Upon taking the Chair, the President addressed the Senate as follows:

SENATORS,—Called by your kindly preference to preside over your deliberations, it is but the utterance of a common gratitude to say that I am profoundly sensible of this evidence of your esteem and partiality. The duties of a presiding officer are onerous, full of responsibility, and demand for their proper discharge an accurate and available knowledge of parliamentary law, promptness of decision, firmness, dignity, and above all, that strict justice that knows neither favoritism nor partisan bias. Conscious of the requirements of this high position, I approach its duties and its responsibilities with diffidence and with somewhat of distrust. Bringing with me no preconceived pride of opinion, I shall endeavor always to be guided by the sense of the Senate, and avail myself of its judgment. Differing widely, as we necessarily and unavoidably do, upon political issues, it has ever been a marked and graceful characteristic of the Senate of New-Jersey that its deliberations have been distinguished by dignity, courtesy, much mutual forbearance, and a true desire to minister to the best interests of the Commonwealth. Indeed, in but few legislative assemblies with representatives of all shades of opinions, gathered from different localities, and with diverse interests, can there be found more of harmony, or genial accord, less of personal bitterness, or more firm and enduring friendships.

Beyond the labors and responsibilities of ordinary legislation, it will be our duty to revise and define anew the boundaries of Congressional and Assembly Districts upon the basis of the United States census just completed. Rising above mere partisanship, let us endeavor to discharge this delicate and responsible trust with a proper regard to justice, public convenience, and the rights and best interests of the various individuals and communities who may be affected by an unavoidable change. Let us strive, by wise and judicious legislation, to incur no just reproach, or deserve no hostile criticism. All attempts at an unnatural and forced arrangement of Assembly Districts, all violations of geographical propriety, all outrages upon a just public sentiment, having for their object the mere perpetuation of political ascendancy, are, in themselves, as unwise as they are unjust, and will surely and inevitably return to plague their inventors.

Public opinion and public interest alike demand that prompt despatch of legislation which will render necessary a protracted session, and thereby avoid useless expense to the State.

It will be our duty and high privilege to inscribe the name of New-Jersey upon the muster-roll of Freedom, and join her assent to that glorious sisterhood who have placed the seal of their ratification upon that last and crowning Amendment which adorns in its now full and ample beauty that nobly perfected charter of human liberty—the Constitution of the United States; an Amendment, which, in the terse and vigorous language of our honored President in his late annual message, secures "a pure, untrammelled ballot, so that every man entitled to vote may do so just once at each election, without fear of molestation, or proscription on account of his political faith, color or nativity."

Recent events have shown the necessity of such appropriate legislation as would tend to guard more securely the rights of citizens in the exercise of the elective franchise, and to prevent the expression of their will, as deposited in the ballot-box, from being rendered unavailing by the fraud or violence of any set of men who may be dissatisfied with the popular verdict contained therein. Any proper and judicious enactment tending to this end, would certainly commend itself to the approbation of all good citizens.

Relying, Senators, upon your generous forbearance and assistance in the discharge of the responsible duties you have devolved upon me, and again thanking you for this grateful mark of your confidence, I invoke upon our deliberations that measure of Divine guidance, without which mere human wisdom is but foolishness, remembering always, "that except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

The Senate then proceeded to the choice of a Secretary.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New-Jersey :

The undersigned, in behalf and by instruction of the Editorial Association of the State of New-Jersey, take leave respectfully to protest against the passage of any special act referring to the annual publication of the laws of the State at variance with the law now in existence. This law is liberal in its terms and gives to every inhabitant of the State the means to become acquainted with the laws by which they are to be governed, through the medium of established newspapers, without affording to other publications of an ephemeral character, or which do not come properly under the title of "newspapers," the opportunity of occasioning an increased and unnecessary expenditure by the State Treasury.

Resolved, That in the death of the Hon. George T. Cobb, this body has suffered the loss of one of its most useful, faithful and prominent members,—useful to this Commonwealth by the ceaseless vigilance and untiring zeal with which he guarded and strove to promote her best interests and permanent welfare; faithful, by his uncompromising allegiance to her rights, and his incorruptible and unswerving integrity in the discharge of every public duty; prominent, because of the numerous acts of legislation which, through his instrumentality and assistance, have tended in so large a degree to enrich, elevate and ennoble New-Jersey.

