INTRODUCTION

This 2017 statistical report, prepared by the New Jersey Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC), provides Judiciary statistics compiled on domestic violence matters brought before the New Jersey courts pursuant to the Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17 et seq. (PDVA).

This report presents data, covering the period from January 1, 2017 through December 31, 2017, regarding domestic violence filings, dispositions of restraining orders, and forms of relief sought and granted. It also includes data on non-indictable contempt charges, which are processed in Family Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:29-9(b). As set forth in detail in this report, in 2017, the number of Domestic Violence filings decreased by 3% (1038 filings) as compared to 2016.

Prevention of Domestic Violence Act of 1991

New Jersey's PDVA is one of the strongest laws in the nation addressing domestic violence. The PDVA provides the following:

- Domestic violence definitions, including the nineteen offenses from which a person is protected under this act.
- Domestic violence training requirements for judges, law enforcement and court staff.
- Guidance to law enforcement regarding the following:
 - The arrest of the alleged attacker,
 - the seizure of weapons, and
 - the filing of a criminal charge or a civil temporary restraining order (TRO).
- Requirements and process if a criminal domestic violence charge is filed against the defendant, including sentencing conditions if found guilty.
- Requirements and process for filing a civil complaint alleging domestic violence in the Superior Court, Family Part.
- Penalties or fees to be assessed against the defendant.
- Details the contempt process that is applied when a defendant has violated a court order.
- Defines the confidentiality of domestic violence records.
- Requires New Jersey to maintain a central registry of all persons who have a domestic violence restraining order entered against them.

Statutory Amendments

Effective December 5, 2016, the PDVA was amended to add an additional offense, also known as a "predicate act". The new added predicate act is:

- Cyber-harassment, N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4.1

Cyber-harassment can be defined as repeated, unsolicited, threatening behavior by a person or group using mobile or Internet technology with the intent to bother, terrify, intimidate, humiliate, threaten, harass or stalk someone else.

Legal Process

- Civil Procedure:

Procedurally, the PDVA provides that a single domestic violence incident may give rise to both civil and/or criminal remedies. In the civil process, a domestic violence civil complaint is an application for a TRO. A victim may apply for a TRO in either Superior Court or Municipal Court. If a civil TRO is granted, a hearing is usually held within 10 days to determine whether the TRO will become a final restraining order (FRO).

FROs include two primary types of relief to the victim: (a) injunctive relief, and (b) non-injunctive relief. Injunctive relief directs the defendant's action, i.e., to have no contact with the victim, and/or to stay away from certain locations. Non-injunctive relief may include imposing financial penalties and obligations, the relinquishment of property and/or possessions, child support, and emergency monetary relief. The purpose of non-injunctive relief is to permit the victim to exist without the need to return to the abusive relationship, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-29b(10).

- Criminal Procedure:

A criminal complaint involving domestic violence addresses criminal charges. Law enforcement must arrest the defendant and sign a criminal complaint if they find probable cause that domestic violence occurred along with certain other conditions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:25-21.

- Violations:

Contempt charges are the means by which TROs and FROs are enforced. When a defendant violates the provisions of a restraining order, a contempt charge is filed by law enforcement or the victim themselves. An example of a violation is when a defendant contacts a victim either in person, by telephone or by electronic media when the restraining order specifically states that the defendant is to have no contact with the victim. Violations of a restraining order may result in civil contempt proceedings and/or criminal charges.

The degree of the contempt charge determines whether the Family Division or the Criminal Division will hear the case. The Family Division has exclusive jurisdiction if the violation involves a petty disorderly persons offense or if the violation involves parenting time or property. The Criminal Division hears contempt charges if the defendant committed a violation that constitutes an indictable offense. A prosecutor is involved in all criminal contempt charges regardless of whether the case is heard in the Family Division or in the Criminal Division.

Recent Judiciary Initiatives for Domestic Violence (2017)

STOP Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) Grant:

The United States Department of Justice provides grant funding to the states to fight violent crimes against women as well as create and strengthen victim services. In 2017, the Judiciary used this grant funding to provide the annual statewide Domestic Violence Conference that is held each spring for all Family Division judges, managers, and domestic violence staff. The 2017 conference included sessions on cultural awareness, situational couple violence, stalking, teen dating, animal cruelty, human trafficking, cyber violence, and strangulation.

Additionally, with VAWA funding, the AOC's Family Practice Division was able to collaborate with Rutgers University to provide vicinage domestic violence staff with the Violence Against Woman and Children Professional Training Program (VAWAC-PT). VAWAC-PT is a unique and engaging program that provides professionals the knowledge and the practical skills needed in order to understand and effectively address the myriad of issues faced by people who are victims of violence. Staff who complete the full complement of courses receive a Domestic Violence certification from Rutgers University.

