

New Jersey Basic Skills Training Program
for Economic Growth Act
End of Year Report: FY'14
P.L. 2009, Chapter 199

Executive Summary

We are pleased to provide, as required in P.L. 2009, Chapter 199, the New Jersey Community College Consortium for Workforce and Economic Development's report on activities of the New Jersey Basic Skills Training Program for Economic Growth Act (NJBIA Basic Skills Workforce Training Program) for the past fiscal year ending June 30, 2014. This is the fifth year of program operation as directed by the Legislature.

This public-private partnership between the New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development (NJLWD), the New Jersey Community College Consortium for Workforce and Economic Development (Consortium) and the New Jersey Business and Industry Association (NJBIA) continues to assist the state's business community in improving workers' skills. Because of its unique flexibility, the program is able to reach more workers and employers than any other state training program.

Program highlights:

- Over 69,000 workers served since inception.
- Over 4800 businesses served since inception.
- 88 % of classes delivered in FY'14 were targeted to small businesses.
- 45% of workers reported wages of $20 per hour or less,
- 56% increase in unique number of businesses served.
- 40% increase in workers trained.
- Availability of supplemental funding allowed for no breaks in the delivery and contributed to the growth of businesses served.

New Jersey Basic Skills Training Program
for Economic Growth Act
P.L. 2009, Chapter 199

End of Year Report: FY'14

Five years ago New Jersey Business and Industry Association (NJBIA) leaders recognized that thousands of small businesses in New Jersey were having difficulty accessing Department of Labor and Workforce Development (NJLWD) training funds due to existing grant policy restraints. Working under the leadership of NJBIA's then CEO Phil Kirschner, and now acting CEO Melanie Willoughby, the NJBIA was instrumental in the development of the original concept for the program. Your legislation corrected and continues to remediate this problem. NJLWD Commissioner Hal Wirths is fully supportive of the program.

