stated that "there have been precedents in the school district where teachers who have received an overall rating of two on their evaluations have received denial of increments and that had [sic] been upheld." T II at 130; See also, T II at 173. No examples of these precedents were provided, however. As for matters involving one-year of a three rating, there is no indication that an increment had been withheld in the past. Dr. Seitz explained only that his understanding of the policy is that it allows for withholding when there is one year of an overall three rating. See, T II at 170 (basing his understanding on the last sentence of paragraph 11). His direct testimony states as follows:

> My understanding is that item 11 speaks to the minimum. That if this teacher . . . does get two overall evaluations of three, [then] you must deny the increment. It does not say you can't deny [an] increment for an overall rating of two or one year of three. (emphasis added). T II at 135.

So, what is properly the first resort appears to be the only resort--the policy's language. The language used in the statement--"[a]ny tenured staff member who has an overall evaluation of three (3) on two (2) consecutive evaluations will be subject to having his increment withheld"-- leaves no doubt as to the situations it addresses. The statement clearly applies when there are two "threes". However, the statement does not address, and, consequently, it is unclear what should happen in other situations (e.g., one "three"). Thus, the question of interpretation simply stated is whether the statement is all-inclusive or not.

In my view, the interpretation offered by the Board--that the statement was not meant to be all-inclusive --- is more persuasive. The statement establishes a criterion -- two "threes"-- which will trigger close scrutiny of the teacher's performance record and "subject [her] to" having her increment withheld. The triggering of such scrutiny is definitive, but the withholding is not. There is still a discretion/flexibility afforded by the words "subject to". It seems appropriate to view the statement as a trigger for "catching" those cases which have progessed to the point of two years of "overall threes" (a "worst case scenario"), without limiting the Board from withholding in other circumstances. Paragraph 11 (or for that matter, the entire S.E.P.P. document) does not specifically provide assurances that unless a teacher has two "overall threes" that teacher is somehow protected from being denied an increment regardless of the factors. Nevertheless, there is merit in the argument that by stating one criterion all other circumstances not meeting the one criterion are by implication ruled out. In the end, my agreement with the Board's interpretation is (given the two opposing yet both plausible readings of the S.E.P.P. document) most influenced by reading the statement in conjunction with the other increment-withholding policy -- Regulation No. 4016. That policy's language, as will be discussed below, indicates that a fairly flexible approach is afforded the Board in deciding to withhold increments.

B. Personnel Regulation No. 4016 (J-7)

Petitioner also argues that the Board failed to comply in two respects with the policies contained in Regulation No. 4016. The first perceived inconsistency involves the Regulation's provision that "[a]s a general policy, the Board will not withhold a salary increment on the basis of a single poor evaluation or a single incident except in flagrant cases." Petitioner contends that the withholding in her case was made on the basis of a single poor evaluation. This, the Petitioner asserts, clearly violates the terms of the policy.

In response to this first challenge under Regulation No. 4016, the Board argues that Petitioner is similarly misreading this policy "as an absolute, all-inclusive prohibition to withholding increments absent more than one 'poor evaluation'." Respondent's brief at 5. The Board focuses on the use of the phrase "as a general policy" which, in its opinion, "purposefully allows for increment withholdings in other cases." Id. at 4. The Board's position is that the policy was written to allow for some flexibility.

The Board's interpretation is the more persuasive. The use of the introductory clause "as a general policy" does indicate that the Board retains discretion to withhold even in cases where there is only a single poor evaluation. While the phrase "except in flagrant cases" would seem to confine the Board's discretion, this phrase should be read as modifying "a single incident"-- which is not the basis in this case.

On the whole, the provisions of Regulation No. 4016 seem to provide a teacher with assurances that a single poor evaluation will usually not lead to increment withholding--that is, the policy contains some assurances but these are not absolute. Indeed, the policy explicitly states in its opening paragraph that increments "shall not be considered automatic." Since a general policy by definition allows for exceptions, even when an action does not follow the general rule of the policy it cannot be said to be inconsistent with the policy. That is, of course, unless the policy specifically limits the class of exceptions to exclude that type of exception. Here the Board's decision to withhold petitioner's increment, even where petitioner received only one poor evaluation, can be viewed, if otherwise reasonably based, as an allowable exception to the general policy.

Petitioner additionally contends that the Board failed to follow another another of Regulation No. 4016's provisions--the statement which reads "[a] staff member will generally be given a minimum of 90 days to demonstrate the effectiveness of the recommended remedial action before punitive action is taken." Ms. Sturn argues that even where there is no policy or procedure, a board must give notice to the teacher of the specific deficiencies, and must provide instruction or assistance in overcoming those deficiencies before the increment can be withheld. Petitioner's brief at 10. Moreover, since this Board adopted the policy contained in Regulation No. 4016 (which according to petitioner "tracks the Tenure Act") petitioner suggests that the notice requirement is even more specific -- requiring at least ninety days notice of the deficiency and establishment of a remedial plan to correct it. Id. Petitioner claims that she received no notice that her responsibilities were not being effectively met or that withholding loomed, during the appropriate period -- i.e., within the 1989-90 school year but prior to the 90-days immediately preceding the withholding decision. Petitioner's brief at 11.

The Board counters petitioner's lack of notice contentions by arguing that the ninety day provision in Regulation No. 4016 is "merely a general directive that teachers be given ninety (90) days to demonstrate effective remedial action, not a directive to give ninety (90) days notice of an intention to withhold an increment." Respondent's brief at 13. The Board maintains it fully complied with this policy since petitioner was "given sufficient time and opportunity to improve her performance" in each of the five areas cited by Dr. Seitz. Id.

Petitioner's lack of notice argument is not persuasive. The excessive absenteeism cases which petitioner references have little impact on the notice question here. In those cases, the particular notice that was required is specific to that type of denial -- an absenteeism-based denial. See, Vonita Smith v. Trenton BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5255-88 (March 6, 1989) adopted by Comm'r (April 18, 1989); Kochman v. Keansburg BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9682-90 (on remand April 29, 1991), adopted on remand by Comm'r (June 12, 1991). The absenteeism/withholding case law specifies that a concern for the continuity of instruction must be conveyed to the staff member by his or her supervisors in a manner that is not merely pro forma or mechanistic. See, e.g., Kochman, supra. Increment withholding case law involving unsatisfactory performance and evaluations provides a better indication of what notice is required in the instant matter.

The State Board, in Yorke v. Piscataway BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9267-88 (Aug. 10, 1989), rev'd Comm'r (Sept. 18, 1989), rev'd State Board (July 5, 1990), rejected the petitioner's argument that the board's action was unreasonable in that she had received no advance notice that her performance was viewed as being so deficient as to result in the withholding of her increments. In so deciding, the State Board noted that the "underlying purpose behind the evaluation procedure is to ensure that a teacher receives adequate notice of any unsatisfactory performance and of ways to improve performance." Id. Since concerns about her teaching performance were brought to the teacher's attention during various observations that year and the evaluations noted deficiencies, adequate notice was given. Indeed, the State Board remarked, ". . . while Petitioner may not have known with certainty that a recommendaton would be made to withhold her increments, an unfavorable evaluation should not have surprised her." Id.

In Loewengart v. Randolph BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5721-87 (June 20, 1988), adopted by Comm'r (July 29, 1988), the Commissioner concluded that it could not be said that "no notice or insufficient notice was provided or that the withholding came as a surprise." The petitioner "knew or should have known" early in the year that the principal who evaluates her performance was concerned about various aspects of it. The petitioner also was given, early on, a variety of suggestions as aids for improvement. The Commissioner noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 has no requirement for advance written notice of the intent to withhold. Rather, it requires that within 10 days following its action a board must notify the employee of the reasons why the increment is being withheld.

The Commissioner, in Rosania v. Middlesex BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5723-87, EDU 5303-86, Remanded (Dec. 14, 1987), adopted with modification on remand by Comm'r (Jan. 22, 1988), noted that case law has established the requirement of some notice and opportunity to correct defects in a withholding case; however, the Commissioner also emphasized that this requirement of notice and opportunity to correct defects in a withholding matter "certainly do[es] not rise to that required in a tenure matter." Id.

A case in which notice was found to be lacking is Carney v. Freehold Reg'l High School BOE, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6356-83 (June 12, 1984), adopted Comm'r (July 20, 1984), aff'd St. Bd. (Feb. 1, 1985). The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's holding that:

> In order for an increment to be withheld and the withholding to be sustained on review, the withholding must not come as a surprise to the teaching staff member, as I am convinced it did here. The teaching staff member shall have plenty of advance notice of the alleged deficiencies and there should be a reasonable length of time between evaluations to allow for improvement.

In the instant matter, the 90-day provision of Regulation No. 4016, aside from placing a specific timeframe for the notice, does not add significantly to those general notice principles expressed in the increment withholding cases above. Again, the use of the term "generally" provides some flexibility (perhaps, as to the timeframe, but certainly does not give the flexibility to contravene the notice principles established by case law). The opportunity "to demonstrate the effectiveness of the recommended remedial action" before the withholding takes place can be read as reflecting "the opportunity to correct defects" recognized by case law. "[R]ecommended remedial action" can fairly be likened to "suggestions for improvement" as discussed in case law, and, it seems, should not be read to necessarily require formalized plans which go beyond suggestions.

In my view, Ms. Sturn knew or should have known during the course of the 1989-90 school year of the areas of concern expressed by the administration regarding her performance. Petitioner had specific and timely (especially considering the flexibility afforded by the term "generally") identification of certain deficiencies. The October 26, 1989 observation clearly indicates that the area of "Instruction" needs improvement. See, J-3. It further provides specific suggestions for improving her "statement of objectives" problem as well as her "closure" problem. Petitioner was made aware of these concerns in prior years' observations. The two later observations, Feb. 21, 1990 (J-4) and Nov. 29, 1990 (J-5) provide more specific suggestions and note that improvement is still needed in the area of instruction and also in the areas of planning and preparation and classrooom control. It is unreasonable for petitioner to contend that she was surprised, without help in remediating her deficiency, or without sufficient opportunity to remediate the noted inefficiencies or deficiencies cited by her supervisors.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE the petitioner has been unable to establish by a preponderance of the relevant evidence the respondent's decision to deny her increment was procedurally defective.

It is therefore ORDERED that the determination of respondent Board of Education which denied the petitioner's salary increment for the 1990-91 school year be and is hereby SUSTAINED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ELLEN STURN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOUTH PLAINFIELD, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions reiterate those arguments presented at hearing, challenging that portion of the ALJ's decision relating to procedural irregularities, which found that the Board did not violate its own policies and regulations by denying petitioner's increment for the 1989-90 school year and finding that she was granted sufficient notice and an opportunity to remediate her deficiencies.

More specifically, petitioner claims in Exception I that the ALJ erred in concluding that the Board did not violate its own policies by relying on only one evaluation of three in denying her increment for 1990. She relies on a reading of the Board's Staff Evaluation Purposes and Procedures (hereinafter SEPP) (Exhibit J-6), and the Board's Personnel Regulation No. 4016 (Exhibit J-7) for the proposition that because the Board based its decision to withhold Ms. Sturn's increment on one poor evaluation, the March 1990 summary evaluation, and because it is undisputed that the circumstances underlying the denial of her increment were not flagrant, the ALJ erred in finding that the Board did not violate these policies by relying on that one poor evaluation to deny her increment.

At Exception II, petitioner avers the ALJ erred in concluding that the Board did not violate the 90-day notice provision in Regulation No. 4016, and that the Board gave her sufficient notice and an opportunity to correct her deficiencies. Citing the case law discussed in the initial decision, petitioner reasserts her claim that her right to at least 90 days' notice and an opportunity to correct her deficiencies was violated pursuant to Board's Regulation No. 4016.

Further, petitioner contends the ALJ disregarded the notice and remediation principles required by Regulation No. 4016 by relying on the February 21, 1990 (J-4) and March 29, 1990 (J-5) observations as a basis for upholding the Board's decision to withhold her increment. She contends she improved her performance in the area of objectives, and that contrary to the ALJ's opinion, the areas of classroom control, test practices and lesson plans were not targeted until February 21, 1990, thus granting her insufficient opportunity to improve prior to the summary evaluation of March 1990. Finally, she argues that as to the issue of closure to lessons, the principal's findings in the March 29, 1990 observation are significantly compromised by the fact that he did not observe the entire class. Thus, petitioner submits, the Board violated its own policies and her procedural rights established in school law by failing to notify her of her deficiencies in sufficient time to allow her to improve her performance.

At Exception III, petitioner claims the ALJ erred in relying on the March 29, 1990 observation as a basis for his decision and completely disregarded the Board's policies. She suggests that the ALJ did not address the two deficiencies in this report, thus requiring that his decision be reversed. In support of this contention petitioner cites SEPP (J-6) at paragraph 2, that observations for evaluation purposes "will be conducted for a minimum of one class period for secondary teachers" and, in addition, that the same paragraph further requires that observations be spaced apart.

For these reasons, petitioner submits that the ALJ's determination should be reversed and the Board should be ordered to restore her increment.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner adopts as his own the conclusions of the Office of Administrative Law that petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of the relevant evidence that the Board's decision to deny her increment for the school year in question was procedurally defective. It is noted that neither at hearing nor in her exceptions did petitioner contest the underlying substantive bases for the withholding in question, per se, instead arguing that consideration of such aspects of her performance that were allegedly found to be wanting could not be considered because of procedural flaws in the evaluation process based on the Board's policies. Hence, the Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of meeting the first prong of the standard of review extant in withholding cases as set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 296 (App. Div. 1960), regarding whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluations purport them to be.

In looking to the second prong of Kopera, supra, that is, to decide whether it was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious for the Board, based upon those facts, to deny the increment in question, the Commissioner is persuaded that the ALJ's thorough and cogent review of this matter carefully considered those arguments raised by petitioner at hearing and in exceptions and, further, that the conclusions of law drawn therefrom dispose of those arguments tendered by petitioner. In so finding, it bears emphasizing that the matter herein is not a tenure dismissal case; therefore, the notice requirements do not rise to those expressed in statute regarding tenure charges of inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. Neither may it be argued in this matter that notice by the Board that absences negatively impact upon the continuity of instruction was lacking, as discussed in such case law as Vonita Smith v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 1989 S.L.D. 1495, because such concern is not at issue in this case. See initial decision at pp. 20-21.

Finally, regarding the lesson closure argument petitioner raises in exceptions, it is noted that J-9, Total Performance Evaluation/Professional Improvement Plan, which addresses closure, is a final annual evaluation, the synthesis of the entire year's performance and observations. Review of J-5, the March observation conducted by the principal, indicates that he was present in the classroom sufficient time to note the absence of closure for the lesson on Thoreau. The Commissioner thus deems the comments contained in J-5 and J-9 regarding petitioner's lack of closure to have been sufficiently documented, and therefore not an arbitrary or unreasonable basis for withholding petitioner's increment.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision as amplified herein, the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

Record Closed: September 11, 1992 Decided: September 22, 1992

BEFORE NAOMI DOWER-LABASTILLE, ALJ:

Petitioner claimed tenure entitlement as a teacher of Health, and alleged that the Board assigned a non-tenured or less senior teacher than he to fill a position.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 25, 1992, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached stipulation indicating the terms of settlement.

I have review the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings by concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The parties to this matter, through their respective counsel, hereby agree that this matter shall be deemed settled and resolved on the following terms:

1. The parties recognize that the Petition of Appeal alleges that Petitioner should have been assigned to a position as teacher of Health, under his Instructional certificate-Health endorsement, effective March 18, 1992.

2. Prior to March 18, 1992, the position in dispute required Instructional certification with endorsements as a teacher of Health and Physical Education, but Petitioner only holds an endorsement as a teacher of Health.

3. On March 18, 1992, the position was altered so that only the endorsement as a teacher of Health was required.

4. On April 6, 1992, Respondent recalled Petitioner to the disputed position, as a teacher of Health.

5. The parties agree that Petitioner should have been recalled to the position effective March 18, 1992.

6. In settlement of all claims, the parties agree that Mr. Hughes will be fully compensated by the Respondent, for the period of March 18, 1992, through April 6, 1992, as if assigned to the position.

7. Respondent's obligation as such will be to provide Mr. Hughes with the salary he would have received if assigned to the position, from March 18, 1992, together with all benefits and emoluments, including but not limited to fringe benefits, sick leave, pension credit, and seniority credit, that he would have accrued or been provided with if in the position as of March 18, 1992.

8. The payment of such salary and provision of such benefits and emoluments will be without prejudice to Petitioner's entitlement to appropriate compensation, benefits, and emoluments for employment on and after April 6, 1992.

9. The payment of such salary shall be made within thirty (30) days of the Commissioner's approval of this agreement.

10. Both counsel, by signing this agreement, represent to the Court that they are authorized to enter into this agreement on behalf of their respective clients.

11. This agreement is subject to approval by the

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that he cannot accept the proposed settlement in its present form, as it contains terms which would prevent the Board and its agents from making a full and forthright disclosure of the circumstances of a teaching staff member's resignation and its assessment of her performance, a matter of particular concern to the Commissioner where the teacher has received an unsatisfactory evaluation and may well seek employment in another public school district. In view of his duty toward public school districts statewide, the Commissioner cannot hold such a result consistent with sound educational policy and the best interests of students.

Neither can he condone, as an acceptable condition of settlement, alteration of a teaching staff member's evaluation documents in a way that misrepresents the district's true assessment of his or her performance, such as would occur herein by changing the evaluator's assessment from "not recommended" for reemployment and increment to "resigned, no recommendation." Once again, while such a result may serve the immediate needs of the parties to a proposed settlement, it does not serve the greater interests of the public school system statewide and therefore cannot be permitted by the Commissioner in the context of an agreement submitted for his approval and endorsement.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is reversed and the instant matter remanded for revision of the settlement document consistent with the principles set forth herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Upon review of the record in this matter and the terms of the settlement proposed by the parties, we find, as did the Administrative Law Judge, that the proposed settlement is consistent with law and meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. In that we further find that the terms of the settlement adequately protect the public interest and in no way jeopardize the interests of New Jersey's public school districts, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner and direct that she accept the settlement in this matter. In so doing, however, we remind the district Board of its ongoing obligation to assure that its personnel do not engage in discriminatory conduct.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, librarian/media specialist riffed from her position, alleged Board violated her tenure rights by assigning nontenured staff to English position for which she was certified. Petitioner sought summary decision as to whether she was entitled, by virtue of her instructional certificate in English and her certification and employment within the district as media specialist, to claim position as English teacher held by nontenured staff member.

Commissioner determined petitioner was not entitled to relief she sought. Commissioner found petitioner had achieved tenure within the position of "educational services" but not within the separately enumerated position of "teacher." (Kish; Ellicott) Thus, she could not claim entitlement to latter position by tenure right. Petition was dismissed.

HARRIET WALLEN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RANCOCAS VALLEY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Harriet Wallen, Pro Se*

For Respondent, Ernest A. Spinello, Jr., Esq. (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, P.C.)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on May 16, 1991, wherein petitioner alleged that her tenure rights were violated, following her reduction in force (RIF) from the position of media specialist, by the Board's assignment of nontenured staff to English positions for which she was properly certificated. Upon receipt of the Board's Answer admitting petitioner's factual assertions but denying her conclusions of law, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further proceedings.

* Petitioner appointed William Wallen, Esq. (Sacks, Basch, Weston & Sacks) as her representative in this matter at the time of submission of her primary brief, which was prepared by Wallen, as was petitioner's reply to the Board's brief. All subsequent filings, however, were submitted pro se, as were all filings prior to the primary brief.

On July 3, 1991, petitioner requested that, as no facts were in dispute between the parties, the Commissioner decide this matter directly on a summary basis pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.13. Following the Board's indication that it would join in seeking summary disposition, on July 19, 1991 the Commissioner requested return of the file from OAL, which return was duly effectuated on September 18, 1991. In accordance with an established schedule, primary briefs were filed by the parties during November 1991.

However, in a December 3, 1991 reply to the Board's brief, petitioner indicated that she would be filing under separate cover a motion to strike the Board's brief and reschedule the matter for hearing at OAL because the Board's submission included an affidavit from the district superintendent which raised new factual issues in contravention of the Board's prior agreement to have the case summarily decided on the facts set forth in the Petition of Appeal. In anticipation of such motion, the Board replied on December 10, 1991 that the disputed affidavit dealt with areas that were a matter of public record (e.g. pertinent job descriptions) and had been included to "clarify" the stipulated facts, and that the contents of the affidavit were in any event unnecessary for resolution of the instant controversy, so that no factual hearing was necessary. When petitioner filed the promised motion on January 17, 1992, she also included an affidavit from her supervisor in opposition to the affidavit of the superintendent. However, the Board was not served with the motion and affidavit until late March, and duly responded on April 3, 1992 with arguments similar to those in its prior submission; adding, however, that in the event that the Commissioner deemed the superintendent's affidavit to inappropriately contain new facts, the Board would withdraw the affidavit and rely solely on its Answer and brief.

Upon review of the entire record and consideration of the parties' arguments on the question of need for further factfinding and conduct of a plenary hearing at OAL, the Commissioner determines that this matter remains amenable to summary decision and herein renders his ruling on the merits of the appeal.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUE AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The issue in this matter is whether petitioner is entitled, by virtue of her instructional certification in English and her certification and employment within the district as a media specialist, to claim a position as English teacher held by a nontenured staff member.

The material facts of the matter are as follows:

1. Petitioner holds an instructional certificate with an English endorsement and an educational services certificate with a school media specialist endorsement, both dated April 1984 and in full force and effect throughout all times pertinent herein.

2. Petitioner was hired by the Board as a librarian/media specialist on September 1, 1985, and was subsequently rehired in this same position for the 1986-87, 1987-88, 1988-89, 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years, thus obtaining tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

3. On April 27, 1991, by majority vote of its full membership, the Board eliminated petitioner's position of school media specialist, effective July 1, 1991.

4. By letter dated April 29, 1991, petitioner claimed entitlement to a position as teacher of English held by a nontenured person pursuant to Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Ed. infra, and Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., infra.

5. On May 15. 1991, the Board, through its superintendent, informed petitioner that she would not be offered a position as English teacher notwithstanding that two such positions were held by nontenured staff. On May 16, 1991, petitioner filed the within appeal.

The Board's duly adopted job description for the position of librarian/media specialist is as follows:

I. POSITION: Librarian

PETITIONER'S ARGUMENT

Petitioner submits that because she held a valid certificate to teach English at the time of her RIF, the Board could not retain nontenured English teachers while eliminating her employment. In denying her an English position, petitioner avers, the Board wrongly relies on the seniority-related notion of experience, which was flatly rejected by the courts in determining the rights of tenured teachers versus nontenured, as against tenured teachers inter sese. Capodilupo v. West Orange Township Board of Education, 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), cert. denied 109 N.J. 514 (1987); Bednar v. Westwood Regional Board of Education, 221 N.J. Super. 239, cert. denied 110 N.J. 512 (1988) Instead, these cases stand for the proposition that in a RIF situation, a school district may not retain nontenured teachers in positions for which riffed tenured staff hold valid certificates; actual teaching experience in the position claimed or under the qualifying endorsement is not required, and its lack cannot serve to defeat a claimant's statutory tenure rights. Joseph Grosso v. Board of Education of the Borough of New Providence, Union County v. Leslie et al., State Board decision, 1990 S.L.D. 1750; Anna Lynch v. Board of Education of the West Morris Regional High School District, Morris County, 1990 S.L.D. 453; Pamela Bosco v. Board of Education of the Northern Highlands Regional School District, Bergen County, 1990 S.L.D. 1156; Catherine Lammers v. Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant, Ocean County, 1990 S.L.D. 1500

These cases also, petitioner claims, defeat the notion relied upon by the Board that because petitioner's service was under one type of certificate (educational services) and the position she claims is under another (instructional), she has no entitlement to the claimed position. Indeed, the notion of "separately tenurable" was specifically rejected by the State Board of Education in reversing two Commissioner's decisions which denied a tenured teacher's entitlement claim on the grounds that he or she had not served under the pertinent endorsement. Grosso, supra; Barbara Ellicott v. Board of Education of the Township of Frankford, Sussex County, 1990 S.L.D. 1714

Moreover, petitioner's tenure rights cannot be thwarted by the fact that her two teaching certificates were assigned by the State Board of Education to two different categories of certificate, and hence, seniority. First, any tension between tenure and seniority rights must be resolved in favor of tenure. Bednar, supra Second, although her service technically fell under an educational services certificate, she was nonetheless a teaching professional and the teaching nature of the educational media specialist position is underscored by the requirements necessary to obtain that endorsement, which include one successful year of teaching pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.17(b)(3) and 6:11-11.19(a)(2).

Petitioner submits that she earned her tenure as a teacher who taught in the library rather than in the classroom, and whose subject was research and retrieval of information; thus, for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, she falls under the tenure category of "teacher" rather than "such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners." To hold otherwise is to place form over substance and ignore the mandate of the Supreme Court that tenure rights be liberally construed. Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982)

THE BOARD'S ARGUMENT

The Board argues that the question raised by petitioner has been definitively addressed by the Commissioner and State Board of Education in Carmen DiSimoni v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District #1, Passaic County, 1990 S.L.D. 1249 and 1991 S.L.D. 2540, and Maurice Kaprow v. Board of Education of the Township of Berkeley, Ocean County, 1989 S.L.D. 2885. These cases plainly stand for the proposition that tenure is achieved in, and attaches to, a specific "position" of employment and is limited by the certificate required for such employment. The precedents primarily relied upon by petitioner, Capodilupo, supra, Bednar, supra, Ellicott, supra, and Grosso, supra, are clearly distinguishable in that in each case the position claimed was within the scope of the same certificate as that under which the claimant had served and achieved tenure; indeed, Ellicott took pains to establish the distinction between separate certificates and separate endorsements on the same certificate. Therefore, since petitioner's employment was entirely in the position of librarian/media specialist, which required her solely to hold an educational services certificate with appropriate endorsement, her tenure protection cannot extend to other certificates she may also happen to hold independent of that required for the position in which she attained tenure.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon review of the facts and arguments herein and consideration of applicable law, the Commissioner determines, for the reasons set forth below, that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks.

It is undisputed that petitioner has been employed in the district solely as a librarian/media specialist. The State Board of Education has consistently found, in the wake of the line of cases cited by petitioner, that:

> tenure is achieved within a "position," Howley v. Bd. of Ed. of Ewing Township, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, aff'd by the State Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 1554, and tenure protection as against nontenured individuals following a reduction in force extends only to assignments within that tenured position for which the individual is qualified by virtue of his or her certification. [citations omitted] Such protection does not extend to assignments within the purview of other separately tenurable positions in which the staff member has not achieved tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or 18A:28-6. (emphasis in text)

Elissa A. Kish v. Board of Education of the Borough of Elmwood Park, Bergen County, State Board decision May 6, 1992, affirming Commissioner's decision of January 16, 1992; see also Ellicott, supra; DiSimoni, supra; Kaprow, supra, State Board decision 1991 S.L.D. 2561, aff'd New Jersey Superior Court Appellate Division March 25, 1992.

More specifically, the Board has held that:

> With the exception of school nurse, assignments within the purview of the educational services certificate are not enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 as separately tenurable positions. Under regulations promulgated by the State Board, moreover, teaching staff members holding an educational services certificate are authorized and qualified for service in any assignment under that certificate for which they possess the appropriate endorsement.  Consequently, we conclude that, with the exception of school nurses, who are separately tenured by statute, staff members serving under educational services certificates achieve tenure in "educational services" and are entitled to tenure protection in all assignments within that tenurable position for which the endorsements on their certificates qualify them.
> Thus, in the instant case, we find that Petitioner, who was employed as a teaching staff member in the district under her educational services certificate since 1981, served thereunder for the requisite period of time pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and thereby achieved tenure in educational services. Ellicott, supra, 1990 S.L.D. at 1718; aff'd 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991)

Applying these holdings to the matter herein, petitioner has clearly achieved tenure within the position of "educational services" but not within the separately enumerated position of "teacher;" she cannot, then, claim entitlement to the latter position by tenure right. Nor is this determination altered by petitioner's contention that her position was that of "teacher" for tenure purposes by virtue of the duties she performed and the regulatory prerequisites for certification as a media specialist. While it is certainly true that both petitioner's position and her training included a significant instructional component, it is equally true that the positions of "teacher" and "media specialist" are substantially distinct both generally and in terms of the instant district's job descriptions, even granting every inference to petitioner by accepting completely the account of her instructional contributions provided by her supervisor in opposition to the affidavit of the district superintendent. Kish, supra, distinguishing Dennery v. Passaic Valley High Sch., 251 N.J. Super. 144 (App. Div. 1991), cert. granted _____ N.J. _____ 1992.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has no entitlement to a position as teacher of English by virtue of her tenured service as a librarian/media specialist, and the Petition of Appeal so claiming is hereby dismissed.*

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 27, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Harriet Wallen, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Stephen J. Mushinski, Esq.

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we concur with the Commissioner that the positions of "teacher" and "media specialist" are distinct. Consequently, in contrast to the positions involved in Dennery v. Passaic Valley High Sch. 251 N.J. Super. 144 (App. Div. 1991), certif. granted, 127 N.J. 561 (1992), the position of teacher does not encompass a substantial amount of the work that petitioner performed while she was employed in the position of media specialist.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH : DECISION OF LAUREL SPRINGS, CAMDEN COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning unsuccessful candidate requested inquiry into special board election held July 7, 1992, alleging irregularities in voting procedure.

ALJ found that two people did cast ballots unlawfully and could have changed outcome of the close election. Therefore, ALJ concluded new election was necessary as soon as possible.

Commissioner set aside the determination of the ALJ. Commissioner found that petitioner did not meet her burden of proof in this matter. There was no proof positive that challenged voters voted illegally or that their votes were cast against petitioner. Commissioner determined results of special election were to stand as announced on recount.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5356-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 308-7/92

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF LAUREL SPRINGS.

Donald J. Stein, Esq., for Veronica Mulhearn (Slotnick, Schwartz & Stein, attorneys)

Barbara E. Riefberg, Esq., for poll workers and Laurel Springs Board of Education (Jeffrey I. Baron, attorney)

Record Closed: September 9, 1992 Decided: September 10, 1992

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Inquiry into a special school election upon the application of a defeated candidate. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63 12.

Veronica Mulhearn, an unsuccessful candidate in a special board election requested the Commissioner to conduct an inquiry, alleging irregularities in voting procedure such as to cast the outcome of the election in doubt.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on July 13, 1992. On July 17, 1992, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Expedited scheduling was requested because of the nature of the case.

Upon receipt of the matter, the Office of Administrative Law set it down for hearing on August 27, 1992. Thereupon, the matter was assigned to this judge. Counsel had scheduling difficulties and, for good cause, the matter was scheduled for September 9, 1992, at which time it was heard at the Office of Administrative Law, Mercerville.

The parties stipulated the following facts:

1. A special Board election was held on Tuesday, July 7, 1992, in the Laurel Springs School District.

2. At the annual school election held on April 7, 1992, two candidates, Michael Caccia and Veronica Mulhearn, received the same number of votes. The votes were verified and a special election set for July 7, 1992.

3. On July 7, 1992, the announced results of the vote for school board member were 183 for Caccia and 180 for Mulhearn. Upon recount, the count stood 183 for Caccia and 181 for Mulhearn.

Veronica Mulhearn asserts irregularities in the voting conducted on July 7, 1992. She served as challenger on her own behalf. When two persons known to her entered the polls, she challenged their right to vote because she believed they had moved out of district. She secured a copy of a deed between the couple and the buyers for their Laurel Springs property (P-1). The exhibit shows that the property was transferred on April 30, 1992, although recorded nearly five weeks later.

Mulhearn stated that the judge of elections, unsure of what to do in the face of the challenge, called the borough's clerk's office and the County Superintendent of Elections' office. The election judge called the latter upon the suggestion of the Board secretary. The borough clerk returned the election judge's call and told her that so far as the clerk was concerned, the challenged voters could cast ballots. The challenged couple voted and left. They executed no affidavits, signed no statements and swore no oaths. Shortly thereafter, the County Superintendent of Election's office called and said that the challenged couple could not vote.

Mulhearn knew the challenged voters socially and politically. Prior to this school election, Mulhearn had voted to dismiss from employ by the Board one of the couple's relatives. This severed all cordial relationships between the couple and the Mulhearns. In fact, there was considerable hostility exhibited by the couple toward Mrs. Mulhearn.

Mulhearn determined that mail addressed to the couple was forwarded from the Laurel Springs post office beginning on May 8, 1992. As of July 8, 1992, their mail is being forwarded to an address in Florida. Mulhearn also stated that she did not see the couple move or know surely when the house was vacated. She also stated the couple was openly hostile to her on election night.

Linda Capie, a certified poll worker, testified. She served at the special election of July 7, 1992, and recalls the incident complained of. A couple entered the polls, gave their name to another poll worker and Ms. Mulhearn challenged them. The election judge left the room to try to determine if they could vote. Several minutes later, the election judge returned and reported that the borough clerk had said that the couple could vote but added, "I called the Election Board." The challenged couple got voter authorizations, cast their ballots and left. Shortly thereafter, the election judge reentered the poll area and stated that the couple could not properly vote.

When Mulhearn challenged the couple, the election judge asked them when they sold their house. The witness could not hear any answer, but observed that the election judge and the challenged couple went to the Board secretary's office. The couple returned, voted and left. The executed no affidavits, made no statements and swore no oaths. The witness was not present when the election judge made her telephone calls, but recognized the name of a person in the county election's office.

The witness knew the challenged couple prior to the incident, but had no specific knowledge of when they moved from Laurel Springs. She could not hear what address they gave when they entered the poll area. When the election judge announced that the couple could vote, the witness said to a co-worker that she believed the information that the couple could vote was wrong. The election judge overruled her. The witness later checked and found that procedures had been violated.

The challenger introduced a sworn statement of Dolores Marella, who served as judge of the special board election on July 7, 1992. She states the following:

1. I was appointed the Judge of the special school board election that took place on July 7, 1992, and am personally familiar with the facts and circumstances set forth in this affidavit.

2. Two voters, Donald and Barbara Walsh, came into the voting hall to vote. A challenge was made as to their ability to vote by Veronica Mulhearn, who claimed that they no longer lived in the district, and had moved approximately two months ago.

3. I placed my initial call to the Borough Clerk, Barbara Hawk. At this time she indicated that Donald and Barbara Walsh could vote.

4. I attempted to follow proper procedures by calling the county to obtain a ruling. I was informed by the County that a ruling would be made promptly and someone would call back.

5. I decided to wait for a response from the county; however Donald and Barbara Walsh left the room. I later discovered that Walshes had voted and left. They signed no affidavits or certifications at any time.

6. After the Walshes had voted and left, I received a call back from the County indicating that they were ineligible to vote since they no longer met the residence requirement.

Frank Badessa, secretary, Laurel Springs Board of Education, testified. He opened and closed the polls as required by law. He was in his office when the challenged couple entered. After Ms. Mulhearn's challenge, the election judge came to him and said there was a problem. She called the borough clerk. The witness advised that she should call the County Board of Elections. The election judge did so. The borough clerk was first to return the call and advised the election judge to let the challenged couple vote. Later, after the challenged couple had left his office, the County Board of Elections returned the election judge's telephone call and advised the opposite.

The witness went to the poll area to tell the election judge of what the County board had advised. He discovered the challenged couple had voted and left. The witness also stated that on the day of the election the Walshes told him they were living in the municipality of Lindenwald.

Michael Caccia, who has been seated on the Laurel Springs Board of Education, declined to testify. The Board called no witnesses.

Mrs. Mulhearn believes that she had shown the Walshes were not residents in Laurel Springs at the time they voted in the special election contested here. They now live in Florida and could not be subpoenaed to attend this proceeding. It is clear that the two votes cast against her would have produced another tied vote.

DETERMINATION

An irregularity must be the producing cause of illegal votes which would not otherwise have been cast or the cause of defeating legal votes which would have been counted but for the irregularity, and to such an extent as to change the result of the election. In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363 (Law Div. 1953), aff'd 13 N.J. 185 (1953). N.J.S.A. 18A:14-3.2 provides that all special elections shall be called in the manner provided for the calling of the annual school election and the qualification of voters, conduct of the election, and other things, shall be in all respects the same as the annual school election.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-44 provides:

> No person shall be permitted to vote at any school election unless-- > a. He is a citizen of the United States of the age of 18 years;
>
> b. He has been a resident of the state and the county 30 days before the election.
> c. He shall be registered to vote in an election district included within the school district, as the case may be, at least 29 days prior to the date of the election, and his name shall appear upon the signature copy register furnished for such school district or polling district, respectively, or he shall make proof to the election board at such election that he is entitled to vote at such election, notwithstanding that his name does not appear on the said signature copy register, in the manner prescribed in this chapter.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-51.2 provides that upon a challenge of a voter who appears to be duly registered, it shall be the duty of the election board [that is, the election judge and poll workers] and the privilege of all its members to put such questions as are proper to determine the right of the voter to vote. The affidavit of the election judge describes what steps she took when the voters in this case were challenged, but does not indicate that any questions were put to the challenged couple.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-51.3 provides that, in the event the right of any voter to vote is challenged, the right to vote shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Title 19, Elections, of the Revised Statutes.

N.J.S.A. 19:15-18 provides that members of district board [of elections] and any duly authorized challenger shall at any election challenge every person who shall claim to have a right to vote whom the board or challenger shall know, suspect or believe not to be qualified or entitled to so vote, and said members or challenger shall have the power and right to ask all necessary questions to determine such person's right. N.J.S.A. 19;15-21 provides that if a person is challenged as not qualified or entitled to vote, the election judge may tender the prospective voter an oath or affirmation in the following form:

> You do swear (or affirm, as the case may be,), that you are a citizen of the United States; that you have resided in the State and in this County for 30 days next before this election, and not elsewhere; that you are now a resident of this election district; that as far as you know and thoroughly believe, you are 18 years of age and in all respects qualified to vote in this election, in this election district, and that you have not voted elsewhere in this election. . . .[Emphasis added.]

If the challenged person refuses to take the oath or affirmation, the person shall be deemed not qualified or not entitled to vote.

In consideration of the testimony which is uncontested and congruent, and in consideration of the statutes set forth above, I FIND and CONCLUDE that Donald and Barbara Walsh unlawfully cast ballots in the special school board election held on July 7, 1992, in the school district of Laurel Springs. I further FIND and CONCLUDE that it is more likely than not that the unlawfully cast ballots were not cast for Veronica Mulhearn.

Inasmuch as only two votes separated candidates Caccia and Mulhearn, a shift of one vote could have produced a tie and a shift of two votes could have changed the outcome of the election. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that a new election is necessary and ORDER the same to be held as soon as possible, consistent with law. Because this election could be scheduled within six months of July 7, 1992, the approval of the date by the Commissioner of Education is required. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-3.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

P-1 Deed, Walsh and Walsh to Bradis and Bradis, April 30, 1992

P-2 Affidavit of Dolores Marella, September 9, 1992

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	DECISION
OF LAUREL SPRINGS, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner cannot concur with the ALJ that petitioner has met her burden of proof in this matter and that a new election is warranted.

The entire thrust of petitioner's case is that two votes were cast illegally and, because of the closeness of the results, were sufficient to change the outcome of the election. With regard to the illegality of the challenged votes, however, petitioner has proven only that an election worker was advised by the County Board of Elections that the challenged voters should not be permitted to vote. There is nothing in the record to indicate what information the Board was given by the election worker, so that there is no way to know the basis of the Board's decision or to judge the accuracy of the information given to the Board or the conclusion drawn by it; nor was it conclusively proven in these proceedings that the challenged voters did not in fact reside in Laurel Springs. The sale of a home does not in itself establish lack of residency, and, although petitioner "determined" that mail was being forwarded from Laurel Springs beginning May 8, 1992 (no location specified), and that it was being forwarded to Florida beginning July 8, 1992 (the day after the election), there is nothing in the record to indicate how petitioner obtained this information or to substantiate its accuracy. While petitioner's credibility is not in doubt, the consequences of her allegations are sufficiently serious to prevent the Commissioner from finding, absent corroborating testimony or evidence, that the challenged voters in fact voted illegally.

Moreover, even accepting arguendo that the challenged voters cast their ballots illegally, there is no proof as to how they voted, only inference based on petitioner's uncorroborated testimony as to their hostility toward her both in general and on election night. However plausible that inference might be under the circumstances, the fact remains that it cannot serve as proof positive where the consequences of the Commissioner's review--setting aside the results of an entire election--are so serious and petitioner's burden so heavy. This is particularly so in that there is no evidence in the record to indicate that any attempt was ever made to obtain testimony from the challenged voters; rather, it appears that they were not contacted at all, on the assumption--unproven in these proceedings--that they were living in Florida. DECISION

Petitioning parents alleged Board's courtesy busing policy was improperly applied. Board denied courtesy busing as child lived less than one mile from school (using rear entrance of school in determining distance).

ALJ found rear door of school was "nearest public entrance." Thus, student was properly denied courtesy busing as distance was less than one mile. Board was ordered to ensure that rear door was open by 8:45 a.m. on school days. Otherwise, petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's determination.

Record Closed: June 8, 1992 Decided: September 18, 1992

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an action by the parents of a public elementary school student seeking transportation to school or, alternatively, a determination that the district's courtesy busing policy is invalid. By law, public school districts are only required to provide transportation for remote students, including elementary students "who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance." See N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 and the implementing regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3. Nevertheless, school districts may voluntarily offer courtesy busing to resident students who do not qualify under the remoteness standard.

Basically, the dispute involves the application of the district's courtesy busing policy which extends busing privileges to children in the lower grades who live one mile or more from their school of attendance. Two issues are raised: first, whether the district may properly utilize the distance to the rear entrance of the school in determining eligibility for courtesy busing; and, second, whether the courtesy busing plan is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable as applied in this case.

Procedural History

Petitioners Jamie and Dennis Buonocore filed their petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on November 27, 1991. Respondent Hillsdale Board of Education ("Board") filed its answer on December 11, 1991. Subsequently, on December 24, 1991 petitioners filed an amended petition with the Commissioner. At or about the same time, the Board filed an answer to the amended petition.

Meanwhile, on December 17, 1991 the Commissioner had transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. Initially, the OAL scheduled a hearing for May 27, 1992, which was adjourned to accommodate the parties. The OAL held a hearing on June 9, 1992, on which date the record closed. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Time for preparation of the initial decision has been extended to September 7, 1992.

Findings of Fact

(1) Background Circumstances

Many of the relevant facts are undisputed. Mr. and Mrs. Buonocore and their two children reside in the Borough of Hillsdale in a development known as Stoney Ridge Estates. Their son David, who is eight years old, is enrolled in the third grade of the Hillsdale public school system. During the 1991-92 school year, he was assigned to attend the Smith School. Next year (1992-93), he will continue in the fourth grade at the same school. David's younger brother is not yet old enough to attend school.

Prior to 1991-92, the Hillsdale district did not have a courtesy busing program. It provided free transportation only to those students entitled to busing under state law. Because both parents work, the Buonocores had arranged for subscription transportation with a private bus company. Now that many of the other children in the neighborhood qualify for free school transportation, however, the private company is no longer able to offer bus services. The Buonocores have been unable to find any other private bus company willing to establish a route near their house. Due to busy work schedules, neither spouse can reciprocate in ride pool arrangements with other parents.

Hillsdale is a K-to-8 district which operates three elementary schools. Currently, the district is in the process of implementing a reconfigeration plan designed to create a middle school. The new plan will be phased in over three years. In 1990-91, the White School was a K-to-8 school, while the Smith School and the Meadowbrook School were K-to-6 schools. 1991-92 is a transition year, in which the White School is primarily a 3-to-8 school, and the other two are K-to-5 schools. By 1993-94, the White School will be the middle school, comprising grades 5-to-8, and the other schools will be limited to grades K-to-4.

Adoption of the reconfigeration plan caused considerable controversy in the community, especially among the parents of "displaced" children living near the White School who would now have to travel greater distances to Meadowbrook or Smith Schools. School officials acknowledge that transportation was "one of the biggest hang-ups" to reconfigeration To alleviate parental concerns about safety and loss of their neighborhood school, the Board modified its transportation policy in June 1991 to authorize courtesy busing. Under the new busing policy, the district provides free transportation to students in grades K to 4 who live one mile or more from school and to students in grades 5 to 6 who live one-and-a-half miles or more from school.

In addition, the districts offers "school-to-school shuttle" service for all students in the district, regardless of how close a child happens to live to his assigned school. Illustratively, a child can board a bus at White School and be taken to either Meadowbrook or Smith schools. Significantly, the child qualifies even if his home is located less than one mile from his assigned school. Shuttle service is available only between schools. Those who live within a mile of school must enter and exit the bus at a school location. Youngsters are issued color-coded passes to distinguish between those entitled to courtesy busing from their homes and those entitled to shuttle service. Moreover, the policy applies to children enrolled in private or parochial schools as well as to children in public school.

(2) Shortest Distance to the Nearest Public Entrance

Whether the Buonocore home is more or less than one mile from the Smith School depends on whether the measurement is made to the front or rear door of the school. It is undisputed that the distance along the original route to the front door of the Smith School exceeds one mile. Representatives from the County Superintendent's Office measured the distance, starting at the Buonocore residence on Oak Trial Road, proceeding east on Wierimus Lane, south on Pascack Road, and west on Hillsdale Avenue to the front of Smith School. Door-to-door, the distance is 5,924 feet or 1.12 miles.

But the Board contends that the "nearest public entrance" from the Buonocore home is the rear door of Smith School. Martin Hughes, former school business manager and board secretary, measured the distance from the Buonocore residence, turning west on Wierimus Lane, south on Plymouth Road, west on Fairhaven Drive and south across school property to the rear door. That route is 4,682 feet or .89 mile.

Proofs suggest that the rear door to the Smith School was not always open when students arrived in the morning. Students line up to enter the building at 8:50 a.m. and must be inside the building by 9:00 a.m. Dennis Buonocore, who usually drives his son to school in the morning, testified that the rear door is "always locked" at 8:50 a.m. and that "on numerous occasions" David had to use the front door. As recently as June 3, 1992, David came to school at 8:50 a.m. and couldn't gain entry through the back door. Nevertheless, schools superintendent Anthony DeNorchia has instructed his staff that the rear door should be unlocked every weekday morning at 8:45 a.m. so that students can enter by 8:50 a.m. A school bus regularly lets off children at the rear of Smith School at about 8:55 a.m. One of the teachers greets the bus and accompanies the children into the building. They enter the school through the rear door. At the end of the school day, the same children exit the building by the rear door. A bus is waiting behind the school at 3:00 p.m. to bring them home. Security considerations require that all visitors to Smith School enter through the front door and sign in at the office.

When school authorities made the determination that petitioner is ineligible for busing, they used the route to the rear door. Since then, in October or November 1991 the district finished work on a new pedestrian path which connects the front entrance of the school to the back route at the corner of Fairhaven Drive and Plymouth Avenue. This newly constructed short-cut is a macadam paved pathway, 4 feet wide and 55 yards long. An employee of the County Superintendent measured the distance from the Buonocore residence via the path to the front entrance of the school. It is 4,561 feet or .86 mile.

I FIND that the rear door used by students to enter and exit Smith School constitutes a public entrance to the building. If the rear door is sometimes locked at 8:50 a.m., the remedy is more vigorous enforcement of custodial responsibilities. As long as students and teachers have access through the rear door, it does not matter if strangers must use a different entrance for security purposes. Using the rear door, the Buonocore home is located less than one mile from a public entrance to the school.

In any event, the new path has shortened the walking distance between the Buonocore home and the school. Even if the rear door is not regarded as a valid public entrance, the Buonocore home would still be less than one mile from the front door via the new path.

(3) Safety Considerations

Traffic safety concerns are of utmost importance, but not material to this case because the school district is not responsible for maintaining public roads or providing police protection in the municipality. Evidence shows that Wierimus Lane has a blind spot at the crest of a hill, that it has no sidewalks, and that it is a favorite target for police radar checks. Patrolman Peter Leighton, an experienced traffic safety officer of the Hillsdale police department, testified that Wierimus Lane is unsafe for a child to walk and that he "would not allow [his own] children to walk on Wierimus Lane, either up or down the hill."

(4) Individual Exceptions to the Courtesy Busing

Allegations that the Board created unfair individual exceptions to its courtesy busing policy proved unfounded. One particular child who lives on Beech Street has to cross the street several times to stay on the sidewalk. Although the measurement was very close, the distance from his home to school was just over a mile. Another child was picked up from his babysitter's house rather than his parents' house. Both the babysitter and the parents live more than one mile from the school. For 1991-92, the district allowed fifth graders living less than a mile from school to ride the bus together with their younger siblings, but that temporary exception was for a single year only and is no longer in effect.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that rear entrance of the school is a public entrance; that the classifications adopted by the Board are reasonable and applied uniformly; and, therefore, that petitioner is ineligible for courtesy busing.

Authority for free transportation to public schools derives from Art. VIII, §4, paragraph 3 of the State Constitution of 1947, which confers on the Legislature the express power to provide for transportation of school-aged children to and from any school "within reasonable limitations as to distance." Courts have required local boards to provide transportation for children living "remote" from the school house. See West Morris Reg. Bd. of Educ. v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464, 474 (1971), cert. den. 404 U.S. 989, 92 S.Ct. 450, 30 L. Ed. 2d 370 (1971). N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, as recently amended to conform to existing state regulations, requires a local public school district to provide free transportation to elementary school pupils "who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance." Such statutory language is consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(a), which defines remoteness as "beyond two miles for elementary pupils." The parties concur that petitioner resides less than two miles from school and, thus, that N.J.S.A. 39-1 does not confer any legal right to be bused. Nor is there any claim that petitioner has an educational handicap which might entitle him to busing under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-23. See A.A. v. Cooperman, 218 N.J. Super. 32 (App. Div. 1987).

Apart from required transportation for remote or handicapped students, the decision whether to transport students rests entirely within the sound discretion of the local school board. West Morris Reg. Bd. of Educ. v. Sills, at 474. Pepe v. Livingston Bd. of Educ., 69 S.L.D. 47, 49. State aid for transportation of pupils is unavailable if the board elects to bus students for lesser distances than the statutory two-mile minimum. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1. Here the Board has voluntarily opted to provide transportation to children in grades K to 4 who live at least one mile from school. Petitioner urges that he satisfies the one-mile standard if the measurement is made to the front rather than the rear door to the school.

Regulations prescribe that the measurement shall be made by the shortest route along public roadways or walkways from the entrance of the pupil's residence to "the nearest public entrance of the assigned school." N.J.A.C. 21-1.3(b). While the regulation is intended "[f]or the purpose of determining remoteness," it provides useful guidance in the case of courtesy busing as well. As used in the regulation, public entrance means "the entrance to the school building used by those members of the public who are entitled to enter the building by that entrance." Nelson v. Glen Ridge Bd. of Educ., 246 N.J. Super. 467, 471 (App. Div. 1991). Since school children are regularly permitted to enter and leave the premises via the rear door, it fits the definition of a public entrance. Requiring school visitors to use a different entrance for security reasons does not detract from the public nature of the rear entrance for those "entitled to enter" by that way At least one prior school law decision has utilized the rear entrance to a building in ascertaining the shortest route between home and school. Trossman v. Highland Park Bd. of Educ., 1969 S.L.D. 61. Concern that the rear door is not opened early enough in the morning to allow convenient access is a separate issue which may be corrected by a less drastic remedy than busing. Now that the new path has been constructed, the Buonocore home is less than one mile from school even by way of the front entrance. Mangieri v. Cresskill Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 8927-89 (Nov. 30, 1990), adopted Comm'r (Jan 11, 1991).

Insofar as the parents have raised questions of general highway safety, the question falls outside the jurisdiction of the local school board. Traffic safety hazards are the responsibility of municipal or county government and not of the school district. Melick v. Lopatcong Twp. Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2280-85 (Oct. 28, 1985), adopted Comm'r (Dec. 4, 1985). Thus, the Commissioner has ruled that a school board lacks the "authority to enforce traffic laws, to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses, etc. to meet the requirements of safe travel for school children." Schrenk v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 1961 S.L.D. 185, 187. See also, Yedwab v. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7765-80 (June 22, 1981), adopted Comm'r (Aug. 4, 1981); Lo Rocco v. Hillsborough Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1579-80 (Aug. 20, 1980), adopted Comm'r (Oct. 4, 1980); Trossman, supra. Any deficiencies of this nature should be brought to the attention of the appropriate body responsible for maintaining Wierimus Lane.

Next, petitioner challenges the reasonableness of the classification which allows school-to-school transportation for students living less than one mile from school. Although any student resident in the district may use shuttle transportation, petitioner does not benefit because he is already assigned to the school closest to his home. Generally, school boards are vested with broad authority to determine which less-than-remote students should be bused because of hazardous road conditions or for other good reasons. Beggans v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 74 S.L.D. 829 , aff'd St. Bd. 75 S.L.D. 1071, aff'd N.J. Super. Ct., App. Div., 75 S.L.D. 1071. It is well established that the Commissioner will not substitute his own judgment for that of a local board in matters which lie within discretionary authority, unless there is a clear showing of abuse. Pepe, supra, at 50.

A school board may, in good faith, "make reasonable classifications for furnishing transportation, taking into account differences in the degree of traffic and other conditions existing in the various sections of the district." Schrenk, supra, at 188. Similarly, the Commissioner will not disturb the good faith decision by the local board to locate bus stops at certain places rather than others, Baldanza v. Tinton Falls Bd of Educ., 1976 S.L.D. 362 and Centofanti v. Wall Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 513, or to select one bus route as distinguished from an alternative route, Walters v. Mendham Bd. of Ed., 77 S.L.D. 854.

Perfect equality is not necessary, so long as the lines are drawn to treat alike all children in similar circumstances. See Beggans, at 840. Governmental bodies may choose among various rational objectives, and the particular "choice is not made intolerable merely because another choice might also be reasonable." West Morris Reg. Bd. of Educ., 58 N.J. at 479. Regardless of one's personal views on the subject, it cannot be said that the Board acted irrationally or arbitrarily when it adopted shuttle service in order to accommodate students no longer assigned to the closest school. Petitioner does not properly fall into this category because he still attends the nearest school located less than a mile from his home. Consequently, no basis exists for invalidating the district's courtesy busing policy.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board take immediate measures to insure that the rear entrance to the Smith School is open by at least 8:45 a.m. on school days.

And further ORDERED that petitioner's request for additional relief is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's courtesy busing policy is neither arbitrary nor unreasonable, nor was it unfairly applied to petitioners; therefore, the Commissioner cannot substitute his own judgment for the lawful discretion of the Board so as to grant petitioners the relief they seek.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, dismissing the Petition of Appeal and directing the Board to ensure timely opening of school doors, is affirmed for the reasons well expressed therein.

For the Petitioner, Jeffrey I. Baron, Esq.

For the Respondent, John B. Kearney, Esq. (Kearney & Brady)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on May 20, 1992 by way of a Petition of Appeal from the Chesilhurst Board of Education (Board) seeking restoration of a cap waiver denied by the voters of the Borough of Chesilhurst on April 7, 1992. On June 4, 1992 the Borough Council of the Borough of Chesilhurst (Council) filed its Answer to the Petition of Appeal. On June 22 and July 2, 1992, respectively, the Board and the Council filed Position Statements. Replies to the Position Statements were filed on July 13 by the Board and July 27 by the Council whereupon the record was closed in the absence of further filings by the parties.

It is the contention of the Board that $110,243 of the $136,018 cap waiver request placed before the voters of the district is essential to the district's ability to provide a thorough and efficient system of education. The Board notes in its Position Statement that the Camden County Superintendent of Schools approved the 1992-93 budget for advertisement as being sufficient to provide a thorough and efficient system of education upon condition of the submission of a cap waiver in the amount of $110,243, the remaining $25,775 of the $136,018 being submitted to the voters not being deemed essential to a thorough and efficient education as set forth below.

GRAND TOTAL		$110,243.00

(Board's Position Statement, Exhibit A)

After conferring with the Board as required by statute, the Council on April 20, 1992 by way of Resolution 92-99 adopted a tax levy for current expense purposes of $362,285 which it certified to be sufficient to provide a thorough and efficient system of education for the School District of Chesilhurst. The Council, however, declined to certify an additional tax levy to fund the amount included within the requested cap waiver, instead urging some $131,419 in other budget reductions in order to fund the $110,243 in programs deemed essential by the Board and the County Superintendent. The reductions urged by the Council are set forth below:

Item	Reduction
Freeze all salaries	$ 38,217
Lay off one teacher	28,000
Lay off one teacher aide	8,598
Eliminate Preschool/Kindergarten	23,468
Lay off one secretary	8,080
Contract custodial services	25,056
Total	$131,419

The monies in contention in this matter are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Council
Current Expense	Current Expense
$362,285	$362,285
136,018 (Cap Waiver)
Total $498,303

Amount in Dispute before Commissioner

$136,018
25,775	(deemed not essential)
Total $110,243

BOARD'S POSITION

Initially, the Board argues that the Council's resolution setting forth some $131,419 in budget cuts failed to address itself to the specific cap waiver line items deemed essential to a thorough and efficient education by the Board and the County Superintendent. The Board therefore addresses itself to those line items within the cap waiver request, deeming them to be the only items appropriately before the Commissioner. The Board's position on each of those items is set forth below:

LINE ITEM/ACCOUNT NUMBERS	AMOUNT NEEDED
120's Legal Fees and Other Professional/ Technical Services	$ 6,000.00

Explanation:

This includes the anticipated legal expenses to litigate this matter. Litigation is required since the voters rejected the Cap Waiver of which $110,243.00 is for items required to maintain a thorough and efficient school system. Moreover, the contract with the teachers is up for renegotiation and this entails additional expenses for legal and professional services.

130's Other Administrative Expenses $ 15,500.00

Explanation:

$10,000.00 is for Board Members to attend workshops and other board administrative expenses.

$1,000.00 is for expenses of the Board Secretary's office, such as professional dues.

$3,500.00 is for expenses of the Chief School Administrator, such as professional dues.

$1,000.00 is for publications and professional journals. This also includes the cost of an outside payroll service.

220's Textbooks $ 5,000.00

Explanation:

New textbooks are needed since the current textbooks are outdated in certain key areas such as Science and Social Studies. Our students are placed at a severe disadvantage when they enter Junior High School due to this. The current Science and Social Studies textbooks are over ten years old and need to be replaced and Health Education materials need to be updated to cover new health issues such as AIDS.

230's School Library and Audio-Visual Materials $ 750.00

Explanation:

This expense represents no increase over 1991-92. This expense is necessary to obtain additional supplies for the library including books, periodicals and audio-visual materials.

240 Teaching Supplies $ 3,500.00

Explanation:

Since the 1991-92 budget contained less funds for this item than in 1990-91, many items need to be purchased. The reduction from 1990-91 to 1991-92 was from $10,871.00 to $9,000.00. This required the deferral of purchases of supplies and the depletion of stock which needs to be replenished. The cost of these supplies has increased since 1990-91.

250's Other Instructional Expenses $1,550.00

Explanation:

This is another area that was significantly cut in 1991-92. The increase over 1990-91 is not that significant. Expenses in this category include equipment rental, curriculum supplies, in-service materials for professional staff and registration expenses.

300's Attendance Services $ 285.00

Explanation:

This includes $135.00 for personnel and $150.00 for travel expenses for the Attendance personnel. These are mandatory expenses.

400's Health Services $ 1,450.00

Explanation:

This includes the cost of the School Physician, stipend for the School Nurse who is also the Health Teacher, as well as necessary medical supplies for the provision of health services to the students.

520-A Contracted Services and Public Carriers $ 5,000.00

Explanation:

This is busing for special education students supplied by Camden County Educational Services Commission. This is required by applicable law.

510 Transportation Staff Salaries $ 14,820.00

Explanation:

This is the salary of the bus driver and the two monitors for permissive busing. The Borough has no crossing guards or sidewalks so safety of the children mandates this expense.

550's Other Transportation Services
(i.e., Bus Repairs) $ 2,609.00

Explanation:

This includes insurance and repairs for the district's only bus.

600's Safety Operation of the School $ 6,100.00

Explanation:

This includes extermination and bi-annual cleaning of septic system.

700's Maintenance of the School Facilities $ 10,100.00

Explanation:

This includes roof repairs and other building repairs.

820-C-1 Medical Insurance $ 13,980.00

Explanation:

An increase in the cost of medical insurance for employees is anticipated. This item is covered by contracts and cannot be reduced.

830's Operation/Maintenance of the Community Building $ 7,100.00

Explanation:

The Chesilhurst Board of Education has contracted with the Borough of Chesilhurst to utilize the Community Building for educational programs. The agreement requires that the Board pay for utilities, custodial services and maintenance services.

870 Special Education Tuition (Outside Placements) $ 16,000.00

Explanation:

Director of Special Services has anticipated outside placement for 8 current students and at least 2 new students. New referrals are still being evaluated and may also need outside placement.

900's Lunch Program Services $ 499.00

Explanation:

This included the purchase of all of the supplies and equipment utilized in the cafeteria. This represents no increase over 1991-92.

GRAND TOTAL $110,243.00
(Board's Position Statement, at pp. 4-9)

COUNCIL'S POSITION

The Council's position makes no representation that the cap waiver amount of $110,243 deemed essential to a thorough and efficient education by the Board and the County Superintendent is invalid. Instead, it focuses upon what it perceives to be "fat" in the basic current expense budget to the amount of $131,419. (Council's Position Statement, at p. 4)

The main thrust of the Council's position is that financial circumstances in the community require that the school budget be trimmed. It bases its belief that the funds necessary for maintenance of the programs contained within the cap waiver requested can be funded through staff reductions. It cites the following enrollment figures as proof of the ability to reduce staff:

Pre-Kindergarten	6
Kindergarten	22
Grade 1	20
Grade 2	21
Grade 3	18
Grade 4	15
Grade 5	17
Grade 6	14
Special Education I	7
Special Education II	9
Total	149

The reasoning of the Council is set forth below:

> Council's position is that the fiscal realities require the elimination of the pre-kindergarten program. This would eliminate a teaching position resulting in savings of $23,468.00 from line item 54.
>
> The gifted and talented program employs two teachers with salaries budgeted at $63,124.00. One of these positions can be eliminated with a resulting savings of $32,304.00 from line item 55.
>
> Special education is handled by two teachers and two aides with salaries budgeted at $81,212.00. As there are only 14 students in this program one teaching position and one aide position can be eliminated for savings of $41,950.00 from line item 146. Also one secretary is employed for the special education department with a salary of $9,996.00. This position can be consolidated with [one] handled by another secretary with a savings of $9,996.00 from line item 60. The Board also employs a special education coordinator for $39,885.00. This position can be made part time with a savings of $20,000.00 from line item 60.
> Staff reductions and realignment would result in an overall savings of $127,718.00. A freeze on salaries would result in additional savings of approximately $25,000.00.

> The School Board employs 44 persons as administrators, teachers, aides, secretaries and maintenance people for 150 students. The ratio of 1 staff person for every 3 and 1/2 students is simply too great. Reductions must occur.
>
> B) Maintenance. The School Board has budgeted $125,808.00 for maintenance and operation of the plant (line items 88 through 101). Council's position is that these services should be privatized which would result in substantial savings.
>
> (Council's Position Statement, at pp. 6-7)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Council in this matter has created considerable confusion by virtue of the manner in which it has set forth its recommended reductions and reasoning. As pointed out by the Board, the Council certified a tax levy amount for current expense purposes which was sufficient to fund the basic budget (budget up to cap) presented to the voters ($362,285); however, in its resolution establishing such tax levy it recommended $131,419 in reductions in the basic budget without addressing itself to the items within the cap waiver request nor identifying those reductions by line item. Further, in its Position Statement the Council proceeded to identify in excess of $150,000 in reductions by line item while still failing to address the specific line items and programs deemed essential by the Board in applying for a cap waiver, even though it was clear that the Board's appeal encompassed only the cap waiver.

In light of the fact that the Council has failed to address itself to the specific items for which the cap waiver was requested and the Board's Position Statement addresses itself solely to the cap waiver, the positions presented by each side are like two ships passing in the night. The Council's approach in this regard has made it impossible to assess its position in regard to the cap waiver items in question except for its tacit admission in its Position Statement that the amounts required to fund the programs contained within the cap waiver request may indeed be necessary to a thorough and efficient system of education.

While Council's Position Statement seems to fault the Board for only addressing the justification offered for the cap waiver amounts, this is precisely the standard utilized by the Commissioner in reviewing cap waiver appeals. Having appropriated an amount sufficient to fund the basic budget, the Council's recommendations as to how to allocate those funds were entirely within the Board's purview and the Board chose to ignore those recommended cuts and appealed the denial of the cap waiver to the Commissioner. At that point, it was the Council's responsibility to address the specifics of the cap waiver request and not pursue its own ends. Had the Council desired to challenge the appropriations of the basic budget, it should have done so by reducing the tax levy, thereby obligating the Commissioner to examine not only those line items within the cap waiver but also those recommended reductions within the basic budget. Having failed to do so, the Council has created a circumstance in which the Commissioner is asked to compare apples and oranges. He cannot do so.

In light of the foregoing and in consideration of the fact that the basic budget and the cap waiver request were carefully examined by the County Superintendent in order to determine whether reallocations could be made for purposes of funding those programs without necessity for a cap waiver and approved by him as providing a thorough and efficient education only upon condition of presenting a cap waiver request to the voter, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Council of the Borough of Chesilhurst has failed to address itself to the items within the cap waiver request deemed necessary for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Commissioner further finds and determines that the Board of Education of the Borough of Chesilhurst has met its burden of demonstrating that the items contained within this cap waiver appeal totaling $110,243 are necessary to permit the school district to provide a thorough and efficient system of education.

Accordingly, the Commissioner of Education directs the Camden County Board of Taxation to adjust the Chesilhurst School District's tax levy for 1992-93 to reflect an increase of $110,243 which shall result in a total current expense tax levy of $472,528.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former Supervisor of Educational Programs II at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital, whose position was riffed, alleged Board improperly reassigned him to Supervisor at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital. Petitioner contended Marlboro was unreasonably distant from his home and reassignment was done in bad faith.

ALJ found petitioner's tenure rights were not violated. Board may transfer, reassign, etc., in its discretion as a matter of inherent managerial prerogative. (Williams) Also tenure rights are system-wide in Department of Human Services and not limited to institution where one serves. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

JOHN SHEFFIELD,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL,

Respondent.

Tara Levy, Esq. for petitioner (Reitman, Parsonnet and Duggan, attorneys)

Bruce A. Velzy, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Robert J. Del Tufo, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Argued: September 3, 1992 Decided: September 14, 1992

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, CHIEF ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, John Sheffield, brings this Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education alleging a violation of his tenure and seniority rights occasioned by certain events which occurred in the fall of 1991. These events culminated with the abolition of his Supervisor of Educational Programs II position at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital and his reassignment to a Supervisor of Educational Programs II position at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital.

Petitioner maintains that Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital is in a location unreasonably distant from his home in Gloucester County. He claims that the abolishment of his position was a reduction in force, triggering application of the seniority and tenure provisions of the education statutes. Petitioner claims that he was dismissed from Ancora and reemployed at Marlboro. He argues that this should have occurred in accordance with seniority rights to the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs II as calculated department-wide.

At the conclusion of the presentation of petitioner's case in chief, respondent moved for dismissal of petitioner's case because petitioner had failed to prove that he suffered a dismissal, demotion or reduction in pay that would trigger the protections of education laws. Moreover, to the extent petitioner included in his petition a claim that the reassignment was done in bad faith, petitioner has had an opportunity to present his case in chief and respondent contends that he has utterly failed to produce any competent evidence to support his claim. Accordingly, respondent has moved for dismissal of this action. For the reasons which follow, I have determined that the motion to dismiss should be granted.*

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Virtually all of the factual aspects of this case have been either a matter of stipulation between the parties or were not disputed. The following stipulations were presented to the undersigned at the commencement of the evidential hearing in this matter:

1) On July 1, 1987, petitioner acquired tenure in the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs in the Department of Human Services.

2) Petitioner served as a tenured Supervisor of Educational Programs II while at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital ("Ancora") from July 1, 1987, until November 15, 1991.

3) Petitioner is currently a tenured Supervisor of Educational Programs II working at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital ("Marlboro") and has been since November 16, 1991.

*A motion to dismiss was made by respondent upon the case's transmission to the Office of Administrative Law. Because I determined that material issues of fact required that petitioner be permitted to present his evidential case, I denied the earlier motion by order dated April 15, 1992. This motion to dismiss was made following the presentation of petitioner's case and is addressed in accordance with the same standards utilized by the courts when a judgment of involuntary dismissal is sought at the end of petitioner's case. *See R.*4:37-2(b).

4) By letter dated September 12, 1991, from Alan Gibbs, DHS Commissioner, petitioner was informed that effective November 15, 1991, his position was being eliminated to reduce DHS's budget. That letter also informed him that the layoff was for economic reasons. (J-1).

5) By memorandum dated October 17, 1991, from Patricia Monzo, petitioner was offered and accepted a position at Marlboro as a Supervisor of Educational Programs II, effective November 16, 1991. (J-2).

6) Petitioner's annual salary from August 2, 1991, until at least June 5, 1992, was $48,219.38 and his bi-weekly gross pay was $1,840.43.

7) Petitioner received his bi-weekly gross pay of $1,840.43 every two weeks from at least August 2, 1991, until at least June 5, 1992.

In his direct testimony, petitioner admitted that he holds tenure status in no other positions within the Department of Human Services even though he is a holder of a Principal/Supervisor certificate and a certificate of Teacher of the Handicapped, and has served in the following positions while at Ancora but before tenure status could be legally acquired: Assistant Supervisor of Educational Programs, Teacher I, and Teacher II. It was also undisputed that petitioner has wide experience in the education arena from having held various teaching positions in-state and out-of-state.

Petitioner explained that the duties of the Supervisor of Educational Programs include coordinating the patient education programs, supervising teachers and ordering supplies for the educational programs provided within the institution. The supervisor and the teachers comprise the "education department" within Ancora and, administratively, this education department is located within the larger rehabilitation services section. The section head of rehabilitation services is responsible for supervising the education unit as well as other units encompassed in the rehabilitation services section of Ancora. Petitioner testified that the individual who was the Assistant Supervisor of Educational Programs, Mrs. Audrey Doty, was reassigned as the acting section head for rehabilitation services effective September 1, 1991, due to maternity leave taken by the incumbent holder of that position. It was Mrs. Doty who referred him to the personnel department on September 12, 1991, where he first learned that his position was being abolished as part of a department-wide reduction in force for budgetary reasons (J-1). Thereafter, on October 17, 1991, petitioner was called to the personnel department and offered the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs II at Marlboro, which he accepted.

It is undisputed that petitioner was not offered any other positions within the Department of Human Services even though he inquired about a Teacher of the Handicapped position at Ancora, which he believed would become vacant due to the imminent retirement of the incumbent. Petitioner's last day of employment at Ancora was November 15, 1991 and his first day of employment at Marlboro was November 16, 1991. It is also not disputed that petitioner requested a listing of those positions within the Department of Human Services to which he has seniority, but that no such listing has been provided.

In support of his allegation that his reassignment was for bad faith reasons, petitioner testified that he had complained about the child study team services that were being provided at Ancora; that he had criticized two teachers whom he felt were not doing an appropriate job and were being considered for tenure; and that he had written a memorandum arguing for an increase in the hourly wage paid to special services teachers. Through cross-examination, it was revealed that the criticism of the child study team's performance was reviewed by outside staff of the Department of Human Services' Office of Education and no merit was found in the criticism leveled. As for the remaining two "reasons" why petitioner believes the abolishment of his position at Ancora was done in bad faith, petitioner testified that he has no personal knowledge that these items were in any way related to the determination to abolish the Supervisor of Educational Programs II position at Ancora.

In the context of arguing the motion to dismiss, respondent stipulated that it has now calculated that as of November 15, 1991, there were other individuals in the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs II within the Department of Human Services who had less seniority than petitioner. Respondent had no knowledge as to whether, in fact, there were any nontenured Supervisors of Educational Programs II as of that date. Further, no individual has held either the Supervisor of Educational Programs I or II position at Ancora since November 15, 1991. The education unit is supervised by the acting section head of rehabilitation services.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In substance, petitioner contends that since his transfer from Ancora to Marlboro ensued on account of a reduction in force, he should have been allowed placement within the system on the basis of seniority, i.e. he should have been allowed to displace less senior employees at institutions more geographically favorable to him. He does not allege any other consequence to him flowing from the transfer. Respondent's essential position is that petitioner has suffered no diminution of position or pay, and his tenure rights consequently have not been violated. Petitioner does not allege any diminution in position or pay as a consequence of his transfer to Marlboro. He holds precisely the same position at Marlboro - Supervisor of Educational Programs II - as he previously did at Ancora.

The employment, tenure, and reduction in force of persons, whose employment with the Department of Human Services requires them to possess educational certification as a condition of that employment, is governed by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 through -15 and the accompanying regulations at N.J.A.C. 10:11-1 through -1.19. See also State Facilities Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 through -13 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 ("No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency"). Reduction in force in the circumstances presented in these statutes is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 and N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.9.

These provisions, N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 and N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.9, address specifically the permissibility of a reduction in force due to natural diminution in the number of pupils in an institution. They have also been applied in circumstances where financial exigency is the genesis of a managerial determination to reduce the number of teaching staff members who have tenure status by virtue of N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1. See O'Toole v. Forestal, 211 N.J. Super. 394, 401 (App. Div. 1986). Teaching staff members in human services institutions are unique in their tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 due to the Department of Human Services' determination to recognize tenure rights as being department-wide, and not limited to the particular institution in which the individual serves. N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.4 provides:

> Once tenure is acquired by an employee, such standing shall apply throughout the Department of Human Services. If, however, the employee experiences a break in service, he or she will forfeit tenure rights. A break in service for tenure purposes is defined as resigning or leaving a tenured position to enter a career service, unclassified, non-tenured or Senior Executive Service position.

Compare O'Toole, supra, 211 N.J. Super. at 399-401. Accordingly, it is undisputed in this matter that petitioner enjoys tenure status department-wide in the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs II.

The Commissioner of Education is "expressly empowered to hear and determine all controversies arising under the school laws or under the rules of the State Board or the Commissioner." Dunellen Board of Education v. Dunellen Ed. Ass'n, 64 N.J. 17, 23 (1973); see also N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Review of reduction in force (RIF) controversies is, therefore, properly before the Commissioner of Education as a school law dispute, even though it involves an employee of another cabinet-level department.

