The announced results of the balloting for three members of the Board of Education for three-year terms at the annual school election held on April 20, 1993 in the School District of Franklin Township of Washington, Warren County, were as follows:

Pursuant to a request by Keith Matlock, defeated candidate, under N.J.S.A. 18AA:14-63.2, a recount was conducted by an authorized representative of the Commissioner of Education from the Office of the Warren County Superintendent of Schools on May 21, 1993 in the Office of the Warren County Superintendent of Schools. The Warren County Election Board submitted and verified the absentee ballot count. Persons present were Kathy Matlock, Keith Matlock, Rudolph DiGilio, Elizabeth Lynch and Jean Hopek.

The envelope containing the election materials had been unsealed by a staff member in the county superintendent's office prior to the recount. A copy of the poll list was requested by Keith Matlock who is contesting the procedure.

At the conclusion of the recount, the tally stood as follows:

CANDIDATES	AT POLLS	ABSENTEE	TOTAL
Thomas Zak	132	1	133

This completes the report of the Commissioner's representative.

The Commissioner has reviewed the report of her representative and adopts the findings therein as her own.

The Commissioner finds and determines that the results of the election as announced are confirmed by the recount. Thomas Zak, Rudolph DiGilio, and Elizabeth K. Lynch are the three winning candidates for seats on the Franklin Township Board of Education in Warren County.

The Commissioner further directs that a copy of this decision be transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law where an inquiry is pending into the conduct of the above-captioned election, the results of which remain binding on the parties unless and until a contrary determination is rendered by the Commissioner upon receipt and review of the initial decision on inquiry issued by the Office of Administrative Law.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Educational Services Commission, appealed state audit requiring return of $1.06 million in unexpended funds for 1987 fiscal year.

Initial decision concluded Commission must refund to the State the surplus remaining at the end of the 1987 fiscal year. Nothing in legislation controlling disbursement of disputed funds or Commission's enabling legislation allows Commission to retain surplus funds. Also, Commission must prevent double billing. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 to 70) ALJ found if Commission seeks greater statutory powers or needs more money to meet cash flow difficulties, it should address those concerns to the Legislature. Commission was ordered to repay the State.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and directed petitioner to refund the unexpended funds under dispute.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by the Essex County Educational Services Commission ("Commission") from a state audit requiring return of some $1.06 million in unexpended funds for the 1987 fiscal year. An educational services commission is a public agency established in one or more counties under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51 to 70 for the purpose of contracting with local school districts to furnish educational services to children. Essentially, the dispute involves the interplay between the enabling legislation for educational services commissions and the statutory authority for Chapter 192/193 and Chapter I services which the Commission had contracted to deliver.[1]

State education officials construe the statutory scheme as requiring the Commission to charge only the actual cost of its services and to refund any excesses to be used to help more children. Additionally, state officials contend that allowing the Commission to retain the surplus would constitute double billing of amounts for which the Commission had already been reimbursed under another state aid program. On the other hand, the Commission argues that it is exempt from the refund requirement because an educational services commission is not a local school district. Moreover, the Commission alleges that it must keep the surplus to offset cash flow problems and as a reserve against extraordinary expenses.

[1]Chapters 192 and 193 of the Laws of 1977, codified at N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-1 and 18A:46-19.1 respectively, provide funding for certain auxiliary and remedial services to handicapped children in private and parochial schools. Chapter I of the federal Education Consolidation and Improvement Act of 1981 ("ECIA"), 20 U.S.C.A. §§3801 to 3876, provided funding for basic skills improvement programs. ECIA was repealed by Pub. L. 100-297, effective July 1, 1988, but large parts have been readopted as amendments to Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, 20 U.S.C.A. §§2701 to 3386.

Procedural History

In February and March 1989, a team of auditors from the Department of Education ("Department") conducted a full-scale review of the Commission's accounting and business practices for the period July 1, 1987 through June 30, 1988. On May 2, 1989, the Department's compliance division released an audit report, which identified a total of $1,056,907 in unexpended Chapters 192/193 and E.C.I.A. Chapter I surplus, and demanded that the Commission repay that sum to the State Treasurer. By letter dated May 30, 1989, the Commission appealed on the basis that "return of these monies would result in the inability to conduct the aforesaid programs." Accordingly, on February 7, 1991, the Department held an informal first-level audit meeting at which the Commission was invited to provide additional documentation "to refute or clarify any aggrieved items." On May 3, 1991, Edward D. Kent, chief of the bureau of auditing, issued a letter upholding the findings of the audit report.

Thereafter, on May 14, 1991, the Commission appealed the ruling to the next-highest level, stating that it wanted to challenge the "legal basis" on which the Department claimed return of these funds. A second-level appeal hearing was held on June 21, 1991. On July 25, 1991, Thomas King, acting director of the compliance division, issued a decision concluding that the laws concerning governance and management of educational services commissions "mirror those same structures" in local school boards, that the Commission is not a private profit-making enterprise, and that unexpended Chapters 192/193 and Chapter I funds must be returned to the State.

Finally, on October 21, 1991, the Commission filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). On November 18, 1991, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. The OAL held hearings on September 14, 15 and 16, 1992. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the appendix. Both parties filed briefs and replies by November 25, 1992.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts are undisputed. I FIND:

Local school districts must furnish Chapters 192/193 services to nonpublic schools located within their boundaries, either by performing such services themselves or by contracting with public or private agencies to do so. Such services include compensatory education for improvement of communication proficiency, English as a Second Language, supplementary instruction, home instruction, speech correction services, and evaluation and classification of handicapping conditions. Similarly, local districts must use Chapter I funds to provide compensatory education services to "deprived children." Again, the local districts may either provide such services themselves or may contract with other public or private agencies.

Created in July 1979, the Commission is authorized by the State Board of Education to offer auxiliary and remedial services under contract with local school districts. Over the last thirteen years, the Commission has grown dramatically. It now serves the educational needs of roughly 10,000 students, employs a staff of 365 people, and has an annual budget totaling $19 million. Although only eight local districts are members, at one time the Commission had contracts with as many as 135 local districts.[2]

Contracts for the 1987-88 school year uniformly obligated the local district to pass along to the Commission the full per-pupil amount received in state aid, regardless of the actual costs of that particular service. Significantly, Warren Buehler, executive director of the Commission from its inception until 1992, admitted that the Commission did not consider actual costs in fixing its fees and would collect whatever sum the State was willing to pay to the local district. Indeed, the standard contract for Chapters 192/193 services then in use by the Commission does not establish a separate price, but commits the local district to a ten-month billing cycle "equal to the projected and actual student counts." A related contractual term provides that, if a district is eligible for the funding of vehicles or trailers used as classrooms, the district "agrees to pay over to the [Commission] all such funding received from classrooms used in the delivery of 192 services[.]"

[2]While the Commission lacked the legal authority in 1987-88 to enter into contracts with nonmember districts, see N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63, it nevertheless freely did so, with the knowledge and tacit approval of the Department. Recently, the statute was amended to conform to existing practice by allowing educational services commissions to enter into contracts with school districts, "whether member districts of the commission or not." L. 1989, c. 254, effective July 1, 1990.

Apparently, the county superintendent of schools, who represents the Commissioner at the county level, had reviewed and approved this billing arrangement. Nonetheless, Melvin Wyns, director of the Department's bureau of school finance, criticized the pricing arrangement as seemingly saying, "Give us what you have and we will try to spend what you give us. " According to Mr. Wyns, the practice of automatically handing all of the money over to the Commission allowed it "to gain access to all funds whether it [was] really necessary or not" and "made it easier for the local districts to abrogate their responsibility." In his view, the Commission must charge only its allowable costs and must return any remaining surplus, "which goes into a pot of money to provide additional requests for [future] services."[3]

Much of the Commission's proof at the hearing dealt with its cash flow problems and operational difficulties, which the Department properly regards as irrelevant to the narrow legal issues of this case. While the Department is sympathetic to many of the Commission's legitimate concerns, its basic position is that the Commission must act within the existing legislative framework and that any remedy lies with the Legislature and not the Executive Branch.

Often the Commission's complaints were directed to the perceived failure by the Legislature to grant it sufficient powers or to appropriate adequate funds to carry out its assigned tasks. Illustratively, Mr. Buehler recounted that, at the time of its formation in 1979, the Commission lacked any revenue for start-up costs. Consequently, the Commission had to borrow money from a bank until local districts began paying for services. However, in 1981 the Attorney General's Office issued an advisory opinion that the Commission does not possess the statutory authority to borrow money.[4] Thus, the Commission is prohibited from borrowing funds needed to make capital investments or meet unforeseen contingencies.

[3]Mr. Wyns drew a technical distinction between "operation expenses" or general overhead, which are borne proportionally by all member districts, and "contracted services expenses," which are charged directly to the district using a particular service. Compare N.J.S.A. 18A:6-62 with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63. See also, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51, which defines these terms.

In the same vein, Mr. Buehler described cash shortages caused by the delay of some local districts in paying their bills. Under the standard contract for Chapters 192/193 services, the local district must make payment in ten monthly installments due "by the 30th of the month in which the services are provided." Several of the largest districts, including Newark and East Orange, were habitually late in making payments. As a result, the Commission experienced difficulty meeting its payroll, particularly in September and October when the new academic year had just begun. But, as noted in the Deputy Attorney General's brief, this "is a collection problem, not one of the State's making." Moreover, the Commission had various options available which it chose not to use. It could, for instance, have sued the deadbeat districts for payment; discontinued delivery of services pending receipt of overdue amounts; or refused to enter into new contracts with slow-paying districts. Revealingly, Mr. Buehler stated that he had tried unsuccessfully "dozens of times" to get the State to pay the Commission directly. Here too, the Commission 's real unhappiness is with the law itself, which requires that state aid be funneled through the local districts rather than sent directly to the provider.

Likewise, Mr. Buehler maintained that the Commission needed more money because the law required it to engage in collective negotiations with its teaching staff.[5] In 1977-78, the Commission granted salary increases well in excess of any increase in state aid and had to make up the difference out of "reserves." Mr. Buehler also claimed that the Commission needed to generate reserves to comply with other legal mandates, like the purchase in 1986 of one hundred trailer units at a cost of three million dollars over three years or, more recently, the planned retrofitting of facilities to provide handicapped access.[6]

As a result of the audit, the Department demanded refund of a "surplus" or "profit" of Chapters 192/193 funds amounting to $922,370 and Chapter I funds amounting to $134,537. On behalf of the Department, Mr. Wyns explained that the main reason for the existence of this surplus was the Commission's failure to deduct other funding received under the Teacher Quality Employment Act ("TQEA"). Robert Ortley, one of the state auditors who examined the Commission's records, also attributed the surplus to double billing for services already reimbursed under TQEA. Unfortunately, the Commission's records do not itemize how much of TQEA revenue was spent for teachers' salaries incurred to deliver contracted services. Following generally accepted accounting principles, Mr. Ortley matched "like revenues against like expenditures" to arrive at "net contractual orders." In making his calculations, he assumed that "TQEA aid was properly spent and fully spent." While the Commission steadfastly denied that TQEA aid should be offset against contractual billings, it never challenged the mathematical computation during the [6]The purchase of new trailers was necessitated by tougher fire-safety standards imposed by the Department of Community Affairs after the Great Adventure Amusement Park fire. The questions of whether the Commission must retrofit existing vehicles to comply with the new requirements of a barrier-free code is the subject of a separate appeal currently pending before the Department of Education. Essex County Educ. Serv. Comm'n v. N.J. Dept. of Educ., OAL Dkt. EDU. 8946-91.

[7]The Teacher Quality Employment Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5.1 to 5.12, dispensed state aid to local school districts and educational services commissions to assist them in meeting new minimum salary requirements for teachers. Originally TQEA aid was granted only to local school districts, L. 1985, c. 321, effective Sept. 9, 1985, but the law was expanded to include educational services commissions, L. 1986, c. 9, effective March 28, 1986.

proceedings below. At the hearing, it produced no expert testimony that Mr. Ortley's methodology was wrong.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Commission must refund to the State the surplus remaining at the end of the 1987 fiscal year.

An educational services commission is a "public body" brought into being for the purpose of providing educational services to public school districts. As a public body, it must act within its express or implied authority. Remedial Educ. & Diag. Servs. Inc. v. Essex Cty. Educ. Servs. Comm'n,191 N.J. Super. 524, 527 (App. Div. 1983), certif. den. 97 N.J. 601 (1984). It is different from a local school district, and does not possess the same broad statutory powers. Unlike a local school district, an educational services commission cannot borrow funds from banks or other lending institutions. See, n. 4, supra. Nor may an educational services commission delegate or subcontract its responsibilities to a private profit-making organization, since "such person or entity is not subject to public accountability." Remedial Educ., at 529. See also, Att'y Gen. Formal Op. 1981- No. 1. Numerous recommendations and proposals to confer on such commissions the full status of a "local educational agency" have never met with success. E.g., Senate Bill No. 1501(1984); Report of the Educational Services Commissions Study Committee (April 25, 1984); Internal Department Memorandum by Maryann Peifly, dated April 10, 1980.

Comparisons which the Commission makes between itself and approved private agencies are false. Nothing in its enabling legislation allows an educational services commission to earn a profit. Had the Legislature so intended, it would have said so. Remedial Educ., at 528. Indeed, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63 conveys the opposite intent, by authorizing an educational services commission to decide what services it will offer and then directing that, "It shall determine the costs of providing such services and may enter into contracts with member school districts to provide such services." (Emphasis added). Such language suggests that the Legislature wanted educational services commissions to recover the full amount expended for providing the service, but not to keep amounts over and above costs. More likely, the Legislature anticipated that an educational services commission "would probably experience a lower per pupil cost by providing services directly rather than though subcontracts with private agencies." Remedial Educ., at 528. Certainly the Commission's practice of routinely charging whatever the market will bear, without any reference to actual costs, runs directly counter to its statutory obligation to fix the costs before setting the price.

Read in the context of the categorical aid programs, the conclusion becomes even more compelling. Both N.J.S.A. 18A:46A-14, which governs Chapter 192 funds, and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-19,8, which governs Chapter 193 funds, contain identical provisions:

> In the event the expenditure incurred by any district is less than the amount of State aid received, the district shall refund the unexpended State aid after completion of the school year.These refunds shall be paid no later than by December 1.

Refunds from prior years are used to create a pool of funds to pay for additional services to children. Recently, in a case raising exactly the same legal issue, an administrative law judge held that "the obvious intent of both statutes is to insure that the identified children receive the needed services" and, further, that it would thwart such legislative intent if an educational services commission were allowed to retain unused monies. Middlesex Cty. Educ. Servs. Comm'n v. Dept. of Educ., OAL DKTS. EDU 2030-92 and 1479-91 (Oct. 30, 1992) (slip op. at 8). Although an educational services commission is not itself a local school district, it acts as the agent or alter ego of the local district in providing the services. Accordingly, it receives the dedicated funds subject to the same conditions and restrictions imposed on the local district. Support for this interpretation comes from the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-67, which authorizes educational services commissions to enter into contracts and "receive and administer funds and grants from any individual or agency[.]" As noted in the Middlesex case, the word "administer" does not connote ownership, but rather means "to manage or conduct" or "to serve in the conduct of affairs, in the application of things to their uses." Middlesex, at 8.

Similarly, school districts must either use Chapter I funds within two years or return the unused portion to the State which, in turn, must return the money to the federal government. See 20 U.S.C.A. §3874. Failure to comply with this federal requirement exposes the State to potential liability. By the same reasoning previously applied to Chapters 192/193 funds, a state instrumentality like an educational services commission must comply with the underlying conditions which attach to the grant of federal aid. One public entity responsible for proper use of the aid money cannot escape the restrictions by the simple expedient of channeling the funds to another public entity acting as its agent for delivery of services.

Another persuasive reason for requiring the Commission to restore the surplus funds is to prevent double billing. Until its repeal in July 1990, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-62.1 provided that "tuition rates" charged by educational services commissions for 1985-86 and subsequent school years "shall be determined after excluding the applicable salaries funded by section 7 of [the TQEA law] (N.J.S.A. 18A:29-5.6)." The Department urges that the "plain meaning" of this statute is that minimum salary state aid must be deducted from the amount charged by educational services commissions for contracted services. However, the Commission insists that the fees for service which it charges to contracting school districts do not constitute "tuition." Generally, the term "tuition" should be accorded its customary meaning, which, in the sense used here, means "the price of or payment for instruction." D.S. v. East Brunswick Twp. Bd. of Educ., 188 N.J. Super. 592, 608 (1983), certif. den. 94 N.J. 529 (1989). See also Webster's New International Dictionary 2461 (3rd Ed. Unabridged 1976). Clearly, teachers' salaries are an indispensable part of the "cost of providing such services," which N.J.S.A. 18A:6-63 requires educational services commissions to determine when contracting with local school districts. It necessarily follows that the Legislature must have intended that state subsidies for teachers' salaries be excluded from charges to local districts, so that educational services commissions will not be compensated twice for the same services.

Other points raised by the Commission may be dealt with quickly. Rights and obligations of the parties are governed by the law in effect at the relevant time period, not by subsequent amendments. Courts have long followed a general rule of statutory construction that favors prospective application of statutes. Gibbons v. Gibbons, 86 N.J. 515, 521 (1981). Therefore, the fact that the Legislature later amended the law to add N.J.S.A. 18A:6-62(b), which allows educational services commissions to meet expenses from "anticipated surpluses to be generated by fees for programs or surpluses," has no bearing in this matter. If anything, it only strengthens the conclusion that the Commission lacked the authority to generate a surplus in 1987-88, because otherwise the new language would be superfluous.

Furthermore, the Single Audit Act of 1984, 31 U.S.C.A.§§ 7501 to 7507, which establishes uniform audit requirements for state and local governments receiving federal funds, does not assist in resolving the substantive issues. See 1984 U.S. Code Cong. & Admin. News 3955. Since the Commission is a regulated entity which may function only within its delegated powers, it may not retain windfall monies that were illegally acquired. In any event, the Commission fits the definition of "subrecipient" under 31 U.S.C.A.§ 7501(15). A subrecipient is an entity which "receives Federal financial assistance through a State or local government," but does not include the beneficiary of such assistance. As the explanatory material cited by the Commission makes clear, "a subrecipient's performance would be measured against meeting the objectives of the Federal assistance award." This merely confirms that the Commission receives federal funds subject to the same restrictions imposed on local school boards.

Unexpectedly, the Department requested in post-hearing submissions that any relief should extend beyond the year in question to cover "all unexpended funds from all years." But the transmittal documents forwarded by the Department to the OAL were limited to the audit for 1987-88. More importantly, the factual record developed by the parties was limited to that particular year and the legal arguments focused on the law at that time. It would be highly prejudicial to allow the Department to expand the scope of the hearing after all the evidence is in and the record has closed .

In conclusion, the Commission is bound by the existing law, which must be interpreted in light of the overriding legislative purpose to benefit children. The Commission must operate within its statutory plan, and a state administrative agency is not free to read unwarranted meanings into an unambiguous statute, "even to subserve a supposedly desirable policy not effectuated by the act as written." Remedial Educ., at 528. If the Commission seeks greater statutory powers or needs more money, it should address those concerns to the Legislature.

Order

It is ORDERED that the Commission deliver its check in the amount of $1,056,907, payable to "Treasurer, State of New Jersey," to the Department.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF COMPLIANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's May 14, 1993 exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, having been received beyond 13 days from the decision's mailing date of April 29, 1993. A primary statement in support of the initial decision was timely filed by respondent on May 7, 1993.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner fully concurs with the analysis and conclusions of the ALJ above. As found by the ALJ, the law governing the central issue herein is clear, and any operational limitations it may cause, or be perceived to cause, are addressed not by disregarding the law, but by seeking appropriate legislative redress. Neither do changes in the law subsequent to the period under dispute (Fiscal Year 1987) exonerate petitioner from its actions; to the contrary, petitioner should not now be allowed to benefit from its disregard of the law then in effect.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law directing petitioner to refund the unexpended funds under dispute herein is affirmed for the reasons well stated by the ALJ.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF COMPLIANCE,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 8, 1993

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Edward F. Petit-Clair, Esq.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Arlene G. Lutz, Deputy Attorney General (Fred DeVesa, Acting Attorney General)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner of Education, substantially for the reasons expressed by the Administrative Law Judge in his Initial Decision, which the Commissioner adopted. We, however, deny respondent Department of Education's motion seeking an award of prejudgment and post-judgment interest. Not only has respondent failed to follow the procedural requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16, but has also failed to demonstrate that such relief is warranted in this case. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16(b)(2)(c). See Bd. of Educ., City of Newark, Essex Cty. v. Ruth Levitt and Esther E. Sasloe, 197 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1984).

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY.	:

Petitioner, defeated candidate for one-year unexpired term on Board, alleged irregularities in conduct of 1992 election. Recount, separately requested and incorporated in the record of inquiry, did not change outcome of election.

Initial decision dismissed petition as moot. As a consequence of the passage of time, i.e. the conduct of a subsequent election, there was no relief which might be granted to petitioner as a result of 1992 election because there was no longer a seat on Board even if petitioner prevailed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision, noting that disputed seat was no longer available and further finding that insufficient facts were pled to arrive at determination regarding whether Board's counsel ought be disqualified from representing Board in this case.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY

Edward R. Lowenstein, petitioner, pro se
Richard K. Sacks, Esquire, for respondent

Record Closed: April 19, 1993 Decided: April 26, 1993

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Edward R. Lowenstein, a defeated candidate for a one-year unexpired term on the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood (Board) alleges irregularities in the conduct of the annual school election held on April 7, 1992. Petitioner requested that the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) conduct a recount of the election together with an inquiry of the alleged irregularities.

On May 5, 1992, a representative of the Commissioner conducted a recount of the ballots cast in the Board election held on April 7, 1992, who found, in part, that:

> Although the recount resulted in altered tallies of the ballots cast at the polls, the final results were not sufficiently different to change the outcome of the election. (Commissioner's Decision, May 28, 1992, at p.2)

The Commissioner therefore held:

> Accordingly, the Commissioner finds and determines that Warren Deutsch, Thomas F. Hampton, and Evelyn Feigin were elected to full three-year terms each, and that Donald Berkman was elected to a one-year unexpired term on the Board of Education of the Lakewood Township School District at the annual school election held on April 7, 1992.
> (Commissioner's Decision, May 28, 1992, at p. 3)

On May 13, 1992, petitioner's request for an inquiry was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). Petitioner alleges the following irregularities:

1. The closing down of machines - while people were still in the building at Clifton Avenue School wishing to vote - Dee Irwin, Board Secretary being unable to rectify the matter properly due to her being unable to reach the Election Board at 9:00 - Absentee Ballots were used apparently for 9 voters, however, other left. Changes improperly done on absentees.

2. Change in number in count from 17-71 in Don Berkman's count in District 7B Barton Hall LVE.

3. Discrepancies with a voter and/or voters between Oak Street School and Spruce Street School, as witnessed by several persons.

4. Figures between Berkman and Feign (sic) in Clark School.

5. Failure of my opponent Donald Berkman to have a paid for or printed by on his literature (lack of proper I.D. by law).

6. Figure dispute between other #'s (Petitioner's Petition of Appeal, dated April 10, 1992).

In a supplementary petition, dated May 10, 1992, petitioner requested that the additional allegations be added:

1. As stated in Point 1 of the original inquiry as to the polls closing down at Clifton Avenue School, etc. Mrs. Evelyn Feigen (sic) Board President and Candidate interfered in the process, as did Warren Deutsch, Candidate and then Vice President of the Board and also Alan Haller, member of the Board and Mrs. Feigen's (sic) campaign manager, and witnessed by myself and others - ruling made here by Board Attorney Richard Sacks (which may place him in conflict).

2. Discrepancy with ballot count due to use of absentee ballots and manner by which they were recorded.

3. Counting of tallies done in two separate rooms causing conflicting counts between both areas.

4. Mr. Pugliesi's name could have either been blocked out or completed deleted ...

5. Misleading information supplied by the PTA's - to the voting public.
   (a) Numbers wrong on one year seat.
   (b) Failure to notify voters that Mr. Pugliesi had withdrawn (literature handed out after his withdrawal) but nothing indicating such.

   (Petitioner's supplemental to the original Petition of Appeal, May 5, 1992)

On July 21, 1992, petitioner sent a facsimile (fax) letter to the Atlantic City OAL requesting that he be relieved of (the Board's) Mr. Sack's discovery request. Petitioner's fax also requested that Richard K. Sacks be removed as counsel to the Board, alleging a conflict of interest in the instant matter. Petitioner asserted he intended to call Mr. Sacks as one of his witnesses.

On July 22, 1992, the undersigned acknowledged receipt of petitioner's motion.

On July 23, 1992, Mr. Sacks addressed a letter to the undersigned, with a courtesy copy to petitioner and others, wherein counsel objected to petitioner's request not to provide discovery. Mr. Sacks stated, in part, that it would be impossible to adequately prepare a defense on behalf of the Board from the information supplied in the petition. Mr. Sacks, therefore, insisted that the Board's request for discovery be honored.

In his letter dated July 23, 1992, Mr. Sacks also addressed petitioner's request to remove him as counsel to the Board. Mr. Sacks observed, correctly, that without a formal motion and affidavits in support of his removal, this court should not consider petitioner's request.

Mr. Sacks also asserted that he was not in receipt of petitioner's letter dated May 5, 1992, (petitioner's supplemental petition) addressed to Maureen R. Keller, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Department of Education) until July 21, 1992.

Mr. Sacks suggested that petitioner be directed to provide Board counsel with copies of all correspondence he had submitted in connection with his appeal.

On or about July 26, 1992, the parties were given notice that the hearing would be held on August 10, 1992, at the Lakewood Municipal Building commencing at 9:00 a.m.

On July 29, 1992, the undersigned initiated a telephone conference with petitioner and counsel for the Board, which is reported below as follows:

> Gentlemen:
>
> Pursuant to our telephone conference held on July 29, 1992, in the above entitled matter, the following procedures were settled:
>
> 1. Complainant, Edward Lowenstein, shall comport with requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.1 et seq. and in particular N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.4 (a) with regard to his motion, filed by way of Facsimile dated July 21, 1992, seeking to disqualify Richard Sacks, Esquire, from representing the Lakewood Township Board of Education; and
>
> 2. Complainant, Edward Lowenstein, shall request, in writing, on or before August 5, 1992, an adjournment of the hearing scheduled for August 5, 1992, (sic) in the above entitled matter; and
>
> 3. Complainant, Edward Lowenstein, shall comport with the Discovery provisions, pursuant to N.J.AC. 1:1-10.1 et seq.
>
> The above represents the agreements reached by the parties and this tribunal as a result of the telephone conference held on July 29, 1992. In the event there are any questions, please do not hesitate to arrange for a conference call.

On August 5, 1992, petitioner, by way of fax, sent the following notarized document as a motion and affidavit to the undersigned:

> Edward R. Lowenstein, of full age, being duly sworn according to law, upon his oath deposes and says:
>
> 1. I am the complainant in the above captioned matter.
> 2. I wish to have the matter which is scheduled for August 10, 1992, adjourned to a later date so that:

a. I can have time to locate all witnesses, some of whom are unavailable at the moment due to being on vacation, and working only 10 months of the year.

b. So that I can have time to comport with the Discovery provisions, referred to in our telephone conversation (conference) held on July 29, 1992 and cited in your letter of July 30, 1992.

3. Also, I wish to have Mr. Sacks, disqualified from representing the Board of Education in the above entitled matter: Because he was a participant in the election, and activities I am challenging, and I plan to call him as a witness. As also discussed in my fax to you on July 21, 1992 and cited in my complaint.

Subsequently, on August 7, 1992, the undersigned issued the following:

Gentlemen:

In response to Mr. Lowenstein's Motion and Affidavit dated August 5, 1992 and received in this office August 7, 1992, I have made the following determinations:

1. Mr. Lowenstein's Motion for the Adjournment of the scheduled hearing for August 10, 1992, in the above entitled matter is hereby GRANTED.

2. Mr. Lowenstein's Motion to Disqualify Richard K. Sacks, Esquire, from representing the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood in the above entitled matter is hereby DENIED. Mr. Lowenstein's "Affidavit" is insufficient and lacks specific facts upon which to base a determination that Mr. Sacks should be disqualified from representing the Board of Education.

In Pressler, Current N.J. Court Rules, Comment R. 1:6-6. Evidence on Motion: Affidavits: Judge Pressler comments as follows:

In contrast to discovery proceedings, in which responses containing hearsay and other inadmissible material may be perfectly appropriate, (See R. 4:17-4 and Comment thereon), affidavits in support of Motions must be limited to the affiant's personal knowledge of such facts as he is competent to testify to and as are admissible in evidence. Hence, affidavits by attorneys (and pro se litigants) of facts relating to them by and within the primary knowledge of their clients constitute, in effect, objectionable hearsay. See Murray v. Allstate Ins. Co., 209 N.J. Super. 163, 169 (App. Div. 1986). Nor, of course, are the requirements > of the Rule met by affidavits containing argument, other forms of hearsay and general factual or legal conclusions. Personal knowledge, the mandate of the Rule, clearly excludes facts based merely on "information and belief." See, e.g., Patrolman's Benev. Assn. v. Montclair, 70 N.J. 130, 134, n.1 (1976).

>
> 3. As a consequence of Mr. Lowenstein's Motion having been DENIED, Mr. Lowenstein is therefore prohibited from calling Richard K. Sacks, Esquire, as a witness in Lowenstein's case-in-chief.
> This constitutes my ruling on Mr. Lowenstein's Motions and a subsequent hearing date will be established and set down at the convenience of the parties.

On September 8, 1992, the instant matter was rescheduled to be heard on November 19, 1992, at the Lakewood Municipal Building commencing at 9:00 a.m.

On October 2, 1992, petitioner telephone the undersigned's secretary to request an adjournment of the hearing scheduled for November 19, 1992. The reason given, as it appears on the OAL Adjournment Form states that "petitioner having surgery."

In a letter to the parties dated October 6, 1992, the undersigned stated as follows:

> Gentlemen:
>
> During my absence from chambers on Friday, October 2, 1992, Mr. Lowenstein telephoned and spoke with my secretary, Mrs. Lillie Harris, to request an adjournment of the hearing in the above entitled matter, scheduled for November 19, 1992. Mrs. Harris advised Mr. Lowenstein that it would be necessary for him to have the consent of the Board's attorney before I would consider whether or not to grant the adjournment. As of this date, I have heard nothing further from Mr. Lowenstein.
> I wish to remind all concerned that this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 13, 1992, as a consequence of Mr. Lowenstein's appeal from an election held on April 7, 1992. I also note that a hearing was originally scheduled for August 10, 1992 and adjourned at the request of Mr. Lowenstein. I am constrained to add that my calendar is rapidly filling up with a few days now open for February and March 1993, otherwise, the matter will be scheduled in April or beyond.

> It is my considered opinion that this matter should move forward on the date of November 19, 1992, as scheduled.
> In the event you have any questions concerning this matter, please do not hesitate to arrange for a conference call.

The hearing scheduled for November 19, 1992, was adjourned at petitioner's request. Nothing more was heard from petitioner.

On April 7, 1993, the Board, by way of letter, requested that the instant matter be dismissed, with prejudice, on the grounds that the issues were now moot. Counsel for the Board observed that petitioner sought to overturn the 1992 Lakewood Board annual school election and, particularly, his defeat as a candidate for a one-year term on the Board. Counsel further observed that since the annual school election for 1993 was scheduled for Tuesday, April 20, 1993, and the term of the position which petitioner sought will be concluded, there is no basis to proceed to hearing.

A conference telephone call was initiated by the undersigned on April 19, 1993, with petitioner and counsel for the Board. The Board set forth its request to dismiss for mootness and petitioner objected.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The record clearly demonstrate that petitioner requested the adjournment of the scheduled hearings to be held on August 10, 1992 and November 19, 1992. The first request was honored in order for petitioner to prepare for the hearing. The second request was granted because petitioner asserted he was in need of surgery and would not be available for the hearing. As a consequence of the passage of time, i.e., the conduct of a subsequent election, there is no relief which might be granted to petitioner as a result of the 1992 annual school election.

The seat on the Board for which petitioner was a candidate was for a one-year unexpired term. That term expired in April 1993, subsequent to the annual school election which was held on April 20, 1993. Therefore, there is no seat on the Board available to petitioner even if he were to prevail in his claim and challenge.

It has been well established that the Commissioner does not decide moot issues. See Weehawkin Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Weehawkin, Hudson County, 1978 S.L.D. 924, 925. Therein, the Commissioner quoted the court in the matter of In Moss Estate, Inc. v. Metal & Thermit Corporation, 73 N.J. Super. 56 (Chan. Div. 1962) where it said at 67 that:

> ...It is the policy of the courts to refrain from advisory opinions, from deciding moot cases, or generally functioning in the abstract, and "to decide only concrete contested issues conclusively affecting adversary parties in interest." Borchard, Declaratory Judgments, (2*d ed* 1941), pp. 34-35.

I CONCLUDE that the matters presented by petitioner are now moot.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, there is no justiciable issue now before this tribunal nor the Commissioner.

ORDER

Accordingly, there is no necessity for the Commissioner to rule on the points raised in petitioner's Petition of Appeal and, therefore, the PETITION IS DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Defeated Candidate Lowenstein filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Mr. Lowenstein first notes that he has not yet received from the County Superintendent of Schools reimbursement of $38 he tendered for the purposes of conducting a recount of the vote tally in this district. The Commissioner notes for the record that such exception is not appropriately addressed in this, a separate matter from the recount sought in the case. Accordingly, such exception is not considered in the Commissioner's disposition of this case.

Mr. Lowenstein's next exception would have the Commissioner consider each of the arguments he advanced in his request for an inquiry of the 1992 school election notwithstanding the determination of the ALJ below that the matter is moot by the passage of time and the 1993 election because he believes that the same concerns could have or did arise in the school election held in April of this year. Toward such consideration, Mr. Lowenstein summarizes each of the alleged irregularities he presented in his written request for an inquiry.

Mr. Lowenstein's third exception would have the Commissioner also consider his contention that the Board's attorney cannot represent the Board in this case due to an alleged conflict of interest. Mr. Lowenstein seeks reversal of the ALJ's denial of his request to disqualify the Board's attorney due to insufficient facts made in support of such request.

Last, Mr. Lowenstein claims in exceptions that the Office of Administrative Law failed to reschedule the hearing in this case prior to next year's election, as per his several requests, instead scheduling a telephone conference one day before the next election on April 20, 1993.

Mr. Lowenstein seeks reversal of the initial decision for the above-stated reasons.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with those findings and determinations embodied in the initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law in this case, finding, in particular, that the instant matter is rendered moot by the school election of April 20, 1993 given that the disputed seat expired and further finding that insufficient facts were pled to arrive at a determination regarding whether the Board's counsel ought be disqualified from representing the Board in this case.

As to Mr. Lowenstein's contention that the alleged irregularities of the school election in Lakewood in 1992 recurred or could have recurred in the 1993 election or other future elections, the Commissioner notes that the laws of New Jersey provide a mechanism for redressing any such allegations through N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 to be filed within 5 days of any school election.

Finally regarding Ms. Lowenstein's contention that OAL failed to reschedule his hearing despite his attempts to do so by telephone, Mr. Lowenstein provides no proofs to support such contention. Without such demonstration, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's version of the procedural history of this matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :

HEARING OF HOWARD SMITH, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP : DECISION

OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :

Board certified charges of incapacity, unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent, tenured teaching staff member. Board sought dismissal and/or reduction in salary due to alleged theft of vehicle, criminal involvement with former student, supplying false information, etc.

Having considered evidence and testimony of witnesses, ALJ determined Board had just cause for dismissal of respondent and for forfeiture of his tenured position due to degree of moral turpitude involved in respondent's activities particularly in involving himself in illegal activities with a former student.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's dismissal of respondent from his tenured position due to his pattern of unacceptable behavior even though Commissioner did disagree with determination that Board proved Charge 11. Commissioner ordered his dismissal as of date of this decision and referred matter to State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

Tanya Pushnack Friedman, Esq., for respondent
(Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 9, 1993 Decided: April 23, 1993

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This matter involves tenure charges by the petitioner, School District of the Township of Irvington, against respondent, a tenured staff member, for dismissal or reduction in compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of the Township of Irvington (Board) certified and filed the tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education against the respondent, Howard Smith, on October 18, 1991. The statement of charges alleges that respondent is guilty of incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, and conduct constituting other just cause, which, if true, would warrant dismissal or reduction in salary. An answer denying the charges and asserting affirmative defenses was filed by respondent with the Commissioner of Education on January 10, 1992.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Commissioner of Education on January 15, 1992, for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held at the OAL on May 19, 1992, identifying the issues, fixing hearing dates, scheduling discovery, and regulating other procedural aspects of the forthcoming hearing. The resulting prehearing order is dated May 29, 1992.

The hearing was held in the OAL on September 15, 16, 17, 18, October 1 and December 15, 1992. The witnesses who testified and the documentary exhibits marked in evidence are listed in the Appendix attached to this decision. The parties filed posthearing briefs, and the record closed on March 9, 1993, when the last submission from counsel was received.

ISSUES

The issues, as set forth in the prehearing order, are:

A. Did the acts of the respondent, as alleged in the charges, constitute unbecoming conduct or other just cause for dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29?

B. If the charges or any of them are proven, is the penalty of dismissal justified, or should a different penalty be imposed?

THE CHARGES

The specific charges against the respondent, as set forth by the Board, are as follows:

Charge No. 1: During the 1990-91 school year, September through May, Mr. Smith did commit an act of theft and/or alternatively unlawfully possessed stolen property belonging to one Elias Vitoroulis. (1989 Chevrolet Van, VIN No. 1GBEG25K8K7158849).

Charge No. 2: During the 1990-91 school year, September through May, Mr. Smith did commit an act of theft and/or alternatively unlawfully possessed stolen property belonging to one Julie Knittner. (1988 Honda Accord, VIN No. JHMCA5362JC112529 (N.Y.).)

Charge No. 3: Mr. Smith knowingly received the aforementioned stolen vehicles from one Shawn Leverette. Shawn Leverette is a former student in the Irvington School Board District. Mr. Smith met Shawn Leverette as a result of employment with the Irvington Board of Education.

Charge No. 4: During the 1990-91 school year, Mr. Smith failed to report his arrest and subsequent admittance into pretrial intervention. When the Board subsequently learned of same through independent sources, Mr. Smith was suspended with pay pending indictment. His failure to notify the Board of his status, however, resulted in confusion and inconvenience to the Board, as well as uncertainty regarding his ability to fulfill his professional duties, and was in violation of Board directives to report same thereby constituting a failure to follow administrative orders.

Charge No. 5: Mr. Smith forged a document purporting to be a receipt or bill of sale for the purchase of the aforementioned vehicle of Elias Vitoroulis which was presented to the Irvington Police with the intent of deceiving the police as to the lawful ownership of the Chevrolet Van.

Charge No. 6: Mr. Smith used a duplicate Social Security number on his application for employment and on his W-2 form, thereby deceiving the Board with respect to his prior out-of-state arrest record and revocation of teaching certificate.

Charge No. 7: Mr. Smith used an incorrect date of birth on his application for employment and on his W-2 form, thereby deceiving the Board with respect to his prior out-of-state arrest record and revocation of teaching certificate.

Charge No. 8: Mr. Smith continued to distort his employment record by using the aforementioned duplicate Social Security number on update of employee records, throughout his employment with the Irvington Board of Education, thus continuing to deceive the Board.

Charge No. 9: When completing his employment application and interview, Mr. Smith failed to disclose the fact that his teacher's certificate had been revoked in Florida.

Charge No. 11: Mr. Smith failed to provide accurate information concerning the status of his New Jersey Teacher Certification, to wit: that it was listed under an alternative Social Security number and that it had been revoked and/or suspended.

By virtue of his theft and/or possession of a stolen van, a stolen car, and failure to report his status following arrest; criminal involvement with a former student of the Irvington Schools, failing to supply accurate information about his Social Security number and date of birth on initial application and subsequent update information sheets, and omitting to reveal his prior arrest record and certificate revocation, Mr. Smith has been engaged in a pattern of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, demonstrated incapacity and conduct constituting other just cause for dismissal, and/or reduction in salary.

TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

A man named Elias Vitoroulis owned one of the vehicles, a 1989 Chevrolet Van, involved in the theft and/or possession of stolen property charges against respondent. Mr. Vitoroulis testified that the van had been stolen from in front of his house in Linden, New Jersey, in June 1990. He reported the theft to the police immediately. Three months later, in September 1990, Mr. Vitoroulis received a summons in the mail for parking the van illegally. Because the date on the ticket was after the date of the theft, Mr. Vitoroulis brought it to the police. The van was recovered by the police sometime thereafter and returned to Mr. Vitoroulis. However, it had been damaged, and the witness had to expend between $4,000 and $5,000 for repairs before it could be sold. Mr. Vitoroulis testified that, among other things, the dashboard had been broken out and the radio was gone.

Counsel produced a document that appeared to be a bill of sale, dated January 20, 1990, purportedly signed by Mr. Vitoroulis. This document indicated, on its face, that Mr. Vitoroulis had sold the van to Howard Smith for $10,988. Mr. Vitoroulis examined the document on the witness stand and unequivocally stated that the signature was not his and that he never received money from Mr. Smith. He also said that he never saw the document or Mr. Smith before, and that his name on the signature line was misspelled. See Exhibit P-1. In order to confirm his testimony, Mr. Vitoroulis produced three checks that he had written in March and April 1991, drawn on his bank account. The signatures on these checks were positively identified by Mr. Vitoroulis as his own.

Anita Biggs, an expert handwriting analyst and document examination specialist, was given handwriting and signature samples belonging to Howard Smith to compare with the purported bill of sale. After comparing the handwriting and signature samples of both Mr. Smith and Mr. Vitoroulis, Ms. Biggs offered the following opinions:

(1) The signature of Elias Vitoulis [sic] at the bottom of Exhibit P-1, the bill of sale, was not written by the same hand that signed the signature of Elias Vitoroulis in the samples of the Vitoroulis signature seen in Exhibit P-2, the checks drawn on his bank account;

(2) The signature of Howard Smith on Exhibit P-1, the purported bill of sale, was written by the same hand that signed Howard Smith's signature on Mr. Smith's handwriting samples. The sample signatures were seen on letters previously written by Mr. Smith to the State of New Jersey, the Board of Education, and to his attorney;

(3) The printed handwriting, as well as the questioned signature of Mr. Vitoroulis on P-1, the bill of sale, was penned by the same hand that wrote the sample letters belonging to Howard Smith.

Ms. Biggs's testimony was unequivocal and convincing. When asked about the degree of certainty of her opinions, Ms. Biggs replied that she had no question about the identification of Howard Smith's handwriting and the fact that he wrote the bill of sale himself and signed Mr. Vitoroulis's name (misspelled) on the signature line. When asked if she could state the statistical margin of error in the reliability of her opinion, Ms. Biggs said that the proofs show a possible error factor of one to many millions.

George Venturi, a lieutenant in the Irvington Police Department, testified that while on duty, he was informed about a call to police headquarters from someone who received a notice about an unpaid parking ticket for a Chevrolet van. However, the vehicle identified on the ticket had been reported stolen months earlier. Lt. Venturi decided to tour the location noted on the ticket. While driving around the block and checking the parked cars, Lt. Venturi saw a man (later identified as Howard Smith) driving a van that fit the description of the stolen vehicle, but with a different license plate number. The man parked the van and went into a house on Lenox Avenue.

The lieutenant asked for a registration check on the vehicle and was informed that it was registered to Howard Smith, and not listed as stolen. Lt. Venturi then examined the vehicle identification number (VIN) plate inside the front windshield of the van. That number matched the VIN on the stolen van. He also noticed that the steering column on the vehicle was damaged.

The lieutenant knocked on the door of the house into which the driver of the van had gone. The man who opened the door was the same person (identified in this tribunal by the lieutenant as Mr. Smith) who parked the van. When asked about the van, Mr. Smith said that he had recently purchased the vehicle and had a valid registration for it. A woman in the house, identified as Howard Smith's fiancée, produced a registration and title, which bore the same license plate number that was on the van, but bearing a different VIN. Lt. Venturi informed Mr. Smith that he was under arrest for possession of a stolen motor vehicle, and he was taken into custody.

Lt. Venturi searched the interior of the van. He found a set of license plates on a back seat that were registered to Elias Vitoroulis, for the Lincoln automobile that had also been stolen from in front of his house in Linden at or about the same time that the van was stolen. See Exhibit P-8.

Mr. Smith's fiancee produced a form of bill of sale, which Mr. Smith claimed would prove that he purchased the van. The lieutenant noted that the VIN on the bill of sale did not match the VIN on the vehicle or on Mr. Vitoroulis's original registration. The witness further testified that in addition to the broken steering column, the van had a broken door and ignition locks, typical of a stolen vehicle. Lt. Venturi called Mr. Vitoroulis, who told him that he never sold his van, but that it had been stolen.

Before leaving the premises on Lenox Avenue, Lt. Venturi checked the registrations of three other vehicles parked in the driveway. Mr. Smith's fiancée indicated that two of the cars were hers and one belonged to Mr. Smith. A computer check revealed that one of the three vehicles, a 1988 Honda Accord, bearing a New York registration, was a stolen car. A visual check revealed that its ignition lock was broken and the radio was missing from the dashboard. The car had previously been reported stolen in Cranford, New Jersey, and belonged to a woman who lived in Hawthorne, New York. Lt. Venturi took custody of the vehicle from Mr. Smith's fiancée, who told the lieutenant that it was Howard Smith's car. The vehicle, which also had a damaged steering column, was impounded and towed away.

Lt. Venturi's testimony was straightforward and credible.

Richard Winowski, a sergeant in the Irvington Police Department who was assigned to the auto theft squad, investigated the incident described by Lt. Venturi. On the day after the arrest, Sgt. Winowski interviewed Howard Smith, who told him that the van had been brought to him by Shawn Leverette, a former student of his at the Irvington High School, and that he paid cash to Mr. Leverette for the vehicle. Mr. Smith claimed that he did not know it had been stolen. During the interview, Mr. Smith also told Sgt. Winowski that Shawn Leverette, accompanied by another man, had brought several other vehicles to him at various times, but that he had no knowledge of the present location of these vehicles. See Exhibit P-20, Sgt. Winowski's written report.

When asked about the Honda automobile, Mr. Smith told the sergeant that it had been brought to his house by Shawn Leverette, who only asked him to hold it for him. Mr. Smith claimed that he did not know it was a stolen vehicle either.

A computer record check disclosed that a person named Shawn Leverette had an arrest record as a juvenile and as an adult, relating to car thefts. The Irvington Police Department attempted to contact Mr. Leverette, who did not respond, and that aspect of the investigation was not continued.

A record check relating to Howard Smith, using the date of birth of April 21, 1942, and Social Security number 262-23-9269, given to the police by Mr. Smith, did not disclose an arrest record.

Guy Ferri, Assistant Superintendent of Schools in Irvington, is custodian of the school's personnel records and is in charge of recruiting and hiring for the Board. Although Mr. Smith, a mathematics teacher in the high school, was arrested in September 1990, he did not report the matter to anyone in the school system. However, Mr. Ferri began hearing rumors that Mr. Smith had been arrested for auto theft, and he began making inquiries of the Irvington Police Department. Mr. Ferri then was able to obtain copies of the police reports, Exhibits P-3 and P-20. The matter was then discussed with the personnel committee of the Board of Education in October or November 1990. The Board decided that it could not allow Mr. Smith to continue interacting with his students. On November 15, the Superintendent of Schools wrote to the respondent and suspended him from his position, with pay, until the investigation was completed, and pending further direction of the Board. See Exhibits P-23 and P-24.

Mr. Ferri testified that he received nothing but sparse information from the police until the spring of 1991, when he learned that the respondent had applied for a pretrial intervention program (PTI). This information came from the police, not from Mr. Smith, who had never contacted Mr. Ferri or any of the other administrators or Board members regarding his status. On March 15, 1991, Mr. Ferri wrote to the respondent and informed him that the Board had learned of the PTI admission resulting from charges of car theft approximately six months earlier. The letter advised Mr. Smith that the Board would discuss the situation at a closed session meeting on March 20, 1991, and that the discussion could result in disciplinary action against him, including suspension without pay, as well as possible further action. The letter, sent to Mr. Smith's address in New Brunswick by certified and regular mail, was returned to the Board marked "moved, left no address, unable to forward, return to sender." According to Mr. Ferri, the respondent still had not communicated with the Board or its staff.

The Board meeting on March 20, 1991, resulted in a decision to withhold Mr. Smith's increments for the following school year, although his pay was continued. Mr. Smith did not appear. In an attempt to get Mr. Smith to respond, another letter was sent to him on April 3, 1991, but addressed to the home of his fiancée on Lenox Avenue in Irvington. This was the location at which he had been arrested the previous September, as recorded in Lt. Venturi's report. The respondent was asked to contact Mr. Ferri as soon as possible and he was reminded not to engage in any outside employment because he was still receiving full salary and benefits. Mr. Ferri testified that the Board was anxious to determine and be kept informed of the respondent's status because they had continuing problems obtaining a replacement for him. Mathematics and science teachers were scarce, and the Board was unable to recruit anyone for any definite period of time because the Board did not know if there would be a vacancy. Therefore, the administration had to use substitute teachers and move current staff members around on a month-to-month basis. See Exhibit P-28.

Mr. Ferri stated that Mr. Smith finally called him in April 1991, and they spoke about the respondent's status at that time. Mr. Smith indicated only that there had not been an indictment, but that he had appeared in court. Because there had been no final resolution of the matter, Mr. Smith could not provide definitive information about the future. Mr. Ferri asked him to keep him informed. The report from Mr. Smith was vague, and did not give Mr. Ferri enough information about the respondent's status to enable the Board to make any longer term personnel decisions. Mr. Ferri did not know at that time if he could offer a contract to anyone else for any particular period of time. In addition, Mr. Smith said nothing about PTI or the status of his application, and Mr. Ferri did not know if he would be admitted to the program.

According to Mr. Ferri, Mr. Smith failed to contact him again, as was requested in April, for at least several months thereafter. On August 9, 1991, Mr. Ferri wrote to Mr. Smith, by certified mail addressed to both locations, New Brunswick and Irvington, advising the teacher that plans were being made for the opening of school. The respondent was told that it was important for him to contact Mr. Ferri regarding his plans, in the event the Board would permit his return to teaching. The letter asked for a call no later than August 23, 1991, and Mr. Smith was told that his failure to do so might be considered as an abandonment of his position, with the possibility of disciplinary action. See Exhibit P-36.

Mr. Smith answered this letter and informed Mr. Ferri that he was willing and able to continue teaching at the high school without any restrictions. However, no information was given about the status of his criminal case. Because the respondent's status was still uncertain, Mr. Ferri hired a permanent substitute to begin work in the fall of 1991.

When cross-examined, Mr. Ferri stated that the policy manual requires that a teacher must report any change that might affect his or her status to the Superintendent, and that Mr. Smith did not satisfy this requirement. On the few occasions when he did make contact, the information was too vague to enable the Board to make any decisions about a resumption or continuation of his employment. In addition, Mr. Smith never responded to notices to attend Board meetings at which his situation and the possibilities of adverse personnel action were being discussed. Even when asked about his status in the April 1991 telephone conversation with Mr. Ferri, the respondent simply said that he had not been indicted and that he had been to court a couple of times. He said nothing about the PTI application and its timing.

Mr. Ferri first received some definitive advice about the PTI situation in the late spring and summer of 1991. However, this information came from the police, not the respondent, and the Board still had no knowledge of its terms, duration, or progress.

Mr. Ferri's testimony then turned to details relating to other charges, numbers 6 through 11, that involved the respondent's use of two different Social Security numbers and two or three different dates of birth on various forms and documents connected to his employment. Mr. Smith's failure to disclose a teaching certificate revocation in Florida and a prior disorderly conviction was also addressed in this testimony.

Mr. Ferri first became aware of the discrepancies in June 1991 when the Office of the Essex County Superintendent of Schools, as part of an ongoing monitoring program, informed him that the county had no record of Mr. Smith's teaching certification. Such certificates are routinely filed with the Office of the County Superintendent, and a copy is included in the employer board's records. Mr. Ferri was surprised because he had a copy of the respondent's certificate in his personnel file. See Exhibit J-1(1). A computer check by the county Superintendent then disclosed a Howard Smith with the same Social Security number that appeared on the Board's copy, 261-66-0617. However, the computer printout also showed that the certificate ~~had~~ been revoked. See Exhibit P-30.

Mr. Ferri became concerned because there was a possibility that if the certification had been previously revoked, a teacher might have been employed in the district who was not properly certified.

Mr. Ferri then checked other records in his possession and noted that a different Social Security number was recorded for Mr. Smith on various documents, including the most recently filed W-2 withholding tax statement, an annual personnel update sheet, and the respondent's original employment application. These bore Social Security number 262-23-9269. See Exhibit J-1(3) and P-35. The same Social Security number was also recorded on a transcript from Kean College of New Jersey. See Exhibit P-31. On the other hand, the school personnel file indicated that the first Social Security number, 261-66-0617, was shown on a transcript from Kean College of New Jersey, Exhibit P-31, and on an earlier transcript from the University of Florida, Exhibit P-32. A more comprehensive University of Florida transcript also bore the same number. See Exhibit P-33.

While checking the above documents and other papers in Mr. Smith's file, Mr. Ferri noted that the respondent also had used different dates of birth on various records he had submitted. One transcript from the University of Florida, Exhibit P-33, showed a year of birth of 1942; another, P-34, showed 1943. A Rutgers University Graduate School of Education transcript listed the year of birth as 1942, while three documents in the Board's file listed the respondent's year of birth as 1944.

It was also noted that the 1942 date of birth was listed for Mr. Smith in the police reports and possession of stolen motor vehicle records of September 26, 1990, relating to the possession of stolen cars. These records also listed his Social Security number as 262-23-9269.

All of the above created a great deal of confusion in Mr. Ferri's mind, and he continued to investigate. This led to his discovery of the revocation of the respondent's Florida teaching certificate in 1972, following a disorderly conduct arrest in that state. This led to a question: If the Florida revocation was communicated to New Jersey, had the New Jersey certification also been revoked at the time Mr. Smith was hired and teaching in the Irvington School District? At first, Mr. Ferri did not know, but he subsequently found out that the New Jersey certificate had been marked with a revoked notation and that the Florida certificate was subsequently reinstated.

The uncertainty about Mr. Smith's certification status in New Jersey continued into 1992. Two exhibits shed some light on the question: The first, Exhibit R-5, is a letter from the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Teacher Education and Academic Credentials, to Mr. Smith, dated July 8, 1981, acknowledging an inquiry from Mr. Smith. He was told that the New Jersey Department of Education was in touch with the State of Florida concerning the certification in that state, and that the respondent would be notified as soon as possible regarding his request for certification for teacher of mathematics in New Jersey. The second document is more recent, dated July 31, 1992, during the pendency of the instant hearing, from the New Jersey Department of Education to the respondent's attorney. This letter, Exhibit R-2, indicates that New Jersey is a member of the Interstate Reciprocity Contract between the states, and that a notice dated April 8, 1972, had been received from Florida concerning revocation of Mr. Smith's certificate in that state. As a matter of procedure, a revoked flag was entered into the computer on Mr. Smith's New Jersey certificate. In June 1991, further information was received from Florida confirming that Mr. Smith's certificate was again valid there. Therefore, the revocation reference that had been entered in New Jersey was removed from the computer file at that time.

The Director of the Division of Teacher Certification in the New Jersey Department of Education later advised that Mr. Smith's certificate had never been actually revoked in New Jersey. The revocation reference or flag was only placed onto the computer record pending the receipt of information from Florida. This information was not received until June 1991, when the flag was removed. See Exhibit R-8.

When asked if he knew why the two different Social Security numbers on the teaching certificate and the employment application did not raise an inquiry, Mr. Ferri said that the person who interviewed Mr. Smith probably did not notice the discrepancy. He also noted that a request on the application for identification of other states in which the respondent held certificates was left unanswered.

On further cross-examination about his claim that teachers have a duty to report changes that would affect their status as employees, Mr. Ferri stated that the requirement appears in the policy manual and that teachers regularly and routinely do report such changes to him, such as prolonged illness, forthcoming birth of a child, and other matters that might cause a prolonged absence. He did not know if an arrest would automatically change a person's status, but he felt that Mr. Smith had a duty to report it and to keep the Board informed. He repeated his original testimony indicating that when he finally was able to contact the respondent and ask questions, Mr. Smith's advice was vague and did not give enough information about his status to enable the Board to make personnel decisions. In addition, after the one conversation they had in the spring of 1991, Mr. Smith failed to update his status, and Mr. Ferri had to wait and ask the Board attorney to obtain information from the police.

Counsel pointed out to Mr. Ferri that the employment application did not ask about prior arrests or revocation of teaching licenses in other states. His response was that such information is of sufficient importance that it should be disclosed, because it can seriously affect the Board's decision to hire a new teacher. His opinion was that the failure to ask the questions does not eliminate the obligation to disclose such vital information.

The respondent, Howard Smith, testified in his own behalf. He began by explaining the reasons why he possessed multiple identification. He said that his first Social Security number, 261-66-0617, was acquired in 1964, and he used it in connection with many jobs he had in the state of Florida. He misplaced the card four years later, so he applied for and obtained another card and number in 1968, which was Social Security number 262-23-9269.

The respondent stated that his actual date of birth is April 21, 1944. He began using the false year of birth, 1942, when he was sixteen years old, in order to obtain work as a caddy at a golf course. Applicants were required to be eighteen years of age. After that, according to Mr. Smith, he continued to use the 1942 year of birth for his driver's license, in college, and in other positions, including teaching, in the state of Florida. After moving to New Jersey in 1974, the respondent continued to use the false year of birth, 1942, for other purposes, such as graduate school at Rutgers, and at a part-time job at the Passaic Community College. He also used that date of birth for an instructor's position at Rutgers in 1975 or 1976, at Plainfield High School in 1982, and then in Irvington High School in 1985.

Mr. Smith knew that his Florida teacher's certificate was revoked in 1972. It was reinstated in 1981 when Florida contacted him as part of a review of all revoked licenses. However, he first needed to obtain a temporary certificate, and he was required to return to Florida in 1981 for testing. See Exhibit R-4. The permanent, five-year certificate, was issued to him in September 1981, bearing a birthdate of 04-21-42. Mr. Smith then applied for and obtained his New Jersey teacher's certificate. However, he did not inform the New Jersey authorities that his Florida certificate had been revoked at one time. When asked why he did not disclose this, respondent replied that no one ever asked him.

When asked why his transcript from the University of Florida, Exhibit P-34, lists his year of birth as 1943, Mr. Smith stated that it must be an error, because he told them it was 1942, stating that he never used 1943 as a year of birth.

The respondent then furnished details relating to his various residences. Mr. Smith has owned a home for the past twenty years in Sanford, Florida, where he spends time when school is not in session. After residing in New Brunswick since 1977, the respondent established a residence on Lenox Avenue in Irvington, in the house owned by his wife, the same woman who was identified as his fiancee at the time of his arrest in 1990.

At one point, the respondent maintained both addresses, New Brunswick and Irvington, which may explain why the Board had difficulty reaching him after he was arrested.

Explaining his acquisition of the Chevrolet van, Mr. Smith testified that he was looking for a used van and that a man named Victor, whom he knew, told the witness that he knew of one that could be bought. This was in June 1990. A few days later, according to Mr. Smith, a man came to his home with the van and said his name was Elias and that he owned the vehicle. They discussed the sale and negotiated a price. Elias wanted $10,000, but he did not have the certificate of title. Mr. Smith replied that he would give him one-half of the money, $5,000, and would pay the balance when he received the title. The respondent said that he paid the man $5,000 in cash. Referring to the bill of sale, Exhibit P-1, respondent said that the document was already printed out, with the signature of Elias Vitoroulis on it. Mr. Smith said that he then signed it.

According to the respondent's testimony, the man never brought the title back, and he never had to pay the second $5,000. He thought that was a good deal, because the vehicle only cost him $5,000. Respondent said that license plates were on the van, but he registered it himself and obtained his own new license plates. When asked how he could do that without a title, Mr. Smith said that he took his brother's title to a different vehicle and used that instead. Therefore, he ended up paying $5,000 for the van, in cash, and he never heard from "Elias" again.

Contradicting the testimony of Lt. Venturi, Mr. Smith said that he was not using the van when he was arrested, because while he was in Florida that summer, someone broke into the vehicle and removed the radio and speakers. He denied saying that he purchased the van from Shawn Leverette, and he also denied telling Sgt. Winowski, who interviewed him the day after he was arrested, that the van was brought to him by Shawn Leverette or that he paid Mr. Leverette for it. Mr. Smith further also denied the sergeant's statement indicating that the respondent said that Shawn Leverette brought the Honda automobile to his residence and asked him to hold on to it for him.

Asked about the man named Victor, who presumably initiated the sale of the van to the respondent from "Elias," Mr. Smith testified that he knew Victor before the incident occurred but that he never saw him again.

Referring further to Shawn Leverette, the respondent acknowledged that the young man had been a student of his and that he was graduated from the high school in June 1990. He also said that Mr. Leverette lived in his fiancée's (now his wife's) house on Lenox Avenue during the summer of 1990, and had been "hanging around" a lot after graduation from high school. Mr. Smith asked Shawn Leverette to live there while he was gone that summer to Florida, because he wanted some protection from vandalism in an otherwise empty house.

Referring again to the Honda automobile, respondent said that the vehicle was at the house when he returned from vacation at the end of the summer in 1990. Shawn Leverette told him it was his, but he left the car there. According to Mr. Smith, Shawn Leverette had free access to the house, had his own keys, and could do anything he wanted with regard to the residence. Mr. Smith further testified that Shawn Leverette never came by and moved the car, nor did he, respondent, drive the vehicle.

When cross-examined about his purchase of the van, Mr. Smith indicated that the $10,000 price (more accurately close to $11,000) was the price selected by "Elias." However, he acknowledged that the bill of sale does not refer to $5,000 down. The man named Elias was a complete stranger to him, but he did not hesitate giving him the $5,000 in cash. Mr. Smith said that although he never had ownership or title to the vehicle, he had the van. In addition to not acquiring title to the vehicle, Mr. Smith acknowledged that he did not have insurance coverage for it. Asked if this was a usual occurrence, respondent said that he always buys cars for cash because people won't take checks; he has purchased four cars that way in the last five years.

Asked why he would purchase a vehicle without knowing that he could have the title, Mr. Smith replied that, "When getting a good deal, you take it. It might be hot, but that's a chance you take." He said that this van was a good deal.

Asked about his use of his brother's Florida title to register the vehicle, Mr. Smith said that the VIN used for his New Jersey registration was the same as the VIN on his brother's title, and that his brother signed his own van over to him, with the title, so he could get the newly-purchased Chevrolet van registered in New Jersey. Respondent said that his brother kept his van, but only signed the title over. Mr. Smith acknowledged lying to the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles in order to obtain a registration for the Chevrolet van.

Asked about the obvious damage to the van, the respondent replied that he noticed it when he returned from Florida, and that the radio and speakers had been ripped out. He did not mention the broken steering column, door lock, or ignition lock. Mr. Smith did not report the damage to the police. He said that he just let the vehicle sit on the street, unrepaired and open, for twenty-six days until he was arrested.

Further testimony from the respondent relating to Shawn Leverette disclosed that the young man had possession of the house on Lenox Avenue in Irvington alone during the summer of 1990, because Mr. Smith's fiancee had accompanied him to Florida. At the time, Mr. Leverette was eighteen years old, and respondent did not know if he was employed. Asked about the length of their relationship, Mr. Smith replied that they became friends when he was Mr. Leverette's teacher at Irvington High School in 1986-87.

Returning to his purchase of the Chevrolet van, Mr. Smith indicated that it was worth $20,000 to 30,000 if new, and perhaps one-third to one-half of that if used. He did not remember the mileage on the odometer, but he knew it was a 1989 vehicle when he bought it in June 1990 for $5,000. When asked about the two different spellings of Mr. Vitoroulis's name on the bill of sale, Mr. Smith replied that he did not read it before he signed it. He was not bothered by the fact that the seller had no title, and he made no attempt to contact the seller afterward, even though he had the address on the bill of sale. In addition, although he acquired the van on June 20, 1990, it remained standing on the street, unregistered and without license plates, until late August when he returned from Florida and brought his brother's title certificate back so the vehicle could be registered. Mr. Smith testified further that when he registered the van, he used the insurance information from four other cars that he owned, which were parked on the street or in his driveway. Additionally, the respondent was unable to produce any evidence that he paid State sales tax when he registered the vehicle. Asked how the Division of Motor Vehicles permitted that, the respondent answered that he probably told the Division that the vehicle was given to him by his brother as a gift.

Mr. Smith noted that the VIN on the bill of sale, Exhibit P-1, is accurate, although he has no title or other documents other than the registration. He said that he never intended to obtain a title certificate. According to the respondent, such things as titles and other paperwork are not important and never were important to him in connection with any cars he has acquired.

The respondent was asked to identify all other motor vehicles that he currently owns. Mr. Smith identified four cars, one Chrysler, one Horizon, and two Citations. These did not include the Chevrolet van and the Honda, both of which were involved in the September 1990 arrest. Counsel then produced a computerized return of a Division of Motor Vehicles inquiry in July 1992, for motor vehicles registered to the respondent. The only vehicle listed as being registered in Mr. Smith's name is the Chrysler. (However, the search was made almost two years after the arrest, and counsel did not pursue the matter for identification of registrations in 1990. See Exhibit P-38.)

It was also noted that the same document included details relating to Mr. Smith's driver's license, which expires in June 1994. The year of birth on his driver's license is 1942.

Asked again about his denial of the statement in Sgt. Winowski's report that he obtained the Chevrolet van from Shawn Leverette and paid him for it, Mr. Smith repeated that denial, but when asked what he did tell the sergeant, the respondent stated that he could not remember.

Following up further on Mr. Smith's assertion that he paid $5,000 in cash for the van, counsel asked where he got the money. Mr. Smith said that he withdrew the funds from certain bank accounts, certificates of deposit, or money market funds that he specifically named. When asked, he identified five such sources of funds as the only accounts or certificates he possessed at the time. Counsel then subpoenaed the account records from these institutions, and on the next hearing day he confronted Mr. Smith with the statements. None of these accounts showed withdrawals during the time in question. When asked to explain, the respondent stated that now he is not sure where he obtained the cash.

While copies of Mr. Smith's income tax returns were not produced in connection with his use of Social Security numbers and dates of birth, the respondent acknowledged that he has used both of his Social Security numbers on tax returns in the past.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS

At the beginning of the hearing, the parties stipulated and agreed to ten facts, set forth in Exhibit J-1, with exhibits attached. The ten stipulations of fact are as follows:

1. Howard Smith was certified as a teacher of mathematics in the state of New Jersey in 1981.

2. Howard Smith was certified as a teacher of mathematics in the state of Florida from 1965-1971.

3. Howard Smith's teaching certificate in the state of Florida was revoked in 1972 after the Florida Department of Education learned of Smith's prior arrest.

4. Howard Smith's teaching certificate in the state of Florida was subsequently reinstated in or about 1981.

5. Howard Smith was hired by the Irvington Board of Education in the fall of 1985 as a mathematics teacher and has continued serving in that capacity until the time of his suspension on October 17, 1991, pursuant to the subject tenure charges.

6. Howard Smith has utilized two Social Security numbers: (1) 262-23-9269; and (2) 261-66-0617.

7. Howard Smith has listed two dates of birth: (1) April 21, 1942; and (2) April 21, 1944.

8. In September of 1990, Howard Smith resided at 94 Manor Crescent, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

9. In September of 1990, Howard Smith's fiancée, Yvonne Finley, resided at 27 Lenox Avenue in Irvington, New Jersey.

10. On April 3, 1991, Howard Smith was accepted into pretrial intervention, completed the program during the summer of 1992, and criminal charges against him were dismissed by Order of Judge Thomas Brown on September 6, 1991.

After having heard the testimony, observed the witnesses, reviewed the exhibits, and considered the arguments of counsel, I FIND the following additional facts by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

11. The uncontroverted facts, as set forth in the foregoing discussion, are incorporated herein by reference, and need not be repeated.

12. The respondent acquired, used, and operated a stolen Chevrolet van, knowing it had been stolen.

13. The respondent did not purchase the van from its owner, Elias Vitoroulis. The vehicle had been stolen from Mr. Vitoroulis.

14. The respondent himself wrote a purported bill of sale for the vehicle and signed Mr. Vitoroulis's name as seller. This was a forgery, drawn and executed solely by Mr. Smith.

15. The respondent then attempted to legitimize his acquisition of the van by having it registered in his own name. This registration was accomplished without an originating title and without insurance coverage. The respondent used a registration given him by his brother, applicable to a different vehicle, and he supplied false insurance information. Although he claimed that he paid $5,000 in cash for the vehicle, Mr. Smith did not pay sales tax on the transaction, claiming it was a gift from his brother.

16. Respondent also acquired, possessed, and stored a stolen Honda automobile. He had reason to know that this vehicle was stolen.

17. The license plates from another vehicle, a Lincoln, stolen from Mr. Vitoroulis at or about the same time that the van was stolen, were in plain sight on a seat in the stolen van referred to above.

18. Mr. Smith was involved in the acquisition of the above stolen cars with Shawn Leverette, a June 1990 graduate of Irvington High School. Mr. Leverette was in respondent's class several years earlier and the two became friends at that time. Mr. Leverette supplied the stolen automobiles to Mr. Smith.

19. The respondent failed to inform the Board or the administration of his arrest in September 1990. That information first became available to Mr. Smith's superiors two months later, in November 1990. The information was not supplied by the respondent, but by the Irvington Police after inquiries were made by school personnel.

20. In November 1990, after the Board learned of the car theft charge, Mr. Smith was suspended with pay.

21. Thereafter, Mr. Smith did not contact the Board until early April 1991. The advice he gave to Mr. Ferri about the progress of the criminal charges was vague, and the Board was unable to plan for the possible return of the respondent or, in the alternative, whether to offer a contract to a replacement teacher.

22. All of the information contained in the exhibits and testimony referred to above relating to Mr. Smith's long-term and continuing use of two different Social Security numbers and two different dates of birth are accepted as fact. These inconsistencies in the respondent's records, when discovered by the Board, caused justifiable confusion and apprehension, particularly relating to the question of whether Mr. Smith's teaching credentials were in order.

23. In connection with the foregoing, the respondent had failed to disclose to the Board, at the time he was first hired and thereafter, that his Florida teaching certificate had been revoked and that such revocation had caused the New Jersey Department of Education to enter a revoke flag into its computer on Mr. Smith's certificate in 1972. The revocation reference was first removed from the computer file in June 1991, although the Florida certificate was restored some years earlier. Thus, the status of Mr. Smith's New Jersey teaching certification was in doubt at the time he applied for the position in Irvington and continually thereafter, until almost a year after his suspension on the subject charges.

24. Although Mr. Smith's employment application did not ask about revocation of teaching certificates, Mr. Smith did not answer the question that asked for a listing of certifications in other states.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In any case involving tenure charges, a board of education has the burden of proving the truth of the charge or charges by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Arlene Dusel, School District of the Borough of Sayreville, Middlesex County, 1978 S.L.D. 526; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Madeleine Ribacka, Sussex-Wantage Regional School District, Sussex County, 1978 S.L.D. 929; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Fred Brown, School District of the City of Bayonne, 1970 S.L.D. 239.

Eleven charges of incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, and conduct constituting other just cause were filed by the Board against the respondent. Four of the eleven charges relate to his conduct in connection with the stolen automobiles that were the subject of his arrest in September 1990. Another charge involved Mr. Smith's failure to report his arrest and failure to keep the Board informed of his progress through the criminal-justice system leading to his acceptance into the PTI program. Three of the charges involve the respondent's use of incorrect or alternate Social Security numbers and dates of birth on various forms involving his employment. Two charges dealt with the questionable status of Mr. Smith's teaching certificate, as it was affected by the Florida revocation. One charge involved the respondent's failure to disclose a disorderly conduct arrest and conviction in Florida on his employment application.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, dealing with the tenure of teaching staff members, provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members, including all teachers . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member or other just cause . . . .

See also N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.

The charges involved in this matter, if true, can constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member or other just cause under the statute. However, although the charges generally also refer to incapacity, none of the allegations against the respondent claim that he was not capable of the teaching duties that were assigned to him, nor were any complaints registered about the performance of his duties when he was teaching.

If it is determined that the charges or any of them are true, it then becomes necessary to address the question of the appropriate penalty action to be taken. The statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, speaks of dismissal or reduction in compensation. Factors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the teacher's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among the students, and the likelihood of such behavior recurring. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frederick Ostergren, School District of Franklin Township, Somerset County, 1966 S.L.D. 185, 187; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William H. Kittell, School District of the Borough of Little Silver, 1972 S.L.D. 535, 541; In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967).

Also, in determining the respondent's fitness to continue in the position, the pronouncement in Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (S. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E&A 1944) serves as a concise guideline:

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.

The Commissioner of Education has also commented on the seriousness of charges that arise from a teacher's violation of the law.

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions, they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully violates the law, as in this matter, and consequently violates the public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal or other severe penalty as set by the Commissioner.

See also In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School District of Blackhorse Pike Regional, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Mark Blasko, School District of the Township of Cherry Hill, Camden County, 1980 S.L.D. 987.

In such a role, a teacher's actions carry a great deal of potential to influence students, whether for good or bad. It is precisely because of this potential that allegations of improper conduct by a teacher must be closely scrutinized, and where proved to be true, dealt with firmly.

CONCLUSIONS AS TO THE CHARGES

Charges 1, 2, 3, and 5 all relate to the respondent's activities in connection with the stolen cars discussed above. The respondent knowingly and intentionally acquired, possessed, and used stolen cars. He executed a false bill of sale for one of the vehicles, and he forged the owner's signature. Mr. Smith also applied for and obtained fraudulent registrations for the stolen vehicles. In addition, he was involved in this activity with a student, Shawn Leverette, in the high school in which he taught.

It is CONCLUDED that the petitioner has proven Charges 1, 2, 3, and 5.

Charge No. 4

As set forth in the discussion and findings of fact above, the respondent failed to report his arrest, and he did not notify the Board of his progress and status for many months following. This resulted in uncertainty and inconvenience to the Board, which needed advance notice in order to keep the mathematics teacher position filled.

Mr. Smith's protestations that he did not know of the Board's policy that teachers should keep the administration advised of status changes that could affect their employment is not accepted. That is a simple, commonsensical, and fundamental policy that respondent and all teaching staff members should routinely know about, and Mr. Smith is charged with such knowledge. The Board need not prove that such a written policy had been "served" upon Mr. Smith.

The respondent also argued that the Board never contacted him to find out about his status. Besides not being true (Mr. Ferri testified that attempts at contact were unanswered), the burden was not on the Board to chase after the respondent for information that should have been periodically and openly forthcoming from the teacher. Mr. Smith was being paid his full salary while suspended, and the least he could do was to maintain frequent and regular contact with his employer. He did not even appear at a Board meeting when he was notified that a possibly adverse personnel action against him was to be considered.

It is CONCLUDED that the petitioner has proved Charge No. 4.

Charge No. 6

It is true that the respondent used different Social Security numbers on his teaching certificate, employment application, and W-2 forms, but it is CONCLUDED that the petitioner has not proved that this fact, standing alone, deceived the Board with respect to respondent's prior out-of-state arrest record and revocation of his Florida teaching certificate, although it confused the Board. No proof was adduced to indicate that the Board noticed the discrepancies or checked on either Social Security number. It is noted, however, that on more than one occasion, the respondent attempted to put the onus for his lack of nondisclosure on the Board, which may not have performed sufficient background checks. Such a theory is unacceptable, because it does not relieve any applicant or employee from the duty to disclose. See overall conclusions as to penalty.

Charge No. 7

This charge refers to Mr. Smith's use of an incorrect date of birth on his application for employment and on his W-2 form. As stated in connection with Charge No. 6 above, it is CONCLUDED that the Board has not proved that this fact, standing alone, deceived the Board with respect to the respondent's prior out-of-state arrest record and revocation of his Florida teaching certificate. However, see overall conclusions as to penalty.

Charge No. 8

This charge refers to Mr. Smith's continual distortion of his employment record by using the duplicate Social Security number to update employee records (different from the Social Security number on his teaching certificate), thus continuing to deceive the Board. It is CONCLUDED that consistent with the conclusions regarding Charges 6 and 7 above, the petitioner has not proved that the continuing use of the alternate Social Security number, by itself, continued to deceive the Board, although it confused the Board. See overall conclusions as to penalty.

When he completed his Irvington employment application and was interviewed, the respondent failed to disclose the fact that his teacher's certificate had been revoked in the state of Florida. By virtue of the fact that he left the inquiry about teaching certificates in other states blank on his application, Mr. Smith avoided and evaded his responsibility to indicate the status of that certificate.

It is therefore CONCLUDED that the petitioner has proved Charge No. 9.

This refers to Mr. Smith's failure to disclose his prior arrest and conviction for a disorderly-conduct offense. Although it is true that the respondent did not include any disclosure on his employment application or the accompanying interview that he had been arrested and convicted of disorderly conduct in Florida sometime in the past, there is no question on the application that even remotely touches on this subject. The last page asks for any supplemental information that will aid the applicant's candidacy, but it does not ask for anything that might detract from it. There is also no evidence that the question was asked in the interview, either directly or indirectly. Furthermore, no proofs were adduced that might tend to indicate how relevant or important that information might have been or if there was any nexus between the conduct leading to the conviction and Mr. Smith's employment. How long before 1985 was the conviction? Was the respondent very young or was he a mature man at the time? What conduct was involved and what would its effect be on making current judgments of the man's character?

While it is true that the petitioner has proved that Mr. Smith did not disclose this information, as stated in the one-sentence Charge No. 10, it is CONCLUDED that the Board has not proved that the nondisclosure is a proper "charge" under the circumstances.

The respondent did fail to provide accurate information regarding the status of his New Jersey teaching certificate. It was issued to him in January 1982, three to four years before he applied for the Irvington teaching position. He had been using his second Social Security number (262) for fifteen to twenty years before that, and he used the same number on his employment application and other forms he filled out during his employment in Irvington. However, he had inexplicably used the older (261) Social Security number on his New Jersey teaching certificate. This resulted in understandable confusion between the county Superintendent and the administrators in Irvington.

Mr. Smith testified that he was in touch with Florida educational authorities in 1980-1981 regarding the teaching certificate that was revoked there in 1972. He was told that he needed three recommendations as part of the process leading to a temporary certification and restoration of his certificate. In July 1981, the New Jersey Department of Education informed him that they were in touch with Florida concerning his certificate from that state. Therefore, the respondent knew that his Florida certificate had previously been revoked and that New Jersey was looking into the situation. Since the "flag" was not removed from the New Jersey records until 1991, Mr. Smith could not have received earlier assurance from New Jersey that the record was clear.

By not informing the Irvington Board that he ever had a Florida certificate, he thus avoided informing them of the New Jersey action related to that certificate (even though Florida issued his new certification in September 1981).

It is therefore CONCLUDED that the petitioner has proved Charge No. 11.

CONCLUSIONS RELATING TO PENALTY

In attempt to mitigate penalty, the respondent has cited a series of prior cases wherein it was held that various offenses committed by teachers did not warrant dismissal and loss of tenure, but lesser penalties instead. See In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Consuelo Garcia, Midland Park Board of Ed., 1970 S.L.D. 335 (where tenure charges were dismissed because violations were deemed to be trivial); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Joseph Murphy, Manalapan Board of Ed., 1984 S.L.D. 174 (October 24, 1984) (where a mistake in judgment did not constitute unbecoming conduct); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert P. Valenti, Sch. Dist. of Monroe (Comm. of Ed. March 6, 1990) (where it was held that a teacher's possession of marijuana was conduct unbecoming, but a suspension and forfeiture of salary resulted because of mitigating circumstances such as the fact that it was an isolated incident and the teacher had an unblemished record); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Gregg W. Molinaro, Sch. Dist. of Parsippany-Troy Hills (Comm. of Ed. June 26, 1989), aff'd (State Bd. of Ed. June 6, 1990) (where harassing phone calls were considered to be conduct unbecoming a teacher, but the single incident resulted only in a forfeiture of increments and four months' salary); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Richard Pappa, Sch. Dist. of Twp. of Old Bridge (Comm. of Ed. February 4, 1988) (where a conviction for open lewdness resulted in a salary forfeiture of 120 days and increment withholding); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Martin Lieb, School Dist. of West Orange (Comm. of Edu. July 1, 1985) (where a similar public lewdness offense resulted in suspension instead of termination). Respondent also cited In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Richard Rumage, Sch. Dist. of Twp. of Woodbridge (Comm. of Edu. July 22, 1980), which resulted in a dismissal of tenure charges against a guidance counselor convicted of conspiracy and bookmaking. The offense was considered to be an isolated incident not involving students and not occurring on school property. The respondent there merely forfeited two months' salary.

The respondent argues that the foregoing examples are comparable to his situation, which had no effect on the administration of the school, did not involve students or teachers, and occurred off school property. Mr. Smith further argues that any difficulties which arose due to his arrest and admission into PTI were a function of the Board's own frustration with the criminal-justice system.

The petitioner disagrees with the foregoing analysis, and cites other cases in which dismissals of teachers were sustained following criminal activities. The Board claims that the examples cited by the respondent are all distinguishable from the instant matter, and that those cases all involved teachers with long-standing records of employment in their districts, single incidents of disorderly persons or petty disorderly persons' offenses, and total separation from the student body.

It is CONCLUDED that the examples cited by respondent in support of his plea for a lesser penalty than removal are pale by comparison with the degree of moral turpitude involved in Mr. Smith's activities. The conduct that gave rise to the charges that have been proved are unbecoming anyone, not only a teacher, and it is particularly egregious when a teacher involves himself in illegal activities with a student.

As for the use of two Social Security numbers and two or three birth dates, the use of multiple identification by a person can be used to defraud the Internal Revenue Service, avoid and confuse creditors, and sidetrack credit agencies, law enforcement authorities, and others who check prior records for credentialing purposes. The respondent has explained that he first falsified his date of birth when he was a teenager in order to get a job as a caddy at a golf course. Once having achieved his purpose, why did he continue this falsification for decades thereafter, including the University of Florida, Rutgers University in 1975, his Florida teaching certificate in 1981, and on the occasion of his arrest by the Irvington Police in September 1990?

Similar comments apply to the respondent's use of two Social Security numbers. When he obtained the second number, ostensibly because he lost his card in 1968, he used the second number for many years, but then inexplicably resumed using the first number, for example, on his New Jersey teaching certificate obtained in 1981 or 1982. Interestingly, his employment application and other updated forms in the Irvington School District contained the second Social Security number, while the New Jersey teaching certificate contains the first.

While the petitioner has not proved that respondent intentionally engaged in this course of misidentification for the specific purposes of deceiving the Board and hiding his problems in Florida, his conduct had that effect at the time he was employed. It later confused the county's Superintendent of Schools as well as the Irvington Board and created an overall impression of deception.

The respondent argues that, in many instances, the Board never asked for specific information and did not perform checks and investigations that might have led to disclosure. While that may be true, the burden nevertheless was on the respondent to make full disclosure of his background, particularly when he knew about the Florida certificate revocation and about his use of different identification devices. This course of conduct on his part was unbecoming generally. That conduct cannot be excused and condoned simply because the New Jersey educational authorities may not have been sufficiently alert and did not conduct in-depth investigations.

It is also appropriate to comment on the respondent's attempt to invoke his admission and discharge from PTI as constituting a lack of evidence of any wrongdoing. The dismissal of a criminal charge as a result of entering PTI is not a determination that the individual was not guilty of the conduct complained of; only that the matter was "adjusted." R. 3:28(c)(1). A note to R. 3:28 points out that "[a] defendant's consideration for admission [to PTI] must be measured according to his/her amenability to correction, responsiveness to rehabilitation and the nature of the offense." The respondent was not "cleared" of the criminal charges, but he was given an opportunity to avoid ordinary prosecution by receiving early rehabilitative services as an alternative to prosecution and to deter future criminal or disorderly behavior.

An evaluation of the witnesses who testified has also been instrumental in leading to the conclusions contained herein. The respondent's witnesses were believable and straightforward in their testimony. On the other hand, much of Mr. Smith's testimony was confused, uncertain, glib, and much less than credible. He found himself continually trapped in contradictions and shifting accounts of the events in question. His explanations for the use of multiple identification devices were inadequate and many of his attempts to deal with the specifics of the car theft allegations were absurd and beyond belief.

It is therefore ultimately CONCLUDED that the respondent has given the Board just cause for dismissing him and for causing a forfeiture of his tenure protection, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29. Under the circumstances, the penalty of dismissal is not excessive or unreasonable.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the respondent be DISMISSED from his position as a tenured teaching staff member employed by the School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF HOWARD SMITH,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent requested and was granted an extension until May 17, 1993 to submit exceptions which were timely filed on that date. The Board's reply exceptions thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent Smith excepts to the ALJ's findings and conclusions with respect to charges 4, 9, and 11 and the recommended penalty. Arguments of the parties are presented, by charge, below.

Charge 4

Respondent avers that the ALJ erred in imputing knowledge of the Board's policy requiring teachers to apprise the Board of changes which affect their employment to him and then concluding that he failed to inform the Board of his arrest in September 1990. He alleges that the Board's "policy" was never introduced into evidence and, therefore, its existence was based solely upon the hearsay testimony of Mr. Ferri and not corroborated by any other evidence. Respondent maintains that, although hearsay may be admissible in an administrative proceeding, it must be supported by a residuum of legally competent evidence to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the appearance of arbitrariness. Respondent alleges that the residuum rule was violated by the ALJ's finding here.

The Board asserts that, contrary to respondent's contention, Mr. Ferri's awareness of the Board's policy is not hearsay but rather is predicated on his firsthand knowledge of it. The Board maintains that his testimony about what the policy means and how it has been applied provided better information than the policy itself could have. The Board maintains that Ferri's personal testimony regarding the policy satisfies the requirement of the residuum rule. Further, it avers that if respondent disagreed with Ferri's testimony regarding the policy, he was free to subpoena the manual, which he did not.

Respondent alleges the ALJ erred in his conclusion here by finding that because respondent had left the inquiry regarding certificates in other states blank on his application to Irvington, he had avoided and evaded his responsibility to indicate the status of his Florida certificate. Respondent contends that the application did not specifically ask about revocations in other states; therefore, he had no duty to disclose and, absent such a duty, there can be no failure. Respondent further argues that by the time he applied to Irvington in 1985, his Florida teaching certificate had been reinstated for over four years.

The Board takes strong exception to respondent's argument stating:

> Respondent advances the fallacious view that in the absence of a specific inquiry by hiring board of education, applying teachers are thereby relieved of any moral, ethical and professional duty to report prior certificate revocations. Petitioner vehemently disagrees, and respectfully urges the Commissioner to adopt a posture that imposes minimal standards of forthrightness and integrity upon all professional teachers.

Respondent excepts to the ALJ's finding that he failed to provide accurate information regarding the status of his New Jersey teaching certificate, i.e., that it was listed under another social security number and that it had been revoked and/or suspended. Respondent asserts that his New Jersey certificate was never revoked, nor was he notified or aware that the New Jersey State Department of Education (DOE) had entered a "revoke flag" for the purpose of indicating his previous Florida revocation.

The Board avers that although respondent may not have been fully aware that the DOE had entered a revoke flag against his teaching certificate, he was contacted by the DOE in July 1991 and informed that it had been in touch with Florida regarding his certificate there. The Board asserts that respondent was aware at the time of his application to Irvington that there had been an investigation by the DOE that, as far as he knew, had not been fully resolved. The Board maintains that respondent was, therefore, duty-bound to inform it of his situation.

Penalty

Respondent contends that the ALJ erred in considering all of the charges against him, even those determined not to be proven, in arriving at the penalty to be imposed.

Respondent also objects to the ALJ's considering the sustained charges separately rather than merging them into one charge for penalty determination purposes. He asserts that Charges 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 related to the possession and receipt of stolen vehicles, failure to report his arrest, and forgery of the bill of sale, are all part of the same incident which requires them to be merged and the penalty considered as if there was one charge or offense.

The Board argues that the ALJ's conclusion that respondent's course of conduct was "unbecoming generally" was properly based on the behaviors which formed the foundation for Charges 6, 7, 8, and 10. It asserts that although the ALJ held that each of these acts, standing separately, did not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct, he considered that under the totality of circumstances, taken in the aggregate, they denote a course of unbecoming conduct generally. In support of its argument, the Board cites In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of M. William Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div. 1988) at 751:

> [T]here need not be a residuum of competent evidence to prove each act consideredso long as "the combined probative force of the relevant competent evidence" sustains theultimate finding of unbecoming conduct.

The Board further asserts that respondent's argument regarding the merging of Charges 1-5, 9 and 11 misstates what the ALJ actually did and misconstrues the law of merger. It contends that the ALJ did, in fact, consider all of the charges together in finding respondent's conduct to be unbecoming. He likewise again considered all of the charges together in fixing the penalty. The Board urges that this is exactly what the law of merger requires. The Board further argues that even if respondent's assertion may have some foundation in law, it is inappropriate > because each of the charges represents a separate act of misconduct. For example, the theft of the Chevrolet Van (Charge No. 1) is not part of the theft of the Honda from a different owner (Charge No. 2). Receipt of the stolen vehicles from a former student (Charge No. 3) represents the distinct transgression of involvement of a former student. Failure to report to the Board his arrest for theft of the vehicles (Charge No. 4), again is a separate offense -- it is the failure to report the arrest, not the underlying theft -- that is wrongful. Forgery of a bill of sale (Charge No. 5) is a distinct crime which is not necessarily fully encompassed by the theft of the Chevrolet Van. It is clear that Smith could have stolen the Van without forging a bill of sale. Failure to report his prior arrest and conviction in Florida (Charge No. 9) on his employment application certainly has nothing to do with the foregoing charges.

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Commissioner is in agreement with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that the Board has proven Charges 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 9 for the reasons clearly articulated by the ALJ in his initial decision. She does, however, disagree with his determination that Charge 11 has been proven by the Board. This charge specifically alleges:

> Mr. Smith failed to provide accurate information concerning the status of his New Jersey Teacher Certification, to wit: that it was listed under an alternative Social Security number and that it had been revoked and/or suspended.

The Commissioner observes that the record in this matter supports respondent's argument that his New Jersey teaching certificate was never revoked. (See Exhibit R-8.) Additionally, the record does not substantiate that respondent knew or should have known that the New Jersey State Department of Education had entered a revoke flag against his certificate. Respondent admittedly provided a social security number for his certificate which differed from the one listed on his school records creating an inconsistency which, no doubt caused the Board confusion and apprehension particularly when attempting to verify his teaching credentials. Nonetheless, the Commissioner finds this act, standing alone, insufficient to establish that the Board has proven unbecoming conduct or other just cause on the part of respondent with respect to this charge.

The Commissioner determines that the remaining exceptions advanced by the respondent are without merit. She, categorically rejects his argument with respect to a teaching position applicant having no duty to disclose certificate revocation in other states on an employment application unless the question is specifically asked. The Commissioner has previously addressed the importance of teachers accurately presenting their credentials to their employing board, (see In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Peter J. Deer, Board of Education of the Borough of Palisades Park, 1975 S.L.D. 752) and further finds that individuals who engage in overt or covert misrepresentation or omission in this regard are breaching standards of ordinary truth and morality which cannot be tolerated from one in an educator's unique position. Teachers are pivotal forces in the lives of children and their conduct must always be representative of that extraordinary trust.

The Commissioner also rejects respondent's arguments regarding allegations of hearsay and failure to satisfy the residuum with respect to the Board's policy requiring teachers to keep the administration advised of status changes which could affect their employment. She finds that respondent had a professional obligation to notify the Board of his arrest. Moreover, as stated by the ALJ:

> That is a simple, commonsensical, and fundamental policy that respondent and all teaching staff members should routinely know about, and Mr. Smith is charged with such knowledge. The Board need not prove that such a written policy had been "served" upon Mr. Smith.

With respect to the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ's recommendation that respondent be dismissed from his position. This determination was compelled since the within sustained charges are serious in nature and serve to demonstrate a pattern of behavior which is unacceptable for an individual in any profession but particularly intolerable from one who is an educator of children.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision and modified herein, respondent is terminated from his tenured teaching position in the school district of the Township of Irvington as of the date of this decision. It is further ordered that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(1), a copy of this decision be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for its review and, in its discretion, further appropriate action.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE GREATER EGG HARBOR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Motion of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

This matter has come before the Commissioner by way of Petition of Appeal with Motion for Emergent Relief filed on June 10, 1993 by D.W., on behalf of her minor son, G.L., seeking a stay of the Board's determination denying G.L. participation in graduation ceremonies to be held on June 11, 1993 and denying his high school diploma based on his failing U.S. History with a grade of 68.

D.W. contends the Board failed in its obligation to provide support to her son in accord with his Individualized Education Program (IEP) as a classified student, which resulted in his failing U.S. History, albeit that G.L. was declassified in May 1993 and had been advised by his guidance counselor in a letter dated March 10, 1993 that he was in jeopardy of failing English and U.S. History because G.L. would not agree to transfer to a lower level.

The matter was transferred without Answer to the Office of Administrative Law on June 10, 1993 as a matter cognizable under the Commissioner's jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 because G.L. is no longer a classified student.

Pursuant to her authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:4-32, the Commissioner has designated Assistant Commissioner Elena Scambio to decide this matter in her stead.

The ALJ determined that emergent relief must be denied because the facts underlying the claims raised by D.W., involving special education standards, were too "complicated and difficult" to be able to make a showing, in the emergent relief hearing, of a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of her claims as required by Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), the case articulating the standard for the granting of pendente lite restraints.

Upon review of the record, the Assistant Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the issue of granting a diploma to G.L. is not one which can be resolved absent a full hearing of the merits; thus, the granting of emergent relief on this issue is denied. However, the Assistant Commissioner finds and determines that petitioner's request for emergent relief relative to attendance at graduation shall be granted due to the serious concerns which she finds regarding the March 10, 1993 decision to maintain G.L. in his U.S. History and English classes and the declassification of G.L. on May 10, 1993 of his senior year in high school, only one month prior to graduation day. These are deemed serious concerns for the reasons set forth below.

On April 30, 1992, an IEP was developed for G.L., which included goals and objectives for social studies and English skills

G.L. was to develop. On March 10, 1993, G.L.'s mother, D.W., received a letter from Thelma Habron, guidance counselor, memorializing a meeting of the previous day, which indicated that G.L.'s teachers in English and social studies had recommended that he be transferred to a lower level but that G.L. did not want to have those classes changed. The letter also conveys that D.W. agreed with the teachers' recommendations that G.L. should be transferred but she would not insist on the change. The letter goes on to state that the teachers and English supervisor decided not to force the change because it could result in a disruptive situation for the teachers and students. Thus, they allowed him to remain in his present English and social studies classes "with the understanding that he would be responsible for the possible consequences i.e. not graduating with his class." (Exhibit R-1) Of import relative to this letter is the fact that there is no indication whatsoever that the child study team, which developed and had responsibility for G.L.'s IEP, had any knowledge and input into the educational decisions that were being made relative to a classified student which would, if true, constitute a serious violation of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(a)2 and 3.6(j), particularly when it is apparent that G.L. was failing to succeed in courses specifically addressed in his IEP.

Moreover, a review of the information provided on the declassification document of May 10, 1993, makes it clear that with only one month to go to graduation, G.L. had only "marginal performance in History, English, and Physical Education." (Exhibit J-1). Such generalities do not provide specific evaluative data assessing G.L.'s progress in meeting his IEP goals and objectives, which would provide the basis for a determination that he had successfully completed his IEP, thus warranting declassification.

Accordingly, given the factual circumstances available on the limited record before her, the Assistant Commissioner determines that G.L. shall be allowed to participate in the graduation ceremonies on June 11, 1993 but will not receive a diploma. The issue of whether he is entitled to a diploma must await an expedited hearing on the merits of D.W.'s claims that G.L. was improperly placed in the mainstream without adequate educational support. This hearing shall specifically address whether a violation of law occurred when G.L. was left to continue in academic courses addressed in his IEP without a determination being made by the child study team as to the appropriateness of such a decision in light of agreement by teachers, guidance personnel, supervisor and parent that he was not succeeding in the courses in question and needed to be in lower level classes. Also to be assessed is the propriety of declassifying G.L. one month prior to graduation when his performance in courses specifically addressed in his IEP was only marginal. Given these issues which must be addressed, the matter appears to be properly the subject of the due process provisions for special education, N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Irwin Weinberg, Esq. and Richard J. Kaplow, Esq., for petitioner (Weinberg and Kaplow, attorneys)

Yale L. Greenspoon, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: March 23, 1993 Decided: 4/22/93

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

On June 17, 1992, the petitioner, Lynda Gordon, filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that she was improperly required by the respondent to submit to a psychiatric examination, that she was wrongfully transferred from her tenured teaching position, and that her salary and adjustment increments for the 1992-93 school year were improperly withheld. The respondent filed an answer containing separate defenses on July 16, 1992, and on July 23, 1992, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. An amended petition of appeal was filed with the OAL on August 13, 1992.

A prehearing conference was held at the Office of Administrative Law on December 15, 1992, at which time the parties engaged in settlement discussions, and on January 29, 1993, counsel advised that the parties had agreed to a settlement. On March 23, 1993, a written agreement and withdrawal of request for hearing was filed with the OAL. A copy of the document, signed by the petitioner and a representative of the Springfield Board of Education, is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Based on the foregoing, it is CONCLUDED that the dispute has been resolved, and that petitioner has withdrawn her request for hearing and relief. It is ORDERED that the withdrawal be approved pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2. Therefore, I ORDER that this matter be returned to the agency for appropriate disposition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: May 5, 1993 Decided: May 10, 1993

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about August 21, 1991, petitioner, Louis Giele, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent, the Board of Education of the Town of Secaucus, had improperly hired out-of-district coaches for the assistant football coaching position. More particularly, petitioner alleged that he was a qualified in-district teaching staff member and should have been offered the coaching position. Respondent filed an answer on September 12, 1991, alleging that petitioner was not a qualified candidate for the assistant coach position within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 and requesting that the Commissioner dismiss the petition with prejudice.

NEW JERSEY IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

On September 20, 1991, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone prehearing conference was held on November 21, 1991, at which time the issues were isolated and a hearing was scheduled for June 8 and 9, 1992, at the OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102.

Settlement conferences were held on June 8, 1992, and the parties agreed to a settlement, subject to the approval of the Board of Education of the Town of Secaucus. As a result of the settlement having been reached, the hearing was adjourned.

The parties have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement, which was approved by the Board of Education, indicating the terms of the settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms, and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and their representatives' signatures.

2. This settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be and are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The record and initial decision in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

The Commissioner is somewhat perplexed that a settlement agreement signed by the parties in June 1992 is just now being presented to her for approval, and hereby reminds school boards that settlement agreements cannot be implemented unless and until they have been approved by the Commissioner of Education.

Petitioning Board sought declaratory judgment from Commissioner to require its members, specifically respondent, to abide by its duly adopted rules and cease and desist from tape recording executive session Board meetings closed to public under Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA).

ALJ determined Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction to resolve issue as to whether a public body can prohibit tape recording by members under OPMA. Controversy herein did not relate primarily to areas of educational specialization so as to involve Commissioner's jurisdiction. Superior Court has jurisdiction over this matter. Petition was dismissed. Respondent's counter-petition was dismissed as untimely.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Board of Education of Hamilton Township (Board), seeks declaratory judgment by way of an order from Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to require its members, specifically Peter Fraleigh, to abide by its duly adopted rules pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and for Peter Fraleigh to cease and desist from tape recording Board meetings closed to the public under the provisions of the "Open Public Meetings Act" (OPMA) N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq.

This matter was transmitted from the Commissioner to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 27, 1993, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Oral arguments by the parties was heard on February 1, 1993, on an application for emergent relief by the Board. The oral argument was heard at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Thereafter, on February 2, 1993, the undersigned issued an Order and Denied the Board's request for a restraining Order pendite lite.

Subsequently, on March 5, 1993, respondent filed its Answer to the Board's Petition of Appeal, together with a counter petition for declaratory judgment requesting that the Commissioner declare the Board's conduct violative of the OPMA; and, declare the Board's bylaw 0168 null and void as an abuse of the Board's discretion.

Respondent also propounded and served a Motion to Dismiss the Board's Petition on the grounds that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction in the instant matter. A return date of March 16, 1993, at 9:00 a.m. was established.

Oral argument on respondent's counter petition and motion to dismiss was heard on March 16, 1993. The parties relied, in part, upon the certifications of its clients together with legal briefs in support of the respective positions. Subsequent to the oral argument, this tribunal reserved on respondent's counter petition and issued an oral decision that jurisdiction lies with the Commissioner.

In the meantime, March 15, 1993, the Commissioner issued her Decision on Motion affirming this tribunal's denial of the Board's application for emergent relief. In her decision, however, the Commissioner raised the issue as to whether or not incidental jurisdiction lies within her authority with respect to the instant matter. Therein, the Commissioner said:

> In moving to this matter on the merits, however, the Commissioner notes that, while the question of a school board member's duty to abide by policy he or she believes unlawful is appropriately brought to this forum, the question ultimately underlying this matter, the taping of meetings by a member of a public body and the validity of a policy prohibiting it, raises an issue which appears to be purely within the purview of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) and therefore outside the Commissioner's incidental

> Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law denying emergent relief is affirmed and this matter directed to proceed to hearing as scheduled, with the proviso that argument be heard and a determination made as to the Commissioner's jurisdiction to decide the fundamental OPMA question underlying this controversy.
>
> IT IS SO ORDERED.
> (Commissioner's Decision on Motion, pp.5, 6).

As a consequence of the Commissioner's statement concerning the OPMA, respondent renewed his Motion to Dismiss the instant matter on the basis the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction under the OPMA. The Board objected to respondent's application, contending, among other things, that there is no procedure in the Administrative Code concerning a renewed Motion.

This tribunal, sua sponte, granted respondent's application to renew his Motion to Dismiss based upon the Commissioner's Order, "...that argument be heard and a determination made as to the Commissioner's jurisdiction to decide the fundamental OPMA question underlying this controversy." (Commissioner's Decision on Motion at p. 6).

BACKGROUND FACTS

Under New Jersey Education Law, Boards of Education are granted general mandatory powers and duties, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 which provides, in part, as follows:

> The Board shall -
>
> ...
>
> b. Enforce the rules of the State Board;
> c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not in consistent with this title or with the rules of the State Board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees ... and

d. perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the State Board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

Pursuant to this statutory authority, the Board has adopted Policy 0168

RECORDING BOARD MEETINGS, which states as follows:

The Board of Education directs the creation and maintenance of an official record of the formal proceedings of the Board and will permit the unofficial recording of Board meetings in accordance with its bylaw.

MINUTES

The Board shall keep reasonably comprehensible minutes of all its meetings showing the time and place, the members present, the subject considered, the actions taken, the vote of each member, information sufficient to explain the actions taken, and any other information required to be shown in the minutes by law.

Minutes of Public Meetings shall be public records signed by the Business Administrator, and filed in the Secretary's office in a Minute Book as the permanent record of the official acts of this Board.

Minutes of Private Meeting shall be filed in the Secretary's office and placed separate from the Minute Book until the time, if any, when the proceedings may be made public. At that time, the Minutes shall be public records and shall be filed in the regular Minute Book.

The Secretary shall provide each Board member with a copy of the Minutes no later than two days before the next regular Board meeting.

SOUND RECORDING

The Business Administrator shall make a sound recording of all open portions of regular and special meetings. Closed/Executive Sessions will not be taped. (Recorded) A copy of the tape will be made available within the district office (or other appropriate location) within five working days after the Board meeting. Each tape will be retained and available for public listening for a period of twelve months.

RECORDING BY THE PUBLIC

Any member of the public may record the proceedings of a public meeting of the Board in a manner that does not interrupt the proceedings, inhibit the conduct of the meeting or distract Board members or other observers present at the meeting.

The Board will permit the use of a tape recorder, still or movie camera, or video tape camera only when notice of such intended use has been given to the Board five days in advance of the meeting. No more than one movie or video camera(s) may be in use at any time, and any camera must be operated in an inconspicuous location in the meeting room.

The presiding officer shall determine when any recording device interferes with the conduct of a Board meeting and may order that an interfering device be removed.

Any record of a Board meeting that is made available to persons other than the maker of the record and set forth as a true and accurate record of that meeting must be open to inspection by the Board and may be copied by by this Board at the Board's expense.

N.J.S.A. 10:4-14

Adopted: 6 April 92

The Board contends, and respondent admits, that in or about the month of June of 1992, respondent began the use of a tape recorder in both the public session and the executive session of the Board. The Board further contends, among other things, that respondent's action to record executive sessions is violative of its bylaw 0168 and is counter to the OPMA with regard to confidentiality.

RESPONDENT'S ORIGINAL MOTION TO DISMISS-LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Respondent acknowledges that the Board's authority to adopt bylaws governing its meetings. However, respondent believes that he has the right to record all discussions of the Board to which he is a party. In support of his Motion to Dismiss, respondent relies upon the New Jersey Wire Tapping and Electronics Surveillance Control Act. (Act) N.J.S.A. 2A:156A-1 et seq. Respondent further relies upon the Federal statute 18 U.S.C.S. §2510 et seq., Wire Interception and Intersection of Oral Communications. Respondent cites N.J.S.A. 2A:156A-4 which provides as follows:

> It shall not be unlawful under this Act for:
>
> (d) a person not acting under color of law to intercept a wire or oral communication, where such person is a party to the communication ... unless such communication is intercepted or used for the purpose of committing any criminal or torturous act in violation of the Constitution or Laws of the United States or of this State or for the purpose of committing any other injurious act ...
> Any person who unlawful intercepts or uses such communication as provided for in this paragraph shall be subject to the civil liability established in Section 24 of this Act, in addition to any other criminal or civil liability imposed by law.

Respondent contends that he is a party to all of the Board's discussion in Executive Session. He asserts that he has a right under the above statutory provision to record all oral communications to which he is a party provided his tape recordings are not "used for the purpose of committing any criminal or tortuous act," or "injurious act." Respondent contends that he intends to make no use of the tape recordings except for his own personal reference in order that he may have a permanent verbatim record of the Board's discussion. Under the statute cited above, respondent asserts he has a lawful right, protected by the New Jersey Legislature, to tape record all communications to which he is a party.

Respondent also acknowledges that the Act provides for penalties in the event respondent should disclose the contents of his tape recordings to third parties. These penalties may be criminal in nature, N.J.S.A. 2A:156A-3 and/or civil in nature, N.J.S.A. 2A:156A-24.

Respondent asserts that as a member of the Hamilton Township Board of Education and as a "person" defined by the Act, he has certain rights and responsibilities not only under Title 18A, but also under the New Jersey Wire Tapping and Electronic Surveillance Control Act. Respondent contends that the dispute between respondent and the Board can not be resolved without an determination of his rights under the New Jersey Wire Tapping and Electronics Surveillance Control Act. This issue, he contends, has nothing to do with Title 18A under the Education Law. Consequently, he argues, the Commissioner is not empowered to rule upon such an issue. He contends, therefore, the Board's petition must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

The Board contends, among other things, that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over the instant matter because it concerns the Board's bylaw in particular and its policies in general. The Commissioner's jurisdiction extends to the conduct of a closed session under the OPMA and where respondent, a Board member, refuses to follow the Board's policy with respect to tape recording of closed sessions and the taking of minutes. It contends that the Commissioner shall decide all controversies and disputes arising under the School Laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590 (1958).

The Board argues that the New Jersey Wire Tapping and Electronic Surveillance Control Act is a criminal statute that does not make criminal the act of tape-recording conversations when the person taping is one of the communicators. The Board asserts that no one has alleged that respondent has committed a criminal act by taping the closed sessions. Nor does the fact that the act is not criminal provide authority for the act to be permissible in a civil context. The Board argues that the criminal wire-tapping statute is not relevant concerning whether or not respondent can or cannot tape closed sessions of a Board meeting. It is relevant, however, that the issue to be determined arises in the context of respondent as a member of the School Board; an organization that by law has the authority to make rules for its governance and for its operation, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.

The Board contends that it is further relevant that it has made rules, in the form of an adopted bylaw, which prohibits the taping of closed Board sessions. The permission to hold such closed Board sessions is granted under the authority of the OPMA.

The Board argues that by adopting Policy 0168 it has furthered the objections of the OPMA by safeguarding the public interest and individual rights and precluding the possibility, through carelessness or otherwise, that tape recordings of the closed sessions would walk into the hands of third parties. It contends that it has further opened communications among its members and those appearing before it at closed sessions, by prohibiting the taping of the closed sessions.

The Board contends that the Wire Tap Law is irrelevant to this controversy which involves enforcement by a Board of its bylaws and policies with respect to individual Board members. Therefore, respondent's Motion to Dismiss should be denied.

The Board further argues that respondent's counter petition should be dismissed. Although respondent's motion seeks a declaration that the Board's conduct is violative of the OPMA, the petition does not seek to void any action taken by the Board. Consequently, the Board argues, the matter is moot. The Board also asserts that respondent's counter petition alleging violations of the OPMA by the Board has been brought after the forty-five (45) days, as prescribed in N.J.S.A. 10:4-15.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS WITH RESPECT TO RESPONDENT'S RENEWED MOTION TO DISMISS AND THE BOARD'S MOTION TO DISMISS RESPONDENT'S COUNTER-PETITION

The Commissioner correctly notes in her Decision on Motion that the ultimate question in this proceeding "raises an issue which appears to be purely within the purview of the OPMA," and as a result "outside the Commissioner's incidental jurisdiction."

The Board relies upon N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 as its authority to adopt bylaw 0168. Clearly, the Board does have authority to adopt bylaws. Nevertheless, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 grants the Board only the authority to establish rules for its own government. If the Board decides that it will be its official policy that executive sessions will not be recorded by the School Board itself, so be it. But query, does the Board have the power to proscribe the conduct of an individual member?

There was no authority within Title 18A which vests the Board with the power to dictate how each school board member should take personal notes of the Board meetings. If bylaw 0168 is allowed to stand, then what behavior will the Board restrict next? What other behavior will it prohibit under the guise of "rule-making"? In the name of maintaining security, does the Board have the authority to require that each Board member surrender their personal notes at the end of each executive session? Worse yet, could the Board pass a bylaw that prohibits the use of pen, pencil and paper because of the potential that confidential information may leak from its executive sessions?

Taken to extreme, could the Board require its members to take an oath of secrecy as a condition to participating in executive sessions in order to preserve its expressed need for absolute confidentiality of executive session? Clearly, these restrictions would be unreasonable and in violation of the First Amendment.

The OPMA requires that adequate minutes of all meetings, including executive session meetings, be maintained and available to the public. See N.J.S.A. 10:4-14. To argue that respondent should not be allowed to personally tape record executive sessions because the OPMA does not specifically require the creation o f a verbatim record simply misses the point. The respondent seeks only accuracy in government. He believes that in order to properly discharge his duties, it is necessary for him to have a verbatim record of all the Board's proceedings. As stated by the Court in Sudol v. Borough of North Arlington, 137 N.J. Super. 149 (1975), > Accuracy in reporting the transactions of a public governing body should never be penalized, particularly in a democracy, where truth is often said to be supreme ...If a shorthand record of such a meeting is more accurate than longhand notes, then the use of shorthand is to be approved; and if the making of a tape record is a still better method of memorializing the acts of a public body, it should be encouraged. Sudol at 154-155.

The above reference quote was taken from a California decision, i.e., Nevens v. City of Chino, 233 Cal. App. 2d 775, 44 Cal. Rptr. 50 (1965).

With respect to the issue of "incidental" jurisdiction, respondent encourages this court to look at those cases where the Commissioner has exercised incidental jurisdiction involving the OPMA. A good example is the decision in Voll and Brandes v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2772-85. In the Voll decision, there was a challenge to a school board's actions taken to reorganize a school district. A question arose concerning whether any of the decisions made towards reorganization were made at meetings in violation of the OPMA. While the facts of that case are quite dissimilar from this one, and while the Commissioner did in fact exercise jurisdiction in that case, the Voll decision is instructive of just what "incidental" jurisdiction is all about. The first thing you need is a dispute which is primarily under school law. When OPMA is incidentally involved, then the Commissioner can touch on it as part of her duties to rule on the primary educational issue. There are no educational issues involved in the dispute between these parties.

The primary issue here is, does a School Board have the power to restrict an individual member's efforts to make use of a tape recorder to memorialize discussions held in executive session? The Board's power to adopt the bylaw is in question, but it is a power that is circumscribed by OPMA and the First Amendment, not to mention the Wire Tapping and Electronic Surveillance Control Act. The primary issue does not fall under Title 18A, but rather under OPMA and the other related constitutional provisions and statutory enactments.

The Municipal Land Use Law empowers Planning Boards to adopt bylaws governing its meetings. The Faulkner Act empowers Township Committees and City Councils to adopt bylaws governing its meetings. The Optional Charter Law empowers County Board of Chosen Freeholders to adopt bylaws governing their meetings. Nearly every municipal agency throughout the State of New Jersey has the power to adopt bylaws governing its meetings. So too does the School Board have the power to adopt bylaws governing its meetings. However, it is respectfully submitted that the School Board does not have the authority to dictate to an individual member how he or she will proceed in taking notes, or in some other fashion memorializing, the discussions of the School Board.

This court can take judicial notice of the fact that there has been a revolution in technology. There are now laptop computers and other handheld systems which can assist those individuals with the facility to type or take shorthand in the making of a permanent memorialization of discussions made in that person's presence. The end result through the use of such technology is often typed notes or a verbatim transcript. Can the School Board adopt a bylaw prohibiting such a person, who happens to be an elected member of the Board, from bringing a laptop computer or such other device with them to a meeting?

As noted above, there are many hundreds of governmental agencies throughout the State of New Jersey that have been empowered by the Legislature to adopt bylaws governing the conduct of their meetings. Whether or not an individual member should be forced to accept the minutes of the body itself made in compliance with OPMA, or should be permitted to make their own record of what was said, is clearly a question that falls under OPMA, not a question that falls under Title 18A.

When making her admonishment concerning OPMA in her Decision on Motion, the Commissioner cites Sukin v. Northfield, D.O.E., 171 N.J. Super. 184 (App. Div.

1979). The language contained in Sukin is sparse and the Court is not as explicit as one would hope in giving direction concerning the Commissioner's jurisdiction under OPMA. However, it is clear that the Commissioner's jurisdiction under OPMA is only "incidental" and is exercised only as it relates to "controversies under the school laws." The Commissioner has opined - and this writer believes correctly - that this dispute "raises an issue which appears to be purely within the purview of the OPMA."

Another case instructive on the issue of incidental jurisdiction is Swede v. City of Clifton, 22 N.J. 303 (1956). At page 312 of the Swede decision, the Supreme Court stated:

> Administrative discretion is special and limited, contained by the declared legislative policy to be executed by the agency and the specific means provided by the lawmaker to that end. The legislative grant is inclusive of such authority as is by fair implication and intendment incident to the agency's essential function and purpose; and where there is reasonable doubt of the existence of a particular power, the power is denied.

Clearly, the Commissioner has expressed "reasonable doubt" as to her jurisdiction, and with good cause. The Commissioner appears reluctant to venture a ruling on such a novel question under OPMA.

In addition to the Swede decision, see also Sherran v. Progressive Life Ins. Co., 182 N.J. Super. 237, 250 (1981) wherein the Appellate Division stated:

> Absent "explicit statutory grant of power," no such jurisdiction may be assumed by an administrative agency. Where there is reasonable doubt that a particular power resides in an administrative agency, the power is denied.

As this Court knows, OPMA at N.J.S.A. 10:4-15 vests primary jurisdiction of all actions under OPMA with the Superior Court. While respondent does not challenge the Commissioner's right to incidentally hear an OPMA question when ruling upon a school law question, the respondent does challenge the Commissioner's jurisdiction to hear a question which is purely within the purview of the OPMA and outside the Commissioner's incidental jurisdiction.

Any decision in this case will have far-reaching implications, extending to all members of public agencies subject to the requirements of the OPMA. The Commissioner's "proviso" concerning her jurisdiction creates what is tantamount to a presumption that jurisdiction of this matter lies with the Superior Court.

THE BOARD'S POSITION

POINT I

THE WITHIN PETITION SEEKING TO HAVE BOARD, BYLAWS WITH RESPECT TO ITS GOVERNANCE UPHELD INVOLVES A CONTROVERSY AND DISPUTE ARISING UNDER SCHOOL LAWS AND IS PROPERLY BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

It is clear that the Commissioner of Education is empowered to decide legal controversies and disputes arising under school laws or State Board regulations and his decisions have the force of law. N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.1 (a) and N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.2 (a) (1).

It is a also clear and beyond dispute that under the OPMA, the Board of Education of may conduct a closed session if the subject of the session the public body intends to discuss meets one of the nine (9) exceptions set forth in N.J.S.A. 10:4-12 (b).

It is undeniable that if the Board passes the proper resolution and otherwise complies with the Act, it has the right to go into closed session to discuss those matters set forth in the exceptions.

It is also indisputable that the OPMA requires only the taking of minutes at regularly scheduled board meetings and nothing in the Act requires verbatim transcripts. See, Hudanich v. Avalon, 183 N.J. Super. 244, 258, (Law Div. 1981), and Caldwell v. Lambrou, 161 N.J. Super. 284 (Law Div. 1978).

Thus, there is no question before this Court that deals specifically with the OPMA insofar as the petition is concerned. The only question before this Court is whether or not the Board's bylaw's, and in particular, bylaw 0168, which it has adopted pursuant to New Jersey School Law, is valid and enforceable. In other words, is the bylaw reasonable?

This court, when denying the first Motion to Dismiss brought on the basis of lack of jurisdiction by respondent, stated that it considered Board bylaw 0168 to be reasonable.

The Matawan Teachers Ass'n v. Board of Education, 223 N.J. Super. 504 (App. Div. 1988) case held that a local board is bound by its bylaws even if the law did not require as strict a procedure as set forth in the bylaws. In that case, the standard for reviewing bylaws was established to be whether or not the bylaw conflicts directly or indirectly with any authorizing statute.

The respondent insists that he has the right to tape closed sessions. Certainly that right does not arise by any language in the OPMA. Hence, respondent must look elsewhere to establish his right. Respondent attempted to look to the wire tap statute as an authorization and right granted to him to tape closed sessions, when the issue was raised as to whether or not the Commissioner had jurisdiction in light of the wire tap statute. This tribunal rightfully ruled that the Commissioner had jurisdiction since the decision that the Commissioner is confronted with is one that deals with school law. It raises the issue of the reasonableness of a bylaw.

Once it is established, as it is clearly in the law, that taping of closed sessions is not required by the OPMA, then the Act no longer governs the reasonableness of the bylaw, and should no longer be looked to in order to determine the same.

In other words, there is no fundamental OPMA question underlying the within controversy. The question is whether or not the bylaws which petitioners allege are being violated are reasonable and therefore should be upheld and enforced.

There are a couple of cases that are instructive in this regard. In the matter of Howard v. Board of Education of the Township of Jefferson, 167 S.L.D. 267, a member of the Board challenged the validity of a policy adopted by the Board requiring participation in its high school accident insurance program as a requisite for participation in the schools interscholastic athletic program. The board's position was that it had broad discretionary rule making power to authorize or approve such regulation. It claimed that the rule was wisely conceived to protect parents from financial loss in the event of athletic injury to the children, established a reasonable condition precedent to participation in the interscholastic athletic program and therefore was not an arbitrary or capricious misuse of the board's rule making power.

The Commissioner found that the policy requiring participation in the pupil accident insurance coverage as a condition precedent to participation in the interscholastic athletic program was inconsistent with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18:14-105.2 which expressly prohibited the Board from requiring any pupil electing not to participate in accident insurance coverage to pay any part of the cost or premiums. The Commissioner looked to reasonableness and whether the bylaw conflicted directly or indirectly with any authorizing statute.

In the Donnelly v. Board of Education of the Township of Maurice River, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3631-79, Agency Docket No. 212-5/79A, decided May 1, 1980, the petitioner alleged that the Board improperly filled a vacancy on the board and did not assign a reasonable amount of time for public comment at its meetings. Although the Administrative Law Judge referred to the OPMA when considering the appointment to the vacant seat, in dealing with the validity of the policy that limited public participation, it was decided by the Court on the basis of reasonableness and not on the basis of the OPMA. Why? Because the OPMA does not speak to public participation but under the N.J.S.A. 10:4-7. The statute only provides for the right of the public to be present at all meetings of public bodies, and to witness in full detail all phases of the deliberation, policy formulation, and decision making of public bodies.

Of course, the argument could have been made that the statute should be interpreted to provide for public participation. However, none of the cases required the same and it really is not an issue that falls within the OPMA. It is merely an issue as to the reasonableness of the policy; the same issue that is in this case before this administrative court.

However, there are cases where the Commissioner of Education has decided matters before it which also involve rulings concerning the OPMA as it related directly to actions taken as a result of closed sessions held pursuant to the Act. One matter in which this occurred is Voll v. Ridgewood Board of Education, 1986 S.L.D. 883. In that case, the Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood took action to reorganize the school district with respect to grade levels being located in particular buildings, and the allocation and assignment of personnel.

The Board's actions were challenged before the Commissioner by two residents, one of whom was an attorney who was an unsuccessful candidate for board membership. The challengers argued generally that the Board violated the OPMA, whereby it did not give the public at large an opportunity to have sufficient input into the reorganization plan and the reorganization plan was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The Board argued that the reorganization plan was reasonable, that its meetings were in conformity with the OPMA and, even assuming violations of the Act, subsequent public action taken at public meetings cured any such violations or were time-barred. Since the actions taken which might not have conformed to the provisions of the Act are voidable and proceedings brought by any person must be brought within 45 days after the action sought to be voided has been made public, any challenge was out of time. N.J.S.A. 10:4-15.

The Administrative Law Judge found that were it not for questions that have arisen concerning the OPMA, the question as to whether or not the Board's approval of the reorganization was arbitrary and unreasonable would survive the attack of the petitioners. The action taken to adopt the reorganization was voidable due to violations of the OPMA. It is interesting to note that two-thirds of the discussion in the decision related to the OPMA.

Exceptions were filed with the Commissioner by both parties. After the Commissioner set forth in detail the exceptions, his discussion for ten pages of the decision concerned compliance with the OPMA.

Concerning the issue of timeliness, he held that in filing its challenge under the Act, since the petitioner appealed to the Commissioner of Education and not the Superior Court, the 45 day Statute of Limitations was inapplicable and 90 day Rule of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 applied.

Therefore, certain of the closed session meetings that were held and resulted in the action of the reorganization, were within the purview of the consideration of the Commissioner. The Commissioner did find the OPMA was violated and, therefore, voided the action.

Without question, the Voll case involved an issue that arose under the school law similar to the matter now before this tribunal. The issue that arises under the school law is whether or not a policy is reasonable. The issue involves also whether a policy must be followed until and if it is ever determined to be invalid; not the opposite, of refusing to follow a policy until it has been established as being reasonable. This is the crux of the issue before the Commissioner.

How does the OPMA enter into this case? Much of the rationale that supports the policy of the Board and determines its reasonableness is the same rationale that the Legislature applied in establishing the nine exceptions to the OPMA when closed sessions may be held. Other than the rationale used by the Board being similar to the rationale employed by the Legislature in establishing exceptions, the OPMA does not apply to the issue with respect to the reasonableness of the policy that prohibits taping by a Board member or staff attending closed sessions. There is certainly no specific provision of the OPMA that anyone can point to that circumscribes the power of a Board to adopt the bylaw dealing with taping closed sessions. In addition, the other bylaws that were referred to herein dealing with the President presiding at the meetings and the taking of reasonably comprehensive minutes are not issues that must be decided by looking at the OPMA, but are issues that are decided on basis of their reasonableness. Certainly, the Board's bylaws in those two instances are consistent with the Act.

The petition deals with the adoption of bylaws and not the taking of a particular action which one can claim is taken in violation of the OPMA such as was the case in the Voll decision cited, supra.

The Commissioner has decided other matters where action has been challenged as being arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable as well as being taken in a manner that has violated the OPMA.

In Buff v. North Bergen Board of Education, 1981 S.L.D. 340, a teacher brought an action for wrongful termination in violation of the Tenure Act, its contract and in violation of the OPMA. The Board had voted for termination at a closed session. The OAL Judge's decision which was affirmed by the Commissioner, was that the termination was done in violation of the OPMA, was politically motivated and was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

In Plainfield Education Association v. Plainfield Board of Education, C. D. 308-84, 24 Sep. 84, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8613-83, Agency Dkt. No. 352-9183A, 1984, petitioner challenged the validity of action taken by the board of abolishing four supplemental teaching positions on the grounds that the action violated certain sections of the OPMA, the adequate notice section and refusal to hold public discussion. The OAL Judge ruled in favor of the petitioner agreeing that the action taken was not done in conformity with the OPMA. The Commissioner upheld the decision and also ordered that besides reinstatement, mitigated back pay shall be given the teachers. See also, Brown v. Pemberton Township Board of Education, C. D. 257-85, 25 Jul 85, affd., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 5935-84, Agency Dkt. No. 247-7184, where an administrative assistant to the superintendent challenged the Board's action terminating him as illegal, improper, based in part on political considerations and that action was taken in violation of the OPMA. The OAL Judge found that the Board did not violate the OPMA and its action was reasonable. The Commissioner found that the Board violated the OPMA but sufficient corrective or remedial action had been taken subsequently regarding any procedural defects. The State Board and Appellate Division affirmed the Commissioner's decision.

Another matter that involved school law and the OPMA was the case of Kiamie v. North Haledron Board of Education, 1980, S.L.D. 1099. Petitioner alleged that the action of the Board in recertifying tenure charges against him was in violation of school law statutes and the OPMA. The OAL Judge found no violation of the OPMA. The court expressed the concerns of Governor Byrne on signing the bill into law that as the idea of open government became a reality, thoughts were expressed as to whether administrative bodies could "continue to carry out all their administrative tasks without undue delay" and whether the law would "engender costly litigation based on frivolous grounds." Reversed by Commissioner; OAL decision upheld by the State Board of Education.

It is the Board's position that the Counter-Petition in this matter is the costly litigation referred to in Kiamie and is based upon frivolous grounds.

Thus, although no provision the OPMA directly determines the validity of the bylaws in question, if the Act needed to be considered, the cases cited are strong precedent for the Commissioner's ability and responsibility to do so.

POINT II

THE COUNTER-PETITION SHOULD BE DISMISSED AS IT MERELY SEEKS A DECLARATION THAT THE BOARD'S CONDUCT IS VIOLATIVE OF THE OPEN PUBLIC MEETINGS LAW, DOES NOT SEEK TO VOID ANY ACTION TAKEN AS A RESULT OF ANY VIOLATION OF SAID LAW, AND HAS BEEN BROUGHT AFTER THE TIME PERIOD TO BRING SUCH AN ACTION HAS EXPIRED.

N.J.S.A. 10:4-15 gives one authority to bring suit to void an action allegedly taken in violation of the OPMA. Any such action shall be brought within 45 days after the action sought to be voided has been made public.

The Counter-Petition in this matter was filed on February 17, 1993. The Certification provided by Abromo Vallese sets forth the dates of each closed session and any action that was taken as a result of the closed sessions. The last closed session held in which any action was taken September 21, 1992, was held more than 45 days prior to the Counter-Petition being filed.

If one were to accept the argument of the Commissioner in the Voll case, and apply the 90 day rule of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, the same would apply as it has been more than 90 days prior to filing the Counter-Petition that any closed session resulting in action taken has been held.

In the matter of Emmett F. McWilliams v. Board of Education of Bridgewater-Raritan School District, 1980 S.L.D. 1439, petitioner charged that the Board failed to evaluate his performance as Superintendent of Schools as required by education law and violated his alleged tenure rights to continue to be employed as superintendent.

Petitioner also alleged that he had not been given advance notice under the OPMA that the Board would discuss his performance on meetings held on October 11 and December 20, 1977 and a subsequent meeting in June 1978.

The Board denied tenure existed and claimed that termination was a proper exercise of its discretionary authority.

The hearing examiner opined that an action should have been filed within the 45 day time limit before a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to the mode of relief specified by N.J.S.A. 10:4-15. The Commissioner agreed with the hearing examiner stating: "Petitioner having failed to seek such relief prior to the proceedings in the instant matter is statutorily prohibited from seeking such relief at this time," referring to the 45 day provision in N.J.S.A. 10:4-15. Id. at 1445, aff'd by the State Board of Education.

Likewise, respondent herein is statutorily prohibited from proceeding on his Counter-Petition which should be dismissed.

The Counter-Petition seeks no injunctive relief. It is the position of the Board that the Counter-Petition is merely an attempt to engage in a fishing expedition to determine if technical violations of the Act can be found in order to embarrass Board members. It is being brought as a retaliatory measure for the Board insisting that its policy be followed whether it was Mr. Fraleigh who was following same or any other Board member. The Counter-Petition should be dismissed as moot, dilatory, not timely, and due to a failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

Even if the Counter-Petition was brought in time, which it was not, the matter should not be one determined by the Commissioner, as obviously the only issue raised by the Counter-Petition is one that falls within the OPMA.

Obviously, the defense to the Petition is that the bylaw is invalid. Therefore, the Counter-Petition is not necessary to raise that issue.

It is interesting to note that Sukin v. Northfield Board of Education, 171 N.J. Super. 184 (App. Div. 1979) resulted in the Court sending to the Commissioner of Education the issue dealing with the OPMA rather than determine the question itself, as the issue related to controversies under the school laws.

In that case, a former school principal fought to overturn the decision of the Board of Education to discontinue her employment in her position as principal. The trial court had sent two counts of the complaint to the Commissioner of Education as they dealt with allegations that the plaintiff's right to a fair hearing had been denied under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and 18A:27-10 et seq.

The trial judge then dismissed the count of the complaint dealing with the OPMA on the basis that any defects were cured by remedial action taken pursuant to N.J.S.A 10:4-15. The Appellate Court reversed the Chancery Division judge not because it disagreed with the reasoning of the trial judge concerning the dismissal of the OPMA matter, but on the basis that where an administrative agency of the State has primary jurisdiction to determine the underlying controversy between the parties, a trial judge should not undertake to decide the issues presented under the OPMA, but shall refer those issues to the appropriate administrative agency.

This tribunal has already decided in the first Motion to Dismiss brought by respondent that the dispute arises under the school law. The Commissioner has primary jurisdiction. She has incidental jurisdiction to determine issues arising under the OPMA as they relate to the controversy under the school laws.

The controversy under the school law in this matter relates to the passage of bylaws and their enforcement. The OPMA questions that are raised by the Counter-Petition have nothing to do with the passage of the bylaws and those issues that are raised before the Commissioner in the Petition.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Our courts have recognized that "New Jersey has a history of commitment to public participation in government and to the corresponding need for an informed citizenry." South Jersey Pub v. N.J. Expressway, 124 N.J. 478 (1991) at 486-487. That tradition favoring the public's right to be informed about governmental actions is reflected in the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq. and the Right to Know Law, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq.

With regard to the Board's motion that respondent's counter-petition should be dismissed on the grounds that it was brought before the Commissioner beyond the 45 day statutory provision (N.J.S.A. 10:4-15) and beyond the 90 day regulatory provision (N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c)), I agree. The facts, set forth herein before, clearly demonstrate that respondent's counter-petition was filed well beyond the statutory and regulatory time constraints.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that respondent's counter-petition was brought before this tribunal out of time and is hereby DISMISSED.

With regard to the Commissioner's jurisdiction and the OPMA, the instant matter is one of first impression.

The Commissioner of Education is authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9,"to hear and determine .... all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws ...." While it is true that the courts have "repeatedly 'reaffirmed the great breadth of the Commissioner's powers" 'under this jurisdictional grant, Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 77 N.J. 514, 525 (1978); nevertheless, the case law demonstrates that the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to matters primarily and directly arising under the school laws. In the Matter of New Jersey Ed. Ass'n v. Trenton Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. 481, 489 (Department of Education) the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) discussed examples of the Commissioner's lack of jurisdiction where it was said:

> [T]he Commissioner's authority over education matters is broad and his powers to effectuate a thorough and efficient education in the public schools are expansive. In re: Trenton Board of Education, 176 N.J. Super. 553 (App. Div. 1980), aff'd 86 N.J. 327 (1981). However, in recent cases, the Commissioner has defined and limited that jurisdiction to matters directly arising under the school laws. The Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to decide issues arising from an employment contract between a janitor and a school board. Larson v. Piscataway Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1445-81 (January 7, 1982) aff'd, Comm. (February 18, 1982) rev'd State Board of Education (October 6, 1982). He does not have jurisdiction to decide issues arising from a contract between a milk supplier and a board. Rainer's Dairies v. Board of Education of Collingswood, 1967 S.L.D. 260. Nor can he exercise jurisdiction over a contract dispute between an architect and a board of education, Poole v. Passaic, 1978 S.L.D. 1039 or interpret a contract in a tenure dispute. Salley v. Newark, 1984 S.L.D. 1714.

In general, "school law" disputes are limited to those arising under Title 18A. Fair Lawn Board of Education v. Mayor of Fair Lawn, 143 N.J. Super. 259, 266, (Law Div. 1976), aff'd 153 N. J. Super. 480 (App. Div. 1977). Where the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel. East Brunswick Board of Education v. Township of Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Moreover, many decisions of the State Board of Education have recognized that the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction in cases where administrative expertise is not involved. See, Pennetta & Sons, Inc., v. North Bergen Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3648-82 (April 22, 1983), aff'd Commissioner (May 27, 1983), (involving a contractual dispute over which the Commissioner did not have subject matter jurisdiction).

As recognized by ALJ Springer in Pennetta, supra, "under some circumstances, the Commissioner of Education has 'incidental' or 'ancillary' jurisdiction to consider a noneducational issue in order to resolve fully a related educational issue properly before [her]." Such was not the case, however, in Pennetta, since there was no underlying educational issue to which jurisdiction over the noneducational issues might attach. The issues raised therein were exclusively questions of contract law. It was noted, however, that the Sukin case, supra, presents an example which allows that the Commissioner may determine issues presented under the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21, if they occur in the context of a school law controversy over which she has "primary jurisdiction."

In Sukin, supra, the court was faced with a challenge to the dismissal of a complaint in the Chancery Division based on alleged violations of the OPMA. The court reversed the Chancery Division and transferred the complaint to the Commissioner of Education, where three other points of the original complaint had already been transferred. The court reasoned that N.J.S.A. 10:4-15 did not give exclusive jurisdiction to the Superior Court as an action in lieu of prerogative writs. Instead, the court concluded that the Commissioner of Education had concurrent jurisdiction over the matter if the issue arises under the school laws. In the court's words:

> [t]he Commissioner of Education has complete power to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. We are equally satisfied that the Commissioner had additional incidental jurisdiction to determine issues arising under the Open Public meetings Act as they relate to controversies under the school laws. After the Commissioner has acted, further review may be sought by way of appeal to the Appellate Division pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)2 and R. 2:5-1(e) In that manner the authority of the Commissioner as well as the prerogative writ jurisdiction conferred upon the Superior Court by N.J.S.A. 10:1-15 may both be fully exercised. (citations omitted).
> [Sukin, supra, 171 N.J. Super. at, 187].

Thus, while Sukin makes it clear that the Commissioner of Education can exercise incidental jurisdiction over OPMA questions, it is just that -- "incidental." First, there must be a determination that the Commissioner has primary jurisdiction over the underlying controversy between the parties. Further research has disclosed no additional reported decisions which provide further illumination of the Commissioner's incidental jurisdiction over OPMA issues such as those implicated in the instant matter. Respondent correctly points to Voll v. Ridgewood Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2772-85 (February 26, 1986), adopted with modification by Commissioner (April 14, 1986), as an example of the Commissioner's proper exercise of incidental jurisdiction over OPMA issues where the underlying controversy -- the reorganization of school districts -- was directly related to school law.

In the instant matter, while there is a plausible argument made pointing to a remote connection to school law by virtue of the school board meetings content, the true underlying controversy here arises under the OPMA. It is the OPMA which governs the holding of such closed or executive meetings of public bodies; school boards among them. More specifically, it is the OPMA which serves as the guideline as to the manner in which executive sessions are administered. See, N.J.S.A 10:4-12, 13.

The primary issue to be resolved in this matter is: whether a public body (board of education) can prohibit, by bylaw, the tape recording of its closed executive sessions? There is no particular school law at issue here. As noted by respondent, the underlying controversy is more generic in nature; i.e., it can easily be viewed as arising in the context of other public bodies' meetings; planning boards for example, among others. In Sudol v. North Arlington, 137 N.J. Super. 149 (Ch. Div. 1975), the court discussed the propriety of a municipal council barring a citizen from tape recording its public meetings. The court held that the citizen was entitled to record the proceedings of the public meetings noting New Jersey's enactment of the "Sunshine Law" (N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21) and its public policy that the general public has the right to be fully informed on the actions of its elected officials. Id. at 153.

The underlying controversy here does not relate primarily to areas of educational specialization. Compare, Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 301 (1985). Thus, the Commissioner's expertise on educational matters does not need to be invoked here. This novel OPMA matter is best left to the Superior Court, which, under N.J.S.A. 10:4-15, has jurisdiction over this matter in which an action taken by a public body at a meeting, arguably, does not confirm with the OPMA.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction to resolve the issue as to whether a public body can prohibit the tape recording of its closed executive sessions under the Open Public Meetings Act.

ORDER

Accordingly, the Board's application for a declaratory judgment is DENIED and its PETITION OF APPEAL is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent's cross-petition was untimely filed and that the fundamental question raised by petitioner in its Petition of Appeal properly arises under the Open Public Meetings Act rather than the school laws and is therefore outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, dismissing both the Petition of Appeal and respondent's cross-petition, is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.2 and a letter of request from Judith A. M. Steward, defeated candidate, dated April 30, 1993, the Commissioner of Education directed her authorized representative to conduct a recount of only the ballots cast for the members of the school board at the Woolwich Township Hall polling place on April 20, 1993. The recount was conducted on May 20, 1993, at the Office of the Gloucester County Superintendent of Schools in Sewell.

At the conclusion of the recount for the two candidates, the tally of the uncontested ballots counted, including absentee ballots, stood as follows:

CANDIDATES	AT POLLS	ABSENTEE	TOTAL
Judith A. M. Steward	114	0	114
William Gunning	221	4	225

Of the 337 ballots cast at the polls, one was voided and one was left blank. The balance of the 335 ballots were counted and included in the tally.

This concludes the report of the Commissioner's representative.

The Commissioner has reviewed the report of her representative and adopts the findings therein as her own.

The Commissioner thus finds and determines that the results of the recount tally remain unchanged. Accordingly, William Gunning was elected to serve a three-year term on the Kingsway Regional Board of Education for the constituent district of Woolwich Township.

Petitioner, nontenured Superintendent of Schools whose employment was terminated pursuant to her employment contract, sought payment for unused sick and vacation time claiming Board unlawfully reduced her last year's salary. Petitioner also sought to amend prehearing order and petition to add second count concerning validity of Board's vote on her termination.

Initial decision concluded petition primarily involved matters of contractual interpretation and alleged breach of contract and thus are more properly addressed elsewhere. Petition was dismissed without prejudice. ALJ also denied petitioner's motion to amend petition as it would deprive Commissioner of opportunity to review filing and direct proceedings on issues raised by Commissioner herself. Petitioner's claims regarding validity of Board's vote to terminate her should more properly be brought before Commissioner as new cause of action.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision noting she was not thereby making a finding on timeliness of filing of new petition.

Record Closed: April 16, 1993 Decided: May 3, 1993

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

Pre-heard on March 12, 1993 when issues were isolated, this matter is now before the administrative law judge on petitioner's motions (1) to amend the prehearing order "to correct for errors and to clarify that the issue of jurisdiction [of the Commissioner of Education] will be decided along with the motion to amend the petition;" and (2) to amend the petition to add a second count alleging Board action in giving 90-day notice of employment termination on June 9, 1992 was void because two Board members at the time illegally held their positions under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.2 since they were not registered Essex County voters, falsely swore they were and were thus immediately disqualified from office. Judgment for full back pay to end of contract term on December 31, 1992 was sought.

Petitioner's motions were filed on March 17, 1993 and March 26, 1993. The Board's opposing response was filed April 7, 1993. Petitioner's reply memorandum was filed April 16, 1993. The record on motion is complete.

I

The superintendent's employment contract of January 2, 1990 (J-1) for a term of three years from January 1, 1990 to December 31, 1992 "unless earlier terminated" provides in paragraph 3 that no tenure in position would accrue during the term, in paragraph 10 for paid annual vacation of 22 days for each 12 months of employment, and in paragraph 16 for 12 sick leave days in any calendar year that if unused might be carried over for subsequent years or paid to her on cessation of employment. Paragraph 17C governing "termination of employment contract" provides that on unilateral termination by the Board the "employee shall be entitled to payment for any accrued unused sick and vacation time." But paragraph 10 dealing with "vacations" provides that on termination of employment by the Board before end of term, "the employee shall be paid no more than five (5) unused accrued vacation days during the employment term at the salary rate then in effect."

Petitioner demands payment for all unused accrued sick days; the Board does not object to that. She disputes the Board's claim she is not entitled to payment for more than five accrued unused annual leave days; she claims all such accrued annual vacation days.

She argues the Board unlawfully reduced her last year's salary by refusing to credit her with all unused vacation time on termination, an act said by her to contravene N.J.S.A. 18A:17-19 providing "the salary of a superintendent shall not be reduced during his term of office." In addition, it was urged, by establishing her contract for three years, the Board "in effect set her salary and fringe benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-4.1," and thus for that reason by statute could not be reduced by refusal to pay full unaccrued vacation time on termination. In neither instance, however, in my view, do petitioner's claims bear upon statutory entitlement sufficient to invoke the Commissioner's jurisdiction; rights to compensation and payments on termination are clearly established within the four corners of her employment contract and are not affected by statutorily predicated benefits or entitlement. As urged by the Board, petitioner's contract is unique unto her and there are no special policy considerations impacting upon proper contractual interpretation. At issue merely, it seems to me, is construction, legal interpretation and application of paragraphs 10 and 17C of a written employment contract, which are contradictory, in order to determine whether as Pijeaux alleges the Board breached it and, if so, to fix damages therefor. Thus viewed the issue does not lie within dispute resolution jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; it is more properly cognizable in judicial forum. Cf., South Orange-Maplewood Education Association v. Board of Education of South Orange-Maplewood, 146 N.J. Super. 457, 462 (App. Div. 1977); Love v. Board of Ed., Trenton, 1988 S.L.D. -- (St. Bd. August 2, 1989); slip op. at 7-9; Paladino v. Board of Ed., Township of Lacey, Ocean County, 1989 S.L.D. -- (St. Bd. February 1, 1989); slip op. at 4-7; and cf., Burley v. Prudential Ins., 251 N.J. Sup. 493, 500 (App. Div. 1991) (". . . where two clauses in a contract clearly conflict, the more specific provision . . . usually controls over the more general. . .").

I CONCLUDE the petition of appeal (in its so-called first count) involves matters of contractual interpretation and alleged breach, matters that are more properly addressed and resolved elsewhere. The count is DISMISSED, without prejudice nevertheless, to whatever rights petitioner has in appropriate forum.

II

Petitioner's motion to amend the petition to add a second count, though raising an issue between the same two parties, presents a new cause of action. It challenges power of the Board to act lawfully to give 90-day notice of termination of employment if such action were taken by including votes of two "disqualified" Board members. Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules in N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2(a) provide:

> Unless precluded by law or constitutional principle, pleadings may be freely amended when, in the judge's discretion, an amendment would be in the interest of efficiency, expediency and the avoidance of overtechnical pleading requirements and would not create undue prejudice.

The administrative rule suggests liberality but is not a mirror image of a rule of Superior Court (R. 4:9-1) that provides:

> A party may amend his pleading as a matter of course at any time before a responsive pleading is served or, if the pleading is one to which no responsive pleading is to be served, and the action has not been placed upon the trial calendar, at any time within 20 days after it is served. . .

In Superior Court practice the motion is liberally granted and is without consideration of ultimate merits of the amendment. See, City Check Cashing v. National State Bank, 244 N.J. Super. 304, 308-309 (App. Div. 1990). "Ultimate merits" deal with whether the claim can be successfully refuted or defended. Here, deciding whether to permit amendment ought not attempt to resolve whether the claim is timely under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (the 90-day rule) or whether action of two Board members in voting to terminate petitioner was valid as that of de facto members not challengeable by third parties or the public. In Monsees v. Board of Ed., Borough of Bloomingdale, 1982 S.L.D. 1409-10, it was noted:

> A de facto school officer is one who has entered into possession of a school office and assumed to exercise the functions thereof by virtue of an apparent election or appointment that is illegal or irregular. 78 Corpus Juris Secundum, § 133, p. 876. . . It is well-established that the acts of a de facto officer are valid and may not be challenged and set aside on the grounds that he did not hold title de jure. The acts of a de facto school officer, which a de jure officer would be authorized to do, are, if performed in the prescribed manner, as valid and binding on the public and third persons as the acts of de jure officers, and authority to act cannot be questioned collaterally. This is true even though the acts are performed pending a contest or quo warranto proceeding that subsequently terminates in the ouster of the de facto officer from office. 78 C.J.S., § 133, p. 877. See also, Oliver v. Jersey City, 63 N.J.L. 634, 636-43 (E. & A. 1899). There can be no question, therefore, that, in general the acts in which [the member] participated while he occupied a seat on the Board, were validly performed and are not subject to challenge by reason of the fact that he was de facto and not de jure. . .

Only as against a successor in office to a de facto board member is it said illegal tenure is invalid from inception. Cf., Visotelex v. City Council Garfield, 113 N.J. Sup. 263, 267 (App. Div. 1971).

As events have proceeded, the petition's first count raised issues beyond jurisdiction of the Commissioner to resolve. While the proposed second count amendment might raise issues properly before the Commissioner, raising is attempted in the Office of Administrative Law by motion rather than by origination and initiation first directly with the Commissioner in usual way under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The reason petitioner seeks to amend here is to bring the second count within the 90-day limiting period of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 by having it date back to time of filing of petition six months ago on November 23, 1992. See, petitioner's letter memorandum, April 13, 1993, at p. 2. Without attempting to suggest whether petitioner is correct in her contention about dating back, I believe better practice on motion to amend a dismissed petition with a new cause of action is to decline to do so, without prejudice, in order that petitioner may re-file the petition directly with the Commissioner of Education. The practice will avoid occasion for the Office of Administrative Law to be the place for exerting personal or subject matter jurisdiction on its own without giving the Commissioner opportunity to declare the amended petition to be a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act. In In Re Kallen, 92 N.J. 14, 20 (1983), the Supreme Court said:

> An agency head has the exclusive right to decide contested cases in administrative hearings. As we recently wrote: Because the agency has the statutory jurisdiction to set and enforce regulatory policy, the final decision in contested cases is entrusted solely to the agency head. In Re Uniform Administrative Rules, 90 N.J. at 96. The Legislature's intent to give agency heads final decision-making power is embodied in at least three statutory provisions. First, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) gives the head of an agency the power to "adopt, reject or modify the recommended report and decision of an ALJ. Second, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-7(a) provides . . . nothing in this amendatory and supplementary act shall be construed to deprive the head of any agency of the authority . . . to determine whether a case is contested or to adopt, reject or modify the findings of fact and conclusions of law of any administrative law judge. Third, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-8(b) provides that no ALJ shall hear a contested case in which the agency head has determined to conduct the hearing directly and individually.

To allow amendment here would deprive the Commissioner of opportunity to conduct the hearing on issues raised directly and by herself.

Based on the foregoing, I HOLD petitioner's motion to amend the petition in a second count would be contrary to interests possessed by the Commissioner of Education and should not, therefore, be allowed. The motion is DENIED, without prejudice, nevertheless, to re-filing the petition before the Commissioner in usual way.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MAXINE J. PIJEAUX,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

In her exceptions, petitioner renews her argument that the Commissioner does in fact have jurisdiction to decide contractual issues which are incidental to claims under school laws such as she invokes to allege improper reduction in salary during term of employment (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-19) and violation of district salary policy (N.J.S.A. 18A:29-4.1). She further reiterates her claim that her proposed amendment should have been considered under N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, which expressly permits petitions to be amended after they have been transmitted by the agency head; there is no reason, petitioner avers, for the ALJ to have insisted on the Commissioner's acceptance of the amendment in order for her allegations to be heard.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, notwithstanding her invocation of provisions of Title 18A, petitioner's claim does not sufficiently implicate education law to warrant the Commissioner's exercising jurisdiction over what is fundamentally a contractual matter.

As noted by the ALJ, resolution of this matter hinges on interpretation of contractual language, and the remedy provided will arise from the terms of the contract rather than from entitlement under education law. Although petitioner invokes N.J.S.A. 18A:17-19, the State Board has previously held that this statute, which prohibits reduction in salary during the superintendent's term of office, does not apply to termination claims, as the "term in office" ends upon the superintendent's termination. Paladino, supra, 1989 S.L.D. 3063 at 3066 Further, the Commissioner does not deem petitioner's employment contract to be a "salary policy" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-4.1, so that invocation of this statute to implicate the Commissioner's jurisdiction is inapposite as well. Therefore, the Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that this matter is fundamentally a contractual dispute more properly cognizable in the judicial forum than as a controversy before the Commissioner under the Administrative Procedures Act.

Having so found, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner's claims regarding the validity of the Board's vote to terminate should more properly be brought to the Commissioner as a new cause of action rather than as an amendment to a petition raising claims which have proven to be outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction, so that the Commissioner may duly consider whether these claims constitute a proper controversy before her and raise any issues she may wish to address prior to transmittal for hearing.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, together with the additional reasons set forth above. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed without prejudice to any rights petitioner may have to pursue her contractual claims in an appropriate forum. The Motion to Amend is denied without prejudice to filing the claims included therein as a petition before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 et seq. However, in so ruling, the Commissioner expressly declines to make a finding herein on the timeliness of any such filing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) and cautions against construing her decision above as an automatic waiver of filing deadline should petitioner be found to have filed out of time.

Record Closed: June 15, 1993 Decided: June 16, 1993

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners seek emergent relief and an order from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to allow petitioner David Mosley to participate in the graduation exercises of the Board of Education of the City of Bridgeton (Board) High School on June 17, 1993. The Board has denied petitioner David Mosley the privilege of participating in the Bridgeton High School graduation exercises based upon petitioner's violations of the Board's duly executed policy entitled, "Guidelines for Participation in Graduation." (R-1)

On or about June 10, 1993, petitioner David Mosley filed an Order to Show Cause and Restraint against Glenn Earl, Cumberland County Superintendent of Schools before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Cumberland County. Subsequently, on June 11, 1993, Shirley D. Mosley and David Mosley filed a civil action before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Cumberland County against the herein respondents. Petitioners' amended complaint was for injunctive relief to compel the herein respondents to refrain from barring petitioner David Mosley from his Senior Class Baccalaureate to be held on June 13, 1993 and the Commencement exercises to be held on June 17, 1993.

On June 14, 1993, at 3:36 p.m. petitioners' papers filed before the Superior Court were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The Commissioner of Education requested that this matter be conducted on an emergent basis and the undersigned was so advised at approximately 3:45 p.m. on June 14, 1993. Arrangements were made to conduct the hearing in Cumberland County at the Upper Deerfield Municipal Court on June 15, 1993. The emergent hearing was conducted on June 15, 1993, and the record closed on that date.

Oral arguments were heard together with testimonial and documentary evidence taken at the hearing. Based upon the arguments and evidence adduced at the hearing, I FIND the following FACTS in the instant matter:

On November 10, 1992, the Board adopted a policy entitled "Guidelines for Participation in Graduation." This Board policy provides for the conduct of pupils prior to and during the annual graduation exercises. It provides in relevant part as follows:

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5605-93

I. Behavior During School Year

a. Suspension from school

(2) Class B and C - Exclusion from Graduation after Fourth Suspension or 15 days, whichever comes first ...

The herein record demonstrates that petitioner David Mosley was suspended for a total of 19 days during the course of the 1992 -93 school year. Petitioner was suspended from school for four days for his disrespectful behavior toward a teacher; for five days for the sexual harassment of a female track member; and, for ten days for threats to a security monitor, an employee of the Board.

Petitioner David Mosley admitted on the record that he was aware of the Board's policy with respect to the Guidelines for participation in the graduation exercises. David Mosley further admitted that the Guidelines were fully explained to him. On or about November 24, 1992, Mr. John D'Apolito, Assistant Principal, conducted a class meeting where all senior class members received a copy of the Board's policy. Subsequently, on January 26, 1993, there was a parents meeting held at the Bridgeton High School to explain the Guidelines and their implications for the senior class. Those parents who attended the January 26, 1993, meeting were identified by a sign-in sheet. On January 27, 1993, Assistant Principal D'Apolito sent copies of the Board's policies concerning graduation to all of those parents who did not attend the parents' meeting on January 26, 1993. Petitioner Shirley D. Mosley did not attend the January 26, 1993 parents meeting where the Guidelines were explained. She further denies she received the Guidelines through the mail because she was in the process of moving at that time. However, the mail sent to Shirley D. Mosley was not returned to the Bridgeton High School as undelivered.

The incident which resulted in petitioner David Mosley's ten day suspension occurred on April 20, 1993. It was alleged that David Mosley threaten Kevin Robinson, a security hall monitor in the employ of the Board. It was alleged that Mr. Robinson requested that Mr. Mosley accompany Robinson to the Assistant Principal's Office. Mr. Mosley is alleged to have used profanity and threatened Mr. Robinson. Mr. Mosley is alleged to have said that "he would fuck him up and get a ball bat to beat him." Petitioner David Mosley denies he made such a threat.