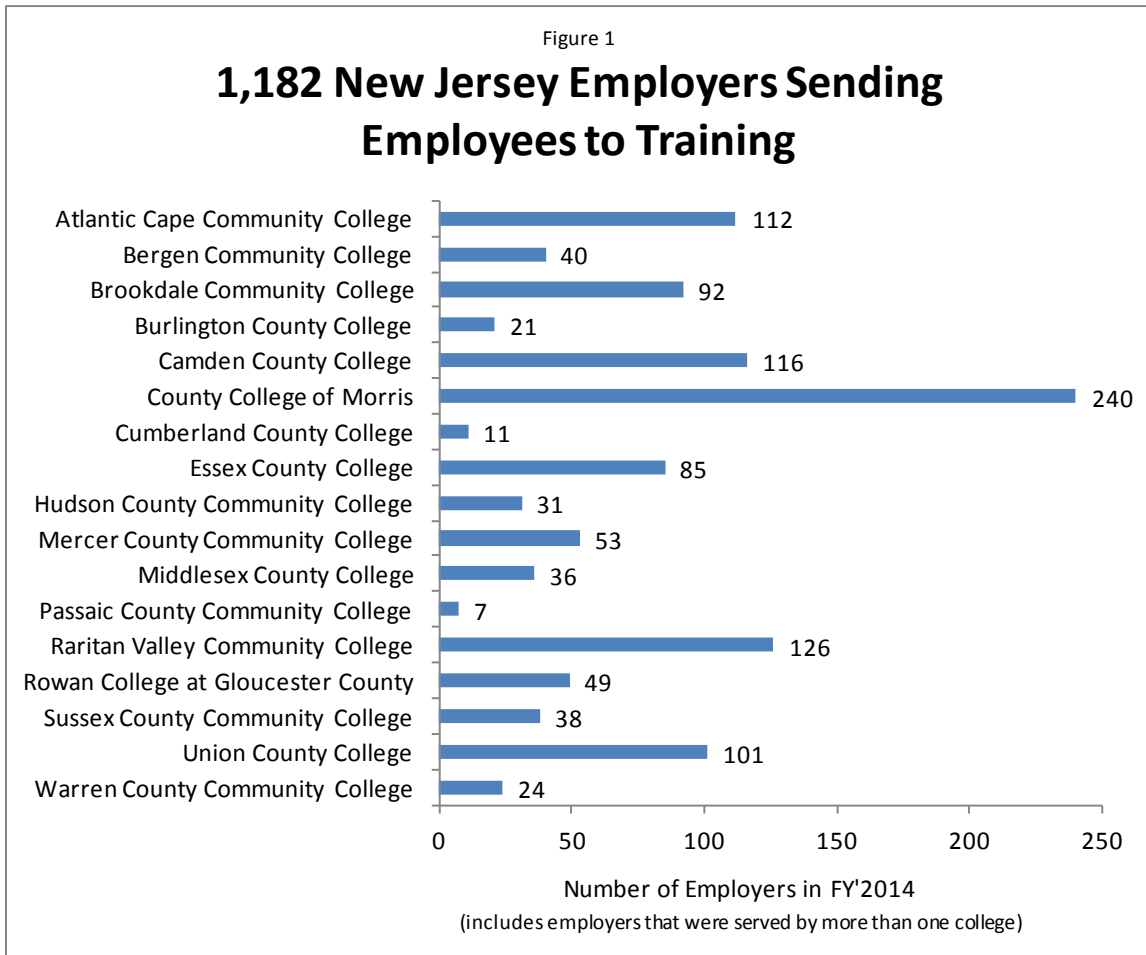

The program is managed by the New Jersey Community College Consortium for Workforce and Economic Development (Consortium) with instruction delivered by the state's community colleges. Instructors are seasoned college adjunct professors with experience in providing instruction to the business community. The NJBIA provides outreach to its 20,000 members, and the Consortium and community colleges supplement this with outreach to non-member employers. NJLWD manages fiscal oversight, including payment of invoices prepared by the Consortium.

Overall headcount of workers trained has now surpassed 69,000 and companies served exceed 4,800. Since the passing of the legislation the program has seen tremendous expansion of over 85% in the three major categories: workers trained, businesses served and classes delivered.

In FY'14 the project provided $980,000 from the initial Legislative authorization in tuition training dollars for New Jersey businesses. This figure represents a 50% increase over FY'13.

The impact of this increase was immediately seen in the overall growth by the year's end. Businesses react to consistency and plan accordingly. With our ability to guarantee funds (and training classes) they responded as seen in the 59% growth of companies served year to year.

1182 New Jersey employers participated in the program in FY '14 sending 16,079 of their employees to 1521 training classes (Figures 1 & 2). The number of businesses served is up 56% and the number of employees trained is up 40% from the FY'13 program year. These increases are attributable to the stability of the funding throughout the year. See Attachment A for complete list of employers.