Resolved, That not only this State, but the nation at large, has lost a sterling patriot, an ardent co-operator in every worthy enterprise, an honest officer, and an untiring friend.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathise with his constituents who have been deprived of a representative upon whom they relied with so much confidence, and with his fellow-citizens, who have in such a bountiful degree been the recipients of his large-hearted and generous charity, the numerous evidences of which, to be found on every side in their midst, are constant reminders of a generous philanthropy and unselfish Christianity. Let us emulate his manly Christian virtues, his inflexible integrity, his unflinching patriotism and his noble philanthropy.

Resolved, That to the household left desolate by his absence, we tender our warmest sympathy in their afflictive bereavement, conscious that they who knew him best will feel most deeply and keenly his loss; knowing, however, that their only enduring consolation is in the hopes and promises of that religion of which the deceased was a sincere professor.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the family of the deceased by the Secretary of the Senate.

A message was also received from His Excellency, the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, TRENTON, March, 1871.

To the Senate:—I return to the Senate, without my approval, Senate Bill, No. 240, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Oceanic Yacht Club, of Jersey City."

I do this with the more reluctance, from the fact that the title of the bill seems to indicate that the purpose of it is both innocent and laudable. But a whole section is devoted to the declaration of the objects of the bill, and those objects are of so extensive a character—being besides the building, purchase and sailing of yachts, none less than the cultivation and advancement of naval architecture, construction and science—that the subsequent power to construct such wharves, docks or piers as may be deemed necessary to carry out the objects of this corporation, and to sell them, may result in setting up against the State a claim to a grant of lands under tide water, of unlimited extent, at Jersey City.

These lands are exceedingly valuable, and it is of the last consequence that the State should throw no cloud upon its own title to them.

A regard for the increasing revenue of the State from this source, induces me to return this bill without my approval.

Respectfully, THEO. F. RANDOLPH, Governor.

A message was also received from His Excellency, the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, endorsed "nominations."

A message was received from His Excellency, the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
TRENTON, March 21, 1871.

To the Legislature:—I am constantly urged by large numbers of our most respectable citizens of both political parties, to interpose the Executive prerogative of returning bills disapproved, and thus attempt to obtain a reconsideration of the action of the Legislature.

As the session draws to a close the appeals of this description are most numerous and urgent, and coming as they do from our own fellow citizens, whose good opinion it has been my highest ambition to deserve, I cannot refrain from expressing to you, and through you, as representatives, to them, my views of the only safe and proper exercise under our State constitution of the veto power. It will be recollected,

1st. That the power has to be exercised within five days from the presentation of a bill to the Executive, and the reasons for its exercise submitted to the House in which the bill originated.

2d. That although both Houses may have unanimously voted for a bill vetoed by the Governor, "the veto" is set aside, the objections overridden, and the bill made a law despite the Executive objections, if a mere majority of the members of both houses so decide. I am thus particular in stating these facts because of the popular notion that a two-thirds vote is required of the Legislature to set aside a veto. As I have shown, and as your honorable bodies are aware, a much smaller vote than that usual in passing bills may override the Executive objections. At the close of the session of your immediate predecessors, I was requested to withhold my signature from many legislative bills. Had I acted upon my personal disposition alone, and not upon my sense of official duty, restricted, as it seemed to me to be, by clear constitutional limits, or by constitutional implications of duty equal strong —I should in very many instances have withheld my approval."

In March, 1870, the Collector of Jersey City having requested me to withhold my signature from a bill affecting the revenue of that city, I made answer to him, which gave then as it gives now, my views of the proper exercise of the veto power. I beg leave to quote a portion of it as follows:

"Upon assuming the duties of the Executive office, I determined to fulfil it according to my ability, in consonance with the letter and spirit of our form of government, using the "veto" power only in such cases as were clearly unconstitutional, where unintentional mistakes had been made, or where the ends of justice were clearly to be violated by Legislative contrivances, remote from, if not beyond judicial enquiry.