Electronic System Enhancements:

The Judiciary employs several electronic systems to track, docket, and process domestic violence restraining orders. The Electronic Temporary Restraining Order (eTRO) system is the electronic data entry program that is used by law enforcement and Family Court staff to create electronic civil domestic violence complaints, TROs and FROs. The Family Automated Case Tracking System (FACTS) is the mainframe program that houses the official electronic court records. The Domestic Violence Central Registry (DVCR) is a registry of all persons who have a domestic violence restraining order entered against them.

The following system enhancements were made to FACTS, DVCR and eTRO in 2017:

- 1. Supreme Court Domestic Violence Ad Hoc Recommendations to Domestic Violence System Processing:

In June 2017, several changes were made to the processing of new and amended restraining orders as recommended by the Ad Hoc Committee on Domestic Violence and approved by the Supreme Court. These changes included the removal of the defendant's signature requirement during service of the restraining order to the defendant, adding a checkbox for mandatory fingerprint requirement and adding cyber-harassment as a type of domestic violence.

- 2. Gender Neutral Case Party Relationship

In November 2017, the eTRO and FACTS systems were modified in accordance with an overall shift from gender-specific identifiers for family relationships for domestic violence cases. Electronic systems and forms were reviewed and modified to include gender-neutral references where appropriate.

- 3. Single-Step Docketing of TRO cases in eTRO

In November 2017, the dual entry of case information into both the eTRO and FACTS systems was changed to a single-entry method in eTRO. Enhancements included transferring the current docketing functions (search, party inquiry, establish case, docket and print) from FACTS to eTRO to eliminate the prior requirement to perform a separate step to formally docket cases. This enhancement alleviated the need for staff to have to enter information in two different electronic systems and also reduced in some cases the time the victim needed to wait prior to being heard by the court.

General enhancements were also made to FACTS and eTRO to improve case management, ensure consistency in providing victims services, and to improve communication with law enforcement.