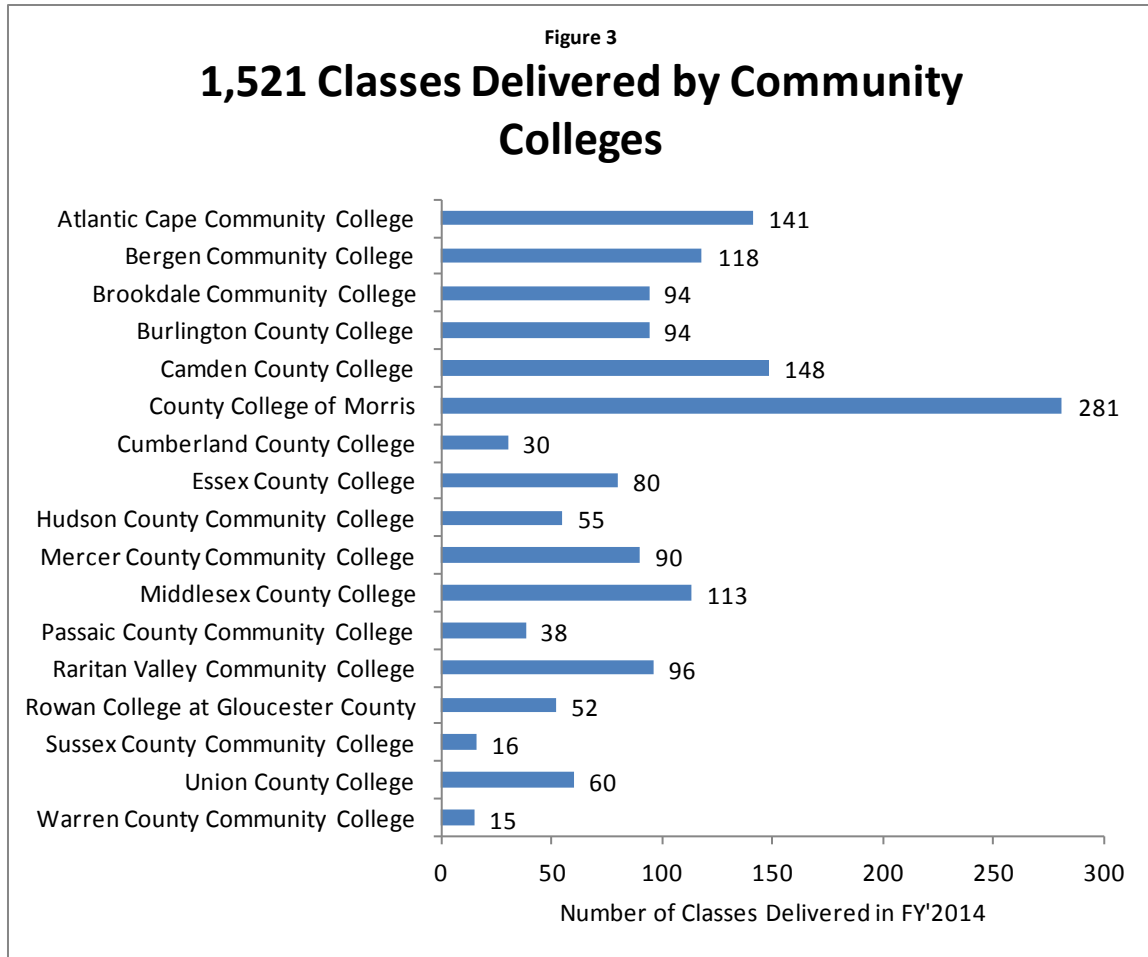

The training classes served employers in all 21 of New Jersey’s counties. The majority of classes were delivered at employer locations and at scheduled delivery times that allowed each employer to focus on productivity. Classes were delivered at all hours of the day and across all three standard production shifts.

A total of 1,521 training classes were delivered by 17 community colleges (Figure 3). The following is a listing of each college and the number of classes the college delivered.