"For the Executive to debate questions of expediency with the Legislature, and constantly array his opinions and prerogative of 'veto' against the expressed purpose of a majority of of the Senate and House of Assembly, seemed to me antagonistic to the purpose of the authority under which I hold my office, and violative of the spirit of our form of government.

"So careful were the framers of our State Constitution that no real power of obstruction to Legislative will should rest with the Executive, that, as you are aware, the "veto" of an Executive can be constitutionally overriden by a mere repetition of the same vote that originally passed a given bill, or even a less number, provided that number be a majority of each house.

"The theory of our State Constitution is, therefore, that majorities of the members of both houses best declare the will of the people in all cases, even after the Executive disapproves.

"From frequent remarks and written applications made to me, I fear this matter is not completely understood by all our people.

"If the fact is, as against the theory, that the people are not heard through a majority of their Legislative members, and, through improper influences, unjust and pernicious legislation is had, the responsibility is upon the electors who send them, and not upon the Executive, whose power over their action, as I have just indicated, is literally nothing.

"When the people of New-Jersey, of all parties, select men for Legislative positions with reference to their integrity and capacity, and not for their temporary political availability, they will have bridged most of the dangers of bad legislation. For me to attempt its correction by the exercise of the 'veto' power when the Legislature is in session, is, as you perceive, a serious undertaking; and although I have been sustained by the Legislature in all my vetoes thus far, I attribute it chiefly to the fact that my objections were in all cases, partly at least, of a constitutional character.

"I have had in my hand, within the five days prior to the adjournment, nearly one-half of the entire legislation of the session, and the adjournment leaves all these acts subject alone to my official sanction. I do not propose to discuss the safety or propriety of Legislative action that permits such accumulation and its resulting power in the hands of the Executive.

"Of this great number of acts I deem it safe to say that a large percentage are contested upon the ground of public or private injustice, inexpediency, and the like, and if I even deemed it within the scope of a legitimate exercise of my functions to judicially consider and decide upon such questions, the remainder of the year will be hardly long enough to make the adjudication. I am thus frank in the expression of my views, because I desire your authorities and others to appreciate my position under existing facts."

Acting upon the rule indicated in the preceding paragraphs,

I have been enabled, thus far, to obtain the Legislative concurrence in every "veto" I have felt compelled to make.

Avoiding its repeated, irritating and useless exercise, the almost powerless prerogative has thus far, I trust, been made of some service to the State. The omission to exercise it will not be construed by sensible people, after this presentation of my views of official power and duty as any personal endorsement of acts to which I append my signature, for the simple reason that only petty, irritating and undignified delay would come from vetoes which the Legislature would finally make the laws over and in defiance of them. I have signed many acts that failed to commend themselves to my personal judgment, and shall no doubt sign may more of a similar character hereafter.

To the present Legislature is delegated the power of redistricting the State, and of passing other acts political in their character. A majority of your members are politically at variance with the Executive. The absolute power lies within your bodies to make such laws upon these and other subjects as you deem fit, and it seems to me, that under any circumstances likely to occur, my objections in "veto" form to political legislation would be as unnecessary as futile.

The responsibility of legislative action is upon the members of your bodies, and I do not propose either by my silence, or by my mere official—almost clerical—performance of duty to share with you responsibilities, which as a member of either of your bodies I should have remonstrated against. It will appear plain to you, from these views, that there need be no delay in bringing about an early adjournment if you so desire. Already the time has passed at which your predecessors adjourned, and of nearly nine hundred bills presented for your consideration, only about three hundred have reached this department, leaving nearly two-thirds yet to be considered by me. As under the Constitution only a limited time is given me to sign or return the bills, my examination of those remaining must necessarily be brief and unsatisfactory.

I shall adhere to my resolve submitted in my annual message to your Honorable Bodies: to refuse to sign any bill of a private character passed during the last two days of the session or to sign any bill that has not been read completely through at least once in each House. In the absence of proper information to the contrary, I shall assume the attestation of your officers as prima facia evidence of such reading having been had. Respectfully, THEO. F. RANDOLPH, Governor.