In any event, petitioner David Mosley was suspended for a term of five days for the use of profanity, and for a period of five days for threatening Mr. Robinson. Subsequently on April 29, 1993, a Board Hearing Panel was convened to determine whether or not David Mosley should be permitted to return to his normal classroom activities or, in the alternative, that he be assigned to an alternative educational program. Petitioner David Mosley was in attendance at the hearing with his stepfather. In addition, three members of the Board were present together with five teaching staff members. The Board Hearing Panel did find, as fact, that David Mosley threaten Kevin Robinson and that he used profanity. The Hearing Panel recommended that David Mosley be given the chance to return to school. However, if any further problems arose, David Mosley was to be removed from the high school track team and would not be allowed to go "on the grass."[1]

The Board Hearing Panel made its recommendations without the knowledge of David Mosley's prior suspension record.

Subsequent to the incident between petitioner Mosley and Mr. Robinson on April 20, 1993, Mr. Robinson filed a criminal complaint against petitioner David Mosley before the Bridgeton Municipal Court. Petitioner Mosley entered a plea of "not guilty" to the complaint and the Municipal Court Judge imposed a "90 day rule." The 90 day rule was invoked which required that petitioner Mosley and Mr. Robinson have no contact with one another during that period of time.

The record demonstrates that on May 12, 1993, Assistant Principal D'Apolito was in contact with petitioner Shirley D. Mosley to advise her that petitioner David Mosley would not be eligible to go "on the grass."

The record further demonstrates that petitioner, who is 18 years of age, will not be deprived of his diploma. Rather, he is to receive his diploma subsequent to the graduation exercises.

1. "Going on the grass" are those activities leading up to and involved with the year end graduation ceremonies.

Petitioner Shirley D. Mosley contends, among other things, that she was unaware that she could have contested David's ten day suspension when it was imposed. David Mosley asserts, among other things, that he was not allowed to refute the allegations against him and that the ten day suspension is too harsh a penalty.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The respondent Board of Education promulgated its policy, "Guidelines for Participation in Graduation" pursuant to its powers under N.J.S.A. 18:11-1 which provides that:

> c. make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the State Board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district ...

Subsequent to the Board adopting this policy on November 10, 1992, petitioner David Mosley was given a copy of the policy on November 24, 1992. Petitioner David Mosley admits that he received a copy of the policy and that he was aware of its requirements. The policy was fully explained to him. The record discloses that petitioner David Mosley was suspended from school for a total of 19 days during the course of the 1992-93 school year. Petitioner David Mosley's 19 day suspensions exceeded the Board's policy by four days.

In the Matter of R.F. v. Park Ridge Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU 79) the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommendation that the petitioning students be barred from the senior high school graduation as a consequence of their violations of the Park Ridge Board's policy concerning the use of alcohol. The Commissioner determined that the Board had the authority to promulgate rules, regulations and policies for pupil conduct and that the Board's action was neither arbitrary nor capricious.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the Bridgeton Board of Education was entirely within its general and discretionary authority to promulgate the policy of Guidelines for Participation in Graduation. Thomas v. Board of Education of Morris Township, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965).

I FURTHER FIND AND CONCLUDE, that petitioner David Mosley was in violation of the Guidelines as a result of the 19 day suspensions from school during the 1992-93 school year.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to demonstrate any irreparable harm to be visited upon him by his exclusion from the Board's graduation exercises to be held on June 17, 1993. United States v. Pavenick, 197 F. Supp. 257 (D. N.J. 1961).

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the determination of the Board of Education of the City of Bridgeton to exclude the petitioner David Mosley from its graduation exercises on June 17, 1993, is hereby SUSTAINED.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that the petition of Shirley D. Mosley and David Mosley be and is hereby DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record and Initial Decision on Motion rendered by the Office of Administrative Law on June 16, 1993 have been reviewed. Upon careful consideration of the record, the Commissioner concurs fully with the thorough decision of the Office of Adminsitrative Law finding that petitioner David Mosley was in violation of the Board's "Guidelines for Participation in Graduation" as a result of his 19 days of suspension from school during the 1992-93 school year, and thus that he has failed to meet the standards for the extraordinary grant of pendente lite restraints as articulated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the Board's determination to exclude petitioner Mosley from its graduation exercises on June 17. 1993 is sustained and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed, with prejudice.

Following consideration of evidence and testimony of witnesses, ALJ determined Board had proved pattern of unbecoming conduct warranting respondent's dismissal from employment. (Cowan)

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and directed dismissal of respondent as of date of her decision.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 6, 1992, tenure charges were filed with the Union City (City) (Hudson County) Board of Education (Board or petitioner) against Charles Gwinnett (Gwinnett or respondent), a tenured custodian employed by respondent. The Board certified the charges on August 27, 1992. The matter was thereafter transmitted by the Department of Education (Department) to the Office of Administrative Law on October 1, 1992 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Telephone conferences were conducted and hearings were held on January 20, 22 and February 5, 1993. Initial briefs were filed on March 5 and 9, 1993 on behalf of respondent and petitioner, respectively. Respondent filed a reply brief on March 18, 1993, on which date the record was closed. Petitioner did not file a reply brief.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner charged respondent with conduct unbecoming a staff member and sought dismissal of respondent. More specifically, the Board issued five charges against respondent. The tenure charges characterized each as constituting unbecoming conduct and warranting dismissal of respondent. The issues, broadly speaking, are whether petitioner has proved the charges, whether they constitute unbecoming conduct, and what, if any, discipline should be imposed upon respondent.

STIPULATION

The parties stipulated that respondent attained tenure as of February 1, 1992.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS REGARDING CHARGES

Findings and conclusions are hereinafter articulated regarding each charge. Preliminarily, background/general findings are articulated.

In general, I am more persuaded by the witnesses offered on behalf of petitioner than the testimony of respondent. As is addressed in the subsequent findings of fact, although respondent admitted to certain allegations, including an April 16, 1992 incident in which he was found lying on the boiler room floor, he denied the occurrence of a similar type of incident on May 19, 1992. He admitted yelling at a school principal when upset and at a librarian, but denied cursing at superiors, co-workers, and being generally aggressive verbally with them. Respondent admitted to carrying a gun knife, a weapon described in more detail hereinafter, to protect himself at night after he had been mugged, but Gwinnett denied carrying such weapon on school property, although he admitted that on many occasions he went directly from being out all night drinking in Hoboken to his job, at approximately 5:30 a.m., when it still could be expected to be dark.

The witnesses presented by respondent, who, all except one, were employees of the Board, were believable and straight-forward in their testimony. The evidence demonstrates attempts to help and counsel respondent to overcome whatever problems he might have had, which impacted upon his job performance. As reflected in the findings of fact, respondent was promoted to head custodian at one point because it appeared that his attitude and behavior had changed.

Respondent's testimony as a whole was not credible, except in certain respects highlighted hereinafter. He failed to demonstrate any ulterior motives or arbitrariness or capriciousness on the part of the Board or its employees concerning respondent. Some of the actions of cleaning personnel employed by the Board, who were fearful of respondent, in not reporting certain incidents to superiors, were understandable.

The Board argues that the fact that the evidence offered by petitioner in support of certain of the charges may be uncorroborated hearsay is not determinative. In this respect, the Board relies on Matter of Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div. 1988) (Cowan). I am not persuaded by this analysis.

The board in Cowan affirmed the dismissal of a tenured teacher based upon various acts of verbal and physical abuse of students over a period of some ten years, deemed to constitute unbecoming conduct. Proof of certain of the charges apparently consisted of uncorrborated hearsay, although the Commissioner apparently viewed a particular memorandum by the appellant to be an admission of an assault, while the court apparently did not. Cowan at 749. The court nevertheless concluded that application of the residuum rule does not require that hearsay evidence of the assault in question be ignored. The court noted in this respect the following:

> Applying the residuum rule requires identifying the 'ultimate findings of fact' that must be supported by a residuum of competent evidence. Here the 'ultimate findings of fact' was > that during the years 1974, 1975, 1980, 1982 and 1984 appellant engaged in one or more of eleven acts of alleged misconduct that were 'unbecoming'. Alternatively, one might characterize as the 'ultimate finding of fact' that appellant was engaged in a course of unbecoming conduct of which the acts charged were examples. Whether each of the acts charged is viewed as unbecoming, as corrborative evidence that one or more of the other acts charged were unbecoming conduct, or only as examples of a course of unbecoming conduct, there need not be a residuum of competent evidence to prove each act considered by the Commissioner so long as the 'combined probative force of the relevant hearsay and the relevant competent evidence' sustains the Commissioner's ultimate findings of unbecoming conduct. Cowan at 750-751 (citation omitted).

Although several of the charges in the instant matter are similar in nature, they involve disparate allegations of conduct falling into different categories. In addition, the evidence in question consisted of uncorroborated hearsay regarding specific allegations not, in my judgment, sufficiently reliable upon which to base findings of fact and was contradicted by respondent's testimony.

BACKGROUND/GENERAL FINDINGS OF FACT

I FIND the following to be FACTS.

Gwinnett was initially employed by respondent, effective May 3, 1990, pending a criminal check. He was assigned to the Robert Waters School (Robert Waters). By letter dated September 24, 1990, the Board was notified by the Office of Criminal History Review of the Department that respondent was disqualified from employment based upon a conviction for a crime considered to be disqualifying in nature. The disqualification was based on Gwinnett's conviction of writing indecent letters to minors.

By letter dated October 1, 1990, from Carl Johnson (Johnson), the Board's secretary, Gwinnett was notified of the disqualification and informed that his employment was terminated effective October 1, 1990. Gwinnett thereafter appealed the disqualification determination. On October 19, 1990, the Office of Criminal History Review issued a determination that respondent was rehabilitated and was no longer considered disqualified from employment. As a result, Gwinnett was reinstated as a custodial employee of respondent. He was again assigned to Robert Waters.

On December 2, 1991, respondent was transferred to the Hudson Elementary School (Hudson) as acting head custodian. The head custodian at Hudson was on sick leave at the time. Respondent was transferred, at least in part, because he held the appropriate black seal license. Upon the death of the former head custodian at Hudson, respondent applied for appointment to the position by letter dated January 2, 1992 sent to Johnson. He was formally appointed to that position, effective February 1, 1992. Gwinnett was advised of this determination by letter dated January 31, 1992 sent by Johnson. An individual with a black seal license is required to check and maintain boilers in the school. In the position of head custodian, respondent functioned as a custodian and, consistent with respondent's general practices, received extra pay for the added duties.

Respondent worked in the position of head custodian at Hudson until May 28, 1992, when he was suspended, with pay, because of an arrest and criminal charge arising from events occurring on May 23, 1992. More specifically, respondent was charged with possession of a weapon, a gun-knife, for unlawful purpose, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:39-4e. The underlying events occurred off-school premises, during non-working hours. The criminal charges were disposed of by the entry of a guilty plea by respondent to an ordinance violation in municipal court. Gwinnett thereafter returned to work and continued his employment until he was suspended without pay on August 27, 1992, pertaining to the current tenure charges.

Stanley Sanger (Sanger) is the principal of Robert Waters and held this position at all times relevant to this matter. Carl Johnson (Johnson) is secretary to the Board and was in that position at all times relevant to the current matter.

John Mielo (Mielo), currently and the times in question, was principal of Hudson. He is responsible for academics and the state of facilities, including cleanliness. Melo generally arrives at Hudson between 6:15 a.m. and 7:15 a.m.

There are approximately 550 students at Hudson. The staff includes professional employees as well as three cleaning women and two custodians, James Berian (Berian) and James Dulack (Dulack).

Nephtali Cruz is the direct supervisor of the cleaning/custodial staff. Cruz's responsibility includes periodic meetings with the principal, inspecting the building, insuring that supplies are available, etc. It is Mielo's practice to hold monthly meetings with staff. If there are any concerns regarding custodial staff, Mielo's general practice is to communicate with Cruz, and vice versa. Cruz's direct supervisor is a Mr. Calabria (Calabria), who, in turn, reports to Johnson. Mielo also communicates with Johnson regarding any custodial concerns. Cruz generally supervises all custodial duties, including buying supplies and being responsible for anything pertaining to custodians. Cruz's practice is to check each school in the City on a daily basis to assure that they are clean as well as to check the performance of custodians. He is responsible for approximately ten schools, sixty custodians, and fifty cleaning personnel. Cruz meets with Johnson every morning to discuss pertinent matters. Johnson's routine is to always take notes regarding communications and meetings. All records regarding workers are maintained by Johnson.

Cruz's hours of employment are from 8:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Cleaning personnel work from 6:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. or from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Respondent's hours of employment are from 5:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Both Waters and Hudson are elementary schools. They contain grades kindergarten though eighth, with students ranging in ages between five and thirteen years.

Paz Perazza is a cleaning woman at Hudson. Perazza's hours of employment are from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. Carolyn Jacques (Jacques) is employed as a cleaning person by respondent at Hudson. In addition, she is also employed by Nu-Way, a food company, which provides lunches at City schools. She assists in distributing lunches at Hudson. She cleans from the hours of 6:00 a.m. until 8:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. Hours in the interim are spent on her duties for Nu-Way.

Seventy five percent of custodial staff speak Spanish. They follow a "routine" and, it is reasonable to infer, do not experience substantial problems in performing their job duties because of language problems.

COUNT 1 - - -

Count 1 of the tenure charges contains statements not strictly relevant to an articulation of charges. The essence of Count I, however, is that respondent failed to carry out his duties in a proper manner when assigned to Robert Waters and that he was found lying on the floor unconscious at Hudson on April 16, 1992.

PERFORMANCE OF DUTIES

The allegations pertaining to respondent's performance of duties at Robert Waters revolve around three dates, on which communications were conducted with and concerning respondent, February 13, 1991, February 14, 1991, and March 6, 1991. In this respect, the tenure charges state that:

1. By letter dated February 13, 1991, Sanger advised Johnson of the need for Gwinnett to improve the latter's working relationship with fellow custodial staff, teachers, and administration; be more thorough in cleaning floors and stairwells and report to work during snow conditions and perform snow removal. Sanger noted that Gwinnett "had lost self-control and had yelled at the school principal and head custodian." Sanger also noted that Gwinnett "seemed to resent authority and seemed disturbed when told to perform various duties."

2. Gwinnett met with Johnson on February 14, 1991, at which meeting respondent admitted to "losing his self-control and cursing at fellow workers." Respondent promised to try to 'clean up his act.'

3. In an evaluation dated March 6, 1991, Sanger noted some improvement in respondent's performance and commented on the need for Gwinnett to continue to make improvements which 'we had discussed with Mr. Johnson concerning attitude and job performance.'

FINDINGS OF FACT

There is no dispute that Sanger sent Johnson a letter dated February 13, 1991 setting forth those areas, which are reflected in Count I, in which Sanger believed that Gwinnett needed to improve. The parties also do not dispute that Gwinnett discussed the matter with Johnson in a meeting held on February 14, 1991, nor that a subsequent March 6, 1991 evaluation generally found that respondent had improved his performance. Gwinnett admitted, to both Johnson and in his testimony, to certain problems in his performance at Robert Waters. The fact that there were some deficiencies is generally corroborated in the evidence. Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional facts.

Prior to the transfer to Hudson, Cruz received complaints from teachers at Robert Waters regarding Gwinnett. Several days prior to February 13, 1991, Sanger orally advised Johnson that he (Sanger) was dissatisfied with Gwinnett's performance at Robert Waters. Sanger also communicated to Johnson that Sanger thought respondent was sorry for his actions and expressed the hope that Gwinnett could be rehabilitated. Sanger indicated that he would be sending a letter to this effect to Johnson. Sanger did so, by letter dated February 13, 1991. Johnson set forth the areas of concern regarding respondent's performance as follows:

1. Respondent seemed to "resent authority." Sanger noted that respondent had to become more receptive to performing duties assigned by the head custodian and school principal and that Gwinnett seemed "perturbed" when told to perform duties.

2. Respondent had to improve his working relationship with other custodial staff, teachers, and administrators.

3. Respondent had to become "more thorough in cleaning floors, stairwells, etc."

4. Respondent had to report to work during snow conditions and realize that it was a custodian's obligation to share the responsibility of snow removal duties.

5. On a number of occasions, Gwinnett "lost his self control and yelled back at the school principal and head custodian" Sanger noted in this respect that respondent would appear to be remorseful after such incidents but never really maintained self control. (Ex. P-3)

Johnson met with respondent on February 14, 1991 to discuss Sanger's concerns. He first asked if respondent wanted a union representative present but Gwinnett declined.

One matter discussed at the February 14, 1991 meeting was an incident in which Gus Bachman (Bachman), the supervisor of maintenance, had taken an outside vendor through the Robert Wood School, regarding tile work. Gwinnett accompanied them. Respondent communicated to Johnson that Gwinnett had become upset because C. Garcia, head custodian, yelled at respondent, who was not authorized to go with Bachman or the vendor. Respondent, in fact, got into a "shouting match" with Garcia. It was Johnson's perception at the time in question that Garcia is a "very hands on type," a person who "likes to give orders," and that respondent does not "like to take" them. However, he received no specific information regarding incidents of respondent "losing control" and "cursing" in his communications with respondent. Respondent also complained that Garcia always yelled at Gwinnett in front of other people. He requested a transfer. Respondent also told Johnson that he (Gwinnett) felt he got along fine with other custodians, and that he only had problems with Garcia.

He also stated that he felt he cleaned Robert Wood well. Regarding snow removal duties, Gwinnett communicated that respondent had a part-time job on weekends and therefore could not be available to assist with shoveling duties on Saturdays and Sundays. He also pointed out that Garcia, who lives in Camden, New Jersey, was not required to report on Saturdays and Sundays for snow related duties, because of the long commute involved. Respondent admitted to losing control and occasionally cursing. In fact, respondent displayed an inappropriate demeanor and at least occasionally cursed while on the premises of Robert Wood during employment hours prior to February 14, 1991.

Johnson subsequently spoke to other individuals and received information to the effect that respondent got along fairly well with other custodial staff members. He therefore did not take any further action regarding the incident with Bachman. Johnson advised Gwinnett at the February 14, 1991 meeting that yelling and cursing was not the way for respondent to handle problems, especially when a principal was involved. Johnson concluded that formal action against respondent was not needed. Johnson did not conduct any further investigation regarding whether or not respondent performed his cleaning functions satisfactorily because it is the responsibility of a school principal to evaluate custodians. The head custodian is required to relay directives of the principal to custodians. Head custodians do not evaluate custodians.

At the meeting held on February 14, 1991, Johnson warned respondent that the latter's term of employment was scheduled to end on June 30, 1991 and that his rehiring would be based on an annual evaluation. Gwinnett promised Johnson that respondent would attempt to "clean up his act."

Respondent, in fact, got into a "shouting match" with Garcia. Respondent did not get along with Sanger. This was at least partly because Gwinnett was upset because, to respondent's knowledge, Sanger utilized an employee who did not have a black seal for boiler work. Respondent was also annoyed because Garcia did not have this license. Gwinnett expressed these viewpoints to Calabria and Bachman. Respondent yelled at Sanger on one occasion.

It is the principal who determines who operates the boiler in a school. Johnson told Gwinnett on February 4, 1991 that Sanger wanted Garcia to be the boiler man. Respondent indicated that he had expressed to Sanger that Gwinnett intended to complain to Calabria and that Sanger did not react favorably. Gwinnett indicated that this was the source of the problems between respondent and Sanger. In fact, Gwinnett resented the fact that Garcia operated the boiler. On February 14, 1991, respondent agreed that he had to improve his relationship with his co-workers, specifically, Sanger and Garcia.

Sanger subsequently evaluated respondent on March 6, 1991. Respondent was found to be above average in many areas, including the performance of his job duties. He was found to be satisfactory in a substantial number of areas, including professional attitude and manner, punctuality and attendance, ability to work with other personnel, and acceptance of criticism and suggestions. Regarding ability to work with others, Sanger indicated that Gwinnett had showed improvement. Sanger evaluated respondent as outstanding in the latter's communication skills. No areas of "improvements needed" and "unsatisfactory" were indicated. (Ex. P-5, p. 1).Sanger's written comments indicated that respondent had shown improvement and consistency in performing his duties, that respondent was very effective when performing duties, and that respondent needed to continue to make improvements concerning his attitude and job performance.

The evaluation was thereafter sent to Johnson. Sanger also orally told Johnson that Sanger believed that respondent had really improved.

In general, respondent has a "standing rule" that custodians be available after snow storms for cleaning functions. However, it is left to the head custodian to decide when such is necessary. Johnson was aware in early 1991 of at least one occasion when there was no response from Gwinnett to snow shoveling detail. He was also aware that Gwinnett had indicated unavailability because of part-time employment. In fact, the head custodian is not required to report for snow related duties. No discipline was ever taken against respondent because of failure to participate in such activities. However, Johnson informed Gwinnett that he (Johnson) wanted to know particular weekends when respondent would not be available. No issues regarding snow removal functions pertaining to respondent developed, to Johnson's knowledge, subsequent to February 1991. In speaking to Sanger subsequent to the February 14, 1991 meeting, Johnson and Sanger agreed that no additional future problems, were expected from respondent.

Respondent was reemployed for the next school year, 1991/1992, and as found, was assigned to Robert Waters. Prior to appointing respondent to the head custodian position at Hudson, Johnson spoke with Miele. The latter informed Johnson that respondent's performance at Hudson, since December 1991, was satisfactory.

It was Johnson's perception that it might be good for respondent to assume the position of chief head custodian at Hudson. Johnson did not communicate any prior "problems" with Gwinnett to Miele prior to the determination on this question, because he felt that respondent was "rehabilitated" and because he did not want to "prejudice" Miele. Mielo did not object to the appointment of respondent, having no reason to believe that Gwinnett could not do the job and being in need of a custodian with a black seal license.

Based upon his observations, Cruz concluded that respondent satisfactorily performed his duties when first assigned to Hudson. Eventually, starting in February 1992, Cruz started receiving complaints from respondent's co-workers regarding Gwinnett's behavior. Gwinnett performed satisfactorily at Hudson until approximately January 1992.

As of March 1992, Mielo began learning of comments from cleaning women assigned at Hudson that respondent was "gruff" and a "little pushy" with them. Because Mielo did not view the situation as one involving complaints against respondent, he (Mielo) did not call respondent in to speak to him about the matter.

It is clear that respondent yelled at Sanger on one occasion. Whatever the reason, respondent's behavior was uncalled for and constituted unbecoming conduct. Any perceived problems should have been dealt with in a different manner. As found, respondent communicated his beliefs regarding assignment of the boiler man. There is no excuse for respondent yelling at Sanger.

However, I am not persuaded that the Board has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Gwinnett did not sufficiently perform cleaning duties nor comply with requirements concerning snow removal duty. Any evidence regarding cleaning duties consisted of uncorrborated hearsay of a general nature. Gwinnett denied any deficiencies in the performance of cleaning duties. Respondent advised Johnson that he (Gwinnett) was not available for snow removal duties on Saturdays and Sundays because of a part-time job. At least one other custodian, Cruz, was apparently excused from snow removal duty because of a long commute. Petitioner introduced no evidence of clear policies and practices regarding snow removal duties, including exemptions therefrom. When apprised of the reasons for respondent's unavilability, Johnson merely advised Gwinnett to inform him (Johnson) of the specific dates on which Gwinnett would not be available. Neither Johnson nor anyone else disciplined or formally noticed respondent that Gwinnett had to be available on any particular days which may have conflicted with part-time employment.

I CONCLUDE that respondent yelled at Sanger on one occasion prior to February 13, 1991, and that such constituted conduct unbecoming a worker. I also CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent did not perform cleaning duties nor participate in snow removal duties as required prior to February 13, 1991.

FINDINGS OF FACT

I am persuaded that petitioner has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Gwinnett was found lying on the floor of the boiler room at Hudson on the morning of April 16, 1992. There is no dispute that respondent, at the time, had a problem with alcohol. He was living with his mother, with whom he did not get along. It is also clear from the record that his routine was to leave work, in his own words, "to hang out" on the streets of Bayonne, drinking until the early hours of the morning. Soon afterwards, he would report for work. Gwinnett does not deny that he was out drinking on the evening of April 15, 1992. His testimony was that he fell asleep at his desk and, inferentially, ended up lying on the floor because he was tired. I do not find this testimony to be crecible. The testimony of Petitioner's witnesses established that respondent consistently slept on the job subsequent to his transfer to Hudson, commencing in February 1991.

Based on a review of the record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

Respondent arrived a little early on the day in question, at approxiamtely 5:30 a.m., because he had been out drinking, in his own words, half of the night on APRIL 15, 1992. He was found on the floor in the boiler room by two cleaning personnel. He was assisted off the floor and into a chair. Johnson spoke to Cruz sometime between 1:00 and 1:30 p.m. and informed Cruz what had happened. Cruz warned respondent that such behavior could not be tolerated. Respondent continued working until 2:30 p.m. He spoke to Johnson several days later. Gwinnett was advised that the Board would not tolerate such behavior.

Mielo went down to the boiler room, at approximately 7:30 a.m. on April 16, 1992. Respondent was putting out garbage pails. Gwinnett told Mielo that he was okay. Mielo notified Cruz, who subsequently arrived and proceeded to the basement. Cruz later informed Mielo that he (Cruz) had had to awaken respondent. Mielo indicated that he (Mielo) had earlier spoken to respondent and that Gwinnett had seemed okay. Mielo had also called Johnson. Johnson inquired if respondent was drunk, and Mielo indicated that Gwinnett was outside taking out garbage cans. As found, Johnson subsequently met with respondent regarding the matter.

Mielo communicated to Johnson that there was no evidence of alcohol on school premises and that Gwinnett seemed to have personal problems because his mother had thrown him out of the house. Cruz reported to Johnson that Gwinnett had said he had been out drinking the night before and was just tired. Cruz spoke to Gwinnett, giving respondent a verbal warning. No action was taken against respondent.

Respondent stresses that he was not unconscious on April 16, 1992, but fell asleep because he was tired due to the fact that he had been out drinking until shortly before reporting to work. I am not persuaded by this analysis.

A requirement that petitioner prove that respondent was, in a medical sense, "in an unconscious state" would be too literal an interpretation of the tenure charges. It is clear that respondent was, at the very least, feeling the effects of his drinking bout and was, in layman's terms, "passed out." I do not find credible his testimony that he merely fell asleep at his desk and fell off the chair. In any event, I am persuaded that even if respondent was "merely" sleeping on the job, that such conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming an employee.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Gwinnett was lying on the floor on the morning of April 16, 1992 in the boiler room at Hudson, either asleep or "passed out," which condition resulted from the effects of drinking alcoholic beverages until shortly before he reported to work that morning and that such conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming an employee.

Count 2 alleges that Gwinnett did not report to work on April 29, 1992 without notice to the Board; that on May 4, 1992, Johnson requested medical documentation to substantiate Gwinnett's absence, that no medical documentation has ever been provided, and that the actions of respondent in absenting himself without notice to the Board and without documentation of illness, when requested, demonstrate disregard for duties and the safety and welfare of students, faculty and staff and, therefore, conduct unbecoming a staff member.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Mielo testified that on April 29, 1992, he arrived at Hudson at approximately 6:30 a.m. to find Jacques and Perazza outside the school unable to gain access, although the gymnasium lights were on. Mielo admitted the staff but could not find respondent, although Gwinnett should have been at work at that time. A check of respondent's time card revealed that Gwinnett had not punched in. After opening the building, Mielo called an employee at another school who came to Hudson to start the boilers. Mielo called respondent's house and was told by a female, presumably respondent's mother, that Gwinnett had left for work at 5:10 a.m.

Respondent did not report during the entire day. Both Johnson and Mielo testified that Gwinnett, to their knowledge, did not call the Board number used for reporting absences, which is referred to as the "sick line." Miela also contacted Joseph Calibria at the central office to see if respondent had called in.

Mielo discussed the matter with respondent on April 30, 1992. Mielo testified that Gwinnett informed the principal that respondent had had an argument with his mother, left for work, got sick and left the school to go to a lady friend's house. This testimony was generally confirmed by the testimony of other witnesses.

On May 1, 1992, respondent executed a form stating that he was absent on April 29, 1992 because he had had diarrhea and was upset. Respondent requested that he be docked a day's pay. Respondent was not paid for April 29, 1992.

By letter dated May 4, 1992, Johnson, referencing a provision of an applicable union agreement, requested that respondent provide medical documentation to substantiate his absence. Respondent testified that he did not do so because he was advised by a union officer that he (Gwinnett) was not required to do so. Gwinnett opined that he did not need a physical examination because he knew what was wrong with him, he had a drinking problem. Gwinnett testified that he had been out drinking the night before April 29, 1992, until shortly before reporting to work on that date.

Respondent testified that he attempted to call the school to report his absence. More specifically, he stated that he attempted to call, from a pay telephone near his girlfriend's apartment, the central office as well as Mielo's office, but not the office monitored by Mielo's secretary. Respondent indicated that he went to Hudson. Gwinnett testified that he had memorized the applicable phone numbers and left a message on the "sick line" answering machine that he would not be at work. He was not able to reach Mielo, or anyone else, at Hudson.

On cross-examination, respondent stressed that he was "hanging out" on the "street" the night before but was not drinking. He also noted that although he does not wear a wrist watch, his girlfriend had a clock in her apartment. Respondent could not understand why he should have to testify in this respect, noting that he had been docked for his absence. Respondent also testified that he was aware it was his obligation to call if he were going to be absent because of sickness. He indicated he left a message on the sick line answering machine. However, personnel responsible for monitoring the answering machine reported to Johnson that no message had been received from Gwinnett. Respondent also was aware from communications with Johnson that an absent employee is required to call the principal of his school. By his own testimony, he did not attempt to call back later in the day. Gwinnett indicated that he did not provide medical documentation in part because he did not want to pay a physician's fee, expressing the belief that it was the obligation of respondent to do so.

Discipline was not taken against Gwinnett because of his nonappearance on April 29, 1992 or for any other reason pertaining to that date.

At the hearings, petitioner's counsel read a section of the applicable union contract, which appears to provide authority for a school to request medical documentation if there is a pattern of continued absences. Johnson testified that he felt that there was a pattern of absences developing by respondent. Johnson also testified that no follow-up action was taken by Hudson personnel regarding the lack of medical documentation.

It is clear that respondent was absent from work on April 29, 1992. His testimony in this respect generally was not credible. I found petitioner's witnesses to be more credible in this respect. In addition, respondent's testimony that he was not drinking the night before, in light of his testimony that he had a severe drinking problem at this time and that his habit was to routinely "hang out" on the "street" drinking with friends, is not believable. It is also not believable that respondent would not have attempted to call Mielo's secretary. It is also noteworthy that Gwinnett made no efforts to communicate with Hudson personnel later in the day regarding his absence. In light of his general lack of credibility, and his lack of efforts to reach Mielo later in the day, I do not find credible respondent's testimony that he tried to call the sick line on the morning of April 29, 1992. The Board's general practice was to operate an answering machine on the sick line, and it would be highly unlikely that normal procedures would not have been followed on that particular day.

However, I am not persuaded that petitioner has demonstrated a sufficient basis for finding that Gwinnett violated any policies by failing to provide medical documentation. There was no testimony regarding Board nor Hudson policies and practices in this respect, other than a brief reference to a union provision which possibly may allow school personnel to request medical documentation if a pattern of absences has developed. In any event, it is questionable whether two absences would constitute a "pattern."

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

Respondent failed to report for work on April 29, 1992. It is reasonable to infer that he initially went to Hudson but left because of feeling ill. Gwinnett had been out the evening before drinking, returned home, had an argument with his mother, and left for his job at approximately 5:15 a.m.,and it is reasonable to infer that he was feeling ill because of the effects of the previously consumed alcoholic beverages. Upon leaving Hudson, with the outside door locked and the boiler not operating, he proceeded to a girlfriend's house. It is reasonable to infer that respondent made no efforts on April 29, 1992 to contact either the sick line nor Hudson personnel to report his absence. Respondent was aware at the time of a requirement that he do so.

Johnson subsequently requested, on May 4, 1992, that respondent provide medical documentation for his failure to report to work on April 29, 1992. Gwinnett did no do so because of advice from union personnel and because respondent did not want to incur the cost of a physician's examination. The policies and practices of petitioner and Hudson regarding the provision of medical documentation by employees cannot be determined with specificity from the record.

On May 1, 1992, respondent excuted a document pertaining to his absence on April 29, 1992, requesting that he be docked a day's pay. Respondent was not paid for April 29, 1992.

It is important for school personnel to report absences so that substitute personnel can be arranged. It is especially important for custodial/boiler employees to so report so that school premises can be opened for other employees and the boiler can be turned on.

As found, respondent failed to comply with a requirement that he provide notice of his absence on April 29, 1992. His failure to do so, and his absence itself, constitute unbecoming conduct. This is especially so in light of the importance of a custodial/boiler person's attendance so that the school can be opened and the boiler turned on for the start of the school day.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has established by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent was absent without notice on April 29, 1992 and that such constitutes conduct unbecoming a staff person.

Count 3 alleges that on May 9, 1992, Gwinnett was asked by the school librarian, Edna Antenucci (Antenucci), to replace furniture in the library which had been moved to allow the removal of a copy machine and that respondent became very angry and abusive when asked by Antenucci to put the furniture back.

The Board offered into evidence a copy of a May 5, 1992 memorandum sent to Mielo by Antenucci regarding the incident in question. This memorandum was forwarded to Johnson. Antenucci was not presented as a witness.

The content of Antenucci's memorandum is essentially reflected in the allegations of Count 3. Antenucci stated that on May 5, 1992, Gwinnett was sent to the library at Hudson to help move a copy machine. In order to accomplish this, furniture had to be removed. Antenucci noted that Gwinnett became "very angry and abusive" (emphasizing "abusive" by underlining it) when he was asked by her to put the furniture back. She also noted that respondent's "attitude & his comments were very nasty and uncalled for and he spoke in terms that I find very unaceptable (sic)." (Ex. P-12, p. 1).

Johnson testified that he met with respondent on May 18, 1992, regarding this incident and that Gwinnett acknowledged that his behavior was wrong. Gwinnett also informed Johnson that respondent had already apologized to Antenucci. Respondent could not remember specifically what he said to Antenucci but admitted to Johnson that he "had had a bad day that day." Johnson warned respondent that continued infractions could lead to disciplinary actions, including the withholding of increments or dismissal. Respondent informed Johnson that he (Gwinnett) had been attending meetings of Alcoholic Anonymous (AA) for a drinking problem and that these meetings were helping. Johnson warned respondent about possible drinking problems on the job. Johnson's testimony was corroborated by notes written by him at the time in question.

Gwinnett testified that Antenucci, who was elderly, insisted on having furniture immediately moved and ordered him around. Gwinnett testified on cross-examination that he yelled at Antenucci on the day in question, but that he did not curse at her. He could not recall specifically what had been said, although he noted that she was "very annoyed." He acknowledged that he should not have yelled at her. He noted in this respect that he does not go to work every day with "a clear head" because of his "problems." He acknowledged that he later apologized to Antenucci. Gwinnett could not recall the specifics of his conversation with Johnson on May 18, 1992, although he did note that he was attending AA meetings for a drinking problem.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

On May 9, 1992, Antenucci, who was elderly, and the librarian at Hudson, asked respondent to move furniture so that a computer could be installed. Respondent did so. Antenucci later requested that respondent put the furniture back. Although the exact content of their communications cannot be determined from the record, it is reasonable to infer that she communicated to Gwinnett that she wanted the furniture put back immediately. Respondent yelled at her. He later apologized. Respondent subsequently spoke to Johnson regarding the matter, indicating that he had an alcohol problem and was attending AA meetings.

Respondent exhibited an inability to properly deal with a co-worker, Antenucci, on May 9, 1992. Even if she had insisted that he immediately put the furniture back in its place upon request, and even if such request was unreasonable (which, parenthetically, is not demonstrated from the record) yelling at her was not a proper response. I CONCLUDE that petitioner has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent yelled at Antenucci on April 19, 1992, when she, in her capacity as school librarian, requested that he put back furniture which he had previously moved on that day in the library and that such conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a staff employee.

Count 4 essentially alleges that on two occasions on May 19, 1992, respondent was found lying face down on the floor or at his desk in the boiler room incapable of performing his duties. More specifically, Count 4 alleges that respondent was discovered at approximately 5:55 a.m., by Jacques and Perazza, lying on the floor underneath the sink in the boiler room. It is also alleged that at approximately 6:15 a.m., he was found with his face down asleep at the desk in the boiler room. Respondent is described as apparently being under the effects of alcohol on both occasions.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Perazza and Jacques testified that on the morning of May 19, 1992, they, as well as a milk vendor, could not gain entry to Hudson upon reporting to work, although they repeatedly knocked on the outside door. The door was locked but the lights were on in the gymnasium, indicating to them that respondent should have been on duty. They eventually gained entry shortly after 6:00 a.m., when Berian arrived and opened the door. The women went directly to the boiler room to pick up their keys and punch their time cards. They testified that they found respondent lying on the floor, face down, underneath a sink, which is located to the rear of the room. They went to locate Berian and the vendor, who returned with them to the boiler room. Both women testified that they thought respondent was either dead or very sick. The vendor initially suggested calling an ambulance. However, Berian helped respondent up and sat him on a chair. Based on respondent's demeanor and actions, all felt that respondent was intoxicated. Perazza detected an odor of alcoholic beverages.

Jacques emphasized in her testimony that Gwinnette was not moving and that she thought he was either sick or dead. She had never seen him on the floor before, and he appeared to be unconscious.

Perazza testified that although the vendor wanted to call an ambulance, Berian was convinced that respondent was drunk. Berian and the milk vendor picked respondent up and placed him in a chair. The women then left to perform their duties. Even as being lifted up, respondent appeared to be unconscious and did not immediately wake up. Berian and the vendor had to awaken Gwinnett. Respondent sat down and could not get up on his own. He remained sleeping with his arms folded and his head down on the table desk. Perazza observed that he appeared to fall if not supported and had no balance.

Mielo testified that at approximately 6:50 a.m., Dulack reported that respondent had been found sitting face down at the desk in the boiler room. Dulack indicated that Gwinnett was not able to respond to requests to clean yards. Mielo went to the custodian's office and observed respondent in this position. Respondent did not answer a call when Mielo called him. Mielo then notified Cruz, who immediately came to Hudson. Both Mielo and Cruz went to the boiler room and, as they both testified, observed respondent, still apparently sleeping at the desk. Cruz finally succeeded in waking respondent. Cruz and Mielo testified that respondent became belligerent when told he had been sleeping and stated that he was ill. Cruz then counseled respondent to call in sick and see a doctor for any physical ailment. Respondent replied "F- this . . .," punched out, and left the building without permission.

Respondent testified that he could not recall the specifics regarding any incidents on May 19, 1992, but stated that he might have dozed off and been awakened by Cruz. Gwinnett testified that after completing cleaning duties, he sat down at his desk, put his head down and fell asleep. He acknowledged that Cruz and Mielo saw him sleeping that day and that Cruz woke him up. He testified, however, that that was the only time he was awakened that day. He was certain he was not found nor left unconscious on the floor on May 19, 1992. He admitted punching out and going home after being awakened, but denied using foul language. He denied that he was drunk on the job or consumed alcoholic beverages on the job. He acknowledged yelling, but denied cursing or using obscene language. He acknowledged that Cruz told him to go home if he was not feeling well and to get help for his drinking problem. Gwinnett indicated to Cruz that this was not necessary because he was attending AA meetings.

Johnson testified that he spoke to Cruz at approximately 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and that Cruz advised that Gwinnett had been belligerent, screaming, cursing, and punched out and left the building. At this point, Johnson concluded that the time for conferences with respondent had ended and that official action should be recommended.

By letter dated May 20, 1993, Johnson detailed recent incidents of what was deemed to be unprofessional conduct by respondent and advised Gwinnett that the Board would consider possible disciplinary measures, including dismissal. Johnson noted in this letter that Gwinnett had not revealed any medical conditions causing such behavior in discussions with Johnson and that Gwinnette's action and demeanor led Johnson to believe that Gwinnette had a drinking problem. Johnson noted in this respect "slow, lazy-like actions and speech . . ." (Ex. P-17, p. 1). Johnson concluded that the matter would be presented to the Board on May 29, 1992 and that petitioner might consider possible disciplinary measures, including dismissal. Gwinnett did not respond to the letter.

I am persuaded by the evidence offered on behalf of petitioner. The testimony of Perazza, Cruz, Johnson and Jacque was persuasive, corroborated by the documentary evidence, consistent on direct and cross-examination, and consistent with each other. Respondent's testimony was not believable.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additonal facts.

Respondent reported to work at his regular time on May 19, 1992. However, it is reasonable to infer that he did not leave the outside door to Hudson open. Upon arriving at Hudson at approximately 5:15 a.m., Perazza and Jacques found the building locked. Berian subsequently arrived, at approximately 6:15, and opened the door. The women proceeded to the boiler room, where they observed respondent lying face down on the floor under a sink towards the rear of the room. Although they called to him several times, he did not respond. He appeared to be unconscious and was not moving. They summoned Berian and a milk vendor. The latter two individuals attempted to wake respondent, by turning him and jostling him. They were not able to do so. Berian and the vendor lifted respondent by Gwinnett's arms and seated him in a chair at the desk in the boiler room. Berian was then able to arouse respondent by yelling at him.

Mielo was subsequently informed of the incident. He proceeded to the boiler room, where he found Gwinnett seated at the desk, not moving and apparently asleep, with his arms folded and his head on the desk. Mielo called to respondent, but Gwinnett did not respond. Mielo called Cruz, and the two men found respondent in the same way. They were eventually able to wake respondent. Respondent indicated that he was not feeling well, but refused an offer by Cruz to have a physician called or to be assisted in going to a doctor's office. At this point, respondent yelled at Cruz and Mielo, and articulated an obscenity, "F...this . . .," punched out, and left the building. It is reasonable to infer, that respondent's condition was the result of, at least in part, the intake of alcoholic beverages.

The incident was reported to Johnson. By letter dated May 20, 1992, Johnson advised respondent that this incident as well as others would be reported at a meeting of the Board on May 24, 1992. Gwinnett did not respond to this letter.

It is apparent that respondent's behavior on May 19, 1992 constituted conduct unbecoming a staff employee. I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent was either unconscious or sleeping on the morning of May 19, 1992, lying on the floor of the boiler room at Hudson; that he was subsequently sleeping while seated at the desk in the boiler room on the morning of that day; that when confronted by Cruz and Mielo, Gwinnett articulated an obscenity, punched out, and left the premises. I also CONCLUDE that this behavior constitutes conduct unbecoming a staff employee.

COUNT 5

As found hereinabove, Gwinnett was arrested on May 23, 1992. He was suspended with pay by respondent on May 28, 1992, pending formal action, based on the criminal charge. Count 5 alleges, in part, that upon suspension, he was required to surrender his keys and that a subsequent search of a locked desk drawer in the boiler room revealed pornographic materials. Based upon further investigations, it was concluded that said materials belonged to Gwinnett and that staff members had previously observed respondent looking at such materials while at work on school premises. County 5 also alleges, in pertinent part, that respondent on various occasions had in his possession on school premises what is referred to as a "gun-knife."

POSSESSION OF MAGAZINE

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties do not dispute that following respondent's suspension, Cruz asked other custodians at Hudson questions regarding a locked drawer in the desk located in the boiler room. Cruz testified that he was informed by custodial personnel that only respondent had a key for the drawer and that Gwinnett kept was viewed as pornographic materials in it.

Respondent surrendered his keys to Cruz on May 28, 1992. When the drawer was opened, a magazine was found. It is the petitioner's position that such magazine is "pornographic" and should not be on school premises. The magazine was moved into evidence as Exhibit P-23.

Cruz testified that subsequent to May 19, 1992, to his knowledge, respondent was not at work for approximately ten days. When respondent returned, Gwinnett informed Cruz that respondent had been arrested in Hoboken. Johnson subsequently gave Cruz a letter dated May 28, 1992, from Johnson and Raphael Fraguela (Fraguela), respondent's president, to give to Gwinnett. This letter advised respondent that Gwinnett was being suspended with pay because of the criminal charges against him, pending formal action of the Board.

Upon giving Gwinnett the letter, Cruz took possession of respondent's custodial keys. Cruz testified that prior to that date, he had asked respondent why a drawer in the desk was locked. On one day when Gwinnett was absent, Cruz asked custodial personnel why the drawer, which contained supplies for cleaning personnel, was kept locked with a pad lock. Cruz testified that he was informed that "pornographic" books were left in the drawer. Cruz was also informed that no one other than Gwinnett used the drawer, although other personnel might periodically sit at the desk. It was Cruz's belief that Gwinnett kept on his possession keys, including the key that would open the drawer in question, at all times. Cruz did not have the key to the padlock. It was a private lock, not of the type generally used in city schools. Cruz queried Mielo, other custodians, and cleaning personnel as to whether or not they had a key and was informed that no one other than respondent had a key to the lock.

As indicated, upon opening the drawer following respondent's suspension, Cruz found the magazine in question. He took it to Johnson. In addition to the magazine, there was a tape and tools in the drawer. Mielo corroborated Johnson's testimony that Johnson informed the principal that a magazine had been found in the drawer in question.

On May 28, 1992, the Board adopted a resolution suspending Gwinnett with pay pending further investigation and possible action; withholding increments to respondent for the 1992-1993 year; and determining that the administration should consider and determine whether tenure charges should be filed against respondent for determination of the Board. The bases cited in the resolution for the action were as follows: Respondent was found lying on the floor of the school premises in an unconscious state on April 16, 1992; respondent in the past exhibited "slow, lazy-like actions and speech consistent with intoxication"; respondent acted in a "belligerent manner" with fellow workers and superiors; respondent admitted, on May 18, 1992, that he was attending AA meetings for his "problem"; on May 19, 1992, Gwinnett was found face down at his desk at 6:50 a.m. and could not be initially aroused; when Cruz finally awakened Gwinnett on that date, respondent acted in a hostile manner and proceeded to "punch out" and leave the school premises, swearing; and Gwinnett was arrested on May 23, 1992 and charged with possession of and brandishing in public a single "gun-knife" (Ex. P-21).

Johnson testified that Gwommett took no action to overturn the Board's action of May 28, 1992 and did not file grievances. Respondent does not dispute that he received copies of the letter and the Board's resolution.

Gwinnett testified in detail regarding the allegations contained in Count 5. He indicated that the desk in question is a small wooden one, containing one drawer on the left-hand side and three drawers on the right. The drawer in question, which was a middle drawer, was locked. He stated that he kept tools and personal papers in it, as well as keys which were used by cleaning personnel. Respondent stated that he did not put the padlock in question on the drawer, but that it was there when he began employment at Hudson. It was his belief that a janitor had previously placed the key on the drawer. Based on his recollection, another custodian had given him keys, including the one in question. Respondent also testified that on March 12, 1992, he had extra keys made and gave them to Berian. Respondent stated that he had never seen the magazine in question prior to the tenure charges and that it was not his. It was his practice that he would give the cleaning personnel the keys they utilized as needed. The drawer in question is approximately two inches deep and three-feet wide. Respondent testified that other individuals in addition to Berian also had a key to the locked drawer. Respondent stressed in his testimony that Cruz found the magazine after respondent had left the premises of the school, inferring that someone else had placed it in the desk. On cross-examination, he noted that although he was previously convicted of writing indecent letters to minors, he went for "help" and was found by the Department to be rehabilitated.

Respondent did not dispute that he did not take any action concerning his suspension nor the withholding of an increment. He noted in this respect that he did not "really" read the copy of the Board's resolution given to him. He also testified that he did not show the document to anyone else in order to better understand it. He did, however, understand that he was suspended because of his arrest and that an increment had been withheld. Respondent did not confer with union personnel at that point. Respondent acknowledged receiving and reading Johnson's letter of June 1, 1992. He estimated that the withheld increment approximated $1,500.

Petitioner has not demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the magazine in question was brought into Hudson by respondent. Respondent's testimony in this respect was credible, specific, and consistent on direct and cross-examination, except for initial difficulty by respondent in communicating the exact location of the drawer in question. I do not find this to be material. The Board's evidence in this respect consists solely of uncorroborated hearsay. It presented no evidence to refute petitioner's testimony that the padlock was present when Gwinnett commenced employment at Hudson and that he subsequently gave a copy of the key to the padlock to Berian.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional facts.

At a meeting held on May 28, 1992, the Board issued a resolution suspending Gwinnett, with pay. Respondent was advised of this action by a letter dated June 1, 1992 from Johnson, which letter was given to Gwinnett by Mielo, at Johnson's directive. Johnson also told Gwinnett to turn in the latter's custodial keys to Cruz, which respondent did on May 28, 1992. Upon receiving the keys, Cruz opened the drawer in the custodian's desk, which drawer had had a pad lock on it for some time. He found a magazine, the content of which is as stated in Exhibit P-23, as well as some papers and a tape.

The padlock was on the drawer in question at the time respondent transferred to Hudson. Other employees, in addition to respondent, had possession of a key to open the drawer in question.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent brought the magazine in question onto the premises of Hudson. It is therefore not necessary to determine whether the magazine is "pornographic" and whether possession of it on school premises constitutes a basis for disciplinary action.

POSSESSON OF GUN-KNIFE

FINDINGS

The remaining charge is, as indicated, that respondent had possession on school premises of a weapon referred to as a gun-knife. Gwinnett was arrested on May 23, 1992, at approximately 2:51 a.m., and charged with possession of a weapon for unlawful purposes, N.J.S.A. 2C:29-4e, by Hoboken police. The circumstances concerning the arrest are pertinent to determining whether respondent had possession of a gun-knife on school premises.

The Board presented the testimony of Sergeant. James Tuminaro (Tuminaro), who is custodian of records and evidence at the Hoboken Police Department. Tuminaro brought to the hearing the actual gun-knife which was found on respondent's possession at the time of the arrest and described it in detail. Copies of the pertinent complaint, arrest report and warrant were also moved into evidence.

Respondent does not dispute Tuminaro's testimony, the accuracy of the documents pertaining to his arrest, nor the circumstances relevant to the arrest. Respondent was arrested at the vicinity of Fourth and Jackson Streets in Hoboken. He was found to have in his possession, in a pocket, a gun-knife, an instrument having a blade of approximately four inches in length contained in a holster with a clip on the front of the holster.

As its name denotes, and based on the testimony of Tuminaro and a review of the documents in question, it is apparent that the instrument in question resembles a small caliber hand gun, but that it has the blade of a knife. The gun-knife was composed in part of a pistol grip, that appeared to be a hammer, but had no trigger mechanism or cylinder. A solid stainless steel mechanism was attached to the pistol grip which, when extended, revealed a sharp four-inch blade. A clip on the holster allows the gun-knife to be attached to one's waist. As described by Tuminaro, the blade can be folded into the handle and must be pulled out manually. There is a release mechanism on the hand gun to the rear of the blade, which Tuminaro described as being similar to the "hammer" of a gun, which mechanism locks the blade into place when the blade is extended. The blade can be folded back down. The blade itself contains markings indicating that it is made of stainless steel. Tuminaro testified that he had received a gun-knife confiscated from respondent in the ordinary course of police business and that evidence had followed the usual "chain of custody."

Jacques testified that respondent had, on Hudson premises, shown her what appeared to be a small, dark, hand-gun. She stated that Tuminaro had shown her the gun-knife taken from respondent on May 22, 1992 at the hearings in the instant matter and that it appeared similar in size and color to what respondent had shown her, although she could not be certain that it was the same object. Jacques also indicated that respondent had told her that he carried it for his protection. In this respect, she noted that she had observed Gwinnett coming to school on several occasions with noticeable cuts and lacerations on his forehead and cheek. On the first such occasion, respondent told her that he had been mugged. She saw the instrument on school premises in February 1992, subsequent to February 14, 1992, on which date a female coworker had been mugged in the morning on the way to the school. While in the custodian's office at approximately 9 a.m., respondent showed her the weapon and indicated that he carried it in a back pocket. She also testified that she told an employee of a vendor, a Juana, about the weapon, and that Juana told Jacques that she (Juana), too, had seen it.

Respondent admitted in his testimony that he was carrying a gun knife, for which he was arrested, for protection, because he had previously been mugged. He insisted that he had never brought it onto school premises. He did, however, acknowledge that he believed it was more dangerous to be out at night and that he carried the weapon at night for protection. Respondent testified that he often went directly from "drinking," "hanging out" on the streets of Hoboken, to his employment, arriving at approximately 5:30 a.m. when, he acknowledged, it would usually be dark.

Respondent testified that he was arrested during Memorial Day weekend and returned to work the following Tuesday. He informed Mielo that he had to report to court the next day. The principal, in turn, told Johnson what had happened. Respondent appeared in court as scheduled, and the charge was downgraded to a disorderly person's charge, which was to be heard in Hoboken municipal court on July 15, 1992. The charges were dropped because of lack of prosecution. Respondent informed Johnson of this development, and the latter requested documentation. Respondent testified that he obtained the requested data and returned to work on July 22, 1992. The criminal matter was later reopened, on approximately August 5, 1992. Respondent returned to court, pled, and received a $250 fine, a suspended sentence, and a requirement of 12 hours community service. Respondent pled guilty under a municipal ordinance violation of disturbing the peace. From July 22, 1991 until his suspension, Gwinnett worked at a Board administration office. He received vacation pay until August 31, 1991.

I am persuaded by the evidence offered on petitioner's behalf. Jacques impressed me as a credible witness. Respondent does not dispute that he carried the gun-knife, at least off school premises, because of safety concerns. As the Board argues, his testimony that he never brought it to school is not credible in light of the fact that he often reported for work directly from the "streets." As petitioner argues, it is reasonable to infer that it was dark at least a good portion of the time when respondent reported to work in the mornings. Although not 100 percent certain, Jacques believed that that object which respondent showed her on Hudson premises was the same as that shown to her by Tumenaro and reflected in pictures taken at the hearings. I am persuaded that it was.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be additional FACTS.

Sometime in February 1992, after February 14, 1992, respondent had on his possession, while at work at Hudson, a weapon which can be described as a gun-knife. It consisted of a holster, with a clip allowing the instrument to be attached to one's waist. It also consisted of a sharp, stainless steel blade, essentially a knife, approximately four inches in length. There was a mechanism on the gun-knife which allowed the blade, once extended, to be locked into place. The blade could then be folded back into the handle.

CONCLUSIONS

Respondent's concern regarding the possession of an instrument such as a gun-knife on school premises is warranted.I am persuaded, and so CONCLUDE, that the posesssion of the gun-knife in question by respondent on school premises in February 1992 constitutes conduct unbecoming an employee.

CONCLUSIONS REGARDING PENALTY

The Commissioner of the Department generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as a result of a reduction of the number of janitors in the district or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense, pursuant to the manner prescribed in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Id. at 17-3.

No person shall be dismissed if he is under tenure of office, position or employment in a public school system except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, "or other just cause." Such action can only be taken after a hearing held pursuant to applicable statutory provisions, after written charges of the cause of complaint. Id. at 6-10. Upon certification of charges to the Commissioner, a local board may suspend the person against whom such charges are made, with or without pay. If a determination of the charges by the Commissioner is not made by the Commissioner within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, then full salary of the individual in question shall be paid beginning on the 121st day until such determination is made. A dismissal of the charges shall result in reinstatement with full pay from the first day of any suspension. Id. at 6-14.

Respondent advances arguments regarding each charge to the effect that, even if proven, they do not justify removal. Each of the charges upheld hereinabove evidence actions of an extremely serious nature.

Although respondent argues against the credibility of all witnesses presented on behalf of petitioner, it is clear from the record that the Board's personnel treated him in a fair manner. Notwithstanding prior complaints regarding Gwinnett, evidenced in the record, and the fact that Gwinnett yelled at Sanger, Johnson recommended that Gwinnet be promoted to head custodian at Hudson because it appeared that respondent had improved his attitude and performance. Indeed, for a brief period of time, he appeared to make an effort to improve his performance and did so between February and March of 1991. Neither Johnson nor Cruz took immediate disciplinary action against respondent as other events occurred, even after the April 16, 1992 incident and complaints of co-workers and Antenucci. It was not until May 20, 1992, that the Board noticed respondent, as a result of the May 19, 1992 incident, that petitioner would consider disciplinary measures against Gwinnett, including dismissal. As brought out through petitioner's evidence, subsequent discovery that Gwinnett might have brought a weapon onto school property, in light of the prior occurrences, convinced Board personnel that tenure charges should be brought. I am persuaded that the charges sustained, when considered in their totality, justify dismissal of Gwinnett.

As noted, Cowan, involved certification of charges against a tenured employee by a local board of education, including eleven charges of alleged misconduct occurring between 1974 and 1984. The Commissioner, confirming an initial decision of an administrative law judge, found that over ten years, the appellant had committed various acts of verbal and physical abuse of students. The court affirmed a dismissal. It noted that although appellant appeared to be an experienced, capable, and generally well-liked teacher, he had an "uncontrollable temper, that over the past ten years has led him to abuse students verbally and physically." Cowan at 741.

The school administration had dealt with each incident as it occurred, finally forwarding to the Commissioner charges that resulted in dismissal. The court rejected appellant's contention that earlier charges were too stale to be the basis for a finding of unbecoming conduct. It noted in this respect that appellant was informed contemporaneously of each instance of alleged misconduct and that the local board's responses were " measured, supportive, continuing and patient, until it finally realized that appellant's temper is uncontrollable. He could not have been surprised by the charges, nor could he have mistaken the local board's forbearance as acquience. Cowan at 742. (citation omitted)

As in Cowan, respondent dealt with each incident involving Gwinnett as it arose. He was spoken to by superiors, warned, and when deemed appropriate, granted a promotion. There is no question that the Board could have imposed disciplinary action sooner than it did. However, as the court noted in Cowan, respondent's patience should not be viewed as acquiesence. The incidents in the current matter occurred over a much shorter time period, some two years, than those relevant to Cowan. There is no apparent reason they should not be considered in their totality. In addition, the fact that respondent committed such serious infractions within a fairly short period of employment with respondent argues for his dismissal.

I CONCLUDE that respondent should be dismissed, based on the charges sustained hereinabove, in their totality, which demonstrate a pattern of conduct unbecoming an employee by respondent.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent be dismissed from his position of employment with petitioner as of the effective date of final agency action in this matter.

It also ORDERED that the allegations of Count 1 pertaining to Sanger and to April 16, 1992, be and are UPHELD; that allegations of Count 1 pertaining to the peformance of cleaning duties and participation in snow related duties be and are hereby DISMISSED; that Count 2 as it pertains to Gwinnett's absence on April 29, 1992, without notice be and is hereby UPHELD; that Count 2 as it pertains to the provision of medical documentation be and is hereby DISMISSED; that Count 3 be and is hereby UPHELD; that Count 4 be and is hereby UPHELD; that Count 5 as it pertains to possession of a magazine be and is hereby DISMISSED; and that Count 5 as it pertains to possession of a gun-knife be and is hereby UPHELD.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

HEARING OF CHARLES GWINNETT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
UNION CITY, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

Respondent would reverse those conclusions of the ALJ pertaining to: the allegations of Count 1 regarding Mr. Sanger and the events of April 16, 1992; the allegations of Count 2 pertaining to respondent's absence on April 29, 1992 without notice; the allegations of Counts 3 and 4; and the allegations of Count 5 as to the possession of a "gun-knife" on school premises. Additionally, respondent excepts to the determination that he should be penalized by the termination of his employment. He would have the Commissioner consider the charges in the context of his having had alcohol, personal and behavior problems, which he submits he has since taken steps to control. In support of these contentions, respondent reiterates those arguments presented at the hearing and elaborated on in his post-hearing brief emphasizing his disagreement with the credibility determinations made by the ALJ regarding the witnesses for the Board.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the findings of fact, credibility determinations, and resultant conclusions of law of the Office of Administrative Law in this case. In so stating, the Commissioner notes the absence of transcripts of the hearings below. In accord with In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987) and Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185 (App. Div. 1976), it is observed that the Commissioner's standard of review of factual determinations made by the hearing officer is "whether the findings could reasonably have been reached on sufficient credible evidence present in the record considering the proofs as a whole and with due regard to the opportunity of the one who heard the witnesses to judge their credibility." (emphasis in text) (Parker, at 188) Under such scrutiny and absent citations from the transcript of the hearing, the Commissioner accepts as her own the ALJ's credibility determinations, as well as the factual predicates upon which such findings were based regarding the charges against respondent herein. Respondent's exceptions challenging such credibility and factual findings are thus dismissed as being without merit.

Finally, concerning respondent's argument regarding penalty, the Commissioner's review of the record comports with the ALJ's, which leads to the conclusion that the charges of which respondent has been found guilty are extremely serious in nature, that the Board's personnel treated him in a fair manner, and that respondent has demonstrated a pattern of unbecoming conduct sufficient to warrant dismissal from his tenured employment as a custodian in the Board's employ. See Cowan, supra.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, as augmented herein, respondent is dismissed as of the date of this decision, based on the charges sustained in the initial decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents of seventh grader (D.B.) sought to require Board to provide them access to a teacher's notes concerning their son's school work. Teacher had told D.B. that she had a personal notebook concerning D.B.'s work.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1 wherein "pupil record" is defined, ALJ concluded petitioners had no legal right of access to a teacher's personal notes made as a memory aid because they have been explicitly excluded from definition of pupil record.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8921-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 474-10/92

D.B. AND K.B.,
Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,
Respondent.

Carl Cavagenaro, Esq., for petitioners (Reuss and Cavagenaro, attorneys)

Frank DiDomenico, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: April 5, 1993 Decided: May 13, 1993

BEFORE NAOMI DOWER-LA BASTILLE, ALJ:

The parents of D.B. filed a petition seeking to require the Board of Education of the City of Vineland (Board) to provide them access to a teacher's written notes concerning their son's school work. On November 16, 1992, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -10.

A prehearing was held on February 16f, 1993. The parties agreed to stipulate the facts and proceed on motion for summary decision. The record closed on April 5, 1993, with receipt of the responding brief. The issues identified at prehearing were these:

> Do parents have a legal right to review a teacher's written evaluation notes concerning a student? Is the Board obligated by law to order the teacher to produce personal notes which are records not kept or required to be kept by the Board?

Stipulated Fact Summary

During the 1991-1992 school year, D.B. was in the seventh grade at the Anthony Rossi Intermediate School in Vineland, where he had an English teacher named Mrs. Steelman. D.B., his parents and Steelman agreed that D.B. would keep a notebook for his daily assigned homework, Steelman would sign to verify the assignment and D.B.'s parents would sign to verify the work was performed. On May 28, 1992, Steelman advised D.B. she had a personal notebook concerning D.B.'s work. The next day, the Bs asked the school principal to inspect Steelman's personal notebook. He denied the request but offered a review and copies of all D.B.'s school records. Appeal was made to the Superintendent of Schools who responded on July 8, 1992, that the principal properly denied a request to see Steelman's personal notes which were not official school records. The Bs reviewed D.B.'s permanent record file on July 23, 1992, which did not contain Steelman's notes. On August 18, 1992, the Bs' attorney asked for reconsider. After no response was received, this petition was filed.

Conclusion and Disposition

N.J.S.A. 18A:36-19 was amended by L. 1977 c. 346 §1 to comply with the Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA). N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1 et seq., was also amended to comply with Federal law on May 7, 1975. 7 N.J.R. 251 (1975). FERPA specifically excludes from the definition of pupil records:

> (i) records of instructional . . . personnel . . . which are in the sole possession of the maker thereof and which are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a substitute." 20 U.S.C. 132g(a)(4)(B).

N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1, as amended with the intention to conform to the FERPA exclusion, defines pupil record:

> "Pupil record" means information related to an individual pupil gathered within or outside the school system and maintained within the school system, regardless of the physical form in which it is maintained. Essential in this definition is the idea that any information which is maintained for the purpose of second party review is considered a pupil record. Therefore, information recorded by any certified school personnel solely > as a memory aid, not for the use of a second party, is excluded from this definition.

A more comprehensive discussion of the definition of pupil records can be found in GVD v. Ramapo-Indian Hills Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 480 at 490-497 (1983). In fact, N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.3(a) prohibits boards from compiling any pupil records other than those defined as such in the regulation, which describes mandatory and permitted pupil records. The exclusions, as noted above, are not pupil records and a board is prohibited from compiling and maintaining them. Parents may not be denied access to pupil records of their children unless a board obtains a court order denying access. N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.6(a)5.

The stipulated facts are that D.B.'s teacher told him that she had personal notes concerning D.B.'s school work after she and his parents had agreed upon a method of monitoring his completion of homework by their signatures in D.B.'s homework notebook confirming the assignments and their completion. I note that neither D.B. nor anyone else has ever seen these personal notes which were said to exist, but for purposes of this decision, I will assume that they do in fact exist. In the context of these facts, it is clear to me that the teacher made her own notes as a memory aid concerning the boy's homework notebook, since she did not retain it in her possession. Any evaluative comments or grading specifically relating to the homework would have appeared in the boy's notebook which his parents would see, since they had to sign the book. Any formal grading, some of which may have been based on homework, would appear in official school records. The Board's official records do not contain the teacher's personal notes. They were for her own use and not for communication to any other person.

Petitioners express concern that the teacher may reveal her personal notes to other school staff for use in evaluating their son's performance in the future. No factual basis for this concern has been offered. I cannot hypothesize any rational basis for this concern. After the teacher has graded the pupil and no longer has him in her classes, the notes would be superfluous. The pupil records would contain resultant grades and those grades can and often are explained at parent-teacher conferences. Petitioners also express concern that the teacher will orally relate the substance of her notes to other staff members. Again, no factual or rational basis for this concern appears.

I CONCLUDE that petitioners have no legal right of access to a teacher's personal notes made as a memory aid under the above-cited statutes and regulations because they have been explicitly excluded from the definition of pupil records. Further, no other person has either physical or legal access to them based on the facts of this case. The teacher has not revealed any notes, although she told D.B. they existed in May 1992.

The law and regulations cited concern pupil records, access and the confidentiality of information in them. Petitioners suggest that oral statements of a teacher concerning her own observations of a pupil can be enjoined, which infers the possibility of a discovery deposition or inquiry as to what a teacher said, when, to whom, for what reason it was spoken and from what source it came. Based on the facts and legal conclusions in this case, there is no right to such an injunction or inquiry. Only if petitioners had evidence of breach of the confidentiality defined and required by statutes and regulation, could a remedy be sought. There is no such evidence and, absent information to the contrary, it cannot be assumed that a teacher will violate law and must therefore be enjoined from violation.

Because I have CONCLUDED that petitioners have no legal right of access to the personal notes in a teacher's possession which are not pupil records, I do not reach the issue of whether the Board has authority to order a teacher to disclose them. I have no doubt however, that depending on the nature of a claim and specific factual circumstances, a teacher could be required to disclose notes relating to and made in the course of duty as an employee of a school district. Such a claim is not presented here.

It is therefore ORDERED that the petition of D.B. and K.B. be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Record Closed: May 19, 1993 Decided: May 21, 1993

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On March 20, 1992, petitioner, Elissa Kish, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Elmwood Park, had improperly failed to appoint her to the position of departmental facilitator, appointing instead nontenured supervisors to that position. Petitioner requested that she be reinstated to the position of departmental facilitator or to any other position to which she had seniority and/or a tenure claim.

Respondent filed an answer to the petition on March 25, 1992, contending that petitioner had failed to state a cause of action and that respondent had acted within the requirements of the law. Respondent contended that petitioner is not entitled to the "new stipended part-time position entitled, facilitator."

On March 30, 1992, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The case was assigned to Judge Mumtaz Bari-Brown on April 30, 1992, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for June 1, 1992. On that date, a telephone prehearing conference was held. The issues were isolated and a hearing was scheduled for March 1 and 2, 1993, at the Office of Administrative Law.

In response to petitioner's motion, Judge Bari-Brown, on February 25, 1993, ordered that petitioner be permitted to amend her petition of appeal to include an additional issue as to her entitlement to the position of director of curriculum based on seniority and tenure. On or about February 25, 1993, the matter was reassigned to the undersigned judge.

As a result of settlement conferences held between the parties, the parties agreed to settle this matter and the hearing was not held. The parties have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement, which is attached and incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged Board violated his tenure and seniority rights by failing to offer him a supervisory position while he was first on a preferred eligibility list as ordered by prior 1979 Commissioner decision. Petitioner appealed to Superior Court for enforcement of said decision. Board claimed petition was filed untimely.

ALJ found petition was not out-of-time. Superior Court had remanded matter to Commissioner for enforcement of decision in proper forum. Matter thus was not subject to 90-day rule. Moreover, ALJ found that when supervisory position was eventually re-established, individual other than petitioner had greater seniority in supervisory category. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Paul Metzger, petitioner, alleges and the Willingboro Board of Education, respondent, denies that the Board violated his tenure and seniority rights by failing to offer him a supervisory position while he was on a preferred eligibility list.

This case began as a complaint in the Superior Court, Burlington County, pursuant to R. 4:67-6. The rule grants jurisdiction to the court to enforce a decision of an administrative agency. The petitioner alleged in Superior Court that an October 23, 1979 Commissioner of Education decision was violated when the respondent Board appointed another person to a supervisory position instead of the petitioner. The petitioner stated he became aware of this appointment on January 11, 1991. An attempt by the Board and local teacher union to resolve the matter was unsuccessful and the action was filed on July 16, 1991.

The background of the action involves a Commissioner of Education decision dated October 23, 1979. In that case, the petitioner challenged a reduction in force (RIF) and the resulting reduction in his salary because of his reversion from a coordinator position to a classroom teacher position. He also claimed to be tenured as a subject supervisor.

The Commissioner found that the petitioner had been employed in September 1972 as a teacher and was also assigned duties as department chair of health and physical education. The petitioner began his duties as coordinator of health and physical education in September 1974. He was properly certified in all positions held. The petitioner was notified by letter of February 15, 1978 that his transfer from coordinator to classroom teacher would be effective February 21, 1978.

Based on a hearing examiner report and a review of the pleadings, evidence and testimony, the Commissioner decided that the Board properly exercised its statutory and discretionary authority to reduce its force through the elimination of the coordinator position for economic reasons. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The petitioner's transfer to a classroom teacher position was approved. The Commissioner also determined that the petitioner was tenured as supervisor of health and physical education. The Commissioner directed the Board to notify the petitioner of his sole placement on a preferred eligible list because of his seniority pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 et seq. The Commissioner also advised the Board to replace the title of coordinator with the title of supervisor in the event the position were to be reinstated.

It is stipulated that neither the transfer to a teaching position nor the salary adjustment reflected adversely on the petitioner's performance. The petitioner remained in the classroom teacher position until September 1, 1992 when he became Supervisor of Physical of Education, Health Education, Driver Education and Social Studies at Willingboro High School.

Prior to September 1, 1976, the Board used the title "Department Chairman" to refer to individuals who acted as immediate supervisors of teachers in particular curriculum areas. During that time, department chairmen were not required to possess certification as supervisors under N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.6. Beginning September 1, 1976, the Board required all individuals serving as department chairmen to hold a New Jersey supervisory certificate pursuant to Board Policy No. 4111 (J-3).

During the time that the petitioner served as coordinator of health and physical education, 1974-February 21, 1978, the persons serving as first level supervisors of teachers in the subject area of health education, physical education and driver education were referred to as "department chairman of health and physical education" at each school. This title was retained after the district-wide position of coordinator of health and physical education was abolished in 1978. By April 1989, the Board had eliminated the position title "department chairman" in favor of a more limited number of full-time "supervisor of instruction" positions. The persons holding these positions were given particular curriculum areas to supervise.

William Roller was employed by the Board as department chairperson in the science department at the Levitt Junior High School in the 1968-69 school year. In the 1969-70 and 1970-71 school years, Roller was employed as a teacher and department chairperson of physical education at the Levitt Junior High School. During the 1971-72 school year, he was employed as a teacher and department chairperson of physical education at John F. Kennedy Senior High School. In or about January 1972, Roller obtained a supervisory certificate. During the academic years 1972-73 through 1984-85, Roller was employed as an assistant principal at the Levitt Junior High School as well as the Memorial School. In 1984-85, Roller served as physical education department chairperson at John F. Kennedy High School. On September 3, 1985, he was appointed to continue in the position of department chairperson of physical education at John F. Kennedy High School for the 1985-86 school year. However, on October 31, 1985, Roller was transferred to the position of department chairperson of physical education and driver education at Willingboro High School. In 1986-87, he was transferred to the position of department chairperson of physical education at John F. Kennedy High School. In 1987-88 and 1988-89, Roller continued to perform the duties of department chairperson of physical education and driver education at John F. Kennedy High School.

In 1989-90, Roller was employed as supervisor of instruction of physical education, health and driver education at Willingboro High School and John F. Kennedy Junior High School. In 1990-91 and 1991-92 Roller continued in that position. His responsibilities are contained in Exhibit J-4.

Exhibit J-5 is a document the Board prepared and relied on to determine the identity of the individual it believed to be entitled to the supervisor of instruction-physical education, health education and driver education position. The Board has not offered the petitioner the position of supervisor of instruction in the curriculum area of physical education, health education and driver education at any time since June 30, 1974.

On July 16, 1991, the petitioner filed a certified complaint in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Burlington County, alleging that the Board, by creating the position of supervisor of health and physical education and appointing Roller to the position, failed to comply with the Commissioner's October 23, 1979 decision.

After originally assuming jurisdiction, the court reviewed the papers and, on June 8, 1992, referred the matter to the Commissioner of Education for determination and resolution. In an accompanying letter, the court explained its reasons for the referral.

The matter was transferred to the Department of Education which, in turn, transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. After notice, a telephone conference was held on October 13, 1992 with counsel and the judge then assigned. Among other things, it was decided that the issues to be resolved are (1) was the petitioner's claim filed on July 16, 1991 out-of-time to attack an appointment made in 1989 and (2) was the petitioner or William Roller the more senior staff member qualified when the position was reestablished.

Thereafter, the matter was assigned to me. Counsel and I conferred by telephone on February 16, 1993 and counsel represented that, in consideration of the stipulations filed with the Superior Court, the matter could proceed on motion and cross-motion for summary judgment, supplemented, if necessary, by limited testimony on a narrow question.

On February 17, 1993, I took limited testimony by telephone and counsel thereafter filed their moving and supporting papers.

ARGUMENTS

The Board states its motion should be granted because there are three separate reasons that the petition should be dismissed as untimely. First, according to the petitioner's testimony, he became aware of Roller's assignment as a supervisor of instruction of health and physical education on January 11, 1991. He states he immediately went to his union to challenge Roller's entitlement to the job. Whatever may have happened, he did not institute a complaint in the Superior Court, Chancery Division until July 16, 1991. The six-month gap between his notice of the Board's action appointing Roller to the position and his filing of a complaint renders the current petition untimely.

N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) provides that a petitioner has only 90 days from notice of a Board's action to file a petition with the Commissioner of Education. That the petitioner sought to challenge the action in the Superior Court does not enlarge the time. The matter clearly was an issue for the Commissioner of Education to determine, not the Superior Court. The Chancery judge agreed and referred the matter to the Commissioner. At that point, the petitioner was out-of-time to seek relief before the Commissioner.

If the petitioner decided to seek relief in the Superior Court first, he still had an obligation to do so within 90 days from his notice of the action because he sought relief from a discretionary decision of the Board. The 90-day requirement is for the benefit of boards so that they will not have to defend discretionary decisions made years ago. Further, the petitioner does not get another 90 days from the time another forum determines it does not have jurisdiction. In Riely v. Hunterdon Central High Bd. of Ed., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980), the court stated that a petitioner cannot gamble on a favorable ruling from another forum and then seek relief from the Commissioner if the petition is then out-of-time. Id. at 114. It is reasonable to infer that the petitioner sought relief in the Superior Court because he was out-of-time to file a petition with the Commissioner, although the Commissioner obviously provides the proper forum.

Second, the petition is untimely because the Board eliminated a position title "department chairman" in favor of the position title "supervisor of instruction" in April 1989. Roller has held the position of supervisor of instruction-health and physical education since the 1989-school year. In a relatively small district, the petitioner should have known prior to January 1991 that the Board created the position of supervisor of instruction.

The petitioner should have known that Roller held that position prior to January 1991. The petitioner testified that as an adaptive health teacher, he was required to go from school to school to instruct special education pupils in physical education. He held that position in 1989-90. Although he denied having been to Willingboro High School during that time period it is unlikely he would not have gone to the only high school in the district at the time. Also, he knew Roller prior to the time that he was in the coordinator position. This creates an inference that he would have had contact with him to know what position Roller was holding in 1989-90. Also, by law, each assignment by the Board has to be voted on at a public meeting. Roller was appointed to the supervisor of instruction position at the June 1989 public meeting. The petitioner stated he does not attend such meetings. The public meetings still serve to give everyone constructive notice of which positions are being created and who fills them. Thus, the petitioner knew or should have known of the appointment before January 11, 1991 based on the Board's public action.

Third, and last, if the petition is not dismissed for the above reasons, the petitioner should have challenged Roller's supervisor appointment in the 1984-85. In 1984-85, Roller held the title of department chair rather than supervisor of instruction. However, if what the petitioner says is true, that he has more seniority than Roller, then he had more seniority in 1984. Clearly, if the petitioner believed he was going to be supervised by someone with less seniority regardless of title, he should have raised his entitlement to the supervisory position then. The Commissioner's decision placing him on a preferred eligibility list in 1979 would have made him aware of his entitlement. Therefore, the petition was actually untimely 90 days after the petitioner had notice that Roller was supervising him in the fall of 1984.

No matter what date one counts as the date the petitioner had notice of the Board's action, July 16, 1991 is well beyond the 90-day administrative time limit for bringing a petition of appeal. Therefore, the Board demands that the petition be dismissed.

Petitioner

The petitioner argues that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16 allows relaxation of any rule in the Chapter where not to do so would work an injustice or where strict adherence to the rule would be unnecessary or inappropriate. To apply the 90-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), would work an injustice in this case, would be unnecessary and inappropriate within the strict wording of the rule.

First, the petitioner's cause of action was not one in which he initiated a contested case before the Commissioner under the school laws. Rather, it was an action to enforce a previous Commissioner's decision. In that context, he had every right to initiate the matter in court under the court rule which specifically related to enforcement actions. He did so. The court did not dismiss the action on grounds of timeliness or jurisdiction, but was prepared to rule on the merits until it decided it needed the administrative expertise of the agency that issued the decision in question. Clearly, it would be unjust to now dismiss the action and therefore deny the petitioner enforcement of the earlier Commissioner's ruling, including the element of whether the respondent violated the earlier decision, simply because the petitioner did not first bring this matter to the Commissioner within 90 days of January 11, 1991.

The petitioner chose to bring his dispute to an appropriate forum that had authority and jurisdiction to rule on it. The fact that the court chose otherwise should not serve to allow the Board to avoid a ruling on the merits. As noted in Pressler, Current N.J. Court Rules, Comment R. 4:67-6 (1993), the rule was promulgated because there was not a comprehensive statutory response designed to provide such a mechanism. To penalize the petitioner because he used the judicial procedure established by court rule to end confusion over how to enforce decisions of administrative agencies, instead of using the jurisdiction of the Commissioner (with the requisite 90-day rule), would allow the Board to sidestep a ruling on the merits of this matter on a technicality.

The court was satisfied that the petitioner brought his action in a timely manner and that the court had jurisdiction over the question. The agency to which the matter was transferred should be required to act on the merits of the transfer. The court transferred the case to the agency in order to obtain the agency's expertise. If the court had no jurisdiction over the matter, it would be entirely appropriate to require the petitioner to meet all procedural requirements of the agency that had jurisdiction; that is, the agency before which he filed originally. The petitioner cites a rent control board case for the proposition that the court will not exercise primary jurisdiction unless authorized to do so. Glynn v. Park Tower Apartments, Inc. 213 N.J. Super. 357 (App. Div. 1986). The Appellate Division clearly stated that ordinarily a court should transfer a matter, over which it does not have jurisdiction, to the agency that does. But transfer will not be ordered in such matters where the plaintiff cannot satisfy the procedural requirements of the agency, including timeliness limitations.

Unlike Glynn, the court here did have jurisdiction to decide the merits of the case. Furthermore, the petitioner brought this action to that court in a timely manner. Because he did, the Commissioner should relax the 90-day rule and issue a decision on the merits of this matter. See also, Kaczmarek v. New Jersey Turnpike Authority, 77 N.J. 329 (1978).

The Board's reliance on Riely, above, is misplaced. Proceeding to an arbitration is not analogous to filing an action in the Superior Court which is expressly authorized by court rule. Moreover, unlike the present case, Riely sought an action before the Commissioner whereas the petitioner here was ordered before the Commissioner.

Finally, the Board argues at p. 4 of its brief that the matter should be deemed untimely based on certain inferences it claims should reasonably be drawn from the minimal testimony in the record. For purposes of this motion, the testimony is useless. The petitioner testified that Roller did not become supervisor of instruction-health and physical education until 1990-91, and not the preceding year. Even assuming that the stipulation is correct, the testimony fails to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the petitioner became aware January 11, 1991 that Roller was serving in the disputed position. The petitioner's testimony as to when he learned of this fact stands unchallenged by any contradictory testimony. Accordingly, the Board's arguments furnish no basis on which to conclude that the facts are other than as the petitioner has stated.

DETERMINATION

The first issue to be decided is whether the petitioner's claim filed on July 16, 1991 was an out-of-time attack on an appointment made in 1989. The short answer is no. The petitioner brought a summary proceeding to enforce agency orders pursuant to R. 4:67-6. The rule applies to all actions by a state administrative agency as defined in the New Jersey Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -13. The rule applies to actions brought to enforce a written order or determination whether final or interlocutory. The rule requires that the action be brought in the Superior Court Law Division or in any other court having statutory jurisdiction over the specific matter. The rule is designed to give trial divisions of the Superior Court broad jurisdiction to deal with enforcement proceedings, required to be brought by way of a summary action, but to preserve fully the jurisdiction of the Appellate Division to review the merits of state agency determinations pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2).

The petitioner's case meets all criteria established by the rule and related rules. The petitioner had a School Law Decision in his favor on the record. He sought enforcement of that decision in the proper forum. There being some leeway in the decision's language, the court wisely transferred the matter to the Commissioner of Education. See, Judge Gottlieb's letter of June 8, 1992 to counsel. The judge points out that he avoids the peril of trying to read the Commissioner's mind merely by referring the matter to the Commissioner.

The petitioner did not attempt to open this matter before the Commissioner. Had Judge Gottlieb had no reservations about the language, he was prepared to rule. In consideration of these concededly unique circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the action is timely. A court of competent jurisdiction has asked the Commissioner to apply her expertise to guide the court's judgment. The matter having come on in this way, it is not subject to the 90-day rule.

The second issue is whether the petitioner or William Roller was the more senior qualified staff member when the subject position was reestablished. Among the documents submitted are Exhibits J-5, J-6 and J-7. Exhibit J-5 lists physical education supervisors at the district's secondary schools for the years 1960-61 through 1989-90. Roller's name first appears in the 1969-70 school year at Levitt Junior High School. It appears again in 1970-71 at Levitt and in 1971-72 at John F. Kennedy High School. Metzger's name appears for the first time in 1972-73 at John F. Kennedy High School. It appears at the same school for the 1973-74 school year. Neither name appears again until Roller's name appears in the 1984-85 school year at John F. Kennedy High School. Roller is shown at Willingboro High School for 1985-86 and again at John F. Kennedy High School for 1986-87, 1987-88 and 1988-89. He then appears under Willingboro High School for the 1989-90 school year.

Exhibit J-7 shows Roller's professional history in the district. In 1968-69 he served as a Science Department chairperson. In 1969-70 through 1971-72 he served as a physical education teacher and department chairperson. From 1972-73 through 1983-84 he was an assistant principal. From 1984-85 through 1988-89 he served as physical education teacher and department head. From 1989-90 through 1991-92, he is listed as a supervisor.

Exhibit J-6 shows Metzger's professional history. In 1972-73 and 1973-74 he was a physical education teacher and department chairperson. From September 1974 until February 21, 1978, he was coordinator of health and physical education. He is listed as a teacher from February 21, 1978 through 1991-92.

Exhibit J-7 shows Roller as a department chair from 1968-69 through 1971-72. He served as an assistant principal from 1972-73 through 1983-84. From 1984-85 through 1988-89 he is shown as a department head. From 1989-90 through 1991-92 he is shown as a supervisor.

It is stipulated that prior to September 1, 1976, the Board used the title department chairman to refer to persons who performed as immediate supervisors of teachers in particular curriculum areas. In that period, department chairmen were not required to hold supervisor certification. Beginning September 1, 1976, the Board required all persons serving in the department chairman position to hold supervisory certification pursuant to Board Policy No. 4111.

It is also stipulated that Roller has held supervisor certification since January 1972 and Metzger, since September 1974.

When Metzger was the subject of a reduction in force on February 21, 1978, Roller was serving as an assistant principal. In the School Law Decision that is at the center of this case, the Commissioner held that the petitioner held the categorical position of subject supervisor in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(k). (See, now, N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(l). There have been five amendments of this Code subsection since the School Law Decision of October 23, 1979). The Commissioner determined the petitioner was tenured as supervisor of health and physical education. He directed the Board to notify the petitioner "of his sole placement on a preferred eligibility list due to his seniority . . . ." The Commissioner also advised the Board to replace the title of coordinator with the title of supervisor if the position were reinstituted.

In terms of service at the department head level or above, Roller is clearly senior to Metzger. The language in the 1979 decision, particularly the reference to sole placement, was correct at the time. However, time and events move forward. Since the 1979 decision, Roller served six years as an assistant principal, five years as a department head and then was appointed to the supervisor position controverted here. Prior to Metzger's first department chair position, Roller occupied a similar position for four years. Each person enjoys the benefit of tacking on subsequent service in other categories to the service in previously held categories.

Having reviewed the service records and having considered all documents and testimony in this matter, I FIND that William Roller is senior to Paul Metzger in the supervisor category. Metzger's seniority calculation was triggered by the February 1978 reduction in force. At the time, he may well have been the only person on the preferred eligible list in this category. Subsequently, however, Roller's assignment was changed. In the 1989-90 school year, he was made supervisor of instruction of physical education, health and driver education at the high school and junior high school. It is this position that Metzger claims.

If someone with greater seniority than Metzger did not exist, the Board would be required to offer the supervisor position to Metzger before appointing someone, with lesser seniority than Metzger, from within the system or from going outside the system to make an appointment. The facts are that Roller does exist and enjoys greater seniority in the supervisor category than Metzger. Accordingly, I FIND and CONCLUDE that as long as Roller holds the controverted position, Metzger has no claim to it.

I ORDER the petition of appeal DISMISSED on that basis.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DECISION ON MOTION

JUNE 21, 1993

S. M., PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WOODBURY, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON MOTION

For Petitioner, S.M., Pro Se
For Respondent, Michael Brennan, Esq. (Labrum and Doak)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner on June 17, 1993 by way of a Petition of Appeal and Request for Emergent Relief filed by Sandra Martin on behalf of her daughter, R.M., seeking an order from the Commissioner permitting R.M. to participate in graduation ceremonies from Woodbury High School on June 19, 1993. R.M. was notified on June 16, 1993 that she would not be graduating due to her failing Geometry, a course into which she was transferred in March 1993 because she was failing Algebra II. Petitioner avers that to deny her attendance at the graduation ceremonies is improper because she had tried to be removed from Algebra II earlier in the year but was refused by the math committee, and because she was transferred into a geometry class so late in the year, she could not then pass the final.

Pursuant to the Commissioner's authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, Dr. Elena Scambio, Assistant Commissioner for Urban and Field Services, was designated to hear and decide the matter.

On June 18, 1993 the oral arguments of the parties were heard by way of telephonic conference call. Upon consideration of those arguments, emergent relief was denied due to petitioner's failure to meet the standards for the granting of injunctive relief set forth in Crowe v. DiGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982), namely, that petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if not allowed to attend the graduation ceremony or that she had a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of her claim that it was improper to deny her participation in graduation. A weighing of the arguments of the parties led the Assistant Commissioner to conclude that while the district was not without flaw in its handling of R.M.'s mathematics requirements for graduation, it was not likely that R.M. could demonstrate that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable that she be denied attendance at the graduation ceremonies because R.M. had previously taken and failed both Algebra II and Geometry and that she had high absenteeism through cuts in Geometry after being transferred there in March.

In denying emergent relief, the Assistant Commissioner urged that R.M. enroll as soon as possible in summer school and that the district assist her in this endeavor by advising her on an appropriate mathematics course, other than Algebra II or Geometry, that will meet graduation requirements.

Accordingly, the Motion for Emergent Relief is denied and the Petition of Appeal dismissed given that graduation occurred on June 19, 1993, thus mooting the necessity for any further proceedings in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF ROBERT B. OLEK, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, OF THE CITY OF : DECISION ON REMAND GARFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY. :

State Board remanded for hearing a tenure matter involving Commissioner's dismissal of respondent teacher and coach for possession of hypodermic syringes, marijuana, steroids and other prescription drugs for which he did not have valid prescription. Commissioner had determined on Board's Motion for Summary Judgment that teacher's offenses warranted forfeiture of employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 as they may not have occurred on school property or engaged pupils but did intimately touch on his role as teacher.

State Board directed analysis of facts to determine nexus between offense and employment and to consider all mitigating circumstances, as it is unclear whether Commissioner fully considered such factors. (Moore, Arocha) ALJ found factual record on hearing demonstrated that respondent's offenses touch and involve his employment to the extent of meriting forfeiture pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. ALJ found that although there were such mitigating factors as respondent's prior satisfactory record in classroom and lack of disciplinary problems with Board prior to incident, these cannot be considered mitigating circumstances within the meaning of a forfeiture analysis. They are thus insufficient to outweigh serious nature and circumstances of respondent's offenses. ALJ ordered that respondent forfeit his employment as teacher and coach.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ's finding that a sufficient nexus between offense and employment had been established for respondent to have forfeited his position as teacher, and that mitigating factors did not outweigh such forfeiture. Commissioner referred matter to State Board of Examiners for appropriate action.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER , ALJ:

On December 9, 1988, the Garfield Board of Education (Board) suspended respondent, a teacher, after a search of his home by the County Prosecutor's Office revealed the presence of hypodermic syringes, a small quantity of marijuana, and large amounts of steroids and other prescription drugs for which respondent did not have a valid prescription. On March 15, 1989, the Board certified charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member against respondent. On April 6, 1989, respondent filed an answer denying that he had engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher. On April 11, 1989, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 54:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 54:14F-1 to -13.

After notice to all parties, a prehearing conference was held on May 25, 1989. In July of 1989, respondent pled guilty to the following charges: Possession of a hypodermic syringe or needle, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:36-6; possession of a prescription legend drug, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.8; and obtaining a prescription legend drug unlawfully, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.5 (J-2). He was sentenced on November 14, 1989 (J-3).

In August of 1989, the Board filed a motion for summary decision. During the time the motion was pending, the parties entered into settlement discussions which resulted in a settlement agreement. Thereafter, respondent challenged the agreement, contending that he should not be held to its terms. The undersigned administrative law judge concluded that the terms of the settlement agreement were binding and respondent appealed. The Commissioner of Education voided the agreement and remanded the case on October 11, 1990, for hearing on the merits of the tenure charges.

On remand, the Board renewed its motion for summary decision, seeking respondent's removal by means of the forfeiture statute, N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. Respondent maintained that the forfeiture provisions did not apply because the offenses, which did not involve controlled dangerous substances, did not satisfy the required elements of the statute. On May 15, 1991, the undersigned administrative law judge recommended granting the Board's motion. The undersigned judge determined that respondent's disorderly person offenses involving the possession and unlawful use of steroids and other related offenses touched and involved his position as a public school teacher and coach. The undersigned concluded that the State's strong policy against encouraging or condoning the use of drugs, respondent's close contact with students, the seriousness of the offense, and the violation of the public trust that has occurred with the infraction make respondent's continued employment incompatible with the duties required by the position. On June 27, 1991, the Commissioner adopted the administrative law judge's recommended decision, concluding that respondent had forfeited his position and granting the Board's motion for summary decision.

Of import, the Commissioner determined that he had jurisdiction to invoke the forfeiture statute. He indicated that he did so in the instant case because while the "specific offenses of which Olek was convicted may not 'involve' his employment in the sense they did not occur on school property, engage school pupils, or center on school affairs, they so 'intimately' touch upon his role as a teacher that his continued service in that position is simply not viable."

The Commissioner concurred with the passages from Moore v. Youth Correctional Institute, 230 N.J. Super. 374 (App. Div. 1989), aff'd, 119 N.J. 256 (1990) and Arocha and Gonzalez v. Hudson County Area Vocational and Technical Schools BOE, OAL DKT. EDU 9293-83 (July 2, 1984), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (August 16, 1984), rejected on other grounds, State Board (April 8, 1985), quoted by the undersigned in her initial decision, as well as with her application of those passages to the instant matter.

More particularly, the Commissioner held that he was wholly unpersuaded by Olek's arguments that because his offenses involved steroids, rather than controlled dangerous substances, the holdings of Arocha and Gonzalez should not apply to him. The Commissioner determined that the policy set forth in Arocha and Gonzalez was no less applicable to steroids than to marijuana. For purposes of analyzing whether an offense "touches upon" school employment, the Commissioner stated the fact "that steroids are not controlled dangerous substances within the legislative and regulatory definition of that term is manifestly a distinction without a difference."

Thus, the Commissioner determined that "while his offenses did not directly involve students or his school district, while employed as a teacher Olek undisputedly used and possessed steroids in contravention of law and public policy. His offense is the more egregious in that he did so from a unique position, that of a science teacher, who by training would be presumed by students to have some clinical knowledge of the use and effects of drugs; that of mentor, whom students demonstrably admired and to whom they frequently turned for advice about body building and fitness independent of his coaching activities and that of former wrestling coach, a person viewed as an obvious authority with respect to physical development." Thus, the Commissioner concluded that under all of the circumstances, it seems undisputable that Olek's infraction "casts a shadow over [him] as to make his continued service appear incompatible with the traits of trustworthiness, honesty and obedience to law." Moore, 230 N.J. Super. at 270.

In particular, the Commissioner noted that respondent's conduct has violated precisely the duty to avoid conduct that encourages or condones drug use that has been set down as a cardinal rule for all "contact" school employees, not merely teachers, who were explicitly held to an even higher standard of conduct by the State Board of Education. Arocha and Gonzalez, supra, at 8.

Respondent filed an appeal to the State Board from the decision of the Commissioner challenging the Commissioner's finding of a nexus without additional proceedings in his application of Arocha to the facts of this case.

On March 4, 1992, the State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision to grant summary judgment to the Board and remanded for further proceedings. More particularly, the State Board determined that the limited record in the instant case did not enable it to undertake the careful examination required by Moore or permit a finding on the relationship between respondent's employment and the offenses to which he pleaded guilty. The State Board indicated the following:

> We are unable to determine on the record whether respondent was employed as a wrestling coach at the time of his arrest, the specific period of time in which he was employed in such capacity, the specific coaching assignment or assignments he held, the duties and responsibilities of such assignments and the qualifications required thereof. It is axiomatic that a determination of the nexus between an > offense and employment necessarily requires agreement on the employment held or sufficient evidence to permit such a factual determination.

> As in Moore, careful examination of the facts, including respondent's employment and the qualifications required thereof, is necessary in order to determine whether the offenses to which respondent pleaded guilty, involving the use and possesion of steroids found in his home, touched or involved his employment in the district so as to warrant imposition of the harsh penalty of forfeiture. Such analysis must also include consideration of all mitigating circumstances. Moore, supra at 268, Arocha, supra slip op. at 8. In that the Commissioner found that the nature of respondent's offenses precluded the applicability of mitigating factors, it is unclear whether he fully considered such factors or provided respondent with ample opportunity to demonstrate their existence and pertinence.

The State Board determined that its holding in Arocha could not be applied automatically to the facts of this case so as to eliminate the necessity for such a thorough analysis. More particularly, the State Board determined that steroids constitute a class of substances distinguished in their nature from those which they intended to address in Arocha. The fact that they are not controlled dangerous substances cannot be regarded as a "distinction without a difference." Thus, the State Board, on the limited record before them, declined to expand its holding in Arocha, which permitted a finding of forfeiture merely upon showing that the convicted employee had significant student contact to encompass offenses involving steroids.

On March 16, 1992, this matter was remanded to the undersigned judge for proceedings consistent with the State Board's decision of March 4, 1992. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on March 20, 1992, and a prehearing conference scheduled for May 18, 1992. A conference was held on May 18, 1992, at which time the parties agreed that the filing of a Notice of Appeal with the Appellate Division did not divest all lower courts of jurisdiction pending a decision on the appeal. A hearing was scheduled for December 10, 11, and 17, 1992.

As a result of a possible settlement being reached in this matter, the hearing was adjourned to January 22, 1993. The matter was not resolved, and the hearing was held on January 22, 1993. At the conclusion of the hearing in this matter, the parties submitted briefs, and the record closed on March 26, 1993, the day established for the last submission in this matter. Witnesses who testified and exhibits considered in deciding this case are listed in the attached appendix.

TESTIMONY

First to testify was James Tantillo, principal of Garfield High School for twenty-three years. He has known Mr. Olek, a chemistry, physics, and earth science teacher, for a number of years. Noting that the building is under his auspices, the witness is familiar with the sports program. Mr. Olek made a request to be a wrestling coach, and he was so designated in 1988-89. Tantillo witnessed Olek participate as a coach on a daily basis, he saw Mr. Olek on the gym floor with students, and he stated that Olek went to the wrestling meets. Noting that wrestling was a winter sport, Tantillo stated that the team's practice began the day after Thanksgiving; Olek's incident occurred two weeks later. There had been no official wrestling match yet. Prior to the 1988-89 school year, Olek made himself present in the gym area during the wrestling season. As a teacher, Olek had every reason to be in the gym to assist or encourage the boys.

Tantillo, who had observed Olek as a teacher, stated that Mr. Olek's performance in the classroom is satisfactory and that he had good evaluations. The witness observed changes in Olek's behavior; Olek was weightlifting and was more aggressive. During the 1986-87 school year, Olek volunteered to take the students to the gym in Pompton Lakes, apparently to weightlift and to get in shape. In 1986-87 and 1987-88, Tantillo witnessed Olek, who had volunteered his services, on the floor assisting students in weightlifting and exercise. Tantillo had not encouraged Olek to assist. He recalled that the health teacher indicated that Olek might know about books on steriods and, thus, Tantillo spoke to Olek about steroids. Olek was knowledgeable and suggested reading material on steroids for students to do a paper for the health teacher.

On cross-examination, the witness indicated that the students had asked Olek for books on steroids for a paper for health. Olek had indicated that the books would be in the library. The librarian came to Mr. Tantillo and said that there was such an interest in the subject and that they should have such books on the shelf. In addition, the health teacher spoke to Tantillo at least two years prior to the incident. Tantillo spoke to Olek, who wanted the students to know about the bad effects of steroids.

Tantillo indicated that Don DeLuca was the head wrestling coach in 1988-89; the assistant wrestling coach was Charles Rigoloisi. Stipends were paid to them for which board action was required. He was not aware that Olek had not received the money and opined that if not, it was because of the incident. Olek was recommended by Franklyn Marrel Dawson, the athletic director, for the 1988-89 year. The athletic director decides who will be coach and confers with Tantillo. Agreeing that the board makes appointments, the witness was not sure that there was a board resolution in regard to Olek. Since coaches are generally appointed in advance to an open slot, it was possible to put Olek in the position and have the resolution approved at the December board meeting. If he was not appointed by the board, it was due to the allegations.

The witness had no board resolution appointing Olek and had not looked for such a resolution. Tantillo indicated, however, that Olek was an assistant coach on recommendation of the athletic director and superintendent. If Olek was appointed coach, he would have received something in writing. Questioned as to whether Olek had received something in writing for 1988-89, the witness indicated that Dawson told him that there was verbal notification. Tantillo believed that if Olek had not been approved at the November meeting, Olek was to be approved at the December board meeting. Tantillo noted that the alleged incident occurred on December 7, and he spoke to Olek on December 8. Olek did whatever he did in the wrestling program during the little more than the week he served in that position. He indicated that Olek, a spectator of the progam for many years (prior to 1988-89), had previously applied to be coach but had not received the appointment.

Tantillo indicated that Garfield has weight rooms where the students can work out, since weightlifting is an activity in physical education. Olek is not responsible for weight training during the day. The head coach of the particular sport oversees the weight room as necessary for its athletes.

On redirect examination, the witness indicated that he had seen Olek in the weight room, which is available for all staff members, when the students were there. However, he did not observe Olek helping the students.

Next to testify was Susan Scudillo, a guidance counselor at Garfield, who has a master's degree in counseling. She is a certified teacher and is the substance awareness coordinator in charge of the Substance Awareness Program. As coordinator, for which she is certified, she originates programs of prevention, education, curriculum, and deals with students with problems. Scudillo has workshops for teachers and she is a referral source for employees. She stated that the school has a long and detailed antidrug policy, which was in the booklet distributed to students and faculty each year. The policy presently, and in 1988-89, includes the illegal use of drug paraphernalia. Hypodermic needles are considered paraphernalia. Scudillo had Olek as a chemistry teacher when she was in high school and later knew him as a colleague. She knew him in 1988-89 when she was part-time coordinator. She is presently a full-time employee.

The witness is the announcer for the wrestling team and, consequently, she goes to matches. During 1987-88, she regularly observed Olek at matches. She saw him talking to students and videotaping certain matches. Noting that videos are commonly used to teach, she indicated that Olek's tapes were used for the team. She also saw Olek talking to wrestlers prior to the match.

On cross-examination, Scudillo indicated that she has a master's degree in human services and not science. Steroids were not considered to be a CDS in the policy in 1988-89, but they are now. No particular drugs are listed. Prescription legend drugs were not permissible without clearance from the nurse. Scudillo was not responsible for the handbook and did not have a copy of it with her. She noted that Carol Scudillo mentioned on J-1 is her mother. The witness received no particular instructions from her mother, a member of the Board of Education, who knew that she was coming to testify. She did not think that Olek taped every match, and could not respond to whether he taped some students at different matches or if the students asked Olek to tape the matches for them. She never heard Olek yell to a wrestler as to a particular move to make or saw Olek show a student how to make a particular move.

On recross, the witness indicated that the drug policy is updated each year; a handbook exists for 1988-89. She noted that Olek's body changed and he became more muscular. The form of his body changed since the time she was a student and also from the time she started teaching in 1978 until 1988. She admitted, however, that anybody who worked out could have a similar change.

Next to testified as Franklyn Marrel Dawson, Jr., employed by petitioner as chairman of physical education and supervisor of K-12 for the entire district. He served as the athletic director of the high school for twenty-six years and has been employed by Garfield for thirty-three years. During the 1988-89 school year, he was athletic director of Garfield High School in charge of all coaches at the high school. He recommended the hiring of coaches and specifically recommended that Olek be hired as a coach. He indicated that Olek was hired. More particularly, he referred to P-1, the appointment of winter coaches, and noted that Olek's name appears as assistant coach effective November 1, 1988. It was signed by the board members. (There was an objection by one member to Mr. Olek.)

Dawson has known Olek for quite a few years, and Olek taught his son. He recalled that Olek was very enthusiastic about wrestling. He helped out and taped wrestlers in the high school during the matches for Coach DeLuca in order to train the wrestlers. Prior to 1988, Olek was not a coach; he just helped. He was an "enthusiastic volunteer." The students considered him a wrestling enthusiast; they considered him a coach only when he was a coach. After November 1, 1988, he was issued keys and he was a coach for that season. Payment would have occured after the season, February or March 15, but Olek was no longer a coach at that time.

On cross-examination, Dawson indicated that although there are no weightlifting clubs at the school, many students lift weights; it is not confined to a particular sport. He stated that he found Olek's enthusiasm commendable; he taped the matches at his own expense. He recalled that Olek applied for the position of head coach three or four years before (around 1982 or 1983), but the position went to Mr. Kotwica. Subsequently, DeLuca assumed the duties. Dawson stated that when Olek got the job, he believed that Olek should have the appointment.

Dawson believed that the assistant coach position that Olek received was posted. However, he could not recall if he asked Olek to take the job because nobody had applied.

On redirect examination, Dawson indicated that in 1988-89, he was aware of the bad aspects of steroids and discouraged their use. Although he could not recall this specifically, he alleged that coaches preach this all of the time because they were aware of the use and misuse of steroids. There was a firm antisteroid policy, and Dawson believed that he spoke to coaches regarding illegal drug use, which was an ongoing problem. In addition, in the middle and elementary schools, students are taught not to use steroids. Dawson would look at the physique of a student, and if it appeared that the student was taking steroids, Dawson would discuss what to do about it with the coach and the principal. He indicated that coaches never get tenure, and there was no requirement that Olek be appointed as a wrestling coach. He would not have recommended Olek for the position if he had a criminal record.

ARGUMENTS OF COUNSEL

Of import, petitioner argues that the requirements ordered by the State Board of Education have been fulfilled and that Olek's position should be forfeited. According to petitioner, the only issue is whether, applying the Supreme Court's rationale in Moore, the offenses to which Olek pled guilty involved or touched his employment. Petitioner asserts that there is a clear and obvious nexus between the offenses to which respondent pled guilty and respondent's employment as a teacher and coach.

Petitioner asserts that while Olek's offenses did not directly involve students or his school district, Olek indisputably used and possessed steroids in controvention of law and public policy while employed as a teacher. According to petitioner, Olek's offense is more egregious in that he did so from a unique position: That of a science teacher, who had clinical knowledge of the use and effects of drugs; that of mentor who students demonstrably admired and to whom they frequently turned for advice about bodybuilding and fitness independent of his coaching activities; and that of a wrestling coach, a person viewed as an obvious authority with respect to physical development. According to petitioner, even accepting as true Olek's voiced objections to steroids, the discrepancy between his words and actions would speak volumes to students. Further, the nature of Olek's offenses and circumstances surrounding this discovery militate against the finding that it represented an isolated error in judgment or other situation where mitigating factors could fairly be said to come into play.

Petitioner asserts that the act for which Olek pled guilty clearly touched upon his employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2. The open and notorious media coverage of Olek and his offenses clearly diminish and prohibit his ability to act as a role model. Petitioner asserts that Olek, according to all of the testimony and relevant facts and evidence, has lost the right to be a role model and teacher within the Garfield Board of Education. Petitioner questions how Olek could prohibit or even consider stopping students from using illegal steroid drugs when he himself participated in the use of illegal drugs. The very concept of a role model is to set an example to the student athletes that drug use may be dangerous or even deadly. Petitioner asserts that Olek's use of prescription legend drugs and his guilty plea to the use and possession of steroids and drug paraphernalia is demonstrative of his inability to perform his job. This created an anti-role model status and, clearly, he cannot lead, direct, or teach without causing harm to his students. The very nature of the offenses to which Olek pled guilty clearly touched his office, thereby forfeiting his position pursuant to the statute. Petitioner further asserts that even assuming arguendo that the drug offenses to which Mr. Olek pled guilty do not touch his office, his right to maintain his office has been forfeited because he has committed an offense which involves dishonesty.

Respondent asserts that Olek has not forfeited his position as a tenured teaching staff member. Referring to the State Board decision, respondent asserts that there really is very little doubt as to precisely what it is that respondent did for the district and the period in which he did it. According to respondent, there are a number of mitigating factors that exist in support of Olek. First, his evaluations have all been laudatory and there was nothing in the evaluations to show any decrease in his teaching performance towards the end of his period of employment with the Garfield Board of Education. Second, steroids are not part of the science curriculum whatsoever and, in fact, were not part of the student policy handbook on drugs in 1988-89.

Additionally, the athletic director found it commendable that Olek had voluntarily, as a faculty member and not as a coach, videotaped certain students wrestling at the request of the students so that their performance could be reviewed. He did this at his own expense, on his own time, and without reimbursement. Further, the State Board and the New Jersey Supreme Court consider forfeiture to be "a harsh penalty." It has now been established that Olek acted as a coach for less than two weeks. Respondent asserts that merely being the second assistant wrestling coach for a period of two weeks is insufficient to mandate a forfeiture. The Board has been able to establish nothing more than that Olek has been the second assistant wrestling coach for a period of approximately one or two weeks. It has been unable to establish any nexus between the offenses to which Olek pled guilty and his duties and responsibilities in the district.

More importantly, there is no indication that Olek at any time counseled any student, athlete, or faculty member, either on the school property or anywhere else, to use steroids or that, in fact, he even discussed steroids with anyone. Respondent thus submits that there is absolutely no nexus between Olek's offenses and his employment as an earth science teacher and his short assignment as second assistant wrestling coach. Citing Scudillo's testimony that anyone who went to a gym and worked out three days a week could have a similar physique to Olek's, respondent alleges that there is not even anything in Olek's demeanor or physical appearance which in any way suggests that he was advocating, endorsing, or even admitting publicly the use of steroids.

Respondent maintains that the board has made this case a cause celebre and the board, having created this swirl of controversy, should not now be allowed to claim that Mr. Olek should not be employed as an earth science teacher because of the attendant publicity. Respondent further points out that there is no possible tenure for Olek as a second assistant wrestling coach and that even if there were, he has only been employed in that position for much less than two weeks. Accordingly, if Olek were reinstated to the classroom, there is no requirement that he be given a wrestling coach position or a weight-room monitoring position. The Board would be absolutely within its power to put Olek back into the science classroom and limit his employment to that situation. There is absolutely no nexus whatsoever concerning Olek's primary employment as a science teacher, who in recent years has taught earth science (evidently sometimes physics), and his guilty plea involving the personal use of steroids.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Robert Olek is a chemistry, physics, and earth science teacher.

2. Olek requested to be a wrestling coach, and he was appointed as a wrestling coach in 1988-89. He was recommended by Athletic Director Dawson. His name appears as assistant coach as of November 1, 1988.

3. Jc' DeLuca was the head wrestling coach during the 1988-89 school year, loisi was an assistant wrestling coach.

4. Olek served as a wrestling coach for one or two weeks. He was on the gym floor with students and was to attend the wrestling meets. Because of the fact that wrestling practice began the day after Thanksgiving, and his arrest occurred two weeks later, he had not attended any official wrestling matches at that time.

5. Olek's performance in the classroom was satisfactory and he had good evaluations.

6. James Tantillo, principal of Garfield High School, observed changes in Olek's behavior; Olek was weightlifting and became more aggressive.

7. Olek's body changed, and he became more muscular.

8. During the 1986-87 school year, Olek volunteered to take the students to a gym in Pompton Lakes, apparently to weightlift and to get in shape.

9. In 1986-87 and 1987-88, Olek volunteered his services and was on the floor of the gym assisting students in weightlifting and exercise.

10. Olek was not responsible for the weight rooms. Olek utilized the weight room, which was available for all staff members, when the students were there.

11. Olek was knowledgeable about steroids and suggested reading material on steroids for students who wished to do a paper for the health teacher. Olek helped the students and wanted them to know the bad effects of steroids.

12. Prior to the 1988-89 school year, Olek was a spectator of the wrestling program for many years. He had previously applied to be coach but had not received the appointment. He made himself available in the gym area during the wrestling season.

13. During the 1987-88 school year, Olek went to wrestling matches. He talked to students and videotaped certain matches. Olek would talk to wrestlers prior to the match.

14. There is a long and detailed anti-drug policy of the school. The policies were made known to students and teachers in a booklet distributed to all school personnel each year. The policy presently, and in 1988-89, includes the illegal use of drug paraphenalia.

15. Franklyn Marrel Dawson, athletic director of the high school, was aware of the bad aspects of steroids. He discouraged their use to coaches, and he spoke to coaches regarding illegal drug use, which was an ongoing problem. If a student was taking steroids, he would discuss what to do about it with the coach and the principal.

DISCUSSION

At issue in the instant case is the scope of the State Board's remand and the impact to be adduced therefrom. It is clear that the State Board indicated the following:

> We are unable to determine on the record whether respondent was employed as a wrestling coach at the time of his arrest, the specific period of time in which he was employed in such capacity, the specific coaching assignment or assignments he held, the duties and responsibilities of such assignments and the qualifications required thereof. It is axiomatic that a determination of the nexus between an offense and employment necessarily requires agreement on the employment held or sufficient evidence to permit such a factual determination.

> As in Moore, careful examination of the facts, including respondent's employment and the qualifications required thereof is necessary in order to determine whether the offenses to which respondent pleaded guilty, involving the use and possession of steroids found in his home, touched or involved his employment in the district so as to warrant imposition of the harsh penalty of forfeiture. Such analysis must also include consideration of all mitigating circumstances.

Based upon the above, at issue is quite simply an inquiry into whether the offenses committed by respondent involved or touched on Olek's employment to the extent meriting forefeiture. This requires, according to the State Board, careful examination of the facts and the evaluation of various factors in the "involve and touch" analysis. See Moore, supra, 230 N.J. Super. at 374.

The facts in the instant matter are set forth above. Of import, Olek was arrested on December 6, 1988, for the following offenses: Possession of marijuana, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10(a)4; possession of drug paraphernalia, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:36-2; possession of hypodermic needles, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:36-6; possession of prescription legend drug without a valid prescription, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.8; unlawful sale of prescription legend drugs, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.9; and obtaining unlawfully prescription legend drugs, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-15.

At the time of his arrest, respondent was employed at Garfield High School as a science teacher and an assistant wrestling coach. Respondent had been performing the duties of a wrestling coach for approximately one week at the time of his arrest. In July 1989, the respondent pled guilty to the following charges: Possession of hypodermic needles, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:36-6; possession of a prescription legend drug [steroids], in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.8; and unlawfully obtaining legend drugs, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2A:170-77.5.

The testimony presented at the hearing indicates that the qualifications of an assistant wrestling coach are an enthusiasm for wrestling, recommendation of the athletic director, and no criminal record. Prior to respondent's arrest, he held all of the necessary qualifications. The testimony of the witnesses did not indicate the full extent of respondent's responsibilities as an assistant coach or as a science teacher. However, it did indicate that an assistant coach attends matches and practices, is aware of the school's strong anti-steroid policy, and apparently reports to the coaches any students who are suspected of using steriods.

In performing the necessary analysis of the nexus between the offenses and the respondent's employment, there is a need to assess the gravity of Olek's offenses. This is determined by reviewing the nature of the crimes, their context, and the identity of the victim. Moore, 119 N.J. at 269. The offenses committed by respondent are of the type that relate to the obtaining and possession of drugs and drug paraphernalia. Although steroids are not classified as controlled dangerous substances, many types of steroids, especially those that are injected intramuscularly (such as anabolic steriods), are very addictive and can produce behavioral results such as aggression and depression. State v. Trastèr, 610 So. 2d 572, 573 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1992).

In addition, due to the dangerous side effects of certain steroids, the public perception of steroids is negative. Fourcade v. City of Gretna, 598 So. 2d 415 (La. Ct. App. 1992). The events leading up to and surrounding respondent's arrest were not disclosed at the hearing. However, even though respondent may have administered the drugs at home, the effects of steroids on respondent were apparent to certain school personnel. The principal stated that respondent was weightlifting and was noticeably more aggressive. Clearly, steroids impacted Olek during school hours. In light of the dangerous nature of the drugs possessed by Olek, their potential for abuse, and the possibly adverse effect his drug involvement had on the school population, the gravity of Olek's offense is apparent.

It is clear from respondent's role as a teacher and a coach at the school that he was in a position to influence the students. In his position as an assistant coach, respondent was responsible for enforcing the school's anti-steroid policy and inevitably discussing the subject with the athletes and other students. Despite respondent's warning to students concerning the bad effects of steroid use, he possessed and was involved with steroids. Respondent's possession and apparent involvement with steroids adversely effected his ability to enforce the school's strong anti-steroid policy and counsel students on the evils of steroid use. This type of double message sends a conflicting signal to students. Olek's actions, speaking louder than words, could impart to some students the belief that the school condoned the use of steroids.

In addition, respondent's possession of steroids diminishes his image as a role model, thereby reducing his effectiveness as a teacher. It is generally understood that teachers act as role models for many students. In Olek's case, it is evident that at least some of the students regarded him as a role model. This is evidenced by the fact that some students approached him on the subject of steroids. As a role model, respondent bore a responsibility to the school and its students to obey the law and practice what he preached to the students.

However, prior to imposing forfeiture on respondent, a review of any mitigating circumstances is necessary. Respondent did not testify at the hearing or produce any documentation concerning any mitigating circumstances. The testimony of the witnesses revealed that respondent was never disciplined by the school board prior to this incident. In addition, respondent performed satisfactorily for many years in the classroom as a teacher, and he received good evaluations. While these atttributes may be considered mitigating "factors," and serve in some small measure to militate against forfeiture, they cannot be considered mitigating "circumstances."

In this case, mitigating circumstances relate to the reasons why respondent committed the offenses, the circumstances surrounding the incident, and why a similar incident will not occur in the future. No such circumstances were presented by respondent. I am therefore of the view that the mitigating factors which were presented are insufficient to outweigh the serious nature and circumstances of Olek's offenses, as discussed above and argued by petitioner. In sum, I CONCLUDE that a careful examination of the facts in this case reveals that respondent's offenses touch and involve his employment to the extent meriting forfeiture pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and that respondent has forfeited his employment as a teacher and a wrestling coach with the Garfield Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

P-1 Resolution of Board of Education, dated November 1, 1988

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ROBERT B. OLEK,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT, OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION ON REMAND

The record of this matter and the initial decision on remand of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No reply was filed by the Board.

In his exceptions, respondent argues that the ALJ has been biased against him from the outset as indicated by the procedural history of this case, wherein the ALJ has repeatedly misconstrued the law so as to effectuate respondent's dismissal. This bias is further reflected, respondent avers, in findings of fact which are unsupported in the record. Specifically, regarding Finding No. 4, all respondent did was hand out equipment in his capacity as second assistant coach; regarding Finding No. 6, the ALJ fails to note that the principal who supposedly observed changes in respondent's behavior never noted those changes in any observation, evaluation or memo; regarding Finding No. 7, the changes in respondent's body were not necessarily due to steroid use, as the ALJ clearly wants the Commissioner to infer; regarding Finding No. 8, respondent's offer occurred prior to the period at issue herein and there was no evidence to support the ALJ's supposition that the purpose of the anticipated gym trip (which never materialized) was for students to weightlift and get in shape; regarding Finding No. 9, respondent was never in charge of students in the weight room (as correctly found in Finding No. 10), and testimony established no more than that respondent was present in the room at the same time as students, as all faculty were allowed to be; regarding Finding No. 11, the ALJ fails to sufficiently emphasize that respondent advised students on the ill effects of steroids in full accord with Board policy; regarding Findings Nos. 12 and 13, the ALJ ignores the fact that respondent's role at prior wrestling matches was limited to spectator and photographer and did not include advising participants on their wrestling; and regarding Finding No. 14, the ALJ has confused steroids, on which there was no districtwide policy at the time of the offenses at issue herein, with controlled dangerous substances, on which there was.

Also ignored by the ALJ, according to respondent, were mitigating factors in his support. These include the absence of any indication that his teaching performance suffered during the period at issue, the absence of reference to steroids in curriculum and district policy during that time, and the fact that the Athletic Director commended respondent for volunteering, as a faculty member, to videotape students on his own time and at his own expense.

Finally, respondent emphasizes that this is a forfeiture proceeding, not a determination on tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, and argues that the only possible nexus between respondent's offense and employment established by the Board--the necessary precondition to any forfeiture determination--was that respondent served as an assistant wrestling coach for one week. This nexus, respondent avers, is insufficient to warrant the harsh penalty of forfeiture, particularly in view of the fact that respondent has no tenure as a coach and need not ever again be employed in that capacity. Moreover, respondent's short-term tenure as coach was known to the State Board at the time of its decision, so that if such a nexus were in itself sufficient for forfeiture, the State Board would have so ruled and not remanded the matter for hearing. Neither did the offenses occur on school time or property or implicate students, nor was there any indication whatsoever that respondent either as earth science teacher or coach, counseled anyone, faculty or student, to use steroids. The ALJ's inference that steroid use was apparent in respondent's appearance and behavior is supported by no evidence other than the testimony of the principal and is actually belied by facts such as respondent's appointment as coach and the absence of any referral to problems in his evaluations and observations. There is no evidence that respondent was more of a role model than any other teacher, and to the extent that his continuing viability as an educator has been compromised by the controversy surrounding this matter, it is the result of the Board's making the case a "cause celebre" and generating negative publicity on which it should not now be allowed to rely to respondent's detriment.

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that respondent has, by his conviction for various offenses involving steroids, forfeited his employment with the Garfield School District. As noted by the ALJ, respondent was in a position to influence students, both as teacher and coach. As teacher, evidence shows that students viewed him as a wrestling enthusiast and source of knowledge on steroids; thus, respondent's actions would undermine any silence he may have kept or speak louder than any words he may have uttered on the ill effects of steroids. As coach, however short a period he may have actually served due to truncation of his appointment by the incidents at issue herein, the fact remains that his offenses occurred even as he undertook a job wherein it was well established that he would be directly responsible for monitoring and discouraging student steroid use.

Nor is the Commissioner pursuaded by respondent's arguments that he need never again be appointed as coach and that any compromising of his position as teacher is due to the Board's actions and should not be held against him. Respondent's arrest and conviction are matters of public record, and knowledge of them among parents and students cannot be undone. To hold that he may now return to the school community so long as he is not appointed as coach would effectively send a message that his illegal steroid use was acceptable because not undertaken in a manner directly related to specific teaching duties or specifically affecting teaching performance.

The Commissioner further rejects respondent's contention that the ALJ confused standards for forfeiture with those for unbecoming conduct. To the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the ALJ analyzed the issues correctly and afforded respondent the full adversarial hearing and opportunity to present mitigating factors directed by the State Board in its decision refusing to find forfeiture on the prior record, which had been developed on a summary judgment basis.[1]

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, finding that a nexus between offense and employment has been established sufficient for respondent to have forfeited his position as teacher in the Garfield school district, is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein together with the further explication set forth above. This matter is further referred to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appppropriate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a).[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

[1] Although not applicable to the disposition of this matter, which arose under prior law as properly applied by the ALJ at page 16 above, the Commissioner here notes for the record that subsequent to the State Board's decision in this matter, both criminal and food and drug law were amended to specifically classify anabolic steroids as "controlled dangerous substances" and treat their illegal use in the same manner as other such substances, so that the distinction between steroids and the marijuana at issue in Arocha, supra, on which the State Board's refusal to accept summary judgment largely rested, no longer exists. OF KEANSBURG, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

Pursuant to application for inquiry into alleged violations signed by a candidate in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, Commissioner determined to conduct inquiry.

ALJ found there was a defeat of a legal vote which would have changed result of election, as it would have broken the tie that occurred for the third seat on the Board. Will of the electorate was thwarted. (Wene) ALJ concluded irregularity was sufficient to require that a new election be held. Runoff election between two candidates was ordered.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision, noting in response to petitioner's exceptions that sole relief available in this inquiry was a new election as it is beyond Commissioner's authority or any judicial forum to tally a vote not actually cast. Commissioner directed school district to proceed with special election pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-3 and 14-25.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4006-93
AGENCY DKT. NO. 94-4/93

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF KEANSBURG

Marylou Razzano, petitioner, pro se

Record Closed: May 28, 1993 Decided: May 28, 1993

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Pursuant to an application for inquiry into alleged violations signed by a candidate in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, the Commissioner of Education determined to conduct an inquiry in the annual school election held on April 20, 1993, in the Keansburg Borough School District.

The matter was transmitted on an expedited basis to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. An inquiry was conducted on May 28, 1993 at the Hazlet Township Municipal Building. Seven persons were heard and nine documents were admitted into evidence.

From the parol and documentary evidence, it is clear that there was an irregularity in the school election conducted on April 20, 1993, in the district. For the reasons discussed below, the will of the electorate was thwarted and, therefore, a new election must be held.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following FACTS are essentially undisputed and I adopt them herein.

1. At some time shortly after 5 p.m. on April 20, 1993, Marylou Razzano met her cousin Anthony Michael Grieco near the New Point Comfort Fire Department in Keansburg.

2. The Building served as the polling place for District 6 in the annual school election.

3. Ms. Razzano walked with Mr. Grieco to the polling place.

4. Mr. Grieco entered and, a few minutes later, returned stating he had been told he could not vote.

5. Mrs. Razzano entered the poll and was told that Mr. Grieco had requested an absentee ballot and, therefore, could not cast a ballot at poll.

6. Ms. Razzano's running mate, Dolores Bartram, tried to contact the Board Secretary.

7. Upon being contacted, Board Secretary Edith L. Chmiel, was advised that a voter had been denied the opportunity to cast a ballot because told he was on the absentee ballot list when, in fact, his brother was named on the list.

8. Secretary Chmiel went to the District 6 poll.

9. She inquired of Judge Irene Durnien what had happened.

10. The judge advised that Mr. Grieco's name was on the absentee ballot list.

11. Secretary Chmiel asked the judge to check the registration book.

12. The Secretary stated each poll receives lists of persons who have requested absentee ballots.

13. Pink slips are inserted in the registration books at the page for each person named on the absentee ballot list.

14. Upon examining the register, the Secretary and judge discovered that the page for Anthony Michael Grieco was not marked by a pink slip and the name Anthony Michael Grieco did not appear on the absentee ballot list.

15. There was a pink slip at the page for Michael Anthony Grieco and that name does appear on the absentee ballot list.

16. The Secretary informed the judge, "This man should have been allowed to vote."

17. This occurred in the period between 7 and 7:30 p.m.; polls were open until 9 p.m.

18. The Secretary instructed workers that Anthony Michael Grieco had the right to vote if he returned to the poll.

19. The judge agreed.

20. The Secretary then spoke to either Ms. Bartram or Ms. Razzano and stated that Anthony Michael Grieco was eligible to cast a ballot.

21. Anthony Michael Grieco had left home to attend a required driver education class and could not be reached.

22. Anthony Michael Grieco, although eligible, did not cast a ballot in the Keansburg Borough Annual School Election held on April 20, 1993.

DETERMINATION

Anthony Michael Grieco and Michael Anthony Grieco are related, but are not the same person (P-3, P-4). Michael Anthony Grieco applied for and received an absentee ballot for the annual school election. Anthony Michael Grieco attempted to vote at the District 6 poll, but was turned away as described in the findings, above.

The judge of election and a poll worker both stated they heard Mr. Grieco give his last name only. The worker then asked, "Are you Michael?" Mr. Grieco answered yes. She then advised him that he could not vote. The worker then called the judge who looked at the register and agreed with the worker. Nicole Palmiotto, appointed a challenger by candidates Garcia, Razzano and Bartrum, stated that she heard Mr. Grieco say, "Anthony Michael Grieco." She was writing down the name of each person who came into the poll and she wrote his name that way (P-6). The judge insists had Mr. Grieco said anything to clarify the situation, they would have checked. The poll workers stated she does not recall checking the book for similar names. Both women stated they felt bad about the error and told the Secretary to tell Mr. Grieco to come back and the situation would be corrected.

This was Mr. Grieco's first experience voting in a school election. In a sworn statement (P-4), he asserts that had he been allowed to cast a ballot, he would have voted for Noel Orlando Garcia, Marylou Razzano, and Dolores Bartrum. He also states he would have voted yes on the budget question.

A review of the list of persons receiving absentee ballots for the annual school election of April 20, 1993 reveals that Michael Anthony Grieco, 84 Bayview Avenue, Keansburg, is listed (R-3). The poll list for the District 6 (R-2) does not show the signature of Anthony Michael Grieco or of Michael Anthony Grieco. The combined statement of result of school election (R-1) shows the following:

CANDIDATES	Votes Counted For Candidates
	At Polls	Absentee	Total
Noel Orlando Garcia	205	33	238
Michael W. Stark	364	14	378
Manuel (Manny) Flores	301	12	313
Robert A. Corby	243	8	251
Mary Lou Razzano	206	45	251
Dolores Bartram	192	42	234
Dennis Smith	1		1
Raymond O'Hare	1		1
Jon Stokes	3		3
Francis J. Peters	1		1

Elections are to be given effect whenever possible. Wene v. Meyner, 13 N.J. 185 (1953). The Law Division in Wene set forth the rule.

> The rule in our State is firmly established that if any irregularity or any other deviation from the election law by the election officials is to be adjudged to have the affect of invalidating a vote or an election, where the statute does not so expressly provide, there must be a connection between such irregularity and the result of the election; that is, the irregularity must have been the producing cause of illegal votes which would not have been cast or of defeating legal votes which would have been counted, had the irregularity not taken place, and to an extent to challenge or change the result of the election; or it must be shown that the irregularity in some other way influenced the election so as to have repressed a full and free expression of the popular will. 26 N.J. Super. 363, 383 (Law. Div. 1953).

Under this clear direction, I would have no difficulty upholding the results of this election if two or more votes separated the third and fourth persons arranged in order of votes received. However, there is a tie for third place in this matter, there was the defeat of a legal vote which would have been counted and that vote would have changed the result of the election.

Under these circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the irregularity in this election was sufficient to require that a new election be held. It is ORDERED that a runoff election between candidates Robert A. Corby and Marylou Razzano be held as soon as practicable.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th

Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	DECISION
OF KEANSBURG, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. A letter of exception was filed by petitioner, wherein she stressed that the relief she sought was not a new election, but rather, that the thwarted vote at issue herein be counted in her favor, thereby obviating the need for a special tie-breaking election.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that an irregularity occurred which was shown to have affected the outcome of the election, so that a new election is warranted. Wene, supra In so holding, the Commissioner notes that the sole relief available in inquiries of this type, which do not reach to questions of the validity or tabulation of particular ballot(s), is a new election; it is beyond the authority of the Commissioner, or of any judicial forum, to tally a vote not actually cast even when it has been proven that the person who would have cast it was wrongly prevented from voting.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, and the School District of the Borough of Keansburg directed to proceed with a special election between Candidates Robert A. Corby and Mary Lou Razzano to be held on the earliest possible date consistent with the prohibition on special elections within 20 days before or after the June 8, 1993 primary elections (N.J.S.A. 18A:14-3) and the need to accommodate absentee ballot notices (N.J.S.A. 18A:14-25).*

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioning parent alleged district reorganization regarding student attendance reassignments was adopted in violation of Open Public Meetings Act and civil and parental rights of handicapped students. Petitioner contended Board refused to entertain public input. All special education questions were dismissed as being without basis in fact or law.

ALJ concluded Board could not delegate to its superintendent authority imposed upon it by statutes. Authority to relocate classes is within compass of Board's discretionary powers. ALJ concluded record showed no Board resolution conferring on its superintendent the authority to assign grades and classes to specific school buildings. Case law requires that final decision should be by vote of Board. However, to reassign grades and classes to original locations would be "foolhardy" now. ALJ, however, directed Board to adhere to statutes and code henceforth particularly with regard for effectuating by resolution and recording in the official minutes those things properly done by Board.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN,
Respondent.

Karen Murray, Esq., for respondent (Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 2, 1993 Decided: May 17, 1993

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

This matter came on by request for emergent relief filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 27, 1992. Rodney Bond, petitioner, sought an order enjoining and restraining the Camden Board of Education from instituting and carrying out plans to change the placement of certain 8th grade pupils from East Camden Middle School to Woodrow Wilson High School and to change the placement of certain 5th grade pupils from McGraw Elementary School to East Camden Middle School.

The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Because of the application for emergent relief, the Department and this Office agreed that the matter would be heard promptly. The moving papers were received at the Office of Administrative Law on Monday, August 31, 1992. Oral argument on the motion for emergent relief was heard at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, September 1, 1992. The Board presented a copy of its answer to the petition at hearing.

The petition of appeal is stated in three counts. In Count One, the petitioner asserts he made inquiries about a rumored change of assignment of fifth grade classes from the McGraw Elementary School to East Camden Middle School and of eighth grades from East Camden Middle School to Woodrow Wilson High School. At a board meeting on June 29, 1992, the petitioner asked if this were the board's intent. He received no definitive reply. The petitioner states the Board avoided making any decisions at this meeting. In or about August 1992, the Board sent certain parents letters concerning placement changes for the school year. This, in the petitioner's view, violated the Open Public Meetings Act. For himself "and other similarly situated parents" the petitioner argues this would seriously affect them. The petitioner further charges he can find no public notice of the Board's actions creating the reassignments. He asks that the actions be voided and that the Board be enjoined from carrying out the reassignments.

In Count Two, the petitioner alleges that in making its reassignment decision, the Board violated the Education of Handicapped Children Act [now, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act] as to handicapped pupils. He cites N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.2. This count also alleges that the civil rights of affected persons were violated. He asks relief against the Board for refusing to entertain public input concerning this decision and voiding of such actions as were taken. He would also have the reassignments enjoined.

In Count Three, the petitioner alleges the Board violated the Individual Educational Plans of affected handicapped children. By way of relief, he would have the reassignments enjoined until and unless adequate counseling and preparation of affected parents and their children can be accomplished. He also seeks relief against the Board for refusing to entertain public input concerning a critical decision.

At hearing, the petitioner's argument generally followed the petition. The petitioner says he received "abbreviated" minutes of the June 29, 1992 Camden Board of Education Meeting. He concedes the minutes are designated "approved." He contends, however, that the minutes do not record any decision made on reassignment of classes. He also states the superintendent of schools misrepresented facts to him. He believes a decision was made, yet the Board denied it publicly.

The Board argues that the matter was first raised in the Superior Court, Law Division, but Judge Davies decided to take no action. The petitioner then filed before the Commissioner of Education. He did not provide the Board's counsel with moving papers until August 31.

Having heard and considered the arguments of counsel, I denied the request for emergency relief. The petitioner could make no showing of immediate harm, no showing of irrefutable harm and his likelihood of prevailing on the merits was arguable at best. Further, balancing the relative hardships to the parties in granting or denying the relief, the decision had to go in favor of the respondent. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

All special education questions were dismissed as being without basis in fact or law. The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act is remedial legislation and congressional intent that it be liberally construed is clear. However, one still must have standing and there still must be justiciable issue. The petitioner has no standing and classified pupils are not effected by the reassignment he objects to.

The Open Public Meetings Act establishes the right of the public to witness in full detail all phases of the deliberating, policy formation and decision making of public bodies. The statue generally requires that the public be given advance notice of an the right to attend meetings of public bodies and that all discussions and official actions, unless specifically exempted by the act, take place in public. There are nine statutory exceptions in all. In 1979, the Appellate Division of Superior Court decided that the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to determine issues arising under the Open Public Meetings Act as they relate to controversies under the school laws. Sukin v. Northfield Bd. of Ed., 171 N.J. Super. 184 (App. Div. 1979). Thus, if the petition of appeal was timely under the Open Public Meetings Act, the Commissioner has jurisdiction to consider the question. Counsel were directed to brief the issue.

The order denied the request for emergent relief whether argued on a standing theory or on the traditional criteria of temporary restraints. The order dismissed all special education questions raised as without basis in fact or law. Finally, the viability of any Open Public Meeting Act issue was ordered argued on the papers by counsel.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the judge's findings and conclusions that the petitioner failed to meet the standards articulated for emergent relief and that the issue concerning special education was without basis in fact or law. The Commissioner also agreed that the Open Public Meetings Act challenge should be argued.

Counsel were given a schedule for discovery and for submissions. For good cause shown, the time was enlarged. The Board submitted its final papers on March 15, 1993. The petitioner's papers were due on March 30, 1993. None were received. Allowing three days for the movement of mail, I closed the record on April 2, 1993.

DETERMINATION

The Board produced the agenda and minutes of its regular meeting of June 29, 1992 (R-1) and a certification of its School Business Administrator/Board Secretary (R-3). The secretary's certification states that he attends all Board workshop and regular meetings and is responsible to maintain Board records and minutes of all meetings. The secretary further states he attended the June 29, 1992 regular meeting and that the Board did not take a recorded vote on the transfer of several grades to different schools in the 1992-93 school year. It was not an agenda item. The grade reassignments have been discussed by the superintendent with the Board at the May workshop meeting and again at its June 25, 1992 workshop meeting.

A workshop meeting is regularly held on the Thursday before the regular monthly meeting of the Board unless the Board decides to conduct it immediately prior to the regular meeting. The regular monthly meeting of the Board is held on the last Monday of each month. All workshop meetings are open to the public and are noticed as are regular meetings. No official action is taken at workshops and a quorum is not required for the meeting to proceed.

During the superintendent's discussion with the Board at the May and June 1992 workshop sessions, the superintendent advised the Board of reassignments he would be making and the reasons for them.

The reassignments were not placed before the Board for a vote because the Board has for some time given the superintendent the administrative authority to take such actions on class/grade reassignments among buildings to provide suitable facilities and to accommodate the educational and staffing requirements of the district. The superintendent has effected other grade/class reassignments on this authority and with only discussion with the Board.

The secretary also certifies that at no time during the public session of the June 29 1992 meeting did either Mr. or Mrs. Bond ask if a vote had been taken by the Board on the reassignments. The secretary also states he has seen the letters dated July 9 and July 14, 1992 sent to parents by the principal of East Camden Middle School (R-2, J-1). The letters were not prepared by the secretary or the superintendent and erroneously indicate that the Board took action on June 29, 1992. The Board did not take any action on July 29, 1992 concerning reassignment of grades. The district, however, began meetings with parents regarding the transfer in July and August 1992.

The Board argues that, since it took no action, there cannot be an Open Public Meetings Act issue. N.J.S.A. 10:4-15 provides for challenging any action taken by a public body at a meeting which does not conform with the provisions of the act. Such an action shall be avoidable. In this case, there is no official Board action which can be subject to an Open Meetings Act claim. Any question of whether the superintendent had managerial authority, as compared to the Board, to implement the grade reassignments is not an Open Meetings Act issue. The act is not the appropriate vehicle by which to attempt to mandate certain governmental action. At its June 29, 1992 regular meeting, the Board's actions, policies and agenda were in full compliance with the act. That the subject of grade reassignments arose during the public section of the meeting does not show action by the Board. The public is free to raise whatever issues it chooses, which is precisely what Mr. and Mrs. Bond did. Contrary to the petitioner's claims, there is no mention in the record of his asking if a vote had been taken. Petitioner knew that day that no vote had been taken. However, he filed an Open Meetings Act claim despite the absence of Board action.

On these bases, the Board asks dismissal of the petition. No responsive papers were filed by the petitioner.

DETERMINATION

The posture of the case is somewhat awkward. Despite a breakdown in communications, specifically the letters from the Middle School principal to parents, there was no Open Meetings Act violation here. The meeting was properly noticed, the agenda was followed, minutes were kept and the public was allowed a period to express concerns and seek information. The record, however, reveals a problem that the Commissioner must address even in the absence of an Open Public Meetings Act violation.

A local board of education cannot delegate to its superintendent authority imposed upon it by statute. The cases conclude from the general enabling statutes that the authority to relocate classes is within the Board's discretionary powers.

The superintendent may not execute the discretionary powers of the Board. She or he may make recommendations regarding the organization of schools within the district. The Board may or may not follow the superintendent's advice, but a final decision should provide for public participation and a vote by the Board. Powers that may be conferred upon the superintendent are customarily granted by a resolution of the board.

A board of education cannot confer upon its superintendent a power imposed by statute upon the board. Witchell v. Board of Education of Passaic, 1966 S.L.D. 159, 161; Nixon v. Board of Education of Pleasantville, 1938 S.L.D. 56, 57 (March 15, 1934). While there is no explicit authority conferred upon boards to relocate classes, the cases conclude from the general enabling statutes that this authority is within the compass of a board's discretionary powers. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 provides

> The board shall . . . make, amend and repeal rules . . . for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools . . . .

In cases involving the relocation of classes, this language is cited as the statutory authority granting power to local boards to establish and change attendance areas. Hussnatter v. Board of Education of Newton, 1986 S.L.D. 2667; In re Miller, 1973 S.L.D. 409; Marcewicz v. Board of Education of Pascack Valley, 1972 S.L.D. 619; Wassmer v. Board of Education of Wharton, 1967 S.L.D. 125.

In addition, N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 has also been cited as conferring upon local boards the power to establish and change school attendance areas. N.J.S.A. 18A:33-1 provides:

> Each school district shall provide, for all children who reside in the district and are required to attend the public schools therein and those who reside therein or elsewhere and are entitled or permitted to attend the schools of the district pursuant to law, suitable educational facilities including proper school buildings and furniture and equipment, [and] convenience of access thereto . . . .

Morean v. Board of Education of Montclair, 1963 S.L.D. 154; Ditlon v. Board of Education of Oceanport, 1963 S.L.D. 131; Gunsberg v. Board of Education of Teaneck, 1962 S.L.D. 163.

Further, in Schults v. Board of Education of Teaneck, 86 N.J. Super. 29 (App. Div. 1964) the court decided that because a local school board has the statutory power to discontinue a school, it logically follows that it has the power to convert one of its schools into a central sixth grade facility.

From these cases, it can be inferred that, because the power to relocate classes is a discretionary power conferred upon local boards by statute, they cannot delegate this authority to the superintendent.

In Paddock v. Board of Education of Demarest, 1974 S.L.D. 435, a local board delegated, by written policy, the authority to assign pupils to grades kindergarten through four to the superintendent. The facts of Paddock are distinguishable from the present case because Paddock involved the assignment of individual pupils within the same grade in the same school whereas the present case involved the relocation of entire classes or grades from one school to another. In addition, in Paddock the hearing examiner characterized the guidelines for pupil assignments as board policy. It is within the purview of a superintendent's authority to administer policy determinations of a board. In re Jones, 1971 S.L.D. 520; N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(a). The Commissioner characterized the assignment of kindergarten pupils as a "management" prerogative of local boards of education (N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1). Paddock above, at 440.

While the superintendent may not execute the Board's discretionary powers to relocate classes, she or he may make recommendations regarding the organization of schools within the district. N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.1. In many cases, the Board acts to reorganize schools and classes within its district upon the proposal of the superintendent. Hussnatter, above, at 2667; South Mountain Civic Association v. Board of Education of Millburn, OAL DKT. EDU 587-83 (July 13, 1983), adopted Comm'r of Ed. (Aug. 29, 1983);Feigen v. Board of Education of Livingston, 1976 S.L.D. 886; Wassmer, above, at 125. However, the Board need not follow the advice of the superintendent "for it has the authority to make the ultimate determination." Wassmer, above, at 127.

It is of utmost importance that in making its "ultimate determination," the board provides opportunity for public input. "The ultimate inquiry with respect to whether adequate opportunity for public input was provided is whether, given all of the circumstances surrounding the decision making process, the Board can be said to have acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable way." Hussnatter, above, at 2683. Adequate public input has a direct effect upon whether a board's decision was reasonable. The delegation of discretionary powers to the superintendent alone would hinder a court's ability to evaluate the adequacy of this process.

The board's delegation of decision making powers to the superintendent also means that the decision cannot be put to a vote. In cases dealing with the procedural fairness of school district reorganization, the Commissioner has evaluated the voting process. For example, in Feigen, the Commissioner found that the board's approval of a plan to merge two elementary schools at a private meeting was illegal and that its subsequent vote was pro forma. Feigen above, at 890-91. In Hussnatter, the Commissioner found that, while the board acted hastily, the fact that there was public input and that the board voted only after such input established good faith on the part of the board. Hussnatter, above, at 2682.

Powers that may be conferred upon the superintendent should be memorialized in a formal manner. In Board of Education v. Apetz, 1962 S.L.D. 167, the State Board of Education conferred upon the County Superintendent of Schools the power to approve emergency provisions for the accommodation of school pupils. This was done by resolution. In that case, the Commissioner upheld a county superintendent's refusal to approve a school building for emergency use. Id. at 169. Similarly, a local board delegated to its superintendent the power to assign pupils to grades kindergarten through four by written policy. Paddock, above, at 436. Without a specific delegation of authority, the superintendent can only perform those ministerial duties specified in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-20 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.1.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing analysis, I CONCLUDE that a board of education cannot delegate to its superintendent authority imposed upon it by statute. The cases examined conclude from the general enabling statutes that the authority to relocate classes is within the compass of the Board's discretionary powers. It is proper for a superintendent to make recommendations regarding the organization of schools within her or his district, and the board may or may not follow the superintendent's advice. A final decision should provide for public input and a vote by the Board. Powers that may be conferred upon the superintendent are customarily granted by a resolution of the board.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the record here shows no resolution of the Board conferring on its superintendent the authority to assign grades and classes to specific school buildings. Even if such authority were granted by resolution, however, it would be improper for the superintendent to exercise that authority unilaterally. The case law requires that the final decision should provide for public input and a vote by the board.

The reassignment of the subject grades and classes to their original locations would be a foolhardy exercise at any time and particularly at this point in the school year. However, the lapse found is not de minimis. The Camden Board of Education is DIRECTED to adhere assiduously to the prescriptions of statute and code henceforth with particular regard for effecting by resolution and recording in the official minutes those things properly done by the Board. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ORDER -
ADMINISTRATIVE RETURN OF CONTESTED CASE DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4632-91
AGENCY DKT. NO. 70-3/91

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF SAMUEL R. BRACIGLIANO

BEFORE JAYNEE LaVECCHIA, DIRECTOR:

On March 21, 1991, the Elmwood Park Board of Education certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against Samuel Bracigliano. The certification contained twenty-eight charges each alleging a violation of the New Jersey Criminal Code, specifically N.J.S.A. 2C:14-2(b), 2C:24-4(a) and 2C:30-2(a). Each charge related to a count of a twenty-eight-count indictment. Petitioner filed a timely answer denying the charges. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 7, 1991, for a contested case hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. and 52:14F-1 et seq.

On July 16, 1991, upon joint application of the parties, the matter was placed upon the inactive list until January 17, 1992 or resolution of the underlying criminal matter, whichever occurred first. A second order of inactivity was entered on January 16, 1992 continuing inactive status until April 17, 1992.

On March 30, 1992, the petitioner was found guilty of counts twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven and twenty-eight; not guilty verdicts were entered on the remaining counts. Judgment was entered sentencing petitioner to custody for ten years on count twenty-five, to a consecutive seven-year sentence on count twenty-six, and to a concurrent seven-year period on count twenty-eight. The court also ordered, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, defendant to forfeit his position as a principal and teacher of the Board of Education of the Borough of Elmwood Park.

N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 provides that any person holding public employment who is convicted of an offense of the third degree or above or of an offense touching or involving his employment shall forfeit his position; such forfeiture shall take effect either upon a finding of guilt, if the court so orders, or upon sentencing, unless the court orders a stay of such forfeiture. In the instant matter, the court ordered forfeiture of the position in its oral opinion of March 30, 1992, memorialized in the judgment of conviction issued March 31, 1992. As of that date, Mr. Bracigliano no longer had any rights to his position as a principal and teacher with the Elmwood Park Board of Education.

In addition, Mr. Bracigliano has resigned from his position with the Elmwood Park School District. He informed the Office of Administrative Law that he had no interest in appearing and testifying in this matter. The Board has separately informed the Office of Administrative Law that in light of the conviction and his resignation, there is no need to prosecute further the tenure charges, unless the conviction is overturned, in which case the Board would rely on the resignation and seek to proceed with the tenure charges.

There are no facts in dispute. By court order of March 31, 1992, petitioner has forfeited his tenured position. I find there are no issues remaining to be decided in this contested matter at this time. Therefore, I ORDER the return of this file to the Commissioner of Education and the tenure charges considered dismissed without prejudice. In the event the conviction is reversed on appeal and an issue arises as to the effect of the resignation or the need to proceed with the tenure charges, this matter may be retransmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning student appealed district's refusal to let her complete coursework to graduate Licensed Practical Nursing (LPN) program due to her grade of F in clinical performance.

ALJ found petitioner had been given a policy statement which warned dismissal would follow an F in clinical procedure. Moreover, petitioner was given a hearing wherein all her evaluations and rebuttals were considered. ALJ concluded petitioner received all procedural due process required by law. Further, ALJ concluded policy and grading system of LPN program in clinical performance was reasonable and ALJ could not eliminate or change any of the numerical evaluations under the relevant case law. Thus, nothing in petition stated a claim for which relief might be granted. Petition was dismissed. However, if petitioner discovers that a student between 1985 and 1991 with a record of F in clinical studies was permitted to graduate, she may request Commissioner to remand or reopen her case solely on the limited point of equal treatment of all those with F's in clinical studies.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7794-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 403-8/92

JANET THAXTON,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF CAMDEN COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,
Respondent.

Janet Thaxton, petitioner, pro se

William C. Davis, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Davis, Reberkenny & Abramowitz, attorneys)

BEFORE NAOMI DOWER-LABASTILLE, ALJ:

Janet Thaxton filed a petition on August 24, 1992, seeking to be readmitted to the Board's licensed practical nursing (LPN) program to complete four weeks of school and graduate. On October 7, 1992, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -10.

On December 10, 1992, I wrote to the parties suggesting we proceed by summary decision motion on the papers since respondent's defense was failure to state a claim for which relief may be granted. In January 1993 the parties met to match the documents of record and I numbered them in February. The record therefore consists of 100 numbered documents or pages which petitioner submitted with her petition and her proposed interrogatories (C-1). Respondent filed its brief and motion to dismiss on March 18, 1993, and I received petitioner's response on April 9, 1993, when the record closed.

The following operative facts are taken directly from petitioner's statements and submissions:

1. Janet Thaxton was admitted to the Board's LPN program in September 1990 for a one year course of study including both classroom and clinical instruction which was to conclude in August 1991. She was dismissed from the program on July 2, 1991, about 4 1/2 weeks before graduation because she received a grade of "F" in clinical performance.

2. Thaxton was given a copy of policies of the LPN program which she signed. Policy no. 5 states: "Clinical evaluations are graded as Pass/Fail. A failure in this area means dismissal irregardless of academic standing" (p. 48). Evaluations are not averaged. A single evaluation below 36 points is a "possible termination."

3. Clinical instructors have a standardized evaluation form which reviews nine specific areas of student conduct and grades them with a point system of five levels:

unsatisfactory	(2)
marginal	(4)
acceptable	(6)
commendable	(8)
outstanding	(10)

The conduct reviewed is:

1. Professional responsibility and accountability;
2. Awareness and understanding of safety in nursing practice;
3. Application of principles of medical asepsis;
4. Application of nursing process;
5. Versatility in nursing practice;
6. Professional attitude in job performance;
7. Initiative in nursing practice;
8. Effective communication with instructor, supervisors, peers and patients; and
9. Attendance.

The instructor also includes comments, which may contain facts and opinions supporting the grades given, caveats and specific directives to the student.

4. The total points in all categories are added up. For example, a marginal rating (4 points) in all 9 categories would yield 36 points. The total points are then graded as follows:

Satisfactory	54 or more points
Re-evaluation or probation	36 to 53 points
Possible termination	35 points or less

5. Part of petitioner's clinical instruction took place in JFK Hospital where she was assigned to the medical/surgical rotation from October 18 to December 21, 1990. R.N. Brooks, Director of the LPN Program graded Thaxton 58 on December 6, 1990 (page 6).

6. R.N. Scott graded Thaxton 46 on December 21, 1990. Although Scott forgot to grade one category, if it had been graded "acceptable" as were 6 of 8 other categories, her points (52) would still not have taken her out of the probationary level. Scott made extensive comments supporting her grading of unsatisfactory in the safety category and restated specific directives emphatically (pages 8, 9).

7. On February 4, 1991, R.N. Scott graded Thaxton 34, finding her unsatisfactory in professional responsibility and accountability, awareness and understanding of safety in nursing practice and in effective communication with instructor, supervisors, peers and patients. Scott included four pages of specific comments and restated directives (page 14 et seq.)

8. After Scott's evaluation, which placed Thaxton in the "possible termination" category, Director Brooks spoke at length with petitioner about incidents noted by Scott and told her she would be under instructor Mehl for the rest of the week and that if an incident occurs in anyway similar to [those stated by Scott] she would be dismissed immediately with no needed conversation (page 88).

9. For Thaxton's clinical work in pediatrics from February 4 to February 22, 1991, at Cooper Hospital, R.N. Mehl graded her 62. Six categories were rated acceptable, two commendable and one outstanding. This was the best evaluation Thaxton received (page 30).

10. For the period April 30 to May 17, 1991, Thaxton was assigned to obstetrics, where R.N. Noga evaluated her with a grade of 58. All categories were rated "acceptable" except for attendance, which was outstanding. Thus only attendance brought Thaxton above the "satisfactory" marker of 54 (page 33).

11. On June 28, 1991, R.N. Scott notified Director Brooks that petitioner had made a medication error (page 34). In petitioner's rebuttal to this document, dated July 1, 1991, she stated, "I realize it was my fault for not checking the doctor's orders to see if there was any change" (page 41).

12. On July 2, 1991, Flax Brooks, Director of the LPN Program summarized Thaxton's clinical performance, after review of evaluations, as follows:

> The first clinical evaluation of December 1990 indicated that Janet was weak in identifying priorities related to the patient, that she was quick to justify her actions was more interested in advanced skills than basic nursing care and her responses to the instructor were often irrelevant to the subject being discussed. This evaluation was done by me and Janet counselled.
> After being transferred to Mrs. Scotts' group the following clinical evaluation noted difficulty in applying B/P Cuff and performing vital signs. Janet also applied a medication to the R thermometer before insertion and was unable to locate the medication sheet she stated she saw with instructions for use. At this time it was stressed she must not do any treatments without the instructors knowledge, and will ask questions of the instructor if in doubt. She was also told she must be aware of the patients care requirements and diagnosis before initiating care. All documented and attached to her evaluation. On 2/4/91 she received a marginal and unsatisfactory clinical evaluation and placed on probation. She refuted what was said and at this point her clinical experience required her to move to a specialty (pediatrics). From peds. she went to mental health and obstetrics. Now that she has returned to med/surg nursing her original behavior has reoccurred resulting in an incident of a medication error. Because of her unsafe clinical performance overall her grade for clinical is an F and she will be terminated. Additional documentation is in Janet's file. [page 44]

13. On July 10, 1991, petitioner filed a grievance request with R. Sanders Haldeman, Superintendent of Schools, which resulted in a grievance meeting before Dr. Charles H. Ebbecke on July 16, 1991. Ebbecke obtained all Thaxton's evaluations, read her rebuttal and convened a group consisting of DiNardo, Director of the Technical Institute, R.N. Brooks, Director of the LPN Program, and instructors Scott and Noga to participate in the grievance meeting with Thaxton. At the prehearing meeting of this group, Noga stated that although she gave Thaxton a grade of 58, she was at the bottom of her clinical team. Scott explained why she regarded the medication error on June 26 as serious and noted that her main concern about Thaxton's nursing practices was her inability to admit a mistake and learn from it rather than continuing to make excuses why it had happened in an effort to displace blame (page 50).