As noted, petitioner holds the same position at Marlboro - Supervisor of Educational Programs II - as he previously held at Ancora; moreover, his pay has not been diminished in any way. Tenure is a legislative stature; one enjoys its protections only if one meets the statutory prerequisites, and even if applicable, the protection of the tenure status cannot extend beyond that legislatively granted. N.J.S.A. 18A:60-2, the statute at issue here, protects those who have acquired tenure in a position -- in this case petitioner had acquired tenure in the position of Supervisor of Educational Programs II -- from being dismissed from that position or being reduced in compensation except for "inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher or other just cause...." The protection afforded the human services tenured education staff is the same as that provided to teaching staff members of local school districts, namely, safeguards available pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et. seq. However, since tenure only protects an employee from dismissal from a particular position or a reduction in pay therefor, and since petitioner has suffered neither here, the question is: have petitioner's tenure rights been violated by the transfer from Ancora to Marlboro. The answer, in my judgment, is clearly no. None of petitioner's tenure rights have been violated.

The seminal case in this area is Williams v. Plainfield Board of Ed., 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), certif. den. 87 N.J. 306 (1981). In Williams, petitioner was a tenured high school principal who, because of deficiencies in her performance, was involuntarily transferred to the position of administrative assistant, a nontenure-eligible position. Id. at 156. She was then transferred to an elementary school principalship, and her compensation was frozen at the high school principal's salary . Id. at 156-57. However, because the board's formula for the calculation of increments was at a lower ratio for elementary school principals than high school principals, it was conceded that petitioner would receive much less compensation over time as an elementary school principal than as a high school principal. Id. at 157. Petitioner appealed to the Commissioner of Education, alleging the initial transfer to administrative assistant and the subsequent transfer to elementary school principal were illegal and violative of her tenure status. Ibid. She argued that her transfer resulted in a reduction of compensation and thus a reduction in her rank, because her salary expectancy was less as an elementary school principal than as a high school principal. Id. at 160. The Commissioner found for her on this issue, but the State Board of Education reversed.

The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's finding that the transfer from high school principal to elementary school principal was not a demotion, but a transfer to a position of equivalent rank which could occur without petitioner's consent. Id. at 158. For tenure purposes, the protected position was deemed to be that of principal. The Appellate Division held that such a transfer was not a violation of tenure rights, even though it might result in a reduction in her future salary; it found that a tenured high school principal has no vested right to future salary increases, and that the tenure laws simply protect the right to the tenured position and salary. In Williams, tenure protection extended only to the position of principal and present salary.

As noted , Williams is the seminal case in the transfer area. Under the teaching of Williams, had petitioner simply been transferred from Ancora to Marlboro, retaining his tenured position as Supervisor of Educational Programs II and rate of pay, it is quite clear that his tenure rights would not have been violated and he would have no cause of action on account thereof. The only question here is whether a different result should obtain when the transfer from Ancora ensues upon a reduction in force at that institution.

It is well settled that a school board may employ, transfer, reassign, or promote employees in its discretion as a matter of inherent managerial prerogative, so long as its actions are not arbitrary or unreasonable. Dunellen, supra, 64 N.J. at 23; Ridgefield Park Education Association v. Ridgefield Park Board of Education, 78 N.J. 144, 156 (1978); Boehler v. Board of Education of East Brunswick, OAL DKT. EDU 4732-79 (September 8, 1980), adopted, Commissioner of Education (October 24, 1980). This same authority exists for the Department of Human Services for its certificated education staff. Indeed, N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.4 provides for an individual to have tenure that is department-wide, not tenure limited to the institution in which the individual serves.

The power to transfer is limited only to the extent provided by the tenure law. A tenured employee may be transferred to another assignment within his position, but may not be transferred involuntarily from one position to another. Williams, supra. 176 N.J. Super. 154. Nothing in the statutes precludes the utilization of the transfer power consequent upon a RIF, and, in fact, in many instances transfer follows RIF. In brief, to satisfy the need to reduce numbers at a particular institution, a reasonable management decision by the Department of Human Services would be to implement a transfer.

No one would suggest that to direct transfers incident to a RIF would be an arbitrary or unreasonable act; to the extent petitioner has included allegations that his transfer was for reasons of bad faith, I find based on the record presented through to the conclusion of petitioner's case that he has failed to substantiate in any way these allegations. The question that remains here is whether RIF seniority rights and bumping rights protections necessarily attach if a transfer occurs incident to a RIF. *See N.J.S.A.*18A:28-9; N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10. Added to the mix for this analysis is the virtually admitted fact that had the involuntary transfer been directed for other reasons, no seniority rights would attach.

The fact that an RIF has occurred of itself confers no rights. Seniority is a concept which only applies if tenure rights are affected by a RIF. The concept of seniority rights flowing from a RIF has its source in the tenure laws, see N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, -10 and -13 and N.J.S.A. 18A:60-2 and -3, and is designed to deal with the disruption of tenure rights which usually, but not always, attends a RIF. As previously discussed, tenure laws protect only the right to a position and pay, Williams, supra 176 N.J. Super. 154; consequently the protections of those laws cannot extend beyond the protections specifically accorded by the Legislature.

Where, as here, no tenure rights have been impacted by a transfer, which ensues upon a RIF, seniority rights do not come into play. To hold otherwise, in this case, would be to afford petitioner greater protections than those afforded by the tenure laws. In effect, he would be accorded tenure in his position at Ancora, even though he admits his tenure protection is department-wide, not by institution. That would be an anomalous result, which should be avoided. The tenure laws simply were not intended to allow petitioner to select his transfer by requiring the displacement of others in this circumstance when no dismissal, demotion or reduction in pay has been visited upon him.

There has been no competent proof here that the RIF which occurred at Ancora was in bad faith, Popovich v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Wharton, 1975 S.L.D. 737, 739 (1975), or that it and the resultant transfer were a sham or an attempt to defeat tenure protection. See Sorenson v. Bd. of Ed. of Wayne Township, OAL DKT. EDU 7948-82 (June 22, 1983), adopted, Commissioner of Education (August 8, 1983).

In these circumstances, I conclude that where, as here, tenure in a position is admittedly system-wide, when a transfer to another institution ensues upon a RIF at a particular institution, seniority rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 are not implicated unless the transfer results in a loss of position or pay. Petitioner has no right to bump others in such circumstances simply to secure an easier commute to work for himself. To hold otherwise would unduly impinge on the authority of the Department to make a transfer.

The tenure laws protect only the position of a tenured employee, and preclude a reduction in pay except by proceedings under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. But for these two limitations, the authority to transfer in good faith, which I find to be the case here, is plenary. The extent of the appointing authority's power to transfer is no different when it ensues upon a reduction in force, than when it is triggered by other legitimate management decisional factors. To hold otherwise would dramatically expand the reach of tenure protection beyond the limits set by the Legislature.

In conclusion, petitioner's tenure rights were not adversely affected by his transfer to Marlboro, albeit he may have been personally inconvenienced by the move since he now has a longer commute. The tenure laws, however, do not protect against employee inconvenience. Petitioner's tenure protection is system-wide, not by institution. Respondent's motion to dismiss is granted. I ORDER that the instant petition of appeal be dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner, by extension granted, filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Attorney General's office filed timely reply exceptions as well.

Petitioner submits four exceptions, claiming first that the ALJ failed to address two of his claims as specified in Count One and Count Four of the petition. In Count One he alleged that his position was not abolished because his duties as Supervisor of Educational Programs II at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital were transferred in toto to another employee, Audrey Doty, Ancora Assistant Supervisor of Educational Programs, after he was dismissed from the position. Citing Viemeister v. Bd. of Educ. of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949) and Victor Catano v. Bd. of Educ. of the Township of Woodbridge, 1971 S.L.D. 448, aff'd State Board 1972 S.L.D. 665, petitioner contends this case law stands for the proposition that a tenured employee's position may not be abolished by transferring the duties of the position to another employee. He argues that the initial decision should be reversed in that it dismisses Count One of the petition, and he claims entitlement to a decision in his favor as a matter of law based on the above two cases.

Exception II avers the Initial Decision should be reversed because the decision did not address petitioner's claim that the Board's failure to provide notice of his seniority status upon the abolition of his position violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and his procedural due process rights.

Exception III claims the initial decision should be reversed because the conclusion of the ALJ that petitioner was transferred is contrary to the evidence. Citing the stipulated facts and his own testimony, petitioner claims that to deem him to have been transferred, as the ALJ concluded, is to retroactively revise the facts. He claims what transpired was not a transfer but an attempted abolition of an employee's position and after time, a subsequent reassignment.

Exception IV contends the initial decision must be reversed because the ALJ erred in concluding that the appellant's rights were not violated. Relying on Philip Howley and Dewey Bookholdt, Jr. v. Board of Education of the Township of Ewing, Mercer County, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, petitioner contends N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(i) does not limit the exercise of seniority rights in the event of RIF to a tenured employee only if he or she loses position or pay. Instead, he argues, seniority rights attach "[w]henever any person's particular employment shall be abolished in a category." (Exceptions at p. 10, citing N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(i)) He submits transfer may be a right available to the Board, but it was not exercised here. He claims the facts should not be revised to afford the Board a right which it failed to use.

Finally, petitioner claims no case other than the Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed, 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), cert. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981) matter relied upon by the ALJ, permits the Board to abolish his position and thereafter to reassign him to another position without regard to relative seniority rights. He claims the issue here is whether he has seniority rights as a tenured employee whose position was abolished in a RIF. He advances the position that the conclusion is compelled that his seniority rights entitle him, upon the elimination of his employment, to bump any employee in his position with less seniority. He seeks enforcement of such rights and requests reversal of the initial decision.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the Office of Administrative Law that petitioner's tenure rights were not adversely affected by his being assigned as a Supervisor of Educational Programs II at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital for the reasons expressed in the thorough and cogent initial decision rendered in this matter. The Commissioner would add the following regarding petitioner's exceptions.

Assuming arguendo that petitioner's contention is correct that a RIF occurred affecting his employment with the New Jersey State Department of Human Services, his tenure and seniority rights were not violated in that he was not assigned a position other than one in which he enjoys tenure, that is, as a Supervisor of Educational Programs II. Neither were his seniority rights implicated because he remained in the same tenured supervisory category and position that he enjoyed at Ancora. On the other hand, assuming arguendo that there was no RIF because his duties at Ancora were allegedly assumed by another, petitioner's argument again must fail because he remains in a tenured supervisor's position and seniority category, albeit at another State facility, said tenure rights and any seniority flowing from such tenure having already been established as being state-wide. See, Initial Decision, at p. 5. See also, N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.4. In this regard, the Attorney General's reply exceptions cogently summarize the misconception in petitioner's reasoning:

> The key fallacy that underlies petitioner's analysis is his belief that he is entitled to a specific position at Ancora. That is incorrect. His position is that of a Supervisor, Cf. Howley v. Board of Ed. of Ewing Tp., [supra], and that supervisory position is Department-wide. N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.4. Because he still has such a position within DHS, which is all he is entitled to under the laws, no tenure laws have been violated and no need for "bumping" arises. It's that simple. Therefore, petitioner's exceptions, which are based on this fundamental analytical flaw, should be rejected and do not warrant reversal of the Chief ALJ's decision. (emphasis in original) (Reply Exceptions, at p. 3)

As to petitioner's concern regarding a preferred eligibility list, an individual is only entitled to a RIF list upon dismissal or leaving the position and category in which service had been rendered at the time of the RIF, not when one leaves a building or institution within the Department of Human Services.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, as augmented herein, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT, :

V. : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL, : DECISION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 2, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Reitman, Parsonnet & Duggan, Jesse H. Strauss, Esq., of Counsel

For the Respondent-Respondent, Bruce A. Velzy, Deputy Attorney General, (Deborah T. Poritz, Attorney General of New Jersey)

Petitioner is a tenured employee of the Department of Human Services (DHS). By letter of September 12, 1991, the Commissioner of Human Services notified him that his position as Supervisor of Education Services II at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital was being eliminated for economic reasons, effective November 15, 1991. By memorandum of October 17, the Department of Human Services offered him continued employment as Supervisor II at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, effective November 16.

Petitioner accepted the assignment at Marlboro. However, prior to that, he requested a list of those positions within the Department of Human Services to which he might be entitled by his seniority. The Department of Human Services did not provide him with such listing.

Nov. 2, 1994

Petitioner filed a petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education, contending, in part, that following elimination of his position at Ancora, he should have been permitted to displace less senior employees at institutions that were more geographically favorable to him than Marlboro.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing. After petitioner presented his case, the Department of Human Services moved for dismissal, arguing that no reduction in staff had occurred and that the education laws did not preclude its action because petitioner had not suffered dismissal, demotion or reduction in pay as a result.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) recognized that petitioner's assignment to Marlboro had followed a reduction in force. She, however, agreed with the Department of Human Services that nothing precluded it from "transferring" petitioner to another assignment as a Supervisor II under these circumstances. Initial Decision, at 7.

The ALJ rejected the view that seniority rights attached in this case as a result of the reduction in staff that had occurred. She reasoned that such rights apply only if tenure rights are affected by a reduction in force, and she found that petitioner's tenure rights had not been affected because his tenure was systemwide and he had not suffered a loss in pay.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision and dismissed the petition. He agreed with respondent that the tenure laws had not been violated and found that petitioner was not entitled to a "RIF list" because he had not been "dismissed."

Petitioner appealed, contending that he had not been merely "reassigned", but rather had been "laid off" when his position at Ancora had been abolished. He asserts that he was thereby entitled to tenure protection, including the ability to exercise his seniority rights. He also renews the claim that his assignment at Ancora had not really been abolished because his duties had been transferred to the individual employed as the Assistant Supervisor at Ancora.

For the reasons that follow, we reverse the Commissioner's decision.

The threshold question here is whether a reduction in staff occurred. Even cursory consideration of the circumstances leaves no doubt that, as the ALJ recognized, this question must be answered in the affirmative. That being the case, the Department of Human Services was required to act in conformity with the mandates of the education statutes and petitioner was entitled to the protections afforded by those statutes.

The Legislature first granted tenure protection to teachers and other professional educators employed in State institutions within the Department of Human Services in 1986. See N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 et seq. Although the tenure protections afforded such personnel are part of the education laws and the protections parallel those afforded teaching staff members employed by district boards, the statutes involved are not identical to those applicable to teaching staff members employed by district boards of education. Compare N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 through N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 (tenure and seniority for teaching staff members employed by district boards) with N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 through N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 (tenure and seniority for professional educators employed by State institutions under DHS).

N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 provides in pertinent part that:

> The services of all professors, associate professors, assistant professors, instructors, supervisors, registrars, teachers, and other persons employed in a teaching capacity..., and teachers and other certified persons employed in State institutions within...the Department of Human Services, shall be under tenure...

N.J.S.A. 18A:60-2 further provides that

> No such professor, associate professor, assistant professor, instructor, supervisor, registrar, teacher, or other person employed in a teaching capacity, so under tenure, shall be dismissed or subjected to a reduction in salary except for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, or other just cause, and only in the manner prescribed by [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq.].

As is the case with school districts, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, the statutes applicable to State institutions also guarantee that:

> Nothing contained in this chapter shall be held to limit the right of...the Commissioner of Human Services, in the case of any State institution conducted under [his] jurisdiction, supervision or control;..., to reduce the number of...persons employed in a teaching capacity in any such institution or institutions when the reduction is due to natural diminution of the number of students or pupils in the institution or institutions...

N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3

In this case, there is no question that the Commissioner of Human Services acted under authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 when he determined to reduce the number of "persons employed in a teaching capacity" at Ancora by eliminating one assignment as Supervisor II for economic reasons. His letter of September 12, 1991, informing petitioner that he would be the one affected by this determination served as notice of the action. This gave rise to a cause of action under the education laws subject to the primary jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. See, e.g., Parisi v. Board of Education of the City of Asbury Park, decided by the State Board, October 24, 1984 (subsequent history omitted). The fact that petitioner's employment was ultimately continued in another assignment might affect the relief to which he is entitled. Parker and Pellegrino v. Board of Education of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, decided by the State Board, May 2, 1990. That fact, however, can not excuse the Department of Human Services from the obligations imposed on it by the education laws or insulate its actions from administrative review.[1] Id.

In his petition to the Commissioner of Education, petitioner claimed that his position as Supervisor II had not actually been abolished, but rather that the duties had been transferred to the individual employed at Ancora as Assistant Supervisor. Petition, count one. Neither the ALJ nor the Commissioner considered this question. Under the education laws, petitioner is entitled to a determination of this claim. E.g., Lingelbach v. Board of Education of the Borough of Hopatcong, Docket #A-4783-83T7 (App. Div. 1985), certif. denied, 101 N.J. 333 (1986). We would remand the matter on this basis alone.

Petitioner has also claimed that, even if the abolishment of his assignment at Ancora were valid, he was entitled to notice of his seniority status and to be retained on the basis of his seniority. Petition, counts three and four. We agree.

[1] We note that Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981), upon which the ALJ relied in sustaining the validity of DHS's actions, did not involve a reduction in staff. This fact was critical to the State Board's decision in the case, 1980 S.L.D. 1552, at 1555, and this distinguishing fact was reiterated in the Appellate Division's opinion. Williams can not be read to in any way support the proposition that tenure and seniority rights do not attach where the district board or appointing authority has reassigned individuals following formal action taken to reduce its staff.

N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3 provides that:

> ...When...persons employed in a teaching capacity under tenure are dismissed by reason of such reduction,... [such] persons employed in a teaching capacity having the least number of years of service to their credit shall be dismissed in preference to those having longer terms of service.

When the Department of Human Services acted to reduce its numbers and notified petitioner that he was the one who would be affected, it was required to notify petitioner of his seniority. Cf. Parisi, supra. Certainly, petitioner was entitled to such notice when he requested it on October 7, 1991. To hold otherwise would effectively insulate actions such as those involved here from challenge and render meaningless the protections afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:60-3. Id. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 (protections that parallel those at issue herein expressly require that district boards notify each affected person of his seniority in the case of any reduction in staff).

The record before us is not sufficiently developed to decide either petitioner's claim that the Department of Human Services did not in fact abolish his assignment at Ancora or, in the event that the assignment was in fact abolished, whether petitioner was entitled by seniority to be retained in any assignment other than that as Supervisor of Education Services II at Marlboro.[2] We

[2]DHS's exceptions to our Legal Committee's Report, assume, as did its earlier submissions, that petitioner's tenured "position" was that of "Supervisor 2."

As stated above, we have concluded the record developed thus far is not a sufficient one upon which we could determine the scope of petitioner's "position" or the category or categories in which he may have accrued seniority. In this respect, we note that, although therefore remand the matter for further hearing and determination of these claims.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

the education statutes do not include any reference to "tenure applicable titles," N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.3 uses this concept in defining one year of service for seniority purposes and that one of the examples listed in the regulation is "Supervisor of Educational Programs I and II."

We also note that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the scope of the position in which a teaching staff member achieves tenure and to which tenure protection attaches is either one specifically enumerated in statute or some other employment for which a certificate is required, either instructional, educational services or administrative and supervisory. Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., decided by the State Board of Education, September 3, 1986, aff'd, 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certf. den., 109 N.J. 514 (1987). Further, under the education laws, the scope of tenure protection is not necessarily congruent with the category in which seniority is acquired. Id.

Finally, we note that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.9, any reduction in the number of instructional staff in any state institution is subject to the seniority standards established by the Commissioner of Education under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-13, which were previously codified at N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10 and are now codified at N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1.

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 2, 1992

Decided by the State Board of Education, November 2, 1994

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Reitman, Parsonnet & Duggan, Jesse H. Strauss, Esq., of Counsel

For the Respondent-Respondent, Bruce A. Velzy, Deputy Attorney General, (Deborah T. Poritz, Attorney General of New Jersey)

Petitioner in this case is a tenured employee of the Department of Human Services (DHS), who was employed as a Supervisor of Education Services II (Supervisor II) at Ancora Hospital. In his petition to the Commissioner of Education, he challenged the validity of DHS's action in abolishing that position. He also alleged that DHS had violated his tenure by failing to provide him with a seniority list thereafter and by employing him as a Supervisor II at Marlboro Hospital following the reduction.

On November 2, 1994, the State Board of Education decided this case on appeal from a decision by the Commissioner of Education. In that decision, the Commissioner had summarily dismissed the petition. We reversed the Commissioner's decision, holding that petitioner was entitled to a determination of his claim that his position at Ancora had not actually been abolished. We further found that even if the abolishment were valid, petitioner had been entitled to notice of his seniority status and to be retained on the basis of his seniority.

We, however, concluded that the record before us was not sufficiently developed to determine whether the position had in fact been abolished or whether petitioner's seniority rights entitled him to retention at Marlboro in any assignment other than Supervisor II. We therefore remanded the matter for determination of these claims.

On December 16, 1994, DHS filed a motion with the State Board seeking reconsideration of our decision. DHS asserts that the question of whether the abolishment of petitioner's position at Ancora was valid is irrelevant because it had not acted improperly by assigning him to Marlboro and that, therefore, there is no need for a remand to decide the issue. It also maintains that because notice of petitioner's seniority status would not entitle him to relief in the form of his old job and attorneys fees, there is no need to remand this matter at all.

Petitioner counters that the motion should be denied because DHS has not raised any new issues and has not provided any newly discovered evidence warranting reconsideration. He also argues that because he was not reassigned, but rather was laid off as the result of a reduction in staff, he was entitled to a seniority list and to exercise his rights of retention on the basis of his tenure and seniority. Petitioner also contends that the issue of whether his position was in fact abolished is relevant because if DHS's action was not valid, the reduction as it affected petitioner would be null and void.

The State Board of Education denies the motion for reconsideration. DHS has not provided any new evidence or pointed to anything that would warrant reconsideration of our decision. In this respect, we stress that, as embodied in our decision of November 2, the fact that a reduction in staff occurred in this case is pivotal to the outcome. This is not a case where DHS acted merely to reassign one of its employees. Because petitioner falls within the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 et seq., providing tenure to certified persons employed in State institutions within the Department of Human Services, different rights and responsibilities are implicated than would have been the case had this matter involved only a transfer or reassignment of a non-certified staff member.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent challenged district policy preventing his son, C.R.P., a high school senior, from participating in first-marking period varsity sports for failure to obtain grade point average of 1.2 in the last marking period of the prior year.

Commissioner determined petitioner was not entitled to relief. Commissioner found C.R.P.'s eligibility status was determined and effectuated entirely within terms of Board policy and petitioner was not denied due process or opportunity to apply for exception. Moreover, Commissioner found Board policy itself was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines clearly sanction local district imposition of stricter eligibility requirements than those imposed by NJSIAA. Thus, Commissioner cannot substitute his own judgment for that of the Board acting within its discretionary authority. Petition was dismissed.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioner, R.J.P., Pro Se

For Respondent, Samuel J. Serata, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on October 14, 1992 and duly perfected on October 22, 1992, together with a request for emergent relief. In his filings, petitioner challenged a district policy preventing his son C.R.P., a high school senior, from participating in fall varsity sports due to failure to obtain a grade point average of 1.2 (2.0 = C) for the preceding marking period (the fourth period of the prior year) and sought a directive from the Commissioner overriding the Board's eligibility determination.

In his papers, petitioner argues that the Board's policy is unreasonable and unfair because under it, a student could attain a 1.2 average for the marking period while failing for the year, and still be eligible for fall sports so long as the failure did not drop his total credit amount below the earned credit requirement of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), thus giving a student who fails an entire subject an advantage over a student who merely fails the last marking period but still passes the course. Petitioner further argues that it is inherently wrong and not in the best interest of motivating students for district policy not to permit summer remediation of fourth marking period deficiencies, particularly since NJSIAA permits summer remediation for its annual earned credit requirement. In support of his request for emergent relief, petitioner points to the fact that any appeal would be mooted by passage of the football season and to his allegation that the district failed to notify C.R.P. of his ineligibility until after completion of summer sessions and after being chosen as a member of the starting team.

In reply papers filed on October 27, 1992, the Board argues that adoption of more stringent eligibility requirements than those of NJSIAA is its specific prerogative under both the law and NJSIAA rules, and that the Board fully considered the pros and cons of adopting such a policy when it so acted in 1985; C.R.P. does not deny that he was treated in accord with that policy, and the fact that he and his father believe the policy unfair, harsh or counterproductive cannot serve as a basis to defeat the Board's lawfully exercised discretion. With respect to notification, the Board observes that eligibility requirements are explicitly set forth in student handbooks and athletic guidelines routinely provided to all students and staff, so that C.R.P. cannot rely on the absence of specific personal notice of ineligibility to claim lack of awareness of the policy and its potential impact on him.

Finally, the Board notes that should C.R.P. obtain a 1.2 or better average for the current marking period, he will be eligible for second marking period participation in football and other sports.

Upon careful review of the papers filed, the Commissioner finds that this matter can be addressed in its entirety on the basis of those papers, as no facts are in dispute, there is substantial documentary evidence provided, and the parties' positions are clear and fully developed.

The undisputed material facts of this matter are that C.R.P. had a 1.0 average for the fourth marking period of the 1991-92 school year, thereby rendering him ineligible for participation in varsity sports for the first marking period of the 1992-93 school year under the following district policy (Policy 6145.1):

> N.J.S.I.A.A. Requirements
>
> All students participating in interscholastic athletic programs shall be required to meet the current eligibility requirements of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association. These standards shall be first applied to a student's academic record to determine eligibility.
>
> District Requirements
>
> Pending a student meeting the N.J.S.I.A.A. criteria, students at CRHS shall also be required to maintain a 1.2 grade point average as computed by the CRHS system at the beginning of the sports season. Freshman in their initial marking period shall be exempt. Note, this infers adherence to the attendance policy.
>
> To remain eligible throughout the entire sports season, the student must meet the district requirements each marking period.
>
> A student may acquire academic eligibility mid-season and participate if they meet the athletic program standards.

> The time frame for loss of eligibility and regaining eligibility shall be the day that report cards are issued.
>
> Should a conflict exist due to changes in the N.J.S.I.A.A. standards, state level requirements shall supersede local policy.

Receiving no notification of ineligibility at the end of the fourth marking period and apparently unaware of district policy, petitioner "worked out" during the summer in preparation for football, participated in early practices and continued participating until September 10, 1992, when he received personal notice of ineligibility. This notice was duly appealed by seeking an exemption through appropriate administrative channels, culminating in a hearing before the Board of Education. On September 24, 1992, after discussion and consideration of several points of view, the Board voted to deny C.R.P.'s request for exemption by a 7-1 vote; the instant appeal was filed as a result.

After due consideration of the above facts and arguments, the Commissioner finds that petitioner is not entitled to the relief he seeks, either on an emergent basis or on the merits.

The facts of this matter make it plain, and petitioner does not dispute, that C.R.P.'s eligibility status was determined and effectuated entirely within the terms of the policy cited above, neither does he challenge the Board's action on grounds of disparate treatment between himself and other similarly situated students. Nor can he claim that he was denied due process or opportunity to apply for exception, as the record shows that his request received careful and deliberate consideration by both the administration and the Board. Petitioner's only remedy, then, lies in successfully challenging the policy itself.

However, it is well established that the Commissioner cannot substitute his own judgment for that of a board of education when it acts within the lawful scope of its discretionary authority, and that the Commissioner can void a duly adopted board policy only when it is found to be arbitrary, capricious, or violative of law. The policy at issue herein cannot be characterized as any of these, as it is clearly designed to effectuate, in an objective, even-handed manner, the Board's lawful discretionary determination that district students must continuously maintain a minimum level of scholastic achievement in order to enjoy the privilege of continuous participation in sports. Indeed, the result sought by petitioner, ability to remediate fourth marking period deficiencies through attendance at summer school, would give an unfair advantage to students whose low average occurred in the fourth marking period rather than in one of the other three. Neither can petitioner point to the less stringent and differently structured requirements of NJSIAA to claim inequity, as NJSIAA Interpretive Guidelines (Section 3b, interpreting Bylaws Article V, Section 4.E) clearly sanction local district imposition of stricter eligibility requirements than those imposed by the state organization. Nor can he rely on deficiency of notice, as the district's eligibility policy is long-standing, clear on its face and published in the student handbook, and C.R.P.'s personal ineligibility notice was substantially in compliance with the policy term indicating computation of relevant averages at the "beginning of the sports season."

While it is unfortunate that C.R.P. evidently did not realize the consequences of his fourth marking period low grades, and the sincerity is clear of his father's belief that the district's requirement is unduly harsh and may negatively affect student attitudes toward school rather than encouraging them to do better, the fact remains that ignorance of published rules and differences of philosophy between a parent and school district cannot suffice as a basis for successful appeal to the Commissioner, who cannot, it is repeated, substitute his own judgment for that of a board acting within the scope of its discretionary authority.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board's policy is lawful on its face and that the Board's decision to deny C.R.P. eligibility for first marking period participation in 1992-93 sports is consistent with that policy and not subject to reversal by the Commissioner. The Petition of Appeal and request for Emergent Relief are dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MANCHESTER, PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MANCHESTER, OCEAN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

For Petitioner, Richard K. Sacks, Esq.

For Respondent, Joseph L. Foster, Esq. (Russo, Foster, Secare & Ford)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on June 5, 1992 by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Township of Manchester Board of Education (Board) appealing the 1992-93 budget reduction imposed by the Mayor and Council of the Township of Manchester (Township Council) after the defeat of the budget by the voters of the school district on April 7, 1992. On June 15, 1992, the Township Council submitted its Answer to the petition. Position statements were filed by the Board and Township Council on July 6 and 13, respectively. Replies were filed on July 29 by the Township Council and August 10 by the Board whereupon the record was closed.

On April 7, 1992, voters of the Manchester Township School District defeated the current expense and capital outlay tax levy proposed by the Board in the amount of $17,897,675 for current expense and $189,500 for capital outlay.

Subsequent to the defeat of the budget by the voters, the Board and the Township Council, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, consulted on the defeated budget whereupon the Council reduced the current expense budget by $193,180 and the capital outlay budget by $16,000. In addition to reducing the current expense tax levy as indicated above, the Council, by way of Appendix A attached to its resolution of April 27, 1992 establishing the tax levy, proceeded to detail a total of $463,180 in budget reductions with the difference between the $193,180 reduction in the tax levy and the $463,180 in reductions detailed, some $270,000, to come from the district's unappropriated free balance. Additionally, the Council presumed to add additional amounts above those requested by the Board in its original budget for Student Body Activities and Student Body Expenses.

The monies in contention in this dispute are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board		Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Township Council
Current Expense	$17,897,675	Current Expense	$17,704,495
Capital Outlay	189,500	Capital Outlay	173,500

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

In the instant matter, the Township Council upon defeat of the 1992-93 budget by the electorate did confer with the Board as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and established a tax levy to be used for school purposes. The aforesaid tax levy was established by imposing the following line item reductions in the budget and in the Board's unappropriated free balance for the reasons set forth below:

CURRENT EXPENSE REDUCTIONS

Account

120 - Attorney Fees

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$ 30,000	$ 22,000	$ 8,000

This line item has been reduced by $8,000 to $22,000 based on historic spending by the Board of Education. As of March 30, 1992, only $7,971 was expended by the Board for this line item for the 1991-92 budget. The Board of Education representatives who met with representatives of the governing body acknowledged that $22,000 would be sufficient in this line item in the 1992-93 budget.

520c - Transportation - Contracted Services

$180,000	$150,000	$30,000

This line item has been reduced by $30,000. The budget proposed by the Board of Education would appropriate $180,000 for this line item. As of March 30, 1992, only $102,375 has been expended under this line item from the 1991-92 budget. Representatives of the Board acknowledged that only about $140,000 would be spent in the 1991-92 fiscal year for this purpose. On that basis the governing body has found that $150,000 would be sufficient in this line item.

540 - Insurance - Pupil Transportation

$120,000	$115,000	$ 5,000

This item has been reduced by $5,000 to $115,000 based on historic spending practice by the Board of Education. In 1990-91 the Board spent $104,656 for this line item. As of March 30, 1992, the Board spent $107,271 from this line item and has admitted that the remaining balance of $7,729 will not be spent this year.

Account

545 - Insurance - Extra curricular Activities

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$ 35,722	$ 28,722	$ 7,000

This item has been reduced by $7,000 to $28,722 based on historic spending by the Board of Education. The governing body found that $20,000 of the remaining appropriation is necessary to provide for transportation for extracurricular athletic activities. Such sum should be available for such purpose due to the fact that none of the amount appropriated in this line item for 1990-91 and 1991-92 was expended by the Board of Education.

550 - Transportation - Other Expenses

$226,740	$190,000	$36,740

This line item has been reduced by $36,740. The budget proposed by the Board of Education would appropriate $226,740 under this line item. As of March 30, 1992, only $120,579 has been expended from this line item in the 1991-92 fiscal year. On that basis, the governing body has found that $190,000 would be sufficient in this fiscal year under this line item.

620 - Contracted Services - Plant Operation

$110,000	$ 90,000	$20,000

This line item has been reduced by $20,000. The budget proposed by the Board of Education for this line item would appropriate $110,000. As of March 30, 1992, the Board of Education has expended an amount considerably less than that appropriated for this line item in the 1991-92 budget. Representatives of the Board of Education acknowledged that there will be a minimum free balance from this line item in 1991-92 in the amount of $18,692.

Account

640 - Utilities

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$580,000	$450,000	$130,000

This line item has been reduced by $130,000. The budget proposed by the Board of Education would have appropriated $580,000 for this line item. As of March 30, 1992, the Board of Education has expended $286,610 from this line item. As of the middle of February 1992, the Board of Education opened its new school. The governing body has taken this factor into account by making an allowance for additional utility costs estimated from a comparable size school building operated by the Board of Education. After making that allowance, the governing body has found that $450,000 will be sufficient to cover utility costs for 1992-93.

730 - Equipment Replacement

$ 32,513	-0-	$ 32,513

This line item has been reduced by $32,513 which is the total amount proposed by the Board of Education in the defeated budget. The line item had been appropriated by the Board of Education for new replacement equipment which the governing body has found may be purchased from a free balance which will exist in the 1991-92 budget of the Board of Education in the approximate amount of $700,000. Representatives of the Board of Education, in consultation with representatives of the governing body, have acknowledged that the free balance remaining in the 1991-92 budget will approximate that amount.

Account

730c - New Equipment

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$254,477	$192,400	$62,077

This line item has been reduced by $62,077. The original amount appropriated by the Board of Education is in the amount of $254,477. The Board of Education has already committed and/or contracted for $192,400 from the amount appropriated by the Board of Education in this line item. As with the preceding line item, the governing body has found that the difference in the amount of $62,077 can be financed from the estimated free balance which will remain from the 1991-92 budget.

740 - Other Expenses

$161,850	$140,000	$21,850

This line item has been reduced by $21,850. The Board of Education had proposed an appropriation in this line item in the 1992-93 budget in the amount of $161,850. As of March 30, 1992, the Board of Education has expended $77,824 from this line item. The Board of Education has acknowledged that a minimum free balance will exist in this line item from the 1991-92 school budget in the amount of $17,520. On that basis, the governing body has found that $140,000 should be a sufficient appropriation in this line item.

Account

870e - Tuition - Special Education

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$ 582,683	$ 472,683	$110,000

This line item has been reduced by $110,000. The Board of Education had appropriated $582,683 in the proposed 1992-93 budget. In the school year 1991-92 the Board of Education expended only $304,901. As of March 30, 1992, the Board of Education has expended only $216,017 out of an original appropriation in the amount of $480,500. Based on historical spending, the governing body has found that $472,683 will be sufficient in the 1992-93 budget under this line item.

TOTALS	$2,313,985	$1,850,805	$463,180

CAPITAL OUTLAY REDUCTION AND STATEMENT OF REASONS

1230 - Buildings

$155,500	$139,500	$16,000

This line item has been reduced by $16,000. The budget proposed by the Board of Education had appropriated $155,500 under this line item. The Township Council has found that it is inappropriate to expend sums of money for these items from a defeated school budget. The Council has further found that the deferral of expenditures for these items will not threaten the Board of Education's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education. The amount of the reduction was appropriated by the Board for the replacement of garage doors in the Board office and for the replacement of carpeting in the arts room in the Middle School.

BOARD'S POSITION

Prior to setting forth its specific reasoning as to why the individual line item reductions are necessary to provide a thorough and efficient system of education, the Board sets forth several general arguments.

Initially, the Board argues that its 1992-93 proposed budget represented only a 3.4% increase over the 1991-92 budget which it claims provides for a per pupil expenditure below the average of the county, state and similar districts. (See copy of Cost of Education Index for 1990-91 attached to Board's Position Statement.) Additionally, the Board cites a letter from the Ocean County Superintendent expressing serious reservations as to the adequacy of the 1992-93 budget as presented to the voters. (See Letter attached to Board's Position Statement.)

The Board likewise decries and declares illegal the Township Council's attempt to add monies to the budget to restore reductions in the middle and high school athletic and club programs to placate community outcry.

The Board's specific arguments to the line item reductions imposed by the Township Council are set forth below:

Account 120 - Attorney's Fees $8,000

Council was informed, in confidence, of pending extraordinary litigation that may take place during the 1992-93 fiscal year. Council has chosen to ignore this information as represented by its reduction of funds in this account. The Board indicated to Council that the budgeted amount may in fact be insufficient to cover this pending litigation. Historical spending patterns in this account have no bearing for future estimates.

Account 520c - Transportation/Contracted Services $30,000

Council inaccurately states that the Board acknowledges that only $140,000 will be expended by the end of fiscal 1991-92. The Board recognizes the transient nature of the special education student and provides the necessary To and From transportation in this account. The budget appropriation of $180,000 for the 1992-93 fiscal year represents the Board's best and reasonable estimate due to contract renewals and/or the re-bidding of existing contracts.

Account 540 - Transportation/Insurance $ 5,000

Council has failed to consider the general cost of inflation as it relates to the renewal of insurance policies governing the automobile and liability coverage maintained by the Board for its school bus fleet. The increase from the 1991-92 budget to the proposed 1992-93 budget is 4.3%. Additionally, the Board reinstated non-mandated bussing for students grades six through twelve which will have an effect upon the overall insurance premium.

Account 545 - Extracurricular Activities $ 7,000

Council has failed to understand explanations provided during the consultation meeting with the Board regarding the manner in which appropriations were made into this account. The Council was informed that previous expenditures for these activities were placed into overtime salary accounts which will no longer be the practice in the 1992-93 budget. Additionally, Council was taken into the Board's confidence regarding the use of this account to provide funds for the school bus drivers bargaining unit as negotiations are not complete at the present time.

Account 550 - Transportation/Other Expenses $ 36,740

The appropriation of $226,740 for the 1992-93 fiscal year represents a 6.2% decrease from the budget of 1991-92. The Board believes that additional reductions in this account would significantly curtail the fleet operation and maintenance and reduce the efficiency of the fleet. Funds for appropriate repairs and supplies for same have been allowed for in this account.

Account 620 - Contracted Services/Plant Operation $ 20,000

Council inaccurately alleges the Board acknowledges a free balance in this account. The increase from the 1991-92 budget to the proposed 1992-93 budget is 3.2%. This account establishes the necessary fund for increase in trash removal, water testing services and Right-To-Know materials. The appropriation represents the funds needed to provide these services to the new elementary school.

Account 640 - Utilities $130,000

Council has failed to understand the budgeting in the utility account for the opening full year of the new elementary school, a projected 15.1% rate increase approval for Jersey Central Power and Light Company, adding water and sewer service fees for the new elementary school and full year telephone service for the same. This account represents a 14.1% increase overall from the 1991-92 budget. Additionally, the Council has failed to consider that two schools are total electric, two are completely air conditioned, and one will be used for special education extended school year programs.

Account 730 - Replacement of Equipment $ 32,513

Council inaccurately states the Board represented knowledge of the free balance. Additionally, the budgeting proposal as set forth by the Council in this line is inconsistent with sound fiscal management practices, especially in that balances at the present time are unaudited. The Board has appropriated needed funds for the replacement of both instructional and non-instructional equipment for the 1992-93 school year. The majority of funds are to replace aging and worn equipment in the schools.

Account 730c - Purchase of New Equipment $62,077

Council has used an inappropriate budgeting and expenditure concept as it relates to unaudited account balance and the spending of same during the current fiscal year. The Board has allowed sufficient funds to purchase new instructional and non-instructional equipment for the coming school year. Some of these purchases are to be made to assist in the district reorganization plan of the three elementary schools to provide parity within the two older facilities. Additional purchases of equipment related to the operations, care and upkeep of the buildings and grounds are budgeted within this account.

Note: The J730 account in total represents a decrease of 10.0% from the 1991-92 budget.

Account 740 - Other Expense/Buildings and Grounds $21,850

Council incorrectly alleges that the Board acknowledges a free balance in this account. Council has failed to consider the additional expenses consistent with the full year opening of the new elementary school. In particular, it is the belief of the Board that this facility will receive a great deal of community utilization which shall necessitate the increase in on-going maintenance of the grounds and building.

Account 870e - Tuition/Special Education $110,000

Prior to the consultation meeting between the Council and the Board, a listing documenting the anticipated placements and associated costs for special education students for the 1992-93 school year, (see attachment), was provided to Council. The document clearly demonstrates the need for the full appropriation with the potential of needing additional funds during the course of the school year. The budget increase from the 1991-92 fiscal to the 1992-93 fiscal is less than one-half of one percent.

Account 1230 - Capital Outlay/Buildings $ 16,000

The amount reduced by Council represents necessary replacement of a durable floor covering which is in the ninth year of use. Additionally, the reconfiguration of the Middle School has necessitated the re-flooring of instructional space consistent with the rest of the facility.

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL'S POSITION

The Township Council's position is set forth in its original resolution of April 27, 1992 setting the tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. It determined not to submit a further position but relied upon its original submission and its rebuttal of the Board's Position Statement.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Initially, the Commissioner would note that the actions of the Township Council in directing increases over those projected by the Board within specific line items is strictly without authority. Once the governing body has established a tax levy amount, the manner in which those funds are expended lies exclusively within the Board's purview. Therefore, the Commissioner's determination in the matter will be limited to the $193,180 reduction in the current expense tax levy and the $270,000 reduction in free balance directed by the Township in current expense and the $16,000 reduction in capital outlay.

The Commissioner notes that the Township Council asserts in its recommended reductions under line item 730 (Equipment Replacement) that the Board acknowledged an estimated free balance of $700,000 at the conclusion of the 1991-92 school year. While there are no audited figures to prove or disprove such an assertion, the Board offers no rebuttal to its accuracy other than to point out in its Reply that it was at the time of the filing of that document still in negotiations with its staff for settlement of the 1992-93 contract. Nonetheless, the Commissioner notes that even if such figure is accurate, a $700,000 unappropriated free balance in a budget of over $21,000,000 represents, as argued by the Board, only approximately 3% of the total budget and not an excessive amount to retain against unanticipated needs during the 1992-93 school year.

Having dealt with the two issues considered above, the Commissioner directs his attention to the specific line item reductions delineated by the Township Council. Dealing with this issue, however, has been particularly complicated by virtue of the fact that the Council has not clearly articulated those reductions which it meant to be specifically taken from the tax levy and which were to be funded out of the unappropriated free balance.

Account 120 Attorney Fees $ 8,000

After examining the arguments of the parties in their final summations, the Commissioner notes that the Township Council bases its reduction upon historic spending patterns while the Board contends that there are extraordinary requirements due to existing litigation and negotiation. Notwithstanding the Board's contentions, the Commissioner is unconvinced without more specific data as to the actual anticipated costs of the litigation in question that the Board cannot sustain a reduction in the amount designated by the Council. The reduction of $8,000 in this account is sustained.

Account 520c Transportation - Contracted Services $30,000

The Commissioner notes that the parties disagree as to whether the Board of Education acknowledged that its expenditures in 1991-92 would be only $140,000 in this account. Further, the Commissioner notes the Superintendent's statement to the effect that actual expenditures in 1991-92 were $167,436.05, an amount greater than than which was recommended by the Township's reduction to $150,000.

The Commissioner notes that the Township Council did not seek to rebut that contention by way of filing of a final summation. In light of the foregoing and the uncertainties relative to the number of pupils to be transported, the Commissioner determines that the $30,000 in this account be restored to the tax levy.

Account 540 Insurance - Pupil Transportation $ 5,000

The Commissioner notes that neither party has addressed this item in its Reply submissions. Based upon the history of past expenditures contended by the Township Council and the likelihood of rebuttal by the Board, the Commissioner determines that the reduction of $5,000 imposed by the Council be sustained.

Account 545 Insurance - Extracurricular Activities $ 7,000

While the Board has failed to address this line item in its Reply, the Township Council continues to rely upon its assertion of past patterns of spending which stands unrebutted by the Board's failure to address it. The $7,000 reduction is sustained.

Account 550 Transportation - Other Expenses $ 36,740

Based upon the Board's unrebutted assertion that its 1991-92 actual expenditures and encumbrances were $233,564, an amount greater than that deemed necessary by the Township Council, the Commissioner deems the Board's anticipated expenditure of $226,740 in this account to be a reasonable estimate and therefore directs restoration of $36,740 in this account.

Account 620 Contracted Services - Plant Operation $ 20,000

In this account as in the other accounts, the parties differ as to whether a surplus for 1991-92 was acknowledged by the Board at the time of their conference. The Commissioner is, however, convinced that the operation of a new school plant for an entire year justifies an anticipated expenditure greater than the $90,000 projected by the Township Council after its reduction, particularly when the initial budgeted amount in 1991-92 was only $86,084.17 and that amount only anticipated operation of the new plant for one-half the school year. Therefore, the Commissioner directs the restoration of $20,000 in this account.

Account 640 Utilities $130,000

Despite claims by the Township Council that the Board had expended only $286,610 in this account by March 1992, the Board in its Reply contends that its actual expenditures in this line item for 1991-92 were $500,099 and that its anticipated expenditures for 1992-93 include the operation of a new plant for an entire year. Since the Council took no opportunity to rebut the Board's contention by way of filing a final summation, the Commissioner accepts the figures as delineated by the Board and determines that the $130,000 reduction in this account be restored.

Account 730 Equipment Replacement $ 32,513

The Board in its Reply has delineated the equipment to be replaced as including student furniture, AV equipment, cafeteria tables, science equipment and instructional computer replacement. The Commissioner notes that the Township Council does not dispute their necessity but argues that the items can be purchased out of surplus. Since the Commissioner has already determined the Board's surplus to be well within permissible limits, the Commissioner directs the restoration of the $32,513 by which the Council reduced this account.

Account 730c New Equipment $ 62,077

Again the Township Council argues for the funding of the expenditure in this line item out of free balance. The Board's arguments that the funds are necessary to equip five new classrooms is convincing in light of the Commissioner's earlier finding regarding the Board's free balance. The $62,077 is deemed necessary for providing a thorough and efficient education.

Account 740 Other Expenses $ 21,850

This is another account in which the parties are in dispute as to whether the Board acknowledged a surplus at its conference meeting. After examining the arguments raised by the parties, the Commissioner finds that the Board has failed to meet its burden in demonstrating the necessity for the significant increase in this account. The reduction of $21,850 is sustained.

Account 870e Tuition - Special Education $110,000

The Board in its Reply contends that actual tuition for Special Education in 1991-92 was $454,986 and thus the $110,000 reduction directed by the Township Council would allow for expenditures in 1992-93 below the 1991-92 actual. The Commissioner notes that the Board is in error in that the reduction imposed by the Township would permit expenditures in 1992-93 of $472,683, approximately $18,000 above the 1991-92 expenditures. Notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner notes that special education tuition is unpredictable at best, therefore he directs that the $110,000 be deemed necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

CAPITAL OUTLAY

Account 1230 Buildings $ 16,000

The Commissioner notes that the Board makes no attempt to defend this appropriation in its Reply. Having considered the argument of the Township Council as to the necessity for this expenditure in a defeated budget, the Commissioner agrees with the Council that the necessity for these expenditures has not been demonstrated by the Board and, therefore, the reduction of $16,000 capital outlay is sustained.

In summary, because of the difficulty in determining the precise amounts of the reductions the Township Council designated as coming out of surplus, the Commissioner reviewed each of the designated reductions line item by line item. Out of the $463,180 in current expense reductions, the Commissioner determined that $41,850 were sustainable and $421,330 were either restored or deemed to be necessary for providing a thorough and efficient system of education. Since the Board's unappropriated free balance was deemed to be no more than sufficient to meet unanticipated costs and since the Commissioner can restore no more than the amount by which the current expense tax levy was reduced, the Commissioner finds and determines that $41,850 of the reductions in the current expense tax levy by the Township Council be sustained and that the Ocean County Board of Taxation be directed to restore $151,330 to the Manchester Board's current expense tax levy bringing the total current expense tax levy for 1992-93 to the amount of $17,855,825.

The Commissioner further directs that the $16,000 reduction in the capital outlay tax levy for 1992-93 be sustained and that the 1992-93 capital outlay tax levy remain at $173,500 as previously certified by the Township Council.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Albert O. Scafuro, Esq. (Scafuro & Gianni) for Petitioner

Robert T. Regan, Esq., for Respondent Upper Saddle River

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Board of Education of the Northern Highlands Regional School District (Board) on May 6, 1992, seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of reductions by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Allendale and Mayor and Council of the Borough of Upper Saddle River (Councils) in the current expense tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. These reductions were made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.2(b)2 following voter rejection of the Board's proposed current expense budget on April 7, 1992 and after consultation with the Board as required by law.

The total proposed and certified budgets as well as the amounts in dispute in this matter are set forth below:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount of Tax Levy Certified By Councils
Current Expense	$7,670,739	$7,570,739

	Amount of Reduction By Councils	Amount of Reduction in Dispute Before Commissioner
Current Expense	$ 100,000	$ 100,000

The reductions at issue were effectuated by Respondent Upper Saddle River in its resolution dated April 20, 1992 and by Respondent Allendale in its resolution dated April 23, 1992. The rationale for the reductions was specified by Respondent Upper Saddle River in its resolution dated May 7, 1992 and by Respondent Allendale in its resolution dated May 14, 1992. The reductions with rationale are as follows:

Account	Reduction
214E - Salaries, Other Instructional	$39,931
Elimination of AV/TV salaries position
730C - New Equipment	$ 7,350
Deferral of purchases
810A - Employees, Retirement	$ 2,800
Reduction because of personnel reduction in 214E
820B - Employee Insurance	$49,919

Reduction because of State offer to allow a one month premium delay/benefit option

Respondent Upper Saddle River filed an Answer on May 18, 1992 admitting the amounts set forth above but leaving the Board to its proofs on all other respects. Respondent Allendale filed an Answer on June 17, 1992 which confirmed the amounts listed above. On July 14, 1992, Respondent Allendale submitted a letter stating that it would rely on the Mayor and Council of Upper Saddle River in this case. On August 12, 1992, the Board submitted its position statement. The Council submitted its position statement, with minor corrections, on August 17, 1992. On August 18, 1992 the Council submitted its reply to the Board's position statement. On August 21, 1992, the Board filed a letter stating that no more submissions would be sent.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

Mindful, then, of the balance to be applied in his standard of review, the Commissioner makes the following determinations with respect to the specific line items reduced by the Councils.

Account 214E - Salaries, Other Instructional $39,931

The Councils' position is that there is no need for a staff person who has no direct classroom assignments and only attends to a variety of AV/TV matters which have some involvement with the school programs. The Board's position is that the duties of the Director of TV Studio and AV Services cannot be assigned to other staff members, such as vice principal, without having a deleterious impact on library and media services. The Board, however, has reduced the position to half-time and will thus need only $20,000 of the $39,931 budgeted. The Commissioner finds and determines that there is no evidence that the position of Director of TV Studio and AV Services, although worthwhile, is essential to a thorough and efficient educational program. The reduction of $39,931 is sustained.

Account 730C - New Equipment $ 7,350

The Councils' position is that the expenditures in this account have been high over the past several years. They also note that there were still open orders as of April 13, 1992 and they state that it is late in the year to purchase equipment for the current year since approximately 75% of the school year has already lapsed. They conclude that some purchases could be deferred by all departments or purchased from existing funds in the current budget without any negative impact on the school system. The Board accepts the Councils' rationale for a reduction in Account 730C, but states that it now will need those funds on another line because they are underbudgeted due to the recently negotiated contract with the teachers' association.

It must be noted that an appeal of tax levy reductions may only focus on the specific line item reductions and may not involve requests for additional funds for other line items. The Commissioner determines, therefore, that the reduction of $7,350 is sustained.

Account 810A - Employment Retirement $ 2,800

The position of the Councils is that this reduction in FICA/ Pensions obligations is possible because of the elimination of the TV/AV position. The Board's position is that these funds will be needed for the additional teachers necessitated by the negotiated contract. It must be noted that social security and pension obligations for teachers are not budgeted in Account 810A but rather in 810B and 810D, respectively. Therefore, based on the restrictions for appeal as specified above, the Commissioner determines that the reduction of $2,800 is sustained.

Account 820B - Employee Insurance $49,919

The position of the Councils is that this reduction can be realized by the Board taking advantage of the offer by the State Health Benefits Program for a one month premium delay option. The Board accepts the Councils' rationale but again states that the funds will be needed for teachers' salaries. Again, based on the restrictions for appeal as specified above, the Commissioner determines that the reduction of $49,919 is sustained.

Thus, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner determines that the reduction in the current expense tax levy of $100,000 is sustained. The tax levy of $7,570,739 originally certified to the Bergen County Board of Taxation by the Councils for current expense purposes for 1992-93 will remain unchanged.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER

APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF THE BOROUGH OF OCEAN GATE,

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioner, Arthur Stein, Esq. (Arthur Stein & Associates

For Respondent, Richard S. Haines, Esq. (Haines & Thompson)

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner on May 26, 1992 by way of Petitions of Appeal filed by the Borough of Ocean Gate Board of Education (Board) appealing the budget defeated by the voters of the school district on April 7, 1992 and the defeated cap waiver. On June 19, 1992 the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Ocean Gate (Borough) submitted its Answers to both the appeal of the defeated budget and the defeated cap waiver. A position statement was filed by the Board on July 13, 1992. The Borough submitted a packet of materials on July 7, 1992 and indicated its willingness to rely on its Resolution #92-45 which contained its reductions of the current expense tax levy and the reasons presented for such reductions. No other papers being filed by the parties, the record closed.

On April 7, 1992, the voters of the Borough of Ocean Gate defeated the current expense tax levy proposed in the amount of $648,625. They likewise defeated a proposed current expense cap waiver of $51,540 which the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools approved on March 5, 1992 as necessary for a thorough and efficient system of education of the students of Ocean Gate and which resulted in the County Superintendent granting only a conditional approval of the district's budget for the 1992-93 school year. The specific line item accounts for the T&E cap waiver are as follows:

CURRENT EXPENSES	LINE ITEM BUDGET
Account Title	Account No.	Amount
Instruction - Salaries - Teachers Music Teacher - $ 5,500.00 Art Teacher - $17,500.00	57B-213	$23,000
Instruction - Salaries - Other Inst. Staff - Librarian	60-214	$16,500
Instruction - Textbooks Music Books	63-220	$ 2,000
Instruction - School Library A./V. - Library Books/Mag	64-230	$ 3,000
Instruction - Supplies Art Supplies	65-240	$ 1,500
Instruction - Purchase Prof. Ed. Serv. Curriculum Dev.	67-260a	$ 3,000
Instruction - Technical Ed. Serv.	68-260b	$ 500
Maintenance of Plant - Cont. Serv. Roof Repair	97-720	$ 2,040
TOTAL ADDITIONAL CURRENT EXPENSE APPROPRIATION		$51,540

Subsequent to the defeat of the budget by the voters, the Board and the Borough, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, consulted on the defeated budget whereupon the Borough reduced the current expense budget by $13,628. Consequently, the monies in contention in this consolidated matter are set forth below:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount Certified by Borough

I. DEFEATED BUDGET

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

In the instant matter, the Borough upon defeat of the 1992-93 budget by the electorate did confer with the Board as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and established a tax levy to be used for school purposes. The aforesaid tax levy was established by imposing the following line item reductions:

Account

110-49 - Administration - Salaries

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$ 85,793	$ 82,915	$ 2,878

Feel increase is too high and a cost of living increase of 3% would be sufficient. These high increases continue to compound problems.

120b-50 - Administration - Legal Fees

$ 4,000	$ 3,500	$ 500

Board should exercise some restraint in fees paid to attorneys.

213-57b - Instruction - Salaries

$301,358	$298,358	$ 3,000

Feel increases are too high and a cost of living increase of 3% would be sufficient.

310-70 - Attendance & Health Services - Salaries, Attendance

$ 500	$ -0-	$ 500

Feel this should be included in duties of Superintendent.

Account

410-73 - Salaries - Health

Budgeted	Revised Amount	Proposed Reduction
$14,788	$14,038	$ 750

Feel increase is too high and increase of 3% based on cost of living would be sufficient.

430-75 - Purchased Professional/Technical Services - Health

$ 2,780	$ 2,280	$ 500

Feel Board has over-estimated number of students requiring this examination.

610-88 - Operation of Plant - Salaries

$42,006	$36,506	$ 5,500

Feel increase is too high and a cost of living increase of 3% would be sufficient.

TOTAL $13,628

BOARD'S POSITION

The Board in its Position Statement sets forth a general description of the current state of the district regarding its financial, instructional and facilities circumstances. The details of such descriptions are summarized below:

1. District consists of a single school which is actually three schools on one site. One building, constructed in 1969, contains grades 2-6 as well as administrative offices. A second building houses grades 2-6 with two classrooms approximately 50 years old and, additionally, a Kindergarten building which is over 70 years old.

2. A growing district which projects a 6% growth in population between 1991-92 and 1992-93 and which projects a student population of 266 by 1996-97. (See Board's Position Statement, Exhibit A.)

3. A high level of classified students which increased from 19 in 1991-92 to 33 in 1992-93 (74% increase).

4. Inability to obtain state certification in the absence of a plan for providing additional space to eliminate substandard conditions.

5. Substandard facilities are as follows:

- Use of library for classroom
- Use of Superintendent's office for Child Study Team meetings, nurses' examinations and speech therapy.
- Stage used for storage denying use for programs.
- Absence of a business office and required use of main office for Board Secretary.
- Approval by the County Superintendent of continued use of substandard space in 1992-93 only upon the undertaking of a building program during that school year.

6. Failure of monitoring in 1989-90 due to curriculum deficiencies resulting in the necessity to hire teachers to do curriculum upgrading. This process is continuing with 1992-93 designated for curriculum revision in reading.

7. District received award in 1991-92 from the Commissioner's Discretionary Fund in order to continue its ability to provide a thorough and efficient education.

8. District applied for a cap waiver in 1991-92 which the Commissioner granted in the amount of $29,000.

9. District stands below comparable districts in per pupil expenditure and teachers' salaries. (See Report Card attached as Exhibit D.)

10. Budget surplus estimated at $40,000 for 1992-93.

11. Negotiations in progress at the time of filing of the Petition of Appeal.

The following represents the Board's position on a line item by line item basis relative to the reductions imposed by the Borough:

Account 110 Administration - Salaries $2,878

The Board essentially argues that the 3% increase limit imposed by the Borough for administrative salary increases is entirely unrealistic and that there is no school board labor contract, to its knowledge, in the State as low as 3%. The Board also contends that its present salary level for all employees stands at the lower level for comparable districts in the region and State as indicated by the Report Card.

Account 120b Administration - Legal Fees $ 500

The Board argues that its budget in this area contains only $2,000 for the budget appeal herein and $2,000 for general counseling services throughout the year. The Board points out that its attorney's fee is $95 an hour and that the counseling services which are utilized are necessary to function efficiently.

Account 213 Instruction - Salaries $3,000

Again the Board argues that a 3% salary increase is unrealistic. It has provided for a salary increase of 7% in preparation for negotiations with its teachers since this is the average expected increase in Ocean County. The Board points out its adverse position relative to county and comparable districts. The Board also points out that its salary account for teachers represents an increase of only $819 over the 1991-92 year, a percentage increase of only .0027%.

Account 310 Attendance and Health Services - Salaries, Attendance $ 500

The money in this account is for an additional stipend for the Superintendent to undertake duties of attendance officers. Such duties are not normally part of a chief school administrator's duties. Without the Superintendent's assumption of these duties, the cost of hiring additional personnel would be more expensive.

Account 410 Salaries - Health $ 750

The amounts in this account are for an increase in the salary of a half-time school nurse. The reduction which the Borough proposes would leave only a 1.7% increase of $152.

The remainder of the budget in this account is for a school doctor whose stipend of $1,000 is the same as for 1991-92.

Account 430 Purchased Professional/Technical Services - Health $ 500

The amount budgeted in this account represents the funds necessary to provide for Child Study Team services as detailed below:

General Physicals at $40 X 13	$ 520
Ophthalmologic Exams at $65 X 7	455
Audiological Exams at $81 X 5	405
Neurological Exams at $175 X 5	875
Psychiatric Exams at $175 X 3	525
	$2,780

These estimates, contends the Board, are its best estimates of the actual examinations required.

Account 610 Operation of Plant - Salaries $5,500

The amounts in this line item are for compensation increases for one full-time and one part-time custodian and the hiring of an additional part-time custodian to provide maintenance services in three prototype trailers which the district has rented for 1992-93 to compensate for its substandard conditions.

The Board argues that it saves money through the hiring of an additional part-time custodian rather than extending the time of the existing part-time custodian by not having to provide benefits which would have been necessary if the part-time custodian had been extended in time.

BOROUGH'S POSITION

As noted earlier in this decision, the Borough has indicated its willingness to stand on the reasons it presented in its Resolution #92-45.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The Commissioner has carefully reviewed the positions of both parties as presented to him. Based upon that review, it is abundantly clear that the reasons for the reductions set forth by the Borough are essentially arbitrarily based upon the assumption that the Board could limit salary increase for its personnel to 3%. Such assumptions as they relate to the salary accounts are entirely unrealistic given the state of salary increases in the region, as well as the relatively low standing of the district in relation to comparable districts in the region and State as indicated by the School District Report Card, attached as Exhibit D to the Board's Position Statement.

As to the other reductions imposed by the Borough relative to fees for legal and professional services, the Commissioner finds that the reasons advanced by the Borough are unsubstantiated, based upon "feelings" rather than data, while the Board has provided substantial hard data justifying its needs.

Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that the amount of $13,628 be restored to the Board of Education of the Borough of Ocean Gate's 1992-93 current expense tax levy.

II. CAP WAIVER

The Board sets forth the following reasons for seeking the cap waiver:

Acct. 213/Line 57b Instruction - Salaries, Teachers $23,000

These funds are necessary in order to provide a music and art program for the students. Without these funds, the District will have no music or art program. These funds are intended to provide what can be described at best as a modest music and art program. Proposed is a one day per week (1/5) music teacher and a two day per week (2/5) art teacher. There is no other art/music teacher on the staff. In the 1991-92 school year, this modest program was paid for from the Commissioner's Discretionary Funds awarded to the District. The 1/5 music teacher salary for the 1991-92 school year was $5,154.40 with the projected cost for 1992-93 to be $5,515.20. The cost of the 2/5 art teacher during 1991-92 was $16,356.80 with the cost anticipated for 1992-93 to be $17,501.80. Both of the salary increases for the 1992-93 school year represent a 7% increase in accordance with the District's reasonable anticipation of the result of its negotiations, presently ongoing, with its teachers. The circumstances of these negotiations have been more fully spelled out in the other certifications. See, for example, discussion at Paragraph 5, Account 110, Pages 3 through

5 of Certification as to Current Expense Budget Defeat. These services are needed for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 214/Line 60 Instruction - Salaries - Other Instructional Staff - Librarian $16,500

These funds are intended to provide a more traditional library program for the school. Prior to the 1991-92 school year, the District traditionally employed a librarian on a two day per week (2/5) basis. During the 1991-92 school year, this time was reduced to a one day per week (1/5) time basis because the library was being used as a substandard emergency classroom facility for the sixth grade. As a result, the librarian was forced to work with a cart going from classroom to classroom. The use of the library as a substandard classroom facility, by law, must be terminated. As a result, arrangements have been made by the District to house the sixth grade class in a temporary trailer. This will allow reuse of the library room for its designated purpose as a library. Since the library will now be back in use, a commitment of a librarian on a 2/5 time basis is again required. This will permit the more traditional library program that the District has always had with the exception of the time when the library has been used as a substandard instructional area. That traditional library program includes library instruction and overseeing the collection including ordering and cataloging. The amount budgeted during the 1991-92 school year for the 1/5 librarian was $7,695.00. The amount budgeted for the 1992-93 2/5 librarian is $16,500.00. Any difference is attributable to the 7% increase anticipated as the result of the completion of labor negotiations. The services are needed for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 220/Line 63 Instruction - Textbooks - Music Books $2,000

Prior to the 1991-92 school year, the District had a music curriculum but no instructional materials or textbooks. During the 1991-92 school year the District purchased music books for three of the grades spending approximately $2,000.00. If the music program is to continue, it is necessary that the District purchase books for the remaining three grades. The cost of the books plus equipment and records to accompany the series is $12.00 per book. This purchase includes such items as rhythm instruments for the third grade. The purchase is necessary in order to provide any form of reasonable music program to all of the students. Accordingly, the materials are needed for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 230/Line 64 Instruction - School Library A/V - Library Books/Magazines $3,000

During the school year 1991-92 no books or magazines of any type were purchased. Prior to that, when the school was using the library for its intended purposes, the District spent $4,268.03 during the 1990-91 school year for these purposes. The District has presently fallen behind with reference to this service. If this modest purchase of $3,000.00 is not made at this time, the District will fall further behind. This will require at some point a substantial one year expenditure. Based upon experience of the Chief School Administrator, that is not reasonable budgeting.

If the District does not receive these funds, the District expenditure for these educational materials for the school years 1991-92 and 1992-93 will total $0. That means no library books, not even one periodical or magazine, or any supplies, will have been received for two years.

The materials are needed for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 240/Line 65 Instruction - Supplies - Art Supplies $1,500

The District intends to provide an art program. If we have such a program, supplies are needed. During the 1991-92 school year, we spent approximately $1,500.00. This represents approximately $8.70 per student for the entire school year. There is no provision for the purchase of these supplies anywhere else in the budget because the District did not want to provide for their purchase if funds for the teacher were not also provided. It is respectfully submitted that the program as outlined is modest in scope but is necessary for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 260a/Line 67 Instruction - Purchased Professional Ed. Service - Curriculum Development $3,000

This is part of the aftermath of the District's failure of monitoring in 1989 with reference to curriculum development. During 1991-92, the District spent $2,500.00 to upgrade the language arts curriculum to current standards. This money is intended to upgrade the reading currriculum to current standards. This was last done more than five years ago. Accordingly, it is necessary to expend these funds now. This particular curriculum involves the most comprehensive curriculum review for this District. These funds are needed in order for the District to function efficiently and properly and to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 260b/ Line 68 Instruction-Technical Education Services $ 500

This is the same amount as spent during the 1991-92 school year. It is to pay for professional services for the development of curriculum. The District intends to hire a consultant to provide guidance and advice on the development of curriculum. It is necessary to adequately develop the curriculum to current standards.

This expenditure is particularly pertinent because, as previously noted, the District was cited for a deficiency in its curriculum development. This expenditure is consistent with the action plan already approved by the New Jersey Department of Education. It is, therefore, an expenditure that is necessary for the District to function efficiently and properly to provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

Acct. 720/Line 97 Maintenance of Plant - Contracted Services - Roof Repair $2,040

The roof on the main building presently leaks in 13 different locations. Some of these leaks are in classroom areas. Nothing has been spent on this problem for the last five years. It is a long overdue repair as some of the leaks have existed for as long as four to five years. There is a legitimate concern about the eventual structural damage to the roof and the building. This is a necessary repair to preserve the plant. The expenditure is needed for the District to function efficiently and properly and provide for a thorough and efficient education for all students.

BOROUGH'S POSITION

The Commissioner notes that the Borough offers no specific position relative to the cap waiver relying exclusively on its Resolution #92-45.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon review of the Board's position, the Commissioner finds and determines that the record amply establishes that the additional $51,540 in current expense cap waiver monies sought by the Board are necessary for the district to provide a thorough and efficient system of education to the pupils of the Ocean Gate School District. East Brunswick, supra; Deptford Township, supra

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that the Ocean County Board of Taxation increase the 1992-93 current expense tax levy for Ocean Gate to reflect a restoration of the $13,628 reduction effectuated by the Borough and an additional $51,540 in cap waiver monies which sum amounts to $65,168. Therefore, the total current expense tax levy for Ocean Gate shall be $700,165.

	Amount Certified By Borough	Amount Restored	Tax Levy After Restoration

Notice of Determination

Dear Mr. Velez:

The Board of Trustees, Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund at its meeting of July 2, 1992 approved your application for Ordinary disability under Maximum allowance effective January 1, 1992.

Your retirement allowance as a disability retirant under age 60 is subject to adjustment if your earnings from employment after retirement exceed the difference between the pension portion of your retirement allowance and the salary attributable to your former position.

It is noted that you elected to receive benefits under Maximum allowance. You have the right to change this election to another type of retirement payment provided you file an amended application within 30 days from the date of Board approval; otherwise, retirement will stand as approved and may not be changed for any reason whatsoever thereafter.

The statute permits the Board of Trustees to require a disability retirant who is under 60 years of age to undergo annual medical examinations to determine if he continues to be totally and permanently disabled and therefore eligible for continued receipt of his disability retirement allowance.

Your first retirement check cannot be disbursed until a minimum of 30 days has elapsed from the date of Board approval or your effective date of retirement, whichever is the later date.

Sincerely,

Regina M. Trauner

Record Closed: September 21, 1992 Decided: September 29, 1992

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, A:

In early 1990, the petitioners filed verified petitions with the Commissioner of Education, contesting certain actions taken by respondent in connection with the State takeover of the Jersey City school district. The disputes involved transfers, demotions, abolition of positions and other personnel actions that affected the petitioners and their positions at the time of and after the takeover. The petitioners' claims specifically dealt with accumulated vacation time and terminal leave, salary reductions, statutory compensation allegedly due because of the abolition of previously held positions and entitlement to certain replacement positions.

The matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing and determination as contested cases after the petitions were filed. On April 16, 1990, a prehearing conference was held and a prehearing order was entered, defining and limiting the issues to be decided, fixing hearing dates, providing for discovery and regulating other procedural aspects of the forthcoming hearing.

A series of motions were filed by counsel thereafter, which were duly disposed of by the judges assigned to the matter. (The first judge to whom the matter was assigned retired, necessitating reassignment of the case to this judge). In addition, the majority of the issues were thereafter amicably resolved by the parties, and only two issues ultimately remained for disposition. The first issue involved the petitioner's entitlement, if any, to 60 days' pay upon the abolition of positions previously held by them, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, in addition to salary received in their transferred positions during the same period of time. The second issue involved a claim by petitioner Franklin Williams to be transferred to the position of Deputy Superintendent on October 4, 1989, rather than to the position of Assistant Superintendent for Elementary Education.

A series of briefs were filed in preparation for final argument and possible plenary hearing relating to the above two issues. However, in June 1992, counsel advised that both issues had been settled and that the petitioners would withdraw their requests for hearing.

On September 3, 1992, written settlement agreements were filed in the Office of Administrative Law. Copies of the agreements entered into with four of the five petitioners are attached hereto and made a part hereof. Petitioner Arsenio Silvestri had previously withdrawn any and all claims in the matter.

Copies of each of the settlement agreements, and a copy of counsel's advice relating to Mr. Silvestri's withdrawal, are attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Having reviewed and considered the issues involved in this dispute, it is CONCLUDED that the parties have voluntarily and knowingly agreed to the settlements, or withdrawn their claims, as evidenced by the attached documents. It is further CONCLUDED that the settlements are fair and fully dispositive of all issues in controversy between the parties.

It is therefore ORDERED that the settlements and one withdrawal be approved and all matters DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, and respondents hereby agree to settle any and all claims remaining which relate to the issue of sixty-days pay in lieu of sixty-days notice as set forth in the Petition of Appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU 749-90.

1. Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, shall withdraw, with prejudice, his claim for and/or relating to the issue of sixty-days notice in lieu of sixty-days pay. A settlement agreement shall be executed and filed with Judge Arnold Samuels, A.L.J., upon full execution of this document.

2. In consideration of petitioners' withdrawal with prejudice, respondents shall pay petitioner, Chester Kaminski, the gross amount of six thousand, five hundred dollars ($6,500), which shall be subject to standard and ordinary deductions (federal, state and SSI) prior to disbursement.

3. The check shall be drawn to both petitioner, Chester Kaminski, and Margaret Murphy, Esq., and shall be forwarded to Melissa Vance Kirsch, Esq. for distribution to petitioner.

4. Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, in consideration of the above payment of monies, agrees to release respondents from any and all claims which he has, and/or may have, relative to or arising out of his claim for sixty-days notice in lieu of sixty-days pay. Petitioner also agrees to release respondents from any and all claims relating to, or arising out of, or in connection with, the instant claim being settled and/or withdrawn from the Office of Administrative Law.

5. Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, agrees to bind anyone who succeeds to his rights and responsibilities, including his heirs or executors of his estate, to the terms of this Settlement Agreement.

6. Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, and respondents acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement terminates any and all litigation between the parties regarding the claims contained in their individual petitions.

7. Petitioner, Chester Kaminski, has voluntarily and without coercion entered into this Settlement Agreement with respondents.

Petitioner, Franklin Williams, and respondents hereby agree to settle any and all claims remaining which relate to the issue of sixty-days pay in lieu of sixty-days notice as set forth in the Petition of Appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU 753-90, and the issue of his entitlement to the position of Deputy Superintendent as set forth in Petition of Appeal, OAL Docket No. EDU 6110-90.

1. Petitioner, Franklin Williams, shall withdraw, with prejudice, his claims for and/or relating to the issues of: (a) sixty-days notice in lieu of sixty-days pay; and, (b) his entitlement to the position of Deputy Superintendent following the initial state-takeover. A settlement agreement shall be executed and filed with Judge Arnold Samuels, A.L.J., upon full execution of this document.

2. In consideration of petitioners' withdrawal with prejudice, respondents shall pay petitioner, Franklin Williams, the gross amount of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), which shall be subject to standard and ordinary deductions (federal, state and SSI) prior to disbursement.

3. The check shall be drawn to both petitioner, Franklin Williams, and Margaret Murphy, Esq., and shall be forwarded to Melissa Vance Kirsch, Esq. for distribution to petitioner.

4. Petitioner, Franklin Williams, in consideration of the above payment of monies, agrees to release respondents from any and all claims which he has, and/or may have, relative to or arising out of his claim to sixty-days notice in lieu of sixty-days pay. Petitioner also agrees to release respondents from any and all claims which he has, and/or may have, relative to or arising out of, his claims to the position of Deputy Superintendent. Petitioner further agrees to release respondents from any and all claims which he has, and/or may have, relative to or arising out of, or in connection with, the instant claim being settled and/or withdrawn from the Office of Administrative Law.

