The Clerk declared the Hon. Joseph Altman duly elected Speaker of the General Assembly for the session of 1934.

Mr. Rafferty then moved that the election of Mr. Altman be made unanimous.

Which motion was adopted.

The Clerk appointed Mr. Siracusa, of Atlantic county; Miss Maloney, of Hudson county; Mr. Rafferty of Middlesex county, and Mr. Gurk, of Gloucester county, to act as a committee to escort the Speaker to the bar of the House, where he took and subscribed to the oath of office, and was then escorted to the Chair.

Upon assuming the Chair, the Speaker addressed the House as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen and Members of the 158th Session:

It is my earnest desire that the Legislature speedily accomplish its work and adjourn as expeditiously as possible, provided, however, that we have accomplished and executed all our plans from a legislative standpoint and have taken care of the emergencies that face us as representatives of the people. Prolonged sessions do not necessarily imply that the legislative functions are attended to. As a matter of fact, the contrary is more often the truth, namely, bungling and confusion.

To the members of the appropriation committee of the House I might state that it is my fond hope that the appropriation bill is in the hands of the members no later than March fifteenth, and I trust that this committee will ever keep in mind the fact that we must curtail State expenditures. Last year's appropriation bill was $6,500,000 less than the preceding bill. It is my fond wish, hope and desire that this year's bill, with a view to curtailment of expenditures, shall be even lower than the preceding year. In fact, I trust that the appropriation to carry on State's business will be the lowest of the modern era in the history of legislation in New Jersey. With this thought in view, I trust that the membership of the House will absolutely abolish committees created by the Legislature, which committees have mandatory appropriations enacted in the bill.

It would seem to me that there are enough citizens of New Jersey who are competent and patriotic enough to work on these committees without compensation and who would glory in a position of being able to accomplish something for their State.

I personally feel, and I trust that the members of this body feel, that all functions of State government should be run as economically as possible. Probably instead of the thought "economically" as possible, I might say "penuriously or miserly." With this thought in view, I might suggest that the Legislature, by resolution or by legislative enactment, should suggest to or demand of the Highway Commission that no more roads should be built and that the only money expended by that commission should be for the proper maintenance of roads that are already built in New Jersey. The exception to this, of course, is moneys advanced by the government to the State for the direct purpose of road building, so that citizens of the State may be put to work. This applies also to all commissions of the State of New Jersey where such commissions have the authority to spend the State's money.

The Legislature, after a comprehensive study of the Banking Commission's report, should pass more stringent laws pertaining to the conduct of banks in the State of New Jersey, in that, in my opinion, heretofore banking institutions, either by reason of unqualified persons running banks or by reason of lack of attention to banking business by so-called "bankers" has caused dire hardship to the depositors, citizens of the State of New Jersey. The State and the municipalities thereof have suffered in that State and municipal moneys have been lost by reason of freezing of assets or by reason of failure of banks. Stringent drastic legislation should be enacted so that public moneys should be safeguarded as well as peoples' moneys.

In regards to the frozen accounts belonging to the people of this State, now tied up in banks, Mr. Siracusa and your Speaker will offer a plan to the Legislature, to be enacted into law, whereby people will be allowed the use of all their moneys that are now tied up in banks under the restricted withdrawal act. Under this plan, a self-liquidating plan that is similar to scrip, with a two per centum tax on these withdrawals, all the restricted funds will liquidate themselves and the depositors will have the benefit of these restricted moneys, dollar for dollar. This is necessary because it is my humble opinion that the banks have not the moneys to pay these frozen funds, and if we can accomplish our aims in this respect, we have done a wonderful thing for the depositors, citizens of this State.

If the Legislature can, from the standpoint of the constitutionality of legislative acts wherein those acts do not conflict with the functions of the Public Utility Commission, this Legislature should, and must, do something as to the rate question of utilities as used by the citizens of this State. In this respect a bill has been presented to wipe out the surcharge on telephone receivers, to wit: twenty-five cents a month or three dollars a year. I have always felt that this is an increase in rate without proper legal authorization. We should pass this bill. The telephone company is without right or authority in law to create this charge.

The Republican party has always kept its pledge to the veterans of this State. We have always been the champion of their cause and we members who are ourselves veterans and all the other members should see to it that the veterans' position in the various branches of State and municipal government should be secured to the veteran, without political interference from either major party.

If there are still in the State of New Jersey citizens who are not employed, and I believe there are in countless numbers, the Legislature should again make some provision for unemployment relief. We can call this dole if we like, but we must bear in mind that this class of people are good, honest, conscientious people who are unfortunate in that they cannot sustain themselves and their families. If this condition exists, we, the Legislature, should make some provision for their maintenance in the form of work and not charity.

The time has come when the people of this State must realize that by reason of the inability of citizens to pay their taxes in the municipalities, the municipality by itself cannot maintain the schools or the school system. The State must shoulder the maintenance of the educational system. It is important, it is mandatory, it is vital, to the best interests of the State and the people thereof that the high standard of our schools be maintained. With this thought in view, after an intelligent study of the situation by committees of the Legislature now functioning, laws should be passed whereby the State will shoulder this financial burden or some portion of this financial burden. Last year the people voted a conversion of bonds from one purpose to that of schools and also voted that the income of the sale of bonds of the Delaware River bridge should be used for school purposes, but the members of this Legislature must keep in mind that this money will only temporarily take care of the deficit that confronted the teachers of last year, and last year only.

Municipal government and the State government have conscientiously attempted to lighten the burden of taxation to the people, and I know that the Taxation Committee, composed of members of both bodies of the Legislature, has worked and is now working on this problem. If our system of taxation requires drastic revision so be it. Let's do it. If in this revision a new form of tax must be created, we should advance slowly, cautiously and intelligently. My personal viewpoint as to a sales tax is one of antagonism, unless all of the revenue of the State, such as gas tax, automobile tax, alcoholic beverage tax and sales tax, if necessary, should be grouped, and the income of all these agencies should be distributed to the municipality and the mandatory items on the municipal tax bill such as soldier's bonus, school tax, mill tax and the like, should be eradicated and the State should pay for these items. If we relieve the people of the municipality from paying a top-heavy property tax due to these charges or items mentioned, then all property owners of the State could well afford to pay taxes to the municipality, the school systems could be assured from a financial standpoint at least of safety in maintenance, and everybody could be "tax happy." If sales tax means an added tax merely as an agency to raise moneys I am, and we should be, unalterably opposed to its passage.

I might go on indefinitely expressing my personal viewpoint to the members of the Legislature, but I feel that most of us have enough legislative experience to understand at this time the peculiar circumstances under which we are living and under the emergencies that exist that we realize full well the problems of the people and of the State and will conscientiously, honestly and fearlessly do our duty to the people, and to the State; that we will sit down in legislative caucus and intelligently and impassionately discuss these problems with a view to what is best that should be done. I feel that both major parties, the Republican and Democratic parties, will and must forget party lines and political demarcations and jointly and friendly and unitedly work for the State of New Jersey and our employers, the people thereof. It is my earnest hope, desire, wish and aim, that by our aid municipalities will be happier from the standpoint of municipal government; that the people of the State of New Jersey will be happier and contented; that we all will keep in mind and have ever before us a task, a work, a creed—a bigger and better State—the great sovereignty of New Jersey!

The Speaker announced the appointment of Stephen A. Damico, of Atlantic county, as Secretary to the Speaker.

Mr. Naughright offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Assembly is hereby authorized to appoint a number of persons as special committee clerks to serve without compensation, and the Clerk of the Assembly is authorized to certify to the Secretary of State such names as shall be entitled to railroad transportation.

A message was received from His Excellency the Governor by the hands of his Secretary.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, JANUARY 9, 1934.

To the Legislature:

1. Nineteen hundred and thirty-three has been the most eventful peace-time year in our history as a State and Nation. When war and pestilence, fire and famine, all exacted their heavy toll of the population of London in 1666, Dryden wrote in his "Annus Mirabilis," the year of wonders, of the "true loyalty, invincible courage and unshaken constancy" of the people. At the end of this fateful year just past which began in fear and want and discouragement, in the loss of savings, in the destruction of credit, in the closing of financial institutions and defaulting governments, and which ended with determination renewed, with confidence restored, with men and women returning to work, and with business definitely improved, I am constrained to commend the loyalty, the constancy, the courage and resourcefulness of the people of New Jersey in this crisis.

Notwithstanding the privations and hardships which have come to a large part of our population, the general health of our people has been maintained at a level equal to or higher than that in more prosperous years. Extraordinary care has been taken to provide sufficient and suitable food and clothing for the children so that hunger and malnutrition shall not cast their sinister shadows upon the childhood of the State. Our public schools have been kept open, and our social service agencies have been enlarged and expanded to better cope with the problems with which they have been confronted. In spite of reduced public revenues and limited public credit, the State, in addition to current operating costs, has been able to provide millions of dollars for emergency relief, and yet maintain its treasury in a reasonably satisfactory condition.

Because of the numerous problems with which the State government has had to deal during the past year, and by reason of the limitations both as to time and space which I must impose upon myself, it is not possible for me in this annual message to discuss all of the important problems which have confronted the state administration during the year and to report the procedure followed in each instance. I shall undertake, therefore, to limit myself to the presentation of the more significant operating and policy problems of the state and local governments, to discuss the administration of emergency relief and the State's co-operation with the various relief and recovery agencies of the federal government, and to offer, at least in part, an administrative program for the further improvement of state and local administration, the development of the State's resources, and the continuing co-operation with the federal government in the national recovery program.

I. The State and Local Government

2. Economies in State Expenditures. In this time of acute financial distress, I am pleased to report additional economies and further substantial progress in the reduction of the operating expenses of the State government. During the year the State has been able to meet every obligation when due, and keep its credit sound. The policy of careful spending which I inaugurated two years ago has been widely enforced and substantially observed by departments and spending agencies. Capital expenditures have been greatly limited, maintenance and operating costs have been reduced, some activities have been curtailed, the number of State officers and employees has been reduced by a thousand, and salary and wage deductions, as a necessary economy measure, have been applied to the entire State service.

In effecting these economies, I have refused to authorize the issuing of bonds for roads, buildings, and other public works, except as a necessary part of the general recovery program, and then only in greatly reduced volume. I have directed that vacant offices and positions in the State service remain unfilled, that promotions and wage increases be withheld, and that new appointments to departmental working forces be limited to cases where highly necessary or revenue-producing work needed to be done, or when it was necessary to add to the custodial and nursing services because of the increasing number of wards of the State. The monthly payroll costs for all State officers and employees, classified and unclassified, have been reduced from $1,602,- 294.64 in January, 1932, to $1,324,392.74 in December, 1933. In this two-year period of my administration, the actual reduction in payroll costs totals just under $3,000,000.00, the maintenance costs for the 17,000 wards in State institutions have been reduced by $2,500,000.00. During the last fiscal year these maintenance costs were reduced $1,500,000.00 under those of the preceding year without reducing good and adequate care for our institutional wards, and there were some savings effected in the subsidies to county institutions. Under the new revision of the child welfare laws commitments have been decreased and existing grants have been revised resulting in a savings to counties of $850,000.00, as compared with previous years. The cost of new automobiles for the use of State officers and employees in the discharge of their official duty has been reduced to a mere fraction of what it was in former years. Expense accounts for travel and subsistence have been more than cut in half. Appropriations of $1,500,000.00 for old age relief in the year ending June 30, 1933, were unexpended and lapsed into the treasury.

The effectiveness of the various economy measures which have been initiated can be best illustrated, I think, by comparing appropriations for the current operating costs of the State government and the balances lapsed at the end of the year. In 1930-31 the annual and supplementary appropriations for the State government were $36,168,948.95, of which amount $759,069.97 lapsed into the treasury at the end of the year; for 1931-32 the annual and supplementary appropriations amounted to $28,936,892.59, of which amount $1,297,345.50 lapsed into the treasury at the end of the year; and for 1932-33 the annual appropriations amounted to $25,129,882.65, and $3,244,910.85 lapsed into the treasury at the end of the year. In 1933-34 the annual and special appropriations made to date total $20,205,210.59, and the monthly estimates which are presented to me indicate that even with this reduced appropriation a substantial amount and probably as much as a million dollars will be carried to the unexpended balance at the end of the fiscal year. The really significant fact about these figures is, that while the annual appropriations have been reduced from above $36,000,000.00 to a little more than $20,000,000.00, the work of the State is being carried on and no essential service has been abandoned or seriously curtailed.

Important as the savings to which I have referred are, it must not be assumed that further savings cannot or should not be made. It is inevitable, I think, that additional and greater retrenchments in State expenditures must yet be made. The railroads are contesting the payment of their taxes, and pending a final decision in the courts, $2,150,772.47 already levied and due, are being withheld. Cities and other local governments in great numbers have failed to pay over to the counties, county and State taxes overdue, and which in considerable part, at least, have been collected. The counties in turn are unable to pay the amount of State taxes due from them. On December 31, the records of the State Comptroller's Office show that for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933 there were unpaid $22,296,-096.03 of State School Taxes. For the same years there were $9,831,032.38 State Road Taxes and $1,510,435.69 Soldiers Bonus Bond Taxes unpaid. To complete this unfortunate circle, the counties and municipalities while owing these millions to the State are pressing for and receiving payment from the State treasury of the subventions provided by law to be distributed to these local governments. The distribution of the State School Tax is dependent on its receipt from the several taxing districts, but such parts of the railroad taxes, the road taxes and the bonus taxes as are not paid must in the end be met by the State treasury.

In making further retrenchments in State expenditures, continuous and diligent search must be made for waste and nonessentials, but in proposing and requiring further economies I shall undertake to see to it that such essential services as the protection of life and property, the maintenance of public schools, the conservation of health and safety, and the maintenance of reasonable and necessary means of communication and transportation shall not be curtailed or reduced below a safe minimum, except as a last resort and only after all other measures have been taken and revenues for the functions of these essentials are nowhere available.

As a matter of common safety, if for no other reason, I am opposed to the abandoning or curtailing of any necessary and essential service of government as long as waste in public expenditures exists at all. I am likewise opposed to any policy which proposes to retain any wasteful, unnecessary and nonessential service at the expense of essential services. The test that must be applied for the present year and for some years to come, in my opinion, to every public activity and every public expenditure, temporary or permanent, big or little, must be the immediate necessity of that service or that expenditure to the safety and well-being of the people of the State. Any activity, any office, or any proposed expenditure, that fails to meet this test should be definitely and promptly rejected without argument.

3. Public Education. The management of the public schools during this depression has been especially heartening. Under the necessity that has prevailed, the financial support for education has been cut to about $100,000,000 a year from the peak figure of approximately $120,000,000. Despite this reduction in cost, amounting to almost one-sixth of the former total, no school in New Jersey has been closed; few schools have shortened their terms; no essential educational service has been abandoned; and the curtailment of desirable but nonessential educational services has occurred only to a limited extent. Salaries of teachers, to be sure, are in default in many school districts, as well as other obligations. Quite generally throughout the State, however, educators, more than any other large official group, have recognized the need of retrenchment and have accomplished important reductions which are substantial and all the more welcome because they have been made by the class most affected.

As our society is now organized, widespread free education of a high quality must be regarded as an essential public service. We can build roads, sewer systems, parks, museums, and similar works now, five years from now, or twenty-five years from now, just as we choose. With negligible exceptions, however, boys and girls of school age must be given their education now or not at all. Even in these times of depression, while we are eliminating and curtailing other services, it must be a fixed State policy to maintain the free education of our youth at a satisfactory level, including not only the day schools but also the evening, summer, and vocational schools. Such projects in this emergency as the general and trade courses for 1,900 adults not employed, financed from civil works funds, I regard as of real value. The results already accomplished and the recognized necessity for free education does not mean that we must maintain present educational costs. On the contrary, the wastes in education—and there are wastes here just as in practically every other part of government—must be sought out diligently and when found eliminated with the same decision as the waste in other government activities.

The School Survey Commission, made up of laymen and educators, recently made its report after an exhaustive study lasting more than a year. This report indicates how educational costs in New Jersey can be reduced by millions of dollars a year without lowering educational standards. Its proposals include such measures as increasing the size of certain classes, economizing in fuel, maintenance and transportation, reorganizing school districts, better utilization of school buildings, and making education for five-year-old children permissive instead of mandatory. These are excellent suggestions, worthy of our careful consideration.

This Commission has also made excellent suggestions as to how the present State-aid can be distributed among the various school districts so as to give State help where it is most needed. It has, at the same time, presented an ambitious plan for additional school expenditures, which if made effective will eventually amount to from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year. It is proposed to finance this added expenditure from new sources of taxation. The State and local governments must deal sympathetically with every problem which affects our public school system, but we cannot, in my opinion, add to the total burdens of the taxpayer, even for the most laudable purpose, now or at any time in the near future. Our first task, in education as in other public service, is to obtain the greatest possible amount of service for the money we have to spend and seek diligently to eliminate the wastes which the Commission reports as well as to discover others which may have escaped its notice.

4. Health, Welfare and Social Service. One of the surprising and likewise gratifying features of this depression period is that the health and good spirits of the people have been maintained despite the most disheartening conditions. Malnutrition, high morbidity and death rates, the lowering of child health, epidemics of contagious and infectious diseases which have been freely predicted, have not come about. Our facilities, both State and local, for maintaining public health services and for providing for the insane, the feeble-minded, the dependent, the delinquent and other unfortunate groups have been taxed, to be sure, to the very limit. By vigorous and concerted action, the State Department of Institutions and Agencies and the county and municipal agencies engaged in the same work have, during the year, given an impressive demonstration of fine service and real accomplishment. The Department of Institutions and Agencies has co-operated most effectively not only in the Public Works and Civil Works program, but in bringing about important and extensive economies in the operating costs of that department. The work of the Board of Children's Guardians, involving the welfare of more than 26,000 children, has been maintained on a satisfactory basis at reduced cost as a result of the recent child welfare laws, and the old-age relief work has been extended more widely through the State. These two activities especially have been carried on in close co-operation with the emergency relief administration, and substantial appropriations for these purposes have been made from relief funds.

The Department of Health has done important work in maintaining health standards to which I have already referred, in encouraging and requiring improvement in sewage disposal facilities and potable water supplies, in local health administration and in the betterment of the general sanitation throughout the State. New York City has finally begun the construction of incinerators for burning city garbage and waste. When this equipment is put into operation I am assured that the dumping of garbage at sea and the consequent pollution of our coast line will effectively end. This will be good news for our north shore coast resorts and will terminate a nuisance which has seriously affected the development and recreational activities of these resorts. The Department is now moving vigorously on the problem of stream pollution throughout the State and is undertaking to effect an agreement with New York State for the elimination of the pollution of the Hudson River and the Newark Bay areas.

The one important lesson in this field to be learned from the experiences of the last four years, it seems to me, is the necessity for some shifting of our emphasis in the attack upon this whole health and welfare problem. For many years past we have used the greater part of our energy and most of our expenditures in treating and attempting to correct health and dependency conditions which ought never to have occurred, and we have given entirely too little attention to the preventative side of our public health work. Our institutional population has shown a steady and continued growth year after year, and, notwithstanding the extension of existing institutions and the construction of new ones, practically every State and county institution for the custodial care of public wards is crowded to the doors and the waiting lists continue to grow.

We must attack this problem at its source and this means the substitution of prevention to the greatest possible extent for care and cure. This also means a more determined attack upon disease, insanitation and unwholesome social conditions, more and better public health work, more and better clinics, more and better probation and parole work, more general health education, and, I trust, fewer persons in public institutions maintained at large annual cost when the greatest possible economy is practiced. In the proportion that more funds are devoted wisely to preventative health work we may expect to save an increased amount at the custodial end.

5. Agriculture. During the past year the agricultural interests of the State have received the constant attention of the State Department of Agriculture, the State Experiment Station, the State Grange and other farmers' organizations, and Federal officials. I am glad to report that the general farm situation has been substantially improved.

One of the most effective steps taken has been the establishment of the Milk Control Board. Through the efforts of this board a substantial degree of stabilization of the milk industry as it affects New Jersey has been accomplished. Milk producers in the State are now receiving almost twice the amount of money for their products as they were receiving a year ago and at the same time the retail prices paid by the consumer in most sections of the State have remained practically unchanged. On the basis of the work already done, I call for the continued support of the Milk Control Board. There are many problems, I am advised, affecting this industry that are yet to be worked out. There needs to be developed, for example, uniform practices and regulations for the distribution of milk throughout the State not only from the standpoint of the producer and distributor, but from that of the consumers as well. Numerous other problems vital to a profitable milk industry in this State must be given careful study and practical answers found. By the time that this statute expires, July 1, 1935, by its own provisions I am hopeful that our New Jersey milk industry will have been placed upon a sound footing and that it can be maintained without other than nominal supervision by the State.

The extraordinarily low prices that prevailed for farm products a year ago brought serious distress to our whole farm population. At the suggestion of the United States Secretary of Agriculture, I appointed a citizens' committee to study this problem and particularly to suggest means to prevent unnecessary foreclosures of farm property, to counsel farmers about their debt problems, and to assist them in financing their existing indebtedness through the Federal farm credit agencies. This committee has done admirable service. Many farm foreclosures have been prevented, farmers have been assisted in securing necessary loans in order that they may purchase fertilizer and finance labor costs needed in the production of crops, and a Federal allotment to remove the surplus eggs now in storage or in the hands of farmers has also been secured. A large measure of credit in meeting our farm and milk problems must go to Secretary Duryee, who has worked tirelessly for the real interests of agriculture throughout the year.

The staff of the Experiment Station has given a great deal of assistance to both the State and local relief administrations not only in the way of technical and special advice, but in the planning and initiation of civil works projects, including mosquito control, the treatment of industrial wastes, the purification of water supplies, the survey of the farm credit situation and farm taxation and other matters of present importance and interest. Dr. Lipman has taken an important part in the development of the State's public works and civil works program.

The elm trees in the State, estimated at more than a million in number, are threatened with extinction through the so-called Dutch elm disease. This disease has already destroyed most of the elms in Holland and found its way into New Jersey during the past year. Through vigorous action directed by Dr. Lipman and his associates and with the aid of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the various agricultural agencies and local shade tree commissions, this plague seems to be under control. A Federal appropriation of $40,000, I am advised, has been set aside for the eradication of the Dutch elm disease in the State, and $400,000 has been allocated to this seaboard area. Laboratory facilities have been provided at the Experiment Station and technicians of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Federal department are stationed in these laboratories. There is reason to believe that the steps already taken will be successful and a great proportion of this particular variety of tree will be saved for the enjoyment and use of the people of the State.

6. Highway Organization and Activities. During the past year there have been both accomplishments and failures in connection with the State highway work. Highway funds are now, and for the first time, effectively budgeted, and new construction, except as funds are available from federal sources, has been held to a low volume. In my last annual message and in a special message on March 20, last, I advocated changes in the administrative set-up of the Highway Department in line with the proposals submitted in the Princeton Survey. The Legislature failed to enact the necessary law to bring this about, but a change in the personnel of the Highway Commission itself was made. This change does not, in my judgment, go to the root of the matter. I urge a single executive clothed with the proper authority to handle the administrative affairs of the department.

7. The Civil Service. I have noted with growing concern the efforts to break down the Civil Service laws of the State in order that more jobs may be available as political patronage. I refer especially to the methods first employed in reducing the working forces of the highway department, the persistent lobbying for the measure by employees of the department designed to permit the removal of old and capable employees, the exemption of the employees of the Beverage Tax Division of the Tax Department, and a large proportion of the employees of the Alcoholic Beverage Department from civil service regulation. I recognize that the Civil Service system has its weaknesses and imperfections, but after long experience in public life I am satisfied that it is a necessary essential to good public service and good government. New Jersey committed herself to the Civil Service system twenty-five years ago. Both political parties endorse the principle year after year in their party platforms. Its record justifies its support.

8. Liquor Control. The legalization of the transportation, manufacture and sale of 3.2% beer and the repeal of the eighteenth amendment have again brought to the fore State problems of regulation and control which have not been met in a satisfactory way by legislation enacted. The Legislature a few days before the sale of liquors became legal by reason of repeal adopted a liquor control act which contains, in my opinion, highly objectional legal and administrative features. I felt obliged to veto this legislation and on December 6 it was repassed and became effective. The terms of this legislation with its provisions for local licensing boards thrusts this whole question of the distribution and sale of hard liquors into the political arena, and makes inevitable the appointment of large numbers of unnecessary agents, investigators and office-holders without any effective methods of testing the qualifications of these appointees or of controlling their number and compensation. The procedure for granting and revocation of licenses is faulty, the law is indefinite and uncertain in a number of particulars, and already numerous amendments are being discussed for consideration at the convening of this legislative session. The Legislature has assumed the administrative function of appointment of the Beverage Commissioner. The Appeal Board as now constituted places duties upon the Governor, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Assembly foreign to these offices, and at once brings the granting of licenses to dispense liquors and other related administrative matters directly into both the Legislature and the Executive Office. The new revenue coming from licenses constitutes a new tax but it is not made a substitute for any existing tax. At its best, the present alcoholic beverage law must be considered a mere makeshift; at its worst it will encourage extravagance, violation and disrespect which characterized the prohibition period.

9. Revision of Statutes. The Commission on Revision and Consolidation of Public Statutes is submitting to this Legislature its final report. This work is of great importance. It has been carried on for the past eight years and has cost to date $700,000. It is the first complete revision of New Jersey laws in more than eighty-five years. It covers all legislation found in the eighty-six volumes of pamphlet laws from 1847 to date, aggregating more than eighty thousand pages and embracing every conceivable type of legislation. It is essential that early and earnest consideration be given to this important matter, and that prompt action be had in passing upon this report in order that confusion, greater delay and added expense may be avoided in completing the revision program.

Since the State will have paid for all of the editorial work necessary to produce this Revision, its marketing on enactment and publication should be so handled and the sale price so fixed as to produce a reasonable profit to the State.

As it is highly essential that the additional work which I have outlined in the final preparation of this revision shall be done by the same staff, or such part of that staff as may be needed, that has prepared this work, I am including in my budget recommendations the sum of $30,000 for the ensuing fiscal year. If the Legislature fails to act favorably upon the proposed revision, I shall expect to withhold approval of this expenditure. If, on the other hand, the Legislature acts favorably and promptly, I am hopeful that the appropriation which I am recommending will be sufficient to complete, ready for the publisher's hands, the entire work. I urge early legislative consideration.

10. Labor and Employment. I am glad to report some improvement in the employment situation throughout the State. New Jersey industries have been most seriously affected by the prevailing country-wide industrial conditions. The temporary placement of 100,000 or more men and women under the Civil Works Program has been a great boon to the people of the State and has been immediately reflected in a reduction in relief rolls. As the Public Works Program gets under way we may expect a further improvement in the employment situation, all of which will aid in the general recovery movement.

The Commission appointed to study the operation and administration of the Workmen's Compensation Laws has found a number of objectionable practices and some abuses. This law is so vital to the working men of the State that neither abuse nor lax administration can be tolerated. When the Commission's findings have been made I shall make such recommendations as will insure effective and competent administration.

11. Railroad and Utility Rate Structures. Manufacturing, shipping and transportation in New Jersey, all vitally concerning the industrial life of the entire State, and especially of the metropolitan area, are unfavorably affected by the existing railway rate structure. Many features of both rates and services discriminate against New Jersey and favor New York. The principal of these are the free lighterage and floatage services given by the railroads on shipments coming to the Hudson River from the West, amounting, according to reliable estimates, to more than $50,000,000 annually. These lighterage and floatage charges are not imposed upon the shippers who get the service, but are distributed among all the goods transported by the railroads. A shipment from the Pacific Coast, the Middle West, or even the industrial regions in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, must pay a high lighterage or floatage charge when it reaches the Hudson River, regardless of whether it is or is not transported across the river. On the other hand, in the case of shipments from Boston, Albany and other northern and eastern points, the charge, when the destination is Jersey City, Newark, Hoboken, or other North Jersey city, exceeds the New York City charge by the amount of the fixed lighterage or floatage charge. Furthermore, when shipments are made from New York City and northern Jersey points to the West, as to Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, or Chicago, the rates are identical, that is, no charge is made on the New York shipment for lighterage or car floatage. This whole situation may be summed up by stating that on shipments of the kind indicated, New York gets free marine service while New Jersey pays for the marine service whether it is used or not. In addition, the railroads and others give many preferential services and also preferential trucking, warehousing, loading and unloading allowances to New York shipments as against New Jersey shipments.

This unjust transportation rate structure places New Jersey's extensive water-front property at great disadvantage, hinders industrial, commercial, financial and other desirable developments on the west side of the Hudson, and prevents New Jersey from capitalizing its natural and logical advantages which come from our favorable geographical location and the termini of the six great trunk line railroads at our water-front.

Following exhaustive investigations, this whole matter has been fully and ably presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission with a petition that these unjust discriminations be removed. There have been long and annoying delays, but an early decision from the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected. Whether it is favorable or unfavorable to New Jersey's petition, an appeal to the courts, with a final decision from the United States Supreme Court, seems inevitable. This is a matter of such fundamental importance in the future development of the industrial areas of New Jersey, and particularly of the northern metropolitan area, that it must receive the continued attention of State officials and business organizations and no action necessary to the protection of New Jersey's interest must be neglected.

Akin to this same matter and of the same general nature are the growing demands on the part of citizens and civic groups for a further study of the rates charged by the public utility interests of the State. There are some grounds for the feeling that the methods of determining and fixing utility rates have become stereotyped, and it is highly desirable that a better understanding be had by the public as to the propriety of the rates charged the various classes of consumers for utility services.

12. Conservation and Development of Forests, Parks, Coasts, and Other Natural Resources. Through a wide utilization of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the routine maintenance work of the Department of Conservation and Development carried on in State forests, State parks, and State nurseries has been advanced more rapidly than would normally occur in a period of ten years. This means that for a period of several years, the normal maintenance costs can be markedly reduced. Financial conditions will make it unwise to embark on new development work except of the most pressing nature. There are at least four projects which, in my judgment, fall in this latter category. I am outlining these briefly at this time, but later in the session, I shall hope to submit further proposals on some of them.

a. Protection of the New Jersey Coast. The federal government has been asked to allocate $5,000,000 to construct bulkheads, jetties and other approved devices to protect the New Jersey coast against the erosive action of the sea and wind. Such protection is needed to safeguard the large investments already made in beach developments, highways and residential and business properties. Engineering science has reached the stage where adequate protection, even from the most devastating storms, can certainly be provided. The State government has spent $3,000,000 in pioneer work in the development of coast protection methods. I submit that the proper protection of our coast line is of concern not only to us but it must be regarded as a national asset. Within five hundred miles of the New Jersey coast live between forty and fifty million people. Our coastline can be reached easily by rail and automobile from all points east of the Mississippi River, and millions of people from outside the State, and particularly from New York and Pennsylvania, come in all seasons to New Jersey resorts for rest, recuperation and recreation. Up to date, all efforts to induce the federal authorities to allocate $5,000,000 for coast protection work have been unavailing, but the matter is being presented anew from time to time and I am hopeful that we shall receive substantial federal aid for this work.

b. Extension of State Parks, Forests, Farms and Grounds. The State of New Jersey now owns about 87,000 acres, mostly wooded, used for parks, game farms, fish hatcheries, institution sites and farms, public shooting grounds, camp grounds, and other recreational purposes. As the population of the State increases, the need for healthful outdoor activities will become greater and greater. Probably never again will the State have the opportunity to acquire needed lands on terms as advantageous as those which now can be secured. Many properties, moreover, if stocked with game and fish, provided with roads and other means of access, and developed in part, would much more than pay their own way. I am hopeful that some means can be devised by which federal loans in considerable amounts can be secured to finance a limited number of self-liquidating projects of this sort in order that, when the need for such facilities becomes acute several years hence, the State will not be prevented from the development of these facilities by the prohibitive costs involved in acquiring the necessary land.

c. Subsistence Homesteads. The National Recovery Act makes specific provision for the financing of subsistence homesteads on which those employed primarily in industrial, commercial and related work may use their leisure time to provide in part for their own subsistence. One subsistence homestead project, calling for the expenditure of half a million dollars and to be located in Central New Jersey, has already been approved, and others are under consideration. It is hoped that these subsistence homesteads, providing an opportunity for part-time employment, will be developed to a far larger extent than is now contemplated.

d. Water Supply. Providing an adequate supply of potable water for rapidly growing populations, such as those in the metropolitan area of northern New Jersey, requires careful planning in advance. The development of these plans cannot be safely delayed. I have come to the conclusion that the solution of a sufficient potable water supply in our State can be best solved by enlarging the activities of the district water supply commissions and by giving to them the legal power to finance their own projects in the same manner that this power has been conferred upon the Port Authority. These enlarged powers should include the authority to sell water to the municipalities served at a price that will enable the supply commissions to do their own financing and to insure that present as well as new projects shall be self-sustaining and self-liquidating. Under such an arrangement, the cost of the potable water supply will become a direct charge upon the users, and no appropriation will be levied upon the people at large, and the creation of deficits to be laid upon the general taxpayers will be avoided.

The establishment of the Public Works Administration furnishes the means by which the State can be assured of an early beginning on the enlargement of present and the development of future water supplies without placing an additional charge upon the municipalities for which water is now being furnished and for which these new supplies are to be developed. Under the Public Works Administration, an outright grant of thirty per cent of the cost and a loan of the balance of the necessary funds can be obtained from the Federal government on favorable terms. The securing of these funds for the improvement of our potable water supply will furnish work to thousands of idle citizens and aid in the recovery process.

I have conferred with the heads of various municipalities that have heretofore financed the activities of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, and I believe that these municipalities will be glad to co-operate in the plan I am proposing. In my study of this problem, I have had prepared extensive memoranda, including an analysis of the financial problems involved, and I shall make this statement available to the members of the Legislature in due course.

13. Banking and Insurance. Marked progress has been made during the past year in improving the conditions of our financial institutions. While it has been necessary to protect deposits by placing some of our banking institutions under the operation of the Altman Act, rehabilitation plans have been approved by the Banking Department in most cases and it is expected that the efforts to rehabilitate these institutions will be successful. During 1933 the Banking Department was obliged to take possession of only one banking institution in the State for purposes of liquidation. Progress has been made in distributing funds of banks and trust companies taken over prior to 1933. The dividends so distributed have ranged from five per centum to eighty per centum. Some of these companies are now in process of reorganization, and it is expected that three of them will re-open in the near future.

I think we have reason to be proud of the fact that of the many banks and trust companies in the State, only nine were denied admission to the Deposit Guaranty Fund. It seems likely that this admission will be granted to four or five of this number upon re-hearing. The Banking and Insurance Department is proceeding to assist in the formulation of plans to rehabilitate the others. While the inability of a single institution to pay its full obligations or to be unable to continue in business is a matter of concern, nevertheless the institutions in liquidation and/or operating under the Altman Act or denied admission to the Deposit Guaranty Fund represent but a small fraction of the resources of our State financial institutions. All of these institutions that are involved in any way hold less than seven and one-half per centum of the total deposits.

During the year I shall take occasion to submit to you recommendations regarding legislation which should be enacted. These recommendations will be designed to improve our banking and financial situation and will probably include the prohibiting of loans by banks to their officers, giving to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance the right to remove officers or directors, tightening restrictions upon investment of funds of banks and trust companies, particularly in bank buildings and stocks of other corporations and such other matters affecting both banks, insurance companies, mortgage companies, building and loan associations as seem advisable and in public interest.

14. State Fiscal Procedure. The set-up for handling the fiscal work of the State has been improved by the creation of the office of Commissioner of Finance and in strengthening the post-audit work of the State's financial operations. Definite and clear-cut procedure is not assured under the conditions which must prevail even after the new Department of Finance gets into full operation. Responsibility is still diffused, different functions respecting the financial operations of the State are scattered among several officials, and in the end neither the Legislature, the Governor, nor the taxpayers have that effective and certain control over the commitments and expenditures of the State government that are essential in the operation of any large business. The Princeton Survey observed that "no clear picture of the State's financial operations is possible" and "no living person knows what expenditures have been authorized for the current year." The only effective remedy for this situation lies in centralizing in a Department of Fiscal Affairs not only the responsibility, but also the authority to prescribe the system of accounts to be used in all State departments and agencies and supervise its operation, to have general direction over the collection of State revenues, the making of State purchases, the authorization of disbursements and commitments, the administration of the budget and similar related functions. The sooner this is done, the greater assurance the taxpayers will have that the moneys taken from them for public purposes are being effectively and usefully spent.

15. Financial Assistance to Local Governments. The financial situation of local governments has grown steadily worse. The crisis precipitated late in 1929 has continued with unabated severity through succeeding years and has wrought tremendous damage to real estate values not alone in this State, but throughout the entire country. Many thousands of our people, with curtailed income, have been unable to meet interest charges and the heavy burden of taxation and have lost their homes and other property holdings. The small investor, the mortgage companies and the banking institutions have all suffered enormous losses. If we, as a State, are to contribute our part to the general recovery program we must re-establish our public spending on a level which we can afford, we must restore confidence in the soundness of our municipal governments and we must relieve real estate from the staggering tax burden which now oppresses it.

Notwithstanding the position which I have consistently taken against new taxation, I recognize the fact that local government must be maintained and that financial assistance from the State cannot be delayed. To meet this compelling emergency I make these proposals:

First. That a general sales tax in accordance with the plans proposed and now under consideration by the taxation committees of the Legislature be imposed for a period of three years, and that the total revenues derived from this tax, less the expenses of collection, be distributed among the municipalities upon an equitable basis and be used solely for the purposes of meeting the costs of public education; and Second. That for the same three-year period the construction of State highways out of motor vehicle fees and motor fuel taxes be completely discontinued, that new construction of State highways be strictly limited to such work as can be done out of Federal appropriations that are made available for this specific purpose, and that all of the revenues from these two sources, which would ordinarily go into construction work, be similarly apportioned among the municipalities, to be used, likewise, solely for meeting appropriations for public school purposes.

These proposals are not, as I look at it, matters of choice, but of necessity. The people must have help to keep their homes and a substantial part of that help must be real relief from burdensome taxation. Better roads, much as we may desire them, can wait until we are able to pay for their cost. The upkeep of the road system need not be interfered with. Since there must be some new source of revenue to take the place of that heretofore carried by real estate, I know of no better source than a sales tax as a method of distributing more equally the cost of government.

I shall not stop here to discuss in any detail the legislation required to make certain that the financial aid to municipalities that I am here proposing shall be tax relief in fact. I shall not be satisfied with less than absolute certainty in the use of these revenues and I urge the Legislature to give careful consideration to the enactment of the necessary controlling legislation which will guarantee that these additional moneys shall be, in this instance, used only in substitution for existing taxes. In exchange for this substantial relief municipal governments must be willing to accept the necessary State supervision.

As a further aid to the financial situation in our local governments, I recommend the adoption of the Municipal Budget Revision Act and the Municipal Bond Revision Act which have been before the Legislature during the past year. The proposed revision of the Budget Act is designed to place municipalities more nearly on a cash basis by making it unlawful to continue to do those things which have been done under authority of the statute but contrary to good business procedure. The basic purpose of this proposed legislation is not only to improve the cash position of municipalities over a period of years, but to require them to operate in accordance with sound principles of economy and business procedure.

The Bond Revision Act likewise is designed to improve the credit position of the bonds of our municipalities by providing an extension of time for the payment of indebtedness, by authorizing collateral agreements between municipalities and the bondholders for the setting aside and pledging of certain revenues for the payment of outstanding obligations, by the restriction of temporary financing, by relating bond issues to the life and utility of the improvement, by revising the method of computation of net debt and by providing more complete regulation and control of the whole municipal bond and debt problem.

16. Pensions. During the past twenty years State and local governmental officials have been generous in providing pension systems for public officers and employees. The Pension Survey Commission, completing its reports in 1932, found that only two, the State teachers' pension and retirement fund and the State employees' pension and retirement system, out of the one hundred and fifty-two separate systems in the State are actually sound. The liabilities in the other one hundred and fifty systems established under authority of State law are accumulating at the rate of almost $14,000,000 a year with a prospective total of more than $100,000,000, which must be made up eventually, if these funds are to meet their prospective obligations, by taxation. I believe in sound pension systems, carefully established, conservatively managed, and in keeping with the financial ability of the several governments under which they are established. Just as I have urged the State and the local governments to live within their means, I now urge that the membership of the several pension systems, in their own interests as well as in the interests of the public generally, co-operate with local governing officials in a reconsideration of these several pension systems. I urge that such steps be taken as may be found necessary in accordance with sound principles and in the true interests of both the beneficiaries and the public alike.

II. Emergency Relief and Recovery Measures

17. Continuing Need for Relief and Recovery Measures. All governments, local, State and federal, are compelled to give continuous attention to measures for emergency relief and recovery because of the devastating and cumulative effects of this economic depression. Thousands formerly without work have, to be sure, returned to productive employment, and others for months with only part-time employment are now working regularly. On the other hand, as the relief agencies are relieved of the complete or partial support of these thousands returning to work, other thousands reach the end of their resources and are compelled to seek assistance from public and private sources. The story of New Jersey's efforts to relieve the needs of her people and to prevent suffering and privation, and the more recent recovery steps taken in co-operation with the federal government, has been presented in its separate parts many times. It looms so large in all of our public undertakings and is so closely tied up with every part of our public and social and business life that I feel impelled to summarize it here and to indicate the pressing and immediate future problems as I see them.

In New Jersey, as in most other States, we were late in recognizing the fact that the depression would be long and severe, that there would be a tremendous amount of unemployment and part-time employment, that private welfare organizations would have great difficulty in supplementing or even maintaining their former relief measures, and that thousands of self-respecting families never before recipients of charity in any form would have to be provided with all or most of the necessities of life for long periods. In the early stages of the depression, it was generally and confidently expected that private welfare organizations and local governments would be willing and able to bear the whole load. The struggle to handle the situation locally was carried on with more resourcefuless and vigor than might have been expected. Home relief measures were extended and numerous work relief programs were initiated.

18. State Aid. By the late summer of 1931, it became obvious that the relief problems were rapidly growing beyond the resources of local public and private relief agencies. In October of 1931, the State Emergency Relief Administration was established. It was planned to assist local agencies through the development of ways and means of administration, by co-ordinating work relief to secure greater effectiveness and by sharing in the financial support of the relief program. From October 13th to December 31st, 1931, the records show that emergency relief disbursements from public funds amounted to $2,602,368, of which the State government provided 34.5 per cent and the local government 65.5 per cent.

In 1932, both needs and disbursements increased rapidly. In that year, the State and local governments spent for emergency relief purposes $20,529,031, of which the State provided 60.3 per cent and the local governments 39.7 per cent. By October 13th, the State Director of Emergency Relief reported more than 300,000 persons representing some 100,000 families on the relief rolls. At that time, 268 municipalities, containing more than 85 per cent of the population of the State, were receiving State aid. The experience of the year of State relief showed the necessity for some changes in policy, especially in the plan of giving relief through wage payments for "made" work. The original plan of allocating State aid on the basis of population also had to be abandoned, and relief provided on the basis of actual need.

The heaviest relief load came last March when 513,000 persons, representing 120,000 families, and 13.40 per cent of the population of the 408 reporting municipalities with about 95 per cent of the population of the State were receiving relief, federal, State and local, through the State Emergency Relief Administration. Since then, the situation has improved somewhat, due in part to the general improvement in economic conditions and in part to the greater seasonal employment of various types of workers. By October last, the relief load had fallen to 363,000 persons, representing 86,800 families, and 9.51 per cent of the population of the 392 reporting municipalities, which contain 94.8 per cent of the population of the State.

For the first nine months of 1933 or to September 30th last, the disbursements for emergency relief amounted to $20,279,913, of which the State provided 52.7 per cent, the federal government 34.5 per cent, and the local government 12.8 per cent. Since then the proportion of relief disbursements provided by local governments has dropped and the proportion provided by the State and federal government has increased. So far as the provision of ready funds for relief is concerned, it is now a State and federal problem—the local governments are at the end of their resources. It is only fair to add, however, that many local governments provide substantial sums for various direct and indirect relief measures which do not appear as relief disbursements but which nevertheless constitute a substantial percentage of their total budgets, and private agencies such as the Red Cross, community chests, labor unions, fraternal and other social service agencies continue to carry on to the very limit of their resources. Notwithstanding the increased opportunities for work, it is a matter of serious concern that direct relief expenditures for December are estimated at $2,000,000.

19. The Federal Recovery Program in New Jersey. The several undertakings of the Federal government in the National Recovery Program are bound to be of great assistance in meeting our relief and recovery problems in

New Jersey. In its ultimate, though not in its immediate effects, the most important of the relief measures perhaps is the public works program. As soon as Federal funds for public works were assured, I had representatives of State departments, institutions, offices, boards and commissions meet in my office late in May to propose projects which might be considered a part of the public works program to be submitted to the Federal authorities on behalf of New Jersey. Proposals representing an outlay of $250,000,000 were offered. Many of them did not come within the terms laid down by the Federal authorities; others were not complete or sufficiently detailed; still others, from the point of view of the State as a whole, could not be considered as acceptable. I therefore, appointed an Advisory Committee on Public Works to classify and pass upon the various projects.

a. These proposed projects fall into four broad categories:

1. Federal projects, to be carried out entirely at the expense of the Federal government, dealing with such matters as the erosion of New Jersey coasts, clearing wrecks and other obstructions from harbors, and some flood control measures.

2. Local projects of direct interest to subdivisions of the State government, including supplying potable water, treating sewage, and constructing school and other buildings. For approved projects of this sort, the Federal government offered to contribute thirty per centum of the cost and when necessary to loan the remainder on relatively easy terms.

3. State projects relating to highways, grade crossings, institution buildings, and the like, to be financed in the same manner as local projects.

4. Semi-public projects of a self-liquidating nature to be undertaken and carried on through semi-public or private initiative, calling for loans from the Federal government to be repaid in full. Included in this category are projects for improved housing, subsistence homesteads, transportation, and some types of manufacturing.

As was to be expected, there were delays in working out detailed plans and in securing approval for specific projects from local, State and Federal authorities. Up to the middle of December there had been submitted to the State Advisory Committee 168 proposed projects other than highways calling for a total outlay of some $235,000,000. On the same date there had been approved by the Federal authorities a total of twenty-three New Jersey projects other than highways representing a proposed total outlay of about $18,000,000. It is anticipated that the approved projects will go forward rapidly and that Federal funds available for public work under this program will have a decided effect in increasing employment in the early spring.

The totals above referred to do not include any part of the grant of $37,500,000 to the Port Authority for the Midtown Tunnel, $10,000,000 to the Delaware River Joint Commission for high-speed transit facilities, $38,454,000 allocated for Federal shipbuilding at the Camden yards or other public works funds that may have been allocated for semi-public or private undertakings.

b. The State Highway Program. The Federal government also set aside $400,000,000 to be allocated to the various States for highway purposes. New Jersey's share of these Federal Funds amounted to $6,345,000, the allocation being based to a large extent on area and the mileage of post roads. So far a total of 26 projects, amounting to $8,838,000, have been approved, the State supplementing the Federal funds with $2,500,000 of State funds to purchase rights-of-way and build bridges. There are now under contract thirteen projects amounting to $4,768,000. Bids have been asked for four more projects amounting to $600,000. The necessary preparatory work for the remaining nine projects is being done and it is expected that by the end of January work will be under way on the whole program.

c. The Civilian Conservation Corps and Relief Work. Another relief project substantially benefiting New Jersey and financed entirely through federal funds is the Civilian Conservation Corps. Twenty-two camps, employing about forty-four hundred men, in addition to some two hundred and seventy-five work supervisors have been located in the State. The State Forester has been placed in full charge of all work programs but the United States Army assumes full responsibility for camp discipline, housing, feeding and recreation. Up to December 31 the man-days of enrolled labor exceeded 137,000. The work of this corps represents a great deal of direct value to the State. Together with a relatively large number of persons employed under the civil works administration the Civilian Conservation Corps has aided in extensive road-side clearing, improvement cutting and other work upon several thousand acres of State lands, the construction of forest and park roads and trails and a great variety of other useful improvements.

d. The Civil Works Program and Its Results. The federal government in the late fall set aside $400,000,000 for what has come to be called the Civil Works Administration. Of this amount, $12,000,000 was to be spent at the rate of $4,000,000 per month allocated to New Jersey. This fund has been augmented by a further grant of $2,000,000. By the end of December, applications were received for some 2200 civil works projects and a total of 112,000 persons, including unskilled laborers, skilled laborers, technicians, teachers, and various types of clerical and professional workers, had been actually put to work. The federal funds already allocated are intended to carry this program to February 15th, after which date it is hoped that additional funds will be provided to continue the work two or three months longer.

e. Miscellaneous Relief Measures. Several other relief measures are worthy of brief mention. The State is continuing to spend substantial sums in various social services, the federal government is making special grants for adult education, educational rehabilitation, junior colleges for the adult unemployed, and the care of transients. The federal government has also furnished New Jersey with large quantities of food to be distributed among the needy, the allotment including more than 3,000,000 pounds of salt and smoked pork, large quantities of butter, dried beans, flour, cheese, beef and other products.

f. Total Cost of Relief and Recovery Measures. Unfortunately there are no complete records of the total cost of public relief working in the State for 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933, and there are no complete figures as to the total volume of indirect and private relief. It may be safely esti-

g. Major Accomplishments. In an undertaking so large as our State relief and accompanied by the pressing need for immediate action some mistakes are inevitable. Such as have been made are almost without exception, however, of the head and not of the heart. The accomplishments, moreover, have been so gratifying as to overshadow such failures and errors as have been made. Few of our needy people have at any time been hungry, unclothed or shelterless, their needs when made known have been, with rare exceptions, relieved promptly. A splendid spirit of helpfulness and co-operation from those fortunate enough to have a steady income from employment in public or commercial organizations or from other sources has been maintained. Relief has been granted in such a way as to maintain to the greatest possible degree the self-respect of the recipients and to avoid the creation of an unemployable army permanently seeking public or private charity. The main fact, in which every citizen can take satisfaction, is that actual suffering, except in isolated cases of short duration and unknown to any public or private relief agency, has been prevented and, at the same time, constructive measures, looking toward productive and useful re-employment, have been pushed to the limit.

20. Future State Co-operation With Federal and Local Governments. Much work remains to be done in 1934, and almost certainly in succeeding years. Four prominent features of this remaining work seem to me to stand out clearly. The first is the need for continuous, greater and more effective co-operation of the Federal, the State and local governments. The State in dealing with local governments has, perhaps to an unwarranted extent, determined relief measures and policies, just as the Federal government, in coming to the assistance of both, has felt obliged to lay down rigid regulations with respect to the kinds of relief and the procedure to be followed where Federal aid is involved. The State must continue to take measures to provide for the needs of those who are hungry, unclothed and shelterless when funds from Federal, local and private sources are inadequate. The policy of the New Jersey State government must continue to be one of intelligent understanding, vigorous co-operation, and helpfulness. It must continue to give complete support to the several Federal recovery agencies. In particular, we must translate into actuality the public works program, and keep in step with the Federal plans to gradually reduce and finally discontinue the Civil Works program and other extraordinary measures as economic recovery permits.

The second outstanding factor, it seems to me, is that this is not the time to make sweeping changes in the organization and procedure of the State Emergency Relief Administration. This agency, to be sure, makes tremendous demands upon the time and energy of a devoted band of socially-minded men and women, serving without pay, which in one sense is unfair. For this faithful service, the State owes them a debt of gratitude which can never be wholly discharged. They have made vigorous and, in the main, successful efforts to base relief, employment, re-employment and other aid upon need and qualifications, and with an astonishingly small number of exceptions have succeeded in preventing the introduction of political, personal and other improper factors into the relief program. They have co-operated continuously and intelligently with Federal, State and local officials and with civic, welfare and other private and semi-private organizations. It is my conclusion that we must continue the present organization and procedure without fundamental changes for at least this year, and ask the men and women who have already served us to the limit of their capacity to continue that service during the trying months ahead.

A third outstanding factor in the present situation is the need to develop a plan so that, when the emergency is less acute, we can chart the definite course we wish to take. We have always had a certain number of unemployable persons. Undoubtedly one effect of the depression has been to augment the ranks of those permanently unemployable, though, as I have already pointed out, the measures taken have been designed to hold this increase to a minimum. Already economic conditions are improving and those without employment, as well as those employed on a part-time basis, are being returned to self-sustaining employment. We need to make plans in order that the tens of thousands now out of work or seeking different work may be returned to productive employment in an orderly way so as to achieve their maximum usefulness. I am giving consideration to the early appointment of a group of outstanding men and women, representing public officials of the State and local governments, welfare organizations, and the various industries carried on in New Jersey, to go over our relief and unemployment situation as it now stands and offer such constructive recommendations as may be helpful in shaping our future relief plans.

The fourth factor which seems to me outstanding is the need of separating sharply any and all relief and recovery measures from the regular operations of State, county, city, school and other governments. Such a separation makes known to those responsible for relief work exactly who is receiving relief and in what form and amount; it makes known to all citizens, who desire to be informed, which of our government activities constitute normal, permanent operations. It better enables us to organize both our emergency relief and recovery services as well as those common activities attaching to our permanent governmental establishments more efficiently and economically. It permits us to plan our financial needs in an intelligent way. Such definite separation of emergency and operating activities and budgets will facilitate the intelligent discontinuance or diminishing of relief and recovery measures when the need for them is reduced or ceases altogether.

This task of providing relief has been a difficult one. It has cost a great deal in service and in money, but there is satisfaction in the assurance that a good job has been done and serious suffering and hardship has been prevented. The same high standard that has been set, and the same measure of co-operation with the local governments as the units through which direct relief is distributed and the national government, whose further assistance and co-operation is vital, must be maintained in this upward movement which is gaining daily momentum under President Roosevelt's leadership. Recovery and economic well-being will not come to New Jersey unless it comes to the country as a whole. Our problem is a part of the national problem and we shall succeed in proportion to the success of the national undertaking. The President desires our help and loyal co-operation. He assures us of his interest. As an earnest of that desire and interest I am privileged to present the following letter:

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON,

January 5, 1934.

My Dear Governor:

The Recovery Program, which has for its purpose the improvement of the welfare of the people, is a common task. It can only be successfully approached by complete unity of action on the part of all branches of government, State and local as well as Federal. Therefore, I welcome and am pleased with your determination to seek ways and means by which the State of New Jersey can effectively co-ordinate its own efforts with the Recovery plan of my Administration.

I am confident that the measures that have already been taken in your State, together with those which you contemplate, will give a renewed impetus for the joint enterprise to which we are both dedicated. I would not presume, of course, to indicate to you the precise measures which should be undertaken. You, no doubt, will be guided by local conditions and the needs of the people of New Jersey.

However, I do want you to know how much I value the co-operation which the State has given the Federal agencies directly concerned with the Recovery program, and I join with you in the hope that we will soon find our way to happier levels.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

His Excellency,

A. HARRY MOORE,

Governor of New Jersey,

Trenton, New Jersey.

I am confident that we shall do our part.

III. The Further Improvement and Development of the State and Its Government.

21. Our Natural Advantages. In our efforts to meet our relief and recovery needs, to solve our problems of public finance and business, to reduce and redistribute the tax load, to improve and extend our highway, water and sewage disposal systems, to better protect life and property, and to maintain school, health and other essential services—vital as all these are—we cannot afford to forget or ignore the further development of the State itself.

Our natural advantages seem not to be recognized by a great part of our citizenship, and intermittent and for the most part ineffectual efforts only have been made either by the State and local governments or by business and commercial interests to develop and capitalize these advantages. Lying between two great metropolitan areas, with unequaled harbor facilities, with extensive undeveloped shipping accommodations, with unexcelled recreational opportunities of shore and forest and stream, and with rich agricultural interests, New Jersey is now a crowded, throbbing highway of commerce and trade, and it is bound to become a great manufacturing, distributing, shipping and financial area second to none. It is the business of New Jersey and her citizens to aid in this development rather than to have it forced upon them.

New York City, crowded in the main on two islands, with limited shipping frontage, with water barriers that involve both time and cost in the flow of goods and travel through the New York-New Jersey area to all parts of the country and the world has, by her earlier development and aggressive leadership, maintained her prestige and power. New Jersey, on the other hand, with every natural advantage of water front, of railroad transportation, of warehousing and room for industrial and business development, has accepted, without real protest, a minor role in the great drama of commerce and trade in the world's greatest center.

The development of a metropolitan area which includes shipping, manufacturing, exchange, financial accommodation and the other requirements of commerce hinges upon —first, the geographical location; second, the physical facilities necessary for trade, shipping, and exchange; and third.

the services which are usually characterized as "the mechanics of trade." New Jersey as I have stated, has in the New York area the location and the physical facilities for development that are not available in the same measure to New York City. It is in the "mechanics of trade" which are entirely man-made that New Jersey has failed.

The development of a great port and of manufacturing, shipping and other accompanying facilities as are required include the necessary brokerage service, the financial institutions to provide the funds and credit for large scale operations, the establishment of exchanges where buyers and sellers may meet and trade, the provision for good water, railroad, motor bus and automobile transportation with frequent schedules of arrivals and departures, the availability of trucking, warehousing and railroad services at reasonable rates, and the establishment of the headquarters of firms through which large scale traffic can be handled. In the course of time these things will come about, and Hamilton's vision of a great metropolis on the west bank of the Hudson will become a reality. But I am not satisfied to await this slow and costly process. It is the business of the citizens of the State to take every proper step to increase their own resources and opportunities as a part of a planned and orderly development of our social and business institutions.

22. Fair Competition and Citizen Interest. Whatever efforts we may devote to the development of our natural resources, I do not have in mind that we should seek or receive any special privilege or any unfair advantage, business or otherwise, to the detriment of either the State of New York or of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We must and shall continue to be a good neighbor. I am urging only that New Jersey citizens and New Jersey interests shall be allowed to develop naturally and without any artificial or unfair conditions which have heretofore prevailed or which may be imposed. I have already referred to the discriminatory lighterage and floatage charges which have been the greatest single obstacle in the way of New Jersey's harbor and industrial development, and to the lesser, but none the less effective, services in which the advantages are retained in New York City. The same tendency may be seen in the administration of the Port Authority. New Jersey has equal representation on that board and is equally interested financially and industrially with the State and City of New York, yet the warehousing and freight terminals have been built in the crowded spaces of Manhattan Island and not on the Jersey water-front where there is adequate room, where no lighterage and floatage charges ought to be required, where delays incident to rehandling and storing are eliminated, and where the railroad trackage extends to the water edge. New Jersey is willing to meet the natural competition of New York City in her shipping. She must be free to do this, and we must continue to insist that artificial barriers and discriminating rates shall be completely and quickly wiped out even though it may involve the overhauling of the whole railroad rate structure of the country. We must see to it that when bridges and tunnels, warehouses and trade facilities are built jointly by New Jersey and New York that the advantages will inure equally to the two contracting parties and that such public works shall not accentuate or continue the disadvantages that now prevail.

We cannot, of course, merely by taking thought change our stature. We need not, however, look upon our failure to develop our facilities and the disadvantages under which we are now struggling as permanent or inevitable. The power is within ourselves to build our own manufacturing, shipping, exchanging, shopping, recreational and cultural centres. In this greater New Jersey, each of us, as citizens and in our own particular sphere as public officials, and as members of industrial, business and civic organizations, must contribute our part to this important enterprise. Chambers of commerce, trade associations, financial and banking organizations and similar bodies need to extend their membership and adopt more effective plans and methods. They, more than any other group, have the task of securing recognition among industrial and commercial leaders of the natural advantages of the State. They must assist in building up commodity exchanges in order that both management and manufacturing shall be carried on within the State. They must see to it that fair trade practices and rates are maintained. They must interest themselves in long-time plans for sound development and see to it that such plans are given practical effect.

23. The Part of Government in State Development. As compared with the larger factors of location, business and trade, the role of government in the development of the State is perhaps of somewhat lesser direct importance. Nevertheless, both the State and local governments have important responsibilities if this development is not to be retarded or long delayed. Effective and economical public administration is the function of enlightened government. Population, manufacturing and business will come to New Jersey in the measure that protection and safety, health and sanitation, adequate transportation facilities, good schools, recreational opportunities, reasonable and fair taxation, clean and economical public administration and fair treatment both to workers and industry alike are assured. If this be true, and it is, then a direct and heavy obligation is laid upon the legislative and executive branches of the government of the State to enact those measures and to provide for that kind of public service which will not only assure the immediate well-being of its citizens, but the growth and development of the State itself.

If we are in earnest about a greater New Jersey, developed to its full possibilities as promptly and as rapidly as this development can be brought about, there are some things that must be done in preparation. They are not new or completely separate from the general body of our legislative and administrative functions of government, but they are particularly essential to this development I have outlined. Even though I have already touched upon some of them in earlier parts of this message, I think it is desirable to list them here:

(a) Recovery Measures. Food, clothing and shelter must be provided at all costs in the preservation of the life and health of the men and women and children of the State. The people have authorized the reallocation of $20,000,000 in bonds for relief purposes. Of this amount there remains unissued and unexpended $10,000,000. I estimate that this amount, together with the further aid that may come from the Federal government, will carry us through September of this year. The need for further State appropriations will depend largely upon the measure of economic recovery and the amount of aid provided by the Federal government. As the session proceeds I shall submit such further proposals as seem necessary for the insurance of adequate relief during the year.

Important as is the provision for direct relief, work and pay are more desired by the citizens of the State. It is of first importance that every possible aid shall be given to the national efforts to bring about quick and complete economic recovery. There must be full co-operation with the President in his recovery undertakings. Self-liquidating projects must be selected on their merits not only as a part of our future development, but as a means of providing productive employment for large numbers of people.

As our major aims in this connection, I shall continue to urge the protection of the New Jersey coast line as a Federal project, paid for out of Federal funds, the development of our potable water supplies as a self-liquidating project, and such other projects as flood control and reclamation in the Passaic River valley, the development of a series of marine parks and free beaches, and the further development of forests, game preserves, parks and fishing grounds through Federal and State co-operation.

(b) Reducing the Cost of Government. The cost of government in New Jersey was excessive before the depression. There can be no return to healthy financial and economic conditions with respect to public finance until the cost of local government is brought down to a point where the people who are governed can pay the bill. Waste, bad organization, over-manning and lavish spending of every kind must be eliminated. In our thoughtless years we have piled up a gross debt of more than twelve hundred millions of dollars, we have destroyed municipal credit, and our sources of revenue have dried up. As a matter of right as well as to insure confidence and respect, we must pay our debts and we must live within our means in matters of government in the same way as do individuals.

I have frequently referred to the small reductions that have been brought about in municipal budgets and the prevailing notion that these reductions are temporary and soon to be restored. I have stated also that there must first be economy and public spending permanent in character, and that new revenues from any source must not be regarded as an opportunity for additional spending. It appears to me that definite limitations on budgets and spending must be established if true economy is to be realized in our local governments. I am having a study made of the retrenchment and local government expenditures that will be brought about by the adoption of the 1934 budgets, and as soon as the results are known I am planning to submit my findings to the Legislature, together with such proposals as seem to me advisable and necessary.

(c) Consolidation of Local Governments. My position with respect to the consolidation of local governments was presented in some detail in my last Annual Message. The people of the State can no longer support the more than 1250 separate governments which now exist. Adequate service cannot be provided by a great majority of them because of their size and the cost of such service for small areas, and no development such as awaits this State can be realized so long as we persist in the artificial and unwarranted division of territory and functions which now prevail. In the counties of Essex, Hudson, Bergen, Passaic, Union and Morris, all of which are a necessary and integral part of our metropolitan development, there are at least 400 separate local and special governmental areas. A sweeping consolidation of local governments is essential, not only in this metropolitan area but in the Camden area and throughout the State if we are in earnest about savings, effective administration and State development. The Local Government Plan Commission, which I advocated a year ago, is beginning its study of this particular problem. I commend to the Legislature and to the people of the State the value of their support for and active interest in the work and findings of that commission.

(d) Reorganization of Government. New Jersey has had several surveys of the organization and functioning of its government. Every one of these surveys has resulted in the conclusion that the machinery of our State government is inadequate and antiquated and that neither effective administration nor true economies can be assured unless the State government itself is so organized as to insure administrative control and responsibility. The Princeton Survey, designed to discover ways and means of effecting important economies in current costs, set forth forcefully and in clear detail how important economies and improvements in administration could be realized. Thus far the Legislature has failed to approve any substantial part of any of the reorganization plans offered or to enact the necessary measures to bring about the economies proposed in the Princeton Survey. I urge once more consideration of a rational and logical realignment and reorganization of the State government in keeping with our modern requirements and the acceptance of the economies proposed in the Princeton Survey.

Nor should the reorganization process be limited to the State government. There is need of a reallocation of functions as between the State, county and local governing areas, as well as the fixing of local administrative responsibility in an individual officer or body functioning as a unit. The State should take over the greater part, if not all, of the roads now in the county systems, and the counties in turn all of the roads in the township systems. Health activities should be more effectively organized on a Statewide basis, and counties and municipalities should be relieved of the cost and custodial care of the insane, the feeble-minded, the tubercular, the indigent, the delinquent and criminal. Police and fire protection and education should be organized on a county basis except in the more populous municipalities.

