NEW-JERSEY GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1777.

TO peer into a minute Detail of the Advantages of a well-conducted NEWS-PAPER, would, at any Time, be impertinent; but more especially at a Crisis which makes a quick Circulation of Intelligence peculiarly interesting to all the AMERICAN STATES. The Publisher, therefore, thinks it will be, more to the Purpose, to communicate to the Publick a brief Account of the Nature of his Plan, than to enter into a formal Proof of its Utility, which he esteems little less than self-evident.

He proposes to print this GAZETTE once a Week, to contain a faithful Account of remarkable Occurrences, whether foreign or domestic; Materials for which he shall be amply furnished with, in Consequence of a general Correspondence he is establishing for this Purpose.

Such Proceedings of the Legislature, and Courts of Justice, as may conduce to the Benefit or Entertainment of his Readers, shall find a Place in his Publications.

ESSAYS, useful or entertaining, Schemes for the Advancement of TRADE, ARTS and MANUFACTURES, Proposals for Improvements in AGRICULTURE, and particularly in the Culture of HEMP and FLAX, will be inserted with Pleasure and Alacrity.

The Interests of RELIGION and LIBERTY; he shall ever think it his peculiar Duty to support; and, at the same Time, to treat with disregard the intemperate Effusions of factious Zealots, whether religious or political, as injurious to Virtue, and destructive of Civil Order. With great Care shall he reject every Proposition to make his Paper a Vehicle for the dark Purposes of private Malice, by propagating Calumnies against Individuals, wounding the Peace of Families, and inflaming the Minds of Men with Bitterness and Rancour against one another.

In a Word, he will spare neither Cost or Pains to make his Paper as useful and entertaining as possible; and, while these Objects are readily pursued, the Publisher will confidently rely upon the Generosity and Publick Spirit of the Gentlemen of this State, for their Countenance and Support, to such a useful Undertaking.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are taken in by all the Members of the Legislature of New-Jersey; also, in Middlesex County, by Col. READERS informed that numbers of people, under various pretences, are pulling from the State of New-Jersey into the city of Philadelphia, and returning back into New-Jersey, without the permission required by law for going into the enemy's lines. To prevent such delinquents from playing ignorance whenever they may be apprehended, I would acquaint them, thro' the channel of your paper, that by an act of this State, it is felony without benefit of clergy, in a man; and, in a woman, three hundred pounds fine, or one year's imprisonment: And that government is determined to be vigilant in causing such offenders to be apprehended, and brought to condign punishment.

Preface

For many years historians and librarians have recognized that a comprehensive historical directory of newspapers published in New Jersey would be an invaluable reference tool for people interested in the state's history. New Jersey has never had such a directory, nor has the state been included in a general directory since Clarence Brigham's History and Bibliography of American Newspapers, 1690-1820 (1947) and Winifred Gregory's American Newspapers, 1821-1936 (1937). Brigham remains the standard source for identifying newspapers from the earlier period, but Gregory fails to include numerous New Jersey newspapers published after 1820. In both works, the lists of newspaper locations are very much out of date.

This directory lists newspapers published in New Jersey from 1765 to 1970. The state's first continuously printed newspaper was Isaac Collins's New-Jersey Gazette, begun in Burlington on December 5, 1777, but there were three earlier journalistic ventures. First was the Constitutional Courant, printed during the Stamp Act crisis by William Goddard on James Parker's press at Woodbridge; only one edition appeared (September 2, 1765). Second was the handwritten "Plain Dealer," posted weekly on the wall of Potter's Tavern in Bridgeton for eight issues between December 25, 1775, and February 12, 1776. Third was Hugh Gainé's New-York Gazette; and the Weekly Mercury; unable to publish the paper in British-occupied New York City, Gainé brought it to Newark for seven weeks in the fall of 1776.

To prepare the directory, the editors located all newspaper collections held by museums, historical societies, publishers, and public, college and university libraries in the state. Field researchers then made complete records. Personal visits were also made to the Library of Congress and the major depositories in New York City and Philadelphia. For information from further afield the editors queried all institutions Gregory and Brigham had listed as having New Jersey newspapers, and contacted state libraries, state historical societies, and major college and university libraries across the country. Further research was considered impractical, and no attempt was made to locate New Jersey newspapers held by individuals or foreign libraries.

No newspaper, name change or merger after December 31, 1970, has been included in the directory. In-house, fraternal, and trade publications, as well as out-of-state newspapers with New Jersey editions or sections, have been omitted.

The directory includes some newspapers for which no extant copies have been located. Titles, dates, and histories have been researched in directories, state and local histories, and other sources.

