The allegations surrounding the negotiation, execution and acceptance of the Employment Separation Agreement was the subject of both the original Motion for Summary Decision filed by the Board, together with a separate Motion to Dismiss. In my view, based upon my review and consideration of the evidence submitted in connection with those motions in relation to the Agreement, there is no genuine issue of material fact reasonably in dispute and the Board is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

First, it is obvious that by certifying tenure charges against Mucci early in 2001, the Board plainly did not labor under any belief that there had been a binding Separation Agreement between it and Mucci. It was entirely correct in that regard; there was no binding agreement either approved by or fully executed by the Board by resolution or otherwise.

The Separation Agreement involved in this controversy is attached as Exhibit E to Mucci's Certification in Opposition to the Board's original Motion for Summary Decision. Although the document is dated "2001", it has no month or day inserted and the signature page indicates blanks where the signatures of the Board President and the Board Secretary and Mucci were to be placed. The only signature is that of counsel for Mucci, which she apparently executed on January 4, 2001. Also attached to the Brief in Opposition to the Board's Motion, as Exhibit "G" is a handwritten note from Mucci to the Board notifying it of the fact that she was "planning to retire effective December 31, 2000". Exhibit "H" attached to the same Opposition Brief is what I will assume to be a true copy of Board minutes of its meeting of January 9, 2001 wherein under Action 01-190, the Board by a vote of three in favor and none opposed resolved to accept Mucci's retirement as of the date indicated. Finally, attached as Exhibit "I" was a letter from Board counsel to Mucci's attorney, dated February 1, 2001, setting forth that although the Board had accepted the resignation as noted above, since it appeared Mucci was considering an effort to rescind her resignation, the Board intended to schedule a special meeting to consider the certification of tenure charges. Of course, this is exactly what later occurred.

In her certification in opposition, Mucci concedes she never signed the Agreement because, "I felt that some revisions were needed." According to Mucci, on January 5, 2001, the original and several copies of a fully signed and notarized agreement were picked up by a Board representative from her home along with her letter of resignation. The cover letter, she said, ". . . clearly states that it is conditioned upon the Board's acceptance of the Employment Separation Agreement." However, Mucci then learned through her counsel that although the Board voted on January 9, 2001 to accept her resignation and to make her retirement effective as of December 31, 2000, no action had been taken with respect to the Employment Separation Agreement itself. Mucci then was "shocked to learn" that on February 6, 2001, the Board certified tenure charges against her. Finally, attached to her certification is a copy of a letter she signed on December 31, 2000, addressed to the Superintendent of Schools, wherein she advises him that although she submitted "her irrevocable resignation", it was ". . . expressly conditioned upon the Board's compliance with the Employment Separation Agreement between the Board and me which is of no forced or effect, even if accepted, unless said agreement is fully performed by the Board." (Exhibit 3 to Mucci's Certification in Opposition).

Although the Board did not submit any counter-affidavits or certifications specifically related to the facts, it argues that no such documentation is needed given the concession by Mucci that no Separation Agreement was ever fully executed, no less adopted by the Board. Indeed, Mucci does not dispute this conclusion arguing, instead, that if there was no binding agreement, and if she conditioned her resignation on the same, then her resignation was null and void and should be set aside.

Even assuming Mucci's resignation-retirement was, in her mind, conditioned upon the Board's acceptance of the Agreement, the fact is that for nearly one and one half school years leading up to the events of late December 2000 and early January 2001, Mucci did not at work a single day. At no time did she present herself for active employment, and given various submissions made during the course of these cases it is clear that she had no real capacity to do so. There is, therefore, no need to continue these cases in light of the fact that Mucci: (a) has not worked since September 1999; (b) retired effective January 1, 2001; (c) has been receiving pension benefits for a few years, at least; and (d) no longer opposes the Tenure Charges and claims they are "moot". Her position plainly militates against proceeding any further and it is time, once and for all, to put an end to this litigation. As the Board pointed out in its reply to Mucci's certification nearly three years ago, ". . . this case presents the most severe example of how a teacher's absences impact upon a district. It is also illustrative of the absurdity of certain possible outcomes. To find in favor of Ms. Mucci would force the Board, a one-school district with a small budget, to continue to pay a teacher, who has not worked for two years and admittedly would not return to work, with one of the highest salaries in the State of New Jersey." I agree.

Beginning in September 1999, Mucci simply was not capable of performing as a tenured teaching staff member. Although she wanted to effect her retirement through a negotiated agreement with the Board, that agreement never came to fruition because it was never fully executed, no less adopted by the Board. When Mucci then rescinded her resignation the Board, to protect itself, naturally prepared tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and incapacity. Then Mucci retired. Thus, it would be, as the Board points out, absurd to continue any further. Having withdrawn her opposition to the tenure charges and retired over three years ago, Mucci, for all intents and purposes, has waived any claims for relief she may have had, if any, against the Board. In the interest of economy and efficiency, if nothing else, her petitions should be and hereby are ORDERED dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." CARMELLA MUCCI, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE, BERGEN COUNTY, RESPONDENT. And IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CARMELLA MUCCI, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE, BERGEN COUNTY. And CARMELLA MUCCI, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MOONACHIE, BERGEN COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	: : : : : : : : : : : : : : :	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Ms. Mucci's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.[1]

[1] On June 15, 2004, Ms. Mucci submitted a letter with two attachements which were characterized as "additional documentation." The Board filed a response to Ms. Mucci's submission on June 16, 2004. In that N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not provide for submissions other than exceptions and replies, these additional submissions were not considered.

In her exceptions, Ms. Mucci asserts that this matter is not ripe for summary decision in that genuine issues of material fact exist. (Ms. Mucci's Exceptions at 6) In support thereof, Ms. Mucci reiterates her argument, presented before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that "there is a substantial factual dispute as to whether there was a duly negotiated Employment Separation Agreement (Agreement) that was agreed upon prior to the Board's decision to proffer tenure charges against Ms. Mucci." (Id. at 7) Ms. Mucci points out that the Board accepted her letter of resignation, which was expressly conditioned upon the Board's acceptance of the Agreement, before it voted to certify tenure charges against her. (Ibid.) If the Board did not agree with the terms of the Agreement, Ms. Mucci avers, it could have refused to accept her letter of resignation since it was not an unconditional resignation. (Ibid.) Moreover, Ms. Mucci claims that there appears to be a dispute over whether the Board had communicated a date by which she had to accept the Agreement and whether there was a meeting of the minds with respect to the Agreement, given some minor revisions to the Agreement by Ms. Mucci's counsel. (Ibid.) Additionally, Ms. Mucci reasons, since she has not cashed any pension checks to date, there is a factual issue as to whether she has actually retired. (Ibid.)

Ms. Mucci also contends that whether her absenteeism warrants her dismissal is a fact-sensitive question that should not be resolved by summary decision, contending that her attendance prior to 1997 was excellent and that it is only since September 1999 that her attendance record dramatically changed due to a severely debilitating environmental illness. (Id. at 8) Ms. Mucci points out that the Board did not charge incapacity, but, rather, charged her with chronic and excessive absenteeism and argues that the cases cited by the Board in support of its Motion for Summary Decision highlight the type of analysis that must occur, noting that none of the cases cited by the Board were decided by summary decision. (Ibid.)

With respect to In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Pellagatti, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 121 (1992), cited by the Board in support of its motion, Ms. Mucci points out that a two-day hearing was conducted in that matter and, in contrast to her situation, Pellegatti had averaged over 40 absences a year over a 10-year period, had been counseled on numerous occasions about her lateness and absences and had a substance abuse problem she was trying to conceal. (Id. at 8-9) Ms. Mucci further points to In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jerome Kacprowicz, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 147 (1993), another case cited by the Board where a teacher was terminated following a hearing on his record of absenteeism, claiming that her situation differs in that Mr. Kacprowicz's attendance was a problem for nine years and there was evidence presented that Mr. Kaprowicz's absences caused a disruption of the continuity of instruction; whereas, this case simply assumes a negative impact on students. (Id. at 9) Ms. Mucci claims that a long-term replacement could be hired while she was absent from work, unlike intermittent absences which compel a Board to use substitute teachers who are often not able to provide continuity of instruction. (Ibid.) Moreover, Ms. Mucci contends that "increment withholdings have often been used by local boards of education to discipline an employee for excessive absenteeism prior to the pursuit of tenure charges," and that "[i]t is possible that based on all of the circumstances and factors that may be brought forth during a hearing, a conclusion could be reached that an increment withholding is appropriate." (Id. at 10)

Ms. Mucci submits that only her absenteeism for the last several years is at issue and that these absences must be evaluated in light of her 37 years of employment with the District. (Id. at 10-11) Such evaluation, Ms. Mucci avers, cannot take place without a full hearing. (Id. at 11)

Finally, Ms. Mucci avers that there were numerous inconsistencies in the documents submitted to and relied on by the ALJ, including, inter alia:

> 1. The minutes of the meeting of January 9, 2001 which were supplied were unsigned. Ms. Mucci has questioned whether this meeting actually took place. The minutes state the Board attorney (Mr. Sciarillo) "would get in touch with Ms. Mucci's attorney to discuss the package further and report back to the Board." (Exhibit "E"). This never occurred.

2. The Board purportedly conducted a special meeting on February 6, 2001 to consider the tenure charges. (Exhibit "G"). Only 3 members attended the meeting and 2 were absent, yet the Resolution indicates that it was "upon a majority vote of the full membership of the Moonachie Board of Education," (Exhibit "H"). The full membership of the Board was not in attendance according to the Board's own minutes.

3. The copy of the Separation Agreement referenced in the Judge's Initial Decision was not signed by Ms. Mucci because all of the ones she signed had been picked up at her home by the Board's Business Administrator. (See Exhibit "A", paragraph 11).

4. The Administrative Law Judge notes that the Board "did not submit any counter-affidavits or certifications specifically related to the facts", yet he makes findings of fact in the Board's favor.

5. Contrary to the Judge's finding, Ms. Mucci has not waived any claims for relief she has against the Board. A waiver must be "knowing" and "intentional". Testimony would need to be taken on those issues since they involve Ms. Mucci's state of mind. (Id. at 12)

In conclusion, Ms. Mucci urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision, commenting that "[w]hile it may be economical and efficient to dispose of Ms. Mucci's claims by summary decision, it is neither equitable, fair, just or in accordance with applicable law. (Id. at 13)

In response, the Board contends that the ALJ correctly concluded that there was no binding settlement agreement between Ms. Mucci and the Board, noting that the ALJ found that the Board never executed the Agreement. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1-2) The Board also points out that Ms. Mucci admitted that she revised the Agreement that was circulated between the parties. Thus, the Board argues, "[a]ny issues regarding deadlines to accept the agreement, or issues related to whether her resignation was conditional are irrelevant, as they do not change the fact that the Board never accepted Petitioner's terms, the only material fact at issue." (Id. at 2)

With respect to Ms. Mucci's assertion that there is a factual dispute as to whether she is retired since she has not cashed her retirement checks, the Board contends that whether or not Ms. Muccci has cashed her retirement checks is irrelevant in that there is no legal basis to claim that Ms. Mucci's failure to deposit her retirement checks negates her status as retired. (Ibid.) The Board points out that Ms. Mucci admits that she applied for her pension and is now receiving checks from the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund. (Ibid.) Moreover, the Board claims that Ms. Mucci "has acknowledged that her tenure charges are now moot, based in part on her employment status." (Ibid.)

The Board also maintains that summary decision on the issue of Ms. Mucci's absenteeism is appropriate in that the law does not mandate a hearing where no material factual issues remain. (Id. at 3) The Board points out that Ms. Mucci has been absent since September 1999 and that "[t]he law is clear that chronic or excessive absenteeism 'has been found to constitute both "incapacity" and "unbecoming conduct" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, such as to warrant dismissal from employment.'" (Ibid., citing Kacprowicz, supra, at 147, quoting In the matter of the Tenure Hearing of David Williamson, Trenton School District, Mercer County, 1986 S.L.D. 1462, 1467. Moreover, again citing Kacprowicz, supra, at 151, the Board avers that "excessive absenteeism constitutes valid grounds for dismissing a tenured teacher even when the absences have been excused or caused by legitimate reasons of personal illness." (Ibid.) (emphasis in text) The Board thus claims that the reasons for Ms. Mucci's absences, as well as the history of her absences before 1999, are irrelevant. (Id. at 3-4)

Finally, with respect to the alleged inconsistencies which Ms. Mucci raises, the Board contends that none of these facts, if true, are material to this case because they do not change the fact that the Board did not accept any settlement, noting that Ms. Mucci's claim that the ALJ erred in making findings of fact in favor of the Board because the Board did not provide any counter-affidavits in response to Ms. Mucci's opposition to the Board's motion for summary judgment is flawed because Ms. Mucci admits that she revised the Agreement and that the Agreement was never signed by the Board. (Id. at 4) "In light of these admissions, which the Board does not contest, there is no need for the Board to submit any additional factual support for its relief when the Petitioner's admissions provide enough support." (Ibid.) The Board thus concludes that no hearing was, therefore, needed to reach a fair, equitable and just decision in light of the magnitude of Ms. Mucci's absences. (Ibid.) The Board also points out that Ms. Mucci "has not worked since 1999, [is] retired in the eyes of the Board and the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (regardless of what she is doing with her checks), and has no intention of returning to work. (Id. at 5)

After a careful and independent review of the papers filed in this matter, the Commissioner has determined that grant of summary decision to the Board is appropriate in this instance. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) and Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121-122 (App. Div. 1995) (citing Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995), summary decision may be granted in an administrative proceeding if there is no genuine issue of material fact in dispute and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In this regard, notwithstanding Ms. Mucci's assertions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds that there are no "material facts" in dispute in this matter. Black's Law Dictionary, seventh edition, at 610-611, defines "fact" as "[a]n actual or alleged event or circumstance, as distinguished from its legal effect, consequence, or interpretation" and a "material fact" as "[a] fact that is significant or essential to the issue or matter at hand." "It is well-established that where no disputed issues of material fact exist, an administrative agency need not hold an evidential hearing in a contested case." Frank v. Ivy Club, 120 N.J. 73, 98 (1990), citing Cunningham v. Dept. of Civil Service, 69 N.J. 13, 24-25 (1975). "Moreover, disputes as to the conclusions to be drawn from the facts, as opposed to the facts themselves, will not defeat a motion for summary judgment." Contini v. Board of Education of Newark, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 196, 215, citing Lima & Sons, Inc. v. Borough of Ramsey, 269 N.J. Super. 469, 478 (App. Div. 1994); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Andrew Phillips, School District of the Borough of Roselle, Union County, Commissioner's Decision No. 129-97, decided March 20, 1997; and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Neal A. Ercolano, Board of Education of Branchburg Township, Somerset County, Commissioner's Decision No. 140-00, decided May 1, 2000. Additionally, the Commissioner finds that the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law for reasons provided in the Initial Decision and explicated below.

Notwithstanding Ms. Mucci's challenge to the withholding of her increment and the filing of tenure charges against her by the Board, this matter, in actuality, turns on the resolution of two issues: 1) whether the Employment Separation Agreement at issue was finalized and approved by both parties to this action and 2) whether Ms. Mucci's retirement renders the consolidated petitions in this matter moot.

It is undisputed that Ms. Mucci and the Board were engaged in active negotiations to develop an Employment Separation Agreement during the 1999-2000 school year, but that such negotiations did not ultimately result in a finalized, executed Agreement during that year. (Ms. Mucci's Exceptions at 2, Petition of Appeal Regarding Agreement at 2 and Answer at 1) It is also undisputed that, although negotiations continued into the Fall of 2000, on or about September 5, 2000, the Board voted to withhold Ms. Mucci's employment, adjustment and longevity increments for the 2000-01 school year (Petition of Appeal Regarding Increment Withholding at 1 and Answer at 1), and on December 13, 2000, Ms. Mucci was served with tenure charges. (Ms. Mucci's Exceptions at 3 and Board's Motion for Summary Decision at 5) Moreover, there is no dispute that: 1) Ms. Mucci sent a letter to the Board on December 27, 2000 notifying it of her intention to retire as of December 31, 2000 (ibid., and Ms. Mucci's Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit G); 2) Ms. Mucci's attorney made changes to the latest version of the proposed Agreement and Ms. Mucci delivered a signed copy of the revised Agreement on or about January 5, 2001, along with the letter of resignation required by the Agreement, to the Board Secretary (ibid.); 3) on January 9, 2001, the Board voted to accept Ms. Mucci's retirement effective December 31, 2000, but did not vote on the revised Agreement submitted by Ms. Mucci (ibid. and Ms. Mucci's Certification of May 23, 2001 at 3); and 4) on February 6, 2001, the Board voted to certify tenure charges against Ms. Mucci to the Commissioner (id. at 4 and Board's Motion for Summary Decision at 5).

The "genuine issues of material fact" set forth in petitioner's exceptions with respect to the Agreement, therefore, i.e., the dispute over whether there was a duly executed Agreement that was agreed upon prior to the Board's decision to proffer tenure charges against Ms. Mucci; whether the Board ever communicated a date to Ms. Mucci, and whether there was a meeting of the minds (Petitioner's Exceptions at 7) are facts not material to the determination as to whether the Employment Separation Agreement at issue was finalized and approved by both parties to this action given Ms. Mucci's concession that the revised Agreement was neither approved by the Board nor signed by a duly designated Board representative. (Id. at 3 and Petition of Appeal Regarding Employment Separation Agreement at 2) Moreover, the Commissioner cannot ignore that Ms. Mucci made revisions to and signed the proposed Agreement following the December 13, 2000 notification from the Board that it was contemplating the filing of tenure charges against her. The action of the Board initiating the filing of tenure charges and Ms. Mucci's revisions to and signing of the proposed Agreement shortly thereafter clearly demonstrate that there was no finalized Agreement between the parties. In this context, Ms. Mucci's signature on the Agreement she revised cannot be construed as an acceptance of a settlement, but, instead, was a counteroffer that the Board did not act upon. See Larson & Fish v. Schultz, 69 A.2d 328 (App. Div. 1949) and Carlin v. City of Newark, 114 A.2d 761 (Law Div. 1955). Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that the Employment Separation Agreement at issue in this matter was never finalized and approved by both parties to this action and, thus, Ms. Mucci's request to enforce such Agreement is hereby denied.

Turning to the issue of Ms. Mucci's retirement and its effect on the remaining issues in these consolidated petitions, the Commissioner notes that, in her certification dated May 23, 2001, Ms. Mucci states that she filed an application for retirement with the Division of Pensions for a January 1, 2001 retirement, that there was a delay in the Board submitting its portion, which was finally submitted, and that there is now a delay because she cannot locate a copy of her birth certificate. (Certification of Ms. Mucci, dated May 23, 2001, Item #13) The Board of Trustees at the Division of Pensions subsequently approved Ms. Mucci's retirement, effective January 1, 2001, at their regular meeting on October 11, 2001. (Letter of October 11, 2001 from the Division of Pensions Attached to the Board's Letter to the ALJ of October 18, 2001) Notwithstanding Ms. Mucci's claim in her exceptions that there is a factual issue as to whether she has retired, given that her letter of resignation was expressly conditioned upon the Board's acceptance of the revised Employment Separation Agreement and that she has not cashed any pension checks, the Commissioner observes that, as of May 23, 2001, the date of the above-cited certification, Ms. Mucci was proceeding to complete the process to effectuate her retirement, with an effective date of January 1, 2001, some five months after she was aware that the Board had not acted to accept her proffer of a revised Agreement, and that there is nothing in the record to suggest that Ms Mucci made any attempt to rescind or nullify her retirement with the Division of Pensions, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 17:3-6.3(a).[2] Accordingly, there is no basis for [2] N.J.A.C. 17:3-6.3(a) provides that:

> A member shall have the right to withdraw, cancel or change an application for retirement at any time before the member's retirement allowance becomes due and payable by sending a written request signed by the member. Thereafter, the retirement shall stand as approved by the Board.

and N.J.A.C. 17:3-6.2(a) provides that:

> A member's retirement allowance shall not become due and payable until 30 days after the date the Board approved the application for retirement or 30 days after the date of retirement, whichever is later.

the Commissioner to conclude that Ms. Mucci has nullified her retirement status with the Division of Pensions.

Moreover, with respect to Ms. Mucci's not cashing her retirement checks, it cannot be ignored that Ms. Mucci has a history of not cashing checks. In this regard, as of September 11, 1998, the Commissioner observes that Ms. Mucci had not cashed nine of her paychecks totaling $21,662.64 (Tenure Charges, Exhibit 11), and that the proposed Agreement provides that "[t]he Board will reimburse Ms. Mucci for any prior salary checks paid to her by the Board, which she has not yet negotiated, regardless of the age of these checks." (Ms. Mucci's Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit B at 3, #e) Given the absence of notification to the Division of Pensions nullifying or revoking her retirement status, therefore, Ms. Mucci has provided no basis for the Commissioner to conclude that there is a question as to her retirement status simply because she has not cashed her retirement checks.

In light of the Commissioner's conclusions that the Employment Separation Agreement at issue was never finalized and approved by both parties so as to continue an enforceable Agreement and that Ms. Mucci retired from the District as of January 1, 2001, the other issues raised in these consolidated matters, including the tenure charges filed against Ms. Mucci and Ms. Mucci's challenge to her increment withholding,[3] are moot and there is, therefore, no basis upon which this matter can be ordered to proceed.

[3] The Commissioner notes that, by letter to the ALJ of May 13, 2002, counsel for Ms. Mucci states:

> I believe the dismissal of the Workers' Compensation cases probably does dispose of the issues contained within the increment withholding and the tenure cases. [The Workers' Compensation matters were dismissed for failure to sustain the burden of proof. (See Counsel for Ms. Mucci's letter of April 29, 2002 with Attachment, and the Board's Letter of May 7, 2002 with Attachment.)] I must point out, as I'm sure Ms. Mucci will, that there still remains one pending Workers' Compensation matter which she filed pro-se concerning occupational exposure after 1995. (Counsel for Ms. Mucci's Letter, May 13, 2002)

Additionally, with respect to the withholding of Ms. Mucci's increment for the 2000-01 school year, there is nothing in the record to suggest that there would be any effect on her retirement benefits should she prevail in that Ms. Mucci was not in pay status at any time during the 2000-01 school year prior to the effective date of her retirement.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, as well as those expressed in the Initial Decision, the Commissioner grants Summary Decision to the Board and dismisses the within petitions, with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF GLORIA JIMENEZ, :
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF :
LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

June 21, 2004

AGENCY DKT. NO. 136-4/04

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF GLORIA JIMENEZ, :
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
LONG BRANCH, MONMOUTH COUNTY. : DECISION

For Petitioner: McOmber & McOmber, P.C.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on April 19, 2004 through the certification of tenure charges against a tenured custodian alleging abandonment of her position with the Long Branch School District.

By notice dated April 20, 2004, the Commissioner directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her.[1] This communication from the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, or where there has been a submission by the charged employee of a responsive filing indicating that she does not contest the charges, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee. Because no reply has been received from respondent, or on her behalf, in response to the District's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(c).

[1] Although the notice sent via certified mail was returned to the New Jersey Department of Education indicating it was "not deliverable as addressed," the notice sent via regular mail was not returned.

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicates that respondent has been employed with the Board since May of 1989. In April of 1996, respondent claimed an injury at work and was involved in subsequent workers' compensation claims and litigation. Based on information provided by the workers' compensation carrier, respondent should have returned to work in January 2003; repeated efforts to reach her at her last known address have not led to any contact. Respondent is not receiving a salary, has not attempted to contact the Board office or any of her direct supervisors, and has not responded to any of the Board's inquiries. (Sworn Affidavit of Evidence by Archie Greenwood, Assistant Superintendent at 1-2)

Deeming the within charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent does not deny the specific allegations, the Commissioner finds that the Board has demonstrated that respondent has abandoned her position as a tenured custodian with the Long Branch School District.[2]

IT IS ORDERED this 21st day of June 2004 that summary decision shall be granted to the District, and respondent shall be dismissed from her tenured position as a custodian in the Board's employ as of the date of this order.[3]

The record of this emergent matter, including the audiotape of proceedings before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and the oral Initial Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed by the Assistant Commissioner to whom this matter has been delegated for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34.

Upon such review, the Assistant Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has not met the standard established by law for grant of emergency relief. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and *Crowe v. Accordingly, the Order of the OAL denying the application for emergent relief is adopted as the final decision in this interim matter; however, the Order is Petitioning parent challenged the expulsion of daughter, O.N., from school for allegedly assaulting a teacher.

The ALJ found that petitioner failed to meet the burden of showing that the Board's action in expelling O.N. was arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. The ALJ also found that the alternative education program offered by the District at the MAECOM Adult High School Program is a comprehensive program that meets all core curriculum content standards, as well as all State guidelines and is required to comply with statutory and regulatory requirements related to health and gym.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision and dismissed the petition.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioners challenge the expulsion of their daughter from school for allegedly assaulting a teacher. Petitioners submitted a petition to the Commissioner of Education dated January 9, 2004, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case on January 12, 2004. The matter was scheduled for oral argument on January 16, 2004, on the petitioners' request for emergent relief. On that date, oral argument was held and some limited testimony was taken. As a result of that hearing, an order was entered on January 20, 2004, denying the emergent relief request to stay the expulsion of O.N. from school. On January 28, 2004, the Commissioner affirmed the denial of petitioners' application for emergent relief, but remanded the matter to the OAL for supplementary testimony on an emergency basis as to whether the alternative education program offered by the school district satisfies the requirements of P.H. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield, Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7381-00, State Board of Education Decision on Motion (September 5, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Accordingly, the matter was rescheduled for a second emergent relief hearing, which was held on February 2, 2004. Following this emergent relief hearing, an order granting emergent relief as to placement was entered on February 3, 2004.

The plenary hearing was scheduled for March 30, 2004. On that date, a hearing was held and concluded and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

It is undisputed that prior to her expulsion O.N. was in her junior year at Monmouth Regional High School. Her parents stated that they moved to the area in August 2003. O.N. has a twin sister who also attends Monmouth Regional High School.

It is also undisputed that on December 18, 2003, O.N. was involved in an altercation with several other students. When the altercation broke out, Andrew Teeple, the principal of Monmouth Regional High School, grabbed O.N.'s twin sister, and Joseph Pingitore, a teacher, attempted to grab O.N. by the arms in an effort to restrain her.

At the emergent relief hearing in this matter, the parents contended that Mr. Pingitore used excessive force in holding O.N.'s arms, and was hurting her, thus compelling O.N. to flail her arms in an attempt to break free from his grip, and that it was as a result of this flailing action that O.N. struck Mr. Pingitore. The parents contended that this striking was inadvertent, and that Mr. Pingitore acknowledged that it was an accident and not intentional, and that at the hearing before the Board, he expressed that he did not believe that O.N. had intentionally struck him. The parents contended that there was no assault in this matter, but there was a mishap, and O.N. did not intend to harm the teacher.

Also at the emergent relief hearing, Mr. Barger, attorney for respondent, stated that the policy of the Board of Education is zero tolerance for striking a teacher. He represented that at the hearing before the Board the testimony was to the effect that O.N. repeatedly struck the teacher, justifying the expulsion. Mr. Barger indicated that the school district is aware of P.H. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield, Bergen County, supra, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7381-00, State Board of Education Decision on Motion (September 5, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, and has offered to O.N. Monmouth Adult School, where, if she completes the course of study, she will be given a diploma from Monmouth Regional High School.

The testimony at the plenary hearing in this matter can be summarized as follows.

The first witness to testify for respondent was Joseph R. Pingitore. Mr. Pingitore is an employee of the Monmouth Regional Board of Education and has been a teacher for eighteen years, and in addition to teaching he coaches football and baseball. He is also an SAAD advisor.

Mr. Pingitore testified that on December 18, 2003, at approximately 7:30 a.m. or 7:35 a.m., he heard a ruckus in the school hallway and saw a group of students yelling at each other, and there were certain students being restrained. He stepped between several of the girls and he started to escort one of the girls away. Mr. Teeple, the school principal, and Mr. Larkin, another teacher, also came running and started breaking up the ruckus and leading away some of the other girls. Mr. Pingitore was standing between O.N. and the other girls and was attempting to walk her away from the incident while she was trying to return to the area of the incident. He did not know who she was at the time, but he recognized her as a student. She was very angry and upset with one of the other girls. O.N. attempted to go around him and he put his arms out and tried to grab onto her arms, but was unable to do so. He was holding his hands out in an effort to stop her from going past him. It was at that point that she began flailing and struck him approximately five times with her closed fist, hitting him on the back of the head, on his shoulder and on his face. While this was occurring, she was still screaming at the other girl. He was simply attempting to prevent her from going past him. Officer Robert DeLaune stopped O.N. from hitting Mr. Pingitore and escorted O.N. away, and Mr. Pingitore had no further contact with her. As a result of this incident, he pulled something in his shoulder and it was necessary for him to take off sick the next day, which was a Friday.

On cross-examination, Mr. Pingitore testified that the testimony he gave at the hearing is the same testimony that he gave before the Board of Education. He denied that he ever held on to O.N.'s arms. He stated that she was definitely trying to hit him because she was very frustrated and angry. On redirect examination, he reiterated that he believes that O.N. struck him intentionally. He said that she was enraged and she was not flailing to get away from him, but was intentionally striking him. She was telling him to get out of her way. She later apologized to him.

The next witness to testify for respondent was Robert DeLaune, a sergeant with the Tinton Falls Police Department. He is in charge of the School Resource Program and he was on-site at Monmouth Regional High School on December 18, 2003. That day at approximately 7:30 or 7:35 a.m. he witnessed a fight. He was called over the radio and told that there was a fight in the hallway. He and Officer McBride went to the location, and he believes he was wearing his uniform at the time. He remembers seeing one student in particular, O.N. He observed Coach Pingitore[1] attempting to hold the student, and she was breaking free and flailing her arms. He saw O.N. strike Coach Pingitore approximately four to six times, at least twice in the head and shoulders. Officer DeLaune then approached O.N. and grabbed and held her by the biceps and took her away. He arrested her and charged her with aggravated assault against a school board employee. She was committing an assault when he observed her. She was very aggressive, belligerent and very determined, but when he held her and got her away she calmed down immediately.

[1] During their testimony, the witnesses referred to Mr. Pingitore as "Coach" Pingitore. I have used that appellation where it was used by the witnesses in order to be consistent with their testimony.

On cross-examination, Sergeant DeLaune testified that Coach Pingitore was attempting to hold O.N.'s arms, but was not able to grab onto them. From what he observed, he believed that it was O.N.'s intention to physically strike Coach Pingitore. He indicated that she was a "perfect lady" after he got her outside.

On redirect examination, Officer DeLaune testified that in his opinion O.N. intended to strike Coach Pingitore. He did not tell her her rights because he did not question her.

The next witness to testify for respondent was Andrew Francis Teeple. He is employed by the Monmouth Regional Board of Education and this is his first year as a principal. For eleven years before becoming a principal he worked in the district as a math teacher, a math supervisor, and an assistant principal. He did not recall the date of the incident involving O.N., but he remembered that the incident occurred around 7:30 to 7:40 a.m. There was an altercation in the 700 wing of the high school, and when he arrived at the scene, he witnessed Coach Pingitore attempting to hold back O.N. As soon as he got there, he grabbed O.N.'s sister and locked onto her. He then saw O.N. confronting Coach Pingitore. He first saw Coach Pingitore attempting to grab her, and he then held his hands out. She was taking swings at him with a closed fist and he observed her hitting Coach Pingitore on the upper shoulder and on the left side of his head. He saw at least a couple of blows land. Coach Pingitore had his hands up trying to calm her down, but was unable to do so. There was no one else near them when O.N. was hitting Coach Pingitore. She was hitting him and trying to get past him and Mr. Teeple observed that she was in a rage. It was clear to him that the striking of Coach Pingitore was intentional, because she was looking at him. He indicated that later that day O.N. wanted to apologize to Coach Pingitore, but she was not allowed to do so. Coach Pingitore was out sick the next day.

On cross-examination, Mr. Teeple testified that as principal of the high school, he is the building administrator. He said that at the time of the incident he felt that a ten-day suspension for O.N. was adequate. At a meeting held after the incident, O.N. apologized and Coach Pingitore accepted her apology. O.N.'s parent asked for an anger management class plus probation until the end of O.N.'s school term and he felt that was sufficient. However, he stated that he is aware of the school district policy and he knew of the mandatory expulsion hearing.

Patrick Collum testified that he has been employed by the Monmouth Regional Board of Education as its superintendent for approximately fourteen years. He was an assistant superintendent in the school district from 1978 to 1990. He was present at O.N.'s expulsion hearing. He stated that he is aware of the obligation of the school district to provide an alternative education program to an expelled student. He testified that MAECOM is a fully acceptable alternate education program and graduates twelve to sixteen students per year. It is a comprehensive program that meets all core curriculum content standards, as well as all State guidelines.

The next witness to testify was Sister Elizabeth Dalessio. She has been employed by the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission for two years and it operates the MAECOM Adult High School, Tinton Falls, New Jersey. There are various programs in the MAECOM School, including the adult high school program. She indicated that O.N. will continue in an adult high school program. It is a full and comprehensive high school program and complies with all New Jersey core curriculum content standards. It differs from the regular high school in that its hours are flexible. The program runs from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and then from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. A student can come in from 8:00 a.m. to noon and then from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. During those time periods, the student would take all required courses. Over the past two years, MAECOM has had twelve to sixteen students from Monmouth Regional. It is a learning center environment with each of the students doing his or her work under the guidance of a teacher, but most of the work is done by the student and then reviewed with the teacher.

On cross-examination, Sister Elizabeth Dalessio testified that initially a student is tested for four to six hours to determine an appropriate placement. The adult school is the same as the regular high school in course content. She testified that the adult high school is better than home instruction. She admitted that some of the students in the high school are there because of disciplinary problems. However, 40 percent of the graduates go on to college. Twenty of the current students are under seventeen years old.

At the conclusion of the foregoing testimony, the school district rested.

B.F., O.N.'s mother, testified that verbal threats made to her daughters on December 17, 2003, led to the altercation the next day. On December 18, 2003, she received a call from Mr. Larkin about the altercation. He advised her that O.N. had been brought to juvenile detention, but he never told her that O.N. had been arrested. She then picked up O.N. and called Mr. Larkin and Mr. Teeple to set up a meeting. The meeting involved her and her two daughters. There were almost 100 students involved in the altercation. She testified that Coach Pingitore had his hands on O.N. and that she had to be taken to the nurse for injuries to her arms. O.N. apologized to Coach Pingitore and he accepted the apology. The principal and the parents agreed to a ten-day suspension and agreed that O.N. was to be sent to anger management class and that she would be placed on probation until graduation. Despite this agreement, there was an expulsion hearing held by the Board of Education in January 2004 at which the Board of Education determined to expel O.N.

B.F. testified that they went to visit MAECOM, but O.N. was not allowed into the high school program, which they were told is just like the Monmouth Regional High School program. Because of this, O.N. was placed on home instruction, but the school district would not permit the teacher to go to their home and be alone with O.N. O.N. is now taken by bus to the school Monday through Thursday, from 2:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on three days and from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. the fourth day, where she receives home instruction in the school. As far as health and gym requirements for graduation, she has been advised that the State does not have to waive the health and gym requirements.

H.W., O.N.'s father, testified that the MAECOM program is inadequate. It is a self-taught program and there is no actual teaching going on. With home instruction, O.N. is at least getting the same instruction as her sister. He also feels that O.N. must have health and gym in order to graduate from high school. He does not believe the school district is able to waive the health and gym attendance requirements and he feels that there is no alternative to home instruction at the present time. He believes that there would be irreparable harm if O.N. loses a full year, and asks that she be allowed to return next year.

O.N., age sixteen, also testified. Her testimony was limited to the inadequacy of the MAECOM program. She testified that she went to MAECOM for several days and all they did was test her. They would simply give her the work and then she would leave. She would then have to leave the work that she did in the mailbox. If she had a question she had to ask a teacher who was not in charge of her because her regular teacher was not there. This is not the same as it was in high school. Only four or five of the twenty people in the class were under the age of eighteen. Some people simply got up and left. She felt like a prisoner and was not learning anything. She was only being tested and was there for only two or three weeks at the most.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2.1 provides for the suspension or expulsion of a pupil for assault:

> a. Any pupil who commits an assault, as defined pursuant to N.J.S. 2C:12-1, upon a teacher, administrator, board member or other employee of a board of education, acting in the performance of his duties and in a situation where his authority to so act is apparent, or as a result of the victim's relationship to an institution of public education of this State, not involving the use of a weapon or firearm, shall be immediately suspended from school consistent with procedural due process pending suspension or expulsion proceedings before the local board of education. Said proceedings shall take place no later than 30 calendar days following the day on which the pupil is suspended. The decision of the board shall be made within five days after the close of the hearing. Any appeal of the board's decision shall be made to the Commissioner of Education within 90 days of the board's decision. The provisions herein shall be construed in a manner consistent with 20 U.S.C. section 1400 et seq.
> b. Whenever a teacher, administrator, board member, other employee of a board of education or a labor representative on behalf of an employee makes an allegation in writing that the board member or employee has been assaulted by a pupil, the principal shall file a written report of the alleged assault with the district's superintendent of schools. The superintendent to whom the alleged assault is reported or, if there is no superintendent in the district, the principal who received the allegation from the board member, employee, or labor representative shall report the alleged assault to the board of education of the district at its next regular meeting; provided that the name of the pupil who allegedly committed the assault, although it may be disclosed to the members of the board of education, shall be kept confidential at the public board of education meeting.

> Any person who fails to file a report of an alleged assault as required pursuant to this subsection may be liable to disciplinary action by the board of education of the district.

N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(a) sets forth the definition of assault as follows:

> A person is guilty of assault if he:
> (1) Attempts to cause or purposely, knowingly or recklessly causes bodily injury to another; or
> (2) Negligently causes bodily injury to another with a deadly weapon; or
> (3) Attempts by physical menace to put another in fear of imminent serious bodily injury.

In this matter there is no Tibbs issue; that is, the petitioner did not allege any constitutional due process insufficiency or irregularity with regard to the hearing process under the doctrine of Tibbs v. Bd. of Educ., Franklin Township, 59 N.J. 506, aff'g 114 N.J. Super. 287 (App. Div. 1971). See decision of the Commissioner in R.W. v. Bd. of Educ., Hunterdon Cent. Reg. High Sch., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 113, 114-15 (suspension procedure reviewed and approved). Thus, the only issue is whether petitioner met the burden of proof so as to justify the reversal of the Board's decision to expel O.N.

In assessing the propriety of an expulsion, the scope of review of the Commissioner of Education is circumscribed. As noted by Administrative Law Judge Metzger in M.G. v. Monmouth Regional High School Board of Education, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 38, 40, aff'd in part, rev'd in part, State Bd. of Educ., 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 364: "[The board's] decisions in this matter carry a presumption of validity and [it is the] petitioners who must show that the actions taken were arbitrary and unreasonable, if they are to be disturbed." In adopting the administrative law judge's decision, the Commissioner of Education likewise noted the limited scope of review:

> . . . it is not a proper exercise of a judicial function for the Commissioner to interfere with local boards in the management of their schools unless they violate the law, act in bad faith (meaning acting dishonestly), or abuse their discretion in a shocking manner. Furthermore, it is not the function of the Commissioner in a judicial decision to substitute his judgment for that of the board members on matters which are by statute delegated to the local boards.

There are many judicial decisions expressing the same concepts, such as Quinlan v. Board of Education of North Bergen Township, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46-47 (App. Div. 1962); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960); Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581 (1966); and Boyle v. Riti, 175 N.J. Super. 158, 166 (App. Div. 1980). In Boyle, the court declared:

> It is well established that a presumption of reasonableness attaches to the action of an administrative agency and the party who challenges the validity of that action has the burden of showing that it was arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious. . . . Also, where the administrative record discloses a reasonable basis for findings and accordant administrative action, [the reviewing court's] duty is ordinarily to uphold such action.

Based upon the foregoing, it is clear that in a matter such as this, the burden of proof is on the petitioners, and the legal standard to be applied is that an action of a local school board that lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset, unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives, Kopera, supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. Applying this standard does not leave discretion in this tribunal to recommend, or in the case of the Commissioner of Education, to decide that a new judgment should be substituted. Thus, mere disagreement, if any, with the Board is insufficient legal grounds for substituting one's own judgment for that of the Board. The Board must first be found to have been arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable for reversal or modification to occur. See K.L. v. Bd. of Educ. of Matawan/Aberdeen High Sch. Dist., 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 74. The rationale for this deference to local boards of education appears to be twofold: (1) the ability of the local board of education as the fact-finder in the first instance to see and hear the witnesses and to determine credibility, and (2) the expertise of the local board with respect to its knowledge of local conditions and circumstances.

In K.L., supra, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 74, the teacher made an inappropriate comment to the petitioner, following which the petitioner became angry, his face reddened, and he sat bolt-upright in his seat and threw a pen at the teacher. In a state of angry agitation the petitioner then left his seat, and addressed the teacher in a loud voice. In front of the other students, the petitioner then pushed the desk behind which the teacher was seated against the teacher until the teacher was forced, in his chair, against the wall. The petitioner persisted in pushing the chair, despite the continuing direction by the teacher to stop, and despite the teacher's exclamation to the petitioner that he was being hurt. The teacher could be seen at that time to have an expression of fear on his face. Afterwards, the teacher complained of pain, and continued to do so for about a week.

The ALJ held that given these circumstances it was not possible to find that the Board was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The ALJ stated:

> It is fully believable that the atmosphere in [the teacher's] class fell well short of the mark. Similarly, it has been found that the teacher did make the provocative comment of which petitioner rightly complains. However, the competence or incompetence of the teacher is not at issue. Petitioner's behavior is. More importantly, the extent to which petitioner retaliated, as found above, justifies the Board's penalty. The Board's decision takes into account not only the offense, but the need for good order and a secure learning environment for all students. Petitioner had other avenues to pursue a remedy, outside physical force, not the least of which was to have his parents bring a formal complaint to school authorities. The Board's response, under these circumstances, cannot be seen as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Petitioner's emphasis on his aptitude does not mitigate his misconduct. Neither would his marks, even if they were found to be superior.

> The inescapable fact is that petitioner resorted to physical aggression against a teacher. He did so in a classroom, taking a course he had failed twice before, in front of students considerably younger. His history in Matawan High, as demonstrated without persuasive rebuttal on the record, is consistent with past defiance of lawful direction. It is also consistent with believable testimony describing inappropriate and unwanted horseplay with younger students, and on one occasion, outright fighting. Against this background, expulsion is neither unreasonable, arbitrary nor capricious.

In L.B. v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 110, aff'd, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 253, the Board expelled student D.B. for brandishing a weapon and attempting to assault another high school student in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2. The ALJ found that D.B.'s assaultive conduct upon students, teachers and administrators in the hallway was no last-ditch effort to protect himself from harm, but he had armed himself long before he arrived at the classroom. He could have avoided confrontation entirely by simply leaving the scene and going elsewhere. The evidence failed to substantiate D.B.'s claim that he had acted only to defend himself. Thus, the ALJ held that the action of the Elizabeth Board of Education in expelling D.B. for egregious assaultive behavior in the high school was reasonable and proper. Cf. Kobb v. Bd. of Educ., Township of Ocean, 1980 S.L.D. 262-63 (welfare and safety of other pupils is paramount).

In K.O.H. v. Board of Education, Township of Edison, Middlesex County, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 275, aff'd, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 445, R.H. was charged with insubordination and physically assaulting a teacher. With respect to the decision of the Board to expel R.H., rather than to impose a lesser penalty, it was noted that R.H. had a long record of insubordination, tardiness, disrespect for authority, and initiating violent behavior; on one occasion she pushed another teacher in the chest. It was held that the Board gave a full and fair opportunity for the petitioner to present her case, including all mitigating circumstances, and its decision to expel, under the circumstances, including the need to protect its teachers from assault and students from violence, was found to be justified.

In R.L. v. Board of Education, Kingsway Regional High School District, Gloucester County, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 296, the ALJ stated:

> The authority of a board of education to act is set forth in language appropriate for this matter in Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), where it is stated:
> > When such a body acts within its authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The agency's factual determinations must be accepted if supported by substantial credible evidence.
> There is no showing that the Board action in this matter is arbitrary or capricious. Consequently, it is not the province of this tribunal to determine whether it disagrees or agrees with the Board or to determine whether it would have decided the matter differently had it been a member of the Board or whether the decision is right or wrong.

However, the Board in R.L., through counsel, stated that it was willing to change the expulsion to a long-term suspension and continue student B.L.'s homebound instruction until the end of school so that he would graduate; however, he could not participate in the graduation ceremony. That modification made by the Board was accepted by the ALJ and the Commissioner.

In the present matter, it is undisputed that O.N. was involved in an altercation with another student. This was established by the witnesses presented by the Board and not disputed or otherwise challenged by the petitioners. It is also undisputed that a teacher, acting in the performance of his duties, and in a situation where his authority was apparent, stepped in and attempted to restrain O.N. during this altercation. At the emergent relief hearing, the parents contended that the teacher's use of force was excessive and that in an attempt to get away from this excessive use of force, O.N. flailed her arms and accidentally struck the teacher. However, based on the testimony before me, that clearly was not the case, and I so FIND. Thus, based on the undisputed testimony in this matter, I FIND the following as fact:

1. On December 18, 2003, at approximately 7:35 a.m. there was an altercation in the 700 wing of Monmouth Regional High School, during which Coach Pingitore escorted O.N. away from the altercation and attempted to prevent O.N. from returning to the altercation.

2. O.N. was confronting Coach Pingitore when Coach Pingitore attempted to grab O.N.

3. When Coach Pingitore was unable to grab on to O.N.'s arms, he then held his hands out to prevent O.N. from returning to the scene of the altercation.

4. O.N. began taking swings at Coach Pingitore with a closed fist and she struck Coach Pingitore on the upper shoulder and on the left side of his head with approximately five blows landing.

5. Coach Pingitore had his hands up trying to calm O.N. down, but was unable to do so.

6. There was no one else near them when O.N. was hitting Coach Pingitore. She was hitting him and trying to get past him and she was in a rage.

7. O.N.'s striking of Coach Pingitore was intentional, because she was looking at him as she was striking him.

8. N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1 provides that a person is guilty of assault if he (or she) attempts to cause or purposely, knowingly, or recklessly causes bodily injury to another.

Based on the foregoing, it is clear that the Board of Education had a sufficient basis in fact and in the record to make the finding that O.N. was guilty of assaulting a teacher. Since the actions of the Board are entitled to a presumption of validity, and since the Board could have made a finding that O.N. was guilty of assaulting the teacher, I FIND that the petitioners herein have failed to meet their burden of showing that the action of the Board of Education in this matter was patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives.

I feel it necessary to state that while I agree with the conclusion of the Board of Education that O.N. is guilty of intentionally striking a teacher, I would not have expelled O.N., but would have considered a long-term suspension. I acknowledge that local school districts cannot permit their teachers to be subjected to assaults by students, and that permitting such conduct in one case may be viewed as an invitation for other students to engage in the same type of conduct. However, I would have given significant consideration to the fact that O.N. is a good student with a clean record, that she expressed remorse for her actions by immediately seeking to apologize to Mr. Pingitore and by subsequently apologizing to him, and that at the hearing she did not seek to blame others for her actions. I believe that O.N. now realizes that such conduct cannot and will not be tolerated in the future. I also believe that O.N.'s parents would take all necessary steps to see to it that a similar incident does not occur in the future. O.N.'s parents were very supportive of their daughter, but also were fair in acknowledging the position of the Board of Education.

Despite these statements, the law is clear that it is not the province of this tribunal to determine whether it disagrees or agrees with the Board or to determine whether it would have decided the matter differently had it been a member of the Board, or whether the decision is right or wrong. Accordingly, I am constrained to CONCLUDE that the decision of the respondent Board of Education expelling O.N. must be AFFIRMED.

The only dispute at the plenary hearing of this matter was whether the placement being offered by the school district at MAECOM was adequate and appropriate. B.F. testified that when they went to visit MAECOM, O.N. was not allowed into the high school program, which they were told is just like the Monmouth Regional High School program. Further, she has been advised that the State does not have to waive the health and gym requirements for graduation. H.W., O.N.'s father, testified that the MAECOM program is a self-taught program where there is no actual teaching going on, and is inadequate. He also feels that O.N. must have health and gym in order to graduate from high school, and he does not believe the school district is able to waive the health and gym attendance requirements, and he feels that there is no alternative to home instruction at the present time. He feels there would be irreparable harm if O.N. loses a full year and he asks that she be allowed to return to the high school next year. O.N. also testified to the inadequacy of the MAECOM program. She went to MAECOM for several days and all they did was test her. She was simply given the work to do, which she left in the teacher's mailbox when it was completed, and then she would leave. If she had any questions she had to ask another teacher because her regular teacher was not there. Most of the class consisted of adults and she was not learning anything.

However, school superintendent Patrick Collum testified that MAECOM is a fully acceptable alternative education program and graduates twelve to sixteen students per year. It is a comprehensive program and meets all core curriculum content standards. He certified that MAECOM meets all State guidelines. His testimony was supported by Sister Elizabeth Dalessio of the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission, which operates the MAECOM Adult High School, Tinton Falls, New Jersey. She indicated that O.N. will continue in an adult high school program, which is a full and comprehensive high school program and complies with all New Jersey core curriculum content standards. It differs from the regular high school in that its hours are flexible. It is a learning center environment with each of the students working under the guidance of a teacher; the work is done by the student and then reviewed with the teacher. Initially a student is tested to determine an appropriate placement and the testing is from four to six hours. The adult school is the same as the regular high school in course content. She testified that the adult high school is better than home instruction.

No school district witness responded directly to the parents' concerns as to the requirements for taking health and gym in order to graduate. Mr. Collum stated that the school district would comply with all applicable State requirements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:35-5 requires each board of education to conduct as a part of the instruction in the public schools courses in health, safety and physical education, which courses shall be adapted to the ages and capabilities of the pupils in the several grades and departments. N.J.S.A. 18A:35-7 requires every pupil, except kindergarten pupils, attending the public schools, insofar as he or she is physically fit and capable of doing so, as determined by the medical inspector, to take such courses, which shall be a part of the curriculum prescribed for the several grades, and the conduct and attainment of the pupils shall be marked as in other courses or subjects, and the standing of the pupil in connection therewith shall form a part of the requirements for promotion or graduation. N.J.S.A. 18A:35-8 states that the time devoted to such courses shall aggregate at least two and one-half hours in each school week, or proportionately less when holidays fall within the week.

The State regulation that implements the foregoing statutory provisions is N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(1)(i)(5), which provides that district boards of education shall develop, adopt, and implement requirements for a State-endorsed diploma which include local high school graduation requirements including at least 3¾ credits in health, safety, and physical education during each year of enrollment, distributed as 150 minutes per week, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:35-5, -7 and -8. N.J.A.C. 6:30-3.7(b)(1) relates to adult high schools and provides that the district board of education of each adult high school shall establish minimum credit requirements for graduation which shall meet the requirements of the district's regular high school and shall not be less than 110 credits for newly enrolled adults, and of the required credits, no more than 15 credits may be in physical education.

Based upon the foregoing provisions, it is clear that the MAECOM Adult High School Program is required to comply with statutory and regulatory requirements related to health and gym, and I so FIND. Therefore, I FIND that it would be appropriate to order the school district to see to it that these requirements are met in the case of O.N.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that since the petitioners herein have failed to meet their burden of showing that the action of the Board of Education in this matter was patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives, the decision by the respondent Board of Education expelling O.N. as a student at Monmouth Regional High School is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent shall be responsible for seeing to it that: (1) the MAECOM Adult High School Program complies with statutory and regulatory requirements related to health and gym; and (2) the alternative education program offered by the school district at the MAECOM Adult High School Program shall be required to satisfy the requirements of P.H. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Bergenfield, Bergen County, supra, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7381-00, State Board of Education Decision on Motion (September 5, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of proving that the action of the Board expelling her daughter for striking a teacher was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or induced by improper motives. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that the alternative education program offered by the Board is consistent with the requirements set forth by the State Board in P.H., supra.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within petition is dismissed.

Record Closed: May 13, 2004 Decided: May 14, 2004

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On October 17, 2003, petitioner, S.P., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the City of Clifton (District), to provide her daughter, S.P., with a free public education in the District's schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On November 20, 2003, the District filed its answer to the petition and cross claim for reimbursement of tuition. On December 19, 2003, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on April 20, 2004 at 9:00 a.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the scheduled time, petitioner failed to appear and never contacted OAL to explain her non-appearance. Respondent's attorney appeared and, at the direction of the undersigned, submitted an affidavit, dated May 10, 2004, in support of respondent's uncontested counterclaim for tuition. The record closed on May 13, 2004 when the affidavit was received.

The burden of proof is on the parent to show that the child is entitled to a free public education in the District. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2). Since the parent, S.P., failed to appear, I CONCLUDE that she has failed to carry her burden and is entitled to no relief as a result of this appeal.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to tuition "on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2). This amount is to be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Ibid.

The Affidavit of Karen Perkins, the Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the District, stated that she reviewed the District's business records and she provided the following evidence. I FIND that:

1. S.P., the minor child in this matter, was enrolled in the Clifton school system between October 20, 2003 and November 21, 2003.

2. The annual per pupil cost for the minor child for that period of time at Clifton High School, the school of attendance, was $42.48 per day.

3. The total tuition due to the District is $934.56 (22 days x $42.28).

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that S.P. has failed to prove that her daughter, S.P., was entitled to a free public education in the City of Clifton between October 20, 2003 and November 21, 2003 and therefore petitioner S.P. is liable to the District for tuition in the amount of $934.56 for her daughter's school attendance during this period of ineligibility.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that S.P. pay respondent tuition in the amount of $934.56, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), for S.P.'s ineligible attendance in the District high school.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the Commissioner directs that petitioner remit to the Board $934.56 representing tuition for S.P.'s ineligible attendance in the district from October 20, 2003 until November 21, 2003.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The above matter having been amicably resolved between the parties, it is hereby agreed as follows:

1. William Czok, on the date of his termination, June 26, 2003, was a tenured employee of the Respondent;

2. William Czok's termination as of June 26, 2003 was therefore improper;

3. William Czok is entitled to no back pay or other benefits as a result of his termination in violation of the tenure laws by reason of the following: (a) his retirement effective July 1, 2003 extinguished any right of William Czok to return to employment with the East Brunswick Board of Education; and (b) as a result of his unavailability for work from the date of his last paycheck, and due to the fact that as of that date he was

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Elizabeth Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") and counsel for its tenured employee Ricardo Hinostroza join in moving for an order finding that the following Settlement Agreement between the parties meets the requirement of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommending that the attached Settlement Agreement be adopted by the Commissioner of Education, and ordering on condition that the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, that the Settlement Agreement be implemented and the tenure charges filed by the Board, be withdrawn and this matter be dismissed.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT IN THE ACTION PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board and Mr. Hinostroza.

I. STATEMENT OF INTENT

On January 20, 2004, the Board filed tenure charges against Mr. Hinostroza with the Commissioner of Education captioned In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ricardo Hinostroza, Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, OAL Docket No. EDUTH 01683-2004N , Agency Ref. No. 17-1/04; and

WHEREAS this Agreement is the end product of settlement negotiations conducted by the parties and is intended to fully and finally dispose of the issues in controversy as based upon the mutual understanding set forth below;

II. DISMISSAL OF TENURE CHARGES

The Board shall withdraw the pending tenure case against Mr. Hinostroza. The Board shall take all necessary actions to notify the Clerk of the Office of the Administrative Law and the Administrative Law Judge that it is withdrawing the tenure charges. The Board's withdrawal of the tenure charges is predicated upon Mr. Hinostroza satisfying his obligations under Section III of this Agreement.

III. DRUG TESTING DURING EMPLOYMENT

It is agreed that Mr. Hinostroza shall submit to a drug test at a lab of the Board's choosing within five (5) days of executing this Settlement Agreement. It is further agreed that Mr. Hinostroza shall be subject to random drug tests for a period of one (1) year from the time he returns to employment.

IV. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION APPROVAL

The Board of Education and Mr. Hinostroza acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement must be approved by the Commissioner of Education. While the Commissioner's approval is pending, Mr. Hinostroza's suspension shall be converted to with pay effective April 1, 2004. Mr. Hinostroza may return to his work site upon the approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education.

V. SETTLEMENT

The parties have agreed to settle this case to save the time and expense of an expedited hearing. The Board also has agreed to settle this matter due to the downgrading of the criminal charges against Mr. Hinostroza, lack of a lab evidence report, failure of the arresting officers to testify and subsequent dismissal of all criminal charges by the Municipal Prosecutor.

VI. AGREEMENT MAY NOT BE USED AS EVIDENCE IN ANY SUBSEQUENT PROCEEDING

The Board and Mr. Hinostroza agree that this Agreement shall not be used as evidence in any subsequent proceeding should the Commissioner not approve the terms and conditions agreed hereto by the parties.

VII. VOLUNTARINESS OF AGREEMENT

The signatories to this Agreement certify that they have read the terms of this Agreement, that they have had the opportunity to discuss the terms with their respective attorneys, are satisfied with the services of their respective attorneys in connection therewith, and that they understand the terms of this Agreement and its effects. The signatories to this Agreement acknowledge further that they are executing it of their own volition, with full understanding of its terms and effects, and with the intention of releasing all claims herein for consideration which they acknowledge is adequate and satisfactory to them. The signatories to this Agreement further acknowledge that they have not received any representations concerning its terms and effects other than those contained herein. The signatories to this Agreement acknowledge that they enter into it with a full understanding of their rights. The signatories acknowledge that the Commissioner of Education may still make a determination on the charges that were filed against Mr. Hinostroza. The signatories further acknowledge that Mr. Hinostroza was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations for possible revocation of any teaching certificate which may be held by Mr. Hinostroza.

VIII. ENTIRE AGREEMENT

This Agreement represents the full and entire agreement between the Board and Mr. Hinostroza. It can only be modified by a written agreement between the parties. It is binding upon the Board and its officers, agents, servants and employees as well as their successors and assigns. It is binding upon Mr. Hinostroza as well as his heirs, executors and administrators.

IX. BINDING AGREEMENT

Intending to be legally bound hereby, the Board and Mr. Hinostroza execute the foregoing Agreement.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent appealed the Board's refusal to allow her son to play on the exclusively female middle school lacrosse team.

The ALJ concluded that the Board could legally limit participation on the lacrosse team to females. Citing the appellate decision in B.C., which stands for the proposition that the exclusion of boys from girls' athletic teams is permissible under the Federal and State Constitutions and the Law Against Discrimination, as well as the ban on gender discrimination in education law, the ALJ determined the Board's action was not arbitrary or capricious.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 02401-04S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 98-3/04

A.L.D., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, N.D., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN BURLINGTON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

A.L.D., petitioner, pro se, on behalf of minor child N.D.

Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., for respondent (Parker McCay & Criscuolo, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 20, 2004 Decided: May 24, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a petition filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") by A.L.D., acting on behalf of her minor son, N.D., an eighth grade student at the respondent District's Middle School. The petition asserts that N.D. was excluded from participation in the school's lacrosse team on the grounds that the team was a "girl's team." The Board of Education replied to the petition, asserting that its conduct in excluding males from the lacrosse team was lawful, relying specifically upon case law, citing the Appellate Division decision of B.C., o/b/o C.C. v. Board of Education, Cumberland Regional School District and New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, 220 N.J. Super. 214 (App. Div. 1987) (hereinafter "B.C."). The Commissioner transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for a contested case hearing. In a letter dated March 12, 2004, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes advised the parties that the case was being transferred to the OAL "for development of legal argument and such fact-finding as is necessitated by the Board's contention that it is specifically in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:7-1.9(d)2." The letter also noted the need for prompt resolution of the dispute and therefore recommended priority scheduling and agreed that the Commissioner would consent to accelerated proceedings if the parties and the OAL so determine pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.4.[i] Despite this, for reasons unknown to this judge, the file was not transmitted to the OAL until April 5, 2004. It was assigned to this judge on April 15 and a conference call was set up for April 21. During that call counsel for the Board related the Board's belief that its actions were entirely lawful under the B.C. decision, which had interpreted constitutional law, state statute and regulations. He indicated that in his opinion the Board's action was therefore defensible as a matter of law and that the appropriate method for resolving the case was a motion for summary decision, as permitted by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. By letter dated April 27, I outlined to the pro se litigant and the Board's attorney my understanding of the content of our April 21 discussion and the issues that appeared to be presented in the case, and I set a schedule for the submission of the motion. In the letter the exact date for the submission by the Board of its motion was not stated; however, as counsel for the Board later acknowledged, the understanding during the telephone conference (an understanding which he refers to as "informal") was that the motion would be filed by April 30, with the response due, as stated in the letter, within one week of receipt of the Board's brief. However, counsel later wrote on May 4 that as a result of his involvement in several special education proceedings involving emergent relief he had been unable to comply with the "informal" schedule and requested to file his brief by May 14. After discussions with A.L.D., it was agreed that she would have the same week to file a response to the brief as had been previously allowed. The Board's brief was actually received on May 17 and the response thereto on May 20.[ii]

[i] This regulation provides that with the consent of the parties, the judge and the transmitting agency head, the time in which the judge must issue an initial decision is restricted to 15 days following the conclusion of the hearing and the agency head must then decide the matter within 15 days of receipt to the initial decision. Prehearing motions, such as the motion for summary decision filed in this case, are not permitted, except if requested by the judge. As will be explained, given the legal context of this case, the filing of such a motion was a proper means of seeking to rapidly resolve the case.

[ii] While the delay herein is most unfortunate, and it is recognized the lacrosse season has largely passed, counsel for the Board agreed that he would not argue that this matter was moot. Given that the delay was in no way attributable to the petitioner, counsel's position is indeed appropriate.

SUMMARY DECISION

Summary decision is a legal process designed to permit the early resolution of controversies in which the facts material to the dispute are not in controversy and the law is sufficiently settled so that a decision may be rendered upon those undisputed material facts. The New Jersey Supreme Court defined the standard for determining motions for summary decision in Robin Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In this case, the Court elaborated upon the standards first established in Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74-75 (1954). Under the Brill standard, as before, a motion for summary decision may only be granted where there are no "genuine disputes" of "material fact." The determination as to whether disputes of material fact exist is made after a "discriminating search" of the record, consisting as it may of affidavits, certifications, documentary exhibits and any other evidence filed by the movant and any such evidence filed in response to the motion, with all reasonable inferences arising from the evidence being accorded to the opponent of the motion.

In order to defeat the motion, the opposing party must establish the existence of "genuine" disputes of material fact. The facts upon which the party opposing the motion relies to defeat the motion must be something more than "facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious, . . . ," Judson, supra., at 75 (citations omitted). The Brill decision focuses upon the analytical procedure for determining whether a purported dispute of material fact is "genuine" or is simply of an "insubstantial nature." Brill, supra. at 530. Brill concludes that the same analytical process used to decide motions for a directed verdict is used to resolve summary decision motions. "The essence of the inquiry in each is the same: 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that a party must prevail as a matter of law.' " Id. at 536, quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251-52, 106 S.Ct. 2505, 2512, 91 *L.Ed.*2d 202, 214. In searching the proffered evidence to determine the motion, the judge must be guided by the applicable substantive evidentiary standard of proof, that is, the "burden of persuasion" which would apply at trial on the merits, whether that is the preponderance of the evidence or the clear and convincing evidence standard. If a careful review under this standard establishes that no reasonable fact finder could resolve the disputed facts in favor of the party opposing the motion, then the uncontradicted facts thus established can be examined in the light of the applicable substantive law to determine whether or not the movant is clearly entitled to judgment as a matter of law. However, where the proofs in the record are such that "reasonable minds could differ" as to the material facts, then the motion must be denied and a full evidentiary hearing held.

In the present case, the Board of Education contends in its motion for summary decision that the issue raised by the petitioner has been settled as a matter of law by a previous ruling of an appellate court, B.C., supra., that is binding both on the administrative law judge and the Commissioner and State Board of Education. In order to determine whether the motion is appropriately granted or denied, that decision and the facts asserted as to the current case must each be examined to determine whether the agreed upon or disputed facts relevant herein, materially impact upon the legal effect of the prior ruling. If the material facts relevant to this case are sufficiently similar to the facts that were before the court in B.C., then the legal analysis therein must be applied to these facts to see if they apply. If there are instead factual differences of a material nature, that is, in this context, factual differences that could limit the applicability or eliminate the underpinnings of the prior ruling, then it is necessary to consider the legal issues anew, and to the extent that these material facts are in dispute between the parties, a hearing with testimony would be required before the ultimate legal ruling could be rendered.

DISCUSSION

There are certain facts that are apparently not in dispute herein. The petitioner's son and other boys sought to participate on the lacrosse team. After they at first may have been led to think that they could participate, the school officials denied them the right to do so. It is also undisputed that at least one or two of the teams from other school districts that the lacrosse team competes against do allow boys to participate on their lacrosse teams.

THE B.C. DECISION

In B.C., the Commissioner of Education ruled that C.C., a male high school student at Cumberland Regional High School, would not be permitted to play on the girl's field hockey team at that school. The Appellate Division found that the issue presented on appeal was whether the Commissioner was correct in holding that the policy of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association ("NJSIAA") of prohibiting boys from playing on girl's field hockey teams did not deprive C.C. of his rights under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("LAD"), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20, a statute pertaining to equal rights within the educational system. Reviewing the record below, which had included extensive expert testimony before an administrative law judge, the court concluded that there was no violation of the Constitution, the LAD or the Title 18A statutory provision when a school district excluded males from female teams.