14. Dr. Ebbecke then convened the appeal hearing with staff and petitioner, which lasted about an hour. Although Thaxton was unaware at the time of what Scott and Noga had stated to Ebbecke before the hearing, it appeared in the minutes which she received subsequently. Petitioner included a rebuttal to it along with a rebuttal to each critical evaluative comment and factual episode related by her instructors in the appeal package she presented to the Board of Education on March 18, 1992 (pages 1 to 54).

15. At the grievance hearing on July 19, 1992, Dr. Ebbecke asked DiNardo about the method of notifying students of the grievance procedure, which is in the Technical Institute Handbook. The Handbooks are placed on a table at student orientation for distribution. Petitioner never received one. As a result, petitioner was unaware that formal grievance procedures were available at earlier times upon receipt of evaluations. Ebbecke also inquired as to why several evaluations were not in the package he received. Mehl's had been lost and had to be replaced. Another which petitioner believed existed for a brief assignment at the mental institution, did not exist. Dr. Ebbecke noted that the evaluation form is somewhat difficult to interpret but is usually reviewed by the teacher and student and then signed. Initially, Thaxton misread Scott's evaluations and believed she was graded marginal instead of unsatisfactory (page 51).

16. Dr. Ebbecke noted petitioner's signature on the statement of policy she received, stating he was satisfied that she had been kept up-to-date on her progress and had received procedural due process. Some evaluative comments were discussed by staff and verbally rebutted by Thaxton, who argued with instructor Noga about the correct procedure to take an apical pulse rate. Dr. Ebbecke upheld the decision to dismiss petitioner from the program (page 52).

17. Petitioner next filed an extensive appeal document (pages 1-54) with the Board of Education on March 18, 1993, which was preliminarily reviewed by Dr. Ebbecke. Dr. Ebbecke reviewed all the rebuttal material and some additional instructional materials which consideration of the rebuttal led him to call for. He then made a report to the Superintendent recommending denial of the appeal, enclosing four exhibits (pages 60 to 90).

18. The Superintendent sent the entire package to the Board, which denied the appeal based on Dr. Ebbecke's report and attachments on May 20, 1992 (page 67).

19. On July 30, 1992, petitioner wrote a letter of appeal to the Commissioner of Education (page 57, 58) and on August 20, 1992, she was sent a copy of the regulations concerning appeals (page 56).

20. Petitioner's letter to the Commissioner, filed rebuttals and set of interrogatories in this file (C-1) demonstrate the kind of hearing she wishes to present. For example, she wants to demonstrate that evaluation statements are untrue (especially Noga's and Scott's), and that a statement Dr. Ebbecke made is untrue. She states records and investigation were denied to her (page 58). She wishes to present witnesses' statements (and possibly testimony) on these points.

21. Enclosed with the petition are examples of the kind of testimony involved (pages 94 to 100). Noelle Gill's is a criticism of actions of instructor Scott and others of the same nature as those made by petitioner. Kathy Seconler's statement related how she heard Scott tell about ten students of the seriousness of Thaxton's medication error in June 1991. She also states that other students were not written up for actions similar to Thaxton's, that Scott listened to hearsay about students, that Scott called out a lot, or left early and that students in her group missed clinical time.

Conclusion and Disposition

A complaint may not be dismissed through motion to dismiss for failure to sate a claim upon which relief can be granted where a cause of action is suggested by the facts and a theory of actionability may be articulated by amendment. In the very earliest stages of litigation, such a motion should be rarely granted, our Supreme Court has held. Printing Mart - Morristown v. Sharp Electronics Corp., 116 N.J. 7309, 772 (1989). We must assume the facts as asserted by the plaintiff are true and give her the benefit of all inferences that may be drawn in her favor. In the instant case, the filed petition constitutes a very substantial record fully setting forth the petitioner's rebuttals to her evaluations and to every step of the appeal procedures. The appeal document is not comparable to complaints filed in courts. It contains the entire paper record of petitioner's grading and appeals and is more like a record for summary judgment on the record.

The kind of discovery and investigation petitioner wants is also clearly revealed because petitioner sent me copies of her proposed interrogatories (C-1) which consist of 31 questions to R.N. Noga, 89 questions to R.N. Scott and 164 questions to Director Brooks. I cannot fully relate all of the areas covered. For example, petitioner seeks to probe the entire educational and work experience of the teachers, the exact method and mental processes behind each evaluation of petitioner (and of some other students), the conversations the teacher had with petitioner or other students, each incident in which petitioner figured, directions the teachers gave to students, and the nature of the workloads and assignments of students. In addition to the above, she asks the Director to relate all matters concerning grievance procedures, education and training background of Scott and Noga, how she grades the effectiveness of instructors, how many students they had, how many were dismissed, what state requirements are for students in regard to administering medications, whether, in effect, the specific directives given by her instructors were correct, what procedures she would use if a classroom instructor might not like a particular student, and whether and how Brooks knew she had been married to an Iranian. She asks for names, addresses and telephone numbers of all students in her clinical group in 1990-1991. There is no question that the interrogatories are oppressive within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1(c) and that almost all of them seek material which is not relevant to the issue of grading as it has been defined by applicable case law.

The discovery and numerous statements of petitioner in the paper record demonstrate that petitioner's trial plan is to attack not only the evaluations, but the validity of every underlying opinion, judgment and fact and the qualifications, character, and procedures of the teachers and director. One very specific part of that intention is to prove that R.N. Scott "slandered" petitioner. In short, petitioner seeks to have all unfavorable evaluations removed and have the hearer substitute his judgment for those of certified personnel and change her grade in clinical practice from an F to a pass, which would result in invalidating her dismissal from the program. Alternatively, a part of her theory is that she was not accorded due process because she was not specifically handed a copy of grievance procedures or orally reminded of what they were with respect to evaluations. She believes she would have been able to remove those of Scott from her record. Finally, a part of her theory also implicates allegations that her teachers had some kind of personal animosity toward her. As to Scott, her main factual basis for this is that Scott "lied" about petitioner's work, that Noga had previously given her husband a low grade and that Brooks asked if she was still married to an Iranian.

The Due Process Issue

For purposes of this issue I assume that petitioner never saw the grievance procedure concerning evaluations printed in the Technical Handbook, that no one explained it to her, and that she first learned of it from DiNardo on July 2, 1991, after she was given her termination notice. She then filed a grievance together with a 10 page rebuttal, and notified Dr. Ebbecke that she had never had the opportunity to make use of the grievance procedure to rebut adverse evaluations. When petitioner filed her appeal documents with the Board, typed rebuttals to all the evaluations and to staff statements made on the day of the grievance meeting were included. Dr. Ebbecke reviewed the new materials prior to reporting his recommendation through the Superintendent to the Board. Ebbecke concluded at the grievance meeting that petitioner had received "procedural due process" during the grading process.

This case concerns a grade in clinical procedures and an academic dismissal. It is not a school disciplinary proceeding in which a student is punished for alleged misconduct, in which due process requires that a petitioner have rights to confrontation and to calling witnesses in a hearing before a Board of Education. Tibbs v. Bd. of Ed. of Tp. of Franklin, 114 N.J. Super. 287 (App. Div. 1971) aff'd on concurring opinion below of J.S.C. Kolovsky 59 N.J. 506 (1971). The due process required in a case such as this is set forth in Bd. of Curators, University of Mo. v. Horowitz, 435 U.S. 78, 55 L. Ed. 2d 124, 98 S. Ct. 948 (1978). In that case, the facts were that a medical school student who was in her final year on a probationary basis after being advised of dissatisfaction with her clinical performance and mostly unfavorable evaluations by several independent physicians was notified by a faculty committee and the dean that she was being dropped from the school. The student made a written appeal to the provost, who approved the decision. Without deciding the question of property interest, the Court held that due process was satisfied because the school fully informed respondent of the facility's dissatisfaction with her clinical progress and the danger that this posed to timely graduation and continued enrollment and that the ultimate decision to dismiss was careful and deliberate. No hearing was required. The Court noted that there is a significant difference between failure of a student to meet academic standards and the violation by a student of valid rules of conduct. "This difference calls for far less stringent procedural requirements in the case of an academic dismissal." Id at 435 U.S. 86.

Petitioner was given a policy statement which warned dismissal would follow an F in clinical practice. She was given an evaluation grade in the probation range and then one below passing. She could have been dropped at that point, but was warned again before an incident in June, which precipitated a final grade of "F" and dismissal. Petitioner here was given a hearing (grievance meeting) the hearer of which considered all her evaluations and written and oral rebuttals. The decisions of both the Superintendent's hearing officer and the Board of Education, before which petitioner placed additional statements and rebuttals, were clearly careful and deliberate. I CONCLUDE petitioner received all the procedural due process required by law.

The Substantive Due Process Issue

The Court in Horowitz noted that one reason why no hearing was required on academic evaluations was because it rested on the academic judgment of school officials that Horowitz did not have the necessary clinical ability to perform adequately as a medical doctor and was making insufficient progress toward that goal:

> Such a judgment is by its nature more subjective and evaluative than the typical factual questions presented in the average disciplinary proceeding. Like the decision of an individual professor as to the proper grade for a student in his course, a determination whether to dismiss a student for academic reasons requires an expert evaluation of cumulative information and is not readily adapted to the procedural tools of judicial or administrative decision making. [Id. at 90]

In Regents of University of Michigan v. Ewing 474 U.S. 214, 882 Ed. 2d. 523, 106 S. Ct. 507 (1985), the Court revisited the substantive issue. Ewing failed a comprehensive examination required for a special medical program, receiving 235 versus the passing score of 345. The university refused to allow him to retake the exam and after a review of his record in detail the Promotion and Review Board voted to drop him from the program. After giving Ewing an opportunity to be heard, the Medical School executive committee denied his appeal and twice subsequently denied him readmission. Ewing claimed other students had routinely been given a second opportunity to take the test. The University claimed his dismissal was justified by his academic record. Although the school admitted that all other students who failed were allowed to retake the test, after a hearing, no arbitrary or capricious action was found. The Court held:

> When judges are asked to review the substance of a genuinely academic decision, such as this one, they should show great respect for the faculty's professional judgment. Plainly, they may not override it unless it is such a substantial departure from accepted academic norms as to demonstrate that the person or committee responsible did not actually exercise professional judgment.
>
> Added to our concern . . . is a reluctance to trench on the prerogatives of state and local educational institutions and our responsibility to safeguard their academic freedom.
>
> . . .
>
> [The Court is] far less suited to evaluate the substance of the multitude of academic decisions which are made daily by faculty members of public educational institutions . . .
> [id at 474 U.S. 226]

The Court noted that the "narrow avenue for judicial review" precluded any conclusion that the decision to dismiss was such a substantial departure from accepted academic norms as to demonstrate that the faculty did not exercise professional judgment, since Ewing's academic record was good reason for dismissal. To be overturned, the school's academic judgment would have had to be beyond the pale of reasoned academic decision making when viewed in light of Ewing's school record.

In a footnote (14), the Court noted that even if some other students with more incompletes or low grades were allowed to retake the exam and were not dropped, the Court was in no position to say that these students were "similarly situated" with Ewing so as to support any claim of different treatment of other students. The Court described promotion decisions as "insusceptible" to rigorous judicial review, presumably because each student's entire academic record is unique.

An instructor's assignment of a grade is an academic decision based on many factors. Clinical study grades are inescapably more subjective than written test grades because they are based on many factors. For this reason courts generally do not hear cases involving grade determinations. A teacher's grade determination is not arbitrary because a student does not believe that his or her grade was appropriate. Difference of opinion is not a basis for overturning a grade. Furthermore, a low grade does not suggest bias or bad faith. Since the U.S. Supreme Court's holdings and those of the State Supreme Courts which have considered the issue have been well known for some years, there is not much New Jersey case law on the subject of changing grades. There have been some cases in which the Commissioner has reviewed a Board's or teacher's grading policies, as distinguished from the grade given to an individual student.

In K.C. v. Bd. of Ed. of Collingswood, 1973 S.L.D. at 348, a teacher gave a student an A in Art the first semester, an F the second and an F for the year. The student argued that the teacher should have averaged the grade. The Commissioner held that a grading system which required averaging for major courses only was reasonable and that the student had not proved her grade was discriminatory or uniquely applied to her.

In Talarsky v. Edison Bd. of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 862, 867, a principal changed a student's grade from an F to a D in accordance with a Board's unwritten policy that, upon review, a principal was permitted to do so. The Commissioner found the policy and Board decision rational and "entitled to a presumption of correctness" because there was no evidence they acted as the result of bias, prejudice or bad faith. Their decision was "not without rational basis." An action of the local board which lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). The Kopera standard remains the most authoritative in New Jersey case law, since the others cited are not from our appellate court.

In a recent OAL decision adopted by the Commissioner, a parent sought to change a failing final grade of a student. E.C. v. Bd. of Ed. of Twp. of Mahwah, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9590-89 (January 2, 1991), aff. Commissioner 12-91. The parent argued that the teacher should have "curved" the test results, which he decided not to do "in his professional discretion." The final grade was determined by a weighted average which was stated in a published policy via a student handbook. There was also a board policy setting forth an appeal process for administrators to review grades to prevent arbitrariness. The principal and department heads review the grades prior to a decision by the superintendent. A trial type hearing was not permitted although the Board offered to allow E.C. one-half hour to make a presentation. ALJ Springer noted:

> . . .it does not follow that petitioner must be afforded a trial-type hearing with sworn testimony and cross-examination of opposing witnesses. Under some circumstances an informal appearance before the Board will satisfy due process requirements. cf. Donaldson v. No. Wildwood Bd. of Ed., N.J. 236, 246 (1974). What process is due in a particular setting is partly a function of the importance of the interest affected Woodland Private Study Group v. DEP, 109 N.J. 62, 74 (1987). It would seriously undermine respect for the teacher's legitimate authority if any student unhappy with a particular grade could demand a hearing. [emphasis added]

The ALJ then concluded that the petition failed to state a claim for which relief may be granted.

The ALJ's reasons which were adopted by the Commissioner, were:

> . . . Significantly, petitioner does not allege that the teacher was biased against his child on the basis of race, religion, ethnic origin, gender, or political affiliation or because of the exercise of any constitutionally protected right. This is not, for example, a case where a student allegedly received lower grades because her sincere religious beliefs precluded her from dissecting a frog, saluting the flag, studying evolution or attending sex education classes. Nor is this a situation where the Commissioner might conceivably want to intervene to enforce a paramount state educational policy, such as the improper use of grades as a disciplinary device, Talarsky v. Edison Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 862 (Comm'r July 29, 1977) and Wermuth v. Bernstein, 1965 S.L.D. 121 (Comm'r Aug. 31, 1965), or to coerce students to purchase a gym uniform in violation of their right to a "free" public education, V.F. v. Haddon Heights Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. __ (Comm'r June 28, 1988).
>
> Here petitioner's pleadings, taken as true, present an honest difference of opinion about a teacher's judgment call, nothing more or less. Absent a clear showing that the actions complained of resulted from bias, bad faith, arbitrariness, statutory violation or constitutional infirmity, a petition seeking to change a final grade is "without merit." Talarsky, 1977 S.L.D. at 870-71. Generally, courts will not override an academic decision unless it represents "such a substantial departure from accepted academic norms as to demonstrate that the faculty did not exercise professional judgment." Regents of Univ. of Michigan v. Ewing, Supra, at 277 . . . Likewise, the Commissioner is loath to substitute his judgment for that of the classroom teacher, without more than a mere assertion that someone deserves a better grade.

The ALJ's rationale is most persuasive. I have already CONCLUDED that petitioner received procedural due process and note that the process was very similar to that discussed in the E.C. case, which is closely on point. I now CONCLUDE that the policy and grading system of the L.P.N. program in clinical studies is reasonable. The policy clearly provides that an F from any instructor, not an F as an average of the grades of all instructors, will result in dismissal. The reasons why this is a reasonable policy are alluded to by our Supreme Court in the Horowitz case, where the medical school's decision rested on academic judgment of school officials that Horowitz did not have the necessary clinical ability to perform adequately as a medical doctor and was making insufficient progress toward that goal. The court remarked that in a medical school context, competence in clinical courses is as much a prerequisite to graduation as satisfactory grades in other courses. Like petitioner, Horowitz was proficient in the "book learning" required,

I also CONCLUDE that the system of evaluation used by all the clinical instructors is reasonable. The nine categories, five grade levels, point totaling and point total assessments serve to standardize to the extent possible an academic area in which judgments are by nature more subjective. This is because the grades do not result from test scores, but rather from observations of skills and techniques in actual conditions of practice. The form of the evaluative instrument alone records the grade, i.e., the academic opinion of the instructor. The comments, notes and directives of the instructor on the forms or appended to them are simply informational material for the student, often indicating a basis for an instructor's opinion. I CONCLUDE that I cannot eliminate or change any of these numerical evaluations under the relevant case law. In short, nothing in the petition states a claim for which relief may be granted.

Since the policy of basing a dismissal on one F is reasonable, the passing evaluations given by some instructors are irrelevant. The documentation clearly shows that the student had notice of the policy, and by evaluations given, had notice that point totals fell within the probationary range (Scott, December 21, 1990 evaluation) and within the fail category (Scott February 4, 1991). Notwithstanding that F, petitioner was allowed to continue so long as no other incident related to patient safety occurred, to see if she improved. The official F and dismissal determination followed after a review of her entire record. The Director (Brooks, who was also an instructor) clearly considered all the evaluations, but gave great weight to the patient safety and communication factors, as apparently the other reviewing bodies did in upholding the dismissal. It is simply untrue that a single incident reported by instructor Scott was the basis of the dismissal.

Alleged personal dislike of Scott for petitioner, even if assumed to exist, would not change my conclusions. No legal precedent supports the theory that all students have a right to an instructor who likes them. The professionalism of an academic precludes use of personal bias in evaluation and the academic judgment is relied upon. There is no allegation in the petition of racial discrimination or that other students with Fs in clinical studies were allowed to graduate. Referring again to the parallel E.C. decision, petitioner did not allege in her complaint that Scott or the school was biased against her because of race, religion, ethnic origin, gender or political affiliation or because of the exercise of a constitutionally protected right: such bias, if proved, would render a school's decision arbitrary. Only improper motives, not differences of opinion with the evaluations could support a conclusion of arbitrariness. I CONCLUDE that the petitioner's documents demonstrate no more than a difference of opinion with an instructor's evaluations and with the respondent's decision to dismiss. That being so, petitioner fails to state a claim on which relief can be granted. I so CONCLUDE.

I am aware that petitioner did not have an opportunity in discovery to obtain certification from the school that no other students with Fs in clinical studies were permitted to graduate. I order that respondent certify whether or not, between 1985 and 1991, any student with a record of F in clinical studies was permitted to graduate. This certification shall be filed or attached to respondent's exceptions to the Commissioner and may, depending on its content, be used by petitioner, as a basis to request the Commissioner to remand or reopen her case solely on that limited point, i.e., of equal treatment of all those who received Fs in clinical studies who were permitted to graduate notwithstanding that grade. Before availing herself of such an option, petitioner should recall the caveat of the Supreme Court: the other students would have to be similarly situated. It is difficult, if not impossible to prove this because no two students have an identical record.

It is therefore ORDERED that the petition be DISMISSED and that respondent submit the above described certification directly to he Commissioner.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Eight consolidated appeals involved challenges by school employees to the abolition of their respective positions due to reorganization of state-operated school district. Petitioners alleged their positions were not central and administrative staff in nature and maintained district violated various federal and state antidiscrimination statutes in eliminating them.

ALJ concluded all petitioners occupied central administrative or supervisory staff positions which were abolished as a result of reorganization. He further concluded that the Commissioner did not have subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate the claims arising solely under federal law. He found that materials submitted by petitioners regarding alleged violations of New Jersey antidiscrimination laws raise certain factual questions precluding disposition of these matters by summary decision. ALJ dismissed all petitions except for claims brought by the petitioners of the Baldwin group under state civil rights and antidiscrimination statutes.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

These eight consolidated appeals involve challenges by school employees to the abolition of their respective positions in connection with the reorganization of the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson ("Paterson" or "District") under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-34 to 52. Presently, the matter comes before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on Paterson's motion for summary decision dismissing the petitions.

Basically, three issues are raised by the papers in support of and opposed to the motion: first, whether the positions formerly occupied by petitioners fall within the category of "central and administrative staff" as that term is used in N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, and, if so, what are the consequences;. second, whether the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") has subject matter jurisdiction over federal civil rights and antidiscrimination claims; and, third, whether a sufficient factual dispute exists to require a hearing on allegations by the seven petitioners represented by Mr. Segreto (collectively, the "Baldwin group") that the actions taken by Paterson constitute invidious discrimination based on race, age or gender in violation of state law, particularly the Law Against Discrimination , N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to 10:5- 42.

For the reasons which follow, partial summary judgment must be granted in Paterson's favor on the first and second issues. However, a hearing must be held to make factual findings on the third issue relating to the Baldwin group's discrimination claims under state law.

Procedural History

On May 6, 1992, petitioner Genevieve Cirasa filed her petition with the Commissioner. Unlike the Baldwin group, she did not raise any discrimination claim, but only contended that Paterson had acted arbitrarily, capriciously and unreasonably by failing to retain her in a supervisory capacity. Shortly thereafter, on April 28, 1992, the Baldwin group filed their separate petitions, and, on June 18, 1992, an amendment to the original petitions. On June 26, 1992, Paterson filed its answer and affirmative defenses to the Cirasa petition and, on or about July 1, 1992, its answers to the Baldwin group's amended petitions. Subsequently, on July 14, 1992, the Commissioner transmitted all eight cases to the OAL for hearing. By consent order entered on September 21, 1992, the OAL consolidated them all for hearing.

Recently, on March 9, 1993, Paterson filed a notice of motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, together with a legal brief and five supporting affidavits or certifications.[1] On March 29, 1993, Ms. Cirasa filed her opposing paper, which include a legal brief and two affidavits.[2] Next, on March 31, 1993, the Baldwin group filed its opposing papers, comprised of a legal brief and seven affidavits and attached exhibits.[3] Last, on April 12, 1993, Paterson filed its reply brief.

(1) Meaning of the Term "Central Administrative and Supervisory Staff"

All of the material facts needed to resolve this issue are set forth in the existing record. These facts are undisputed and are largely a matter of public record. I FIND the following facts:

On August 7 1991, the State Board of Education ordered the state takeover of the Paterson school district. In taking such a drastic measure, the State Board declared that a comprehensive investigation had "show[n] clearly a picture of long term educational failure, managerial and administrative ineptness, and the failure of the Paterson Board of Education to develop and implement governance practices

[1]Supporting documents consist of affidavits by various top District officials including Dr. Laval S. Wilson, state-district superintendent; Dr. Clarence Hoover, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instructions; Barbara Mortimer, business administrator; Jack McGee, state assessment unit coordinator, and Dr. John A. Nolan, director of personnel. Counsel for the District also submitted a certification attaching numerous documents

[3]Each of of the Baldwin group petitioners filed an affidavit. Previously, the Baldwin group had supplied a copy of the deposition of Dr. Laval Wilson held on March 17 and 18, 1993. Later, on April 23, 1993, their counsel filed his own supplemental certification.

aimed at addressing the District's myriad of managerial and educational problems."[4] Local school officials tacitly acknowledged the existence of these conditions, and their inability to correct such problems on their own, by not contesting the state takeover. Also on August 7, 1991, the State Board appointed Dr. Laval Wilson to a five-year term as state district superintendent and charged him with responsibility over the conduct and supervision of the state-operated school district. It expressed confidence in Dr. Wilson's "outstanding record of accomplishment as a school leader" and his "extensive experience as an urban district superintendent."[4]

As an immediate consequence of the creation of the state-operated school district, the former positions of superintendent and the three top executive administrators were immediately abolished. Moreover, the newly-appointed state district superintendent had only six months to prepare a plan for reorganization of the District's central administrative and supervisory staff and to evaluate all individuals serving in that capacity. Dr. Wilson delegated to Jack McGee the task of identifying which Paterson employees fell within that description. Mr. McGee was originally a member of the state team assigned to assist the District during the transition period. In November 1991, he left State employment and became an employee of the District.

After consulting with high-level administrators from the Jersey City State-Operated School District who had experience in conducting a central office evaluation and reorganization, Mr. McGee prepared a list of 59 Paterson staff members considered to hold central administrative or supervisory positions. Included on the list were the eight individuals who have brought these appeals. According to the McGee affidavit, he made his recommendation "after reviewing their job description, locating their placement and classification on district payroll and staff lists, and assessing the duties encompassed within the scope of their positions."

Two months after his appointment as state district superintendent, Dr. Wilson issued a memorandum regarding the evaluation of all central administrative and supervisory staff. That memorandum, dated November 7, 1991, fully discloses the standard used by Dr. Wilson in making his selection of who would be subject to evaluation:

> The only staff members included within this statutory mandate are individuals currently employed within central office instructional and non-instructional supervisory and administrative job categories.Other employee categories, such as teacher, instructional aide, or support staff are not included in this specific evaluation process, nor are school-based administrative and supervisory employees.

At the same time, Dr. Wilson sent a letter to the 59 affected persons, including the eight petitioners, notifying each "that the position you presently hold in the district will be abolished at the time of the reorganization." Further, the letter stated that, "Individuals whose positions are to be abolished, however, may be rehired based on the staffing needs of the district as well as evaluations of those individuals conducted during development of the reorganization plan." None of the eight objected to their inclusion as central administrative or supervisory staff until after the evaluation process had been completed and the decision had been made not to rehire them.

During the intervening six months, Dr. Wilson arranged for the 59 individuals to be evaluated formally by one of six outside consultants under the coordination of Mr. McGee. On January 30, 1992, Dr. Wilson reviewed and approved the final evaluation reports prepared by the consultants. These reports consist of standard forms which rate the employee's performance on a five-point scale, from "distinguished" to "unsatisfactory," in various categories, such as ability to manage, ability to make decisions, responsiveness to others, and creativity. In addition to a composite or "summative" rating, the forms contain a section to record the strengths and weaknesses of each individual. Generally, the petitioners involved in these cases received average or acceptable ratings. Six of them had a summative rating of "competent" (the middle range), one had a rating of "commendable" (the next-to-highest rating) and one had a rating of "fair" (the next-to-lowest rating).

On the same date that he reviewed the evaluation reports, Dr. Wilson also conferred with the assistant superintendents responsible for the particular department to which each employee was assigned. Dr. Clarence Hoover, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, recommended against appointing the Baldwin group petitioners to a central administrative or supervisory position. Similarly, Barbara Kaye Mortimer, the business administrator, recommended against appointing Ms. Cirasa to a central administrative or supervisory position. By letter dated February 6, 1992, Dr. Wilson informed each petitioner that he had decided not to offer him or her a central administrative or supervisory position in the reorganized district, but that each "would receive 60 days pay at your current salary." None of the petitioners actually lost their employment in the District. Instead, each had the opportunity to transfer to another nonsupervisory position at a lesser salary. However, Ms. Walsh and Ms. Cirasa chose to retire rather than to accept a "demotion."

Some generalizations apply to all or nearly all of the petitioners. All performed what Dr. Hoover characterized as "district-wide administrative responsibilities" or "supervised staff district-wide in a particular program." All, except Walsh and Cirasa, were required by their prior job descriptions to hold an appropriate administrative certificate with a supervisor endorsement, as distinguished from an instructional or educational services certificate.[5] All but Leopizzi and. Cirasa were engaged in developing curricula, providing technical assistance to teachers and principals, and conducting special programs in their fields of specialty. All of the Baldwin group were members of the Paterson Administrators' Association, the collective negotiating unit representing administrators rather than teachers. All of the Baldwin group held positions located in the Division of Curriculum and Instruction under the direction of Dr. Hoover. Ms. Cirasa, on the other hand, was located in the Division of Business Services under the direction of the business administrator, Barbara Kaye Mortimer.

[5]There are three basic types of certificates that an educator may acquire: instructional, administrative, and educational services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. In addition to the three types of certificates, the State Board has also designated "special endorsements" under each type of certificate. Ibid. These endorsements coincide with the educational subjects or positions that share common attributes and thus are grouped under a particular certificate. Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., No. A-23/24, (N.J. April 8, 1993) (slip op. at 7) . A "supervisor endorsement" to an administrative certificate is required for supervisors of instruction who do not hold a school administrator's or principal's endorsement. State regulations define a supervisor as "any school officer who is charged with authority and responsibility for the continuing direction and guidance of the work of instructional personnel." N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(c).

Although the parties were unable to enter into a formal stipulation of facts, the material facts regarding each individual petitioner's assignments and job function are not genuinely in dispute. Mary Baldwin started working as a teacher in the former Paterson school district in September 1958. Ten years later, in September 1968, she became a "supervisor of home economics." Her training includes a master's degree from Montclair State College in the field of educational administration and supervision. She holds the required administrative endorsement as supervisor of home economics, as well as several other certificates including teacher of home economics. At the time of the reorganization, her job description outlined her duties to include "supervises all school or district programs in Home Economics;" [p]repares curriculum guides for all courses connected with Home Economics;" "[a]dvises teachers in the selection and use of materials;" and "[a]ssists in hiring and placing Home Economic teachers." An affidavit by Dr. Hoover further discloses that Ms. Baldwin was in charge of supervising "approximately 30 subject area teachers." When the reorganization took effect in February 1992, Ms. Baldwin was transferred to a classroom teaching position.

Gail Harrington started working for the Paterson district in January 1977, originally as a teacher of English as a Second Language ("ESL"). In October 1980, she became acting, and later permanent, "coordinator of gifted and talented." She has a master's degree from William Paterson College plus thirty graduate credits. Notwithstanding the use of the word "coordinator" in her title, the job description required her to hold a supervisor endorsement.[6] In addition to the supervisor endorsement, she holds various other certificates including teacher of ESL and elementary school teacher. As set forth in her job description, her duties included: "assists in planning, developing, advising and coordinating a program in the schools for gifted and talented students;" "communicates such programs to the staff, the administration, and the public;" "visits classrooms for supervisory purposes;" "recommends equipment, supplies and textbooks;" and "assumes responsibility for a productive system of in-service training." Moreover, Dr. Hoover's affidavit recites that Ms. Huntington "supervised approximately 50 to 68 subject area teachers." As a result of the reorganization, she reverted back to her old job as a teacher of English as a Second Language.

Joseph Kayal started as an elementary school teacher in the Paterson district in December 1957 and became a physical education teacher in September 1960. After serving as assistant supervisor in 1967 and then as acting supervisor in 1973, he became the "supervisor of physical education" in September 1977. He has a master's degree from Seton Hall University and holds several endorsements, including supervisor of physical education and teacher of physical education. Pursuant to the job description, his duties included: "develops and supervises an effective and comprehensive curriculum of physical education for all pupils;" "recommends improvements in playgrounds, fields, and gymnasia;" "assists in preparing the budget for physical education;" and, "evaluates all physical education teachers." Again, Dr. Hoover's affidavit reflects that Mr. Kayal "supervised approximately 84 subject area teachers." In his own affidavit, Mr. Kayal states that he "was assigned to a group of special schools." After the reorganization, he returned to a regular teaching position.

William Kopcho has worked for the Paterson district as an elementary teacher starting in September 1967, as a school psychologist starting in September 1970, and as "supervisor of special services" starting in July 1981. He obtained a master's degree from Seton Hall University and has completed a sixty-credit graduate certification course in psychology. Aside from the necessary endorsement as a supervisor, he also has endorsements in school psychology and in several teaching areas. According to the job description, his duties included: "oversees curriculum guide development and instructional methodology guide development at all levels of special education;" "advises teachers and administrators in selection and use of Special Education materials;" "provides staff leadership;" and "assists in the hiring and evaluations of teachers of Special Education." Essentially, Mr. Kopcho agrees with this summary of his responsibilities, but he points out that, as one of several "sector" or "cluster" supervisors, he "was assigned to seven specific schools in the district." Dr. Hoover notes that Mr. Kopcho "supervised approximately 130 subject area teachers." Since the reorganization, Mr. Kopcho has resumed his prior assignment as a school psychologist.

Raymond Leopizzi was hired by the district as an elementary school teacher in November 1973 and became a compensatory education teacher in September 1977. Beginning in September 1980, he served in an administrative position with various successive titles, once known as "coordinator of basic skills" and presently as "supervisor of funded programs." Despite the word "coordinator" in the old title, the occupant of the position must hold a supervisor certificate. Mr. Leopizzi possesses a principal's endorsement (which apparently was treated as equivalent to a supervisory endorsement for this purpose), and an endorsement as an elementary school teacher. According to the old job description, the duties included: "monitors the Basic Skills Improvement Program to maintain compliance with State rules and regulations;" "evaluates the effectiveness of the Basic Skills Improvement Program and staff;" and "prepares necessary reports and records related to the program." Both sides agree that Mr. Leopizzi's role was to monitor the use of Chapter I and Chapters 192/193 funds in approximately fifteen nonpublic schools.[7] In his affidavit, Mr. Leopizzi elaborates that he "didn 't coordinate the activities of any Paterson School district personnel but rather coordinated funded programs in the parochial schools which were eligible to be beneficiaries of our funded programs." Subsequent to the reorganization, Mr. Leopizzi returned to teaching duties as a basic skills instructor.

Ralph Rudnick came to the district in February 1955 as a teacher, served as head of the social studies department in September 1971, and became "supervisor of social studies" in July 1975. He has a master's degree from Montclair State College and has completed his course requirements at the doctorate level. Besides an endorsement as supervisor of social studies, he holds teaching endorsements in social studies and English. Among other duties, his job description included: "develops, implements, and coordinates the curriculum in social studies to provide rich and varied experiences;" "arranges and conducts workshops and in-service training programs in Social Studies;" "provides leadership in planning and executing all activities connected with the schools' Social Studies programs;" and "assists in hiring and placing Social Studies teachers." Dr. Hoover's affidavit avers that Mr. Rudnick "supervised approximately 34 secondary level subject area teachers." Because of the reorganization, Mr. Rudnick was transferred to a department-head position.

Lucille Walsh began working for the district as a school nurse in May 1953. Next, she became a guidance counselor in September 1969. Ultimately, she became a "coordinator of substance abuse" in August 1971. She has a nursing degree, a master's degree in personnel, and numerous graduate credits. Although she happens to hold a supervisor endorsement, that particular administrative certificate does not appear to be necessary for the job of "coordinator of substance abuse." Instead, the job description supplied by Paterson, entitled "drug education coordinator," requires a certificate "as a teacher in either health or guidance." Ms. Walsh meets these qualifications because she has both an educational services endorsement in student personnel services and an instructional endorsement as teacher of health education. She also has a valid emergency endorsement on her educational services certificate as "substance awareness coordinator." According to the job description, her duties included: "plans district's drug education program;" "assists in curriculum development and the selection of instructional aids for the program;" "represents the district with public agencies and private organizations concerned with juvenile drug abuse and narcotic education;" and "supervises the preparation of reports and statistical data related to the drug program." Dr. Hoover reports that Ms. Walsh actually exercised supervisory authority over seven substance awareness coordinators, one drug free aide and two secretaries. In her opposing affidavit, Ms. Walsh does not deny that she performed this function. As previously noted, Ms. Walsh resigned "under protest" rather than accept reassignment to a guidance counselor position. Ms. Walsh explained that, as a veteran, "if [she] had returned to the Guidance Counsel position, it would have severely diminished [her] pension."

Genevieve Cirasa began her employment in the district as a clerical worker-secretary in December 1968. Paterson acknowledges that she acquired tenure in that position. Thereafter, in 1976, she was promoted to "supervisor of accounts." Later, the title was changed to "assistant supervisor of accounts," without any change in job duties or salary. Unlike the other petitioners, Cirasa does not have a certificate authorizing her to work in the public school system. Nor does her job description require her to hold any certificate. Nevertheless, the parties concur that she performed supervisory duties. Ms. Cirasa admits that her "primary area of supervision was the District's account payable department." Her duties set forth in her job description included: "supervises and allocates the duties in the bookkeeping department;" "screens orders before issuing to vendors;" "follows through on all irregularities in shipping and invoicing;" and "screens invoices before processing for payment." Barbara Kaye Mortimer, the business administrator, confirmed that Ms. Cirasa "supervised about eight accounts payable clerks." Like Ms. Walsh, Ms. Cirasa submitted her resignation rather than "tolerate the disgrace of working as a secretary in my own department."

Based on these undisputed facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that all petitioners occupied "central administrative and supervisory staff" positions which were abolished as a result of the reorganization.

Once the State takes over the operation of a mismanaged local school district, the wholesale restructuring process proceeds in three well-defined phases. "[U]pon creation of the State-operated district," the four top management positions of "chief school administrator and those executive administrators responsible for curriculum, business and finance, and personnel" are immediately "abolished." N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(a) Clearly, the the word "abolished" refers to the right of the incumbents to occupy those positions rather than to the responsibilities attached to those positions, since someone in the State-operated district still must perform those vital functions.

Within the next six months, the State district superintendent "shall prepare a reorganization of the district's central administrative and supervisory staff and shall evaluate all individuals employed in central administrative and supervisory positions." N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 (b). (Emphasis added). Employees falling within this category automatically lose their positions as soon as the reorganization is implemented. The controlling statute expresses this result in clear and emphatic language: "Notwithstanding any other provision of law or contract, the positions of the central administrative and supervisory staff, instructional and noninstructional, . . . shall be abolished upon the reorganization of the State-operated school district's staff." N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c).

Staff members subject to this provision are not precluded from consideration in filling vacancies. Thus, subsection (c) of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 continues: "The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff." But such person has no legal entitlement to be hired in a central administrative or supervisory capacity. Again, the statutory language is unequivocal: "Employees or officers not hired for the reorganized staff shall be given 60 days notice of termination or 60 days' pay. The notice or payment shall be in lieu of any other claim or recourse against the employing board or school district based on law or contract." (Emphasis Added). Persons whose positions have been abolished by operation of this statute may assert a claim to "any position to which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district." In order to emphasize, however, that such persons have no legal claim to their old positions, subsection (c) concludes: "No employee whose position is abolished by operation of this subsection shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished herein."

The third and final phase of restructuring the district's management concerns the evaluation and possible dismissal of building principals. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45. In marked contrast to the truncated procedures governing "abolishment" of central administrative and supervisory staff, building principals are afforded more elaborate due process protections. Subsection (b) of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45 provides that an assessment unit appointed by the State district superintendent shall conduct on-site evaluations of each building principal in accordance with standards published by the Commissioner. See N.J.A.C. 6:7-1.1 to 2.2. Even principals with unsatisfactory performance ratings do not automatically forfeit their positions. At the completion of an evaluation period "of not less than 12 months," the State district superintendent "may dismiss any tenured building principal for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause" by bringing formal charges under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-45(c).

As Governor Thomas Kean remarked in connection with his conditional veto of an earlier version of the school takeover law, "[D]ue process is a dynamic term. It is not cast in stone. The amount of process due to an individual depends upon the situation. Simply put, what process is 'due' depends on the social desirability of the objects to be achieved balanced against the potential individual deprivation. It is my strong belief that the crisis found in failing school districts requires a more flexible approach to determining who shall lead the schools back to sound educational practices." Governor's Message to the General Assembly on Assembly Bill No. 2927 (June 25, 1987). Ultimately, the Legislature made a determination that central administrative and supervisory staff are entitled to less procedural safeguards than building principals.

Statutes which, like the takeover law, are remedial in nature must be construed generously to effectuate the legislative purpose. Sabella v. Lacey Twp., 204 N.J. Super. 55, 59 (App. Div. 1985); Carianni v. Schwenker, 38 N.J. Super. 350, 361 (App. Div. 1955); McCarroll v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 13 N.J.A.R. 1, 63 (1989). Enabling legislation authorizing the creation of a State-operated school district confers broad powers on the State district superintendent "to perform all acts and do all things consistent with law necessary for the proper conduct, maintenance and supervision of the schools in the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35(e). See also, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-38. In re Mantone, OAL DKT. EDU 4472-92 (Jan. 28, 1993), adopted, Comm'r (March 17, 1993) (slip op. at 2). While the phrase "central administrative and supervisory staff" is not expressly defined anywhere in the takeover law, it is used in its most expansive sense "to include but not be limited to the superintendent of schools, secretary of the board of education, school business manager, and assistants and clerks thereto." N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35(e) (Emphasis Added). Terms like "include" are words of enlargement and not of limitation, and the examples specified thereafter are merely illustrative, especially where the word "including" is followed by the phrase "but not limited to." Jackson v. Concord Co., 54 N.J. 113, 127 (1969).

Cases interpreting the school takeover law have uniformly recognized the wide latitude accorded to the new State district superintendent in selecting the personnel who comprise central office staff. Illustratively, in Errico v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., No. A-6157-90T1 (App. Div. Oct. 26, 1992), the Appellate Division upheld the removal of appellants, without any opportunity for a hearing, as the result of the State reorganization of the Jersey City school system. One of the appellants had the title "chief clerk" and the other the title "supervisor of pupil transportation." Applying *N.J.S.A.*18A:7A-44 , the Court declared that"when a board of education is removed and a State-operated district is established, the positions affected are automatically abolished upon reorganization of the State-operated school district and reemployment of displaced individuals is within the discretion of a State district superintendent." (slip op. at 4). Although Errico involved an appeal from an agency decision of the Merit System Board rather than the Commissioner, the outcome does not depend on that distinction. Similarly, in Van Dyke v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Jersey City, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4) 43 (EDU), the Commissioner and the State Board affirmed the abolition of the positions of five supervisors who, for the most part, had received "acceptable" performance evaluations after the State takeover. Holding that petitioners retained no tenure or seniority rights to a supervisory position, the Commissioner commented that "the only 'bumping' rights they could exert would related to nonsupervisory positions to which their tenure or seniority entitled them." (at 46).

N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 establishes a two-part test for determining which positions fall within its scope: whether the particular position is "administrative" or "supervisory;" and, if so, whether the particular position belongs to the "central" office as opposed to being building-based. Given the blurred lines of responsibility and confused organizational structure typical of a mismanaged local school district, the State district superintendent is not bound by the outgoing administration's assignment of functions or duties.[8] What truly matters is the function which each employee should be performing in an effectively-managed school system.

By this standard, petitioners fit within the statutory category. Unquestionably, they are "administrators" or "supervisors." Except for Ms. Walsh and Ms. Cirasa, their job descriptions required them to hold a supervisory endorsement. Each of them performed an administrative or supervisory function, which involved oversight and evaluation of instructional staff, monitoring the effectiveness of an educational program, or directing the activities of other district employees. It is not significant that petitioners may have lacked "policy-making authority." Ordinarily the local board of education should be setting broad policy guidelines and the administrators and supervisors are simply charged with implementing that policy. McCarroll, supra, 13 N.J.A.R. at 17 to 23. Furthermore, the superintendent and the top executive assistants, who arguably might play some role in developing policy, were abolished as soon as the State-operated district was created. Nothing in the statutory scheme suggests that lower or middle-level managerial staff cannot be regarded as administrators or supervisors. Likewise, it is not pertinent that, since they did not represent management in labor negotiations, petitioners could join an employee collective negotiating unit. To the contrary, the fact that the Baldwin group petitioners belonged to the negotiating unit for administrators only strengthens the conclusion that they are administrative staff.

Equally evident is the fact that petitioners have district-wide responsibilities and, therefore, are members of "central" office staff. See, e.g., Kornberg v. North Bergen Bd. of Educ., 1981 S.L.D. 736, 740-741 (Comm'r May 9), comparing the duties of a school administrator "authorized to direct district operations and programs" with those of a building principal who is "the head of a school." See also, Sandri v. Bergen Cty. Vocational Sch. Dist., 1986 S.L.D. __(Comm'r June 11), wherein the Commissioner regarded supervision over child study team functions as "bespeaking a 'district-wide' approach to providing student services and a broader range of responsibilities" than supervision at a building-level. (Slip op. at 20.) In this regard, it is of no moment that some of petitioners were "cluster" supervisors assigned to a certain number of school buildings, a common practice in the larger school districts with many separate facilities. Similarly, it is inconsequential that the supervisor for funded programs performed his assigned duties in various nonpublic schools scattered throughout the district. In both situations, the function was not narrowly building-based, but entailed wider responsibilities implicating the operation of the district as a whole.

Both Ms. Walsh and Ms. Cirasa present unusual circumstances which deserve special treatment. Ms. Walsh had the title of coordinator of substance abuse, which is not normally a supervisory position. Rather, a specific statute provides that, "[t]he position of substance awareness coordinator shall be separate and distinct from any other employment position in the district, including, but not limited to district guidance counselors, school social workers and school psychologists." N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18.(b). Anyone serving as a substance awareness coordinator must hold an educational services certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.5. Additionally, the statutory responsibilities of a substance awareness coordinator entail delivery of direct services, such as giving counseling services for students, serving as a resource for substance abuse information, and devising intervention strategies for substance abusers. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(c). Nonetheless, it appears without contradiction that Ms. Walsh exceeded the legitimate confines of her job title and was actually engaged in supervising other drug abuse counselors. Insofar as Ms. Walsh was working out-of-title in the role of a supervisor, the State district superintendent acted properly when he abolished her position.[9]

Unlike all the other petitioners, Ms. Cirasa does not have any certificate whatsoever. A teaching-staff member must possess the appropriate credentials or "certification" to achieve tenured status. Dennery v. Bd. of Educ., No. A-23/24 (N.J. April 8, 1993) (slip op. at 6); Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63 (1982). Accordingly, she has no tenure or seniority right to a supervisory position. Before the advent of the school takeover law, the Paterson school administration could have switched her to a nonsupervisory position at any time. Certainly the takeover law cannot be interpreted to confer on Ms. Cirasa any greater rights to a supervisory position than she would otherwise possess. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-36, prohibiting the appointment to any position "unless the person shall hold an appropriate certificate as prescribed by the State Board of Examiners."

In light of the ruling that petitioners have no legal entitlement to their former supervisory positions, it is unnecessary to consider the District's defense that Ms.

[9]Since substance awareness coordinator is not inherently a supervisory position, the preferable approach would have been to offer Ms. Walsh the opportunity to remain as a regular substance abuse counselor, at the reduced salary scale applicable to nonsupervisory work. But, at the worst, it was harmless error for the State district superintendent to offer her a lateral transfer to a guidance counselor position within the scope of her educational services certificate. Cf. Ellicott v. Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) (speech correctionist with dual endorsements on her educational services certificate entitled to employment as learning consultant).

Walsh and Ms. Cirasa knowingly and voluntarily waived their rights by resigning from employment.

Two issues raised by the Baldwin group petitioners, which go beyond the scope of the pleadings and prehearing order, will nevertheless be quickly laid to rest. At the same time that petitioners rely on their purportedly favorable evaluations, they simultaneously attack the validity of those evaluations which were prepared by outside consultants. Petitioners assert that under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-42(b) the State district superintendent may only delegate the evaluation task to "subordinate officers or employees in the district." It is difficult to imagine how petitioners suffered any harm when their evaluations were performed by independent evaluators rather than by subordinates of the individual accused of being biased against them. In any event, the State district superintendent has all the powers of the displaced board of education under the Public Schools Contracts Law, which includes the authority to enter into contracts for professional services. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35(d).

Petitioners contend that the reorganization of the central office was defective due to the failure to obtain the Commissioner's prior written consent. As support for this proposition, petitioners rely on N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-42(a) (3), which authorizes the State district superintendent to make all personnel determinations regarding employment, transfer and removal of officers and employees "subject to the approval of the commissioner or his designee." On its face, the language does not seem to require that the Commissioner give advance approval to every routine personnel determination in a State-operated district. More likely, the Commissioner has the option of disapproving any personnel decision or, as here, an aggrieved party may appeal an adverse action to the Commissioner for review. Even if advance approval is required, the statute does not require that it be done in writing. Uncontradicted proofs establish that Commissioner Ellis did in fact give his oral approval of the reorganization via telephone on February 3, 1992. Most importantly, however, the approval provision is inapplicable to the streamlined reorganization procedures at N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44, which mandated that petitioners' positions be automatically "abolished" by operation of law.

(2) Subject Matter Jurisdiction Over Federal Civil Rights Claims

Apart from the challenge to the meaning and coverage of the school takeover law itself, the Baldwin group also seeks to litigate in this forum various claims arising under assorted federal civil rights and antidiscrimination laws, namely the Civil Rights Act of 1871, 42 U.S.C.A. §1983, Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.A. §2000d, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 29 U.S.C.A. §§1681 to 88, and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, 29 U.S.C.A. §§ 621 to 634. Earlier, the same seven petitioners had filed similar charges against the District, alleging violations of federal civil rights law, with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC"). On February 29, 1993, the Area Director of the EEOC issued a determination in each case that "the evidence obtained does not support the Charging Party's allegations" and that "there is no reasonable cause to believe that there has been a violation of either of the statute(s)." Consequently, the EEOC closed its investigation, leaving the Charging Parties the option to "pursue this matter by filing a private suit against respondent."

Although N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35(h) obligates the State district superintendent to "ensure that the district is in compliance with all federal and State laws, rules and regulations relating to equal employment opportunities, affirmative action and minority business opportunities," that particular statute does not create a separate remedy or cause of action cognizable before the Department of Education or any other state administrative agency. Other than N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35(h), petitioners cite no federal or state statute said to confer jurisdiction on a state administrative agency to try the federal claims.

In general, state administrative agencies lack subject matter jurisdiction over federal civil rights actions. 14A C.J.S. §451 (1991). For instance, in Patzer v. Board of Regents, 763 F. 2D 851, 857 (7th Cir. 1985), the Court of Appeals noted that, "While it is an unsettled question whether state courts have jurisdiction over Title VII actions, . . . there is no doubt that state administrative agencies have no jurisdiction." (Emphasis added). New Jersey is one of the jurisdictions which allows its state courts to entertain suits brought under federal civil rights statutes. Peper v. Princeton Univ. Bd. of Trustees, 77 N.J. 55, 77 (1978) ("state courts have concurrent jurisdiction with federal courts over Title VII actions.") Administrative agencies, however, belong to the executive branch of government and do not necessarily exercise the same powers as "courts." In re Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 486 (App. Div. 1989), certif. den., 121 N.J. 615 (1990). Their adjudicative function "are actually an aspect of their regulatory powers and, in essence, do not embrace or constitute an exercise of judicial authority." In re Uniform Adm'v Procedure Rules, 90 N.J. 85, 93 (1982). Review of several leading New Jersey civil rights cases on appeal from state administrative agencies suggests that the inquiry is invariably framed in terms of state statutes. See, e.g., Balsey v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434 (1990); Jackson v. Concord Company, 54 N.J. 113 (1969); Gilchrist v. Bd. of Educ., 155 N.J. Super. 358 (App. Div. 1978). Further support for this result derives from Shepard v. Bd. of Educ., 207 F. Supp. 341 (D.N.J. 1962) where the federal district court in New Jersey referred a §1983 action to the Department of Education for exhaustion of administrative remedies available under state (not federal) law. Absent any statutory or case law authority for a state administrative agency to apply federal civil rights law, jurisdiction will not be presumed to exist.

Of course, a discriminatory practice made illegal under federal law may also be illegal under state law, permitting a state administrative agency to assert jurisdiction by applying its own law. Holt v. Continental Group, Inc., 631 F. Supp. 653, 657 (D. Conn. 1985), aff'd 788 F. 2d 3 (2d Cir. 1986), cert. den. 479 U.S. 839 (1986). Often New Jersey looks to analagous federal standards for guidance in interpreting state statutes and to promote uniformity in the law. Grigoletti v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 118 N.J. 89, 97 (1990); Peper, at 81.

(3) Need for Hearing on State Civil Rights Claims

It is well settled that the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the Division on Civil Rights have concurrent jurisdiction in discrimination cases concerning education. Hinfey v. Matawan Reg. Bd. of Educ., 77 N.J. 514 (1978). Accord, Balsey, 117 N.J. at 446. Here the Commissioner has the predominant interest because discrimination allegedly occurred in a public education setting. Allegations of employment discrimination based on race, age or gender raise potential violations of both the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-6, and the Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-4 and -12.

The classic statement of the standard to be used in resolving a motion for summary disposition was articulated in Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 73-77 (1954). When considering whether to grant the motion, the role of the judge is to determine whether there is a genuine issue as to a material fact, but not to decide the issue if he finds it to exist. A party opposing a motion is not to be denied a hearing unless the moving party sustains the burden of showing clearly the absence of a genuine issue of material fact. All inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant in favor of the opponent of the motion. The papers supporting the motion are closely scrutinized and the opposing papers are indulgently treated. And it is not to be concluded that palpably no genuine fact exists merely because the evidence opposing the claimed fact strikes the judge as being incredible. Particularly apt in the present circumstances is the following warning:

> . . . [W]here the subjective elements of willfulness, intent or good faith of the moving party are material to the claim or defense of the opposing party, a conclusion from the papers alone that palpably there exists no genuine issue of material fact will ordinarily be very difficult to sustain. The telltale factor of demeanor in the presence of the trier of fact often assumes such vital importance in such cases that the opposing party should generally not be denied the opportunity to have the moving party, or its officers, appear on the witness stand before the trier of fact. [Citations Omitted] Indeed, subjective elements aside, a note of caution has been sounded as to any case where the opposing party must prove his claim or defense from what he can draw from the other party. Judson, at 76.

Recently, in a civil rights case involving a claim of reverse discrimination, the Director of the Division on Civil Rights held that an administrative law judge had "improperly made credibility determinations and otherwise weighed the evidence" when he erroneously granted a motion to dismiss the complaint at the end of complainant's proofs. Hutchings v. Bridgeton Bd. of Educ., DKT. CRT 7954-89 (Civil Rights May 5, 1992). Remanding the matter for completion of the hearing, the Director ruled that the complainant had presented more than a scintilla of evidence on all elements of a prima facie case.

Without going into details now, the affidavits and other material submitted by petitioners here raise sufficient factual disputes and credibility questions to withstand the District's motion for summary disposition on this point. Suffice it to say that there is sworn evidence which, if believed, would support a finding that the District retained other supervisors with poorer performance evaluations while not rehiring petitioners; that some of petitioners had little personal contact with Dr.

Hoover who supposedly made observations of their effectiveness and productivity; that the decision not to hire petitioners was already made before they had any opportunity to respond to their evaluations; that Dr. Wilson has made public expressions of his desire to increase the number of minorities among the administrative staff; and that some of petitioners overheard ambiguous comments which might be perceived as indicative of bias. Taken together, these factors could conceivably give rise to an inference that the employment decisions were motivated by improper considerations.

Order

It is ORD ED that part summary decision is granted in favor of respondent, dismissing the petition of Gen ieve Cirasa.

And it is further ORDERED that summary decision is granted in favor of respondent, dismissing the petitions of the seven petitioners of the Baldwin group, except for claims brought under state civil rights and antidiscrimination statutes.

This order granting partial summary decision is being submitted under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(e) for immediate review. This recommended order may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make the final decision in this matte If the commissioner of the Department of education does not adopt, modify or ect this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this order was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions of Petitioner Cirasa and those of Petitioners Baldwin, Walsh, Huntington, Kayal, Kopcho, Rudnick, and Leopizzi (hereinafter referred to as the "Baldwin Group") were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. No exceptions were filed by the respondent District.

Petitioners' exceptions reiterate the arguments presented in their briefs in opposition to the District's summary judgment motion considered by the ALJ in reaching his initial decision. The Baldwin Group excepts, inter alia, to the ALJ's determination that their positions were "central administrative and supervisory staff" in nature and, thus, subject to elimination under the reorganization.

Exceptions further reassert Petitioner Cirasa and the Baldwin Group's claims that N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 mandates that decisions on who should be retained after reorganization be made on the basis of the specified evaluation process and continuation of the functions of the positions under reorganization. Petitioners allege that since they received positive summative evaluative ratings and their respective functions continue to be performed in the District, the District was obligated to rehire them to their positions.[1]

The Baldwin Group further excepts to the ALJ's determination that the Commissioner of Education does not have subject matter jurisdiction to decide its various claims arising under assorted federal civil rights and antidiscrimination laws, and cites cases which it asserts support its contention that the Commissioner is obligated to decide these issues.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds the exceptions advanced by petitioners to be without merit and hereby adopts as her own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ in his initial decision.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's determination that all of the petitioners occupied "central administrative and supervisory staff" positions which were abolished as a result of the reorganization for the reasons clearly articulated in the initial decision. She also noted with interest that the record establishes that petitioners were notified in November 1991 that each of their respective positions was subject to abolishment under the reorganization yet none of them challenged or protested their inclusion as "central administrative or supervisory staff" until months later when the evaluation process had been completed and the decision made not to rehire them.

[1] Exceptions of Petitioner Cirasa additionally objected to the ALJ's conclusion that she had no right to tenure in a supervisory position because she has no supervisory certification. Petitioner asserts that the fact that she could not gain tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 due to a lack of certification does not mean that her tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 did not extend to the position she held. It is here noted that, from the record, the Commissioner makes no judgment as to whether Petitioner Cirasa is tenured as such determination is immaterial to the disposition of this matter.

The Commissioner finds petitioners' claim to an "entitlement" to their prior positions under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 by virtue of the fact that they received positive summative evaluative ratings and the fact that the duties of their positions continued under reorganization to be fallacious. She determines that the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 is permissive rather than mandatory with respect to the rehiring of individuals displaced in reorganization and accepts the ALJ's well-stated analysis of this statutory provision:

> Staff members subject to this provision are not precluded from consideration in filling vacancies. Thus, subsection (c) of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44 continues: "The State district superintendent may hire an individual whose position is so abolished, based upon the evaluation of the individual and the staffing needs of the reorganized district staff." But such person has no legal entitlement to be hired in a central administrative or supervisory capacity.
> (ALJ's Initial Decision, at pp. 13-14)

The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's determination that she does not possess subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate the Baldwin Group's various federal civil rights and antidiscrimination claims for the reasons outlined by him in the initial decision at pages 20-21, and finds the petitioner's exception submissions to the contrary unpersuasive in this regard. She does, however, also agree with the ALJ's finding that affidavits and other material submitted by petitioners raise certain factual disputes and credibility questions regarding alleged violations of New Jersey antidiscrimination laws, subject matter which is within the concurrent purview of the Commissioner of Education and the Director of Division on Civil Rights, which precludes the disposition of these issues by summary decision.

Accordingly for the reasons set forth in the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, the Commissioner dismisses the petition of Genevieve Cirasa. Further, she dismisses the petitions of the seven Baldwin Group petitioners except for their claims brought under State civil rights and antidiscrimination statutes.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NORTH WARREN REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, WARREN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

Petitioning parents challenged "short-term" suspension of their son G.H. for conduct endangering students' safety and welfare and striking a teacher at school function. Petitioners contended G.H. was denied procedural due process prior to suspension.

Following consideration of testimony and evidence, ALJ concluded matter was properly handled by school administration and G.H. was fully accorded his due process rights to be given notice of charges, to have evidence of involvement and to have opportunity to explain as required by Goss. Thus, suspension was properly imposed. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Record Closed: April 20, 1993 Decided: May 14, 1993

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

F. H. and S. H., parents of G. H., have alleged that on May 19, 1992, G. H. was suspended by North Warren Regional High School, Warren County, Board of Education, for nine days out of school for "conduct constituting a danger to the physical well-being of other pupils, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2, and striking a teacher in the face, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1," and suspended from attending school activities until January 3, 1993. The conduct was alleged to have occurred May 15, 1992 while G. H. was attending a school function in the auditorium. The suspension, a so-called "short-term" suspension pursuant to Section 528 of Board policy, was imposed, it was alleged, without benefit of procedural due process of law in that G. H. was denied opportunity to respond to charges against him, to present his version of the event or to explain content of a video tape made of the scene and later considered by the Board. In a petition of appeal filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on June 15, 1992, petitioners sought judgment requiring G. H. be afforded a proper due process hearing to explain his response to allegations, vacating the order of suspension, expunging G. H.'s student file of all letters of reprimand, and requiring the Board to investigate conduct of a teacher involved in the incident. In answer filed by the Board on June 25, 1992, the sequence of events was generally admitted, but failure to provide informal due process hearings was specifically denied; the Board sought dismissal of petition. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on July 1, 1992 for hearing and determination as a contested case in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq.

The matter came on for prehearing conference on September 11, 1992. An order was entered establishing, inter alia, hearing dates on January 19, 20, and 22, 1993, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark.

The order specified these issues:

1. Whether an appropriate Goss hearing (Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 581 (1975)) was conducted and G. H. afforded his constitutional rights of due process of law;

2. If not, whether a new Goss hearing should thereupon be conducted by a district designee; and

3. If yes, whether the suspension of G. H. as imposed was properly based on evidence of an alleged assault, assuming Board decision hereinbelow carried a presumption of correctness and validity and/or, in that case, whether the matter should be remanded to the Board for reconsideration.

It was stipulated G. H. no longer attends school in the district.

Hearings scheduled on January 19, 20, and 22, 1993 were continued on March 2 and 16, 1993, when testimony was completed. Thereafter, time for posthearing submissions having elapsed, the record closed on April 20, 1993. See, Rm-2 by Board; there was none filed by petitioners.

Application by the Board by motion for imposition of costs against petitioners' attorney for non-appearance without notice on January 19, 20, and 22, 1993 was considered by the administrative law judge and is subject of a separate written ruling. See, Rm-1; as to it, there was no response by petitioners' attorney.

EVIDENCE AT HEARING

I

Called by petitioners, Jeanette Bennett, a teacher of biology and environmental science employed at the high school since 1986, was asked about prior training in matters of student discipline. She replied she had been trained in such matters in workshops and in graduate school. The event of May 15, 1992, a "battle of bands," was advertised, she said, as a concert for students in which student bands, each playing 30-minute segments, competed. Door prize was one-third of the gate; the event was held in the auditorium of the high school. Participants were required to submit a list of songs first to ensure no offensive lyrics were presented. The concert would feature "heavy metal" music, that is, music loud with percussion and heavy guitars, often to a fast beat. She was not specifically made aware, however, she said, bands would be playing "heavy metal." During a rehearsal, she said, she did not hear such music but did hear "hard rock." The event provided for five chaperones: three male teachers and three female teachers. Though no professional security personnel were contracted for, she said, routine for such events had a municipal policeman hired. About 300 students, with some adults, attended.

The incident occurred at 7:45 p.m. With another teacher chaperone, Sally Long, Bennett was standing at the rear when she saw some students in the first eight rows of the auditorium move into forward rows. As she stood up, music tempo changed. As she came forward, about five students from the second row jumped over backs of auditorium seats onto other students on the floor at the front row. Bennett tried to stop them; she was tripped. The students began to "mosh," a form of slow dancing, in which bodies were thrown into each other from side to side. As Bennett yelled to stop the activity, other students jumped up and ran forward. Bennett began pulling them off backs of students, all boys, by their shirts. One such student was G. H. He and others had just jumped on the pile of students on the floor. As she grabbed his shirt, she said, G. H. turned around and hit her with the back of his right hand on the right side of her face. She was not wearing glasses. The blow was hard. She knew G. H. by name and thought he knew hers. As another chaperone came up, she said to G. H. "If you don't stop pulling and flailing your arms, and if you hit me again, I'll hit you back." With help of other chaperones, G. H. was taken away. Bennett's leg was hurt when she was tripped by another student before G. H. hit her. Bennett went to the stage and from there cautioned the crowd. The concert resumed and ended about 11 p.m.

A parent in attendance on the first aid squad helped Bennett clean a bloody cut on her knee and put ice on her swollen face.

Bennett said when G. H. hit her, she felt in physical danger; his arms and elbows were flailing. Students in the pile were screaming for those on top to "get off." Several students were asked to leave the auditorium that night because of their insubordination.

Bennett met with G. H.'s parents the morning of May 19, and with Rodney R. Rufe, vice principal in charge of discipline. G. H. was present at part of the meeting, entering after it began, when he was sent for as arranged by Rufe. She was given a note from G. H. (P-1), handed to her then without other explanation:

> May 18, 1992. Dear Mrs. Bennett, I am sorry for inadvertently hitting you during the battle of the bands. Before I end this apology note, I would like to clear my name by reassuring you that I never intended to hit you or anyone else. [Signed] G. H. and S. M. H.

During cross-examination, Bennett revealed further she had taken seminars on student confrontations and had chaperoned concerts and dances before. She was senior class advisor. The event on May 15 was a senior class fund-raiser, proctored by five teacher chaperones, attended by several other teachers and some 20 to 30 parents. Senior class members assisted with tickets, refreshments and acted as door persons. Though four chaperones were paid, she said, she herself was not paid. In past years, the same sort of function was run in the same way, featuring loud rock and roll music and proctored by four chaperones. No dancing was ever permitted before or on this occasion.

Later, in presence of a policeman, Sgt. John Cramer, G. H. said in Bennett's presence (then in the furnace room) to Cramer that even if he, Cramer, had pulled him, G. H. would have hit out as he did upon Bennett. In effect, she said, G. H. admitted he hit her and intended to do so.

She said she considered filing juvenile charges against G. H. when the sergeant inquired but later decided after consultation with administrators and advisors not to do so.

She reported the incident in writing to the vice principal the following Sunday, May 17, and met with him on Monday morning, May 18. She then met with G. H.'s parents on May 19 at the high school in the vice principal's office. G. H. came in later, as he was then in class. She explained what happened; the vice principal said he had explained the situation to the parents.

Called by petitioners, Rodney R. Rufe, vice principal, testified he has been employed by the Board for 22 years. He is in charge of discipline. After events of May 15, and after his investigation, he initiated disciplinary procedures and potential student sanction that culminated in his letter to G. H.'s parents on May 19 imposing a nine-day suspension "pending further investigation." P-2. He said he first learned of the incident from teacher Dolan on May 15; Bennett reported to him on Sunday, May 17. He contacted the parents by phone on Monday, May 18, to tell them G. H. was involved in the Friday night incident and to caution that discipline would be invoked. He asked them for a conference that took place on Tuesday morning, May 19, at the school, when he explained the "moshing" incident and the circumstance of G. H.'s striking a teacher. He asked G. H. be present. He had an earlier meeting with G. H. on Monday, May 18, he said, to tell him the precise charge: that according to Rufe's information, G. H. was involved in a situation with other students that endangered their safety and welfare. He was told of the other charge of striking a teacher. Rufe asked G. H. for a reply but, he said, G. H. said he didn't remember and seemed puzzled. He left the room and Rufe called his parents. Rufe's meeting with G. H. lasted about 15 or 20 minutes. The suspension was imposed later. A video tape was reviewed by the parents later, Rufe said. Again, he said he specifically informed the parents orally what the charges were and why G. H. was to be suspended: for endangering safety of others, five days and for striking a teacher, four days, a total of nine days. Rufe told the parents they could appeal to the principal. They did and were given a reply. See, R-2. The parents appeared before the Board of Education on Tuesday, May 26, at its night meeting; the Board itself reviewed the videotape and investigation reports before speaking to parents.

The Board voted to affirm the suspension as imposed.

On cross-examination [by the Board], Rufe noted he had been vice principal/disciplinarian for 11 years. He indicated again he met and interviewed the chaperones, Bennett and Dolan, and discussed the matter in depth with Bennett. Other students involved in the situation were identified; a list was made; other teachers were interviewed preparatory to preferring charges against other students for use of profanity and endangering safety. Rufe again noted he explained fully the two charges against G. H. when he came to his office. He asked specifically if G. H. wished to respond. He said G. H. disagreed with the charge of endangerment, saying he was just "dancing" as were the other students. Rufe said G. H. knew he was accused of hitting Bennett but he had no response. Rufe suggested he should give the matter more thought. He also reminded G. H. he had admitted his complicity to Sgt. Cramer, but G. H. had no response to that. Rufe informed him it was a serious matter and thought an apology at least was in order. G. H.'s response then was non-committal. It was at this juncture Rufe called the parents and spoke to the mother. G. H.'s involvement was explained and a conference for the next day, May 19, was set.

Born April 18, 1976, G. H. is 17 years old. He no longer attends North Warren Regional High School. He attends Notre Dame High School, a parochial school in East Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, as a commuter. He testified the program began in the school auditorium about 7:30 or 8:00 p.m., when bands played "heavy metal," a fast, heavy, hard-driving drum beat. "Moshing" is usually done, he said, by slamming into one another, just for fun and not to harm. He had done this before at school dances, he said, when chaperoning teachers did not stop it. He was with three other friends and went outside during change of bands. Someone said "We're going to mosh." About 15 students seated at the front stood up and began to slam into each other. It was all in good fun, he said. He joined in and at one time was on the bottom as people piled on and off. No one told them to stop, he said.

The next thing G. H. knew, he said, was that someone grabbed him from behind by the scruff of his neck and swung him around. He said he did not know who. He said he was not flailing his arms wildly. He was pulled around and Bennett was right in his face. She waived her fist in his face, he said. He asked, "What did I do?" She replied, "You hit me." He said he did not respond. He added these phrases in his testimony: "I don't think I hit her" and "I don't recall if I hit her." He was told first to sit in the rear of the auditorium for 15 minutes. He was brought to another room where Bennett said to another teacher that he was the one who hit her. He replied, "I didn't." He said she seemed hurt. Sgt. Cramer came into the room; to him, he denied he hit Bennett and said if he did, he did not intend to hit her.

On Monday, May 18, in study hall, G. H. said to vice principal Rufe that as far as he knew, he did not hit Bennett. He conceded he knew was in trouble.

On May 19, he and his parents met with Rufe. He was asked to wait outside for 15 minutes and then returned. His parents told him to get an apology note from their car, a note he had written the night before. P-1. He handed the note to Bennett and said, "Sorry." He said she replied, "Thanks." He said no one discussed the charges against him. He said he received nothing in writing concerning the charges, did not review a videotape and was asked no questions. He did not appear himself before the Board of Education the following week.

G. H. is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weights 135 pounds. Bennett is about 5 feet tall, he said.

He admitted "mosh" dancing could be dangerous.

S. H., G. H.'s mother, in testimony said she was first informed of her son's suspension on Monday, May 18, about 3:30 p.m. when called by her husband at home. He had received a call from vice principal Rufe, who told him his son was being suspended for a situation that occurred the previous Friday night when G. H. was said to have hit a teacher. The mother then called the high school and spoke to the vice principal's secretary to fix an appointment for the following morning. She conceded Rufe had indicated to her husband the matter was serious. On Tuesday, May 19, about 8 a.m., she and her husband met Rufe in his office. They reviewed a video tape of the so-called "battle of the bands"; without any sound, it showed students dancing around and jumping. Bennett told them G. H. had hit her as she was trying to stop "mosh" dancing, when she tried to pull him and another student from the pile. The mother said she was appalled at her son's conduct at the time. The vice principal explained a suspension of nine days was in order.

The parents received Rufe's formal letter of May 19 (P-2) the next day. They called Rufe questioning the wording because, as she said, the letter did not say the hitting was inadvertent or accidental and the parents were worried about his school record. They went to school on May 26, prior to the Board meeting. They questioned Rufe about the apparent disparity in lengths of suspensions imposed upon their son and other students involved in the melee. The mother inquired why there were no administrators or police present at the concert, why Bennett pulled G. H. across the stage, why she clenched her fist, why another boy was not suspended, and whether she could then speak to the superintendent of schools. She did so the next day. She sought to get a copy of school policy regarding discipline but conceded she had a copy of a student handbook issued to all students each year. She appeared before the Board of Education on Tuesday, May 27, about 7:30 p.m. with her husband and parents of other students. They were asked if they wanted individual hearings, but those parents concerned agreed to be heard as a group and went into another room.

The concerns of the parents after interview with Rufe were answered by the principal's letter (Jack D. Sweet), dated May 26, which is R-2 in evidence.

Petitioners rested.

II

Called by the Board, John Cramer testified he has been employed by Blairstown Police Department for 15 years and is a detective sergeant. On Friday, May 15, then assigned to an evening duty shift, he received a call for assistance from North Warren High School about 8:46 p.m. There had been an incident, he was told by a teacher, and students were milling about inside a hall next to the auditorium, students the teacher had ousted from the auditorium who were trying to get back in. At the time he responded the incident was over, he said; the scene had settled down. He spoke to Bennett and identified some of the students involved, one of whom was G. H. He was told by Bennett that G. H. had been in a "moshing" incident and had struck her in the face. He spoke both to G. H. and Bennett in the custodian's room. G. H. said, "Looks like I'm in trouble now." They discussed what occurred; G. H. admitting he was "involved." He said he felt someone grab him and that he intended to strike whoever it was who grabbed him. Cramer asked, "What if that person were a police officer?" G. H. said "I would have been in bigger trouble." He asked whether Bennett wanted to press charges; she replied she would defer decision until talking with administration. He told G. H. if the charges were filed, he would have to appear in juvenile court. No charges were ultimately filed.

DISCUSSION

Principal focus of this matter is petitioners' assertion G. H.'s suspension was not only wrong but attended by the Board's failure to afford him "a proper due process hearing to explain his response to the allegations." See, petition at 4. The alleged denial of due process before sanction of suspension has been termed denial of a right to a Goss hearing. As argued by the Board, the Supreme Court of the United States has held that a student has a property interest in a public education that is protected by the Constitution's due process clause and, as a result, a student may not be denied that property interest without compliance with minimum due process procedures. In Goss v. Lopez, 419 U.S. 565, 582, 95 S.Ct. 729, 740 (1975), the court differentiated between suspensions of long and short terms. Those of ten days or less are known as short-term suspensions; those involving more than ten days and expulsions are known as long-term sanctions. Involved here is the sanction imposed by North Warren Regional High School of G. H.'s nine-day suspension, five days for engaging in dangerous slam dancing, four days for striking a teacher. The sanction was thus short-term. Minimum due process requirements for such suspensions are (1) the student be given oral or written notice of charges against him; (2) if the student denies the charges, he is entitled to an explanation of the evidence that forms the basis for them; and (3) the student is to be given opportunity to present his side of the story. Id. at 581, 95 S.Ct. at 740. The court said that in a practical sense such procedures require the school disciplinarian informally to discuss the allegations of misconduct with the student shortly after occurrence. The court emphasized a student is not entitled to a formal adversarial trial-type proceeding because the burden on school officials would be educationally onerous. The student or parents as his agents should be given opportunity to explain or extenuate the charges. New Jersey school law has recognized implications of Goss and has had occasion in the past to underscore student rights to due process. See, Tibbs v. Board of Ed., Franklin Township, 59 N.J. 506 (1971), affirming 114 N.J. Super. 287 (App. Div. 1970); and see, most recently, decision of the Commissioner in R. W. v. Board of Ed., Hunterdon Central Regional High School, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 113, 114-5 (December 17, 1992) (suspension procedure reviewed and approved).

Sequence of events in the matter was not seriously challenged. G. H. attended a school auditorium concert on May 15, engaged with others in proscribed slam dancing during the concert and stuck a teacher in the face when she attempted to pull him from a pile of student bodies. Confronted by the teacher and a police officer after the melee subsided, he admitted his activity and the striking of the teacher. After the teacher's report to school administrators, the parents were called, informed of potential suspension, invited to an interview, and given results of the school disciplinarian's investigation the following Tuesday. In the meantime, G. H., knowing full well the nature of accusations against him, prepared and presented in his own handwriting a letter of apology significant more for its acknowledgment of notice than for its seemingly apologetic tone. The following week the parents met with the school Board individually and with other parents in a group. Their questions were answered by the principal's letter on May 26.

Any assertion the notice and process afforded G. H. was less than his due is a proposition that falls of its own weight. The evidential case put forward by petitioners, indeed, was less a complaint the process was not fair than that G. H. was singled out for punishment while others went unpunished, that the teacher herself was an aggressor, that the entire school affair was poorly administered and that G. H.'s only culpability was for an inadvertence. The case for petitioners was thus characterized by recrimination and was but poorly served by G. H.'s testimonial equivocation.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE the entire school matter was properly handled by school administration and that G. H. was fully accorded his due process rights to be given notice of charges against him, to know evidence of involvement and to have opportunity to explain it, as required by Goss. He and his parents as agents were fully and fairly apprised of circumstances supporting the charges; the suspension that resulted was thus properly imposed. Their claim for vacating the order of suspension, for expungement of student records, for an order requiring the Board to "investigate the conduct" of a teacher, and for all other forms of related relief is DENIED. Board action is SUSTAINED. The petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NORTH WARREN REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, WARREN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Although petitioners filed exceptions, they were untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Moreover, because petitioners were represented by counsel at the hearing and have not applied for a change of representation, such exceptions are not made a part of the Commissioner's review of this case.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner fully supports the ALJ's findings of fact and conclusions of law which establish that G.H. was accorded his due process rights under the circumstances of this matter and that the incident which formed the basis of the appeal was properly handled by school administration.

Accordingly, the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

A.W. AND S.W. ON BEHALF OF THEIR MINOR CHILD D.M.H., PETITIONERS, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

For Petitioners, Abraham Weldon, Pro Se
For Respondent, Robert Martinez, Esq. (Martinez and Jennings)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner by way of a petition of appeal with request for emergent relief filed on June 18, 1993, wherein petitioners sought a determination that their daughter be allowed to participate in graduation exercises pending resolution of an underlying dispute regarding grant of her diploma, such dispute being based on the respondent school district's inability to obtain transcripts of ninth grade work completed in a nonpublic school. It is undisputed that D.M.H. has otherwise met requirements for graduation.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, the Commissioner designated Assistant Commissioner Elena Scambio to decide this matter in her stead, and a hearing was conducted via telephonic conference on June 21, 1993.

Upon consideration of the information obtained from the parties during the telephonic hearing, the Assistant Commissioner, with the agreement of the acting superintendent, Joan McAndrew, determined that (1) D.M.H. shall attend graduation on June 22, 1993, (2) Dr. Scambio will contact the nonpublic school in Philadelphia in an effort to obtain verbal verification of D.M.H.'s successful completion of ninth grade and

(3) if such contact by Dr. Scambio is unsuccessful, D.M.H. will be granted a diploma given that she has met all the state requirements for graduation, including those for high school proficiency testing.

Accordingly, no further proceedings in this matter need be scheduled as the issues have been amicably resolved between the parties.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF SHARON FEINSOD, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF : DECISION LINDEN, UNION COUNTY. :

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent, English teacher with over 20 years of unblemished service, based on several alleged incidents involving inappropriate comments to students and one alleged incident involving a student forced to kneel.

Having considered the testimony of witnesses and evidence in record, ALJ found respondent's conduct in several instances was sufficiently unprofessional and inappropriate to be considered unbecoming, but did not warrant dismissal. ALJ found corporal punishment as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 did not occur in kneeling incident which did not involve force or intent to harm and instead reflected gross insensitivity to student. ALJ recommended penalty of permanent forfeiture of 120 days salary withheld, withholding of subsequent year's increments, and participation in program of professional development and training.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1157-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 14-1/92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF SHARON FEINSOD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF LINDEN, UNION COUNTY.

Howard Schwartz, Esq., for petitioner Linden Board of Education
(Schwartz & Barkin, attorneys)

Richard A. Friedman, Esq., for respondent Sharon Feinsod
(Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 9, 1993 Decided: May 24, 1993

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

This matter concerns tenure charges brought against the respondent, Sharon Feinsod, which were certified by Anthony Del Sordi, the Secretary of the Board of Education of the City of Linden on January 16, 1992. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case on February 13, 1992 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing was held in the matter on June 18, 1992 and a settlement conference was set down for August 3, 1992. As the matter was not settled, hearing dates were given for October 8, 14, 15, 19, and 22, 1992. Of those dates the October 8, 1992 date was adjourned due to illness of the undersigned. The matter actually was heard over a period of dates that exceeded those originally scheduled. Hearings were held on the following days: October 14, 15, 19 and 22, 1992 as well as December 1 and 3, 1992. At the close of the hearings the record was left open for briefs to be filed by the parties. The original schedule had briefs being filed on January 19, 1993 with any response necessary to be filed by January 27, 1993. The parties jointly requested an extension of the time to file to February 2, 1993 with any response necessary by February 9, 1993.

After receipt of the briefs, the undersigned requested additional information which had not been included, although requested, from one of the parties. A new posthearing submission schedule was entered into. The respondent's supplementary brief was to be received on or before March 29, 1993 and the petitioner was given until April 9, 1993 for any response that was believed to be necessary. On April 9, 1993 the record closed.

ISSUES

The question in this case is whether or not the charges brought against Sharon Feinsod, a tenured teacher, employed by the City of Linden Board of Education in Union County, can be sustained. Should those charges be sustained, the question then turns to whether or not there is some mitigating or excusing factor with respect to those charges, which would make the penalty less than the requested termination.

The charges as outlined in the statement of charges are found in P-1 in evidence. It should be noted that although there are twenty-three paragraphs along with a concluding generic paragraph involved in the statement of charges, Ms. Feinsod is essentially being charged with conduct which is unprofessional, does not demonstrate good behavior and is unbecoming a teaching staff member. The other paragraphs of the charges are essentially specifications of the individual incidents which the Board alleges support the conclusion that Ms. Feinsod had engaged in conduct which is unprofessional and unbecoming.

During the course of the hearing paragraphs fourteen and twenty-three were dismissed from the specifications. Also in posthearing submissions the petitioner board of education, upon careful review of the testimony acknowledged that there was no supporting evidence of charge number twenty-two in the statement of charges and therefore requested that it be withdrawn. That request has been granted.

Dismissal is sought by the Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

STIPULATED FACTS

Prior to the onset of the hearings both sides entered into a number of stipulated facts (J-1). Both sides agree the following to be fact:

1. Respondent graduated from Weequahic High School, Newark, New Jersey in 1966.

2. Respondent received a Bachelor of Arts in English from American University, Washington, D.C. in March 1970.

3. In 1974, respondent received an M.A. in Humanities from Kean College, Union, New Jersey.

4. Respondent has completed thirty-two credits above her Masters at Montclair State College, in administrative curriculum development.

5. Respondent holds the following certifications and licenses from the New Jersey Board of Examiners:

   a. Secondary English
   b. Speech Arts
   c. Drama
   d. Principalship and Supervisor of Instruction

6. Respondent has been employed by the Linden Board of Education from September 1970 to date.

7. Respondent took a maternity leave during September 1, 1975 through June 30, 1976 and from April 30, 1979 through June 30, 1979.

8. Respondent took a sabbatical during the 1982-83 school year.

9. Respondent was suspended without pay as of January 16, 1992. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, respondent began to receive her pay on the 121st day after said date. Respondent collected unemployment benefits during the first 120 days of her suspension.

These facts having been stipulated to by the parties, I FIND to be operational facts in this case.

TESTIMONY

Before dealing with the testimony of the individual witnesses it should be pointed out that many of the actions or "incidents" are not disputed as having occurred. The dispute arises over whether or not they are serious or even noteworthy or whether they are things which occur in the normal course of teaching. Essentially, this is a case of varied perception from witness to witness.

The first witness to testify was Alvin Coplan who has been the assistant superintendent at the Linden Board of Education for the previous ten years although he has worked for the board of education for 42 years. He is acquainted with Sharon Feinsod. During the time that the investigation into the tenure charges took place the superintendent was Thomas W. Long. Mr. Long disqualified himself from having anything to do with the charges or the investigation. Mr. Coplan went through what had been told him regarding each of the individual charges in the case and what statements had been given him. His testimony is not set out here at length due to the fact that his knowledge came from statements from other individuals. He had no personal knowledge of the events which are being charged. He did however acknowledge that after an alleged incident with L.M. which he became aware of, he generated a memo (R-2, Ev.) indicating that it would be in the best interests of all concerned that the respondent avoid any contact, whatsoever, with L.M. It also indicated that L.M. would receive English instruction through other means until further notice.

L.M. also testified during the hearing. She was 12 years old and at the time of the alleged incident was in the seventh grade in Ms. Feinsod's English class.

She stated that on November 13, 1991 Ms. Feinsod read a number of grades out loud to people in the class and told people how they were doing. According to L.M. she stated, "Miskie, failing, failing, failing." L.M. spoke with her friends and told her parents. It should be noted that Miskie is not the student's entire last name, and is being used here only in the context of the quotation of what was said during the incident according to the witness.

Her parents later went down to speak to Mr. Parker at the school.

L.M. stated that Ms. Feinsod had called her "Miskie" before, at which time she had asked Ms. Feinsod to call her by her right name. She indicated that this occurred on two or three occasions. According to her Ms. Feinsod said that that's the name she had called L.M.'s sister a number of years before.

On November 14, 1991 L.M. was in homeroom in Mr. Sullivan's class when Ms. Feinsod took her out to the hall and spoke with her. L.M. characterized the tone of voice as yelling. She was told to follow Ms. Feinsod to the classroom and told to kneel behind the desk, although she was visible to the members of the class as far as both her head and feet went.

L.M. stated that she started to cry at which point Ms. Feinsod asked, "What's the matter did someone in your family die?" L.M. testified rather emotionally that she thought of her grandfather who had died and was extremely upset by the comment.

She was then told to get her books from Mr. Sullivan's room. She then went back into Ms. Feinsod's room and was once again kneeling. The bell rang and the first period students came in and L.M. was still in the same position. She stated that several children came up to speak to Ms. Feinsod who said that she couldn't speak with them because she was having a conference. According to L.M. after the bell rang she asked to go to class and was told that she could not by Ms. Feinsod who placed her hand on L.M. shoulder. L.M. indicated that she did not feel free to leave. She stated that Ms. Feinsod was "hovering" over her. L.M. left the classroom eight minutes before the bell rang again at the end of class.

The witness stated that at one point Ms. Feinsod asked if she wanted to go home. Then she further said that she was not going to.

After the incident L.M. went on to her next class. She then told her friend Jennifer what had occurred and also told her parents on the same day.

According to her Ms. Feinsod also said "there's only two ways to go through life with or without a sense of humor." The witness stated that she is afraid of Ms. Feinsod. After this incident L.M. never went back to her class.

The witness did go to school in December and went to the nurse's office during third period. While she was lying on a cot furthest from the door Ms. Feinsod came in and gave her what she referred to as a nasty look. Ms. Feinsod then asked the nurse to use the phone.

L.M. related another incident in which she was doing paper work at the principal's office and Ms. Feinsod came in. At that point Ms. Black who works in the office sent L.M. on an errand. She went back to the office and Ms. Feinsod was there a second time. At that point she went to the library and does not know where Ms. Feinsod went.

The witness testified on cross-examination that during the November 14, 1991 incident, some of the children who had come close to the desk could hear the conversation between herself and Ms. Feinsod although some could not. She indicated that she spoke to Becky and Jan at lunch and thinks that she might have spoken with M.S. that night.

L.M. indicated that she had received a progress report which indicated a borderline fail from Ms. Feinsod and had failed important tests and quizzes during the semester. She also received several progress reports in other areas. She spoke with her mother in mid-October after the progress reports had been issued about her mother having a lot of meetings. Her mother responded that she would cut the meetings down in order to help her daughter with her homework. L.M. stated that for a progress report in science and social studies she was told she could not use the phone. The witness's mother teaches language arts and would get upset with her grades.

L.M. recounted having had a conversation with her mother in which her mother stated that the respondent "sounds like a real asshole." This occurred before the November 14, 1991 incident.

Joseph S. Placa also testified during the hearing. He is the principal at McManus School and has been so since 1979. He is acquainted with Ms. Feinsod who has been assigned to that building since then. He also knows Mrs. M. and L.M. Mr. Placa testified regarding the phone call that was made from the nurse's office by Ms. Feinsod on December 5, 1991 and indicated that the faculty is not supposed to use the nurse's phone and it is only for the nurse's use. He produced a memo (P-10) which was an informal observation indicating that Ms. Feinsod was late to a "common prep" conference due to her use of the phone at that time. That particular memo had a response written by Ms. Feinsod in which she stated that there was no common prep period held on 12/5/91. She also indicated in the memo that she was not aware that the nurse's phone could not be used by faculty members.

Mr. Placa stated that on November 14, 1991 he saw Ms. Feinsod and told her that L.M.'s parents might come in to meet with them to have a parental conference. He had seen Mr. Long on the morning of November 14, but that was the day that Mr. Long disqualified himself and Mr. Coplan took over looking into the matter. Mr. M. however, did not wish to meet with Ms. Feinsod. A meeting was arranged with Mr. Coplan, the witness, Ms. Feinsod and possibly Ms. Black at which time Ms. Feinsod was asked what had happened regarding L.M. The witness stated that Ms. Feinsod agreed that she had asked L.M. to kneel because she wanted privacy to talk over the incident which was alleged to have occurred on November 13, 1991.

This witness also met with M.S.'s parents because of a problem that she had experienced with Ms. Feinsod. As a result of the problem which had occurred M.S. refused to go back to class and indicated she was frightened of Ms. Feinsod.

T.W., a student at the school who knows L.M. also testified. He indicated that during the "kneeling incident" he was in Ms. Feinsod's classroom during the study hall first period and saw L.M. there. According to him she was next to Ms. Feinsod kneeling near the file cabinet and he was able to see her from his seat. He was able to see her face partially and noted that she was not smiling. She was in the room for approximately 43 to 45 minutes and left 10 or 15 minutes before the end of the period. He was able to observe L.M. crying and Ms. Feinsod talking to her.

He acknowledged that he did not see L.M. try to get up but he did see Ms. Feinsod place her hand on L.M.'s shoulder.

The witness stated that he heard Ms. Feinsod ask L.M. if she would like to go home and then said, "You can't."

According to the witness L.M. was already kneeling in that position when he arrived at the classroom. He was unable to remember how long she cried but did state that Ms. Feinsod spoke loudly to her.

Deposition testimony was also taken and put in evidence of students M.D. and M.P. M.D. testified that he did observe L.M. kneeling next to Ms. Feinsod's desk during the study hall on November 14, 1991. He was seated in the middle of the classroom and was approximately 10 to 15 feet from her desk. He observed L.M. on her knees but was not able to hear anything that Ms. Feinsod said to L.M. He admitted that he did not observe them through the entire class. He did not recall seeing L.M. cry although he acknowledged that her face was red but was unable to distinguish whether it was due to crying or embarrassment.

M.P. stated by way of deposition that she too was in the study hall on November 14, 1991 and observed approximately that which was described by M.D. regarding L.M. kneeling next to Ms. Feinsod's desk. She was unable to hear or make out any conversation between the two of them. She did recall that L.M. was crying but did not know for how long a period of time it went on.

M.S. was the next witness to testify. She is one of the children listed as being the object of improper behavior on the part of Ms. Feinsod in addtion to L.M.

M.S. testified that she had been in Ms. Feinsod's English class in November 1991. There came a time on a particular day during fifth period when she went to her locker and Ms. Feinsod pulled her over and told her that she was not doing well in class. Ms. Feinsod later asked her up to the desk and told her that she got a D and said that her test average was 66. M.S. was upset about this. She was trying to talk with Ms. Feinsod and was crying. Ms. Feinsod told her to go to homeroom and stop crying. When she arrived at her homeroom the teacher asked what was wrong. Someone later came to get her with a pass and brought her back to Ms. Feinsod's class. Ms. Feinsod said she was missing vocabulary pages and M.S. went to her locker to get the book. Ms. Feinsod told M.S. to stop crying and asked what was the matter with her. Ms. Feinsod finally called Ms. Amabile and said to M.S., "I need a witness." During this period of time M.S. stated she was crying and was making strange sounds. Ms. Amabile put her arm around the child to comfort her. Ms. Feinsod asked what was wrong.

M.S. also testified that Ms. Feinsod told her that whatever was said in that room should not leave that room.

M.S. had never received a progress report and believed she had good test grades. She stated that Ms. Feinsod told her that she might "up" the grade to a C but that for now M.S. would have to "eat it."

She and Ms. Feinsod along with Ms. Amabile went into a storage room to have a conversation. She was still crying in the storage room although she was never asked if she wished to go either to see the school nurse or to talk with Ms. Feinsod at a later date.

M.S. went home and later told her parents what had occurred. They subsequently wrote a letter to Mr. Placa complaining of the incident. M.S. testified that she was too scared to go back to her class.

She stated that she and L.M. are in the same English class and that at some point L.M. told her about the kneeling incident after M.S. told L.M. about the incident involving the conversation with Ms. Feinsod.

On cross-examination L.M. stated that she never asked if she could terminate what was going on during the conversation or go to the nurse's office. She did state that she was crying and was told that crying would not help her.

M.S. stated that while they were in the storage room she was hyperventilating and making strange noises that Ms. Feinsod indicated were scaring her. She did acknowledge that Ms. Feinsod never actually threatened her or threatened to punish her and she did not think that anything like that would occur due to the fact that Ms. Amabile was present. She was however, crying and having difficulty breathing. The conversation ended with Ms. Feinsod saying that what was said in that room should stay in that room.

M.S. went home and did not wish to speak with her father about the matter but did talk to her mother.

S.C.P-M. also testified. She is the mother of L.M. and testified almost in essence as a fresh complaint type of witness. Her daughter related the November 13, 1991 incident where Ms. Feinsod had, according to her daughter, told her she was failing. L.M. had been crying and told her mother how Ms. Feinsod had been cruel to her. She stated that her daughter said that Ms. Feinsod's exact words were, "Miskie, failing, failing, failing." She stated that her daughter had previously complaining about being called Miskie.

The witness stated she spoke with Mr. Placa and told him that the classroom was no place for humiliation or sarcasm.

She stated she did not learn about the kneeling incident until November 15, 1991 at which time she took her daughter to speak with Mr. Coplan. According to her L.M. was petrified and did not wish to go to school on November 15. She did not return on the following Monday but went back on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The witness then recounted essentially that which L.M. had stated occurred. She did acknowledge telling her daughter that Ms. Feinsod was an asshole although she did not remember when she did so.

J.S. also testified and is one of the students about whom allegations of misconduct on the part of Ms. Feinsod were made. She is now a high school student but previously had attended McManus. According to her she had problems with Ms. Feinsod which included being verbally abused and embarrassed by Ms. Feinsod. She stated that Ms. Feinsod said her mother did not "raise her right" and used to compare her with Ms. Feinsod's own daughters. This occurred in approximately 1990 and she told her mother that she did not wish to go back to school. She stated that her mother called Mr. Placa in order to transfer her out of the English class but was told it could not be done. As a result she stayed in that class all year.

On cross-examination she indicated that in the first month she had a good relationship with Ms. Feinsod. She acknowledged that she did not speak to the guidance counsellor or to other teachers about the problem that she was having. She did receive a number of detentions during April and May and was upset because this caused her to miss softball. It was not until 1991 that she discussed having had problems with Ms. Feinsod with L.M.

K.S. who is the mother of J.S. testified that her daughter had complained about Ms. Feinsod during the course of the year in 1990. Her daughter indicated that she did not wish to go to school and her mother met with Mr. Placa who suggested a meeting with Ms. Feinsod. This meeting did not occur.

This witness concluded the testimony for the board of education. A motion to dismiss charges for failure to make out a prima facie case was made on behalf of the respondent. That motion was denied for the reasons stated on the record at the time.

The petitioner began its case by calling Judyth Black who is a secretary with the school system for 12 years. Between 1991 and 1992 she worked at McManus and before that at the business office from 1986 to 1991. Before that she worked at a different school also.

She stated she knew Ms. Feinsod through back to school night with her own children. They were also coworkers although they did not socialize.

The witness is the building representative and goes to meetings and tells members about those meetings.

She stated she was not at a meeting with Mr. Placa and never heard Ms. Feinsod say that she made L.M. kneel.

She was however present on the day upon which Ms. Feinsod and L.M. were in the principal's office. At that point L.M. was at a desk with the phone. The desk was located approximately 12 feet behind the counter. Ms. Feinsod came in and said she wanted to use the phone. According to the witness students and teachers both used that phone. When Ms. Feinsod said she wanted to use the phone Ms. Black got up and told Mr. Placa. He then said that L.M. should go to the library although she did not remember who told L.M. Ms. Feinsod said absolutely nothing to L.M. and there was no physical contact between them. She did not see them stare at each other and did not observe any interaction. Nobody told Ms. Feinsod to leave the area and Mr. Placa did not say anything to Ms. Feinsod. According to the witness Ms. Feinsod would sometimes come and use the phone.

The witness did indicate that she understood that L.M. and Ms. Feinsod were not to be together and that is why she went in to speak with Mr. Placa. She acknowledged that there are pay phones available in the building. She also indicated that she was unable to observe the two of them when she went into Mr. Placa's office to speak with him.

Thomas Walter Long also testified and is the former superintendent of schools. He began his career with the board of education as a teacher in 1951 and continued in his career in education until becoming superintendent between 1986 and 1992. Ms. Feinsod worked at his direction and was also under his supervision between 1970 and 1973. He stated that he was familiar with her performance after that in his capacity as a supervisor and both as assistant superintendent as well as superintendent.

According to the witness there was both a professional and personal relationship between Ms. Feinsod, her husband and himself. Ms. Feinsod's husband is also a teacher and had headed a committee of educators who had backed this witness when he ran for freeholder at one time. According to him Ms. Feinsod only helped to the extent of organizing a coffee klatch. After 1970 there was no involvement with politics.

A significant amount of testimony was taken which dealt with an alleged dislike or discomfort between L.M.'s mother and Mr. Long This allegedly arose out of a decision by the district not to rehire Mrs. M. as a teacher.

Due to the fact that Mr. Long disqualified himself from participation in the investigation of this incident and took no part in the determination of what happened in dealing either with the students or Ms. Feinsod and the other adults this testimony was of no import.

Sondra Wunder was the next witness called by the respondent. She is a speech and language therapist and is in her fifth year in the Linden system. She works with children with communication problems and moves between five different buildings. She is at the McManus school two times a week, one-half day each time. She knows Ms. Feinsod as a teacher at McManus but has no relationship with her outside the school.

On November 14, 1991 she was at the McManus school and went into Ms. Feinsod's study hall in the morning although she did not recall exactly when. At that time she had broken a fingernail and went to ask Ms. Feinsod for an emery board. The door was open at the time.

She stated that the seating arrangements had students at desks lined up facing the teacher and she observed Ms. Feinsod and L.M. She saw the girl next to Ms. Feinsod on her knees with her feet out back crying with her hands near her eyes. Ms. Wunder stated that she asked for the emery board and was told that this was not a good time but that she should come back later. She was unable to hear any conversation between Ms. Feinsod and L.M.

She stated that she observed Ms. Feinsod sitting in a relaxed manner and that Ms. Feinsod had her hand gently resting on L.M.'s shoulder. She never saw her move that hand. According to the witness they were approximately a half dozen students in the room. She did not hear them say anything that she could recall and L.M. did not say anything to the witness.

M.A. testified that he had also been in Ms. Feinsod's English class during 1990-91 when J.S. was. He knew her and they were friends. He stated that he did not recall anything insulting or personal by way of comment made by Ms. Feinsod to J.S. Ms. Feinsod did speak to J.S. about chewing gum and spoke to her about the manner in which she was sitting in a chair as not being ladylike. He also recalled Ms. Feinsod speaking to J.S. about talking in class to which Jessica replied, "Okay," but then went back to talking. He did not recall Jessica being spoken to differently than any other students.

Kathleen Rich who is a teacher in Linden for 28 years also testified. During the 1990-91 school year she taught seventh grade science at McManus. She is acquainted with Ms. Feinsod in school and also attended her daughter's bat mitzvah the preceding year. She has known Ms. Feinsod for 10 to 12 years. She also stated that she knows J.S. and had her as a student in 1990-91.

According to Ms. Rich she had problems with J.S. talking in class and being disruptive. This matter was resolved between them and later on J.S. came up and apologized. After this things got better. There was an occasion when the witness had lunch with Ms. Feinsod at which time Ms. Feinsod related that she too had spoken to J.S. about her behavior.

The witness stated that she also knew L.M. who was not doing particularly well in her class at the time. She did not however, speak to the parents of L.M. prior to November 1991.

Andrea J. Amabile also testified. She is a social studies teacher and has taught for 29 years. Eight of those years have been at the McManus school. She knew L.M. and had her as a student between September 1991 and April 1992. She also knows Ms. Feinsod and they are friends although they rarely meet outside school more than perhaps two times a year.

She stated that her classroom is number 214 and is down the hall approximately 30 feet from 209 which is Ms. Feinsod's. Room 208 is across from there and is a temporary classroom however in November 1991 the janitors were preparing the room for use for gifted and talented students and as a result it resembled a storage area. There were a number of projects left over in room 208. She stated that Ms. Feinsod stepped in with M.S. and asked her to be a witness. According to her Ms. Feinsod said the marking period ended and M.S. was getting a D at which point the child started to cry and did not say anything. Ms. Feinsod mentioned an assignment she had not turned in but M.S. said that she had done it and went to her locker. She came back with the assignment. Upon her return M.S. w a s crying again. Ms. Amabile stated she put her arm around M.S. and rubbed her back and asked if she wanted a drink of water. She responded that she did not. M.S. kept apologizing for crying and saying, "I'm sorry, this is the way I get."

The witness stated that M.S. never asked if she could leave the room.

When Ms. Feinsod finished marking the paper that M.S. had brought her she stated that she would change the D to a C but said she had to get the "bubble sheets." Meredith was still crying and she nodded and left. According to the witness Ms. Feinsod's tone was normal and she never raised her voice. She acted in a businesslike manner and there was no physical contact between Ms. Feinsod and M.S. Ms. Feinsod did ask at the end if M.S. needed a tissue and she said no.

During the transaction Ms. Feinsod was approximately five feet from M.S. and the witness was close enough to have her hand on M.S. to comfort her. The only suggestion of leaving the room was that of going to the locker to get the assignment.

The witness also stated that she had L.M. in her class until Easter. L.M. was doing D work in her class and got a progress report that was signed by the family. She later met with L.M.'s parents in February 1992 but had never met with them before.

On cross-examination Ms. Amabile stated that she remembered Ms. Feinsod saying to M.S. "why are you making that noise?" and telling her to stop crying. The witness indicated that she did not know what had occurred prior to her being asked to enter the room as a witness.

Ms. Amabile did acknowledge that Ms. Feinsod said to M.S., "What goes on in this room stays in this room." M.S. nodded however did not respond verbally. According to her Ms. Feinsod never specifically said not to discuss the matter with her parents. At no time did Ms. Feinsod ever block M.S.'s means of egress.

Sharon Feinsod also testified on her own behalf. She has been employed by the Linden school system since 1970 and has taught a number of grades. She stated that she was evaluated in most of the years in which she taught although she was not evaluated from September 1973 to 1979.

In 1990-91 she had J.S. in class. In the beginning of the year J.S. was cooperative and her demeanor and behavior was relatively appropriate. In the late fall and early winter, according to the witness, she became "flip and non-compliant." She stated that J.S. would come in and "plop down on the chair and put her head down on her arms on the desk" with some frequency. Ms. Feinsod stated that she asked her to please sit up and she detailed the behavioral problems which she perceived as having occurred with J.S. These included J.S. rocking her chair backward or sitting with her feet on the bars of the desk. She also stated that J.S. would talk during class or chew gum. Ms. Feinsod said that she knew that J.S. had had a problem with Ms. Rich however that problem had apparently resolved itself.

The witness gave J.S. six or seven detentions for the whole year and they were scattered throughout. At one time she recalled Jessica saying she was missing softball practice. Ms. Feinsod informed her that she was missing it because of her own conduct.

She stated that no one spoke to her regarding J.S. and was unaware of any problem until she first learned of the allegations on December 20, 1991 when she received the charges.

The witness acknowledged having told J.S. that she did not believe her mother raised her to behave in this manner. According to her she treated J.S. the same as any of the other students.

The witness also indicated the first time that she knew of anything about an allegation about her windows being improperly opened during the winter was when she received tenure charges in December 1991. In the fall of 1991 the classroom windows were opened sometimes but never at inappropriate times. According to her there was a major problem with the heating system in the building. As a result it was necessary to open the windows. She acknowledged not allowing the children to keep their coats on because they were not permitted to. According to her it was difficult for them to write or have motor control if they were wearing jackets or coats because there was not enough room between them. She felt it was healthy for them to wear jackets.

In 1991-92 M.S. was in her English class along with L.M. Sometime in middle of November M.S. had a grade that came out to a D which was somewhere between 70 and 74. On November 19 she was given a "bubble" master computer sheet by Mr. Placa with a section that allows for behavioral comments. She stated that M.S. did not get a progress report, and as of October 10 through 15 had approximately a C average. She was only given a borderline failure. The witness stated that she sometimes sends reports out for positive things. After the first marking period ended and before the grades went out she became concerned about M.S.'s grades. She had already given the "bubble sheet" to Ms. Black on November 21 later when she went over she saw the D she checked it and ascertained that it was in fact a D. In class she looked and saw that M.S. had received a grade in the C range and walked over to her desk and handed it to her. According to the witness M.S. asked if she was getting a C and was told no and then asked if she was getting a D and was told yes. She was told to come up to Ms. Feinsod's desk and asked why she was getting a D. They had a discussion and she seemed upset when she left. Five minutes later Ms. Feinsod wrote a pass for her to come back at 3:05 and gave it to another student, S.L.

M.S. came back to her at 3:05 and was crying and asked why she was getting a D. Ms. Feinsod explained she has missed an assignment although M.S. said she had done them all. According to the witness the conversation took place in a normal tone of voice and M.S. never asked to leave.

Ms. Feinsod stated that she was not at all concerned about the fact that M.S. was crying since, according to her, it is not unusual for students to cry over grades. She asked if there were any problems at home and M.S. did not say anything about any problems.

She was told she could get the materials and Ms. Feinsod would correct them and try to retrieve the "bubble sheet" however if she could not get it then she might have to "eat it" until the report card came back. According to Ms. Feinsod M.S. did not respond.

Ms. Feinsod acknowledged saying the conversation should not leave the room. She explained this as meaning that she felt it was not the concern of the rest of the class.

She then heard Ms. Amabile in room 208. The witness described that she felt uncomfortable and felt that something was "preordained" due to the prior allegation against her. She stated she then assumed a defensive posture and felt it would be to both herself and the student's advantage to have a witness present. She stated that she told M.S. that. Her tone was normal and professional at all times. At no time did the child ask to leave, request a drink of water or ask to see the nurse. Ms. Feinsod acknowledged that she at no time considered terminating this conversation.

She stated they then went diagonally across the hall to room 208 which was a classroom although it was used as a substitute room while others were being painted and a number of projects were stored in there. It was also used as a book room.

The witness stated she had no physical contact with M.S. and asked Ms. Amabile to listen. M.S. started to cry when she heard mention of the grades. The witness told her she could get her book if she had it and she did so and returned quickly. She handed the book to Ms. Feinsod who then opened the book to correct it. While this was going on Ms. Amabile was comforting M.S. and had her arm around her.

The witness tesitified that she never thought to touch the child even in a comforting manner because she did not want it to be misconstrued, once again in light of the prior allegations against her.

During this transaction M.S. was making what the witness characterized as a "snorting" noise. Ms. Feinsod asked if she was all right using a normal tone and according to her M.S. said she gets like this when she cries.

Ms. Feinsod did acknowledge having said that the noises were scaring her. She asked if M.S. wanted a tissue but that was declined. Ms. Feinsod then finished grading the book and told M.S. that she would change her grade to a C. She told her she would try to retrieve the "bubble sheet" and eventually was able to do so and did change the grade to a C.

Ms. Feinsod also testified at length about the incident involving L.M. She stated that initially she had a good rapport and did acknowledge calling her "Miskie" which she felt was a cute and shortened form of her last name, and that it somehow fit the child. According to the witness L.M. had never said she was unhappy about the reference and that the shortened form of the name had no ethnic or religious connotation in the witness's mind. She did not become aware until approximately November 18, 1991 or November 15, 1991 that there was a claim that this constituted an ethnic slur.

On November 18, 1991 Mr. Placa and a police officer came in and there was a report filed. Prior to the November 14, 1991 date she was never approached by anyone about the use of "Miskie" as a name she used for L.M. She stated that she only used it in the classroom and that her tone was what she characterized as affectionate. She testified that she had nicknames for two other students only.

The witness stated that she did give some grade information out in English class on November 13, 1991. The class had come in and said they had gotten their grades from a previous class and wanted them from her. She stated that she told the class that she had only done the quizz averages which were 25 percent of the grade. She then indicated that she would go around the room in a U-shape and give each individual child the option of hearing their grade. She did not recall having done it on any other occasion and characterized this not as grades but as "ballpark indicators." She did go around the room and ask each individual child if they wanted to know. She then told the child. She stated that when she got to L.M. she asked if the child wanted the information and she responded Yes. Ms. Feinsod acknowledged that she said to her, "It is failing." She did not recall using the word "Miskie" and stated that the comment was made in a normal tone of voice. L.M. did not respond. Ms. Feinsod testified that she thinks she made a joke and said something along the lines of "Aren't we going to see you for five years?" as if to say that she might be in trouble because of it. According to the witness L.M. laughed. During this period of time there were approximately 24 or 25 students in the classroom and most of those students wanted their grades.

Turning to the November 14, 1991, incident she stated that she did have a conversation with L.M. She approached the child because she had been told by Mr. Placa that Mr. and Mrs. M. had gone to see Mr. Coplan and Mr. Long and were annoyed about something that had occurred Mr. Feinsod said she asked what they were upset about of Mr. Placa and he was very vague but said it was about something that she had said to L.M. that was insulting. Ten to 15 minutes after her conversation with Mr. Placa she spoke with L.M. in homeroom. She went to Mr. Sullivan's homeroom where L.M. was located which was near Ms. Feinsod's room and asked Mr. Sullivan if she could speak with L.M. in her own homeroom. According to her Mr. Sullivan assented and L.M. went with her to the room.

Ms. Feinsod stated that she went to L.M. because she was perplexed about what she could possibly have said. She also wondered why the parents did not come to her but instead went to the superintendent of schools. She stated she asked L.M. in a normal voice to come to her homeroom and no conversation occurred between the classrooms.

The witness stated that she has taken students out of other classes before with the permission of the other teachers. She walked in and went to her desk and L.M. was standing to her left. According to her she asked L.M. what she had said and characterized her tone as "slightly subnormal." L.M. responded that Ms. Feinsod had said she had failed. Ms. Feinsod said that she then pointed to a stack of essays and said that she could not possibly have told her that she was failing for the marking period since she had not graded all of the essays yet. During this point L.M. was standing. There was no verbal response. At that moment she got very red in the face and her eyes filled up with tears. Ms. Feinsod acknowledges saying, "L., nobody died." Her explanation is that this was not a life and death situation and she had no awareness that L.M. had experienced a death in the family. She told L.M. they needed to talk about this and was concerned about a misconception. She stated that she was consistent in her tone of voice. She then suggested that L.M. go get her books and come back, which she did. Ms. Feinsod sat at her desk and asked L.M. to come around to her left behind the file cabinet so they could talk privately. The child did so. According to the witness she offered L.M. a footstool which she did not want, and also offered her a chair which she did not want. Instead, she "plopped down" on the floor. The bell rang and classes changed. Ms. Feinsod asked L.M. what she said that had upset her and L.M. did not respond. She also asked if L.M. thought that she would deliberately say anything to hurt her to which L.M. shrugged her shoulders but made no verbal response. The child was crying, although Ms. Feinsod testified that she was not concerned about it.

The witness stated that this was a very private conversation in a soft spoken voice carried out in a caring tone, trying to impress upon the child that it was okay to tell her if she did not like something. She indicated that the conversation with L.M. continued over a number of different subjects and L.M. was crying on and off. She stated that she never yelled at L.M. She did send a note to Mr. Batinas asking if it was all right to speak with L.M. and got a verbal response that this was okay.

The witness stated that she never directed L.M. to kneel behind the file cabinet. She denies ever pushing Lisa down and stated that she did not recall touching her. She finally gave her a pass to go back to Mr. Batinas and L.M. took her books and left. At no time during this transaction did L.M. complain that she was uncomfortable.

On cross-examination Ms. Feinsod stated that although L.M. was crying she did not terminate the conversation. She acknowledged that she felt that L.M. had lied and hurt the witness. As a result she wanted to know what was said that was misperceived.

Ms. Feinsod acknowledged keeping L.M. out of her other class and kept her next to her at her desk. She felt it was important for L.M. to keep down for the purposes of privacy.

The witness also testified that the two incidents involving the phone, the first at the nurse's office, and the second in the outer office of the principal's area could not be construed as contact with L.M. She did acknowledge that L.M. was there but she had no verbal contact nor physical contact with her. She felt that she was permitted to use those phones. She also testified that she felt that her right to be in the office outside the principal's area was greater than L.M. She stated that that is why she requested that Ms. Black have L.M. moved since her rights exceeded those of L.M.'s.

With respect to the nurse's office she stated that she had equal rights to be in the nurse's office as L.M. and was approximately six feet from the child but had no contact with her.

Petitioner also presented other student witnesses during the hearing. C.S. testified that he was in the same class as L.M. He did hear Ms. Feinsod call L.M. by the name Miskie on one occasion but did not recall when.

He stated that during the fall Ms. Feinsod opened the window about an inch or so because the heat was on quite high.

The witness also testified that on November 13, 1991 Ms. Feinsod asked if people wanted to hear their averages and he said that he thought L.M. asked for hers. At no time did he recall hearing he say "Miskie, failing, failing, failing."

P.L. also was a student in Ms. Feinsod's homeroom and remembers on November 14, 1991 L.M. came in. At that time she went over to Ms. Feinsod and they were speaking. He did not hear the conversation nor was he paying attention. This went on for the entire homeroom period. He was unable to observe her facial expression and neither individual moved from their locations.

Maria Loiacano who was the school nurse testified that she knew Ms. Feinsod as a colleague although had no social relationship with her. She remembered the date that L.M. was in the office and Ms. Feinsod came in. L.M. was lying on a cot and Ms. Feinsod came in a few minutes later and asked to use the phone. She had done this on other occasions. This witness stated that she knew of no policy prohibiting members of the staff from using the nurse's phone. She did not hear Ms. Feinsod say anything to L.M. and observed no physical contact or interaction between the two of them. She stated there was a distance of approximately six to seven feet between them.

Janice Tyburczy who is also a teacher employed by the Linden board of education testified. She testified in mitigation that Ms. Feinsod has participated in producing Thanksgiving baskets and would include the witness's special education class in this project. She also invited the witness's students to attend when there were certain poets or writers that came in to speak.

D.C. testified that she had been a student of Ms. Feinsod and was in English class with L.M. She recalled Ms. Feinsod having called her Miskie several times and that L.M. never responded.

She was present on November 13, 1991 and recalled Ms. Feinsod giving out grade information. She stated that Ms. Feinsod said that if the individual students wanted the grade information she would give it and the witness did want that information. She did not remember about L.M. and did not hear Ms. Feinsod say "Miskie, failing, failing, failing." According to this witness Ms. Feinsod stayed at her desk and called out the individual names and asked if they wanted their grades. If they were failing she called them up to the desk.

R.K. also testified and stated that he was in homeroom on November 14, 1991 when L.M. was located there. According to him she was there for most of the homeroom period although he did not hear what was said. He did not observe any physical contact between Ms. Feinsod and L.M., although he saw that they were deep in conversation.

Charlotte Gessler testified as a witness with respect to mitigation. She is the LDTC for Linden and a member of the Child Study Team for special education. She knows Ms. Feinsod and stated that on a number of occasions Ms. Feinsod had given some of the special education teachers the opportunity to send students to a poet in residence activity. She also participated in the preparation of food baskets and an education fair.

In addition to these mitigation witnesses a number of evaluations were entered into evidence that make up Sharon Feinsod's record of observations and reports during her career.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

This case deals with a number of different allegations which deal predominantly with behavior toward three specific students, L.M., M.S., and J.S. In addition under the individual specifications number twenty-three and number fourteen were dismissed and number twenty-two was withdrawn by the petitioning school board. Besides the conduct between Ms. Feinsod and these three students there is also an allegation that Ms. Feinsod unreasonably keeps her classroom windows open at inappropriate times. She refused to permit her students to keep their coats on, even in view of the chilling room temperature that she has created. Based upon the testimony in this case, I FIND that this particular allegation has not been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence due to the fact that there has been testimony by individuals in addition to Ms. Feinsod that during the period of time in question problems existed with the heating system requiring the opening of windows.

For clarity the findings of fact will be done in this case in paragraph form dealing with each of the three students that are alleged to have been victims of improper and unbecoming conduct by Ms. Feinsod.

Having heard the testimony of the witnesses, and having assessed their credibility I FIND that this case deals not so much in a dispute over fact but more so in a dispute over perception as to what has occurred. There is no question that on November 13, 1991 Ms. Feinsod informed a number of the students in her class of their test scores. Her explanation is that she read the students' test scores if they requested it. Ms. Feinsod acknowledges telling L.M. "it is failing," and while she does not agree that she stated "Miskie, failing, failing, failing I FIND as fact that she did inform L.M. that her grade was that which was failing. Even if these grades were given at the request of the student I FIND that it is a humiliating practice to inform one child within the hearing of others, whether the entire class or only those in the immediate surroundings of the student involved, that their grade is failing. As a result I FIND that charge number one has been sustained.

Ms. Feinsod is also accused of improperly addressing L.M. by an abbreviation of her name and calling her "Miskie" to which the student objects. In the statement of charges Ms. Feinsod is charged with calling the child by this name and using it as an ethnic slur. While Ms. Feinsod had admitted and I FIND AS FACT that she has called L.M. by an abbreviation of her last name there is a complete absence of testimony in this case that the name is used as an ethnic slur or that it has any ethnic or religious connotation. As a result, I FIND that although L.M. had requested that Ms. Feinsod not address her in that manner the use of the nickname itself did not constitute an ethnic or religious slur. As a result paragraph two is sustained in part, however, the reference to the name being used as an ethnic slur has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

There is also no question that Ms. Feinsod had L.M. removed from another classroom by requesting her presence from another teacher. While it is true Ms.

Feinsod had no authority over the individual classroom that she asked the teacher to have L.M. leave in order to speak with her the evidence does not sustain an inference that she improperly pulled L.M. from the class. I further FIND that there is insufficient evidence to show that the conduct which occurred between Ms. Feinsod and L.M. in the hallway could be considered as badgering. As a result, I FIND that charge number three has not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

There is no question that Ms. Feinsod brought L.M. to her classroom and had a conversation with the child and caused the child to cry. While I FIND that L.M. perceived Ms. Feinsod to have yelled at her during the conversation I further FIND that the tone of voice did not amount to that of yelling however was severe enough to be frightening.

L.M. was directed to stay near Ms. Feinsod's desk and knelt down during the conversation. She remained in this position for a substantial period of time from homeroom through the study hall and during this period of time a conversation ensued. Both her feet and her face were visible to students of the class and she was crying which was also visible.

I FIND that although Ms. Feinsod placed her hand on L.M.'s shoulder she did not use physical force in order to push the child down or prevent her from remaining in the position in which she was. Notwithstanding this lack of physical force I FIND AS FACT that keeping L.M. in a position kneeling next to a file cabinet on view to a large number of students both in homeroom and study hall during a conversation in which the child was crying is humiliating and shows an extreme lack of sensitivity on the part of the teacher. Ms. Feinsod's explanation that this position afforded her privacy for her conversation with L.M. is specifically rejected by the undersigned. It is clear that while the content of the conversation may not have been heard by the class the student was visible to them and her demeanor which included crying was equally as visible. As a result, I FIND that charge number five has been sustained although charge number six and seven have not been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Notwithstanding that, it is also clear that the position in which L.M. was during the conversation was uncomfortable and distressing to the student. I also accept as fact the testimony of L.M. that she is to some degree afraid of Ms. Feinsod based upon the transactions which have occurred between them.

With respect to the memo in which Ms. Feinsod was not to have any contact with L.M. it is clear that at least on two incidents, one at the nurse's office and one in the administration office, Ms. Feinsod was present when L.M. was there. During these transactions however no verbal or physical contact took place and while at the very least Ms. Feinsod should have, based upon the memo she received, had the good sense and intelligence to avoid the situation, she did not. That however is not the issue and I do not FIND these to be deliberate attempts to intimidate or harass L.M. It should be noted however that the undersigned accepts that L.M. feels very strongly that Ms. Feinsod, by her very presence, was intimidating. As a result of the foregoing, I FIND that charges nine, ten and eleven, while the events themselves did occur, do not amount to intentional violations of the restraining memo or intentional attempts to intimidate L.M.

With respect to the incidents involving M.S. I FIND that on Thursday, November 21, 1991 Ms. Feinsod informed M.S. of her grade at which time M.S. began to cry and experienced extreme distress. I therefore FIND that charge number twelve has been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence and FIND that the testimony of M.S. was in fact credible.

Perhaps most distressing of this incident is the fact that Ms. Feinsod advised the student that any and all discussions that they had were to stay within that room. While Ms. Feinsod explains this to mean that it should not be repeated to other members of the class there is absolutely no way a student could understand that statement to mean anything other than that the conversations were not to be repeated to anyone. This would appear to include one's parents. There is nothing that should bar a child from discussing their education, be it the positive, or the negative aspects with their parents. As a result, I FIND that the charge number thirteen has been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

Ms. Feinsod continued her conversation with M.S. while M.S. was crying and Ms. Feinsod summoned Ms. Amabile as a witness to the incident. M.S. was crying to the extent that she was making unusual sounds yet no concern was portrayed by Ms. Feinsod with respect to her health at this point. While Ms. Feinsod contends that M.S. did not say she wished to leave I FIND that Ms. Feinsod is the individual who is the adult and in the position of power here. She exercises supervisory control and authority over a child and it would not be up to the child to break off a discussion without some indication from the teacher that it might be appropriate to do so. I further FIND that Ms. Feinsod did not suggest that the interview terminate nor make any request as to whether or not M.S. wished to be seen by the nurse. As a result I FIND that charges in paragraphs fifteen, sixteen and seventeen have been proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

The last student who alleges improper conduct by Ms. Feinsod for the purposes of this hearing is J.S. J.S.'s allegations come from a period of time one year before the allegations of M.S. and L.M. While she reported having had problems with Ms. Feinsod to her family action was not taken at that time. While I accept that J.S. feels that she has been picked on by Ms. Feinsod I do not FIND that Ms. Feinsod's conduct based upon the testimony presented is sufficient to be considered unbecoming based upon the evidence presented at the hearing.

Based upon the above Findings of Fact I hereby FIND that the charges as indicated in the modified form above have been sustained against Ms. Feinsod and that she has displayed unbecoming conduct toward at least two students.

In addition having reviewed the mitigation testimony and all of the evaluations that were submitted into evidence for the purposes of this case I further FIND that Sharon Feinsod has had no prior disciplinary actions and has had good evaluations which were entered into evidence as exhibits R-7A through K and R-8A through K. Beyond that she has participated in certain extracurricular activities which include the production of Thanksgiving baskets and other things which are highly commendable in nature.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The petitioner claims that the respondent has engaged in corporal punishment with respect to L.M. and as such dismissal would be appropriate. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 prohibits the infliction of corporal punishment due to the fact that I have found that corporal punishment did not occur in this case that question need not be addressed.

The testimony of the students in this case was sincere and based upon their perceptions of what occurred. This includes not only those students who complain of conduct but those students who were witnesses. It is clear in life that what one person perceives during an incident is not necessarily what the next person perceives. It is clear that Ms. Feinsod has generated some very strong feelings among some of the persons with whom she has come in contact. Her conduct was at the very least insensitive to certain students, and, even if not meant to be, gave the impression that she was uncaring and unconcerned about the feelings of these children. By the same token a large number of students have been helped and taught by Ms. Feinsod and apparently taught well as judged by the lack of other complaints over the long period of time in which she has been a teacher. I have reviewed the cases as cited by counsel for both sides and have to balance the severity of the conduct involved in this case with a long and persuasively good career. If nothing else can be impressed upon the respondent in this case the very fact that children are a precious commodity with sensitivities that must be appropriately addressed must come through loud and clear.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Having balanced the finding of conduct unbecoming with the nature of the conduct as well as the mitigating evidence in this case I have determined to recommend to the Commissioner of Education that an appropriate penalty for the finding of Conduct Unbecoming a Teacher as indicated in the Findings of Fact above would be:

1. The permanent forfeiture of the 120 salary withheld from her following certification of the original charges; and

2. The withholding of the subsequent year's salary and adjustment increments, however it must be noted that this would not preclude a return to the regular salary guide subsequently but merely establishes that such a return is within a board's discretionary prerogative rather an automatic entitlement.

The greatest concern is the fact that there is substantial evidence in the record demonstrating an underlying pattern of Ms. Feinsod's interaction with students which is a cause for concern. While this conduct is not found sufficient, based upon its being weighed against the mitigating factors as well as the many years of service to require dismissal, it is extremely disquieting and cannot be ignored. Therefore, it is further recommended that the board provide for, and Ms. Feinsod participate in, a program of continuing education and/or in-service training including but not limited to, child development, behavioral management and psychology of learning, so as to improve her ability to understand the needs of different types of children and better comport her own behavior and expectations to them.

It is therefore ORDERED that the above provisions, be and hereby are implemented in this case.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSISONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1157-92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF SHARON FEINSOD,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	DECISION
LINDEN, UNION COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, timely exceptions were filed by both respondent and the Board, and a reply to the Board's exceptions was filed by respondent.*

In her exceptions, respondent raises the overall objection that the ALJ adopted the Board's error and applied the wrong standard in assessing unbecoming conduct, confusing less-than-perfect judgment with truly unbecoming behavior and faulting a teacher for extreme and idiosyncratic student responses to actions and statements which do not, in themselves, rise to the level of unbecoming conduct. She further reiterates her post-hearing claim that the testimony of L.M., on which the ALJ heavily relied, is both uncorroborated and incredible.

* The Commissioner also notes respondent's letter advising her of a potential reason for recusal and stating the lack of objection on the part of either respondent or the Board to the Commissioner's deciding this matter notwithstanding such potential. Upon review of respodent's letter, the Commissioner finds no necessity to recuse herself in this matter and duly renders the within determination.

With respect to the various individual charges, respondent cites portions of testimony from transcripts provided with her exceptions to demonstrate how: the ALJ's findings on Charges 1 and 2 (announcing failing grade in class and calling L.M. "Miskie") reflect situations which may have been unfortunate and were perhaps indicative of mistakes in judgment, but definitely could not be characterized as unbecoming conduct; the ALJ's findings on Charge 5 (directing L.M. to kneel) misconstrued events and statements and failed to take respondent's motivation into account, ignoring clear evidence that respondent merely sought privacy for a sensitive discussion and was entirely benign in her actions and intentions; the ALJ's finding that L.M. was afraid of respondent (Charge 8) is belied by L.M.'s conduct at hearing when respondent was present; and the ALJ's findings on Charges 12 through 17 (inflicting emotional distress and prohibiting a student from revealing the content of her discussion with respondent) were based on statements taken out of context and blame a student's extreme reaction to news of a low grade on a teacher who was merely performing ordinary duties and had no reason to think that the student's response was anything more than a typical adolescent overreaction.

Respondent concludes that although none of the charges should be sustained, assuming arguendo that any of them are, they do not constitute unbecoming conduct and the penalty ordered by the ALJ is too severe when compared to other cases where the conduct at issue was far worse than respondent's. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Patricia Jo Murphy, School District of the City of New Brunswick, Middlesex County, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 527; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Samuel Ivens, Toms River Regional School District, Ocean County, 1977 S.L.D. 960; In the Matter of the Tenure

Hearing of David Brody, School District of the Borough of East Paterson, Bergen County, 1972 S.L.D. 565.

The Board, on the other hand, contends that the ALJ erred in concluding that respondent had not inflicted corporal punishment, stressing that any punishment intending to cause bodily pain or suffering constitutes corporal punishment, particularly in view of the high standard of self-control to which teachers have been held in prior tenure matters. In the matter herein, the Board avers, respondent kept a student kneeling for half an hour, causing her to lose freedom of control over her own body, and insisted on pressing an unpleasant and inappropriate discussion, upsetting and humiliating her. Such action clearly constitutes corporal punishment, and fully warrants a penalty of dismissal in view of the fact that the incidents at hand were serious and unprovoked, respondent's lack of remorse and otherwise defiant attitude bode ill for her continued presence in a school setting where students are demonstrably afraid of her, and the mitigating factors presented do not compensate for the gravity of respondent's actions. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William H. Kittell, School District of the Borough of Little Silver, Monmouth County, 1972 S.L.D. 535

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner has determined to affirm the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner finds the ALJ's summations of testimony, assessments of witness credibility, overall characterization of underlying situations and specific findings of fact to be fully supported by a voluminous record including transcripts of all days of hearing. The Commissioner further concurs that, under the particular circumstances herein, the charges proven with respect to L.M. do not constitute corporal punishment within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, as there was no use of physical force and no deliberate intent to harm in respondent's treatment of L.M., which amounted instead to a gross insensitivity to the obvious discomfort and humiliation suffered by the student as a result of the situation respondent initiated and then allowed to continue.

It is this same insensitivity that characterizes the behavior proven of respondent in other situations as well, which behavior, contrary to respondent's claim, clearly constitutes conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member rather than a series of infelicities in professional judgment. In order for a district to maintain the environment necessary for students to learn and develop in an appropriate manner, teaching staff members must be expected to comport themselves with a reasonable degree of understanding and sensitivity toward the students in their charge. Behavior of the type at issue in this matter displays, at the very least, a callousness and lack of awareness that cannot be explained away by claims of occasional misjudgment and which the Commissioner cannot countenance by finding that it does not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct.

The Commissioner also notes that such behavior has previously been found to warrant a penalty consistent with that imposed by the ALJ, and that the cases cited by the Board in arguing for dismissal involved a type and degree of conduct (including findings of corporal punishment) far beyond what has been committed by respondent herein. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Mary Ellen DiPillo, School District of Randolph Township, Morris County, decided October 30, 1992, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 13; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Anne Boyd, Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, Monmouth County, decided July 10, 1992 The Commissioner likewise notes that respondent had been employed by the district without incident and with good evaluations for over 20 years prior to the incidents underlying the charges herein. Therefore, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's directive that, in order to recognize respondent's prior unblemished record while still addressing the problems evident in her conduct* and impressing upon her and others the seriousness of such conduct, the appropriate penalty is for respondent to undergo a program of professional development and training so as to improve her understanding of and ability to handle the students placed in her charge and to suffer a loss of 120 days pay plus withholding of any employment and adjustment increments she would have received for the 1992-93 school year.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein together with the further explication set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

* The Commissioner here notes that, based upon review of the transcripts, particularly respondent's own testimony, these problems appear to be manifestations of a consistent attitude, as opposed to one-time losses of control such as occurred in Murphy, supra, which respondent cites in support of her argument that she should suffer a lesser penalty than that imposed by the ALJ and endorsed by the Commissioner above.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, vocational teacher riffed from Hunterdon Central, claimed entitlement to position in North Hunterdon by his tenure and seniority rights. Petitioner alleged carpentry program was transferred to North Hunterdon or, alternatively, that North Hunterdon and Central were part of a newly formed vocational school district.

ALJ concluded petitioner had no claim to employment by North Hunterdon on statutory or equitable grounds. ALJ further concluded that rif was procedurally correct, as decision to permit five students to attend a class at North Hunterdon and to rif petitioner and place him on eligibility list was clearly within Board's authority. (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and 28-12) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision emphasizing that, under particular circumstances of this matter, allowing five students to attend North Hunterdon for carpentry program, thus eliminating carpentry program at Central, did not constitute transfer of program within meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 so as to entitle petitioner to assert claim at North Hunterdon.

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

William R. Bausmith, petitioner, a vocational teacher reduced in force from the Hunterdon Central High School, claims a position at North Hunterdon Regional High School by tenure or seniority right. The claim alleges a program was transferred from Hunterdon Central Regional High School to North Hunterdon Regional High School or, alternatively, that both schools are part of a newly formed vocational school district.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and the respondents filed answers. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Following several conferences of counsel conducted by telephone, the matter proceeds to judgment on the papers, no material facts being in dispute.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The following facts are essentially undisputed. William R. Bausmith, petitioner, was employed by the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District (Central) in September 1974 as a vocational carpentry instructor. He has been employed continuously by Central since that time and has acquired a tenure status in the district. The petitioner holds certificates and endorsements in carpentry, industrial arts and cooperative industrial education. On or about April 27, 1992, the Central superintendent of schools notified the petitioner that the petitioner would not be offered a contract for the 1992-93 school year and that he would be placed on a preferred eligibility list and notified if a teaching position within the scope of his certifications and seniority occurred.

The parties also stipulate that, at all times relevant, the North Hunterdon Regional High School District (North) has discontinued or closed no public schools or any one or more of the grades encompassed by the district. At all times relevant, Central has discontinued or closed no public schools or any one or more of the grades encompassed by the district. At all times relevant, the Hunterdon County Vocational School Board of Education (Vocational) has discontinued or closed no public schools or any one or more of the grades encompassed by the district.

Presently, five pupils from Central attend the Building Trades class at North. As of May 12, 1992, the member schools of the Vocational district have not ratified any agreements to implement any programs within the Vocational School District.

At all times relevant, the petitioner has had no employment relationship with North. Vocational came into existence by resolution of the Hunterdon County Board of Freeholders on May 12, 1992. Prior to that date, vocational-technical education in Hunterdon County was provided by agreement among the regional high schools as Local Area Vocational Schools (LAVS). There are no municipal high schools in Hunterdon County. Vocational has never had and presently does not have teachers, pupils or facilities. Vocational does have a full-time superintendent and a part-time attorney.

ARGUMENTS

Petitioner

The petitioner asserts he is a tenured employee of Central. He has never been employed by North. On April 27, 1992, he was notified that he would not be offered a contract for the 1992-93 school year because of a reduction in force in his department. During the 1992-93 school year, five pupils from the petitioner's department were sent to North to attend building trades classes. The petitioner argues that because these pupils were transferred from one school to another, he was entitled to be transferred to that school. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-24. The petitioner also states that, although at all relevant times the members of the Vocational district had not ratified any agreements to implement any programs within Vocational, such an agreement was contemplated.

Because the tenure act should be liberally construed to achieve its goals, statutes touching on tenure should be liberally construed also. When read together, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-24 provide tenure protection. In the present case, the petitioner is a tenured employee. He was not offered a contract because of a reduction in force. However, that reduction was necessitated by the fact that five of his pupils were transferred from Central to North.

Simply because Central was not discontinued, there should not be a per se ruling against the petitioner. The purpose of the Tenure Act is to afford protection to teachers. The statutes were meant to be liberally construed and as such this case fits squarely within the intent of the act. The petitioner's pupils were transferred. The schools comprising Vocational, while not ratifying an agreement, contemplated such an agreement. Presently, the petitioner is not working for a school district. However, a teacher at North has been given the opportunity to teach the affected transfer students. In order to pursue the spirit of the Tenure Act, it is necessary to take a broad meaning from the statutes. The petitioner should have been given a position at North.

Central

Central maintains that the petitioner has failed to allege any facts that could give rise to a claim against it under the education laws of this state. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 specifically permits a board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members because of a reduction in the number of pupils in a particular area of instruction; e.g., building trades. To date, no vacancy has occurred in Central which would give rise to recall of the petitioner pursuant to law.

In addition, the petitioner misstates the stipulation that five Central pupils attend building trades classes at North. The petitioner describes it as follows: "During the 1992-93 school year five students from his department were sent to North Hunterdon to attend building trade classes." Stip. 6. The petitioner's position seems to be that because pupils were transferred from one school to another he was entitled to be transferred to that school. At no time did Central transfer pupils to North. The pupils attend on a voluntary basis courses that are no longer given at Central.

North

North submitted a certification by its high school principal that five central pupils presently attend building trades classes at North. North contends the petitioner has no right to any position with North. The petitioner's claim is erroneously based upon statutes and regulations addressed to a sending-receiving relationship. No such relationship exists in this matter.

First, no program has been transferred from Central to North. Rather, five pupils from Central presently take a building trades class at North. The petitioner cannot claim that five pupils constitute a program.

Second, the agreements among the represented schools of the Vocational district have not been ratified. No programs have been ratified in the Vocational district. Because no program was transferred from Central to North and because the agreement among the signatory schools of the Vocational district has yet to be ratified, the petitioner's claims are without merit.

The petitioner erroneously bases his claim to a position at North upon N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1. The statute addresses tenure upon discontinuance of a school, not merely a program. In the present matter, no school or any one or more of the grades has been discontinued.

If the petitioner's argument were accepted, any school district that accepts even one pupil from another school district would have to surrender tenure and seniority rights to teaching staff members of the other school district. For example, a teacher in New Jersey possessing a Special Education certificate whose school sends a special education pupil to another public school district in accordance with the pupil's individualized education program would, upon a reduction in force, have tenure and seniority rights in the other school district, irrespective of its location in a State. Such an outcome is plainly absurd and misconstrues the plain language and intent of the statute.

The petitioner attempts to weave the existence of Vocational into his request for relief by claiming that North is a member of Vocational. However, Vocational noted in its answers to interrogatories that agreements are under consideration and no decision to ratify or not to ratify has been made. Thus, the member schools of Vocational have yet to implement any program.

The petitioner may not torture the statutes and interfere with the status of school districts. North has had no relationship whatsoever with the petitioner. There are simply no legal or factual issues to support the petitioner's request for relief.

Vocational

Vocational points out that it did not exist when the petitioner received notice that his contract would not be renewed for the subsequent school year. Vocational has no teachers or pupils.

The petitioner argues the newly created Vocational district has not ratified the agreement to provide programs between the Hunterdon County Board of Freeholders and the four regional high school districts. Ratification is irrelevant and the outcome of this litigation would be the same had Vocational ratified the agreement. The agreement simply does not affect teaching staff at North or Central.

The agreement provides, in part, "it is presently anticipated and all parties agree, that the Boards' (North and Central) will remain the employers of staff and shall pay all salary costs and student supply costs for the programs." It is also provides, "it's intent (the agreement) and purpose is for vocational education within Hunterdon to be provided in essentially the same manner as formerly provided (that would be programs at North and Central), but under the authority of a Vocational Board of Education, at least during the initial four years of the program period . . . ." If ratified, Vocational would not have teachers, pupils or facilities, but rather would oversee and manage the program and use state and federal aid which is paid to the county school board pursuant to the Quality Education Act of 1990.

The petitioner's claim also must fail because the law, N.J.S.A. 18A:15-5 et seq., allows local school districts to provide vocational programs notwithstanding that vocational programs are also available at county financed vocational schools. The petitioner is entitled to relief against Vocational only if students are received by Vocational as a result of the discontinuance of a school or the discontinuance of a grade within a school. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. The concept is that under those specific circumstances, the teaching staff would follow the pupils. Since Vocational is receiving no pupils and does not expect to receive any pupils until the 1996 school year, the petitioner's claim must be dismissed.

There has been no discontinuance of a school or a grade within a school. There has been a discontinuance of a program or class in construction trades and pupils have been sent to another school because five pupils do not justify running a program at Central.

The petitioner has failed to establish that he gave three months' notice of his election to join the staff of Vocational as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1. Similar time limitations have been held as a bar to tenure rights. The petitioner's claim must be dismissed.

DETERMINATION

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 provides

> Whenever, heretofore or hereafter, any board of education in any school district in this state shall discontinue any high school, junior high school, elementary school or any one or more of the grades from kindergarten through grade 12 in the district and shall, by agreement with another board of education, send the pupils in such schools or grades to such other district, all teaching staff members who are assigned for a majority of their time in such school, grade or grades and who have tenure of office at the time such schools or grades are discontinued shall be employed by the board of education of such other district in the same or nearest equivalent position; provided that any such teaching staff member may elect to remain in the employ of the former district in any position to which he may be entitled by virtue of his tenure and seniority rights by giving notice of said election to the boards of education in each of the school districts at least three months prior to the date on which such school, grade, or grades are to be discontinued. Teaching staff members so employed in such other district shall have their rights to tenure, seniority, pension and accumulated leave of absence, accorded under the laws of this state, recognized and preserved by the board of education of that district. Any periods of prior employment in such sending district shall count toward the acquisition of tenure in the other district to the same extent as if all such prior employment had been in such other district.

The Supreme Court of New Jersey had occasion to review this statute in In re Jamesburg High School Closing, 83 N.J. 540, 547 (1980). The court found the terms of the statute unequivocal:

> The words of the statute require exactly what they say . . . fundamental principles of statutory instruction require that [i]f the [statutory] language is plain, unambiguous and uncontrolled by other parts of the act or other acts upon the same subject the court cannot give it a different meaning.

The plain language of this statute contemplates the discontinuance of a high school, junior high school, elementary school or any one or more of the grades from kindergarten through grade 12. In the present case, however, no school or grade has been discontinued. Five pupils from Central voluntarily attend North for a building trades course. They have not been transferred to North and remain enrolled at Central. Central appears to have decided that it is more efficient to send five pupils to North for the course than to keep the respondent on active status. This is a decision clearly within the compass of Central's authority.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article. [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 through -14.]

Having reviewed the stipulated facts and having considered all arguments, I FIND that the petitioner is a victim of declining enrollments or other economic considerations such that Central decided to eliminate his position via N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 provides that a person dismissed as a result of such reduction shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified. I FIND that Central has complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

I CONCLUDE that William R. Bausmith, petitioner, has no claim to employment by the North Hunterdon Regional High School Board of Education on statutory or equitable grounds. I also CONCLUDE that the reduction in force affecting Bausmith was procedurally and substantively correct. Accordingly, I DETERMINE there is no relief that can be afforded the petitioner.

The petition of appeal is therefor DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

WILLIAM R. BAUSMITH, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTH HUNTERDON REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY, RESPONDENTS.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

In his exceptions, petitioner reiterates his claim that proper construction of the tenure laws, which must be read as to their intent, as well as to their specific language, demands that he be offered a position at North Hunterdon in that his reduction in force (RIF) was necessitated by the transfer (not "voluntary" enrollment, as stated by the ALJ) of five students from his program at Hunterdon Central to the same program at North Hunterdon; tenure law will not permit districts to transfer students from one school so as to create "declining enrollment" and then claim that the riffed teacher has no entitlement to a position in the other school merely because the first school was not "discontinued."

In reply, respondent Boards urge that the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 is plain and, as such, was correctly found by the ALJ not to be controlling herein. They further state that, as properly set forth by the ALJ, no students were transferred and there is at present no ratified agreement operating in the newly created, but not yet functional, county vocational district.

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that Hunterdon Central's decision to eliminate its carpentry program as being unwarranted by available student enrollment was entirely within its discretionary prerogative, and that agreement to permit the five students still wishing to take the course to attend North Hunterdon for this limited purpose does not, under the particular circumstances of this matter, constitute a transfer of either students or program within the contemplation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1 so as to entitle petitioner to assert a claim at North Hunterdon.

In so holding, the Commissioner is mindful that discontinuance of program, as opposed to school or grade as specified in statute, has been found by the Supreme Court to fall within the purview of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.1, and to the extent that the initial decision implies the contrary, the Commissioner clarifies such implication herein. However, the Commissioner determines that the circumstances of the present matter do not warrant a conclusion that petitioner's program was "taken over" by another employing entity so as to permit him to assert a tenure claim there. Lois Shelko v. Board of Education of the Mercer County Special Services School District, Mercer County, 1984 S.L.D. 2023, Supreme Court decision reversing Appellate Division's affirmance (1983 S.L.D. 1639) of State Board decision (1982 S.L.D. 1563) reversing Commissioner (1981 S.L.D. 1013)

Accordingly, with the above clarification, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed and the Petition of Appeal dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2838-92
AGENCY REF. NO. 59-3/92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MILLICENT SMITH, BRIDGETON SCHOOL DISTRICT

A. Paul Kienzle, Jr., Esquire, (Casarow, Casarow and Kienzle, attorneys) for petitioner, School District of the City of Bridgeton

Kenneth A. Sandler, Esquire, (Selikoff and Cohen, attorneys) for respondent, Millicent Smith

Record Closed: March 28, 1993 Decided: May 12, 1993

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13; and the act establishing jurisdiction in the Commissioner of Education to hear tenure cases in the public school system, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -30.1

The Bridgeton Board of Education (BOE), by its Superintendent Thomas C. Lane IV, (Lane,) certified the following charges against the respondent, Millicent Smith, a tenured teacher at the Cherry Street School:

Charge No. 1:

Ms. Smith has been insubordinate to the administration at Cherry Street School in her responses to reasonable communications by the administration and outbursts in the presence of students and staff in the 1990-91 school year.

Charge No. 2:

Ms. Smith, in her teaching duties at Cherry Street School in 1990-91, prepared inadequate lesson plans and at times, had no plan book ready and available (September 24 and October 22, 1990) and failed to have plans available for substitute teacher on February 19, 1991. Ms. Smith has exhibited a lack of careful planning and sound preparation in the teaching duties she last performed for the Bridgeton Board of Education.

Charge No. 3:

Ms. Smith during the 1990-91 school year engaged in conduct that was clearly unbecoming a teacher wherein she committed numerous acts of abuse of the children in her care. Ms. Smith, on a number of different occasions, struck, slapped, hit and otherwise engaged in acts of corporal punishment against the elementary students at Cherry Street School. Ms. Smith, in her time teaching at Cherry Street School, inflicted physical, mental, and emotional punishment that was both outrageous and totally improper. Ms. Smith engaged in punishments of the children that were abusive including the physical assaults of the children, the improper assigning of large sentence writing requirements, withholding of lunches, acts of intimidation, very poor teacher-pupil interaction, and failure to care and protect students in her charge.

Charge No. 4:

Ms. Smith has exhibited conduct unbecoming a teacher and/or insubordination due to excessive absenteeism and excessive tardiness. Ms. Smith has been excessively absent and excessively tardy since the onset of her employment with the Bridgeton Board of Education in the 1984-85 school year, both at the Bridgeton Middle School and the Cherry Street School. The absences and tardiness demonstrate a lack of concern for the education progress of the students in Ms. Smith's institutional charge as well as a lack of concern for the continuity of the educational program in the school district.

Charge No. 5:

At Cherry Street School during the 1990-91 school year, Ms. Smith failed to provide proper teaching to students at the Cherry Street School, failed to teach effectively, failed to follow routines required for effective teaching and guidance of students in her care. Her actions in failure to follow routines, her extremely poor classroom evaluations and failure to support students in their quest for knowledge make it clear that Ms. Smith should be terminated as a teaching staff member.

Charge No. 6:

Ms. Smith has engaged in numerous acts of conduct unbecoming a teacher while in the employ of the Bridgeton School District including:

(a) Taking lunches away from students as a form of alleged discipline.
(b) Engaging in extreme insubordination and improper conduct toward supervisors.
(c) Returning to school in the evenings when no one else was present and at times when she was absent during the day.
(d) Failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate parent relations.
(e) Missing parent conferences at the time report cards were due.
(f) Demonstrated total lack of caring and positive attitude toward children in her care.

Charge No. 7:

Ms. Smith has failed to control, properly supervise and engage in proper classroom management for her class at the Cherry Street Elementary School during the 1990-91 school year. Ms. Smith's classroom appeared unorganized, poorly disciplined, chaotic, and Ms. Smith failed to engage in proper classroom management.

CLOSING OF RECORD

The respondent, Millicent Smith, denied all of the charges and a hearing was conducted at various locations in Cumberland County over a period of eleven days beginning January 4, 1993 and ending on February 5, 1993. The record closed on March 28, 1993, upon receipt of additional documentary evidence, briefs and final written argument.

BACKGROUND

Millicent Smith (Smith) was formerly a student in the Bridgeton School District. When she graduated from Glassboro College she was recruited by Lane to teach in the Bridgeton system because he wanted local people to return and teach in the community. She began her career as a basic skills teacher and served more than five years in this capacity. When a reduction in force (RIF) occurred in 1989, Smith "bumped" into a classroom position teaching second grade at the Cherry Street School. This was her first classroom assignment. She began in the 1990-91 school year.

The first charge, which alleges insubordination, results from a single incident which occurred on September 28, 1992. On that date, near the end of the day, two students in Smith's class began to fight. Smith broke up the fight and was scratched in the process. Another teacher from an adjacent classroom took the two students to the "office." Smith sent referral forms to the office describing the children's behavior.

Rebecca Guess (Guess) was the Vice Principal at Cherry Street School at that time. She sent the two pupils back to Smith's room with the referral forms indicating that the students were not to return to school unless accompanied by their parents. Smith was concerned that the two students had not received any "definite punishment." She challenged Guess over the intercom. Smith demanded to know if "that was all she was going to do" to the two students. Guess did not want to discuss the matter over the intercom and after school Guess and Smith discussed the incident further. Guess warned Smith that her language on the intercom was unacceptable. Although this occurred after school on that day, there were still teachers, parents and pupils present who heard the comments. Smith never repeated this behavior towards administrators again.

Insubordination is synonymous with disobedience, it is an unwillingness to submit to authority. It is more than being merely argumentative or fractious. In this case it appears that Smith's tone of voice constituted the gravamen of the complaint because the words themselves: "is that all you are going to do," are no more than an inquiry. The words were delivered in an impatient and angry voice. I understand why Guess was affronted. Certainly what Guess was doing, requiring the parents to return with the children, was appropriate under the circumstances. But Smith was not refusing to obey an order or school regulation. Smith was agitated and reacted too quickly when she misperceived that the children were not being disciplined. This does not rise to the level of insubordination. Since it never occurred again it cannot be considered a serious breach of faculty discipline. The incident is instructive however, in that it begins to illuminate Smith's views on discipline.

Charge Number 2 goes to the alleged failure of Smith to prepare lesson plans and/or to prepare adequate lesson plans on specific dates. On September 24, 1990 and on October 22, 1990, Smith acknowledges that she was late in submitting her lesson plans to Principal Coyne for review. Smith testified that on both occasions she completed her lesson plans later on the day they were due, and left them in the Principal's mailbox at his office.

Guess testified that a substitute teacher for Smith's class told her that Smith left her no lesson plans on February 19, 1991. However, the substitute teacher testified at the hearing that Smith did leave lesson plans on that day. In support of this testimony, Smith's sister testified that she dropped off the plans for the substitute at the school on her way to work that day.

In addition Smith's Annual Performance Report (P4) deals specifically with her planning performance. Under the heading General Planning the report reads as follows:

> Planning was satisfactory. The plan book was usually available and up to date. There was a problem with its availability when substitutes were present. Ms. Smith disputed this.

Principal Coyne, the person who reviews each teacher's plan book weekly, also conducted a classroom evaluation and prepared a report (P8). In his report Coyne assigns an "s" (satisfactory) to Smith in two areas which pertain to the maintenance of a lesson plan book.

> 1. Lesson plan book is available and up-to-date, with clear and logical plans that include objectives/skills, procedures, materials and follow-up.
> 2. Lesson plans indicate instructional alignment, continuity and sequence.

I FIND that Smith failed to have lesson plans available for the prinicipal's inspection on September 24 and October 22, 1990.

I also FIND that Smith corrected this deficiency on September 24 and October 22, 1990.

I FIND that Smith did provide her substitute with lesson plans on February 19, 1991.

I FIND that there is no evidence that Smith's lesson plans were inadequate.

CHARGE NO. 3

The third charge alleges physical, mental, and emotional abuse. The BOE alleges that Smith punished children in her class by physical assault, improper writing assignments, withholding lunches, acts of intimidation, very poor teacher-pupil interaction, and "failure to care and protect students in her charge."

Smith was removed from her classroom duties and returned to Basic Skills because the BOE determined that she was not fulfilling her classroom responsibilities in March 18, 1991.

The BOE replaced Smith with Jean Schupann, a basic skills teacher and an aide, Henrietta Jones. Within a month of taking over the class, the students began to complain to Schupann and Jones about Smith's behavior towards them. Jones testified that the children initiated the discussions by telling her she "was nicer" than their old teacher (Smith). She named several students who later testified. They told her about a variety of inappropriate actions such as slamming heads on desk, standing a student in a corner "all day;" throwing a child's shoes in the trash, pushing a child into a desk, and a child poked in the eye with a pencil. Jones reported this to Schupann who then questioned the children herself about the incidents. On April 24, 1991, Schupann gave Coyne a handwritten note containing these allegations (P4). Coyne said he had been advised by a board member to interview Schupann and this is what prompted the note. Thereafter Coyne personally interviewed the children in the presence of Jones. He said he did not lead the children but asked them if there was anything they wanted to talk about. They told him they wanted to talk about Smith. The children then repeated their allegations of abuse to Coyne and he memorialized their allegations (P15).

Coyne, Lane and Guess met and decided to advise Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) about the alleged abuse as required by law. A DYFS worker than interviewed the children in the presence of staff. Of course the children were later interviewed by counsel for both parties. When the children testified at the OAL hearing, most were telling their stories for the seventh time, at least.

The events occurred during the 1990-91 school year when the children were seven to nine years old and in second grade. When the children testified, they were in the fourth grade and were nine to eleven years old. This lapse of time is evident in their testimony.

The first child witness was F.M., a nine year old girl. She testified that she observed Smith "hit" children in the class. She said Smith "pulled J. by the arm," "threw S. in a closet, and threw K.'s head down on the desk." F.M. also testified that Smith "busted her lip" when she pushed F.M.'s head down on the desk. F.M. also described Smith as "rude" and very "nasty" and said Smith was "bossy" and placed children out in the hall or in the corner for no reason. F.M. could not recall that she went to the nurse accompanied by another student or that she had hugged Smith or written notes to her telling Smith she loved her when asked these questions on cross examination. She did recall that she often had in-school detention and was "failing" when Smith was her teacher. F.M.'s mother testified that her daughter told her Smith would not let students go to the bathroom and that Smith pushed her, but she did not believe her daughter at the time.