5. Petitioner, Franklin Williams, agrees to retire from the employ of respondent school district as of June 30, 1992. Petitioner shall be entitled to any and all benefits for which he is eligible (including, but not limited to, sick leave reimbursement) and are due those employees retiring from the district this year. Petitioner further agrees to submit a letter of resignation, effective June 30, 1992 to Dr. Scambio.

6. Petitioner, Franklin Williams, agrees to bind anyone who succeeds to his rights and responsibilities, including his heirs or executors of his estate, to the terms of this Settlement Agreement.

7. Petitioner, Franklin Williams, and respondents acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement terminates any and all litigation between the parties regarding the claims contained in their individual petitions.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOLMDEL, MONMOUTH COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured elementary teacher, appealed withholding of her employment and adjustment increments for school year 1991-92. Petitioner had sent letter to parents through students ("kid mail") to advise them of her involuntary transfer. Board withheld her increments for such inappropriate action. Petitioner argued she never received proper notice of Board's action.

ALJ found Board's decision to withhold was correct and within scope of its discretionary authority and that Board properly noticed petitioner. ALJ did find, however, that Board violated Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) by not discussing the matter, just "rubber stamping" the superintendent's recommendation. ALJ ordered Board to cure the defect through de novo decision to withhold within 40 days or increments would be restored to petitioner.

Commissioner rejected ALJ's conclusion that OPMA had been violated due to lack of discussion by the Board prior to voting on the superintendent's recommendation to withhold petitioner's increments. The Commissioner determined, nonetheless, that it is necessary for the Board to have before it sufficient information to make an informed decision prior to its vote on a withholding recommendation. Matter was remanded to OAL to supplement the record in order to document what information the Board had before it prior to its vote and how that information was secured.

Martin M. Barger, Esq., for respondent (Reussille, Mausner, Carotenuto, Bruno & Barger, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 31, 1992 Decided: September 18, 1992

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Patricia Kesheneff (petitioner) appeals withholding of her employment and adjustment increments for the 1991-92 school year by the Holmdel Board of Education (respondent).

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on July 31, 1991. The Board filed an answer on August 5 and on August 9, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. After notice, a prehearing conference was held by telephone on November 12, 1991. Participating in the conference were Board counsel, petitioner's then counsel and this judge. Among other things, the matter was set down for hearing on April 24 and May 20, 1992.

Subsequently, counsel decided the matter could proceed on the papers, there being no factual disputes. Hearing dates, accordingly, were adjourned. Later, the petitioner discharged counsel and decided to proceed pro se. The attorney advised the judge by letter of June 30, 1992. The petitioner then wrote directly to the judge, enclosing exhibits and pleading her case. Neither the letter nor the exhibits were cognized and the matter was set down for hearing on July 30. That date then was moved to August 31 when the superintendent of schools was unavailable for July 30. The matter was heard on August 31, 1992 at the Colts Neck Municipal Court and the record closed on that day.

PAROL AND DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

The parties stipulate that the petitioner was involuntarily transferred effective Septemher 1, 1991. She wrote a two-page letter addressed "Dear Parents" under date of June 10, 1991. She sent the letter to parents via pupils. This is known in the district as "kid mail." The Board believed this action inappropriate and, as a result, voted to deny the petitioner's salary and adjustment increments for the 1991-92 school year. No Rice notice was provided to the petitioner. There was no private or executive consideration of the question by the Board. Based on a memorandum from the superintendent to the Board, the Board voted the withholdings at a public meeting. It was further stipulated that the petitioner has a good teaching record and received uniformly good evaluations. Stipulated into evidence were the letter to parents (J-1) and a memorandum from Superintendent Brennan to the Board, dated June 25, 1991 (J-2).

Petitioner's Case

The petitioner testified that she was notified on the morning of June 25, 1991 that she would be on the agenda at a special Board meeting to be held that night. She received no Rice notice and believes that, therefore, her rights were violated. The superintendent wrote to her under date of July 1 informing her of the Board's June 25 vote. The letter also explained that the petitioner had failed to follow certain procedures. She stated at hearing that she was unaware of any procedures and unaware of doing any wrong. She sent the letter to parents because she wanted pupils to be assured they had done nothing wrong. She takes exception to the superintendent's letter believing it betrayed trust.

The petitioner believes she did not put pupils in the middle of a controversy. She simply wanted parents and pupils to know and to know from her what had happened. The petitioner did discuss her transfer with pupils.

The petitioner argues she never received proper notice of the Board's June 25 action. Because there was no prior indication that this would happen and because of the injustice worked on her she should receive her salary and adjustment increments retroactively, with interest.

Board's Case

The Board chose to present no witnesses. The Board asserts that a Rice notice must be given to an employee if and only if there will be private or executive session discussion of the employee action. The individual then is to be notified and given the option to elect public discussion of the issue. Where there is no private discussion scheduled, no Rice notice is necessary.

The Board had no private discussion. There was only a public vote. It was an administrative choice to proceed in this way. The petitioner seems to argue that there should have been private discussion. There was not. This does not rise to the level of a Rice violation, however.

The petitioner admits she discussed the transfer with pupils. This is inappropriate on its face. The letter to parents (J-1) is not merely factual. It says there is no professional reason for the decision to transfer the petitioner. The petitioner then used "kid mail," thereby involving pupils. The "kid mail" procedure is reserved for notices and announcements and public information. There is no provision for personal use of the procedure.

The petitioner could have grieved her transfer under the collective bargaining agreement but did not. She decided to discuss the matter with pupils and decided to send a letter to parents via pupils. The Board acted properly under Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). There is no proof of arbitrariness or caprice or procedural defect.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

It is long established in New Jersey that the scope of review in an increment withholding matter is not for the commissioner or administrative law judge to substitute judgment for those who made the decision to withhold increments, but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their decision. Kopera at 295.

It is also well established that local board action which lies within the area of a board's discretionary powers will not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rationale basis or induced by improper motives. Boult and Harris v. Board of Education of Passaic, 1939-49 S.L.D. 7, 13, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 1939-40 S.L.D. 15, aff'd 135 N.J.L. 329 (Sup. Ct. 1947), 136 N.J.L. 521 (E. & A. 1948).

Here, the underlying facts are not in dispute. The only question is whether it was reasonable for the Board to conclude as it did upon those facts.

It is difficult to believe that an experienced teacher would not know that only official or, at least, school sanctioned materials could be carried by pupils to parents. The undisputed facts yield only two possible inferences. First, the petitioner truly did not know that personal use of "kid mail" was improper or, second, the petitioner knew, but used "kid mail" for her own purposes. Both propositions are unacceptable.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Board's action withholding the petitioner's employment and adjustment increments was substantively correct. The facts are undisputed, the Board acted upon the facts and the Board's act was not beyond the scope of its discretionary authority.

Procedurally, the Open Public Meetings Act carries nine exceptions to the goal of conducting all meetings of public bodies as open to the public. The personnel exception says that any matter involving the employment, appointment, termination of employment, terms and conditions of employment, evaluation of performance, promotion or discipline of any perspective or current public officer or employee may be done at closed session unless the individuals whose rights could be adversely affected request in writing that such matters be discussed at a public meeting. In Rice v. Union Cty. Reg. High School Bd. of Ed., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977), it was held that a closed session to discuss the termination of employees is valid under this exception. However, the public body is required to provide the employees concerned with reasonable notice of its intention to consider in closed session matters related to them in order that they may exercise their statutory right to request that the matter be discussed in public session.

The Board here argues that the act, as interpreted in Rice, requires notice only when there will be a closed session to discuss an employee action. Nevertheless, the Board presents Exhibit J-2, a memorandum from the superintendent to the petitioner. It is stipulated that the petitioner received the memorandum at approximately 11 a.m. on June 25, 1991. In its entirety, the memorandum states:

> Pat, I have been unable to reach you by phone. I was calling to let you know that you will be on the agenda at a special board meeting, June 25, 1991.
>
> I will be recommending to the Board that your increment be withheld for the 1991-92 school year. The reason for this is that you involved children in sending home the letter to parents regarding your transfer. There will be no discussion of this matter between the Board and me, either private or public. The motion will simply appear on the agenda and will be voted on without comment.
> Please give me a call if you have any questions or require further information.

It may fairly be inferred from the memorandum that the superintendent had tried to contact the petitioner at least the day before the meeting. When he could not, he resorted to a memorandum delivered by messenger. I FIND and CONCLUDE that this constitutes reasonable notice.

> N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b) provides
>
> A public body may exclude the public only from that portion of a meeting at which the public body discusses:
>
> . . .
> (8) Any matter involving the employment, appointment, termination of employment, terms and conditions of employment, evaluation of the performance of, promotion or disciplining of any specific prospective public officer or employee or current public officer or employee employed or appointed by the public body, unless all the individual employees or appointees whose rights could be adversely affected request in writing that such matter or matters be discussed at a public meeting.

A board of education being a deliberative body, it is difficult to see how it could vote on a matter as important as increment withholding without discussion. Possible explanations include (1) the Board was simply rubber stamping the superintendent's recommendation, a clear failure to cast informed votes, or (2), there had been informal agreement to approve the withholdings before the vote was held, a violation of both the letter and spirit of the act.

This judge observes that certain acts of a board are ministerial; that is, they involve obedience to instructions, but demand no special discretion, judgment or skill. Other actions are not ministerial and do involve the exercise of judgment or discretion. This judge believes that an increment withholding is such a nonministerial action.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the foregoing constitutes a procedural violation of the Open Public Mettings Act.

However, a public body may correct an action that does not comply with the Open Public Meetings Act by acting anew at a time when the body does comply with the act. The subsequent de novo action has the remedial effect of retroactively ratifying the prior action nunc pro tunc. Municipal Council of City of Newark v. Essex County Bd. of Elections, _____ N.J. Super. _____ (Law Div. 1992).

The fault not only may be cured but must be cured if the Board does not wish the withholdings, in effect, rescinded and paid to the petitioner. The Holmdel Board of Education and all boards are reminded that assiduous adherence to the requirements of the Open Public Meetings Act is expected of all public bodies.

It is ORDERED that the Holmdel Board of Education take action within forty days of the date of final decision in this matter to cure the identified defect or the increments withheld will be deemed restored to the petitioner.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOLMDEL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, petitioner filed timely exceptions, wherein she averred that, contrary to the initial decision at p. 3 above, she did grieve the transfer that was the subject of the "kid mail" dispute herein, and that she only sent the controverted letter in response to concerns expressed by her students regarding their being to blame for her transfer. No reply was filed by the Board.

Upon careful consideration, the Commissioner cannot concur with the ALJ that this matter should be remanded to the Board for de novo action on petitioner's withholding as a result of OPMA defect.

Initially, the Commissioner rejects the notion that a Board's failure to discuss a recommendation for increment withholding prior to acting on such recommendation constitutes a violation of OPMA; indeed, OPMA places no such mandate on any action taken by a Board.

Notwithstanding the above, it is required, prior to a board's action to accept or reject a recommendation to withhold, that the board have before it sufficient information on which to make an informed decision.

The record of the present matter, however, is devoid of testimony or evidence as to what the Board actually had before it when it voted, as the memorandum described at p. 2 above as being from Superintendent Brennan to the Board (J-2) is in fact from Brennan to petitioner. (See further discussion at p. 5, where memorandum is cited in full.) Therefore, it is necessary to remand this matter to supplement the record in order to document what information the Board had before it when it voted and how that information was secured.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is reversed and the present matter remanded for supplementation of the record consistent with the Commissioner's directive herein.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

Initial decision of September 18, 1992 had found and concluded that Board's action in withholding increments of tenured elementary teacher was substantively correct and petitioner had reasonable notice that Board would act. (Rice) Also, ALJ had concluded withholding decision was not merely ministerial but involved exercise of discretion, judgment or skill. Decision was remanded by Commissioner, however, for narrow purpose of supplementing the record and of determining what information the Board had before it when it voted to withhold petitioner's increments so that a determination could be made as to whether the Board had acted arbitrarily or unreasonably.

On remand, ALJ found that Board had sufficient information before it at time it voted to withhold and that Board's action may not be upset unless it is patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. (Kopera) ALJ concluded withholding was proper. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Martin M. Barger, Esq., for respondent (Reusille, Mausner, Carotenuto, Bruno & Barger, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 7, 1993 Decided: January 26, 1993

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Patricia Kesheneff (petitioner) appealed withholding of her employment and adjustment increments for the 1991-92 school year by the Holmdel Board of Education (respondent). The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on July 31, 1991. The Board filed an answer and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. After a prehearing conference, the matter was set down for hearing on April 24 and May 20, 1992. The petitioner was at that time represented by counsel.

Subsequently, counsel decided the matter could proceed on the papers, there being no facts in dispute. Hearing dates were adjourned. Later, the petitioner discharged counsel and decided to proceed pro se. Her attorney advised the judge by letter of June 30, 1992. The petitioner then wrote directly to the judge, enclosing exhibits and pleading her case. Neither the letter nor the exhibits were cognized and the matter was set down for hearing on July 30. That date then was moved to August 31 because the superintendent of schools was unavailable on July 30. The matter was heard on August 31, 1992 at the Colts Neck Municipal Court.

An initial decision issued on September 18, 1992. The decision found and concluded that the Board's action withholding the petitioner's employment and adjustment increments was substantively correct and that the petitioner had reasonable notice that the Board would act as required by Rice v. Union Cty. Reg. High School Bd. of Ed., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977). The decision also determined that the withholding decision was not merely ministerial; that is, it involved the exercise of discretion, judgment or skill. The decision found a technical violation of the Open Public Meetings Act and explained how the defect could be cured. The Board was ordered to take action within forty days to cure the identified defect.

On November 9, 1992, the Commissioner agreed with the first two holdings and rejected the third. Among other things, the Commissioner stated that it is required that a board have before it sufficient information on which to act before accepting or rejecting a recommendation to withhold increments. The matter was remanded for the narrow purpose of determining what information the Board had before it when it voted to withhold the petitioner's increments and to determine how that information was secured.

Further hearing was conducted, by telephone, on January 7, 1993. Dr. Timothy C. Brennan, who was superintendent of schools at the time the withholdings were voted, testified. He stated that the petitioner's building principal sent him a copy of a letter the petitioner sent home to parents via pupils dated July 7, 1991 (R-1). It was the superintendent's practice to send to Board members each Friday a mailing containing information related to Board business. On Friday, June 7, 1991, he sent the two-page Kesheneff letter and the principal's transmitting memorandum to the Board. Petitioner's evaluation was attached by her to her letter. The superintendent did not transmit a copy of a pupil petition the building principal had sent to the superintendent.

The witness stated there was no other information in the mailing itself. His cover memorandum stated, "Please see confidential memorandum from Frank Corrado, attached, " or words to that effect. The witness also stated that petitioner's letter is dated June 10, 1991 and the memorandum from the principal is dated June 7, 1991. The witness could not explain the discrepancy.

The petitioner testified that the principal's memorandum is hearsay, the dates on the letter to parents and the principal's memorandum do not agree and that she generally denies all allegations although she admits sending the letter home. She did not know of a pupil petition until after the fact.

DETERMINATION AND ORDER

Whether the building principal's information was correct or not, his cover memorandum, the petitioner's letter to parents and the evaluation sheet enclosed with the letter were before the Board when the Board considered the resolution to withhold increments. The petitioner admits sending the letter and using pupils to carry it to parents.

Having reviewed the entire record, I FIND that the Board had sufficient information before it at the time it voted to withhold the subject withholdings. An action by a local school board that lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless it is patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The same case directs that the focus in a withholding appeal must be whether the Board had a reasonable basis for its conclusion and action to withhold. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the Board has satisfied the Kopera mandate here and that the complained of withholding was in all respects proper.

Accordingly, the petition of appeal is DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, Education Association and two teaching staff members, claimed entitlement to sick and personal leave under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3. Issues concerning Petitioner Argoe were resolved. Remaining issue was whether Petitioner Peltz was entitled to accumulated prior unused sick leave.

Citing Court interpretations of term "steadily employed," ALJ found because Petitioner Peltz did work 90% of time for last 5 school years, she was steadily employed since September 1, 1987. ALJ concluded Petitioner Peltz was entitled to accumulate sick leave of 26 days unused prior to January 1991.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Record Closed: August 14, 1992 Decided: September 25, 1992

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

The petitioners appealed to the Commissioner of Education to resolve a dispute arising under the School Laws, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 13, 1992, to be heard as a contested case according to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et. seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et. seq. The parties submitted a stipulation of facts and relied upon briefs in lieu of oral argument. In the stipulation of facts the parties stated that they had resolved all issues between the Board of Education and Christine Argoe. The stipulation indicates that the single issue remaining is whether Caroline Peltz is entitled to accumulate prior unused sick leave.

Caroline Peltz has been employed by the Upper Township Board of Education in a variety of positions since 1987 except for a five month period from January 29, 1991, through the end of the school year in June of 1991. She is entitled to her accumulated sick leave of 26 days, if and only if, with this employment record, she can be characterized as having been "steadily employed." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3. The term "steadily employed" has frequently been recited in both agency and judicial opinions. However, It has seldom been explained in more than a cursory fashion.

In DeGroot v. Board of Education of Passaic County; 13 N.J.A.R. 438, a teacher who was also a football coach, argued, (in the alternative) that he was also steadily employed as a football coach in addition to being steadily employed as a teacher for the purpose of receiving full pay (teaching and coaching salary) during a period of sick leave. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that coaching duties did not constitute steady employment because they were not "regular or continuous employment for the entire school year or for the entire academic year." DeGroot, Ibid. 448. Both the Commissioner and the State Board of Education adopted and affirmed the ALJ's reasoning in that case.

In Schwartz v. Dover Public Schools: 180 N.J. Super. 222 (App. Div. 1981) the Court also defined the term "steadily employed." It held that: It is more likely that the legislature was contemplating regular, full time employees and did not contemplate employees who are hired for less than a full school year. Schwartz, Ibid. p. 227

No more extensive definitions of the term "steadily employed" have been cited by these parties. Yet both DeGroot and Schwartz can be distinguished from the instant case. DeGroot claimed steady employment as a football coach, a twelve week period of time. The ALJ illustrated the absurdity of this claim by positing the claim of "club advisors or even someone hired to perform a single task for only a few days during the year." DeGroot, Ibid., p. 448. In Schwartz the Court was interpreting a contract provision which required that sick leave be granted at the rate of one per month for those persons employed after the school year began. However, the Court implicitly recognized that employees who work less than the full school year are "steadily employed." The Court said that a "... reasonable interpretation is to allow a proportionate amount of sick leave for those employed less than a full school year." Schwartz, Ibid. p. 227

In South Orange - Maplewood Education Association, et al v. Board of Education, 1985 S.L.D. _____ (Comm'r of Education, June 3, 1985) referred to by Arnold Samuels, ALJ in DeGroot supra. p. 445, the term "steadily employed" was defined quantitatively. There, lunch room employees who worked two to four weeks less than the number of school days were found to be "steadily employed." In South Orange the ALJ and the Commissioner actually calculated the percentage of time the lunch room aids worked compared to a school year and found that in 1983-84, they worked 91.26 percent of the time and in 1984-85, they worked 94.4 percent of the time.

Petitioner Peltz is still employed by the respondent Board of Education. For the past five (5) school years, 87/88, 88/89, 89/90, 90/91, 91/92., Peltz has been employed all but five (5) months. Therefore, she has been employed 45 months of a possible 50 months, or 90 percent of the time.

In addition, the intent of the statute is to reward long term, faithful employees. It serves no other purpose. Peltz is a long term faithful employee. She accepted every position offered to her during the five years. She accepted a temporary appointment as a resource room long term substitute in 1990, then returned to her position as an aide when that appointment expired. She is entitled to the protection of the statute. A contrary result would deprive the statute of its full force and effect. A parsimonious school board could regularly lay off long term faithful employees at four (4) or five (5) year intervals and save accumulated sick time. Such a plan could also backfire when the practice was recognized for what it is, an attempt to circumvent the statute. Many employees would utilize sick leave to the fullest extent possible so that they would not lose it; thereby requiring the Board to employ extra people for the contingency.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner Peltz has been steadily employed by the Board of Education of Upper Township since September 1, 1987 and is entitled to the accumulated sick leave of 26 days earned prior to January 1991.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE that petitioner Argoe has withdrawn her request for a hearing and her appeal is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

William T. Cooper, Esq., for Respondent

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Board of Education of the Borough of South Bound Brook (Board) on May 26, 1992, seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of reductions by the Mayor and Council (Council) in the current expense tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. These reductions were made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.2(b)2 following voter rejection of the Board's proposed budget on April 7, 1992 and after consultation with the Board as required by law. On July 14, 1992, the Board submitted a position paper which reduced the amount of tax levy in dispute by $2,000.

The total proposed and certified budgets, as well as the amounts in dispute in this matter, are set forth below:

Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Council
Current Expense $2,956,898	$2,702,798

Amount of Reduction By Governing Body	Amount in Dispute Before Commissioner
Current Expense $ 254,100	$ 252,100

The reductions at issue were effectuated by the Council in its resolution dated April 28, 1992 and are as follows:

Account 110.1 - Salary - Board Secretary's Office $11,000

Elimination of secretarial help and stipend for superintendent.

Account 120.4 - Other Contracted Services *$ 4,000

Elimination of professional negotiator.

* The Board had initially appealed the entire amount reduced by the Council, but in its position paper of July 14, 1992 it agreed to accept $1,000 of the reduction in Account 120.4 and the entire $1,000 reduction in Account 730.3.

 The Council in its response of August 3, 1992 stated that since the dues in Accounts 130.4 and 130.6 are contracted benefits, the funds should remain in the budget.

On June 10, 1992, the Council filed an answer admitting to the amounts set forth above and the procedures specified in the Petition of Appeal, but denying the allegation by the Board that the reductions will result in insufficient funds to provide a thorough and efficient education. On June 24, 1992, the Council submitted a copy of its resolution and the specific suggested line item reductions. On July 14, 1992, a position paper was filed by the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8. The Council filed a response on August 3, 1992, also pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8. On August 17, 1992, the Board filed a reply to the Council's response.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

Mindful, then, of the balance to be applied in his standard of review, the Commissioner makes the following determinations with respect to the specific line items reduced by the Council and appealed by the Board.

Account 110.1 - Salary, Board Secretary's Office $11,000

The Council's position is that the superintendent can take on the additional responsibility of school business administrator without the necessity of an additional fee. The Council also stated that no further clerical assistance should be needed in the superintendent's office. The Board's position is that an agreement was reached with the superintendent under which he would assume the duties of school business administrator for an additional stipend and that it would be unreasonable to expect the superintendent to accept the additional workload and responsibility without some additional compensation. The Board also stated that there are two full-time secretaries in the central office and that additional hourly clerical help is required to complete all the necessary paperwork imposed by State and Federal statutes and regulations.

The Commissioner finds that the Board has already taken steps to reduce costs by eliminating a central office administrative position and assigning additional duties to the superintendent. It is not unreasonable that a stipend be paid for these additional responsibilities which are mandated by statute and code. The Board also has demonstrated the necessity for the hourly clerical services to meet the demands of State and Federal requirements. Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that the Council's reduction of $11,000 in this account would significantly impair the district's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education, and this amount is restored.

Account 120.4 - Other Contracted Services $ 4,000

The Council's position is that a professional negotiator is not needed since the teacher contract has been settled. The Council further stated that any assistance needed for development of a salary guide and wording of the contract could be taken out of the district's legal budget. The Board's position is that $1,000 of this amount was budgeted for potential arbitration, and this reduction will be accepted. The Board appeals the $3,000 for the professional labor negotiator on the basis that the Board does not have the expertise necessary to properly safeguard the district's interests with the Education Association, which, the Board states, is represented by a professional negotiator. It should be noted that the Council in its rationale alludes to the potential necessity of professional services in this area by stating that costs could be funded from the district's legal budget.

The Commissioner determines that, while he is sympathetic to the Board's concern for expert assistance in this matter, he must find such services, while highly desirable, do not meet the standard of being necessary for a thorough and efficient education. The entire reduction in this account of $4,000 is sustained.

Account 130.4/130.6 - Administration, Expenses $ 3,000

The Council, in its response of August 3, 1992, reversed its initial position on these reductions and stated that, since these line items for payment of administrative dues are contracted benefits, they should remain in the budget. The Board's position is based on the contractual obligations for these expenditures. The Commissioner determines that in light of the agreement between Board and Council on the necessity for these funds, the $3,000 is restored.

Account 212 - Salaries, Supervisors $72,000

The Council's position is that the size of the school district does not warrant five supervisors and that the two principals can be assigned additional supervisory duties. The Board states that the district has only two supervisors, one for special services and one for reading, and that their duties cannot be assigned to the building principals. The Board states that the other three positions cited by the Council are the two principals and the superintendent. The Board notes the highly technical provisions of special education and the critical necessity of an effective reading program for a thorough and efficient education. The Board also states that it just completed the second year of a newly developed reading program which could not be continued with the elimination of the supervisor.

The Commissioner determines that the instructional areas involved in this issue are both critical to the provision of a thorough and efficient educational program and that proper supervision of these services can most effectively be provided by persons appropriately trained in those disciplines. The reduction of $72,000 is therefore restored.

Account 213 - Salaries, Teachers $10,000

The Council's position is that a reduction of $10,000 in the account will still allow for a 6.8% increase in salaries which it feels is sufficient. The Board's position is that the Council's calculation was based on a comparison of the amount budgeted in 1991-92 with the amount proposed in 1992-93, but that the amount actually spent in 1991-92 exceeded the amount budgeted. The Board submitted documentation, Exhibit D, demonstrating the necessity for the full amount proposed for 1992-93. It should be noted that the Board has taken steps to control costs in this area and that the proposed budgeted amount for 1992-93 is less than the audited expenditure in this account in 1990-91.

The Commissioner finds that the Board has effectively justified the need for these funds to provide a thorough and efficient education, and the $10,000 is restored.

Account 214 - Salaries, Other Instructional $49,600

The Council's position is that a guidance counselor is not needed in a district of the size. The Board's position is the district has many pupils with problems that only a full-time guidance counselor can address. The Board also notes that the guidance counselor provides many services beyond individual student counseling and submitted a summary of the counselor's job functions in Exhibit E.

The Commissioner finds and determines that a concern with the total child is a critical element in the provision of a thorough and efficient education and that the district has effectively justified the need for a guidance counselor. The reduction of $49,600 is therefore restored.

Account 215.2 - Salaries, Secretarial $20,000

The Council's position is that a secretary for the supervisor of special services is not necessary, based on its elimination of the two supervisory positions. The Board's position is, as stated above, that the two supervisory positions are indeed necessary, but that, under any circumstances, a secretary to handle the many filing and typing requirements under special services is necessary.

The Commissioner finds that the Council's reduction in this area was arbitrary since it did not consider the specific duties of this position but rather made a judgment based on its rationale for other positions. The reduction of $20,000 is therefore restored.

Account 230.1-3 - Library Books, AV Materials $ 2,000

The Council's position is based on its understanding that the amount budgeted in this account in 1990-91 was not spent. The Board states that the amount budgeted in 1991-92 was almost entirely expended and that the amount budgeted in 1992-93 for line items 230.1 and 230.2 was not increased and for 230.3 was decreased.

The Commissioner finds that the Council's position is arbitrary since there were audited expenditures in 1990-91 and a reduction in the amount budgeted for 1992-93 in comparison with that for 1991-92. The Commissioner also determines that provision of sufficient school library and audio-visual materials is essential to a thorough and efficient education. The reduction of $2,000 is therefore restored.

Account 240 - Teaching Supplies $ 5,000

The Council's position is based on its understanding that the amount budgeted in this line item in 1990-91 was not spent. The Board states that much of this account has been expended for 1991-92 and that the increase for 1992-93 in only 2.3%. Based on the reasons specified for Account 230, the Commissioner determines that the $5,000 must be restored.

Account 250.3 - Instruction - Misc. Expenses $ 1,000

The Council's position is based on its understanding that the amount budgeted in this account in 1990-91 was not spent. The Board explained the purpose of this account for many miscellaneous expenses for instruction but did not demonstrate any negative impact with the reduction on the provision of a thorough and efficient education. The Commissioner determines that the $1,000 reduction is sustained.

Account 610.1 - Salaries, Custodial $30,000

The Council's position is that the building can still be maintained in a safe and healthy condition with the elimination of one full-time and one part-time custodian. The Board's position is that the current staffing of five full-time and three part-time custodians is essential to properly maintain the three buildings and the grounds. There is contradiction between the parties as to whether or not the Borough of South Bound Brook maintains the school athletic fields and playgrounds. It is not disputed, however, that the custodians are responsible for not only cleaning and maintaining the inside of the buildings, but also maintaining the grounds by mowing grass, trimming shrubs and picking up trash.

The Commissioner finds that the Board has supported the necessity for the current custodial staffing level and that the $30,000 is therefore restored.

Accounts 720.1-3 Contracted Services $ 3,000

The Council's position is that the Board should make every effort to reduce its reliance on outside contractors. The Board states that it has already reduced the amount proposed for 1992-93 by $3,450 from the 1991-92 appropriations and that further reductions are not possible. The Board further states that there are maintenance projects that require experienced contractors. It should be noted that the district has obviously made an effort to control costs in this area since the 1992-93 proposed amount is not only less than the budgeted amount for 1991-92 but also less than the audited expenditures for 1990-91. The Commissioner therefore determines that the $3,000 be restored.

Account 730.3 - Purchase of Equipment $ 1,000

The Council eliminated the purchase of one television and cart and one video cassette recorder. Although the Board initially appealed this reduction, it subsequently agreed. This reduction of $1,000 is sustained.

Account 820.2 - Employee Insurance $25,000

The Council's basis for this reduction was the personnel reductions it recommended. The Board's position is that neither the personnel reductions nor this employee insurance reduction are justified.

The Commissioner finds that since the employee reductions proposed by the Council have not been upheld, sufficient funds must be provided for employee insurance. The Commissioner therefore determines that this $25,000 is restored.

Accounts 920/930 - Food Service $17,500

The Council's position is that these costs for food services should be held to the 1991-92 costs. The Board's position is that it contracted with a food service company for 1991-92 and that the budgeted amounts for 1991-92 do not accurately reflect the expenditures for this service.

The Commissioner finds that the Council presented no reasonable procedure for its reduction to be implemented and that contractual obligations must legally be upheld. Therefore, it is determined that the $17,500 is restored.

SUMMARY

For the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner determines to restore $248,100 and sustain $6,000 of the $254,100 in current expense reductions appealed herein, as summarized by the chart below:

Account		Restored	Sustained
110.1	Salary, Board Secretary's Office	$ 11,000
120.4	Other Contracted Services		$4,000
130.4/ 130.6	Administration, Expenses	3,000

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SEASIDE HEIGHTS, MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF SEASIDE HEIGHTS, OCEAN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioner, David M. Casadonte, Esq.

For Respondent, Thomas M. Savon, Esq. (Gilmore & Monahan)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on June 17, 1992 by way of a Petition of Appeal from the Seaside Heights Board of Education (Board) appealing the reductions in the 1992-93 current expense tax levy imposed by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Seaside Heights (Borough) after the defeat of the budget by the voters of the district on April 7, 1992. On July 8, 1992 the Borough submitted its Answer. Position Statements were filed by the Board and the Borough on July 22 and August 7, respectively, whereupon the record in this matter closed.

On April 7, 1992 the voters of Seaside Heights defeated the current expense tax levy proposed by the Board in the amount of $1,275,044. They likewise defeated a $150,000 capital outlay cap waiver for a roof replacement which was subsequently appealed to the Commissioner on an emergent basis which was granted by the Commissioner and not opposed by the Borough. (See In the Matter of the Cap Waiver Appeal of the Seaside Heights School District, July 13, 1992.) This matter before the Commissioner is therefore limited solely to the reductions imposed in the 1992-93 current expense tax levy.

Subsequent to the defeat of the budget by the voters of Seaside Heights, the Board and the Borough, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 consulted on the defeated budget whereupon the Borough reduced the current expense tax levy by $50,000. Consequently, the monies in contention in this consolidated matter are set forth below:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Borough
Current Expense	$1,275,044	$1,225,044

Amount of Reduction By Borough	Amount in Dispute Before Commissioner
$ 50,000	$ 50,000

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

In the instant matter, the Commissioner notes that the Board in its Position Statement contends that the Borough has failed to meet the criteria for providing a statement of reasons for the reductions imposed by it subsequent to the budget defeat as set forth in Deptford, supra. The Board contends that in order to meet the requirements of Deptford the governing body must set forth a statement of detailed reasons for each of its line item reductions at the time such reductions are certified to the county board of taxation. In the instant matter, the Board argues that the Borough "...simply sets forth the percentage increase from the previous year's budget, without a detailed statement as mandated by the Court's decision in Deptford." (Board's Position Statement, at p. 1)

The Commissioner notes that the Board's argument presented above, if found to be persuasive by the Commissioner, impacts significantly upon the standard of review to be applied by him in deciding this case. In reversing the Commissioner in the case of Board of Education of the Township of Rochelle Park v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Rochelle Park, 1991 S.L.D. 1736, reversed/remanded July 1, 1992, the State Board held that failure to meet the requirements of Deptford, supra, shifts the burden of proof to the governing body. In rendering judgment in this matter, therefore, the Commissioner must also determine whether the Borough has met the criteria established in Deptford as a prerequisite to determining what standard of review to apply.

The Commissioner notes that the Borough established the aforesaid tax levy by imposing the following reductions:

Administration Salaries	$ 2,400
Instructional Salaries	24,700
Operation of Plant - Salaries	1,500
Operation of Plant - Heat	4,000
Fixed Charges - Soc. Sec.	4,000
Fixed Charges - Insurance	1,000
Fixed Charges - Unemployment	3,000
Food Services - Deficit	5,000
Percep. Imp. Salaries	2,000
Preschool Salaries	1,200
Speech Salaries	1,200
Total	$50,000

The reductions indicated above are taken directly from the copy of Resolution #92-97 of the Borough provided to the Commissioner by the Board in its Petition of Appeal as Exhibit A.

When the Borough provided its Answer to the Petition of Appeal, it included the same resolution as its own Exhibit A which then included "reasons" hand-printed onto the resolution as indicated below:

Administration Salaries	$ 2,400	8-16% Increase Excessive
Instructional Salaries	24,700	8-16% Increase Excessive
Operation of Plant - Salaries	1,500	8% + OT Increase Excessive
Operation of Plant - Heat	4,000	31% Increase Unjustified
Fixed Charges - Soc. Sec.	4,000	Figures Duplicated
Fixed Charges - Insurance	1,000	20% Increase Uncalled for
Fixed Charges - Unemployment	3,000	Fund Should Have Surplus
Food Services - Deficit	5,000	Extraordinary Expense One Year Only
Percep. Imp. Salaries	2,000	Salary Increase Excessive
Preschool Salaries	1,200	9-13% Increase Excessive
Speech Salaries	1,200	20% Increase Excessive
Total	$50,000

Since the copy of the aforesaid resolution provided by the Board at the time of its appeal and containing no reasons is a copy of the Borough's original resolution as certified by its Borough Clerk, the Commissioner must conclude that the reasons provided by the Borough in the form of hand-printed additions to its resolution establishing the tax levy was first provided to the Commissioner and the Board with its Answer.

BOARD'S POSITION

As indicated by the Commissioner in considering the standard of review to be applied in this matter, the Board presents the general argument that the Borough has failed to meet the criteria for justifying its line item reductions as delineated in Deptford, supra. The Board, for its part, sets forth the following as justification for requesting that the Commissioner restore the amounts by which the Borough has reduced its current expense tax levy.

Administration Salaries $2,400

The Superintendent's contract expires on July 30, 1992 and, as a result, the Board is in the process of hiring a new Superintendent. In order to assist in the search process, the Board has contracted with a Search Service in order to find a qualified Superintendent, at a cost of $6,200. The position is being advertised at a starting salary of $55,000.

In addition, certain staff positions, besides the teachers' positions, are subject to negotiations for the 1992-93 school year, including the following:

(a) The Board Secretary presently earns $24,000 and the Board budgeted $28,000 for the position, which salary seems to be the norm according to other districts.

(b) The Board office clerk presently earns $6,000 and the Board budgeted $7,581.60 for the position.

(c) The Treasurer of School Monies presently earns $1,800 and the Board budgeted $1,944, which is a minor increase.

(d) The Superintendent presently earns $55,000 and the Board budgeted $59,400, which is approximately an eight percent increase and said salary is based on the norm of similar districts.

Instructional Salaries $24,700

The instructional salaries are subject to negotiations for the 1992-93 school year with the Teachers Association.

The Board budgeted $385,630.51. The Board arrived at the budgeted figure by using the present teachers' salaries as a base and factoring in an eight percent increase, because of the new contract that is anticipated.

The eight percent increase, although tentative, seems to be the norm in the industry for this type of district.

In arriving at the line item appropriation, the Board also factored in substitute teachers' pay for grades kindergarten through sixth and special education class teachers, which figure was based on the current year's average substitute wages.

In addition, it is important to point out that due to the changes in programs, such as Comp Ed, the State Aid for at risk students is $6,481 less for the 1992-93 school year and, as a result, the aforementioned funds must be made up by the Board for salaries.

Operation of Plant - Salaries $1,500

The Borough did not provide an explanation for justifying its deduction to the operation of plant/salaries. The salaries for operation of the plant consist of two full-time custodians, one substitute custodian and the payment of overtime.

The Board arrived at the budgeted figure using $1,000 for the substitute custodian, $5,000 for overtime and approximately an eight percent increase in custodian wages. The overtime pay is based on the current year's average payment and the eight percent increase is based on the norm in similar districts.

Operation of Plant - Heat $4,000

The Board budgeted $35,000 toward the operation of the plant for heat. The Board had budgeted $35,000 from the previous budget because of the mild winter. However, after reviewing the current electric bills, it seems that the total bills will exceed the $35,000 figure. The bills paid as of May 1992 totalled $35,858.67. In addition, the budget reflects a probable rate increase and must anticipate a harsher winter in terms of the weather.

Fixed Charges - Social Security $4,000

The Board arrived at the figure based on the current charges, which is a fixed rate and is not discretionary.

Fixed Charges - Insurance $1,000

It is the Board's position that the present insurance plan is the most economical available, especially in light of the fact that the group insurance for the Board is part of the group coverage for the Borough.

The Board budgeted $200,000 toward this line item. The Board has paid Garden State the sum of $49,000 and Aetna Insurance the sum of $147,498.40, for a total of $196,498.40. However, on May 4, 1992, the hospitalization for Garden State was increased and it is anticipated that in February of 1993, Aetna will increase its rates. The increase will take effect on June 1, 1992, and there is an anticipated increase around the beginning of January of every fiscal year. The anticipated increase is approximately $3,000 per month average.

As a result, for the remaining months in 1992, it will cost the Board an additional $15,000, which when added to the monies expended, totals $211,498, which sum exceeds the amount budgeted.

Fixed Charges - Unemployment $3,000

The Board budgeted $14,000 for unemployment, an increase of $2,500 from the previous year.

As of May 1992, the Board has paid out $6,100 for unemployment, since it is self-insured for unemployment insurance.

As of the last quarterly report, six people are presently collecting unemployment. The Board was forced to factor in an increase for the unemployment because the temporary substitute employees are eligible for benefits.

Also included in this line item is the cost for the Workers' Compensation insurance, which sum was factored in based on the premium amount for the current year and adjusted payments from prior years. The Workers' Compensation insurance premiums are fixed figures and are based on the wages of the employees of the district and are not discretionary.

Food Services - Deficit $5,000

The school district does not have a cafeteria facility program. As a result, lunches are prepared on a daily basis outside the school. The Board budgeted $15,000 and paid out approximately $20,000 in 1991.

The Board must supplement the cafeteria during the first three to four months before the State reimbursements are received. The Board advances the money to the cafeteria, which is to be reimbursed by the State based on the State Lunch Program. The Board is to be reimbursed by the cafeteria after the State funds are received for the School Lunch Program. For the last several years the account has been in deficit because the State has been late in its payments and the Board must advance any of the deficits by June 1992. The reimbursements by the State do not cover the advances by the Board. The State has determined that it will not be making reimbursements for May 1992 and June 1992 and, therefore, the Board will not receive any funds from the cafeteria account for those months.

In addition, the Board's auditor has recommended that the account should not be in deficit at the end of a school year. As a result of the decrease of funds available from the State Lunch Program, the Board has to budget additional monies for the operation of the cafeteria, with anticipation of additional cuts by the State.

The Board budgeted $15,000 and according to records has advanced at least that amount to the cafeteria program without anticipation of reimbursement.

Perceptually Impaired - Salaries $2,000

The Borough reduced this line item by $2,000 without explanation. The perceptually impaired salaries are subject to negotiation for the fiscal 1992-93 school year.

There are eight students in the perceptually impaired class and the budget consists of salaries for one full-time teacher, one aide, one occupational therapist (three times per week at an average wage of $41 per hour) and a guidance counselor (one day per week).

There are no revenues generated from the district since predominantly the students are transient in nature.

The perceptually impaired program also consists of two special education teachers and one aide.

The full-time teacher presently earns $23,490; the aide earns $6,930; the occupational therapist earns $20,000; the guidance counselor earns $4,463; one special education teacher earns $27,261; one special education teacher earns $26,100; and one aide earns $6,535, the total being $114,779.

Pre-School Salaries $1,200

The account consist of one full-time teacher and one aide. The teacher earns $29,274 and the aide earns $6,930. Both salaries are subject to negotiation at a range of seven to eight percent increase.

In addition, the account consists of an occupational therapist at a salary of approximately $5,500, plus professional fees for evaluations by the Child Study Team.

Speech Salaries $1,200

The line item consists of a salary for a full-time speech teacher, although the district presently employs a part-time teacher. As a result, the Board budgeted sufficient funds to carry a full-time teacher whose salary ranges from $26,000 to $29,000. The part-time teacher works three days per week, however, a full-time teacher is required in order to serve the demands of the students.

BOROUGH'S POSITION

After having failed to identify special line items and grouping its recommended reductions into broad categories, the Borough in its Position Statement proceeds to address itself to individual line item reductions. This aberration creates a circumstance in which the Board, as cited above, in its Position Statement addressed itself to the broad categories of reductions such as administrative salaries as cited in the Borough's Resolution #92-97 and breaks down the items within those categories without identifying line item numbers. The result is utter confusion from the Commissioner's perspective.

Additionally, when the reductions itemized by the Borough in its Position Statement are tallied, they end up being greater than the total of $50,000 proposed in the Borough's certification.

As a consequence of the above, the Commissioner will summarize the Borough's position in two ways. All proposed reductions in salary accounts will be considered together since the reason advanced by the Borough for each of them is the same. All proposed reductions in accounts other than for salaries will be dealt with individually.

The Borough proposes a reduction in the salary accounts based upon its belief that the general eight percent salary increase which the Board built into its proposed budget for 1992-93 is excessive. The Borough's position is that all salary increases should not exceed five percent since this is the amount which it built into its own budget for compensation to municipal employees.

The Borough declares such salary increases to be excessive and not necessary for a thorough and efficient system of education. The salary accounts so impacted and the amounts of the reductions are set forth below:

Administrative Salaries	$ 2,400
Instructional Salaries	24,700
Operation of Plant Salaries	1,500
Perceptually Impaired Salaries	2,000
Preschool Salaries	1,200
Speech Salaries	1,200
Total	$33,000

The following represents the Borough's recommended reductions in non-salary accounts as itemized by it in its Position Statement:

a. Line 104(b), Account No. 010(c) appropriation of $22,000.00 for social security - amount is overstated by $8,000.00. The 100% increase over 1990-1991 expenditures is not merited. The Municipal governing body also recognizes a State reimbursement as well as the possibility of duplication of expenses.

b. Seaside Heights Board of Education has appropriated $200,000.00 as medical/ hospital, representing an increase of $50,000.00 over the prior year. It is recommended that $190,000.00 be allocated representing a $10,000.00 over statement by the Board of Education. A decrease in the teaching staff has occurred rendering the appropriation excessive and, therefore, should be reduced.

c. The Seaside Heights Board of Education has apportioned $14,000.00 as building insurance, representing an increase of $3,000.00 over the prior year. The Municipal governing body has recommended a $12,000 apportionment, representing a $2,000.00 overstatement by the Board of Education. A 20% increase is not substantiated by the Seaside Heights Board of Education.

d. The [Board] has apportioned $14,000 as unemployment [costs] representing a $3,000.00 increase over the prior year. The Municipal governing body recommends a total of $11,500.00 representing a decrease of $2,500.00 of the overstated Board of Education amount.

e. Line 120, Account No. 930 appropriation of $15,000.00 for expenditure to cover deficits is overstated by $7,000.00. Increase of price of lunch and/or unusual purchases during the years 1991-1992 to account for the increase are unjustified.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Initially the Commissioner must address himself to the Board's argument that the Borough has failed in its obligation to provide the Board with a statement of specific written reasons for its reductions at the time the reductions were made. After examining the record as presented in this matter, the Commissioner must conclude that the Borough has not met the criteria set down in Deptford, supra. It is clear from the record that the Borough not only failed to identify specific line items for reduction at the time reductions in the tax levy were certified, it likewise failed to provide specific written reasons for each of those reductions. (See Resolution #92-97 provided as Exhibit A in the Board's Petition of Appeal.) Furthermore, when the Borough finally did go beyond the mere indication of the broad categories in which reductions were imposed, it did so by hand-printing reasons beside the reductions as part of its own Exhibit in the Answer to the Petition of Appeal. The Commissioner further notes that the reasons as presented lacked any specificity other than a contention that the Board's proposed expenditures were excessive.

The consequence of the aforesaid failure on the Borough's part results in shifting the burden of proof to the Borough to demonstrate that the amounts by which it has reduced the tax levy are not necessary to provide a thorough and efficient education. Rochelle Park, supra

While the Commissioner cannot make his judgment in matters of this kind strictly upon procedural grounds, the failure on the Borough's part is not without consequences. As pointed out by the Supreme Court in Deptford:

> ...if the municipality fails to submit reasons contemporaneously with its certification of budget cuts, the Commissioner of Education in the course of an ensuing appeal is entitled to invoke a heavy presumption against the educational validity of the proposed budget cuts. Hence, the greater the delay in the submission of detailed reasons in support of such cuts, the stronger will be the presumption against their validity and the heavier will be the municipality's burden on appeal to establish the validity of the reduced budget. In that posture, the Commissioner will be entitled initially to presume that such cuts have been made purely for extra-educational reasons or for political expediency without specific cognizance taken of their educational effects. Nonetheless, even if reasons are supplied after the cuts have been certified, the Commissioner has an obligation to review those cuts to determine whether the municipality was mindful of appropriate educational considerations at the time they were made and whether educational goals will be jeopardized. (emphasis supplied)
> (116 N.J. at 320-21)

In considering the reason presented by the Borough relative to the salary accounts, the Commissioner deems the reasoning of the Borough to hold all salary increases to an arbitrary figure of five percent solely because the municipality intends to impose such a restoration upon itself is in itself arbitrary since it fails to take into consideration the position of the teachers and other staff of Seaside Heights in relation to teachers in the region, county and similarly situated communities. The Borough offers no comparative information which would enable the Commissioner to determine whether eight percent represents an excessive figure. The only comparative data offered by the Borough is a comparison of the proposed Seaside Heights budget of $1,870,688.12 with the proposed budget of Ocean Gate of $1,250,991 and having the same number of students. Such broad comparisons, however, offer no means of comparing the relative position of the employees of the two districts, nor does it offer a comparison of the assessed valuation or the ability to pay of the two districts.

Accordingly, the Commissioner orders restoration of the $33,000 in the salary accounts.

Operation of Plant - Heat $4,000

Upon review of the papers the Commissioner finds no justification presented by the Borough to sustain the reduction in this area. The Commissioner directs the restoration of $4,000 in this account.

Fixed Charges - Social Security $4,000

While the Board offers no argument other than the amount budgeted in this area is in conformity with fixed rates, the Borough offers no proof to dispute this fact other than a statement to the effect that the amount budgeted is overstated. In light of the burden which falls on the municipality in this case, the Commissioner finds that the Borough has not met its burden and the $4,000 reduction is restored.

Fixed Charges - Insurance $1,000

The Borough's contention of overbudgeting in this area is not borne out by the Board's contentions relative to the amounts expended in 1991-92. The Commissioner notes that the Borough offered no rebuttal to the figures cited in the Board's Position Statement. Consequently, the $1,000 reduction imposed by the Borough in this area is restored.

Fixed Charges - Unemployment $3,000

Based upon the expenditures as of May 1992 reported by the Board, i.e. $6,100 out of $11,500 budgeted for 1991-92, the Commissioner deems the Borough to have met its burden in this area and the $3,000 reduction is sustained.

Food Service - Deficit $5,000

The Borough offers no concrete reason for supporting this reduction other than its unsubstantiated perception that the amount budgeted to cover the deficit is too great. The Commissioner directs restoration of the $5,000 by which this area was reduced by the Borough.

By way of summary, the Commissioner directs the restoration of the following amounts to the 1992-93 tax levy out of the $50,000 by which the Borough reduced the Seaside Heights School District's budget:

Salaries	$33,000
Operation of Plant - Heat	4,000
Fixed Charges - Social Security	4,000
Fixed Charges - Insurance	1,000
Food Services - Deficit	5,000
Total	$47,000

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that the Ocean County Board of Taxation increase the 1992-93 current expense tax levy for Seaside Heights to reflect a restoration of $47,000 which when added to the original-certification of $1,225,044 will result in a total current expense tax levy for the aforesaid year of $1,272,044.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SAYREVILLE, : DECISION
MIDDLESEX COUNTY. :

For the Board, Joseph J. Jankowski, Esq. (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer

For the Borough, Jeffrey A. Warsh, Esq. (Ansell, Zaro, (Bennett, Kenney & Grimm)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by way of a Petition filed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville (Board) on June 2, 1992, seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of the capital outlay cap waiver tax levy for the 1992-93 school year. This cap waiver had been proposed to the voting public and rejected at the annual school election on April 7, 1992. This cap waiver, in the amount of $276,180, was approved for submission to the voters by the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools.

The Board stated in its appeal that the capital outlay cap waiver monies are essential for partial payment for the replacement of the roof at the Truman Elementary School. The Board submitted a roof audit completed by the district roofing consultants verifying the need for roof replacement at the school. The governing body does not object to the Board's request for these capital outlay cap waiver monies. (See Borough's Answer.)

Upon review of the Board's position and supporting documentation, the Commissioner notes that physically deficient educational facilities are not acceptable under the mandates of a thorough and efficient educational program. The Commissioner therefore finds and determines that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for the capital outlay cap waiver monies to provide a safe and healthy environment for a thorough and efficient education for the students of the Borough of Sayreville.

Therefore, the Commissioner directs that the Middlesex County Board of Taxation strike a tax levy which shall afford the Borough of Sayreville Board of Education the additional amount of $276,180 for capital outlay cap waiver monies.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER APPEAL OF THE DELANCO TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

NOVEMBER 13, 1992

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELANCO,

PETITIONER,

V.

TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE OF THE TOWNSHIP OF DELANCO, BURLINGTON COUNTY.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER APPEAL OF THE DELANCO TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioner, Stephen J. Mushinski, Esq.

For Respondent, John T. Barbour, Esq. (Barbour & Costa)

Petitioner, the Board of Education of Township of Delanco, hereinafter "Board," opened this matter before the Commissioner of Education on May 26, 1992, alleging that the action of the Township Committee of the Township of Delanco, hereinafter "Township Committee," reducing the proposed amount to be raised by local taxation for the 1992-93 school year, will prevent the Board from operating a thorough and efficient system of free public schools in violation of the requirements of the New Jersey Constitution. On June 10, 1992 the Township Committee submitted its Answer to the budget appeal and on July 13, 1992 its Answer to the cap waiver appeal.

On April 7, 1992 the voters of the district defeated the Board's proposal to raise the sum of $1,922,670 for current expenses for the 1992-93 school year. Additionally, the voters defeated a cap waiver in the separate ballot proposal in the amount of $137,517, which had been previously authorized by the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools. The County Superintendent had advised the Board that a voter rejection of the proposed cap waiver question would require that an appeal be filed with the Commissioner.

These matters have been consolidated for determination by the Commissioner, since they both specifically pertain to the amount to be raised by local taxation for current expenses of the school district during the 1992-93 school year. There was no capital outlay question submitted to the voters.

Following the defeat by the voters, the Township Committee consulted with the Board as required by statute, and thereafter adopted a resolution on April 27, 1992, certifying to the Burlington County Board of Taxation a levy for current expenses in the amount of $1,768,452, which represented a reduction in the amount of $154,218 from the Board's proposal.

In its Petition of Appeal, the Board accepts reductions in the amount of $40,570, which will be detailed, post. Accordingly, the amounts in contention are as follows:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board	Amount Certified by Borough
Current Expense	$1,922,670	$1,768,452
Cap Waiver
Current Expense	137,517
Total	$ 2,060,187	$1,768,452

	Amount Reduced By Township Committee	Amount of Reduction Accepted by Board
Current Expense	$ 154,218	$ 40,570

Amount in Dispute before Commissioner

Defeated Budget	$113,648
Cap Waiver	137,517
Total	$251,165

The Township Committee suggested the following specific reductions in the Board's proposed 1992-93 school budget:

Current Expenses

Line Item	Reduction
J213 Kindergarten Teacher	$ 30,570
J211 Principal's Salary	65,284
J520 Transportation	30,000
J820 Fixed Charges	8,274
Unemployment Compensation	90
J870 Tuition - Regular	20,000
Total	$154,218

In its Petition, the Board accepts the reduction of $30,570 for a kindergarten teacher, inasmuch as the identical amount for this purpose was included in its cap waiver proposal. Also, the Board accepts $10,000 of the suggested $20,000 reduction in line item J870 Tuition - Regular. Said agreed upon reductions to the proposed budget were reviewed and approved by the County Superintendent, Arthur Merz.

The following items constituted the cap waiver which was part of the proposed 1992-93 school budget conditionally approved by the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools:

Cap Waiver

Line Item		Amount
J213-01	Kindergarten Teacher Salary	$ 32,911
J213-02	Teacher Salary (1-5)	43,193
J213-03	Teacher Salary (6-8)	22,596
J216	Instruction, Other Salaries	11,580
J810	Fixed Charges, F.I.C.A.	809
J820	Insurance	26,428
	Total	$137,517

I. DEFEATED BUDGET

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

In the instant matter the Commissioner will address the arguments of the parties with respect to each of the specific line item reductions.

J213 Kindergarten Teacher $30,570

The Board's acceptance of this specific reduction in its Petition of Appeal has been discussed, ante. The reduction is sustained.

J211 Principal's Salary $65,284

The Township Committee proposes the elimination of one of the existing elementary principal positions on the grounds that the Walnut Street School, which houses grades 6-8, has an enrollment of approximately 113 pupils. Pearson School contains grades K-5 in this two school, K-8 district. The Superintendent of Schools' office is located in the Walnut Street School. The assumption of the Township Committee is that either the Superintendent of Schools could serve in the dual capacity of principal of the Walnut Street School, or the one remaining principal could serve both schools. To support its argument, the Township Committee cites the 1992 School District Report Card, which indicated that the percentage of district administrators was 6.8% compared to a regional (seven county) average of 4.4%, and a State average of 4.7%. Given these percentages, and the Township Committee's belief that there is no legal requirement for a principal in each school, it concludes that the elimination of one principal would neither disrupt nor interfere with the provision of a thorough and efficient education by the school district. (Answer to Petition of Appeal, at pp. 2-3)

The Board asserts that it would be a physical impossibility for the Superintendent and remaining principal to absorb the total workload of one principal. The Board states that the Walnut Street School principal devotes his full time year-round to the administration and supervision of the school, and additionally serves as the district's Affirmative Action Officer, Title 504 Handicapped Compliance Officer, Testing Coordinator and Curriculum Supervisor. The Board avers that the Superintendent already carries a heavy workload and is required to work long hours and participate in many night meetings. It concludes that the imposition of the full-time responsibilities of the principal upon the Superintendent would cause significant harm to the detriment of the children.

The Board acknowledges that the 1991-92 enrollment report of the Walnut Street School was 113, but asserts that its Long Range Facility Plan of June 1990 forecasts an increase to 150 pupils for the 1993-94 school year. It also argues that the many administrative and supervisory activities currently undertaken by the administrators would be either significantly curtailed, or many would be eliminated. (Board's Position Statement, at pp. 8-9)

The Commissioner is constrained to correct the Township Committee's misunderstanding of the legal requirement for a full-time principal in each public school. Schools are required to have full-time principals. The only exceptions occur when a local board of education formally requests a waiver by the Commissioner. See N.J.A.C. 6:8-3.3(b). These are granted only under compelling circumstances in instances wherein it can be proven that no harm will result to the education process. This record is devoid of any factual information to show that such a waiver was ever requested by the Board.

The Township Committee's recommended reduction of the position of one principal cannot be sustained. The Board has offered ample proof of the necessity to maintain this position. Accordingly, the amount of $65,284 will be restored.

J520 Transportation, Contracted $30,000

For the 1992-93 school year the Board budgeted the proposed amount of $42,500, an increase of $2,500 over the 1991-92 amount of $40,000. Actual expenditures for the 1990-91 school year for these contracted services were $28,021.68.

The Township Committee states that the local school district is reimbursed by other school districts for transporting its pupils, primarily to special education classes, by these contracted services. According to the Township Committee, this reduction will leave funds in the amount of $12,500, which represents a balance for two and one-half months of operation. The Township Committee believes that this is a sufficient amount to maintain solvency in this line item and to provide adequate operation.

The Board maintains that the total J500 Transportation account is always under-budgeted. It avers that for the 1990-91 school year the Board expended $16,592 more than the budgeted amount.

An examination of the 1990-91 audit report discloses that the total amount budgeted for the J500 Account was $99,600, which was revised downward to $93,892.37, with total expenditures of $65,416.80. This resulted in an unexpended balance of $28,475.57, which does not include any reimbursements from other school districts for the prior 1989-90 school year. (Exhibit A-3b, p. 17)

Such reimbursements are deposited in the current expense account, either as reimbursements or miscellaneous revenues. The audit pages for 1990-91 show refunds totaling $4,681.90 (Exhibit A-1) and miscellaneous revenues of $67,912.93, which is an excess of $17,912.93 above the amount anticipated. (Exhibit A-3, p. 14) There is no breakdown provided to show what amount constitutes reimbursements of contracted transportation costs by other school districts.

The 1989-90 audit pages disclose that the J500 Transportation account was increased from $170,905 to $183,816.43, with expenditures of $181,708.27 and a balance of $2,108.16. (Exhibit A-3b, p. 17) For 1989-90, the miscellaneous revenues exceeded the anticipated budget figure of $55,000 by $64,726.37. (Exhibit A-3a, p. 14) No breakdown is provided for these revenues. It is not possible to determine any contracted transportation reimbursements for the 1989-90 school year.

The Board has failed to prove the necessity for restoration in this line item, therefore the recommended reduction of $30,000 must be sustained.

J820 Fixed Charges	$8,294
Unemployment Compensation	90
	$8,384

This recommended reduction represents the amount of insurance benefits and unemployment insurance costs which the Township Committee calculates as a total savings from the elimination of one principal's position. The determination has been made that the reduction for the principal's position must be restored, therefore these corollary costs, which represent indirect compensation, must also be restored to the 1992-93 school budget.

J870 Tuition - Regular $20,000

The Board has determined to accept a reduction of $10,000 in this line item; therefore, the amount of $10,000 remains in contention.

Under a sending-receiving agreement, this district pays tuition to the Riverside School District to educate its pupils enrolled in grades 9-12 in Riverside High School.

The Township Committee's reduction is based upon its conclusion that monies have been transferred out of this line item in prior years, and that it is overstated. The Township Committee states that the Board can sustain a reduction of less than two percent in this line item for the 1992-93 school year.

The Board asserts that it had 115 pupils enrolled in Riverside High School during 1991-92, and that number will increase to 120 for 1992-93. It has budgeted for these 120 pupils at the rate of $8,996 each, as a tentative tuition rate, for a total appropriation of $1,079,520. The Board also contends that the anticipated number of 120 could increase by pupils moving into its school district. It avers that 14 high school age pupils moved into the district between September 1991 and June 1992, all of whom were unanticipated. The Board states that it requires the entire proposed appropriation to adequately provide high school tuition for the 1992-93 school year. It claims that it did not receive a tentative tuition rate from the Riverside School District, and therefore it adjusted the 1991-92 rate upward by ten percent, which may not be sufficient for 1992-93, since the actual increase for 1991-92 was sixteen percent.

The audit pages for the 1990-91 school year show that the Board decreased its original appropriation for this line item from $775,280 to $681,822.36, a reduction of $93,457.64. An unexpended balance of $6,920.12 remained as of June 30, 1991. (Exhibit A-3b, p. 18) A reduction was also made of $147,140 during 1989-90, with a balance of $6,584.53. (Exhibit A-3b, p. 18) During the 1991-92 school year the Board made transfers between October 1991 and May 1992 totaling $41,868.11 from J870 to various line items.

The Board has not proved the necessity to restore the recommended reduction of the disputed $10,000, therefore it must be sustained.

The Board is reminded that it shares a mutual responsibility with the Riverside Board of Education to agree upon a tentative tuition rate within the prescribed time limit. If such agreement is not set in a timely manner, the Board has the affirmative obligation to request the Commissioner of Education to set a tentative tuition rate for the succeeding school year. The Commissioner hereby directs the Burlington County Superintendent of Schools to monitor this process for the 1993-94 school year.

A summary of the determination regarding the current expense items is set forth as follows:

	Line Item	Proposed Reduction	Amount Not Restored	Amount Restored
J213	Kindergarten Teacher	$ 30,570	$30,570	$ -0-
J211	Principal Salary	65,284	-0-	65,284
J520	Transportation, Contr.	30,000	30,000	-0-
J820	Fixed Charges	8,274	-0-	8,274
	Unemployment Comp.	90	-0-	90
J870	Tuition - Regular	20,000	20,000	-0-
	Total	$154,218	$80,570	$73,648

II. CAP WAIVER

The appeal of the defeated cap waiver will be considered on an item by item basis. The following chart sets forth these specific items:

	Line Item	Amount
J213-01	Kindergarten Teacher	$ 32,911
J213-02	Teacher Salary (1-5)	43,193
J213-03	Teacher Salary (6-8)	22,596
J216	Instruction, Other Salaries	11,580
J810	Fixed Charges, F.I.C.A.	809
J820	Insurance	26,428
	Total - Additional Current Expense	$137,517

The Township Committee's Answer to the Board's Appeal of the defeated cap waiver sets forth several affirmative defenses as follows:

1. The Petition of Appeal fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

2. There are no statutory provisions or rules of the State Board of Education authorizing the instant appeal.

3. The Commissioner is without jurisdiction to grant the requested relief.

4. Petitioner has no right or standing to pursue the instant appeal.

5. The programs included in the cap waiver petition are neither for the provision of a thorough and efficient education nor mandated to be provided under State statute or rule.

The Commissioner observes, in summary, that the constitutional mandate for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education supersedes all other requirements or limitations imposed by either statute or regulation. The implementation of this constitutional imperative has been thoroughly described by the Supreme Court of New Jersey, including the duties and responsibilities of the Commissioner, in East Brunswick, supra, and Deptford, supra. Accordingly, the Township Committee's defenses are denied.

The arguments and proofs regarding the specific cap waiver items will be hereinafter addressed.

J213-01 Kindergarten Teacher Salary $32,911

The Township Committee makes no specific statement regarding this item, but contends that none of the cap waiver items are necessary.

The Board asserts that this kindergarten teacher is necessary to continue the district's full day kindergarten program which the district has operated for the past eight years. It describes the many benefits of improved readiness, higher achievement levels, improved socialization skills and greater progress in learning skills which have accrued to its pupils through this program.

Adequate proof of the necessity for this program has been presented, therefore the funds will be restored.

J213-02 Teacher Salary (Grades 1-5) $43,193

The Township Committee's general objection to these cap waiver items has been stated, ante.

The Board asserts that during the past five years the services of a certified substance awareness coordinator have been necessary to provide assistance to a growing number of troubled child with many problems, including separation and divorce, low self-esteem, drug and alcohol family problems, behavioral problems, child abuse, school adjustment, theft, illness and death in the family, depression and suicide and many other types of emotional and social problems. This is the only position which provides full-time guidance and counseling to pupils within the district.

The Board has proved the necessity for the restoration of this amount.

J213-03 Teacher Salary (Grades 6-8) $22,596

The Township Committee's general objection to the cap waiver items has been previously stated.

The Board asserts that this item supports its general music program which has been part of the instructional program for many years. This program is taught by a full-time instrumental music teacher and a part-time, three-fifths general music teacher. The part-time position is the specific item herein addressed.

This teaching assignment includes all pupils in grades K-8 on a weekly basis for instruction in music theory, music history, styles of music, composers, instrumental groups, music reading, music appreciation and vocal music.

The instrumental teacher instructs a third grade band, a fourth and fifth grade beginning band, sixth-eighth grade stage band and a jazz band.

The weight of the evidence presented by the Board proves the necessity to restore the funds to maintain this instructional program.

J216 Instruction, Other Salaries $11,580

The Township Committee's general objection has been noted.

The Board explains that this item represents one-half time for one of two teachers who provide remedial instruction and compensatory education for pupils who fall below or do not attain locally determined academic achievement standards, which are somewhat higher than State standards. The program encompasses all grades K-8. The Board asserts that this basic skills program has prevented many pupils from failing to achieve State standards, because identification occurs at an early stage, and pupils who might otherwise be overlooked do receive a coherent and progressive program of remedial instruction. The Board avows that early age intervention has been most significant because young children are enabled to overcome deficiencies and strengthen their weak skill areas.

The Board has met its burden of proof of the necessity to restore the funds required for this instructional program.

J810 Fixed Charges, F.I.C.A.	$ 809
J820 Insurance	$26,428

The Township Committee includes these items in its general objection.

These two items may be considered together, since they consist of fixed charge and insurance benefit costs for the teaching positions which will be restored. These fixed costs are a form of indirect, contractual compensation, and therefore must be restored in order to adequately compensate the two and one-half restored positions.

The following chart summarizes the determination regarding the specific cap waiver items:

	Line Item	Amount Not Restored	Amount Restored
J213-01	Kindergarten Teacher	$ -0-	$ 32,911
J213-02	Teacher Salary (Gr. 1-5)	-0-	43,193
J213-03	Teacher Salary (Gr. 6-8)	-0-	22,596
J216	Other Salaries - Instructional	-0-	11,580
J810	Fixed Charges, F.I.C.A.	-0-	809
J820	Insurance	-0-	26,428
	Total		$137,517

In summary, the Commissioner finds and determines that the sum of $73,648 shall be restored from the Board's appeal of the Township Committee's budget reduction, and the additional current expense amount of $137,517 shall be restored for the cap waiver items as set forth above. This resolution is necessary in order to insure that a thorough and efficient system of education will be conducted by the Delanco Board of Education for the 1992-93 school year.

The Commissioner hereby orders the Burlington County Board of Taxation to certify the additional amount of $211,165 by local taxation for current expenses for the 1992-93 school year in the Delanco Township School District so that the total amount to be raised for current expense purposes shall be $1,979,617 for the 1992-93 school year.

	Current Expense
Amount Previously Certified	$1,768,452
Amount Restored (Defeated Budget)	$ 73,648
Amount Restored (Cap Waiver)	$ 137,517
Total Tax Levy	$1,979,617

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 13, 1992

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Stephen J. Mushinski, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Barbour & Costa
(John T. Barbour, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education has reviewed the proposed settlement by the parties in this appeal concerning the Board of Education of the Township of Delanco's school budget for 1992-93 and finds it to be in accord with the principles expressed in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Cardonick, School District of the Borough of Brooklawn. The State Board therefore approves the settlement in this matter. In so doing, we direct that the Commissioner's decision be modified to direct that the total amount to be certified by the Burlington County Board of Taxation for current expenses for 1992-93 is $1,842,100.

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of tenure removal charges against respondent. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The parties have now submitted a settlement agreement in the matter which is annexed. Having reviewed the terms of the settlement and it appearing that it fully disposes of all issues in controversy and was entered into voluntarily, I CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms of settlement and that these proceedings be and hereby are CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MARLBORO PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL, Petitioner, v. EMMET M. ROBINSON, Respondent.	)	Administrative Action CONSENT ORDER

WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital and the New Jersey Department of Human Services ("the Petitioner") initiated tenure removal charges against Emmet M. Robinson ("the Respondent"), a tenured Human Services teacher, for conduct unbecoming a teacher arising out of allegations of sexual harassment,

WHEREAS, the Respondent denied those charges and requested an administrative hearing under the Tenure Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.,

WHEREAS, the Petitioner certified this case to the Department of Education for a determination of the tenure dispute,

WHEREAS, the Respondent was suspended for 120 days without pay, but has been suspended with pay from the 121st day,

WHEREAS, the Respondent has been employed for over 26 years at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital,

WHEREAS, the parties agree that a settlement would benefit all witnesses by allowing them to avoid the embarrassment and humiliation associated with testifying to allegations of sexual harassment,

WHEREAS, the tenure charges had created friction and tension at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital between the supporters of the Respondent and those who were either testifying against Emmet Robinson or were opposed to the alleged actions of Emmet Robinson,

WHEREAS, both parties agree that a settlement of this matter will avoid any potential embarrassment to all the witnesses and remove the tension and friction among the employees at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital,

WHEREAS, an amicable resolution of this matter will allow the Respondent to resign from 26 years of employment without the stigma of sexual harassment attached to his reputation,

WHEREAS, an amicable resolution of this matter will allow the Petitioner to accomplish its goal of removing the Respondent from a teaching position within the Department of Human Services, and

WHEREAS, the Petitioner and Respondent are desirous of amicably resolving this matter,

IT IS ORDERED AND AGREED ON THIS DAY OF , 1992 THAT:

1) The Respondent shall be allowed to voluntarily retire from his position as a Teacher II at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, effective September 1, 1991 and apply for any pension benefits to which he is entitled.

2) The Petitioner accepts Respondent's offer to retire from his position as a Teacher II at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, effective September 1, 1991.

3) The Respondent shall voluntarily withdraw this administrative law appeal with prejudice.

4) The Respondent agrees to never seek employment with the New Jersey Department of Human Services ("DHS"); any of its divisions, agencies or institutions; or with any persons or entities who contract with any of the foregoing entities to provide services to DHS, its divisions, agencies or institutions.

5) The Respondent hereby releases and agrees to not sue DHS, its divisions, agencies, institutions or personnel for any legal, administrative or equitable relief arising out of or related to the subject matter of the above-captioned litigation.

6) By entering into this agreement, the Respondent does not admit the allegations against him.

7) By entering into this agreement, the Petitioner does not admit that its actions were unjustified or not in accord with law or equity.

8) The Petitioner agrees not to oppose the Respondent's application for retirement. In doing so, the Petitioner will endeavor to provide all information requested by the Division of Pensions to process Emmet Robinson's application for retirement, including any information relating to the facts surrounding this present action.

9) The Petitioner agrees to pay the following benefits to the Respondent to the degree allowed by law:

a) 45 days vacation time;

b) 90 days sick time;

c) 3 days administrative leave;

d) 21 days salary which accrued and was not paid to Petitioner during his 120 day suspension without pay.

10) The Petitioner makes no promises that Respondent's application for retirement benefits will be successful and any dispute between Respondent and the appropriate pension agency will not constitute a revocation of the Petitioner's acceptance of Respondent's retirement, nor will any unsuccessful application for pension benefits allow Respondent to withdraw his retirement.

11) This agreement, its contents and terms do not constitute precedent of any kind to be used against DHS, its divisions, agencies, institutions or personnel.

12) The consent agreement is by and between DHS, its successors and assigns, and Emmet M. Robinson, his successors and assigns.

13) This consent order is subject to the ultimate review and/or approval of the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education or his designee.

14) By way of this agreement, the Respondent acknowledges that he has been informed of the duty of the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF EMMET M. ROBINSON, MARLBORO PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL, NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed. Based upon such independent review, the Commissioner rejects the settlement terms and remands the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for the following reason.

It is noted that as a term of settlement, respondent has agreed to retire from his tenured employment as a teaching staff member at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, effective September 1, 1991. However, notwithstanding the Commissioner's cognizance that respondent is aware of the duty of the Commissioner of the New Jersey State Department of Education to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate, due to the very serious nature of the charges in this matter, which allege sexual harassment, and for the protection of the public interest, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the settlement absent an agreement from respondent that he will not seek employment in any educational setting in the future, not just within the Department of Human Services. If such accord cannot be reached, it is hereby directed that this matter proceed to a plenary hearing to afford respondent a full and fair opportunity to defend himself against the charges levied. (In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983) See also, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Record Closed: February 14, 1995 Decided: February 22, 1995

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter first was filed in 1990. Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital filed tenure charges against Emmet M. Robinson. The case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law and, nearly a year later, settled. OAL DKT. NO. EDU 10745-90 (Oct. 8, 1992).

The Commissioner of Education rejected the settlement.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 30, 1992 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13 and thereafter assigned to me.