Each entry is as complete as possible. Although the editors have attempted to keep the material current, continual microfilming and acquisition programs make any such task difficult.

The editors wish to thank the advisory committee of this project for its assistance: the late Lloyd P. Burns, General Manager, New Jersey Press Association; Charles F. Cummings, Supervising Librarian, Newark Public Library; Richard F. Hixson, Professor, Department of Journalism and Urban Communications, Livingston College, Rutgers University; the late Kenneth W. Richards, Head, Archives and History Bureau, State Library; and Donald A. Sinclair, Curator of Special Collections, Alexander Library, Rutgers University.

We also wish to express our appreciation to the five field researchers who visited depositories in New Jersey: Thomas J. Champion, Mark E. Lender, Dennis P. Ryan, Dennis J. Starr and Frank A. Vizzini, Jr. For their help in preparing the book for the printer we are grateful to the following Commission staff members: Diane E. Kauffman for typing, Lee R. Parks for copyediting, and Bernard Bush and Debra K. Mohr for proofreading. In addition, we would like to thank Frederick C. Ryan, Jr., and Leonard Lance for assisting in the preparation of the histories of the New Jersey newspapers. Special thanks go to Imre T. Jarmy of the Library of Congress for preparing depository symbols. To the many librarians, publishers, editors, and historical society officers who have assisted with this project, we are grateful.

Explanatory Notes

The first division in each entry contains the newspaper's title, frequency, dates, special focus (if any), and history. The remainder of the entry lists holdings.

TITLES. Each newspaper has been listed under the municipality of publication. Where a municipality has changed its name or been incorporated into a larger city, its newspapers are listed under the present-day municipal name. Where the area of circulation differs from the place of publication the title is cross-referenced. Where it is impossible to be certain of the place of publication, the papers are listed under the towns named in their titles.

In some cases two or more identical titles are listed under a municipality. Any cross-references to such titles include their frequencies or dates to insure correct identification.

All titles are taken from front-page flags rather than from editorial-page mastheads. The initial "the" (or its foreign equivalent) has been dropped from all titles. In alphabetizing, hyphens have been disregarded except in the names of municipalities; thus "New-Jersey" is treated alphabetically as two words.

Each newspaper has a separate listing for every title it has used; the information in each entry is restricted to the title which heads that entry. The preceding title and the subsequent title are cross-referenced to give the reader step-by-step access to the rest of the paper's history. In a few cases, major title variants have not been listed as separate newspapers but have been cross-referenced.

FREQUENCY is indicated by a lowercase letter or letters (see list below).

DATES. Where extant newspapers furnish no information, final dates have been determined from directories. The New Jersey Editorial Association's annual newspaper listing (1879-1900), Rowell's American Newspaper Directory (1869-1908), and Ayer's Directory of Newspapers prior to 1920 have proved quite reliable; when using them to determine final dates, the editors have given the year of the last edition containing the newspaper's title. When using Ayer's directory since 1920 and all editions of the New Jersey

Legislative Manual, they have given the year previous to the last edition listing the newspaper. A question mark appears in place of the beginning or end date if none has been determined. A question mark follows a doubtful beginning or end date. A single date followed by a dash identifies a newspaper still in publication after December 1970.

FOCUS. Special-interest and foreign-language newspapers are designated in parentheses (ITALIAN, LABOR). Where two languages are connected by an ampersand (GERMAN & ENGLISH), the newspaper is bilingual; where a comma joins them (HUNGARIAN, ENGLISH), the paper has changed languages.

HISTORIES. The histories identify the preceding titles of the newspapers, show all changes in frequency and location, distinguish Sunday from weekly editions and year-round from seasonal publication, and give various other particulars.

HOLDINGS. Library of Congress symbols identify depositories. Special symbols identify microform or other types of reproduction. Dates enclosed by brackets indicate missing issues. A dash following a date indicates continuation beyond December 1970. If fewer than five weekly or ten daily issues exist in one year, the individual dates are listed. Incomplete copies of newspapers are not listed unless they are unique issues; then they have been identified as fragments with the symbol (frag). Issues from which articles have been clipped are regarded as complete issues and are not identified.

Locations

Library of Congress symbols have been used to designate depositories holding New Jersey newspapers. Unlike most directories, this book arranges the location symbols alphabetically regardless of state or capitalization. Each is followed by name and location of depository. Advance contact is recommended before visiting any newspaper depository; some restricted collections (marked ‡) require it. Other depositories (marked †) are closed, and visitors must obtain special permission to use their collections.