The administration of justice is peculiarly a State function. The courts from the highest to the lowest, together with the county officers whose duties are to record the court's proceedings and execute its findings should be a recognized part of the State government and paid for from State funds. Property assessment must be equalized; in fact, placed upon a county basis under competent assessors and more effectively supervised by the State. Fair assessment and equalization of taxes throughout the State must become an actuality. It must no longer remain a myth.

(e) Agricultural Development. Even though the population of the country does not continue to increase as is contended by some statisticians, the population of New Jersey is bound to grow as rapidly, if not more rapidly, in the immediate future as in the past. The tendency to decentralize population as well as industry will accrue to the advantage of the State. Because of its soil, its climate and limited area, the State cannot now nor will it be able to feed its present or prospective population. Nevertheless, it should, in its agricultural interests, take such steps as will insure their greatest development and profit. The farms and gardens and orchards of New Jersey do not even furnish the greater portion of fruits and vegetables consumed in the State during the period that our own products are being harvested and marketed. New York and Philadelphia, two of the world's best markets, at our very doors, are utilized to a limited extent. We have placed nearly all of our emphasis on production and not enough of our thought and effort upon grading, distribution and marketing. Whenever our agricultural interests learn the lessons of grading, distribution and marketing which have been learned in California, for instance, and practice this knowledge as is done in that State, then our home markets and those of neighboring States will give first choice to New Jersey agricultural products, and surplus crops will not rot in our fields. The overhauling and modernizing of our marketing industry and distributing methods is a task to be undertaken jointly by the State, the producer and the distributor. As a matter of fact, the State has largely done its part already except that it has failed to get the producer to realize the importance of marketing and distributing methods and to adopt a radical revision in his practice.

(f) Recreational Facilities. In that larger New Jersey which I visualize there will be a constantly increasing need for recreational facilities. We have done something in the way of development of our coast, our forests, our streams and marshes, but little in comparison with our future, even our present, needs. New Jersey's coast and mountains, streams and forests, must be kept free and open to its own people and available for the millions from nearby States and from all parts of the country. The full assistance of the Civilian Conservation Corps and the Civil Works Administration, to which I have already referred, should be maintained in the improvement and development of our present forest and recreational holdings and every possible effort should be made to obtain Federal assistance for such self-supporting and self-liquidating projects as those I have already mentioned.

(g) State Planning. As a necessary and essential preliminary to the kind of State development which I have undertaken to present, there must be comprehensive State planning. I renew the proposal for a State Plan Commission as supported by the Princeton Survey.

In the solution of the legislative and administrative problems that face us in this 158th Session, I urge that we shall approach our respective tasks in the recognition of our heavy responsibilities, and determined to serve only the interests of the whole people. I hope for a short, business-like session and the enactment of none but essential laws. I solicit your co-operation in the accomplishment of these ends.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,

Governor.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DEPARTMENT OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL

D. Frederick Burnett,
Commissioner,

744 Broad Street,
Newark, N. J. January 15, 1934.

Hon. Joseph Altman, Speaker of the House of Assembly, State House, Trenton, N. J.:

MY DEAR ASSEMBLYMAN ALTMAN:

I have the honor to submit to you herewith the report of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, dated January 15, 1934.

Respectfully yours,

D. FREDERICK BURNETT,
Commissioner.

To the Governor and Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control was established by "An Act concerning alcoholic beverages," passed December 6, 1933.

The Act is neither unconstitutional or impractical nor was it conceived in sin and born in iniquity.

In deference to doubts expressed in high places as to constitutionality based upon certain delegations of permissive authority to municipalities and upon the constituency of the Appellate Board, the Commissioner advised against exercise of such permissive power until the courts should settle the question. But no action has been instituted to determine its validity. It is unfair to the citizen whose duty and right is to accept the law as it is written to be assailed with doubts. After a re-study over the weekend of the point raised, the Commissioner is now of the same opinion as when the original McCarter Act was drawn, that neither it nor the present Act is unconstitutional because of such permissive powers. Nor is it unconstitutional in any respect. The Legislature has undoubted authority to grant to a municipality the power to exercise governmental functions at option. No section of the Act purports to do more than that. The confusion has arisen from a failure to distinguish delegation of permissive powers to a municipality from one where the Legislature delegates to the municipality the right to determine for itself whether or not the municipality should have the power at all. In the latter case the doctrine that the Legislature, while it may impose its own will may not interpolate an alien will, admittedly obtains. What it means is that in such a case the governing body of a municipality which happens to be in office at the time cannot elect whether the municipality should or should not have the power; that only the electorate can make such decision. But that is clearly not the present case.

No such inhibited delegations of power are contained in the bill.

As to the legal validity of the personnel of the Appellate Board—the Governor, Senate President and House Speaker —there is no reasonable doubt in view of the long established practice in New Jersey of requiring those holding State offices to serve the State in other capacities without further emolument even though the duties imposed are in a narrow, provincial sense foreign to their offices as such.

Thus, the appointment by the Judiciary of Park and Jury Commissioners. So the Governor, Comptroller and Treasurer, under the name of the State House Commission have served ex officio for the better part of a half century, e. g.: management of the State Capitol; as the State Printing Board charged with the preparation and supervision of printing the Senate Journal, the minutes of the House and all annual reports; as the State Purchasing Department charged with the purchase of supplies and equipment for the various State institutions, departments, boards and commissions and maintaining warehouses and transportation facilities and supervising the distribution of merchandise; as arbiters of financial decisions partaking of both legislative and executive functions as evidenced in annual appropriation bills conferring power upon the State House Commission to authorize transfers of appropriation items and also disbursements from the State emergency funds; again the law requiring advertisement for the furnishing of material or labor which costs more than $1,000, empowers the State House Commission to waive the advertising requirement when in their judgment a public exigency exists; so the half mill tax acts, raising money for institutional construction funds made the State House Commission custodian and authorized it to apportion; so special duties such as the construction of the State House Annex, and fixing the rate for indigent patients in county hospitals. The mingling of the legislative and executive functions and personnel has been even more pronounced since Chapter 184 of the Laws of 1931 which amplified the membership of the State House Commission to include the respective chairmen of both the Senate and House Appropriations Committees.

This practice has not only escaped constitutional challenge but has been sanctioned by the electorate of the whole State by referenda in connection with the several bond acts which constituted the State House Commission as the issuing officials. Under those acts and several others, the same officials who constituted the State House Commission have functioned as the Sinking Fund Commissioners, charged with fiduciary obligations much deeper rooted than the mere reviewing of licenses to dispense liquor. It is too late to criticize the constituency of the Appellate Board on constitutional grounds.

As for the sin complex, there is no need for alarm. The Act is based essentially upon the far-sighted epoch-making report of the McCarter Commission which had been adopted by it before they called in counsel to translate it into law via draft of proposed legislation embodying its concepts. Line for line, word for word, comparison of the present Act with the McCarter draft discloses the indebtedness to that Commission. It is a lineal descendant.

True, the Legislature did not follow the recommendation of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission that the State Commissioner should be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate, but it did follow the precedent established in 1926 when the Department of Motor Vehicles was created and the Hon. William L. Dill was named in the Act as the first Commissioner.

Actual experience in administering the Act proves that its fundamental concepts are practical, capable of development to meet changing conditions, and justifies the belief of the McCarter Commission that "It will easily lend itself to amendment for purposes of improvement as experience thereunder may indicate to be wise". The purpose of the present report is to recommend such amendments.

Aside from non-adoption of the County Excise Board idea to handle licensing in the smaller communities and some other smaller changes in mechanics, the chief departures in the present Act were (1) superimposing an Appellate Board; (2) intensifying Home Rule provisions.

The Board of Alcoholic Beverage Appeals

Its duties are to hear appeals where licenses are alleged to have been improperly refused, or granted, or suspended or revoked, or not suspended or revoked, or improperly limited as to maximum number of licensees or hours of sale, or improperly conditioned as to conduct of business or nature of licensed premises, and also to hear appeals by any person affected or who might be affected by any rule or regulation made by the Commissioner.

It is unwise to permit appeals to this Board based upon the form, content or substance of the Commissioner's rules and regulations. If the Commissioner should step over or abuse the authority reposed in him, appeal should be made directly to the Supreme Court which has inherent power to review, curb and set aside unlawful administrative action whenever necessary. Such rules and regulations necessarily embody the policies of the centralized State authority which should be developed through intimate contact and daily experience as a composite and consistent whole. If the Commissioner is to propose but the Board to dispose, such division of responsibility will be highly inimical to orderly development. Full responsibility should be placed on the shoulders of the Commissioner for every rule and regulation but with this should go the sole power to declare them. On the other hand, if the Legislature disapproves the policies of the Commissioner, it can readily correct them by statute. It is the Legislature, not an appeal board which should be the policy dictating power. It is therefore recommended that this latter appellate function be abrogated.

So far as concerns all other appeals (except as to conditions on conduct of business and nature of licensed premises which is discussed infra under separate head), there is no objection in principle. In fact, an Appelate Board dealing solely with the application of the law and the rules and regulations to such factual questions would be heartily welcomed. If, however, you desire to abolish the Board and to transfer its jurisdiction to the Commissioner as has been mooted in the public prints, there will be no flinching from the additional duty.

Home Rule Provisions

The pertinent sections of the Act are:

(1) Each municipality (Sec. 5) having a population of 15,000 or more is authorized to establish a local excise board.

The permissive power is constitutional for the reason hereinbefore set forth. Complaint is made, however, that the power has been abused in a few instances in that municipal officials have appointed at attractive salaries members of their own group who had been previously voted out of office—so-called "lame ducks". Isolated instances of abuse, if true, may well await appropriate punishment by the electorate.

(2) Section 6 empowers each municipal board to appoint such ad libitum inspectors, investigators, employees and agents to the extent deemed necessary by it, subject, however, to salary determination by the governing board of the municipality. The complaints based on this section are obviously addressed to the salary with implication that it is too high or else the employment itself entirely unnecessary and therefore a wasteful expense. If true, similar punishment will undoubtedly follow.

In passing, it should be noted that there is no provision for such inspectors and employees in cases where the governing body of a municipality shoulders upon itself the duties of administering the alcoholic beverage law, or willy nilly must do so because the population is less than 15,000. Certainly, if such inspectors and employees are really necessary to an optionally created local excise board, the other municipalities themselves should have the same right to employ them.

But the real trouble with Sections 5 and 6 lies deeper. Why should municipal boards be created at all? Why should not municipal officials dealing with the unbounded, uncharted liquor problem be impressed with a sense of direct responsibility to the people? Can not this responsibility be discharged without further fee? Again, even if, as in most cases, members serve highly honorably for fair or only nominal consideration or even no consideration, why the expense of special inspectors and investigators to enforce a single branch of the law when every municipality has its own police, competent, willing, even anxious to discharge their duty to enforce this law as well as every other law. Restoration of the 10 or 20 per centum cut in police salaries will be more economical than creation of a new group of employees. More than this—the mistake of Prohibition in having too many enforcement agencies should not be perpetuated. The moment that divided responsibility is created, the human tendency is to slump and let the specialized agency handle the job exclusively. Morale usually breaks down when the normal law enforcing agencies are relegated to the side lines. It is catching with consequent tendency to disrespect for all law.

Utilization of existing agencies will be in direct interest of economy and efficiency. Grand juries, "pioneers", as Supreme Court Justice Parker described them, in blazing a trail through new laws and conditions, are the epitome of public opinion and will more courageously and confidently do the duty which New Jersey expects of them when their indictments are based on disinterested evidence produced in regular course which needs no discount because adduced by a specialized agency which, to justify separate existence, has to make a showing. If inspectors or investigators are really needed in any municipality for emergency, it has but to call upon the Commissioner for such specialized assistants to cooperate with, not to supersede the local police.

It is therefore recommended that all local excise boards be abolished; that the governing board or body of each municipality shall discharge this function without further emolument and that no power be conferred to appoint special employees to enforce this law any more than any other law.

The special legislation contained in the proviso to the fifth section, designedly applicable to one city only, should, of course, be eliminated.

(3) Section 29 permits municipalities to impose conditions upon the issuance of licenses as deemed proper to accomplish the objective of the Act and to secure compliance with it. All this is subject, to be sure, to rules and regulations, the intendment being that no special conditions may be inserted unless they are consonant with the rules and regulations issued by the Commissioner. But, since it is humanly impossible to foresee and provide in advance for all contingencies, and since rules and regulations, on general principles, should be uniform and equally applicable without discrimination, confusion between and overlap of authority will be eliminated if this section is changed to provide expressly that any condition so imposed must be first approved by the Commissioner rather than merely be subject to his rules and regulations.

(4) Section 37 consists of two paragraphs, both of which are constitutional for the reason hereinbefore stated.

The first confers power upon each municipality to limit the number of local retail licenses and the hours between which sales may be made; to regulate the conduct of the licensee's business and the condition of the licensed premises—all subject, however, to appeal to The Board of Alcoholic Beverage Appeals. The Commissioner is heartily in sympathy with local limitation of licenses and local specification of hours of sales because they are matters which municipalities can best decide each for itself in accordance with local conditions. But the undefined power to regulate the conduct of the business and the nature and condition of the licensed premises opens, it is submitted, too wide a door to confusion of and eventual conflict between the powers of the centralized State authority and local authorities. Through successive encroachments and whittling, the power of the Commissioner to administer and enforce the Act as a whole with desired uniformity will be gradually seeped away, ultimately rendered nugatory, and composite coordinated control will evanesce. To be sure appeal lies to The Board of Alcoholic Beverage Appeals but such appeal does not fill the bill. The proper scope of such a Board is to deal with factual questions, not matters primarily of policy.

It is therefore recommended that the municipal power in these latter two respects be retained but be made expressly subject to approval of the State Commissioner whose ruling thereon shall not be subject to the appeal board.

The second paragraph provides that the governing body of each municipality may by mere resolution prohibit either (1) retail sales of alcoholic beverages other than brewed malt alcoholic beverages and naturally fermented wines which is another way of saying that it may ordain the sale of beer and light wines; (2) retail sale of all alcoholic beverages for consumption on the licensed premises which means the exclusion of taverns, tap rooms and bars; (3) the retail sale of all alcoholic beverages which means absolute prohibition, both as to tavern and store, and (4) the sale of all alcoholic beverages on Sundays. Each such resolution is subordinate to any referendum subsequently held pursuant to the Act. In effect, it gives the municipal governing body interim and immediate powers of local option until the people of each community decide for themselves, and this by mere resolution without the safeguards of publication and successive readings attendant upon the enactment of an ordinance. Again, the Legislature decided to strike out the recommendation of the McCarter Commission which expressly provided for a retail licensee to sell beer and light wines only, and yet, having refused to specify this as a class of license which might be issued, later on in the Act confers that very power in effect by the first optional power as above mentioned.

If there is any urge in any community for immediate opportunity to vote on the referenda rather than wait for the general election, the referenda clauses may be modified to provide that the special election may be held at any time. The reason for holding the referenda concurrently with general elections was to minimize the mounting costs of public expense. But the electorate will be able to vote the more intelligently on such referenda if reasonable opportunity is afforded in the meanwhile to observe actual results.

It is recommended that the second paragraph of Section 37 be stricken from the bill and that no change be made in the referenda provisions which will enable a mere 15 per centum of the electorate of any municipality to inflict upon it the expense of a special election.

(5) The four referenda, properly confided for exercise to the respective electorates of each municipality, afford full right of local option to each community and need no amendment.

Present Types of Licenses

The 12 different types of licenses provided by the Act apparently cover the field subject however to the demands for new classes hereinafter to be mentioned and needed amendments in some of the existing types.

Present Brewery License

This license entitles the holder to brew malt beverages and to distribute and sell his products to wholesalers and retailers licensed in New Jersey. Such limitation of business outlet negatives the right of the brewer to sell to anyone else. Brewers licensed in other States are not so handicapped. Our breweries should be entitled to sell outside of the State of New Jersey to anyone in any other State or country to whom it is lawful by the laws of such State or country to sell. The power should be broadened accordingly.

Small breweries now pay the same license fee as the large. The fees of distilleries and wineries are graduated according to the output. The breweries should also be treated equitably. The following scale is recommended: A minimum of $500 and a maximum of $4,000; the minimum fee for output up to 50,000 barrels; $1,000 up to 100,000 barrels; $2,000 up to 200,000 barrels; $3,000 up to 300,000 barrels, and the plenary license at $4,000.

Present Limited Winery License

This license empowers manufacture for sale of any naturally fermented wines and fruit juices up to 200 gallons per annum for the nominal sum of $1. It is proper that the fee for permission to manufacture such a comparatively small quantity per annum should not be high, but the fee of a mere dollar is wholly incommensurate with the cost, the necessary work incident to the application, the bond, the issuance of the license, and the cost of inspection and enforcement. The minimum fee for 200 gallons should be at least $10 as a step in the direction of making the industry itself bear the cost of its own regulation and the enforcement of the act.

Present Limited Distillery License

The cost of this license is too high. The maximum which can be produced for fee of $2,500 is 10,000 gallons. Hence the minimum license cost per gallon is 25c. This overhead is too high to enable limited distilleries to compete at all with the plenary. The scale should be cut in half, i.e., 5,000 gallons should be $500; not more than 10,000 gallons should be reduced to $1,250.

Present Rectifier and Blender License

The seat of most trouble in the whiskey, gin, rum and other high powered alcoholics problem is not only the distiller but particularly the so-called rectifier and blender. For practical purposes, the consumption of these spiritous liquors on a straight distilled basis as distinguished from a blended product is practically negligible. In other words, almost all of these products are blends or mixtures of straight liquors of an older, with those of lesser age and with other distilled spirits and to a minor extent with blending agencies such as sherry and other wines, juniper and other aromatics. Distillers blend most of their products. Rectifiers blend all their products. There is no trouble with either the high-class distiller or rectifier. But there is ceaseless trouble with the rectifier of dishonest inclination because of the inherent nature of the rectifying or blending operation which lends itself so readily to abuse.

It is this very dilution and combination which defies quantitative analysis, tempts substitution of inferior products and adulterants, gives literal meaning to "watered stock," and invites inordinate profits because of the difficulty of detection with consequent unwarranted high prices to the consumer for the quality and class of goods offered him and which gives rise to those major problems confronting this department which pertain to pure liquor, honestly labeled, free from harmful and noxious ingredients, and so sold that the consumer knows just what he is getting for his money and has the assured satisfaction of getting just what he thinks he is buying. Obviously, the only way to control these problems is constant supervision and daily enforcement which requires money and still more money. The industry should pay its way as it enters. The present fee is grossly inadequate. The distiller pays $7,500, the rectifier only $1,500. The rectifier fee should be raised to $5,000.

Even aside from the foregoing considerations, the rectifier fee is too low when compared with that of the wholesaler. The rectifier is entitled not only to rectify, blend, mix, bottle and re-bottle, but also he may sell and distribute his own blends both to wholesalers and also to retailers in direct competition with wholesalers and, being the producer, is always in a position to undersell his wholesaler competitors. Yet each pays the same license fee! The only thing which the wholesaler can do which the rectifier can't is to sell bottled products of all manufacturers. This is all the wholesaler can do. The rectifier can do everything that the wholesaler can do and has all the foregoing powers in addition, except that he can sell only his own products. But he can buy the other products, mix them together, or merely add water, and presto! It is his own product and hence may be sold, or more accurately, undersold, in one-sided destructive competition with wholesaler. The wholesaler's license should be kept at $1,500, but the rectifier should be raised from $1,500 to at least $5,000. The present fee is the real bargain on the license list and is sold at a price below the cost of producing enforcement.

Present Retail Consumption License

The present limits of $350 minimum and $1,500 maximum should be changed to $200 minimum and $2,000 maximum so as to afford needed latitude according to local conditions in each municipality, thereby enabling the honest licensee to replace the unlicensed violator and allowing the less densely populated sections of the State to enjoy the statutory privilege at a fee more commensurate with the expectant return.

Present Retail Distribution License

The present minimum limit of $200 should be lowered to $100 so that the limits of the distribution license, both maximum and minimum, are exactly one-half of the consumption license. The consumption license gives the holder thereof at least twice the benefits and privileges that the distribution licensee obtains. The former may do all that a distributor may do and on top of that, operate a bar for consumption on the premises. It is common knowledge that the big profits go to the consumption licensee. Certain municipalities have fixed the fee for each license at the same figure. They have the right to do so if such is their judgment. But the identity of such fees creates a standing invitation for everyone to apply for a consumption license rather than a distribution license. It is recommended that the Act should provide that the fee fixed by any municipality for a consumption license shall be twice that of a distribution license. In the interest of temperance alone, this proviso should be adopted.

Present Retail Transit License

The flat fee of $150 is unfair. One railroad in this State has 8 dining cars, another has 85, each daily travelling through a part of the State. It is manifestly unfair to make a flat fee. The Federal Tax Stamp is graduated on the per vehicle basis. Some States charge as much as $20 per vehicle. It is recommended that the charge in this State be $10 per vehicle, whether it is a dining car, an aeroplane, or a boat under 5 tons gross tonnage, except that a boat over 5 tons gross tonnage shall still continue to pay a flat fee of $150 per annum.

Present Transportation License

The Act requires that vehicles transporting alcoholic beverages shall carry a transit receipt. It is recommended that this provision be stricken from the section so that the Commissioner may have power to dispense with this requirement if desirable and substitute others of more value by rules and regulations as experience shall dictate. Flexibility in this respect is much to be desired in order to cope with conditions as they arise from time to time.

Present Special Permits

This salutary provision to cover contingencies which human foresight cannot anticipate is apparently working out well and without any just cause for complaint. Its very flexibility makes it of great service.

The rigid fee of $10, however, should be changed in order to provide for a scale of fees more commensurate with the value of the permit to the special licensee for such in effect he is and also carry a reasonable share of the overhead in respect to administration of such permits which requires constant follow-up, verifications and administrative work until the permit expires by its terms. It is therefore recommended that the license fee to be charged therefor shall be determined in each case by the Commissioner and shall not be lower than $10 nor higher than $500. No reasonable difficulty is foreseen in making equitable avail of this latitude. It will be more fair to those licensees who have paid the flat annual fee and will make those who receive special permits contribute reasonably to the overhead.

Proposed New License—Club License

There has been much demand for a special retail consumption license for clubs, fraternal and benevolent orders, veterans' organizations, and country clubs, where service and convenience as distinguished from profit is the sole motive, for a special license permitting sale only to bona fide members and their guests and prohibiting sale to the public generally. The demand appears reasonable and proper. These organizations should not be taxed the same as a business run for private profit or pay the same license fee which should be paid by an establishment whose motive for existence is sales per se. It is therefore cordially recommended that this new form of license be created and that the fee be not less than $50 and not more than $150, to be fixed by the municipality. The real difficulty is to define such organization in such a way that any such new dispensation may not be readily susceptible to abuse, evasion and subterfuge or be availed of by "mushroom" mala fide organizations as a device to evade payment of the regular license fee.

The Club License should of course be subject to rules and regulations which can be worked out by studying this problem intensively with the qualified representatives of responsible high-class organizations such as for instance that the club must have a bona fide roster of members who pay annual dues; fully organized at least a year before license applied for, etc., etc., as examination and experience shall deem expedient and proper.

Proposed New License—Beer and Light Wines

This type of license was proposed by the McCarter Commission as one essentially promoting temperance. It was also incorporated in this Act concerning alcoholic beverages when introduced as Bill No. 611 in the Assembly, but was stricken out by Assembly amendment. You are thoroughly familiar with the arguments pro and con. The demand still continues. On the one side such a bill would undoubtedly wholly satisfy the demand in a given community and would thereby spendidly serve the purposes of temperance. On the other hand, it is equally earnestly contended that such form of license if permitted would be availed of to the exclusion of plenary consumption licenses because so easily available to effect illicit sales except under constant and therefore prohibitive cost of supervision. In the absence of actual experience in dealing with this form of license and actual attempt to enforce its limitations, the Commissioner is not able to make any recommendation based upon experience and the a priori considerations are practically evenly balanced except that this Department believes that, with the aid of the police which has been repeatedly pledged, any such limited form of license you see fit to create, can and will be economically enforced as to all conditions you may impose.

Proposed New License—Vendor

There has been some urge by self-interested parties but not by the public or consumers for a new type of license to be called a Vendor's license which would permit, similar to the old beer act, a licensee to buy beers and wines in bulk from the manufacturer and to re-bottle and sell direct to both retailer and to consumer. The proposition is disapproved. It involves a destructive breakdown of the whole statutory scheme of licensing. In effect it allows a wholesaler to unfairly compete with retailers. There is no necessity for such a license under the ample powers and classifications provided by the present law. The applicant must take his choice of either the wholesale or retail business and engage in only one. To say that it provides for distribution in territory which could not be covered by breweries is beside the point, because the situation is adequately covered by the present retail distribution licensees who can, and do provide all needed service to the communities, urban or rural, as required.

Proposed New License—Public Warehouse

More effective regulation can be accomplished by the establishment of this new type of license. The license fee can be rather small. The object of licensing public warehouses engaged in the storing or warehousing of alcoholic beverages is not primarily for the purpose of producing revenue. Great quantities of alcoholic beverages can conceivably be cleared through public warehouses by licensees not having ample storage capacity. These warehouses are in effect performing some of the functions similar to Government Bonded Warehouses and for the purpose of control and inspection should be licensed by this Department.

Applications for Licenses

Section 22 provides that no license of any class shall be issued to any person "who has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude, or of two or more violations of this act". It should be amended to read "convicted of a crime or who has committed two or more violations of this Act".

The same section requires photostatic copy of all Federal licenses, permits and/or stamps necessary to the lawful conduct of the business for which a State license is sought to accompany the license application. In the case of steamboats, there are many such Federal licenses required which have nothing to do whatsoever with the alcoholic beverage industry. For instance: a customs license, an inspection certificate, master's, mate's and engineer's certificates. The section should be modified to require only such Federal licenses, permits and/or stamps as are requisite in respect to the beverage phase of the business.

It further requires that a deposit of the full amount of the license fee must accompany the application and that if the application is denied 10 per centum is to be deducted as an investigation fee. This is a clause of great worth as it prevents applicants from gambling on the issuance of a license at the expense of the State. There is another consideration however to which your attention is drawn: It may well happen that after a license is issued, the licensee meeting increasing and unexpected competition may become concerned with a practical exposition of the law of diminishing returns. Section 28 provides that no refund shall be made of any portion of a license fee after issuance of the license. When he finds, perhaps, that his profits are dwindling, and upon realizing that he cannot cash in his license, the natural temptation arises to buy from bootleggers or to sell to drunks or to dilute his goods. Rather than lead someone into temptation, deliverance from the evil may be effected by providing that any licensee may voluntarily surrender his license and have his pro rated fee for the unexpired term returned, provided that he has not committed any violations of this Act or done anything which in the discretion of the issuing authorities should bar or stop him from making such claim for refund, and further providing that all taxes due to the State or to any municipality in respect to alcoholic beverages have been paid. It is so recommended. If it appeals to you, the proration should be made as of the date, not of his application therefor, but of approval thereof. When such approval is made by municipal authorities, the same should be certified to the Commissioner and a special permit issued to such licensee for a fee of $10 pursuant to Section 75 permitting him to dispose of the goods on hand as in other cases covered by such section.

Suggestion has been made that notices of applicant's intention to apply for a license should be published by the Municipal Clerk rather than by each individual applicant, similar to the old procedure before prohibition so that the applicant will pay to the municipality the cost of the advertising in addition to the license fee, to the end that the advertisement would appear at regular periods and all under one head. The Commissioner has given great weight to this suggestion because convinced of the sincerity of the person making it and for the reasons advanced, and therefore brings it to your consideration but without recommendation because of the fear that this provision might easily lend itself to abuse for merely political purposes. On the other hand, applicants themselves might, perhaps, choose papers of limited circulation so that the highly desirable notoriety would not be obtained. Perhaps the better solution would be for the Commissioner to designate the papers in each municipality and arrange by rules and regulations for much desired uniformity.

Warehouses and Salesrooms

Section 15 provides that any licensee entitled to maintain a warehouse or salesroom shall, if approved by the Commissioner, procure a separate license for each additional warehouse or salesroom and pay the fee therefor, each additional warehouse or salesroom being a different place of business.

It is entirely proper that a business licensed to operate throughout the State shall have to take out a separate license for each additional warehouse or salesroom because the more storage places the greater the cost of inspection and enforcement. But the fee for the additional warehouse or salesroom ought not to be equal to the price for the privilege itself of manufacturing. It is therefore recommended that the fee for each additional warehouse or salesroom shall be reduced from 100 per centum to 25 per centum of the fee to which the privilege is appurtenant.

This section should be further amended by adding the privilege of establishing an additional separate office as well as warehouse or salesroom.

Licenses Contingent Upon Payment of Tax

Section 30 properly provides that no license shall be issued to anyone licensed under the old beer and light wines act of April, 1933, unless the taxes, fees or penalties thereunder shall have been paid or secured. This section should be broadened to include taxes, fees or penalties due not only under that Act but also under the more recent Tax Act approved December 4, 1933.

Miscellaneous Fees to Be Exacted by the Commissioner

Section 34 provides that the Commissioner shall receive a fee of $1 for authenticating any copy of any act, rule, regulation, order or decision, or of any paper or papers filed in any office. The section should be broadened to give omnibus power to the Commissioner to fix regulatory fees in his discretion sufficient in amount to pay the cost of service for all and any services rendered by the Department pursuant to the Control Act.

For instance, Section 23 permits the Commissioner or other issuing authority to transfer any license previously issued to a different place of business than that specified therein by endorsing permission upon such license. The detail work of examining and passing on affidavits made in such connection and of endorsing the original license with such permission and making proper annotations upon the office files should carry with it a fee of at least $5. When special service is asked for, it should be paid for. One licensee has already moved twice with consequent extra work upon the Department.

So stamps or other insignia insuring purity of liquor and proper labelling requirements when issued to manufacturers outside the State of New Jersey who may use them when, as and if they comply with the New Jersey standards should be paid for at reasonable fees to be fixed by the Commissioner to cover not only the stamps themselves, but the reasonable share of the cost of the service, which is only fair to New Jersey licensees who pay therefor through the medium of license fees.

Administrative Provisions

(1) Section 32 gives power to the Commissioner and issuing authorities to examine under oath and compel attendance by subpœna of all witnesses and the production of records with appropriate teeth in the event of contempt, but the purpose is confined to investigation, examination and inspection. The power should be broadened to include revocations, rules to show cause and every other proceeding authorized under the act, and generally for the purpose of enforcing the act, coupled with express statement that the enumeration of these certain purposes is in no way to be construed as a limitation of any purpose coming within the fair purview of the act.

(2) Section 40 should be amended to carry out its true intent and meaning. After the word "distillery" as it last occurs in the section, the word "or" should be stricken out and a comma inserted and after the subsequent word "plant" the comma should be stricken out and the words "or wholesaler" should be inserted to be followed by a comma.

Internal Set-up of Department

Section 4 creates divisions in the Department labelled, respectively, administration, licensing and investigation, and inspection and compliance. Actual experience has demonstrated that there is no clear line of cleavage between administration and licensing or between investigation and compliance. What the divisions should be and what duties should be imposed is still in a state of flux. It would be more conducive to efficiency to direct the Commissioner to organize the Department and create such divisions and alter them as he shall from time to time deem advisable.

Bonds

Investigators and inspectors are required each to give bond in the sum of $7,000; Deputies in the sum of $8,000; the Commissioner in the sum of $30,000. Each member of a municipal board and each appointee thereof must give bond in an amount equal to twice his annual salary. All such bonds shall be given to the State of New Jersey and "be conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of such appointee and for his compliance with all the provisions of this Act." This means, for illustration, that if an inspector accepted a bribe of $1,000, and thereby some licensee paid a tax of $20,000 whereas he ought to have paid $200,000, that the surety company would be liable for $180,000. The quoted condition of the bonds is so onerous that solvent, high-class surety companies ask to be excused from even considering the issuance of such bonds. The condition is so wide open as to be impracticable and should be radically changed.

It is recommended that the Commissioner's bond be given to the State of New Jersey; that the bonds of all persons on the Commissioner's staff be given to the Commissioner as such; that bonds given by municipal employees shall be given to the particular municipality; that each bond be conditioned for the proper accounting of public funds entrusted to the care of the incumbent of the particular position; that the bond of the Commissioner be approved by the Governor as to form and sufficiency; that all other bonds whether State or municipal be approved as to form and sufficiency by the Commissioner. With these changes effected, reliable surety companies will be glad to have the business and if defaults should occur collection will be simplified and wholly unnecessary litigation obviated. To try for more than actual defalcation is utterly impractical. If employees accept bribes, the remedy is not against the surety companies, but the onus is squarely placed on the shoulders of the Commissioner or the municipal authorities to prosecute to the limit.

In order to forfend a bonding racket arising in this State, and to prevent sheer waste of public funds, no bond should be required from anyone who does not actually handle money or is not in a position so to do. The Commissioner as regards State employees, and the governing body as regards municipal employees, should determine which employees are to be bonded. Tremendous savings in bonding premiums will thereby be affected.

The 200 Feet Rule

Section 76 provides that no license shall be issued for the sale of alcoholic beverages within 200 feet of any church or public schoolhouse, except to hotels, clubs and fraternal organizations which owned or were actually in possession of the licensed premises at the time the Act became effective, which was December 6, 1933.

The Commissioner has interpreted this provision to mean:

1. That the 200 feet is not to be measured in an air line but rather in the normal way that a pedestrian would properly walk from the entrance of one place to that of the other;

2. That the protection afforded was not in respect of the property of the church or schoolhouse but rather in respect to the persons attendant therein and thereon.

3. That such protection could be waived by either the church or school, when such waiver was properly credentialed, but that such waiver or consent must be obtained as the license came up for renewal from year to year.

Frankly, there is room for reasonable difference of opinion as to whether these rulings correctly interpret the legislative intent. If they do, there is no necessity for changing the statute. If not, appropriate amendment should be made. The rulings are believed to be right and therefore no change is recommended in the section on this score.

But the section should be amended to include not only public schools but all schools whether public or private. In order that this beneficial protection shall not be perverted into an unfair weapon as against law abiding licensees, there should be a proviso that it does not apply to any educational institution unless the same is conducted without any profit motive.

Again, under the present section, it might eventuate that after a license had been issued for a given place a church or school might thereafter build or rent a place within 200 feet of the licensed premises. Thereupon at the end of the license year it could not be renewed without the consent or waiver of the church or school. It is true that the courts have decided on salutary grounds of public policy that one who moves into a nuisance is not barred thereby from subsequently abating it. But legally licensed premises ought not to be regarded as nuisances. If they are such in fact the license ought not to be granted at all. If, on the other hand, a law-abiding licensee makes a heavy investment in a licensed location, he ought not to have to live in constant jeopardy of being precluded through no fault of his own from obtaining a license another year. To do so is to frighten away much desired capital investment and consequent employment in legitimate enterprises. Money is a timid commodity at best. The 200-foot rule should not apply at all in such a case. The section should be amended accordingly.

Sales of Alcohol Unfit for Beverage Purposes

Despite propoganda, the integrity of the salutary provisions of Section 26 must be preserved. They require that druggists and pharmacists may not sell alcoholic beverages for alleged medicinal purposes whether upon physician's prescription or not except they take out a license, the same as any other licensee. Otherwise the old and now outgrown joker of prohibition days will return, whereby, upon the ingenious device of a physician's prescription, drug stores are in reality in competition with retail licensees. Such competition is essentially unfair despite the plausible arguments invoked in the sacred name of the healing art. If a physician prescribes liquor, the patient will have no difficulty in filling the prescription at a duly licensed place.

Section 27 avows that the Control Act is not designed to prohibit sales of industrial alcohol. The intention was to disavow prohibition without license of manufacture and sales of alcohol when unfit for use as a beverage but the punctuation is such as to render this debatable as a matter of legal interpretation. Again, industrial alcohol is used in the Federal laws and regulations as embracing all alcohol which is designed for use as a beverage. The resulting confusion can and should be eliminated by striking out the term "industrial alcohol" and subjecting all makers and users of denatured alcohol and alcoholic mixtures or compositions or articles of commerce containing alcohol, which are unfit for use as beverages, subject not only to investigation by the Commissioner but also expressly subject to his rules and regulations. By the same token druggists and pharmacists, whether licensed or not, should be subject not only to investigation but also to such rules and regulations. Equipped with this power to regulate, it is confidently believed that no real injury will be done to any legitimate enterprise or bona fide user of mixtures, compounds or articles containing alcohol unfit for beverages provided they are actually so unfit and so remain. If this great leak is stopped and effectually controlled, alcohol diverted from ordinary commerce for beverage purposes will not escape taxation.

Sales and Deliveries by Foreign Vendors in New Jersey

An impression seems to exist that manufacturers and wholesalers licensed in New Jersey are at a disadvantage in competition with out-of-State manufacturers and merchants. Thus it appears in the public prints that the only way New Jersey concerns can sell in New York is to take out a wholesale license and then sell directly to licensed retailers, thus retaining all the retail business for New York companies, whereas New York concerns may make deliveries in New Jersey directly to consumers on sales consummated in New York. The impression is mistaken. The Control Act defines a sale as "every delivery of an alcoholic beverage, otherwise than by purely gratuitous title, or the solicitation or acceptance of an order for an alcoholic beverage." The Tax Act defines a sale as "the disposing of alcoholic beverages for a consideration," and levies upon alcoholic beverages sold or delivered for consumption within this State a tax payable at the time of sale. It is clear, therefore, that not only is the delivery of alcoholic beverages within the State by a foreign vendor unlawful unless he is licensed to make a sale in New Jersey, but also that every such sale shall be subject to tax in New Jersey. New Jersey licensees are thus, therefore, reciprocally protected from unfair competition with manufacturers and merchants of New York, Pennsylvania or any other State. The taking out of a transportation license for the nominal sum of $200 does not cure the absence of a manufacturer's or wholesaler's license which requires the payment of a substantial sum.

The whole problem both of enforcement and of taxation is thus resolved into the single question of control.

Compliance with New Jersey Standards.

The Commissioner purposes shortly, for the purpose of effecting adequate control over the liquor traffic, to require that all licensees may purchase and sell only such alcoholic beverages as may be purchased from manufacturers licensed by the State of New Jersey, or, if from foreign manufacturers, then only from those who have complied with the same standards to be prescribed by the Commissioner for domestic manufacturers. The idea is not to force foreign manufacturers to become licensed in New Jersey or "buy New Jersey," but rather that New Jersey manufacturers shall not be at a disadvantage with foreign producers and especially that the only alcoholic goods sold in New Jersey shall comply with New Jersey standards or else keep out. In no other way will the flood of contraband stuff now pouring into New Jersey be controlled. With such control effected, it will be taxes which will pour into the State treasury.

It is recommended, therefore, that a new section be added incorporating the foregoing underlying ideas and expressly conferring power upon the Commissioner to effect them.

Delivery Privilege

Section 25 provides that all licensees may deliver alcoholic beverages in their own vehicles, solely, however, for their own respective businesses in connection with and as defined in their respective licenses without possessing a transportation license. There is a proviso that all vehicles while so used shall be marked with transit insignia to be devised by the Commissioner.

The transit insignia has been devised, the decalcomania lithographed and everything is set ready to affix the insignia to each licensed vehicle the moment that permanent as distinguished from temporary licenses are issued and concurrently therewith. Such insignia is necessary as an integral part of the plan of control of transportation now in process of being fully worked out. There is no authority in the Commissioner to charge licensees for affixing such insignia, and so far as each licensee has but one vehicle there is no reason why there should be. But when a licensee has several hundred trucks the cost of the transit insignia themselves plus the cost of affixing it under the supervision of State inspectors becomes prohibitive unless the licensee pays for the privilege of the extra vehicles. As the law now stands, the one license covers all the trucks of a given licensee. It is, therefore, recommended that provision be made to operate, even retroactively if necessary, that each licensee shall be entitled without charge to transit insignia for one vehicle but that for each extra vehicle to be licensed he shall pay the sum of $2 per vehicle.

Much has been said in the public prints to the effect that neither retail consumption nor distribution licensees should be permitted to make deliveries in municipalities other than the particular one where the license is issued. The Commission understands the point of view and is sympathetic with the objective of such proponents which translated into action would require separate licenses in each municipality, but is nevertheless of firm opinion that public policy is best served, so far as delivery by any licensee of New Jersey is concerned, whether State or municipal, by disregarding municipal boundaries in cases of delivery of alcoholic beverages exactly the same as those boundaries are disregarded in the sale and delivery of any other commodity. Sound economics require that fair competition within the State shall take its own course; that on general principles the sale and delivery of alcoholic beverages should be assimilated to sales and delivery of any other commodity subject only (1) to those considerations affected with a real public interest as, for instance, the back room or slot machine evils and other matters affecting the health, morals, safety and general welfare of the people as a whole; (2) to taxation of the special privilege. Overregulation of an industry produces its own crop of evils.

Enforcement Provisions

Sections 47 to 70, both inclusive, provide the mechanics of enforcement. In the absence of longer experience, no line for line analysis of the several enforcement provisions will be attempted. There are certain major propositions, however, which should be brought to your attention, viz.:

(1) The Act provides that seized illicit beverages shall be held by the Commissioner for thirty days and then destroyed. Seized property other than illicit beverages is to be sold by the Commissioner at public sale for the use of the State.

But no seized property shall be either sold or destroyed except upon order of a magistrate. If any alcoholic beverage is subject to destruction, the magistrate may, in lieu of ordering such destruction, direct the State Department of Health to analyze such alcoholic beverage and upon being satisfied that it is of a standard suitable for medicinal purposes may order that the same be retained by the Commissioner for the use of State institutions and all free hospitals.

No valid reason is perceived as to why the administrative work of this Department should be clogged or retarded or more expense incurred by the mere red tape of having a magistrate decide whether or not the property should be sold or destroyed. Nor, since repeal, is there any valid reason for sheer waste, via destruction of a legitimate commodity, providing, of course, that it is pure and wholesome. Why should a justice of the peace issue orders to the State Department of Health or the Commissioner of this Department as to what disposition to make of seized alcoholic beverages or of other seized unlawful property. The duty to exercise sound discretion in the premises should be imposed upon the Commissioner and he should be held strictly responsible, but he should have the latitude to make enforcement pay its own way by sale when that remedy is appropriate, or in cases where sale cannot be advantageously effected but the purity is such that the commodity may be safely and advantageously used by State institutions and hospitals to save the sacrifice of a sale at which there may perhaps be few or no bidders, and in those cases apply it to some good economic or charitable use.

There is no necessity for the expense and delay of intervention of a magistrate in order to prevent confiscation, because in the event of sale the claim can attach to the proceeds and there will be no confiscation, and in the case of destruction or delivery to a hospital or State institution, the rights of the claimant can be adequately preserved by a hearing afforded in advance of such destruction or delivery with appropriate right of appeal. So far as the State Department of Health is concerned, no orders are necessary. It has already taken the initiative in volunteering to this Department all of its services and the full use of its facilities.

It is therefore recommended that the Act shall be changed to provide that all seized illicit beverages shall be held by the Commissioner for thirty days after seizure, and unless properly reclaimed within that time thereafter be sold or destroyed or delivered to State institutions and free hospitals at the discretion of the Commissioner; that all such proceedings be declared to be in rem; that in all cases in which the same are sold, all claims and liens of all third persons whatsoever against the property so sold shall be transferred from the property to the proceeds of its sale; that before such destruction or such delivery, the Commissioner shall formally cite by public notice all persons having an interest in the seized property and send notice to those he knows or believes to have any interest to appear before him on a day named not more than thirty or less than fifteen days and afford a hearing, and if the Commissioner shall thereupon determine that the property seized is illicit and orders the same sold or destroyed or delivered as aforesaid, any party considering himself aggrieved by such order may review it by a writ of certiorari, and that service of a notice of application for an allocatur shall operate as a stay until the further order of the Supreme Court or a judge thereof; that all liens against the property sold shall be transferred from the property to the proceeds of its sale; that the advertisement of the citation shall be deemed notice to all persons interested in the property; that all moneys received by the Commissioner shall be reserved during the time allowed any person an opportunity of establishing the right thereto and shall immediately thereafter be accounted for by the Commissioner as in the case of license fees.

(2) The Act provides that unlawful property includes not only the illicit alcoholic beverages but also the vehicle containing the same, but excepts the vehicle of a common carrier. No good reason is perceived why the vehicle of the carrier should not be prima facie subject to seizure. If the carrier can satisfactorily establish his good faith in the premises, that might well be a valid reason for exonerating the vehicle from sale and to justify an order from the Commissioner directing restoration. But the burden of proof should be on the carrier; as it is, he is entirely exempt from any seizure. It is therefore a convenient avenue of abuse.

It is recommended that the Act be amended along the lines above indicated. More than once, already, the Department has ascertained that shippers acting in good faith have engaged public trucking companies to convey shipments of alcoholic beverages into or through the State of New Jersey upon the false representation that the truckman was licensed, and the seizure has been made because the trucking company itself was wholly at fault in not having any transportation license. The real offender saves his vehicle. The innocent party loses his goods. The injustice can be corrected in the manner above mentioned.

(3) All seized property must be advertised within 10 days after the date of seizure. The time allowed is entirely too short. Very often municipal enforcement officers making a seizure do not certify the facts in the case to the Commissioner until nearly the 10 days have elapsed. Such advertisement unlike the advertisement of an application for a license is purely pro forma and designed only to satisfy the requisites of due process of law in legal proceedings in rem. The time of making the advertisement is not the material thing but rather the giving of formal notice to the whole world declaring the seizure. Time limitations therefore of such advertisement should be removed.

(4) Section 58 provides in effect that a search warrant shall be good for a period of 10 days after issuance thereof. This is open to abuse because it might be used as a club for blackmail by a dishonest officer over the head of some person merely suspected of violating the law. If not served within 48 hours after issuance it should be returned.

(5) Section 63 properly provides that any person who shall intentionally search any private dwelling occupied exclusively for dwelling purposes without a warrant therefor and who shall maliciously and without probable cause, and without a wararnt therefor, search any building, premises, vehicle or place, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. This section, however, should not operate to deter or intimidate duly authorized deputies, inspectors, investigators, police officers and law enforcement agencies generally from doing their full duty or make them act at their own personal peril if they should fail to be able to prove to the satisfaction of a jury that they acted honestly. Nor should the stopping and searching of vehicles suspected of transporting alcoholic beverages unlawfully be visited by a penalty upon any officer of the law unless it is proved beyond a reasonable doubt that same was done maliciously and without any reasonable or probable cause. This section should be accordingly amended.

The Exception Re Personal Consumption

It is an unpleasant but imperative duty to bring this matter to your attention.

The dominant motif of this whole legislation was that every person in the alcoholic beverage business in any capacity must be licensed as the first step toward control. It appears at the threshold of the Act (Section 1 being merely definitions). Section 2 reads "It shall be unlawful to manufacture, sell, transport, rectify, blend, treat, fortify, mix, process or distribute alcoholic beverages in this State except in accordance with this Act and except for personal consumption." The laudable motive for inserting the last mentioned exception was to unshackle our citizenry from the hypocrisy and secret evasion of law so prevalent during prohibition days and so often justified in private conscience by the entire absence of profit motive. So far, so good. The Commissioner believes, however, that these intriguing words "except for personal consumption" will open a wide and a most convenient avenue of escape to violators of the law, and will eventually render nugatory the whole Control Act because whenever anyone who is operating an illicit still or is rectifying in a cellar is caught in the act, or whose goods are seized in transit, the virtuous and almost impregnable defense will inevitably be "I am doing this only for my own personal consumption." Mere possession, mere operation, merely being caught in the act will not be even prima facie evidence of guilt, because the prosecuting authorities will have to establish a negative, to wit, that the manufacture, the distribution, the rectifying, the transportation was NOT FOR PERSONAL CONSUMPTION. The intent of the wrongdoer resides largely in his own mind and aside from the exceptional instances of proved overt acts, the violator will play leapfrog with the police. All the combined efforts of enforcement agencies throughout the State will be circumvented and defeated. It is an "out" which opens all outdoors as an avenue of escape and will result in practical nullification of the Act unless you remedy this situation immediately and every good citizen in deference to the supreme interest of organized society gladly volunteers surrender of a fraction of his own precious liberties.

The personal exception should be stricken out. There is no good reason, since Repeal, why anybody should manufacture for personal consumption. It should be made a misdemeanor.

As to transportation, that can be simply handled by declaring that liquor may be transported in one's own vehicle when it is in good faith intended solely for personal consumption and provided that not more than a quarter barrel of beer, or one gallon of wine or two quarts of other liquor may be transported within any consecutive period of 24 hours. If any citizen or group for a special single occasion desires to transport in quantities larger than those above specified and only for immediate personal consumption, they should be enabled to get a special permit upon proof of good faith for $10, limited to the temporary particular occasion with appropriate safeguards and conditions imposed by the Commissioner.

As to mixing, the law should contain a proviso that it should not be operative to prevent any person from mixing any drink intended and actually used for immediate personal consumption.

This completes the ambit it is believed, so that henceforth no honest citizen has any excuse to violate the alcoholic beverage laws and no commercial violator has practical immunity or effective alibi when masquerading in the guise of an honest citizen.

The Objectives of Control

The primary object of control of the manufacture, sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages is control itself. The inborn and ingrowing evils and the attendant temptations of the traffic, unless subjected to proper safeguards of which licensing is but one of the mechanics, are such that public policy demands that it should be absolutely controlled and kept in bounds. The Act itself declares: "This Act is intended to be remedial of abuses inherent in liquor traffic." The age-old problem of liquor has been such as to cause our court of last resort to declare that it is sui generis. It is profoundly affected with public interest. The Act itself provides "it shall be the duty of the Commissioner to supervise the manufacture, distribution and sale of alcoholic beverages in such a manner as to promote temperance and eliminate the racketeer and bootlegger." That means control. Nothing less will suffice.

The secondary but no mean objective is to make this traffic bear the full tax which the privilege should contribute to the common weal.

Once you have declared what that tax shall be, nothing subject to it should escape. Complete subjection to taxation depends entirely upon complete control. The problem is one—not two. Whatever theoretical advantages may accrue from placing the collection of the alcoholic tax into another department, every practical consideration calls for the consolidation of the Beverage Division of the State Tax Department into the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. Even brief experience shows the tremendous economies that may be effected by such consolidation and the prevention of numberless overlaps, duplications, counter-certifications and multiplication of records. Attempts heretofore made to combine control reports with taxation reports proved abortive because the two departments could not agree. Subjecting licensees to wholly unnecessary duplication of reports, in whole or in part, conveys an impression of bureaucratic exercise of arbitrary authority. The license is a privilege—a kind of a franchise. The licensee who lives up to the law in every respect ought not to be burdened with dual obligations when both desired objectives of the State can be more simply and singly attained. Collection of the taxes that can be derived through effective control, but which have heretofore escaped because of the absence of control, will not only enable the State to relieve the tax burden now so onerous but will also, by widening the base, enable the tax to be just so much less in amount and so a tax not so high as to constitute a differential adverse to the honest licensee and so in turn enable the consumer to purchase honest goods at a price more commensurate with their true value than at present.

While in general taxes should be administered by a single department, especially when of same or similar nature, the principle should not be invoked blindly. The tax on alcoholic beverages, because of the very nature of the subject matter, is radically different from taxes on realty or railroads or utilities or decedents' estates. The latter are appropriately grouped. The liquor problem is still sui generis. Control and taxation should go hand in hand. The two State agencies should be consolidated.

Salaries

Salary limits fixed by the Act are utterly inadequate to attract and retain the character and calibre of men desired in this service. Men should be paid a living wage. There should also be the incentive to develop an even better service, which cannot be had with fixed salary limits as low as the present Act.

Appropriation

The tentative appropriation of $100,000 for administering the Act was inserted as a sheer guess estimated on what the old beer and light wines division had cost. The present Act is on a much wider scale. Instead of one class of license, there are 12. Instead of less than 500 licenses, there are already about 8,000 and the list grows larger daily. There were no provisions for enforcement in the old beer act. It conferred no police powers whatsoever.

The present Act contemplates warfare along every battle-front. The administration will pay its own way. Already it has taken in by way of State license fees $273,893.73. Substantially speaking, this represents only a half year's license fees. These figures do not include the $1,602,795 paid into municipal treasuries for license fees as reported to this office through December 31st, with 25 per centum of the municipalities still to be heard from, including Jersey City and Atlantic City. The centralized State Department has heavy responsibilities in connection with each one of the 564 municipalities.

All this is entirely beside the major factor that with adequate control established, taxes in staggering amounts will come into State and municipal treasuries. Experience indicates cogently that with proper measures and men and enough money control can be effected and it will be if the appropriation is made commensurate with the work to be accomplished. Full and strict account of the stewardship will be rendered.

Action on Recommendations

The pressure of the work has been so constant and so great that no time has been available to cast the foregoing recommendations made under respective captions into concrete form of drafted amendments. These will be gladly prepared and submitted if you desire.

Whatever is done by way of legislation should be done with all convenient speed. Permanent licenses have to be issued by February 6th. Rules and regulations based on the Act are being ground out daily. Complete, speedy disposition of all legislation pertaining to liquor, one way or the other, will be highly conducive to certainty, eliminate confusion, and very helpful in administration.

Appreciation

This report cannot be closed without expressing appreciation of the help of State Tax Commissioner J. H. Thayer Martin and his Deputy George W. Grimm, Jr., at the threshold of this work in relating their experiences and making constructive suggestions, nor for the loyal and devoted work of the men and women in this Department, without whose constant, intensive, time-disregarding co-operation the tremendous volume of work accomplished to date could not have been effected, and to the countless officials throughout the State who have with unanimity promised co-operation and rendered that co-operation in full measure, and to you for wholehearted expression of confidence.

Respectfully submitted,

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY WASHINGTON GRANGE, No. 117
January 9, 1934

WHEREAS, New Jersey has an antiquated and out-worn system of taxation under which eighty-five per cent. of the total taxes are exacted from real estate, while all but four States in the Union have so revised their systems as to reduce real estate taxes to an average of less than forty per cent of the whole; and

WHEREAS, The New Jersey State Grange started a movement at its annual convention in 1932 to revise the tax system and broaden the tax base for the purpose of reducing real estate taxes; and

WHEREAS, The soundness of the Grange tax revision program has been recognized by many groups of the citizens and leading individuals and is the foremost item in the Grange-Farm Bureau 1934 legislative program; and

WHEREAS, Home and farm ownership is discouraged by the provisions of the existing tax system and such owners constitute one of the most dependable groups of citizens and are thus unfairly discriminated against by the State; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Washington Grange favors immediate action by the State Legislature in revising the State tax system so that taxes on real estate be reduced by at least fifty per cent and that other forms of taxation be substituted to replace the amount thus reduced.

NEW JERSEY AUTOMATIC MERCHANDISERS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 30, 1934.

Clerk of the Assembly, State House, Trenton, N. J.

Dear Sir:

We would very much appreciate being accorded a hearing by the Committee on the Powell bill, reported favorably out of the Senate Judiciary Committee on Monday, January 29th, before it is presented to the Assembly for vote. We would like this hearing before the bill is put up for passage in the Assembly by reason of certain provisions which are so broad as to affect a legitimate industry.

We have no objection whatsoever to any bill, however stringent, which is aimed at the slot machine evil, that is, slot machines as we ordinarily know them. We have, however, been informed that the legal definition of slot machines includes every coin-operated machine, such as vending machines, and telephones even.

We do not want any bill passed with such broad terms that it will adversely affect the industry sponsored by this association. The members of this association are in the business of automatic vending, such as candies, gums, cigarettes, handkerchiefs, and the like, and also in the amusement automatic machine field, such as the bagatelle games, which, as you know, are perfectly legal, and have been so held many times by courts of this and other States.

We will be glad to co-operate with you in your commendable attempt to stamp out the illegitimate slot machines, but feel that the bill should be so phrased as to effect this purpose without adversely affecting what is clearly a legitimate industry.

I will appreciate a prompt reply.

Yours respectfully,

NEW JERSEY AUTOMATIC MERCHANDISERS ASSOCIATION, INC.,

By: L. M. STEINBERG,

President.

Pursuant to the resolution adopted, the Speaker then introduced to the House of Assembly the Honorable James R. Erwin, of Jersey City, Hudson County, who had been selected to address the members of the Legislature in commemoration of the 125th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

The Honorable James R. Erwin then addressed the House as follows:

Mr. Speaker and Ladies and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly of New Jersey:

The honor and privilege of addressing you on this one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln is one which I prize very highly. The time allotted to such a vast and thrilling subject confines me, necessarily, to but a few thoughts concerning the life and character of the sixteenth President of the United States.

From the moment of his birth on February 12, 1809, in a poor log cabin on a barren farm near Hodgensville, Kentucy, until his death in the early hours of April 15, 1865, he was, in the deepest sense, a man of destiny. The hand of God was upon him, moulding him in the fires of poverty and adversity, leading him in the ways of truth and implicity, and strengthening his soul to bear a burden the like of which no mortal man, before or since, has been called upon to bear.

So much has been spoken and written about Abraham Lincoln in the 69 years which have elapsed since his death, that to attempt a detailed sketch of his life at this time would be in the nature of a twice-told tale. I conceive it to be your purpose, in pausing thus to do him honor, to dwell for a few moments on the significance of his simple but majestic career, and in so doing drink deep of the inspiration which lies therein for all American citizens, yes, and for all right minded people wherever they may be, for Abraham Lincoln, my friends, belongs to all the world.

Born in abject poverty, forced by circumstance to the hardest physical labors to keep body and soul together, acquiring an education by sheer force of will power, we see him weathering the storms and vicissitudes of childhood and youth and early manhood, following his star with dogged persistency and grim determination. As he himself said, his early life could be condensed into a single sentence found in Grey's "Elegy in a Country Churchyard"; "The short and simple annals of the poor."

We see him growing up with what was then the west and as Carl Sandburg says, he was truly a man of the west—as truly as Robert Burns belonged to Scotland and Hans Christian Andersen belonged to northern Europe. In New Salem, Illinois, not far from Springfield he tried his hand at many things—a veritable jack-of-all-trades. A boatman on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, a farm laborer, the tireless rail-splitter (a thousand tough walnut rails for a pair of brown jean trousers), postmaster of the village, part owner of a country store, a surveyor—at all of these he tried his hand while failure and discouragement dogged his footsteps. Our hearts break with his in the tragedy of the death of Ann Rutledge, considered by most biographers as the one real love of Lincoln's life. From that day on, Lincoln, as his law partner Hernden expresses it, "dripped melancholy." Over her grave is a monument bearing these beautiful words of Edgar Lee Masters:

"Out of me unworthy and unknown
The vibrations of deathless music:
'With malice toward none, with charity for all,'
Out of me the forgiveness of millions towards millions
And the beneficent face of a nation
Shining with justice and truth.
I am Ann Rutledge who sleeps beneath these weeds,

Beloved in life of Abraham Lincoln,
Wedded to him, not through union
But through separation:
Bloom forever, O, Republic,
From the dust of my bosom!"

The scene changes once more. The struggling lawyer and young member of the Illinois Legislature has established himself in Springfield, the State Capital. He marries Mary Todd, after a hectic and bewildering period of uncertainty and plunges into politics. And politics in those days meant the question of slavery. When the Missouri Compromise was repealed in 1854, largely through the efforts of the brilliant Stephen A. Douglas, Senator from Illinois, Abraham Lincoln's Star of Destiny began to shine more vividly. Clay and Webster had died shortly before and men began to realize that the "irrepressible conflict" was not far off. A new and rugged force had come into being with the formation of the Republican Party in 1854. It attracted to it the remnants of the old Whig Party and most of the elements of the country who were not allied with one or the other factions of the Democratic Party. Events marched on relentlessly and in 1858, in that remarkable series of debates between Douglas and Lincoln, it became apparent that this man of the west was the man of the hour. Defeated for the Senate, the Presidency was his and in 1860, with the Democratic Party divided into northern and southern wings, each with candidates in the field, Abraham Lincoln was elected as the sixteenth President of the United States.

It is difficult to portray the gloomy forebodings and the doubt and uncertainty of those early days in 1861. South Carolina led the procession of secession in December, 1860. War was inevitable, and everyone knew it. The President's life was threatened on every hand, but quietly and patiently he followed his course. A joint session of the Senate and House of Assembly of New Jersey paid him tribute on February 21, 1861, as he visited Trenton on his way to Washington.

The final scene at Washington. Four years of anguish and heart-breaking responsibilities crushed him, but sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust he carried on, freeing four million slaves from shameful bondage and saving the Union. Lee surrenders on April 9, 1865. The War is over, and six days later Abraham Lincoln is dead. His poor, worn-out body is laid to rest and his name is enshrined forever in the hearts of a grateful nation.

The cynic says, "Well, what about it?" And, my friends, there are many today who seem to delight in the attempt to destroy and tear down the characters and records of our national heroes. Both Washington and Lincoln have their calumnators today who seem to take foul joy in casting mud at their portraits. A nation without heroes and the inspiration of hero-worship is doomed. We need Lincoln in our lives today. We need the calm, sane, charitable outlook and rugged courage and righteousness which made him great. These vile defamers would have us believe Abraham Lincoln was merely a lucky politician, who trimmed his sails to popular clamor and muddled through the Civil War with his tongue in his cheek. They call him an atheist, uncouth and unprincipled. I say they lie, and the record speaks for itself. Could such a one have written a letter like this?

EXECUTIVE MANSION WASHINGTON,

Mrs. Bixby,
Boston, Massachusetts.

DEAR MADAM—I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts, that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice on the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN."

Or could such a one have given utterance to the Gettysburg Address or the Second Inaugural?

"Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn by the lash shall be paid by another drawn by the sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, that 'the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.' "

"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds to care for him who shall borne the battle and for his widow and his orphans, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

That record, ladies and gentlemen, is crystal clear. I feel his kindly, brooding spirit watching over this dear land of his and ours. Let us take heart and courage in these troublous times and rededicate ourselves in the Lincoln spirit to the task before us; saying as we do, Thank God for Abraham Lincoln. And to paraphrase his own words on Washington—To add brightness to the Sun or glory to the name of Abraham Lincoln were alike impossible. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked, deathless splendor leave it shining on.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
February 14, 1934.

Hon. Fred'k A. Brodesser,
Clerk of the House of Assembly,
Trenton, New Jersey.

DEAR MR. BRODESSER—Receipt of your letter of February 13th, enclosing a copy of resolution adopted by the House of Assembly on February 12, 1934, is acknowledged.

It is fortunate that I was able to comply with the request of the House of Assembly since I am leaving tonight with Mrs. Eisner upon a Mediterranean Cruise which had been planned some weeks ago.

I have dictated a report which gives not only the information requested in the resolution, but also other data which will give the members of the House of Assembly, I believe, a better picture of our organization and program.

I am preparing a number of copies of the report for each member of the House for his personal use. These copies will be in your hands not later than Monday, February 19, 1934.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) J. Lester Eisner,
Administrator,
N. J. Industrial Recovery Act.

Mr. Naughright moved that the communication and following reports be received and spread in full upon the Minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

REPORT OF J. LESTER EISNER,
ADMINISTRATOR, NEW JERSEY STATE RECOVERY ACT

To the members of the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

Pursuant to the directions contained in your Resolution of February 12th, 1934, I have the honor to submit the following report, covering the inquiries in the Resolution and giving other information which may be of interest or service to you:

Early in August, 1933, headquarters for the New Jersey State Recovery Board, appointed by the National Government to administer the National Recovery Program within the State of New Jersey, was established in the Industrial Office Building, at 1060 Broad Street, Newark, New Jersey. This was made possible through the generosity of the owners of the building, who put at the disposal of the Board practically one block of floor space.

The Board consisted of the following divisions:

1. Labor
2. Legal
   (a) Interpretive
   (b) Complaints and compliance
3. Speakers
4. Public relations
5. Women
6. Statistics

Personnel and Pay

The personnel of these divisions were recruited from the emergency work and relief bureau, the emergency unemployment relief committee, and supplemented by volunteers. Within three weeks a staff of more than four hundred active volunteer workers was functioning.

In September it was found that the volunteer workers could not entirely carry on the program, and request was made to the State House Commission for financial aid, and an appropriation of ten thousand dollars was allotted from the emergency fund. Twenty-five of the volunteer workers were placed upon a paid status as of August 24th. Their designations are as follows:

The total payroll for non-volunteers was approximately $2,000 per month. In addition to the payroll expenses, there were such incidental expenditures as telephone, telegraph, office supplies and traveling.

The entire executive force, including a staff of lawyers, who devoted their entire time to the work, served without pay.

STATE RECOVERY BOARD ACTIVITIES

A large part of the work of the New Jersey State Recovery Board consisted of organizing and cooperating in the organization of committees for the dissemination of National Recovery Administration information, and for the purpose of obtaining compliance under the President's Re-employment Agreement. In all, eight hundred communities were organized within the State. There were six hundred and thirty local NRA committees and one hundred and seventy local compliance boards.