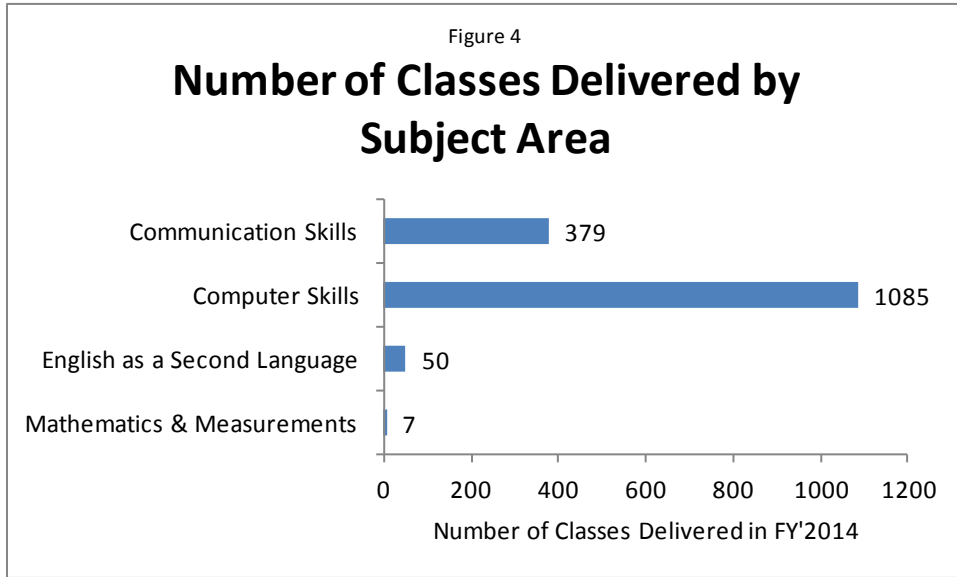

Atlantic Cape Community College (Atlantic & Cape May Counties) – 141 classes
Bergen Community College – 118 classes
Brookdale Community College (Monmouth County) – 94 classes
Burlington County College – 94 classes
Camden County College – 148 classes
Cumberland County College – 30 classes
Essex County College – 80 classes
Hudson County Community College – 55 classes
Mercer County Community College – 90 classes
Middlesex County College -113 classes
County College of Morris – 281 classes
Passaic County Community College – 38 classes
Raritan Valley Community College (Hunterdon & Somerset Counties) – 96 classes
Rowan College at Gloucester County – 52 classes
Sussex County Community College – 16 classes
Union County Community College – 60 classes
Warren County Community College – 15 classes

Eleven off the colleges saw increases in the number of classes delivered. Sussex County Community College (300%); Burlington County College (224%); Passaic County Community College (217%); Hudson County Community College (175%), Raritan Valley Community College and County College of Morris (129%); Bergen Community College (111%); Warren County Community College (100%); Atlantic Cape Community College (66%), Essex County College (48%) and Mercer County Community College (18%).

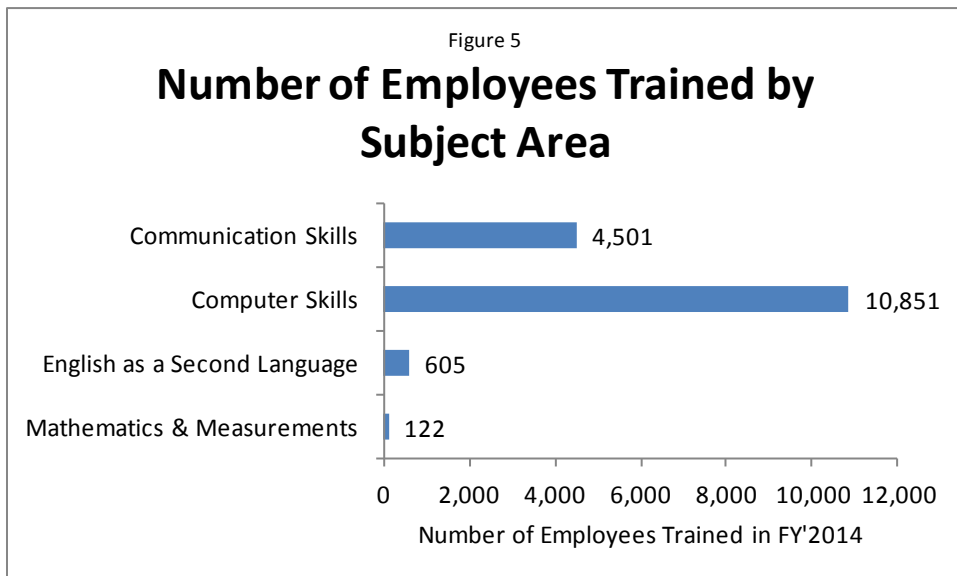

Computer Skills continued to be course subject area with the strongest demand. The leader within this broad topic area is Spreadsheets. Its universal applicability to multiple business situations is at the core of this demand. This was followed by Communications Skills, which included Verbal Communication, Customer Service, Written Communications; and ESL, which included the newly approved topic of Spanish in the Workplace.

Anecdotal evidence is that companies are working harder to retain the customers they have versus growing by adding new customers. The addition of Spanish in the Workplace is a derivative of the continued importance and demand for English as a second language. As companies work to improve the language skills for their non native workers they find it equally important to train their managers and supervisors to communicate with these workers in their native language. Companies report this combination leads to improved productivity.