The court noted that the NJSIAA policy was adopted in 1985. It provided: "1. Males shall be excluded from female athletic teams although there are no teams for boys in the same sport until such time as both sexes are afforded overall equal athletic opportunities." It further stated: "The purposes of section 1 are twofold: (1) the promotion of equal athletic opportunities for females, and (2) to redress the effects of past discrimination and disparate treatment relating to girls' athletics. If boys are permitted to participate on girls' interscholastic athletic teams there would be a substantial risk that boys would dominate the girls' program and thus cause a displacement of girls from participating on those teams. Any displacement of girls from those teams would further limit their opportunities for participation in interscholastic athletics. Further, this policy is constitutionally sound because males have historically enjoyed greater athletic opportunities than have girls. Similarly, boys currently have ample opportunity for participation in interscholastic sports and sufficient avenues for interscholastic participation." The Commissioner of Education neither approved or disapproved this statement within twenty days and as such it became policy in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:11-5.[iii]

The B.C. court reviewed the legality of this regulation in light of the significant expert testimony received at the hearing. In the end, the court found that the determination of whether a constitutional deprivation of rights had occurred had to be judged under the differing standards applicable for Fourteenth Amendment violations under the United States Constitution and possible violations of the New Jersey State Constitution. The Fourteenth Amendment extends the requirement that citizens receive the equal protection of the laws to the States. In regard to classifications based upon gender, these are judged under an "intermediate scrutiny" test that requires that the classification "must serve important governmental objectives and must be substantially related to achievement of those objectives." Craig v. Boren, 429 U.S. 190, 197, 97 S.Ct. 451, 457, 50 *L.Ed.*2d 397 (1976). The court viewed the objective to be served as the promotion of overall athletic equality for both sexes. The court was convinced that, in view of the fact that "overall athletic opportunities for females have been and continue to be less than those provided for males," the "challenged determination operates to achieve equality of athletic opportunity for both sexes and to rectify the historical denial of athletic opportunities for women." Id. at 225. The regulation "prevents males from dominating and displacing females from meaningful participation in available athletic opportunities." As such, it did not violate the Fourteenth Amendment. Id. at 223.

As for the State Constitution, the court noted that the phrase "equal protection" does not appear in the New Jersey Constitution. However, "it has long been recognized . . . that Article I, paragraph 1 of the State Constitution, like the Fourteenth Amendment, seeks to protect against injustice and against the unequal treatment of those who should be treated alike." Greenberg v. Kimmelman, 99 N.J. 552, 568 (1985). In considering whether a violation of this provision occurred, the New Jersey Supreme Court has employed a "balancing test." This is measured by examining the nature of the right affected, the extent to which the governmental restriction intrudes upon the right and the public need for the restriction. Greenberg, supra at 567. Utilizing this test, the court held that in balancing C.C.'s right not to be discriminated against on the basis of sex against the public need to promote equalization of athletic opportunities, the governmental interest was advanced by the exclusion of C.C. "If C.C. is permitted to play on the girls' field hockey team, his personal interest would be attained at the expense of denying females the right to have equality of athletic opportunities with their male counterparts." Id. at 227. Thus, the court saw no violation of the New Jersey Constitution arises from the implementation of the policy.

The court also rejected the allegation that the exclusion violated the LAD. The LAD has been construed to "permit reasonable restrictions which promote important governmental objectives." Similarly, as to N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20, which precludes discrimination based upon gender in education, the court noted that it had construed that statute to "simply extend the New Jersey constitutional bases of proscribed discrimination in respect to student opportunities to include gender in the education system. Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education, 147 N.J. Super. 201, 371 *A.*2d 78 (app. Div. 1977) rev'd on other grounds 77 *N.*J. 514, 391 *A.*2d 899 (1978)."

Thus, B.C. stands for the proposition that the exclusion of boys from girls' interscholastic athletic teams is permissible under the Federal and State Constitutions and the LAD and the statutory ban on gender discrimination in education.

In the present matter, the sport is not field hockey; instead it is lacrosse. The students are not in high school, but are in a middle school. It is asserted by petitioner in her brief that this age/class level difference is important because "students in high school are more developed physically and emotionally then middle school students. . . . In middle school the physical and emotional development of both sexes is much more varied than by the time one has reached grades 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th." She also argues that since the case does not involve secondary school teams, the NJSIAA regulation does not apply. Additionally, she notes that in B.C. other schools within the district complained about a boy playing on the girl's team, while in the present case it was the school itself that acted to bar her son and the other boys, prior to any such outside complaint. Also, she states that the "displacement" issue is not present here, as it was in B.C., for she claims that the Middle School "by history has a no cut policy to allow everyone who is interested in an activity a chance to participate." She states that the very reason given as to why Mrs. Dunham, the Middle School principal, had at first told the boys who expressed interest in the lacrosse team that they could participate was because of Dunham's "belief that all children should be given an opportunity to participate." A.L.D. adds, "Therefore, there is no indication that allowing the four boys access to the team would have displaced or denied the girls an opportunity to play."

The petitioner argues that the action of the respondent was arbitrary and capricious. She cites the Board's athletic competition policy, #2431, and language from the Middle School's Student/Parent Handbook for 2003-2004. The first reference deals with high school students, while the latter is clearly addressed to the Middle School population, and this suggests that the Board sees the high school situation as separate from that of the Middle School regarding athletic participation. She also notes that the Middle School did not list lacrosse as a "female sport" on its web site, whereas soccer and basketball are listed as boys or girls.

It must be noted that in regard to this motion for summary decision, neither party has filed any certifications or affidavits in support of their respective positions.[iv] To the extent that the Board believes that its right to a favorable decision is established by the B.C. decision, it is understandable that it did not see any need to supplement its arguments with affidavits or certifications regarding factual matters. As for the pro se litigant, to the extent that her letter brief asserts facts that she believes are important in distinguishing this case from B.C. and others in its line, the absence of affidavits or certifications is troubling, as factual allegations must be made through persons having direct knowledge of the facts asserted. However, as will be explained, despite the absence of appropriate evidence to establish the differing facts asserted, in the end, I do not find the factual issues raised by the petitioner to be sufficient to remove this case from the reach and control of B.C.

That this case involves a different sport than the field hockey at issue in B.C. is of no moment. Lacrosse, even if played under rules that are adapted to a game played by females, is still a sport in which sticks are utilized by the players and physical contact is not absent from the game. While no evidence has been presented that might arguably demonstrate any differences in the sports that could possibly lead to a conclusion that this form of lacrosse was materially different than the field hockey at issue in B.C., I fail to see that any genuine difference in the outcome could arise. The reasons why the Appellate Division determined as it did turn far more on issues of public policy regarding civil rights and past discrimination in the world of sports than on the actual specifics of the game or games. In essence, the ruling reflects an understanding that in the past women were denied the ability to participate in sports to such a degree that constitutional guarantees against discrimination are implicated, calling for a redress of past wrongs and therefore allowing what would otherwise be prohibited discrimination against males to exist as a necessary means of allowing such redress to occur. As the court noted, if males are permitted to participate on girls' teams they will displace females who are the very persons for whom redress is necessary. These public policy concerns do not change between field hockey and lacrosse. As for the difference in the age and school grade levels, while the B.C. case and the NJSIAA policy speak to secondary schools, the policy grounds upon which they are founded cannot reasonably be said to be inapplicable to interscholastic competitions involving females at the junior high or middle school level. Nothing regarding these policy reasons suggests that there is less reason to seek to redress the past discrimination or to promote equal athletic opportunities for girls in the middle school years than for older girls in high school; indeed it is certainly within common knowledge that to the extent that students may choose to participate in sports at the high school level, the opportunities to do so at younger levels provide an introduction to and encouragement for such later participation. As for the possibility that a no cut policy might make a difference, while the fact that all males and females may be allowed to remain on the team may mitigate to a degree the displacement that would clearly occur if the number of team members were limited and boys were permitted to take up slots on the team, it is nevertheless still true that any boys who are team members and play any minutes during a lacrosse game must do so at the expense of a girl playing those minutes. This is just as much displacement, and B.C. directly cites displacement as a problem directly addressed by a policy excluding males. The policy that avoids displacement directly serves a public purpose and as such, is allowable under Fourteenth Amendment jurisprudence.

[iv] N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.4 requires that motions and answering papers shall be accompanied by all necessary supporting affidavits and briefs or supporting statements. To the extent that the petitioner, in opposing the motion for summary decision, relies on alleged disputes of material facts, affidavits or certifications from persons with personal knowledge of such facts would be required in order to establish a proper foundation upon which the judge could determine that such disputes did exist. The statements of counsel, or pro se litigants, as to facts not personally known to them, are not evidential, but fall within the realm of argument. However, as explained in the text above, given the legal context herein, the lack of such evidential materials is not crucial to determination of either the motion or the case.

It is difficult to see how a school board can be said to act in an arbitrary and capricious manner when it follows existing law. While the District may not have officially designated lacrosse as a "girl's team" sport on its website or in its Handbook, there is nothing that suggests it could not lawfully decide, when confronted with the question, that it would do what the law said it could. While other school districts may have made different choices and allowed males to play on lacrosse teams that are largely made up of female students, their choice to do what the law neither requires them to do, or not to do what some might say the law favors (that is, limit participation to girls only), does not in any way prevent this district from deciding not to allow what it was not legally required to allow. Indeed, given the rationale for exclusion, as identified and supported by B.C. and the cases cited therein, it could be argued that a school district that allowed males to participate on "girls' teams would open itself up to litigation charging it with ignoring its obligation to foster the very concerns that B.C. found supported an exclusion policy. Thus, no reasonable fact finder viewing the issue in the context of decided law and public policy could find that this Board acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner.

Based upon the above considerations, I CONCLUDE that the Board could legally limit participation on the lacrosse team to females and, given the legal context, its decision to do so cannot be labeled arbitrary or capricious. Given the legal context, no facts material to deciding the case are in dispute and summary decision is an appropriate means for resolving the case.

It is of course possible that a time will come when the need to redress past discrimination will no longer be necessary, opportunities for women in sports will be so prevalent that fostering them by means of exceptions to general policies against gender discrimination will be unnecessary and the rationale of B.C. and like cases will be viewed as truly outdated. There is no suggestion in the petitioner's papers that she is prepared to undertake the significant task of producing a record of expert sociological, legal and economic evidence that would be necessary to make out such a case. While the fostering of opportunities and redress of past discrimination resulting from the exclusion herein challenged is no doubt miniscule when viewed in the context of larger society, and the exclusion no doubt is a difficult reality for the petitioner and her son to accept, nevertheless, on the micro scale the result does protect the advancement of policies deemed necessary to address past wrongs. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not violate the law and the petition must be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.4(e)8 and the agreement of the parties and Department of Education, Commissioner of the Department of Education shall issue a final decision within fifteen (15) days.

Within six (6) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." John B. Comego, II, Esq., for petitioner

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ

This Order shall memorialize the oral ruling rendered on June 25, 2004.

Petitioner is a private, non-sectarian school specializing in the provision of special education and related services to students having autism, which facility is located in Livingston, New Jersey. Petitioner was granted preliminary approval by respondent as having the status of a private school for classified students on October 15, 2002, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.3. That approval allowed petitioner to operate as an approved private school in New Jersey for the disabled for the 2002-03 and 2003-04 school years. The notice granting preliminary approval stated, in part, that petitioner "must" provide documentation that the school had a minimum average daily enrollment (ADE) of 16 by the end of the 2003-04 school year. (Respondent's brief, Exhibit A.). By letter dated February 19, 2004, respondent notified petitioner that a staff member of the latter had determined that the ADE for the 2002-2003 school year had been 10.22 and was estimated to be 8.80 for the 2003-04 school year. That letter also gave notice that petitioner could lose its preliminarily approval status. In a letter dated April 20, 2004, respondent requested that petitioner complete, and submit, enrollment information for February and March 2004 and provide estimated enrollments for April, May, and June 2004. Petitioner did so, indicating that the estimated 2003-04 ADE would be 9.2. By letter dated April 27, 2004, respondent advised petitioner that its preliminary approval was being revoked effective July 1, 2004 because of a failure to achieve the required minimum ADE by the end of the 2003-04 school year. Copies were sent to various County Superintendents of Schools and local school districts.

Petitioner filed a petition of appeal with respondent's Commissioner on May 27, 2004. On June 11, 2004, respondent's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes notified petitioner that service had to be made on the Attorney General's Office. Such was effectuated on June 16, 2004. On June 22, 2004, petitioner filed a Motion for Emergent Relief, i.e., a stay of respondent's April 27, 2004 decision to revoke the preliminary approval.

Respondent transmitted the request for emergent relief to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13 on June 22, 2004. Oral Argument, at which testimony was taken, was conducted on June 25, 2004. This judge rendered a detailed decision, denying petitioner's request, at that time. The parties, particularly, petitioner, were given until

June 28, 2004 to provide their views on processing of the matter. This Order summarizes the oral ruling.[1]

To obtain emergent relief, a petitioner must establish that the "petitioner" will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; the legal right underlying its claim is settled; petitioner has the likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). For the reasons stated on the record, this judge determined that petitioner had not met any part of its burden. The parties stated on the record that there is no dispute regarding the legal right underlying petitioner's claim. As indicated, a detailed oral ruling was rendered, and that ruling shall be summarized herein; however, the oral ruling is incorporated herein.

Petitioner had not met the required ADE as of June 25, 2004, and it is clear that it would not do so within the near future. Petitioner requested six months to one year additional time to attempt to do so. Petitioner's evidence regarding irreparable harm was conclusionary, not specific. For example, petitioner did not provide specific data regarding financial impact on it, including persuasive evidence regarding how many of its current students whose expenses are paid by local school districts are likely not to return for the next school year. Additionally, petitioner did not sufficiently address the fact that local school districts may determine to fund expenses of students in their districts at petitioner's facility, even if petitioner is not a State approved facility for the education of classified students. Petitioner's evidence demonstrated that it suffered a substantial deficit during the current school year, although it continued to operate. Petitioner's arguments regarding "irreparable harm" to current and prospective student and their families was vague, and, not particularly relevant, as the pertinent regulation requires that irreparable harm be established vis a vis the party requesting emergent relief. In any event, as this judge noted on the record, there are other forums for such concerns to be addressed, in light of the fact that local school districts are required to provide a free and appropriate education to classified students.

I was also not persuaded by petitioner's arguments that "premature" action by respondent negatively impacted petitioner's ability to maintain and recruit students. The pertinent regulations do not specify time periods pertinent to notice of revocation of preliminary approvals. In addition, respondent's argument that it took action at the time in question, not effective until after the current school year, so as not to disrupt the education of students was persuasive. Additionally, petitioner's evidence in that respect was vague and conclusionary.

Petitioner also did not demonstrate a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. An applicant applying for approval of a new private school for the disabled "shall" provide evidence to respondent that there is sufficient need for the new private school. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.3(b). Such "shall" include documentation of the need "for a minimum" of 16 students. Id. at §(2). Programs meeting the pertinent requirements "shall" be approved as follows. The school "shall" receive preliminary approval to operate for a two-year period, after which the school "shall" provide documentation that it has a "minimum" ADE of 16 by the end of the second school year. A school not meeting the required minimum ADE "shall" have its preliminary approval status revoked and will no longer be considered an approved private school for the disabled. Id. at §(c). For reasons similar to those articulated on the record regarding the question of irreparable harm, I was persuaded that petitioner did not prove a likelihood of prevailing on the merits. The pertinent regulations are mandatory in nature, and petitioner presented no evidence contradicting respondent's position that it applies the pertinent regulations in similar fashion in all cases.

Petitioner also did not prove that the equities are in its favor, as any financial impact of respondent's action was not demonstrated. Additionally, as noted on the record, respondent has an interest in maintaining the integrity of its regulations, especially in light of the mandatory language contained in those in question.

For the reasons stated on the record, and as summarized hereinabove, it is hereby CONCLUDED that petitioner did not demonstrate that it will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; petitioner did not demonstrate that it has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claims; and petitioner did not demonstrate that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, it will suffer greater harm than respondent if the requested relief is not granted. Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief be and is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. OAL DKT. NOS. EDU 1840-03 AND EDU 9894-03 (ON REMAND)
AGENCY DKT. NO. 395-12/02

O.S., on behalf of minor child, K.S.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY AND ANTHONY P. CAVANNA, SUPERINTENDENT,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Remand of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In her exceptions, petitioner points out that, on remand, this case was reassigned to the original judge who previously rendered an Initial Decision in this matter and that she believes "that Judge Giordano could not be totally impartial since ruling in my favor on the remand would indicate that his own prior decision was wrong."[1] (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) With respect to her specific exceptions to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision on remand, petitioner argues, inter alia, that, even accepting the ALJ's interpretation of Regulation 5120, the District is still not excused from administering the standardized math test. (Ibid.) Petitioner posits that, if her daughter had been given the standardized test in math, it would have proved that she should have been learning math at a higher level. (Id. at 1-2) Based on the (presumed) test results, petitioner claims that her daughter should have been afforded the curriculum consistent with her skills and knowledge and could have been placed in the gifted and talented program. (Id. at 2)

[1] The Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over this issue. Issues concerning a judge's ability to provide a fair and impartial hearing must be addressed in the first instance with the judge, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.12(c), with appeals of the judge's ruling on the issue thereafter being addressed to the Director of the OAL, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.12(d).

Petitioner further asserts that her daughter was not given any standardized tests during the three months she was in attendance. (Ibid. at 2) Petitioner points out that the Assistant Superintendent testified that Regulation 5120 provides that standardized tests are to be administered to new students, but that the earliest standardized tests were given in April, eight months after the start of the school year. (Ibid.) Petitioner contends that this means that a new student has to wait eight months to be evaluated for proper grade placement or to be placed in a gifted and talented program. (Ibid.)

Moreover, petitioner takes issue with the ALJ's conclusion that the regulation at issue is ambiguous, asserting that there is nothing ambiguous about Regulation 5120 in that it clearly states that the standardized test must be administered to all new pupils. (Ibid.) Petitioner also disagrees with the Board's use of age and English language ability in determining her daughter's grade placement, pointing out that the Board, over her objections, placed her daughter in the sixth grade, a grade she had completed in Russia. (Id. at 3) Additionally, petitioner asserts that the Board's use of English language ability for grade placement is discriminatory and that the Board failed to produce any evidence proving that it has extended the kindergarten and first grade entrance policy to all grades including high school transfers. (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner initially notes that, pursuant to Board Policy 5120, "[t]he building principal may assign pupils in his or her school to grades, classes and groups on the basis of the needs of the pupil" with the final decision on such matters to be made by the superintendent of schools. (Exhibit R-2, in evidence) Moreover, the Board has established that its intent in promulgating Regulation 5120, the implementing regulation for Board Policy 5120, was to specify the use of the District Approved Standardized Test for the assessment for in-grade placement of students in gifted and talented or remedial programs, as appropriate. In support thereof, the Board's three witnesses at hearing provided uncontested testimony[2] that Regulation 5120 was constructed as a device for in-grade placement and that the regulation had been consistently applied to in-grade placement. (Initial Decision at 3-5) Additionally, the Commissioner's independent review of Regulation 5120 finds that the language in the regulation supports the Board's contention that this regulation applies to in-grade placement of new students in that A.3. and A.4. and B.3 of the regulation (see below) specifically state that, based on the results of the District Approved Standardized Test referenced therein, pupils may be placed in gifted and talented programs or remedial programs. (Exhibit P-7, in evidence)

> The Board requires that the following screening procedures be performed for all new pupils to insure the best possible grade placement in this school district for each.
> A. Grades 1-6
> 1. The nurse will administer hearing, vision, and scoliosis screening to all new pupils.
> 2. The guidance counselors will administer the District Approved Standardized Test to grades 1 – 6.
>
> 3. Based on results of the above, pupils who score extremely high will be referred to the gifted and talented teacher for further evaluation. The gifted and talented teacher may call upon the resources of the Child Study Team to assist in the evaluation.
> 4. Pupils who score extremely low will be referred to either the BSI math or reading improvement teacher for further evaluation. Either teacher may call upon members of the Child Team for assistance.

[2] The Commissioner relies herein on the ALJ's summary of Mr. Emr's testimony in that transcripts of the hearing before the ALJ were not provided by the parties.

5. The classroom teacher will refer all observed speech problems to the school's speech teacher for evaluation.

B. Grades 7 – 12

1. The nurse will administer hearing, vision and scoliosis screening to all new pupils.

2. The guidance counselors will administer the District Approved Standardized Test to all new pupils.

3. Pupils who score extremely low will be referred to either the BSI math or reading improvement teacher for further evaluation. Either teacher may call upon members of the Child Study Team for assistance.

4. The classroom teacher will refer all observed speech problems to the school's speech teacher for evaluation.

The Commissioner also emphasizes that "an agency's interpretation of its own rule is owed considerable deference since the agency that drafted and promulgated the rule should know the meaning of that rule." (Initial Decision at 8) See, also, In re Revision in Rates Filed by Plainfield-Union Water Co., supra, at 177.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Commissioner finds that Regulation 5120 does not require the administration of the District Approved Standardized Test to determine the grade placement of transfer students. However, Regulation 5120, by the Board's own admission, requires the administration of the District Approved Standardized Test to determine the in-grade placement of new students for the purpose of placing students in a gifted and talented program and/or to provide necessary remedial programs. Notwithstanding the District's contention that the LAS test, a test utilized to determine the English language proficiency of foreign born and other students, administered to K.S., was a standardized test that satisfied compliance with the requirement that "guidance counselors will administer the District Approved Standardized Test" set forth in Regulation 5120 (Initial Decision at 3, Testimony of Dr. Taffaro; Board's Letter Brief, dated February 19, 2004; and Exhibit P-7, in evidence), the LAS test is obviously not the test to which Regulation 5120 refers in that the regulation specifies that the results of the District Approved Standardized Test is utilized to determine whether pupils may be placed in gifted and talented programs or remedial programs. Moreover, the Board has not claimed, nor is there anything in the record to suggest, that K.S. does not possess the English language skills necessary to take the District Approved Standardized Test or that the administration of the test was delayed so that an accommodation could be made for any language difficulties.

Principal Peter Emr testified that the LAS test is utilized to test new pupils with limited English proficiency and that there is no other test used for the placement of new pupils in the District. (Initial Decision at 5) Mr. Emr further testified that standardized testing is used with large populations of students in the spring, primarily to develop standard norms, and that the Terra Nova II standardized test is used by the District for grades 2, 5 and 6 and the State-authorized standardized test is given to grades 3 and 4. (Ibid.) Presumably the District Approved Standardized Test in Regulation 5120 refers to the standardized test administered at each grade level in the spring, as Superintendent Taffaro appears to be referring to these same tests in testifying that the District contemplated testing K.S. in April, eight months after K.S.'s enrollment in the district schools.

> The witness acknowledged that the Regulation 5120 provides that the standardized tests are to be administered by the guidance counselor. K.S. was not given a standardized test in math. That test would be given in April. If K.S. were to score well on that test, she might be placed in a Gifted and Talented Program. (Id. at 3)

Although Regulation 5120 does not specify a timeline for the administration of the District Approved Standardized Test, the stated purpose of the regulation is to insure the best possible grade placement for new students. Thus, it can be reasonably inferred that new students are to be immediately administered the District Approved Standardized Test upon entering the District's schools. Principal Jack Foster testified that the regulation is poorly written. (Id. at 4) That may be the case, but what is clear is that the practice of the District with respect to administering the District Approved Standardized Test to new students is not in concert with Regulation 5120. The Commissioner, therefore, directs that either the regulation be re-written to reflect District practices or that the District conform its practices to the regulation as written.

Turning to the District's administrative decision placing K.S. in the sixth grade, rather than in seventh grade as her mother requested, the Commissioner notes that, by letter of November 13, 2002, the superintendent of schools (at the time Anthony P. Cavanna) informed petitioner that the administrative determination to place K.S. in the sixth grade was made based on K.S.'s chronological age, English language ability, educational opportunities in middle and secondary schools, equivalent grade level in her previous school and country, social adjustment, peer acceptance and preparation for secondary level honors courses. (Exhibit R-3, in evidence) K.S. was born on February 28, 1991 and was eleven-and-a-half years old when she enrolled in the District. Thus, if she had started attending school in the Fort Lee School District in kindergarten, she would be in the sixth grade pursuant to the District's policy regarding entrance age for attending school. (Policy 5112, Exhibit P-6, in evidence). Moreover, a review of her Russian transcript indicates that K.S. was enrolled in "1B" class on September 1, 1998 and 1st class in 1999,[3] 2nd class in 2000, 3rd class in 2001 and 6th class until June 2002. (Transcript, R-1, in evidence) Additionally, K.S. scored in the 42.5 percentile in language proficiency.

[3] There is no record of the courses she took or her grades in any classes for these first two years.

(Exhibit R-4, in evidence) Given these facts, the Commissioner finds that the District's carefully weighed decision to place K.S. in the sixth grade is not unreasonable, but makes sound educational sense. Moreover, petitioner has presented no evidence that her daughter was treated any differently from any other similarly situated pupil or that the Board acted with any improper motive. The Commissioner, therefore, concludes that the District did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in placing K.S. in the sixth grade.

It is well established that when a board acts within its discretionary authority, "its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Tp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966). *See, also, J.M. v. Accordingly, the Initial Decision on Remand is adopted as modified above for the reasons expressed herein.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6859-03

AGENCY DKT. NO. 241-7/03

ALEXANDER NICHOLAS,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,

Respondent.

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., for petitioner

Cindy Campbell, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: May 13, 2004 Decided: May 26, 2004

BEFORE BRUCE M. GORMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner applied to the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) for a supervisor's certificate. Petitioner received his masters and doctoral degrees from Pacific Western University (PWU). The State Board of Examiners (Respondent) denied petitioner's application on the basis that PWU lacked proper accreditation, and petitioner therefore lacks the degrees required for receipt of a supervisor's certificate. Petitioner appeals that determination.

The issue before me is whether petitioner has the degrees from an appropriately accredited university to qualify for a school supervisor's certificate.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner applied to the DOE for issuance of a supervisor's certificate. By letter dated January 27, 2003, the DOE Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials denied the application. Petitioner appealed to respondent State Board of Examiners. On June 17, 2003, respondent issued a decision denying petitioner's appeal. Petitioner filed a Notice of Appeal dated July 11, 2003 with the DOE Division of Controversies and Disputes. The Notice of Appeal was acknowledged by Controversies and Disputes on July 17, 2003, and formally docketed on July 30, 2003. Respondent filed an Answer on September 3, 2003.

Respondent filed a Motion for summary Decision on March 12, 2004. Petitioner filed a Cross-Motion on April 8, 2004. Those motions were argued on May 13, 2004 telephonically and were recorded on tape.

FACTS

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) sets forth the standard for granting a motion for summary decision:

> The (summary) decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

Although petitioner notes in his moving papers that the parties were unable to agree upon a statement of material facts, the facts required to adjudicate this matter are either undisputed or are contained in the numerous documents submitted by both parties.

It is undisputed that petitioner is 34 years old (see PWU transcript, P-8). He has been employed as a teaching staff member in the Trenton School District for a period in excess of three years.

Petitioner enrolled in a post-graduate program at PWU. PWU is a private postsecondary educational institution. Petitioner received a Masters Degree from PWU, and on April 15, 2002 he received a Doctor of Philosophy in Educational Administration.

Petitioner then sought a supervisor certificate from DOE. His application was rejected because PWU was determined to lack the accreditation required to qualify under N.J.A.C. 6A:9-12.6. Put another way, DOE held that petitioner's degrees fail to meet the standards required for certification. Respondent upheld that determination.

Therefore, this case turns on one issue: do petitioner's degrees meet the minimum standards necessary to qualify for a supervisor's certificate?

Both parties submitted documentation ostensibly in support of their respective positions. To resolve the issue, I must analyze that documentation.

Petitioner submitted the following:

P-1: Authorization to Operate – This document was issued by the California State Department of Education. Based upon this document, it appears that PWU is a California corporation. Dated December 18, 1978, P-1 authorized PWU to operate as a private postsecondary educational institution in California between December 13, 1978 and December 13, 1979.

The lower portion of P-1 provides five different possibilities which can be checked by the issuing agency. In the case of P-1, the box checked refers to "94310(c)", apparently a section of the California Education Code. 94310(c) designates PWU:

> "Degree-granting institution, unaccredited and unapproved, authorized by filing of public disclosure information (May not issue diplomas)" (Emphasis added)

P-1 appears to be the type of document which the Department of State would issue to new corporations in New Jersey

P-2: Authorization To Operate As A California Degree-Granting Institution. Effective May 20, 1987 through May 20, 1989, this document appears to be some form of renewal of P-1.

P-3: Certificate of Good Standing – Issued by the Hawaii Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs, this document would appear to be PWU's authorization to do business in the State of Hawaii. As was true of P-1, P-3 appears to be a document that would be issued to foreign corporations by the Department of State in New Jersey.

P-4: Certificate of Good Standing – Issued by the Hawaii Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs, P-4, like P-2, attests that PWU was a corporation in good standing in the State of Hawaii as of August 10, 1994.

P-5: Directory of Approved California Private Postsecondary Institutions – This document consists of three excerpted pages from a large volume issued by the Council for Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education. That entity describes itself as an "independent state agency" which "regulates private postsecondary degree-granting and vocational institutions in California". Its duties appear to involve oversight of private postsecondary schools such as PWU. It serves as an ombudsman to handle consumer complaints and insure that such entities maintain appropriate standards. Interestingly, one of its functions is to administer "the Student Tuition Recovery Fund, which reimburses students unable to get back their money from schools that failed to provide the promised educational services". It is also instructive to note that nowhere among its functions is it authorized to accredit such schools.

Page 3 of the exhibit shows that PWU is listed in the Council's Directory.

P-6: Directory of Postsecondary Institutions Volume 1 – This three-page document is apparently issued by the US Department of Education Office of Educational Research and Improvement. The third page of the document shows a listing for PWU. Significantly, the line marked "ACCREDITATION" is empty, indicating that PWU is not accredited.

P-7: 2002 Higher Education Directory – This document appears to be a listing of agencies authorized to accredit institutions of higher education.

P-8: This document comprises petitioner's academic transcript at PWU for the term 1/30/02 through 4/15/02.

P-9: PWU Course Descriptions – This document contains a delineation of the courses required by PWU to attain a Ph.D. in Education.

From the above documents I am able to draw certain conclusions. I therefore FIND as follows:

Based upon P-1, PWU was a corporation authorized to do business in the State of California beginning in 1978.

Based upon P-2, PWU remained an active California corporation as recently as 1989.

Based upon P-3 and P-4, PWU was incorporated in Hawaii in 1988 and remained in good standing as of 2001.

Based upon P-5, PWU is a private postsecondary degree-granting and vocational institution in California. Exactly what a private postsecondary degree-granting and vocational institution is remains unexplained.

Based upon P-1 and P-6, PWU situated in California is not accredited. I note that the relationship between PWU in California and PWU in Hawaii remains unexplained by petitioner.

Based upon P-8, petitioner's degree was issued by the Hawaii Corporation.

Respondent likewise submitted documentation as follows:

R-1 is respondent's decision rejecting petitioner's application for supervisor's certificate.

R-2 is petitioner's notice of appeal.

R-3 is the Certification of Margaret L. Smith. Ms. Smith is a Coordinator of Licensing Programs in the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Licensing and Credentials. Ms Smith states that professional education preparation programs from out-of-state colleges that are approved by the appropriate state board in their state of origin are accepted by New Jersey on the basis of reciprocal agreements. She goes on to certify that neither PWU of Hawaii nor PWU of California are approved by NJ DOE on the basis of such reciprocal agreement.

R-4 is a document issued by the US Department of Education entitled Accreditation in the United States. This document states that the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities (WASC) is the entity which grants accreditation to senior colleges and universities in California and Hawaii.

R-5 is a WASC-generated document which lists the accredited schools and collegiate institutions situate in, inter alia, California and Hawaii. The document is 33 pages long. PWU does not appear therein as an accredited institution.

R-6 is the homepage of PWU's website. It covers both the Hawaii and California corporations. On page 2 thereof in bold letters, the website advises:

> "PACIFIC WESTERN UNIVERSITY IS NOT ACCREDITED BY AN ACCREDITING AGENCY RECOGNIZED BY THE UNITED STATES SECRETARY OF EDUCATION."

R-7 is entitled State Approved Teacher Education Programs (SATE), and is issued by the Hawaii Teacher Standards Board. The Hawaii Teacher Standards Board is the agency authorized to regulate teacher licensing and credentials in the State of Hawaii. See Hawaii Administrative Rules Section 8-54-1. PWU is not listed as an approved program.

R-8 is a document prepared by the California Bureau for Private Postsecondary & Vocational Education. R-8 delineates the programs for which PWU is authorized to issue a degree in California. Petitioner's program, Educational Administration (see P-8) is not listed as a program for which PWU may issue a degree in California.

R-9 is a listing of Approved Professional Preparation Programs prepared by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing. PWU is not listed.

Based upon the above, I am able to arrive at further conclusions. I therefore FIND:

Based upon R-3, neither branch of PWU is accepted by New Jersey on the basis of reciprocal agreement.

Based upon R-5, PWU is not accredited by any agency authorized to do so.

Based upon P-6, PWU admits it is not accredited.

Based upon R-7, R-8, and R-9, neither branch of PWU is recognized by either California or Hawaii as a teacher-credentialing institution.

LEGAL CONCLUSIONS

In the Office of Administrative Law, the standard for granting summary judgment is controlled by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), which states in pertinent part:

> The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

Although petitioner avers in his moving papers that the parties have not agreed to a statement of material facts, after reviewing the moving papers and, more importantly, the numerous exhibits submitted by each party, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the issue before me can and should be decided on the basis of the relevant documentation. The documents speak for themselves, and nothing more can be gained from a plenary hearing.

Accordingly, I FIND that this matter can be disposed of through the motions now before me.

N.J.A.C. 6A:9-12.6 sets forth the standards for the granting of a supervisor's certificate. That regulation states in pertinent part:

> (a) To be eligible for the standard administrative certificate with a supervisor endorsement, a candidate shall be required to:
> 1. Hold a master's or higher degree from a regionally accredited college or university;
>
> 2. Successfully complete one of the following:
>
> i. A college curriculum approved by the Department of Education as the basis for issuing this endorsement; or
> ii. A program of college studies at the graduate level including six credits in curriculum development, three credits in staff supervision, and three elective credits in staff supervision or curriculum development. A candidate must complete graduate study in general principles of staff supervision and curriculum development and evaluation for grades kindergarten through 12. The elective credits must be in supervision and/or curriculum development in particular grade levels, or in specific subject fields; and
> 3. Hold a standard New Jersey instructional or educational services certificate or its out-of-State equivalent, and complete three years of successful, full-time teaching experience under the appropriate certificate.
> (b) Applicants in possession of a written evaluation for the supervisor certificate completed by the office prior to January 20, 2004 will have until January 20, 2009 to complete the requirements set forth in the written evaluation.

Petitioner acknowledges at the outset that because he obtained his degrees from an out-of-state school, he must demonstrate that his degrees come from an accredited institution. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-12.6. Additionally, Petitioner admits that DOE has interpreted the term "accredited" to mean an institution that is regionally accredited by an accrediting agency recognized by the US Department of Education. Yet based upon his own documentation, most notably P-1 and P-6, PWU is not accredited. That conclusion is buttressed by R-5, R-6, R-7, R-8, and R-9. R-6 is particularly persuasive. R-6 is PWU's own website, and on that website PWU specifies that it is not accredited.

The conclusion is inescapable that PWU is not accredited. Accordingly, I FIND and CONCLUDE that petitioner's degrees do not meet the requirements of N.J.A.C.

6A:9-12.6. He cannot be awarded a supervisor's certificate. Respondent was correct to deny petitioner's application.

But Petitioner urges that there is an exception to that rule, and that PWU meets that exception. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.11(b)2 states in pertinent part:

> (b) Professional education preparation programs required for New Jersey certificates shall be accepted from:
> 2. Out-of-State colleges approved by the State board or department of education or department of higher education in the state in which the college is established and approved by the Department on the basis of reciprocal agreements;

The certification of Margaret L. Smith, R-3, states that no such reciprocal agreement exists between New Jersey and either Hawaii or California covering PWU. Absent such an agreement, petitioner's degrees cannot be accepted for supervisory certification. Accordingly, petitioner's degrees do not fall within the exception provided by N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.11(b)2.

Based upon the above analysis, I FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent correctly denied petitioner's application for supervisor's certificate. Respondent's action must be AFFIRMED.

ORDER

I ORDER that petitioner's motion for summary judgment be DENIED.

I further ORDER that respondent's motion for summary judgment be GRANTED.

I further ORDER that respondent's denial of petitioner's application for supervisor's certificate by AFFIRMED.

I further ORDER that the petition herein be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dennis M. DeSantis Esq., for respondent (Destribats, Campbell, DeSantis & Magee, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 9, 2004 Decided: June 10, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a Petition of Appeal filed by the Hamilton Township Education Association and Richard Nenno, ("petitioners") with the Commissioner of the Department of Education alleging that the Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton ("respondent") failed to suspend and institute suspension/expulsion proceedings against a student who assaulted Richard Nenno. The respondent transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on May 31, 2000, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

During an audit of files at the OAL, questions were raised concerning the status of the above matter. The current status of this matter was requested of the parties by letter dated March 1, 2004, which is attached hereto. Counsel for the petitioners responded by letter of March 15, 2004, attached. By letter dated May 4, 2004, attached, counsel for petitioners was permitted additional time to supply information to OAL by May 14, 2004. By letter of May 14, 2004, attached, counsel for petitioners requested an extension of time to May 21 to supply the requested information. No further communications have been received from counsel for the petitioners or counsel for the respondent. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this matter is now closed for failure to prosecute and failure to respond with any information about the status of the case. It is ORDERED that this matter be DISMISSED for failure to prosecute and returned to the transmitting agency.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RE: IMO Dr. R.L. on behalf of minors C.L. and K.L. vs. Board of Education City of Clifton

Dear Mr. Ross:

As discussed with the Attorney General's Office on Wednesday, May 19, 2004, the Department of Health and Senior Services – TB Program will recognize religious exemptions to the Mantoux tuberculin skin test mandated for entry into New Jersey schools. If a religious exemption is claimed, however, a tuberculosis symptom assessment must be completed on a state form by a licensed physician or registered nurse (see attached form). If no symptoms are identified, the physician or nurse must sign to that effect. This form will substitute for mandated tuberculosis screening if no symptoms are identified. If any TB-like symptoms are identified, a chest radiograph must be done and read by a licensed medical doctor. The chest radiograph must be free of any active disease process resembling tuberculosis. The physician must sign a statement indicating that the child is free of communicable tuberculosis and this signed statement must be delivered to school officials before admission will be permitted.

If subsequent questions or concerns arise, please call me at (609) 588-7522.

Sincerely,

Thomas D. Privett

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CHARLES MOTLEY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Notwithstanding the Commissioner's concerns with respect to this issue, upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. The matter is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement, and the Administrative Law Judge and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in controverted matters that have been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

In light of the allegations of corporal punishment and conduct unbecoming, however, wherein the District asserts that Mr. Motley screamed at the principal and a number of teachers, students and parents, refused to meet with parents on several occasions, pushed a student out of class, pushed a student against a wall and hit a student twice with the door, all of which

Mr. Motley denies, this matter is being referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a)1, which authorizes the Commissioner to refer a tenure matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible action against a teacher's certificate in instances where tenure proceedings are concluded prior to adjudication because the charged party has resigned or retired.

Accordingly, a copy of this decision shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for its consideration.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CHARLES MOTLEY, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY

Arsen Zartarian, Esq., for petitioner (Perry L. Lattiboudere, General Counsel, attorney)

Robert M. Tosti, Esq., for respondent (Wilson, Elser, Moskowitz, Edelman & Dicker, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 12, 2004 Decided: June 10, 2004

BEFORE ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

On November 12, 2003, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A telephone pre-hearing conferences was held on December 1, 2003. Thereafter, a status conference was held on January 21, 2004. The hearings scheduled for February 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, and 11, 2004, were adjourned and rescheduled to March 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, and 10, 2004, at the Office of Administrative Law, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. After the first day of hearing was postponed, the hearing commenced on March 2, 2004. During a conference prior to the start of the hearing, the matter was tentatively settled wherein the respondent would tender his resignation from his tenured teaching position with the petitioner, State Operated School District of the City of Newark. The terms of the proposed settlement agreement were placed on the record. Thereafter, the matter was adjourned pending the receipt of the executed settlement agreement. The stipulation of settlement was received by the undersigned on May 12, 2004.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. On September 22, 2003, Don Marinaro, Assistant Superintendent of the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, executed a statement of charges, including twenty-two separate charges of conduct unbecoming and/ or corporal punishment against the respondent Charles Motley, which, if true, are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary.

2. On October 17, 2003, Marion Bolden, District Superintendent of the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, executed a Certificate of Determination in support of the tenure charges. Superintendent Bolden determined that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges.

3. The respondent understands his rights to a full hearing in the within matter. By tendering his resignation, and otherwise agreeing to the terms of the settlement, he has freely and voluntarily waived that right to a hearing. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the terms of the Stipulation of Settlement marked Exhibit J-1 as evidenced by the signatures of the parties. Marion Bolden, Superintendent of the Newark Public Schools, duly approved the Stipulation of Settlement on behalf of the petitioner.

4. The settlement of this matter is in the public interest, and will avoid the necessity of a protracted hearing over eight to ten days, with the attendance of numerous pupils, teaching staff members, and administrators. The cost of this litigation would be a significant burden on the respective parties.

5. The respondent has been advised the Commissioner of Education may refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against the charged party's certificate as it deems appropriate, when such referral is warranted under the provisions governing resignation or retirement prior to conclusion of tenure charges in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(d).

6. The Settlement Agreement conforms with the Cardonick standards and with the concerns of the Commissioner of Education as set forth in the decision In re Cardonick, decided by Commissioner, April 7, 1982, affirmed, State Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846 (April 6, 1983).

I CONCLUDE that the agreement is in the public interest and serves the interests of justice. The agreement further meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, as well as the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

3. As of May 31, 2004, all of Mr. Motley's employment rights, including, but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will permanently end. Mr. Motley agrees not to seek employment with the District in the future.

4. Mr. Motley will receive all benefits accrued as per the terms of the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the District and the Newark Teachers Union.

5. The District will not pursue tenure charges against Mr. Motley as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter. However, if the Stipulation is voided, the District retains the right to file and consider for certification tenure charges against Mr. Motley, including such charges that have previously been filed by the District against Mr. Motley. Mr. Motley will have the right to renew his answer and denial and fully defend himself in any subsequent tenure hearing.

6. Mr. Motley acknowledges that he has been advised of the duty of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to In re Cardonick concerning referral to the State Board of Examiners for possible action regarding his teaching certification. The parties agree that settlement of this matter will be in the public's best interest and avoid the necessity of numerous days of testimony of numerous students, teaching staff, and administrators.

7. The parties acknowledge that each party has been separately represented by counsel of their choice and that this Stipulation is entered freely and voluntarily without duress, coercion or pressure from any source.

8. Except as set forth above, Mr. Motley waives all claims of any nature in any forum against the State-operated School District of the City of Newark with regard to this matter, including fees, or other monetary relief. This agreement includes, without limitation, any and all claims directly or indirectly related to or arising out of his employment by the District (with the exception of enforceability of this Stipulation). This release specifically includes, but is not limited to, discrimination on any basis, including claims Mr. Motley may have in connection with his employment with Respondent under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended by the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, the Conscientious Employees Protection Act, and any other federal or state civil rights laws, wrongful discharge claims, with the exception of any claim under the workers compensation laws.

9. This Stipulation constitutes the full agreement between the parties and is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education.

MARK KRAMER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the Board acted pursuant to its discretionary authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, inasmuch as that statute requires that a Board's actions be consistent with law. Here, petitioner argues that while the Board "may have the authority to amend its policies,  it cannot do so with impunity where such action has the effect of reducing the tenured Petitioner's compensation." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3)

Petitioner additionally asserts that the ALJ's determination that the Board's change in its interpretation of policy governing vehicle use by employees did not effect a reduction in his compensation "defies the factual findings made," including the testimony and documentary evidence supporting petitioner's declaration of the vehicle on his income tax returns and his consideration of such vehicle as a "fringe benefit." (Id. at 3-4) In this connection, petitioner contends that the ALJ "has restricted her review of the issue in this case by limiting her interpretation of the term 'compensation' to the definition set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:66-2d." (Id. at 5) Relying upon regulations promulgated by the Department of Treasury, petitioner contends that because the value of his personal use of the district owned vehicle was reported in regular, periodic installments in accordance with the Board's payroll cycle, it must be considered within the definition of "base salary" as per N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.1.[1]

In reply, the Board underscores that it has been given broad powers by the Legislature, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1[2], N.J.S.A. 18A:17-14.1[3], N.J.S.A. 18A:17-5[4] and N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c) to fix petitioner's compensation by a majority roll call vote. Moreover, the Board argues that the only administrator in its district with authorization for personal use of a vehicle is the Superintendent, "who has an express clause in his contract which was passed by a majority roll call vote of the Board." (Board's Reply at 3) The Board reasons that no Board member, including the Superintendent of Schools as an ex-officio member, can unilaterally fix petitioner's compensation. (Id.)

[1] This regulation defines "base salary" as "the annual compensation of a member, in accordance with contracts, ordinances, resolutions, or other established salary policies of the member's employer for all employees in the same position, or all employees covered by the same collective bargaining agreement, which is reported in regular, periodic installments with the payroll cycle of the employer ." N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.1

[2] This statute provides that "Each local board of education  shall employ and may dismiss a secretary or a school business administrator to act as secretary  and fix and alter their compensation and the length of their terms of employment." N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.

[3] Concerning the appointment of school business administrators, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-14.1 provides that local board(s) of education may appoint a school business administrator by a majority vote of all members of the board, define his duties and fix his salary.

[4] This statute provides, in pertinent part, that each school board secretary shall be appointed by the board by a recorded roll call majority vote of its full membership and the board shall fix his compensation. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-5.

The Board further contends that the ALJ correctly determined that compensation is contractual, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:66-2d, and it never made any determination, contractual or otherwise, that the use of a vehicle was to be included as "compensation" for petitioner. (Id. at 2) Further, the Board supports the ALJ's finding that petitioner's choice to pay taxes on the value of the use of the car is not binding on the Board, noting that "Board [m]ember Carolyn Nelson testified that no member of the Board knew that Petitioner paid taxes on the car." (Id. at 4) As to the itemization of the car on petitioner's pay stub, the Board points out that it was petitioner's office that was responsible for putting certain line items into employees' pay stubs, and as per the testimony of other Board employees who used cars, none had line items placed into their respective pay stubs. The Board reasons, therefore, that "this was not a blanket policy that was authorized by the Board, and that Petitioner through his office unilaterally decided to place this line item into his stub." (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record herein, the Commissioner determines to modify the Initial Decision, as set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that the parties stipulate that petitioner, a school business administrator, acquired tenure in his position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.[5] (Initial Decision at 2) Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the central issue in this matter is whether the Board reduced petitioner's compensation in violation of applicable tenure statutes when it directed that all district-owned vehicles were to be returned to the Board

[5] The Commissioner acknowledges that petitioner also contends that he has acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2a. (Petitioner's Letter Brief, January 26, 2004 at 9) (See, for example, Shenekji v. Passaic County Vo-Tech School Board of Education, Commissioner Decision No. 292-88, November 18, 1988, aff'd as modified, State Board of Education, Dkt. No. 64-88, May 3, 1999) premises at night, thus preventing petitioner from the use of such vehicle on a 24-hour basis, as he had enjoyed from the time of his employment in 1994 until June 28, 2001. The Commissioner additionally concurs with the ALJ that the testimony of the former Superintendent of Schools is not necessary to resolve this controversy (Initial Decision at 4); neither is it essential to address whether petitioner was acting in conformity with Board policy, practice or convention when he used the district-owned vehicles on a 24-hour basis.

It is undisputed that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, "teaching staff members" serving in any school district or under any board of education "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation" except as specifically prescribed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10(b). In this connection, the ALJ appears to rely on the definition of compensation as provided in the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund Law at N.J.S.A. 18A:66-2d to determine that petitioner's use of a district vehicle was not "compensation," since it was not specifically included in his contract (Exhibits P-7, P-8); consequently, the ALJ concludes that the Board properly exercised its discretionary authority pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, in adopting, or amending, its district-owned vehicle policy. The Commissioner finds it unnecessary to reach the ALJ's analysis, however, in light of a recent decision interpreting "compensation" within the intendment of the tenure laws.

In Arlene C. Allen, et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Clark, Union County, Commissioner Decision No. 189-04, April 30, 2004, petitioners, tenured teachers formerly employed by the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, alleged that the respondent Clark School Board, their new employer when the Regional District was dissolved, violated their rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-31.5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 when it improperly calculated their compensation for sick leave upon retirement in that they were entitled to compensation for sick leave accumulated while employed by the Regional School District at the rate provided in the collective bargaining agreement in effect at the time the days were accumulated. Additionally, the petitioners in Allen argued "that the word 'compensation' as used in the tenure statutes includes the payment for accumulated, unused sick leave upon retirement." Allen, supra, slip. op. at 14. Thus, they reasoned, respondent's failure to provide them with their requested sick leave payments constituted a "reduction in compensation" in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Upon review of applicable case law, and, in particular, the State Board of Education's decision in Stagaard v. Contini, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 217, the Commissioner found that:

> it was implicitly determined that payment for accumulated sick leave was not entitled to protection or preservation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 either as a tenure right or under the "other benefits" provision of that statute. First, the decision in Stagaard evidences that the State Board accepted that the tenure entitlement of the petitioners in that matter was satisfied by the preservation of their salary. Had the State Board found any other claimed right of petitioners in that matter to be one which was protected by tenure, they would have identified and included it. Therefore, the Commissioner concludes that "compensation" for purposes of the protections provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 has implicitly been defined as "salary." Allen, supra at 44-45 (emphasis supplied)

Thus, notwithstanding that Allen addressed the issue of petitioners' tenure rights in conjunction with the "save harmless" provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64 and the case law arising therefrom, the Commissioner must likewise conclude in the instant matter that "compensation" for the purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, implicitly defined in a related tenure statute as "salary," does not include the value of petitioner's prior use of a district-owned vehicle[6].

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is modified as set forth above and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

Melvin C. Randall, Esq., appearing for Respondent
(Love & Randall, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 10, 2004 Decided: June 3, 2004

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a tenured School Business Administrator, asserts when Respondent Board discontinued assignment of a district owned vehicle to him he suffered a reduction in compensation in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A: 28.5.

The case was heard on December 8 and 9, 2003; the parties requested and were granted the opportunity to submit written summations. The record closed on March 10, 2004; however, the undersigned sought and was granted an extension of the 45-day time frame for filing the Initial Decision to June 7, 2004.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Stipulated Facts

The parties stipulated to the following FACTS at the hearing; these stipulations are incorporated herein as factual determinations in this matter.

1. Petitioner was first employed by Respondent as the School Business Administrator and Board Secretary for the School District on November 1, 1994. He achieved tenure in that position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

2. From the date of Petitioner's first employment by Respondent, the Petitioner received particular remuneration including fringe benefits recited generally in his employment contract with Respondent as "the same fringe benefits which accrue to all other administrative employees."

3. Petitioner was assigned an automobile for use in conducting the business of Respondent. Petitioner used the assigned vehicle to travel to the District from his residence and from the District to his residence. Petitioner used the vehicle exclusively, on a 24-hour a day basis.

4. On June 28, 2001, Petitioner was informed that the Policy Committee of the East Orange Board of Education decided that all School District owned vehicles were required to be returned every night to the School District premises located at 715 Park Avenue in the City of East Orange.

5. Petitioner promptly complied with the directive he received and no longer used the vehicle to drive to and from his residence.

6. On September 11, 2001, the members of the East Orange Board of Education determined that the Board would not reverse or modify the directive that all district owned vehicles were required to be returned to District premises at night.

B. Undisputed Facts

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

7. The vehicle used by Petitioner was owned and insured by Respondent; Respondent also serviced and maintained the vehicle and paid for the fuel.

8. Because a portion the Petitioner's use of the School District-owned automobile accrued to his personal benefit, Petitioner annually declared the value of the use of the vehicle on his income tax returns as compensation on which he paid taxes to the State and Federal governments.

9. Various other high level administrators used the vehicles assigned to them to travel between home and the District, i.e., for commuting purposes.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Although the ultimate issue to be decided in this matter is whether the compensation of a tenured employee, as defined by statute, has been reduced in violation of the tenure statute, two seemingly significant ancillary issues arose during the hearing. The first is whether statements made by a former Superintendent of Schools for the Respondent District were admissible as evidence as statements of a party to the action in under N.J.R.E. 803(b); the second is whether the Board policy governing the use of district vehicles was and is clear.

Because I have determined this matter based on statutory language, it is not necessary to decide the issue of admissibility of the former Superintendent's statements and I decline to do so.

With respect to the issue of the clarity of the Board policy, the determination to be made in this matter is whether, after the Board issued a policy determination to require district owned vehicles which had previously been driven by various administrators for commuting purposes to be returned to District premises at the end of the day, Petitioner suffered a loss of compensation in violation of the tenure statute. There is no issue of insubordination or conduct unbecoming because Petitioner failed to follow Board policy. I am cognizant of Respondent's argument that Petitioner was in violation of Board policy and the ensuing discussion with regard to that policy; however, the underlying issue to be determined in this matter is not whether Petitioner was in compliance with a policy which may or may not be vague; the issue to be determined is whether, after having had exclusive use of a vehicle on a 24-hour a day basis from 1994 to 2001, the termination of such use constituted a reduction in compensation. As noted in the factual determinations set forth above, the practice in which Petitioner engaged was followed by other high level administrators as well.

A determination of the clarity of the Board policy is not germane to the issue to be resolved herein; consequently, I decline to make such a determination.

I turn now to the predicate issue in this matter, whether Petitioner's compensation with illegally reduced when he was required to leave the District owned vehicle which had been assigned to him on district premises at the close of the business day. That Petitioner is a certificated employee who enjoys the protections afforded by the tenure statute is clear and has been stipulated. The pertinent section of the tenure statute requires the compensation of such certificated teaching staff members and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the Board of Examiners shall not be reduced except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such teaching staff member. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. (Emphasis added).

The language of the tenure statutes in general, and the one cited above in particular, makes clear any reduction in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming would be a violation of tenure rights. Since there is nothing in the record to justify the reduction of compensation on any of the grounds specified in the statute, the question is whether the assignment of a district-owned vehicle can be considered compensation. Only if that answer is in the affirmative can the termination of such use constitute a violation of tenure rights.

The only definition of compensation in the education statutes is found in the section dealing with pensions:

> "Compensation" means the contractual salary, for services as a teacher as defined in this article, which is in accordance with established salary policies of the member's employer for all employees in the same position but shall not include the individual salary adjustments which are granted primarily in anticipation of the member's retirement or additional remuneration for performing temporary or extracurricular duties beyond the regular school day of the regular school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:66-22d.

According to this statute, then, compensation is contractual. Furthermore, the terms of compensation must be in accord with the board's established salary policies. Petitioner asserts that, because he has had the exclusive use of an automobile for six years and he has paid taxes on the value of the car to him, the policy of allowing administrators to have exclusive use of an automobile for commuting purposes is an "established salary policy." First, his determination to pay taxes on the value of the car to him does not bind Respondent in any way. Second, boards of education have been specifically empowered by the Legislature to > [m]ake, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district . . .

> and
>
> [p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1c,d. (Emphasis added).

Read together, these two sections of the statute give local boards of education the authority to set ground rules, policies, so to speak, for the governance of the district. With the authority to make policy comes the authority to amend policy which is clearly what happened in this instance. Respondent Board has determined it to be in the best interest of the district to enforce a policy of having passenger cars owned, maintained and fueled by the district returned to the district at the close of the district's business day. I FIND, therefore, in requiring administrators to return District owned vehicles to a designated location in the District each day, Respondent exercised its power to make and/or amend policy.

Accordingly, I reject Petitioner's assertions and FIND he has not sustained his burden of proving a reduction in compensation in violation of his tenure rights.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, this petition should be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner finds that this matter turns on the credibility of the witnesses. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) credibility determinations are entitled to his deference. "The reason for this rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1989)." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 549, 550. The Appellate Division has affirmed this principle, underscoring that "[u]nder existing law, the [reviewing agency] must recognize and give due weight to the ALJ's unique position and ability to make demeanor based judgments." Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2, decided by the New

> may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. (emphasis added) N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Here, upon review of the full record,[1] the Commissioner finds that the ALJ's credibility assessments are not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, but, instead, are supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. The Commissioner, therefore, finds no cause to disturb the factual findings, and he concurs with the legal conclusions of the ALJ.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: January 23, 2004 Decided: June 11, 2004[1]

BEFORE ISRAEL D. DUBIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Arti Sahni, contends that her teaching contract was renewed for the 2002-2003 school year by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11 when respondent Trenton Board of Education failed to offer her a contract of employment for the following year, or serve notice that such employment would not be offered, by May 15, 2002.

[1] By Orders of Extension, the time limit within which to file this Initial Decision with the Commissioner of the Department of Education was extended until July 22, 2004.

Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on November 11, 2002, and the Board filed its answer on December 19, 2002. By letter to the parties dated December 24, 2002, M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, questioned whether petitioner had (1) filed her petition within ninety days of receiving the notice of nonrenewal, and (2) stated a cause of action upon which relief could be granted given a Board of Education's virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or not renewing the contracts of non-tenured teachers. She therefore requested that the parties submit briefs or memoranda of law outlining their legal arguments.

By letter to the parties dated February 18, 2003, Director Duncan noted that a review of their respective memoranda disclosed that the Board had not submitted proof of its compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. Specifically, the Board had not provided any affidavits or certifications establishing that its letter of non-renewal had actually been mailed. Therefore, she directed the parties to submit supplemental memoranda addressing the effect, if any, a failure by petitioner to notify the Board in writing of her acceptance of employment by the deadline of June 1, 2002, would have on her status.

By letter dated April 3, 2003, Director Duncan advised the parties that she had completed her review of their respective supplemental memoranda and determined that a plenary hearing would be necessary in order to resolve the disputed issues relating to (1) the renewal/nonrenewal of petitioner's teaching contract, and (2) petitioner's claim to tenure status. Therefore, the matter would be referred to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings.

On April 22, 2003, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was then scheduled for and held on June 17, 2003, at which time the parties agreed that the matter raised two legal issues: First, whether petitioner's teaching contract was renewed for the 2002-2003 school year by operation of law because of the Board's alleged failure to notify her of its intention not to renew, and second, whether petitioner was/is entitled to tenure by virtue of her years of service and the fact that she became a United States citizen in September 2002.

The matter was scheduled to be heard on November 17 & 18, 2003. Although the initial day of hearing was adjourned in advance at the request of the Board's counsel, the matter was heard as scheduled on November 18, 2003, at the Office of Administrative Law, 9 Quakerbridge Road, Mercerville, New Jersey. The parties requested the opportunity to submit post-hearing briefs and the record subsequently closed upon receipt of the final brief on January 23, 2004. The names of the witnesses who testified and a list of the exhibits admitted into evidence are set forth in the appendix to this decision.

SUMMARY OF THE RECORD

Petitioner is a science teacher and began her employment with the Trenton Board of Education as a long-term substitute teacher on September 8, 1998. Although petitioner contends she began her permanent employment in January 1999, the Board asserts that she was not granted a permanent position until October 9, 1999, when she was formally assigned to the Holland Middle School, effective September 1, 1999. In any event, she held the position of science teacher, albeit in different schools, for the 1999-2000, 2000-2001, and 2001-2002 school years. Consequently, had her contract been renewed, she would have been eligible for tenure at the beginning of the 2002-2003 school year.[2]

On January 30, 2002, petitioner received a memorandum from Eugene W. Harris, Principal of the Hedgepeth/Williams Middle School, advising her that it was his intention to recommend that her contract not be renewed. Principal Harris based his recommendation on the results of three formal classroom observations conducted by supervising administrators disclosing that she had "failed to make necessary and sufficient progress." Harris Memorandum, Exhibit R-1.

[2] Although she had not yet become a United States citizen at the time of the alleged non-renewal, she was sworn in and received her Certificate of Naturalization (Exhibit P-3) on September 28, 2002.

Sometime in March 2002, petitioner received notification that the Superintendent of Schools had recommended she be terminated from her position and that the Board would be considering the matter at its conference meeting on April 22, 2002. According to the Minutes of the Executive Session held on that date, "Ms. Sahni was present and represented by her Attorney Mr. Barrett. Attorney Barrett spoke on her behalf and Ms. Sahni gave a detailed presentation why she feels she should not be terminated. The Board plans to withdraw her termination." Minutes, Board Conference Meeting, April 22, 2002; Attachment 1, Respondent's Brief (January 13, 2003). The following week, at the Regular Board Meeting of April 29, 2002, the item concerning petitioner's termination was "PULLED." Minutes, Regular Board Meeting, April 29, 2002; Attachment 2, Respondent's Brief (January 13, 2003).

In lieu of terminating her employment, the Superintendent decided not to renew her contract for the 2002-2003 school year. Therefore, on May 2, 2002, Fougere J. Aupont, the Board's Human Resources Manager, dictated a letter-advising petitioner that "The Superintendent of the Trenton Board of Education has decided not to recommend to the Board that your contract be renewed for the 2002-2003 school year. This means that your position as Science Teacher at the Hedgepeth/Williams School is not offered to you for the new school year 2002-2003." Nonrenewal Letter, Exhibit R-2. The letter further advised her that she had fifteen days within which to submit a written request for a statement of reasons for the decision, and the right to request a Donaldson hearing upon receiving the statement.

Mr. Aupont's secretary, Maryellen Ricigliano, testified that the letter and the two envelopes that were to be used were embossed with the Board's return address and addressed to petitioner at 140 Palmer Lane, Ewing, New Jersey. This is the address petitioner had provided on April 11, 2002, when she filled out the Board's Information Record, Exhibit R-3, and checked off the box for "Address Change." Ms. Ricigliano then attached a green certified mail receipt card to one of the envelopes, enclosed a copy of the letter in each and personally walked them down to the mailroom for delivery to the Postal Service. According to both Mr. Aupont and Ms. Ricigliano, neither the green card nor the letters themselves were returned.

Petitioner testified that she never received notice of the Board's decision on the recommended termination. Nor did she receive the letter of nonrenewal via certified or regular mail. Therefore, on May 16, 2002, she hand delivered a letter to the Human Resources Department accepting a teaching position for the 2002-2003 school year. The letter, which bore the 140 Palmer Lane address, advised Superintendent of Schools James Lytle that "This letter confirms my acceptance of the position of a Science Teacher in the Trenton School District for the following year, 2002-2003." Acceptance Letter, Exhibit P-2.

Sometime in August 2002, petitioner advised Thomas Moore, President of the Trenton Education Association, that her health benefits had been discontinued. Mr. Moore, in turn, contacted[3] the Board regarding petitioner's status. By way of reply he received a letter from Carolyn Gibson, Assistant Superintendent of Human Resources, advising him that it was the Board's contention that it had "provided correspondence to Ms. Sahni indicating the status of her employment with the Trenton Public Schools. Therefore, we confirm that she is no longer an employee of the district." Gibson Letter, Exhibit R-4.

ANALYSIS AND APPLICATION OF THE LAW

A district board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring, or deciding not to renew the contracts of, non-tenured teachers. Dore v. Board of Education, 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453 (App. Div. 1982); Guerriero v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Glen Rock, State Board decision (February 5, 1985), aff'd Dkt. No. A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. 1986); Pratt v. Board of Education of the Borough of Butler, State Board decision (January 6, 1999); Cordell Wise v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Trenton, State Board decision (January 3, 2001). However, that does not mean an affected teacher is without rights, and one of those rights is that she be given timely notice of the board's decision on whether to offer her a contract for the following year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, on or before May 15 of a given year, a board of education must provide a nontenured teacher with a written offer of employment or notice from the chief school administrator that no such contract shall be offered for the next succeeding year. Should the board of education fail to give the teacher such written notice of its intentions by that date, it "shall be deemed to have offered to that teaching staff member continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-11. In any event, if the nontenured teacher decides to accept the actual or constructive offer of employment, she must provide the board with written notice of her acceptance by no later than June 1. Should she do so, the employment shall be continued. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12.

Petitioner contends that she received an offer of employment for the 2002-2003 school year by operation of law when the Board failed to provide her with written notice of its intentions by May 15, 2002. The Board disagrees, arguing that the "chief school administrator," Mr. Aupont, sent her a letter of non-renewal by regular and certified mail, return receipt requested, on May 2, 2002.

"New Jersey cases have recognized a presumption that mail properly addressed, stamped, and posted was received by the party to whom it was addressed. The conditions that must be shown to invoke the presumption are (1) that the mailing was correctly addressed; (2) that proper postage was affixed; (3) that the return address was correct; and (4) that the mailing was deposited in a proper mail receptacle . . .." SSI Medical Services, Inc. v. State, Dept. of Human Services, 146 N.J. 614, 621 (1996) (citations omitted). Proof of mailing can be demonstrated by evidence of habit or routine practice. However, evidence of office custom requires other corroboration that the custom was followed in a particular instance, in order to raise a presumption of mailing and receipt and meet the preponderance of the evidence standard." Id. at 622-23.

Here, the totality of the evidence presented by the Board as to the routine business custom and the specific practice followed on May 2, 2002 establishes a presumption that the letter of nonrenewal was received by petitioner. As recited earlier, Mr. Aupont's secretary, Maryellen Ricigliano, whom I found to be an extremely credible witness, testified that the letter and the two envelopes that were to be used were embossed with the Board's return address and addressed to petitioner at 140 Palmer Lane, Ewing, New Jersey. This is the address petitioner had provided on April 11, 2002, when she filled out the Board's Information Record form and checked off the box for "Address Change." Ms. Ricigliano then attached a green certified mail receipt card to one of the envelopes, enclosed a copy of the letter in each and personally walked them down to the mailroom for delivery to the Postal Service. According to both Mr. Aupont and Ms. Ricigliano, neither the green card nor the letters themselves were returned. In fact, none of the other letters of termination or nonrenewal sent that year were returned. This only strengthens the presumption of receipt.