Although the 1930 census listed but seventy-odd thousand employers in New Jersey, 93,575 employers signed the President's Re-employment Agreement.

It is of interest to note that in less than three months, under the program of the New Jersey State Recovery Board, more than seventy-five hundred individual communications were received and answered; one hundred fifty bulletins were issued to various local boards; thirty thousand five hundred letters were forwarded; two thousand four hundred sixty-nine volunteer women workers were enrolled, and more than twenty-five hundred newspaper releases were sent.

Complaints and Compliance

One of the functions of the State Recovery Board, from its inception until November 13th, 1933, when the Federal Government established within the State the Regional Labor Board, was that of handling labor disputes. The complaints and compliance division, in conjunction with the labor division, satisfactorily settled more than eighty major labor disputes and strikes.

Due to the passage, on August 31st, 1933, of Chapter 369, Laws of 1933, we were able to effectively obtain compliance with the President's Re-employment Agreement. New Jersey was a pioneer in this respect. It was the only State in the Union that put "teeth" in the PRA through the medium of a State law. Washington, and the country at large, looked to us as trail blazers in creating fundamental policies upholding the National Recovery Program.

STATE CODES AND THEIR ADMINISTRATION

The New Jersey Industrial Recovery Act, Chapter 372, Laws of 1933, became a law on August 21st, 1933, and was designed to promote cooperation with, and to further the principles of the National Industrial Recovery Act. The period of the operation of the State Act runs concurrently with that of the National Act.

Codes Approved

Eight codes, up to the date of this report, have been approved by Governor Moore under the New Jersey Act. These codes were submitted by members of the Laundry, Retail Solid Fuel, Auto Body Rebuilders, Retail Fuel Oil, Cleaning and Dyeing, Household Goods and Storage, Wholesale and Retail Food and Coat and Suit industries.

Whenever the term "Code Authority" is used in any of the following paragraphs on specific codes, it means the Code Authority for the particular trade or industry referred to in the text. The Code Authority is not a part of the State Recovery Administration.

Laundry Code

The code for the Laundry Industry in New Jersey was sponsored by the New Jersey Laundryowners' Association, organized thirty-three years ago, and incorporated in 1919. The Director of the code is Harold C. Buckelew, who, for fifteen years, has been the Executive Secretary of the New Jersey Laundryowners' Association, and is a member of the advisory committee that wrote and filed the National code of that industry.

Retail Solid Fuel

The code for the Retail Solid Fuel Industry in New Jersey was approved November 10th, 1933. This code was sponsored by the Fuel Merchants Association of New Jersey, incorporated in March, 1933, representing a federation of associations throughout the State, some of which have been functioning continuously for more than fifty years. The Director of the code is Spencer A. Jones, an engineer and an authority in the coal and fuel oil industry.

Auto Rebuilding

The code for the Auto Rebuilding Industry in New Jersey was approved November 10th, 1933. The Director is Daniel H. Rosen. The code was sponsored by the Auto Rebuilders Association of New Jersey. Mr. Rosen is the general counsel of the National Auto Rebuilders' Association and the one who drafted and presented the National Code for the industry in Washington.

Retail Fuel Oil

The code for the Retail Fuel Oil Industry in New Jersey was sponsored by the Fuel Merchants Association of New Jersey, incorporated March, 1933, the same State association which sponsored the code for the Retail Solid Fuel Industry. The Director is Spencer A. Jones.

Cleaning and Dyeing

The code for the Cleaning and Dyeing Industry in the State of New Jersey was approved November 17th, 1933, and was sponsored by the New Jersey Cleaners and Dyers' Association, a merger of organizations which are more than twelve years old, and the United Retail Tailors, Cleaners and Dyers' Association of New Jersey, an association more than eight years old, representing five thousand units in the industry. Isadore H. Colton is Director of the code and was formerly engaged in the dyeing and cleaning business. Later he became a lawyer and for years has been attorney of the New Jersey Cleaners and Dyers' Association. Mr. Colton was a proponent of the National code in Washington.

Household Goods, Storage and Moving

The code for the Household Goods, Storage and Moving Trade was approved January 16, 1934, and was sponsored by the New Jersey Furniture Warehousemen's Association, an organization founded about fifteen years ago, which assisted actively in the preparation of the proposed national code for the trade, and several county associations in existence for several years. The Code Authority selected as its director James E. Mulligan, Secretary and manager of the Knickerbocker Storage Warehouse Company of Newark, and President of the New Jersey Furniture Warehousemen's Association.

Wholesale and Retail Grocery

The code for the Wholesale and Retail Grocery Industry was approved January 27th, 1934, and was sponsored by the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Jersey, composed of most of the State membership of the national association, which is more than fifty years old, and the Retail Grocers' Association, which is forty-five years old. It has selected as its director, Carl Gegenheimer, Executive Secretary of the Wholesale Grocers' Association. Both of the State associations represent more than 80 per cent of the wholesale and retail grocery trade of New Jersey.

Coat and Suit

The code for the Coat and Suit Industry in New Jersey was approved January 10th, 1934, sponsored by the New Jersey Garment Manufacturers' Association, which represents practically the entire industry and was organzied seven years ago, incorporated under the laws of New Jersey in August, 1933. The Director is Anthony Shimko, a former manufacturer, who had been for several years the president of the New Jersey Garment Manufacturers' Association, before that body was incorporated under State laws.

Selection of Code Authorities

While the membership of the foregoing industries selected their own code authorities, due regard was given to representation by geographical districts of New Jersey, and to the interests of various branches of the industry. Each member of the industry was eligible for membership in the State Association. In every case one non-member of the industry, without vote or compensation, has been appointed as a representative of the Governor. All members of the code authority, in addition to the Governor's representative, serve as such without compensation.

SET-UP OF STATE ADMINISTRATION

On or about December 1st, 1933, Governor Moore, by executive order, appointed J. Lester Eisner as Administrator of the New Jersey Industrial Recovery Act. The then executive personnel of the New Jersey State Recovery Board, the Federal organization, became the executive personnel of the State Recovery Administration. Most of the clerical and stenographic workers originally taken from the unemployment lists by the State organization of the National Recovery Administration continued in the employ of the State administration.

RULES FOR SETTING UP STATE CODES

Under the State Act, provisions have been made by the administration for the granting when, as and if industry within the State so desires, of codes of fair competition. Rules laid down by the administration as prerequisites for the granting of State codes to safeguard the membership of the industry, labor and the consumer, are as follows:

1. A trade association or other representative group sponsoring a code must prepare a draft and present the same to the administration.

2. The sponsors must be truly representative of the industry in New Jersey.

3. There must be an overwhelming majority in favor of the proposed code.

4. There must be an urgent need for a code.

5. Labor and the general public must be protected.

6. The code must be basically the same as the National code, when one exists, with due regard to local conditions.

In the process of approving a State code and the setting up of the code authority, the State administration requires that the following steps be taken:

1. A preliminary conference is held and if a general demand and proper sponsorship are indicated, the matter is then set down for a preliminary hearing.

2. After a draft of the proposed code is presented, the administration requests the following information for a preliminary hearing:

A. Name of all the products of the industry.
B. Scope and size of the industry in New Jersey.
C. Number of members in the industry in New Jersey.
D. Number of employees in New Jersey.
E. Aggregate invested capital in New Jersey.
F. Aggregate annual sales in New Jersey.
G. Aggregate production capacity in New Jersey.
H. Trade associations.
    (a) Description of National, State and County associations.
I. Representation of association sponsoring the code.
    (a) Total number of members.
    (b) Total number of non-members.
J. Volume of business of members of the sponsoring association.
    (a) Volume of business of non-members.
K. Officers of association.
L. All statistical data.
M. Constitution and by-laws of sponsoring organization or organizations.
N. National code activities.

Preliminary and Public Hearings

3. A preliminary hearing is held.

4. Advance notices of public hearings are published in the State press, and the proponents are required to give due notice to the membership of the industry.

5. At the public hearing stenographic records of proceedings are kept. The hearing is attended by representatives of the press, and the public at large is afforded the opportunity of presenting its full views to the Code Administration.

6. If the code is approved as to policy, it is referred to the Department of the Attorney General for view as to legality.

7. When the code is finally approved, it is presented to the Governor for his signature, accompanied by a statement of the Administrator and the approval of the Department of the Attorney General.

8. Upon approval of the code by the Governor, the Code Authority, selected by the membership of the industry at large, elects its own Director, who serves with or without salary, in the discretion of the Code Authority. The appointment of counsel, as well as other salaried employees, is entirely within the discretion of the Code Authority. At least one Code Authority has deemed it advisable not to retain general counsel.

Why Industry Wants State Codes

An analysis of the various reasons assigned to the State Recovery Administration for the approval of a State code would indicate that the following are among the main reasons why industries have asked for codes under the State Law:

1. National codes establish the basis for trade practices in forty-eight states, and do not always give due regard to local conditions in each and every state.

2. State codes use all basic provisions of National codes.

3. While our State codes include the principles of National codes, they are able to make provision for unfair trade practices which exist in New Jersey, and which have not been dealt with under the National codes.

4. Industries operating under our State codes are able to regulate their own internal affairs, without dictation.

5. Every branch of a coded industry receives a voice and direct representation in the code authority.

6. The interests of the minority groups in State industries are safeguarded.

7. The limited area comprehended in the operation of a State code permits the code authority to be in direct contact with every portion of the State.

8. Compliance, upon which hinges successful operation of coded industries, is obtained more readily through the more efficient and speedy machinery of State courts.

9. The close cooperation afforded through the medium of the State act will insure permanent benefits to coded industries.

10. Through better policing, the vicious practice of increasing the hours of labor and reducing wages is effectually eliminated under the State law.

11. In certain cases the National Code Authorities have endeavored, without success, to obtain compliance in New Jersey. This failure has been largely attributed to the location of the office of the National Code Authority in another State. All code authorities under the State Act, being constituted entirely from within the State, are in direct contact with the industries supervised by them.

12. Where National codes have failed to correct unfair trade practices within the State, or are claimed by the industry to be discriminating in their administration, such industry is enabled to receive relief under the State Act. A concrete example within this classification is the Coat and Suit Industry. In applying for a State code, this industry contended that, under the operation of the National code, labels had been denied to New Jersey contractors, with the result that the business of a five million dollar industry had been very seriously damaged.

13. Some industries have contended that, under their National codes, many flagrant violations have continued for a long-extended period. They point out that there has been a significant respect for State codes, due to the prompt action of code authorities and our State courts. In one industry, the cleaners and dyers, regulated by both State and National codes, the terms of both codes being identical, compliance was obtained under State laws while the same offender continued to violate the National code across the State border.

14. Many industries have complained that they have received no representation whatsoever upon the code authority of the National code, to the detriment of the State industry.

Chart of Approved State Codes

Attached hereto is a chart setting forth the codes which have been approved under the State Act. It contains general information regarding the sponsorship of codes, percentage of industry represented by the sponsors, scope of industry, director and salaries, and attorneys and salaries. It will be noted that two State Directors of codes receive no salaries; that in one case the code authority of the industry saw fit to use its director as counsel, and that in several cases the code authorities determined to dispense with counsel altogether. [Chart will be found on last page of this booklet.]

Industry Operates Codes

The best indication of complete autonomy on the part of coded industries, in this State, is the absolute freedom with which they have determined for themselves all business and procedure in connection with the operation of their respective codes. It should further be noted, as stated elsewhere in this report, that all appointments of officials and employees, also all salaries and expenses, are determined upon and paid by the code authorities of their respective industries.

Expense of Operation; How Borne

The popularity of State codes with the industries which have obtained them indicates that such industries regard the machinery set up under the State act as the most effective means of combating unfair practices and unfair competition in New Jersey. Through the ability to police itself and to determine what steps, if any, should be taken against violators, the industry has a sense of security. There has been no interference by the State administration with these important rights which have been given to coded industries from the very outset. In every case industries have been cautioned by the State administration, when applying for codes, to consider the question of expense, since the industry necessarily has to defray the expense of regulating its own affairs. The representatives of the coded industries on frequent occasions have stated that the cost of administering their industries was nominal when weighed against the great advantages of eliminating unfair trade practices and that this cost was not transferred to the consumer.

The State administration has made a survey of the industries that have been coded in this State and finds an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the continuance of State codes for these industries.

STATE AND NATIONAL CODES

Much has been said, in this State, about the attitude of the National Administration on State codes. At various times the State administration consulted with chiefs of the National Recovery Administration in Washington. Definite assurances were received from them that the State program was a contribution to the National Recovery program. The only criticism, to our knowledge, which has emanated from Washington has been from a subordinate in the legal department who is said to have written several letters to residents of New Jersey disparaging the use of State codes. When this was called to the attention of Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for NRA, he sent the following telegram to the State Administrator:

"1W BN 161 GOVT
NR Washington DC Feb 7 714P
J. Lester Eisner

State Administration State Recovery Act 1060 Broad Newark, N. J.

Please correct any impression that the National Recovery Administration is seeking in any way to interfere with the exercise of full discretion by New Jersey State authorities in adopting or administering State legislation in conformity with National Recovery Program Stop We have sought to obtain the co-operation of States in carrying forward policies of NIRA both in the field of exclusive Federal jurisdiction and in dealing with local matters in harmony with National Program Stop Particularly no one is authorized to put the NRA in the position of advocating the passage or rejection of specific legislation covering matters wholly within the sphere of State action Stop Any opinions expressed as to general policy were not intended for use in influencing action on specific legislation Stop We have always been ready and are prepared to confer with State officials in aid of handling questions in which we are jointly interested, but we will not participate in any campaign for or against proposed legislation.

DONALD R. RICHBERG,
General Counsel."

Thus was it made clear that the critical statements do not represent the official views of the National Recovery Administration.

Statement of Charles Edison

Following the receipt of Mr. Richberg's telegram, Charles Edison, New Jersey Director of the National Emergency Council, made the following statement, as reported in the press:

"I have read the telegram received by Colonel J. Lester Eisner concerning the relations between Federal and State recovery program activities. A literal interpretation of the telegram is in complete accord with what I have preached and practiced for a long time.

"The foundations of our scheme of government were built on the very practical theory that a balance between State and Federal authority must always be properly maintained. It would be unfortunate if the inference were drawn from the present episode that either State or Federal authorities were attempting to usurp authority, thereby destroying this balance, or that there was any personal conflict between the personnels of the New Jersey Recovery Administration and my office of State Director for the National Emergency Council. I have no fear but that that co-operation which has existed in the past will be continued."

Statement of National Policy

At a personal conference with Mr. Richberg on Thursday, February 8th, Mr. Richberg advised the State Recovery Administrator that an important statement of national policy would be made from Washington before the following Tuesday noon. This statement was published in the New Jersey press as an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, dated February 13th. The press report said:

"The NRA today decided to abandon past policy and encourage formation of regional codes or agreements in trades, which are not in interstate commerce."

Gen. Johnson's Statement

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson issued this statement:

"It is recognized that in the development of a program of industrial self government, where national industries must be organized nationally, we may wisely follow the theories underlying the organization of our Federal union of self-governing States, utilizing national organization and national standards, where they are nationally applicable, and providing in a practical manner for local control of local affairs."

New Policy on Intrastate Business

Particular mention is made in the article about codes for such industries as laundries and dry cleaning. To quote further from the Associated Press dispatch:

"The new policy was viewed at NRA as meeting the increasing enforcement difficulties in such trades as dry cleaning, where it has proved next to impossible to secure compliance on a nation-wide scale and in which prosecution of violators is especially difficult because their business is so clearly outside the usual scope of interstate commerce."

The above official statements would indicate that Washington does not desire to regulate and police intrastate commerce. The National Administration needs the cooperation of the States in handling such local problems.

Industry and State Codes

The strongest proponents of State codes are the industries that have voluntarily come under the operation of the New Jersey Industrial Recovery Act. The eight industries for which codes have been approved transact an estimated annual business of $225,250,000 within the State of New Jersey.

Additional State Codes Requested

There are approximately twenty-seven additional industries for which State codes are now pending. These are:

1. Trucking Industry.
2. Shoe Rebuilders Industry.
3. Linen Supply Trade.
4. Plumbing Industry.
5. Locksmith Industry.
6. Barber Code.
7. Oyster Code.
8. Retail Tobacco Dealers.
9. Wholesale Tobacco Dealers.
10. Retail Division of the Radio Trade.
11. Concrete Masonry Industry.
12. Dress Manufacturing.

13. Sign Contracting Industry.
14. Welding Industry.
15. Retail Drug Trade.
16. Retail Jewelry.
17. Flat Glass Industry.
18. Tile and Mantel Contracting.
19. Contracting Industry.
20. Window Cleaning Code.
21. Dairy and Poultry Products Industry.
22. Rug and Carpet Cleaning.
23. Retail Meat.
24. Beauty Industry.
25. Automotive Maintenance and Garage.
26. Retail Lumber.
27. Paint and Paper Hanging.

Notwithstanding the earnest efforts that are being put forth to have all of the above codes adopted, it is patent that not all these industries are entitled to State codes. In many cases, however, such a code appears to be, under the present depressed conditions, the only salvation of industry.

It is hoped that this report will be of assistance in giving a more comprehensive idea of the nature and operation of the program of the State Recovery Administration, and it will be a pleasure to submit promptly any further information you or any member of your Honorable Body may desire.

Respectfully submitted,

J. LESTER EISNER,
Administrator.

The Governor, Trenton, N. J.:

SIR—A proposed code of fair competition for the Retail Lumber, Lumber Products Building Materials and Building Specialties Trade was submitted to me by the New Jersey Lumbermen's Association and the South Jersey Lumbermen's Association, on January 9th, 1934. A code committee was selected by these two associations, the membership of which is as follows:

	County
Warren Somers, Jr., of Atlantic City	Atlantic
A. V. Moore, of Dumont	Bergen
N. H. Roberts, of Moorestown	Burlington

Mulford Crane, of Clayton	Gloucester
Edward H. Daehnhardt, of Jersey City	Hudson
William J. Case, of Flemington	Hunterdon

S. H. Pursell, of Phillipsburg	Warren

Several conferences were held on this proposed code which resulted in a preliminary hearing for the industry on January 17th, 1934, at our office, 1060 Broad street, Newark, N. J. The code was thereafter revised, incorporating the suggestions offered by members of the industry. Public notice was then printed in thirty daily newspapers throughout the State of New Jersey, advising of the public hearing to be held on the proposed and revised code. The above hearing took place as scheduled on January 29th, 1934, and was well attended by members of industry, labor and the consumer. The press, in their report, said, "no protest was entered against the code" (see Newark Evening News, Monday, January 29th, 1934). The same organ also carried the following under the title "Code Needed": "Senator Loizeaux declared he felt that state codes will be the salvation not only of the lumber business, but of all other industries. He said they would restore the confidence of the business men. Senator Sterner said those in the lumber business felt they needed the protection of a state code." At the conclusion of the hearing, Mr. G. E. DeNike, Secretary of one of the proponent associations, a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association, one who helped in the preparation of the National code, said, "The federal code was too cumbersome to properly administer the business in this State. He pointed out the country was divided into thirty-two divisions, and that when any changes are made it would be necessary to get the approval of five boards in Washington before they would go before the National Administrator. He declared the retail lumber business could be better handled by a state code and closer contact with the industry could be maintained." These views were shared by everyone present and were particularly espoused by Spencer D. Baldwin, President of the National Association, and the organization which is responsible for the enforcement of the national code.

A thorough investigation was made of the proponent associations, which disclosed that the New Jersey Lumbermen's Association was organized in 1884 and is recognized both in the State and country as a voice of the industry for New Jersey. The South Jersey Lumbermen's Association was organized seven years ago and comprises the entire southermost counties of the State. This association, as well as the former, is a member of the National Association through its affiliation with the Middle Atlantic Lumbermen's Association. The two proponent associations are divided into local groups or subdivisions as follows:

Bergen Materialmen's Club covering Bergen county,

Building Material Dealers Exchange covering Passaic county,

Retail Lumber and Building Material Dealers Association covering Essex and a part of Union county and part of Hudson county,

Hudson County Lumbermen's Club covering part of Hudson county, North Jersey Lumbermen's Club covering Morris and Somerset counties and portions of Union and Hunterdon counties,

Sussex and Warren Lumbermen's Club covering Sussex and Warren counties and a portion of Hunterdon county,

Mercer County Material Men's Association covering Mercer county and a portion of Hunterdon county, Material Men's Club covering Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties, Tri-County Lumbermen's Association, covering Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland and Salem counties.

The survey of the industry further disclosed the fact that the association is made up of 323 members of the industry, out of 424. In addition to this group, sponsoring the code, there is an overwhelming sentiment by nonassociation members in favor of the approval thereof, with our records containing many persuasive arguments for its necessity. The administrative clause provides for nonassociation representation and ample protection for all members of industry, whether members of association or independents.

The aggregate invested capital for this industry is $36,500,000. The sale of commodities covered by the code by association members alone in the year 1932, amounted to $21,204,204.72. Sales by nonmembers approximated $2,600,000 for a combined total of $23,804,000. Our attention was directed to this figure, when compared with that of the year 1926 with combined sales in excess of $126,000,000 and employment of 6,000 persons, which dropped to 2,700. The proponent association employed 2,260 people of the latter figure.

The code intends to cover products of sawmills, plane mills, trim mills, and woodworking factories, in the handling of lumber, lumber products and/or mill work.

Provision is made for collective bargaining, with contracts entered into before the date of the code excepted from the operation thereof where the hourly provisions may have been longer. Contracts made after the approval of the code must, of course, take into consideration the shorter working week set forth therein. These hourly provisions provide for a 44-hour week for yard foremen, with time and one-half for all over the maximum, and for truck drivers and helpers the same. Executives engaged in a managerial capacity, receiving $35.00 a week or more are excepted, and employers are specifically prohibited from reclassifying employees so as to defeat the purposes of the code. Minimum wage standards provide for 40 cents an hour in cities having population ranging between 75,000 and 500,000 people, and a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour under a population of 75,000 people.

This administration, in carrying out the policies of the National Recovery Administration, found that a serious competitive situation exists in the trade, in which price demoralization has occurred to such an extent as to endanger the policy and purposes of both the New Jersey and National Industrial Recovery Acts. The continuation of these practices are tending to limit and annihilate a great many small dealers who render a useful and economic service in normal times. A price stabilization clause has therefore been included. We refer your Excellency to Article VIII for further details.

I find that:

(a) The proponents have sustained the burden of proving the necessity for this code.

(b) The code will promote the policy and purposes of both acts, including removal of obstructions to the free flow of intrastate, interstate and foreign commerce which tend to diminish the amount thereof and will provide for the general welfare by promoting the organization of industry for the purpose of co-operative action among the various trade associations, by inducing and maintaining united action of labor and management under adequate governmental sanctions and supervisions, by eliminating unfair competitive practices, by promoting the fullest possible utilization of the present productive capacity of the industry, by avoiding undue restriction of production (except as may be temporarily required), by increasing the consumption of industrial and agricultural products through increasing purchasing power, by reducing and relieving unemployment, by improving standards of labor, and by otherwise rehabilitating industry.

(c) The industry is essentially local in character and its needs are peculiarly suited to a State code.

(d) The code is similar in all respects to the National code, except for additions and changes for a better application thereof to local conditions and local customs.

(e) The code is not designed to, and will not permit monopolies or monopolistic practices.

(f) The code is not designed to, and will not eliminate or oppress small enterprises and will not operate to discriminate against them.

(g) The power of cancellation is retained to the Administration, to the end that the code may be dispensed with when the purposes of the act will no longer be served or the industry does not desire the continuation thereof.

For these reasons, therefore, I recommend approval of this code.

Respectfully,

J. LESTER EISNER,
Administrator.

February 14th, 1934.

CERTIFIED COPY OF A RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
CITY OF NEWARK

WHEREAS, The Board of Commissioners of the City of Newark has hitherto on numerous occasions publicly recognized and asserted that real estate has been contributing more than its fair share of maintaining our government; and

WHEREAS, The present City Commissioners from May 16, 1933, when they assumed office, down to the present date have not made any capital expenditures whatsoever; and

WHEREAS, All of these Commissioners have practiced strict economy, the result of which has been a tax levy of non-mandatory expenditures, including school expenditures, in 1934, which is twenty-eight per centum (28%) lower than the amount appropriated for the same purposes in 1931; and

WHEREAS, The Board of Commissioners of the City of Newark asserts that relief can and must be given to real estate by the passage of legislation to raise revenue from sources other than the general property tax; and

WHEREAS, Various types of legislation have been suggested, offered and urged upon the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, designed to accomplish the foregoing results; and

WHEREAS, The present administration of the City of Newark is now urging any legislation having for its purpose relief to real estate, whether this be accomplished through an income tax, sales tax, or return to the several municipalities of a gasoline and excise tax; now therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the Board of Commissioners of the City of Newark go on record insisting upon immediate relief for the real property owner, and any form of income producing legislation which will result in a reduction of at least ninety (90) points in our local tax rate; and

Be It Futher Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be presented to the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor of our State, and to every member of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey.

JUNIOR ORDER OF UNITED AMERICAN MECHANICS
STATE COUNCIL OF NEW JERSEY
Trenton, N. J., February 19, 1934.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey.
Dear Member:

OPPOSING ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 191

For over twenty years our organization has been dragged into hearings and unnecessary expenses fighting bills similar to Assembly Bill No. 191.

Time after time our State Council in annual session has by unanimous vote instructed us to oppose this character of legislation.

We cannot and do not understand why fraternal societies should by direction or indirection be placed under the Department of Banking and Insurance. The proponents of this bill admit that there is sufficient law to eradicate fraudulent practices. The claim made by the alleged author of this legislation, an employee of the Department of Banking and Insurance, is that the laws against fraud along this line are unworkable for the following reasons: First —It is necessary to have two witnesses make an affidavit as to alleged fraud; secondly, there are not sufficient appropriations allowed the departments of justice to carry out this work.

Our contention is that if there are gross violations of this character there should be no trouble to secure evidence of two victims, and we have always understood that there was no limitation of the amount of money spent by public prosecutors to break up fraud.

The feeble attempt to exempt our organization from the provisions of this act, in our opinion, is a delusion and a snare. This legislation, in our judgment, is the entering wedge to the control by the Department of Banking and Insurance of the payment of death benefits by our order, and its affiliates, to the widows and orphans of our membership. In one of the States where legislation of this kind was passed, the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance arbitrarily ruled that the women's auxiliary of our order, with a membership of one hundred and thirty thousand and a surplus in its death benefit department of over one million dollars, had no right to do business in that State because of some alleged defect in its charter and this in spite of the fact that the law specifically exempted this organization. In another jurisdiction the Commissioner of Insurance ruled that reimbursing societies of our women's auxiliary was not a legal part of the organization and he forced the reimbursing organization to close business. Under this ruling one of our reimbursing associations with a membership of fifty thousand doing business exclusively in the State of New Jersey for over forty years, would be forced to close down.

In the name of everything that is fair and right, should your honorable body feel it necessary to act, why not amend the general insurance laws of this State instead of by direction or indirection placing our fraternal societies under the Commissioner of Insurance.

Respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH M. THOMPSON, Chairman,

Mr. McCampbell, of Monmouth county, arose and moved to withdraw from the Committee on Judiciary, articles of impeachment against Mr. Jonas A. Tumen, prosecutor of the pleas of the county of Monmouth, which were presented and filed under date of February 5, 1934.

Which motion was adopted.

Mr. McCampbell then arose and reintroduced and filed the following new articles of impeachment with the Clerk of the House, against Mr. Jonas A. Tumen, prosecutor of the pleas of the county of Monmouth, which were referred to the Committee on Judiciary:

To the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The constitutional power of impeachment being vested solely in the House of Assembly, there is hereby exhibited to the House of Assembly the following charges against one Jonas A. Tumen, the prosecutor of the pleas of the county of Monmouth:

1. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that a clerk in his law offices, one David Davis, with the knowledge and consent of said Jonas A. Tumen, vouched for the good character of one Irving Wexler, alias Waxey Gordon, for a pistol permit made under the statute to the county judge, although both the said David Davis and the said Jonas A. Tumen knew the said Irving Wexler, alias Waxey Gordon, to be a criminal and notorious gangster;

2. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen, either personally or as a member of a law firm, received money from said Irving Wexler, alias Waxey Gordon, by way of fees for legal services rendered or to be rendered, although the said Jonas A. Tumen well knew the said Irving Wexler, alias Waxey Gordon, to be a criminal and a notorious gangster whose presence and conduct in Monmouth county was harmful to the peace and well-being of the said county;

3. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen used and attempted to use his official position with and influence over the grand juries empanelled in and for the county of Monmouth to bring about the trial and conviction of those guilty of violating the laws of this State and to harass the innocent among his personal and political enemies;

4. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that said Jonas A. Tumen brought about the trial and conviction of one Louis Flom for arson, although he knew well that a handwriting expert has reported that a check upon which the said Jonas A. Tumen principally relied for conviction was a forgery;

5. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen conniving with Clarence E. F. Hetrick, former mayor of the city of Asbury Park and leader of the Tumen-Hetrick political machine, did sell jobs in the county of Monmouth and force successful aspirants for appointive office to pay tribute to the machine for the jobs they secured;

6. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen conniving with the said Clarence E. F. Hetrick and Louis Tumen, of Asbury Park, permitted gaming houses to operate in the county of Monmouth and during the summer of 1933 did permit the Addison Club to operate on Ocean avenue in the city of Long Branch, although he well knew that the said Addison Club was a gaming house operated by the henchmen of Irving Wexler, alias Waxey Gordon, in co-operation with members of the notorious Purple Gang of Detroit, Michigan, which was formerly headed by Reese Whittemore, later hanged for murder;

7. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen, conniving with his chief of county detectives, Harry B. Crook, did organize a spurious organization known as the County Detectives' Benevolent Association, which attempted to collect tribute from speakeasies and disorderly houses; that said Jonas A. Tumen did appoint E. A. Otte and one Dresch as solicitors for this spurious organization and when their activities became a public scandal the said Tumen refused to prosecute them;

8. Conduct unbecoming a prosecuting officer of this State in that the said Jonas A. Tumen participated in the slot machine racket and gave protection to known speakeasies and disorderly houses in the cities of Long Branch and Asbury Park and elsewhere in Monmouth county; therefore,

Be It Resolved, That Jonas A. Tumen be and hereby is impeached for willful and corrupt conduct in office and for high crimes and misdemeanors;

Be It Resolved by the House of Assembly, That a committee of seven managers on the part of the House be named by the Speaker to exhibit to the Senate for the trial thereof, said articles of impeachment;

Be It Further Resolved by the House of Assembly, That the record charges filed with the Clerk of the House on Monday, January 29, 1934, by Theron McCampbell, a member of the House of Assembly from the county of Monmouth, be entered upon the Minutes of the Assembly and transmitted to the managers appointed under his resolution; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the said managers shall select a chairman and secretary, who shall have power to issue subpœnas, signed by such officers, to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and records; and

Be It Further Resolved by the House of Assembly, That the said managers be authorized and empowered to employ counsel on the part of the managers to represent them in proceedings before the State Senate, and James A. Carpenter, a counselor at law of this State, be selected as one of the counsel to the said managers.

This resolution shall take effect immediately.

Ordered, that the Speaker sign the said bill, and that the Clerk carry it to the Senate and inform the Senate that the House of Assembly has passed the same, and requests its concurrence therein.

The Speaker announced under the provisions of Senate Joint Resolution No. 4, known as J. R. No. 3, Laws of 1934, to continue the commission studying the State acquisition of the Delaware Raritan Canal Commission, and appointed as a member the Honorable Anthony Siracusa, of Atlantic county.

The following message was received from His Excellency the Governor by the hands of his Secretary, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
Trenton, February 26, 1934.

To the Legislature:

A bill creating a Water Authority to administer water supplies in the Metropolitan District has been introduced in the Legislature. This bill, in my judgment, is both timely and important. I desire to submit a few pertinent facts in relation to the water supply situation in New Jersey that may prove of value in a consideration of the plan proposed in this bill.

On September 20th, I issued a statement to the people of New Jersey on the water supply situation in our State in its relation to the unemployment program of the National Recovery Act. In that statement I outlined a plan for a solution of the water supply problem which I believe will be permanent, and inasmuch as this solution might still be initiated in connection with the working out of the National Recovery Act, I consider the time opportune to undertake it and to put it into effect. In ordinary times, and under ordinary circumstances, I would adhere to the opinion that the larger municipalities in the northern section of the State could, either individually or as groups, under existing laws, augment their present water supplies for their immediate future needs. In view, however, of the fight being made against the depression by the National Recovery Act, and the effort to put men at work under the Public Works program, I am impelled to modify the opinions I have heretofore held to bring them more nearly in line with the requirements of the existing emergency.

The statement I made was as follows:

"During my previous administration as well as the present one I have given much thought to the problem of New Jersey's water supplies. This matter has long been in controversy and in and out of politics continuously for the past 25 years. No board, of the many that have heretofore been authorized by the State Legislature, has devised any real or tangible solution or practical plan.

"From studies which I have made in the past I came to the conclusion that the demand for a State-wide major water development, at the expense of the taxpayers of the State at large was unwarranted. I believe that needed water developments could be made at a reasonable expense by the cities now owning their water supplies. Both Newark and Jersey City can develop their present water sheds to a considerable amount in excess of their present yield. I have always and consistently opposed any burden being placed upon the taxpayers of the State of New Jersey for constructing water supplies for the metropolitan water district; I have adhered to the belief that the water consumers themselves who are especially benefited by the water supplies should be taxed for their construction, and no burden should be placed on the residents in the rural or suburban communities. The cost of the supply of water, like any other utility, should be paid for by the users.

"During my first administration I opposed the issuance of ten million dollars for State water bonds which was proposed in the Legislature for this reason, and during my present term I have declined to permit any part of the seven million dollar bond issue voted at the referendum in 1930 to be spent for the same reason. To my mind it was also an unwise diversion of gasoline tax money for other purposes than roads. Manifestly it is unfair to impose a gasoline tax on the motorists of Sussex and Cape May counties for the purpose of building water supplies for the large cities in Essex and Hudson counties. I have recommended, and the Legislature has adopted my recommendation of diverting this seven million dollar water bond issue to the schools and the unemployment relief. At the November election the people will pass on this proposition in the form of referenda. I sincerely trust they will vote to transfer this water bond issue to the much needed school and unemployment relief.

"The State and country at large are still in the grip of the unemployment situation. If one or more of these water projects could be undertaken for the purpose of relieving the unemployment situation and eventually be paid for by the water consumers it would be a splendid thing. The President advocates, and Congress has passed laws permitting this to be done, and has appropriated over three billion dollars for the construction of such public works. All this wholly for the purpose of furnishing employment to the unemployed through the country. I feel that New Jersey should secure its fair share of this fund. We should develop needed public works projects and assist in getting a portion of this money into the pay envelopes and thence into the pockets of our unemployed. These three billion dollars which the government has appropriated to be applied to public works must needs be repaid at some future time, and when that repayment occurs New Jersey, as one of the largest taxpaying States, will be compelled to pay its share in the nation's tax bill. I believe so much of this fund as we can reasonably use for worthy projects and for the unemployed should be secured for the State of New Jersey. I am loath to recommend any public works project that in my judgment is not worthy and will not in time recoup its cost from its own earnings. I feel that preference should be given to any project for which we propose to borrow Federal funds that is in the nature of a self-liquidating project. There is no project which can be built in New Jersey that offers the same degree of surety in that respect as does a water development project.

"It is possible to predict the future growth of the metropolitan district and the consequent increase in the use of water to a remarkable degree. It is possible for engineers to predict not only the probable increased use of water, but with reasonable certainty the time when water projects will become self-supporting. I have had that done in the case of the next major water development, and I am satisfied that a project costing as much as 30 to 35 million dollars can be made wholly self-supporting and in a position to liquidate its own indebtedness by the year 1945.

"At the present time there is no adequate legal machinery in the State of New Jersey for the development of water supplies through any of the existing State commissions because of the provision in the Constitution which prevents the State of New Jersey incurring any indebtedness beyond $100,000 without a vote of the people. While I am opposed to incurring a State-wide water debt or the issuance of State bonds for water supply purposes I have, however, devised a plan which I believe will make it possible for us to construct the next major water project with the aid of Federal funds. I believe this solution is also of such a nature that it will, for all time, solve the water problem in the metropolitan sections and will remove this question from politics in the future. It is my suggestion that the Legislature create a Water Authority to have charge of financing and operation of water supply developments in the northern counties of the State, and to supplement them from time to time by new or additional supplies. This Water Authority for the present could be embraced by the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission and include the Wanaque and such additional supplies as may from time to time be required, in the same manner and under practically the same general plan as the Port Authority now controls the Holland Tunnel, the George Washington Bridge, the Staten Island Bridges, as well as the new midtown tunnel, which is just now being placed under construction, by Federal aid. This Water Authority should have complete charge of the financing, construction and operation of all joint supplies in the northern counties.

"Under this plan the Wanaque supply which has passed its lean years and has reached a point of being self-liquidating, although it has been in operation only three years, will be able to carry itself and with the increased use of water, will be able also to carry the water charges on another similar development, just as the Holland Tunnel is carrying not only its own charges, but also, in a large measure, the charges on the Staten Island Bridges.

"Under the plan I have proposed the Water Authority in the northern section of the State would assume all the bonds which the subscribing municipalities to the Wanaque supply carry, and the interest payments thereon, as well as the operating expenses of the Wanaque system. The water from the Wanaque would be disposed of to the various municipalities in the northern section of the State needing water upon the basis of a price to be fixed by the Water Authority; this price to be sufficient to cover the actual debt service charges and the operating expenses. As new or additional supplies are created these charges could be made to vary so as to include the debt service charges on the new projects. Under this plan the several municipalities subscribing to the Wanaque development would be relieved of their debt service charges at the present time, and this would enable them to finance their other enterprises with greater facility. By this plan all charges incurred by reason of the water development project will become a direct charge upon those who use the water and not a burden in any way upon the taxpayers of the several municipalities, as is at present the case. This plan will ease municipal credits for those municipalities with large water debts.

"I propose to recommend this plan to the Legislature when it convenes on November 18th and submit for its consideration a bill putting this plan into operation, and I trust that it will meet with its approval. Anticipating that this plan will receive its favorable consideration, I shall apply to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works for a loan of forty million dollars for the purpose of erecting a water development enterprise. I am impelled to do this largely for the purpose of giving employment to the many thousands of workers in New Jersey who are now unemployed and to the thousands of workers in our factories who would make materials and supplies which could be used in this project. I do this knowing this project is worthy and will in time be self-liquidating and no burden to our taxpayers. I ask the support of all loyal citizens in this State to this plan which offers so much for our poor and distressed at this critical time."

For the information of the Legislature I desire to amplify this statement somewhat.

The northern metropolitan district of New Jersey consists of the six counties of Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Middlesex, Passaic and Union, together with parts of Morris and Somerset counties. In recent years the population of this district has increased rapidly and will increase in the future, due to the completion of the George Washington Bridge and to the other improved means of transportation that are being started at the present time. The population of this district was 2,700,000 in 1930 according to the Federal census of that year, which is 67 per cent. of the total population of New Jersey. One of the most recent and comprehensive estimates of population growths in this territory, published in Bulletin No. 7 of the Regional Plan Association of New York, predicts a population of 3,390,000 in 1940 and of 5,140,000 in 1960 for this district. With the increase in population comes increase in the consumption of water. Owing to the length of time required to develop a water supply, such projects must be planned and put under construction some years in advance of the date they are needed. From careful studies of water consumption and population growths in the past, it is a simple matter to predict the amount of water needed by a community and the date when it will be needed. Failure to keep the available water supply abreast of the demand for water makes it necessary to curtail the use of water to both domestic and industrial users, or to retard community development.

Studies of this nature made some years ago showed that the most recently constructed large water supply development in the State, namely, the Wanaque project, would be needed in 1929. That prediction was amply justified. The Wanaque project was not completed until 1930, and curtailment of the use of water during a portion of 1929 was necessary thereby. As a result, it is said, a number of industrial plants in the North Jersey district had to limit the hours of operation because of the shortage. This meant a reduction in the pay received by their employees and a failure to maintain production. The situation was so serious in 1929, I am told, that the eight municipalities, joint owners of the Wanaque water supply, paid a bonus of $240,000 to the contractor to provide completion of the project 120 days in advance of the date required by the contract.

The true barometer of water consumption in the northern part of New Jersey may be seen at a glance from the following summary of the statistics of the Wanaque supply.

Delivery of water began on March 20, 1930.

Average consumption during 1931—31 million gallons daily.
Average consumption during 1933—62½ million gallons daily.

Since there has been no additional supply of any magnitude completed, or even started, since delivery started from the Wanaque supply, it is clearly evident that this supply will be in full use not later than 1937. For some years, Bergen county has been faced with a shortage of water, as were portions of Hudson county in 1932. Bayonne and Hoboken have no supplies of their own, but depend upon neighboring municipalities for a supply. Bayonne buys of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission and Hoboken from Jersey City.

Periods of industrial depression are always reflected in the water consumption of industrial districts. The depression of 1920 and 1921 showed a marked decrease in the use of water, but the years that followed showed a greater rate of increase than did the years prior to 1920. The years of 1931 and 1932 showed a marked decrease in the industrial consumption from that of 1930, but 1933 has shown a very marked increase as evidenced by the increasing draft on the Wanaque supply.

These conditions lead to but one conclusion, which has been concurred in by all who have made a study of the water needs of the northern part of the State, that unless water supply developments are started immediately and completed with all practicable speed, by the municipalities singly or by a State Authority for them collectively, the northern part of New Jersey will within a few years be faced with a shortage of water, even to the extent of necessitating part-time operation of industrial plants. Both Newark and Jersey City could relieve this situation by extending their present water sheds, as could also the Elizabethtown and Hackensack companies. The financial stress of the times seems to prohibit individual developments, therefore the State Authority is the logical alternate.

In the past, when a municipality desired to increase its water supply, it was necessary that the new development be large enough to meet its needs for years to come. As a result, a large sum of money was tied up without any return during the years required to complete the new supply. In addition, interest charges on the funds used during the construction period had to be placed in the general tax budget, thereby increasing the tax rate. Then when the new supply was completed, there was a period of years in which the income from the sale of water was less than the cost of operation and the interest and amortization charges on the investment. This was due to the fact that the supply was being used to but a small part of its capacity. In business they are recognized as the lean years. These years of deficit were few in number and were always followed by years of profit until the time again came when a still further supply of water was necessary. The cycle of unprofitable years followed by profitable years was then repeated.

In normal times water bonds were classed as one of the highest types of investment and private funds, at moderate rates of interest, were easily obtained for the extension of existing supplies and the development of new ones. At the present time, however, the general financial condition of the country at large and the extent of municipal indebtedness make it impossible to obtain funds from private sources for use in developing municipal water supplies. Even if a municipality could obtain a Federal loan for this purpose, it would be faced with the necessity of including interest and amortization charges on such loan in its already heavy tax budget until such time as the development became self-supporting.

It therefore becomes plain that in these times of stress, if the recovery from present conditions and the normal healthy growth of the future is not to be impeded by a lack of water, that some different plan of financing and developing the much-needed water supply must be discovered and put into operation.

The only practicable solution to this problem that has as yet been offered, so far as I can see, is the plan for the creation of a State Water Authority. The manner in which that body can clear away the difficulties that at present cloud the horizon of the water situation and prevent similar difficulties from arising in the future will be found in the following pages.

Under the plan I propose, the Water Authority will take over the Wanaque water supply system and will assume the interest and amortization charges on all outstanding bonds that were issued for the construction of that project. It will then negotiate a loan, preferably a Federal loan, if possible under the provisions of the National Recovery Act, for the development of a new water supply, which I will call the "Second Major Project". I so designate because the Wanaque project was the first large water supply development undertaken in this State for the benefit of a group of separate municipalities working under a coordinated plan.

Estimates of cost have been prepared and it has been found that a new water supply, yielding not less than one hundred million gallons per day, can be developed for the sum of $35,000,000. With the customary free grant on certain items of labor and material, the net amount of the loan will be $31,000,000. Security for this loan will be in the form of 40-year bonds at 4% interest, with one-fortieth of the total issue, or $775,000 retired each year.

No interest charges will be required for the first four years. This means that no interest or amortization charges will be required until the new supply is delivering water.

Upon taking over the Wanaque supply, the Water Authority will set a flat rate per million gallons to the users of Wanaque water that will cover the cost of operation of the system and the interest and amortization charges on the outstanding Wanaque bonds. When interest and amortization charges are due on the Federal loan for the new supply, the selling price of water will be increased to an amount just sufficient to cover this added cost so that no deficit will occur. The selling price will be adjusted from year to year as may be necessary to avoid operating deficit. Each set price will be maintained for a year and liberal advance notice of the next year's price will be given. Customers will not be required to guarantee any minimum amount of consumption and will be required to pay for only the actual amount used. From this method of operation it will be seen that the total cost of collecting and delivering water will be borne by the users of the water and that the cost to the users is the actual cost of the water itself. The taxpayers of the State at large will never be called upon to pay any part of the construction or operating costs. With the quantities of water involved in this plan, the cost of water supplied will, over a period of years, be less than the cost of water from individual supplies to the various municipalities using the same as they will all draw on a common surplus.

In order to demonstrate the merits of this plan, a careful analysis of total costs and total income has been made. The yearly costs of operation and the interest and amortization charges on the outstanding Wanaque bonds are definitely known, as are the corresponding costs of the Second Major project. Actual figures of the consumption of water from the Wanaque system from its first delivery on March 20, 1930, are known. Studies of water consumption in the northern part of New Jersey in the past, based on actual figures of consumption, show that the increase in the use of water is at the rate of 100 million gallons per day every ten years. From a careful study of water consumption and population growths in the past it is estimated that the Water Authority will sell an average of 100 million gallons daily in 1937 with a uniform increase in sales to 200 millions gallons daily in 1955. In a recent decision, and after an exhaustive hearing, the Public Utilities Commission of New Jersey set the sum of $78.00 per million gallons as a fair price for water at wholesale in northern New Jersey district. Using this price as a base rate for the sale of water, the following income will be received:

ANNUAL INCOME

Year	Million Gallons Daily Sold	Yearly Revenue
1934	70	$1,992,900
1935	80	2,277,600
1936	90	2,562,300
1937	100	2,847,000
1938	105 56	3,005,300
	(increase at rate of 5.56 M. G D. yearly to 1955)
1955	200	5,694,000

The annual operating costs of this plan are divided into two groups—first, the cost of operating the Wanaque supply, which includes the debt service charges or the interest and amortization charges on the outstanding bonds issued by the municipalities originally participating in the Wanaque project, and, second, the estimated cost of operation, interest and amortization charges for the Second Major project.

The Wanaque project was financed by the sale of bonds issued by the participating municipalities, in such amounts and at such dates as were required by their respective contracts with the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission. Dates of issue of these bonds range from 1921 to 1931. Rates of interest vary according to financial conditions at the times they were issued and to the financial standing of the respective municipalities. Owing to financial conditions in the later years, a relatively small portion of these bonds are of a temporary nature. A detailed study of the outstanding bonds against the Wanaque development shows that the following annual expenditures will be necessary to carry the Wanaque supply.

ANNUAL COSTS OF WANAQUE PROJECT

Year	Interest and Amortization	Operation	Total
1933	$2,109,000	$250,000	$2,359,000
1935	2,057,000	250,000	2,307,000
1940	1,937,000	250,000	2,187,000
1945	1,799,000	250,000	2,044,000
1950	1,653,000	250,000	1,903,000
1955	1,448,000	250,000	1,698,000
1960	1,237,000	250,000	1,487,000
1965	750,000	250,000	1,000,000
1970	169,000	250,000	419,000
1975	.....	250,000	250,000
1980	.....	250,000	250,000

The cost of carrying the Second Major project is based on a net loan of $31,000,000, as hereinbefore described. If work can be started promptly, water can be delivered from this new supply in 1938. With the customary four years of grace, interest and amortization charges on this loan will not begin until 1938. Operating expenses of this supply are liberally estimated at $200,000 per year, or $50,000 less than that of Wanaque, as the operation of two projects of this size in conjunction will effect a considerable saving in overhead expense for both. The following table shows the annual expense necessary to carry the Second Major project.

ANNUAL COSTS OF SECOND MAJOR PROJECT

Year	Bonds Outstanding	Interest	Retirements in year	Operation	Total Yearly Cost
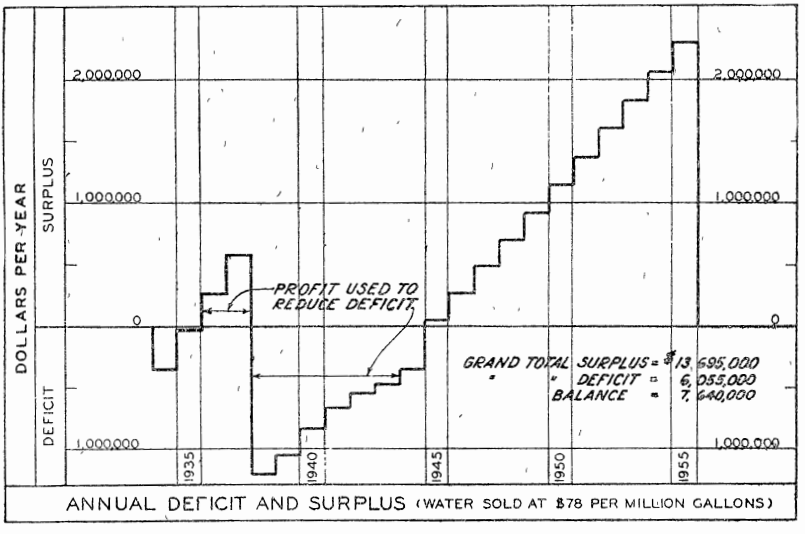
1938	$31,000,000	$1,240,000	$775,000	$200,000	$2,215,000
1948	23,250,000	930,000	775,000	200,000	1,905,000
1958	15,500,000	620,000	775,000	200,000	1,595,000
1968	7,750,000	310,000	775,000	200,000	1,285,000
1977	775,000	31,000	775,000	200,000	1,006,000
1978	.....	.....	.....	200,000	200,000
1979	.....	.....	.....	200,000	200,000
1980	.....	.....	.....	200,000	200,000

The relation between the annual income and annual costs can be shown most clearly by plotting these figures in the form of graphs or charts. I have had this done and they will be found appended hereto. One of these shows the cost of carrying the Wanaque and the Second Major project separately, and also shows the costs combined as a composite cost which represents the total annual cost of the two projects under control of the proposed Water Authority. The gross income from the sale of water at $78.00 per million gallons has also been plotted. From an inspection of this chart it is seen that at a fixed base rate of $78.00 per million gallons, income will be less than cost in 1934 and 1935 and also in 1938 to 1944, inclusive. Whether the Water Authority is created or not it is true that water from the Wanaque will cost the municipalities more than $78.00 per million gallons in 1934 and 1935. In 1936 and 1937 there will be an excess of income over costs. In 1945 income will have overtaken the cost and the combined projects will have become self-supporting. From 1945 on, income would increase rapidly and a large surplus would accumulate, if the base price of $78.00 per million gallons were to be maintained.

ANNUAL INCOME AND COSTS



ANNUAL DEFICIT AND SURPLUS (WATER SOLD AT $78 PER MILLION GALLONS)

REQUIRED SELLING PRICE TO AVOID DEFICIT

This chart shows clearly the financial worth of the plan. It also shows that additional funds to the amount of $6,055,000 will have to be obtained to carry the project over its early or lean years, if the base price of water is kept fixed at $78.00 per million gallons. This deficit would be wiped out by 1952, however, thus maintaining an average cost of $78.00 over the fourteen-year period. It would selling price of water to avoid deficit are shown on one of the graphs or charts. Inspection of this chart shows that $110.00 per million gallons will be the maximum cost of water in any year and that after the project becomes self-supporting, the selling price can be reduced well below the base rate of $78.00 per million gallons; even to as low as $58.00 per million gallons in 1955. The actual price to be charged in the later years by the Water Authority should be governed by the needs for water in the district as they develop at that time. When the need for a "Third not be possible, however, for the Water Authority to finance a deficit during the early or lean years and pay it off with the profits of the later profitable years.

Therefore, under the proposed plan of operation of the Water Authority, no deficit will occur in any year, as each year's costs are known in advance and a surcharge will be added to the selling price for that year which will be sufficient to make the income equal to the required expenditures. In other words, the consumers themselves will carry the deficits by a slightly increased cost during the lean years and will reap the benefits of lower prices during the profitable years. The annual deficit and surplus from the sale of water at $78.00 per million gallons and the required Major Project" or an extension of the Second Major project becomes evident the Water Authority can easily carry that project through its early years from a reserve built up for that purpose.

The advantages resulting from a Water Authority operating along the lines I have suggested and as amplified herein are manifold. First and foremost is the relief to the unemployed of the State by the immediate prosecution of a project involving the expenditure of $35,000,000 with its resulting indirect benefits to the industries of the State at large. Only those directly charged with the responsibility for the water supply of the several municipalities of the State can measure the advantages of a plentiful supply of water, available when they need it, and in the exact amount they need at a flat rate per million gallons, known definitely and in advance. Secondly, and equally important, the municipalities who have financed the Wanaque supply may be relieved of the bonded debt and the debt service charges in connection therewith, thus improving their financial standing and enabling them to carry on their strictly governmental functions with greater ease.

This plan places the cost of water entirely upon the user, and removes the necessity of using either the credit of the State or any of the municipal subdivisions for financing water supplies. It places the operating costs entirely on the water users and obviates any necessity of either State or municipal taxes to make up deficits caused by water supply operations. I believe this plan not only affords a permanent solution of our water problem, but also is in accordance with sound principles of taxation and in the interest of good government.

Respectfully submitted,

[SEAL] A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Mr. Kinzley submitted the following report:

Report of Committee Appointed to Prepare Necessary Legislation for the Taxation of Railroad and Canal Property

Joint Resolution No. 21 approved December 4, 1933, authorized the appointment of a Committee of nine members to prepare necessary legislation for the taxation of railroad and canal property; the Committee to consist of three members of the Senate to be appointed by the President thereof, three members of the House of Assembly to be appointed by the Speaker thereof and three citizens of the State of New Jersey to be appointed by the Governor. It directed the Committee to organize as soon as practicable and to report its findings together with proposed legislation at the opening of the legislative session of 1934.

Pursuant to the joint resolution, the President of the Senate appointed Senators Clifford Powell, Albert Woodruff and Frank Durand, the Speaker of the House appointed Assemblymen Anthony Siracusa, Joseph Kinzley and Theron McCampbell and the Governor appointed Senator Edward P. Stout, Doctor Harley Lutz and Mr. R. B. White.

The Committee met and organized at the Governor's Office, Trenton, New Jersey, December 13, 1933; Senator Stout was chosen chairman and John B. McGeehan, secretary.

At the request of the Committee an assistant to the Attorney-General attended each meeting of the Committee as a representative of the Attorney-General. Doctor Lutz was directed to visit Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio to investigate methods of railroad taxation in those states. These states were chosen because Wisconsin uses the ad valorem method, Minnesota uses the gross receipts method and Ohio uses both methods. The report made by Doctor Lutz together with the railroad tax laws of other states was considered by your Committee in drafting the proposed legislation.

At the invitation of the Committee J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, Louis Focht, Chief Engineer of the State Tax Department, Francis D. Weaver, President of the State Board of Tax Appeals, John Solan, an assistant to the Attorney-General, who appeared for the State in the railroad tax litigation, and Maximilian Stallman, Robert J. Bain, Alexander H. Elder, Attorneys for the railroad companies in the railroad tax litigation, appeared before the Committee and expressed their opinions with respect to the present railroad tax law and made suggestions as to changes therein.

Each member of the Committee received a copy of the briefs in the 1933 railroad tax litigation before the State Board of Tax Appeals and a copy of the opinion of the State Board of Tax Appeals in that case.

The Committee found:

1. That the amount of taxes in controversy in the pending litigation between the railroad companies and the State as shown by the report made by the State Comptroller to the Committee, is as follows:

1931 (Court of Errors and Appeals)	$1,858,117.76
1932 (Federal District Court)	3,117,979.32
1933 (New Jersey Supreme Court)	9,193,090.99
Making a total of	$14,169,188.07

and unless remedial legislation is passed at this session, it is estimated that an additional $9,000,000 will be controverted by the railroad companies on the review by the State Tax Commissioner of the 1934 assessment making a total in excess of $23,000,000.

The railroads paid full taxes for 1931 but by order of the court, the amount in litigation is withheld by the State Comptroller and not distributed to the counties for school purposes. In 1932 and 1933 the railroads paid the taxes not in controversy. They have not paid $3,117,979.32 of 1932 taxes and $9,193,090.99 of 1933 taxes, which sums represent the amounts in controversy for such years. The revenue in controversy in this railroad tax litigation, if paid, would belong almost entirely to the municipalities; of the taxes in litigation for 1931, 1932 and 1933 amounting to $14,169,188.07, the municipalities would be entitled to $11,500,791.58. The municipalities have sorely felt the delay in receiving this anticipated revenue and in the event the pending actions terminate in victories for the railroads the result will be a staggering blow to the financial structures of these municipalities.

2. That the dispute with respect to these taxes is of such a character that the litigation now pending is likely to be of long duration. The railroads challenge the methods by which the State taxing authorities assess their property for taxation, contending that the provisions of the railroad tax act as applied by the State authorities fail to give consideration to all the factors which go to make up the taxable value of property in railroad use. They also assert that there is a systematic under-valuation of locally assessed property, and by reason thereof, an erroneous State average rate is ascertained and that the application of this rate to certain of the railroad property results in the imposition of an unjust and illegal tax upon such property.

Pursuant to the command of said joint resolution number twenty-one, the Committee has prepared a bill amending and supplementing the existing act for the taxation of railroad and canal property.

The proposed legislation provides a reasonable basis for the adjustment of the pending litigation and for the elimination of such controversies in the future.

JERSEY CITY POST No. 10

JEWISH WAR VETERANS OF THE UNITED STATES

Jersey City, N. J.,

New Jersey State Assembly, Trenton, N. J.:

GENTLEMEN—At a meeting of the assembled members of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, Jersey City Post, No. 10, on February 28, 1934, a discussion arose with respect to the urgency of the immediate establishment of an Armory in Jersey City. It was agreed that an Armory is of great value in our community, and not strictly intended for military purposes.

However, there is real necessity for an appropriate and suitable place for drilling for the members of our National Guard. The men of the National Guard have been handicapped since the demolition of the old Armory and have worked under a great disadvantage.

In expediting the construction of the Armory on the new site, it is merely serving the best interests of our country and countrymen, and will be indicative of real, true patriotic spirit; therefore,

Be It Resolved, That because of our civic, civil and military interest in our community and country that we go on record in advocacy of the quick passage of the Stout bill, providing for the construction of the Jersey City Armory, and that work be done on this project as soon as possible, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Governor of New Jersey, President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Assembly and the members of the Legislature.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) HARRY STRINER, Commander.

Office of

PROSECUTOR OF PLEAS MONMOUTH COUNTY

Freehold, New Jersey

Fred. A. Brodesser, Esq.,
Clerk of the Assembly, State House,
Trenton, New Jersey.

MY DEAR MR. BRODESSER.—Enclosed is copy of a letter which I have this day sent to Theron McCampbell, and would ask you to present this entire matter to the House of Assembly.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) JONAS TUMEN.

JT/MB

ASBURY PARK, N. J., March 10, 1934.

Theron McCampbell, Esq.,
Assemblyman from Monmouth County,
State House, Trenton, N. J.

SIR.—On Monday, January 29, 1934, you filed in the House of Assembly, certain charges calling upon that body to bring impeachment proceedings against me on the charges filed. These charges were withdrawn on Monday night, February 26, 1934, and a new resolution incorporating the same was introduced, asking the Assembly to appoint in conjunction with these charges, a committee to investigate the same in the county of Monmouth.

When these charges first appeared in the newspapers, I issued a statement defying you to make the same declarations from any public platform or place where you would not be protected with the privilege granted you under the Constitution of the State of New Jersey, to members of the Legislature, and up to the present writing, you have not seen fit or dared to repeat those charges where you would place yourself in a position to prove the same before a court of justice and a jury of this State.

As long as you have failed to do so, I feel in justice to the people of this county, my friends, my family and myself, and the honorable office which I fill, to make the following statements in answer to the several charges made by you.

With reference to the granting of gun permits, you know or should know, that in May, 1933, at the direction of the Honorable Joseph B. Perskie, Supreme Court Justice of the State of New Jersey, presiding over this circuit, the Honorable Harry Truax, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the county of Monmouth and Harold McDermott, First Assistant Prosecutor of Monmouth County, were ordered to make a thorough and searching investigation into the manner of granting gun permits in Monmouth County and to inquire at whose instance and by what means all such gun permits were granted. As a result of the examination of hundreds of witnesses and the holders of all gun permits, it was definitely proved that David H. Davis, employed by the firm of Tumen and Tumen, did not vouch for or approve of the application for the granting of a gun permit to Irving Wexler, alias "Waxey" Gordon, or any other permit, and furthermore, that neither he, nor I, nor any member of my law firm, directly or indirectly, was connected in any manner whatsoever with the issuing of that permit or any other permit. The investigation of the gun permits is now a matter of record in this county.

With reference to your statement that I, or any member of the firm with which I am connected, received fees for services rendered or to be rendered to Irving Wexler, this charge on your part, is an absolute and unmitigated lie. Irving Wexler is unknown to me personally or by any acquaintanceship. I have never seen the man or met the man, nor has any member of my law firm, nor is he or has he ever been a client of the office of Tumen and Tumen, nor has the said firm or myself personally, ever received any monies from the said Irving Wexler, either directly or indirectly.

During my term as Prosecutor of the Pleas of this county, in handling matters presented to the grand jury, I have at no time ever used my office to secure the indictment or freedom from indictment of any person charged with any crime brought before that body.

If you had inquired from members of the various grand juries that have served during my term as Prosecutor, you would know that any statement made by you to the contrary is false.

During the course and near the end of the investigation conducted into the closing of the Seacoast Trust Company, certain articles appeared in the Newark Evening News of March 30, 1933, and the Asbury Park Press of March 30th and 31st, and April 1st and 2nd, 1933, charging me through politics and other means of seeking the indictment of J. Lyle Kinmonth. As a result of these articles appearing in the newspapers mentioned, the members of that grand jury wrote letters to the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor of the State of New Jersey, and to the Honorable Joseph L. Bodine, Justice of the Supreme Court presiding over this circuit at that time, exonerating me from all alleged charges of influence or coercion as set forth in the newspaper articles, and of using any means whatsoever in attempting to prevail upon them to find such indictment, and that the articles set forth, as stated above, were absolutely untrue. Copies of the letters addressed to the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor of the State of New Jersey, and the Honorable Joseph L. Bodine, Justice of the Supreme Court presiding over this circuit, are set forth herewith:

April 3, 1933.

"Dear Governor Moore.—There have come to the attention of the Monmouth County Grand Jury certain statements published in the Newark Evening News of March 31st and April 1st, 1933, and in the Asbury Park Press of March 31st, April 1st and April 2nd, 1933, together with other publications, relating to the investigation made by the Monmouth County Grand Jury of the December, 1932, term now in session with reference to the Seacoast Trust Company, a closed bank of the city of Asbury Park, N. J.

As a result of these publications you have been called upon by the Vigilante Association of the city of Asbury Park to take certain steps with reference to Prosecutor Tumen's attitude in the presentation of this matter before the grand jury.

As the Grand Jury of Monmouth County who undertook this investigation as a result of a resolution passed by the borough council of the borough of Neptune City, N. J., on December 19, 1932, calling upon Honorable Justice Joseph L. Bodine to have an investigation made of the closed institution, at the direction of the Honorable Joseph L. Bodine, Justice of the Supreme Court presiding in this district, the same was presented to us. This grand jury has spent eight full days in passing upon the evidence presented and we desire at this time to inform you that the statements contained in the newspapers with reference to Mr. Tumen's using coercion or force or injecting into the presentation any facts outside of the bank itself are absolutely untrue.

We further desire to state at this time that the articles published in the papers mentioned, with reference to the Prosecutor of Monmouth County, are absolutely false and malicious. It is our wish to call to the attention of Your Excellency that a great injustice has been done and that moreover the presentation of the facts in this case before the grand jury has been fair and impartial.

We also feel that there has been a great reflection on the integrity of the grand jury cast by the publiction of these articles.

We, as a body of representative citizens of the county of Monmouth, sworn to perform a duty, feel that the newspapers have gone far beyond the bounds of newspaper propriety and decency in casting aspersions such as have been done.

I also refer you to the presentment handed up by the December term, 1932, grand jury, and ask you, Mr. McCampbell, what you as a legislator have done to remedy the conditions set forth in that presentment and to follow out the recommendations of that grand jury which investigated the failure and closing of the Seacoast Trust Company. I also refer you to the article contained in the Asbury Park Press of Thursday, April 6, 1933.