10,851 employees completed 1085 computer skills classes. Another 379 classes, with 4501 employees were delivered in Basic Communication Skills, including Verbal Communication, Written Communication and Basic Communication for Improved Customer Service. Employers are placing increasing importance on improved communications skills for their employees. 50 classes with 605 employees were delivered in English as a Second Language and only 7 classes for 122 employees were delivered in Basic Mathematics and Measurements. The single largest growth year to year was in computer skills which had a 47% increase.

NJLWD designates over 90% of New Jersey's employers as "small businesses", making this generic sector a key driver of economic activity. Historically, a great many small businesses were not able to access employee training series offered by NJLWD because of minimum enrollment mandates imposed on grant recipients. The Consortium, with NJBIA's assistance, created a mechanism to serve this important economic force. The state's community colleges were empowered by NJLWD to offer "open enrollment" style classes that would aggregate employers to achieve the minimum headcount of 10. The minimal headcount was achieved through this aggregating process.

This project continues to reach these small employers in significant numbers. Of the 1182 employers sending employees to training 1000 or 88%, took advantage of the open enrollment style classes which were specifically targeted to small employers. 519 or 34% of the overall number of classes offered were open enrollment style. These employers would not have been able to meet the minimum headcount requirement under normal conditions and would have been unable to access this valuable business resource without open enrollment classes. Additional evidence of the importance of this format is the fact that 26 employers were served by 2 colleges, while 7 companies were served by 3 different colleges and 1 employer by 4 colleges. This flexibility lies at the heart of the delivery model.

Employees improved their skills as demonstrated on NJLWD's approved assessment instruments. Improvement in Basic Computer Skills was uniformly impressive with an overall improvement of 154%. Assessment scores in the ESL content areas increased by 52%. The three basic Communication content areas showed a combined skills increase of 36%, while Basic Mathematics assessment scores improved by 22%.

Low to medium wage employees are enrolled in significant numbers. Over 45% of employees who participated in training reported hourly wages of less than $20 per hour. The 16,079 employees trained report an astounding 3,922 different job titles (see Attachment B for a complete list of job titles reported).

Program Analysis

Strengths

- Outreach efforts by each college, along with the NJBIA produced extraordinary growth in the number of small businesses taking advantage of the program.
- Over 800 businesses sent fewer than the NJLWD minimum headcount to training. Our ability to offer open enrollment format classes meant that these 800+ business and their employees received training services that they would have been ineligible for were it not for the program's unique construction.
- Our ability to offer classes that produced excess seats allowed us to serve 116 unemployed individuals at no cost to either the individual or to the NJLWD.
- Partnership with NJLWD allowed us to leverage funds to upscale participants in the 55+ program, leading to improved job placement.
- The addition of PowerPoint and Spanish in the Workplace as approved class topics proved very popular with many businesses.
- The policy change by NJLWD of no longer mandating the use of individual social security numbers has been well received. This policy change allows those workers concerned about identity theft to still participate while maintaining personal security.
- The amendment to the legislation at the beginning of the year allowing the program to align itself with various administrative changes promulgated by the Department allowed for smoother integration when the program was forced to operate with "blended" operational dollars.
- Not being bound by some of the parameters of NJLWD's on-line invoicing system allows the project to be truly "demand driven".
- Class lengths are no longer driven by a pre-determined formula but are demand driven allowing employers to select the best match between class length and that employer's needs.
- Secured and continuous funding allows for immediate ramp up and outreach to the business community.
- Consortium's management enables faster turnaround and delivery for all businesses because those businesses do not have to go through a lengthy application process.

- Consortium's central administration allows for a single point of contact for all New Jersey businesses.
- State's community colleges provide a deep pool for instructors.
- State's community colleges provide access to 65 campus locations & centers within 25 minutes of every resident and worker in New Jersey.
- Many of the community colleges have invested in mobile laptop computer labs allowing for technology based classes to be brought directly to company locations.
- There is a willingness to provide instruction any hour of the day or night on the company site. Customization of all classes means targeted training to better meet each business' needs.
- Cooperation between Consortium, NJLWD and NJ Office of Taxation has led to improved tax compliance on the part of participating businesses.

