INTRODUCTION

This directory has been developed as a guide to official, governmental and non-profit social welfare and health resources in New Jersey, insofar as these could be identified by the editors. The primary criterion for selection of resources has been practical usefulness to professional workers in social welfare and health agencies providing direct service to individuals. It is hoped that physicians, clergymen, lawyers, trust officers, personnel workers and others concerned with similar services will also find the directory of value. For the purposes of this directory, community planning has been considered a "service" and agencies concerned primarily with that function have been included. Additionally, several agency types usually excluded from directories of more limited regional application have been included here: civil rights organizations, charitable organizations providing primarily financial or in-kind assistance, volunteer bureaus and a few proprietary agencies which are well established in the community, are operated on a not-for-profit basis, and offer services frequently sought by professional workers.

Omitted from the principal sections of this directory for reasons of space or because their services did not fall within the guidelines indicated above, are:

1. fraternal organizations, civic and social clubs
2. camps, except where maintained by an included agency
3. parks, playgrounds and sports facilities
4. groups concerned primarily with promoting or encouraging education, except relatively long-established, non-profit schools and day care centers for the handicapped, emotionally disturbed, retarded or economically disadvantaged, and schools maintained by several Departments of the State of New Jersey
5. nursing homes, rest homes, homes for the aged only
6. professional associations or societies and their professionals' registers, except those providing an information and referral service to the public
7. associations providing social welfare services to their own members only
8. groups with no fixed office address.

Access to useful information concerning many organizations, associations and groups, including some of those omitted under the guidelines established for this directory, may be had through other directories listed in the Appendix.

In compiling this directory, primary attention has been given to identification of agencies, not to evaluation of them or their services. An effort has been made also to show relationships between agencies, their services and their varied components. In addition, the functions of agencies have been examined and listed categorically in Part IV as extensively as the advisory committee's knowledge would permit. Thus, total resources throughout the state and across the range of service types will be more apparent to the worker seeking to meet specific client needs.

Agencies and organizations were contacted directly by questionnaires, followed by telephone calls when responses were not readily obtained. Local Community Councils and many other agencies, both public and private, helped generously in providing information about new agencies and locating established ones where contact was not readily made. Correspondence is invited from any agencies within the format outlined above which may have been inadvertently omitted, in order that later editions of the directory may be improved.

The inclusion of an agency or organization in this directory in no way implies endorsement by either the New Jersey Welfare Council or the New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs, nor does exclusion indicate disapproval.

HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

The information in this directory is divided into four sections. The first two list all included organizations and agencies; the last two are indexes. Each agency is described only once, either in Part I or Part II.

Part I lists alphabetically those organizations which provide statewide coverage and have five or more distinct branch locations. It also contains all Federal and State agencies listed in this directory. Here, a brief description of the agency is followed by the addresses of the local units, district offices, or branches. The first page of Part I is a Table of Contents listing the particular agencies to be found in that section.

Part II contains all other agencies and organizations, grouped alphabetically by county and alphabetically by agency name within the county. It includes all organizations and agencies, both private and public, which are either less than statewide in coverage provided or have fewer than five branches. Organizations whose names begin with a proper name are listed under the first name, not the surname. For greater ease in finding agencies from index listings, each has been given a locator acronym consisting of a two-letter abbreviation for its county of location and a number representing its alphabetical place in the total county group.

Part III (green pages) is an alphabetical listing of organizations and agencies by name. It includes subordinate parts of major agencies where the subordinate part has a distinctive name or location.

Part IV (yellow pages) is arranged under specific subject headings, which include major services, general type of facility and basic client or patient group which might seek a service or facility. Valuable services may often be available to a certain group through a different kind of agency and will be found listed under another heading. An attempt has been made to cover these by means of "SEE ALSO" references, which should be checked to obtain all available information.

NEW JERSEY ASSOCIATION FOR RETARDED CHILDREN, INC.