The "presumption of receipt derived from proof of mailing is 'rebuttable and may be overcome by evidence that the notice was never in fact received.'" Id. at 625 (citations omitted). In this regard, petitioner testified that her mail is delivered daily at 4:00 p.m., although the time differs on Saturdays when delivery is dependent upon whether she is first or last on the route that day. She picked up her mail everyday and was certain she had not received the Board's letter.

However, it is curious that even as the May 15, 2002, deadline rapidly approached, petitioner did not even think to call Dr. Lytle, Mr. Aupont, or her principal at the Hedgepeth/Williams Middle School, Mr. Harris, concerning her status. What makes this even more surprising is her testimony that she had never received notice of the Board's decision on the recommended termination of her employment from Mr. Aupont, Mr. Barrett, or her union representative. In other words, although she knew she was in jeopardy of losing her job and had possibly been terminated, which would have relieved the Board of sending a nonrenewal letter, she did not make inquiry of the Board in order to obtain information and consider her options. Even after the deadline had passed and she reported for work the next morning, she did not contact her principal or anyone else concerning her status. Instead, at 12:48 p.m. that afternoon, she hand-delivered her letter to the Human Resources Department accepting a teaching position for the 2002-2003 school year, a position that for all she knew may not have been there to accept.

Adding to the presumption of receipt is the reliability of the mails. "[T]he mails today are recognized as an efficient and inexpensive means of communication." Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 319, 70 S.Ct. 652, 660, 94 L.Ed. 864, 876 (1950). Attesting to this reliability, the New Jersey Supreme Court has incorporated service by mail into the court rules, which are binding on the bench and bar. In the Rules of General Application, R. 1:5-2 permits service of process "by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, to the party's last known address; or if the party refuses to claim or to accept delivery, by ordinary mail to the last known address; . . .. Where mailed service is made upon a party, the modes of service may be made simultaneously."

Similarly, R. 1:5-4(a) provides that "[w]here under any rule, provision is made for service by certified or registered mail, service may also be made by ordinary mail simultaneously or thereafter. If the addressee fails or refuses to claim or to accept delivery of certified or registered mail, the ordinary mailing shall be deemed to constitute service." Moreover, with certain exceptions not applicable here, "service by mail of any paper referred to in R. 1:5-1[4], when authorized by rule or court order, shall be complete upon mailing of the ordinary mail." R. 1:5-4(b). Only if no ordinary mailing is made will service "be deemed complete upon the date of acceptance of the certified or registered mail." Ibid.

Additionally, "[w]here service has been made by registered or certified mail, filing of the return receipt card with the court shall not be required." R. 1:5-3. Nor need the proof of service recite the specific disposition of the certified mail, as such a requirement would only serve to defeat the purpose of the simultaneous mailing authorized by R. 1:5-2. First Resolution Inv. v. Seker, 171 N.J. 502, 506 (2002). Therefore, absent exceptional circumstances, a failure to provide proof of service will not affect the validity of service. R. 1:5-3.

The Appellate Division had occasion to visit this issue in Morristown Memorial Hospital v. Caldwell, 340 N.J. Super. 562 (App. Div. 2001). In a decision written by the Hon. Francine Axelrad, J.T.C., T/A, the Appellate Division held that service by regular mail of a motion satisfied statutory and rule requirements for service, even without proof of service by certified mail, and did not otherwise violate due process requirements. More specifically, the court held that "[a]ctual knowledge of the failure or refusal to claim or accept delivery of the certified mail is not a prerequisite for ordinary mail to be deemed to constitute service under R. 1:5-4. If ordinary mail has not been returned, we can presume that it was properly addressed and delivered, and can expect that certified mail sent to the same address was delivered or will be refused or unclaimed." Morristown Memorial Hospital v. Caldwell, supra, 340 N.J. Super. at 568.

[4] "In all civil actions," such papers include "orders, judgments, pleadings subsequent to the original complaint, written motions (not made ex parte), briefs, appendices, petitions and other papers . . .." R. 1:5-1(a).

Judge Axelrad concluded the discussion of ordinary mail by referring to the Supreme Court's establishment in Special Civil Part of a county by county "Service by Mail Program," in which the court clerk simultaneously mails a summons and complaint to a defendant by both certified and regular mail. R. 6:2-3(d). The rule, which she described as "provid[ing] a common sense approach that satisfies due process," Morristown Memorial Hospital v. Caldwell, supra, 340 N.J. Super. at 571, provides:

> Consistent with due process of law, service by mail pursuant to this rule shall have the same effect as personal service, and the simultaneous mailing shall constitute effective service unless the mail is returned to the court by the postal service marked "moved, unable to forward," "addressee not known," "no such number/street," "insufficient address," "forwarding order expired," or the court has other reason to believe that service was not effected.

Although Morristown Memorial Hospital concerned the filing of a motion for turnover of a debtor's assets in a bank account, the Appellate Division has also approved the simultaneous service by regular and certified mail of an "Order for Arrest" issued in accordance with R. 6:7-2(g) to enforce a litigant's rights in a commercial matter. New Century Financial Services, Inc. v. Nason, 367 N.J. Super. 17 (App. Div. 2004). Since N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 simply requires that the notice of nonrenewal be in writing and does not prescribe that a particular mode of service be employed, I can see no good reason why service of the notice cannot be made simultaneously by regular and certified mail.

There are any number of reasons why the green card has, to this day, not been returned to the Board. Among other things, it is possible that it was not detached from the envelope upon delivery, or was detached but lost by the postal service during its return trip. Regardless of the reason, having had the opportunity to hear the testimony and adjudge the credibility of Ms. Ricigliano, I cannot accept petitioner's implication that the letter was never sent. See Petitioner's Brief (January 13, 2004), pg. 3.[5] That being so, service of the written notice was "complete upon mailing of the ordinary mail." See R. 1:5-4(b).

After careful review of the record before me, I find that the evidence presented by petitioner was insufficient to rebut the presumption of receipt and that she has, therefore, failed to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that she did not receive the May 2, 2002 nonrenewal notice.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I find that on or before May 15, 2002, respondent Board of Education of the City of Trenton provided petitioner Arti Sahni, a nontenured teacher, with a written notice from the chief school administrator advising her that she would not be offered a contract of employment for the 2002-2003 school year and thereby satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. Since her contract was not been renewed, she is not an employee of the Board of Education of the City of Trenton and I therefore conclude that her petition should be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[5] "The Respondent has been unable to produce evidence of a certified mailing and it is unclear, from the evidence addressed at hearing, that one was ever sent."

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and advisement of petitioner's failure to appear transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with copies of the notification sent to the parties by OAL on June 30, 2004, providing petitioner ten days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, have been reviewed. There being no explanation filed by petitioner, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice due to petitioner's failure to appear at hearing or provide an explanation for his nonappearance.

Notwithstanding the dismissal of the petition, the Commissioner notes that the Board's Answer in this residency matter contained a counterclaim for tuition which was left unresolved by the Administrative Law Judge. In that the record before the Commissioner contains no affidavit of a responsible Board official attesting to the amount of tuition claimed by the Board as a consequence of the ineligible attendance of petitioner's two children in its schools, this matter must be remanded to the OAL for supplementation of the record in this regard and an appropriate recommended order regarding the payment of tuition.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed because it was filed well outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) and petitioners have failed to set forth a legal or factual basis for waiving the timely filing requirement.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law on June 4, 2004, purusnat to the Commissioner of Education's decision of May 14, 2004 (OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8874-03). The matter was remanded because the Board attorney did not sign the Settlement Agreement and there was no Board resolution designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf. A modified Settlement Agreement has been prepared and submitted with the Board attorney's signature, attaching a copy of the Board Resolution approving the Board President's signature.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: June 8, 2004 Decided: June 28, 2004

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners Lindenwold Education Association, Pine Hill Education Association and Winslow Township Education Association (the Education Associations), filed petitions in which they are challenging the alleged refusal of respondents Boards of Educations to honor and recognize the rights of petitioners' affected members as established by contract or past practice and enjoyed by them in their former school district. Petitioners allege that these actions and failures to act violate the Education laws and, in particular, N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64, and the administrative regulations promulgated thereunder. Petitioners are seeking a determination restoring to the affected members all of the terms and conditions of employment formerly enjoyed by them as employees of the former regional school district, and requesting the restoration of all back pay, benefits and emoluments of employment which they have lost to date as a result of respondents' actions and failures to act. These matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 9, 2002, for hearing as contested cases. On April 30, 2002, these three matters were consolidated.

On March 1, 2002, petitioners filed unfair practice charges with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) against the same three respondents. The unfair practice charges are captioned Winslow Township Association and Winslow Township Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-235, Lindenwold Ed. Association and Lindenwold Board of Ed., PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-236; and Pine Hill Ed. Association and Pine Hill Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-237.

By Order of Consolidation and Predominant Interest entered on October 21, 2002, I recommended that the three PERC matters be consolidated with the consolidated OAL matters. By an Order entered by the Chair of the Public Employment Relations Commission on November 25, 2002, and by the Commissioner of Education on December 5, 2002, this recommendation was accepted.

Following numerous discussions between the parties and a number of telephone conferences with the ALJ, this matter originally captioned Lindenwold Education Association vs.

Board of Education of the Borough of Lindenwold, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 112-02, Agency Dkt No. 489-11/01 and the unfair practice charge captioned Lindenwold Ed. Association and Lindenwold Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-236, have been settled and resolved by and between the parties as the product of contract negotiations, and they have submitted a Joint Stipulation of Dismissal. In order to effectuate the dismissal it is necessary to sever these two matters from the remaining ongoing matters.

Therefore, it is ORDERED that the contested case originally captioned Lindenwold Education Association vs. Board of Education of the Borough of Lindenwold, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 112-02, Agency Dkt No. 489-11/01 and the unfair practice charge captioned Lindenwold Ed. Association and Lindenwold Board of Education, PERC Dkt. No. C0-2002-236, are hereby SEVERED from the remaining ongoing cases in this matter. It is further ORDERED that the Joint Stipulation of Dismissal filed herein by the parties is hereby accepted, and this matter is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make the final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the COMMSSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION who may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c) request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION within forty-five (45) days of the predominant agency decision. If the CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT RELATIONS COMMISSION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
E.F. AND G.F.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondents sought and were granted an extension of time within which to file exceptions to the Initial Decision and such submission was made in accordance with the extended timeframe. The Board filed timely reply/cross exceptions. All of these materials were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Upon his full and independent review of the record in this matter,[1] the Commissioner, finding respondents' exceptions without merit, agrees with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that respondents were not legally domiciled in the Hunterdon Central Regional School District during the 2000-2001 school year so as to allow their child, C.F., free attendance in the District's schools, and the Board, therefore, is entitled to recover tuition from respondents for this school year.

[1] It is noted that the record contains transcripts of the hearings conducted on May 5, 2000 and August 14, 2002.

In so finding, the Commissioner was cognizant that it is well-established that "the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has an intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving." Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J.Super. 362, 374 (Law Division 1991) citing Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944). Once established, a domicile continues until superseded by a new domicile. Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 263 (1972). Moreover, notwithstanding that an individual may subsequently acquire another residence, he can have only one true domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). Elaborating on the concept of residence vis-à-vis that of domicile, this Court stated:

> Residence,  though parallel in many respects to domicile, is something quite different in that the elements of permanency, continuity and kinship with the physical, cultural, social and political attributes which inhere in a "home" according to our accepted understanding, are missing. Intention adequately manifested is the catalyst which converts a residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. Ibid.

Guidance in ascertaining whether a residence is merely a place to live or a domicile was provided by the Court in Lyon v. Glaser, supra, wherein it found that three elements must be considered: 1) physical presence in the residence; 2) an intent to make the residence a permanent or at least an indefinite home; and 3) an intent to abandon the old domicile. (Lyon at 264) Although there is no dispute that the within respondents satisfied the first of these elements, having taken up physical presence in the Flemington apartment, the Commissioner's review persuades him that the preponderance of the credible evidence in this matter leads to a determination that elements 2 and 3 have not been demonstrated. As recognized by the ALJ, although there is objective evidence here supporting respondents' claim that the family's domicile was, during the time period at issue, the apartment in Flemington (Initial Decision at 10-11), there are also a number of persuasive objective factors which undermine this contention and support the Board's position that respondents' domicile continued to be their Branchburg home. Specifically, there is no evidence in the record to establish that respondents made any effort either to sell their Branchburg residence or to rent it at a fair market value; by their own admission, respondents leased the apartment in Flemington to provide their high school-aged children with a better education; in an April 2001 amendment to respondents' petition in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, they stated that they intended to return to the Branchburg residence as their full-time residence in September 2001;[2] and on or about September 3, 2001, subsequent to their youngest child's graduation from Hunterdon Central Regional High School, respondents vacated the Flemington apartment and returned to their Branchburg residence where they have continued to remain. (Initial Decision at 11) The Commissioner concludes that these factors are compelling indicia that respondents' Flemington apartment was no more than a residential living arrangement of a limited duration, fully concurring with the evaluative conclusion of the ALJ, "that it is proper for me to infer from these facts that it was never respondents' intention to remain at the Flemington apartment as their domicile, but their intention has always been to return to their Branchburg residence after their children completed attending the schools in petitioner's school district." (Initial Decision at 12) Therefore, because respondents were not

[2] It is noted that respondents' exceptions object to the ALJ's consideration of their bankruptcy petition as an indication of their intent here, citing to Mazza v. Cavicchia, 15 N.J. 498, 514 (1954), wherein the Court held:

> [i]n any proceeding that is judicial in nature, whether in a court or in an administrative agency, the process of decision must be governed by the basic principle of the exclusiveness of the record. "Where a hearing is prescribed by statute, nothing must be taken into account by the administrative tribunal in arriving at its determination that has not been introduced in some manner into the record of the hearing." (Respondents' Exceptions at pp. 5-6)

The Commissioner finds respondents' contention in this regard specious, as the Amendment to their Chapter 13 Plan was admitted into evidence in this matter as Exhibit P-12, without objection by respondents, except as to relevancy, and, as such, is a legitimate component of the record. Moreover, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's discussion on pp. 11-12 of his Initial Decision with respect to the propriety of utilizing this and respondents' subsequent move back to Branchburg as probative factors in making his domicile determination.

legal domiciliaries of the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District during the 2000-2001 school year, the Board is entitled to recoup payment of $13,742 from respondents for the cost of audited tuition for their child's ineligible attendance in its schools during this period.

Notwithstanding this result, the Commissioner declines to grant the Board's cross exception request for interest in this matter. With respect to pre-judgment interest, the Commissioner concludes that the record before him does not support a finding that respondents' actions were taken in bad faith or in deliberate violation of the law (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)l). As to post-judgment interest, such a request is premature, as the 60-day timeline relative to the granting of this interest does not even begin to toll until the Commissioner renders his decision in the instant matter. (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2)

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Respondents are hereby directed to pay the Board tuition, in the amount of $13,742, for their child's ineligible attendance in its schools during the 2000-2001 school year.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6053-01

AGENCY DKT. NO. 303-7/01

HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Petitioner,

v.

E.F. AND G.F.,

Respondents.

James P. Granello, Esq., for petitioner

Arnold M. Mellk, Esq., for respondents (Wills, O'Neill and Mellk, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 5, 2003 Decided: May 17, 2004

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner Board of Education asserts that respondents were not domiciled within the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District during the 2000-2001 school year, and is seeking reimbursement from respondents for the cost of tuition incurred during that year. Respondents assert they were domiciled within the School District during 2000-2001. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 4, 2001, for hearing as a contested case and was assigned to Hon. Kathryn A. Clark, ALJ.

On December 3, 2001, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision, and on February 11, 2002, respondents responded to the motion. Judge Clark entered an Order Denying Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision on May 6, 2002. The matter was then scheduled for hearing on August 14, 2002. At the conclusion of the hearing on that date, the record remained open for the parties to file written submissions after their receipt of a transcript. It appears from the file that the submissions of the parties were received by November 19, 2002, and the record closed as of that date.

On July 2003, Judge Clark went on a leave of absence for medical reasons. This matter was reviewed by Hon. John Tassini, ALAJ and it was learned that an Initial Decision had not been issued. This matter was then reassigned to me because of Judge Clark being on a leave of absence and eventually retiring. By letter dated August 8, 2003, Hon. Jeff S. Masin, Acting Director and Chief ALJ notified the parties that Judge Clark had gone on a leave of absence from the OAL without being able to issue an Initial Decision in this matter. The attorneys were offered the opportunity to take a position as to whether the matter should be the subject of a new hearing, or whether the matter could be decided based on the existing record of testimony and evidence. Both attorneys took the position that the matter could be decided based on the existing record. Thus, the record in this matter was reopened and the matter was reassigned to me to complete pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.13(b).

The transcript was then obtained and reviewed, and the record in this matter was closed on October 5, 2003. Because of an extensive current caseload with a heavy hearing schedule, a number of other complex, completed cases with earlier deadlines, and a family medical emergency, the time limit for filing the Initial Decision was extended by Orders of Extension until May 17, 2004.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following is intended to summarize the testimony and evidence set forth in the transcript of the hearing in this matter that I found to be relevant to the issues herein.

At the commencement of the hearing on August 14, 2002, counsel for both parties agreed on the record that the findings of fact made by Judge Clark in her Order Denying Motion for Summary Decision are of record and that the parties need not plead or address those findings. Accordingly, the following facts of record are hereby adopted as FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. The District's Policy 5118 was first enforced by petitioner during the 1996-1997 school year. The policy requires non-resident employees of the District wishing to enroll their children in the District high school to pay the District's tuition fees for the cost of the education.
2. Respondent, E.F. has been employed by the District since 1968 as a secondary education teacher.
3. Respondents resided at 219 County Line Road, Somerville in Somerset County, New Jersey, within the Branchburg School District (Branchburg) from 1971 to 1997.
4. In July 1997, respondents leased a one-bedroom apartment at Hunter Hills in Flemington, New Jersey, within the Hunterdon School District (Flemington).
5. Respondents leased the Flemington apartment to provide their high school-aged children with a better education. Hearing Transcript, p. 42, Lines 8-12 (May 5, 2000).
6. Respondent's youngest child, C.F., attended the District's High School, tuition free, from August 1997 until May 1998.
7. Respondents filed a Bankruptcy Petition with the United States Bankruptcy Court, District N.J. on May 4, 1998.
8. On May 15, 1998, petitioner made a demand for tuition reimbursement from respondent based on allegations that respondent was not domiciled in Flemington. Respondent denied the allegations and refused to pay tuition.
9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on July 14, 1998, for hearing as a contested case. Hearing dates where scheduled for February 1999 and the initial petition was amended by petitioner to include the 1998-1999, and 1999-2000, school years.
10. By letter order dated January 13, 1999, the February hearing dates cancelled and the matter was stayed pending relief from the automatic stay provision of the bankruptcy code. On April 28, 1999, the United States Bankruptcy Court granted petitioners relief from the automatic stay with regard to judgment only.

11. On December 21, 1999, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Martone granted petitioner's motion for summary decision with regard to the 1997-1998 school year and denied the motion with regard to the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years. Judge Martone determined that respondents were not legally domiciled within the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District during the 1997-1998 school year, and ordered respondents to pay tuition expenses and other such relief as appropriate with respect to that school year.
12. On February 2, 2000, the Commissioner of Education adopted Judge Martone's Initial Decision and on July 9, 2000, the State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision.
13. Hearings concerning the 1998-1999 and 1999-2000 school years were held on May 5, 8, and 10, 2000 before Judge Martone. However, on July 10, 2000, upon receiving notification from petitioner that the continued litigation of the pre-bankruptcy claims was in violation of the automatic stay provisions of the Bankruptcy Code, Judge Martone adjourned the matter indefinitely.
14. On July 10, 2001, the United States Bankruptcy Court confirmed respondents' Chapter 13 Bankruptcy Plan.
15. Respondents' youngest daughter, C.F. was a student in the District during the 2000-2001 school year. Respondents' Bankruptcy Plan does not include tuition costs owed by respondent to petitioner incurred during the 2000-2001 school year.
16. On September 4, 2001, petitioner, seeking tuition reimbursement for the 2000-2001 school year, filed the present claim with the Commissioner.
17. Respondents have continuously been the owners of record of the Branchburg residence from 1971 to present.
18. Respondents have been responsible for the payment of property taxes and paid for the utility services charged to the Branchburg residence and the Flemington address, including telephone, electric and gas bills.
19. [Blank].
20. Since September 1, 2000, Respondents' daughter, K.F., is permitted to reside in the Branchburg residence without a written lease and respondents have kept some personal items as well as furniture and clothing at the residence.
21. On April 3, 2001, respondents amended their Chapter 13 Bankruptcy plan to reflect a change in residence from the Flemington apartment to the Branchburg residence beginning September 1, 2001. On or about September 1, 2001, respondents returned to the Branchburg residence at 219 County Line Road, where they are now permanently residing.

The only witness to testify at the hearing of this matter was E.F. who was called by the School District. E.F. testified that he and his wife entered into a lease agreement for the Flemington apartment in June 2000 covering the period from September 1, 2000 through August 31, 2001 (P-1). He also obtained apartment insurance from August 11, 2000, to August 11, 2001, and he identified the insurance policy covering personal property in the apartment in the amount of $42,000. The apartment was unfurnished when they rented it, and respondents furnished it with furniture brought from their Branchburg property with the exception of a couple of items.

E.F. testified that there came a point in June 2001 when he notified the landlord that he no longer wanted to lease the Flemington apartment. He received a notice from his landlord, Biltmore Realty, and he responded to that notice on June 23, 2001, that he had no intention of renewing the lease. It was stipulated by the parties that respondents left the apartment at the conclusion of the lease on August 30, 2001, although they actually left the apartment on September 3, 2001, with the agreement of the apartment superintendent.

E.F. stated that he is employed by the Hunterdon Central Regional High School. When he returned to work at Hunterdon Central Regional High School for the 2001-2002 school year, he notified the school district of the change in his residency. He identified his memo of September 5, 2001 (P-3, pp. 2-3). He admitted that he originally gave the incorrect telephone number but corrected that to the number of his Branchburg residence. He admitted that the telephone number for the Branchburg residence has never changed even when he left the Branchburg residence to live in Flemington. He has had that number since 1971 or 1972. He also identified his handwritten memo that he was moving to Flemington on September 1, 1997 (P-3, p. 1).

E.F. identified an amendment to his Chapter 13 Bankruptcy Plan executed by E.F. and G.F. on April 2, 2001 (P-12). In the attachment to this amendment, debtors E.F. and G.F. state that they will be making the Branchburg property located on County Line Road their residence beginning September 1, 2001. He stated that at that point of time he knew his lease would be coming to an end and since he had been domiciled in Flemington for about four years and knowing that his job would be terminated for the duration of that school year and looking ahead, they decided to move back to the Branchburg residence as of September 2001. He stated that he and his wife contemplated on it and decided that after the lease was terminated and his daughter had graduated from Hunterdon Central Regional High School, it would no longer be beneficial financially for them to maintain the Flemington apartment so they changed their domicile from the apartment in Flemington to the Branchburg home. The first time he and his wife decided to move back to Branchburg home was sometime in April 2001.

E.F. testified that in response to a request for admissions, he stated that some outdated and outgrown clothing and some furniture were stored at the Branchburg residence. There are four bedrooms at the Branchburg residence and one and a half were furnished during the 2000-2001 school year. The master bedroom had a bed and one of the other bedrooms was half furnished with a bed and a dresser. The master bedroom had more than one dresser, a chair, and a nightstand. The other bedroom had a bed and a dresser. The dinning room had a table and a hutch but there were no chairs. Several of the chairs had deteriorated in the prior year. There was a tablecloth, silverware, napkins, candleholders and Lenox salt and pepper holders in the dining room, and they remained there during the 2000-2001 school year. There was also an oil painting, a love seat in the living room and a sofa and a piano a radio, a grandfather clock, a stove, some plates for eating, and a few glasses. E.F. stated that he returned to the Branchburg residence during the 2000-2001 school year to maintain the property. Sometime he had to go once or twice a week to mow the lawn, but the number of times varied.

E.F. testified that he had insurance coverage on the Branchburg house for the period from January 18, 2001 to January 18, 2002 (P-4). The policy was sent by mail to the Flemington apartment. In January 2001, personal property valued at $141,000 was covered at the Branchberg residence (P-4). At the same time E.F. insured personal property at the apartment for $42,000.

The attorneys agreed to submit into evidence responses to petitioner's request for supplemental discovery (P-5). G.F. indicated he has seen these responses before. He identified a tax assessment from the Branchburg Township Tax Assessor on the Branchburg resident (P-5 at page 8). Mr. F. stated that the mortgage company paid the taxes on the Branchburg property and he paid his mortgage to the mortgage company. All of the utility bills, tax statements and other bills regarding the Branchburg residence were sent to the Flemington address. E.F. and G.F.'s daughter, K.A.F., was residing at the Branchberg residence during the 2000-2001 school year. She lived there seven days a week and she paid rent. He indicated that there were times that she was unable to pay rent. He admitted that in responding to interrogatories he responded that his daughter did not pay rent, but he believes that it was at a time she was not employed and unable to pay. He also indicated that he could not find any documents supporting his claim that his daughter paid rent to him. She did make payments toward the telephone bill at the Branchburg house. The copies of these receipts were attached to discovery responses that were eventually admitted into evidence (P-11). A summary prepared by attorney from petitioner was marked for identification only (P-6). The actual phone bills were also identified in the record (P-7). The receipts for these bills were also identified (P-8). E.F. explained that he could not produce a Verizon bill for each month during the 2000 – 2001 school year because during the transition of packing and moving, they were misplaced and could not be located. He also explained that he only provided six receipts from monies paid to him by his daughter. Several times his daughter would give him telephone bill money and he did not take the time to write out a receipt. She gave the money when she had it and the money did not necessarily reflect the actual bill. E.F. was also questioned why the numerical sequence of the receipts did not seem to match the dates. For example, the receipt for June 2001 ends in 11 whereas the rent receipt for the previous month of May 2001 ends in a 12. He explained that it could have been a receipt that he skipped over and then went back and used it, and there was no intention of doing anything wrong. He denied that he prepared the receipts in preparation for the hearing. He said the possibility was that he simply skipped over a receipt or went back and used a receipt that had not been used. He does not know how many months his daughter paid him rent but he admitted that he paid the mortgage, utility bills and taxes the entire period of time.

E.F. identified the Chapter 13 Bankruptcy Plan submitted to the Bankruptcy Court by him and his wife (P-9). Schedule A lists the Branchberg property as an investment property rather than as a rental property. Schedule G of the petition does not list the lease on the Flemington apartment as an executory contract or unexpired lease. E.F. explained that it was not listed because it is not a rental property or an investment property.

E.F. was shown a letter from the Hunterdon County YMCA dated July 8, 2002 (P-10). E.F. stated that the letter is inaccurate because it reflects his daughter's address as the Flemington apartment.

On cross-examination by his counsel, E.F. stated that he first moved into the Flemington apartment on August 28, 1997, and he lived there continuously through August 30, 2001. He used the Flemington apartment address on his federal and state income tax forms as his home address, from 1997 to the 2001 school year. He used the Flemington apartment as his address on his driver license and vehicle registration (P-5). He also used it for his voter registration as shown by his voter registration card. He has been registered to vote in Flemington from 1997 through 2001-2002. For his credit cards, he has used the Flemington apartment as his home address for the past 4 years. He is a member of the MEA and JEA and has used the Flemington apartment as his home address with regard to those organizations and correspondence received from them. He has had a telephone listing for the Flemington apartment in the phone book from 1997 until 2001.

E.F. testified that the YMCA reflects his home address as being the Flemington apartment, but denies that K.A.F. ever resided in Flemington. He did not register K.A.F. with the YMCA. His life insurance and any correspondence with the life insurance company used his Flemington apartment as his home address. He also has auto insurance (P-5) and used the Flemington apartment as the home address. His wife G.F. was a member of the Hunterdon County Library in Flemington Borough as shown on the library record. Property tax bills for the Branchburg residence were sent to the Flemington address. All bills, correspondence and the like, including tax bills, were sent to the Flemington apartment address. He admitted that he did not have a written rental agreement with his daughter and he explained that, because it is his daughter, he was not going to hound her about any late payments of rent, and he was not doing to throw her out or evict her.

E.F. admitted that it took him from August 28, 1997, until May 26, 1998, to have a new voter registration card issued to him. He admitted that it was around May 1998 that the Board of Education began questioning his residence at the Flemington apartment.

The parties, through counsel, have stipulated that the audited tuition for the 2000-2001 school year for the Hunterdon Central Regional High School was $13,742.00 (C-1).[1]

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, free public education shall be provided to any person over five and under twenty years of age who is domiciled within the school district. In general, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intent of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), affirmed, 58 N.J. 112 (1971).

The terms "residence" and "domicile" are not synonymous; a person may have several residences or places of abode, but only one domicile at a time. See, Collins v. Yancy, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 520-21; State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955); In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977); Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, (1955). In Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 376 (Law Div. 1991), it was stated:

> In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving.
> [Matter of Unanue, supra, at 374, citing Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215, 38 A.2d 862 (Sup. Ct. 1944).]

See also, Mercadante v. The City of Paterson, supra, at 39. Thus, the domicile is what one regards as a true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, supra, at 90, 91.

In the Mercadante case, the court stated that the following factors are important in determining the domicile of a person:

> . . . the physical characteristics of each [place], the time spent

[1] While finalizing the Initial Decision, I realized that there was nothing in the record of this matter reflecting the amount of the tuition being claimed. Accordingly, I contacted counsel and asked them to confer and attempt to stipulate to this information rather than reopening the record and further delaying this matter, and they were kind enough to do so.

> and the things done in each place, the other persons found there, the person's mental attitude towards each place, and whether there is or is not an intention, when absent, to return.
> [111 N.J. Super. at 39-40]

The Court in In the Matter of Unanue, supra, 255 N.J. Super. at 376, stated that "a choice of domicile by a person, irrespective of his motive, will be honored by the court, provided there are sufficient objective indicia, by way of proofs, supporting the actual existence of that domicile." In general, the courts have recognized that intent is a decisive factor in establishing domicile, State v. Benny, supra, 20 N.J. 238; Unanue, supra, 225 N.J. Super. 362, Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514 (Law Div. 1959). See, also, D.L. v. Bd. of Educ. of Princeton, 366 N.J. Super. 269 (App. Div. 2004).

In Fort Lee Board of Education v. Kintos, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 96, 103, the Commissioner recognized that the determining factor in deciding a family's domicile is a matter of intent. The Commissioner stated:

> Establishing a domicile involves an act of volition. "A person has the right to choose his own domicile, and his motive in doing so is immaterial." Lyon v. Glaser, 60 NJ. 259, 264, 288 A.2d 12 (1972). In accordance with this principle, it has been held that one does not relinquish his domicile by having another residence based on reasons of health, society, business or employment. * * * .

The decision in this matter turns on the element of intent in accordance with Fort Lee Board of Education v. Kintos, supra, aff'd. State Board April 13, 1994. The concepts of home and domicile embody both a subjective and objective relationship to a physical residence. Matter of Unanue, supra, at 375. There is objective evidence in this matter that supports respondents' contention that the family's domicile is the Flemington apartment. E.F. and G.F. and their younger daughter who attended petitioner's school lived in the Flemington apartment on a full time basis. Respondents' driver licenses, motor vehicle registration and voter registration record all reflect the Flemington address as their place of residence. All of their bills, including the tax bills on their home in Branchburg Township, are mailed to their Flemington apartment. They have resided in the Flemington apartment on a continuous basis since 1997. Most of their furniture and furnishings from the Branchberg residence has been moved to the Flemington apartment. The Branchberg residence is a four-bedroom home with two of the bedrooms not furnished. The Branchberg residence is used by respondent for storage of unneeded furniture and clothing and as a residence for an older daughter who pays them rent when she is employed and is able to pay.

On the other hand, there are a number of objective factors that support petitioner's position and undermine the position of respondents herein. First, there is no evidence in the record to establish that respondents have made any efforts either to sell their Branchburg residence or to rent it at fair market rental. Thus, this case is distinguishable from D.L. v. Bd. of Educ. of Princeton, supra, 366 N.J. Super. at 274. Second, by their own admission, respondents leased the Flemington apartment to provide their high school-aged children with a better education. This was stated by E.F. at a prior OAL hearing in a matter entitled Board of Education of Hunterdon Regional High School vs. E.F. and G.F., OAL Dkt. No. Edu 6247-98, at the hearing held on May 5, 2000 (transcript, page 42 lines 8-12).[2] Third, in an amendment to respondents' petition for a Chapter 13 Wage Earners Plan in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, respondents stated in April 2001 that they intended to return to the Branchberg residence as their full time residence in September 2001 (P-12, Attachment at p.2). Finally, there is the fact that in or about September 3, 2001, respondents actually vacated the apartment in Flemington, New Jersey and returned to their Branchburg residence and have remained there since on a full-time basis.

I had a difficult time deciding the propriety of considering respondents' Amended Petition in Bankruptcy in which they state their intention to move back to Branchburg, and considering the subsequent conduct of the respondents actually moving back to their Branchburg residence from Flemington. These are occurrences that took place quite some time after petitioner made its assertion that respondents were not domiciled in its school district. It may be

[2] The transcript reads as follows:

> Q (by Mr. Granello) Did you decide to rent the apartments [sic] at Hunter Hills for the purpose of educating your two children at Hunterdon Central?
> A (by E.F.) I rented the apartment so that my kids could get a good education.
> Q Was that the primary purpose for renting that apartment sir?
> A Yes.

argued that considering these after-occurring facts would be using hindsight, and that it is unfair and improper to consider this information in order to make a determination concerning domicile. However, I have concluded that relying upon these subsequent events as probative factors is proper under the circumstance. I reached this conclusion for a number of reasons.

R. 407 of the New Jersey Evidence Rules provides that evidence of remedial measures taken after an event is not admissible to prove that the event was caused by negligence or culpable conduct. The rule goes on to provide that evidence of such subsequent remedial conduct, may, however, be admitted as to other issues. While R. 407 is not applicable in this case, a consideration of the rationale for this rule is helpful in this matter. It was stated in Dickson v. Jacobsen Mfg. Co., 270 N.J. Super. 569, 587 (App. Div. 1994), that this rule is based upon social policy as opposed to the relevance of such evidence on the issue of fault and, as such, is designed to encourage remedial measures to be taken in order to avoid the occurrence of similar accidents. Thus, while a subsequent event such as a remedial measure may be relevant and probative as to fault, such evidence is excluded because of social policy reasons rather than based upon lack of relevance.

In the present matter, I can think of nothing more relevant to show the intent of respondents herein concerning their domicile than their subsequent statements and conduct with respect to their living arrangements. As of April of 2001, they stated in a Bankruptcy Court document that it was their intention to leave their Flemington apartment at the conclusion of the lease and return to their former residence in Branchburg. In September 2001, they actually took this step and moved back to their Branchburg residence. I believe that it is proper for me to infer from these facts that it was never respondents' intention to remain at the Flemington apartment as their domicile, but their intention has always been to return to their Branchburg residence after their children completed attending the schools in petitioner's school district. This inference is supported by E.F.'s own admission in a prior OAL proceeding that respondents leased the Flemington Apartment to provide their children with a better education.

If the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving, then I FIND that respondents were not domiciliaries of Flemington, New Jersey. I FIND that the proofs relied upon by the school district in this matter have established that respondents herein were domiciliaries of the Township of Branchburg, New Jersey, while they were residing in petitioner's school district. I FIND that during the 2000-2001 school year, it was respondents' continuing intention to remain in Flemington only while their children were attending the Hunterdon Central Regional High School. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the actions of petitioner in determining that respondents are not domiciliaries of the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District is correct, and the order of the petitioner Board of Education requiring that respondents' child be removed from the school district and that respondents shall be responsible for the payment of tuition for the 2000-2001 school year should be AFFIRMED. With respect to the claim for tuition, I FIND that petitioner is entitled to reimbursement from respondents for the cost of audited tuition incurred during school year 2000-2001 in the amount of $13,742.00.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's determination that respondents E.F. and G.F. and their child are residents and domiciliaries of the Township of Branchburg, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within the Hunterdon Central Regional High School District during the 2000-2001 school year is hereby AFFIRMED. The record, Separation Agreement/Release and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President of the City of Perth Amboy Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the settlement agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement agreement.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Separation Agreement/Release consistent with the concerns set forth above.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge, for the reasons clearly detailed in his Initial Decision, that, by failing to appear at the scheduled hearing without good reason, petitioner has abandoned prosecution of her appeal in this matter necessitating its dismissal. Consequently, because petitioner has therefore failed to satisfy her burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, J.Y.'s entitlement to a free public education in the District's schools, the Board's counterclaim for tuition must be granted.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and the instant Petition of Appeal is dismissed. Petitioner is hereby directed to pay the Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton $7,597.20 for the period of J.Y.'s ineligible attendance in its schools.

P.J., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.Y.,

Petitioner,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

No appearance by or on behalf of P.J. on behalf of minor child J.Y., petitioner

Dennis M. DeSantis, Esq., for respondent (Detribats, Campbell, DeSantis, Magee and O'Donnell, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 24, 2004 Decided: July 8, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

On September 4, 2003, D.Y., parent of J.Y., a high school student, filed with the Hamilton School District an Affidavit of Non-Resident Parent, in which he claimed that his daughter would be living throughout the 2003-2004 school year with P.J., who lived on Nottingham Way and was the guardian of J.Y. He noted that a court had granted custody of the child to the guardian and the student would be residing in the Hamilton School District ("District") for the purpose of receiving a free education. P.J. asserted in her own affidavit that she was supporting the child gratis. She also agreed that if it were determined that the child was not eligible for a free education in the district, that she would be obligated to pay the district tuition for all days of illegal attendance. On January 21, 2004, the Hamilton Township Board of Education, ("Board"), acting through Residency Officer John E. Conner, issued a letter/notice to P.J., advising her that J.Y. had been found ineligible to attend the district's school because it had been determined that the child's residency actually was in Trenton. The letter advised Ms. J. of her right to file an appeal of the decision, first with the Board of Education and then, if necessary, with the Commissioner of Education. It also advised that if an appeal were filed with the Commissioner and it was determined that there was no entitlement to attend the schools of the district, "or the applicant abandons the appeal through withdrawal, failure to prosecute or any means other than settlement, the applicant may be assessed, by order of the Commissioner, enforceable in Superior Court, tuition for any period of ineligible attendance, including the initial 21 day period and the period during which the appeal was pending before the Commissioner." The letter then advised the basis upon which tuition would be calculated.

On February 5, 2004, Ms. J. issued a letter "To: Whom this may concern," in which she asserted that she had been given custody of J.Y. by the courts of Mercer County because Mr. and Mrs. Y. felt that it was in J.'s best interests "because of Mrs. Y.'s medical history." The letter also indicated that Ms. J. had given J.Y. permission to visit her family at any given time. Accompanying the letter was a Pro Se Residency Appeal dated February 5, 2004. The Board filed an Answer and Counterclaim on February 17, seeking an order dismissing the appeal and directing that the petitioner pay tuition owed to the respondent, as well as attorney's fees.

The Commissioner transferred the matter as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. On April 12, 2004, I directed a letter to the parties, advising them that the matter was scheduled for a hearing before me on May 24, 2004 at 9:00 am. and advising further of the procedure to be followed at that hearing. A Notice of the scheduled hearing date was also sent to Ms. P.J. on April 19, 2004. On the day of the scheduled hearing, Ms. J. did not appear and no one appeared on her behalf. No request had been made to adjourn the hearing. Counsel for the Board of Education appeared with a witness, prepared to proceed. When Ms. J. did not appear by one-half hour after the scheduled 9:00 a.m. start of the hearing, the Board of Education proceeded with its proofs in order to establish the counterclaim for tuition. The details of that testimony will be presented below.

After the Board presented its case and had departed the OAL, a telephone call was received later that day from Ms. J. She was advised that if she was presenting an excuse for her failure to appear for the hearing that she needed to put said reason in writing. On May 25, 2004, she faxed a letter to this judge as well as to counsel for the Board. In that letter she indicated that she had failed to appear on May 24 because "I was out of town in West Virginia on my honeymoon." She asked that the matter be rescheduled. In response to that letter counsel for the Board faxed a letter to this judge and to Ms. J. in which he asserted that following the hearing on May 24, J.Y. was informed by the district that she could no longer attend school and he believed that "that action precipitated this letter (Ms. J.'s letter) as opposed to any real reason for Ms. J.'s failure to appear on May 24, 2004." He asserted that her absence was "intentional and was not the result of any emergent or unforeseeable matter that would excuse her failure to attend."

On June 2, 2004, I wrote to both parties advising that in light of Ms. J.'s letter and Mr. DeSantis' objections that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, and in order to determine whether or not the "explanation received that the non-appearing party represented is intentionally attempting to delay the proceeding," that I required that Ms. J. provide me with a copy of her marriage license, as well as details as to the dates during which she was out of town in West Virginia on her honeymoon. I advised that this material had to be supplied within one week of the letter of June 2 "or I will proceed to issue an initial decision based on the presentation made by the Board on May 24, 2004. If the information is received, and it does establish that the failure to appear was inadvertent, or at least not an intentional attempt to delay the proceedings, I will reschedule the matter for a prompt hearing at which Ms. J. will have the opportunity to appear. " I also advised that in light of the non-appearance and the fact that the Board had appeared on the day of the hearing that I would consider any application for sanctions that might be filed, including reasonable expenses, including attorneys' fees. The letter closed "[t]hank you for your attention to this letter. I urge Ms. J. to be very prompt in her response, as any delay beyond the listed date will result in the matter being decided without any further input from her."

As this decision was being prepared in late June, I had not received any reply to the July 2 letter from Ms. J. However, on June 26, Kendall S. Murphy, Esq., wrote, advising that he had been retained to represent Ms. Murphy and requesting that a hearing be scheduled. He also asked for a short time to supply the information requested in the June 2 letter. He was advised by my secretary to seek consent from Board counsel to a delay, but Board counsel would not consent. Nevertheless, on June 28, I wrote to counsel and advised that I would give Mr. Murphy until July 2 to submit the documentation. As of the date of issuance of this decision, no further contact has been received from Mr. Murphy and no documentation has been supplied. Based upon the foregoing and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(b)2, I FIND that "the explanation received that the non-appearing party . . . is intentionally attempting to delay the proceeding," and therefore I will not reschedule the matter, but instead "shall issue an initial decision explaining the basis for the conclusion that there has been an intentional delay." For the reasons stated above, I CONCLUDE that Ms. J. has abandoned prosecution of her appeal and it is therefore DISMISSED.

During the hearing, Albert Alfredo testified that he has been a residency investigator for the district for six years and was formerly a Hamilton Township Police Officer for twenty-five years. Mr. Alfredo testified that he had received information that J.Y. lived at an address on South Broad Street in Trenton and conducted surveillance at that location on Monday November 17, 2003. He had determined that the location was the home of D. and D.Y., who are the mother and father of J.Y. He observed the residence from 6:30 a.m. to 7:20 a.m., and saw a vehicle with a license plate number MXA-18U, a four-door, maroon Dodge, depart the property at 7:20 a.m. and arrive at Nottingham High School at 8:00 a.m. J.Y. then entered into the school. An examination of records indicated that the car was registered to D.Y. Further surveillance was conducted on November 19, 2003, when the same location was observed from 6:30 a.m. until 7:25 a.m., when J.Y. left in the same car being driven by a female. Ms. Y. entered Nottingham High School at 7:40 a.m. On November 21, 2003, surveillance at the same location from 6:30 a.m. to 7:32 a.m. produced an observation of J.Y. leaving the same car and proceeding to Nottingham High School where she arrived at 7:42 a.m.

On Tuesday, November 25, 2003, Mr. Alfredo observed the property from 6:45 a.m. to 7:40 a.m. at which time J.Y. left in the same car and proceeded to Nottingham High School, as she did again on Tuesday, December 23, when she left at 7:43 a.m. and arrived at the school at 7:55 a.m. and again on January 5, 2004, when she left the South Broad Street premises at 7:30 a.m., this time in the company of a male, and arrived at the school at 7:40 a.m. Another surveillance occurred on January 8, at which time observations were made from 6:40 a.m. to 7:20 a.m., at which time J.Y. left the premises in the same car and arrived at Nottingham High School at 7:30 a.m.

Mr. Alfredo testified that he confirmed the identity of J.Y. by entering Nottingham High School on the first day of surveillance and having the school authorities identify her to him.

In addition to his testimony concerning observations, Mr. Alfredo identified various forms, such as an enrollment form, a non-residency form, an affidavit of guardianship and notices of non-residency as well as tuition demands.

A tuition demand made on February 6, 2004, indicated that tuition had been computed for eighty-nine days of ineligible attendance at a cost of $44.81 a day, which constituted one, one-eightieth (1/180) of the total annual per-pupil cost of $8,066 in the district. The total amount due at that time was $3,988.09. On May 24,2004, following Ms. J.'s failure to appear at the hearing a further letter was sent which calculated the tuition due for a total of 156 days at $48.70, based on a per pupil cost of $8,766 for the period from September 16, 2003, to May 24, 2004. The total due was $7,597.20.

Discussion

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that the "public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;

b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term . . . If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the > validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing . . . on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. . . .

As previously determined, as the petitioner has failed to prosecute her appeal from the board's determination, the petitioner herein has failed to meet her burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the claim for a free education is valid under the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1and her appeal has therefore been dismissed. As for the board's counterclaim for an order granting it tuition for the period of illegal attendance, based upon the above credible testimony concerning Mr. Alfredo's observations of the seemingly regular circumstance of J.Y. leaving the home of her parents in Trenton in the normal morning hours prior to school and being taken to school, it would appear that the child does actually reside with her parents. While Ms. J. supplied documentation with her hearing request indicating that the Superior Court had ordered that Ms. J., the child's godmother, "shall have primary residential custody as agreed between the parties and specified in the attached complaint," nevertheless, the fact of legal custody does not in and of itself guarantee a right to a free public education in a district when the child does not in fact actually reside in the district. This requirement that the student actually reside within the district is the result of the statutory provision that the student be "kept in the home" of the other person domiciled within the district. Since Ms. J. did not appear at the hearing, and she has failed to document the legitimacy of the alleged reason for her failure to appear despite notice, the preponderance of the credible evidence as presented by the respondent is such that I FIND that J.Y. actually resides at the South Broad Street address in Trenton and that she is not entitled to receive a free education in the Hamilton Township School District. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the district is entitled to an order that tuition be paid in the amount of $7,597.20.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The Commissioner having issued, on May 19, 2004, an Order directing Mr. Snyder to show cause why further order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9;[1] and

The Order and accompanying Affidavit of Miguel Hernandez, Principal of the High School in the Keyport School District, having been sent by the Board via certified and regular mail to David Snyder; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, by notice dated June 7, 2004, to submit an answer within 20 days of receipt of the Order; and

There being no Answer filed in that time, and the Commissioner having provided respondent, by notice dated July 1, 2004, sent via certified and regular mail,[2] an additional

[1] Previously codified at N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.8.

The record, Settlement and Release and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President of the North Haledon Board of Education signed the agreement on behalf of the Board. Record Closed: July 14, 2004 Decided: July 15, 2004

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioners J.L. and R.C. on behalf of R.C. from a residency determination by the respondent, the Board of Education of Ramapo Indian Hills Regional High School District (the Board). The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on December 29, 2003, it was filed for a hearing as a contested case. Subsequently, the undersigned denied the Board's Motion to Dismiss petitioner's petition in a letter Order dated February 13, 2004 and the matter was scheduled for hearing on May 13, and 14, 2004. Counsel for the parties, as well as petitioners, appeared at the OAL on May 13, 2004, at which time counsel presented a Stipulation of Settlement and Release executed by petitioners which was subject to Board approval. At the joint request of counsel, the hearing was adjourned to provide additional time toward finalizing an amicable resolution of the matter. Under letter dated July 13, 2004, counsel for the Board submitted a fully executed Stipulation of Settlement and Release indicating the terms of the settlement, coupled with a resolution adopted by the Board on June 21, 2004 approving the Stipulation of Settlement and Release. The aforesaid Stipulation of Settlement and Release, along with the Resolution, which the undersigned received on July 14, 2004, are attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 345-9/03

B.M.A., on behalf of minor child, C.H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions dispute the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that petitioner has demonstrated that C.H.'s mother, B.H., is unable to care for C.H. due to family hardship. (Initial Decision at 6) In this connection, the Board first asserts that the underlying facts on this record do not support the conclusion that B.H. is currently incapable of supporting or providing care for her C.H., notwithstanding that she has "experienced scheduling inconveniences and difficulties in the past ." (Board's Exceptions at 4) The Board additionally charges that the ALJ's analysis of B.H.'s scheduling conflicts fails to consider the fact that M.H., her older daughter, has now graduated from high school, and, therefore, B.H.'s current morning routine is no longer burdened by the need to drive M.H. to the bus stop before B.H. goes to work and may, indeed, be alleviated by the possibility that M.H. could watch C.H. and help her get ready for school in the mornings after B.H. leaves for work. (Id. at 5-6)

Next, the Board argues that the fact that B.H. has two other children in her Fort Lee home does not support the ALJ's finding of a family hardship or B.H.'s current inability to support or care for C.H. With respect to her son, although B.H.'s certification demonstrates that he has special needs which require extra attention and commitment, the Board avers that "this information in no way supports the conclusion that because of her efforts directed toward her son, she is therefore incapable of caring for C.H." (Id. at 8-9) As for M.H., the Board contends that the ALJ improperly relied upon B.H.'s characterization of her daughter as angry, defiant and belligerent since her separation from her husband, while ignoring the fact that the separation occurred approximately two years ago, yet M.H. has excelled academically, making honor roll every year in high school. (Board's Exceptions at 10) Furthermore, as to the "ugly divorce proceedings" which the ALJ finds to have resulted in "a hostile home environment," the Board argues that the record offers "no such assertions" and, indeed, "it strains credulity for the ALJ to have reached such a conclusion since the mother's seven year old son has lived in the Fort Lee home for his entire life, and the record makes no indication whatsoever that his welfare has at any point been threatened." (Id. at 18-19)

The Board also contends that the fact that B.H. experienced additional strains during the 2002-2003 school year does not support the ALJ's findings of a family hardship and current inability to support or care for C.H. The Board reasons that facts relating to B.H.'s emotional difficulties in the past cannot be used to draw conclusions about her current emotional state. Moreover, the Board notes that because M.H. has graduated from her private high school, her mother no longer has to make the $8,300 tuition payment. (Id. at 13)

Finally, the Board argues that the ALJ's conclusion that B.H. is incapable of caring for C.H. is inconsistent with case law and, essentially, rewrites the affidavit student statute to establish a dangerous precedent for a new standard of "inconvenience." (Id. at 19) The proper legal standard, the Board attests, is one where a hardship determination is based upon unique and compelling circumstances rendering parents presently incapable of taking care of their children. (Id. at 20-21) The "scheduling conflicts" that otherwise allow B.H. to care for her daughter on weekends and during the summer, do not, the Board maintains, satisfy the family hardship standard required by law. (Id. at 23)

In reply, petitioner asserts that the ALJ applied the appropriate standard for determining whether a family or economic hardship exists under the pertinent statute. That is, the ALJ applied the standard endorsed by the Appellate Division in P.B.K. on behalf of minor child E.Y. v. Board of Education of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419 (App. Div. 2001), wherein the Court considered the purpose of the amendments to the residency statute, as discussed in Gunderson v. City of Brigantine Bd. of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39. "Clearly," petitioner asserts, > the Appellate Division did not adopt the stringent standard [of incapability] advanced by the Board here, but interpreted the statute based on its purpose of protecting school districts from having to support students who either claim to be domiciled within a district and are not or have moved to a district solely for the purpose of attending school in that district. ***

Further, petitioner contends that the standard advanced by the Board would be contrary to sound public policy in that education laws should not "encourage or discourage particular living arrangements which may serve the interests of families and children." (Id. at 4) In this connection, petitioner also argues:

> To deny C.H. a free public education  in this case where there is no question that she legitimately lives with her grandmother because of family and economic hardship, and not simply to attend the Englewood Cliffs public schools, would not be based on a bona fide residency requirement. In fact, such a requirement would surely run afoul of C.H.'s fundamental constitutional right to > liberty, privacy and autonomy in matters related to the rearing of children.  (Id. at 5-6) (citation omitted)

Finally, petitioner challenges the Board's argument regarding the relevance of the facts contained in B.H.'s certification, asserting that hardships are not neatly separated into categories, as the Board would urge, but, rather "must be considered as they would cumulatively impact the family ." (Id. at 6.) Moreover, petitioner underscores that the petition in this matter challenged the Board's determination issued for the 2003-2004 school year and, therefore, the ALJ appropriately relied on facts relating to that year. To the extent the Board contends that facts are out of date, as with mother's past financial problems and nervous breakdown, petitioner argues that some problems are not easily resolved and may have lingering effects which would render them relevant to the within family's circumstances today. (Id. at 9)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner initially notes the Appellate Division's language in P.B.K., supra, with respect to the appropriate standard for review of "affidavit student" cases:

> The State Board correctly noted that the issue is to be determined by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, which requires a showing by the child's parent or guardian that he or she is incapable of caring for the child due to "family or economic hardship" and that the child is not residing in the district solely for purposes of receiving a free public education in the district. P.B.K., supra at 428. (citation omitted) (emphasis added) Accord, J.B., on behalf of her grandchild, R.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Ocean, Monmouth County, State Board decision, September 3, 1997.

Thus, the Commissioner determines that a finding of "incapability" remains a condition of the statute and its interpreting case law.[1]

[1] The Commissioner notes that in applying the above standard, he carefully considers all relevant facts on a case-by-case basis, irrespective of whether such a review may be perceived as "measuring degrees of misery in domicile disputes." (See, Initial Decision at 9.)

Here, C.H. has undisputedly lived with petitioner, virtually since her birth, as "a matter of necessity" rather than to affect her eligibility for school attendance (Initial Decision at 10). Since that time, petitioner has undisputedly cared for C.H. gratis "as if she were her own." (Id. at 4) Notably, the Board does not challenge the fundamental declarations made by petitioner and B.H. in their respective certifications which evidence, in effect, a "single" mother who "is unable to juggle the conflicting responsibilities of caring for [C.H.] together with her two other children and earning her livelihood," (id. at 10), notwithstanding that the Board no doubt disagrees with the conclusions to be drawn from those factual attestations. Having so found, the Commissioner is satisfied, under the particular circumstances in this matter, that petitioner has demonstrated B.H. is incapable of caring for C.H. due to family or economic hardship.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth herein, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has demonstrated C.H.'s entitlement to attend school in the Board's district, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).[2] The Board is hereby ordered to continue to admit C.H. into its public school system so long as there is no change in circumstances that would alter her entitlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of Case

This is an appeal on behalf of a five-year old child seeking enrollment in the Englewood Cliffs School District. Petitioner has lived with her maternal grandmother in the Borough of Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey since birth. She came to live with her grandmother because of significant pressures on her mother, including martial discord, difficulty in balancing home and job responsibilities, difficulty in looking after two other children (one of whom has special needs), conflicting demands on her time and financial problems. Meanwhile, petitioner's father left the home and has been separated from her mother for nearly two years. Her grandmother has assumed responsibility for caring for petitioner and provides full financial support for her. Petitioner's mother opted to place her daughter with the grandmother for what she perceived as the best interests of her child, as well as her own emotional and mental well-being.

The legal dispute involves whether the child is entitled to a free public education in the Englewood Cliffs School District under the "affidavit-student" provision of N.J S.A. 18A:38-1(b), which applies to students living with relatives (other than parents) or friends who reside in the district. For petitioner to prevail, she must satisfy a two-prong test: First, petitioner must be supported "by such other person gratis as if [s]he were such other person's own child." Second, her parent must be unable to support or care for her due to a "family or economic hardship".

Procedural History

On August 20, 2003, the grandmother filed an appeal to the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") requesting that her granddaughter should be allowed to attend school in the district. Respondent Borough of Englewood Cliffs Board of Education ("Board") filed its answer and counterclaim on October 7, 2003. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the child was admitted to school pending the outcome of the appeal, but the Board's counterclaim asks that the grandmother pay tuition for schooling already received by the child.

Subsequently, on January 6, 2004, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case. On March 3, 2004, the Board filed a motion for summary decision, together with supporting certifications and exhibits. Petitioner filed her cross-motion for summary decision, together with supporting certifications, on May 3, 2004. Respondent filed reply papers on May 14, 2004. The OAL conducted oral argument on May 25, 2004. Thereafter, the record remained open until June 1, 2004 to allow the Board additional time to respond to new arguments made by petitioner during oral argument.

Findings of Fact

All of the material facts necessary for disposition of these cross-motions are uncontested. From the pleadings, certifications, interrogatories and attached exhibits, I FIND the following facts:

(1) Gratis Test

Petitioner's mother lives with two older children in the Borough of Fort Lee, New Jersey. When petitioner was born, her mother felt that she was unable to provide the necessary care for her new baby. She and her husband, the child's father, were experiencing serious marital discord that resulted in their separation and institution of divorce proceedings. In order to support herself and her remaining two children, the mother works as a teacher in the Newark school district. Concerned about the strain on her daughter and the potential adverse effect on the baby, the grandmother offered to keep and care for her grandchild. One month after giving birth, the mother returned to work because she could not afford to take more time off. On her first day back to work the mother brought her baby to the grandmother's house and returned home to prepare her other two children for school before leaving for work. Since then, the grandmother has sheltered and cared for the child as if she were her own. Such care includes preparing the child for school everyday and bringing the child to tutoring, ballet, and piano lessons. The end result of the grandmother's uninterrupted care for a period of five years is an established psychological bond between the grandmother and the child.

The grandmother owns her own home in Englewood Cliffs, where she has been a resident and taxpayer since 1984. She voluntarily undertook responsibility of paying preschool tuition at a cost of $14,824 for the period stretching from January 1, 2000 to December 31, 2003. Additionally, she pays for tutoring, piano, and ballet lessons for petitioner. Except for the child remaining on her mother's employer-provided health insurance, the grandmother provides all financial support for the child.

(2) Economic or Family Hardship

Resolution of the legal issue turns on whether the largely undisputed factual circumstances satisfy the legal criteria for "economic or family hardship." As a tenured teacher employed by the Newark public school system, the mother earns over $70,000 a year. She pays $8,300 a year in tuition for her eldest daughter's private high school, although this expense is totally discretionary. Similar to other homeowners, the mother incurs utility bills. She owes over $1,000 to PSE&G and received a shut-off notice last April 2004. In her certification, the mother recites that she has been forced to dip into her pension fund to address debt that she has incurred over the past two years. Beyond ordinary living expenses, the mother has medical bills arising from the treatment of her son. She owes $2,050 to Columbia University Medical Center and $1,362 for continuing orthodontic expenses. While failing to cite a specific amount, the mother notes that she has incurred thousands of dollars in attorney's fees in connection with her divorce.

In terms of family hardship, the mother would encounter serious scheduling difficulties if petitioner were to live with her in Fort Lee. In order to reach her teaching job by the required arrival time of 8:05 a.m., the mother must leave her home by 7:20 a.m. Her nine-year-old son does not begin school until 9:00 a.m. and requires supervision, which is provided free of charge by a former preschool teacher. Before dropping off her son with his former preschool teacher, the mother drops off her eldest daughter at a bus stop at shortly past 7:00 a.m.

If the petitioner were to live with her mother, she would not begin public school in Fort Lee until 9:00 a.m. Due to the mother's hectic schedule, somebody would have to watch petitioner from 7:00 a.m. until she went to school. Notwithstanding reasonable efforts to arrange for suitable supervision, the mother has been unable to find any responsible adult, other than the grandmother, willing to look after petitioner in the morning. Petitioner's father rejected the mother's request to arrive in the morning to prepare his daughter for school. Because the grandmother also watches another granddaughter in the morning, it would not be feasible for her to travel to Fort Lee to care for the child. An attempt was made to have petitioner ride the same bus as her brother, in order to allow her to be dropped off for supervision with her brother. This arrangement was not possible because Fort Lee only provides transportation for handicapped students.

Continuing in her efforts to find a suitable morning accommodation for her youngest child, the mother asked two neighbors if they could help out. Both neighbors declined because they were already caring for other children.

Alternatively, the mother sought someone to rent a room in her house for $300 a month. While she was able to find some potential candidates, there were complications preventing each one from renting the room and providing the necessary childcare.

Petitioner's younger brother has special needs that would diminish the amount of care and attention that the mother would be able to devote to petitioner. He is a special education student who has medical problems that affect his speech, breathing and sleep. To address his medical needs, the mother has sent him to four different specialty doctors and he is currently having orthodontic work done as a result of his speech and breathing difficulties. She has attended several meetings at the son's school and also spends approximately one and-a-half hours every night assisting him with his homework. While the older daughter does not experience medical or learning difficulties, she has a rebellious nature and has become angry, defiant, and belligerent since her mother separated from her father.

Last year the mother suffered a emotional problems as the result of additional strain from working while still having to cook, help her son with homework, and put her two children to bed. As a result of her illness, the mother lost twenty-five pounds, took three separate medications, and missed three weeks of work. In addition to financial and time stress, the mother may not be emotionally stable enough to handle another child living at home.

I FIND that the mother is unable to care for petitioner due to a family hardship. Scheduling conflicts that exist in this case are different than the common conflicts that may exist with most families. Being only five-years old, the child must be supervised at all times. The mother has attempted, but has been unsuccessful in finding supervision for the time periods when she is traveling to or is at work. Great indulgence should be given to the mother's inability to find care for her child, since, prior to the decision of Englewood Cliffs School District, she never had to consider making arrangements for supervision of the child. The existence of family hardship extends beyond scheduling conflicts to the current state of the mother's household. Due to the son's special needs along with an upset daughter, petitioner would be placed in a house where she would receive less attention and exposed to the turmoil of a bitter divorce. Finally, the uncertain emotional ability of the mother to care for another child cannot be discounted, especially when the additional child is a developing five year old who is coming from a stable environment with her grandmother.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioner satisfies the statutory criteria and is entitled to a free public education in the Englewood Cliffs School District.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that public schools shall be free to "any person over five and under twenty years of age who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child." Eligibility for attendance in a particular school district may be established by the filing of two sworn statements: the first from the resident attesting that she "is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to the school requirements and that [s]he intends to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term;" and the second from the parent or guardian showing that she "is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district." School districts, however, may not automatically deny an application on the basis of inadequate documentation without consideration of the full circumstances developed at an evidentiary hearing. J.A. v. Board of Educ. for South Orange and Maplewood, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (App. Div. 1999).

The Board does not really deny that the gratis test is satisfied. Petitioner has lived continuously with her grandmother in Englewood Cliffs since birth and the grandmother provides virtually all of the child's financial support. The mere fact that the mother's health insurance happens to extend to petitioner is not enough to defeat the overwhelming weight of the evidence that the grandmother has assumed full financial responsibility for supporting her granddaughter. E.L. and J.L. ex rel. A.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of Morris Hills Reg. Sch. Dist., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3172-97 (Comm'r Feb. 15, 2000), 2000 WL 148207 (N.J. Adm.); R.A. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ewing Twp, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 49, 50 (Comm'r Oct. 5, 1994), 1994 WL 760481 (N.J. Adm.).

Instead the more contentious issue is whether the circumstances satisfy the second requirement of a family or economic hardship rendering the parent incapable of supporting or caring for the child. The family or economic hardship language is "clearly directed at instances where the student is living with a parent or guardian claiming to be but not actually domiciled in the school district or, alternatively, where a child is placed with a person other than the parent or guardian to obtain the benefit of a free education in that district." P.B.K. ex rel. E.Y. v. Board of Educ. of Borough of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419, 428 (App. Div. 2001). Generally, reported cases have taken an indulgent attitude towards recognizing what constitutes family hardship in affidavit student cases. Significantly, the statutory language does not require an "extreme" family hardship, but recognizes that ordinary family difficulties may suffice.

Existence of a family conflict that will adversely affect the welfare of the child can be sufficient to establish a family hardship. Illustratively, in J.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Ocean, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 628 (Comm'r March 25, 1996), 1996 WL 769148 (N.J. Admin.), rev'd (St. Bd. Oct. 2, 1996), on remand,

So too, in U.S.K. ex rel. J.W.Y. v. Board of Educ. of Fort Lee, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3958-99 (Comm'r Oct. 28, 1999), 1999 WL 777917, the Commissioner upheld the entitlement to school attendance of a child who came to live with his aunt because his father abused his mother and had abandoned the family. Factors considered by the Commissioner included the fact that the mother "made very little money and worked very long hours" and pleaded with her sister "to take the child for his own well-being." See also, E.L. and J.L. ex. rel. A.H., supra, where the grandparents provided a safe haven for their grandchild after her own mother had rejected her. Although the Board contends that these cases implicated family hardships that are more "severe in nature," the Commissioner customarily refrains from measuring degrees of misery in domicile disputes. So long as the primary caretaker has suffered a legitimate hardship (as opposed to the child moving into the district for the purpose of attending school there), the Commissioner will not second-guess the decision of other relatives to offer help. Indeed, the social fabric of our society is tied together by family members helping other family members in times of need.

Those cases in which the Commissioner did examine the severity of the purported family hardship are distinguishable on their facts. In H.K. and G.K. ex rel. J.K, and C.K. v. Cherry Hill Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. 0673-97 (June 19, 1998), 1998 WL 658389 (N.J. Adm.), adopted (Comm'r Aug. 28, 1998), the parents lived together in an intact family unit and, at the time of the hearing, the two children were 18 and 16 years old. Although the father worked during the day and the mother spent a good portion of the day caring for her elderly parents, one or both parents returned home by 6:00 p.m. every school night. Thus, the Commissioner upheld a determination that the parents were "available in the evenings and weekends to provide guidance and care for them."