After long discussions, the parties again reached resolution.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached stipulation indicating the terms of settlement. These terms address the concerns expressed by the Commissioner in 1992.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. WHEREAS, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq., Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital and the Petitioner, New Jersey Department of Human Services ("the Department") initiated tenure removal charges against Respondent, Emmett M. Robinson ("Robinson"), a tenured Human Services Teacher, for conduct unbecoming a teacher arising out of allegations of sexual harassment;

WHEREAS, Robinson denied those charges and requested an administrative hearing under the Tenure Education Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.;

WHEREAS, the Department certified this case to the Department of Education for a determination of the tenure dispute;

WHEREAS, Robinson was suspended for 120 days without pay (from November 20, 1990 to March 20, 1991), but has been suspended with pay from the 121st day;

WHEREAS, Robinson was employed for over 26 years at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital;

WHEREAS, a substantial amount of time has lapsed since the alleged actions occurred;

WHEREAS, Robinson has an exemplary record at the Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital and has been recognized for his accomplishments with troubled youths;

WHEREAS, Robinson's employment record contains no history of discipline or record of any misconduct occurring in the past;

WHEREAS, Robinson has agreed to not seek employment as a teacher in New Jersey for eighteen (18) months from September 1, 1993, and further agrees that he will never seek employment with the Department of Human Services in the future;

WHEREAS, Robinson has received full pay from the Department of Human Services for a period subsequent to the 120 day suspension, and attorneys for the parties will determine the exact amount of days for which Robinson is entitled to payment to comply with the applicable statutes, and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:6-24, the Department is entitled to a set-off for the amounts that Robinson earned through secondary employment subsequent to this receipt of pay after his suspension;

WHEREAS, the Department and Robinson agree that a settlement would benefit all witnesses by allowing them to avoid potential emotional distress associated with testifying to allegations of sexual harassment;

WHEREAS, the tenure charges had created friction and tension among employees of Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital;

WHEREAS, both parties agree that a settlement of this matter will avoid any potential emotional distress to the witnesses and relieve the tension and friction among the employees of Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital;

WHEREAS, amicable resolution of this matter will allow Robinson to resign from his 26 years of employment and retire without the stigma of sexual harassment attached to his reputation;

WHEREAS, an amicable resolution of this matter will allow the Department to accomplish its goal of removing Robinson from a teaching position within the Department of Human Services; and

WHEREAS, the Department and Robinson are desirous of amicably resolving this matter,

IT IS AGREED ON THIS DAY OF , 1994, THAT:

1. This consent agreement is by and between the Department, its successors and assigns, and Robinson, his successors and assigns;

2. This consent order is subject to the ultimate review and/or approval by the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education, or his designee;

3. All terms of this consent agreement are null and void if this agreement should not be approved by the Commissioner of the Department of Education;

4. Robinson acknowledges that the Department has informed him that it is the duty of the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of Robinson's teaching certificate;

5. Robinson agrees not to seek employment as a teacher in the State of New Jersey for eighteen (18) months from September 1, 1993;

6. Robinson agrees to voluntarily retire from his position as Teacher II at Marlboro Psychiatric Hospital, effective as soon as possible;

7. The Department agrees to accept Robinson's resignation in good standing;

8. Within 30 days of the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education, Robinson shall provide the Department with documentary proof (in the form of all 1993 W-2 forms, 1993 tax returns, 1994 earnings stubs indicating current salary, and all other available proof of income), of all income, other than his salary from the Department of Human Services, that Respondent earned between March 21, 1991, and the date of retirement;

9. After the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education, Robinson agrees to reimburse the Department the amount of income earned through secondary employment between March 21, 1991, and the date of retirement, minus the set-offs he is entitled to for compensation time, sick leave, annual leave and other benefits he may be entitled to pursuant to law;

10. The Department agrees to allow Robinson to enter into a separate agreement for a reasonable period of extended repayment if Robinson is unable to make immediate reimbursement;

11. Robinson will voluntarily withdraw this administrative law appeal with prejudice and without costs;

12. Robinson agrees never to seek employment with the Department;

13. Robinson accepts the terms of this agreement in full settlement for all claims in this matter;

14. Robinson agrees that this Settlement and Release, when finally approved, is intended to be a final resolution of all issues arising out of this matter, except for the above described accounting, offset and reimbursement, and is intended to release the Department from any past, present or future liability arising out of the claims at issue in this matter;

15. In consideration of the provisions hereof, including this release, Robinson and on behalf of his insurers, agents, employees, heirs and assigns, executors and personal representatives, releases the Department and the State of New Jersey and its Departments, Divisions, officials and their insurers, agents, employees, heirs, executors, personal representatives and assigns from all claims, demands, damages, causes of action, or suits which have been, could have been, or might have been made or prosecuted on account of any conduct of any party occurring at any time with respect to the events, information and disputes giving rise to this action, including but not limited to any claim for payment of counsel fees pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 1988 and/or common law;

16. Nothing herein shall constitute an admission or concession of liability by any party;

17. By entering into this agreement, Robinson does not admit the allegations against him;

18. By entering into this agreement, the Department does not admit that its actions were unjustified or not in accord with law or equity;

19. This agreement, its contents and terms do not constitute precedent of any kind to be used against the Department, its divisions, agencies, institutions or personnel.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF EMMETT M. ROBINSON, MARLBORO PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL, NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON REMAND

The record and initial decision in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

The Commissioner approves the settlement terms as they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. (In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846). The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Notwithstanding the Commissioner's acceptance of this settlement under the Cardonick standards, due to the very serious nature of the charges in this matter, i.e., allegations of sexual harassment, and to assure the promotion of the public interest, the Commissioner shall transmit this matter to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

William D. Dilks, Esq., for Petitioner

Picco, Mack, Herbert, Kennedy, Jaffe and Yoskin, for Respondent (Michael J. Herbert, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent Relief filed by the Board of Education of the City of Gloucester (Board) seeking a stay of the determination of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's (NJSIAA) Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of October 26, 1992 denying a waiver of the forfeiture of the Board's football game victory of September 19, 1992 against Burlington Township High School, resulting from the Board's playing an allegedly ineligible player, C.P., pursuant to Article V, Section 4K(2) of the NJSIAA Rules. Said rule requires that a pupil whose parents do not move with him or her to a new school district must abstain from participation in interscholastic contests until the expiration of thirty (30) days from the start of school.

The Board seeks emergent relief because such forfeiture will most likely disqualify its football team from the South, Group I Football Championships, which are to begin on Saturday, November 21, 1992 based upon final selections to be made by the NJSIAA on Monday, November 16, 1992. It contends that C.P., a sophomore, registered in the usual manner, and that until after the Burlington game, it had no knowledge that C.P. was living with a relative other than his mother and guardian, in tranferring to Gloucester City High School from the Clayton School District, where the mother still resides. The Board would have the Commissioner "revisit" the case law concerning the thirty-day rule and to decide in its favor because C.P. moved to Gloucester City to live with an uncle who would present a positive role model, and to encourage his staying in school to graduate, not for athletic advantage.

NJSIAA filed a Letter Brief and accompanying documents in Opposition to the Motion for Emergent Relief on November 12, 1992. Its submission also included the minutes of the EAC's hearing in this matter conducted on October 21, 1992, the decision of the Committee dated October 26, 1992 as well as numerous Commissioner of Education and Court decisions regarding the issue at hand. Said submission advances the argument that no basis existed in the record developed before the EAC to warrant vacating the forfeiture of the September 19, 1992 game, noting that NJSIAA does not have the discretion to vacate the automatic forfeiture required pursuant to Article V, Section 4K(2) of the NJSIAA Bylaws.

The EAC's letter of October 26, 1992 argued that if it were to vacate the forfeiture in this matter, it might encourage parents and students to take a risk in attempting to circumvent the eligibilty rules by improper transfers. NJSIAA notes that the telephone number given by C.P.'s mother, which was not a Gloucester City exchange, provided an adequate basis for further due diligence on behalf of the school to assess C.P.'s eligibility to participate in interscholastic sports during the thirty-day waiting period. Hence, respondent argues, the forfeiture was reasonable, and the Commissioner should not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA. In this regard, NJSIAA cites such case law as Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County v. NJSIAA, 1991 S.L.D. 2217; Hunterdon Central High School Board of Education v. NJSIAA et al., decided by the Commissioner November 22, 1985; Board of Education of North Arlington et al. v. NJSIAA, 1983 S.L.D. 1221 and Board of Education of the Northern Highlands Regional High School District v. NJSIAA, petition filed November 10, 1982, Appellate Division reversed and stay granted November 18, 1982, reversed Supreme Court and stay vacated November 29, 1982, decision on remand Appellate Division October 17, 1984 in support of its contention that forfeiture is appropriate under the instant circumstances.

On November 12, 1992 the Commissioner of Eduction designated his authority to hear and decide the Motion for Emergent Relief and the merits of the matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-33 to Deputy Commissioner John C. Woodbury. Oral argument was held by telephone conference call with the parties representatives on that date. For the reasons which follow, the Deputy Commissioner of Education denies petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief for failure to meet the standards for pendente lite restraints as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal on its merits.

In considering petitioner's claim of irreparable harm, the Deputy Commissioner relies on Burnside et al. v. NJISAA, unpublished decision of App. Div., November 15, 1984, Dkt. No. A-625-84T7 for the proposition that participation in interscholastic sports is a privilege, not a right. Hence participation in interscholastic sports playoffs does not constitute irreparable harm.

Similarly, the Deputy Commissioner is compelled to reject the Board's position on the merits of its claim. The Board recognizes that case law has consistently upheld the thirty-day rule. Neither does the Board contest the fact that C.P. played football on September 19, 1992 for the Gloucester City team when, in fact, he had transferred to the Board's district from Clayton in early September to live with his uncle while his mother and guardian, remained a resident of Clayton, a different school district. Nothing presented in the Board's papers nor during oral argument convinces the Deputy Commissioner to disturb the opinion of the Appellate Division decision in Northern Highlands Regional, supra. Neither does he find a basis for revisiting the thorough opinion expressed by the Office of Administrative Law, affirmed by the Commissioner, in North Arlington, supra. Accordingly, it is found and determined that the Board has failed to meet its burden of demonstrating a likelihood of succeeding on the merits of its claim, and such arguments are hereby dismissed as being without merit.

Finally, while recognizing the importance of sports in a student's growth and development, the Courts of New Jersey and the Commissioner of Education have made it plain that participation in athletics is a privilege, not a right, and that a voluntary organization, such as NJSIAA, has a public policy interest in preserving the rules by which all participating schools agree to abide. See Burnside, supra, and N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3. In light of the fact that NJSIAA provided the Board with full due process and considering the Association's consistent application of its rules to this case, the Deputy Commissioner finds and determines that his standard of review has been met by NJSIAA in this matter; that is, if due process has been provided and there is an adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA committees, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment even when he would otherwise decide in a de novo review. See, D.J.K. and H.J.K v. NJISAA 1987 S.L.D. 259. Based on these precedents and a careful review of the record of this matter, the Deputy Commissioner rejects the Board's arguments on the merits of this matter as well as under the standards established by the courts for pendente lite restraints, and dismisses the Petition of Appeal, with prejudice, for the reasons expressed herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

This matter concerns a request for a preliminary injunction in order to hold in abeyance the demolition of the English Neighborhood School in the Borough of Fairview which was granted by John Futey ALJ, on April 30, 1992. The matter was originally transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 27, 1992 for determination as a contested case on an application for emergent relief. The petition was granted on April 30, 1992 and the matter was transmitted to Marylouise Lucchi-McCloud, ALJ for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 52:14F-1 to 13.

Prior to the onset of the hearing the petitioners requested to amend the prehearing order and expand the scope of the hearing and essentially amend their original petition to include acts of mismanagement which were not originally alleged in the petition. On September 14, 1992 the request for an amendment to the prehearing order was denied. Subsequent to the denial of the order a motion was made to dismiss the petition as being moot based upon the petitioners requesting that the preliminary injunction be dismissed. Oral argument was held on September 14, 1992 and the record closed. After a careful review of the petition and having considered the fact that the petitioners have removed their objections to the demolition of the Neighborhood School based upon their ability to make an inspection of the school upon reasonable notice to the respondent board of education through its secretary Patrick Coffield, it was then determined that the issue of the petition was moot. An order was signed dismissing the matter due to the fact that no issues remained for adjudication.

As a result, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition in the above-captioned matter be and hereby is dismissed as moot.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents of student D.K., who was injured by another student, alleged Board failed to properly discipline student who caused injury.

ALJ found petitioners did not seek additional entitlement for themselves or their child but to impose additional burden on third person not a party to this proceeding. Since petitioners' legitimate interests would not be "substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome" (N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1), ALJ dismissed petition.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ that petitioners did not have standing to appeal the penalty imposed by the Board upon another student. Petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: October 2, 1992 Decided: October 14, 1992

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by parents from a public school district's alleged failure to discipline properly another student who caused injury to their son. Petitioners allege that the local board of education failed to follow its own written policy guidelines for student discipline. The threshold issue is whether petitioners have standing to challenge the appropriateness of disciplinary action taken against someone else's child. For the reasons which follow, the school board's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

Procedural History

U.K. and G.K., parents of D.K., filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on February 20, 1992, requesting a review of "all documents involved in this matter" and an inquiry into the "investigative process within the Clifton High School system." Respondent Clifton Board of Education ("Board") filed its answer on March 9, 1992, denying the allegations and raising the issue of petitioners' standing to bring this lawsuit. Subsequently, on March 16, 1992, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

On July 16, 1992, respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing. Thereafter, on August 19, 1992, petitioners filed opposing papers. The case was submitted on October 2, 1992 for ruling on the papers.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are undisputed or, for the limited purpose of deciding this motion, may be assumed as true based on the petition and other documents submitted by petitioners. I FIND:

During the 1991-92 school year, D.K. was an eleventh-grade student attending public high school in Clifton, New Jersey. On Friday October 4, 1991, while D.K. was "walking across the upper field" on his way to band practice, he was "attacked from behind and thrown to the ground" by a fellow student, B.B, who was "considerably larger in size and weight." Immediately before being tackled, D.K. heard a voice from behind say, "Let's get [D.K.]." Another student, M.P., was also involved in the attack, but B.B. has been identified as the leader and chief instigator. D.K. had done nothing to provoke the attack and was certainly not a willing participant. When rehearsal started at around 3:00 p.m., band director Robert Morgan saw that D.K. was in pain and unable to move his arm. Mr. Morgan sent him unescorted to the office to call his parents. Later that same day, D.K. went to the hospital, where he was diagnosed as having suffered a broken collarbone. As a result of his injury, D.K.

had to wear a clavicle strap for six weeks, and he missed the remainder of the band season.

The following morning, Saturday October 5, 1991, Mr. Morgan spoke by telephone with D.K. and asked him what had happened. On Tuesday, October 8, 1991, the father, U.K., visited the school and discussed the incident with the building principal and the vice principal in charge of discipline. Over the next few days, U.K. or his wife, G.K., had conversations with various individuals, including B.B.'s parents and Mr. Morgan. At one point, Mr. Morgan agreed with the characterization of B.B. as a "bully," although he later explained that B.B.'s behavior "seemed more of a childish immature nature rather than one of malicious intent." Mr. Morgan described the incident as a "game" called "pile on," in which D.K. was unfortunately "singled out as the person to pile on." No one refuted petitioners' assertion that some two weeks earlier B.B. had "shoved" D.K. "into the blackboard" of the band room, and that a year ago he had "pushed him around a few times" and "made fun of his hair being greasy." It does not appear, however, that anyone had reported these prior incidents to a teacher or other responsible school staff member until after the most recent episode.

Meanwhile, school administrators conducted an investigation into the circumstances of the most recent incident and determined that, while the two other students had engaged in irresponsible conduct, they had not intended actually to hurt D.K. Petitioners themselves recognize this distinction, when they acknowledge that B.B. may not have had the "malicious intent" of causing bodily injury, but that he did intend "to thrust" with full force against D.K. Less than one week after the band practice incident, on October 10, 1991, Vice Principal Henry Dougherty disciplined the two guilty students by imposing a five-day detention, removal from one band activity, and community service.

Guidelines for discipline set forth in the district's official student handbook establish several categories, depending on the seriousness of the infraction. Category I, which includes disruptiveness in class, rudeness to staff member, dress code violations, and "other offenses of similar seriousness," is punishable by a wide range of sanctions, including referral to the time-out program, parent conference, detention and Saturday school suspension. Category II, which refers to "disorderly conduct" and "fighting with other students," among other offenses, is punishable by many of the same sanctions and, in addition, by an "out-of-school suspension" of "up to five days." Category III, reserved for the most serious offenses, including "assault on a student or other person causing injury," is punishable by much more severe sanctions, including "mandatory out-of-school suspension for five to twenty-one days" and "elimination of all student activities including athletic and non-athletic program for one calendar year."[1] Evidently, the school administration decided that the particular circumstances in this case, especially the absence of any specific intent to cause harm, did not rise to the level of a Category III offense and, therefore, that a lesser penalty would be sufficient punishment.

Dissatisfied with this outcome, petitioners requested an opportunity to address the Board members at a school board meeting. On November 20, 1991, petitioners made a ten-minute presentation to the Board, in which they expressed their views that the incident had not been thoroughly investigated; that the administration's handling of the matter and "seeming indifference" to their concerns has "trivialized [their] pain"; that the "minimal" punishment meted out sends the wrong message to students; and that B.B. may have received "preferential treatment" because of his status as "an accomplished swimmer, who brings recognition to the high school." By letter dated November 27, 1991, William Liess, superintendent of schools, notified petitioners that the Board members had met in executive session and voted to sustain the disciplinary measure taken by the school administration, "based on what is considered to be an assault with intent to harm versus an injury as the result of horseplay."

There followed this appeal to the Commissioner, in which petitioners accuse the Board of "supporting a whitewash of this matter" by the school administration. Although the pleadings do not clearly articulate what relief is being sought, the

---

[1] A sneak attack from behind, which the victim does not even know is coming, may not fit the technical legal definition of "assault," which implies "an intentional display of force such as would give the victim reason to fear or expect immediate bodily harm." Black's Law Dictionary 105 (5th ed. 1979). Undoubtedly, however, the student handbook uses the word in its broader sense of "a violent attack with physical means." Webster's New International Dictionary 130 (3d ed. 1978).

supporting documents show that petitioners want a reopening of the disciplinary proceeding below and imposition of a penalty commensurate with the offense.

It should also be noted that petitioners have hired an attorney, who has served separate notice on the Board of a tort claim for damages allegedly caused by an "assault during a poorly supervised school activity."

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioners do not have standing to challenge the disciplinary action taken against a child who is not under their parental care or custody.

As used in the law, the term "standing" is a jurisdictional concept. Simply stated, it means that a particular litigant must have sufficient interest in the subject of the litigation so that a genuine clash between opposing viewpoints will be presented. Kenwood v. Montclair Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 8858-81 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r (June 14, 1992). New Jersey courts have adopted a generous approach toward recognition of standing in order that aggrieved parties will not be denied easy access to the legal system. See Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp., 58 N.J. 98 (1971). State administrative agencies are even more liberal in allowing persons with only a tangential interest to assert a claim. One authoritative treatise has gone so far as to predict that "New Jersey may be approaching a standing rule which permits citizens at large to challenge any administrative decisions that are of interest to them." S. Lefelt, Administrative Law & Practice, 37 N.J. Practice Series § 308 (1988).

Nonetheless, there are accepted limits as to who may seek to vindicate rights belonging to others. In the leading case of Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n, supra, at 107, the New Jersey Supreme Court declined to entertain proceedings by parties "who are mere intermeddlers" or "merely interlopers or strangers to the dispute." Generally, two prerequisites must exist to establish standing: First, petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings; and, second, his position must be truly adverse to the opposing party. Home Builders League of So. Jersey, Inc. v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 132 (1979). Sometimes the first requirement is described in terms of the "substantial likelihood of harm" to the complainant if the requested relief is not granted. Home Builders, at 134. Where a case is of great public interest, however, "any slight additional private interest" will be sufficient to afford standing. Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1980). But courts still continue to look for some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights.

Similar restrictions are imposed on those who would initiate administrative proceedings before the Commissioner of Education. While N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 confers upon the Commissioner jurisdiction to hear and determine "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws," the Commissioner has adopted regulations clarifying exactly who may be considered interested persons for purposes of such hearings. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 defines "interested person(s)" as anyone "who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy." (Emphasis added.) Such language is consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act, which limits the definition of a contested case to proceedings where the "legal rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties are required by constitutional right or by statute to be determined." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b)

Thus, the Commissioner has consistently refused to hear cases brought by petitioners who would not be affected by the outcome in a direct and meaningful way. See Kenwood v. Montclair Bd. of Ed, supra, (concerned citizen seeking to rewrite school attendance policy); Lobis v. Maple Shade Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 3630-79 (June 11, 1980), adopted, Comm'r (Aug. 11, 1980), aff'd, St. Bd. (Nov. 5, 1980) (parent whose son no longer attended school in the district complaining about the quality of education received by remaining students); Delaney v. Woodbridge Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 382-78 (Dec. 12, 1979), adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 1980) (taxpayer questioning propriety of filling job vacancies); Ricardelli v. Newark Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 1894-79 (Sept. 26, 1979), adopted, Comm'r (Nov. 16, 1979) (taxpayer challenging legality of school board's decision to transfer personnel); Accord, G.G. v. New Providence Bd. of Educ., 1975 S.L.D. 502 (parent of high school graduate challenging attendance policy).

Significantly, petitioners have not cited any legal authority for the proposition that a parent may appeal the school discipline imposed on someone else's child. Typically, it is the parent or guardian of the child subject to discipline who possesses the right of appeal. Tibbs v. Franklin Twp. Bd. of Educ., 59 N.J. 506 (1971). Research has produced two school law decisions in which a parent has successfully sued a local district for inadequate disciplinary procedures, but both are readily distinguishable on their particular facts. In Venezia v. Ocean Twp Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 3) 370 (Comm'r of Educ.), a parent sued to obtain greater adult supervision for her ten-year-old daughter, who had been tormented mercilessly by a number of juveniles when changing classes, in the lunch area, and on the school bus. Similarly, in R.P. v. Delran Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 3446-85 (Nov. 18, 1985), adopted, Comm'r (Dec. 30, 1985), parents removed their eighth-grade daughter from school for her physical safety and then sued to recover the cost of enrolling her in a neighboring school district. Evidence substantiated that the home district had failed to take effective disciplinary action to prevent continuing name-calling, harassment, and physical abuse carried out by an organized group of students.

Both of these cases involved parents who sought to provide a safe and secure learning environment for their own child, not to impose a harsher punishment on another child. In contrast, petitioners in this matter are not asking to protect their son against a credible threat of future violence. They admit that school authorities took immediate action to apprehend the guilty individuals, that the wrongdoers received swift punishment, and that the Board listened to their objections before passing final judgment. Their disagreement is merely with the degree of the penalty, which they perceive to be too lenient and indulgent. Apart from double jeopardy considerations, the situation is analogous to that of a crime victim seeking to appeal a light sentence handed down to a convicted defendant.[2] Petitioners do not seek an additional benefit for themselves or their child, but rather to impose an additional burden on a third person who is not a party to this proceeding. In the language of the regulation, petitioners' legitimate interests will not be "substantially, specifically and directly affected" by the outcome.

If D.K. has sustained damages because agents or employees of the Board negligently failed to take reasonable precautions for his safety and well-being, petitioners may pursue their tort remedy in an appropriate forum. Jackson v. Hankinson, 51 N.J. 230 (1968); Titus v. Lindberg, 49 N.J. 66 (1967).

Order

It is ORDERED that the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[2]Crime victims have the statutory right to provide a written statement for inclusion in the presentence report prepared by the Probation Department. N.J.S.A. 2C:44-6(b). Additionally, the Crime Victim's Bill of Rights recognizes a victim's right to submit a written statement to a representative of the Prosecutor's Office prior to the filing of formal criminal charges and to make an in-person statement directly to the sentencing court concerning the impact of the crime. N.J.S.A. 52:4B-36(m) and (n). Victims of serious crimes have the right to present a written statement to the Parole Board or testify before a parole hearing officer in opposition to early release. N.J.S.A. 30:4-123.55. None of these statutes confers on the crime victim any right to appeal the sentence imposed by the court.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." RESPONDENT.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and are not addressed herein. Replies by the Board were timely filed, but need not be summarized below because of the untimeliness of petitioners' filing.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, under the circumstances of this case, petitioners do not have standing to appeal the penalty imposed by the Board upon another student. As noted by the ALJ, petitioners do not seek a safer environment for their own child, nor do they deny that they were given an opportunity to express their views to the Board, nor do they deny that the district took prompt investigative and punitive actions in response to the incident at issue, notwithstanding that they disagree with the outcome of those actions. Further, the record shows that petitioners' objections have led the Board to undertake a review of its own policies and procedures for considering matters such as that brought before it by petitioners. Thus, apart from redress of a type which must be pursued through the tort claims process, petitioners have not shown a sufficiently direct and specific interest in the matters raised in their petition so as to be found to have standing in this forum.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association sought to disqualify Respondent Parillo from service as Board member because of his position as police officer for Township of North Brunswick wherein he provided security services at high school athletic events.

ALJ dismissed petition finding no Board action was ever taken to enter into contract with Respondent Parillo or the police department and no Board action conferred any direct or indirect benefit on Respondent Parillo. Payment rates for security services were set by police department and assignment of officers was made exclusively by police department.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with the modification that Parillo must abstain from any deliberations and actions of the Board relative to security at school events. In so ruling, the Commissioner emphasized that there must be strict enforcement of a wall of separation between Parillo's role and responsibilities as a Board member and his role, responsibilities and employment as a police officer assigned to school-related events.

Record Closed: June 30, 1992 Decided: October 8, 1992

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, CHIEF ALJ:

This is an action to disqualify Gerard Parillo from service as a member of the Board of Education of the Township of North Brunswick. It is brought by the North Brunswick Township Education Association, which alleges that Mr. Parillo's services as a police officer with the Township of North Brunswick and his payment, as a result of that position, for the provision of security services at school athletic activities, are in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1, or in the alternative, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2. Respondents, the Board and Mr. Parillo, deny that there is a disqualifying conflict of interest present in these circumstances.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative law as a contested case proceeding. At the prehearing conference conducted in this matter, it was determined that it would proceed by way of cross motions for summary decision.

The motions with their supporting affidavits and exhibits were submitted to the undersigned and the record closed on June 30,1992. An order of extension was submitted in this matter extending the time for submission of the initial decision.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The material facts in this matter are not in dispute. Mr. Parillo has been a duly elected member of the North Brunswick Township Board of Education for six years. He also has been employed by the North Brunswick Township Police Department for the past seventeen years. North Brunswick Township police officers provide security at special events for the school district pursuant to a long-established practice. This relationship is not the subject of a special approval or vote by the Board of Education.

The director of athletics provides the North Brunswick Police Department each year with the dates and times of all special events for which security is required, and the number of security people required. North Brunswick Township police officers are assigned to work special events by the police department based on PBA procedures and guidelines which govern the assignment of Township police officers to work at off-duty details. The PBA guidelines were submitted in this matter and they reveal that the factors used to determine assignment of special event details relate to seniority and the number of hours worked. There is no allegation here and no proof that Mr. Parillo is treated differently when it comes to assignment to work at special event details for the school district.

All members of the North Brunswick Police Department who work special events for the school district are paid the same rates of compensation as all other police officers assigned to such special events. This rate is not set by the Board of Education or the school district. As a member of the class of North Brunswick Township police officers eligible to work special events, Mr. Parillo receives no special benefit from the Board of Education that is different from all other members of the North Brunswick Township Police Department who provide security services for the school district as determined by the police department.

Payment for off-duty police officers who provide security at school special events is also a matter of long-established procedure. Checks are drawn on the high school athletics account which are made payable to the individual officers and are either mailed or picked up by representatives of the North Brunswick Township Police Department individually or for groups of officers. Petitioner has submitted for this record representative samples of checks paid to Mr. Parillo for his security work.

Mr. Turco, the business administrator of the school district, averred that payment for the police security comes out of the North Brunswick Township high school athletics account, which is part of the school district's overall budget. Receipts from high school special events are deposited in the Board of Education's general operating account, from which the high school's athletics account is funded.

Mr. Turco states in his affidavit, which is uncontradicted, that the Board of Education does not directly control payments from the high school athletics account, except through the overall budget and accounting process. The athletic account is administered by the high school treasurer, who operates under guidelines for receipts and disbursements established by the Board of Education and under the direct supervision of the principal and assistant principal of the high school, who co-sign the checks. The high school treasurer submits periodic reports to the secretary of the Board of Education and disbursements from the high school athletics account are included in the statement of expenditures reported each month to the Board of Education by the secretary. The high school athletics account is reviewed monthly by the secretary of the Board of Education and audited annually as part of the regular school audit conducted each year and submitted to the New Jersey Department of Education for review.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

There is a breadth of case law in which the Commissioner of Education and appellate tribunals have interpreted what is a disqualifying interest or position which would preclude a member of a board of education from continued membership. The pertinent statutes are N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1, which provides:

> No member of a board of education shall, during the term for which he is elected or appointed, be eligible for appointment to any paid office or position required to be filled by the board unless he shall resign or cease to be a member at least 6 months prior to his appointment, except in cases where the office or position is by law required or permitted to be filled by a member of the board.

and N.J.S.A. 18:12-2, which provides:

> No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board, nor, in the case of local and regional school districts, shall he hold office as mayor or as a member of the governing body of a municipality, nor, in the case of county special services school districts and county vocational school districts, shall he hold office as a member of the governing body of a county.

At the outset, I find N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1 to be inapplicable to the present controversy. The record is absent any proof that Mr. Parillo, as a police officer of North Brunswick Township, is holding a "paid office or position required to be filled by the board" in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1. The Board of Education does not determine who is hired as a police officer by North Brunswick Township and it is the police department which assigns police officers to off-duty security work pursuant to PBA guidelines. Accordingly, I find no basis in this record to support a disqualifying conflict for Mr. Parillo pursuant to the strictures of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1.

With regard to application of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, and the prohibition against a board member being "interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board", I note first that this case involves no "claim" by Mr. Parillo against his board. This simply is not a situation wherein a sitting board member is pursuing some claim against the body of which he is a component part.

Hence, the focus of this analysis will be on the language prohibiting a direct or indirect interest in a "contract with . . . the board."

The various cases addressing N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and its application to members of local boards of education have dealt with two basic questions, namely: 1) does a conflict exist and, if so, 2) is it a substantial and materially sufficient conflict. Two scenarios in which these questions generally arise are: where the board member or a close family member receives a benefit through a collective bargaining agreement covering a class of beneficiaries, and where the board is called upon to consider and award a particularized commercial contract which provides a special benefit to an individual.

Turning to the first category, the school law decisions have held that an individual may serve on a board of education notwithstanding that a member of the board member's immediate family is a board employee. See In re Bayless, 1974 S.L.D. 595, rev'd., St. Bd. of Ed., 1974 S.L.D. 603; Elms v. Mount Olive Board of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 713. In Elms, the close family members included a spouse, a sister, a son and a grandson. In this case the board members involved abstained from acting to ratify the collective bargaining agreement that would have covered the related family members and the Commissioner found no disqualifying conflict posed by the situation.

Salerno v. Old Bridge Board of Education, 6 N.J.A.R. 405 (1984), addressed a situation in which a school board member, whose spouse was a teaching staff member within the school district, did vote to ratify the collective bargaining agreement that pertained to his wife. Salerno is instructive because the Board's argument focused on the nature of the difference between a benefit conferred on a group which may include a board member's spouse, and a benefit conferred by a commercial contract. As set forth in the administrative law judge's (ALJ's) initial decision, which was affirmed by the Commissioner (see 6 N.J.A.R. at 413):

> In the Board's view, the Commissioner has recognized a clear distinction between a commercial contract which provides a specific benefit to an individual and a collective bargaining agreement which benefits an entire class of employees. In this case, the collective bargaining unit covers a unit containing hundreds of Board employees. The connection between the economic benefit to a single family member is an indirect and remote consequence of > participation in negotiations or a vote for ratification of the agreement. It cannot be disputed that labor relations is a major concern of any board of education. To foreclose a board member from participation in labor relations matters because a relative happens to be a board employee would severely and unduly restrict an individual's ability to perform his or her obligations as a board member. Of course, board members are required to abstain from voting on matters directly affecting their relatives. Examples would include, but not be limited to, renewal or nonrenewal of individual employment contracts. See, Elms, supra.

>
> The Board also argues that the petitioner here offers no credible explanation as to why such drastic restrictions should be imposed on Board members. No evidence of impropriety has been alleged, let alone shown. The petitioner has failed to demonstrate a "substantial and materially sufficient" conflict of interest as required by Bayless.
>
> [Salerno, supra, 6 N.J.A.R. at 409]

The ALJ found the difference persuasive, stating:

> The negotiated labor agreement between a board and its employees obviously has an effect on an employees, whether they be related to board members or not. However, as stated by the Commissioner in Elms, it is not a commercial contract that would bestow special economic advantage on an individual. Rather, it affects all employees in a bargaining unit as a direct outgrowth of their statutory right to bargain collectively.
> [Id. at 412]

Accordingly, the ALJ held that the board member must abstain from participating in or voting on any matter that directly pertained to the relative, but held it to be not necessary for the board member to abstain from voting on a collective bargaining agreement that would impact on the spouse only as a member of the entire group of people affected by the collective bargaining agreement.

This "class impact" analysis of the alleged conflict was elaborated upon in the Commissioner's decision in Karabin v. Board Attorney and Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge (September 18, 1990). Mr. Karabin was a duly elected board member who was also a former educator in the district. As a retiree of the district, he received health benefits pursuant to the current employee agreement. However, because that agreement was about to expire, the board was in the process of negotiating with the education association on, among other topics, employees' health benefits. The Commissioner determined that Mr. Karabin did not have a conflict pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 were he to vote on the newly negotiated teacher contract. Even though the alleged benefit would inure directly to Mr. Karabin, the Commissioner's analysis recognized that:

> . . . any benefits negotiated in this contract are negotiated for an entire group, including all teachers, per diem substitutes, clerks and secretaries, etc. Thus, the Commissioner finds that no specific benefit will accrue solely to the petitioner, as contemplated by the Legislature in crafting N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.
> [Karabin, supra, at 12]

The Commissioner's analyses in these cases acknowledges that the connection between the economic benefit to a single family member is only an indirect and remote consequence of the board member's participation in discussion and vote on ratification of a collective bargaining agreement.

The Commissioner's decision in Karabin underscores that the earlier decisions finding no conflict were a board member to vote on an increase to a spousal teaching staff member occasioned by a new collective bargaining agreement, did not turn on the fact that the money went to one spouse as opposed to the board member spouse. This approach in consistent with the case law of this State recognizing that marital assets are normally so commingled it would not be possible to sufficiently segregate funds for political contributions by a judge's wife, In re Gaulkin, 69 N.J. 185 (1976), or to separately identify salary paid to the spouse of a judge if earned in a casino-licensed activity, Greenberg v. Kimmelman, 99 N.J. 552 (1985). Although these cases were not cited in Karabin, the Commissioner's conclusion in Karabin is consistent with Gaulkin and Greenberg and its outcome supports the logical reasoning that "class benefits" are unobjectionable from a conflict perspective whether they be conferred on the board member's spouse or the board member him or herself.

Here, Mr. Parillo's "interest" is not a particularized interest, but is one shared by the entire class of police officers within the North Brunswick Police Department. That is, like any police officer within North Brunswick, he may be called upon to take an assignment for the provision of security at a school athletic event. That interest is so remote and so generalized to the entire class of police officers, that I find no disqualifying interest pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 present in this matter when compared with the situations set forth in Salerno, Elms and Karabin.

Moreover, there is not even any contract involved here. There was never any commercial contract presented to the Board for its action.

By way of comparison to the instant circumstances, in Babcock Computer Corporation v. Southern Regional High School Board of Ed. and IBM Corp., Commissioner of Education (December 11, 1990), the Commissioner held that the close familial relationship between Kevin A. Babcock, president and sole stockholder of Kevin A. Babcock Computer Corporation, and his mother, who served on the board of education, disqualified the Babcock Corporation from the award of a computer contract. The relationship rendered suspect the award of this commercial contract to this particular bidder despite the corporation's status as the lowest bidder.

Similarly, in Oehlke v. Hoffman and the Tewksbury Township Board of Education, Commissioner of Education (August 12, 1991), the Commissioner found a conflict of interest that required removal of a member of the board of education due to his employment as a school bus driver by the company that received the Board's contract to provide school transportation services to the pupils of the district. In Pauze v. Young, Commissioner of Education (June 11, 1990), a conflicting interest was found for a board member who sold insurance to school bus companies and to individuals who provide contractual school bus service to the school district. The Commissioner found that the board member derived special economic advantage from the awarding of these contracts since without the contract the income would not have been earned.

In each of the above instances, the Commissioner found fault with the board member being involved in the debate and/or vote on the award of a commercial contract to a vendor or provider of services, which as a direct result conferred economic benefit to either the board member or a close family member.

This particularized awarding of a benefit through a competitive bid contract process is unlike the generalized benefit found to be nonproblematic in the collective bargaining situation.

I find, based upon the undisputed facts in this matter, no board action was ever taken to enter into a contract with Mr. Parillo or the police department. No contract was ever brought before the Board even to be discussed. There simply was no Board action which could be said to have conferred a direct or indirect benefit on Mr. Parillo.

Mr. Parillo's benefit, to the extent a recognized benefit exists in this case, was that he would be called upon to serve additional duty during off-duty time to provide security for the school athletic events and was compensated at rates set, not by the school district, but by the police department. These assignments are made exclusively by the police department in accordance with its own procedures. The fact that the payment, at rates set by the police department, is from the high school athletics account, fails to convert this situation to a prohibited direct or indirect interest in a contract covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

Mr. Parillo's status is no different from that of any police officer called upon to provide additional security at events within the town, including school athletic events. No disqualifying conflict is presented merely because the police department charges this additional drain on the limited police force to the user: here the school district. The situation presented here does not justify the harsh result of disqualifying this duly elected board member. The petition of appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." NORTH BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.		COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BRUNSWICK AND GERARD PARILLO, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner, as were replies thereto by respondents, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, petitioner reiterates the arguments of its prior submissions and contends that the ALJ's findings to the effect that Parillo receives no special benefit from this membership on the Board are erroneous and unsupported by the record, which, to the contrary, shows that Parillo is paid with Board funds, picks up his check from district staff members apart from normal check distribution and profits by Board decisions setting the athletic calendar and agreeing to use off-duty police to provide athletic event security. In reply, the Board argues for acceptance of the ALJ's decision in its entirety and further notes the decision's consistency with a case issued after closing of the present record, wherein no conflict of interest was found on the part of a Board member employed by the city police department as a juvenile officer assigned to high school security duty. Italo N. Ubaldini v. Pedro Cancel and the School District of the City of Passaic, Passaic County, decided by the Commissioner on July 24, 1992

Upon careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, under the circumstances prevailing herein, Respondent Parillo's work as a security officer at district athletic events constitutes no conflict of interest so as to disqualify him from Board membership under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1 or 18A:12-2. The ALJ's findings of fact regarding the nature of Parillo's employment, the Board's lack of meaningful control thereover or involvement therein, and the absence of any specific benefit to Parillo arising from his Board membership, are fully supported by the record, and the Commissioner finds no merit in petitioner's claims to the contrary.

However, notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner recognizes that Parillo's employment arises under policies and procedures of the Board that could conceivably place him in a position to influence, for example, routine determinations as to how many security guards will be necessary for a particular event or broader issues such as whether the district should continue to obtain security services in its present manner. Therefore, lest there be even the slightest appearance of conflict, and in order to maintain a strictly enforced wall of separation between his role and responsibilities as a Board member and his role, responsibilities and employment as a police officer assigned to school-related events, Parillo is directed to abstain from voting or participating in deliberations, no matter how remote, on any policies or procedures of the Board which would have a direct or indirect bearing on issues related to security at school events.

Accordingly, with the modification set forth herein limiting Parillo's ability to participate in certain Board matters, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 20, 1992

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Klausner, Hunter, Cige & Seid (Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Borrus, Goldin, Foley, Vignuolo, Hyman & Stahl (Jack Borrus, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we stress that the sole question raised and decided in this case was whether a conflict of interest was present here so as to disqualify respondent Parillo from Board membership under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.1 or N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12, and that no questions relating to the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21, were considered or decided.

Record Closed: October 19, 1992 Decided: October 27, 1992

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, CHIEF ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 27, 1992, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

A prehearing telephone conference was conducted by Mumtaz Bari-Brown, ALJ, on September 15, 1992, and the matter was set down for hearing in May, 1993. The three hearing dates were subsequently adjourned and the matter was reassigned to the undersigned in order to expedite the hearing in the matter.

The parties have since conferred for purposes of settlement, and have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the Settlement Agreement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision approving settlement with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The parties hereby agree as follows relative to the tenure charges filed against the respondent Addis Neal by the petitioner, State Operated School District of the City of Paterson ("District"):

1. The District certified tenure charges against the respondent on April 30, 1992.

2. The respondent filed his Answer to the charges on May 21, 1992.

3. On September 15, 1992, a prehearing conference in this matter was conducted by the Honorable Mumtaz Bari-Brown, A.L.J. The following dates were set aside for the hearing, May 12, 18 and 19, 1993.

4. The respondent, Mr. Neal, tenders his resignation to be effective November 30, 1992. The respondent intends to retire effective December 1, 1992. The District agrees to cooperate in submitting all requisite data and forms to PERS in connection with respondent's retirement application. However, this Agreement is not contingent on such application being accepted. The Board makes no representations, and shall bear no responsibility regarding respondent's rights and options under PERS.

5. The District hereby agrees, upon receipt of the written resignation, to withdraw the tenure charges filed with the Commissioner on May 4, 1992, Agency Ref. 185-5/92 and O.A.L. Docket No. 03945-92N.

6. Respondent shall be compensated in total $4,157.25 (three months salary at $16,629.00). Respondent's salary payments are to resume retroactive September 1, 1992, which is the 121st day after suspension. The payment of the salary amount of $4,157.25 shall be the only salary due to respondent from the District for the period from September 1 through November 30, 1992 and shall be in lieu of any monies otherwise due or claimable by him. All rights to salary will cease as of November 30, 1992, assuming this agreement is approved by the Commissioner of Education and Administrative Law Judge.

7. The parties respectively acknowledge that each has had ample opportunity to seek independent legal counsel, financial or other advice regarding this Agreement, and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without coercion, duress or pressure from the other party.

8. By entering this Agreement, each party releases and discharges the other with respect to all claims or rights that either party may have against the other. This includes all claims, including those of which either party is not aware and those not mentioned herein. The releases by each party apply to all claims resulting from anything which has happened up to now. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Neal may have respecting tenure, discrimination on any basis, rights under any collective bargaining agreement, disability payments, sick leave, salary or any other matter pertaining to his employment.

9. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

Record Closed: October 13, 1992 Decided: October 20, 1992

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

David Deutsch, petitioner, a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Park Ridge, Bergen County, was given notice by the Board on May 21, 1991 that his employment was to be terminated as of end of the 1990-91 school year due to an alleged reduction in force. Tenured and certified in the position of teacher of science, he learned subsequently that no reduction in force had actually occurred among teachers of science in the Board's employ for 1991-92, the Board acting to replace petitioner with an individual with seniority in science and English. The Board did conduct a reduction in teaching periods in the English subject matter area for 1991-92 and reassigned the aforementioned tenured teacher with dual certification from her four English classes to a schedule of all science classes, thereby displacing petitioner while retaining a non-tenured teacher. In a petition of appeal filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on November 20, 1991, petitioner alleged Board action was in contravention of seniority provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and abridged petitioner's rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 by eliminating his employment without certification of charges or reduction of force in his area of seniority. He sought reinstatement and differential back pay. In answer filed by the Board on December 5, 1991, the Board denied allegations of improper termination contending petitioner's dismissal was the result of legitimate reduction in force and claiming petitioner's petition was barred for untimeliness under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on December 16, 1991 for hearing and determination as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date, the parties advised that the matter had been settled amicably. Thereafter, a stipulation of settlement was submitted.

I have reviewed the record and stipulation of settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures on the agreement;

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy, is in the interest of parties and public and should be implemented forthwith.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and accordingly I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. DAVID DEUTSCH, Petitioner, vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PARK RIDGE, Respondent, vs. MAUREEN CONNOLLY, Intervenor	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION O.A.L. DKT. NO. EDU 11178-91 AGENCY DKT. NO. 409-11/91 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, Petitioner, David Deutsch (hereinafter "Deutsch") a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Respondent, Park Ridge Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") who was riffed, alleged that the Board retained a non-tenure teacher in violation of Deutsch's tenure and seniority rights; and

WHEREAS, the Board filed a timely answer generally denying Deutsch's allegations and stating that its actions were in all respects proper and in compliance with statutes and regulations governing a reduction in force; and

WHEREAS, a telephone prehearing conference was held on or about April 3, 1992 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-13.1, et seq.; and

WHEREAS, the Administrative Law Judge, James A. Opsenson, issued a prehearing order on or about April 14, 1992 which, among other things, directed Deutsch to give notice to district teachers Maureen Connolly (hereinafter "Connolly") and Douglas Gipple (hereinafter referred to as "Gipple"), of the opportunity to move before the Administrative Law Judge for leave to intervene or participate in the matter, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.1, et seq.; and

WHEREAS, on May 7, 1992, Maureen Connolly moved before the Administrative Law Judge for leave to intervene which application was granted on May 8, 1992; and

WHEREAS, Gipple did not move before the Administrative Law Judge for leave to intervene in this matter; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to amicably resolve their differences without the need to resort to any further litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, based on the foregoing premises and the mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board acknowledges that Deutsch should have been employed for the 1991-1992 school year as a .6 teacher of science, thereby entitling him to seniority credit for the same period of time as if he had actually been employed by the Board.

2. Deutsch shall remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of district seniority for re-employment in accordance with the provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10, et seq.

3. Deutsch hereby waives any entitlement to any lost salary or emoluments of his tenured position suffered as a result of him being riffed and shall withdraw his verified petition with prejudice.

4. Since Connolly shall retain her position as a teacher of science and english and her tenure and seniority rights will be unaffected by Deutsch's receipt of .6 seniority credit for the 1991-1992 school year, she consents to the form of this Stipulation of Settlement and waives any rights which she may have as an intervenor in this matter.

5. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel of his, her or its own choosing and that they sign this Stipulation of Settlement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein. This Stipulation of Settlement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

6. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Stipulation of Settlement and bind the Board to its terms.

7. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement are considered material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked, except by instrument executed in writing by all parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning former students (R.F. and L.H.) by their parents sought damages from respondent Board for denying them privilege of participating in year-end school activities including graduation in June 1992.

ALJ found consumption of alcohol on way to prom was sufficient violation for Board's actions. Board did not owe students an apology for their missing graduation and prom, as attendance at these functions is a privilege not a right. Students were aware of school rules and violated them. ALJ found matter was moot and there was no relief to be granted as petitioners acted illegally -- violating school policy, education policy, Board policy, health policy, safety policy and New Jersey Law. Summary decision was granted Board. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PARK RIDGE, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

M. F., for petitioner R. F., a minor

T. H., for petitioner L. H., a minor

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorney)

Record Closed: October 2, 1992 Decided: October 19, 1992

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

Petitioners, R.F. and L.H., by their parents, M.F. and T.H., sought an order from the Commissioner of Education allowing them to participate in graduation ceremonies and granting them compensatory and punitive damages from respondent, the Board of Education of Park Ridge (Board), which denied them the privilege of participating in year-end school activities, including their graduation. They further seek attorney's fees and costs of their suit.

In an Order on Application for Emergent Relief dated June 18, 1992, Bruce R. Campbell, ALJ, denied the petitioners' requests that R.F. and L.H. be permitted to take part in the June 18, 1992 graduation exercise at Park Ridge High School on the grounds that they were unlikely to prevail upon the merits at hearing. The Order was affirmed by the Commissioner on June 19, 1992.

The matter was set down for plenary hearing on October 2, 1992.

Prior to that date, the Board made a motion for summary decision to dismiss the petition on the grounds that there were no material facts in dispute, that respondent was entitled to summary decision as a matter of law, and that the matter was moot, there being no relief which could be granted to petitioners.

The Board's motion was received by the undersigned on September 22, 1992. Because petitioners were pro se, they expressed their concern about preparing responses to the Board's motion by October 2, the date set down for hearing. Petitioners were directed to submit their response, which was received on September 29, 1992, and the motion was argued on the record on October 2, rather than having the hearing proceed on that date.

Petitioners argued in their papers and on the record that summary decision should be denied to the Board because it did not follow its own regulations in disciplining the students and because the discipline imposed was too harsh. They further argued that these students were not sufficiently warned in the prom regulations of the consequences that would follow from a breach. They also claim that the school district has no legal authority to regulate the activities of students which do not take place on school premises or at school functions.

The Board promulgated its Policy 5132-6: Substance Abuse pursuant to the direction of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-9 through 21. "Substance" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-9 includes alcoholic beverages. "Substance abuse" as defined in the same statute includes the consumption or use of alcoholic beverages "for purposes other than for the treatment of sickness or injury as prescribed or administered by a person duly authorized by law to treat sick and injured human beings." I CONCLUDE from the statute that it is not necessary that a student be under the influence of alcohol to come within the statute; mere consumption is sufficient.

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11 directs each board of education to adopt and implement policies and procedures for dealing with substance abuse as defined above "on school property or at school functions." From this, I CONCLUDE that a local board has the statutory authority to adopt policies and procedures governing the discipline of pupils involved in the use of substances at school functions. The only requirement is that these policies and procedures be adopted and implemented in accordance with the rules and regulations promulgated by the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-11,

Board Policy 5131.6 provides in relevant part:

> The Park Ridge Board of Education recognizes that substance use and abuse is a serious problem in society. It also recognizes that the school plays a vital role in efforts of the community to control this problem. The Board further believes that a combination of an educational and corrective approach to the problem of substance abuse is more effective than one which is solely punitive.
>
> The use by students of illegal substances is prohibited at all times in all school buildings, on school property, and at any activity sponsored by and under the supervision of school officials.
>
> Consistent with NJSA 6:29-9, the Park Ridge Board of Education directs the Superintendent of Schools to develop administrative procedures for the evaluation and treatment of students who possess, consume, or who on reasonable grounds are suspected of being under the influence of alcoholic beverage or a controlled substance as identified in NJSA 24:21-2; and/or any chemical or chemical compound which releases vapor or fumes causing a condition or intoxication inebriation, excitement, stupefication [sic] or dulling of the brain or nervous system including but not limited to glue containing a solvent having the property of releasing toxic vapors or fumes, as defined in NJSA 2A:170-25 9

Pursuant to the Board policy, the Superintendent of the district developed the Prom/Snowball Regulations. These provide in relevant part > 1. Recent court rulings have stated that hosts of parties where alcohol/drugs are served and consumed will be held liable for injuries ensuing. We insist that students not host or attend pre-prom/snowball parties where alcohol/drugs will be served.

>
> 2. School officials reserve the right to inspect limousines which chauffeur students to and from the Prom/Snowball if there is reasonable suspicion of alcohol/drug consumption.
>
> 9. State Statute (N.J.S.A. 6:29-9) requires that students suspected of being under the influence of drug/alcohol by school officials be examined and tested immediately. Parents and guardians of those involved will be notified during the evening and will be asked to take their child for an immediate examination for drug/alcohol testing purposes. If the parent/guardian cannot be reached, the student involved will be accompanied to the nearest medical facility by a staff member who is chaperoning the Prom/Snowball. The school must and will implement action > against those who attempt to attend the Prom/Snowball in an unsatisfactory condition and/or are found to be in possession of alcohol and or/drugs. The school may decide to prosecute violators to the fullest extent of the law (i.e. pressing charges and the like with local authorities). In addition, school penalties will be administered where appropriate. The penalty for members of the senior class will be restriction from participating in all end of year school sponsored activities, including graduation exercises. In addition, one will not be permitted to attend any future school-sponsored Prom/Snowballs as a guest. Guests, when in violation of these rules, will not be permitted to attend any future Park Ridge High School dances.

The regulations end by warning that any student or guest who violates the regulations will be asked to leave the Prom/Snowball.

There is no dispute that prior to the prom, these regulations were sent to the parents with a sheet for their signatures and that of their child. A covering letter addressed to both parents and students specifically states, "Your signature indicates your intent to comply with these regulations." The district also met with the students to discuss these rules. There is no dispute that R.F. and L.H. drank champagne in the limousine on the way to the prom/snowball; they admit to the consumption of an alcoholic beverage There is also no dispute that R.F. and L.H. did not appear to be under the influence of alcohol and it was not required that they submit to examination and testing Both young women were under the legal age for drinking alcoholic beverages at the time

The only disciplinary actions taken against R.F. and L H. in regard to this incident were that they were directed to leave the prom and were barred from participating in year-end ceremonies at the school. In particular, they were not allowed to attend their graduations. No reference to the incident appears in the school record of either student.

I FIND that these are the only material facts in this matter and that they are not in dispute. The only issue to be resolved is whether the district acted reasonably and within the scope of its authority in regard to the action taken against the students and whether the issue is moot since no relief may be granted to petitioners.

R.F. and L.H. argue that the Board had no authority to impose sanctions for the consumption of alcohol in the limousine since it did not take place on school property, nor had the students yet arrived at the school function. They further argue that the sanction imposed was too harsh and also, somewhat inconsistently, that the district did not act in accord with N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12 and N.J.S.A. 6:29-6.5 when it failed to refer the students for an immediate examination for alcohol testing (see N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-9); it was even argued by M.F. and T.H. that the school should have made the incident a matter for the police, which could have resulted in the imposition of a six-month suspension of driving privileges and a $500 fine to each of the students. At the time of hearing, petitioners requested as additional relief that the school board write an apology to the two students for causing them to miss their graduation exercises.

After determining that there were no material facts in dispute, the following decision was rendered by the undersigned orally upon the record pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2. The oral decision has been edited for purposes of clarity and grammatical accuracy.

ORAL DECISION

There are certain operative facts that are not in dispute. Both of these women admitted to having consumed champagne in a limousine or a party bus on the way to the hotel. The issue here is not inebriation. There is a school policy which prohibits consumption of alcohol in any activity sponsored by the school, including the school prom, and there are certain regulations that the Board has drawn up to implement this. The prom regulations prohibit consumption of alcoholic beverages during travel to the prom and, in fact, because of the limousine provision in the regulations, create the right to search the limousine.

I will not take any words of these regulations out of context here. The whole context of them prohibits the use of alcohol during travel, and I will not accept petitioner's attempt to distinguish between "warning" and "prohibiting." A warning is sufficient. These are not young children; these are college-age young people. They should not have had the alcohol in the limousine. They were warned that something would happen, and it did.

I am also not persuaded by your argument that the school cannot govern a student's behavior other than as to consumption of alcohol on school premises or at school functions. I do not think that is true. These are not regular school functions. These are special privileges that are given to the students. They are not something that students have to be allowed to attend. There does not have to be a prom; they do not have to have the graduation. These are privileges that are given to the students, and these privileges can be revoked for infractions of school rules, of school policy, and certainly of state law.

I think that whether or not these regulations could have been more artfully drafted, whether they could have used different words, prohibiting rather than warning, they are certainly reasonable. The Board took every reasonable step to warn that there would be sanctions imposed for that type of behavior. There was a special meeting with the students, and there were letters. The parents were involved in it. The regulations were sent to the parents, and you and your children agreed to abide by the prom rules, and there was a violation of them by your children.

There was no reason that they had to drink the champagne. It was a completely voluntary act, they were caught, and the consequences that they were warned of followed. The consequences that could have followed did not. I do not accept your argument that the school should have taken more drastic measures, and I do not think that in a calmer moment you will feel that way. The measures that were taken were moderate, to say the least -- that they could not attend subsequent functions. The school could have made a police matter out of it, and I do not really think that would have been preferable.

So, I think that what the policy says is clear. It might have been phrased better, but I think it is absolutely clear. I think that there was adequate warning from the written regulations and from the meetings with the students, and there was warning to the parents of what could happen. I think there was an agreement by both sides that they would comply with the rules. I think there was a breach of rules by the students, and I think that the Board acted reasonably in light of what it could have done in implementing its discipline when the rules were breached. It does not have to be what you or I would have done. It does not have to be what you might think of now, as an afterthought. That does not matter. The fact is that they acted reasonably and in accord with their regulations and with their agreement with the students. I do not FIND that there was any unreasonable behavior on behalf of the Board, and I do not FIND that their acts were arbitrary and capricious.

The students were barred from attending graduation in accordance with the school rules, and no trace of it remains in their records. The incident is over. I CONCLUDE that the matter is moot and there is no relief that can be granted. I certainly would not, under any circumstances, order the Board to send a letter of apology to students that have acted illegally -- apologizing for enforcing a very important state policy, education policy, Board policy, health policy, and safety policy. There is no way I could ever do that.

I CONCLUDE that the District acted reasonably and in accord with its regulations, and there is no relief that can be granted. I CONCLUDE that the Board is entitled to summary decision dismissing this matter on all grounds. So, I ORDER that this petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who, by law, is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

R.F. ET AL. AND L.H. ET AL.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PARK RIDGE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered on Motion for Summary Judgment have been reviewed. Petitioners filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and the Board filed timely reply exceptions.

Petitioners cite three exceptions. The first claims the ALJ did not consider their written response to the Board's motion for summary decision when the initial decision was rendered. Petitioners aver they are entitled to consideration of a written response.

Exception two avers the Board's counsel misstated facts that were later denied by the ALJ and counsel regarding whether the minors in question were under the influence of alcohol at the time of their attendance at the school prom in June 1992.

Exception three claims the ALJ refused to look at or consider the guidelines of Student Codes of Conduct: a Guide to Policy Review and Code Development, a publication of the New Jersey State Department of Education, that they feel is pertinent in dealing with "unique situations of student conduct outside of school and after school hours." (Exceptions, at p. 6) Petitioners find such publication is useful for purposes of "clarifying the authority of school administrators in disciplining students." (Id.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, which includes a review of all the written submissions of the parties, the Commissioner adopts as his own the findings and determination of the Office of Administrative Law granting summary judgment to the Board. As noted by the ALJ, this matter is now moot because the students in question have graduated, no record of the incident in question remains in their records and because the Commissioner is without authority to grant punitive damages or attorney costs and fees as sought in petitioners' prayer for relief. The important public policy question raised in this matter, however, and petitioners' entitlement to a review of the plenary hearing on the merits of their claims of arbitrary action on the Board's part in denying the pupils in question attendance at the prom and graduation ceremonies as a result of their admission of having drunk champagne on the way to the prom last June warrant some further comment on this case notwithstanding its mootness

The Commissioner's review of the record comports with the ALJ's finding that the Board's policy regarding pupil conduct at the school prom was known to the students and that it warned of sanctions to be meted upon any student found to have imbibed in alcoholic beverages before, during or after attendance at the prom. See initial decision at pages 5-6. The record also reveals the uncontested fact that the minor pupils in question did drink champagne in a limousine on the way to said prom.

Based upon such findings, the Commissioner cannot express strongly enough his agreement with the ALJ's determination that the Board's assessing the penalties it did against the pupils in question was in accord with its regulations, education policy and state law. Let there be no misunderstanding of the Commissioner's conviction in this regard: be it a sip, a slug or a keg of alcohol consumed on the way to, during or following a school-sponsored event, such behavior as exhibited by these teen-aged students, who were fully cognizant of the consequences that could flow from their voluntary act, cannot and will not be sanctioned, excused or mitigated in the face of the Legislature's clear intent as stated in N.J.S.A 18A:37-1 and reflected in the Board's policy on prom deportment, "that the public schools of the State of New Jersey will act to 'help control the problem of youth/alcohol abuse, especially in the school.' (Senate Education Committee Statement)" G.L.H., by his guardians ad litem, G.H.H. and G.R.H. v. Board of Education of the Hopewell Valley Regional School District et al, Mercer County, 1987 S.L.D 891, 901, aff'd as moot State Board 906

Further, as bespoken by the ALJ and embodied in case law, the Board's disciplinary authority in such situations extends beyond the four corners of the school building, to include school functions that take place off premises. See, e.g., A.F., by her guardian ad litem B.M.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Monmouth County, 1991 S.L.D. 914. Moreover, as mentioned by the ALJ, such activities as attending a school-sponsored prom or graduation ceremonies are special privileges. As such these privileges can be revoked for infractions of school rules, of school policy and of state law. See initial decision at page 5. Thus, the Commissioner finds the Board was entirely within its discretionary authority and exhibited no abuse of such authority in assessing the penalties at issue herein. Boult and Harris v. Board of Education of Passaic, 1939-49 S.L.D. 7 (1946), aff'd State Board 15, aff'd 135 N.J.L. 329 (Sup. Ct. 1947), aff'd 136 N.J.L. 521 (E.&A. 1948)

In so concluding, the Commissioner notes that the instant decision has considered, addressed and disposed of all pertinent issues raised in petitioners' filings, including its Brief in Opposition to the Board's Motion for Summary Judgment. Hence, there is no basis for remanding this matter for further review by the Office of Administrative Law, and the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 30, 1992

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Meredith Freedman, pro se and Thomas Hennessy, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Fogarty & Hara (Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., of Counsel)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner of Education. In so doing, we concur with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that

> ...what the policy says is clear. It might have been phrased better, but ... it is absolutely clear...there was adequate warning from the written regulations and from the meetings with the students, and there was warning to the parents of what could happen...there was an agreement by both sides that they would comply with the rules...there was a breach of rules by the students, and ... the Board acted reasonably in light of what it could have done in implementing its discipline when the rules were breached.

Initial Decision, at 6.

May 5, 1993

Although we recognize that there is no relief that could be granted to petitioners' children in that graduation has passed, our decision does not rest on those grounds. Rather, our review of the papers filed in this appeal reinforces our conclusion that, for the reason expressed in the decision below, the Board was entitled to summary judgment based on the merits of the case.

Additionally, as indicated above, we agree with the ALJ that the Board's policy was clearly communicated in this case. However, to reduce the possibility of misunderstanding in the future concerning the wording of the Board's policy, we urge the Board to review its written policy to determine if it can be phrased better.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF RUSSELL SAMANO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SOUTHERN STATE CORRECTIONAL	:	DECISION
FACILITY, NEW JERSEY STATE	:
DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Department of Corrections certified charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent, teacher of skilled trades since 1984 for three charges 1) undue familiarity with inmates; 2) bringing contraband into facility; 3) giving keys to an inmate. Department alleged these were violations spelled out in Department of Corrections Handbook of Information and Rules and in an Employee Handbook.

ALJ found Department did not prove the charges to be true and respondent did not feel he committed any violation. Respondent was a teacher not a corrections officer whose charge and duty is to ensure inmates are controlled at all times. Respondent was ordered reinstated with mitigated back pay.

Commissioner concurred with findings and determination in initial decision, but clarified that non-custodial personnel share with custodial employees a duty to maintain the security of the institution and its charges and must exhibit due sensitivity to that duty.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RUSSELL SAMANO, SOUTHERN STATE CORRECTIONAL FACILITY, NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

Lisa Morowitz, Esquire, for petitioner, (District Counsel, Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO)

Alan C. Roth, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, (Robert J. DelTufo, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: September 4, 1992 Decided: October 19, 1992

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 1, 1991, for determination as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et. seq.; the act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et. seq. the act granting tenure to teachers employed by the Department of Corrections, and others, N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 and the act granting jurisdiction to hear controversies and disputes involving teacher tenure to the Commissioner of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and 10.

This matter is the appeal of Russell Samano from his dismissal as a tenured teacher from Southern State Correctional Facility (Southern State or institution) operated by the New Jersey Department of Corrections (DOC). The three charges against Samano are framed in terms of conduct proscribed by the DOC. They are (1) undue familiarity with inmates; (2) bringing contraband into the correctional facility and violating security; and (3) improperly relinquishing keys to an inmate. In order to warrant dismissal these charges must be equivalent to "... inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause ..." N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10. These are the grounds specified under the tenure act which support dismissal.

Russell Samano is a certified teacher of skilled trades. He was employed by Southern State in 1984 and obtained tenure in 1989. His evaluations during the seven years of employment improved steadily from satisfactory, to moderately above standard, to significantly above standard. He had no prior disciplinary actions.

The program which Samano taught at Southern State consisted of a combination of classroom work and hands on training. He also supervised an inmate unit which made furniture or repairs at the institution. These were called Institutional Projects. The classroom work of six weeks duration focused on theory, safety and blue print reading. Thereafter, the inmates in the program worked on an individualized project of their choice.

When an inmate selected a project he had to obtain Samano's approval. Samano also had to obtain the approval for the project from his supervisor or his assistant supervisor. In the course of his employment Samano must have done this hundreds of times. A form was actually developed to institutionalize the process so that even the Superintendent of the Institution signed the approval form. Copies of the form were sent to the Center Keeper and the mail room; Samano kept one and presumably, a copy was kept by the Superintendent. The form also indicated whether or not the completed project could be sent home by the inmate. One of Samano's responsibilities was to obtain the materials required for the project.

Each inmate had a budget of ten dollars ($10.00) for his special project. Samano purchased the materials in two ways. Standard items were obtained by filling out a purchase order. Suppliers would then ship the materials to the institution if the order warranted shipping, such as plywood or lumber. If an inmate required specialized materials,Samano would pick the items up personally and be reimbursed by the petty cash fund controlled by the business office. This was a frequent method of obtaining materials because the Millville Fabric Center, for instance, did not deliver. Apparently the inmates utilized more materials in their projects than mere plywood or lumber. Sometimes Samano would obtain a purchase order in advance for an approved project. Sometimes Samano would purchase material outright for an approved project and seek reimbursement from the business office. Samano estimated that he obtained reimbursement almost weekly in this fashion. Samano would have bulky items delivered through the receiving gate. Small items he carried in himself. He apparently did this over a period of seven years.

Harry Thornbourgh, an administrative analyst for procurement at the institution, confirmed that Samano was frequently reimbursed for small cash outlays he made on behalf of inmates for approved materials. In addition, Thornbourgh also obtained approval from his supervisor before he reimbursed Samano, so that there were cross checks upon cross checks on individual projects.

Inmate Paul May's approved project was a jewelry box he constructed as a wedding gift for his brother. He told Samano he wished to line the box with a better quality felt than was available within his budget. He told Samano his brother would furnish the felt if Samano could pick it up. His brother owned or operated a gas station across the street from Peter Lumber Company; one of Samano's stops. When Samano was at Peter Lumber sometime in the summer of 1989, he stopped at the gas station and picked up the felt from inmate May's brother. This is the only time Samano ever met inmate May's brother. Samano examined the box to make sure that only felt was in the box and brought it in for inmate May to use in his project. May used what he needed and the balance of the felt was left in Samano's shop.

Inmate Oxley was a teacher's aide. He was making a quilt rack in the shop. In the rack he wanted to use a piece of old cherry wood his father owned. Inmate Oxley's father brought the cherry wood to the institution on visiting day and Samano went out to Oxley's father's car and obtained the cherry wood from him. Samano carried the wood into the institution on a cart in plain view of the Receiving Gate.

Inmate Monihan is a paraprofessional assigned to the wood shop. His duties include setting the classroom up, distributing tools and materials, putting away tools and materials after class, keeping the classroom neat and clean and assisting the teacher with inmate projects. He actually supervised institutional projects in Samano's absence, although members of the custody staff had to give him and inmates under his supervision access to the wood shop. For this reason Samano described Monihan as the "shop foreman."

Approximately three years ago Samano gave Monihan three keys. One key was to a glass bookcase where inmate project plans and blueprints were filed. A second key was to the cabinet which contained the shop coffee pot. The third key was to the drawer of a work table Monihan had made in which mechanical drawing equipment for class use was kept. Samano explained that these items were locked up to keep them from disappearing.

When Monihan was discovered in possession of these three keys an investigation commenced and Samano was charged with the offenses enumerated above: (1) undue familiarity with inmates; (2) bringing contraband into the facility; (3) giving keys to an inmate.

The institution recites Rules and Regulations of DOC which it alleges Samano violated. These Rules and Regulations are found in the Department of Corrections Handbook of Information and Rules and in an Employee Handbook. They are as follows:

> Department of Corrections Handbook
>
>
> Every inmate must have an equal chance to earn all the privileges the rules allow. There is no place for favoritism or privileged classes in corrections. No employee should become unduly familiar with any inmate or group of inmates or permit himself to become obligated in any way to an inmate or his family. A sincere interest in every inmate's efforts to improve himself is expected, but intimate friendships and close personal relationships are to be avoided. Similarly, no employee should become unduly familiar with any parolee or group of parolees or permit himself to become obligated in any way to a parolee or his family.
>
>
> Employees shall not indulge in undue familiarity with inmates or parolees or permit inmates or parolees to be unduly familiar toward them.

Page 5, paragraph K

Employees must not give or receive from any inmate or parolee or any inmate or parolee's friend, relative or representative, anything in the nature of gift or promise of a gift or favor, however trivial.

Page 5, paragraph L

No employee shall receive any gift or object of value from any source which may be offered with the intent to influence the employee in the performance of his public duty. No personal services shall be rendered by an inmate or parolee to any employee except as provided by regulations approved by the Commissioner of Corrections.

Page 6, paragraph N

Employees may not convey, either to or from any inmate or parolee any message, written or oral, or any article except such as is necessary and authorized by the Department/institution for the transaction of the business of the Department/institution.

Employee Handbook

Employees shall not indulge in undue familiarity with inmates or parolees or permit inmates or parolees to be unduly familiar toward them. An employee cannot perform his job properly if he attempts to be "one of the boys." The word fraternizing implies an association with the inmates on equal terms. The correctional employee constantly represents authority to the inmates. It is therefore impossible for you to fraternize with the inmates and maintain the role model which is essential to successfully perform your job.

Under no circumstances are employees to carry mail or other articles in or out of the institution for inmates, their friends, relative or representatives.

Page 32, Control

Each employee of Southern State Correctional Facility will be held responsible for the safekeeping of any key issued or entrusted to his/her possession. Employees should exercise the utmost caution to ensure that keys are not lost, misplaced, broken or available to be stolen. Carelessness in the handling of keys can result in disciplinary action against the careless employee. Any employee who removes a key from its' assigned area or off grounds without permission may be required to return the key immediately upon discovery. If and when an employee inadvertently takes a key off grounds > without permission, and the employee discovers this error, the employee should immediately notify Center Control.

> The institution controls and accounts for the keys by using a "chit" system. A "chit" is a small, round numbered, brass tag. Those employees drawing a key from Center Control are required to surrender a "chit" receipt. Upon returning the drawn key to Center Control, the employee will have their "chit" returned to them.

Russell Samano received these handbooks when first employed. He also attended civilian non-custody orientation training sessions on April 27, 1984, March 28, 1985, February 28, 1986, September 9 and 10, 1987 and November 20, 1989 through November 23, 1989.

Instructors from the institution and DOC testified that the subject of fraternization with inmates, contraband and key control were discussed at the training sessions which Samano attended.

The institution argues that by obtaining the felt from May's brother and by obtaining the cherry wood from Oxley's father, Samano had "undue familiarity" and a prohibited "relationship" with an inmate's family.

The institution argues that Samano showed favoritism to both May and Oxley by obtaining contraband for them and illicitly bringing it into the institution.

It also argues that the materials are contraband because they have been brought into the institution in an improper fashion, i.e., not through the mail room.

The institution argues that Samano violated the "chit" system of key control by providing Monihan with keys.

Finally, the institution argues that Samano failed to treat all inmates similarly because he had a "relationship" with Monihan.

These arguments are without merit. They fail to recognize that Samano is not a custodial officer but a teacher. They also depend upon a to literal reading of the Rules and Regulations which cannot be the correct reading.

For instance, of course Samano and Monihan had a relationship. Monihan was the paraprofessional assigned to assist Samano in his duties. They were a team. This was recognized by the institution in the enhanced status it afforded Monihan. He had supervisory responsibilities over other inmates. He had access to tools. He was the foreman of the inmate institutional project work group in Samano's absence. He was paid by the institution to perform these services.

The institution described the felt and cherry wood as contraband despite the fact that the projects which incorporated these materials were approved by the Superintendent of the institution and many members of his staff. It argues that the felt was contraband since it was blue and yellow and could have been used to simulate the shoulder patch of a corrections officer. It was not so used and Samano demonstrated that he had ordered blue and yellow felt on prior occasions through the business office. No one had ever objected to his prior purchases or raised this possibility with him.

The institution argued that the cardboard box that the felt came in was contraband because it could have concealed a weapon or drugs inside the corrugation. Only this point makes any sense at all, although Samano demonstrated that the institution contains numerous cardboard boxes which "could have concealed weapons or drugs inside the corrugations."

Samano testified that he had attended lectures on contraband in the training sessions. He was under the distinct impression that they were talking about guns and drugs and alcohol. Of course this must have been the emphasis.

The key policy of the institution was explained by Senior Correction Officer Robert Dubuque who is a training officer at the Correction Officer Recruits Training Academy. He formerly taught at Southern State.

He testified that there were two kinds of keys; security keys issued on a "chit" basis to civilians and non-security keys. The keys which Samano gave to Monihan were not security keys. They were not issued to him by the institution under the "chit" system. Dubuque defined non-security keys as "civilian's personal keys such as keys to their house, car or personal lock on lockers or footlockers." He testified that these keys should not be given to inmates because "inmates have no business with your personal keys."

He was asked if these keys were security keys or non-security keys. He described only the "desk key" as a security key. However, this key was mis-described by the institution. The key identified as a desk key was actually a key to a drawer in a table that the inmate had constructed himself, apparently as an institutional project.

The key control policy in the Employee Handbook describes only security keys issued on the "chit" method. It is silent as to personal keys or keys to shop cabinets which have not been issued on the "chit" basis. None of these keys was identified at any time as a "chit" key.

The institution also argued that Samano violated security whenever he went outside and brought supplies in without having them checked in through the mail room or inspected by a corrections officer stationed at an entrance, called a "sally port officer." But it was clear from the testimony of all parties that there was no policy in effect at Southern State which required a civilian employee to submit packages to a search. Samano had no such experience, neither did his union representative Francis J. Fiore. Even the institution's witnesses were divided over whether all civilians were required to submit to a search when entering the facility.

Roland Hester, an Assistant Superintendent produced a"custody operational procedure" dated September 12, 1987 which said that "all packages brought into the institution will be inspected by the front house officer, mail room officer for contraband, or the sally port officer in their absence." But Hester admitted that he had no way of knowing whether Samano had even seen the policy statement since it was distributed to "department heads."

Dubuque insisted that everything a civilian brought into the facility would have to be inspected by the mail room or sally port officer. In addition, the civilian would need to have prior written approval in order to bring anything into the prison.

Glen Robinson, an investigator with the institution's internal Affairs Unit testified that in his opinion it was not mandatory for a staff member to be searched. He said searches were done infrequently. He said there was no mandatory inspection policy. He opined that an inspection would be required only if a staff person was bringing something into the facility for an inmate.

It is clear however, that Samano was never searched. It is equally clear that he had approval to obtain the materials in question. Each inmate project was approved by numerous persons including the superintendent of the institution.

Samano points out that the heart of petitioner's case is an apparent misunderstanding of the role of teaching staff in a correctional facility. He says this misunderstanding is illustrated in a colloquy between him and the Deputy Attorney General at the hearing:

> Q. Now, a portion of your job is security, isn't it?
> A. No.
> Q. At no point in time is it your job?
> A. I'm not a custody officer.
> Q. That's not what I asked you, sir. If you seen an inmate with a gun in the > institution, would you report it?
> A. Well, certainly.
> Q. Are you allowed to issue disciplinary reports, write disciplinary infractions, > for an inmate?
> A. Yes, we can.
> Q. So, therefore, part of your job is custody-oriented?
> A. No, it's not.
> Q. Sir, as a teacher in the vocational shop, is it in your normal everyday duty to > confiscate contraband, if you found it?
> A. No, I report it.
> Q. You report it.
> A. (Witness shakes head.)
> Q. And is it in your everyday course of business to write a disciplinary report, > if needed, against an inmate?
> A. If it was needed.
> Q. And you don't believe part of your job is security?
> A. No, because I don't handle the discipline of the inmate. In effect, the disciplinary report goes to custody, which handles it.