The State Association aims to coordinate, support and develop direct service programs for the mentally retarded among its local units. That effort includes the obtaining of support and services from State and Federal government sources. It also includes working for ever-improved legislation, and the implementation thereof. NJARC is a major informational and referral agency for the retarded in New Jersey.

NJARC honors no age or sex limitations. Its major concern, of course, is mental retardation, but its work frequently and necessarily overlaps with other handicaps. Specific services offered are: referral, publicity, public information and relations, legislative thrusts, research, inter-agency coordination, backup resource to local units and NARC, watchdog efforts, and the development of proposals for new programs.

All local units offer parent counselling, pre-school training, day care and referral services. Most have recreational programs and activity programs (independent living centers) for retarded youngsters and adults. The Essex Unit operates an independent clinic for diagnosis and evaluation; the Bergen-Passaic Unit maintains a half-way house for retarded adult men. NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

363 West State St., Trenton 08625. 609-292-6420

The New Jersey State Department of Community Affairs was established in the belief that today's community problems can no longer be met by local and county governments acting alone. To help these governments meet community needs, the Department gives New Jersey communities and their citizens financial and technical assistance in dealing with a wide range of problems — Federal aid, inter-governmental cooperation, housing, urban renewal, local finance, poverty, women, youth, the elderly and more. The Department also acts as a service agency for coordinating and marshalling resources in a comprehensive effort to renew and revitalize New Jersey communities.

Programs of the Department are operated through the following Divisions:

1. Housing and Urban Renewal
2. Human Resources
3. Local Government Services
4. State and Regional Planning

DIVISION OF HOUSING AND URBAN RENEWAL

Helps communities carry out urban renewal programs; assists in relocation of families and businesses displaced by public clearance projects; enforces housing construction and maintenance standards for hotels, motels and multiple dwellings; provides technical and financial aid to local groups which wish to sponsor construction of low and moderate income housing. Works in conjunction with the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency.

DIVISION OF HUMAN RESOURCES

Provides consultation, technical assistance and (certain specific programs only) financial assistance to community organizations and public agencies at the state, county and municipal level. Primary concern is with programs which aim at development of human potential, recognizing this as a community resource.

Responsibilities are discharged through 15 Program Titles, grouped below according to central emphasis.

1. Children and Youth (Program Titles 1, 6, 14, 15, 5)

Assistance on Municipal Youth Guidance Councils:

Assists municipalities in establishing and operating Councils to coordinate resources for youth in education, recreation, and other areas.

Governor's Youth Recreation Program:

Makes available to youngsters from underprivileged families a week of summer camping and recreation away from home. Selection and identification of those eligible is made through local community organizations.

Trooper Youth Week Program:

Purpose is to enhance the personal development of youths (primarily boys from urban senior high schools) and improve community relations through a week of simulated police training which emphasizes discipline and team effort. Program is held under auspices of New Jersey State Police; Department of Community Affairs recruits all youngsters and provides transportation, meals, some clothing.

Youth Employment Program:

Provides meaningful and community service oriented employment for disadvantaged youths between 14 and 21 years. Eighty-five percent of yearly appropriations is allocated to community agencies sponsoring summer projects associated with Federal NYC programs; balance is allocated to selected special projects — innovative approaches to the unique employment problems of disadvantaged youths.

Day Care One Hundred Program:

Program is designed to provide developmental opportunities for children of working mothers (priority to manpower training enrollees) through provision of increased and improved social, medical and dental services as well as improved learning experiences. Division assists local community non-profit groups (especially anti-poverty agencies) in establishing and operating new day care centers and in recruiting and training staff personnel.

2. The Aged (Program Titles 2, 13)

Assistance to County Offices on Aging and Technical Assistance to Programs on Aging:

Provide technical, consultative and advisory services to state and local agencies and organizations conducting programs on aging; make financial aid available to County Offices on Aging when Federal funding has lapsed; administer limited grant funds for demonstration projects in appropriate agencies and organizations.

THE SALVATION ARMY—NEW JERSEY DIVISION

The Salvation Army is an international charitable and religious movement, the motivation for which is love for God and a practical concern for the needs of humanity.