If you had examined the records of the proceedings in this case, you would have found that the trial of this defendant was conducted by me before Judge Truax of the Court of Quarter Sessions and a jury of this county. This defendant was convicted of employing the services of another to set fire to a building in Long Branch. Nine and one-half months after he was convicted of the crime, and serving his term in State's Prison, for the burning of the house in Long Branch, an application on his behalf was made by John J. Quinn, former Prosecutor of this county, for a new trial. Upon hearing of the application before Judge Truax, all of the circumstances surrounding this particular case were thoroughly examined, at the conclusion of which examination, Judge Truax denied the application. Incidentally, it was disclosed in this particular application, that the records in my office had been rifled and certain papers stolen. Immediately thereafter, the defendant, through his counsel, John J. Quinn, attempted to secure a writ of habeas corpus from the Honorable Joseph L. Bodine, Justice of the Supreme Court presiding over this circuit, and again the entire matter was thoroughly gone into before the Honorable Justice, and the application for the writ was denied. Thereafter, application for pardon was made to the Court of Pardons in September, 1932, and all of the facts and circumstances were again gone into by that honorable body, and as a result thereof, the conviction was sustained. This is the record as it appears in the Courts of this State of the Flom case, which you as a public official of this State should have examined before attempting to malign me.

I most emphatically deny that I ever connived with the Honorable Clarence E. F. Hetrick, former Mayor of the City of Asbury Park, to secure the appointment of any person to any political job or to seek tribute or money of any person who was ever appointed to any office, nor do I know of any person that the Honorable Clarence E. F. Hetrick ever interceded for, and you know that such a charge is ridiculous and without foundation.

As a result of a letter appearing in the Asbury Park Press under date of June 15, 1933, signed by the Citizens' and Taxpayers' Association by Sidney L. Henry, Secretary, and articles and advertisements in the Long Branch Record during the early part of the summer of 1933, and as a result of letters sent to Justice Joseph B. Perskie, and an article in the Asbury Park Press on Sunday, July 2, 1933, wherein it stated that a committee composed of Dr. Joseph H. Bryan, president of the Citizens' and Taxpayers' Association of the city of Asbury Park; Isadore Friedman, an attorney, and Abe Weinberg, a former investigator of the Antisaloon League, together with a committee of ministers, called upon Justice Perskie on July 1, 1933, Justice Perskie summoned the Grand Jury in special session on July 18, 1933, and most emphatically charged it to investigate the alleged conditions of organized vice, crime and corruption in this county, and officials charged with the law enforcement, irrespective of their standing in the community, whether big or little, and to place the responsibility on those who were guilty, and as a result of said charge, a general invitation was extended by Justice Perskie and by the members of the Grand Jury to all citizens of Monmouth County, including yourself, to appear before it with any evidence they might have relating to alleged conditions of vice, crime and corruption, and the doors of the Grand Jury room were at all times open to all such citizens who wished to appear.

You were familiar with the fact that the Grand Jury sat from July 18, 1933, to the middle of September, 1933, during which time it subpœnaed before it nearly one hundred witnesses. Included among said witnesses were Dr. Joseph H. Bryan, Sidney L. Henry, Frank Cole, all members of the Citizens' and Taxpayers' Executive Committee; Dr. W. W. Beveridge, Chairman of the Committee of One Thousand; Dr. John J. Bariscillo, a member of the Vigilantes Association; Isadore Friedman and Alfred Rosenberg, attorneys at law of the State of New Jersey; Richard J. De Witt, of the Long Branch Record; Dorman McFaddin, Mayor; Samuel B. Zartman, Police Commissioner; Commissioner J.

William Jones, Joseph McGarvey, Chief of Police; Fred Wardell, Lieutenant of Police, all of the City of Long Branch; Horace Byram, Chief of Police of the City of Asbury Park; Howard Height, Sheriff of the County of Monmouth, and numerous others, men of all types and all walks of life.

As you know, at the conclusion of this investigation, the Grand Jury handed up a presentment, which is herein set forth, and is now a part of the records of this county.

"We, the members of the April, 1933, Term, Grand Jury of the County of Monmouth, do hereby submit the following presentment relating to the existence of vice, crime and corruption in the County of Monmouth.

For some time the County of Monmouth and its citizens and official family of law-enforcement officials have been held up to scorn by reason of charges made in certain of the public press of this county and by endeavors through the medium of letters addressed to the press and of stories carried by word of mouth to the general effect that there existed in the County of Monmouth, a widespread and alarming condition of organized vice, crime and corruption. The charges in news articles, editorials, letters and advertisements were couched for the most part in general terms that the culminated result thereof was a general impression that the County of Monmouth was a playground for criminals, racketeers and corrupt public officials. As a result of this publicity, the members of the Grand Jury were charged by Honorable Joseph B. Perskie, Supreme Court Justice of the State of New Jersey, on July 18, 1933, to sift all these charges to the bottom, to make a widespread and thorough investigation of the same and have brought before them any and all such evidence and persons they desired to hear in relation thereto or who might have any knowledge thereof; to decide on the basis of the same whether or not any such conditions as alleged existed in the County of Monmouth, to weigh the testimony and to take appropriate action.

The members of the Grand Jury have acted in accordance with this mandate and have deliberated at numerous sessions, during the course of which many witnesses have been examined and heard.

A general invitation was extended not only by Justice Perskie but also by this Grand Jury to all citizens of Monmouth County to appear before it with any evidence that they might have relating to alleged conditions of vice, crime and corruption, and that the doors of the Grand Jury room were at all times open to any such citizens who wished to appear.

This Grand Jury has during its deliberation, summoned to appear before it, witnesses of all types and from all walks of life within the County of Monmouth, and all persons making any charges relating to the matter of vice, crime and corruption, and have examined them at length to determine the basis of their accusations and the truth thereof. Further, where in the course of examination such persons notified the members of this Grand Jury that other persons had evidence substantiating such charges or even notified the members of this Grand Jury that they were of the impression that certain other persons named had such knowledge, or evidence, the members of this Grand Jury summoned such other persons named to appear before them. Likewise, when witnesses hesitated to testify in the presence of Prosecutor Tumen, the Prosecutor was excused by this Grand Jury in order that such witnesses might be free to testify at will. The conclusions arrived at by the members of this Grand Jury are, therefore, the result of an examination of every clue and bit of testimony presented, even where such clues consisted merely of hearsay and rumor.

The nearest approach to direct evidence adduced before this Grand Jury was a certain incident wherein the signer of said instrument was alleged to have paid 'protection,' yet on the witness stand swore under oath that the signature was false.

Therefore, this Grand Jury unhesitatingly and unequivocally find, as a result of its investigation and deliberation that the charges made of this existence of vice and crime in the County of Monmouth and the further charge of graft on the part of law-enforcement officers, are not based on facts and that the evidence adduced before this Grand Jury is insufficient to warrant the finding of an indictment.

We feel it incumbent upon us to state that the impression of general lawlessness and violation of crime in Monmouth County could not have gained such widespread proportions had it not been for the undue publicity given such charges in the press, especially the series of advertisements inserted in the Long Branch Record by the so-called Monmouth County League for Better Government.

The name Monmouth County League for Better Government is a misnomer. From its very inception the aim and objectives of this organization were to throw mud. Its organizers, and only known members, are listed in the certificate of organization as Samuel Johnson and James Matthews, colored, and William Garrabrandt, a white man. Johnson and Matthews admitted on the witness stand that they had no knowledge whatever of the aims of the league and signed without reading these certificates. They likewise testified to never having contributed one penny toward the payment of said advertisements. As for Garrabrandt, he fled out of the jurisdiction and was unable to be served.

As a result of these disclosures, Richard W. De Witt, the publisher of the Long Branch Record, whose address is 192 Broadway, Long Branch, New Jersey, the same address as the Monmouth County League for Better Government, was summoned to appear before this Grand Jury and did so appear on several occasions, in order that his connection with the said organization might be gone into thoroughly by this Grand Jury. Mr. De Witt offered no testimony substantiating any of the charges made in these advertisements nor in the editorials or news articles of his newspaper.

Mr. De Witt proved a very unsatisfactory witness before this Grand Jury and frequently, when asked pertinent questions, absolutely refused to answer the same by reason of the privilege granted to newspaper publishers under an act of the Legislature passed May 12, 1933, which permits newspaper men to withhold the sources of their information. Believing this act of the Legislature did not cover paid advertisements, the Grand Jury wrote to Justice Perskie for a legal opinion. Our letter to Justice Perskie and his reply are attached hereto as part of this presentment and are marked Exhibit A and B."

(Note: These letters render an opinion concerning Mr. De Witt's refusal to testify and are not included as a part of this statement. J. T.)

"Mr. De Witt's attitude was not consistent with good faith and trust and it is the belief of the members of this Grand Jury, based on Mr. De Witt's own testimony and other evidence adduced, that the Monmouth County League for Better Government, whose office was the same address as the Long Branch Record, was a personal tool of Mr. De Witt and his associates, to stir up trouble and inflame the public mind for purely political and partisan reasons. It is a shocking travesty on the freedom of the press when a newspaper accepts such advertisements as were inserted in the Long Branch Record by this so-called League for Better Government.

At this time the Grand Jury feels called upon to censure the board of commissioners of the City of Long Branch for their laxity in not making an immediate investigation of their own relative to the charges contained in this series of advertisements. Had the board of commissioners been a little more zealous in guarding the fair name of their city, they could have quickly discovered after the publication of the first advertisements and news article that this was a pure campaign of political slander aided and abetted by the Long Branch Record.

We further find that Mr. De Witt deliberately fomented trouble by accusing Chief of County Detectives Harry B. Crook of threatening to take his life and by having Chief Crook arrested on that charge. In spite of the fact that the said charge was heard and dismissed by Recorder Alton V. Evans, of Long Branch, this Grand Jury took it upon itself to investigate the same, and as a result thereof hereby finds that the said charge had no basis in fact, and that the said alleged threat was a creation of Mr. De Witt's imagination.

Two other matters deserve mention—the number game and slot machines.

Regarding the number game, we believe the Legislature in passing chapter 107 of the Laws of 1933, has given our law-enforcement officials a powerful weapon, with which to drive this insidious form of gambling out of the county. A strict enforcement of this law will produce quick and lasting results. We applaud the custom of our honorable courts in imposing increasingly heavier fines on all second and divers offenders of this act.

As for slot machines, this Grand Jury recommends a similar law to that of chapter 107, so that measures can be taken against the owners of the properties upon whose premises a slot machine is found. The passing of the law placing a heavy fine on the property owner would quickly eliminate the distribution of slot machines in the county. We further recommend that when slot machines are confiscated by any law-enforcement officer they be destroyed immediately so as to avoid any possibility of their ever getting back into circulation.

In the investigation that has been conducted by this Grand Jury, Jonas Tumen, Prosecutor of the Common Pleas of this county, and his office have rendered every assistance to this body.

In summary, the members of this Grand Jury state that they have deliberated at length and with a seriousness becoming to the gravity of the charges involved; and our findings are insufficient to warrant any action on the part of this Grand Jury. We do not wish this presentment to be interpreted as a statement to the effect that Monmouth County is free from crime. Such a condition can only be attained in an ideal state such as civilization has never yet seen, but we feel that such crime as does exist in Monmouth County is no greater nor worse than what can be found in any governmental unit comparable in size and condition and location to Monmouth County.

Our investigations lead us to the conclusion that Monmouth County is well policed, both county and local, and that local police authorities are both able and must be willing to take care of all purely local situations and conditions as number running and slot machines. To clean up such conditions should and must be the duty and responsibility of local authorities and wherever possible the county enforcement agency, consisting of the Prosecutor of Common Pleas and his staff, should not be impeded by and burdened with minor offenses of this character, but should be left free to concern itself with the solution of major crimes and the obtaining of convictions therefor.

We call upon the citizens of this county not to be stampeded by rumors. We ask the co-operation of every citizen of this county in bringing an end to this intolerable condition of rumor-spreading and character assassination of public officials, so that Monmouth County may once again take its rightful place among its neighbors as a place populated by law-abiding citizens, and as a playground to which our neighbors from far and wide may bring their families with complete security of mind for an enjoyable vacation amid pleasant and peaceful surroundings."

The above presentment of the Grand Jury proved that the letter of the Citizens' and Taxpayers' Association signed by Sidney L. Henry, secretary, and the charges made to Justice Perskie by Dr. Joseph H. Bryan and others above mentioned, had no basis in fact, were purely hearsay, and made for political purposes only.

All during this investigation, which was given wide publicity in the public press, you, Mr. McCampbell, failed to appear or render any assistance, for reasons best known to yourself. This presentment covers your statements regarding gaming houses, slot machines and disorderly houses.

Regarding the County Detectives Benevolent Association, if you were sufficiently interested to inquire about this particular association, you would know from the records in the office of the Secretary of State, that this organization was incorporated under the laws of this State in April, 1925, and the membership consists of the county detectives of the twenty-one counties of this State. The objects of said association are set forth in their certificate of incorporation. You would further know that I am in no way connected directly or indirectly with the said association. Had you been sufficiently interested you would have been informed upon inquiring of the officials of that association, that when their representatives entered this county to solicit advertisements, I ordered them out immediately, and they left.

I defy and challenge you to make your statements against me in public, free from the immunity granted you as a legislator of the State of New Jersey, so that I may have recourse to the courts of justice for your malicious libel.

I challenge you to give to the public the name or names of the man or men who wrote, or assisted you in writing, your speech and the resolution which you introduced and read in the Assembly chambers. I challenge you to name the place where your speech and the resolution mentioned were prepared. I challenge you to name the man or men who induced you to make these charges against me. I challenge you to show publicly wherein my office has not been conducted on the highest plane, free from political interference or influences and with the view at all times of keeping major crime and vice at a minimum and also with a view of conducting the said office on the most economical basis possible. The records of the Board of Freeholders of this county speak for themselves on the subject of economy. Finally, I challenge you to show that I have in any manner not rendered that type of service that is demanded of every public official by all law-abiding and respectable citizens.

Very truly yours,

JT/HEW JONAS TUMEN.

We, the pastors and lay delegates, members of the New Brunswick District of the New Jersey Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in session at Long Branch, New Jersey, representing a constituency of more than 20,000 in Monmouth, Ocean, and a part of two other counties, do hereby ask that Assembly Bill No. 304 be further amended so as to guarantee to the public the same rights to protect themselves against what might seem to be an injustice as the bill gives to the liquor men in the form of an appeal. We would like to have pointed out in the bill the procedure of citizens against the licensing of questionable men or corporations, and of effective procedure where places after in business prove to be a nuisance.

We also ask that the right to regulate Sunday sales be given to local governing bodies.

Respectfully submitted,

The following communication and statement were sent to the desk and were read by the Clerk:

FRANK B. MIDDLETON, JR.
WEST JERSEY TRUST BUILDING
CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY

March 17, 1934.

Hon. Frederick A. Brodesser,
Elizabeth, N. J.

MY DEAR FREDDIE—I have the honor to present the enclosed statement which expresses my views of the duties incumbent upon the Sinking Fund Commission, of which I am a member.

With kind regards, I remain

Sincerely and faithfully yours,
A. C. MIDDLETON.

Concerning sinking funds of the State of New Jersey and their management, I submit the following:

The Sinking Fund Commissioners of the State of New Jersey are the Governor, the Comptroller and the State Treasurer. It is the duty of the Commissioners to invest available funds of the State to provide for payment of soldiers' bonus, highway extension, and road and bridge bonds of the State. By law the Commissioners are limited to the purchase of State, county and municipal bonds. The moneys of the State may not be invested in any other securities. The Sinking Fund Commissioners are further limited to the necessity of purchasing bonds which will be paid when moneys will be needed for uses of the State. No securities are purchased by the Sinking Fund Commissioners except by majority action.

The purchase of securities for the sinking funds is never made for speculative reasons. The object has been, first, to secure safety of the investment; second, to secure as high a rate of return as possible, consistent with the safety of the investment.

Prior to the crisis in municipal financing in 1932 no defaults had occurred in any of the securities held by the Sinking Fund. At the present time, some New Jersey municipalities have temporarily defaulted on some of these securities. Gradually, bonds in default, are being refunded.

As of June 30, 1933, the law required that there should be in the sinking funds $63,505,974.64. Actually, at par value, there was $67,609,697.96. New Jersey municipalities had then temporarily defaulted on less than $2,000,000 worth of their securities held by the sinking funds; on September 30, 1933, these defaults amounted to $2,101,500. These are the securities which are being gradually reinstated. So far the State of New Jersey has lost nothing. The law not only provides that the State may invest in securities of municipalities, but there is an obligation to assist its municipal subdivisions.

The securities held by the Sinking Fund Commissions of New Jersey returned, in cash, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, $3,050,083.13. In these times of financial uncertainty this represented an average interest of over four and one-half per centum.

March 19, 1934.

Mr. Frederick A. Brodesser, Clerk of the House of Assembly, Trenton, New Jersey:

Sir: I herewith hand you my letter addressed to Jonas Tumen, Prosecutor of Monmouth County, dated March 16, 1934, which is in reply to Mr. Tumen's letter to me which was ordered spread upon the minutes of the Assembly last Monday evening.

I request that you will read my letter and that same be spread upon the minutes in full.

Yours truly,
THERON MCCAMPBELL.

THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY OF NEW JERSEY
Theron McCampbell,

March 16, 1934.

Jonas Tumen, Prosecutor, Monmouth County, Asbury Park, New Jersey.

Dear Sir: If you are sincere in your desire for a chance to prove that the charges against the Prosecutor of Monmouth County as set forth in my impeachment resolution are false, you will at once ask the leaders of the Assembly to send you before the Senate for trial and judgment. Nothing less will satisfy the people of Monmouth County.

All of the odds in the case are in your favor. You have nothing to fear if the facts are as you state them. Your brother lawyers and your partisans have full control of the Legislature. A brother lawyer, and a partisan, is holding impeachment resolution in the Judiciary Committee. Another brother lawyer is Speaker and can be depended upon to name seven partisan friends to the Board of Managers to take your case before the Senate. If you now refuse to ask to be put on trial, the people may conclude that you are guilty of malfeasance.

In this matter I am acting for the people of Monmouth County as their Constitutional delegate to their General Assembly. It is not my personal responsibility at all. When a citizen reports evidence of a crime to the Prosecutor, it becomes the business of the State and not that of the citizen to follow through.

I shall insist that the State place the people's case against the Prosecutor of Monmouth County in charge of James D. Carpenter. It will be his duty to sift the evidence and prepare the people's case. We are ready to proceed as soon as the leaders of the Assembly act.

I hope you will join me in urging the Assembly to send you before the Senate for trial without delay.

Yours truly,

THERON MCCAMPBELL.

Mr. Naughright moved that the communication be received and spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

Mr. Siracusa submitted the following majority report for the Committee on Economy and Reorganization on Investments and Management of several sinking funds of this State:

To the Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

This Commission was created by Joint Resolution of November 14, 1933, which constituted the respective Senate and House Committees on Economy and Reorganization a Commission to investigate the investments and management of the several sinking funds of the State of New Jersey.

The Commission organized by electing Senator Dryden Kuser, Chairman; Assemblyman Elmer S. King, Vice-Chairman; Assemblyman Fred W. Fort, Jr., Secretary. The Commission appointed as its Counsel, Robert H. McCarter. John W. Wehman was chosen as expert accountant, and Ralph Newton appointed clerk.

Preceding the creation of this Commission, the joint Economy and Reorganization Committee had already held three public hearings to investigate the sinking funds.

After the creation of the Commission two additonal hearings were held.

Witnesses who testified at these five hearings either as a result of subpœna or request were as follows: State Treasurer Albert C. Middleton, a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; State Comptroller John McCutcheon, a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; Colonel Harry B. Salter, Secretary of the Sinking Fund Commission; Horace G. Githens, Deputy State Treasurer; Owen W. Kite, Deputy State Comptroller; Gouveneur M. Carnochan, Municipal Bond Expert; John W. Wehman, Expert Accountant; George E. Bailey and William J. Dwyer, of the firm of George E. Bailey & Company, brokers; William C. Heppenheimer, Jr., President, Trust Company of New Jersey; Walter R. Darby, State Auditor; Mayor Arthur Rhodes, of Hawthorne; City Treasurer John Franz of Clifton; William D. Quinn, Director of Revenue and Finance of Jersey City; William V. McKenzie, member of the Borough Council of Metuchen; John A. Wood, 3d, Secretary Teachers' Retirement Fund, and Miss Freda McLaughlin, stenographer, Comptroller's office.

The Commission made a careful investigation of the procedure which has been followed by the Sinking Fund Commission in purchasing securities for investment and a study of the quality of investments held in the funds, and the prices paid for these investments. The period covered was from January 1, 1931, to September 30, 1933.

There are three separate sinking funds of the State of New Jersey existing at the present time. They are for the retirement of the following bond issues: New Jersey Soldiers' Bonus bonds, issued under Chapter 159 of the Laws of 1920, the State Highway bonds issued under Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1922, and the State Highway Extension bonds issued under Chapter 181 of the Laws of 1927. In each of the acts authorizing these bond issues a State Sinking Fund Commission is provided for to consist of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and State Treasurer.

The power of this Commission in managing the various sinking funds is absolute and cannot be altered by statute, under opinion of the Attorney-General rendered November 22, 1933, and copy of which is annexed hereto as "Exhibit A".

Purchases for the various sinking funds are authorized at meetings of the Sinking Fund Commission at such time as funds are in hand for investment.

Purchases are made from offerings sent to the Sinking Fund Commission by municipalities and brokerage houses dealing in New Jersey Municipal bonds and submitted to the Commission by the Secretary.

The minutes of the Commission are kept in a loose-leaf book by the Secretary and are general in character.

The testimony indicated that the general policy of the Commission in the purchase of securities did not vary from that followed by any other investment fund of the State. No discrimination with respect to population of the various communities of the State was made, the Commission being bound entirely by the limitations imposed upon them by the statute. That this is true is evidenced by the following list of bonds of the municipalities of this State herewith appended and marked "Exhibit B".

Selections of investments were made from offerings of leading brokerage houses of the East, dealing in New Jersey Municipal bonds, as well as direct offering from municipalities whose debt limit and maturity dates of bonds met the legal requirements of the fund.

The investments of the Sinking Fund, as shown by the current report of the State Teasurer, totals approximately $74,500,000.

All bonds immediately upon payment therefor by the Commission are carried in the fund at par. This is true whether bonds were purchased at a discount or premium in accordance with the statute. As a consequence, the capital investment fund as reported by the Treasurer can show no loss.

The particular transactions upon which testimony was taken were bonds purchased of the municipalities of Clifton, Metuchen, Atlantic City, Jersey City, Hawthorne, Kearny, Perth Amboy, Spring Lake and Boonton. It does not appear, in our judgment, that these transactions were to the disadvantage of the Sinking Fund. In no instance did the testimony disclose that any exorbitant profit had been realized by the brokerage firms from whom these bonds were purchased.

We believe that the affairs of the Sinking Fund Commission, since its inception in 1920, under the various Governors, Comptrollers and Treasurers, have been conducted in a manner which would compare favorably with any private trust or institutional fund.

It cannot be expected that the trustees of the particular State Sinking Fund can exercise any more wisdom or discrimination than that exercised by any large private investment fund or board of directors.

Their responsibility to the people of the State, with respect to this fund, might be placed in the same category as the responsibility of the Board of Directors of an industrial or investment corporation.

Decision of the courts of this State are to the effect that the responsibility, which is inherent to a director, is only for the exercise of his best judgment.

During the period of years over which the investigation extended, purchases were made from approximately twenty separate brokerage firms, in addition to equally as many municipalities direct.

The Sinking Fund Commission, for each of the bond acts in question, is created by referendum legislative enactment. Their duties are especially prescribed in the statute and no action of the Legislature could alter the responsibility placed upon them by the creative legislation.

The total of the three funds in question is now $9,500,000, in excess of the legal amortization requirements of the funds. This creates a surplus of a substantial sum to provide for contingencies such as temporary defaults in bonds, due to the present economic condition.

No better testimony, as to the wise administration of these trust funds can be given than by directing attention to the recent sale of $5,000,000 New Jersey State bonds, sold under competitive bidding, at a coupon rate of 3¾%, with a slight premium.

It is noteworthy also that of the investments made by the Sinking Fund Commission in the bonds of the various municipalities that the percentage of defaults is, comparatively speaking, very small, and, in every instance, it may reasonably and prudently be expected that these defaults will be taken up and the bonds paid with all accrued charges in ample time to meet any obligations of the Sinking Fund Commission against which the bonds have been taken.

It is earnestly to be recommended that full publication be given the proceedings and schedule of investments made by the Sinking Fund Commission and that provision be made to make available to the Sinking Fund Commission expert advice and assistance with respect to the desirability of any investments that may be proposed to the Commission.

We feel that the investigation has refuted the erroneous conclusions relating to the administration of the funds, and their status as administered by the three highest executives of the State, definitely clarified.

EXHIBIT "A"

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL
TRENTON

November 22, 1933.

Hon. Dryden Kuser,
Senator, Somerset County,
State House.

MY DEAR SENATOR KUSER:

I have your letter of the 20th instant, requesting my opinion whether the Legislature has the power by statute to change, alter or repeal any of the powers now vested in the several sinking fund commissions by the various bond acts authorized by the Legislature and approved by the people.

By Paragraph 4, Section VI of Article IV. of the Constitution of this State, no debt or debts of the State can be created which, singly or in the aggregate, exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for certain purposes specifically set forth in the paragraph in question, unless the same be authorized by law for some single object or work, which law must provide the ways and means to pay the debt, which law is irrepealable until such debt and the interest thereon are fully paid and discharged. The clause of the Constitution just referred to requires that such law shall be sanctioned by the people at a general election

The various sinking funds will be found in Chapter 159 of the Laws of 1920; Chapter 352 of the Laws of the same year; Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1922, Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1924, and Chapter 181 of the Laws of 1927.

The powers of the sinking fund commissions created by these acts are defined in the acts themselves. The commission in each instance consists of the Governor, State Comptroller and State Treasurer, and under the Constitutional clause above referred to, I am of opinion that it is beyond the power of the Legislature to change, alter or repeal any of the provisions of these statutes, so long as the debt created by any such statutes is outstanding.

Very truly yours,

(signed) W. A. STEVENS,
Attorney-General.

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. An Advisory Council to the State Sinking Fund Commission is hereby created. It shall consist of three (3) members who shall be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and one of whom shall be appointed upon the recommendation of the New Jersey State Bankers' Association. The members of this Advisory Council shall be chosen because of their qualifications to select proper investments for the sinking funds. The term of office shall commence April first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four; one of the members to be appointed to serve for a term of one (1) year, one for a term of two (2) years, and one for a term of three (3) years, and at the expiration of these terms thereafter each member to be appointed shall serve for a term of three (3) years. The members shall serve without compensation.

2. The Advisory Council shall organize by selecting a chairman and a secretary.

3. The duties of the Advisory Council shall be to consider the purchase, sale or exchange of securities of the several sinking funds of the State, either at the request of the Sinking Fund Commission or upon their own initiative, and they shall submit their recommendations in writing for such purchases, sales or exchanges to the Sinking Fund Commission, which recommendations shall be kept as a record of the Sinking Fund Commission. The Advisory Council may make public, prior to action by the Sinking Fund Commission, their recommendations regarding such purchases, sales or exchanges.

4. The Advisory Council is hereby authorized to employ such expert and clerical services as they may deem necessary, when the appropriation therefor shall have been included in any general or special act of the Legislature.

5 This act shall take effect immediately.

Mr. Naughright moved that the report be received and spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

Mr. King submitted the following minority report for the Committee on Economy and Reorganiaztion on Investments and Management of several sinking funds of this State:

To the Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

This Commission was created by joint resolution of November 14, 1933, which constituted the respective Senate and House Committees on Economy and Reorganization a Commission to investigate the investments and management of the several sinking funds of the State of New Jersey. This Commission has had no appropriation.

The Commission organized by electing Senator Dryden Kuser, Chairman; Assemblyman Elmer S. King, Vice-Chairman; Assemblyman Fred W. Fort, Jr., Secretary. The Commission appointed as its counsel Robert H. McCarter. John W. Wehman was chosen as expert accountant and Ralph Newton appointed clerk.

Preceding the creation of this Commission, the joint Economy and Reorganization Committee had held three public hearings to investigate the sinking funds in accordance with the following recommendation of the Princeton Survey:

> "It is not within the scope of this survey to make an investigation of the sinking funds for the retirement of State bonds. Sufficient information has been obtained, however, to suggest the need for a thorough study of the investments and management of these funds. It is recommended that a special investigation be made of this matter.
> "The Sinking Fund Commission consists of the Treasurer, the Comptroller and the Governor. The chief auditor in the Comptroller's department serves as its administrative officer in the purchase of investments. His work in connection with the sinking funds has no proper relation to his position as the chief auditor. We recommend that the commissioner of fiscal control be made the secretary of the Sinking Fund Commission. It is further suggested that a person skilled in investment work be employed to assist the commission in managing the State sinking funds. Consideration should be given to the possibility of having this man assist in the purchase of investments for the State pension funds and the school funds."

After the creation of the Commission two additional hearings were held.

Witnesses who testified at those five hearings either as a result of subpœna or request were as follows: State Treasurer Albert C. Middleton, a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; State Comptroller John M. McCutcheon, a member of the Sinking Fund Commission; Colonel Harry B. Salter, Secretary of the Sinking Fund Commission; Horace G. Githens, Deputy State Treasurer; Owen Kite, Deputy Comptroller; Gouverneur M. Carnochan, municipal bond expert; John W. Wehman, expert accountant; George E. Bailey and William J. Dwyer, of the firm of George E. Bailey & Company, brokers; William C. Heppenheimer, Jr., President, Trust Company of New Jersey; Walter R. Darby, State Auditor; Mayor Arthur Rhodes, of Hawthorne; City Treasurer John Franz, of Clifton; William D. Quinn, Director of Revenue and Finance of Jersey City; William V. McKenzie, member of the borough council of Metuchen; John A. Wood, 3rd, Secretary, Teachers' Retirement Fund, and Miss McLaughlin, stenographer, Comptroller's office.

Governor A. Harry Moore, also a member of the Sinking Fund Commission, submitted a written statement at the April hearing of the Economy and Reorganization Committee. In accordance with an opinion of the Attorney-General, the Commission did not have the power to subpœna the Governor. He was requested to appear in person at the January 4th hearing, but was not present.

The Commission made a careful investigation of the procedure which has been followed by the Sinking Fund Commission in making investments, the quality of these investments, and the prices paid for them in comparison with a fair market value on the date of purchase. The period covered was from January 1, 1931, to September 30, 1933.

Findings of Fact

There are three separate sinking funds of the State of New Jersey. They are for the retirement of the following bond issues: New Jersey Soldiers' Bonus bonds issued under Chapter 159 of the Laws of 1930; the State highway bonds issued under Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1922, and the State highway extension bonds issued under Chapter 181 of the Laws of 1927. In each of the acts authorizing these bond issues a State Sinking Fund Commission is provided for to consist of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury, and the State Treasurer.

The investments of the Sinking Fund valued at par, as shown by the Treasurer's Report for June 30, 1933, total $66,609,697.96.

Procedure

Purchases are authorized at meetings of the Sinking Fund Commission. These meetings are held whenever necessary and the three members can "get together."

State Comptroller McCutcheon and State Treasurer Middleton testified that the action of the Commission is always unanimous and that no purchases are ever made without the approval of all three members. Secretary Salter testified that purchases have been made with only two members present, and the minutes confirm his testimony. Two members constitute a quorum.

Purchases are made from offerings sent to the Sinking Fund Commission by brokerage houses or municipalities and are submitted to the Commission by the Secretary. The Commission never invites proposals or, in the case of dealings with brokers, never seeks to obtain better bids.

The minutes of the Commission are kept in a loose-leaf book by the Secretary, and are general in character. They fail to show by whom motions are made or seconded and fail to record any discussion concerning purchases.

Mr. Githens, Deputy State Treasurer, who keeps the books of the Sinking Fund, and secures the approval of the Attorney-General on purchases as to legality, testified as follows: "We secure from the bond house or whoever has charge of the proceedings a copy of those proceedings (municipal proceedings). We then go to the Commissioner of Municipal Accounts, who gives us a debt statement which must not exceed 30%. They are then gathered together and sent to the Attorney-General for his approval."

Policy

The sole purpose of these funds is for the liquidation of certain of the State's bonded indebtedness. The Commission is charged with the investment of these funds so that such funds will satisfy not only the legal requirements, but also the highest standard of quality in order that cash assets will be available as needed for the purpose of debt retirement. This implies that discrimination must be exercised in the selection of investments.

The Sinking Fund Commission deemed it proper to purchase municipal bonds in order to aid municipalities and banks in distress, even though it meant the sacrifice of the quality of bonds held by the Sinking Fund. Secretary Salter stated: "It has been the policy of the Commission in every case to assist those smaller municipalities who cannot market their bonds."

This was the case in several municipalities and in at least four banks where pressure was exerted upon the Sinking Fund Commission to purchase municipal securities held by these banks.

The Commission has on occasions attempted to try to increase the income of the fund to the detriment of the safety of the security. This is evidenced by the testimony of Colonel Salter, who states: "There are hundreds of municipalities whose bonds won't be purchased by private concerns, but so far as State officials are concerned they look upon them as their children and they would buy them so long as the price is safe." That they have done so even without regard to price was demonstrated.

Colonel Salter further testified: "I consider an investment in any municipality of the State that is not in default a good sound investment. I don't know if I wouldn't vote for it then if it were in default. I see no reason why the State should not invest in the bonds of its children unless they are considered in the hands of a municipal refinance corporation."

It will be shown in a later paragraph that prices far above market values for that period have been paid for bonds purchased by the Sinking Fund. State Treasurer Middleton and State Comptroller McCutcheon both contend that the price paid is of little importance if there is a belief that the municipality will eventually pay. They seem totally to ignore the fact that if they had purchased the same or equivalent bonds from another source, the sinking fund would have paid less for them and, therefore, would have had that much additional money to invest in other securities. As stated above, no attempt has been made to secure better prices than those which come voluntarily to the Commission in offers from brokers.

It is apparent that among the various activities and duties of the Governor, including both the present incumbent and his predecessor, the State Treasurer and the State Comptroller, the administration of the Sinking Fund plays a small part. That Governor A. Harry Moore realized this situation is shown by the statement which he sent to this Commission at its November hearing that he approved of the Princeton survey recommendation. He stated he felt that as he was not a bond expert he should have, as a member of the Sinking Fund Commission, the services of an expert. He also favored the fullest publicity for all of the transactions of the Sinking Fund Commission. It is regretted that such reforms have not been carried out.

It is obvious from the testimony of both the State Treasurer and the State Comptroller that they knew little of what had transpired at the meetings of the Sinking Fund Commission. The State Treasurer admitted that he never read the minutes of previous meetings. Mr. McCutcheon testified that he did not believe that the recommendation of the Princeton survey that the Commission should employ expert advice would materially improve the situation. Mr. Middleton expressed a similar opinion. They appeared to be satisfied with conditions as they are.

The testimony reveals a lack of familiarity by the members of the Commission with the transactions of the Sinking Fund and indicates that the Commission has relied in great measure upon the Secretary, in whom rests no responsibility for the acts of the Commission.

Although Secretary Salter at first testified that he considered his duties as Secretary merely clerical duties and that he never offered advice either when asked or voluntarily, and that he never recommended the value or advisability of investments, nevertheless, he later contradicted this statement and said that he tells the members of the Commission what he thinks of an offer when they asked him, as they did in the case of the exchange of Jersey City bonds in 1933.

Furthermore, State Treasurer Middleton testified that Colonel Salter answers requests from municipalities when they offer their issues to the Sinking Fund for purchase, but "has an idea that he consults with us."

The entire evidence reveals that the Secretary is far more than merely a secretary and in large part determines the policies and purchases of the Commission.

There is no fixed policy as to the amount of bonds which are purchased from any one municipality. There are in the sinking fund $4,997,000 bonds of the City of Clifton, and $3,330,000 bonds of the Township of Woodbridge. Considerably more than ten per cent. of the total investments of the Sinking Fund are held in bonds of these two municipalities.

Brokers

Whereas other sinking funds purchase a large proportion of their investments directly from the issuing authorities, the Sinking Fund Commission buys mostly through brokers. As contrasted with the Teachers' Retirement Fund, which from July 1, 1925, to December, 1933, purchased sixty-four per cent. of its securities direct from school districts or municipalities, the State Sinking Fund Commission purchased only about twenty per cent. of its investments direct, as testified to by the Comptroller. This is even more peculiar in the fact of the avowed purpose of the Commission to aid municipalities. The Commission admits that they simply take what the brokers offer instead of trying to help the municipalities direct, and yet they give the excuse that they are trying to help municipalities. Comptroller McCutcheon testified that no attempts are made to buy from municipalities unless the municipality makes its offer directly to the Sinking Fund. This was also verified by the testimony of Secretary Salter, who also admitted that it was well known that some municipalities received no bids for their bonds during the past few years.

The only excuse offered for not making more of its purchases directly from municipalities so that they may be aided and so that either the State or the municipality may receive the advantage of the premium at which the bonds are purchased in excess of the price at which they are issued, is that when the offer is made there are no moneys in hand to make the purchase. This is the excuse frequently given in letters to such municipalities as apply. Even if this were true, there has been no attempt made to get in touch with those municipalities when moneys came in shortly afterward for investment, and when it was well known that the municipalities had still been unable to market their bonds. As a matter of fact, however, both Secretary Salter and Mr. McCutcheon testified under examination that they do violate the policy of not buying unless moneys are in hand.

State Treasurer Middleton testified that it was at times impossible to take up the entire amount of an issue offered by a municipality, whereas they could take a part thereof after the broker had taken the entire issue. This might at times hold true, but certainly it was not true during the year 1931, when $25,000,000 was received from the Port of New York Authority and had to be invested. It was testified that it took nearly one year before all of this was so invested.

It seems a strange coincidence that when municipalities offer their issues to the Sinking Fund they are frequently told that there is no money available, but when any one of a small number of brokers make offerings the money seems to be there or to be coming in within the near future, and a commitment is made.

It is noteworthy that the Sinking Fund Commission deals with a very limited number of brokers. Comptroller McCutcheon testified that only about twenty different houses had been dealt with during the past few years. The records show that less than ten received the vast majority of the business. This is a remarkably small number with whom a fund of this nature should deal, and it would indicate favoritism for this particular group of brokers.

Another fact which appears upon investigation of the purchases of the Sinking Fund is that in many cases the brokers who sell to the Sinking Fund do not purchase their securities until they have arranged to sell them to the Sinking Fund and secure either an actual or a virtual option from the municipality. In this way no financial risk is involved and the high premiums paid as a profit to the brokers are even more unjustified.

It was brought out that when there is no money on hand, the Sinking Fund goes into trading of bonds already in its possession for other bonds, which exchanges have invariably been to the detriment of the fund both as to quality and market value. The only excuse offered is a greater interest rate, which increase is incomparable to the risk of security and the price paid in excess of market values.

Although a surplus is shown in the Treasurer's Report, it is a surplus based on the full payment of the investments of the fund at maturity and at par.

That such a surplus is an artificial one is obvious and is illustrated by the fact that many of the municipalities have been unable to pay their obligations to the Sinking Fund at maturity. Some of these have been allowed extensions in the form of exchanges of new bonds for bonds due. Actual defaults, as testified to by Deputy Treasurer Githens, were as follows as of the given dates:

	Principal	Interest
June 30, 1933, ..	$1,940,000	$405,418 76
November 30, 1933, ...	2,167,000	746,333 35

In order to meet maturities of State bonds, it was necessary to borrow under authority of the Legislature a sum of $3,558,750 from the State Highway Fund on June 30, 1933, and $3,886,750 on December 31, 1933, of which $3,107,250 is still due. It is true that the fund does not entirely depend upon the maturity of its investments to meet the maturity of State bonds, but certainly a proper management of the fund through investments of higher quality and through a saving by purchasing at lower prices would have meant a great difference in these amounts.

Excess Prices

Comptroller McCutcheon testified as follows: "We are governed by the offerings we have from time to time. We don't go out and search for any particular issues and attempt to secure them." This same procedure is verified by the testimony of Secretary Salter. As previously explained, offerings that come in are either accepted or rejected and no attempt made to secure the same bonds at a lower price from the same or another source.

At the inception of this investigation, this Commission appreciated that if it were to analyze every transaction of the Sinking Fund for the past few years it would involve a considerable expense and it would be unable to complete its work for more than a year. This is largely due to the fact that municipal bonds are not quoted daily in the press as in the case of securities listed on the stock exchange and that, therefore, market values must be obtained either by instances of actual sales of the same or corresponding securities or by reference to offering sheets of different municipal bond houses.

Therefore, the Commission determined that it would confine its attentions to certain typical cases which had already come to its attention and would analyze these in detail. In thirteen cases specifically examined by the Commission, and which involved a purchase of $7,739,000 bonds, there was paid by the Sinking Fund Commission an estimated amount of $395,964 * in excess of fair market values as of the date of purchase, an amount of $227,801.70 in premiums for bonds previously issued shortly before by the municipality at par, and a loss of approximately $30,000 in a trading proposition on bonds of high quality delivered out of the Sinking Fund for a price less than the price paid therefor. Considering only these thirteen cases, the total amount which should be an asset to the Fund today is approximately $653,765.70.

Clifton Purchase

Comptroller McCutcheon testified that he lives in Paterson at a distance of four miles from Clifton and yet was unaware of a large issue of bonds of the City of Clifton at the time of their issuance in 1931. This seems inconceivable because of the wide publicity of this issue which was for Clifton's share of the purchase of the Passaic Consolidated Water Company. Comptroller McCutcheon testified that he did not bring to the attention of the members of the Sinking Fund Commission the issuance of the Clifton bonds. However, shortly thereafter $3,835,000 of these bonds were purchased by the Sinking Fund Commission from a broker at a premium of $227,801.

An additional fact found by this Commission in investigating the Clifton situation and which shows the lack of care exhibited by those in control of the funds is that more than a million dollars' worth of the Clifton bonds were purchased in excess of authorizations by the Sinking Fund Commission so to do.

Metuchen Purchase

The town of Metuchen authorized a bond issue of $213,000 in the autumn of 1931. An option was granted to B. J. VanIngen early in November for a period of two weeks, the issue to be at par and at 6%. At the end of two weeks the option was extended. In the second week of December the offer was accepted and the bonds were delivered to VanIngen on April 25, 1932.

Those same bonds were sold to the Sinking Fund by C. P. Dunning on December 1st, 1931, at an average price of 106.65.

This is a typical case to illustrate that bonds are actually sold to the Sinking Fund at a high premium and before they are purchased by the broker from the municipality.

First Jersey City Exchange

The most flagrant instance of excess price paid was the purchase on November 10, 1931, of $775,000 Jersey City 5's, due October 1, 1945-1949, inclusive, on a 4.00% basis in exchange for a like amount of Jersey City 3½'s, due August 1, 1934. The vendor, B. J. VanIngen & Company, was not a member of the syndicate which purchased these bonds on a 5.00% basis on November 9th and offered them publicly by advertisement in the New York City papers and by circular on a 4.75% basis on the same day that the Commission made this commitment. The members of the Sinking Fund Commission and the Secretary were unable to explain why the Commission did not deal directly with the syndicate composed of the Chase, Harris, Forbes Company, National City Company, and N. W. Harris Company, which would have effected a saving of $37,510 of the State's money. The Jersey City 3½% bonds were sold at $31,000 above a fair market value, but the Jersey City 5% bonds were purchased at $68,510 above the fair market value.

Atlantic City Exchange

During the summer of 1932 the Sinking Fund Commission was approached by an investment dealer, B. J. VanIngen & Company, with the suggestion of exchanging blocks of the highest grade municipal bonds held by the State Sinking Fund for those of Atlantic City. On August 24th the Commission authorized the purchase of $1,205,000 Atlantic City bonds for an equal amount of the following securities then held in the Sinking Funds: $858,000 Essex County 4¼'s, $151,000 South Orange and Maplewood 4¼'s to 4¾'s, $100,000 Somerset County 4½'s, and $96,000 Montclair 4¼'s and 4½'s. These bonds were of the highest quality of New Jersey municipals, while those of Atlantic City were quoted at 65.

Confirmation of this exchange was sent to the dealer, B. J. VanIngen & Company, but the deal was never consummated, although the authorization has never been cancelled by the Sinking Fund Commission. Comptroller McCutcheon admitted that he voted for the Atlantic City trade to help the banks and the city of Atlantic City and that it probably would have gone through except that the trade leaked out to the public and the hue and cry of the press stopped it. Treasurer Middleton admitted that he voted for it on August 24th because he thought it was all right, but that he was instrumental in stopping it after he learned that Atlantic City bonds were "no good", "have no credit." His reason for rushing to Sea Girt to see the Governor and have the deal stopped was that he found out that the bonds were selling about 60 because he happened to see it in a circular letter and this caused him to investigate the situation.

Neither Mr. Middleton nor Mr. McCutcheon knew that the resolution had not been rescinded.

Atlantic City Purchase

In spite of the fact that the Atlantic City trade of August 24, 1932, was not consummated because of the inferior quality of Atlantic City bonds when this was eventually brought to their attention, the Sinking Fund Commission in February, 1933, purchased $500,000 Atlantic City's at par. Comptroller McCutcheon could give no reasons for voting for such a purchase.

Treasurer Middleton stated that he voted to purchase these at par "because the hotel owners and big men of the town—twenty to twenty-five of them—requested us to do it." The interest on these bonds has not been paid, although it was due on July 7, 1933.

Second Jersey City Exchange

The purchase of $1,027,000 Jersey City bonds was authorized by the Sinking Fund Commission on August 22, 1933, in exchange for certain securities then held by the Sinking Fund as shown in Exhibit "B", with a net loss in comparative market values of $278,894. Furthermore, the bonds which were traded out of the Sinking Fund were sold at approximately $30,000 less than would have been realized if they had been held until maturity.

The Jersey City bonds were purchased from George E. Bailey & Company at an average price of 109.46. The bonds had immediately prior to this been purchased by Bailey & Company from the Trust Company of New Jersey at a price of 99.

The proposition arose from a series of conferences held by Jersey City bankers whose object was to aid the city in what William C. Heppenheimer, Jr., President of the Trust Company of New Jersey, testified was a straitened financial condition. These conferences commenced in the summer of 1932, and it was the consensus of opinion of the Jersey City banking interests that Jersey City needed assistance. The Jersey City bonds were not then and have not since been a liquid investment. The subject of selling Jersey City bonds directly to the Sinking Fund was discussed, but nothing resulted from this suggestion. Out of a total of $5,000,000 Jersey City Tax Revenue bonds outstanding, $4,500,000 were held by the Jersey City banks. Of these, $2,500,000 were held by the Trust Company of New Jersey.

The late General William C. Heppenheimer, then chairman of the board of the Trust Company of New Jersey, told Mr. Dwyer, vice-president of the firm of George E. Bailey & Company, according to Mr. Dwyer's testimony, that he, General Heppenheimer, had been trying to get the Sinking Fund to interest themselves in relieving the situation. He then spoke to Mr. Dwyer after failing to make a cash sale of the Jersey City notes in his bank to the Sinking Fund and urged Mr. Dwyer to engage himself in liquifying the situation. This was during the first part of March, 1933. General Heppenheimer had been told by the Sinking Fund Commission that they had no cash with which to make the purchase.

Mr. Dwyer conceived the idea of an exchange of the Jersey City bonds for other bonds held in the Sinking Fund and brought it to the attention of General Heppenheimer early in April, 1933. General Heppenheimer was cognizant of the attempt by George E. Bailey & Company to purchase the Jersey City bonds of the trust company and exchange them for bonds held in the Sinking Fund.

State Treasurer Middleton testified that General Heppenheimer first brought to his attention the matter of the proposed Jersey City exchange and that this was in July, 1933. However, Mr. Middleton testified that he understood at that time that the bonds were to be an outright purchase and directly from the City of Jersey City. General Heppenheimer having been taken seriously ill in July and later having died on September 29, 1933, the matter of the sale of the Jersey City bonds by the trust company was handled from August on by William C. Heppenheimer, Jr., president of the Trust Company of New Jersey, who testified that he first heard of the proposition that the Jersey City bonds held by the trust company were to be exchanged for bonds in the Sinking Fund in August and that he learned this from Mr. Dwyer. He was unable to give the exact date.

The Trust Company of New Jersey gave a thirty-day option to George E. Bailey & Company to buy the bonds from the trust company on the statement of Mr. Dwyer that he expected to be able to sell them to the Sinking Fund, although the Sinking Fund Commission had not yet given the authorization.

Mr. Dwyer, acting for George E. Bailey & Company, interested B. J. VanIngen & Company with the proposition in June or July, 1933, and the offer which was finally made to the Sinking Fund for the exchange was written in the office of B. J. VanIngen, although signed by the president of and now in the files of George E. Bailey & Company. Furthermore, the securities which were to be taken out of the Sinking Fund were selected by Mr. VanIngen. There was an understanding that VanIngen would take the bonds from Bailey when they were received from the Sinking Fund, although no price arrangement was agreed upon. Inasmuch as only $652,000 of the Jersey City bonds have actually been delivered to and other bonds of an equal amount received from the Sinking Fund, it appears that there is an obvious understanding not only between George E. Bailey & Company and B. J. VanIngen, but also with the Sinking Fund Commission that the deal will only be consummated when, as, and if B. J. VanIngen & Company have been able to secure purchasers for the bonds which they are to receive. It appears that the VanIngen buyers have vanished and that the State is, therefore, not pushing the completion of the deal.

The Trust Company of New Jersey arranged and financed the entire deal for George E. Bailey & Company. The bonds held by the Trust Company, which were Tax Revenues of 1932, were exchanged by the trust company under authorization of municipal resolution of September 5, 1933, for re-funding bonds which the trust company delivered to

Bailey & Company. The Jersey City bonds were sold by the trust company to Bailey & Company at 99 as the result of the option and were put up as collateral at the bank for a broker's loan. A messenger of the trust company accompanied Mr. Bailey to Trenton with the bonds and a State's check was taken back for deposit with the trust company to cover the loan. The bonds were sold to the State at an average price of 109.46, but in computing the excess price to the State it must be realized that the bonds held in the Sinking Fund and which were traded out were sold at par, resulting in a net excess price of $278,894. (See Exhibit "B".)

The bonds which were received by Bailey & Company from the State on the same day on which delivery of the Jersey City bonds was made had previously been sold to VanIngen & Company and were delivered the same day to them.

The strange part of the transaction is that, according to the testimony of Mr. Dwyer, George E. Bailey & Company had not approached the Sinking Fund Commission to see if they were willing to accept the exchange prior to the letter of offer of August 18, 1933. In the meantime, however, they had made all arrangements to sell the bonds to B. J. VanIngen & Company, who had formed a syndicate, although it had no option from the Sinking Fund Commission or even any idea, according to the testimony given by Mr. Dwyer, as to whether the Sinking Fund Commission would be willing to sell. Mr. Dwyer's only reason for optimism in putting through such a deal was that he was sure, based on experience, that the Sinking Fund Commission would do this in such a case.

The apparent ignorance of George E. Bailey, president of George E. Bailey & Company concerning the deal is noteworthy. He claimed that he had only heard of it a week prior to the writing of the letter which he signed, although negotiations had been under way for a considerable length of time. It seems strange that a million-dollar deal would not have reached the ears of the president of the brokers who were making the deal, especially when the firm has a very small capital, and the deal was their largest of the year.

Mr. Dwyer, when asked why, if his object was to relieve the frozen assets of the banks of Jersey City, which he had stated was a motive, he had not taken some of the securities of other banks, his explanation was that he had not gotten around to it as yet, but he would have tried trading more bonds to the Sinking Fund for the trust company and other Hudson banks if Senator Kuser and his Commission had not raised a protest when they learned of the proceedings.

One of the reasons given for this exchange was to help Jersey City. This seems difficult to understand in view of the fact that all of the proceeds from the sale of the Jersey City bonds went to the Trust Company of New Jersey, who have not re-invested this money in Jersey City paper.

When Mr. Heppenheimer, Jr., was asked what his attitude would be if a request were now made by Jersey City, he replied he thinks the bank "has as heavy a commitment as we want at this time."

Little attempt was made and only feeble excuses were offered by the members of the Sinking Fund Commission in justification of the acceptance of this Jersey City transaction. The only explanation offered was an anticipated greater income from the new bonds. That this is negligible in comparison with the excessive prices paid, added to the losses of the bonds sold out of the Sinking Fund, is obvious. Nor does this take into account the important factor of security.

Comptroller McCutcheon testified that he never bothered to find out the value of Jersey City bonds at that time. Mr. Middleton testified that he never at that time looked at values of Jersey City's either in the Financial Chronicle or in the weekly sheets of Rippel & Company or the Bond and Quotation Record. He apparently went along merely on the say-so of Secretary Salter.

That the State Treasurer's office desired to conceal the transaction was shown by the fact that when Senator Kuser telephoned to the office of Treasurer Middleton on October 5, 1933, six weeks after the authorization of the deal and on the very date on which the first of the series of Jersey City bonds were delivered to the Treasurer, the knowledge that such a transaction had been authorized or was even being considered was denied by the Deputy Treasurer who received the bonds. Mr. Middleton, when questioned regarding this, was unable to explain.

The uncompleted part of this exchange has never been rescinded by the Sinking Fund Commission.

Conclusions

The Sinking Fund Commission is entrusted with the care of various State sinking funds. Their duties in this respect must be considered in the light of trustees of public funds. In the opinion of this Commission, the members of the Sinking Fund Commission have invested funds without adequate, reasonable and prudent investigation of the proposed investment. Such practice would not be sanctioned in the management of private trusts and it cannot be condoned in a public trust.

The investment policy of the Sinking Fund in certain instances has been influenced by the expressed desire to assist local units of the State and banks, resulting in the purchase of the obligations of municipalities which may be classified as inferior to the standard of quality generally recognized as proper for the investment of sinking funds.

There has been a lack of, and in some cases, prevention of, publicity of authorized purchases.

The Sinking Fund has made purchases, sales and exchanges of securities presumably to help municipalities. That such transactions would not help the municipalities was known, or could have been ascertained by a reasonable investigation by the Sinking Fund Commission. In completing some of these transactions the Sinking Fund Commission has disposed of some of the best bonds held in this fund for bonds of an inferior rating.

There is no evidence before us that the members of the Sinking Fund Commission made any investigation of the rating of securities prior to the purchase thereof.

The evidence indicates that the members of the Sinking Fund Commission know very little about the condition of the fund or its management. Considerable responsibility of the Commission was delegated to its secretary.

Securities offered by brokers were considered and acted upon by the Sinking Fund Commission without a proper investigation of the fair market value. This practice resulted in the payment of prices in excess of the fair market value of such securities.

Transactions investigated by this Commission indicate that purchases, sales and exchanges were made through a limited number of brokers.

No attempt was made by the Sinking Fund Commission to buy securities directly from counties or municipalities. In some cases brokers have secured an option from the municipalities to buy a bond issue, and before such option had been exercised the purchase of these securities from such broker was authorized by the Sinking Fund Commission. Broker's profits would have been saved by direct purchase.

We, therefore, make the following recommendations:

Recommendations

The Legislature is seriously hampered in passing corrective measures for the management of the State Sinking Funds by the fact that authority is vested in the Sinking Fund Commission as a part of bond acts ratified by referenda of the people, which acts are, therefore, unalterable by statute.

All measures which may be enacted by the Legislature in the management of the present sinking funds must, therefore, be limited to requests to the Commission and to the setting up of machinery, but the use of which cannot be made mandatory. The Legislature must depend upon public opinion in securing the adoption of its recommendations by the Sinking Fund Commission.

For this purpose the following acts and resolutions are recommended: *

* Copies of which will be found in Exhibits "C", "D", "E", and "F".

1. An act creating an Advisory Council to the Sinking Fund Commission, to which Council all purchases, sales or exchanges of securities for the several sinking funds of the State may be submitted before they shall be authorized by the Commission. The Advisory Council may also make recommendations on its own initiative. The Advisory Council shall consist of three members to be chosen by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and one of whom shall be recommended to the Governor by the New Jersey State Bankers' Association. They shall serve for a term commencing April 1, 1934, without compensation. They shall be chosen because of their qualifications to select proper investments for all sinking funds.

2. An act providing that the Sinking Fund Commission shall, after each of its meetings, immediately release for publication a statement showing all purchases, sales, or exchanges authorized at such meeting, together with complete information thereof. In addition thereto the Sinking Fund Commission shall issue quarterly statements listing all such purchases, sales or exchanges during the three months immediately preceding and shall cause the publication of such quarterly statement in six newspapers in the State of New Jersey and in one financial paper in New York and one in Philadelphia.

3. A resolution urging the Sinking Fund Commission to immediately rescind the authorization for the purchase of the Atlantic City bonds in exchange for certain bonds in the Sinking Fund, which authorization was made on August 24, 1932.

4. A resolution urging the Sinking Fund Commission to immediately rescind the uncompleted part of the purchase of Jersey City bonds in exchange for certain bonds now in the Sinking Fund, which authorization was made on August 22, 1933.

EXHIBIT "A"

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
TRENTON

November 22, 1933.

Hon. Dryden Kuser,
Senator, Somerset County,
State House.

MY DEAR SENATOR KUSER:

I have your letter of the 20th instant, requesting my opinion whether the Legislature has the power by statute to change, alter or repeal any of the powers now vested in the several sinking fund commissions by the various bond acts authorized by the Legislature and approved by the people.

By Paragraph 4, Section VI of Article IV. of the Constitution of this State, no debt or debts of the State can be created which, singly or in the aggregate, exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for certain purposes specifically set forth in the paragraph in question, unless the same be authorized by law for some single object or work, which law must provide the ways and means to pay the debt, which law is irrepealable until such debt and the interest thereon are fully paid and discharged. The clause of the Constitution just referred to requires that such law shall be sanctioned by the people at a general election

The various sinking funds will be found in Chapter 159 of the Laws of 1920; Chapter 352 of the Laws of the same year; Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1922; Chapter 262 of the Laws of 1924, and Chapter 181 of the Laws of 1927.

The powers of the sinking fund commissions created by these acts are defined in the acts themselves. The commission in each instance consists of the Governor, State Comptroller and State Treasurer, and under the Constitutional clause above referred to, I am of opinion that it is beyond the power of the Legislature to change, alter or repeal any of the provisions of these statutes, so long as the debt created by any such statutes is outstanding

Very truly yours,

(signed) W A STEVENS,
Attorney-General.

Which motion was adopted.

Mr. Fort submitted the following report pursuant to the provisions of Senate Joint Resolution No. 25, to make a thorough study and survey of the deficiencies, flaws and inadequacies of the operation of the present Workmen's Compensation Act of New Jersey, and to consider the necessity and advisability of appropriate changes to be embodied in the act:

To the Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

The Commission appointed pursuant to the provisions of Senate Joint Resolution No. 25 to make a thorough study and survey of the deficiencies, flaws and inadequacies in the operation of the present Workmen's Compensation Act of New Jersey, and to consider the necessity and advisability of appropriate changes to be embodied in the act, respectfully makes the following preliminary statement:

Your Commission duly met and organized in October, 1933, at the city of Newark and elected Dr. Andrew F. McBride, president, and Fred W. Fort, Esq., secretary to the Commission.

The committee has been badly handicapped throughout its investigation because no money was provided to enable it to make a thoroughgoing, complete and exhaustive survey and study of compensation matters.

At the outset the Commission desires to thank Mr. James A. T. Gribben, statistician for the Department of Labor, for his painstaking examination of records and compilation of statistics, which were of great aid to the committee, and Mr. A. R. Lawrence, of the Compensation Insurance Rating Bureau, as well as Miss Jane Brown, who acted as stenographer.

The Commission held fourteen public hearings at the Court House in the City of Newark and considerable testimony was taken respecting the operations of the department: Bar Associations, Medical Societies, Insurance Societies and affiliates, Industrial Employers, Labor Unions, and many injured employees appeared before your committee; there was also presented to us the report of an Advisory Committee appointed by Colonel Blunt, dated March 14, 1931; report of the Casualty Underwriters Association of New Jersey, dated January 10, 1933; recommendations of Labor Union; criticisms of the act by Stephen J. Lorenz, counsel of Labor Department, Industrial Employers, recommendations of the Essex County Bar Association and others.

The testimony which was produced before us indicates that the act is very poorly administered, and a great deal of criticism has been directed against the practices before the bureau. It appears that litigants are unnecessarily harassed in the pursuit of their claims or in the defense of them by the dilatory tactics of some of the referees and deputy commissioners. Decorum seems to be utterly lacking in the hearing rooms. This lack of decorum and dignified proceedings has brought the bureau into disrespect, and the confidence of many petitioners that they have received a "square deal" is shaken. It appears to us that cases are adjourned easily; calendars are too heavy, deputy commissioners come on the bench very late, take an extra long luncheon hour, and thus delay and annoy litigants needlessly. It has been testified to before us by reputable witnesses, whose testimony carried conviction, that the hearing rooms are places for medical men to consort and solicit cases, and that very frequently cases are "picked up" by physicians hanging around the hearing rooms, patients examined, and the physician testifies all on the same day. The fee of such a physician being fixed by the deputy commissioner, and charged against the fund established to secure the compensation of workmen. It has even been represented to us that the testimony of such physicians carries greater weight with the deputy commissioner than other reputable medical testimony. We are also convinced that frequently there is an unnecessary array of medical witnesses presented, which only adds to the confusion of the deputy commissioner and amounts to an assault on the funds reserved to pay workmen's compensation.

Perhaps the greatest evil in the department are the so-called "informal hearings." These hearings are so poorly conducted that one referee referred to his courtroom as a "mad house." Printed lists of "recommended lawyers" were handed out to petitioners needing the services of a lawyer and in at least one instance a referee went to the house of a petitioner with a lawyer he recommended after that same referee had "sat" in the previous informal hearing in the same matter.

It appeared that cases are "compromised" at informal hearings, and orders made on such "compromises," by a deputy commissioner, who signs the order, to make it a binding agreement, without even reading the order he signs, the deputy relying entirely on the consent of the parties for the justness of the order. The great majority of the petitioners in these informal hearings have never been in a courtroom before, are unacquainted with the procedure; many cannot speak or understand English, and settlements are made for them in a "mad house."

There has been a total lack of supervision of the operations of the bureau. By the simple device adopted in Northern New Jersey of having nearly every case "compromised" and the order of the referee consented to by opposing counsel, even the supervision of the appellate courts has been removed. This lack of supervision in the department itself, and the inability of courts of law to interview because of the "compromise" feature has caused the department to become inefficient, unimpressive, and unsatisfactory to petitioner and defendant alike.

Nearly all of the witnesses who appeared before us have indicated that there is a definite "racket" conducted in the bureau. The witnesses are very positive in their statements. These insinuations are so insistent and persistent that the whole administration of the act is tainted with them. Your committee has not been provided with means to ferret out these matters; no money whatsoever has been provided to hire a competent and trained investigator to delve into these things and bring them to the surface. These "rackets" are said to exist among physicians who are alleged to have influence with referees and deputy commissioners, and whose "opinions" are accepted in preference to other reputable physicians; that certain lawyers are favored; that a spirit of camaraderie exists among officials, certain doctors, lawyers and insurance men, and that parties, trips and other affairs are jointly held by these groups. If these things were indulged in they should be uncovered, their methods exposed and barriers set up against the continuance of such practices. So great are these vices, and so real are they in the estimation of some insurance companies, that many insurance companies are withdrawing from the compensation field and others are indicating they will withdraw, or lessen their risks considerably.

These matters cannot be exposed and rectified by the summoning of witnesses and taking testimony. Rather an investigation must first be made, the testimony gathered and then presented. Inasmuch as many persons involved are members of the learned profession, some of the preliminary investigation should be done privately so that no one shall be injured in the course of the inquisition needlessly.

We, therefore, must strongly urge the Legislature to make an adequate appropriation to this committee to complete this most necessary work. No examination of the work of the department can ever be considered complete without a settling of these matters. An incomplete investigation should not be permitted. This bureau awards millions of dollars each year to crippled employees. The whole industry of the State is interested in the matter. We respectfully submit the job should be completed.

Respectfully submitted,

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT,

By ANDREW F. MCBRIDE,
President,

FRED W. FORT, JR.,
Secretary.

There being no objection, consent was granted.

The following Assembly Concurrent Resolution was introduced, was read for the first time, ordered to have a second reading and referred to committee as follows:

By Mr. McCampbell,

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 8,

Be It Resolved by the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey (the Senate concurring), That a committee of six be appointed, consisting of three members of the House, to be appointed by the Speaker, and three members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President, to investigate the closing of the Steneck Trust Company of Hoboken and subsequent conduct of the Banking Department of the State of New Jersey, with reference to the Steneck Trust Company, of Hoboken, also all matters connected with the reorganization and reopening of the said trust company.

Said committee shall have a right to employ counsel and to issue process of subpœna to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, or other evidence. Said committee shall report to the present Legislature before the closing of the session as to what, if any, action should be taken regarding the closing of the said Steneck Trust Company.