L.S. is a boy. His chief complaint was that Smith jabbed him in the eye with a pencil. He also said that if students did not put their heads down on the desk when asked to do so, or looked up when they were to have there heads down, Smith would "bang your head down on the desk."

L.S. described the pencil in the eye incident as follows: he was tapping V.M. on the back with the eraser end of his pencil because Smith was trying to get V.M.'s attention. When Smith saw him do that, she turned him around and said "don't poke people with a pencil." As she did so, she started waving the pencil around in his face and it "stuck."

L.S. said he went to the nurse who removed it with tweezers and then he told the principal. (Neither the nurse or principal recall such an incident).

L.S. also testified that Smith said to him "That's what you get for messing with other people." He showed a small scar on his cheek under his eye which appeared to be the size and shape of a chicken pox scar or pencil point. He alleged this was the scar from the pencil point.

L.S. also recalled that Smith always spoke "mean" to her students. He transferred out of Smith's room in November 1990.

When asked on cross examination why he sent Smith a Valentine and visited her after he was out of her class, he replied, "she wasn't always mean to me, she just poked me in the eye." He later stated, "Just because she poked me in the eye doesn't mean I have to hate her forever."

J.C. a boy, said he witnessed Smith "bang" students heads on desks. He named three or four students whose heads had been "banged." He claimed that Smith pushed him onto a desk and he fell to the floor. He denied that this occurred because he was fighting. He said he was not a fighter. He did not look like a fighter.

S.J. an eleven year old girl, was in Smith's class in 1990-91. She said she witnessed Smith shove F. M.'s head down on the desk "hard." (She winced when she described the action). She complained that Smith sent them to the office when they were bad but Schupann gave them another chance.

E.G. gave the impression that she had spent many hours rehearsing what she would say. She came to the witness stand with great pressure of speech and very animated. She spoke swiftly, fluently and used very descriptive language. She began by saying that "in the beginning she (Smith) seemed like a regular teacher, then she became a monster teacher, she punched J., shoved S., put her nails in me. She was violent. Everyone disliked her."

E.G. also testified that "J.C. fell down. He was making funny faces." "She (Smith) told him to shut up. J.C. said she 'talked mean' ." "Smith asked J.C. 'what did you say?' and the desk fell back. J.C. started to cry." Then E.G. said in an aside "Boys don't show their tears." She said "J.C.'s mom came up to school."

E.G. described an incident involving S.B.

> S.B. was talking to Francis. Ms. Smith told S.B. to shut her mouth. She said 'Shut your mouth right now or you'll regret you didn't.' S.B. said 'you're not my ma.' Then S.B. got her name on the board and two checks. S.B. started flipping her shoes on and off. Ms. Smith took S.B.'s shoes, when she wouldn't put them on and threw them in the trash can and put S.B. in the closet. Ms. Smith dug her nails into S.B. 's arm, pushed her into the closet.

E.G. also said she saw Smith take F.M. by the back of the head and slam her hard onto the desk once when F.M. wouldn't tell Smith what she and S.J. were talking about.

E.G. also complained that Smith dug her nails into her arms and shoved her into her seat on two occasions and made her stand in the corner from 9:15 until lunch time. It made her knees hurt. She claimed that when Smith came to talk to her, she (E.G.) just hummed. As a result, E.G. had to stay after school.

E.G. claimed that Smith frequently told students to "shut up." She complained that Smith made her write sentences 15, 30 or 100 times for punishment.

She recalled that Smith poked L.S. in the eye with a pencil. She recalls that L.S. was "pencil fighting."

S.M. a girl, said during direct examination that all she remembered was that Smith shoved her and "made them make valentines." On cross examination she also recalled that Smith stayed in the supply closet for ten and fifteen minutes at a time. (Prior witnesses also mentioned that Smith often went into the supply closet for long periods of time. Smith later explained that she was preparing materials for class). S.M. also recalled that the whole class had to write sentences when the class was "bad."

S.M. recalled that L.S. was pencil fighting in the hall. She explained that pencil fighting consisted of trying to break the other person's pencil first. If you did you were entitled to give the other person "five free hits." She claimed she was watching the pencil fight intently because she had "bet" on the winner. She said L.S. was hit on the outside of the right eye. She said it was L.S.'s own pencil which poked him in the eye. She said everyone shouted" 'his eye is bleeding. So Ms. Smith said 'Let me see.' 'Hmmm,' she said, 'Go to the nurse.'"

S.M. also testified that she received two "D's" when Smith was her teacher, but made the honor roll when Schupann was her teacher. She also recalled writing a letter to Smith but said it was because Schupann made them write the letter.

S.M. recalled that Smith "slammed" F.M.'s head on the desk. She admitted that she once got into a fight which Smith had to break up and for which her mother had to come to school.

M.F., a ten year old boy, proudly claimed to be an honor roll student. He said he didn't know what to make of Smith as a teacher. She was all right at first but soon "began hollering, shoving students heads down on desks and writing 'stuff' for punishment." He recalls Smith telling E.G. she would "kick her ass." He said Smith frequently told students to "shut up."

M.F. said that when Smith punished them by making them put their heads down on the desk that she "didn't want their eyes showing." If Smith saw you looking, "she would shove your head down real hard." He said "she busted a girl's lip doing that." He also recalled that Smith banged his head down along with others whom he named. He recalled that "she threw J.C. into a desk" and refused to permit others to go to the bathroom. He recalled three students who "used the bathroom on themselves." (School Nurse Janet Page testified that she observed Smith's students wet themselves more frequently than other second graders. She said this stopped after Schupann took over the class).

M.F. also recalled that Smith pushed S.B. into a closet and "stabbed" L.S. in the eye. He said she used to "yank your clothes and pull your arm."

On cross examination M.F. admitted that he did not see Smith stab L.S. in the eye, he only repeated what L.S. told him.

L. F., a girl, recalled that L.S. was pencil fighting and Smith grabbed his pencil and cut him in the eye. She recalls seeing blood.

She also recalls that Smith slammed her head down but claims she was unhurt. She recalls that on one occasion Smith kicked her desk over. She recalls that Smith put S.B. in the closet and took her shoes off and put them in the trash can.

L.F. did not see F.M. get a "busted lip" but recalls that F.M. told her about the incident. She recalls that Smith put her hand up to E.G. in a threatening manner but did not hit her.

L.F. recalled "wetting herself" when Smith would not let her go to the bathroom. She said S.B. also "wet" herself and that F.M. had to run home to go to the bathroom.

F.M. also recalled that Smith told students to "sit your ass down!"

On cross examination she acknowledged that after Smith left the classroom she visited Smith but could not recall how often.

J.H. transferred out of the Cherry Street School because G., a boy in her class, continually made sexual contact with her. She said that Smith told her she would take care of it but it did not stop.

J.H. also recalled that Smith banged her head down on the desk and banged others too.

On cross examination J.H. was asked why she wrote a note to Smith saying "I love you, you the best teacher I ever had." She answered "But this is only an expression, most kids write to their teachers."

S.B., an eleven year old girl, recalled that Smith frequently "slammed kids" heads down on desks. She vividly recalled her own embarrassment when it happened to her. She recalled F.M.'s "busted lip." She recalled when Smith broke up a pencil fight involving L.S. and while waving a pencil at L.S., "hit him on the corner of his eye."

She recalled that Smith pushed her into a closet and threw her shoes into the trash. She said Smith returned her shoes to her at the end of the day.

S.B. also "wet herself" after pleading with Smith to allow her to go to the bathroom. The nurse gave her dry pants to wear. She also recalled three other students who "went to the bathroom on themselves."

She opined that "Ms. Smith wasn't right for a teacher. Most teachers don't curse or hit children."

She also opined that Smith went "into the closet and drank because she acted mean when she came out."

On cross examination she identified a note to Smith as her own and disowned another note which appeared to be in the same handwriting. She acknowledged that she never saw Smith drinking in the closet.

E.B. was the last former 1990-91 student to testify and he testified on Smith's behalf. His mother and Smith are friends. He began his testimony by opining that Smith was a good teacher. He said she helped him and he got mostly A's and B's. He characterized his fellow students as "getting into trouble." They would "pick fights, steal, not do their work." As punishment they were made to eat lunch with Smith or were denied an opportunity to watch videos. He said Smith did not "press" anyone's head on the desk or hit and grab students.

On cross examination E.B. could not recall a fight between L.F. and S.B., he could not recall S.B. getting her head pushed down or being thrown against a closet, he did not see F.M.'s cut lip, nor did he remember L.S. getting stabbed in the eye. He did remember that S.B.'s shoes were thrown in the trash by "someone" in the class. He did not remember G. bothering J.H. He did recall other kids talking about being pushed around. He remembered that Smith was not in the class "a lot of times."

Janet Page, the school nurse, testified that Smith's students wet their pants more frequently than other second grade students. She had no recollection of L.S. having a pencil wound to the cheek. Page recalled and recorded F.M.'s lacerated lip.

Warren Burch, the physical education teacher, and Barbara Cuff, the art teacher, both testified that they had difficulty with Smith's class. Burch taught the class from 11:40 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. once a week, in 1990-91, immediately following lunch. He reported to Coyne that "the kids complained they had to rush to eat lunch and their stomachs hurt." He said this occurred four to five times and he was required to spend three to four minutes just settling the class down.

Barbara Cuff testified that she taught art to Smith's students after lunch on Wednesdays. When she arrived on some occasions the students would be eating their lunch. The protocol was for teachers to have the class ready for the special teachers. Smith's class was seldom ready for Cuff and time was wasted as they ate lunch or cleaned up after lunch.

Coyne confronted Smith about this problem and Smith admitted to him that she was using lunch detention as a punishment. She held the children in detention before she gave them lunch rather than after they had lunch. This resulted in the children needing time to eat when the specials came to the room.

Some of the children complained about sentence writing. Guess, Coyne and Lane met and reviewed papers found in children's' desks. They thought the amount of sentence writing Smith gave to the students by way of discipline was excessive. However, the evidence they obtained was insufficient to establish this.

Smith denied striking students or banging heads. She said that she utilized assertive discipline technique. She said that one technique she utilized was to require individual students, and at times the whole class, to take a time out and put their heads down on the desk.

Smith opined that the children who accused her, their parents, Guess, Coyne, Burch and Cuff, were all lying.

Smith called a character witness from her church to testify on her behalf. She advised that Smith is an Assistant Youth Leader and the Clerk at the 7th Day Adventist Church in Bridgeton. She said Smith encouraged the children in the Church, contributed to Black History Month and performed a skit for the children. She said that Smith was a caring person.

Evelyn Gilbert was a teacher's aide in 1990-91. She was in the classroom next to Smith. She said she was frequently in Smith's classroom and never saw Smith abuse a student. Both she and Smith described the children in the class as difficult at best; that many of them had been retained or classified.

Florine Davis and Mary Hall were substitute teachers in Smith's class during her absences in 1990 and 1991. Davis described Smith's class as disruptive, argumentative and rude. However, Davis' educational background consisted entirely of college level secretarial courses. She was the substitute who corroborated Smith's claim that she did prepare lesson plans on February 19 and 20, 1991.

Mary Hall also substituted for Smith in the 1990-91 school year. She is still employed by the District as an attendance officer. She substituted for Smith on five different occasions in 1990-91. She described Smith's class as rowdy; they talked, left their seats and conducted pencil fights.

Cynthia Kates was a special education teacher at Cherry Street School in 1990-91. She is still employed by the Bridgeton School District, at the West End School. She was in the second grade pod at Cherry Street, between Smith's class and the Basic Skills class. A pod is a very large room divided into classrooms by room dividers opening into a central space for a hallway. There are no doors.

She advised that Smith consulted her about discipline techniques. She observed Smith utilizing assertive discipline techniques such as writing names on the board, followed by check marks for each infraction of the rules. She observed Smith utilizing sentence writing and lunch detention. She frequently observed unruly behavior in Smith's classroom and thought that other second grade classes were better behaved than Smith's. She also said she never observed any physical conduct between Smith and a student. She saw no inappropriate behavior. She also said that the behavior of the class did not improve under Schupann. She did say that the proper use of lunch detention included permitting the children to eat first.

DISCUSSION OF CREDIBILITY

There are too many conflicts regarding the alleged wound to L.S.'s eye to make a finding that Smith jabbed him with a pencil. One could as easily conclude that L.S. jabbed himself during a pencil fight. This is what S.M. apparently saw. In addition, L.S. said he went to the nurse and principal to complain. Neither remembers this. From the testimony and demeanor of both of them, it was clear that they have formed an opinion that Smith is not a competent teacher. Therefore, if L.S. had gone to either of them as he claimed he had, one of them would have been sure to remember it.

I FIND that the BOE failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Smith assaulted L.S. with a pencil or was the cause of an injury to his eye or cheek.

The testimony concerning Smith's rough handling of children in her class was persuasive. Nearly every child reported having their head "banged" down on a desk at one time or another. Each child reported seeing it done to others. The nurse's notes corroborate F.M.'s "busted lip."

J.C.'S testimony was quite straightforward. He said Smith banged his head on the desk as well as the head of others. I believe him.

Most of E.G.'s testimony was corroborated by others. However, she appeared so animated, rehearsed and eager that, if standing alone, her testimony would have been suspect. Nevertheless, on balance she was believable.

S.M. was an observant and intelligent witness. She shed more light on the incident involving L.S.'s eye than anyone else. She also described the incident in which Smith banged F.M.'s head on the desk. She was a credible witness.

M.F. was also an intelligent and straightforward witness with an ability for description. He clearly identified the punishment of putting your head down on the desk. He explained that Smith would push a child's head down on the desk if the child's eyes were showing. This was the most reasonable and probable explanation for what children identified as "head banging." He also described her rough handling of students. He observed her push students. He said "she used to yank your clothes and pull your arm." He was incensed when he reported how she withheld bathroom privileges from some children causing them "to use the bathroom on themselves." He was also able to differentiate between direct evidence and hearsay. He admitted he had only heard that Smith jabbed L.S. in the eye; he said did not see it. I believe his testimony.

L.F. also vividly recalled "wetting herself" in Smith class because she was denied the opportunity to go to the bathroom. She said Smith pushed her head down on the desk but that she was unhurt. She recalled Smith kicking her desk over, and that Smith put S.B. in the closet and put her shoes in the trash. Her testimony was also straightforward and believable.

F.M. only recalled that Smith talked meanly to students. "Sit your ass down!" Nevertheless, her testimony corroborated what others described of Smith's demeanor.

J.H. complained to Smith that G. was sexually accosting her. Smith failed to protect her. She also recalled having her head banged and saw Smith do it to others. She was articulate and thorough. I believed her testimony also.

S.B. corroborated head banging, and F.M.'s "busted lip." She reported feelings of embarrassment at having her head pushed down. She said Smith pushed her into the closet and threw her shoes in the trash and did not return them until after school. She also wet herself after pleading to go to the bathroom to no avail. She too, was credible.

S.B. summed it up best when she remarked that "Ms. Smith wasn't right for a teacher, most teachers don't curse or hit children."

These incidents are corroborated by the testimony of the various children. Smith's propensity to punish and demean children was observed by Principal Coyne (See Charge No. 4). Smith's propensity to punish and demean children is also implicit in her rage when Guess did not punish the two children who fought in Smith's classroom in a manner satisfactory to Smith even though the actions of Guess were reasonable and well taken.

I FIND that Smith punished children during quiet time by pushing their heads down on the desk, causing injury to F.M., and pain and embarrassment to others.

I FIND that Smith handled children roughly; that she pushed and shoved children in her class; that she tugged and pulled on their clothes and arms.

I FIND that Smith withheld lunch from children as punishment.

I FIND that Smith spoke to the children in a demeaning fashion telling them to "sit their asses down" and using other expressions which were disrespectful.

I FIND that Smith punished children by withholding bathroom privileges.

I FIND that Smith punished S.B. by throwing her shoes into the trash.

I CONCLUDE that Smith's conduct constituted physical, mental and emotional abuse and violates N.J.S.A. 18A-6.1, the prohibition against corporal punishment.

CHARGE NO. 4

The 4th charge alleges excessive absenteeism and excessive tardiness. Exhibits P35 through P49 document Smith's absenteeism and tardiness from January 1985 through the 1989-90 school year. During all this time Smith was a basic skills teacher at the Bridgeton Middle School. According to her principal Jerry Benfer, when a basic skills teacher is absent, no substitute is provided.

These records are difficult to reconcile. Nevertheless, it clearly appears that Smith was absent 19 days during the 1986-87 school year, 21½ days during the 1987-88 school year; 10 days in the 1988-89 school year and 15 days during the 1989-90 school year. Most absences were for illness, although a few were for professional leave, personal leave or a death in the family.

Smith was also put on Notice by Benfer on several occasions that her tardiness was not acceptable. On September 30, 1985, he notified her that she was late three times in the first month of the school year. By November 18 of 1985, Smith had already been late eight times. She was apparently not late again during the balance of that school year.

On December 18, 1987, Benfer advised Smith in writing that he "observed a recurring pattern of lateness to school again this year." He threatened her with a hearing before the Superintendent of Schools. On several occasions, according to Benfer and Lane, they counseled Smith concerning her lateness and absences. However, none of these matters ever resulted in a disciplinary action or the withholding of increments. In fact, during this period of time Smith acquired tenure. It is against this background however, that Smith's attendance record for the critical school year 1990-91 is compared.

In the 1990-91 school year Smith was absent 23½ days. One absence may have been recorded mistakenly. On one occasion Coyne sent Smith to another second grade teacher's class to observe, and she was mistakenly recorded as absent.

Smith was also late in the 1990-91 school year. By December 5, 1990, Coyne had already documented seven latenesses.

In December 1990, Smith was absent on four consecutive days. These absences coincided with a meeting she was to have with Lane concerning alleged inadequacies in her classroom and in her teaching skills. In March of 1991, Smith was removed from the classroom and returned to special assignments. Her record of tardiness and absenteeism was one of the factors in this decision.

Excessive absences are a sufficient cause for the Commissioner to terminate a teacher when it appears that the absences have created a significant, adverse effect on school children notwithstanding the absences were in connection with a physical ailment plaguing the teacher. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jerome Kacprowicz, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 147, 151.

Smith never explained her absences or tardiness except occasionally to say to Benfer or Coyne that she had diarrhea. It appears that she may have suffered from irritable bowel syndrome. Smith presented Matthew P. Soff, M.D., a gastroenterologist as a witness on her behalf. He described irritable bowel syndrome as the second leading cause of missed work or absenteeism. It is characterized by severe diarrhea, cramps and weakness.

Soff's report was presented to the Board of Education only during the actual plenary hearing in this matter. The Board of Education pointed out that Smith only sought Soff's advice after she was removed as a classroom teacher and has not regularly consulted him since. In addition, Soff's notes indicate that one of her concerns when she met with him on December 4, 1992, was that she was going to "be fired."

In the cases collected in Kacprowicz supra the teacher's absences were more flagrant than Smith's absences. Nevertheless, I FIND that Smith's absences were frequent and far exceeded the ten day allotment of sick days for teacher's in the Bridgeton School District.

I also FIND that Smith's tardiness was excessive.

These two factors must be considered in determining whether Smith should be removed or disciplined. In isolation the two factors are insufficient to remove a tenured teacher. They must be considered along with evidence that the children in the teacher's care suffered a significant, adverse effect.

CHARGE NO. 5

The fifth charge goes directly to Smith's competence and effectiveness during the 1990-91 school year. The allegations are that Smith failed to teach effectively and properly and failed to follow routines. In addition, the BOE cites Smith's poor classroom evaluation and a failure "to support students in their quest for knowledge."

The evidence in support of these charges went primarily to the teaching of reading and the introduction of evaluations performed during the 1990-91 school year.

Smith was evaluated several times during the school year. These evaluations were as casual as a drop-in visit by the principal or superintendent, to a planned and prescheduled observation resulting in a written document shared with the teacher.

On September 28, 1990, Coyne visited Smith's class and concluded that Smith's classroom was "a mess" and "discipline (was) not being addressed."

On October 5th, 1990, Lane visited the classroom and told Coyne he was concerned about the "condition of the room."

On October 10, 1990, Coyne visited again an found the room in "chaos." On the 12th Coyne also noted "chaos" and the teacher "reprimanding her children."

On November 29, 1990, Coyne conducted a prescheduled formal classroom evaluation of Smith. Coyne found that Smith had subject matter competency and knew appropriate instructional techniques and procedures. He also found that her recordkeeping and planbook were up-to-date. On this occasion he noted that her classroom appearance was "conducive to learning and appropriate to lesson/activity."

However, he also made extensive notes concerning Smith's classroom demeanor. The notes dealing with demeanor are reproduced here in full as follows:

> The scheduled time for the observation was 12:25 - 1:05 as per Ms. Smith's request. When I arrived at 12:25, Ms. Smith requested that I give her about five minutes to allow her students to finish up at the lavatory. I sat out in the pod and was appalled by what I witnessed. During the five minutes I sat there, I did not hear one kind work spoken to the class. Ms. Smith constantly berated, threatened, and reprimanded the class as they stood in line. I waited for the class to enter and be seated. Then I entered the room to observe a math lesson, the same lack of human relations that I witnessed in the hallway continued in the classroom. The entire lesson from 12:30-1:20 was overshadowed by continual verbal threats, reprimands, verbal bribery and intimidation. I did not feel comfortable in this classroom. I was bothered by the treatment of the children by Ms. Smith. This will be addressed later in this report.

Later in the report Coyne added additional explanatory notes to his evaluation:

> Classroom control is completely unsatisfactory. This class is being controlled by intimidation and fear. I did not see any assertive discipline techniques. The class is getting too many mixed signals from the teacher. They have no idea as to where they stand with Ms. Smith. The basically received the same treatment whether they cooperated or not. As the class proceeded, Ms. Smith said, "Remember the rules" over, and over, and over. At this point in the school year, the command should be unnecessary if a discipline plan has been established. Discipline should be secondary within the classroom. In this lesson, continual disciplining prevailed. More than once, Ms. Smith stated, "If you don't ....then ...." Towards the end of the observation, children were told to put their heads down at the slightest infraction.
>
> Instructional time was not effectively utilized. A lesson consumed by discipline is not an effective lesson. The time spent should have been devoted to teaching, not continual reprimands.
>
> I did not witness positive teacher-pupil interaction. I watched the body language and facial expressions of the class. Most appeared unhappy or indifferent. Most sat with heads propped up with arms. I finally saw a child crack a smile at 12:52 when the baseball game began (a math game). The human relations employed with the class leave much to be desired....

Guess was the Vice Principal at the Cherry Street School in 1990-91. She has earned several certifications in the appropriate educational fields for her position. She is certified in K to 8, in guidance and student personnel, and as a principal. She has been employed for 22 years by the BOE and taught second grade at Cherry Street School for 16 years. She was Curriculum Supervisor for two years and assistant principal for four years.

Guess discussed the reading program at Cherry Street School with reference to the second grade. All of Smith's students utilized Houghton Mifflin's reading books; Adventures, Carousels and Discoveries, depending upon the student's proficiency. Each series contains three "magazines" or separate units for purpose of measurement.

At a minimum, each student in Bridgeton School District is expected to complete six magazines (two complete books) per school year. As a student completed a magazine, the students reading record was to be submitted to Guess, who tracked each student's progress. It was ultimately Guess' decision when a student would move on to the next magazine. A teacher was not to begin the next magazine until Guess had reviewed the child's progress and authorized the child to move. There is a wide discrepancy between the records kept by Guess and the records kept by Smith in her Squibbs Class Record Book.

According to Guess, the pacing scheduled for reading in each group suggests completing the first book (three magazines) by the end of December. She testified that Smith had not submitted a single magazine test to her for any child by the end of December. Smith's Book indicates that she tested her Adventures I and Carousels reading groups on the first magazine on November 26, 1990.

This discrepancy cannot be explained. The very best that can be said for Smith is that she utterly failed to report her students reading progress to Guess in a timely fashion thus endangering the children's class standing or leaving them vulnerable to repeating the second grade. In any case, there is absolutely no evidence that any of Smith's students, at the time Smith was transferred out of her class on March 18, 1991, could have completed six magazines by the end of the school year.

Pamela Garwood, also a second grade teacher indicated that in her experience, the average class could complete one book by the end of January, spending two months on the first magazine, six to eight weeks on the second magazine and finishing the third magazine by the end of January. Smith was not on this pace at all. Garwood did acknowledge that pace depends upon the class to some degree and that classes move at different speeds.

All of the certified teachers except Smith indicated that Smith's class was about average in reading when the school year began. One group was a magazine behind pace for the second grade, one group was on schedule and the third group was a magazine ahead of the scheduled pace.

I FIND that the credible evidence indicates that Smith failed to teach reading effectively and properly and failed to follow proper procedures.

I also FIND that Smith's classroom evaluation and other evidence of her teaching skills clearly indicate that she has failed to support her students in their quest for knowledge.

CHARGE NO. 6

This charge alleges that Smith "engaged in numerous acts of conduct unbecoming a teacher." The charges are quite specific. They include the charges of:

a. withholding student's lunches for discipline;
b. insubordination;
c. working in the school at night when she was absent during the day;
d. failure to communicate properly with parents;
e. missing parent conferences; and
f. demonstrating a lack of caring and positive attitude towards children in her care.

I have already described how Smith withheld lunches for discipline. I have dismissed the insubordination charge. I have also described Smith's lack of caring and positive attitude toward the children in her care. This leaves individual specification c, d, and e to be discussed.

> c. Returning to school in the evenings when no one else was present and at times when she was absent during the day.

There was no rule against working at night. When told to stop coming in at night by Lane, Smith stopped. She explained that she was there to prepare plans and class materials. She was there at night when she was sick preparing lesson plans for the substitute. This charge cannot be sustained.

> d. Failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate parent relations.

The mother of F.M. testified that on one occasion she and Smith "got into it" at school. B.M. said that Smith kept telling her how "bad" her child was and this caused an argument between them which ended with B.M. telling Coyne she wanted to "pop" Smith. B.M. said that during the course of the argument Smith made the following comments to her:

"You don't pay my salary;"
"Tell you mother why I pushed you" (to F.M. who was present)
"The whole damn class is crazy and I got other things on my mind, I don't need this shit."
"I don't like your child."

B.M. said she told Smith that she "wouldn't pay the salary of a teacher like you" and asked Coyne to change her daughter's teacher. (Coyne's notes indicate that the date this occurred on was November 2, 1990.)

B.M. seemed to harbor no ill will towards Smith. Coyne did not change F.M. to another class and B.M. and Smith continued frequent telephone discussions, some of which, according to B.M., were "good."

Smith recalled a conversation with B.M. in which B.M. called her a "bitch" but denied all of the remarks attributed to her by B.M. No other party was present to confirm or deny that these remarks were made by Smith. However, B.M. reported the comments immediately to Coyne who recalled some of them.

Because B.M. appeared to hold no hostility to Smith and took equal blame for causing the shouting match between them, she appeared to be telling the truth. I believed her because she seemed to be reluctant to hurt Smith and was anxious to share the blame for their argument.

e. Missing parent conferences at the time report cards were due.

On the 13th and 14th of November, 1990, parent/teacher conferences were scheduled and report cards were due. Smith was absent and Guess observed at least one pair of parents come for the conference and Smith was not there to conference with them. In her testimony Smith did not think this was significant. She seemed to blame the parents for not confirming their appointments.

I FIND that Smith failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate teacher/parent relations with B.M. on November 2, 1990.

I also FIND that Smith missed at least one teacher/parent conference in November 1990.

These are factors to be considered in determining if Smith should be disciplined for conduct committed in 1990-91 in the Cherry Street School.

CHARGE NO. 7

The seventh charge alleges failure to control, properly supervise and engage in proper classroom management in the Cherry Street School in 1990-91. The specific elements of the charge are that Smith's classroom appeared unorganized, poorly disciplined, chaotic and that Smith failed to engage in proper classroom management.

While Lane, Coyne and Guess all remarked that Smith's classroom was chaotic or a "mess," her peers generally agreed that her classroom appearance was satisfactory. In addition, Lane admitted that he was a "neatness nut."

Smith obviously attempted to make her room conducive to learning. She purchased numerous teaching aids and instructional materials from Jean Scaroni, who operated an educational store for teachers.

During Coyne's prearranged observation of Smith on November 29, 1990, he marked her "satisfactory" in classroom appearance. Coyne also worked with Smith after this conference and reports that her classroom organization and classroom management actually improved during that brief time. Unfortunately, Coyne became ill and could not supervise Smith any longer. She apparently needed close classroom supervision.

Smith's failure to discipline her class properly has been set forth at length in discussion of prior charges, as has her failure to teach effectively.

Therefore, while I am satisfied that Smith's classroom did not always meet Lane's high standard of neatness, I am disinclined to hold that a messy classroom is a ground for determining that a teacher is not competent. If a good teacher kept a messy classroom, I am sure it would only be the occasion for some good natured banter between the teacher and the administration.

LEGAL STANDARD

In the recent case of In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Courtney, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 399, ALJ Springer summarized the holding in Redcay vs. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E & A 1944). That case has long stood for the proposition that "(u)nfitness for a position in the school system may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but is 'best shown by numerous incidents.'" Courtney, supra. p. 403. In addition, ALJ Springer cites In re Alfano, 1979, S.L.D. ____ (Comm'r Oct. 23, 1979) for the proposition that "(s)chool officials need not wait until some child is badly injured before removing a teacher prone to violence." Courtney, supra., p. 403.

In this matter the BOE has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Smith punished children by pushing their heads down on desks, by handling them roughly, by tugging and pulling on their clothes and arms, by withholding lunch and bathroom privileges from them and by speaking to them in a demeaning manner, causing physical, mental and emotional pain, in violation of the statute prohibiting corporal punishment, N.J.S.A. 18A-6.1. These were repeated acts over a period of months. These are also acts which constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher. I therefore CONCLUDE that Smith committed conduct unbecoming to a member of the teaching profession.

The tenure statute includes "other just cause" as a ground for dismissing a tenured teacher. N.J.A.C. 18A:6-10. These grounds are not defined in the statute. Under Redcay, supra. 371, individual incidents of unfitness may be viewed in the conglomerate.

The BOE has established here, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Smith was frequently both absent and tardy to an excess, that she failed to effectively and properly teach reading, failed to follow proper procedures and failed to support her students in their quest for knowledge. Finally, she failed to communicate effectively and properly with a parent and missed a parent conference.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the BOE has demonstrated other just cause to dismiss Smith from her tenured position by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

ULTIMATE CONCLUSION AND ORDER OF DISPOSITION

For all these reasons I CONCLUDE that the tenure charge of unbecoming conduct is SUSTAINED.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE that there is just cause to SUSTAIN the tenure charges against Smith.

I ORDER that Millicent Smith be discharged from her teaching position in the Bridgeton School District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MILLICENT SMITH, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF BRIDGETON, CUMBERLAND COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. However, the Board's request to file cross-exceptions was untimely filed and was therefore denied.

Respondent cites seven exceptions to the ALJ's findings and conclusions regarding Charge Three, one of which raises grave concerns regarding the initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law. Such exception states:

> The ALJ's credibility findings are further undermined by his reference to a witness who did not appear at hearing and his finding that this witness was credible. (Exceptions, at p. 26)

The Commissioner has scanned the transcripts provided in the record, which are not inclusive of all the days of hearing conducted in this case. Her review, like that of respondent's attorney, reveals no child witness whose initials are S.M. The record does indicate that respondent's attorney addressed a letter dated May 20, 1993 to the ALJ who heard the matter, seeking a clarification as to whom the ALJ referred in mentioning S.M. as a child witness in the case.

The record transmitted to the Commissioner is devoid of any resolution or clarification regarding such letter, except that the exceptions note that a conference call was placed among the ALJ and counsel for both parties in the matter after the ALJ's receipt of the letter of May 20, 1993. Without a full set of transcripts from which to attempt to resolve such confusion, and absent any disposition issuing from the ALJ following counsel's letter of May 20, 1993 or the conference call placed thereafter, the Commissioner is compelled to remand the case to the Office of Administrative Law for amendment to the initial decision explaining to whom the ALJ referred at pages 10 and 16 of the initial decision.

It bears emphasizing that the remand in this matter is directed solely to the ALJ for the singular purpose of clarifying what witness, if not S.M., testified. Consequently, the Commissioner stresses that this remand does not constitute a reopening of the record in any sense, and in remanding, she reserves judgment on the merits of this matter until such testimony is properly identified.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, incapacity and other just cause against respondent, tenured teaching staff member, including acts of corporal punishment against elementary students. Commissioner remanded matter to ALJ for singular purpose of clarifying to whom ALJ referred in mentioning S.M. as a child witness.

Remand clarified references to child witnesses. ALJ found in initial decision that based on testimony of witnesses and evidence presented, respondent's behavior warranted dismissal from her tenured position, albeit that some of the charges were not sustained.

Having reviewed the record and transcripts submitted in this matter, the Commissioner concurred with ALJ that Board had proven charges of incompetency and unbecoming conduct against respondent citing, inter alia, In re McRae, In re Booth, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 (corporal punishment) and Board's attendance policy. Commissioner directed matter be forwarded to State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13; and the act establishing jurisdiction in the Commissioner of Education to hear tenure cases in the public school system, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -30.1

The Bridgeton Board of Education (BOE), by its Superintendent Thomas C. Lane IV, (Lane,) certified the following charges against the respondent, Millicent Smith, a tenured teacher at the Cherry Street School:

Charge No. 1:

Ms. Smith has been insubordinate to the administration at Cherry Street School in her responses to reasonable communications by the administration and outbursts in the presence of students and staff in the 1990-91 school year.

Charge No. 2:

Ms. Smith, in her teaching duties at Cherry Street School in 1990-91, prepared inadequate lesson plans and at times, had no plan book ready and available (September 24 and October 22, 1990) and failed to have plans available for substitute teacher on February 19, 1991. Ms. Smith has exhibited a lack of careful planning and sound preparation in the teaching duties she last performed for the Bridgeton Board of Education.

Charge No. 3:

Ms. Smith during the 1990-91 school year engaged in conduct that was clearly unbecoming a teacher wherein she committed numerous acts of abuse of the children in her care. Ms. Smith, on a number of different occasions, struck, slapped, hit and otherwise engaged in acts of corporal punishment against the elementary students at Cherry Street School. Ms. Smith, in her time teaching at Cherry Street School, inflicted physical, mental, and emotional punishment that was both outrageous and totally improper. Ms. Smith engaged in punishments of the children that were abusive including the physical assaults of the children, the improper assigning of large sentence writing requirements, withholding of lunches, acts of intimidation, very poor teacher-pupil interaction, and failure to care and protect students in her charge.

Charge No. 4:

Ms. Smith has exhibited conduct unbecoming a teacher and/or insubordination due to excessive absenteeism and excessive tardiness. Ms. Smith has been excessively absent and excessively tardy since the onset of her employment with the Bridgeton Board of Education in the 1984-85 school year, both at the Bridgeton Middle School and the Cherry Street School. The absences and tardiness demonstrate a lack of concern for the education progress of the students in Ms. Smith's institutional charge as well as a lack of concern for the continuity of the educational program in the school district.

Charge No. 5:

At Cherry Street School during the 1990-91 school year, Ms. Smith failed to provide proper teaching to students at the Cherry Street School, failed to teach effectively, failed to follow routines required for effective teaching and guidance of students in her care. Her actions in failure to follow routines, her extremely poor classroom evaluations and failure to support students in their quest for knowledge make it clear that Ms. Smith should be terminated as a teaching staff member.

Charge No. 6:

Ms. Smith has engaged in numerous acts of conduct unbecoming a teacher while in the employ of the Bridgeton School District including:

(a) Taking lunches away from students as a form of alleged discipline.
(b) Engaging in extreme insubordination and improper conduct toward supervisors.
(c) Returning to school in the evenings when no one else was present and at times when she was absent during the day.
(d) Failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate parent relations.
(e) Missing parent conferences at the time report cards were due.
(f) Demonstrated total lack of caring and positive attitude toward children in her care.

Charge No. 7:

Ms. Smith has failed to control, properly supervise and engage in proper classroom management for her class at the Cherry Street Elementary School during the 1990-91 school year Ms. Smith's classroom appeared unorganized, poorly disciplined, chaotic, and Ms. Smith failed to engage in proper classroom management.

CLOSING OF RECORD

The respondent, Millicent Smith, denied all of the charges and a hearing was conducted at various locations in Cumberland County over a period of eleven days beginning January 4, 1993 and ending on February 5, 1993. The record closed on March 28, 1993, upon receipt of additional documentary evidence, briefs and final written argument.

BACKGROUND

Millicent Smith (Smith) was formerly a student in the Bridgeton School District. When she graduated from Glassboro College she was recruited by Lane to teach in the Bridgeton system because he wanted local people to return and teach in the community. She began her career as a basic skills teacher and served more than five years in this capacity. When a reduction in force (RIF) occurred in 1989, Smith "bumped" into a classroom position teaching second grade at the Cherry Street School. This was her first classroom assignment. She began in the 1990-91 school year.

The first charge, which alleges insubordination, results from a single incident which occurred on September 28, 1992. On that date, near the end of the day, two students in Smith's class began to fight. Smith broke up the fight and was scratched in the process. Another teacher from an adjacent classroom took the two students to the "office." Smith sent referral forms to the office describing the children's behavior.

Rebecca Guess (Guess) was the Vice Principal at Cherry Street School at that time. She sent the two pupils back to Smith's room with the referral forms indicating that the students were not to return to school unless accompanied by their parents. Smith was concerned that the two students had not received any "definite punishment." She challenged Guess over the intercom. Smith demanded to know if "that was all she was going to do" to the two students. Guess did not want to discuss the matter over the intercom and after school Guess and Smith discussed the incident further. Guess warned Smith that her language on the intercom was unacceptable. Although this occurred after school on that day, there were still teachers, parents and pupils present who heard the comments. Smith never repeated this behavior towards administrators again.

Insubordination is synonymous with disobedience, it is an unwillingness to submit to authority. It is more than being merely argumentative or fractious. In this case it appears that Smith's tone of voice constituted the gravamen of the complaint because the words themselves: "is that all you are going to do," are no more than an inquiry. The words were delivered in an impatient and angry voice. I understand why Guess was affronted. Certainly what Guess was doing, requiring the parents to return with the children, was appropriate under the circumstances. But Smith was not refusing to obey an order or school regulation. Smith was agitated and reacted too quickly when she misperceived that the children were not being disciplined. This does not rise to the level of insubordination. Since it never occurred again it cannot be considered a serious breach of faculty discipline. The incident is instructive however, in that it begins to illuminate Smith's views on discipline.

Charge Number 2 goes to the alleged failure of Smith to prepare lesson plans and/or to prepare adequate lesson plans on specific dates. On September 24, 1990 and on October 22, 1990, Smith acknowledges that she was late in submitting her lesson plans to Principal Coyne for review. Smith testified that on both occasions she completed her lesson plans later on the day they were due, and left them in the Principal's mailbox at his office.

Guess testified that a substitute teacher for Smith's class told her that Smith left her no lesson plans on February 19, 1991. However, the substitute teacher testified at the hearing that Smith did leave lesson plans on that day. In support of this testimony, Smith's sister testified that she dropped off the plans for the substitute at the school on her way to work that day.

In addition Smith's Annual Performance Report (P4) deals specifically with her planning performance. Under the heading General Planning the report reads as follows:

> Planning was satisfactory. The plan book was usually available and up to date. There was a problem with its availability when substitutes were present. Ms. Smith disputed this.

Principal Coyne, the person who reviews each teacher's plan book weekly, also conducted a classroom evaluation and prepared a report (P8). In his report Coyne assigns an "s" (satisfactory) to Smith in two areas which pertain to the maintenance of a lesson plan book.

> 1. Lesson plan book is available and up-to-date, with clear and logical plans that include objectives/skills, procedures, materials and follow-up.
> 2. Lesson plans indicate instructional alignment, continuity and sequence.

I FIND that Smith failed to have lesson plans available for the prinicipal's inspection on September 24 and October 22, 1990.

I also FIND that Smith corrected this deficiency on September 24 and October 22, 1990.

I FIND that Smith did provide her substitute with lesson plans on February 19, 1991.

I FIND that there is no evidence that Smith's lesson plans were inadequate.

CHARGE NO. 3

The third charge alleges physical, mental, and emotional abuse. The BOE alleges that Smith punished children in her class by physical assault, improper writing assignments, withholding lunches, acts of intimidation, very poor teacher-pupil interaction, and "failure to care and protect students in her charge."

Smith was removed from her classroom duties and returned to Basic Skills because the BOE determined that she was not fulfilling her classroom responsibilities in March 18, 1991.

The BOE replaced Smith with Jean Schupann, a basic skills teacher and an aide, Henrietta Jones. Within a month of taking over the class, the students began to complain to Schupann and Jones about Smith's behavior towards them. Jones testified that the children initiated the discussions by telling her she "was nicer" than their old teacher (Smith). She named several students who later testified. They told her about a variety of inappropriate actions such as slamming heads on desk, standing a student in a corner "all day;" throwing a child's shoes in the trash, pushing a child into a desk, and a child poked in the eye with a pencil. Jones reported this to Schupann who then questioned the children herself about the incidents. On April 24, 1991, Schupann gave Coyne a handwritten note containing these allegations (P4). Coyne said he had been advised by a board member to interview Schupann and this is what prompted the note. Thereafter Coyne personally interviewed the children in the presence of Jones. He said he did not lead the children but asked them if there was anything they wanted to talk about. They told him they wanted to talk about Smith. The children then repeated their allegations of abuse to Coyne and he memorialized their allegations (P15).

Coyne, Lane and Guess met and decided to advise Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) about the alleged abuse as required by law. A DYFS worker than interviewed the children in the presence of staff. Of course the children were later interviewed by counsel for both parties. When the children testified at the OAL hearing, most were telling their stories for the seventh time, at least.

The events occurred during the 1990-91 school year when the children were seven to nine years old and in second grade. When the children testified, they were in the fourth grade and were nine to eleven years old. This lapse of time is evident in their testimony.

The first child witness was F.M., a nine year old girl. She testified that she observed Smith "hit" children in the class. She said Smith "pulled J. by the arm," "threw S. in a closet, and threw K.'s head down on the desk." F.M. also testified that Smith "busted her lip" when she pushed F.M.'s head down on the desk. F.M. also described Smith as "rude" and very "nasty" and said Smith was "bossy" and placed children out in the hall or in the corner for no reason. F.M. could not recall that she went to the nurse accompanied by another student or that she had hugged Smith or written notes to her telling Smith she loved her when asked these questions on cross examination. She did recall that she often had in-school detention and was "failing" when Smith was her teacher. F.M.'s mother testified that her daughter told her Smith would not let students go to the bathroom and that Smith pushed her, but she did not believe her daughter at the time.

L.S. is a boy. His chief complaint was that Smith jabbed him in the eye with a pencil. He also said that if students did not put their heads down on the desk when asked to do so, or looked up when they were to have there heads down, Smith would "bang your head down on the desk."

L.S. described the pencil in the eye incident as follows: he was tapping V.M. on the back with the eraser end of his pencil because Smith was trying to get V.M.'s attention. When Smith saw him do that, she turned him around and said "don't poke people with a pencil." As she did so, she started waving the pencil around in his face and it "stuck."

L.S. said he went to the nurse who removed it with tweezers and then he told the principal. (Neither the nurse or principal recall such an incident).

L.S. also testified that Smith said to him "That's what you get for messing with other people." He showed a small scar on his cheek under his eye which appeared to be the size and shape of a chicken pox scar or pencil point. He alleged this was the scar from the pencil point.

L.S. also recalled that Smith always spoke "mean" to her students. He transferred out of Smith's room in November 1990.

When asked on cross examination why he sent Smith a Valentine and visited her after he was out of her class, he replied, "she wasn't always mean to me, she just poked me in the eye." He later stated, "Just because she poked me in the eye doesn't mean I have to hate her forever."

J.C. a boy, said he witnessed Smith "bang" students heads on desks. He named three or four students whose heads had been "banged." He claimed that Smith pushed him onto a desk and he fell to the floor. He denied that this occurred because he was fighting. He said he was not a fighter. He did not look like a fighter.

S.J. an eleven year old girl, was in Smith's class in 1990-91. She said she witnessed Smith shove F. M.'s head down on the desk "hard." (She winced when she described the action). She complained that Smith sent them to the office when they were bad but Schupann gave them another chance.

E.G. gave the impression that she had spent many hours rehearsing what she would say. She came to the witness stand with great pressure of speech and very animated. She spoke swiftly, fluently and used very descriptive language. She began by saying that "in the beginning she (Smith) seemed like a regular teacher, then she became a monster teacher, she punched J., shoved S., put her nails in me. She was violent. Everyone disliked her."

E.G. also testified that "J.C. fell down. He was making funny faces." "She (Smith) told him to shut up. J.C. said she 'talked mean' ." "Smith asked J.C. 'what did you say?' and the desk fell back. J.C. started to cry." Then E.G. said in an aside "Boys don't show their tears." She said "J.C.'s mom came up to school."

E.G. described an incident involving S.B.

> S.B. was talking to Francis. Ms. Smith told S.B. to shut her mouth. She said 'Shut your mouth right now or you'll regret you didn't.' S.B. said 'you're not my ma.' Then S.B. got her name on the board and two checks. S.B. started flipping her shoes on and off. Ms. Smith took S.B.'s shoes, when she wouldn't put them on and threw them in the trash can and put S.B. in the closet. Ms. Smith dug her nails into S.B. 's arm, pushed her into the closet.

E.G. also said she saw Smith take F.M. by the back of the head and slam her hard onto the desk once when F.M. wouldn't tell Smith what she and S.J. were talking about.

E.G. also complained that Smith dug her nails into her arms and shoved her into her seat on two occasions and made her stand in the corner from 9:15 until lunch time. It made her knees hurt. She claimed that when Smith came to talk to her, she (E.G.) just hummed. As a result, E.G. had to stay after school.

E.G. claimed that Smith frequently told students to "shut up." She complained that Smith made her write sentences 15, 30 or 100 times for punishment.

She recalled that Smith poked L.S. in the eye with a pencil. She recalls that L.S. was "pencil fighting."

S.M. a girl, said during direct examination that all she remembered was that Smith shoved her and "made them make valentines." On cross examination she also recalled that Smith stayed in the supply closet for ten and fifteen minutes at a time. (Prior witnesses also mentioned that Smith often went into the supply closet for long periods of time. Smith later explained that she was preparing materials for class). S.M. also recalled that the whole class had to write sentences when the class was "bad."

S.M. recalled that L.S. was pencil fighting in the hall. She explained that pencil fighting consisted of trying to break the other person's pencil first. If you did you were entitled to give the other person "five free hits." She claimed she was watching the pencil fight intently because she had "bet" on the winner. She said L.S. was hit on the outside of the right eye. She said it was L.S.'s own pencil which poked him in the eye. She said everyone shouted" 'his eye is bleeding. So Ms. Smith said 'Let me see.' 'Hmmm,' she said, 'Go to the nurse.'"

S.M. also testified that she received two "D's" when Smith was her teacher, but made the honor roll when Schupann was her teacher. She also recalled writing a letter to Smith but said it was because Schupann made them write the letter.

S.M. recalled that Smith "slammed" F.M.'s head on the desk. She admitted that she once got into a fight which Smith had to break up and for which her mother had to come to school.

M.F., a ten year old boy, proudly claimed to be an honor roll student. He said he didn't know what to make of Smith as a teacher. She was all right at first but soon "began hollering, shoving students heads down on desks and writing 'stuff' for punishment." He recalls Smith telling E.G. she would "kick her ass." He said Smith frequently told students to "shut up."

M.F. said that when Smith punished them by making them put their heads down on the desk that she "didn't want their eyes showing." If Smith saw you looking, "she would shove your head down real hard." He said "she busted a girl's lip doing that." He also recalled that Smith banged his head down along with others whom he named. He recalled that "she threw J.C. into a desk" and refused to permit others to go to the bathroom. He recalled three students who "used the bathroom on themselves." (School Nurse Janet Page testified that she observed Smith's students wet themselves more frequently than other second graders. She said this stopped after Schupann took over the class).

M.F. also recalled that Smith pushed S.B. into a closet and "stabbed" L.S. in the eye. He said she used to "yank your clothes and pull your arm."

On cross examination M.F. admitted that he did not see Smith stab L.S. in the eye, he only repeated what L.S. told him.

L. F., a girl, recalled that L.S. was pencil fighting and Smith grabbed his pencil and cut him in the eye. She recalls seeing blood.

She also recalls that Smith slammed her head down but claims she was unhurt. She recalls that on one occasion Smith kicked her desk over. She recalls that Smith put S.B. in the closet and took her shoes off and put them in the trash can.

L.F. did not see F.M. get a "busted lip" but recalls that F.M. told her about the incident. She recalls that Smith put her hand up to E.G. in a threatening manner but did not hit her.

L.F. recalled "wetting herself" when Smith would not let her go to the bathroom. She said S.B. also "wet" herself and that F.M. had to run home to go to the bathroom.

F.M. also recalled that Smith told students to "sit your ass down!"

On cross examination she acknowledged that after Smith left the classroom she visited Smith but could not recall how often.

J.H. transferred out of the Cherry Street School because G., a boy in her class, continually made sexual contact with her. She said that Smith told her she would take care of it but it did not stop.

J.H. also recalled that Smith banged her head down on the desk and banged others too.

On cross examination J.H. was asked why she wrote a note to Smith saying "I love you, you the best teacher I ever had." She answered "But this is only an expression, most kids write to their teachers."

S.B., an eleven year old girl, recalled that Smith frequently "slammed kids" heads down on desks. She vividly recalled her own embarrassment when it happened to her. She recalled F.M.'s "busted lip." She recalled when Smith broke up a pencil fight involving L.S. and while waving a pencil at L.S., "hit him on the corner of his eye."

She recalled that Smith pushed her into a closet and threw her shoes into the trash. She said Smith returned her shoes to her at the end of the day.

S.B. also "wet herself" after pleading with Smith to allow her to go to the bathroom. The nurse gave her dry pants to wear. She also recalled three other students who "went to the bathroom on themselves."

She opined that "Ms. Smith wasn't right for a teacher. Most teachers don't curse or hit children."

She also opined that Smith went "into the closet and drank because she acted mean when she came out."

On cross examination she identified a note to Smith as her own and disowned another note which appeared to be in the same handwriting. She acknowledged that she never saw Smith drinking in the closet.

E.B. was the last former 1990-91 student to testify and he testified on Smith's behalf. His mother and Smith are friends. He began his testimony by opining that Smith was a good teacher. He said she helped him and he got mostly A's and B's. He characterized his fellow students as "getting into trouble." They would "pick fights, steal, not do their work." As punishment they were made to eat lunch with Smith or were denied an opportunity to watch videos. He said Smith did not "press" anyone's head on the desk or hit and grab students.

On cross examination E.B. could not recall a fight between L.F. and S.B., he could not recall S.B. getting her head pushed down or being thrown against a closet, he did not see F.M.'s cut lip, nor did he remember L.S. getting stabbed in the eye. He did remember that S.B.'s shoes were thrown in the trash by "someone" in the class. He did not remember G. bothering J.H. He did recall other kids talking about being pushed around. He remembered that Smith was not in the class "a lot of times."

Janet Page, the school nurse, testified that Smith's students wet their pants more frequently than other second grade students. She had no recollection of L.S. having a pencil wound to the cheek. Page recalled and recorded F.M.'s lacerated lip.

Warren Burch, the physical education teacher, and Barbara Cuff, the art teacher, both testified that they had difficulty with Smith's class. Burch taught the class from 11:40 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. once a week, in 1990-91, immediately following lunch. He reported to Coyne that "the kids complained they had to rush to eat lunch and their stomachs hurt." He said this occurred four to five times and he was required to spend three to four minutes just settling the class down.

Barbara Cuff testified that she taught art to Smith's students after lunch on Wednesdays. When she arrived on some occasions the students would be eating their lunch. The protocol was for teachers to have the class ready for the special teachers. Smith's class was seldom ready for Cuff and time was wasted as they ate lunch or cleaned up after lunch.

Coyne confronted Smith about this problem and Smith admitted to him that she was using lunch detention as a punishment. She held the children in detention before she gave them lunch rather than after they had lunch. This resulted in the children needing time to eat when the specials came to the room.

Some of the children complained about sentence writing. Guess, Coyne and Lane met and reviewed papers found in children's' desks. They thought the amount of sentence writing Smith gave to the students by way of discipline was excessive. However, the evidence they obtained was insufficient to establish this.

Smith denied striking students or banging heads. She said that she utilized assertive discipline technique. She said that one technique she utilized was to require individual students, and at times the whole class, to take a time out and put their heads down on the desk.

Smith opined that the children who accused her, their parents, Guess, Coyne, Burch and Cuff, were all lying.

Smith called a character witness from her church to testify on her behalf. She advised that Smith is an Assistant Youth Leader and the Clerk at the 7th Day Adventist Church in Bridgeton. She said Smith encouraged the children in the Church, contributed to Black History Month and performed a skit for the children. She said that Smith was a caring person.

Evelyn Gilbert was a teacher's aide in 1990-91. She was in the classroom next to Smith. She said she was frequently in Smith's classroom and never saw Smith abuse a student. Both she and Smith described the children in the class as difficult at best; that many of them had been retained or classified.

Florine Davis and Mary Hall were substitute teachers in Smith's class during her absences in 1990 and 1991. Davis described Smith's class as disruptive, argumentative and rude. However, Davis' educational background consisted entirely of college level secretarial courses. She was the substitute who corroborated Smith's claim that she did prepare lesson plans on February 19 and 20, 1991.

Mary Hall also substituted for Smith in the 1990-91 school year. She is still employed by the District as an attendance officer. She substituted for Smith on five different occasions in 1990-91. She described Smith's class as rowdy; they talked, left their seats and conducted pencil fights.

Cynthia Kates was a special education teacher at Cherry Street School in 1990-91. She is still employed by the Bridgeton School District, at the West End School. She was in the second grade pod at Cherry Street, between Smith's class and the Basic Skills class. A pod is a very large room divided into classrooms by room dividers opening into a central space for a hallway. There are no doors.

She advised that Smith consulted her about discipline techniques. She observed Smith utilizing assertive discipline techniques such as writing names on the board, followed by check marks for each infraction of the rules. She observed Smith utilizing sentence writing and lunch detention. She frequently observed unruly behavior in Smith's classroom and thought that other second grade classes were better behaved than Smith's. She also said she never observed any physical conduct between Smith and a student. She saw no inappropriate behavior. She also said that the behavior of the class did not improve under Schupann. She did say that the proper use of lunch detention included permitting the children to eat first.

DISCUSSION OF CREDIBILITY

There are too many conflicts regarding the alleged wound to L.S.'s eye to make a finding that Smith jabbed him with a pencil. One could as easily conclude that L.S. jabbed himself during a pencil fight. This is what S.M. apparently saw. In addition, L.S. said he went to the nurse and principal to complain. Neither remembers this. From the testimony and demeanor of both of them, it was clear that they have formed an opinion that Smith is not a competent teacher. Therefore, if L.S. had gone to either of them as he claimed he had, one of them would have been sure to remember it.

I FIND that the BOE failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Smith assaulted L.S. with a pencil or was the cause of an injury to his eye or cheek.

The testimony concerning Smith's rough handling of children in her class was persuasive. Nearly every child reported having their head "banged" down on a desk at one time or another. Each child reported seeing it done to others. The nurse's notes corroborate F.M.'s "busted lip."

J.C.'S testimony was quite straightforward. He said Smith banged his head on the desk as well as the head of others. I believe him.

Most of E.G.'s testimony was corroborated by others. However, she appeared so animated, rehearsed and eager that, if standing alone, her testimony would have been suspect. Nevertheless, on balance she was believable.

S.M. was an observant and intelligent witness. She shed more light on the incident involving L.S.'s eye than anyone else. She also described the incident in which Smith banged F.M.'s head on the desk. She was a credible witness.

M.F. was also an intelligent and straightforward witness with an ability for description. He clearly identified the punishment of putting your head down on the desk. He explained that Smith would push a child's head down on the desk if the child's eyes were showing. This was the most reasonable and probable explanation for what children identified as "head banging." He also described her rough handling of students. He observed her push students. He said "she used to yank your clothes and pull your arm." He was incensed when he reported how she withheld bathroom privileges from some children causing them "to use the bathroom on themselves." He was also able to differentiate between direct evidence and hearsay. He admitted he had only heard that Smith jabbed L.S. in the eye; he said did not see it. I believe his testimony.

L.F. also vividly recalled "wetting herself" in Smith class because she was denied the opportunity to go to the bathroom. She said Smith pushed her head down on the desk but that she was unhurt. She recalled Smith kicking her desk over, and that Smith put S.B. in the closet and put her shoes in the trash. Her testimony was also straightforward and believable.

F.M. only recalled that Smith talked meanly to students. "Sit your ass down!" Nevertheless, her testimony corroborated what others described of Smith's demeanor.

J.H. complained to Smith that G. was sexually accosting her. Smith failed to protect her. She also recalled having her head banged and saw Smith do it to others. She was articulate and thorough. I believed her testimony also.

S.B. corroborated head banging, and F.M.'s "busted lip." She reported feelings of embarrassment at having her head pushed down. She said Smith pushed her into the closet and threw her shoes in the trash and did not return them until after school. She also wet herself after pleading to go to the bathroom to no avail. She too, was credible.

S.B. summed it up best when she remarked that "Ms. Smith wasn't right for a teacher, most teachers don't curse or hit children."

These incidents are corroborated by the testimony of the various children. Smith's propensity to punish and demean children was observed by Principal Coyne (See Charge No. 4). Smith's propensity to punish and demean children is also implicit in her rage when Guess did not punish the two children who fought in Smith's classroom in a manner satisfactory to Smith even though the actions of Guess were reasonable and well taken.

I FIND that Smith punished children during quiet time by pushing their heads down on the desk, causing injury to F.M., and pain and embarrassment to others.

I FIND that Smith handled children roughly; that she pushed and shoved children in her class; that she tugged and pulled on their clothes and arms.

I FIND that Smith withheld lunch from children as punishment.

I FIND that Smith spoke to the children in a demeaning fashion telling them to "sit their asses down" and using other expressions which were disrespectful.

I FIND that Smith punished children by withholding bathroom privileges.

I FIND that Smith punished S.B. by throwing her shoes into the trash.

I CONCLUDE that Smith's conduct constituted physical, mental and emotional abuse and violates N.J.S.A. 18A-6.1, the prohibition against corporal punishment.

CHARGE NO. 4

The 4th charge alleges excessive absenteeism and excessive tardiness. Exhibits P35 through P49 document Smith's absenteeism and tardiness from January 1985 through the 1989-90 school year. During all this time Smith was a basic skills teacher at the Bridgeton Middle School. According to her principal Jerry Benfer, when a basic skills teacher is absent, no substitute is provided.

These records are difficult to reconcile. Nevertheless, it clearly appears that Smith was absent 19 days during the 1986-87 school year, 21½ days during the 1987-88 school year; 10 days in the 1988-89 school year and 15 days during the 1989-90 school year. Most absences were for illness, although a few were for professional leave, personal leave or a death in the family.

Smith was also put on Notice by Benfer on several occasions that her tardiness was not acceptable. On September 30, 1985, he notified her that she was late three times in the first month of the school year. By November 18 of 1985, Smith had already been late eight times. She was apparently not late again during the balance of that school year.

On December 18, 1987, Benfer advised Smith in writing that he "observed a recurring pattern of lateness to school again this year." He threatened her with a hearing before the Superintendent of Schools. On several occasions, according to Benfer and Lane, they counseled Smith concerning her lateness and absences. However, none of these matters ever resulted in a disciplinary action or the withholding of increments. In fact, during this period of time Smith acquired tenure. It is against this background however, that Smith's attendance record for the critical school year 1990-91 is compared.

In the 1990-91 school year Smith was absent 23½ days. One absence may have been recorded mistakenly. On one occasion Coyne sent Smith to another second grade teacher's class to observe, and she was mistakenly recorded as absent.

Smith was also late in the 1990-91 school year. By December 5, 1990, Coyne had already documented seven latenesses.

In December 1990, Smith was absent on four consecutive days. These absences coincided with a meeting she was to have with Lane concerning alleged inadequacies in her classroom and in her teaching skills. In March of 1991, Smith was removed from the classroom and returned to special assignments. Her record of tardiness and absenteeism was one of the factors in this decision.

Excessive absences are a sufficient cause for the Commissioner to terminate a teacher when it appears that the absences have created a significant, adverse effect on school children notwithstanding the absences were in connection with a physical ailment plaguing the teacher. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jerome Kacprowicz, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 147, 151.

Smith never explained her absences or tardiness except occasionally to say to Benfer or Coyne that she had diarrhea. It appears that she may have suffered from irritable bowel syndrome. Smith presented Matthew P. Soff, M.D., a gastroenterologist as a witness on her behalf. He described irritable bowel syndrome as the second leading cause of missed work or absenteeism. It is characterized by severe diarrhea, cramps and weakness.

Soff's report was presented to the Board of Education only during the actual plenary hearing in this matter. The Board of Education pointed out that Smith only sought Soff's advice after she was removed as a classroom teacher and has not regularly consulted him since. In addition, Soff's notes indicate that one of her concerns when she met with him on December 4, 1992, was that she was going to "be fired."

In the cases collected in Kacprowicz supra the teacher's absences were more flagrant than Smith's absences. Nevertheless, I FIND that Smith's absences were frequent and far exceeded the ten day allotment of sick days for teacher's in the Bridgeton School District.

I also FIND that Smith's tardiness was excessive.

These two factors must be considered in determining whether Smith should be removed or disciplined. In isolation the two factors are insufficient to remove a tenured teacher. They must be considered along with evidence that the children in the teacher's care suffered a significant, adverse effect.

CHARGE NO. 5

The fifth charge goes directly to Smith's competence and effectiveness during the 1990-91 school year. The allegations are that Smith failed to teach effectively and properly and failed to follow routines. In addition, the BOE cites Smith's poor classroom evaluation and a failure "to support students in their quest for knowledge."

The evidence in support of these charges went primarily to the teaching of reading and the introduction of evaluations performed during the 1990-91 school year.

Smith was evaluated several times during the school year. These evaluations were as casual as a drop-in visit by the principal or superintendent, to a planned and prescheduled observation resulting in a written document shared with the teacher.

On September 28, 1990, Coyne visited Smith's class and concluded that Smith's classroom was "a mess" and "discipline (was) not being addressed."

On October 5th, 1990, Lane visited the classroom and told Coyne he was concerned about the "condition of the room."

On October 10, 1990, Coyne visited again an found the room in "chaos." On the 12th Coyne also noted "chaos" and the teacher "reprimanding her children."

On November 29, 1990, Coyne conducted a prescheduled formal classroom evaluation of Smith. Coyne found that Smith had subject matter competency and knew appropriate instructional techniques and procedures. He also found that her recordkeeping and planbook were up-to-date. On this occasion he noted that her classroom appearance was "conducive to learning and appropriate to lesson/activity."

However, he also made extensive notes concerning Smith's classroom demeanor. The notes dealing with demeanor are reproduced here in full as follows:

> The scheduled time for the observation was 12:25 - 1:05 as per Ms. Smith's request. When I arrived at 12:25, Ms. Smith requested that I give her about five minutes to allow her students to finish up at the lavatory. I sat out in the pod and was appalled by what I witnessed. During the five minutes I sat there, I did not hear one kind work spoken to the class. Ms. Smith constantly berated, threatened, and reprimanded the class as they stood in line. I waited for the class to enter and be seated. Then I entered the room to observe a math lesson, the same lack of human relations that I witnessed in the hallway continued in the classroom. The entire lesson from 12:30-1:20 was overshadowed by continual verbal threats, reprimands, verbal bribery and intimidation. I did not feel comfortable in this classroom. I was bothered by the treatment of the children by Ms. Smith. This will be addressed later in this report.

Later in the report Coyne added additional explanatory notes to his evaluation:

> Classroom control is completely unsatisfactory. This class is being controlled by intimidation and fear. I did not see any assertive discipline techniques. The class is getting too many mixed signals from the teacher. They have no idea as to where they stand with Ms. Smith. The basically received the same treatment whether they cooperated or not. As the class proceeded, Ms. Smith said, "Remember the rules" over, and over, and over. At this point in the school year, the command should be unnecessary if a discipline plan has been established. Discipline should be secondary within the classroom. In this lesson, continual disciplining prevailed. More than once, Ms. Smith stated, "If you don't ....then ...." Towards the end of the observation, children were told to put their heads down at the slightest infraction.
>
> Instructional time was not effectively utilized. A lesson consumed by discipline is not an effective lesson. The time spent should have been devoted to teaching, not continual reprimands.
>
> I did not witness positive teacher-pupil interaction. I watched the body language and facial expressions of the class. Most appeared unhappy or indifferent. Most sat with heads propped up with arms. I finally saw a child crack a smile at 12:52 when the baseball game began (a math game). The human relations employed with the class leave much to be desired....

Guess was the Vice Principal at the Cherry Street School in 1990-91. She has earned several certifications in the appropriate educational fields for her position. She is certified in K to 8, in guidance and student personnel, and as a principal. She has been employed for 22 years by the BOE and taught second grade at Cherry Street School for 16 years. She was Curriculum Supervisor for two years and assistant principal for four years.

Guess discussed the reading program at Cherry Street School with reference to the second grade. All of Smith's students utilized Houghton Mifflin's reading books; Adventures, Carousels and Discoveries, depending upon the student's proficiency. Each series contains three "magazines" or separate units for purpose of measurement.

At a minimum, each student in Bridgeton School District is expected to complete six magazines (two complete books) per school year. As a student completed a magazine, the students reading record was to be submitted to Guess, who tracked each student's progress. It was ultimately Guess' decision when a student would move on to the next magazine. A teacher was not to begin the next magazine until Guess had reviewed the child's progress and authorized the child to move. There is a wide discrepancy between the records kept by Guess and the records kept by Smith in her Squibbs Class Record Book.

According to Guess, the pacing scheduled for reading in each group suggests completing the first book (three magazines) by the end of December. She testified that Smith had not submitted a single magazine test to her for any child by the end of December. Smith's Book indicates that she tested her Adventures I and Carousels reading groups on the first magazine on November 26, 1990.

This discrepancy cannot be explained. The very best that can be said for Smith is that she utterly failed to report her students reading progress to Guess in a timely fashion thus endangering the children's class standing or leaving them vulnerable to repeating the second grade. In any case, there is absolutely no evidence that any of Smith's students, at the time Smith was transferred out of her class on March 18, 1991, could have completed six magazines by the end of the school year.

Pamela Garwood, also a second grade teacher indicated that in her experience, the average class could complete one book by the end of January, spending two months on the first magazine, six to eight weeks on the second magazine and finishing the third magazine by the end of January. Smith was not on this pace at all. Garwood did acknowledge that pace depends upon the class to some degree and that classes move at different speeds.

All of the certified teachers except Smith indicated that Smith's class was about average in reading when the school year began. One group was a magazine behind pace for the second grade, one group was on schedule and the third group was a magazine ahead of the scheduled pace.

I FIND that the credible evidence indicates that Smith failed to teach reading effectively and properly and failed to follow proper procedures.

I also FIND that Smith's classroom evaluation and other evidence of her teaching skills clearly indicate that she has failed to support her students in their quest for knowledge.

CHARGE NO. 6

This charge alleges that Smith "engaged in numerous acts of conduct unbecoming a teacher." The charges are quite specific. They include the charges of:

a. withholding student's lunches for discipline;
b. insubordination;
c. working in the school at night when she was absent during the day;
d. failure to communicate properly with parents;
e. missing parent conferences; and
f. demonstrating a lack of caring and positive attitude towards children in her care.

I have already described how Smith withheld lunches for discipline. I have dismissed the insubordination charge. I have also described Smith's lack of caring and positive attitude toward the children in her care. This leaves individual specification c, d, and e to be discussed.

> c. Returning to school in the evenings when no one else was present and at times when she was absent during the day.

There was no rule against working at night. When told to stop coming in at night by Lane, Smith stopped. She explained that she was there to prepare plans and class materials. She was there at night when she was sick preparing lesson plans for the substitute. This charge cannot be sustained.

> d. Failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate parent relations.

The mother of F.M. testified that on one occasion she and Smith "got into it" at school. B.M. said that Smith kept telling her how "bad" her child was and this caused an argument between them which ended with B.M. telling Coyne she wanted to "pop" Smith. B.M. said that during the course of the argument Smith made the following comments to her:

"You don't pay my salary;"
"Tell you mother why I pushed you" (to F.M. who was present)
"The whole damn class is crazy and I got other things on my mind, I don't need this shit."
"I don't like your child."

B.M. said she told Smith that she "wouldn't pay the salary of a teacher like you" and asked Coyne to change her daughter's teacher. (Coyne's notes indicate that the date this occurred on was November 2, 1990.)

B.M. seemed to harbor no ill will towards Smith. Coyne did not change F.M. to another class and B.M. and Smith continued frequent telephone discussions, some of which, according to B.M., were "good."

Smith recalled a conversation with B.M. in which B.M. called her a "bitch" but denied all of the remarks attributed to her by B.M. No other party was present to confirm or deny that these remarks were made by Smith. However, B.M. reported the comments immediately to Coyne who recalled some of them.

Because B.M. appeared to hold no hostility to Smith and took equal blame for causing the shouting match between them, she appeared to be telling the truth. I believed her because she seemed to be reluctant to hurt Smith and was anxious to share the blame for their argument.

e. Missing parent conferences at the time report cards were due.

On the 13th and 14th of November, 1990, parent/teacher conferences were scheduled and report cards were due. Smith was absent and Guess observed at least one pair of parents come for the conference and Smith was not there to conference with them. In her testimony Smith did not think this was significant. She seemed to blame the parents for not confirming their appointments.

I FIND that Smith failed to properly communicate and engage in appropriate teacher/parent relations with B.M. on November 2, 1990.

I also FIND that Smith missed at least one teacher/parent conference in November 1990.

These are factors to be considered in determining if Smith should be disciplined for conduct committed in 1990-91 in the Cherry Street School.

CHARGE NO. 7

The seventh charge alleges failure to control, properly supervise and engage in proper classroom management in the Cherry Street School in 1990-91. The specific elements of the charge are that Smith's classroom appeared unorganized, poorly disciplined, chaotic and that Smith failed to engage in proper classroom management.

While Lane, Coyne and Guess all remarked that Smith's classroom was chaotic or a "mess," her peers generally agreed that her classroom appearance was satisfactory. In addition, Lane admitted that he was a "neatness nut."

Smith obviously attempted to make her room conducive to learning. She purchased numerous teaching aids and instructional materials from Jean Scaroni, who operated an educational store for teachers.

During Coyne's prearranged observation of Smith on November 29, 1990, he marked her "satisfactory" in classroom appearance. Coyne also worked with Smith after this conference and reports that her classroom organization and classroom management actually improved during that brief time. Unfortunately, Coyne became ill and could not supervise Smith any longer. She apparently needed close classroom supervision.

Smith's failure to discipline her class properly has been set forth at length in discussion of prior charges, as has her failure to teach effectively.

Therefore, while I am satisfied that Smith's classroom did not always meet Lane's high standard of neatness, I am disinclined to hold that a messy classroom is a ground for determining that a teacher is not competent. If a good teacher kept a messy classroom, I am sure it would only be the occasion for some good natured banter between the teacher and the administration.

That case has long stood for the proposition that "(u)nfitness for a position in the school system may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but is 'best shown by numerous incidents.'" Courtney, supra. p. 403. In addition, ALJ Springer cites In re Alfano, 1979, S.L.D. ___ (Comm'r Oct. 23, 1979) for the proposition that "(s)chool officials need not wait until some child is badly injured before removing a teacher prone to violence." Courtney, supra., p. 403.

In this matter the BOE has established by a preponderance of the evidence that Smith punished children by pushing their heads down on desks, by handling them roughly, by tugging and pulling on their clothes and arms, by withholding lunch and bathroom privileges from them and by speaking to them in a demeaning manner, causing physical, mental and emotional pain, in violation of the statute prohibiting corporal punishment, N.J.S.A. 18A-6.1. These were repeated acts over a period of months. These are also acts which constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher. I therefore CONCLUDE that Smith committed conduct unbecoming to a member of the teaching profession.

The tenure statute includes "other just cause" as a ground for dismissing a tenured teacher. N.J.A.C. 18A:6-10. These grounds are not defined in the statute. Under Redcay, supra. 371, individual incidents of unfitness may be viewed in the conglomerate.

The BOE has established here, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Smith was frequently both absent and tardy to an excess, that she failed to effectively and properly teach reading, failed to follow proper procedures and failed to support her students in their quest for knowledge. Finally, she failed to communicate effectively and properly with a parent and missed a parent conference.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the BOE has demonstrated other just cause to dismiss Smith from her tenured position by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

ULTIMATE CONCLUSION AND ORDER OF DISPOSITION

For all these reasons I CONCLUDE that the tenure charge of unbecoming conduct is SUSTAINED.

I FURTHER CONCLUDE that there is just cause to SUSTAIN the tenure charges against Smith.

I ORDER that Millicent Smith be discharged from her teaching position in the Bridgeton School District.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MILLICENT SMITH, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF BRIDGETON, CUMBERLAND COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON REMAND

The Initial Decision and the Amended Initial Decision rendered in this matter by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent filed timely exceptions thereto pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. However, while the Board sought to submit reply exceptions untimely, such request was denied.

The exceptions to both decisions aver the ALJ rendered an inconsistent and incoherent credibility determination regarding the testimony of E.G., which, when coupled with that which she casts as the ALJ's prejudicial and erroneous ruling cited in her principal exceptions, provide further grounds to overturn the ALJ's finding on Charge No. 3. Respondent submits that the ALJ's credibility findings are entitled to no deference and that an order overturning his findings and conclusions should be issued. In the alternative, respondent seeks a remand of this matter for a new hearing before a different ALJ. In support of the latter proposition, respondent cites Matter of Wolf, 231 N.J. Super. 365 (App. Div. 1989).

Because the Commissioner expressly reserved judgment on the merits of this matter until her receipt of the amended initial decision, and for the sake of clarity in reviewing the matter, respondent's exceptions filed previously are herein restated as follows:

>
> The ALJ erred in failing to administer the oath or affirmation required under N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.8 to the pupil witnesses who were the only witnesses who allegedly had personal knowledge of the allegations of Charge No. 3 on corporal punishment and related issues; accordingly, the ALJ's findings and conclusion premised on such incompetent testimony must be overturned.
>
> The ALJ erred in allowing the Board to present evidence on issues of which Respondent had received no notice in advance of hearing, thus violating the "fair notice" requirements of due process and warranting reversal of the ALJ's rulings on those allegations of the Board.
>
> The ALJ erred in failing to allow counsel for Respondent to properly cross-examine and impeach the credibility of the Board's pupil witnesses and further prejudged through a statement made on the record a significant corporal punishment issue prior to Respondent's presentation of her defense.
>
> The ALJ's credibility findings are further undermined by his reference to a witness who did not appear at hearing and his finding that this witness was credible.
>
> Respondent excepts to the ALJ's credibility findings with respect to the accusation of pupil F.M. as they are inconsistent with the testimony of the nurse whom the ALJ identifies as a corroborating witness.
>
> The ALJ erred in sustaining the Board's charges of withholding lunches as the evidence clearly showed that Respondent had deprived no one of their lunches, had used collective lunch detention for her whole class only on three occasions; further, the Board's notice was deficient on this allegation.
>
> (Exceptions, Table of Contents)

***

Respondent excepts to all of the ALJ's findings on Charge No. 3, ID at 17. [More specifically] that the evidence does not preponderate in support of the allegation that "Smith punished children during quiet time by pushing their heads down on their desk." Respondent excepts to the ALJ's [disallowing] records regarding composition of the class in terms of the number of referrals to special education classes and disciplinary records [and] to the ALJ's [omitting] important facts [she avers are] critical to an assessment of Charge No. 3. (At p. 36)

***

The ALJ's findings of fact with regard to Charge No. 4 are incorrect based on the evidence adduced at hearing and, as a matter of law, fail to acknowledge the Board's obligations under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. (at p. 38)

***

The ALJ erred in his findings on Charge 5 on two grounds: one, that he ignored the statutory law requiring that [a tenure charge] of "inefficiency" [be] preceded by the statutorily required 90-day improvement period and therefore was not properly brought by the Board; and two, that [the ALJ] failed to consider and weigh the entirety of the evidence including but not limited to Board exhibits showing Respondent in a favorable light and the substantive testimony of Respondent. (at p. 42)

***

With respect to the ALJ's findings on Charge No. 6, Respondent first excepts to the reinstatement of [the ALJ's] ruling from Charge No. 3 on the withholding of lunches. Next, Respondent excepts to the ALJ's finding that Respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct by her "fail(ure) to properly communicate and engage in appropriate teacher/parent relations with B.M. on November 2, 1990." (ID at 25) (at p. 49)

Respondent excepts to the ALJ's implicit findings with regard Charge No. 7 only insofar as he states that "her failure to discipline her class properly has been set forth at length in discussion of prior charges, as her failure to teach effectively. Respondent [argues that she] has set out the substance of her exceptions on those issues, ante. (at pp. 52-53)

In summary, respondent contends she is not guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and she excepts to the ALJ's conclusion that she should be dismissed from her tenured position in the Board's employ. The Commissioner will address such exceptions seriatim.

Respondent accurately assesses the three prongs identified by the court for the testimony of child witnesses. See State in the Interest of R.R., 79 N.J. 97, 113 (1979). However, the Commissioner is persuaded that while not entirely in keeping with the third requirement, that is, that the child understands that he will be punished in some way should he lie to the court, the ALJ's means of assuring the child would testify truthfully is deemed appropriate due to the tender age of the witnesses. In so concluding, the Commissioner notes in particular the ALJ's rationale when challenged by respondent's counsel on how he prepared the children to testify. (TR. 1/13/93 at 94-95) That the ALJ exacted a promise from the pupils to tell the truth, as a means of avoiding "scaring" or "threatening" the children does not constitute plain error on the ALJ's part in meeting the requirement to "[evince] from the witness a solemn commitment to speak the truth on pain of  punishment." (R.R., supra, at 109) This conclusion is bolstered by recognizing that the administrative forum is a quasi-judicial one; the discussion in R.R. involved "the circumstances under which the testimony of an infant witnesses will be deemed properly admissible in the course of a court proceeding." (emphasis supplied) (at 102) By contrast, the judgment of the ALJ presiding in an administrative hearing to determine whether an infant witness is competent to testify is entitled to considerable deference and, in the Commissioner's judgment, has not been abused under the facts of this case. (N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.8(b)) Hence, respondent's exception in this regard is dismissed as being without merit.

Similarly, the Commissioner finds sufficient nexus between the interrogatories respondent propounded regarding alleged reports of stress incontinence among students in her class to warrant consideration of such allegations and those of the related question of alleged deprivation of lavatory privileges as part of Charge No. 3. Further, because respondent herself propounded interrogatories on the specifics of Charge No. 3, received further information regarding the second graders' bathroom habits and, in fact, conducted depositions of each child, she may not now be heard to have been surprised by the testimony adduced at hearing of these young children. Moreover, the ALJ's finding of fact regarding respondent's withholding bathroom privileges follows the ALJ's discussion of Ms. Smith's "propensity to punish and demean children." (Initial Decision, at p. 17) The Commissioner finds that such conclusions are part and parcel of Charge No. 3 which specifically allege that respondent "engaged in punishments of the children that were abusive" and included "acts of intimidation." (Id., at p. 2) The Commissioner finds the same conclusion must be drawn regarding respondent's objection noted in the transcripts of being surprised by E.G.'s testimony that respondent allegedly placed Sa.J. in the closet as a punishment for misbehaving.

Respondent's next two exceptions deal with credibility determinations arrived at by the ALJ regarding Charge No. 3, the first of which alleges a limitation on respondent's counsel's right of cross-examination of pupils, the second dealing with the testimony of E.G. The Commissioner has carefully reviewed all testimony among the students in those transcripts provided, as well as the testimony of the adult witnesses, and finds, notwithstanding respondent's exceptions to the contrary, that there is more than sufficient corroboration among the witnesses to sustain a finding that respondent is guilty of the allegations set forth at page 17 of the Initial Decision. In so concluding, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's disposition of the objections to the children's testimony as embodied in the transcript dated January 12, 1993, as well as his credibility determinations of the student testimony as embodied at pages 15-16. The Commissioner so finds cognizant of the apparent typographical error in initials regarding E.G.'s testimony. A review of E.G.'s testimony reveals that she was a credible witness, made more so by the corroboration of others.

Among those conclusions drawn by the ALJ in the initial decision regarding Charge No. 3, the Commissioner finds particularly egregious Ms. Smith's pushing pupils' heads down on the desk, on repeated occasions, as a means of quieting her young charges or as a disciplining technique. See TR. 1/12/93 at 10, 47, 55, 107-108, 125, 135, 147, 198, 201-203. The record provides abundant evidence that this demeaning behavior, in and of itself, constitutes a sound basis for dismissal. As found by the ALJ, such aspect of the conduct alleged in Charge No. 3 constitutes physical and emotional abuse and violates N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, the prohibition against corporal punishment. Accordingly, respondent's exceptions regarding Charge No. 3 are dismissed as being without merit, and those findings and conclusions of the ALJ concerning those charges are hereby affirmed, with the clarification regarding withholding lunches that such term "withholding lunches" shall be construed to mean that respondent detained children in her classroom during lunch period, and delayed their eating lunch as a disciplinary tactic.

Respondent's exceptions regarding Charge No. 4, dealing with alleged excessive absences and tardiness, first challenge the ALJ's findings of fact regarding the 1990-91 school year and also for school years 1986-87, 87-88, 88-89, and 89-90. In such exception, respondent suggests the correct absentee figure for the 1990-91 school year should be 20 days, but for the other years, simply states that she cannot accept the tabulations of the ALJ because the figures are, as noted by the ALJ, "difficult to reconcile." Because respondent offers no alternative numbers or proofs as to why the ALJ's calculations are in error, the Commissioner accepts those findings of fact regarding respondent's absences and tardiness for all years in question, except the 1990-91 school year. As to that school year, the Commissioner accepts, for the sake of argument, and because the ALJ conceded that one such absence in that school year may have been misstated, that 20 days is the correct figure. Nevertheless, based upon a review of such absences, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that respondent's tardiness was excessive, that her absences were frequent and that she far exceeded the annual ten-day allotment of sick days permitted in petitioner's district.

Moreover, the Commissioner finds no merit in respondent's argument that she was entitled, as a consequence of her having had irritable bowel syndrome, to reasonable accommodation for a handicapping condition during the 1990-91 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:5-5 insofar as she has suggested no accommodation in her exceptions befitting the condition that the Board should have observed, and also because without the transcript of Dr. Matthew Soff's testimony, it is not clear in the record whether in fact respondent did have the condition of irritable bowel syndrome, which she claims entitles her to reasonable accommodation of a handicapping condition. R-29 in evidence, a letter from Dr. Soff, dated February 20, 1992, indicates that he had seen respondent "several times during 1991 for functional bowel disease." R-30 in evidence, a later letter dated January 19, 1993 addressed to respondent's attorney, indicates that as of February 1991, her diagnosis was functional bowel disease, but that that condition improved by June 14, 1991. By December 4, 1992, she had developed irritable bowel syndrome, but as of January 19, 1993, the doctor's diagnosis of respondent's condition referred to functional bowel disease, not irritable bowel syndrome. Moreover, the physician indicates that treatment of functional bowel syndrome "is easily controlled with diet, medical follow up, medical support and simple non-addicting medication." (R-30, at p. 2) The doctor concluded "[h]er prognosis is actually quite good from a functional bowel point of view" and further that "there is no reason why she should not be able to carry out her activities as a full time elementary school teacher."(Id.) Hence, even granting, arguendo, that the ALJ erred in stating that "[t]he Board of Education pointed out that Smith only sought Soff's advice after she was removed as a classroom teacher and has not regularly consulted him since" (Exceptions, at p. 39, quoting Initial Decision at p. 19), respondent has failed to demonstrate that she suffered from any disorder for which N.J.S.A. 10:5-5 applies, or that the Board failed to provide reasonable accommodation of any such handicapping condition.

Respondent's exceptions to Charge No. 5 first allege that the charges of this count should have been filed as an inefficiency charge, with a 90-day improvement period, not an incapacity charge. Respondent charges that the ALJ did not consider this argument in the initial decision. In this regard, the Commissioner first notes that Charge No. 5 states:

> At Cherry Street School during the 1990-91 school year, Ms. Smith failed to provide proper teaching to students at the Cherry Street School, failed to teach effectively, failed to follow routines required for effective teaching and guidance of students in her care. Her actions in failure to follow routines, her extremely poor classroom evaluations and failure to support students in their quest for knowledge make it clear that Ms. Smith should be terminated as a teaching staff member. (Initial Decision, at p. 3)

The Commissioner further observes the distinctions among inefficiency, incompetency and incapacity. Incapacity connotes the presence of a physical or mental condition or sickness which prevents the individual from performing the duties of the position. The record herein presents no proof that respondent has lost the physical or mental capacity to perform as a teaching staff member. However, respondent does aver that the district has charged her with incompetency instead of inefficiency. The standard for distinguishing between the charges of inefficiency and incompetency has been addressed in the case captioned In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Inez McRae, School District of Trenton, 1977 S.L.D. 572, 584 wherein it is stated:

> Notwithstanding respondent's contention that inefficiencies did, in fact, exist, the hearing examiner finds that respondent demonstrated gross > ineptness in performing the responsibilities of a classroom teacher. The testimony of the supervisors clearly portrays this ineptness. Whether the ineffectiveness in this case results from lack of effort or from indifference, the hearing examiner finds that respondent failed to measure up to even minimal standards of satisfactory teaching. Respondent's lack of adequate and thorough planning demonstrated a dereliction of duty. Her lack of discipline and class control was so gross as to rise above a charge of minimal inefficiency to incompetency.

See also In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edna Booth, School District of the Township of West Orange, 1985 S.L.D. 722, 759:

> In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Patricia Nafash, Ridgefield Bd. of Ed., decided by the Commissioner March 12, 1984, summarizes well the important distinction between an incompetency charge as opposed to one of inefficiency. It reads in part:
> > "The charge of incompetence, as distinguished from the charge of inefficiency, presumes that the proofs in support of the charge will demonstrate that respondent is so lacking in competency to perform the responsibilities of classroom teacher that the requirements of the 90-day improvement period, required for a charge of inefficiency, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, would be a useless exercise. (See, Tenure Hearing of Inez McRae, 1977 S.L.D. 572, 584.) Incompetence requires proof that that the affected person, regardless of the assistance offered by certified supervisors, does not have the ability or capacity to be an effective teacher. School Dist. of Tp. of East Brunswick, Middlesex Cty. v. Renee Sokolow."

The Commissioner's review of the record and transcripts submitted in this matter leaves no doubt that a charge of incompetency, not inefficiency, is appropriately levied against respondent in this matter. The ALJ summarized well the underlying infirmity in respondent's teaching where, at page 17 of the initial decision, he stated: "Smith's propensity to punish and demean children was observed by Principal Coyne (See Charge No. 4). Smith's propensity to punish and demean children is also implicit in her rage when [Vice Principal] Guess did not punish the two children who fought in Smith's classroom in a manner satisfactory to Smith even though the actions of Guess were reasonable and well taken." The totality of this record makes it entirely clear that respondent demonstrated gross ineptness in performing the duties of a classroom teacher. The mismanagement of her classroom, particularly regarding disciplining students, combined with her instructional deficiencies, and her inappropriate actions with colleagues and parents strongly demonstrate that affording a 90-day improvement period pursuant to the filing of inefficiency charges would have been useless. She so finds, notwithstanding respondent's exceptions to Charge No. 5 , and noting that there was inconsistent testimony on exactly how many readers she in fact accomplished before being removed out of the classroom in March of 1991. See Initial Decision at pp. 19-21.

Consequently, the ALJ's recommendation to dismiss respondent from her tenured teaching position in the employ of the Board is adopted for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and clarified herein. Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that respondent be dismissed from her teaching position as of the date of this decision. The matter shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(1) for review and action as it deems appropriate.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF MILLICENT SMITH, : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY : DECISION OF BRIDGETON, CUMBERLAND COUNTY. :

Remanded by the Commissioner of Education, July 2, 1993

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 1, 1993

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Millicent Smith, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, Casarow, Casarow & Kienzle (A. Paul Kienzle, Jr., Esq.)

On March 3, 1992, the Board of Education of the City of Bridgeton (hereinafter "Board") certified seven tenure charges against Millicent Smith (hereinafter "respondent"), a tenured teaching staff member. Those charges, as delineated in the Board's Statement of Evidence in Support of Charges, included "conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, insubordination, incapacity, incompetency, unfitness for service, neglect, and other just cause."

On May 12, 1993, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") concluded that the Board had proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct in that she had "punished children by pushing their heads down on desks, by handling them roughly, by tugging and pulling on their clothes and arms, by withholding lunch and bathroom privileges from them and by speaking to them in a demeaning manner, causing physical, mental and emotional pain...." Initial Decision, slip op. at 26. The ALJ further concluded that the Board had established that respondent "was frequently both absent and tardy to an excess, that she failed to effectively and properly teach reading, failed to follow proper procedures and failed to support her students in their quest for knowledge..." Id. The ALJ recommended that respondent be dismissed from her tenured position.

On July 2, 1993, the Commissioner of Education remanded this matter to the ALJ for the sole purpose of clarifying the initials used for one of the child witnesses. On remand, the ALJ provided such clarification.

On September 1, 1993, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings and conclusions and directed respondent's dismissal. The Commissioner found "particularly egregious Ms. Smith's pushing pupils' heads down on the desk, on repeated occasions, as a means of quieting her young charges or as a disciplining technique....The record provides abundant evidence that this demeaning behavior, in and of itself, constitutes a sound basis for dismissal." Commissioner's Decision on Remand, slip op. at 38.

The respondent, acting pro se, has filed the instant appeal from the decision of the Commissioner.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner to dismiss respondent from her tenured employment, as modified herein.

We agree with the Commissioner that the Board has proven those tenure charges alleging respondent's unbecoming conduct in committing numerous acts of physical, mental and emotional abuse against her students and in failing to properly communicate with parents, along with that charge alleging excessive absenteeism and tardiness.

However, for the reasons that follow, we reject the Commissioner's determination that the tenure charge alleging respondent's incompetency was also demonstrated by the Board in this instance. Respondent contended that Charge 5, alleging that she had failed to provide proper teaching, to teach effectively or to follow routines required for effective teaching during the 1990-91 school year, should properly have been filed as an inefficiency charge, with a 90-day improvement period. The Commissioner, however, found that the record demonstrated that "affording a 90-day improvement period pursuant to the filing of inefficiency charges would have been useless." Id. at 43. As pointed out by the Commissioner:

> The charge of incompetence, as distinguished from the charge of inefficiency, presumes that the proofs in support of the charge will demonstrate that respondent is so lacking in competency to perform the responsibilities of classroom teacher that the requirements of the 90-day improvement period, required for a charge of inefficiency, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, would be a useless exercise....Incompetence requires proof that the affected person, regardless of the assistance offered by certified supervisors, does not have the ability or capacity to be an effective teacher.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Renee Sokolow, decided by the Commissioner, 1982 S.L.D. 1358, 1362, aff'd by the State Board, 1983 S.L.D. 1645.

Unlike the Commissioner, however, we find that the Board failed in such proof. In support of such charge, the Board, which has the burden of demonstrating respondent's incompetency by a preponderance of the credible evidence, relied upon several letters and performance evaluations from the 1990-91 school year, subsequent to respondent's achievement of tenure. While we find that these documents do support the conclusion of the ALJ and Commissioner that respondent failed to teach effectively and properly during that limited period, we cannot conclude on such basis that the Board demonstrated her incompetency within the tenure statute.

In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edna Booth, decided by the Commissioner, May 31, 1985, aff'd by the State Board, April 1, 1987, aff'd, Docket #A-3985-86T8 (App. Div. 1987), incompetency charges were dismissed against a tenured teacher where the deficiencies relating to the charges of incompetency in respondent's job performance were restricted to the 1982-83 and 1983-84 school years. Prior thereto, the respondent had received favorable evaluations related to her job performance. Consequently, it was concluded that the record did not demonstrate that the respondent therein was so lacking in competency that the 90-day improvement period would have been a useless exercise. See also In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank J. Napoli, decided by the Commissioner, February 16, 1988, aff'd by the State Board, December 1, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-2301-88T3 (App. Div. 1990); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of April Renee Bradley, decided by the State Board, February 6, 1991.

In this case, the evidence in support of the incompetency charge does not demonstrate that respondent's teaching performance was unsatisfactory during her service in the district prior to 1990-91. Nor does that charge include such an allegation. In fact, the incompetency charge is expressly limited to her service during that one year. See Certified Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence in Support of Charges.[1] In view of respondent's previous service and her achievement of tenure, we cannot conclude that the Board has demonstrated that she lacked the ability to be an effective teacher.[2] Indeed, in a performance evaluation from the previous school year, respondent was described as having "developed into an effective instructor." Exhibit R-31, in evidence. Nor is there any evidence indicating the existence of some underlying condition which undermined respondent's abilities and rendered her incapable of effectively performing her duties.

Thus, under the circumstances, we find that the Board failed to satisfy its burden of proof in demonstrating incompetency, and we therefore dismiss that particular charge. While the record may well support a charge of inefficiency, such a charge could not be sustained since respondent was not afforded the written notice and a 90-day correction period required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. See, e.g., In re Booth, supra. The rationale underlying this rule is that a teacher whose teaching effectiveness is called into question after years of meritorious service in a school district should, in recognition of that contribution, be afforded an opportunity to demonstrate that he or she is still capable of effective teaching. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Donald Rowley, decided by the State Board, 1984 S.L.D. 2006, 2007, rev'd on other grounds, Docket #A-4666-83T7 (App. Div. 1985).

1 While we recognize that 1990-91 apparently was the first year in which respondent was assigned to a specific classroom, we note that she had previously served in the district in an instructional capacity as a teacher of basic skills and had acquired tenure as a teacher.

2 We note that although favorable past performance does not preclude incompetency charges, it does serve to demonstrate the ability to perform satisfactorily. In re Napoli, supra.

Again, however, we fully concur with the Commissioner's conclusions on those remaining charges which were found to be proven, including unbecoming conduct. Under the circumstances, we find that dismissal of respondent from her tenured position is the appropriate penalty. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of David Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). Like the Commissioner, we find that respondent's conduct towards her students, as well established on the record, alone warrants her dismissal.

Consequently, as modified herein, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner to dismiss respondent from her tenured employment.

Robert A. Woodruff recused himself from consideration of this matter.

Exceptions are noted.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, two tenured teaching staff members, challenged hiring of out-of-district holders of county substitute certificates as football coaches alleging violation of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3.

ALJ found Board did violate regulation dealing with hiring of holder of county substitute certificate as athletic coach. However, since neither petitioner could be considered an applicant as of July 17, 1991, date of appointment of out-of-district applicants to be assistant football coaches, the only relief available to petitioners was to order Board to fully comply with dictates of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 as interpreted by Commissioner.

Commissioner adopted determination of ALJ that Board violated applicable law and directed that Board henceforth comply with N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. Commissioner further affirmed determination that one petitioner effectively removed himself as candidate for coaching position by neglecting to attend interview meetings. Commissioner reversed initial decision in its determination with respect to other petitioner who remained a qualified candidate for position at issue. Board was directed to reimburse said petitioner the appropriate stipend for 1991-92 school year.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, who are tenured teaching staff members of respondent, challenge the hiring as football coaches of individuals from outside of the school district, alleging a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 25, 1991, for hearing as a contested case. It was then scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference, which occurred on January 21, 1992. Following the prehearing conference, a prehearing order was entered on January 24, 1992, settling the procedures to be followed in this matter. A hearing was scheduled for May 29, 1992.

In accordance with the prehearing order, a Joint Stipulation of Facts with attached joint exhibits (Exhibit C-1) was submitted to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) on May 22, 1992.

A hearing was held and concluded on May 29, 1992. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties requested that the record remain open in order to afford them the opportunity to make written submissions within thirty days after their receipt of a transcript of the hearing.

Upon their receipt of the transcript in this matter, the attorneys found that the transcript of the hearing of May 29, 1992 was incomplete. Missing from the transcript was a portion of the direct examination of Brian Erickson his cross-examination, the direct and cross-examination of Chester L. Parlavecchio, and the rebuttal testimony of both petitioners.

In order to reconstruct the record of the missing portion of the transcript, the attorneys for the respective parties were directed to provide submissions and on December 30, 1992, the ALJ determined that he would be able to reconstruct the record of testimony which was not recorded at the hearing. In addition, he directed that the parties provide the written submissions, whereupon the record would close. After the receipt of final submissions in this matter, the record closed on April 7, 1993.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The essential facts in this matter are not disputed. As indicated above, the parties to this matter agreed to stipulate the following facts by means of a Joint Stipulation of Facts (Exhibit C-1):

Petitioner Christopher Daniel (Daniel) was certified as a teacher of social studies in August 1991 (Exhibit J-1). Petitioner Warren D. Moxley (Moxley) was certified as a teacher of science in June 1985 (Exhibit J-2).

Daniel began employment in the Irvington School District in September, 1984, as a high school history teacher, which employment has continued to the present time. He coached girls volleyball in the Irvington School district from 1985 to 1990, during which time he served as head coach. He also served as an assistant football coach from 1986 to 1991. Daniel was regularly evaluated as a coach in the years in which he coached a sport in the Irvington School District (Exhibits J-3A through J-3G).

In or about October or November, 1990, Daniel signed an initial intention form indicating his desire to serve as assistant football coach for 1991-92, and he subsequently signed a guideline for coaches for 1991-92 (Exhibit J-4). Daniel was not appointed to the position of assistant football coach for the 1991-92 school year.

Moxley began employment in the Irvington School District in September, 1984, as a high school science teacher, and his employment has continued to the present date. He coached boys basketball in the Irvington School District from 1984-85 through 1991-92. He began coaching football in 1985-86, and has served as an assistant football coach from that date through 1990-91 school year. He was regularly evaluated as a coach in the years in which he coached a sport in the Irvington School District (Exhibits J-5A through J-5J).

In or about late February, 1991, Moxley signed an initial intention form indicating his desire to be coach in 1991-92 (Exhibit J-6). He was not appointed to the position of assistant football coach for the 1991-92 school year.

On or about March 8, 1991, the Irvington School District posted vacancies for coaching football for the 1991-92 school year, including the minimum requirements (Exhibit J-7). Requirements for the position are contained in the March 8, 1991, posting of the vacancies, the job descriptions and duties for assistant coaches are set forth in the Board policy entitled "Athletic Coach" (Exhibit J-8) and in the duties of assistant coach (Exhibit J-9).

On June 12, 1991, the Board of Education approved the hiring of five assistant football coaches for the 1991-92 school year, all of whom were then teachers in the school district (Exhibit J-10). On July 17, 1991, the Board of Education approved the hiring of four additional assistant football coaches for the 1991-92 school year. They were Mark Parlavecchio, Louis Paradiso, Ralph Pacifico and Frank Mattiace (Exhibit J-11). Mr. Pacifico had experience as a football assistant for one year at West Orange High School, a baseball assistant for one year at Montclair Academy. Mr. Mark Parlavecchio had experience as a football assistant for four years at Bloomfield High School and as a wrestling assistant for two years at Nutley High School. Mr. Paradiso had experience as a football assistant for two years at Arson-Neuman College and for four years at Bloomfield High School. Mr. Mattiace had experience as a football assistant for one year at Montville High School and for one year at Bloomfield High School.

The named individuals were not teaching-staff members or otherwise employed by the Irvington School District at the time of their coaching appointments or during the 1991-92 school year. Mr. Parlavecchio is a dentist, Mr. Paradiso and Mr. Mattiace are self-employed.

On September 4, 1991, respondent applied to the county superintendent for approval to hire Mark Parlavecchio as an assistant football coach (Exhibit J-14). Approval was issued by the Essex County Superintendent of Schools on or about September 21, 1991 (Exhibit J-15). On September 4, 1991, respondent also applied for approval to hire Mr. Paradiso as a football coach (Exhibit J-16). Approval was issued on or about September 17, 1991 (Exhibit J-16A). Respondent also applied for approval to hire Mr. Pacifico as an assistant football coach. Approval was issued on or about October 4, 1991 (Exhibit J-17). On December 4, 1991, respondent applied for approval to hire Mr. Mattiace as an assistant football coach (Exhibit J-18). Approval was issued on or about December 13, 1991 (Exhibit J-19).

A county substitute teacher certificate was issued to Mr. Mattiace on or about November 12, 1991 (Exhibit J-20), to Mr. Parlavecchio on or about October 31, 1988 (Exhibit J-21), to Mr. Paradiso on or about October 31, 1988 (Exhibit J-22), and to Mr. Pacifico on or about September 25, 1989 (Exhibit J-23).

The stipend paid to each assistant football coach in 1991-92 was $2,933, except to Mr. Pacifico who was paid $2,582.

The first and only witness called by petitioners as a part of their direct case was Edward T. Ryscavage, Jr. In addition to being an English teacher in respondent's school district, he was the head football coach for five years and was previously assistant football coach for six years. In addition, he was girl's soccer coach for a total of seven years. He was also head girl's basketball coach. He served as head football coach from 1986 through 1990.

Mr. Ryscavage testified that he never had any problems with the performance of either of petitioners. He identified certain board of education policies, which set forth the qualifications for coaching (Exhibit J-8). He indicated that there is no reason why either of petitioners was not qualified.

On cross-examination, Mr. Ryscavage testified that he was told on March 6, 1990, by Athletic Director Bruce Essing that he would not be reappointed as head football coach. Various reasons were given to him, including the fact that a change was needed in the football program and there was a "black/white situation." However, Mr. Ryscavage indicated that he did not know the reasons for his being replaced. He also testified that he considered each and every one of the duties set forth in the Irvington Board of Education policy with respect to athletic coaches (exhibit J-8), in order to complete the evaluations of petitioners. He also indicated that he used the duties of an assistant coach, which is included in the coaching handbook and which was initiated in 1978 (Exhibit J-9), in order to evaluate petitioners. He stated that all of the assistant coaches received this list of duties and he took all of the items in this list of duties into account when he evaluated petitioners.

Bruce Essing, Athletic Director at Irvington, testified for respondent. He indicated he became athletic director in November 1989, and that he had been a teacher and an assistant football coach. He described the procedure by which applications and appointments for coaching were made. He testified that the head coaches of the various teams would ask all current assistants if they desired to be considered for a position the following year. He would then meet with the athletic committee of the school board to discuss what positions were available and review the list of applicants. Mr. Essing indicated he would make recommendations for appointments. He admitted receiving a form from both Moxley (Exhibit J-6) and Daniel (Exhibit J-4), indicating their desire to serve in an assistant coaching position for football for the 1991-92 school year.

In December, 1990, Mr. Essing recommended petitioners for assistant football-coaching positions for the 1991-92 school year. However, in March 1991, respondent's athletic committee expressed dissatisfaction with the football program and the team's record. The committee's concerns included the lack success of the program, safety of concerns for the participants, academic problems, lack of success in the non-varsity teams and lack of college recruitment of student athletes. In particular, he testified that team members suffered an unreasonably high number of injuries which caused the committee to focus on both student safety and academics. Accordingly, Mr. Essing's recommendations were withdrawn, the application process was opened and it was decided to post all football-coaching positions to see who would apply. The posting was made (Exhibit J-7) and Mr. Essing testified that he spoke to all of the coaches from the prior season and urged them to remain interested and keep their applications pending.

In June, 1991, Chester L. (Chet) Parlavecchio was hired as the new head football coach to replace Mr. Ryscavage. Guidelines for the assistant position were developed and Mr. Essing met with all candidates and had them sign that they would agreed to the guidelines. These guidelines were never approved by the school board.

Mr. Essing testified that Moxley twice failed to appear for a scheduled meeting with him to discuss these guidelines, but Moxley remained a candidate for the position. He indicated in late June or early July, 1991, when the final decisions were being made about the assistant football-coaching positions which were still available, both petitioners remained as candidates and both were considered, although they were rejected.

As a result of discussions with the new football coach, guidelines were developed for assistant football coaches (Exhibit J-4B). Mr. Essing then arranged for meetings with applicants for assistant football coaches and for the purpose of discussing these guidelines. However, he indicated that he did not meet with Moxley. There were two appointments made, but Mr. Moxley failed to attend and he did not complete and sign the guidelines (Exhibit J-4B).

Mr. Essing also testified that he met with Brian Erickson, who advised him that Moxley missed every Tuesday football practice in order to attend graduate school. He was advised that Moxley's graduate course commenced at 5 p.m. and that practice started at 4 p.m. He indicated that the guidelines for coaches was prepared because of Moxley's failure to attend practice.

Mr. Essing also testified that the eighth grade football program under Moxley's direction was being run in a slip-shod fashion. There were poor techniques in tackling and he was concerned about the safety of participants. In addition, Head Coach Ryscavage stated to Mr. Essing during the 1989 season that he did not know what offense Mr. Moxley was running because it was not that which was designed by Mr. Ryscavage.

Mr. Essing indicated that the minimum requirements for coaches as set forth in the announcement of March 8, 1991 (Exhibit J-7) was not met by Moxley.

Accordingly, he withdrew his recommendation to hire Moxley in 1991. On the other hand, Mr. Essing indicated that he was impressed by the applications of those individuals who were eventually appointed as assistant football coaches (Exhibits J-12A, 12B, 12C and 12D).

Mr. Essing testified with respect to Mr. Daniel, that while he was included in his original recommendation, that there were letters in the file indicating that he exhibited a less than professional demeanor. It was indicated that Mr. Daniel was involved in unsportsmanlike conduct and used profanity. Another factor which was disappointing was that prior to the 1990 season, there is an elementary football clinic and that Mr. Daniel failed to attend the clinic, even though his attendance had been approved. In particular, other than coaching football at Irvington, Daniel had no strong football background and had only played high school junior varsity football.

Mr. Essing testified that he interviewed all applicants, including Daniel. He indicated that Daniel said he did not believe that he would be able to work well with the new head coach. After the appointment of other applicants, Mr. Essing indicated that Daniel filed a grievance. However, Mr. Essing indicated that Daniel stated to him that if he had been appointed as assistant football coach, he would not have accepted.

On cross-examination, Mr. Essing admitted that the school district advertised in the newspaper only for the head football coach and not for assistant football coaches.

Mr. Essing testified that when he first met with new coach Chet Parlavecchio, the new coach was very concerned about the quality of the assistants. They both wanted to find the nine best qualified assistants. He indicated that some of the previous assistant coaches were satisfactory and met the necessary standards. In order for the four additional coaches to be hired, Mr. Essing indicated that respondent had to get the county superintendent to approve before they reported to work. All four were paid in December, 1991. All were told that they were hired subject to paperwork and they were not permitted on the field to coach until the county superintendent's approval had been obtained. Mr. Essing indicated that Mark Parlavecchio was on the field without county superintendent approval until November 21, 1991, and he also admitted the others were on the field prior to approval.

Mr. Essing indicated that weight was given to a New Jersey teaching certificate and that no greater weight was given to a substitute teaching certificate than to a regular teaching certificate. He indicated that Mr. Paradiso, to his knowledge, was employed as a substitute during the school year. He indicated that candidates for the positions must satisfy the qualifications of the district in order to be appointed. He admitted that the guidelines (Exhibit J-4B) were never adopted or approved by the Board of Education, but they were what was expected of the assistant coaches for the upcoming season. He felt that these are requirements for assistant coaches which should be expected by every school district for every year.

Mr. Essing testified that he discussed the assistant coaches with the new head coach and that the new head coach felt that some of them did not have a commitment and a dedication to the game. He also indicated that these had limited knowledge and he called them "check-cashers." He testified that the athletic committee meeting discussed four concerns. These were the football team's win-loss record, community relations, college success, and lack of supervision and control over the sub-varsity level with participants not being taught fundamentals. He indicated that the four outside appointees had superior qualifications. However, he admitted that the four outside coaches did not sign the guidelines (Exhibit J-4B).

On redirect, Mr. Essing indicated that the four outside appointees who were on the field during practices were acting under the supervision of the head football coach. He also indicated that when application was made of the county superintendent for approval, each of the four had their substitute certificates (Exhibits J-20, J-21, J-22, and J-23). He indicated that all four were willing to adhere to the guidelines.

Guy Charles Ferri, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, indicated that he serves in a dual capacity as assistant superintendent for personnel and as the superintendents representative to the athletic committee. He is the immediate supervisor of the athletic director. His primary goals are to raise the level of personnel and the expectations of personnel. He indicated that the major focus was on greater student safety and greater academic achievement through a rise in the level of athletics. Because of the existing program, very few children who were interested and eligible were actually participating in athletics, and the focus was on safety and academics.

Mr. Ferri stated that the four appointments were with his concurrence. He was looking for individuals who could teach proper techniques for safety reasons. He was impressed with their dedication, knowledge, success, safety and prior involvement with the new head coach in a successful program. He felt that the four appointees were better qualified than the petitioners. He indicated that the evaluations of petitioners were clearly made without much thought and with no depth into what went into them. He indicated that Moxley was not qualified because he was not dedicated and has insufficient knowledge to fulfill the duties of the position. However, he felt Moxley was qualified to be an assistant basketball coach. In addition, he felt that Daniel was not dedicated and had insufficient knowledge to be qualified to be a football assistant coach.

Brian R. Erickson was called to testify in this matter. He indicated that he was as assistant football coach in 1990 and he worked with Moxley. They worked together in developing the athletic skills of all eighth grade students in the district. Of the forty to forty-five who showed up at first, twenty to twenty-five students remained and were academically and physically eligible to participate in football.

Mr. Erickson testified that his and Moxley's duties were to supervise the students getting ready, handing out equipment to them, explaining the use of equipment and supervising safety at practices. They supervised the prepractice warmup and they reviewed the fundamentals of the game.

Mr. Erickson testified that he would get out of school at 3:10 p.m. and would arrive at the practice site at 3:30 p.m. Practice was scheduled to start at 4:00 p.m. and it lasted one hour until the football helmets were received in October, 1990, at which point practices lasted one and one-half hours. It would then take approximately twenty minutes to get everyone out of the practice facility, and generally all of the participants were out by 5:45 p.m.

Mr. Erickson testified that from October to November 1990, Moxley left football practice around 5:00 p.m. once every week on Tuesdays. He testified that he spoke to Mr. Essing about this situation but that he never spoke to Moxley. He indicated that it was not a comforting feeling to be left alone to supervise the practices and that he became angered. It was strenuous and tiring since he was a new teacher. However, he also indicated that he was able to handle the situation.

Mr. Erickson testified that he reapplied for the position of assistant football coach for the 1991-92 season but indicated to Essing that he was not interested in coaching the eighth grade level because he wanted to be involved with the varsity. He ultimately decided that he did not want to coach any longer, and withdrew his name from consideration.

On cross-examination, Mr. Erickson indicated that the team got their football helmets about the first week of October, 1990, at which time they began practicing until 5:30 p.m. He further indicated that he expressed his concern to Mr. Essing in October, 1990, as to Moxley's leaving early.

Mr. Erickson testified that when Moxley was present that they got along well. He indicated that he had no problems with Moxley when he was there and he further indicated that Moxley was familiar with football fundamentals.

Chester L. Parlavecchio testified that he was employed as a physical education teacher and head football coach commencing in May or June, 1991. He indicated that he interviewed Daniel in June, 1991. At that time, Daniel told him that he was not sure he wanted to continue coaching. He indicated that at the time of the interview there was only one month left before football season would commence and that there was a lack of interest on the part of Daniel.

On cross-examination, Mr. Parlavecchio indicated that he discussed the football program with Daniel. He further indicated that Daniel got up and walked out of the meeting after saying that he was not sure he wanted to continue coaching.

On rebuttal Daniel testified that when he met with Coach Parlavecchio in early June, 1991, they talked about both the problems and the positives of the football program at Irvington. He indicated that he had been connected with the football program for six years. He felt that the students participating in football were lacking in their diets and did not have sufficient calcium. In addition, there were too many transient students.

Daniel testified that when he was asked if he would like to continue as an assistant football coach, he responded that he was not sure at this time because of personal problems. He then indicated that Coach Parlavecchio said that the coach would get back to him. However, Coach Parlavecchio never did get back to him.

Daniel denies walking out of the meeting. He eventually was advised by Mr. Essing on the next to last or last day of the school year that he was not being rehired.

On cross-examination, Daniel testified that he stated in responding to coach Parlavecchio "I am not sure, I need more time to make a decision". He reiterated that Coach Parlavecchio was to get back to him.

On rebuttal, Moxley testified that in the spring 1991, he was a teacher in the school district and he submitted his letter of intent to serve as an assistant football coach for the 1991-92 season. He indicated that he saw Mr. Essing in the halls of the school and Mr. Essing never said anything to him about missing any meetings or that he was directed to attend any meetings with him. Moxley admitted that he did not meet with Essing and denies that he was directed to meet with him or that he missed any such meetings. He indicated that he was interviewed by Coach Parlavecchio.

On cross-examination, Moxley testified that he did not remember any meeting with Mr. Essing being brought to his attention, but cannot say that it never happened. He further indicated that it is possible that such a meeting was scheduled but he does not recall. Finally, he indicated that he was pretty sure that if a meeting was scheduled he would have made it, but that he cannot swear to this under oath.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The employment of coaches and staff in a school district is a prerogative of the local board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1. Tenure does not attach to a coaching position, and a teacher has no right to employment in a coaching position. Koslick v. Bd. of Ed. of the Twp. of Edison, decided by the Commissioner August 20, 1986, rev'd. State Board, April 1, 1987, aff'd N.J Superior Court, Appellate Division, November 18, 1987.

In selecting coaches, a district board of education must be guided by N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3, which states:

> (a) Any person not certified as a teacher and not in the employ of a district board of education shall not be permitted to organize public school pupils during school time or during any recess in the school day for purposes of instruction, or coaching or for conducting games, events or contests in physical education or athletics.

(b) School districts shall be permitted to employ any holder of a New Jersey teaching certificate to work in the interscholastic athletic program provided that the position has been advertised.

(c) In the event there is no qualified and certified applicant, the holder of a county substitute certificate is authorized to serve as an athletic coach in the district in which he or she is employed for a designated sports season, provided that:

1. The district chief school administrator demonstrates to the county superintendent that:

   i. The vacant coaching position had been advertised; and

   ii. There was no qualified applicant based on the written standards of the district board of education;

2. The district chief school administrator will provide a letter to the county superintendent attesting to the prospective employee's knowledge and experience in the sport in which he or she will coach; and

3. Approval of the county superintendent shall be obtained prior to such employment by the district board of education. The 20-day limitation noted in N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.4(i) shall not apply to such coaching situations.

The first issue to be resolved is whether petitioners were, in fact, applicants for the position for assistant football coach so as to preclude the hiring of holders of a county substitute certificate under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(c). In the case of Daniel, he admitted that at the time that he was interviewed by Coach Chet Parlavecchio that he was not sure if he wanted to be an assistant football coach and that he needed more time to make his decision. He indicated that Coach Parlavecchio was to get back to him, although why this was necessary or appropriate is unclear. It would seem that if Daniel was the one who was to make a decision as to whether he wanted to be considered for the position, that the obligation was on him to notify Coach Parlavecchio of his decision.

Moxley testified on rebuttal that he never had a meeting with Mr. Essing brought to his attention. On cross-examination, he further elaborated that he does not remember that any such meeting was scheduled but he cannot say it never happened. He further indicated that it was possible that he was notified of such a meeting but he does not recall. Mr. Essing indicated that each of the applicants for the position was to meet with him to go over the guidelines and was requested to indicate whether they would accept these guidelines. He further indicated that Moxley missed two scheduled meetings.

In order to be an applicant for employment or a position, something more than merely calling oneself an applicant is required. If interviews or meetings are scheduled in order for an applicant to be considered for the position, an applicant is required to attend such interviews and meetings. At such meetings, the applicant is required to affirmatively indicate a continuing interest in the position. Common sense dictates that if an applicant for a position fails to attend interviews or meetings for a position, or attends such interviews or meetings but indicates an unwillingness to accept the position, such an individual has an insufficient basis to claim status as an applicant for the position.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that neither Daniel nor Moxley were applicants for the position of assistant football coach as of July 17, 1991.

The determination that petitioners were not applicants for the position of assistant football coach does not conclude this matter. In the petition of appeal, petitioners assert that respondent violated the Education laws, and N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 in particular, and seek a finding to that effect. Under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(c), if there is no qualified and certified applicant for a coaching position, the holder of a county substitute certificate may serve as a coach if the district chief school administrator demonstrates to the county superintendent that the vacant coaching position has been advertised and demonstrates that there was no qualified applicant based on the written standards of the district. In such a case, the district chief school administrator is required to provide a letter to the county superintendent attesting to the prospective employee's knowledge and experience in the sport. Finally, approval of the county superintendent is required to be obtained prior to such employment by the district.

I FIND that respondent failed to comply with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(c)1.i. by failing to advertise for the vacant assistant football coach's positions as required. As was testified to by Mr. Essing, the school district advertised in the newspaper only for the head football coach position and not for assistant football coaches.

Additionally, I FIND that respondent violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(c)3 by employing four assistant football coaches prior to receiving the approval of the county superintendent before such employment. While there was no direct testimony as to when each of the four assistant coaches were on the field, it was admitted by Mr. Essing that each of them was on the field prior to the county superintendent's approval. However, he further testified that the four outside appointees were acting under the supervision of the head football coach and that when the applications were made for the county superintendent's approval, each of the four had their substitute certificates. The 1991 football schedule reveals that football practice commenced on August 17, 1991 (Exhibit J-13). The county superintendent approved Mark Parlavecchio on November 21, 1991 (Exhibits J-15 and J-16), Mr. Paradiso on September 17, 1991 (Exhibit J-16 and J-16A), Mr. Pacifico on October 4, 1991 (Exhibit J-17), Mr. Mattiace on December 13, 1991 (Exhibits J-18 and J-19).

Since there have been findings that respondent violated the regulation dealing with the hiring of a holder of a county substitute certificate as an athletic coach, the next issue to be resolved is what remedy is available under these circumstances. In Capraro v. Woodbridge Tp. Bd. of Educ., 91 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 17, the ALJ and the Commissioner of Education found that the board of education acted in violation of this regulation by employing an out-of-district applicant when an in-district applicant was not otherwise disqualified from being named to the coaching position. However, because the in-district applicant who was improperly denied the position of coach was not a named petitioner, it was determined that he was not entitled to relief in that matter. Accordingly, the only relief provided in that matter was to order the board of education to fully comply with the dictates of regulation as interpreted by the Commissioner of Education in Chambers v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune, 1985 S.L.D. 1379. In view of my prior finding that neither of petitioners was in fact an applicant as of July 17, 1991, which is the date of appointment of out-of-district applicants to be assistant football coaches, the only relief available to petitioners in this matter is to order the respondent to fully comply with the dictates of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 as interpreted by the Commissioner of Education.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the relief sought by petitioners Daniel and Moxley, directing that they be instated to the assistant football coach positions for 1991 and be paid the stipends lost, plus interest, is hereby DENIED. It is further ORDERED that respondent Board of Education of Irvington is hereby directed to fully comply with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 as interpreted by the Commissioner of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CHRISTOPHER DANIEL AND WARREN D. MOXLEY,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, timely exceptions were filed by petitioners and respondent, as was a reply to petitioners' exceptions by respondent.

In their exceptions, petitioners concur with the ALJ's finding that respondent Board violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3(c)3, but contest the finding that petitioners were no longer candidates for the positions at issue and therefore not entitled to relief as a result of the Board's improper actions. Petitioners cite to numerous places in the transcript of hearing to show unrebutted testimony from the Board's own witnesses establishing that petitioners were still being considered for the disputed positions up through and including the final selection process. This being so, it is of no import that petitioners may have missed a meeting or appeared hesitant in early interviews, assuming arguendo that these contentions are true; what matters is that they, qualified teachers from within the district, remained in the applicant pool and were rejected by the Board in favor of sub-certified, out-of-district candidates contrary to the provisions of law.

The Board in turn argues that it did comply with law inasmuch as nowhere is it required that positions be advertised in newspapers or any other particular location, so long as the position is advertised and the Board can demonstrate that it has no qualified in-district applicants, which the Board deemed petitioners not to be in view of the lack of interest evinced in their comments and actions and in view of Athletic Director Essing's assessment that neither was sufficiently qualified.

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner adopts the ALJ's determination that the Board violated controlling regulation, but rejects in part the determination that petitioners were not appplicants and so cannot claim any remedy in the instant proceeding.

With respect to the Board's actions, the Commissioner stresses that the intent and proper operation of the regulation at issue herein is well established, that athletics is part of the total educational program and, in hiring coaches, a board must first look to in-district staff, then to fully certificated staff from without the district, and only then to holders of substitute certificates as approved by the County Superintendent. John H. Chambers, Jr. v. Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, Monmouth County, 1985 S.L.D. 1363; Skip Norcross v. Board of Education of the North Hunterdon Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, 1991 S.L.D. 1154, affirmed State Board February 5, 1992; Vincent J. Capraro et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County, 1991 S.L.D. 1625 In the instant matter, even assuming that petitioners were not qualified candidates, the Board erred in failing to solicit teachers with standard certificates from outside the district before resorting to candidates with county substitute certification, notwithstanding any other qualifications they may hold; for this purpose, an in-district advertisement of the type relied upon by the Board is clearly inadequate and cannot serve to meet the requirements of law.* Neither was it proper for the Board to rely, as it did throughout the latter part of its application process, solely on the outside applicant pool recommended by the new Head Coach based on his prior experience in working with them. Although the record does not support any inference that the Board acted in bad faith, or indeed, out of anything more than ignorance of controlling regulation and a sincere intention to improve its sports program, the fact remains that the manner in which it proceeded was seriously flawed.

With respect to the question of the relief owed petitioners as a result of the Board's errors, review of the hearing transcript, as well as the ALJ's summations of testimony, confirms petitioners' contention that they remained applicants through the final selection process but were ultimately rejected by the Board. In determining that petitioners were not qualified, the Board relied on perceptions by Athletic Director Essing and newly appointed Head Coach

* The Commissioner notes that this internal advertisement was apparently accepted by the County Superintendent as evidence that the position was properly advertised prior to granting approval for hiring of substitutes (Transcript, p. 163; Exhibits J-14, J-16 and J-18 do not include referenced attachments), and that such acceptance does not alter any findings herein that the Board's actions were in error.

Parlavecchio that petitioners had a less than enthusiastic attitude and did not previously perform the duties of assistant coach (Exhibit J-9) in an acceptable manner, notwithstanding prior evaluations (Exhibits J-3 and J-5) consistently indicating satisfactory performance, and on its overall desire to "revamp" the football program in light of its safety, community relations and win-loss history. In effect, as evidenced by the testimony of Essing, Parlavecchio and Assistant Superintendent Ferri, a judgment was made that petitioners, while minimally qualified, were less attractive candidates than the successful applicants. However, the law does not permit a Board to make such distinctions unless based on clearly stated and properly advertised criteria, or on reasonable expectations for candidate response to application procedures. According to the Board's promulgated criteria (Exhibits J-7, J-8, J-9, Stipulation of Facts No. 16), petitioners were qualified applicants and neither ever effectuated a formal withdrawal of application; the question thus becomes whether the Board's finding them unqualified in the final analysis was a sustainable judgment.

In this regard, the further criteria applied by Essing and Parlavecchio (Exhibit J-4B) are a valid basis for such judgment, as all applicants were notified of these expectations and made aware that they would be a condition of successful candidacy. In Petitioner Daniel's case, it is noted that 1) Daniel specifically agreed to abide by such criteria, which were prospective in nature, and that notwithstanding any equivocation in his conversation with the head coach, he never withdrew either his application or his written consent to abide by the specified guidelines. There is, therefore, no basis on which the Board could properly have found him unqualified. In Petitioner Moxley's case, however, notwithstanding his claims to have "forgotten" whether he ever missed any appointments regarding his candidacy, Essing's testimony as to what transpired is credible and the record is clear that all candidates were informed of these appointments and their purpose. Moxley neither attended the meetings, consistently referred to in the hearing transcript as "interviews," nor offered any explanation other than that he had forgotten about them; nor did he ever sign the agreement document that would have memorialized his understanding of the district's expectations for coaching positions. While the failure of the successful applicants to sign the agreement document created an inconsistency among treatment of applicants so that Moxley's failure to sign is not in itself fatal to his candidacy, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, notwithstanding his nominal meeting of the originally promulgated qualifications for Assistant Football Coach, Moxley's failure to attend two interview meetings was an entirely reasonable and proper basis for the Board to conclude that he was no longer a viable applicant.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed in its determination that the Board violated applicable law, and the Board is directed to henceforth comply in full with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 as interpreted in established case law. The initial decision is further affirmed in its determination that Petitioner Moxley, by his actions and omissions, effectively removed himself from viable candidacy for the positions at issue and is not entitled to relief herein. The initial decision is reversed, however, in its determination with respect to Petitioner Daniel, as he was and remained a qualified candidate for the position at issue and is therefore due the appropriate stipend for the 1991-92 school year, which amount the Board is directed to reimburse forthwith.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on October 29, 1992 as the result of the filing of a verified petition wherein Anne Mazziotta sought reinstatement to her position as a guidance counselor. A prehearing conference was scheduled to be conducted by the undersigned administrative law judge on February 8, 1993. However, on that date counsel advised me that the parties seriously were considering the possibility of settlement. Thus, the prehearing conference was adjourned until February 26, 1993.

Prior to the new prehearing conference date, I was advised by counsel that a tentative settlement had been reached. Thereafter, a fully executed stipulation of dismissal was submitted to me. The essential terms of the agreement provide for payment of $3,243.00 to petitioner in return for her agreement to dismiss the pending action.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of counsel appearing on the stipulation of dismissal; and

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I therefore CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and order that the parties comply with its terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RAMAPO INDIAN HILLS REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former Director of Buildings and Grounds from October 1982 until September 30, 1991, filed verified complaint in Law Division of Superior Court, Bergen County,claiming tenure in Director's position because at one point during his employment he allegedly functioned without having a fixed term and was employed as janitor (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3). Moreover, petitioner emphasized his status as an exempt fireman and argued that Board violated Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA). Petitioner sought reinstatement with compensation. Parties entered into consent order transferring to Commissioner all issues raised by petitioner in his initial complaint filed in Superior Court.

ALJ determined petitioner was employed the entire time in question for fixed periods of time. ALJ found Board at no time appointed petitioner for an indefinite period. Therefore, petitioner did not gain tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. Nor was he tenured under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60 in that he was not an officer. It was not necessary to determine whether petitioner was employed as janitor pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. ALJ concluded Board substantively complied with OPMA pertaining to the meeting held on September 30, 1991 except to extent that resolution adopted prior to going into executive session did not state the time when and circumstances under which the matters discussed therein would be disclosed to the public but that subsequent action taken by Board in public session terminating petitioner's employment should not be rendered void because of such noncompliance with OPMA. Board's motion for summary judgment was granted. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 21,1991, Royal Burrows (Burrows or petitioner), filed a verified complaint in lieu of perogative writ in the Law Division of Superior Court, Bergen County, seeking relief pertaining to action taken by the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional High School District Board of Education (Board or respondent). On January

2, 1992, a Consent Order was entered transferring the matter to the Commissioner of the State Department of Education (Department) for treatment of the matter as a petition to consider a controversy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was thereafter transmitted by the Department to the Office of Administrative Law on March 17, 1992 for determination as a contested case pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*52:14F-1 to 13. Respondent filed an initial answer to the petition on January 30, 1991; and an amended answer, on April 23, 1992.

Telephone conferences were conducted on September 22, 1992, October 20, 1992, and March 4, 1993. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on Februar 9, 1993. Petitioner filed a brief in opposition to the motion on March 24, 1993. The Board filed a reply on April 21, 1993, on which date the record was closed. A hearing previously scheduled for March 15, 1993 was adjourned to June 28, 1993, pending resolution of the motion in question.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Burrows was employed by respondent in the title of Director of Buildings and Grounds (Director) from October 1982 until September 30, 1991. At a meeting held on September 30, 1991, the Board terminated his employment for cause. Petitioner is an exempt fireman in the State of New Jersey and holds an exempt fireman's certificate from the Borough of Midland Park (Midland Park).

The parties dispute the nature of petitioner's employment, whether or not he achieved tenure in the position of Director, and whether or not action taken by respondent at the September 30, 1991 meeting violated the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-1-21 (OPMA). There is no dispute that the Board's action terminating Burrow's employment did not comport with statutory and regulatory requirements regarding action taken against tenured employees of local school districts.

Petitioner argues that he obtained tenure in the Director's position because, at one point during his employment by respondent, he functioned without having a fixed term; that he was employed as a "janitor" as that term is used, in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and therefore was eligible for tenure; and that the Board violated the OPMA at its meeting of September 30, 1991. Petitioner argues for reinstatement to the position of Director with accrued pay and benefits, granting of tenure, counsel fees and costs, and such other relief as may be warranted.

Respondent argues that petitioner was not employed as a "janitor" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3; that assuming he was, he held the position of Director for fixed terms and therefore did not attain tenure pursuant to applicable statutory provisions; and that the OPMA was not violated.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery demonstrate that no genuine issue exists regarding any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In order for an adverse party to prevail, it must set forth specific facts showing a genuine issue of material fact which can only be determined at an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party fails to meet his burden of proof, summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. In considering motions for summary decision, any inferences of doubt regarding whether an issue of material facts exist must be construed in favor of the opposing party. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Westfield, 17 N.J. (1954).

Allan Dzwilewski (Dzwilewski), respondent's counsel, and Burrows filed certifications on behalf of respondent and petitioner, respectively. Based upon a review of petitioner's complaint, respondent's answers, and the documents filed in relation to the Board's motion for summary decision, I FIND the following to be FACTS.

Petitioner joined the Midland fire company in May 1960. Petitioner became an exempt member of the Midland fire department in May of 1968.

The formal job description of the position of Director is as stated in Exhibit A to Dzwilewski's certification. Burrows was initially employed by the Board in the position of Director in October 1982. By resolution adopted on October 18, 1982, the Board appointed Burrows to the position of Director for a period of twelve months for the period November 1, 1982 until June 30, 1983, at an annual prorated salary of $27,000.

The Board reappointed Burrows, at a meeting held on November 14, 1983, for the 1983-84 school year, at an annual salary of $29,320. He was reappointed on June 25, 1984 for the 1984-85 school year, with an annual salary of $31,372. At a meeting held on June 24, 1985, the Board reappointed petitioner to the Director position for the 1985-86 school year. His salary was to be determined upon the completion of renegotiations. On March 24, 1986, the Board determined to reappoint petitioner to the same position for the 1986-87 school year, at an annual salary of $42,175. He was reappointed at a meeting of the Board on June 15, 1987 for the 1987-88 school year, at an annual salary of $45,549. At a meeting held on June 27, 1988, the Board reappointed Burrows to the Director position for the 1988-89 school year. The minutes of this meeting state that the salary was to be determined at the completion of negotiations. At a December 5, 1988 meeting, the Board approved an annual salary for petitioner of $49,193 for the 1988-89 school year. Burrows was reappointed for the 1989-90 school year at a Board meeting held on April 10, 1989. His annual salary was $52,882. The Board reappointed Burrows at a meeting held on June 25, 1990 to the position of Director for the 1990-91 school year. Minutes of that meeting state that his salary was to be determined at the completion of negotiations. Petitioner served without an employment contract for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years. At a meeting held on June 24, 1991, Burrows was reappointed for the 1991-92 school year, subject to the execution of a contract or letter of employment upon completion of negotiations. Petitioner functioned as the Director until September 30, 1991 and was terminated prior to the completion of negotiations.

Petitioner has never been employed by respondent in any position other than that of Director. Minutes of all applicable meetings reference the appointments not only of petitioner, but of other individuals, as reappointments of specified professional or administrative personnel. The appointment of petitioner to the position of Director, as well as the subsequent reappointments, were based upon recommendations of respondent's Superintendent of Schools (Superintendent).

Prior to the reappointments, petitioner had previously received a form of contract, pursuant to the applicable resolutions, which was for a specific school year. The format and standardized content of this employment contract form is as stated in "Exhibit K" to Dzwilewski's certification. The form provided, in part, that either party could terminate the contract by giving 60 days' written notice of intention to terminate, but that in the absence of any provision for a definite number of days' notice, the contract would run for the full term indicated therein. The Board has never taken any action to change the employment contract/resolution procedures used in appointing Burrows to the Director position.

Effective September 17, 1991, petitioner was placed on administrative leave with full pay and benefits until further notice by Dr. John C. Pennoyer (Pennoyer), respondent's Superintendent. During the period of administrative leave, Burrows was not to perform any of his employment duties and not to return to the district, before, during, or after working hours, unless prior arrangements were made directly with Pennoyer. Burrows was also to immediately turn over district property, including keys and a district truck, in his possession. Burrows was informed of these determinations by a letter from Pennoyer dated September 17, 1991. This letter also notified petitioner that Pennoyer would discuss any action to place petitioner on administrative leave, including the reasons for the decision, with the Board at a meeting to be held on September 30, 1991; that this discussion would take place in executive session; that Burrows would have the right to request that the discussion be held in public session; and that if petitioner were going to request that the matter be discussed in public, he should notify Pennoyer, in writing, no later than 11:00 a.m. on September 27, 1991. The stated reasons for these actions pertained to allegations of alleged misappropriation of district property and other possible improprieties. The letter reflected a conference held between Pennoyer and Burrows on September 17, 1991.

Petitioner retained the services of counsel prior to September 30, 1990. Dzwilewski sent Peter Jeffer (Jeffer), petitioner's counsel, a September 26, 1991 letter, which letter confirmed oral communications. The letter stated that petitioner's personnel file was available to be picked up but reiterated that, pursuant to the Superintendent's directive, Burrows was not permitted on district premises and that, confirming telephone conversations, the Superintendent intended to recommend to the Board that Burrows' employment be terminated upon 60 days' written notice and that it was anticipated that such recommendation would be made and acted upon at a September 30, 1991 Board meeting. Jeffer received this letter on September 27, 1991.

By letter dated September 26, 1991, Jeffer requested an opportunity to address the Board. Dzwilewski contacted Jeffer regarding procedures whereby Jeffer and Burrows would appear before the Board prior to its consideration and/or action regarding petitioner's employment status. Petitioner requested that he be allowed to address the Board during its executive session. Jeffer inquired as to the approximate time that the executive session would commence. An intent was not indicated to attend the earlier portion of the meeting. Counsel for respondent advised that a number of routine matters would be acted upon and estimated that the executive session would commence at approximately 9:00 p.m. Jeffer did not lodge any objections to these procedures.

These procedures were memorialized in a letter dated September 27, 1991, from Dzwilewski to Jeffer. This letter noted that the request ato address the Board would be granted subject to the following conditions:

1. Jeffer's appearance before the Board was deemed not to be a hearing nor adversarial, but to provide Burrows with an opportunity to make a statement to respondent. Jeffers would not be allowed to question nor cross-examine. Jeffer's appearance would be scheduled in executive session sometime after 9:00 p.m., on September 30, 1991. Jeffer would be provided a reasonable time in which to make a statement; however, the Board reserved its right to determine the duration of such statement, as circumstances warranted. The Board meeting would be held at the Indian Hills High School (School), and Jeffer was to meet Harry Stein at the principal's office. Stein would escort Jeffer to a waiting room. A Board representative would then escort Jeffer to the executive session when the Board was ready to consider the matter.

2. After Jeffer's statement was concluded, Board members would be permitted an opportunity to ask questions for clarification. Jeffer would be excused in order for the Board to continue its deliberations. Any Board action related to Burrows' employment status would be taken in public session after conclusion of the executive session.

Prior to receipt of Dzwilewski's letter, a decision was made on petitioner's behalf to keep the matter private rather than to request a public hearing.

The Board, in fact, did meet on September 30, 1991. The procedures as outlined in Dzwilewski's letter of September 27, 1991 were followed on September 30, 1991, except that Jeffer and Burrows were given a second opportunity to address the Board in its executive session.

On September 30, 1991, the Board initially conducted a portion of its public meeting, which dealt with matters not related to Burrows. The Board then went into executive session, at approximately 8:55 p.m. The minutes of the meeting state, in pertinent part, that at 8:55 p.m. a motion was offered, seconded, and unanimously carried to recess the regular meeting and move into closed executive session to discuss personnel, negotiations and litigation. The Board reconvened in public session at 12:19 a.m. At that point, the Board approved a resolution terminating Burrows' employment as Director upon 60 days' written notice.

Petitioner and Jeffer arrived at the School on September 30, 1991 at approximately 9:00 p.m. Upon arrival, they were met by an employee of the school system and escorted to a room on one side of the School. They remained in this room for two hours. They were subsequently escorted to a room on the other side of the School, in proximity to the room in which the Board was meeting. Petitioner and his attorney were allowed, and did, address the Board during its executive session. Jeffer and Burrows were present at the public portion of the meeting when the Board acted to terminate petitioner's employment.

CONCLUSIONS

The Commissioner of the Department is generally empowered to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. As noted hereinabove, the parties entered into a Consent Order transferring to the Commissioner all issues raised by petitioner in his initial complaint filed in Superior Court .

The essential issue in the current matter is whether petitioner was a tenured employee of the Board at the time of his termination on September 30, 1991. The applicable tenure statute for janitorial employees provides that:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title. Id §17-3 (emphasis added).[1]

Pertinent statutory provisions also provide for tenure, in certain situations, of exempt firemen holding positions with local school boards. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Whenever any person possessing an exempt fireman certificate holds an office, position or employment of the State, or a county or municipality or a school board or board of education for an indeterminate term, such person shall hold his office, position or employment during good behavior and shall not be removed therefrom for political reasons but only for good cause after a fair and impartial hearing.
>
> For the purposes herein no term of office, position or employment of any such person shall be deemed to be fixed by law or coterminous with that of a noncontinuous appointing or employing board or body; provided, however, that in no event is it intended that this provision shall apply to appointments made for a fixed or stated period of time. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60 (emphasis added).

---

[1] Pursuant to the referenced statutory provision, no person who is under tenure of office, position or employment, during good behavior and efficiency in a public school system, shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, subsequent to a hearing conducted pursuant to certain specified requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Petitioner relies on N.J.S.A. 40A:14-64, which provides that:

> Whenever an exempt fireman holds a State, county, municipal or a board of education office not created by the Constitution, he shall hold such office during good behavior and shall not be removed unless for good cause after a fair and impartial hearing, provided he has or shall have served in said office for a term of 3 consecutive years. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-64.

I am persuaded by respondent's argument that petitioner held a "position or employment," not an "office," with the Board and that N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60, not N.J.S.A. 40A:14-64, is controlling.

It is clear from the statutory language that both N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60 confer tenure only if the individual in question has not been appointed to fixed terms. It is also clear that petitioner was employed, the entire time in question, for fixed periods of time. The fact that employment contracts were not executed for the 1990/91 and 1991/92 school years is not determinative. The crucial fact is that Burrows was reappointed by the Board for specific terms, for particular school years. It is evident that he was initially appointed for a fixed term and that he was subsequently reappointed to a series of fixed one-year terms. The pertinent Board minutes reflect appointments by resolution for each relevant school year. As respondent argues, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, appointment to a fixed term is determinative. The execution of contracts was administerial, implementing the import of the applicable resolutions approved by the Board.

Petitioner argues that he was employed for an indeterminate period of time during a "gap," evidenced by Board determinations of October 18, 1982 and November 14, 1983, pertaining to the 1982/83 and 1983/84 school years, respectively. He argues that he therefore achieved tenure pursuant to the applicable statutory provisions. I am not persuaded by this argument. It is clear that each appointment in question was for a fixed, specific period of time and that the Board at no time appointed Burrows for an indefinite period.

For similar reasons, petitioner did not gain tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60. As the Board argues, any such claim would, of necessity, be based on Burrows' employment with respondent.

I am persuaded, and so CONCLUDE, that at all times during his employment with respondent, Burrows was appointed by the Board for fixed, specific periods of time and that he was never appointed for an undetermined, indefinite period. I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioner did not attain tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and N.J.S.A. 40A:14-60. It is therefore not necessary to determine whether petitioner was employed as a "janitor" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. The only remaining question is whether respondent violated the OPMA at the meeting of September 30, 1991.

The OPMA reflects a policy fostering public involvement in government and the conduct of government open to the public. N.J.S.A. 10:4-7. The requirement of advance notice of public meetings is essential to achievement of the legislative policies reflected in the OPMA. 'Adequate Notice' is defined as written advance notice of at least 48 hours, providing the time, date, location, and, to the extent known, the agenda of any regular, special or rescheduled meeting. Such notice shall state whether formal action may or may not be taken and shall be prominently posted in at least one public place reserved for such announcements; mailed, telephoned, telegrammed or hand-delivered to at least two newspapers designated to receive such notices; and filed with the clerk of the municipality when the public body's geographic boundaries are co-extensive with that of a single municipality, with the clerk of the county when the public body's geographic boundaries are co-extensive with that of a single county; and with the Secretary of State if the public body has statewise jurisdiction. Annual notices and revisions thereof in compliance with pertinent statutory provisions obviate the need for additional notice for each meeting. Id. §8(d). At least once annually, every public body shall post, and maintain posted throughout the year, in a designated place, mailed to appropriate newspapers, and submitted to specific persons, a schedule of the regular meetings to be held during the succeeding year. If such schedule thereafter is revised, revisions shall be posted, mailed and submitted within seven days therof. Id. §18. Any person may request a copy of the public body's regular meeting schedule. Id. §19.

In addition to requiring adequate public notice of meetings, the OPMA mandates that at the commencement of each meeting, a public announcement be made that the meeting was properly noticed or, if not, detailing the emergent nature of the subject matter of the meeting and the reasons why adequate notice could not be provided. Id. §10. Except as specifically provided, no public body shall hold a meeting unless adequate notice thereof has been provided to the public. Id. §9. No person or public body shall fail to invite a portion of its members to a meeting thereof to circumvent the provisions of the OPMA. Id. §11.

Except as specified, all meetings of public bodies shall be open to the public at all times. However, nothing in the OPMA is intended to limit the discretion of a public body to permit, prohibit or regulate the active participation of the public at any meeting. Id. §12.(a).

The OPMA articulates nine exceptions to the requirement of open meetings. On their face, the only one applicable to the current proceeding is that contained in N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8), which provides that:

> Any matter involving the emloyment, termination of employment, terms and conditions of employment, evaluation of the performance of, promotion or disciplining of any specific prospective public officer or employee or current officer or employee employed or appointed by the public body, unless all the individual employees or appointees whose rights could be adversely affected, request in writing that such matter or matter be discussed at a public meeting. Id. §12(b)(8).

Prior to excluding the public from a meeting to discuss any matters pertaining to statutory exceptions, the public body is mandated to adopt a resolution at a public meeting stating the general nature of the subject to be discussed and, as precisely as possible, the time when, and the circumstances under which the discussion in closed session can be disclosed to the public. Id. §13. Minutes of public meetings shall be available to the public. Id. §14. Each public body shall keep "reasonably comprehensible minutes" of all meetings, showing the time and place, the members present, subjects considered, actions taken, the vote of each member, and any other information required to be shown by law. Ibid.

The OPMA provides remedies for non-conforming actions. Any action taken by a public body at a meeting which does not conform with the provisons of the OPMA, shall be voidable in a proceeding in lieu of prerogative writ in Superior Court, which proceeding may be brought by any person within 45 days after the action sought to be voided has been made public.[2] A public body may take corrective or remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting in conformity with the OPMA and any other applicable law regarding any actions which may otherwise be voidable. Any action for which advance public notice of at least 48 hours is provided as required by law shall not be voidable solely for failure to conform with any notice required in the OPMA. Id. §15(a). Any party, including any member of the public, may institute a proceeding in lieu of prerogative writ to challenge any action taken by a public body on the grounds that such action is void for the statutorily stated reasons. If a court shall find that the action taken at a meeting does not conform to the provisions of the OPMA, the court shall declare such action void. Id. §(b)[3].

In his certification, Burrows states, in pertinent part, that the School "is a very large school." He also avers that when he arrived with counsel on the evening in question, he and Jeffer were met by a representative of the school system and taken, as found hereinabove, to a room on the other side of the School. He states that they "were not allowed, even to go near the room where the school Board was meeting" and that this situation ". . . raised my suspicions because I was wondering if they were discussion (sic) my employment in hearing from people and keeping that very fact from me." Burrows further states that he was not informed at any time that the Board was in executive session and that "Essentially my attorney and I were confined to a room and told not to leave until they sent for us. We stayed in this room for two (2) hours. When we were finally admitted to the room, we were escorted to the Board room on the other side of the school. My attorney asked for an indication as to what the problems were, and we were not told what the charges were against me. We were merely allowed to guess what these charges could possibly have been." (petitioner's Certification, p. 3).

2 It is noted that petitioner apparently did not comply with the requirement that proceedings be filed within 45 days of the action in question. The verified complaint initially filed by Burrows in the Law Division contains a stamped receipt date of November 21, 1991, which date was not within 45 days of the September 30, 1991 Board meeting. However, in light of the fact that this question was not addressed by the parties, I reach no determinations in this respect.

3 Although the OPMA references a proceeding in lieu of prerogative writ, the pertinent Consent Order, on its face, transferred all claims initially raised by petitioner, including those pertaining to the OPMA, to the Commissioner for determination. Those pertaining to the OPMA are therefore addressed in this decision.

Petitioner argues that Pennoyer's letter of September 17, 1991 did not inform Burrows that a recommendation would be made to terminate his employment and that the September 26, 1991 letter was the first notice he received that the Board was going to consider such termination. Petitioner also argues that at no time was he or counsel advised that the effect of the decision not to request a public hearing would be to "exclude us" from the Board's deliberations concerning petitioner's employment. Counsel argues that upon arriving at the School, he and Burrows were "immedidiately ushered into a closed room and incarcerated there for over 2 hours . . . We were not allowed in the hallway or in the adjacent cafeteria area. Apparently, and we are not sure of this, a hearing was taking place concerning my client's employment without him being present. If, on the other hand, we had been informed that we would be waiving our rights to be present during this hearing by requesting a private session, our decision might have been different. Our whole desire in this litigation is the opportunity to confront our accusers. We had hoped that this hearing would avail us of that opportunity event (sic) though Mr. Dzwilewski indicated that it was not adverserial in nature." (brief, pp. 10-11). Petitioner also avers that he and counsel were never advised that the Board had gone into executive session. Burrows argues that it was not until three days before this meeting that he and counsel were informed that the Board was considering termination and that they did not have a right to be present during whatever deliberations took place.

Pennoyer's letter of September 17, 1991 provided notice that the Board would hold a meeting on September 30, 1991 regarding the Superintendent's determination to temporary relieve Burrows of his position. Although not specifically stating that termination would be considered on September 30, 1991, the clear import of the letter was that petitioner's employment status would be on the agenda.

The September 26, 1991 letter to petitioner's counsel provided Burrows with adequate notice of the Board meeting to be held on September 30, 1991. As found, this letter was received by Burrows' counsel on September 27, 1991, in excess of the 48-hour notice required by the OPMA. In addition, Dzwilewski communicated to Jeffer, by telephone, prior to September 27, 1991 that the Board would consider petitioner's employment status at the meeting to be held on September 30, 1991.

Contrary to petitioner's contentions, the OPMA does not require that a detailed notice of the nature of business to be discussed nor the time that a public body will convene in executive session be provided. There is no question that the discussion of Burrows' employment status was the proper subject matter of a meeting in executive session. As found, petitioner never requested that such deliberations be conducted in a public meeting. There was no requirement that Burrows or his counsel be allowed to address the Board during executive session, although, as found, petitioner's request in this respect was granted.

The certifications filed on behalf of petitioner and respondent and their arguments regarding what transpired in reference to Jeffers' and Burrows' freedom to leave the room to which they were escorted prior to the executive session differ in material respects. Burrows' certification is conclusionary in nature and does not allude to any specific facts regarding his allegation that he and Jeffer were prevented from leaving the room in question. The general scenerio argued by respondent is consistent with the letter of September 27, 1991. As found, the executive session commenced at 8:55 p.m., and petitioner and counsel arrived at the School at approximately 9:00 a.m. As respondent argues, it is apparent that petitioner and counsel attended all of the public portion of the meeting that they could have, given their arrival time. However, assuming a dispute in the facts in this respect, such dispute is not material to resolution of the issues presented in this case.

The public session conducted prior to the executive session addressed matters totally unrelated to petitioner. As noted, petitioner's request to be present at the executive session was granted, although he had no right to be present. Burrows and his counsel attended the subsequent public portion of the meeting which dealt with Burrows' employment status and the Board's action in approving the resolution terminating petitioner's employment.

Petitioner's contention that he was not given sufficient notice of the effect of "waiver" of a public hearing is without merit. Petitioner was not a tenured employee, and he therefore was not entitled to a hearing regarding action against his employment status nor statements of the charges, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10 & 11. In any event, the two letters previously sent to petitioner and his counsel provided notice that the Board would be considering action against Burrows' employment status because of allegations regarding improprieties. As found, the September 27, 1991 letter clearly stated that Burrows and Jeffer would be excused in order for the Board to continue its deliberations. Petitioner cites no basis to support a claim that they could not be so excused while the Board deliberated in executive session. I also place some emphasis on the fact that petitioner was represented by counsel throughout the proceedings. It is reasonable to conclude that Jeffer was familiar with the requirements of the OPMA. Burrows had a right to appear at the public hearings pursuant to the OPMA. As found, he was present at the portion of the public hearing on September 30, 1991 at which the Board voted to terminate him and based upon his arrival time that evening, it is apparent that he was not able to be present at the earlier portion of the public hearing. As discussed, he did not have a right to be present at the executive session. Respondent allowed him and his counsel an opportunity to present a statement to the Board, at petitioner's request, and the parameters of their appearances were reasonable and communicated to Jeffer prior to the date in question.

As noted, Burrows argues that the resolution adopted by the Board prior to going into closed session was statutorily defective. As found, petitioner and his counsel were present during the closed session. The minutes of that session are not available to this judge, and it therefore cannot be determined whether or not they were advised regarding the subsequent disclosure of the matters discussed. The Board, referencing attached letters, argues in its reply brief that it has been willing to release the minutes, but that petitioner has objected. The referenced letters were not filed. However, I am persuaded that the unavailability of the minutes of the executive session are not determinative to resolution of the motion in this respect.

It is clear that the general nature of the subject to be discussed, personnel matters and litigation, was disclosed. The Board complied with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 10:4-13(a). However, it did not comply with the requirement of Section (b) of that provision that a public body adopt a resolution prior to going into closed session, which resolution must state the time when and circumstances under which the discussion conducted in closed session can be disclosed to the public. However, the nature, quality and effect of non-compliance in fashioning a corrective remedy for violations of the OPMA must be considered. Substantial compliance carries some weight, and relief should be appropriate to the particular situation. Matawan Educ. Assn v. Matawan-.Aberdeen Ed. Bd., 212 N.J. Super. 328 (Law Div. 1986). In this instance, the Board acted on the matter pertaining to petitioner immediately after termination of the closed session in a public session, and petitioner and his counsel were present. Since the Board substantially complied with provisions of the OPMA, I am persuaded that the fact that they did not state in the resolution proceeding going into executive session the circumstances regarding which the matter discussed therein would be released to the public is not a fatal defect.

I CONCLUDE that respondent substantially complied with the OPMA pertaining to the meeting held on September 30, 1991, except to the extent that the resolution adopted prior to going into executive session did not state the time when and circumstances under which the matters discussed therein would be disclosed to the public, but that the subsequent action taken by the Board in public session terminating petitioner's employment should not be rendered void because of such non-compliance with the OPMA.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED; that Burrows' petition be and is hereby DISMISSED; and that the hearing previously scheduled for June 28, 1993 be and is hereby ADJOURNED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RAMAPO INDIAN HILLS REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions indicate that it wholeheartedly supports the ultimate conclusions reached by the ALJ but avers that one correction and/or amendment to the record needs to be brought to the Commissioner's attention, i.e., that portion of the initial decision on page 16 which indicates that the Board did not state the circumstances under which matters discussed in Executive Session on September 30, 1991 would be disclosed to the public. As its first point of contention, the Board avers that since the matter was being decided on a summary judgment basis, it accepted as true certain allegations because they were deemed to be immaterial and/or not germane to that motion so as to enable an undisputed statement of material facts. However, the Board emphasizes in its exceptions that it, in fact, complied with the requirements of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) in this regard and attaches for the Commissioner's review the notice for the meeting in question which clearly states "Information from the Closed Meeting will be made public at the discretion of the Board or otherwise authorized by law." (Exceptions, Ex. L, at p. 3)

The Board also avers that since it acted upon the disputed matter in Public Session on September 30, 1991 immediately after the conclusion of the Executive Session, there was no specific need to identify further "the time when and circumstances under which the matters discussed therein would be disclosed to the public...." (Initial Decision, at p. 16) It is the Board's contention that such public action did disclose the matter when the Board, upon the recommendation of the superintendent, voted to terminate Burrows' employment.