Similarly, in In re E.G.P. ex rel. M.B. v. Board of Education of Rutherford, OAL Dkt. No. 9881-00 (Aug. 20, 2001), 2001 WL 829381 (N.J. Adm.), a young child came to live with his grandparents "as a matter of family choice." Notwithstanding the fact that his parents both worked during the day, there was no showing that they were incapable of caring for him.

In contrast, the instant matter involves a single working mother and a five-year old who is too young to stay alone at home. The mother is unable to juggle the conflicting responsibilities of caring for petitioner together with her two other children and earning her livelihood. Despite diligent efforts, the mother was unsuccessful in arranging for childcare in the morning, when she had to drop her other children off for school and leave the house for work. Much of the mother's spare time is devoted to caring for petitioner's older brother, who has special needs. Moreover, the ugly divorce proceedings in which the parents are engaged presents a hostile home environment in which to raise a young child. Therefore, the decision to entrust petitioner to her grandmother's care was not a question of mere convenience, but rather a matter of necessity.

Given the strong evidence in favor of a family hardship, it is unnecessary to reach the issue of whether petitioner has also demonstrated economic hardship that would constitute alternate grounds for attendance in the Englewood Cliffs school system.

Order

It is ORDERED that petitioner is eligible to receive a free public education in the Englewood Cliffs school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." C.H., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PRINCETON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions, to which the Board of Education (Board) duly replied.

In his exceptions, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision's findings and conclusions to the extent that they do not hold petitioner to have been domiciled, or temporarily residing, in Princeton during the entire 2001-02 school year. Petitioner specifically objects to the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner's separation from his wife ended in February 2002, that his residency in Princeton ended on or about February 2002, and that he was not domiciled in Princeton after February 2002. According to petitioner, the record demonstrates that he neither decided nor acted to return permanently to Lawrenceville until the summer, so that the ALJ erred in concluding that, as of February 2002, petitioner intended to return to Lawrenceville on a permanent basis and his intermittent stays there between February and the summer consequently constituted a change in domicile. Petitioner also objects to the ALJ's failure to consider, in addition to his claim of domicile, the proffered alternative ground of temporary residence in the district pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)4. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-11)

In reply, the Board urges adoption of the Initial Decision, contending that petitioner's claim of domicile is belied by testimony demonstrating that petitioner's move to his father's home in Princeton was "only a temporary arrangement to help ease a family crisis. He never changed his legal domicile, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. His wife described the family separation as a 'plan,' the result of which was unpredictable. She testified on cross-examination that, even from the beginning of the school year, [petitioner] and J.H. stayed overnight in Lawrenceville on Monday nights, since the family had counseling sessions on those evenings. She further admitted that, beginning in February, 2002, and continuing for 'a few months,' [petitioner] and J.H. spent additional nights at the Lawrenceville home.  [Petitioner] testified that his intention during this February – May period was to return to the Princeton residence. However, this avowed intention was not sufficient to prove that Princeton was his domicile, since the facts do not support such a finding even prior to February, 2002. In other words, [petitioner] could not 'return' to a domicile that did not exist." (Board's Reply at 1-2) The Board further opines that the ALJ did not need to consider petitioner's claim of temporary residence in light of her (correct) finding that petitioner and his wife "reconciled or at least reunited" in their Lawrenceville home in February 2002. (Id. at 2)

Upon his own review, the Commissioner determines to modify the Initial Decision of the ALJ. Preliminarily, the Commissioner notes that there is no genuine dispute between the parties about the material facts of petitioner's living arrangements, as opposed to the intention underlying them and the conclusions to be drawn from them; nor do the parties dispute the ALJ's recitation of testimony or her implicit assessment of witness credibility.[1] In reviewing the body of testimony and evidence presented, however, the Commissioner cannot concur with the ALJ that petitioner was at any point domiciled in Princeton. Instead, as the record makes abundantly clear and neither party denies, petitioner's family unit was in crisis and, in an attempt to preserve it, the parents undertook a trial separation until they could determine whether the problems with their children could be resolved and they would then decide either to divorce or to reconcile; if the latter, they would again live together in Lawrenceville. Both parents testified that, when petitioner moved to Princeton, they did not know whether he would return to Lawrenceville. Petitioner himself testified that he returned frequently to Lawrenceville for home maintenance purposes and that he did not change his driver's license or the address at which he received official documents, actions which customarily serve as indicia of intent to establish a new domicile. Under these circumstances, it is difficult to agree that petitioner intended, even for a short time, to make Princeton a "permanent abode," as found by the ALJ. (Initial Decision at 8) That assessment, however, does not end the inquiry in this matter, as the Board would suggest.

The facts herein are, in the Commissioner's view, more appropriately analyzed under the provision of law allowing for free attendance at school by a student whose parent or guardian is temporarily residing in the district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), so long as the sole purpose of such residency is not to obtain a free public education, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.4(a)4; Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, App. Div. A-653-95T5, decided October 9, 1996, published 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 77, 80-82. There is no dispute in this matter that petitioner and J.H. were living with petitioner's father in Princeton until February 2002. After that time, however, the Commissioner finds that, contrary to the holding of the ALJ, petitioner and J.H. continued to reside in Princeton until the beginning of summer, after the school year had ended, and that their concededly more frequent stays in Lawrenceville are indicative of the family's counseling needs and state of transition rather than of an actual change in residence, which did not finally occur until petitioner and J.H. moved back to the family home in the summer. Moreover, the record amply demonstrates that, while a desire to change J.H.'s school environment undeniably entered into the family's decision to undertake a trial separation, and a desire to have him finish out the school year without interruption may well have colored the timing of the family's actual physical reunification once it became apparent the separation was not working, these factors were but one part of a larger complex of issues giving a legitimate non-school purpose to petitioner's residency in Princeton. Certainly, this matter does not present itself as a case where, contrary to the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, parents have contrived to establish a temporary residence in another district in order to create a sham "entitlement" for their child(ren) to attend school there. Lee, supra.

[1] It is here noted that petitioner submitted, along with his exceptions to the Initial Decision and without objection by the Board, an unofficial copy of the sound recording of the OAL hearing obtained pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.11(b); that recording, however, was not considered in rendering the within decision. Although it was unnecessary in the present instance for the Commissioner to review the hearing transcript because petitioner, in his exceptions, challenges the conclusions drawn by the ALJ from stated facts rather than the facts themselves, the Commissioner must generally caution that parties challenging an ALJ's findings of fact are required to provide the Commissioner with those portions of the official transcript relevant to the exceptions filed. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987) An unofficial copy of the sound recording of OAL proceedings may not be substituted for the required transcript, and will not be considered if so submitted.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is modified to hold that no tuition is due the Board because petitioner was temporarily residing in the Princeton school district for the duration of the 2001-02 school year and such residency was not for the purpose of unlawfully procuring a free public education in the district.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: June 1, 2004 Decided: July 12, 2004

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appeals the residency determination made by respondent, the Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District (hereinafter "BOE"). The BOE has demanded $11,318.00 as tuition for the 2001-2002 school year.

On May 7, 2002, the Superintendent for the Princeton BOE notified the petitioner that J.H., his minor son, could no longer attend the Princeton Regional Schools because C.H. did not reside in Princeton. The BOE on that same date advised C.H. to attend a meeting of the BOE on May 28, 2002 where J.H's attendance and residency within the district was going to be discussed. C.H. did not attend the meeting and neither did his wife, J.H.'s mother.

On June 3, 2002, the BOE sent C.H. a letter advising him that the Board determined that J.H. (son) was ineligible to attend Princeton High School and that C.H. was responsible for J.H.'s (son) tuition in the amount of $11,318.00.

On June 24, 2002, C.H. filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education. On July 15, 2002, the BOE filed its Answer and on July 17, 2002, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law.

On November 3, 2003, a hearing was conducted. A post-hearing briefing schedule was established. After extensions, the parties submitted their closing briefs.

ISSUE

Was the petitioner domiciled in Princeton during the 2001-2002 school year?

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

Testimony of C.D.H.

C.D.H. is the father of J.H., the student. C.D.H. is married to J.H. and they have a second son named M.H. According to the father, both of his sons are diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactive Disorder and M.H. has Tourette's Syndrome as well.

C.D.H. and J.H. separated because of the stress they were under as parents of two children with ADHD. When they separated, they decided to split temporary physical custody of the boys. J.H., a high school student, went with C.D.H. and M.H. stayed with his mother, J.H. C.D.H. and J.H. (son) moved to Princeton and resided with C.J.H., Jr. at 29 Cuyler Road, Princeton, New Jersey. C.J.H., Jr. is the father of C.D.H. and the grandfather to J.H.

C.D.H. testified that when the parties were together, he, his wife and their two children lived at 7 Edgehill Avenue, Lawrenceville, New Jersey. C.D.H. said that he choose to live with his father (C.J.H., Jr.) in Princeton because he did not have sufficient finances to obtain a residence of his own. C.D.H. said that the sole purpose of the marital separation was to separate the family and relieve some of the family problems and stress.

C.D.H. said that he and his son, J.H., moved into his father's house on Cuyler Road sometime in August of 2001. He said he and his son moved in with most of their personal belongings. C.D.H. testified that he returned to his Lawrenceville home frequently to do general house maintenance such as cutting the grass, attending to the dogs and fixing things. He also said that he would frequently go to the Lawrenceville house to help his wife deal with M.H. He said he and his wife had an amicable separation agreement because they separated only to alleviate the stress of the children. He called this separation a "Family Split" as opposed to a marital separation. He said he and J.H. had talked about a divorce.

C.D.H. testified that he intended to reside in Princeton with his father until either the family reconciled or they divorced. He said in the 2001-2002 school year the entire family was in counseling. He testified that if the problems with the kids were resolved, the family would reunite.

C.D.H. said that as far as he knew, his wife, J.H., filled out all of the registration forms for J.H. (son) to attend the Princeton school. She generally did all of the paperwork.

C.D.H. said he did not change his driver's license, nor his tax return address; all official documents remained with the Lawrenceville address. C.D.H. said that J.H. (son) did not stay in the Lawrenceville school district, even though he (C.D.H.) moved to Princeton, because he would have to do the transporting of J.H. (son). In other words, he would have to travel every morning from Princeton to Lawrenceville to take J.H. to school.

C.D.H. testified that between mid-February 2002 and early May 2002, he was in Lawrenceville intermittently, more so than in the prior months.

C.D.H. further stated that it was not his intention to get J.H. a Princeton High School Education. The intent was a family separation to ease the family stress and tension from dealing with both boys and their disabilities. The attitude was, let's separate and see what this separation yields in terms of the family and its stresses.

Testimony of C.J.H., Jr.

C.J.H., Jr. is the father of C.D.H. and the grandfather to J.H. Mr. C.J.H., Jr. testified that C.D.H. is his oldest son. C.J.H., Jr. is the owner and resident of 29 Cuyler Road, Princeton, New Jersey. This has been his residence for the past 50 years.

C.J.H., Jr. testified that on or about August 15, 2001, he wrote the BOE a letter advising them that his son and grandson were residing with him on Cuyler Road and that J.H. will be attending Princeton High School in the Fall. See Exhibit P-2.

C.J.H., Jr. further testified that C.D.H. and J.H. (son) started to live with him around the first of August. He said they moved in with their clothing and that J.H. (son) brought his guitar and sound system. He said they resided in his home until the Spring of 2002. He said they left shortly after the end of the school year. He said they slept at his house most of the year and that J.H. left for school from his house. He said there were times when C.D.H. and J.H. (son) would go back and forth from his house in Princeton to their house in Lawrenceville.

Testimony of J.H.

J.H. is the wife of C.D.H. and the mother of J.H. She resides at 7 Edgehill Avenue, Lawrenceville, New Jersey. She has lived at this address for the last 23 years.

J.H. (mother) testified that in 2000-2001, she called the Princeton BOE and inquired about registration for J.H. (son) at the high school. She said she made the phone call on the last day of school in June of 2001. She said she was given Exhibit P-1. She said she did not complete it. She testified that, at that time, she and C.D.H. had already decided to separate, but that they wanted to wait until the end of that school year before actually making the separation.

J.H. testified that J.H (son) was suicidal (very distraught) in early February of 2002 and that he wanted to live in the Lawrenceville home. She said they were at the Lawrence house a few days a week for several months. She said that things just became worse "disastrous." She said J.H. missed his brother, M.H., and although things were not good, the separation period had provided some improvement. She further stated that J.H. was depressed that he wanted to live at home in Lawrenceville. She said he was devastated at Princeton High School. She said that educationally Princeton High School was a disaster. In July of 2002, they decided to send J.H. back to a private school.

J.H. (mother) said that when they separated, she did not know if they would reconcile.

Testimony of Nicholas Cream

Nicholas Cream is employed by the Princeton Regional Schools as an attendance officer. He has been in this position for the last 13 years. He does the residency and truancy investigations.

Mr. Cream testified that the matter involving J.H. (son) came to his attention in April 2002, when while in the attendance office, J.H. came in late and said that he was late that morning because of a lot of traffic on the way to school. He said he saw C.D.H. drop J.H. off at school many times. Mr. Cream said this peaked his curiosity because he knew that there were no traffic jams in the vicinity of Princeton High School.

He investigated the situation and discovered that C.D.H. had a residence in Lawrenceville.

Mr. Cream testified that on five occasions, he saw C.D.H. and J.H. (son) leave the house in Lawrenceville and go to Princeton High School. He said he followed C.D.H. in a brown and beige van and that he recognized C.D.H. and J.H. He said at approximately 7:30 a.m. on April 26, 30, May 1, 2 and 3, 2002, he saw C.D.H. and J.H. leave 7 Edgehill Road in Lawrenceville and drive to Princeton High School where J.H. exited the vehicle and entered the high school.

Mr. Cream further testified that on May 13 and 28, he went to the Lawrenceville home in the evening and at night and observed the brown and beige vehicle parked in the driveway.

Testimony of Claire Sheff Cohn

Dr. Cohn testified that she is the Superintendent of Schools for the Princeton Regional School District. She started this position in July of 2002. Prior to her employment with Princeton, she was the Superintendent in Lawrenceville Township.

Dr. Cohn testified that she was familiar with the subject family and their children. She said she had had numerous conversations with the parents regarding J.H.'s schooling and his difficulties. She had also discussed with them their concerns with respect to the district.

Dr. Cohn specifically related a conversation she had with J.H. (mother) wherein J.H. asked if Lawrenceville School District would pay private school tuition for J.H. (son). Dr. Cohen said she told J.H. (mother) that the district would not do so because the private school J.H. (mother) was talking about was not accredited. Dr. Cohn then said J.H. (mother) asked her about J.H. (son) going to Princeton High School and Lawrenceville paying Princeton's tuition. Dr. Cohn said that Lawrenceville would not pay Princeton's tuition either because Lawrenceville School District was capable of handling J.H.'s (son) academic needs.

Dr. Cohn further testified that J.H. (mother) explained that J.H.'s (son) grandfather lived in Princeton and perhaps something could be done that way. Dr. Cohn said she told J.H. (mother) that that would not work either because there had to be an exigent reason for a child to attend a school in a district that he does not live in.

She testified that the petitioner was given the proper notice about attending the May 28, 2002 school meeting but that her office did not hear anything from the petitioner until the last moment. She said that by the time she heard from J.H. (mother) about C.D.H. not attending the meeting, it was too late to call the meeting off. She said additional notices were sent to the petitioner but the district never received a response. The hearing was not rescheduled because the petitioner never requested it. Dr. Cohn said the BOE predicated its decision on Mr. Cream's report and the lack of information from the petitioner.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing and having had an opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner, C.D.H., is the father of J.H. C.D.H. and J.H. are married and were separated from on or about August 1, 2001 until February 2002. They have two children, J.H. and M.H.
2. C.D.H., the petitioner, and J.H. (son) resided at 29 Cuyler Road, Princeton, New Jersey at the home of C.J.H., Jr. They began their residency in Princeton on or about August 1, 2001 and such residency ended on or about February 2002.
3. During the separation period, J.H. (son) was domiciled with C.D.H. at 29 Cuyler Road, Princeton, New Jersey and J.H. (mother) was domiciled at 7 Edgehill Road, Lawrenceville, New Jersey with their other son, M.H.
4. Petitioner was not domiciled in Princeton, New Jersey after February 2002.

FACTUAL ANALYSIS AND LEGAL DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), "[a]ny person who is domiciled within the school district" is entitled to a free education from that district "if the superintendent or administrative principal of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district....the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal for the child." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The parents "shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence" to prove domicile in the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

Domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she, if absent, intends to return. Mercandante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd 58 N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have multiple residences, but may only have one true domicile at a time. Therefore, residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 151 (1955). Intent is the decisive factor in establishing domicile. It is the manifestation of a person's intent that converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. at 251. The New Jersey Supreme Court held in Lyon v. Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264 (1972), domicile requires proof of physical presence and the intention to remain there indefinitely. Domicile is acquired upon the "concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode." Lyon v. Glaser, supra at 264.

The domicile or residence of children, for school purposes under Title 18A, is the domicile of the parent. I.P. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Leonia, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 128, 132 (1993). See also V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Board of Education, N.J.A.R. 283, 286 (EDU) (1980), aff'd St. Bd., 1 981 SLD 1553, rev'd on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Board of Education, 550 F.Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982).

The testimony contained in the record shows that C.D.H. and J.H. (son) moved out of the Lawrenceville house and into the home of the grandfather in Princeton sometime in August of 2001. There is nothing in the record saying that this did not happen. Therefore, although C.D.H. had another residence, in Lawrenceville, the house in Princeton was his temporary domicile. The record also shows through the testimony of C.J.H., Jr. that J.H. (son) moved into his grandfather's house with his father.

The petitioner and his wife testified that they separated and they did not know how long they were going to be separated; they said at least until the problems were resolved. This fact supports the legal premise that C.D.H. intended to make the residence in Princeton his temporary home and principal establishment, at least during the separation period or until if and when he and his wife reconciled or their problems were resolved.

The testimony of the petitioner and his wife support the fact that at least up until February of 2002, C.D.H. and J.H. (son) only frequented the Lawrenceville house intermittently, but then in February until the end of the school year, the frequency increased. J.H. (son) had gotten very depressed, was suicidal for he wanted to be in Lawrenceville. This statement by J.H. (mother) is very telling and candid. This statement shows how distraught J.H. (son) was over the separation and how badly he wanted to be in Lawrenceville. The parents, in trying to ease the situation or in accommodating their son, reunited in Lawrenceville. I FIND and the facts show through the testimony that the parents reconciled or at least reunited in their Lawrenceville resident in February 2002. They reunited because the separation was too stressful on J.H. (son). The parties re-established family domicile in Lawrenceville until the end of the academic year.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has proved by a preponderance of the evidence that he was domiciled within the Princeton Regional School District from August 2001 until February 2002.

ORDER

I, therefore, ORDER the petitioner to reimburse the respondent the per diem rate of tuition from February 1, 2002 until the end of the school year ending June 2002.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Dear Parties:

Upon review of the matter entitled State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Agency Dkt. No. 183-5/04, I have determined to dismiss the Petition of Appeal in this matter for failure to prosecute.

This matter was opened May 19, 2004 by way of the filing of a Petition of Appeal, wherein petitioner states that it is appealing "the April 19, 2004 decision of Richard Rosenberg, Assistant Commissioner, Division of School Finance, denying the District's requests for needed funding for the District's pre-school educational program for the 2003-04 school year." (Petition of Appeal at 1) On June 15, 2004, the Department of Education (Department) filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer claiming that the matter is not properly before the Commissioner and that "no final decision has been rendered regarding the results of the audit conducted to test Newark's preschool enrollment." (Motion to Dismiss at 1)

By letter of June 17, 2004, petitioner was provided twenty (20) days to submit a memorandum of law or letter brief setting forth its legal arguments as to why the appeal should not be dismissed. When no filing was received, by letter sent July 13, 2004, via certified[1] and regular mail, petitioner was provided a final opportunity to file a submission with respect to the Department's motion. The July 13 letter specifically advised petitioner that failure to respond to

MAREN BRISTOL,	:
PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN VALLEY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The exceptions filed by both petitioner and the Board, as well as the respective replies thereto, were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1]

Although petitioner supports most of the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings and conclusions, she presents the following exceptions: (1) Given the determination that the reduction in petitioner's position was done in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and with improper motive, the back pay and benefit award ordered by the ALJ should have been accompanied by an award of pre-judgment interest as requested pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c); (2) The ALJ's finding that the duties of the "Substance Abuse Counselor" may be subcontracted to outside contractors is contrary to law; (3) The ALJ's finding that a person, such as Dr. Vaccaro, who is not certified as a "Substance Abuse Counselor" may perform student counseling services is contrary to law; and (4) Those portions of the Initial Decision relating to whether the Board should have been given limited access to petitioner's medical records are beyond the scope of the issues in this matter and should, therefore, be rejected as irrelevant. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2)

The Board submits the following exceptions to the Initial Decision: (1) The ALJ failed to include a number of significant, undisputed facts in her summary; (2) It is unclear why, in the Initial Decision, the ALJ analyzed Dr. Vaccaro's position and determined that it was more akin to an employer/employee relationship after she concluded that the Board had the right to subcontract out those services; (3) The ALJ's statement on page 12 that Dr. Vacarro does not meet the requirements to obtain an emergency certificate is unsupported by the record; (4) The ALJ improperly "bought in" to petitioner's claim that the Board should have negotiated with her attorney concerning the release of at least some of petitioner's medical records (Board's Exceptions at 8-9); (5) The Initial Decision fails to mention "the inconsistencies between [petitioner's] statements at the psychiatric evaluation in May of 2003, and what actually happened in November 2002, when she had her psychiatric episode," and also fails to note the Board's position that the need for some objective medical records was absolute (Id. at 9-10); (6) The ALJ's conclusion concerning the reduction in force is wrong, because the Board has "consistently asserted  that this is a subcontracting situation, not a RIF matter" (Id. at 11); (7) The ALJ erred in finding that the Board acted improperly in subcontracting out counseling services to Dr. Vacarro in this instance; (8) The Initial Decision must be rejected because it contains factual and legal errors (i.e., a finding of bad faith absent having heard testimony; reliance upon Cochran, supra, which involved the subcontracting of child study team duties; application of tenure/seniority principles which are irrelevant to a subcontracting issue; and a finding that there was no compelling case law for the proposition that an independent medical examination included access to a patient's medical records); and (9) The ALJ's finding that the Board should have filed tenure charges against petitioner is incorrect and must be rejected.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to modify the Initial Decision, as set forth herein, and, in so doing, he adopts the factual summary set forth by the ALJ at pages 1-4 of the Initial Decision.

"Substance Awareness Coordinator"

First, it is critical to note that the position of Substance Awareness Coordinator is authorized by statute and administrative code, and the duties for this position are set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.2. That is, the Substance Awareness Coordinator is authorized to:

> assist with the inservice training of school district staff concerning substance abuse issues and the district program to combat substance abuse; serve as an information resource for substance abuse curriculum development and instruction; assist the district in revising and implementing substance abuse policies and procedures; develop and administer intervention services in the district; provide counseling services to pupils regarding substance abuse problems; and where necessary and appropriate, cooperate with juvenile justice officials in the rendering of substance abuse treatment services. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(c); See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.2(a)[2]

The record herein, however, reflects the consistent use of titles other than "Substance Awareness Coordinator" when referring to the position held by petitioner.[3] For this reason, the [2] Irrespective of whether a local board of education chooses to hire a Substance Awareness Coordinator, all local boards are statutorily obligated to offer the prevention, intervention and treatment-referral programs and services required by N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 et seq. Thus, while a Board may be prudent to employ a Substance Awareness Coordinator to assist it in meeting its broad statutory responsibilities, there is presently no requirement for it to do so. Consequently, the programs and services compelled by the imposition of these mandates need not, as petitioner argues, be provided exclusively by a Substance Awareness Coordinator, or, necessarily, a district employee.

[3] Specifically: (1) In a letter to petitioner dated December 4, 2002, the Superintendent acknowledges the caseload of students petitioner sees in her role as "Student Assistance Counselor." (Brief on Behalf of Respondent, Certification of Jan A. Furman at Exhibit A); (2) In a memorandum dated January 17, 2003, staff were informed that Dr. Vaccaro was hired on an interim basis to serve as the "Student Assistance Counselor" for the district. (Brief in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment, Certification of Sheldon H. Pincus in Opposition to

Commissioner underscores that every position must have a position title which is recognized in the administrative code. See, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(a), now N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5(a); Howley and Bookholdt v. Ewing Township Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328. A position title corresponds either to one of the enumerated endorsements (e.g., the Substance Awareness Coordinator endorsement on the Educational Services Certificate) or is specifically designated within the endorsement description. In the alternative, if a district board of education determines that use of an unrecognized position title is desirable, prior to appointment of the candidate, the title must be approved by the county Superintendent who has made a determination of the appropriate certification for the position. See, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b), now N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.5(b); Howley, supra at 1335. Neither "Substance Abuse Counselor," nor "Student Assistance Counselor" is a recognized title, yet both petitioner and the Board appear to have consistently used both titles.[4] Notwithstanding that the record is unclear on this point, petitioner nevertheless asserts, and the Board admits, that she is a tenured teaching staff member (Petition of Appeal at 1; Board's Answer at 1). Therefore, the following analysis presumes that petitioner has acquired tenure in her "position."

Cross Motion for Summary Judgment at Exhibit 3); (3) In a letter dated February 27, 2003 from the Board's prior counsel to Mr. Pincus, counsel indicates that she obtained a description of the job duties for the "Student Assistance Counselor" to supply to Mr. Pincus and the selected psychiatrist. (Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment, Certification of Sheldon H. Pincus at Exhibit K); (4) In a letter to petitioner dated April 17, 2003, the Superintendent stated that the Board will consider and act upon a recommendation to abolish "the full-time position of Student Assistance Counselor in the District and to create a 2/5ths part-time position of Student Assistance Counselor commencing with the 2003-2004 school year." (Id at Exhibit L); (5) Petitioner's salary notices, dated April 28, 2003 and June 16, 2003, as issued by the Board, identify her position as "therapist" (Id. at Exhibits E and F); and (6) In her Petition of Appeal, petitioner alleges that on or about April 28, 2003, the Board adopted a resolution abolishing her full-time position as "Substance Abuse Counselor" and creating a 2/5ths part-time position of "Substance Abuse Counselor" commencing with the 2003-2004 school year. (Petition of Appeal at paragraph 4) [4] There is no indication on this record whether the County Superintendent approved the use of an unrecognized title and established the appropriate certification requirements.

Abolishment of Petitioner's Position

There is no dispute that, on April 28, 2003, the Board abolished petitioner's full-time "position" and assigned 3/5ths of her counseling duties to Dr. Vacarro, who did not hold an instructional, educational services or administrative certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners. In a letter to petitioner dated April 17, 2003, the Superintendent stated that the Board "will consider and act upon a recommendation to abolish the full-time position of Student Assistance Counselor in the District and to create a 2/5ths part-time position of Student Assistance Counselor commencing with the 2003-2004 school year." (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment, Certification of Sheldon H. Pincus at Exhibit L).

Moreover, there is no dispute that the abolishment was not effectuated pursuant to a reorganization or declining enrollment. Rather, as the Superintendent indicated in her letter to petitioner's counsel dated July 7, 2003:

> During [Ms. Bristol's] absence, the Board of Education contracted with a private practitioner for these services. The level of satisfaction with this service provider exceeds the satisfaction level with Ms. Bristol's services. For these reasons the district has chosen to continue the students services provided by the private practitioner. (Id. at Exhibit Q)

Like the ALJ, the Commissioner is persuaded on this record that, notwithstanding the Board's attempts to characterize its action as a pure "subcontracting issue," the overriding impetus to abolish petitioner's full-time position and to contract with Dr. Vaccaro for 3/5ths of a "Student Assistance Counselor position" was not "genuinely for reasons of economy" as may be permitted by law, See, e.g. Impey, supra, but, rather, because the Superintendent was concerned about petitioner's ability to provide counseling services to the students. As the ALJ notes, "The District made it clear that the reason for this action was not economy (even though the result might have been more economical) but rather an attempt to deal with the continuing problem of Ms. Bristol's perceived incapacity." (Initial Decision at 25)

Thus, while acknowledging that the Board's actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith (See, Initial Decision at 10), the Commissioner must nevertheless conclude, for the reasons set forth above, that the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights when it reduced her full-time position to a 2/5ths position, eliminated her benefits and transferred her counseling duties to Dr. Vacarro. Having so found, it is not necessary to reach to the issue of whether Dr. Vacarro was, in fact, an outside contractor or an (uncertified) employee of the district since, in either event, given the particular circumstances in this matter, the reduction of petitioner's full-time position and the transfer of her duties were unlawful.[5]

Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner must be reinstated to her full-time "position," with back-pay and emoluments, for the reasons set forth above.[6] Having so determined, the Commissioner does not find it necessary to reach, or adopt, any findings and conclusions issued by the ALJ in her Initial Decision other than those specifically addressed in this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[7]

Date of Mailing: 8/04/04

[5]Mindful that this matter is decided pursuant to motions for summary decision, however, the Commissioner declines to find that the Board's action was in bad faith so as to entitle petitioner to pre-judgment interest.

[6]Based on the outcome herein, the Commissioner does not find it necessary to address the third issue in this matter, i.e., whether the reduction constitutes an abuse of discretion because the petitioner's psychiatric evaluation was negative. (Initial Decision at 5)

[7] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

James L. Plosia, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy)

Record Closed: June 18, 2004 Decided: July 1, 2004

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Maren Bristol, is a tenured member of the Northern Valley Regional High School District Board of Education (hereinafter "NVRHS" or "Respondent"). She has been employed by the District for approximately 15 years. Petitioner holds an Educational Services certificate with a Substance Awareness Coordinator (SAC) endorsement, and has held that endorsement at all times relevant to the instant matter. Until November 2002, Ms. Bristol was a SAC in the District. Her duties included counseling students, coordination with staff, programming and related services.

On November 21, 2002, the petitioner failed to appear for work, and did not notify the school of her absence. The school attempted to contact petitioner by phone, and after several unanswered calls, the school directed two staff members to go to petitioner's home to check on her. Upon arrival at petitioner's home, she answered the door and stated, "I just don't know that life is worth living anymore." The staff members then proceeded to transport petitioner to St. Barnabas Hospital. They did not remain with her for an extended period of time and therefore did not know whether Ms. Bristol was admitted or just received treatment at the emergency room.

Petitioner did not contact the NVRHS or return to work for approximately two weeks. In early December, petitioner attempted to return to work, at which time she was directed to report to the Superintendent of Schools for NVRHS, Dr. Jan Furman (hereinafter, "Furman" or "Superintendent"). During this meeting the Superintendent relayed her concerns about petitioner's psychiatric health and her ability to perform counseling services for students. The Superintendent informed petitioner that she would be required to receive a "clean bill of health" from a psychiatrist prior to returning to work[1]. She was on a paid leave of absence from the time of the incident until June of 2003[2].

After several months of negotiating what psychiatrist would examine the petitioner, the parties finally agreed on Dr. Fridman. On April 2, 2003, prior to Ms. Bristol's seeing Dr. Fridman, the petitioner's attorney sent a letter stating that he would not allow her medical or psychiatric records to be released to the doctor.[3] (See Exhibit 2). The examination took place on May 19, 2003. Dr. Fridman's evaluation was limited solely to petitioner's statements and his own observations during the examination. Dr. Fridman concluded in his report of May 19, 2003 that: "her clinical presentation, during these two interviews, offered no psychiatric contra-indication to her performing her duties as a Student Assistance Counselor at Northern Valley Regional High School. A full review of her psychiatric records would provide a more complete picture of her functioning."

[1] NVRHS asserted that the petitioner voluntarily agreed to be examined by a psychiatrist. The petitioner's attorney asserted that the petitioner did not have the advice of counsel at the time.
[2] It is unclear the exact start date of the leave of absence, but respondent asserts the entire time was approximately five months.

In the spring of 2003, Respondent retained the services of Dr. Vincent Vaccaro to provide substance abuse counseling services to the students during petitioner's absence.[4] It is undisputed that Dr. Vaccaro, who is a psychologist, does not have a teaching certificate, nor does he have an endorsement as a Substance Abuse Counselor. During his employment in the spring of 2003, Dr. Vaccaro was an employee of the District and received a W-2.

On April 28, 2003, respondent adopted a resolution, abolishing petitioner's full-time position as a Substance Abuse Counselor, and creating a 2/5th part-time position of Student Assistance Counselor. The petitioner was given this position commencing with the 2003-2004 school year. For the 2003-2004 school year the school board employed Dr. Vaccaro on a part-time basis as an outside contractor. He continued to provide alcohol and drug counseling services for NVRHS. Ms. Bristol's duties were to work in research areas and programs related to drug and alcohol abuse and to grant writing relative to those matters. Petitioner's salary, in the 2/5ths positions, is $36, 386.80; Dr. Vacarro received approximately $44,000 for twenty hours per week for forty weeks. The combined total remuneration for Ms. Bristol and Dr. Vaccaro was approximately $80,000. Neither Ms. Bristol nor Dr. Vaccaro received health and other benefits. Petitioner's full-time base salary would have been approximately $89,000, but,

[3] Prior to the decision that Dr. Fridman would conduct an examination, the petitioner had stated that she would agree to allow her treating physician to answer certain specific questions put to her by the Board. However, the questions would be prescreened by her attorney. The Board never pursued this offer.
[4] The District attempted to engage the services of a SAC, but they were unable to do so.

when all benefits are included, it would total approximately $100,000. In June 2003, the Superintendent of Schools sent a letter to Ms. Bristol stating that, in order for her to return to work[5], she had to provide a "clearance for duty report" from her personal physician. This was necessary, because Dr. Fridman did not have access to her medical records, when he was preparing the report. On June 9, 2003, Hilda B. Templeton, M.D. Diplomat of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, wrote a note stating that "Ms. Bristol has been under my medical care. She is able to return to full time employment without any limitations."

Petitioner initiated the instant matter on July 22, 2003. At about the same time, Ms. Bristol filed a complaint in the United States District Court, District of New Jersey, against the respondent, Northern Valley Regional High School Board of Education. That matter is stayed pending the outcome of this case. The respondent filed an answer on August 14, 2003. This matter was forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 9, 2003. A pre-hearing telephone conference was held on November 14, 2003. Trial dates were set for April 30, May 3 and 6, 2004. On March 2, 2004, the petitioner moved for summary decision, claiming that:

1. Her reduction in hours was a violation of her tenure and seniority rights;

2. The employment of Dr. Vaccaro, a non-tenured "staff member[6]," to perform her prior duties was a violation of her tenure and seniority rights;

3. There was no actual reduction in the workforce, because the petitioner's position was not abolished; and

4. The request for her medical and psychiatric records is an abuse of the Board's discretion.

[5] This would be for her part-time position without counseling duties.
[6] Petitioner claims that Dr. Vaccaro was a "teaching staff member," and as such did not have tenure, but Respondent asserts he was solely an outside contractor.

The Board filed a Notice of Cross-Motion for Summary Decision on March 15, 2004 asserting that:

1. The NVRHS did not violate Petitioner's tenure and seniority rights by utilizing the services of Dr. Vaccaro;

2. Dr. Vaccaro is not a "non-tenured teaching staff member" and therefore his employment does not violate Petitioner's rights; and

3. Petitioner's remaining claims are without merit and must be dismissed.

A brief in Opposition to the Respondent's Motion for Summary Judgment was filed by the petitioner on March 25, 2004. Oral argument on the Summary Decision Motions was heard on May 6, 2004. The district filed a Supplemental Brief on the issue of the psychiatric examination on June 4, 2004. The petitioner filed a reply brief on this issue on June 18, 2004.

ISSUES

1. Whether the Board's abolishment of the petitioner's full-time position and assignment of her duties to a private vendor is a violation of her tenure and seniority rights, contrary to law and arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

2. Whether the reduction from a full to part-time position was arbitrary, capricious and done in bad faith.

3. Whether the reduction constitutes an abuse of discretion because the petitioner's psychiatric evaluation was negative.

DISCUSSION

1. Summary Decision

Under the New Jersey Uniform Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a case, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The Administrative Law Judge may make a ruling in favor of the motion, when the papers filed, along with any supporting affidavits, show that no genuine issue as to any material fact exists and that the moving party is entitled to a decision as a matter of law. Ibid.

The summary decision rule is essentially the same as the summary judgment rule under the New Jersey Rules of Court, which permits a party to move for summary judgment if:

> The pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.

The Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995), provided further guidance for the summary decision analysis, by holding that: "a court should deny a summary judgment motion only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a genuine issue of material fact challenged." A contested case can be summarily disposed of, where the undisputed material facts indicate that a particular disposition is required as a matter of law. In the Matter of Robros Recycling Corp., 226 N.J.Super. 343, 350 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 113 N.J. 638 (1988). A summary decision must be based on an examination of the totality of circumstances, mitigating and aggravating factors, adequate factual findings and conclusions of law. Ibid.

2. Reduction in Force

A local board of education has the authority to engage in a reduction of the work force, even where tenured positions are affected, if done for reasons of economy. Klinger v. Cranbury BOE, 190 N.J.Super. 354, 357 (App.Div. 1982), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277 (1983); Trigani v. Monmouth Beach BOE, EDU 8644-00 and 8645-00, Initial Decision, (Oct. 11, 2002), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search>, adopted, Comm'r (Dec. 2, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search>. Such decisions are subject to review to determine whether the position has been abolished or merely transferred in violation of the tenure statutes. Viemeister v. Prospect Park BOE, 5 N.J.Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949). In an unpublished opinion, the Appellate Division affirmed that the deciding tribunal (in that case the State Board) should determine whether the local Board's action is arbitrary or capricious in abridging the tenure rights of a teacher. Lingelbach v. Hopatcong BOE, A-4783-83, slip op. at 3 (N.J. App. Div. May 17,1985)[7]. The applicable statute controlling this issue, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, states:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 (emphasis added).]

[7] Petitioner refers to the State Board's decision for this case in its initial brief, which is located at 1984 S.L.D. 1955.

A local board of education has the authority to reduce its teaching staff so long as it "is genuinely for reasons of economy." Impey v. Shrewsbury BOE, 142 N.J. 388, 398 (1995) (citations omitted).

> The determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions. E.g., Klinger, supra, 190 N.J.Super. at 357... (concluding that a local school board may alter the full-time status of a tenured employee in order to restructure a department to meet financial constraints while continuing to provide identical services). Whether those services are eliminated, reduced or modified, however, may be a relevant factor in determining whether abolition of a position genuinely advances the goals of economy and efficiency and was undertaken in good faith. Cf. Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J.Super. 215, 218 ...(App. Div. 1949) (stating that the "substance" rather than the form of change controls and if position of "principal" was replaced with an identical position with a different title, it would not constitute a valid reduction in force) ...

If one looks purely at the dollars and cents factors, it is clear that the reduction in the petitioner's hours, the concomitant removal of her health and other benefits and the contracting out of counseling services to Dr. Vaccaro represented a savings of about $20,000 to the District. However, that is not the end of the investigation. It also must be determined whether the District acted in good faith, and whether it violated the law when it reduced the petitioner's hours and contracted part of the duties, that she previously performed, to Dr. Vaccaro.

While the District properly cited the Edison case for the proposition that a District can contract out certain services, it failed to recognize other parts of the opinion that have direct impact on this matter. In the Supplemental final decision the commissioner stated that:

> Like the ALJ, we find no evidence in the record that any staff members employed by the Board have been supplanted as a result of the Board's contract with UMDNJ. It is apparent from the record > that much of the intervention work in the more serious situations arising in the district was referred to outside agencies even prior to the time when the district entered into the UMDNJ contract....Further, there is no indication that the workloads of staff members in the district have been reduced or even significantly altered as a result of the contract.

None of these conditions exist in the case before me. Prior to the contract with Dr. Vaccaro, counseling services were being performed by Ms. Bristol. In addition, the workload of the petitioner, the only SAC counselor in the District, was significantly reduced and altered as a result of the Board's action.

In his decision, ALJ Metzger pointed out in Cochran v. Watchung Hills Regional High School Bd. Of Educ.,1985 D.L.D. 1878, that the State Board found that full-time CST positions were reduced to half-time slots by way of a RIF. The Board then ruled that the half-time positions were being supplemented with outside contractors, who were performing the services previously done by the CST. The district "simply reorganized and transferred functions to a less-expensive provider, which violated tenure rights and the requirements that core CST functions be carried out by school employees." Summarizing the cases in the field, Judge Metzger stated that:

> In each of these cases, work that had been done by tenured staff was contracted out to their detriment. The State Board's decision in each case measured the good faith of the district and whether the law required that the work be accomplished with school employees. Collectively, these administrative decisions stand on footings announced in Viemeister v. Board of Education of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super 215 (App. Div. 1949) There, the position of principal was eliminated, the petitioner's contract was terminated and a new position of "teaching principal" was created and filled with a staff member. The court found that the work of a principal continued and that the district had merely shifted titles around, which, if sustained, would seriously undermine tenure rights.

The present matter parallels the circumstances noted above. The work of the SAC continued, there was no showing that there were less students who needed services. Rather, the duties were split between two people, one of whom was tenured and previously held the full-time position. Therefore, the Board's actions were not done because of a valid reduction in the workload.

3. Good Faith/Bad Faith—Arbitrary and Capricious

The courts have held that the Districts have discretion in dealing with the management of the public schools.

> The School Law vests the management of the public school ... in the local boards of education, and unless they violate the law, or act in bad faith, the exercise of their discretion in the performance of the duties imposed upon them is not subject to interference or reversal. Kenney v. Montclair BOE, 1938 S.L.D. 647 (1935), aff'd., St. Bd. at 653 (emphasis added).

A board of education has broad discretionary authority and its actions are entitled to a presumption of lawfulness and good faith. Quinlan v. North Bergen BOE, 73 N.J.Super. 40, 46 (App. Div. 1962); see also Schinck v. Westwood BOE, 60 N.J.Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960). This presumption extends to a board's determination that, for reasons of economy, a tenured employee may be subject to a reduction in force. Jamison v. Morris Sch. Dist. BOE, 198 N.J.Super. 411, 415 (App. Div. 1985). Actions of a board of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness, as well as a presumption that such actions will be upheld by the Commissioner of Education, absent a showing of bad faith, illegal motive or a lack of rational basis. See Kopera v. West Orange BOE, 60 N.J.Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Bad faith has been explained as meaning improper or evil purpose or motive. Thompson v. Pleasantville BOE, 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 278, 282 (citation omitted).

While a District has the power and authority to reduce the work force, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, the courts have held that the Board's decisions are subject to review, to determine if the position was in fact abolished or merely transferred to another person in violation of the incumbent's tenure rights. See Viemister v. Prospect Park Bd. Of Ed., 5 N.J. Super, 215 (App. Div. 1947).

Petitioner has the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the abolition of the position was undertaken in bad faith or was arbitrary and capricious or was in any other fashion contrary to the dictates of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. Dearden v. Trenton BOE, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 321, 323; Wollman v. Trenton BOE, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 20, 22, aff'd, Comm'r at 27.

> [I]n order for an aggrieved party to prevail where there has been a reduction in force, it is necessary that he or she demonstrate that the decision is clearly improper, arbitrary and capricious and he will be [sic] generally not prevail in situations where there exists any reasonable justification for the reduction absent such proof of bad faith. See Klig v. Borough of Palisades BOE, 1975 S.L.D. 168, 173-174. In re Maywood Board of Education, supra.
> [Wollman, supra, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) at 24 (emphasis added).]

Both parties have characterized the others actions as a sham. The petitioner has pointed out that there was really no reduction in the work force, since Dr. Vaccaro simply took over 3/5 of Ms. Bristol's work load. The respondent, on their side, has asserted that the petitioner's refusal to submit to a full psychiatric examination and her misrepresentations to Dr. Fridman constituted a sham, which necessitated the Board's taking the action of reducing her hours and subcontracting out counseling sources. For the reasons discussed below, I FIND that the Board's decision to reduce Ms. Bristol's hours was clearly improper.

4. Certification of Substance Abuse Counselor

Both parties have spent a good deal of time briefing the issue of whether or not the person counseling students on alcohol and drug problems in the school must be a certified substance abuse counselor (SAC) and whether that person also has to be a certified teacher. The petitioner points to the fact that Dr. Vaccaro was neither a SAC nor a certified teacher, as proof that the District violated Ms. Bristol's tenure rights.

N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18b states that:

> The position of substance awareness coordinator shall be separate and distinct from any other employment position in the district, including but not limited to district guidance counselor, school social workers and school psychologists. The State Board of Education shall approve the education and experience criteria necessary for employment as a substance awareness coordinator. The criteria shall include a requirement for certification by the State Board of Examiners.

Further, N.J.S.A. 18A-18c sets forth the responsibilities of a SAC including, but not limited to, assisting in in-service training, serving as an information resource for substance abuse curriculum development and providing counseling services to pupils regarding substance abuse problems. N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.5 outlines the requirements for a SAC including a program of study beyond the bachelor's degree, which meets the approval of the New Jersey Department of Education and which includes seven topics of study having to do with drug and alcohol abuse and dependency in the school and family settings. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-3(a) mandates in service training in substance abuse education programs and N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-4 requires pre-service training of individuals intending to enter the teaching profession. Ms. Bristol asserted that these sections of the statute demonstrate that the legislature did not contemplate the farming out of these services to a subcontracting entity or the employment of a non-certificated individual who has not met the required standards enacted. In addition, the petitioner argued that the statute clearly envisioned that a SAC would perform the counseling services that Dr. Vaccaro is presently performing. Since Dr. Vaccaro is not a certified SAC, his performance of the counseling service is in violation of the law. Further, any attempt by the District to have Dr. Vaccaro receive an emergency certification is futile, since he does not have the requirements necessary for the position. The employment of an uncertified counselor and the emergency attempt to get the doctor certified are all proof of the District's bad faith.

The Board's position is that, while a SAC may perform the services of a drug and alcohol abuse counselor, this does not mean that the District cannot contract out this service to qualified provider, who is not a certified teacher or a certified SAC.

A. Statutory Requirements

The issue of whether the NVRHS must employ a SAC to perform the duties of counselor to students, who have drug or alcohol abuse problems, is a difficult matter to decide. It is clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18 uses the word "shall" in describing the duties that a SAC will perform, the certifications that he/she is required to possess and the services that the substance awareness coordinator should perform. The regulation that implements the statute, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.2 (a) states that:

> the position of SAC shall be separate and distinct from any other employment position in the school. The functions of the SAC "may" include: 5. Providing counseling and referral services to students regarding substance abuse and related problems;

Both parties point out that there is a conflict between the imperative language in the statute and the permissive language in the regulation. The petitioner argued that, when there is a conflict, the language of the statute must prevail. In addition, N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18B states that:

> The position of substance awareness coordinator shall be separate and distinct from any other employment position in the district, including but not limited to district guidance counselors, school social workers and school psychologists. The State Board of Education shall approve the education and experience criteria necessary for employment as a substance awareness coordinator. The criteria shall include a requirement for certification by the State Board of Examiners.

According to the petitioner, since the legislature believed that student substance abuse was a critical problem, it had set forth a number of criteria that had to be met by persons who would perform these duties. The tenor of the statutes made it clear that the requirements of the statute were mandatory, rather than permissive and that teacher certification was among the absolute requirements.

The Board's position was two-fold. In the first place, it argued that the regulation spoke in the permissive. The regulations followed the statute and were designed to implement it. Therefore, it was clear that the SAC may perform counseling services, but was not obligated to do so. Other persons could perform the services as well. Secondly, the law gave managerial discretion to the district to contract out services. See In Re IFPTE Local 195 v. State of New Jersey, 88 NJ 393 (1992). Citing Edison Township Education Association v Edison Township Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 592, aff'd 96 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 463 (App. Div. January 23, 1996) the respondent pointed out that the State Board decided that:

Counseling services provided by the CITs were not demonstrated by petitioner to require certification by the New Jersey Department of Education, or that such services:

> Could only be performed by certified teaching staff members directly employed by the district board... nor does the record support Petitioner's contention that certification of the substance awareness coordinator was required during a period relevant to this litigation in order to authorize individuals to perform the duties assigned to the CITS.
> Even if the duties of the CITs were of such a nature as to require that they now possess that endorsement in order to be authorized to perform these function, there is no requirement in education laws that substance abuse counselor must be directly employed by a board of education by district board.

Thus, since the Board has the right to subcontract out substance abuse counseling services, it has a right, irrespective of whether the person performing the work is required to have a certification. There is no legal requirement that SAC services only be provided by a SAC employed in the district. The fact that the District did not contract out the service to a properly certificated person did not diminish their right to subcontract, which was a separate issue. In such a case the remedy was not giving Ms. Bristol retroactive monetary relief.

As the respondent has pointed out, the purpose of the legislation providing for the SAC position was to strongly encourage districts to deal with the problems of substance abuse in the schools. For those districts who choose to employ SACs, there was a program of study that needed to be followed, which culminated in a certification. There was also a set of responsibilities that the SAC was to provide.

It is the court's opinion that the purpose of the legislation in this area was to make sure that people, who provided SAC services, would be properly qualified. Not just any teacher, school psychologist, nurse, etc. could act as a SAC. They needed to be properly trained. Since teachers need a certificate in order to perform their job, it logically followed that they would have to be certified. This does not mean, however, that SACs are the only people, who would be qualified to perform substance abuse counseling. If a person outside the school system was properly qualified to provide this type of counseling, then I do not believe the statute would prohibit their performing the service. Thus, under proper circumstances, a qualified professional could provide SAC counseling. It would appear that Dr. Vaccaro, as a psychologist with experience in counseling in this field, could provide this service.

B. Confidentiality

The petitioner also brought up the issue of confidentiality as proof that the legislature envisioned that a SAC would perform the services presently contracted to Dr. Vaccaro. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-7.1 discusses the limitations on the release of information of school-based and alcohol abuse counseling programs and subsection 2 provides penalties for violation of confidentiality. Ms. Bristol queried whether the District could legitimately subcontract the counseling services to an outside contractor and meet the requirements under the statute. The requirements of the statute include that the counselor be a certified SAC and a certified teacher. In sum, the petitioner asserted that the "comprehensive legislative scheme does not contemplate affording a local school district the prerogative to subcontract the interests of the students to private, non-certified vendors. Consequently, it must be concluded that only a certificated teaching staff member employed by the district may perform counseling services to students with substance abuse issues." Since Dr. Vaccaro is neither a SAC nor a certified teacher, he cannot perform the services that he is now performing. This is proof that the District's removal of a tenured teacher and the transfer of her duties to a non-tenured, non-certificated employee violated the tenure laws.

It is clear that counseling students with substance abuse problems involves delicate matters and issues of confidentiality. However, in the Edison Township Education Association v. Edison Township Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 592, aff'd 96 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 463 (App.Div. January 23, 1996), the court permitted the outsourcing of crisis intervention services, which also involved extremely confidential matters. Dr. Vacarro is a psychologist and is bound by ethical obligations of confidentiality. Therefore, I do not believe that the confidentially issue is determinative of the outcome of this matter.

5. Independent Contractor

The petitioner also questioned the status of Dr. Vaccaro as an independent contractor. The petitioner's initial brief questioned whether the counseling services could be contracted out. The reply brief drew a distinction between the cases that allowed contracting out of services to a separate entity, which then employed individuals, who performed the services for the board and contracting directly with an individual who performed services on a per diem basis. The petitioner argued that, because the Board continued to control the incidents of employment, including the hiring, wages, benefits, work schedule and hours of work of Dr. Vaccaro, the arrangement was really not that of a subcontractor, but rather an employee. See Burlington County Board of Special Services, HE No 97-13, 23 NJPER 78, 84 ¶28049 1996; aff'd PERC No. 98-62, 24 NJPER 2 ¶ 29001 1997. The District could not simply transfer some of the duties of a full-time tenured Student Assistance Counselor to a part-time untenured employee without running afoul of Ms. Bristol's tenure rights. See Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. Of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1947). Consequently, the actions of the District constituted a sham. There was no indication that there was less of a need for the services of a SAC. Work was not eliminated, it was merely transferred to a non-certificated private vendor.

The District, for its part, has argued that, while N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-18(c) states that a SAC shall "provide counseling services to pupils regarding substance abuse problems" there is nothing in the statute, administrative code or case law, which says that only persons working under a SAC endorsement are permitted to provide counseling services to students. This position is borne out by the fact that N.J.A.C. 6A:9-13.2 states that: "the functions of the SAC may include...providing counseling and referral services to students regarding substance abuse or later problems" Thus, a District can determine whether it wishes to use the services of a SAC or employee a person qualified to conduct counseling either as an employee or outside contractor. Further, the District can decide whether it wishes to employ a full or part-time person to perform substance abuse counseling to students. See Impey v. Shrewsbury Board of Education, 142 N.J. 388, 400 (1995), in which the State Supreme Court upheld the legal authority of a board of education to subcontract speech correction services and abolish the in-district position for reasons of economy, without violating the tenure rights of the teacher who held that position.

The District drew a distinction between the Board's right to decide to subcontract a service, without violating the petitioner's tenure rights, and the question of whether Dr. Vaccaro could provide counseling services. Relying on Edison Township Education Association v. Edison Township Board of Education, Supra, the District pointed out that there was no provision in the education laws, which would preclude a Board from contracting for the services in question, whether or not the individual providing the service was required to possess certification. Thus, the fact that Dr. Vaccaro was not a SAC or a certified teacher had no bearing on the District's right to contract out counseling services without running afoul of the tenure laws. Nor did Dr. Vaccaro's lack of certification translate to a right of Ms. Bristol to obtain retroactive monetary relief.

It is my belief that the District's position is a valid one, as far as the right to contract out counseling services. Clearly, the legislature's creation of the SAC position was motivated by the need to have trained staff minister to the needs of students who had substance abuse problems. It could be ineffective, if not dangerous, for an untrained teacher or school psychologist to be counseling student's who were addicted. However, I do not think that the legislature meant that only SACs could perform this function. Certainly, properly trained psychologists, who had experience in substance abuse, would be qualified to deal with these students. Therefore, the District could engage the services of a qualified independent contractor to perform counseling services.

6. Employee v. Independent Contractor

The petitioner's argument that her tenure rights were violated by the placement of a non-tenured teacher in her position is not applicable to this case. Dr. Vaccaro is not an untenured teacher; it is acknowledged that he is not a teacher at all. Therefore, he cannot be considered a non-tenured teaching staff. The petitioner's argument that the relationship between the District and Dr. Vaccaro was really one of employee-employer, rather than contracting district and independent contractor, is more persuasive. The cases, which allowed for services to be performed by independent contractors, involved situations in which the independent contractor was an entity that then employed individuals to perform services for the district. They did not involve direct contracting between the Board and an individual. See South Amboy Education Association v. Board of Education of South Amboy, 1998 S.D.D., decided October 5, 1998; Trigani et al. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Monmouth Beach et al., 2002 S.L.D. (decided December 2, 2002); Miller v. Burlington Educational Services Unit, 1999 S.L.D. (decided January 19, 1999) and Neptune Township Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Neptune, 2000 S.L.D. (decided May 22, 2000). In this case, the relationship more closely resembles than of an employer—employee, than contracting unit—contractor. This is evidenced by the fact that there was a direct one to one relationship between the District and Dr. Vaccaro, which included the respondent dictating the place and time when services would be provided and direct payment to the counselor. In addition, it is noteworthy that for the 2002-2003 school year, Dr. Vaccaro received a W-2 and was listed as an employee. While his duties and hours remained the same for the 2003-2004 school year, he was listed as an independent contractor for purposes of the Board's resolution and financial reporting. The District argued that Dr. Vaccaro was listed as an employee, for the 2002-2003 school year, because it was an emergent situation, caused by Ms. Bristol's hospitalization and her refusal to be seen by a psychiatrist. This argument does not make sense. Whatever the name of the employment relationship denoted in the Board's resolution, the arrangement more clearly resembled an employer-employee relationship.

7. Psychiatric Examination

It was the District's position that they were forced to make the arrangements with Dr. Vaccaro and reduce Ms. Bristol's hours, because of the actions of the petitioner. Ms. Bristol appeared to have a nervous breakdown and to be hospitalized. After two weeks, she reappeared at the school. Initially, she agreed to be examined by a psychiatrist, but then her lawyer spent four months wrestling with the board over what psychiatrist would examine the petitioner. When a psychiatric examination was finally arranged, the petitioner refused to release her medical records to the doctor. The examination results were therefore flawed, because the doctor did not have the benefit of Ms. Bristol's medical records and because the petitioner was not truthful during the examination process. As a result, according to the respondent, the Board was forced to make emergency arrangements to service the students in the District. They could not find a SAC to replace the petitioner, because the candidates did not want a temporary position. The replacement, Dr. Vaccaro, was well trained, effective with the students (in fact better than Ms. Bristol) and willing to work for an amount that produced a savings to the District. Further, the District had no alternative but to remove the petitioner from contact with students, until Ms. Bristol got a clean bill of health. Since the students that the petitioner counseled were high risk, the respondent had to be extremely careful not to expose itself to liability, which might result from students' contact with a mentally unstable counselor. The District asserted that the only bad faith was that demonstrated by the petitioner, in refusing to cooperate in the examination process.

It is clear that the respondent was in a difficult position. The students that Ms. Bristol worked with were particularly vulnerable and precautions obviously had to be taken to protect their mental health. It is the method utilized by the District that is open to question. The time taken to arrange the psychiatric evaluation was a problem. It appears that an inordinate amount of time was taken finding a psychiatrist acceptable to both sides. Certainly, the District had the right to have Ms. Bristol examined before she returned to work. In addition, despite the petitioner's argument to the contrary, I believe that the respondent had a right to request that the examining doctor have certain medical and psychiatric information available to him, before he rendered an opinion. On the other hand, the petitioner had a right to keep portions of her medical and psychological records, which did not relate to her present situation, confidential. The District's request for records was, I believe, overly broad[8]. On December 3, 2002, shortly after the petitioner attempted to return to school, Ms. Bristol's attorney wrote to the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Furman, and made it clear that she would resist any attempts to release her medical records in total. See

[8] At oral argument I asked the respondent to submit any caselaw that that would support their position that an independent medical examination included access by the examiner to medical records of the patient. After reviewing the letter briefs of the respondent and the petitioner, I find that there is no controlling caselaw on this issue.

Exhibit H of Sheldon Pincus' Certification. Her attorney did suggest that Ms. Bristol's doctor would respond to written questions, which were reasonably related to the issues at hand.[9] It is my opinion, that the petitioner's position of only answering questions that they deemed appropriate was overly narrow. There was no explanation as to why the District did not attempt to negotiate this position further.[10] On February 24, 2003, the petitioner's attorney sent a letter to the District's attorney in which he outlined the conditions surrounding the choosing of a psychiatrist for the examination. In addition, he stated that the psychiatric report would only deal with whether Ms. Bristol "is suffering from a significant deviation from normal psychiatric health to preclude her serving as a Student Assistance Counselor." See Exhibit J of Sheldon Pincus' Certification. The response from the attorney for the District, See Exhibit K of Sheldon Pincus' Certification, agreed to the procedure for choosing a psychiatrist and stated that "the scope and character of the examination will be governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 through 18A:16-5." After Dr. Fridman was chosen by the parties to conduct the examination, he sent a letter dated March 25, 2003 outlining the parameters for the examination. In the letter he asked to be provided with any previous psychiatric reports. (See P-1). In response to this letter, Mr. Pincus sent a letter dated April 2, 2003 (See P-2) in which he stated:

> You are respectfully advised that Ms. Bristol will not consent to your speaking to any medical practitioners or psychiatrists that she is seeing or may have seen. Nor will we consent to your having access to any of her medical records.
> The statute under which the Board operated contemplates your making independent assessment of her mental state; specifically, to determine whether she is presently evidencing significant deviation from normal mental health to preclude her from fulfilling the duties of her position. These kinds of assessments are routinely done without a wholesale waiver of rights to privacy. The statute neither contemplates it nor will we consent to it. Consequently, in the [9] During oral argument Mr. Pincus made it clear that the decision, as to whether a question was reasonably related to the issues at hand, would be his to make.

[10] The District's present counsel was not the attorney of record at the time the negotiations, regarding the psychiatric examination, was taking place.

> event you feel unable to conduct this independent assessment, kindly advise the parties immediately.

The District responded through its attorney at the time, Cherie L. Adams, to Dr. Fridman's and Mr. Pincus' letters, that:

> Although it is true that the statute does not specifically reference prior medical records, there is case law supporting the release of records where necessary to perform a meaningful examination. Accordingly, in the event that you are unable to complete a psychiatric assessment without this information, please advise me as soon as possible so the Board may determine an appropriate course of action with respect to the medical records issue. See P-3.

Dr. Fridman did not respond to either letter and moved forward with the examination.

When the respondent's attorney was asked during oral argument why they did not press the issue of getting medical records and/or reports, he said that he assumed that the Board was hoping that the examination would resolve the issue and that Dr. Fridman would give the petitioner a clean bill of health. It was the respondent's position that the report that Dr. Fridman generated still left open questions about the petitioner's mental health. The petitioner, on the other hand, asserted that it was their understanding that the decision of Dr. Fridman would be binding on all parties. The psychiatrist said that Ms. Bristol was psychologically fit to return to work and therefore should have been allowed to resume her duties. The Board's position, that they could not entrust vulnerable students to a counselor, who seemed to have psychiatric issues of her own, is a valid concern. As the respondent pointed out, the petitioner has not, to this day, explained what happened to her in November 2002. Except for the first time she met with the principal, upon her return in December 2002, she has steadfastly refused to release her medical records or reports. While I believe that Ms. Bristol had privacy rights, given the nature of her job, I think that the psychiatrist, who ultimately examined Ms. Bristol, should have had access, at a minimum, to the psychiatric records and reports relating to the November 2002 episode. On the other hand, the Board knew definitively on April 2, 2003 that the petitioner would not release the records to Dr. Fridman.[11] Yet they choose to go forward with the examination. The Board's present attorney was not the attorney of record, while the negotiations, regarding the choosing of the psychiatrist and his access to Ms. Bristol's records, was going on. He could only conjecture that the Board was hoping that the results of the psychiatric exam would resolve the issue and the doctor would give Ms. Bristol an unqualified bill of health. When the doctor's report stated he had found no reason, based on the examination, why she could not resume her duties, with the caveat that Dr. Fridman still would have liked to review the petitioner's psychiatric records, the Board believed that it was placed in the same position they had been in prior. During oral argument, I asked the District's attorney why they had not brought an action to compel release of medical/psychiatric records as part of the examination, instead of agreeing to an examination, without the documentation that they deemed critical. He stated that he supposed they could have done it. However, it would have taken a long time to get the matter through the system and the petitioner would have continued to receive her salary. This would have been extremely costly.

It is clear that the respondent knew the parameters of the psychiatric examination before it was conducted. If they did not wish to proceed under those circumstances, then they should not have agreed to the examination.

8. Tenure Violation

When asked by the court, why the District had not directly brought tenure charges against the petitioner, since they believed that she was unfit to perform her duties, the Board's attorney stated that NVRHS would have had trouble proving tenure charges, without the psychiatric records that the petitioner refused to release. In addition, he did not know if they would have been successful in obtaining the records; and it would have been a long, drawn out and costly procedure. Further, he believed that the whole situation was caused by the actions of the petitioner and the district was faced with the problem of finding someone to fill the petitioner's shoes. He characterized the District as the good guys who, instead of terminating the petitioner entirely, offered her a part-time position away from contact with the students. While I sympathize with the fact that the revocation of tenure could prove costly to the taxpayers in the Northern Valley Regional District and I do not entirely agree with the petitioner's refusal to release any portion of her psychiatric records or reports, the tenure laws in New Jersey are extensive and specific. The Board's attorney has stated that the tenure laws are protectionist legislation promulgated as the result of pressure from the powerful teacher's union. This may be the case, nonetheless, tenure rights are statutorily mandated in the state and must be followed.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 states that :

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation...Except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this sub article, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person,

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2(a) states that:

> Every board of education may require its employees...to undergo a physical examination. The board may require individual psychiatric or physical examinations of any employee, whenever, in the judgment of the board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health.

N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4 states that:

> If the result of any such examination indicates mental abnormality...the employee shall be ineligible for further service until proof of recovery, satisfactory to the board, is furnished, but if the employee is under contract or has tenure, he may be granted sick leave with compensation as provided by law and shall, upon satisfactory recovery...be reemployed with the same tenure as he possessed at the time his services were discontinued, if he has tenure, unless his absence shall exceed a period of two years.

Based on the statutes cited above, it is clear that the District had a course of action that it should have followed. If a question existed as to the petitioner's fitness to perform all the duties of a SAC, then they should have brought tenure charges against her under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As part of the action, they could have moved to compel the release of all or part of the petitioner's medical/psychiatric records. While it is not clear whether the District would have been entitled to these records, the issue would have been presented to the Commissioner of Education for his determination. In the interim, the District could have determined whether they wished to grant sick leave to Ms. Bristol under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4. Instead, the Board chose on April 28, 2003, to reduce the petitioner's position to 2/5th, eliminate her benefits and transfer her counseling duties to Dr. Vaccaro. The District has made it clear that the reason for this action was not economy (even though the result might have been more economical), but rather an attempt to deal with the continuing problem of Ms. Bristol's perceived incapacity. In effect, the District attempted to do an end run around the tenure laws by offering Ms. Bristol a part-time position and delegating her counseling duties to Dr. Vaccaro. This was not the proper procedure to be followed and ran afoul of the tenure laws.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based on the briefs and certifications submitted, the exhibits presented and oral argument of counsel, I CONCLUDE that there is no issue of material fact and therefore, the matter is ripe for Summary Decision.