Explanation: The purpose of this investigation is to thoroughly investigate the closing of the Steneck Trust Company. It is alleged that the City of Hoboken had on deposit at the time of the closing of the company, $1,000,000. It is also alleged in the public press that the majority of stockholders of the Steneck Trust Company claim that the said company was solvent when closed. There have been various criminal trials and accusations made concerning the closing of the trust company. By the closing of the Steneck Trust Company it is alleged that the sum of $4,314,153.06 was withheld from depositors for a period of over two years. It has been further alleged in the proceedings in the Court of Chancery by stockholders in the Steneck Trust Company, as follows:

"For the purpose of fully informing this honorable court about the circumstances surrounding the execution of the various agreements referred to in the bill of complaint in this cause and made a part thereof, the defendants allege that on or before the signing of the agreement the Steneck Trust Company was closed by the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance on or about the twenty-seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, under the following circumstances:

"The Commissioner of Banking and Insurance notified the defendant on the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, that there would have to be $1,000,000 in cash deposited in said bank before three o'clock on the following day in order to save the bank; that subsequently thereto these defendants attended a meeting of bankers representing different banks in the County of Hudson at the Trust Company Building, Journal Square, and there was also present at this meeting the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. The matter of the closing of the Steneck Trust Company was discussed and the defendant, Henry C. Steneck, and his brother, George W. Steneck, who was the vice-president of said corporation, were excluded from the room where the meeting was held for some hours, while the bankers discussed the situation, and upon being readmitted to the room were given the following proposition:

"The spokesman for the bankers proposed that if * * * Henry C. Steneck and George W. Steneck would put up a bond for $1,000,000 and surrender all of their bank stock, that the bank would be allowed to remain open and, upon being told by these defendants that they were unable to do this, the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, then one Frank H. Smith, said that he would close the bank. These events occurred about eleven o'clock of the evening of June twenty-sixth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, and the next morning the Steneck Trust Company was closed and depositors were barred from access to their deposits, amounting to approximately $9,000,000. The bank remained closed and in the possession of the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance.

"On the thirty-first day of December, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one, there was a meeting between these defendants and other interested persons named defendants in the bill herein at an office in Jersey City, at which certain matters concerning the closing of the Steneck Trust Company were discussed, and it was stated by certain persons then present that, unless these defendants, Henry C. Steneck and George W. Steneck, entered into the various agreements as exhibited by the bill of complaint, that they would suffer indictment. At that time there were no indictments found against these defendants, yet they were threatened by certain persons then present at that meeting that, unless these defendants entered into the various agreements herein before referred to, they would be indicted.

These defendants, not being guilty of any crime and yet being illegally and wrongly threatened with indictment and desiring to save themselves from what was a great injustice which would be perpetrated upon them, entered into the various agreements hereinbefore referred to unwillingly and under duress, upon the promise that they would not be indicted and solely for the purpose of preventing these injustices being practiced upon them.

"3. The defendant, Henry C. Steneck, subsequently to this meeting, had twenty-seven indictments found against him, notwithstanding the promise hereinbefore given by the other persons present at the meeting referred to.

"The defendants charge that the various agreements entered into with John J. Fallon, and the complainant acting as intermediary are fraudulent; that these defendants were forced under duress to enter into these agreements, and that they are wholly void, being fraudulent and against public policy."

The "defendants" are Henry Steneck, George Steneck, Fallon and Fred A. Seide.

Fallon's answer to these allegations will be filed shortly.

Referred to the Committee on Banking and Insurance.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

March 27, 1934.

To the Legislature:

The continued existence of the great sugar refining industry in this country is threatened by the importation of sugar from countries which not only grow sugar, but are more and more going into the refining thereof.

Our sugar companies cannot compete with the cheap labor employed in the refining of this sugar, and the ultimate result will be the extinction of the industry and the loss of employment to many thousands of our fellow-citizens presently employed in the refining of sugar.

We of New Jersey are particularly interested, in that the National Sugar Refining Company has a huge plant at Edgewater, New Jersey, employing more than a thousand people.

Massachusetts has already memorialized Congress, and it has been suggested to me by United States Senator W. Warren Barbour, in which suggestions I heartily concur, that we should urge Congress to act favorably upon the Costigan Bill, now before it, which will continue to permit the importation of raw sugar, but give American labor the opportunity to refine it.

I respectfully urge your favorable action, and am attaching hereto an appropriate resolution.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

ATTEST:
FRANCES V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

Joint Resolution memorializing the Congress for the preservation of the industry of sugar refining in the United States.

WHEREAS, The preservation of the domestic industry of sugar refining requires a drastic limitation of importations of refined sugar from the insular possessions of the United States and from foreign countries; and

WHEREAS, The sugar refiners of New Jersey, in the event such limitations are imposed, will prosper materially and promote the general welfare of our State by employing great numbers of our citizens; and

WHEREAS, In order that these industries domiciled in our State may receive that degree of protection which is adequate and necessary; therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. That the Governor and the Legislature of the State of New Jersey do memorialize the Federal Congress to so exercise their powers of limitation as to substantially limit the importation of refined sugar from insular possessions of the United States and from foreign countries and thus insure the continuance in our State of a major industry employing thousands of our citizens.

2. That the Federal Congress is respectfully urged to enact the Costigan Bill, so-called, now pending before the Congress, and providing for quotas and control over supplies of raw sugar, and that the same be so amended by inserting therein provisions expressly limiting importations of refined sugar from insular possessions of the United States and from foreign countries; and

Be it Further Resolved, That this joint resolution, signed by the Governor and under the Great Seal of the State, be transmitted to the Vice-President of the United States and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, as the presiding officers of their respective branches of the Federal Congress.

3. This joint resolution shall take effect immediately.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the House of Assembly on April 3, the following response and report was delivered to the Clerk of the House and read:

THE PORT OF NEW YORK AUTHORITY
111 Eighth Avenue
New York City, April 7, 1934.

RESPONSE IN THE MATTER OF SUGGESTED REDUCTION OF HOLLAND TUNNEL TOLLS AND REQUEST FOR INFORMATION REGARDING INSURANCE

To the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

By a resolution adopted April 3, 1934, the House of Assembly has requested The Port of New York Authority to supplement its annual report for the year 1933 by information as to

"First. The amount of insurance by classes carried, and the amount of premiums paid on the various enterprises under their jurisdiction, showing each item separately. Also what agency or agencies, firm or firms, corporation or corporations through which said insurance is being carried."

In response to this request, we submit herewith a schedule prepared under the supervision of our Committee on Insurance and Claims, giving the information requested.

"Second. Why in view of the large sum carried to the General Reserve from the 1934 income they cannot make a reduction of at least 10% in the present rates in the Holland Tunnel."

In response to this inquiry, we beg to advise that the Holland Tunnel is maintained and operated pursuant to an agreement between the States of New Jersey and New York, that the public interest requires all interstate highway bridges and tunnels within the Port of New York District to be operated as a group (Chapter 4 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1931; Chapter 47 of the Laws of New York of 1931). These acts specifically provide (Section 4):

"The Port Authority shall, so far as it deems it practicable, treat as a single unified operation the construction, maintenance and operation of the said Midtown Hudson Tunnel, the said Holland Tunnel, the two vehicular bridges over the Arthur Kill, the vehicular bridge over the Kill van Kull, the vehicular bridge over the Hudson River at Fort Lee, and any other vehicular bridges or tunnels which it may construct or operate, raising moneys for the construction thereof and for the making of additions and improvements thereto in whole or in part upon its own obligations, and establishing and levying such tolls and other charges as it may deem necessary to secure from all of such bridges and tunnels as a group, at least sufficient revene to meet the expenses of the construction, maintenance and operation of such bridges and tunnels as a group, and to provide for the payment of the interest upon and amortization and retirement of and the fulfillment of the terms of all bonds and other securities and obligations which it may have issued or incurred in connection therewith."

This was the culmination of a series of conferences between the Governors and legislative leaders of the two States extending over a period of two years, and directed to the most practicable method of effectuating the construction of the Midtown Hudson Tunnel. As a result of this extended study of the situation, the following important decisions as to financial policy were reached:

1. That the construction of the Midtown Hudson Tunnel should be financed by the Port Authority through the sale of its bonds or other obligations to the end that no undue financial burdens might be imposed upon the States or their taxpayers. The two States had financed the construction of the Holland Tunnel with funds appropriated from their State Treasuries—New Jersey having raised her share by the issuance of State bonds, part of the proceeds of which were also expended in the construction of the Camden Bridge. Neither State was able to assume a similar heavy financial burden in connection with the Midtown Hudson Tunnel. Each had other and urgent demands upon its treasury.

2. That the control of the Holland Tunnel should be vested in the Port Authority in order that its revenues might eliminate the necessity of State appropriations as a backlog or cushion in connection with the financing of the Midtown Hudson Tunnel and other future projects. While the George Washington Bridge, the Bayonne Bridge, the Goethals Bridge and the Outerbridge Crossing had been financed by the Port Authority through the issuance of its own bonds, nevertheless, each State had made available substantial sums as a cushion or backlog to facilitate the financing. It would have been impossible to finance these projects 100% by bonds payable only from their revenues. Neither State desired to assume a similar obligation in connection with the financing of the new tunnel.

3. That the surplus revenues from Port Authority projects, to the extent of 10% of its currently outstanding bonds, should be pooled in a General Reserve Fund as a convenient method of effecting group operation of its projects. While neither State assumed legal liability for obligations incurred by the Port Authority, nevertheless, all concerned realized the direct interest of the general public in the maintenance of the credit of the Port Authority, and the strong moral obligation which the two States owed to its bondholders. The General Reserve Fund was created as underlying security for Port Authority Bonds, and as a convenient method of making the surplus revenues from each project available to meet obligations incurred in connection with every other project.

The financial policy adopted by the two States was largely based upon recommendations made by the Port Authority to the Governors and legislative leaders in a report dated December 19, 1930, to which was annexed a report of the Port Authority's Committee on Tunnel Construction, in which it was said that the "pooling of surplus revenues of all vehicular crossings" was "the logical financial formula if the policy of unification is accepted", and that

> "Obviously if we are going to reject the idea that these are a series of unrelated, competitive structures and proceed on the theory that they are integral parts of a single, unified system of operation then the excess revenues from all of them over and above specific commitments should flow into a common reservoir or pool thus insuring to the holders of each separate bond issue greater certainty of operating costs, interest and amortization. This will enormously improve the credit rating of the Port Authority and will materially reduce the cost of financing future construction. With such a financial background it should be possible for the Port Authority to finance future bridge and tunnel construction on approximately as favorable terms as the prevailing average rates of interest paid by the two States."

The wisdom of the financial policy adopted by the Governors and legislative leaders was immediately demonstrated by the ability of the Authority to market $66,000,000 of its bonds within a month. Of the proceeds $49,845,553.46 was immediately paid over to the two States in accordance with the acts vesting the control of the Holland Tunnel in the Authority. The wisdom has again been demonstrated by the ability of the Authority to obtain a $37,500,000 loan from the Federal Government for Midtown Hudson Tunnel purposes—a loan which has been made in reliance on the surplus revenues from all Port Authority projects, including the Holland Tunnel.

In light of this situation, considerations of public policy bearing upon the question of a reduction of the Holland Tunnel tolls are as follows:

First. The duty to build the General Reserve Fund up to 10% of the outstanding Port Authority bonds.

The current bonded indebtedness of the Port Authority amounts to $147,400,000, and under the General Reserve Fund legislation (Chapter 5 of the Laws of New Jersey of 1931; Chapter 48 of the Laws of New York of 1931) the present limit up to which the General Reserve Fund must be built and maintained is $14,740,000. As appears from the Annual Report for the calendar year 1933, the General Reserve Fund at present amounts to $3,114,644.24. There remains a considerable gap to be filled before the General Reserve Fund reaches the statutory amount.

Second. The contract with the Federal Government for the financing of the Midtown Hudson Tunnel.

As indicated above, the Port Authority has negotiated a $37,500,000 loan from the Federal Government for Midtown Hudson Tunnel purposes. Six million one hundred thousand dollars has already been advanced, and construction is under way. This loan was made by the Federal Government in reliance not only upon the revenues from the project, but also upon the fact that through the medium of the General Reserve Fund the surplus revenues from all other projects would be available. In its original application to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan, (subsequently transferred to the Public Works Administration), the Authority stated that the Holland Tunnel tolls were "an average rate of 54c. per vehicle". All estimates were based upon this figure, both for the Holland Tunnel and the Midtown Hudson Tunnel.

Third. The Staten Island Bridges.

As appears from the Annual Report for the calendar year 1933, the Arthur Kill Bridges (the Goethals Bridge and the Outerbridge Crossing) incurred a deficit of $295,534.46 during the past calendar year, and the Bayonne Bridge incurred a deficit of $240,890.18. These bridges are valuable public improvements, constructed pursuant to legislative instructions from the two States, and it is confidently believed will as time goes by prove individually self-supporting. Meantime, any deficits arising from their operation must be made good out of the General Reserve Fund, and the fund replenished from other projects.

Fourth. The midtown traffic situation.

It seems elementary that if lower tolls are charged at the Holland Tunnel than at Midtown Hudson Tunnel and George Washington Bridge, traffic will be diverted to the former facility with resulting congestion, and the usefulness of the latter facilities as mediums of traffic relief will be greatly diminished if not entirely destroyed. Such an arrangement would violate the premise contained in the 1931 legislation that

> "The users of each bridge or tunnel over or under said waters benefit by the existence of every other bridge or tunnel since all such bridges and tunnels as a group facilitate the movement of such traffic and relieve congestion at each of the several bridges and tunnels."

The Commissioners of The Port of New York Authority have always given most serious consideration to the effect of reductions in tolls, not only at the Holland Tunnel but at other crossings. In light of the considerations outlined above, however, they have been forced to the conclusion that it would be contrary to sound public policy and detrimental to the interests of the two States to make any reduction at the present time.

It is felt that the public interest requires the maintenance of the institution's credit at its present high level, and the keeping of utmost good faith to the persons who have purchased its bonds in reliance upon the sound financial arrangement initiated in 1931. These bondholders include not only savings banks, life insurance companies, trustees and other fiduciaries who are handling the funds of persons of small means, but also the Federal Government and the two States themselves, both of which have large investments in Port Authority securities.

The present toll rate is low, and is fully warranted by the superior service offered by the Holland Tunnel as contrasted with competing facilities which offer much lower rates to those who desire to use them. The amount of reduction suggested, approximately 5c. per vehicle, is inconsequential in each individual transaction, but in the aggregate it would involve a large annual loss to the operation.

If in effect during the past year, the net tunnel revenues would have been reduced by approximately $600,000, the surplus Holland Tunnel funds available for payment into the General Reserve Fund would have been more than cut in half.

Dated, New York, April 7, 1934.

Respectfully submitted,

THE PORT OF NEW YORK AUTHORITY,

GEORGE R. DYER,

[SEAL] Chairman.

SENATE CHAMBER,
April 9, 1934.

Mr. Speaker:

I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Assembly that the Senate has passed the following concurrent resolution:

WHEREAS, The Department of Agriculture of the Federal Government has announced its purpose in imposing a processing tax on all sales of milk in the United States, which tax would be at the rate of one-half cent per quart, with the announced plan of paying the money so raised to producers who would decrease the size of their herds; and

WHEREAS, The State of New Jersey produces less than forty per centum (40%) in volume of the amount of milk consumed in the State, and whereas the price now being paid by the consumer for milk is not capable of being increased, and if such tax were imposed it would naturally fall on the farmer producer; and

WHEREAS, Considering the proportion of milk produced as compared with the total consumption in the State, an unfair burden would be imposed on the residents of New Jersey; now, therefore,

Be it Resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

COMMISSION ON REVISION AND CONSOLIDATION OF PUBLIC STATUTES

TRENTON, NEW JERSEY,

April 9, 1934.

Hon. Frederick Brodesser, Clerk of the House of Assembly, State House, Trenton, New Jersey:

DEAR SIR—I hereby transmit to the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey the report of the Commission on Revision and Consolidation of Public Statutes, made in pursuance to chapter seventy-three of the laws of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) FRANK TRANSUE,
Secretary.

To the Members of the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The Commission for the Revision and Consolidation of the Public Statutes respectfully presents this its report upon the completion of the revision of all laws enacted up to the date of the opening of the 1934 session of the Legislature.

In its report to the 1933 Legislature the Commission stated that it would make every effort to complete the work of revision so as to present its report to the 1934 Legislature. The Commission is pleased to report that it has in its files a typewritten copy of a complete revision of all the laws existing at the time of the opening of the 1934 session of the Legislature.

The act creating the Revision Commission (P. L. 1925, chap. 73, p. 244) provides that the Commissioners "shall lay a printed copy of the public acts so revised and consolidated by them before the Legislature at its next session after the conclusion of their work," and further provides that the Commissioners shall include in such report "all the public acts of this State, which are general and permanent in their nature and which shall be in force at the time such Commissioners shall make their final report." By the provisions above quoted, the Commissioners feel obligated to include in the printed copy of their final report the acts passed at the 1934 session of the Legislature.

In connection with the adoption of a complete revision of the laws of any state the acts passed at the session at which the Revision is presented for adoption create a problem which must be solved in order to bring into accord with the revision all acts passed at the same session. To accomplish this in the New Jersey Revision it is essential that all acts of a general and public nature in effect up to the date of the adoption of such Revision be included therein. If this is not done, there will be presented for enactment a Revision, which, when enacted, will supersede all pre-existing statutes, and, at the same session of the Legislature, there will be enacted some two or three hundred acts based upon the statutes then existing—that is, acts amending, supplementing and repealing existing statutes which will have been superseded by the Revision, thus creating confusion and uncertainty as to the effect which such amendatory, supplemental and repealing acts will have upon the Revision. This can be avoided only by including in the Revision, prior to the printing thereof, the acts passed at the 1934 session, at least up to the time when the Legislature shall have adopted the bulk of the acts of a general nature and shall have adjourned or recessed until later in the year. Then the Revision, including the 1934 acts, can be printed within such a time as to have it completed, placed in the hands of the members of the Legislature for examination, considered and, if the Legislature shall so determine, adopted prior to or at the opening of the next subsequent session. This having been done, the laws passed at such subsequent session can then be based upon the Revision as adopted and no conflict will arise between such acts and the Revision

The Commission believes that time would be lost were the 1934 general public statutes not included prior to printing. The Commission is therefore convinced it should proceed at once with the insertion of the 1934 general public statutes already enacted and deal with the remainder thereof as soon as available, so as to be able to begin the printing of the Revision with such legislation inserted within approximately sixty days after the adjournment or recess of the Legislature. This will enable the Commission to furnish sufficient copies of page proofs for examination by the Legislative Committees as fast as such printing comes from the press, and also to furnish complete preliminary printed copies of the Revision to all members of the Legislature for consideration prior to the meeting of the Legislature at which the adoption of the Revision is to be considered. This plan has the further advantage of expediting the final printing of the Revision, since it is perfectly feasible, in printing the preliminary draft for the consideration of the Legislature, to prepare it in such form that the same type can be used in printing the final volumes. This will save one complete setting of the type and reading of the proof as to the text of the Revision. After the adoption of the Revision, including such changes therein as the Legislature may deem necessary, the annotations or notes to the decisions of the courts and the index will be added thereto, so that the final volumes will constitute a complete Revision as enacted by the Legislature.

For convenience of the members of the Legislature in considering the Revision, the Commission will prepare complete tables of statutes, showing as to every section of the Revision of 1877, and as to all acts passed subsequent thereto, the location thereof in the Revision, and as to such as have been specifically repealed, the acts repealing them, which tables will also be included in the final volumes.

The Commission desires to point out that the Revision as now completed in its files and as it will be presented to the Legislature will conform to the legislative direction to "revise, simplify, arrange and consolidate all the public acts of this State." It will contain no provisions which have not theretofore been enacted by the Legislature. All recommendations for "the passage of such new acts, or parts of acts, as in their judgment, may appear necessary or expedient," (P. L. 1925, chap. 73, § 3, p. 245) have been heretofore made by the Commissioners in the form of proposed new acts, and not as a part of the Revision. Such of these proposed new acts as have been enacted are now included in the Revision, and such as have not been enacted will not be included therein unless enacted prior to the adoption of the Revision by the Legislature. The proposed new acts not yet adopted include "Property," "Crimes" and "Criminal Procedure." The Commission has revised and included in its Revision the existing law on these subjects without change in the meaning or effect thereof, the same as it has done in connection with the law relating to subjects as to which it made no recommendations for new legislation.

As to the effect of the Revision when enacted by the Legislature, it must be clearly understood that such Revision becomes the law of the State so far as the general public statutes are concerned. The Commission has prepared a brief on this subject, a copy of which is available for any member of the Legislature who may desire to have one.

In carrying out the program above outlined the Commission will, at the same time that the printing of the text and the tables of statutes as above described is in progress, proceed with the writing of the annotations or notes to the decisions of the courts and the preparation of the index, so that the annotations and index may be available for insertion in the Revision as soon after its adoption as possible. The Commission believes that if it is supplied with sufficient help, including proofreaders, and the printing is done without delay, the complete text of the Revision, containing also the acts passed at the 1934 session, with the tables of statutes, can be in printed form by the latter part of the calendar year, so that the Revision may be considered at a meeting of the Legislature during this year or at the opening of the next session as the Governor and the Legislature may determine.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) EDWARD L. KATZENBACH,

ADDRESS BY PROFESSOR ALBERT EINSTEIN

Delivered at the Joint Session of the New Jersey Legislature, April 10, 1934, Trenton, N. J.

I consider myself happy to live and to be permitted to labor in this free and blessed land. Many before me, who had found a new home and a safe refuge in this land, experienced the same sensation.

But this is not enough: I am today the recipient of a festive official welcome from those men in whose hands are entrusted the law-making and the administration of the State of New Jersey. I appreciate this honor so much the more, since I am enabled to judge for myself how much depends especially in these times upon your activities.

This reception demonstrates how much you esteem the striving after scientific knowledge. The individual, even if good fortune is with him in his labors, can contribute but little to the whole, to that wonderful spiritual structure, at which the investigating minds, in the course of the centuries, have labored with ever renewed devotion and surprising success. These usually timid and impractical men, through their advancement of our knowledge of natural laws, have, during the last centuries, given the first line impetus to the technical revolution of our existence, even though they but seldom were propelling forces to carry it out. And therefore, even from the standpoint of practical life it is perfectly justifiable that government and laymen co-operate in the furtherance of scientific research.

This takes place in all truly cultured lands, but nowhere in such large proportions as in the United States. For here there exist powerful foundations which promote research and spiritual progress in all the lands of the globe.

This spirit manifests itself in a beautiful way in today's demonstration. My joy therein outweighs the consciousness that I, as an individual, am unworthy of such a great distinction. I thank you.

The House re-convened and upon calling the roll the following members answered to their names:

Messrs. WAGNERS MEATS,
109 N. Water Street,
Philadelphia, Pa.,
April 14, 1934.

Honorable Frederick A. Brodesser, General Assembly, Trenton N. J.

HONORABLE SIR:—Please record our protest against the proposed tax on chain stores.

You are probably well aware that in every chain store organization, a number of stores are losing propositions. In our particular system we have six stores in Camden city; of these two are already definitely showing a loss much in excess of the monthly rent. In these two stores seven men are employed.

In the event of this tax measure being enacted we would immediately close both stores. Other chain systems would very likely do likewise, with their smaller stores.

The community will be the loser, not only in the loss in employment, but in the increased cost of merchandise occasioned by the individually owned neighborhood store (which already charges higher prices) being without chain store competition.

Will you please give this matter your earnest consideration when it comes before you?

Respectfully yours,

GEORGE W. WAGNER, INC.

Mr. Naughright moved that the communication be received and filed.

Which motion was adopted.

BSJ:P

RESOLUTION

Adopted by the South Jersey Port Commission at a stated meeting held at its office, Camden, N. J., on April 11, 1934.

WHEREAS, The Director of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of the city of Philadelphia has presented a statement to this Commission showing the cost of operations of the city ice boats for the year 1934 to be approximately $60,000, and has suggested that the State of New Jersey or the South Jersey Port Commission should share in the expense of ice boat service on the Delaware River; and

WHEREAS, This Commission appreciates the neighborly and friendly spirit shown by the Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries of the city of Philadelphia in rendering service in maintaining navigation in the Delaware River during the severe winter conditions and this Commission regrets that it has no funds available to contribute to the cost of this service; and

WHEREAS, This Commission has obtained an expression of opinion from a number of industries located on the New Jersey side of the river, which acknowledges the benefits to New Jersey interests of the Philadelphia ice boat service in maintaining navigation during ice conditions and a majority expresses the view that New Jersey should share in the expense of this service; therefore

Be it Resolved, That this Commission recommend to the New Jersey Legislature that an appropriation of State funds be made annually to defray approximately twenty-five per centum of the cost of operation of the aforesaid ice boat service beginning December 1, 1934; and

A message was received from His Excellency, the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

May 2, 1934.

To the Legislature:

I am constrained to again bring to your attention the serious emergency confronting the State as the result of the railroad tax litigation now pending in the courts and tax tribunals involving taxes in excess of fourteen million dollars already withheld or tied up for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, and nine million dollars of additional anticipated revenue for the year 1934. The continued pendency of this litigation at a time when our local governments are struggling to avoid bankruptcy presents a problem, the solution of which should not be further deferred.

You will recall that by a special message on November 27, 1933, I advised that Attorney-General Stevens had urged on my attention that unless a revision of our present railroad tax law was promptly undertaken the pending litigation was likely to be so protracted and the amount of money held up would be so large as to cripple the State, municipal and school affairs. Based on that advice, I urged that a committee representative of the Legislature and of the State be appointed to study the problem as to the course of action that should be taken by the Legislature for the modification or clarification of the law.

In response to my message, the Legislature adopted Joint Resolution No. 21, providing for the appointment of a special committee to investigate and report on the subject. Pursuant to that resolution, the President of the Senate appointed Senators Clifford Powell, Albert Woodruff and Frank Durand; the Speaker of the House appointed Assemblymen Anthony Siracusa, Joseph Kinzley and Theron McCampbell; and the Governor appointed Senator Edward P. Stout, Dr. Harley Lutz and Mr. R. B. White, to the special committee. The committee organized and chose Senator Stout as Chairman, and John B. McGeehan as Secretary.

After an extended study, this committee made its report recommending amendment of the existing railroad tax law, which, in its opinion, would provide a reasonable basis for the adjustment of the pending litigation and for the elimination of such controversies in the future.

At the time the above special committee was appointed, the pending litigation in the State and Federal Courts was suspended, in the hope that remedial legislation might be enacted. I am now advised that the litigation must be resumed in the courts at an early date unless some adjustment is promptly arrived at.

I am further advised that the legislation proposed by the special committee, after careful study, affords a just basis for settlement of the problem in a manner that will enable the State to immediately collect several million dollars of overdue tax revenue.

I reiterate that in view of the necessities of the State and its municipalities, no more important problem confronts the Legislature at this moment than prompt action on this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

FRANCES V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Kinzley, on behalf of the Committee on Taxation of Railroad and Canal Property, submitted the following report:

To the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor, and to the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

YOUR EXCELLENCY AND HONORABLE SIRS:

On the 27th day of November, 1933, Your Excellency the Governor transmitted to the Legislature a special message calling attention to the enormous amount of railroad tax revenue involved in the pending railroad tax litigation, the contentions of the railroad companies as to the alleged illegal method and discrimination in the assessment of railroad property, and the computation of the average rate of taxation, and urging that a committee representative of the Legislature and of the State be appointed to make with diligence and dispatch a painstaking and systematic study of the railroad tax question for the purpose of reaching an intelligent conclusion as to what changes should be made in the present railroad tax law so that the assessment of railroad property and the fixing of the average rate of taxation thereof may be so ascertained and determined as to eliminate all controversial questions and bring an end to the protracted litigation in respect thereto.

On receipt of this message, the Legislature passed the following joint resolution:

> "That a committee of nine members be appointed to prepare necessary legislation for the taxation of railroad and canal property. Said committee shall consist of three members of the Senate, to be appointed by the President thereof, and three members of the Assembly, to be appointed by the Speaker thereof, and three persons, citizens of the State of New Jersey, to be appointed by the Governor. Said committee shall organize as soon as practicable, and shall report its findings at the opening of the legislative session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four, together with proposed legislation."

This joint resolution was approved by Your Excellency the Governor on the 4th day of December, 1933, and took effect immediately, and is known as Joint Resolution No. 21 (P. L. 1933, p. 1292).

Pursuant to this joint resolution, the President of the Senate appointed Senators Clifford R. Powell, Albert S. Woodruff and Frank Durand, and the Speaker of the House of Assembly appointed Assemblymen Anthony J. Siracusa, Joseph C. Kinzley and Theron McCampbell, and Your Excellency, the Governor, appointed Senator Edward P. Stout, Dr. Harley Lutz and Mr. Roy B. White.

On the 13th day of December, 1933, your committee met at the executive office, State House, Trenton, New Jersey, and organized by the appointment of Senator Edward P. Stout as chairman and John B. McGeehan as secretary. Due notice was given of the first meeting of your committee and of each subsequent meeting. At the request of your committee, an assistant to the Attorney-General attended each meeting of your committee as a representative of the Attorney-General. At the first meeting your committee directed Dr. Lutz to visit the States of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Ohio to investigate the methods of railroad taxation in these States, and to report to your committee. These States were chosen because Wisconsin uses the ad valorem method, Minnesota uses the gross receipts method, and Ohio uses both methods. Dr. Lutz visited these States and submitted his report to your committee on the 15th day of January, 1934.

The Attorney-General, upon the request of your committee, furnished each member thereof with a copy of the briefs in the 1933 railroad tax litigation before the State Board of Tax Appeals, and a copy of the opinion of the State Board of Tax Appeals in that case, to enlighten your committee upon the questions involved in the railroad tax litigation.

At the invitation of your committee, J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner; Louis Focht, chief engineer of the State Tax Department; Francis D. Weaver, president of the State Board of Tax Appeals; John J. Solan, assistant to the Attorney-General for the State in the railroad tax litigation, and Maximilian M. Stallman, Robert J. Bain, and Alexander H. Elder, attorneys for the railroad companies in the railroad tax litigation, appeared before your committee and expressed their opinions with respect to the present railroad tax law, and made suggestions as to changes therein.

Upon request, the State Comptroller reported to your committee the amount of taxes in controversy in the pending litigation between the railroad companies and the State for the years 1931, 1932, and 1933.

Your committee gave due consideration to:

(a) the report made by Dr. Lutz on the railroad tax laws of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Ohio,
(b) the railroad tax laws of this State as well as of other States,
(c) the briefs of counsel in the 1933 railroad tax litigation,
(d) the opinion of the State Board of Tax Appeals in the 1933 case,
(e) the opinions of the representatives of the State and of the railroad companies, who appeared before your committee, as to what changes should be made in the existing railroad tax law.
(f) the enormous amount of railroad tax revenue involved in the litigation, and
(g) the contentions of the railroad companies as to the validity of the assessment and taxation of their railroad properties.

As a result, your committee respectfully reports as follows:

1. The amount of taxes in controversy for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, in the pending litigation between the railroad companies and the State, as shown by the report of the State Comptroller to your committee, is as follows:

1931	In Court of Errors and Appeals..	$1,858,117.76
1932	In Federal Court (District of N. J.).....	3,117,979.32
1933	In New Jersey Supreme Court...	9,193,090.99

and, unless remedial legislation is passed at this session, it is estimated that an additional $9,000,000 will be controverted by the railroad companies on the review by the State Tax Commissioner of the 1934 assessment of railroad property, making a total in controversy in excess of $23,000,000.

The amount of taxes for 1931 in litigation is contested by three railroad companies, on the ground that the average rate of taxation applicable to 1st, 3rd and 4th classes of railroad property is not based upon the true value of property assessable under the General Tax Act. This tax revenue has been paid to the State, and, if distributed, would be paid to the municipalities for local school purposes, but, by order of the court, the amount involved in the litigation is withheld by the State Comptroller.

The amount of taxes for 1932 in litigation is contested by two railroad companies, on the ground that the assessed valuation of their properties is excessive and discriminatory and the average rate of taxation illegal. This tax revenue, if paid, would be distributable to the municipalities, but the railroad companies, under order of the court, are not required to pay same, pending the litigation.

The amount of taxes for 1933 in litigation is contested by all of the major railroad systems, on the ground that the assessed valuation of their properties is excessive and discriminatory and the average rate of taxation illegal. Of the amount involved, if paid, $5,544,694.40 belongs to the municipalities and $3,648,396.59 belongs to the State for State purposes, but the railroad companies are not required to pay same pending the litigation.

It follows, therefore, if the total amount of $14,169,188.07 railroad tax money in controversy is paid, $11,500,791.58 would belong to the municipalities. The municipalities have sorely felt the delay in receiving this anticipated tax revenue, and, in the event that the pending litigation terminates in victories for the railroad companies, the result will be a staggering blow to the financial structure of these municipalities.

2. The total assessed valuation of railroad property for the year 1933, as adjusted by the State Board of Tax Appeals, on the appeal of the railroad companies, is as follows:

First Class Property	$215,139,302.00
Second Class Property	218,518,530.00
Third Class Property	68,658,474.00
Fourth Class Property	5,734,500.00
	$508,050,806.00

The average rate of taxation computed for 1933, and applied to 1st, 3rd and 4th classes of railroad property is 3.756 per $100.00, and the taxes are as follows:

First Class Property	$8,080,632.18
Third Class Property	2,578,812.29
Fourth Class Property	201,866.22
	$10,861,310.70
The taxes imposed upon Second Class property, at the local rates, are	8,335,742.53
	$19,197,053.23

3. The act for the taxation of railroad and canal property in this State provides for the ad valorem method of taxation, and requires the State Tax Commissioner to ascertain the true value of all property used for railroad or canal purposes of each railroad and each canal company in this State, including its franchise, and, in such ascertainment, he is required to separately value the four classes of property established by the act.

The railroad companies in the pending litigation complain that the State Tax Commissioner, in determining the value of such property of each railroad and canal company as an entirety,

(a) first ascertains the value of each class and then adds these to ascertain the value of all such property of each company, instead of first valuing such property as an entirety, and then allocates such value to the several classes,

(b) relies solely upon the physical or reproduction value, in ascertaining the value of first, second and third classes of property, and does not consider earnings and security valuations or other factors or elements of value,

(c) relies on the assessed valuation as certified by the respective assessors of the taxing districts as the true value of all property located in the respective taxing districts, other than railroad property, in computing under existing law the average rate of taxation applicable to 1st, 3rd and 4th classes of property, and that the value so certified is not the true value of such property.

4. The dispute with respect to taxes in controversy is of such character that the litigation now pending is likely to be of long duration. The railroad companies challenge the validity of the assessments of railroad property, as ascertained by the State Tax Commissioner, contending that in applying the provisions of the Railroad Tax Act, the State Tax Commissioner fails to give consideration to all the factors which go to make up the taxable value of property in railroad use. They also assert that there is a systematic undervaluation of property locally assessed under the General Tax Act, and that by reason thereof an erroneous State average rate of taxation is ascertained, and that the application of this rate to certain of the railroad property results in the imposition of an unjust and illegal tax upon such property.

Your committee, in consideration of the serious situation presented, has concluded that it is unwise to formulate a new method or system of taxation of railroad property, and that the present Railroad Tax Act can be so supplemented and amended as to eliminate similar controversies with the railroad companies in the future, and, therefore, pursuant to the command of the joint resolution aforesaid, the chairman of your committee has prepared and caused to be introduced in both Houses of the Legislature, a bill known as Assembly Bill No. 354 and a bill known as Senate Bill No. 198, for that purpose, the salient features of which are:

(1) Maintaining the four classes of property and defining them as in the present law, as follows:
   (a) First class property: The main stem of each railroad which shall be held to include the roadbed, not exceeding one hundred feet in width, with its rails and sleepers and all structures erected thereon and used in connection therewith, but shall not include any passenger or freight buildings erected thereon; the waterway of each canal which shall be held to include the towing-path and berem-bank;
   (b) Second class property: The other real estate used for railroad or canal purposes in each taxing district in this State, including the roadbed (other than the main stem), waterways, reservoirs, tracks, buildings, water tanks, water works, riparian rights, docks, wharves and piers, and all other real estate, except lands not used for railroad or canal purposes; the term taxing district shall be held to designate any municipality, city, township, borough, incorporated town or village having power to assess and levy taxes, through which any road or canal may run;

(c) Third class property: All the tangible personal property of each railroad and of each canal company which shall be held to include the rolling stock, cars, locomotives, ferry boats, all machinery, tools and other tangible personal property of any railroad company and the floating, movable and other tangible personal property of any canal company and also the locomotives and cars not belonging to such railroad company but built for its use and actually used in this State or run under its control in this State by a sleeping car company or other company; but the rolling stock of other persons or corporations temporarily used on any such road and the floating or movable property temporarily used on such canal, but not forming part of the equipment of such road or canal shall not be included in said term;

(d) Fourth class property: The remaining property, including the franchise.

(2) Requiring the railroad and canal companies to make returns to the State Tax Commissioner (in addition to those required under the existing act) of complete statements of the market or fair cash value of their stock and bonds and of their indebtedness and of their income accounts over a period of years and the allocation thereof to the State of New Jersey and of such other elements or factors of value as will aid in ascertaining the assessable valuation of such property;

(3) Directing the State Tax Commissioner to consider the earnings value and the securities value together with the physical or reproduction value and all other elements or factors of value in ascertaining the true value as a unit of the entire property of each railroad and canal company used for railroad or canal purposes in this State, including the franchise;

(4) Maintaining, without impairment, second class railroad property as a distinct and fixed ratable of the taxing district in which it is situated, to be valued for the purpose of distribution of railroad tax revenue on the physical or reproduction value of such property as other property is valued for taxation under the General Tax Act;

(5) Providing that the assessed valuation as a unit of the four classes of property shall be apportioned by taking 5% thereof as the assessable value of the 4th class property, and allocating the remainder to the other three classes of property upon the basis of their physical or reproduction value;

(6) Providing that the maximum average rate of taxation applicable to the assessed valuation of 1st, 3rd and 4th classes of property shall be $3.00 per $100.00;

(7) Providing that the local rate of taxation shall apply, as at present, to the assessed valuation of 2nd class property; and

(8) Providing that the railroad tax revenue to be allocated and paid to the respective taxing districts shall be ascertained by applying the local rate of taxation to the physical or reproduction value of such property.

Your committee submits these findings of fact, and hopes that the bill of the chairman of your committee or some similar measure may provide a reasonable basis for the adjustment of the pending litigation and for the elimination of such controversies in the future.

Respectfully submitted,

Mr. Pascoe moved the adoption of the committee amendments to Assembly Bill No. 354.

Which motion was adopted.

Governor Moore sent the following message to the Legislature today:

May 2, 1934.

To the Legislature:

I am constrained to again bring to your attention the serious emergency confronting the State as the result of the railroad tax litigation now pending in the courts and tax tribunals involving taxes in excess of fourteen million dollars already withheld or tied up for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, and nine million dollars of additional anticipated revenue for the year 1934. The continued pendency of this litigation at a time when our local governments are struggling to avoid bankruptcy presents a problem, the solution of which should not be further deferred.

You will recall that by a special message on November 27, 1933, I advised that Attorney-General Stevens had urged on my attention that unless a revision of our present railroad tax law was promptly undertaken, the pending litigation was likely to be so protracted and the amount of money held up would be so large as to cripple the State, municipal and school affairs. Based on that advice, I urged a committee representative of the Legislature and of the State be appointed to study the problem as to the course of action that should be taken by the Legislature for the modification or clarification of the law.

In response to my message, the Legislature adopted Joint Resolution No. 21, providing for the appointment of a special committee to investigate and report on the subject. Pursuant to that resolution, the President of the Senate appointed Senators Clifford Powell, Albert Woodruff and Frank Durand; the Speaker of the House appointed Assemblymen Anthony Siracusa, Joseph Kinzley and Theron McCampbell; and the Governor appointed Senator Edward P. Stout, Dr. Harley Lutz and Mr. R. B. White, to be a special committee. The committee organized and chose Senator Stout as Chairman, and John B. McGeehan as Secretary.

After an extended study, this committee made its report, recommending amendment of the existing railroad tax law, which, in its opinion, would provide a reasonable basis for the adjustment of the pending litigation and for the elimination of such controversies in the future.

At the time the above special committee was appointed the pending litigation in the State and Federal Courts was suspended, in the hope that remedial legislation might be enacted. I am now advised that the litigation must be resumed in the courts at an early date unless some adjustment is promptly arrived at.

I am further advised that the legislation proposed by the special committee, after careful study, affords a just basis for settlement of the problem in a manner that will enable the State to immediately collect several million dollars of overdue tax revenue.

I reiterate that in view of the necessities of the State and its municipalities, no more important problem confronts the Legislature at this moment than prompt action on this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

FRANCES V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

NEW JERSEY STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS
MRS. T. H. GRIMLEY, President

June 1, 1934.

Hon. Frederick A. Brodesser, 1143 East Jersey Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey.

Dear Sir:

I am authorized to ask your careful consideration of the following resolution, which was adopted by this Federation:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention assembled in Atlantic City, in the month of May, 1934, hereby express our emphatic protest against the passage by the Legislature of this State of Assembly Bill No. 316 and Senate Bill No. 98, or either of them (they being identical). Those bills, if passed, would destroy the valuable features of the billboard law passed in 1930, and would substantially destroy all control over the erection, maintenance and use of billboards in this State. The progress that has been made in ridding the State of offensive billboards under the law now in force must be maintained. If the law, as it now stands, should be properly enforced and section 11 repealed, the benefits expected in 1930 would be obtained."

"And Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the Legislature of New Jersey and to the State Tax Commissioner."

Sincerely yours,

(MRS. G. S.) THEO. H. FERGUSON,
Corresponding Secretary.

Mr. Naughright, in behalf of the special committee appointed by House resolution dated March 19, 1934, to investigate alleged corrupt conduct, crimes and misdemeanors of civil officers of this State, reported to the House as follows, which report was read in full by the Clerk:

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY HOUSE RESOLUTION DATED MARCH 19, 1934, TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGED CORRUPT CONDUCT, CRIMES AND MISDEMEANORS OF CIVIL OFFICERS OF THIS STATE

To the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

This Committee was appointed by House Resolution adopted on March 19, 1934, and directed to investigate and inquire into alleged corrupt conduct, crimes and misdemeanors of civil officers of this State and to report thereon to the General Assembly as soon as practicable, to the end that impeachment proceedings may be instituted against any civil officers of this State who may appear to be subject to impeachment.

The resolution appointing the Committee provided that the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee should act as Chairman of this Committee.

The Committee organized by appointing Frederick A. Brodesser as Secretary and Alexander Crawford as Sergeant-at-Arms. It appointed Josiah Stryker, of Newark, as its Counsel.

The Committee decided to commence its work by investigating State officers in Passaic County and that after its investigation in that County had been completed, it would proceed with its work in other Counties.

Trained investigators were selected and the work has proceeded as rapidly as possible under the direct supervision of the Committee's Counsel. The Committee, from time to time, has been fully advised of the matters being investigated and of the progress which has been made. While the investigation in Passaic County has not yet been completed, sufficient evidence has been taken before the Committee to support the recommendations herein made.

From this evidence it appears that early in the year 1929 William B. Harley, Jr., who was then County Counsel of Passaic County, was a candidate for appointment as an additional Common Pleas Judge of Passaic County; such appointment to be made upon the taking effect of an Act then pending before the Legislature, which Act authorized the Governor to appoint additional Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Passaic and certain other Counties of this State. Early in said year, John McCutcheon, who was then Comptroller of the Treasury of this State, had promised Mr. Harley that upon the passage of the Act above mentioned, he would support Mr. Harley's candidacy for such appointment. It was recognized both by Mr. Harley and Mr. McCutcheon that no one would be appointed to that office who was not satisfactory to Mr. McCutcheon.

About March 18, 1929, Mr. McCutcheon informed Mr. Harley that Mr. Harley could not be appointed as Common Pleas Judge, without making any explanation as to why such appointment could or would not be made. On or about March 22nd, Emanuel R. Coven, a friend and associate of Mr. Harley, interceded with Mr. McCutcheon in Mr. Harley's behalf and told Mr. McCutcheon that friends of Mr. Harley would contribute $25,000 "to the campaign fund" if Harley were appointed; whereupon Mr. Coven was advised by Mr. McCutcheon to communicate with Roy T. Yates, who was then Senator from Passaic County. Senator Yates, upon being consulted by Mr. Coven, stated that if Mr. McCutcheon favored Harley for Judge, he was satisfied, and this was reported to Mr. McCutcheon, who advised Mr. Coven to come with Mr. Harley to the Comptroller's Office, in the State House in Trenton, on the following Monday, March 25th.

On the morning of the day last mentioned, Coven borrowed the sum of $15,000 from the United States Trust Company, Paterson, New Jersey, on a note made by his wife and endorsed by him. On the evening of that day, Mr. Harley and Mr. Coven took the $15,000 in currency and went to the office of the Comptroller, in the State House in Trenton, where they saw Mr. McCutcheon. Mr. Harley stated to Mr. McCutcheon that he could not understand why he should be required to make a contribution of that size in order to secure the appointment, whereupon Mr. McCutcheon replied that everybody who gets any place in American politics makes a campaign contribution. After some further conversation Mr. Harley said that if it was necessary he would do it and Mr. McCutcheon then said: "I am going to have your appointment put through this evening."

The Act which authorized the appointment had been approved on that date.

Following this conversation, the $15,000 in currency was placed in a drawer of Mr. McCutcheon's desk, in the Comptroller's office, in the State House in Trenton, at his direction. On that same evening, Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, sent the appointment of Mr. Harley as Common Pleas Judge to the Senate and such appointment was confirmed on the evening on which it was received. Following the making and confirmation of such appointment, Mr. Coven, as Mr. Harley's representative, paid to Mr. McCutcheon the additional sum of $10,000, having borrowed this additional sum from friends and relatives. No part of the said sum of $25,000 received by Mr. McCutcheon, as aforesaid, was paid into the Treasury of the Republican County Committee in Passaic County.

Judge Harley gave his note to Mr. Coven for the $25,000 advanced as above stated, securing the note with a life insurance policy in the amount of $25,000. Judge Harley subsequently repaid to Mr. Coven all of the loan so advanced, except about $3,150 which is still unpaid. These repayments were made after Judge Harley assumed the duties of his office as Common Pleas Judge. They were made in part from Judge Harley's official salary as Judge and in part from fees received by him.

Under Article V, Section 11, of our State Constitution civil officers may be impeached for misdemeanor in office. In the judgment of your Committee the term "misdemeanor" as used in this provision of the Constitution is equivalent to the word "misconduct" and is not confined to an offense which is an indictable misdemeanor.

It may be contended that the facts above recited do not show a violation of official duties either by Mr. McCutcheon or by Mr. Harley. On the other hand, there can be no doubt but that the evidence which has been summarized above shows disgraceful misconduct upon the part of both John McCutcheon and William B. Harley, Jr. This misconduct has brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon this State and particularly upon the office of Comptroller of this State and the office of Common Pleas Judge of Passaic County. Mr. McCutcheon was in office at the time the offense charged is said to have occurred. The negotiations for the payment of the money and the receipt of $15;000 on account thereof are said to have occurred in the room provided by the State for the use of the Comptroller. In a celebrated English case Lord Mansfield said: "I suppose that most of the impeachments against ministers have been for taking money to procure offices grantable by the crown." To say that misconduct of this character committed by a high State official under circumstances said to have been present in this case is not impeachable misconduct in office is to unnecessarily and dangerously restrict the meaning and operation of the constitutional provision above mentioned.

In the case of William B. Harley, Jr., the negotiations for the payment of the money are said to have occurred prior to his appointment as Judge. The payment of the balance of $10,000 is said to have occurred after he had been both appointed and confirmed but before he had taken his oath of office and commenced the performance of his judicial duties. Mr. Harley, however, advanced no money of his own until after he had assumed his judicial duties. During the period while he was in office he paid to Mr. Coven between $21,000 and $22,000 in repayment of the money advanced by Coven and turned over to McCutcheon. The immorality of securing his appointment by the payment of a large sum of money was as great as though the payment had been made after he had assumed his judicial duties. In the absence of a definite precedent in this State to the contrary, your Committee believes that it should not be deterred from recommending the impeachment of Judge Harley by the circumstance that a part, although not all, of his acts in connection with the offense in question was committed before he assumed his office.

While both Mr. McCutcheon and Mr. Harley are now out of office, Mr. McCutcheon's successor as Comptroller having taken office on April 4, 1934, and Judge Harley's term having expired on April 1, 1934, our Constitution clearly authorizes the impeachment of public officers during their continuance in office and for two years thereafter. The offense of buying and selling appointment to a high judicial office of this State strikes at the foundation of the administration of justice and should receive the condemnation of every right-thinking man. The fact that the offense was not discovered in time to bring impeachment proceedings prior to the expiration of the terms of office should not enable the guilty parties to escape impeachment, as one of the purposes of impeachment is not only to vacate the office but to disqualify the person who is convicted from holding any office of trust or profit under the government of the State.

It also appeared in evidence before the Committee that numerous attempts were made by John McCutcheon to improperly influence Judge Harley in the discharge of his judicial duties and that threats were made by Mr. McCutcheon when Harley failed to do as directed by him. The Committee believes that these threats constitute an additional ground for the impeachment of John McCutcheon.

It further appeared that, after Mr. McCutcheon had attempted to improperly influence Judge Harley with respect to the decision of motions to quash certain indictments that were then pending before him, Judge Harley at Mr. McCutcheon's request went to Mr. McCutcheon's office and discussed the then pending motions with him, that on this occasion Judge Harley promised Mr. McCutcheon that before he released his opinion on said motions he would tell Mr. McCutcheon what the opinion was, that after Judge Harley had written his opinion in which he refused to comply with Mr. McCutcheon's demand that the indictments be quashed, he again went to Mr. McCutcheon's office and told him of the conclusion which he had reached.

In the opinion of your Committee this conduct on the part of Judge Harley in discussing pending motions with a political leader who had previously tried to improperly influence his decision of such motions, and particularly in advising this political leader of his decision of such motions before it had been announced, was very reprehensible and affords additional ground for impeachment of William B. Harley, Jr.

Your Committee therefore recommends for adoption the following resolutions:

"1. Resolved, That John McCutcheon be impeached for misdemeanor in office.

"1. Resolved, That William B. Harley, Jr., be impeached for misdemeanor in office.

"2. That five managers be appointed by the Speaker to prepare the case and prepare and present articles of impeachment to the Senate and request the Senate to try the same."

And your Committee do further report the following articles of impeachment in the case of John McCutcheon and the following articles of impeachment in the case of William B. Harley, Jr. and recommend that said articles of impeachment be referred to the managers, when appointed, to be revised, adopted, enlarged or amended and reported again to the House.

ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT

Exhibited by the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey in the name of themselves and all of the people of the State of New Jersey against John McCutcheon, formerly Comptroller of the Treasury of the State of New Jersey, in maintenance and support of their impeachment against him for misdemeanor in office.

Article I

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That the said John McCutcheon, then being Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and having unlawfully, wrongfully, wilfully and corruptly agreed with William B. Harley, Jr., then a candidate for appointment as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, that upon payment to the said John McCutcheon of the sum of $25,000, the said John McCutcheon would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, said John McCutcheon, on or about the 25th day of March, 1929, at the Comptroller's office in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, did receive and accept the sum of $15,000 from the said William B. Harley, Jr., as consideration for his recommendation of said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and that thereafter, on said 25th day of March, 1929, at the City of Trenton aforesaid, said John McCutcheon did recommend the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, with the result that the said William B. Harley, Jr., was on said last-mentioned date appointed to said office, which said appointment was on said date duly confirmed by the Senate of said State. That the receipt and acceptance of said money and the recommendation of said Harley to said office of Judge by said John McCutcheon in consideration thereof brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE II

That on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said William B. Harley, Jr., and the said Emanuel R. Coven paid to the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, the sum of $15,000 in currency and promised to pay the balance of said sum of $25,000, to wit, $10,000, within a short time thereafter, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same and promised to procure the appointment of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic for the said William B. Harley, Jr. Thereafter, on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said John McCutcheon recommended and supported the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic with the result that the said William B. Harley, Jr., was appointed as such Judge by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, on said 25th day of March, 1929, and such appointment was confirmed by the Senate of this State on said last mentioned date.

That subsequent to the said 25th day of March, 1929, and prior to the day of , in said year, the said Emanuel R. Coven delivered to the said John McCutcheon the balance of the said sum of $25,000, to wit, the sum of $10,000, in currency, at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same as the balance of the consideration for his act in procuring the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, as above set forth.

That neither said sum of $25,000 nor any part thereof was delivered or paid by said John McCutcheon to the Republican Campaign Fund.

All of which agreements and acts on the part of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE III

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That during the year 1929 the said John McCutcheon had great influence with respect to the appointment of public officers in this State and particularly with respect to public officers appointed for the County of Passaic. That said John McCutcheon, having prior to the 22nd day of March, 1929, advised one William B. Harley, Jr., who was a candidate for appointment as Common Pleas Judge of Passaic County, that he, the said John McCutcheon, would not support said Harley for said appointment and that said Harley could not be appointed as said Judge, did, between said 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March, in said year, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, represent to one Emanuel R. Coven and to the said William B. Harley, Jr., that he, the said John McCutcheon, would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and would procure said appointment for him if the said Emanuel R. Coven and William B. Harley, Jr., or either of them, would pay to him, the said John McCutcheon, the sum of $25,000, which said amount was said to be required by said McCutcheon as a campaign contribution to the Republican Campaign Fund.

That on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said William B. Harley, Jr., and the said Emanuel R. Coven paid to the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, the sum of $15,000 in currency and promised to pay the balance of said sum of $25,000, to wit, $10,000, within a short time thereafter, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same and promised that the appointment of William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic would be made on that evening. Thereafter, on the evening of the said 25th day of March, 1929, Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, sent the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, to the Senate of New Jersey and said appointment was confirmed by the said Senate on said evening.

All of which agreements and acts on the part of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE IV

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, to April 4, 1934. That during the year 1929, the said John McCutcheon, being then in high official position in this State as Comptroller, was in the confidence of Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and was by said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor as aforesaid, entrusted with the duty of recommending a fit and proper person for the appointment of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, said office being a public office to be filled by appointment by the Governor upon the advice and consent of the Senate of this State; that by virtue of the trust and confidence reposed in said John McCutcheon by the said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor, as aforesaid, it was and became the duty of the said John McCutcheon not to recommend any person for appointment to the said office unless such recommendation were made without fear or favor and without personal gain, but solely in the interest of the people of the State of New Jersey.

That between the 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March in said year, the said John McCutcheon was solicited to recommend one William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and the said John McCutcheon then and there, unmindful of the said duty and in violation of the trust and confidence reposed in him by the then Governor of the State of New Jersey and by the people of said State, did, between the days last aforesaid, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, unlawfully, wilfully and corruptly agree with one Emanuel R. Coven and with the said William B. Harley, Jr., that he, the said John McCutcheon would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic if the said William B. Harley, Jr., would agree to pay and would pay to him, the said John McCutcheon, the sum of $25,000. On the 25th day of March, 1929, at the said Office of the Comptroller in the State House in said City of Trenton, the said John McCutcheon did receive and accept from the said Coven and the said Harley $15,000 in currency and the promise of the said Coven and the said Harley to pay the additional $10,000 at a later date, and did, thereafter, on said last-mentioned date, recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and thereafter the said William B. Harley, Jr., was so appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by the said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and confirmed by the Senate of said State on said 25th day of March, 1929.

The said agreements and acts of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE V

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That between the 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March in said year the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House, in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, did, unlawfully, wilfully and corruptly, conspire with William B. Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven and certain person or persons unknown to effect the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic in the State of New Jersey in consideration of the payment to the said John McCutcheon of a certain large sum of money, to wit, $25,000, by and in behalf of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

That on the 25th day of March, 1929, at the office of the Comptroller at the State House in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, the sum of $15,000 was paid and delivered in currency to the said John McCutcheon by said William B. Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven, and was received and accepted by the said John McCutcheon in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement.

That on said 25th day of March, after the receipt and acceptance of said money, as aforesaid, in the City of Trenton aforesaid, said John McCutcheon, in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement, caused the said William B. Harley, Jr., to be appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and to be confirmed by the Senate.

That between the said 25th day of March and the day of in said year, at the City of Paterson in said State, the further sum of $10,000 was paid in currency to the said John McCutcheon by Emanuel R. Coven, which said payment was made by said Coven and was accepted and received by the said John McCutcheon in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the aforesaid unlawful agreement.

All of which said conspiracy, agreements and acts by the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VI

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on or about the day of , 19 , motion was made in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Passaic County before William B. Harley, Jr., then a Judge of said Court of Quarter Sessions, in behalf of the defendants named in certain indictments which had been returned by the Grand Jury of the County of Passaic against Harry H. Weinberger and others, the purpose of which motions was to quash said indictments. An argument had been heard on said motions by the said William B. Harley, Jr., as such Judge. That subsequent to the argument of said motions before the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge and the submission of written briefs to him by counsel in the cause and prior to the decision of said motions by said Harley, the said John McCutcheon, on or about the day of , 19 , at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, in violation of his duty to uphold and protect the laws of the State of New Jersey, demanded of the said Harley, as such Judge, that said Harley grant said motions to quash said indictments regardless of whether such indictments were sufficient in law and without regard to the duty of said Harley to decide said motions on its merits without fear or favor.

At the time of the said demand the said McCutcheon, by virtue of his office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and because of his standing and position in the County of Passaic, had great influence in said State and County.

That said acts of the said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VII

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on the day of April, 1929, one , otherwise known as Dapper Dan Collins, was convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, of the charge of conspiracy to defraud and on the day of , said was sentenced by William B. Harley, Jr., the Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, who had conducted the trial of the said , to imprisonment in the State Prison for three years and to the payment of a fine of $1,000.

That on the day of , John McCutcheon, then Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and a man of great influence in said State and in the County of Passaic, and then being the person who had been instrumental in securing the appointment of said Harley as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, such appointment having been made on the 25th day of March, 1929, demanded of said Harley as Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, that he sign a certificate of reasonable doubt for said Collins, which certificate, in the event that an appeal were taken, was necessary to secure the release of said Collins on bail pending the decision of such appeal and that such certificate be given without regard to the question of whether or not there was any reasonable doubt as to the legality of said conviction and without regard to the duty of said Harley to sign such certificate or to refuse to sign it on its merits and without fear or favor. That upon the refusal of the said Harley to sign said certificate, the said McCutcheon charged the said Harley with being ungrateful.

Said acts of said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VIII

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on or about the day of , one Weiner and one Cohen, having previously been indicted for the offense of carrying concealed weapons, were convicted under indictment in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic of such offense and were each sentenced to imprisonment of three years in the State Prison and a fine of $1,000 each. That both said Weiner and said Cohen had long criminal records.

That on or about the day of , 19 , at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, said John McCutcheon, being then Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, demanded of William B. Harley, Jr., said Harley being the Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, who had conducted the trial of said Weiner and Cohen, that said Weiner and said Cohen be released by said Judge and put on probation regardless of whether there was any fact relating to said Weiner or

Cohen or to the circumstances of said conviction which would warrant the said Harley in putting them on probation and without regard to the duty of said Harley to determine the matter of whether or not said Weiner and Cohen should be placed on probation on the merits and without fear or favor. That upon the refusal of said Harley to accede to the demand of the said John McCutcheon, the said McCutcheon said to the said Harley: "You are impossible and no use to the party."

Said acts of the said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

And the House of Assembly, by protestation, saving to themselves the liberty of exhibiting at any time hereafter any further articles or other accusation or impeachment against the said John McCutcheon, former Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and also of replying to his answer which he shall make to the articles herein preferred and exhibited against him, and of offering proof of the same and every part thereof, and of all and every other article, accusation or impeachment which shall be exhibited and preferred by them, as the case shall require, do demand that the said John McCutcheon may be put to answer the misdemeanor in office herein charged against him, and that such proceedings, examinations, trials and judgments may be thereupon had and given as may be agreeable to law and justice.

Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement.

That on said 25th day of March, after the receipt and acceptance by said McCutcheon of said money as aforesaid at the City of Trenton aforesaid, the said John McCutcheon, in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement caused the said

William B. Harley, Jr., to be appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and to be confirmed by the Senate.

That between the said 25th day of March and the day of April, in said year, at the City of Paterson, in said State, the further sum of $10,000 was paid in currency to the said John McCutcheon by Emanuel R. Coven, which said payment was made in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the aforesaid unlawful agreement.

That between the first day of April, 1929, and the first day of April, 1934, the said William B. Harley, Jr., from time to time, at the City of Paterson aforesaid, repaid to the said Emanuel R. Coven sums aggregating approximately $21,850, which said payments were made in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with said unlawful agreement.

All of which said conspiracy, agreement and acts by the said William B. Harley, Jr., brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the administration of justice in this State and upon the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and constituted misdemeanor in office upon the part of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

ARTICLE III

That the said William B. Harley, Jr., was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic on the 25th day of March, 1929, and such appointment was confirmed on said date, and that he took the official oath as such Judge and entered upon the discharge of the duties of the said office on the first day of April, 1929, and continued in office as such Judge for the period of five years thereafter.

That on or about the day of , 19 , while the said William B. Harley, Jr., was in office as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and also as Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, motions were made and argued in said last-mentioned Court before the said William B. Harley, Jr., as such Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions in the County of Passaic in behalf of the defendants named in certain indictments which had been returned by the Grand Jury of the County of Passaic against Harry H. Weinberger and others, the purpose of which motions was to quash said indictments. After argument had been heard by the said Harley on said motions, and written briefs had been submitted to him by counsel in the cause, and prior to the decision of said motions by said Harley, the said Harley, on or about the day of , 19 , at the request of the said McCutcheon, went to the office of the said McCutcheon, in the City of Paterson, County of Passaic, in this State, and then and there discussed the decision of the said motions with the said McCutcheon, and then and there promised the said McCutcheon that before he released his opinion on said motions, he would tell the said McCutcheon what conclusion he had reached thereon.

That subsequently, between the second day of March and the fifth day of March, in the year 1931, at the City of Paterson, County of Passaic, State of New Jersey, and before the said Harley as such Judge had filed his opinion on the said motions to quash said indictments, and before he had announced his conclusions thereon to the parties or the counsel in the causes, the said Harley went to the office of the said McCutcheon and advised the said McCutcheon that he had decided to deny the said motions to quash the said indictments. At the time and place last mentioned, the said Harley permitted the said McCutcheon and one Roy T. Yates, then Senator from Passaic County, to discuss with him the matter of the said motions and the reasons why the said indictments should be quashed, all of which constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

And the House of Assembly, by protestation, saving to themselves the liberty of exhibiting at any time hereafter any further articles or other accusation or impeachment against the said William B. Harley, Jr., former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and also of replying to his answer which he shall make to the articles herein preferred and exhibited against him, and of offering proof of the same and every part thereof, and of all and every other article, accusation or impeachment which shall be exhibited and preferred by them, as the case shall require, do demand that the said William B. Harley, Jr., may be put to answer the misdemeanor in office herein charged against him, and that such proceedings, examinations, trials and judgments may be thereupon had and given as may be agreeable to law and justice.

Report adopted and ordered to be printed in full in the minutes.

REPORT OF ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT BY HOUSE MANAGERS

To the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The undersigned, having been appointed as Managers to prepare the case against John McCutcheon, formerly Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and to prepare Articles of Impeachment against him and present such Articles to the Senate, report that they have prepared the Articles of Impeachment annexed hereto and recommend the adoption of such Articles by this House.

W. STANLEY NAUGHRIGHT,
THOMAS S. DOUGHTY,
ANTHONY J. SIRACUSA,
JOHN J. RAFFERTY.

ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT

Exhibited by the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey in the name of themselves and all of the people of the State of New Jersey against John McCutcheon, formerly Comptroller of the Treasury of the State of New Jersey, in maintenance and support of their impeachment against him for misdemeanor in office.

Article I

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That the said John McCutcheon, then being Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and having unlawfully, wrongfully, wilfully and corruptly agreed with William B. Harley, Jr., then a candidate for appointment as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, that upon payment to the said John McCutcheon of the sum of $25,000, the said John McCutcheon would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, said John McCutcheon, on or about the 25th day of March, 1929, at the Comptroller's office in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, did receive and accept the sum of $15,000 from the said William B. Harley, Jr., as consideration for his recommendation of said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and that thereafter, on said 25th day of March, 1929, at the City of Trenton aforesaid, said John McCutcheon did recommend the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, with the result that the said William B. Harley, Jr., was on said last-mentioned date appointed to said office, which said appointment was on said date duly confirmed by the Senate of said State. That the receipt and acceptance of said money and the recommendation of said Harley to said office of Judge by said John McCutcheon in consideration thereof brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE II

That on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said William B. Harley, Jr., and the said Emanuel R. Coven paid to the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, the sum of $15,000 in currency and promised to pay the balance of said sum of $25,000, to wit, $10,000, within a short time thereafter, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same and promised to procure the appointment of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic for the said William B. Harley, Jr. Thereafter, on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said John McCutcheon recommended and supported the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic with the result that the said William B. Harley, Jr., was appointed as such Judge by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, on said 25th day of March, 1929, and such appointment was confirmed by the Senate of this State on said last mentioned date.