Perhaps Samano could have been more sensitive to the institution's concerns that drugs or other contraband do not come into the institution. On the other hand, Samano is not just another corrections officer whose whole charge and duty is to insure that inmates are controlled at all times. He is a teacher. A teacher has a wholly different charge. It is to enlighten, to uplift and to instruct. Nevertheless, a teacher's role in a correctional institution ought to be modified to accommodate the institutional concerns.

Everything that Samano did has a rational basis and he does not appear to be conscious of having committed any violation. The institution has failed to prove that he has violated a procedure and it is equally clear that Samano does not feel that he has committed a violation.

While it is clear that Samano intended no harm, and that in fact no harm occurred, there existed the possibility that a controlled dangerous substance could have been inserted into the corrugation in the box which contained the felt.

The procedure by which Samano actually obtains materials for inmate projects can be tightened up to forestall that possibility. The institution can also consider whether the arrangements for the safekeeping of blueprints, mechanical drawing implements and a coffee pot can be done without providing a key to a paraprofessional. These are administrative functions which ought to have taken place without the necessity of filing a tenure complaint.

There is simply no evidence that Samano committed conduct unbecoming a teacher or public official. He appears on the contrary to have always had the best interests of his students in mind.

I therefore, FIND and CONCLUDE that the DOC failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Samano committed conduct unbecoming a teacher by (1) having undue familiarity with inmates; (2) bringing contraband into the correctional facility and violating security; and (3) improperly relinquishing keys to an inmate.

I DISMISS the teacher tenure complaint filed herein.

I ORDER that Russell Samano be REINSTATED to his position as a teacher and be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the 120 day period following his termination. The amount of back pay awarded herein is to be reduced and mitigated to the extent of any income earned by appellant during this period.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RUSSELL SAMANO, SOUTHERN STATE CORRECTIONAL FACILITY, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions by the Department of Corrections, and replies thereto by respondent, were timely filed pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Department reiterates its post-hearing contention that it presented sufficient evidence to support its charges, and proposes anew a factual recitation and policy analysis somewhat different from that of the ALJ. In arguing for reversal of the initial decision, the Department avers that it is in the best position to interpret its own rules and regulations and to determine what does or does not constitute a security breach under them, and that all Department employees are responsible for knowing these rules and abiding by them. Giving the Department proper deference, then, the Commissioner must find the Department's charges proven and respondent guilty of conduct warranting dismissal.

In reply, respondent provides citations to the hearing transcript countering the claims made by the Department in its factual recitation, particularly those which suggest that respondent was dishonest or uncooperative during investigation of his conduct, that respondent's training encompassed specific areas related to the tenure charges, and that he engaged in relations with inmates' families that were more than casual. Respondent further urges support of the ALJ's distinction between educational and custodial duties, and rejects the Department's arguments on agency deference by observing that in tenure proceedings the Commissioner, through the ALJ, is charged with de novo review and vested with final jurisdiction precisely to avoid the vice of the employer acting simultaneously as investigator, prosecutor and judge. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967)

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner deems the ALJ's findings of fact to be fully supported by the record, which includes a complete transcript of hearings. Nor can he see any basis in that transcript to challenge the credibility assessments underlying the ALJ's resolution of conflicting testimony. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that respondent's conduct did not rise to the level of the tenure charges brought against him and that no penalty can be therefore assessed against him.

However, the Commissioner does see a need to clarify that portion of the initial decision which suggests a dichotomy between educational and custodial duties in the correctional setting. As the Commissioner has previously recognized in another matter involving a teacher in a correctional facility, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert Vaughn, New Jersey State Department of Corrections, 1990 S.L.D. 34:

> Respondent does not work for a public school district; he works for a correctional facility where custody and supervision of students take on a dimension which is simply not present in the routine school setting. To be negligent, careless or casual in this environment compromises the very purpose of incarceration and is regarded within the correctional community as a breach of the most serious order. (at 44)

In the correctional setting, while educational employees may be primarily responsible for teaching, they cannot simply take the stance that their employment is non-custodial in nature; to the contrary, they work in an institution having custody as its overriding purpose and share with custodial employees a duty to maintain the security of their institution and its charges. Educational employees must be ever mindful of this in carrying out their responsibilities, exhibiting a constant sensitivity to the potential implications of their actions in the correctional environment--even actions which, like those of respondent herein, are well-intended, rationally related to performance of educational duties and not at all likely to be problematic in other contexts. Only in this way can the integrity of the correctional system, which of necessity employs a number of non-custodial personnel, be ensured.

Therefore, while respondent's actions in the present matter did not rise to a breach of his custodial duty such that conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member was demonstrated, they were indicative of insufficient sensitivity to his duty to uphold the custodial mission of the institution he serves.

Accordingly, with the above clarification regarding the role of non-custodial personnel in correctional facilities, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the charges against respondent is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CAMDEN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning retired teacher, employed as a technician through a series of one-year contracts, was suspended as a result of arrest for Klu Klux Klan activities, with pay until the time of his indictment and without pay thereafter. Upon completion of Pre-Trial Intervention Program (PTI), petitioner sought back pay and reinstatement.

ALJ found petitioner not entitled to back pay as he was properly suspended and completion of PTI does not constitute an adjudication of innocence so as to merit restitution of pay withheld. ALJ further found petitioner not entitled to reinstatement, as he was under indictment at the time his contract was due for renewal and received legitimate reasons for the Board's decision not to continue his employment, which related to threatening a student who intended to expose petitioner's Klan membership. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner affirmed findings and determination of initial decision.

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1042-92

AGENCY DKT. NO. #161-5/91

GUS SICILIANO,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE

CAMDEN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-

TECHNICAL SCHOOL, CAMDEN COUNTY

Respondent.

Timothy P. Reilly, Esquire, for petitioner

William C. Davis, Esquire, for respondent, (Davis, Reberkenney & Abramowitz, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 9, 1992 Decided: October 22, 1992

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 7, 1992, for determination as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et. seq. ; the Act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et. seq. , and the Act granting jurisdiction to hear controversies and disputes involving school laws to the Commissioner of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Gus Siciliano retired from a tenured teaching position as a "Journeyman" at the respondent's Vocational-Technical School in 1982. He taught masonry. Thereafter, he was employed by the respondent Board of Education (Board) as a "Technician" on successive one year contracts including the school year beginning September 1, 1990 and ending June 30, 1991.

On December 20, 1990, petitioner was advised by letter that he was suspended with pay from his employment with respondent Board due to his arrest. On February 22, 1991, petitioner and others were indicted by a State Grand Jury for two third degree crimes, conspiracy and making threats to a student in order to protect the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Klu Klux Klan.

On February 26, 1991, the respondent Board advised petitioner by letter that his suspension would continue without pay "as a result of his indictment for various criminal acts." On January 10, 1992, the indictment was dismissed as a result of the petitioner's successful completion of a Pre-Trial Intervention Program (PTI).

The annual contract of employment between petitioner and the respondent Board gave either party the right to terminate the contract by giving two weeks written notice to the other party of intention to terminate the contract.

Now comes the petitioner who argues that the Board did not terminate his contract, it merely suspended him because of a pending indictment. The indictment has been dismissed and therefore he claims back pay and reinstatement.

These are two separate issues. The first is whether he is entitled to back pay. The second is whether he is entitled to a new contract.

In support of his claim for back pay petitioner argues that this matter is controlled by the reasoning found in Ott v. Board of Education of Hamilton Township, 160 N.J. Super. 333 (1978). Ott tried to restrain the Board from certifying tenure charges while criminal charges were pending, he also sought to be paid in the interim. He was successful below and the Appellant Division affirmed in part and reversed in part. The Court's opinion deals at length with the dilemma occasioned by the school law requirement that a teacher respond to tenure charges and a criminal defendant's right to keep silent. The Appellate Court continued to restrain the Board from proceeding to a tenure hearing but reversed the lower Court's Order to continue the teacher's salary. In the course of explaining its decision the Court said "of course, in the ultimate, if plaintiff is cleared of the disciplinary charges, he will be entitled to reinstatement with full back salary." Ott., supra., 342.

Because no disciplinary charges were filed against petitioner in this matter, he argues by analogy that the dismissal of the indictment leaves him in the same position as Ott would be if Ott were cleared of disciplinary charges.

Other analogies however, are more apt. But a word must be said about this analogy. Petitioner was not "cleared" of the criminal charges in the sense intended by the Court in Ott. To be "cleared" of tenure charges the Commissioner must determine that the teacher is not inefficient or not incapacitated, or did not commit conduct unbecoming a teacher, or did not commit other conduct which would constitute "just cause" for dismissal or reduction in compensation. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

The dismissal of a criminal indictment as a result of entering PTI is not a determination that the individual was not guilty of the conduct complained of; only that the matter was "adjusted." R. 3:28 (c) (1). A note to R. 3:28 points out that "A defendant's consideration for admission (to PTI) must be measured according to his/her amenability to correction, responsiveness to rehabilitation and the nature of the offense." In other words PTI is only applicable if the criminal defendant committed some illicit conduct, otherwise he or she would not need correction or rehabilitation.

The Board points out that school law provides for suspension without pay when an employee is indicted. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. The Board also relies upon the rationale expressed by Administrative Law Judge J. Roger Persichilli who rendered an initial decision which was adopted by the Merit System Board on July 6, 1992, Carmella Armison v. NJ Dept. of Environmental Protection, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (CSV) 568. Armison, a Secretarial Assistant in the DEP, was charged with drug offenses. She successfully completed PTI and moved for back pay. The Merit System Board denied the request.

In that decision the ALJ points out that the common law rule was "no work-no pay." But that the "public policy behind awarding back pay is to prevent the punishment of employees who are improperly suspended." 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (CSV)

569. Armison was suspended without pay under the authority of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.4 (b). She was not "improperly suspended."

There is no suggestion that petitioner here was improperly suspended, improperly arrested, or improperly indicted. No public policy is served by awarding him back pay.

I CONCLUDE therefore that petitioner Siciliano is not entitled to back pay.

The petitioner also alleges that he is entitled to a new contract since no grounds appear to disqualify him and he has never been advised that his contract with the Board would not be continued. He is entitled to have the Board enunciate its reason for non-retention. Gilcrest v. Board of Education of Haddonfield, 155 N.J. Super., 358 (1978). However, he was still under indictment when the time came to renew his contract. Furthermore, he has now received notice of the reasons for his non-retention by way of the Board's pleading and filings in this action. He was involved in threatening a student who was going to expose petitioner's membership in the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Klu Klux Klan. He never denied this at the OAL hearing. I cannot think of a better reason to withhold a contract from the petitioner.

I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to establish that he is entitled to a new contract with the Board.

I DISMISS the petitioner's complaint with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner is entitled to neither back pay nor a new contract as a result of the criminal indictment against him being dismissed through completion of a pre-trial intervention program.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER APPEAL OF THE RUTHERFORD BOROUGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY.	:

For Petitioner, Rodney T. Hara, Esq. (Fogarty & Hara)

For Respondent E. Michael Donovan, Esq. (Donovan & Cucchiara)

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner on May 27, 1992 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford (Board) seeking restoration, on the grounds of necessity for a thorough and efficient education, of reductions by the Mayor and Council (Council) in the current expense tax levy for the 1992-93 school year, and a Petition of Appeal of its defeated current expense cap waiver. The Council filed Answers to both the Petition on the reductions in the current expense tax levy and to the current expense cap waiver matter on June 10, 1992. The Board filed position papers on the current expense tax levy reductions and on the current expense cap waiver issue on July 20, 1992. Council submitted a position statement on July 20, 1992, and then submitted responses to the Board's position on the current expense tax levy and on the current expense cap waiver on July 30, 1992. The Board had responded to the Council's position statement of July 20, 1992 on July 29, 1992 and then submitted summation statements on both issues on August 4, 1992.

On September 11, 1992, the Council's attorney requested consideration of the appeal process being deferred to allow the two parties to negotiate further and on October 2, 1992, requested that the appeal process be held in abeyance to allow the parties to have settlement discussions. On October 6, 1992, the Board requested that the appeal not be held in abeyance. On October 7, 1992, it was determined that, in view of these conflicting recommendations, the matter of the appeals to the Commissioner would go forward.

On April 7, 1992, the voters of the Rutherford Borough School District defeated the proposed current expense tax levy in the amount of $14,171,960, the capital outlay tax levy in the amount of $83,037, and the cap waiver question in the amount of $1,079,616, which included $996,579 for current expense and $83,037 for capital outlay. This cap waiver had been approved on March 5, 1992 by the Department of Education as required to provide a thorough and efficient education in the Borough of Rutherford School District. Subsequent to that determination, the Board, with approval of the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools, revised the budget and included the $83,037 tax levy for capital outlay in the regular budget within the cap. After the defeat by the public vote, the Council restored the $83,037 to the capital outlay budget. That amount, therefore, is not part of the cap waiver appeal even though it was mistakenly included as part of the cap waiver question.

The reduction to the current expense tax levy in the amount of $750,725, and the restoration of the capital outlay tax levy were made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.2(b)2 following voter rejection of the proposals and after consultation with the Board as required by law. During these discussions, the Board accepted $71,878 in reductions as set forth below which were approved by the Bergen County Superintendent. The Board, therefore, is appealing $678,847 as confirmed by the Board's summation of August 4, 1992.

The total proposed and certified budgets, as well as the amounts in dispute in this matter, are set forth below:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted by Board		Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Council
Current Expense	$14,171,960	Current Expense	$13,421,235

I. DEFEATED BUDGET

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17, and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

Mindful, then, of the balance to be applied in his standard of review, the Commissioner makes the following determinations with respect to the specific line items reduced by Council.

Line 10 Miscellaneous Revenue $20,000

The Council's position is that the Board's estimate for interest income and pool income is overly conservative and can be increased by $20,000 and thus reduce the tax levy by that amount. The Council states that the interest earnings should reach the 1991-92 level and pool fees should be raised. The Board states that the revenues cited by the Council for 1991-92 are not accurate and that interest rates have continued to decline.

The Commissioner finds and determines that any estimated revenues must be realistically conservative to ensure support of a balanced budget. Also, the general economy at this time does not ensure either an increase in or maintenance of current interest rates. Therefore, the miscellaneous revenues are not increased and the $20,000 reduction to the tax levy is restored.

Account 120b Legal Fees $ 6,300

The Council's position is that the billing rate of the Board attorney is higher than that of the Borough attorney and could, therefore, be reduced. The Board's position is that such a comparison is flawed because the Borough attorney receives an annual retainer and benefits whereas the Board attorney receives only the hourly rate. Both sides agree that the total expenditure for legal fees has remained relatively level in recent years.

The Commissioner finds that the Council's basis for this reduction is arbitrary and the $6,300 is restored.

Account 120d Other Professional Services $ 5,000

The Council's position is that the amount budgeted reflected an unusually high rate for architectural services. The Board's position is that the fees that were budgeted are based on projects planned for 1992-93 and unresolved problems on projects performed prior to that school year. It also notes that a licensed architect is required under the New Jersey Administrative Code for development of plans for construction work.

The Commissioner finds that sufficient monies must be provided for these professional services and that the $5,000 is therefore restored.

Account 130 Other Expenses $ 7,425

The Council reduced expenses in four areas in this account. It states that Board members should only attend the NJSBA conference in alternate years or that smaller per diems be established. It reduced this area by $2,925. The Council also eliminated $2,000 budgeted for a display booth at the NJSBA as an unnecessary expense. It reduced the Board Secretary travel expenses by $1,000, stating that this item had increased by 72% from the 1990-91 actual expense and that no Board policy exists for the number of conferences which may be attended annually. The Council further reduced the Superintendent travel expenses by $1,000 based on prior expenditures and eliminated $1,500 for recruiting costs as not necessary with the low turnover rate and ample supply of local teacher candidates.

The Board's position on these items is that Board members should attend the NJSBA conference to keep abreast of current legal and educational developments and that this is particularly important for newly elected Board members. The Board further states that the display booth at the NJSBA conference gives the Board the opportunity to demonstrate aspects of the district academic programs. The Board states that the Board Secretary has been allowed to attend national, state and county conferences to keep abreast of current legal and educational developments. The Board states that the reduction to the Superintendent travel expense would leave only $500 which it believes is inadequate and would prevent the Superintendent from attending conferences to keep breast of recent legal and educational developments. It also notes that the sum of all the reductions in this account is $8,425, not the $7,425 specified by Council, and it questions whether the Council intended to reduce the $1,000 for Superintendent travel. The Board also states that the reduction in funds for recruiting would prevent active recruiting for minority candidates, and that such recruitment has been a consistent goal of the Board.

The Commissioner finds and determines on each of these areas in this account as follows. Membership in NJSBA is a statutory obligation in New Jersey for all public school district boards of education and attendance at the annual conference is not only reasonable but also recommended. The $2,925 for that expense is restored. The display booth at the conference, although possibly worthwhile, is in no way essential to the operation of a thorough and efficient educational program. The reduction of $2,000 is sustained. Provision for the Superintendent and Board Secretary to attend professional conferences to ensure their knowledge and awareness of current issues is certainly worthwhile. However, the Commissioner finds that the reductions made by the Council may be absorbed by the district without adversely affecting the efficient operation of the school district. Provision of some funds for a minority recruitment program is valid to address the Board's goal and affirmative action obligations, but in light of a defeated budget, a lesser expenditure with prudent decisions for the expenses is reasonable. It is unclear whether or not the Council made a mathematical error in the total reduction for this account or included the reduction of $1,000 travel in the reduction of $1,500 for minority recruitment. In any case, the total of restored funds and sustained reductions should not exceed the total reduction effectuated by the Council. Therefore, the reductions of $2,000 for the conference display booth and $2,000 for Superintendent and Board Secretary travel are sustained. The balance of $3,425 for attendance at the NJSBA conference by Board members and for some minority recruitment is restored.

Account 213 Salaries - Teachers $20,000

The Council's position is based on past annual expenditures for advanced degree and retirement salary adjustments and the belief that the 1992-93 estimate was based on the anticipated State retirement incentive program and was not necessary since the Board did not participate in this program. The Board states that the funds were budgeted for salary guide adjustments for teachers who earn advanced degrees or postgraduate credits and for payment for accumulated sick leave upon retirement. The Board states that both benefits are required under the teachers' collective negotiations agreement. The Board states that the amount budgeted was not based on the State retirement incentive program. The Board also states that the expenditures for these benefits in 1990-91 and 1991-92 exceeded the amount budgeted in 1992-93.

The Commissioner determines that sufficient funds must be budgeted for contractual obligations and that the Council's reduction was arbitrary. The reduction of $20,000 is therefore restored.

Account 213 Salaries - Teachers $65,000

The Council based this reduction on known and anticipated retirements and lower salaries for replacement. The Board in its summation accepted a reduction in this account for teacher salaries of $45,000, but states that there was no justification for the assumption of additional savings of $20,000 due to additional retirements or resignations. The Board also states, however, that an additional $11,000 is needed for the salary of the substance abuse counselor budgeted in Account 214. It must be noted that appeals of budget reductions are restricted to the funds budgeted for specific accounts and do not allow for request of restoration of funds to be transferred to another account.

The Commissioner determines that the $45,000 reduction as accepted by the Board in this account is sustained. Since a board cannot risk underbudgeting because of potential retirements or resignations, the balance of $20,000 of this account reduction is restored.

Account 214 Salaries - Other Instructional Staff $41,000

The Council's reduction was based on its conclusion that the cost of this program is funded by a different account since no expenses have been entered for this program in this account in 1991-92. The Board responds that the 1991-92 services were provided by the Bergen County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse and the budgeted amount was therefore not in this account for salaries. The Board adds the Bergen County Council advised that it could not provide these services for 1992-93, and the Board then hired the same substance abuse counsellor directly.

The Commissioner finds there is no question about the necessary services provided by a substance abuse counsellor and hereby determines that the $41,000 be restored. As noted above, the Board's request for an additional $11,000 to be transferred from Account 213 to meet the contractual salary of $52,000 for the substance abuse counsellor cannot be approved.

Account 220 Textbooks $40,000

The Council's reduction is based on prior year expenditures with a smaller increase than that budgeted by the Board. The Board states the budgeted amount was based on a detailed request submitted by administrators and teachers to substantiate purchase of new and replacement textbooks.

Since it is obvious and indisputable that current and updated textbooks are essential to provision of a thorough and efficient education, a reduction based on prior year expenditures with an estimated inflationary cost increase is determined to be arbitrary. The Commissioner finds that the $40,000 is to be restored.

Account 230 Library and AV Materials $35,000

The Council's reduction was based on 1990-91 actual expenditures and intended to eliminate what it termed unnecessary requests and to increase interschool sharing of materials. The Board's position is that there are some materials which are only applicable to specific grade levels, thus limiting the possibility of interschool sharing, and that library and reference materials must be updated, supplemented and replaced.

The Commissioner determines that appropriate library and audio-visual materials are essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education and that a reduction to the level of 1990-91 expenditures is arbitrary. The amount of $35,000 is therefore restored.

Account 240 Teaching Supplies $25,000

The Council's reduction is based on prior year expenditures plus a smaller increase than that budgeted by the Board. The Board states that the budgeted amount is not based on spending history and the rate of inflation, but rather on detailed requests by administrators and teachers to substantiate the teaching supplies budget.

The Commissioner determines that sufficient supplies are required for a thorough and efficient educational program and that a reduction based only on past expenditures is arbitrary. The amount of $25,000 is restored.

Account 250 Other Expenses $78,500

The Council's reduction is based on prior year expenditures plus a smaller increase than that budgeted by the Board. The Board states that part of the increase in this account is for a staff development program initiated in one of the schools, the need to purchase revised editions of testing and scoring materials, provision to attend conferences and workshops for a new principal in the second year of that position, plus a number of expenditures related to the educational process. The Board, in its statement, specifically explains increases of $27,440, of which $1,300 is for the new principal to attend conferences. The Board does acknowledge that, of the amount budgeted in 1991-92, 86% was expended. This amounts to a balance in this account for 1991-92 of approximately $30,000.

The Commissioner finds that although some specific funds are justified in this account, the Board has not demonstrated that restoration of the entire $78,500 is essential for the provision of a thorough and efficient educational program. Certainly attendance at fewer conferences and workshops, reduction of travel over and above that contractually required, and elimination of non-essential expenses can be reasonably expected. It is therefore determined that the amount of $26,140, based on the $27,440 substantiated by the Board less $1,300 for conferences for the new principal, is restored and the balance of $52,360 is sustained.

Account 520 Transportation - Contracted Services $14,000

The Council's reduction was based on its understanding that there was an error of $14,000 in the calculations for this account. The Board agrees that this is correct and accepts the reduction. The reduction of $14,000 is sustained.

Account 530 Replacement of Vehicles $63,000

The Council's reduction was based on a deferral of the replacement of two school buses. The Board's position is that the vehicles should be replaced because of age, safety reasons, and large repair costs.

The Commissioner determines that the Board's position on the replacement of the two vehicles is reasonable and prudent. The reduction of $63,000 is restored.

Account 620 Contracted Services $22,000

The Council's reduction was based on its plan to provide garbage removal services at all the schools and eliminate the need for private contractor services in the school district. The Board accepts the change in arrangements, but notes that the contract with the private company was to be terminated at the end of August, resulting in a cost of $3,782 for July and August. In addition, the Board states it will have an expense of $2,840 to purchase the required garbage containers since the private company will be taking back its containers.

It would appear that a reasonable and realistic arrangement has been negotiated between Council and Board, but that there will still be some expenses for the Board at the beginning of the school year. The Commissioner therefore determines that $6,622 is restored and $15,378 is sustained. (It should be noted that the Board documents have a figure of $15,378 as accepted and $3,782 and $2,840 (totalling $6,622) as additional charges. However, the amount requested for restoration is listed as $6,222, apparently a typographical error.)

Account 730 Replacement of Equipment $ 6,500

The Council's decision was based on a reduction of the price of a copy machine by $5,000 in view of current market prices of $15,000 instead of $20,000, and a reduction of $1,500 with a proposed purchase of a more modest lifeguard chair of $500 instead of $2,000. The Board states that it has now entered into a three year lease purchase agreement for a copier, with an anticipated 1992-93 cost of $17,500. The Board then accepts $2,500 of the reduction for the copy machine and asks that $2,500 be restored. The Board states that a lifeguard chair with the qualities required for an indoor olympic-size pool used for instructional, competitive, and recreational activities is $2,073.21 and cannot be purchased for $500. It asks that the $1,500 be restored.

The Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated the necessity of the expenditures in this account. Therefore, it is determined that $4,000 is restored and $2,500 is sustained.

Account 730c Purchase of New Equipment $83,500

The Council eliminated $15,000 for electronic music equipment as not essential, $7,500 for a "Text on Microform" system as easily deferred or not necessary at all, $11,000 for a pool thermal blanket as an item which has been deferred in recent years and for which it has no cost/benefit information, and $50,000 for new computer equipment as easily deferred. The Board states that the cost of $11,365 for the music equipment is valid because the equipment, although not traditional, is effective for music instruction. The Board states that the "Text on Microform" system provides students access to periodicals and specific articles, teaches research techniques and improves computer literacy. The Board states that the thermal pool blanket at a cost of $10,500 will result in savings of utility costs over the life of the blanket. The Board states that the reduction of $50,000 for the purchase of computers will result in the elimination and/or reduction of computers in certain classes. The Board argues that the computers are consistent with the goals of a thorough and efficient education.

The Commissioner finds that the purchase of electronic music equipment, a "Text on Microform" and a pool thermal blanket, all possibly worthwhile, may be deferred. It is further determined that the provision of computer equipment and instruction is vital to ensure staying abreast with electronic technology and is essential to a thorough and efficient education. Therefore, the reduction of $33,500 is sustained and $50,000 is restored.

Account 810a Other Employee Retirement Contributions $ 6,000

Both parties agree that a $6,000 error was made and that the reduction is appropriate. This reduction is thus sustained.

Account 850 Other Fixed Charges $125,000

The Council effectuated this reduction based on the option offered by the State Health Benefits Program to delay payment of one month's premium. The Board states that there are risk in accepting this option. This would be, if sometime later the Board withdraws from the program or if the program discontinues the delay option, that a thirteen month payment at higher rates would be required in one school year.

This is a difficult issue to resolve, because a health benefits program must be provided for employees and accepting the one month payment deferral option, may, although not likely, result in the financial risk described by the Board. The Commissioner therefore determines that a reduction which forces a board into a situation which is optional and which ultimately may have a financial impact is not justifiable. The reduction of $125,000 is restored.

Account 870e Tuition - Special $50,000

The Council recognizes that significant unanticipated costs can occur in this account, but states that the reduction still leaves a substantial increase for unanticipated expenses and that any increases beyond this can be funded with surplus monies. The Board states that expenditures in 1991-92 exceeded the budgeted amount by $176,197 and that it does not have the same level of surplus funds to finance unexpected tuition costs. It also notes that the anticipated increase in costs for 1992-93 was reviewed by the State Department of Education and resulted in approval for a cap waiver in special education tuition.

The Commissioner determines that the Board has presented solid documentation in this account, and the $50,000 is restored.

Account 1010 Salaries - Student Body Activities $ 7,500

The Council reduced the increase in this account to 6.7%, the amount of wage adjustment. The Board states that the Council ignored the additional budget for the increased pool staff.

The Commissioner finds that there must always be sufficient staff to provide not only proper instruction but also security and safety for all participants in school programs. It is, therefore, determined that the $7,500 is restored.

Account 1020 Other Expenses - Student Body Activities $10,000

The Council's reduction is based on the actual budget for 1991-92, after transfers, plus 4% for inflation. The Board agrees that funds for the athletic trainer were transferred in 1991-92 from account 1020 to 1010, but states that the additional funds budgeted for 1992-93 are necessary for increases in other relevant costs.

The Commissioner determines that the Board has not satisfactorily documented the increased costs in this account. The reduction of $10,000 is sustained.

Lines 134-198 Special Education $20,000

The Council agrees that these accounts had unanticipated cost increases in 1991-92, but the reduction is based on its belief that the increase for 1992-93 was overly conservative and unnecessarily high. The Board states that there were unanticipated costs in 1991-92 that impact the 1992-93 budget and that also additional staff has to be hired for 1992-93 to meet the needs of special education students.

The Commissioner determines that the provision of appropriate educational services to special education students is not only essential to a thorough and efficient education but also vital to implement the individualized educational programs for special education students. The reduction of $20,000 is restored.

Thus, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner determines to restore $567,987 and sustain $110,860 of the $678,847 in current expense reductions appealed herein, as summarized by the chart below:

Line Item/ Account		Council's Reduction	Amount Not Restored	Amount Restored

II. CAP WAIVER

In setting forth its position with respect to the $996,579 it seeks in current expense cap waiver monies, the Board states that these funds are essential for the provision of a thorough and efficient educational program. The cap waiver monies would provide for the following:

- 15.5 teaching staff members (elementary, science, English, social studies and foreign language) including salaries and benefits
- Staff for the lunch monitor program
- Staff for the evening tutorial program
- Purchase of computer equipment.

The Board states that the cap waiver was approved as required for thorough and efficient education by the Department of Education. The Board in its position paper specifies the impact that lack of these monies would have on the district, including elimination of programs and increases in class size because of teaching staff reductions, elimination of staff for the lunch monitor program at the elementary school which has been provided for the safety of the children during the lunch hour, elimination of teaching staff for the evening tutorial program which would result in the reduction of remedial programs for students in grades seven through twelve, and reduction of the purchase of computer equipment, software and materials which are utilized in programs that are "responsive to changing educational, technological work place demands." (Position Statement, at pp. 15-16) The Board submitted documentation on the impact of the elimination of the cap waiver monies, including the reduction of academic programs and increases in class sizes, in some cases to over 30 students; the Board policy on the lunch monitoring program for pupils in grades one to eight; the specific programs offered and numbers of students served in 1991-92 in the evening tutorial program -- these numbers are significant with 1,874 served in 1991-92 at the high school, 2,190 at the Pierrepont School, and 1,405 at the Union School -- and the necessity of the computer funds to provide equipment to improve teaching methodology and to provide students with the "tools needed for functioning in the 21st century." (Id., at I5)

The Council submitted a response in which it denies that any of these reductions would impact the provision of a thorough and efficient education. The Council does not dispute the benefits of the lunch monitoring program and evening tutorial program, but suggests that the former be provided either by volunteer parents or with charges for the service, and the latter be provided with local college students at lower salaries instead of certificated teachers. The Commissioner rejects these suggestions as neither reasonable nor feasible.

Upon review of the Board's position and supporting documentation, the Commissioner finds and determines that the record amply establishes that the $996,579 in current expense cap waiver monies are necessary for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Rutherford Borough School District.

Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that the Bergen County Board of Taxation increase the 1992-93 current expense tax levy to reflect the restoration of $567,987 of the reduction effectuated by the Council and an additional $996,579 in cap waiver monies, or $1,564,566. This amount, when added to the amount of $13,421,235 originally certified by the Council, will result in a total 1992-93 current expense tax levy for Rutherford Borough of $14,985,801 as set forth below:

Current Expense

Tax Levy Certified	$13,421,235
Restoration	567,987
Cap Waiver Approval	996,579
Total Tax Levy	$14,985,801

IT IS SO ORDERED.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 6, 1992

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Fogarty & Hara, (Rodney T. Hara, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Donovan & Cucchiara, (E. Michael Donovan, Esq., of Counsel)

This is an appeal from a decision made on behalf of the Commissioner of Education by the Acting Commissioner involving the budget for 1992-93 of the Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford (hereinafter "Board"). In his decision in this consolidated case, the Acting Commissioner passed upon both the Board's appeal from reductions made by the Council of the Borough of Rutherford (hereinafter "Council") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the education budget by the voters[1] and an

1 N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 provides in pertinent part that:

> If the voters reject any of the items submitted at the annual school election, the board of education shall deliver the proposed school budget to the governing body of the municipality, or of each of the municipalities included in the district within 2 days thereafter. The governing body of the municipality, or of each of the municipalities, included in the district shall, after consultation with the board, and by April 28, determine the amount which, in the judgment of said appeal of amounts included in a current expense cap waiver presented to the voters pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f),[2] which was also defeated.

Based on his review of the specific line item reductions appealed to him, the Acting Commissioner sustained $110,860 in reductions, but directed restorations totaling $567,987 in nineteen line items. On the basis of his review of the Board's position and the supporting documentation, he also found that $996,579 in "current expense cap waiver monies" was necessary for the District to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students. The Acting Commissioner therefore directed that the Bergen County Board of Taxation increase the 1992-93 current expense tax levy by $1,564,566 so as to include both the amount of the Council's reductions which he had restored and the "cap waiver monies."

body or bodies, is necessary to be appropriated, for each item appearing in such budget, to provide a thorough and efficient system of schools in the district, and certify to the county board of taxation the totals of the amount so determined to be necessary for each of the following:

a. Current expenses of schools;
b. Vocational evening schools or classes;
c. Evening schools or classes for foreign-born residents;
d. Appropriations to capital reserve fund; or
e. Any capital project...

The statute further provides for appeal from that determination to the Commissioner of Education.

2 N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) provides:

Any school district may submit a proposal to raise the amount of tax levy necessary to exceed the maximum permissible net budget permitted by this section to the legal voters of the district for type II school districts without a Board of School Estimate and to the Board of School Estimate for those school districts with a Board of School Estimate as required during the school budget approval process pursuant to chapters 22 and 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes and section 13 of P.L.1971, c.271 (C. 18A:46-41). The proposal to raise additional tax levy to exceed the maximum permissible net budget shall be in addition to the amounts required to be approved for each

The Council appealed to the State Board, seeking reversal of the Acting Commissioner's determination to restore $567,987 of the line item reductions it had made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and his award of the $996,579 "cap waiver monies" which he had directed to be included in the tax levy.

Following the submission of briefs by the parties, our Legal Committee issued its Legal Committee Report (hereinafter "Report"), recommending therein affirmance of restoration of the line item reductions effectuated by the Council. However, the Legal Committee further recommended, essentially for the reasons subsequently discussed, that we remand this matter before directing any increase to the education budget.

Our Legal Committee's Report was mailed to the parties on May 20, 1993. On that same date, the Committee received a request from the Council to withdraw its appeal "in consideration of" the Board's decision not to appeal the Council's action with respect to the 1993-94 education budget, which had been defeated by the voters.

By letter of May 21, the parties were advised that they were required to submit their proposed settlement for review in order for the State Board to consider withdrawal of the appeal. The parties were further advised that their desire to settle the matter school district in accordance with chapters 22 and 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes and section 13 of P.L.1971, c.271 (C. 18A:46-41). In the event that a school district's proposal to raise the tax levy to exceed the maximum permissible net budget is not approved in accordance with the budget approval process set forth in chapter 22 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes to type II districts and for type I districts, chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes for county vocational school districts and section 13 of P.L.1971, c.271 (C. 18A:46-41) for county special services school districts, that disapproval shall be deemed final and shall not be subject to further review of appeal.

did not alter the date by which they were required to file any exceptions they might have to the Legal Committee Report.

On May 26, the Council filed its exceptions to the Report, along with a resolution adopted by the Council which memorialized the agreement between the parties with respect to the appeal of the 1992-93 school budget. By letter of May 27, the Board provided us with its resolution pertaining to the agreement, and, on May 28, it filed its exceptions to the Legal Committee Report.

After reviewing the resolutions submitted by the parties, we conclude that we can not permit withdrawal of the appeal on the basis of the agreement embodied therein. Further, review of the parties' exceptions to the Legal Committee's Report reinforces the validity of the conclusions set forth in that Report.

As the Committee reiterated and as the State Board of Education emphasized in our decision in Board of Education of the Borough of Lincoln Park v. Borough Council of the Borough of Lincoln Park (hereinafter "Lincoln Park"), decided by the State Board, December 2, 1992,

> The starting point for resolving this matter is arriving at a proper appreciation of the Commissioner's obligation to assure that each school district has sufficient fiscal resources to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students. Robinson v. Cahill 69 N.J 449, 463 (1976) (Robinson V); Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990). This obligation is an integral part of the Commissioner's responsibility for assuring that the State's constitutional mandate is fulfilled and it is of such importance as to vest in the Commissioner the authority to direct an increase in a district's budget beyond those amounts approved by the district's voters. In re Upper Freehold Reg'l School District, 86 N.J. 265 (1981). Given the nature of the responsibility entrusted to the Commissioner, we have no doubt that the authority to fulfill it must embrace the power to direct an increase in a district's education budget in any case where such increase > is necessary to satisfy the constitutional mandate, including a case where voters have defeated a proposal to exceed its statutory budget limitation. See Administrative Agency Advice (AAA) 91-0036 (July 8, 1991).

Lincoln Park, supra, slip op. at 5.

Furthermore, although we had no hesitation in affirming the Commissioner's implied authority to direct an increase in a local education budget, we reaffirm that > the power to direct such increase may properly be exercised only where an increase is necessary to enable the district to provide a thorough and efficient education. Upper Freehold, supra. Further, any increase must be limited to those amounts the district needs in order to provide a thorough and efficient education. Id. Consequently, it is necessary to assess the adequacy of the budget as advertised and to determine whether it is possible to reallocate amounts within that budget before directing any increase. See AAA 91-0036, supra, at 6.

Id. at 5-6. (Emphasis added).

In contrast to this case, although defeating the cap waiver question, the district's voters in Lincoln Park had approved the budget proposed by the district board. Our review of the record in Lincoln Park revealed nothing to indicate that the possibility of reallocation within the budget approved by the voters had been considered at any point following defeat of the district's cap waiver proposal. Consequently, we concluded that it was necessary to remand the matter to the Commissioner to determine whether or to what extent the budget could be reallocated to include those amounts of the cap waiver proposal he found necessary in order for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education. Lincoln Park, supra, slip op. at 10.

In the case now before us, as emphasized by the parties in their exceptions to our Legal Committee's Report, the budget proposed by the district Board and approved by the County Superintendent for advertisement was defeated by the voters. This circumstance, however, did not eliminate the necessity to review the budget for the specific purpose of determining whether reallocation within that budget could be made so as to include the programs that the District originally intended to support by the "cap waiver monies." In this respect, we stress not only that the County Superintendent's review of the budget did not involve any determination of the minimal level of funding necessary in order for the District to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students, but also that N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 did not charge the Council with reducing the budget to that level following voter defeat.

There is no indication in the record before us that reallocation within the budget proposed by the Board was considered at any point either prior to the County Superintendent's approval of the budget or at any point subsequent to defeat of the cap waiver proposal. Again, that the budget approved for advertisement and presented to the voters did not represent the minimal amount necessary is clearly demonstrated in this instance by the fact that the Acting Commissioner sustained $110,860 in reductions in the specific line items presented to him. The Acting Commissioner did not however extend his review beyond those line items so as to consider whether any additional reallocation was possible.

Furthermore, while review of the "cap waiver monies" was not within the scope of review with which it was charged by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Council in these proceedings did raise questions as to whether those amounts were necessary in their entirety to the provision of a thorough and efficient education. Again, as delineated in Lincoln Park, the fact that the County Superintendent designated the monies as "T & E" amounts for purposes of presenting a cap waiver question to the voters under N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f) did not insulate those amounts from review on appeal.

Review of the agreement between the parties further reinforces our view that it is necessary to remand this case. Essentially, that agreement provides that the Council withdraw its appeal of the Commissioner's decision with respect to the 1992-93 school budget, in exchange for which the Board agrees not to appeal reductions made by the Council in the 1993-94 education budget following its defeat by the voters. The concerns that compel us to reject this agreement relate to both of the budget years involved.

First, as detailed above, the Commissioner's decision with respect to the 1992-93 budget established a budget which, despite voter defeat of the proposal made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f), exceeds the "maximum permissible budget" allowed by the statutes. Again, as set forth above, the additional amounts were added to the District's budget without any determination of whether it was possible to make reallocations such that it would be possible for the District to provide a thorough and efficient education while staying within its maximum permissible budget. To permit this result, given defeat of the proposal made to the voters pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28(f), would be to contravene the express terms of that statutory provision without the assurance that to do so is necessary in order for the Commissioner to fulfill her statutory obligations. In this respect, we emphasize that nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, or, for that matter, any other statutory provision provides for delegation to a municipal governing body of the Commissioner's authority to direct an increase in a local education budget. This would be the result were we to permit withdrawal of this appeal on the grounds that, as argued by the parties, the Council reviewed the entire budget when it reduced it.

Moreover, notwithstanding either the acceptance by the Council of the necessity of the programs which the Board sought to fund by its cap waiver proposal or the documentation in the record supporting the cost of those programs, the record before us does not provide a sufficient basis upon which to determine whether or not the programs which the District intended to fund with the "cap waiver monies" are in fact necessary in order for the District to meet its constitutional obligations. See Exhibits in Support of Position Statement on Behalf of the Rutherford Board of Education (cap waiver appeal). Nor is it sufficient to establish the exact amount necessary to fund those programs found to be essential to the provision of a thorough and efficient education.

Secondly, as indicated above, our concerns extend beyond the 1992-93 budget to that portion of the proposed agreement that would fix the 1993-94 budget at the amount that was set by the Council following voter defeat of that budget. Quite simply, to the extent that the Commissioner's determination pursuant to the remand of this matter alters the District's budget for 1992-93, the District's budget for 1993-94 would also be affected. Consequently, in the event of any change in the 1992-93 budget, the 1993-94 budget must be scrutinized carefully to assure both that the calculation of State aid for 1993-94 is proper and that the budget is constitutionally adequate. Cf. Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990).

In sum, for the reasons expressed, we reject the settlement proposed by the parties. We affirm that portion of the Acting Commissioner's decision directing restoration of specific amounts to the line items before him, but remand the matter to the Commissioner for a determination of whether reallocation within the District's maximum permissable budget for 1992-93 is possible so as to provide support for those programs which the District proposed originally to fund by the "cap waiver monies," as well as for a determination of whether or to what extent the specific programs at issue are in fact essential in order to enable the Board to meet its constitutional obligations. In the event that the District's budget for 1992-93 is altered by the Commissioner's determination, we direct her to again review the District's 1993-94 budget as set forth above.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Rodney T. Hara, Esq. (Fogarty & Hara)

For Respondent, E. Michael Donovan, Esq. (Donovan & Cucchiara)

The matter was remanded to the Commissioner of Education by way of a July 7, 1993 decision of the State Board of Education, wherein it was held that the Commissioner, in the December 8, 1992 decision on appeal to the State Board, had not made a determination as to whether it was possible to make reallocations within the district's maximum permissible expense budget prior to overriding the will of the voters and ordering proposed cap amounts to be funded through local tax levy, and that the record of that matter did not demonstrate any such determination having been made by the County Superintendent of Schools during the pre-election budget approval process. The State Board also held that the existing record was insufficient to reach a determination on whether the programs to be funded and the amounts proposed for such funding were in fact necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education ("T & E") in the district. Finally, the Board directed that, should the Commissioner's determination on remand result in a change to the 1992-93 school budget, that the impact of such change on the 1993-94 budget also be reviewed to ensure accurate calculation of State aid and Constitutional adequacy.

As a result of the State Board's decision, it was determined, and the parties were informed by July 23, 1993 letter from the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, that the County Superintendent was to submit to the Commissioner, and to the parties, a sworn affidavit setting forth his reasons as to 1) why he found reallocation not to be possible within the maximum permissible budget and 2) why the programs and amounts to be funded were necessary for T & E. Thereafter, the parties were to be given opportunity to submit responses to the County Superintendent's filing(s).

Accordingly, on September 17, 1993, the County Superintendent submitted to the record a sworn affidavit setting forth the review conducted by his office as it related to the State Board's directives on remand, followed on September 21, 1993 by documentation in support thereof. On October 28, 1993, the Board of Education submitted its responsive papers, wherein it expanded upon and endorsed the statements of the County Superintendent, both in terms of review processes employed and actual determinations reached. On the same date, the Borough submitted a letter indicating its agreement with the positions taken by both the County Superintendent in his affidavit and supporting papers and the Board of Education in its response thereto.

Upon review of the submissions on remand, together with the record of the Commissioner's prior decision, the Commissioner is satisfied both that no further reallocation is possible within the maximum permissible expense budget and that the programs and amounts proposed by the Board for funding through cap waiver are, in fact, necessary for T & E. Thus, no alteration of the Commissioner's prior directives as to amounts to be certified for the 1992-93 Rutherford school budget is warranted, and by this determination, the need for review of the 1993-94 budget as a result of any alterations to the 1992-93 budget is rendered moot.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the Commissioner's decision of December 8, 1993 as supplemented on remand above, the total current expense tax levy for the 1992-93 school year in the School District of the Borough of Rutherford shall remain at $14,985,801.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

For Petitioner, Joseph A. Banas, Jr., Esq.

For Respondent, Le Roy D. Safro, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Board of Education of the Borough by Wallington (Board) appealing the reduction in the current expense tax levy imposed by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Wallington (Borough) upon defeat of the 1992-93 budget by the voters of the district on April 7, 1992.

The Petition of Appeal in this matter was filed by the Board on May 20, 1992 and the Borough's Answer was filed on June 8, 1992. On June 19, 1992 the Borough filed a copy of its resolution of April 27, 1992 setting forth the amount to be raised by taxation of $5,280,607.50 for current expense purposes and the amount of its proposed reduction of $500,000. In addition, the Borough's filing of that date sets forth the following account and line item reductions which, it is noted, set forth $795,358 in reductions, some $295,358 greater than the $500,000 reduction adopted by the Borough in its resolution of April 27, 1992:

It is noted by the Commissioner that the above-cited areas of reductions imposed by the Borough constitute a second resolution of the governing body which added a general cut of $150,000 added to the original reductions which totaled $645,358, still some $145,358 greater than the amount by which the tax levy was reduced.

Notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner notes that the dollar amount in dispute in this matter as set forth by the Board is as follows:

	Proposed Tax Levy Adopted By Board	Amount of Tax Levy Certified by Borough
Current Expense	$5,780,607.50	$5,280,607.50

Amount of Reduction By Borough	Amount of Reduction In Dispute Before Commissioner

The Board submitted its Position Paper on May 20, 1992 and the Borough's Position Statement was not filed until August 31, 1992. A Reply paper was submitted by the Board on September 10, 1992 whereupon the record in this matter closed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. (See also Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989).)

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

In the instant matter, the Council upon defeat of the 1991-92 budget by the electorate did confer with the Board as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 and established a tax levy to be used for school purposes; however, the Commissioner notes that the budgetary reductions set forth above provide no reasons for the reductions imposed. Pursuant to Deptford, supra, the Commissioner notes that the aforesaid decision, while affirming the reversal of the Commissioner's and the State Board's awarding of summary decision on procedural grounds to the board for failure to provide a statement of reasons at the time of the resolution setting the tax levy reduction, nevertheless concluded that the later the statement of reasons for the reductions imposed was provided, the greater the assumption of arbitrariness the Commissioner could assign. Further, in interpreting the standard of review to be applied in circumstances where a governing body failed to provide reasons for its reductions at the time such reductions were made, the State Board of Education concluded in Rochelle Park Board of Education v. Mayor and Council of Rochelle Park, decided July 1, 1992, that under such circumstances the burden of proof to demonstrate the validity of the reductions imposed is transferred to the governing body.

BOARD'S POSITION

Initially it is noted that the Board argues that the actions of the Borough in this matter are arbitrary and capricious both procedurally and substantively. It is the contention of the Board that when it met with the Borough on April 27, 1992 in conformity with N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 it was presented with a resolution reportedly passed on April 23, 1992, prior to any consultation as required by the aforesaid statute and which contained a reduction in the tax levy for current expense of $500,000. The Board further contends that after the discussions between the Board and the Borough, the Borough Council passed a second resolution which imposed the same $500,000 reduction in the tax levy but which set forth $795,358 in reductions as opposed to the $645,358 set forth in the original resolution, both being in excess of the $500,000 tax levy reduction.

It is the Board's contention that the failure of the Borough to provide a rationale for each of the line items in which reductions were imposed simultaneously with the certification of the tax levy constitutes an arbitrary and capricious action on the part of the governing body. Further, the Board contends that the provision of two lists of reductions, each greater than the overall $500,000 reduction imposed in the tax levy, not only further demonstrates the arbitrary nature of the reductions but also increases the difficulty of responding to the reductions.

Given the above-cited circumstances, the Board determined to address each of the reductions imposed by the Borough in its second resolution and its reasoning as set forth below:

$12,111.88	$15,000	$16,000	$3,200

This appropriation includes dues, county and state meetings and dinners, conventions and workshops. Expenditures to date for 1991-92 are $15,076. The Board believes this expenditure is necessary to maintain an informed, competent board of education.

Expenses Board Office

$ 2,809.19	$ 4,400	$ 4,800	$1,850

There is an increase in supplies projected due to the need to implement the GAAP accounting system and to computerize services. This area includes all office supplies, postage and miscellaneous expenses. If GAAP software and appropriate hardware are considered for purchase, the appropriation of $4,800 is already insufficient. This expenditure is necessary to operate the office of the Board of Education.

Board Secretary Travel Expenses

$ 800.00	$ 1,000	$ 1,000	$ 150

This item shows no increase for 1992-93. It covers dues and travel expenses for the School Board Secretary. According to the Board, it is already minimal.

Full restoration is requested.

Expenses for School Board Election

$ 1,777.71	$ 2,800	$ 2,800	$ 925

This item shows no increase for 1992-93. It includes advertising, printing, voting machines, etc. No reduction is justified.

Full restoration is requested.

Expenses - Superintendent's Office

$ 1,894.55	$ 2,950	$ 5,750	$1,750

The projected increase of $2,800 is due to plans to implement a computer system with a modem to the high school. Currently, all records, applications, state forms, etc. are in the files. The Board believes that there is a need to computerize these items.

$1,140.00	$ 1,400	$ 2,350	$1,150

This expenditure includes a $30 per month traveling expense for the Superintendent in addition to expenses for workshops, seminars, conventions, etc. State, county and association dues are also included. According to the Board, the Superintendent previously attended the Academy in Trenton and has indicated an interest in attending this program and a national convention next year.

J130 Salary - Teacher Aides (Instruction)

$ -0-	$13,136	$13,532	$6,000

The Board has three full-day kindergartens. Enrollment for 1992-93 is already at 72. History indicates that it will increase by at least 10-12 more. By law, if enrollment exceeds 25 students as of September 1, the Board must provide an aide in that class.

It anticipates the need for at least one, maybe more. Its policy calls for a salary of $13,532 for one aide with a degree.

J213 Salary - Substitutes Grades 1-5

Actual Expenditure 1990-1991	Revised Appropriations 1991-1992	Proposed 1992-1993	Recommended Reduction
$13,719.00	$20,180.50	$25,445.50	$11,046

This area includes all substitutes, internal and external, at this level. It also reflects a proposed $5 increase in 1992-93 to $60 per day. Experience has taught the Board that a greater amount of money is needed at the elementary level than the secondary because of the greater probability of maternity or child-rearing leaves due to a large percentage of female faculty members. There are also occasions where extended absences result in the Board compensating a substitute at $75 per day after the 20th day.

J213 Other Salaries for Instruction

$10,020	$11,360	$13,100	$2,500

This area covers class advisors, yearbook and newspaper advisors and those of other co-curricular activities. It is based on a projected increase of $100 to $200 per advisor and a $5 per hour increase for evening SAT instruction. The recommended cut would not enable the Board to even meet this year's financial responsibility.

Textbooks - J220

$13,790.23	$29,617	$26,170	$8,920

Textbook needs are based upon relevant educational concerns. The junior-senior high school has projected $8,200 for replacement texts. This comes to $18 per student. They have also requested $11,200 for new texts. These new texts are needed based upon a review of present texts. Updating is necessary prior to the Middle States visitation in 1993-94.

The elementary total projected expenditure for 1992-93 comes to $19 per student. A list of texts currently in use and to be ordered are available.

J230 School Library and Audio Visual Materials

Actual Expenditure 1990-1991	Revised Appropriations 1991-1992	Proposed 1992-1993	Recommended Reduction
$19,334.46	$29,000	$29,575	$9,275

New technology and expansion of media services, computer software, AVA equipment, periodicals, reference material, books and video and audio tapes are included here. The high school has a total appropriation of $14,600.

Books and paperbacks.....	$ 6,000
Newspapers and periodicals	3,000
Audio-Visual Materials	3,500
Supplies (Paper, batteries, cassettes, binding, jackets, book cards, etc.).....	2,100
Total	$14,600

The expenditure for books and periodicals includes the cost of a new set of encyclopedias, World Book, which is 8 years old. It is recommended by the American Library Association that encyclopedias be updated every five years. This expenditure alone is $1,100. The district also utilizes Paperbacks on Parade which provides ten paperback titles each month. This service is very popular with the students and costs $450 per year. The remaining money is used to add to the overall book collection at both the Junior and Senior High level. Hardcover books cost approximately $25 - $30 dollars each.

The elementary schools (2) have a total of $14,975.

Books	$ 6,000
Newspapers and periodicals	5,400
Audio-Visual Materials	2,575
Supplies	1,000
Total	$14,975

Periodicals are important as a source of current information for students. They are also a teaching tool and a source for reading and for doing research. They are also used by the teachers when units on consumer education are taught. Periodicals in the library allow teachers to introduce quality magazines to children. Professional periodicals are an important source of additional material to augment the curriculum.

AVA materials are an essential part of the curriculum. The teachers use these filmstrips and video cassettes as teaching tools to illustrate points they are teaching. The teachers often use them to introduce a unit as well as a culminating activity for a particular unit, chapter, or book, read in class.

AVA equipment: the tape recorders ordered are needed as replacement for old and worn equipment. Since the cost of repair is as much or more than new recorders, it is cost effective to order new ones. The overhead projectors ordered will allow the data shows to be permanently set up for use by the teachers. They will also be used with transparencies, both commercially made and teacher made.

Computer software is important as a teaching tool. These programs are used as reinforcement for concepts already taught. They are also used by teachers when introducing new concepts.

Library books must be updated each year. The objective is to improve, encourage and entice children to read. Students use the library as a resource for doing class assignments. Since all children, particularly elementary school children, cannot go to the public library, the school library becomes more important.

Teachers use the books as a resource to introduce history, literature and science, as well as leisure-time reading. As education moves towards a whole-language, literature based approach to learning, more books, records and audio tapes are imperative to a successful curriculum. The price of books had risen tremendously over the last several years, and therefore, it costs more to buy fewer books.

The Board believes that the library is the center of learning, research, media development, and language arts in its schools.

$38,832.11	$44,150	$49,525	$8,525

The $49,525 is actually $2,750 less than what the principal has requested to operate two elementary schools with a combined enrollment of 499 children (May 11, 1992). This amount comes to $131 per student. It includes material needed to address the new testing programs in grades 4 and 8. $40,524.55	$54,300	$56,200	$13,650

This amount for 1992-93 is $6,100 under what was requested by the principal of the junior-senior high school. The average proposed expenditure is $140 per student. State testing, curriculum adjustment and revision and Middle States considerations have significant input into this line-item. A more detailed account of what is being proposed is available in the tentative budget.

J250A Other Expenses - Office Supplies

$22,869.14	$40,000	$33,350	$9,350

These office supplies reflect needs generated by Middle States, a new computer reporting system in the high school and state testing. It also reflects an attempt to provide more up-to-date technology in the Board's offices such as word processors. The $33,350 appropriated for 1992-93 is a 1.6% decrease over the amount appropriated for 1991-92. (It should be noted that the Board has already spent over $39,000 this year.)

J250B Other Expenses - Tuition and Travel

$ 9,251.59	$17,400	$16,150	$6,450

In order to promote more efficient teacher training and preparation the district has increased the availability to attend appropriate workshops and seminars for all teachers. They will be exposed to a variety of areas such as technology, math and science curriculum, core proficiencies, special education laws, cooperative learning and subject matter pertaining to specific disciplines. This material is always shared with appropriate staff.

The Board is already allowing for a reduction of $1,250 (7%) for the coming school year.

General - J1020

Actual Expenditure 1990-1991	Revised Appropriations 1991-1992	Proposed 1992-1993	Recommended Reduction
			$150,000

According to the Board, this figure was not present in the material presented to it on the evening of April 27, nor was it discussed with the Board at any time. The Board had no knowledge of it until it received the second resolution (see enclosure c). The first resolution (enclosure b) presented to the Board on the 27th has no evidence of such a reduction. It has no idea what area this money is attributed to. This additional cut is clearly unilateral and arbitrary.

Full restoration is requested.

BOROUGH'S POSITION

The reasoning of the Borough in imposing the reductions listed in its resolution of April 27, 1992 was set forth for the first time in its Position Statement. The Borough argues that the 1992-93 budget appropriations requested by the Board constituted a 29.6% increase over its actual expenditures in 1990-91 while the cost of living in each of the two intervening years rose only 3.5% and private sector pay increases were limited to the 4 and 5% range. It further contends that the actual increase between 1990-91 and 1992-93 was greater than the 29.6% indicated by the raw figures since the Borough contends that the 1990-91 budget contained one time charges for capital equipment and improvements such as removal of oil tanks ($20,000), kindergarten room renovations ($17,000), word processors, etc. ($31,900) and maintenance equipment ($11,700).

The Borough further sets forth its belief in its responsibility to the taxpayers, many of whom are senior citizens, to maintain a stable tax rate. The Borough sets forth its concern of how it can explain a Board of Education budget which increased by 15% per year to citizens whose Social Security increases have been limited to 4% while earnings on their savings have been reduced from 8% to 3.5%.

The reasons for the line item reductions are set forth below:

J130 Expense of Board Members

Increase of 32.1% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Areas to decrease: dinners, workshops and donations. Amounts of decrease $3,200. This would have little effect on the competency of the Board of Education and take nothing from the students.

Expenses Board Office

Increase of 70.9% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Areas to decrease: supplies, postage and miscellaneous, GAAP accounting requirements as highlighted by school board not mandated for 1992-93 school year. Amount of decrease $1,850. No effect on students.

Board Secretary Travel Expense

Increase of 25% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Board Secretary salary of $79,880 for 1992-93 school year increased by 15.2% over 1990-91 actuals. All this salary and the size of the school district we feel the Board Secretary should be able to absorb some of his travel costs in performing his duties. Amount of decrease $150. No effect on students.

Expenses for School Board Elections

Increase of 58% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Advertising and printing costs should be reduced. Actual expenses to May 1992 per Board Secretary $1,772 same as 1990-91 school year. No increase warranted. Amount of decrease $925. No effect on students.

Expenses - Superintendent's Office

Increase of 203.5% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Need to computerize is desired but not crucial in these economic times and can be put off for a year or two. No increase warranted. Amount of decrease $1,750. No effect on students.

Superintendent's Travel Expenses

Increase of 106.1% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Superintendent's salary appropriation of $86,800 for 1992-93 school year increase by 18.1% over 1990-91 actuals. At this salary and the size of our school district we feel there should be no travel allowance or full reimbursements for professional seminars. Actual expenses to May 1992 per Board Secretary $1,332 which is close to $1,140 actuals of 1990-91 school year. Amount of decrease $1,150. No effect on students.

Miscellaneous Expenses for Educations

Increase of 112.6% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Board request for additional funds for reprinting of student handbooks due to 1993-94 Middle States deemed unnecessary for 1992-93 school year. Handbooks appear to have been printed in both 1990 and 1991 school year and appropriated for the 1991-92 school year. Miscellaneous category increased by 130.4% with no School Board explanation. Actual expense to May 1992 per Board Secretary $2,470 which is lower than actual expenditures of $2,822 for 1990-91 school year. Amount of decrease $3,000. No effect on students.

Instruction Salary - Teacher Aides

Increase of 100% over two year prior excessive for taxpayers. Actual expense to May 1992 per Board Secretary $0. Based on Board's enrollment statistics for 1992-93 school year of 72 we feel that at this time the Board should revert back to half day sessions. Full day sessions are not mandated by State and we feel that total of 84 students or 21 per morning and afternoon sessions could also reduce staffing from three teachers to two. We request a decrease in Salary-Teacher Aides of $6,000 which would leave a contingency of $7,532.

Salary Substitutes Grades 1-5

Increase of 85.5% over two years period excessive for taxpayers. Actual expense to May 1992 per Board Secretary $6,364 to $7,355 less than actual expenditures for 1990-91 school year. Board request of $25,446 for 1992-93 translates to 19 days absent for each teacher listed. Amount of decrease $11,046. No effect on students.

J213 Other Salaries for Instruction

Increase of 30.7% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. In today's economy, with people getting laid off or receiving 4-5% increases we feel the Board's negotiation procedures should be reviewed if they can find 15% increases for the last two years the norm. We also feel there could be an elimination of paid chaperones if volunteers from the Home and School Organization would be available. Amount of decrease $8,920. No effect on students.

Textbooks

Increase of 89.8% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Per Board response $11,200 of new texts required for Middle States visitation in 1993-94. This purchase should be postponed for one school year. Amount of decrease $8,920. No effect on students.

School Library and Audio Visual Materials

Increase of 53% over two year period excessive to taxpayers. Actual expenses per Board Secretary to May 1992 $21,395 which is closer to the 1990-91 actuals of $19,334 [than] the appropriations of $29,000 for 1991-92 and $29,575 for 1992-93. Amount of decrease $9,275. No effect on students.

J240 Teaching Supplies Elementary

Increase of 27.5% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. This item could only be analyzed in total as there was no breakdown of 1990-91 actual expenditures. Amount of decrease $8,525.

Teaching Supplies High School

Increase of 38.7% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Actual expense per Board Secretary to May 1992 $44,511 which is approximately $10,000 less than 1991-92. Also purchase of microcomputer for $2,500 shows up in both the 1991-92 and 1992-93 appropriations. Breakdown of 1990-91 actual expenditures not available for further analysis. Amount of decrease $13,650. No effect on students.

J250A Other Expenses Subtotal Office Supplies

Increase of 45.8% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Even more staggering is the increase from 1990-91 actuals to 1991-92 appropriations of 74.9% for a one year period. There is no breakdown of actual expenditures for 1990-91 to compare individual line items but an increase of that magnitude would suggest the purchase of capital equipment type items such as computers or word processors. Amount of decrease $9,350. No effect on students.

J250B Other Expenses Tuition and Travel

Increase of 74.6% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. Based on salaries of teachers we feel that any continued education or seminars should be the responsibility of the professional to better prepare themselves and maintain professional standards. Amount of decrease is $6,450. No effect on students.

J250C Miscellaneous Subtotal

Increase of 29.3% over two year period excessive for taxpayers. As there are no actual figures for 1991-92, we can only rely on 1990-91 actuals. Amount of decrease $1,350.

J410 Attendance and Health Subtotal

Based on the salaries of the two nurses we feel the Board should look for alternative methods of securing health services. Calculating the High School nurse's salary based on a 6 hour work day for 181 days the Board's paying approximately $36 per hour which is the equivalent of paying a registered nurse in private industry based on a 7 hour work day for 240 work days $60,480. The Elementary School nurse using the same theory would be $47,040. An

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF WALLINGTON, PETITIONER-RESPONDENT,

V.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL OF THE BOROUGH OF WALLINGTON, BERGEN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON MOTION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 8, 1992

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Joseph A. Banas, Jr., Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Riccardelli & Rosa
(Joseph Rosa, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

By decision of December 8, 1992, the Commissioner of Education directed restoration of $500,000 of the amount by which the Council of the Borough of Wallington had reduced the budget proposed by the Board of Education following defeat of that budget by the voters.

The Council appealed to the State Board of Education, filing its notice on January 21, 1993, along with a motion for an extension of time within which to file its appeal. In its papers, the Council argues that extension of time is warranted because of circumstances relating to its receipt of the Commissioner's decision and political changes in the Borough's administration. For the reasons that follow, we deny the Council's motion and dismiss the appeal.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.17, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. E.g., B.W., a minor child by his parents, J.W. AND B.W. V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BRIGANTINE AND SAFETY BUS SERVICE, decided by the State Board, November 4, 1987.

In this case, the Commissioner's decision was dated December 8, 1992, and the date of mailing indicates that it was mailed to the parties on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.2, the decision appealed from was deemed filed on December 11, and the Council was required to file its notice of appeal by January 11, 1993. See N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.1; N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.5. As stated, it did not file until January 21.

We reject the Council's argument that it should be excused from complying with the statutory time limit because it did not actually receive the Commissioner's decision until December 14. Even were we to consider this to be the filing date of the decision, the Council would have been required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 to file its notice of appeal by January 13. Again, it did not do so until January 21. In that we find nothing in any of the circumstances represented by the Council, including those relating to the change of administration, which would alter the statutory time period established by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, the State Board of Education dismisses this appeal.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, CHERRY HILL BUS COMPANY, UNIFIED BUS COMPANY, A&A CHARTER BUS, INC., AND RUDCO, INC.,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning bus company protested acceptance of bids and awarding of bus route contracts for 1991-92 school year, claiming respondent bus companies failed to include statament of noncollusion as required by N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.2(d)5 and that the district erred in waiving a requirement of the State Board of Education.

ALJ found no showing of fraud, bad faith or collusion, nor any indication of prejudice to the competitive bidding process, in either the successful bidders' actions or the District's decision to permit them to provide the required statement upon discovery of its omission, within approximately 48 hours of bid opening. Bids were found to be properly awarded and petition was dismissed.

Commissioner affirmed findings and determination of initial decision, stressing that the District did not waive a State Board regulation, but merely permitted correction of a non-material defect under circumstances and in a manner that in no way compromised free and competitive bidding.

Record Closed: September 15, 1992 Decided: October 22, 1992

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioner, University Bus Company, protesting the acceptance of bids and awarding of bus route contracts for the 1991-92 school year. The bids were accepted and awards made by respondent, State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (District), to the co-respondents listed above. The petitioner claims that the bids should have been invalidated because of the failure by respondents Cherry Hill Bus Company and Unified Bus Company to include a statement of noncollusion with their bids, as required by regulation.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education on September 27, 1991. It was accompanied by a notice of motion for emergent relief requesting that the respondents be restrained from entering into formal contracts for the bus transportation services. Petitioner also requested a stay of the operation and performance of such services pending the Commissioner's final decision. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 27, 1991, for disposition of the application for emergent relief and for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was held on the petitioner's emergent relief application on October 3, 1991. An oral decision, denying the application, was rendered on the same day, and a written order confirming the decision was filed on October 16, 1991. A copy of the order on application for emergent relief is attached to this decision in the Appendix.

Several unsuccessful status and settlement conferences were held thereafter, and hearing dates were fixed, allowing for the completion of discovery. It was then agreed that plenary testimony was not necessary, but that the matter could be heard on cross-motions for summary decision, based on a joint stipulation of uncontested facts.

On June 9, 1992, a consent order was entered permitting respondents Cherry Hill Bus Company, Unified Bus Company, and Rudco, Inc. to withdraw from this matter as parties respondent, based upon representations by the remaining parties that no damage claims would be sought against the withdrawn parties, and that the disputed bus transportation contracts would not be automatically renewed by the district for 1992-93, but would be rebid. (The 1991-92 bid specifications provided that the district had the option to renew for a second year.) The withdrawal of the parties was accepted.

Respondent A & A Charter Bus, Inc. never appeared in this matter at any stage of the proceeding, and no application was made by petitioner to compel an appearance by this respondent. This party is considered to have defaulted.

The stipulated facts and briefs were filed and oral argument was held on September 11, 1992, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark. The record closed on September 15, 1992.

FACTS

The material facts, partially taken from the parties' stipulation, are as follows:

1. University Bus Company conducts business at 93 Prospect Place, Hillsdale, New Jersey, and was and is a bus company engaged in the business of providing bus transportation services for public school system pupils.

2. The State-operated school district of the city of Paterson was in need of bus transportation services for pupils in its school district (for the 1991-92 school year).

3. On or about August 17, 1991, the district advertised and solicited bids for bus transportation for various bus routes.

4. The district issued specifications, bid forms, and a standard form questionnaire.

5. On or about August 27, 1991, the district received sealed bids. The petitioner was the second lowest bidder on 13 individual routes which were awarded to Cherry Hill Bus Company. The petitioner was the third lowest bidder on six other individual routes which were also awarded to Cherry Hill Bus Company.

6. Unified Bus Company was the lowest bidder for ten other bus routes and was awarded contracts for those routes.

7. After the various bids were opened, petitioner discovered that all of the bids submitted by Cherry Hill and Unified did not include a statement of noncollusion. Petitioner brought this to the attention of the district.

8. The district then asked Cherry Hill and Unified to submit statements of noncollusion, and they did so.

Additional enumerated stipulations of fact need not be repeated in their entirety, but are summarized below.

9. At the end of August 1991, petitioner communicated with the district and contended that the Cherry Hill and Unified bids were defective because of the failure to include statements of noncollusion when the bids were submitted and opened. In mid-September 1991, the district advised petitioner that the Cherry Hill and Unified bids would be accepted, and contracts were thereafter awarded to the two firms for the routes in which they were the lowest bidders.

Additional findings of fact (not stipulated) are as follows:

10. The omissions were unintentional and inadvertent.

11. Exercising its discretion, the board waived fulfillment of the noncollusion statement requirement as of the time the bids were opened, but asked for the statements to be submitted before the awards were made. That was complied with, and the omitted statements were filed within 48 hours after the bids were opened.

12. The awards followed.

13. The specifications, which had been approved by the Passaic County Superintendent of Schools, did not contain the noncollusion affidavit requirement, but the same is applicable as a requirement set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.2(d)5.

14. There is no allegation of bad faith on the part of those who omitted the statement of noncollusion.

15. No collusion has been alleged on the part of any of the respondents.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

> All purchases, contracts or agreements which require public advertisement for bids shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37.]

This general pronouncement has been defined and interpreted by the courts and the Legislature:

> The law is clear that bids must meet the terms of the notice. The significance of the expression "lowest bidder" is not restricted to the amount of the bid; it means also that the bid conforms with the specifications.
> [Hillside Twp. v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317, 324 (1957).]

> No bid shall be accepted which does not conform to the specifications furnished therefor. Nothing contained in this chapter shall be construed as depriving any board of education of the right to reject all bids.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22.]

N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-37 also states in pertinent part, that > the award thereof shall be made, in accordance with N.J.S. 18A:18A-3 or N.J.S. 18A:18A-4, as the case may be, on the basis of the lowest responsible quotation received, which quotation is most advantageous to the board of education, price and other factors considered. . . .

The petitioner does not contend that the respondent bidders failed to conform to the specification or that their bids were not lowest. However, certain statutes and regulations are superimposed upon individual specifications, by operation of law. N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.2 requires that certain procedures be followed in the submission of bids for pupil transportation. Among these requirements is N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.2(d)5, which states, "The bid shall also include . . . [a] statement of noncollusion."

In its argument, the petitioner succinctly stated the essential question in this matter: Is the omission of the statement of noncollusion capable of being waived or cured? The petitioner's position answers this question in the negative, for two reasons: First, that the inclusion of the statement of noncollusion in the bid is mandatory, and secondly, that the regulatory requirement is a material condition imposed on the specifications.

The petitioner has also cited the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.6(b), which states:

> A district board of education cannot impose new conditions and bidders cannot be allowed to change bids or make oral bids after they are opened. Specifications may not be modified after bids have been received, and the contract awarded to one of the bidders upon revised specifications.

The law is settled in that minor irregularities and immaterial variances in the form of the bid may be waived where they do not interfere with competitive bidding. Terminal Const. Corp. v. Atlantic County Sewerage Authority, 67 N.J. 403 (1975); Saturn Const. Co. v. Middlesex County Freeholders, 181 N.J. Super. 403 (App. Div. 1981). Where a governmental body receiving bids on public contracts reserves the right to waive minor irregularities and defects, there is no requirement to invalidate such bids, particularly when there is no showing of fraud, bad faith, or collusion. Township of River Vale v. R.J. Longo Construction Co., 127 N.J. Super. 207 (Law Div. 1974); George Harms Construction Co. v. Borough of Lincoln Park, 161 N.J. Super. 367 (Law Div. 1978). The same authorities indicate that material variations from advertised terms and conditions will result in invalidation of nonconforming bids. George Harms Construction Co., supra.

The courts of this State have developed a two-fold test to determine whether a bid is in material and substantial compliance with contract specifications. In Township of River Vale v. D.J. Longo Construction Co., supra, at 216, the court sets forth the following criteria:

> whether the effect of a waiver would be to deprive a municipality of its assurance that the contract will be entered into, performed and guaranteed according to its specified requirements and second, whether it [the bid irregularity] is of such a nature that its waiver would adversely affect competitive bidding by placing a bidder in a position of advantage over other bidders or by otherwise undermining the necessary common standard of competition.

The courts have further recognized a municipal body's discretionary authority in dealing with contract bid irregularities.

> Further, a municipal body has a greater function in dealing with irregularities in such matters than merely exercising a ministerial and perfunctory role. It has inherent discretionary power, and what is more, a duty to secure, through competitive bidding, the lowest responsible offer, and to effectuate that accomplishment it may waive minor irregularities.
> [Bryan Construction Co. v. Bd. of Trustees of the Free Public Library of the Town of Montclair, 31 N.J. Super. 200, 206 (App. Div. 1954).]

The prerogative of public body contracting units to resolve problems arising from insubstantial contract bid deviations in a sensible or practical way has also been recognized by the courts. See, Terminal Const. Corp. v. Atlantic City Sewerage Authority, supra.

The Commissioner of Education has stated, in connection with the bidding process and the issue of irregularities, that "the pivotal point is whether the lowest bid was materially and substantially in accord with the specifications." Aetna Supply, Inc. v. Bd. of Education of the City of Camden, 1971 S.L.D. 151.

While many disputes have been litigated that involve the ability of boards of education to waive or vary particular details contained in bid specifications, no decision has been made that deals with a delay in furnishing the statement of noncollusion, as here. In addition, the prior cases have not dealt with a failure or delay based on a regulatory requirement.

In Lucy George v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 1963 S.L.D. 218, a bidder failed to submit a prescribed form of questionnaire and accompanying schedule, as called for in the specifications. The questionnaire furnished information relating to the nature of the bond to be furnished, the extent and nature of the bidder's experience in school transportation, the bidder's familiarity with the conditions of the contract, and the name of the proposed driver and information relating to approval of the bus to be used by the county superintendent. The schedule to be attached called for precise information as to the description of the seating arrangement and length of each seat.

The Commissioner held that by granting a waiver of the above requirements, the local board was improperly relinquishing a specification imposed by the State Board of Education, and that the waiver permitted the bidder to supplement the bid in essential details. However, the Commissioner also noted that his strict position was in no sense inconsistent with the right of a board to waive a minor irregularity in the form of the bid, which is not material to the bid itself.