I further CONCLUDE that the respondent District violated the tenure and seniority rights of the petitioner by reducing her job to a 2/5^{ths} position and transferring her counseling duties, without following the proper procedure of bringing a tenure action against her, based on her incapacity to perform her duties.

In addition I CONCLUDE that the reduction of the petitioner's position was done in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and with improper motive.

In addition, I CONCLUDE that the District abused its discretion under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 et seq.

Therefore, I ORDER that the respondent re-instate the petitioner to the full-time position of Substance Awareness Coordinator together with back pay, benefits and seniority.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this emergent matter, which included the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) denying emergent relief, has been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner adopts the August 16, 2004 Order Denying Emergent Relief as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioner has not satisfied the standards necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Most notably, he has not demonstrated a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits of his underlying claim.

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. This matter is being returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF CRIMINAL HISTORY, AND MONMOUTH COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, Respondents.

Marcie L. Mackolin, Esq., for petitioner (Chamlin, Rosen, Uliano & Witherington, attorneys)

Jason M. Ross, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Department of Education (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, Attorney)

Sanford D. Brown, Esq., for respondent Monmouth County Vocational School District (Brown & Connelly, attorneys)

BEFORE JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ:

Petitioner John Caucino is a certified teacher of general business studies employed by Monmouth County Vocational School District Board of Education. On June 11, 2004, the New Jersey Department of Education Criminal History Review Unit issued written notice to Mr. Caucino that he is permanently disqualified from employment in any position with a school or other educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, because of his 1995 federal felony conviction for bank fraud under 18 U.S.C.A. §1344. Petitioner challenges this action, contending that the federal offense to which he pled guilty is not one of the criminal convictions that requires permanent disqualification under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a), petitioner has moved for emergent relief, seeking to stay the Monmouth County Vocational School District Board of Education from acting to terminate him from his teacher position prior to his appeal being heard.

Oral argument on the emergent relief application was heard on August 12, 2004, at the Office of Administrative Law in Mercerville, New Jersey. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) provides that for emergent relief to be granted, the applicant must satisfy the following standards under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

(1) The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

(2) The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

(3) The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

(4) When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

For purposes of this proceeding, the following facts are undisputed. Petitioner is employed as a teacher in the Monmouth County Vocational School District in Freehold, New Jersey. Prior to his career as a teacher, petitioner worked for Ocean Bay Mortgage Company in Toms River, New Jersey. Between 1985 and 1989, petitioner was involved with other employees in a plan where bank documents were falsified. He pled guilty to 18 U.S.C.A. §1344, Bank Fraud, in 1995 and was sentenced in 1999. U.S. Probation Officer Kenneth Manuel wrote to Ida Graham, Director of the Office of Licensing and Credentials, Department of Education in October 1999 to advise of petitioner's conviction and sentencing. Petitioner was ordered to pay restitution of $15,000 to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and to serve a five year term of probation. The letter advised that petitioner had received the benefit of $173,250 in funds of the Action Savings Bank to which he was not entitled. The letter further advised of petitioner's employment as a teacher with the Monmouth County Vocational School District, and that he was complying with all areas of his conditions of employment. No action was taken against petitioner's teaching position at that time.

A fingerprint search prompted issuance of the Department's permanent disqualification notice of June 11, 2004. By his counsel, petitioner responded by letter of June 21, 2004, to assert that the federal crime to which he pled guilty is not enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and is therefore not a disqualifying event. It was requested that the matter be reviewed in light of the differing interpretations of the applicable statute. Criminal History Review Manager Carl Carabelli replied by letter of June 30, 2004, that the statute is clear in its preclusion and suggesting that if petitioner is challenging the disqualification based on a legal issue, review of the determination could be sought by filing a formal appeal with the Commissioner of Education. A Petition of Appeal was filed on July 14, 2004, and an Amended Petition of Appeal was filed on July 19, 2004.

Respondent school district has been advised by the Office of Criminal History Review that it had no option but to immediately terminate petitioner from his employment. Petitioner's counsel has been so advised by counsel for respondent school district. Counsel was further informed that the school district would act to terminate petitioner at the school board's public meeting on August 17, 2004, if his appeal were not successful by that time.

It is the immediacy of respondent school district's action to terminate that has prompted the petition for emergent relief. Petitioner contends that the school district will likely act promptly to fill petitioner's position with another employee, so even if petitioner is eventually exonerated, it is unlikely that his position will still be open for him. Further, his teaching field is narrow and it is also unlikely that he could readily find another such teaching position. These are the circumstance that petitioner contends will create irreparable harm. The school district could bear the inconvenience of a stay while the question of statutory interpretation is resolved with less detriment than the burden petitioner will suffer if emergent relief is not granted.

In regard to the question of statutory interpretation, petitioner contends that his conviction for federal bank fraud is not a disqualifying conviction within the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. He asserts that it is not an enumerated offense under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)2, and further asserts that it is not a disqualifying conviction within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)3, which provides that such a conviction exists if the individual has at any time been convicted under the laws of this State or under any similar statutes of the United States or any other state for a substantially equivalent crime or other offense. According to petitioner there is no corresponding New Jersey statute listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 that is substantially equivalent to the federal statute to which he pled guilty. More particularly, petitioner argues that theft by deception, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4, which is a disqualifier as a third degree crime under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)2, involves deceiving individuals and is not substantially similar to federal bank fraud under 18 U.S.C.A. §1344, which involves only financial institutions. On this statutory interpretation, petitioner rests his argument that he has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his claim.

Respondent school district does not take a position on whether petitioner has satisfied the Crowe standards. It understands the viewpoints of petitioner and the Department of Education and its interest is to abide by the applicable statutes and regulations governing petitioner's situation. The district acknowledges that the Department has directed that petitioner be terminated because of his permanent disqualification. If the Department's position is correct, the school board will act to terminate petitioner at its public meeting. However, the district is willing to accept petitioner being in an unpaid leave status pending plenary resolution of this matter, if all parties agreed or if so directed. Finally, respondent district does not now concede that petitioner would be entitled to a position or back pay if ultimately exonerated.

Respondent Department contends that petitioner has not demonstrated that he is entitled to emergent relief because he fails to satisfy three of the four Crowe standards. First, petitioner has not established that he will suffer irreparable harm. While harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages, it is lost income arising from disqualification that is petitioner's primary complaint. Counsel for the Department asserted that if petitioner were to ultimately prevail on the merits, the Commissioner would direct respondent school district to reinstate him. Thus, the harm petitioner faces is not without adequate remedy.

Second, petitioner has failed to demonstrate that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, he will suffer greater harm than the Department if the emergent relief is not granted. The Department asserts that petitioner's position fails to take into account the issues of the public interest and the Department's obligation to protect students and their educational programs. Petitioner's federal bank fraud conviction is incompatible with the principle that teachers serve as role models for their students.

Finally, the Department contends that petitioner has not made a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of success on the merits of his underlying claim. I agree that petitioner has failed to meet this standard for granting emergency relief, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). This is so because it appears at this point in the proceeding that petitioner's conviction under the federal bank fraud statute, 18 U.S.C.A. §1344, is a disqualifying conviction within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)3. That section follows the list of enumerated disqualifying convictions under New Jersey law and provides in part that a disqualifying conviction also exists if the individual has at any time been convicted under any similar statutes of the United States for a substantially equivalent crime or other offense. In other words, it appears that petitioner has been convicted under a statute of the United States that is similar to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4, for a crime substantially equivalent to theft by deception.

18 U.S.C.A. §1344 states:

> Whoever knowingly executes or attempts to execute a scheme or artifice-> (1) to defraud a financial institution; or
> (2) to obtain any of the moneys, funds, credits, assets, securities, or other property owned by or under the custody or control of a financial institution, by means of false or fraudulent pretenses, representations, or promises; > shall be fined not more than $1,000,000 or imprisoned not more than 30 days, or both.

N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4 states:

> A person is guilty of theft if he purposely obtains the property of another by deception.
> A person deceives if he purposely:
> a. Creates or reinforces a false impression, including false impressions as to law, value, intention or other state of mind, and including, but not limited to, a false impression that the person is soliciting or collecting funds for a charitable purpose, but deception as to a > person's intention to perform a promise shall not be inferred from the fact alone that he did not subsequently perform the promise;

> b. Prevents another from acquiring information which would affect his judgment of a transaction; or > c. Fails to correct a false impression which the deceiver previously created or reinforced, or which the deceived knows to be influencing another to whom he stands in a fiduciary relationship.

Both statutes have similar language to describe the prohibited conduct. Both involve obtaining the property of another by means of false pretenses or impressions. True, N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4 does not specifically refer to financial institutions. However, a defendant who fraudulently induced lenders to transfer money to him in the form of loans based on the false impressions which he purposefully created has been held to have committed theft by deception as set forth in N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4. State v. Rogers, 230 N.J. Super. 593, 601 (App. Div. 1989), certif. denied, 117 N.J. 54 (1989). The misconduct described in Rogers is strikingly similar to the federal crime petitioner committed, as both involved falsification of bank documents to obtain loans and misrepresentations regarding the equity in real properties. Further, the minimum amount involved in petitioner's crime is represented by the $15,000 restitution he was required to pay. This places his offense in the category of a third degree theft pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-2, which states that theft constitutes a crime of the third degree if the amount involved exceeds $500 but is less than $75,000.

Based upon the foregoing discussion, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not established a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his underlying claim. Thus, petitioner has failed to meet all of the standards that would entitle him to the emergent relief that he seeks, and his petition for interim relief or a stay is DENIED. Petitioner's amended petition of appeal to challenge his disqualification may proceed to plenary resolution.

I so ORDER.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were untimely, having been dated and filed August 3, 2004 in response to an Initial Decision mailed to the parties on July 19, 2004, and, therefore, these and the Board's reply exceptions were not considered herein.[1]

Upon his full and independent review of the record,[2] the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board has established, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct by virtue of his engaging in a sexual relationship with L.K., a sixteen-year-old eleventh grade student at the Board's Nottingham High School, and that respondent's removal from his tenured teaching position is the only appropriate penalty.

In so determining, the Commissioner has given full consideration to all evidentiary proofs which comprise the record and recognized that of particular importance was the ALJ's assessment of the credibility of the witnesses. In this regard, the Commissioner is mindful that the ALJ's credibility determinations are entitled to deference. "The reason for this rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1989)." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 549, 550. Indeed, with the 2001 amendment to the Administrative Procedure Act (P.L. 2001, c. 5, §4), the Commissioner "may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record." (N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)) The Commissioner's considered review of the record before him provides no basis whatsoever for alteration of the ALJ's determinations.

[1] It is noted that at no time prior to the expiration of the time period for the filing of exceptions prescribed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 did counsel for respondent seek an extension of time within which to file exceptions in this matter.

[2] The record contains transcripts of the hearing conducted on November 20 and December 5, 2003, January 29, April 7, April 8, April 16, April 29, May 3, May 4, May 5, May 6 and May 7, 2004.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly stated therein.[3] It is hereby directed that Lewis Shinkle be dismissed from his teaching position with the School District of Hamilton Township as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action, as that body deems appropriate, against respondent's certificate.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF GLASSBORO, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have exceptions filed by the Board of Education (Board) and the reply filed by petitioner. Prior to expiration of the statutory due date for agency review of the Initial Decision, the Commissioner requested and received an extension of the time within which to issue a decision in this matter.

In its exceptions, the Board contends that there is no support in the record for two of the Initial Decision's key factual findings. According to the Board, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in stating that the Board's previously operative Displaced Homemakers program was approved for the 1996-97 school year, since the record shows that the program for which the Board voted to accept funding for 1996-97 was not "Displaced Homemakers" but "New Beginnings," a different program which did not require its Project Coordinator to hold a teaching certificate. The ALJ further erred, the Board opines, in finding that, from the time of her appointment as coordinator for the New Beginnings program, petitioner remained in similar positions "in adult education" until her termination in February 2003, since, in fact, petitioner was never employed in "adult basic education" as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:30-2.1 but rather in occupational programs of a type that did not require certification pursuant to Anthony Polo v. Board of Education of the Vocational Schools of the County of Bergen, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 230, aff'd in relevant part 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 459. In its legal conclusions, the Board contends, the Initial Decision errs in relying on the Board's purported endowment of petitioner with the emoluments of tenure, when, in fact, the Board's actions can be of no import if petitioner did not serve the requisite time in tenure-eligible positions so as to meet the requirements of statute. (Board's Exceptions at 1-3)

In reply, petitioner reiterates that the coordinator position in which she served remained essentially the same throughout the period in question, as did the nature and purpose of the underlying program, regardless of what it may have been named or what changes in specific course content it may have undergone as it evolved over the years. Moreover, according to petitioner, the record is clear that she did not engage in, nor oversee, the type of limited occupational training for which no certificate is required; instead, she coordinated a comprehensive program involving "a whole host of components in addition to job training, including intake, initial assessment, workshops, life skills, remedial education, computer literacy, support groups, mechanical skills training, mentoring and placement," as well as "self-esteem, nontraditional career exploration, communication skills, technical math and study skills, career assessment, basic aptitude and/or basic skills testing." Finally, petitioner notes that the ALJ did not conclude she was tenured based upon the Board's treatment of her, but rather upon her having satisfied the requirements of statute; the ALJ merely offers the Board's actions as a further indication of the obviousness of petitioner's tenure status. (Petitioner's Reply at 2-6, quotation at 4)

Upon careful and independent review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner long ago attained tenure in the position of teacher. From the time of her part-time employment on February 1, 1992 as Special Populations Coordinator, notwithstanding title changes and some ambiguity with regard to the boundaries of her concurrent part-time assignments once she became employed full-time as a result of additionally being named Coordinator for the Displaced Homemakers Program in September 1993, petitioner served continuously through at least the 1996-97 school year, and arguably for some time thereafter, in positions whose duties required basic educational certification, which she at all times held by virtue of her instructional certificate.

As Special Populations Coordinator, a position for which the need for certification was expressly recognized by the Board in its advertisement for the position (Exhibit D-GBOE 1147), and which petitioner held exclusively from February through June 1992 and for the entire 1992-93 school year, and again as part of her cumulative full-time employment at least through the 1995-96 school year (Exhibit A-Stipulation No. 5; Exhibit D-GBOE 0370-72), petitioner oversaw the Board's Job Training Partnership Act (JPTA) programs for at-risk students (Exhibit D-GBOE 0330-0331, 0332, 0348-49 and 0351 pertaining to 1993-94; GBOE 0354-55 and 0370-71 pertaining to Summer 1994 and 1994-95) and played an integral role in the district's Individual Career and Academic Plan program (Exhibit D-GBOE 0333-34 pertaining to 1993-94; GBOE 0382 and 1073-74 pertaining to 1995-96), both serving the district's K-12 student population. In the position of Coordinator for the Displaced Homemakers Program and its successors,[1] held from the 1993-94 school year onward, petitioner supervised all activities and staff (Exhibit E-PET 006018, 006038 and 006044 pertaining to 1993-94; Exhibit D-GBOE 0268 pertaining to 1996-97) of a comprehensive project which the record shows to have encompassed, at least through the 1996-97 school year,[2] career assessment, career/academic/personal counseling, aptitude testing, basic skills instruction (ABE, ESL, GED[3]) as well as assessment and instruction in communications, computer literacy and math and study skills (Exhibit D-GBOE 0335, 0347 and Exhibit E-PET 006043 pertaining to 1993-94; Exhibit D-GBOE 0355, 0356-57 and 0371 pertaining to 1994-95; Exhibit D-GBOE 0389-90 pertaining to 1995-96; and Exhibit D-GBOE 0243 pertaining to 1996-97) and targeted educational services for children of clients (Exhibit E-PET 006053-54, pertaining to 1993-94). In that same capacity, petitioner was directly responsible, among other duties, to deliver direct training and counseling services to students and their children (Exhibit E-PET 006044 pertaining to 1993-94; Exhibit D-

1 The documentary record amply demonstrates petitioner's contention that, as found by the ALJ, the New Beginnings program, and later the Road to Success program, were direct continuations of the Displaced Homemakers program. It further demonstrates that through at least the 1995-96 school year, neither the nature of the program nor the duties of the Project Coordinator changed substantially as the program evolved in response to shifting need, State policy and funding sources. Beginning in 1996-97 and continuing thereafter, the record suggests that, as the program began to focus increasingly, and ultimately exclusively, on enabling participants to obtain a commercial driver's license, the elements of the coordinator position requiring educational certification progressively diminished. Nonetheless, even assuming, arguendo, that the Road to Success Coordinator position eventually reached a point where educational certification was no longer required—as the record suggests may have been the case by 1999-2000—petitioner had by that time achieved tenure.

2 See Note 1 above. The Board's position that no certification was required for the 1996-97 New Beginnings Program Coordinator position is belied by the very document it cites as evidence of the ALJ's error in reaching the contrary conclusion. That document, the program management summary of the district's 1996-97 grant application, lists "certified social worker" as petitioner's basic qualification (albeit that she is erroneously identified as a social worker rather than a teacher), in contrast to the "licensed social worker" qualification listed for a subordinate with less comprehensive responsibilities. (Board's Exceptions at 2; Exhibit D-GBOE 0268, emphasis supplied)

3 Adult Basic Education, English as a Second Language, General Equivalency Diploma.

GBOE 0246 pertaining to 1996-97), conduct individual assessment interviews and review vocational and academic assessment test results (Exhibit D-GBOE 0250, 0252 pertaining to 1996-97), develop career and educational training plans based on student assessments (Exhibit E-PET 006046-48, 006052 pertaining to 1993-94; Exhibit D-GBOE 0252, 0256, 0260 pertaining to 1996-97), identify and arrange for student externships and mentors (Exhibit E-PET 006049-50 pertaining to 1993-94; Exhibit D-GBOE 0262 pertaining to 1996-97), and conduct nontraditional career orientation (Exhibit D-GBOE 0266 pertaining to 1996-97). These are duties that fall squarely within the scope envisioned by State Board regulations requiring certification for persons who coordinate or advise students regarding adult basic education and vocational-technical education, including postsecondary education for special populations such as displaced homemakers. N.J.A.C. 6:30-2.1 et seq., N.J.A.C. 6:30-3.1 et seq.; N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.1 et seq., especially 3.12(a)4iii (now incorporated into N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1 et seq.) That the programs coordinated by petitioner were multi-dimensional and her duties project-specific alters neither the nature of those duties nor the requirement that she be certified in order to perform them.

Under these circumstances, then, where the record shows petitioner to have been employed, for part of the 1992-93 school year, the entire 1992-93, 1994-95, 1995-96 and 1996-97 school years, and arguably for at least some time thereafter, in positions requiring basic educational certification, petitioner has unequivocally met the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 for the acquisition of tenure in the position of teacher, notwithstanding that the Board has never employed her as a conventional classroom instructor.[4] Her employment, therefore, could not be terminated while a position existed within the scope of her instructional certificate, that is, while a position requiring instructional certification with endorsement in music was held by a nontenured teaching staff member, or while a position requiring instructional certification with no specific endorsement was held by a nontenured or less senior teaching staff member.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL, as clarified herein, is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is directed to reinstate petitioner to a position within the scope of her instructional certificate, with back pay and emoluments subject to mitigation, or, if no such position is presently available, to place petitioner on a preferred eligibility list with mitigated back pay and emoluments for any period during which a position to which she was entitled was held by a nontenured or less senior teaching staff member.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner, who did not appear for the hearing in this matter, has failed to carry his burden of proof that his nephew was entitled to a free education in the Clifton School District. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $7,511.60 for the 178 days of J.B.'s ineligible attendance in school in the Clifton School District between September 8, 2003 and June 17, 2004.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Anthony D'Elia, Esq., for respondent
(Chasen, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 27, 2004 Decided: July 27, 2004

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On or about September 12, 2003, petitioner, H.K., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, challenging respondent's residency determination in regard to his nephew, J.B. On September 22, 2003, respondent filed its answer seeking dismissal of the petition and counterclaiming for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. On October 16, 2003, the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

This matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on November 12, 2003, and a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for December 10, 2003. Since H.K. could not be reached for the telephone conference, despite a message being left on his telephone, the matter was scheduled for a hearing on March 22, 2004 at the OAL. Notice of the time and place of the hearing were sent to H.K. at the address listed as his on the court records. On March 22, 2004, no appearance was made by or on behalf of H.K.

With respect to the counterclaim by respondent for tuition owed by H.K., counsel for respondent provided the affidavit of Karen Perkins, Business Administrator and Board Secretary for respondent on June 30, 2004. The affidavit was sent to H.K. by certified and regular mail by counsel for respondent. H.K. has not filed a response or objection to it.

Perkins' affidavit (R-1) indicates in relevant part that as Business Administrator, she is responsible for providing annual reports to the New Jersey Department of Education.[1] She had been requested as part of respondent's request for tuition in this matter to review the business records utilized by her office to compute the annual per pupil costs for the local school district. Her affidavit indicates that J.B. was enrolled in respondent's school district from September 8, 2003 to June 17, 2004. Since the per pupil cost at Clifton High School is $42.20 per day, she computed the cost for J.B.'s attendance of 178 days to be $7,511.60.

[1] It is to be noted that although the affidavit provided appears to be lacking a portion of paragraph 3, as well as paragraph 4, it sufficiently sets forth the tuition calculation to support respondent's counterclaim.

Based on the foregoing, petitioner has failed to prove that respondent's residency determination in regard to J.B. was improper. Thus, it remains undisputed that H.K. failed to prove that he generally supports the child as required by law and also met the requisite family or economic hardship which would allow J.B. to attend respondent school district free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

Based on the affidavit submitted, I CONCLUDE that J.B. was improperly enrolled in Clifton school system between September 8, 2003 and June 17, 2004. I further CONCLUDE that the proper tuition reimbursement for that period of time (178 days) is $7,511.60.

Thus, it is ORDERED that petitioner's appeal is dismissed. It is further ORDERED that tuition reimbursement in the amount of $7,511.60 be paid to respondent school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Counsel:

Upon review of the Motion to Dismiss submitted by the respondent in the matter entitled Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick, Middlesex County v. New Jersey State Department of Education, Agency Dkt. No. 184-5/04, I have determined, for the reasons set forth below, to grant respondent's motion and dismiss the appeal in this matter.

In its petition filed on May 20, 2004, petitioner seeks "expedited" review of respondent's January 20, 2004 decision "denying adequate funding for the District to provide required and needed items for the pre-school program in the District" in violation of the Abbott mandates. (Petition of Appeal at 2) Petitioner asserts that "[t]he January 20 decision contravenes the Supreme Court's directives in the Abbott decisions, is unauthorized by law, and violates the Department's own regulations." (Id. at 3) The issues raised on appeal include, inter alia, petitioner's assertions that adequate funding has been denied for fringe benefits for teacher and teacher assistants, for support staff benefits, for space costs, for salaries for administrato and staff, for maintenance, and for food service costs. (Id. at 2) Petitioner also claims th respondent improperly classified space costs as "indirect costs." (Ibid.) Petitioner acknowledg that it is filing the appeal outside of the time limitations specified by the Supreme Court and forth in the regulations, but states that it is doing so because it has no other recourse in that District has received no answer from respondent to the efforts of the Hispanic Direc Association (HDA) to resolve these issues. (Id. at 4-5)

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of Answer on June 1, 2004. In its motion, respondent submits that it notified petitioner by letter of January 15, 2004 of its approval of petitioner's Preschool Operational Plan for three- and four-year-old children in the amount of $12,953,198 for the 2004-05 school year. (Motion to Dismiss at 3) Subsequently, due to a clerical error concerning per pupil cost, a revised letter that did not change the total amount of the approved budget was sent on January 20, 2004. (Ibid.) Respondent submits that the Supreme Court's June 23, 2003 Order, Abbott v. Burke, 177 N.J. 578 (2003), "states that districts 'shall have thirty days from the date of the Department's determination to file an appeal with the Office of Administrative Law,'" and that the Supreme Court's use of the term "shall" indicates a mandatory directive limiting the period for appeals. (Id. at 4) In that the petition in this matter was filed May 19, 2004, beyond the thirty-day limitation, respondent concludes that the petition in this matter should be dismissed as untimely, pursuant to Abbott, supra. (Ibid.)

Moreover, respondent argues that, assuming arguendo that petitioner is not bound by the provisions of Abbott, supra, the within petition is also time-barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), which requires petitioner to file its petition within 90 days of the determination rendered on January 20, 2004. (Id. at 5-6) Respondent further points out that the 90-day limitation has been strictly construed by the Commissioner and upheld by the Supreme Court. (Id. at 6) Additionally, respondent claims that petitioner has failed to demonstrate any compelling reason for the delay in filing its petition or to raise any constitutional issues, averring that petitioner has broadly claimed that it has been deprived of sufficient funding to implement its preschool program, but has not identified any specific financial deficiency nor any particular program, service or position which has, or will be, harmed by respondent's determination. (Id. at 6-7) Respondent contends that the sole reason offered by petitioner for the delay is that the HDA had a meeting with representatives of the Governor's Office with respect to provider budgets and was not satisfied with the response. (Id. at 7) Respondent argues that the mere fact that the HDA had a meeting with the Governor's representatives does not explain or provide any excuse for the delay in filing its petition, nor has there been any showing as to how that meeting is related to the District's 2004-05 budget or the January 20, 2004 decision. (Id. at 7-8)

By letter of June 3, 2004, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes set forth a briefing schedule for petitioner's response to the Motion to Dismiss and respondent's reply thereto. In its response filed on June 28, 2004, petitioner states that it does not dispute the facts as set forth by respondent in its motion to dismiss, nor does it dispute the timelines for filing provided in the Administrative Code. (Petitioner's Response at 1) Instead, petitioner clarifies that the entire Early Childhood Budget is not on appeal, but rather, the very narrow issue of the funding provisions that apply to the Puerto Rican Action Board (PRAB), an early childhood provider for the District,[1] which claims that it is unable to provide quality Abbott preschool as required by Abbott decisions. (Ibid.) Referring to a memorandum by the HDA summarizing a meeting on April 16, 2004 attended by the HDA of New Jersey, the leadership of the Department of Human Services, the Office of Early Childhood (sic), the Governor's Office, the Attorney General's Office and the Office of the Treasury (sic), petitioner points out that PRAB[2] met with respondent and other representatives on April 16, 2004 in an attempt to resolve its funding issue, but that it did not receive any response whatsoever from its presentation. (Id. at 2) Following PRAB's unsuccessful effort to resolve the issue on April 16, 2004, petitioner states, the New Brunswick School District authorized an appeal on the limited issue of the provisions which apply to PRAB. (Ibid.)

[1] Petitioner is approved to contract with fourteen providers at a total of seventeen sites in 2004-05. (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit A at 5 (page 7))

Citing Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480, 526-27 and Abbott v. Burke, 170 N.J. 537, 592-93, petitioner argues that, while it does not dispute that it has not complied with the time limits imposed under the Administrative Code, "it is in direct compliance with Abbott decisions and the issue of adequate funding is always a reason for appeal to the Department of Education and the Administrative Law Courts." (Id. at 2) Moreover, with respect to the relaxation of the deadline, petitioner notes that in the June 7, 2004 Abbott decision, the Court noted that the Department of Education sought relaxation of the deadline to enable non-certified preschool teachers to seek a waiver of the certification mandate for up to two years. (Id. at 3)

In reply, respondent reiterates its argument that the within petition is untimely filed pursuant to both the process for expedited review of preschool plans established by the Supreme Court and the regulatory 90-day time frame established for the filing of petitions before the Commissioner. (Reply at 1) Additionally, respondent claims that petitioner's more narrowly crafted issue on appeal, as set forth in its response to the motion to dismiss, does not present any evidence or information which warrants relaxing of the regulatory or Court-ordered time limitations. (Id. at 1-2) Respondent further claims that, although the Abbott litigations demonstrate that disputes concerning school funding in the Abbott districts would arise, none of the Court's decisions has invalidated the regulatory time limitations set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). (Id. at 2)

Moreover, respondent avers that PRAB has not yet entered into a contract with petitioner for the 2004-05 school year and points out that PRAB is free to negotiate its terms with petitioner and either enter into an agreement or not enter into an agreement. (Id. at 3) If PRAB wishes to file a petition on its own behalf, respondent reasons, it is free to do so, subject to the regulatory requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). (Ibid.) Respondent also takes issue with petitioner's claim that it did not respond to the HAD's concerns expressed at the meeting held on April 16, 2004, claiming that it did so by letter of May 20, 2004.[3] (Ibid.) Additionally, since PRAB has not entered into a contract with petitioner, respondent asserts, there is no justiciable controversy arising between aggrieved parties since neither party has any existing duties or obligations toward the other. (Id. at 4)

Upon a thorough review of the parties' submissions, I have determined to grant respondent's motion to dismiss the within petition. In so concluding, I note that petitioner does not dispute that its petition was not filed within the expedited 30-day time frame established for appeals of determinations with respect to Preschool Operational Plans set forth in the June 24, 2003 Order of the Supreme Court; nor even, assuming arguendo that petitioner was not limited to the provisions of the June 23, 2004 Order, within the 90-day time frame for the filing of a Petition of Appeal for the Commissioner's consideration set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

With respect to petitioner's claim that the issue of adequate funding is always a reason for appeal, it is noted that the Supreme Court's June 23, 2003 Order does not authorize the Commissioner to grant extensions to the Court-established time constraints with respect to appeals of a District's approved Preschool Operational Plan, nor have any of the Court's Abbott decisions invalidated the regulatory time limitations set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). Assuming arguendo that such appeals may be filed subject to the time limitation in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), numerous decisions concerning the 90-day time limitation have been litigated and the Courts have consistently held that the rule is mandatory. See Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 380 (App. Div.), cert. denied 137 N.J. 315 (1994*)*; Wynne v. Tillery, Camden County Superintendent of Schools, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 995; Conklin, supra; Portee v. Newark Board of Education, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 381. As stated by the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 558 (1993), attempts to resolve a claim through negotiation do not negate the fact of receipt of adequate notice, nor do they toll the running of the time limitations. (Kaprow, supra at 558)

Moreover, I do not find that the factual circumstances set forth in petitioner's pleadings constitute grounds for relaxation of the 90-day rule. Petitioner has provided no explanation as to why it was unable to file its petition in a timely manner beyond its claim that its petition was a last resort after an entity that is not party to this action, the HAD, failed to negotiate additional funding for one of petitioner's preschool providers, PRAB. Notwithstanding that this is an Abbott district, no constitutional issues are involved in this funding dispute that involves only one of the District's many preschool providers, nor does the matter present issues of significant public interest beyond the parties. On the contrary, I determine, as did the Commissioner in LeMee v. Board of Education of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 673, that the greater public interest herein lies with the enforcement of the 90-day rule.

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, respondent's Motion to Dismiss the Petition as untimely filed is hereby granted. Given the determination herein, it is unnecessary to consider the issue of justiciability raised by respondent. [4]

Sincerely,

Dwight Pfennig
Acting Commissioner

AGENCY DKT. NO. 266-7/04

IN THE MATTER OF DINO PETTINELLI,	:
ALPHA BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
WARREN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") finding that Alpha Board of Education member Dino Pettinelli violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act (Act), and recommending a penalty of censure, have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, Mr. Pettinelli was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration.

Comments filed by counsel on behalf of Mr. Pettinelli state that he does not agree with the Commission's finding that he "violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c), when he was present for two executive session meetings where his brother's appointment as a teaching staff member was discussed and when he made two comments during one of the executive session meetings; i.e. correcting a misstatement as to his brother's years of employment as a teacher and mentioning the possibility of reference for one of the teacher candidates in the Parsippany School District." (Comments at 1-2) In this regard, Mr. Pettinelli avers that the record demonstrates that there was no knowing or intentional violation of the Act in that he was never advised that he could not be present in executive session.

Additionally, Mr. Pettinelli claims that he was specifically told by the Board President and the Chief School Administrator, who informed the Board that they had consulted with the Board attorney, that he could be present in executive session. (Id. at 2) Moreover, Mr. Pettinelli claims that he never ignored any legal advice from the Board attorney in that there was never any legal advice provided on the issue of his presence in the executive session. (Ibid.) Mr. Pettinelli further asserts that he was unaware that his attendance in the executive sessions would cause a legal conflict and that a review of the wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) would not have made him aware of the potential for such conflict since he did not stand to benefit in any respect from his presence in executive session. (Id. at 3)

With respect to the penalty recommended by the Commission, Mr. Pettinelli argues that any violation by him must be considered both inadvertent and technical, and that imposing a penalty greater than a reprimand would be unfair and unwarranted. (Id. at 6) In support thereof, Mr. Pettinelli points to numerous instances where the penalty of reprimand has been imposed in matters he claims involved much more severe and obvious violations of the School Ethics Act, such as, inter alia: 1*) In the Matter of Matilda Touw*, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 343, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting on her son's reappointment as school custodian; 2) In the Matter of Wayne Wurtz, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 843, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting on his wife's appointment as a classroom aide; 3) In the Matter of Sheri Scozzaro, decided by the Commissioner January 21, 1998, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting for her daughter's appointment as a substitute; 4) In the Matter of Patricia Haines, decided by the Commissioner November 27, 2000, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting on a resolution authorizing the sale of bonds on behalf of the Board by her employer; 5) In the Matter of James Carpenter, decided by the Commissioner February 1, 2002, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting to retain the bank by whom he was employed as the Board's financial institution; 6) In the Matter of Katherine Mallette, decided by the Commissioner, February 9, 1999, where a Board member was reprimanded for actively participating in all closed session and public-session discussion of the Board's purchase of her brother-in-law's property at two separate board meetings; 7) In the Matter of Harrison, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 553, where a Board member was reprimanded for voting on a contract extension for a construction project for which his company was a subcontractor; and 8) Dilzer v. Sweet, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 132, where a Board's Vice-President was reprimanded for soliciting signatures from Board employees for a nominating petition for another board candidate. (Id. at 3-5, emphasis in text)

Mr. Pettinelli contends that, unlike the cases cited above, he did not participate in negotiations when he had a known conflict, did not vote for a family member or relative, did not use his position to obtain a benefit for anyone and did not actively participate in any Board action that would benefit himself or his brother. (Id. at 5) Mr. Pettinelli points out that he abstained from the vote on the amendment to the Board's nepotism policy, that he abstained from any vote on the position of the instrumental music teacher and that he abstained from any vote on his brother's appointment. (Ibid.) Thus, Mr. Pettinelli concludes, his conduct was far less severe than the conduct in the cases he has cited wherein the board member received the penalty of reprimand. (Ibid.) Accordingly, Mr. Pettinelli urges the Commissioner to impose a penalty no greater than a reprimand in this matter. (Id. at 6)

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record and of the penalties assessed in cases where similar violations of the School Ethics Act have occurred, the Commissioner concludes that the recommended penalty of censure is disproportionately severe in the present instance. In so concluding, the Commissioner emphasizes that, while Mr. Pettinelli's violations of the Act are serious infractions, it is essential that the sanction imposed is consistent with prior determinations.

A review of sanctions imposed for similar violations of the Act reveals that, in instances where a Board member has received a penalty of censure for his/her actions, the violations were more egregious than those found herein. In this regard, it is noted that, in its analysis the Commission found the within matter analogous to In the Matter of James Russo and Thomas Scarano, decided by the Commissioner April 16, 1998 and In the Matter of Michael Kilmurray, decided by the Commissioner April 15, 1998, wherein sanctions of censure were imposed. However, upon review of the particulars of these matters, the Commissioner finds that Russo and Kilmurray involved infractions of a more severe nature. In Russo, two Board members, one who had a sister and the other a fiancé and brother who were members of the teacher's bargaining unit, violated the Act when they served as the only two members of a board negotiations team that not only negotiated a contract with the teacher's bargaining unit, but also voted on the collective bargaining agreement. In Kilmurray, the board member was found to have violated the Act by: 1) interjecting himself into deliberations on the proposed appointment of his sister-in-law in closed session; 2) commenting that his sister-in-law and another candidate were both good candidates; and 3) making and supporting the motion to re-vote on the appointment of his sister-in-law when the original motion failed.

Additionally, other matters where a sanction of censure has been imposed include: 1) In the Matter of William Gunning, decided by the Commissioner July 29, 1994, where the board member was censured for voting on the superintendent's salary increase when his wife was the superintendent's confidential secretary; 2) In the Matter of Mark Connolly, decided by the Commissioner June 23, 1997, where the board member was censured for sitting in on the personnel committee's discussion of his wife's appointment as a teacher and asking a fellow board member to facilitate a re-vote; and 3) In the Matter of Famularo, decided by the Commissioner March 16, 1998, where the board member was censured for participating in public and executive session discussions and voting in favor of a town councilperson for whom he had been a campaign manager, for the position of principal.[1]

Accordingly, upon an extensive review of the above matters provided by Mr. Pettinelli wherein the penalty of reprimand was imposed, and an independent review of instances wherein the penalty of censure has been imposed, the Commissioner concludes that a reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons explicated above.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Dino Pettinelli be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
DINO PETTINELLI	:	Docket No. C01-04
ALPHA BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
WARREN COUNTY	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Complainant, Alpha Education Association, filed a complaint against the Alpha Board of Education (Board) on February 2, 2004 alleging violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h). On March 4, 2004, in response to correspondence from the Commission, complainant amended that complaint to indicate that the complaint was filed by Laurie Ritz on behalf of the Alpha Education Association and to specifically name the Board members alleged to have violated the Act. The complainant alleges that the Board members violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h) when they amended the board policy regarding nepotism, and then they voted to hire a Board member's brother for a combined position of technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher. Robert J. Merryman, Esq., attorney for the Board, filed an answer on March 5, 2004 on behalf of Michael Jenkins, Alfonso Marino, Larry Marino, Robert Melick, Dino Pettinelli, and Judith Wieland denying any violation of the School Ethics Act.

The School Ethics Commission advised the parties that it would discuss this matter at its meeting of March 23, 2004. The complainant did not appear. The respondents did not appear, but were represented by Mr. Merryman who testified before the Commission. The Commission also heard testimony from Dr. Sandra Moore who was the Superintendent of the Alpha School District at the time the allegations took place. The Commission requested additional executive Board minutes and upon a review of those minutes and based upon Dr. Moore's testimony, the Commission requested the testimony of Dino Pettinelli to determine a possible violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

At its May 25, 2004 meeting, the Commission heard testimony from Dino Pettinelli. At its public meeting on May 25, 2004, the Commission voted to find no probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Alfonso Marino, Mr. Larry Marino, Mr. Melick, Mr. Dino Pettinelli and Mrs. Wieland violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(h). However, the Commission voted to find probable cause that Dino Pettinelli violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). The reasons for this decision were wet forth in a probable cause decision dated July 14, 2004.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised Mr. Merryman that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Mr. Merryman was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission within 30 days of the date of the probable cause decision and set forth why the Commission should not find Dino Pettinelli in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) for being present during an executive session meeting on July 24, 2003 when the hiring of his brother, L. Pettinelli, as a technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher was discussed, and for being present and twice participating in a discussion during an executive session meeting on August 11, 2003 regarding the hiring of his brother. He was also told that his written submission should include the respondent's position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated. Mr. Merryman submitted a timely response on July 14, 2004 arguing that, since Dino Pettinelli did not benefit from his limited participation in the executive sessions, he should not be found in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

FACTS

The Commission was able to discern the following facts based on the pleadings, documents submitted, testimony and Mr. Merryman's submission in response to the probable cause determination.[1]

Since January 9, 1986 the board had a nepotism policy in place. Policy #4112.8 provides in pertinent part, "The Board of Education, in order to avoid both the reality and the appearance of conflict of interest in employment, will not appoint any member of the immediate family of a board member, nor of an administrator, to any employment position in this district, and directs that no person who is a member of the immediate family of a board member or administrator shall be placed in nomination for any vacant position." The board also had a bylaw pertaining to board member conflict of interest. Bylaw #9270 provides in pertinent part, "No spouse, sibling, parent or descendent of a service board member shall be considered for any paid employment in the district."

At a May 8, 2003 special meeting, the Alpha Board of Education voted unanimously to accept the resignation of J. R. as a math teacher. At that same meeting, upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator, a motion made by Mr. Jenkins to re-appoint E.C. as part-time instrumental music teacher failed with all voting "nay." The failure of this motion created an opening for a music teacher. Dino Pettinelli testified that he participated in Board discussions regarding the re-appointment of E.C. In May 2003, the Board suggested to Dr. Moore that the technology coordinator, E.K., be reassigned to teach math even though he was not certified to teach math. This reassignment created an opening for a technology coordinator.

At the June 26, 2003 regular meeting, the teacher hiring process was discussed by the Board and Dr. Moore. In that discussion, the past hiring process was reviewed by Dr. Moore who explained that it was her job to interview, check references and choose the top three candidates. Dr. Moore emphasized that she wanted to pick the best qualified candidate, adding that two of the candidates were relatives of Board members.

[1] The Commission recognizes that Mr. Merryman's submission sets forth that certain facts were disputed. Although the Commission finds these disputed facts to be immaterial to the disposition of this case, they have been incorporated herein.

She noted that the Board attorney advised that choosing these candidates would violate the ethics law.

On July 8, 2003, L.M. was interviewed for the position of technology coordinator. In Dr. Moore's comments in the Applicant Record she noted that L. M. had one year of experience, that she can troubleshoot, has a strong technology background and doesn't need to give a 60-day notice. On July 22, 2003, Dino Pettinelli's brother was interviewed for the position of technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher. In Dr. Moore's comments in the Applicant Record, she noted that he had an excellent background and is an excellent candidate. She also noted her concerns about the cost to hire him, the 60-day notice he would have to give and the problems with the ethics law.

At the July 24, 2003 executive session, the Board discussed the technology position. Dino Pettinelli was present throughout the entire executive session. He testified that he was aware that his brother was one of the applicants for the position and that the position would be discussed at the July 24, 2003 executive session. While he was not sure that his brother would be on the agenda, he assumed that his brother would be on the agenda. He also testified that he was advised by Dr. Moore not to participate in the discussions regarding his brother.

During the July 24, 2003 executive session, Dr. Moore advised that she was recommending L.M. for the position and indicated that she had interviewed Dino Pettinelli's brother who, she noted, was very competent, knew music, had 23 years experience and is an MA-30. To assist in the executive session discussion, the Board was presented with a memorandum from Dr. Moore discussing her concerns regarding the proposed recommendation of L. Pettinelli for the position of technology/instrumental teacher and a letter from the Board attorney also setting forth his concerns with the hiring of a brother of a Board member. Information from the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) related to the Act was also presented to the Board. Both Dr. Moore and the Board attorney's correspondence indicated their concern that the Board had a formal nepotism policy which prohibited them from hiring a brother of a Board member. Dr. Moore's memorandum also expresses her concern with combining the technology and music positions into one position. Her memorandum also raised her fiscal concerns with hiring L. Pettinelli due to his level on the guide. The Board discussed changing the nepotism policy and the fact that L. Pettinelli could teach both technology and music. The Board asked Dr. Moore whether she would recommend L. Pettinelli if the policy was changed. Dr. Moore stated that she would recommend L.M., but if it was voted down and if the Board were to change the policy, she would recommend L. Pettinelli.

During the public session meeting after the executive session on July 24, 2003, a motion was made to hire L.M. as the technology coordinator. The motion failed for lack of a second. The Board directed Dr. Moore to continue to look for another candidate and offer another recommendation. Dr. Moore testified that she could not recommend a Board member's brother because of the nepotism policy. During this public session, the Board discussed changes to the existing policy and bylaw on nepotism. After appropriate motions, the Board voted to amend both the policy and bylaw related to nepotism to add, at the end, the following phrase: "...to secure any advantage or gain to any Board member, and that any related Board member will abstain from discussion and vote on such employment." Dino Pettinelli abstained from both votes and Board members Ms. Ortiz and Mrs. Robledo voted "nay." Mr. Melick was not present at the July 24, 2003 Board meeting.

At the August 11, 2003 meeting, the Board went into executive session for two-and-a-half hours, during which time the Board only discussed filling the open technology and music position. Dino Pettinelli was again present throughout the entire executive session. He testified that, at the outset, he asked Dr. Moore if he should stay in the executive session meeting. Dr. Moore responded that he could stay. He also testified that there was no Board attorney available for that executive session.

During the August 11, 2003 executive session, the Board discussed the fact that some relatives of Board members had been hired in the past. Dr. Moore said that those hirings occurred prior to the adoption of the School Ethics Act. During a discussion regarding L. Pettinelli's step on the guide, Dr. Moore made a statement about the number of years L. Pettinelli had worked as a teacher. Dino Pettinelli stated that the number of years was wrong. Ms. Robledo stated that Dino Pettinelli should not participate in the discussion. Dr. Moore discussed the credentials of both Ms. Matto for the position of technology coordinator and another candidate for the instrumental music position. Dino Pettinelli testified that, during a discussion of whether Dr. Moore had checked the references for the candidate for the instrumental music position, he commented that Dr. Moore should check with school officials in Parsippany because it was his understanding that the candidate had taught in Parsippany. Dr. Moore noted that, at that time, she could not recommend the other candidate under discussion, but she would recommend another technology teacher.

Also during the discussion, Dr. Moore expressed her concern with L. Pettinelli's placement on the guide because in the next year he would be off the guide and the highest paid teacher. A Board member asked Dr. Moore where she stood on the recommendation of L. Pettinelli and she responded that she had concerns with what it would do to the contract. There was a discussion of the salary amount and the need for L. Pettinelli to give a 60 day notice, which would require the hiring of a substitute. The Board asked Dr. Moore what she planned to do and she said that she would recommend L.M. for the technology teacher position. Board member, Mr. Jenkins stated that the Board did not ask the prior technology coordinator to take the math class because of L. Pettinelli and that he was not a factor in that decision.

In the public meeting, after the executive session, a motion was made and seconded to hire L.M. as technology coordinator. The motion failed on a roll call vote with Dino Pettinelli abstaining, Mr. Melick, Mr. Larry Marino, Mrs. Wieland, Mr. Jenkins and Mr. Alfonso Marino voting "nay" and Ms. Ortiz, Ms. Rhody and Mrs. Robledo voting "aye." Given the rejection of the first candidate for the technology position, Dr. Moore recommended Larry Pettinelli as technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher. A motion was made and seconded for approval of Dr. Moore's recommendation and the motion was approved on a roll call vote with all voting "aye," except for Ms. Ortiz, Ms. Rhody and Mrs. Robledo who voted "nay," and Dino Pettinelli who abstained.

At the August 21, 2003 Board meeting, the August 11, 2003 motion to hire L. Pettinelli was amended to include "on an emergent basis" after an appropriate motion with all voting "aye" except for Dino Pettinelli who abstained.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause that Dino Pettinelli violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the Act when, as a member of the Board, he attended the July 24, 2003 executive session when the hiring of his brother, L. Pettinelli, as a technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher was discussed and when he attended and participated in discussions during the August 11, 2003 executive session. In his written submission is response to the probable cause finding, Mr. Merryman noted that the Commission found probable cause of a violation solely on the issue that the Commission itself raised. The Commission agrees that its finding of probable cause was solely on the issue it raised regarding a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). N.J.S.A. 18A:12-28(b) provides the Commission with the authority to conduct investigations. It was after such an investigation into this complaint that the Commission determined that it would also consider whether Dino Pettinelli violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). It is well within the Commission's authority to make such a determination.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) provides:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

Subsection (c) looks to whether a school official has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity of judgment. Additionally, the subsection looks to whether he has a personal involvement that might create some benefit to him. As the Commission stated in Advisory Opinion A23-94, the Commission is not constrained to recognize conflicts of interest only when a matter affects a board member's immediate family member. The Commission has found conflicts of interest under subsection (c) where a board member negotiates a sibling's contract when the sibling is in the local bargaining unit. See I/M/O James Russo and Thomas Scarano, C12-97 (January 27, 1998). Further, the Commission noted in SEC v. Michael Kilmurray, C12-94 (January 27, 1998) that "when a school official has a conflict of interest of which the public is aware, and that school official goes behind closed doors when that item is discussed, the situation creates a justifiable impression among the public that their trust is being violated." In Kilmurray, the Commission noted that the public may believe that a board member that sits in on a private session discussion regarding his sister-in-law is actively participating in the discussion behind closed doors, that the board member will tell his relative what was said, or at the least, that the other board members will be inhibited in their discussion of the matter because of his presence.

In the present case, Dino Pettinelli was present during and participated in two executive session discussions related to the hiring of his sibling. The August 11, 2003 executive session lasted for two and half hours and was solely devoted to the hiring of his brother. Not only was Dino Pettinelli present for those executive session discussions, but in the two and half hour long discussion he participated in the discussions on two occasions. On the first occasion, he corrected the Superintendent regarding his brother's number of years of employment as a teacher. On the second occasion, he commented about another candidate that was being discussed in relation to the hiring of his brother. In its probable cause decision, the Commission noted that there appears to be a personal involvement related to the hiring of a brother that could create a benefit to Dino Pettinelli in the personal satisfaction of ensuring that a sibling obtains employment. The Commission also noted that being present for two executive session discussions and participating in those discussions appears to create a justifiable impression among the public that their trust is being violated as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a).

In his written submission in response to the finding of probable cause, Mr. Merryman argues that in its probable cause decision, the Commission failed to recognize the amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c). Mr. Merryman noted that the amendment changed the circumstances in which a board member has a conflict due to a "personal involvement." He argues that under the amended statute that it is not enough that the "personal involvement" might be expected to impair objectivity; there must be an actual benefit to the board member or the board member's immediate family. He noted that in passing the amendment, the Legislature made it clear that it wanted to avoid the potential for arbitrary application of this section of the Act since "it is the School Ethics Commission which initially determines on a case by case basis what personal involvement might reasonably impair the objectivity of a school official and no guidelines have been established by the Commission as a reference point for school officials." Assembly Committee Statement to Assembly No. 2635 (November 16, 1998).

Mr. Merryman further argues that in its probable cause decision, the Commission devised a potentially arbitrary benefit whereby "personal satisfaction" is now a "benefit" for purposes of the Act. He maintains that such a subjective standard is contrary to the intent of the Legislature when it amended the Act and could result in countless violations of the Act by school officials. He maintains that there must be a direct and measurable benefit before a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) can be found.

In Advisory Opinion A16-00 (December 1, 2000) the Commission advised that a board member would violate N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) if he were to participate in negotiations or vote on a contract with the local education association when his brother held a position in the maintenance department and is a member of the local education association of the district where he serves as a board member. In A16-00, the Commission analyzed the impact of the amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and found "...that the benefit set forth in the amendment need not be financial, otherwise, the "personal involvement" provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) would be redundant. The Commission considers an involvement to be personal whenever a school official has a relationship that the public may perceive as being predominant to the best interest of the district. Therefore, a benefit can be something of intrinsic value, but no monetary worth." Id. page 2. The Commission noted that the amended language to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) changed the standard from a "reasonable expectation" that a school official cannot be objective to a requirement that the involvement constitute "a benefit" to the school official. The Commission finds that there is a benefit of intrinsic value in the personal satisfaction that a board member receives in ensuring that a sibling obtains employment.

The Commission does not agree with Mr. Merryman's argument that this is a subjective standard especially when N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) is read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22(a), which provides:

> In our representative form of government it is essential that the conduct of members of local boards of education and local school administrators hold the respect and confidence of the people. These board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates a justifiable impression among the public that such trust is being violated.

When a board member sits in on a private discussion regarding a relative behind closed doors, it creates a justifiable impression among the public that the public trust is being violated. This is even more evident when a board member, in a closed executive session, makes comments during discussions related to the hiring of a relative. Dino Pettinelli's comments were directly related to the hiring of his brother. This is exactly the type of conduct that board members must avoid in order to comply with the provisions of the Act.

Mr. Merryman argues that Dino Pettinelli did not actively participate in any board action that would benefit his brother since he abstained from the votes on the amendments to the nepotism policy and on the vote to hire his brother. He further notes that there is no evidence that Dino Pettinelli lobbied on behalf of his brother or coerced or pressured the board to hire his brother. While the Commission agrees with these facts as noted by Mr. Merryman, it is enough for Dino Pettinelli to sit on a closed executive session discussion related to the hiring of his brother and then to comment on the hiring of his brother in another closed executive session to create a justifiable impression among the public that the public trust is being violated.

Mr. Merryman also argues that the comments made by Dino Pettinelli were two innocuous comments that were limited to facts within his own knowledge that addressed tangential issues. Mr. Merryman cites the Commission's decision in Brooks v. Cecchino, C19-99 (March 28, 2000). However, the Brooks decision can be distinguished from the present case. In C19-99, the Commission found no violation of the Act when a board member, who was conflicted out of collective bargaining due to his wife's employment and membership in the bargaining unit, commented on the union's concerns with the ratification process during an executive session discussion. The Commission found those comments to be innocuous, but those comments did not involve negotiations since the board had signed a memorandum of agreement. Furthermore, the meeting during which the comments were made concerned the budget and the comments were made in terms of the budget and did not involve the terms of the contract. In the present case, the comments were made during a two and half hour executive session discussion devoted solely to the open technology coordinator and instrumental music positions for which the board was considering hiring Dino Pettinelli's brother. The comments related specifically to his brother's length of service as a teacher and to the references of another candidate that the board was discussing for the instrumental music position. The Commission finds that these comments are not innocuous comments, but are directly related to the hiring of his brother.

Finally, Mr. Merryman notes that Dino Pettinelli was never advised that he could not be present in executive session and was specifically told by Dr. Moore that he could be present. The Commission notes that this does not excuse Dino Pettinelli from his responsibilities under the Act. However, the Commission will take this into account in its penalty determination.

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Dino Pettinelli violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he was present for an executive session meeting on July 24, 2003 when the hiring of his brother as a technology coordinator/instrumental music teacher was discussed, and when he was present for and twice participated in a discussion during an executive session meeting on August 11, 2003 regarding the hiring of his brother. The Commission notes that Dr. Moore told Dino Pettinelli that he could sit in on the August 11, 2004 executive session; however, since he twice participated in that executive session, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of censure.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. Merryman may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General, State of New Jersey, attorney)

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 3, 2004 as a contested case at the request of the petitioner, Patrick M. Aiello, who maintained that the determination of the State Board of Examiners to reject his "alternate route" application for an instructional certificate was erroneous and should be reversed.

Following receipt of the file the matter was scheduled for a plenary hearing in January 2005. However, on July 15, 2004, the respondent State Board of Examiners filed a motion for summary decision with a supporting brief and attached exhibits. No reply memorandum, brief, certification or affidavit was filed by Aiello in response to the motion for summary decision. The following constitutes my initial decision granting the motion.

DISCUSSION

The essential facts necessary to determine this case are not in dispute. In a letter dated November 6, 2002 petitioner wrote to the Essex County Superintendent of Schools and attached his application for an instructional certificate noting that it was through the "alternate route" process. In that letter Aiello noted that he has passed the National Boards in Basic Sciences and in Clinical Sciences, Parts One and Two and holds a current license as a chiropractor in this State. The application was rejected by the Office of Licensing and Academic Credentials on the basis that Aiello had not attained the required overall cumulate grade point average (GPA) of at least 2.50 at the completion of a baccalaureate degree program. Aiello then appealed to the State Board of Examiners and attached documentation wherein he calculated his cumulative GPA for the total of his undergraduate course work to be 2.65. The calculation was reached by including all of his undergraduate work at Stockton State College (95 credits), two courses at Middlesex County College and course work he completed at the National College of Chiropractic for his Bachelor of Science degree.

On September 25, 2003 the State Board of Examiners denied Aiello's application, finding that he had failed to attain a GPA of 2.5 or higher from either a baccalaureate degree program, a graduate degree program, or a State approved post-baccalaureate program. In particular, the GPA from Stockton College was rejected because he did not graduate from that institution, and his two GPAs from the National College of Chiropractic were below 2.5. Noting that the State Board of Examiners does not combine GPAs from different colleges to create a new GPA and that the grade point requirement was established by regulation, the Board advised Aiello it would not waive the requirement.

Thereafter, in October 2003, Aiello appealed to the Commissioner of Education from the State Board of Examiners' decision arguing that: (a) he has demonstrated an ability to do course work higher than 2.5 as shown, in particular, by his 2.93 GPA for 95 credits from Stockton; (b) during seven years in various colleges between 1984 and 1991 he earned 300 credits, culminating not only in a B.S. degree in Human Biology, but also in a Doctor of Chiropractic degree; (c) he has successfully passed National Boards in Basic and Clinical Sciences; (d) he has successfully passed the New Jersey State Board of Chiropractic Examination and has been practicing that profession since 1992; (e) he has been active in various community organizations.

As noted, no reply memorandum, brief, certification or affidavit was filed by Aiello in response to the motion for summary decision. The case law with respect to the grant or denial of such a motion is well settled. Absent a reasonable dispute with respect to any genuine issue of material fact, it should be granted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b); Contini v. Board of Ed. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106 (App. Div. 1995).

Thus, since it is undisputed that to obtain an instructional certificate an applicant who graduated before September 1, 2004 must have achieved a GPA of at least 2.5 when a GPA of 4.0 equals an "A" from a baccalaureate degree program, higher degree program, or a State approved post-baccalaureate program, and Aiello has failed to meet those criteria, his appeal must be rejected. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9-8.1(a)2. Although Aiello has asked that the GPAs at Stockton, Middlesex County and the National College of Chiropractic be cumulated in the calculation of his overall GPA, this is not permitted. See also, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.16(b). There being no material issues of fact reasonably in dispute, the motion is GRANTED and the petition DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DISQUALIFICATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
FROM SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT OF R.J.B.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon full and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that summary decision is appropriately granted to respondent on the issue of whether a conviction for possession of drug paraphernalia, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 2C:36-2, is an offense which disqualifies petitioner from employment as a school bus driver, pursuant to *N.J.S.*A 18A:39-19 (as in effect at the time of petitioner's appeal), since this question was conclusively resolved in the affirmative by the Appellate Division on June 12, 2000 in In the Matter of the Disqualification from School Employment of J.W., A-5481-98T, cert. den. 165 N.J. 602. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that petitioner's claim of rehabilitation is dismissed as abandoned because of his failure to respond to communications or appear at scheduled hearings.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons stated therein. This matter is hereby transmitted to the State Board of Education which has retained jurisdiction.

AGENCY DKT NO. 52-97

IN THE MATTER OF DISQUALIFICATION FROM SCHOOL EMPLOYMENT OF RJB IN THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY

RJB, petitioner, pro se

Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General for respondent
(Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: June 30, 2004 Decided: July 27, 2004

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ

Background

RJB was disqualified from employment as a bus driver after The Office of Criminal History conducted a criminal history check which revealed he had been convicted of possession of drug paraphernalia in February 1997. He had been initially charged on May 31, 1996 with possession of CDS, which was subsequently amended on February 4, 1997 to possession of narcotic paraphernalia for which he was sentenced to a one year probation, fifty hours of community service, $50 payment to the Violent Crime Compensation Board, $500 to DEDR, a $50 lab fee and a six month suspension of his driver's license.

Petitioner appealed his disqualification to the Commissioner of Education presenting evidence to attempt to demonstrate his rehabilitation. The accuracy of the conviction was not contested and the Assistant Commissioner of Education upheld the disqualification and concluded that the Petitioner had not demonstrated by clear and convincing evidence his rehabilitation.

RJB appealed that determination to the State Board of Education. In a decision dated September 3, 1997 the Board reversed the determination of the Assistant Commissioner and found that a conviction for possession of drug paraphernalia is not a disqualifying offense under the statute.

The Commissioner filed a motion to participate in the matter for the purposes of seeking reconsideration/clarification of the state board's September 3, 1997 decision. The board granted the Commissioner's request to participate and on February 4, 1998 the board remanded the matter back to the Commissioner with directions that he transmit it to the Office of Administrative Law for initial determination. The matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law on or about February 26, 1998.

Subsequently, a motion for Summary decision was filed by the Attorney General and forwarded to RJB.

After several unsuccessful attempts to contact RJB to allow him an opportunity to respond to the motion for Summary decision, the matter was listed for a hearing in September 2000. The hearing was adjourned at the request of the Attorney General's office which was able to contact RJB's wife who had consented.

While the matter was pending, an Appellate Division decision of June 12, 2000 in the matter of the disqualification from school employment of JW was decided. The issue of whether a school employee should be disqualified from employment if convicted or has pled guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia was confronted on all fours. JW clearly was clearly dispositive of the question of whether or not a conviction for paraphernalia was disqualifying. It was.

However, the issue of RJB's rehabilitation still needed to be addressed.

Several attempts by both the Attorney General's office and the Office of Administrative Law over a period in excess of two years were unsuccessful in getting any response from RJB.

RJB's failure to respond to any communications and failure to appear at any previously scheduled hearings renders the matter of his rehabilitation moot.

Thus, the application for summary decision with respect to the issue of whether or not the possession of drug paraphernalia is a disqualifying offense is granted based on the dispositive matter of "The disqualification from school employment of JW Appellate Division A-5481-98T3." The question of RJB's rehabilitation is dismissed without prejudice as an abandonment. It is ordered that RJB is disqualified from employment as a school bus driver pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this emergent matter, which included the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons well stated in his Initial Decision, that the within application must be denied as petitioners have not satisfied the standards necessary for the granting of extraordinary relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), most specifically, they have not demonstrated that they have a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying controversy.

Accordingly, the Order of the ALJ denying emergent relief is hereby adopted. In the event that petitioners desire to pursue their claim, this matter shall proceed to plenary hearing on its merits; otherwise, it shall proceed as necessary to bring it to closure.

Ed.B. & T.C. obo E.B., Petitioners,
v.
TOWNSHIP OF PENNSAUKEN
BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Ed.B. & T.C., parents of E.B., pro se, for petitioners

Karl N. McConnell, Esq., for respondent Board of Education

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners Ed.B. and T.C., parents of E.B., claim that respondent Township of Pennsauken Board of Education (BOE) has mistakenly determined that E.B. should be retained and that she should repeat the first grade. Petitioners request emergent relief, i.e., an order requiring the BOE to amend its records to show that E.B. should advance to the second grade. The BOE points out that E.B's teacher found, and standardized testing shows, that she should be retained, so that it acted properly and the BOE submits that petitioners have not shown that the relief claimed should be granted. The BOE also points out that petitioners have withdrawn E.B. from its school system.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about August 17, 2004, petitioners submitted a letter and petition to the Department of Education (P-1, P-2) and, on August 18, 2004, the Department responded, identifying deficiencies in their papers and notifying them of requirements for processing the matter (P-3.) N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On or about August 25, 2004, petitioners Ed.B. and T.C. submitted another letter and petition with exhibits. (P-4, P-5, P-6, P-7, P-8.) The Department then transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on August 30, 2004 and scheduled for a hearing on September 3, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On September 3, 2004, the motion for emergent relief was heard in the OAL, Trenton.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Ed.B. and T.C. are the parents of E.B., born April 4, 1997. They reside in the BOE's district and, on August 8, 2002, registered E.B. for school. R-2.

During the 2002-03 school year, E.B., was in the BOE's kindergarten. During that year, some of E.B.'s grades fell and, on the progress report for the year, her teacher D. Tyler's comments included the following: "As we have discussed, [E.B.] will need lots of practice this summer, if she is to succeed in first grade. You must work with her every day in reading, phonics and writing. She must blend sounds together to sound out words to read successfully." R-3. See also R-1.

During the 2003-04 school year, E.B. was a first grade student in the BOE's Delair Elementary School and her teacher was Charlotte Szczepanski, a teacher of many years experience and who made and maintained detailed records. Early in 2003-04 school year, E.B. appeared to be progressing satisfactorily, but by the third marking period, Ms. Szczepanski notified E.B.'s parents that she found her progress to be unsatisfactory.

E.B.'s 2003-04 school year progress report shows the following: During the first marking period, her grades were satisfactory, but her teacher found weaknesses in "Language Arts" in the following categories: "Recognizes appropriate vocabulary" and "Reads fluently" and in "Mathematics": "Subtraction." R-4. See also P-6, R-6. During the second marking period, her grades were satisfactory, but her teacher found weaknesses in "Language Arts" in the following categories: "Recognizes appropriate vocabulary," "Reads fluently" and "Uses word decoding strategies." R-4. See also P-6, R-6. During the third marking period, "Language Arts" grade was unsatisfactory and her teacher found weaknesses in "Language Arts" in the following categories: "Comprehends a story," "Recognizes appropriate vocabulary," "Reads fluently" and "Uses word decoding strategies." R-4. See also P-6, R-6. During the fourth marking period, her "Language Arts" grade was again unsatisfactory and her teacher found weaknesses in "Language Arts" in the following categories: "Comprehends a story," "Recognizes appropriate vocabulary," "Reads fluently," "Uses word decoding strategies," "Writes a complete sentence," and "Chooses to write independently." R-4. See also P-6, R-6.

On February 26 and March 1, 2004, Ms. Szczepanski met with T.C. and advised her that E.B. appeared to be significantly behind her grade and month in reading and that it was becoming increasingly apparent that she was not progressing appropriately and they agreed that Ms. Szczepanski would send weekly reading reports and provide E.B. with individual and extra help during the day. R-1. On March 17, 2004, Ms. Szczepanski met with T.C. and requested permission to take E.B. to the School Resources Committee (SRC) to create a plan for E.B., as a regular education student having difficulties. T.C. met with the SRC and, in April 2004 in the morning before class, Ms. Szczepanski began to provide E.B. with one-to-one support, tutoring and extra readers. Ms. Szczepanski found that E.B. did not make satisfactory progress and recommended evaluation of E.B., but T.C. refused to consent to evaluation. R-1. See also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.4. During the 2003-04 school year's third and fourth marking periods, in the teacher comment form, Ms. Szczepanski wrote that, despite hard work and being very eager to please, E.B.'s reading skills had not reached the level of achievement expected and that she could not read and comprehend on grade level. R-5. See also R-6.