That subsequent to the said 25th day of March, 1929, and between said 25th day of March and the 10th day of April in said year, the said Emanuel R. Coven delivered to the said John McCutcheon the balance of the said sum of $25,000, to wit, the sum of $10,000, in currency, at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same as the balance of the consideration for his act in procuring the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, as above set forth.

That neither said sum of $25,000 nor any part thereof was delivered or paid by said John McCutcheon to the Republican Campaign Fund.

All of which agreements and acts on the part of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE III

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That during the year 1929 the said John McCutcheon had great influence with respect to the appointment of public officers in this State and particularly with respect to public officers appointed for the County of Passaic. That said John McCutcheon, having prior to the 22nd day of March, 1929, advised one William B. Harley, Jr., who was a candidate for appointment as Common Pleas Judge of Passaic County, that he, the said John McCutcheon, would not support said Harley for said appointment and that said Harley could not be appointed as said Judge, did, between said 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March, in said year, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, represent to one Emanuel R. Coven and to the said William B. Harley, Jr., that he, the said John McCutcheon, would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and would procure said appointment for him if the said Emanuel R. Coven and William B. Harley, Jr., or either of them, would pay to him, the said John McCutcheon, the sum of $25,000, which said amount was said to be required by said McCutcheon as a campaign contribution to the Republican Campaign Fund.

That on said 25th day of March, 1929, the said William B. Harley, Jr., and the said Emanuel R. Coven paid to the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, the sum of $15,000 in currency and promised to pay the balance of said sum of $25,000, to wit, $10,000, within a short time thereafter, and the said John McCutcheon then and there received and accepted the same and promised that the appointment of William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic would be made on that evening. Thereafter, on the evening of the said 25th day of March, 1929, Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, sent the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, to the Senate of New Jersey and said appointment was confirmed by the said Senate on said evening.

All of which agreements and acts on the part of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE IV

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, to April 4, 1934. That during the year 1929, the said John McCutcheon, being then in high official position in this State as Comptroller, was in the confidence of Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and was by said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor as aforesaid, entrusted with the duty of recommending a fit and proper person for the appointment of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, said office being a public office to be filled by appointment by the Governor upon the advice and consent of the Senate of this State; that by virtue of the trust and confidence reposed in said John McCutcheon by the said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor, as aforesaid, it was and became the duty of the said John McCutcheon not to recommend any person for appointment to the said office unless such recommendation were made without fear or favor and without personal gain, but solely in the interest of the people of the State of New Jersey.

That between the 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March in said year, the said John McCutcheon was solicited to recommend one William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and the said John McCutcheon then and there, unmindful of the said duty and in violation of the trust and confidence reposed in him by the then Governor of the State of New Jersey and by the people of said State, did, between the days last aforesaid, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, unlawfully, wilfully and corruptly agree with one Emanuel R. Coven and with the said William B. Harley, Jr., that he, the said John McCutcheon would recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic if the said William B. Harley, Jr., would agree to pay and would pay to him, the said John McCutcheon, the sum of $25,000. On the 25th day of March, 1929, at the said Office of the Comptroller in the State House in said City of Trenton, the said John McCutcheon did receive and accept from the said Coven and the said Harley $15,000 in currency and the promise of the said Coven and the said Harley to pay the additional $10,000 at a later date, and did, thereafter, on said last-mentioned date, recommend the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment to the said office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and thereafter the said William B. Harley, Jr., was so appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by the said Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and confirmed by the Senate of said State on said 25th day of March, 1929.

The said agreements and acts of the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE V

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That between the 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March in said year the said John McCutcheon, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House, in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, did, unlawfully, wilfully and corruptly, conspire with William B. Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven and certain person or persons unknown to effect the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic in the State of New Jersey in consideration of the payment to the said John McCutcheon of a certain large sum of money, to wit, $25,000, by and in behalf of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

That on the 25th day of March, 1929, at the office of the Comptroller at the State House in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, the sum of $15,000 was paid and delivered in currency to the said John McCutcheon by said William B. Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven, and was received and accepted by the said John McCutcheon in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement.

That on said 25th day of March, after the receipt and acceptance of said money, as aforesaid, in the City of Trenton aforesaid, said John McCutcheon, in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement, caused the said William B. Harley, Jr., to be appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and to be confirmed by the Senate.

That between the said 25th day of March and the 10th day of April in said year, at the City of Paterson in said State, the further sum of $10,000 was paid in currency to the said John McCutcheon by Emanuel R. Coven, which said payment was made by said Coven and was accepted and received by the said John McCutcheon in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the aforesaid unlawful agreement.

All of which said conspiracy, agreements and acts by the said John McCutcheon brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VI

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on or about the 14th day of February, 1931, motions were made in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Passaic County before William B. Harley, Jr., then a Judge of said Court of Quarter Sessions, in behalf of the defendants named in certain indictments which had been returned by the Grand Jury of the County of Passaic against Harry H. Weinberger and others, the purpose of which motions was to quash said indictments. An argument had been heard on said motions by the said William B. Harley, Jr., as such Judge. That subsequent to the argument of said motions before the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge and the submission of written briefs to him by counsel in the cause and prior to the decision of said motions by said Harley, the said John McCutcheon, between the 14th day of February, 1931, and the 5th day of March, in said year, at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, in violation of his duty to uphold and protect the laws of the State of New Jersey, demanded of the said Harley, as such Judge, that said Harley grant said motions to quash said indictments regardless of whether such indictments were sufficient in law and without regard to the duty of said Harley to decide said motions on their merits without fear or favor.

At the time of the said demand the said McCutcheon, by virtue of his office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and because of his standing and position in the County of Passaic, had great influence in said State and County.

That said acts of the said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VII

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on the 24th day of April, 1929, one Dan Collins, otherwise known as Dapper Dan Collins, was convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, of the charge of conspiracy to defraud and on the 26th day of April, 1929, said Dan Collins was sentenced by William B. Harley, Jr., the Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, who had conducted the trial of the said Collins, to imprisonment in the State Prison for three years and to the payment of a fine of $1,000.

That between the 26th day of April, 1929, and on the 1st day of June, in said year, John McCutcheon, then Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and a man of great influence in said State and in the County of Passaic, and then being the person who had been instrumental in securing the appointment of said Harley as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, such appointment having been made on the 25th day of March, 1929, demanded of said Harley as Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, that he sign a certificate of reasonable doubt for said Collins, which certificate, in the event that an appeal were taken, was necessary to secure the release of said Collins on bail pending the decision of such appeal and that such certificate be given without regard to the question of whether or not there was any reasonable doubt as to the legality of said conviction and without regard to the duty of said Harley to sign such certificate or to refuse to sign it on its merits and without fear or favor. That upon the refusal of the said Harley to sign said certificate, the said McCutcheon charged the said Harley with being ungrateful.

Said acts of said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

ARTICLE VIII

That the said John McCutcheon was in office as Comptroller of the State of New Jersey from February 20, 1929, until April 4, 1934. That on or about the 15th day of October, 1930, one Alfred Weiner and one Harry Cohen, having previously been indicted for the offense of assault with a pistol, were convicted under indictment in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic of such offense and were each sentenced, on or about October 17, 1930, to imprisonment of three years in the State Prison and a fine of $1,000 each. That both said Weiner and said Cohen had long criminal records.

That between the said 17th day of October and the 10th day of November, 1930, at the City of Paterson, in the County of Passaic and State of New Jersey, said John McCutcheon, being then Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, demanded of William B. Harley, Jr., said Harley being the Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, who had conducted the trial of said Weiner and Cohen, that said Weiner and said Cohen be released by said Judge and put on probation regardless of whether there was any fact relating to said Weiner or

Cohen or to the circumstances of said conviction which would warrant the said Harley in putting them on probation and without regard to the duty of said Harley to determine the matter of whether or not said Weiner and Cohen should be placed on probation on the merits and without fear or favor. That upon the refusal of said Harley to accede to the demand of the said John McCutcheon, the said McCutcheon said to the said Harley: "You are impossible and no use to the party."

Said acts of the said McCutcheon were done wrongfully and wilfully and brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the State of New Jersey, particularly upon the office of Comptroller of said State, and constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said John McCutcheon.

And the House of Assembly, by protestation, saving to themselves the liberty of exhibiting at any time hereafter any further articles or other accusation or impeachment against the said John McCutcheon, former Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and also of replying to his answer which he shall make to the articles herein preferred and exhibited against him, and of offering proof of the same and every part thereof, and of all and every other article, accusation or impeachment which shall be exhibited and preferred by them, as the case shall require, do demand that the said John McCutcheon may be put to answer the misdemeanor in office herein charged against him, and that such proceedings, examinations, trials and judgments may be thereupon had and given as may be agreeable to law and justice.

Mr. Naughright arose and submitted the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk:

Resolved, That the Articles of Impeachment recommended in the Report of the Managers appointed by the Speaker to prepare the case against John McCutcheon, formerly Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and to prepare and present Articles of Impeachment against him be and the same hereby are adopted, and that the managers present the same at the bar of the Senate.

Mr. Naughright moved that the resolution be adopted.

Which motion, the ayes and the nays being called, was carried by the following vote:

REPORT OF ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT BY HOUSE MANAGERS

To the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The undersigned, having been appointed as Managers to prepare the case against William B. Harley, Jr., formerly Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and to prepare Articles of Impeachment against him and present such Articles to the Senate, report that they have prepared the Articles of Impeachment annexed hereto and recommend the adoption of such Articles by this House.

W. STANLEY NAUGHRIGHT,
THOMAS S. DOUGHTY,
ANTHONY J. SIRACUSA,
JOHN J. RAFFERTY.

ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT

Exhibited by the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey in the name of themselves and all of the people of the State of New Jersey against William B. Harley, Jr., formerly a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic in said State of New Jersey, in maintenance and support of their impeachment against him for misdemeanor in office.

ARTICLE I

ment was confirmed on said date and that he took the official oath as such Judge and entered upon the discharge of the duties of his said office on the first day of April, 1929, and continued in office as such Judge for the period of five years thereafter.

On the 22nd day of March, 1929, and for a long time prior thereto and until and including the 25th day of March, in said year, the said William B. Harley, Jr., was a candidate for appointment as Judge of said Court. Between said 22nd day of March and said 25th day of March, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in this State, the said William B. Harley, Jr., agreed to pay to John McCutcheon, who was then Comptroller of the State of New Jersey and an influential political leader in said State, the sum of $25,000, in consideration of which payment and agreement to pay the said John McCutcheon agreed with the said William B. Harley, Jr., that he, the said John McCutcheon, would support the candidacy of the said William B. Harley, Jr., for appointment as such Judge and would secure such appointment for the said William B. Harley, Jr.

That on the 25th day of March, 1929, prior to the appointment of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as such Judge, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in said City of Trenton, the said William B. Harley, Jr., paid and caused to be paid to the said John McCutcheon the sum of $15,000 in currency on account of the sum agreed to be paid as above stated; whereupon the said John McCutcheon, in consideration of such payment and promise to pay on the part of the said William B. Harley, Jr., caused the said William B. Harley, Jr., to be appointed and confirmed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Passaic County.

That subsequent to the appointment and confirmation of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and between the 25th day of March, 1929, and the 10th day of April, in said year, the said William B. Harley, Jr., caused one Emanuel R. Coven to pay to the said John McCutcheon at Paterson in the State of New Jersey the sum of $10,000 in currency, said sum being the balance of the said sum of $25,000 which the said William B. Harley, Jr., had agreed to pay to the said John McCutcheon, as aforesaid. That the sum of $25,000 which the said William B. Harley, Jr., caused to be paid to the said John McCutcheon at the times and in the manner above stated was advanced by the said Emanual R. Coven. That from time to time, between the said first day of April, 1929, and the first day of April, 1934, said William B. Harley, Jr., then being in office as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, repaid to the said Emanuel R. Coven all of the said sum of $25,000, except the sum of approximately $3,150.

That the acts of the said William B. Harley, Jr., as above stated, brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the administration of justice in this State and upon the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and constituted misdemeanor in office.

ARTICLE II

That the said William B. Harley, Jr., was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic on the 25th day of March, 1929, and such appointment was confirmed on said date and that he took the official oath as such judge and entered upon the discharge of the duties of his said office on the first day of April, 1929, and continued in office as such judge for the period of five years thereafter.

That between the 22nd day of March, 1929, and the 25th day of March, in said year, the said William B. Harley, Jr., at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton and State of New Jersey, did unlawfully, wilfully and corruptly conspire with John McCutcheon, Emanuel R. Coven and certain other person or persons unknown to effect the appointment of said William B. Harley, Jr., as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic in the State of New Jersey, in consideration of the payment to the said John McCutcheon of a certain large sum of money, to wit, $25,000, by and in behalf of the said William B. Harley, Jr.; that said sum of money should be advanced in the first instance by the said Emanuel R. Coven and should be repaid to the said Coven by said Harley.

That on the 25th day of March, 1929, at the office of the Comptroller in the State House in the City of Trenton in the State of New Jersey, the sum of $15,000 was paid and delivered in currency to the said John McCutcheon by said William B. Harley, Jr., and Emanuel R. Coven in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement.

That on said 25th day of March, after the receipt and acceptance by said McCutcheon of said money as aforesaid at the City of Trenton aforesaid, the said John McCutcheon, in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the said unlawful agreement caused the said William B. Harley, Jr., to be appointed as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic by Morgan F. Larson, then Governor of the State of New Jersey, and to be confirmed by the Senate.

That between the said 25th day of March and the 10th day of April, in said year, at the City of Paterson, in said State, the further sum of $10,000 was paid in currency to the said John McCutcheon by Emanuel R. Coven, which said payment was made in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with the aforesaid unlawful agreement.

That between the first day of April, 1929, and the first day of April, 1934, the said William B. Harley, Jr., from time to time, at the City of Paterson aforesaid, repaid to the said Emanuel R. Coven sums aggregating approximately $21,850, which said payments were made in furtherance of said conspiracy and in accordance with said unlawful agreement.

All of which said conspiracy, agreement and acts by the said William B. Harley, Jr., brought great scandal, disgrace and reproach upon the administration of justice in this State and upon the office of Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic and constituted misdemeanor in office upon the part of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

ARTICLE III

That the said William B. Harley, Jr., was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic on the 25th day of March, 1929, and such appointment was confirmed on said date, and that he took the official oath as such Judge and entered upon the discharge of the duties of the said office on the first day of April, 1929, and continued in office as such Judge for the period of five years thereafter.

That on or about the 14th of February, 1931, while the said William B. Harley, Jr., was in office as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and also as Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Passaic, motions were made and argued in said last-mentioned Court before the said William B. Harley, Jr., as such Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions in the County of Passaic in behalf of the defendants named in certain indictments which had been returned by the Grand Jury of the County of Passaic against Harry H. Weinberger and others, the purpose of which motions was to quash said indictments. After argument had been heard by the said Harley on said motions, and written briefs had been submitted to him by counsel in the cause, and prior to the decision of said motions by said Harley, the said Harley, at the request of the said McCutcheon, went to the office of the said McCutcheon, in the City of Paterson, County of Passaic, in this State, and then and there discussed the decision of the said motions with the said McCutcheon, and then and there promised the said McCutcheon that before he released his opinion on said motions, he would tell the said McCutcheon what conclusion he had reached thereon.

That subsequently, between the first day of March and the fifth day of March, in the year 1931, at the City of Paterson, County of Passaic, State of New Jersey, and before the said Harley as such Judge had filed his opinion on the said motions to quash said indictments, and before he had announced his conclusions thereon to the parties or the counsel in the causes, the said Harley went to the office of the said McCutcheon and advised the said McCutcheon that he had decided to deny the said motions to quash the said indictments. At the time and place last mentioned, the said Harley permitted the said McCutcheon and one Roy T. Yates, then Senator from Passaic County, to discuss with him the matter of the said motions and the reasons why the said indictments should be quashed, all of which constituted misdemeanor in office on the part of the said William B. Harley, Jr.

And the House of Assembly, by protestation, saving to themselves the liberty of exhibiting at any time hereafter any further articles or other accusation or impeachment against the said William B. Harley, Jr., former Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and also of replying to his answer which he shall make to the articles herein preferred and exhibited against him, and of offering proof of the same and every part thereof, and of all and every other article, accusation or impeachment which shall be exhibited and preferred by them, as the case shall require, do demand that the said William B. Harley, Jr., may be put to answer the misdemeanor in office herein charged against him, and that such proceedings, examinations, trials and judgments may be thereupon had and given as may be agreeable to law and justice.

Mr. Naughright arose and submitted the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk:

Resolved, That the Articles of Impeachment recommended in the report of the Managers appointed by the Speaker to prepare the case against William B. Harley, Jr., formerly Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Passaic, and to prepare and present articles of impeachment against him, be and the same are adopted, and that the Managers present the same at the bar of the Senate.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

July 9, 1934.

To the Legislature:

After a tour of inspection on June 30th of the territory infected by the Dutch elm disease, and after a conference with Federal officials, I am convinced that the State should make every effort to conserve the valuable asset of its native elms.

Up to the present time the Federal government has spent $175,000.00 in New Jersey against the Dutch elm disease; our local Shade Tree Commissions have spent $15,000.00, and the State has contributed $5,000.00.

At present the situation is serious. A thousand infected trees have been found recently and these should be destroyed at once in order to lessen the spread of the disease. The Federal government is contributing $75,000.00, and cooperating with our own State agencies.

In order that the destruction of diseased trees be assured, I therefore urge the passage of Assembly Bill No. 421, which provides $30,000.00 for that purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

ATTEST:
FRANCIS V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

September 5, 1934.

To the Legislature:

On September 5, 1933, the Legislature adopted the act creating the New Jersey Industrial Recovery Administration. Under this act, and upon application of numerous industries and trades, States codes have been approved and are now in effect.

By concurrent resolution of your honorable body, dated June 5, 1934, a Legislative Commission was appointed to "investigate the operation of the administration of the State of New Jersey codes," and to report back as to what action should be taken "by the Legislature regarding the further continuance of the operation of the administration of such codes."

Your Joint Commission has conducted such an investigation and made public its report, wherein, in part, it says: "Employer and employe in New Jersey, now, in despair, look to the codes as their only hope of immediate relief * * * that the majority of those in the industries now under codes in New Jersey, or which hope to come under codes, favor the continuance of our present legislative and economic experiment * * * employer and employe * * * will at least temporarily benefit from the operation of the codes * * *. If the legality and work of codes are to be fairly tested, then there should be the strictest possible enforcement."

I am advised that under the present Recovery Act it is not possible to obtain the maximum enforcement.

In view of the report of your Committee and the recommendations of various representatives of industry and labor, I requested the Attorney-General to prepare a new Recovery Act. I transmit herewith such proposed new act, which was drafted after numerous conferences with representatives of all interested parties, including industry, labor, and the consumer, and I am advised that among other things it will accomplish the following desired results:

1. Make possible effective enforcement.

2. Embody the constructive recommendations of your Joint Investigating Commission.

3. Integrate by agreement the code programs of National and State Administrations.

I recommend this legislation for your approval.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:

FRANCES V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Naughright moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

To the Legislature:

I understand that legislation will be introduced providing that amortization payments on bonds issued for school purposes may be deferred for five years from date of issue if bonds are purchased by the Federal government or one of its agencies.

If the present requirement that first installments on bonds be paid in two years be relaxed to five years, substantial aid will be afforded municipalities in school districts in planning their financial programs.

The Federal government, I am informed, is ready to make loans on a favorable basis for needed construction. Such work will at once help our industries and give employment to many of our citizens, and I urge the prompt enactment of a measure of this kind.

Respectfully submitted,

[SEAL] A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Mr. Naughright moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes and referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Which motion was adopted.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

September 5, 1934.

To the Legislature:

In my second annual message to the Legislature sent on January 9th last, I treated at length the matter of Emergency Relief and its financing. At that time I stated and take this opportunity of reiterating that: "All governments, local, State and Federal, are compelled to give continuous attention to measures for emergency relief and recovery because of the devastating and cumulative effects of this economic depression."

Since that statement was made the numbers on our relief rolls instead of decreasing as we had hoped have almost constantly been on the increase, so that at the end of June of this year there were 494,000 persons receiving relief from the State as compared with 449,000 at the end of June last year, which means that one person in every eight in our State is being helped by the Emergency Relief Administration during these trying times. Thus it is patent that the need is still great and will remain so for some months to come.

Since the first of the year, in conjunction with the Chairman of the Administrative Council of the Emergency Relief Administration, I have closely studied the trends of relief in our State and the probable financial needs. In order to lend every assistance possible, I personally had a conference with Mr. Hopkins, in Washington, concerning the financing of relief for this calendar year.

I found Mr. Hopkins and his associates prepared to be not only just, but liberal in their treatment of New Jersey. They were, however, at the same time naturally insistent that the State should do its share towards paying the total bill.

Shortly after my return from Washington, I stated that ten million dollars would probably be needed to carry the State's share of the relief expenses to the end of the year, but that definite proposals would be made later in the year when the situation could be more clearly visualized. At that time I suggested the advisability of using the unissued ten million dollars of highway bonds.

Accordingly in April, I caused to be introduced in the Legislature, Senate Bill No. 316 authorizing the transfer of ten million dollars of highway bonds to the Emergency Relief account and authorizing their issue. The above-mentioned bill has not been passed by the Legislature. I, therefore, again urge that this bill be passed immediately.

The present situation, which I assume is known to most of you, is that during recent months the Federal government has been paying an increasingly large proportion of our relief costs. There are, however, certain charges which cannot be taken care of with Federal funds. For example, the Legislature has directed that the State's share of the Old Age Pensions and Board of Children's Guardians payments shall be charged to the relief funds. The State must provide for the funds for this purpose. This amounts to about three million dollars per year. The municipalities of the State have continued to respond most generously to this situation and are doing all in their power to aid in paying the relief expenditures in their localities, but the amount they can contribute is necessarily limited. Therefore, the State must provide the greater part of the difference between what the Federal government is willing to pay and the total cost, including the pensions above mentioned.

New Jersey's record in the handling of her share of relief costs has been an enviable one. For many months we carried the burden alone; the municipalities first, and then the municipalities and the State jointly. Even after asking Federal help, we have done our share. We cannot falter now.

I am assured that ten million dollars in addition to Federal grants already made and promised will carry us until after the end of the year. I, therefore, again ask the Legislature to pass this most pressing piece of legislation in order that our less fortunate neighbors who are on relief may be assured that their basic needs will be taken care of this winter.

It is my considered judgment that the transfer of ten million dollars of the highway bonds to the Emergency Relief Account is the method the least fraught with difficulties at the present time of raising the additional money needed. I know, of course, of the objections which have been voiced to this method of raising this money, the chief of which is that this would be unfair to the motoring public. But, after all, who are the motoring public of New Jersey but a vast proportion of the citizens and taxpayers of New Jersey themselves, who in the end will pay a large share of this additional money for relief, regardless of the type of levy. So, in view of the final incidence of taxation, I fail to discover the injustice to the motorists of the State which the opponents to this plan aver.

On the other hand, I do believe the diversion plan possesses several distinct advantages:

First; the authorized bonded indebtedness of the State would not be increased.

Second; before any new form of taxation for relief is adopted, it would give the Legislative Special Committee on Relief an opportunity to study the whole relief problem with a view both to the probable needs and sources of income in the next calendar year.

Third; it would allow us to fit relief financing into a sound scheme of taxation in general. And at this time I think it only fair and appropriate to state again that I am absolutely opposed to any new forms of State taxes until municipal bond and budget acts, such as Senate Nos. 3 and 4, have been enacted into law. New Jersey's credit will never rest upon a sound foundation until, through legislative enactment, assurance is given that municipal finances will be brought under comprehensive and effective control by the State.

However, while I offer above thus frankly and sincerely my views on the best method of raising this additional ten million dollars, my mind is not closed on the subject. And I would submit as a possible alternative plan the suggestion which emanated, I understand, from Senator Wolber, that the additional moneys necessary for relief this year be raised by a sale of bonds, the amortization and carrying charges on which would be met by appropriating part of the revenues accruing from liquor license fees, now going into the State treasury. These taxes in August exceeded $500,000 which would seem to indicate a sufficiency of revenue for the above-mentioned purpose.

Attention should however be directed to the fact that if this plan is adopted the present laws controlling the sale of beverages will become definitive at least for the life of the contemplated bond issue inasmuch as the revenues accruing under the present statutes are to be pledged to support the new issue.

The lawyers for the Dorrance estate have informed me that the collection of taxes by New Jersey from this estate is neither imminent nor definite. And attempts on our part to discuss this matter with the executors have been unsuccessful. This avenue is therefore closed for the present. If later these taxes are collected they could then be applied to the indebtedness created by the financing now adopted.

This is no academic problem with which we are faced; it is real and must be met. Nothing can be availed by hurling epithets, asking rhetorical questions, or dwelling on the failure of another method previously adopted for the raising of this money.

The New Jersey Relief Administration has been remarkably free from the charge of politics in the financing of relief. Only irreparable harm can come from allowing political considerations to enter into our deliberations now. Rather must we address ourselves thoughtfully, intelligently and without rancor or bitterness to the one question at issue, i.e., "How best can New Jersey finance the additional ten million dollars for relief purposes needed between now and January first?" And it behooves every one of us charged with the responsibility of meeting this obligation to put aside political partisanship in the interests of our common humanity. This relief financing problem can and must be solved in a straightforward, intelligent and sound manner, as in other questions of finance. To do less will be to fail in our plain duty.

The courage, fortitude, and singular endurance of those who are on relief in this State have commanded the admiration and respect of us all. And although the burden of relief has been and continues to be a heavy one to carry, we must see it through. As Governor of this State, I am charged with the duty of meeting emergencies. So when it is reported to me that some 500,000 citizens of the State are still on relief today, that fact constitutes an emergency of such proportions and gravity that further delay in providing the necessary funds will be nothing short of calamitous.

Respectfully submitted,

Governor.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

September 5, 1934.

To the Legislature:

The 1934 assessments of railroad taxes have been appealed by all of the railroad companies, and are about to be argued before the State Board of Tax Appeals. The disputed portion exceeds nine million dollars.

All of these cases will require experts, and considerable expense must necessarily be involved.

I am attaching herewith a letter from the Attorney-General, setting forth the matter in detail, together with bills for necessary appropriations to contest these suits.

I urge that this appropriation be made.

Respectfully submitted,

[SEAL] A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
FRANCES V. SMITH,
Secretary to the Governor.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 5, 1934.

My Dear Governor:

On the calendar of the United States District Court, whose term opens on the 11th instant, are two tax appeals, one by the Lehigh Valley System and the other by the Central Railroad of New Jersey System. These cases must be prepared and probably tried during this term of court.

The 1934 assessments of railroad taxes have been appealed by all of the railroad companies, and are about to be argued before the State Board of Tax Appeals. The disputed portion exceeds $9,000,000.

All of these cases will require experts on (1) real estate assessments and value throughout the State; (2) on interstate commerce questions relating to the claim of the railroads that capitalized earnings should influence values; and (3) on stock and bond quotations, since the railroads claim that stock exchange quotations should determine the value of their stock, and that the aggregate of their stocks and bonds represent the true value of their property.

These are novel questions which we attempted to meet last year, but without the time or the means for adequate preparation.

The railroads are trying to establish a record which they can take to the United States Supreme Court. Nothing should be left undone on the part of the State in meeting this effort.

No funds have been provided for the expense of the preparation and trial of the above cases. The matter has been reviewed carefully by Judge Smathers, Assistant Attorney-General, and by Mr. Minard, who handled the litigation last year, and they concur in our view that a conservative estimate of the cost of preparation and trial of these cases, together with the stenographers' record of the trials, is $50,000, which should be made available for expenditure by the Attorney-General and the State Tax Department. According to our belief, the amount mentioned above is less than half of the amount which the railroads are expending in the prosecution of these cases.

Although our present resources are totally inadequate we have been compelled to proceed with the preparation of the cases as if funds were available, in order to be ready and not in default when the cases are called.

Will you please urge the Legislature to pass the enclosed appropriation bill for this purpose?

Yours very truly,

DAVID T. WILENTZ,
Attorney-General,

J. H. THAYER MARTIN,
State Tax Commissioner.

THE HONORABLE A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor of New Jersey,
State House, Trenton, N. J.

The following communication was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

September 11, 1934.

Frederick A. Brodesser, Clerk of the House of Assembly, State House, Trenton, N. J.:

My Dear Mr. Brodesser—The attached petitions represent the sentiment of over 12,000 persons engaged in the automotive maintenance business now controlled by the Automotive Maintenance Garage Code.

We can assert without fear of contradiction that it represents the expression of opinion of 90% of the persons engaged directly or indirectly in the business affected by said code.

The automotive maintenance tradesmen of New Jersey have petitioned for the removal of their code. This petition has been signed by a majority of those affected by the Automotive Maintenance Garage Code. The code when signed by the Governor was not sponsored by the trade in general. Not more than twenty maintenance men were engaged in the formation of a code at any time, or knew of its contents. When the code became law there were not more than five maintenance men in the State who knew of its wording. The Legislative Commission report states that 65% of the trade sponsored the Maintenance Code. The report mentions the four associations which sponsored the Code. One of these associations is composed of oil dealers, as its name implies. Another is an association which never functioned, except as a name sponsoring the code. There are twenty-three maintenance associations in this State, and at no time has their total membership attained the 65% mentioned for the sponsors. Our code assessment for the year was to be $64,900.00, with each establishment paying $6.00 for the first four months and $3.00 additional for each employee, which is at variance with the Commission report, which states that the shop assessment mentioned was for one year. The maintenance trade wants to be exempted from any legislation which would establish codes as a feature of our government. We feel that at least, insofar as our trade is concerned, that the code has fallen far short of its primary purpose and instead of promoting fair competition has become a weapon in the hands of a few which is inimical to the very existence of our livelihood.

We respectfully request your presentation of these petitions to the General Assembly at its session on Wednesday, September 12th, and that this letter be read at length to said Assembly.

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed) FRANK POSTNIA.

Mr. Naughright moved that the communication be received and filed.

Which motion was adopted.

The following resume of the One Hundred Fifty-eighth Legislature was sent to the desk by Assemblyman Pascoe and read by the Clerk:

The work of a deliberative body such as the Legislature of a State and the Federal Congress is never completed. The fact was rather reluctantly admitted by President Roosevelt when Congress adjourned without conclusive action on several important matters which he had recommended.

In our neighboring State of New York, Governor Lehman recently called the Legislature into special session to complete work they had previously left undone.

The conditions elsewhere are not unlike those in New Jersey. While we are no exception in this respect and it is admitted that all of the problems confronting the people were not solved, yet there were many accomplishments worthy of note and which compare favorably with the work of either the national congress or the Legislature of our sister States.

Of primary importance to the people of New Jersey, under Republican control, we have maintained our State government with a free balance in the State treasury at the close of the fiscal year of about $4,000,000.00. Contrast this with our sister State of New York, where under Democratic control we find they have a deficit of over $100,000,000.00. Surely the people of New Jersey will prefer to continue Republican economical control of the State's affairs rather than trust it to inefficient Democratic control.

A Republican Legislature has continued to care for the unfortunate, distressed citizens of our State, feeding and clothing the women and children during the past year better than in any other State of the Union. This, thus far, we have accomplished without any increased bond issues or the imposition of any additional tax levies.

Further permanent legislation was passed for the control of the sale and distribution of alcoholic liquor in New Jersey. The principle of municipal home rule was maintained and Mr. D. Frederick Burnett was given full jurisdiction in the administration and enforcement. Being a man of broad experience, and a lawyer of proven efficiency, honesty and integrity, his selection has met with Statewide approval.

The State recovery acts have been continued and strengthened for intrastate business. Such further action as may be necessary to conform to federal legislation is now under consideration.

Additional legislation for milk control and to further protect the interests of the dairy farmers of the State.

Consummated settlement with the Port of New York Authority of outstanding indebtedness, benefiting the financial situation of both.

Provided for the construction on the New Jersey shore, in the City of Bayonne, of a modern marine terminal, furthering the development of the New Jersey side of the Port of New York.

Created State Planning Commission to co-operate with Federal Government to facilitate public improvements. An aid to business recovery.

A measure to protect newspaper reporters and photographers from unjust attacks when in performance of their duties.

Provided for the construction of a modern bridge over the Delaware river between Phillipsburg and Easton, which will help unemployed.

Continued the Free Labor Bureaus throughout the State to assist unemployed to find work.

Made appropriation to combat the Dutch Elm Disease, which has been destroying so many of our trees.

The following communication was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

OFFICE OF THE CITY CLERK
Bayonne, N. J., August 9, 1934.
William P. Lee, City Clerk

To the Honorable The House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey, State House, Trenton, New Jersey.

GENTLEMEN—I am directed by the Board of Commissioners of the City of Bayonne to send you the enclosed copies of resolutions relative to unemployment relief submitted to the said board at a meeting held August 7, 1934.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM P. LEE,
City Clerk.

August 6, 1934.

To the Board of Commissioners, City of Bayonne.

GENTLEMEN—Some time in the summer or late fall of 1933 Mayor Donohue initiated a program of public works, consisting of the construction of —

(a) High School.
(b) Public Library.
(c) Recreation Park.
(d) Municipal Building.
(e) Water Main.
(f) Paving replacement.

which projects were to be financed in part with funds to be furnished by the Federal Government.

Application was made to the State Advisory Board, Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, in Newark, and also to the Public Works Administration in Washington, the city was furnished with questionnaires and various formidable forms by the said Public Works Administration practically demanding the history of the city since its incorporation, with what result?—the mountain labored and brought forth a mouse. After all the fuss and feathers, the city has only been able to obtain from the government a paltry $600,000 for the repair of the water main between Bayonne and Kearny. So it seems that our governing body's attempt to obtain consideration from the Federal Government comparable to that shown other municipalities has proven futile and abortive.

I have been reliably informed that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation stands ready to purchase sound municipal bonds and turn the proceeds thereof over to municipalities for projects to be approved by the P. W. A. as evidenced by the clipping from the Bayonne Times of July 21st hereto attached. It will be noted that the R. F. C. has signified its intention of purchasing $100,000,000 worth of bonds offered by the City of New York. I would therefore suggest to your honorable body the advisability of taking pattern by New York. It would seem to me that if a city of New York's precarious financial condition can induce the R. F. C. to purchase their bonds to the tune of $100,000,000, Bayonne, whose financial condition is supposed to be A1, should experience no difficulty in securing financial aid through the medium of a bond issue to carry out many worth while and necessary projects to the end that the dire unemployment situation existing in this city may be alleviated.

I would strongly urge your honorable body as the elected representatives of the people of Bayonne charged with the well being of its citizens, to immediately refrain from further equivocation in the matter of procuring funds necessary to obtain, as soon as possible, immediate and speedy relief of the many unemployed of this city and to prevent suffering consequent on such unemployment which is sure to be intensified during the coming winter.

I am confident that if you will instruct your law department to do so, it will have no difficulty in finding sufficient legislation to enable you to adopt the suggestions contained herein.

Respectfully,

JOHN FITZGIBBON,
Chairman, Bayonne Unemployed Citizens.

BAYONNE NONPARTISAN UNEMPLOYED LEAGUE, INC.

423 Broadway, Bayonne, New Jersey

Honorable Body of Commissioners, City Hall, Avenue "E" at 30th Street, Bayonne, New Jersey.

HONORABLE SIRS—The members of the Bayonne Non-Partisan Unemployed League, Inc., unanimously passed the following resolution at a meeting held at 423 Broadway, on Monday evening, August 6, 1934. It is their desire and wish that your body carry out its provisions without fail.

WHEREAS, The unemployed have been on starvation diets for some time, because the relief is and always has been inadequate; and as a result thereof their resistance has reached a very low level; consequently the present epidemic of dysentery has afflicted many unemployed families and will in all probability strike down many more unless steps are taken to set up a bodily resistance; therefore,

Be It Resolved, That the Board of Commissioners of the City of Bayonne, New Jersey, shall at this meeting, August 7, 1934, or within a week therefrom provide a sum of $200,000 and authorize that this sum shall be immediately expended for the purposes of at least doubling the present relief to give the unemployed plenty of food, new clothes, ice, fuel, gas and electricity, household supplies and medical attention, in cash; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the Commissioners of the City of Bayonne, N. J., shall notify Mr. John Colt, the chairman of the State Relief Council, that the present relief is insufficient and that we, the unemployed, are in danger of being killed off by this epidemic of dysentery; therefore, Mr. Colt shall arrange for a standard of living for the unemployed as called for in FERA Bulletins No. 3 and No. 7, dated July 11, 1933, in order that we may be better able to ward and prevent sickness, and

Be It Further Resolved, That a demand be made on the Governor, the State Legislature, and the Federal Government to get together in the meanwhile and supply Bayonne with a case relief standard, which will for all time maintain the unemployed in a good physical and mental condition.

The Board's failure to carry out this or a similar program, if it results in the spread of this epidemic and more deaths of our people, will be condemned in no uncertain manner, and we shall consider you all responsible for additional deaths of the unemployed the same as if they were murdered in cold blood.

The above is a true copy of a resolution duly passed at a meeting of the League members on Monday, August 6, 1934.

Respectfully submitted,

STANLEY T. TOMKINS,

(Corporate Seal) Executive Secretary.

Mr. Speaker:

I herewith transmit the final report of the Special Committee appointed by resolution of the General Assembly to inquire into alleged corrupt conduct, crimes and misdemeanors of civil officers of this State. I move the adoption of the report and also move that it be spread in full upon the Minutes.

FINAL REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY RESOLUTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO INQUIRE INTO ALLEGED CORRUPT CONDUCT, CRIMES AND MISDEMEANORS OF CIVIL OFFICERS OF THIS STATE.

December 17, 1934.

To the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

This committee was created by resolution of this House adopted on March 19, 1934, and directed to inquire into alleged corrupt conduct, crimes and misdemeanors of civil officers of this State and to report thereon to this House as soon as practicable, to the end that impeachment proceedings might be instituted against any civil officer of this State who should appear to be subject to impeachment.

This committee presented its first report to this House on June 4, 1934, recommending the impeachment of John McCutcheon, former Comptroller of the State of New Jersey, and of William B. Harley, former Common Pleas Judge of the county of Passaic, to which report was appended suggested articles of impeachment. The proceedings which followed this report have become a matter of legislative history.

The preamble of the resolution creating the committee referred not only to the McCutcheon-Harley matter, but also to the charges made against the Prosecutor of the Pleas of Monmouth County. These charges have been investigated by this committee.

The committee deemed it advisable to commence its inquiry in Monmouth county prior to the completion of the Harley-McCutcheon investigation. To that end it engaged investigators early in the month of April and assigned to them the work of inquiring into the enforcement of the law in that county. The number of these investigators was increased from time to time during the summer of 1934 and their work was conducted under the supervision of this committee and its counsel.

The first public hearing was held on September 11th. Fourteen public hearings have been held and a large volume of testimony has been taken. Prior to the commencement of public hearings, as well as subsequent thereto, the committee conducted numerous private hearings, at which 123 witnesses were examined. The investigation made by the committee was attended with great difficulty. Almost all of the Monmouth county witnesses who were summoned before the committee were very reluctant to tell what they knew with regard to conditions in the county, and it is the opinion of the committee that but for this attitude on the part of witnesses who were summoned at private hearing much additional testimony of importance would have been obtained.

It is impossible to state the testimony in detail without unduly extending this report. A summary only can be given of the more important matters covered thereby.

Among the witnesses examined at public hearings were Jonas Tumen, the prosecutor, Harold McDermott and J. Victor Carton, the assistant prosecutors, Harry B. Crook, chief county detective, and John N. Woodward, chief clerk in the prosecutor's office. The testimony of Messrs, Sacco, Zuckerman, Mustoe and Kent, four of the five county detectives in the prosecutor's office, was taken at private hearing. With the exception of Mr. McDermott and Mr. Kent, the witnesses connected with the prosecutor's office were frequently evasive in their answers and impressed the committee as being either unwilling to tell what they knew concerning the manner in which the prosecutor's office has been conducted or as being grossly ignorant of matters which should have been within their knowledge. The prosecutor during the course of his testimony professed a startling lack of knowledge of the affairs of his office, which in itself is significant.

A complete examination of the files in the prosecutor's office would have been impracticable because of the time and expense involved. As a result of the partial examination which was made of such files some startling irregularities were disclosed.

BURGLARY INDICTMENT AGAINST THOMAS CALANDRIELLO

Jonas Tumen because prosecutor of Monmouth county on April 1, 1930. On the 20th day of June, 1930, Thomas Calandriello and Walter Buckley were indicted by the grand jury of Monmouth county for burglary, the charge being that they had broken into the office of the American Railway Express Company at Red Bank late at night and had stolen a number of express packages.

Both the prosecutor and Mr. Crook, his chief county detective, when examined concerning this case, testified that the State had a strong case against the defendants and that in their judgment the evidence was sufficient to secure a conviction. The prosecutor further stated that this evidence had been obtained and was available shortly after the commission of the offense. Notwithstanding this, the prosecutor has failed for four and a half years to bring this indictment to a trial. When questioned by this committee concerning the reason for this failure he gave no explanation except to say that on three occasions the case had been set down for trial. He was unable to say, however, why the trial had been postponed or whether the postponement had been at the request of the State or of the defendants. He admitted that he had had ample opportunity to bring on the trial. No more adequate reason for this delay was secured from any member of the prosecutor's staff. Carton, when testifying before the committee, disclaimed all knowledge of this case, although the files of the prosecutor's office disclose that he wrote at least one letter concerning the date to be fixed for the trial thereof.

Both the prosecutor and Chief Crook admitted that Thomas Calandriello has a very bad reputation in Monmouth county. This is borne out by the prosecutor's records. They show a charge for assault and battery which apparently has not been disposed of, the record being marked "weak case"; two other charges of assault and battery, both of which were dismissed by the justice of the peace before whom the complaint was made and another criminal charge against the same man, the nature of which is not stated. In addition to this they show a charge of atrocious assault and battery against him which appears to have occurred in 1934, in which no indictment was found, although it would appear from the record that the case was presented to the grand jury. An additional charge of malicious mischief appears to have been presented to the grand jury in April, 1934, but no indictment was found.

While Crook denied friendship for Thomas Calandriello, it is significant that he was a guest at Calandriello's wedding, which occurred more than two years after the indictment for burglary. A group photograph of the wedding guests was produced in evidence before the committee, from which it appears that not only Crook but a number of other men prominent in the political life of Monmouth county were present on this occasion.

In the opinion of this committee a delay of over four years in prosecuting an indictment for burglary where the evidence was sufficient to secure a conviction and where the defendant is a man of bad reputation constitutes serious nonfeasance in office on the part of the prosecutor. This delay appears from the prosecutor's own testimony to have been entirely inexcusable. This committee has been unable to discover any mitigating circumstances. All the facts which have been discovered concerning this delay have tended to aggravate rather than to excuse the nonfeasance.

CHARGE AGAINST LILLIEN AND SILVER FOR CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS

Another case disclosed by the examination of the prosecutor's files was a charge against Alexander Lillien and Henry Silver for carrying revolvers in a motor vehicle on the 13th day of January, 1932, in violation of Chapter 138 of the Session Laws of 1922.

Lillien was reputed to be a notorious racketeer, rum runner and bootlegger. The prosecutor admitted that in 1932 he knew of his reputation as a racketeer. Lillien was found in Spring Lake by a State trooper, with a man who gave his name as Silver, at 2 o'clock in the morning with two .38 calibre revolvers and forty-eight .38 calibre cartridges in the car which they were driving. He was arrested and held in bail to await the action of the grand jury.

While the minutes of the grand jury were not available to the committee, the records in the prosecutor's office show that an indictment was voted by the grand jury on April 28, 1932, and that three months later, on July 28, 1932, the grand jury reconsidered this indictment and withdrew it. The prosecutor, both assistant prosecutors and the chief county detective were questioned concerning this case. None of them, except Mr. Carton, the second assistant prosecutor, would admit that he had ever heard of it. Mr. Carton, who admitted that he had heard of the case, claimed to have no definite knowledge concerning it. No reason was given why the indictment which was voted on April 28, 1932, was not presented to the Court prior to July 28th in that year, and no information of any kind or character could be secured as to the reason for the unusual disposition of this serious case.

This committee believes that this case presents a grave miscarriage of justice. We find it hard to believe that any honest grand jury would have been willing to withdraw the indictment had they been advised of the facts in the case.

THE CONSPIRACY TO ROB THE BERKELEY-CARTERET HOTEL

A shocking miscarriage of justice attributable, in the opinion of your committee, to grave misfeasance or nonfeasance on the part of the prosecutor occurred last summer.

Sergeant Robert McAllister, of the New York City Police Department, while staying at the St. George Hotel in Asbury Park during his vacation in June, 1934, was awakened early in the morning of June 28th by a crash in the adjoining room. He heard loud talking by several men which indicated that one or more of these men had been involved in a murder in New York. He also heard a conversation which led him to believe that these men were planning to rob the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel. His suspicions were aroused and he decided to keep the men under surveillance.

At 10 A. M. while he was still waiting in his room he heard someone knock on the door of the adjoining room and heard this man say: "It's Mike, let me in, I want to talk to you." After some further conversation the man, subsequently identified as Michael Chalverus, was admitted to the room.

Following this incident McAllister went to police headquarters in Asbury Park and told Captain Giles, acting police chief, of the conversation which he had overheard.

Captain Giles detailed Detective Sullivan to work with McAllister and they went to the St. George Hotel, watched the room in which the men were staying and followed them when they left the hotel.

Three men left the room and went to a miniature golf course in Asbury Park. Two of them played a number of games at this place, while the third, a man later identified as David Schulman, carried a package wrapped in brown paper and kept score on this package, while his companions played golf. The three men later left the golf course and after walking along the boardwalk went into a swimming pool on Seventh avenue.

Detective Sullivan and Sergeant McAllister took off their coats and pretended to be employees of the establishment. They saw Schulman place the package, which he had been carrying, in his locker. After the men went into the pool a key was obtained by the detectives from the manager of the pool and the locker was opened. They opened the package and found therein a .38 calibre revolver, fully loaded with five cartridges. The cartridges were removed from the revolver and were marked by Detective Sullivan and Sergeant McAllister.

After the gun had been found, Detective Sullivan called police headquarters and told Sergeant Hicinbothem that the men were armed and requested that other officers be sent to the swimming pool.

Sergeant Hicinbothem came to the pool and when the men left the pool they were placed under arrest. When Schulman went to his locker to dress, he took the above mentioned package out of the locker and handed it to Sergeant McAllister, stating that it contained a gun.

These men, who later identified themselves as George Sherman, David Schulman and George Ryne, were then taken to the Asbury Park police headquarters, and Captain Burke ordered Detectives Sullivan and Griggs and Sergeant McAllister to arrest a dishwasher employed at Monterey Hotel, whose name was Michael Chalverus and concerning whom the police had previously received unconfirmed reports that he was planning a robbery of a hotel.

At police headquarters Michael Chalverus was questioned by Captain Burke. Judge Andrew, a member of the Bar of this State, and police judge of Asbury Park, was called in. He asked Chalverus whether he wished to make a statement, and cautioned him that whatever he said must be voluntary and would be used against him in the future. Judge Andrew told Chalverus that he only wanted him to tell the truth and again asked him whether he was willing to make the statement. Chalverus replied "Yes." The confession was then taken down by Officer Rowland in typewriting as Chalverus gave it.

After the statement had been written it was read to Chalverus by Judge Andrew and he was asked if the statement was true, to which he replied in the affirmative. Judge Andrew then said: "You read it yourself," handing the statement to him. Chalverus took the statement and spent quite some time in reading it. Judge Andrew then asked him: "Do you wish to sign that and swear to it?" He said: "Yes" and signed it. Judge Andrew then administered the oath and filled in and signed the jurat.

Edward J. Burke, captain of detectives of the Asbury Park police department, testified that he was present when Chalverus began his statement which was taken by Rowland on the typewriter, but that he did not remain until it was completed.

Subsequently Schulman, Sherman and Ryne made statements which were reduced to writing by Rowland and signed by them. These statements, however, were not sworn to before Judge Andrew, as he left the police station before they were completed.

The testimony before this committee was that no force was used to secure these confessions; and that the men were interviewed in a room with three large windows facing on Mattison Avenue which were open at the time. Later, after these confessions had been given, officers from New York came to the police station in Asbury Park to question the men concerning a murder which had been committed in New York. There is no evidence before the committee as to what occurred at that time.

Following this, the men were given a public hearing before Judge Andrew and were each held in $15,000 bail to await the action of the grand jury. They were committed to jail in default of bail and the complaints and other papers were forwarded to the prosecutor.

The confession of Michael Chalverus stated in part that he had met Dave Schulman and George Sherman in Brooklyn about two weeks prior to the day of the arrest; that he had told them that he "had a good job in Asbury Park and a chance to make some real dough by sticking up the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel." They told Chalverus to get more details and send them word.

On the evening before the date of the arrest, he had met Schulman and Sherman in Asbury Park. They asked him why he had not sent them word and he told them "the joint was too hot." They then inquired if there was anything else in town and decided to go to Spring Lake and "pull a stiff," meaning that they were going to rob some place in Spring Lake to be selected by them at random. Chalverus further stated that he saw Schulman, Sherman and Ryne the next morning at 10:45 at their hotel and asked them whether they were going to Spring Lake. They said they would go there and "pull a stiff" anyway. The confession further stated that Chalverus was to receive a split of whatever they got in robbing the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel or any other place. He said in his confession that he had told Schulman and Sherman that Saturday night was the best night to rob the hotel as "there would be plenty of dough in the auditor's room and they could put some guns in the auditor's stomach and tie them up."

The statements made by Schulman and Sherman referred to the meeting with Chalverus in Brooklyn, and stated that they had procured the gun and had come to Asbury Park for the purpose of robbing the Berkeley-Carteret Hotel. Schulman stated that Sherman had secured the gun from a friend, but that he (Schulman) had carried it and had intended to use it in the robbery. He said that Chalverus had told him that "the payroll at the Berkeley-Carteret was too hot and couldn't be taken," and that they had then decided to rob any place in Spring Lake that looked good. Sherman's confession was to the same effect.

In explanation of Chalverus' statement to Sherman and Schulman that "the joint was too hot," it may be said that the Asbury Park police, after they had received a report that Chalverus was planning to rob a hotel, had searched his room during his absence. Following this search, Chalverus had gone to the police station and inquired why the search had been made. He was told that the police had a bad report on him, and that he had better "watch his step."

Ryne stated in his confession that he had gone with Sherman and Schulman to Asbury Park at their request; that they had told him that they would get a few dollars in Asbury Park, although their plans were not disclosed to him. He said, however, that after Sherman and Schulman had had a conversation with Chalverus, which he did not hear, they had decided to go to Spring Lake and rob any place that looked good; that they had then planned to steal an automobile and make their get-away.

Copies of these statements were found by the committee's investigator in the prosecutor's files. The signed originals were produced at the hearing before this committee.

The case was presented to the grand jury on July 26, 1934, by Prosecutor Tumen. Sergeant McAllister and Captain Burke appeared before the grand jury. Detectives Sullivan and Griggs were subpœnaed to attend as witnesses before the grand jury, but were not called, although they waited at the court house until the grand jury had finished their consideration of the case. The original confessions and the gun and cartridges were presented to the grand jury. The criminal records of the men were also produced and presented.

On this occasion, according to the records in the prosecutor's office and the testimony of the prosecutor, the grand jury voted an indictment against the four men for conspiracy. No suggestion was made to the grand jury that Schulman should be indicted for carrying a concealed weapon, although there was ample evidence of this offense entirely independent of the confessions. There is a question, however, as to whether this evidence was presented to the grand jury.

The next session of the grand jury was held on August 9th. Prior to this session the following letter was received by Prosecutor Tumen at his private law office in Asbury Park:

SIEGLER & SIEGLER
104 Pennsylvania Avenue
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"August 7th, 1934.

"Mr. Tuman,
Prosecutor, Freehold County,
Asbury Park, New Jersey.

Dear Sir:

I am interested in the case of State vs. Sherman, Schulman, Chavaralek and Ryan. I was retained by the parents of the first three defendants mentioned to represent them and I have been conducting negotiations in your State through the office of Joseph F. Mattice.

Will you please inform me whether the above named defendants have been indicted by the Grand Jury and if they have what the charge against them is. If they have not been indicted, kindly advise me as to whether or not they are still awaiting action by the Grand Jury.

Thanking you for any courtesy or consideration you may extend to me in this matter, I am,

Yours very truly,

(signed) LOUIS A. SIEGLER."

(LAS:RS
(Italics ours.)

It will be noted that Louis A. Siegler, the writer of this letter, stated therein that he represented three of the defendants and that he had "been conducting negotiations in the State through the office of Joseph F. Mattice." It may here be mentioned that Mattice had appeared in behalf of one or more of the defendants before Judge Andrew at the hearing in Asbury Park.

The prosecutor was questioned before this committee as to whether he knew the character of the negotiations conducted by Siegler through Mattice and he denied that he had any such knowledge. He was further questioned as to whether he had made inquiry about such negotiations and he admitted that he had not.

It is significant, however, that on August 9th, which was the date of the next session of the grand jury after the date on which the indictment had been found, the grand jury reconsidered the indictment and voted to rescind it. On the following day the men were released from custody.

In addition to Sergeant McAllister, Judge Andrew and the Asbury Park policemen who participated in this affair, Prosecutor Tumen, First Assistant Prosecutor McDermott and Chief Clerk Woodward testified before this committee concerning this matter. Woodward testified that after the indictment had been voted Mattice told him that the men had been beaten before the confessions were made, and gave him a list of the names of witnesses who as he said could support his charges. This list included the name of Mattice himself, who was actually called as a witness before the grand jury in behalf of his clients.

Woodward further testified that, prior to the 9th day of August, the prosecutor had told him that the grand jury would reconsider the indictment voted in this case and that he should summon all witnesses who had any knowledge concerning the alleged beating. He said that he summoned the persons whose names Mattice had given him and no one else.

Prosecutor Tumen denied that he knew why the grand jury reconsidered the indictment, and, in fact, denied that he knew that they proposed to reconsider it. He said that he believed that the grand jury called for the witnesses whom they desired to be examined. This is in sharp conflict with the testimony of Woodward that the prosecutor himself told Woodward that the indictment would be reconsidered and directed Woodward to summon the witnesses. Inasmuch as Woodward actually summoned the witnesses his story is the more probable of the two.

On the morning of August 9th the prosecutor called Woodward on the telephone and said that he could not appear before the grand jury that day and directed Woodward to ask Mr. McDermott to appear. Woodward gave McDermott the list of the witnesses whom he had summoned and the copies of the confessions which were in the file. McDermott testified that he had no knowledge of the case and did not know what evidence had been presented to the grand jury by the prosecutor on the day the indictment was voted. He secured no information concerning it prior to the presentation of the matter to the grand jury, although he glanced through the confessions while the matter was being heard. He said that he did not know how the matter came before the grand jury but stated that he assumed that some member of the grand jury moved the reconsideration of the case.

The sole subject of inquiry before the grand jury on the reconsideration of the indictment was the question as to whether the men had been beaten at or prior to the time that they confessed. Judge Andrew, who took the confession of Chalverus and who, as above stated, testified before this committee that Chalverus was warned that any statement which he made must be entirely voluntary and would be used against him, was not called before the grand jury either on July 26th when the indictment was voted or on August 9th when it was rescinded. Captain Giles, Detectives Sullivan and Griggs and Officer Rowland, were present when the confessions were made, but none of them were called at any time before the grand jury. It appears from Captain Burke's testimony that he was not subpœnaed to attend in this case on the day the indictment was reconsidered, but that he happened to be there on another case and was called as a witness.

McDermott testified that he did not know that the testimony of the police judge and the police officers who participated in the taking of the confessions had not been presented to the grand jury at the earlier hearing, although he conceded that the slightest examination of the minutes of that hearing would have disclosed that fact. He, however, failed to make the examination. He did not suggest to the grand jury that, without regard to the confessions, Schulman was indictable for carrying a concealed weapon. It does not appear that he knew that this was the fact although Tumen was informed or should have been informed of that fact.

As above stated although the grand jury had not heard the testimony of the officers who took the confessions, they voted to rescind the indictment because in their opinion the confessions had not been properly taken. On that evening or the next morning either McDermott or Woodward advised Tumen that the indictment had been rescinded and Tumen instructed Woodward to secure an order from the court for the discharge of the men from custody. They were discharged on the next morning without disclosing any of the facts to the court, except that the grand jury had not found an indictment.

McDermott admitted that if he had been prosecutor and had known the facts of the case and the manner in which the case was presented to the grand jury at the earlier hearing, he would not have permitted the defendants to be discharged without disclosing all of the facts to the court and opposing such discharge.

No effort has subsequently been made to indict these men and it is, of course, doubtful if they could now be apprehended if they were indicted.

This case involves a very gross miscarriage of justice which, in the opinion of this committee, is primarily attributable to the prosecutor. The prosecutor must have known when he received Siegler's letter of August 7th that the defendants' counsel was endeavoring to interfere with the orderly processes of justice. We can think of no lawful negotiations which might be conducted by the counsel of a person charged with crime whose case was pending before the grany jury. That such negotiations were conducted either with members of the grand jury or with the prosecutor's office or more probably with the prosecutor himself whose private law office was in the same building as the office of Mattice is apparent from the fact that the prosecutor knew prior to August 9th that the case would be reconsidered by the grand jury, although the grand jury had not been in session since July 26th, when the indictment was voted.

The action of the prosecutor's office in calling Mattice, the attorney of these defendants, before the grand jury as a witness, notwithstanding the fact that he was not present at the time the confessions were taken, cannot be too strongly condemned. It is significant that the only witnesses subpoenaed to attend before the grand jury at the time of the reconsideration of the indictment were the men whose names were given the prosecutor's chief clerk by the defendant's attorney. The fact that the witnesses who were present when the confessions were taken were not called and that the grand jury never heard their testimony is sufficient to utterly condemn the prosecutor for gross inefficiency or worse.

The proof, which was readily accessible to the prosecutor, and which was entirely independent of the confessions, that Schulman carried a loaded .38 calibre revolver concealed in a box while on the boardwalk in Asbury Park, was entirely ignored and no suggestion was made to the grand jury that Schulman should be indicted for this serious offense. The conduct of this case presents either a gross failure to perform a clear and easily understood duty or a corrupt connivance with the counsel of dangerous criminals to the end that such criminals might escape punishment.

The prosecutor was afforded ample opportunity to explain his conduct of this matter and his testimony relating thereto confirms our conclusion as to his guilt. We are convinced that the manner in which this case was handled is in itself a sufficient ground for impeachment of the prosecutor. The facts concerning the prosecutor's conduct of this case should be presented to a grand jury with the assistance of an able and fearless prosecutor.

GUN PERMITS TO GANGSTERS

This Committee ascertained that on December 29, 1932, Irving Wexler, a notorious gangster, otherwise known as Waxey Gordon, filled out an application for a permit to carry a revolver. This application was sworn to before David H. Davis, an attorney at law, who at that time was and who now is employed in the law office of Tumen and Tumen in Asbury Park, New Jersey. Jonas Tumen is a member of this firm. Davis also took the affidavits of the three men who vouched for Irving Wexler and delivered the application to Horace L. Byram, who was then Chief of Police of Asbury Park. Byram certified that he had investigated the statements contained in Wexler's application and that such investigation had satisfied him that the applicant might safely be permitted to carry a revolver concealed upon his person. Byram sent the application to the county clerk. It was the practice of Judge Truax to refuse to issue gun permits unless the prosecutor endorsed the application. The application for Waxey Gordon's permit bears the endorsement "O. K. H. B. Crook," which is in Crook's handwriting. Judge Truax issued the permit.

On December 29, 1932, Max Greenberg, also a gangster and bootlegger, filled in an application for a revolver permit. His affidavit and the affidavits of the persons who vouched for him were also taken before David H. Davis, who subsequently took the application to Chief Byram. Chief Byram made the same certificate on the Greenberg application as on the Waxey Gordon application and that too was forwarded to the county clerk and referred to the prosecutor for his O. K. The permit was issued presumably after the O. K. of the prosecutor's office had been secured.

A similar application was made by Max Hassell, also a notorious underworld character, on January 7th, 1932. Hassell's affidavit and the affidavits of the persons who certified to his good character were taken before Davis on January 7th, 1932, after which Davis took the application to Chief Byram, who made a certification thereon similar to the one made in the Wexler case. This application was forwarded to the county clerk's office and then taken to the prosecutor's office. It is endorsed "O. K. Jonas Tumen, prosecutor." This endorsement was in the handwriting of Mr. Woodward, chief clerk in the prosecutor's office, who was authorized by the prosecutor to make it. This permit was also issued.

Mr. Tumen, Dr. Davis, Mr. Crook and Chief Byram all testified that they did not know that any of the applicants were gangsters or underworld characters. Byram admitted, however, that he made no investigation of any one of the three, but that his certificate was based solely upon the application and the affidavits of the men who vouched for the applicants.

While there is no direct proof in this case that anyone connected with the prosecutor's office knew that the applicants were underworld characters, this committee is of the opinion that the failure to prosecute Lillien, a noted gangster, for carrying a gun without a permit, the like failure to prosecute Schulman for the same offense in its most aggravated form and the issuing of gun permits to Waxey Gordon and his associated gangsters upon mere formal applications without investigation all demonstrate absolute indifference to the public safety, gross inefficiency or serious corruption on the part of the prosecutor.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE FORCE EMPLOYED BY THE PROSECUTOR AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THEIR REPORTS

Immediately upon assuming the duties of his office as prosecutor of the pleas of Monmouth county, Mr. Tumen requested the resignations of John M. Smith, who had been chief county detective for nearly twenty years, and of four of the other five county detectives then employed in the prosecutor's office. These county detectives, being protected by the civil service law of this State, refused to resign. The only explanation given by Mr. Tumen when testifying before this committee was that he desired to have county detectives of his own selection.

Immediately upon his appointment he engaged Harry B. Crook as chief investigator. Mr. Crook was then placed in charge of the county detectives, who were instructed to act only upon his orders. This assertion is based upon the testimony of Mr. Sacco and Mr. Kent, two of the county detectives. Messrs. McDermott and Carton, the two assistant prosecutors, stated that it was their understanding that Crook was placed in charge of all the detectives when he first came into the office. Notwithstanding this testimony, Messrs. Tumen and Crook both denied that Crook was placed in charge of the county detectives until after Mr. Smith left the office. The evasive manner in which this denial was given would cast doubt upon it, even though it were not directly contradicted by the testimony to which reference has above been made.

Mr. Crook was subsequently appointed chief county detective on July 23, 1931, after civil service examination. Mr. Tumen, when asked why he selected Mr. Crook, stated that he had known him for about a year, although his contact with him had been very slight. While he claimed to have made various inquiries about him, the only persons from whom these inquiries were made, who were mentioned by Mr. Tumen, were Mayor Hetrick and Richard W. Stout. Mr. Crook appears to have had but slight qualifications for the post to which he was appointed. At the time of his appointment he was acting as house detective for Steinbach's store and for several hotels in Asbury Park. He was not a regularly licensed detective, although he and certain relatives of his had formed an association not for pecuniary profit for the purpose of investigating crimes.

He testified that his purpose in forming this association was profit and that through a "joker in the act" he was able to utilize this association for his purpose. He had conducted a fingerprint school in Newark and had also been engaged to supply guards for estates in Monmouth county, among which was the Mansion House, which was reputed at that time to be a gambling house. The prosecutor said that Crook claimed to have done some work for the Essex county prosecutor's office. He stated that he believed he made inquiry as to the character of the work, but could not name the person from whom such inquiry was made. He was quite positive that he had not inquired of Mr. Hargan, who was then chief of county detectives in Essex county.

Prior to the appointment of Mr. Tumen as prosecutor it had been the custom in Monmouth county to engage private detective agencies to make investigations for the prosecutor's office. The Northwestern Agency had been employed by Mr. Tumen's predecessor and the services of this agency continued for a time after Mr. Tumen's appointment.

On the tenth day of March, 1930, one Frank Campbell, who is a brother-in-law of Harry B. Crook, applied to the Comptroller of New Jersey for a license as a private detective, stating that he intended to operate under the name of National Bureau of Investigation. In his application, which was verified by his oath, he stated that he resided at 1016 Fourth avenue, Asbury Park, which was then the residence of Harry B. Crook, and Mr. Crook was a surety on the bond which Campbell gave at the time his license was secured.

Mr. Campbell at this time did not reside in Asbury Park, or, in fact, in the State of New Jersey, but was a resident of the State of New York. One Leo F. Meade, a former post office inspector who had been removed from the Federal service for failure to report a shortage in a postmaster's account, was engaged to conduct the National Bureau of Investigation, Campbell giving it no personal attention. This bureau was retained by the prosecutor to make investigations for his office during the entire period of his incumbency and received as consideration for this service the aggregate amount of $85,186.05.