Upon review of the record, the initial decision and the Board's exceptions, the Commissioner accepts the findings and conclusions of the ALJ as set forth in the initial decision. The Commissioner notes for the record the Board's arguments set forth above do not render inaccurate the ALJ's conclusion that contrary to N.J.S.A. 10:4-13(b), no resolution relative to "disclosure" was adopted prior to the Board going into Executive Session because the exceptions do not in any manner demonstrate that a "disclosure" resolution was actually adopted pursuant to this statutory requirement. Therefore, it is determined that no correction and/or amendment to the initial decision is warranted.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed for the reasons stated by the ALJ in the initial decision.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

This Agreement is made this 19th day of ~~December~~ April, 1993, ~~1992~~, by and between the State Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, with offices at 346 Claremont Avenue, Jersey City, New Jersey 07305, hereinafter referred to as the "District,"

AND

Albert Donohue, whose home address is P.O. Box 1697, Rutherford, New Jersey 07070, hereinafter referred to as "Donohue."

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Donohue is a tenured teaching staff member employed in the State Operated School District of the City of Jersey City and has been so employed for approximately 30 years; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 5, 1992, tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher were filed against Donohue; and

WHEREAS, the tenure charges were certified to the Commissioner of Education on March 2, 1992; and

WHEREAS, in lieu of proceeding with the tenure charges in accordance with the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, the District and Donohue desire to enter into an agreement stipulating the terms of Donohue's separation from his employment as a teacher with the District and his retirement as a teacher.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted below, it is hereby agreed:

1. Donohue will submit an irrevocable letter of resignation from all employment with the District effective at the close of business on June 30, 1993. This letter of resignation will be accepted by the District. The resignation is for purposes of retirement.

2. The District agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, the tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher bearing Agency Docket No. 57-3/92 and O.A.L. Docket No. EDU 2224-92.

3. The District agrees to continue to pay Donohue his full salary through the effective date of his resignation, June 30, 1993. In addition, Donohue participates in a summer payment plan, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-3. He shall receive all sums to which he is entitled as a result of such participation.

4. All continued salary payments made to Donohue between the date of this Agreement and June 30, 1993 shall be paid in the normal course of business, net of normal payroll deductions for State and Federal income taxes and pension contributions.

5. Until June 30, 1993, the District agrees to continue to provide Donohue with all health insurance coverages presently provided to other teaching staff members in the District. The insurance coverages involved herein are set forth in the current collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Jersey City Education Association.

6. Upon Donohue's resignation for purposes of retirement and consistent with his rights under the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"), Donohue shall be able to purchase, at his own cost and expense, the insurance coverages presently provided to other teaching staff members in the District or he shall be able to obtain health insurance coverage through the Division of Pensions (Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund), as provided by N.J.S.A. 52-14.32f. The insurance coverages involved herein are set forth in the current collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Jersey City Education Association or as provided by the Division of Pensions (Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund). As noted in paragraph 5, the District will provide insurance coverage through June 30, 1993 and, if applicable and exercised, Donohue's rights under COBRA will commence at that time.

7. The collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Jersey City Education Association provides for reimbursement for unused accumulated sick leave upon resignation and/or retirement. Donohue retains his right to such reimbursement and his rights will be determined by the express provisions of the collective negotiations agreement.

8. Donohue shall be entitled to all other contractual benefits, as provided to other teachers under the terms of the current collective negotiations agreement between the District and the Jersey City Education Association, until June 30, 1993.

9. The District and Donohue agree that the settlement of the charges brought by the District is justified for the following reasons:

(a) The charges made by the District against Donohue must be viewed in the context of a lengthy, meritorious teaching career in the District;

(b) The June 30, 1993 resignation of Donohue can result in an economic saving to the District in that Donohue's salary will terminate at that point. If the charges were fully litigated, Donohue would be entitled to salary until at least the issuance of the decision of the Commissioner of Education. Given the number of witnesses for both the petitioner and respondant, the possible need for the scheduling of additional hearing dates and the normal timetable for such matters, the Commissioner's decision might not be issued until the late spring of 1993 or afterwards;

(c) The parties will not be required to undergo the time and substantial expense of further litigation.

(d) If fully litigated, this case would require the testimony of students and numerous employees of the District, both for the District and for Donohue. Such testimony would disrupt the educational process in the District.

(e) The public interest would best be served by resolving the present controversy.

(f) Donohue has an interest in resolving this matter to permit his retirement without the distraction and stress of defending himself against the charges.

10. Donohue is aware that, as a result of the charges brought against him, this matter may be referred to the State Board of Examiners. However, in light of the scheduled retirement of Donohue as a teacher, recognizing his many valuable years of teaching service in the school district and the potential cost of pursuing such an action against a retiree, the District believes that such a referral would not be necessary or appropriate under the circumstances and recommends against same.

11. The District and Donohue acknowledge that Donohue is entitled to a pension by virtue of his employment as a teacher in the State of New Jersey. The District agrees to comply with all of the rules and regulations of Donohue's retirement program in providing information required either by Donohue or by the retirement program. The District shall bear no responsibility for any matter related to his pension program to deny, limit, reduce or modify his pension.

12. The District and Donohue acknowledge that the terms of this Agreement are contingent upon the review and approval of both the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. In the event that either agency disapproves of the terms of settlement, this Agreement shall be null and void and the parties shall return to the same positions which they held prior to this settlement.

13. The parties recognize that each has been represented by legal counsel of his or its own choosing and that each signs this Agreement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

14. This Agreement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

15. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended or modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

Re: Letter of Resignation

Dear Dr. Scambio:

I hereby resign from my employment as a teaching staff member employed by the Jersey City School District effective June 30, 1993. This resignation is to permit my retirement at that time and is expressly conditioned upon the approval of the Memorandum of Agreement dated December , 1992, between the District and myself by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education and shall be null and void if the terms of that Agreement are not so approved. This resignation is otherwise irrevocable.

Respectfully submitted,

ESPERANZA ANASTASIO, Petitioner,	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
v.	:	AGENCY REF. NO. 371-10/91 O.A.L. DOCKET NO. EDU 03623-92N
THE STATE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, DORIS SMITH, In her capacity as Acting Passaic County Superintendent of Schools, and THE NEW JERSEY STATE OFFICE OF TEACHER CERTIFICATION, Respondent.	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties hereto, desiring an amicable resolution of the above-captioned litigation, do hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Petitioner, Esperanza Anastasio (hereinafter 'Ms. Anastasio'), was employed in September, 1983, by the Paterson School District (hereinafter 'Paterson') as a Bilingual Science Teacher pursuant to emergency certification in that area. At that time Ms. Anastasio was not a United States citizen.

2. While her employment continued, Ms. Anastasio pursued full certification and completed all requirements for a Comprehensive Science endorsement in December, 1985. In April, 1986, the respondent Office of Teacher Certification (hereinafter 'OTC') issued a teaching certificate endorsed for Comprehensive Science to Ms. Anastasio. The certificate had an expiration dat of April, 1991, due to the fact that Ms. Anastasio was not yet a citizen.

3. In October, 1986, Ms. Anastasio became a United States citizen.

4. In November, 1986, Ms. Anastasio was issued a permanent, regular endorsement as a Bilingual/Bicultural Teacher since she had completed all requirements and was a citizen.

5. As of November, 1986, Ms. Anastasio achieved tenured status in Paterson.

6. Ms. Anastasio's employment continued in Paterson. In May of 1991, Ms. Anastasio was requested to present evidence of her citizenship to the Passaic County Superintendent's office. She did so and was then verbally advised that her Science endorsement had lapsed in April, 1991.

7. Ms. Anastasio filed an application for a permanent Science endorsement in August, 1991.

8. Ms. Anastasio resumed her employment as a Bilingual Science teacher in September, 1991.

9. On September 25, 1991, she was notified that her employment would cease as of September 30, 1991, because OTC refused to reissue her Science certificate on the grounds that her National Teacher Examination (NTE) grade from 1985 was no longer a passing grade in 1991, although it had been a passing grade in 1985.

10. Ms. Anastasio received a passing grade on the NTE in March, 1992.

11. Ms. Anastasio received a new endorsement for Biological Science, dated May, 1992, in June, 1992.

12. Ms. Anastasio returned to active duty as a teacher in Paterson in September, 1992.

Based on the foregoing, the parties agree as follows:

1. Ms. Anastasio will be retroactively placed at Level 9, MA+30 of the 1992-93 Paterson Teacher Salary Guide, effective September 1, 1992. Any back salary due from that date will be paid to Ms. Anastasio within thirty (30) days of approval of this Agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

2. The Paterson School District recognizes and acknowledges that Ms. Anastasio continues to be a tenured teaching staff member within its employ with all rights conferred pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Ms. Anastasio's seniority will be calculated continuously from September, 1983, to the present and thereafter as long as her employment continues, excluding only the nine (9) month period of hiatus in her employment in 1991-92 from the total. Tenure is recognized based on Ms. Anastasio's continuous certification as a Bilingual teacher.

3. For purposes of contractual salary longevity, Ms. Anastasio will be considered to have completed nine (9) full years of creditable employment as of September 1, 1992.

4. All accumulated sick leave credited to Ms. Anastasio as of September 30, 1991, will continue to be credited to her for all purposes as of September 1, 1992.

5. In return for compliance with this Agreement, Ms. Anastasio agrees to withdraw and dismiss the above-captioned litigation against all respondents, with prejudice. The Paterson School District hereby withdraws and dismisses any crossclaims against all other respondents, with prejudice.

6. This Agreement shall not constitute contractual past practice or precedent for contractual purposes as to any person not a party hereto.

7. Upon approval of this Agreement by the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education, the status of Ms. Anastasio's tenure and seniority rights as set forth herein shall be established as a matter of law.

8. The parties respectively acknowledge that each has had ample opportunity to seek independent legal counsel or other advice regarding this Agreement, and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without coercion, duress or pressure from the other party.

9. By entering this Agreement, each party releases and discharges the other with respect to all claims or rights arising out of the hiatus in Ms. Anastasio's employment during the 1991-92 school year. This release does not apply to the right to enforce the terms of this Agreement. This release does not apply to the issues raised in the matter known as Esperanza Anastasio

v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, et al., O.A.L. Docket No. EDU 3622-92N, Agency Ref. No. 31-1/92 and that litigation is not settled or withdrawn by virtue of this stipulation and Agreement.

10. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Office of Administrative law and the Commissioner of Education and will not take effect unless such approvals are received.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, private school for the education and treatment of emotionally disturbed boys, appealed decision of Division of Compliance which affirmed decision of Bureau of Auditing on reimbursable costs. Division found petitioner failed to meet minimum number of instructional days (180) in 1987-88 school year, thus requiring petitioner to refund portion of tuition that was paid to petitioner by sending districts that year.

ALJ concluded money was an overpayment that was obviously not earned since school was actually in session for 170 days. ALJ also found no justification for invocation of doctrine of estoppel. ALJ affirmed decision on reimbursable costs. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Record Closed: April 28, 1993 Decided: June 10, 1993

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

The petitioner, Somerset Hills School, Inc., appeals from a determination by the respondent Division of Compliance in the State Department of Education that petitioner failed to meet the mandated minimum number of instructional days (180) in the 1987-88 school year. The Division's decision requires petitioner to refund a portion of the tuition that was paid to petitioner by sending districts for that year.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The original determination in this matter was made by the Bureau of Auditing in July 1990. That was affirmed by the Acting Director of the Division of Compliance in the State Department of Education in January 1991. The petitioner, a private school for children with disabilities, filed a verified petition contesting the decision with the Commissioner of Education on March 7, 1991. The respondents filed an answer on April 8, 1991, denying the allegations in the petition and asserting various affirmative defenses. The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 12, 1991, for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held in the OAL on November 14, 1991. The resulting prehearing order defined and limited the issues to be decided, provided for discovery, scheduled the hearing, and regulated other procedural aspects of the matter.

In April 1992, respondents filed a motion relating to discovery. This motion was withdrawn approximately one month later, after the parties resolved the outstanding problems. Following an adjournment of the hearing because of the conflicting commitments of counsel, the hearing was held in the OAL in Newark, New Jersey, on February 17 and 18, 1993. The witnesses who testified at the hearing are listed in the appendix, as are brief descriptions of the documentary exhibits marked in evidence. Posthearing briefs and replies were filed by both parties, and the record closed on April 28, 1993.

ISSUES

The issues were defined in the prehearing order, as follows:

A. 1. Whether petitioner complied with the 180-day school year requirement for purposes of the tuition payment program.

2. Whether petitioner had a right to rely on the State monitoring reports, instructions, and evaluations in the conduct of the school.

B. Whether the Commissioner of Education is seeking to impose a penalty on the petitioner that was not in existence at the time of the alleged violations.

C. Whether it was necessary to have a certified school nurse on the school premises as opposed to a registered nurse.

Issue C, above, was separately resolved by the parties prior to the hearing and was withdrawn as an issue by the petitioner at the beginning of the first day of hearing.

SUMMARY OF THE DISPUTE

The petitioner is a private school for the education and treatment of emotionally disturbed boys, and is approved as a private school for the disabled by the New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Special Education. At the present time, approximately 72 percent of its students are residentially placed on a full-time basis, and 28 percent are day placements. There were no day placements at the school in 1987-88, the school year in question. At that time, all of the students were in residence. The educational fees are paid by various sending school districts, and the Department of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) most often pays the residential component of the costs.

The petitioner school, like other approved private schools for the disabled, must comply with applicable state regulations relating to tuition and other financial procedures. These regulations require a minimum of 180 days of pupil instruction between September 1 and June 30, and for the extended school year program on the days of pupil instruction between July 1 and August 30. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(a)1. The actual allowable cost per pupil and tuition rate charge is based on the 180-day minimum, according to a prescribed formula. A contractual agreement first fixes the tentative tuition rate, based on the school's estimate, which follows the cost for the previous year. Adjustments are made when the actual cost per pupil becomes known. The 180-day minimum is important because the per diem rate per pupil is determined by using that minimum number.

In early 1990, the Bureau of Auditing of the State Department of Education performed in in-depth final audit of the operations of the Somerset Hills School for the 1987-88 school year. A determination was made by the auditors that the school was only in session for 170 instructional days, rather than the 181 days claimed. Charges to the sending districts had been based on the required 180 days, and payments from the districts were received accordingly. When the Bureau of Auditing calculated the cost per pupil based on 170 days, the cost was less, and the school was ordered to refund the difference to the sending districts. The school disagreed, claiming that the school had been in session for at least 180 instructional days; that the 1987-88 school calendar was almost identical to the 1986-87 calendar; and that the 1986-87 calendar had been approved, as having provided at least 180 days, by a State Department of Education mid-year monitoring team.

Among the arguments advanced by the petitioner are the following: That the Commissioner of Education should be estopped from denying compliance for the 1987-88 calendar, a year and a half after the fact, because the school relied on the 1986-87 monitoring result in fixing the 1987-88 calendar and then changed its position in reliance on that approval; that the refund demanded by the respondents constitutes a penalty, which was not provided for in the regulations prior to 1990; and that the respondents attempted to revise the regulations in 1990 to provide for a penalty without complying with the Administrative Procedures Act.

The first and primary question to be answered is whether the school was actually in session, for instructional purposes, for 180 or more days in the 1987-88 school year. If so, then the demand for reimbursement to the sending districts should fail. On the other hand, even if the school was actually in session for instructional purposes for 170 days, as claimed by the respondents, are the respondents entitled to prevail in demanding the refund?

TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

Jerome P. Amedeo, Executive Director of the Somerset Hills School, provided background information about the orientation of the school. He indicated that 70 percent of the emotionally-disturbed boys attending the residential treatment center arrive there from psychiatric hospitals. The others are placed by the courts and by local school districts. The students range in age from seven to fourteen, all of whom were in full-time residence in the 1987-88 school year. Referring to the State Department of Education monitoring system, Mr. Amedeo recalled that a team of monitors visited the school in January 1987 to conduct a review of operations for the 1986-87 school year. The team remained for three days, interviewing staff people, reviewing documentation and student files, manuals, calendars, and other procedures, and checking for compliance with codes and standards. This resulted in a report issued at the end of January 1987, containing detailed findings and some requested changes. See Exhibit P-1.

Mr. Amedeo called particular attention to Section 4.4 of the report, which states that "the School complies with State standards regarding number of days and hours within the day for instruction." Supporting documentation and efforts used by the monitors to reach this conclusion included the school calendar and master schedule, staff interviews, and program observations. The monitoring report indicated compliance with the 180-day minimum requirement for 1986-87.

The school dealt with the changes and corrective actions suggested in the monitoring report promptly, as evidenced by correspondence received by the petitioner after a follow-up monitoring visit in March 1987. The team was pleased with the progress made to correct areas of noncompliance and a conditional approval was removed, permitting the school to accept new students. Mr. Amedeo was advised that a final three-year approval would be granted contingent upon successful completion of a remedial plan. No mention was made of any deficiency in the number of instructional days listed in the school calendar for 1986-87.

Mr. Amedeo then addressed the audit report for the following year, 1987-88. The school calendar for that year is virtually identical to the calendar for the previous year, which had been approved in the January 1987 monitoring report. When the last letter of 1986-87 approval was received in December 1987, Exhibit P-3, the 1987-88 school year was already underway.

The six days that were disapproved in September 1987 were September 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, and 8. The calendar entries for these days included three days of "returning teaching staff" (one of which was listed as an optional day), two days of "teacher orientation and training," and one day of "staff orientation (all staff must attend)." On the next day, Wednesday, September 9, the calendar states "1987-88 academic classes commence at 8:55 a.m."

Also disallowed in the audit report were October 14, 15, and 16, 1987, listed on the calendar as "team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers." Two additional days later in the year, March 30 and 31, 1987, were also listed on the calendar as "team treatment meeting with DYFS caseworkers."

The audit report deducted the above 11 days from the 181 days reported by the school for the year, resulting in 170 allowed instructional days, ten days short of the required 180. Since the tuition collected by the school from sending districts was based on the 180-day minimum, application of the formula used to fix the cost per pupil resulted in a lower actual cost per pupil because of the missing ten days. That means that the sending districts would have overpaid, and a refund is sought by the respondents for the difference.

Recognizing the problem caused by the calendar descriptions that resulted in this discrepancy, Mr. Amedeo first took issue with the auditing finding relating to the "teacher orientation and training" days. He testified that, even though the calendar states that academic classes commence on a later day, only the new teachers are in training. The others, according to Mr. Amedeo, work with the children or give them recreation. He stated that, generally, on such a day there are four hours of classes for the children. A similar explanation was given for the days listed as "team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers." Mr. Amedeo said that teachers not scheduled to meet with the caseworkers also work with children or give them recreation on these days.

One difference noted by Mr. Amedeo relating to these days is that the school encourages the children to go home, if feasible, and approximately one-third of them take advantage of the opportunity. However, since many children remain, they cannot be left to their own devices, and some teachers are obliged to work with them. According to Mr. Amedeo, the same situation occurs during the 30 days of the academic year when the school is technically closed. Some of the children are able to go home, but others cannot and must therefore remain. The same arrangement is often necessary during holiday recesses and on weekends, when museum trips are planned, an activity which the school considers to be part of the educational component.

Mr. Amedeo stated that midway through the 1987-88 year, he felt safe in assuming that the calendar for that year was in good order for 181 instructional days, because in January 1987, the monitoring team posed no objection to the identical calendar for the previous year. He also saw no problem in counting the teacher orientation and team treatment days as regular instructional days because, although 30 percent of the students were not present or required to be present on any one such day, that 30 percent figure does not remain constant, but changes from one day to another.

Jacqueline Meyer, a teacher of the handicapped at the Somerset Hills School, testified that it is common practice for her to teach when the school is not in session, such as on holidays, during vacations, and on other days not listed for instruction in the calendar. She also stated that the educational process is not adversely affected on any of those days, even though 30 percent of the students might not be in attendance. According to Ms. Meyer, a student not present on any such day is caught up afterwards on an individualized basis. As for the recreational activities that sometimes take place on those days, Ms. Meyers stated that some of them have a place in the educational component.

Referring to the ten or eleven days in question, Ms. Meyer testified that except for a few days when she was on her honeymoon, she was present at the school, teaching students in accordance with her lesson plans.

Douglas C. Osborne, a certified public accountant and business manager/comptroller at the Somerset Hills School, previously worked in the State Department of Education, auditing and monitoring private schools for the handicapped. Mr. Osborne testified that Department of Education personnel working at the monitoring level do not have the final word in approving or disapproving a school's operation. He said that final approvals take place later, on a higher level. However, he indicated that because final approvals often arrive well after the fact, the monitoring reports are used by the administration for future planning.

Mr. Osborne called attention to certain notes appended to the manual issued to State Department of Education auditors containing procedures to be used in their audits of schools for students with disabilities. See Exhibit J-4. The notes consist of examples to be followed by the auditors in reviewing financial statements. In June 1990, "Appendix M" was added to these examples. This note illustrates a deduction to be taken in allowable tuition rates when the number of days in session for a ten-month school year program is 179 days of pupil instruction, instead of the required 180 days. The reduction is referred to in the text of this note as a "penalty."

Mr. Osborne stated that since Appendix M was inserted into the manual in June 1990, after the 1987-88 year, that example should not be used in the audit for the 1987-88 year. According to Mr. Osborne, there was no penalty in effect prior to June 1990, and, therefore, the petitioner should not be subject to a reduction even if the number of instructional days was less than the required 180 in 1987-88.

In Mr. Osborne's opinion, the school had a right to rely on approvals given by the State monitors for previous years, when the calendar was fixed for the year in question. He said that since teacher orientation and team treatment days were allowed by the monitors for the 1986-1987 year, it was reasonable for the school to follow the same procedure, in the absence of notice to the contrary.

When asked, on cross-examination, if he thought that the school should receive the same payment from the sending district for 170 instructional days as for 180 days, Mr. Osborne referred to the regulations and the Instructional Manual, which, prior to 1990, contained no indication of a penalty.

Dennis Moyer, an educational program specialist in the Bureau of Policy and Planning of the State Department of Education, monitored the Somerset Hills School in January 1987 for the 1986-87 year. He testified that at the time of the monitoring, there was no reason for him to review the calendar for the following year, 1987-88. He stated that the December 11, 1987 letter of approval sent to the petitioner, Exhibit P-3, referred only to the 1986-87 year, and that the approval only dealt with the school's compliance with the corrective action plan to remedy deficiencies found in January 1987.

Mr. Moyer further testified that someone else on the monitoring team, Ms. Coles, was assigned to review the 1986-87 calendar, to determine if it contained 180 instructional "in session" days. She reported that the calendar did comply with the requirement.

While unable to speak for Ms. Coles about the procedures she used in checking the calendar, Mr. Moyer said that if he were to perform that task and the day was listed for "teacher orientation and training," without more, he would not consider it a student day. The reason for this would be his assumption that students are not involved in teacher orientation and training. A student day, in Mr. Moyer's opinion, is a day in which the children are expected to be in school.

In addition, once he looked further down the calendar and saw a day listed when classes were to commence, he would assume that day to be the first pupil day. Reviewing exhibit P-6, the 1986-87 calendar, he would think that instructional classes were to commence on Monday, September 8, and that earlier teacher orientation and training days would not be pupil instructional days.

Looking again at the calendar for October 1986, he noted that October 7, beginning after 2:45 p.m., is the first day of a long weekend for students. Three days of team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers follow on October 8, 9, and 10. Then, the calendar indicates that resident students return on the evening of Sunday, October 12, and that classes resume on Monday morning, October 13. Mr. Moyer's assumption, based on the above, is that the long weekend days between October 8 and October 13 did not involve instructional days, and he would disqualify the team treatment days for that reason.

However, Mr. Moyer stated that he would ordinarily make further inquiry about the eliminated days if he found that the total for the year was less than 180. He did not know if Ms. Coles did that. However, assuming that Ms. Coles might have asked and been told that instruction was being given on those days, except for the 30 percent of the students encouraged to go home, he would then speak to an administrator and seek further information. Even so, if the administrator gave him the same information, he would still have a difficult time approving these days, because, according to Mr. Moyer, the school cannot unilaterally determine that a child does not have to attend school, and even encourage him to go home on an instructional day. He said that each pupil should be required to have the same number of school days, which number should be at least 180, except for illness, religious holidays, or individually excused absences or where a child study team determines that a particular student does not need 180 days. In support of this opinion, Mr. Moyer recalled the prior testimony by Mr. Amedeo indicating that the school encouraged as many students as possible to go home on the days in question.

Mr. Moyer recognized that the 1987-88 calendar is virtually the same as that for the previous year, and he does not know why or how Ms. Coles accepted the disputed days on the 1986-87 calendar. There had been no change in policy or requirements from one year to the next, although a full audit was not performed for the earlier year, as it was for 1987-88, when the same kind of days that had been accepted by Ms. Coles for the earlier year were disallowed.

Frank Domin, an auditor in the State Department of Education, testified about the procedures involved in a full scope audit of an entire school year, which is a verification of a school's operations for that year. He explained that, unlike the audit, a monitoring is primarily done as a test in order to look for compliance with regulations.

Mr. Domin indicated that the full scope audit for the 1987-88 school year commenced in August 1989. He checked the actual ten-month calendar against the listing on the school calendar, exhibit P-5, and then added up the number of days. The result was 170 days in session, ten days short of the required 180. In addition to the calendar, Mr. Domin also looked at the school registers, which were checked against the calendar. This was also part of an attempt to confirm enrollment. Discrepancies were found, and some registers showed classes on days that did not appear as such on the calendar. In order to solve some of these discrepancies, lesson plans and curriculum guides were needed, but were not available, nor could Mr. Domin obtain teacher schedules.

Mr. Domin stated that the auditors need documentation in order to show school days, but no such documentation was produced. For example, after reviewing every register and the records for each child, the auditors found no markings or attendance records for any students on the first five contested days in September 1987. No students were marked absent, out sick, or late. This indicated that attendance was not taken. Mr. Domin then concluded that the teacher orientation days were just that, not required instructional days.

The auditors performed the same review as above in an attempt to document the five team treatment days in October 1987 and March 1988, with the same result. The registers contained no absences, no tardiness, and no markings of any kind for any of the students. The same conclusion was reached for those days.

After arriving at the above conclusions, Mr. Domin changed the tuition calculation based on 170 days rather than the required 180 days. He explained that the tuition rate determination begins with an allowance based on a projection from prior experience and is then balanced out after the actual data is obtained. In this case, the audited cost to be allowed would become a fraction less than one, because of the shortage of days in session. This resulted in less allowable tuition cost billing than was obtained with the mandated 180 days.

Mr. Domin stated that Appendix M in the auditor's manual did not change anything and did not amend the code. He said that it was put into the manual as a clarification because, previously, no school had failed to be in session for the required 180 days. He further explained that the addition of Appendix M to the auditing manual, an example that was not included in earlier similar notes, did not change anything because the formula in the regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(a)2, has always been relied on as the method for determining the actual cost per pupil. He acknowledged that the word "penalty" was never used before, but that still did not change his opinion about the ongoing nature of the accounting practice.

Mr. Domin repeated that the ten disallowed days were not the same as any of the other days in session, because there were no scheduled classes on record for those days and no physical evidence to show that they were regular school days. The only written references to those days were the calendar entries stating that these were teacher orientation or team treatment days. He acknowledged that the applicable regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(a), does not define the meaning of "actually in session." He also knew of no requirement for lesson plans to be retained, and he confirmed that the audit was begun more than a year after expiration of the 1987-88 school year.

Mr. Domin stated that the shortage, 170 days instead of 180, has resulted in a demand by the respondent for payment back to the sending districts of approximately $124,000.

In order to reinforce his previous testimony, Mr. Domin stated that he allowed Memorial Day, May 30, 1988, as a valid instructional day. He said that even though this was a holiday, the school was able to document the fact that it was in session on that day. On the other hand, the ten days in question could not be supported with any documentation.

Jerome P. Amedeo was recalled to testify as a rebuttal witness for the petitioner. He attempted to provide more definitive information about the monitoring of the 1986-87 year and the same days that had been allowed by Ms. Coles. Mr. Moyer had previously testified that he did not know if Ms. Coles had asked any questions or checked further into the situation. Mr. Amedeo stated that she did confer with him and asked many questions. She also interviewed two or three teachers. However, Mr. Amedeo did not say if Ms. Coles specifically asked questions about the ten days in contention.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The school calendars for 1986-87 and 1987-88 were identical in many respects. Both calendars contained three days in the beginning of September for teacher or staff orientation and training. The 1987-88 calendar also lists three days that are not provided for on the 1986-87 calendar for returning teaching staff.

2. All of the above days in early September precede the calendar entry for the day when classes are to commence.

3. The two calendars also provide for three days in October and two days in March or April designated as team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers.

4. Eleven days listed on the 1987-88 school calendar carry such descriptions or designations: teacher orientation and training, returning teaching staff, staff orientation, and team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers.

5. The three team treatment meeting days in October 1987 follow immediately after an entry on the calendar indicating a long weekend for students, and the two team treatment meeting days in March 1988 are listed on the calendar for days immediately following the day on which spring recess begins.

6. A State monitoring team visited the school in January 1987, midway through the 1986-87 school year, and checked for compliance with applicable codes and standards. Certain areas of noncompliance were found, and a remedial or corrective action plan was put into effect. The school successfully remediated the deficiencies that were found. No deficiencies were found in the school calendar, and the resulting approval by the monitors did not deal with that subject. Such monitoring is not done for every plan. Exhibit P-3, the letter to the school from the Manager of the Bureau of Programs and Services, stated that the 1986-87 monitoring was completed and that programmatic approval to operate was granted. The letter stated that the next monitoring was scheduled for 1989-90. This indicates that monitoring is only scheduled for one year out of three.

7. No evidence was adduced to indicate that a full scope audit for the 1986-87 school year was conducted.

8. No evidence was adduced to indicate that a mid-year monitoring was done for or during the 1987-88 school year. However, a full scope audit for 1987-88 did take place in August 1989. The eleven calendar days that are the subject of this dispute were disallowed as a result of the audit.

9. The respondent was unable to produce any documentation to show that the eleven days in question were regular instructional days or days that school was in session. No lesson plans, curriculum guides, or attendance records were produced for those days. The only record relating to the eleven days are the calendar entries.

10. Those students who were able to do so were encouraged to leave the school and go home during the eleven days in question. Thirty percent of the students did go home.

11. Since all the students resided at the school, those who remained on those days were occupied by some of the staff, who offered recreational activities and/or instruction. This was attended to by those staff members who were not involved in teacher orientation and training or team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers.

12. Although eleven days in the 1987-88 calendar were disallowed, only ten days are in contention, because the calendar provided for 181 days.

LEGAL DISCUSSIONS AND CONCLUSIONS

The basic procedures for determining tuition rates to be paid to approved private schools for individuals with disabilities are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1. It is obvious that actual allowable costs for the ten-month school year program are based on a minimum of 180 days of pupil instruction. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(a)1.

This regulation further provides that

> "Average daily enrollment" for the purpose of determining the actual cost per pupil shall be the sum of the days present and absent of all school pupils enrolled in the register(s) of the school divided by the number of days the approved private school for the handicapped was actually in session rounded to the nearest four decimal places, except in no event shall the divisor be less than 180 days.
> [N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(a)2.]

The regulation does not specify the procedure to be used when the number of days that a school is actually in session is less than 180. This is the required minimum, even though the divisor should be no less than 180 days, as set forth in the regulation. The average daily enrollment is represented by the dividend (numerator). If the dividend is less than 180, the tuition rate would necessarily fluctuate downward, because the fraction is less than one.

The key inquiry, however, is whether the petitioner complied with the 180-day school year requirement. Stated another way, was the school actually in session, for instructional days, for 180 or more days during the ten-month 1987-88 year?

Again, the regulations provide no definitive standard to assist in a determination whether a given day should be counted as a day in session.

After reviewing all the evidence, it is CONCLUDED that the school was actually in session, for instructional days, for 170 days, not 180 or 181 days. This conclusion is based on the following factors:

Six of the days in question occurred before Wednesday, September 9, 1987, the day on which, according to the calendar, academic classes were to commence. Those earlier days are listed as days on which teaching staff was returning and teacher orientation training was held.

Five of the days in question are reserved on the calendar for team treatment meetings with DYFS caseworkers. These days immediately follow the beginning of a long weekend and the spring recess.

The testimony clearly indicates that students were encouraged, wherever possible, to absent themselves from school and return home on all of these days. The fact that only 30 percent of them were able to do so on any such day does not change the situation. How can school actually be in session when the students need not be there and they are encouraged to go home instead? Obviously, since all of the students resided at the school, those who remained and did not go home on the days in question could not be left totally to their own devices. However, the fact that some of the teachers worked with these students or supervised recreational activities does not convert the day into one where the school was actually in session.

A good deal of petitioner's argument revolves around the fact that many similar days provided for in the previous year's calendar, 1986-87, were not challenged, and, in fact, were seemingly allowed by the monitoring team. The 1986-87 monitoring team did not disapprove of calendar days identical to those in contention here. The reasons for the acceptance of these days by the monitoring team are unexplained, and it is fruitless to speculate about the actions of that team. However, the 1986-87 year was not subjected to an in-depth full-scale audit, which might have produced a more particularized result for the teacher orientation and team treatment days. It is noted that Mr. Osborne testified that a monitoring does not produce a final approval. Unfortunately, without knowing that these days were subject to being questioned, the school modeled its 1987-88 calendar on the calendar for the previous year. The school year in question was then completed, long before petitioner knew of the problem. That situation has led the petitioner to argue that the respondent should be equitably estopped from disallowing the days in question.

The legal authorities cited by the petitioner relating to the doctrine of estoppel are clearly recognized. However, this matter involves a further element, the application of estoppel against a governmental agency.

> The doctrine of estoppel is not applied to a governmental agency performing a governmental function to the same extent as it is against individuals and private corporations. 1 A.L.R. 2*d* 349; 19 Am. Jur., sec. 168, p. 820; Bayonne v. Murphy & Perrett Co., 7 N.J. 298, 311 (1951). It has been invoked by our courts in order to prevent manifest wrong and injustice. However, it is clear that to invoke the doctrine against a municipality, the circumstances would have to be extreme. See Vogt v. Belmar, 14 N.J. 195 (1954); Springfield Tp. v. Beasley, 19 N.J. Super. 147 (Ch. Div. 1952), and Johnson v. Hospital Service Plan of N.J., 25 N.J. 134 (1957).
> [Feldman v. Urban Commercial, Inc., 70 N.J. Super. 463, 477-78 (Ch. Div. 1961); emphasis in original.]

The considerations governing whether a particular case and the equities there presented warrant application of an estoppel should be assessed according to the criteria mentioned in Tubridy v. Consolidated, etc., Pension Com., 84 N.J. Super. 257 (App. Div. 1964). This case addressed the granting of the retirement pension by the Consolidated Police & Firemen's Pension Fund Commission.

> The applicability of the doctrine of estoppel against public agencies and officials is quite limited, to guard against use thereof to injure the public interest. Although there is growing liberality in entertaining the rule in certain areas, see Gruber v. Mayor and Tp. Com. of Raritan Tp., 39 N.J. 1, 18 (1962), each case stands on its own facts. "The precise nature and extent" of the plaintiff's "good faith reliance" on the official action or inaction relied on must be weighed against the public interests involved. Id., at p. 19. So judged here, the plaintiff's asserted equities lack such weight as to justify what we find to be a plain violation of a statute designed to protect the interests of all pensioners within its purview, present and prospective.

Although it is most often held that estoppel will not be used to bar governmental action, there have been a few instances where estoppel has been permitted to prevent such action. Anske v. Borough of Palisades Park, 139 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1976) effectively addressed the policy concerns in applying the estoppel doctrine when it stated, "[e]quitable principles of estoppel will be applied against public bodies where interests of justice, morality and common fairness dictate that course." Id. at 348. See also Dambro v. Union County Park Commission, 130 N.J. Super. 450, 454 (Law Div. 1974).

The petitioner's claim can satisfy several of the criteria needed in order to apply an estoppel. The school did take a position (promulgation of the calendar) in reliance on the respondents' allowance of a similar prior calendar, and the petitioner presumably did so in good faith. In addition, the tuition charged to the sending districts was based on the school's assumption that at least 180 instructional days had been provided for.

However, the demand for an estoppel falls short in one important area. As concluded above, the days in question were not and should not have been considered to be days in which the school was in session. This was true for 1986-87, as well as 1987-88, and the fact that the monitoring team erred or overlooked the problem does not convert the improperly credited days into bona fide instructional days.

In this respect, the equities do not favor the petitioner, because it might be said that the school was unjustly enriched in both school years due to billing and payment received for days that should not have been included in the required number of days in session. It is true that the petitioner changed its position in reliance on the 1986-87 monitoring period; however, the change in position enabled it to receive monies to which it was not entitled in the first place.

Therefore, no manifest wrong and injustice has been committed against the petitioner that would justify the invocation of an estoppel. There are no interests of justice, morality, and common fairness that dictate the need for an estoppel. As for the public interest, payment to the petitioner by the sending districts of tuition costs for days when the school was not actually in session represent the expenditure of public funds that should not have been so disbursed.

It is therefore CONCLUDED that an estoppel should not be applied to prevent the action sought to be taken by the respondents.

Another argument advanced by the petitioner is that the demand by the respondents for reimbursement constitutes the imposition of a penalty that was not provided for in the regulations in the 1987-88 school year. This argument primarily relies on the addition of Appendix M to the procedural manual in 1990. See Exhibit J-4. Like the other notes in this exhibit, Appendix M does not change the regulatory scheme, nor does it promulgate a new regulation. The respondents are correct in asserting that Appendix M is merely an additional illustration of the kinds of situations that can arise under the regulation, and the method of calculation is set forth as an example.

The use of the word "penalty" in Appendix M is unfortunate. "A penalty is a sum of money of which the law exacts payment by way of punishment for doing some act that is prohibited or omitting to do some act that is required to be done." 70 C.J.S. Penalties § 2 (1987).

The respondents are not exacting a penalty against petitioner for having included ten extra days in the calendar. Instead, the tuition rate formula has been recalculated in accordance with the lesser number of actual days in session, and the school is being asked to refund the overpayments to the sending districts.

Admittedly, the sudden and unexpected request for a substantial amount of money in reimbursement creates an obvious difficulty for the petitioner, but the money was an overpayment that was obviously not earned when it was received. Again, the equities favor those who expended funds that should not have been charged them in the first place, and the petitioner will have to deal with the economic pressure as best it can.

Based upon the above, it is further CONCLUDED that the petitioner's arguments relating to the imposition of a penalty cannot be sustained. Despite the language used in Appendix M, the respondents are not seeking to punish the petitioner and are not imposing a penalty against it. The demand for a refund is based instead on the application of accounting principles following an audit that has disclosed the more accurate status of the 1987-88 cost per pupil.

It is therefore ultimately CONCLUDED that the petitioner did not comply with the 180-day school year requirement for purposes of the tuition payment program, and the petitioner has not shown good cause to set aside or reverse the decision of the Division of Compliance, which affirmed the decision of the Bureau of Auditing on reimbursable costs.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. It is noted that exceptions were filed by Jerome Amedeo, Executive Director of petitioner, rather than by petitioner's attorney of record as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.1. SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF OLD BRIDGE, : DECISION
MIDDLESEX COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, defeated candidate in Board of Education election, requested inquiry into qualifications of Intervenor Marinaccio who was elected to Board. Petitioner contended intervenor was not a registered voter in district at time of submission of her petition and at time of her election, thus violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.

ALJ found intervenor was not a lawfully registered voter at time she filed her petition for candidacy and she was not a registered voter at time of her election to Board since she failed to vote in general elections for four consecutive years resulting in her name being removed from active rolls. Intervenor was ordered removed from Board and her replacement was to be appointed by County Superintendent of Schools as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15(a).

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision. Commissioner directed intervenor's removal from position and her replacement for reasons expressed by ALJ.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4003-93S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 99-4/93

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY

Elias L. Schneider, Esq., for petitioner Mitch Geier (Brigiani, Gelzer, Cohen & Schneider, attorneys)
William T. Yadlon, Esq., for intervenor Georgette A. Marinaccio
Harold G. Smith, Esq., for the Board of Education of the School District of Old Bridge (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 16, 1993 Decided: June 30, 1993

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Petitioner Mitch Geier seeks an order removing Intervenor Georgette Marinaccio from her position as an elected member of the Board of Education of the Old Bridge School District. She was elected to a seat on the Board by the voters of the District on April 20, 1993. By letter dated April 26, 1993, Mr. Geier requested that the Commissioner of the State Department of Education conduct an inquiry into the election, specifically in regard to his complaint that Ms. Marinaccio was not a registered voter in the District at the time of the submission of her petition and at the time of her election and therefore, not eligible for election. The Commissioner transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1-21 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1-13.

After the case was transferred to the OAL, Ms. Marinaccio sought to intervene and an order allowing intervention was issued by this judge on May 24, 1993. Thereafter, the parties agreed to a Stipulation of Facts and agreed that the case could be decided based upon that stipulation without the necessity of a hearing. The Stipulation was received on June 16, 1993.

THE STIPULATED FACTS

The parties have stipulated the following facts, paraphrased from the Stipulation:

1. Ms. Marinaccio was elected to the Board on April 20, 1993, with the highest vote total of the three successful candidates.

2. She last voted in a general election on November 8, 1988.

3. After November 8, 1988, Ms. Marinaccio only voted in school board elections.

4. She voted in annual school board elections on April 5, 1988, in April 1991, and in April 1992.

5. On April 29, 1993, Ms. Marinaccio was advised by the Board of Elections that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:31-5 she was being removed from the active to the inactive voter list and thus she was no longer a "registered voter," this due to her failure to vote in a general election in the past four consecutive years.

6. Ms. Marinaccio's first notification of the Board of Elections attempt to remove her registration form from the active to the inactive registered voter's list was on April 20, 1993 when she attempted to vote in the Board of Education election.

7. She re-registered to vote on April 21, 1993 at the County Board of Elections.

8. The Middlesex County Board of Elections began pulling the voting sheet for four year nonvoters from the election books in February and March, 1993.

9. The clerical staff of the Board of Elections proceeded to remove the names of the four year nonvoters from the active voter list on the computer. The names being purged from the computer of Old Bridge voters was not completed until April 1, 1993.

10. Ms. Marinaccio's name was still on the computer list on March 17, 1993 and her name was not physically purged from the list until March 30, 1993.

All of the above stipulations are incorporated in this initial decision as FINDINGS OF FACT.

APPLICABLE STATUTES

N.J.S.A. 19:31-5 provides that if a registered voter > does not vote at any general election during 4 consecutive years his original and duplicate permanent registration and record of voting forms shall be removed to the inactive file and he shall be required to register before being allowed to vote at any subsequent election.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-10 requires that a nominating petition for a candidate for election to a school board > shall be addressed to the secretary of the board of education of the district and therein shall be set forth:

>
> . . .
>
> d. That the person so endorsed is legally qualified to be elected to the office.
>
> Accompanying the nominating petition and to be filed therewith, there shall be a certificate signed by the person endorsed in the petition, stating that:
>
> a. He is qualified to be elected to the office for which he is nominated . . . .

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 sets forth qualifications for board members.

> Each member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district, or of such constituent district of a consolidated or regional district as may be required by law, and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election, he shall be able to read and write, shall be registered to vote in the district, ...

DISCUSSION

The inquiry as to the eligibility of Ms. Marinaccio to be a member of the school board arises from the admitted fact that she did not vote in a general election after November 8, 1988 up to the time of the April 20, 1993 school board election, a period exceeding four years. The stipulated facts and the representations in Ms. Marinaccio's affidavit indicate that the process of removing the "original and duplicate permanent registration and record of voting forms" from the active to the inactive file had not been completed as of the date upon which Ms. Marinaccio filed her nominating petition. The issues at the heart of the matter appear to be whether her failure to vote in the general elections did in fact serve to change her status as an active voter, whether her having voted in intervening school board elections preserved her status as an active registrant, whether the fact that she was not notified of the intention of the Board of Elections to remove her name from the active list until after the date of the election is of any significance in regard to her status at the time of the election, and whether the fact that she re-registered on April 21 and was thus properly registered at the time of her taking office is of any significance.

The plain wording of the statute, N.J.S.A. 19:31-5, requires that action be taken to remove the voter's forms from the active rolls where the voter has failed to vote in general elections for a period of four consecutive years. The term "election" as used in this legislation has been interpreted by the Attorney General in Formal Opinion 1965-No. 3, issued October 8, 1965, where the Attorney General concluded that the term did not include school board elections, which were determined not to be "general elections," "primary elections," "municipal elections," or "special elections," the four categories of "elections" included in the definition of the term "election" contained at N.J.S.A. 19:1-1. The Attorney General's Opinion is entitled to considerable weight and is generally viewed by the courts as "strongly persuasive." Clark v. Degnan, 163 N.J.Super. 344 (Law Div. 1978), modified on other grounds and affirmed, 83 N.J. 393 (1980). A review of the analysis contained in that opinion supports reliance thereon. Thus, the fact that Ms. Marinaccio has voted in school board elections during the four consecutive years during which she did not vote does not affect the application of N.J.S.A. 19:31-5.

The statutory requirement for the removal of the registration forms from the active to the inactive file is triggered by the fact of a lack of voter participation in the voting process in "elections" during a period of four consecutive years. The fact that the ministerial task of actually transferring files and forms and changing computerized records has not been accomplished by any given date after the voter has not voted for the four consecutive year period does not affect the fact that the voter's lack of activity has run afoul of the "evil" that the legislation was aimed at. In other words, where a voter fails to vote for four consecutive years, the Legislature has seen fit that his or her status as an active registrant end, subject to reinstatement arising by the action of the voter to renew his or her active status by the act of re-registration. The trigger for inactive status is the four years of inactivity, not the ministerial work needed to effectuate the change in the records. Thus, the fact that all of the required changes had not occurred as of the date of the filing of the petition is irrelevant to the question of Ms. Marinaccio's eligibility to stand for election. Her four years of consecutive non-voting was completed in November 1992, not first at some point in 1993. Thus, Ms. Marinaccio was ineligible at the time that she filed for candidacy, as well as on the date of the election.

The ineligibility which affects a voter failing to exercise the franchise during a four year consecutive period is not dependent upon the giving of any form of notice to the voter. N.J.S.A. 19:31-15 specifically eschews the need for notice

> In all counties when the transfer of any person's permanent registration form is to be made to the death file or is to be made to the inactive file because such person did not vote at any election during four consecutive years, . . . , no notice of such proposed action need be given to such registered person and such person's name and registry address need not be published as required in this section.

Any notice provided to the ineligible voter by the Board of Elections is only a discretionary courtesy. Presumably, at the time that the actual removal of the forms occurs, the Board advises the voter and this does allow the voter to act so as to reactivate his or her status. However, this is not a statutory obligation. Thus, the lack of any notice to Ms. Marinaccio prior to the election on April 20 does not serve to prevent the determination that she was not an eligible voter at the time of the election, or even before, at the time of the filing of the nominating petition, which is the crucial date for eligibility, DeLay, Sr. v. Bd. of Ed. of Township of New Hanover, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5284-90, (Final Decision, February 22, 1991).

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based upon the stipulated facts and the legal analysis stated above, I FIND that Georgette A. Marinaccio was not a lawfully registered voter at the time that she filed her petition for candidacy for the Old Bridge Board of Education and I also FIND that she was not a registered voter at the time of her election to the Board on April 20, 1993. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that she was not lawfully elected to serve on the Board. Her removal from the Board is therefore required. Her replacement is to be appointed by the County Superintendent of Schools, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15(a).

It is HEREBY ORDERED that Georgette A. Marinaccio be removed from the Old Bridge Board of Education and that the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools appoint a replacement to fill the vacancy.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF OLD BRIDGE,	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered in this matter have been reviewed. Intervenor filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Intervenor raises anew those arguments posed at the hearing below. More specifically, she would have the Commissioner find first, that she was duly registered to vote on the crucial date for election, that is, the date on which she filed her petition, as evidenced by the fact that her name at that point had not been removed as a non-voter by the officials of the Middlesex County Board of Elections. She also argues that equity requires a finding that she was properly registered as a voter on March 17, 1993 and was qualified, therefore, to run for a school board seat. To decide otherwise, she contends, would demean the school board election as a second-class election and, further, would suggest that the County Board of Elections' records are not to be relied upon. Finally, intervenor avers that the ALJ failed to address the equities of intervenor's momentary lapse of registration as distinguished from the DeLay, supra, matter. She claims the lapse in registration was in part caused by the failure of the County Board of Elections to remove permanent registrations before the filing of petitions for the school election. She observes that the momentary lapse in registration was cured immediately as compared to the four-year lapse as was the case in DeLay.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and determination of the ALJ that Georgette A. Marinaccio was not a lawfully registered voter at the time she filed her petition for candidacy for the Board of Education in Old Bridge for the reasons expressed in the initial decision. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that, based upon the strict reading of the statutes in question in concert with Attorney General Opinion 1965-No.3, issued October 8, 1965, she was not eligible to be seated as a school board member, as a result of her not having been a registered voter. The Commissioner's review of the exceptions convinces her that the ALJ fully and fairly disposed of the concerns raised in said submission and, therefore, they are dismissed as being without merit.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Georgette A. Marinaccio be removed from the Board of Education of Old Bridge and that the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools appoint a replacement to fill the vacancy on the Board of Education of the School District of Old Bridge.

SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

For Petitioner-Respondent, Elias L. Schneider, Esq.
(Brigani, Cohen & Schneider, P.A.)

For Board, Warren Wilentz, Esq.

For Intervenors, Anat Gorden, Esq.
(Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer)

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education on September 2, 1993 by way of Application for Emergent Relief and Order (motion for stay of the Commissioner's decision dated July 27, 1993 with request for reopening and reconsideration) sought by Intervenor Georgette A. Marinaccio, who was removed as a member of respondent Board of Education based on a stipulation of facts by direction of the Commissioner of Education decision dated July 27, 1993.

By letter dated September 2, 1993, the Board and Petitioner-respondent Mitch Geier (Geier) were directed to submit a response to intervenor's submissions. Geier's attorney submitted a response on September 9, 1993. The Board filed no response. On Monday, September 13, 1993, intervenor submitted a reply to Geier's reply brief. Such submission is not provided for in regulation and, thus, is not considered in the disposition of this matter.

Intervenor presents two arguments in seeking a stay and reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision. The first contention claims that under case law, election laws do not confirm the right of qualified persons to become candidates, but rather, only establish the parameters governing the orderly conduct of primary elections. She alleges, as she did during the hearing, that she was removed from the Board due to a technical flaw in her registration, but adds now that a reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 and N.J.S.A. 19:4-1 taken "as a whole in the context of Title 18A, requires the qualification that a board member be a 'qualified' registered voter, rather than a 'technically' registered voter." (Intervenor's Brief, at p. 8, relying on N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1) Intervenor avers that the legislative history of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 compels a finding that her having failed to vote in the past four years in a general or primary election does not render her an unqualified candidate, but instead, merely an unregistered one. She cites, among other cases, Alston v. Mays, 152 N.J. Super. 509, 517 (Law Div. 1977) in support of this proposition.

She contends further that the 1965 Attorney General's Opinion, relied on by both the ALJ and Commissioner in directing her removal is inapposite to this case in that it has nothing to do with qualification for public office, but rather, establishes the parameters governing the orderly conduct of election under N.J.S.A 19:31-5. She submits that because election laws are to be construed liberally so as to effectuate their intent to provide a broad right of franchise to the voters, she should prevail on the merits of her claim, pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Intervenor's second argument alleges she will meet the Crowe, supra, standards because there exists ambiguity as to whether she was technically a registered voter on the date of the school Board election that would thereby qualify her as a Board member. In support of this contention, she claims now, contrary to the stipulation of facts submitted in the hearing below, that she voted during the governor's election on November 4, 1989 and at a general election on November 8, 1988. She buttresses this claim by stating that while the "blue sheet" (Intervenor's Brief, at p. 1) record from the Board of Elections did not reveal proof of this voting because she filed a change of address form exactly thirty (30) days before the governor's election, "[s]he has been told that a subpoena of the Board of Elections record could prove that she voted at this 'general' election based on the 'blue sheets' as well as the 'white sheets' saved during an election." (Intervenor's Brief, at pp. 1-2) In support of this claim, she submits her own certification. She also submits a certification from Dr. Quirk, Old Bridge Board Secretary and election official, suggesting that she was a registered voter based on his verification with the Board of Elections via a memorandum he developed to the Board dated March 19, 1993. Intervenor alleges that she has been told that an affidavit was filed when Dr. Quirk originally verified the registration status of all Board candidates in the memo of March 1993, but intervenor submits she has been unable to locate this affidavit.

Intervenor claims there will be irreparable harm to her and her constituents were she to be removed from the Board insofar as she is involved in a committee to interview negotiators for the Board negotiation team regarding the teachers' contract. Thus, she claims the status quo must be maintained during her appeal of the Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education. She contends also that maintaining the status quo will not inconvenience Geier or the Board, thus submitting that the balance of equities tips heavily in her favor.

Geier's reply claims intervenor has failed to show any new evidence, insofar as intervenor is on record as having known or suspected that she voted in the 1989 gubernatorial election. Instead, Geier argues that intervenor has failed to bring forward any proof that she so voted. Geier further contends that intervenor has failed to show due diligence in bringing forth proof that she did participate in the November 1989 general election, and that the information in the affidavit she now brings before the Commissioner is nothing more than hearsay. Geier claims, in contrast, that intervenor's statement that she voted in the 1989 Gubernatorial election is contradicted in the record of the hearing conducted by the Office of Administrative Law by Exhibit B, the certification of Victoria Ricci of the Board of Election, originally filed with Geier's Petition of Appeal and also attached to response to the motion for stay and reconsideration and reopening. Said certification states that the Board of Elections determined that intervenor was a four-year non-voter. He also attaches Exhibit C a letter dated September 7, 1993, again from Mrs. Ricci, restating her position that intervenor last voted in the 1988 November general election.

Geier bolsters his contention by observing that intervenor stipulated to the ALJ at the hearing before the Office of Administrative Law that she had not voted in any school board elections after November 8, 1988. In support of this contention, Geier affixes Exhibits J and L, the stipulations submitted to the ALJ at the hearing below.

Geier further claims intervenor has failed to demonstrate the standards for the withdrawal of a stipulation of fact under Cartwright v. Atlas Chemical Industries, Inc., 593 P. 2d 104, 18 A.L.R. 4th 180 (Okla. Ct. App. 1978), first because it is unclear as to whether the fact stipulated to is untrue, insofar as she has still produced no evidence of her voting in the 1989 election. Second, Geier argues intervenor's argument fails the Cartwright standards because the application to stay the Commissioner's decision due to the alleged faulty stipulation is untimely and, third, because it is unclear if good cause has been show as to why this alleged fact has not been substantiated previously to contradict a stipulation made three months earlier.

In response to intervenor's claim of constitutional right to be a candidate for board election as a result of her being qualified to vote, albeit unregistered, Geier claims there are no constitutional rights which are invoked in regard to school board elections, especially the right to vote. Further, Geier claims the factual issue as to whether intervenor was on the computer rolls of the Board of Elections is also irrelevant in determining the qualifications to vote in school board elections, for the same reasons given for why the constitutional right to vote is inapplicable to intervenor's position.

Finally, Geier claims that intervenor's arguments are either factually oriented, that is, whether she voted in the 1989 Gubernatorial election, or are misapplications of constitutional law to a political subdivision or creation of the Legislature. Geier claims that the Commissioner does not act as a new factfinder. He claims that intervenor had a fair trial and, thus, her claims are not properly before the Commissioner now.

Because of intervenor's request to bring new facts to the record in seeking a stay, the Commissioner has determined to reopen and reconsider her decision of July 27, 1993. Upon careful review of such Request for Stay and for Reconsideration and Reopening, the Commissioner determines that no basis exists for alteration of her earlier findings and conclusions and, thus, that the stay should be denied.

Intervenor's claim that her constitutional right to be a candidate for a seat on the Board has been abridged because she was a qualified, albeit an unregistered, voter on the date of the school election in question, can be disposed of by the recent New Jersey Supreme Court decision in Raymond Lesniak v. John Budzash, 133 N.J. 1, 12 (1993). Therein, the Court held that voters must be registered in order to be considered "qualified" to sign a party nomination petition under the terms of N.J.S.A. 19:23-7. Although intervenor's argument revolves around her qualification to be a candidate herself, Lesniak stands for the proposition that one cannot be qualified to vote unless he is registered to vote. Hence, intervenor's argument that she was inappropriately removed from office because she remained qualified to vote, even though she was not registered to do so, must fail.

Similarly fallacious is intervenor's contention that statutes governing orderly conduct of an election cannot be read in concert with other applicable law to establish qualifications for public office. The Attorney General, in a 1980 Formal Opinion, effectively refuted this contention in his treatment of a similar question regarding the qualification of candidates for the State Legislature:

> Although the Constitution provides no definitive guide as to the time when this constitutional requirement must be satisfied, the procedural provisions of the election laws do impose certain requirements. In this regard, a candidate for the Legislature is obliged to file a petition with the Secretary of State to appear either on the primary election ballot or directly on the general election ballot. N.J.S.A. 19:13-3, 19:13-9, 19:13-6, 19:23-24. A candidate nominated for office in a petition must annex to such petition a certificate indicating, among other things, that "the candidate is a resident of and a legal voter in the jurisdiction of the office for which the nomination is made." N.J.S.A. 19:13-8, 19:23-15. Likewise, an individual nominated by write-in votes must thereafter file a similar certificate of acceptance. N.J.S.A. 19:23-16. In view of these statutory requirements, a candidate for the Legislature must be entitled to the right of suffrage at the time of filing a petition or, alternatively, at the time of filing a certificate accepting a write-in nomination.
> (Formal Opinion No. 5 - 1980)

In applying this opinion to candidates for Board membership, the Commissioner has specifically found that such candidates must meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, excepting as to length of residency, which is calculated by the express terms of the statute from the date of appointment or election, on the date they file their nominating petitions pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-10. This statute requires, analogous to those cited in the Attorney General Opinion above, a certification from the candidate that he is "qualified to be elected to the office for which he is nominated" and

> In the Commissioner's estimation, "qualified to be elected to said office" can mean nothing other than meeting the qualifications for board > membership plainly set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, among which is registration to vote in the district. Christopher De Lay, Sr. v. Board of Education of the Township of New Hanover, Burlington County, and Thomas S. King Jr., 1991 S.L.D. 298, 301

Thus, at the time of filing her nominating petition, intervenor in this matter was required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-10a to certify that she was then qualified to be elected to the office for which she was nominated. Because she was, based on the only acceptable information now available, not registered to vote at the time of her filing a nominating petition, she was not qualified to assume a seat on the district's Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Lesniak, supra

As to intervenor's claim of new facts, the information tendered in intervenor's submission brings no new facts to light, but merely offers speculation as to documents that might exist regarding her voting history. Therefore, no basis exists for upsetting the Commissioner's findings and conclusions of her July 27, 1993 decision which were predicated upon a stipulation of facts submitted by the parties on Motion for Summary Decision. The only evidence that could serve to alter the Commissioner's ruling of July 27, 1993 would be a certification from the Board of Elections, or an order from a court of appropriate jurisdiction, attesting to the fact that the County Board of Elections erred in removing intervenor from the ranks of registered voters pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:31-5. If intervenor believes that the determination made by the County Board of Elections was in error, she must appeal through the proper authority above such body inasmuch as the Commissioner of Education has no authority to overrule a determination of a County Board of Elections. Should intervenor secure such a correction, the Commissioner of Education will, upon invervenor's request, reopen the matter for further consideration.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, for failure to meet the criteria for the grant of pendente lite restraints as articulated in Crowe v. De Gioia, supra, and for failure to bring to the record facts which would alter the Commisioner's decision of July 27, 1993, the Motion for Stay is denied and the Commissioner's prior decision reaffirmed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION SCHOOL DISTRICT OF OLD BRIDGE, : DECISION ON MOTION
MIDDLESEX COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, July 27, 1993

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, September 21, 1993

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Brigiani, Gelzer, Cohen & Schneider (Elias L. Schneider, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent, Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer (Harold G. Smith, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Intervenor-Appellant, Anat Gordon, Esq.

Petitioner in this matter was an unsuccessful candidate for a position on the Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge in the annual school election held on April 20, 1993. He alleged that the successful candidate had not been a registered voter either when she filed her petition or at the time of the election and, therefore, had not been eligible for election to the Board.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where the successful candidate was granted the status of intervenor, and it was agreed by the parties that the merits of this case would be decided on the basis of a stipulation of facts. That stipulation established that Intervenor had not voted in a general election in the past four consecutive years and that, for this reason, on March 30, 1993 her name had been physically removed from the active voter list.

By Initial Decision issued on July 7, 1993, and on the basis of the stipulation between the parties, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that the Intervenor had not been a registered voter at the time of her election and, so, was not qualified for membership on the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Stressing that N.J.S.A. 19:31-15 specifically provides that notice need not be given before transferring a person's registration to the inactive file for failure to vote in any general election during the previous four years, the ALJ concluded that the Intervenor had not been lawfully elected to serve on the Board. The ALJ therefore recommended her removal.

By decision of July 27, the Commissioner adopted that ALJ's recommendation. He directed that Intervenor be removed from the Board and that the County Superintendent of Schools appoint a replacement to fill the vacancy.

On August 5, 1993, Intervenor appealed the Commissioner's decision to the State Board of Education. Additionally, by application filed on September 2, 1993, Intervenor sought emergent relief from the Commissioner in the form of a stay of the decision of July 27.

On September 21, the Commissioner denied Intervenor's motion for stay. Intervenor now seeks that relief from the State Board.

With the agreement of the parties, we have expedited consideration of Intervenor's application for emergent relief. However, after reviewing the arguments of counsel, we find that a stay of the Commissioner's decision is not warranted in this case. Intervenor has not demonstrated that she is likely to succeed on the merits of her underlying appeal. Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 226 (1982). Nor has she shown that compliance with that decision will cause her any irreparable harm or that the public interest calls for granting a stay in this instance. Id.; Yakus v. U.S., 321 U.S. 414 (1977).

In denying Intervenor's application, we also reject her request to supplement the record. The facts with which she seeks to supplement the record on appeal were not unadduced when the parties arrived at their stipulation of fact before the Administrative Law Judge. Nor are they material to the legal issues to be decided when we resolve the merits of her appeal.

We also find that oral argument is not necessary in order to make a fair determination with respect to Intervenor's application for emergent relief, and we therefore deny her request for oral argument. Finally, in the absence of authority to grant fees, we deny her request for counsel fees.

For the Respondent, Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer (Harold G. Smith, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Intervenor-Appellant, Anat Gordon, Esq.

Mitch Geier (hereinafter "petitioner"), an unsuccessful candidate for election to the Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge (hereinafter "Board") in the annual school election held on April 20, 1993, challenged the election of Georgette Marinaccio (hereinafter "intervenor") to the Board. Petitioner argued that intervenor was not a registered voter in the district at the time she submitted her nominating petition or at the time of her election and, therefore, was not qualified for election to the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.[1]

The record indicates that intervenor's name had been removed from the active voter list pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:31-5 as a result of her failure to vote in a general election for the preceding four years. Intervenor's name was physically removed from the registration list on March 30, 1993 and she became aware of such removal on April 20 when she attempted to vote in the school election. She thereafter reregistered to vote on April 21. Her term of office on the Board commenced on April 27.

On June 30, 1993, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"), finding that intervenor was not a lawfully registered voter at the time she filed her petition for candidacy or at the time of her election, concluded that she had not been qualified for election to the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.

On July 27, 1993, the Acting Commissioner of Education adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. She directed that intervenor be removed from the Board and that the County Superintendent appoint a replacement to fill the vacancy.

Intervenor filed the instant appeal to the State Board and also sought emergent relief from the Commissioner in the form of a stay of the decision of July 27. On September 21, the Commissioner denied intervenor's motion for a stay. Intervenor then sought such relief from the State Board. On October 6, we denied her application, finding that a stay was not warranted.

1 N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, "Qualifications of board members," provides:

> Each member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district, or of such constituent district of a consolidated or regional district as may be required by law, and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election, he shall be able to read and write, shall be registered to vote in the district, and, notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S. 2C:51-1 or any other law to the contrary, he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the decision of the Acting Commissioner to remove intervenor from her seat on the Board.

We reject intervenor's contention that she was a registered voter for purposes of satisfying the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 despite her removal from the county's voter registration rolls by operation of N.J.S.A. 19:31-5 for failure to vote in a general election for four years. The language of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 is clear and unambiguous that intervenor was required to be "registered to vote in the district, and...not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1."[2] (Emphasis added.) While there is no dispute that intervenor was not "disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1," it is also clear that she was not "registered to vote in the district" by operation of N.J.S.A. 19:31-5, which requires that any individual who does not vote in any election under that Title for four consecutive years "shall be required to reregister before being allowed to vote at any subsequent election."[3] (Emphasis added.) The record indicates that intervenor did not reregister until after the election. We therefore concur with the Acting Commissioner that intervenor was not "registered to vote in the district" within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 at the time of her candidacy for membership on the Board.

2 R.S. 19:4-1, which is now codified as N.J.S.A. 19:4-1, provides, inter alia, that no person shall have the right of suffrage "[w]ho is an idiot or is insane; or ... [w]ho is serving a sentence or is on parole or probation as the result of a conviction of any indictable offense..."

We also reject intervenor's contention that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 does not apply to candidates in school elections. The "qualifications" for board membership established by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 -- residency in the district for one year preceding the election, the ability to read and write, registered to vote in the district and not disqualified as a voter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 19:4-1 -- are threshold qualifications for election to a board. In order to ensure that the successful candidate in a school election possesses those qualifications, the education laws expressly require each candidate standing for election to a district board to certify in the nominating petition that he or she "is qualified to be elected to the office for which he is nominated, including a specific affirmation that he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1." N.J.S.A. 18A:14-10 (emphasis added). As stated,

[3] We note that individuals seeking to vote in school elections must be registered to vote in the election district included within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-44 In response to intervenor's exceptions to our Legal Committee's report, we also note that the lapse of her voting registration was effective by operation of N.J.S.A. 19:31-5 when she failed to vote in a primary, general, municipal or special election for four consecutive years, rather than upon the subsequent physical removal of her name from the registration rolls. Nor did it matter whether she had specific knowledge of such lapse or of the physical removal of her name from the voting registration list.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, "Qualifications of board members," expressly provides those qualifications.[4]

Consequently, we affirm the decision of the Acting Commissioner to remove intervenor from her seat on the Board for failure to satisfy the qualifications set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 for election thereto.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, unsuccessful candidate for head coaching position, alleged violation of law in Board's decision to hire out-of-district candidate when petitioner was qualified for position.

ALJ concluded Board violated N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 when it failed to appoint petitioner to position of head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for 1990-91 season. Board was ordered to compensate petitioner in amount of $4,550 without interest (lost stipend). ALJ determined that in coaching assignments regulations require that a board must appoint from within district if there is a certified teacher who has applied for the coaching job and meets the district's written qualification standards.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision, noting that nothing in law or regulation precludes a teacher who chooses not to apply for coaching job at one school from applying for, and asserting a claim to, a job in the same sport at another school in the district.

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This is a contested case which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education on September 30, 1991, as the result of the filing of a verified petition of appeal by Arthur Krupp alleging that the Board's failure to appoint him to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Arthur L.

Johnson Regional High School (hereinafter referred to Johnson or Johnson Regional) for the 1990-91 school year violated his rights as an in-district, certified, qualified teacher pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. According to the petition, the Board, rather than appointing him as it was obliged to do pursuant to that regulation, improperly appointed an individual who was not even employed in the school district. Accordingly, petitioner requested that he be named head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for the upcoming 1991-92 season and to be reimbursed in the amount of $4,450, the stipend he said he should have received had he properly been appointed as head coach of Johnson Regional for 1990-91. Since, of course, a hearing in this case was not conducted until March 1993, Krupp's demand for relief now has been modified to include a claim that he should be appointed to the Johnson Regional position for 1993-94 and to be paid an additional $900 representing the difference between the stipend he would have received if he had coached at Johnson Regional for 1991-92 and the stipend he actually received for coaching out-of-district. No monetary relief is sought for 1992-93 since Krupp coached in-district that season.

In its answer to the petition of appeal, the Board maintained that its determination to appoint an out-of-district individual and not Krupp to the position of head girls' basketball coach at Johnson Regional was the product of the reasonable exercise of its sound discretion in the particular circumstances since Krupp voluntarily had relinquished the opportunity to in all likelihood be reappointed to a similar position he held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, one of the district's other regional high schools where he had been the coach for many years.

A telephone prehearing conference was conducted on December 10, 1991, and at that time three separate issues were identified to be addressed at the hearing: (a) Was respondent's failure to appoint Krupp as head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 and, if so, to what relief is Krupp entitled; (b) Did Krupp's voluntary relinquishment of his head coaching position of girls' basketball at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School (which I'll hereinafter refer to as Dayton or Dayton Regional) constitute a waiver and/or an estoppel with respect to his right to monetary or other relief; and (c) Was the Board's decision not to appoint Krupp to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional sustainable on educational policy grounds independent of any State Board of Education regulation.

Hearings originally were scheduled for July 1992 but had to be adjourned as the result of witness unavailability and the matter was rescheduled. The plenary hearing was conducted on March 2, 1993, and a schedule for the submission of posthearing proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law was established. Various submissions now had been made and the following constitutes my oral initial decision which will be transcribed by the Office of Administrative Law and sent to the agency and the parties within 15 days pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2(b).

At the outset of the hearing the parties agreed to a joint stipulation of facts which was marked into evidence as Joint Exhibit 1. Those undisputed facts are as follows:

1. The Respondent, Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District No. 1 (hereafter "Board") serves the educational needs of students from the constituent districts of Berkeley Heights, Mountainside, Garwood, Kenilworth, Clark and Springfield for grades 9 through 12.

2. The Board maintains and operates four high schools: Jonathan Dayton in Springfield, Arthur L. Johnson in Clark, Governor Livingston in Berkeley Heights, and David Brearley in Kenilworth.

3. The Petitioner is a tenured teaching staff member of the Board assigned to teach at the Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield.

4. Each year, the Board offers many extra curricular programs to its students at each high school facility. A girls basketball program is offered at Jonathan Dayton in Springfield and Arthur L. Johnson in Clark.

5. For many years prior to and including the 1989-90 season, the Petitioner served as the head coach for girls basketball at Jonathan Dayton High School.

6. On February 9, 1990, a vacancy announcement was posted for "Schedule E positions for 1990-91 at the four regional high schools," which included the position of Head Basketball Coach.

7. On February 13, 1990, Mr. Peter Falzarano, Athletic Director at Jonathan Dayton High School received the written resignation from Petitioner indicating that he did not want to be considered for the Head Basketball Coach for girls basketball for the 1990-91 season.

8. In the evaluation report of the Petitioner for the sport of girls basketball for the school year 1989-90, it was noted as follows: "Mr. Krupp has stated that he will not be returning next year as the coach of the girls basketball team." This report was dated and signed by the Petitioner, May 7, 1990.

9. On September 16, 1990, the position of Head Basketball Coach (girls) was advertised in the Star Ledger.

10. Kathy Hodic, an out-of-district qualified certified teacher, who had served as assistant girls basketball coach at Jonathan Dayton High School during the 1989-90 season, applied for the head girls basketball coaching position at Jonathan Dayton High School for the 1990-91 season.

11. Walter Hennessy, an out-of-district qualified certified teacher, with prior coaching experience out-of-district, applied for the head girls basketball coaching position at Arthur L. Johnson for the 1990-91 season.

12. The Petitioner verbally expressed interest in the head girls basketball coaching position at Arthur L. Johnson High School for the 1990-91 season.

13. No other in-district candidates applied for the head girls basketball coaching positions at either Jonathan Dayton or Arthur L. Johnson for the 1990-91 season.

14. On October 16, 1990, upon recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, the Board appointed Kathy Hodic to the head basketball coach of girls basketball at Jonathan Dayton for the 1990-91 season.

15. On November 7, 1990, upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, the Board appointed Walter Hennessy to the head basketball coach of girls basketball at Arthur L. Johnson for the 1990-91 season.

The following are additional findings of fact that I have determined following my review of the testimony.

16. Petitioner voluntarily had decided to relinquish his opportunity to be reappointed to the position as head coach of girls' basketball at Dayton Regional for a variety of reasons, including in particular his stating that he had become tired of coaching three different sports, which included girls' soccer, girls' softball, and girls' basketball, and therefore determined at that time to give up the girls' basketball coaching position.

17. Nevertheless, in March 1990, petitioner changed his mind and to that end had determined to apply for the position of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for, among other reasons, he considered that school to be his "alma mater" and that it was closer to his own home.

18. In March 1990 despite his original decision not to seek the head coaching position at Jonathan Dayton for the 1990-91 season, Krupp mentioned his interest in the girls' head coaching position at Johnson Regional to the then athletic director of that school, Louis Peragallo. Thereafter, through October 1990, Krupp pursued his interest in the Johnson Regional position with Peragallo who during that same period told Krupp that no appointment had yet been made.

19. As of late October 1990 Krupp believed he was to be appointed to the position at Johnson Regional since neither Peragallo nor anyone else informed him that by virtue of Board policy or for any other reason he would not or could not be appointed to that position.

20. By virtue of the fact that Krupp did not learn until late October 1990 that he would not be appointed to the Johnson Regional head coaching position, it was then too late for him to obtain a similar such position at any other school district for the 1990-91 season. The stipend he would have received as head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for 1991 had he been appointed and served in that position was $4,550.

21. For the 1991-92 school year petitioner served as head coach of girls' basketball in Sayreville and received a stipend which was $900 less than he would have received had he been coaching in the respondent school district for that same season.

22. During the 1992-93 season, Krupp again served as head coach of girls' basketball at Dayton Regional.

The forgoing represents my findings of fact as to the substantial portion of the testimony offered in this case. There were, of course, certain points of disagreement with respect to the precise substance of various conversations petitioner had with either the athletic director and or senior administrators during the period from February 1990 through October 1990 pertaining to his desire no longer to coach girls' basketball at Jonathan Dayton and the reasons therefore, followed by the circumstances surrounding his reconsideration with respect to coaching and his expressed desire to be appointed to that position at another school in the district, that is to say Johnson Regional rather than Dayton. For example, some Board witnesses claimed that Krupp expressed reluctance to coach at Dayton Regional claiming that its girls' basketball team was in a "down" cycle, whereas Johnson Regional was improving. Krupp, of course, categorically denied any such motivation. However, these and other points of difference in the testimony in my judgment are not critical to my determination in this case since for the reasons which follow I have concluded that the Board's failure to appoint Krupp to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for the 1990-91 school year and its appointment instead of Walter Hennessy, an out-of-district teacher, was a plain violation of the express provision of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 and therefore was improper.

In order to establish a format for consideration of the issues identified in the prehearing order in this case, I believe it appropriate at the outset to set forth the specific language of the regulation in question--N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. At this point I'm not going to read the regulation. It will be typed into the transcript.

(a) Any person not certified as a teacher and not in the employ of a district board of education shall not be permitted to organize public school pupils during school time or during any recess in the school day for purposes of instruction, or coaching or for conducting games, events or contests in physical education or athletics.

(b) School districts shall be permitted to employ any holder of a New Jersey teaching certificate to work in the interscholastic athletic program provided that the position has been advertised.

(c) In the event there is no qualified and certified applicant, the holder of a county substitute certificate is authorized to serve as an athletic coach in the district in which he or she is employed for a designated sports season, provided that:

1. The district chief school administrator demonstrates to the county superintendent that:

   i. The vacant coaching position had been advertised; and

   ii. There was no qualified applicant based on the written standards of the district board of education;

2. The district chief school administrator will provide a letter to the county superintendent attesting to the prospective employee's knowledge and experience in the sport in which he or she will coach; and

In my view the provisions of this regulation leave practically no room for a board of education to hire an out-of-district applicant over a certified, qualified, in-district applicant regardless of the number of coaching positions available. The only possible "play" with respect to board discretion seems to me to relate to the promulgation of written qualifications where boards might establish certain criteria that may or may not have a bearing on in-district versus out-of-district personnel. See, for example, the decision in Norcross v. Board of Education of North Hunterdon, decided 92 N.J.A.R. 2d, 176. Except for that slight opening for the exercise of board discretion, I can find no authority for a board to appoint someone from outside the district where, as here, there is a fully certified, highly qualified, in-district candidate ready, willing, and able to take the job. I believe that result flows clearly from the regulation and from the cases which have dealt with the regulation. In that respect, see the decision in Chambers v. Board of Education of Neptune, 1985 S.L.D. 1379. Indeed, the fact that a board may determine that an out-of-district candidate is "more qualified" is not controlling so long as the in-district candidate meets threshold qualifications. See, for example, the decision in Capraro v. Woodbridge Township Board of Education, 91 N.J.R. 2d, p. 17. Of course, in this case Krupp had a demonstrated record of proficiency in coaching and achievement as a coach.

Both sides have agreed that an important underlying purpose of the regulation was to expand the pool of potential applicants where there is a coaching shortage caused by an insufficient number of qualified, in-district personnel, and thereby to allow boards under very specific circumstances to reach beyond their own district to fill those coaching positions which are vacant. Another purpose, of course, is to limit a board discretion in order to avoid situations where professional athletes, for example, who are neither qualified to teach nor trained to foster student development in areas other than athletics are sought for such positions. In this respect, see the decision in Barber v. Board of Education of Kearny, 1975 S.L.D. p. 58.

In this case the Board argues that its decision to reject Krupp's candidacy for Johnson was consistent with a long-standing and sound practice of filling coaching positions at a particular school only with persons who teach in that same school. The problem I see with that position is at least threefold: (a) apparently there may have been exceptions; (b) that policy was never reduced to writing as required by the regulation; and (c) the regulation establishes superseding priorities which simply must be followed. This is not to say that had the Board's policy been reduced to writing and had the Board never deviated from it the Board's action necessarily would be sustained. However, in that event at least there would be a possibility that such a qualification, if duly promulgated and regularly and uniformly followed, could withstand the claim of arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable action. However, that is not the case here.

Therefore, the Board's argument that it exercised sound educational judgment in disqualifying Krupp from obtaining the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional is flawed essentially because in the circumstances of this case it simply had no such discretion.

Nor is this to say that the Board's reasons for rejecting Krupp's candidacy are without intrinsic merit. Neither this administrative law judge nor the Commissioner for that matter are free to substitute their judgment for that of boards of education in matters which by law are committed to board discretion. Thus, had the coaching selection been open to consideration of such matters as on-site availability for dealing with student athlete problems, or to obviate student belief that they were being abandoned, such matters could have been taken into account. Of course, in this case Hennessy's appointment to the position at Johnson Regional questionably provided opportunity for him to be available to students during regular school hours since he did not teach in the school district even though he apparently had some flexible hours in the district where he did teach.

Nor was there any competent proof in the record to sustain the Board's assertion that any student, athlete or otherwise, actually felt abandoned or otherwise distressed by Krupp's decision to relinquish his position at Dayton. That was pure speculation. That is not to say that even if there was testimony to that effect it would have any substantial bearing on the proceeding. There simply was no competent evidence of that other than some of the Board's witnesses articulating that notion. In short, none of the concerns raised by the Board, however sincerely felt, addressed what I believe to be the critical overriding feature in this case--that the strictures imposed by the regulation to the effect that a Board must appoint from within the district if there is a qualified, certified teacher who has applied for the coaching job have to be honored.

Finally, the Board's argument that qualified teaching staff members should not be allowed to "pick and choose" their assignments, while again having some intrinsic merit from a managerial standpoint, nevertheless cannot override the thrust of the language of the regulation. Teachers, consistent with the regulation, can be denied coaching positions which they might desire. However, they cannot be required to coach where they do not wish to do so. Accordingly, unless the cited regulation is changed by the State Board to accommodate the concerns expressed here, or unless the Board can adopt written standards which can pass muster in the face of the language of the regulation, the fact is that qualified teaching in-district staff members can engage in such picking and choosing.

In reaching this conclusion, I am aware, of course, of the substantial volume of case law which commands deference to the board's prerogative in matters of board discretion. The decisions, of course, in Ridgefield Park Education Association v. Ridgefield Park Board of Education, 78 N.J. 144 (1978) and Dunellen Board of Education v. Dunellen Education Association, 64 N.J. p. 17 (1973), are just two of several decisions which articulate that proposition. The problem, however, with the Board's reliance on those cases in the particular circumstances of this matter is, as I have noted, that its determination not to appoint Krupp to the Johnson Regional girls' head basketball coaching position contravened the provisions of a State Board regulation which has the full force and effect of the law and acts as a limitation on the prerogative usually enjoyed by boards insofar as the exercise of their discretion or the determinations are concerned.

Nor do I believe that the Board's defense of waiver can be sustained. Krupp stated adequate reasons for deciding in February 1990 that he no longer wished to coach at Dayton for 1990-91. Whether or not he rapidly changed his mind about his decision or why he did so are not particularly relevant. As a certified, qualified, in-district teaching staff member who timely applied for the Johnson Regional position, he, not Hennessy, simply should have been selected as the coach at Johnson Regional for 1990-91 and he did not waive, relinquish, or otherwise give up that entitlement which the regulation provides to him simply because he no longer wished to coach at Dayton.

With respect to the question of damages, I believe that the $4,550 stipend for 1990-91 which Krupp would have received having been selected, as I believe he should have been, to be the head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional should be awarded to him. While the Board argues that Krupp could have protected himself against the loss of that stipend by retaining conditionally the head coaching position at Dayton Regional, the fact is he was under no obligation to do so. Nor is there any competent evidence in the record to rebut his contention that by the time he finally learned in late October 1990 that he would not be appointed to the position at Johnson, to which as I indicated he was entitled, it essentially was too late for him to mitigate his loss by obtaining a similar available position in another school district.

During the 1991-92 school year, Krupp coached in Sayreville, as I indicated, and the difference in stipend there between what he received and what he would have received in the employ of the Board was $900. However, since Krupp did not apply for appointment at either Dayton or Johnson for 1991-92, I do not believe that any damages are due him for that year. While I can speculate that he did not apply for the Johnson position since he assumed he wouldn't get it, and that he did not want the Dayton position having relinquished it the year before, nevertheless, the record is devoid of a competent basis to award him that $900 for the reasons I have indicated.

Therefore, the total amount of petitioner's damages I FIND to be $4,550. Since the Board's determination in this case, although found by me to be in violation of the regulation, was made in good faith and not in deliberate violation of that regulation, no assessment of of prejudgment interest is recommended. In that respect I would refer counsel to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1, paragraph (c)(1), which deals with the question of interest assessment. Therefore, in light of the reasons I have just set forth, I have CONCLUDED that the respondent's action in failing to appoint petitioner to the position of head coach of girls' basketball at Johnson Regional for the 1990-91 season was in violation of the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. Respondent therefore is liable to petitioner for compensatory damages in the amount of $4,550 without interest.

I will not in this case order the Board to appoint Krupp to the girls' head basketball coaching position at Johnson Regional for 1993-94. First, he must apply for the job and the Board given an opportunity to compare his qualifications against those of other applicants, if there are any, consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3. On June 10, 1993, which is today's date, I will not prejudge or predetermine the outcome of that process. If it turns out that Mr. Krupp does apply and is the only candidate, then, of course, my determination, depending on what the Commissioner does, presumably will have some bearing on what is going to happen for the 1993-94 season.

I will file this initial decision with the Commissioner of Education for her consideration. This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ARTHUR KRUPP,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UNION COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by both petitioner and the Board pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, with each party submitting a reply to the other's exceptions.

In its exceptions, the Board takes issue both with certain findings of fact and with the ALJ's conclusions of law. With respect to facts, the Board seeks alternate findings that 1) by his own contention petitioner applied for the coaching job at Johnson on or about February 15, 1990, rather than in March 1990 as found by the ALJ (Petition of Appeal, paragraph 5); 2) well before October 1990, petitioner was aware, due to the district's widely acknowledged and ongoing practice of hiring coaches who are assigned as teachers to the school where the coaching is based, that he would not be given the job at Johnson (testimony of Falzarano, Carl, and Bauman; Interrogatory No. 5); 3) petitioner declined an offer to continue coaching at Dayton made during the summer of 1990 (testimony of Falzarano); and 4) petitioner was aware of the coaching vacancy at Johnson before resigning as coach at Dayton on February 13, 1990, as the Johnson coach resigned effective February 6, 1990 and his position was posted on February 9, 1990 (Exhibits P-1 and J-1, paragraph 6).

With respect to the ALJ's conclusions of law, the Board renews its arguments centering on a board's managerial right to assign staff and the district's policy of assigning teachers to their home schools only, the rationale for which is implicit in the job description for coaches (P-2 attachment). The Board stresses that it was willing to hire petitioner as a coach in the school where he was regularly assigned, but petitioner resigned from that position and refused an offer to stay there. Thus, the ALJ's decision permits a teacher's personal preference in assignment to override the Board's managerial prerogative in a critical area of school operations, fails to recognize that petitioner's resignation from one coaching position constituted a waiver of any claim to another position in the same sport, and awards monetary restitution to petitioner notwithstanding that petitioner could and should have mitigated any loss by conditionally retaining his position at Dayton while pursuing the position at Johnson.

In reply, petitioner initially objects to the Board's attempt to alter findings of fact by referencing testimony for which no transcript was provided. Petitioner contends that his own testimony established that 1) he did not apply for the position at Johnson until after February 20, 1990; 2) he did not know about the impending vacancy at Johnson when he resigned from Dayton; 3) he was not notified of the Board's decision to reject his application until October 1990 and, in fact, had received and relied on assurances from the Athletic Director at Johnson that he would be coaching there; and 4) he was never offered his former position at Dayton after he was rejected for the position at Johnson. Even so, petitioner contends, the Board's proposed findings of fact would not alter the overriding principle, as properly construed by the ALJ, that a qualified in-district applicant must be given absolute preference over an out-of-district candidate.

Petitioner's primary exceptions in turn contest the ALJ's recommendations that petitioner is entitled to neither pre-judgment interest nor the salary differential ($900) between what he actually earned coaching out of district in 1991-92 and what he would have earned at Johnson. In the former instance, he avers, the Board acted with full knowledge of the law it was plainly violating, so that petitioner is entitled to interest under applicable regulatory criteria and, in the latter, the question of petitioner's coaching entitlement was in litigation and petitioner need not have made formal application at Johnson during 1991-92 to preserve his claim for that year. The Board in reply endorses the correctness of the ALJ's analyses and conclusions on these issues, noting that petitioner cites no precedent for his own positions thereon.

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner adopts the recommendations of the ALJ for the reasons set forth in the initial decision as further explicated herein.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that without a transcript of the testimony given before the ALJ, it is not possible to reconcile the conflicting claims made by petitioner and the Board with regard to the findings of fact challenged above, nor does the existing record provide any sufficient basis to alter the ALJ's determinations. Moreover, as noted by petitioner, acceptance of the Board's proposed findings arguendo would not alter the outcome of this matter, which hinges instead on controlling mandates of statute and regulation.

As properly found by the ALJ, in matters of hiring athletic coaches, the managerial discretion ordinarily afforded a board must give way to the clear directive of regulation providing that a board must first choose applicants from within its own district, resorting to out-of-district alternatives only when no in-district applicant meets the board's written qualification standards. In this instance, the Board cannot cast as "qualifications" for purposes of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 unwritten assumptions which may underlie its job description for coaches, however sincerely the Board may believe in the validity of those assumptions. Neither can the Board rely on petitioner's decision not to reapply for his Dayton assignment* as a waiver of his right to apply for the job at Johnson, as nothing in law forecloses a teacher who chooses not to apply for a coaching job in one school from applying for a job in the same sport at another school in the district.

Finally, the Commissioner rejects both petitioner's and the Board's exceptions to the ALJ's recommendations regarding petitioner's entitlement to compensatory pay and interest and instead endorses the ALJ's analysis and conclusions in full.

* It is (as frequently stated by the Board) here noted that petitioner did not resign from his coaching position; he merely made a decision not to reapply for an annual contract in that position for the subsequent year.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein as further explicated above,* and the Board is directed to pay petitioner forthwith the sum of $4,550 representing the lost stipend for the school year in which he was denied a coaching assignment contrary to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

* For clarification purposes, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ's statement at p. 9 above, regarding boards not being able to require teachers to coach where they do not wish to do so, must be qualified by reference to law providing that school employees may be involuntarily assigned to extracurricular activities when no qualified applicant for a particular position can be found either within or without the district. Remanded by the State Board of Education, August 7, 1991

Decided by the State Board of Education, January 5, 1994

Decided by the Appellate Division, December 6, 1994

Certification Denied by the Supreme Court, March 21, 1995

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Dwyer & Canellis (Thomas F. Dwyer, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., of Counsel)

June 7, 1995

This matter is before us pursuant to a remand by the Appellate Division.

The case arose from petitioner's claim that he should have been appointed girl's basketball coach at Johnson Regional High School for the 1990-91 school year. The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's decision, which adopted the Administrative Law Judge's determination that the district board had violated N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 when it had hired a certified teacher from outside the district rather than petitioner to fill this coaching assignment.

The Appellate Division reversed, holding that the regulation in effect during the relevant period could not be read to impose on district boards a preference for hiring candidates from within the district for coaching assignments. The Court found that the regulation merely required a district board to advertise such positions before accepting any applications from any certified teachers whether or not they were employed within the district.

The Appellate Division however remanded the matter for consideration of the district board's argument that it had exercised sound educational judgment in denying petitioner the coaching assignment at issue for the year in question. In doing so, the Court observed that the record failed to support the board's conclusion that petitioner had not satisfied the standards for qualification for appointment to the assignment.

At the request of the parties, we deferred action with respect to the remand pending a determination by the New Jersey Supreme Court as to whether it would review the case. On March 21, 1995, the Court denied certification.

We now remand the matter to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to the Appellate Division's decision in order for him to consider in the first instance the Board's argument that it exercised sound educational judgment, to resolve whether petitioner satisfied the standards for appointment to the coaching position he sought, and for a decision on the merits of his claim consistent with the Appellate Division's construction of the regulation that he was entitled to the position. We do not retain jurisdiction.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Education Association and two members, tenured part-time supplemental teachers, challenged as arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable Board Policy Number 4123 that limits employment of supplemental teachers hired after February 24, 1992 (the date of the adoption of the amendment) not to exceed two consecutive years. Board argued that petitioners did not have standing to bring action and that petitioners failed to state claim upon which relief might be granted.

ALJ concluded that a prospective ruling on propriety of policy was not improper and might be challenged by any person having an interest in subject matter. ALJ, however, found both Association and individual petitioners lacked standing to challenge policy since no supplemental teacher was currently affected by policy and individual petitioners as taxpayers had no personal interest to claim standing in personnel cases. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, Ridgewood Education Association (Association), Elaine Higgins, and Ann Hovan, challenge as arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable the policy adopted by respondent, the Board of Education of Ridgewood (Board), limiting employment of supplemental teachers not to exceed two consecutive years. Thus, petitioners request an order from the Commissioner of Education directing the Board to rescind the policy.

The Board denied that it acted arbitrarily, capriciously, or unreasonably but, rather, acted properly and in accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1. Further, the Board argues that petitioners do not have standing to bring this action and that petitioners have failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Also, it is asserted that because petitioners allege anticipated actions by the Board, the matter is not ripe for adjudication.

On June 25, 1992, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on September 1, 1992, before Administrative Law Judge Joseph F. Martone. Thereafter, the matter was reassigned to the undersigned. By telephone conference, the parties had agreed to submit a stipulation of undisputed facts and stated that no testimonial evidence was necessary. Counsel was allowed to submit legal briefs on the issues established at the prehearing conference.

On January 26, 1993, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Facts, and the record closed on March 4, 1993, after receipt of reply briefs. On April 5, 1993, the record was reopened to allow counsel to brief issues that had not been addressed in initial and reply briefs. The record closed on May 10, 1993, after receipt of supplemental briefs.

ISSUES

1. Whether the policy adopted by respondent on February 24, 1992, limiting the term of service of nontenured supplemental teachers to two years, is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

2. If the policy is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, what is the appropriate remedy?

3. Whether petitioners have standing in this matter.

4. Whether this matter presents an issue which anticipates future action and is accordingly not ripe for adjudication.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties have stipulated to the following facts which are herein adopted as FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. The Association is the exclusive representative for collective negotiations purposes for, among others, teachers, including part-time "supplemental teachers" employed by respondent.

2. Petitioners Higgins and Hovan are part-time supplemental teachers employed by respondent. They have gained tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. These petitioners are also residents and taxpayers of Ridgewood, New Jersey.

3. Prior to February 24, 1992, respondent's policy number 4123 stated the following:

   Certified Personnel
   Supplemental Teachers

   The supplemental instruction program shall be coordinated through the Department of Special Services. Compensation and benefits shall be as stipulated in the negotiated agreement between the Ridgewood Board of Education and the Ridgewood Education Association.

   This policy was adopted by respondent on December 19, 1988.

4. On February 24, 1992, respondent adopted an amended policy number 4123 (J-1). As amended, the policy states the following:

   Certified Personnel
   Supplemental Teachers

   The term "supplemental teachers" applies to the following professional personnel: Supplemental Instructors, Basic Skills Instructors, English-as-a-Second-Language/Bilingual Instructors, Home Instructors, and all other persons in part-time, hourly, instructional positions for which certification is required.

   The supplemental instruction program shall be coordinated through the Department of Special Services. Supplemental teachers shall be evaluated in accordance with administrative code, and compensation and benefits shall be as stipulated in the negotiated agreement between the Ridgewood Board of Education and the Ridgewood Education Association.

A condition of employment for supplemental teachers shall be that, regardless of quality of service, the term of service in any combination of part-time, hourly instructional positions shall not exceed two consecutive years. This condition of employment shall apply to those employees hired after February 24, 1992, the date of the adoption of this amendment.

5. Prior to the February 24, 1992 adoption of amended policy number 4123, the issues covered by the amendments had been discussed in the following forum:

(a) Principals' Council Meeting on October 31, 1991. The minutes of this meeting are attached hereto as Exhibit J-2.

(b) Principals' Council Meeting on December 4, 1991. The minutes of this meeting are attached hereto as Exhibit J-3. A copy of the proposal prepared by John Campion and George Neville and referred to in the minutes is attached hereto as Exhibit J-4.

(c) Principals' Council Meeting on December 18, 1991. The minutes of this meeting are attached hereto as Exhibit J-5.

6. The first reading of the proposed amendment to Board Policy 4123 occurred at the respondent's regular meeting on January 6, 1992. An excerpt from the minutes of this meeting is attached hereto as Exhibit J-6.

7. The proposed amendment to Board Policy 4123 was discussed at the regular meetings of respondent held on January 27 and February 10, 1992. Excerpts from the minutes of these meeting are attached hereto as Exhibits J-7 and J-8, respectively.

8. The amendment to Board Policy 4123 was adopted at the regular meeting of respondent held on February 24, 1992. An excerpt from the minutes of this meeting is attached hereto as Exhibit J-9.

9. During the discovery process in this case, petitioners propounded the following interrogatory:

15. Set forth in detail the complete factual basis relied upon by respondent in support of its reason for adopting or amending the policy supplied in answer to question 13, particularly as to any limitation on the length of employment.

Respondent's answer to this question states:

15) The Board of Education, so advised by its administrative staff, agrees and believes that the job of a supplemental part-time teacher, even though it is tenurable under the law, is not equal to the time commitment, the multiple job responsibilities, or the scope and sequence of the job of a contractual teacher. Supplemental teachers work with small groups of students, sometimes only one or two at a time; they are freed from the supervisory, homeroom, and other duties associated with the contractual teacher's role. They are not required to make up and grade tests and final examinations, they are not expected to evaluate a year's work of a classroom of students, they do not regularly work with classroom-size groups of students with all that implies in planning, effort and classroom management. They are not required to attend departmental and faculty meetings, they do not observe regular school day hours, they are not expected to be responsible for the child's learning in the same way that the classroom teacher is (supplemental teachers are assigned to work on specific tasks as directed by the classroom teacher), they are not required to attend Open Day Orientation nor to present themselves and their subjects at annual Back to School nights, etc.

Because of the important distinctions between the role of a supplemental teacher and that of the contractual teacher, the Board of Education feels that it is inappropriate to allow a supplemental teacher to attain tenure when that attainment would permit the supplemental teacher, in a seniority situation, to become a classroom teacher without ever having experienced a day of the regular classroom teacher's life.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1, petitioners challenge as arbitrary and capricious the Board's adoption of a policy limiting employment of supplemental teachers to not more than two consecutive years. Thus, petitioners seek an order from the Commissioner of Education directing the Board to rescind the policy. The Association is the exclusive representative for collective negotiations for part-time supplemental teachers employed by the Board. Higgins and Hovan are tenured part-time supplemental teachers employed by the Board and also are residents and taxpayers of Ridgewood, New Jersey. The record reflects that the adoption of Board Policy 4123 limiting the employment of supplemental teachers to two consecutive years applies to those employees hired after February 24, 1992, the date the policy was adopted. The record further reflects that there is no current employee or member of the Association whose employment status is currently affected by the implementation of the policy. Thus, it is appropriate to first address two pivotal questions: Whether the matter is ripe for adjudication and, if so, whether petitioners have the requisite standing to maintain this action.

Ripeness

The Board argues that there are no current employees who fall within the scope of the policy limiting employment to two consecutive years. Thus, the relief sought by petitioners is prospective because the policy has not yet been applied to deny a position to any supplemental teacher. Further, it is argued that "the court's [sic] do not give advisory opinions; a controversy must exist" (respondent's supplemental brief at 6). Therefore, it is submitted that the relief sought is prospective and not ripe for adjudication.

Petitioners contend that although they do not challenge the application of the policy to any particular part-time supplemental teacher, the adoption of the two-year employment limitation contained in the amendment is ultra vires and void. Therefore, it is appropriate to challenge the action at the outset rather than to wait until an individual is harmed.

DISCUSSION

The New Jersey Administrative Code explicitly grants the Commissioner of Education jurisdiction to render declaratory rulings. N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1 provides in relevant part:

> Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8, any interested person(s) may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling with respect to the applicability to any person, property, or state of facts of any statute or regulation enforced or administered by the Commissioner

Petitioners' failure to conform their petition to the format required for declaratory rulings, set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.2, has not been raised and should not be fatal to this petition.

> The rules herein contained shall be considered general rules of practice. . . . They may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner, in his or her discretion, in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice.
> [N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.15.]

The regulations governing the form of petitions for declaratory rulings and the permitted relaxation thereof is consistent with New Jersey Court Rules 4:5-2 and 4:5-7 which require an adequate pleading to contain a claim of relief, a statement of facts entitling the pleader of relief, and a demand for a judgment. R. 4:5.2. The pleadings shall be concise and direct but shall also be liberally construed. R. 5:5.7. Under the rule of liberal construction, a pleading is generally deemed adequate when it apprises an adverse party of the claims and issues to be raised at trial. Dewey v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 121 N.J. 69, 75-76 (1990); Miltz v. Burroughs-Shelving, 203 N.J. Super. 451, 458 (App. Div. 1985). Motions for dismissal for failure to state a claim should be granted only on the rarest occasions. Printing Mart v. Sharp Electronics Corp., 116 N.J. 739, 772 (1989). If appropriate, petitioner should be permitted to amend an adequate petition. See Muniz v. United Hosp. Med. Ctr., 153 N.J. Super. 79, 82-83 (App. Div. 1977). Moreover, an ALJ is empowered to permit a petitioner to amend a petition in cases in which such amendment would be in the interest of efficiency and expediency. N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.1. Here, an amendment is unnecessary. The Board implicitly acknowledges petitioners' request for a declaratory ruling where it argues that the judge should not render advisory opinions (respondent's supplemental brief at 6). See also N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, which provides for a relaxation of the rules by the Commissioner.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners seek a declaratory ruling concerning the adoption of the policy rather than its application to any particular person. Thus, I further CONCLUDE that a prospective ruling on the propriety of the Board's policy is not improper and may be challenged by any person having an interest in the subject matter. Bergen Co. v. Port of New York Authority, 32 N.J. 303, 307 (1960).

Accordingly, it is appropriate to address whether petitioners have sufficient interest in the subject matter and, thus, standing to maintain the action.

Standing

The Board asserts that the policy was deliberately worded to affect future employees rather than current employees. The Association arguably has a right to bring an action on behalf of those it represents. However, there is currently no individual represented by the Association "who could possible show some injury as a result of the Board policy" (respondent's supplemental brief at 3). With regard to Higgins and Hovan, it is asserted that they are tenured teachers and, thus, are not affected by the terms set forth in the policy.

Also, the Board asserts that standing to bring a cause of action requires petitioners to demonstrate injury or threat of injury by some governmental action about which they complain. Thus, since both individual petitioners are tenured employees, they lack standing to bring this action.

Petitioners assert that the Association has standing based on the possible impact that the policy may have on its members. Thus, the representative capacity of an organization representing the employee goes beyond the confines of the present dispute. Thus, it is submitted that the Association may represent the claims of individual teachers in educational law matters.

With regard to petitioners Higgins and Hovan, it is asserted that as residents and taxpayers of Ridgewood, they have standing to challenge the actions of the local board of education.

DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1 provides, in part, that "any interested person(s) may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling." An interested person is one "who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a controversy before the Commissioner." N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1. In Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n v. Realty Equities Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98 (1971), the Supreme Court set forth the threshold requirements allowing a person to institute an action:

> [W]e will not render advisory opinions or function in the abstract [citation omitted] nor will we entertain proceedings by plaintiffs who are "mere intermeddlers" [citation omitted] or are merely interlopers or strangers to the dispute [citation omitted]. Without ever becoming enmeshed in the federal complexities and technicalities, we have appropriately confined litigation to those situations where the litigants concerned with the subject matter evidenced a sufficient stake and real adverseness.

Thus, two requisites must be shown to sustain a finding of standing to bring an action: (1) Petitioner must demonstrate a sufficient stake in the outcome of the proceedings; and (2) his or her position must be truly adverse to that of respondent. The court's holding is consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act which defines who may be considered an interested person to initiate administrative proceedings before the Commissioner of Education. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1.

It is undisputed that teachers' associations have standing to challenge board actions when those actions intimately and directly affect the association's members. Winston v. Bd. of Ed. of So. Plainfield, 125 N.J. Super. 131, 142 (App. Div. 1973), aff'd, 64 N.J. 582 (1974); Wyckoff Ed. Ass'n v. Wyckoff Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. EDU 5174-80 (Aug. 21, 1981), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Oct. 5, 1981), aff'd, St. Bd. of Ed. (Sept. 5, 1982). Moreover, an association may have standing in its own right to seek judicial relief from injury to itself. Warth v. Seldin, 422 U.S. 490, 75 S. Ct. 2197, 45 L. Ed. 2d 343 (1975). In the absence of injury to itself, an association may have standing solely as representative of its members if it is alleged that its members or any one of them "are suffering immediate or threatened injury as a result of the challenge action of the sort that would make out a justiciable cause had the members themselves brought suit." Id. at 511, 75 S. Ct. at __, 45 L. Ed. 2d at 362.

Here, it is undisputed the Board's assertion that there is no current member of the Association to whom the policy applies. Consequently, the issue of standing of associations that has been routinely followed in Winston is not applicable here. Because there are no current Association members affected by the Board's policy, the Association cannot claim to be protecting the interests of its members. The Association would have to wait until a supplemental teacher to whom the policy would apply is affected before it could challenge the Board's action. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Association lacks standing to challenge the policy.

The individually-named petitioners, Higgins and Hovan, assert standing based on their status as residents and taxpayers of Ridgewood. Taxpayer status has been recognized as a basis for standing. In Silverman v. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of Millburn, 134 N.J. Super. 253 (Law Div. 1975), aff'd, 136 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1975), plaintiff taxpayers had standing to challenge a school closing. Plaintiffs represented not only the public interest but also their own private interests in preventing the school from closing. Id. at 258. Here, petitioners have not met the prerequisites of Silverman. Although slight additional private interest is sufficient to sustain a finding of standing where the case is of great public interest, Salorio v. Glaser, 82 N.J. 482, 491 (1980), the record does not reflect the impact, if any, of terminating teachers after two consecutive years of employment. Thus, in the absence of showing that the matter impacts the public interest, the courts will look to some measurable amount of detrimental impact on the complaining party's personal rights and will not permit a litigant standing to assert the rights of a third party. Jersey City Med. Center v. Estate of Baum, 84 N.J. 137, 144 (1980).

Petitioners' reliance on Schinck v. Bd. of Ed. of Westwood Consol. School Dist., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960), does not support its position of standing. In Schinck, taxpayers challenged the adequacy of proof before the Commissioner on a school bond issued. The court in that case, however, was not called upon to decide the question of standing. Also, the issue of taxpayer standing was not addressed in Consolidated Citizens Org., Inc., v. Bd. of Ed. of the Tp. of Neptune, 1970 S.L.D. 123 or Montclair Concerned Citizens Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of the Town of Montclair, 1977 S.L.D. 1014, cited by petitioners.

Further, petitioners' reliance on Elizabeth Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n v. Howell, 24 N.J. 488 (1957), is completely removed from the issue of taxpayer's standing and therefore does not support petitioners' position. In Elizabeth Federal, the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance granted Roselle Park Savings and Loan permission to buy out an operation in Elizabeth and move that operation to another Elizabeth location. The competitors of the outside savings and loan, who were already established in Elizabeth, challenged the action. The court held that the competitors had sufficient interest to afford them standing in the action. Id. at 503. The court there merely stated that standing inheres to "all persons who are directly affected by and aggrieved as a result of the particular action sought to be brought before the courts for review." Id. at 500 (emphasis added). The court found that the petitioners had standing due to their status as competitor financial institutions, rather than taxpayer status.

Although taxpayer status has been recognized to confer standing upon plaintiffs in some cases, it has been routinely rejected by the Commissioner as a basis for standing in cases involving challenges to personnel decisions made by school boards. See, e.g., Huetteman v. Bd. of Ed. of the Boro. of East Rutherford, OAL DKT. EDU 4100-86 (July 25, 1986), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Sept. 3, 1986) (where taxpayers/parents held not to have standing because not "interested persons" under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 for purpose of challenging transfer of principals); and Kenwood v. Montclair Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. EDU 8858-81 (April 23, 1982), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (June 14, 1982) (where petitioner failed to demonstrate sufficient stake in outcome or substantial likelihood of harm). In cases involving substantial public interest, petitioner must have additional private interest, i.e., some measurable detrimental impact. Salorio at 482, 491. See also Ricciardelli v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Newark, OAL DKT. EDU 1894-79 (Sept. 26, 1979), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Nov. 16, 1979) (petitioner must be affected in a direct and meaningful way; taxpayer status insufficient to confer standing to challenge transfer of personnel).

Here, petitioners challenge a school board personnel policy which prohibits retaining supplemental teachers beyond two consecutive years of employment. Petitioners Higgins and Hovan allege no private interest beyond their status as taxpayers, as required under Kenwood, supra. On the other hand, cases relied on by petitioner, Schinck, Silverman, Montclair, and Consolidated Citizens, are distinguished from cases involving personnel matters. In those cases, a school closing, reorganization, and a bond issue entail a possible outlay of money or incurrence of debt by the school board. These issues would be of concern to Higgins and Hovan as taxpayers because increased costs of operating a school are often reflected in increased taxes. However, in personnel cases, taxpayers have no personal interest to claim standing. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Higgins and Hovan lack standing to participate as petitioners in this action.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' standing is a prerequisite to maintain this action before the Commissioner of Education. Having failed to establish requisite standing to bring this suit, the petition against the Board will be DISMISSED without actually reaching the merits of petitioners' allegations.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the petition of Ridgewood Education Association, Elaine Higgins, and Ann Hovan is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 ~~East~~ State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RIDGEWOOD EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION, ELAINE HIGGINS AND ANN HOVAN,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE VILLAGE OF RIDGEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioners' exceptions raise one new argument with respect to their standing to bring the within petition. They allege that the ALJ made her decision to dismiss the petition based upon a fact not contained in the factual record of this case. Specifically, they aver that there is an absence in the record of sufficient, competent and credible evidence as to whether or not any part-time supplemental teachers have been hired subsequent to the Board's adoption of revised Policy Number 4123 on February 24, 1992. The Commissioner is urged to reverse the initial decision and remand this matter.

Petitioners' remaining exceptions with respect to the standing issue are a reiteration of arguments fully and fairly considered and addressed by the ALJ in her initial decision.*

The Board contends that the ALJ's reliance on the contention that there is no current member of the Association to whom the policy applies was justified. It points out that

> This statement was contained in respondent's initial brief. Despite the opportunity for a reply brief and a request by the Administrative Law Judge for supplemental legal briefs, petitioners failed to address respondent's assertion that no one individual represented by the Association could step forward and claim an inquiry seeking a remedy. Absent any such challenge or the presentation of evidence which would render the Board's representation invalid, the initial decision was based upon sufficient reason to support the conclusion that the association lacked standing.
> (Board's Reply Exceptions, at p. 1)

The Board urges that the initial decision be affirmed.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner fully concurs with the analysis and conclusion of the ALJ that since there are no current Association members affected by the Board's policy, the Association cannot claim to be protecting the interest of its members, and, therefore, lacks standing to challenge the Board's policy at this time. In reaching her determination in this regard, the Commissioner was not persuaded by petitioners' objection that the absence of current members injured by the policy is a fact unsupported by the record. She particularly notes that in one of petitioners' own post-hearing submissions they stated

> The petitioners do not argue that the respondent's amendment to Policy Number 4123 is inappropriate as applied to any particular part-time Supplemental Teacher. The petitioners argue that the adoption of the two year employment limitation contained in the amendment is ultra vires and void.
> (Supplemental Brief for Petitioners, dated April 30, 1993, at p. 9)

The Commissioner further notes that at no time subsequent to the Board's initial assertion of this statement did the petitioners in any of their submissions bring forth a challenge of any kind to this contention. Consequently, the Commissioner finds that in light of petitioners' statement and the fact that the Board's representation that there is no current member of the Association to whom the policy applies remained undisputed by petitioners, the ALJ's initial decision was based upon sufficient reason to support the conclusion that the Association did not have standing to bring the within petition.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the initial decision, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the ALJ dismissing the instant Petition of Appeal and adopts it as the final decision in this matter.

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 2, 1993

Decided by the State Board of Education, December 1, 1993

Decided by the Appellate Division, October 16, 1995

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Bucceri and Pincus (Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Frank N. D'Ambra, Esq., of Counsel)

On December 1, 1993, the State Board of Education affirmed the decision of the Commissioner of Education that petitioners in this case did not have the standing to challenge a policy adopted by the Ridgewood Board of Education which limits the employment of supplemental teachers to two consecutive years.

DEC. 6, 1995

On October 16, 1995, the Appellate Division reversed our decision, finding that the petitioning association had an interest in protecting the employment status of prospective members sufficient to accord it representational standing to challenge the Board's policy. The Court also concluded that the professional status and involvement of the two individual teachers was sufficient to support their standing. Accordingly, the Court remanded the matter for proceedings on the merits.

We, in turn, remand this case to the Commissioner of Education for such additional proceedings as required to resolve the matter. We do not retain jurisdiction.

Record Closed: June 3, 1993 Decided: June 22, 1993

OAL DKT. NOS. CSV 5949-92 and EDU 7810-92

BEFORE RALPH J. TOLOMEO, ALJ:

The first matter of this consolidated proceeding, OAL DKT. NO. CSV 5949-92, was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing on August 4, 1992. The matter involves Dwayne Cressinger's appeal of disciplinary action below which determined that charges of insubordination, neglect of duty and being absent without leave were sustained. The penalty imposed was that of removal, effective March 20, 1992.

This matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge George Perselay and scheduled for hearing by him.

Thereafter, Dwayne Cressinger filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of the Department of Education of the State of New Jersey alleging that in addition to the protections Cressinger may have under the Civil Service Laws, that as a tenured custodian employed by the Newark Board of Education, petitioner/appellant could only be dismissed through the process required by the Tenured Employee's Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, et seq. The petition was filed with the Commissioner on June 2, 1992 and forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on October 7, 1992. The matter was assigned OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7810-92 and assigned to the undersigned. Thereafter, I scheduled this matter for hearing for June 24, 1993.

Shortly thereafter, I was apprised of the Civil Service Appeal (OAL DKT. NO. CSV 5949-92) by the attorneys for the parties who requested that these matters be consolidated. The request for consolidation was granted.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date of June 24, 1993, the parties advised that the issues in dispute were settled. They have submitted a Settlement Agreement which sets forth the terms of the settlement.

Among other things, specifically in paragraphs 6 and 7, the parties state:

> ... 6. The parties recognize that the provisions in this agreement are subject to approval by the Merit System Board and the New Jersey Department of Education and if said agreement is not approved by both the Merit System Board and the New Jersey Department of Education, this action shall be reinstated within the Office of Administrative Law and the parties shall be entitled to demand the hearing on said matter. It is also expressly agreed that the question of whether the Merit System Board and/or New Jersey Department of Education has a predominant interest in this appeal has not been decided by this agreement and that unless both the Merit System (sic. Board) and the New Jersey Department of Education approve of said agreement, both appeals shall be reinstated. After such a reinstatement, the issue of predominant interest in this appeal will be addressed, but the issue need not be addressed at this time, it is expressly reserved.

7. Upon the final approval of said agreement by both the Merit System Board and the Department of Education, the agreement shall be deemed to be a withdrawal of Dwayne Cressinger's appeals to the Merit System Board and the New Jersey Department of Education and no cost shall be sought with respect to said appeals from either party.

From the foregoing, I have reviewed the record in this matter and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with both the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD and the DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the MERIT SYSTEM BOARD, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Merit System Board does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

ADDITIONALLY,

this recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DWAYNE CRESSINGER, Petitioner V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, Respondent.	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties having agreed that the above captioned matters should be fully and finally resolved and that all charges brought against Petitioner Dwayne Cressinger in the above referenced actions and as set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action issued by Respondent Board of Education of the City of Newark (hereinafter the "Board") on or about March 4, 1992 should be resolved and deemed settled as the parties agree that in the interest of resolving this matter without further delay, extensive effort and cost, and for the mutual consideration set forth this Agreement, the parties hereby settle this matter in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

1. The charges that are the subject of this appeal will not be considered in any subsequent disciplinary matter for the purpose of "progressive discipline" or in the imposition of any penalty. It is expressly agreed that the Respondent Board shall not consider or not give affect to this Settlement Agreement herein or to said charges in its decision to seek discipline against Mr. Cressinger for any alleged infraction that occurs and/or is charged after the execution of this Agreement. It is also stipulated and agreed to that no disciplinary charges have been instituted, are being considered, or are presently pending against Dwayne Cressinger other than those set forth in the above referenced appeal and those described in paragraph 2 of this Agreement.

2. Notwithstanding the terms set forth in paragraph 1, the parties agree that the charges that are the subject of this appeal and the time that Mr. Cressinger serves as a leave of absence without pay as set forth in paragraph 5 of this Agreement shall be considered a suspension for the purposes of progressive discipline if and only if the Newark Board of Education is able to sustain the disciplinary charges and penalty that was imposed by the Board in the matter that has been captioned as Cressinger v. Newark Board of Eduction, OAL Docket No. CSV-9774-91. In the event the Board is not able to meet the above conditions, for whatever reason, the terms of paragraph 1 of this Agreement shall be followed.

3. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed or construed to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party to this Agreement.

4. In consideration for settling this matter and for the payment of monies referred to in paragraph 5, Dwayne Cressinger agrees to accept a leave of absence without pay from March 4, 1992 until September 4, 1992. Said time shall be deemed to be a leave of absence without pay unless the City meets the conditions set forth in paragraph 2 of this Agreement.

5. The parties further agree that Dwayne Cressinger shall be paid a sum equal to back wages for the time period from September 4, 1992 through December 21, 1992 and that he shall be credited for all fringe benefits including but not limited to health insurance, pension credits and any other benefits to which he is entitled pursuant to his collective bargaining agreement and/or City Ordinance, Board policy and regulations, State Law, or Federal Law. Said payments shall include deductions that are normally taken from an employee's paycheck and shall be made within four weeks of approval of said agreement by the Merit System Board and New Jersey Department of Education.

6. The parties recognize that the provisions in this Agreement are subject to approval by the Merit System Board and the New Jersey Department of Education and if said Agreement is not approved by both the Merit System Board and the New Jersey Department of Education, this action shall be reinstated within the Office of Administrative Law and the parties shall be entitled to demand a hearing on said matter. It is also expressly agreed that the question of whether the Merit System Board and/or New Jersey Department of Education has a predominant interest in this appeal has not been decided by this Agreement and that unless both the Merit System and New Jersey Department of Education approve of said Agreement, both appeals shall be reinstated. After such a reinstatement, the issue of predominant interest in this appeal will be addressed, but the issue need not be addressed at this time, it is expressly reserved.

7. Upon the final approval of said Agreement by both the Merit System Board and Department of Education, the Agreement shall be deemed to be a withdrawal of Dwayne Cressinger's appeals to the Merit System Board and New Jersey Department of Education and no cost shall be sought with respect to said appeals from either party.

8. The parties agree that this document represents a full understanding of what is agreed to between them, that they are satisfied with the services of respective counsel, and that no actions will be taken in response to or retaliation for said agreement or filing of the above-captioned appeals.

9. The Board through its representatives and counsel, represents and acknowledges that the individual(s) executing this Settlement Agreement on behalf of Respondent Board of Eduction of the City of Newark have the authority to enter into this Settlement Agreement and that they have obtained the approval of appropriate individuals and/or entities at the Board of Education of the City of Newark.

10. The parties agree and stipulate that they will not file any exceptions to this Agreement before the Merit System Board or New Jersey Department of Education and that if said Agreement is approved by both the Merit System Board and New Jersey Department of Education, no appeal will be filed to the Appellate Division. Notwithstanding the above, the parties shall be permitted to file an appropriate action for the purposes of enforcing that party's right under this Agreement.

DECISION ON MOTION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5470-93
AGENCY NO. 199-6/93

G. & G. ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS, INC. AND REESE CONSTRUCTION CO., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON AND ALLEN-MARTINOVICH ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS, Respondents.

Bruce R. Demeter, Esq., for petitioners (Simon & Demeter, attorneys)

Frederick W. Hardt, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioners seek rejection of respondent Allen-Martinovich's bid for certain electrical work in the Pemberton Public Schools and award of the same to themselves. The petitioners allege Allen-Martinovich's bid exceeded its prequalification dollar amount; the respondent's Notice of Classification was improperly submitted; the respondent did not include the dollar amount of uncompleted contract work in its bid; the respondent did not identify Division of Building and Construction (DBC) classified subcontractors; the respondent failed to list three similar projects, and the respondent was late to a mandatory pre-bid meeting.

The respondent denies all allegations or, in the alternative, asserts that any irregularities were waivable.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by filing of a motion for emergency relief with a request for expedited hearing. The Department of Education transmitted the matter on June 10, 1993 to the Office of Administrative Law for determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through - 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through - 13.

Oral argument on the motion was heard at the Office of Administrative Law facility in Mercerville on Thursday, June 17, 1993.

ARGUMENTS

Petitioners

The petitioners assert they observed errors in the Allen-Martinovich bid. Specifically, the total amount bid exceeded Allen-Martinovich's prequalification limits established by DBC. Bid documents are required to be within DBC limits. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26, a Board of Education shall accept bids only from persons qualified by DBC. Only qualified bidders can be recognized. Further, Allen-Martinovich's certification was not submitted in a separate envelope as required. This requirement is in place for an obvious reason. If a bidder is not qualified, there is no need to open and review her or his bid.

The contract is made of several parts. However, bids were solicited as one proposal. The respondent's exceeds its qualification limits. The Board issued separate contracts, each for amounts less than the respondent's qualifications limits. The matter should not have gone that far. The Board should not have accepted the bid in the first place. The statutes do not contemplate breaking up a contract. Rather, they are aimed at keeping bidding on level ground in the public interest.

Interpretations the Board received from DBC are off the point. The focus should be on the acceptance of the bid. The Board has disadvantaged other qualified bidders.

If the respondent was the low bidder on all ten subcontracts, it would have exceeded its DBC qualification. The bid process is of utmost importance and any

> Each facility shall be bid as separate projects with an overall construction bid. Each bidder shall be required to submit bid proposals on a minimum of three (3) facilities of their choice. Selected facilities have been scheduled to begin after asbestos abatement projects by others or shall be conducted in phases as indicated in the Project Manual.

The paragraph is quite clear and not reasonably susceptible of more than one meaning. Common sense, common experience and the clear wording all indicate no requirement that the entire electrical upgrade be bid. To the extent the petitioners read such a requirement into the language, they err.

Similarly, without more, there is no reason to apply the prequalification limit to the amounts bid. Common experience and common sense dictate that the total amount of bids awarded must be within the prequalification limit, when added to the amount of uncompleted contracts.

In deciding a motion of this type, it is necessary to consider immediacy of harm, irreparability of harm, likelihood of prevailing on the merits and to balance the relative harm worked by granting or denying the motion. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). It is also necessary to make all fair inferences in favor of the party not the maker of the motion.

In this case, harm, if any, might be immediate because contracts are soon to be let. I am not persuaded of irreparability because a money judgment could make petitioner whole. The question of prevailing on the merits, although by no means certain, seems on the basis of the arguments to tip slightly in the respondent's favor. As to relative harm, the Board has made much of its asbestos plans being contingent upon the electrical work that is the subject of this case. If the Board's procedures in this matter were patently wrong, no amount of pending work could overcome a decision against the Board. The relative harm worked upon the petitioners, as has already been determined, can be mitigated by a money judgment obtained in a proper forum.

Having considered and weighed carefully the arguments of counsel, I DETERMINE that the motion for emergent relief and stay of board action must be DENIED. It is so ORDERED.

Although the respondents successfully defend against the motion, the decision is no means one-sided. The respondent Allen-Martinovich made several mistakes.

Had any of them been material, the motion could have been granted. The Pemberton Board of Education, boards of education and all prospective bidders are reminded that the practice of competitive bidding for public contracts is rooted deep in sound principals of public policy. The purpose is to secure competition and the statutes directed toward the goal are for the benefit of the taxpayers and not the bidders. Hillside Tp. v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317 (1957). No party should rely on a board's ability to waive certain requirements. Strict adherence to the bidding statutes and rules is the minimum conduct, not the maximum, expected of all involved in the bidding process.

It is further ORDERED that this matter proceed to plenary hearing unless earlier withdrawn.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

STUART FIFE,
Petitioner,
v.
HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Stuart Fife, petitioner, pro se

James P. Granello, Esq., Hunterdon Central Board of Education, for respondent

Roger W. Frost, for Intervenor, Garden State Office Systems and Equipment

BEFORE DANIEL B. Mc KEOWN, ALJ, t/a:

The Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education (Board) solicited public bids for furniture, finishes and interior construction for its high school library. The specifications divided the entire project into five sections including library shelving, general furnishings, cabinetry, interior finishes and construction, and signage.. Petitioner Stuart Fife, who is the president of Library Interiors, Inc., submitted a bid for library shelving and for cabinetry. The Board also received bids for the library shelving from Garden State Office Equipment and for cabinetry from F.L. Feldman Associates. According to a schedule of bids received by the Board, Garden State Office Equipment was low bidder for the shelving and Feldman Associates was the low bidder for cabinetry. However, petitioner Fife on behalf of Library Interiors says that neither Garden State Office Systems nor Feldman Associates are prequalified pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26 to perform the work required. Petitioner Fife claims that because the lowest bids received by the Board for the shelving and cabinetry exceeds $20,000, pre-qualification is a necessary condition for the Board to award the bids. Petitioner Fife who is pre-qualified seeks a stay of any action to be taken by the Board to award the bids for shelving and cabinetry to Garden State Office Equipment and Feldman Associates, respectively, until he can be heard on the entire matter.

Oral argument on petitioner's application for a stay was heard June 23, 1993, at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), Mercerville. Petitioner Fife was heard at that time, as was counsel for the Board, and Roger W. Frost, on behalf of Garden State Office Systems and Equipment. No appearance was made on behalf of F.L. Feldman Associates. For the reasons that follow, petitioner's application for a stay of any action to be taken by the Board must be granted pending a complete and final disposition on the merits of the case.

FACTS

Certain background facts are not in dispute between the parties and they are as follow. The specifications (C-1) for this project were prepared for the Board by Globus Design Associates. While the Notice to the Bidders at the very beginning of the specifications state "all rules and regulations set forth by the State of New Jersey regarding municipal and government bidding" must be followed, and various legal formalities are set forth within the bidding documents such as instructions to bidders, general conditions, noncollusion affidavit, affirmative action, and so on, no mention is made in the specifications in regard to pre-qualification. Nevertheless, petitioner Fife on behalf of Library Interiors submitted a bid (C-2) for the shelving and cabinetry components of the project. Petitioner included in his bid documents evidence of pre-qualification under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26 to submit bids in an aggregate amount of $400,000 in the classification of school furnishings as issued by the Department of the Treasury, Division of Building and Construction. Neither Garden State Office Systems and Equipment nor F.L. Feldman have been prequalified by the Department of the Treasury under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26.

It is noted that if the bid submitted for shelving by Garden State Office Systems and Equipment were invalidated for lack of pre-qualification, as well as the bid of Feldman Associates for the cabinetry for lack of pre-qualification, Library Interiors would have been the next lowest bidder in both categories.

It is represented through counsel for the Board that while the Board has determined to which bidders various awards will be made, it has elected not to make that information public until a ruling issues on petitioner's application for the stay.

ARGUMENTS

Petitioner Fife argues that he believes N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-27 et seq. requires bidders whose proposals are in excess of $20,000 must be prequalified and classified in accordance with law.

The Board contends that petitioner's application for a stay, or emergency relief must be denied for several reasons. 1. Petitioner failed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5 which requires a motion for a stay to be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which addresses the standards to be met for such relief under Crowe v. DeGioia 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Furthermore, the Board contends, petitioner fails to show irreparable harm, he fails to show all the material facts are uncontroverted, that the legal issues are settled as a matter of law, and, the Board says, petitioner fails to show a reasonable probability of prevailing on the merits of the case.

While the Board acknowledges N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26 requires bidders to be prequalified for public work in excess of $20,000, it claims that "public work" is not to be defined in the whole of the Public Schools Contracts Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-1.1 et seq. Furthermore, it also relies upon a certification filed by Susan Globus wherein she states that she believes pre-qualification is not necessary for this king of project.

The Board also claims that it would suffer undue hardship if the relief requested by petitioner were granted because it would have to start its improvement project anew.

ANALYSIS

In regard to the Board's argument that "public work" is nowhere defined, the Public Schools Contracts Law defines "contracts" at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-2 as "contracts or agreements for the performance of work or the furnishing or hiring of services, materials, or supplies as distinguished from the contracts of employment." At paragraph K of the same statute, "work" is defined as "services and any other activity of a tangible or intangible nature performed or assumed pursuant to a contract or agreement with a board of education."

N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26 is mandatory when it says:

> E. Every board of education shall require that all persons proposing to bid on any contract requiring public advertisement for bids with the Board for public work, the entire cost whereof will exceed $20,000.00, shall first be classified as to the character and amount of public work on which they shall be qualified to submit bids. So long as such requirement is in effect, the board of education shall accept such bids only from persons qualified in accordance with such classification.

"Public work" is, for purposes of the Public Schools Contracts Law, the performance of work or the furnishing or hiring of services, materials or supplies. I CONCLUDE that this project is a public work which, by law, requires bidders to be prequalified. See Bil Jim Const. v. Bd. of Educ., 236 N.J. Super. 603 (Law Div. 1989).

In this case, the necessary facts for purposes of petitioner's application for a stay are not in dispute. The lowest bidders for shelving and cabinetry, respectively, are not prequalified. Should the Board award bids to these two lowest bidders, neither of whom are pre-qualified, irreparable harm would be suffered by petitioner Fife in that he is pre-qualified for the work solicited and the public at large would suffer irreparable harm because the Board would have awarded bids directly contrary to the Public Schools Contracts Law. These facts and the law show petitioner has a reasonable probability of prevailing on the ultimate merits of the case and while a stay of any action by the Board to presently award bids may create some hardship to it in terms of finishing the project, that hardship is insignificant to the larger issue of insuring that whichever bids are awarded by it are awarded consistent with law.

Therefore, petitioner's request for a temporary stay against the Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education from awarding bids regarding the shelving and cabinetry portions of this project is hereby GRANTED. A plenary hearing shall be conducted as quickly as calendars permit.

It is so ORDERED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by, COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record and Initial Decision on Motion for Emergent Relief have been reviewed. The Board filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Among the exceptions filed by the Board is a statement that:

> On June 28, 1993, the respondent Board of Education acted to reject all bids and rebid the project. See Notice to Bidders Attached. All previous bidders, including the petitioner, were advised of this action. See N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22 and letter dated June 29, 1993 to petitioner attached.
>
> In light of the fact that the temporary stay would not take effect until 45 days from the date of the initial ruling and that the stay only prevented the Board of Education from awarding bids (see slip p. 4), it is respectfully submitted that this matter has become moot by reason of the rejection of all bids opened on May 21, 1993, which was the issue in dispute.
>
> Therefore, the Commissioner of Eduction should decline to enforce this stay. (emphasis in text)
> (Exceptions, at p. 3)

Having carefully considered the record including the exceptions, the documents submitted as attachments to such exceptions, and noting that no reply exceptions were filed disputing the exceptions recited above, the Commissioner finds and determines that the instant matter has been rendered moot by application of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. Accordingly, the merits of the arguments raised by the parties in this matter are not considered in the disposition of this case, but rather, the matter is dismissed, with prejudice.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought declaratory judgment that contractual custodial tenure does not require adherence to Tenure Employees Hearing Act to effectuate dismissals and that Commissioner of Education therefore has no jurisdiction over custodians' terminations.

Citing Appellate Division decision in Wright, affirmed by Supreme Court, ALJ found that contractual tenure gave rise after three years to an indefinite appointment which in turn triggered operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. ALJ therefore concluded tenure provisions of the school laws applied to respondents.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Record Closed: May 10, 1993 Decided: June 22, 1993

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

This matter arises out of an appeal filed by petitioner with the Commissioner of Education seeking a declaratory judgment under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The facts are undisputed and the parties have filed cross-motions for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

The question presented is whether respondents' members attain tenure under the school laws by virtue of a collective bargaining agreement between the parties granting tenure-like protections.

Petitioner employs custodians and custodian supervisors to maintain its buildings. These employees are hired for fixed one-year periods generally beginning with the start of the school year and ending with the completion of the school year. Respondents represent custodians and custodian supervisors in the district. The collective bargaining agreement which presently governs the parties provides in Article IV.C.:

> No [custodian or custodian supervisor] shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank or compensation, or deprived of any professional advantage without just cause.

Article XXXIV.L.3. of the agreement provides:

> All custodial personnel shall receive tenure of position during good behavior and efficiency after the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive years in the district.

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.

Petitioner argues that any job security or tenure-like rights which may accrue to the membership of respondents' associations derive from and are governed by their contract; these are outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction and the statutory tenure protections provided under the school laws. Respondents believe that the grant of tenure in their collective bargaining agreement brings their members within the ambit of the school laws.

The arguments turn on the decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court in Wright v. Board of Educ. of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112 (1985), and the Commissioner's decision in Lang v. Holmdel Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8453-82 (June 7, 1983), adopted, Comm'r of Educ. (July 22, 1983). In Wright the Court read N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 to provide a mechanism for immediate tenure and for the complete denial of tenure, depending upon whether the appointment was for an indefinite or fixed term. The Court held that the section did not preempt negotiated agreements between these poles and that the provision in question - tenure after three years of employment - fell within this spectrum. The opinion seeks primarily to make this point and to place the case into the context of public sector scope of negotiations cases. See, In re IFPTE Local 195 v. State, 88 N.J. 393 (1982); State v. Supervisory Employees Ass'n, 78 N.J. 54 (1978). Petitioner argues that the Court did not reach our question, and thus that we are governed by the Commissioner's prior decision in Lang. I do not agree. While petitioner points out correctly that the Court does not directly address whether the tenure obtained by Mr. Wright is protected by the school laws or by the terms of his contract, my reading of the opinion is that statutory tenure was assumed. This is more apparent from a review of the Appellate Division decision, which was not disturbed by the Supreme Court. Judge Joelson wrote:

> The manner in which a school district may grant tenure under the statute is by appointing a janitor for an indefinite term. Therefore, the provision in the contract that "[a]ll members of the bargaining unit shall receive tenure after three years of employment" obligated respondent to appoint Wright for an indefinite term after he had completed three years of employment.
> . . . We add that the negotiation of a tenure not specifically granted or forbidden by statute has been held valid. Plumbers & Steamfitters v. Woodbridge Bd. of Ed., 159 N.J. Super. 83 (App. Div. 1978).
>
> [Wright v. Board of Educ. of East Orange, 194 N.J. Super. 181, 184-85 (App. Div. 1983)]

Thus, the Appellate Division held directly that contractual tenure gave rise after three years to an indefinite appointment, which in turn triggered the statute.

The decision in Lang precedes the Appellate Division's opinion in Wright. There a janitor employed under fixed annual contracts contended inter alia that he obtained statutory tenure after three years by virtue of a collective bargaining agreement, and as such, his termination without resort to the due process provided under the school laws was improper. The Commissioner, affirming an OAL opinion, held that tenure-like status achieved through collective bargaining was subject to the process and protections negotiated by the parties under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 to -29, and was distinct from statutory tenure arising under the school laws. Lang cannot be harmonized with Wright. Nowhere does the Appellate Division distinguish between tenure and tenure-like rights nor does it imply that tenure negotiated by contract must proceed exclusively under the process provided by the contract. The Supreme Court opinion says simply that the parties can negotiate tenure so long as it is not above the statutory maximum or below the statutory minimum and affirms the Appellant Division's holding "that the statute did not stand in the way of the valid negotiation of tenure" Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 117. In failing to make the Lang distinction in a like case, it appears that the Supreme Court accepted the Appellate Division's premise that negotiated tenure was statutory tenure.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that the tenure provisions of the school laws apply to respondents.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
OLD BRIDGE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION AND OLD BRIDGE CUSTODIAN SUPERVISORS ASSOCIATION,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as was a reply thereto by respondents.

In its exceptions, the Board reiterates its reliance on Lang, supra, and renews its argument that the Supreme Court in Wright, supra, did not directly address the question of whether the tenure obtained by a custodian through contract is protected by the school laws or by the terms of the contract, thus placing it outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction and the requirements of the Tenure Employees Hearing Act (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.). The interpretation espoused in the initial decision, the Board avers, incorrectly equates a contractual right with a statutory one and improperly permits a private agreement between a board and its employees to expand the scope of a statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3) which on its face clearly applies to only the two extremes mentioned within it, that is, to immediate tenure upon hiring or to no tenure at all.

Respondents in reply renew their argument that the Board has misconstrued Wright, supra, which was properly interpreted by the ALJ, and that Lang, supra, and other decisional law cited by the Board in support of its position predated Wright and was superseded by it.

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, notwithstanding that the Supreme Court did not directly address the question raised herein, the appellate ruling it affirmed plainly states that contractual provisions granting tenure after a certain period of employment obligate a board to thereafter appoint affected custodians for an indefinite term, as such appointment is the statutorily specified mechanism by which a school district may permissibly grant tenure. Wright, supra, at 184-85, cited in the Initial Decision, ante. This construction, in the Commissioner's view, clearly envisions any grant of janitorial tenure, including tenure of the "in-between" type at issue herein, as statutorily based, notwithstanding that it may be contractually effectuated. It then follows that proceedings to terminate are subject to the requirements of the Tenure Employees Hearing Act, and that disputes arising out of attempts to terminate tenured custodians are generally within the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein and the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and attendant tenure law are deemed to apply to respondents, notwithstanding that their tenure was contractually granted.

Record Closed: June 25, 1993 Decided: June 25, 1993

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on September 3, 1992 when, in accordance with the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to 18.1, the Board of Education of the Township of East Brunswick (hereinafter petitioner) certified to the Commissioner charges of incompetence against tenured teaching staff member John Canary (hereinafter respondent). An Answer on behalf of respondent was filed on September 9, 1992, and on October 7, 1992, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on November 5, 1992, at which time trial dates were set for March and April 1993. The first trial date, March 19, 1993, was adjourned at the request of petitioner's attorney. On March 26, 1993, the parties appeared, and following discussion between them they advised that it was their intention to enter into a stipulation of settlement resolving this matter.

The signed stipulation of settlement, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof, as if set forth herein at length, was received on June 25, 1993, where upon the record closed.

I have reviewed the terms of the settlement and I CONCLUDE that the present case is one which is appropriate for settlement pursuant to the principles annunciated in Cardonic v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, EDC 7093-81, 7094-81, decided April 6, 1983 by the State Board of Education. The charges herein reveal no allegation of affirmative wrong doing. Further, although the decision is exclusively one for the State Board of Examiners to make, the charges do not appear to be of the degree of seriousness such as to require action by the State Board of Examiners for revocation or suspension of respondent's certificate.

In addition, if the tenure charges were to be upheld following a hearing on the merits, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-36 respondent would forfeit his rights to deferred retirement benefits based upon his many years of creditable service in the pension fund. Although the Legislature has provided for absolute forfeiture of pension rights for those members removed for cause before they are eligible to actually receive retirement benefits, a voluntary resignation prior to removal for cause will permit respondent to avoid the effect of the mandatory forfeiture provisions on his deferred retirement benefits. Widdis v. Retirement System, 238 N.J. Super. 70 (App. Div. 1990). Preservation of pension rights is a legitimate concern for the Commissioner when considering proceedings involving tenure charges. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967).

For all of these reasons, I CONCLUDE that the public interest does not require a plenary hearing to fully determine the issues in this case, and I therefore recommend to the Commissioner of Education the approval of this settlement as an appropriate voluntary resolution of this matter entirely consistent with the law and philosophy expressed in Cardonic v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, supra.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Agency Dkt. No. 402-12/90

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN CANARY, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWN OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties to the above matter have agreed to an amicable resolution of this litigation. The resolution is based upon agreement as to the following facts:

1. The Respondent, John Canary, is a tenured teacher of English employed by the Petitioner, School District of the Town of East Brunswick.

2. Commencing with the 1989-90 school year, a series of disagreements arose between the Respondent and his supervisors and administrators concerning an alleged failure to meet his individual improvement plan, inadequate and/or lack of planning, lack of organization as it relates to instructional management and ineffective and inconsistent classroom management. These allegations over a period of the school years 1989-90, 1990-91 an 1991-92 led to the filing of the within tenure charges against the

Respondent.

3. These charges arose from the fact that the Respondent had philosophical differences with his administrators and supervisors concerning classroom performance and the preparation of lesson plans which led the Respondent despite directives from his administrators and supervisors to act in the following manner which he believed was in the best interest of the students:

(a) The Board of Education required that English students be given a large number of varying types of compositions during the school year which were to be maintained in writing folders. The Respondent agreed with the Petitioner as to the necessity of assigning frequent and various types of writing assignments to his students, however he believed that the time spent in class maintaining the writing folders was time lost from instruction. Thus, the Respondent's students' writing folders did not contain the variety and assortment of materials that his supervisors required be maintained in those folders.

(b) The Respondent's supervisors required that the Respondent focus on certain aspects each day of the literature the students were studying. Respondent believed this to be an ineffective approach to teaching, and preferred to focus on an entire story, highlighting points of view and techniques as appeared appropriate during the course of the lesson.

(c) The Respondent's supervisors required that the Respondent's lesson plans be specifically written in a specific form for each class taught. The Respondent did not believe this type of lesson plan was educationally useful; he preferred to writ plans which allowed him freedom to react in the classroom to the students and their reactions to any given lesson.

(d) The Respondent's supervisors required that the Respondent write the objectives of each days lesson on the blackboard for the students. The Respondent did not always do so as he believed this stifled the creativity and imagination of the students; as well as that his students were able to ask questions about what was going on if they did not understand.

4. The parties agree that the facts in this matter are not in dispute; as set forth above the Respondent's supervisors had certain requirements as to the planning and classroom performance of the Respondent; the Respondent chose to perform otherwise based on philosophical differences with his supervisors. The facts bein clear, there would be no public purpose served by requiring both parties to go through the time and expense of litigation.

5. Based on the scheduled hearing dates in this matter, which would continue through Thursday, April 22, 1993, the writing of briefs arguing the facts and the law on behalf of both parties, and the 45 days given to both the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner to issue decisions, it is clear that no matter what the result of this hearing, the Respondent would be paid his full salary and benefits less mitigation through the end of June, 1993.

Based upon the above factual agreement, the parties hereby agree to resolve this matter on the following basis:

1. John Canary will resign his position of employment as teacher with the East Brunswick Board of Education effective June 30, 1993;

2. The Board of Education will withdraw the tenure charges in this matter;

3. The Respondent will receive his current rate of pay through the date of his resignation less mitigation by alternate earnings. Upon his resignation, he will be compensated for unused accumulated sick leave days in accordance with the formula contained in the negotiated agreement between the East Brunswick Education Association and the East Brunswick Board of Education for 1992-1993.

4. The terms of this agreement are expressly conditioned upon the review and approval of the Commissioner of Education. In the event the approval of the agency head is not given, the terms of this agreement shall be void and have no force and effect whatsoever.

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on December 21, 1992, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A prehearing conference was scheduled for April 19, 1993. At that time the attorneys for both parties advised that an action which Mary Roberts (hereinafter respondent) had filed against, inter alia, The School District of The Township of Clinton (hereinafter petitioner) in the United States District Court prior to the commencement of the within proceedings was about to be settled and that the Order which the federal district court judge was expected to sign concluding that case would order the withdrawal by petitioner of the within action.

By cover letter dated June 4, 1993, counsel for petitioner transmitted a copy of the consent order entered by Clarkson S. Fisher, United States District Court Judge, in Mary Roberts v. Barbara Lentine, David Cahall, James O'Shea, Judith Ferguson, Nancy Simmonds, Kathleen Law, Carol Mikola, Frank Kennedy, Cynthia Williams, Charles Rebick, Joseph Trombetta, Ronald Twine, Robert Harrington and the Clinton Township Board of Education, Civil Action #92-1734 (CSF). For the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the within matter is WITHDRAWN and the Clerk of the Office of Administrative Law is hereby ORDERED to return the matter to the Commissioner of Education for appropriate disposition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :

APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS : DECISION

COUNTY. :

_____:

For Petitioner, Philip E. Stern, Esq. (Rand, Algeier, Tosti and Woodruff)

For Respondent, John P. Jansen, Esq. (Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander & Ferdon)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 10, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Netcong (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 29, 1993, the Morris County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $147,104 in current expense which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Borough of Netcong defeated both the proposed General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year in the amount of $1,695,498 and the General Fund cap waiver request in the amount of $147,104. Upon review of the defeated maximum permissible budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the governing body of the Borough failed to certify the amount necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education, so that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-38, on May 28, 1993, the Commissioner determined that $1,695,498 in General Fund tax levy was necessary for the district to provide a thorough and efficient education and duly certified said amount to the Morris County Board of Taxation. Accordingly, no further Board action to appeal the voters' defeat of the base budget was necessary, and earlier filed appeal papers were duly withdrawn.

With respect to the defeated cap waiver, which remained as a pending matter before the Commissioner, on July 9, 1993, the Borough advised that it did not wish to participate in the appeal process, so that the matter proceeded thereafter on an uncontested basis.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items specifically determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Grade 1-4 Teacher	11-120-100-101	$35,000
Salary/Benefits	11-XXX-290-290	5,000
Staff Salary/Benefits	11-110-100-101	35,000
4-year-old Kindergarten	11-XXX-290-290	5,000
Speech Services	11-218-100-101	10,000
Home Economics/Industrial Arts	11-130-100-101	10,310
Computers	11-130-100-101	6,661
ESL	11-3XX-100-101	6,000

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Co-curricular programs	11-402-100-100	4,133
Music Instruction, part-time	11-130-100-101	15,000
Library, part-time	11-000-222-100	15,000
	Total Cap Waiver Request:	$147,104

With regard to these line-item requests, in its initial filings and position statement the Board presents the following justifications:

Additional Teacher 1-4. Increases in district enrollment in these grades necessitate hiring of an additional teacher in order to avoid increasing class sizes to levels (c. 34 students) which are unacceptable given the nature of the student population served.

Early Kindergarten. The nature of the district's student body (District Factor "D") makes socialization and readiness development prior to Kindergarten essential for student success. Loss of cap monies will result in elimination of this vital, proven program.

Speech Services/ESL. Loss of cap wa r funding will eliminate services to approximately 48 speech students and at least 10 ESL students needing correctional attention in order to succeed in the district's educational program.

Home Economics/Industrial Arts. Cap monies are necessary to maintain these programs, which are the only two vocational options available in a district where many students are not academically inclined and which are already operating at bare-bones level.

Co-curricular Activities/Music. The district has only minimal offerings in these areas, which, in the absence of cap monies, will be reduced beyond feasibility in a community where students do not have many opportunities for participation or exposure elsewhere.

Library/Computers. Loss of cap monies will result in reduction or elimination of already modest programs that are essential for developing the study skills, research ability and access to technology that district students need to succeed in the contemporary workplace.

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the documentation provided by the district in support of the necessity for the cap waiver funds, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Netcong School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993

Accordingly, the Morris County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Netcong School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $147,104 which results in a total General Fund tax levy of $1,842,602.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured school nurse whose contract was not renewed for 1991-92 school year, alleged she was entitled to health insurance coverage pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 when she filed for retirement effective July 1, 1991.

ALJ found since petitioner did not have tenure with respondent and she had not been offered a contract for the 1991-92 school year, she had no continuing relationship with respondent after June 30, 1991. Thus, when she retired on July 1, 1991, pursuant to provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:66-43, she retired as a member of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, but she was not a retired employee of respondent's district. Therefore, petitioner was properly denied continuance of health coverage. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6209-92
AGENCY DKT. NO. 284-6/92

MARION MILLER,
Petitioner,
v.
SOUTHERN REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., for petitioner (Klausner, Hunter, Cige & Seid, attorneys)

Robert D. Budesa, Esq., for respondent (Berry, Kagan & Sahradnik, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 19, 1993 Decided: July 1, 1993

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on June 23, 1992, with the filing of a petition of appeal by Marion Miller (hereinafter petitioner) seeking an order from the Commissioner of Education requiring the Southern Regional High School Board of Education (hereinafter respondent) to permit petitioner to continue health insurance benefits coverages pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18.

An answer was filed on behalf of respondent on August 3, 1992, and on August 12, 1992, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A prehearing conference was conducted by telephone conference call on October 29, 1992, at which time the parties determined that they would file a joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision. Petitioner's motion papers were received on January 21, 1993. Respondent's motion papers were received on January 28, 1993. A reply on behalf of petitioner, including additional documentation, was received on February 9, 1993. No objection having been received from respondent, the documents, a copy of a letter from the Division of Pensions to petitioner, dated July 2, 1991, acknowledging receipt of her retirement application and a copy of a letter from the Division of Pensions to petitioner, dated November 14, 1991, advising that the Board of Trustees had approved her application for a service retirement, effective July 1, 1991, were marked as part of the record on February 23, 1993.

Thereafter, the undersigned wrote to both parties requesting to see a copy of the negotiated agreement which was in effect between respondent and its education association for the 1990-91 school year and also a copy of petitioner's last employment contract with respondent. By letter dated April 22, 1993, counsel for respondent provided the two documents. A letter dated May 6, 1993, from petitioner's counsel, objecting to additional documents which were included with the two which had been requested, was received on May 11, 1993. The undersigned having determined that all of the additional documents transmitted by respondent's counsel were relevant, notwithstanding that only two had been specifically requested, all of the additional documents were marked as part of the record on May 19, 1993, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of the within matter are not in dispute, and I therefore find the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner commenced employment with respondent as a school nurse on October 30, 1989. By letter dated March 28, 1991, respondent advised petitioner as follows:

> Due to new and stringent budgetary constraints imposed by the Quality Education Act, Southern Regional is forced to impose a reduction in force for the 1991-92 school year. Although you have made many contributions to Southern's students and staff, we will need to operate without your services next year. Therefore, at its April 18, 1991 meeting, the Board of Education will consider a recommendation to not renew your contract. If you would like to appear before the Board in either closed or open session, please notify Mr. Moran by April 17th.
> Your supervisor, principal, Dr. Daria and I will do all we can to assist you as you make plans for other professional opportunities during the next months.

Petitioner's contract of employment with respondent expired June 30, 1991, and it was not renewed. By letter dated July 2, 1991, the State of New Jersey Department of the Treasury, Division of Pensions, acknowledged receipt of petitioner's application for a service retirement and on November 14, 1991, the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund advised petitioner that, at its regular meeting on November 14, 1991, it had approved her application for service retirement effective July 1, 1991. By letter dated February 22, 1992, petitioner wrote to her former employer as follows:

> Dear School Board Members,
> This letter is written to formally notify the Board that I have followed through with my July 1, 1991 application for retirement since I was not able to find a position that was commensurate to mine that was eliminated due to budgetary problems at Southern.
>
> In addition to not having my contract renewed, I was doubly disappointed to find that the Board opted not to participate in the Early Retirement Incentive Program. This would have benefited me greatly as I am left only one year short of the necessary twenty-five to be eligible for the State Health Benefits (paid by the State).
>
> Therefore, in accordance with Public Law 1987, I would like the Board to know that I plan to continue to participate in Southern's medical group insurance plan until I reach medicare age."
>
> Very truly yours,
>
> Marion Miller

Respondent replied by letter dated March 30, 1992, advising that petitioner was eligible only to receive the benefits of C.O.B.R.A., that is, the continuation of the health insurance coverages for an eighteen-month period of time, inasmuch as respondent viewed petitioner's employment status as having been terminated pursuant to a reduction in force and not as a result of a service retirement. The within matter followed.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18, the statute relevant to a determination of the within matter, provides:

> The continuance of coverage after retirement of any employee shall be provided at such rates and under the conditions as shall be prescribed in the contract subject, however, to the requirements set forth in section 8 of P.L.1979, c. 391 (C. 18A:16-19). The contribution required of any retired employee toward the cost of such coverage may be paid by the employee to the local board of education or in such other manner as the local board of education shall direct.

Paragraph 12:6 of the negotiated agreement between respondent and Southern Regional Education Association, effective July 1, 1989 through June 30, 1992 provides:

> Retirees may enroll in the current insurance programs at the group rates and at the individual's own expense. If, in the event a carrier will not permit such coverage for retirees, the coverage will cease, but the parties will meet to explore alternatives, making every attempt to find a carrier who will permit such coverage for retirees.

"Retirees" does not appear to be defined, and retirement is not discussed elsewhere in the provisions of the agreement. It is clear, nevertheless, that on June 30, 1991, petitioner ceased to be an employee of respondent. Since she did not have tenure with respondent and she had not been offered a contract for the 1991-92 school year, she had no continuing relationship with respondent after June 30, 1991. Accordingly, when she retired on July 1, 1991, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:66-43, she retired as a member of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, but she was not a retired employee of respondent's district.

When petitioner's employment with respondent ended on June 30, 1991, she had several options. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A.18A:66-8, she could have chosen to remain a member of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund and returned to covered service within a period of ten years for continued membership in the Fund. Since she had reached sixty years of age, she could also file for a service retirement with the retirement system at any time; the fact that she chose July 1, 1991, as the effective date for her retirement does not make her a retired employee of respondent's district. Had she chosen August 1, or September 1, or October 1, 1991, the lack of an employment relationship would perhaps be clearer, but no different. In order to be a retired employee entitled to the benefits of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 petitioner would have had to select a retirement date prior to the expiration of her employment. Since the facts in this matter are otherwise, petitioner is not entitled to the relief which she seeks.

For all of the foregoing reasons, respondent's determination denying petitioner continuance of coverage pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 is hereby AFFIRMED and the within matter is dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 West State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially reiterate her argument made before the ALJ, i.e., that because she began the process of applying for retirement, which was to be effective July 1, 1991, on June 3, 1991 while employed by the District, she was clearly eligible for the continuation of all health insurance coverage after retirement pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds the petitioner's argument unpersuasive and fully concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that

> It is clear that on June 30, 1991, petitioner ceased to be an employee of respondent.
>
> In order to be a retired employee entitled to the benefits of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 petitioner would have had to select a retirement date prior to the expiration of her employment.
>
> (Initial Decision, at pp. 4-5)

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the decision of the Office of Administrative Law and adopts it as the final decision in this matter.

The Petition of Appeal is dismissed with prejudice.

AUGUST 11, 1993

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE BOROUGH OF ALPINE, BERGEN : DECISION COUNTY. :

For Petitioner, J. Dennis Kohler, Esq.

For Respondent, James P. Logan, Esq. (Logan & Logan)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 12, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Alpine (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 23, 1993, the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $98,649 in current expense and $235,000 in capital outlay ($333,649 total) which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Borough of Alpine defeated both the proposed General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year in the amount of $2,661,967 and the General Fund cap waiver request in the amount of $333,649. Upon review of the defeated maximum permissible budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council of the Borough certified the General Fund tax levy in the amount of $2,645,967, a $16,000 reduction which both the Board and the County Superintendent determined could be sustained without jeopardizing provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, thereby obviating the necessity for an appeal of the Borough's reduction to the maximum permissible budget.

With respect to the remaining issue of the defeated cap waiver, in an answer to the Board's petition filed on May 19, 1993, the Borough disputed the need for $52,000 of the proposed waiver, indicating that the district could still meet its thorough and efficient mandate with a $40,000 reduction in roof replacement costs (from $90,000 to $50,000) and a $12,000 reduction in architect fees (from $22,000 to $10,000).