On April 26, 2004, i.e., at the end first grade, E.B. took the McGraw-Hill Terra Nova standardized test, which showed her to have the following grade equivalents: Reading 1.4, Language 2.0, Mathematics 0.9, Science 2.4, Social Studies 1.1, and Total Score: 1.4. R-7.

Ms. Szczepanski recommended that E.B. be retained and repeat first grade during the 2004-05 school year and the school system notified petitioners of its determination that E.B. should be retained. R-4, R-8.

T.C. represents that she was surprised by the determination and she appealed to Jean Costello, Ed.D., the BOE's Assistant Superintendent. In July 2004, Dr. Costello offered the BOE's summer program for E.B. and suggested that, upon completion of that program, the issue of retention or advancement could be revisited, but T.C. rejected the suggestion. R-1.

During the summer of 2004, petitioners retained Eusheka Bartley, Youth Development Director of the Boys & Girls Club of Camden County, to tutor E.B. Ms. Bartley has written that she worked with E.B. in "phonics and reading comprehension in our SES program" and that, "As long as [E.B.] continues her tutoring in the summer, . . . she will be capable of doing the work and should be placed in the 2nd grade." P-8. However, Ms. Bartley's letter does not describe her qualifications for such an opinion and, during the hearing, petitioner could not say whether Ms. Bartley had any education, certification or other qualifications in the area of reading or a related subject.

By letter dated July 30, 2004, Curt Wrzeszczynski, Delair Elementary School Principal, wrote to T.C. confirming that on August 24, 2004, at the BOE's Central School, an assessment of E.B.'s academic skills would be performed (as a way to determine whether she should progress to the second grade.) The assessor would be from another school without prior knowledge of E.B. R-9. However, T.C. represented during the hearing that she had no confidence in the BOE's school system and she did not allow E.B. to participate in the assessment. P-1, P-5.

The petitioners allege that retaining E.B. would harm her self-esteem and adversely affect her future and, on August 19, 2004, i.e., before the above-described scheduled assessment could take place, Ed.B. withdrew E.B. from the BOE's school system. R-10. The petitioner request an order requiring the BOE to amend its records to show that E.B. should be in second grade for purposes of her placement in another school.

The BOE's policy requires that to enter or re-enter its school system, the student must undergo an academic assessment to determine the appropriate placement. R-1.

During the hearing, I notified the petitioners that they should place E.B. in an appropriate school soon to avoid a truancy charge and that they should consult an attorney.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's Constitution states that the Legislature shall provide for a system of public schools for the instruction of all children in the State between the ages of 5 and 18 years and the Legislature has complied with this requirement authorizing local boards of education to operate their respective school districts. N.J. Const. Art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1; N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.

Public entities and public officials are presumed to have acted lawfully and in good faith and, consistent with this principle, it is well established that when a local board of education acts within its discretionary powers, its act will not be upset unless the claimant shows it to be patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. Of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 292-92 (App. Div. 1960) (citations omitted.)

To succeed in a motion for a temporary restraint and/or interlocutory injunction, the movant must show, among other things, that, when the case is fully heard, it will probably prevail in its claim and that, if the relief is not granted, it will suffer immediate and irreparable harm, i.e., that money damages would not be adequate compensation. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; R. 4:52-1; Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982).

I do not see that the petitioners have met their burden relative to the allegation that when the case is fully heard they will probably prevail. To the contrary, it appears that the BOE and its professionals have acted reasonably and in the interests of the child.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I DENY the motion for emergent relief.

The parties may serve discovery requests and a plenary hearing date will be set.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: June 21, 2004 Decided: August 2, 2004

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a tenured teacher in the Waldwick school district, asserts the Board has assigned her to a position for which she is not properly certified or qualified, in addition to violating her seniority procedural rights.

The matter was filed as an application for emergent relief and a hearing was held; on November 12, 2003, I entered an order denying the application. The matter was then scheduled for plenary hearing which took place on May 21, 2004. The parties submitted written summations; therefore, the record closed on June 21, 2004.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Petitioner, Katherine Mueller, is a tenured teacher with six years experience teaching elementary school in Respondent's, Waldwick Board of Education, school district.

2. Petitioner is certified for Elementary School Education, K-8.

3. Between 2001 to 2003, Petitioner was assigned to first and second grade teaching positions within the district.

4. In March, 2003, Petitioner's teaching certificate was revoked due to a conviction on criminal charges concerning "inappropriate student touching."

5. In June, 2003, Petitioner filed a civil action alleging, inter alia, she had suffered harassment, discrimination and defamation in connection with incidents leading to the filing of criminal charges against her.

6. On June 24, 2003, the conviction was reversed and Petitioner was restored to her position with full benefits attendant thereto from the date of the revocation of her certificate.

7. Respondent did restore Petitioner to her position as an elementary school teacher with complete restoration of all rights and salary from the date of revocation.

8. Respondent, through its Superintendent of Schools, Dr. John Szabo, informed Petitioner he would recommend to the board she be assigned to teach basic skills at the Waldwick Junior-Senior High School at the meeting to be held on August 11, 2003.

9. Petitioner's assignment as a Basic Skills Teacher was approved and Petitioner was so notified by letter dated August 12, 2003.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The primary issue raised by this petition is whether Petitioner was properly assigned, within the constraints of her elementary school certification, to teach Basic Skills in the secondary schools. In addition, Petitioner asserts, in making the assignment, Respondent violated her "seniority procedural" rights.

In an Appellate Division case, the court held a board of education has certain managerial prerogatives, among which is the assignment and/or transfer of staff within the scope of certification and absent disciplinary reasons or bad faith. Rice v. Union County Regional High School Board of Education, 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977).

Accordingly, the first issue to be determined is whether the transfer and reassignment was within the scope of certification; the second is whether either disciplinary reasons or bad faith were motivating factors.

In this case, Petitioner was transferred from her previous assignment to teach second grade in the elementary school to the junior senior high school, and assigned to teach "Basic Skills." The regulation defining the elementary education certificate provides, in pertinent part, in addition to serving as an elementary school teacher in grades nursery through eight in all public schools, a holder of this certificate is authorized to teach the common branch subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)6.[1]

It is undisputed in this case, Petitioner is a holder of an elementary education certificate and, therefore, is authorized to teach certain common branch subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school. Although exhaustive research has failed to disclose a formal definition of the term "basic skills," the term has been used to refer to skills in reading and math on the second grade level. Cf. S.A. a minor child by his parents, L.A. and A.A. v. Monroe Township Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. 331-00; A.R. v. Dumont Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDS 3701-98. In S.A., the basic skills program is described as being specifically designed to provide remedial instruction to students in math and language areas. Albeit both aforementioned cases deal with basic skills in the elementary school, although no specific case on point could found, the concept is, apparently, the same in the secondary school, i.e., the basic skills program in the secondary school is designed to provide remedial instruction to students in math and the language areas. I do so FIND.

The specific language of the regulation in effect at the time this matter arose provides:

> "Teachers with elementary endorsements are authorized to teach the common branch subjects such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school." Id. (Emphasis supplied).

Clearly, the language of the regulation permits a broader range of common branch subjects than those specified in the regulation to be taught in the secondary school by holders of an elementary endorsement. It is, however, equally clear that teachers of specific subjects in the secondary school must hold an endorsement to teach in that subject area.

[1] This regulation was in effect at the time during which this matter arose; it has been repealed effective January 20, 2004 and replaced with N.J.A.C. 6A: 9.9.2(b)2.

Petitioner testified at first she thought she would be teaching basic arithmetic; her perception of that changed when she went around to each of her students' teachers and collected textbooks and work books. She found that she had to teach herself each evening in preparation for the following day. Petitioner carried a huge assortment of textbooks and workbooks into the hearing and testified these were the materials from which her lesson plans were to be drawn. There is, however, no specific detail in the record regarding what she actually did teach. The record is devoid of any specific information, such as lesson plans, class rosters, tests which may have been given, handouts she may have used, about what she actually did teach. The direct link between the subjects she believed she would have to teach and those she actually taught was never made. Her testimony with regard to the number of hours of preparation required, without more, has little bearing on the issue of whether she was teaching subjects outside of those for which she had authorization. Furthermore, it is not clear from the record before me whether her reaction to the assignment colored her perception of the assignment. Petitioner was clearly overwhelmed by the assignment; however, because she was overwhelmed does not necessarily mean that she was assigned outside the scope of her certification.

Accordingly, I FIND Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proving she was assigned outside the scope of her certification.

There is nothing in the record to indicate the transfer and assignment were made for disciplinary reasons, and, although Petitioner alludes to bad faith, without more, the mere fact that the assignment took place after the reinstatement is not enough to rise to the level of bad faith. Accordingly, I further FIND Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proving bad faith.

Finally, with regard to the issue of whether Petitioner was entitled to a "Rice" letter, I note the board specifically adopted the language of the court order by which restoration to "public office as Elementary School Teacher with all the rights, was ordered and so notified Petitioner by letter dated July 18, 2003. Her rights, therefore, were restored. It must also be noted that Respondent provided Petitioner notice of the intention to present her assignment at the board meeting of August 11, 2003. The notice is dated August 1. Accordingly, I FIND Petitioner had notice of the change in her assignment as well as of the meeting at which it was to be considered. Moreover, as noted above, the board enjoys the managerial prerogative of assigning and or transferring its personnel. Based on the findings above, I further FIND Respondent had no obligation to provide Petitioner with a "Rice" letter.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE this petition should be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case concerns charges that a student possessed beer in violation of the school board's policies and the dismissal of the student from extra-curricular activities.

Respondent Wall Township Board of Education (BOE) adopted policies to prevent and deal with students' possession, use and abuse of controlled dangerous substances (CDS) and alcohol. Consistent with these policies, etc., the BOE's "Anti-Substance Use and Student Conduct Agreement, Extracurricular Activity Involvement Form" states that a violation of its conditions by misconduct, including possession of alcohol, "will result" in "dismissal" from school activities for a 12-week period and "permanent dismissal" from the National Honor Society (NHS.) P-1B. Petitioners C.L., a senior in the BOE's high school, and M.M.L., his mother, signed the anti-abuse agreement. Shortly thereafter, the Wall Township police charged C.L. with operation of a motor vehicle while in possession of beer in the district and the BOE suspended C.L. from participation in school activities and permanently dismissed him from membership in the NHS. Petitioners contend, because C.L. was not in possession of the beer during a school activity and/or on school property, the BOE's actions exceed its own policies and violate relevant laws. The BOE submits that its policies are consistent with public policy and relevant law, points out that petitioners have not denied that C.L. was in possession of the beer, and submits that petitioners have failed to meet their burden for granting of the motion.

This order addresses petitioners' motion for emergent relief, i.e., an order vacating the dismissal of petitioner C.L. from extracurricular activities, so that he can play in this evening's football game. The BOE opposes the motion.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about September 7, 2004, petitioners submitted a verified petition, notice of motion for emergent relief, letter brief, and exhibits to the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 9, 2004 and scheduled for a hearing on September 10, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On September 9, 2004, the BOE submitted its answer and papers in opposition to the motion. On September 10, 2004, parties submitted additional exhibits and the parties argued the motion in the OAL, Trenton.

FINDINGS OF FACT

During the 2002-03 school year a committee of the BOE's coaches, counselors and administrators performed a thorough review and critique of BOE policies, regulations, and procedures to prevent and deal with students' possession, use and abuse of CDS and alcohol and recommended the policies; a BOE Policy Committee reviewed and accepted the policies, etc.; the BOE's attorney reviewed the policies; during two BOE meetings the policies were publicly discussed; and the BOE then adopted them. P-L. See P-1C, P-1D, P-1E, R-1.

In 2001, consistent with the recommendation of the BOE's Policy Committee, the BOE adopted an "Anti-Substance Use and Student Conduct Agreement Extracurricular Activity Involvement Form," which stated that a violation of any of its conditions by misconduct including possession of alcohol, "will result" in "dismissal" from school activities for a 12-week period and "permanent dismissal" from the NHS. P-1B, R-1(2). And, on March 9, 2004, again with the recommendation of the BOE's Policy Committee, the BOE adopted a revised version of the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement. R-4, R-5, R-6, R-7, R-8. The revised "Anti-Substance Use" agreement stated:

> I, _____, wish to participate in extra-curricular club/activity/athletic team for the Wall Township School District. I voluntarily agree to abide by the following conditions of my participation in any and all activities, clubs and/or athletics for the above-referenced school year.
> 1. My participation is a privilege. As such the administration has the right to revoke this privilege and terminate my participation if I do not conduct myself in an acceptable manner.
> 2. I am a representative of the Wall Township Board of Education. I understand that standards for my behavior must be kept high. Because extra-curricular activities are a reflection of our school program, my fellow participants and I must always conduct ourselves in an appropriate manner.
> 3. I will challenge myself to be the best I can be through my participation on this activity. I therefore agree not to engage in any substance use at all. This includes my conduct on or off school property, during our outside of school hours.
> 4. I also understand and accept that 'substance abuse' includes, but is not limited to:
> 5. Use or possession of a controlled dangerous substance and/or 'Jimson Weed'

6. Use or possession of alcoholic beverages
7. Smoking and/or tobacco use
8. Unlawful possession, or use of any substance prohibited by law

9. I understand that my use of any of the above substances poses a threat to the safety of myself, other players and other students.
10. I also agree to conduct myself in an appropriate and acceptable manner according to the laws of this state, and any other rules and requirements of my school as a member of an interscholastic team and/or extracurricular and intramural activity.

I understand that a violation of any of these conditions will result in my dismissal from any activity for a 12-week period, commencing with the date of notification of charges being filed and/or the completion of an administrative investigation (permanent dismissal from NHS), and in my loss of any activity leadership position for the school year in question. This 12-week period may carry over from one school year to the next and is exclusive of the time frame from the last day of school to the first official NJSIAA fall practice date.

The 12-week period of dismissal may be reduced to a 6-week period of dismissal if the student and parents agree that the student participate in the following program: During the 6-week period of dismissal, the student must attend weekly counseling sessions and perform a minimum of 20 hours of approved and documented community service. Failure to complete the 6-week program and/or an unexcused absence from counseling and/or failure to perform the 20 hours of approved and documented community service shall result in reinstatement of the original 12-week suspension. Upon successful completion of the above criteria, the student will be permitted participation in activities during the second 6-week period, as long as biweekly counseling sessions are continued during that period. Second and subsequent violations will result in full 12-week dismissals as described in paragraph one above.

WE ACKNOWLEDGE THAT WE HAVE READ AND UNDERSTAND THIS DOCUMENT AND AGREE TO BE BOUND BY ITS TERMS.

[P-1B, emphasis added]

James F. Habel, Ed.D., served as principal of the BOE's high school from 1997 to 2000 and is the BOE's Superintendent of Schools. Dr. Habel is familiar with the BOE's policies, etc., the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement and the school system's practices in that regard and has found that the policies and agreement have acted as a significant deterrent to students' possession, use and abuse of CDS and alcohol. Dr. Habel has certified that the BOE's coaches and persons responsible for overseeing the school system's athletic and extra-curricular activities reviewed the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement with students and notified them of the repercussions for violation of the relevant policies. Consequently, the BOE's students were well aware of the BOE's policies related to possession and use of CDS and alcohol and the repercussions for violation of the policies. R-1.

On June 8, 2004, petitioners C.L., born April 17, 1987 and a junior in the BOE's high school, and M.M.L., his mother, read, understood, agreed to and signed the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement. P-1B. (They had also signed a copy on August 12, 2003. P-F.)

The Wall Township police, by letter dated June 24, 2004, reported to the school system that they had charged C.L. with possession of alcohol while operating a motor vehicle. R-1(3). Petitioners have represented that C.L. was driving his parents' motor vehicle and that a twelve-pack of beer was in the back seat and not opened. P-1. See also N.J.S.A. 2A:4A-60(c)(3), N.J.A.C. 6:29-10.1, and the Uniform State Memorandum of Agreement Between Education and Law Enforcement Officials, providing for law enforcement officials' disclosure of information to school officials. P-1G.

In a letter to C.L.'s parents dated June 30, 2004, Gary P. Azzolini, Assistant Principal of the BOE's high school, wrote the following: The Wall Township Police Department had information showing that C.L. possessed alcohol. This constituted a violation of the petitioners' "Anti-Substance Use" agreement. Consequently, C.L. was ineligible from school extra-curricular activities for up to 12 weeks. If C.L. attended weekly counseling sessions and performed a minimum of 20 hours of community service, upon completion of the service and conditioned on continued participation in the counseling, the period of ineligibility could be reduced to six weeks. P-1A.

On June 30th and several times in July 2004, E.L., C.L.'s father (who is a local school administrator) and BOE administrators, including Superintendent Habel, Stephen Genco, Principal of the high school, and Mr. Azzolini discussed the above-described charges and their repercussions. E.L. requested that the BOE administrators consider changes in the NJSIAA season structure and that the BOE consider amending or rescinding its policy. E.L. requested a meeting with the BOE and the BOE administrators instructed him to submit his concerns in writing to Dr. Habel and that Dr. Habel would review them and submit them to the appropriate BOE committee. The administrators researched prior practice and adjusted the effective date of C.L.'s ineligibility to August 1, 2004 and E.L. thanked the administrators for researching that history. P-J. Mr. Azzolini discussed the charges with C.L.'s parents and E.L. contended that the Wall Township police had no authority to report the violation to the school system; but, at no time did either parent deny that C.L. possessed the beer. R-3.

In a letter to Mr. Genco dated July 19, 2004, E.L. wrote that, during a telephone conversation, Mr. Genco had represented the following: Assuming that C.L. fulfilled his counseling and community service requirements, his exclusion from participation in extracurricular activities would be modified to take effect on August 1, 2004, instead of August 16, 2004. C.L.'s counseling component has been modified to require at least one meeting with school district personnel. C.L.'s community service requirement remained at 20 hours. Upon C.L.'s return to school in September 2004, the NHS advisor would notify him of his permanent removal from the NHS. E.L. also wrote that he requested a meeting with the BOE to address what he believed were fairness and equity issues relative to application of penalties. P-H.

In a letter to E.L. dated July 22, 2004, Mr. Genco wrote the following: E.L.'s July 19, 2004 letter was (merely) his "interpretation" of their conversations. There was no penalty revision. Rather, the BOE's policy allows first time offenders the option to lessen their suspensions by six weeks conditioned upon the student attending weekly counseling and performing a minimum of 20 hours of approved community service with documentation. Policy states that the time frame was to begin August 16, 2004, but since August 1st had been used as the official start date for the fall sports season, in the interest of consistency, he (Mr. Genco) recommended that C.L.'s suspension begin August 1, 2004. E.L. had requested use of a private counselor at the family's expense and he (Mr. Genco) agreed, conditioned on a meeting among C.L., his parent and the BOE's counselor and the parent's consent to the BOE's counselor to contact the private counselor. BOE policy provided for permanent dismissal from the NHS and, consistent with the school system's practice for all students, when the school year began, the NHS would notify C.L. of that dismissal. Finally, E.L. should first notify the BOE's superintendent of his concerns and, based on past practice, if he was not satisfied, he could then request a remedy from the appropriate BOE committee. P-I.

In a letter to the BOE dated July 25, 2004, E.L. wrote that C.L. had a highly commendable record in the BOE's school system with no detention, etc. He alluded to the nature of adolescence that affected C.L. and described C.L.'s possession of the beer as a "lapse of judgment" and wrote that he had grounded C.L. for one month and that C.L. had lost social use of the automobile for an extended period. He recounted his and M.M.L.'s past support of the school system and alluded to NJSIAA rules and their repercussions on the school system's sports schedule. He requested an opportunity to discuss penalties imposed on C.L. and noted that he and M.M.L. were available to discuss the matter with the BOE at its July 27, 2004 meeting. P-K.

In a letter to E.L. dated July 27, 2004, Dr. Habel wrote the following: E.L. had requested that he (Dr. Habel) approach the BOE and request that it rescind or amend its "Anti-Substance Use" agreement. However, during the 2002-03 school year a committee of the BOE's coaches, counselors and administrators had performed a thorough review and critique of the policies and recommended them; a BOE Policy Committee had reviewed and accepted the policies; the BOE's attorney had reviewed the policies; during two BOE meetings the policies were publicly discussed; and the BOE then adopted them. Consequently, he (Dr. Habel) did not support any change in the policies, etc. As he (Dr. Habel) had explained to E.L. previously, E.L. could appeal for a change in the BOE's policies and appeal from the discipline imposed on C.L. and, consistent with protocol, he should submit his concerns to the superintendent and, if not satisfied, request a remedy from the appropriate BOE committee. On July 27, 2004, he (Dr. Habel) had received E.L.'s letter requesting a meeting with the BOE's Policy Committee and, since that Committee was not scheduled to meet until late September, in the interest of expediting the matter, he (Dr. Habel) had placed the appeal on the Committee's July 27, 2004 agenda. P-L.

On July 27, 2004, the BOE's Policy Committee considered E.L.'s request. The Committee considered the BOE's concern about CDS use and underage drinking and the BOE's determination to address these issues. The Committee considered the school system's mission of instructing children that they have options and choices in difficult situations, and that their choices have consequences. The Committee decided to maintain the BOE's policies, etc. By letter dated July 29, 2004, Dr. Habel notified E.L. of the Committee's action and that he could call to discuss the matter. P-M.

By letter to Mr. Genco dated August 23, 2004, E.L. submitted C.L.'s Community Service Log, and represented that it showed that C.L. had satisfied that requirement. He also submitted records from Michael L. Nover, Ph.D., a psychologist. P-O.

By letter to Dr. Habel dated August 24, 2004, petitioners' attorney set forth the petitioners' contentions and claims. For example, he contended that the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement was required without notice to parents and that, despite its statements, was not truly voluntary. P-N.

Dr. Habel has certified that school system records show that C.L. has not participated in the 6 practices required by the NJSIAA regulations for eligibility in the high school's football game scheduled for this evening; but that if C.L. demonstrates compliance with requirements, including NJSIAA regulations, he could participate in the September 18, 2004 football game. R-1. However, students are notified that only students who satisfy high standards of scholarship, leadership, service and character are eligible for membership in the NHS and, in each instance of violation of the "Anti-Substance Use" agreement, the student is removed from the NHS. R-2.

By letter dated September 8, 2004, the BOE's advisor to the NHS "with the deepest regret" notified C.L.'s parents that, because of his violation of the BOE's substance abuse policy, he was dismissed from the NHS. P-A.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

New Jersey's Constitution states that the Legislature shall provide for a system of public schools for the instruction of all children in the State between the ages of 5 and 18 years and the Legislature has complied with this requirement authorizing local school boards to operate their respective school districts. N.J. Const. Art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1; N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.

Boards of education have broad authority in operation of their school systems. For example, a school board may make, amend and repeal rules for the government and management of its school system and "[p]erform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district." N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(d).

The Legislature has noted that students' possession, use and abuse of substances, including alcohol, can adversely affect the individual, family and society and has directed the Commissioner of Education to establish programs to assist public school systems in preventing and dealing with students' possession, etc., of such substances. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-1 to –21.

Participation in a public school's extracurricular activities is a privilege conditioned upon good conduct. Membership in the NHS is intended only for those who are models of good conduct. Here the BOE provided to petitioners written notice of its policies and that a student's possession of alcohol would result in temporary dismissal from school activities and permanent dismissal from the NHS and petitioners gave written acknowledgment that they read, understood and agreed to that policy. Shortly thereafter, the police reported that, in the BOE's district, C.L. violated the BOE policy by his possession of alcohol in a motor vehicle. The petitioners have not denied that C.L. is guilty of the charge. The Monmouth County Prosecutor's Office has represented that, instead of formally processing the charge on the Superior Court's juvenile calendar, initially it will be processed by the Juvenile Conference Committee, which may result in dismissal of the charge or later formal prosecution. See R. 5:25-1. Petitioners do not allege that they have, e.g., demanded a trial to obtain dismissal of the charge, they only disingenuously point out that he has not been convicted of it. (Also, there is no allegation, e.g., that C.L. is a member of a protected class and that he is the victim of invidious discrimination.)

Public entities and public officials are presumed to have acted lawfully and in good faith and, consistent with this principle, it is well established that when a local board of education acts within its broad discretionary powers, its act will not be upset unless the claimant shows it to be patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 292-92 (App. Div. 1960) (citations omitted.)

Where public school officials have reasonable cause to believe that a student's activities, even though not during school hours and not on school premises present a danger to himself or others or to school property, they may impose discipline, subject to due process rights. R.R. v.

Bd. of Ed., Shore Reg. H.S., 109 N.J. Super. 337, 347 (Law Div. 1970). That due process is provided here.

As the Legislature has recognized, possession of alcohol, especially by minors operating motor vehicles constitutes a potential for great harm to the minor and to the innocent public.

School age children have a right to public school education. However, participation in a public school's extra-curricular activities is a privilege, not rights and, consistent with this principle, the Commissioner of Education has held that a student's ineligibility and resulting inability to participate in an extra-curricular activity, i.e., a prom does not result in irreparable harm. W.L.B. and K.B. obo W.M.B. et al. v. Bd. of Educ. of Woodbury, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 695 (1996), citing Hynes v. Bd. of Educ. of Southern Reg'l, EDU 2897-96, Comm'r, April 26, 1996.

To succeed in a motion for a temporary restraint and/or interlocutory injunction, the movant must show, among other things: (1) that the parties' rights and duties are settled and clear; (2) that material facts are not in dispute; (3) that, when the case is fully heard, he will probably prevail in his claim; and (4) that, if the relief is not granted, he will suffer immediate and irreparable harm, i.e., that money damages would not be adequate compensation, and that, if the relief is granted, the opposing party will not suffer undue harm. See, e.g., N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6; R. 4:52-1; Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982).

The petitioners have not shown that when the case is fully heard they will probably prevail and they have not shown that they will suffer irreparable harm if the emergent relief is denied. On the other hand, rescinding the BOE's actions will adversely affect discipline and order in the school system and will send the wrong message to C.L. and others who may know of this case. Consequently, petitioners' motion must be denied.

ORDER

Consistent with the above, I DENY the motion for emergent relief.

The parties may serve discovery requests and a plenary hearing date will be set.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner fully concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, although the respondent Board of Education (Board) did not act in bad faith, its decision to reduce petitioner's position to 4/5, rather than maintain her at full-time status while reducing the position of a less senior teaching staff member to 3/5, was not made for educational reasons shown to have been sufficiently compelling to take precedence over petitioner's tenure rights.

Accordingly, for the reasons well expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL, directing the Board to compensate petitioner for the period of her improper reduction as set forth by the ALJ, is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BERLIN, CAMDEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 30, 2004 Decided: August 6, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Petitioner Cathi Smith ("Smith") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, seeking to overturn a decision made by the respondent school board ("Board") that resulted in a reduction in her assigned work hours and a concomitant reduction in her pay and benefits. She claims that this change was made in derogation of her rights as a tenured employee of the Board. The Board denies the allegation.

The petition was filed with the Commissioner on August 3, 2003. An answer was filed on August 22, 2003. The Commissioner transferred the dispute to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on September 18, 2003. On November 13, 2003, Judge Richard F. Wells, then assigned to the matter, held a telephone conference that led to the issuance of an Interlocutory Order, dated November 14, 2003, that directed that the Board notice Jane Vernamonti Davidson (or any other such person) who might be impacted by a ruling that favored

NEW JERSEY IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Ms. Smith, that she (they) had a right to seek intervention or participation in the matter as her (their) rights might be substantially, specifically and directly affected. Ms. Davidson was so notified and declined to move for intervention or participation, although she ultimately testified in the case. Subsequently, on April 19, 2004, Judge Wells issued another Interlocutory Order, directing that the Board provide "full and complete, good faith answers to petitioner's Supplemental Interrogatories" by April 23, 2004.

After the reassignment of the case to this judge, a hearing was conducted on May 10, 2004. The attorneys then filed briefs and closing arguments and the record closed on July 30, 2004.

Ms. Smith is a speech/language specialist who has been employed with the Board for twenty-seven years. This case arises because the Board determined in the Spring of 2003 that it would reduce the petitioner's work week from five to four days, while at the same time giving another then full-time speech/language specialist, Jane Vernamonti Davidson, four workdays a week. Thus each was working a 4/5's workweek. As stipulated by the parties, Ms. Smith has greater seniority than does Ms. Davidson. Ms. Smith contends that the Board was required by her senior status to have her work a full week, while Ms. Davidson would work a 3/5's workweek. As Ms. Smith has since been restored to a five day work week, this dispute is limited to a claim for compensation for lost work time and associated benefits for the time period between the start of the school year in September 2003 and January 1, 2004.

Ms. Smith received a formal notice of Reduction In Force ("RIF") in the spring of 2003. She testified that she was first advised of the coming RIF at a Child Study Team ("CST") meeting by her supervisor, who told all present that they would face a reduction in their work hours. The Board voted to approve the RIF on May 13, 2003. Ms. Smith testified that she was told by Howard "Bud" Paynter, then the Superintendent of Schools, now retired, that the reason for the RIF was budgetary. He also told her that as she and Ms. Davidson were speech/language specialists and as there was a large demand for such services within school systems, it was felt that they were more easily able to find another part-time position to make up for the lost work within the Berlin Township district. This discussion took place in the hallway outside of Paynter's office, in the presence of a "visibly upset" CST. He also said that the Board did not want to reduce Ms. Davidson's benefits, although Smith testified that Ms. Davidson was already receiving 3/5's benefits. After the filing of her contested case, Ms. Smith reviewed an answer to a supplemental interrogatory proffered by her attorney during discovery, provided by the current Superintendent, Brian Betze. This answer related reasons relied upon by the Board for the reduction of her work week. These were "concerns of work load distribution, flexibility of scheduling, delivery of services and allowing a more efficient expansion of services for any new referrals for speech/language." According to Ms. Smith, Mr. Paynter did not relate any of these reasons to her at the time the RIF occurred.

Ms. Smith acknowledged that as a result of the dissolution of the Lower Camden County School District, 7th and 8th grade students who formerly attended school in the regional district returned to Berlin Township schools. In addition, a regular education pre-kindergarten was added.

Jane Vernamonti Davidson testified on behalf of Ms. Smith. She had been notified in February 2003 by Mr. Jackson, the supervisor of special services, that her work time was to be reduced as of September 1, 2003. She "quite vivid[ly]" recalled the hallway discussion as having occurred on February 28, as that was the day she was leaving school to get her divorce. The CST members were told that "it's going to get worse," due to less State funding and the condition of the economy.

Ms. Davidson explained that she performs all of her own scheduling for the speech/language services that she provides. Mr. Jackson is responsible for staffing decisions. She agreed with Ms. Smith regarding the reasons expressed to her for the RIF at the time that it occurred and the lack of any discussion of the reasons later asserted in the Board's answer to the supplemental interrogatory. Further, prior to the RIF no one asked her about the impact that any change in the schedules of the speech/language specialists might have upon educational issues relating to the services that they provide.

Howard Paynter, who served as superintendent for the District for seven years prior to his retirement, testified to the changes that had occurred within the District as a result of the dissolution of the Lower Camden Regional School District. Berlin Township now has two schools. John F. Kennedy houses a pre-kindergarten and regular education students up through the fourth grade. Eisenhower houses students from fifth through the eighth grade. These schools are located approximately 200 yards apart. Prior to the dissolution, JFK housed kindergarten through third grade, with no preschool, and Eisenhower housed grades four through six. Mrs. Smith then served full time and was located within Kennedy; Ms. Davidson served at Eisenhower on a part-time basis. While he did not recall that there was any interaction between the two, there could have been if there was an overload, and he acknowledged on cross-examination that the specialists did their own scheduling and there could well have been some shuttling between the schools. When the State mandated the creation of a preschool program and the 7th and 8th graders returned to the district post-dissolution, the district built two additional rooms at JFK in 2001-2002. There was then a need to add speech/language personnel. Ms. Davidson became a full-time employee, as did all members of the CST, and Ms. Smith worked five days a week at JFK. However, in 2003-2004, State aid to the District was frozen and there were significant increases in tuition as a sending-receiving district to the Pine Hill High School District. Significant cuts in personnel were therefore necessitated. This resulted in a determination that reductions would be necessary in CST and Speech/Language personnel. He recommended that there be two four-day-a-week speech/language specialists. Other options were considered. Mr. Jackson was consulted as to his recommendations as to how best to utilize the speech/language specialists if they were kept on a five-day, three-day basis, as Ms. Smith had seniority over Ms. Davidson. The priority was providing necessary services to students. Jackson recommended that it was better that the personnel be utilized on a four-day, four-day basis. The rationale for this choice was to provide flexibility in scheduling, a circumstance that Paynter had himself considered and believed important. This was important, given the importance of speech and language services in the pre-school program and the need to be able to respond to the fluid nature of the Township community, which resulted in the frequent enrollment of new students and thus a need to be able to provide for better access for these new students to these services. The pre-school activities were occurring at the same time as were the K-4 classes.

The decision as to how to proceed with the RIF was discussed at administrative meetings and the recommendation was then sent to the Board. There was not a lot of discussion about the speech/language issue at the Board level. However, the seniority issue was noted and discussed with Board counsel. The option of a full-time and a three-fifths employee was noted, but it was the view of both Jackson and Paynter that this would restrict scheduling.

Paynter recalled that he had met one-on-one with Smith in his office, probably on May 16th. He explained to her that the decision to go with a four-fifths arrangement was "not personal." It was being implemented for reasons of scheduling, in order to provide the best service to the students of the District. The reasons stated in the Supplemental Answer accurately reflect the rationale. He denied that he would have discussed this issue in a general discussion in the hallway, as asserted by Smith and Davidson. He acknowledged that for eleven years the District had utilized the full-time/three-fifth's arrangement. He could not say whether the flexibility consideration would be affected if the two specialists were both off on the same day. He also acknowledged that it might be better for some students requiring speech/language services to have said services on a five-day-a-week basis.

Asked whether he had examined the schedules of the two specialists before the recommendation was conveyed to the Board, Paynter indicated that he had not, but said that Jackson told him that he had requested Smith's schedule from her and had "eventually got it." Smith never complained about time constraints affecting her ability to provide services to students and to incoming students. But the concern that Paynter and Jackson had was that she could have difficulty with providing necessary services, including testing of new students and meeting with parents, if she were full time and Davidson worked three days a week. Having the two specialists each work four days a week was felt to allow more flexibility.

Jane Davidson, who holds a Masters degree in Speech Pathology and has twenty-eight years of experience in the field of speech and language, testified in rebuttal that even though the pre-school was technically under her docket, she and Mrs. Smith had always shared pre-school children. She worked at both JFK and Eisenhower every day. She does her own scheduling, consulting as necessary with Smith and Jackson. She and Smith utilized "very innovative" therapy that required two persons to work with a child and some of the students required five-day-a-week services. This year two students in pre-school receive such services every day. In order to fit this into a four-day-a-week work schedule, it is necessary to double-up one day, providing instruction twice on one day. As she is not at work all day Smith sees them one day.

Cathi Smith testified that she did have a one-on-one meeting with Paynter. He listened and apologized for the loss of work time, but educational reasons for the action were not presented. Indeed, in this meeting Paynter spoke of the likelihood of a further reduction to three days a week, and Jackson independently mentioned this to her as well. No discussion ever occurred regarding the division of labor. In fact, Smith tests three times as many children as does Davidson, as about 90% of the time older children are no longer in need of therapy. Reevaluations involve much less work than do initial evaluations. Overall, Smith has twice the number of students as does Davidson. She denied that flexibility was promoted by the change in work schedules that resulted from the RIF. The four/four schedule, while affording the same eight days of work a week, was harder to utilize appropriately than was the five/three schedule. Under the present schedule, no one is even present one day a week. Scheduling has been "twice as hard this year." There is no case management time available. Previously, there was "most of a day" available for this function, but now there is one half-period bi-monthly. Testing must be conducted within ninety days and the first meeting must occur within twenty days. The impact of the schedule change in light of these requirements was never discussed with her before the RIF was announced. Had they been, she and Davidson probably could have shown that the change to four/four was not going to work.

Mr. Paynter testified that he did not discuss the RIF decision in advance with either teacher and discussions about the matter were "abstract," focusing on budget and Full Time Equivalent ("FTE") considerations. No individuals were specifically discussed, but it was known that members of the CST would be subject to a RIF. After the decision to change the schedule was made, there was no discussion with the two teachers about the impact, but Mr. Jackson's suggestions were taken "seriously." The time frame did not allow for discussions with the teachers as to the change to be made.

Discussion

A Board of Education facing economic difficulties has substantial discretion in how to meet such exigencies. It can, if required, reduce the number of teaching staff members where, in its judgment, it is advisable to do so for reasons of economy. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The Commissioner of Education is loath to interfere with and to second-guess a local board that acts to meet an economic challenge. Yet, such discretion is by no means absolute. The Board cannot act out of bad faith, and when it deals with tenured teachers, respect for the tenure rights of such employees cannot be completely abandoned in the face of budgetary issues.

"While the Board is vested with extensive management power to employ, promote, transfer and dismiss, it must exercise that power within the constraints imposed by the tenure law. Regardless of scheduling inconveniences, the Board cannot simply replace tenured with non-tenured teachers. To hold otherwise would render meaningless the protections afforded by the tenure system. Given the unpleasant choice between eliminating a tenured teacher or reducing the work hours of a non tenured teachers, it is the latter who must suffer." Prysianzny v. Sayreville Board of Education, OAL DKT. EDU 2722-79 (Mar. 19, 1980), aff'd Commissioner of Education (May 5, 1980) (citations omitted).

Thus, at least to some degree, the Commissioner will intervene where a board has improperly acted to the detriment of tenure rights. As the Commissioner has held, where a board seeks to act in a manner that does not accommodate the tenure rights of a teacher, the board must demonstrate that it had compelling educational reasons for so acting. Taxman v. Piscataway Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Dept. of Education) 189, 195. And an aspect of such rights is that a tenured teacher with seniority over another tenured teacher may be entitled to preferences that are similar to those that the tenured teacher would enjoy vis a vis a non-tenured teacher.

In this case, prior to the RIF, the district provided speech and language services through Ms. Smith and Ms. Davidson for a total of ten working days a week. After the RIF that number was reduced to eight. The district chose to give each of the teachers four days work, rather than give the more senior Smith a full five days a week and give the remaining three days to Davidson. Thus, as the board acted to abolish all of the existing full-time speech/language positions, it treated Smith and Davidson equally, as each was reduced to teaching 4/5's schedules. The question posed is whether in making this choice the district acted within its discretionary rights or whether it was instead obliged to favor the more senior tenured employee over the less senior tenured employee. In order to determine this issue, it is necessary to review an extended history of case law that attempts to define the obligations of boards and the role of the Commissioner in cases of this sort.

The Board puts substantial reliance in the series of decisions issued in Klinger v. Cranbury Township Board of Education, 190 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1982). The Appellate Division's decision emphasized the board's discretion and cited the comment of the State Board in its decision in the case that that discretionary action "may not be disturbed by the Commissioner or the Courts" in the absence of bad faith or an abuse of discretion. The court noted that as the board had terminated its full-time physical education program and replaced it with a 3 ½ day program taught by two 7/10-time teachers and the petitioner had received no better treatment than anyone without tenure, Klinger "had no legitimate compliant." In its decision the State Board overturned the Commissioner's holding, ruling that the board's action was well within its discretion. The State Board noted that "We also deem it appropriate to repeat here the oft-quoted principle that 'The public schools were not created, nor are they supported, for the benefit of the teachers therein [but instead for]. . . for the benefit of the pupils and the resulting benefit to their parents and the community at large.' Smith v. Board of Education of Paramus, 1968 S.L.D. 62, 67."

While Klinger might be considered to govern the issues in this case, its treatment since its announcement in 1982 must be considered before that conclusion is reached. Indeed, the wording of the State Board's decision is interesting, for in its reference to the protected nature of the Board's discretionary action, it noted, "The tenure and seniority rights of an incumbent cannot prevail against the authority of the board when exercised in good faith and with some rational basis." (Italics added). Klinger, 1982 S.L.D. 1520, 1521 (State Board). Yet, by the time the Commissioner issued a decision in Taxman v. Piscataway Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (Dept. of Education) 189, the Commissioner noted, in a case where the petitioner had been subject to a reduction in force and had been offered a part-time position and sought to force the board to aggregate part-time positions given to non tenured teachers in order to provide her with full time employment, the "Board knew or should have known that if it was shown the petitioner was qualified to teach the positions, she would be entitled to them unless the Board could demonstrate a compelling educational reason to defeat her tenure rights." Id. at 195 (Italics added). The Commissioner added, "tenured teacher has employment rights which must be given the utmost deference except where it can be demonstrated that the board would have to stand on its head to honor those rights." Id. Thus, in the clash between the policy of deferring to the broad discretion granted to a board to deal with changes necessitated by economic or educational considerations and the policy of upholding the statutory tenure rights of teachers, the Commissioner's 1993 decision in Taxman seems to have clearly come down in favor of very strong protection of tenure rights, even as against the board's discretion, unless the board acted not only in good faith, but also because of "compelling" educational reasons, a far cry from the State Board's requirement that the board act "with some rational basis."

Over the years since Klinger was decided, there has been a tendency to limit that case to its facts and to therefore downgrade its significance. Thus, in Bartz v. Green Brook Board of Education, 1986 S.L.D. 1486, aff'd 87 S.L.D. 2520, the Administrative Law Judge distinguished Klinger because in that case the Cranbury Board of Education had for years utilized dual instruction in its physical education program and had physical education classes that were taught at the same time. In Bartz, the board abolished full time home economics positions and created two part time positions. Bartz objected to the reduction of her full time position and the fact that a teacher with less seniority in the subject matter in which Bartz was certified had been given a part of the duties that Bartz would have if she had received a full-time position. The judge concluded that Bartz was entitled to a full-time position. "Where it would cause no disruption of the educational process, a board must assign the more senior of two teachers to the equivalent of a full-time position in a category when full-time positions in the category are abolished."

In Miles v. Watchung Board of Education, 84 S.L.D. 1058, a tenured, full-time vocal music teacher complained when the board abolished the full-time position and created a 4/5 position. A less senior, non-tenured teacher was also full-time and also received a 4/5 position. The superintendent testified that changes in pupil populations and staff needs necessitated the action. He had recommended that the board cut the vocal music staff to one person, to be shared between the district's two schools. He pointed to some difficulty in scheduling that would occur if a full-time position were restored, but he noted that the school principals agreed that there would be "no great difficulty with the arrangement." The judge, determining that the testimony about scheduling difficulties was "unconvincing," held that the "board was obligated to assign a full-time schedule of vocal music to a most senior teacher, particularly over a non tenured teacher," citing Prysianzny, supra. Thus, while the board had posited educationally based reasons concerning the scheduling of classes as a reason for rejecting the petitioner's request, the decision went beyond mere acceptance of the purported reasons and concluded that they had not been sufficiently proven to justify denying the petitioner's tenure rights.

In Laufenberg v. Ramapo Indian Hills Regional Board of Education, 91 S.L.D. 2447, the petitioner was a full-time English teacher who was reduced in a RIF to a part-time position as a supplemental teacher. Several non-tenured or less senior teachers were employed in the same role. The petitioner sought to compel the board to give him a full-time position. The judge determined that the "Board must establish it made a good faith attempt to acknowledge the tenure rights of the affected employee." If the Board did not have a "sound educational policy . . . retaining full-time teacher and reducing or eliminating the positions of non-tenured teachers allows the board to achieve its goals without impairing the purposes underlying the tenure provisions of the school laws," citing Miller v. Board of Education of Township of Mendham, OAL DKT. NO.EDU 5029-81 (April 2, 1982), Commissioner of Education (May 17, 1982), rev'd, State Board of Education (February 3, 1983). (Italics added).

In Polo v. Bergen County Vocational Schools Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Dept. of Education) 230, aff'd and modified, State Bd. of Ed., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (Dept. of Education) 459, the petitioner's position was reduced to a 3/7 position. Another teacher with the same seniority received a full-time position and a third teacher with less seniority also was given a 3/7 position. The administrative law judge considered the question of whether the board had to rearrange the schedule so as to provide Polo with a 6/7 position, thus leaving Boles, the less senior teacher, with no position. The judge, noting that the board's good faith had been stipulated, found that the board had presented "valid educationally-based reasons" for scheduling two part-time teachers at different locations in the afternoon rather than retaining a second full-time position. The board had acted in the face of declining enrollment and concerns about the appropriateness of the curriculum, which had resulted in a decision to reduce its carpentry offerings. He concluded that the "legitimate needs of the district" supported the board's action. Distinguishing Bartz, supra., and Miles, supra., he affirmed the board's action, noting, "Ordinarily, the Commissioner will not try to second-guess such an administrative judgment call unless the supposed educational advantages are found to be sham or nonexistent."

In Woodbine Education Association and Paula Harris v. Board of Education of the Borough of Woodbine, EDU 6686-98, Initial Decision, (July 10, 2000), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/html/initial/edu6686-98_1.html>, adopted, Comm'r. (August 18, 2000), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/final/edu6686-98.pdf>, the Commissioner summed up the result of the case law development from the time of Klinger. "The Commissioner also wishes to stress that where there does exist an obligation to aggregate assignments, such obligation is a general principle of law, not an absolute one." Id. at 53. Quoting from the Commissioner's statement in Taxman, he emphasized, "compelling educational reason" could "defeat . . . tenure rights." Ibid.

Thus, the question here is whether this board, which, by its decision to reduce both of its speech/language teachers from full time to 4/5s positions, did not give to the more senior teacher the benefit of a full-time position while reducing the less senior Ms. Davidson to a 3/5 position, had "compelling educational reasons" to support its action. Based upon the evidence presented, I am constrained to CONCLUDE that it did not. It must be noted that the testimony in support of the decision was presented by the former superintendent, and Mr. Jackson, the supervisor of special services, did not testify. Mr. Jackson appears to have played a significant role in determining the course to be recommended to the board. Yet, he did not come forth to offer his analysis. Former Superintendent Paynter's testimony was at best vague, speculative and certainly did not present a "compelling" case for the need to have two 4/5 teachers, as opposed to a full-time and a 3/5 teacher. The concerns expressed about the need for flexibility to address the prospect of fluid enrollment and the need to adjust to the change in the district wrought by the breakup of the regional district were stated in the most general terms, without much evidence to support any conclusion that the issues had been studied or reviewed in any significant manner. There is little in the record to suggest that these considerations were of such "compelling" concern as to allow the board to dismiss the tenure rights of the more senior employee. Giving the board the benefit of the reasons identified in its answer to interrogatories, I still FIND that the proofs presented at hearing fall far short of reaching the significant level of concern demanded by Taxman. As the Commissioner noted in Harris, there is no one, hard and fast, mandatory rule regarding the need to aggregate, but as he re-emphasized therein in quoting Taxman, the deference due to a board in respect to its discretionary determination as to how to carry out a RIF is far from the nearly "hands off" policy that often applies in respect to the Commissioner's review of other discretionary actions of boards of education. The need to protect the legislative mandates protecting tenured teachers requires that the Commissioner and State Board give a heightened review to discretionary actions that impact tenured personnel. Here, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has demonstrated that the board failed to do so, and that in the context of this case, the board acted arbitrarily.

ORDER

I CONCLUDE that, while the board acted in good faith, it's action improperly interfered with Ms. Smith's protected rights. As such, it is hereby ORDERED that she shall be made whole for any salary or benefits of which she was deprived by the board's action for the period from the start of the 2003-2004 school term until she was restored to full-time status on January 1, 2004. To the extent that the law requires any mitigation of damages, the parties shall adjust the amount of money and benefits accordingly.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING : OF GRACE GIGLIO, STATE-OPERATED : SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF :
PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY. :

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Although the District initially filed exceptions and respondent filed a reply thereto, by letter dated September 10, 2004, the District withdrew its exceptions. Consequently, neither submission was considered by the Commissioner when rendering this decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the within credibility determinations are critical to the ultimate findings in this matter. (Initial Decision at 81) The Commissioner also recognizes that the ALJ's credibility determinations are entitled to deference. "The reason for this rule is that the administrative law judge, as a finder of fact, has the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the involved witnesses, and, consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. In the Matter of Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div.) certif. denied, 121 N.J. 615 (1989)." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 549, 550. The Appellate Division has affirmed this principle, underscoring that "[u]nder existing law, the [reviewing agency] must recognize and give due weight to the ALJ's unique position and ability to make demeanor based judgments." Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2, decided by the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, August 7, 2000, slip op. at 14. Indeed, the Commissioner > may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. (emphasis added) N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Here, upon review of the record, which included transcripts of the 27 hearing days at the OAL, all exhibits, and post-hearing briefs, the Commissioner acknowledges the ALJ's meticulous examination of the evidence; he is satisfied that his recitation of testimony is both accurate and thorough, and that he carefully measured conflicts, inconsistencies and potential biases in deciding which testimony to credit. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, School District of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 284, 294, aff'd 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 349, aff'd App. Div. 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 549. Each of the ALJ's factual findings and legal conclusions is consistent with those credibility determinations, and is supported by sufficient, competent and credible evidence in the record. Therefore, such findings and conclusions must not be disturbed.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.[1] The District is ordered to immediately reinstate respondent to her former position as principal and compensate her for lost salary, emoluments and increments. To the extent that the record in this matter suggests a need for further investigation and remedial action, the Commissioner directs that the State Superintendent undertake such steps as may be warranted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Record Closed: June 28, 2004 Decided: August 9, 2004

BEFORE JESSE H. STRAUSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter involves tenure charges of conduct unbecoming an employee certified by the State-operated Public School District of Paterson (the District or petitioner) against, the petitioner, Grace Giglio (Giglio or respondent) a tenured principal at School No. 16 (School 16), pursuant to the Tenured Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about October 3, 2003, following an investigation by the Passaic County Superintendent of Schools and the Office of Compliance Investigations of the New Jersey Department of Education, the Assistant Superintendent of Schools for the District filed tenure charges against Giglio (J-1). The charges of conduct unbecoming an employee and gross misconduct are as follows:

CHARGE ONE: During the 2002-2003 school year, and in particular May 2003, the respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct resulting in test security breaches at School No. 16 on the New Jersey Assessment of Skills and Knowledge (NJ ASK) state-wide tests. On or about May 14, 2003, the respondent held a meeting with staff about the NJ ASK test scheduled on May 20-23. At this meeting, the respondent directed certain staff to identify students perceived as "disruptive" or "easily frustrated" for the purposes of labeling them as "504" students entitled to special accommodations. The respondent knew that no students assigned to School No. 16 were in fact designated as "504" students.

CHARGE TWO: During the 2002-2003 school year, and in particular May 2003, the respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct resulting in test security breaches on the NJ ASK state-wide tests. On or about May 20-23, 2003, during the administration of the NJ ASK test to 3rd and 4th grade students, the respondent directed that certain 4th grade students, approximate[ly] 10, be treated like "504" students and removed from their regular classes, and assigned to Carla Propersi'[s] classroom for testing. The respondent knew that no students assigned to School No.16 were in fact "504" entitled to special accommodations.

CHARGE THREE: During the 2002-2003 school year in May 2003, the respondent committed test security breaches on the NJ ASK tests by granting students extra time on the test. On or about May 23, 2003, during the administration of the NJ

ASK test to 4th grade students, the respondent directed Test Coordinator Felix Gil and teacher Arlene Weil to allow the ten 4th grade students:

1) Extra time to complete the math portion of the test contrary to testing procedures; and
2) To "review" and "correct" their responses on the "Language Arts" section of the test previously completed on May 21st. Students were given approximately 15 minutes extra time on the test.

The respondent knew that no students assigned to School No. 16 were in fact "504" entitled to special accommodations. The respondent's conduct constitutes gross misconduct.

CHARGE FOUR: During the 2002-2003 school year, and in particular May 2003, the respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct resulting in test security breaches on the NJ ASK state-wide tests. On or about May 23, 2003, the last day of the NJ ASK 4th grade test, the respondent gave teacher Arlene Weil a list of students who "had not written enough on their essays." Ms. Weil was directed to allow [an] additional 4th grade students to "re-review" and "correct" their responses on the "Language Arts" section of the test completed on May 21st. The respondent's conduct constitutes gross misconduct.

CHARGE FIVE: The respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct involving student K.O.[1] On May 20, 2003, the NJ ASK test was given to 3rd grade students. The respondent directed Teacher Melissa Moscato to exclude student K.O. from taking the NJ ASK test by marking her absent and removing her from class before giving the test. Teacher Moscato complied with the respondent's directive and removed K.O. from class [W]hereupon K.O. was sent to the principal's office, school nurse and to the security officer Graciela Todaro.

CHARGE SIX: In reference to Charge Five, the respondent directed classroom teacher Melissa Moscato to change her attendance records by marking student K.O. late to school in order to cover-up K.O.'s exclusion from the test. The respondent also directed Teacher Moscato not to mention K.O. when questioned by investigators. Teacher Moscato complied with respondent's directives. Also, the respondent then directed school secretary Lily Ruiz to change K.O.'s recorded absences for May 20-22, 2003 to tardies of 9:10 a.m., 9:20 a.m. and 9:40 a.m., respectively. Student K.O. was neither late nor absent on the test dates. The respondent's conduct constitutes gross misconduct.

CHARGE SEVEN: The respondent engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct involving the investigation conducted by the Department of Education. On about May/June 2003, the respondent encouraged staff members to give false and misleading information to investigators. Also, the respondent interfered with the investigation by questioning staff members about statements given to investigators. The respondent attempted to intimidate staff and threatened staff at School 16. The respondent's conduct constitutes gross misconduct.

The charges were accompanied by a supporting Statement of Evidence Under Oath and timely served upon Giglio under letter of October 3, 2003 from the Co-General Counsel to the Paterson Public Schools (J-1). In that letter Giglio was advised that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and implementing regulations of the State Board of Education, N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 et seq., she had the right to file within 15 days a sworn Statement in Opposition to the Charges, together with a Statement of Evidence under oath. Giglio thereafter filed a written statement of position under oath, dated October19, 2004.

On October 31, 2003 Dr. Edwin Duroy, State District Superintendent for the Paterson Public School District executed a Certification of Determination of Tenure Charges and Suspension of Employee Without Pay adopted by the Paterson School District wherein, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35, the State District Superintendent found that probable cause existed to justify Certification of Charges against Giglio for conduct consisting of seven separate instances of conduct unbecoming which, if true, are sufficient to warrant the dismissal of Giglio as a tenured principle, demotion or a reduction in her salary.

By letter dated November 3, 2003, the District filed the tenure charges, statement of evidence, certification of determination of tenure charges and resolution directing suspension without pay and proof of service of charges and resolution with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. Respondent was suspended without pay for 120 days pursuant to law. On or about November 20, 2003, an answer was filed on behalf of respondent. Thereafter, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Appeals of the New Jersey Department of Education, on December 5, 2003, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52-14F-1 to –13 where it was filed for determination as a contested case.

The parties conducted and completed discovery in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:6B-10.1. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6B-10.1(d), I granted respondent's motion to take certain limited depositions. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:6B-9.1, the hearing commenced on March 10, 2004 within 30 days of the completion of discovery and continued through May 12, 2004. On May 25, 2004, Gregory Johnson, Esq., withdrew as attorney for petitioner and was superseded by Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., of Schwartz Simon Edelstein Celso & Kessler, LLP. Since the parties ordered transcripts of the proceedings, the time in which to file post-hearing briefs was extended to June 28, 2004 in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:6B-14.2. Briefs were received from each party on June 28, 2004, at which time the record closed.

PRELIMINARY FINDINGS OF UNCONTESTED FACTS

Since the following is uncontested, I FIND it to constitute FACTS of this case.

1. School 16 is a two-floor building in excess of 100 years old, which accommodates approximately 300 students, 90 percent of whom are Hispanic, in grades one through four, under woefully overcrowded conditions. In addition to overcrowding in most classrooms, certain student activities are conducted in the hallways, and certain staff members are relegated to desks under stairwells because of a lack of dedicated office space. The library consists of but several shelves in School 16's main office.

2. The following staff members, relevant to these proceedings, held positions at School 16 in May of 2003: Principal Grace Giglio, whose office was located on the first floor; Security Guard Graciela Todaro whose desk was located inside the front door on the first floor; Custodian Edwardo Gonzalez; Secretary Lily Ruiz located in the main office; Technology Coordinator Arleen Weil whose desk was in the teachers' "lounge" on the second floor. Test Coordinator Felix Gil whose desk was under the front stairs on the first floor; Facilitator Alice Filippelli located in the main office; Art Teacher Patricia Fusaro; Physical Education Teacher Eric Potts; Media Specialist/Librarian Patricia Harvey who was located in the main office; Guidance Counselor Jane Buccolo located under the back stairs; Resource (Special Education) Teacher Denise McPherson located in the main office; Accelerated Program Teacher (APT) Michael Paciga; Grade 1 teacher Linda LeProtto located on the first floor; Grade 1 Tutor Denise Generals; Grade 2 Teacher Carla Propersi located on the second floor; Grade 3 Teacher Beatrice Loftus located on the second floor; Grade 3 Teacher Melissa Moscato located on the second floor; Grade 3 Teacher Emma Ordonez; Bilingual Grade 3 Teacher Raul Quispe located on the second floor; Grade 4 Teacher Elmas Aliu located on the second floor; Grade 4 Teacher Geraldine Aquart located on the second floor; Bilingual Teacher Grade 4 Ana Martinez (Santos) located on the second floor, and Registered Nurse Joyce Hennessey located in the nurse's office on the first floor.

3. Principal Giglio has spent her entire teaching career, commencing in 1979, in the Paterson School District. She taught a self-contained 8th grade class at School No. 10 for 14 years most of which were under the supervision of School No. 10 Principal George Hirschberg. In 1993 Giglio was promoted to test coordinator at School No. 10 where her duties included preparing students and staff for standardized tests by teaching test-taking strategies, training staff and directing the administration of the tests and overseeing their security. She is a New Jersey registered holistic scorer, which means she is qualified to score writing samples on standardized tests. During her tenure as test coordinator at School No. 10 no one ever claimed any impropriety regarding her conduct. In 1998 the District promoted Giglio to Vice Principal at school No. 10 upon the recommendation of Hirschberg. As Vice Principal she supervised the daily operations of grades 5 through 8 and acted as disciplinarian. In August 2000 the District promoted Giglio to Principal of School 16. Prior to the filing of the instant charges, Giglio's record as a teacher, test coordinator, vice principal and principal was unblemished.

4. In the year prior to Giglio's arrival at School 16, its principal had died and four or five interim principals had administered the school for the remainder of the year. Morale was low, staff infighting had been occurring, staff development and training was non-existent and student test scores were low. Weil, who had been a test coordinator trained by Giglio at School No. 10, accompanied Giglio to School 16 where, initially, she became both its technology coordinator and test coordinator. When Gil also joined Giglio from School No. 10, he became School 16's test coordinator, and Weil's sole responsibility became that of technology coordinator.

5. Since her arrival at School 16, Giglio instituted many initiatives which included a revision of the faculty handbook and the implementation of extended day programs providing computer classes; homework assistance; Boy and Girl Scouts; classes to expand skills in math and language arts; library supplements to encourage reading, writing and group discussion with book authors; and Elementary School Proficiency Assessment test (ESPA) preparation using material from several publications, and a daily pre school program for homework assistance. Additional initiatives included the AWS weathernet where math, science, geography and technology are combined for charting yearly weather data; a poetry anthologies/published authors project; "wee deliver" which provides a vehicle for students to use writing skills applied to real life experiences; "Feeling Good Mileage Club" to promote fitness while learning to set and achieve goals; "I Love to Read Bookworm Club;" a math and jazz program which fosters greater appreciation and understanding of the art of jazz while addressing the math principles involved in music; curriculum mapping to allow quick access to all courses being taught thereby enabling teachers to identify gaps and overlap in classes; a 9/11 commemoration; presidential physical fitness awards; fire safety contest; "Say No To Drugs" program; School 16 bell band; African-American Month celebration; sponsorship of a midget league baseball team; and an intra-school quiz bowl.

6. With regard to School 16's standardized testing results preceding Giglio's arrival, the pass rate on the Elementary School Proficiency Assessment (ESPA) test for 4th graders in 2000 was 32.6 percent for language arts; 23.2 percent for math and 53.5 for science. The pass rate in language arts rose to 87.9 percent in 2001 and 100 percent in 2002. The pass rate in math rose to 91.2 percent in 2001 and 97.6 percent in 2002. The pass rate in science rose to 93.8 percent in 2001, and subsequently that component was eliminated from ESPA. Although a 3rd grade test was not administered in 2000, the pass rates for language arts in 2001 and 2002 were 68.7 and 67.9 percent respectively and for math were 76.4 and 85.7 percent respectively. Part of the basis for the marked increase in scores was a recentering of the grading.

7. In 2003 School 16 was nominated as a Title I Most Distinguished School. The Award is based on most consistent improvement of test scores and the evaluation of a site team from the Department of Education. Once nominated, Giglio had Harvey prepare answers to five required questions using the application previously submitted for the Star School Award. School 16 was one of only two in New Jersey to win the Title I Award, which was presented in a ceremony in Cherry Hill on May 20, 2003 (R-94).

8. On May 20 and 21, 2003 the School's 3rd and 4th graders participated in the language arts portion of a new statewide standardized test known as New Jersey Assessment of Skills and Knowledge (NJ ASK). On May 22 the 3rd and 4th graders participated in the math portion of NJ ASK, and on May 23 only the 4th graders participated in the math section. The test participants came from Aliu and Aquart's

4th grade classes, Moscato and Loftus' 3rd grade classes, and Quispe and Martinez' bilingual 3rd and 4th grade classes. NJ ASK was produced under a 32 million dollar contract between the State of New Jersey and Educational Testing Service (ETS) as a replacement for ESPA.

9. Makeup dates for the NJ ASK, which would have been during the week of May 26, were placed on hold by the State Department of Education because of the commencement of an investigation on May 27, 2003 into alleged testing irregularities at School 16 on the NJ ASK (R-66, R-67).

10. The NJ ASK was developed pursuant to the federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 as well as State law to make assessments linked to the core curriculum content standards. It was to establish levels of proficiency and benchmark skills that children should be achieving. Because it was new, the 2003 NJ ASK examination was treated as a field test where schools and districts would not be accountable for the results. Additionally, if a student was not in the District for a full school year, he would nevertheless take the test, but his scores would not be included in the school's overall test performance. The Consolidated State Application Accountability Workbook in effect as of May 7, 2003 provides as follows: "New Jersey will not include in the accountability system the results of any student enrolled less than one full academic year in a school for school accountability, or in a district for district accountability (R-42).

11. Prior to the administration of standardized testing, the District submits information to the testing contractor, in this case ETS, which produces pre-identification labels for the students, which include demographic information. The labels also code a special education or 504 [see below] designation. They are to be affixed to each test booklet. Because the process of affixing the labels is so time consuming, the State permitted school test coordinators to affix the labels on May 19, the day before testing commenced. However, they were not permitted to affix the labels before May 19. School 16 was provided with labels (P-66). Traditionally, the preprinted labels arrive with errors on certain ones. It is the responsibility of the school's test coordinator to check the labels for accuracy and change any inaccuracies by gridding the correct information on the test booklet. For instance, an improper 504 designation would be corrected on the gridding. Certain blank labels with unique bar codes, which were not preprinted, were provided for use for students who were new to the District subsequent to the submission of data to ETS. The packet of labels had eight such handwritten labels added by test coordinator Gil including one for student K.O. who had been enrolled at School 16 just a few weeks before the testing commenced. The schools are supposed to receive their test materials two weeks prior to the commencement of testing. However, because of massive delivery problems, test coordinator Gil was not able to pick up the materials for School 16 until the afternoon of Friday, May 16.

12. On each of the four test days, ten students (the small group) were removed from Aliu's 4th grade class and Aquart's 4th grade class each morning by test coordinator Gil and brought to the classroom of Propersi where they were tested. On May 20 Harvey was the examiner and Propersi the proctor for the small group. Weil was the examiner and Propersi the proctor of the small group on May 21 and 22, and Weil was the examiner and Buccolo the proctor of the small group on May 23.

13. Each section of the language arts and math portions of the test had a finite administration time limit, and the examiner in each room was charged with keeping track of the time and informing the students of the time throughout the test.

14. The administration manual for NJ ASK (P-8) set forth circumstances for test accommodations and modifications for students with disabilities who were required to be tested in a separate location from general education students. Special education students were to be tested using accommodations/modifications specified in the students' Individualized Education Programs (IEPs). Also students who had a disability and were eligible under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 were to be tested using accommodations/medications that were specified in the student's 504 plan. The accommodations for special education and 504 students could be the provision of extra time on the test if appropriate (P-8, App. A). Finally, Limited English Proficient (LEP) students were to be tested with an accommodation of additional time up to 150% of the administration times indicated. Also, The test was to be administered to all regular education 3rd grade and 4th grade students in public schools in New Jersey.

15. The process for qualifying a student as 504 is as follows: If a behavioral problem, special need or disability is observed by a teacher or parent, an Intervention and Referral Service (I & RS) team in the school makes an evaluation, and it may determine to identify or classify the student as 504 thereby entitling the student to special accommodations. If the I & RS team deems that the student would fall under 504, that student would not take a standardized test with other students. The parent needs to sign off on an I & RS team recommendation. The principal refers the 504 determination to Roy L. Migliorino, the Section 504 coordinator for the District which finally approves a student for 504 Accommodation Identification by issuing a form (P-65). A principal does not have the authority to add students for special accommodations if they were not 504, special education or bilingual. Special accommodation examples include extended time on tests, using a scribe or computer or taking the test away from other students. (P-8, App. A).