See also Belousofsky v. Board of Education of the City of Linden, 54 N.J Super 219 (App. Div. 1959).

In Marvec Allstate, Inc. v. Gray & Fear, Inc., 148 N.J. Super. 481 (App. Div. 1977), the low bidder inadvertently submitted a bond in the amount of $20,000 instead of the required $122,000. The proper bond was delivered a day later, and the board of education permitted the short-term waiver. The court upheld the award to the low bidder, despite the failure to submit the proper bond when the bids were opened The court noted that there was substantial compliance with the requirements and that the lowest responsible bidder was prepared to, and did, furnish sufficient security for its performance. It was further held that it was in the public interest that the bid, although irregular, be accepted. It was observed that the correction of the irregularity did not change the substance of the bid.

See also P. Michelotti & Sons, Inc. v. Fair Lawn, 56 N.J. Super. 199 (App. Div. 1959), where a certified check needed to be submitted with the bid. The low bidder's check was uncertified, but the error was later corrected with a certification. The court held that the defect could be waived and did not constitute a material departure or substantial variance from the bidding requirements.

The submission of an erroneous schedule was again considered by the court in In re Route 280 Contract, 179 N.J. Super. 280 (App. Div. 1981). A schedule of contracts on hand by the bidder as of September 30, 1980, was to be submitted with the bid. The low bidder's submission erroneously showed the status of its contracts on hand as of August 31, 1980, one month earlier than required by the bid specifications. Citing Marvec Allstate, supra, the court held that the deviation could be waived by the Commissioner. The Appellate Division noted that the error was inadvertent, not made in bad faith, and was promptly corrected. The omission did not substantially alter the bidder's ability to perform, and no prejudice was shown either to the other bidders or the public agency.

In Hillside Township v. Sternin, supra, 25 N.J. at 317, the New Jersey Supreme Court noted that a school board may waive minor, inconsequential, technical, or other such omissions and deviations from bidding specifications so long as the waiver does not prevent the spirit of the statute from being carried out and equitable results are obtained. In general, the function of bid specifications and the requirement to fully comply with them is derived from a concern for fairness and equality in bidding opportunity. While all bidders may not be the same -- having different capacities, levels of reliability, financial strength, etc. -- the bidding statutes are generally designed to provide all potential bidders with the same information, the same specifications and the same data upon which to compute their bids. So long as the essential equality of opportunity among prospective bidders is maintained, the courts have permitted the award of contracts to bidders whose submissions have, to some degree, deviated from the bid specifications.

In permitting public bodies to exercise discretion in the matter of irregularities, the Commissioner of Education has stated that "[t]he pivotal point is whether the lowest bid was materially and substantially in accord with the specifications." Aetna Supply, Inc. v. Bd. of Education of the City Camden, supra, 1971 S.L.D. at 154.

See also Trap Rock Industries v. Kohl, 59 N.J. 471 (1971); Young v. West Orange Redevelopment Agency, 125 N.J. Super. 440 (App. Div. 1973).

The question of whether a particular requirement in bid specifications or controlling regulations is material cannot always be answered with black-and-white inflexibility. The inquiry often needs to be fact-sensitive. In the instant matter, there was no showing of fraud, bad faith, or collusion. The competitive bidding process was not interfered with, and the lowest responsible bidder was produced. The waiver of the statement of noncollusion for approximately forty-eight hours did not prevent the spirit of the bidding statutes from being carried out. There were no variations from the substance, technical terms, or requirements of the bus transportation specifications themselves that would have placed one bidder at an advantage over another. The essential equality of opportunity among the bidders was maintained, even with the short-term waiver.

The statement of noncollusion provides some protection of the public interest in the integrity of the bidding process itself, but the requirement does not relate to the substance of the specifications or their details. Under the circumstances, prompt correction of the irregularity did not alter the substance or fairness of the bid, and the public received its assurance of noncollusion before the awards were made.

Therefore, although the requirement for a statement of noncollusion is capable of being material, the circumstances surrounding the late arrival of the statement in this case did not create a materially adverse effect on the bidding process. Under the circumstances, the lapse of time was not a substantial or consequential deviation that should invalidate the bidding process.

It is therefore CONCLUDED that the low bids accepted by the board and the contracts awarded thereon were proper and not in violation of applicable legal requirements. The board acted within its statutory authority in permitting the statements of noncollusion to be submitted as indicated above. The resulting awards were therefore not improper or contrary to law.

Based upon the above determination, any consideration relating to the question of damages, as argued by the parties, is moot.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RE: University Bus Company v. State-Operated School District of Paterson, Passaic County, Cherry Hill Bus Company, Unified Bus Company, A & A Charter Bus, Inc. and Rudco, Inc.
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9119-91

Dear Commissioner Ellis:

Enclosed please find a copy of an order entered regarding an application for emergency relief in the above-captioned matter. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(j), this order will become effective forty-five (45) days from the date of its entry unless, for good cause shown under N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8(e), the time period is extended by the joint action of the Director of the Office of Administrative Law and the agency head.

Very truly yours,

Arnold Samuels

ORDER ON APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9119-91

UNIVERSITY BUS COMPANY,

Petitioner,

v.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, CHERRY HILL BUS COMPANY, UNIFIED BUS COMPANY, A & A CHARTER BUS, INC., AND RUDCO, INC.,

Respondents.

Gary J. Cucchiara, Esq., for petitioner (Donovan & Cucchiara, attorneys)

Anthony Benevento, Esq., for respondents Cherry Hill Bus Company and Rudco, Inc. (Fontanella & Benevento, attorneys)

Russell Schumacher, Esq., for respondent State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County (Rand, Algier, Tosti & Woodruff, attorneys)

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This matter was opened by the attorney for petitioner, University Bus Company, on application for an order granting emergent relief, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. The relief sought requests a stay of an award of a bus contract or, in the alternative, rejection of the bids and an order directing new bids; for failure of respondent bus companies to submit a noncollusion form with their bids. The respondents, State - Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Cherry Hill Bus Company, and Rudco, Inc., appeared in opposition to the application. Memoranda were filed by the above-named respondent bus companies. The other respondents mentioned in the caption have not appeared.

Having reviewed the papers filed in support of and in opposition to the application and having heard oral argument on October 3, 1991, the following facts become apparent:

Respondent bus companies were low bidders on August 27, 1991, when the bids were opened. An award was made several days thereafter by the school district. Affidavits of noncollusion were omitted by the respondent bus companies at the time the bids were opened. These affidavits are required to be attached to submitted bids by virtue of N.J.A.C. 6:21-15.2(d). That requirement was incorporated by reference into the bid specifications, although the bid specifications did not particularly mention the requirement separately. The affidavits of noncollusion were filed approximately 48 hours, or two days, after the bids were opened, based upon the school district's indication that it would waive that requirement, which in its opinion, was immaterial at the time. Nevertheless, the affidavits were filed. The one condition attached to the waiver was that the affidavits should be filed before the awards were made. That was done.

Based on the preliminary evidence before me at this time, there was no showing of bad faith or collusion on the part of the bidders who omitted the affidavits. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the omission was inadvertent.

The routes that were awarded to the respondent bus companies have been in operation during the past four weeks, and the children of the City of Paterson, or those who are affected by these routes, are now, and have been over the past four weeks, being transported in accordance with these awards.

There was also no showing that any collusion was involved in the omission and, in fact, no collusion was alleged by the petitioner.

The granting of emergent relief is an extraordinary remedy which can only be granted based upon a showing that irreparable harm will result if it is not granted, and a further showing that there is a likelihood of success on the merits. There has been an allegation that economic loss will be visited upon the unsuccessful bidders simply by virtue of the fact that they do not have the business, and they therefore cannot earn profits.

I do not find that any further showing of harm by petitioner will result in other than a strictly economic loss, for which compensation would be available upon prevailing on the merits. It is noted that a substantial portion of the arguments of the parties were directed towards the merits. While that argument is necessary in order to build the framework for the application, it is the two elements mentioned above that are of primary importance in this application.

With respect to a showing of a likelihood of eventual success, it is concluded that, at best, the present record shows petitioner's chances of eventual success to be in equipoise, since the petitioner was not the lowest bidder, and the only potential for fraud or collusion appears to lie in the petitioner's allegation regarding the commonality of the omission of the noncollusion affidavit.

In addition, it is noted that if this application is granted, some harm and disruption might be visited upon the school children of the City of Paterson, who will suddenly find their bus transportation interrupted. Such a situation definitely would not be in the public interest.

Therefore, it is CONCLUDED that petitioner has not shown that immediate and irreparable harm will result if the requested emergent relief is not granted, nor has petitioner demonstrated a likelihood that it will prevail on the merits when the application is fully argued.

Therefore, it is ORDERED that the petitioner's application for emergent relief be DENIED. It is further ORDERED that the matter be scheduled for a full plenary hearing at the earliest possible opportunity in the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey.

This recommended order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of the Department of Education, who by law is empowered to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not so act in forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY, CHERRY HILL BUS COMPANY, UNIFIED BUS COMPANY, A&A CHARTER BUS, INC., AND RUDCO, INC.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, having been received on November 12, 1992, were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and are not addressed herein. No reply was filed by the District, the only remaining respondent as indicated at pp. 2-3 of the initial decision.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the bids awarded by the District herein were proper and not in violation of applicable law. In so determining, the Commissioner stresses that the District did not waive the State Board regulation at issue; it merely permitted the low bidder to correct a non-material technical deficiency in a manner which honored the intent of law and regulation and in no way disadvantaged other bidders.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 9, 1992

Referred to the State Board of Education by the Appellate Division, May 27, 1993

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Torre & Torre (Joseph R. Torre, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson, Wolff, Helies & Duggan (John M. Walsh, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondents-Respondents Cherry Hill Bus Company, Unified Bus, Inc., and Rudco, Inc., Fontanella & Benevento (Anthony Benevento, Esq., of Counsel)

On December 9, 1992, the Acting Commissioner of Education dismissed the petition filed in this matter by University Bus Company (hereinafter "petitioner"), an unsuccessful bidder who challenged the acceptance of bids and awarding of bus route contracts for the 1991-92 school year by the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson (hereinafter "District").[1]

[1] We note that respondents Cherry Hill Bus Company, Unified Bus Company and Rudco, Inc. were permitted to withdraw as parties during proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") and that respondent A & A Charter Bus, Inc. was considered by the ALJ to have defaulted.

JAN 5 1994

Petitioner alleged that the bids should have been invalidated for failure to include a statement of noncollusion as required by regulation. The Acting Commissioner adopted the determination of the Administrative Law Judge that the bids awarded by the district were proper and not in violation of applicable law, stressing that "the District did not waive the State Board regulations at issue; it merely permitted the low bidder to correct a non-material technical deficiency in a manner which honored the intent of law and regulation and in no way disadvantaged other bidders." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 13.

Petitioner appealed to the State Board of Education from the decision of the Acting Commissioner, faxing its notice of appeal dated January 13, 1993 on that date. Counsel for petitioner was notified in a telephone call that day from the State Board Appeals Office that the appeal was filed two days late and would therefore be referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of the effect of petitioner's failure to file timely notice. He was also advised that while a fax copy may be used to establish a filing date, he was required to provide the State Board with a notice of appeal with an original signature.

That conversation was subsequently confirmed in a letter to counsel for petitioner in which he was again notified that the appeal had been due on or before January 11 and that the matter was being referred to the Legal Committee for consideration of the effect of petitioner's failure to file timely notice. He was given until February 8 to file an affidavit setting forth the circumstances of the late filing. He was also reminded of the necessity of filing a signed original copy of the notice of appeal and advised that he was required to file a substitution of attorney since he was not the attorney of record in the proceedings below.

On January 21, however, counsel for petitioner faxed a letter to the State Board in which he advised that "my client desires to appeal this matter to the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division as it is strictly a question of law. Our offices will re-notice you with a copy of that notice of appeal accordingly." On January 25, the State Board received a copy of an appeal dated January 22 which had been filed by petitioner directly to the Appellate Division from the decision of the Acting Commissioner in this matter. Accordingly, by letter dated January 26, the Counsel to the State Board acknowledged the withdrawal of petitioner's appeal to the State Board.

On May 7, 1993, the Attorney General's office filed a motion with the Appellate Division on behalf of the Department of Education (hereinafter "Department") to dismiss the appeal filed by petitioner in that court "for failure to timely apply for leave to appeal [to the Appellate Division] from an interlocutory decision and for failure to exhaust administrative remedies."[2] Motion to Dismiss, at 1. The Department argued therein that petitioner's direct appeal to the Appellate Division from a decision of the Acting Commissioner "thwarts the statutory scheme, enacted by the Legislature and endorsed by the Appellate Division, which makes the State Board of Education the ultimate administrative decision-maker for controversies arising under the school laws." Id. at 3. Accordingly, the Department argued, petitioner's appeal to the 2 We note that the Department of Education has respondent status in cases on appeal from that agency to the Appellate Division.

Appellate Division was interlocutory and, pursuant to the rules governing practice and procedure in that court, was untimely. The Department further argued that "[a]llowing University Bus to bypass the State Board of Education and secure judicial review of an interlocutory decision would undermine the integrity of the administrative system established by the Legislature and contravene the rule of administrative exhaustion which ensures that claims will be heard, as a preliminary matter, by the body having expertise in the area." Id. at 5. In a paragraph at the conclusion of its brief, the Department added that, in addition to having its appeal dismissed, petitioner should also be precluded from obtaining State Board review by remand because of its failure to file its appeal to the State Board in a timely manner.

In response to said motion, petitioner argued that the Department should be precluded from seeking further administrative review. Petitioner contended that its appeal to the Appellate Division from the decision of the Acting Commissioner should be considered an appeal from a final agency decision, arguing that "the necessity for exhaustion of administrative remedies and further administrative appeal was futile." Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss, at 5. Petitioner did not address, argue or provide any justification for its late filing before the State Board.

On May 27, 1993, the court issued an order on the motion as follows, in full:

> The motion to dismiss is denied. The case is referred to the New Jersey State Board of Education without prejudice. Jurisdiction is not retained.

In light of such referral, the Counsel to the State Board notified the parties in a letter dated August 3 that the Legal Committee was again providing them with the opportunity to address the effect of petitioner's failure to file an appeal to the State Board within the 30-day statutory time limit. The parties were given until August 25 to file briefs addressing that issue.

In a letter brief dated August 10, the District argued that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed for untimely filing. Council for petitioner, however, did not file a brief, contending in a letter dated August 11 that "[t]he issues you are requesting I re-argue in your letter of August 3, 1993 have already been presented and decided by the Appellate Court." He requested that the State Board "reschedule a hearing on the merits of this case."

By letter dated August 16, 1993, the Counsel to the State Board reiterated that the parties were being afforded the opportunity to file briefs addressing the effect of petitioner's failure to file its appeal to the State Board within the statutory time limit. Petitioner's counsel was informed that "in the event that you choose not to file any other letter brief, we will consider your letter of August 11 to be the extent of your arguments on this question."

Counsel for petitioner responded by letter dated August 19, stating that the issue of petitioner's late filing had been determined by the Appellate Division and that "the Department of Education simply seeks a 'second bite at the apple.'" Counsel for petitioner again failed to provide any justification for or circumstances surrounding the late filing or to file a brief addressing that issue.

By letter dated August 24, Counsel for the State Board confirmed a telephone conversation in which counsel for petitioner had argued that the State Board did not have the jurisdiction to consider the effect of petitioner's failure to file its appeal within the statutory time period and had also challenged the requirement that he provide the State Board with 17 copies of a brief. Counsel for the State Board pointed out that the education regulations required parties before the State Board to file an original and 17 copies of their briefs. She further stated:

> Secondly, as I indicated in my letters of August 3 and August 16, the State Board will consider the effect on your appeal of the fact that it was not filed within the 30 day statutory time limit applicable to appeals to the State Board. Although the Appellate Division's Order does not on its face decide this issue, any argument with respect to jurisdiction should properly be made in your briefs so that it may be considered.
> In view of your apparent unfamiliarity with this forum, we are again extending the time limit in order to afford you the opportunity to put forward your arguments. Accordingly, please file an original and 17 copies of all arguments you wish to be considered by September 9, 1993. If you choose to forgo this opportunity, the State Board will have no choice but to proceed to consider the matter without benefit of your response.

By letter dated September 8, counsel for petitioner asserted:

> In response to your letter of August 24, 1993, your apparent unfamiliarity with the Appellate Division and the Res judicata effect of an Order issued therefrom is troubling. I state this in light of your conclusion "... the Appellate Division's Order does not on its face decide this issue...", which statement was made in your letter of August 24, 1993.
>
> I am sure you did not expect the Appellate Division's Order to fully regurgitate the arguments raised by the Attorney General on behalf of the Department of Education to dismiss my client's appeal for the same reasons which you now convene your Board to consider.

Counsel for petitioner attached copies of previous correspondence, but again failed to offer the circumstances surrounding the late filing or to file a brief arguing petitioner's position on that issue.

After a thorough review of the record, including all correspondence from petitioner's counsel, we dismiss the appeal in this matter.

We reject petitioner's contention that the Appellate Division's order of May 27, 1993 on the Department's motion to dismiss precluded the State Board from addressing petitioner's failure to file its appeal to the State Board within the statutory time limit.[3] The motion to dismiss filed by the Department was expressly predicated on petitioner's "failure to timely apply for leave to appeal [to the Appellate Division] from an interlocutory decision and for failure to exhaust administrative remedies." Brief in Support of Motion to Dismiss, at 1.

In response to that motion, petitioner argued that its appeal to the Appellate Division was a final appeal pursuant to R. 2:2-3(2) based upon the record and that if the decision below were deemed to be interlocutory, leave to appeal to the Appellate Division should be granted nunc pro tunc since the notice of appeal to the court was filed within the time frame required for appeals from final judgments. Petitioner did not address the issue of its untimely filing before the State Board or provide any of the circumstances surrounding that filing, except to acknowledge that the time for that appeal "may have run." Brief in Opposition to Motion to Dismiss, at 5.

Given the nature and content of the motion and briefs before the court, which dealt with a request to dismiss the appeal for failure to exhaust administrative remedies, and the wording of the order issued, we find entirely without merit petitioner's contention that the court rendered a determination on the timeliness of petitioner's appeal to the State Board.

Without addressing the substantive and procedural issues raised by petitioner's withdrawn appeal to the State Board, the court simply "referred" this matter to the State Board. See R. 1:13-4(a) ("...if any court is without jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action or issue therein..., it shall, on motion or on its own initiative, order the action ... transferred to the proper court or administrative agency, if any, in the State"). That order did not expressly or by fair implication determine the effect of petitioner's failure to file timely notice of appeal to the State Board. Nor did the court remand this case to us for consideration of the merits of the appeal. Although the Department made brief reference to petitioner's untimely appeal to the State Board, the basis for its motion to dismiss was that petitioner, in appealing directly to the Appellate Division from a decision of the Commissioner, had failed to comply with statutory and judicial mandates. Indeed, petitioner's response to that motion did not address the timeliness of its appeal to the State Board or provide any of the circumstances surrounding that filing.[4] Consequently, we conclude that the order issued by the Appellate Division referring this matter to the State Board did not preclude our consideration of petitioner's failure to comply with the statutory time limit. We turn then to a review of that issue.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." The State Board may not grant extensions. N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.5(a). In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2; N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. E.g., B.W., a minor child by his parents, J.W. and B.W. v. Board of Education of the City of Brigantine and Safety Bus Service, decided by the State Board of Education, November 4, 1987.

In this case, the Acting Commissioner's decision was rendered on December 9, 1992 and mailed to the parties on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4, the decision appealed from was filed on December 12. Therefore, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, see N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.3(a); N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4(a), as [4] We note that the Appellate Division has strictly applied the statutory time limit for appeals to the State Board. In Yorke v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, decided by the State Board of Education, July 6, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-5912-87T1 (App. Div. 1989), the court upheld the dismissal of an appeal by the State Board where it found that the notice of appeal had been filed one day late by appellant's counsel who alleged that he had misread or misunderstand the applicable regulations. The court added that even if the statute could be construed to permit enlargement of the time for filing an appeal, the appellant therein had failed to establish good cause.

computed under N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.4(b), petitioner was required to file a notice of appeal on or before January 11, 1993. Petitioner faxed a notice of appeal dated January 13, 1993 to the State Board of Education on that date. In that the appeal was filed two days late, the matter was referred to the Legal Committee for consideration of the effect of petitioner's failure to file timely notice.

Counsel for petitioner was notified of such referral on the day the appeal was filed and on several occasions thereafter, and provided with considerable opportunity to respond thereto. He has failed to provide an affidavit setting forth the circumstances of the filing or to file a brief in support of his position that the State Board was precluded from considering that issue. Nor has he alleged at any time that the notice of appeal was filed in a timely fashion. We conclude that the statutory filing requirement with which petitioner failed to comply is of such significance that we dismiss the appeal in this matter. See Yorke, supra.

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 can be construed to provide us with the authority to enlarge the time limit for filing an appeal, we find no substantive basis in the record before us for relaxing such requirement in this particular instance. Despite being provided with repeated opportunities to do so, petitioner, as noted, has failed to provide any indication of the circumstances surrounding its filing or justification of any kind for filing beyond the statutory time limit. Nor do we find this case to present us with a matter of public importance or with substantive issues of transcendent importance warranting a determination on the merits.

We note in addition that, although petitioner argued before the Appellate Division that further administrative appeal would be futile, it did indeed file an appeal with the State Board, but withdrew that appeal shortly after being notified that it was untimely.[5] To allow petitioner's appeal under the circumstances presented herein would be to sanction facile contravention of the statutory filing requirements.

Accordingly, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to file notice thereof within the statutory time limit as computed under the applicable regulations.[6]

Attorney exceptions are noted.

5 We note that this case does not present a situation in which a party filed an appeal directly to the Appellate Division from a decision of the Commissioner within the statutory time period for appeals to the State Board.

6 We note that, in its exceptions to our Legal Committee's report in this matter, petitioner contends for the first time in these proceedings that its appeal to the State Board was timely filed. We find no support for this contention. As petitioner's counsel was notified on January 13, 1993 when he filed the notice of appeal, such notice was due on January 11, thirty days after the Commissioner's decision was filed, which is deemed to be three days after its mailing date. Petitioner withdrew such appeal shortly thereafter and did not, at any time in the subsequent proceedings, question or contest such due date. Moreover, we reject as entirely without merit petitioner's exception raising for the first time circumstances surrounding its late filing. Such facts are not in the record and, in any event, we find that they do not modify our decision herein in any way.

Record Closed: November 16, 1992 Decided: December 1, 1992

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter constitutes a tenure proceeding pertaining to charges brought by the Elizabeth Board of Education (Board or petitioner) against Dominic Parisi (respondent) of unbecoming conduct, sexual harassment, and insubordination. The charges essentially focused on allegations of harassment by respondent, who is the Executive Principal of Elizabeth High School (School), of a nontenured teacher at the School and alleged insubordination regarding a change in the classroom assignment of the complainant. The alleged incidents occurred in the summer of 1990 and continued through December 1990. Respondent has at all times denied the substance of the charges and denied any wrongdoing on his part.

Tenure charges were filed against respondent with the Board on October 11, 1991. A copy of the charges and a statement of supporting evidence were delivered to Mr. Parisi on October 11, 1991. Respondent submitted a written statement of position and evidence to the Board on October 25, 1991. On November 7, 1991, petitioner considered the charges and evidence and determined to certify the charges to the Commissioner of the State Department of Education (Department) for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. Respondent was suspended with pay upon the filing of the charges.

The matter was transmitted by the Department to the Office of Administrative Law on December 16, 1991, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Telephone conferences were conducted on February 11, 1992; July 20, 1992; September 2, 1992; September 23, 1992; October 2, 1992 and October 16, 1992. This judge issued orders on discovery and on motions for summary decision on July 11, 1992 and July 16, 1992, respectively.

Hearings were initially scheduled for April 1993 and were rescheduled for October and November 1992. In-person conferences were conducted on October 29, and November 16, 1992. On the latter date, the parties finalized a resolution of the matter and executed a document entitled "Retirement Agreement" (Agreement), which constitutes a stipulation of settlement. Mr. Parisi testified on November 16, 1992 that he understood the terms of the Retirement Agreement and voluntarily agreed to it. The record was closed on November 16, 1992. Attached herewith is a copy of the Retirement Agreement, as well as a statement which is referenced and incorporated in the Retirement Agreement.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The Retirement Agreement articulates Findings of Fact and a purpose of the Agreement, which address the procedural history of the matter, certain relevant facts, and the terms of the Agreement. The Findings of Fact referenced in the Agreement are adopted herein.

As noted hereinabove, Mr. Parisi is Executive Principal of the School. As set forth in the Agreement, he is now sixty-three years of age and has been employed by the Board since 1961.

The Agreement sets forth the terms of respondent's retirement, which is the focus of the Retirement Agreement. Respondent has agreed to tender his retirement as Executive Principal of the School on December 31, 1992, effective on March 1, 1993. Monies contractually due him from petitioner are reflected, such monies pertaining to contractually accumulated sick days, accumulated vacation days, missed milestones, and unpaid salary due, retroactive to 1989-90. The Retirement Agreement explicitly provides that Mr. Parisi shall receive no consultant fees, bonuses, or severance payments and that he will obtain no more than he was entitled to by contract as a Board employee. In addition, both parties agree to bear their own costs and attorney fees in connection with the current matter.

The Retirement Agreement recognizes that respondent has certain pension benefits due him unrelated to the monies due from petitioner. The Board agrees to refrain from any action which could interfere with Mr. Parisi's receipt of pension benefits due him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 to -205. The Agreement reflects that respondent will retire at a salary of $92,135.00, effective July 1, 1992. The computation of this figure is set forth in more detail in the Agreement. The Agreement recognizes that its effectuation is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of the Department and explicitly states that all payments which come due under the Agreement prior to the Commissioner's approval shall be paid to the trust account of respondent's counsel.

The Agreement also provides that it shall have no effect on any life insurance benefits or obligations currently owed to Mr. Parisi by the Board. Finally, the Board agrees to recommend the dismissal of the tenure charges filed against respondent on October 11, 1991, recognizes that the filing and dismissal of these charges will not give rise to a cause of action on the part of either party against the other, and recognizes that the Agreement is not an admission of guilt by respondent nor an admission by the Board that the charges are not meritorious.

The voluntary resolution of litigation through settlement is favored. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 25 N.J. 17 (1957); Honeywell v. Bubb, 130 N.J. Super. 130 (App. Div. 1974). I am persuaded that the Retirement Agreement should be adopted. Respondent is at the end of his career with the Board, after having served some thirty years in the Elizabeth School District. Litigation of this matter was likely to be lengthy. As the statement notes, the filing of the charges in question generated publicity and divided the community, and such divisiveness and negative publicity could be expected to recur during litigation. The expenses of litigation would be borne by the parties, as well as, in part, taxpayers. Potential witnesses included not only respondent and complainant, but other employees of the District. The Board anticipates immediately beginning the process of seeking a replacement for Mr. Parisi and moving ahead with plans to consider restructuring the School.

As noted, respondent agrees pursuant to the Agreement to tender his retirement on December 31, 1992, effective on March 1, 1993. He will receive no monies to which he is not contractually entitled. It is noteworthy, as discussed, that Mr. Parisi will receive no consultant fees, bonuses, severance payments, or costs. Based upon a review of the Retirement Agreement and Mr. Parisi's testimony on November 16, 1992, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDERS

I CONCLUDE that the tenure charges filed against respondent by the Board on October 11, 1991 should be DISMISSED and that the Retirement Agreement should be adopted.

It is hereby ORDERED that the attached Retirement Agreement be and is hereby APPROVED and that the parties comply with the Agreement. It is also hereby ORDERED that the tenure charges filed by petitioner against respondent on October 11, 1991 be and are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RETIREMENT AGREEMENT

Retirement Agreement made this 16th day of November 1992, by and between Dominic Parisi ("Parisi"), Executive Principal of Elizabeth High School, Elizabeth, New Jersey, and the Elizabeth Board of Education ("the Board").

STIPULATED FACTS

The following facts are hereby agreed and stipulated to by the undersigned parties:

On October 11, 1991, tenure charges were brought against Parisi alleging unbecoming conduct and insubordination. The Board certified these charges to the Commissioner of Education for hearing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Parisi has at all times denied the substance of the charges and denied any wrongdoing on his part. The Board and Parisi have both agreed to settle this matter as per this agreement. This agreement is not an admission of guilt by Parisi nor an admission by the Board that the charges are not meritorious and should be construed as neither.

PURPOSE

The purpose of this agreement is to set forth the terms of Dominic Parisi's retirement.

It is hereby agreed and declared as follows:

1. Parisi, age 63, is the Executive Principal of Elizabeth High School and has been employed by the Board since 1961.

2. As part of this agreement, Parisi will tender his retirement as Executive Principal of Elizabeth High School on December 31, 1992, effective on March 1, 1993, thereby concluding his 30-year career in New Jersey public education.

3. Certain monies are contractually due Parisi from the Board of Education. These monies represent contractually accumulated sick days, accumulated vacation days, missed milestones (totalling $54,460.00) and unpaid salary due, retroactive to the year 1989-90 (totalling $28,877.00). Half of this money is payable on or before December 20, 1992 and the other half is payable on or before March 1, 1993. The Board agrees to pay, and Parisi agrees to accept, as payment in full of all monies that are owed him, the payment set forth in this agreement.

4. Parisi shall receive no consultant fees, bonuses or severance payments. This agreement gives Parisi no more than he was entitled to by contract as a Board employee.

5. Parisi has certain pension benefits due him which are unrelated to the monies due from the Elizabeth Board of Education. The Board of Education agrees to refrain from any action which could interfere with Parisi's receipt of pension benefits due under N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1, et seq.

6. Parisi will retire at a salary of $92,135.00, which is effective July 1, 1992. This adjustment in pay will take effect on December 1, 1992. During his last year of employment, Parisi's compensation will total $90,397.00. This compensation figure of $90,397.00 will be the basis for the computation of his retirement allowance, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-71. It is computed by adding his pay for the period of July 1, 1992 to March 1, 1993 at the rate of $92,135.00 per annum to his pay for the period from March 1, 1992 to June 30, 1992 at the rate of $86,920.00 per annum.

7. This agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education. All payments which come due prior to the Commissioner's approval shall be paid to the trust account of McCreedy & Cox, to be held there until approval is obtained and to be returned to the Board if approval is not obtained.

8. The Board and Parisi will bear their own costs and attorneys' fees in connection with this matter.

9. This agreement shall have no effect on any life insurance benefits or obligations currently owed Parisi by the Board.

10. As part of this agreement, the Board will recommend the dismissal of the tenure charges filed against Parisi on October 11, 1991. The filing and dismissal of these charges shall not be construed to give rise to a cause of action on the part of either party against the other.

11. The attached statement will be released on November 16, 1992. The statement is a mutual release and represents the official position of the Board and Parisi.

STATEMENT

The Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth and Dominic Parisi hereby jointly issue the following statement.

Dominic Parisi has been employed by the Elizabeth Board of Education since 1961. In 1971, he became Principal of Battin High School. After the merger of Battin High School and Thomas Jefferson High School, he was appointed Principal of the newly formed Elizabeth High School in 1976. In 1982, he was named Executive Principal, and thereafter served in that capacity. After serving the Elizabeth schools for 30 years, Mr. Parisi planned to retire in 1991 or 1992.

On October 11, 1991, charges were filed against Mr. Parisi by the Elizabeth Board of Education which sought the termination of his tenure. These charges were based upon an allegation by an Elizabeth High School teacher that she had been sexually harassed by Mr. Parisi. A second charge alleged insubordination on the part of Mr. Parisi. Mr. Parisi was suspended with pay upon the filing of these charges.

The filing of these charges divided the community and generated a great deal of publicity which disrupted the normal educational activity of Elizabeth High School. Mr. Parisi has steadfastly denied the validity of these charges and his accusers have also continued to assert the correctness of their position.

As the date approached for the commencement of Mr. Parisi's tenure hearing, it became evident that the publicity which would attend those hearings would again disrupt Elizabeth High School, and detract from the purpose of the school -- the education of its students. In addition, it became clear that a fully contested hearing, and attendant appeal, would be extraordinarily expensive, with part of the cost to be borne by the taxpayers.

The Board of Education is committed to making Elizabeth High School the best high school in New Jersey. Dominic Parisi has devoted the last 16 years to that goal. Both parties believe that the students of Elizabeth High School should be spared the unwelcome publicity and divisiveness that would attend such hearings. The parties also wish to spare the witnesses the inconvenience of testifying at a hearing. In light of these facts, the Board has determined that it will recommend the dismissal of the tenure charges against Mr. Parisi. Subject to the approval of this recommendation by the Commissioner of Education, Mr. Parisi will retire as Principal of Elizabeth High School on December 31, 1992, effective March 1, 1993.

Thereafter, it is the fervent hope of both parties that these actions will serve to refocus the administration and faculty on the education of the students at Elizabeth High School. The Board will immediately begin the process of seeking a replacement for Mr. Parisi and hopes to have a successor as soon as possible. It will also press ahead with its recently announced plans to consider restructuring of the High School.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning janitor and Employee Association questioned Board's right pursuant to Board Policy No. 822 to transfer petitioner from one location and work shift to another when his relative was promoted to head custodian. Petitioner was employed since 1985 and claimed protection by Policy No. 822's "grandfather clause."

ALJ found, in addition to Policy No. 822 (Nepotism), Board Policy No. 405 vested in Board Secretary/Business Administrator the unfettered right to transfer nonprofessional staff. ALJ found since supervisory relationship occurred after adoption of Policy No. 822, petitioner did not qualify for grandfather provision as policy, even absent clause, had only prospective application. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ that Board was correct in relying upon Policy No. 822 before amendment when effecting petitioner's transfer. Commissioner held plan reading of Policy No. 822 indicates grandfather clause applied to neither petitioner nor his relative. Therefore Board's determination to transfer petitioner to different shift and job site was appropriate based on policy's intent to prevent the appearance of a conflict between supervisors and staff who are related. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE JOSEPH E. KANE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent school district transferred petitioner, a custodian, to a different job location and changed his work hours. Petitioner objected to this action and requested that the matter be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. A hearing was conducted at the Atlantic City OAL, 1201 Bacharach Boulevard, Atlantic City, New Jersey on August 18, 1992. The record was held open until September 18, 1992 in order to permit the filing of post hearing briefs. A decision was rendered on October 28, 1992.

ISSUE

The sole issue in this matter is whether the school board's policies give it the unfettered right to transfer petitioner from one location and work shift to another.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Petitioner has been a custodian for the Greater Egg Harbor Regional School District, Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the District) since 1985. The District does not question petitioner's qualifications to perform his job duties. On the contrary, petitioner has an excellent work history with the District. Instead, the issue is whether the District has the unfettered right to transfer the petitioner from one job site and shift assignment to another.

The District argues that it has the right to effect such a transfer based upon two school board policies, Policy 405 and 822. The petitioner claims that pursuant to Policy 822, he is protected by that policy's "grandfather clause" and as such, he should not have been transferred.

The facts in this matter are not in dispute. Petitioner has been employed by the District as a custodian since March 13, 1985. From his date of hire, until November 17, 1991 petitioner was assigned to the Absegami High School, second shift. From May 1985 through September 16, 1991, Robert Burroughs, petitioner's brother-in-law was employed as a custodian at Absegami High School. On September 16, 1991 Robert Burroughs was promoted to Head Custodian which is a supervisory position. In this new title, Robert Burroughs became petitioner's supervisor. Mr. Burroughs and petitioner have been related by marriage since October 17, 1984.

On June 24, 1991, the District adopted Board Policy No. 822 entitled Nepotism. This policy was enacted without previous negotiations with the Absegami Employee Association.

Shortly after Robert Burroughs promotion, the Board Secretary Ralph Martin became aware that petitioner and Robert Burroughs were related by marriage. Utilizing Board Policy No. 822, the District unilaterally and involuntarily transferred petitioner from Absegami High School custodial shift number two (7:00 A.M. to 3:00 P.M.) to the Oakcrest High School, custodial shift number three (3:00 P.M. to 11:00 P.M.). Since the date of this transfer, petitioner has been assigned to Oakcrest High School, custodial shift number three and Robert Burroughs has remained assigned to the second shift at Absegami High School.

Petitioner was notified of the transfer by memo dated October 30, 1991 from Ralph Martin. Thereafter, the Oakcrest/Absegami Employee's Association filed a grievance objecting to petitioner's transfer. This grievance was rejected by Mr. Martin in a letter dated November 12, 1991 which states in relevant part:

> The intent of the Policy is to prohibit administrative or supervisory staff from supervising staff members in a line relationship that are related by blood or marriage.
>
> Since Mr. Burroughs appointment on September 16, 1991 as Mr. Farrow's supervisor (relationship/marriage) was subsequent to the Board's Policy adopted June 24, 1991, then Paragraph 5 of Policy 822 governs this matter. Mr. Burroughs was not regularly employed as a supervisor prior to the adoption of Policy.
>
> Based upon the intent and declaration of Policy 822, this grievance is denied.

There are no written standards involving job site transfers other than instances of nepotism which is covered by Board Policy 822. This Policy has never been implemented against any other employee other than the petitioner.

On April 13, 1992, the District amended Policy 822 to delete the "grandfather" provision. The rationale for the deletion of the grandfather clause was that based upon the language of the policy, the grandfather clause was redundant. The District never utilized the grandfather clause while it was in effect.

Petitioner does not object to the transfer on the grounds that his job duties have been increased or changed or that he is commuting a further distance. Instead, he opposes the transfer because it requires that he work during a time period that his son is out of school and home alone. Petitioner received custody of his son from his wife because she was having difficulty disciplining him. With the new transfer, he is no longer home in the afternoon and he feels he is not providing his son with proper guidance and supervision.

Petitioner contends that pursuant to the grandfather clause in Board Policy 822, he should have been exempted from the dictates of the policy and as a result, his transfer should be negated. Respondent counters that based upon two policies, it has the unfettered right to transfer petitioner to a different location and work shift. In addition, the District claims that petitioner's transfer was in keeping with the intent and dictates of Board Policy 822 since petitioner was not in violation of that Policy until several months after its adoption.

Policy 822 states in relevant part:

> Persons related by blood or marriage to a member of the administrative or supervisory staff shall not be appointed to a position that is in a line relationship involving supervision and evaluation of the position.
>
> It is the intent of this policy to avoid any situation where there can arise the appearance of a conflict of interest either on the part of a member of the Board or a member of the administrative or supervisory staff.
>
> When necessary, the transfer of a staff member to another position, for which the member is qualified, shall be utilized to comply with the intent of this policy.

The grandfather clause of Policy 822 that was subsequently deleted stated in relevant part:

> This shall not apply to any person within such relationships who has been regularly employed by the board prior to the inception of the relationship, the adoption of this policy, or a board member's election.

This grandfather clause was deleted because the policy on its face stated that any conflicts from the date of its adoption forward were to be dealt with and accordingly, the District considered the grandfather clause to be surplusage and to only confuse the policy.

In addition to Policy 822, Mr. Martin testified that Board Policy 405, which was adopted by the District in 1977, vests in the Board's secretary the unfettered right to transfer nonprofessional staff. This policy states in pertinent part:

> The judicious placement of employees within the district is concomitant to the employment of qualified and competent personnel for the successful functioning of the district. Responsibility for the assignment and transfer of non-instructional employees shall be vested in the Board Secretary/Business Administrator.

The Management Agreement states in pertinent part:

> Notice of an involuntary transfer (i.e., either a change from school-to-school, change of shift assignment or a change i job assignment or a totally different assignment, i.e., cafeteria worker to secretary or custodian, etc.) shall be given to an employee as soon as practicable. If requested, a conference with the Board Secretary-Business Administrator will be provided prior to such transfer or if not feasible, within forty eight (48) hours of becoming effective.

I FIND that petitioner's argument that he qualifies for the grandfather provision of Policy 822 to be without merit. Petitioner was related by marriage to Mr. Burroughs prior to the adoption of Policy 822, however, he was not supervised by Mr. Burroughs until after the adoption of the policy. The policy, even absent the grandfather clause, has only prospective application. The supervisory relationship occurred after adoption of the policy and accordingly, the intent of Policy 822 applies to the petitioner.

Petitioner next argues that Policy 822 does not apply since he was not "appointed" to a position as set forth in the policy. This argument ignores the intent and purpose of this legislation. Specifically, Policy 822 contains language which permits the district to transfer an employee when the spirit and intent of the policy is being violated.

> When necessary, the transfer of a staff member to another position, for which the member is qualified, shall be utilized to comply with the intent of this policy.

In order to give full and effective meaning to the intent of this policy, this language cannot be ignored. To do so would thwart the intent of the policy which is to avoid nepotism.

Overlaying Policy 822 and entirely consistent with Policy 822 is Policy 405. This latter policy gives the absolute and unfettered right to transfer staff. The only restriction on Policy 405 is that such a transfer cannot violate Policy 822.

I herein CONCLUDE that the District was correct in relying upon Policy 822 when effecting petitioner's transfer. As such, I herein DISMISS the within petition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

JAMES FARROW AND OAKCREST/ ABSEGAMI EMPLOYEE ASSOCIATION, PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE GREATER EGG HARBOR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Said exceptions essentially mirror those arguments which were fully developed in petitioners' post-hearing submission, and which were fully addressed by the ALJ. Briefly, petitioners except to the ALJ's reliance upon Board Policy No. 822 as amended on April 13, 1992, as a basis for sustaining the Board's transfer of Petitioner Farrow, noting that the amended Policy No. 822 deleted the grandfather clause. Petitioners claim the Board had not taken any formal action against Farrow with respect to revised Policy No. 822.

Petitioners further claim the ALJ erred in relying on Board Policy No. 405 as a basis for his decision because the Board never mentioned it as a reason for Petitioner Farrow's transfer, the Board having only mentioned Policy No. 822 as its explanation for transferring him. Petitioners claim the Board first raised Policy No. 405 at hearing, and they claim Farrow had a right to know the basis for his tranfer at the time of notification of his transfer. They aver that if the Board considered Policy No. 405 in its decision to transfer Farrow, then his due process rights and the Open Public Meetings Act were violated, since the Board did not provide advance notice.

Additionally, petitioners again raise their contention that the ALJ misapplied Policy No. 822, particularly the second and fifth sentences of the policy, in transferring Petitioner Farrow, arguing that Farrow's promoted uncle (earlier reference to Mr. Burroughs indicates that he is Farrow's brother-in-law) should have been transferred, not Farrow. Petitioners claim the policy protects Petitioner Farrow because he was regularly employed prior to the inception of the supervisory relationship and the adoption of the policy. Moreover, petitioners submit that the ALJ erred in not applying the intent of the grandfather clause to Farrow, arguing that while it is the intent of Policy No. 822 to avoid nepotism, it is also the intent of the policy to exclude certain people from its application, and Farrow falls within that category of those persons protected.

Finally, petitioners advance the position that the ALJ erred by taking words, phrases and sentences out of the context of Policy No. 822, which policy they aver was written haphazardly and imprecisely. They argue that the ALJ ignored the exemption and protection provided Petitioner Farrow by the grandfather clause from any involuntary transfer. Consequently, petitioners seek reversal of the initial decision.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this case, the Commissioner affirms the dismissal of the instant Petition of Appeal, but for the reasons which follow.

Exhibit J-1, Policy No. 822, adopted June 24, 1991, was in effect at the time of the Board's action on September 16, 1991, promoting Mr. Borroughs, a relative by marriage of Petitioner Farrow, to a supervisory position, and at the time it transferred Petitioner Farrow to a different job site and shift as a custodian on October 30, 1991, effective November 18, 1991. As relied on by the ALJ in his decision at page 4, said policy contained five paragraphs, including a grandfather clause. For clarity, the policy in question is recited herein, in toto:

> Persons related by blood or marriage to a board member may be employed in this school district but the interested board member must abstain from the vote.
>
> Persons related by blood or marriage to a member of the administrative or supervisory staff shall not be appointed to a position that is in a line relationship involving supervision and evaluation of the position.
>
> This shall not apply to any person within such relationships who has been regularly employed by the board prior to the inception of the relationship, the adoption of this policy, or a board member's election.
>
> It is the intent of this policy to avoid any situation where there can arise the appearance of a conflict of interest either on the part of a member of the board or a member of the administrative or supervisory staff.
>
> When necessary, the tranfer of a staff member to another position, for which they are qualified, shall be utilized to comply with the intent of this policy.

A plain reading of the policy in question makes clear that paragraph two does not protect Petitioner Farrow. The first part of the sentence, "Persons related by blood or marriage to a member of the administrative or supervisory staff," speaks to Petitioner Farrow. He is related by marriage to Mr. Borroughs, who was promoted, during the effective period of this policy to a supervisory position. However, the next part of the sentence does not apply to Petitioner Farrow: "shall not be appointed to a position that is in a line relationship involving supervision and evalution of the position." Petitioner Farrow was not appointed to a position in line relationship to his relative, Mr. Borroughs. Rather, in accord with paragraph five, Petitioner Farrow was transferred, as a staff member, to another job site and shift for which he was qualified, to comply with the intent of the policy, which is expressed in the preceding paragraph of the policy as a means of avoiding any situation where there can arise the appearance of a conflict of interest either on the part of a member of the Board or a member of the administrative or supervisory staff. It bears noting that because paragraph two is inapplicable to Petitioner Farrow, paragraph three, the grandfather clause, is similarly inapplicable to his situation. Consequently, petitioners' exceptions addressing Policy No. 822 are hereby dismissed as being without merit.

As to petitioners' exception to the Board's application of Policy No. 405, which gives the absolute and unfettered right to transfer staff to the Board through the Board Secretary/Business Adminsitrator, the Commissioner likewise finds that Policy No. 405 was appropriately applied to the instant situation without reference having been provided within the written notice accorded Petitioner Farrow at the time of his transfer, insofar as it deals with the agent of the Board authorized to effectuate such a transfer, not with whether Policy No. 405 constituted a basis for such tranfer. Thus, the Commissioner deems petitioners' contention that Board Policy No. 405 constituted a basis for Farrow's transfer to be without merit, and accordingly finds no violation of either Farrow's due process rights or the Open Public Meetings Act because the basis of his transfer was Policy No. 822, Exhibit J-1.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision's findings of fact and the conclusion of the Office of Adminsitrative Law that respondent was correct in relying upon Policy No. 822 when effecting Petitioner Farrow's transfer, but for the reasons expressed herein. Having so found, the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) through the filing of a Petition of Appeal and Amended Petition of Appeal dated November 12, 1992 (N.B.M., pro se on behalf of his minor child, J.M.M.) which challenges, among other things, a policy of the Board of Education of Little Egg Harbor Township (Board) requiring his son to maintain a "C" grade average in all subjects in order to participate in the Board's instrumental music programs; and

The matter having been transmitted to the Office of Administrative (OAL) on an application by petitioner seeking to restrain the Board from suspending J.M.M. from instrumental music programs pending an adjudication on the merits, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5; and

Oral arguments of the parties having been heard on November 19, 1992, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey; and

The argument of petitioner having been heard regarding his allegation that irreparable harm will result if Respondent Board is not restrained from suspending J.M.M. from its instrumental music program; and

That the Board's computation of J.M.M.'s grade average is in error; and

That the Board's policy to require a pupil to maintain a "C" grade average in all subjects in order to participate in its instrumental music program is arbitrary and discriminatory; and

J.M.M.'s suspension from the instrumental music program constitutes a punishment by definition and retribution for not attaining arbitrarily good grades; and

The Board breached an implied contract resulting in the loss of money for the rental of a music instrument from a third party; and

The arguments of the Board having been heard, together with documents moved into evidence by it and petitioner, regarding the application of its policy of pupils maintaining a "C" average in order to participate in the instrumental music program; and Having considered the criteria set forth by the courts for the exercise of discretion in the issuance of a pendente lite restraint, Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that no irreparable harm will be visited on J.M.M. through the application of the Board's policy to maintain a "C" grade average in all subjects in order to participate in the Board's instrumental music program.

It is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief, pendente lite, is hereby DENIED, and

It is ORDERED that this matter proceed to an evidentiary de novo hearing as expeditiously as possible.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been submitted to the Commissioner of Education for review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

However, petitioner has advised the Commissioner by letter received on December 4, 1992, that he no longer wishes to pursue this matter and now seeks its dismissal.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal and Request for Emergent Relief are deemed withdrawn and this matter is dismissed as a controversy before the Commissioner.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Jeanette Dixon, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: October 21, 1992 Decided: November 2, 1992

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This matter was initiated by the petitioner (Hamilton) pursuant to a petition filed with the Commissioner of Education seeking to remove petitioner's child from the school district because it was alleged that the respondent was not a resident of the school district.

Following prehearing conversations, on October 21, 1992, counsel for Hamilton submitted a letter, indicating that following further investigation there was no basis for pursuing the petition. Accordingly, he moved without objection that the matter be dismissed.

Having reviewed the file in this matter, it is my judgment that the motion by petitioner to dismiss its petition is based upon good cause. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County v. Lisa Glass
OAL Docket No. EDU 32525-92
Agency Docket No. 74-3/92

Dear Judge Reback:

Recently, I have had an opportunity to meet with my investigator to discuss the above captioned matter. As you may recall, since the institution of these proceedings the respondent has submitted additional documentation indicating that she is indeed, a resident of Hamilton Township. This verification includes copies of her Public Service bill, tax documents and her lease agreement. Upon having an opportunity to review this verification with my investigator along with some additional follow up investigations, we are now satisfied that the respondent has become a legal resident of Hamilton Township. Accordingly, it is respectfully requested that the complaint filed in the above captioned matter be administratively dismissed.

Should you have any questions or concerns regarding this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TOWNSHIP COUNCIL OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER APPEAL OF THE BRICK TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY.	:

For Petitioner, Dr. Louis Aragona, Superintendent of Schools

For Respondent, Thomas E. Monahan, Esq. (Gilmore & Monahan)

This consolidated matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education of June 9, 1992 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal of a defeated school budget by the Brick Township Board of Education (Board) pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.1 et seq. and a Petition of Appeal of its defeated cap waiver. On July 6, 1992, the respondent Brick Township Council (Council) filed its Answer to the petitions.

Written replies, position papers and summations were filed by the respective parties and the record closed on August 20, 1992.

On April 7, 1992, the voters of the Brick Township School District defeated the Board's 1992-93 current expense tax levy proposal amounting to $39,668,251. The voters also defeated a proposed current expense cap waiver, $1,800,000 of which was approved on March 6, 1992 by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools as being necessary for the implementation of a thorough and efficient education for the students of Brick Township School District.

In his letter of March 6, 1992 the County Superintendent, in pertinent part, specifically informed the Board of the following with respect to the approval of its 1992-93 current expense school budget proposal and its current expense cap waiver request:

> The proposed 1992-93 Brick Township School District budget was submitted for approval indicating the need for a cap waiver to the legal voters in order to provide sufficient funds to implement a thorough and efficient education.
>
> As a result of my review, I am conditionally approving the 1992-93 school budget subject to the advertisement of the following budget cap waiver proposal.
>
> The items which are listed in Column 2 of the following chart are conditionally approved, and must be included at the end of the advertised budget. As you know, in the event this cap waiver of conditionally approved items is rejected by the voters, the district must file an appeal with the Commissioner of Education.

I. DEFEATED BUDGET

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budget appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. East Brunswick Board of Education of Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989)

In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner must determine whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of a thorough and efficient system of education.

The Commissioner has reviewed the respective position statements and written summations filed by the parties which are incorporated herein by reference unless specifically relied upon for the purpose of further clarification and set down in the body of this decision.

Initially it must be noted that Council, in setting forth its current expense line item reductions, avers that its reasons for imposing such reductions were grounded upon the information it obtained from the following sources:

- the joint meeting held on April 27, 1992 with members of the Board, the Superintendent and School Business Administrator;
- a review of the proposed 1992-93 school budget (Exhibit A, Statement of Position) in conjunction with previous years' budget documents in order to analyze the School District's trends and patterns in expenditures;

- a review of the Board's 1991-92 school budget (Exhibit B, Statement of Position);

- a statement of expenditures supplied by the Board of the 9 month period ending March 30, 1992 (Exhibit C, Statement of Position).

As the result of such review and in support of its line item reductions, Council has concluded that the Board's 1992-93 budget overstates those funds necessary to provide a thorough and efficient education for the students of Brick Township and, further, that its total reduction of $1,130,000 in the current expense tax levy is justified.

The Board on the other hand, rejects Council's position as being overly simplistic and argues that it fails to take into account the following factors which impact on the current school budget:

- The Township has experienced enormous growth over the last two decades and currently has a student population of 9,500 which represents 71 more pupils than in 1990-91 and which is projected to increase by 150 pupils during the 1992-93 school year.

- The per pupil expenditure for the school district is far below the county and statewide averages as witnessed by the 1992 School District Report Card. (Additional Evidence, Board's Statement of Position)

- The School District Report Card shows that the Brick Township tax rate is 25% below the average for other districts with budgets supporting the same grades in the region and 21% below the statewide average. The Brick Township School District, however, ranks in the top 40-50% of all New Jersey school districts in community wealth. Revenue raised in the school district by local taxes was 56.2% in 1991-92 as compared to 76.7% in 1990-91.

- Brick Township has been classified by the Department of Education as a "D" district factor group inasmuch as it has 12 senior citizen housing complexes consisting of 4,217 dwellings. This concentration of senior citizen housing within the district has a direct effect on the success of school budget approvals. Only 4 school budgets were approved by the voters since 1978.

- In past years the school budgets presented by the Board were well below the cap limitation except for the past two years when the State mandated caps were lower.

- Except for the 1991-92 school year when Council did not cut the Board's defeated budget, it has cut the school budgets of other years ranging from $143,000 (1983-84) to a high of $1,130,000 in the 1992-93 school year. In the past the Board has absorbed such reductions by the either appropriating surplus revenues or making corresponding line item reductions.

In the current year the Board has neither the surplus revenues ($993,050 estimated as of June 30, 1992) which are less than 1.5% of its total budget for 1992-93, nor the capability to sustain any further line item reductions in the budget and still permit it to provide a thorough and efficient education as mandated by State Law.

- Any reduction in the Board's 1992-93 school budget would have a detrimental effect on its ability to provide a mandated thorough and efficient education for the 9,500 pupils currently attending the schools of Brick Township. This position has been supported by the Department of Education and the Assistant Commissioner of Education upon issuing its conditional approval of the Board's 1992-93 school budget. A Decision on Motion ordered on March 23, 1992 upheld the Ocean County Superintendent's decision to conditionally approve the Board's budget based upon its submission of a limited cap waiver approval. (Affidavit of Superintendent of Schools, Board's Position Statement)

In the instant matter, Council, upon defeat of the 1992-93 current expense budget established the aforesaid tax levy by imposing the following line item reductions:

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
110B Salaries - Board Secretary's Office
	$299,606	$269,606	$30,000

Justification: Number of clerical personnel in this department is excessive and should be reduced.

110F Salaries - Superintendent's Office
	$541,618	$531,618	$10,000

Justification: Number of clerical personnel in this department is excessive and should be reduced.

110I Salaries - Business Administrator's Office
	$266,935	$236,935	$30,000

Justification: Number of clerical personnel in this department is excessive and should be reduced. In addition, the Business Administrator is retiring. The Board of Education should be able to obtain a Business Administrator for a lesser salary than that which is paid to the current Business Administrator who has accumulated significant amounts in longevity.

110L Salaries - Personnel Office

$102,374	$ 92,374	$10,000

Justification: Number of clerical personnel in this department is excessive and should be reduced.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
120A-001 Contracted Services - Legal
	$ 20,000	$ 10,000	$10,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

120D Other Contracted Services - Administration

$140,000	$120,000	$20,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

130B Board Secretary's Office - Other Expenses

$ 47,500	$ 40,000	$ 7,500

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
130F Superintendent's Office - Other Expenses
	$18,000	$16,000	$ 2,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

130J Administration Building & Grounds - Other Expenses
	$73,000	$63,000	$10,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

130M Printing and Publishing - Other Expenses
	$28,000	$21,500	$6,500

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
211A Salaries - Principals - High School
	$668,316	$598,316	$ 70,000

Justification: The Township Council recommends that each high school have one principal and three assistants. In one of the high schools, there are four assistants. One assistant principal position should be eliminated.

213L-000 Salaries - Attendance Policy
	$ 35,000	$ 25,000	$ 10,000

Justification: The Township Council believes that there is a duplication of efforts performed by this person which could be absorbed by others within the school system.

213M Salary Adjustment - Teachers
	$490,000	$250,000	$240,000

Justification: The Board of Education could not offer any justification for such a large amount of money being in this account for retirement of teachers. No effort was made to determine who was retiring. The reduction suggested would more accurately reflect the probable number of those who will retire.

510C Salaries - Bus Attendants
	$196,178	$183,178	$ 13,000

Justification: Salaries for bus attendants are exaggerated and should be reduced.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
520A Contracted Services - To and From School
	$1,195,000	$800,000	$395,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

540 Pupil Transportation - Insurance
	$ 149,500	$130,000	$ 19,500

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted. Amount has been reduced to the 1991-92 fiscal year.

550A Gasoline - Pupil Transportation Vehicles
	$ 88,521	$ 28,521	$ 60,000

Justification: School Board fails to utilize cooperative buying which would result in a significantly lower cost of gasoline per gallon.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
550A-001 Transportation - Diesel
	$122,000	$72,000	$50,000

Justification: School Board fails to utilize cooperative buying which would result in a significantly lower cost of gasoline per gallon.

550C Tire and Tube Replacement
	$ 60,000	$50,000	$10,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

550F Transportation - Contracted Services
	$ 45,000	$35,000	$10,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted. Amount has been reduced to the 1991-92 fiscal year.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
610A Salaries - Custodial Services
	$1,780,762	$1,755,762	$25,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted. As budgeted, the amount represents a 300% increase from previous fiscal year. Reduced amount represents 200% increase from previous fiscal year, which is more than sufficient to cover this line item.

610A-002 Salaries - Custodial Overtime
	$ 200,000	$ 175,000	$25,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted. Amount has been reduced to the 1991-92 fiscal year.

610C-001 Salaries - Operation of Plant - Overtime
	$ 15,000	$ 3,000	$12,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted. Amount has been reduced to the 1991-92 fiscal year.

Account	Budgeted	Revised Amount	Reduction
630 Heat for Buildings
	$504,641	$454,641	$50,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

650D Other Supplies - Operation of Plant
	$ 5,000	$ 3,000	$ 2,000

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

660D Misc. Expenses - Operation of Plant
	$7,500	$5,000	$ 2,500

Justification: The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township School's budget in this account for the last several years and also has reviewed the purchase orders to date. A review of these documents indicates that this line item is over-budgeted in that the expenses, based upon its history and current items charged against it, will be far less than that which is budgeted.

TOTAL REDUCTIONS	$1,130,000

The Commissioner observes that the total current expense reduction in the local tax levy of $1,130,000 represents approximately 2.8% of the overall current expense tax levy proposal amounting to $39,668,251.

There are, however, twenty-six line item reductions to be addressed herein ranging from as low as $2,000 to as much as $395,000.

The Commissioner has carefully reviewed all of the evidence and arguments submitted by the parties in support of their respective positions for either the approval or rejection of each of the current expense line item tax levy reductions contested herein.

The Board's contention regarding the action taken by Council is best expressed by those general comments contained in its written summation which state in pertinent part:

> The Board of Education asserts that the Council's $1,130,000 cut of the "conditionally approved" budget has, in fact, left the budget it fixed so deficient as to constitute a purely arbitrary exercise of discretion devoid of any reasonable foundation, which if allowed to stand, deprives the students of the Township of Brick of the "minimum educational standards" required by the constitutionally mandated thorough and efficient educational system. The Board cites as the basis of its determination the contents of two letters from the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools, Joseph Zach, dated March 6, 1992 and March 12, 1992, the Commissioner of Education's Decision on Motion signed by the Deputy Commissioner, John C. Woodbury and information provided herein as well as in previous submittals.
> School officials had one meeting with the Township Council on April 27, 1992 to discuss the school budget. The meeting was convened at 7:10 p.m. and discussion between the parties [was] completed after about two hours. School officials left the meeting and the Council continued to meet approximately one hour and twenty minutes more. That evening the Council cut $1,130,000 from the "conditionally approved" budget. During the meeting with school officials, the Township Council raised some questions about accounts and answers were provided, however, no in-depth discussion was pursued by the Council about any items, and the school district's management goals for 1992-1993 were never discussed.

The Council did not inquire about or engage school officials in discussion about the "conditionally approved" nature of the budget addressed by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools in his letters dated March 6, 1992 and March 12, 1992, although reports of the existence of the letters were published in newspapers widely distributed in the Township of Brick. The Council's focus was on what it perceived as excessive budgeting from a cold numerical point of view rather than the actual needs of the school district for 1992-1993.

The Township Council after approximately two hours of discussion with school officials cut $1,130,000 from a budget that required months of preparation and review by school personnel and the Board of Education. In addition, the County Superintendent wrote in his letter of March 12, 1992, that the budget was "thoroughly scrutinized" by a panel of the Department of Education, which included three members of the Division of County and Regional Services, two members of the Division of Finance and the County Superintendent for six hours, not including numerous telephone discussions held by the County Superintendent with other members of the panel. The County Superintendent further wrote that he spent more than five full working days in the examination and review of the proposed 1992-1993 school budget and two cap waiver applications, and that the panel's final recommendation was reviewed and approved by the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of County and Regional services and the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Finance. The "conditionally approved" budget recommended by the aforementioned panel and approved by two Assistant Commissioners was by definition inadequate, thus requiring a voter cap waiver in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education for the 1992-1993 school year.

The thorough review conducted by the Department of Education, which led to the budget being "conditionally approved", when compared to the minimal time spent by the Township Council reviewing and discussing the "conditionally approved" budget with school officials, and, the size of the cut, leaves the Board of Education no alternative but to conclude that the Council failed to consider the seriousness of cutting a "conditionally approved" budget and that the budget the Council fixed "was so deficient as to constitute a purely arbitrary exercise of discretion devoid of any reasonable foundation."

(Board's Written Summation, at pp. 1-4)

Council argues alternatively that:

The determination concerning the reasonableness of the Township Council's budget reductions should be based only upon the items included in the School Board's budget submitted to the voters on April 7, 1992 and the facts surrounding the need for these items as they existed as of the date of the Township's April 27, 1992 budget resolution.

The School Board has attempted to justify its appropriations based upon facts available subsequent to the adoption of the Township Council's April 27, 1992 budget resolution (year end expenditures). The issue on appeal must be limited to the items in the April 7, 1992 budget and the changes to these items as set forth in the April 27, 1992 resolution. Later developing information could not possibly have been known and used as a basis for the Township's actions, and they are irrelevant to the reasonableness of the Township's actions on April 27, 1992.

1. The Budget was submitted to the Municipal governing body for its determination of the amount which, in its judgment, is necessary to provide a thorough and efficient system of education for the schools of the Township of Brick.

2. The Governing Body did consult with members of the Board of Education including its Superintendent and Business Administrator, and have reviewed the proposed budget of the said Board at a joint meeting held on April 27, 1992 in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37.

3. The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township schools' proposed 1992-1993 budget in conjunction with previous years' budget documents in order to analyze the District's trends and patterns in expenditures.

4. The Township Council has reviewed the Brick Township schools' 1991-1992 budget.

5. The Township Council has reviewed a statement of expenditures for the nine month period of operation ending March 30, 1992, provided by the Brick Township Board of Education.

(Council's Written Summation, at pp. 4-5)

The Commissioner will now address the current expense line item reductions imposed by Council totalling $1,130,000.

110B Salaries - Board Secretary's Office $30,000

Council maintains that the number of clerical personnel (10 clerks) in this line item is excessive and can be reduced through a redistribution of work and greater utilization of existing staff. It is Council's position that reductions have been made in this line item in previous years without a detrimental effect to the school district. Moreover, Council maintains that the affidavit of the Superintendent dated July 9, 1992 erroneously overstates the amount and previous reductions of clerical personnel reduced from this line item in previous school years.

Council states that ten clerical personnel were budgeted in this line item during the 1990-91, 1991-92 and 1992-93 school year budgets. Consequently, no reductions in clerical personnel have been made in this line item for the previous two school years as represented by the Superintendent in his affidavit. Council further claims that while the Board asserts that the reductions in this line item have been "detrimental," it is important to note that the Board did not seek increased funding in this line item for additional staff in its 1992-93 school budget. (Council's Summation, at p. 7) Additionally, Council takes issue with the Board's assertion as found in the Superintendent's affidavit that:

> It must be pointed out that four of the ten personnel listed in this account are department heads for purchasing, payroll, accounting and the assistant board secretary. The department heads in these critical areas are classified under Civil Service rules and regulations as supervisory personnel. Thus, six remaining clerical personnel would be subject to the Council's recommended reduction of $30,000. This cut, as specified by the Council, would eliminate two clerical workers or 33 1/3% of the clerical work force and severely cripple the district's ability to perform the vital accounts payable and payroll functions. Furthermore, there will be an additional increase in workload for personnel budgeted in the 100-b account to implement the mandated GAAP program during the 1992-1993 school year. (Emphasis added). (Id., at p. 7)

Council likewise takes issue with the Board's assertion in its reply to Council's Position Statement as follows:

> The Council did not address the increased workload of the clerical staff to implement the mandated GAAP program during the school year 1992-1993; nor did they provide a solution as to who would be assessing the workload for the recommended reduction of 33 1/3% of the staff. (Council's Summation, at pp. 7-8)

Council believes that its assessment of the clerical workload for its recommended reduction in this line item is appropriately placed with the remaining four department heads/supervisors who will subsequently have only one subordinate to supervise. It further claims that the increased workload of the clerical personnel to implement the GAAP program during the 1992-93 school budget is due to the fact that pending legislation establishes the implementation date of this program to be July 1, 1994. Finally, Council in reply to a further claim made by the Board with respect to the reduction in this line item states the following:

> The reductions made by Council pursuant to its Resolution were in consideration of discussions and consultation with members of the Board and > its professional staff, including the School Superintendent and Business Administrator. Said discussions and consultation took place at a joint meeting of the Township Council and Board of Education in accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37. Therefore, the Board's claim that "[t]he Townshp Council has no expertise, nor sought any expertise or understanding...," (Petitioner's reply to Respondent's position statement, Section a, paragraph b) or that the Council's recommendations were made "without discussion" (Id.) are unfounded and without merit.

> The Board relies on actual expenditures as of June 30, 1992, which information could not possibly be available to the Township on April 27, 1992 at which time the reductions were made. The determination concerning the reasonableness of the Township Council's budget reduction should be based only upon the items included in the School Board's budget submitted to the voters on April 7, 1992 and the facts as they existed as of the date of the Township's April 27, 1992 budget Resolution. To allow the Board to justify its position based on information concerning actual expenditures developed after the fact will only encourage School Boards to "spend down" line items after reductions have been made in order to substantiate their appeal. (Id., at pp. 8-9)

The Board reaffirms its position in its objection to Council's line item reduction of this account as recited by Council, ante. However, by way of further clarification, the Board admits that the clerical positions in this account were reduced from twelve in 1983 to ten in 1992-93. It further acknowledges the fact that the most recent reduction did not occur in the previous two school budget years. The Board, however, points out that:

> 1. The Council's allegation that clerical personnel in this department is excessive is simply a bare allegation. The Board reaffirms that this account was reduced from twelve clerical personnel in 1983 to ten in 1992-93. The most recent reduction did not occur in the previous two fiscal years.

2. The Board and/or superintendent has not stated that reductions in this account in the past years were brought about by respondent council's cuts. In prior years cuts were made by the Board itself, as economy measures, due to its fiscally conservative makeup. This goes to the point that the Board itself makes cuts as it deems necessary. Because the Board made cuts in the past does not mean it is capable of sustaining an additional cut in 1992-1993. Nor does it mean that the cuts made by the Board weren't detrimental because it is admitted they were detrimental. As the staff decreased, the workload increased and this has created a backlog. A decision by the Board to maintain the same number of staff as last year rather than increase staff should not be interpreted that there is an excess of staff.

3. In order to implement the State mandated GAAP Program, definite steps must be taken now during the 1992-1993 school year.

The Council is wrong to rely on pending legislation to delay its implementation. In short, the GAAP format must be implemented this year. This is a fact. As of August 17, 1992, S-675 has been amended in the Assembly and is due for Senate concurrence with the Assembly amendments in late September or October, 1992. Also, there is no predicting whether the Governor will sign or veto the double entry accounting component of GAAP. As of August 17, 1992, we are still required to implement the chart of accounts charge and double entry accounting components of GAAP effective July 1, 1993. We must begin to make the necessary computer software changes during the 1992-1993 school year for effective implementation of GAAP effective July 1, 1993. If S-675 becomes law, we will continue to develop the software changes in 1992-1993 so that we may pilot and test the double entry accounting component during the 1993-1994 school year. The date processing software work must be completed, tested and piloted well in advance of the legal effective date and funding for this work is desperately needed.

The Council is under the false impression that the four department heads budgeted in this account and classified under Civil Service rules and regulations as supervisory personnel do not work but merely supervise. This is not the case as was pointed out in Petitioner's Reply to Respondent's Position wherein it was stated that "all Civil Service personnel budgeted in this account are hands-on employees and are absolutely needed." The department heads/supervisors work is by no means limited to supervision. The titles are imposed by Civil Service. The Council wants the Commissioner to believe that the current four hands-on department heads/supervisors just sit around and watch others work and that they will be able to do more work with fewer clerical workers because they will not have as many workers to supervisor. The Council refuses to recognize that the department heads/supervisors have a full workload plus supervision. They work overtime to get the job done. (Board's Summation, 110B, at pp. 1-3)

In rejecting Council's cut of this line item, the Board continues in pertinent part:

***

The Board reaffirms that the Council has no expertise, nor sought any expertise or understanding of the work of this department. The Commissioner should weigh heavily the fact that the Council conferred for only about two hours with school officials and then made cuts in 26 items of a "conditionally approved" budget.

Further, the Council's argument does not address the 1992-1993 budget, and that is what this appeal is about.

6. This account was thoroughly scrutinized by the County Superintendent, three members of the Division of County and Regional Services and two members of the Division of Finance. They approved the amount budgeted in this account for the personnel listed to carry out the needs and workload of the Board Secretary's Office for the school [year] 1992-1993. Their final recommendation was approved by the Assistant Commissioner of County and Regional Services and the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Finance. The Board was directed by the County Superintendent, in the letter of March 12, 1992, that it could not make deletions of any programs, services or staff positions in the proposed 1992-1993 school budget. This was upheld on appeal to the Commissioner by the Deputy Commissioner, John C. Woodbury. Thus, the Board asserts that it has offered competent evidence for the Commissioner to restore the full amount to this account. (Id., at pp. 3-4)

And;

***

> The Township Council does not want the Commissioner to consider the Board's actual expenditure for the entire 1991-1992 school year. It only wants the Commissioner to consider expenditures for the first nine and one-half months of the 1991-1992, and asks that the Commissioner swallow hook, line and sinker the Council's low ball projection for the remainder of the year. This denies the reality that schools must be funded on a 12-month basis.
> (Id., at p. 3)

The Commissioner has reviewed the respective positions of the parties pertaining to this line item reduction. In the Commissioner's view there is insufficient evidence in the record of this matter which would result in a finding and determination in the Board's favor that Council fails to comply with the applicable provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37. Moreover, the Board's claim that Council lacks the expertise or understanding to perform its statutorily prescribed function is equally without merit. The statutorily prescribed function of Council pertaining to defeated school budgets is not only an integral part of the total school budget appeals and review process, it must also be implemented independent of any previous review or determination which requires the Board to submit its initial school budget for scrutiny by the Department of Education for a cap waiver approval prior to its submission to the voters for approval. Council, of course, in consultation with the Board, should avail itself of all information in the Board's possession which would permit it to reach an intelligent and reasoned determination with regard to what sum or sums of money, if any, could be reduced from the school tax levy certification without compromising the Board's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education for the school district.

On the other hand, once the school budget appeals process has been opened before the Commissioner, the Board may not be precluded by Council or the Commissioner from presenting evidence regarding accurate and detailed expenditures for its budgeted line items, notwithstanding the fact that such information was not available to Council at the time it rendered its determination with regard to the certification of the local school budget tax levy. Council's argument to the contrary is hereby rejected by the Commissioner. The Commissioner observes that both parties in part have relied on identical or similar arguments in support of their positions with respect to many of the remaining current expense line item reductions controverted herein. To the extent that such arguments by the parties are repeated by the parties, the Commissioner's findings and determination above are incorporated by reference and shall apply. The Commissioner so holds.

With regard to the line item reduction of $30,000 in line item account 110B, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has met its burden of proving that this amount is necessary to provide a thorough and efficient education during the 1992-93 school year. Accordingly, for the reasons set forth by the Board herein, the Commissioner directs that the $30,000 reduction be restored.

110F Salaries - Superintendent's Office $10,000

The respective arguments by the parties in part have been addressed by the Commissioner. The Board argues that the clerical personnel budgeted in this account is not excessive as stated by Council. The Board maintains that the amount budgeted in this account was previously reduced from $714,660 in 1991-92 to $541,618 in the 1992-93 school budget. Moreover, the Board avers its latest reduction of a clerical position in this line item in the 1992-93 budget was in error. Consequently, it is seeking a restoration of $20,000 in this account, rather than the $10,000 reduction by Council.

Council argues that the Board cannot be now heard to complain about the inadequacy of its own budget regarding its failure to provide for an additional clerical position. This is especially so, according to Council, since the number of clerks has been originally overstated in the Board's 1992-93 budget.

According to the evidence presented by the parties herein, the Commissioner observes that the clerical positions in this account have been reduced from five to four (1991-92 to 1992-93 school year). It is further observed that the total amount of funds in this account have been previously reduced from $714,660 (1991-92) to $541,618 (1992-93) which represents a prior total reduction of $173,042. In light of the above, the Commissioner considers such reduction a reasonable effort on the Board's behalf to control its budget expenditures for the 1992-93 school year. Consequently, it is found and determined that Council's reduction of $10,000 in this line item cannot be sustained. The Commissioner hereby directs that the $10,000 reduction in this line item be restored to the 1992-93 local tax levy.

Finally, the Commissioner rejects the Board's request to restore an additional $10,000 to this account by virtue of its error to pre-budget for another clerical position. The Commissioner finds such request to be without merit especially since the Board has had sufficient time to review its budgeted positions upon the prior submission of its school budget to Department of Education officials for a cap waiver approval.

