Thanks for providing the vision and the leadership to create this incredibly valuable resource for libraries across the United States. Libraries have a long history of collaboration and cooperation in the development of services for our communities, and it's time we stand together in the political arena as well. Cheers.

STATEMENT: Rejecting Government Speech Doctrine in Public Libraries in Little v. Llano County

📅 MAY 27, 2025

On May 24, 2025, in a sharply divided 10–7 decision, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals held that the government can restrict access to books in public libraries simply because it dislikes or disagrees with the content of those books. This decision is a public show of support for student literacy and the right to read. We are disappointed that the government is trying to silence voices and restrict access to books in public libraries.