16. Student K.O. was enrolled at School 16 just a few weeks prior to the May testing. A representative of the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS) brought her to the School as she had been assigned to a foster parent in Paterson. The DYFS worker had no records from K.O.'s prior schools to provide to the School but advised that she had been in the third grade even though she was between eleven and twelve years of age, she had been abused and molested, and had resided in several group homes. K.O.'s records from her previous schools had not arrived before the commencement of testing on May 20. She had been in at least three other school districts in the same year. She was much bigger and more developed and mature than the other 3rd graders and talked about boyfriends. K.O. was defiant and did not get along with other students. She could barely read or write. Although, the DYFS worker indicated her primary language as English when she registered her, when some of K.O.'s records finally arrived after the NJ ASK testing, they indicated that she was bilingual and receiving English as a Second Language (ESL) instruction. She abused and mutilated herself by cutting, biting and scratching and frequently was sent to the nurse. K.O was not tested on NJ ASK during the week of May 19, 2003.

17. A faculty committee planned a moving up ceremony, which was held on June 10. 2004 for 4th graders who would be leaving for another school the following school year. A part of the ceremony included a surprise presentation to the 4th grade teachers of anagrams prepared by the students using the letters in the name of each teacher. They were affixed to large letters held up by students while other students read the anagrams. The students prepared the anagram assignments in bluebooks over several days by being removed in small groups from their classrooms for short periods by facilitator Filippelli without informing the teachers as to the true reason for the removals in order to preserve the surprise.

18. As a result of an anonymous telephone call to the State Department of Education on May 23, 2003 claiming test irregularities at School 16, on May 27 Roseanne Hiatt Harris, language arts literacy coordinator for the Office of Evaluation and Assessment of the State Department of Education and Dianne Witt of the Passaic County Board of Education commenced an investigation at School 16. School staff was also required to meet with County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Maria Nucettelli. They subsequently met with Investigators Yvonne Tierney and Barrie Borman of the Department of Education, Office of Compliance.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

(A) PETITIONER'S WITNESES:

(1) ARLENE FISHER GOURLEY

Gourley was a test coordinator in the Office of Evaluation and Assessment for the Department of Education. Her duties included assisting in the creation of the Test Administration Manual (P-8) that deals with all aspects of the NJ ASK from receipt of the tests by district test coordinators to the return of the tests to the contractor. She oversaw test security for all aspects of testing in grades 3, 4, 8 and 11.

All 3rd and 4th graders were to be tested in language arts and math by NJ ASK unless exempted in accordance with the No Child Left Behind law. In 2003 the test was administered the week of May 19 with makeup tests scheduled for May 27 through 30. The language arts portion consisted of a series of reading passages with multiple choice answers as well as open-ended answers and expanded writing tasks. The math portion consisted of multiple-choice questions and some open-ended questions. All special education students are required to take the test unless exempt by virtue of their individual education programs (IEP). For test preparation, if the District pre-identifies a student as 504, a special label is created for him. If the school has not identified a student as 504, it can grid this status at testing time and override a label.

Gourley authored more than 90 percent of the NJ ASK Test Administration Manual since most of it was the same as the 11th grade test manual she previously had authored. The tests are supposed to be secure. Therefore, a completed section should not be given to a student a second time. Each school designates a test coordinator who is in charge of fulfilling the requirements set forth in the manual. Each test booklet has a unique seven-digit number. The test coordinator receives one label for each student for language arts, one for math and an extra label in case a booklet is defective. Each booklet has a bar code. The test booklets are consumable which means that the student writes the answers directly into the booklet. Upon completion of the testing week, the test coordinator returns the booklets to the district test coordinator who returns them to ETS, the contractor. During the testing week, only the test coordinator is permitted to handle the booklets until the examiner gets them. He is to secure the test in a locked location accessible to only him and the principal (P-8, p.35) or to individuals whose access has been authorized by the test coordinator (P-8, p.11). No more than two people should have access to this area. After testing each day, the booklets are returned to the coordinator never to be distributed again. It depends on the school as to how much of a role the school principal plays in the testing process. Prior to testing the school test coordinator inventories all materials received to insure that the school has received what the district was supposed to give it. He must make sure labels are affixed to the booklets. He has the day-to-day responsibility to disseminate, retrieve and secure test materials, verify the account, arrange for retesting and direct examiners, proctors and hall monitors. At the end of each testing day, he puts the booklets in numeric sequence, registers each booklet on the security sheet and secures them after accounting for them. Non-secure items are destroyed or returned to the teachers. The coordinator must be in the building walking around and monitoring the test administration each day. He maintains a School Security Checklist (P-8, App. J) to record when examiners pick up and return booklets and what numbered booklets he or she is handling. Appendix C is an irregularity report to record such occurrences such as a fire drill, fight, illness, timing problem or a defective or missing test booklet. The form is placed in the appropriate test booklet and returned to the contractor for quality control purposes.

Only certified teachers are allowed to be examiners. The examiner is responsible for picking up the booklets each day, and he or she is responsible for their security while in his or her possession. They have students fill out the front of the booklets, they read instructions, hand out the booklets, prevent cheating, handle illnesses, retrieve the booklets at the end of testing, put the booklets in sequence and return them to the test coordinator. Proctors should be assigned to rooms with more than 25 students to hand out non-secure items such as pencils and scratch paper, answer student questions, walk around the room and tend to ill students. Proctors may not handle the secure test booklets (P-8, pp.36-37) even if they are certified teachers and have been trained with the test examiners. A proctor for less than 25 students is recommended, but not required where younger children are involved.

The test materials are supposed to be delivered to the district coordinator two to three weeks prior to the test commencement date. They are then distributed to each school either by truck or, more often, the school test coordinator comes to a central location to acquire the materials.

Although, tests should be administered in the students' own classrooms when possible, students should not be crowded together (P-8, p.38). If there is overcrowding there is no problem with removing some children and testing them in a small class so long as it is done before testing starts. If the test coordinator knows the day before the commencement of testing that there is an overcrowded class, he should find an alternate location and another examiner even if the numeric sequencing has already been completed on the booklets and the security check list. Students should never be carrying their own test booklets.

If a child has not been in the district for a full academic year, a special code is put on that student's test booklet, and he is nevertheless tested. Although, Gourley testified that students are to be tested under all circumstances absent an IEP to the contrary, and makeup tests are for those who are absent, she conceded that, if a student's first language is Spanish entitling him or her to extra test time and the records from the previous school or schools have not arrived at the time of testing, the test may be given on the makeup week. There is nothing in the manual that requires testing, "no matter what."

(2) ROSEANNE HIATT HARRIS

Harris was the language arts literacy coordinator for the Office of Evaluation and Assessment, Department of Education and the State acting test coordinator for NJ ASK in 2003. In such a position, she was fully familiar with the 2003 NJ ASK test and the security procedures established for it. The color of the booklet covers for both the language arts sections and the math sections were the same—ivory. Districts would submit reporting and security issues to her regarding NJ ASK. For testing an examiner has to be a state certified teacher, and a proctor is not permitted to handle test documents because a proctor does not have to be state certified. Therefore, Gil's printed NJ ASK 2003 Administration Procedures (R-2, p.6) were in error where it instructed the proctor to count and sign for the test booklets on the security checklist. Additionally, the District or test coordinator was supposed to provide training to anyone involved in testing.

As a result of her visit to the School on May 27, she prepared a report based on discussions with Harvey who identified herself as the anonymous caller. Harvey never told her that certain test participants were not trained. That anonymous caller had alleged three improprieties by the principal consisting of removing test booklets from school premises, changing student answers on multiple choice questions and returning test booklets to students so they could extend or otherwise revise their responses to the open-ended questions. Harvey confirmed to Harris that each of those three improprieties had occurred during the 2003 testing. Harris reviewed some test booklets but found no evidence that multiple choice questions had been changed. Although Harris did not appear to judge Harvey's credibility but rather just gathered facts to take back to her boss, Harris indicated that there was something awkward about Harvey who exhibited nervous mannerisms.

On the test security checklist (P-7), there were some irregularities in the times entered for obtaining and returning some booklets because they were inconsistent with the amount of time allotted for the test on that particular day. She acknowledged that the handwritten label for K.O. would suggest that no one was trying to hide the fact that she was in School 16.

(3) ARLEEN WEIL

Weil has been employed by the Paterson school district for 33 years. She had taught several grades at School No. 10 where she had become friends with Giglio. When Giglio was promoted to vice principal at School No. 10, Weil replaced her and was trained by her as test coordinator. As such she was in charge of testing for the entire 1200 student school. Besides being professional colleagues, she and Giglio were social friends while at School No. 10. As technology coordinator at the School, Weil ordered and checked supplies and prepared report cards, narratives, action forms and reports.

Due to a family illness, Weil was absent from School 16 from May 12, through May 20, 2003. Because of her absence she had not received the specific NJ ASK training. However, she had assisted Gil in 2002 in administering the ESPA test and she had attended two statewide and two district-wide training sessions. She had much experience in administering standardized tests since she had replaced Giglio as test coordinator at School No. 10 and had even trained Gil when he assumed that position at School. There were no differences between ESPA and NJ ASK regarding security breaches or technical requirements.

Upon her return to work on May 21, at the 7:15 morning breakfast party held to excite the children about testing, Giglio approached Weil and informed her that she would be the NJ ASK examiner for approximately 10 4th grade students using Propersi's 2nd grade classroom on the second floor. Gil would bring the students and test materials to her. When she entered Propersi's room around 9 a.m., she found an empty box with a label on top marked "NJ ASK Grade 4 Mrs. Harvey 504 Accom" (P-21), which led her to believe the students were supposed to receive 504 accommodations. Weil recalled that, in past years, students had been pulled out of classrooms and put into small groups because of overcrowding or being bilingual. Weil found the marking on the box to be suspicious because she had not been given any instructions by either Gil or Giglio on accommodations for these students.

She administered the test to the small group that day, with Propersi as the proctor, starting at approximately 9:20 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., after Gil brought the students and the language arts test booklets to the room. The test that day was 100 minutes long (P-6, p.2). Upon completion of the testing that day, Weil brought the test booklets to Gil at his testing desk outside Giglio's office while Propersi returned the students to their regular classrooms with Aquart and Aliu before lunch. Because Gil had brought the booklets in the morning, Weil did not sign out any of the booklets on the test security checklist (P-7A) except for the one she used to read a poem to the students as part of the test.

Weil was again the examiner for the small group on May 22 with Propersi as the proctor for the first day of the math part, which was 62 minutes (P-6, p.2). Gil brought the students that day along with the box with booklets and calculators. As on May 21, at the conclusion of the test, Weil boxed up the materials and returned them to Gil while Propersi returned the students to class.

Weil arrived at the School around 7:15 a.m. on May 23, which was to be the last day of testing for 4th graders on the math portion of NJ ASK. An early 1:00 p.m. dismissal was scheduled due to the Memorial Day weekend. As she entered the School, Giglio stopped her in the hallway by the stairs and said, "I don't know if you were aware of it, but some of the students that your were testing were 504's, and were not given enough time to complete their language arts, so when you finish your math tests today, I want them to work on their language arts." Weil subsequently testified that the statement was as follows: "...since I was not here, I probably wasn't aware that those students were 504's, and 504's need to have extra time, so therefore, the students didn't have time to complete their language arts, and she would be giving me those booklets back so that they could complete some of their open ended questions." Although, she had seen "504" on the testing box Gil gave her, she did not give extra time on May 21 and May 22 because she had not been instructed anything about 504's. From previous testing years, Weil knew what 504 students were and that they needed special accommodations.

She entered Propersi's class around 9:00 a.m. on May 23 and found Guidance Counselor Buccolo there as the proctor rather than Propersi who had proctored on the previous days. She asked Buccolo if any of the students were 504 because she recognized one of the students on the roster for the small group (P-30) as gifted and talented. Although, she referred to a list, she did not recall seeing the roster for the small group (P-30) on any of her testing days. Buccolo told her that School 16 did not have any 504 students as far as she knew. Gil accompanied the small group of students into Propersi's room, as he carried the test booklets in a box. Weil gave the small group students the regular 52 minutes for the math test starting at around 9:15 a.m. to 9:20 a.m. She kept track of the time as part of her duties as examiner. After the 52 minutes expired, she gave them approximately 15 minutes of extra time. In response to the question whether anyone told her to give the extra 15 minutes, Weil testified that Giglio did in the morning when they were discussing the 504's, and Giglio said that they needed extra time because they were 504. On cross examination, Weil testified that she did not know if Giglio had specifically told her to give the students extra time on math. She just said they were 504. Then she testified that Giglio never specifically mentioned math but she (Weil) took it upon herself to give the students extra time on math.[2] When Gil had arrived with the students around 9:10 a.m., he reminded her not to forget they were 504's and to give them additional time. On cross-examination she testified that, when Gil came in with the language arts booklets during the math test, he said, "remember extra time for math." Finally, she testified that she could not remember who said what and when and that she was really confused. She did not recall how she arrived at 15 minutes, but it was used to see if the students needed to fill in anything else because they were allowed to go back to the previous day's math.

As the students were completing the math test, Gil brought in another box containing language arts booklets. She and Buccolo collected the math booklets and handed out the language arts booklets from another box Gil had brought. Weil told the students that the booklets were for them to complete some of the areas on the open ended questions, because that is what Giglio had told her. She said, "May be you wanted to add something to your open ended questions." This instruction was given to all the students while they were still testing in math. Not all the students finished their math at the same time. She collected the math booklets from those who finished early and gave them their language arts booklets. Weil allocated approximately 15 to 20 minutes to the language arts. The testing ended between 10:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. When the math was finished, Gil removed the math booklets from the room. On cross-examination, Weil testified that she brought both the math and language arts booklets downstairs to Gil. Also on cross-examination, Weil acknowledged that Gil could not have removed the math booklets from the room because he brought the language arts booklets to the room while the math test was still in progress. When language arts was finished, Buccolo returned the small group students to their classes and Weil took the booklets downstairs to Gil but did not sign the security roster (P-7A).

[2] At the conclusion of the presentation of respondent's case, the undersigned granted petitioner's motion to dismiss as to that part of Charge Three which alleged that Giglio directed Weil to allow ten 4th grade students extra time to complete the math portion of the testing contrary to testing procedures. The only evidence related to this charge was Weil's own testimony that Giglio never directed her to give extra time for math to the ten students but took it upon herself to do so. There was no other evidence to support this part of the charge. Accordingly, the evidence, together with the legitimate inferences there from, did not support a judgment on this part of Charge Three. See, Dolson v. Anastasia, 55 *N.J.*2, 5-6 (1969).

After returning the language arts booklets, Weil went to her desk in the teachers' lounge when the security guard Todaro informed her that Giglio wanted to see her around 11:15 a.m., which was during the first lunch on this half day. Giglio gave Weil a handwritten list of six 4th grade students (P-46) while she was on the phone with Buccolo and told her that she wanted these students to be retested on the language arts and to give them more time because they had not finished their open ended questions. At the time Giglio orally added one name to the list she had prepared. On cross-examination, Weil could not explain why the notes of County Investigator Diane Mosely-Whitt indicated that Weil told her that she (Weil) wrote the names of J.N. and I.L. on the list after Giglio had orally added them. She testified that it was untrue that she wrote the two names to the list. Those two names do not appear on the list (P-46). Giglio had called Buccolo to come and assist in this test. Weil gave the list to Buccolo who went to retrieve the students while she went to get the pencils. These students were not among those tested in the small group on any of the other days of testing. Gil arrived with test booklets, and he also brought in two or three more students around 11:15 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. Weil testified that it was an oversight that she did not mention in her interview with Mosely-Whitt or in her written statement that Gil had brought in additional students to join the second small group. Buccolo arrived with her group of students at 11:30 a.m. When Gil walked in with his group of students and booklets he said, "I'm probably going to go to hell for this," and he appeared to be visibly upset. He also said that he would distribute the booklets because he knew the students. Gil was in and out of the room during this extra testing period, which lasted about 15 minutes. Either Gil or Weil collected the booklets, and the students walked to their classrooms themselves. She did not remember if she or Gil walked the test booklets down to Gil's testing desk.[3]

After the students from the second small group left, Weil returned to her desk in the teacher's lounge. Harvey had saved her a piece of pizza. Harvey asked Weil why she had been back in Propersi's room because she had seen her back there when she came looking for her. The two of them always eat the second lunch together, which, on that half day, would have been from 11:25 a.m. to 12:05 p.m. Weil and Harvey then had a discussion where Weil disclosed all that had happened that day and indicated she felt real uncomfortable about what happened, that she had done something illegal that she should not have and she was interested in doing something about it. She knew that she was not allowed to retest students who had completed booklets, but had done so because she was intimidated by Giglio and afraid not to follow her instructions. She decided to report the incident to the Department of Education. Weil told Harvey she was not sure she had the courage to make the call, and Harvey offered to accompany her. When Weil arrived home after school was dismissed on the half day, she called Harvey to say she decided to telephone the Department of Education. Therefore, they met at a phone booth in Haledon in the afternoon of May 23 half way between their respective homes. When Weil began to dial the number around 2:15 p.m., she began to cry, so Harvey finished dialing and Harvey spoke. Because Weil was crying she did not recall what Harvey said. Their plan was to make the call anonymously and not let anyone know until the investigation was under way. That is why she did not use her home or cell phones.

Weil's intent in reporting the occurrences of May 23 "...was to clear my conscience and make me feel better because after all the years that I've spent in the district and everything I've done, I couldn't believe that I allowed myself to do that. And I knew that I couldn't go home and sleep with myself at night knowing that I did that." Weil described Harvey's motive as simply supporting Weil as a friend.

[3] On cross-examination Weil indicated that Gil returned the language arts booklets for the second small group.

On May 28, Weil met with County Board of Education Investigator Diane Mosely-Whitt in the School nurse's office, but did not want to speak to her on School property because she was afraid of Giglio. Consequently, Mosely-Whitt telephoned Weil at home whereupon Weil told her the whole story as she recalled it. Dr. Nuccetelli, Superintendent of Passaic County Schools also called her at home and wanted to meet with her. Weil then decided she should have representation from her union, the NJEA. Giglio informed Weil of the appointment with Nuccetelli, and Giglio coached her by reminding her that no tests were released; no other tests were given out; no extra time was given; the kids brought up were for the moving up party; "stick to the story, the plan that we had, and everything's gonna be all right, and to remember that when talking to the investigators. Weil had told Giglio before her meeting with Nuccetelli that she was not going to sign a statement and Giglio told her that she should sign a statement because it would otherwise look like she was guilty. Weil secretly tape recorded the conversation with Giglio on the day she went to see Nuccetelli and the day after (P-49, 50, 51 and 52) because she was afraid of Giglio and felt the need to protect herself because of the severity of the charges of testing improprieties. However, Giglio did not threaten Weil in either of those conversations because Giglio thought Weil was still on her side at that time and was unaware that Weil had initiated the anonymous call. There was nothing on the tape where Giglio said she cheated, although Weil had hoped to get such a statement on her tape.

The transcript of the conversation between Weil and Giglio on June 12 (P-72) is at variance with Weil's testimony of that conversation in several respects. Much of the conversation was inaudible, and therefore it was difficult to understand the context of some of the statements. After an inaudible part, Giglio refers to Buccolo who had returned from Nuccetelli's office.

Giglio: She must be nervous no, she couldn't even hardly tell me, I said, "What happened?" She goes, "No, it went pretty well."

Weil: Tell me exactly she said.

Giglio: She said she only gave math that day, after the math she went and picked up (inaudible) pick up some kids, she didn't say by whom, she brought them to you, she said—I don't know why because remember she's not on the committee, so he just asked her to pick up kids or because I asked you to start right after the test, to pick up the kids for the surprise for the fourth graders, and that's it, that's all she said. "They asked you to write something down," she says, "Yeah, they're asking everybody to write their statements down." She wrote that down, so don't stray from that; "yes, you were brought kids by Jane because you were the committee chair for the party"—because that's what I told them—just so it's working out, I mean, that's exactly what I told them. I said, "yeah—I didn't know who picked the kids up." She did pick the kids up because she says that.

Weil: (inaudible)

Giglio: Teachers don't remember (inaudible) picking kids up for anything because there was only a few minutes (inaudible) it wasn't more than five or ten minutes because I told them what we were doing and how we were going to do it and what they wanted to do for it, and we decided—that was our deciding meeting of what the surprise was going to be. That's it.

(At this point the conversation was inaudible.)

Much of the tape of the Giglio Weil conversation on June 13 was inaudible. Giglio was apparently describing her interview and said she told the interviewer that her statement would be that all proper test procedures were followed during every day of testing.

Giglio: I want details. I said, "And you will have details and I will write this for you but if you want details I need time to write the details." So she says, "I prefer you do it now." And I said, "And that's the statement I will write, 'I followed all proper (inaudible) were followed, '"right (inaudible). The biggest allegations that the kids had the books. I said, "In no way did the kids have the books." That person did not believe them, they were in my office.... But you know what (inaudible) I really do. (inaudible) all the stuff that (inaudible) and all the stuff she (inaudible) try to help (inaudible). and I don't care if you believe me or not, you have to believe me because I'm going down too. (inaudible) I'm not going down, you get it. (inaudible), and you know what, you need to wise up, sharpen up, find out who your real friends are cause its not them, its not them (inaudible) personal, whatever.

Giglio: Do you want to do it, you don't want to do it, I mean you don't have to go in, but are you going to submit.

Weil: I'm going to—I'm going to—yes.

Giglio: Yes, do not, do not submit unless we okay, (inaudible), let me see it first, okay. Let us see it, I'll let you see mine so that we're all on the same page. (inaudible)

During the investigation following Weil's anonymous call to the Department of Education, Weil had prepared for her a written statement, which she signed (P-19). It was prepared by Mary Hammer, who was an attorney for her union.

Regarding the relationship between Giglio and Weil, they had been social as well as professional friends at School No. 10, even to the extent of vacationing together and Giglio attending social activities at Weil's home. Weil has been a realtor for over 20 years and has assisted Giglio in looking for a home at various times. Sometimes, after a weekend, Giglio would ask Weil to look up a house for her where she had seen an ad, and Weil would access it on line at School 16. The last real estate effort for Giglio was in November 2002 involving a search for a house for Giglio's brother. Giglio had given Weil a deposit check for the house but the bid was not accepted. She testified that in 2002 and 2003 she went on real estate sites while at work approximately 30 times for Giglio. Although Weil had been a travel agent in the past as well, she denied that she still engaged in travel agent activities in 2002 or 2003 or accessed travel agency sites on line while at work.

While at School No. 10, Giglio prepared Weil's evaluations, which were always satisfactory to outstanding. Gil maintained School 16's web site rather than Weil. Since Gil was computer savvy, he helped Weil learn the use of computers while she trained him to be a test coordinator. In January 2003 Giglio, because she felt Weil was not doing her job, provided her with a job description consisting of 15 job responsibilities for technology coordinator (P-43). Weil received from Giglio a Tenure Classroom Teacher Evaluation Report dated April 9, 2003 in which she was recommended for her increment and the retention of her employment (P-42). Of the specific evaluation criteria, Weil received an "outstanding" rating in seven areas and a "satisfactory" rating in the other areas including "knowledge of subject matter," "planning," "skill in adapting material to class needs," and "problem solving." As of April 2003, Giglio had put nothing in writing to reflect that any of Weil's work was unsatisfactory. Weil denied that Giglio had told her why her evaluation had gone down or that she had to spend less time at School on personal matters and personal use of the Internet.

When presented with a list of temporary internet files from her School-assigned laptop computer indicating access to many internet sites unrelated to school matters (R-24), initially Weil denied this list was from her computer because she recognized very few sites.[4] Weil then indicated that she was not responsible for accessing those sites and suggested that other teachers may have used her computer in 2002 and 2003 because her desk was in the teacher's lounge and her computer did not have a password. Although all classrooms had computers, only half of them were connected to the Internet. As to Internet hits to real estate sites, Weil claimed that even though the relationship between Giglio and her went downhill after November 2002, she nevertheless continued to look for real estate for Giglio about 15 times in 2003 when Giglio would so request. Her only work time access to real estate sites was for Giglio and that ended in May 2003. However, the temporary Internet file records indicate access to real estate sites as late as May 30, June 23 and June 25, 2003. She denied accessing travel sites in 2003 as well as most of the sites indicated in R-24. More specifically, she denied accessing a site for wedding pictures at 1:10 p.m. on June 2, 2003. When shown the photographs from this site, she conceded that her daughter was in the photographs, and she admitted that she had indeed accessed several hundred of these wedding pictures during working time.

Around the time of her April 2003 evaluation, Giglio also informed Weil that, as a result of budget problems for the following year, she might have to eliminate one position at the School by combining the test coordinator position held by Gil with the technology position held by Weil. Weil denied that Giglio told her that, since Gil was already performing many of the technology duties in Weil's job description, it was Weil's rather than Gil's position that was likely to be cut.[5] However, Weil admitted that Gil had been performing as much as 30 percent of the technology coordinator duties even though he was the testing coordinator. She primarily prepared reports on the computer. He assisted her in monitoring the local area network including Internet access. Gil maintained the School's website. He helped her coordinate the operation and use of all computer, audiovisual, and related equipment, including networks at each assigned facility.

Weil described her relationship with Giglio in April 2003 as okay, but it could have been better. It had started to go downhill after December 2002. In February 2003 Giglio had brought Filippelli from School No. 10 to her School to be facilitator, a position for which Weil had applied. Weil had had disagreements with Filippelli when they had been together at School No. 10. Weil described her relationship with Giglio in May 2003 as still having some feeling for each other and not being enemies even though Giglio threatened and intimidated her.

[5] As a result of the charges against Giglio, Gil was transferred from the School and Weil remained as both testing and technology coordinator.

Weil described the relationship between Harvey and Giglio as a poor one. Giglio had complained to Weil that Harvey was not doing her work and should be working more with the children. On May 20, Giglio had summoned Weil to witness her handing Harvey an envelope, which turned out to be a written disciplinary warning. Weil and Harvey discussed the warning that day, and Harvey was very upset. Weil also described the relationship between Giglio and Harvey as being a bad one as a result of their time together at School No. 10. Harvey had been transferred to the School as librarian or media specialist just before Giglio arrived and not at Giglio's request as had been the case with Weil's and Gil's transfers. Harvey and Giglio were enemies at the time of the May 2003 testing. In March 2003 Giglio had informed Harvey that she was going to lose her media specialist position at the School for the following year and would instead become the facilitator switching positions with Filippelli. Harvey was very upset over this anticipated change. Weil knew that Harvey was also upset during the week of May 19, 2003 that Giglio had not invited her to a ceremony in Cherry Hill where the School was awarded the title of best Title I school in the State of New Jersey the application for which Harvey had prepared. Harvey had not informed her that Giglio had written her up over an altercation arising out of the ceremony attendance. Harvey and Weil had become good friends, and they ate lunch together every day and socialized away from school.

In anticipation of cross-examination because of pre-hearing discovery demands by Giglio, Weil testified regarding her efforts to obtain a $1400 reimbursement from the District for tuition for each of two courses she had taken at Caldwell College for the fall 2002-2003, semester toward her supervisor's certification. The District's policy is to reimburse teachers for certain continuing education courses only if a grade of "A" or "B" is earned. The teacher must submit a report card to the District. Because she did not have the special code to receive her grades on line, Weil had asked a Caldwell College representative to fax the report card to the School. According to Weil, since the fax machine was in Giglio's office, Giglio brought the paper with the grades on it to her some time in January 2003 and commented that one of the grades was C+ in a course entitled General Principles of Staff and Supervision. Gil came up to her and said, "You know I know how to change the grades, and I've done several things like this for Ms. Giglio before." Giglio then asked if Weil wanted the grade changed. Although she initially said "no," she finally agreed after Giglio and Gil pushed her and intimidated her to do it. Gil altered the grade on the computer but not in her presence. She believed he did it at home. Although, she was the technology coordinator at School 16, she did not know how to alter a document on a computer or use a scanner. Weil also figured out what her grade point average would have been with the second "A" and had Gil alter that part of the report card as well and gave that information to Gil. There was a scanner at the School by Gil's desk. Weil then submitted a fraudulent report card to the District in support of her request for reimbursement which falsely showed two "A" grades rather than an "A" and a "C+ and also showed a false grade point average (P-26 and R-18).[6] As a result, she was paid $876 for a course for which she was not entitled to reimbursement. She was not required to have Giglio, as principal, sign off on the reimbursement request submitted to the District. On cross-examination, she added that she paid Gil $100 in cash for his help the week after he made the alteration and before she was actually reimbursed. Subsequently, she realized it was the wrong thing to do, but she was afraid to do anything to correct these actions. Although she knew she was wrong, she nevertheless cashed the reimbursement check, which she subsequently received. To assuage her guilt, when she took another course in which she received an "A," she did not seek reimbursement because she felt guilty. She was unaware that the District had run out of reimbursement money so that no one was reimbursed for courses taken in the spring semester of 2003. Weil did not disclose the grade change to the District until February 2004 when she realized the issue would be raised in this proceeding. She claimed she finally reported this act because her conscience would not let her sleep. She admitted that she cheated and stole money from the District and paid it back in February 2004. As far as she knew, the District does not intend to punish her.

(4) PATRICIA HARVEY

Harvey had started with the District as a kindergarten teacher at School No. 10. Upon obtaining certification as a library media specialist, she transferred to School 16 shortly before Giglio became the principal there in September 2000. She had had a serious problem with Giglio and Filippelli at School No. 10 in the spring of 2000 regarding an election for teacher of the year and her perception that Giglio and Filippelli had inappropriately rifled through her desk looking for election material. Harvey had filed a complaint against Giglio and Filippelli with the principal of School No. 10. When Harvey learned that Giglio would become the principal of the School, she unsuccessfully tried to transfer to another school.

Upon her arrival at the School, the library was virtually non-existent. Although her 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 evaluations were satisfactory, Harvey was always disappointed and felt she deserved higher ratings. There were several disagreements between Giglio and Harvey. Giglio had been telling her that she needed to do more in her job, she was not friendly with the children, and the teachers did not like her. In December 2002, Harvey became uncomfortable when she learned that Filippelli was transferring to School 16 as facilitator.

Giglio's comments on Harvey's March 2003 evaluation included the following: "The use of technology to create multi-media projects was not evidenced. Prior recommendations to enhance the media center through the development of in-service activities to date have not been implemented. Giglio's evaluation indicated that Harvey would become a teacher/facilitator effective 9/1/03. Harvey then knew of Giglio's attempt to designate Filippelli as the librarian in a switch of positions. Harvey added her comments to the evaluation that "I do not agree with the ratings and comments. I reserve the right to submit a statement of rebuttal. It is my belief that I am a tenured library media specialist. I want to continue in the position of library media specialist for the 2003-2004 school year." Harvey went to Assistant Superintendent Stepherson to complain and find out if she was tenured in the librarian position. In order to buy some time while she pursued her rights through the union and Stepherson, Harvey informed Giglio that she would take the facilitator's position for the next year. However, she did not want to be facilitator and indicated otherwise only in order to alleviate what she considered to be a hostile relationship between Giglio and her. On May 13, 2003 she signed a statement prepared by Giglio whereby she agreed to a transfer from librarian to facilitator at the School (R-59), which was copied to Stepherson. However, shortly thereafter she had discussions with District personnel about transferring to Academies as a librarian. Finally, when Harvey gave her written statement about the testing irregularities to investigators (P-27), she attached a handwritten addendum to it indicating her desire to remain as librarian at the School rather than transfer to the Academies if Giglio were no longer at School 16. She also explained that she was hurt that Giglio had replaced her as librarian with her (Giglio's) close friend Filippelli.

On Tuesday May 20, 2003 Harvey was examiner for the NJ ASK test for a small group of ten to twelve 4th grade students in Propersi's room although she had received no training. Although she acknowledged signing a document indicating her attendance at NJ ASK training on May 14 (R-55), she claimed that Gil just told her to sign it and not attend because she had already been trained in prior years. She had been trained the previous month for testing on PASS for 1st and 2nd graders, served as a proctor and was unaware of any differences in test security. Although her signature appears on a PASS training list (R-56), she could not recall if she actually attended. Originally, she had been designated to be the proctor in Aliu's room for NJ ASK. The week before testing Gil had told Harvey she would be testing a small group they were going to consider 504. However, she was given no instruction as to how to treat the students in the small group. The year before she had also examined a small group of about eight 4th graders but did not recall whether the reason for the small group was overcrowding. After learning of her assignment, she had asked guidance counselor Buccolo if the school had 504 students, and she answered in the negative. On May 20, 2003 Harvey found in Propersi's room an empty box which was labeled "NJ ASK Grade 4 Mrs. Harvey 504 Accom." She told her proctor Propersi, just before Gil brought the students into the room, that she knew they were not 504 students and that they were not going to give them extra time even though the box said 504 accommodations.

Gil arrived with the students, who were carrying their test booklets. She did not sign the security checklist (7A) after the completion of the testing in the small group on May 21. She did not recall the names of the students in the small group except that one of them, T.D., was a designated gifted and talented student.

After the testing was over for that day, Harvey approached Giglio and told her she knew Giglio was going to Cherry Hill that day to pick up an award for most distinguished school in the state. Harvey said, in a slow and normal tone, that she was hurt that Giglio had not invited her to attend since she had written the application, much of it on her own time, which led to the award. Giglio commenced yelling at Harvey in her office saying that she had a lot of nerve ruining her day and that she would have to think about this now all the way down to Cherry Hill and that she was sick and tired of walking around on eggshells with her. When Harvey walked out of the office, Giglio followed her down the hallway yelling at her with a raised voice while Harvey made no response. Harvey recalls that, at that time, Aquart, the replacement principal for that day, Cathy Blank, secretary Ruiz and Propersi were in the hallway too.

The next morning, May 21, Giglio informed Harvey that she no longer needed her to be an examiner for the NJ ASK and instead assigned her to go room to room on the first floor to service Propersi's 2nd grade students who had been dispersed among other classes during the testing so that Propersi's room would be available for the small group of 4th graders. Although she testified that she observed a 3rd grader, K.O., in LeProtto's 2nd grade class that day around 8:30, Harvey's written statement (P-64) indicated that she saw K.O. in LeProtto's class at about 9:00 a.m. Although Harvey testified that LeProtto told her that K.O. had just been delivered there, this conversation was not mentioned in Harvey's written statement (P-64). Similarly, she testified that she asked K.O. why she was there but did not mention that conversation in her statement.

On May 22 Giglio called Gil and Weil, who were union representatives, into her office to witness her giving a memo (P-61 and P-63) to Harvey entitled "Conduct Unbecoming a Professional Staff Member. The memo set forth in part as follows: "On May 20, 2003 a conference was held at your request. You expressed your dismay and anger toward me for not requesting your presence during a School 16 recognition conference as you felt this recognition belonged to you. Your intonation during this conference was disrespectful and will not be accepted or tolerated. The display of conduct unbecoming a teacher relates adversely to the best interests of our children, staff and community." According to Harvey, she said nothing while Giglio yelled at her, there was no profanity used and Giglio was hostile toward her. Harvey declined Giglio's demand that she sign it until she had a chance to read it over and write a rebuttal as she was shocked, upset and humiliated. Harvey called Assistant Superintendent Stepherson who said not to worry about it and that she would make sure it did not go into Harvey's file. As she left the building on May 23, Harvey submitted a rebuttal to Giglio where she denied the accusations; contended that the insinuations that she need to acquire professional attributes and improve her oral communication skills were insulting, demeaning and unfounded; and that she felt that "...this only serves to intensify the hostility you have shown toward me" (P-62).

On either May 22 or May 23, Filippelli was testing special education students in Harvey's library area. Harvey was on the other side of the wall and could hear what was going on. Filippelli appeared to be giving the students one answer and helping them with the rulers. Harvey left the area because this activity made her feel uncomfortable. Harvey's written statement (P-64) indicated that her observation of Filippelli helping with math answers occurred on Wednesday May 21 rather than May 22 or 23. She testified that her statement was incorrect and that the correct day was Friday May 23 because there was no math testing on Wednesday. She attributed the error in the written statement to the stress she was experiencing at that time.

Since May 23 was an early dismissal day at 1:00 p.m., lunches were earlier than usual. Since she and Weil always eat lunch together, she called Weil by telephone but received no answer. She waited a while for Weil by Weil's desk in the teacher's lounge when she overheard Aliu say to Propersi, "Now I know why you were pulled out of proctoring in Mrs. Weil's class, because evidently the fourth graders didn't do good on their language arts, and they're going to be given time to redo them." Harvey then walked down the hallway and looked into Propersi's room and observed that Weil was still testing students with language arts booklets. She knew they were language arts booklets because, when she looked into the classroom she could see passages, and there was also a different color on the booklet from the math booklets. Her best recollection was that the booklets she saw when she peered into Propersi's room were in the blue or purple family. She also observed Buccolo in the room. Harvey mouthed to Weil, "What are you doing?" and Weil shrugged her shoulders. Although she testified that she did not recognize any of the students in the room as those whom she had tested on Tuesday, the notes of her interview with Superintendent Nuccetelli on June 12, 2003 indicated that she recognized one or two students as being the same as on Tuesday. She testified that if she had told this to Nuccetelli, it was not so.

Harvey returned to Weil's desk in the teacher's lounge to wait for her. When Weil arrived Harvey offered her a half slice of pizza, but Weil said she was too upset to eat. She told Harvey that Giglio had instructed her that the students taking the math portion were to be given a little more time as a 504 accommodation, and language arts books would be returned to fix up some answers and add some things that they might not have finished in the beginning of the week. Weil also told Harvey that, when she thought she was done, Giglio called her to her office and told her a second group was coming back to do some language arts answers over. She knew Weil was upset because she was involuntarily involved in this breach of test security. Although Harvey had not given any 504 accommodations on May 20 when she was an examiner in Propersi's room, both she and Weil were concerned for their welfare because it seemed a lot of people knew what was going on, and they did not want to get into trouble. The dispute with Giglio on May 20 over the Cherry Hill trip did not play a part in Harvey's anger over the May 23 situation because she had been told the memo was not going in her personnel file, and she knew that she would be transferring to the Small Academy High School for the next year. Harvey suggested that they make a phone call to the Department of Education to protect themselves.

They left school and went to their respective homes on May 23. Weil telephoned Harvey and they agreed to meet at a pay phone in Haledon to call the Department of Education. Weil dialed the number and then began to cry, so Harvey took the phone and spoke to several people who transferred the call. Finally, she reached a recording and left a message that she was calling to report that there was cheating going on with the NJ ASK examination in Paterson, New Jersey at School 16. She did not remember leaving her name. They called from a payphone because they did not want a record of the call to be on their cell phones for fear of repercussions from the District, Giglio or anybody.

Harvey met with Dr. Stepherson in March 2003 to request a transfer out of School 16 into a safer environment because of the relationship between Giglio and her. Harvey claimed that the hostility had increased causing her to be put on medication. Around August 2003 when Superintendent Duroy informed Harvey that Giglio would not be returning to School16, she asked to remain at the School. Duroy believed it would be better if she went to the academy.

(5) CARLA PROPERSI

2nd Grade Teacher Propersi proctored the NJ ASK in her second floor classroom on Tuesday May 20 with Harvey as examiner and on Wednesday May 21 and Thursday May 22 with Weil as examiner. In order to make this room available for 4th grade testing, Propersi's 2nd grade students were split each day, including May 23 among several first floor classrooms. Giglio had told her prior to the May 19 week of testing that she would be with 504 students in her room as a proctor for the test. She recalled that Giglio so informed her well before the actual commencement of testing because she had to prepare packets of work for her students who were going to be sent to the first floor. On those three days she observed a testing box in her room which had "504"marked on it.

On Tuesday Gil escorted 10 students into the room who were carrying their booklets. Only the pencils were in the box. She did not recall if the students or Gil carried the booklets on Wednesday and Thursday when Gil brought the students to the room. She observed nothing unusual or improper during the three days she proctored, and the 10 students in her classroom were given no extra time to complete the test on any of those days. She did not know if the 10 students had been placed in her room because of overcrowding in the 4th grade classrooms. She recalled one of the 10 students who spoke Bengali and did not speak English. He might have tried to take the test but could not have done very well. Although she received no specific training on proctoring, she attended an after school staff meeting where the specifications for the test were discussed. She had also been trained for other tests where the security procedures were about the same as for NJ ASK. Propersi did not proctor in her classroom on Friday May 23. Instead, Giglio instructed her to service her students in the downstairs classrooms, which she did by rotating from room to room where they were located. During or right after the first lunch around 11:15 a.m, on Friday Security Guard Todaro told her to return her students to her classroom as the testing was over. When she saw Giglio in the hall around 11:20 a.m., Giglio told her that testing was not over and that she should go to lunch. When she returned her students to her classroom around 12:00 noon, the classroom was empty.

On May 23 Aliu asked Propersi in the teachers' room if she was finished testing, and when she told Aliu she had not tested that day, Aliu replied that she knew why because Giglio had said that Aliu's students in that small room were not doing well. This statement was made in the presence of Moscato, Ordonez, Loftus and possibly two or three other staff.

While in the teachers' room on May 23, Propersi asked Moscato why K.O. had not been tested since she had seen K.O. in LeProtto's room when she had picked up her students earlier in the week. Moscato told Propersi that Giglio had told her to mark Moscato absent and not tell anyone. Although Propersi gave three written statements to investigators regarding her conversation with Moscato, she never mentioned that Moscato told her that Giglio told her not to tell anyone they were not testing K.O. and did not know why she failed to mention this.

(6) ANA SANTOS MARTINEZ

Martinez was a 3rd and 4th grade bilingual teacher responsible for teaching reading, language arts, social studies and English as a Second Language (ESL). She was the examiner for her students for the NJ ASK, and her duties included giving instructions in English and Spanish, keeping track of time and handing out pencils. She received training during 3rd grade level focus group meetings. At a focus meeting Giglio told the teachers if they had any students who needed extra time because they had problems, they could be referred and taken out of the room. The term "504 students" was discussed during the focus meeting but she does not recall an explanation of the term because she had had a 504 student before with a hearing impairment.

On Friday May 23 her 3rd grade students were not tested and were instead dispersed to other classes. Her 4th grade students were given an additional 26 minutes over the scheduled 52 minutes for math that day because, as bi-lingual students, they were entitled to extra time. After her class had finished testing, Giglio had walked by the class around 11:00 after Martinez' 3rd graders had returned and said that testing was over and that the children could make noise whereupon the children cheered. Propersi's classroom, which is separated from hers by a sliding wall, was empty when this statement was made. She then observed Gil pass by with a group of students between 15 and 20 minutes after Giglio's comment. A short time later, Gil put half his body into Santos' room through the sliding wall from Propersi's room and said to keep it down because they were still testing. She responded that Giglio said the testing was over and Gil said it was not. She observed that the previously empty Propersi room now had students in it who were testing. She observed open test booklets which were white. The children seemed to be working in the booklets but she could not recall if they were writing because she only had a quick look. This occurred during the first lunch on May 23, which was earlier than usual because that Friday was a half-day session.

Martinez learned that her 4th graders were working on a surprise tribute for her because some had told her. The tribute was an acrostic using words starting with each letter of each 4th grade teacher's name. Just after the Memorial Day break from May 23 to May 26, Filippelli began removing her 4th graders from class a few at a time to work on the tributes but Filippelli always told Santos it was just to work on something.

(7) MELISSA MOSCATO

Moscato taught a 3rd grade class in 2002-03, which, in May 2003, included K.O. Moscato was then a second year teacher who had been recommended by Giglio for reappointment for the following school year. Approximately one week prior to the commencement of the NJ ASK testing on May 20 2003, Moscato had been speaking to Giglio about concerns she had with K.O. regarding her size, her behavior, her foster home status, her lack of reading and writing skills, and whether she belonged in the 3rd grade. Although Moscato's students were eight or nine years old, K.O. was at least eleven or twelve. Giglio told her not to worry about K.O. because she would be marked absent but not to say anything about it. She also told Moscato that she would be getting K.O.'s records. Moscato assumed that K.O. would take the makeup test, which she believed was scheduled for week following the regular testing although she and Giglio never specifically talked about a makeup.

Giglio told Moscato to mark K.O. absent on the three days 3rd graders were tested, but did not tell her why. On May 20 K.O. was in the room when she took attendance but she marked K.O. absent on the homeroom attendance sheet, which is picked up each week from the main office (P-11). A "1" is marked next to a student's name on the sheet when he or she is absent and a "2" denotes tardiness.

Moscato was sure that K.O. was not late on May 20. There is nothing next to K.O.'s name for May 19 because she was present and on time. Although, K.O. was in school when Moscato took attendance on May 21 and May 22, she placed a "1" next to her name for those days denoting absence. The marking of K.O. as absent on those three days was not accurate because K.O. had been in school. (Moscato's written statement (P-9) was more equivocal in that she stated, "However, I don't think she was late. [K.O.] 's usually on time to school.") She testified however that she knew K.O. was not late. On May 20 Giglio escorted K.O. from the room before testing, and on May 21 and 22 either Gil or Giglio removed K.O. from the room. She did not see K.O. inappropriately dressed on any of the days of testing. Ordonez, her proctor, had asked Moscato why K.O. was not tested, and she replied that Giglio had told her to mark her absent. Just after the testing for the week was over, Moscato had a brief discussion with Giglio in the hall where Giglio told her that she had marked K.O. absent in the wrong place; that it should have been marked on the test roster rather than the homeroom attendance roster, and she should have been marked late. Moscato acknowledged that she had not marked K.O. absent on the test roster.

For the three days of 3rd grade NJ ASK testing, Moscato was the examiner in her room, and Ordonez was the proctor. She had received training from Gil at a faculty meeting where he had reviewed test procedures including the direction that proctors should sign for the test booklets from Gil during testing. At a faculty meeting Giglio had told the staff that if anyone felt a student would benefit from extra time on the test because of behavior or focusing to let her know. Giglio never used the term 504, and Moscato did not even know what the term meant. She did not put the training information in her written statement but mentioned it to State investigator Tierney. Although student J.F. was not classified as 504, she told Giglio that he could benefit from more time because of a focusing problem. She had previously generated paperwork to the Pupil Assistance Committee (PAC) [I&RS], recommending that J.F. be tested by a child study team because J.F. needed more attention than other children and needed to be near a teacher. He had a behavior problem and had difficulty staying on task. J.F. was not tested with her class but was removed each day by Gil with A.R. and I.S. who were special education students with I.E.P.s. tested each day by Filippelli. When he left each day, he had his test booklet with him although A.R. and I.S. did not have theirs. She did not recall a discussion with Gil about testing J.F. in her room.

When Moscato returned to School after a two-week absence in early June due to a family emergency, State investigators Tierney and Borman questioned her about testing in her class. Before this meeting Giglio had advised her to tell them that all students were "present" and she did nothing wrong. She assumed Giglio had meant for her not to mention K.O. although she conceded that Giglio never so instructed her. She told the investigators that 24 students had been "tested" even though that statement was false. She then approached Giglio and explained she was nervous because she told Tierney 24 students had been tested when, in fact, only 23 had been tested. Giglio replied that it would be all right because they were going to change K.O.'s records to show she was late and gave an excuse for each date. Since it was known that the investigators would be returning, Giglio said to just tell them K.O. had been late; that she had been at the nurse's office and had been inappropriately dressed. On June 17 Moscato told Tierney that K.O. had been late. On June 22 or June 23 Moscato was again questioned by Tierney and informed that she could be charged with misconduct whereupon she began to cry and told Tierney that Giglio had told her to mark K.O. absent. She thought she had done something wrong because she had marked K.O. absent on the test. In fact, Moscato had marked K.O. absent on the homeroom roster rather than the test roster. Moscato thereafter prepared two written statements for Tierney (P-9 and P-10). On cross-examination Moscato acknowledged that Giglio never told her in exact terms not to mention K.O. to the investigators. She assumed Giglio meant she should not talk about K.O. because she told her to tell the investigators that all students had been present. She understood that Giglio did not want her to tell the investigators that K.O. had been absent. Moscato learned that K.O.'s records had finally arrived after testing was over and that she was in fact bilingual and should not have been tested with the regular students. Before May 20 Giglio had not discussed a makeup testing date for K.O.

(8) BEATRICE LOFTUS

Loftus has taught 3rd grade at the School for eight years. In May 2003 she attended a weekly focus meeting of just 3rd grade teachers where NJ ASK was discussed. She recalled Giglio mentioning at the meeting that teachers should make a list of students who might be disruptive or might benefit from extra time, and they would be taken from the class and 504'd. The rest of the discussion was about following test procedures in the booklet. Loftus knew that one cannot just simply designate a student as 504 and that such status cannot be achieved in one week. Loftus did not believe there was anything improper with putting a disruptive student in a special class. 504 students get special accommodations, which do not necessarily include more time. Moscato had mentioned to her that, during the NJ ASK testing, Giglio had instructed her to mark K.O. absent for the test and then later in the week to mark her late. In her testimony Loftus reiterated that Moscato had told her that Giglio instructed her to mark K.O. absent for the test and not for the day. There is a form aside from the homeroom attendance forms for test examiners to record that a child was absent on the test so that one knows a makeup test will be necessary. Loftus recalled that Moscato was interviewed by an investigator the day after Memorial Day and that, at this first interview, she told the investigator she was told to mark K.O. late. At a subsequent interview, after Loftus advised her to tell the truth, she told the interviewer that K.O. was neither late nor absent on the days of testing.

On May 23, Loftus observed Gil walking with a group of 4th graders who had legal size papers in their hands, which she could not identify.

(9) LILY RUIZ

As secretary for the school, Ruiz is responsible for registering students and recording attendance for staff and students on a daily basis. Student attendance is collected from each teacher each day and the data in entered into a computer. On May 20, 21, and 22 Moscato had marked student K.O. "absent on the class attendance roster which is denoted by the number "1." Either during the testing week of May 19 or the following week, Giglio advised Ruiz that, although student K.O. had been marked absent by Moscato, the student was, in fact, late. Giglio told Ruiz that she had advised Moscato to mark K.O. absent on the NJ ASK test roster and not the attendance sheets. At Giglio's direction Ruiz changed the records to reflect that K.O. had been late rather than absent on those three days. Ruiz had no reason to believe that the change was improper because Giglio had a reputation for being truthful in the work environment. Although a teacher or the security guard normally informs her that a student is late, neither the guard nor Moscato notified her that K.O. was late on those days. However there are possible circumstances where a late student goes to class without notification to Ruiz. Ruiz also recalled placing a call to K.O.'s foster mother because K.O. was inappropriately dressed on a day in May but does not recall the specific date. She never observed Giglio treating anyone unfairly in front of her.

(10) GRACIALA TODARO

Todaro was the security guard at School 16 since 2001. Her post is at a desk in the hallway inside the front door of the School. She signs in visitors to the School and directs them. She also patrols the School. From September through May her reporting time was 7:15 a.m. Any student reporting to the School is considered late after 8:35 a.m. and is given a late pass by Todaro but late passes were not issued during the May testing. Instead, late students were sent to the principal's office. She did not see K.O. before her rounds on May 20, the first day of testing. However, she had to attend to a situation that morning where a student had a Tourette's Syndrome outburst, so she did not observe whether K.O. was late. She knew that K.O. came in late on May 21, the second day of testing because she found her at the guard's desk when she returned from her rounds one day after 9:00 a.m. Because it was a testing day, rather than issue her a late slip and send her to class, she walked K.O. into Giglio's office and informed her that she had found K.O. late. Todaro saw K.O. at the student breakfast party around 7:35 a.m., on May 22, the third day of testing, but she was sent to call her foster mother and obtain a change of clothes because she had arrived at the School inappropriately dressed in a belly shirt. She waited in the nurse's office until her foster mother arrived later around 9:30.

On July 23, 2003, during the summer recess, Todaro filed an incident report (R-38). She reported that she observed Weil in the street talking on a cell phone and pacing up and down the street. Todaro locked the front door to the School and went to lunch. When she returned she learned that Weil and Harvey had gained admittance to the building and had custodian Juan Matta unlock the main office door. She noticed that the library door located off of the main office, which had been open, was now closed. It was reported that Weil and Harvey left with some papers after peeking into the locked principal's office and entering the nurse's office (R-39). Todaro also filed an incident report on August 14, 2003. She observed Harvey in the main office opening a locked cabinet with a key. Memos from Giglio and Superintendent Dr. Duroy, issued earlier in the summer, had directed all teachers to turn in their keys and to bring home personal belongings. Harvey removed some papers from the cabinet, locked it, and left.

(11) EMMA ORDONEZ

In May 2003 Ordonez was a class reduction teacher whose duties included pulling students out of overcrowded 3rd grade and 4th grade classes for special instruction. During the NJ ASK she was a proctor in Moscato's 3rd grade class. She observed K.O. in Moscato's class on May 21, the first day of testing before the testing began. She also observed Giglio speaking to Moscato while K.O. was in the classroom and then Giglio escorting K.O. from the room. She asked Moscato what had been said and she replied that Giglio wanted K.O. marked absent. She personally saw K.O. in her seat before the second day of testing. K.O. left before testing but she does not recall who took her out. On the third day of testing, K.O. was also present in class. On cross-examination Ordonez admitted that she did not recall anything specifically about the days of NJ ASK testing. She did not recall what assignment she had on Friday or even whether it was a half day.

(12) DR. EMMAJEAN M. STEPHERSON

Stepherson is the District's Assistant Superintendent for a cluster of ten kindergarten through 4th grade schools including the School. She supervises the principals and evaluates teachers, and directs curriculum, instruction, and personnel.

If a student is being disruptive or has already been identified as 504, bilingual, or special education, it would be appropriate for a principal to exclude a student from a standardized test. A student should not be arbitrarily removed. However, a disruptive student may be removed and tested in a smaller classroom or by himself or put next to the examiner even if there is no 504 accommodation.

She learned in 2003 of a breakdown in the relationship between Giglio and Weil. Also, the District had asked the principals to find ways to reduce staffing if the budget was not approved. In the case of Giglio's School, she was directed to eliminate one staff position, and Weil's position was targeted as Giglio suggested combining the positions of test coordinator and technology coordinator. (See R-65 and R-66). Giglio's April 4, 2003 proposal to realize a 5% budget reduction by abolishing the position of technology coordinator). That caused a breakdown in the relationship. Ultimately, by July 1, 2003, the District determined that the budget constraints did not require the elimination of the position. However, the contingency plan had been required months earlier.

Stepherson received a copy of the disciplinary memo issued by Giglio to Harvey on May 22 and discussed it with Harvey on the telephone. She told Harvey it was a type of memo that would go in her school file as opposed to the Central Office file. In Stepherson's view such a memo would not go into a staff member's personnel file unless the principal asked that it be so filed.

(13) ELMAS ALIU

Aliu was called as a rebuttal witness by the District at the conclusion of Giglio's case. Curiously, the District did not call her to testify in support of its case in chief. Aliu was a 4th grade teacher in 2002-2003. On May 14, 2003 she attended one of the short morning grade-level focus meetings conducted by Gil. Gil, Giglio, and Aquart were there. Filippelli occasionally attended focus meetings if she had a topic. She believed she wrote everyone down who attended the May 14 meeting, but she did not write down Filippelli (P-29). She wrote notes of the meeting on the back of the sign-in form. On May 14, they were talking about NJ ASK preparation because the School was to be tested the next week. Her notes (P-29) say, "list- 504 students, -PAC, -disruptive, -easily frustrated, ASAP> Mr. Gil." "PAC" (I&RS) was the process by which students with special problems are referred by their teacher and are evaluated by a study team for learning disabilities. Prior to the May testing, she had referred more than one student to the PAC committee. Although she was not sure she had referred S.L. to the PAC committee, she did have problems. She was disruptive. The adjectives she wrote on her P-29 notes described S.L. She did not remember if she asked about 504 students or was told. As to the words "disruptive" and "easily frustrated" she was not sure who used the words. On cross-examination she testified that she was not sure these words were used, "but ...it must have struck me, so I wrote it down." Those were the words for the types of students she was supposed to choose as a list of 504 students. She did not remember specifically discussing S.L. at the May 14 meeting when talking about potential 504 students. They were told to give Gil a list of four to five students who fit that category as soon as possible.[7] She testified that she believed she submitted the list by the end of the week of May 14. However, in her deposition, she testified that she submitted the list "within a week." She then agreed on cross-examination that she could have submitted the list on Monday May 19. Security procedures for NJ ASK were also discussed. She added to her notes, "Prior to testing, I gave a list of 4-5 names that would fit the above classification for 504 to Mr. Gil (in his mailbox.)" (R-29A). She signed this addition "Elmas Aliu 6-25-03" and added her telephone number for the benefit of the State investigators.

[7] See discussion of Motion to Dismiss.

Aliu agreed that her class and Aquart's class were very overcrowded in 2003. The previous year some of her students had been taken out during testing and tested in a small group.

On cross-examination Aliu could not remember why the May 14 focus meeting was in the morning but recalled that there may have been a one-half day session with an in service meeting in the afternoon. No one at the morning meeting indicated that children should be designated 504 students even if they were not official 504s. She assumed she would give four or five names and that they would be verified some how to see if they fit under 504 since she thought those students would fit the 504 category. She did not write down on her notes that she was supposed to give four or five names, and instead testified, "I'm not even sure right now." No one at the meeting told her that students placed on her list were going to get more time on the test or special accommodations. No one told her that this list was for anything other than testing in a small room. Aliu verified that she had referred five students for PAC or I & RS evaluation as of April 23 (R-3). She also verified that only S.L. was both referred to PAC and placed on the list she gave to Gil for testing in a small group. Five of the six students she placed on her small group list were never referred to PAC by her as potential problem students. The ones she placed on her list were ones she thought were frustrated or might disrupt the class.

Aliu did not ever indicate to Propersi that she knew why Propersi was no longer proctoring on May 23 because Giglio had told her that the children from her class had not done well on the test.

(14) CATHY BLANK

Blank testified as a rebuttal witness. She was the substitute principal at the School on May 20 when Giglio and Gil left the School to attend an award ceremony in Cherry Hill. She denied that she handled any test booklets that day or was given any by any teacher or that Giglio gave her any instructions regarding the handling of test booklets. She did however recall that Giglio informed her that special education student testing would be continuing in the afternoon. She did not remember whether she received a phone call from Giglio that day but it was possible. She did not sign R-80 which was the security checklist for the afternoon for special education students who had unlimited time to complete their tests. The initials "K.B" were not placed on R-80 by her and do not accurately reflect her initials since she spells "Cathy" with a "C".

(B) RESPONDENT'S WITNESSES

(1) LINDA LEPROTTO

Leprotto was a first grade teacher at School 16 in 2003 and had taught there prior to Giglio's arrival. She described Giglio as firm but professional and fair, very organized, very structured, thorough and demanding. She expected assignments to be completed. She was very good with the children, and the children loved her. LeProtto characterized Harvey's relationship with Giglio as an uncomfortable one. When Harvey arrived she told LeProtto that it was her misfortune to get stuck in the same school with Giglio since something had happened between them at School No. 10. Harvey complained about Giglio for a three-year period, exhibited a strong dislike for her, and on many occasions said she hated her. She described the relationship between Weil and Giglio as a good one in the beginning, but Weil became unhappy. She observed Weil and Harvey becoming very close friends and eating lunch together every day.

LeProtto was trained as an emergency examiner or proctor for NJ ASK for 2003. No one ever said anything about designating children 504 students so they could get more time.

On one of the days of testing she was attending the breakfast program for the children along with Harvey. Harvey was very angry that Giglio was going to some sort of awards ceremony, and Harvey believed she should have been invited because she had done all the work. Harvey indicated that she had had a confrontation with Giglio, and, as a result she would not let her proctor that day. Harvey spoke loudly of this situation for all within hearing distance. Harvey said there would be a payback and that "paybacks are a bitch." The investigators never asked her any questions about Harvey's relationship with Giglio.

During the NJ ASK testing, some of Propersi's students were squeezed into her classroom of 1st graders each morning around 9:00 a.m. Harvey was never in her room on any of those testing days between 8:30 a.m. and 9:00 a.m., or at any other time during those testing days. K.O. was brought into her classroom by Giglio on all three days of 3rd grade testing. She was certain K.O. was brought in after 9:15 a.m., because it occurred on two days when LeProtto was conducting her daily silent reading between 9:15 a.m. and 9:25 a.m., and there was no place for K.O. to sit. Because some of Propersi's students were in the room creating a crowded situation, LeProtto had K.O. sit in her seat. On the last day of 3rd grade testing (May 22), K.O. came in even later than during silent reading. The State investigators presented LeProtto with a statement to sign indicating that K.O. was brought in each day around 9:00. She refused to sign the statement because she had been very specific in her interviews regarding the time reference because of the silent reading.

(2) MICHAEL PACIGA

Paciga has been an acceleration teacher at School 16 for six or seven years. In 2002-2003 he worked in collaboration with the regular classroom teacher with specific 3rd and 4th graders who had identified deficiencies. He preceded Giglio in the School. He described Giglio as an excellent leader who created many programs to improve test scores. Every week Giglio went into the 4th grade classrooms to teach math.

Paciga had been examiner and proctor on various tests prior to 2003. He was trained for NJ ASK in 2003 through various faculty and grade-level meetings including on May 14, 2003 (R-55) when he trained with the other specialists rather than the classroom teachers and later in the day with the full faculty in an in-service meeting. Giglio spoke about 504 students in response to a question someone asked as to what a 504 student might be. She asked for a list from teachers who had 504 students, but she did not say anything improper on this topic.

Paciga served as a proctor in Aliu's 4th grade class. He picked up the booklets each day at approximately 9:00 a.m., brought them in a box to the room, and distributed pencils while Aliu distributed the test booklets from the box. Each morning McPherson picked up the special education students from Aliu's room. The classrooms in the 4th grade were extremely small, and there was an overcrowded situation. Therefore, four or five children were picked up by Gil each day to alleviate the crowded situation. Just before Paciga picked up the booklets on the first test day, Aliu had informed him that the reason for removing these students was due to the overcrowding situation. The routine was for Aliu to distribute the booklets to all the students including the students who would be removed. When Gil arrived Aliu would pick up the booklets from these students and Gil would put them in a box. When the testing concluded each day in Aliu's room, she would collect the booklets, place them in a box, and Paciga would return them downstairs to Gil. Gil and he would count the booklets and put them in alphabetical order. The booklets from the five removed students were already waiting at Gil's testing desk in the hallway on the first floor when Paciga arrived with those of the rest of Aliu's class each day of the testing. On Friday May 23 Paciga returned Aliu's booklets to Gil at 10:45 a.m., at which time he signed the security checklist (P-7A, p.13). He signed again at 10:50 a.m., because it took five minutes to go through the booklets putting them in order. For his entire teaching career, proctors always picked up and return the test booklets from the testing coordinator.

On Thursday May 22 when Paciga had concluded his testing responsibilities, he resumed his regularly scheduled assignment, which was to work with Moscato's 3rd grade class. When he arrived her testing sign was still up. He later noticed that K.O. was not in her room. He remembered this because K.O. stood out in the room because she was much larger than the other students. He noticed K.O. after lunch in the room and asked Moscato where K.O. had been, and Moscato replied that she was late.

On Friday May 23, Paciga set up a table in the hall for his baseball fundraiser around 11:30 a.m. Two students who had been assisting him all week again helped him set up. One was I.O. from Aquart's class. There was no one in Propersi's room at the time.

(3) GERALDINE AQUART

Aquart taught 4th grade at the School for about five years including a period prior to Giglio's arrival. Upon Giglio's arrival she instituted a lot of programs such as after school homework assistance and writing contests. She was a hands-on person. She would enter the classroom and fire math questions at the students. She coordinated the specialty teachers such as in art, music and gym with core subjects being addressed such as decimal points. She initiated a book reading program with the New Jersey Nets. Many of the programs helped the students to be alert and think quickly. Aquart observed a progression of improvement in standardized test scores, which she attributed to all of the programs initiated by Giglio and the increase in parental and community involvement with the School. Aquart's class size went from 18 to 26 to 30 because more parents were requesting that their children attend School 16.

Aquart receiving training for NJ ASK at two or three meetings including one on May 14, 2003 in which Aliu, Gil and Giglio were in attendance at which she signed an attendance sheet (R-55). This was a grade level focus meeting for the two 4th grade teachers. At the meeting Giglio and Gil asked if they had any 504 students who had been previously classified and, if so to give them a list. At that point Aliu asked what was a 504, and Giglio explained those were students who needed to be accommodated. Aquart had no 504 students so it did not affect her, although she did have one special education student, A.V.

When she gives a test, Aquart tries to separate the students so they cannot cheat or copy. She approached Giglio on May 19, the day before NJ ASK testing was to commence, to complain that the overcrowding was absurd with 30 children. She asked if a couple of students could be removed from the room so that the desks could be spaced better. Giglio looked into it and agreed to remove some students. Aquart randomly chose the children who would have been closest to the classroom door to remove as she was setting up the desks for testing in her room. She made a list of four students for Gil and Giglio and added another student later. To her knowledge none of the students she chose had difficulties on the test or needed special consideration. The fifth student she chose was N.U. who spoke neither English nor Spanish, but Bengali. Aquart did not want him to feel badly while seeing other students writing or to feel isolated.

Generals was her proctor. Each morning Generals went down to collect the booklets and pencils. Aquart distributed test booklets to everyone in the class, and then Gil appeared to escort out the five students she had selected for removal. Aquart put their booklets in a box for Gil.

On the first day of testing when the booklets arrived in Aquart's classroom, student M.C., who had Tourette's Syndrome, had an outburst where she became very loud and her body shook. Aquart asked a hall monitor to remove M.C., and either Giglio or Gil removed her.

Her five removed students returned to her classroom on May 20 just after she had finished testing those remaining in the classroom. Gil kept the booklets for the five. The same procedure was following during the subsequent three days of testing. May 23 was a half-day. After the math test was completed just before the first lunch, Aquart had her students exercise to release tension. About 10 minutes before the second lunch, Buccolo came and asked for a few of her students. They were gone for about five or ten minutes. She did not know at the time why this group of children was removed. On other occasions after the last testing day, Filippelli pulled other students out of her room. Aquart learned that the students who had been removed from her room on several occasions had been working on a tribute for her for the moving up party using the letters of her name. She understood that Gil, Giglio and Filippelli were involved in the tribute aspect of the moving up party.