110I Salaries - Business Administrator's Office $30,000

Council maintains that the Board was aware of the fact that its School Business Administrator was retiring at the end of the 1991-92 school year as early as April 27, 1992 when the Board consulted with Council about its defeated 1992-93 school budget. Council argues that a significant saving could have been realized by the Board at that time if it had obtained a new Business Administrator at a lesser salary. The Board argues that this line item was budgeted in the amount of $89,212 less in the 1992-93 school year ($266,935) than in the 1991-92 school year ($356,147).

Additionally, the Board points out that the four clerical positions have not been increased in its budget from the 1991-92 to the 1992-93 school year. The Board concedes that it employed a new School Business Administrator on May 28, 1992 at a budgeted salary (1992-93) of $85,000. The former School Business Administrator received a salary of $93,911 during the 1991-92 school year. Council complains that this action by the Board was unreasonable and unjustified in light of the pending nature of the 1992-93 budget appeal. The Board points out that an additional reduction of $30,000 to this line item by Council would necessitate a further reduction in its clerical staff of four clerks who are needed.

> The decrease represented 20% of the work force. Two of the four clerical workers budgeted in this account for 1992-1993 are assigned to the data processing department. This department performs functions affecting the entire district of 9,500 pupils, 1,100 full-time employees and numerous part-time employees. There are only two clerks and a working manager in this department. Any reduction will require cutting back services such as daily attendance for students and staff, California Test scoring, student scheduling, and a host of other vital services that would > severely cripple the district. The alternative to the disaster a cut in this account would cause is to pay substantial overtime to the remaining employees; thus negating the purpose for cutting and at the same time receiving fewer services. It just doesn't make good sense.

> (Board's Statement, 110I, at p. 1)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record with regard to this line item and finds and determines that the Board has met its burden of proof to warrant a restoration of $30,000. It is so directed.

110L Salaries - Personnel Office $10,000

In addition to stating that the number of clerical personnel in this account is excessive and should be reduced, Council avers that reductions have been met in previous years without detriment to the school district as argued by the Board. Council maintains that proof of its position appears in the Board's own evidence which establishes that the positions of three clerks have been consistently budgeted in this line item including the 1992-93 year, notwithstanding prior cuts in expenditures made by the Board. (Board's Statement, 110L) The Board rejects the justification advanced by Council for its $10,000 salary reduction in this line item as being wholly without merit. In the Board's view, Council's cut was predicated upon funds expended through March 1992 and failed to acknowledge that these three salaried clerks are employed on a twelve month basis. Moreover, the Board argues that the salaries of these three clerical personnel were underbudgeted for both the 1991-92 and 1992-93 school years by virtue of salary increases which were subsequently contractually negotiated. Consequently, Council's reduction of $10,000 herein only places this account in deeper deficit and would further require a reduction of one clerical position which constitutes a 33 1/3% reduction in the existing clerical workforce. (Board's Summation, 110L, at pp. 1-2)

The Commissioner observes that the supplemental testimony by way of the affidavit of its Superintendent buttresses the Board's position which reads in pertinent part:

> "
>
> A reduction of one employee, or 33 1/3% of the work force budgeted in this account, would be extremely detrimental to the district with its 1,100 full-time and 500 part-time employees. While there has been no clerical increases in this account over the years, the number of employees and applicants they serve has; thereby, increasing the workload considerably. It should be pointed out that the introduction of mandated criminal checks on potential employees has substantially increased their workload.
> (Board's Statement, 110L)

The Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has met its burden in proving that Council's $10,000 reduction in this line item adversely impacts upon its ability to carry out a thorough and efficient system of public education for its pupils. The Commissioner therefore directs that Council's recommended reduction of $10,000 in this line item be set aside.

120A-001 Contracted Services - Legal $10,000

Council maintains that the Board has consistently overbudgeted and underexpended this line item during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years.

Council points out that while the Board budgeted $20,000 in this line item for the 1990-91 school year, its actual expenditures were $7,955 leaving a year-end free balance of $445, with $11,600 being transferred to other accounts. Council further contends that, based on the Board's actual expenditure in this line item for the 1991-92 school year ($4,070.26) as of March 30, 1992, it can be projected and concluded that the expenditures in this account will be $5,427 for the entire school year. (Council's Summation, at pp. 15-16) Council therefore maintains that a $10,000 reduction in this line item is justified. The Board concedes that $20,000 was budgeted in this line item for the 1991-92 and 1992-93 school years.

However it maintains that the current amount budgeted for the 1992-93 school year provides for current ongoing litigation which will extend into the 1992-93 school year. Additionally, the Board claims in part that:

> When unforeseen suits such as this arise, the district's insurance carriers advise the Board that the cost of litigation is covered with reservation. This means the Board must pay for legal representation of employees by counsel other than the board attorney. In such instances, the Board pays attorney fees out of the budget and may not be reimbursed. In instances where a reimbursement is made, it is at a much later date -- even in another budget year. It would, therefore, be imprudent to cut this account.
>
> Furthermore, a study of school district expansion is nearing completion and it is likely there will be a need for legal services in connection with building additional facilities.
> (Board's Statement, 120A-001)

In the Commissioner's view, the Board's rationale for the restoration of the $10,000 line item reduction in this account by Council is reasonable. Moreover, the Commissioner cannot ignore the fact that the Board will incur additional legal expenses stemming from the instant budget appeal. The Commissioner therefore directs that the line item reduction of $10,000 in this account be restored.

120D Other Contracted Services - Administration $20,000

Council maintains that the spending pattern of the Board during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years reveals the following:

1990-91 - $100,779.88
1991-92 - $ 24,066.52 (As of March 30, 1992)

Council maintains that given this spending pattern it is projected that the Board will expend $32,088.70 for the entire 1991-92 school year.

Consequently, it is Council's position that:

> 2. The Board fails to identify what projects it may reasonably complete in a single fiscal year. To date, the Board has not adequately demonstrated its ability to spend more than $100,000.00 in a single fiscal year. Accordingly, the Board's proposed budget of $140,000.00 far exceeds any reasonable expectation of its ability to fully expend this line item. (Council's Summation, at p. 18)

The Board argues that it has specified those projects which must be completed during the 1992-93 school year and relies on the affidavit of its Superintendent dated July 9, 1992 which specifies that the mandated projects budgeted in this line item exceed the $140,000 budgeted during the 1992-93 school year. The Superintendent states that there is a demonstrated need for $202,750 which should have been budgeted in this line item for the year in question. (See Board's Statement, 120D.)

The Commissioner cannot agree with the position taken by the Board that its need for funds in this line item exceeds that which it had origianlly budgeted. It is incomprehensible that the Board could not have projected the actual amount of money that was required to be expended in this line item. This is especially so since the Board specifically relies upon the close scrutiny given to the budget as conditionally approved by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools and other State Department officials.

With regard to the $140,000 budgeted in this line item by the Board, the Commissioner finds that Council's reduction of $20,000 must be and is hereby sustained for the reasons set forth above. The Commissioner so holds.

130B Other Expenses - Board Secretary's Office $ 7,500

Council maintains that the Board has not expended the $47,500 budgeted in this account during the 1990-91 or the 1991-92 school years. Council therefore contends that its reduction of this line item from $47,500 to $40,000 is sufficient for the 1992-93 school year (Council's Summation, at pp. 19-20)

The Board maintains that curtailing this account would severely impact on its ability to communicate with the public and its vendors. Moreover, the Board argues that it has no control over the inflationary costs of office supplies, postage, printing and duplicating. Finally, the Board claims that these funds are needed since it plans to communicate more frequently with the public during the 1993-94 school year. This will be accomplished by reinstating a publication which will reach approximately 30,000 residents.

The Commissioner finds that he is unpersuaded by the evidence presented by the Board which lacks specificity with regard to its request for the reinstatement of the $7,500 reduced by Council. Accordingly, the reduction of $7,500 in this line item is sustained.

130F Other Expenses - Superintendent's Office $ 2,000

Based on the past record of expenditures in this line item for 1990-91 ($12,073) and 1991-92 ($12,977.46 projected), Council reasons that a reduction of $2,000 to $16,000 is sufficient not to impair the function of the Superintendent's office. The Board contends that Council ignores the need for increased communications with the parents, students and staff by the Superintendent during the 1993-94 school year. The Board further points out that $3,000 of this budgeted line item has been earmarked to be expended by virtue of a contractual obligation with the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent. (Superintendent's Affidavit, July 9, 1992 and Board's Summary)

The Commissioner finds that there is insufficient information provided by the Board which would warrant further consideration by him to reinstate the reduction of $2,000 to this line item. Accordingly, Council's reduction of $2,000 is hereby sustained.

130J Data Processing Office $10,000

In the Commissioner's view, the reduction of $10,000 in this account is focused upon the Board's failure to expend more than $52,799 in 1990-91 and the expenditures projected by Council of $50,149 during the 1991-92 school year. Council also takes issue with the fact that the Board's request for additional funding for the GAAP program is premature insofar as the pending legislation (S-675) would establish the implementation date of this program as being July 1, 1994. (Council's Summation, at pp. 21-22)

The Board argues that expenditures in this line item amounted to $94,936 for the 1991-92 school year. Additionally, the Board maintains that

> 2. Board of Education work to implement the mandated GAAP program must commence in 1992-1993. Regardless of any pending legislation that might possibly delay the actual implementation date, as suggested by the Council, the planning and groundwork must be done this year. We cannot convert to a double entry system > of accounting at the last minute. Nor can the Board sit by hoping the legislature will delay GAAP. (Board's Summation, 130J)

The Commissioner upon review of the respective positions of the parties finds and determines that the Board must have the latitude to project its needs with respect to the anticipated implementation of the GAAP program, notwithstanding the actual date of passage of the mandatory legislation now pending. It appears reasonable to the Commissioner that the Board will incur those expenses that it has claimed herein to be in a position to act in an efficient manner to implement the GAAP program in the ensuing school year. The Commissioner hereby directs that the $10,000 reduction to this line item be restored.

130M Other Expenses - Printing and Publishing $ 6,500

After an examination of the respective positions of parties with respect to this line item reduction, the Commissioner finds that Council has projected an expenditure requirement of $21,287.81 for the 1991-92 school year. The $6,500 reduction of the $28,000 budgeted in this account, however, is insufficient to meet the printing and publishing needs over a twelve-month period which includes July and August 1992. It is therefore directed that the $6,500 line item reduction be restored.

211A Salaries - Principals - High School $70,000

Council's recommended reduction in this line item involves the reduction of the equivalent of one assistant high school principal.

The Board rejects this reduction which it claims amounts to nothing more than a bare statement made by Council without justification. In reply the Board argues:

***

> Brick Township is a changing community. The change is reflected in the day to day operation of the high schools. There has been highly publicized racial confrontations between students during the 1991-1992 school year which prompted the Board to employ off duty police and assign them to the high schools for protection of the pupils and staff. This is not the time to reduce assistant principals as was done in 1987 and again in 1990. Both high school principals have repeatedly requested restoration of those assistant principals which were reduced against the advice of the building principals and superintendent, but to no avail. It must be pointed out that there is a cap waiver item to extend the contract of one ten month assistant principal to twelve months. More assistance is needed not less. Another reduction here is short sighted, foolhardy and potentially dangerous to the welfare of the pupils and staff.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, July 9, 1992)

In light of the Board's position, the Commissioner finds and determines that any reduction in this line item would be counterproductive and diminish the Board's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education for its pupils. It is therefore directed that the $70,000 reduction by Council in this line item be restored.

213L-000 Salaries - Attendance Policy $10,000

Council maintains that the Board is in a position to maintain this line item at the same funding level as the 1991-92 school year. This is so, Council reasons, because the stipends were paid to award professional staff members for improved attendance and the State-mandated level of 96.5% was achieved during the 1991-92 school year. Consequently, it is Council's view that the increase of $10,000 in this line item for the 1992-93 school year is excessive and unwarranted for the reasons stated above and supported in its Summation.

The Board points out that the $35,000 budgeted in this line item is necessary to fund a Board policy and negotiated agreement providing employees with a monetary stipend for excellent attendance. The past improvement made by this policy has reduced the need for substitutes and has improved the continuity of instruction.

More specifically the Board states:

> The maximum honorarium that a staff member can receive in a year is a token $100. However, each reduction in absenteeism of one day saves the Board $65. Attendance has improved for professional staff since the program was implemented from 95% to 96.5%. This is a considerable improvement. This translates to thousands of tax dollars in savings over the course of a year.
>
> The Board is planning to improve attendance even more in 1992-1993 because better staff attendance benefits children. The Council's cut of $10,000 would leave only $25,000 to implement the long standing attendance policy with an increased staff for 1992-1993 over that of 1991-1992.
>
> If the Board is successful in improving staff attendance even more, additional money will be needed in this account rather than less.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 6, 1992)

In the Commissioner's judgment the Board has met its burden of proof with respect to the restoration in this line item. The Commissioner so finds and determines. It is directed that the $10,000 be restored.

213M Salary Adjustments - Teachers $240,000

Council's reason for this recommended line item reduction is that the Board could not offer any justification for the excessive amount budgeted herein. Additionally, Council maintains that no effort was made by the Board to determine who was returning.

In reply, the Board relies on the affidavits of its Superintendent dated, respectively, July 9 and August 6, 1992 which state in pertinent part.

> The 1992-1993 budgeted amount is $490,000. It was $250,000 in 1991-1992. The Council specified a cut of $240,000 which would bring the account back to the 1991-1992 level.
>
> The Council was told that the Board surveyed the teaching staff to determine the number of anticipated retirements during the 1992-1993 school year. Sixty-one staff members indicated they planned to retire by the end of the 1992-1993 school year. The sixty-one was scaled back to forty-nine after administrative review. There is a contractual obligation by the Board to pay staff for accumulated unused sick days upon leaving the district. It has been determined that the amount needed is $490,000 or an average of $10,000 per staff member.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, July 9, 1992)

And,

> "The Board of Education ended the 1991-1992 school with a budget surplus of only $260,180.83. The free balance available to the Board is only 1.25% of the 1992-1993 budget. A shortfall in the 213M account could be considerable depending on the number of staff who retire and leave the district by June 30, 1993. It could also be disastrous because there is a lack of funds in the accounts throughout this conditionally approved budget and a small free balance available to the Board this year."
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 6, 1992)

The Commissioner finds and determines that there is sufficient justification provided by the Board for the necessity of the restoration of the $240,000 reduction imposed by Council. It is therefore directed that the $240,000 be restored.

510C Salaries - Bus Attendants $13,000

The Board categorically rejects Council's reasons for its recommended reduction of $13,000. The $196,178 budgeted line item is specifically for the salaries of bus attendants who ride on school transportation vehicles carrying handicapped children to school. The Board points out that it is required that bus attendants be placed on school buses to assist with the transportation of multiply handicapped and emotionally disturbed pupils. The Board asserts that the salaries of two additional school bus attendants have been approved by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools and the State Department of Education and have been included in the 1992-93 Voter Cap Waiver.

The Commissioner upon review of the record herein finds and determines that the necessity of having the $13,000 reduction recommended by Council restored to the tax levy has been justified. It is directed that the amount of $13,000 be restored.

520A Contracted Services - To and From School $395,000

In its Position Statement, Council states that the amount of $1,195,000 budgeted in this account for pupil transportation services is drastically overstated by the Board. It cites the Board's expenditures over the previous two school years as the basis for its recommended reduction:

	Amount Budgeted	Amount Expended
1990-91	$726,000	$594,786.88 (Actual)
1991-92	$800,000	$807,587.00 (Estimated as of 3/20/92)

Council maintains that the amount of $1,195,000 budgeted for the 1992-93 school year is totally excessive and cannot be justified by the Board.

The Board argues that Council's statement of the expenditures in this account is inaccurate. The Board maintains that its actual expenditures in this line item for pupil transportation establishes that this account was actually underbudgeted for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years. Those year end expenditures were as follows:

	Amount Expended
1990-91	$747,230
1991-92	$943,398

(Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

According to the affidavit of July 9, 1992 submitted by the Superintendent, the increase in the 1992-93 budget in this line item can be justified for the following reasons.

> Here is why the additional money is needed. Transportation contract renewals for 1992-1993 will cost the Board 5% more than the $943,398.91 expended in 1991-1992 or an amount equal to $47,169.94. To this must be added a conservative projected increase of $35 per day to transport each of at least 50 more already identified handicapped pupils to and from out of district schools in 1992-1993 for an additional $315,000. Adding the $47,169.94, for the 5% contract increase, and $315,000 to transport the additional 50 handicapped children we need $362,169.94 over and above the $943,398.91 expended for the 1991-1992 school year. It is plain to see that $1,305,568.85 is needed in the 520A account for the school year 1992-1993, but the Board has budgeted only $1,195,000.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 6, 1992)

The Commissioner finds that the amount budgeted in this line item cannot be further reduced without compromising its ability to provide the integrity of its budgetary expenditures essential for the transportation of its pupils. Accordingly, it is determined that Council's recommended reduction must be and is hereby set aside. The Commissioner directs that the amount of $395,000 be added in the local tax levy for this purpose during the 1992-93 school year.

540 Pupil Transportation - Insurance $19,500

Council again relies on the actual expenditure for the 1990-91 school year and its projection of expenditures for the 1991-92 school year to conclude that the amount of $149,500 budgeted in this line item by the Board is excessive by $19,500. The Board relies on the affidavit of its Superintendent to justify an increase of $19,500 over the previous school year for the following reasons.

> The Board of Education budgeted $149,500 for 1992-1993. It anticipates spending $132,300, which excludes $12,500 budgeted to cover the $1,000 deductible on its vehicles for each occurrence in the event of accidents. Adding $132,300 and $12,500 produces a total of $149,500 for 1992-1993.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 6, 1992; see also Affidavit of August 20, 1992)

The Commissioner does not find that the increased amount of $19,500 budgeted in this line item for the 1992-93 school year is excessive, but rather that such increase is essential to cover costs over which the Board has little or no control in complying with its mandated obligations to provide pupil transportation.

It is therefore directed that the recommended reduction of $19,500 in this line item be restored.

550A Gasoline - Pupil Transportation Vehicles $60,000

550A-001 Transportation - Diesel $50,000

Council considers each of the above accounts as being overbudgeted for the 1992-93 school year and relies on its statistics indicating that these line items were not or will not be fully expended during the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years. Moreover, Council avers that in each of these line items economies can be realized if the Board engages in cooperative purchasing of its gasoline and diesel fuels. (Council's Position Statement filed July 27, 1992 and Summation filed August 14, 1992)

The Board disagrees with Council's recommendations initially by stating that the 520A account was actually underbudgeted by $7,806 during the 1991-92 school year. Moreover, the Board maintains that it does engage in cooperative buying of both gasoline and diesel fuels through purchases under State contract which is governed by the Public Schools Contract Law. Finally the Board maintains that higher prices for the purchase of gasoline and diesel fuels are already being experienced. (Superintendent's Affidavits of August 6 and 20, 1992)

Upon examination of the respective positions of the parties as evidenced by their submissions in the record of this matter, the Commissioner is not persuaded by Council's contention that a total amount of $110,000 can be sustained.

It is therefore directed that the $60,000, as well as the $50,000, reduction recommended by Council in the above line items be restored.

550C Tire and Tube Replacement $10,000

Council maintains that the Board has historically overbudgeted this account.

	Amount Budgeted	Amount Expended
1990-91	$33,000	$30,918
1991-92	$60,000	$33,042 (As of 3/30/92)

Council therefore contends that its reduction of $10,000 is reasonable and would leave the Board with $50,000 in this line item which is substantially more than the Board expended in each of the previous school years.

The Board on the other hand argues that:

> The amount of $60,000 budgeted for 1992-1993 is based upon a physical inspection of the tires on all vehicles used in the transportation department, numbering one hundred.
>
> We are purchasing only six new vehicles in 1992-1993. Our replacement cycle in 1992-1993 is at the lowest that it has been in years. When more buses are purchased, as in prior years, the new rear tires are removed and replaced with high quality all-weather recaps and the removed new tires are put on the front end of buses in need of tires. We cannot do this to the extent we would like this year because of the limited number of buses being purchased. Therefore, more new tires will have to be purchased in 1992-1993, not fewer.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

The Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has failed to delineate its need for the restoration of the $10,000 reduction in this line item. While the Commissioner does not doubt that the Board will experience an increased need for funds in this line item, he nevertheless finds that the Board should be in a position to quantify the specific amount of funds needed based on projected unit cost of such tires especially since it claims it has made an assessment based upon a physical inspection of the tires needed in its 100 school bus fleet.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner hereby sustains the reduction recommended by Council in this line item.

550F Transportation - Contracted Services $10,000

Council maintains that the Board has overstated its budget request in this line item during the 1991-92 school year.

	Amount Budgeted	Amount Expended
1991-92	$35,000	$18,464 (As of 3/30/92)

(Council's Position Statement, at p. 13)

> This account is for contracted repairs to transportation vehicles. The budgeted amount for 1992-1993 is $45,000. It was $35,000 in 1991-1992, the same as in 1990-1991. However, in 1990-1991, the account was over-expended by $7,530.69. The 1991-1992 account should have been budgeted at $42,530.69. Due to the fact that our transportation fleet is a year older and an assessment of our needs has been conducted, it is not unreasonable to have budgeted $2,500 more than the actual amount spent in 1990-1991.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, July 9, 1992)

While the Commissioner has no reason to doubt the Board position with regard to its expenditures in this line item for the 1990-91 school year, he cannot ignore the fact that the Board has failed to give any further accounting of its expenditures after March 30, 1992, at which time it had only expended $18,464 of the $35,000 budgeted in this line item for the 1991-92 school year.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that the Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that its needs for the 1992-93 school year warrant an increase of $10,000 in this line item. Council's recommended reduction of $10,000 in this line item is therefore sustained.

610A Salaries - Custodial Services $25,000

Council again relies on its Position Statement that the Board has underexpended the amounts budgeted in this line item for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years. (See Council's Position Statement, at pp. 13-14.) The Board, in rejecting Council's reasons for its recommended reduction, maintains that the $1,780,762 budgeted for the 1992-93 school year is required because it represents its actual contractual obligation to 78 custodians and custodial workers for the 1992-93 school year. The previous years balances in this line item are attributed by the Board to the following reasons:

***

> There are cases during the school year when employees in this account retire and the Board is able to hire replacements at a lower salary. Some custodians, due to the nature of the work and perhaps their ages, are more prone to injury on the job and are, therefore, out of work for a time and paid through Workman's Compensation instead of being charged to this account. Sometimes leaves of absence are granted to employees in this account without pay and substitutes are hired in their place. The pay for substitutes is charged to the 610A-001 account, which in 1991-1992 was over expended by $29,063.37.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

The Commissioner finds persuasive the justification provided by the Board in this line item in support of its request to restore Council's reduction of $25,000. It is directed that the $25,000 controverted herein be added to the local tax levy for the 1992-93 school year.

610A-002 Salaries - Custodial Overtime $25,000

The Commissioner has examined the record which includes the opposing arguments submitted by the parties regarding the recommended line item reduction. This reduction is rejected specifically for the reason stated by the Board in its Position Statement which reads in pertinent part:

> It must be pointed out that substantial amount is spent due to student activities on weekends and holidays; community use of facilities on weekends and holidays; security checks on weekends and holidays. All of this requires the payment of overtime based upon the board's negotiated contractual obligations.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, July 9, 1992)

It is hereby directed that $25,000 be added to the local tax levy for the 1992-93 school year in order to fully fund this line item.

610C-001 Operation of Plant - Overtime $12,000

Council points out that the Board had budgeted $3,000 in this line item for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years without expending any funds in either of these school years. Consequently, Council contends that $3,000 is sufficient to be budgeted in this account for the 1992-93 school year. (Council's Position Statement, at p. 15)

The Board's justification for the restoration of $12,000 recommended to be cut from this account reads in pertinent part:

> A major reason as to why $15,000 was budgeted for 1992-1993 is that overtime for warehouse employees will increase dramatically. In 1992-1993 there are only two central warehouse employees servicing 13 buildings. Two employees are responsible for receiving, warehousing, distributing and maintaining inventory records for all materials, equipment and supplies pertaining to the school district.
>
> There had previously been three employees in the warehouse. One was eliminated. The district is relying on the $15,000 in this account to pay the existing two warehousemen who will be working overtime hours as a result of the reduced staff.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

The Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has demonstrated to his satisfaction that the $15,000 budgeted in this line item is needed for its use during the 1992-93 school year. It is therefore directed that $12,000 be restored.

630 Heat for Buildings $50,000

The Commissioner observes that the Board in its supporting documentation has erroneously reported this line item as having been budgeted at $540,641 instead of $504,641 as it appears on the Board's budget worksheets. (See Exhibit A, Council's Position Statement) In any event, the Board maintains that it expended $497,538.76 on heat for the 1991-92 school year, Council's nine month analysis ($375,715) and projection of this line item notwithstanding. Additionally, the Board points out that to further complicate matters it was informed of the following:

> New Jersey Natural Gas representatives informed the school district's business administrator that a 4.8% increase went into effect in January, 1992. The full effect of the increase is not reflected in the 1991-1992 expenditure figure. Another rate increase, we were informed, will be announced in October, 1992.
>
> A reasonable and conservative projected requirement for 1992-1993 would be $497,538.76 expended for heat in 1991-1992 plus $23,881.86, which represents the 4.8% increase that went into effect last January. These two figures provided a conservative projected amount of $521,420.62 for 1992-1993. The school district has budgeted an additional $16,779.62 for an expected increase next October based on gas company information and because last winter was unusually warm.
> (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

It is observed from the analysis of this line item submitted by the Board that it is underbudgeted at $504,641 for the 1992-93 school year.

This matter is further complicated by the fact that no supporting documentation by way of a final audit report for the 1991-92 school year was submitted by the Board in support of this line item or any of the other line items controverted herein. However, in balancing the interests of both parties with respect to this line item reduction, the Commissioner finds that the funds appropriated for this account are too critical for the welfare of the pupils not to grant the Board's original request for the full $504,641. This is especially true if, in fact, the Board's projection of $521,420 turns out to be the amount that should have been budgeted herein for the year in question. Accordingly, the Commissioner directs that $50,000 be added to the local tax levy for this purpose to be available for the 1992-93 school year.

650D Other Supplies - Operation of Plant	$ 2,000
660D Miscellaneous Expenses - Operation of Plant	$ 2,500

Council maintains that the recommended reductions in each of these line items must be sustained for the reasons that the Board has underexpended the amounts budgeted for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years. (Council's Position Statement, at pp. 16-17; Summation, at pp. 38-41)

In its Summation, the Board points out that these line items were not increased in appropriations over the previous 1991-92 school year (650D - $5,000; 660D - $7,500). It argues that the 650D line item was fully expended during 1991-92 and that there was a remaining balance of $423.59 in the 660D line item for the same school year. The Board therefore argues that Council's respective reductions of $2,000 and $2,500 in these line items are unreasonable and totally without merit. (Superintendent's Affidavit, August 20, 1992)

The Commissioner does not find the amounts originally budgeted by the Board in these line items to be excessive. The Board's requested appropriations have remained constant for a two-year period. Moreover, the Commissioner finds credible the Superintendent's statement that each of these line items has been fully expended for the 1991-92 school year, with the exception of $423.59 remaining in the 660D line item.

It is therefore directed that the amounts of $2,000 and $2,500 be added to the local tax levy for the purpose of fully funding these line items for the 1991-93 school year.

This concludes the Commissioner's findings and determination with respect to each of the recommended line item reductions pertaining to the original budget appropriations controverted herein which affect the Board's current expense budget for the 1992-93 school year.

In summary, the Commissioner finds and determines that of the $1,130,000 tax levy reduction imposed by Council on the Board's 1992-93 budget appropriation, a sum of $49,500 of line item reductions has been sustained. The Commissioner further finds and determines that the remaining amount of $1,080,500 is essential to enable the Board to provide a thorough and efficient education for the pupils of Brick Township School District during the 1992-93 school year.

It is therefore ordered and directed that the local school tax levy for the 1992-93 school year in Brick Township be increased by $1,080,500 over that amount of $38,538,251 which was previously certified by Council for such purpose to the Ocean County Board of Taxation.

CAP WAIVER

In setting forth its position with respect to the $1,800,000 it seeks in current expense cap waiver monies, the Board relies on the fact that its cap waiver was thoroughly scrutinized by a panel from the Department of Education which included three members of the Division of County and Regional Services, two members of the Division of Finance and the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools.

The recommendation of the six-member panel was that the voter cap waiver was required for the provision of a thorough and efficient education in the Brick Township School District for the 1992-93 school year. The Board emphasizes that the cap waiver recommendation was reviewed and a final approval was given by the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of County and Regional Services and the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Finance. More specifically, the Board relies upon the comments made by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools in support of its claim that the cap waiver is an integral part of its 1992-93 budget request as follows:

> Your proposed 1992-93 school budget is by definition inadequate, and therefore the Brick Township school district requires a voter cap waiver in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of public education for the 1992-93 school year. We consider your proposed school budget as the minimum or "base budget", as we refer to it, and the items conditionally approved for your voter cap waiver are considered necessary "in addition to" all the items in the proposed budget. For this reason no deletions may be made of any programs, services, or staff positions in the proposed 1992-93 school budget. All of these items are considered necessary, and are the base for the conditionally approved cap waiver items.
>
> Stated another way, your proposed budget is now final, and the conditionally approved voter cap waiver items are necessary to make your total budget adequate.
>
> (Board's Cap Waiver Petition, Schedule B)

Council advances no specific argumentation relative to each cap waiver amount set forth on pages 2 and 3 herein. Rather, it urges the Commissioner to reject the Board's cap waiver appeal on the following grounds:

- The Commissioner is without authority to review the instant cap waiver appeal to raise the tax levy to extend the maximum permissible net budget as a matter of law. In support of its position, Council relies on what it considers the prohibitive provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-28 of the Quality Education Act; and

- Brick Township's School District budget at cap level is sufficient to provide the fiscal resources necessary for a thorough and efficient education.

In this regard Council maintains that the Board has failed to demonstrate that the amount of funds requested above the budget cap are necessary to provide a thorough and efficient education and further that it has failed to demonstrate that a reallocation within the permissible budget cannot be accomplished. (See Council's Position Statement, at pp. 2-4.)

The Commissioner finds and determines that Council's arguments against his review and determination with respect to the Board cap waiver appeal are totally without merit. In support of this determination the Commissioner is guided by the Opinion of the Attorney General dated July 8, 1991 which expressly states in pertinent part:

>
> In enacting L. 1991 c. 62, sect. 19(f), the Legislature did intend to broaden the availability of cap waivers and also to limit the review and appeal of cap waiver disapprovals where the constitutional mandate was not at issue. Thus, where the board of school estimate or city council certifies an amount for the budget that is consistent with the amount that the county superintendent approved as sufficient, no further review or appeal is available. Cf. N.J.S.A. 18A:22-14 (board of education can appeal board of school estimate's budget determination); N.J.S.A. 18A:22-17 (board of education can appeal governing body's certification for school budget); N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 (if voters reject budget, governing body to determine amount of budget; board of education can appeal that determination). See also Deptford, supra. Moreover, the Legislature intended the Commissioner to exhaust all available administrative solutions to meet the constitutional mandate such as directing reallocation before exercising his constitutional authority to set a budget above cap. This administrative discretion would include the authority to allocate monies from a $25 million discretionary fund in the FY 92 State Budget designed to "ensure the continuation of educational quality," L. 1991, c. 62 sect. 39, and thereby diminish the number of instances where resort to the cap waiver remedy is needed to meet the constitutional standard.
> A district whose budget was "conditionally approved" has an affirmative obligation to petition the Commissioner for additional funds so > that the fiscal resources to meet the constitutional mandate are available. See Deptford, 116 N.J. at 315 ("local boards have not only the power but the duty to appeal actions that threaten to deprive the local school system of necessary teaching staffs and physical facilities"). In considering the petition, the Commissioner should exercise restraint in overriding the expressed desires of the voters or board of school estimates. See Deptford, 116 N.J. at 314; Upper Freehold, 86 N.J. at 280. The district should be required to demonstrate not only that a particular amount of funds above the cap is necessary to provide a thorough and efficient education to children in the district but also that reallocation within the permissible budget amount cannot be accomplished.

> (Attorney General's Opinion, July 8, 1991, at pp. 5-6)

The Commissioner has made a thorough review of the Board's line items, together with its reasons for requesting a cap waiver in the amount of $1,800,000, the specific line items and amounts for which are set forth ante. The Commissioner adopts as his own herein those reasons advanced by the Board with ample supporting documentation in its cap waiver Position Statement for each of the line item appropriations and incorporates them as his own.

In the Commissioner's judgment the record is sufficiently developed to establish through the review conducted by the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools, as well as those Department of Education officials who participated in the review and approval of the Board's conditionally approved budget and cap waiver, that the reallocation of funds within the permissible budget could not be accomplished without a cap waiver approval. The Commissioner so holds.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that the $1,800,000 in current expense cap waiver funds sought by the Board are necessary for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education to the pupils of Brick Township.

The Commissioner therefore directs the Ocean County Board of Taxation to increase the 1992-93 current expense tax levy for the Brick Township School District to reflect a restoration of $1,080,500 in the reduction effectuated by Council and an additional $1,800,000 in cap waiver appropriations which sums reflect a total current expense tax levy increase of $2,880,500. Accordingly, the total 1992-93 current expense tax levy for the Brick Township School District shall be $41,418,751.

CURRENT EXPENSE

Tax Levy Certified by Council	$38,538,251
Restored by Commissioner (Defeated Budget)	1,080,500
Cap Waiver Ordered by Commissioner	1,800,000

Record Closed: October 30, 1992 Decided: November 12, 1992

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

These two matters, consolidated for purposes of decision, involve tenure charges filed against the respondent and which were transmitted by the Commissioner of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on November 29, 1991 and January 13, 1992, respectively. Plenary hearings were scheduled to take place in March 1992. However, in advance of those hearings, the undersigned was advised by counsel that the matter should be adjourned as the result of ongoing settlement discussions primarily related to respondent's intention to apply for ordinary disability retirement. As a result, the hearings were adjourned awaiting the outcome of that process.

Recently, a stipulation of settlement signed by the district superintendent of schools and her attorney, together with respondent and her attorney, was submitted to me for review and approval. That document sets forth that tenure charges had been certified against Penn as set forth above, and following that action respondent underwent an examination by a licensed physician who reported that respondent was totally and permanently disabled from teaching. Accordingly, respondent applied for ordinary disability retirement and the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund approved the same in July 1992.

Thus, in light of respondent's continued incapacity to perform her duties and her retirement on account of total permanent disability, the parties agreed that respondent would be considered to have resigned from her employment effective March 1, 1992. The Board therefore has determined to withdraw the tenure charges since they have been rendered moot. Respondent has represented in the settlement agreement that she is aware that as a result of the charges brought against her by the Board, and despite her resignation, the matter could be referred by the Commissioner to the State Board of Examiners with respect to potential revocation of her certification. In the event such proceedings were to be instituted, the Board agreed diligently to pursue the same if respondent chose to contest.

Having reviewed the file in this matter, I find that the settlement entered into between the parties is fair and reasonable and in the best interests of the public. First, since respondent resigned, effective March 1992, and has retired as of July 1992, it is reasonable to assume that she will never return to a teaching position. Also, she is aware that revocation of her certification could be recommended to the State Board of Examiners.

In light of the retirement and respondent's acknowledgement of a potential revocation proceeding, there is no reason to expend time and public resources in pursuing tenure hearings in this case. Thus, the settlement proposal is fair and reasonable in all respects, in the public interest, and will be recommended to the Commissioner for his approval.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the attached settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." 	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, Marguerite Penn (hereinafter "Ms. Penn") has been employed by the School District of the City of Jersey City since 1972; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Penn's employment continued in said district when it became the State-Operated School District of Jersey City (hereinafter the "District"); and

WHEREAS, tenure charges (Agency Reference #387-10/91, O.A.L. Docket #EDU 10691-91) of excessive absenteeism and medical incapacity were certified against Ms. Penn by the District Superintendent on October 29, 1991; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Penn's attorney filed an answer to said charges dated November 14, 1991, in which past absenteeism and incapacity were admitted but current incapacity or absenteeism was denied; and

WHEREAS, the District Superintendent certified additional tenure charges (Agency Reference #439-12/91, O.A.L. Docket #EDU 356-92N) against Ms. Penn on December 19, 1991, alleging the use of corporal punishment on November 1, 1991, and on alleged other occasions for which dates were not specified and asserting unbecoming conduct, incapacity and unfitness to teach; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Penn's attorney filed an answer dated January 7, 1992, denying any unbecoming conduct, incapacity or unfitness; and

WHEREAS, after further consultation between Ms. Penn and her attorney, Ms. Penn underwent an examination by a licensed doctor; and

WHEREAS, said doctor's confidential report established that Ms. Penn was totally and permanently disabled from teaching; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Penn applied for an ordinary disability retirement to be effective March 1, 1992; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund approved Ms. Penn's ordinary disability pension on July 2, 1992; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Penn continues to be incapacitated from performing her duties as a teacher and has been found to be totally and permanently disabled from performing said duties by the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund,

NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed between the parties as follows:

1. Ms. Penn hereby resigns and retires from employment with the District effective March 1, 1992.

2. The State-Operated School District hereby withdraws the tenure charges filed with the Commissioner of Education on October 29, 1992 and on December 19, 1991, and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, Docket Nos. EDU 10691-91 and EDU 356-92N, since said charges have been rendered moot by Ms. Penn's disability retirement and the necessary finding of the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund that Ms. Penn is totally and permanently incapacitated from teaching.

3. Ms. Penn enters into this agreement voluntarily and without coercion.

4. Ms. Penn is aware that, as a result of the charges brought against her, this matter may be referred to the State Board of Examiners for review regarding certification revocation proceedings. If such proceedings are instituted, the District agrees to diligently pursue said proceedings in the event that Ms. Penn should choose to contest that proceeding.

5. The District and Ms. Penn acknowledge that the terms of this Agreement are contingent upon the review and approval of both the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. In the event that either agency disapproves of the terms of settlement, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to this settlement.

6. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel of her or its own choosing and that each signs this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

8. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended or modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

9. For all of the previously noted reasons, the parties agree that this settlement is in the public interest, as well as the best interests of the parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought to challenge as improper the specifications and procedure under which said specifications were set forth that were promulgated by Board in soliciting competitive bids for new intercom system for schools. Board sought summary decision of petition.

ALJ found since petitioner was not a taxpaying resident of Old Bridge School District and he was not a bidder in respect to contract at issue in second round of bids, there was no legal authority under which standing could be conferred on petitioner to adjudicate issues set forth in his petition. Moreover, he did not timely challenge Board's rejection of the first round of bids in which he was a bidder. Petition was dismissed. Board's motion for summary decision was granted.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision but corrected initial decision to the extent that case law has held that under certain circumstances not only does a taxpayer have standing to challenge bidding law, but also an unsuccessful bidder. (H. A. DeHart)

JOHN GREEN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE,
Respondent.

John Green, petitioner, pro se

Francis X. Journick, Jr., Esq., on behalf of respondent (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 16, 1992 Decided: November 4, 1992

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is a motion instituted by the respondent, the Old Bridge Township Board of Education (Old Bridge or Board) seeking summary decision of the petition filed in this matter with the Commissioner of Education on or about September 8, 1992. For the following reasons, the motion is GRANTED.

On or about September 8, 1992, the petitioner, John Green, filed his petition before the Commissioner of Education setting forth in 23 paragraphs his effort to seek a temporary restraining order enjoining Old Bridge from awarding a bid for the construction and emplacement of two intercom systems in its school district, alleging inter alia that the specifications for the bid were deficient. Following the filing of the petition, Mr. Green sought emergent relief and the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1. On September 23, 1992, the matter was heard on Mr. Green's motion for an emergent stay of the award of the contract at issue by administrative law judge Robert S. Miller, who denied Mr. Green's motion. An order was issued on September 24, 1992, supported by a tape recorded ruling. To the best of my knowledge, either Judge Miller's order was never interlocutorily reviewed or, if it was, the Commissioner upheld it.

On October 5, 1992, the Office of Administrative received Old Bridge's motion and supporting papers seeking summary decision in the matter. On October 13, 1992, Mr. Green submitted his response and on October 16, 1992, the date on which the record closed, Mr. Journick submitted a letter reply.

The standard under which a motion for summary decision should be addressed in an administrative forum is substantially the same as it is when brought in the judiciary. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, the motion shall be granted if it is shown through the moving papers and any discovery that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Based upon this standard, I shall address the merits of the motion.

As noted, the petitioner is seeking to challenge as improper the specifications and the procedure under which they were set forth that were promulgated by Old Bridge in soliciting competitive bids for a new intercom system to be installed in several of its schools within the district. Initially three bids were received and opened by the Board on June 23, 1992, including Mr. Green's, which was the highest, and all three bids were rejected by the Board which determined to readvertise for new bids. The Board received and opened new bids on July 31, 1992. Mr. Green did not challenge the rejection of the bids opened on June 23, 1992, nor did he submit any bid in response to the second advertisement for bids. The contract was awarded on August 25, 1992. The successful bidder has already commenced the work required by the contract which, pursuant to Mr. Journick's brief, includes the purchase of materials and the prefabrication of equipment to be installed in the school buildings which are targeted for the installation.

As an incident to its motion, respondent moves for summary decision on a variety of grounds. Primary among these is Old Bridge's assertion that Mr. Green lacks standing to dispute the bids or specifications or any aspect of the award of the bid because he was a non-bidder and because his effort to undermine the result of the bidding process was untimely. Mr. Journick cites to the general proposition that a party which does not bid on a publicly advertised contract has no standing to challenge the specifications for the contract or any other action taken with respect to the contract, citing to Farrell v. Board of Education of Newark, 137 N.J.L. 408, 409-10 (Sup. Ct. 1948); and McGovern v. Trenton, 60 N.J.L. 402, 403-04 (Sup. Ct. 1897). While as a general Mr. Journick is correct, in my view, that is not the basis under which Mr. Green lacks standing. I base this qualification on the holding in Ruehl Company v. Board of Trustees, Industrial Ed., 85 N.J. Super. 4 (1964). In Ruehl which, to the best of my knowledge is still good law, the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, explicitly concluded that while an unsuccessful bidder was without standing to challenge the award of the contract to a rival bidder or to attack the alleged illegal specifications, "a citizen and taxpayer. . . may attack the award and also raise the question of the legality of the specifications." Here therefore, the mere fact that Mr. Green was not a bidder would not oust him from an effort to attack the award of the contract to a rival bidder or the specifications; ironically, it would only have been if, pursuant to Reuhl Mr. Green was an unsuccessful bidder that he would be without standing.

Mr. Journick also cites to the proposition that challenges to the bid specifications, such as the one undertaken here, may not be made "post-bid and even unsuccessful bidders lack the standing to support a challenge to bid specifications after the opening of bids." Brief, Francis X. Journick, Jr., at 5. Mr. Journick in support of that proposition cites to Camden Plaza Parking v. Camden, 16 N.J. 150, 158 (1954). While I agree with the proposition cited by Mr. Journick in Camden, that holding goes beyond the principle stated. While the court in Camden did specifically indicate that an unsuccessful bidder had no standing to make the attack at issue, as was the case in Reuhl, the Supreme Court also concluded that "citizens and taxpayers, may attack the award. . . and also raise the question of the sufficiency of the specifications for bidding.' Camden, 116 N.J. at 158-59.

Thus, in my view it is not Mr. Green's standing as a non-bidder that would oust him from legal standing to challenge the issues he sets forth in his petition in this proceeding. ~~He~~ is, however, ousted from standing for another reason. Mr. Journick represents as an officer of the court in his moving papers that Mr. Green "is not a taxpayer of the Old Bridge School District." Brief, Francis X. Journick, Jr., at 4. I must accept this representation. Moreover it should be noted that to the best of my knowledge Mr. Green does not dispute that issue. Given that Mr. Green is not a taxpaying resident of the Old Bridge School District and given that he was not a bidder in respect to the contract at issue, it is my view that there is no legal authority under which standing can be conferred upon Mr. Green to adjudicate the issues set forth in his petition. Therefore, in my judgment, and I CONCLUDE that as a matter of law, Old Bridge is entitled to prevail.

As a result of this determination I shall not address the second legal argument raised by Mr. Journick concerning Mr. Green's failure to join as a necessary party the company which received the bid. It should be noted as an aside, however, that in my judgment that argument would not have compelled me to grant Old Bridge's motion. Since Mr. Green is a pro se litigant, I would have exercised my discretion and apprised the successful bidder of the pendency of this action and given it the opportunity to intervene should it have chosen to. I would have delayed the proceedings on the substantive issues until the bidder would have been given the opportunity to exercise its right to intervene or to indicate its willingness to abide by the decision in this proceeding absent its intervention.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JOHN GREEN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, AND COSKEY ELECTRONICS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner affirms the grant of summary judgment to the Board of Education for the reasons which follow.

In reviewing the initial decision order dated November 4, 1992, the Commissioner takes note that on page 2 the ALJ mentions the motion heard in this matter on emergent relief on September 23, 1992, with an order denying such relief on September 24, 1992. The Commissioner of Education did, in fact, review that recommended initial decision on motion, and on October 7, 1992 adopted the findings and conclusions of the Office of Administrative Law as set forth in a tape recording of the hearing conducted on September 24, 1992, denying Petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief.

A second procedural issue is a vital part of the review of this case. At page 3 of the initial decision of November 4, 1992 the ALJ discusses petitioner's standing to bring this matter before the Commissioner of Education. In this regard, the Commissioner concurs with the Board's premise that petitioner lacks standing to bring this matter because he was a non-bidder at the time the Board readvertised for bids on the subject contract, and because he failed to timely challenge any objection he may have had to the Board's rejecting, in toto, the first round of bids. Farrell, supra, and McGovern, supra While it is the Commissioner's view, as well as the ALJ's, that Ruehl Company, supra, remains good law, our later-enacted statutes governing the bidding process, The New Jersey Public School Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. (effective June 2, 1977), has been interpreted as affording unsuccessful bidders standing to challenge certain aspects of the school bidding laws in this forum. See e.g. H. A. DeHart and Son v. Board of Education of Kingsway Regional High School District et. al., 1989 S.L.D. 2438, citing Saturn Construction Co. v. Middlesex Cty. Freeholders, 181 N.J. Super. 403, 407 (App. Div. 1981).

The Commissioner does agree with the ALJ that Ruehl, supra, stands for the proposition that citizens and taxpayers may have standing to attack the award of a bid. Insofar as the record establishes that petitioner is not a taxpayer of Old Bridge, though, he is without standing to appeal the bid award on that basis. However, as a matter of law, the Board is entitled to prevail in its Motion for Summary Judgment in this case because petitioner was neither a bidder in the second round of bids sought for the contract in question, nor did he timely challenge the Board's rejection of the first round of bids on such contract. Consequently, petitioner both lacks standing to bring such petition and also is untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Board's Motion for Summary Judgment is adopted as the Commissioner's own and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, two field hockey coaches, contested determination of respondent NJSIAA that they had violated NJSIAA coach disqualification (red card) rule and were therefore subject to two years' probation.

Upon review of record, including the proceedings before NJSIAA Controversies Committee and Executive Committee, Commissioner upheld decision of NJSIAA. Commissioner found petitioners had in fact violated the disqualification rule by allowing Coach White to coach two games from which she had been disqualified. Even if coaches had some question as to White's disqualification status, they should have recognized their obligation to resolve any uncertainties before permitting White to coach. Further, petitioners were not deprived of due process and the penalty imposed was within NJSIAA's lawful discretionary authority. Petition was dismissed.

KATHLEEN WHITE AND RENEE DORFMAN, :

PETITIONERS, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

For Petitioners, David B. Friedman, Esq. (Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell and Cohen)

For Respondent, Steven P. Goodell, Esq. (Picco, Mack, Herbert, Kennedy, Jaffe and Yoskin)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on August 17, 1992 by the filing of a Petition of Appeal, wherein petitioners, field hockey coaches at Cranford High School, contested the determination of respondent (hereinafter "NJSIAA") that they had violated the NJSIAA coach disqualification ("red card") rule and were therefore subject to two years' probation. An answer having been duly filed by NJSIAA, a briefing schedule was established and the record of proceedings before the NJSIAA Controversies Committee and the Executive Committee were submitted to the Commissioner. Upon receipt of NJSIAA's responsive brief on October 14, 1992, the record of this matter was deemed closed.

In their filings, petitioners argue that Petitioner White's coaching, with the full knowledge and consent of Petitioner Dorfman, of the two games immediately following issuance of a "red card" to White on October 10, 1991, was in no way due to a deliberate defiance of NJSIAA or disregard of its rules; to the contrary, petitioners were well acquainted with those rules and sincerely believed that White was free to coach pending a determination as to whether her red card was issued for "flagrant" misconduct, which petitioners understood to be the only circumstance that would result in automatic as opposed to discretionary disqualification. Petitioners, therefore, who believed that White's conduct was not serious enough to warrant automatic disqualification, are guilty at most of a misunderstanding based on information relayed at a pre-season rules interpretation session and not contradicted by their athletic director at his meeting with them on the day following the disqualification.

NJSIAA in turn argues that 1) the rule in question is clear on its face, as there is no basis for disqualifying a coach other than "unsportsmanlike and flagrant verbal or physical misconduct;" 2) contrary to petitioners' representation, the athletic director did in fact advise petitioners, who did not agree with his position based on what they viewed as the minimal nature of White's infraction, that White was automatically disqualified for two games due to issuance of the red card; and 3) even setting these considerations aside and accepting arguendo that White and Dorfman may have had some question about White's disqualification status, there is no reason why two coaches with 35 years of experience between them should not have recognized their obligation to resolve any uncertainties before permitting White to coach in view of the potential consequences to themselves and their team.

Upon careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner determines to uphold NJSIAA's decision for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that the regulations controlling this matter, which were undisputedly known to petitioners, are clear on their face and state as follows:

> Any coach/player disqualifed before, during or after an interscholastic event for unsportsmanlike and flagrant verbal or physical misconduct will be disqualified from the next two (2) regularly scheduled games/meets, with the exception of football which will carry a one (1) game disqualification, at that level of competition and all other game(s)/meet(s) in the interim at any level in addition to any other penalties which the NJSIAA or a league/conference may assess. Such disqualification prevents a coach/player from being present at the site.
> (NJSIAA Handbook, at p. 107)

> Officials are reminded that prudent judgement should be utilized prior to any disqualification. An official may not have a "change of mind" after the disqualification has been enforced; there is no such condition as "the act was not serious enough for the player/coach to be disqualified from additional game(s)." All disqualifications for misconduct of any degree will always carry the additional game(s) penalty; misconduct is not a "playing rule" violation.
> (Ibid., at p. 108)

> Attention: (a) Once a coach/player has been disqualified, NO appeals will be honored from the player, coach, official or any other party. Disqualification is a judgement call and officials must be certain the act warrants disqualification. All complaints against an official must be directed to the official's Chapter Secretary and the NJSIAA.
> (Ibid, at p. 109)

> Failure of a coach/official to follow the prescribed procedure in reporting the disqualification does not void the penalty and, if the official is at fault, it should be reported to the official's Chapter Secretary and the NJSIAA. (Ibid.)
>
> Any questions relative to period of disqualification should be referred to NJSIAA. (Ibid.)

The Commissioner further notes that, even accepting petitioners' contention--a contention in plain contradiction to the rules cited above--that they were in a position to question the severity of the official's decision to disqualify White and that some discretion was permitted as to penalty based on the degree of offense, the rules are equally clear on their face that any questions regarding disqualification status are to be referred directly to NJSIAA. While the Commissioner sees no basis in the transcript of proceedings before NJSIAA to challenge the credibility determinations whereby the athletic director's testimony was accepted rather than petitioners' as to what transpired at, and subsequent to, their meeting on the day following disqualification, the Commissioner finds that even if petitioners' account were accepted instead, they would not have been relieved of the burden of resolving any doubts on ambiguities before having White coach two games from which they were fully aware she may have been disqualified. Under these circumstances, there can be no question that, whatever their intentions may have been, petitioners did in fact violate the disqualification rule and are therefore subject to appropriate penalty.

The record of this matter is also clear that petitioners were deprived of no due process in proceedings before NJSIAA, and that the conduct and results of those proceedings could in no way be characterized as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Commissioner, therefore, will not substitute his judgment for that of NJSIAA and upset its lawful determination to impose a term of probation as prescribed by NJSIAA regulation. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jum Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259

Accordingly, the decision of respondent NJSIAA is sustained for the reasons expressed in the January 10, 1992 decision of the Controversies Committee and subsequently affirmed by the Executive Committee, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: November 9, 1992 Decided: November 13, 1992

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner seeking an order restraining respondent Board of Education from taking a variety of contemplated actions. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case by the Commissioner of Education on July 1, 1992 on Mr. Luber's petition seeking emergent relief by way of a stay. On July 7, 1992, an oral decision was issued by my office following proceedings occurring on July 6, 1992, which denied Mr. Luber's motion for stay. That decision was reduced to a transcript forwarded to both parties.

Following the issuance of that decision and pursuant to a conversation which my secretary had with him, Mr. Luber was informed that should he choose not to pursue the matter further he would send me a letter withdrawing his appeal. He was to advise us by letter to be submitted by July 8, 1992. No letter was submitted or received. After additional efforts to dispose of this matter were unsuccessful, on September 25, 1992, I addressed a letter to Mr. Luber indicating the following:

> As you will recall in late July 1992, you indicated that you would forward a letter to my office withdrawing your appeal in the above-entitled matter. To date, none has been received. Kindly submit a one sentence letter withdrawing your appeal in this matter forthwith.

Mr. Luber did not have the courtesy to respond to this letter or any of the other previous requests.

Accordingly and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that Mr. Luber has abandoned his rights to appeal these proceedings any further. It is accordingly ORDERED that the appeal be and is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice for failure to prosecute.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, unsuccessful bidder, alleged improper awarding of contract for general repairs and maintenance work and sought money damages.

ALJ concluded petitioner was not entitled as a matter of law to recovery of damages following completion of contracted work even if bid award was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 et seq. Citing N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 and M.A. Stephen Constr. Co., ALJ found petitioner's claim would twice penalize the public, contrary to the intent of bidding laws designed to protect the public rather than bidders. Moreover, respondents were not entitled to counsel fees.

Commissioner affirmed findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Bokey, Inc., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, alleging that it was the low bidder on an elementary school upgrade project, but that the contract was improperly awarded to a higher bidder, contrary to the Public School Contract Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to -59. The relief sought by petitioner is an award of damages in the amount of $26,000, which petitioner alleges represents its loss of profit.

Each of the respondents has filed or joined in a motion for summary decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. The respondents assert that even if the petitioner's claims are accepted as being true, they are entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 29, 1991, the Commissioner of Education received a letter from the petitioner which set forth allegations regarding a bid opening for general repairs and maintenance work for the Frenchtown Elementary School District Board of Education. By notice dated September 4, 1991, the petitioner was informed that his filing would be deemed a petition of appeal with request for emergent relief. The petitioner was further informed that the Commissioner would be unable to take any action to process the appeal and render a decision on the petitioner's request for a stay until three items were provided: an amended caption specifically naming as respondents both the Frenchtown Board of Education and the firm alleged to have been improperly awarded the disputed bid; proof, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(b), that the Board of Education and the named firm had been served with a copy of the amended caption and all materials filed with the Commissioner of Education; and a brief addressing the criteria for emergent relief set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5. A copy of the applicable regulations was also provided to the petitioner.

By notice dated October 10, 1991, the Department of Education informed the petitioner that it had received further filings in response to the earlier notice advising of deficiencies in the initial petition. However, the Department also noted that, notwithstanding its prior instructions conveyed to the petitioner both through regulation and numerous telephone conversations, the petitioner had yet failed to submit a brief addressing the criteria for granting of the emergency relief. The petitioner was further notified that, in view of the time elapsed since the action complained of and the ample opportunity to properly file for a stay, the Commissioner of Education would not consider the petition as an application for emergency relief, but would rather proceed to handle it as a regular petition of appeal. The respondents' answers were filed with the Commissioner of Education on November 4, December 16 and December 19, 1991. On January 13, 1992, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Prehearing conferences were conducted on June 4 and August 12, 1992. The respondents thereafter filed and joined in motions for summary decision and the petitioner submitted its response. When I determined that the last of the papers on the motions had been submitted, the record was closed on October 1, 1992.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The undisputed facts necessary for resolution of the summary decision motions are set forth in the papers submitted by the parties. For purposes of their motions, the respondents accept as true the facts stated in the petitioner's petition of appeal. The material facts are these:

1. Petitioner and others submitted bids to the respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Frenchtown for general repairs and maintenance at the Edith Ort Thomas Elementary School.

2. Petitioner was the lowest bidder on the project.

3. The respondent Board of Education did not accept the petitioner's bid; rather, contracts were awarded to respondents DeSapio Brothers, Inc. and Grafas Painting Contractors, Inc. The minutes of the school board's meeting of July 15, 1991 state that the bid documents submitted by the petitioner "were not in order."

4. The petitioner suffered monetary damages, in the form of loss of anticipated profit, for which he now seeks recovery.

5. The awarded contracts have been executed.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The respondents assert that even if the foregoing is true, the petitioner is not entitled to monetary damages and that they are entitled to decision as a matter of law. The petitioner argues that it should have been awarded the contract and that it lost its anticipated profit when the contract was awarded to other bidders. The petitioner contends that it should now be awarded damages in the amount of $26,000.

The purpose of requiring contracts for the performance of public work to be let upon competitive bidding is to secure competition and to guard against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance, and corruption. Statutes directed toward these ends are for the benefit of the taxpayers and not the bidder; they should be construed with sole reference to the public good. Hillside Tp. v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317, 322 (1957). It is well settled that a bidder claiming to be entitled to the award of a contract for public work has sufficient standing to challenge the rejection of the bid or the letting of the contract to another bidder, and to compel the award of the contract to him. But such standing was granting simply and solely in order that the public interest might be served by compelling the lax or erring public official to properly perform his public trust. It was not thereby intended to create or establish in the bidder entitled to the award of the contract a right which, if violated, would render the public agency liable in damages to the bidder. M.A. Stephen Constr. Co. v. Borough of Rumson, 125 N.J. Super. 67, 74 (App. Div. 1973).

In Commercial Clean. Corp. v. Sullivan, 47 N.J. 539 (1966), a low bidder brought suit to review the action of the State Director of Purchase and Property in rejecting plaintiff's bid, under a statute which directed that the award should be made to the "responsible bidder whose bid . . . will be most advantageous to the State, price and other factors considered." The Court there said:

> It should be noted that appellant quite properly makes no claim for damages based upon the alleged improper failure to award it the contract. Submission of the lowest bid in answer to an advertisement for bids by the State for public work cannot be the basis of a claim for damages based upon the failure or refusal to accept such bid. [Id. at 546.]

The court in M.A. Stephen Constr. Co., supra, 125 N.J. Super. at 75-76, described the public policy supporting this principle of law:

> Nor should it be overlooked that, to allow the lowest responsible bidder to recover damages not only would violate and run counter to sound and long established principles of law, but also would invert the very policy and reasons which gave rise to the obligation of the public official to accept the bid proposal which best serves the public interest. Thus, where a public authority improperly rejects the lowest bid and awards the contract to the next lowest bidder, who performs the contract work before the ultimate resolution of the legal propriety of the rejection, to permit the low bidder to recover damages would simply twice penalize the public.

The relief which the petitioner seeks is an award of damages for his anticipated loss of profit. Based upon the foregoing discussion, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner is not entitled to the recovery of any damages against the respective respondents by reason of the rejection of his bid, even assuming that such rejection was in violation of the Public School Contract Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1 to -59. Further support for this conclusion may be found at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46. Although not expressly relied upon by the respondents, this section of the Public School Contract Law provides that "[n]o action for damages shall lie against the State board, any State official, or any board of education or any of its officers because of any action taken by virtue of the provisions of this chapter." Thus, the petitioner's claim must be rejected.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision may be rendered when the moving and responsive papers show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as matter of law. Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954). Based upon the undisputed material facts and in accordance with the foregoing discussion, I CONCLUDE that the respondents have established that they are entitled to prevail on their motions for summary decision as a matter of law. Thus, their motions are GRANTED, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 (b).

Respondent Grafas Painting Contractors, Inc., has raised an additional matter. This respondent requests that an order be entered requiring the petitioner to pay the reasonable attorney fees incurred by Grafas, since it owes no legal or other obligations to the petitioner. However, respondent Grafas has offered no authority in support of its request.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner of Education has "jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. . . ." In Balsley v. North Hunterdon Reg. High Sch., 225 N.J. Super. 221 (App. Div. 1988), the plaintiff had petitioned the Commissioner to allow her to try out for the high school football team. Following a hearing, the administrative law judge awarded attorney fees, concluding that the Commissioner had ancillary authority to award counsel fees in contested cases. The Commissioner disagreed, ruling that he had no statutory authority to award such fees. The Appellant Court agreed with the Commissioner's decision, determining that he does not have plenary authority to award counsel fees in determining controversies and disputes presented to him under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Id. at 225. Citing State, Department of Environmental Protection v. Ventron Corp., 94 N.J. 473, 504 (1983), the court found that, "[s]ince 1948, New Jersey has consistently adhered to the general principle that 'legal expenses, whether for the compensation of attorneys or otherwise, are not recoverable absent express authorization by statute, court rule, or contract.'" Thus, I further CONCLUDE that respondent Grafas Painting Contractors, Inc., is not entitled to an award of attorney fees.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as was a reply thereto by respondent Board of Education. Both petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply reiterate prior arguments as set forth in the initial decision and need not be further addressed herein.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ for the reasons well stated by him that, even accepting all of petitioner's factual allegations arguendo, the relief he seeks cannot be granted him as a matter of law. The Commissioner further concurs that an award of legal fees to respondent Grafas Painting Contractors, Inc. is not within the Commissioner's scope of authority.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning custodian sought back pay and payment of legal fees from Board following acquittal (sexual assault, attempted sexual assault and/or endangering welfare of child).

Citing Beatty Commissioner decision, ALJ found petitioner was entitled to back pay for period from December 7, 1988 to March 31, 1991. ALJ determined petitioner was not entitled to reimbursement of counsel fees pertaining to criminal charges relevant to indictment in question and current matter (N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1) since charges were not of nature constituting act of omission arising out of or in course of performance of employment duties.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and rejected Board's exception requiring that absent statutory authority for awarding of back pay, petitioner be subject to the "public officer" standard set forth in DelRossi Appellate Division decision. Additionally, Commissioner noted that only Board not Board attorney can authorize any proposition relative to expenditure of funds.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On approximately May 30, 1991, Kevin Griffin (Griffin or petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (Department) seeking back pay and payment of legal fees from the City of Paterson Board of Education (Board or respondent). Respondent filed an answer, and the matter was transmitted by the Department to the Office of Administrative Law on August 9, 1991 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Telephone conferences were held on March 5 and May 18, 1992. The parties filed prehearing memoranda, and a hearing was held on September 28, 1992 The parties presented oral argument at the close of the hearing By telephone conference conducted on November 2, 1992, this judge requested that the parties file supplemental memoranda. The parties did so on November 5, 1992. However, the closing of the record was not extended, and the record was closed on September 28, 1992

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner, while employed by respondent, was arrested on May 23, 1988, was indicted on December 6, 1988, and was subsequently acquitted on July 10, 1990. He was suspended without pay by respondent on the date of the indictment and was restored to the payroll effective April 1, 1991 pursuant to a court order issued April 4, 1991.

Griffin seeks back pay for the period of his suspension, as well as reimbursement of counsel fees related to defense of the criminal action and the current matter. The latter request is based on an argument that respondent represented, at the time of the indictment, that if Griffin were acquitted, he would be restored to his former employment and reimbursed back pay and legal fees. Griffin argues that he is entitled to back pay based on the interpretation of relevant statutory provisions by the Commissioner of the Department (Commissioner). Respondent denies any agreement with petitioner and also argues that he is not entitled to the relief requested pursuant to applicable law.

STIPULATIONS

The parties entered into the following stipulations:

1. During the 1987-88 and 1988-89 school years, and for several years prior thereto, petitioner was employed by the Board as a custodian.

2. On May 23, 1988, petitioner was arrested and charged with various sexual offenses by two young female students of the school to which he was assigned.

3. Following his arrest, petitioner was transferred to another school where he continued his employment pending further developments.

4. Petitioner was indicted by the Passaic County Grand Jury on December 7, 1988 and charged with eight counts of sexual assault, attempted sexual assault and/or endangering the welfare of a child. The acts were alleged to have occurred during the 1987-88 school year and to have involved three girl students. Exhibit R-1 is a true copy of the indictment.

5. As a result of the indictment, petitioner was suspended that same day without pay pursuant to statutes. Exhibit R-2 is a copy of the letter notifying petitioner of his suspension. This letter was personally handed to petitioner on Wednesday, December 7, 1988.

6. Petitioner, following a jury trial, was acquitted of most counts of the indictment on July 10, 1990. The remaining counts were dismissed by the court on September 7, 1990.

7. On July 11, 1990, petitioner, through his attorney requested reinstatement with back pay and reimbursement of attorney fees.

8. When no decision was forthcoming from the Board, petitioner in March, 1991, through his attorney, filed a Verified Complaint and Order to Show Cause in the Superior Court, Passaic County.

9 On April 4, 1991, the Honorable Amos C. Saunders J.S.C., entered an Order directing petitioner's restoration to payroll as of April 1, 1991 and directing that all further issues be submitted to the Commissioner. The Order is as stated in Exhibit R-3.

10. Petitioner was restored to payroll April 1, 1991 and has ever since continued his employment with the Paterson School District at his appropriate salary.

11. The Board was abolished by Order of the State Board of Education dated

August 7, 1991, and a State operated district was created pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15.1. The parties agree that this change in governance does not affect the liabilities or defenses and that whatever liabilities or defenses were applicable to claims against the Board are likewise attributed to or available to the current State operated school district.

12. Had petitioner remained in the employment of the Paterson School District from December 1, 1988 through March 31, 1991, petitioner would have earned a total of $52,611.04. Exhibit R-4 is a statement of what his earnings would have been during that period, broken down on a monthly basis.

13. Pursuant to the above-referenced Order, petitioner filed the instant petition with the Commissioner on or about May 9, 1991.

14. From the date of his suspension, December 7, 1988, until the date of his reinstatement, April 1, 1991, petitioner earned no income from any source.

15. The amount of counsel fees incurred by petitioner, $12,000, is reasonable

16. If Sonia Williams (Williams) were to testify, her testimony would be as stated in Exhibit R-5.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner offered the testimony of Robert Graves Rosenberg, Esq. (Rosenberg), respondent's counsel during relevant time periods. As noted hereinabove, the parties stipulated to the testimony of Williams, who is a secretary in the Paterson School District. Respondent offered no witnesses. The documents referenced in the stipulations were moved into evidence.

Williams' certified statement was that she was a secretary assigned to respondent's then superintendent, Dr. Frank Napier (Napier) during the 1988-89 school year. Her responsibilities included provision of clerical support to the Board's Personnel Committee (Committee). The thrust of Williams' certification was that the Committee instituted a practice of taping Committee meetings commencing May 25, 1989, that she did not attend meetings after that practice was instituted, although she assisted in the preparation of notes and /or transcriptions, and that she did not attend meetings of the Committee prior to May 25, 1989, but had access to all written Committee records that were maintained. Williams certified that she recently reviewed all available records of the Committee from the 1988-89 school year and did not find any documents referencing Griffin or communications from Rosenberg pertaining to Griffin or Griffin's attorney, Raymond Reddin (Reddin). Williams certified that she did find references to two Committee meetings on December 5, 1988 and October 13, 1988 and that none of the documents referenced the current subject matter. Rosenberg testified regarding his understanding of policies and practices of respondent generally pertaining to suspensions and reimbursement of costs and of respondent's determinations in that respect regarding Griffin specifically.

Rosenberg impressed me as a sincere witness. However, his testimony regarding prior practices of respondent regarding the awarding of back pay and reimbursement of costs was very general. Similarly, his testimony regarding any communications or authorizations for reimbursement of costs to Griffin was not grounded in detail. I am persuaded that the record does not establish any clear cut policies, either in the past nor during the applicable time periods, of awarding of back pay or reimbursement of costs nor any such agreements with Griffin authorized by the Board.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

Rosenberg commenced employment with respondent in September 1984, at which time he was an assistant counsel to the Board. He also maintained a private law practice. He became acting chief counsel to the Board in November 1987, and counsel, as well as secretary to the Board, in February 1985. Rosenberg was employed by respondent until June 30, 1990. During his tenure with the Board, he maintained a private practice. He devoted approximately 75 percent of his professional time to respondent's affairs; and 25 percent, to his practice.

In May of 1988, Rosenberg attended a meeting with Napier, respondent's then Superintendent of Schools, Edward Magliaccio (Magliaccio), the Board's Business Administrator, who ultimately was in charge of all custodians employed by respondent, and Norm Malone (Malone), the direct supervisor of custodians. During this meeting, Rosenberg was informed of allegations of sexual assault by petitioner and was queried regarding what the Board should do and what standard policy was. As of that time, petitioner was not yet indicted. Rosenberg recommended that petitioner be transferred to a facility which had in the past been used as a school, but which for the past 20 years has been used as a "shop" by respondent, that is, for maintenance activities and storing of supplies. This recommendation was made so that petitioner would not be in daily contact with any students because only adults are present at the facility. As stipulated, petitioner was transferred subsequent to the May 23, 1988 arrest.

Rosenberg attended another meeting with Board personnel on approximately December 5, 1988, which meeting was held in Napier's office. Rosenberg, Napier, Magliaccio, and Malone were present, as was the then Board president, Elysse Evans (Evans). The individuals present generally discussed what should be done with petitioner, what action should be taken by the Board, and various recommendations of Rosenberg, Napier, and Maggalioccio. Evans was to report back to the Board on the recommendations of the Superintendent's office.

As stipulated, petitioner was suspended without pay December 7, 1988 and was notified of this action by a letter handed to him on December 7, 1988. This letter, which was sent over Rosenberg's signature, informed Griffin that because of an indictment alleging sexual crimes with children, he was suspended by the Superintendent without pay pursuant to state statutes. The letter contained no references or any discussion pertaining to the question of back pay or reimbursement of costs.

Approximately within one week of the December 1988 meeting, the Board considered the suspension determination at a Board meeting. In addition, Reddin called Rosenberg and requested that petitioner be suspended with pay. Rosenberg told Reddin that this could not be done because applicable statutes required a suspension without pay and told Reddin that it was Board policy to provide back pay and reimbursement of costs to employees suspended because of pending charges who are subsequently vindicated. During the course of the conversation, Reddin referenced the possibility of legal action by petitioner regarding the suspension without pay. It was Rosenberg's conclusion at the time that if petitioner sued regarding the suspension without pay, Griffin would lose.

Available records of the Committee for the 1988-89 school year do not contain any notes or other documents referencing petitioner or any communications from Rosenberg regarding Griffin or petitioner's attorney, Reddin. The documents contain references to two Committee meetings held in the last three months of 1988. One was held on December 5, 1988; and the other, on October 13, 1988. None of the documents contain any reference to the matters at issue.

In the past, a principal employed by respondent, a Mr. Orbach (Orbach), was charged on two separate occasions with second degree sexual assault, transferred prior to indictments being issued, and then suspended without pay after indictments were issued. Orbach was acquitted on both occasions, and respondent paid him back pay plus attorney fees, as well as the costs of private investigators. The first case involving Orbach was in approximately 1976, and the second; in 1976-77, prior to Rosenberg's tenure as counsel to the Board. Another case involved Joseph Clark (Clark), a Board employee involved in a criminal contempt charge The matters involving Clark occurred in approximately 1987, 1988 and 1989 Respondent reimbursed Clark for counsel fees. The specific circumstances regarding these incidences, as well as reimbursement by respondent, cannot be determined from the record. There are no written documents memorializing any prior practice by respondent regarding awarding of back pay or reimbursement of costs.

In the past, the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) of the State Department of Human Services (DYFS), has been involved in situations pertaining to allegations involving Board employees and students. The Board has, in the past, reimbursed employees involved in DYFS investigations for costs when the employees have been vindicated. The circumstances pertaining to any such instances cannot be determined from the record. Respondent has also, in the past, provided reimbursement in other cases, the exact nature of which and specific relevant facts pertaining to which also cannot be determined from the record.

During Rosenberg's tenure, respondent's Superintendent would, on occasion, notify Rosenberg of various agreements to reimburse costs reached with employees, and Rosenberg would negotiate reimbursement with employee's counsel. In some instances, respondent negotiated set fees at the outset with employees' attorneys, for example, on issues involving municipal court matters, in efforts to minimize costs to respondent. This was sometimes done in conjunction with efforts of respondent's corporation counsel. In other instances, including indictments, the Board subsequently negotiated fees with employees' counsel, rather than setting a minimum fee at the outset. Whatever approach was taken in the past, each matter was presented to the Board for formal action via a resolution approving the issuance of checks. It cannot be determined from the record whether any such practices of the Board are reflected in collective bargaining agreements with Board employees. Rosenberg did not negotiate fees with Reddin. No Board resolutions were issued regarding reimbursement to Griffin.

Rosenberg unexpectedly became ill in March 1990 and never returned to employment with the Board. As stipulated, petitioner was acquitted of most counts of the indictment on July 10, 1990, and the remaining counts were dismissed by the court on December 7, 1990. Rosenberg was not counsel to the Board as of July 1990 nor September 1990.

Petitioner's salary for December 1988 was $1,428.58.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDERS

Petitioner seeks relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which vests the Commissioner with jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. Local school boards have the authority to discontinue the salary of employees who are under criminal indictment:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 (emphasis added).

However, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 does not address the question of restoration of lost salary subsequent to an acquital of criminal charges. In contrast, an unindicted school employee subject to a tenure charge is expressly entitled to resumption of full salary after expiration of 120 calendar days from certification of a charge and, if the charge is dismissed, such person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of the suspension. Id. at §14.

Any person holding employment in a public school system of the State who is illegally dismissed or suspended is entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension, if such shall be finally determined to have been without good cause, upon written application therefore with the board or body with whom he was employed, within 30 days after such determination. Id. at §30. The suspension of Griffin, however, was not without good cause at the time it was made. As discussed, the suspension without pay of an employee who is indicted is authorized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. See also, Slater v. Ramapo-Indian Hills Bd. of Ed., 237 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1989). Petitioner was indicated for sexual assault and sexual conduct with minor females. Such charges do not constitute acts or omissions arising out of or in the course of a performance of the duties of a school district employee. McCorkle v. Pittsgrove Tp. Bd. of Ed., A-5550-81T2, unreported App. Div., dec'd June 2, 1983 (McCorkle).