NEWARK, N. J., March 20, 1871.

To the Honorable the Senate and General Assembly:

GENTLEMEN—It having been determined by your honorable bodies to sell the vessel known as "Stevens Battery," devised by the late Hon. Edwin A. Stevens to the State of New-Jersey, I would respectfully suggest that the income derived from the sale of the same be appropriated to the New-Jersey Home for Disabled Soldiers, and to the Soldiers' Children's Home. The object of the first being the support of indigent sick and wounded soldiers of the State, and of the latter that of the care and education of the orphan children of those who died in defence of the Republic—both commend themselves to your favorable consideration. Mr. Stevens, the donor of the vessel to the State, was one of the original managers of the Home for Soldiers, and always took the deepest interest in its management, and it is believed that this direction of the funds would be most agreeable to his feelings were he here to be consulted. While this use of the money would accomplish the greatest possible good to those to whom we owe most, and would insure adequate care to the brave men who lost their health, and to the orphan children of those whose lives were given to their country ; it would at the same time save the necessity of collecting by taxation the money for the support of these institutions. When in the course of time there shall be no further occasion for this appropriation of the funds, the income might be appropriated to the general purposes of education, in which subject, also, the liberal donor was greatly interested, or to any other object which the wisdom of the legislature should determine. Very respectfully, MARCUS L. WARD.

Which was read and laid on the table.

To the Honorable the Senate of the State of New-Jersey:

We, the Justices of the Supreme Court, in answer to your communication seeking information with respect to the progress made since the seventeenth day of March last towards the completion of the digest of Law and Equity Reports, respectfully state:

That we are at present unable to say how far said work has advanced, or what is its present condition. From the information received by us, we supposed this digest would have been completed a long time ago, but such expectations have not been realized. We are not possessed of any information from which we can say when the work will be completed.

We deem it proper further to say, that the expeditious completion of this digest is, in our opinion, a matter of considerable importance, and that the law which authorizes us to appoint a person to do the work does not give us any control over such person after appointment. It is not in our power, therefore, to expedite this work. The delay has been so great that some legislative action appears to be demanded.

By order of the Court,

M. BEASLEY, Chief Justice.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA,
March 29, 1871.

To His Excellency, T. F. Randolph, Governor of New-Jersey:

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to invite your attention to the following joint resolution of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, approved March eighth, eighteen hundred and seventy-one, to wit:

"That the Governor, and three persons appointed by him, William A. Wallace and James H. Webb, Speakers of the Senate and House, with three members of each branch of the Legislature, to be appointed by the Speakers of the Senate and House respectively, shall be a committee of the State of Pennsylvania to co-operate with committees from other States and local committees, upon the subject of the Centennial Celebration at Philadelphia, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-six; said committee to stand until that time, and to report at each intervening Legislature, and make such suggestions and recommendations, from time to time, to the Legislature as they may think proper and expedient in reference to said Centennial Celebration.

One of the most prominent objects of this resolution is to perfect the necessary preliminary organization at the earliest practicable date, and to gather all necessary information and material to facilitate the operations of the United States Board of Commissioners, to be appointed by the President of the United States, upon the recommendation of the Governors of the different States and Territories, in accordance with an act of Congress "to provide for celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of American Independence, by holding an international exhibition of arts, manufactures and products of the soil and mines, in the City of Philadelphia, and State of Pennsylvania, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-six."

It is desired and intended that this Centennial Celebration shall be the grandest affair that has ever taken place, and it is highly important that every possible means shall be employed for the attainment of that object. I, therefore, most respectfully request and recommend that you direct the attention of your Legislature to the importance of appointing a special committee, at its earliest convenience, to co-operate with the Committee of Pennsylvania, in conformity with the provisions of the Joint Resolution of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth. A message was received from His Excellency, the Governor, by the hands of his Private Secretary, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
TRENTON, March 29, 1871.

To the Legislature:

Senate Bill, No. 352, and Assembly Bill, No. 423, both entitled "A further supplement to the Act entitled 'An Act to revise and amend the charter of the City of Newark,'" approved March eleventh, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, are herewith returned without my approval.