On May 21, 1993 the Board submitted an amended petition setting forth that, upon consultation with the Borough, it agreed that the General Fund cap waiver request could be reduced by $52,000 as set forth above. Such reduction was agreed to by the County Superintendent. The Board, therefore, is now requesting approval of a cap waiver in the amount of $281,649, the need for which the Borough does not contest as indicated in the Answer filed to the original petition.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items, all of which were determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Salary Librarian	11-000-222-100	$ 20,000
Regular Tuition	11-000-100-561	47,280
Benefits Teacher of Handicapped	11-000-290-290	9,000
Transportation for Additional Special Education Students	11-000-270-514	22,369
	Total Current Expenses	$ 98,649

Capital Outlay	Account No.	Amount
Classroom Equipment	12-110-100-730(K)	$ 5,000
Classroom Equipment	12-120-100-730(1-5)	12,500
Classroom Equipment	12-130-100-730(6-8)	12,500
Professional Services	12-000-400-390	10,000*
Construction Services	12-000-400-450	143,000*
	Total Capital Outlay	$183,000
	Total Cap Waiver Request	$281,649

*The County Superintendent had originally approved these line items in the amounts of $22,000 and $183,000 respectively; the amounts given here reflect the $12,000 and $40,000 reductions later agreed to by him as discussed above.

With regard to these line-item requests, the Board presents the following justifications, all substantiated by supporting documentation which is incorporated herein by reference:

Librarian. The district presently has limited library services. As part of an ongoing effort to improve such services, which are deemed essential to the educational program, the district seeks to hire a part-time librarian at a cost of $20,000.

Regular Tuition. Additional students have enrolled in the district who must be sent to Tenafly High School at a tuition cost of $47,280 over and above base budget allowances.

Special Education Costs. A number of pupils recently enrolling in the district have entailed costs falling outside the scope of the special education cap waiver granted by the Commissioner for the district's base budget. Four require transportation to out-of-district placements at a cost of $22,369 over and above base budget transportation allowances, and an additional Resource Room teacher is needed to provide mandatory in-district services, the cost of whose benefits ($9,000) is not covered in the base budget.

Capital Outlay/Equipment. The district's State-approved multi-year comprehensive facilities and maintenance plan developed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:8-4.9 requires upgrading of instructional technology (computers, projectors, video recorders, televisions, etc.) at a total initial expenditure of $30,000 for grades K-8.

Capital Outlay/Construction and Professional Services. Engineering reports undertaken to ensure student safety have identified the need for roof replacement (first-phase cost $50,000), correction of hot water storage capability ($2,000), installation of temperature controls ($10,000), boiler replacement ($50,000) and installation of a new electrical service ($20,000); to these costs must be added related advertising/printing expenses of $1,000, for a total of $133,000, and architect fees (professional services) of $10,000.

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the documentation provided by the district in support of its request for the cap waiver funds, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for each of the areas it seeks to fund through cap waiver monies.

However, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding County Superintendent approval of the full amount of the Board's line-item request, the projects and costs comprising the district's capital outlay construction services line item (Account No. 12-000-400-450 above) do not total $143,000 as reckoned by the Board, but rather $133,000, leaving $10,000 unaccounted for in any manner. (This same error is found in the Board's original capital outlay cap waiver justification, which requests $235,000 but lists only $225,000 in expenditures.)

Therefore, the Commissioner finds and determines that $271,649 of the Board's requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Alpine School District; $10,000 of the Board's request, however, is denied for failure to meet this standard. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993

Accordingly, the Bergen County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Alpine School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $271,649 which results in a total General Fund tax levy of $2,917,616.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTHERN REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 11, 1993

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Klausner, Hunter & Seid
(Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Berry, Kagan & Sahradnik
(Robert D. Budesa, Esq., of Counsel)

Marion Miller (hereinafter "petitioner") commenced employment with the Board of Education of the Southern Regional High School District (hereinafter "Board") as a school nurse on October 30, 1989. In March 1991, petitioner was advised that as the result of a reduction in force ("RIF"), her contract would not be renewed for 1991-92. She subsequently submitted an application for a service retirement from the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund ("TPAF"), which was acknowledged by the State Division of Pensions on July 2, 1991. Petitioner's final day of employment in the district was June 30, 1991. Her retirement application was approved by TPAF on November 14, 1991, retroactive to July 1, 1991.

By letter dated February 22, 1992, petitioner notified the Board of the approval of her retirement and indicated that she planned to continue to participate in the Board's group health insurance plan. See N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18.[1] The Board, however, denied petitioner's request, viewing her employment status as having been terminated pursuant to a reduction in force, rather than as the result of a service retirement. Petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging such denial. The parties thereafter filed cross-motions for summary decision.

On July 1, 1993, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition. The ALJ found it > clear...that on June 30, 1991, petitioner ceased to be an employee of respondent. Since she did not have tenure with respondent and she had not been offered a contract for the 1991-92 school year, she had no continuing relationship with respondent after June 30, 1991. Accordingly, when she retired on July 1, 1991, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:66-43, she retired as a member of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, but she was not a retired employee of respondent's district.

Initial Decision, slip op. at 4.

The ALJ concluded that in order for petitioner to have been eligible for continuance of health coverage under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18, she

---

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 provides, in part:

> The continuance of coverage after retirement of any employee shall be provided at such rates and under the conditions as shall be prescribed in the contract subject, however, to the requirements set forth in section 8 of P.L.1979, c. 391 (C. 18A:16-19)....

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-19 provides, in part:

> ...retired employees shall be required to pay for the entire cost of coverage for themselves and their dependents at rates which are deemed adequate to cover the benefits, as affected by Medicare, of such retired employees and their dependents on the basis of the utilization of services which may be reasonably expected of such older age classification....

would have had to have selected a retirement date which was prior to the expiration of her employment.

On August 11, 1993, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommended findings and conclusions and dismissed the petition.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education.

After a thorough review of the record, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner.

This case presents the uncommon circumstance of a teacher who, by virtue of her age and years of service, was eligible for a service retirement from TPAF, but who had not yet achieved tenure in the district in which she was serving at the time of her retirement. The Commissioner rejected petitioner's bid to continue her medical insurance coverage after retirement pursuant to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 simply by virtue of her retirement being effective on July 1, 1991, the day after her final day of service in the district following the RIF. In so doing, the Commissioner would require non-tenured staff members eligible for service retirement by virtue of age and total years of service to retire prior to their final contractual day of employment after a RIF in order to be eligible for certain statutory benefits afforded retired employees. We conclude that such a determination exalts form over substance, and we find nothing in the school laws or implementing regulations that would impose such a requirement. Nor do we find such a result equitable.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18 expressly provides for "the continuance of coverage after retirement of any employee...." (Emphasis added.) There are no restrictions or qualifications placed on "retirement." Nor is such benefit limited to tenured employees. In this instance, petitioner applied for and was granted a service retirement from TPAF effective July 1, 1991. It is evident that the effective date of retirement for a staff member employed through June 30 would be July 1. The fact that petitioner's decision to apply for a service retirement may have been precipitated by a reduction in force is of no moment under the terms of the statute. Nor do we find a legislative intent or any policy considerations in favor of penalizing a staff member who fulfills the terms of her contract rather than retiring before it expires, as the Commissioner's decision would require.

Consequently, we conclude that petitioner was eligible to continue her medical insurance coverage following her retirement on July 1, 1991 pursuant to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-18. We therefore reverse the decision of the Commissioner and grant petitioner's motion for summary decision.

OF THE BOROUGH OF FREEHOLD, : DECISION
MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

For Petitioner, Vincent C. DeMaio, Esq. (DeMaio and DeMaio)
For Respondent, Dolores Gibson, Borough Clerk

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 27, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Freehold (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 24, 1993, the Monmouth County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $444,306 in current expense which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the District.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Borough of Freehold approved the Board's maximum permissible General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year, but defeated the General Fund cap waiver request. Accordingly, the Board filed the within appeal.

By letter dated July 20, 1993, the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Freehold advised that the Borough would not participate in appeal proceedings, so that this matter duly proceeded as uncontested.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items, all of which were determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Account Title	Account No.	Amount
Kindergarten Teacher Salaries	11-110-100-101	$225,800
Grades 1-5 Teacher Salaries	11-120-100-101	30,000
Grades 6-8 Teacher Salaries	11-130-100-101	15,000
Salaries/Kindergarten Aides	11-190-100-106	71,625
Salaries/Other Professional	11-000-218-104	32,500
Employee Benefits	11-000-290-290	52,881
General Supplies	11-190-100-610	16,500
	Total Cap Waiver	$444,306

In support of its cap waiver request, the Board argued that following a history of supporting school expenditures through appropriation of surplus funds which have been reduced to minimal levels, a cap waiver is needed in order to maintain programs at their current level. Without the cap waiver, 12.5 existing instructional positions (the entire staff of three essential programs) would be eliminated. Specifically, without cap monies to fund salaries, benefits and supplies, the District would be forced to eliminate its full-day kindergarten (five teachers and five assistants), its elementary gifted and talented program (1.5 teachers) and its guidance service (one counselor), all of which it deems to be integral components of the educational program necessary to meet State constitutional, statutory and regulatory mandates.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board's requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that funds over and above the maximum permissible General Fund budget are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Freehold School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993

Accordingly, the Monmouth County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Freehold School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $444,306 consistent with the Commissioner's findings above.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning citizens requested inquiry into annual school election challenging conduct of election with respect to school board referendum.

ALJ determined no sufficient evidence was advanced that will of people was suppressed. ALJ did find some minor irregularities -- voting machine inoperative for five minutes and election worker was five minutes late reporting for duty. ALJ, however, did not find that said situations rose to level of serious irregularities. In addition, both polling places were handicapped accessible. ALJ affirmed announced results of annual school election.

Record Closed: June 4, 1993 Decided: July 8, 1993

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Complainant, Margaret J. Roesch, together with twelve signatures, requested an inquiry into the annual school election held on April 20, 1993, in the School District of the City of Egg Harbor, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12. The matter was transmitted from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 30, 1993, pursuant to the provisions at N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. An inquiry was conducted by the undersigned on June 4, 1993, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The record was closed on June 4, 1993.

Complainants do not challenge the balloting for candidates for seats on the Board of Education of the City of Egg Harbor nor do they challenge the annual school budget, which was defeated. Rather, complainants challenge the conduct of the election with respect to a school bond referendum the results of which are as follows:

Polling Place Number 1 (Fanny D. Rittenberg School)
For the proposal 110, Against 109.

Polling Place Number 2 (Charles L. Spragg School)
For the proposal 124, Against 124.

Military Service and Civilian Absentee Ballots For the proposal 5, Against 4.

Total: For the proposal 239
Against 237

In the complaint generated by Margaret J. Roesch, nine alleged irregularities are in issue. At the hearing, however, the parties stipulated that issues One through Five of the complaint were disposed of by the Board's document marked into evidence as R-1. Therefore, issues six through nine of the complaint are to be determined by this administrative tribunal. Those issues are as follows:

6. Specifically at Charles Spragg School:
   a. Clerk's not all there on time; time opened was less than minimum State law.
   b. Voting machine not operable;
   c. Not checking books of registered voters to see if persons truly had right to vote in this election;
   d. Not knowing beforehand, that, both city and regional voting booths were inside.
   e. Several persons, one handicapped, had to leave for work or due to physical disability, and could not cast their votes;

7. For all polls, long delays in order to cast votes with large turnouts and so short hours - made shorter by unreadiness and booth malfunction.

8. No register books signed, just a note pad and polling booth ticket. In at least one known case, a husband voted and signed wrong note pad. He went home to babysit and his wife came to vote. The Clerks had her sign her husband's name in the other pad.

9. Finally, NO RAMPS provided for handicapped as required by law. Handicapped denied their right to vote. (A ramp is available at Spragg School but voting machines in hall not accessible to ramp.)

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony and the documentary evidence adduced at the hearing, I FIND the following FACTS in this matter:

In November 1992, the Board of Education of Egg Harbor City changed from a Type I (with a Board of School estimate and appointed board members) to a Type II school district (with elected board members and the annual school budget determined by election process.) In or about January 12, 1993, a bond referendum issued by the Board was voted on by the electorate in the City of Egg Harbor. The Board's bond issue was defeated at the polls.

On April 20, 1993, at the annual school election held in the City of Egg Harbor, the Board's bond issue was again submitted to the electorate. The bond issue passed by two votes.

In the addition to the bond referendum, the Egg Harbor City electorate voted on the annual school budget for the Board of Education of Egg Harbor City. The budget was defeated. The electorate of Egg Harbor City also voted on the annual school budget for the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School District., pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-17.

Complainant Margaret Roesch testified and asserted that she arrived at the Spragg School at 4:55 p.m. and was the 17th individual in line to vote. She contends that the polls opened one or two minutes after 5:00 p.m. and that all of the election workers were not in their places at 5:00 p.m. She asserted that one election worker arrived at 5:03 p.m. and another at 5:10 p.m.

Complainant Roesch asserted, among other things, that the first voter in line cast his/her vote 20 to 25 minutes after the opening of the polls. She asserted that she observed people leave the polling place without voting; and that there was a malfunction of one of the two voting machines. Complainant Roesch stated that at 5:10 p.m. the voters were advised that there were two elections on that day; i.e., the local annual school election for the City of Egg Harbor and the annual school election for the Greater Egg Harbor Regional School District.

Complainant Roesch further asserted that she did not observe any handicap access ramps at the Spragg School on April 20, 1993. She asserted that she also signed a composition tablet for the Egg Harbor City election, rather than the voter registration book.

On cross-examination, complainant Roesch admitted that she also signed a voting authority slip.

With regard to the handicapped voter who suffers from multiple sclerosis, complainant Roesch admitted that the individual's father brought the handicapped individual to the polling place and that the handicapped individual left the polling line because she became tired. Roesch also admitted she did not know there was a handicapped ramp at the rear of the building accessible to all handicapped individuals. It was also revealed that the handicapped individual was not in a wheelchair.

Ms. Roesch admitted, on the record, that she did not see the large signs attached to the voting machines. A blue sign indicated the Regional School District election and a white sign indicated the local board election.

Ms. Roesch also testified that she did not know of any handicapped individual unable to vote at the annual school election.

Carol Kienzle testified on behalf of complainant asserting, among other things, that she voted at the Rittenberg School. Ms. Kienzle could not recall whether she had voted in any other school elections in the past.

Ms. Kienzle testified that she arrived at the polling place between 5:30 p.m. and 5:45 p.m. She asserted that the voting machines were operating properly. Ms. Kienzle was directed to sign a composition tablet and a regional election book together with an authorization to vote slip. She asserted that only two individuals could vote at one time. She also asserted that she did not observed the signs "regional" or "local" on the voting machines.

Ms. Kienzle asserted that she had to wait between 15 and 20 minutes to vote. She asserted that she did not notice any paper ballots in a box under the table where the voters were to register.

John Baldi, testified on behalf of complainant, asserting that he did not vote at the April 20, 1993, annual school election. He asserted that he arrived at the Spragg School, however, he had to go to work at 5:00 p.m. Mr. Baldi works part-time in a bar called the Liberty Beer Garden. Mr. Baldi had advised his employer that he would be a little late because of the election. He contended that he waited in line 15 minutes and left the polling place without casting his ballot. Mr. Baldi testified further that he could not vote later in the evening because the polls were closed when he got off work.

Mr. Baldi asserted that he noticed a few people who had left the line. Mr. Bladi did not know, however, if those who left the line at the polling place returned at a later time to vote.

Ellen Strange Lenhart Johns, Egg Harbor City Board Secretary/Business Administrator, testified that she was responsible for conducting the Egg Harbor City Board's elections. She asserted, among other things, that all the election workers were duly certified by the Atlantic County Board of Elections. There were two sites for the annual school board election; the Spragg School and the Rittenberg School. She testified that the Regional Board of Education elections have been held at these two schools for the past 30 years and that all of the municipal elections have been held at the two schools for 30 years. She asserted that there were four election workers at each school which included one judge, one inspector and two clerks.

The annual school board election held on April 20, 1993, was held between the hours of 5:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. She asserted that the election began at the proper hour at both polling places.

Ms. Johns testified that there was a problem with the local voting machine at the Spragg School. `Ms. Johns left the Spragg School at 4:55 p.m. to go to the Rittenberg School and kept in touch with the Spragg School election workers by way of a walkie-talkie. Ms. Johns asserted that the problem with the malfunctioning voting machine at the Spragg School was solved at 5:05 p.m.

Ms. Johns testified that there were paper ballots available at both polling places. The paper ballots were secured in a box under the election registration table. The election workers were advised not to use the paper ballots unless there was an emergency. Ms. Johns asserted that there was no emergency on April 20, 1993. Ms. Johns admitted that there was one election worker who arrived late at the Spragg School. The election clerk arrived approximately five minutes after 5:00 p.m. The election clerk was to attend to the Regional voting machine. Another clerk covered for the late arriving clerk and there was no problem due to this lateness.

Ms. Johns testified, among other things, that there was a waiting period at both polling places due to the large voter turnout. The Egg Harbor City election involved the Board's annual school budget, the bond referendum, and two seats on the Egg Harbor City Board of Education with a number of write-in votes.

Ms. Johns asserted that one individual was denied the right to vote because the election workers could not find the individual's name in the voter registration book. The Atlantic County Board of Elections was called and because it could not find the individual's name, the voter was turned away.

The election workers maintained one poll list for the local election and three poll lists for the Regional election. Each voter was given an authorization slip to vote. The authorization slip must be signed by the voter and returned to the clerk before the voter enters the polling place. There were authorization slips for both the local and the Regional elections.

The voting machines were located at the front entrance of both schools. The evidence demonstrates that both polling places were handicapped accessible.

Having considered all the evidence before me, I FIND that:

1. A machine malfunctioned at the Spragg School polling place, however, the malfunction was corrected within five minutes of opening the polls.

2. An election worker was five minutes late reporting for duty on April 20, 1993.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The complaints set forth herein are similar to those addressed by the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the School District in the City of Camden, Camden County, 1974 S.L.D. 618. At 624, the Commissioner stated the following:

> The Commissioner finds no grounds to void the school election because of the inoperative voting machine or the irregularities which did take place. Although the incident was unfortunate with its consequent delay for some voters and loss of opportunity to vote by others, it cannot be clearly shown that the inoperative voting machine or the other irregularities had a direct bearing on the ultimate result in the election. ...

The Commissioner, In the Matter of the Annual School Election held in the School District of the Borough of New Milford, Bergen County, 1975 S.L.D. 202, again determined that no sufficient evidence was advanced by the mechanical failure of the voting machines that "the will of the people was suppressed or thwarted." ... Id. at 205.

As for any delay in the casting of votes, the Law Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey determined that a 2½ hour delay in casting a vote was not sufficient to overturn an election. Magura v. Smith 131 N.J. Super. 359 (Law Div. 1974).

Having carefully reviewed all of the evidence before me, I CONCLUDE that the complainant has failed to carry its burden, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the will of the people was thwarted at the annual school election held on April 20, 1993.

I CONCLUDE that the results of the annual school election held on April 20, 1993, shall stand.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the announced results of the annual school election held on April 20, 1993, are AFFIRMED.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4004-93

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL :
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE CITY : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF EGG HARBOR, ATLANTIC COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ for the reasons well stated by him in the initial decision. It is clear that a voting machine which was inoperative for five minutes and a poll worker who was five minutes late in reporting for duty on the day of the election are not situations which rise to the level of serious irregularities and that no evidence was presented to support an allegation that these situations thwarted citizens' ability to vote or impacted the election within the meaning of that standard as applied to the grant of the extraordinary relief of ordering a new election. (See In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363, (Law Div. 1953).)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law affirming the results of the April 20, 1993 election held in the City of Egg Harbor is adopted and the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

AUGUST 16, 1993

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OCEAN, OCEAN : DECISION COUNTY. :

For Petitioner, Paul J. Carr, Esq. (Masch, Visotcky, Cerefice & Carr)

For Respondent, Jerry J. Dasti, Esq. (Dasti, Murphy & Wellerson)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 14, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Township of Ocean (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 24, 1993, the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $1,092,411 in current expense which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Township of Ocean defeated both the proposed General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year in the amount of $4,448,538 and the General Fund cap waiver request in the amount of $1,092,411. Upon review of the defeated maximum permissible budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Township Committee of Ocean Township certified the General Fund tax levy in the amount of $3,992,829, a $455,709 reduction which both the Board and the County Superintendent determined could be sustained without jeopardizing provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, thereby obviating the necessity for an appeal of the Borough's reduction to the maximum permissible budget.

With respect to the remaining issue of the defeated cap waiver, in a letter dated June 30, 1993, the Township Committee indicated that it would not object to the Board's cap waiver appeal in view of the acceptance of the Committee's reduction to the maximum permissible budget. Accordingly, this matter has duly proceeded as uncontested.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items, all of which were determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Kindergarten Teacher Salaries	11-110-100-101	$ 100,596
Grades 1-5 Teacher Salaries	11-120-100-101	434,013
Grades 6-8 Teacher Salaries	11-130-100-101	50,473
Regular Programs - Supplies	11-190-100-610	75,339
Regular Programs - Textbooks	11-190-100-640	15,000
Special Ed/Resource Room Salaries	11-213-100-101	48,400
Special Ed/Speech Inst. Salaries	11-218-100-101	14,625
Tuition	11-000-100-562	60,875
Health Services Salaries	11-000-213-100	36,400
Other Support Services/Salaries	11-000-218-110	31,400
Educational Media/Library Salaries	11-000-222-100	30,490
Business/Other Support Services - Other Employee Benefits	11-000-290-290	194,800
	Total Current Expense	$1,092,411

With regard to these line-item requests, the Board presents the following justifications:

Kindergarten Salaries. Absent funding for two teachers and prorated portions of one teacher each in art, music, physical education and gifted and talented, the district will be unable to offer a kindergarten program, which is an essential component of its thorough and efficient educational plan.

Grades 1-5 Teacher Salaries. Eleven classroom teachers are needed to keep class sizes within the requirements of facilities regulations, and prorated portions of art, music, physical education and gifted and talented teachers are necessary to ensure a complete educational program.

Grades 6-8 Teacher Salaries. A computer teacher is needed to implement the district's technology program, for which a computer lab has been newly constructed and equipped. The line also includes prorated salaries for the art, music, physical education and gifted and talented teachers noted for grades K-5.

Regular Program - Supplies. Monies are needed to purchase workbooks, computer software, paper and other general supplies, particularly in view of the municipality's $25,000 reduction to this line item in the maximum permissible budget.

Regular Program - Textbooks. New textbooks are required for a recently implemented math and reading curricula, as well as to replace worn books and accommodate increased enrollments.

Special Education - Resource Room and Speech Teacher Salaries. One and one-half resource room positions and one-half a speech position are needed to accommodate increased numbers of students needing services and to conform with regulatory requirements for student/teacher ratios and evaluation conferences.

Tuition. Funds are needed to meet district's tuition obligation for special education students attending Southern Regional High School.

Health Services - Salaries. Without funds for one school nurse, 300 students will lack nursing services and the district will be unable to implement its K-3 Family Life program, for which the nurse serves as instructor.

Other Support Services - Salaries. One guidance counselor is needed for purposes of substance abuse education and student/family counseling in order to relieve overburdened building principals who could better focus their attentions on curriculum and instruction. The position is also needed to support Pupil Assistance Committee and pre-special education referral requirements.

Library Salaries. A part-time librarian and a clerical support person are needed to staff a newly built library essential for delivery of library services of one segment of the student population.

Employee Benefits. These funds are needed to meet contractual health benefit, dental and prescription drug obligations for 21 staff members.

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the documentation provided by the district, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the Board has demonstrated the necessity for each of the line items it seeks to fund through cap waiver monies. Therefore, the Commissioner concludes that the Board's requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Ocean Township School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993

Accordingly, the Ocean County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Ocean Township School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $1,092,411 which results in a total General Fund tax levy of $5,085,240.

AUGUST 18, 1993

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER :
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE BOROUGH OF SEASIDE : DECISION HEIGHTS, OCEAN COUNTY. :

For Petitioner, David M. Casadonte, Esq.

For Respondent, Annemarie Williams, Esq. (Gilmore & Monahan)

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 10, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Seaside Heights (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 24, 1993, the Ocean County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $308,050 in current expense which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Borough of Seaside Heights defeated both the proposed General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year in the amount of $1,519,641 and the General Fund cap waiver request in the amount of $308,050. Upon review of the defeated maximum permissible budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council of the Borough certified the General Fund tax levy in the amount of $1,277,641, a reduction of $242,000 which the County Superintendent deemed not to impair the Board's ability to provide a through and efficient education, thus obviating the need for appeal of the Borough's action.

With respect to the remaining issue of the defeated cap waiver, by letter dated June 18, 1993, the Borough advised that it would not object to the Board's Petition of Appeal, so that this matter proceeded thereafter as uncontested.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items, all of which were determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Board Member Expenses
NJSBA dues	000-230-890-01	$ 2,792
Child Study Team Salaries	000-219-104.00-01	110,500
Other Salaries/Occupational Therapy	000-221-109.00	20,000
Health Salaries/School Nurse	000-213-100.01-01	26,705
Other Health Serv./Physical Therapy	11-000-213-500	9,000
Tuition/Handicapped Students	000-100-566-00	31,000
Grades 1-5 Substitute Teachers	120-100-101.00-02	25,000
Transportation	000-270-511.01	40,000
Utilities - Heat	000-260-620.00	43,053
	Total Current Expenses	$308,050

With regard to these line-item requests, the Board presents the following justifications:

NJSBA Dues. This amount is necessary for membership dues in the State School Boards Association to which the district must belong by statutory mandate.

Child Study Team. This amount is needed to fund three team members for thirteen days per month in order to meet regulatory requirements for provision of special education services for an increasing number of qualifying students.

Occupational Therapist. An increase in the number of pre-school handicapped students to be served necessitates district employment of an occupational therapist to be contracted for an estimated cost of $60 to $75 per hour.

School Nurse. The district presently has only a half-time nurse, and the health and safety needs of present and upcoming student populations require that nursing services be available during the full time school is in session.

Physical Therapist. This item is necessitated by the IEP of a pre-school handicapped student who requires services over and above those experienced by the district in prior years.

Handicapped Tuition. These monies are needed to pay for three out-of-district placements during FY94, as well as for two unanticipated short-term placements arising from the needs of the district's transient population.

Substitute Teachers. Funds are needed to cover the cost ($50 per day per substitute) of substitutes for anticipated staff illness, personal leave, inservice, conference, curriculum development and other meeting requirements.

Transportation. This item is needed to pay for mandatory transportation for pre-school handicapped students and three out-of-district special education placements.

Utilities - Heat. Monies are needed to provide heating for an all-electric school building, as well as for the additional electrical costs associated with a currently planned building project.

Upon review of the record of this matter, including documentation provided by the district, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Seaside Heights School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993

Accordingly, the Ocean County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Seaside Heights School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $308,050 which results in a total General Fund tax levy of $1,585,691.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, elementary teacher, alleged she was dismissed with 60 days notice in violation of her tenure rights.

Initial decision determined that although petitioner's total service was continuous and in excess of three successive academic years within four successive academic years, she did not spend that time teaching a class for which she was or became fully certified. Petitioner held emergency certification when she was in position of teacher of handicapped. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Charlotte Kitler, Esq., General Counsel, for respondent

Record Closed: June 21, 1993 Decided: July 19, 1993

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner in this case, Joyce Breitwieser, filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education in early January 1993 alleging that although she had been employed continuously by the respondent in excess of three academic years as a regularly appointed teaching staff member, and was the holder during that entire time of proper and appropriate certificates, the respondent, contrary to her statutory entitlement to tenure, improperly terminated her employment in February 1993 following service upon her of a sixty-day notice.

The respondent's answer admitted that Breitwieser had been continuously employed by it between September 1989 and February 1993, a period of more than three consecutive academic years. However, it denied that she had obtained tenure. It pointed out that the first six months of petitioner's service, from September 1, 1989 to March 9, 1990, was performed as a teacher of preschool blind children under emergency certification as a "teacher of the handicapped." See N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.3(a). Since petitioner never qualified for a "teacher of the handicapped" endorsement, respondent maintains that such service under a substandard certificate cannot be "tacked" on to her subsequent service for approximately two and three-quarters academic years under a standard instructional certificate as an elementary school teacher, which she held during her entire time of employment. Thus, unless those first six months can be counted, tenure would not attach.

The issues having been joined, the file was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on February 25, 1993. Included with the file were cross-motions for summary decision previously filed with the agency and supporting memoranda. Oral argument was conducted on June 21, 1993, and the following is my initial decision.

STIPULATED FACTS

The essential underlying facts necessary for a determination in this case are not in dispute and are set forth in the certification of Judith N. Granick, state executive assistant in charge of the respondent's Department of Human Resources. That certification revealed the following. Petitioner was appointed as a full-time teacher of the handicapped by the respondent as of September 1, 1989, and assigned to the regional day school. Within days after she commenced her employment, petitioner obtained an emergency certificate as "teacher of the handicapped," valid from September 12, 1989 to June 1990. She also then held a regular instructional certificate, grades K-8, which had been issued in June 1989.

On March 9, 1990, petitioner was transferred, at her request, to a position as a Chapter I elementary school teacher at respondent's No. 3 school. Petitioner continued in employment in that position under contract as an elementary teacher for the remainder of the 1989-90 academic year, and for the entire 1990-91 and 1991-92 academic years. In September 1992, Breitwieser signed a new professional employment contract agreeing to serve as a teacher for the 1992-93 academic year. That contract contained a provision whereby either of the parties could terminate by giving sixty days' notice in writing of that intention.

Breitwieser commenced teaching her class in September 1992. By letter dated December 14, 1992, Granick wrote to advise petitioner that in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 et seq. and pursuant to the sixty-day termination clause, Breitwieser's service would not be required after January 4, 1993, although she would be paid at her current contract rate for the sixty-day period until February 12, 1993.

DISCUSSION

Since Breitwieser commenced her employment in September 1989 as a "teacher of the handicapped," but was not educationally qualified at that time other than as a regular elementary school teacher (she lacked eighteen credits), it became necessary for her to obtain emergency certification for that position, which she did. Can her service under that emergency certification be "tacked" to her subsequent two years and eight plus months of service under her regular certificate as an elementary school teacher to give her tenure? Respondent claims that such tacking cannot take place since the only circumstances under which emergency certification service has been tacked to other service and credited toward tenure are where the entire service under both the emergency and the regular certificate is in a position to which that emergency certification relates. In support of its contention, the Board cites the decisions in Delli Santi v. Board of Ed. of Newark, 1977 S.L.D. 1211, and Kubas v. Board of Education of Linden, 1980 S.L.D. 172. Petitioner, in opposition, relies upon the Commissioner's decisions in K'Burg v. Board of Education of Lower Alloways Creek, 1973 S.L.D. 636, and Smith v. Board of Education of the Atlantic County Vocational-Technical School, 1985 S.L.D. 704.

In K'Burg, the petitioner had been employed as a kindergarten teacher under an emergency certificate for almost five years, beginning in September 1968 and continuing into the 1972-73 school year. In March 1973, she was informed that her employment would not be renewed for the following school year. She continued in her duties until June 30, 1973. Although K'Burg held only an emergency certificate at the time she received the notice of nonreemployment in March 1973, she was awarded a standard certificate as an elementary school teacher in April 1973. Thus, she claimed that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, she was tenured as of April 1973 since at that time she clearly was the holder of a proper certificate in full force and effect and had been employed for more than three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year.

In finding in favor of K'Burg, the Commissioner observed that an emergency certificate is expressly recognized as valid both by the legislature and by the State Board of Education. See also Smith v. Bd. of Educ. of Sayreville, 1974 S.L.D. 1095, aff'd, State Board, 1975 S.L.D. 1160, aff'd, App. Div., 1976 S.L.D. 1120. The fact that it also is referred to as "substandard" does not detract, according to the Commissioner, from its validity. Thus, since K'Burg had been continuously employed as a kindergarten teacher for a substantial period of time beyond three years under both her emergency and her standard certificates, the Board had ample time to determine whether she met acceptable standards for continued employment. Indeed, its satisfaction with her performance was marked by the Board's annually seeking renewal of her emergency certification. Thus, when a standard certificate was issued to her in April 1973, during her fifth year of employment, all of the statutory conditions for permanent tenure were met.

The second case upon which Breitwieser relies is Smith, supra, 1985 S.L.D. at 704. There, petitioner taught for ten years under an emergency certificate and became eligible for standard certification in the same subject while still employed. Thus, in light of the K'Burg decision, the Commissioner found that Smith, too, had obtained tenure and that his service under the emergency certification was creditable for that purpose.

According to respondent, the decisions in the Smith and K'Burg cases, even assuming they still are viable, must be distinguished from the instant matter. Unlike those other cases, petitioner never obtained nor did she ever become eligible for an endorsement to teach the handicapped, the position to which her emergency certification related. Thus, the respondent points to the decision in Delli Santi, supra, where the Commissioner rejected a tenure claim by a person who attempted to tack service as a teacher of industrial arts under an emergency certificate to subsequent service as a teacher of English and social studies since no regular industrial arts certification was ever obtained. According to the Commissioner, those circumstances made the case "clearly distinguishable" from K'Burg. In the Kubas case, too, the Commissioner rejected a tenure claim that relied upon a period of service under an emergency certificate because standard certification was not obtained until after termination of Kubas' employment. Thus, Kubas was never employed while regularly certified.

The issue, then, is whether in light of the circumstances in this case, the fact that Breitwieser's regular certificate contained no endorsement for "teacher of the handicapped," the category covered by her emergency certification, makes any difference. In my view, based upon my review and consideration of the facts and the decisional authorities, I believe that this circumstance is significant and fatal to her claim.

In the K'Burg case, the Commissioner cited the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Zimmerman v. Board of Education of Newark, 38 N.J. 65 (1962). Therein, the Court specifically observed that inherent in the tenure legislation is the policy not only that a board's duty to hire teachers demands that permanent appointments be made only if the teachers are found suitable for the positions after a qualifying trial period, but, in addition, that tenure attaches only where the precise statutory conditions have been met. That language is equally applicable here. Although the respondent in this case found petitioner's performance to be acceptable under her emergency certificate -- since it promptly moved her, at her request, into a regular teaching position in March 1990, continued her in that position for the balance of 1989-90, rehired her for 1990-91 and 1991-92, and then reemployed her under contract for 1992-93 -- the "precise conditions" required to be met before tenure attaches were not met.

The facts in Kubas support this result. There, even though petitioner taught cosmetology for more than three years, at all relevant times during the course of employment she held an emergency certificate only and did not obtain the standard certificate until after the end of her employment. Thus, no matter how long one teaches under an emergency certificate, one can never obtain tenure if that is the only type of certificate held during employment. Put another way, even though an emergency certificate may be "valid," it is not "proper and appropriate."

So, too, the facts in Delli Santi dictate a similar result. Therein, the Commissioner was concerned, of course, that much of the service was as a per diem substitute performing activities that regular teachers did not. In addition, the bulk of the time sought to be relied upon by Delli Santi for acquiring tenure was under an emergency certificate in the area of industrial arts, whereas the teacher's regular certificate was in a wholly different academic discipline. The instant matter is similar to Delli Santi since Breitwieser, although regularly certified as an elementary teacher in September 1989, served under an emergency certificate as a teacher of the handicapped, a position for which she did not have, nor did she ever obtain, suitable credentials. In fact, she served under that emergency certificate for fully twenty percent of her total service. Under these circumstances, to honor her tenure claim would fly in the face of the language in Zimmerman and constitute an unwholesome precedent.

Further support for the respondent's position may be found in the recent New Jersey Supreme Court decision in Dennery v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District No. 1, 131 N.J. 626 (1993). Although the specific facts in Dennery are not squarely on point with the facts in this case, the Court's approach to the tenure issue and the language it used is most apropos. Thus, in Dennery, the Court first pointed out that in order to achieve tenure status, a teaching staff member must possess the "appropriate credentials and cannot acquire tenure unless he or she is the "holder of an appropriate certificate for the position." See Dennery, supra, at 632-33; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4.

The Dennery Court went on to note that certain academic requirements must be met in order to enable a teaching staff member to be employed in certain positions and that completion of course work or the acquisition of a relevant higher degree are usually the factors involved. See N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.1 to -5.2. Critical to the Dennery rationale is that one must first have obtained tenure under a certificate before determining to what positions within that certificate such tenure can be transferred. Accordingly, the Dennery Court went on to note that tenure accrues to a teaching staff member under a certificate only if "he or she has also served in a position under that same certificate for a requisite period of time." Dennery, supra, at 638. Further, a teacher must "actually perform duties under the relevant certificate in order to obtain tenure under that certificate." Dennery at 639.

Breitwieser's service from September 1989 to March 1990 does not qualify since she never obtained her teacher of the handicapped credentials. Quoting its prior decision in Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), the Supreme Court in Dennery stressed that the clear and unambiguous language of the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, requires that tenure accrues only where an employee has been employed under the appropriate certificate for the requisite period of time. In this case, I agree with the Board that Breitwieser does not meet those criteria since the holder of an emergency certificate as a teacher of the handicapped who never goes on to obtain regular certification with a teacher of the handicapped endorsement cannot obtain tenure by tacking on that period to other time that is short of the necessary three years plus service. Indeed, counsel for the respondent in colloquy with the undersigned during the course of oral argument indicated that in light of the Dennery case, it was arguable that if the facts in K'Burg presented themselves for decision again, the result in light of Dennery now might be different since in K'Burg (and in Smith v. Board of Ed. of Sayreville as well) the great bulk of time served was under an emergency certificate which, counsel maintains, can never be a "proper and appropriate" one under the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

Be that as it may, the fact remains that although Breitwieser's total service was continuous and in excess of three successive academic years within four successive academic years, she did not spend that time teaching a class for which she was or became fully certified. While at first blush this result might appear to exalt form over substance and be characterized as "unfair," I believe it is the result that must obtain given the clear and unambiguous language of the tenure statute and the requirement that the "precise conditions" be met. An "emergency certificate," while valid, by definition is issued to persons who by virtue of their education and/or training are not yet qualified for regular certification in that particular area. Thus, as counsel for respondent points out, service under such a certificate which is not succeeded by service under a regular certificate in the same area must never be counted toward tenure since the employer would then be deprived of its full opportunity to review, analyze, evaluate, and make its critical decision. Indeed, in this case, although Breitwieser's performance is not in issue, her transfer in March 1990 from a position as a teacher of the handicapped to a regular Title 1 class was the product of her own belief that "I am not qualified to teach the ED students and I do not understand their violent tempers. . . . I can see now that it was a mistake to take this position to begin with." (See letter of March 5, 1990, attachment five to Granick certification).

If it is "inequitable" or "unfair" to prevent one who has served only a minor portion of his or her time under an emergency certificate, and the balance under a regular certificate, from obtaining tenure, the solution lies either with the State Board by regulation and/or the Legislature in the tenure laws. It is not within the province of the undersigned administrative law judge to bend the statute and/or the regulations on the basis of my own view of what is "fair" or not. While I certainly appreciate the intrinsic merit to be found in Breitwieser's argument that her status as the holder of an emergency certificate should not be exalted so as to deprive her of tenure, I believe that this is the result that must obtain in light of the language of the statute and a proper interpretation of the applicable regulations that drew a clear line of demarcation between an emergency certificate and a standard certificate.

Accordingly, based upon the undisputed facts, I CONCLUDE that the Board's determination to terminate Breitwieser's employment, effective February 1993, was proper, and I ORDER that her verified petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions aver, inter alia, that in reaching his conclusions in this matter the ALJ misconstrued and misapplied principles of prior Commissioner decisions. Petitioner sets forth her interpretation of the impact these prior decisions should have on the facts existing in the instant case.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner finds petitioner's exceptions unpersuasive and adopts the findings and conclusions of the ALJ below that Ms. Breitweiser was not a tenured staff member and, consequently, the Board's determination to terminate her employment effective February 1993 was proper. In reaching this determination, however, the Commissioner notes that she passes no judgment on respondent's Dennery, supra, argument presented on page 7 of the initial decision as it has no material bearing on the resolution of the matter before her.

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed for the reasons set forth by the ALJ in the initial decision.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appealed respondent's denial of his request for paid sick leave pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 for a work-related injury. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 27, 1992 for a hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge (ALJ) on June 25, 1992, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for August 5, 1992.

An August 5, 1992 telephone prehearing conference was converted to a status conference at the request of the attorneys for the parties, and the terms of a possible settlement were discussed. The attorneys were directed to advise the ALJ in two weeks as to the status of the matter.

By letter dated September 23, 1992 (Exhibit C-1), the ALJ requested the advice of the attorneys as to the status of this matter. By letter dated October 9, 1992 (Exhibit C-2), the ALJ was notified of the status of these discussions.

Since the matter was not settled, a telephone prehearing conference was rescheduled for November 10, 1992. On the date of the scheduled telephone prehearing conference, attorney for petitioner notified the ALJ that the matter had been settled and on that basis, the matter was adjourned. On November 13, 1992, a letter was received from attorney for petitioner (Exhibit C-3) confirming the settlement subject to approval by the board of education.

By letter dated December 7, 1992 (Exhibit C-4), the ALJ directed the attorneys to provide a copy of the settlement agreement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 or a written withdrawal from appellant or his attorney pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 as soon as possible. When this direction was not complied with, the ALJ contacted the attorneys on January 13, 1993, at which time attorney for respondent indicated that he was awaiting the execution of a release by petitioner and requested that the matter be held for two additional weeks.

When no further contact with the ALJ was made by the attorneys for the parties, the ALJ directed a letter to the attorneys on March 24, 1993 (Exhibit C-5), directing them to provide a copy of the settlement agreement or a written withdrawal from the appellant or his attorney within ten days and further advising that the failure to comply would subject this matter to dismissal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14(a)1.

When no response to the letter of March 24, 1993 was received, the ALJ directed his secretary to call the attorneys to advise that the ALJ had no choice but to dismiss the matter. No response was received as to this notification.

Based upon the foregoing I FIND that there has been an unreasonable failure to comply with the directives of the ALJ as well as the requirements of the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.12 to 21.6. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the appropriate sanction to be imposed in this matter is the dismissal of petitioner's petition as well as the suppression of respondent's defenses in this matter.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14(a)1 and 2 that the petitioner's petition is hereby DISMISSED and respondent's defenses are hereby SUPPRESSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, defeated candidate for Board membership, sought recount and investigation into annual school election pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:63-12. Following recount, Commissioner affirmed announced results in separate decision. This matter was transmitted to OAL for purpose of conducting inquiry with respect to allegations of statutory violations that affected outcome of election (using Board employees as election workers, improper training of election workers, late mailing of sample ballots, comparison of signatures/non-genuine signatures of potential voters on poll lists and electioneering).

ALJ found that even though petitioner sufficiently established that some election irregularities occurred, she did not meet burden of proving that these irregularities affected outcome of election or thwarted will of the electorate. (In re Wene) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with ALJ that petitioner did not meet burden of demonstrating that will of public had been thwarted by election irregularities. However, in light of disturbing record, Commissioner referred matter to Essex County Prosecutor for further appropriate action.

Record Closed: March 31, 1993 Decided: June 2, 1993

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On April 10, 1992, petitioner, Maritza Torres-Falu, filed a petition for recount and investigation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:63-12. Petitioner sought a recount of the machines used in the East Ward of the City of Newark during the Board of Education election of April 7, 1992. Petitioner also sought a thorough investigation to determine whether statutory violations occurred which affected the outcome of the election. More particularly, petitioner sought a comparison of all signatures of persons who voted in the East Ward; a determination as to whether the Board of Education (Board) complied with the statutory mandates regarding the use of sample ballots as prescribed by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-31; a determination as to whether the Board of Education employed Board of Education personnel as election officers in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6; a determination as to whether there was a lack of instruction given to election officers; and a determination as to the adverse effect that printed materials used and distributed during said election had on the outcome of the election.

On April 29, 1992, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for the purpose of conducting an inquiry with respect to the allegations made by petitioner. On May 6, 1992, an amended petition was filed by the petitioner, pro se, with the OAL, in which the petitioner alleged statutory violations that, combined, allegedly affected the outcome of the election. Petitioner requested that a special election be ordered.

By decision dated May 14, 1992, the Commissioner of Education affirmed the report of his authorized representative who conducted a recount of the machine ballots cast in the East Ward, pursuant to petitioner's request dated April 10, 1992. The Commissioner determined that the tally for the East Ward was unchanged. Noting that no requests had been made for recounts of votes cast in other wards or in the district as a totality, the Commissioner determined that the results of the district election would stand as originally announced: Charles A. Bell, D. Kim Thompson Gaddy, and John Mavilla were elected to full terms of three years each on the Newark Board of Education. Petitioner finished in fourth place, behind John Mavilla.

On May 8, 1992, the undersigned judge was assigned to hear this matter, and a hearing was scheduled for June 2 and 3, 1992, at the OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102. On May 20, 1992, a conference call was held with the parties, and an in-person conference was scheduled for May 27, 1992, at the OAL. At that time, a status conference was held with counsel for all parties and, on June 2, 1992, an order was signed establishing the results of that conference. John Mavilla and Charles Bell, unnamed parties in the petition, were granted leave to intervene.

On June 3, 1992, respondent filed an answer to the amended petition essentially denying the allegations in the petition and demanding entry of judgment against petitioner.

The hearing commenced on June 2, 1992, at the OAL, Newark, New Jersey, and was continued on June 3, 4, 15, July 13, 14, 15, 16, August 24, 27, and October 5, 8, 9, 19, 20, and 28, 1992.

At the conclusion of the hearing, intervenor Bell, joined by intervenor Mavilla, moved for reconsideration of a prior motion to exclude evidence offered by petitioner and ruled admissible by the undersigned on October 8, 1992. The undersigned judge reserved on the motion and decided it by written opinion dated November 30, 1992. In sum, it was determined that the certified copies of the voter signature registers at issue, which were admitted into evidence, would remain in evidence. Posthearing briefs were required of all parties, and the record closed on March 31, 1993, when the undersigned judge became aware that petitioner would not be submitting a reply brief in this matter. The record closed on that date, and an extension of the time frame in which to file this initial decision was granted.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

Petitioner, Maritza Torres-Falu, was a candidate for election to the Newark Board of Education in the election held on April 7, 1992. She occupied ballot position A-3, seeking election to one of three seats subject to election. There were twelve declared and certified candidates running for these three open positions.

Charles I. Auffant, Esq., associate counsel to the Board, was appointed supervisor of the election, responsible for the organizing and oversight of said election in accordance with Title 18A. Consistent with Auffant's responsibilities as supervisor, a schedule of activities was developed which included, inter alia, the hiring of poll workers, the training of poll workers, and the mailing of sample ballots.

Virginia Haskins DeVane, executive director of Board affairs, assisted the supervisor of elections. Accordingly, she assisted with the training session, the printer, the coordination of voting machines, and the employment of election day workers.

On March 26, 1992, a training session was held for the poll workers, who presumably had no prior election experience. Both Auffant and DeVane conducted the program, and a record of attendance was maintained.

Prior to the election, petitioner moved by order to show cause to compel Auffant to allow her to inspect the voting machines to be utilized in the election. Said order to show cause was returnable before the Honorable Judge Alvin Weiss, J.S.C., who granted petitioner's application. Pursuant to said order, petitioner was allowed to inspect the machines.

At the close of the election, petitioner received 4,673 votes, placing her fourth in vote totals behind Charles A. Bell (6,485), Kim Gaddy (5,204), and John Mavilla (5,140). The difference in vote totals between petitioner and John Mavilla was 467 votes.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-15, petitioner fielded challengers in every election district in the city of Newark. These challengers were eligible to appear at every polling place, challenge voters, oversee the process of the election, and represent petitioner's interests. The record does not disclose any incident wherein Torres-Falu challengers objected to any "now alleged" illegal votes or complained of any failure to conduct signature comparisons at polling sites.

Petitioner reported one election law violation to Auffant on election day. This involved the alleged distribution of a palm card (P-24), which she asserted contained misleading information. Auffant, in his capacity as supervisor of elections, investigated this matter and found no basis that this occurred or affected the outcome of the election.

Petitioner alleges that during the course of the election and thereafter, she became aware of election irregularities. The instant action constituted an investigation to determine if statutory violations occurred during the April 7, 1992 school election and, in the event violations were found, whether they affected the outcome of the election such that the election should be invalidated.

DISCUSSION

I have considered the arguments presented by the parties and the following constitutes my determination as to each issue presented:

1. Burden of proof

As both parties acknowledge and the case law confirms, the burden is on the petitioner to show that the alleged irregularities occurred and, further, that they are sufficient to have changed the results of the election—i.e., the will of the electorate was thwarted. See, e.g., In re Willingboro Twp. School Election, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 564, 566 (Dep't of Ed.) ("The burden of establishing, with a reasonable degree of certainty, that violations have altered the election outcome which otherwise would have resulted is upon petitioners," citing In re Application of Moffat, 142 N.J. Super. 217, 224 (App. Div. 1976), certif. denied sub nom., Princeton Twp. v. Bleiman, 71 N.J. 527 (1976)); In re Annual School Election, Borough of Waldwick, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 520, 523 (Dep't of Ed.).

2. Standard of proof

While the Board contends that the standard of proof to be used in this election challenge should be the "clear and convincing evidence" standard, recent school board election cases reveal that various ALJs have used the preponderance of the evidence standard without any sign of disapproval in the Commissioner's final decisions. See, e.g., In re 1991 Annual School Election, Pennsauken Twp., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4A) 396, 397 (Dep't of Ed.); In re Annual School Election, Borough of Waldwick, supra; In re Annual School Election, City of Passaic, OAL DKT. EDU 2598-88 (May 17, 1988), adopted with modification on other grounds by Comm'r of Ed. (July 1, 1988). See also In re Annual School Election, Borough of Wanaque, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4A) 6, 9 (Dep't of Ed.) (noting that "[t]he substance of what must be proved and the corresponding burden of proof varies depending on whether it is alleged that the election was marred by 'malconduct,' whether election results were disturbed by the presence of illegal votes, or whether the election was disturbed when the legal votes were rejected at the polls;" noting also that "[a]lthough this standard is a result of court decisions interpreting N.J.S.A. 19:29-1a and e, it applies to school elections").

In the instant matter, where petitioner alleges a number of election irregularities, including electioneering (in the form of distribution of "misleading" palm cards), the hiring of Board employees as election officials, the failure to properly train election workers, the failure to compare the signatures of voters on poll lists with those in the signature copy register, and the failure to timely mail sample ballots, petitioner's primary contention is that these irregularities resulted in illegal votes being cast. Given such allegations, the appropriate standard of proof is by a preponderance of the credible evidence, the usual standard for civil cases. Indeed, the Passaic matter, supra, involved similar charges of electioneering and poll list irregularities and the Pennsauken case, supra, involved similar allegations that illegal votes were cast. In both cases, the preponderance standard was employed.

Respondent's reliance on In re Evans, 227 N.J. Super. 339 (Law Div. 1988) to bolster its argument for the "clear and convincing" standard is misplaced. Clear and convincing proof was required in Evans because the claims against Evans invited criminal penalties and were viewed as "too serious to be proved by the lowest standard of evidence." Id. at 347. While election contests are certainly serious, this label coupled with the language in Evans does not carry the day for respondent on this matter. Furthermore, In re Maplewood, 255 N.J. Super. 690 (Law Div. 1992), supports this reading of Evans. "Judge Haines [in Evans], after analyzing the cases, found that since the relief sought was not merely the contest of an election, but removal of a person from office based on qualifications, he set a higher standard of proof." 225 N.J. Super. at 703.

The Maplewood court declared that the preponderance of the evidence standard is to be applied in election contests where there has been no wrongdoing by any of the candidates. Id. at 704. In the instant case, petitioner does not make any explicit assertion of wrongdoing on the part of any candidate; the gravamen of the complaint is illegal voting. Thus, under Maplewood and Evans, it seems appropriate to follow the preponderance of the evidence standard.

3. Employees as Election Officials

The appointment of election officials for school elections is provided for at N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6. The statute prohibits the hiring of employees of the board of education to act as election officials in its school election. Petitioner lists the names of twenty-two alleged "employees/election workers" and offers the testimony of Anthony Salters, executive director of Human Resource Services, whose responsibility includes the supervision of the district's personnel and payroll departments to back this claim. Respondent, however, admits to only six board members who may have worked as election officials, pointing out that some are of part-time or substitute status, out of the more than 600 election workers for this election. Respondent urges the de minimis nature of the alleged violation, contending that no impact on the election has been shown.

It seems clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6 has been violated; the respondent merely quibbles over the degree to which it has been violated. The part-time or substitute status of the employees, even if accurately represented, has no bearing on whether the statute has been violated or the result of this violation. See In re Annual School Election, Borough of Carteret, 1972 S.L.D. 167, 170, where it was observed that "the statute bars the appointment of election officials who are 'employees' of the board, but lacks a differentiation between part-time itinerant, or sporadic employment." However, petitioner has not met her burden of proving that the hiring of these employees as officials (a relatively small number, even if twenty-two is the accepted number, out of the more than 600 election-wide workers) affected the outcome of the election. No such evidence has been provided. Hence, while this violation seems to have occurred, it does not rise to the level necessary for the extreme remedy of setting aside the results of the election. Nowhere is there any proof that the actions of these employees as election officials in any way influenced the results at the polls.

4. Training of Election Workers

Petitioner charges that the Newark Board of Education failed to properly train election workers as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6.1 and that such failure resulted in the casting of votes by persons unqualified to vote. More particularly, petitioner asserts that the testimony of Pasquale Catena, Alicia Cruz, and Marianne Capriglioni was to the effect that they were never required to attend any training sessions concerning the election and that they were not trained. They each testified that they were not issued any certificates by the Board or the County of Essex for prior service as election workers. Respondent asserts that it properly trained those election workers who were not exempt from training under the statute. Respondent provides an explanation for each of the four Board workers testifying on petitioner's behalf as to lack of training. Respondent explains that one had received prior training from the Board of Elections, one had received prior training as a member of the County Board of Elections, one previously worked elections and was familiar with the procedures, and one was an emergency appointment. Respondent admits that one election worker did not have the requisite training.

Exemptions from training are afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6.1 to election officers who have served in a polling district in which voting machines have been used for two consecutive school elections and who have received a certificate or who have received a similar certificate from the county board of elections pursuant to R.S. 19:50-1. In the present case, it appears that the challenged election workers may have some claim to prior experience, but it appears that, at the least, there were technical violations of the statute since there is no assertion that they possessed the required certificates. However, even finding such technical violations, it remains for petitioner to prove the connection between this election irregularity and the result of the election. See In re Wene, 26 N.J. Super. 363, 383 (Law Div. 1953), aff'd sub nom. Wene v. Meyner, 13 N.J. 185 (1953).

The court in In re Wene, supra, provided the standard, now routinely cited in school election cases, for checking on this connection:

> The rule in our State is firmly established that if any irregularity or any other deviation from the election law by the election officials is to be adjudged to have the effect of invalidating a vote or an election, where the statute does not so expressly provide, there must be a connection between such irregularity and the result of the election; that is, the irregularity must be the producing cause of illegal votes which would not have been cast or of defeating legal votes which would have been counted, had the irregularity not taken place, and to an extent to challenge or change the result of the election; or it must be shown that the irregularity in some other way influenced the election so as to have repressed a full and free expression of the popular will . . . .
> [In re Wene, supra, 26 N.J. Super. at 383.]

Petitioner asserts that "the failure to train election workers resulted in such workers' failure to properly qualify voters such that they would be lawfully able to cast their votes." Petitioner's contention that there were resultant "illegal votes" in significant numbers to affect the outcome of the election appears to be wholly unsupported. No specifics as to these alleged illegal votes are provided to back this bald assertion: No names of illegal voters are provided, much less any indication of how the purported lack of training of a few election workers impacted on the results. In relation to this lack of training allegation, however, it is clear that petitioner, even if able to prove some minor violation of this statutory provision, has failed to sustain her burden of establishing its connection to the outcome of the election.

5. and 6. Comparison of Signatures/Non-Genuine Signatures

Petitioner charges that election workers failed to compare the signatures of potential voters on poll lists to those contained in the signature copy register, in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-50 and -51. Petitioner further maintains that such failure to compare signatures resulted in the casting of unlawful votes which provides a basis to set aside the election.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-50 provides that voters shall sign the poll list before receiving an official ballot, while N.J.S.A. 18A:14-51 provides that one of the election officers shall compare the signature in the poll list with the signature made by the voter in the signature copy register. Only upon a determination that the signatures are sufficiently similar should the voter be eligible to receive a ballot.

To support her contention that this violation occurred, petitioner points to the testimony of four election officials (Pasquale Catena, Alicia Cruz, Beulah Holloway, and Mariann Capriglioni), who testified that they failed to make the required signature comparisons. Respondent, however, points out that "[i]n no district did [petitioner] bring forward and query all four election board members"; thus, highlighting the possibility that one of the other election officers may have made the signature comparisons at those sites. As long as one of the election officers did make the comparisons, there is compliance with the statute. That being so, there is insufficient evidence in the record to allow petitioner to meet her burden of proving this violation.

Nevertheless, even if petitioner's proofs are sufficient to establish such violation of the statute, petitioner must still prove that the irregularities or violations were the producing cause of a result which otherwise would not have occurred. In re Willingboro, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 566. In the Willingboro case, even though election officials clearly "were derelict in performing their duties by failing to check the signatures from the poll list with the signature copy register, and by failing to fully enforce the prohibition on electioneering near the polling places," there was no evidence to establish that such conduct changed what otherwise would have been the election results. Id. at 566-67. The evidence in Willingboro established "isolated acts of negligence and omission by very busy election workers," which ALJ Duncan termed "reprehensible" but not sufficient to set aside the election. Id. at 567.

Both the Commissioner and ALJ Duncan noted the following guidance from In re Wene, supra:

> There is an important distinction between the binding effect of election laws upon officials entrusted with their administration in connection with their being subject to a punishment for a violation thereof, or the effect of such provisions if enforced as a challenge at the time of voting, on the one hand, and as to whether, on the other hand, an irregularity as to a particular provision due to no fault of the voter and not involving fraud or repression of the full and free expression of the popular will, should after the election have the effect of invalidating such votes.
>
> [In re Wene, supra, 26 N.J. Super. at 385.]

The Commissioner agreed that while irregularities and violations of school election law were shown to have occurred in the Willingboro matter, they did not rise to the level necessary for the extreme remedy of setting aside the results of the election.

It is the clear intent of the law that elections are to be given effect whenever possible. Wene v. Meyner, 13 N.J. 185 (1953). Irregularities, even when gross, when not amounting to fraud do not vitiate an election. Stone v. Wyckoff, 102 N.J. Super. 26 (App. Div. 1968). It is clear that irregularities and deviations from election laws by election officials provide insufficient grounds for voiding an election if the will of the people has been fairly expressed and determined and has not been thwarted. In re Clee, 119 N.J.L. 310 (Sup. Ct. 1938); In re Livingston, 83 N.J. Super. 98 (App. Div. 1964). It is only when the irregularities are so gross as to produce illegal votes which would not have been cast or to defeat legal votes which would have been counted that an election will be set aside. In re Wene, supra, 26 N.J. Super. at 385.

Also, it should be noted that even if the signature comparison provision is viewed as mandatory, the violation of mandatory procedures by election officials does not automatically void an election. In re Annual School Election, Borough of Wanaque, supra, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 8. A claimant must still show that the irregularity casts the results of the election in doubt. Sharrock v. Keansburg, 15 N.J. Super. 11, 19-20 (App. Div. 1951).

In the present matter, the irregularities (primarily the failure to compare signatures) have been linked by petitioner to the casting of illegal votes. Specifically, petitioner alleges that unregistered voters were allowed to cast votes, votes were cast in the names of persons who did not vote in the school election, and persons voted more than once.

The proof offered by petitioner to show that eleven unregistered voters voted in the election is a letter from Carmine Casciano, Commissioner of Registration and Superintendent of Elections for Essex County, which apparently lists eleven names of unregistered voters. Further, petitioner offered the testimony of certain individuals in conjunction with poll list signatures to establish that nine votes were cast in the names of voters registered to vote who it is asserted did not actually vote in this election. For example, Andrew Troublefield offered testimony. He is wheelchair bound and only able to vote by the aid of a friend who physically transports him to poll sites. Mr. Troublefield, unable to write his name, utilizes the mark of "X" to affix his signature. The "X" is contained in the signature copy register (P-36). As stated by petitioner, Mr. Troublefield, after identifying his "X," testified that he did not vote in the April 7, 1992 school election or in any election since "Gibson's loss," an obvious reference to the 1986 mayoral election for the City of Newark. He also testified that whenever he had voted, he was transported by George S. Williams.

This testimony was buttressed by Williams's testimony, which confirmed that Mr. Troublefield did not vote on April 7, 1992. Petitioner further points out that election official Beulah Holloway had previously testified that she witnessed Mr. Troublefield walk into the polling site, sign the poll list, and that she had compared his wholly written signature as placed on the poll list to the signature of Mr. Troublefield contained in the signature copy register. When confronted with the poll list signature and Mr. Troublefield's "X" in the signature copy register, she was at a loss to explain the obvious discrepancy. Petitioner notes that Mr. Troublefield has not been able to walk for many years and cannot stand fully upright, even with physical assistance.

Petitioner then lists forty-eight names of voters whose signatures allegedly appear on the poll lists as having voted twice. It seems from a review of the testimony and evidence that petitioner's proofs are indeed sufficient to establish that these sixty-eight, allegedly illegal, votes were cast and counted in the results of the election.

It must be remembered, however, that petitioner fell 467 votes short of gaining the third school board seat. Thus, even if it were found that the sixty-eight votes challenged above were illegal and that they were all cast for the third-place vote-getter (for which it appears there is no proof attempted by petitioner, a problem with her challenge which will be farther explored below), the election results cannot be set aside since it has not been proven that the outcome of the election was affected nor that the will of the electorate was thwarted.

This brings me to petitioner's assertion that, in accordance with the report and testimony of John Paul Osborn, petitioner's handwriting expert, 495 signatures on the poll list were not genuine. More particularly, the testimony of Osborn, who was qualified by the court as a forensic document examiner, indicated that he compared 726 signatures appearing on poll lists from the East Districts 4, 8-10, 9, 11, and 16. The signatures and addresses were compared to the signatures and addresses of voters listed in the signature copy register. Of the total number of comparisons made, the expert concluded in his report that 495 were to a highly probable or stronger degree non-genuine. Poll lists utilized by the expert for purposes of the comparisons were certified by Dr. Peter Carter, Essex County Superintendent of Schools, to be true copies of the poll lists utilized to obtain signatures of persons presenting themselves to vote in the April 7, 1992 election. Dr. Carter also testified that certified copies provided to petitioner were true copies of signatures appearing in the signature copy register maintained by the County of Essex and under his statutory control. The parties stipulated that John Paul Osborn would testify that the information contained in List B (P-43 in evidence) contains all of the names of those signatures on the poll list where the conclusion of highly probable non-genuine or non-genuine was reached.

Respondent specifically rebuts this expert's conclusion with the testimony of five individuals who aver that their signatures are genuine. More fundamentally, however, respondent attacks the methodology used by petitioner's expert in comparing all of the signatures. More particularly, respondent presented the testimony of James M. Paladino, qualified as a handwriting expert and special document examiner, who questioned Osborn's methodology, the time frame utilized by him to make the comparisons, and his conclusions. He indicated that he knows of no examiner who does not use notes during the examination. He testified as to the difficulty in making a judgment from the use of photocopies. He opined that one could use a photocopy for a qualified opinion but that a final determination would require the use of original documents. He indicated that it would take about one and a half to two hours to compare a signature (a preliminary determination would take about one and a half hours time) and that the time utilized by Osborn of one and a half minutes per signature is "guesswork." He testified he would expect to see abnormal writings at the polling place. (An abnormal writing is done by the same person but has explainable differences.) Of import, he questioned Osborn's reliability and credibility, considering them faulty.

It is to be noted that Mr. Paladino offered no testimony at all as to the genuineness of the signatures petitioner's expert concluded were non-genuine. In fact, respondent's expert testified that he did not examine the documents utilized by petitioner's expert. He made no signature comparisons to determine the authenticity of same as alleged to be fraudulent by the petitioner.

I have considered the evidence presented and am of the view that petitioner's proofs seem sufficient to establish that there are in fact 495 non-genuine signatures. Those non-genuine signatures might lead to the inference that 495 illegal votes were cast. Nonetheless, even if it is assumed that 495 illegal votes were cast, it is clear that petitioner's challenge must still fail since she has made no attempt to prove for whom these votes had been cast. Without knowing for whom the illegal votes were cast, it cannot be said that the outcome of the election was affected, nor that the will of the people was thwarted.

In a challenge based on illegal votes, the contestant has "not only the burden of showing that illegal votes were cast in number sufficient to change the result if they had in fact been cast for the contestee, but also the burden of showing, to the extent possible under the circumstances, for whom the illegal votes were cast." Application of Murphy, 101 N.J. Super. 163, 167 (App. Div. 1968), certif. denied, 52 N.J. 172 (1968). As acknowledged by ALJ Duncan in Willingboro, supra, the case In re Mallon, 232 N.J. Super. 249 (App. Div. 1989), makes it clear that petitioners are required to prove whether illegal votes cast in the election were cast for the opposing candidates. In re Willingboro, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 566.

The Appellate Division in In re Mallon, supra, notes that an exception has developed in the case law where the challenger cannot establish to the extent possible under the circumstances for whom the illegal vote was cast. 232 N.J. Super. at 269. The Mallon court interpreted that to mean that > it must be shown that it is not possible to locate the person who cast the illegal vote or, if located, to compel the voter under Evid. R. 31 to disclose how he or she cast the illegal vote. For the exception to apply, however, the challenger must show the exercise of reasonable diligence in attempting to find the challenged voter and that, despite such diligence, he or she could not be found. The exception cannot mean merely that is is impossible to determine how the person voted or the language of the statute requiring that it be 'sufficient to change the result' (N.J.S.A. 19:29-1e) would have no meaning. The challenger has to carry both prongs of the burden established in Murphy and its progeny and, in addition, prove that despite diligent effort the illegal voter could not be found or refused to disclose his vote.

> [Id. at 269.]

Under this standard, it appears that petitioner here did not carry her burden of proof. She has, apparently, made no attempt to find the challenged voters and no attempt to subpoena those individuals connected to the alleged non-genuine signatures.

7. Sample Ballots

Petitioner also alleges an election irregularity in connection with the late mailing of sample ballots. The use and mailing of sample ballots is provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29 and 31. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29 provides that > [t]he secretary of each board of education of a type II special needs school district . . . located in a city of the first class having a population in excess of 300,000 according to the 1980 federal decennial census, shall prepare sample ballots for each school election and shall mail those sample ballots to the registered voters . . . .

In all other school districts, the board of education "may, by resolution, direct the secretary of the board to prepare sample ballots and mail those ballots to the voters" (emphasis added). The time frame for mailing the sample ballots is set out in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-31.

Petitioner correctly points out that the evidence substantiated the fact that the Board did not meet the statutory deadline by mailing all of the sample ballots within the proscribed time. As explained by petitioner, testimony was adduced as to why the mailing was late. Whether it was due to carelessness, negligence, or gross indifference to the statutory requirements, the evidence substantiated the fact that there was an effort to comply with the deadline of 12 noon on April 1, 1992, but that at that point only 31,624 sample ballots were mailed. Approximately 60,000 were not mailed. Eventually, the mailer delivered the remaining ballots to the Post Office for mailing. Further, petitioner points to the testimony of Samuel Delgado, an employee of McGraw-Hill Inc., the mailer utilized by the Board to perform the mailing. He testified that approximately 8,000 of the sample ballots which he posted for mailing were held at the Post Office and not mailed because the Board had not maintained sufficient funds to cover the mailing in an account utilized for that purpose. Petitioner alleged that 8,000 sample ballots returned to the Board as undelivered contained an overwhelming number of Spanish surname voters.

Petitioner asserts that the failure to mail or timely mail the sample ballots resulted in the loss of votes by persons uninformed about the election. Each uninformed but potential voter represents the possibility of additional votes sufficient to change the outcome of the election.

Petitioner has failed to meet her burden of showing that the Board is in the type of school district and type of city in which the (usually) mandatory term "shall" section of the statute applies rather than the merely directory "may" section. Petitioner does not assert that the Board is in a type II school district or in a city of the first class. However, more to the point, even if it was found that a violation of the mandatory provision occurred, petitioner has failed to show a sufficient connection between this violation and the outcome of the election. Minor deviations from statutory requirements are not sufficient, in and of themselves, to void election results. See, e.g., In re Annual School Bd. Election, Hamilton Twp., Atlantic County, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 476, 478 (Dep't of Ed.). She has not produced any evidence that a voter failed to vote as a result of not receiving a sample ballot; even that would be insufficient, since it would not amount to a rejection of a legal voter.

8. Electioneering

Petitioner's electioneering claims center on the distribution, at certain polling sites, of a palm card that petitioner describes as misleading. More particularly, petitioner asserts that she was alerted by her campaign workers that campaign literature, a palm card (P-24 in evidence), was being distributed containing the names of lawful candidates and having affixed to each name certain ballot positions. The literature contained the names of Mary Darden, petitioner, and Kim Gaddy. However, where Mary Darden's name appeared, the ballot position of John Mavilla (A-14) had been affixed (P-24). Mary Darden's true ballot position was A-4.

The literature was distributed, according to petitioner, to polling sites where petitioner was likely to do well and where intervenor Mavilla was likely to do poorly. Petitioner claims that the juxtaposition of intervenor's ballot position on literature linking petitioner with her running mate was clear electioneering. Petitioner asserts that such conduct was intended to result in the thwarting of the electorate by causing voters thinking themselves to be voting for Darden to actually pull levers which registered votes for Mavilla.

Petitioner reported the activity to Auffant. Auffant not only acknowledged that he was made aware of the handout, but identified it (P-24) as an exact copy of the palm card presented to him on election day. By his testimony, it was proven that the ballot position on the palm card appearing next to Mary Darden's name belonged to John Mavilla. Auffant testified that upon learning of the alleged electioneering, he reported to the sites but could find no one distributing the literature at the time. He testified that he took no further steps to investigate the alleged electioneering.

Petitioner asserts that she had no greater duty than to report the situation and to request that proper officials investigate same. That the palm card existed and was delivered on election day showed, according to petitioner, that the will of the electorate was thwarted and that electioneering occurred.

Electioneering is prohibited under two statutes. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-72 states:

> If a person shall on any day fixed for any election tamper, deface or interfere with any polling booth or obstruct the entrance to any polling place, or obstruct or interfere with any voter, or loiter, or do any electioneering within any polling place or within 100 feet thereof, he shall be a disorderly person and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500.00 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

N.J.S.A. 18A:14-81 states:

> If a person shall distribute or display any circular or printed matter or offer any suggestion or solicit any support for any candidate, party or public question, to be voted upon at any election, within the polling place or room or within a distance of 100 feet or the outside entrance to such polling place or room, he shall be a disorderly person.

See also In Re Chesilhurst School District Annual Election, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4A) 213 (Dep't of Ed.).

It is quite clear that the actions described by petitioner as electioneering, which apparently occurred, even if found to be electioneering, are not sufficient to set aside the election. Petitioner has not established a connection between this minor irregularity and the outcome of the election as required under the standard of In re Wene, supra. While it is often the case that where electioneering is found to have occurred, the matter is referred to the prosecutor's office, it is not usually the case that the results of an election are voided for that reason alone. See, e.g., In re Willingboro, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 568. As stated in In re Annual School Election, Mainland Regional School District, Somers Point and Linwood, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (Vol. 4) 514, 515 (Dep't of Ed.), "[w]hile electioneering inside polling rooms is a violation of the statutes governing school board elections, it does not necessarily follow that the outcome of school elections is affected thereby." Here, there is no proof that the outcome of the election was affected by the distribution of palm cards.

9. Unclean Hands

The doctrine of unclean hands states that "he who comes into equity must come with clean hands." City of Paterson v. Schneider, 31 N.J. Super. 598, 605 (App. Div. 1954). This maxim is applied "to one who is guilty of fraud or unconscionable conduct with respect to the particular controversy in issue." Id. A court will deny equitable relief when the seeker "has been guilty of bad faith, fraud, or unconscionable acts in the transaction which forms the basis of the lawsuit." Goodwin Motor Corp. v. Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc., 172 N.J. Super. 263, 271 (App. Div. 1980). Simply put, a court should not grant relief to one who has been a wrongdoer with respect to the subject matter in suit. Faustin v. Lewis, 85 N.J. 507, 511 (1981).

Respondent, here, asserts that petitioner has unclean hands. Respondent, however, merely alludes to some relationship between petitioner and Auffant. There is no actual proof offered of any improper relationship. Thus, this claim must be dismissed as untenable.

CONCLUSION

Even though petitioner has sufficiently established that some election irregularities occurred, she has not met her burden of also proving that these irregularities affected the outcome of the election or in any way thwarted the will of the electorate. Mere speculation that results might have been different if conditions had been different will not suffice to meet the standard set out in In re Wene, supra. See, e.g., In re Mainland Regional School District, supra, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 516.

ORDER

Therefore, it is ORDERED that petitioner's petition is DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that the will of the electorate must be given full effect.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

C-1 Reconstruction of record dated August 27, 1992 (3 pages)

IN THE MATTER OF THE ANNUAL	:
SCHOOL ELECTION HELD IN THE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Both petitioner and the Board filed timely primary exceptions. The Board also filed timely reply exceptions.

Petitioner first excepts to the length of the hearing in this matter, which she avers was prejudicial to her because of the scheduling delays encountered in what she avers was an expedited hearing.

Further, petitioner excepts to the evidence in this case as the determination which recommended dismissal is against the weight of the findings and evidence; it fails to provide any remedies where statutory violations and fraud were found to exist; it was made without careful review of the evidence in the case or ignored or failed to properly credit the import of evidence; it was made without a presentation of the required overall analysis of findings of misconduct, fraud and illegality and the relationship of such findings to determine if the will of the electorate was thwarted or whether the outcome of the election was affected.

The Board's exceptions first posit that the standard of proof for this matter is that of clear and convincing evidence, not that of preponderance of the evidence. The Board submits, as it did at hearing below, that when fraud is alleged and the petitioner asks the Court to so conclude, the higher standard must be used. In so arguing, the Board relies on In re Evans, 227 N.J. Super. 339, 347 (Law. Div. 1988).

The Board further contends that the testimony of petitioner's handwriting expert and findings of the ALJ are based on an assumption not proven or stipulated, that is, that the sample for comparison was authentic. The Board reasserts its contention that petitioner had the burden of producing witnesses to verify or dispute the signatures at issue and that the testimony of her handwriting expert, at best, stands for the proposition that certain signatures are inconsistent. It claims that any perceived inconsistency between a signature on the poll list and the county books merely creates an issue or a question to be resolved or answered by the subject voter.

At Exception Three, the Board claims that petitioner's methodology, accepted by the ALJ, of not calling the voter to identify his or her signature but instead having an expert testify as to its authenticity, turns the process upside down. The Board submits petitioner's evidence was rebutted by showing multiple persons with the same name at the stated addresses yet the expert did not know which addresses he used. Yet, the Board claims, persons whose signatures the expert said were forgeries testified that they were their signatures. The Board avers that petitioner has not met her part of the burden by calling those voters forward to ascertain if the conclusion of the expert witness was correct and how each person voted. It contends that the burden did not shift to the Board to bring in all the voters to contradict the findings of the expert. By random sampling, the Board submits that it established that the conclusions of petitioner's expert were incorrect. Consequently, the Board claims, petitioner failed to not only demonstrate the reliability of the methodology but also did not rebut the Board's challenge to the reliability and methodology she used.

The Commissioner will first consider the procedural issues raised in the parties' exceptions. As to petitioner's exception regarding the length of hearing, proceedings before the Office of Administrative Law are governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-1 et seq. Concerns about the proceedings, including scheduling and conduct of cases before that tribunal, are challengeable before the Director of the Office of Administrative Law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.2(c) Accordingly, such exception is not properly lodged with the Commissioner of Education and is thus not considered in the disposition of this matter.

Further, the Commissioner is convinced that the ALJ properly concluded that the appropriate standard of review to be applied in this case is that of preponderance of the credible evidence not that of clear and convincing evidence. See Initial Decision at page 6. It is noted that this is not a court but a quasi-judicial forum in which the Commissioner is not empowered to adjudge criminal matters. In this regard, the State Board has spoken of the limitation of remedy available to the Commissioner in election matters in the decision captioned, In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the Township of Old Bridge, Middlesex County, decided by the Commissioner of Education 1989 S.L.D. 1198, rev'd State Board 1208:

> [W]e conclude the circumstances presented here provided a sufficient basis upon which ALJ could properly conclude that a technical violation of the election law had occurred during the election campaign, and that the Commissioner could properly consider whether such violation affected the outcome of the election. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 does not entrust the Commissioner with the responsibility for or the authority to adjudicate the guilt of individuals who may be responsible for violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97 occurring during an election subject to inquiry pursuant to that statute. Given his determination that the irregularities did not warrant a new election, we conclude that the Commissioner erred both in remanding the matter for adjudication of whether Mr. Hegarty was responsible for violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-97 and in adopting the ALJ's findings in that respect.
> We however, find nothing that would preclude the Commissioner from forwarding his decision to the County Prosecutor for his assessment of whether the matter should be pursued with respect to securing penalties pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-104. (at 1210)

Thus, where, as here, the Commissioner is convinced that the remedy of ordering a new election has not been demonstrated, the Commissioner's alternative is to direct the matter for the County Prosecutor's attention for determinations regarding criminal or misdemeanor offenses because this forum may make no findings nor assess penalties regarding a criminal matter. Accordingly, the Commissioner is without authority to heighten judicial scrutiny by tampering with the standard of review because the issues to be decided by the Commissioner are confined strictly to those involving education law. Hence, the appropriate standard of review remains that of demonstrating by a preponderance of the evidence that school election law irregularities occurred and if they affected the outcome of the election. N.J.S.A. 18A:14-63.12 Therefore, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision as supplemented herein, the Commissioner dismisses as being without merit the Board's proposition that the heightened standard of clear and convincing evidence is the appropriate standard of review for this case.

In moving now to the exceptions posed by the parties concerning the factual conclusions drawn by the ALJ, it is noted that petitioner raises extensive exceptions regarding both the disputed and undisputed facts determined by the ALJ. However, the record before the Commissioner does not include a transcript of the hearing below. Challenges to the factual findings predicated upon credibility determinations made by an administrative law judge require the party to supply the agency head with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcript. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987). Thus, without pertinent transcript citations from which to draw her own conclusions, the Commissioner accepts those credibility determinations reached by the ALJ who was in a position to hear and adjudge the credibility of witnesses. See Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185, 188 (App. Div. 1976). Consequently, petitioner's exceptions challenging the ALJ's credibility determinations and the factual findings predicated thereupon, both contested and uncontested, are hereby rejected as being without merit.

The record stands corrected, however, from petitioner's exception that no allegations are raised that Board members served as election officials, as stated at page 7 of the initial decision, to reflect the argument she raised that Board employees worked as election officials. However, in correcting this apparent typographical error in the initial decision, that is not to say that the Commissioner accepts petitioner's contention that 22, not 6 Board employees, (as admitted by the Board's Supervisor of Elections, Mr. Auffant) were used in the Newark election as officials. Neither is the Commissioner persuaded that the higher number alleged by petitioner requires a new election be ordered because the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6 was so egregiously violated by the use of 22 Board employees. Further, the Commissioner draws such conclusion without regard to whether such employees were part-time, temporary or substitute employees. In claiming the number of employees serving as election officials was 22 not 6, petitioner relies on the testimony of Mr. Anthony Salters, Executive Director of Human Resource Services for the Newark Board of Education, as the basis for establishing this alternative allegation, which testimony cannot be scrutinized without the transcripts. Morrison, supra

Nevertheless, the record as established by the ALJ stands that N.J.S.A. 18A:14-6 was violated, because the Board admits 6 employees were used by the District as election officials, albeit without further distinctions drawn regarding the employees' status within the District, and hence without further investigation as to whether the suggestion of whether such employees were part-time or substitute agents of the Board should impact upon the penalty appropriate for violation of said election law. Regardless of the number or their employment status, the Board is hereby admonished to ensure, absolutely, that none of its employees, no matter in what capacity they serve the Board, are engaged as election officials in any future school board election, insofar as such action constitutes a plain-faced violation of the law in New Jersey. As such, the Commissioner adopts as her own the discussion of the ALJ regarding the use of Board employees as election officials.

Similarly, the Commissioner will not disturb the credibility findings of the ALJ concerning the training of election workers without reference to pertinent transcript citations. Moreover, petitioner's objection to the ALJ's reliance on In re Wene, supra, for the standard of review, which petitioner would distinguish from this matter because this case alleges fraud, are dismissed as being without merit for the reason stated above. Consequently, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's assessment of the impact any such alleged irregularities in the training of the election officials had on the outcome of the election results for the reasons expressed on pages 8 and 9 of the initial decision.

The Commissioner also agrees with the Board that petitioner did not bring forward all four election officials present to demonstrate that no one at the site in question made signature comparisons, and thus that she is attempting to shift the burden of proving that such irregularities occurred from herself to the Board. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's exhaustive review of the law and the evidence, so much of it as is in the record before her, on the issue of signature comparisons as stated in the initial decision at pages 9-12. In so finding, however, it is noted that the Commissioner, like the Board, questions the methodology employed by petitioner's expert in drawing conclusions about genuine and non-genuine signatures. It is also observed that the ALJ only suggested that "petitioner's proofs seem sufficient to establish that there are in fact 495 non-genuine signatures," and that "[t]hose non-genuine signatures might lead to the inference that 495 illegal votes were cast." (Initial Decision, at p. 13) (emphasis supplied). The Commissioner expressly rejects any conclusion that there were in fact 495 non-genuine signatures that count as illegal votes given the serious questions raised by the Board as to the methodology employed by petitioner's handwriting expert. Therefore, the Commissioner does not reach to any further conclusions regarding the alleged non-genuine signatures in this case.

Even with these limitations, the Commissioner is compelled to find, as did the ALJ in the Willingboro, supra, case, that such violations as were demonstrated in this record regarding illegal voting as established by signature comparisons, (see initial decision at pages 11-12) are nothing less than reprehensible, in fact, in the case of Mr. Troublefield, shocking. Nevertheless, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's exception averring that the ALJ failed to conclude that the number of signatures alleged to have been cast illegally, based upon her handwriting expert, exceeds the number of votes necessary to seat her, fails, first because she failed to demonstrate that the 495 signatures were non-genuine, but also because she failed to demonstrate for whom each of the 495 alleged illegal voters voted. Accordingly, petitioner cannot be found to have met her burden pursuant to Wene, supra; Mallon, supra; and Willingboro, supra. As such, the Commissioner once again adopts as her own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ regarding petitioner's allegations of non-genuine signatures, but finds sufficient evidence of illegal voting to refer the matter to the County Prosecutor due to the serious questions raised by the limited evidence established in this record.

As to petitioner's assertion, reiterated in exceptions, that the initial decision ignores the purpose for sample ballots in Newark, fails to provide any remedy for the acknowledged failure to mail approximately 8,000 such ballots pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29, and fails to consider such violation in an analysis of election conduct and results, the Board reasserts its contention, adopted by the ALJ, that "Petitioner has failed to meet her burden of showing that the Board is in the type of school district and type of city in which the (usually) mandatory term 'shall' section of the statute applies rather than the merely directory 'may' section." (Initial Decision, at p. 16, quoting N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29) The Commissioner finds and determines that N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29 does in fact apply to the city of Newark, by taking official notice that Newark had a population of approximately 329,000 in 1980 as delineated in N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29. The Commissioner further takes official notice that Newark in fact is a type II district and is in fact a special needs district. So finding, the Commissioner need not address the Board's allegation that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of demonstrating these three conditions apply to Newark in establishing that it is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:14-29 to mail sample ballots to the constituents of the school district, that it is a special needs district and a type II district.

It is with such facts established that the Commissioner expresses her strongest disapproval of the Board's failure to mail 8,000 sample election ballots. That it failed to do so because of insufficient monies in the account earmarked for such costs is an inexcusable ministerial error which she directs not be repeated. The Board is charged by law to disseminate such information as a means of informing the voters of the issues at play in the district. Even so, the record also compels the conclusion that notwithstanding this gross error, she must also conclude petitioner has not shown a sufficient connection between this violation and the outcome of the election to meet her burden of proof. See In the Matter of the Annual School Election Held in the School District of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County, decided by the Commissioner June 12, 1992.

Finally, the Commissioner rejects petitioner's exceptions dealing with electioneering for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, that is, that she has failed to demonstrate that even if electioneering occurred as a result of the palm card distribution, she has not established a connection between such irregularity and the outcome of the election.

Taken as a whole, the review of this record is disturbing indeed. Although petitioner has not met her burden of demonstrating that the will of the public has been thwarted by the election irregularities found to have occurred in the school district, the irregularities proven, in the Commissioner's judgment, warrant the careful attention of the Essex County Prosecutor, due both to the number of allegations brought to the record and for consideration of whether any such irregularities constitute fraud. It is with grave concern that the Commissioner refers this matter to such office for further action as it deems appropriate.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured teaching staff member, alleged she was discriminated against because of her age and physical condition in not being rehired for 1991-92 school year. Board contended petitioner's attendance was a factor in her nonrenewal.

Initial decision determined Board complied with all relevant aspects of regulations and statutes with exception of granting an informal appearance before Board but there is no specific penalty for such failure and there was no evidence that this failure was anything other than inadvertent or unintentional. ALJ concluded action of Board in choosing not to rehire petitioner was a lawful exercise of its discretion. ALJ further concluded that Board did not discriminate against petitioner in violation of Law Against Discrimination or violate her due process rights. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner agreed with the ALJ's finding that although the Board erred in not complying with N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20 [now 6:3-4.2], this violation of due process was remedied by the proceedings herein. Citing Dore, the Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises out of a petition filed by Bernadette D. Costanzo alleging that she was improperly not offered a new contract of employment for the 1991-92 school year, while she was a nontenured teacher in the employ of the Rahway Board of Education. This petition was filed with the Commissioner of Education and thereafter transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52 14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A prehearing conference was held in this matter on March 10, 1992 before Stephen G. Weiss, ALJ. At that time, the hearings were set down for October 20 and October 21, 1992 before the undersigned. Those hearing dates were adjourned at the request of the parties, and the hearing in this matter began on December 4, 1992 before the undersigned at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. Testimony was taken in this matter on seven nonconsecutive hearing days which included December 4, 1992, December 16, 1992, January 19 and 28, 1993, February 24 and 25, 1993 and March 9, 1993. At the conclusion of testimony in this matter, the hearing record was left open until April 12, 1993 in order to allow both sides to submit written memoranda of law regarding the case. That date was extended to April 20, 1993 at the request of the parties. On April 20, 1993, the record closed, and the forty-five day statutory time frame to render an initial decision would have expired on June 4, 1993. The undersigned requested an Order of Extension from the Department of Education, which was granted, and the time for filing an initial decision was extended until July 19, 1993.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

Prior to the commencement of the hearing, both sides entered into a written stipulation of facts (J-40), which is set forth as follows:

1. Petitioner was first employed as a teaching staff member with the respondent board of education in the annual contract in September 1988. Petitioner was reappointed under contract for the 1989-90 academic year. Petitioner was reappointed for a third teaching year in September 1990.

2. At the time of petitioner's notice of non-reappointment in April 1991, petitioner was forty-three years old.

3. At all times during which petitioner was teaching for the respondent board, there existed a contract between the board and the Rahway Teachers' Association permitting thirteen sick days per annum. The records reveal petitioner was out fifteen days in her first year; thirteen days in her second year; and thirteen days in her third year of teaching with the respondent.

4. Respondent board did not request petitioner to undergo medical evaluation by its own doctor at any time after petitioner's initial employment.

5. Petitioner's attendance was the basis for respondent Del Monaco's summative evaluation of March 30, 1991, whereon it is noted: "O = opportunity for improvement" under Category E: Work habits and obligations.

6. Petitioner requested an informal appearance from the board as permissible under N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20.

7. Respondent did not give petitioner an opportunity to be heard pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20 as requested in her May 23, 1991 letter.

8. Petitioner, Bernadette Costanzo, was the only teacher completing her third year of employment who was excluded by respondent Del Monaco, from being recommended for reappointment in 1991.

9. (a) In addition to petitioner, twelve other teachers completed their third year of employment in June 1991.

   (b) All twelve teachers were offered reemployment and obtained tenure.

   (c) Petitioner was the only teacher completing her third year of employment who was not offered reemployment.

10. There was no written policy with regard to the number of days permitted absence due to illness for teaching staff members, but the teachers' contract stipulated thirteen days.

11. Petitioner was allowed to enroll in respondent's sick bank program.

As these facts were stipulated to by the parties, I FIND them to be operational facts of this case.

TESTIMONY

During the hearing, testimony was taken from a number of members of the respondent board of education.

Renee La Prete, who is the Assistant Principal of Rahway High School and had been for the preceding five years, testified. Part of her job involves evaluating teachers.

There was a 1991 summative evaluation of the petitioner which is based on yearly evaluations. Ms. La Prete is required to sign off on evaluations. Other participants in the evaluation process include Mr. Del Monaco, who is the Principal; Mr. Yergalonis, the Assistant Principal; and Mr. Stanley Friedman, who is a department chairman, as well as Ms. La Prete.

She acknowledged that she had never observed the petitioner's classroom performance, although she did have a close rapport with her. Ms. La Prete is also in charge of obtaining class coverage for teachers which included petitioner, if they are out for any reason.

Ms. La Prete indicated that she signed off on a March 30, 1991 evaluation (J-6), which reflected a marking of O, which stands for opportunity to improve under work habits and obligations. She testified this dealt with attendance. It was discussed at a committee meeting, as well as during the year. They specifically review attendance records of teachers.

Ms. La Prete said that she concluded that petitioner needed improvement in the area of attendance. She explained that the district prides themselves on their work ethic and attendance is paramount as their concern. She stated that she felt the amount of days that petitioner was absent was exorbitant. The board policy is that staff members have thirteen sick days available. According to her, they are not just "a given" and they should be used just when an employee is ill.

The witness testified that she has had to evaluate other teachers and feels that ten days sick time in a year may also be excessive. Anything from five to six days per year would, in her words, be cause for alarm. There is no set number in the board policy. She confirmed that in reviewing the attendance, she does not look at the nature of the illness or absence.

When the decision is made not to rehire, it is based upon the total sick days used for the three-year period and does not look to the nature of the absences. She stated that she does not recall ever having recommended nonreappointment for any teacher in the last five years because of their attendance records.

Ms. La Prete spoke with petitioner after the signing of the report and the petitioner appeared very upset. They discussed her "excellent performance as an educator." It was her attendance which hurt her.

Ms. La Prete confirmed that the decision not to rehire her had nothing to do with Ms. Costanzo's performance as a teacher.

Ms. La Prete also acknowledged that there is no requirement for a doctor's note or certificate for each absence.

Ms. La Prete stated that when classroom evaluations are done during the year by the individuals responsible for them, there are also pre- and post-conference meetings. This is the standard operating procedure used by the board. There are a minimum of three observations for nontenured teachers, but they try to make five visits and observations. Those observations may be unannounced; however, she stated that she never did that. The witness tells the teacher that she is coming and stated that she believes Mr. Del Monaco and Mr. Yergalonis do the same.

The witness confirmed that the policy of the Rahway Public Schools was in effect at the time in question (P-1). She pointed out that under work habits and obligations on page nine of that exhibit, punctuality is listed although attendance is not specifically stated. That district evaluative procedure booklet has nothing regarding the number of absences which are considered appropriate or excessive.

Ms. La Prete did state that the nature of an individual's absence may have something to do with whether or not there is a recommendation to rehire. She explained this by saying that if someone underwent surgery and it was one long illness, there might be a different effect on the recommendation. This was due to the fact that the district might be more able to have some form of continuity of education if they were aware that for a period of time an individual would be out rather than having to obtain substitute teachers at the last minute. She stated that there is no difference in her evaluation of tenured or nontenured teachers regarding their attendance.

Ms. La Prete was asked about a number of other summative evaluations and confirmed that the evaluation in 1989, which was Ms. Costanzo's second year (J-4), indicated that they were pleased with her performance but that her attendance needed improvement. Ms. Costanzo signed this and no response was submitted.

A summative evaluation from April of 1990, which was Ms. Costanzo's third year teaching (J-5), also addressed the need to improve her attendance and that she had been so informed. That evaluation stated that failure to improve attendance could result in termination. No response was submitted to this report and it was signed by the petitioner.

With respect to a summative evaluation of March 1991 (J-6), Ms. La Prete pointed out that it indicated that students have lost instructional time due to absences over the three-year period. As a result, Ms. Costanzo was not being recommended for reappointment. Ms. Costanzo also signed this last evaluation.

According to Ms. La Prete, attendance is paramount in making school function day in and day out. Although long-term illness is viewed differently, the impact of a long-term absence does not provide necessarily an inconsistency in instruction which the children are given. That would give the district the opportunity to plan to get a certified instructor in the same subject area. She stated that incidental absences provide the problem of no continuity of instructors, whether they are substitutes or other instructors.

Prior to the day of her testimony, Ms. La Prete indicated that she was unaware of the petitioner's age. She clearly stated that age had no part in the determination not to rehire the petitioner, and that she had never had any discussion regarding any possible handicap or illness which the petitioner might have had. These were never considered nor was gender an issue. She was also not told or forced by anyone to make the recommendation that petitioner not be rehired.

Ms. La Prete stated that each year after a conference was held and the petitioner was encouraged to improve her attendance. It did, in fact, improve. Nonetheless, her attendance included fifteen absences in her first year, which was two over that provided by contract. It also included thirteen absences for her second year and thirteen absences for her third year.

Ms. La Prete stated that it was her feeling that the district would not want this problem to continue for the next twenty years by rehiring petitioner as a tenured teacher. She also described an incentive program which exists when there are funds available. Through this incentive program those individuals who have a perfect attendance record for a first year receive some form of reward. The rewards increase slightly from year to year as the individuals may accumulate other unblemished years.

Stanley Friedman also testified during the hearing. He was a supervisor and is certified for English K-8 and foreign language K-12. He acted as a supervisor of language and foreign language for grades 7 through 12 during the period of time from 1988 to June of 1991 and was the petitioner's supervisor. He participated in a number of evaluations of the petitioner, including the March 1991 evaluation (J-6). That evaluation indicated a need for improvement under the category of work habits and obligations. He stated that he felt attendance fit in here and there was no specific spot for attendance itself. He did speak with petitioner over the three-year period and told her that she needed to improve her attendance.

The March 1989 evaluation (J-4) also had a paragraph dealing with attendance. He did not recall if he specifically wrote it, but he did participate in the evaluation conference.

With respect to the April 1990 evaluation, he participated and it reflected thirteen absences. It also contained a paragraph regarding attendance.

The witness stated that he concurred in the decision not to rehire Ms. Costanzo after the third year. During the first two years, they wanted to give her every opportunity to achieve tenure. At the end of the third year, it was necessary to make a decision.

He confirmed that there was never a punctuality problem with the petitioner.

He stated that at some time after the 1991 evaluation he was called into Mr. Del Monaco's office. He was then asked to give the petitioner the evaluation and called her into his office. He showed her the evaluation and she began to cry. He went in order to cover her homeroom until she was able to continue her duties.

The witness stated that he had spoken with her regarding her attendance. When absent, she did call him directly and either she or her husband would call and give him the lesson plans for the day.

The witness stated that when he made a determination to recommend that she not be rehired, it was not based upon any question or concern that she might not have been ill while using the sick time. According to him, the loss of instructional time was the only factor which was used. He stated that the board policy allowed thirteen days of sick leave per year.

In that particular year, he evaluated approximately fifteen individuals and Ms. Costanzo was the only one not recommended for reappointment.

The witness stated that the first comments regarding her attendance dated back to 1989. Classroom attendance was mentioned and she was urged to improve. She received that evaluation and signed it and did discuss the comment with the witness during a December 5, 1989 conference. He stated this was to put her on alert. Attendance immediately impacts on all the students she would be teaching. No response in writing was received as a result of this conference.

The classroom evaluation of February 8, 1990 (J-2) was made by this witness. On page three, the last paragraph also urged her to improve her attendance. She did not submit any written response to this evaluation.

The witness stated that the purpose of a conference is to discuss both the positive things which a teacher exhibits, as well as those negative aspects which may exist. She was given a copy of the February 1990 report twenty-four hours prior to signing it.

The witness also participated in the summative evaluation of March 1989 (J-4). He stated that they were pleased with her performance. However, her attendance was less than satisfactory. The petitioner did sign it and did not submit a written response. This was the third writing that advised her of the possibility of a problem regarding attendance.

The 1990 summative evaluation (J-5) was prepared and signed and also noted the attendance problem. That particular evaluation informed Ms. Costanzo of the possibility that there would be a recommendation to terminate her employment if the attendance problem was not remediated. She received a copy and signed it, and no written response was submitted. He stated that this was the second year and they wished to make sure that she was aware of both the problem and the possibility of termination.

The witness stated that this is not an attendance pattern that he is pleased to see. She exhibited the same pattern in 1990-91.

He also participated in the summative evaluation of March 1991 (J-6). That evaluation made comment on page two that students had lost instructional time. By that time, he had already given her at least three warnings regarding attendance.

This last summative evaluation was the most important one because the decision to rehire or not to extend an offer of employment would mean whether or not the petitioner would receive tenure.

This witness conceded that Ms. Costanzo was an outstanding teacher in the classroom. The decision to deny her tenure was based solely upon inconsistencies in her attendance and the impact of lost instructional time on the students. He stated that if a teacher is absent, he or she must make sure that plans are given to the substitute and explain the program so that it can be carried out appropriately.

If there is a long-term absence, then a person with a certificate in that particular subject area could be obtained, and there would be less interruption of services to the students and more continuity of education. Substitutes cannot effectively replace the teacher where incidental absences are at issue.

The witness stated that he weighed the favorable attributes of Mrs. Costanzo against her attendance record and felt that the attendance problem outweighed the positive aspects of her teaching abilities.

The witness indicated that the first time he found out the petitioner's age was the day of the hearing at which he testified. He did not consider age in making his decision nor did he at any time discuss any possible handicap or illness as these were not reasons for the decision not to rehire.

Ms. Costanzo never asked for any specific accommodation in order to help her deal with any possible or perceived handicap. The witness also confirmed that no one forced him to reach the conclusion which he did, and it was entirely voluntary on his report.

The witness recapped the reasons for not rehiring Ms. Costanzo as:

1. The number of absences.
2. The pattern of absences.
3. The adverse impact upon student instruction.

Anthony Rocco, Jr. also testified during the hearing. He is the Business Administrator and Board Secretary and has a business function as well as setting up meetings and taking minutes for the board of education. He is involved with staff members regarding pay but not with respect to professional evaluations. As of the time of the hearing, it was his fourteenth year as secretary to the Rahway Board of Education. On April 16, 1991, there was a board of education meeting, and the board was involved both in private caucus and in open public meeting.

With respect to public comment, he stated that the public is able to make comments about issues that come up. At the conclusion of that, the board goes into private session and no members of the public are permitted within. Members of the public did speak at the open session. The witness does not recall any questions being posed by board members. He did state that there might have been a verbal discussion, but did not know precisely how long it took.

The decision of the board of education was to not rehire Ms. Costanzo. A memo, dated April 17,1991, from Frank D. Brunette to Ms. Costanzo, informed her that, as a result of the meeting held on April 16, 1991, she would not be offered a contract for the 1991-92 school year.

The petitioner, Bernadette Costanzo, also testified during the hearing. She was first employed as a French and Spanish teacher by the Rahway Board of Education in September of 1988. Prior to becoming employed, she was interviewed by Ms. La Prete and told that the position could possibly lead to tenure. Prior to that, she had worked for the Bayonne school system.

She submitted to a physical examination and filled out forms.

She stated that during the interview she was told that a teacher was permitted thirteen sick days per year. There was a specific phone number she had to call to indicate that she would be out absent. She then had to call her supervisor and give him details of the lesson plan. She stated that she called Mr. Friedman when she was ill or if her son was ill and told him so.

Petitioner agreed that the attendance records for her were correct indicating that in the 1988-89 school year she was out fifteen days, which involved eleven discreet periods of absence. In the 1989-90 school year, she was out thirteen days which involved ten discreet periods of absence, and in the 1990-91 school year she was out thirteen school days which involved four discreet periods of absence. She did not submit medical verification as to her absences because she was not required to do so.

In the 1988-89 summative evaluation, she indicated that she was present and acknowledged the evaluation. She stated that her attendance improved somewhat after the evaluation and that she is more susceptible to colds and flu in the warmer months. In 1990-91, she experienced a great deal of pain and went to a doctor for tests. She stated that he determined she suffered from severe gastritis and she spoke to Mr. Brown as well as Mr. Friedman. She finally sought medical treatment after November of 1991.

The witness testified that she was rehired after the 1988-89 summative evaluation even though she had used the agreed upon number of sick days.

The witness testified that she requested a meeting with the superintendent after the summative evaluation (J-15). She also requested a meeting with the board in April. She did receive a meeting with the superintendent around Easter break and gave him copies of the evaluations from the Bayonne school system. She did not recall a conference with Mr. Brunette regarding nonreappointment. Subsequently, she received a memo that she was not going to be recommended for tenure. After receiving this memo, she asked for a hearing before the board and never received a response.

She did receive notification after the board's action. After concluding her work for the Rahway Board of Education, she began to work at St. Peter's Prep in Jersey City, teaching French and Spanish in grades nine through twelve. She has an annual contract with them, with her first year's salary amounting to $25,700 and her second year's salary amounting to $26,225. Had she remained with the Rahway Board of Education for the 1991-92 school year, her salary would have been approximately $31,000 with a Master's plus thirteen credits and in the 1992-93 school year, it would have been approximately $41,000 with her Master's plus thirty credits. She stated that she would have been allowed to take courses as long as she maintained a B average and that the Rahway Board of Education would have reimbursed her. As of June of 1991, she had only three credits; however, since that time, she has received six more credits but not been reimbursed for the courses that were taken. The total amount for the courses which she has taken but has not been reimbursed was $798.

The petitioner also testified that she had a dental plan at Rahway and had amassed a number of dental bills. She stated that the total unreimbursed amount was $1,140; however, she also had dental coverage under her husband's work and was unable to say whether or not the bills had been paid or covered through his plan. She also was unable to describe the type of coverage that she had through her husband's employment or whether or not there was a deductible.

The petitioner testified that she feels that she was treated differently from other employees. She wrote letters requesting a hearing and did not receive one and feels that she was not allowed to speak on her own behalf. She indicated that she felt humiliated because she has never been let go from any position before and feels that this acts as a black mark on her record.

The petitioner testified at length regarding the days which she was out as to whether or not they were all due to her own illness or whether, on several occasions, they may have been due to the illness of a child.

Ms. Costanzo conceded that on her health status examination form, which was filled out prior to her employment with the Rahway Board of Education, she stated that she did not have any condition that would limit or restrict her ability to perform her job. No indication on that form was made that she suffered from any handicapping condition.

Ms. Costanzo conceded that the first time she was made aware that there was an attendance problem was in the first year. In the classroom observation report in 1989, there was a notation on the last page regarding her attendance in the 1988-89 school year. She did not submit a response to the evaluation because there was nothing in the evaluation that was not true. In the February 8, 1990 conference, as a result of her classroom evaluation, it also stated that she was urged to improve her attendance. She acknowledges that this was the second notice that she was given with respect to the problem.

The witness strenuously agrees that continuity of instruction is important for students.

The witness also acknowledges having signed and received a summative evaluation, dated March 23, 1989, which stated that Rahway was pleased with her performance but that her attendance was not satisfactory. She did recall discussing her attendance record with Mr. Brown, but did not recall if it was as a result of this evaluation. She also did not feel the need to write a written response to this one.

The April 1990 summative evaluation notified her that failure to improve could result in a recommendation to terminate her employment from Rahway. She stated that she was concerned when she was told this; however, she did not file a written response. Ms. Costanzo stated that she recognizes that she had been absent but felt that her other contributions were strong and positive and therefore outweighed any problems that her absences might have caused. She never felt that absence alone would be the factor relied upon in making a decision as to whether or not to rehire her.

The petitioner also acknowledged having seen the board of education attendance policy (J-9), which is in the manual given to the teachers. This discusses attendance and requires the presence of assigned personnel.

Ms. Costanzo stated that at no time did she request a leave of absence and therefore must concede that the board of education did not fail to grant her any leave of absence.

Ms. Costanzo did go to the April 16, 1991 board of education meeting. She was present for the entire meeting, although she was not in the private session. A number of people spoke on her behalf in public. However, she made no statement during the public session. She acknowledged that none of the administrators at Rahway told her that she could not speak at the meeting.

Ms. Costanzo acknowledges that she had received a number of cautions regarding her attendance. She did not indicate to the Rahway Board of Education that she suffered from any type of handicap nor did she ask for any leave of absence due to extended illness or disability. She also did not ask the board for any accommodation for any physical limitations from which she might suffer.

In rebuttal, the board of education called Nicholas Del Monaco, who is the Principal of Rahway High School. From January 1, 1991, he was the Acting Principal until April 1, 1991 when he became the fulltime Principal. He began his career with the Rahway Board of Education in 1963. He was certified as a chief school administrator in 1975. He listed his educational background during his testimony.

He testified that one of the things he learned in graduate school and has stressed is the importance of attendance for teachers. He stated that there is no substitute for the real teacher.

From 1978 to 1990, he was the Assistant Superintendent of Schools under Frank Brunette, which made him second in command for the entire district. Part of his job was interviewing new teachers, discussing the job as well as fringe benefits, district rules and regulations, the sick bank and expectations that the school district has for them. He would then set up an appointment with the individual and the superintendent. He also discussed attendance with them, as well as tuition reimbursement.

Mr. Del Monaco described an incidental absence as being less than five days while a long-term absence was five or more consecutive days. He stated that this was discussed at the orientation meeting for all teachers. Petitioner started in the 1988-89 school year and there was an orientation meeting prior to the start of school. Evaluative procedures were covered and that included attendance. There was also discussion of loss of instructional time and the adverse affect that it would have on students.

The witness stated that he first saw Ms. Costanzo's evaluation when she started to work. He got copies of the classroom observations and the summative evaluations. He stated that he was aware of Ms. Costanzo's attendance record. He did send a memo to Ms. Costanzo and met with her and discussed attendance.

He testified regarding the evaluations (J-1 through J-6) and indicated that the last two paragraphs not recommending that she be rehired in the summative evaluation of March 1991, while he was Acting Principal, were written by him. He stated that he weighed the attendance factor against her many positive aspects. Attendance is extremely important and this would have been her last year before getting tenure.

The witness testified that he never knew the petitioner's age until he found it out during the hearing nor was he aware of any handicap or medical condition that would have precluded the petitioner from being able to work or needing an accommodation. The witness also stated that Ms. Costanzo's gender was not an issue in his decision and no one forced him or coerced him not to rehire her. He stated that he did so voluntarily based upon all factors weighed together.

The witness testified that this would have been the last year prior to Ms. Costanzo's receiving tenure. According to him, bad habits such as attendance problems, usually carry over so the district looks very carefully at them. They consider the three years leading up to that as a probationary period. While he agrees that academically Ms. Costanzo met the expectations of the board and the district, her attendance did not fit their expectations and was sufficiently weighed to result in her not being rehired.

Ronald Dolce was also called as a witness. He had been with the Rahway Board of Education for twenty-three years as a teacher. He is also president of the Rahway Education Association (REA). He represents certified staff and noncertified staff. He was the president of the organization in the 1990-91 school year. His function is to protect teachers' rights and maintain contract and support educational systems. He stated that he usually attends board of education meetings and is familiar with the format used.

The witness stated that he knows Ms. Costanzo as a teacher with the district. At the time of the hearing, he had not spoken to her since her termination. He stated that anyone in the audience during a board meeting has the right to speak during the public portion of the meeting. He denied having ever told anyone that they cannot speak at the public portion of the meeting. He stated that he did not tell Ms. Costanzo that she was not able to talk. He was present at the meeting when Ms. Costanzo's reappointment was voted on and was there for the entire meeting, with the exception of the private session. He stated that people spoke on her behalf and there were no negative comments.

Frank D. Brunette also testified. He was the Superintendent of the Rahway Board of Education from 1978 to 1992. He had been with Rahway for twenty years from 1959 to 1978 before he became Superintendent.

He stated that he had developed a philosophy essentially delineating that one who is employed should be present at the work site. To him, this is particularly important in education. There is a correlation between time on task and ability. He stated that he carried out that philosophy while he was Superintendent in the district. According to him, there is a high correlation between teacher performance and their attendance and he asked the board of education to acknowledge good performance. The board of education policy (J-9) was implemented and it sets a course for the district which is "vital" to the success of the district. He stated that high absence rates would have a detrimental effect over a period of time.

The witness testified that he made a recommendation not to renew Ms. Costanzo's contract to the board of education and based it on the recommendation of the High School Principal, Mr. Del Monaco.

He also spoke with Mr. Brown before he left about Ms. Costanzo's attendance problems several times. He also spoke with employees about other nontenured teachers. He stated that when Mr. Brown recommended reappointing Ms. Costanzo after the first and second years, he accepted that recommendation. After the third year, however, the recommendation was to terminate, and he accepted that decision. He was aware of the problems through a series of meetings and when he met with Ms. Costanzo in April 1991, he had already had other meetings with her. He stated that he had reviewed the evaluations and the problems that had been documented in J-1 through J-6. He based his decision in reviewing these items and upon the strength of the recommendation by the principal.

The witness stated that he has recommended not rehiring other individuals for excessive absenteeism and that one person which he did not recommend rehiring was a man. He testified that this was not a gender-based issue and that he did not know Ms. Costanzo's age at the time the decision was made. He also testified that the decision was not based upon some form of handicap or disability. He does not know if she has any form of handicap or disability. He also stated that she never asked for a leave of absence.

Mr. Brunette agreed that Ms. Costanzo did meet the district's expectations with regard to her teaching performance. However, she did not meet their expectations regarding attendance.

The witness testified that he had personally reviewed Ms. Costanzo's attendance record after he received her summative evaluation and was aware there were medical excuses for some, if not all, of the absences. He testified that the reasons for the absences were not in question. The only factor was the loss of instructional time to students. As a result, it was only the number of absences that were of concern to him.

10. On May 15, 1991, Superintendent Brunette provided petitioner with the reasons for nonappointment (J-21).

13. On May 23, 1991, petitioner wrote to the board president requesting an informal appearance before the board at an open public meeting to persuade the board to reconsider its initial decision (J-34).

14. While this letter was received by the board, no response was made to the request to appear before the board and therefore the petitioner did not have the opportunity to do so.

15. The reason for not rehiring the petitioner after her third year of employment was due to a pattern of absences in the preceding three years. In the 1988-89 school year, she was absent fifteen days in a pattern of incidental absences. In the 1989-90 school year, she was absent thirteen days, again in a pattern of incidental absences. In the 1990-91 school year, she was absent a total of thirteen days, also in a pattern of incidental absences.

16. The petitioner's contract called for a maximum thirteen days of sick leave in a given year.

17. Other than the question of absences, Ms. Costanzo's performance was acceptable and indeed positive, and the decision not to rehire her was in no way based upon performance-related aspects of her employment other than the question of absences.

18. Nothing exists in the record to suggest that any sick days taken by the petitioner were for any reason other than legitimate use upon her part.

19. The importance of attendance of teaching staff members was stressed with all teaching staff members, both prior to their beginning work as well as from year to year during incentive assemblies.

20. Clearly incidental absences cause interruption and interference with the day-to-day instructional program of students due to the fact that last-minute substitutes must be brought in. Incidental absences cause a greater interference than prolonged anticipated absences due to the fact that the individual, who may come in as a substitute, would not be able to provide the necessary continuity of program. In a prolonged absence, the district would be able to minimize the amount of interruption by providing for a concisely planned manner in which to deal with the situation.

21. The petitioner received a number of indications from her superiors in each of her three years of employment with the Rahway School District that her absences were excessive and a cause for concern. She was advised both orally, as well as specifically in writing, on at least seven separate occasions:

    (a) summative evaluation of March, 1989 (J-4)
    (b) classroom observation report of December 4, 1989 (J-1)
    (c) classroom observation report of February 15, 1990 (J-2)
    (d) Principal's memo to petitioner of February 20, 1990 (J-11)
    (e) summative evaluation of April, 1990 (J-5)
    (f) Principal's memo to petitioner of January 14, 1991 (J-12)
    (g) summative evaluation of March 30, 1991 (J-5)

22. The decision of the Rahway Board of Education not to rehire the petitioner who was a nontenured employee, was within the board's discretion and was not unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious, but rather based upon a review of the information available and the recommendations of the evaluating personnel.

23. The petitioner requested that the Rahway School District provide a statement of reasons as to her not being rehired and was provided with such in a timely fashion.

24. The petitioner requested an informal appearance before the board of education. However, no such appearance was granted and the board failed to respond to the petitioner's request. There is no evidence in the record that suggests that the failure to respond was intentional.

25. The petitioner attended the board of education meeting on April 16, 1991, at which time action was to be taken by the board on the Superintendent's recommendation not to rehire her. At that time, she was present throughout the entire meeting and a number of individuals commented on that action and her job performance during the public portion of the meeting. While the petitioner claims that she was unaware that she could speak, I find that there is nothing in the record to support her contention that she felt she was someone not permitted to speak when the rest of the public was permitted to do so. She made no effort during that meeting to address the board of education.

26. The board, after hearing the information presented at the meeting, then voted not to extend a new contract to Ms. Costanzo.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

The petitioner initiated this action alleging violations of various school laws as well as allegations relative to discrimination under N.J.S.A. 10:5.1 et seq. The authority of the Commissioner to hear and determine issues of school law is statutory and is found in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

While petitioner's complain includes allegations relative to questions under the Law Against Discrimination (LAD), jurisdiction to hear allegations alleging discrimination other than under Title 18A, may come under the jurisdiction of the Department of Education to concurrently entertain the complaint and the jurisdiction of the Division of Civil Rights is not mandatory. Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Ed., 77 N.J. 514 (1978).

In this case, the petitioner alleges that the failure to rehire her and extend a contract to her violated the minimum standard of due process guaranteed under State education laws and elementary due process protection.

The respondent board of education has admitted that it did not comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20, which provides the procedure for appearance of nontenured teaching staff members before a district board of education upon receipt of notice of non-reemployment.

There is no question that this portion was not complied with. The weight and effect to which this should be given will be discussed later in the discussion portion of this decision. The other alleged violations of due process found in the petitioner's posthearing submission at page 25 and 26, numbers one through eight, are not found to be substantiated within the course of the proceeding.

The petitioner contends that there was a denial of due process in the implementation of the summative evaluation where she alleges she first learned of Mr. Del Monaco's position regarding nonrenewal in J-6. This portion is completely unfounded. In prior evaluations, questions regarding her attendance were brought up and are clear in the exhibits which have been marked into evidence. While it was not until J-6 that there was a specific statement regarding the adverse impact her absences would have, resulting in the possibility of nonrenewal, it is clear that her attendance over the three-year period had been questioned and pointed out to her.

Petitioner argues that N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.19(d) requires the board to adopt a written policy regarding the supervision and provides the same to each teacher as well as requiring a written evaluation of the total performance. Petitioner seems to have added a requirement into that particular regulation which does not exist. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.19(d) states that each policy for the supervision of instruction shall include, in addition to those observations and evaluations hereinbefore described, a written evaluation of the nontenured teaching staff members total performance as an employee of the district board of education, including but not limited to certain enumerated areas. The evaluations discussed are defined in subsection (b) as meaning a written evaluation prepared by the administrative or supervisory staff member who visits the work station for the purpose of observing a teaching staff member's performance of the instructional process. Petitioner seems to have jumped from what is required in the evaluation process into adding a requirement that the board adopt a written policy regarding the supervision and give this to the teacher under that particular regulation. No such requirement exists pursuant to the regulation. The board of education and the district in this case complied with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.19 requiring their supervision of instruction as well as observation and evaluation of nontenured staff members.

Respondent also argues that the board of education acted arbitrarily and capriciously in not rehiring petitioner. In the three years the petitioner worked for the respondent, she exceeded the permissible amount of sick days by two in her first year. In the second and third years, she used the thirteen days each year that were available to her. High absenteeism has previously been deemed sufficient grounds for disciplinary action in tenure matters, even with the existence of legitimate medical excuses. Montville Township Education Association v. Bd. of Education of the Township of Montville, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8247-83, Commissioner's decision at 10 (April 16, 1984); Angelucci v. West Orange Board of Education, 180 S.L.D. 1066; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Blanche Sheets, 1980 S.L.D. 526, State Board rev'g 1979 S.L.D. 790. In this case, there are medical reasons for the absences. However, there is no question that Ms. Costanzo had been warned about her absences. Excessive absenteeism can interefere with the operation of schools. Sheets, supra. In the Sheets case, the court's holding was that even if the teacher was on approved medical leave or utilized only those sick days to which they were entitled, this would not prevent the argument that the absences were part of a record which justified a teacher's removal. Id. at 791. While that case dealt with a tenured teacher, the question of absenteeism is certainly equally as important when it comes to a nontenured teacher. Prior absences certainly can be used as a predictor of future patterns of absences which may come forward.

It is also equally imperative that the individual be given warnings that his or her superiors are dissatisfied with the pattern of absences which has come forward. In this case, Ms. Costanzo received a number of evaluations in which reference was made to her absences. Notwithstanding the fact that she was apparently a fine teacher, it is compelling to any board of education for them to know that if they accept a teacher in a tenured position, that teacher will be able to fulfill the duties without interruption in services and a break in continuity of instruction to their students. The respondent's conduct was neither arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, in that they weighed the mitigating factors regarding Ms. Costanzo's performance with the problems created by the pattern which she exhibited.

Petitioner also alleges violations of the LAD based upon age, sex or as regard to handicap or a perception of handicap. In this case, the testimony clearly and unequivocally established that the decisions made were in no way related to the age of the petitioner, her sex or any perception of handicap. In addition to this, petitioner admitted during her testimony that she does not suffer from any handicap. This, coupled with the fact that at no time did she request a leave of absence nor was one denied, clearly forecloses the argument that there has been a violation of the LAD.

Based upon all the considerations, it was clearly within the respondent's discretion to determine whether or not to reemploy Ms. Costanzo, a nontenured teacher, for a fourth year which would have granted her tenure. A nontenured teacher, while entitled to protection from arbitrary and capricious action, is not entitled to be treated in a nature in which a tenured teacher would, where there is a proposal of termination of employment. The question is whether or not the board acted reasonably in its decision and I FIND that, weighing the facts and circumstances, their decision was reasonable and not based upon improper considerations such as age, sex or handicap or perception of any handicap. The school board has discretion to determine whether or not to offer continued employment to its nontenured teachers. Fousty v. South Plainfield Board of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. ____ (March 23, 1990).

The board of education complied with all relevant aspects of the regulations and the statutes with the exception of granting an informal appearance before the district board of education. There is no question that Ms. Costanzo requested that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20. Neither N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2 nor N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 nor their implementing regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20, impose any specific penalty in the event that a local board fails to provide the prescribed procedures such as the informal hearing before the board of education. A lack of strict compliance with the regulation should not necessarily be read to convey an immediate right to be rehired to the petitioner. There is no evidence that this failure was anything other than inadvertent or unintentional. Additionally, not unlike the situation in Civil Service cases, the proceeding before the Office of Administrative Law should serve to remedy the lack of appearance in an informal proceeding before the board of education. It is the hearing that took place at the OAL that, in essence, takes the place of the informal appearance as well as answering all other questions of fact and law which are presented. As a result, it is very much like a de novo proceeding which will cure any administrative defects below. In re Darcy, 454 N.J. Super. (App. Div. 1971).

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the action of the Rahway Board of Education in choosing to not rehire the petitioner, Bernadette D. Costanzo, for the 1991-92 school year, was a lawful exercise of its discretion. I further CONCLUDE that the Rahway Board of Education did not discriminate against the petitioner or violate the LAD nor did they violate any of her due process rights.

ORDER

Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition of Bernadette D. Costanzo be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF RAHWAY, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to the dictates of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge. As stated by the Court in Dore v. Bedminster Township Board of Education, 185 N.J. Super. 447 (App. Div. 1982):

> absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undersirable by the local board. (at 456)

The Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ's finding that although the Board erred in not conplying with N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.20 [now 6:3-4.2], this violation of due process was remedied by the proceedings herein. Therefore, in the absence of any statutorily or constitutionally proscribed basis for the Board's choosing not to rehire petitioner for the 1991-92 school year, such action was a lawful exercise of its discretion.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal and adopts it as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed in the initial decision.

Decided by the State Board of Education, January 5, 1994

For the Petitioner-Appellant, John A. Smith, III, Esq.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Schnirman, Charney, Kahn & Howard (Alan Schnirman, Esq., of Counsel)

On January 5, 1994, the State Board of Education rendered its decision in this case, affirming the Commissioner's determination to dismiss the petition of a nontenured teacher who had alleged that the district board had not rehired her because of her age and physical condition.

On February 18, 1994, petitioner filed a motion for clarification/reconsideration of our January 2 decision. After considering the arguments of counsel, we deny that motion. Not only is the motion untimely, N.J.A.C. 6:2-2.7, but petitioner fails to provide any basis which would justify reconsidering our decision.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:

APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE,	:	DECISION
BERGEN COUNTY.	:

AUGUST 24, 1993

IN THE MATTER OF THE CAP WAIVER	:
APPEAL OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE,	:	DECISION
BERGEN COUNTY.	:

For Petitioner, Christopher M. Hartwyk, Esq. (Hartwyk & Slowinski)

For Respondent, Frank L. Migliorino, Esq.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 15, 1993 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the Borough of Moonachie (Board), wherein the Board sought to have included in the General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year a cap waiver amount defeated by the voters at the annual school election.

On March 24, 1993, the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools had notified the Board that its 1993-94 school budget was conditionally approved subject to passage by the voters of a cap waiver in the amount of $377,189 in current expense which was deemed necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient system of education in the district.

On April 20, 1993 the voters of the Borough of Moonachie defeated both the proposed General Fund tax levy for the 1993-94 school year in the amount of $3,126,920 and the General Fund cap waiver request in the amount of $377,189. Upon review of the defeated maximum permissible budget pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37, the Mayor and Council of the Borough certified the General Fund tax levy in the amount of $2,566,500, a reduction of $560,420 which the Board appealed to the Commissioner on June 15, 1993. Subsequently, the parties and the County Superintendent engaged in mediation sessions which resulted in the Borough agreeing to restore $445,420 of its prior reduction, leaving a $115,000 reduction which the County Superintendent deemed not to impair the Board's ability to provide a thorough and efficient education. As a result of this determination, the Board's previously filed appeal of the Borough's reductions was withdrawn.

With respect to the remaining issue of the defeated cap waiver, an unanticipated delay in a planned building project and the consequent reduction in the district's staffing needs resulted in the Board's being able, with approval of the County Superintendent, to reduce its cap waiver request on appeal by $86,000. This reduction was effectuated by an amended petition filed on July 20, 1993 seeking a total of $291,189 as necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education. By letter dated July 21, 1993, the Borough advised that it would not contest the Board's amended petition, and the record of this matter closed with the filing of the Board's position statement on August 24, 1993.

The cap waiver requested by the Board includes the following line items, all of which were determined by the County Superintendent to be essential for provision of a thorough and efficient education and unable to be funded by reallocation within the maximum permissible budget:

Current Expense	Account No.	Amount
Preschool/Kindergarten Teacher Salaries	11-110-100-101	$ 76,522
Grades 1-5 Teacher Salaries	11-120-100-101	31,373
Grades 6-8 Teacher Salaries	11-130-100-101	108,965*
Energy (Heat/Electricity)	11-000-260-620	14,329
Other Employee Benefits	11-000-290-290	60,000*
	Total Current Expenses	$291,189

*The County Superintendent had originally approved these line items in the amounts of $141,965 and $80,000 respectively, and had also approved a line item for resource room staff in the amount of $33,000; the amounts given here reflect the $33,000 and $20,000 reductions in salary and benefit accounts and omission of the Resource Room account later agreed to by him as discussed above.

Preschool/Kindergarten Teacher Salaries. These funds are necessary to continue programs at the Robert L. Craig School, programs which are well-established and successful and are integral prerequisites to the district's first and second grade curriculum.

Teacher Salaries, Grades 1 - 5. These funds are needed for a third-grade teacher position, without which two third-grade sections will have to be consolidated into a class in excess of 32 students, a size that will impede the district's ability to carry out its educational program for that grade.

Teacher Salaries, Grades 6 - 8. These funds are necessary for teaching positions which collectively constitute the district's art, music and physical education programs, the loss of which would have a particularly significant impact on Grades 6 - 8 due to the structure of the district's curriculum.

Energy (Heat and Electricity). These funds are needed to provide heat and electricity for the addition to the Robert L. Craig School, which must be serviced prior to occupancy so that construction may be completed and appropriate care and maintenance take place.

Other Employee Benefits. These funds are necessary to meet contractual benefit obligations to the teachers to be funded through the cap line items set forth above.

Upon review of the record of this matter, including the documentation provided by the district in support of the necessity for the cap waiver funds, which is incorporated herein by reference, the Commissioner finds and determines that the requested relief shall be and is hereby granted as the Board has borne its burden of demonstrating that these funds are necessary for provision of a thorough and efficient education to the students of the Moonachie School District. East Brunswick Township Board of Education v. East Brunswick Township Council, 48 N.J. 94 (1966); Board of Education of the Township of Deptford v. Mayor and Council of the Township of Deptford, 116 N.J. 305 (1989); Board of Education of the Borough of Rutherford v. Mayor and Council of the Borough of Rutherford, Bergen County, State Board of Education decision, July 7, 1993.

Accordingly, the Bergen County Board of Taxation is directed to adjust the General Fund tax levy of the Moonachie School District for the 1993-94 school year to reflect an increase of $736,609 ($445,420 in budget restorations agreed to by the municipality plus $291,189 in cap monies granted by the decision herein), which results in a total General Fund tax levy of $3,303,109.

DECISION ON MOTION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF

G. & G. ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS, INC. AND REESE CONSTRUCTION CO., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEMBERTON AND ALLEN-MARTINOVICH ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS, Respondents.

Bruce R. Demeter, Esq., for petitioners (Simon & Demeter, attorneys)

Frederick W. Hardt, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioners seek rejection of respondent Allen-Martinovich's bid for certain electrical work in the Pemberton Public Schools and award of the same to themselves. The petitioners allege Allen-Martinovich's bid exceeded its prequalification dollar amount; the respondent's Notice of Classification was improperly submitted; the respondent did not include the dollar amount of uncompleted contract work in its bid; the respondent did not identify Division of Building and Construction (DBC) classified subcontractors; the respondent failed to list three similar projects, and the respondent was late to a mandatory pre-bid meeting.

The respondent denies all allegations or, in the alternative, asserts that any irregularities were waivable.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by filing of a motion for emergency relief with a request for expedited hearing. The Department of Education transmitted the matter on June 10, 1993 to the Office of Administrative Law for determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through - 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through - 13.

Oral argument on the motion was heard at the Office of Administrative Law facility in Mercerville on Thursday, June 17, 1993.

ARGUMENTS

Petitioners

The petitioners assert they observed errors in the Allen-Martinovich bid. Specifically, the total amount bid exceeded Allen-Martinovich's prequalification limits established by DBC. Bid documents are required to be within DBC limits. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26, a Board of Education shall accept bids only from persons qualified by DBC. Only qualified bidders can be recognized. Further, Allen-Martinovich's certification was not submitted in a separate envelope as required. This requirement is in place for an obvious reason. If a bidder is not qualified, there is no need to open and review her or his bid.

The contract is made of several parts. However, bids were solicited as one proposal. The respondent's exceeds its qualification limits. The Board issued separate contracts, each for amounts less than the respondent's qualifications limits. The matter should not have gone that far. The Board should not have accepted the bid in the first place. The statutes do not contemplate breaking up a contract. Rather, they are aimed at keeping bidding on level ground in the public interest.

Interpretations the Board received from DBC are off the point. The focus should be on the acceptance of the bid. The Board has disadvantaged other qualified bidders.

If the respondent was the low bidder on all ten subcontracts, it would have exceeded its DBC qualification. The bid process is of utmost importance and any failure must lead to rejection of a bid - - unopened, unread, and unconsidered. The Board is trying to evade its responsibility by awarding parts of the total contract.

Allen-Martinovich did not list its subcontractors. If it uses subcontractors, it will disadvantage those who follow the rules. In addition, the respondent did not identify three similar projects. This requirement is clearly related to public protection: It shows that the bidder can do the job.

The respondent argues that only the amount of the projects of which the bidder is low bid shall be added to the amount of uncompleted contracts to determine if that bidder is under the prequalification limit established by DBC. This is true if and only if the projects are bid separately. In the present case, the bid documents call for one proposal. All other bidders acted accordingly.

The Board's action here invited later mischief. If a board can ask for a single bid and then break it up to reward certain favored contractors, the process is subverted.

Finally, on the issue of failure to identify subcontractors, the petitioners assert that some work awarded to Allen-Martinovich involves general contracting work and the bidder has failed to identify the general contractor it would use.

Respondents

The Board's first argument is procedural. In the request for interim restraint, the movant has to show it is entitled to relief. In the Board's opinion, it is not.

On the specific points raised, the Board points out that Allen-Martinovich has stated it needs no subcontractors in order to perform the subcontracts it was awarded (Exhibit 3). Allen-Martinovich did not list three similar projects. The Board waived submission, which it could properly do. This is not a major requirement. The Board reserved the right to reject any bidder who did not attend the required pre-bid meeting. Allen-Martinovich was late, but did attend the meeting. The Board considered this lateness and decided not to disqualify Allen-Martinovich on this basis. This does not somehow translate into a right to relief for the petitioner.

On the main issue, Allen-Martinovich has a DBC prequalification limit of $750,000.00. Its submitted bids totaling $627,000.00. With uncompleted work contracts, this totals more than $750,000.00. However, Allen-Martinovich was awarded $423,000.00 in contracts. Combined with uncompleted work contract amounts, this comes to less than $750,000.00, its limit.

The bidding statutes and rules are not just to establish a level playing field but, mainly, to protect the public interest. Prequalification is designed to eliminate from the process those who do not meet a general minimum standard. All bidders have to show the right to bid. There is nothing in statute that says a bidder must be disqualified for submitting bids that exceed its qualification limits. The Board cannot disqualify automatically; it must look at all bids. Allen-Martinovich got a contract on low bid. There is an absence of case law or rules prohibiting the Board to do so.

Interim relief would be inappropriate in the present case. The movant must show that harm to him, on balance, would not be greater than on the respondent. If electrical contracts are not let immediately, work cannot be done before the opening of school in September and several asbestos removal projects will have to be terminated. It is public policy to eliminate asbestos from school buildings. The Board also would be exposed to damages by contractors who have been awarded legitimate contracts that must be rescinded because electrical contracts are not let.

The bid specifications clearly require that the work at each of the Board 's schools shall be bid as a separate item. The bidding law must be addressed to avoid undue advantage. That is not the same as torturing the bid process. If many unqualified bids are received, the DBC or the Legislature could provide that a board of education may not consider a bidder whose total bids exceed his qualification limit. This should not be so strictly interpreted where many contracts are being bid. In this case, the bidder was successful only on some parts of the work to be done at several schools. The bidder's prequalification limit was not exceeded.

DETERMINATION

Pre-bid Meeting

Allen-Martinovich's representative concededly was late attending the pre-bid meeting. The Board reserved the right to reject any bidder who did not attend the meeting. Why the representative was late may be considered by the Board. Generally, determining which conditions may be waived is based on the materiality of the deviation, measured by the impact of the irregularity on the competitive bidding process. Terminal Const. Corp. v. Atlantic Cty. Sewerage Auth., 67 N.J. 403, 412 (1975). The purpose of bidding laws is to benefit taxpayers by securing competition and guarding against favoritism, improvidence, extravagance, and corruption. Trap Rock Industries v. Kohl, 59 N.J. 471, 479 (1971). While the statutory regulations of bidding are to be strictly observed, the application and construction of the statute should be such as to further, not frustrate, the legislative goals. Young v. West Orange Redev. Agency, 125 N.J. Super 440, 443 (App. Div. 1973). Inasmuch as this case found it appropriate, under the circumstances, to accept a bid late, mere lateness at a pre-bid meeting does not seem inappropriate where the late representative apparently satisfied all the other reasons for the pre-bid meeting.

Failure to Identify Subcontractors

The petitioners alleged that Allen-Martinovich did not submit a list of subcontractors with their bid proposal. This is true. However, Allen-Martinovich appears to have submitted a letter to the Board's architect indicating that all work would be conducted without the use of subcontractors. The architect submitted with Exhibit 3 three letters from Allen-Martinovich dated June 4, 1993. The third of these states

> In accordance with paragraph 1.8 of addendum 1, be advised that if awarded any of the contracts all work will be done by our forces except for final checkout of the sound clock and fire alarm systems which will be done under the supervision of the manufacturer's technician.
>
> No subcontractors will be used.

The statement clearly satisfies the requirement that subcontractors be identified.

Listing of Three Projects

The petitioners assert that Allen-Martinovich did not submit a list of similar projects performed by their company. The architect who drew the bids specifications acknowledges this defect. He requested that this information be forwarded to him within 24 hours of the bid opening. Allen-Martinovich did so. The architect recommended to the Board that the Board waive this as immaterial formality and being in their best interests.

Page 200-12 of the bid form at line 21 states

> List of a minimum of three (3) completed projects using specified system. Provide Owners' and Architect or Engineer's names, addresses, telephone numbers, Project name and year completed.

This requirement was created by the architect who drew the specifications. I am not cited to any authority in statute, rule or case law that requires such a list. This requirement apparently being of the Board's own making, and not required, the Board can waive it. This determination having been made, it is not necessary to address the propriety of 24-hour delay in submitting this information and I expressly refrain from doing so.

Separate Prequalification Statement

The bid form called for submission of each bidder's prequalification statement and amount of uncompleted projects in a separate envelope. It is conceded that Allen-Martinovich's prequalification statement and amount of uncompleted projects was not submitted in a separate envelope. It appears from the architect's certification that the material was submitted with Allen-Martinovich's bid packets, but the forms were current, were valid and were reviewed prior to reading any of Allen-Martinovich's bids. Again, the architect recommended that the Board waive this formality as immaterial and being in the Board's best interest.

Here again, there is a technical violation which appears to have worked no harm. The Board's waiver of this requirement appears to have been appropriate.

Prequalification Limits

Although Allen-Martinovich's bids, in the aggregate, together with unfinished contract work amounts, exceeded its prequalification limit, it was not the successful bidder on all phrases of the work. A DBC representative assured the architect that only the amount of the projects on which a bidder is low shall be added to the amount of uncompleted projects to determine if that bidder is under the prequalification limits established by DBC. Further, the fourth paragraph of the advertisement states

> Each facility shall be bid as separate projects with an overall construction bid. Each bidder shall be required to submit bid proposals on a minimum of three (3) facilities of their choice. Selected facilities have been scheduled to begin after asbestos abatement projects by others or shall be conducted in phases as indicated in the Project Manual.

The paragraph is quite clear and not reasonably susceptible of more than one meaning. Common sense, common experience and the clear wording all indicate no requirement that the entire electrical upgrade be bid. To the extent the petitioners read such a requirement into the language, they err.

Similarly, without more, there is no reason to apply the prequalification limit to the amounts bid. Common experience and common sense dictate that the total amount of bids awarded must be within the prequalification limit, when added to the amount of uncompleted contracts.

In deciding a motion of this type, it is necessary to consider immediacy of harm, irreparability of harm, likelihood of prevailing on the merits and to balance the relative harm worked by granting or denying the motion. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). It is also necessary to make all fair inferences in favor of the party not the maker of the motion.

In this case, harm, if any, might be immediate because contracts are soon to be let. I am not persuaded of irreparability because a money judgment could make petitioner whole. The question of prevailing on the merits, although by no means certain, seems on the basis of the arguments to tip slightly in the respondent's favor. As to relative harm, the Board has made much of its asbestos plans being contingent upon the electrical work that is the subject of this case. If the Board's procedures in this matter were patently wrong, no amount of pending work could overcome a decision against the Board. The relative harm worked upon the petitioners, as has already been determined, can be mitigated by a money judgment obtained in a proper forum.

Having considered and weighed carefully the arguments of counsel, I DETERMINE that the motion for emergent relief and stay of board action must be DENIED. It is so ORDERED.

Although the respondents successfully defend against the motion, the decision is no means one-sided. The respondent Allen-Martinovich made several mistakes.

Had any of them been material, the motion could have been granted. The Pemberton Board of Education, boards of education and all prospective bidders are reminded that the practice of competitive bidding for public contracts is rooted deep in sound principals of public policy. The purpose is to secure competition and the statutes directed toward the goal are for the benefit of the taxpayers and not the bidders. Hillside Tp. v. Sternin, 25 N.J. 317 (1957). No party should rely on a board's ability to waive certain requirements. Strict adherence to the bidding statutes and rules is the minimum conduct, not the maximum, expected of all involved in the bidding process.

It is further ORDERED that this matter proceed to plenary hearing unless earlier withdrawn.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEQUANNOCK, MORRIS COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent sought reversal of Board's denial to her son (W.B.) of his high school diploma. Petitioner contended Board unfairly gave W.B. a failing grade in physical education on the last day of school for cutting gym class.

Initial decision determined student wrongly cut class, but fair application of grading policy would have been to lower a mark for that marking period, not to lower it on an enhanced basis for perceived delinquencies or conduct in earlier marking periods despite policy language that seemed to allow such sanction. ALJ ordered Board to issue 1993 high school diploma to W.B.

Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part findings and determination in initial decision. Commissioner directed further clarification of W.B.'s fourth marking period grade in physical education to assess precise impact lowering W.B.'s unit grade had on his failing the fourth marking period. Commissioner found Board's physical education cut policy as compared to its district cut policy was in violation of the law. (V.J.H.) Therefore, Board was directed to terminate said cut policy. Commissioner directed Board to calculate W.B.'s fourth marking period physical education grade specifying numerically each component of the grade awarded W.B. and supplying justification for each numerical value. Thereafter Board is to recalculate W.B.'s grade excluding imposition of automatic grade reduction for cutting gym class. If W.B. achieves passing grade, a diploma is to be granted and record expunged.

J. B., petitioner, pro se

Anthony P. Sciarrillo, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 14, 1993 Decided: July 21, 1993

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

J. B., mother of W. B, a senior at Pequannock Township High School, Passaic County, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on June 29, 1993, asking action of the district board be reversed because of an unfair decision by which the student was given a failing grade on the last day of school and was thus refused his high school diploma. The Board's answer defending its action was filed with the Commissioner on July 6, 1993, challenging petitioner's standing to bring suit, asserting action was taken in accordance with grade policy, alleging the petition failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, and denying in general any action taken by teacher, administration or Board was arbitrary, without good cause or not in good faith. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on July 6, 1993, asking expedited hearing because "summer school commences July 12, 1993."

On short notice to the parties, the matter came on for hearing in the Office of Administrative Law on July 12 and 14,1993. It was continued from the first day to a second in order to give time for Board counsel to reconfer with his client at a meeting on the evening of July 12, 1993. The Board refused to change its earlier position supporting administration and teacher. Hearing was concluded on July 14, 1993; the record closed then.

EVIDENCE AT HEARING

Most material facts were not in dispute. Friday, June 18, was the last day of school. The student's period five class was in physical education, which on that day consisted of watching a video movie entitled "Guess Who's Talking 2." The student attended the class, but after it began and apparently when the teacher was momentarily out of the room, he left without permission and was nailed in the cafeteria by an assistant principal/disciplinarian who sent him back to his classroom. For the offense, which student and mother did not deny was wrong, the student was given a cut for the class. Later the teacher telephoned the mother to say not to prepare a graduation party because impact of the cut meant the student would not graduate with his class. The mother said the teacher said there was nothing she could do because the assistant principal ordered the cut and the refiguring of the student's yearly grade. Stunned and bewildered, the mother began what can only be described as a Kafkaesque journey to seek explanation for the harshness of sanction. As if in a dream world between the real and the surreal, the mother spoke to the assistant principal, who told her the action taken was that of the teacher herself. The next one consulted, the principal, in reviewing the matter decided to support the teacher. On appeal to the superintendent, he supported administrator and teacher. A review by a Board subcommittee supported the superintendent. The county superintendent allowed there was nothing much that office could do. A judge of Superior Court in Morris County listened to petitioner's complaint for an order to show cause but said there was little she, the judge, could do because petitioner had not exhausted administrative remedies. Although by that time graduation had come and gone without the student, the present petition was filed on June 29, 1993. The student has begun summer school classes in physical education, 19 class days for two and one-half hours each day. Tuition is $125. Assuming his attendance is satisfactory, one trusts he will qualify as passed and be eligible for diploma. Prospects seem good; he got an 88 in volleyball for the Pequannock High School third marking period.

The present matter survives, however, on a parent's plea against injustice done.

What bewilders the mother besides harshness of sanction is how, as she put it, the student could be considered passing the class on the morning of June 18 and flunking the class for the year in the afternoon by application of what she felt is a confusing mix of the cut/marking policies. See, P-13, Pequannock Township Student Handbook. Her analysis is P-22, which gives the student a 63.2 (and passing) mark for marking period four before the offense and a 57.8 grade after the offense and after application of the effect of the student's first cut. Thus, she argues, final grade of 57.8 even with the cut should have been averaged with an 88 for the third marking period to reach a passing 72.9 final grade.

Interestingly, the teacher's analysis (P-21), dated June 24, 1993, fixed the student's grade for marking period four at 27.6 "due to times not dressed for class, disruptive behavior and one cut, when averaged with an 88 for the third marking period, equaling a failing 57.8 final grade for the year." [Emphasis added.] This analysis was explained at some length by the principal (in P-44, 45), who said:

> [The student] had not passed physical education for the year but rather was passing prior to the last day's evaluation being included as part of his final overall average. [Id. at 46.]

The student's inability to muster a passing 62.5 grade for the fourth marking period, therefore, was apparently a result of more than just the cut on the final day of class. (A cut is defined under school policy as including leaving class early. P-36, 37, 42.)

The student was medically excused from physical education for the first marking period of 1992-93. He passed health in the second marking period and received full credit. He passed the third marking period of physical education with an 88 average (for volleyball). A correct average for the year, it would seem, becomes either 72.9 as the mother would have it, or a 57.8 as teacher and principal would have it. The superintendent and the board of education, in their wisdom, supported teacher, assistant principal/disciplinarian and principal. There is no doubt they all possessed discretionary power to revise and mold grades in a compelling case.

DISCUSSION

Did the student's prior attitude and behavior drive the decision to lower his grade for the single cut on the last day of school to a level that kept him from receiving a diploma? If not, petitioner has no case. If so, there was violation of discretionary authority and bias, prejudice or bad faith. Petitioner here has no easy job.

In Talarski v. Edison Township Board of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 862, a teacher and his local education association brought suit against the board, its superintendent and principal, alleging that the principal of the high school improperly changed from failing to passing a final grade given by the teacher to a pupil and that the grade change was improperly supported by the superintendent and the board itself. For the school year the teacher had assigned a final failing grade of F on D, F, D, D; the principal revised the final grade of F to D and allowed the student to graduate with her class. On the evidence, the Commissioner affirmed the revision by the principal, superintendent and board, noting that by unwritten district policy there reposed discretion to do so. In passing, the Commissioner said that school law vests management of public schools in each district in local boards of education, and unless they violate the law, or act in bad faith, exercise of discretion in performance of duties imposed upon them is not subject to reversal. Otherwise, the independence of the district and the professional authority of teachers and administration would be improperly interfered with. There is a necessary caution, however, said the Commissioner:

> It is essential that local boards must retain such authority of review to prevent assignment of unreasonable or arbitrary grades. The acts of teachers may neither be insulated from administrative review of their supervisors and administrators nor from quasi judicial review by the Commissioner or judicial review by the courts. . . The Commissioner is further constrained to comment that petitioner's perception of [the student's] attitude as unsatisfactory as reason for the assigned F/failure borders dangerously close to the improper use of grades as deterrents. . . The use of marks and grades as deterrents or as punishment is likewise usually ineffective in producing the desired results and is educationally not defensible. Whatever system of marks and grades a school may devise will have serious inherent limitations at best, and it must not be further handicapped by attempting to serve disciplinary purposes too. . . It is further apparent that when an unsatisfactory attitude has already had its effect upon > marking period grades, it should not again be applied to the average of those grades. . . [citations omitted] [Id. at 870].

CONCLUSION

I am satisfied from the evidence that though the student was wrong to cut his last physical education class, fair application of grading policy would have been to lower a mark for that marking period but not to lower it on an enhanced basis for perceived delinquencies or conduct in earlier marking periods, despite less than clear language in marking policy that would seem to allow such sanction to be imposed. To do otherwise, as I believe teacher, administrator, principal, superintendent and Board here did, is to visit upon the student an unfair double or enhanced punishment that had too drastic an effect. It becomes only sententious to repeat, as did the superintendent, platitudinous sentiments about Board and administrative reward for subordinate professionals, even-handed and strict enforcement of cut/marking policy so as to support the obedience of more perfect students, preservation of good order and discipline in the schools, and the like. I am impressed with petitioner's sincerity in this matter; she put the case for her son with candor, humility and no small measure of sincere thoughtfulness. Her efforts to be heard have been tortuous and fruitless. For the moment, at this level at least, those efforts have succeeded. The student's grade of 57.5 in physical education for the year is REVISED to 62.5, the lowest possible passing grade. The teacher's grading and Board support of it were arbitrary acts because the failing grade was punitive. The grade may not stand. The Board will issue the student a 1993 high school diploma. Judgment is ENTERED accordingly.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PEQUANNOCK, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The review of the matter is being conducted on request for expedition. It is noted that the Board filed a Motion for Dismissal due to mootness with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes by faxed transmission on August 10, 1993. However, the Commissioner denies such motion insofar as the Board suggests therein that the subject matter of this case is now moot because W.B. has completed summer school and has received his high school diploma, leaving no other matters for adjudication. The record reveals that petitioner seeks expungement of the record of the incidents underlying this case in addition to her son's high school diploma. Thus, the Commissioner finds and determines that the matter is not moot, the motion must be denied and the matter decided on its merits.

The exceptions would reverse the initial decision for the reasons argued at the hearing, stressing that the physical education cut policy differs from, but is consonant with, the district policy as expressed in the student handbook, but noting also that all students were apprised of the physical education cut policy at the beginning of the school year.

The Board submits that the record illustrates that petitioner failed to meet her burden of demonstrating that the actions complained of were undertaken in an arbitrary manner. It claims instead that the Board's actions were consistently and impartially administered. It claims that petitioner seeks to shift the blame for the actions of her son to the administration and the Board. Instead, the Board avers, it was the student who was unprepared for class on three occasions, cut class on June 17, 1993 and failed physical education for the fourth marking period. Thus, the Board submits, W.B. failed the requirements for physical education for the 1992-93 school year, and was correctly assigned summer school as the means of acquiring the credits necessary to be eligible for his high school diploma.

Upon review of the record and the exceptions, the Commissioner directs further clarification of W.B.'s fourth marking period grade in physical education. Such clarification is necessary because it is nowhere set forth in the record upon what basis it is admitted by the principal in his certification that W.B. was passing physical education the morning of June 17, 1993, before he cut physical education. On the contrary, the record indicates that as of May 20, W.B. was failing physical education. See Exhibit 20A, which states that on that date, W.B.'s grade for the first half of the marking period was a failing 52. Without a precise statement of the components making up W.B.'s fourth period grade and the numerical value assigned to each component of such grade, the Commissioner is unable to assess the precise impact lowering W.B.'s unit grade had on his failing the fourth marking period.

It is plain from the record that while the Board's policy regarding cutting falls within the bounds of law, the Board's physical education policy of failing a student who cuts physical education by automatically assessing him a letter grade of 62 for the unit is in violation of law. See V.J.H. v. Board of Education of the City of Orange Township and Woodrow Zaros, 1987 S.L.D. 1669. Therein it is stated:

> [T]he Commissioner has consistently refused to uphold policies which call for an automatic imposition of a grade penalty for unexcused absence or absences resulting from suspensions. (citation omitted)
>
> Thus, while the Commissioner upheld a percentage reduction in a pupil's class participation grade, he struck down in Wetherell, supra, the portion of the Board's policy which incorporated an upward sliding scale of grades a student was required to receive in order to pass a course, i.e., a student absent 31-39 days for whatever reason had to attain a final average of 90 to receive course credit. (emphasis in text)

Thus, while the Board's policy of subtracting 10 points from the class participation component of the pupil's grade for lack of preparedness is hereby upheld as reasonable, the Commissioner cannot sustain a grading policy that automatically reduces a student's grade to a failing one for an entire instructional unit for cutting class. Consequently, while the Board might reduce W.B.'s class participation component by 30 points over the course of the marking period for being unprepared three times, it is not plain from the record that lack of participation was the sole basis for

W.B.'s failing the marking period insofar as the recalculated grade, as set forth in Exhibit 21, merely states: ["W.B.'s] marking Pd. 4 grade is 27.6. due to times not dressed for class, disruptive behavior, and 1 cut." Thus, a precise calculation of each component comprising his overall grade is required to determine whether W.B. would have passed for the marking period had the district not inappropriately reduced his unit grade to a failing 62 as a result of his cutting class on June 17.

Accordingly, the Board of Education is hereby directed to calculate W.B.'s fourth marking period physical education grade specifying numerically each component of the grade awarded W.B., and supplying the justification for each numerical value. Thereafter, W.B.'s grade is to be recalculated, excluding the imposition of the automatic grade reduction to a 62 for the second unit of the marking period, but providing for point reduction according to policy regarding unpreparedness stemming from the events of June 17. If, in so doing, W.B. achieves a grade sufficient to pass the course, a diploma is to be granted and the record expunged of this event.

Further, as in V.J.H., supra, the Board herein is directed to terminate forthwith its policy requiring that an automatic grade of 62 be given for "cutting". As in V.J.H., "[i]t is emphasized [herein] that this decision does not serve to prohibit the Board from revising its policy to call for denial of credit or withdrawal from a course based on excessive absenteeism or truancy or other sanction not using grades as a disciplinary measure." (at 1680)

Respondent.

J. B., petitioner, pro se

Anthony P. Sciarrillo, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: January 13, 1994 Decided: January 19, 1994

BEFORE JAMES A. OSPENSON, ALJ:

This matter is on remand by the Commissioner of the Department of Education under docket no. EDU 6374-93, an appeal by J. B., mother of W. B., a senior student at Pequannock Township High School, Passaic County, challenging W. B.'s final failing grade in physical education that disqualified him from graduation and a 1993 high school diploma. An administrative law judge ruled after hearing that the teacher's grading and administrative and Board support of it were arbitrary acts because the failing grade was punitive. In a decision of August 26, 1993, the Commissioner affirmed in part and reversed in part. She remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for further hearing and directed the Board:

> . . . to calculate W. B.'s fourth marking period physical education grade specifying numerically each component of the grade awarded W. B. and supplying the justification for each numerical value. Thereafter, W. B.'s grade is to be recalculated, excluding the imposition of the automatic grade reduction to a 62 for the second unit of the marking period, but providing for point reduction according to policy regarding unpreparedness stemming from the events of June 17, 1993. If, in so doing, W. B. achieves a grade sufficient to pass the course, a diploma is to be granted and the record expunged of this event. . . .

Remand was filed September 1, 1993. After further submission by the Board on action taken in response to remand, the record closed on January 13, 1994.

On October 8, 1993, its attorney advised the Board had recalculated W. B.'s fourth marking period grade for physical education and, after recalculation, W. B.'s final grade for the year was a passing 62.7. The Board, he advised, had issued a diploma to W. B. and would now expunge the academic record accordingly.

By letter orders of the administrative law judge on October 22, 1993 and December 15, 1993 the Board was ordered to file certifications by the chief school administrator and principal attesting to grade modification to petitioner's son's passing physical education for 1992-93 and qualification for and issuance of stigma-free 1993 diploma. A Board resolution so approving and containing a direction to expunge and modify mandated school records accords accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.3, 6.7(a)1, was to be annexed. Upon such filing, the matter would then be concluded as moot.

Certifications of the superintendent of schools and a high school principal dated December 10, 1993 were filed on December 14, 1993 attesting to administrative recalculation of grade and modification thereof, as well as W. B.'s qualification for 1993 stigma-free diploma. R-2, 3.

On January 10, 1993, the Board adopted the following resolution (R-4).

> RESOLVED, that the Board of Education of Pequannock Township approves the recalculation of the fourth marking period grade of W. B. for physical education, thereby qualifying him for a 1993 high school diploma issued by the Board of Education of the Township of Pequannock; and be it further RESOLVED, that the Board directs the superintendent of schools to expunge and modify the mandated school records accordingly.

CONCLUSION

From submissions above, I CONCLUDE the Board has complied with mandate of the Commissioner to recalculate grade, has issued W. B.'s 1993 diploma and has modified academic records accordingly. Board action is APPROVED. Issue now being moot, the matter is adjudged CONCLUDED. Jurisdiction is not retained.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and initial decision on remand have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties. Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter on remand, the Commissioner adopts as his own the findings and conclusion of the Office of Administrative Law that the instant matter is now moot. The Board of Education has recalculated W.B.'s physical education grade in compliance with the directives contained in the Commissioner's decision dated August 26, 1993, and as a result of such recalculation issued him a 1993 New Jersey High School diploma, modified his academic record accordingly, and expunged his record of the circumstances which led to the filing of the instant Petition of Appeal.

Accordingly, the instant matter is thus dismissed.