It is reasonable to conclude that there is no express statutory right to back pay subsequent to an acquittal. Notwithstanding, in a recent case involving the question of whether a suspended teacher should receive back pay following acquittal of criminal charges, the Commissioner held that "fundamental fairness" dictated that the teacher be granted back pay, including sick pay and vacation pay, in light of the fact that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on an indictment. Beatty v. Newton Bd. of Ed., 1991 S.L.D. (Comm'r. June 25, 1991) (Beatty).

At all relevant times, Beatty was a tenured teacher in the Town of Newton School District. In 1988, a complaint was issued against him alleging aggravated sexual assault in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:14-2(a)(2) and endangering the welfare of a child in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4A, both charges naming Beatty's stepdaughter as the alleged victim. As a result, the Newton Board of Education suspended Beatty from his teaching duties, but continued paying a salary while the case was pending grand jury presentation. On approximately June 8, 1989, the Sussex County Grand Jury handed up a six-count indictment against Beatty, alleging various acts of sexual conduct against minor females, including his stepdaughter. Following the indictment, Beatty was suspended without pay. A jury trial was held in December 1990, and a verdict of not guilty, completely acquitting Beatty of all charges on all counts, was returned on September 20, 1990. Beatty thereafter requested reinstatement and back pay. Newton's superintendent notified Beatty by letter dated December 20, 1990 that he would be continued to be suspended pending the investigation of disciplinary charges, but that the suspension would be with pay commencing December 21, 1990. The board subsequently determined that Beatty was not entitled to back pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and thereafter served tenure charges on Beatty on April 24, 1991. Beatty at 1-3.

The Commissioner characterized the issue presented in Beatty as "a case of first impression," distinguishing a prior decision of the State Board of Education, Pawlak v. Board of the Borough of Hopatcong, (App. Div. July 12, 1989), which involved disposition of an indictment through completion of a pretrial intervention program. Beatty at 8. The Commissioner determined that in the context of the Beatty facts, there should be an award of back pay:

> Notwithstanding the absence of specific statutory language, the Commissioner believes that in weighing the equities of this matter, fundamental fairness dictates that petitioner be granted back pay for the period of his unpaid suspension given that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on the indictment which provided the basis for his suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. At the present time, petitioner has not been found guilty of any wrongdoing and the indictment upon which the suspension is based has been disposed of in his favor; therefore, it is concluded that as a matter of equity, back pay is warranted under the circumstances, less mitigation for monies earned during the period of his lawful suspension without pay from June 1989 to December 20, 1990. The fact that tenure charges are pending against petitioner and he has been lawfully suspended without pay under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 does not alter the equities of the matter. If petitioner is found guilty of the tenure charges, an appropriate penalty shall be fashioned by the Commissioner, which could include but is not limited to reduction in salary or dismissal. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 Beatty at 9-10.

Relying on Balsley v. North Hunterdon Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990), the Commissioner determined that he did not have the authority to grant attorney fees but, concerning Beatty's request for sick pay and vacation pay, held that "petitioner is to have restored to him whatever emoluments and benefits he would have had owing to him if he had never been suspended without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3." Id. at 10.*

The facts of the Beatty case are strikingly similar to those of the current one. In addition, the fact that respondent did not issue tenure charges against petitioner bolsters Griffin's claim for back pay. However, this distinction is not determinative.

I am, however, persuaded that petitioner is not entitled to legal fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A.16-6.1, which provides that if any criminal action is instituted against an individual for an act or omission, and such proceeding is dismissed or results in a final disposition in favor of such person, a local board of education shall reimburse him for the course of defending the proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees. "N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 is specifically tied in legislative context to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6." McCorkle at 2. The latter provision provides that whenever any civil action is brought against any person holding employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, for an act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties, the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6. In McCorkle, the court rejected a claim for counsel fees by a teacher indicted for sexual assault on a minor female student who subsequently was accepted into a pre-trial intervention program and completed a six-month program resulting in an order dismissing the indictment and a marking of his case as 'Complaint Dismissed--Matter Adjusted'. McCorkle at 1. Without reaching the question of whether the 'dismissal' constituted the type of dismissal the Legislature contemplated as grounds for reimbursement, the court determined, as referenced hereinabove, that the employee was not entitled to reimbursement because a criminal charge of the nature implicated was

---

* The Commissioner's reliance on Balsley appears to be misplaced. In Balsley, the Court held that the Commissioner is not authorized to award counsel fees in education-discrimination proceedings brought before the Commissioner or transferred to the Commissioner. However, it is apparent that the counsel fees in question related to the costs of litigation before the Department. Balsey did not address a situation in which an individual seeks a determination from the Commissioner on the obligation of a local school board to reimburse an employee for counsel fees to litigate a proceeding in another forum.

not of the nature constituting an act or omission arising out of or in the course of the performance of employment duties. Id. at 2. The same reasoning applies to petitioner.

The only basis on which petitioner can therefore claim reimbursement of counsel fees is in essence a contract theory. The Commissioner's jurisdiction to resolve a contract issue is assumed in light of the applicable court order.

I am not persuaded that a binding contract has been established by petitioner, who has the burden of proof. The inference in Rosenberg's testimony was that Napier and other personnel agreed to reimbursement in return for an agreement by Griffin not to take legal action against his suspension without pay subsequent to the indictment. I am persuaded that there is no credible evidence on which to base a finding that this was expressly decided by respondent's personnel, nor communicated to Griffin, notwithstanding the question of whether or not formal action was required by the Board. Parenthetically, I am not persuaded by respondent's argument that consideration was not provided by Griffin, assuming that there were such communications, because he had no legal claim to reimbursement subsequent to the indictment. It is apparent that costs and some uncertainty are always associated with legal proceedings, which respondent may very well have wanted to avoid. However, I am persuaded by respondent's argument that quasi-contract has not been established in this case, the evidence does not establish reliance, even assuming communications of the nature implicated by Griffin.

The expenditure of funds by a local school board in the custody of its treasurer representing school moneys shall be effectuated in a certain specified manner and circumstances, including after audit of the account or demand to be paid, by the secretary, after approval by the board of education, or when provided by resolution of the board, after audit of the account or demand to be paid, and approval by a person designated by the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1. Similarly, applicable statutes provide that no claim or demand against a school district shall be paid unless approved by a board of education or a person designated by the board for such purpose:

> No claim or demand against a school district shall be paid by the treasurer unless it is authorized by law and the rules of the board of education of the district, is fully itemized and verified, has been duly audited as required by law, has been presented to, and approved by, the board at a meeting thereof, or presented to, and approved by, a person designated by the board for that purpose, and the amount required to pay the same is available for said purpose. Id. at §19-2.

Expenditures exceeding $150, except for payrolls and debt service, shall be verified by affidavit or signed declaration in writing. Id. at §19-3. (Supp. 1992-93). All claims and demands against a school board, except those to be paid from funds derived from athletic events or other activities of pupil organizations, shall, unless otherwise provided by resolution of the board, be examined, audited, and certified in writing by the secretary and presented to the board for its approval at a regular meeting and, if found to be correct, shall be ordered paid by the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:19-4. A board of education may, by resolution, designate a person, in addition to the secretary, to audit an account and demand to be paid and provide for approval of such account or demand by such person or the secretary prior to presentation to the board. Any such approval shall be presented to the board at their next meeting for ratification. A board may establish a maximum dollar amount for which payment may be authorized without prior board approval. Id. at §4.1.

As respondent argues, there is no evidence that a request for reimbursement was ever presented and approved by the Board, or that the Board designated anyone, including Rosenberg, to approve such a request. In fact, the absence of a formal Board resolution, in light of its past practices, raises an inference that the Board did not approve petitioner's request for reimbursement.

There is no evidence that the Committee ever endorsed or discussed Rosenberg's "promise" on behalf of respondent. In fact, Williams' certification supports an inference that it did not do so. The evidence does not support a finding that the Superintendent expressly authorized Rosenberg to make an express promise to petitioner or his attorney that Griffin would be reimbursed.

Rosenberg acknowledged on cross-examination that to a substantial degree the basis for the Board's practices in the past of reimbursement of costs was legal advice given by a former Board attorney 10 to 15 years ago that such was legally required. Prior advice of counsel, especially of such distant tenure, does not support a finding that the Board's practice at the time in question was to provide reimbursement. In any event, there is nothing, as respondent argues, to prevent a change in Board policy nor does the evidence support petitioner's position that there were binding assurances of reimbursement made to him. Absent approval of the Board or an individual designated by the Board for such purpose, any promise made to petitioner cannot bind respondent. See, e.g., Vandenbren v. Board of Education of the School District of Wanaque, 1967, S.L.D. 4 (Jan. 19, 1967), aff'd State Board of Education, 1967 S.L.D. 6 (Jan. 8, 1968), Cardman v. Board of Education of the Township of Millburn, 1977, S.L.D. 746, (June 23, 1977). In the analogous area of municipal corporations, the unauthorized consent of a municipal attorney cannot bind the governing body. City of Jersey City v. Roosevelt Stadium, 210 N.J. Super. 315 (App. Div. 1986).

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to back pay for the period from December 7, 1988 through March 31, 1991. As stipulated, had petitioned remained in respondent's employ from December 1, 1988 through March 31, 1991, he would have earned a total of $52,611.04. Strictly speaking, petitioner should only receive back pay commencing December 7, 1988, the date of his suspension without pay. Petitioner should not receive back pay for the first week of December 1988. However, the record does not contain data indicating what would constitute the equivalent of a weekly salary For Griffin. This Judge takes notice of the fact that December 1988 had 22 weekdays. Converting petitioner's monthly salary for December 1988 into a daily rate of $64.94 ($1,428.58 divided by 22), a reduction for five working days representing the first week of December would result in a decrease of $324.68 ($64.94 times 5), or total reimbursement of back pay in the amount of $52,286.36 ($52,611.04 minus $324.68). I also CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement of counsel fees pertaining to the criminal charges relevant to the indictment in question and the current matter.

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent reimburse petitioner for back pay for the period December 7, 1988 through March 31, 1991 in the amount of $52,286.36 within 90 days of the effective date of this decision. It is also hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for counsel fees associated with defending the indictment issued on December 7, 1988 and with the current matter be and is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner and Respondent filed timely exceptions in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner concurs with the initial decision of the ALJ regarding the awarding of back pay but urges that the decision be reversed regarding reimbursement for counsel fees incurred. Although petitioner disagrees that the charges levied against him did not arise out of or in the course of the performance of his duties as a school employee, he acknowledges that the ALJ utilized the applicable case law in making this determination. Petitioner does, however, believe that the ALJ erred in determining that, absent ratification by the Board, an agreement reached with the Board's attorney regarding reimbursement for legal fees incurred by the petitioner is not an enforceable contract. Petitioner contends that he entered into an agreement, in good faith, with the Board's attorney who had the apparent and seemingly express authority to bind the Board. Petitioner avers that he has established the existence of a contractual relationship and the burden should now be placed on the Board to prove that its agent did not have the authority to bind it.

The Board's exception avers that the ALJ erred in essentially deciding the back pay issue on the authority of Beatty v. Newton Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 1001, appeal pending, State Board of Education. The Board concedes that Beatty supports the ALJ's finding but disputes the soundness of using this decision as precedent in light of an intervening Appellate Division decision, as well as consideration of an analogous municipal statute and Supreme Court case law which was not cited or discussed in Beatty.

The Board contends that the absence of a statutory provision for back pay is significant. To support its position the Board utilizes a municipal statute authorizing compensation for police officers in circumstances similar to those of the petitioner and Supreme Court discussion regarding the Legislature's ability to provide compensation for police officers in such circumstances if it so desired. The Board avers that, absent authorizing legislation, the back pay determination in the instant case should be made in accordance with the common-law rule articulated in DelRossi v. DHS, 256 N.J. Super. 286 (App. Div. 1992). Essentially, this rule specifies that "public officers" are not entitled to compensation for periods of time they did not serve the public even if the period of no service was due to the pendency of criminal charges ultimately dismissed. Therefore, the Board seeks reversal of that portion of the initial decision allowing back pay.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner adopts the recommended ALJ decision for the reasons outlined in the decision. The Commissioner would add the following in response to petitioner's exception, regarding the establishment of a contract, to the ALJ's cognizant disposition recited at pages 12-14. The Commissioner notes that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:19-2 no expenditures may be authorized by other than the Board in accordance with its prescribed policies and procedures. Consequently, petitioner could not have reasonably relied on assurances from a Board attorney regarding any proposition related to the expenditure of funds without formal Board approval and action.

In response to the Board's exception, the Commissioner rejects the Board's contention that, absent specific statutory authority, petitioner should be denied back pay under the common-law public officer standard outlined in DelRossi. The Commissioner notes the footnote on page 290 of DelRossi where the court acknowledges that the common-law rule articulated does not apply to public employees who are not public "officers." The footnote continues that DelRossi qualifies as a public "officer" by virtue of his position as a police lieutenant (or sergeant). The Commissioner determines that the Board's argument that the school custodian petitioner in the instant case should be viewed as a "public officer" is without merit.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the police officer plaintiff in DelRossi would also not qualify for back pay under the "fundamental fairness" standard expressed in Beatty since the indictment upon which his suspension was based was not disposed of in his favor but through completion of PTI.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law awarding petitioner back pay but denying reimbursement for legal fees is affirmed.

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning custodian sought back pay and payment of legal fees from Board following acquittal (sexual assault, attempted sexual assault and/or endangering welfare of child).

Citing Beatty Commissioner decision, ALJ found petitioner was entitled to back pay for period from December 7, 1988 to March 31, 1991. ALJ determined petitioner was not entitled to reimbursement of counsel fees pertaining to criminal charges relevant to indictment in question and current matter (N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1) since charges were not of nature constituting act of omission arising out of or in course of performance of employment duties.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and rejected Board's exception requiring that absent statutory authority for awarding of back pay, petitioner be subject to the "public officer" standard set forth in DelRossi Appellate Division decision. Additionally, Commissioner noted that only Board not Board attorney can authorize any proposition relative to expenditure of funds.

Record Closed: September 28, 1992 Decided: November 12, 1992

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On approximately May 30, 1991, Kevin Griffin (Griffin or petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (Department) seeking back pay and payment of legal fees from the City of Paterson Board of Education (Board or respondent). Respondent filed an answer, and the matter was transmitted by the Department to the Office of Administrative Law on August 9, 1991 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

Telephone conferences were held on March 5 and May 18, 1992. The parties filed prehearing memoranda, and a hearing was held on September 28, 1992 The parties presented oral argument at the close of the hearing By telephone conference conducted on November 2, 1992, this judge requested that the parties file supplemental memoranda. The parties did so on November 5, 1992. However, the closing of the record was not extended, and the record was closed on September 28, 1992

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner, while employed by respondent, was arrested on May 23, 1988, was indicted on December 6, 1988, and was subsequently acquitted on July 10, 1990. He was suspended without pay by respondent on the date of the indictment and was restored to the payroll effective April 1, 1991 pursuant to a court order issued April 4, 1991

Griffin seeks back pay for the period of his suspension, as well as reimbursement of counsel fees related to defense of the criminal action and the current matter. The latter request is based on an argument that respondent represented, at the time of the indictment, that if Griffin were acquitted, he would be restored to his former employment and reimbursed back pay and legal fees Griffin argues that he is entitled to back pay based on the interpretation of relevant statutory provisions by the Commissioner of the Department (Commissioner). Respondent denies any agreement with petitioner and also argues that he is not entitled to the relief requested pursuant to applicable law.

STIPULATIONS

The parties entered into the following stipulations:

1. During the 1987-88 and 1988-89 school years, and for several years prior thereto, petitioner was employed by the Board as a custodian.

2. On May 23, 1988, petitioner was arrested and charged with various sexual offenses by two young female students of the school to which he was assigned.

3. Following his arrest, petitioner was transferred to another school where he continued his employment pending further developments.

4. Petitioner was indicted by the Passaic County Grand Jury on December 7, 1988 and charged with eight counts of sexual assault, attempted sexual assault and/or endangering the welfare of a child. The acts were alleged to have occurred during the 1987-88 school year and to have involved three girl students. Exhibit R-1 is a true copy of the indictment.

5. As a result of the indictment, petitioner was suspended that same day without pay pursuant to statutes. Exhibit R-2 is a copy of the letter notifying petitioner of his suspension. This letter was personally handed to petitioner on Wednesday, December 7, 1988.

6. Petitioner, following a jury trial, was acquitted of most counts of the indictment on July 10, 1990. The remaining counts were dismissed by the court on September 7, 1990.

7. On July 11, 1990, petitioner, through his attorney requested reinstatement with back pay and reimbursement of attorney fees.

8. When no decision was forthcoming from the Board, petitioner in March, 1991, through his attorney, filed a Verified Complaint and Order to Show Cause in the Superior Court, Passaic County.

9 On April 4, 1991, the Honorable Amos C. Saunders J.S.C., entered an Order directing petitioner's restoration to payroll as of April 1, 1991 and directing that all further issues be submitted to the Commissioner. The Order is as stated in Exhibit R-3.

10. Petitioner was restored to payroll April 1, 1991 and has ever since continued his employment with the Paterson School District at his appropriate salary.

11 The Board was abolished by Order of the State Board of Education dated

August 7, 1991, and a State operated district was created pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-15.1. The parties agree that this change in governance does not affect the liabilities or defenses and that whatever liabilities or defenses were applicable to claims against the Board are likewise attributed to or available to the current State operated school district.

12. Had petitioner remained in the employment of the Paterson School District from December 1, 1988 through March 31, 1991, petitioner would have earned a total of $52,611.04. Exhibit R-4 is a statement of what his earnings would have been during that period, broken down on a monthly basis.

13. Pursuant to the above-referenced Order, petitioner filed the instant petition with the Commissioner on or about May 9, 1991.

14. From the date of his suspension, December 7, 1988, until the date of his reinstatement, April 1, 1991, petitioner earned no income from any source.

15. The amount of counsel fees incurred by petitioner, $12,000, is reasonable

16. If Sonia Williams (Williams) were to testify, her testimony would be as stated in Exhibit R-5.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner offered the testimony of Robert Graves Rosenberg, Esq. (Rosenberg), respondent's counsel during relevant time periods. As noted hereinabove, the parties stipulated to the testimony of Williams, who is a secretary in the Paterson School District. Respondent offered no witnesses. The documents referenced in the stipulations were moved into evidence.

Williams' certified statement was that she was a secretary assigned to respondent's then superintendent, Dr. Frank Napier (Napier) during the 1988-89 school year. Her responsibilities included provision of clerical support to the Board's Personnel Committee (Committee). The thrust of Williams' certification was that the Committee instituted a practice of taping Committee meetings commencing May 25, 1989, that she did not attend meetings after that practice was instituted, although she assisted in the preparation of notes and /or transcriptions, and that she did not attend meetings of the Committee prior to May 25, 1989, but had access to all written Committee records that were maintained. Williams certified that she recently reviewed all available records of the Committee from the 1988-89 school year and did not find any documents referencing Griffin or communications from Rosenberg pertaining to Griffin or Griffin's attorney, Raymond Reddin (Reddin). Williams certified that she did find references to two Committee meetings on December 5, 1988 and October 13, 1988 and that none of the documents referenced the current subject matter. Rosenberg testified regarding his understanding of policies and practices of respondent generally pertaining to suspensions and reimbursement of costs and of respondent's determinations in that respect regarding Griffin specifically.

Rosenberg impressed me as a sincere witness. However, his testimony regarding prior practices of respondent regarding the awarding of back pay and reimbursement of costs was very general. Similarly, his testimony regarding any communications or authorizations for reimbursement of costs to Griffin was not grounded in detail. I am persuaded that the record does not establish any clear cut policies, either in the past nor during the applicable time periods, of awarding of back pay or reimbursement of costs nor any such agreements with Griffin authorized by the Board.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

Rosenberg commenced employment with respondent in September 1984, at which time he was an assistant counsel to the Board. He also maintained a private law practice. He became acting chief counsel to the Board in November 1987, and counsel, as well as secretary to the Board, in February 1985. Rosenberg was employed by respondent until June 30, 1990. During his tenure with the Board, he maintained a private practice. He devoted approximately 75 percent of his professional time to respondent's affairs; and 25 percent, to his practice.

In May of 1988, Rosenberg attended a meeting with Napier, respondent's then Superintendent of Schools, Edward Magliaccio (Magliaccio), the Board's Business Administrator, who ultimately was in charge of all custodians employed by respondent, and Norm Malone (Malone), the direct supervisor of custodians. During this meeting, Rosenberg was informed of allegations of sexual assault by petitioner and was queried regarding what the Board should do and what standard policy was. As of that time, petitioner was not yet indicted. Rosenberg recommended that petitioner be transferred to a facility which had in the past been used as a school, but which for the past 20 years has been used as a "shop" by respondent, that is, for maintenance activities and storing of supplies. This recommendation was made so that petitioner would not be in daily contact with any students because only adults are present at the facility. As stipulated, petitioner was transferred subsequent to the May 23, 1988 arrest.

Rosenberg attended another meeting with Board personnel on approximately December 5, 1988, which meeting was held in Napier's office. Rosenberg, Napier, Magliaccio, and Malone were present, as was the then Board president, Elysse Evans (Evans). The individuals present generally discussed what should be done with petitioner, what action should be taken by the Board, and various recommendations of Rosenberg, Napier, and Maggalioccio. Evans was to report back to the Board on the recommendations of the Superintendent's office.

As stipulated, petitioner was suspended without pay December 7 1988 and was notified of this action by a letter handed to him on December 7, 1988. This letter, which was sent over Rosenberg's signature, informed Griffin that because of an indictment alleging sexual crimes with children, he was suspended by the Superintendent without pay pursuant to state statutes. The letter contained no references or any discussion pertaining to the question of back pay or reimbursement of costs.

Approximately within one week of the December 1988 meeting, the Board considered the suspension determination at a Board meeting. In addition, Reddin called Rosenberg and requested that petitioner be suspended with pay. Rosenberg told Reddin that this could not be done because applicable statutes required a suspension without pay and told Reddin that it was Board policy to provide back pay and reimbursement of costs to employees suspended because of pending charges who are subsequently vindicated. During the course of the conversation, Reddin referenced the possibility of legal action by petitioner regarding the suspension without pay. It was Rosenberg's conclusion at the time that if petitioner sued regarding the suspension without pay, Griffin would lose.

Available records of the Committee for the 1988-89 school year do not contain any notes or other documents referencing petitioner or any communications from Rosenberg regarding Griffin or petitioner's attorney, Reddin. The documents contain references to two Committee meetings held in the last three months of 1988. One was held on December 5, 1988; and the other, on October 13, 1988. None of the documents contain any reference to the matters at issue.

In the past, a principal employed by respondent, a Mr. Orbach (Orbach), was charged on two separate occasions with second degree sexual assault, transferred prior to indictments being issued, and then suspended without pay after indictments were issued. Orbach was acquitted on both occasions, and respondent paid him back pay plus attorney fees, as well as the costs of private investigators. The first case involving Orbach was in approximately 1976, and the second; in 1976-77, prior to Rosenberg's tenure as counsel to the Board. Another case involved Joseph Clark (Clark), a Board employee involved in a criminal contempt charge The matters involving Clark occurred in approximately 1987, 1988 and 1989 Respondent reimbursed Clark for counsel fees. The specific circumstances regarding these incidences, as well as reimbursement by respondent, cannot be determined from the record. There are no written documents memorializing any prior practice by respondent regarding awarding of back pay or reimbursement of costs.

In the past, the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) of the State Department of Human Services (DYFS), has been involved in situations pertaining to allegations involving Board employees and students. The Board has, in the past, reimbursed employees involved in DYFS investigations for costs when the employees have been vindicated. The circumstances pertaining to any such instances cannot be determined from the record. Respondent has also, in the past, provided reimbursement in other cases, the exact nature of which and specific relevant facts pertaining to which also cannot be determined from the record.

During Rosenberg's tenure, respondent's Superintendent would, on occasion, notify Rosenberg of various agreements to reimburse costs reached with employees, and Rosenberg would negotiate reimbursement with employee's counsel. In some instances, respondent negotiated set fees at the outset with employees' attorneys, for example, on issues involving municipal court matters, in efforts to minimize costs to respondent. This was sometimes done in conjunction with efforts of respondent's corporation counsel. In other instances, including indictments, the Board subsequently negotiated fees with employees' counsel, rather than setting a minimum fee at the outset. Whatever approach was taken in the past, each matter was presented to the Board for formal action via a resolution approving the issuance of checks. It cannot be determined from the record whether any such practices of the Board are reflected in collective bargaining agreements with Board employees. Rosenberg did not negotiate fees with Reddin. No Board resolutions were issued regarding reimbursement to Griffin.

Rosenberg unexpectedly became ill in March 1990 and never returned to employment with the Board. As stipulated, petitioner was acquitted of most counts of the indictment on July 10, 1990, and the remaining counts were dismissed by the court on December 7, 1990. Rosenberg was not counsel to the Board as of July 1990 nor September 1990.

Petitioner's salary for December 1988 was $1,428.58.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDERS

Petitioner seeks relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, which vests the Commissioner with jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. Local school boards have the authority to discontinue the salary of employees who are under criminal indictment:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 (emphasis added).

However, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 does not address the question of restoration of lost salary subsequent to an acquital of criminal charges. In contrast, an unindicted school employee subject to a tenure charge is expressly entitled to resumption of full salary after expiration of 120 calendar days from certification of a charge and, if the charge is dismissed, such person shall be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of the suspension. Id. at §14.

Any person holding employment in a public school system of the State who is illegally dismissed or suspended is entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension, if such shall be finally determined to have been without good cause, upon written application therefore with the board or body with whom he was employed, within 30 days after such determination. Id. at §30. The suspension of Griffin, however, was not without good cause at the time it was made. As discussed, the suspension without pay of an employee who is indicted is authorized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. See also, Slater v. Ramapo-Indian Hills Bd. of Ed., 237 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1989). Petitioner was indicated for sexual assault and sexual conduct with minor females. Such charges do not constitute acts or omissions arising out of or in the course of a performance of the duties of a school district employee. McCorkle v. Pittsgrove Tp. Bd. of Ed., A-5550-81T2, unreported App. Div., dec'd June 2, 1983 (McCorkle).

It is reasonable to conclude that there is no express statutory right to back pay subsequent to an acquittal. Notwithstanding, in a recent case involving the question of whether a suspended teacher should receive back pay following acquittal of criminal charges, the Commissioner held that "fundamental fairness" dictated that the teacher be granted back pay, including sick pay and vacation pay, in light of the fact that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on an indictment. Beatty v. Newton Bd. of Ed., 1991 S.L.D. (Comm'r. June 25, 1991) (Beatty).

At all relevant times, Beatty was a tenured teacher in the Town of Newton School District. In 1988, a complaint was issued against him alleging aggravated sexual assault in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:14-2(a)(2) and endangering the welfare of a child in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:24-4A, both charges naming Beatty's stepdaughter as the alleged victim. As a result, the Newton Board of Education suspended Beatty from his teaching duties, but continued paying a salary while the case was pending grand jury presentation. On approximately June 8, 1989, the Sussex County Grand Jury handed up a six-count indictment against Beatty, alleging various acts of sexual conduct against minor females, including his stepdaughter. Following the indictment, Beatty was suspended without pay. A jury trial was held in December 1990, and a verdict of not guilty, completely acquitting Beatty of all charges on all counts, was returned on September 20, 1990. Beatty thereafter requested reinstatement and back pay. Newton's superintendent notified Beatty by letter dated December 20, 1990 that he would be continued to be suspended pending the investigation of disciplinary charges, but that the suspension would be with pay commencing December 21, 1990. The board subsequently determined that Beatty was not entitled to back pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and thereafter served tenure charges on Beatty on April 24, 1991. Beatty at 1-3.

The Commissioner characterized the issue presented in Beatty as "a case of first impression," distinguishing a prior decision of the State Board of Education, Pawlak v. Board of the Borough of Hopatcong, (App. Div. July 12, 1989), which involved disposition of an indictment through completion of a pretrial intervention program. Beatty at 8. The Commissioner determined that in the context of the Beatty facts, there should be an award of back pay:

> Notwithstanding the absence of specific statutory language, the Commissioner believes that in weighing the equities of this matter, fundamental fairness dictates that petitioner be granted back pay for the period of his unpaid suspension given that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on the indictment which provided the basis for his suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. At the present time, petitioner has not been found guilty of any wrongdoing and the indictment upon which the suspension is based has been disposed of in his favor; therefore, it is concluded that as a matter of equity, back pay is warranted under the circumstances, less mitigation for monies earned during the period of his lawful suspension without pay from June 1989 to December 20, 1990. The fact that tenure charges are pending against petitioner and he has been lawfully suspended without pay under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 does not alter the equities of the matter. If petitioner is found guilty of the tenure charges, an appropriate penalty shall be fashioned by the Commissioner, which could include but is not limited to reduction in salary or dismissal. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 Beatty at 9-10.

Relying on Balsley v. North Hunterdon Board of Education, 117 N.J. 434 (1990), the Commissioner determined that he did not have the authority to grant attorney fees but, concerning Beatty's request for sick pay and vacation pay, held that "petitioner is to have restored to him whatever emoluments and benefits he would have had owing to him if he had never been suspended without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3." Id. at 10.*

The facts of the Beatty case are strikingly similar to those of the current one. In addition, the fact that respondent did not issue tenure charges against petitioner bolsters Griffin's claim for back pay. However, this distinction is not determinative.

I am, however, persuaded that petitioner is not entitled to legal fees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A.16-6.1, which provides that if any criminal action is instituted against an individual for an act or omission, and such proceeding is dismissed or results in a final disposition in favor of such person, a local board of education shall reimburse him for the course of defending the proceeding, including reasonable counsel fees. "N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6.1 is specifically tied in legislative context to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6." McCorkle at 2. The latter provision provides that whenever any civil action is brought against any person holding employment under the jurisdiction of any board of education, for an act or omission arising out of and in the course of the performance of his duties, the board shall defray all costs of defending such action, including reasonable counsel fees and expenses. N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6. In McCorkle, the court rejected a claim for counsel fees by a teacher indicted for sexual assault on a minor female student who subsequently was accepted into a pre-trial intervention program and completed a six-month program resulting in an order dismissing the indictment and a marking of his case as 'Complaint Dismissed--Matter Adjusted'. McCorkle at 1. Without reaching the question of whether the 'dismissal' constituted the type of dismissal the Legislature contemplated as grounds for reimbursement, the court determined, as referenced hereinabove, that the employee was not entitled to reimbursement because a criminal charge of the nature implicated was

---

* The Commissioner's reliance on Balsley appears to be misplaced. In Balsley, the Court held that the Commissioner is not authorized to award counsel fees in education-discrimination proceedings brought before the Commissioner or transferred to the Commissioner. However, it is apparent that the counsel fees in question related to the costs of litigation before the Department. Balsey did not address a situation in which an individual seeks a determination from the Commissioner on the obligation of a local school board to reimburse an employee for counsel fees to litigate a proceeding in another forum.

not of the nature constituting an act or omission arising out of or in the course of the performance of employment duties. Id. at 2. The same reasoning applies to petitioner.

The only basis on which petitioner can therefore claim reimbursement of counsel fees is in essence a contract theory. The Commissioner's jurisdiction to resolve a contract issue is assumed in light of the applicable court order.

I am not persuaded that a binding contract has been established by petitioner, who has the burden of proof. The inference in Rosenberg's testimony was that Napier and other personnel agreed to reimbursement in return for an agreement by Griffin not to take legal action against his suspension without pay subsequent to the indictment. I am persuaded that there is no credible evidence on which to base a finding that this was expressly decided by respondent's personnel, nor communicated to Griffin, notwithstanding the question of whether or not formal action was required by the Board. Parenthetically, I am not persuaded by respondent's argument that consideration was not provided by Griffin, assuming that there were such communications, because he had no legal claim to reimbursement subsequent to the indictment. It is apparent that costs and some uncertainty are always associated with legal proceedings, which respondent may very well have wanted to avoid. However, I am persuaded by respondent's argument that quasi-contract has not been established in this case, the evidence does not establish reliance, even assuming communications of the nature implicated by Griffin.

The expenditure of funds by a local school board in the custody of its treasurer representing school moneys shall be effectuated in a certain specified manner and circumstances, including after audit of the account or demand to be paid, by the secretary, after approval by the board of education, or when provided by resolution of the board, after audit of the account or demand to be paid, and approval by a person designated by the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:19-1. Similarly, applicable statutes provide that no claim or demand against a school district shall be paid unless approved by a board of education or a person designated by the board for such purpose:

> No claim or demand against a school district shall be paid by the treasurer unless it is authorized by law and the rules of the board of education of the district, is fully itemized and verified, has been duly audited as required by law, has been presented to, and approved by, the board at a meeting thereof, or presented to, and approved by, a person designated by the board for that purpose, and the amount required to pay the same is available for said purpose. Id. at §19-2.

Expenditures exceeding $150, except for payrolls and debt service, shall be verified by affidavit or signed declaration in writing. Id. at §19-3. (Supp. 1992-93). All claims and demands against a school board, except those to be paid from funds derived from athletic events or other activities of pupil organizations, shall, unless otherwise provided by resolution of the board, be examined, audited, and certified in writing by the secretary and presented to the board for its approval at a regular meeting and, if found to be correct, shall be ordered paid by the board. N.J.S.A. 18A:19-4. A board of education may, by resolution, designate a person, in addition to the secretary, to audit an account and demand to be paid and provide for approval of such account or demand by such person or the secretary prior to presentation to the board. Any such approval shall be presented to the board at their next meeting for ratification. A board may establish a maximum dollar amount for which payment may be authorized without prior board approval. Id. at §4.1.

As respondent argues, there is no evidence that a request for reimbursement was ever presented and approved by the Board, or that the Board designated anyone, including Rosenberg, to approve such a request. In fact, the absence of a formal Board resolution, in light of its past practices, raises an inference that the Board did not approve petitioner's request for reimbursement.

There is no evidence that the Committee ever endorsed or discussed Rosenberg's "promise" on behalf of respondent. In fact, Williams' certification supports an inference that it did not do so. The evidence does not support a finding that the Superintendent expressly authorized Rosenberg to make an express promise to petitioner or his attorney that Griffin would be reimbursed.

Rosenberg acknowledged on cross-examination that to a substantial degree the basis for the Board's practices in the past of reimbursement of costs was legal advice given by a former Board attorney 10 to 15 years ago that such was legally required. Prior advice of counsel, especially of such distant tenure, does not support a finding that the Board's practice at the time in question was to provide reimbursement. In any event, there is nothing, as respondent argues, to prevent a change in Board policy nor does the evidence support petitioner's position that there were binding assurances of reimbursement made to him. Absent approval of the Board or an individual designated by the Board for such purpose, any promise made to petitioner cannot bind respondent. See, e.g., Vandenbren v. Board of Education of the School District of Wanaque, 1967, S.L.D. 4 (Jan. 19, 1967), aff'd State Board of Education, 1967 S.L.D. 6 (Jan. 8, 1968), Cardman v. Board of Education of the Township of Millburn, 1977, S.L.D. 746, (June 23, 1977). In the analogous area of municipal corporations, the unauthorized consent of a municipal attorney cannot bind the governing body. City of Jersey City v. Roosevelt Stadium, 210 N.J. Super. 315 (App. Div. 1986).

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to back pay for the period from December 7, 1988 through March 31, 1991. As stipulated, had petitioned remained in respondent's employ from December 1, 1988 through March 31, 1991, he would have earned a total of $52,611.04. Strictly speaking, petitioner should only receive back pay commencing December 7, 1988, the date of his suspension without pay. Petitioner should not receive back pay for the first week of December 1988. However, the record does not contain data indicating what would constitute the equivalent of a weekly salary For Griffin. This Judge takes notice of the fact that December 1988 had 22 weekdays. Converting petitioner's monthly salary for December 1988 into a daily rate of $64.94 ($1,428.58 divided by 22), a reduction for five working days representing the first week of December would result in a decrease of $324.68 ($64.94 times 5), or total reimbursement of back pay in the amount of $52,286.36 ($52,611.04 minus $324.68). I also CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement of counsel fees pertaining to the criminal charges relevant to the indictment in question and the current matter.

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent reimburse petitioner for back pay for the period December 7, 1988 through March 31, 1991 in the amount of $52,286.36 within 90 days of the effective date of this decision. It is also hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for counsel fees associated with defending the indictment issued on December 7, 1988 and with the current matter be and is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner and Respondent filed timely exceptions in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner concurs with the initial decision of the ALJ regarding the awarding of back pay but urges that the decision be reversed regarding reimbursement for counsel fees incurred. Although petitioner disagrees that the charges levied against him did not arise out of or in the course of the performance of his duties as a school employee, he acknowledges that the ALJ utilized the applicable case law in making this determination. Petitioner does, however, believe that the ALJ erred in determining that, absent ratification by the Board, an agreement reached with the Board's attorney regarding reimbursement for legal fees incurred by the petitioner is not an enforceable contract. Petitioner contends that he entered into an agreement, in good faith, with the Board's attorney who had the apparent and seemingly express authority to bind the Board. Petitioner avers that he has established the existence of a contractual relationship and the burden should now be placed on the Board to prove that its agent did not have the authority to bind it.

The Board's exception avers that the ALJ erred in essentially deciding the back pay issue on the authority of Beatty v. Newton Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 1001, appeal pending, State Board of Education. The Board concedes that Beatty supports the ALJ's finding but disputes the soundness of using this decision as precedent in light of an intervening Appellate Division decision, as well as consideration of an analogous municipal statute and Supreme Court case law which was not cited or discussed in Beatty.

The Board contends that the absence of a statutory provision for back pay is significant. To support its position the Board utilizes a municipal statute authorizing compensation for police officers in circumstances similar to those of the petitioner and Supreme Court discussion regarding the Legislature's ability to provide compensation for police officers in such circumstances if it so desired. The Board avers that, absent authorizing legislation, the back pay determination in the instant case should be made in accordance with the common-law rule articulated in DelRossi v. DHS, 256 N.J. Super. 286 (App. Div. 1992). Essentially, this rule specifies that "public officers" are not entitled to compensation for periods of time they did not serve the public even if the period of no service was due to the pendency of criminal charges ultimately dismissed. Therefore, the Board seeks reversal of that portion of the initial decision allowing back pay.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner adopts the recommended ALJ decision for the reasons outlined in the decision. The Commissioner would add the following in response to petitioner's exception, regarding the establishment of a contract, to the ALJ's cognizant disposition recited at pages 12-14. The Commissioner notes that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:19-2 no expenditures may be authorized by other than the Board in accordance with its prescribed policies and procedures. Consequently, petitioner could not have reasonably relied on assurances from a Board attorney regarding any proposition related to the expenditure of funds without formal Board approval and action.

In response to the Board's exception, the Commissioner rejects the Board's contention that, absent specific statutory authority, petitioner should be denied back pay under the common-law public officer standard outlined in DelRossi. The Commissioner notes the footnote on page 290 of DelRossi where the court acknowledges that the common-law rule articulated does not apply to public employees who are not public "officers." The footnote continues that DelRossi qualifies as a public "officer" by virtue of his position as a police lieutenant (or sergeant). The Commissioner determines that the Board's argument that the school custodian petitioner in the instant case should be viewed as a "public officer" is without merit.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the police officer plaintiff in DelRossi would also not qualify for back pay under the "fundamental fairness" standard expressed in Beatty since the indictment upon which his suspension was based was not disposed of in his favor but through completion of PTI.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law awarding petitioner back pay but denying reimbursement for legal fees is affirmed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LISA GAIL JACKSON,	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:
OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY	:

The parties to the above matter have agreed to an amicable resolution of this litigation. The resolution is based upon agreement as to the following facts:

1. The Respondent, Lisa Gail Jackson, is a tenured speech correctionist employed by the Petitioner School District of the City of Newark.

2. On a number of occasions during her employment, the Respondent exhibited performance problems which were documented in observations conducted by a number of supervisors and administrators employed by the Petitioner, as well as in memoranda prepared by co-workers, supervisors and administrators.

3. As a result of these problems, the Petitioner voted in September, 1991 to certify tenure charges against the Respondent.

The charges filed against the Respondent were charges of incapacity and unbecoming conduct based upon an alleged psychiatric disability.

4. On September 16, 1991, at the request of the Petitioner, the Respondent was evaluated by a psychiatrist, Ralph F. Brandon, M.D. Dr. Brandon diagnosed the Respondent as suffering from schizophrenia of the disorganized type and found her unable to function in a teaching capacity.

5. The performance problems which the Respondent exhibited in the classroom are attributable to the fact that the Respondent suffers from a psychiatric illness.

6. The Respondent has filed an application to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund requesting ordinary disability retirement benefits to become effective February 1, 1992.

Based upon the above factual agreements, the parties hereby agree to resolve this matter on the following basis:

1. Lisa Gail Jackson will resign her position of employment as speech correctionist with the Newark Board of Education effective January 1, 1993. In the event that Ms. Jackson lacks the required service time to qualify for an ordinary disability retirement effective January 1, 1993 said resignation will be submitted effective February 1, 1993;

2. Lisa Gail Jackson will continue to pursue her applicati for ordinary disability retirement from the Teachers' Pensi Annuity Fund effective January 1, 1993;

3. Based upon the documentation of disability, the Respondent will be placed upon paid sick leave through January 1, 1993;

4. The Board of Education will withdraw the tenure charges in this matter;

5. Should the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund refuse to approve the granting of an ordinary disability pension to the Respondent, the tenure charges will proceed to hearing;

6. This agreement represents a complete resolution of all issues outstanding between the parties. Neither parties shall be entitled to any relief in this matter other than the relief set forth in this agreement.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, English teacher and supervisor, alleged Board violated her seniority and tenure rights as she was assigned to supervise 15 teachers, as well as teach two English classes, while less senior supervisor was not given teaching assignment.

ALJ found petitioner's seniority and tenure rights were not violated. No riff occurred. Board made a good faith determination to assign teaching position to petitioner based upon all facts and circumstances. Thus, petitioner was properly asked to perform in a capacity which may be assigned rightfully under contract. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision noting no basis in equity existed for relief.

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner in this matter filed a verified petition of appeal alleging a violation of her seniority and tenure rights by the respondent. The respondent filed an answer to the complaint and the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 24, 1991, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was then set down for a number of hearing days in September 1992 however only one hearing day was necessary. That hearing took place on September 16, 1992 at the OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey At the close of testimony the record remained open for posthearing submissions until October 15, 1992 on which date both sides filed letter memoranda. At that time the record closed.

It should be noted at the outset that the petitioner concedes that this is not a classic seniority case inasmuch as no reduction in force (RIF) occurred.

STIPULATED FACTS

At the time of the hearing both sides entered into a number of stipulated facts which were set out on the record and marked as J-7 in evidence. The stipulations read as follows:

1. Petitioner is a tenured employee of respondent having been employed within respondent's district since September 1967 through the present.

2. Petitioner is certified as a teacher of English (grades 7 through 12), speech (grades K through 12) and holds a supervisors and principal's certificate.

3. Since the school year 1982-83, petitioner has been employed as a supervisor of English for grades 10 through 12 exclusively. In 1981-82, petitioner received her supervisor's certificate.

4. In June 1991, petitioner was advised that she would teach two English classes for the 1991-92 school year.

5. Pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement for the academic years 1989-1992, Article IV provides a job description for supervisors and states.

> The job description of supervisors and Test Coordinator shall be set forth in Schedule A which is attached hereto. This job description may be changed by the board without negotiations, and any such changes shall not be the subject of a grievance.

6. On or about September 3, 1991 petitioner's assignment was changed by respondent in that she was required to teach two classes of English and to supervise all English teachers for grades 9 through 12. The supervisor assignment for 1991-1992 increased the number of teachers supervised by petitioner from 11 to 15 as a result of a reorganization of the high school to also include grade 9.

7. Petitioner was offered the choice of teaching two classes of high school English at the high school or proctoring the SAT review program, in addition to supervising English at the high school for grades 9 through 12 for the year 1991-92. No other supervisor was added to the high school English staff.

8. Barbara Lombardi had six years seniority as a supervisor in 1991-92 and petitioner had 10 years of seniority as a supervisor in 1991-92.

9. Barbara Lombardi, in addition to other supervisors, was not given a teaching assignment in the 1991-92 academic year.

As these facts have been stipulated to by the parties, I FIND them to be operational facts in this case.

TESTIMONY

Linda Dallmeyer, the petitioner, testified at the hearing. She stated that she became a supervisor in 1982 and has been exclusively a supervisor since then. Until the 1990-1991 school year her duties included supervision at the high school and she had never taught classes nor was she asked to.

Barbara Lombardi, a supervisor in the department with less seniority than the petitioner, was never asked to teach any other classes. No one asked the petitioner to take over Ms. Lombardi's supervisor position so that Ms. Lombardi in turn could teach those assigned classes either.

The petitioner acknowledged that supervisors from other departments have taught classes but this has never occurred in the English department while she has been there. She also stated that the science supervisor teaches by choice.

Ms. Dallmeyer made the choice between proctoring the SAT program and teaching and determined to teach. She felt that it was her area of expertise and it would also be better to teach in the morning rather than tie up the middle of the day with the proctoring.

Ms. Dallmeyer stated that when teachers are assigned a sixth period of teaching assignment they receive additional compensation for their work however that it is governed by a collective bargaining agreement. In her case she acknowledged that the contract under she works does not provide for extra compensation in a situation where a teaching assignments are made.

Robert J. Bergen, the assistant superintendent, also testified. He is in charge of personnel matters as well as a number of other areas. He stated that in the 1990-91 school year there were two supervisors in the English department. One was at the high school level and one served K through 8. It was Ms. Dallmeyer in the high school and Barbara Lombardi who actually dealt with grades K through 8. Ms. Dallmeyer managed and supervised the English program in the high school which consisted of one building. Ms. Lombardi dealt with K through 8 and was the language arts coordinator for other schools. This gave her a range of duties over 10 schools in the district. She travels mostly however between the two middle schools although she must go to other schools as well. Ms. Lombardi had been at the school approximately six years while Ms. Dallmeyer had been there approximately 11 years. Ms. Dallmeyer had received a full year's credit for seniority purposes for that particular school year and no reduction in force occurred with respect to her.

This witness was involved in the decision to assign Ms. Dallmeyer to teaching classes. The district had been confronted with shortages and they assigned 9 out of 17 supervisors a variety of teaching assignments. No additional stipends were paid to supervisors for these assignments.

Mr. Bergen acknowledged that Ms. Dallmeyer could have been assigned to supervise K through 8 under her certificate. She could also have taken over for Ms. Lombardi however he stated that based upon an evaluation of the situation it appeared most appropriate that Ms. Dallmeyer be assigned the two teaching classes. The witness stated that they looked at the enrollment of the individual teachers and supervisors who were available and made a decision based upon all the factors which came to their attention.

As the facts in the testimony are not in dispute, in addition to those facts stipulated to by the parties, I FIND these to be the operational facts of this case.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The petitioner originally claimed a violation of her seniority and tenure rights as found in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -14. At the time of the hearing and confirmed in the posthearing submissions however it was made clear that this is not a classic seniority case inasmuch as there was no RIF which occurred. The petitioner's argument is essentially that although respondent has the prerogative to make the assignment as it did, that prerogative is not unfettered. It is essentially inequitable, according to the petitioner, for Ms. Lombardi, who had less seniority than the petitioner, to not have been the one assigned to teach the two classes.

It should also be noted that the petitioner does not contend that there is a contractural right to increased compensation for such an assignment and agrees that the collective bargaining agreement does not provide for such compensation.

Ms. Dallmeyer's claim which she enunciated while on the stand as well as through counsel in posthearing submission is basically that she does not feel that she was treated fairly. Quite simply she feels that since she had been there longer than Ms. Lombardi that, as a matter of at the very least courtesy and deference, she should not have been the one given the teaching assignment. She agrees that there was every right to assign those teaching positions to her it should nonetheless not have occurred. She feels that she has been treated in a manner inferior to the manner in which Barbara Lombardi was treated. Although agreeing that the assignment could be made petitioner cites Klinger v. Cranbury Twp. Board of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1982) to stand for the position that it is inappropriate to give "better treatment" to one with less seniority than an individual who has greater seniority. That case is distinguishable on its facts because it dealt with a RIF. The proposition standing alone without a RIF or other violation of seniority or tenure rights may have some appeal on a purely human level. Notwithstanding this however the logic of it would make assignment of supervisors to teaching positions dependent solely and exclusively, on the amount of seniority which they possessed and not upon considerations such as ease and convenience in delivering services as well as continuity of program and other integral facts which go into a determination of whom should be assigned to what appropriate task. This of course may not extend beyond those situations where the individual is asked to perform in a capacity which may be assigned to them rightfully under their contract. In this case it is clear that the petitioner was not treated in a manner inferior to that of Ms. Lombardi but in a manner different from that of Ms. Lombardi. That difference is credibly accounted for by the considerations which Mr. Bergen enunciated at the time of the hearing While the two individuals' certificates made them interchangeable for this assignment their physical location as well as their responsibilities did not make them identical. A good faith determination was made that it would be most useful to assign the teaching positions to Ms. Dallmeyer based upon all the facts and circumstances.

It is clear that no specific violation of the petitioner's seniority and tenure rights have occurred in this case by the respondent. It is also clear that while petitioner wishes she were extended the courtesy of having been given a choice of the assignments offered, or the position of Ms. Lombardi in the alternative, there is no statutory obligation upon the respondent to do this. Beyond the question of whether or not a statutory obligation existed comes the question of equity. In this case the petitioner was not treated in a manner inferior to that of an identically situated teacher with less seniority and therefore no inequity is found to exist. While Ms. Dallmeyer's reaction to being assigned the teaching classes instead of someone with less seniority is understandable it is within managerial prerogative to do so and it was done in good faith by the respondent.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing I CONCLUDE that petitioner's tenure and seniority rights have not been violated in this case. I further CONCLUDE that no equitable basis exists for relief in this case.

ORDER

Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition in this case, be and hereby is DISMISSED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought judgment that he did not owe Leonia Board tuition as he lawfully resided in the district and further sought order allowing his daughter J.P. to attend Leonia High School not Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood. Board contended Englewood Cliffs decision enjoined Board from accepting on a tuition basis students who are domiciled in Englewood Cliffs.

ALJ found J.P. was not entitled to free education in Leonia, as her father was not domiciled within school district nor residing temporarily therein between February 1992 and June 1992. Therefore, I.P. owes respondent tuition for J.P.'s illegal attendance at Leonia High School and J.P. is enjoined from further attendance there on a tuition basis. (Englewood Cliffs)

Record Closed: October 14, 1992 Decided: November 19, 1992

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On August 6, 1992, I.P. filed a petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education seeking an order allowing his daughter, J.P., to attend Leonia High School for the 1992-93 school year and further seeking a declaratory judgment that he did not owe any tuition to the Leonia Board of Education of Borough of Leonia (Board) respondent, for his daughter's attendance at Leonia High School between February and June 1992. The Board counterclaimed against him for the tuition.

The Board filed its answer with the Commissioner on September 3, 1992, claiming as a defense that J.P. was domiciled in the Borough of Englewood Cliffs and therefore should be enrolled in Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, New Jersey. The Board cited Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood, 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992) to show that it is enjoined from accepting on a tuition basis students who are domiciled in Englewood Cliffs.

On September 9, 1992, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. An emergent hearing on petitioner's request to allow his daughter, J.P., to enroll in the Leonia School District and attend Leonia High School pending the outcome of the plenary hearing was heard by Stephen G. Weiss, ALJ. An order issued by Judge Weiss on September 14, 1992, denied the application for emergent relief. The order was affirmed by the Commissioner in a decision dated September 28, 1992.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned for plenary hearing. The hearing took place on October 9 and 14, 1992, at the Office of Administrative Law, Newark, New Jersey, and the record closed at that time.

REVIEW OF EVIDENCE

Petitioner, I.P., lived with his wife and daughter, J.P., in Englewood Cliffs. Englewood Cliffs has no high school and sends its students to Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood.

Between the fourth grade and completion of the eighth grade, J.P. went to the Englewood Cliffs schools. She attended the Northern Valley High School (NVHS) for her freshman and sophomore years in high school (the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years), for which I.P. paid tuition. He testified that the family originally intended to move to Demarest but their plans changed.

J.P. began her junior year of high school at NVHS. However, her last day of enrollment in that district was January 2, 1992, because I.P. failed to pay her tuition.

I.P. testified that he and J.P. lived in Englewood Cliffs during the fall of 1991. He claims that in about October or November, he separated from his wife and went to live with a friend in Palisades Park for about two months. J.P. remained with her mother in Englewood Cliffs. I.P. then testified that he could not remember whether he lived in Englewood Cliffs or Palisades Park in November 1991.

I.P. stated that J.P. actually stopped going to NVHS in November 1991. He could not remember the exact date and could not say whether she attended any high school in November 1991. He admitted that he knew that he would not have to pay tuition if his daughter attended Dwight Morrow High School, but he claimed that he knew he was moving out of Englewood Cliffs and did not want his daughter to start school there He signed a lease on an apartment on Hillside Avenue in Leonia on December 29, 1991

At this time, I.P. revised his prior testimony to state that before December 1991, he lived in Palisades Park on some days and on other days he lived in Englewood Cliffs, in December 1991, he lived in Palisades Park on some days and with his sister, K.S., on other days; and only went to Englewood Cliffs to obtain changes of clothing.

The lease on the apartment in Leonia began on December 29, 1991, and ran for one and one-half years until June 30, 1993. The duration of the lease was exactly the same length of time as it would take his daughter to complete her education and graduate from Leonia High School. He testified that there was no reason that it ended on June 30, 1993; it was the landlord's idea to terminate it on that date. I.P. explained that he used the Englewood Cliffs address on the lease because he had no other permanent address at the time

I P. further testified that as of December 29, 1991, he had separated from his wife. There was no separation agreement, and no divorce proceedings were started. He could not state whether or not they intended to reconcile, and his lawyer is now deceased He suggested that the eighteen-month term of the lease could also correspond to the eighteen months necessary to establish a cause of action for divorce on the grounds of irreconcilable differences. He added that he thought he might return to Korea, his native country, after his daughter graduated from high school.

According to I.P., he moved into the Leonia apartment on January 2, 1992. He said that he lived there and slept there except on a few occasions when he stayed at friends' houses.

He claims that he did not sleep in the Englewood Cliffs house at any time, nor did he eat any meals there. His visits were confined to approximately ten minutes and were only for the purpose of picking up clothing. I.P. denied that he spent any time visiting his son, who still lived with his mother in Englewood Cliffs. I.P. goes to the house early in the morning when his son is still sleeping, and the last time he did this was four to five months ago at the beginning of summer 1992.

The Leonia apartment has only one bedroom. I.P. testified that he sleeps in the living room and J.P. uses the bedroom. He has an older daughter who is away at college and shares the bedroom with J.P. on those weekends when she is home.

I.P. stated that J.P. never slept overnight in Englewood Cliffs and did not visit his wife. He said that he and J.P. did the cooking for themselves and that his wife never cooked meals and brought them over.

As of the date of hearing, he still had not changed the address on his driver's license from Englewood Cliffs to Leonia.

Arthur Taub, head counselor of the guidance department at Leonia High School, is the employee responsible for enrollment of new students. On about January 6, 1992, J.P., I.P, and K.S. came to his office to enroll J.P. in Leonia High School and brought with them the lease to the Hillside Avenue apartment to substantiate her residence in the district. She had no health or academic records.

Taub, aware that the decision of the Appellate Division in the Englewood Cliffs case enjoined other school districts from accepting on a tuition basis students who are domiciled in Englewood Cliffs, observed that the address I.P. gave on the apartment lease was in Englewood Cliffs, and his suspicions became aroused. He also noticed that I.P.'s driver's license had the Englewood Cliffs address.

He consulted with his supervisor, who said that there must be only one primary address and, at the direction of his supervisor, Taub asked I.P. for water and utility company bills as proof that he resided in Leonia.

I.P., J.P., and K.S., who was with them, were very upset. Taub took them to the office of the principal, where J.P. became "hysterical" and asked why they denied her access to the school. When Taub and the principal attempted to explain the restraining order to them, they were clearly not interested. I.P. said, "If you were her father, you would be doing the same thing." Taub inferred from this that I.P. did not want J.P. to go to Dwight Morrow High School.

When Taub reviewed the copies of the utility and telephone bills from the Leonia apartment provided by I.P., he found them to be "ridiculously low." According to the lease, the landlord supplies heat and hot water, so that the Public Service Electric and Gas (PSE&G) bill received by I.P. in Leonia would be for electricity and for gas used in cooking.

Dr. Frank M. Marlowe, superintendent of the Leonia school district, instructed Taub to register J.P. temporarily until they could consult with the attorney for the Board. She was temporarily registered in Leonia High School on January 6, 1992, and withdrew on January 10, 1992.

According to Marlowe, when he received the lease and the extremely low utility bills, he consulted the Bergen County office of the Department of Education. On January 31, 1992, he received a letter from Angelo J. Castellano from the office of the acting county superintendent suggesting that J.P. be registered in Leonia High School since she was not attending school anywhere at the time. On the basis of this letter, Marlowe permitted her to register in February 1992. He met with I.P., J.P., and K.S. on February 3.

Marlowe was still not convinced that I.P. was living at the Hillside Avenue address. He instructed Taub to monitor the situation and undertook an informal investigation of his own.

Marlowe asked one of his staff members, an audio-visual technician, to observe the Hillside Avenue apartment on occasion. The technician reported that at times he saw J.P. meet her mother in a car in front of the apartment and the two returned to Englewood Cliffs. At other times, he saw J.P. return to the Hillside Avenue address.

On February 4, 1992, at 7:00 p.m., Taub stopped off at the apartment, rang the bell, and knocked on the door. There was no answer. He tried again at 10:00 p.m. and there was still no one there. On February 11, on his way to a public meeting of the Board, he stopped by, rang the bell, and knocked on the door with no response. He saw a very low level of light in the apartment.

Another faculty member who was asked to monitor the apartment followed J.P. from school at 2:40 p.m. J.P. went past the Hillside Avenue apartment and entered I.P.'s car, which was followed to Englewood Cliffs.

Taub made a total of nine attempts to visit the home following the 1991-92 school year without ever finding anyone there. On July 1, 1992, he tried at 7:35 a.m. On July 2, he was there at 8:00 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. On July 7, he went at 7:15 a.m. On July 8, he was there at 11:20 a.m. On August 27, he was there at noon. On August 28, he was there at 8:15 a.m. On September 8, he was there at 7:30 a.m., and on October 8, he was there at 4:15 p.m. There was never any response. He attempted to call the house on August 27 between 10:00 and 11:00 a.m., on August 28 between 9:00 and 10:00 a.m., and on October 8 at 3:00 p.m. Each time, he was answered by a telephone recording stating that the telephone had been disconnected. Taub contacted New Jersey Bell, which confirmed that service had been shut off sometime between June 24 and June 28.

William Eickelberg is a physical education teacher employed by the Leonia Board. He lives on the corner of Hillside Avenue and was able to see the building in which I.P. allegedly lived from his home. He walked by on Friday, October 2, between 7:30 and 8:00 p.m. and saw no activity. He walked by again on Saturday night, October 3, between 9:00 and 9:30 p.m. and Sunday night, October 4, between 8:30 and 9:00 p.m., and saw no sign of occupancy. The apartment on the second floor of the building has a large picture window in the living room. The shades were open and nothing covered the window. A light was on, so that if anyone walked past the window, he or she would be visible from the street below.

On Friday, October 9, the first day of hearing in this matter, Eickelberg parked in front of the apartment from 7:05 to 8:15 a.m. No one came to the apartment or left it during that time. On October 10, he rang the doorbell in the morning and there was no answer. On October 11, he rang the doorbell at 6:05 p.m. J.P. answered the door. Eickelberg did not know if her father was present. On October 12 and 13, he did not notice any activity, but he did not ring the doorbell. He watched the apartment again on October 14, the second day of hearing, between 7:00 and 8:30 a.m. No one entered or left.

The PSE&G statements in evidence are for utility service during the months of January through August 1992. On the February bill, the average gas use was four CCF and the actual number of kilowatt hours of electricity used during the month was thirty-eight. The entire utility bill was $20.54. In March, the average use of gas was two CCF and 110 kilowatt hours of electricity. The entire bill for March was $39.62. The PSE&G bills for April and May show the average use of four CCF of gas and 153 kilowatt hours of electricity and three CCF (averaged) and 130 kilowatt hours of electricity, respectively. The total bills for May and June were $65.24 and $87.90. The total bill for utility service for July was $28.40. In September, I.P. received a credit of $99.53 on his bill, leaving him with a credit balance of $87.80 from PSE&G.

The credit resulted from the actual reading of the gas meter in July and August 1992; the other gas bills were based upon average gas charges between the actual reading on January 15, 1992, and the actual reading in July 1992. The statement reveals that the actual use of gas for the period between January 15 and July 10, 1992, was only three CCF. This was for an apartment where two people were allegedly living and cooking.

The telephone bill for the Hillside Avenue address was $76.25 in February, $28.28 in March, $22.46 in April, $48.12 in July, and $25.46 in August.

As further evidence that he occupied the apartment, I.P. produced letters mailed or forwarded to him and received at the Hillside Avenue address. He produced several Korean language newspapers mailed directly to the Hillside Avenue address. The earliest of these newspapers is dated April 9, 1992, but nothing shows the date on which they were mailed. One letter, mailed coincidentally on January 6, 1992, the date of J.P.'s application to Leonia High School, from New York to the Englewood Cliffs address, appears to have been forwarded on January 9, 1992, to the Hillside Avenue address. A letter from the New Jersey Department of Education postmarked January 29, 1992, was sent to I.P. at Hillside Avenue.

The record shows that I.P. had his personal checks imprinted with the Hillside Avenue address sometime before February 1, 1992.

I.P. registered J.P. from the Leonia address in Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) classes in the First Academy of New Jersey between March 14 and June 6, 1992. A letter from her counselor at the First Academy states that it provided J.P. with bus service, picking her up at 4:00 p.m. and dropping her off at 6:30 p.m. at Hillside Avenue. She was enrolled in First Academy again in the fall semester 1992 for the after-school SAT course This was apparently the only education she received during this period.

Petitioner produced Internal Revenue Service Form 1040 for the year ending December 31, 1991, showing his address as Hillside Avenue in Leonia and claiming J.P. and her sister, R.P., but not his son as dependents. The form was prepared for I.P. as a married person filing singly. The form was not signed by I.P., and there is nothing in the record showing that it was ever filed with the Internal Revenue Service. The form was designated by the accountant as the "client's copy." The financial information was removed from the copy of the exhibit at hearing to protect petitioner's privacy.

Robert Peacock, a detective with the Leonia Police Department, was assigned to the Asian Task Force of the Bergen County Police in June 1992. While driving through Leonia, he observed a vehicle parked on the street overnight. He identified the vehicle as one used in an armed robbery in New York City by a young Asian man.

Peacock was met by members of a New York City robbery squad. Together they interviewed another young Asian male, and he directed them to J.P.'s apartment because he knew that there were "some kids staying with her." Peacock went back to Leonia with the New York City police officers, and they set up a surveillance on J.P.'s apartment. Precautions were taken because it was believed that the young man was armed and dangerous.

The police were able to observe three people walking around the apartment through the large picture window. The lights were on and the shades were open as usual They decided that the young man they were searching for was there. The police first rang the doorbell. When there was no response, they began to pound on the door. J.P. came to the door and they asked for her parents. She told them they were not there. They asked to speak to "Johnny," the young man they were seeking. A New York City police officer coaxed him out of the apartment, and he was taken into custody.

Since they were concerned about the weapon and there were no parents present, the police searched the apartment. They found one chair and a small sofa in the living room. There were two young women hiding in a closet; one had identification as an adult. Both were runaways who disappeared the following day. The bedroom had one bed. The closets contained only girl's clothing. They searched the bedroom and the bathroom. There was no evidence of male occupation anywhere. There were no men's clothes or toiletries, and there were no suitcases in the closet. There was no sign of any adult presence in the apartment. Peacock told J.P. to have her father contact him because he was going to send Thomas O'Meara, the youth officer with the Leonia Police Department, to the apartment on the next day.

At 9:12 a.m. on the next day, June 2, 1992, O'Meara was assigned to the motor patrol. He received a telephone call from the dispatcher that someone was requesting help at J.P.'s address. When he arrived, he knocked on the door and was met by J.P. She explained to him the incident of the prior night involving "Johnny." Since his arrest, she had been receiving telephone calls from his friends and relatives, and she was in fear for her life. When O'Meara asked to speak to her parents, she said that no one was home. He searched the apartment and found no evidence of parents living with her. She told O'Meara that she lived with her father but that he was away on a business trip, and she could not give a telephone number. She further told him that her father slept on the mattress on the floor in the bedroom and she slept in the living room on the chair. O'Meara found no signs of male adult habitation. There were no clothes in the closet, no shoes, etc.

Because J.P. was frightened, O'Meara took her into custody and brought her to police headquarters for further investigation. He had found an envelope in the kitchen of the Hillside Avenue apartment with her father's name and an Englewood Cliffs address on it. He called the telephone number belonging to the address on the envelope and asked if they knew J.P. J.P. finally gave him the telephone number of her father's business in New York City. She admitted to O'Meara that her father did not live in Leonia with her, but he or her mother came over once a day to bring her food.

When the police called her father, they told him that she was in their custody because she had called them for help and that someone would have to be sent to the police station to pick her up

When I.P. came to the police station to get his daughter, Peacock explained to him that the police had found her living alone. A relative or friend who came with I.P. explained to them that I.P. wanted J.P. to go to school in Leonia with her friends and that she had threatened to kill herself if she could not. That is why I.P. rented the apartment in Leonia. Peacock warned them that the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) would be following up on the case and it was important that his daughter live with him. She could not live on her own at the age of sixteen.

When J.P. was released in the custody of her father on June 2, 1992, he gave the police a statement saying that she resided with him in Englewood Cliffs.

A few days later, Peacock began to stop sporadically at the Hillside Avenue address, about a dozen times altogether. There was no answer when he rang the bell. There were newspapers in the mailbox but no other mail. Once he observed J.P. sitting on the steps. He never saw any activity in the apartment.

When Taub received a report from Peacock, O'Meara, and others on the Leonia Police Department about the incidents and learned that J.P. had said that her father did not live there with her, Taub directed that the matter be referred to DYFS because J.P. was a minor in need of supervision. Subsequently, on June 8, 1992, a DYFS investigator questioned J.P. in the presence of Barbara Silverman, the guidance counselor at Leonia High School. Silverman reported to Marlowe that J.P. told the DYFS worker that, as of that date, she was living with her mother in Englewood Cliffs. J.P. said that before that date, she lived alone in Leonia during the week and spent the weekend with her parents in Englewood Cliffs. She told the DYFS investigator that she wanted to go to school in Leonia and not in Englewood.

After considering all the evidence involving the living arrangements of J.P., the Leonia Board decided that the Hillside Avenue address was that of an apartment leased solely for the purpose of establishing residency in Leonia in order to permit J.P. to attend Leonia High School free of charge; it was the determination of the school administration that J.P. actually resided with I.P. in Englewood Cliffs.

A letter dated July 20, 1992, was sent to I.P. by the attorney for the Board to inform him that his daughter would not be permitted to attend Leonia High School in the fall because of the Appellate Division decision barring enrollment of nonresident tuition students from Englewood Cliffs, and it recommended that he enroll her in Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood. It also stated that, since the Board had determined that J.P. would have been enrolled as a nonresident tuition student at Leonia High School if it were legally possible, I.P. owed the district $4,555.20 for her attendance between February and June 1992, and payment was requested.

During his testimony, I.P. denied receiving this letter. However, his petition filed in this matter has appended to it a letter dated July 30, 1992, written by I.P. in which he refers to this letter and a copy of the July 20 letter itself is attached to the petition.

As of the week before this hearing, there was no sign of occupancy in the apartment and the telephone remains disconnected.

I.P.'s assertions that he continues to live in Leonia with his daughter is incredible in light of the fact that no witness has found any evidence since the beginning of July 1992 that anyone lives in the Leonia apartment. The last information in the record as to where J.P. might be living was the statement she gave to the DYFS investigator in the presence of Barbara Silverman on June 8, 1992, that she moved back with her mother in Englewood Cliffs. J.P. was in the hearing room during the testimony of Marlowe when Silverman's report of June 12, 1992, was introduced into the record, but I.P. elected not to have her testify to controvert the content of this report.

During the course of the hearing, it was asserted at various times by I.P. and his sister, K.S., that he had a problem with the English language which would handicap him in the presentation of his case. However, neither I.P. nor his sister, K.S., requested that an interpreter be provided for the hearing and, in fact, it appeared to the undersigned, and I FIND, that none was necessary It must be recalled that I.P. participated in not one but two separate hearings in this appeal. He appeared on the emergent application and had the opportunity to request an interpreter for the plenary hearing. He owns and operates a delicatessen in New York City. He was able to review the lease on his Leonia apartment during his testimony and pick out a relevant provision and, in general, appeared to have no problem with the English language except when confronted with a question which he did not wish to answer. When he did answer, his answers were either unresponsive or evasive.

In his direct testimony, I.P. insisted that he only wanted his daughter to attend school and that it was bad for her to be missing school, yet he admitted that he made no attempt to send her to Dwight Morrow but preferred to see her stay at home and receive no education. It was confirmed by the Board that no attempt was made to enroll her at Dwight Morrow H.S., although I.P. claimed to have been turned away by Dwight Morrow because he said that J.P. lived in Leonia.

I.P.'s testimony was generally inconsistent as to where he or J.P. lived at any particular time, where she was or was not attending school, and why she was or was not attending any particular school. On cross-examination, he refused to respond to questions and instead berated the representative of the Board and berated the Board and its witnesses for preventing his daughter from obtaining an education. He demanded to know why they would not allow his daughter to attend Leonia High School since he lived in Leonia.

I.P.'s sister, K.S., who claimed a better command of the English language than I.P., was present throughout the hearing, and had knowledge, personal and otherwise, of the circumstances surrounding J.P.'s attendance at Leonia H.S. She declined to testify for reasons of health. She did, however, respond aloud from her seat at counsel table to questions posed to I.P. during his testimony by respondent or by the forum. Despite repeated warnings, this conduct continued until she was cautioned that she would be directed to leave the hearing room.

J.P., who had knowledge of all of the events in question, was present through the entire hearing and sat at counsel table. She speaks English fluently. On the second day of hearing, after I.P. had concluded his testimony, she appeared to be too ill to take the witness stand. Respondent proceeded with its witnesses throughout the remainder of the day. I.P. was offered the opportunity several times during the day to allow J.P. to testify then or to return at another time when she felt well enough to testify. After respondent finished its case, I.P. once more declined the opportunity to continue the hearing to permit J.P. to testify, and the record closed at that time.

Based upon the evidence presented, I FIND that I.P. did not reside at Hillside Avenue in Leonia from January 2, 1992, until the present time. In spite of the documents produced with his name and the Leonia address on them, there is no evidence that he actually resided in the apartment at any time. I FIND that he is not a credible witness and, therefore, his statements as to his residency are given little weight. No traces of his presence in the apartment were ever found, and J.P. herself told the police, the DYFS investigator, and the school administration that I.P. did not live with her.

I FIND that J.P., at sixteen years of age, was not an emancipated child but was nevertheless living alone in the apartment in Leonia at times. I FIND that she lived with her parents, I.P and his wife, in Englewood Cliffs at other times. I FIND that there is no evidence that anyone has lived in the Hillside Avenue apartment since at least the beginning of July 1992.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

I.P., on behalf of his minor child, J.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF LEONIA, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were replies thereto by the Board.

In his exceptions, petitioner first complains of the ALJ's failure to provide him with an interpreter, or alternatively, to let his sister interpret for him in view of his difficulty with English. Second, he objects to the ALJ's statement regarding the possible non-filing of his 1991 income tax return and submits a communication from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) indicating that it was in fact filed. Third, he contends that the Board never proved that he and his daughter resided in Englewood Cliffs, and that the Board and ALJ ignored all his evidence that they resided in Leonia as claimed. Finally, he complains of the manner in which the district sought to verify his residency by visiting and phoning his apartment at all hours and disturbing his and his daughter's sleep. During the course of these exceptions, petitioner offers statements of events which run counter to, or provide additional information about, factual events as recounted by the ALJ.

In reply, the Board first notes that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1.1-14.3(a) it was petitioner's responsibility, not OAL's, to secure an interpreter, and that petitioner had ample opportunity to do so; moreover, given petitioner's sister's intimate involvement in the substance of this controversy, the ALJ properly restricted her procedural participation at hearing. Second, the Board notes that the ALJ's statement about filing of income tax returns was correct based on the record before her at the time of her ruling, and petitioner should not at this juncture be permitted to produce evidence not submitted at hearing. Third, the Board argues that it and the ALJ did not ignore evidence of petitioner's purported residency in Leonia; rather, they reviewed it carefully and concluded that it was insufficient to support his claims. Finally, the Board affirms its right to investigate suspected cases of false residency claims and objects to petitioner's attempts to use his exceptions to introduce testimony from his daughter and sister, who, by their own and petitioner's choice, did not testify at hearing and whom the Board now has no opportunity to cross-examine or challenge through rebuttal witnesses.

Upon careful review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner affirms the determination of the ALJ for the reasons well stated by her in the initial decision.

Even granting arguendo petitioner's contention that he needed an interpreter, the record of both emergent and plenary proceedings demonstrates that he had ample opportunity to secure one and that it was made abundantly and immediately clear by the presiding judges in both proceedings that his sister could not properly fulfill this role for him under the circumstances of this matter. Moreover, even granting petitioner his further claim that the 1991 tax return showing a Leonia address for himself and his daughter was actually filed with IRS, the voluminous evidence in support of the Board's contention that petitioner did not reside in Leonia is still not sufficiently overcome to alter the results of these proceedings. Finally, the Board is correct in objecting to what amounts to an attempt to testify after the fact to matters which petitioner had ample opportunity to address at hearing through his own testimony or that of others whom he chose not to call as witnesses despite every attempt at accommodation by the ALJ.

The Commissioner is well satisfied that the ALJ gave careful consideration to all available evidence and properly weighed the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her in this matter, and he fully accepts her findings of fact, conclusions of law and emphasis on the State policy imperatives of Englewood Cliffs, supra.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, finding that I.P. did not reside in Leonia during the period at issue and that his daughter J.P. was therefore not entitled to attend school there, is affirmed for the reasons well expressed therein. Petitioner's appeal is dismissed and petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board for tuition costs incurred during the periods of his daughter's illegal attendance in the Leonia public schools.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