Among the objections urged by me against the Jersey City charter, was that which provides that the commissioners should have power to take all the house—that needed for the opening of the street as well as that remaining—when, in opening a street, a building should be bisected.

I contended: "That it was proper to require the purchase of a whole building in cases where but a part of it is within the line of the land necessary for a public improvement—and to give the owner the privilege of removing it from out of the line of the improvement to and upon the residue of his land cannot be denied.

"But the right to take private property for public use, extends no farther than the public necessity. The commissioners cannot lawfully be given the power to take the land not necessary for the improvement, but it would be proper to give to the owner of a building partly taken the privilege of requiring the commissioners to purchase the residue, as well as the privilege of removing the building. The obligation should be upon the commissioners—the privilege, that of the owner.

Now the bills returned to your Honorable Bodies are even more objectionable as to these powers granted commissioners than was the Jersey City Charter.

Assembly Bill, 423, gives power to the "Fair street" commissioners to take an area of land beyond the public necessity, and far beyond that required for the improvement.

It also provides that the lands thus taken beyond the public need may be disposed of at public or private sale, as the commissioners deem most expedient.

This certainly is a most convenient and prompt method of disposing of property illegally seized at first, and paid for by the citizens or the corporation afterwards, and finally placed in the hands of the commissioners to sell at public or private sale to whom they please, and upon terms deemed proper by them.

Senate Bill, No. 252, provides that whenever commissioners appointed by the common council "shall find it necessary or expedient to estimate and assess full valuation for the whole of any lot, tract and parcel of the lands and real estate of any such owner or owners, including any such gores, strips or portions of said lot, tract or parcel of said lands and real estate, adjoining the line of said street, road, highway or alley, public park or square, said commissioners shall have the power to condemn the whole of said lot, tract or parcel of said lands and real estate, including said gores, strips or portions adjoining the lines of said street, road, highway or alley, public park or square, and such owner or owners shall upon the payment of the amount of said assessment, execute and deliver to the city, a good and sufficient conveyance of the whole of said lot, tract or parcel of lands and real estate, including such gores, strips or portions adjoining the line of said street, road, highway or alley, public park or square."

Aside from the constitutional objection urged against these bills, it would seem to be but just that whenever private property has for public purposes, to be entered upon and "taken," whatever may remain of it, should be enjoyed by the owner as to occupancy or benefit of sale. Certainly, the citizens of Newark do not desire in addition to the powers of Council, of opening new streets, that of condemning all property that happens to lie contiguous to such improvements.

The inducements for Council to make "improvements" now perhaps sufficiently strong—would be increased very largely, when within the ordinary temptations such "improvements" always engender, there lies the elements of a real estate speculation requiring no capital, and no very great amount of talent.

Respectfully,

THEODORE F. RANDOLPH, Governor.

At the request of the President, Mr. Torrey took the Chair.

Mr. Wiley offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, this Legislature is about to adjourn, and it is eminently proper that this Senate should take cognizance of the manner in which their presiding officer has fulfilled the duties of his position; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Honorable Edward Bettle, President of this Senate, has earned the respect of his brother Senators for the able manner in which he has presided over their deliberations; always requiring the observance of the rules, he has yet tempered their enforcement by his kind and courteous consideration of individual rights and wishes; while as a Senator, holding decided opinions on matters of political and public concern, he has never allowed these opinions to influence his administration of the duties of his position, earnest and untiring in the performance of his duties, he has set an example of punctuality and fidelity, which has contributed greatly to shorten a session which otherwise would have been prolonged; for this impartiality, courtesy and fidelity to the requirements of his office, we tender him, at parting, the acknowledgment he has so fairly earned, with our best wishes for his future prosperity and happiness.

Which was read.

Mr. Brinkerhoff seconded the resolution, and said that it but feebly expressed the feelings of admiration and respect felt by the Senators for the able manner in which their President had performed the arduous and responsible duties of his office. He had a united and perfect knowledge of parliamentary law, with a quickness and readiness in deciding questions, and a courteous and forbearing manner. Differing widely with some of the Senators in many matters, he has never allowed the differences to influence his decision of any question. Having discharged the duties of his office in a manner entirely satisfactory to all, he merits the highest words of praise we can give him.