Record Closed: June 24, 1993 Decided: July 22, 1993

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This matter concerns a petition by James F. Guerra (petitioner) in which he alleges that he was improperly terminated from the position of Vocational-Technical Coordinator: Apprenticeship Programs with the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools. Petitioner seeks a determination that he has tenure in the position of Vocational-Technical Coordinator: Apprenticeship Programs and an Order directing the Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational Technical Schools (respondent) to reinstate petitioner and awarding him all related entitlements and emoluments. In an amendment to the petition, petitioner seeks monies due from a prior dispute. Respondent filed an amended answer denying that petitioner was unlawfully terminated and that petitioner is entitled to any relief. Respondent requests dismissal of the petition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition was filed August 18, 1992 with the Department of Education, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 1, 1992 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was conducted on April 7, 1993 at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey, and the record closed on June 24, 1993, after official notice was taken of decisions from a prior dispute between these parties.

BACKGROUND

The termination which is the subject of this proceeding occurred in 1992. The parties to this proceeding were involved in a similar dispute concerning actions of the Board of Education in 1988. An understanding of the prior proceeding is helpful for resolution of this dispute. The decisions from the prior dispute between the parties include an Initial Decision in James Guerra v. Board of Education of Hudson County Area Vocational and Technical Schools, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1453-89, Agency Dkt. No. 345-11/88 (January 4, 1990), a Decision by the Commissioner of Education dated February 24, 1990 in the same matter, and an opinion of the Appellate Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey in James Guerra v. Board of Education of Hudson County Area Vocational and Technical Schools, No. A-6638-89T1 (App. Div. Nov. 8, 1991). The nature of the dispute and the facts in that proceeding were stated by the Appellate Division as follows:

> Petitioner James Guerra filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that his tenure and seniority rights had been violated by respondent Board of Education of Hudson County Area Vocational and Technical Schools (respondent), when it abolished his apprentice coordinator position and transferred him to a position as an instructor of electronics.
> Petitioner served as a instructor of electronics in respondent's district and acquired tenure and seniority in that position. He then served as the Cooperative Industrial Education Coordinator for the district until 1983 when he was appointed to the position of apprentice coordinator. He served in that capacity until August 30, 1988. It is undisputed that petitioner achieved tenure status in that position. At its August 23, 1988 > meeting, respondent decided to abolish the training program position for cost-effectiveness purposes. It thereupon transferred petitioner to the position of instructor of electronics. On June 30, 1989, petitioner's position as electronics instructor was eliminated due to a reduction in force. The position of apprentice coordinator remained vacant until it was formally abolished by respondent on August 23, 1989. Id., at 1-2.

The Appellate Division summarized the Commissioner's Decision as follows:

> The Commissioner [determined] that there was no statutory or regulatory impediment to respondent's abolishment of the apprentice training program. However, the Commissioner concluded that respondent did not act properly in transferring petitioner before it formally acted to abolish the apprentice coordinator position. As petitioner had tenure, he could not be removed from that position without his consent, or before the position was formally abolished pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, or before a tenure hearing was conducted under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The Commissioner thereupon found that petitioner's transfer was ultra vires, and therefore awarded him the difference in salary and emoluments between the teacher and coordinator's position "until the date in August 1989 upon which respondent took formal action under that statute." The Commissioner also held that respondent did not act improperly in abolishing the petitioner's electronics instructor position which he held after his transfer. He thereupon ordered petitioner to be placed on the preferred eligibility list for each of the positions in which he held tenure. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's decision "for the reasons expressed therein." Id., at 3-4.

The Appellate Division affirmed the determination of the State Board.

The position of apprentice coordinator was reinstated in January 1991, and petitioner was employed in that position until June 1992, when he was terminated and his position abolished for reasons of economy effective September 1992. Petitioner appeals from this termination.

ISSUES

The issues in this proceeding were stated in the prehearing order as follows: (1) whether respondent properly or improperly abolished the position of Vocational-

Technical Coordinator: Apprenticeship Programs, (2) whether the doctrine of res judicata applies based upon a decision by the Commissioner of Education dated February 24, 1990, and (3) if relief is warranted, whether petitioner should be restored to his position and granted back pay and other emoluments. In this proceeding, petitioner does not contend that respondent cannot abolish the apprenticeship program. Rather, petitioner maintains that respondent has continued to provide the apprenticeship program and that it is unlawful to do so without an apprenticeship coordinator. Petitioner argues that respondent cannot terminate him while the program remains in place. Respondent denies that it had an apprenticeship program during the 1992-1993 school year. Thus, the main factual issue is whether respondent continued to have an apprenticeship program subsequent to petitioner's termination effective September 1992. At the beginning of the hearing, respondent conceded that it owes petitioner approximately $11,000.00 as demanded in Count 2 of the petition and agreed to pay that amount to petitioner.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Petitioner gave the following testimony on his own behalf in this proceeding. Petitioner was last employed by respondent as an apprenticeship coordinator. Petitioner was advised by respondent on June 30, 1992 that his position was abolished for reasons of economy. Petitioner was the last apprenticeship coordinator, and subsequent to June 30, 1992, there was no apprenticeship coordinator.

The job description for the title "Apprenticeship Coordinator" states the job goal as follows:

> To direct and coordinate apprenticeship training Programs in accordance with the State and Federal policies and standards. The Apprentice Coordinator interprets and clarifies State and Federal policies governing apprenticeship training programs and provides information and assistance to labor, industry, and the apprentice in the following manner:

The job description then lists 24 responsibilities including the following:

> 1. Aids in all employers, employer organizations, joint labor and management committees, and labor organizations in formulating minimum standards for their apprentice programs. Also enlightens organizations, corporations, and interested parties in the policies and educational facilities available for upgraded and continuing education of personnel.

2. Inspects and approves establishment for apprentice training under the New Jersey State Apprenticeship program and Federal Bureau of Apprenticeship - U.S. Department of Labor.

Petitioner states that an apprenticeship involves an agreement between the apprentice and the sponsor with approval by Federal and State representatives. The apprentice coordinator is the State representative. An apprentice receives on-the-job training from the employer and related classroom instruction from a school. An apprentice must have 140 hours per year of related instruction and a total of 576 hours. Petitioner set up a curriculum for the apprentice, monitored the hours of classrom instruction, checked on attendance and evaluated the course of study. It was the responsibility of the apprentice coordinator to certify to the United States Department of Labor and the New Jersey Department of Education that the apprentice had completed related classroom instruction and to execute various forms. Completion of the program by the apprentice leads to employment at a journeyman's wage. Petitioner signed a number of certifications during his employment with respondent. Petitioner acknowledged that courses related to an apprenticeship could be taken at other schools.

During the 1991-1992 school year, respondent had apprenticeship programs in electricity, electronics, masonry and carpentry at its facilities in Hudson County, and petitioner was the only certified apprentice coordinator. In the 1991-1992 school year, no other school in Hudson County had an apprenticeship program.

Petitioner presented a catalogue of courses offered by respondent for the 1992-1993 school year. At page 26, the catalogue includes a description of "Apprenticeship Diploma Programs." Petitioner acknowledged that page 26 was written years ago, and he stated that the catalogue was sent to the printer during the summer of 1992.

Petitioner acknowledged that he does not know who signed the various agreements and certifications during the 1992-1993 school year. Indeed, he did not know if anyone signed the agreements and certifications.

Petitioner presented a letter dated January 6, 1993 from Joseph Borgia, Apprentice Coordinator at the Mercer County Area Vocational Technical Schools, to Mr. Jim Dorin at Hudson County Vocational-Technical School. The letter refers to seven individuals attending respondent's schools in programs such as "carpenter" and requests transcripts. Petitioner interprets the letter to mean that individuals are participating in an apprenticeship program at respondent's schools. Petitioner acknowledges that requests for transcripts are not unusual.

Joseph Sirangelo testified as a witness for respondent. Mr. Sirangelo is employed by respondent as an Assistant Superintendent, a position which he has held for the last 10 of his 15 years of employment with respondent. Mr. Sirangelo knew petitioner during his employment with respondent and is familiar with the apprenticeship program. As the apprentice coordinator, petitioner worked with the employer as sponsor, and he developed a curriculum for the students who received related instruction at the schools.

The position of apprentice coordinator was abolished in June 1992 effective in September 1992 for financial reasons. Prior to the abolishment, Sirangelo discussed the situation with Ann Freeman, who was the State Apprenticeship Coordinator, and was told that there was no requirement to have an apprentice coordinator. Sirangelo had a similar discussion with the County Superintendent of Schools. While the Board's resolution abolishing the position of apprentice coordinator did not expressly address the apprentice program, Sirangelo stated that since petitioner was terminated, respondent has not had an apprentice program. Sirangelo was not aware of any plan related to the apprentice program that was ever submitted by respondent to the United States Department of Labor or the New Jersey Department of Education for approval. Respondent does not receive any Federal or State funds for apprentice training.

After petitioner was terminated, no one was hired to replace him as apprentice coordinator, and no one performs his duties. No one signs apprenticeship agreements since petitioner left, no one meets with employers or monitors the classes of apprentices, and no one certifies that apprentices have completed the related instruction.

Individuals interested in an apprenticeship program are referred to the Federal Bureau of Apprenticeship Training and to State Apprenticeship Coordinator Ann Freeman. Individuals in apprenticeship programs may take courses that could serve as related instruction in respondent's school on the same basis as any other student. Respondent has not made any changes to its curriculum as a result of the abolishment of the position of apprentice coordinator, since courses offered by respondent are not specifically for apprentices. Apprentice documents could be signed by Ann Freeman or a coordinator from another county.

With respect to the catalogue for the 1992-1993 school year, Sirangelo stated that its purpose is the recruitment of students. It is prepared in the spring for the next school year. At the time that this particular catalogue was completed, the position of apprentice coordinator had not been abolished. A course in the catalogue may be cancelled in September.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

The first issue to be considered concerns respondent's argument that the doctrine of res judicata is applicable to this proceeding based upon the Commissioner's decision dated February 24, 1990. The term "res judicata" refers broadly to a common law doctrine which bars relitigation of claims or issues that have already been adjudicated. Velasquez v. Franz, 123 N.J. 498, 505 (1991). The doctrine of res judicata is applicable in appropriate cases to administrative proceedings. City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 31-32 (1980). Identity of causes, of parties or their privies, and of issues is required in order to bar a claim. Eatough v. Bd. of Medical Examiners, 191 N.J. Super. 166, 173 (App. Div. 1983). This appeal concerns a termination in 1992, while the previous proceeding related to the abolishment of a position in 1988. Since the disputes related to two different causes of actions, the doctrine of res judicata does not bar this appeal.

Relitigation of an issue of fact or law previously decided may be precluded by the doctrine of collateral estoppel. T.W. v. A.W., 224 N.J. Super. 675, 682 (App. Div. 1988). Consistent therewith, petitioner does not challenge in this proceeding the determination in the previous dispute between these parties that the authority of a board of education to abolish a position for reasons of economy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 extends to the position of apprentice coordinator.

In this proceeding, petitioner maintains that if respondent offers an apprenticeship program, respondent must employ an apprentice coordinator. In support of the assertion that respondent had an apprenticeship program in the 1992-1993 school year, petitioner asserts that respondent had an apprenticeship program in prior years, that no formal action was taken to abolish the apprenticeship program, that the catalogue for the 1992-1993 school year offered an apprenticeship program and that apprentices were taking courses in respondent's schools.

Respondent's witness, Joseph Sirangelo, was fully credible, and petitioner's testimony was also credible in regard to specific facts. However, I cannot accept petitioner's conclusion that respondent had an apprenticeship program during the 1992-1993 school year. While it is certainly true that respondent had an apprenticeship program in prior years, there is no support for petitioner's contention that formal action in addition to the resolution abolishing the position of apprentice coordinator is required to discontinue the apprenticeship program. Petitioner points to respondent's 1992-1993 catalogue which refers to an apprenticeship program and also to the fact that apprentices attend classes at respondent's schools. However, Sirangelo adequately explained that the catalogue was prepared in the spring prior to the determination to abolish the position of apprentice coordinator and that individuals in other apprenticeship programs may take courses at respondent's schools. Therefore, with the exception of petitioner's testimony to the effect that respondent had an apprenticeship program during the 1992-1993 school year, the above summary of testimony is FOUND AS FACT, and I specifically FIND that respondent did not have an apprenticeship program during the 1992-1993 school year.

In view of the above findings, petitioner's contention is without factual support. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that that petitioner's argument is without merit and that respondent's termination of petitioner was proper. It follows that the petition should be dismissed.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the matter be dismissed.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions essentially reargue his contention made before the ALJ and in his post-hearing submission that respondent, in actuality, has continued to provide the apprenticeship program and it is unlawful for it to do so without an apprenticeship coordinator and urge the Commissioner to reject the initial decision. Respondent avers that the ALJ's decision is clearly supported by the record.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter and the exceptions advanced by petitioner, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner's contention is without factual support and his termination by respondent was proper.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the Office of Administrative Law and dismisses the within Petition of Appeal for the reasons expressed in the initial decision.

Record Closed: June 25, 1993 Decided: July 23, 1993

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This contested case was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on October 11, 1990, following the filing of a verified petition of appeal by Frank Gargano alleging that as a tenured supervisor of mathematics employed by the respondent for over thirty years, his assignment by the Board in 1990-91 to teach three math classes daily, in addition to his supervisory responsibilities in two junior high schools, violated his seniority rights as a tenured supervisor and/or was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable.

A telephone prehearing conference was conducted by the undersigned administrative law judge on April 29, 1991. As the result of various adjournments, the hearing did not commence until May 10, 1993. At the conclusion of the hearing, a schedule for the filing of posthearing briefs was established. The record closed on June 25, 1993.

A. Joint Stipulation of Facts

Prior to commencement of the hearing, counsel executed a joint stipulation of facts which helped reduce the time needed for the trial (Exhibit C-1). Those stipulated facts may be summarized as follows. Petitioner was first employed by respondent in 1959 as a math teacher. The next year he became a department supervisor of mathematics and served as a supervisor/teacher until March 1988, when he was appointed to the position of "supervisor of mathematics, grades K-9." In that capacity, he became responsible for the first time for supervising math teachers in the district's two junior high schools, Burnet and Kawameeh. Prior to that time, he had been department supervisor for one school only.

During both the 1988-89 and 1989-90 school years, petitioner had no teaching assignments in addition to his supervisory duties. However, in early June 1990, he was informed that he would be assigned three daily teaching periods in addition to his supervisory duties for the 1990-91 school year (Exhibits P-1, P-2, P-3). Previously, during his career in Union, except for 1988-89 and 1989-90, Gargano did have one or two teaching periods in addition to his supervisory duties, but never three. For example, in the 1985-86 school year, while a supervisor, petitioner had two teaching periods and one nonteaching duty period (Exhibit R-3).

Both the job description for "supervisor" (Exhibit R-1), as well as the job description for "supervisor of mathematics, grades K through 9" (Exhibit R-2), provide that the person holding that position could be required to perform "any other duties which may be assigned by the superintendent of schools or other designated administrator with the approval of the superintendent." Petitioner retired from employment effective July 1, 1991.

B. Testimony For Petitioner

The sole witness for petitioner was Gargano himself. He noted that his appointment in March 1988 to the position of supervisor of math, grades K through nine, represented the first time during his entire employment in the district that he was relieved of all teaching duties while performing as a supervisor. At the time he was appointed in 1988, the only other math supervisor in the district was Rosalyn Zeid, who was supervisor of mathematics for grades ten through twelve at Union High School.

The three teaching periods assigned to Gargano for the 1990-91 school year consisted of two seventh grade and one ninth grade mathematics classes. That latter class, he said, contained five special education classified students who he described as difficult to handle.

Petitioner stressed that the first time he learned of the three teaching assignments for 1990-91 was on or about June 5, 1990, when notices were left in his mailbox advising him of the same (Exhibits P-1, P-2 and P-3). This notification process, in itself, was somewhat unusual since, normally, he was advised orally of any teaching assignments for the following school year. When Gargano realized that for the first time in his career in Union he was expected to teach three mathematics classes in addition to his supervisory duties in two schools, he promptly complained to Gary Malles, principal of Burnet Junior High School. In a memorandum he sent to Malles on that subject, Gargano demanded to know why the principal had "singled me out" for such a burdensome assignment and pointedly observed that having to prepare for and teach three class periods per day substantially reduced the amount of time he could devote to his supervisory activities (Exhibit P-4). Thus, he suggested alternatives that Malles and/or the senior administrative staff might consider to lessen his dual load. For example, he raised the possibility of reassigning other math teachers who had nonteaching duty periods during the three periods he was to teach, or assigning Zeid, who had less years of service as a supervisor, to teach the classes.

In mid-June 1990, Gargano met with Malles and Robert J. Bergen, the assistant superintendent of schools, in order to pursue his protest over the three-period teaching assignment for the following school year. Bergen, he said, told him that the assignment was made because "I was the person for the job."

Petitioner taught the three math classes during 1990-91 and retired as of July 1, 1991. The relief he seeks is to be compensated retroactively for having to teach the three periods in question, a sum that he suggested should total $9,000. This amount is equal to three times the $3,000 stipend that teachers were paid for having to teach one extra period per day.

On cross-examination, Gargano agreed that he taught two periods in addition to his supervisory duties for a majority of the school years that he was employed in Union as a department chair or supervisor. Nevertheless, while he occasionally had a nonteaching duty period in addition to the two teaching periods, such as in 1985-86, he reiterated that at no time prior to 1990-91 did he ever have three teaching periods in addition to his supervisory duties, nor as far as he was aware did any other supervisor employed by the Board.

Finally, Gargano conceded that he knew that during the course of collective negotiations between the Board and the supervisors' unit, of which he was a member, proposals had been made that supervisors should be paid an additional stipend for having to undertake teaching duties as well. However, as far as he knew, the proposal was never included in any collective negotiations contract.

On redirect-examination, Gargano stressed that he could have been relieved of some, if not all, of the three teaching periods assigned to him in 1990-91, either by shifting those duties to other teachers (Exhibit P-6), or by assigning one or more of the classes to Zeid. Also, while he agreed that he had been told in April 1990 by the principal of Kawameeh Junior High School that some supervisors in the district would have to teach in 1990-91, he was not advised specifically that he would be one of them. Gargano maintained that he certainly was never forewarned that three teaching periods were to be assigned to him for the first time in his many years as a supervisor in the district.

C. Testimony for Respondent

The Board's sole witness was Bergen, who previously had filed a certification in connection with a motion for summary decision that was filed too late to be heard (Exhibit P-5). In that certification, Bergen explained that since in past school years petitioner regularly had been assigned to teach in addition to his supervisory duties, it was not unusual to reinstitute that format in 1990-91, particularly since a need to do so existed. Nor was any extra pay considered since this had never been done. In addition, although the supervisors' association had sought an additional stipend for those assignments both in collective negotiations and in an unfair practice filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission, neither effort was successful.

Bergen then set forth a variety of reasons for the decision to assign Gargano to teach three classes in the 1991 school year. Thus, he pointed out that Gargano, not Zeid, was the supervisor assigned to the two junior high schools, and he therefore would be expected to be most familiar with the math curriculum, which he helped develop. Bergen also pointed out that Zeid had no supervisory duties in either of the two junior high schools and was not located in either school. Also, she was in charge of the high school program and suffered from a physical disability that impaired her mobility. Moreover, since the number of junior high school mathematics teachers had been substantially reduced for the 1990-91 school year as the result of budget constraints, someone had to cover the three periods.

Bergen also noted that the practice of assigning supervisors to teach was consistent with the written job descriptions both for supervisors generally and for the K-9 mathematics supervisor in particular. Such assignments had been a longstanding practice in the district, particularly when, as in 1990-91, student enrollment and a reduced staff created a special need to do so. He reiterated that since Gargano always had one or two teaching periods and/or one duty period while a supervisor, except for 1988-89 and 1989-90, there was nothing extraordinary about his assignment for 1990-91, other than the fact that it consisted of three teaching periods rather than a combination of teaching and other duties.

With respect to Gargano's complaint that his ninth-grade mathematics class contained difficult special education students, Bergen pointed out that these students, although classified, properly had been assigned there by the child study team for mainstreaming.

Finally, both during his direct- and his cross-examination, as well as in his certification, Bergen disputed that there was any reduction in force (RIF) with respect to Gargano's 1990-91 assignment since petitioner's employment continued without interruption, he suffered no loss of pay, and he received full seniority credit for that school year. He also denied that the 1990-91 assignment was designed to motivate Gargano to retire.

DISCUSSION

While there are some minor disagreements between the testimony of Gargano and Bergen, many of the essential facts necessary to a determination in this case are encompassed within the joint stipulation. Thus, I adopt those facts rather than having to restate them herein.

Whether the action taken with respect to Gargano for the 1990-91 school year constituted a RIF is easily resolved. Clearly, since he retained his employment for that school year at his full rate of pay, and he also received full seniority credit for that service, there was no RIF in the "classic "or any other sense. I take note, as well, that in a recent decision by the Commissioner involving a supervisor of English at Union High School, grades ten through twelve, the same argument was made and was rejected. See Dallmeyer v. Board of Education of Union, decided by the Commissioner December 29, 1992, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4A) 125 (Dept. of Ed.), OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11372-91.*

So too, the claim by Gargano in this case, similar to that made in Dallmeyer, that the Board's determination to assign him to three teaching periods in addition to the supervisory duties was "unfair" and thereby can be characterized as arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable also must fail. It is true that during his thirty-plus years of service as a supervisor, Gargano was never called upon to teach three classes in addition to his supervisory duties; indeed, neither was any other supervisor as far as the record reveals. This, however, does not make his 1990-91 assignment "unfair" in a legal, remedial sense. To the contrary, assignment of teaching staff members is a matter that is traditionally vested in the managerial discretion of boards of education, which must make those decisions in light of a variety of factors. See, e.g., Ridgefield Park Ed. Assoc. v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Ed., 78 N.J. 144 (1978).

* Dallmeyer, who had never had to teach during her ten-year service as a supervisor, was assigned to teach two English classes in 1991-92 and the number of teachers she supervised was increased from eleven to fifteen

Among those factors are the very reasons cited by Bergen both in his certification and during the course of his testimony, i.e., that: (a) Gargano had helped develop the math curriculum, was particularly familiar with the junior high school math context, and was located physically at one of the schools; (b) Gargano had always taught one or two classes in addition to his supervisory duties, as had many other supervisors in the district; (c) a budget defeat with respect to the 1990-91 school budget had necessitated a reduction in staff and a need to spread teaching assignments among the remaining staff members; and (d) Zeid, the mathematics supervisor at the high school, was located at a physical distance from the two junior high schools and also suffered from a physical disability that impaired her mobility. In short, while one legitimately may take issue with the exercise of the managerial judgment made in Gargano's case, there were fundamentally sound educational reasons to support that decision. It was Gargano's burden, not that of respondent, to prove that the decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, and he failed to do so.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Accordingly, in light of the fact that no RIF took place with respect to Gargano's employment during 1990-91 that implicated his seniority rights as a tenured supervisor and, further, in view of the fact that the Board's assignment of Gargano to teach three periods during that school year in addition to his supervisory duties was in good faith and within the sound exercise of its managerial discretion, I CONCLUDE that no cause of action exists. I therefore ORDER that the verified petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured mathematics supervisor with over 30 years service, alleged Board violated his tenure and seniority rights when it assigned him to teach three math classes daily in addition to his supervisory duties. Petitioner claimed entitlement to full-time math supervisory position.

Initial decision determined that in light of fact that no RIF took place with respect to petitioner's employment during 1990-91 that implicated his seniority rights as a tenured supervisor and since Board's assignment of petitioner to teach and supervise was done in good faith and was within its managerial discretion, no cause of action existed. Petitioner did not prove that Board's action was improper. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Admnistrative Law Judge that in light of the fact that no RIF with respect to petitioner's employment took place during 1990-91 to implicate his seniority rights as a tenured supervisor, and he failed to meet his burden of proving that the Board's assignment of him to teach three periods in addition to his supervisory duties was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, no cause of action exists.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the Office of Administrative Law and dismisses the within petition for the reasons expressed in the initial decision.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City (Board), disputes the Division of Finance (Finance) assignment of pupil A.R. as a resident pupil in the school district, pursuant to the State Facilities Education Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 to - 13.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 7, 1992, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on January 28, 1993, at which, among other things, the issue to be determined was agreed upon by the parties and the hearing date of July 8, 1993, was established. The prehearing order also granted leave for Finance to move for summary decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 1:1-12.5.

Finance exercised this grant. On June 1, 1993, this tribunal received its Notice of Motion to Dismiss and/or for Summary Decision with accompanying brief. On June 21, 1993, the Board submitted its memorandum of law in Opposition to respondent's Notice of Motion for Summary Judgment.

FINANCE'S STATEMENT OF FACTS

On August 5, 1992, the Board of Education filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the designation of Atlantic City as the district of residence of A.R. for school funding purposes. Approximately seven months earlier, on January 15, 1992, Finance had determined that Atlantic City was the school district responsible to pay the educational component of A.R.'s placement at the Lake Grove facility in the State of Connecticut.

A.R. was initially placed at Lake Grove by the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) on November 14, 1990. At that time, his mother resided at 113A Florida Avenue in Atlantic City. On May 29, 1993, DYFS requested that Finance make a district of residence determination for A.R. At that time, A.R.'s mother was residing at 116 S. Bellevue Avenue in Atlantic City.

Finance notified the Board regarding its district of residence determination on June 21, 1991. Finance reiterated that finding by letter of December 10, 1991 and indicated that it had information that indicated the mother's address was 2681 Monterey Avenue, Atlantic City, as of October 15, 1991. The Board contested Finance's determination by letter to Assistant Commissioner Robert Swissler on January 2, 1992. On January 15, 1992, Finance issued its final determination, upholding Atlantic City as A.R.'s district of residence.

DYFS last checked A.R.'s mother's address on March 6, 1992. At that time, she was living with her husband at 2510 Fairmont Avenue in Atlantic City. That address was verified by the family's DYFS caseworker.

FINANCE'S LEGAL ARGUMENT

POINT I

THE PETITION OF APPEAL SHOULD BE DISMISSED BECAUSE IT WAS NOT FILED WITHIN THE TIME LIMIT SPECIFIED IN N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c).

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c), any individual or entity who desires to bring an action before the Commissioner of Education must file a petition within 90 days of receiving notice of the action the petitioner is challenging. In this matter, the Board was notified of Finance's final determination regarding A.R.'s district of residence by letter dated January 15, 1992. Even allowing one week for mailing, the Board's petition would therefore have been due on April 21, 1992.

The Board did not file its petition until August 7, 1992, nearly four months after its petition was due and almost seven months after receiving Finance's final determination. Clearly, the Board did not comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c) and its petition in this matter should therefore be dismissed.

POINT II

PURSUANT TO N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, ATLANTIC CITY IS THE RESPONSIBLE SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR A.R.'S EDUCATIONAL COSTS WHETHER HIS MOTHER'S CURRENT ADDRESS OR ADDRESS AT THE TIME OF INITIAL PLACEMENT IS USED TO DETERMINE THE DISTRICT OF RESIDENCE.

Even if this tribunal denies respondent's Motion to Dismiss, Finance still prevails in this case as a matter of law. In determining a district of residence for school funding purposes, the Commissioner of Education looks to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. The statute provides, in relevant part, that the district of residence of a child who has been placed by a State agency in an out-of-State facility, "shall be the present district of residence of the parent or guardian with whom the child lived prior to his ...most recent placement by a State agency." Ibid. If that district cannot be determined, then the district of residence is designated as the district in which the child resided prior to the placement.

When Finance was asked to determine A.R's district of residence in June 1991, his mother's then present address was 116 South Bellevue Avenue in Atlantic City. Even assuming that this address was invalid for some reason, application of the statutory criteria still results in a designation of Atlantic City as the district of residence. According to the information provided to Finance by Human Services, at the time he was placed in Lake Grove, A.R. was residing at 113A Florida Avenue in Atlantic City. Thus, the Board has no legal basis to deny that it is A.R.'s district of residence for school funding purposes.

Furthermore, when Finance again contacted the Board in December 1991 to reiterate its findings, it had information that A.R.'s mother was then residing at 2681 Monterey Avenue in Atlantic City. Moreover, by March 1992 she was residing with her husband in Atlantic City.

The inescapable conclusion one must reach when faced with this information, is that Atlantic City is A.R.'s district of residence and is therefore responsible for paying his education costs at Lake Grove. Indeed, the Board admitted as much in a letter to DYFS dated October 5, 1992. In view of the indisputable information provided as well as the Board's own admission, this tribunal should rule that Atlantic City is responsible for A.R.'s educational costs and grant Finance's Motion for Summary Decision.

THE BOARD'S LEGAL ARGUMENT

POINT I

THE TIME IS WHICH TO FILE AN APPEAL SHOULD BE WAIVED IN THIS MATTER

The petition of appeal should not be dismissed although it was not filed within the time specified in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (b). According to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (b), when a party intends to petition a final order of the Commissioner of Education he must do so within 90 days of receipt of the final order. This 90 day limitation period may be waived or relaxed by the Commissioner under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.17 when strict adherence may be inappropriate, unnecessary or may result in injustice.

The Board received a final notice from Finance on January 15, 1992. The notice informed the Board that the Atlantic City District would be responsible for paying the education expenses which were incurred as a result of A.R.'s placement at the Lake Grove facility in Connecticut. The notice also disclosed that the Commissioner had based its final determination on information that A.R.'s mother resided at 2681 Monterey Avenue in Atlantic City as of October 15, 1991.

Immediately after receiving final notice, the Board on February 4, 1992, sent one of its social workers, Sylvia Harris, to the 2681 Monterey Avenue address. Harris spoke with Mrs. Edna Leonzo who indicated that A.R.'s mother did not live at that address. Leonzo stated that A.R.'s mother only stayed at that address temporarily prior to having her baby and that A.R.'s mother never resided at 2681 Monterey Avenue on a permanent basis.

Although the Board did not file its petition of appeal challenging the designation of Atlantic City as the district of residence of A.R. until August 5, 1992, it acted promptly in investigating the accuracy of the information on which the Commissioner based its final determination. As a result of the information obtained by the Board from Leonzo, the Board can show that the information relied upon by the Commissioner was inaccurate and therefore unreliable. Thus, based on that information, it is apparent that A.R. did not reside in the Atlantic City School District as of 1991.

As mentioned above, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.17, the Commissioner has the authority to waive or relax the rules. In this instance, the rules should be relaxed and the appeal allowed because it would be an injustice to require the Board to bear the educational cost of A.R. when the Commissioner based its district of residence determination on information which was inaccurate.

POINT II

PLAINTIFF HAS FAILED TO MEET THE NECESSARY STANDARDS FOR THE GRANTING OF SUMMARY JUDGMENT

Pursuant to New Jersey Rule 4:6-2, summary judgment is to be granted when "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions of file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." N.J. Rule 4:6-2, see also Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954); Adlers Quality Bakery, Inc. vs. Gasteria, 32 N.J. 55, 72 (1960); Warthen v. Toms River Community Memorial Hospital, 199 N.J. Super. 18, 22-23 (App. Div. 1985). The purpose of summary judgment procedure was set forth by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Monmouth Lumber Co. vs. Indemnity Insurance Company of North America, 21 N.J. 439 (1956) :

> It is fundamental that the purpose of summary judgment procedure is to grant relief in cases which procedural tactics are interposed to delay the trial and the inevitable result sought by the institution of the suit. It is designed to cut through sham and frivolity in an answer and lay the case before the trial court in its true light. If, when so viewed, there appears to be no genuine triable issues of fact, the relief should be granted. Id. at 448

It is a settled principle that where a party has demonstrated its prima facie right to summary judgment, the party opposing the motion for summary judgment is required to demonstrate by competent evidential material that a genuine issue of material fact exists or that the plaintiff is not entitle to summary judgment as a matter of law. Robbins v. Jersey City, 23 N.J. 229, 240-241 (1957; Heljon Management Corp. v. Dileo, 55 N.J. Super. 306, 312 (App. Div. 1959). The standards for the granting of summary judgment should be applied where the movant is entitled to that relief. See Judson, Supra., 17 N.J. at 74. Thus, the summary judgment procedure is intended to "avoid trials which would serve no useful purpose and to afford deserving litigants immediate relief." Warthen, Supra. 199 N.J. Super. AT 23; See also Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980).

The summary judgment motion should not be granted because A.R.'s district of residence must be determined by the use of accurate information. As stated previously, Finance reached its decision that A.R.'s mother was a permanent resident of 2681 Monterey Avenue. There is evidence to show that A.R.'s mother resided at this address on a temporary basis only. Thus this determination was based on inaccurate and therefore unreliable information. Additionally, the Board is in the process of reviewing all prior records regarding A.R.

As a consequence of Finance's faulty determination, a trial must be conducted so that the Board may question witnesses concerning whether A.R. did or did not reside in Atlantic City as of October 15, 1991. A.R. 's place of residence is a material issue which remains in dispute. Therefore, the petitioner is precluded from being granted a motion for summary judgment.

It is clear in the present case, that respondent has not and cannot demonstrate the necessary requirements for a summary judgment motion to be granted.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Our Supreme Court has recently addressed the issue of the applicability of the 90-day rule, as embodied in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c), in the matter of Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993). Maurice Kaprow was a tenured assistant superintendent in the employ of the Berkeley Township Board of Education. Kaprow's employment was terminated effective June 31, 1981, as a consequence of a reduction in force (RIF) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The Berkeley Board failed to maintain Kaprow's name on a preferred eligibility list for reemployment as required by N.J.S.A 18A:28-12. Subsequent to Kaprow's termination, the Berkeley Board filled the position of assistant superintendent with someone other than Kaprow and without notice to him.

On February 23, 1988, Kaprow inquired of the Berkeley Board's secretary as to whether positions for which he retained tenure rights had been established by the Board subsequent to his termination. On February 23, 1988, the Board Secretary wrote Kaprow to advise him that on September 9, 1986, the Board appointed Robert Ciliento to the position of Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services. The Board Secretary also advised Kaprow that on July 1, 1987, the Board had appointed Shelia McGuckin as District Supervisor of Elementary Schools.

In or about February 28, 1988, Kaprow addressed a letter to the Berkeley Board making claim to both the Assistant Superintendent and District Supervisor positions. Kaprow requested the Board to reinstate him retroactivity with full back pay and benefits, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. The Berkeley Board did not reply to Kaprow's letter of February 28, 1988.

On April 25, 1988, Kaprow sent a second letter to the Berkeley Board asserting he wished to amicably resolve the matter and requested a reply by May 16, 1988. On June 14, 1988, the Berkeley Board's attorney responded to Kaprow's April 25, 1988, letter and acknowledged that two positions had been created and filled. The Board's attorney asserted, among other things, that the duties of the two positions were substantially different from those performed by Kaprow and, therefore, his RIF rights did not attach and there was no basis for his reinstatement

On August 1, 1988, Kaprow filed a verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education asserting his claim to the positions of Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services and/or District Supervisor. Kaprow's case proceeded through the OAL, the Commissioner, the State Board of Education, the Appellate Division of Superior Court, to the New Jersey Supreme Court, which granted his petition for certification at 130 N.J. 16 (1992).

The Court in Kaprow found that the letter he received from the Berkeley Board's secretary on February 23, 1988, constituted adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c). Justice Garibaldi, writing for the Court, made the following observation:

> Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. See Burns v. West Am. Corp., 137 N.J. Super. 442, 446, 349, A. 2d. 142 (Dist. Ct. 1975). Moreover, adequate notice under the regulation must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period. See Apex Roofing Supply Co. v. Howell, 59 N.J. Super. 462, 158, A. 2d. 49 (App. Div. 1960). A limitations period has two purposes. The first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims. Ochs v. Federal Ins. Co., 90 N.J. 108, 112, 447, A. 2d. 163 (1982). The second purpose is "'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose'" by giving security and stability to human affairs. Ibid. (quoting Farrell v. Votator Div., 62 N.J. 111, 115, 299, A.2d. 394 (1973)).
> When a plaintiff knows or has reason to know that he has a cause of action against an identifiable

> defendant and voluntary sleeps on his rights so long as to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, the pertinent considerations of individual justice as well as the broader considerations of repose, coincide to bar his action. [Farrell, supra. 62 N.J. at 115, 299, A.2d. 394]

> Adequate notice under N.J.A.C 6:24-1.2 should accommodate both purposes. That is, the notice requirement should effectuate concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the tenured teachers have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law with a post - RIF cause of action. See Burd v. New Jersey Tel. Co., 76 N.J. 284, 291, 386, A. 2d. 1310 (1978). At the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order "to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government." Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 21 N.J. 28, 48, 120 A. 2d. 721 (1956). Id. at 587

The Court held that the notice to Kaprow on February 23, 1988, albeit unofficial and informal, was sufficient to trigger the ninety-day limitations period. Kaprow's subsequent attempt to negotiate with the Board to resolve his claim was held to be irrelevant. The negotiations did not negate the fact that he received adequate notice on February 28, 1988, nor did it toll the running of the ninety-day limitations period.

In the instant matter, the Atlantic City Board readily admits it filed its petition out of time. The record clearly shows that the Board was in receipt of a final notice from Finance on January 15, 1992. The record also demonstrates that the Board did not file it's petition of appeal before the Commissioner until August 5, 1992, approximately seven months after receipt of the final notice. Ninety-days from January 15, 1992, fell on April 14, 1992. The petition of appeal was filed some four months subsequent to the ninety-day limitation period.

There are no facts in dispute with regard to the Board's receipt of Finance's final notice or the filing of the Board's petition of appeal. I FIND and CONCLUDE, therefore, there are no material facts in dispute and that the criteria for summary decision has been met with regard to the issue of timeliness. Judson, supra.

I CONCLUDE that under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c), the herein Board's claims are time barred. Kaprow, supra.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, there is no need to address the issue as to whether the Board is the responsible school district for A.R.'s educational costs under N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that SUMMARY DECISION be and is hereby ENTERED on BEHALF OF RESPONDENT.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that the Board's Petition be DISMISSED on the grounds that it was UNTIMELY FILED, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF FINANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge that under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the within claims of the petitioner are time barred. Therefore, she agrees that it is unnecessary to address the issue as to whether the Board is the school district responsible for A.R.'s educational costs under N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12.

Accordingly, the Commissioner accepts the recommendation of the Office of Administrative Law granting respondent's Motion for Summary Decision and dismisses the Petition of Appeal for the reasons expressed in the initial decision.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning residents challenged regional Board's decision to close one of its four high schools (Brearley) and reassign students to the three remaining high schools. Petitioners contended Board's action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and constituted bad faith and abuse of discretion.

ALJ concluded Board's decision to close Brearley High School due to declining enrollment and financial reasons was not made in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. Moreover, Board did not reach its decision as a result of bad faith or abuse of discretion. ALJ found record reflected rational basis for closing and careful consideration of issues with information shared with public and lengthy discussions occurring throughout process. Public had reasonable opportunities for input through Ad Hoc Committee, Eagleton surveys, public hearings and public comment sessions at Board's regular meetings. One executive session and two retreats did not constitute bad faith. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner affirmed findings and conclusions of initial decision, stressing that the Board's decision was a reasonably based, good faith exercise of its lawful discretion and that the Commissioner may therefore not substitute her judgment for that of the Board.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners challenge the action of respondent, Board of Education of Union County, Regional High School District No. 1 (Board), closing one of its four high schools, the David Brearley High School (Brearley), effective September 1, 1993, and reassigning the students to the three remaining high schools. Petitioners allege that the Board's decision on November 17, 1992, to close Brearley was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, and constituted bad faith and an abuse of discretion.

Respondent denies the allegations and argues that its decision to close a school was proper and reasonable, reached with sufficient public input and participation and only after repeated efforts at other means of cost containment failed and began to adversely affect the educational program. Also, its choice of Brearley as the school to be closed was reasonable in all respects.

For the reasons discussed herein, I CONCLUDE that the Board's decision to close one of four regional high schools, specifically, David Brearley High School, was not arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, or an abuse of discretion, nor was it done in bad faith.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on December 27, 1992, and was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 3, 1993, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The transmittal form requested that the matter be given priority scheduling because the outcome affected student assignments for September 1993.

On March 12, 1993, a prehearing conference was held at the OAL, and the issues were established. Hearing dates were scheduled for April 26, 27, 28, 29, May 3, 4, 5, and 6, 1993. The parties were ordered to prefile direct testimony of all expert witnesses prior to the hearing. A Prehearing Order was issued on March 23, 1993.

On March 26, 1993, the Board filed a Motion for Partial Summary Decision. The Board's motion was granted on April 26, 1993, and, consequently, several issues established at the prehearing conference were dismissed. Accordingly, on March 29, 1993, a second prehearing conference was held.

On April 22, 1993, the Board moved to adjourn the hearing dates for at least forty-five days. I denied the motion on April 23 and, thereafter, the Board filed an emergent interlocutory appeal from the denial before the Commissioner of Education. On April 26, the Commissioner granted a seven-day adjournment to May 3.

On April 27, 1993, petitioners appealed from the Commissioner's order to the State Board of Education for emergency relief; the State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision and granted petitioners' motion to reinstate the hearing schedule.

Thereafter, also on April 27, respondent filed an emergent interlocutory appeal before the Appellate Division, Superior Court of New Jersey; the Appellate Division denied the application to reverse the order of the State Board of Education. Accordingly, the hearing commenced on April 28 and continued on April 29, May 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 10, 12, and 13, 1993.

At the conclusion of the hearings, a briefing schedule was established: Initial briefs were due on June 1, and reply briefs were due on June 11, 1993, on which date the record was closed.

ISSUES

The remaining issues to be resolved in this matter are:

1. Whether, on November 17, 1992, the Board's vote to close one of the four high schools effective September 1993, and reassign the students to the remaining three high schools, was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, constituted bad faith, or was an abuse of discretion.

    a) Whether the decision to close Brearley was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, constituted bad faith, or was an abuse of discretion. (Petitioners allege that before voting to close Brearley, the Board failed to consider certain information or reports; e.g., the school's age, structure, environmental and revenue-producing features, student enrollment projections, public response to the closing, and the effect on real estate values, racial balances, and functional capacity.)

Petitioners must carry the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence.

BACKGROUND

Based upon a review of the documentary and testimonial evidence, I FIND the following facts are undisputed and are therefore adopted as FACT.

The Union County Regional High School District No. 1 (District) was established in the 1930s to meet the instructional needs for high school students from six small farming communities: Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside, and Springfield. Jonathan Dayton Regional High School (Dayton) in Springfield opened in 1937 and was the District's only high school until 1955. There are three other regional high schools: Arthur L. Johnson (Johnson) in Clark opened in 1956; Governor Livingston (Livingston) in Berkeley Heights opened in 1960; and Brearley opened in Kenilworth in 1966. Students from Mountainside and Springfield attend Dayton; students from Clark attend Johnson; students from Berkeley Heights attend Livingston; and students from Garwood and Kenilworth attend Brearley.

District-wide demographic factors show that the original student enrollment of 817 increased to 5,722 in 1972, but then declined to 2,163 in 1992. During the period from 1970 to 1990, the combined District population decreased from 69,500 to 58,487 (R-26 at 5). "Each of the six communities is unique and differs from the other five. Some may be considered 'blue collar,' or labor intensive communities . . . while others such as Berkeley Heights and Mountainside consisting of relatively expensive single family houses . . . may be thought of as 'white collar,' with a managerial service orientation." Id. at iii. Common to all six communities are economically-sound manufacturing, office, research, and service facilities and a quality regional high school district.

The Regional Board of Education (Board) is comprised of nine members: Two members each representing Berkeley Heights, Clark, and Springfield and one member each representing Garwood, Mountainside, and Kenilworth.

Between 1972 and 1992, the District's student enrollment dropped 62%, from 5,722 to 2,162. The decline mirrors the general population trend in Union County and the six constituent communities between 1970 and 1990 (R-26 at 5-6; J-28 at 83-84). Only a slight fluctuation of student and general population is anticipated over the next decade (R-26 at ix; J-28 at 82-87).

Dayton, a three-story, 159,000 square-foot building, sits on a 12-acre site. Additionally, the District leases 17 acres of adjacent land from the Union County Park Commission. Student enrollment in 1972-73 was 1,399 and in 1992-93 was 581. The projected enrollment for 1993-94 is 588 students (R-26 at 42-56; R-23 at 19).

Johnson, a two-story, 200,000 square-foot building, sits on a 26-acre site; student enrollment in 1972-73 was 1,718 and in 1992-93 was 537. The projected enrollment for 1993-94 is 550 students. Id.

Livingston, a three-story, 168,200 square-foot building, sits on 39 acres. Student enrollment in 1972-73 was 1,625 and in 1992-93 was 622. The 1993-94 projected enrollment is 596 students. Id.

Brearley, a two-story, 140,000 square-foot building, sits on 21.5 acres. Student enrollment in 1972-73 was 1,056 and in 1992-93 was 423. The 1993-94 projected enrollment is 408 students. Id.

In addition to providing instructional needs for students, the schools sponsor educational and community events such as an adult education program, co-curricula student activities, and community athletic events. Thus, the high schools not only serve the students' academic needs, they also "serve a vital role in the life of each community . . . [and] . . . [t]hey genuinely enhance the quality of life and opportunities possible for residents within our six regional district communities" (R-26). However, the precipitous declining student enrollment over the past 20 years has impacted both the curriculum offered to students and cost of operating the schools. Consequently, the Board was compelled to consider whether it should continue to operate four regional high schools.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

The parties entered into evidence 33 joint exhibits; petitioners entered 16 exhibits; and respondent entered 51 exhibits. Further, petitioner's eleven witnesses and respondent's nine witnesses testified about the District's four high schools, the past, current, and projected enrollment, public response to closing one of the schools, and the effect the closing of a school would have on real estate values, racial balances, the community, and the students. All held the common belief that the District is currently providing the students from the six communities a quality education; they differ, however, on the level of the quality education and whether it can be maintained under the present circumstances if four schools continue to operate. Furthermore, if a school should be closed, the parties disagree on which of the four should be closed. Much of the testimonial and documentary evidence, though relevant to the resolution of the issues, is repetitive and will therefore not be reiterated herein.

I

In 1985, the Board consulted Dr. Leonard Bornstein of Human Resource Consultants about the procedure for school closings. They discussed the process of information gathering, formulating committees, getting community input, and developing a plan for the students' use of the building.

In December 1990, the Board again hired Bornstein to conduct a study of the four regional high schools. As a result, Bornstein issued his Facility Study Based on Factors of Efficiency (J-28).

The study evaluated efficiency factors in each of the schools. It included an architectural description, building inspection, interviews with personnel, and a review of various District reports. Bornstein also discussed educational flexibility, rate of enrollment decline, recyclability, safety, socioeconomic, ethnic and/or racial considerations, and transportation (J-28 at 1-2).

Bornstein determined that improvements/repairs for each of the four buildings could reduce operating costs and improve operational efficiencies. For example, Dayton could replace the original wood, double-hung windows with insulated glass and aluminum windows; Johnson could replace boilers with high-efficiency equipment; Livingston could seal expansion joints on exterior walls; and Brearley could replace windows. Overall, the four buildings required a general proactive maintenance and repair program.

Bornstein estimated that repair costs ranged from $500,000 to $6 million dollars. Specifically, Brearley and Livingston were estimated at $500,000; Johnson at $750,000 to $1 million; and Dayton at $5 million to $6 million (J-28 at 61).

In contrast, Dr. Michael Disko, a civil engineer hired by the Board to review Bornstein's report, estimated repair costs for the schools as follows: Dayton -- $417,000; Johnson -- $734,000; Livingston -- $467,00; and Brearley -- $641,600.

Using 1989-90 actual expenses, Dr. Bornstein also estimated operating expenses for each school based on building size and student population. Dayton had the highest cost, followed by Brearley, Johnson, and Livingston (J-28 at 66-68). Bornstein then determined cost per square foot and per student. Similarly, Dayton had the highest cost per square foot followed by Brearley, Johnson, and Livingston. However, Brearley had the highest per pupil cost and used only 38% of its total functional capacity. Id. at 69-72.

Dr. Merachnik, the District Superintendent, disputed Bornstein's figures and recalculated operating and per pupil costs based on an apportionment of actual costs per school. His revised costs showed that Brearley costs more to operate than Dayton, followed by Johnson and Livingston (R-18 at 8-9). However, he agreed with Bornstein that Brearley was the smallest school with the least functional capacity (R-23 at 19).

Bornstein noted that the District's declining enrollment has affected certain course offerings. Moreover, reduction in State aid will require adjustments to school expenditures. Anticipating that further encroachments on program and staff is likely to result, Bornstein stated that, at some point, "staff reduction and program elimination will 'impoverish' both the overall curriculum and its array of offerings" (J-28 at 80-81). Eventually, the Board will have to discuss the basic question of whether to close a school. Also, the Board must inform the six communities about enrollment decline and all its implications. Economic implications from enrollment decline and reduced State aid cannot be ignored in fulfilling this mission. "Accurate data needs to be constantly accumulated; goals established; existing educational policies developed; and criteria for various options determined" (J-28 at 86-87). Thereafter, the Board and communities should corroborate on long-term planning to maintain high academic standards and a strong curriculum in a weak economy.

Regarding environmental and construction factors, Bornstein found loose asbestos pipe installation in Dayton's attic (J-28 at 25). Moreover, a flow of air suction into the auditorium from the above attic was "filled with friable loose asbestos pipe installation." Id. at 25. He recommended immediate remediation of the asbestos in the these areas for health and safety reasons. Bornstein allocated a high percentage of Dayton's estimated $5 to $6 million repair cost to asbestos repair.

Bornstein also determined that the four school buildings are underutilized, and he therefore suggested that the Board lease part or all of the buildings to generate income. The most compatible tenants are educational organizations, such as technical and vocational schools, magnet schools, private special education programs, religious schools, colleges, and dance or martial arts studios. Other compatible lessees are day care and nursing care facilities. However, they would require extensive renovations for plumbing and handicapped accessibility and, thus, would be less feasible than educational tenants. Dayton and Johnson could attract commercial enterprises because of its strategic location in the center of their municipalities (J-28 at 97-98). Bornstein concluded that revenues from leases would greatly alleviate operating costs, particularly expenses associated with maintaining basically unused spaces. On the other hand, leasing portions of the buildings to outside entities could depreciate the overall program of the schools "by introducing foreign groups into the school campuses, and by altering the balance of different programmatic spaces" (J-28 at 109).

Another income-producing use is to merge with other school districts. Tuition-paying students or an open tuition policy is a viable alternative to offset excessive taxing of local residents and continuing financial shortfalls from school aid decreases.

Bornstein performed a comparative study of the student body's socioeconomic, ethnic, and racial balance. Ethnicity among the six constituent communities was well balanced, "although the preponderate number of Jewish families seem to be located in four of the six communities" (J-28 at 116). He identified 210, or 9.9% minority students, and thus concluded that there was no problem with racial balances. Moreover, he concluded that the District's relatively low minority student population was not a significant issue (J-28 at 116). Moreover, he believed that "moving a dozen or so minority students from each of three schools and placing them in Johnson would enhance racial balance or benefit 'moved or move to' students." Id.

Of greater concern than racial or ethnic considerations was the question of socioeconomic groupings. Bornstein found significant differences in the per capita income among the six communities. Kenilworth and Garwood were on the bottom, falling below the State per capita average, while Clark followed at slightly above the average. Per capita earning power of Springfield, Berkeley Heights, and Mountainside residents was well above the State average. While pairing Kenilworth/Garwood student residents with Springfield/Mountainside student residents would create a "mix," belief patterns, goals, and expectations within socioeconomic groups tend to create invisible barriers and thus segregation within building walls (J-28 at 116-177). Thus, Bornstein concluded that socioeconomic groupings within the District was a major factor to consider in closing a school. Based on efficiency factors, Bornstein also concluded that Brearley was not the first school of choice to close. Instead, Dayton would be the most logical school of choice.

Bornstein's report was released to the Superintendent in March 1991. However, neither the Board nor the Superintendent ever questioned him about the study. It was not until November 1991 that Bornstein saw a newspaper article where the Superintendent had summarized and criticized his report. Bornstein testified that it is common practice for the consultant to meet with the Board after submitting the study. Thus, he found it unusual to have read about the Board's concern in the newspaper rather than hear it directly from the Board.

II

In March 1991, the Board commissioned the Eagleton Poll of Rutgers University to conduct a study assessing public support for implementing cost-containment measures in the schools. Specifically, the study was aimed to: (1) Measure the level of support for or against closing one or more schools; (2) identify which, if any, school(s) should be closed; (3) examine relative levels of support for a range of cost-containment measures; and (4) compare differences between demographic groups, e.g., community, parental status, and age, supporting various cost-containment recommendations (J-29 at 3).

A scientific sample of 2,400 households distributed equally among the six communities was sent an eight-page questionnaire with input from the Superintendent, assistant superintendent, Board president, and six school district residents, selected at random. A 2.5% margin of error was calculated from 1,457, or 61% of the responses (J-29, Appendix A)

The residents assessed 23 cost-containment suggestions organized into three groups of projected major savings, moderate savings, and minor savings (J-29 at 12-17). A sample of suggestions included the following:

> Reduction of administrative positions by consolidating administrative duties.
>
> Closing down one of the four high school buildings and consolidating classes into the three remaining buildings.
>
> Reduction of teaching positions by increasing the number of students in classes.
>
> Sell the house owned by the school district on Clinton Avenue in Springfield that is currently used for office space.

Eliminate district summer school programs.

Eliminate freshman and junior varsity (JV) athletic teams.

Eliminate free use of school building and grounds by community groups by charging a fee to cover custodial and other expenses.

Eliminate minor athletic teams such as bowling, golf, gymnastics, swimming, tennis, and volleyball.

Eliminate cheerleading activities.

Eliminate student field trips.

Among seven major cost-containment suggestions, three recommendations supported by a majority of the residents were reducing administrative positions by consolidating administrative duties (93%), closing one of the four high schools (58%), and reducing support staff by eliminating clerical and/or custodial positions (56%).

A majority of residents in Mountainside, Garwood, and Berkeley Heights supported school closings as a means to cut costs. In comparison, less than half of the residents in Springfield, Clark, and Kenilworth supported school closings over other cost-containment measures.

On a relative assessment of which school should be closed, Brearley was selected by the highest percentage of the residents, followed by Dayton, Johnson, and Livingston. Rated independently, residents selected Brearley as the school that should be closed. Overall, Brearley was selected by more residents (47%) than any of the other schools; 38% of the residents chose Johnson and Dayton, while 28% chose Livingston.

To get input from all residents, the same questionnaire that was sent to the scientific sample was also sent to 23,000 residents in the District. Completed questionnaires were returned by 1,861 residents. The results of the newsletter survey, however, do not constitute a scientific survey where respondents are selected from a sample that is projectable to a defined population. Thus, responses from self-selected respondents such as newsletter surveys, 900 telephone polls, and other nonscientific polls do not project any known population group. They can easily become biased or imbalanced and, therefore, violate statistical principles on which research surveys are based. Notwithstanding the potential for misuse of nonscientific polls, the main thrust of the findings from the scientific survey was supported by the newsletter survey.

The Board received the results of the scientific survey in September 1991 and on October 15, 1991, held a retreat meeting to review the findings. Thereafter, six meetings were held in each community for public response.

III

District Superintendent Merachnik sought an opinion on cost containment and the impact on curriculum from closing a school from Kenneth Mattfield, Supervisor of Curriculum. The report, Exhibit P-8, presented to the Ad Hoc Committee, also answered three questions: What constitutes a quality education?; Is the region providing it?; and, What would be the effects on the quality of education if one or two schools closed?

Mattfield first challenges two major assumptions: That quality education is directly related to the diversity of curriculum (the more choices, the better); and secondly, that quality education results from offering a wide range of advanced honors and challenging courses to the brightest and ablest students. Noting that a diverse and comprehensive program is expensive, Mattfield believes that quality education can be achieved through cost-containment measures for optimum use of small high schools.

Notwithstanding declining enrollment, the District was providing a quality education. Statistics revealed consistently good student performance on the High School Proficiency Test (HSPT), low drop-out rates, and a high percentage range of graduates entering two- and four-year colleges and other schools -- 78% at Brearley to 94% at Livingston (P-8 at 8). Thus, to maintain quality education, the Board will have to operate schools that are both cost efficient and small. Mattfield noted five reasons for retaining small high schools (P-8 at 14):

1. A sense of community can be more easily developed and maintained.
2. Shared values can more easily exist among students, parents, and teachers.
3. All students can be personally connected to learning.
4. Fewer resources can be devoted to controlling students; hence, more are available to teaching.
5. Students spend less time riding buses to get to more distant consolidated large schools.

Thus, in his report, Mattfield opposed closing any school because each is an appropriate size. Acknowledging that maintaining four high schools would be painful "because they cannot be 'large' high schools that happen to enroll 400 to 600 students," Mattfield proposed that each school respond to the needs of the student community, parents, and professionals (P-8 at 15). Rather than one curriculum for four schools, programs must be tailored to meet individual needs of the students. Choices will be limited by available resources with foreseeable cuts in programs and instructional and administrative staff cuts. Id.

Mattfield opposed consolidating the District with other small high schools in the area. Instead, he believed that a consolidation on a K-12 basis made more sense from a curricular standpoint. Id.

Also, he recommended the use of telecommunications for learning. Moving the high school curriculum beyond the school's four walls would also include course offerings at Union County Vocational/Technical School and Union County College.

Mattfield was candid about his bias for maintaining four small schools. Employed with the District since 1973, he initially taught English at Livingston. Recalling that period as the largest student enrollment, Mattfield was amazed by "the talent in its bright, sophisticated students" (P-8 at 16). It was a teacher's paradise compared to "the stark poverty of material resources" he had previously known. Id. Nevertheless, having taught in both large and small versions of the same school, Mattfield did not recommend any action that would "return to the good old days, or even take a step in that direction." Id. at 17.

Mattfield's testimony on May 3, 1993, presented a different conclusion than that stated in his report to the Ad Hoc Committee on February 26, 1992. Mattfield's report relied heavily on theoretical principles rather than on practical application. However, he believed that the concepts asserted in his report can be equally successful in three schools as well as four schools. Moreover, he testified that an enrollment of 700 to 750 students is considered a small high school. See also Exhibit J-25. Notwithstanding the conclusions made in his report, Mattfield agreed with the Board's vote on November 17, 1992, to close one of the high schools in the regional school district.

IV

Dr. Merachnik has been employed by the District since 1955. At the Board meeting on October 20, 1992, he presented a recommendation on whether the District should continue to maintain four high schools. If not, he recommended which school(s) should be closed, when the school(s) should be closed, and which students should be reassigned to which schools (R-23 at 2).

In forming his recommendation, Merachnik reviewed the minutes of the Ad Hoc Committee meetings, Bornstein's Factors of the Efficiency Study, Rutgers University's Eagleton Poll, and the District's Master Plan for Educational Facilities. Further, he met with the directors of pupil personnel services, guidance, computer operations, building and grounds, transportation, and of health, both physical and education. He also met with principals and assistant principals. Moreover, he established an administrative coordinating committee consisting of the assistant superintendent, the board secretary, the assistant board secretary, and a public relations person. Additionally, Merachnik reviewed an updated enrollment projection pattern.

Merachnik testified that the Board first considered the possibility of closing a school in 1985, when it developed a "what if" study on school closings and how small, quality schools operate. Notwithstanding declining enrollment, the Board decided to maintain and operate four schools rather than close a school because it cared about the adverse impact on the community if it lost a school. Also, the Board perceived the voters' approval of its budget as public approval to maintain four high schools.

In 1990, the Board again looked at the issue of a school closing. The 1989 State Board of Education's Report Card disclosed that the District had the highest per pupil cost in the State. Reactions from the general public, mayors, and municipal bodies compelled the Board to scrutinize and account for the reported cost. The Board, nevertheless, continued to operate four high schools, even when the budgets were voted down in 1990 and 1991. Within this context, the Board also took a careful look at the educational benefits. It noted that Scholastic Achievement Test (SAT) scores were declining and achievement tests were not reflective of the expectations for a district spending so much per pupil (R-23 at 50).

Consequently, the Board conducted several studies that focused and provided information on the total situation. The reports included a Factors of Efficiency Study (J-28), which addressed the efficiency and cost of running each high school. Merachnik found numerous inaccuracies in Bornstein's report and wrote a summary critique. For example, he disagreed with several of Bornstein's conclusions, most particularly that Dayton's asbestos created an environmental hazard. Thus, he consulted an engineer for a second opinion.

Another concern with the Bornstein report was the functional capacity of the facilities. Bornstein determined functional capacity of the buildings on their square footage; Merachnik determined functional capacity on the curriculum offered and the academic programs. Specifically, Bornstein measured functional capacity based on the number of rooms available and the number of students per square foot who might fit into each room. He did not account for the curriculum and special arrangements required for certain classes mandating a small number of students, e.g., special education, basic skills, computer science, resource room, etc. On the contrary, Merachnik believed that it was more appropriate to determine operating efficiency on room use incorporating the components of the curriculum rather than room use load and square footage (R-18 at 10).

Merachnik also questioned Bornstein's repair cost estimates for each school. Some of the recommended repairs had already been undertaken. Thus, he rejected Bornstein's repair estimates as unrealistic (R-18 at 7).

Merachnik also disagreed with Bornstein's method of determining operating costs. Bornstein measured cost efficiency by comparing the actual operating costs of each school with the square footage in each building and the number of enrolled students. Bornstein's assumptions were inaccurate because the 1989-90 actual expenditures for each school used were inaccurate.

The Board also had a survey performed by the Eagleton Poll of Rutgers University. The survey polled community attitudes, perceptions, and input concerning cost containment measures that could reduce school costs. The Board held six community meetings to discuss the results of the survey.

Merachnik considered carefully both the Bornstein report and the Eagleton Poll. Also, the Board held two retreat meetings to discuss their contents. On March 16, 1991, the Board had the retreat meeting at the Grand Summit Hotel in Summit, specifically to discuss the Bornstein report. A second meeting was held at the hotel in October 1991 to discuss the Eagleton survey with a staff member from the institute.

Further, the Board established an Ad Hoc Committee (Committee) comprised of municipal council members, local board of education presidents, and regional district board members. The Committee conducted public meetings on February 5, February 26, March 18, and April 15, 1992.

At its last meeting on April 15, 1992, the Committee voted 7 to 4, with one abstention, to keep the four schools open. Although the Committee's recommendation was not binding on the Board, on April 28, 1992, the Board voted 5 to 4 to continue operating four high schools and to vigorously pursue cost-containment measures.

Also in April, the Board members and the Superintendent met with the Deputy Commission of Education and special assistant to the Commissioner of Education to discuss the issue of operating four high schools within the District. The Board gave data to the Department about the District, and the Department provided technical assistance and advice to the Board.

Subsequent to the Board's April 28 vote to continue operating four high schools, the following cost-containment measures were implemented:

1. A reduction from 16 department supervisors to 5 district supervisors.
2. A reduction from 4 guidance directors to 2 guidance directors.
3. Elimination of 4 attendance clerk positions with the assistant principals and their secretaries picking up this responsibility.
4. Adding two periods of teaching to the duties of directors of health, physical education, and athletics.
5. Eliminating the position of administrative assistant in the personnel office.
6. Reducing our sports program activities and coaching positions.
7. Eliminating night computer operators and replacing these people with automated equipment.
8. Renting of three rooms to another public school district, anticipated to commence on November 9.

In September 1992, the District teaching staff reported that some of the cost-containment measures were impacting educational services. Consequently, the Board had two major concerns: Whether declining enrollment seriously impaired the quality of opportunities and educational course offerings to students and whether cost-containment measures negatively impacted the services provided to students and parents. Simply stated, had the educational quality been diminished by the decisions to keep four schools open?

Merachnik also considered the functional capacity of each school. Based on the curriculum offered to students rather than the number of rooms or instructional spaces available, the four facilities can accommodate 4,674 students. With only 2,162 students enrolled, only 46% of capacity is used. Consequently, the four schools are underutilized. Theoretically, if one of the four schools were to close, 59% to 65% of capacity could be used. Also, because functional capacity changes annually with curriculum changes, the Board must consider how many schools are needed to accommodate future curriculum changes (R-23 at 8).

Merachnik also considered the impact of cost-containment measures on current services offered to students and parents. Administrative and supervisory staff reduction has effected school operations. Reducing full-time guidance directors to part-time positions in each school has impacted the department's ability to adequately coordinate its services. Moreover, student problems and parent concerns have not been timely handled, computer runs on class scheduling were impacted, and principals spent more time on guidance activities than they did when full-time guidance directors were available. Another cost-containment measure -- eliminating attendance clerks and reassigning this task to assistant principals -- has caused the assistant principals to spend a greater portion of time on clerical activities rather than on disciplinary matters.

Merachnik believed that regionalizing the seven school districts into one K-12 district is the best educational configuration for the District. It makes educational sense and "would be economically efficient because we would not need seven superintendents of schools, seven board secretaries/business administrators, four curriculum coordinators, seven directors of special services, etc." (R-23 at 14). However, the Board does not have the authority, absent the consent of all local seven boards of education, to implement a K-12 district.

Consequently, Merachnik believed a high school enrollment of 750 to 800 students to be optimum size, and thus recommended the following to the Board:

1. Close one high school effective September 1993.

2. Reassignment of the students to the three remaining high schools in a manner that would permit those students from the same community to remain in the same school.

3. Plan a reassignment that would result in an approximate equal number of students in the three remaining high schools.

4. Reassignment of students from a particular community based on three preliminary factors: Use and adaptability of the facility, transportation safety, and time of transportation to and from school.

5. The school that is selected to be closed should not be sold but instead retained by the Board and leased in a long-term basis, e.g., seven to ten years, to another public school district.

6. The regional district should maintain the school selected to be closed to enable the building and grounds to be utilized by the district and communities.

Merachnik also recommended expanding the school to an eight-period instructional day. Further, he recommended that the District should undertake several new educational initiatives.

Regarding the impact on District staff from closing a school, Merachnik recommended an early retirement program. The Board could then retain younger staff members whose positions might be in jeopardy. Also, he recommended staff training and development consistent with new programs to be implemented.

In selecting which school to close, Merachnik considered each school's functional capacity and its current and projected student enrollment. He concluded that "David Brearley is the school with the least functional capacity of any of our schools" (R-23 at 19). Moreover, each school's projected enrollment to the year 2000 envisions that Dayton would grow substantially more than the other three schools (from 588 students to 713 students). In contrast, projected enrollment at Brearley will rise from 392 students to 442 students in the next decade. Id. at 19-20. Merachnik also believed that constriction of curricular opportunities will be greatest in the school with the smallest enrollment.

Merachnik also considered and rejected closing Dayton, Johnson, or Livingston rather than Brearley. Comparably, Brearley did not have a sufficient number of specialty rooms or instructional space as did the other three schools. Johnson, Dayton, and Livingston have three biology laboratory rooms, but Brearley has two laboratory rooms; Johnson, Dayton, and Livingston have two chemistry laboratory rooms but Brearley has only one; each of the other schools has one physics laboratory, but there is none at Brearley. Brearley's media center is 4,124 square feet, while the media center at Dayton is 5,752 square feet, at Johnson is 7,472 square feet, and at Livingston is 7,560 square feet. It is anticipated that the science laboratory rooms will be needed to meet future curriculum changes requiring more hands-on experience (R-23 at 21).

Merachnik also maintained that all students from one community should be assigned to the same school. Consequently, reassigning students from the same communities now attending the three other schools to Brearley would cause enrollment to exceed Brearley's capacity of 983 students. However, Merachnik conceded that students from Mountainside attending Dayton could be reassigned to Brearley, which would result in projected enrollments of 585 in 1993-94; 592 in 1994-95; and 578 in 1995-96. However, by closing Dayton rather than Brearley, the District would be closing the school with more biology, chemistry, and physics labs. Also, Dayton is the school with the larger instructional media center, three gymnasiums, and the only facility for graphic arts instruction, millwork, and cabinet-making. Thus, Merachnik concluded that it would not "make good educational sense nor serve our program opportunities to make this decision to operate David Brearley in lieu of Jonathan Dayton" (R-23 at 22).

Based on variable factors and his assessment of all four schools, Merachnik concluded that > the school with the smallest functional capacity, the school whose projected enrollment will not exceed 442 students any year in the next ten, thereby, leading to restricted curricular opportunities for students, the school with the fewest science labs and the smallest instructional media center and the school with an operating cost slightly higher than any other be the one selected to cease to operate. That school, as you all know by now, is David Brearley.

Merachnik's reassignment of the students from Brearley considered three major factors: Use of facilities or equitable distribution of students resulting in the three remaining schools being approximate in size; use and adaptability of facility; and transportation and safety. The reassignment recommended was as follows:

1. Clark and Garwood students to attend Johnson.
2. Kenilworth and Springfield to attend Dayton.
3. Berkeley Heights and Mountainside students to attend Livingston.

Merachnik urged the Board to consider his recommendations and render a decision in November.

Merachnik testified that the decision to close the school included significant input from the residents in the six communities. The Ad Hoc Committee meetings were attended by 200 to 300 residents. Although they were not permitted to speak, they were privy to the conversations of Committee members.

The Board also discussed expanding its District to include other school districts. Discussions were held with New Providence, Greenbrook, Roselle Park, and Westfield. None of these communities was interested in consolidating.

Merachnik conceded that his recommendation to close one of the four regional high schools and the selection of Brearley was determined in a one-step process. It was based, however, "upon much information and represents an educational plan; not a political one" (R-23 at 2).

V

The Ad Hoc Committee was formed to recommend to the Board whether the District should close a school. The Committee met on February 5, 26, March 18, and April 15, 1992.

At its February 5 meeting, Board Secretary Harold R. Burdge presented an overview of the appropriation of tax levy in each of the six communities. Merachnik presented an overview of the Eagleton Poll, the Bornstein report, and the enrollment projections. With regard to the Eagleton Poll, Janice Ballou was available to answer questions. With regard to Bornstein's study, Merachnik prepared a summary report stating what he believed were inaccurate, invalid, or unnecessary recommendations (R-18).

The Committee was concerned about not having the opportunity to discuss the Bornstein report in the same in-depth manner in which they discussed the Eagleton survey. Merachnik conceded that this could have been done. However, based on the contents of the Bornstein report, the Board believed it was necessary to first get an in-depth evaluation by its own engineers and Superintendent before the report was made public (J-30 at 10-11). Another Board member questioned why Bornstein's firm was not available to answer questions regarding his report. Merachnik replied in part that:

> [T]he report is a year old, and a lot of repairs that were mentioned have already been cared for. . . . Dr. Bornstein is a consultant and used what I would consider subcontracted people. He does not have his own staff where we could just say, give us your staff. And I think . . . we've learned something from using a consultant of that kind.
> [J-30 at 12-13.]

At the February 26, 1992 Committee meeting, Mattfield presented his report (P-8). Mattfield believed that closing a high school to save money was "shortsighted economy" (J-31 at 10). Schools must be kept small if they are to meet the future successfully. This can be accomplished with cost-containment measures focused in the direction of a unified K-12 school district. Id. He also considered a magnet school system but believed its most common use was for desegregation, which was not an issue raised before the Board (J-31 at 25).

With regard to closing a school, Mattfield did not address the immediate impact of "taking a bunch of kids and uprooting and sending them off somewhere" because children are extremely resilient (J-21 at 29). His concern, however, was the impact on the community from large schools. Larger schools require resources to control larger groups of children. Thus, more resources are invested in control rather than teaching. Id. at 29.

The Committee's March 18, 1992 meeting focused on the impact of school closing on real estate values. The Committee received responses from several real estate agents associated with the six communities, each of whom believed that closing a school would severely impact the community, cause lower real estate values, lower the quality of life, or have a disastrous effect on market value (J-32 at 3).

Councilman Donald Ricca, a Committee member, testified about the diverse and broad-based membership of the Committee. They reviewed voluminous documents, including reports prepared by Bornstein, the Eagleton Institute, Mattfield, Burdge, and real estate brokers. Councilman Ricca, a fourth-generation resident of Kenilworth, candidly spoke about the importance of Brearley in his life and in the lives of his constituents -- Brearley is the "heart and soul" of the community.

The Committee also reviewed the 23 cost-containment proposals listed in the Eagleton survey (J-32 at 4). Burdge estimated a savings of $1,982,000 from the cost-containment measures, excluding closing one high school at an estimated savings of $4,000,000 (J-32 at 7). When asked whether the District should close a school, Burdge responded that, from a financial viewpoint, "We can no longer justify the cost of utilizing four buildings with such low enrollment. Financially, I believe there simply has to be a consolidation into fewer buildings" (J-32 at 29).

Merachnik and Burdge responded to questions about the $16,000 per pupil cost reported in the State's Report Card. Merachnik believed the figure was inflated because it was based on a 9-12 district rather than a K-12 district. Recalculating the same costs on a K-12 district resulted in a per pupil cost of $9,000 (J-32 at 23).

Mayor Kurno of Springfield recommended that the District should deregionalize, citing increased costs and declining enrollment as major factors (J-32 at 31-33). Indeed, the mayors of the six communities had several private meetings among themselves to discuss deregionalization (J-33 at 13).

On April 15, 1992, the Committee moved to close Brearley (J-33 at 29). The motion failed by vote of 7 to 4 and one abstention (J-33 at 31).[1]

[1]Discussions were had on an amendment to the motion to delete the name of a specific school to be closed. However, the record reflects that no official motion to amend was properly made. See and compare, Exhibit J-33 at 29-31, with Roberts' Rules of Order, rev'd, § 33).

VI

On September 1, 1992, the Board adopted the following cost-containment measures recommended by the Committee: Leasing three rooms at Brearley; reducing the District's athletic program; eliminating the night computer staff; reducing the pay rate for summer guidance counselors, child study members, school nurses and vocation coordinators; and charging rental to certain groups for use of school facilities (J-17 to J-22).

On September 8, 1992, the Board approved the reassignment of four assistant principals as attendance officers for their respective schools (J-18 at 2).

On September 15, 1992, at its public meeting, the Board met in executive session to discuss an item of possible litigation (J-19); it discussed and agreed to revisit the issue of closing a school (J-20).

On September 22, 1992, the Board voted to reexamine the issue of closing a school with the intent of making the District more educationally efficient. The Board also directed Merachnik to prepare a report with a recommendation "in light of the cost containment measures that have been considered to date" (J-21 at 5). Board members commented that educational input was needed from Merachnik and that some of the cost-containment measures and effects had resulted in problems that were detrimental to the District's program. Some Board members, who on April 28, 1992, voted to keep the four schools open, were concerned about the impact of cost-containment measures on the educational program. Other members, while agreeing with the sentiments expressed, believed that the cost-containment measures should be given more time to operate.

On October 5, 1992, members of the public asked whether the Board would vote to close the school after it decided to continue to operate four schools and instead implement cost-containment measures. In response, Zitomer conceded that perhaps the Board "made the wrong decision" when it voted in April to operate the four schools and implement cost-containment measures (J-22 at 31).

On October 20, 1992, Dr. Merachnik presented his recommendation to the Board (R-23). Kenilworth residents disagreed with his recommendation to close Brearley. They urged the Board to give cost-containment measures at least one year to work before deciding to close the school. Additionally, many Brearley students pleaded with the Board not to close their school (J-23 at 32).

On November 4, 1992, approximately 1,300 people attended the Board's public meeting. Kenilworth Councilman Donald Rica delivered a written response prepared in conjunction with the Committee of Concerned Parents and other citizens of the community. Harvey Goldberg, a teacher at Brearley, expressed the sentiments of his colleagues at Brearley -- the faculty requested that the Board vote to reject the recommendation to close the school.

George Schlenker, a member of the Kenilworth Board of Education, read a prepared statement asking the Board to reject Merachnik's recommendation to close a school (J-24 at 46-49). Thereafter, at least 32 people, including students in the regional high schools, students in the junior high, Brearley graduates, teachers, and residents from the six communities, presented statements and asked questions. While a majority of the speakers opposed the closing of a high school, others asked the Board to continue to present a quality education. Students from Dayton and Johnson welcomed their regional classmates from Brearley into their schools (J-24 at 49-70). Also, several Board members asked questions concerning budgeted items embedded in cost containment measures. At the conclusion of the meeting, the Board voted that a public hearing would be held on November 17, 1992, concerning Merachnik's report and his recommendation on closing a school.

On November 17, 1992, 1,300 people attended the Board's meeting. They expressed their opinions and asked questions concerning the closing of Brearley. Brearley and Dayton students and Kenilworth parents pled with the Board to vote against closing Brearley. Also, residents from the other communities, students, and teachers asked the Board not to close the school (J-25 at 12).

Also, the Board answered questions about renting Brearley to handicapped students or another group. Burdge and Jean Melnyczenko of Disco Associates answered questions regarding renovations and conversion costs at Brearley (J-25 at 15-18). Mattfield answered questions regarding class size and the curriculum that he envisioned for next year and years to come.

Thereafter, the following resolution was placed before the Board members: "Effective September 1, 1993, the David Brearley High School shall become nonoperational within the regional school district system." Id. at 23. Prior to the vote, Board members expressed their views about closing Brearley (J-25 at 25-28). Some Board members believed cost containment was detrimental to the educational program and, if continued, would chisel the educational foundation by bits and pieces. Thus, cost containment was not the solution to the educational needs of the District, nor was it in the best educational interests of all the students. Instead, they were convinced that the educational program would be improved with only three high schools. They believed that each school would operate well with 700 to 800 students.

Other Board members responded to the emotional plea of Kenilworth parents and residents, many of whom were relatives and longtime friends of those casting the vote. Satisfied that they had done their "homework," they accepted Merachnik's recommendation and voted "yes" on the resolution.

One Board member, who voted "no" on the resolution, believed that unanswered questions remained. The other member who voted "no" resented the timing of the vote; he believed that it should occur after the first of the year. Additionally, it was felt that the Board was voting on Merachnik's recommendation without giving the Brearley staff, the Concerned Citizens of Kenilworth, or other Board members the opportunity to respond.

The resolution passed with a vote of 7 to 2.

After the vote, the Board adopted a resolution reassigning the students to the three remaining high schools. Id. at 29. The meeting was adjourned at 1:45 a.m. on November 18, 1992.

VII

Harold R. Burdge, Board Secretary, School Business Administrator, and Chief Financial Officer, has been employed with the District since 1961. He testified about the relationship between the District budgets and public support. The public supported the budget throughout the 1980s. However, the voters defeated the 1990-91 and 1991-92 budgets. The 1990-91 budget represented a zero increase over the prior year, and specific line item expenses were frozen at the 1989-90 level. The 1991-92 budget was 5.5% higher than the 1990-91 budget, and the Board again froze specific line item expenses. The budgeted amounts for both years were under the State-allowed cap.

Burdge believed that the voters were irate over high pupil costs. In 1990-91, the per-pupil cost ranged from $9,762.88 in Clark to $19,560.86 in Mountainside, with a District average of $12,881.74 (R-28). In 1991-92, the per-pupil cost ranged from $8,589.39 in Garwood to $20,118.57 in Mountainside, with a District average of $13,480.48. Id.

Burdge also believed that the budget defeats reflected public response to the School District Report Card (R-29). The report covered three major areas of the District's operations -- finances, staffing/student attendance, and student performance. Between 1988-89 to 1991-92, per-pupil cost increased from $10,898 to $16,376, an average annual rate of 14.5%. Also, it was reported that the District's tax rate is 21% above the average for other district budgets supporting the same grades within the region and 24% above the average for such districts across the State (R-29). Notably, the percentage of ninth graders passing the HSPT (reading, math, and writing) in 1990-91 showed an increase over tests given in 1985-86. Also, the District's class of 1991 averaged higher SAT scores compared with the State averages. Id.

The audited free balance for June 30, 1991, was $7,038,297. However, on July 1, 1991, the Board appropriated $2,150,000 from surplus to reduce the tax levy for the 1991-92 budget. Burdge testified that the Board determined to appropriate the money several months before the actual disbursement.

The audited free balance for June 30, 1992, was $8,783,453. On July 1, 1992, the Board appropriated $2,150,000 to reduce the tax levy and an additional appropriation of $2,950,000 on December 1 for nonrecurring expenses, e.g., legal fees, teachers' salaries, and contracted services for grounds and buildings (P-1, R-32). Burdge concluded that the closing of Brearley would realize a cost savings of $3 million in 1993-94.

Petitioner Janet Glynos, a Kenilworth resident and parent of two elementary school children, is the founder of the Committee for Concerned Parents (CCP). Aware that the Board was considering whether it should close a school, the CCP was formed in September 1991 to persuade the Board not to close Brearley (R-2). It believed that Brearley had been targeted as the school that would be closed "based on a perceived inferior political 'clout' of Kenilworth and socioeconomic prejudice towards this town." Id.

Glynos is a graduate of Brearley and believes that the school plays a vital role in the community in an academic, athletic, and social posture. She also believes that all District schools have been treated fairly and equally. As a parent and a taxpayer, she supports the continued operation of four small high schools with fewer students.

Dr. Lawrence Kaplan, the Board's educational consultant, has known Bornstein for many years and chaired his doctoral dissertation. Kaplan is very familiar with the key-grid method of collecting information used in the process of school closings. Also, he reviewed Bornstein's study (J-28) and determined that it was not included in the report. Kaplan agreed that it would have been reasonable for the Board to question Bornstein about any concerns it had with his report or conclusions. Thus, he thought it was unusual that the Board did not discuss the report with Bornstein. However, Kaplan did not think it unusual to release the report to the public six months later rather then sooner.

Kaplan has been involved in the closing of three elementary schools. He testified that the average time it takes to close a school is three years. But for two of the schools, the time between the date when the Superintendent made a recommendation until the school closed was eighteen months. The third school took seven or eight years to close. Kaplan conceded that the time from the date the Superintendent recommended that Brearley be closed until the Board's vote was 28 days. However, based on his review of the data and the District's efforts over a period of years to deal with issues on cost containment and staff and administrative reduction, he concluded that the Board's process began much earlier than October 20, 1992.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Since 1972, the District's student enrollment declined from 5,798 to 2,163, or 62%.

2. During the mid-1980s, the Board considered and rejected the possibility of closing a school.

3. In the late 1980s, the Board began to implement cost containment measures.

4. In 1989-90, the District had the highest per pupil costs in the State.

5. Between 1990-91 and 1991-92, the District's tax rate was 21% above the average for other districts in the region and 24% above the average across the State.

6. Among the District's four high schools, Brearley is the smallest school with the least functional capacity.

7. In 1992-93, the District used 46% of its capacity for instruction.

8. In December 1990, a Factors of Efficiency Study was commissioned by the Board:

   a) The study was conducted by Dr. Bornstein and released to the Board in March 1991;

   b) On March 16, 1991, the Board went into executive session at a retreat meeting to discuss the report;

   c) The Board released the report to the public in November 1991.

9. In June 1991, The Board commissioned the Eagleton Poll of Rutgers University to conduct a scientific survey of residents in the six communities on their preferences to various cost-containment options:

   a) The results of the survey were released to the Board in September 1991;

   b) In October 1991, the Board held another retreat meeting at the Grand Summit Hotel to discuss the results of the survey;

   c) Six community meetings were held to discuss the survey.

10. A broad based Ad Hoc Committee reviewed relevant information and made a recommendation to the Board on cost containment measures, including closing a school:

a) The Committee reviewed the Master Plan, the Bornstein Report, the Eagleton Poll, Mattfield's curriculum report, a financial report, enrollment projects, real estate reports, and other voluminous data;

b) The Committee discussed the information at four meetings, well attended by the public;

c) On February 26, 1992, Kenneth Mattfield, the Supervisor of Curriculum, presented his report to the Ad Hoc Committee and recommended that the District maintain four small high schools;

d) On March 18, 1992, Harold Burdge presented his analysis of saving attributed to the 23 cost-containment proposals listed in the Eagleton Poll.

e) On April 15, 1991, the Committee voted 7 to 4, with one abstention, to recommend that the four schools remain open and that other cost-containment measures be implemented.

11. On April 28, 1992, the Board voted 5 to 4 not to close a school, but instead to pursue other cost-containment measures.

12. On September 15, 1992, the Board went into executive session to seek legal advice on revisiting the issue of closing a school.

13. On September 22, 1992, the Board voted to reexamine the issue of closing a school and directed the Superintendent to prepare a recommendation on the issue.

14. On October 20, 1992, Dr. Merachnik recommended to the Board that the District close one of the four high schools; he selected Brearley as the school to be closed.

15. On November 17, 1992, the Board voted to close Brearley in September 1993.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioners' Position

Petitioners contend that the Board's decision on November 17, 1992, to close Brearley was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, in bad faith, and an abuse of discretion. Petitioners raise several events in the Board's deliberation process in support of their position.

It is contended that the decision to close Brearley was made in only 28 days -- from the date of the Superintendent's report on October 20 to the date of the Board's vote on November 17. Thus, there was insufficient time to adequately investigate, discuss, debate, and get public input on the issue of closing a school. Moreover, petitioners dispute the respondent's assertion that the process to close the school began before 1990. Therefore, it is submitted that prior general or philosophical discussions about cost containment and school closings, rather than a specific discussion on a specific identified school, is not part of the process that resulted in the November 17, 1992 vote.

Also, it is contended that the Superintendent's recommendation on the school closing should have been a two-step process: (1) Whether a school should close and, if so, (2) which school should be closed. Instead, the recommendation involved only one step. Further, the Board gave cost-containment measures only 15 days to work before it decided on September 15, 1992, to revisit the issue of school closing.

Petitioners contend that there was not a financial need to close a school. With regard to educational reasons, it is asserted that the Board had insufficient and conflicting information to reach a reasonable and nonarbitrary decision. It is further contended that that Board ignored recommendations made by committees, consultants, and its own supervisor of curriculum supporting the continued operation of four small high schools.

Petitioners assert that the Board's decision to release the Factors of Efficiency Study in November 1991, although it was received in March 1991, constituted bad faith.

It is further contended that the Board, in bad faith, conducted three private, secret meetings to discuss matters that should have been discussed in public: The Bornstein study, the Eagleton survey, and the issue of revisiting the school closing.

It is contended that prior to the November 17 vote, the Board had no plans on how reassigning Brearley students would impact and affect racial imbalances in the District. Moreover, it is suggested that the Board did not explore and aggressively discuss with the Roselle School District the probability of bringing Roselle into the District because of the that district's racial composition; the majority of Roselle students are black. Petitioners submit that merging the two districts would obviate the necessity of closing Brearley. Instead, the Board created a racial imbalance problem when it voted to close Brearley and reassign the students to the other three high schools.

Additionally, it is asserted that the Board acted in bad faith when it refused the legislators' suggestion to obtain an independent consultant to evaluate the situation before making a decision. Instead, it decided to close the newest school and the only school with handicapped accessibility and air conditioning.

Petitioners also assert that it is probable that Kenilworth real estate values will drop based on the closing of Brearley.

Petitioners submit that the Board's process to close Brearley was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, and done in bad faith. Thus, the presumption of correctness of the Board's action on November 17, 1992, has been rebutted. It is urged that the Board's action and vote on November 17, 1992, be set aside and vacated and that the Superintendent and administration be directed to reopen Brearley for the beginning of the 1993-94 school year.

Respondent's Position

The Board argues that its decision on November 17, 1992, to close a school was a reasonable response to a 20-year period of declining enrollment, a diminishing quality educational program, and increasing costs. Further, it appropriately chose to close Brearley after considering public input and only after repeated efforts at other means of cost containment had failed. Thus, it submitted that the decision to close the school was the cumulation of a 10-year, not a 28-day, decision.

Further, it is argued that the enrollment decline over the past 20 years has adversely affected the educational program. Underutilized buildings and dwindling curriculum were inconsistent with providing a thorough and efficient educational program under N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-1 to -52. In essence, diminished pupil population had diminished the quality of education.

In contrast, the overall cost of operating four schools increased substantially. Per pupil costs increased 372%, from $3,100 per pupil to $14,700 per pupil. Nevertheless, the Board determined to keep four school open but to downsize operations. It developed its budget under cap, froze expenditures, reduced positions, and appropriated surplus in a fiscally responsible manner. When the school budget was defeated in 1990-91, the Board looked at other substantial cost containment measures, including closing a school. The Board sought information from experts on education, school curriculum, finance, and input from the six constituent communities. It is submitted that cost savings is an appropriate factor to consider in deciding whether to close a school.

Regarding Dr. Bornstein's Factors of Efficiency Study issued in March 1991, the Board was extremely concerned about the reported asbestos hazard at Dayton. Thus, it immediately hired an architectural and engineering firm to reinspect the facility's alleged asbestos problem. Further, in March 1991, the Board held a retreat "specifically to discuss the the alleged safety problem at . . . Dayton." The Bornstein report was discussed in executive session because the topic involved a potential student safety hazard.

Additionally, it is argued that the Bornstein report contained other inaccuracies and errors. For example, the report did not show that Brearley, the smallest school with fewer or insufficient speciality rooms, has the highest operational costs. Thus, to avoid public unrest over misinformation, the Superintendent revised the report before releasing it to the public in November 1991. Based on efficiency factors and the schools' physical features, the Board submits that Brearley was the most appropriate school to close.

Regarding the retreat meetings, it is asserted that they are encouraged by the New Jersey School Board's Association "to discuss issues in a more intense manner outside the time constraints and pressures of regular meetings." Thus, in October 1991, the Board had another retreat to discuss the Eagleton Poll results. Thereafter, it held six community meetings to discuss the results of the survey.

The Board argues that notwithstanding its vote in April 1992 to accept the Ad Hoc Committee's nonbinding recommendation to keep four schools open and instead to pursue cost containment, the cost-saving efforts failed and adversely affected the educational program. Thus, "the Board members properly sought legal advice during their executive session meeting on September 15, 1992 concerning the procedure . . . to follow . . . to revisit the school closing issue." It is asserted that the executive session dealt only with an informal consensus on reopening the issue of whether to close a school, not a decision on whether to close a school.

The Board argues that petitioners' allegation that the decision to close Brearley failed to properly consider the student racial balance impact is without merit. The Board complied with its statutory duty when it submitted a request to close Brearley to the Department of Education, Bureau of Facility Planning Services. N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.2. In conjunction with the Office of Equal Educational Opportunity, the Bureau reviewed the District's situation and then approved the closing of Brearley, provided the District "undertake a student reassignment procedure to ensure racial balance" (R-8). Moreover, it is asserted that Dr. Bornstein correctly concluded in his study that no significant racial imbalance existed and, indeed, the State has never notified the Board of any problem before or after November 17, 1992. Thus, it is submitted that the Board's reassignment procedure complied fully with the plain language of N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.

Regarding the potential effect of Brearley's closing on Kenilworth property values, the Board conceded that the quality of the educational program and diversity of opportunities offered by a secondary school ultimately sell a potential buyer on a community. However, the Board's right to decide to close a school is inconsequential to property values affected by that decision. It is argued that the Board's primary responsibility is maintaining a quality education for the students, not maintaining property values for the homeowners. Thus, property values, although significant to homeowners, are not the focus of the Board's deliberations.

The Board argues that it considered the handicap accessibility of each of the buildings prior to the vote to close Brearley. An engineering firm provided detailed information about the needs of each facility to come into compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA). 42 U.S.C. § 12101 to 12213. It is contended that the elevator at Brearley is not in compliance with ADA regulations nor the New Jersey Barrier Free Code. Moreover, ADA compliance in all four schools would cost approximately the same amount. The findings of the report were discussed at the November 17, 1992 meeting before the vote was taken.

The Board submits that having considered a broad range of information prior to its vote on November 17, 1992, its only reasonable alternative was to close a school. Additionally, its choice of Brearley as the school that should be closed involved community input and was supported by the recommendations of the Superintendent and the Business Administrator. Thus, its decision to close Brearley was consistent with the information before it. While its actions may not be perfect, they were reasonable and done in good faith.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, the board shall:

a. Adopt an official seal;
b. Enforce the rules of the state board;
c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees . . . ; and
d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

Accordingly, the Board has discretionary authority to close a school that is no longer necessary for the thorough and efficient education of the pupils in the district. Boult v. Passaic Bd. of Ed., 136 N.J.L. 521 (E.&A. 1947). Moreover, the courts have held that the Commissioner of Education cannot substitute her opinion for that of the local board. Silverman v. Millburn Tp. Bd. of Ed., 134 N.J. Super. 253 (Law Div. 1975).

Both the courts and the Commissioner of Education have repeatedly held that a board's decision to close a school is entitled to a presumption of correctness, and its decision will not be set aside unless there is a clear showing of abuse of discretion or error. Thomas v. Morris Tp. Bd. of Ed., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); Quinlan v. North Bergen Bd. of Ed., 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); McMillan v. Board of Ed. of So. Orange-Maplewood, 1977 S.L.D. 137; Riccio v. Bloomfield Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. EDU 8111-84 (May 16, 1985), adopted, Comm'r of Ed (July 8, 1985). Accordingly, the review of a local board of education's discretionary action to close a school is not de novo and, thus, cannot determine whether the board did the "right thing." Instead, the scope of review is whether a preponderance of the evidence establishes that the board exercised its discretion unreasonably, arbitrarily, capriciously, or in bad faith.

I have considered petitioners' contention that the Board arbitrarily, capriciously, and unreasonably took only 28 days to close Brearley. Also, I have considered whether the decision was a two-step process; first, the decision to close a school, and second, which school to close. I have also considered petitioners' assertion that when the Board voted in April 1992 to continue four schools and pursue cost-containment measures, the issue regarding school closing was "dead" for least one year -- until June 1993.

Having considered carefully all the testimonial evidence, I agree that there were 28 days between the Superintendent's recommendation on October 20, 1992, and the vote on November 17, 1992. However, the decision to close Brearley was based, in large part, on information obtained and considered prior to October 1992. The Board began to look into the option of closing a school around 1985. Although none of the four schools may have been targeted, I reject petitioners' argument that general and philosophical discussions about cost-containment measures, including closing a school, is not part of the process resulting in the vote to close Brearley.

The record reflects a steady trend of declining student enrollment, increasing costs per pupil, and underutilization of the District's buildings. These were the type of events which caused the Board in the mid-1980s to begin an analysis of the District's configuration with the view of restoring efficient use of its schools. The Board's first step in the analysis was to establish a long-range planning committee to examine the enrollment decline. It then developed reports, the "what if" study, about the process of closing a school and its impact on the community. The curriculum director visited other small high schools to observe the effect of enrollment on educational quality and costs. Also, around 1985, the Board conferred with Bornstein about the process in closing a school.

The Public School Education Act provides that the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of education for all children in the State is a legislative responsibility. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-2. Accordingly, the courts have held that members of local school boards are responsible for the efficient operation of the school system. Silverman at 253, 261. Although no recommendation was made in 1985 to close a school, the Board's foresight, consistent with legislative goals, was directed towards maintaining and supporting a thorough and efficient system of its high schools. Consequently, the closing issue remained a viable option. Merachnik credibly testified that notwithstanding declining enrollment over the past 20 years, the Board determined to maintain and operate four schools rather than close a school because it cared about the adverse impact on the community that would lose a school.

When the Board chose to use alternative cost-containment measures, it also continued to monitor the events that eventually led to the decision to close Brearley. Thus, prior to the November, 17, 1992 vote, the Board had cumulated and reviewed enough data to determine projected enrollment, the condition and future needs of the facilities, and curriculum. Much of the cumulated data was referenced by Merachnik to support his recommendation on October 20, 1992. "The superintendent, by virtue of his position as chief executive officer of the Board, is presumed to make significant educational recommendations to the Board based on fact, not flights of fancy." Fullen, et al. v. Middleton Town Bd. of Ed., OAL DKT. EDU 2455-85 (Jan. 27, 1986) at 18, adopted, Comm'r of Ed (March 12, 1986). That his recommendation to the Board was a reversal of the Board's vote taken in April does not destroy such a presumption. The Board can and should change its mind whenever it determines with reasonably certainty that its prior action threatens the quality of education it is providing to its students and the efficient use of its schools. A board is obligated to make choices and has a duty to exercise its discretionary authority in good faith. Absent evidence to the contrary, its discretionary actions carry the presumption of correctness and are not subject to interference by the Commissioner. Id. at 19.

Thus, I CONCLUDE that the process that resulted in the decision to close Brearley was not done in 28 days, as petitioners claim. I further CONCLUDE that it was not unreasonable for the Board to decline the request by elected officials to hire another independent consultant before voting on November 17. Further, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not act in a vacuum without sufficient information before it voted to close a school. Rather, the Board engaged in a long-term plan to maintain the District's high academic quality, despite enrollment decline and increased costs over many years. Moreover, petitioners' contentions that the Board's decision to close Brearley did not consider the impact on Kenilworth property values or handicap accessibility are not supported by the evidence. Thus, I CONCLUDE that no discussion is necessary.

Additionally, I CONCLUDE that petitioners' contention that the Board's process to close a school was not a two-step process with ample time allowed for reasonable discussion, study, and debate is not supported by the evidence. The record does reflect that the Superintendent's recommendation to close a school and his selection of Brearley were issued simultaneously, as was the Board's vote. However, the evidence supports that each decision -- whether to close a school and, if so, which school -- remained separate but related components of the deliberation process. Consequently, I further CONCLUDE that the Board's process was not done in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner.

Also, the record amply reflects public participation and input on the closing issue. The Ad Hoc Committee represented a broad-based membership from the six communities. It carefully scrutinized reports and information submitted by outside consultants and District administrators. Thereafter, the Committee made a nonbinding recommendation to the Board on the closing issue.

The Eagleton Poll collected 1,457 responses to 23 questions about alternative cost-containment measures. Specifically, the scientific survey measured the level of support by 2,400 District residents for closing one of the four schools and other cost reducing actions. Thereafter, six public meetings were held in each community, where all citizens had the opportunity to ask questions. Also, the Eagleton Poll conducted a nonscientific survey to allow all District residents the opportunity to provide input to the Board. Thus, the same questionnaire that was sent to the scientific sample was also sent to 23,000 District residents.

Also, the record reflects that the Board meetings, particularly on October 5, 20, November 4, and 17, were well attended by the public, elected officials, and others interested in the school closing issue. Although the public was given several opportunities to be heard on the issue, the Board purposely deviated from its routine when it held two of its meetings at the Summit Hotel to discuss the Bornstein study and the Eagleton survey. The reports were two major components of information provided by independent consultants and used by the Board in its deliberations on the closing issue. Notwithstanding its reasons for holding two "retreat" meetings, the wisdom of the Board's conduct is suspect. The Board was keenly aware of the residents' interest in its deliberations on the school closing. Moreover, it knew that the Kenilworth community was concerned that the school targeted by some was its own Brearley. Therefore, the decision to convert a regular meeting into a "retreat" meeting, positioned away from where the meetings usually take place, invited a real or perceived cloak of secrecy around the meetings. Indeed, the Legislature had declared that > it is essential that the conduct of members of the local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct . . . which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.

>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a).]

Moreover, the Legislature enacted the Open Public Meeting Act (OPMA) for the specific purpose of giving the public the right "to be present at all meetings of public bodies, and to witness in full detail all phases of the deliberation, policy, formation, and decision making of public bodies. . . . ." N.J.S.A. 10:4-7. Thus, all Board action on school closing is subject to interrogation by the public. Under these circumstances, it is of no import that some of the Board's discussion may be appropriately shielded from the public portion of the meeting and discussed in executive session. See N.J.A.C. 10:4-12(b). The Board's "retreat" meetings were nothing more than the group withdrawal to a place of seclusion. If the Board sought to discuss the impact of the reports on the issue of school closings outside the time constraints and pressures of regular meetings, it accomplished its purpose; no members of the public attended the meetings. "Courts cannot compel governing officials to act wisely, but it can and does compel them to act in good faith. And to say that governing officials must act in good faith is merely equivalent to saying that they must act honestly." Peter's Garage, Inc. v. Burlington, 121 N.J.L. 523, 527 (Sup. Ct. 1939).

Based on a careful review of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Board's decision to discuss the Bornstein study and the Eagleton Poll at two retreat meetings at a hotel in Summit effectively precluded the public from participating in its deliberation process and was therefore arbitrary. However, notwithstanding the Board's arbitrariness in holding two retreat meetings, rather than regular meetings, I CONCLUDE that its conduct does not vitiate its vote on November 17, 1992.

The Bornstein and Eagleton reports, as well as other relevant data about the closing issue cumulated by the Board, were provided to the public. While I agree with petitioners that the public and Ad Hoc Committee were not given the same in-depth opportunity to review and discuss all reports and data in a similar manner and, thus, the opportunity to express their opinions on some information was of limited scope, such omission does not rise to the level of being arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. See Committee to Save Baynard School v. Bd. of Ed. of New Brunswick, 1978 S.L.D. 454, 461; Majka v. Bd. of Ed. of Bloomfield, OAL DKT. EDU 2240-79 (Sept. 17, 1979), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (June 11, 1980).

The record reflects that information was shared with the public and that lengthy discussions were encouraged at regular Board meetings and six community meetings. Based upon available information, questions were answered to the best of everyone's ability. Also, study and debate was had among the diverse members of the Ad Hoc Committee. Thus, I am persuaded by the evidence that the Board was sensitive to the need of the public to participate and react to the question of a school closing before final action was taken. A checklist of points need not be established as a necessary prerequisite to school closings -- only a good faith effort to keep the public informed and provide it with reasonable opportunities to be heard on the issue. Zimmerman v. Denville Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 66 (1982).

Regarding the executive session meeting on September 15, 1992, the Board's discussion about revisiting the issue of closing a school concerned a topic so sensitive and volatile that anything beyond the scope of possible litigation should have been immediately deferred until the public portion of the meeting. Committee to Save Baynard School at 460. Having carefully reviewed the documentary and testimonial evidence, I CONCLUDE that during the executive session, the Board members sought legal advice about the parameters of reopening the issue of closing a school. The record reflects that a consensus was taken that the Board would reopen the issue on whether to close a school, but no decision was made about closing a school. Final action on the decision to revisit the topic of closing a school was reserved until the public meeting on September 22, 1992. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the Board's action on September 15 did not constitute bad faith.

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Board made good faith efforts to keep the public informed on the school closing issue. I further CONCLUDE that the public had reasonable opportunities through the Ad Hoc Committee, the Eagleton surveys, and the Board's regular meetings to be heard on the issue. Consequently, I also CONCLUDE that petitioners failed to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that the Board's executive session on September 15, 1992, and its two retreat meetings at the hotel in Summit constituted bad faith.

Regarding petitioners' assertion that there was no financial need to close a school, it is undisputed that student enrollment has declined 62% since 1970 and that costs per pupil have continued to increase. Moreover, the record amply reflects that the buildings were underutilized by students. Burdge's testimony about the Board's fiscal management in the light of recent budget defeats and his projected savings from cost-containment measures was straightforward and credible. The evidence also supports a conclusion that the Board reasonably determined that in order to make the best use of its physical assets, Brearley should be the school to close. I so CONCLUDE. A decision to close a school for financial reasons is a proper function of the Board. Toriello v. Bd. of Ed. of W. Orange, OAL DKT. EDU 3151-80 (Dec. 2, 1980).

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Board reasonably determined that it could no longer afford to operate all four schools and, thus, it was in the best interest for the operation of the District to close one school. Further, it would be unreasonable and probably in derogation of its responsibility to taxpayers to allow the schools to remain partially used by a limited number of students if closing a school could result in a more efficient operation of the school system. See, Silverman, supra, at 261.

Petitioners' assertion that the Board failed to consider the impact of the student body racial imbalance prior to its vote on November 17, 1992, is without merit. Further, their assertion that the Board acted in bad faith concerning the Roselle School District is not supported by the record; that the Board may not have embraced the Roselle School District is not indicative of bad faith.

The record, however, does reflect a noticeable lack of minority students in the District (R-26 at 46-57, R-35). Notwithstanding the absence of a precise racial makeup of the six communities, it can reasonably be inferred that the population of the six communities reflects the nation's racial makeup. Thus, it is not unsettling that Bornstein found no significant racial imbalance within the District because minorities are often concentrated in segregated sections of large communities rather than small suburban and farm communities. Consequently, students from the six communities attending the regional high school will mirror the racial demography of their respective communities. Likewise, students from families of similar socioeconomic levels will be concentrated within corners of their communities and will maintain this boundary within academic walls. See Miran v. Bd. of Ed. of Montclair, 42 N.J. 237 (1964).

I am mindful that the District's obligation to maintain a thorough and efficient educational system includes more than providing quality instruction; it necessarily demands that economic, historical, social, and cultural considerations be included in the education delivered. See Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990). Also, when reassigning students to other schools, the Board could not subject them to the harmful consequences of practical segregation. In seeking to avoid this, the Board acted properly when it submitted its request to the Bureau of Facility Planning to close Brearley in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.2, which provides:

> The reassignment of pupils to other schools in the district neither produces, sustains nor contributes to unlawful segregation, separation or isolation of student populations on the basis of race or national origin.

There is nothing in the record that would reasonably cause the Board to be concerned about racial imbalances in the District's student body before or after November 17, 1992. However, its prompt communication with the Bureau after the November vote is indicative of its good faith effort to assure that its reassignment of Brearley students is consistent with State regulations (R-8).

I have also considered carefully the testimony of the petitioning parents and residents on behalf of the Kenilworth students; closing a school is surely a loss that perhaps can only be known to those who are part of the institution. Thus, I am also mindful that the validity of their opinions are threatened by biases arising from social and emotional desirability, subjective judgments, and individual response tendencies.

On the other hand, whether to close a school is one of the most difficult decisions for a board of education. Here, the Board, over a significant period of time, gave careful study, thought, and consideration to all of those involved. It then considered and tried alternative solutions to the problem, arrived at a determination, and informed the community of its decision. Understandably, the entire Kenilworth community has been affected by that decision. However, closing the Brearley school is not a denial of education to Kenilworth and Garwood residents. The evidence clearly demonstrates that the Board's decision is reasonably intended to accomplish legitimate goals of providing a thorough and efficient educational program for all students enrolled in the regional District. It is also clear that where a board of education considers all of the factors and proceeds in its determination to close a school in a deliberate, fair, and conscientious manner, with good reasons for its actions, it is entitled to a presumption of correctness which must control.

Based on an analysis of the facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that respondent, the Board of Education of Union County Regional High School District No. 1, did not reach its decision to close a school, specifically David Brearley High School, as a result of bad faith or abuse of discretion; nor did it act arbitrarily, capriciously, or unreasonably.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioners' petition be and is hereby DISMISSED,

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

JANET GLYNOS AND LENORE JEANS,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF UNION COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, petitioners and respondent each filed exceptions,* and respondent filed a reply to petitioners' exceptions. Petitioner Glynos also submitted a letter of exception, but this letter is not considered herein, as regulation makes no provision for filing of pro se exceptions where a party is represented by an attorney who has already filed exceptions on the party's behalf. N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.1 and 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exceptions consist of 77 points of contention with the initial decision, several of which are allegations that the ALJ failed to find as fact or properly emphasize items that favored

* The Board's exceptions note, and OAL subsequently memorialized by memorandum, appearances on behalf of the Board by Nathanya G. Simon, Esq. and Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., whose names are duly entered in the record in addition to that of Mr. Schwartz but inadvertently missing from the initial decision. They also note a change in the name of the firm representing the Board to Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso and Kessler.

petitioners. These include the athletic record, newness and other physical advantages of the David Brearley High School (Petitioners' Exceptions, Nos. 1, 41); the expertise of Dr. Bornstein, his testimony regarding the correct methodology of determining school closings, and his opinion that Brearley would not be the logical school to close (Nos. 3 through 7); the finding of the Eagleton Poll that 93% of respondents favored cost containment through administrative reduction (No. 8); the fact that Curriculum Supervisor Mattfield was petitioners' witness (No. 10); the testimony of real estate experts on the impact of closing Brearley on property values in Kenilworth (No. 34); expert testimony regarding the Board's surplus level, which indicated that the district did not have financial difficulties as claimed (No. 39); the ALJ's Finding of Fact No. 10 inferring that the Ad Hoc Committee recommended closing a school, when in fact it voted 7-4 with one abstention to keep all four schools open (No. 44); the absence of plans for racial balance or accommodation of the disabled (Nos. 50, 63); the district's failure to undertake meaningful efforts to merge with neighboring district(s) such as Roselle (No. 50); the fact that most of the information before the Superintendent when he issued his October 1992 report and before the Board when it voted in November favored not closing a school (Nos. 56, 60); and the fact that prior to October 1992 no superintendent ever recommended closing a school (No. 57).

Petitioners also contend that nobody testified that the quality of education at Brearley was inferior and that, to the contrary, the district's curriculum supervisor testified that quality education could be maintained with four small high schools (Nos. 2, 11, 12 and 13, 52); that several reports and expert opinions support small schools in general as the best purveyors of quality education (No. 14); that the closing of a school for 1993-94 was clearly a "dead issue" following the Board's vote in April 1992, as evidenced by the statements of the Board President himself (Nos. 15 through 19 and 27, 45), so that it was erroneous for the ALJ to find that the Board's November 1992 vote to close Brearley was the culmination of a long process and not an arbitrary, bad faith abandonment of the Board's stated commitment to cost containment measures (Nos. 20, 21, 22, 25, 26, 35, 40, 47, 49, 51, 54, 58, 59, 62); that the decision to close Brearley should have been a two-step process rather than a single decision (Nos. 33, 64) and that the Board refused legislative suggestions that an independent study be conducted prior to closing (No. 38), further showing arbitrariness and bad faith; and that the Board's failure to have a racial balance plan prior to closing Brearley was found by experts to be arbitrary and unreasonable and should have been more closely examined by the ALJ (Nos. 37, 76, 77).

With respect to the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), petitioners reiterate that the Board's discussion of the Eagleton Poll at a retreat meeting on October 15, 1991, which the Board attempts to justify with hearsay comments about the New Jersey School Boards Association's encouragement of retreats, was not only in violation of OPMA but also demonstrated bad faith and continued a pattern of excluding the public from discussion (Nos. 9, 24, 43, 53, 67, 68, 70, 75); that the Board's September 15, 1992 resolution to go into executive session was for the purely pretextual reason of possible litigation but was in fact to discuss and vote on school closings in violation of the public's right to witness such discussion and vote (Nos. 28, 29, 30, 31, 36, 42, 46, 55, 67, 73, 74, 75); and that the Board's contention of open public debate and significant public input is a sham in view of the short time frame between the Superintendent's recommendation to close Brearley and the actual vote to close, and in view of the public's inability to participate in earlier meetings regardless of their being held in the open (Nos. 32, 48, 65, 66, 71, 72).

In reply, the Board responds to each exception in turn, with the general thrust of its responses being that several of petitioners' "missing" findings are immaterial to the issues on which this matter ultimately turns or are in fact embedded within the initial decision; that petitioners take several statements, both of the ALJ and of witnesses, out of context or place upon them an import which they clearly do not possess given the legal standard controlling the present proceeding; and that the ALJ carefully weighed the evidence in favor of petitioners' and respondent's respective positions and properly found that respondents acted within their lawful authority and in good faith.* (Board's Reply Exceptions)

In its own exceptions, the Board initially points to an error in the quoting of Dr. Bornstein's report at page 8 of the initial decision, averring that his actual statement was that it would not be rational, productive or meaningful to believe that moving minority students to Johnson would enhance racial balance or

---

* The Commissioner here notes the Board's threshold request to strike petitioners' exceptions in their entirety on grounds that they do not meet the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 for specific citations to testimony, evidence or legal authority. The Commissioner declines to grant this request, both in the interest of justice and because the nature of this matter and the structure of the record permit adequate evaluation of, and response to, petitioners' submissions.

benefit affected students (J-28, at 116), thus supporting the Board's position that nothing in the record would have given the Board any cause for concern over the district's racial balance situation either before or after its November 1992 vote to close Brearley. (Board's Exceptions, at pp. 1-2)

The main thrust of the Board's exceptions, however, reaches to the ALJ's finding of arbitrariness regarding the retreat meetings of March and October 1991, at which the Bornstein study and Eagleton Poll, respectively, were discussed by the Board. With regard to the March 16, 1991 meeting, the Board argues that it believed, based on the immediate remediation directives and cost estimates of the Bornstein report, which was received by the district two days previously, that it was dealing with either a major health emergency or an erroneous study (based on its inconsistency with all prior assessments of district facilities) that could result in widespread and needless public panic, as well as taint of the upcoming poll the Board was planning to conduct, so that it sought to avoid such a situation by initially discussing and planning its response to the report in executive session. There was not, nor was there ever intended to be, any deliberation, policy formation or action taken from which the public was excluded, certainly none on the issue of school closings. Moreover, the Board's good faith in this matter is shown by the totality of its actions, which included immediately contracting for a verifying asbestos inspection and releasing the Bornstein report once it was certain that it had correct and reliable data on the district's asbestos situation. (Board's Exceptions, at pp. 2-5)

With regard to the October 1991 retreat, the Board argues that at a duly advertised meeting, the Board went into executive session solely to receive a preliminary report on the Eagleton Poll and discuss the best way to disseminate its results. Again, no action of any kind was contemplated or taken, nor were there any discussions of school closings; moreover, the Board gave a full accounting of the retreat at a regular public meeting two weeks later. Thus, the Board avers, even assuming arguendo that the provisions of OPMA were violated (although they were not), within the overall context of events in this matter, any such violation was both de minimis and cured by subsequent public disclosure, deliberation and action. (Board's Exceptions, at pp. 5-7)

Upon careful and independent review of a voluminous record, including ten volumes of hearing transcripts,* extensive verbatim minutes of pertinent Board meetings, including public comments, and numerous reports, charts and other exhibits, the Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that the decision of the Union County Regional Board of Education to close David Brearley High School was neither arbitrary nor unreasonable, and that such action, being fully within the discretionary authority of the Board, is therefore not subject to upset by the Commissioner.

Preliminarily, the Commissioner observes that the initial decision in this matter represents a full and fair summation of pertinent testimony and evidence, and that the ALJ applied the proper legal standard both in weighing the record before her and in reaching her ultimate conclusions of fact and law.

The Commissioner further observes that petitioners' exceptions reiterate the same fundamental arguments raised before the ALJ at hearing and in written post-hearing submissions, and that these arguments were thoroughly and correctly assessed in the initial decision above. However, based upon her own review of the record and of petitioners' specific exceptions, the Commissioner makes the following further comments.

---

* Transcripts cover nine days of hearings, with the May 10, 1993 transcript (Vol. VIII) being in two parts.

Petitioners allege that the issue of a school closing was "dead" following the Board's vote in April 1992 and that, when the Board arbitrarily determined to revisit its decision in September 1992, there was insufficient time to adequately explore the matter and obtain public input, as only 28 days stood between the superintendent's recommendation to close Brearley and the Board's vote in November. Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Board minutes of April 28, 1992 (J-8) clearly demonstrate that, while the current round of debate about closing a school may have come to an end, several Board members fully recognized the stop-gap nature of the Board's decision and that the issue of school closing was bound to resurface because of the district's continuing declining enrollment/increasing budget situation. Also significant in this context is that several of those who voted to keep four schools open did so largely because they felt they had insufficient information and perspective to make so sensitive, far-reaching and unpopular a decision as closing a community's "home" school at that point in time. As to petitioners' claims of insufficient time for deliberation, the Superintendent's report of October 1992 was clearly a continuation of the preceding debate and was based to a significant degree on materials, opinions and information previously available, as well as on discussions that had occurred over a substantial period of time; indeed, the public comments in response to this report center on many of the same arguments and objections to the notion of closing any school, and to the pros and cons of the various schools to be considered, made by the public and its Ad Hoc Committee representatives prior to the Board's vote in April (J-8, J-23 through 25, J-30 through 33). Moreover, the sentiments expressed by Board members at the time of the vote to revisit the school closing issue make it clear that the deliberations to come were a continuation of prior discussions and a reconsideration of a decision which the Board now had reason to believe may not have been the correct one (J-21). Thus, it cannot be said that the Board had not fully considered the issues raised in the report or opportunity taken to hear public concerns regarding them.

As to petitioners' contention that the decision to revisit the question of school closing in September 1992 was arbitrary and in bad faith, the Commissioner notes that, between the Board's vote in April and its inquiry into possible reopening, several Board members had experienced both misgivings about the adequacy of the cost-savings approach to the district's long-term budget problem and negative feedback from staff and community members on the impact of this approach on school operations and educational program, which in themselves are legitimate bases to question whether the Board had made the right decision in its prior vote (J-20, 21, 22). Further, the question of reopening debate was actually raised by a Board member (Garwood representative Toth) who had voted against closing a school and who ultimately continued in that conviction upon voting in November; it was, moreover, supported by a 7-1 majority including a mix of members with respect to April's vote, the sole opposition being from Kenilworth representative Soos (J-20, 21).

Petitioners further allege that the Board ignored the recommendations of committees, consultants and its own curriculum supervisor that four schools be maintained, and that the Board had insufficient and conflicting educational information before it when it acted to close Brearley. To the contrary, there is no evidence that the Board ignored these recommendations; rather, comments made by its individual members show it to have considered and rejected them in favor of differing but likewise legitimate assessments. In evaluating the Board's actions, the nature of these various recommendations must be considered: some are individual reports examining a single facet of the overall question, others make abstract recommendations based on an ideal construct where cost is no consideration (it is significant that Curriculum Supervisor Mattfield in J-25 characterized his own recommendation this way and subsequently supported the Board's decision to close Brearley), and still others are community-based opinions which, not unexpectedly, focus on immediate needs and perceptions and generally seek to protect particular interests. Placed against this in September was the Superintendent's report, precisely what the Board lacked in April and what it specifically stated it needed (J-21, 22) in order to finally resolve the question before it: a comprehensive, professional evaluation of the district's long-term situation that synthesized available information and opinions and made a firm recommendation for the district's future direction based on all relevant considerations. That the report's final recommendation may have been contrary to the findings of some of the specific reports and opinions considered in its development is indicative of neither arbitrariness nor bad faith, either on the part of the Superintendent or the Board, when the basis for such contrariness is rational and clearly stated as it was herein and when reasonable efforts are made to respond to questions and concerns from opposing parties. In this context it is worth observing that, having considered the comprehensive report and ensuing debate, several Board members who had previously voted to keep all four schools open* now became persuaded that a closing was, unfortunately, indeed necessary, resulting in a final vote of 7-2 with the sole votes in opposition coming from the constituent representatives of Garwood and Kenilworth, the two towns whose students attended Brearley. (J-25)

The argument is also made that cost-containment alternatives were only given 15 days to work before being jettisoned in favor of closing a school, which financial necessity did not dictate, contrary to representations by the Board, and that the Board had no racial balance plan and failed to aggressively pursue merger with other districts because it did not welcome their minority populations, even though a merger could have kept Brearley open. As indicated above, in determining that cost-savings measures would not be sufficient to address its problems, the Board was clearly and properly taking a long-term view of the overall budget situation of the entire district (J-25), whereas petitioners' arguments are based on more immediate situations and perceptions, both with respect to tax impact and overall budget stability. Moreover, the record is plain that racial balance is not generally a significant problem in the district (the Commissioner here notes that the Board's corrected quotation of Bornstein's report above is in fact accurate), so that the Board had no reason to proceed in any manner other than it did in this regard; neither is there evidence that racial discrimination or other improper motive played a role in any perceived lack of aggression in seeking to merge with other districts, a solution which the Board in any event would not be compelled to embrace as an alternative to closing a school.

* Newly appointed Board member LiCausi, of Springfield, who replaced a deceased Board member (Waldt) voting to keep all schools open, previously spoke (during a public comment session on April 28, 1992) in favor of keeping all schools open prior to becoming a Board member in June 1992 (J-8).

Finally, petitioners contend that evidence of the Board's bad faith is found, in addition to the examples inherent in the allegations above, in its delaying the release of the Bornstein study, holding private and secret meetings, limiting public participation in the decision-making process and refusing to engage an independent consultant to study the question of school closing as suggested by local legislators. With respect to the Bornstein report, while hindsight may suggest that, under the circumstances, the Board might have appeared more forthright and objective had it released the report earlier, there is no impropriety in the course of action it did choose to follow, which had a good faith, rational basis and ultimately did not prevent public review and discussion of the report. With respect to limiting public participation, the record shows that, to the contrary, the Board went to great lengths to obtain public input, both directly through polls, comment sessions at Board meetings and public hearings, and indirectly through community-based representation on the Ad Hoc Committee; the law neither requires, nor does practicality dictate, that the public be permitted to speak at unlimited length or at every meeting dealing with a particular issue, however controversial. With respect to the Board's unwillingness to hire an independent consultant, while such an action may have enhanced the Board's credibility in making an unpopular decision, there is nothing to have compelled the Board to undertake this step, particularly in view of the extensive work already done on the issue.

With respect to alleged "secret" meetings, however, the Commissioner finds that while the Board's two "retreat" meetings were duly advertised, otherwise properly conducted and appear to have been undertaken in good faith, the spirit of the Open Public Meetings Act is violated by any attempt to conduct public business in a manner that discourages, or appears designed to discourage, the public from attendance at meetings, Richard A. Voll and Sally Brandes v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, Bergen County, and Samuel Stewart, 1986 S.L.D. 883, even where the site selected is not "exceedingly remote" as in Voll. The Commissioner thus concurs with the ALJ that the Board erred in pursuing this course of action. Regarding the meeting of September 15, 1992, the Commissioner finds that the Board's reason for going into executive session was not pretextual, as claimed by petitioners, but that its discussion, while modest, did go beyond the bounds of the legal aspect of the question posed (J-19, 20). However, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that any violation arising from the Board's discussion and "consensus" on whether to revisit the question of closing a school was cured by the public discussion and vote (J-22) at the duly advertised meeting of September 22, 1992, and that such violation, like the "retreat" meetings discussed above, neither indicates bad faith nor rises to the level of invalidating any decision made by the Board or tainting its overall manner of proceeding.

Thus, taken as a whole, the record herein shows the Board to have been in the unenviable position of having to reconcile two sharply competing demands: the genuine need to address declining enrollment, spiraling budgets and a responsibility to operate the regional district in the most efficient and cost-effective manner possible, versus the needs and perceptions of constituent communities having a strong sense of identity and satisfaction with "their" neighborhood schools and a desire to maintain the status quo while finding some other way to reduce costs. It is equally clear that various alternatives available to the Board to deal with this situation were contemplated, and that there were arguments to recommend both for and against virtually any action the Board might have taken. That there may have been ways to reduce costs other than closing a school, or that there may have been some factors in favor of choosing a school other than Brearley, does not render the Board's decision arbitrary, nor does the fact that petitioners might have reached a different judgment under the circumstances. It is not necessary that the Board's choice have been the only possible one, or that there have been unanimity of opinion as to its rectitude -- be it community sentiment or expert assessment -- in order for the Board's ultimate decision to have been a rational exercise of discretion fairly reached. What is necessary, as recognized by the ALJ in her discussion and conclusions at pp. 33 ff., is that there have been a reasonable basis for the Board's choice and that its decision have been made in good faith. As indicated above, the Board actions herein adequately meet this test, so that neither petitioners nor the Commissioner may substitute their judgment for that of the Board, notwithstanding the sincerity of petitioners' objections and the understandable persistence of their concerns as they relate to negative impact on the particular communities and students most directly affected by the closing at issue.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the Petition of Appeal and upholding the decision of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 to close David Brearley High School is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein together with the additional reasons set forth above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, parents of children attending elementary school in respondent's district, alleged their children were entitled to bus service in said district.

ALJ concluded since route for determining remoteness should be measured along available sidewalks and marked crosswalks if they exist, shortest route measured this way exceeded 2 miles. Thus, petitioners' children were eligible for transportation under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. (Dreifuss; Nelson)

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and stressing the extreme narrowness of the holding of the facts in this particular matter.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a suit on behalf of two elementary-school children seeking transportation to and from a public school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Local school districts must provide free transportation for remote students, including elementary students "who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. Implementing regulations provide that the distance must be measured door-to-door "by the shortest route along public roadways or public walkways." N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3. School districts, however, may voluntarily offer courtesy busing to resident students who do not qualify under the remoteness standard.

Essentially, the resolution of this dispute turns on the proper method for determining the shortest route. In particular, the parties disagree on whether or not the route must be measured along available paved sidewalks and existing marked crosswalks. The parents urge that young children walking to school must be taught to obey traffic safety rules and laws. But the district maintains that compliance with motor vehicle laws "cannot apply to a school district which is measuring remoteness." Rather, the district contends that its responsibility is to utilize the shortest possible route, without regard to pedestrian safety concerns. Alternatively, the district argues that its proposed route complies with any applicable motor vehicle laws and is safer than the route suggested by the parents.

Additionally, the parents challenge the correctness of the board's action on several other grounds, including the contention that it was improper to use the rear entrance to the school building in making the measurement; the contention that a particular pathway located on school-owned property does not constitute a public roadway or walkway; and the contention that the district adopted an arbitrary and unreasonable classification to select which elementary-school children living less than two miles from their school would receive courtesy busing. In light, however, of the recommended ruling that petitioners' children are entitled to transportation because the shortest route along available sidewalks and marked crosswalks exceeds the two-mile limit, it is unnecessary to reach petitioners' various other theories for relief.

Procedural History

Petitioners Howard and Julia Nichols filed their petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on June 22, 1992. Respondent Wayne Township Board of Education ("Board") filed its answer on July 7, 1992. Subsequently, on July 23, 1992, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

While the case was awaiting hearing, petitioners filed motion papers on September 3, 1993 seeking emergent relief. On September 8, 1992, the Board filed opposing papers. After oral argument on September 11, 1992, the OAL denied the motion. By order dated November 2, 1992, the Commissioner affirmed this denial.

Both sides concur that the material facts are not genuinely in dispute and that testimony by witnesses is unnecessary. Consequently, on February 17, 1993, the parties submitted a joint stipulation of facts, together with jointly-marked exhibits. Thereafter, on February 24, 1993, the parties each filed cross-motions for summary decision, accompanied by supporting briefs and additional exhibits. The OAL held oral argument on March 3, 1993.

Findings of Fact

All of the facts needed for summary disposition of this matter are either stipulated or undisputed. I FIND:

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols and their three children reside on Charlotte Terrace in the Township of Wayne, New Jersey. During the 1992-93 academic year, one child, age six, attended kindergarten at the Albert Payson Terhune Elementary School in the district. Next year, in September 1993, a second child, currently four years old, is expected to start kindergarten at the same school. An older child is presently in high school and is not involved in this litigation.

Until June 13, 1991, the district had provided courtesy busing throughout the district. On that date, however, the Board voted unanimously to eliminate courtesy busing in 1991-92. Later, the Board carved out two special exceptions to its general policy of no courtesy busing. On November 14, 1991, the Board adopted a resolution which reinstated courtesy busing for students enrolled in magnet programs who are assigned to schools other than their nearest neighborhood school. Similarly, on January 27, 1992, the Board restored courtesy busing for students who must cross or walk along State Highway 23. Neither of the two Nichols children fit within these special circumstances.

Although the parties propose slightly different routes for measuring the distance between home and school, there is no disagreement regarding physical measurements. Passaic County's Acting Superintendent of Schools made the actual measurements, and both parties stipulate the accuracy of these figures. Instead, the dispute focuses on the necessity of using sidewalks and crosswalks.

Originally, the Board's proposed route started at the entrance of the Nichols' home, wended its way north on the east side of Alps Road to its intersection with Hamburg Turnpike, continued north across the intersection and back over Alps Road within marked crosswalks, proceeded west on Hamburg Turnpike, and, ultimately, ended at the rear entrance of Terhune School. Door-to-door, the total distance is 10,513 feet or 1.99 miles. Alps Road on its east side has sidewalks for roughly half of the proposed route, from the intersection with Linden Road to the location of De Paul High School. The remainder of this route on the east side of Alps Road has no sidewalks. Photographs show that the path of travel, where the sidewalk normally would be, is overgrown with trees and other types of vegetation.

Petitioners' proposed route is identical to the Board's, except that it crosses over to the west side of Alps Road at a marked crosswalk directly in front of De Paul High School, continues north on available sidewalks on the west side of Alps Road, recrosses to the east side of Alps Road in the marked crosswalk at the intersection with Hamburg Turnpike, and eventually ends at the front rather than the rear entrance of Terhune School. Measured in this manner, the total distance is 11,010 feet or 2.09 miles. If, however, the same route is followed to the rear door, the measurement is 10,622 feet or 2.01 miles.[1]

Subsequently, the Board proposed a third route which, like the parents' proposal, proceeds along the east side of Alps Road until the break in the sidewalk, crosses to the west side, and then continues along the sidewalk to the intersection with Hamburg Turnpike. At this point, the route crosses the Turnpike at the southwest corner of the intersection, where there is no marked crosswalk. By this route, the distance to the rear entrance of the school is 10, 488 feet or 1.99 miles. This third route cures any objection to the lack of sidewalks along the Board's original route. Nonetheless, it would require a child to cross the busy intersection at Hamburg Turnpike without the benefit of a marked crosswalk. One distinct advantage, however, is that the child would cross only one street to get to the other side of the intersection.

In contrast, the parents' proposed route does utilize marked crosswalks, but necessitates that a child cross the street three times at the intersection. Using the parents' route, the child must first cross Alps Road to get from the southwest to the southeast corner of the intersection, then cross Hamburg Turnpike to get to the northeast corner, and re-cross Alps Road to get to the northwest corner.[2]

[1]For purposes of this decision, the Board's position that the route should terminate at the rear entrance to the school building will be presumed correct. See Buonocore v. Hillsdale Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Vol. 4A) 655 (Comm'r). Regardless of whether measured to the rear or the front entrance, in either case the parents' route is more than two miles.

[2]The record is silent as to the reason for the peculiar layout of the marked crosswalks at this intersection. However, the photographs reveal that vehicular traffic traveling south on Alps Road encounters a "no left turn" sign for turns east onto Hamburg Turnpike. See Exhibit J-2(e). Thus, the marked crosswalks seem designed to channel pedestrians to the less heavily traveled portion of Hamburg Turnpike. Traffic engineers may well have concluded that it is less dangerous for pedestrians to cross Hamburg Turnpike where vehicular traffic is converging from three rather than four different directions.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the route should be measured along available sidewalks and existing marked crosswalks. Since the shortest route measured in this way exceeds two miles, petitioners' children are eligible for transportation under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

Authority for free transportation to public schools derives from Art. VIII, § 4, para. 3 of the State Constitution of 1947, which confers on the Legislature the power to provide transportation for school-aged children to and from any school "within reasonable limitations as to distance." Courts have required local boards to provide transportation for children living "remote" from the school house. See West Morris Reg. Bd. of Educ. v. Sills, 58 N.J. 464, 474 (1971), cert. den. 404 U.S. 989, 92 S. Ct. 450, 30 L.Ed. 2d 370 (1971). N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, as recently amended, requires a local public school district to provide free transportation to elementary school pupils "who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance." Such statutory language is consistent with Department of Education regulations, which define remoteness as "beyond two miles for elementary pupils." N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(a).

Regulations further prescribe that the measurement shall be made "by the shortest route along public roadways or public walkways" from the entrance of the pupil's residence to the nearest public entrance of the assigned school. N.J.A.C. 6:21-1.3(b). The regulations themselves do not expressly specify that the route must be drawn in compliance with applicable motor vehicle laws. But that meaning is inherent in the nature of a law-abiding society. Commissioner's decisions have recognized this implicit assumption. For example, in Dreifuss v. Chatham Bd. of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 952 (Comm'r May 25), the shortest routes to and from school were measured on opposite sides of the road because of the safety rule that pedestrians on roadways without sidewalks must walk facing oncoming traffic. When approving the measurement, the ALJ commented, "To decide differently is tantamount to requiring the child to violate the law when returning home from school." (1988 S.L.D. at 957). Upholding this approach, the Commissioner declared that the result was consonant with "the probable intent of the legislators" and with "the common sense of the situation." (1988 S.L.D. at 960). Similarly, in Tenzer v. Tenafly Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 3357-84 (April 2, 1985), adopted, Comm'r (May 17, 1985), the Commissioner determined that the measurement along a semi-circular driveway of a private school was properly made against the flow of traffic to comport with general traffic laws.

Teaching elementary-school children to obey traffic rules has an educational as well as a safety aspect. Most importantly, it serves to protect them from avoidable risks on the way to school. But also, it conveys an important civics lesson on waiting one's turn, respecting the rights of others, and cooperating with social norms for the betterment of all. In our very own case, the Board distributed literature published by the National Association of Elementary School Principals urging parents to "[t]each your child . . . to use crosswalks when crossing streets" and also "to use designated sidewalks when walking to or from school or the school bus stop[.]" It is difficult to imagine telling a young child to stay always on the sidewalk, except when going to or coming from school.

As petitioners' counsel aptly observes, the Board appears to have "lost sight of the purpose of remoteness measurements." Case law instructs that "pedestrian distance and not vehicular distance is the measure." Mangieri v. Cresskill Bd. of Educ., 1991 S.L.D. 58, 64 (Comm'r Jan 11). School routes are not some theoretical abstraction, but must be capable of being walked by real children. Indeed, the Board seems to have ignored the good advice of its own attorney, who in 1988 had issued a legal opinion: "Students must, of course, walk on sidewalks. If there is not a sidewalk, then the student must walk opposite the flow of traffic."

New Jersey motor vehicle law mandates that, "where there are no sidewalks or paths provided for pedestrian use, pedestrians shall, where practicable, walk only on the extreme left side of the roadway or its shoulder facing approaching traffic." N.J.S.A. 39:4-34. Accordingly, it would be illegal for children to continue walking on the east or right side of Alps Road once the sidewalk has abruptly ended. They must cross over to the west or left side of Alps Road, where not only will they be facing approaching traffic, but also they will be able to use the sidewalks available on that side of the road.

More problematic is the question of whether New Jersey motor vehicle law prohibits pedestrians from crossing a road outside of the marked crosswalks. N.J.S.A. 39:4-33 provides that at intersections like Alps Road and Hamburg Turnpike, where traffic is directed by a traffic signal, "no pedestrian shall enter upon or cross the highway at a point other than a crosswalk." (Emphasis added). Even where traffic is not directed by a police officer or traffic control device, pedestrians "shall cross the roadway within a crosswalk or, in the absence of a crosswalk, and where not otherwise prohibited, at right angles to the roadway."

Title 39, however, does not require that a "crosswalk" be marked on the road surface. As defined by statute, a crosswalk may either be distinctly marked on the surface of the road or be an unmarked crosswalk determined by connecting lateral lines extended from the sidewalks. N.J.S.A. 39:1-1. State v. O'Connor, 139 N.J. Super. 552, 554 (App. Div. 1976). Accord, Cresse v. Parsekian, 81 N.J. Super. 536, 545 (App. Div. 1963), aff'd 43 N.J. 326 (1964), explaining that, "[N]ot all crosswalks are 'marked upon the pavement.' A crosswalk is often bounded by invisible, imaginary lines[.]" O'Connor involved a motorist ticketed for failing to stop at a stop sign. The incident occurred at an intersection which had no markings on the road. Not surprisingly, the Appellate Division declared that the absence of road markings did not excuse the driver from failing to come to a complete stop "within five feet of the nearest crosswalk."

Our own case, on the other hand, involves an intersection which already has marked crosswalks. Presumably, the governmental authorities responsible for the roadway put those markings there for a purpose. Children of tender age do not possess the degree of sophistication needed to appreciate the subtlety of "imaginary" crosswalks. Most responsible parents in this situation would warn their children to stay on the sidewalks and to cross only within the marked lines. In the context of mapping out a route for school children to walk to school, the term "crosswalk" will be construed in its more commonly-understood sense of marked crosswalk rather than its technical legal sense. Certainly that is most in keeping with the Commissioner's reliance on "the common sense of the situation.". Dreifuss, 1988 S.L.D. at 957. See also, Nelson v. McCaffery, 1990 S.L.D. 532, 535 (St. Bd. Aug. 1), aff'd 246 N.J. Super. 467 (App. Div. 1991) ("[H]ypertechnical and legalistic argument must be rejected in favor of a common sense and practical approach.")

In closing, it is important to emphasize the extreme narrowness of the holding in this particular matter. It is not suggested that a local school district has any obligation whatsoever to enforce traffic laws or to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses, etc. to meet the requirements of safe travel for school children. See Schrenk v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 1961 S.L.D. 185, 187 (Comm'r April 25). See also, Yedwab v. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 7765-80 (June 22, 1981), adopted (Comm'r Aug. 4, 1981); Lo Rocco v. Hillsborough Bd. of Educ., OAL DKT. EDU 1579-80 (Aug. 20, 1980), adopted (Comm'r Oct. 4, 1980); Trossman v. Highland Park Bd. of Educ., 1969 S.L.D. 61 (Comm'r May 1). Nor is it suggested that a school board has any affirmative duty to seek out the safest route or to avoid roadways without sidewalks and intersections without marked crosswalks. Nevertheless, if the route selected for measurement by school officials happens to have existing sidewalks and marked crosswalks, then the measurement must be based on the assumption that the children should use them.

Insofar as the requested relief is concerned, the record contains no evidence of any monetary loss. Therefore, petitioners' demand for reimbursement of travel costs allegedly incurred as a result of respondent's wrongful denial of transportation must fail for lack of proof. Similarly, petitioners' demand for counsel fees is denied. Absent explicit statutory authority to award attorneys' fees, the Commissioner lacks any power to do so. Wagner v. Bridgewater-Raritan Reg. Sch. Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 827, 832 (Comm'r Nov. 3); Watsula v. Plumstead Bd. of Educ., 1977 S.L.D. 692, 695 (Comm'r June 1).

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, but petitioners' exceptions were untimely. Consequently, the Commissioner considers only the Board's exceptions and petitioners' timely reply exceptions thereto in the disposition of this matter.

The Board reasserts the arguments proffered below, emphasizing its disagreement with the ALJ's findings, in particular that the Board must comply with New Jersey Motor Vehicle Laws when measuring remoteness, claiming that such conclusion is contrary to the case law which stands for the proposition that the dangerous conditions of a roadway do not prohibit a district from using the roadway as part of a remoteness measurement.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the determination of the Office of Administrative Law that petitioners' children are eligible for transportation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1. In so finding, however, the Commissioner first would correct the Board's reading of the initial decision. The ALJ expressly emphasizes the extreme narrowness of his recommended decision and unequivocally stresses the point at page 9 of said decision that "[i]t is not suggested that a local school district has any obligation whatsoever to enforce traffic laws or to provide sidewalks, traffic lights, crossing guards, police patrols, overpasses, etc. to meet the requirements of safe travel for school children." (emphasis supplied) The ALJ even goes so far as to state that "it [may not be] suggested that a school board has any affirmative duty to seek out the safest route or to avoid roadways without sidewalks and intersections without marked crosswalks." (Id.) Hence, the Board errs to argue the opposite proposition, that is, that the ALJ concluded that it "must comply with the New Jersey Motor Vehicle laws when measuring remoteness." (Exceptions, at p. 3)

With such clarification made, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that "the common sense of the situation" (Dreifuss v. Chatham, supra., at 960, accord, Nelson v. McCaffery, supra., at 535) dictates that if, as in this case, the route selected for measurement by school officials has existing sidewalks and marked crosswalks, the measurement shall be based on the assumption that the children should use them. See, e.g, J.O'D et al. v. Peapack-Gladstone Board of Education, 1989 S.L.D. 1303. The Commissioner finds and determines further that the conclusions drawn by the ALJ are consistent with the case law at issue in this matter, including those decisions rendered in the Township of Wayne concerning remoteness. See, e.g, Potter et al. v. Board of Education of the Twp. of Wayne, decided by the Commissioner January 21, 1993. See also, Arlene Kraft v. Board of Education of the Township of Wayne, decided by the Commissioner January 2, 1992, aff'd State Board June 3, 1992.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts as her own the findings and conclusions embodied in the initial decision. IT IS therefore ORDERED that starting with the 1993-94 school year, the Board provide transportation to petitioners' two children who attend elementary school in its district.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning citizen challenged proposed school closing alleging violations of regulatory requirements for school closing and violation of Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA). Board contended petition was premature because request to close the school is still under review by the Department of Education.

ALJ found that only after such approval to close the school is given can the school law dispute be "ripe" for adjudication. Moreover, ALJ found Board's technical noncompliance with reading of opening statement was de minimus violation of OPMA. Petition was dismissed in its entirety.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision emphasizing issue was not ripe for adjudication.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, John Brodie*, a resident of the Saddle Brook School District, filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, along with a request for emergent relief, alleging violations of the Open Public Meetings Act, violations of a conflict of interest by members of the board of education, and certain education law violations, all relating to the Saddle Brook Township Board of Education's (Board) decision to close the Washington Elementary School. The Board denies that any violations have occurred and contend that this action is premature because no final decision has been made by the State Department of Education approving the school closing. In fact, the school will not be closed for the 1993-94 school year due to the ongoing State review of the Board's request for approval.

*The petition of appeal as originally filed with the Commissioner of Education denoted the petitioner as "Citizens for Better Education." At a telephone prehearing conference conducted by the undersigned on June 16, 1993, Mr. Brodie, a nonattorney indicated that he would be appearing pro se on behalf of this unincorporated, nonlegal "entity" comprised of like-minded citizens within the Argument on the request for emergent relief was held and the application denied by order dated May 24,1993. An expedited plenary hearing was scheduled for July 13, 14 and 15, 1993. At the conclusion of the presentation of petitioner's proofs on July 14, 1993, the Board moved to dismiss the petition. The third hearing day was adjourned pending a decision on the motion to dismiss. For the reasons which follow, the motion to dismiss is granted.

STANDARD OF REVIEW ON MOTION

The test for assessing a motion for involuntary dismissal at the close of petitioner's case in the administrative law setting is the same as that applied in the judiciary: whether all the evidence, together with the legitimate inferences to be drawn, can sustain a judgment in favor of the party opposing the motion. See N.J. Ct. R. 4:37-2(b); Walsh v. Madison Park Properties, Ltd., 102 N.J. Super. 134 (App. Div. 1968). If reasonable minds can differ, the motion must be denied.

ANALYSIS

School Closing Issues:

Utilizing this standard, I turn first to the allegation in the petition that all requirements for the closing of a school have not been met. Petitioner cites N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.2, which concerns approval for a school closing, and N.J.A.C. 6:22-5.5, and -6.1, which relate to facility requirements generally.

N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.2 governs the approval for the closing of a school or schools. Subsection (b) of this regulation provides that a letter of approval from the Bureau of Facility Planning Services is required before a school or schools may be closed. Subsection (a) requires as follows:

Township of Saddle Brook. Respondent objected. The undersigned thereupon granted an oral application to amend the caption in this matter to reflect that he is the petitioner in this matter. Mr. Brodie was also granted a week to provide the undersigned and respondent with certifications, averring to the allegations of the petition, of any other individuals who wished to proceed in this matter as named parties. No additional individuals availed themselves of this opportunity. Accordingly, the caption was amended to reflect Mr. Brodie as the sole petitioner.

(a) The local district board of education shall provide the Department of Education, Bureau of Facility Planning Services with the following assurances that with the closing of a school or schools:

1. Sufficient school building capacity exists to house district students following such closing for each of the succeeding five years;

2. The use of substandard spaces in the remaining schools does not result or increase from an overall facilities shortage caused by school closings; and

3. The reassignment of pupils to other schools in the district neither produces, sustains nor contributes to unlawful segregation, separation or isolation of student populations on the basis of race or national origin.

Petitioner concedes that the State Department of Education, Bureau of Facility Planning Services has not completed its review of the district's request for approval to close the Washington School. Dr. Michael Macaluso of the Bureau testified that the Bureau has not made a decision to date on the request for State approval to close the Washington elementary school. Yet, petitioner argues that if the Bureau grants the request for approval, then a valid dispute exists as to whether the requirements for approval for a school closing have been met, which dispute should be decided. He claims that the "90 day "requirement for timely filing of a petition of appeal with the Commissioner forced him to file when he did. This reference is apparently to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

It would be premature for the undersigned to decide at this juncture whether the requirements for a school closing have been met. To do so, would be to usurp the authority of the Bureau of Facility Planning Services to perform its statutory duty under N.J.A.C. 6:22-3.2. Moreover, the record is undisputed that the District is in the process of addressing regulatory requirements pertaining to the specifics of its plan to close the Washington School as those requirements are being identified through the interactive review process utilized by the Bureau.

Criteria for determining the ripeness of a controversy for judicial determination were enunciated in Abbott Laboratories v. Gardner, 387 U.S. 136, 87 S.Ct. 1507, 18 L.Ed. 2d 681 (1967). The reviewing court must assess "the fitness of the issues for judicial decision and the hardship to the parties of withholding court consideration." 387 U.S. at 149, 87 S.Ct. at 1515. In assessing fitness, the court must determine if a legal question suitable for judicial resolution has crystallized and whether the ruling or action complained of is final. Ibid. See also Haddon Twp. Bd. of Ed. v. New Jersey Department of Education, 476 F. Supp. 681, 688 (D.N.J. 1979).

So, too, our State courts have refrained from rendering rulings that would be only advisory and from acting in the abstract. N.J. Civil Service Ass'n. v. State of New Jersey, 88 N.J. 605, 611 (1982). See also Crescent Park Tenants Ass'n. v. Realty Eq. Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98, 107-108 (1971); The Proprietary Ass'n v. Bd. of Pharmacy, 16 N.J. 62, 72 (1954); N.J. Turnpike Authority v. Parsons, 3 N.J. 235, 240 (1949).

Petitioner's posture regarding the school closing treats the plan to close the Washington Elementary School as if it were frozen as of the time the Board approved certain basic concepts of the plan at its February 10, 1993 meeting. This is not a fair representation of the district's efforts to secure Bureau approval to close the Washington School, which have entailed reexamination of facility, personnel and other implementation detail associated with the plan. Petitioner concedes in the testimony he gave during the presentation of his case that this re-examination has been occurring. This fine tuning of the plan, in an effort to achieve state approval, underscores the need for judicial restraint at this juncture, for to rule on the appropriateness of the plan as presented to the Board on the evening of February 10 would be a wasteful exercise. The final detail of the plan remain to be decided through the Bureau's review of this matter.

I decline to address the requirements for school closing set forth in regulation and leave that assessment in the first instance to the State officials charged with that responsibility. The doctrine of ripeness of a controversy protects against deciding issues before they are necessary. Certainly in this instance, the Bureau's review may obviate the controversy, or sharpen any remaining issue by forcing the focus to be only on the plan approved for implementation, and not an evolving plan that has not finally addressed, for example, all substandard space issues and issues related to sufficient school capacity, both of which are the bailiwick of the Bureau to address initially. See P-22 in evidence; June 1, 1993 letter from Mr. Macaluso of the Bureau raising numerous substandard space issues relating to the Saddle Brook High School where pupils in grades 7 and 8 would be relocated pursuant to the closing of the Washington School and reallocation of pupils among the remaining schools. Accordingly, I dismiss paragraph 3 of the petition as premature.

Conflict of Interest Issues:

Petitioner raises two conflict of interest issues. The conflict issue raised in paragraph 7 of the petition was withdrawn at hearing. It is, therefore, dismissed. In paragraph 4 as amended, petitioner contends that two board members are members of the municipal governing body and, therefore, are in a position of a conflict of interest requiring their removal from the board, or abstention from any subsequent vote on the Washington School closing.

The facts presented by petitioner reveal that Mr. Joseph Carroll is the Deputy Chief of Police for Saddle Brook, having been appointed to that position through the civil service competitive examination process. Taking all inferences most favorably to petitioner, I assume that Mr. Carroll was appointed by the Mayor since this is how petitioner phrased his interrogatory on this issue, the answer to which provides a portion of the factual underpinning to petitioner's claim.

The facts also reveal that Ms. Susan Syme, who is no longer a current member of the Board since her term expired this past Spring, is a secretary in the Building Department of the Township. Again, Ms. Syme was appointed to this position through the civil service competitive examination process by the Mayor.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> No member of any board of education shall. . . hold office a mayor or as a member of the governing body of a municipality. . . .

This prohibition is designed to prevent the holding of incompatible offices. The reference to "governing body of a municipality" is unambiguous. In determining who or what governs a municipal corporate entity, resort must be had to the laws of incorporation for a township, for there is no dispute that Saddle Brook is a township. See generally N.J.S.A. 40A:63-1 et seq. Specifically, the township committee is the legislative body of the municipality and has all executive responsibilities of the municipality not placed by law in the office of the mayor. N.J.S.A. 40A:63-6. The membership of the township committee is comprised of three to five members elected by a plurality of the votes. N.J.S.A. 40A:63-2. Petitioner's argument as to Ms. Syme and Mr. Carroll would have the term "municipal governing body" expanded to include employees of the township. This interpretation is contrary to the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 and is inconsistent with the statutory provisions cited above which set forth the governance structure for a township such as Saddle Brook.

The Legislature is deemed familiar with its own enactments and not to have enacted conflicting laws. There is no apparent intent in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 to have broadened the concept of municipal governing body beyond the understanding of that concept in the laws setting forth governance of municipalities. I find petitioner's reading of N.J.S.A 18A:12-2 to be overly broad and contrary to a plain reading of its wording. Mr. Carroll's and Ms. Syme's employment with the Township of Saddle Brook does not make them members of the municipal governing body. Paragraph 4 of the petition is dismissed.

Open Public Meetings Act Issues:

Petitioner contends that the decision to close the Washington School was not made in accordance with the Open Public Meetings Act. Specifically, petitioner contends that no notice of the Board meetings conducted on November 16 and 19 1992, January 21, 1993 and February 3 and 10, 1993 was ever published in a newspaper. This was not denied by the Board. I find it as fact.

The Board has averred that a copy of the notice for each of these meetings was mailed to three newspapers, however, for reasons unbeknownst to it, the notices apparently were not published. (See R-2 and P-13).

N.J.S.A. 10:4-8 of the OPMA defines the "adequate notice" requirement, in pertinent part, as follows:

> d. "Adequate notice" means written advance notice of at least 48 hours, giving the time, date, location and, to the extent known, the agenda of any regular, special or rescheduled meeting, which notice shall accurately state whether formal action may or may not be taken and which shall be (1) prominently posted in at least one public place reserved for such or similar announcements, (2) mailed, telephoned, telegrammed, or hand delivered to at least two newspapers which newspapers shall be designated by the public body to receive such notices because they have the greatest likelihood of informing the public within the area of jurisdiction of the public body of such meetings, once of which shall be the official newspaper, where any such has been designated by the public body or if the public body has failed to so designate, where any has been designated by the governing body of the political subdivision whose geographic boundaries are coextensive with that of the public body....

This requirement has been held to mean that actual publication is not required, a public body may show compliance with the OPMA by demonstrating that the notice was mailed to appropriate newspapers in compliance with the 48 hour requirement. Houman v. Pompton Lakes, 155 N.J. Super. 129, 166-168 (Law Div. 1977). Pursuant to Evidence Rule 49, I accept the testimony of Mr. D'Achille, School Business Administrator for the Board and Dr. Edward Price, Superintendent of Schools, submitted in affidavit form (R-2) and in certified responses to interrogatories numbered 14 through 17 (P-13) respectively, admitted into this record by consent of the parties as proof of the fact that notice of these meetings were mailed in accordance with the regular routine for mailing.

The New Jersey Rules of Evidence permit the admission of evidence of custom to prove conformity therewith upon a particular occasion. N.J.S.A. 2A:84A, Rule 49. Furthermore, this rule does not require corroborating evidence before such evidence is admissible, reversing the common law rule. Id. See also, Borgia v. Board of Review, 21 N.J. Super. 462 (App. Div 1952) (requiring corroborating evidence before custom or habit is admissible). Case law has specifically applied the new rule to instances in which proof of mailing was at issue. See, e.g., Bruce v. James P. McLean Firm, 238 N.J. Super. 501 (App. Div. 1989) (holding that testimony need be from person charged with performance of the custom, but need not be specific as to incident in question); Weinisch v. Sawyer, 237 N.J. Super. 195 (App. Div. 1989) (evidence of habit or custom admissible regardless of corroboration).

These affidavits and certified answers serve as competent evidence that the notice of these meetings were properly posted. In accordance with the ruling in Houman, this evidence is sufficient to conclude that no violation of the OPMA occurred on any of these meeting dates even though publication apparently did not occur. Proof of posting is sufficient; a Board is not liable if the notice is not published in the newspaper or newspapers to which the notice is mailed.

Further, with regard to the OPMA violations alleged by petitioner, it is contended that at the meetings of the Board mentioned above (November 16, 19, 1992 January 21, February 3, 1993), the OPMA opening statement was not read and that the minutes of these meetings fail to contain a recording that this statement was read, contrary to N.J.S.A. 10:4-10. Petitioner so testified from his recollection as to these meetings and the minutes of these meetings fail to reflect that this opening statement was read. For purposes of this motion, I accept this contention as true.

The Board counters this argument by contending that on June 9,1993, the Board took remedial action to rectify any previous OPMA violations which may have occurred during the previous school year. The minutes of the June 9, 1993 meeting were entered in evidence by consent and they reveal that by resolution the Board, acting de novo, readopted, confirmed and ratified its action taken at, among other meetings of the previous school year, the actions taken at the February 10, 1993 meeting (P-16). This remedial action was taken pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-15.

This remedial procedure was analyzed in Hauman, supra. There the Court made the following observations about this procedure:

> The Open Public Meetings Act specifically provides a procedure by which a public body may subsequently rectify any action which would otherwise be voidable for failure to comply with the requirements of the act. N.J.S.A. 10:4-15(a) provides that
>
> > Any action taken by a public body at a meeting which does not conform with the provisions of this act shall be voidable in a proceeding in lieu of prerogative writ in the Superior Court, which proceeding may be brought by any person within 45 days after the action sought to be voided has been made public; provided, however, that a public body may take corrective or remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting held in conformity with this Act and other applicable law regarding any action which may otherwise be voidable pursuant to this section. * * *
>
> The purpose of the act is to insure the public's right to observe all phases of the governmental decision-making process. However, this section evidences the Legislature's understanding that noncompliance with the act is not always purposefully designed to deny this right to the public, and that disruption of the orderly process of government would often follow a belated realization that a public body had, inadvertently, failed to act in compliance with the law. It should be noted that the predecessor Right to Know Law, N.J.S.A. 10:4-1 et seq., did not contain a remedial provision. Therefore, it may be assumed that, in order to protect the equally important need of government to function effectively, the Legislature provide this remedial procedure whereby a public body may correct earlier statutory violations by subsequent action. The statement attached to Assembly Bill 1030 states that, "A public body may correct an action which does not comply with this Act by acting anew at any time at a public meeting that does comply with this Act." Thus, where the decision-making process is repeated in compliance with the act, the objective of public observance is fulfilled and, as long as the subsequent action is retroactive in effect, governmental order is insured [155 N.J. Super. at 162-163].