Most of the bills submitted to the prosecutor's office by the National Bureau of Investigation state that detailed reports of the investigation made were supplied to the prosecutor. This committee endeavored to secure copies of these reports, but without success. Mr. Meade testified that he had kept copies of all reports submitted to the prosecutor, but that in December, 1932, after the Hobart Act had been repealed, he destroyed all copies of reports involving liquor violations, except reports which covered cases then pending.

He further testified that in July, 1933, he destroyed his copies of all other reports which had been made to the prosecutor up to that date, except reports in cases then pending. He said that he did this because he expected to leave the service of the National Bureau of Investigation at that time, and the bureau was moving into smaller offices. He subsequently determined, however, to remain with the bureau.

The reason which he gave for the destruction of the copies of these reports impresses the committee as most improbable.

When he first appeared as a witness before the committee he stated that he had in his possession copies of all reports made subsequent to July 1, 1933. When subpœnaed, however, to produce such copies and also to produce the books of account of the National Bureau of Investigation he applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari to set aside the subpœna. This attempt on his part having failed, he appeared before the committee and produced very meagre accounts for the years 1933 and 1934 and then stated to the committee that his books of account for prior years had been destroyed in July, 1933.

He produced no copies of reports prior to January, 1934, saying that copies of the previous reports had been destroyed, although this statement was in direct conflict with his previous testimony.

Mr. Woodward, the prosecutor's chief clerk, was subpœnaed to produce all reports sent to the prosecutor by the National Bureau of Investigation. He appeared in response to the subpœna without producing a single report. He stated that no such reports had been received by him, except where prosecutions based on such reports had been instituted, in which event the reports were in the files of the prosecutor's office. He, however, failed on this occasion to produce any of the reports which were said to be in such files.

Subsequently Mr. Tumen was examined as a witness, and he testified that all of the reports of the National Bureau of Investigation were sent to his private law office in Asbury Park; that they were examined by him alone, and that he determined whether or not prosecutions should be based on such reports. He further stated that all of the reports on which prosecutions had not been based had been destroyed by him and that the reports on which prosecutions had been instituted were in the files of the prosecutor's office. When questioned, however, concerning specific cases of record in his office in which employees of the National Bureau of Investigation had acted as complaining witnesses and in which no reports from the bureau appeared in the files of the prosecutor's office, he stated that perhaps he was in error in his previous testimony that the reports in all cases in which prosecutions had been instituted were in the prosecutor's files. He said that he did not know what reports were now in the prosecutor's office.

Several former employees of the National Bureau of Investigation were examined. They testified that they were instructed to visit only the places named on lists furnished to them by Mr. Meade. Mr. Audley, one of such employees, mentioned two occasions where he secured evidence of violations of the intoxicating liquor law in places not included on the list furnished by Mr. Meade and was severely reprimanded for so doing. He stated that he was not permitted to report these violations to the prosecutor.

Both Mr. Audley and Mr. Brower, another employee of the same agency, testified that although they secured evidence of numerous violations of the liquor law, they were never called before the grand jury in Monmouth county, although in other counties where similar evidence was secured by them they invariably appeared as witnesses before the grand jury.

It is, we believe, significant that the reports furnished by this agency to the prosecutor and the copies of such reports retained by the agency covering the years 1930-1933, inclusive, should have been destroyed. As will be hereafter shown, the years 1930-1932 cover the period when Philip L. Phillips was active in the collecting of graft from speakeasy proprietors and other law breakers.

PROTECTION MONEY PAID DURING TUMEN'S ADMINISTRATION BY PERSONS ENGAGED IN ILLEGAL MANUFACTURE OR SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR

Shortly after Mr. Tumen's appointment as prosecutor of the pleas, one Philip L. Phillips, who conducted a small men's furnishing store in Asbury Park, commenced his operations as a collector of protection money from persons engaged in the illegal manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor. The method followed by him was either to send for or to make a personal call upon individuals engaged in this business and to tell them that if they desired to continue in such business they must make a payment to him. The amounts demanded varied from a few hundred dollars to fifteen hundred dollars a year. At least in one instance he stated that he represented the prosecutor's office. In other instances he demanded what he designated as "campaign contributions" without, however, stating for which party he was soliciting funds. His victims almost without exception testified that they were paying him for protection of their illegal business. In some instances his demands were not met until after his victims had been raided by the prosecutor's office. In such cases prosecutions did not follow the raids if his demands were complied with, except in one or two instances which will be hereinafter mentioned.

CASES WHERE RAIDS WERE MADE

In August, 1930, Mr. Raymond Thorne, who had a farm near Freehold, on which he conducted a cider mill and on which he also had some distilling equipment, was raided by Harry B. Crook and his staff of detectives. The distilling equipment and a considerable quantity of apple whiskey were seized at this place. Mr. Thorne was held in bail for the action of the grand jury. Two weeks after the raid, as testified by Mr. Thorne, Leo F. Meade of the National Bureau of Investigation, called him on the telephone and asked him to appear at Meade's office. Thorne went to the office of the National Bureau of Investigation and Meade asked him if he had an attorney, to which Thorne replied in the negative. Meade then advised him to consult Louis Tumen, a brother of the prosecutor.

Thorne did not consult Louis Tumen, but was subsequently advised by Harry Forman, whom he understood to be engaged in the liquor business, to go to see Philip L. Phillips about his case. Thorne went to Asbury Park, saw Phillips and tried to make an arrangement with him whereby, in consideration of the payment of a sum of money, he would not be prosecuted. Phillips was apparently reluctant to do business with Thorne, but asked him to return within a week. Upon Thorne's second visit to Phillips he paid Phillips $500 for the purpose of keeping his case from going to court. Patrick Collins, who was a half owner of the distilling equipment seized on Thorne's farm and who also appeared as a witness before the committee, testified that he contributed one-half of this sum. The records of the prosecutor's office show that the grand jury failed to indict Mr. Thorne, notwithstanding the fact that the evidence as disclosed by such records appeared to be convincing. The committee has been unable to examine the minutes of the grand jury for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the case was presented to it.

Thorne further testified that on the occasion of his second visit to Phillips he asked Phillips how much he (Thorne) would be required to pay to continue in the business of distilling and selling apple whiskey. Phillips stated that he would be obliged to consult his associates. He later tried to make an arrangement with Thorne under which Thorne would make a payment based upon the number of gallons of apple whiskey produced by him. This arrangement was not satisfactory to Thorne and ultimately an arrangement was made under which Thorne agreed to pay Phillips $1500 a year.

Thorne testified that he paid Phillips $1500 in 1930 and $1300 in 1931, these payments being made in installments of $100 or $200 and taken by him to Asbury Park. He said that in consideration of these payments Phillips agreed that Thorne would not be molested by the county and would be notified if any Federal prohibition agents were working in his vicinity. After Thorne made his initial payment of $500, he was advised by Phillips that if he would go to Abrams' junk yard he could secure the return of his distilling equipment upon paying an amount of money to Abrams. This, however, Thorne did not do. Thorne continued in the distilling business for approximately two years and was not disturbed by the county.

Meade denied that he had suggested to Thorne that he consult Louis Tumen, but admitted that Thorne had had an interview with him (Meade) in his office at Red Bank. Phillips admitted talking to Thorne about the raid, but denied that he asked for or that Thorne paid him any money.

The prosecutor, when questioned as to why he did not send his detectives to inspect Thorne's place after the grand jury had failed to indict, stated that perhaps he did, but that he could not tell whether or not he had done so and that he had no records in his office or elsewhere from which this information could be secured.

Andrew Dougherty of Fairhaven testified that prior to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment he was engaged in the lunchroom business on Shrewsbury Avenue in Red Bank and that he commenced such business in 1930.

In April, 1931, Mr. Dougherty's place of business was raided by county detectives and he was arrested. The raiding party found several bottles of whiskey which were confiscated. Dougherty gave bail to await the action of the grand jury.

During the latter part of April, 1931, or early in May, Phillips called at Dougherty's place of business and stated that he desired a contribution of $350. He told Dougherty that people who were in the liquor business were making such contributions. On the following day Dougherty went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and paid him $350 in cash.

Dougherty testified that he never heard anything further from the raid and to the best of his knowledge no indictment was ever found against him. He continued in business until about the end of 1932 and was never again disturbed by the county authorities or by anyone else. In the year 1932, however, Phillips called upon him again and asked for a further payment of $350, which, Dougherty paid to Phillips out of the proceeds of a bonus check which he had received from the government. He stated that he made these payments to Phillips because he realized that he was in an illegal business and that he wanted protection for that business and hoped that by paying Phillips he would secure that protection.

Tory Kawamoto (known as Tory) of Monmouth Road, West Long Branch, testified that he had operated a restaurant in that town for about six years and that during the period of prohibition he had sold intoxicating liquor at that place. In April, 1930, his place was raided by the county detectives and the intoxicating liquor found in his place was confiscated. He gave bail before Edward G. Forman, Supreme Court Commissioner, to answer to any indictment that might be found against him. The records in the prosecutor's office show that on April 12, 1930, a search warrant, issued against Tory's place, was returned showing the seizure of champagne, gin, rye and bacardi.

In May, 1930, one Al Elliott, who is now deceased, called at Tory's place of business and suggested that Tory contribute to the "campaign fund." Tory told him that he did not have the money at that time but would give it to Elliott later in the fall and in the autumn of 1930 he gave Elliott $500 in cash. The records of the prosecutor's office show that Tory was not indicted, although they indicate that his case was presented to the grand jury. The committee has no means of determing in what manner this presentation was made.

Tory continued to sell liquor at his restaurant and in 1931 Elliott collected $350 from him.

In the autumn of 1932, Elliott having died, Tory went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and paid Phillips $350. Tory was never troubled by the county after the 1930 raid.

Tory testified that he knew that if the county authorities raided him any more, he could not continue his business and that the payments were made by him to avoid this trouble.

Mr. Tumen when asked about this case stated that the evidence was presented to the grand jury, although he could not say who presented it. He said that he had never had a complaint against Tory. He insisted that he had given general instructions to have all places which had once been raided subsequently investigated, although he could mention no specific instructions given with regard to Tory's place. He stated that notwithstanding the fact that Tory knew that he was the prosecutor of the pleas, he himself had attempted to personally secure evidence of illegal sale of liquor there.

The fact is that after making payments to Phillips, Tory continued his illegal business without further molestation on the part of the county.

Ray Sanborn of Shrewsbury testified that during the period of prohibition he operated a speakeasy on Shrewsbury Avenue, Shrewsbury, adjoining the Red Bank airport. He testified that he opened his speakeasy in the summer of 1932 and ran it during 1932 and 1933; that just before Christmas in 1932 he was arrested by the State police, who had come to his speakeasy in the course of a search for a defaulting contractor. They found a large quantity of intoxicating liquor and three slot machines on his premises, and seized both the liquor and the machines. He gave bail before Supreme Court Commissioner Forman, but he was never indicted.

We think that he must have been in error as to the date of the raid for the records in the prosecutor's office show that Arthur Wise, a trooper of the State police, participated in a raid on Sanborn's place on December 19, 1931, at which a considerable quantity of gin, scotch whiskey, port wine, rye whiskey and applejack were seized; that one quarter slot machine, one dime slot machine, and one nickel slot machine were also taken in the raid.

Sanborn testified that shortly after he had opened his place, Phillips called upon him and told him that he must pay Phillips or go out of business. Sanborn paid him $250 that year in installments of $25 or $50 each. These payments were made at Phillips' clothing store in Asbury Park on some occasions and on other occasions they were made to Phillips at Sanborn's place of business. At the time of the raid, he had paid at least $200 to Phillips.

He said that immediately upon his return from Freehold, after giving bail, he returned to his speakeasy and opened it and resumed business. He was not indicted. This is shown not only by Sanborn's testimony but also by the record in the prosecutor's office. The following year he paid Phillips $200 in installments. No other raid was made upon him by the prosecutor's office.

Mr. Tumen, when questioned about this matter, stated that he got no further evidence against Sanborn, although he could give no specific information as to subsequent investigations. He was asked what witnesses were called before the grand jury in the Sanborn case, but was unable to answer the question. He was then asked if he would join the committee in an application to permit them to inspect the minutes of the grand jury, but stated that he would regard it as his duty to oppose such an application.

George McDonald of 215 Main street, Keansburg, testified that he was in the hotel business and had operated a hotel at the above address since 1928. During the period of prohibition he sold intoxicating liquor at this hotel. In 1931 he was raided by Chief Crook and other county detectives and intoxicating liquor and beer were seized. A short time after the raid, Phillips made his first visit to McDonald's place and introduced himself. McDonald was reluctant to testify as to what Phillips said to him on this occasion. He said, however, that Phillips let him know that he (Phillips) knew that McDonald had been raided and led McDonald to understand that if no payment were made to Phillips, it would go hard with him, but that if such payment were made, Phillips could help him. McDonald had heard that Phillips was collecting. Phillips asked McDonald for $500 which McDonald testified he paid to Phillips in installments of $250 each on two occasions when Phillips called at his hotel. No prosecution against McDonald followed the above mentioned raid.

In 1932 Phillips called upon McDonald against and asked for $500. McDonald paid Phillips $200 during that year in three installments. He stated that when he paid this money he had the idea that if he paid he would not be troubled by the county authorities. He was not raided again.

Mr. Tumen testified that he knew McDonald and believed him to be a truthful man. In this case, as in the others, Tumen was unable to testify specifically concerning any further efforts to ascertain whether McDonald continued to sell intoxicating liquor in violation of the law.

Frank Horan of Highlands testified that in 1930 he was selling whiskey. He did not have a speakeasy but delivered whiskey to his customers. In the spring of 1930 Mr. John Ahearn introduced Horan to Phillips at Horan's house. Phillips asked Horan for $500 and told him that Ahearn had contributed that amount. Horan did not pay Phillips anything at that time but shortly thereafter, in response to a telephone call from Phillips, he went to his store in Asbury Park and paid him $250.

Horan testified that Phillips was not satisfied with this amount and shortly thereafter Horan was raided by Chief Crook and other county detectives. After the raid Horan went to see Phillips again and paid him an additional $250. Some time after this payment was made Phillips called Horan on the telephone and told him that he had been indicted. Horan knew nothing of his indictment until he heard of it from Phillips. Subsequently Horan was fined by the court at Freehold.

In 1931 Horan was again asked for a $500 payment by Phillips and this time he paid the money to him in several installments. He was not raided in 1931. Horan testified that his trouble with the county commenced when he stopped paying Phillips. The rail was said to have occurred about six months after the first payment had been made to Phillips during which period Horan had not contributed the additional $250 which Phillips had demanded. In fact, Phillips had called upon Horan and asked for the balance of the payment and Horan had stated that he could not and would not make any further payment. Horan testified that in 1931 he paid $500 because he thought if he did that he would not be raided and indicted as he had been during the previous year, and in fact, the payment having been made, no such raid occurred.

Steve Canonico, who lives in Red Bank, testified that he had been in the restaurant business during the period of prohibition at 191 Shrewsbury avenue, Red Bank and that he had sold intoxicating liquor in his restaurant. He testified that he had been raided by Chief Crook and Detective Mustoe and that liquor and beer had been found in his restaurant. He gave bail and subsequently pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. He was placed on parole for three years, during which time he paid off his fine at the rate of $2 a week.

About three months after the raid he was advised by Andrew Dougherty, of whom mention has above been made, to go to see Phillips to get protection for his liquor business. He went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and told him that he was selling liquor, whereupon Phillips told him if he wanted protection it was necessary to make a payment of $200. Canonico paid Phillips $100 at that time and an additional $100 two weeks later, both payments being made at Phillips' store. He testified that his plea of guilty was entered after he had called on Phillips. During the time he was on parole he continued to sell liquor.

In 1932 Canonico paid $200 to Phillips in two installments. He was not raided during that year.

The experience of Jacob Sibilio is in striking contrast with the cases of which mention has above been made. He testified that from 1926 to 1932 he conducted a speakeasy at various locations in Asbury Park. In June, 1932, Phillips called at his speakeasy and said that he wanted to see Sibilio, and the latter went to Phillips' store to have a talk with him. On this occasion Phillips told Sibilio that it would cost him money to continue in his business, and that he must pay $500. Sibilio said that he did not have that amount of money. Phillips gave him three weeks' time in which to raise it, at the expiration of which time Sibilio requested and received a further extension of one more week.

At the end of the fourth week Phillips called at Sibilio's speakeasy and told the latter to come to Phillips' store. Sibilio complied with this request, and Phillips again asked for money. Sibilio stated that he could not pay because he did not have the money. A few days later Sibilio was raided by Byram, who was then Chief of Police of Asbury Park. He was taken before Louis Tumen, a brother of the prosecutor, who was then judge of the Asbury Park police court, and fined $100. He continued in business, and the following week was raided again. Nothing was found in his store at this time, and he was not fined. Later in the same week he was raided a third time, and again nothing was found. The following week he was raided for the fourth time. He then decided to close his business, and from that time on he did not conduct a speakeasy.

CASES IN WHICH COLLECTIONS WERE MADE AND NO RAIDS OCCURRED

The committee examined a number of former speakeasy proprietors concerning the story that Philip L. Phillips had collected protection money from them during prohibition. Considerable testimony was adduced on this point and such testimony conclusively demonstrates that collections were made on a large scale from speakeasy proprietors and others engaged in the illegal sale of liquor. Practically all the witnesses were reluctant to tell their stories, since they all seemed to fear some sort of reprisal from the county authorities who are still in office, but notwithstanding this, a great deal of evidence was collected.

The committee feels that it but scratched the surface in this line of investigation. It would, however, take an incalculable amount of time to examine all of the very numerous speakeasy proprietors who operated in Monmouth county during prohibition, and the committee is satisfied that it has sufficient evidence in this line to show that it was a common practice for speakeasy proprietors throughout the county to pay protection money.

Joseph Popok, of Asbury Park, was engaged in the bottling business during prohibition and sold large quantities of beer. In 1930 he received a telephone call from Philip L. Phillips, who told him that somebody wanted to see him at the Kingsley Arms, in Asbury Park. Popok and Phillips went to the Kingsley Arms and went to a room on the third floor, which Phillips indicated. Popok entered the room and found David Tumen, a brother of the prosecutor, Jonas Tumen, in the room. Tumen asked Popok for payment of $1 on each half-barrel of beer which the latter sold. Popok refused to agree to this price, and subsequently Phillips called Popok on the 'phone and asked for money. Popok agreed to pay Phillips $1,000, which amount he paid in four payments of $250 each. These payments were made at Phillips' store in Asbury Park.

In 1931 Phillips called Popok on the telephone and told him that he still owed money from the year before, specifying the amount as being $1,000. Popok did not pay that amount, but in 1931 he paid Phillips $750 at his store in Asbury Park.

Popok testified that his business had fallen off in 1931 and that he was told it was because he wasn't "in right" and that he had better fix things up. He said that he thought that the reason his customers were leaving him was because a competitor of his named Michaelson was paying $1.00 per half-barrel for beer, and because of that Michaelson stood in better with the authorities. The county detectives did not raid Popok's business and he was never prosecuted.

Emil Hofmann, who operated a hotel at Colts Neck, paid Philip L. Phillips $200 in 1931, of which amount $100 was paid at his hotel and the other $100 at Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Hofmann offered Phillips a check for $200, but Phillips refused the check and insisted on cash. Mr. Hofman was not raided by the prosecutor's staff during the Tumen administration.

Daniel Mack, of Atlantic Township, Monmouth county, whose name had appeared on a list submitted by Phillips to Norman Mount (an operator of slot machines, hereinafter mentioned) as a list of men who were likely to be raided, was introduced to Phillips by Mount, and made an arrangement with Phillips that he would pay $400 per year while he operated a still. Mack paid Phillips $400 in cash in 1930, after offering Phillips a check, which the latter refused. The payment was made to Phillips in his car on the street in Red Bank. Mr. Mack was not raided by the county authorities during the Tumen administration.

Wilbur Gardner, of Eatontown, conducted a place at Port-au-Peck, in which he sold liquor. In 1930 and 1931 Gardner paid various amounts of money to Phillips, to whom he had been introduced by Mr. Ford, a slot machine operator. In 1930 the total amount paid by Gardner was about $350. In 1931 he made one payment of $200 and several payments of $50 each. Mr. Gardner was not raided by the prosecutor's staff during the Tumen administration.

Arthur Lawrence, of Asbury Park, who formerly conducted a small inn at Oakhurst in Monmouth county where he sold intoxicating liquor, agreed to pay Phillips $300. He paid Phillips either $100 or $150 at the time the agreement was made, but gave up his business very shortly after that and made no further payment. Mr. Lawrence was not raided by the county authorities during the Tumen administration.

William F. Conway, who with his partner William Cashen conducts an inn about a mile outside of Freehold in Monmouth county, sold liquor during the period of prohibition. Phillips called at the inn in 1930 and asked Conway for $300 and Conway paid that amount at that time. In 1931 Phillips called again at the hotel and again Conway paid him $300. In 1932 Phillips called again and Conway paid him $100 at the time and subsequently took an additional $100 to Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Mr. Conway was not raided by the county authorities during the Tumen administration.

James Perry of Long Branch, who has operated the Hill Top Club in Oceanport from 1932 to date, went to see Phillips at his store in Asbury Park in response to a card which had been left at his place telling him to go to Phillips' store and although he could not pay Phillips on the day of his first visit he subsequently, in August, 1932, paid $100 to Phillips. He agreed to pay Phillips an additional $100 but never did so. Prior to 1932 Perry had not been engaged in any illegal business and he made no payments to Phillips prior to that time. James Perry was not interfered with by the prosecutor during the Tumen administration.

Rene Brown, of Highlands, sold intoxicating liquor during prohibition which he delivered to his customers. He did not have an established place of business. In 1930 Phillips called him on the telephone, arranged for an appointment with him, and when they met Phillips asked him how much he could pay. Brown offered to pay $100 and at that time paid $50 in cash. Later in the summer Brown paid an additional $50 to Phillips at his store in Asbury Park. In 1931 Brown again paid $100 in two installments to Phillips. He was not molested by the prosecutor's staff.

James Cartwright, of Freehold Township, testified that he had operated an inn just outside of Freehold since the spring of 1932. Prior to that time he did some bootlegging; in which business he was engaged for eight or ten years. In 1932 Philip L. Phillips called him on the telephone and asked him to come to Asbury Park to contribute some money. Cartwright did not go and Phillips made two more telephone calls. Finally Cartwright went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and paid Phillips $200. This money was placed in an envelope on which was written Cartwright's name and the envelope was placed, at the direction of the clerk in Phillips' store, on the desk in the back room of the store. At the time Cartwright made the payment, he was selling liquor at his inn.

Joseph Crine, who operates a hotel business in Sea Girt, was a partner of James P. Cartwright in 1932 in the Cartwright Inn, and he testified that Mr. Cartwright made a payment of $200 to someone in Asbury Park; that he had found the slip for $200 in the box in which petty cash was kept, which indicated that $200 had been withdrawn therefrom. Written on the slip were the words "$200 paid to campaign fund in Asbury Park." Crine testified that Cartwright had considered the payment necessary; that although he was upset about it, he had accepted Mr. Cartwright's judgment concerning the necessity of making the payment. Mr. Cartwright was never raided.

Charles Reppard, of Red Bank, was in the restaurant business on Wharf Avenue, in Red Bank, from 1931 until March, 1934. Prior to opening his restaurant, he went to see Philip L. Phillips in Asbury Park, at the suggestion of some of his friends, to purchase protection for the business in which he was about to engage, which was to include selling intoxicating liquor. The appointment was made by telephone and when Reppard called at Phillips' store, he told Phillips that he desired to sell whiskey. Phillips told him that protection would cost him $150 and Reppard paid that amount in cash. In 1932, Phillips called at Reppard's restaurant in September, and Reppard paid him another $150. Mr. Reppard was never raided.

Frank Markstein, of East Keansburg, testified that he had been in the restaurant business eleven years and that he had sold intoxicating liquor at his restaurant during Prohibition. In July, 1931, Philip L. Phillips called at his place of business and asked Markstein if he expected to donate to the campaign. Markstein asked if the rest of the boys were doing it and Phillips replied in the affirmative. Phillips asked Markstein for $250. Markstein understood that all the men engaged in the liquor business were making these payments and about a week after Phillips' visit, he paid Phillips $250 in cash when Phillips called at his restaurant.

In July, 1932, Phillips asked for $300 and Markstein paid this amount in three payments of $100 each. Markstein was never raided by the county authorities after he had made his payments to Phillips. He testified that he would not have paid this money had he not been engaged in the liquor business.

Charles Melvin Johnson, 152 Bay Avenue, Highlands, testified that he had been engaged in the hotel business for eight or ten years at the Highlands and that during the period of Prohibition, he sold intoxicating liquor in his hotel. Shortly after Jonas Tumen became prosecutor of Monmouth county, Philip L. Phillips called on Johnson at his hotel and asked Johnson for $500. Johnson paid him $250 on the first day on which he called. Johnson was prepared to pay this amount because of the stories which he had heard that Phillips was authorized to make these collections.

Johnson further testified that he paid the money because he thought that if he did, he would not be bothered by the county authorities and that that was the only reason which prompted him to make such a payment. In 1931 Johnson paid Phillips $500 in installments of $50 and these payments were made on an average of once a week in Phillips' store in Asbury Park.

In 1932 Johnson paid Phillips $450 in installments of $50. During the period in which Johnson made these payments to Phillips, he was not raided by the county authorities.

Robert Brower, of Red Bank, testified that he had conducted a restaurant at Red Bank for thirteen or fourteen years and that during the period of Prohibition, he sold liquor at this restaurant. In 1930 Philip L. Phillips was introduced to him at his place of business by someone whose name he did not know and Phillips told him that he knew what kind of a business Brower was in and that he would have to come down to Asbury Park and fix things up if he wanted to continue. He told Brower it would cost $300 to fix things up and Brower agreed to pay that amount. A week or so later, Brower went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and paid him $300, the payment being made in the back room of the store.

In 1931, Phillips stopped at Brower's place again and told Brower to come down and see him again. Brower did so and again paid Phillips $300 in cash.

In 1932, Phillips called again and asked for the same amount, but when Brower went to see him, he paid him only $150. Phillips was not satisfied with this amount and told Brower to come back in two weeks and give him another $150. Brower said that he could not do so because he did not have the money. During the Tumen administration, Brower was never raided by the county authorities.

August Kleinschmidt testified that he had operated a hotel in Red Bank during the period of Prohibition at which he had sold liquor. In the early part of the summer of 1930, Phillips called at Kleinschmidt's hotel and intro- duced himself as connected with the Prosecutor's office and asked Kleinschmidt for a contribution. Phillips told Kleinschmidt, "You are on the list for $500." Kleinschmidt said that he was unable to pay and Phillips told him that he would be sorry if he did not. Kleinschmidt finally paid him $200 sometime during the following week and $50 some time during the fall of that year.

The second payment was made at Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Phillips gave Kleinschmidt to understand that he could continue in business if he made these payments, but that if he did not, he would be sorry. In 1931, in the early part of the summer, Phillips called on Kleinschmidt again and asked for $300, but Kleinschmidt paid only $150, making the payments in two installments. Phillips called for one payment but the second was made at his store in Asbury Park.

In 1932 Phillips again demanded $300, but Kleinschmidt paid only $50 and told Phillips that he was going out of business because he was broke. No further payment was made by Kleinschmidt. During the Tumen administration, Kleinschmidt was not raided by the county authorities.

James Kelleher, of Red Bank, testified that he conducted a wholesale beverage establishment at 210 East Front Street, Red Bank, which place he opened in 1929. During the period of prohibition, he sold illegal liquors at this place. In the summer of 1930 Philip L. Phillips called at his place and asked for a campaign donation of $300. Kelleher did not pay the money at this time, but about one week later, when Phillips called at his store again, he paid him $300 in cash. In 1931 Kelleher again paid $300 to Phillips.

The following year Phillips called again, and asked for $250, which amount Kelleher paid in two installments, the second payment of which was made at Phillips' store in Asbury Park. During the Tumen administration, Kelleher was not raided by the county authorities. Kelleher testified that he made these payments so that he would not be raided.

Charles Van Kelst, of Rumson, testified that he had been engaged in the liquor business since 1928. In August, 1930, someone called at Van Kelst's place of business and told him that he should make a contribution which should be delivered at Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Van Kelst placed $300 in an envelope and went to Phillips' store and handed the envelope to a clerk in the store. Van Kelst's name was written on the back of the envelope. The man who called had told him that his assessment was $300.

In 1931, someone came to Van Kelst's place again and told him that he should contribute, and again Van Kelst took the sum of $300 to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and left it in an envelope with his name on it. During 1931 Van Kelst also paid $1 for every half-barrel of beer which he sold in Monmouth County. This money was paid to a man whose name, according to Van Kelst, was "Benny." The payments for the beer amounted to about $35 or $40 per week during the summer of 1931. Van Kelst understood that the money which he was handing over to Benny for beer was being delivered to Phillips by Benny.

Harry Hubbard, who was a partner of Van Kelst in the operation of this business from 1929 to 1932, inclusive, testified that Van Kelst had told him that $300 was paid to Phillips in 1930 and 1931 and that these amounts were entered on the books of the partnership. He also testified that in 1931, the partnership paid a dollar for each half-barrel of beer which they sold and that these sums amounted to around $30 or $40 per week.

In 1932 Hubbard dealt with the collector, because Van Kelst had had an argument concerning the payments for the beer, it having been Van Kelst's contention that this money should not be paid for beer which was sold in their own place of business, since they were already paying protection money for that place. The argument had become so intense that it was necessary for someone other than Van Kelst to deal with Phillips, because Phillips told Hubbard that he would not have Van Kelst in his office. Phillips called Hubbard and told him that he wanted to see him, and when Hubbard went to Phillips' store he paid Phillips $300 for the season of 1932. Nothing was paid by the partnership for the beer during that year. Neither Van Kelst nor Hubbard was raided during the Tumen administration.

Robert Jones, of Reevy town, testified that he ran a roadhouse at that place for a number of years, at which he sold intoxicating liquor. In the spring of 1930, Al Elliott and Phillips called at Jones' place of business and Elliott told Jones that Phillips was "the man." Jones understood by this that Phillips was the man to do business with if he wanted to sell liquor. Elliott had told Jones about Phillips before he brought Phillips to Jones' place. Phillips asked Jones for $200 and wanted to know when he could pay it. Jones promised to see him during the summer.

At the height of the season, Phillips came in with a man known to Jones as "Larry" and asked Jones for his contribution. Jones wrote out a check for $200, which he gave to Phillips and Phillips in turn handed it to Larry, who said that he would cash it. The check was drawn to "Cash." In 1931 Larry called on Jones and although he demanded $200, Jones paid him only $100 which likewise was paid by a check drawn to "Cash." The following year, Larry called on Jones a number of times. Jones said that he had not the money to make any payment but after a great number of visits, he finally paid Larry $25 in cash. Jones testified that he was unable to find the voucher checks covering these payments. Jones was not raided by the county authorities at any time during the Tumen administration.

Dennis Murray, of 15 East Westside Avenue, Red Bank, testified that he ran a speakeasy in Red Bank, which he opened on July 3, 1931. About a month after he started his business, Phillips came in and said that he would like to talk to him and the two men went upstairs. Phillips introduced himself and said, "You know it costs money to run a speakeasy." After some further conversation, Murray asked what it was going to cost him and Phillips replied that it would cost $250. Murray did not have the money but promised that he would pay it to Phillips if he could make it. After six months had passed, Phillips telephoned Murray and wanted to know if he had any money and asked him to bring it down. Murray took $25 to Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Phillips said that he wanted more than that and Murray promised to do the best he could to get more. Phillips called on Murray later and telephoned, but Murray insisted that he did not have the money and nothing further was paid. Murray was never raided by the county authorities but he was raided by the Federal agents some time after he had made this payment to Phillips and after such raid he discontinued his business.

Otto Strohmenger, of Rumson, conducted a store in that town during prohibition, at which he sold liquor. In the summer of 1931, Phillips called at his place of business and told him to go to Asbury Park to Phillips' store. The following Tuesday Strohmenger went there and saw Phillips, who told him that if he wanted to continue in business he would have to pay. Phillips set the price at $300, but reduced it at Strohmenger's request to $150. $75 was paid at that time and $75 was later paid by Strohmenger.

In 1932 Phillips called Strohmenger again and asked him if he were coming down and Strohmenger told him that he was not. Strohmenger was not raided during Tumen's administration by the county authorities.

Joseph Tomlinson, of Eatontown, testified that in 1931 he conducted a boarding house in Shrewsbury, at which he sold liquor. In that year Phillips came to his boarding house and asked for a contribution from Mr. Tomlinson. Tomlinson paid him $100 at that time. Mr. Tomlinson was not raided by the county authorities.

Robert Kemmer, 1013 Main street, Asbury Park, testified that he ran a speakeasy in Asbury Park for about four years and during 1930, 1931 and 1932 he paid $100 each year to a man named Siciliano, a bootlegger from whom he purchased his liquor. These payments, he understood, were for "campaign contributions" and he paid the money in the hope that he would not be raided by the authorities, and in fact, he was not raided.

James Milanos, of Middletown, testified that he had operated a roadstand in that place for about seven or eight years, at which he sold liquor and beer. During prohibition and while Tumen was prosecutor, Philip L. Phillips called at his place and talked to Milanos' brother, who was in partnership with him, and after Phillips left, Milanos was told by his brother that Phillips had been paid $150. Milanos also found this amount missing from the cash drawer. The books of the partnership stated that the amount of $150 had been paid to Phillips "for protection." Milanos was not raided by the county authorities during the Tumen administration.

John R. Ahearn, of Highlands, testified that he had operated a hotel at Highlands since 1916 and that during prohibition he sold liquor at this hotel. He testified that Philip L. Phillips called at his hotel several times and bought drinks there, and finally Phillips told him that he was collecting money for the "campaign fund." This was in May or June of 1930. Phillips asked Ahearn for $500 and Ahearn paid this amount. He testified that he would not have paid this money if he had not thought that such payment would prevent any trouble from the county authorities. Subsequently, at Phillips' request, Ahearn introduced him to Frank Horan, Charles M. Johnson, Walter P. Keener and Edward Weinheimer, all of whom were in the liquor business, and to other people, whose names Ahearn could not recall. These introductions of Phillips to speakeasy proprietors and bootleggers took place in June or July, 1930.

In 1931 Phillips again called on Ahearn, who paid him either $200 or $250. Ahearn testified that he had paid these campaign funds so that he could continue in business without molestation. Mr. Ahearn was not raided by the county at any time during the Tumen administration.

Frank Spagnuolo, of 241 Lafayette street, Newark, who is steward of the John F. Monahan Association, a private club located at Monmouth Beach, testified that in 1930 Phillips called at the club and asked him for $500, because of the bar which the club conducted. He stated that this amount was paid to Phillips.

In 1931 Phillips demanded $1,000, which Spagnuolo paid to him in four weekly installments of $250 each. These payments were made during the month of July.

In 1932 Phillips called Spagnuolo on the 'phone and told him that he must pay $1,000 during that summer. Spagnuolo began making weekly payments of $50 or $75, which payments were made to Phillips in the back room of his store at Asbury Park and were continued until Phillips had received a total of $700 during 1932. On the day after Labor Day in that year Phillips called Spagnuolo on the telephone and inquired if he was going to make any further payments. Spagnuolo replied that the club was closed for the season and no further payments would be made. The Monahan Association continued to sell intoxicating liquor to its members and guests and was never raided.

Walter P. Keener, of Highlands, New Jersey, testified that during prohibition he had been engaged in the wholesale liquor business on an extensive scale. In July, 1930, John Ahearn introduced Phillips to Mr. Keener and Phillips asked Keener for $500. Keener told Phillips that he had contributed $100 to David Tumen for campaign expenses prior to the preceding election and claimed that Phillips should deduct this amount from the $500 which he sought. Phillips agreed to such a reduction and Keener paid Phillips $400 in cash.

At the time Phillips was introduced to Keener, Ahearn stated that Phillips was the new collector.

In 1931 Keener paid Phillips $500 in cash when Phillips called on him at his place in Highlands.

In 1932 Keener went to Phillips' store in Asbury Park and paid Phillips $300 in cash. At the time this payment was made Keener saw various other liquor dealers and speakeasy proprietors in Phillips' store.

Keener testified that he assumed that the money which was paid to Phillips was paid for the purposes of protection and that although he was raided on several occasions by the Federal authorities, he was never raided by the county authorities during the Tumen administration.

George Grause, 38 Irving place, Red Bank, was unable to attend the hearing of the committee to which he was subpœnaed because of illness. A representative of the committee called upon him and Grause executed an affidavit which set forth that during prohibition he had been engaged in the liquor business in Red Bank; that in 1931 he was told by a man whose name he did not remember that it was necessary for him to pay $500 to the county officials to continue in business. He paid this sum of $500 to a man whose name he did not know but he had been informed that this man was the collector. At the time such payment was made he was told that he could continue in business without fear of interference from the county authorities.

In the spring of 1932 Phillips called Grause and notified him to come to Phillips' store in Asbury Park. Grause went to Phillips' store and Phillips demanded $500 from him. Grause attempted to obtain a reduction in the amount and offered to pay $300 but Phillips refused to make such reduction. Thereupon Grause offered a check for $300 and told Phillips he would get the rest later. This check was made out to cash for $300 and delivered to Phillips. About a week later Grause called at Phillips' store again and gave him another check made out to cash for $200. Both checks were paid by the bank on which they were drawn. Grause attempted to find the cancelled checks for the committee but was unable to find them. Grause stated to the representative of the committee that Phillips' name did not appear on the checks as an endorser. Grause was not raided by the county authorities.

A STILL DISCOVERED BUT NOT WRECKED BY THE PROSECUTOR'S DETECTIVES

On or about October 5, 1930, Joseph Tulano was murdered. After he had been shot he was taken into Trenton and the Trenton Police Department asked the prosecutor's office of Mercer county to co-operate with them in solving the crime. Investigation disclosed that the man had been shot at a still in Monmouth county. On November 6, 1930, Chief County Detective Kirkham, of Mercer county, and Lieutenants Kelly and Clow, of the Trenton Police Department, met Detectives Shields and Sacco, of the Monmouth County Prosecutor's office, who had been assigned to co-operate with the Mercer county men in investigating the murder.

The group went to a farm where the murder was supposed to have been committed. After interviewing the people at that place, the party started back to Allentown for lunch, and at that point Mr. Shields asked the others to go along with him while he investigated another matter a short distance from there. They drove to the Gordon farm, which is near Allentown, and found a still located in the barn. A fire was under the boiler, and an Italian, who said his name was Rocco Pagone, was found working at the still. He was placed under arrest.

At the request of the detectives, he drew the fire under the boiler, and then, stating that he wanted to get his coat, went around in back of the still and escaped through a back door. After a search, he was found and brought back to the Gordon farm. Another man was found lying beneath some lumber in the barn, and he also was placed under arrest. When the detectives returned with Pagone to the still, Shields asked Chief Kirkham to accompany him to Allentown while he telephoned Chief Crook. Shields seemed to be embarrassed, and stated that "he was in a barrell," because he had gone to the Gordon farm and found the still "without permission." He asked Chief Kirkham to explain to Chief Crook just how he had happened to go to the Gordon farm. Shields telephoned Crook,

When Crook arrived at the still, he had a talk with Pagone, which conversation was conducted apart from the other detectives, the Trenton men not hearing what was said. Crook then stated that he was going to Allentown to find out why the wrecking crew, which was supposed to come and wreck the still, had not arrived. When Crook and the other detectives who had accompanied him to Allentown returned to the farm, Crook told the Trenton detectives that the wrecking crew was on the way, and stated that he did not think there was any necessity for the Trenton men staying around. He said: "We are interested in a murder case, and this is only a minor matter, this finding of a still."

Some time before the Trenton men left the still and while Detective William Clow was guarding the two men who had been placed under arrest, Rocco Pagone told Clow that "everything was going to be fixed up, that the boss was fixing it," and that Clow "would get his share." At about this time Detective Kelly came into the barn, and Clow said to him: "I don't like this way of doing business. This dago just said that everything was going to be fixed and that I would get my share. Let's get out of here." This incident is related as it appears in the report made by Clow to his superior officer, which is dated November 22, 1930, about two weeks after the incident occurred. In Clow's testimony before this committee, the incident was stated somewhat differently. Before the Trenton men left they requested Crook to hold both of the men who had been arrested until they could bring a man from Trenton on the following day to attempt to identify one of the men as the murderer whom they were seeking. The Trenton detectives then left the farm and returned to Trenton.

Mr. William R. McLaughlin, a druggist now living in Atlantic City, conducted a drug store in Allentown in November, 1930. He appeared as a witness before the committee and testified that on the day when a still was found on the Gordon farm Crook and some of the other county detectives and the two men who were arrested were in his store at Allentown. He said that Crook or one of the other Monmouth county men used the telephone in his store to call a Trenton number. It was his understanding that this call was made at the request of Pagone to a lawyer in Trenton named Felcone.

Some time after this telephone call had been made Felcone appeared in Allentown in an automobile and parked his car opposite the drug store on the other side of the street, and McLaughlin saw two of the Monmouth county detectives, one of whom he thought was Crook, go across the street and talk to Felcone. This conversation lasted about three-quarters of an hour and subsequently all of the men left Allentown. McLaughlin did not know Felcone but was told by Leonard Iacobino that the man in the car was Felcone. Iacobino appeared as a witness before the committee and stated that he was personally acquainted with Felcone and that he saw Felcone in Allentown on the day the still was found on the Gordon farm.

Detective Kent, who was at the Gordon farm with the other county detectives, returned to Freehold in advance of them, having been assigned by Crook to another case. He left Allentown en route to Freehold shortly before 5 o'clock and met the Van Brunt truck which had been engaged to bring the wrecking crew on the outskirts of Allentown. This truck was proceeding toward Allentown. At about 6 o'clock the other detectives with the two prisoners left Allentown and returned to Freehold.

The still was left unguarded and nothing was done to wreck it. Crook testified that the still had not been wrecked that night because the truck had not reached Allentown before he left. This testimony is inconsistent with Kent's testimony that the truck was on the outskirts of Allentown before 5 o'clock.

Upon arriving at Freehold the two prisoners were taken before one, Mount, a Justice of the Peace, and charged, not with operating a still, but with disorderly conduct. They were forthwith convicted and sentenced to jail for five days. The names under which they were convicted and sentenced were Patsy Ficaro and Nick Rugaro. Whether these were their correct names we have been unable to ascertain.

There is no record of this case of any kind or character in the prosecutor's office. The committee were obliged to search the jail records to determine the charge which was made against these men at the time of their commitment to jail.

The following day, Kirkham, Kelly, Clow and Detective Naples from the prosecutor's office of Mercer county went to Freehold and Sacco took them to the jail where Naples was unable to identify either of the two men who had been arrested at the Gordon farm. Although these men had been committed for five days on the disorderly conduct charge and although a charge should have been lodged against them for operating a still, they were forthwith released and walked out of jail. Detective Kelly asked Sacco whether the prisoners had been arraigned before a magistrate, whether they were under bond and what charges had been lodged against them. Sacco replied that he did not know anything about it, that he had nothing to do with it.

When the Trenton detectives left Freehold on November 7th they went to Allentown to ascertain whether the still had been dismantled. They found the still in exactly the same condition that it was in the night before when they had left the Gordon farm and that nothing had been done to wreck it. They stopped at McLaughlin's store on this occasion and were told by him of the meeting on the previous day between Felcone and the Monmouth county detectives.

The Trenton detectives then went to Trenton and tried to see the Mercer county prosecutor, but he was not in his office and they thereupon went to the United State District Attorney and notified him of the discovery of this still and of the fact that it had not been wrecked. He directed the Federal agents in Newark to go to Allentown and wreck the still. The Trenton detectives met the Federal men at the station in Trenton on November 7th and went with them to the Gordon farm. They found the still unguarded and in the same condition in which it had been left by them earlier in the day. After pointing out the still to the Federal men the Trenton men left the Gordon farm. The Trenton detectives made a report of this entire occurrence to their superiors. A copy of the report which states the facts substantially as stated by them at the hearing was offered as an exhibit. This report refers to the fact that on November 7th, McLaughlin had mentioned to them the fact that the Monmouth county detectives had had a conversation with Felcone on the day previous.

McLaughlin testified that some time after this occurrence, the exact date he could not fix, one of the county detectives, whose name he did not know, came into his store and conversed with him about the incident. At that time, McLaughlin stated, this detective told him that there was going to be some trouble because of the failure of the Monmouth county detectives to destroy the still. McLaughlin asked this man how much had been paid in the case and the detective stated, according to McLaughlin's recollection, that someone had received about $3,000.

Prosecutor Tumen testified before the committee that on the next day after the still was discovered Crook told him about it and he took no action with regard thereto. He assigned no reason for his failure to act.

Crook appeared as a witness before this committee. He testified that after he had been advised by telephone of the discovery of the still, he called Van Brunt, who runs a trucking business in Matawan, and asked him to secure a wrecking crew and come to Allentown and wreck the still. He denied calling Felcone on the telephone and denied talking with him or seeing him at Allentown.

The only explanation that he gave for going to Allentown when the still was discovered was that he feared that hijackers might attack the detectives and that it was well to have a considerable force of armed men there. This statement is in sharp contrast with his subsequent statement that it was not necessary to guard the still as there was no probability that the owner would return to it.

He further stated that while in Allentown he was advised by the prosecutor's office that a murder had been committed and he took his men away to investigate the murder. He attempted to explain his failure to wreck the still by saying that it was so hot that it could not be wrecked until late in the afternoon, that it was customary to engage a plumber when stills were wrecked, so that the stills could be taken apart without destroying them. He stated, however, that it was the custom to destroy the parts that were useful for nothing but distilling purposes.

He admitted that if the Van Brunt truck had reached Allentown at 5 o'clock in the evening there would have been time to wreck the still that night and that this could have been done. He asserted, however, that he did not leave Allentown until 6 P. M. and that the truck had not yet arrived. When told that Kent had said that he had seen the truck approaching Allentown just on the outskirts of the town before 5 P. M. on November 6th, he swore that Kent had told him on the day on which he (Crook) was then testifying that Kent had not met the truck near Allentown and had not so testified before the committee. Kent, when recalled in Crook's presence, denied that he had made this statement to Crook and repeated his former statement that he met the truck just outside of Allentown shortly before 5 o'clock. The committee wishes to commend Kent for his courage under these trying circumstances.

Crook attempted to explain the charge of disorderly conduct against the two Italians instead of the more serious charge for operating a still by saying that the latter charge could not be made except before a United States Commissioner and that none was available on the evening of November 6th when they reached Freehold. This was entirely inaccurate. It may be that Crook intended to say that the charge of operating a still must be made before a Supreme Court Commissioner, which is in accordance with the provisions of the statute as it existed at that time. If this was his intention, it is indeed strange that no such commissioner could be found in Freehold as the Bar Directory for 1930 discloses the names of six such commissioners whose offices were in Freehold at that time.

Crook was unable to explain, however, why the men who were committed for five days for disorderly conduct were released on the following morning. He said that Mount had told him that they had given bail. Whether this statement was made by Mount could neither be verified nor contradicted, because of the fact that Mount died several months ago. It is, however, exceedingly improbable.

The records failed to show that any bail was given by the men and, in fact, the men would not have been entitled to their release on bail after having been convicted and sentenced to five days in jail. Because of Mount's death, the committee could not ascertain why he issued a discharge for the men on November 7th when they had been committed for five days.

Crook further stated that no charge was subsequently made against the men for operating a still, because on November 8th he was advised by the Federal authorities that the still had been wrecked by them. He was incensed when he learned that the Federal men had been called in and said that he assumed that they were prosecuting the case. No basis for this assumption appears in his testimony. As above stated, the men had been discharged from custody before the Federal men were notified of the existence of the still.

The following facts in connection with this matter have been established by testimony which the committee believes to be entirely disinterested and credible and have been in no wise satisfactorily explained by anyone connected with the prosecutor's office, namely, that Shields was embarrassed when he found the still and stated that "he was in a barrel" because he had not been directed to find the still; the fact that after calling Felcone at the request of the men who had been arrested, the county detectives conferred with him for three-quarters of an hour; the fact that the still was not wrecked but was left intact and unguarded until wrecked by the Federal men late on November 7th, although the wrecking crew reached Allentown at 5 o'clock on November 6th; the fact that the men who were found operating the still were charged merely with disorderly conduct and not with the more serious offense; the fact that these men were released on the day following their commitment to jail, although they had been convicted for disorderly conduct and sentenced to jail for five days; and the fact that no prosecution was thereafter instituted against these men by the county authorities for operating a still.

The above facts, in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, afford, in the judgment of your committee, support to the statement said to have been made by Pagone that "the boss would fix it up." While there is no direct proof of the receipt of a bribe by Crook in this case, the committee is entirely unable to reconcile what occurred with the honest and faithful performance of his duties on the part of Crook. The committee is unable to understand why Prosecutor Tumen, if he was actuated by a desire to do his duty, did not call upon Crook to explain his actions and did not require a vigorous prosecution of this case.

GAMBLING

Mr. Tumen, Mr. Crook and Mr. Meade all testified, in a general way, that a vigorous effort was made by the prosecutor's office to suppress all kinds of gambling. Meade stated that his operators were sent, from time to time, to places which were suspected of being gambling houses, but that at no time did any of such operators ever find a roulette wheel in Monmouth county. Mr. Dunn, an investigator connected with the Flynn Detective Agency, who was employed by this committee, had no difficulty in finding gambling in progress at the Ross Fenton Farms on August 25th, where he saw three roulette wheels and one crap game. He testified that there were about one hundred and fifty to two hundred people in the room. He played the roulette wheel and the crap game.

Inasmuch as the Prosecutor testified that he had destroyed all of the reports made to him by the Meade Agency, except those upon which prosecutions were based, and Meade testified that he had destroyed all of his copies of such reports relating to any period of time prior to January 1, 1934, it was impossible to check the statement made by Meade.

In view of the failure on the part of the prosecutor to prosecute the proprietors of any gambling houses in Monmouth county after the expiration of the first year of his incumbency, the fact that the reports of the under-cover operatives, whose duty it was to detect and secure evidence against such houses, were shown to no one except the prosecutor himself and were destroyed by him, impresses this committee as significant.

HORSE-RACE POOLROOMS

Leo F. Meade, Manager of the National Bureau of Investigation, testified that he believed his operators had tried to secure entrance on several occasions to a horse-race poolroom conducted by Walter Hurley at 724 Cookman Avenue, Asbury Park, but had been unable to do so. His agency never succeeded in obtaining any evidence against this place.

On July 10, 1934, the police of Asbury Park raided this poolroom and also two others, one of which was located at 417 Cookman Avenue, Asbury Park, and operated by James Apicella and the other located at 156 Main Street, Asbury Park, and operated by Frank Yetman. The raid at Walter Hurley's place occurred at 3:20 P. M. The policemen walked into the room through an open door at the head of the stairs and found fifty or sixty persons in the room in front of the desk where Mr. Hurley and his nephew were working on racing sheets. Detective Burke, who was in the raiding party, saw bets being taken at the time the police entered. The police found the room fully equipped as a horse-race poolroom. They took photographs of the place and seized the equipment, and also a small amount of money which was being passed across the desk to Walter Hurley and his nephew at the time the police entered. All of the people in the room were taken to police headquarters and sworn statements were taken from a great many of them. These statements were all of the same general type, stating that the individuals were in the poolroom at the time of the raid; that they were there for the purpose of making bets on horses; that bets on horses had actually been placed by them on this occasion and that Walter Hurley was the man to whom the money for the bets had been given.

Walter Hurley, his nephew, James Hurley, and his employee, Roy Wright, were held in bail to await the action of the grand jury. The complaints, warrants and recognizances in the case were sent to the prosecutor at Freehold.

When the matter was presented to the grand jury, Captain Giles, acting chief of the Asbury Park police, produced the gambling equipment, the photographs and the affidavits of the persons arrested in the raid. These affidavits were left with the grand jury for a few minutes, during which Captain Giles was asked to leave the room. Captain Burke, who was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury, was not called. The proceedings were conducted by Assistant Prosecutor McDermott. No indictments were found against any of these men.

Walter Hurley appeared as a witness before the committee and testified under a waiver of immunity. He frankly admitted that his business was that of a bookmaker; that he conducted a horse-race poolroom in Asbury Park and had been raided by the Asbury Park police on the day above mentioned. He further testified that he had never been raided by the prosecutor's detectives, although he stated that in June, 1933, Crook had told him that he must close his business and that if he did not close voluntarily, he would be raided. He closed for a short time, but subsequently reopened and although he was raided by the sheriff some time later, nothing was found. He was held for the grand jury at that time but was not indicted.

He testified that he was a personal friend of Crook's. He further testified that after the raid on July 10th, he continued to operate his business by taking bets over the telephone. He stated that he believed that the business in which he was engaged was known to Jonas Tumen, and that he thought it was known to everyone in Monmouth county. He said there was no secret at any time about the operation of his business and that his doors were open and anyone could come in.

Although Justice Perskie, at the opening of the September term, specifically charged the grand jury with regard to this matter, Jonas Tumen testified, on November 28th, that the Hurley case had not then been presented to the September grand jury.

The raids on the poolrooms conducted by Apicella and Frank Yetman were conducted in a similar manner. These establishments were like the one conducted by Hurley, although on a smaller scale. Apicella and Yetman were held for the grand jury, but were not indicted. They were not called as witnesses before the committee.

Evidence was produced before the committee that a horse-race poolroom was conducted this summer at Silver's cigar store, in Belmar. Mr. Dunn, an investigator employed by the committee, testified that he was in this poolroom, playing the races on the following dates: August 18th, August 20th, August 22nd, August 24th, August 30th and September 1st, 1934. On each occasion he found about twenty-five men present. On one occasion he was accompanied by Carmine Marinelli, another investigator in the employ of the committee.

Mr. Dunn also testified that he visited a horse race poolroom at 311 Main street, Allenhurst, a place which was frequently visited by Philip L. Phillips. This place was operated by a man named "Chubby" Megill. Dunn found another horse-race poolroom conducted by Tony Pippi on Second avenue, Long Branch, and played the races at this place. He also located a horse-race poolroom run by a man named Samuel Kaplan, located on F street, in Belmar, between Eighth and Ninth streets, and played the races four or five times at this place. He was accompanied on one of his visits to this place by Carmine Marinelli.

It also appears from the testimony of a man named Luke Melee that during the summer of 1934 his son, Walter, ran a horse-race poolroom in the hotel located at 32 Broad street, Keyport.

Mr. Flynn, another operative employed by the committee, testified that a man named McLaughlin and a man named Schermerhorn were conducting a gambling game known as "chemin-de-fer" on the fifth floor of the Kingsley-Arms hotel. He did not see this game actually played, but it was explained to him by McLaughlin.

Peter Coller, a resident of Newark, New Jersey, who was employed by the committee on occasions during the spring and summer of 1934, found lottery tickets on sale in various places, including six places in Asbury Park, five places in Long Branch, three places in Freehold, two of which were very near the court house; two places in Neptune, one in Bradley Beach and two in Belmar. In a considerable number of these places he found other forms of gambling. Some of these places were resorts of a very low type, where prostitutes openly solicited business.

This committee believes that had an honest and intelligent effort been made by the prosecutor to suppress gambling, these gambling places, and particularly the horse-race poolrooms, would have been found and the proprietors prosecuted. It is incredible that the operators of the National Bureau of Investigation were unable to locate and enter these places in view of the fact that the operators employed by the committee had no difficulty in doing so. We think this failure on the part of the prosecutor's office has not been adequately explained.

SLOT MACHINES

This committee ascertained in the course of its investigation that the slot machine business is conducted by operators who own a number of slot machines and place them in speakeasies, cigar stores, clubs and other places where they will receive play. The operator keeps the machine in condition and collects the money therefrom once a week or once in two weeks. There were a number of such operators in Monmouth county during the years 1930, 1931 and 1932.

A number of slot machine operators were called before the committee but, with one exception, they were decidedly hostile and refused to reveal much of importance concerning their illegal business. They admitted, however, that they had operated slot machines in Monmouth county, although they testified that they were no longer engaged in this business.

Mr. Norman Mount, who resides in Allenhurst, testified that for a number of years prior to 1930 he had operated slot machines in Monmouth county. Shortly after the appointment of Jonas Tumen as prosecutor, Philip L. Phillips met Mount and told him that a meeting of slot machine operators would be held at Harry's Lobster House in Sea Bright. Mr. Phillips took Mr. Mount to this meeting, according to Mr. Mount's testimony. Joseph Johnson, a clerk in the post office at Red Bank, and a Mr. Ford, both of whom were representatives of the Keystone Novelty Company, a company which sells slot machines, attended this conference. James Hughes, Louis Ackerson and Arnold Thompson were also present.

Mr. Mount was told by Mr. Phillips that the Keystone Novelty Company was to have the slot machine concession in Monmouth county and that the various individual operators would be obliged to make arrangements with that company in order to operate. At the above-mentioned meeting, an agreement was reached whereby the Keystone Novelty Company allotted specific territory in the county to the individual operators. Mr. Mount was given Belmar, South Belmar and Allenhurst; James Hughes received Sea Girt, Deal, Ocean Township and the territory surrounding Freehold; Louis Ackerson and Arnold Thompson received Bradley Beach and Neptune. The Keystone Novelty Company retained the balance of the county.

Under this arrangement the various operators agreed to pay to the Keystone Novelty Company 20 per cent. of the proceeds of their business. Mr. Mount testified that this arrangement remained in effect for only three or four days and that the operators were then compelled to take their slot machines down. Mount was notified by Phillips that the agreement was no longer in effect and was told that different arrangements would be made later on.

In the latter part of June new arrangements were made and the machines were put out again. Phillips notified Mount that he could have the same territory which had previously been allotted to him, provided he paid Phillips $10 a week, in advance, for each machine which he had in operation. Mr. Mount testified that the same arrangement was made with the other operators. He further stated that he and the other operators were compelled to give Phillips a list of the machines which they had placed in various stores, speakeasies, etc., giving the name of the place in which each machine was set up and a description of the machine.

Phillips told Mount that his reports of machines must be complete and that if any machines were found in his territory which were not listed on his reports, they would be picked up. He also told Mount that someone was checking the reports to see that he reported every machine. Mount at this time had approximately twenty machines in operation and made weekly payment of $200 to Phillips.

Mount tried to keep outsiders from placing machines in his territory by notifying the owners of machines that they might be picked up unless they did business with him. On one occasion the proprietor of a speakeasy in Belmar took out the machine which he had in his place and substituted Mount's machine after such a warning from Mount.

In 1931 Mount was compelled by Phillips to take a man named Joseph Rosenfield into partnership with him in the operation of slot machines.

Mount's weekly payments to Phillips were made on Tuesday of each week, in Phillips' clothing store in Asbury Park. He testified that on occasions he saw various other slot machine operators in Phillips' store when he called to make such payments, among whom were Mr. Hughes and Mr. Ackerson. He also testified that he had seen County Detectives Mustoe, Sacco and Zuckerman in Phillips' store at times when he went to make these payments.

The arrangement which was in force in 1930 was continued in 1931 and Mount paid Phillips $10 per week per machine during that year. In 1932, however, the partnership between Mount and Rosenfield was dissolved and the territory of Belmar and South Belmar was alloted to Rosenfield. That year Mount was restricted to Allenhurst and operated his machines there, but he also furnished machines to a man named Michael Brenner, of Bradley Beach, who placed machines in other territory. The price of $10 per week per machine was continued throughout these three years, although Mount unsuccessfully attempted on one occasion to get a reduction in the price. Mount testified that he regarded the payments which he made to Phillips as payments for protection of his illegal business.

Arnold Thompson and Louis Ackerson, who were named by Mr. Mount as having attended the meeting at Harry's Lobster House, were examined before the committee at a private hearing. Both testified that they were present at the meeting at Harry's Lobster House on the day named by Mount as the time when the meeting occurred but denied that they had attended any such meeting. Thompson testified that Ackerson, Mount and James Hughes were also present in Harry's Lobster House at that time, but denied seeing Phillips there. Neither of these men gave any reason for being at Harry's Lobster House at that time, except to state that they went there for luncheon, although the lobster house was located a distance of about twelve or fourteen miles from their homes or places of business. They each stated the locations in which they placed slot machines and these locations were within the territory which Mount said had been alloted to them.

The fact that the slot machine business in Monmouth county was conducted during a considerable part of Tumen's term of office by operators who placed their machines in speakeasies, hotels and stores, is supported not only by the testimony of Mount, Hughes, Ackerson, Thompson, Ernest Bade and Thomas Ryan, who admitted that they had been slot machine operators, but also by the testimony of at least twelve other witnesses who had slot machines in their places of business. In fact only three witnesses who appeared before this committee said that they owned the machines which they had in their places of business.

The machines belonging to two of these three were seized by the county detectives and almost immediately thereafter an operator appeared and offered to replace them with his machines. The evidence before this committee indicates that few, if any, of the machines belonging to the operators sem to have been disturbed by the Prosecutor's staff. This indicates that the activities of the prosecutor were directed against privately owned machines rather than against machines owned by operators.

George McDonald, of Keansburg, testified that on the occasion when his place was raided by Crook and other county detectives, two slot machines were in his barroom which were not disturbed during the raid. These slot machines were secured by him from an operator named Walling. While he testified that they may have been enclosed in a cabinet at the time of the raid, any detective who was making an intelligent effort to suppress slot machines would have no difficulty in finding them.

Frank Spagnuolo, steward of the John F. Monahan Association, testified that in 1930 the Association owned two slot machines which were placed in the clubhouse, the proceeds of which were used entirely for club purposes. One Saturday night, early in the Summer of 1930, County Detective Sacco and two other men, whose names were unknown to Mr. Spagnuolo, came to the clubhouse and asked if the club had slot machines. Upon receiving an affirmative reply, Sacco said that they wanted the machines, and the machines were taken out of the club by the detectives.

On the following day a man unknown to Spagnuolo, called at the club and said :"I hear your machines were taken out of here last night." Spagnuolo said that this was true, to which the man replied: "I will put machines in." Spagnuolo objected, because he did not want to have any trouble over slot machines, but the man assured him that if his machines were placed in there, there would be no trouble. A week later this man placed two of his machines in the clubhouse, one in the bar and one in the dining room. These machines remained there until the club closed at the end of the season and were not disturbed by anyone.

The following year a slot machine operator, whose name was not given, placed two slot machines in the club. The club received 40 per cent. of the money taken in by these machines, and the operator the other 60 per cent. In 1932 Spagnuolo told Philip L. Phillips that the club desired to have its own slot machines. Inasmuch as the club had paid Phillips $500 in 1930, $1,000 in 1931, and was paying him a considerable sum in 1932, Phillips stated that it would be all right for the club to have its own machines.

During the above-mentioned period, while the club had slot machines placed there by an operator, Crook called at the club to inquire about a man who was found dead in the meadows near Sea Bright or Monmouth Beach. On this occasion, he was in the dining room of the club, where one of the slot machines was in plain sight. He did not disturb it.

Mr. Meade, who, as above stated, was the manager of the detective bureau employed by the county, testified that he never made any effort to ascertain the names of the slot machine operators. He said that he had never heard of Ford or Mount or Ackerson. He admitted that he had heard of James Hughes, but said that he understood that Hughes was a bootlegger, although he had never gotten any evidence against him. He was asked if he knew that there were operators who put out slot machines and shared in the amount received. His answer to this question was:

> "I don't know that. I have no way of knowing that and I don't form my opinion on rumors or the conclusions of other people. I have heard that there are groups who put out slot machines."

When asked if he had made an effort to investigate the truth of this rumor, he said:

> "I don't believe I made a whole-hearted effort in that direction because I would probably be disinclined to believe such rumors."

He gave considerable other testimony along the same line.

In view of the clear evidence before the committee as to the manner in which the slot machine business was conducted, this testimony of Mr. Meade clearly shows either gross inefficiency in this line of work or a studied effort to protect the slot machine operators.

The prosecutor, his chief detective, Mr. Crook, and Mr. Meade all testified that the persons having slot machines were not prosecuted for their violation of the law. The prosecutor contented himself with seizing the machines. This attitude on the part of the prosecutor is hard to reconcile with the statement which he made of his vigorous efforts to suppress slot machines.

DISPOSITION OF MONEY TAKEN FROM CONFISCATED MACHINES

Mr. Gardner, one of the witnesses who appeared before the committee and who had a slot machine in his place, testified that about $50 was required to load a twenty-five cent machine so that it would operate, and that when the owner of the machine took the money out, he would leave this amount in the machine. From other sources the committee has learned that such machines were usually loaded with from $30 to $35. There was no evidence as to the amount required to load a ten-cent machine or a five-cent machine.

Both Tumen and Crook testified that when slot machines were seized, they were broken open and the money found in them was turned over to Crook. Both stated that no record was kept either in Tumen's office or by Crook of the money taken from confiscated slot machines, except that when such money was turned over to the county treasurer receipts were obtained which were kept by the prosecutor. These receipts were produced before the committee by the chief clerk of the prosecutor's office. The aggregate of the amounts turned over to the county from slot machines during Mr. Tumen's entire term of office was $263.10.