Weaknesses

- The additional funding that was awarded in December 2013, effective in January 2014, is being processed through the NJLWD's regular invoicing procedures and not the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) which was in place.
- There continues to be some difficulty organizing classes of 10 or more for very small businesses especially in the area of Basic Mathematics and English as a Second Language. Employers have trimmed their workforces to the bare bones in an attempt to remain competitive. Taking workers out of production, or office operations, is a challenge to many of these small employers. Over 58% of the scheduled classes targeting small employers had to be cancelled due to the need to hit this threshold.
- There continues to be some resistance from both workers and employers to provide wage data and job titles. Both cite their concerns for privacy.
- Small employers find the submission of a DUNS number almost impossible to meet. Either they claim not to have one, or that the cost of securing a number through normal channels to be cost prohibitive.

Improvements

The Consortium is especially pleased to note that weaknesses identified early in the program year continue to be addressed at the highest levels of the Department.

- Weakness – Businesses made multiple requests for Spanish in the Workplace as a supplement to ESL training they were implementing.
  - Solution – The Consortium is pleased to note that NJLWD identified non literacy funds that were used as a supplement to the legislative funding to allow the program to meet the businesses needs as requested.

Testimonials

- NJBIA
  - Philip Kirschner, President

“The training taking place at Atlantic Health System is a perfect example of how the state’s workplace training program is helping New Jersey businesses and workers alike. Employees are able to learn important new workplace skills, increasing their value as an employee and improving the productivity of their employer,”

- CRUM & FORSTER
  - Kathleen Dempsey, Human Resources Manager

This key casualty insurance provider had a critical need to upgrade computer skills for their Operations group. Kathleen observed that “They (CCM) were extremely responsive and feedback for the classes was very positive. Employees improved their (Excel) skill levels with spreadsheets and loved the tricks and tips. Managers were pleased with their employees increased comfort level with Excel since it is such a vital tool for their day to day productivity.”

- ATLANTIC HEALTH SYSTEM
  - Amanda Raddin McGrath, Coordinator Organization Development

This recognized leader in quality health care and advanced medical technology chose to work with CCM to improve workforce communications and technology skills critical to their mission. Amanda relayed that “CCM is responsive to our needs....The course material (for PC Skills and Communications topics) is clearly presented and made relatable to the audience...our employees walk away with valuable tips and knowledge.” She additionally stated that the courses Atlantic Health selected to be delivered by CCM “...are useful to (our) employees because they improve their day to day work environment, team work, (and in) learning how to cope in stressful situations and (to) communicate better.”

- METEM CORPORATION
  - Elise Mundrick, Director of Human Resources

This leading supplier of advanced machining and engineering solutions for turbine engine components worldwide selected CCM to help meet some critical challenges for their busy, growing multi-shift organization. Recognizing the company needed to communicate more effectively and employ the latest technology tools, Elise was happy to find that with CCM “The process is simple, with minimal administration required on our part (Metem’s), and maximum results!.... (they bring) responsiveness and flexibility, coupled with a high level of professionalism (to their course deliveries).” She happily related, “The (ESL) courses exceeded our expectations.... and even solved a few everyday operational problems!.... CCM is a valued business partner and we look forward to offering more (profitable) learning opportunities in the near future.”

- GLAXOSMITHKLINE
  - Gilbert Shanga, Manager, Biostatistics

This major global healthcare company connected with CCM to implement a professional effectiveness program (Communications skills focused). Gilbert commented “in particular, we really appreciated the kind of flexibility you (CCM) had in serving our specific needs for our Medical Department.” He further reported “My colleagues....scored the training with high marks ...the training was well delivered and received.”

- Holt Logistics:
  - President Leo Holt

Hundreds of cargo and container ships laden with perishable fresh fruit from South Africa, Spain, Chile, Brazil, Peru, Spain and other Spanish-speaking countries arrive like clockwork every year at Gloucester Terminals. The produce is off-loaded by giant cranes and stored for rail and truck transport in 15 million cubic feet of computer-controlled, refrigerated warehouse space, the nation’s largest on-dock refrigeration capacity.