I find that the Board's remedial action cures any OPMA violation which occurred at the February 10, 1993 meeting of the Board. However, this is not meaningful, since I have already found that the lack of newspaper publication for the February 10, 1993 meeting is not violative of the OPMA in view of proof of mailing of the notice, and there was an OPMA "opening statement" read at their meeting per petitioner's admission. Therefore, for purposes of this motion the February 10, 1993 meeting was technically in compliance with the OPMA.

To the extent that this remedial resolution does not name the other meetings where the minutes fail to reflect that the OPMA statement was read , these meetings were either work sessions (November 16 and 19, 1992 and January 21, 1993) or a public hearing of the Board on the proposed school closing plan (February 3, 1993). Accordingly, no formal action of the Board was taken on these occasions.

Based on the testimony and evidence produced by petitioner, augmented by the admissions entered into the record by the Board, it is apparent that petitioner has carried his burden of production as to Board compliance with N.J.S.A. 10:4-10 at the work sessions and public hearing conducted on November 16 and 19, 1992 and January 21 and February 3, 1993. In so concluding I note that I also have considered the time frames required for challenging actions under the OPMA.

Actions to challenge violations of the OPMA are to be filed within 45 days pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:4-15. Actions challenging school law violations, to which an OPMA violation may be pendent, must be filed within 90 days of the challenged action. See N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c). See Voll v. Bd. of Ed. of the Village of Ridgewood 1986 S.L.D.at 912. But compare McWilliams v. Bd. of Ed. of the Bridgewater-Raritan School District, 1980 S.L.D. 1439, 1445 (December 24, 1980), aff'd. 1981 S.L.D. 1466 (May 6, 1981) (petitioner having failed to seek relief pursuant to the 45 day limitation period contained in section 15 of the OPMA is statutorily prohibited from seeking such relief). Even if the longer 90 day period were to be applied to these OPMA issues, this petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education on May 6, 1993. The last Board action, for which no remedial action was taken to cure OPMA violations, occurred on February 3, 1993.

This does not make petitioner's claim here out of time for the OPMA noncompliance which occurred at the Board's work sessions and public hearing do impact the otherwise valid action which occurred on February 10, 1992. Thus this action which was filed within 90 days of February 10, 1993 should be considered timely filed.

In Polillo v. Deane, 74 N.J. 562 (1977), the New Jersey Supreme Court considered circumstances similar to those presented here, namely public body meetings wherein deliberations occurred or public testimony taken but for which the certain requirements of the OPMA were not satisfied - followed by two meetings of the public body at which the OPMA requirements were met and at which formal action was taken. The court rejected the public body's argument in that matter that only the meeting at which formal action was taken (and therefore was subject to the "voiding" provision of the OPMA) need be examined. The Court stated:

> Acceptance of defendents' final contention that we need look only at the notice given before the last two meetings - when the Commission took formal action - would undermine the entire purpose of the Act. This would allow an agency to close its doors when conducting negotiations or hammering out policies, and then to put on an appearance of open government by allowing the public to witness the proceedings at which its action is formally adopted. Such an interpretation of the statute would conflict with N.J.S.A. 10:4-15(a) which provides that "a public body may take corrective or remedial action by acting de novo at a public meeting held in conformity with this act." [Emphasis added.] Surely it cannot be realistically contended that the September 2 and 3 meetings constituted a "de novo" reaffirmation of the activities which had transpired at the previous meetings. Consequently, even assuming the Commission did comply with the Act at these last two meetings, we do not believe that its actions were sufficient to correct the past violations which the trial judge found. [74 N.J. at 578].

See also Voll, supra, (Commissioner voided action taken at properly noticed public meeting of Board of Education because it was tainted by preceding Board meetings involving the same subject matter, which meetings had been held in violation of OPMA adequate notice requirements).

As in Polillo, I note that here the lack of compliance with OPMA requirements for the November 16, 19, 1992, January 21, and February 3, 1993 meetings of the Board did not work to preclude public participation. Petitioner conceded that he had notice of all of these meetings, and attended them as did others. Moreover, it is noteworthy that the February 3 public hearing on the school closing was conducted in a place not normally used by the Board for its meetings - the high school auditorium - yet, it was attended by 200-250 persons as estimated by petitioner.

In Polillo, the Court was mindful of practical considerations which counseled against disregarding the considerable public involvement which had occurred despite the lack of OPMA compliance. Referencing the OPMA's remedial provisions, the Court stated:

> These remedial statutory sections contemplate maximum flexibility in rectifying governmental action which falls short of the standards of openness prescribed for the conduct of official business. Consistent with the breadth and elasticity of relief provided in the legislative scheme, it is entirely proper to consider the nature, quality and effect of the noncompliance of the particular offending governmental body in fashioning the corrective measures which must be taken to conform with the statute. Thus, in this context, the "substantial compliance" argument of defendants carries some weight on the question of remedy and relief. As pointed out, several commission meetings were held as to which there was public notice, albeit insufficient to satisfy the statute. Most meetings did involve the wide participation of the public. Many were held at various locations to enhance the access of the public and serve the convenience of the people. Most meetings did not involve any deliberative or executive action by the Commissioner but rather provided a forum for the presentation of the testimony and evidence of experts and other witnesses which have become part of a permanent and public record.
>
> We have observed that the spirit of the Open Public Meetings Law was not seriously undermined by a great deal of the work of this Commission.
>
>
> Nevertheless, we must invalidate the final governmental action taken by the Commission, namely, its actual recommendation as to the form of government to be placed upon the ballot and the antecedent meetings at which the Commissioner deliberated and reached their conclusion. However, we do not find it necessary, in fashioning a remedial solution, to invalidate and repudiate all other public meetings, particularly those hearings at which testimony and evidence were received.
>
> Therefore, the Commission is directed to embark again upon its task of considering an appropriate form of government to be recommended by it for approval by the voters. In so doing, it may in its sound discretion utilize so much of the testimony and evidence which it acquired in the course of original effort as it deems > necessary and appropriate. However, any decision in that regard must be arrived at in a manner in strict conformity with the Open Public Meetings Law so that the public may be fully apprised by adequate notice and a publicized agenda exactly what prior meetings and what aspects of the existing Commission record are sought to be so utilized. The Commission may hold additional meetings for the purpose of either supplanting or supplementing its prior efforts, again in strict compliance with the Open Public Meetings Law. Finally, any recommendation to be proposed by the Commission, after adopting the results of such prior meetings and developing evidence from any additional meetings as provided here, shall be adopted only at any concluding meeting or meetings which, to reiterate, satisfy the standards of the Act in every respect. [74 N.J. at 579-580].

Taking the Polillo Court's concern for practicality, I must here place into context the Board's technical noncompliance with the requirement that the OPMA opening statement be read at the outset of each meeting. All we have here, taking petitioner's proofs in the light most favorable to him, is the Board's failure to state at the beginning of the November 16 and 19, 1992 and January 21, 1993 Board work sessions, and at the February 3, 1993 public hearing, that the Board provided adequate notice of the particular meeting in compliance with the OPMA. The failure to make this statement does not mean that adequate notice was not provided. I have already found that the Board did provide adequate notice - the acting of mailing the notices for each of these meetings complied with the "adequate notice" defined in the OPMA. At most, we have a failure to tell the members of the public, who actually were at these meetings, that proper notice had been given. Surely there is no harm to these individuals, for they were at the meeting.

I decline to invalidate any action taken at the February 10, 1993 meeting as a result of this technical noncompliance which did not work any meaningful harm to public participation in the earlier held work sessions or public hearing. This is unlike the situation in Polillo where the public did not have adequate notice of the earlier meetings, thus compelling the Court to invalidate the action taken at the latter meetings. I emphasize that the failure to have made the OPMA opening statement does not mean adequate notice under the OPMA was not provided at these earlier meetings. It was provided. Accordingly, I find the technical noncompliance with the opening statement to be de minimus.

I note that petitioner does not seek any monetary penalty, having specifically waived any such penalty. The Commissioner has also held that she lacks jurisdiction to impose the OPMA's monetary penalty provisions. See Rovello v. Hopewell Valley Regional Sch. Dist. Bd. of Ed., decided Comm. of Ed. (March 15, 1993) 134 N.J.L.J. 538; Dougherty, (Commissioner decision January 6, 1983) aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. (July 6, 1983). Taking this technical violation in context therefore, I find no basis for invalidating the action of the Board taken February 10, 1993 or for the Board to disregard its deliberations and public testimony received at the work sessions or public hearing.

Separately, petitioner contends that the notices of these meetings were not posted in a prominent place. N.J.S.A. 10:4-8d. sets forth the law's posting requirement as follows:

> . . .prominently posted in at least one public place reserved for such or similar announcements ....

Petitioner maintains that the posting of this notice on a bulletin board located in the hallway outside of the school district's administrative offices in the high school does not satisfy this requirement. Although petitioner concedes that this "area " is open to the public during business hours, he argues that this location is not prominent enough. This same argument is proffered as to a second bulletin board on which the notice is posted, namely a bulletin board that is physically located inside the meeting room used for school board meetings.

Petitioner's argument as to "prominence" applies this adjective to "place" instead of the posting location on the bulletin board. This emphasis sought by petitioner does not accord with the plain language of the statute, which describes the location requirement for the bulletin board to be merely a "public place". I cannot conclude that more is required. The bulletin board outside of the district's administrative offices is a public place open during business hours. I find that this posting place satisfies the literal language of the statute's requirements. There is no dispute that the posting did occur on this bulletin board. There is no evidence in this record to conclude that the notice was not prominent within the confines of this bulletin board. Accordingly, considering all of petitioner's proofs and his argument on this issue, I conclude that no violation of the posting requirement for the OPMA has occurred and dismiss allegations of paragraph 1 of the petition.

Petitioner also alleges that the Board violated the OPMA in denying a request from a member of the public to establish an ad hoc committee comprised of members of the public, which would participate in the study process regarding the closing of a school. Petitioner concedes that the Board is under no requirement of law to establish an ad hoc committee for this purpose. It is his testimony that he believes an OPMA violation occurred in how the request for such a committee was denied.

Specifically, petitioner testified that the request for the establishment of an ad hoc committee was made at an October 1992 meeting of the Board and at the December 1992 meeting, without discussion, the Board voted publicly to deny the request. Accepting these facts as true, I cannot find an OPMA violation here. Petitioner surmises that some private discussion must have occurred impermissibly between these two Board meetings. No proof to this effect was produced. Petitioner's theory of what may have taken place does not prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that it did occur. Accordingly, absent any evidence to corroborate petitioner's allegations, I find that ths paragraph 2 of the petition of appeal must be dismissed.

Education Law Violations:

Paragraphs 5 and 6 of the petition allege as follows:

5. Failure of Board to report a description of the special education plan to the public and the possible financial impact on the budget for the prebudget year. (N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.2(b))

6. Failure of Board to read and note in the minutes the corrective action plan for the 1991-1992 Financial Audit. (18A:23-5)

Petitioner testified that the Board failed to conduct a public discussion at any Board meeting on the Special Education plan for the district, which he argues has a financial impact on the district and should have been considered in assessing alternatives to the school closing. Specifically, he argues that special education costs provide a basis for seeking a cap waiver and a cap waiver may have vitiated any financial rationale for closing the Washington elementary school.

The other 'facts' relating to paragraph 5 of the petition are contained in the Board's response to petitioner's interrogatory number 103 wherein it recounts the Board's efforts to comply with the requirement of N.J.A.C. 6: 28-1.2(b) for public input. The Board's response states:

> Q. The development of the special education plan shall provide reasonable opportunities for the participation of professional staff, parents, community members, disabled individuals and groups representing the disabled population. Set forth in detail how the Board of Education provided for this opportunity.
>
> A. Ms. Valerie Mosca is the Child Study Team Coordinator and prepared the Special Education Plan for the 1993-1994, 1994-1995 and 1995-1996 school years. In preparation of the plan approximately 375 people were surveyed including but not limited to: parents of Special Education students, Special Education high school, community parents, general education staff, special education staff, Administrators, The Disability & Business Technical Center Northeast Region and members of the Board.

I find this action by the Board to be in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.2(b) which calls merely for public input without prescribing how that input is to be secured. Petitioner cites no legal basis for concluding that the Board was required to conduct this input through its own public sessions. I find no education law violation here. Paragraph 5 of the petition is dismissed.

As for the allegations of paragraph 6, petitioner provided no evidence of a violation for which a claim for relief could be recognized.

Per petitioner's testimony, the 1991-92 auditor's report was approved at the Board's November 11, 1992 meeting. Petitioner claims that there should have been discussion on this audit report at the December meeting, but the December 1992 minutes fail to reflect any such discussion.

Petitioner placed into evidence the minutes of the Board's meeting held on November 11, 1992 (P-20). These minutes reflect that the Board approved the Financial Audit and the corrective action plan for the 1991-92 Financial Audit recommended by the School Business Administrator. This action was performed, per the minutes, by motion and second. Following normal parliamentary procedure, the Board would have been required to receive discussion from among its member, on the motion before voting it. The fact that the minutes appear to indicate that there was no discussion on the motion to approve the audit and corrective action plan does not work a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:23-5, which provides only that:

> Within 30 days following the receipt of the report of the annual audit the board of education of the district shall, at a regularly scheduled public meeting, cause the recommendations of the auditor to be read and to be discussed and the discussion duly noted on the minutes of said board.

I find the Board's minutes of November 11, 1992 indicate Board compliance with the statute. Therefore, I find no school law violation to have occurred here. Paragraph 6 of the petition is dismissed.

Petitioner never plead that the Board's decision to close the Washington elementary school was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. But taking the allegations of paragraphs 5 and 6 to mean this, I find petitioner's argument here to be without merit - so much so that I believe reasonable minds could not differ and a motion to dismiss may properly be granted. No statutory violation has occurred here. Moreover, I do not find the Board has acted arbitrarily, capriciously or unreasonably in seeking to request State approval to close the Washington element school.

Petitioner seeks here to substitute his judgment, and those in the community of a like mind, for that of the Board. That is not the role for the adjudicatory process. I cannot say that the Board has acted arbitrarily, capriciously or in bad faith in having undertaken its study of the closing of the Washington elementary school and voting its approval to seek State approval for such a closing. The process is not complete. The plan is not complete - having changed already in response to State inquiries. Simply put, petitioner and his colleagues disagree with the judgment of the Board in determining a course of conduct toward the closing of the Washington elementary school. This does not give rise to a claim for relief from the Commissioner. Each time a public entity, or official, determines to pursue a course of conduct - as here to seek permission to close a school, does not immediatley give rise to a litigable issue.

Petitioner 's rights - at this juncture - when he disagrees with the Board's chosen course of conduct to seek State approval to close the school is to try and stop that process by convincing the appropriate State official not to give the approval. Only after the approval has been given is a "school law dispute" ripe.

If that occurs here, then petitioner or any challenger would be subjected to the well established standard for assessing final action of a board of education acting within its discretionary authority.

As the Commissioner of Education stated in McMillian, a case which also involved a citizen disagreement with a board's determination to close one of its schools:

> The Board clearly had the discretionary authority to close one of its schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1; Boult and Harris v. Board of Education of Passaic, 135 N.J.L. 329 (Sup. Ct. 1947), aff'd 136 N.J.L. 521 (E.&A. 1948); Green Village Road School Association et al. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Madison, Morris County, 1976 S.L.D. 700, aff'd State Board 716. In such matters it has been held by the Commissioner and the courts that, absent a clear abuse of discretion or proof of illegality, a board of education must answer, not to the Commissioner, but to its constituents for the wisdom of its actions. As was said by the Commissioner in the school closing dispute of John J. Caffrey, Jr., et al. v. Board of Education of the township of Millburn, Essex County, 1975 S.L.D. 630
>
> > * * *[I]t is axiomatic that the members of the local boards of education are responsible for the wisdom of their actions to the people who elect them and not to the Commissioner of Education. As the Commissioner recited the law as a frame of reference in Cecelia Barnes et al. v. Board of Education of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, 1961-62 S.L.D. 122, 125, aff'd State Board of Education, 1963 S.L.D. 240:
> >
> > as long asa board of education acts within the authority conferred on it by law the courts are without power to, or will not, interfere with, control, or review * * *its action and decisions in matters involving the exercise of discretion, in the absence of clear abuse thereof or error; nor is the wisdom or expediency of an act, or the motive with which it was done, open to judicial inquiry or consideration, where power to do it existed. 78 C.J.S. 920
> >
> > In absence of clear abuse of the discretionary power of the Board, the Commissioner will not interfere. It was held in Boult v. Board of Education of Passaic, 136 N.J.L. 521 (E. & A. 1948), concerning the authority of the Commissioner and State Board of Education under R.S. 18:3-14 and 15:
> >
> > > Neither of the quoted statutory provisions was intended to vest in the appellate officer or body the authority to exercise originally > the discretionary power vested in the local board.

>
> The wisdom and effectiveness of a board of education's administrative decisions is a matter for the constitutent citizenry to determine. [1977 S.L.D. 139-140].

In closing, I note that in the course of this proceeding, since State approval was apparently not forthcoming in time to implement the school closing for the 1993-94 school year, the Board has commenced the reassignment of pupils - most notably the reassignment of seventh and eighth grade pupils to a portion of the high school facility. Petitioner has not challenged this action in this proceeding. Any challenge brought to Board action reassigning pupils within existing facilities would be subject to the same above stated test for discretionary action.

CONCLUSION

In summary, taking all of petitioner's proofs in the light most favorable to him, I must CONCLUDE that the motion to dismiss should be GRANTED for all the reasons stated herein. Accordingly, I ORDER the petition of appeal be dismissed in its entirety.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

JOHN BRODIE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SADDLE BROOK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's lengthy exceptions essentially recast and reiterate his arguments raised before the ALJ at the hearing below. With respect to his allegation that the Board has not complied with all of the regulatory requirements for a school closing, he alleges that the Department of Education's Bureau of Facility Planning Services was not provided with full information regarding all aspects of the Board's proposal. He further objects to the ALJ's determination that this issue is not ripe for adjudication maintaining that > to wait until a matter of this importance has crystallized to the point of no turning back would not be in the best interest of the district. (Petitioner's Exceptions, at p. 11)

It is noted that petitioner's exceptions contain extensive references to his own testimony and, to some extent, that of other individuals adduced at the hearing below which he avers support his exception assertions.

By way of reply to petitioner's exceptions which the Board addresses point by point, it essentially maintains that the petitioner has set forth conclusionary and speculative allegations of fact which are unsupported by the evidence. The Board urges that the initial decision be adopted by the Commissioner.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, which, it is noted, does not include transcripts of the hearing below, the Commissioner is in full accord with the ALJ's well-reasoned analysis and conclusions and, therefore, affirms the initial decision for the reasons expressed therein.

The Commissioner finds that the ALJ fully and fairly disposed of the arguments advanced by the petitioner's exceptions in her initial decision. Moreover, because the transcript of the hearing below was not made available to the Commissioner by the parties, she will not address allegations proffered by the petitioner as to what was adduced from the testimony. Rather, in this regard, the Commissioner will rely on those findings and conclusions made by the ALJ who had an opportunity to weigh the testimony of the witnesses and to ascertain whether the petitioner's allegations were supported by sufficient credible evidence. Therefore, the Commissioner dismisses as being without merit those arguments raised by way of exception predicated on the petitioner's version of testimony taken below. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J.

Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987); see also Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185 (App. Div. 1976).

Notwithstanding petitioner's belief to the contrary, the Commissioner is in full accord with the ALJ's determination that it is premature at this point in time to attempt to decide whether all of the regulatory requirements for closing a school have been met by the Board. The record clearly establishes that the Department of Education, Bureau of Facility Planning Services' review of the Board's request is currently in a state of fluidity. Regulatory requirements pertaining to the specifics of the plan will have to be addressed by the Board as these are identified through the interactive review process of the Bureau. Therefore, as this review process progresses it is entirely possible that the within controversy may be eliminated. In any event, as aptly stated by the ALJ:

> Petitioner seeks here to substitute his judgment, and those in the community of a like mind, for that of the Board. That is not the role for the adjudicatory process. I cannot say that the Board has acted arbitrarily, capriciously or in bad faith in having undertaken its study of the closing of the Washington elementary school and voting its approval to seek State approval for such a closing. The process is not complete. The plan is not complete - having changed already in response to State inquiries. Simply put, petitioner and his colleagues disagree with the judgment of the Board in determining a course of conduct toward the closing of the Washington elementary school. This does not give rise to a claim for relief from the Commissioner. Each time a public entity, or official, determines to pursue a course of conduct - as here to seek permission to close a school, does not immediately give rise to a litigable issue.
>
> Petitioner's rights - at this juncture - when he disagrees with the Board's chosen course of conduct to seek State approval to close the school is to try and stop that process by > convincing the appropriate State official not to give the approval. Only after the approval has been given is a "school law dispute" ripe.

>
> If that occurs here, then petitioner or any other challenger would be subjected to the well established standard for assessing final action of a board of education acting within its discretionary authority.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the Office of Administrative Law is adopted for the reasons stated therein, and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, riffed Supervisor III, alleged Board employed nontenured staff in director position to which he was entitled. Petitioner possessed both a principal's and supervisor's endorsement.

ALJ concluded petitioner's former position was not substantially similar to director position, finding significant differences as to scope of program handled by director and significant differences as to to duties and responsibilities. ALJ concluded petitioner's tenure and seniority rights were not violated. (Dennery) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision emphasizing ALJ's conclusion that job duties were significantly different and that petitioner's tenure and seniority accrued as supervisor not as principal (separately tenurable titles pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5).

JOHN SCHAEFER,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., for the petitioner (Lake and Schwartz, attorneys)

Richard K. Sacks, Esq., for the respondent

Record Closed: June 24, 1993 Decided: July 28, 1993

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the allegation of the petitioner, John Schaefer, that he is entitled to the position of director of practical arts and the media which was given to a nontenured staff person by the respondent, the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood, Ocean County (Board). The petitioner requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 11, 1992, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

There was a prehearing conference on August 26, 1992, before Administrative Law Judge M. Kathleen Duncan, and the parties agreed that the issue in this matter is whether the petitioner's tenure and seniority rights entitled him to the position of director of practical arts and the media. The hearing was scheduled for January 6, 1993. Prior to the hearing date, the matter was transferred to me for the purpose of conducting the hearing and rendering an initial decision. The hearing took place on January 6, 1993, and after submission of briefs the record initially closed on February 23, 1993. At my request, the parties submitted additional briefs and the record closed on June 24, 1993.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

I FIND that the pertinent facts in this matter are not in dispute. Mr. Schaefer has been employed by the Board since 1961. He was initially a classroom teacher. In 1975, Mr. Schaefer became a department chairperson for business education. Sometime during the early 1980's, Mr. Schaefer's title was changed to supervisor of business education. Approximately in 1989, Mr. Schaefer's title was changed to supervisor III - industrial arts. The requirement for the supervisor III position is a supervisor or principal certificate or eligibility for the same (J-2). Mr. Schaefer has both a principal and a supervisor certificate (P-1, P-2).

As the supervisor of business education and as supervisor III - industrial arts, Mr. Schaefer worked ten months during the school year and he was responsible for the business education program in the high school, grades 9 to 12. Mr. Schaefer taught three or four courses and his immediate supervisor was the principal of the high school.

In 1992, the Board began consideration of a reorganization plan and the initial proposal retained the title of supervisor of business education. Edward W. Luick, the assistant superintendent of schools, testified that thereafter the superintendent of schools developed a reorganization plan which changed the building-based programs to district-wide programs with directors reporting to the superintendent of education rather than building principals (J-6). This plan eliminates a number of supervisor III positions and creates a number of director positions with district-wide responsibilities. These director positions are not among the enumerated position in the tenure statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Staff persons in the director positions work eleven months during the school year, are responsible for district-wide programs, and have no classroom teaching responsibilities. The job description for the director position requires the person to hold a principal certificate (J-1).

According to Mr. Luick, this revised plan was adopted by the Board (J-3) in order to save money and also to achieve a better K to 12 grades curriculum. In the past, programs were developed in each school and there had not been enough cooperation between the various schools.

Pursuant to the adopted reorganization plan, the petitioner's position was eliminated and the responsibility for the business education program, grades K to 12, was given to the director of practical arts and the media.

Mr. Schaefer was interviewed for the position of director of practical arts and the media. He was not offered the position and the superintendent of schools, with the approval of the Board, hired Robert Kirschner for the position. Mr. Kirschner was initially hired by the Board in 1963 and worked as an industrial arts teacher (P-3). In 1969, Mr. Kirschner became a vocational placement counselor, and in 1972, he was given the position of vocational guidance counselor. After 1978, Mr. Kirschner's position was job placement and career counselor-guidance. As of September 1988, Mr. Kirschner again held the position of industrial arts teacher. In September 1990, Mr. Kirschner was given the position of supervisor III - industrial arts and he held this position at the time of his appointment to the director position.

At the time of the appointment of Mr. Kirschner to the position of director of practical arts and the media (J-5), Mr. Schaefer had tenure in the position of supervisor III - industrial arts and Mr. Kirschner had not acquired tenure in his supervisor III position.

Since the RIF, the respondent has held the position of business education teacher. Mr. Schaefer acknowledges that there are some differences between his former title of supervisor III and the director of practical arts and the media; however, he testified that the performance responsibilities and the job functions are the same. Mr. Schaefer stated that as the supervisor of business education, he guided, developed and implemented curriculum, assisted in the development of the budget for his subject area, helped recruit personnel, was responsible for conducting in-service programs, made recommendations for course alterations or modifications, reviewed test results, was the coordinator for any curriculum development in his area, and observed and evaluated all teachers within his subject area.

Mr. Luick testified that the director position contains new and expanded functions and responsibilities not assigned to the prior supervisory position. Mr. Luick stressed the fact that the director is responsible for the K to 12 grade program and reports to the superintendent of schools.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Mr. Schwartz, on behalf of the petitioner, argued that Mr. Schaefer is entitled by his tenure and seniority rights to the position of director of practical arts and the media since Mr. Kirschner was nontenured at the time of his appointment. Mr. Schwartz recognized that if the petitioner's claim was based solely on seniority that he would not be entitled to the position based on the expanded grade responsibilities and expanded subject area responsibilities, citing Timko and Mikush v. Board of Education of Bridgewater-Raritan School District, 1991 S.L.D. _____ (June 19, 1991), affirmed in part and remanded by the State Board of Education (July 1, 1992). Mr. Schwartz argued that since Mr. Kirschner was not tenured at the time of the appointment, Mr. Schaefer's tenure rights gave him a superior claim to the position, citing Capodilupo v. West Orange Board of Education, 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987); Bednar v. Westwood Board of Education, 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987). Further, Mr. Schwartz argued that the duties of the director of practical arts and the media are very similar to the duties actually performed by Mr. Schwartz before the RIF, and therefore he is entitled to the director position, citing Boeshore v. North Bergen, 1974 S.L.D. 805; Smith v. Jersey City, 1988 S.L.D. ____ (Feb. 4, 1987), aff'd by State Board on November 4, 1987; Page v. Trenton Board of Education, 1980 S.L.D. 1193. According to Mr. Schwartz, the fact that Mr. Schaefer acquired tenure in the supervisor position does not effect his tenure entitlement to the new director position since the two positions are essentially the same.

On behalf of the Board, Mr. Sacks argued that the Board clearly had the right to eliminate staff positions as part of a reorganization, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. He argued that Mr. Schaefer is not entitled to the director of practical arts and the media position since the responsibilities are substantially different and the director position has additional duties and responsibilities. Mr. Sacks cited a number of cases in support of his position; specifically, Dennery v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District #1, 131 N.J. 626 (1993). According to Mr. Sacks, the decision in the Dennery case is applicable in this matter and clearly establishes that the petitioner has no right to the position of director of practical arts and the media.

Mr. Schwartz argued that the Dennery case is distinguishable on the facts. In the Dennery case, the petitioner was claiming a supervisor position, which requires a supervisor certificate, even though she never held any positions requiring such a certificate. In this matter, Mr. Schaefer's former position required either a principal or supervisor certificate and he holds both certificates. Mr. Schwartz argued that since Mr. Schaefer had tenure in his former position and since the director position requires a principal certificate, Mr. Schaefer has a superior right to the director position as compared to a staff member who never acquired tenure in the former supervisor position.

Although there are factual differences, I CONCLUDE that the rationale underlying the Supreme Court's decision in the Dennery case is equally applicable in this matter. In the case, the court stated:

> When the duties of the position in which a teaching-staff member has acquired tenure are substantially identical to those of the position that the person seeks a local school board may not sidestep an educator's tenure rights by simply renaming the position or tacking on additional meaningless requirements. The local board must extend the teaching-staff member's tenure rights to the newly-created position. See, e.g., Viemeister v. Board of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218, 68 A.2d 768 (App. Div. 1949) (holding that tenured principal should be reinstated because his position had not in fact been abolished when local school board created the position of "teaching" principal); Vogel v. Board of Educ., (State Bd. of Educ. June 5, 1985), slip op. at 5-6. (explaining that a "[b]oard's decision to abolish a position is not sacrosanct and will be disturbed if it is found that the duties of the abolished position essentially have been transferred to another position so as to defeat the rights of the tenured employee to the abolished position"); Luppino v. Board of Educ., 1980 S.L.D. 1028, 1035-36 (ruling that duties of administrator of home instruction and principal of home instruction "were substantially the same" and change of title "did not involve the meaningful addition of extra duties").
>
> A mere overlap in duties, however, does not mean that two positions are equivalent for tenure purposes. If a newly-created position is similar to a tenure holder's abolished position but also requires additional duties or different responsibilities, then the newly-created position is not considered to be substantially similar to the former position. Santasiero v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Bd. of Educ., 1984 S.L.D. 854, 879; see also Sandri v. Board of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 1501 (ruling that duties of abolished position of supervisor of guidance/shop were similar but of greater nature and scope than newly-created position of director of special needs and student services); Rufalo v. Board of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 1699 (ruling that despite overlap of duties between post of vice-principal and newly-created supervisor position, positions were "substantially different").
> [Dennery at 639-40]

Based on the facts, I CONCLUDE that Mr. Schaefer's former position is not substantially similar to the position of director of practical arts and the media.

Although Mr. Schaefer's former responsibilities for the business education program in the high school are similar to the responsibilities contained in the job description for a director, there is a significant difference as to the scope of the program to be handled by the Director. The director is responsible for the K to 12 program. The two positions are not basically the same and I agree with Mr. Sacks' argument that there are significant differences as to the duties and responsibilities of the two positions. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent did not violate Mr. Schaefer's tenure and seniority rights by giving the director position to a nontenure staff member and I ORDER that Mr. Schaefer's appeal be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." JOHN SCHAEFER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions pursuant to the applicable provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner reasserts those arguments presented before the ALJ, stressing his tenure claim in addition to his seniority claim. Petitioner emphasizes that this is not a case where two tenured staff members are vying for the same title or position. Rather, he avers that he was tenured in the title of Supervisor for which he was required to hold an administrative certificate with either a principal's or supervisor's endorsement. The same certificate, he claims, with the same endorsement was required in the title of Director to which he now asserts tenure and seniority claims.

Petitioner avers the current holder of the title of Director also served in the title of Supervisor, but did not accrue tenure because he did not serve as a supervisor or in a position requiring an administrative certificate for the requisite period pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Distinguishing Dennery, supra, petitioner claims he is not laying claim to a title under which certificate he did not serve and did not accrue tenure. Rather, he submits he acquired tenure in a position requiring the same certificate required for the unrecognized title of Director. Hence, petitioner would reverse the decision of the ALJ and seeks reinstatement to the title of Director with all back pay and emoluments owed.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner affirms the conclusion of Office of Administrative Law dismissing the instant petition for the reasons expressed in the initial decision as augmented herein.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, speaks to specific positions within school districts which are tenure eligible, including, the position of principal as separately tenurable from that of supervisor. Under the facts of this matter, petitioner held the position of Supervisor III under a job description calling for either a supervisor's or a principal's endorsement on an administrative certificate. This fact is uncontested, as is the fact that petitioner holds both endorsements. However, because the title of such position was, in fact, that of a supervisor, petitioner's tenure, as well as his seniority, accrued in a supervisor position, as compared to that of principal. Under the new position of Director, which has district-wide responsibilities (see Initial Decision, at pp. 3-6), the district called for a principal's endorsement. See N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3.

Because petitioner's service as a Supervisor III accrued under his supervisor's endorsement, and without previous experience in a position requiring the use of his principal's endorsement, he may lay no claim to a position as a director. This conclusion is compelled under the separately tenurable titles cited in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and also for the reasons so well-stated by the ALJ relative to the differing job duties of a district-wide position. Dennery, supra See also Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982). To hold otherwise would result in anomalous circumstance of assistant principals having tenure rights to principal positions and principals having tenure rights to assistant superintendencies.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ as augmented herein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision as her own and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed, with prejudice.

JOHN SCHAEFER,

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF LAKEWOOD, OCEAN COUNTY,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 8, 1993

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Lake & Schwartz
(Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Richard K. Sacks, Esq.

John Schaefer (hereinafter "petitioner"), a tenured teaching staff member, was employed by the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood (hereinafter "Board") in 1961 as a teacher of business education. In 1975, he was appointed department chairperson for business education, a position requiring certification as a supervisor. Such title was subsequently revised to "supervisor" of business education. In 1989, his position title was changed to Supervisor III-Industrial Arts. The job description adopted by the Board for Supervisor III required certification as either a supervisor or principal. Petitioner held both endorsements.

In 1992, as the result of a reorganization, the Board eliminated a number of Supervisor III positions, including the position held by petitioner. It also created several new director assignments with district-wide responsibilities. The job description adopted by the Board required certification as a principal in order to be qualified to serve as a director. Pursuant to the reorganization, the responsibility for the business education program, K-12, was assigned to the director of practical arts and the media, one of the new positions.

Petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board had violated his tenure and seniority rights in appointing a non-tenured individual as the director of practical arts and the media.

On July 28, 1993, an Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition. The ALJ, citing the Supreme Court's decision in Dennery v. Board of Educ., 131 N.J. 626 (1993), found that petitioner's abolished supervisory position was not substantially similar to the directorship of the practical arts and the media, stressing that there was a significant difference in the scope of the program to be handled by the director.

On September 8, 1993, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition. She reasoned:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, speaks to specific positions within school districts which are tenure eligible, including, the position of principal as separately tenurable from that of supervisor. Under the facts of this matter, petitioner held the position of Supervisor III under a job description calling for either a supervisor's or a principal's endorsement on an administrative certificate. This fact is uncontested, as is the fact that petitioner holds both endorsements. However, because the title of such position was, in fact, that of a supervisor, petitioner's tenure, as well as his seniority, accrued in a supervisor position, as compared to that of principal. Under the new position of Director, which has district-wide responsibilities (see Initial Decision, at pp. 3-6), the district called for a principal's endorsement. See N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3.

> Because petitioner's service as a Supervisor III accrued under his supervisor's endorsement, and without previous experience in a position requiring the use of his principal's endorsement, he may lay no claim to a position as a director. This conclusion is compelled under the separately tenurable titles cited in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and also for the reasons so well-stated by the ALJ relative to the differing job duties of a district-wide position. Dennery, supra. See also Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63 (1982). To hold otherwise would result in anomalous circumstance of assistant principals having tenure rights to principal positions and principals having tenure rights to assistant superintendencies.

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 10-11.

After a thorough review of the record,[1] we affirm the ultimate determination of the Commissioner. However, our conclusion to do so is grounded in the analysis set forth herein.

Tenure is created by statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq., which should be liberally construed to further its beneficial purpose of affording security to teaching staff who meet its standard of length of service. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). Under the statutory scheme, tenure is achieved in a particular "position." The "position" in which tenure is achieved is initially limited by the certificate that the teaching staff member must hold in order to fulfill the statutory prerequisite of qualification for employment. Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., decided by the State Board, 1986 S.L.D. 3010, 3013, aff'd, 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 109 N.J. 514 (1987). Further definition of the "position" in which tenure is achieved is provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which, by specifying that service as a teacher, principal, assistant principal, vice principal, superintendent, assistant superintendent and school nurse shall be under tenure if other statutory prerequisites are met, defines, for individuals serving in these capacities, the scope of the "position" in which tenure is achieved and to which tenure protection attaches.[2] Id.

It is now well established that a tenured teaching staff member subject to a reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 has entitlement by virtue of tenure to an assignment in such tenurable position within the scope of his or her certification as against non-tenured individuals. Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den., 110 N.J. 512 (1988); Capodilupo, supra. Petitioner's abolished supervisory position did not require certification as a principal in order to be authorized by law to fulfill the duties and responsibilities thereof. Rather, the job description adopted by the Board called for certification as either a supervisor or principal. Nor does petitioner contend that the duties therein were of such nature as to require certification as a principal. As a result, petitioner's tenure accrued as a supervisor. See Capodilupo, supra.

[2] N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides, in pertinent part:

> The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers, principals, assistant principals, vice principals, superintendents, assistant supervisors, and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency....

In that petitioner claims entitlement by virtue of tenure to the directorship of practical arts and the media, it is necessary to determine whether the scope of his tenure achieved as the result of his employment as a supervisor encompassed that assignment. For the reasons that follow, we conclude that it did not.

The job description adopted by the Board for employment as a director required certification as a principal. There is, however, no indication in the record that such unrecognized title was submitted to the county superintendent for determination of the appropriate certification as required by N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b).[3] The county superintendent is charged with responsibility in the first instance for determining the appropriate certification for service in an unrecognized position title based upon the specific duties required to be performed. It is the county superintendent's determination that establishes the certification required for such assignments, rather than the certification designated by the district board. Di Simoni v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District #1, decided by the State Board, April 3, 1991. The State Board of Education has the ultimate administrative authority for determining the appropriate

[3] N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b) provides, in pertinent part:

> If a district board of education determines that the use of an unrecognized position title is desirable, or if a previously established unrecognized title exists, such district board of education shall submit a written request for permission to use the proposed title to the county superintendent of schools, prior to making such appointment. Such request shall include a detailed job description. The county superintendent shall exercise his or her discretion regarding approval of such request, and make a determination of the appropriate certification and title for the position....

certification. See South River Education Association v. Board of Education of the Borough of South River, decided by the State Board, November 4, 1987, aff'd, Docket #A-1695-87T8 (App. Div. 1990); Pezzullo v. Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, decided by the State Board, March 1, 1989, appeal dismissed, Docket #A-4006-88T1 (App. Div. 1989).

As the ultimate fact-finder and administrative decision-maker for controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, Dore v. Bedminster Tp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447 (App. Div. 1982), we have reviewed the record before us, including the job description developed and adopted by the Board for directors. Based on our review, we find that a "director," as established by the Board in this particular instance has a qualitatively higher level of administrative responsibility than that entrusted to a supervisor.

As noted in the job description, directors report directly to the superintendent of schools. The goals of such assignments are to "provide instructional and content area leadership in the development, implementation, and coordination of the district's K-12 curriculum," and to "administer programs under his/her jurisdiction." Exhibit J-1, in evidence. Responsibilities include the development, implementation and evaluation of curriculum and instructional services; recommending the addition of new courses; primary responsibility for content area evaluation of faculty and staff at the secondary level; working with building principals in the improvement of individual staff competencies; observing and evaluating teachers; direct supervision of all teachers in the department; administering the programs and grants relevant to his or her curriculum area; assisting in the development, coordination and implementation of the budget as it pertains to curriculum and instruction; assisting in the recruitment, screening, hiring, training and assigning of instructional personnel; and providing periodic reports to the Board and superintendent on curriculum needs. Id.

> Certification as a principal > is required for any position that involves service as an administrative officer of a school or other comparable unit within a school or district. Such positions shall include assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, principal, assistant principal, vice-principal and director. Holders of this endorsement are authorized to direct the formulation of goals, plans, policies, budgets and personnel actions of the school or other comparable unit, to recommend them to the chief district administrator, and to direct their implementation in the school or other comparable unit. Holders of this endorsement also are authorized to direct and supervise all school operations and programs, to evaluate school staff, including teaching staff members pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.19 and 1.21, and to direct the activities of school-level supervisors.

N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(b)

The fact that the job description includes some duties not requiring certification as a principal does not alter the fact that it includes responsibilities for which such certification is required. Thus, given the facts herein, we find certification as a principal appropriate for employment as a director in this particular instance. Consequently, tenure in such assignments accrues in the position of "principal." Since the tenure laws designate "principal" as a separately tenurable position, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, Capodilupo, supra, the scope of petitioner's tenure in a supervisory position would not extend to the director's assignment at issue herein.

Nor does Dennery, supra, confer such a right. The Court in Dennery settled that tenure rights achieved under one certificate may not be "transferred" to a position under a different certificate in which the staff member had not accrued any relevant work experience. Tenure is achieved in a particular position, Capodilupo, supra, and neither Dennery nor the line of cases cited therein provide for tenure status achieved under the administrative certificate to encompass every separately tenurable position thereunder for which the staff member holds the appropriate certification, regardless of work experience.[4] Cf. Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993) (in decision rendered on the same day as Dennery, the Supreme Court observed that staff member had achieved tenure in the position of assistant superintendent and that his right to a preference in reemployment following a RIF was predicated on his status as a tenured assistant superintendent). Thus, notwithstanding petitioner's possession of a principal certification and the fact that the principal and supervisor endorsements are both issued under the administrative certificate, the tenure laws, as noted, expressly designate "principal" as a separately tenurable position. Since petitioner had not achieved tenure status in the "position" of principal, he had no entitlement by virtue of tenure to an assignment within that separately tenurable position.

---

[4] We note that Capodilupo, supra, and Bednar, supra, dealt with tenure rights achieved as the result of employment under the instructional certificate. (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 specifies "teacher" as a separately tenurable position.) Ellicott v. Board of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) involved the scope of tenure rights achieved by a staff member employed as a speech correctionist and learning disabilities teacher-consultant under the educational services certificate, in which only "school nurse" is specified by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 as a separately tenurable position.

While we conclude that petitioner had no entitlement to assignment as a director, we nonetheless find it necessary to clarify the Commissioner's assertion that awarding petitioner the controverted assignment "would result in anomalous circumstance of assistant principals having tenure rights to principal positions and principals having tenure rights to assistant superintendencies." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 11. No such rights can exist under the tenure laws. As previously noted, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which provides definition of the "position" in which tenure is achieved, expressly designates "assistant principal," "principal" and "assistant superintendent" as separately tenurable positions. If we had found petitioner to be entitled to the director's assignment in this instance, such a finding would indicate only that the scope of the "position" in which he had achieved tenure encompassed the particular assignment at issue.

We therefore affirm the ultimate determination of the Commissioner to dismiss the petition, but do so for the reasons expressed herein.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured teaching staff member, alleged Board reappointed her as teacher for 1992-93 school year and thus was entitled to her annual salary or, in the alternative, 60 days' pay effective September 1, 1992. Board contended no contract of employment existed.

ALJ concluded that a contract for employment had been formed and the Board's subsequent termination of petitioner technically constituted a breach but since petitioner would not have received her certification in English as a Second Language or Bilingual prior to the commencement of the school term on September 1, 1992, the Board had terminated her "for cause" and she was not entitled to 60 days' pay in lieu of notice.

Commissioner adopted initial decision with modification. Commissioner agreed with ALJ that a contract existed which the Board technically breached when it terminated petitioner. However, Commissioner found it unnecessary to reach a determination of whether Board's termination of petitioner was "for cause." Citing, N.J.E.A. v. Essex County Educational Services Commission, Commissioner found so long as notice of nonrenewal was provided by July 1 for contract containing 60 days' notice, there was no entitlement to 60 days' pay.

BEFORE RALPH J. TOLOMEO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Lisette R. Delgado claims that respondent, The Board of Education of the City of Union, reappointed her as a teacher for the 1992-93 school year and, therefore, is entitled to her annual salary for the same or, in the alternative, petitioner claims is entitled to 60 days pay effective September 1, 1992.

The respondent denies that any contract of employment exists and, further, denies any payment responsibility to petitioner.

As a result of events between the parties which transpired through the summer of 1992, petitioner, Lisette R. Delgado, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking compensation for her employment for the 1992-93 school year.

Respondent, Union City Board of Education (Board) answered denying any responsibility to petitioner.

The Department of Education forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on December 15, 1992. A prehearing conference was conducted and the matter was scheduled for hearing for May 4, 1993 at the Newark office of the Office of Administrative Law. On that date, the parties and their representatives appeared and a hearing was conducted. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties requested that they be permitted to file briefs. Such permission was granted, the last brief in this matter was received by the Office of Administrative Law on June 4, 1993 when the undersigned was on vacation. Upon the return of the undersigned on June 14, 1993, the record in this matter closed.

THE HEARING

At the hearing in this matter, petitioner testified on her own behalf. Respondent offered the testimony of Ms. Marilyn Impomeni, Ms. Barbara Beck and Superintendent Thomas Highton, all in the Board's employ.

Additionally, the parties offered documents which were received into evidence and marked Exhibits J-1 through J-21, R-1 through R-3 and P-1 and P-2.

From the testimony of the witnesses and a review of the documents, I FIND the following as FACT:

Lisette R. Delgado was initially employed by the Union City Board of Education (Board) for the 1990-91 school year. In August of 1990, petitioner was notified by letter that she had been hired by the Board and to notify the Board in the event that she chose not to accept employment. Two days later, the parties signed a written contract of employment.

During the 1990-91 school year, the petitioner was notified by the Board that she would not be rehired for the 1991-92 school year. However, in June of 1991, petitioner received a letter similar to the one received in 1990, indicating that she would be rehired unless she notified the school that she chose not to accept the position. Three weeks later, the parties signed a written contract.

In April of 1992, petitioner was informed that she would not be rehired for the 1992-93 school year. However, as in the previous two years, on June 4, 1992, petitioner received a letter informing her that she would be rehired unless she indicated that she did not wish to accept employment with the Board. This letter also advised petitioner of the time and date for reporting and the name of the individual to whom she should report on the first day of school. The letter also indicated that petitioner should make arrangements to complete all necessary paperwork and sign her contract. Petitioner never indicated that she was not interested in the position.

On June 19, 1992, the Board, by certified and regular mail addressed to the petitioner's post office box, notified petitioner that it was rescinding its offer and that the Board intended to take action in this regard at its meeting on June 25, 1992. On June 25, 1992, the Board terminated petitioner's employment, effective June 30, 1992. Petitioner testified that she never checked her post office box prior to June 25, 1992 and, as a result, was unaware of the Board's rescission notification. On June 25, 1992, petitioner went to the Board's office and attempted to sign her contract. The contract was never made available for her to sign.

When petitioner eventually learned of the Board's action, she requested from the Superintendent the reasons for her termination. The Board, through the Superintendent, explained that, among other things, petitioner was not properly certified. In contracts executed by the parties for the two prior school years, 1990-91 and 1991-92, petitioner agreed that she would obtain either a Bilingual or English as a Second Language Certificate within three years of her date of hire, subject to course availability (Exhibits J-2 and J-4). Superintendent Highton stated that he became aware that Ms. Delgado had not completed sufficient credits over the two year period to obtain such certification as required by the District. As such, if Ms. Delgado received a contract and commenced teaching on the first day of school, she would receive tenure without the requisite certification. Since the Union City School District has a large Spanish population, the certification is mandatory. Both Superintendent Highton and Ms. Delgado agreed that an emergency certification was approved for that year, 1991-92. Without a waiver, which Superintendent Highton indicated he was not willing to request since there was no guarantee that she would complete the course work required for certification, Ms. Delgado would be unable to teach the class as scheduled.

Ms. Delgado stated that she has an Elementary Teaching Certificate for grades K through 8 but has not completed sufficient course work for either her Bilingual or English as a Second Language Certificate. She took an incomplete for one course when she became hospitalized and, thereafter, received a second incomplete. Ms. Delgado believes that she needs six credits each year for her Bilingual Certificate, a total of 12 but only has six credits at the present time, six credits were described as incomplete. Ms. Delgado stated that she was able to teach in the previous years because the Board applied for a waiver of a Bilingual Certification requirement.

As a result of the above, petitioner claims that the Board's resolution of May 28, 1992, approving her reappointment for the 1992-93 school year, created an agreement binding upon the Board which they could not rescind. The Board contends that its letter of June 4, 1992, informing the petitioner that she would be rehired, was merely an offer which the petitioner did not accept prior to the Board's rescission mailed to her on June 19, 1992.

ISSUES PRESENTED

From the foregoing, the issues presented through the FACTS as FOUND and the arguments of the parties are:

1. Whether a non-tenured teacher may be reappointed, thereby acquiring vested rights, solely by virtue of a Board resolution approving her rehiring.

2. Whether an enforceable contract for employment exists between a non-tenured teacher and the school Board where the Board made an offer of employment which the teacher properly accepted by silence, but where the teacher was not properly certified.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

I REAPPOINTMENT BY RESOLUTION

The mere act of approving, by Board resolution, the reappointment of a non-tenured teacher does not create a binding contract for employment. While no teaching staff member may be appointed without a majority vote of the Board, a separate contract for employment is also required.[1]

Since there is no indication in this record that the Union City Board of Education promulgated specific rules governing employment contracts, this discussion proceeds on the assumption that the statutory provision applies herein. Hence, teaching appointments require both a Board resolution and an employment contract. This conclusion is supported by cases cited by petitioner. See Marshall v. Board of Ed. of North Arlington, 177 SLD 1220; Payne v. Board of Education of Verona, 1976 SLD 543; Moore v. Board of Ed. of Roselle, 1973 SLD 526; Hirsch v. Board of Education of Trenton, 1961 SLD 189.

In some jurisdictions, a valid and enforceable contract of employment requires appointment or election in the manner specified by statute and the execution of a contract in accordance with the provisions of the statute; both elements are equally vital and essential, 78 CJS Schools and School Districts § 187A (1952). The focus in the cases cited therein is as much upon the contractual aspect of the employment arrangement as on the requirement that Boards approve hiring by resolution.

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1 provides: no teaching staff member shall be appointed, except by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the Board of Education appointing him.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5 provides: every contract between the Board of Education which has not made rules governing such employment and any teaching staff member shall be in writing, in triplicate, signed by the President and Secretary of the Board of Education and by such person.

Except insofar as controlled by the constitutions or statutes, the making, requisites, and validity of a contract of employment of a teacher in the public schools are governed by the rules relating to contracts generally. As in the case of other contracts, there must be an offer and acceptance of employment. The vote of the school Board in favor of employing the certain person as a teacher usually amounts to an offer of employment when officially communicated to the teacher which the Board may revoke or cancel at any time before acceptance. Such vote does not constitute a contract of employment of such person, but, in the absence of a statute requiring further acts, a contract of employment comes into existence on the teacher's acceptance of the offer. CJS, supra.

The central issue in this matter is whether the petitioner accepted the Board's offer of employment. New Jersey does not have a controlling statute. The signed written contract requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5 would seem to obviate any discussion of general contract principles regarding offer and acceptance. Under the statute, the presence of these contractual elements can only be demonstrated by an express written agreement signed by the parties. However, decisions in this area demonstrate the Commissioner's willingness to extend contractual protection to teachers even the absence of the written agreement. For example, in Marshall supra, where a teaching staff member was notified by letter that the North Arlington Board of Education approved his employment and where the teacher accepted said employment, the Commissioner held that the Board's rescission was a breach of a firm contractual commitment. The Commissioner found that the Board's offer, by way of notification of the Board's approval of Marshall's rehiring, and Marshall's acceptance, albeit by silence, were sufficient to create an agreement binding upon the Board.

> "There was an acceptance to be found in the circumstances and in the understanding of the parties." Marshall, supra, at 1222.

In Hirsch, supra, where a teacher accepted employment immediately after notice of appointment, the Commissioner found that the Superintendent's subsequent letter of rescission was too late. Hirsch, supra, at 190-91. However, in Lydon v. Board of Education of Hillsboro, 1985 SLD 1439, it was held that a teacher's acceptance must be in writing. Additionally, where a written contract was signed by the teacher and the Board's Secretary but not the President, the Commissioner was willing to grant the teacher full contractual rights under the partially executed document.[2]

In the instant case, under "the circumstances and understanding of the parties" petitioner's silence constitutes acceptance. Silence in the face of an offer is not an acceptance, unless there is a relationship between the parties or a previous course of dealing pursuant to which silence would be understood as acceptance. John H. Jackson, Contract Law in Modern Society, section 5.3 (1973).

Given the previous dealings of the parties, silence may reasonably be understood as acceptance. In two prior years, the Board notified petitioner of her rehiring and requested that she notify the Board only if she chose not to accept the position. Usually, sometime later, by arrangements made at the convenience of the parties, they would sign a contract.

In this matter, the Board asserts that it revoked or rescinded its offer prior to any attempt by petitioner to accept.

While a revocation is effective only upon receipt, "a written revocation is received when it is deposited in an authorized place." Murray on Contracts, supra, section 42B. "A person receives a notice or notification when . . . it is duly delivered at the place . . . held out by him as the place for receipt of such communications." N.J.S.A. 12A:1-201(26)(b). Presumably, petitioner's post office box is such a place.

[2]There is an important distinction between the reasoning in these decisions and petitioner's claim that a contract arises immediately upon approval by the Board. In the cases cited, there is an understanding and expectation among the parties created by the Board's notification of approval of rehiring and some sort of assent manifested by the teacher. In these instances, the Commissioner has recognized contractual obligations before the full execution of a formal written agreement but after the Board's resolution to rehire, as long as there has been a manifestation of offer and acceptance. Essentially, these cases fall mid-point between the positions taken by the petitioner and the Board.

Petitioner is deemed to have received the revocation upon its delivery to her post office box.

However, because the Board, as the offeror, created the power of acceptance by silence, it is the petitioner who determines whether or not she intended to be bound by the contract prior to her receipt of the revocation. Ambiguity regarding the manner of acceptance should be resolved in favor of petitioner because, as the master of the offer, the Board created the predicament in which it now finds itself. Seal Tite Corp. v. Ehret, Inc., 589 Fed. Supp. 701 (DNJ 1984).

It is clear not only from her testimony but from the record in this matter that petitioner intended her silence to indicate her acceptance of the Board's offer of employment. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that a contract for employment was formed and the Board's subsequent termination of petitioner technically constituted a breach.

II CERTIFICATION AND DAMAGES

Damages are usually awarded when there is a finding that the Board acted in an arbitrary or capricious manner and may include payment for the entire contract. Marshall, supra; Payne, supra; Moore, supra and Hirsch, supra. Damages pursuant to the 60 day termination clause may be awarded if the Board failed to notify a non-tenured teacher prior to April 30 that she will not be rehired for the following school year and the teacher then submits a written acceptance by June 1 which the Board fails to honor. Armstrong v. Board of Ed. of East Brunswick, 1975 SLD 117; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, 11 and 12.

However, as a general rule, a teacher who is improperly removed or dismissed may only recover damages if they "have in their possession, or on file with the proper Board or Officer, a license or certificate of his qualifications as prescribed by law . . ." C.J.S., supra at section 210a.

N.J.S.A. 18A:27-2 provides:

> Any contract or engagement of any teaching staff member, shall cease and determine whenever the employing Board of Education shall ascertain by written notice received from the > County or City Superintendent of Schools, or in any other manner, that such person is not, or has ceased to be, the holder of an appropriate certificate required by this title for such employment, notwithstanding that the term of such employment shall not then have expired.

A contract for the employment of a teacher who is not properly certified as required by statute is void. In only one case has the Commissioner held that the Board should have waived its certification requirement and issued emergency certification to a teacher whose contract the Board rescinded for lack of certification. Hirsch, supra. However, the facts of that case are distinguishable from the instant matter in that Hirsch had never before been issued emergency certification and he was otherwise in possession of the appropriate "credentials," even though he had not yet obtained the actual certificate.

In this matter, the testimony of Superintendent Highton and petitioner clearly establishes that petitioner would not have received her certification in English as a Second Language or Bilingual prior to the commencement of the school term on September 1, 1992. I so FIND.

Although it is not absolutely clear whether the "contract" accepted by petitioner included a 60 day termination clause, from past contracts and the history of this matter, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner was agreeing to the same terms and conditions of previous contracts, including the "60 day clause." N.J.S A. 18A:27-11. However, where the termination was for "good cause" and it was the petitioner who rendered her contract impossible of performance, the contractual claim to 60 days termination pay is forfeited. Cheston v. Board of Education of Cherry Hill, 1979 SLD 262.

CONCLUSION

From the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board would have been bound by an enforceable contract whereby the petitioner would have been entitled to damages but for the fact that she was not properly certified. I CONCLUDE that any employment agreement with the petitioner, including the fully executed contract, is void by reason of her non-certification.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's claims as stated herein be and are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

LISETTE R. DELGADO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioner excepts, inter alia, to the ALJ's conclusion that she is not entitled to 60 days pay in lieu of proper notice of termination because the Board terminated her contract "for cause." She contends that this conclusion is not supported by the record in that the Board's resolution approving the termination of her contract provides no rationale of any kind for her termination. She further argues that the "cause" posited by the ALJ, i.e., that she would not have received permanent certification in English as a Second Language or Bilingual Education prior to the start of the 1992-93 school year, is incorrect since she was never under any obligation to receive such permanent certification by that time. Petitioner argues that the contracts she signed for the 1990-91 and 1991-92 school years specified that she had three years from the date of her initial hire, or until August 1993, to obtain this certification.

The Board's exceptions essentially reiterate its assertion that no contractual relationship existed between it and the petitioner.

Upon a full review of the record in this matter, with the exception of one modification discussed below, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's succinct and accurate discussion of the law and issues implicated herein.

The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's finding that there was a contract between the Board and petitioner for the reasons clearly articulated by him on pages 5-8 of the initial decision. She likewise agrees that the Board technically breached this contract when it subsequently terminated petitioner. The Commissioner, however, finds it unnecessary to reach the issue of whether such termination by the Board was "for cause" as petitioner's claim of entitlement to 60 days' pay in lieu of notice is fully resolved by what the Commissioner determines is the controlling case in this matter, namely, New Jersey Education Association v. Essex County Educational Services Commission v. Board of Trustees, Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, 1984 S.L.D. 420, aff'd State Board 1985 S.L.D. 1976, aff'd New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, April 30, 1986. That case ruled that so long as notice of nonrenewal is provided by July 1 for contracts containing 60 days' notice, there is no entitlement to 60 days' pay. (See also Jo Ann Holmes and Sharon Romanoski v. Board of Education of the Township of Springfield, 1991 S.L.D. 1369.) Thus, given that petitioner in this matter was provided notice of termination on June 19, 1992, the relief she seeks must be denied irrespective of the reason(s) for her termination.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the decision of the Office of Administrative Law, as modified herein, and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF RICHARD COX, STATE- : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE : DECISION
CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

State-operated school district certified charges of neglect, misbehavior and insubordination against tenured chief school custodian based on respondent's failure to adequately perform cleaning tasks, secure building, submit work schedules and notify supervisors of absences and based on a pattern of absences on or after paydays.

ALJ found respondent guilty of misbehavior, neglect and insubordination related to his failure to properly discharge cleaning duties and certain charges related to absences. While ALJ found respondent should not continue as chief custodian, ALJ also found respondent should not be dismissed. Respondent was ordered suspended for six months and reduced in position to that of custodian.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision with respect to charges, but modified penalty to be imposed. Commissioner concurred with ALJ's finding that respondent violated public trust by inadequately performing his duties as chief custodian. However, Commissioner disagreed with ALJ that respondent was not proven unfit to hold position of custodian. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from tenured employment in the district.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

This matter involves a hearing pursuant to the Tenure Employees Hearing Act charging respondent, a tenured chief custodian employed by the Paterson School District, with neglect, misbehavior and insubordination. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 6, 1992 for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned administrative law judge (ALJ) on March 20, 1992, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for April 21, 1992. The scheduled telephone prehearing conference was adjourned because of the unavailability of the attorney for respondent, and the matter was rescheduled for a telephone prehearing conference to be held on May 14, 1992. On that date, a telephone prehearing conference was concluded and a Prehearing Order was entered settling the procedures to be followed. The matter was scheduled for hearing on November 19 and 20, 1992. When the matter could not be concluded after two days of hearings, the hearing was continued and rescheduled for January 25 and 26, 1993. The hearing was concluded on January 25, 1993. However, the attorneys requested that the record remain open to permit the submission of written closing arguments. Following the submission of written closing arguments and responses, the record closed on April 1, 1993.

STATEMENT OF CHARGES

The Statement of Charges against respondent in this matter are as follows:

First Charge

During the 1989-90, 1990-91, and 1991-92 school years, Mr. Cox has repeatedly failed to ensure that the school building is properly cleaned on a daily basis despite numerous follow-up requests by the building principal and other staff. His repeated failure to ensure that the cleaning is performed constitutes neglect and insubordination.

Second Charge

During the 1989-90, 1990-91, and 1991-92 school years, Mr. Cox has on numerous occasions failed to properly secure the building pursuant to the instructions of his supervisors, thereby endangering the safety and well-being of the children and staff in the school building. His conduct constitutes misbehavior, neglect and insubordination.

Third Charge

During the 1989-90, 1990-91, and 1991-92 school years, Mr. Cox has on numerous occasions displayed conduct constituting insubordination as he has failed to comply with valid and reasonable directives of the principal. This conduct is evidenced by Mr. Cox's leaving a door open in direct contravention of the orders of the building principal and Mr. Cox's failure to ensure the proper cleaning of the building in spite of numerous requests.

Fourth Charge

On numerous occasions Mr. Cox has demonstrated neglect of the duties of his office. This neglect is evidence by his failure to submit written evaluations in a timely manner, his pattern of absenteeism, and his failure to submit vacation schedules in a timely manner.

Fifth Charge

Mr. Cox has demonstrated conduct constituting misbehavior by informing the school building office that he would be out "sick" after his workday began and then proceeding to meet with another member of his association and preparing a grievance against the principal. This abuse of sick leave constitutes misbehavior.

Sixth Charge

Mr. Cox has left his job before his workday was scheduled to end without any notification of the administration. This conduct constituted misbehavior and neglect of his duties.

Seventh Charge

The Seventh Charge was withdrawn and dismissed by petitioner at the hearing.

STATEMENT OF ISSUES

Based upon the Statement of Charges in this matter, a summary of the issues to be resolved in this matter are:

1. Whether respondent repeatedly failed to properly clean a school building on a daily basis despite numerous follow-up requests by the school building and other staff?

2. Whether respondent failed to properly secure the school building pursuant to the instructions of his supervisors, thereby endangering the safety and well being of the children and staff in the school building?

3. Whether respondent displayed conduct constituting insubordination on numerous occasions by failing to comply with valid and reasonable directives of the school principal as evidenced by his leaving a door open in direct contravention of the orders of the building principal and by his failure to ensure the proper cleaning of the building in spite of numerous requests?

4. Whether respondent has demonstrated neglect of the duties of his office as evidenced by his failure to submit written evaluations in a timely manner, his pattern of absenteeism and his failure to submit vacation schedules in a timely manner?

5. Whether respondent has abused his sick leave, and as a result has demonstrated conduct constituting misbehavior by informing the school building office that he would be out sick after his workday began and then proceeding to meet with another member of his association and preparing a grievance against the principal?

6. Whether respondent left his job duties before his workday was scheduled to end without notification of the administration?

7. Whether the foregoing alleged conduct, if engaged in by respondent, constitutes neglect of duties, insubordination and/or misbehavior as alleged in the respective charges?

8. Whether the foregoing alleged conduct, if engaged in by respondent, is a sufficient basis for removal or other disciplinary action against respondent?

9. Whether these tenure charges are in retaliation for respondent's refusal to falsely and negatively evaluate another custodian at the demand of the building principal?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

With respect to the Statement of Charges, petitioner produced the following witnesses.

Sandra Monteagudo, a first grade bilingual teacher, testified that in school year 1989-1990 she was assigned to one of the portable classrooms. She testified that this was a mobile home type classroom. Another teacher assigned to the other classroom in the portable was Mrs. Sanchez who taught kindergarten. The portable consisted of the two classrooms and two bathrooms. She observed the cleanliness of the classrooms and testified that while the garbage was always picked up, the floors were always dirty and were not mopped. In addition, she indicated that the bathrooms always had plumbing problems and they always smelled like urine.

Ms. Monteagudo testified that she never spoke to anyone about the condition of the bathrooms and classrooms. She testified that she brought her own supplies and cleaned the classroom each day using a bucket and Pine Sol. She also testified that her children would sweep the floors. She indicated that she took these steps because the children ate their lunch in the classrooms. She also indicated that she did not feel it was a teacher's responsibility to clean classrooms.

On cross-examination, Ms. Monteagudo testified that the custodians cleaned either before or after class but never during class. She indicated she never complained either to Mr. Cox or to anyone else about the dirty classroom. She never requested that someone mop the floors and the building principal never spoke to her about the cleanliness of the classroom.

On redirect, Ms. Monteagudo testified that she would clean the classroom upon her arrival in the morning and would sometimes ask the children to sweep the floor. She only recalls that the floors were wiped and spotless the week after Easter. However, the floors looked more dirty than ever by the end of the week. She also testified that she observed the floor being dirty 60 or 65 percent of the time or 2 or 3 days per week.

On recross-examination, Ms. Monteagudo testified that if the floor had been mopped, it was not mopped properly. She also indicated that the portable classroom unit was very old, the roof always leaked water when it rained and that there were plumbing problems. She also indicated that she sometimes observed dust, and that sometimes crayons and paper that had been dropped by children one day were still on the floor the next day.

Gloria Bennett testified that in 1990-1991 school year she was the first grade bilingual teacher in the portable classroom. She testified that she saw the respondent five or six times during the school year. Occasionally she saw him empty the garbage cans, mop the bathroom and also mop up when a child became sick. She testified that she saw respondent mop the bathroom three times but she never saw him dusting the classroom.

Ms. Bennett testified that she always paid attention to the cleanliness of the classroom and indicated that she could tell when the room had not been swept, because items that had been left on the floor the previous night remained there. Examples of this were paper cuttings. She indicated that at least two times per week she would observe the floors not having been swept and she would sweep up. She indicated that she observed the floor every day. The floors had been swept many times but many other times it had not been swept. She also indicated it was very easy to see if the floors had been mopped because the floors were white. She observed that they were mopped approximately two times per week.

Ms. Bennett testified that she spoke to the building principal concerning the cleanliness of the classroom and placed her concerns in a letter, dated January 5, 1990 (P-1).

Ms. Bennett testified that she was assigned to the portable classroom two full years for school years 1989-1990 and 1990-1991 and that her observations applied to both years. She indicated that when the problem of lack of cleanliness became too excessive it caused her to write the letter of January 5, 1990. After the letter she noticed some improvement and she had to sweep less often, and she saw respondent a couple of times per week. However, many times debris left on the floor remained there the next day. She also indicated that there were roaches in the bathroom and closet.

On cross-examination, Ms. Bennett testified that Ms. Monteagudo took over the portable first grade in school year 1991-1992. She indicated that the portable classroom looked very old and that she often observed water on the floor. She indicated that the classroom floor was not swept at least two times per week and sometimes more. She also indicated that many times the respondent cleaned the classroom while the children were still there. She made it clear that she was not saying that the room was never swept or mopped.

Margaret Turco testified that she was assigned to the portable classroom for school year 1991-1992. She indicated that she was aware that respondent was assigned to clean the portable classrooms because if she called because of a problem during the day respondent would be sent. She testified that she observed the cleanliness of the portable classroom on a daily basis. She also took steps to see that her students carried out certain responsibilities in the classrooms such as washing the blackboards and keeping the shelves neat. She indicated that she never had to clean the floor and never required her students to sweep the floor, unless something unusual were spilled. She indicated she never made any observations to determine whether the floor in the portable classroom had been mopped or swept.

Ms. Turco testified that in the 1990-1991 school year, she had occasion to go to the bathrooms on the second floor. She indicated that from 1985, when she was first assigned to the school, the boys' bathrooms smelled terribly with a foul odor.

Paula Santana, principal of school #11 testified that respondent was employed at the school as chief custodian and that he started at the same time as her, which was July, 1988.

Ms. Santana testified that respondent was responsible for opening the schools in the morning and locking them in the evening, making sure the heat was on and that the rooms were clean. He was also responsible for cleaning the snow in the playgrounds and was obligated to keep the school nice and clean. She indicated that respondent reported to her as the building administrator and that there were two additional custodians under respondent's supervision.

Ms. Santana testified that respondent had supervisory duties of the other custodians and was responsible for cleaning the portable classrooms and the second floor. As the supervisor of the other custodians he was to assure that the cleaning was done and was to check the cleaning of the school every single day. Ms. Santana testified that the list of custodial work distribution (P-2) was provided to her by Mr. Ruiz, who went over it with Mr. Cox.

Ms. Santana testified that she again discussed with respondent his responsibilities in November, 1990, and the discussion concerned that respondent was responsible for the portable classrooms, the second floor, the nurse's room and the second floor bathrooms. She indicated the discussion occurred because she kept receiving complaints from Mrs. Turco and Mrs. Young about the cleanliness of the portable classrooms as well as from Ms. Monteagudo and Mrs. Sanchez. She indicated that Mrs. Sanchez said she was bringing her own utensils to clean. In addition, Ms. Bennett complained and Pamela Puglia a teachers aide for Ms. Sanchez made a written complaint (P-3).

Ms. Santana testified that she first discussed respondent's responsibilities with him in August, 1987 when she made an inspection of the school and found it was not ready to open in September. Respondent said to her that there was no problem and that he would take care of it. She indicated that when she came back to make sure everything was ready, she found it not ready. Garbage bags were around, and the rooms were not fairly clean. When she told respondent of this and indicated that if he was not aware of his responsibilities she would call Mr. Milone, his supervisor, respondent said to her "so what - call him." She then called Mr. Milone and he arranged to have someone meet with respondent. Mr. Erving Ruiz, assistant supervisor in the custodial department met with respondent and advised respondent of his duties.

Ms. Santana testified that when school opened in September, 1988, the custodial functions were not being performed, rooms were not fairly cleaned and garbage remained. She met with respondent and pointed out that the classrooms were still uncleaned and that the garbage was being placed in the corridor behind the smoke doors. After this, her requests were somewhat complied with but the rooms were not cleaned immediately. In addition, it took some time for respondent to take out the garbage.

Ms. Santana testified that she established her own routine. She would come in at 7 a.m., checked all portions of the school, the portables and the playgrounds. At the end of October and beginning of November, 1988, she found the portables to be dirty with the dirt visible on the tiles and the bathrooms, the bathrooms smelling and the bathroom mirrors not cleaned. She found the tiles in the portable bathrooms to be in deplorable condition. She discussed this with respondent and told him that he should do the cleaning correctly and that she needed the portables clean for the children. She indicated that in response, respondent shrugged his shoulders and said "yeah." Ms. Santana testified that she discussed the portable classrooms with respondent every time she inspected them or received a complaint from the staff. She indicated that there was an ongoing discussion about the portables.

Ms. Santana testified that she inspected the portable classrooms daily and found the floors dirty three or four days out of the five days in the week. She indicated that there was no evidence that the floors had been mopped. In addition, the floors had not been dusted and bits of papers dropped by the students remained there. She instructed respondent to dust and mop and he responded that he was doing so. However, there was no evidence that respondent was dusting or mopping these floors. She testified that for subsequent school years her observations did not differ.

As a result of respondent's failure to clean, she requested help from the central office. This help was provided by Benjamin Clanton and Erving Ruiz/

With regard to the nurse's office, Ms. Santana testified that she observed the garbage not being taken out, the bathroom not clean and the floor not clean. The nurse, Ms. Dorothy Hopko, told her that spots remained on the floor from bloody noses, etc. Ms. Santana testified that she visited the nurse's office as part of her daily routine and discussed the need to keep the nurse's office clean with respondent. Again the respondent shrugged his shoulders and said it was being done.

Ms. Santana testified that she continued her observations of the nurse's office for school years 1990-1991 and 1991-1992, and that they remained the same. The school nurse continued to complain and there was no change in her complaints.

Ms. Santana testified with respect to the second floor bathrooms. She indicated that she observed them on a daily basis. At the beginning of the school year 1988, the boys' bathroom was acceptable. However, by November and December, 1988, the smell from the boys' bathroom came out into the corridor. She instructed respondent to clean it thoroughly on a daily basis. In response respondent shrugged his shoulders and said it was being done. She observed that when respondent felt like cleaning he would do so. Ms. Santana testified that she still noticed the smell coming from the boys' bathroom on some days when the cleaning was not done. The observations she made in school year 1989-1990, continued for school year 1990-1991, and 1991-1992. She smelled the odor from the boys' bathroom three out of five days.

With respect to the girls' bathroom on the second floor, her observations in all three years were that the garbage cans were not emptied, the walls were not cleaned, and paper was found on the floor. These observations were made in the morning. Ms. Santana testified that she met with respondent and told him that this bathroom was his responsibility and that he should clean it in the early morning or late afternoon before he left. However, she saw no change in the cleanliness of the bathroom.

Ms. Santana testified that her observations of the cafeteria during this entire period showed that the floors were not cleaned or that they had been mopped with dirty water. She indicated that unless it was brought to respondent's attention, he would not clean the cooking or serving areas. Despite her complaints to respondent, she saw no changes in the cleanliness of the cafeteria. Mrs. Tolliver, the cook-manager of the cafeteria told Ms. Santana that the cafeteria was not being cleaned and that if it was not the school would be fined by the health department. Ms. Santana indicated that on occasion the health department came to inspect the cafeteria and on these occasions she gave respondent directives to clean the cafeteria and it was done. As a result, on October 19, 1991, she was required to notify respondent of the necessity to clean the cafeteria as well as the library and the bathrooms on the second and third floors (P-5).

Ms. Santana testified with respect to the outside grounds. She explained that respondent and another custodian, Mr. Ortega, were required to clean the glass and other debris in the playground each morning. During school year 1988-1989, Ms. Santana testified that she observed the outside grounds on a daily basis. She testified that the smell was terrible and that it had been used as an outhouse by drug addicts. She indicated there was a great deal of broken glass on the playground as well as other debris including broken beer bottles and needles. She testified that the debris in the playground was somewhat picked up by the custodial staff, but if it was close to the fence it was ignored. She observed that glass was not picked up on a daily basis and that beer bottles were left in the playground three to four times per week until she specifically directed their removal. Her observations remained the same for school years 1990-1991, and 1991-1992. She indicated she gave the same instructions to respondent and that on occasion debris would be removed and other times it would not. Ms. Santana indicated that she discussed this situation with respondent three to four times each week. She explained that there is no gymnasium in the school and that the playground must be used as a gym. For safety purposes it needed to be clean, free of glass, needles and debris.

Ms. Santana testified that the custodian's room is located in the basement and contains a file cabinet, a desk for the chief custodian, a chair, and a rolling cart. The boiler room is adjacent. She testified that the custodian's room was not kept in an orderly manner, that it was not cleaned, that items were just thrown about and that there was no system for storage of items whatsoever. Ms. Santana testified that she discussed this with respondent and told him that it should be cleaned up because it gives a very bad impression. However, it was not.

With regard to the charge of insubordination, Ms. Santana testified that on October 28, 1991, she instructed respondent to clean and check the bathrooms three or four times each day. Ms. Santana testified that respondent responded to her that he had tried to clean the bathrooms and that if she wanted them clean she should clean them herself. As a result, Ms. Santana directed a memorandum addressed to respondent reporting this alleged insubordination (P-6).

Ms. Santana also reported that on May 8, 1991, a custodian, Mr. Ortega, who was responsible for cleaning the first floor rooms was absent. However, neither respondent nor the other custodian emptied the garbage or otherwise cleaned any of the classrooms assigned to Mr. Ortega. As a result a staff noncompliance letter, dated May 9, 1991, (P-4) was sent to respondent.

Ms. Santana testified that she contacted Mr. Lewis Milone and recommended that respondent either be transferred or terminated. As a result, Mr. Clanton was involved with respondent in school years 1990-1991, and 1991-1992 and held discussions with respondent around eight or twelve times to resolve this situation. Ms. Santana testified that she was present at five of these meetings and discussed the situation with Mr. Clanton. She indicated that Mr. Clanton stated that respondent was not cleaning the school properly and the deficiencies were pointed out to respondent by walking around the school with him.

Ms. Santana testified with respect to the failure of respondent to secure the doors to the school. She explained that School No. 11 is located at 350 Market Street at the corner of Summer Street and that it was a predominantly drug-infested area when she was first assigned to the school. She indicated that drug activities had been minimized in the meantime. The main entrance to School No. 11 is on Market Street. She explained that there is another door at Summer Street and another on Morton Street. The custodial door is on the Morton Street side and the garbage is taken out through the custodial door.

The policy of the school which was adopted for security purposes was that the Market Street entrance was the only entrance to be used to the school. She indicated that the chief custodian is responsible to open the school doors in the morning and to lock them in the evening. Ms. Santana testified that she gave respondent directives that she wanted the doors locked at all times and that she wanted no staff members entering or exiting the building other than through the Market Street entrance. Her assessment was that her directives were not being carried out by respondent. She indicated she announced the policy over the intercoms, placed it in writing and announced it at staff meetings. She also indicated that she told respondent herself at the time she became acting principal that she wanted no doors open other than the Market Street entrance. Despite this, Ms. Santana testified that she observed other door opened in October, 1988, of the year she was acting principal. She observed the custodial door as being opened and saw it opened during recesses. She then spoke to respondent and told him she did not want that door opened at any time because of her concern for the safety of the students, the staff and herself. However, she personally saw it opened again.

Ms. Santana testified that as a result of this, she sent a letter to Mr. Louis Milone, Supervisor of Maintenance, on May 25, 1990 (P-8), advising him of the failure of respondent to comply with this policy. She also sent a letter to Mr. Joseph Atallo, Acting Business Administrator of the school district on May 30, 1990 (P-9), advising him of the situation.

Ms. Santana testified that a meeting was held with Mr. Cox, Mr. Milone, Mr. Atallo, Mr. Kline and herself in June 1990. A general discussion occurred concerning respondent adhering to the directives from the building administrator and about keeping the custodial doors locked for the safety of everyone in the building. In response, respondent indicated that he would speak to the other custodians and that he would make sure that the door was not opened again.

Ms. Santana also testified that she directed respondent to lock and chain the security gates located at each entrance each evening and unlock them in the morning. However, she indicated respondent failed to fulfill his responsibilities with regard to the opening and closing of the gates. She testified that she found both gates locked in the morning. She indicated that the problem with this is that the doors are used in case of a fire as a means for exiting the building. Specifically, on May 16, 1991, she issued a staff noncompliance notice to respondent (P-12) indicating respondent's failure to unlock both gates to the school.

On another issue, Ms. Santana testified that respondent was responsible for coordinating the vacation schedules for the custodians. This required that respondent work out and give a vacation schedule to Mr. Milone and Ms. Santana in advance of the Christmas, Easter and summer vacations. With respect to the Christmas, 1989, vacation schedule, Ms. Santana indicated that on December 18, 1989, she told respondent that she would need to see the work schedule for the Christmas vacation for his staff. The schedule was placed in her mailbox by the secretary to the principal on December 20, 1989 (P-13). However, respondent failed to confer with her, failed to submit a copy to her for her approval and submitted it directly to Mr. Milone. She indicated that the schedule should have been submitted to her first and that respondent failed to comply with her requirements regarding submission of the vacation schedule. Ms. Santana explained that as the building administrator, one of her responsibilities is to know who is going to be in the building in case she needs to come inside or to know what is going on there. In addition, she needs to know who is carrying out the cleaning of the building. She also indicated that during vacations the custodians are required to clean the classrooms and touch-up what is needed to be done. She further testified that respondent failed to submit vacation schedules for Easter and the summer to her. Ms. Santana also identified a letter sent by her to Mr. Milone on July 2, 1990, indicating that she had not received the summer work schedules for the custodial staff as of that date (P-15).

Ms. Santana also testified that she advised respondent of a policy he was to follow when he was going to be out due to illness. She directed respondent to contact her at School No. 11 and advise her if he was going to be out for the day. If he knew in advance that he was taking a day off he was to let her know personally Respondent failed to comply with this policy. She specifically recalled instances when respondent would come to school and leave a note on her secretary's desk indicating that he was taking a sick day or would be out. She referred to a staff noncompliance notice dated November 1, 1991, on which date respondent called the School's main office at 8:10 a.m. that he was going to be out sick (P-18). On that occasion, respondent reported his absence to the secretary rather than to Ms. Santana. In addition, she also instructed respondent to call her between 7 and 7:30 a.m. since she was present by 7 a.m. Ms. Santana explained that she was advised she would be able to contact Mr. Milone at that hour in order to ensure that another employee would be sent to assist the other custodians and to have someone in the building with a boiler's license.

Ms. Santana testified as to respondent's absence on October 31, 1991. She testified that she subsequently learned that on that date, the respondent had gone to Mr. Mike Cortese in order to file a grievance against her. She learned that because respondent went to see Mr. Milone to obtain his paycheck and that Mr. Milone advised respondent that he had to get his check at the school. Mr. Milone was unaware that respondent was not working that day. Respondent then proceeded to see Mr. Mike Cortese, President of his Union. Ms. Santana identified a grievance submitted to Mr. Milone by respondent through Mr. Cortese, dated October 31, 1991 (P-7).

Ms. Santana testified that during the regular school year respondent was required to work from 6:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with one hour for lunch. Summer hours were from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. with one hour for lunch. Ms. Santana testified that she was aware on one day respondent did not work until the 4 p.m. summer hour. She saw another custodian, Mr. Azar at 1:30 or 2 p.m. and asked where respondent was. Mr. Azar said that respondent had left for the day. When she inquired of the school secretary as to whether respondent had reported his leaving, the secretary was unaware that respondent had left. As a result, Ms. Santana directed a letter to Mr. Milone, dated June 28, 1991 (P-19). Ms. Santana testified that on the next day she gave a copy to respondent and she inquired as to why he left early and whether he was aware of the procedure to call-in. She indicated that respondent merely shrugged.

Ms. Santana testified that she performed an evaluation of respondent on June 6, 1990. She indicated that if the other custodians under respondent's supervision did not wish to perform an assignment, respondent would simply ignore it. In addition, he failed to follow-through with repairs and failed to order supplies. She indicated that respondent did not comprehend his responsibilities or carry them out and that his attitude was "you can't tell me what to do". With respect to absenteeism, Ms. Santana indicated that every pay day respondent was out and that he would only come in to pick up his check.

On cross-examination, Ms. Santana indicated that she was not pleased with the performance of another custodian, Samir Azar. She requested that he be either transferred or terminated. She indicated that he is now serving as a chief custodian in another school.

Ms. Santana also testified that the assistant supervisor of respondent was Mr. Ruiz who appeared at the school to observe and direct respondent one to three times each week. However, Mr. Ruiz never submitted any documentation of his observations or directions to Ms.Santana.

When Ms. Santana was questioned concerning her evaluation of respondent of September 26, 1989 (R-1), she indicated that this evaluation was not too bad. She explained that at the time she was trying to work with respondent and she felt that he was trying to improve, so she gave him the benefit of the doubt. She indicated that she collaborated on this evaluation with Mr. Ruiz. Respondent was very cooperative with her during September, 1989, so she gave him a positive evaluation as an incentive and as motivation. They were both new to the building and she was trying to work with him. Even though she was not satisfied with the cleanliness at the beginning, she gave a satisfactory evaluation. She indicated that this evaluation was not entirely truthful but was given in order to work with respondent.

The evaluation of March 11, 1991, (R-2) was done by Mr. Milone with the typewritten portion of the evaluation being the comments of Ms. Santana. In this evaluation, Ms. Santana indicated that another custodian, Mr. Ortega, was doing all of the work because respondent and Mr. Azar could never be found. That was the purpose behind the second sentence in the comments. With respect to defying his directives, this referred to Mr. Azar regarding the unlocking of the custodian's door. She indicated that she did not feel that Mr. Milone inquired of her as to whether respondent was doing his job properly with respect to the specific matters evaluated by letter grades.

Ms. Santana indicated that the school district was taken over by the State so that she did no evaluations for 1991-1992 school year.

Ms. Santana indicated that she prepared the charges regarding respondent's attendance pattern. He was usually absent on pay day or the day after a pay day. This pattern of absences started in school year 1989-1990 and continued in school years 1990-1991 and 1991-1992.

Ms. Santana indicated that she wrote the letter of December 20, 1989, to Mr. Milone (P-13) because she wanted to review the vacation schedules with respondent in order to see when the custodians would be in the building.

Ms. Santana admitted that she differed with respondent concerning his evaluation of Mr. Azar. However, she denies telling respondent to negatively evaluate Mr. Azar. She admitted telling Mr. Azar that if he did not adhere to directives and properly clean the building that she would see that he was transferred or terminated.

Ms. Santana testified that respondent came in to the school building on October 31, 1991 to pick up his check. On redirect examination, Ms. Santana corrected her prior testimony by clarifying that she started at School No. 11 in 1989 (P-21) and that respondent was first under her supervision at the end of August, 1989.

Benjamin Clanton, Assistant Supervisor of Custodial Services, testified as to this matter. He indicated that as Assistant Supervisor he checks the various schools, assesses the work of the chief custodian, assigns workloads, checks time books and checks the cleanliness of school buildings. He is familiar with respondent and he indicated that he was sent in by Mr. Milone at the request of Ms. Santana to check respondent's work. He indicated that he was first sent in to check in either school year 1989-1990 or early in school year 1990-1991. Mr. Milone was getting complaints from Ms. Santana, and Mr. Milone requested that Mr. Clanton accompany Mr. Ruiz to School No. 11. He explained that Mr. Ruiz is no longer a supervisor and that he is presently the custodian in School No. 29.

On his first observation, he met with respondent, the custodial staff and Ms. Santana and took a walking tour of the school. He checked the staircases, bathrooms, cafeteria, halls and other areas and Ms. Santana pointed out areas that she was not satisfied with. He agreed with Ms. Santana that the areas were not cleaned the way they should be. The bathrooms on the second floor contained graffiti on the tiles and the sinks were not clean. Grafitti was found on the staircases. The cafeteria floor had been mopped but was not clean. With regard to the two bathrooms, the boys' rooms sinks and the bases of toilet bowls were not clean. The sinks and mirrors were not washed. He felt that not enough attention had been given to the cleaning of the toilet bowls and they had water rings. Overall, they were found not to be satisfactory. The baseboards were dirty and streaky. This indicated that they had been cleaned but this had not been done properly or had been done hastily.

Mr. Clanton testified that the cafeteria floors were not thoroughly mopped or had not been mopped properly. He touched the cafeteria floor and it seemed filmy. He indicated that he should not have gotten a filmy feeling.

On the outside of the school he found some glass and garbage in the playground areas.

He visited School No. 11 two or three weeks after this first visit. Usually his visits were because Ms. Santana had called complaining about respondent. On these visits and inspections he usually commented to respondent advising him that his cleaning was not satisfactory. Respondent did not agree but did not disagree. In addition, respondent did not deny that they were his areas that were found not to have been satisfactorily cleaned.

Mr. Clanton testified that he made four or five visits to School No. 11 related to complaints about respondent's cleaning. He also made other nightly visits. On these visits he would meet with Ms. Santana and respondent, check respondent's work areas and try to straighten out problems. For example, when he returned to the second floor boys' room, he felt that respondent did try and that they were better and cleaner than previously. In addition, the cafeteria floors had improved. However, the areas pointed out by Ms. Santana had not been cleaned properly. Whenever he checked areas at night they had always been done properly. Mr. Clanton testified as to the responsibilities of a chief custodian including the supervision of the other custodians and their training. Mr. Clanton felt that respondent was a little lax, that he was not forceful enough and that he was not interested enough in the cleanliness of the building. He would do something if he was told but Mr. Clanton felt that the chief custodian should do things without being told.

Mr. Clanton testified that he did not examine the portable classrooms and that Ms. Santana did not complain to him about the portables or about the other custodians. He also felt that respondent had the skills to perform but did not do so properly. He testified that Ms. Santana was not satisfied with Mr. Azar but there were no complaints from Ms. Santana about Mr. Ortega. He explained that respondent displayed a nonchalant attitude and that respondent felt he was cleaning properly. Mr. Clanton testified that respondent was never insubordinate to Ms. Santana in his presence.

With respect to the glass in the playground, Mr. Clanton felt that it was not safe but he was not sure when it got there. He also indicated that many times evaluations were not done because of the takeover of the school district by the State.

Lewis W. Milone, Supervisor of Custodial Services for petitioner testified that he familiar with respondent. When respondent was first considered as a chief custodian, he met with respondent and outlined the duties of the chief custodian. He gave respondent an outline of his responsibilities in September 1988. He indicated that the chief custodian is responsible to inspect the cleanliness of the building, the operation of the heating plant, the responsibility to clean the outside of the school building, to respond to the principal's requests, to meet the needs of the building and to direct his custodial staff as to their responsibilities.

Mr. Milone testified that about four to six months after respondent was named Chief Custodian at School No. 11, Paula Santana contacted him about having problems with respondent regarding his attitude and his lack of motivation. Mr. Milone indicated that he wrote a memo to respondent on January 4, 1990, because of a pattern of respondent taking off around pay day. In addition, his leadership quality was lacking. Mr. Milone indicated that he directed this memorandum to respondent on January 4, 1990, to which he attached the performance responsibilities of the chief custodian and the custodian (Exhibit P-25). In the memo Mr. Milone gave respondent three months to improve. Since the respondent was new, Mr. Milone testified that he sent Mr. Ruiz to assist him in getting on track. It was reported back to him through Ms. Santana and Mr. Ruiz that respondent was not performing his duties. He failed to develop work schedules, failed to submit multireports and quarterly reports or submitted them late. Mr. Ruiz gave Mr. Milone verbal reports as to some areas that need improved cleaning. In addition, vacation schedules for holiday periods were not provided to the principal but were sent directly to Mr. Milone by respondent. Mr. Milone indicated that Mr. Cox was given three months to correct his shortfalls in order to motivate him.

Mr. Milone testified that Mr. Santana spoke to him about her policy of keeping all but one of the entrance doors to the school locked, and Mr. Milone indicated he spoke to respondent about complying with this policy. In addition, he had another discussion with respondent after the incident of May 25, 1990 (Exhibit P-8). At that discussion, respondent said that he would go out of the custodian's door and go across the street for a smoke.

Mr. Milone testified that on October 31, 1991, he saw respondent at School No. 5 in the morning and that respondent had a meeting with the union representative. It was a pay day and the Chief Custodian usually came into pick up a package of checks for the schools. He later found that respondent reported in sick on that date and he then received a grievance from respondent (Exhibit P-7).

On cross-examination, Mr. Milone identified the evaluation of respondent of September, 1989 (Exhibit R-1). However, he indicated he is not sure if he actually reviewed this. It indicates that respondent's work was acceptable. He explained that he instituted a system of evaluating the custodians quarterly where he would evaluate them once each year and the assistant supervisors would evaluate them the other three times. He further explained that a single annual evaluation commenced in late 1991, but he does not recall if additional evaluations were done of respondent. Mr. Milone admitted that during the three-month period following the memo of January 4, 1990 (Exhibit P-25), respondent was performing satisfactorily.

In response to the foregoing charges, respondent testified and produced the testimony of Modesto Ortego and Samir Azar.

Respondent testified that he was transferred to School No. 11 in April 1989. Ms. Santana arrived in July, 1989, as the acting principal. He indicated that he holds a black seal license to operate a low pressure boiler at School No. 11. His subordinates were Mr. Ortega and Mr. Azar.

He testified that School No. 11 is a three-story building, with the first floor consisting of administrative offices. There are two portable classrooms in the playground. The basement consists of the custodian's room, a cafeteria, a library and storage area.

Respondent testified that he made up the custodial work description (Exhibit P-2). He testified that the standard routines were already in place and he adhered to the daily, weekly, monthly, bi-yearly and summer routines specified in the custodial work description.

With respect to the portable classrooms, he indicated that the floor covering consisted of tile, which was sinking down and tiles were working their way out. They were in bad shape and he cleaned them as best as he could. He called maintenance to make repairs. In addition, there were holes in the ceilings of the portable. The respondent testified that he would sweep, take out the garbage and mop any spills. He indicated he mopped the bathrooms everyday because of the smell, but they were beyond hope. In addition, he sprayed them with a deodorizer.

Respondent testified that the smell in the second floor bathrooms in School Noll was the same and it could not be removed.

Respondent testified that the carpenters replaced part of the floor in the portable classrooms. He indicated this was the part of the floor between the bathrooms and had rotted out. In addition, the roof leaked but was never repaired and there was no response to his work order request. A few of the teachers complained to him about the bathrooms but none of the teachers in the portable classrooms ever complained to him about the cleaning of the classrooms.

Respondent testified that he cleaned the nurse's room each day and that the nurse never really complained to him about it.

With respect to the outside grounds, respondent testified that eacfh day he would go outside and pick up all the large material and most of the glass. He found broken bottles of wine and beer. He explained that all of the custodial staff cleaned the outside grounds. He also indicated that there was a small area which he referred to as a pit on the side of the school which was completely fenced in. He indicated that this was not used by the custodians but that people would throw trash in there.

With respect to the custodian's room, he indicated that he was obligated to keep it decent, but that no one ever complained to him that it was not kept clean.

Respondent testified that Mr. Clanton occasionally came to School No. 11 and on these occasions Mr. Clanton would speak to him about matters in general, and that any problems that he pointed out were corrected by respondent. He indicated that Mr. Clanton came to School No. 11 approximately three times. He indicated that Mr. Clanton never said to him that he was not doing his job properly. He also indicated that he never really had any separate meetings with Mr. Ruiz. He indicated that Ms. Santana would show him areas where there was a little dirt and that he would take care of it. In addition, Ms. Santana complained to him about Mr.

Azar. However, he felt that Mr. Azar was doing his job, but that he could not please Ms. Santana.

In January, 1990, respondent testified that Ms. Santana asked him to help her get rid of Mr. Azar. It was at this point that things started getting out of hand. Respondent testified that he responded to Ms. Santana that Mr. Azar was doing a fine job and he asked Ms. Santana to point out what Mr. Azar was doing wrong and it would be corrected.

Respondent testified that he never saw the letter from Ms. Bennett of January 5, 1990 (Exhibit P-1), or the letter of Ms. Puglia, dated January 5, 1990 (Exhibit P-3), before the tenure charges filed in this matter.

With respect to the locking of the doors to the school building, he would open certain doors in the morning and the other custodial staff would lock up at night. He explained that all of the four other entrances were to be unchained but to remain locked. Another door to the school that is near the custodian's room opens to the playground and he explained that the custodians used this door to carry out garbage which was bagged and put over the fence. On one occasion, Ms. Santana told him that that door was to be locked at all times. He kept the door locked except when taking out the garbage at lunch time. He indicated he never saw the memo of March 25, 1990, from Ms. Santana to Mr. Milone (Exhibit P-8) before the tenure charges and denies the facts set forth therein. He indicated that at no time did Ms. Santana ever tell him never to use the custodian door. He indicated that the Summer street door was unchained in the morning but remained locked. He indicated that with respect to Ms. Santana's memo of May 30, 1990, to Mr. Atallo that he does not believe he saw this before the tenure charges.

Respondent testified that he was not insubordinate. He indicated that every time Ms. Santana saw Mr. Azar, she was always looking for a problem. He indicated that he does not believe he saw Ms. Santana's letter of June 1, 1990 to Mr. Milone before the tenure charges and he feels that the four items in that letter were blown out of proportion. Respondent testified that Ms. Santana asked for his help prior to sending out the letter of June 1, 1990, and that the situation hit a boiling point between Ms. Santana and Mr. Azar in June, 1990.

Respondent testified that Ms. Santana gave him the evaluation of March 19, 1991 (exhibit R-2), as well as that of September 26, 1989 (Exhibit R-1). He indicated that Ms. Santana did not complain to him in any way about his work. He also testified that he does not recall ever seeing the letter from Ms. Santana to Mr. Milone, dated December 20, 1989 (Exhibit P-13), relating to the Christmas vacation work schedule submission, prior to the tenure charges. Respondent recalls that he was required to prepare a work schedule and give Ms. Santana a copy, which he did by giving a copy to her secretary. He indicated that no one ever spoke to him about the work schedules being submitted late or in an improper manner.

Respondent testified that he recalls receiving the memo of January 4, 1990 (Exhibit P-25), from Mr. Milone with the attachments. He does not believe he spoke to Mr. Milone thereafter. In addition, Mr. Milone never spoke to him about anything he was doing wrong other than sending this memorandum.

With respect to the pattern of absences, respondent testified that he was never absent for reasons other than illness. In addition, neither Ms. Santana, Mr. Milone, Mr. Ruiz nor Mr. Clanton ever spoke to him about his absences, and no one ever questioned him about his absences, never asked him for medical verification and never sent him to a doctor to verify his illness.

Respondent recalls receiving a copy of a letter from Ms. Santana to Ms. Milone, dated July 2, 1990 (Exhibit P-15). He indicated that he remembers submitting the work schedules to Mr. Milone. He explained that the procedure is that the work schedules are submitted to Mr. Milone, who then approves them and send a copy of them to the principal. He indicated that in this case, Mr. Milone never sent the work schedules to Ms. Santana.

Respondent testified that his evaluations of his staff were submitted late on one occasion; however, he submitted these evaluations within the time period as extended by the memo of October 10, 1990 (Exhibit P-16).

With respect to the letter from Ms. Santana to Mr. Milone, dated June 28, 1991, respondent testified that whenever he left the building, he would either inform Ms. Santana's secretary or Mr. Azar. On this occasion, he informed Mr. Azar because Ms. Santana's secretary was not present, and that he left because he was not feeling well. He indicated that Mr. Milone never spoke to him about this particular incident.

Respondent indicated that he continuously complained to Mr. Milone about Ms. Santana's constant complaints. Mr. Milone advised him to "hang in there and do the best you can." Mr. Milone indicated to him on several occasions that Ms. Santana is his principal and to do the best that he could.

Respondent was questioned concerning the Staff Noncompliance Notice of May 9, 1991 (Exhibit P-4), where he was alleged to be remiss in failing to clean any of Mr. Ortega's classrooms in his absence. Respondent testified that he recalls receiving this Notice. He indicated that if a custodian is out, the other custodians help out by taking care of trash and large garbage for two days but that, a replacement is provided for absences of more than three days. The help consists of emptying baskets, keeping bathrooms clean and cleaning up the big stuff. Mr. Ortega was only absent one day.

Respondent also recalls receiving the memo of October 19, 1991 (Exhibit P-5), regarding the cafeteria, the library and the second and third floor bathrooms. He indicated that there was no discussion of the memo with Ms. Santana. He testified that the health department inspected the cafeteria every year and that it always passed. He also indicated that the library was the responsibility of Mr. Ortega.

With respect to the alleged insubordination on October 29, 1991, respondent testifies that he recalls receiving the memo of that date (Exhibit P-6). He indicated that on that occasion he explained to Ms. Santana the conditions of the bathroom, including rotting floors and the tiles coming up. He testified that he said to Ms. Santana "maybe you can do a better job yourself," but he denies saying that she should do it herself. Ms. Santana then told him that she would seek his termination.

Respondent admits preparing the grievance of October 31, 1991 (Exhibit P-7). He testified that on that date, he came in and opened the school but he was feeling very ill. He eventually had to leave and he went home. After he went home he stopped by to see Mr. Milone. However, no one ever asked him to submit a doctor's note or to verify his illness on that day.

Respondent testified that the Notice of Noncompliance of November 1, 1991 (Exhibit P-18) is incorrect. He indicated that on that date he called Mr. Milone first and then called the school. He testified that he called Mr. Milone before 7 a.m.

to make sure that the school would be opened. He does not know when he called the school.

In summary, respondent testified that he did a very good job in cleaning School No. 11. The building was always secured. He was never insubordinate, although he disagreed with Ms. Santana about Mr. Azar. Finally, he testified that he submitted written evaluations in a timely fashion and did the same with respect to vacation schedules.

On cross-examination, respondent indicated that he is familiar with the contents of the memo of January 4, 1990 (Exhibit P-25), and that he never questioned the accuracy of these records. On those dates, he always reported for work but left after lunch, after leaving a note to the principal. This occurred on October 31, 1989, November 16, 1989, November 30, 1989 and December 15, 1989. December 22 and 29, 1989 was bereavement leave. In addition, the respondent admitted that he was absent on February 16, 1990, pay day being February 15, on March 30, 1990, pay day being March 30 and on June 1, 1990, pay day being May 31, 1990. During the 1990-91 school year, respondent was absent on November 2, on December 14, which was a pay day, on March 15, which was a pay day and on April 30, which was a pay day. He indicated that he was always sick but that he never saw a doctor for any of these illnesses. On October 31, 1990, respondent testified that he became sick and left. However, he later felt better but did not return to work. He wanted to let the system calm down. He indicated that all of the turmoil was causing his illness and felt felt that his filing of a grievance on that date was an appropriate use of his time. He saw Mr. Cortese and he felt better but still not good enough to return to work.

With respect to the evaluations, respondent indicated that he disputed them but agreed that he would try to do better. He also indicated he never responded in writing.

Modesto Ortega, a Custodian in School No. 11, was also called to testify on behalf of respondent. He confirmed that respondent would check his work and that if he sometimes forgot something, respondent would either advise him or take of it. He would then come in the morning and clean the spots which he missed. Mr. Ortega also testified that the playground was to be cleaned everyday by himself and Mr. Cox and that this was done. He explained that on many occasions school children would bring food and throw bags or bottles in the playground or that people would hang out there. As a result, they would sometimes have to clean this in the afternoon.

Mr. Ortega testified that respondent told him that the custodian's door had to be kept closed and that he never saw respondent leave the door open except when it was being used for deliveries or for garbage removal.

Mr. Samir Azar testified that he is now at School No. 14 as a custodian. He indicated that respondent checked his work almost daily. If he forgot to clean a bathroom or empty a garbage can, respondent would take care of it. He indicated that in the two hours after school he could not get two floors cleaned and that he would come in early at 8 a.m. each morning to finish up his work because he could not finish it the night before. However, Ms. Santana would come in early and catch him finishing up. He indicated that he was getting written up for things that were not his responsibility.

On cross-examination, Mr. Azar indicated that on one occasion he was on a break and was having an ice cream cone across the street. On that occasion, respondent had become sick and and had gone home.

Mr. Azar also indicated that he and respondent would take cigarette breaks. On one occasion, they did not close the door but placed a piece of wood in the door to keep it opened. They were then told not to leave the door open and they kept it closed after that.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

As a member of the custodial staff, respondent is protected by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, which provides that every public school janitor of a school district shall hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency. In Barnes v. Bd. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42 (App. Div. 1964), certif. denied, 43 N.J. 450, it was held that the term janitor was used in a generic sense with the intention of including all janitorial and custodial employees of a school district.

Under the provisions of the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1, it is provided that no person under tenure of office, position or employment shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Additional procedural safeguards, including the right to a list of charges, a sworn statement of evidence and an impartial hearing are included in this law.

Tenure protects employees, including teachers, from arbitrary dismissal for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). It is designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to employees a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service. Viemeister v. Prospect Bd. of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). The burden of proof in such a proceeding is upon the charging party to establish the truth of the charges by a fair preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). In order for testimony to be credible, it must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself and must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances. Spagnulo v. Bonnett, 16 N.J. 547, 554-555 (1954); In re Perrone's Estate, 5 N.J. 514, 521 (1950). A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congelton v. Dura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Discussion as to First Charge

The testimony of school principal Paula Santana was to the effect that respondent failed to properly clean two portable classrooms and bathroom facilities located in the portable unit and the second floor bathrooms. This testimony was corroborated by Sandra Montagudo, Gloria Bennett and Margaret Turco. Ms. Santana is the only one who testified as to the failure of respondent to properly clean the nurse's room. The testimony of Sandra Montagudo was entirely credible. She testified that in school year 1989-1990, her students would sweep the floors and that she used her own supplies to clean the classroom. She indicated that she took these steps because the children ate their lunch in the classroom. Gloria Bennett was also credible in testifying that in school years 1989-1990 and 1990-1991, she could tell when the portable classroom had not been swept because items that had been left on the floor the previous night remained there. She also observed that the floors were mopped approximately two times per week. Margaret Turco indicated she never made any observations to determine whether the portable classroom floor had been mopped or swept, but she corroborated that the second floor boy's bathrooms smelled terribly with a foul odor during school year 1990-1991.

Benjamin Clanton, Assistant Supervisor of Custodial Services also tended to corroborate the testimony of Ms. Santana. He indicated that on his first visit the second floor bathrooms were not clean and that the cafeteria floor had been mopped but was not clean and had not been mopped properly. He also indicated that he found some glass and garbage in the playground areas. However, he also testified that when he returned on subsequent visits that he felt that respondent was trying and that the second floor bathrooms were better and cleaner than previously. He also indicated that he felt respondent was a little lax and not forceful enough and he was not interested enough in the cleanliness of the building.

Based upon the foregoing testimony, I FIND that the testimony of Ms. Santana as corroborated by the testimony of Sandra Montagudo, Gloria Bennett, Margaret Turco and Benjamin Clanton was credible and preponderates over the testimony of respondent. I FIND that respondent, during school years 1989-90, 1990-91 and 1991-92, failed to properly clean the portable classrooms, the second floor boy's and girl's bathrooms, the cafeteria and the playgrounds and outside grounds of School No. 11. I FIND that this failure to properly clean these areas occurred on a continuous basis despite numerous follow-up requests by the school building principal and by respondent's supervisors.

Discussion as to Second Charge

The next issue involves whether respondent failed to properly secure the school building pursuant to the instructions of Ms. Santana and his supervisors, thereby endangering the safety and well-being of the children and staff of the school building. The testimony of Ms. Santana was undisputed concerning her policy adopted for security purposes that only the Market Street entrance of the school was to be used for access. Despite this, Ms. Santana found another door open in October 1988. In response to several meetings regarding these directives, respondent indicated that he would speak to the other custodians and that he would make sure other doors were not opened again. Respondent testified that he only opened the other door when taking out the garbage. With regard to this issue, the testimony of both Ms. Santana and respondent was credible. Certainly if doors were left opened on one or two occasions and there was subsequent remedial steps taken to make sure that the doors were closed, this should not be sufficient to support a charge of misbehavior, neglect and insubordination against the Chief Custodian. In summary, the testimony and evidence regarding the alleged failure of respondent to properly secure the school building, thus endangering the safety and well-being of the students and staff does not preponderate either in favor of or against respondent. Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner has failed to establish the Second Charge that respondent failed to properly secure the school building pursuant to the instructions of the school principal and his supervisors, thereby endangering the safety and well-being of the children and staff in the school building.

Discussion as to Third Charge

The Third Charge deals with whether respondent was insubordinate on numerous occasions by failing to comply with the valid and reasonable directives of the school principal as evidenced by his leaving a door open in direct contravention of the orders of the building principal. Insubordination may be defined as the refusal to obey the direct lawful order of a superior as well as willful disobedience of the rules of the work place; this definition implies that a person knows what he or she is doing and requires proof of intent. 67 C.J.S., Officers, §133 at p. 512-513. In view of my prior finding, I FIND that the petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent was insubordinate in this regard. It certainly follows that if I did not find that respondent failed to comply with the directives of the school principal and his supervisors by failing to properly secure the school building, that the charge of insubordination on this basis is also not supported by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

The second portion of the Third Charge is whether respondent displayed conduct constituting insubordination on numerous occasions by his failure to insure the proper cleaning of the building in spite of numerous requests. In applying the above definition of insubordination to the actions of respondent, I FIND that the respondent was insubordinate in view of the numerous directives and requests made of him to clean his assigned areas in a proper manner. Under these circumstances, I FIND that respondent was guilty of conduct constituting insubordination by his failure to insure the proper cleaning of the areas specified in the Discussion as to the First Charge, set forth above, in spite of numerous requests.

Discussion as to Fourth Charge

The next issue to be decided is whether respondent has demonstrated neglect of the duties of his office as evidenced by his failure to submit written evaluations in a timely manner, his pattern of absenteeism, and his failure to submit vacation schedules in a timely manner. With respect to respondent's alleged failure to submit written evaluations, I FIND that there is a lack of sufficient evidence to support this charge. On the one occasion when respondent admits to having been late, he also points to a memorandum which has the effect of giving him an extension to provide these evaluations. Accordingly, I FIND that respondent is not guilty of neglect of the duties of his position as evidenced by his failure to submit written evaluations in a timely manner.

As to whether respondent is guilty of neglect of the duties of his office by reason of his pattern of absenteeism, I FIND the proofs to be less than sufficient in this regard. No notifications were provided to respondent as to excessive absenteeism no efforts were made to remind respondent of his obligations to improve his record of absences, and there is no indication that petitioner considered the nature of respondent's illnesses. See, Smith v. Bd. of Ed., City of Trenton, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 5255-88 (March 6, 1989), adopted Comm'r of Educ. (April 18, 1989). Accordingly, I FIND that the charge against respondent that he is guilty of neglect of duty based on his alleged pattern of absenteeism has not been sustained by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

As to whether respondent is guilty of neglect of the duties of his office based on his failure to submit vacation schedules in a timely manner, the testimony of the parties as to this question was confusing. Ms. Santana indicated that it was the obligation of respondent to consult with her concerning the vacation schedules prior to his submitting them to Mr. Milone for approval. On the other hand, Mr. Milone indicated that these vacation schedules were to be submitted to him for approval and a copy would then be given to the school principal. The testimony of respondent seemed to agree with the testimony of Mr. Milone. Thus, there was clearly a lack of communication between the parties as to the obligation and responsibility of respondent with respect to the preparation and submission of vacation schedules. In addition, the testimony and evidence seem to establish only one occasion, involving the Christmas vacation of 1989, that the vacation schedule was not filed in a timely fashion but was filed several days late. Under these circumstances, I FIND that there is a lack of sufficient credible evidence to establish by a fair preponderance of the evidence that respondent is guilty of neglect of the duties of his office because of his alleged failure to submit vacation schedules in a timely manner.

Discussion as to Fifth Charge

Petitioner alleges in the Fifth Charge that respondent demonstrated conduct constituting misbehavior by informing the school building office that he would be out sick after his workday began and then proceeding to meet with another member of his association and preparing a grievance against the principal. The testimony as well as the supporting documentary evidence clearly establishes that this was the case. Respondent's explanation was that he felt very ill during the day, went home but then felt well enough to go to the administrative offices of the school district in order to attempt to pick up his paycheck as well as to meet the president of his association. This is clearly misbehavior, and respondent's testimony that he felt well enough to accomplish these additional matters but did not feel well enough to work is not credible. Accordingly, I FIND that respondent is guilty of conduct constituting misbehavior by his informing his school principal that he was be sick after his workday began on October 31, 1991, and by then proceeding to attempt to pick up his paycheck and by meeting the president of his association and preparing a grievance against the principal.

Discussion as to Sixth Charge

In the Sixth Charge respondent is charged with leaving his job duties before his workday was scheduled to end without notification of his school principal. This occurred on June 28, 1991, when Ms. Santana saw another custodian at approximately 1:30 or 2 p.m. and asked where respondent was. The custodian advised Ms. Santana that respondent had left for the day. She then inquired in the school office as to whether respondent had reported his leaving and there was no record of respondent having so reported. With respect to this charge, respondent testified that the school secretary was not present and that he advised a custodian, Mr. Azar, that he was feeling ill and was leaving for the day. However, it was respondent's responsibility to notify the school principal either directly or through her secretary or to otherwise advise his supervisor in the central office of his being sick and of the fact that he was leaving for the day. I FIND that respondent's failure to do so amounts to misbehavior and is clearly a violation of his obligation and responsibility as an employee of the school district.

Discussion as to the Issue of Retaliation

Respondent takes the position that these tenure charges were brought against him in retaliation for his refusal to falsely and negatively evaluate another custodian at the demand of the building principal. Respondent's testimony was to the effect that Ms. Santana requested respondent's assistance in seeking the termination or transfer of another custodian, Samir Azar. However, there is no indication that the actions or activities of Ms. Santana against respondent were not undertaken in good faith. There is no indication that Ms. Santana felt anything other than an honest belief that Mr. Azar, as well as respondent, were not properly fulfilling their respective positions. There is nothing in the record to establish that the within charges are in retaliation for anything or were undertaken for reasons other than Ms. Santana's honest belief and opinion that respondent was not performing his duties and responsibilities in a proper manner. Accordingly, I FIND that there is insufficient credible testimony and evidence to establish that the within tenure charges are in retaliation for respondent's refusal to falsely and negatively evaluate another custodian at the demand of the building principal.

Discussion as to Respondent's Affirmative Defenses

In Respondent's Brief submitted after the conclusion of the hearing in this matter, there were included two affirmative defenses. The first affirmative defense is that Ms. Santana, the school building principal, discriminated against respondent because he is a non-hispanic. The second affirmative defense is that petitioner should not be allowed to bring tenure charges against respondent because they failed to evaluate him.

The attorney for petitioner objects to respondent's presenting of these affirmative defenses and argues that fairness dictates that these affirmative defenses be given no consideration. He refers to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.6, which provides that upon transmittal of a matter to the OAL, motions to amend a petition or answer shall be determined by the OAL. In addition, he relies on Rivera v. Gerner, 89 N.J. 526 (1982), wherein the New Jersey Supreme Court stated that the continuous thread running through decisions dealing with the injection of unpleaded or unargued issues into a case is a necessity to avoid prejudice or surprise. The attorney for petitioner argues that petitioner would be both surprised and prejudiced if these issues were considered.

I agree with the position of petitioner that respondent should not be permitted to raise these affirmative defenses at the present time. On the other hand, attorney for respondent's questioning of Ms. Santana on cross-examination in an effort to show her bias against respondent because he is a non-hispanic is relevant as to the question of Ms. Santana's motivation and the possibility of her bias against respondent. Likewise, the cross-examination of Ms. Santana and Mr. Milone concerning the failure to evaluate respondent was similarly relevant to show conduct on the part of petitioner which may not be consistent with the filing of charges against respondent. A witness' motivation, biase or interest in a case are always issues which are permitted to be inquired into during cross-examination. See Moiseyev v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 239 N.J. Super. 1, 9 (App. Div. 1989).

Based upon the above enunciated principles, I specifically reject any consideration of the two affirmative defenses raised by respondent in its briefs submitted after the conclusion of the hearing. With respect to the question whether Ms. Santana was biased against respondent because he is non-hispanic, I FIND based upon my observation of Ms. Santana, as well as her manner of responding to questions on both direct and cross-examination that bias against respondent because he is non-hispanic did, in fact, exist. It is for this very reason that my finding respondent guilty as to specific charges occurred only as to those charges where the testimony of Ms. Santana was corroborated by the testimony of others and/or by documentary evidence not offered by Ms. Santana.

Discussion of Penalty

Respondent has been found guilty of the following charges:

1. Misbehavior and neglect during school years 1989-90, 1990-91 and 1991-92, by continuously failing to clean properly the portable classrooms, the second floor bathrooms, the cafeteria, and the outside grounds of School No. 11 despite numerous follow-up requests by the school building principal and by respondent's supervisors.

2. Conduct constituting insubordination by his failure to insure the proper cleaning of the portable classrooms, the second floor bathrooms, the cafeteria and the outside grounds of School No. 11 in spite of numerous requests.

3. Misbehavior on October 31, 1991, by informing the school building office that he would be out sick after his workday began and then proceeding to meet with another member of his association and preparing a grievance against the principal.

4. Misbehavior and neglect of his duties by leaving his job on June 18, 1991 before his workday was scheduled to end without notifying the administration.

The next appropriate step, is to determine the remedy or penalty to be imposed.

The performance responsibilities of a Chief Custodian are numerous and varied. He is responsible for selecting assignments, scheduling and training of the custodial staff, the planning and overseeing of all maintenance and repair work, including safety, cleanliness and efficiency. He is obligated to maintain inventories of supplies, tools, equipment and fuel, to evaluate the performance of the custodial staff and to maintain the school and ground in good condition so that full educational use may be made of them (Exhibit P-25). The fact that the Legislature has seen fit to award tenure status to custodial employees, thus protecting them during their good behavior, clearly shows that school custodial staff members occupy a position of public trust. Any position which has among its duties and responsibilities the cleanliness of school buildings and classrooms for the purpose of protecting the health and welfare of the school children of our State, is clearly a position of public trust.

There was no testimony or documentary evidence submitted to show whether respondent was the subject of any prior disciplinary proceedings. Accordingly, it will be assumed that respondent's prior employment history with petitioner was satisfactory.

It is clear that respondent violated the public trust reposed in him to faithfully perform his duties as a chief school custodian. I FIND that based upon the findings of guilt of the charges set forth above that respondent should not continue to hold the position of chief school custodian. On the other hand, I FIND that there is no proof or evidence that respondent is unfit to hold the position of a custodian under the direct supervision of a responsible chief custodian. In addition, I FIND that some additional penalties should be imposed upon respondent to remind him of his obligation and responsibility to the school children of this State, to perform such duties and obligations as are imposed upon him in a faithful and proper manner.

Accordingly, and after considering the nature of the findings of guilt and after considering the nature of the position, I FIND that respondent should be suspended for a period of six months. In addition, I FIND that respondent should suffer a reduction in his position to that of custodian.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby FIND respondent guilty of: (1) misbehavior and neglect during school years 1989-90, 1990-91 and 1991-92 by repeatedly and continuously failing to properly clean a school building on a daily basis despite numerous follow-up requests by the school building principal and his supervisors; (2) engaging in conduct constituting insubordination by his failure to insure the proper cleaning of the building in spite of numerous requests; (3) conduct constituting misbehavior by reporting out sick and by leaving his position before the end of the scheduled workday without notification on October 31, 1991; and (4) misbehavior and neglect of duties by leaving his job on June 28, 1991, before his workday was scheduled to end without notifying the administration. I FIND respondent not guilty of the charges of failing to properly secure the school building and of insubordination with respect to the failure to secure the school building door, and not guilty of neglect of duties of his position. It is hereby ORDERED that based upon the aforesaid findings of guilt, respondent shall be suspended for a period of six months, and shall be demoted to the position of custodian.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1696-92

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RICHARD COX, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. In accordance with an extension schedule granted by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, timely exceptions were respectively filed by respondent and the State-Operated District ("District"), as were replies thereto.

In his filings, respondent objects to the ALJ's having sustained Charge 1 (failure to properly clean premises and grounds), Charge 3a (insubordination related to such failure), Charge 5 (leaving work due to reported illness, then returning to pick up his paycheck and meet with union leadership regarding a grievance) and Charge 6 (leaving before end of workday without informing authorities), and further excepts to the penalties imposed as ultra vires (demotion) and unnecessarily severe (six-month suspension).

The District in turn objects to the ALJ's determination to dismiss Charge 2 (failure to properly secure school building), Charge 3b (insubordination related to such failure) and Charge 4 (failure to submit timely evaluations and vacation schedules; unacceptable pattern of absenteeism), to the ALJ's finding of bias on the part of Principal Paula Santana, and to the imposition of a penalty less than full dismissal.

Specifically, with respect to Charge 1 (failure to properly clean premises and grounds, sustained by the ALJ), respondent argues that the only evidence in support of this charge came from Witness Santana, whose testimony the ALJ (properly) determined to reject wherever uncorroborated. Regarding school grounds, the testimony of Assistant Supervisor Clanton and Custodian Ortega established that the grounds were in fact cleaned each morning, but then fouled by people throwing garbage and debris into the area throughout the day. Regarding the cafeteria and second-floor bathrooms, the testimony of Clanton and Teacher Turco shows that respondent did clean these areas and therefore does not support Santana's contentions. With respect to the portable classrooms, placed against Santana's testimony are Clanton's admission that Santana never specifically complained to him about the portables, and several teachers' admissions that the rooms did show evidence of cleaning and that the condition of the facilities worked against their appearing clean, precluding judgment as to whether they had been cleaned or not. (Respondent's Exceptions, at pp. 1-5)

With respect to Charge 3b (insubordination in failing to carry out cleaning directives, sustained by the ALJ), respondent argues that, because the cleaning was in fact done as established under Charge 1, this contingent charge must necessarily fail. Moreover, there was considerable testimony to the effect that respondent did try to carry his job duties, even when the result might not have been as desired due to the condition of the facilities and Ms. Santana's unrealistic expectations; nor did any witnesses other than Santana testify to having observed respondent being insubordinate. (Respondent's Exceptions, at pp. 6-7)

The District conversely argues for general acceptance of Santana's testimony as credible and unbiased, averring that there is no basis whatsoever, nor was any identified in the initial decision, for the ALJ's conclusion that Santana was not credible and had a racial bias against non-Hispanics. (District's Exceptions, at p. 3) Counter to this contention, respondent endorses the ALJ's determination, arguing that Santana's testimony showed her memory to be very poor, particularly with regard to dates, and further revealed her expectations to be unrealistic, her character vindictive, her truthfulness not always certain and her bias clearly in favor of Hispanics. (Respondent's Reply, at pp. 3-6)

With respect to Charge 2 and Charge 3a (failure to properly secure the school building and insubordination arising from such failure, both dismissed by the ALJ), the District points to Santana's testimony regarding her instructions in this area and to a memorialization (P-8) of how respondent failed to follow those instructions. (District's Exceptions, at pp. 1-2) Respondent in turn points to testimony establishing that he did in fact keep the building secure and frequently instructed his subordinates to do likewise, and notes the discrepancy between Santana's testimony to the effect that she herself saw the open door and the memorandum (P-8) demonstrating that she was merely told about it as yet another example of the inherent unrealiability of Santana's accounts. (Respondent's Reply, at pp. 1-2)

Regarding Charge 4 (pattern of absenteeism on/after payday, dismissed by the ALJ), the District argues that the January 4, 1990

memorandum (P-25) was sufficient warning about this problem, which continued for the remainder of 1990 and into 1990-91 as evidenced by respondent's undisputed attendance records. (District's Exceptions, at pp. 2-3) Respondent retorts that these records (P-24) show the problem to have improved significantly during 1990-91 and 1991-92, the incidence of absences on or after payday decreasing from eight instances in 1989-90 to three in 1990-91 to two and one-half in 1991-92; moreover, respondent was never asked to produce doctor's notes for any of his absences, nothing was offered to counter his testimony that his absences were due to illness, and he received no further indication of "pattern" attendance problems subsequent to the January 1990 memo. (Respondent's Reply, at pp. 2-3)

As to Charge 5 (leaving work and later preparing a grievance, sustained by the ALJ), respondent contends that the ALJ completely ignored testimony wherein he explained that on his way home after signing out sick, he merely stopped to pick up a previously prepared grievance and drop it off at appropriate administrative office before leaving school grounds for the day; moreover, this was a natural thing to do in that his illness largely stemmed from the emotional state brought on by his problems with Ms. Santana. The ALJ's account, respondent contends, wherein he went home, felt better and returned to school to prepare a grievance, is not based on any evidence presented at hearing. (Respondent's Exceptions, at pp. 8-9) The District counters that respondent himself testified that he went home prior to returning to filing the grievance, and that there was no testimony from anyone establishing that the grievance had been prepared previously. (District's Reply, at p. 1)

Regarding Charge 6, (leaving for day without notifying principal, sustained by the ALJ), respondent reiterates that he could not reasonably have been expected to inform persons who were not present of his leaving for the day, and it was entirely appropriate under the circumstances for him to have left word of his departure with a fellow custodian. (Respondent's Exceptions, at p. 10) The District in turn notes that respondent failed to notify any supervisor, which clearly constitutes misbehavior as properly found by the ALJ. (District's Reply, at pp. 1-2)

As to the penalty imposed, respondent argues that nowhere does the enabling statute (N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3) authorize the Commissioner to demote respondent; rather, under the terms of the law, he may only be "dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation." (Respondent's Exceptions, at p. 11) Moreover, in the instant matter, the only potentially sustainable charges are Charges 5 and 6, which do not warrant so severe a penalty as a six-month suspension; however, in the event the suspension is sustained, respondent should be given credit for the period of his suspension without pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. (Respondent's Exceptions, at p. 12) The District counters that the law encompasses dismissal from a particular position as well as from tenured employment altogether, so that the demotion recommended by the ALJ is entirely within the scope of the Commissioner's authority (District's Reply, at p. 2); however, because respondent holds -- and would continue to hold under the ALJ's penalty -- a position of public trust for which the present proceedings have shown him unfit, the appropriate penalty in this matter is full dismissal rather than demotion and suspension. (District's Exceptions, at pp. 3-4)

Upon careful review of the record of this matter, including the transcript of hearings, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's findings with respect to sustaining or dismissing the individual tenure charges, but modifies his determinations as to characterization of Principal Santana's testimony and the penalty to be imposed on respondent.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and respondent that Principal Santana's testimony should be accepted in full only when corroborated by other sources. This concurrence is based on numerous instances where Santana's memory appears poor (e.g., confusion about dates), her recollections, however sincerely believed, are belied by other evidence (e.g., her perception that respondent's pattern of frequent absence on paydays persisted through 1992), and the personal tension between her and respondent, compounded by exacting standards and outspoken opinions, is manifestly evident. With regard to this latter point, without the opportunity to have observed witnesses directly, the Commissioner is unable to fairly adjudicate the questions of whether the root of such animus is necessarily bias against non-Hispanics as opined by the ALJ. Because the written record does not permit a firm conclusion in this regard, the Commissioner declines to impute such bias herein, instead qualifying the use of Santana's testimony for the reasons stated above.

Notwithstanding his reservations about Santana's testimony, however, the Commissioner finds, as did the ALJ, that corroborating evidence from other witnesses and documents is more than sufficient to sustain charges of neglect, insubordination and inappropriate behavior based on respondent's clear failure to adequately perform his cleaning tasks or even recognize that he was so failing, and on his manifestly lax attitude toward his responsibilities. Respondent's exceptions pointing to witnesses who testified that he did do his assigned cleaning ignore documents and other testimony, sometimes from the same witness, establishing that although cleaning may have been done, it was done inadequately; nor would the condition of the District's facilities explain recurring problems such as unswept floors, carelessly wiped fixtures and tiles mopped with dirty water. Moreover, it is clear from respondent's own testimony that he believed -- indeed, still believes -- his work to have been fully acceptable, and that he re-cleaned or paid special attention to specified areas only in instances where they were explicitly brought to his attention on complaint or subsequent inspection by District supervisors. This same lack of comprehension and concern is evident in respondent's insistence that there was nothing inappropriate about his leaving work due to illness without notifying any supervisor, an oversight for which Santana's unavailability is no excuse, or about attending to the filing of a grievance on a day when he purported to be too ill to remain at work. (The Commissioner here notes that the Board's characterization of respondent's testimony on this latter issue, set forth ante, is borne out by the hearing transcript.)

In view of these findings, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that "respondent violated the public trust reposed in him to faithfully perform his duties as a chief school custodian" and that he did not perform his duties in a "faithful and proper manner." (Initial Decision, at pp. 33-34) The Commissioner disagrees, however, that respondent was not proven "unfit to hold the position of a custodian under the direct supervision of a responsible chief custodian" and is thus deserving of a penalty less than dismissal. (Ibid.) While respondent appears willing to carry out specific directives to remedy deficiencies in his work on an instance-by-instance basis, it is equally clear that he would require virtually full-time oversight in order to ensure that his work was properly performed. There is no reason why a custodian found unfit to continue in his present position should be entitled to continued employment in the district when such employment would impose on his assigned supervisor the unwarranted burden of continually monitoring a subordinate demonstrated to be lax in both his assessment of what constitutes proper cleaning and in his actual carrying out of cleaning tasks.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law is affirmed with modifications as set forth above, and respondent is dismissed from tenured employment in the State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson as of the date of this decision.*

Petitioner, riffed physical education teacher, claimed Board's action in employing nontenured individuals as permanent substitutes for 1992-93 school year violated her tenure rights.

ALJ concluded that based upon petitioner's tenure and appropriate certification, she was entitled to position of permanent substitute over two nontenured teachers. ALJ found as a result of RIF, petitioner was entitled to position for which she was qualified when vacancy occurred even though permanent substitute teacher position was not tenure eligible and was not specifically recognized as a seniority category pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(1) (now 6:3-5.1(1)). Board was ordered to place petitioner in permanent substitute position with compensation for 1992-93 school year.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision stressing the Appellate Division's reconsidered decision in Lammers.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 23, 1992, petitioner, Marybeth Driscoll, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting that respondent appoint her to the position of permanent substitute teacher for the 1992-93 school year and directing that respondent pay her all lost salary and benefits of employment. On July 29, 1992, respondent filed an answer requesting that the Commissioner dismiss the petition, alleging that the petition failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted.

On August 4, 1992, this matter was transmitted by the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on August 26, 1992, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for October 27, 1992. A prehearing conference was held on October 27, 1992. At that time, the issues were isolated, and a hearing was scheduled for April 16 and May 4, 1993. The parties filed a stipulation of facts and documents, which obviated the necessity for a hearing. As a result, the hearing was adjourned and the matter proceeded on motion for summary decision. The record closed on June 18, 1993, the date of the last submission in this matter.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

At issue in the instant case is whether petitioner's tenure rights were violated. More particularly at issue is whether petitioner was entitled to be employed for the 1992-93 school year in the position of permanent substitute teacher and, if her tenure rights were violated, the relief to which she is entitled.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

As noted above, the parties filed a stipulation of facts on March 26, 1993. The stipulation of facts, with attached exhibits (J-1), are incorporated by reference and constitutes this tribunal's findings of fact. The undisputed facts are as follows:

Petitioner was a tenured teaching staff member of respondent, West Essex Regional Board of Education. She was employed by the Board from September 1, 1988 through June 30, 1992. Petitioner was employed by the Board in the area of physical education and held a regular certificate to serve as a teacher of health and physical education. At its meeting of May 26, 1992, the Board eliminated one teaching position in the area of physical education effective June 30, 1992. As the least-senior teaching staff member in the physical education department, Driscoll's position was eliminated, and she was placed on a preferred eligibility list for recall in her area of certification.

Harry Teaster Jr. was hired by the Board as a permanent substitute for the 1990-91 school year and was rehired for that position for the 1991-92 and 1992-93 school years. Michael Giampapa was hired by the Board as a permanent substitute for the 1988-89 school year and was rehired for that position for the 1989-90 and 1991-92 school years. Neither Giampapa nor Teaster is tenure eligible or a tenured employee of the Board because a permanent substitute teacher does not hold a position for which tenure can accrue. On May 26, 1992, the Board voted to appoint Giampapa and Teaster as permanent substitute teachers for the 1992-93 school year. This appointment was revised on June 22, 1992. On or about August 4, 1992, Giampapa resigned as a permanent substitute teacher. The Board did not employ a replacement, leaving one permanent substitute teacher for the 1992-93 school year.

The permanent substitute teacher reports each day and is the first individual utilized when any teacher is absent. His/her schedule varies on a daily or weekly basis dependent upon teacher absenteeism. In order to hold a full-time teaching position with the board, the individual must hold and maintain a regular teaching certificate with an appropriate subject matter endorsement. In order to serve as a permanent substitute teacher, the individual must hold and maintain a valid New Jersey teaching certificate or a substitute teaching certificate issued by the county superintendent (Policy No. 304). In order for a substitute to be assigned to teach more than twenty consecutive days in the same assignment, the individual must maintain a regular teacher certificate with appropriate subject matter endorsement. The individual is considered a long-term substitute in such an assignment.

Giampapa and Teaster both have valid teaching certificates in health and physical education.

ARGUMENTS OF COUNSEL

Petitioner argues that she was entitled to the position of permanent substitute teacher held by Teaster and/or Giampapa. She claims that by virtue of her tenure status and the fact that her instructional certificate met the minimum requirement for appointment to the position of permanent substitute teacher, she was entitled to that job. She points out that there were no other requirements listed as a prerequisite to the job. She notes that although the Board may claim that Teaster and Giampapa had greater rights to the position of permanent substitute as they performed that position in the past, this point must be rejected because neither of these teachers was employed for a sufficient amount of time to acquire tenure.

Respondent argues that petitioner cannot assert a reemployment claim for a position that is not a seniority category under N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10 nor an endorsement in any certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners, and that she cannot assert a claim to a position which itself is not a tenure eligible position. In the first allegation, respondent points out, more particularly, that petitioner has no claim or seniority rights to the assignment held by Giampapa or Teaster and that the Board was not obligated to employ her in such a capacity. Respondent asserts that the permanent substitute teaching position is not a category for which seniority can accrue, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10. Because it is not included among the various endorsements detailed in N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2, petitioner cannot claim entitlement to this assignment.

In regard to its second allegation, respondent asserts that petitioner attempts to utilize her tenure to qualify for a permanent substitute assignment. According to respondent, this claim has no legal basis. As a matter of statute, Board policy, and practice, the substitute assignment is nontenurable Consequently, petitioner's tenure status is irrelevant for the purposes of staffing the substitute job. Respondent has a managerial right, for purposes of efficiency, to utilize substitute services either by daily calls or one call of a year-long duration. In either situation, the nontenure status of the substitute assignment does not change.

Further, in response to petitioner's brief, respondent alleges that one may not assert a tenure claim to a position that itself is not tenure eligible. Respondent cites Polo v. Board of Education of Bergen County Vocational Schools, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 459 in support of its position. Respondent notes that the permanent substitute teacher position is not tenure eligible; it does not require standard certification but, rather, is treated the same as a daily substitute. Respondent also alleges that if it is determined that petitioner was improperly denied the appointment at issue, she would be entitled to the salary she would have earned as a permanent substitute teacher, not that which she would have earned had she not been subjected to a reduction in force (RIF) and remained a physical education teacher.

DISCUSSION

The administration of New Jersey's school system is regulated by the Legislature and the Commissioner of Education. The law includes provisions concerning a teacher's acquisition of tenure and its effect on her employment relationship with the board of education.

More particularly, in regard to the acquisition of tenure, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that

> The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers, principals other than administrative principals, assistant principals, vice principals, assistant superintendents and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school nurses, chief school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title [section 18A:6-9 et seq.], after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
>
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
>
> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

However, despite the tenure status of a teacher, the teacher may lose her position through a RIF. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides that:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of services shall be held to limit the right of any board of > education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

Any such reduction in force must be made strictly on the basis of seniority in accordance with the standards established by the Commissioner with the approval of the State Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10. Such seniority determinations are made by the local board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11.

In the event that a teacher is subject to a RIF, the teacher is placed on a preferred eligibility list in the order of seniority for reemployment. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. The applicable statute provides:

> If any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of such reduction, such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligibility list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs and in determining seniority, and in computing length of service for reemployment, full recognition shall be given to previous years of service, and the time of service by any such person in or with the military or naval forces of the United States or of this State, subsequent to September 1, 1940 shall be credited to him as though he had been regularly employed in such a position within the district during the time of such military or naval service, except that the period of that service shall not be credited toward more than four years of employment or seniority credit. [Emphasis added.]

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-13, the Commissioner of Education has established detailed proceedings and standards for the reemployment of persons placed on a preferred eligibility list. See N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10.

Generally, an employee's seniority is determined according to the number of academic or calendar years of employment in the school district in specific categories. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(b). In the event that an employee holds employment simultaneously in two or more categories, seniority will be counted in all categories in which he or she is employed. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(f). An employee who moves from or reverts to a category shall receive credit toward seniority in any or all categories in which she previously held employment. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(h).

A teacher whose position has been abolished in a category will be given employment in the same category to which he or she is entitled by virtue of seniority. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(i). If such employee lacks sufficient seniority for employment in the same category, she shall be placed on a preferred eligible list. Id. The employee may also revert to a category in which she was previously employed and remain on the preferred eligible list in the category from which she reverted. Id.

Similarly, in the event that the employee lacks sufficient seniority in the category to which she reverted, she shall revert in a like manner to the next preceding category in which she held employment. N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(j). The employee will also remain on the preferred eligibility list. Id.

Petitioner argues that the Board should have given her the job(s) that were offered to Giampapa and Teaster. Having considered the arguments presented, I am of the view that if petitioner can show that there are currently individuals who are serving in a position for which she is qualified, who have less seniority or who are nontenured, then she is entitled to that position. See Bednar v. Westwood Board of Education, 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987) and Capodilupo v. West Orange Twp. Bd. of Ed., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), which stand for the proposition that tenure is the statutory threshold for the assertion of rights in a RIF and that teaching staff members with tenure have greater rights to a given position held by a nontenured individual, irrespective of seniority.

In Bednar, a tenured full-time elementary school teacher holding an institutional certificate with a comprehensive field endorsement in art was reduced to part-time. Petitioner claimed that based on his tenure as an art teacher, he was deserving of a nontenured secondary school job since he had experience in the specific category of secondary art. In deciding for petitioner, the court noted that the tenure statute "did not create or authorize the Commissioner to create competing rights for [nontenured] teachers" and that seniority of nontenured teachers should not "dilute" tenure rights. 221 N.J. Super. at 242-43.

Indeed, Bednar seems to illustrate that the "seniority" provisions of the tenure statute do not authorize retaining a nontenured teacher over a tenured teacher in a position within the certificate of a tenured teacher during a RIF based solely on the nontenured teacher's "seniority" or experience in the disputed position.

In Capodilupo, petitioner, a tenured teacher, was employed as a secondary school physical education teacher prior to his termination as a result of a RIF. The petitioner's teaching certificate was endorsed in both elementary and secondary physical education. In light of his tenure and seniority, he contended that he should have been offered one of two elementary physical education teaching positions that were held by two nontenured employees, despite the fact that he lacked any experience teaching at the elementary level.

In that case, the candidates whom the petitioner sought to replace were certified and experienced in teaching at the elementary level. However, neither of the teachers had acquired tenure. Petitioner claimed that he had seniority over the two candidates, thereby entitling him to one of their positions. Alternatively, he contended that his tenure entitled him to one of their positions. The court determined that petitioner did not possess any seniority rights to the elementary school position because the elementary physical education position and the secondary physical education are distinct and separate seniority categories. 218 N.J. Super. at 514 (citing N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(1)(15)(iii)).

However, the court agreed with the State Board in concluding that a tenured teacher seeking reinstatement is entitled to preference in a RIF as against a nontenured applicant with the same certification. 218 N.J. Super. at 515. In support of its decision, the court reiterated a comment made by the State Board: "Seniority provides a mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions among the tenured force can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational policies." Id. at 514. The tenure laws require that a tenured teacher should be retained over a nontenured teacher. Id. at 514-15. Consequently, in order to construe the tenure law to achieve its beneficial ends, the court concluded that a tenured teacher should receive preference in a RIF over a nontenured teacher with the same certification. Id. at 515.

In the instant matter, petitioner was tenured and certified for the position of physical health and education teacher. Giampapa and Teaster were hired as permanent substitute teachers, both being nontenured, as they do not hold positions for which tenure can accrue. Both Giampapa and Teaster held valid teaching certificates in health and physical education. Since petitioner held the minimum teaching certificate required for the two positions for which Giampapa and Teaster were hired, petitioner clearly would have been entitled to preference in a RIF as against both Giampapa and Teaster, as they were both nontenured applicants holding the same certification. See Susan Data-Samtrak v. Bd. of Ed. of the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Regional School District, Union County, Commissioner's Decision (January 27, 1988), aff'd State Board (June 1, 1988), wherein petitioner was RIFfed while two nontenured teachers were assigned to unrecognized titles of "in-school suspension." The qualifications for appointment to the unrecognized titles required a teaching certificate. Since petitioner held the appropriate certification, she was entitled as a result of a RIF and by virtue of her seniority to any assignment of that unrecognized title given to nontenured or less-senior teachers. See also Camilli v. Bd. of Ed. of Northern Highlands Regional High School District, Commissioner's Decision (Jan.3, 1988), aff'd State Board (May 1, 1985), in which it was determined that petitioner's seniority entitlement is not related merely to the subjects under which she has actually taught, but also to any assignment that the instructional endorsement qualifies her to fill.

Respondent argues that petitioner cannot assert a reemployment claim because the position of permanent substitute teacher is not a seniority category and, more to the point, is not tenure eligible. Respondent seeks to distinguish Capodilupo and Bednar on that basis. Moreover, respondent cites Polo v. Bd. of Ed. of Bergen County Vocational Schools, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 459, in support of its argument that one may not assert a tenure claim to a position which is not tenure eligible. I am not in agreement with respondent's attempt to require tenure eligibility in the position sought as a prerequisite to that position. In Polo, the petitioner claimed entitlement to a preference over nontenured teachers for teaching assignments at the district adult evening school. The ALJ in Polo found, however, that since the teachers in the adult evening school were not required to possess certification, they were not eligible for tenure. Clearly, Polo is not akin to the instant matter. Certification is required for a position of permanent substitute teacher. Specifically, the position of permanent substitute teacher requires at a minimum a county substitute certification and, after teaching twenty days in the same area, a valid New Jersey teaching certificate. Although both Giampapa and Teaster held valid teaching certifications in health and physical education, so too does petitioner.

In the instant matter, seniority is not an issue. Thus, the question of seniority categorization does not become a factor. Petitioner holds the required teaching certificate for the two positions for which Giampapa and Teaster were hired. More to the point, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, "whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified, then petitioner shall be reemployed when such vacancy occurs."

As petitioner correctly claims, irrespective of an employee's seniority, the tenured teacher has rights to certain positions because of tenure and the instructional certificate held. It is undisputed that Giampapa and Teaster were not tenured. The only requirement for employment as permanent substitute teachers was possession of a valid New Jersey teaching certificate or a substitute teaching certificate issued by the county superintendent. Petitioner holds a valid New Jersey teacher certificate. By virtue of her tenure status and by virtue of the fact that her instructional certificate met the minimum requirements for appointment to the position of permanent substitute teacher, she was entitled to that job.

Finally, respondent claims that if it is determined that petitioner was improperly denied the appointment at issue, her monetary damages should be computed in terms of what a permanent substitute teacher would have earned, not that which she would have earned had she not been subjected to a RIF and remained a physical education teacher. Respondent cites Schwarzkopf v. Bd. of Educ. of Camden, 1985 S.L.D. 130, 140-41 in support of its request.

Petitioner in Schwarzkopf argued that the salary reduction effectuated without advance notice was improper and violative of his rights to due process of law. Petitioner's position of chief psychologist was abolished in connection with a RIF. He was then transferred to the position of psychologist. The ALJ held that when an employee is transferred for proper reason to a position that has a lesser salary expectation, that employee is entitled only to the salary in the new position according to his/her appropriate step on the salary scale. The Commissioner agreed and stated further that "when one is bumped into a lower position pursuant to a bona fide reduction in force, one has entitlement only to the salary of the new position. . . ." Id. at 141.

Therefore, in light of the applicability of Schwarzkopf to the instant matter, petitioner should be made whole for all lost salary that she would have received if she had been properly reemployed by the respondent as a permanent substitute teacher.

CONCLUSION

Petitioner is a tenured teacher holding a valid certificate to serve as a teacher of health and physical education. Both Giampapa and Teaster held identical certificates in health and physical education. Since the description of the permanent substitute teacher includes at a maximum a requirement of a teacher certificate and at a minimum a county substitute certification, petitioner was eligible for either of the two positions to which Giampapa and Teaster were appointed. I CONCLUDE that based upon petitioner's tenure and appropriate certification, she was entitled to the position of permanent substitute teacher. As a result of a RIF, whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified, she shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs. This is the case, despite the fact that a permanent substitute teacher position is not tenure eligible and is not specifically recognized as a seniority category pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(l). To hold otherwise would constitute a violation of petitioner's tenure rights.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's appeal is granted. It is further ORDERED that she be reinstated to the position of permanent substitute teacher and, as such, receive the salary she would have earned for the 1992-93 school year in that position, including all benefits for that position.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 7th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:

WEST ESSEX REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record and initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board filed timely exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Petitioner's reply exceptions, however, were untimely filed, following the denial of a request for an extension to file them.

The Board's exceptions object to the ALJ's conclusions. It charges that the ALJ improperly rejected the argument that the tenure eligibility of the permanent substitute position precludes the relief sought. The Board reiterates its reliance on Polo, supra, and also cites Salvati v. Board of Education of the Township of Montague, Sussex County, decided by the Commissioner April 15, 1982, as stating that a tenured clerical aide, terminated pursuant to a RIF, was not entitled, by virtue of tenure, to a nontenurable position of instructional teacher aide. Petitioner argues that in contrast to the tenure impediment in Polo, but in parity therewith, the instant matter implicates a statutory exception to tenure acquisition which prevents the position sought from being tenure-eligible and, thus, subject to a tenure entitlement claim. Petitioner would distinguish the ALJ's reliance on such cases as Bednar, supra, Capodilupo, supra, and Data-Samtak, supra, because such cases involved claims to tenure-eligible positions, a characteristic absent in this matter.

Upon careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner adopts as her own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. The Commissioner rejects petitioner's exceptions as being without merit for the reasons expressed in the initial decision and notes that the matter captioned Catherine Lammers v. Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant, Appellate Division decision, A-5494-90T1, reconsidered by decision dated November 17, 1992 is dispositive of the entitlement of a properly certified riffed teaching staff member to lay claim to any vacant position such as a permanent substitute for which he or she is qualified. Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision in this matter, and emphasizing the Appellate Division's reconsidered decision in Lammers, the Commissioner determines petitioner is entitled to a position as a permanent substitute for the 1992-93 school year in respondent's district with the emoluments and compensation of such a position.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

MARYBETH DRISCOLL,

PETITIONER-RESPONDENT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE WEST ESSEX REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY, RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 15, 1993

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell & Cohen (Randi Doner, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Schwartz, Simon & Edelstein (Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., of Counsel)

The facts of this matter are not in dispute. Petitioner Marybeth Driscoll (hereinafter "petitioner") is a tenured teaching staff member who was employed by the West Essex Regional Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") as a physical education teacher. By action taken on May 26, 1992, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, the Board eliminated one teaching position in the area of physical education. As the least senior physical education teacher, petitioner was the staff member affected by this reduction in force (RIF), and, accordingly, she was placed on a preferred eligibility list for reemployment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

On the same date that the Board acted to reduce its physical education staff, it voted to issue contracts to two individuals to be employed as "permanent substitute teachers" for the 1992-93 school year. On August 4, 1992, one of those two individuals resigned. The Board did not employ a replacement for that individual.

A "permanent substitute" in this school district reports daily and is the first individual used when any teacher is absent. His schedule varies on a daily or weekly basis, depending on teacher absenteeism. A county substitute's certificate or a teaching certificate is required for qualification.

On June 23, 1992, petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, claiming that the Board had violated her tenure rights when it failed to appoint her to be a permanent substitute teacher for the 1992-93 school year.

Based on the facts stipulated by the parties, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued a summary decision on June 18, 1993, concluding that petitioner was entitled to a position as a permanent substitute. The ALJ reasoned that > ...as a result of a RIF, whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified, she shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs. This is the case despite the fact that a permanent substitute position is not tenure eligible and is not specifically recognized as a seniority category pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(c). To hold otherwise would constitute a violation of petitioner's tenure rights.

Relying on the Appellate Division's decision of November 17, 1992 in Lammers v. Board of Education of the Borough of Point Pleasant, Docket #A-5494-90T1 (App. Div. 1992), the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision as her own.

For the reasons that follow, we reverse.

The Commissioner's reliance on the Appellate Division's decision in Lammers is misplaced. Not only was that decision reversed by the New Jersey Supreme Court, Lammers v. Bd. of Educ., 134 N.J. 264 (1993), but the issues involved in that case have no bearing on the case now before us.

The central issue in Lammers was whether a teacher's one-year leave of absence from her position as a teaching staff member created a "vacancy" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 so as to require that the district board fill the position on the basis of seniority. There was no question that the "vacancy" at issue was in a position which would otherwise have been within the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

Petitioner here claimed that her status as a tenured teaching staff member entitled her to the "position" of permanent substitute teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. In contrast to Lammers, this case turns on whether employment as a permanent substitute is employment in a "position" within the scope of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, not on whether there is a vacancy.

As follows, we find that employment as a permanent substitute is not within the scope of the entitlement conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. Consequently, petitioner's claim must fail.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 provides that whenever a teaching staff member is dismissed as the result of a reduction in staff,

> ...such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligibility list for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified...

(emphasis added).

Reductions in staff are made under authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, which provides that > ...nothing in this title...shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such position.

(emphasis added).

The language of the statutes is not ambiguous. A "position" to which a tenured teaching staff may claim entitlement under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 upon abolition of the "position" she previously held pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 is one as a teaching staff member.

Teaching staff member is defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 as > ...a member of the professional staff of any district or regional board of education,...holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employments, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the State Board of Examiners...

Again, the responsibilities attending employment as a permanent substitute teacher are not in dispute in this case. A permanent substitute reports and is assigned on a daily or weekly basis to substitute for absent teachers. A county substitute certificate is sufficient qualification for this employment and, accordingly, a permanent substitute teacher typically works in short-term assignments.

This employment is not of a character to require an individual so employed to hold a valid standard, provisional or emergency certificate appropriate to employment as a permanent substitute in order to be qualified. Rumson-Fair Haven Education Association and New Jersey Education Association v. Board of Education of the Rumson-Fair Haven Regional School District, decided by the State Board, August 5, 1987, slip op. at 7-11, aff'd, Docket

#A-291-87T8 (App. Div. 1988). Consequently, employment as a permanent substitute is not as a "teaching staff member." Id. Hence, a tenured teacher is not entitled by statute to be employed in that capacity following a reduction in staff pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and placement on a preferred eligibility list for reemployment under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

For the reasons expressed, we reverse the decision of the Commissioner in this case.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3472-93
AGENCY DKT. NO. 26-2/93

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DAVID S. PLOTKIN, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHERRY HILL.

William C. Davis Esq., for petitioner (Davis, Reberkenny & Abramowitz, attorneys)

Steven R. Cohen, Esq., for respondent (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 19, 1993 Decided: August 2, 1993

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Cherry Hill Township Board of Education (petitioner or Board) filed tenure charges of insubordination against David S. Plotkin, respondent. The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13, on April 16, 1993.

On July 7, 1993, I conducted a prehearing telephone conference. Among other things, it was represented that the substance of the charges is that the respondent failed timely to undergo a comprehensive medical examination ordered by the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and -3. It was also represented that the parties were seeking an amicable resolution of the matter.

On July 19, 1993 the parties advised the judge in writing that, with the assistance of his counsel, the respondent did in fact undergo medical evaluations. Counsel then entered into discussions concerning resolution of the matter. They negotiated an agreement and general release. A key element of this agreement is the use of accumulated sick leave days. The numbers reflected in the agreement represent application of accumulated sick leave days for the 1992-93 school year and a payment of the monies for the balance of the accumulated unused sick leave days in accordance with the labor agreement between the Board and the Cherry Hill Education Association.

Having reviewed Tenure Hearing of Cardonick, OAL DKT. EDU 7083-81 and 7094-81 (Feb. 17, 1982), rev'd Comm'r of Ed. (Apr. 7, 1982), aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. (Aug. 4, 1982) and having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law, including the decisions in Cardonick, above.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I here FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, 8th Floor West, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DAVID S. PLOTKIN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF CHERRY HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

The Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. It bears noting that paragraph 7 of the settlement, which states

> "[the] BOARD agrees, convenants and promises that neither it, nor its officers, members, employees, agents or its and their respective successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators will communicate or disclose the terms of this AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE, unless required to do so by law or court order" is not binding on the Commissioner of Education insofar as the terms of the instant settlement are public information.

Moreover, it is noted that some of the terms of this settlement became effective June 30, 1993. The parties are advised that the terms of a settlement brought before the Commissioner are not final until approved by the Commissioner and thus should not presuppose her approval.

With such observations made, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

STANLEY SIEGEL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF GARFIELD, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, nontenured teacher terminated by Board, alleged breach of the cancellation clause in his contract and sought payment for failure by Board to provide proper notice of termination. Original suit had been brought as a contract action in N.J. Superior Court Law Division. Appellate Division transferred matter for review under Commissioner's jurisdiction.

ALJ found petitioner was entitled to damages due to Board's premature cancellation of contract and due to contract language which plainly provided that "[I]n the absence of any provision herein for a definite number of days' notice, the contract shall run for the full term[.]" Board was ordered to pay petitioner salary and monetary benefits for period from December 18, 1991 to June 31, 1992 offset by $60 per day since petitioner declined work offered as substitute teacher.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision and ordered payment to petitioner of mitigated compensation.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a claim by a nontenured teacher that a board of education terminated his employment in breach of the cancellation clause in his teaching contract. Originally, the suit had been brought as a contract action in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Bergen County. Because the claim implicates the question of a teacher's rights in connection with a reduction in force under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, the Appellate Division transferred the case to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") for exercise of her paramount jurisdiction over "all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Essentially, two issues are presented for determination: First, whether respondent violated petitioner's rights when it terminated his employment in the midst of the 1991-92 academic year. Second, what payment is due to petitioner in connection with his termination as the result of a reduction in force. Petitioner contends that he is entitled to salary and benefits for the entire balance of his contract term. The school board maintains that he is only entitled to sixty-days pay, which he has already received.

Procedural History

In December, 1991, petitioner Stanley Siegel ("Siegel") filed a two-count complaint in the Law Division, the first count seeking compensatory damages for breach of contract and the second count seeking punitive damages.[1] Respondent Garfield Board of Education ("Board") promptly moved to dismiss the complaint for lack of jurisdiction. On February 21, 1992, the trial judge entered an order denying the motion. Thereafter, the Board filed its answer on February 27, 1992.

[1]After the case was sent to the state administrative agency, petitioner voluntarily withdrew any claim for punitive damages