Domestic Violence Statistical Data

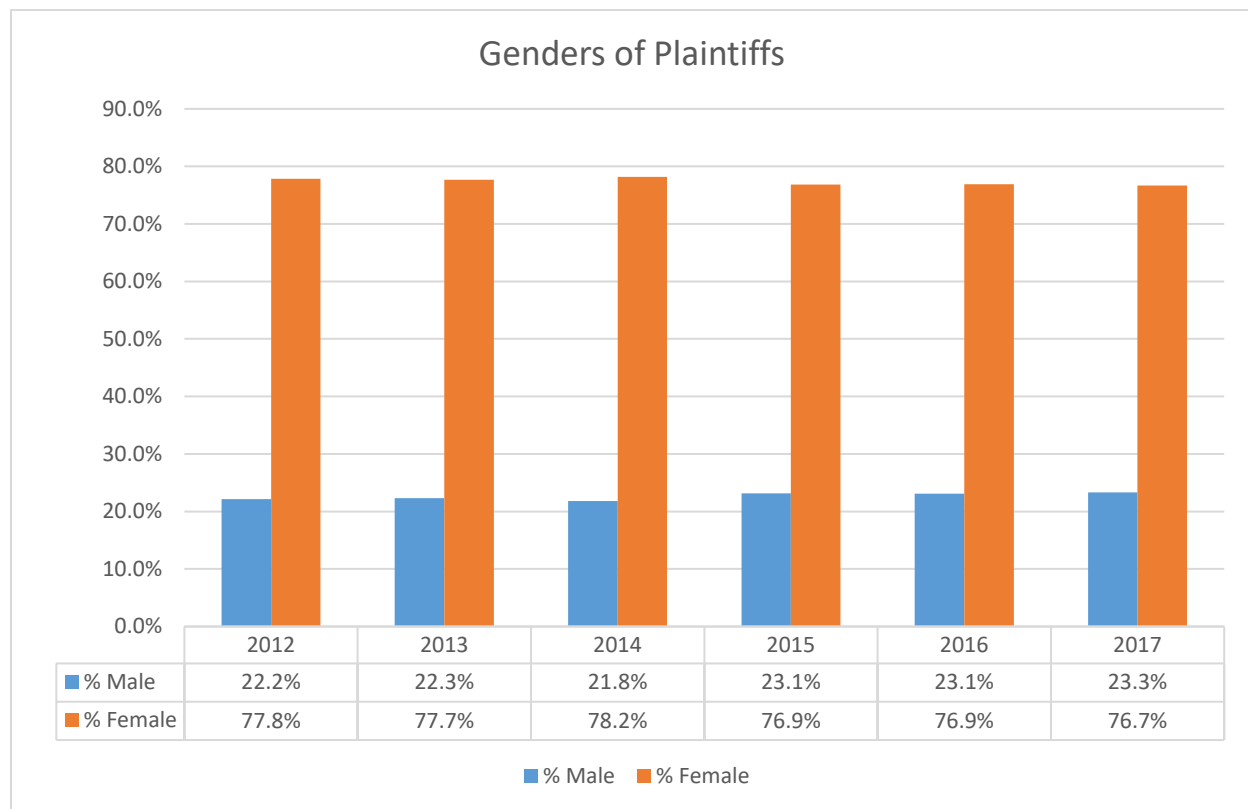

This report presents data regarding domestic violence filings, dispositions of restraining orders, and forms of relief sought and granted. It also includes data on non-indictable contempt charges, which are processed in Family Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:29-9(b). As set forth in detail in the following pages, in 2017, the number of Domestic Violence filings decreased by 3% from 2016 (1038 filings). As detailed on page ten of this report and the Chart A below, both the Municipal and Superior Courts had reductions in domestic complaints filed in 2017 from 2016.

Chart A

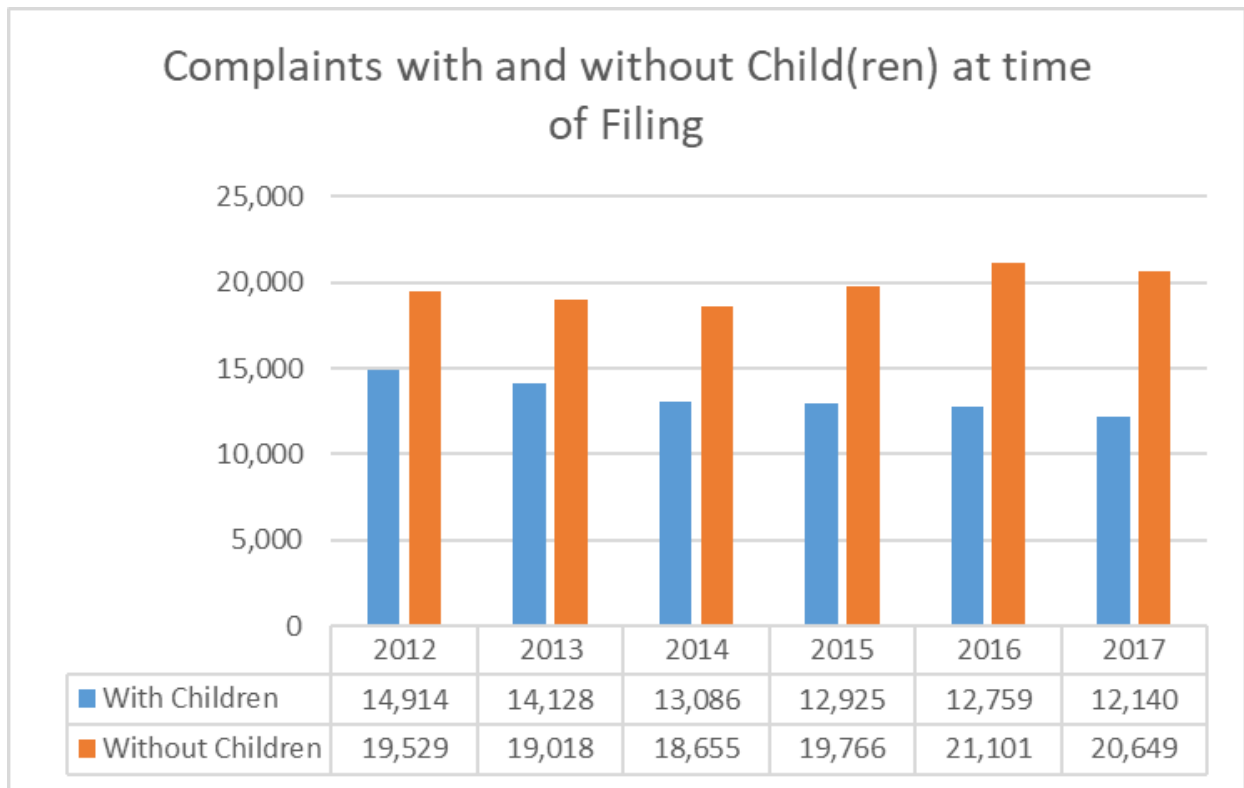

It is often presumed that most domestic violence victims are women. The data set forth on page ten and illustrated on Chart B below appear to support this presumption. However, men can be and are victims, too. Men in addition to women suffer physical, mental and sexual abuse in both heterosexual and same-sex relationships. There is a perception that men are physically strong and so they may be less likely to report domestic violence due to a fear of being ridiculed by both law enforcement and the public.