Although Crook testified that the money was turned over to the county as soon as he received it, the record in the county treasurer's office, as well as the receipts produced by the prosecutor's chief clerk, show that the first money turned over to the county from slot machines after Tumen became prosecutor was turned over on July 24, 1930, and amounted to $108, and that no money was thereafter turned over to the county treasurer from slot machines until May 27, 1931, when $8 was given to the county treasurer.

On June 2, 1931, $21 was turned over from slot machines. On July 28, 1931, $6.20; on September 4, 1931, $26 (received by the prosecutor from Rumson Police Department; on October 27, 1931, $5.25. Thereafter no money was turned over to the county from slot machines until April 8, 1932, when $37 was turned over. On June 28, 1932, $7 was turned over. On September 23, 1932, $3.50; on February 15, 1933, $3.65; on February 20, 1933, $7; on February 28, 1933, $7.50; on August 1, 1933, $2.05; on November 6, 1933, $9.20; on January 15, 1934, $4.50; on January 30, 1934, $4.75, and on March 27, 1934, $2.50.

No record seems to have been kept of the number of slot machines seized by the county detectives. Detective Sacco testified that he and Detective Zuckerman specialized in picking up slot machines; that they did practically all of this work. The plan followed was that Crook would give them the names and addresses of places where slot machines were located and they would go to these addresses and seize the machines. At first they took the machines and the money in them to a storehouse in Red Bank. After the machines reached the storehouse, the money would be removed and given to Crook. They kept no record of the money turned over in this manner. They said that after the first year and a half or two years, they destroyed the machines at the places where they were seized and took the money found in the machines and gave it to Crook.

Both Sacco and Zuckerman declined to state how many slot machines had been destroyed or seized by them, both of them insisting, in answer to question, that they could not tell whether the number seized or destroyed was "six or one hundred." They referred to the fact that a number of slot machines which had been stored in the Red Bank storehouse had been burned at one time, but refused to state how many machines were included in this bonfire. Mr. Meade, who referred to this incident, stated that it occurred in 1931 or 1932 and that the number of machines destroyed was between three hundred and four hundred machines. He said that a moving picture had been taken of the bonfire. Mr. Kent, who testified at a private hearing, fixed the number destroyed at this time at forty.

Mr. Crook attempted to explain the small amount of money turned in to the county treasurer from this source by stating that the crusade against slot machines was so vigorously conducted that the persons having them left no money in them, but paid off the winners from their cash drawers. In view of the fact that the persons having machines were, in most instances, not the owners thereof and that the owner received his compensation by unlocking the machine and taking the money from it, this reason seems to us to be very improbable.

Mr. Sacco, in his testimony given before the committee at a private hearing, stated that "Lately, within a year or so" no money was left in the slot machines. If this is true it affords some explanation for the small amount of money turned in to the county treasurer from slot machines within the last year, but it does not serve as an explanation for the years 1930, 1931 and 1932.

Furthermore, it is evident that the money was not turned in to the county at the time it was received if, as has been testified, any real effort was made to suppress slot machines. As has above been shown, no money from slot machines was turned over to the county from April 1st until July 24, 1930. Following this, there was a lapse of ten months before any money was given to the county, the next payment having been made on May 27, 1931. In fact, money was turned in to the county on only seventeen days during the whole period.

On June 15, 1933, Mr. Crook deposited $21 in silver in his account in the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust Company. When asked the source of this deposit, he said, "I haven't the slightest idea."

The money taken from confiscated slot machines was money belonging to the county. It was clearly Crook's duty to keep an accurate account of it at all times and the prosecutor should have required him so to do. Crook's failure to do this creates at least a grave doubt as to whether all of the money received by him was turned over, which doubt is strongly supported by the insignificance of the amounts paid into the treasury of the county and the long intervals between such payments.

This doubt is also supported by the testimony of Mr. Audley, who lives next door to Crook in Asbury Park, that he had seen slot machines taken by county detectives into the cellar of Crook's residence and had seen Crook's brother take money from them. Although the brother, when asked what would be done with the money, said that it would be turned over to the county, the committee can see no reason why the machines were taken to Crook's house if this were the intention. Crook, instead of attempting to explain this incident, denied it.

While the number of slot machines in the county has undoubtedly been reduced within the last year or so, Peter Coller found eighteen such machines in use in the course of his investigation for this committee.

The evidence before this Committee concerning slot machines shows:

1. No serious effort to stamp out the slot machine evil by locating and punishing the slot machine operators.

2. No prosecutions of persons having slot machines in their places of business.

3. A system whereby slot machine operators made payments to Phillips for the purpose of securing protection.

4. Failure to keep any account of the money taken from confiscated slot machines, which is money belonging to the county and should have been accounted for in detail.

5. An insignificant amount of money turned over to the county as coming from confiscated slot machines, which at least indicates the misapplication of funds belonging to the county.

THE HARRY TAYLOR CASE

Another form of gambling which is prevalent in Monmouth county is known as the number game. The committee had before it one witness who had been engaged in this activity.

Harry N. Taylor testified that between May, 1928, and January, 1934, he owned and operated a shoe-shining parlor at 412 Corlies Avenue, Allenhurst. While he was engaged in such business he wrote numbers as a side line. His method of operation consisted in keeping a small book in which he would write the number upon which his customer placed his bet and the amount of money which the customer played on that particular number. The number slips so written were collected from him by a man named Dean, who also took the money which Taylor had collected. If a customer won his bet, Dean would make payment to Taylor and Taylor would pay the customer. Dean worked for a number banker named Waters in Asbury Park. Taylor was well acquainted with Philip L. Phillips, he having worked in a barber shop which Phillips frequently visited.

Taylor testified that in 1932 Phillips called him on the telephone and said: "This is Phillips and I will do the talking." Phillips then told Taylor that someone would come to see him and that Taylor was to turn over his number business to this man. On the same day, a man whom Taylor did not know called at his shoe-shining parlor and told Taylor that he was the man who Phillips had said would call upon him. This man told Taylor to turn over his number business to him and that if Taylor got into trouble, Taylor would be protected. Taylor replied that he did not wish to make any change. Two or three days later a number writer, known to Taylor as Eddie, called upon Taylor and told him that if he did not turn his number business over to the man sent by Phillips he would be raided. Taylor did not make any change, although Eddie called a second time and told him the same thing.

Subsequently, Nick Vetrano, who is reputed to be a number banker in Asbury Park, called on Taylor and told him to turn his number business over to him and that Taylor would be protected if he got into trouble. Vetrano told Taylor that if he did not do this, Taylor would be raided. Taylor refused to comply with Vetrano's demands.

Shortly after this, Chief County Detective Crook called at Taylor's place with another detective and with a warrant for Taylor's arrest. At this time, Crook took a number book and $37.50 which he found in the shoe-shining parlor. Taylor gave bail for his appearance before the grand jury, a man named Fesperman being his surety.

He never heard anything further concerning the case against him. As he was not indicted, the prosecution was barred by the statute of limitations prior to the date of the hearing before this committee.

Crook admitted taking the money from Taylor's place but stated that the amount taken by him was not $37.50 but $34 and some cents. He was asked the question, "Where is that money?" His answer was, "The money is in our office, held intact as evidence." This testimony was given at a public hearing on September 28th. Subsequently, at a public hearing on November 27th, at Freehold, while Tumen was being questioned concerning this money, Crook volunteered the following statement, "That money is in a vault right across the street, so that it won't be missing in the morning." Mr. Tumen then testified that he believed that the prosecutor's office had a vault in a bank in Freehold, the key to which was kept by the chief clerk. Subsequently, when the chief clerk was called, he testified that the prosecutor's office had no vault in any bank. On November 30th, Mr. Crook testified that this money had been in his private safe deposit box in the Freehold Trust Company since shortly after he rented the box on November 20, 1933.

The record of this case in the prosecutor's office indicates that the case was never presented to the grand jury. The disposition marked in the prosecutor's record is, "Dismissed by Wainwright," although Taylor testified that he was held for the action of the grand jury and it appears from the prosecutor's record that a recognizance was given.

Wainwright was the justice of the peace before whom the original complaint was filed.

The history of this case indicates that the prosecutor's office, when making this raid, had something in mind other than the suppression of the number game.

CONCERNING PHILLIPS AND TUMEN

Tumen testified that he had no connection whatever with Phillips and that Phillips did not represent him or his office in any collections which he may have made from persons who were violating the law. He admitted that he had been acquainted with Phillips for five or six years but stated that he knew him only casually, and that he had never had any business contacts with him.

He denied that prior to the public hearings conducted by this committee he had heard any rumors that Phillips claimed to be a collector for the prosecutor's office. He admitted, however, that in 1933 he had heard rumors that collections were being made and referred to a grand jury investigation which occurred at that time. He stated, however, that these rumors were not substantiated by the evidence produced before the grand jury.

He subsequently changed this testimony by saying that he had not heard rumors of collections but that he had read charges in the press that collections were being made. He denied that these charges referred to Phillips. He later admitted that in February or March, 1934, he had heard the charges that Phillips was making collections.

When asked if he had not frequently met Phillips at the Long Branch dog track in the summer of 1934, he admitted seeing him on those occasions, but denied that he had had any extended conversation with him.

Mr. Tumen further admitted that since the commencement of the public hearings before this committee he had learned of the press reports of the collections by Phillips of various sums of money and that he had never talked to Phillips about the matter, although he had seen him on numerous occasions since he had read the press reports.

He also admitted that he was personally acquainted with some of the witnesses who had appeared before the committee and had testified that they had paid protection money to Phillips, but that he had not mentioned the matter to them.

The committee has secured no definite proof that any of the money collected by Phillips was ever received by Tumen, nor has it been able to secure any definite proof that Tumen authorized Phillips to make such collections or that he protected the persons who paid Phillips with knowledge that such payments had been made.

Such proof, in its very nature, would be unobtainable unless it could be secured from Phillips or unless the money collected by him could be traced. This the committee has been unable to do although it has made a very earnest effort to accomplish this result.

There are many circumstances connected with this matter, however, which indicate that Tumen and Phillips cooperated in extorting money from law breakers and protecting them in their continued violation of the law. Among such circumstances the following may be mentioned:

The fact that Phillips, who was a haberdasher in Asbury Park, was able to locate speakeasy proprietors, still operators and other persons violating the liquor law throughout the entire county, indicates that he had means of securing information not ordinarily available to small storekeepers. The reports of the National Bureau of Investigation covering this period were seen by no one but the prosecutor unless a prosecution was based thereon, and such reports have been destroyed by him without any apparent reason for such destruction. The copies of such reports previously retained by Meade have been destroyed by him. An analysis of these reports, if in existence, would go far toward proving or disproving the prosecutor's cooperation with Phillips. Persons who paid Phillips after raids on their places of business had been made escaped prosecution. With very few exceptions, the persons who paid protection money to Phillips were not disturbed in their unlawful business. In this connection the fact should be mentioned that one, Popok, one of the law breakers who made substantial payments to Phillips, visted Dave Tumen, the prosecutor's brother, at Phillips request and discussed with him the amount of payment which should be made. Although this was denied by Tumen it cannot be ignored.

No effort was made to discover or prosecute the slot machine operators, although it is well known that the slot machine business was conducted by such operators. The fact that Crook, Sacco, Zuckerman and Mustoe were seen on several occasions in Phillips' place of business and that Crook and Phillips were frequently seen together at the dog track may be mentioned in this connection. While these facts may not be sufficient to establish Tumen's connection with Phillips beyond a reasonable doubt, the committee reports that in view of these facts it is not satisfied that such connection did not exist.

It is true that Phillips denied making these collections, but in the face of the overwhelming testimony given by unwilling witnesses, who appeared only because they were compelled to appear by the subpœnas issued by this committee, we think that his denial is entitled to no credit whatsoever.

The mere fact that such an extensive system of graft collection existed in the county, is a serious indictment against the administration by the prosecutor of his office, even though it were assumed that he knew nothing of it. The slightest diligence and efficiency on his part would have led to its discovery.

EXAMINATION OF BANK ACCOUNTS

An examination was made of all of the bank accounts that could be located in the name of Harry B. Crook. These accounts were as follows:

Seacoast Trust Company (savings account), Asbury Park and Ocean Grove Bank (savings account), Asbury Park National Bank & Trust Co. (checking account), Allenhurst National Bank and Trust Co.

The committee also examined the deposit slips which accompanied deposits made by Crook in order to ascertain which deposits were made in currency.

Mr. Crook testified that from May 1, 1930, to May 1, 1931, being the first twelve months spent by him as chief investigator in the prosecutor's office, his only sources of income were his salary, which amounted to $2,500, and the net income received by him from the operation of an armored car business in Asbury Park. He testified that the gross income from this business was between $140 and $150 per week. On November 30th he testified that not much was left for him out of this income after paying the expenses of the business. On this occasion, however, he did not specify just how much net income, if any, he derived from this business. During this year he made total deposits of $10,858.50, $3,858.50 being deposited in his active account in the Asbury Park National Bank, $3,100 being deposited in his savings account in the Seacoast Trust Company and $3,900 being deposited in his savings account in the Asbury Park and Ocean Grove Bank, savings department. No withdrawals were made during the year from either of the savings accounts, the deposits to which during the twelve-month period aggregated $7,000. Withdrawals were made from the Asbury Park National Bank & Trust Company account slightly in excess of the deposits made during such period in such bank. Of the total deposits made during this period $8,597.50 were made in currency.

During the following year, commencing May 1, 1931, and ending May 1, 1932, he deposited $7,318.70, $4,630 of which was deposited in currency. All of this was deposited in his active account except $500, which went into his savings account in the Asbury Park and Ocean Grove Bank. His total receipts from salary during this year were $3,538.14, and the aggregate of his expense checks amounted to $1,-041.76. In July of this year he severed his connection with the armored truck business.

In the year commencing May 1, 1932, his total deposits were $3,679.65, $2,807.50 being in currency. The salary which he received for this year was $3,615.82 and the aggregate of his expense checks was $1,214. On May 6, 1932, he paid off an $8,000 mortgage on his residence in Asbury Park. This was a building loan mortgage upon which installment payments had previously been made, the amount due in May, 1932, being $5,452.50. This was paid in currency.

In the month of December, 1933, he purchased a farm for the consideration of $7,750; $3,000 of this consideration was paid by a mortgage, $204.45 was paid by discharging tax liens, $3,700 was paid by a treasurer's check on the Freehold Trust Company received by Crook in exchange for cash of like amount, and the balance was paid in cash.

It will be noted from the foregoing statement that during the first twelve months that Crook was employed in the prosecutor's office he saved $7,000, although his salary during that year amounted to but $2,500, out of which he was obliged to pay the living expenses of his family and himself. When questioned on December 7th concerning his saving he endeavored to account for it in part by saying that he had received a net profit from the armored truck business during this year of from $35 to $40 per week, although he had testified just one week earlier that there was not much left for him from the receipts of this business after paying its expenses. He also stated that he had made loans to friends and some of these might have been repaid to him during this period. When pressed as to the amount of these loans, he said that the entire amount did not exceed $2,000. He was very uncertain as to the amount which had been repaid to him during the twelve months' period in question.

He professed to be entirely unable to account for the amount saved by him during this period. Although he had been subpœnaed to produce all his books of account, check book stubs and voucher checks, he produced nothing, except a comparatively recent pass book in the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust Company; two receipts from the Department of Banking and Insurance for Savings account books in the Asbury Park & Ocean Grove Bank and the Seacoast Trust Company, and a check book dating back only to November, 1933, which contained cancelled vouchers back to that date. He stated that all of his cancelled checks prior to that date had been destroyed and that he had been unable to find any check book stubs of an earlier date. He said that he was unable to say when such check book stubs had been destroyed. He also stated that he had made no income tax returns for any year, except the year 1927, when, as he said, he made a profit in the sale of an armored truck business in Trenton.

On November 30th, when questioned concerning a deposit of $1,000 in currency made in the Asbury Park National Bank and Trust Company on December 19, 1931, he stated that this was the proceeds of a $1,000 Liberty Bond which that bank had sold for him, and that the bank paid him the proceeds with its check which he cashed and subsequently deposited in cash to the credit of his account in that bank. This was investigated and found to be false. An officer of the bank testified that the bank had never sold any Liberty Bond for Crook and had never issued any cashier's check to him. He was entirely unable to otherwise account for this deposit.

The only conclusion which can reasonably be drawn from the foregoing is that at least during the first twelve months that Crook was in the prosecutor's office he received a large sum of money in cash, the source of which he was either unable or unwilling to disclose at the time he was examined as a witness. The committee believes that it is not at all probable that a man working for $2,500 per year would receive sufficient additional money from other sources to permit him to save $7,000 within the year, after having paid all his living expenses, and would after the lapse of four years entirely forget the source from which most of that money came. If this view is the correct one, we are forced to the conclusion that Crook was unwilling to disclose the source from which this money was received. Crook had ample time to refresh his recollection as to these matters, for he was first examined on this subject on November 30th, on which date he was subpœnaed to produce all of his accounts and records on December 7th, when he was again examined.

An examination of the bank accounts of Philip L. Phillips discloses that he also deposited large amounts of money in currency. His total deposits in the year 1930 exceeded his gross receipts from the conduct of his business as a haberdasher. He attempted to account for this difference by saying that he won money at gambling and that he too had made loans to his friends which were repaid to him in cash. He was entirely unable to specify either the amounts won at gambling, or the time, name of the borrower, or amount of the loans.

He stated that his living expenses were not paid by check on his bank account, so that the amount of such expenses, which was not specified, should be added to the difference between his gross receipts from his business and his total deposits. In the year 1933 he too paid off the balance due on a mortgage on his home which had originally been made for $9,000. This was a building and loan mortgage which was made on February 20, 1928, and the original amount thereon had been reduced by installment payments. It is certain, however, that a large amount was due at the time the mortgage was cancelled. He explained this payment by saying that the moneys used were moneys of his wife, title to the property being in her name. He could point to no bank account that his wife had had and explained this by saying that she had kept the money in currency at some place unknown to him for a long period.

The committee expended considerable time and money in an attempt to locate and trace the moneys collected by Phillips from law breakers throughout the county. This work involved many inherent difficulties, not only because of the probable distribution of this money by the collector in cash, but also because of the great variety of names, real or fictitious, in which it may have been deposited, or otherwise disposed of.

The bank accounts of Jonas Tumen to the extent that they could be located were examined, but disclosed nothing of a character which seemed to warrant detailed questioning of Mr. Tumen along this line.

OTHER IRREGULARITIES IN THE PROSECUTOR'S OFFICE

Great laxity in the conduct of the prosecutor's office was established by the testimony of Mr. Tumen and his subordinates. There are apparently no records in his office from which it can be ascertained whether any particular case is handled by the prosecutor or by one of the assistant prosecutors.

This laxity was also apparent in the manner in which seized liquor was kept and disposed of. No record was kept of the liquor stored in any particular place. An effort was made to trace the disposition of liquor which had been seized during the prosecutor's term of office. Mr. Tumen contributed little to this inquiry. He stated, however, that there were orders for the destruction of liquor in every case in which liquor had been destroyed, that he thought those orders would be found in his office and that Mr. Woodward was the man who could produce the orders.

When further questioned on this subject he said that "as far as he could recall no liquor was destroyed without an order." He admitted, however, that he had been told by the county detectives that a number of cases of liquor found in the residence of "Buff" Marson after his murder had been destroyed without an order. There was no record in the prosecutor's office of the destruction of this liquor. Two of the prosecutor's detectives, who testified at private hearing, stated that it had been taken from the residence of Buff Marson to a garbage dump and destroyed. One of them, however, said that the dump was located in Red Bank, while the other said that it was at West Long Branch, although each stated that he had been present when the destruction occurred. The testimony of neither of them on this point was convincing.

Mr. Woodward, when called to produce all orders for the destruction of liquor, brought but one order before the committee, which was dated February 26, 1931. When asked where the other orders were he stated that some were in the jackets (meaning, we suppose, the files of the prosecutor's office), but that he could not find them and that the committee would have to wait until he went through the files. He was summoned a week later and was asked if he had found any orders for the destruction of liquor and replied that he had not.

He was specifically asked what had become of a considerable quantity of liquor seized at Ray Sanborn's place and his answer was: "I could not tell you, probably placed in the warehouse, it might have been destroyed on a later list." When asked where the order for destruction was, he said: "I can't place my hands on it just this minute. It is probably around somewhere." He admitted that it should be in the safe and that it was not there.

The prosecutor was questioned about a truck that was seized by a State police officer with a load of unlabeled beer in May, 1930. One Harry Meyer was driving the truck at the time of the seizure. A note on the record of this case in the prosecutor's office is as follows: "Truck and beer returned to the defendant." The truck and beer when seized were placed in the custody of the prosecutor's department. The truck was later released pursuant to law upon the giving of a bond to the officer who seized it conditioned for its return if a forfeiture should be adjudged. A receipt by Meyer made out to a prosecutor's detective showing the receipt of the key for the truck was produced.

The prosecutor was unable to say whether the beer was returned at the time the truck was delivered to Meyer, although that would be indicated by the notation in his records. He was also unable to say whether the beer was legal or illegal beer. He stated that his practice in such a case would be to have the beer analyzed; that if it had been analyzed he presumed the record of the analysis would appear in his files. Since no such record appeared he assumed that the beer had not been analyzed. He said he did not recall that particular transaction and admitted that there could be no justification for returning the beer unless upon analysis it had appeared to be legal beer, but that he could tell the committee nothing about what had happened until he had talked with some members of his force.

This case is mentioned as illustrating the difficulty in securing definite information from the prosecutor or any member of his staff. The records are insufficient, and the prosecutor professed to have very little definite recollection about many important matters connected with his office, but many times expressed his assumption that everything was all right, although he could suggest no way in which definite proof of the actual facts could be secured.

The records in the prosecutor's office, in so far as they were examined, disclose other apparent irregularities.

In the case of State v. Skinny Wilson, an indictment was presented for illegal sale of liquor at the December Term 1930. The record in the prosecutor's office shows that the defendant pleaded not guilty in September, 1931. That record further shows that he retracted his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty on October 2, 1931, and the matter was set down for sentence on October 9, 1931, on which day he was permitted to retract his plea of guilty and the indictment was nolle prossed for lack of evidence. It is possible that some explanation may exist as to this matter, but the committee was unable to obtain it.

In the case of Carlo Mazza an indictment was found on July 9, 1931. The prosecutor's records state that this indictment was nolle prosssed on February 3, 1932, although a competent lawyer, who was engaged to investigate the prosecutor's records for this committee, could find no record in the Quarter Sessions' minutes of any motion to nolle pros.

In the case of State v. Barbara Cardone, indictment for prostitution on October 22, 1931, the prosecutor's records show that the indictment was nolle prossed on April 4, 1932, although the Committee's investigator could find no record in the Quarter Sessions' minutes of any motion to nolle pros.

In the case of State v. Arthur T. Keefe, indictment in September, 1930, for false pretenses, the prosecutor's records show that the indictment was nolle prossed on July 24, 1931. The committee's investigator was not able to find any record of a motion to nolle pros in the Quarter Sessions' minutes.

In the case of State v. Sam Morgan, on an indictment for illegal sale and possession of liquor at the April Term, 1932, the prosecutor's records contain this entry: "Nolle prossed. 7/26/32, liquor only 8%, weak case." The return of the search warrant shows that 11 barrels of mash and two 10-gallon kegs partly filled with corn liquor were seized. There was a report of an analysis in the prosecutor's files in this case showing that the liquor seized contained approximately 8 per cent of alcohol. The prosecutor was entirely unable to explain why this indictment had been nolle prossed.

In the case of State v. Nello Piazza an indictment for illegal sale of liquor was presented in the April Term, 1930. A plea of guilty was entered and the case set down for sentence for June 10, 1931. No entry appears in the Quarter Sessions' minutes with reference to this case on the date last mentioned. The records in the prosecutor's office show that the indictment was nolle prossed on June 26, 1931, the words: "wrong defendant" appearing in parentheses. The committee was unable to secure any explanation of his case from the prosecutor.

The matters mentioned under this heading all appear to be irregularities which may or may not be of a serious nature. The prosecutor denied that any indictments had ever been marked "nolle prossed" in his records unless the court had granted a motion to nolle pros. If this is the fact, however, it is indeed strange that no record of such motions appears in the Quarter Sessions' minutes.

The committee endeavored to secure from the prosecutor an explanation of why the plea of guilty was withdrawn in the Wilson case and the indictment subsequently nolle prossed, but was unable to secure any explanation. The prosecutor was unable or unwilling to explain why the above mentioned indictment against Morgan was nolle prossed apparently on the ground that the liquor contained only 8 per cent. of alcohol.

Notwithstanding the fact that the committee has expended its best efforts to thoroughly investigate the work and methods of the prosecutor and his staff, it has been entirely unable to verify and establish many reports which have come to it of serious misconduct. As has above been stated, most of the witnesses who appeared before the committee were unwilling witnesses. Many of the witnesses who appeared at private hearing denied all knowledge of facts which the committee believes were within their knowledge. The committee is convinced that fear of reprisals through the exercise of the power reposed in the prosecutor was a very effective obstruction to the work of the committee. It is the belief of the committee that if Mr. Tumen were replaced by an honest, fearless and able prosecutor such prosecutor would be able to discover and establish many offenses of which the committee has been able to secure no proof.

During the course of its investigation, the committee was informed that its process server had been followed while serving subpœnas. Mr. Meade, the manager of the detective agency employed by the prosecutor, admitted that this was done by his direction, although he disclaimed any knowledge of the fact that the man, who was being followed, was working for this committee. We cannot accept this disclaimer and we attribute the refusal of some witnesses when subpœnaed to repeat under oath, the stories which they had told to others, to efforts made by or in behalf of the prosecutor to silence such witnesses. The prosecutor testified that he had no part in any efforts which were made along this line and we have no direct evidence that his statement was false.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE

Paragraph 11 of Article V of our Constitution provides as follows:

> "The Governor and all other civil officers under this State shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office during their continuance in office and for two years thereafter."

The term "misdemeanor in office" as used in the above recited provision of the Constitution is not restricted to an indictable offense, but includes neglect of duty, and misconduct or misbehavior in office of a character which demonstrates unfitness for the office in question. (See: State v. Jefferson (Ct. of E. & A.), 90 N. J. L. 507, and McCran v. Gaul (Ct. of E. & A.), 96 N. J. L. 165.)

In the case last cited Justice KALISCH said:

> "The words 'misdemeanor in office' as used in the Constitution, must be given its general meaning and not a technical, legal meaning. In the sense in which it is used in the Constitution, it includes neglect of duty or misconduct or misbehavior in office, regardless of the fact whether or not such neglect of duty or misconduct or misbehavior amounts to an indictable offense. * * * The framers of the Constitution clearly intended through the court of impeachment to protect the public against incompetent, neglectful and dishonest officials. This could only be effectually accomplished by removal of the official found guilty and to disqualify him from holding office hereafter."

While the language above quoted forms a part of Justice KALISCH's dissenting opinion, it is not inconsistent with the prevailing opinion and is, we believe, expressive of the law of this State.

The view above expressed with regard to the nature of an impeachable offense is supported by numerous impeachment cases throughout the country, among which may be mentioned the impeachment in this State of Patrick W. Connelly, a justice of the peace (1895), the impeachment of Judge Archbald before the United States Senate (1912), of Judge Hubbell (Wisconsin, 1853), of Judge Hardy (California, 1862), of Judge Jones (North Carolina, 1871) and of Governor Sulzer of New York (1913). It is also supported by learned commentators on the law of impeachment, including John Randolph Tucker in his Commentaries on the Constitution, Judge Cooley in his Principles of Constitutional Law, George Ticknor Curtis in his History of the Federal Constitution (Vol. 1, p. 481) and Watson in his work on the Constitution (Vol. 2, p. 1034).

In the opinion of this committee, Jonas Tumen has been guilty of misdemeanor in office. He has delayed for over four years the trial of Thomas Calandriello on an indictment for robbery, notwithstanding the fact that at the time the indictment was found, he had evidence which, in his judgment, was sufficient to convict and there was no reason why the trial should not have occurred promptly.

Through his gross negligence or through his connivance with the counsel for the defendants, he has permitted the release from jail of four dangerous criminals who came into this State with a loaded revolver for the purpose of committing a robbery, this release being accomplished through the medium of obtaining a reconsideration of an indictment previously voted and presenting evidence to the Grand Jury suggested by the counsel of these criminals including the testimony of such counsel and suppressing material and important evidence on the part of the State.

He has permitted his office to be so conducted that no account has been kept by his subordinates of moneys received by them belonging to the county, so that at this time it is very difficult if not impossible to determine whether or not such moneys have been embezzled.

He has failed to enforce the laws prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors and gambling and by his inaction, or worse, has permitted the growth and development of a system under which violators of the law have paid for and secured protection for their unlawful business. Without specifying further his various offenses of omission and commission as disclosed by the testimony we are convinced that he merits impeachment.

The time which will elapse, however, between the date of the submission of this report and the end of this legislative session is so short and the evidence in the case is so voluminous that it will be absolutely impossible to conduct an impeachment trial before the end of the present legislative session. The term of Mr. Tumen will expire on April 1st next, and while this fact alone would not prevent this committee from recommending that he be impeached if sufficient time were available for a trial, it is reassuring to know that he cannot continue in office beyond the date last named.

Furthermore, the Justice of the Supreme Court holding the Circuit in Monmouth county, if, in his opinion, the situation in that county is such that the criminal business of the State should not remain in the charge of Jonas Tumen until the expiration of his term, has the power under Chapter 184 of the Session Laws of 1911, as amended by Chapter 1 of the Session Laws of 1922, to request the Attorney General to attend personally in that county or to designate an assistant or assistants for the purpose of prosecuting the criminal business of the State therein. This is the practice which has heretofore been followed in this State, where Prosecutors of the Pleas have been false to the trust reposed in them.

Your committee recommends that a resolution be adopted, directing the Clerk of this House to transmit a copy of this report to the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Court who may be holding the Monmouth County Circuit, to the end that he may have an opportunity to consider the same and take any action with regard to the prosecution of criminal offenses in Monmouth county which may seem to be advisable and that such justice be advised that a transcript of the testimony taken before this committee will be forwarded to him by the chairman of this committee if he so desires.

Respectfully submitted,

W. STANLEY NAUGHRIGHT,
Chairman,

ERWIN S. CUNARD,

Mr. Naughright offered the following resolution, which was read by the clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the Clerk of this House do transmit a copy of the report this day made by the Special Committee appointed by resolution of the General Assembly to inquire into alleged corrupt conduct, crimes and misdemeanors of civil officers of this State to the Honorable Justice of the Supreme Court holding the Monmouth County Circuit, to the end that he may have an opportunity to consider the same and take any action with regard to the prosecution of criminal offenses in Monmouth county which may seem to be advisable, and that he be advised that a transcript of the testimony taken before the said committee will be forwarded to him by the chairman of the committee if he so desires.

Mr. Naughright offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Mr. Speaker:

Which motion was adopted.

REPORT PREPARED AND SUBMITTED BY THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT PLAN COMMISSION

December 17, 1934.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

Pursuant to the direction of the Commission created by Chapter 252, Laws of 1933 (and Legislative amendment, approved June 11, 1934, Chapter 190, Laws of 1934) being an act to create a local government plan commission and provide for subordinate county commissions, to study the question of the consolidation of local governments, assemble pertinent data, set up tentative standards, formulate a program and present proposals and recommendations to any regular or special session of the Legislature in 1934 or 1935, I herewith transmit to your honorable bodies the report of the said Commission.

Very truly yours,

THOMAS N. MCCARTER,
Chairman,
Local Government Plan Commission.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

On the 21st day of June, 1933, an act of the Legislature was approved which is known as Chapter 252 of the Laws of 1933 and which is herewith subjoined:

"An act to create a local government plan commission and provide for subordinate county commissions, to study the question of the consolidation of local governments, assemble pertinent data, set up tentative standards, formulate a program and present proposals and recommendations to the next succeeding regular session of the Legislature.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

"1. There is hereby created a local government plan commission to study the question of the consolidation and changes in the form and functions of local governments including school districts which modern economic and social conditions require, to assemble pertinent data and information relating thereto, to set up tentative minimum standards as to form, resources and population which should govern in the establishment or continuance of separate local governments, with a view to encouraging logical consolidation, the elimination of duplication of authority, the reduction in the cost of local government, the more effective control of budgets and expenditures, and to consider other problems relating to the cost, the form and the functions of local governments in the State. The said commission shall report its findings and recommendations to the next regular session of the Legislature. The local government plan commission as herein provided shall consist of one citizen of the State to be appointed by the Governor, one Senator to be appointed by the President of the Senate and one member of the General Assembly to be appointed by the Speaker of the House.

"2. The said commission shall organize by the selection of a chairman and secretary and is authorized to obtain from the Attorney-General such legal assistance as may be necessary.

"3. The said commission shall name a local government plan commission in each county of the State to consist of three citizens of the county. On the naming of any county commission it shall organize by the selection of a chairman and secretary. Under the plans established by the State commission each county commission shall study the question of the consolidation of local governments within the county, assemble pertinent data and information relating thereto, conduct hearings and meetings as it may deem desirable, dispense correct information respecting local government consolidation and formulate proposed plans for the consolidation of local governments within the county. Each county commission shall make a report to the State commission not later than January fifteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four.

"4. The local government plan commission provided in this resolution may call upon any other officers and employees of the State or local governments for reasonable aid and assistance in carrying out the purposes defined in this resolution. The commission may incur nominal expenses for stationery and office supplies, and necessary travel within the State of members of the commission or other State officers or employees performing duties therefor, whose expenses are not otherwise provided for, out of any moneys as may be provided by the State House Commission from the emergency fund or any moneys at its disposal. No salaries shall be paid to any member of the State or any county commission or to any State or municipal officer or employee performing duties for the State or any county commission created under this resolution.

"5. This act shall take effect immediately."

Pursuant to section 1 of this act, the Governor appointed Thomas N. McCarter; the President of the Senate appointed the Honorable A. Crozer Reeves, Senator from Mercer county; the Speaker of the General Assembly appointed the Honorable W. Stanley Naughright—these gentlemen together constituting the State Commission provided for in the act, which was organized on October 17, 1933, by the selection of Mr. McCarter as chairman; Mr. Naughright as secretary, and Mr. Ralph Newton as assistant secretary. Shortly thereafter the State Commission communicated with the members of the State Senate, asking for suggestions from them for appointments to the respective county commissions required by the act. Upon receiving advices from the members of the Senate, and giving due consideration to the subject, the county commissions were completed and appointed as follows:

On January 12, 1934, pursuant to the call of the State commission, there was a joint meeting of the State commission and the county commissions in the Assembly Chamber in the State House at Trenton. Upon this occasion the chairman of the State commission addressed the county commissions as follows:

We are assembled under authority of Chapter 252 of the Laws of 1933, entited "An act to create a local government plan commission and provide for subordinate county commissions, to study the question of the consolidation of local governments, assemble pertinent data, set up tentative standards, formulate a program and present proposals and recommendations to the next succeeding regular sessions of the Legislature."

By virtue of the provisions of this act, a State Local Government Plan Commission consisting of the Honorable A. Crozer Reeves, Senator from Mercer county; the Honorable W. Stanley Naughright, Member of the House of Assembly from Essex county, and Majority Leader thereof; and myself, has been created, and this State commission pursuant to section 3 of said act has appointed a Local Government Plan Commission in each county of the State, consisting of three citizens of each respective county. With the exception of a few individuals, the appointees thus chosen to the county commissions have accepted, and we are gathered here today to take common counsel and to begin seriously the work that is before us.

The first duty of the county commissions will be to organize by the selection of a chairman and secretary, and to notify the secretary of the State commission of such organization. One or more of the counties have already done this, and it is my hope that the remaining counties will so organize in the immediate future. It should be borne in mind in this connection that all our work except perhaps for certain nominal and traveling expenses is to be the performance of a civic duty without remuneration.

The act as drawn contemplated that the respective county commissions should report to the State commission on or before the fifteenth day of January, 1934, and that thereafter the State commission should make its report to the present Legislature at its regular session. As the State commission was not organized until the seventeenth day of October, 1933, and as all of the members of the State commission were intensely occupied with other State duties, I promptly pointed out to the Governor that compliance with these dates was out of the question, but that if the Legislature followed the practice of the last few years and recessed from time to time throughout the calendar year of 1934 an effort would be made to complete the work of the commission in time to report to one of these recessed sessions; otherwise the report would have to go over to the 1935 session, and that if this were not considered satisfactory I personally would have to retire from the commission. To this the Governor replied that he recognized the situation and advised the commission to take whatever time was reasonably necessary to do its work properly. Printed copies of the act under which we are all appointed are available here today and will be distributed to all who seek them.

The use of superlative or emphatic language in regard to any undertaking, generally speaking, is not helpful. With a full realization of this, however, I have no hesitation in saying that the work before us is of stupendous importance to the people of the State. The financial situation which confronts the governmental agencies of New Jersey is appalling. The State's system of taxation has completely broken down. A considerable number of municipalities have already defaulted in payment of their obligations, and there are few that are not seriously embarrassed.

Assessments and tax rates have been increased to the point of widespread confiscation of homes and property; longtime borrowings have been refunded; tax anticipation and other short-term loans have been renewed; tax monies have been spent before they are collected; municipalities have failed to pay to the county the tax monies due; and the counties have been compelled to default in payment to the State. Tax delinquencies now amount to more than the total levies for a year. On June 30th last 200 school districts were unable to pay their outstanding bills. Figures compiled last October showed that ninety municipalities were known to be in default either in current obligations or fixed charges; and thirty-five counties and municipalities were paying in scrip. Unless proper measures are promptly taken to correct this situation all along the line municipal insolvency, generally speaking, within this State is bound to occur. To my mind there are three main causes for this State of affairs:

1. The extravagance of the municipalities in money spending of one character or another during the last decade. For this period and more especially during the past three years, municipal governments have proceeded in exactly the same way as an individual who is spending more than he can pay, considering his resources and income, and who in addition is borrowing large sums whose payment must depend upon some unknown but unusual stroke of good fortune. The gross debt of counties and municipalities including school districts in 1932 exceeded $1,200,000,000. The statutory net debt was given at $418,000,000, but an inspection of the assets which are counted upon to reduce the gross debt to this net debt,—which assets are in part represented by delinquent taxes; overdue special assessments; tax titles; the statutory omission of certain obligations of seaside resorts; and obligations of publicly-owned utilities,—convinces me that these assets will never be realized on to any such extent as estimated, so that the net debt is far more likely to be two-thirds of the gross debt than it is one-third thereof. It is difficult to accurately estimate the actual cost of running all governmental functions in New Jersey for any one year. But in 1932 it was clearly in excess of $450,000,000, divided approximately as follows:

State	$120,000,000
Municipal	154,000,000
Schools	116,000,000
Total	$450,000,000

This extravagance will I think be found to run through nearly every form of governmental expenditure. Let me illustrate: It has recently been my privilege to serve as chairman of a commission appointed by the Governor to make a fact-finding survey with reference to an essential program of modern education for the State of New Jersey. Primarily that commission, by direction of the Governor, was not concerned with the depression except as its ravages made itself necessarily felt during the progress of the work. The exact sum the State of New Jersey is annually expending upon education depends upon how certain costs are calculated. The total amount expended during the peak school year of 1931-1932 however was a minimum of $116,000,000. In 1880 it was $1,873,000. In 1890, $3,340,000. In 1900, $6,609,000. In 1910, $7,065,000; and in 1920, $40,910,000.

I do not believe that the State of New Jersey through its various resources can continue to spend the vast sum of money that was spent in 1932 upon even so worthy an object as public education. It is perfectly certain that the progressive increases which have taken place in the past in the amount expended for this purpose cannot continue. The effort should be to substantially and permanently curtail it. And what is true of education may also be said of various other forms of expenditure by governmental agencies, as for example, road building. It is my personal opinion that in the dilemma that confronts the State new road building should practically cease for the time being until the finances of the State and municipalities have been put upon a sound basis and the money now being thus spent should be diverted not into other walks of extravagance but to relieve existing tax burdens.

2. The existence of an antiquated and poorly administered tax system, the evils of which have been clearly brought forth in the report of the Joint Committee on Taxation of the Senate and House of Assembly of the 1933 Legislature entitled "A Study of the Financial and Tax Problems of Municipal Governments in New Jersey." I cannot commend this report too highly for its research, temper and moderation and I recommend it to all of you for close study as a basis to help us in our work. I have also been much impressed by the publication in the Newark Sunday Call in its issue of January 7, 1934, of an article by Mr. Julius S. Rippel of Newark, in which he points out the futility of our local tax collection system under existing law as compared with the efficiency of Federal and State laws.

3. The third cause of the existing debacle is the excessive cost of the administering of local government under present-day conditions, and this is the subject with which this commission is particularly concerned.

As pointed out by Governor Moore in that part of his annual message for 1933 which dealt with the consolidation of local governments, New Jersey is a small state, consisting of a little more than 8,000 square miles of area, in which have been set up 584 separate local governments, 543 school districts, and approximately 150 special regional or local districts or governing bodies having some powers of local administration and of taxation and the issuance of bonds.

These municipalities vary in population from the city of Newark with approximately 450,000 to one borough that has 5 inhabitants; another 6, and another 20. There are 58 towns, villages, townships or boroughs that have less than 500 inhabitants each; 139 less than 1,000 each; 285 less than 2,000 each; and 425 less than 5,000 each. Some of these municipalities have many layers of governmental management imposed upon them and are in turn subject to different methods of taxation. In these days of modern improvements and facilities and rapid transportation it is impossible to defend this condition of affairs.

Again quoting the Governor, "If we want to find one of the chief causes of the high cost of local government we need look no further. Today it is either a luxury or a needless extravagance to maintain all of these little governments with their separate quota of officials and other administrative structures when they have neither the resources to provide the services which modern communities require nor the population or the geographic need for an independent government."

I do not minimize the obstacles with which we will have to contend in whatever plan of modification of this impossible situation we decide to recommend. I know the part that sentiment; insistence upon home rule; the "laissez faire" attitude of those who feel that everything should continue to be as it has been in the past; the inequalities of outstanding debt among municipalities; varying tax rates; the interests of local officials; and the lack of knowledge of the public generally of the necessity for action, will play in opposing drastic changes. That such opposition will manifest itself in the Legislature and on the part of some portions of the public should in no sense deter us from the full performance of our duty as we believe it to be. But as the work proceeds we should do our best to educate the public to the necessity for action.

The report of the Joint Committee on Taxation above referred to estimates that at least $35,000,000 could be saved annually to the taxpayers of the State by elimination of waste; the practice of real economy in operation; retrenchment as to spending; and the consolidation and reallocation of the functions of local and county gvernments.

Our work as I see it will be the thorough study of two main sources of improvement. First: the transfer of certain governmental functions now practised by all these municipalities to the State or county government, or both, or functional consolidation with other municipalities; and second, elimination altogether of municipalities by actual consolidation.

It is the thought of the State commission that the next logical step is for the various county commissions to prepare a complete statistical report of the municipalities within their respective counties, which should include the population; personnel of government (including police, fire and all other agencies); ratables; amount of debt; territorial area; and any other pertinent data. A questionnaire will be prepared by the State commission and forwarded to the county commissions as soon as they are organized. Much of this information now exists in one compilation or another, but it will immensely help the work of the State commission to have it all summarized in concise form, municipality by municipality, within each county. It is the desire of the State commission to have all this work in hand by the first of April. These reports should also contain any preliminary suggestions that the respective county commissions would like to present for the transfer of functions or consolidation of municipalities.

The field for recommendation is a large one. It ranges from the extreme of a continuance of what seems to me to be an intolerable situation, viz., the existence of 584 separate municipalities plus the present number of school districts and the existing special regional districts incorporated for special purposes with their present powers untouched on the one hand to the other extreme of a transfer of a considerable number of the functions now exercised by local municipalities to the State government; and the abolition of all of these smaller municipalities and the setting up in place thereof of one municipality, county-wide, twenty-one in all, exercising all the functions of local government remaining untransferred to the State. Between these two extremes will be found many zones of financial stability and safety for the set up of new municipalities, suited to modern conditions.

It does not necessarily follow that final recommendations should be uniform throughout the State. What may be beneficial for Hudson county may not be good for Hunterdon county. What might prove useful in Essex county might be abortive in Cape May county. We must, however, bear in mind the limitations of the State constitution upon the right to specially legislate with regard to the internal affairs of towns and counties. But this difficulty can, I think, be overcome by proper legal classification or by the principal of the referendum.

Such is an outline of the importance of our task. It is one of great magnitude, but it is not impossible of solution. I have had a long business experience in connection with the affairs of large corporations, and I state without fear of contradiction that no private corporation could hope to succeed under such conditions as have been herein described in connection with municipal government.

Much progress along the lines of our work has already been made in the States of Virginia and North Carolina, and the city of Cincinnati is an outstanding example of a modern municipality organized for efficiency. The same problem is under serious consideration in New York State and was dwelt on at length in the annual message of Governor Lehman.

A proper set up of organization is the first requisite. Let us do our best to evolve a plan or plans that will be in the true interests of all the people in the various sections of the State. This motive should be our only yardstick.

This joint meeting was also addressed by Senator Reeves and Assemblyman Naughright, the other members of the State commission.

Thereafter and on the 20th day of February, 1934, a 15-page questionnaire together with an 8-page pamphlet of instructions, seeking fundamental information that it would be essential for the county commissions and the State commission to have, were sent by the State commission to all the county commissions, with the request that these forms be forwarded to all the municipalities of the State, and that they be filled out and returned, if possible, by March 10, 1934.

It soon developed that the time provided in the act for the consideration of this important problem was entirely too short, and the Legislature provided by an amendment, approved June 11, 1934, Chapter 190, Laws of 1934, that the time for the county commissions to report to the State commission should be extended to not later than October 15, 1934; and that the State commission should report its findings to any regular or special session of the Legislature during the years 1934 or 1935; and at the same time appropriated the sum of $1,500.00, or so much thereof as might be necessary, to defray the actual expenses of the State and county commissions.

A radio broadcast entitled "Improving Local Government in New Jersey" on March 27, 1934, was sponsored by the Committee on Citizens' Councils for Constructive Economy of the National Municipal League, in co-operation with the Committee on Civil Education by Radio of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education and the American Political Science Association, in which the speakers were Governor Moore, Mr. McCarter as Chairman of the Local Government Plan Commission, and Dr. Charles P. Messick, Chairman, State Planning Board. Their talks on that occasion follow:

DR. MESSICK:

Many, and perhaps most, of the students of government have now come to the conclusion that a planless democracy cannot survive the social, political, and economic demands of this modern age. I share that view. An the conviction is growing among the citizens of New Jersey that in our highly industrial state we can no longer afford either the cost or the risk that is bound to attend a failure to establish a logical plan for our future development.

The financial embarrassment of our local governments today is due to the failure to plan financial and spending programs within our assured revenues. The growing volume of tax delinquencies is the result of our failure to discard an antiquated taxing system and to adopt a plan for public revenue responsive to the needs of present-day government, which will distribute the tax load over all of the wealth that is properly taxable and which will lay the tax upon the goods and services and property that can pay the levy. The high cost of local government and the low level of its effectiveness is very largely the result of our determination to maintain hundreds of little governments each with its separate structure, its full quota of officers and employees, and its administrative machinery and equipment.

These conditions are not peculiar to New Jersey. We have come to the point, however, where we acknowledge them, talk about them and seek a solution to the problems which they have brought.

Heretofore the State has played the role of the indulgent parent. It is now faced with the same problems that come to any parent who insists that nothing is too good for the children. These children of the parent State have talked a great deal about the fundamental right of each community to determine and order its own affairs. They have sought and obtained freedom to do the things that they desired to do without any effective restraint. During the past twenty years they have returned to the State again and again, as organized minorities, urging that restrictive laws be made more elastic. They have seldom been denied and local governments from the smallest village to the largest city have exercised the widest discretion in entering upon ambitious public projects, in spending public revenue, and in pledging community credit against installment buying so unwise and so extensive as to violate every principle of sound business or government. The real test of the right to spend has been determined by the capacity of the market for municipal paper and the limit to the taxing power has been the ability to collect the levies imposed. During the past year local governments have faced a crisis and the children have returned once more asking and demanding further relief. This time, however, the State is making the imposition of discipline and restraint a condition for further relief.

Governor Moore had long service in city government before coming to the Governor's office. He knows its problems. He has pointed the way for local governments by savings and economics in State administration during the past two years. He will discuss the problems of local governments in New Jersey from the viewpoint of the State, outline the steps taken and the measures pending for improving their position. I have the honor to present the Governor of New Jersey.

GOVERNOR MOORE:

New Jersey has been indulgent in dealing with its local governments. Looking back over a long period we can see now that in following the liberal policy which we adopted we were bound to run into rough weather in charting our course through this devastating financial storm. But to talk about the mistakes of the past is merely to say again that hindsight is better than foresight.

We acknowledge that we have lived beyond our means. We know now that we have been liberal when we should have been conservative, that we have borrowed when we should have paid, and spent when we should have saved. Our citizens are concerned about the financial situation of their local governments. Our municipal obligations are heavy, but they will be met and discharged. The road back to sound credit is still open and we are retracing our steps along that highway.

We recognize, too, that the cost of local government in New Jersey is high. We have schools, institutions, modern streets and highways, water supplies and sewage disposal systems equal to the best. We have spent great sums of money for these public works and for the services of government because we have needed and wanted them. We have indulged in some luxuries of government.

We must remember, however, that New Jersey is more than a bedroom for New York City. It is a place of a million homes where four million people live and work. Although it is forty-fifth in area it stands ninth in population and sixth in the annual value of its products. Its shores and hills are the playgrounds of millions. It is the great storehouse and workshop of this metropolitan area. It is the vital link in the great highway of commerce and trade of the nation.

I am not disposed to defend the volume of our past spending or to undertake to create a sense of false security. I want the people of my State to face the hard facts, but it may encourage us to look at the record.

We have talked a great deal about our municipal debt, the volume of our taxes overdue, and our defaulting municipalities. New Jersey's municipal debt is one billion two hundred million dollars gross. It is difficult to calculate the true net debt because of the security values and the cash that can actually be realized from the tax and assessment obligations overdue, but it is probable that the net debt is about seven hundred million dollars. Ninety-eight local governments out of some twelve hundred and fifty are in default. Thirty-eight local governments, mostly included in these ninety-eight, are using baby bonds, tax anticipation notes, or scrip, in the partial payment of current obligations. The average tax collection for the three years past has been about seventy-five per cent of the levy.

These are disquieting figures but when we consider that our net municipal debt is four per cent. of the State's wealth, that the combined municipal obligations in default, except amounts due each other and the State, are less than two per cent. of the gross debt, that the scrip in use is about six millions only, and that our tax collections compare pretty well with the average for the country, we can see that the payment of all of our obligations is not impossible.

Our plan for improving the financial position and administration of local governments falls into two major parts. The first part is accomplished. The second part, in process.

The first step was stopping increasing costs and putting into practice thorough-going economy. During the past two years I have undertaken to set an example in the operation of the State government. Capital expenditures of the State, not including unemployment relief, have been reduced by seventy-eight per cent., payrolls by twenty per cent., and the whole cost of operating the State government in 1933 was twenty-five per cent. under that of 1931.

The next step, taken a year ago, was the suspension of a long list of so-called mandatory laws which fixed a great many of the expenditures of local governments and dedicated a large part of incoming revenues to specific uses. By this action the authority and responsibility for controlling local expenditures were restored to the local governing bodies.

The third step increased State subventions to local government and reduced direct taxes. In nineteen hundred and thirty-one the total State subventions to municipalities totaled thirty-six million dollars and the direct State tax was twenty-five million, seven hundred thousand dollars. In 1933 State subventions were sixty millions and the State tax was nineteen millions. In addition to this a seven-million-dollar fund to pay teachers' salaries and other overdue claims against school districts has been provided. In 1931 local governments paid ninety-one per cent. of the funds spent for public relief. In 1933 local governments paid thirteen per cent.

The second phase of our program for the relief of local governments is yet to be realized. It involves five major steps:

First: The establishment of a thorough-going budgeting procedure;

Second: Provision for the funding of floating debt and temporary financial paper, and the refunding over a period of years of a part of the principal of municipal bonds due or coming due at an early date.

Third: The limiting of local budgets, local expenditures, and local tax levies for current administrative costs.

Fourth: The establishment of a State department of local finance with broad powers to regulate the financial operations of local governments; and Fifth: Tax relief upon real property.

This program, I consider both necessary and adequate. Economies and more careful spending will not only be encouraged—they will be required. Improved budget procedure will strengthen the cash position of municipalities and require them to operate in accordance with sound principles of economy and business. The revision of our bonding laws, to permit the funding of short term paper and the refunding, for the next few years, of portions of bond issues as they come due, will improve the credit of local governments and provide the extension of time for the payment of debts due and soon to be due that is now necessary. It will also strengthen this new financial paper by requiring that certain revenues shall be pledged and set aside for the payment of these and other outstanding obligations. It will place restriction upon temporary financing and provide a more complete regulation of the whole debt problem.

The most significant part of this program is the change in the relations between the State and the local governments. The creation of a State department of local finance marks the end of the interpretation of the principle of home rule as complete freedom from State regulation.

Tax relief through less spending rather than new taxes is the end we are striving for. I have recommended discontinuance of highway construction for three years and the use of motor vehicle and fuel tax revenues for the support of schools. I have urged a sales tax for the same period for the further aid of local governments. I have laid down the hard and fast condition that these new local revenues shall be used in substitution for present taxes and not for new spending.

Time will not permit me to develop further our program for improving local government in New Jersey, but I want to sound one note of warning against the growing movement of local governments to go directly to the federal government seeking funds for relief, for public works, as direct loans, for current operations and for almost every other kind of expenditure. I note that this movement has been urged and encouraged by municipal organizations. I favor full federal authority in matters affecting national and interstate affairs. I insist that the State shall remain sovereign in its own domain and over its own subordinate divisions. The State must see to it that essential government and necessary relief shall be assured, but the State and not the local government must be the agency which deals with the federal government.

New Jersey citizens see their problems; they are determined to work their way back to the high financial position they held in former days. They will do this by the practice of the simple virtues of thrift and prudence, through self-denial, and in better standards of public service.

DR. MESSICK:

Thank you, Governor Moore.

When the State has a difficult job to be done by a committee of its citizens, it has the habit of calling upon the next speaker. During the past year Mr. McCarter has served as the chairman of the school survey commission, chairman of the committee to prepare a legislative plan for liquor control, and he is now chairman of the local government plan commission.

I am pleased to present Mr. Thomas N. McCarter, President of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

MR. MCCARTER:

I congratulate Governor Moore on his clear statement of the problems involved in the improvement of our local governments. I agree with him that New Jersey municipalities can and will meet their financial obligations. But the time for soft counsel has passed. The time for authority and action has come.

If I may carry Dr. Messick's simile of the parent and the children a little further, I should say that the situation in our government household has sometime since reached a crisis. Our local governments have been careless children. They have played long and loud upon the home rule harp. They have used every method that ingenuity could devise to do as they pleased. Now, having spent their patrimony, they return to the State with excuses, demands for further financial assistance, and new sources of revenue. More than that, as the Governor has just pointed out, they seek to go directly to the federal government for funds for new public works and to carry current costs.

I accepted the Governor's appointment as chairman of the local government plan commission because I have a vital interest in the welfare of my State, as a citizen and as a business man. The task he has set for me is of tremendous importance.

I am not an alarmist, but I am going to speak plainly. No private business could operate under the conditions that have prevailed in local governments, not only in New Jersey, but in practically every State of the Union. Our taxing system has broken down, a number of municipalities are in default, many more are seriously embarrassed. Assessment and tax rates have been increased to the point of confiscation of homes and property. Long-time borrowings have been refunded, tax anticipation and other short-time loans have been renewed, tax moneys have been spent before they have been collected, municipalities have failed to pay the county the tax moneys due and counties in turn have failed to meet their obligations to the State. Unless the program which Governor Moore has outlined, together with a thorough-going consolidation of local governments, is accepted and sternly administered, we cannot expect to improve out municipal position nor relieve the burdens of the taxpayers. The way is being provided, the success or failure of the State's program will depend upon the people themselves.

The rising costs of administration have far outrun the increase in the State's resources and population. Last year the State spent for State purposes about seventy-two millions. The best figures I can get fix the cost of local government including school districts at well on to four hundred millions.

New Jersey spends more relatively on municipal government than New York City. In my work with the school survey commission I found that New Jersey spent for public education in 1931-1932, one hundred and sixteen million dollars. This is almost forty times what we spent forty years ago, sixteen times what we spent twenty-five years ago, and almost three times what we spent in nineteen hundred and twenty. The increased expenditures in other public undertakings are comparable. Government has no function more important than public education, but it must be evident that we cannot continue to spend in this proportion upon even so worthy an object. We must find a way to reduce the cost of all functions of local government.

Every State in the Union is wrestling with the problem of how to reduce the number of local governments and how to get sufficient government at a cost that the people can afford. Our own problem is most difficult and complicated. New Jersey has an area of eighty-two hundred square miles including marshland, water, and the thinly populated pine areas. It has five hundred and eighty-six local governments, five hundred and forty-three school districts, and one hundred and fifty other district governments. One borough has five inhabitants, another six, another fourteen, another twenty. Fifty-eight have less than five hundred each, one hundred and thirty-eight have less than one thousand each, two hundred and eighty-five have less than two thousand each, and four hundred and twenty-five have less than five thousand inhabitants each. One-third of the population of the State is in six cities and three-fifths of the population of the State is in the five northeastern counties comprising nine per cent of the area of the State. In this small area there are about three hundred and fifty independent governments.

I appreciate the obstacles which are bound to develop in any plan of consolidation of local governments. Scores of similar efforts in New Jersey and in other States have failed or accomplished relatively little. I recognize the part that tradition, sentiment, our popular notions of home rule, the inequalities of outstanding debt, varying tax rates, interests of local officials, and the lack of correct knowledge of the possible results of consolidation, will play in this movement. I am hopeful that the need for tax relief and the spirit of an aroused and interested citizenship which is now manifesting itself will make possible this wholesome and sensible reform.

A great part of our difficulties in the past four years are the results of our failure, as a people, to shape our economic, political, and business affairs in an intelligent way. If we are to avoid recurring repetitions of this debacle, we can no longer permit the dead hand of the past to prevent us from organizing our governments to meet the demands of this new day.

Desirable and possible consolidations are of two kinds: First, those that involve the consolidation of functions, that is, where activities and powers are transferred from one government to another without the abolition of any government; and second, those that involve the consolidation of territory. These two kinds of consolidations in turn fall into two classes: those where the need is pressing, either for reasons of economy or better administration and where early action can be taken, and those where the need may be equally pressing but where difficult and complicated problems compel delay.

I recognize that the best prospects for early success lie in the consolidation and reallocation of functions. Among these are the transfer of all judicial functions, including probation and parole, performed directly or indirectly through any local government, together with the costs of administration to the State governments; the transfer of most county and city custodial and treatment institutions to the State; the transfer of the administration and costs of county highway systems to the State and of all township, borough, and other roads and highways, except those in cities of considerable population, to the county. Police functions, fire protection, health service, and education, except in large cities, should be organized on a county basis. Water supply, sewage disposal, flood control, and park systems, if not organized on a county basis, should be matters of regional concern.

The difficulties involved must not discourage or prevent territorial consolidation. Hudson county, for example, or at least that part of it east of the Hackensack river, should be one great city; Essex county should either be one municipality or not to exceed three at the most, and townships, villages, and other little governments, relics of a past age, should be merged into the county unit.

I am satisfied that if we can reorganize our local governments to serve our present needs, we can not only pay our municipal debts as they are due but tax burdens will be lightened, our financial difficulties will disappear, and municipal credit will be restored. The people of New Jersey must not continue to be smothered under five, six, or nine layers of government. There should be such a consolidation as will insure one local governing body for a given area, with sole responsibility to vote budgets, levy taxes, pledge public credit, and direct community affairs.

DR. MESSICK:

Thank you, Mr. McCarter.

The New Jersey program for improving the conditions of local governments aims at relief through less spending and better buying with the tax dollar. The constantly growing cost of government has been stopped and the curve is definitely downward. Local governing bodies are again responsible for expenditures for current administration. The State is eliminating direct taxes and increasing its financial assistance.

The executive and legislative program includes modern budget procedure, funding and refunding of parts of the municipal debt, budget, expenditure, and tax limits, a State department of local finance, and tax relief upon real property. It is hoped that extensive consolidations of local governments will provide the background for the effective application of these measures. This is a conservative program for a conservative State, but it holds the pattern for renewed financial confidence and better public service.

Every effort was made by the State commission to receive full reports from the county commissions not later than October 15th last. And similarly efforts were made by the respective county commissions to obtain answers to the questionnaires from the municipalities of the State.

Thirty-eight municipalities out of a total of 584 separate local governments have filled out and sent in questionnaires. They are herewith enumerated by counties:

Cumberland County—Commercial Township, Deerfield Township, Township of Downe, Lawrence Township, Borough of Shiloh, Stoe Creek Township, Upper Deerfield Township.

Hudson County—Township of Secaucus.

Hunterdon County—Town of Clinton, Township of Clinton, Franklin Township, Borough of Glen Gardner, Borough of Milford, Township of Readington.

Essex County—Township of Caldwell, City of East Orange, Borough of Essex Fells, Borough of Glen Ridge, Township of Maplewood, Town of Montclair, City of Newark, Borough of North Caldwell, Town of Nutley, Village of South Orange, County of Essex.

Middlesex County—East Brunswick Township, Borough of Helmetta, Borough of Middlesex, Borough of Milltown, City of New Brunswick, City of South Amboy, Borough of South Plainfield

Morris County—Denville Township, Township of Mendham, Borough of Mountain Lakes, Township of Passaic, Borough of Rockaway, Parsippany-Troy Hills Township

The remaining municipalities have failed to make any response.

Up to the date of this report only five (5) County Commissions have submitted their reports to the State Commission:

Camden County Local Government Plan Commission. Essex County Local Government Plan Commission. Hudson County Local Government Plan Commission. Middlesex County Local Government Plan Commission. Passaic County Local Government Plan Commission.
Which reports are annexed to this report and made a part hereof.

Due to the difficulties with which the County Commissions have been beset in the performance of their duties, involving a lack of co-operation on the part of the municipalities, and a lack of funds with which to make the investigations themselves, these reports are of a fragmentary and unsatisfactory nature, for which however the County Commissions are in no wise to blame.

The State Commission has reluctantly come to the conclusion that there is no public sentiment behind this undertaking; that despite the obvious and beneficial results that would flow from co-operative municipal consolidation into a fewer units, public sentiment has not crystallized in favor thereof. As Abraham Lincoln said many years ago. "With public sentiment nothing can fail, without it nothing can succeed."

In many cases there is a pronounced objection to any consideration of the subject by officials of municipalities and the electorate therein, and the matter has become involved in politics. The State Commission is satisfied that little can ever be accomplished if, because of political expediency or other reasons, the matter of consolidation must be favorably acted on through a plebiscite of each particular existing municipality involved. And that the only way in which substantial progress could be made would be either through direct action by the Legislature as the sovereign law making power of the State, or through a plebiscite of the voting population of the entire territory sought to be consolidated, as was the plan adopted in the consolidation of the different municipalities forming the Greater City of New York. Neither the State Commission nor the County Commissions have been provided with necessary funds with which to make on their own account a comprehensive investigation of the whole subject. The State Commission therefor recommends to the Legislature one or two courses in reference to this whole subject.

1. That the matter be indefinitely postponed, or

2. That the Legislature appropriate a sum of money not less than $100,000.00 and employ The School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton University, or some other properly equipped unit, with adequate specialized assistance, to collect the facts, study the whole subject with thoroughness, even if to properly complete the study requires more than one year, and thereafter make report of its findings and recommendations to the Legislature. This should be followed by a thorough-going campaign of publicity to bring to the attention of the public affected the advantages and economies that would undoubtedly accrue to the people of the State and the respective communities thereof. Bricks cannot be made without straw, and a task of this magnitude cannot be carried out without proper financial resources. The work is of too great magnitude and fraught with a consideration of too much detail to be successfully carried out by a commission of citizens, who have other responsibilities, and who, lacking such an appropriation as is recommended, would have to approach the subject without the necessary financial support.

The State Commission records with sorrow the passing of its efficient Assistant Secretary, Ralph Newton, who was killed in an automobile accident on November 2nd last. Throughout the life of the Commission he had rendered painstaking and helpful assistance to it.

The State Commission also desires to record its appreciation of the untiring assistance rendered by Dr. Charles P. Messick, Chairman of the State Planning Board; of the work of the County Commissions, and of the labor of municipal officials who made returns of the questionnaire to the extent indicated in the report.

Respectfully submitted,

A CROZER REEVES,
W. STANLEY NAUGHRIGHT,
THOMAS N. MCCARTER,