Mr. Williams said the sentiments expressed in the resolution met his warmest approbation. It gave him great pleasure to be enabled to testify that the manner in which the President had discharged the onorous duties of his position had commended itself to all. Many things had arisen during the session, in the discussion of which much excitement had arisen, but in all of them the decisions of the President were characterized by fairness, firmness and integrity.

Mr. J. W. Taylor favored the adoption of the resolution, not as a mere formal matter, but as one concurred in by heart and judgment. With his knowledge of presiding officers of the Senate, he doubted if it ever had a more able, dignified, courteous and accomplished officer than the one to whom this resolution is directed. He has exhibited a thorough knowl- of the principles and details of parliamentary law. He should concur heartily in the resolution, not as a mere matter of favor, but as a matter of justice.

The resolution was then unanimously adopted.

Mr. Bettle then arose and spoke as follows:

SENATORS,—I feel at a loss sufficiently, or in fitting language, to express my thanks for your kindness, and I fear partial and unmerited appreciation of my efforts as Presiding Officer of this Senate, which the resolutions just adopted so fully express. It is pleasant, always, to receive the approbation and evidences of the personal friendship of my brother Senators.

It might, perhaps, be expected that those of this Body with whom I am politically connected, should cast the mantle of charity and forbearance over the short comings of the President of their selection. But to receive from those whose political views are in antagonism to my own, and upon whom, inevitably, the judgment and action of the majority of this Senate must at times have borne harshly, to receive from them those expressions of good will and the award of justice and impartiality, those chief virtues of a presiding officer, is praise indeed.

I am conscious that whatever success has attended the administration of the responsible and arduous duties of President, very much is due to the courtesy, forbearance and faithfulness in the discharge of your own Legislative duties, which has been, I think, a marked characteristic of the Senate during this session. You, Senators, have made possible that prompt despatch of business, which has been so satisfactory, and which has so materially lightened the labors of the Chair.

But I am admonished that to us, as to all, must come the utterance of that word of parting—farewell. We shall soon sever those ties of daily intimacy and association which have bound us together, and interrupt, wholly, or in part, "it must be for months, and it may be forever," those pleasant friendships which are the crowning compensation for the vexation and harassing cares of Legislative life.

Removed from these halls, the Senator from Bergen can dream in peace of the luxuriant fertility of the salt meadows undisturbed by the hideous nightmare of the "Drigg's Bill;" the Senator from Hudson will discover, I trust, that the world will yet go round unshaken by that terrible charter of Jersey City, which has become a law, certain objections to the contrary notwithstanding; that sorely tried and much amended instrument, known as the "Charter of the City of Newark," will have some short respite; Greenville will cease from troubling, and Erie will be at rest.

The cranberries of Toms River will rejoice in their peaceful "preservation," and repose will linger round the bed of the oyster and the clam in Maurice River Cove, and the "oyster policeman," that greatest of official dignitaries, will, as he paces his placid rounds, keep safe from domestic rakes or foreign broils, those most respectable "natives."

And now Senators, the final word of parting cannot be longer delayed. Accept my grateful assurance of the appreciation in which I ever hope to hold your many acts of kindness, and your unvarying courtesy. That health and prosperity may ever attend you is my sincere wish, and so, as "Tiny Tim" exclaimed, "God bless us, every one."

Mr. Brinkerhoff offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate be tendered to the Engrossing Clerk, for the faithful and skillful manner in which he has discharged his duties.

Which was read and unanimously adopted.

Mr. Edsall offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Senate are due and are hereby tendered to the Secretary and other officers, for the promptness, energy and gentlemanly conduct shown by them in the discharge of their duties during the Session.

Which was unanimously adopted.

Mr. N. D. Taylor offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are hereby tendered to the reporters of the press who have occupied seats in this Chamber, for the fair and impartial reports of the proceedings and business of the Senate.

Which was unanimously agreed to.