Chart B

Children exposed to violence in the home are also victims of physical abuse.¹ Children who witness domestic violence or are victims of abuse themselves are at serious risk for long-term physical and mental health problems.² Children who witness violence between parents may also be at greater risk of being violent in their future relationships. As depicted in Chart C below, and detailed on page eleven of this report, although a majority of the parties in domestic violence complaints did not have children in common, in 2017, there were 12,140 complaints filed in which the parties did have children together.

As represented in the Charts D(1) – D(4) below and by the data set forth on page nineteen of this report, the disposition of TROs have been consistent for several years. On average, more than five thousand FROs are entered by the Superior Court annually.

If the defendant violates a domestic violence restraining order, that violation constitutes the offense of “contempt” under N.J.S.A. 2C:29-9 (b).

A hearing on the violation or contempt charge may be reduced to a “disorderly persons offense” and if so, will be heard by the Family Part of the Superior Court. If the violation is more severe, such as an assault, then the contempt charge may be considered a fourth degree offense, and the matter will be heard in the Criminal Part of the Superior Court.

As depicted in Chart E and detailed on page twenty-four of this report, in 2017, 4,973 violations of restraining orders were disposed in the Family Part of the Superior Court. In 2,623 of those cases, the defendant either pled guilty or a bench warrant was issued for non-appearance of the defendant.

Chart E

The continued collection and analysis of New Jersey’s domestic violence data assists in the creation or modification of judicial policies and procedures to help effectuate the PDVA’s intent to provide New Jersey domestic violence victims with maximum protection from domestic abuse.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE STATISTICS

Violations of Restraining Orders

Filings & Dispositions

A. Statewide Figures

SECTION THREE

VIOLATIONS OF RESTRAINING ORDERS

Enforcement of Domestic Violence Temporary Restraining Orders (TROs) or Final Restraining Orders (FROs) can be pursued either through the criminal contempt process, N.J.S.A.2C:29-9b or N.J.S.A.2C:25-30, or the civil enforcement of litigant's rights process under R.1:10-3. Under the criminal statute, violations of any restraints and certain reliefs and conditions of a restraining order require mandatory arrest and criminal prosecution. Violations of other reliefs and conditions are enforceable by the court pursuant to applicable court rules. The Family Division has jurisdiction over disorderly person's domestic violence contempt actions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:29-9b. This includes contempt charges that were initially indictable but have been downgraded by the Prosecutor's Office in the county of venue. The following section reports the data on those cases. It does not cover indictable contempts of the fourth degree and above, which are handled in the Criminal Division.

SECTION FOUR

Criminal Practice Cases - Filings & Dispositions

A criminal case is identified as involving domestic violence when there is a charge of contempt for violating a domestic violence restraining order (N.J.S.A. 2C:29-9b) or the case has been flagged by the Prosecutor as a domestic violence matter. Filings include initial complaints, direct indictments and direct accusations. Indictments resulting from complaints are counted as a filing when they first enter the system as initial complaints.

A disposition is the final resolution of a case. Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI) admissions are also included in these statistics. The category 'Transfer to Family' are those contempt cases that were initially identified as indictable, but have been downgraded to disorderly person's domestic violence contempt cases by the Prosecutor's Office in the county of venue. The Family Division has jurisdiction over disorderly person's (DP) contempt actions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:29-2b. The category 'Transfer to Other' are those cases transferred to another jurisdiction, transferred to the Attorney General or sent to Casino Prosecution.

The number of filings and dispositions are based on the FILING date and DISPOSITION date, respectively, and are independent of one another for the time period listed.

SECTION FIVE

Municipal Court Complaints - Filings & Dispositions

The following tables provide information regarding the number of domestic violence complaints processed by the municipal courts. A complaint, which may include more than one charge, is designated a domestic violence complaint if at least one charge constitutes a domestic violence offense under N.J.S.A. 2C:25-19a.

For the present analysis, a 'filed' domestic violence complaint is one that falls within the initial jurisdiction of the municipal court. This includes most domestic violence related disorderly persons and petty disorderly persons offenses. Domestic violence complaints that include indictable and other charges that statutorily fall within the jurisdiction of the Superior Court, even if filed in municipal court, are not counted. Those filings are properly reflected in the criminal section of this report.

The disposition information includes all domestic violence complaints adjudicated by a municipal court. This includes all cases falling within the initial jurisdiction of a municipal court as well as cases downgraded and remanded back to municipal court by the County Prosecutor.

The number of filings and dispositions are based on the FILING date and DISPOSITION date, respectively, and are independent of one another for the time period listed.