For Holt Logistics Corp., the terminal manager, speed is of the essence. That’s why Peter “PJ” Inskeep, the company’s operations manager, must use every tool at his disposal to meet the company’s goal of continually reducing “cargo time” (the time it takes to load and unload cargo).

Holt Training Coordinator Dotty Foltz stands in front of a giant container crane at the ship terminal.

This mandate is made all the more challenging by a language barrier. Most of the truckers and ship workers who transport fresh fruit in and out of the terminal speak only Spanish. Most of the employees at Holt speak only English.

To bridge the communications gap, Holt has become one of the very first companies in New Jersey to hold classes in workplace Spanish for its employees, courtesy of the state’s Basic Skills Workforce Training Program and Camden County College instructors.

Over the past year, dozens of Holt employees have received instruction in Spanish. Three classes have been held and more are planned. “Our employees, they enjoy it,” said PJ at a September 5 tour of the facility. (More than 260 Holt employees have taken a variety of Basic Skills classes since 2011.)

“Within our peer group, there’s no one doing anything like this,” company President Leo Holt said of the language classes during the tour. Not only does the training make terminal operations more efficient, he said, but it also provides “a springboard for employees who move on.”

- Plymouth Rock Insurance
  - Michael Chiminec

It has been nothing short of a pleasure to work with James and the great staff at Brookdale to make sure that our employees have top notch training. The training provided by Brookdale not only has helped expand the skillset but has improved and enhanced the daily contributions of our workforce. We have been able to put a significant amount of company employees through this training ... and with very little interruption to the daily works schedule of our employees. The most recent class our company employees participated in was an Excel course. Employees who were hesitant to use Excel have turned into knowledgeable Excel users. The feedback we received for the course was so encouraging that we have scheduled 3 more sessions and are already planning to schedule more for next year.

- Dimensional Management
  - Nancy Burke Toomey

Dimensional Management’s professional staff across all departments, some of whom were already proficient users of Excel, were pleased to find the instruction well done, highly organized, and extremely helpful. “Even our very experienced Excel users discovered new and more efficient means to create their spreadsheets and reports. Dimensional Management’s overall objective was to improve efficiencies, save time and generate information in a more useful way.” The results of this training proved to them that no matter what you think you know, there is always more to learn.

- PRD Management, Inc.
  - Tonya Medlin, Corporate Office Manager

This fall, nearly 35 of our employees received excellent and comprehensive training through the amazing NJBIA grant program - training that would have been costly, time consuming and difficult for us to orchestrate.

The NJBIA skills training will help our employees to better manage and meet their professional duties. Acquiring these new skills also goes beyond our company - and ensures a more secure job future for these hard working citizens of New Jersey.

- Wegman's
  - Melanie Jordan, Training & Development Coordinator

After the session; employees reported back to management as well as human resources to discuss the outcome of the class. Some of the specific feedback included that; the session was a nice refresher; they learned a number of tips and tricks; and felt as if they could apply their learnings immediately in their every day jobs. The same group of employees are signed up for an upcoming level two Excel and are anxious to continue to grow in their knowledge of this important application. This would not be possible had it not been for the NJBIA Grant offering and on behalf of the Manalapan Wegman's; we are grateful to NJBIA!

- Central Jersey Blood Center
  - Donna V. Glassen, Human Resources Director

The courses have been a tremendous help to our staff.. Many of our staff did not know the basics of Excel. Since the Excel class, I have been able to see the results. The employees are much more aware of what they can do with Excel and how they can apply it to their own particular job. A few have actually asked me to stop by their desks so that I can see how they are using what they learned. A major help is the shortcuts they learned that helps cut down their time working on the worksheets.

By having so many of our employees attend the Outlook 2013 class, the impact has been even greater on the company. It also saves time for those of who already know Outlook 2013. For example, several times during a month I will send a meeting request to employees. I can't tell you how many times many of the employees would not click on accept but email me back that they will or will not attend. This course has empowered them, something that the Blood Center has been working on as part of our strategic plan.