(4) KATHLEEN HENNESSY

Hennessy had been a school nurse for 16 years, the last 4 of which have been at School 16. Her duties included attendance at PAC meetings (now known as I & RS) to comment on health issues of students identified by a teacher as having problems. The meetings would include the teacher, school nurse, the principal and the child study team. In the latter half of the 2002-2003 school year, child study teams ceased to attend the monthly I&RS meetings, but guidance counselor Buccolo would attend. After the District's child study team ceased to attend the meetings, it seemed resistant to accepting 504 recommendations.

K.O. arrived at the School about two weeks before the NJ ASK testing in May 2003. A DYFS representative who was not her caseworker and did not have her records presented her to the School. The initial information on K.O. was that some horrific things had happened to her in her home before being placed in foster care in Paterson. In those few weeks before testing, K.O. was constantly in Hennessy's office, and it was Hennessy's opinion that she needed intensive psychiatric treatment. K.O. often came to her office on her own and on other occasions was sent. K.O. would also visit Guidance Counselor Buccolo. She had no interest in school and spoke of hurting herself. One day she mutilated herself with a scissor, and on another occasion bit and sucked her arm to leave red marks. The day before the start of the NJ ASK testing, K.O. was in Hennessy's office, and they were talking about the test when K.O. said, "You don't think I'm taking that rah, rah test, do you?" Prior to testing she had informed Giglio that K.O. was a very needy student who had to be watched.

At the beginning of the first day of testing on May 20 shortly after 9:00 a.m., Giglio brought M.C. to Hennessy because of a Tourette's Syndrome outburst and asked her to evaluate M.C. as to whether she could take the test or instead take a makeup. K.O. was in Hennessy's office at this time. They were both present in the nurse's office after the test booklets had been distributed because Gil was no longer at his desk outside the nurse's office. Giglio removed K.O. from the office because she was making fun of M.C. When M.C. said she wanted to take the test, Giglio arranged to have her tested in Hennessy's office, which the nurse then vacated. Fusaro thereafter tested M.C. in the nurse's office each day of testing.

On Wednesday May 21, the second day of testing, Hennessy was by Gil's testing desk at a time when the tests had already been distributed to the classrooms when security guard Todaro brought K.O. to her for an assessment around 9:10 a.m. Testing had already started so K.O. could not go upstairs. M.C. was already in Hennessy's office testing that day.

On Thursday May 22, the third day of testing, Hennessy arrived at School a little late because she had stopped at another school. When she signed at around 9:30, someone, she believes Secretary Ruiz, had asked if she had seen K.O. because K.O. had been dressed inappropriately. Hennessy later saw K.O. enter the School through the front door dressed appropriately. Todaro brought K.O. to Hennessy. Hennessy kept computer logs of student visits. During testing she had to wait to make her entries until M.C. was done testing in the nurse's office rather than just after each visit, which was her regular practice. When State investigator Tierney questioned her about times she saw K.O., she produced the log for the investigators, which showed K.O. visiting her at 9:05 a.m. on May 20, 9:20 on May 21, and 10:10 a.m. on May 22 (P-32, p.6). Hennessy testified that Tierney initially did not want to accept the log because it was inconsistent with a scenario Tierney already had in her head, and she kept trying to convince Hennessy to alter her recollections. Although Hennessy signed the bottom of the copy of the log she gave Tierney, someone else wrote on the log "The times entered and the times left are not necessarily accurate since information was entered in the system after ..." She told Tierney she did not see K.O. before 9:00 a.m. on any of the days.

(5) FELIX GIL

Gil started teaching in the District at a bilingual teacher at School No. 10 in 1992. He taught several grades and then behavior modification in an alternative program for behavior-problem children for two years. When Giglio became principal at School 16, she asked Gil to accompany her as an acceleration teacher but shortly thereafter designated him as School 16's test coordinator. As test coordinator his duties included assessment of all student-standardized tests and direction of the District's testing in the School. Throughout the year he would work with students in small groups. In 2001-2002, he still focused on small groups and added a math master problem of the day program, which incorporated literacy, social studies, math and English into the core curriculum content standards.

In 2002-2003 in addition to the above test coordinator and small group duties, although Weil was the technology coordinator, he ended up in charge of many technology functions. Gil was responsible for maintaining and troubleshooting the computers and performing technical work such as updating School 16's website because he was more proficient than Weil. He helped install the wireless Internet system in School 16 and would set up new computers when they arrived. Since Weil did not produce a newsletter at the School, Gil instead collected articles from each class each month and published a bilingual newsletter. Although Weil initially set up the School's website, Gil assumed its quarterly maintenance since Weil never updated it. He, rather than Weil, set up the PowerPoint presentations for meetings even though that was a technology coordinator function. He maintained the cameras and information for the Weathernet, which was connected to News 4 New York. He was also designated by Giglio to be School 16's photographer.

As test coordinator Gil would train teachers in analyzing data and administering tests; review tests with them; demonstrate how to go over problems, pull children out of class to work on particular problems, and coordinate testing materials and areas. Test preparation included knowing new trends in education and getting the students ready for the tests such as writing open-ended problems. He helped develop, with Giglio, before and after school tutoring programs; a Saturday computer program testing strategies in language arts and math; a self-esteem improving baseball program; a pen pal writing program; a bookworm reading club; a mileage club combining exercise with math; the Quiz Bowl, a chess team and a jazz-math ensemble all with the aim of helping students do better in general and specifically on the exams.

Since Weil was a test coordinator at School No. 10, she taught Gil many of his duties and, in 2001 and 2002, went to State and District training sessions with him. She showed him how to grid books and coordinate examiners and proctors. Dr. Mary Kildowe conducted the District training on issues related to security, gridding and packing materials. While at School No. 10 where Hirschberg was principal, proctors always picked up and returned the test materials. Gil followed that practice at School 16. He was never trained to do otherwise. While at School 16, Gil's understanding was that he could use proctors to pick up and return tests so long as they were also certified teachers. Gil trained teachers on the testing procedures during grade focus meetings and distributed materials from the District. He tried to train every teacher in School 16.

He described Giglio as understanding to the teachers, receptive to their ideas and accessible, but she was also strict and held her teachers accountable. He never observed her yelling at anyone. He knew that some people did not like Giglio's way of doing things because uncompleted assignments resulted in memos.

For the 2002 ESPA test administered to only the 4th grades, there were five testing groups—Aquart, Aliu, bilingual students, special education students and a small alleviation group. The small alleviation group consisted of students pulled from Aliu's class due to its large size because she did not have many special education students. Harvey tested them in the media room. During 2001 and 2002 there were also some 504 students pulled out for testing with special accommodations. One needed an oversized book due to a vision problem in 2001.

Prior to the NJ ASK test, Gil established training sessions periodically throughout the year, and everyone on staff was supposed to attend. He would show the teachers different types of testing materials from the District and would explain how to implement the materials in the classroom. For instance, test procedures were discussed at a May 5 full faculty meeting. The sign-in sheet (R-77) shows Harvey in attendance. Although Weil did not sign in, she was present at this meeting (R-78).

On May 14 Gil conducted formal training. It was a half-day school session during which Gil conducted four 20-minute meetings with the specialists and the teachers by grade between 9:25 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. This training included everyone whether or not they were intended to be examiners or proctors. Filippelli, Giglio and Gil attended all of these short sessions. At the 4th grade session Aliu had asked what a 504 was, and Giglio tried to explain what kind of students they were as possibly disruptive or easily frustrated and what the procedure was for having a student classified as 504. These meetings were reflected in a sign-in sheet (R-55). Harvey definitely attended a session on May 14, and he did not permit Harvey to skip the 2003 training because she had been trained before. The full faculty attended an in-service meeting that afternoon where NJ ASK was also discussed. Harvey's signature again appears on the sign-in sheet (R-78). The staff received packets of materials related to the testing on May 14 (R-79) setting forth administration procedure, examiner, proctor and back-up assignments, and the day-by-day test schedule with time limits for language arts and math for the 3rd and 4th grades. The procedures handout prepared by Gil, which indicates that proctors will count and sign for the booklets on the security checklist, was submitted to District Test Coordinator Kildowe prior to May 14. Gil did not receive the Test Administration Manuals prepared by the State (P-8) until after his final training meetings.

Giglio and Gil thought there would be 504 students for testing because the paperwork was in progress for 4th grade students S.L and T.A., which they anticipated being completed before May 20. Therefore, they needed to designate and reserve a separate room and assign an examiner for the anticipated 504 students. On May 13 Gil created a template in the computer system for 504's as well as for each class and for special education for roster purposes and left the names blank. Templates were put in all fields for the test. The 504 template was highlighted with a "Y" designation. Because of the possibility of 504 students, Gil revised his examiner/proctor list as set forth on page 4 of R-79 to add Harvey and Propersi as a 4th grade examiner and proctor (R-72).

At 1:30 p.m. on Friday May 16, Gil went to the District's central office to pick up School 16's testing materials. He was delayed there because of a missing resource sheet from ETS and did not return to the School with the materials until 2:55 p.m., which was near the end of the school day. As Gil was unable to stay after school that day, the first time he was able to review the testing materials was during the morning of Monday May 19. Although he had asked Aliu, Aquart and the 3rd grade teachers to notify him if they had any 504 students, he had received no such lists. On the afternoon of May 16, he asked Aliu if she had heard anything about S.L.'s 504 designation, and she said she had not.

On Monday morning Gil began to put the label data he had received on Friday and the booklet numbers into the rosters he had previously set up with templates. He placed labels (P-66) onto the test booklets, which contained designated numbers. Once a label is affixed to a numbered booklet, it cannot be removed, so the booklet becomes that of the student whose label is affixed. When Gil starting inputting the label information into his rosters, he discovered over 20 mistakes including students mislabeled as 504 by ETS based on data submitted to it by the District's testing department (See P-66A). May 19 was chaotic because of the mislabeling problem, an expected proctor (Reyes) had a heart attack, and an expected examiner (Weil) was absent due to a family problem. Gil had no one to help him and became stressed for time since the testing was scheduled to commence the next day. He approached Buccolo that day, who confirmed that the students whom ETS had labeled as 504 were not in that category. She also advised that the paperwork for S.L. and T.A. had not been completed. Gil advised Giglio that the paperwork had not been completed and that, therefore, the 4th grade classes would have more students than anticipated. Since they had previously alleviated overcrowding in previous years by creating a small group in a separate room; and since they no longer needed the room which had been designated for the anticipated 504 students; and since Harvey and Propersi had already been assigned to that room; and since Propersi had already prepared other work for her class to perform in other classrooms, they decided to use Harvey and Propersi and the pre-designated 504 room to alleviate overcrowding in Aquart's and Aliu's classes.

Gil and Giglio approached the two teachers on the afternoon of May 19 and asked for lists of students for the small class to alleviate crowding in their classes. Aliu gave five names and Aquart gave four. Gil denied that Aliu had given him a list of students on May 14. By the time the small group to alleviate overcrowding was consummated, labels had already been put on the booklets for the Aliu and Aquart classes, and the rosters had already been set up. The document bearing the footer "Harvey 504 Accommodation" (P-30) was not an official roster but rather an in-house document Gil had created on the computer so that teachers would know who was in their class for testing. It was never prepared for ETS. Gil simply put the small group into the template he had earlier prepared when he expected that there would be a 504 group. He never changed the template to eliminate the 504 category, and that is why nine names appear on P-30. He also never changed the label on the box used in Propersi's room for the small group. Gil realized his mistake later in the week and claimed that there was no time to make such changes since conditions were "crazy." If either or both of the proposed 504 students or others had been approved, they would have been tested in Propersi's room. Prior to discovering that there were no 504 students, there was no plan for a small group to alleviate overcrowding.

Gil anticipated having one week to make sure that all information on the testing was coded properly before he had to return it to ETS. However, when investigators arrived at the School on May 27, he was directed to cease any additional work on the testing data or giving makeup examinations.

Because of the creation of the small class as late as May 19, and since the labels had already been affixed to the booklets, the newly constituted small class could not have had test booklets in sequential order. When Paciga signed out booklets for Aliu's class and Generals for Aquart's class on the official security checklist (P-7A) on each day of the testing, they had to sign for the entire class. Since the booklets for the small group were not in sequential order, on Friday May 23 Gil noted them in the security checklist by affixing dots to the left of the security number for each student in the small group for language arts and math (P-7 and 7A). Additional dots were affixed where a booklet was distributed for teacher use. Gil also noted that on pages 5 and 6 for 3rd grade math and pages 11 and 12 for 4th grade math he wrote the wrong date. It should have been May 22 rather than May 21.

On Tuesday May 20 Gil removed the booklets from the test security closet in the hallway of the first floor and took them to the desk outside Giglio's office and waited for the proctors to pick them up. When the proctor arrived, Gil would go to the box for that class, count out the booklets and have the proctor sign the security checklist. This occurred around 9:00. Gil then went upstairs and removed the small group first from Aquart's room and then from Aliu's room. He had with him the box, which indicated "Harvey 504 Accom" which contained the booklets, test roster and pencils. Although student N.U. was not on Aquart's removal list, it was decided to test him with the small group, because he did not speak English. He carried the box and walked the group to Propersi's room and left the students with Harvey and Propersi. He then went to Moscato's room and picked up her special education students A.R. and I.S. and delivered them to Filippelli. He did not remove anyone else from Moscato's class and did not see K.O. at that time. On May 20, after he had removed the above students, he was called to Aquart's room where M.C. was having a Tourette's Syndrome episode and had to be removed to the nurse's office where Gil arranged for Fusaro, a backup examiner, to examine M.C. During the rest of the testing period that day, Gil would peek into the testing rooms to make sure everything was okay. At the end of testing he waited at the testing desk for the materials to be returned to him. Propersi returned the small group booklets just before Paciga and Generals returned the booklets from Aquart's and Aliu's classes. Gil recorded the return times. After testing was finished for all but the special education students on May 20, Gil left the School with Giglio to attend the Star School presentation in Cherry Hill. He understood that Filippelli had given Acting Principal Blank the special education test booklets to be locked up.

Gil followed the same procedures each day. On the math test days of May 22 and May 23 he had the small group students carry manila scrap paper with them but never had them carry their test booklets. On Wednesday Weil replaced Harvey as the examiner in Propersi's room at Giglio's direction, and she returned the booklets at the end of each test period. On Friday Buccolo replaced Propersi as proctor in Propersi's room because 3rd grade testing had ended, so Buccolo was not needed for testing there and Propersi would then be available to administer to her dispersed students. Unlike Propersi, Buccolo, as guidance counselor did not have her own class to cover. Each day, the booklets from Propersi's room were returned to Gil before Paciga and Generals returned theirs. Gil recalled this from his memory rather than from P-7A since Weil did not sign in the small group books on May 23. On May 21 and May 22 Gil continued to remove the special education students from Moscato's classroom after he distributed the tests. He did not see K.O. in her classroom on either of those days. On each of the testing days, because the special education students received unlimited time to complete their tests, they were not finished before lunch so Gil secured the tests during lunch and signed them back out after lunch. He prepared a special document (R-80) for the second sign out and sign in for the special education students.

On Friday May 23 Gil never entered the small group classroom during testing. He absolutely never instructed anyone to give those students more time on their math nor did he re-release any language arts books to Weil so the students could improve their work. He had no discussion that day with Weil or Buccolo while testing was in progress. He never said to Weil that day, "I'm going to go to hell for this."

Prior to the week of testing, Giglio, Filippelli, Weil and Gil had discussed the planned tributes to the 4th grade teachers by their students. While Weil was away on her family emergency before the test week, Giglio, Filippelli and Gil had another discussion where they had agreed to commence the tribute preparation on May 23 after testing concluded. This time was chosen because May 23 was a half-day, the children would be tired after testing, and this would be a fun project. After testing was completed on May 23, Gil understood that Giglio had given Weil a list of students to retrieve from Aliu and Aquart's class. Giglio instructed Gil to get the tribute books from Filippelli's closet, which were blue booklets usually used for tests throughout the year in which the children were to write. He carried the booklets to Propersi's room where the small group testing had occurred. Weil was there with six students. When he arrived Weil said that she had to leave and did so. Gil then distributed the bluebooks to the students and Filippelli joined him in the room where he remained for about five minutes. He left the room as Filippelli was directing the tribute project. He did not have a conversation with Martinez that morning. However, while he was with the tribute students, the custodian tried to slide the door open between Martinez' room and Propersi's room whereupon Gil said, "Don't do that. We're not ready."

On the afternoon of May 14, Gil, Giglio and Filippelli met with the father of 3rd grade student J.F. on the playground. He was requesting special education or an accommodation of special seating near a teacher for his son because he was rambunctious and had received a special accommodation at his previous school. Gil then prepared a document to initiate the 504 process and left it in guidance counselor Buccolo's mailbox since she was not in that day. Gil never heard about the 504 effort again from Buccolo or anyone else. On the May 21, the second day of testing, J.F.'s 3rd grade teacher Moscato approached Gil and asked if he would remove J.F. from the room because he had been acting up. Gil said he had received no paperwork to authorize this. When Moscato began to cry, Gil said he would speak to Giglio. He never removed J.F. from the room and never inquired what happened to J.F.

In February 2003 his relationship with Weil had become somewhat rocky, but they remained civil toward each other. Prior to the arrival of a state assessment team, Weil was supposed to get certain materials ready. Since she did not perform her assignment, Giglio asked Gil and her to stay after school to complete it, but Weil would not stay. Gil ended up doing all of her work, and he told her he was upset. Nevertheless, he still considered Weil a friend in May. During the investigation Weil was telling him not to say certain things to the investigators like her not signing out books leading him to believe she was worried she had done something wrong. Gil thought the investigation concerned allowing proctors to sign out books or his walking the books to the small group, but he never learned at that time that the allegations were more serious. It was not until August that he realized that the allegations were for cheating and that he had been implicated. He believed Weil had manipulated him.

Gil knew that Weil had taken college courses in the fall of 2002. Around January 2003 Weil was speaking with Giglio and Gil and had complained that she had received a "C" grade on her report card. Giglio thought it was funny and said something like "suck it up and don't be a baby." A few days later he observed Weil on his computer scanning her report card. His computer was the only one in School 16 with a scanner. He knew that she was capable of operating a scanner because he had observed her using one in the past. He asked her what was she doing, and she replied that it was nothing. He did not suspect wrongdoing at that time. In early June he overheard a conversation where Filippelli had said that she had not received tuition reimbursement because the District had run out of money for that benefit. Weil was present and said that she had been reimbursed for her two fall courses. This surprised Gil because he knew that there should have been no reimbursement for a "C" grade since it had happened to him once. Gil said nothing at that time to anyone because he thought Weil was still his friend. However, in August he disclosed to Giglio for the first time what he had observed regarding the scanner and the surprising comment she had made in June about reimbursement. He denied ever assisting Weil to alter her report card.

(6) JANE BUCCOLO

Buccolo appeared under subpoena from respondent. She had been the guidance counselor at School16 for two and one-half years following a term as guidance counselor at School No. 10. For the first three days of the NJ ASK testing, Buccolo was a proctor in Loftus' 3rd grade class. (There was no 3rd grade testing on May 23). On May 23 Giglio instructed her to proctor in Propersi's room where Weil was the examiner. To her knowledge, nothing unusual occurred that day. As guidance counselor she was aware that giving extra time on a test to students who were not 504 or special education students would be irregular, as would the return to students of tests, which had already been completed. However, she observed no such irregularities in Propersi's room that day. She was aware only of math testing that day. Gil might have come into the classroom during the math testing but she did not recall and was not sure. At no time did Weil or she return to students test booklets from another day. She never saw language arts test booklets on May 23. She had no discussion with Weil that day about giving students more time on the test, and she did not recall discussing with Weil whether the students in that room were 504. No one, including Giglio, Gil and Weil, instructed her that day to give students more than the scheduled time for the math test or to return language arts booklets. Buccolo knew that none of the students in that room were 504. At the conclusion of the math test on May 23, the students returned to their regular classrooms. She did not return the booklets that day as she had on the days she had proctored for Loftus.

After the conclusion of the math test, Weil gave Buccolo a list of eight to twelve 4th grade students to pick up from their classes and escort them to Propersi's room. When she arrived with the students, Weil took the list from her, and Buccolo left. Buccolo did not participate in any testing of these students.

As guidance counselor, she was responsible for keeping track of 504 students. Before the start of NJ ASK, Gil had asked her if there were any 504 students, and she responded in the negative. S.L., a 4th grader was in the process of being designated as 504, but the process had not yet been completed as the parent had not yet provided certain medical documentation. The agenda for the I & RS meeting of April 23, 2003 listed S.L. as an ongoing matter and J.F. as a new consideration. She was trying to obtain records for J.F. just prior to testing, but the process for him had not been completed.

(7) ALICE FILIPPELLI

In 2003 Filippelli was the facilitator in School 16. Her duties included developing and implementing a comprehensive, long-range whole school implementation plan; being available to and supportive of students, parents, teachers, staff and administration as part of the implementation of the plan and building consensus within the school; developing strategies and systems to improve classroom practices; informing staff of various availabilities of resources, and providing in-class coaching to classroom teachers engaged in the implementation of innovative methods and strategies.

In March 2003 Giglio made a decision for the following school year to have Filippelli and Harvey swap the positions of facilitator and librarian. Filippelli had recently received her librarian certification, and she had successfully completed several projects that Harvey should have undertaken as librarian. Filippelli had observed Harvey with the children and found that Harvey lacked enthusiasm and never made the children feel welcome in the library. Harvey was resentful of Filippelli because of the attention given to the wish list she had prepared. Harvey yelled at her and said she should never have been given the facilitator's position at School 16 and that it should have gone to Weil.

On May 20 Filippelli was slated to accompany Giglio and Gil to Cherry Hill where the School was to receive an outstanding school award, but could not attend because she was testing special education students who had unlimited time on the test lasting into the afternoon. During second lunch that day, as Filippelli was emerging from the nurse's office she heard Harvey loudly screaming, "How dare you take Gil and Filippelli to the ceremony when I was responsible for filling out the application." Giglio was calm and told Harvey she had thought she would not be in that day because her daughter had been hurt. Giglio did not raise her voice and did not follow Harvey down the hall. A little later Filippelli came into Harvey's library, and Harvey pointed her finger at Filippelli and yelled at her in front of others that she had lied to Giglio about Filippelli not informing her of a telephone call that Harvey had taken which was intended for Filippelli. Filippelli was upset enough over this confrontation to write a memo to Giglio (R-60).

Filippelli was in charge of and participated in the preparation for the part of the 4th grade moving up party at the end of the 2003 school year which involved having 4th grade students, as a surprise, prepare tributes of anagrams using the letters of each 4th grade teacher's name. Each student was assigned a letter from the teacher's name and told to write words starting with that letter which described the teacher. They had the students write their ideas in bluebooks usually used for tests so that they would feel that the assignment was important. Although Filippelli had retained the two boxes of bluebooks, during the summer of 2003, someone rifled through her work area and took one of the boxes with some of the 80 bluebooks. Approximately 50 bluebooks remained in Filippelli's work area. At a meeting of Giglio, Gil and Filippelli (Weil was absent) the week before May testing, Giglio suggested that, since Friday May 23 would be a half day and the students would be spent from testing, it would be a good idea to start some of the 4th graders on the tributes in order to get them to focus and concentrate on the project.

As a facilitator Filippelli was trained for the NJ ASK test even though she had administered exams for over 16 years. On May 14 she attended all of the grade focus meetings where Gil explained the test and distributed packets of materials. In the afternoon, the full faculty met, and the materials in the packet were discussed. She remembered either Gil or Giglio asking the teachers for a list of 504 and special education students so that accommodations could be made. At no time did either Gil or Giglio talk about giving students more time on the test or to suggest that teachers designate students as 504 who might have trouble on the test.

Filippelli was responsible for testing the three 3rd grade special education students. She did not test 3rd grade student J.F. with this group. McPherson tested the special education 4th grade students.

On the first day of testing, May 20, Giglio entered the library shortly after Filippelli had distributed the test booklets to her special education students and informed her that she would have to join McPherson in her testing room because the library was needed to test M.C. who had been making loud noises during a Tourette's Syndrome outburst. Her children could still hear M.C. and were laughing, so she complained to Giglio. She did not hear the noise after that. Filippelli tested in the library on May 21 and 22. The special education students were entitled to unlimited test time. Therefore, she would break for lunch each day and finish the testing after the other students had finished eating. During lunch she would sign the booklets for both her and McPherson back in to Gil and sign them out again after lunch on a form adapted by Gil (R-80).

Since 3rd graders were not tested on May 23, Filippelli took three of McPherson's special education 4th graders for testing. She absolutely never gave any answers to any of the special education students, and the investigators never asked her that question. On May 23 the special education 4th graders who were close to finishing at lunchtime stayed with McPherson while Filippelli took those who would need time after lunch around 11:20 and left them in the lunch line. Because it was a short day, McPherson retained all of the booklets for her 4th graders since some were finished for the day and the others would be returning after the shortened lunch. Filippelli saw Giglio at that time and asked her if the 4th graders were working on the moving up ceremony tributes as they had planned. When Giglio told her Gil was in Propersi's room with the students, Filippelli went to the room and observed Gil handing the students bluebooks. Weil was not present. He told the children that Filippelli would tell them what to do with the bluebooks, and he left for lunch. This first group of students had been selected by Giglio to be the leaders of the tribute presentation. Filippelli explained to the students the project for the moving up party and that they should explain it to the other students when they returned to their classes and that it should be kept a secret from the teachers.

Before dismissal on May 23, Filippelli was in the School office when she overheard Giglio ask Moscato why she had marked K.O. absent on the attendance sheet since she had intended for Moscato to mark her absent on the test roster. She then told Moscato that she would have Lily [secretary Ruiz] mark K.O. late. Moscato did not respond. Sometime during the testing week, Giglio informed Filippelli that she would be administering a makeup test the following week to K.O. because the School had not received K.O.'s records before the regular testing commenced. Giglio chose Filippelli for this assignment because she got along with K.O.

Almost every day after May 23, Filippelli removed several students from a 4th grade class to work on the tribute for 10 to 15 minutes. Sometimes Gil helped her. At the moving up ceremony around June 10, Filippelli was surprised to discover that some students had prepared an anagram for her during lunch periods, and she was presented with it along with the presentations to Aliu, Aquart, Quispe, Santos and Paciga. A surprise anagram was also prepared for, and was supposed to be presented to, Giglio at the ceremony. Weil, as chairperson of the moving up ceremony was supposed to make the presentation to Giglio but never did so. Filippelli had maintained lists of the 4th grade students so she could track what letter she had assigned to which students (R-31). Although most of the 4th grade students participated in the anagram preparation, certain students were chosen to read the anagrams and hold up the letters. Filippelli maintained these lists (R-88). (See, R-87, photographs of children holding up letters). I.O. was the reader for Paciga, and he was one of the leaders chosen to work on the project on May 23 because he was active on Paciga's baseball team. J.Q., a reader for Aquart's presentation was in Propersi's room on May 23. J.N., also in the room on May 23, was scheduled to be a reader but never got to perform. I.L. was a reader for Aliu. Some of the leaders picked to be in the room on May 23 ended up not being readers because they were too shy. Filippelli produced bluebooks with anagrams prepared by R.M, I.L, G.D., and J.E., all of whom were in the second group in Propersi's room on May 23 (R-89). The bluebooks for the other second group of May 23 students were among those removed during the summer of 2003 from Filippelli's work area.

In late May or early June Filippelli had asked Weil if she had been reimbursed by the District for fall college courses she had taken, because Filippelli had not received her reimbursement. Weil responded that she had been reimbursed for her two courses. Gil was present during this conversation. Because of the depletion of the tuition reimbursement account, teachers were not reimbursed by the District for college courses taken during the spring semester of 2003 and they were so informed by the District (R-90).

(8) GRACE GIGLIO

Prior to becoming a vice principal at School No. 10, Giglio had been the test coordinator. She followed an understanding that only certified teachers could be proctors, and, if certified, the proctors could pick up and return test booklets to a test coordinator. She had always followed this procedure and had never been informed that it was an unacceptable procedure until May 27, 2003 at which time Harris told her such a use of proctors was not really a problem so long as they were certified teachers.

The year before her promotion to principal while still at School No. 10, Giglio had a problem with Harvey over a teacher of the year election. One of Harvey's students had not been picked up at the end of the school day, and Harvey had left. Principal Hirschberg asked Giglio to check Harvey's room for a telephone number, which she found. The next day Harvey accused Giglio and Filippelli of ransacking her desk for the purpose of rigging the ballots for the teachers' election, which Harvey was in charge of running. Harvey complained to Principal Hirschberg who dismissed her complaint. She and Harvey did not speak again after that incident. Harvey was reassigned to School 16 as librarian before Giglio's promotion. When she learned that Giglio would be running School 16, Harvey requested a transfer. However, Harvey stayed, and Giglio described their subsequent relationship at School 16 as professional.

After initiating many programs at the School after her arrival, the morale of both the staff and the children improved. Students won many awards. She was strict with her staff since she had high standards and demanded that all staff pull their weight. This caused some animosity. Although she and Weil had been good friends for many years, Giglio believed that Weil was not fulfilling many of her responsibilities as technical coordinator. She reassigned the website responsibilities to Gil even though Weil had been trained on how to maintain it. Gil ended up doing many of the technology coordinator responsibilities because Weil was struggling with the technology. Around November of 2002 some staff members were complaining about others not working very hard. At that time she directed Weil to spend less time on the Internet and more time in the classrooms with students. Weil was resentful. This continued to be a concern of Giglio's. However, she did not reflect this concern in Weil's reviews at first. Late in 2002 Giglio tried to gently prod Weil to improve her performance. In November of 2002, the School's facilitator had been promoted. Although Weil applied for the position, Giglio gave the position to Filippelli with whom she had worked at School No. 10. A facilitator is the glue of a school who makes sure the school's program is followed. When Weil submitted her resume (R-21) to the District's personnel office for the position of facilitator, she inaccurately asserted that she had been the computer lab instructor at School No. 10, a facilitator there and that she had developed and maintained a website.

In January 2003, Weil had a discussion with Giglio where she expressed her unhappiness about not being appointed facilitator, and claimed she should have been given the position because of their friendship. Giglio gave her another copy of the technical coordinator's job description (P-43), and she said she would work with the facilitator and librarian on technology-related projects. However, Gil, rather than Weil, continued to perform most of the technology coordinator duties even though that was not his position. Giglio suggested that Weil take some computer courses and again to stop using the Internet for personal use while at work. On March 21, 2003 Giglio sent Weil a memorandum stating as follows: "Please access websites intended for school business only (no travel, real estate etc.)" (R-92). Since Weil's work area was in the faculty lounge room, other staff could see her computer screen and the websites she was accessing on her computer, and complaints by the staff continued into February and March 2003. In February a team came to the School to perform an overall assessment evaluation. When Weil ignored her responsibility to update the School's presentation book of accomplishments, the text for which Giglio had prepared, Giglio and Gil remained at the School late into the night to complete the book (R-93). Weil declined to stay because she said she had a previous engagement.

In February District Superintendent Duroy directed school principals to prepare contingency budgets with abolished staff positions to accommodate anticipated budget cuts of 5, 10 or 15 percent. Under each of the three scenarios, Giglio was recommending that the technology coordinator position be abolished (R-68). In March Giglio informed Weil that her technology coordinator position would be abolished if the budget cuts became a reality, and those responsibilities would be combined with those of the test coordinator. She offered Weil the 1st grade tutoring position rather than a return to a classroom, which Giglio knew Weil did not want. Giglio again discussed this decision with Weil during her evaluation of April 9. When Weil expressed her unhappiness about the prospect of losing her title, Giglio told her she could then request a transfer. Weil eventually indicated she would accept the small group tutoring position.

Weil had learned that Giglio's brother had been brutally mugged in the fall of 2002 and that Giglio was looking for a home for him. Weil informed her that she had been looking through real estate material and thought she had found a place for her brother. They looked at a place together in the last week of October but it did not work out. A deposit was tendered but not accepted. In January and February of 2003 Giglio was using A.J. Caley, and not Weil, as a realtor.

After Gil was informed in August 2003 he was being transferred because of the charges of test cheating, Gil reminded Giglio of a conversation with Weil in January 2003. Weil was upset that she had gotten a "C" on her report card from courses she was taking. Giglio told her that a "C" is still a passing grade and still counts toward her certification. The next day Weil came to Giglio and said the professor had made a mistake and changed the grade to "A." Giglio called her a big baby. Giglio never received a fax of any of Weil's grades in her office and never suggested that the grade could be changed. At the end of May 2003 Giglio overheard a conversation involving Weil in the hallway over the fact that the District had run out of tuition reimbursement money for the second semester. Weil said she had been reimbursed for two courses. Giglio did not think anything of the conversation at the time. In August after Gil asked Giglio to recall the January conversation, he told her that he had seen Weil in January scanning her report card into the computer and suggested she was changing her grade. After the instant charges were filed against Giglio and she knew Weil had initiated the allegations, she asked her attorney to look into the issue of whether the report card was changed.

In 2002 Giglio also had a concern about Harvey's performance as librarian. Although she had strengths in writing, she was not kid oriented and did not instill a love of learning or an enthusiasm. Giglio expressed this concern to Harvey. One time when grant money was available for library upgrades, Giglio asked Harvey for a wish list, and Harvey replied that she had no wish list. When Filippelli arrived as facilitator in December 2002 she was completing her librarian certification. Filippelli instead prepared a library wish list, which resulted in School 16 receiving more books, a $13,000 automated system and approval for a trailer to house the library. Some children reported to Giglio that Harvey, upon learning of the trailer, told them that she was happy about the trailer because she would never have to step into the building again. In January Giglio met with Harvey and complained to her about her lack of effort on the wish list, the comment about the trailer and her demeanor with the children. In March for the "Read Across America" day, Filippelli went into the community to secure readers even though Harvey was the librarian. By March Giglio had decided that, for the next school year, Harvey and Filippelli should switch positions because Filippelli was more student oriented, and Harvey was proficient at preparing grant applications. When Giglio informed Harvey of her decision, Harvey became very angry and indicated that she would fight the decision through her union claiming she had tenure in her position. Although Harvey complained about Giglio's March 7, 2003 evaluation of her (R-57) where she indicated that Harvey would become the facilitator in 2003-2004 after marking her good in many categories but only fair in many others, she indicated that she wanted to remain as librarian but was amenable to becoming facilitator. This acknowledgement was made only after Giglio told her that the only way she would remain at the School was as facilitator. On May 13, Harvey signed a memorandum, which was sent to Stepherson and the personnel office where she agreed to the transfer from librarian to facilitator (R-59). Giglio would have been happy if Harvey had chosen to transfer and would not have blocked it. Although Harvey showed no emotion when she signed the memorandum, Giglio heard from other staff that Harvey was bad-mouthing her.

After testing was completed on May 20 and as Giglio was preparing to leave for Cherry Hill for the Title I Most Distinguished School Award, Harvey came into Giglio's office and indicated she was very angry because Giglio had not invited her to the Cherry Hill ceremony even though, "I wrote the application for that and won this award for you." Her intonations were high, she was yelling and pointing her finger. Giglio replied that the award was a collaborative effort and felt that, if anyone should have gone with her, it would have been the 4th grade teachers. Giglio apologized and said that if she really wanted to go she should have asked. Giglio did not yell back at Harvey, and did not follow her. Although no one else was in the office, the door was open. The next morning Giglio learned that, after she left for Cherry Hill, Harvey had vocalized her anger, and a teacher told her to calm down. She also learned she had yelled at Filippelli. Filippelli wrote Giglio a memo about the argument with Harvey. On Wednesday May 21 Harvey was still angry and vocalizing what had happened. Giglio felt Harvey needed to calm down rather than examine children that day. Since Weil had just returned to school from tending to her ill father, Giglio asked Weil to test the children Harvey had tested on May 20. Giglio gave her a test packet and asked her if she had any questions. Weil said, "No, same test, different name." Giglio was bothered by Harvey's conduct which included stirring up the staff particularly during testing week. Consequently, Giglio issued a disciplinary memo to her on May 22 (P-63) a copy of which she forwarded to Assistant Superintendent Stepherson with the expectation that it would be placed in Harvey's disciplinary file. However, this memo did not end up in Harvey's file. This was the first time Giglio had issued a memo of this type. On May 23, Harvey handed Giglio the second page of the memo with her rebuttal as she was walking out the door at the end of the day.

NJ ASK testing was discussed at every faculty meeting including the May 5 meeting at which Harvey was in attendance (R-77). Weil did not sign the attendance sheet. Test security procedures were discussed as a general overview since Gil did not yet have packets of written materials to distribute. Gil also held a test procedure meeting on the morning of May 14, which was conducted in 20-minute segments during regularly scheduled grade level focus meetings for each grade. Gil, Giglio and Filippelli attended all of the segments. Staff members signed an attendance sheet for these meetings (R-55). Harvey attended the 9:25 session. Weil and Buccolo were absent that day. Loftus, Ordonez, Moscato, Santos, and Quispe attended the 3rd grade session, and 4th grade teachers Aquart and Aliu attended the last focus meeting that day. In addition to the morning focus meetings, an in-service meeting for the entire faculty was conducted in the afternoon (R-78). Harvey signed in and also attended this meeting where Gil discussed NJ ASK test specifications. Test procedures, which were discussed in the morning, were re-emphasized.

Special education and 504 students were discussed in the 3rd and 4th grade morning focus meetings. Giglio had asked teachers to inform Gil who their special education and 504 students were so he could make the proper accommodations for the test. Space was very limited in the School and each 504 might need a different accommodation. Therefore, she and Gil needed to know the number of 504's. Giglio did not receive any lists as a result of that inquiry. After Giglio requested the list at the 4th grade focus meeting, Aliu asked her what a 504 was. At none of these meetings did either Giglio or Gil indicate that teachers should designate non-504 students as 504 for the purpose of the test in order to give them more time. (P-29 was Aliu's notes of the 4th grade focus meeting on May 14. It included an unofficial sign-in sheet, which did not contain Filippelli's signature even though she was present.) No one at that meeting indicated that the teachers should designate as 504 children who were PAC (I&RS) or easily frustrated. When Aliu asked what was a 504, Giglio pointed out by way of example a student in her class, S.L. who had gone through the PAC referral process for a 504 accommodation. This process involved a series of I&RS or PAC reviews, the filling out of a referral form and the development of an action plan. Aliu had referred S.L. to the I & RS because her mother had insisted that S.L. had Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Deficiency. S.L.'s paperwork for 504 designation had been completed but it apparently lacked her mother's signature, which Giglio did not know at the time. When she made the 504 inquiry of her teachers, she did not then know whether the process for some of the 504 candidates had been completed. Student T.A. also had a 504 designation pending. Aliu submitted no list to Giglio before Monday May 19. Exhibit R-3 consists of agendas and minutes from various I & RS meetings in 2002-2003 where various students were referred by their teacher to be evaluated for possible 504 status. S.L. was listed as a possible 504 at the November 2, 2002, January 23, 2003 and April 24, 2003 meetings. As of April 24, 2003, Aliu had five students under review by I & RS, at her request, for possible 504 designation, and Aquart had two. Aliu's students were H.A., D.H., S.L., S.R. and D.G. Aquart had I.O. and C.T. on the list. Martinez had T.A. and Moscato, in 3rd grade, had J.F. (R-3). The referral means that these students are in the process of being evaluated for 504 status, which does not occur until the process is completed.

A week before the testing Giglio had informed Propersi that she would need her room for extra space for testing and that her children, who were not scheduled for testing, would be split among other non-testing classes. She instructed Propersi to prepare packets of work for her students to do in the other classes during testing.

Gil's appointment to pick up the test booklets from the Central Office of the District was for 1:30 on May 16. He returned with the materials close to 3:00. As of May 16 he had no confirmed information about 504 students. In prior years, the test booklets and labels were obtained about two weeks prior to the test. In 2003, Gil had only one working day, Monday, May 19, to work on the actual rosters. In 2002 the 504's had been predesignated, and were known. That year only grade 4 was tested. When Gil began to affix the testing labels to the books on May 19, he noticed that there were 19 students marked 504 on the labels. He spent the morning trying to straighten out the rosters as to which students were and were not 504. This included speaking with Guidance Counselor Buccolo who informed him that there were no 504's because the process had not been completed. Therefore, Propersi's room, which had been reserved for anticipated 504 students, no longer had to be used for that purpose. If there had been 504's with different accommodation needs, Giglio and Gil had planned to use partitions in Propersi's room.

Since Propersi's room was now available as of May 19, Gil and Giglio decided to use that room to alleviate overcrowding in Aliu's and Aquart's room by removing some students from each class particularly since Aquart had approached them about her concern with overcrowding in her room during the upcoming testing. Gil and Giglio walked to each 4th grade teacher and informed her that, since there were no 504 students, they were requesting a list of at least five children from each teacher to alleviate overcrowding. As a result of this directive, Aliu produced a list of students on Monday May 19 and not at the end of the prior week as Aliu had recalled. Giglio concluded that, when Aliu added for the investigators to her notes of the May 14 focus meeting that she had submitted a list that would fit the above classification for 504's to Mr. Gil, (P-29A), she was confused with the list she submitted on May 19 to alleviate the overcrowding. Giglio drew this conclusion because, except for S.L., the other students removed from Aliu's class could not have fit a 504 classification because they were not among the group that Aliu had previously submitted to I & RS for 504 consideration. (R-3). Four of the five students on Aliu's alleviation list were never in I&RS status or found in the minutes of any of the I&RS meetings. Also, neither of the two Aquart students on the April 24 I & RS agenda were on her alleviation list of May 19.

P-68, page 5 is a list of the students in the first small group in Propersi's room on May 23. M.U. was also in that small group although not on the list. On the first day of testing Aquart requested that Gil take M.U. to the small group for testing because he spoke no English, only Bengali, and would be sitting for hours with the large class with nothing to do and would be embarrassed.

The students from Aliu's class who were tested with the small group, as reflected in P-68, page 5, were T.D., D.L., S.L., M.P., and F.S. Aquart's students were K.G, Y.G., F.R., O.S. Except for S.L., none of the students in the small group had been part of the I & RS process for possible 504 designation. On May 23 Giglio had prepared a list of students to work on the tributes in Propersi's room at the conclusion of testing that day (R-99). Of the eight students on that list, only I.O. had ever been listed in any I&RS agenda (R-3), and he had been removed from consideration for 504 status on April 24.

Prior to the administration of the 2003 NJ ASK test, Giglio had access to and had reviewed the prior standardized SSPA test scores from 2002 of 3rd grade students in the School who had taken the 2003 test as 4th graders (R-100). That test recorded several categories of results including advanced proficient, proficient and partially proficient. Many of the small group students had done well the previous year. For instance, four of five students selected by Aliu for the small group passed the language arts test in 2002 (R-101). Many 4th grade students who were not selected for the small group performed with less proficiency than those who were chosen.

In addition to having to ready the test materials on May 19 and resolve the 504 issue that day, School administrators had to address the situation of teacher Reyes' heart attack that day.

On Tuesday May 20, Giglio attended the pre-test breakfast party with the children from 7:15 a.m. to 8:00 a.m. She did not see K.O. there. Giglio then made her daily rounds to each classroom at approximately 8:30 a.m. Upon completion of the rounds, the security guard handed her a letter from M.C.'s mother informing her of a Tourette's Syndrome episode during the night but that M.C. nevertheless wanted to take the test. As soon as the announcement was made at 8:55 a.m. for proctors to pick up their test booklets that day, Giglio was summoned upstairs because M.C. was having an episode in Aquart's class. She tried to calm her down by taking her to the small group in Propersi's room but M.C. was getting worse. She then took M.C. to the library but her noises were disturbing the special education students being tested nearby. As Giglio was bringing M.C. to the library, she saw K.O. at the security desk around 9:10, and told K.O. to go see the nurse. She knew it was after 9:00 because the test booklets had already been distributed at 9:00. Giglio then took M.C. to the nurse's office, and K.O. was there. She summoned hall monitor Fusaro to test M.C. and had the nurse sit at the test desk. Since M.C. was now in the nurse's office, Giglio took K.O. to LeProtto's class around 9:15 a.m. She asked K.O. why she was late, since Giglio had seen her at the security guard's desk, to which K.O. replied, "I ain't taking no test."

Giglio believed that K.O. had special needs when she arrived at the school but lacked records from her previous schools to support her concerns. She expected those records within a week of the testing but had not received the records by the time testing commenced on May 20. Her teacher, Moscato, had expressed concern to Giglio about K.O.'s academic abilities and emotional state. Prior to the commencement of testing, Giglio instructed Moscato that, in the event they did not test her, to mark K.O. absent for the test on the test roster. She told Moscato that, if K.O. were entitled to a special accommodation, she would be able to do that during makeup week. Since Giglio did not have K.O.'s records on the testing week, and since she believed she had special needs, Giglio decided not to test her that week. She had decided that, if she did not receive the records by the end of the testing week, she would have K.O. tested during the makeup-testing week as a regular student. She had already decided that either Fusaro or Filippelli would test K.O. during the makeup week since K.O. related well to each of them. When Giglio finally received some records on May 27 indicating that that K.O. was a Limited English Proficient student entitled to the accommodation of time and one-half for the test, the investigation had begun, and the School was forbidden from administering makeup tests.

Before Giglio left for Cherry Hill after testing was completed for the regular students on May 20, she instructed interim principal Blank to make sure the tests for the special education students were locked up before she left. She called Blank from the road later that afternoon to ask if there were any problems with the building and if she had locked up the test booklets for the special education students who were still testing when she and Gil left. Her cell phone bill for that day reflected an afternoon call to School 16. Giglio had left her office door locked. Blank was supposed to lock up the special education tests in either Filippelli's desk or McPherson's desk. Blank made sure they were locked up.

On Tuesday May 21, during the breakfast party, Giglio had a discussion with Gil who said Moscato was having a problem with student J.F. and asked if he could be tested out of the room. Giglio spoke with Moscato and told her she had no place to put J.F. for separate testing. J.F. in fact stayed in Moscato's room during each day of testing.

Giglio did not see K.O. at the breakfast party that day or at any time before 9:00. Guard Todaro brought K.O. to Giglio around 9:20 a.m. and said she was late. Giglio had the nurse assess her and then brought her to LeProtto's room. K.O. was at the breakfast party on May 22 inappropriately dressed in a belly shirt. Since Giglio would not permit her to remain in school so attired, she had Secretary Ruiz telephone her foster mother. Her foster mother arrived, took K.O. home to change her clothes and returned her to the School around 9:30 a.m. whereupon she was placed in LeProtto's class during testing. Giglio believed that K.O. was late on each of the three days of 3rd grade testing.

At the end of testing each year Giglio reviews daily class attendance rosters filled out by the teachers to determine how many makeup tests she needs to administer. On Friday May 23 Giglio reviewed the attendance rosters in the office around noon. She discovered that bilingual student L.B had been absent on May 23 and also that Moscato had marked K.O. absent for May 20, 21, and 22. Giglio asked Moscato why she had marked K.O. absent, and Moscato replied that she thought that is what Giglio had told her to do. Giglio answered that she had misunderstood and that she was supposed to mark her absent on the test roster, not the attendance roster. Giglio told Moscato that she would change K.O.'s attendance for those days to "late." Giglio was certain this conversation occurred on May 23 because Secretary Ruiz' routine was to file away the week's attendance sheets at the end of each Friday. At the same time on Friday as Giglio spoke with Moscato, she spoke with Ruiz as to why K.O. was not marked late on those days. Although Giglio did not recall the precise time K.O. came in each day, she attempted to estimate the times and checked with the nurse who keeps records of visits to her office. Giglio did not leave K.O.'s attendance records marked "absent" for the three days because she was late rather than absent. When the attendance sheet corrections were made on Friday, Giglio had already determined that K.O. would be tested starting Wednesday May 28 with a makeup test whether or not K.O.'s records had yet arrived. Giglio had never failed to test a student in the past. When she had been a test coordinator she even tested students at bedsides or on home instruction. After the testing was completed and K.O.'s report card record arrived indicating her bilingual status, Giglio told Moscato that K.O. would have been entitled to time and one half had she been tested. Had she been tested as a regular student, her results would have been voided because of her bilingual status. Because of the subsequent investigation, Giglio and Gil were instructed not to proceed with makeup tests. Giglio never removed K.O. from Moscato's class in order to exclude her from testing, and she never told Moscato or anyone else to send K.O. out of her class to exclude her from testing. She had decided however, not to test K.O. during the regular testing week and would not have done so regardless of whether or not K.O. was late each day. Giglio informed the first set of County investigators on June 5 of her intention to test K.O. in a makeup along with a bilingual student, which was before the issue of any allegation as to K.O. was raised by the State investigators later in June (P-1, page 13).

Moscato was absent from the School from about June 4 to June 16 because of a family problem. As soon as she returned she was questioned by State investigators. That day Moscato came to Giglio and asked what would happen if someone lied to the State investigators. Moscato said that when asked how many students were present she told them "24." Giglio reminded her that 24 students were present but that only 23 were tested. The next day Moscato was again going to be interviewed by the State investigators, and she appeared nervous. She felt she was in trouble for marking K.O. absent on the attendance roster. Giglio told her that she was not in trouble and had done nothing wrong and that she (Giglio) had corrected the attendance sheet. At all times Giglio encouraged Moscato to tell the truth and she never told Moscato not to mention K.O. to the investigators.

On the morning of May 23 Giglio told Weil that she was replacing Propersi with Buccolo as proctor so Propersi could service her class and that, if testing were done early, they were going to begin preparing the surprise tributes for the 4th grade teachers. Giglio had no discussion with Weil about giving the children extra time on the test, about returning language arts booklets or about the small group being 504s. She had no impression during the testing period that the students were not doing well. At no time did Giglio look at the test booklets. She did speak to Aliu in the hallway that day, and Aliu said she thought the testing was going well.

Giglio next saw Weil on May 23 when she was returning her test booklets to Gil around 10:40 a.m. She asked Weil into her office to discuss the tribute and what students would be chosen to be the leaders. R-99 is the handwritten list of eight students Giglio wrote in Weil's presence to be the tribute leaders. The leaders were to be students who had not won honors or been selected during the year for other events. R.M., J.Q., G.D., J.E. and S.M. were all very shy and had not won any of the poetic achievement awards and were not published in the newspaper even though they were good students. Giglio had taught math to 4th graders during the year, and all of the eight were proficient students. She chose I.O. to honor Paciga because he was on the midget baseball team, which Paciga coached. I.O. had been rated advanced proficient and proficient on the previous test. She chose J.N. because she had been selected to participate in a February African-American History Month presentation, but her father had not allowed her to attend. This was to be the makeup. Giglio chose I.L. because her mother was the home-school community liaison, and Giglio wanted her to give the special presentation to the parents. The arrows for J.N. and I.L. were because Giglio dropped them from the initial list when she decided they would do special tributes and not be involved in the group tribute to the teachers. She copied the list she had written and gave the copy to Weil, and then, as Weil was leaving, she changed her mind and verbally told Weil to include J.N. and I.L. That is why the list produced by Weil (P-46) had six names on it while Giglio's had eight. On the moving up night ceremony, the scheduled presenters from the original list of eight included J.N., J.Q., I.O. S.M., G.D., I.L. (R-88). Several of the boys ended up not assuming a leadership role at the ceremony because of shyness. As Weil left the office with the list shortly after 11:00 a.m., Giglio told her Gil would be up shortly with bluebooks. Gil went to Propersi's room around 11:15 a.m. Giglio encountered Filippelli walking upstairs and had her join Gil in the small group room. Thereafter, Giglio observed Filippelli in the small group room. Around 11:30 Giglio saw Paciga with I.O. conducting his daily sale in the hallway to raise money to purchase equipment for the baseball team.

Giglio never interfered with either the County or State investigation. She never told any staff member what to say to the investigators and encouraged everyone to tell the truth. She never threatened anyone. Each morning during the investigations Weil asked Giglio if she heard anything from the State. On June 12 Giglio informed Weil that Dr. Nuccetelli wanted to see her at 1:00 p.m. Weil seemed strange and was pacing. She told Weil she believed that the charges had been made by Harvey regarding the tribute list. She did not then know that Weil in fact had initiated the investigation. Weil said she was scared and asked if Giglio could refresh her memory. Giglio told her not to be scared and asked if she had given extra time, and she replied that she had not. Giglio said extra time was one of the allegations and only the person giving the test could give extra time. Giglio did not know the charge of the re-release of the language arts booklets at that time. She then told Weil she had nothing to worry about. Giglio indicated she had spoken to Buccolo who had already been interviewed who said she did nothing wrong but felt uncomfortable about writing out a statement. Buccolo said she told the investigators she had picked up the kids after the testing and brought them to Weil and went about her business. When she told Weil not to stray from what Buccolo said she told Dr. Nuccetelli, she was referring to the fact that Buccolo rather than Weil had picked up the second group of children, which everyone agrees was true. Giglio also told Weil her booklets had been down before the other two classes so she could not have given extra time. In this June 12 conversation, since Giglio did not know that Weil was one of the anonymous callers, she thought she was protecting Weil because she claimed to believe she was the subject of the investigation. Most of the above conversation was missing from the surreptitious enhanced tape recording made of a conversation between Weil and Giglio on June 12 (P-22 and P-51) and occurred after Giglio, on the tape, said, "Come on in, Mrs. Weil."[8] There was another conversation on June 12 when Weil returned from the interview with Dr. Nuccetelli. Weil threw two blank pieces of paper on Giglio's desk and said that was her statement. She seemed upset and said she had no friends. Gil walked in at that point, and she started to cry and Gil told her, "We're your friends," and Gil and Giglio hugged her. Giglio reminded her that she did nothing wrong and there was no cheating.

When Giglio was interviewed by Dr. Nuccetelli on June 12, she learned for the first time that there was also an allegation of re-releasing the language arts booklets.

Giglio had another conversation with Weil on June 13 (which was also surreptitiously recorded by Weil) (P-23 and P-52). Since Giglio knew Weil appeared upset from the previous day, she told her she gave Dr. Nuccetelli the same blank paper statement Weil claimed she had. At that point Giglio still did not know what was going on. She had called a lawyer and told him that she told Dr. Nuccetelli that nothing had been done improperly, and the lawyer said she had cooperated fully and that Dr. Nuccetelli should not have asked for a statement. He also said she should not be reluctant to give a written statement because, at that point, Giglio was led to believe that the only concern about her conduct was that the test booklets for a time had been locked in her office rather than the test closet, which, at worst, would be a technical violation. Also, at that time, Giglio believed that Harvey and Eric Potts were behind this. Potts had requested a hearing around testing time because of the non-renewal of his contract for the next year, and she also knew that his girlfriend, Propersi, was angry about this. That was the reference on the tape to "this bitch" and "find out who your real friends are because it is not them." On June 13 Giglio believed that Weil was a target rather than an accuser. In her conversation with Weil, Giglio said she had gone to her lawyer and Weil said she was doing the same. Since Giglio's lawyer had told her to write a statement in bullet points, she thought Weil should do the same. That is why she told Weil that she would be happy to show her the statement she was going to write because Giglio was not implicating Weil. Giglio did not encourage Weil to say anything that was untrue in either the June 12 or June 13 conversations.

[8] The undersigned listened to the tapes and reviewed an official transcript, which was made in the course of the proceedings. This official transcript was made from the tapes, which were enhanced in a police laboratory. The official transcripts are separate from one's Weil made herself. There was a gap in the tape between the time when Giglio said, "come on in" and Weil made an inaudible comment and then the word "lunch."

CREDIBILITY AND FACTUAL ANALYSIS

The undersigned heard the testimony of 32 witnesses over the course of 27 days of hearing. The testimony of certain witnesses was credible while that of others was plainly incredible. Some of the testimony from some of the witnesses was internally inconsistent or inconsistent with that of other witnesses. The testimony of some witnesses, who appeared to be truthful but unreliable, was inconsistent with that of other witnesses who appeared to be equally truthful. In view of the vast amount of varying testimony from so many witnesses, not all of the inconsistencies can be reconciled. However, after careful analysis, none of the remaining inconsistencies had any dispositive impact on any credibility determinations. Although certain witnesses appeared to be sincerely trying to recall relevant events or statements, in the final analysis, their testimony is overborne by the credible testimony of other witnesses, which, on balance, the undersigned deems to be more probable under all of the circumstances. Based on those credibility determinations, which I deem critical for making the ultimate findings in this matter, I am firmly persuaded that the findings of fact, which follow, are supported by credible testimony and evidence.

The choice of accepting or rejecting the witness' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 60 N.J. 546 (1974); Gallo v. Gallo, 66

N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837, 93 S. Ct. 2357, 37 L. Ed. 2d 380 (1973). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness even though not contradicted when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521-522 (1950). See D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div. 1952), certif. den. 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

(a) Giglio

As indicated above, credibility determinations should factor in the concept of common sense also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, supra. The undersigned deems this factor to be a very significant consideration in his determination. In this case a scheme to cheat orchestrated by Giglio to enhance School 16's test scores plainly makes no sense.

The notion of involvement in or the direction of School staff by Giglio to engage in conduct, which was tantamount to cheating on NJ ASK is inconsistent with the unrebutted history of Giglio's unblemished teaching career of 25 years all in the City of Paterson. The plethora of academic and non-academic initiatives instituted by Giglio suggests a fastidious regimen geared to improve test scores by constant training and preparation rather than gimmicks or cheating. The desire or need to cheat simply makes no sense in the context of Giglio's long-term efforts to maximize test scores through educational training. It makes no sense when measured against her previous remarkable achievements with her students and the recognition she and School 16 had already received as one of the top Title I schools in New Jersey.

Nevertheless, Giglio's record of achievements would hardly qualify as an adequate excuse if she had indeed purposely orchestrated a scheme to inappropriately enhance the overall test scores of School 16 by allowing some of her students extra time to complete their tests or an opportunity to add to already completed portions in May 2003 or by failing to test a student because she was likely to perform poorly. There is some testimony and even documentation, which, if believed or interpreted in a certain way, could be construed to support the charges against Giglio.

However, in the final analysis, when all of the credible evidence and testimony is considered, the allegation of an improper scheme to cheat on the NJ ASK test to enhance School 16's overall performance simply and factually makes no sense. If Giglio intended to target certain students for extra time or assistance on the tests, logic would suggest that she would have selected the specific students herself rather than leave that task to teachers Aliu and Aquart. This is particularly so, since Giglio had the test results of each student for the previous year and certainly knew which students were having problems and were being referred to I & RS. Moreover, if Giglio's motive was to select students for the small group about whose performance she was worried, she could have tested the students herself without involving an examiner and proctor. An analysis of the test performances of all of the 4th graders (R-101) demonstrates that the majority of students selected for the small group were not School 16's poorest test performers from the previous year. Only one student chosen by Aliu had been selected for review at an I & RS meeting. One other had been selected for I & RS review but had been removed from consideration before May 2003. In any event both of them had passed both the language arts and math test portions in 2001-2002. Of the three remaining Aliu selections for the small group, one had passed both sections and the other two had passed one portion of the test in the prior year. Significantly, three students not selected by Aliu for the small group failed both portions of the test in the prior year and four others had failed one portion. None of the four students selected by Aquart for the small room had been referred to I & RS for review, whereas the two of her students involved in the I & RS process were not selected. In the prior year's testing, only one of the four selections had failed both sections, two had failed one portion and the fourth had not been in the school the previous year so no test results were available. Of the students not selected by Aquart, two had failed both sections and eight had failed one section the previous year. For reasons set forth in Gil's testimony, the names of the small group students appeared on a template created by Gil as a test roster, which indicated a 504 designation and which he did not have an opportunity to correct before the testing material was confiscated. Since this document was for in-house purposes and was not required by the NJ ASK instructions, it is implausible that it would have been used at all no less in such a way as to support a scheme to cheat by treating non 504 students as if they were 504 students entitled to special accommodations. In a similar vein, it is even more unlikely that Gil would have highlighted the names of the small group students with dots on the school security checklist (P-7) (an official document that would be returned to testing officials) and thereby drawn attention to them if there was a plan to treat those students in an improper manner.

If Giglio's design were to give the first group of students more time on their tests in order to achieve higher scores, it simply makes no sense that she would have directed the extra time only on the last of the four days of testing. If the plan were to give certain students extra time by falsely designating them as 504's and the box marked "504 accommodations" and the 504 roster were created to support this plan, the students would have benefited from extra time on each of the four days. Moreover, it is incredible that she would have chosen Harvey of all people to be the examiner in a "cheat" room since she had major professional issues with Harvey at the time.

The eight particular students selected by Giglio for the second group to appear in Propersi's room on May 23 were more consistent with Giglio's contention that they were chosen to work on tributes for the 4th grade teachers rather than Weil's contention that they were chosen because they needed more work on the language arts portion of the NJ ASK test. Only one of the eight had ever been discussed at an I & RS meeting, and he had been removed from consideration by the committee on April 23, 2003.

Moreover, he had passed both sections of the 2002-2003 test. Their prior test statistics demonstrate that, of the seven students who had taken a test at School 16 the previous year, four were proficient in at least one section and three were proficient in both sections. 16 students not selected by Giglio for the second group had lower or comparable previous scores including five who had failed both sections. The selections of the particular students for the first and second small groups as well as the non-selection of other 4th grade students makes no sense and therefore does not support the theory that they were chosen because they were likely to benefit from extra time on the tests.

Additionally, it makes no sense that Giglio would have told Martinez' class that they could make noise around 11:00 on May 23 because testing was over if her plan was to have the second group retested in language arts.

The reasons offered for not testing K.O. were plausible ones. In contrast, the absence of similar treatment of other students likely to adversely affect the School's overall performance undermines the allegation that the K.O. situation was part of Giglio's scheme to cheat. M.C. was tested despite the advent of a Tourette's Syndrome episode due to her nervousness. Arguably, she would have benefited from a makeup test. Propersi verified that M.U. was tested despite speaking neither English nor Spanish. Giglio did not need to hide K.O. to improve School 16's test scores since the 2003 NJ ASK was merely a field test, which did not count. Moreover, her score would not have been counted in any event since she was in School 16 less than a year. Most significantly, if Giglio had intended to not test K.O. at all or to cover up the fact that she was not tested, she would not have permitted Gil to create a handwritten label for K.O. (P-66). She never was even on the list sent from ETS. Her label certainly was not created as part of a coverup because K.O.'s handwritten and numbered label appeared in the middle several handwritten and numbered labels.

One evaluating Giglio's credibility must consider the usual argument and concern that her testimony would be naturally suspect as self-serving in that she is defending the retention of her job. I have carefully considered this possibility and reject it as a basis to discredit Giglio. I do so, in part, because, based on my observations of Giglio as a witness, this consideration is outweighed by her demeanor, her consistency, her clarity and her sincerity in presenting her testimony, all of which leads me to determine that her testimony was honest, believable and credible. Her recall of facts was specific, detailed, consistent, and, in my view, not contrived. However, an even more compelling basis to credit the testimony of Giglio is an abundance of documentary evidence as well as other credible testimony, which supports her defense of the charges and her explanation as to what occurred during the NJ ASK testing.

(b) Gil

I also find the important testimony of Gil to be credible. It was detailed, specific and unwavering under cross-examination. He was not evasive in admitting errors he made as test coordinator during testing. Although clearly a friend and supporter of Giglio, he is still an employee of the District upon whom his job security depends. He testified compellingly against the interests of the District's case despite having been forcibly transferred from School16 and stripped of his title of test coordinator. Petitioner questioned Gil's credibility by contending, according to the P-1 County investigation report, that the first time he was interviewed, he said that there were 504 students. However, the interview notes attached to P-1 reflect that Gil indicated just the opposite--that there were no 504 students. According to the P-1 report, Rose Ann Harris conducted Gil's first interview. Not only are there no notes of this interview, but Harris, (who did not participate in the preparation of P-1) testified for an entire day and said nothing to corroborate this claim. Under such circumstances, I decline to give any weight to the uncorroborated representation in P-1.

(c) Filippelli

Similarly, Filippelli, admittedly an old friend of Giglio's from School 10, testified consistently with Giglio's explanations for her actions despite having been involuntarily transferred by respondent after the investigation and potentially subject to additional discipline by respondent. I deem her to be credible.

(d) Weil

One of the critical credibility determinations is that of Weil. Except for Charges Five and Six involving the testing of K.O., she is the initial and primary link in a chain of testimony by other witnesses. If her link fails then inferences that might be drawn from other testimony are compromised. With regard to the events of May 23, her testimony is in direct conflict with that of Giglio, Gil and Filippelli as well as that of Buccolo and several other witnesses.

An employee facing disciplinary action often faces the dilemma and difficulty of convincing a fact finder that her conceivably self-serving testimony should be believed over that of a supposedly neutral witness who appears to be truthful and has no motive to be untruthful or to fabricate a story. Such is not the case here. Not only did Weil's testimony fail to hang together or appear truthful in its own right, ample proof of Weil's personal bias against Giglio was abundantly evident.

Although she refused to so admit, it is plausible to conclude that Weil was upset that Giglio had bypassed her and had chosen Filippelli to transfer from School No. 10 to fill the vacant facilitator's position at School 16. In fact, during an argument with Filippelli, Weil's close friend Harvey had complained that Filippelli never should have been brought to School 16 since Weil had deserved the facilitator's position. This suggests that Weil had expressed her unhappiness to Harvey. According to Giglio, Weil had, in January 2003, expressed her unhappiness that she had not been given the position. Also, in view of her difficulties in performing many of the duties of the technology coordinator, her disappointment in being bypassed for the alternate non-classroom position she sought would reasonably have been heightened.

There is no doubt that Weil was upset over criticisms Giglio had been directing at her regarding her performance as technology coordinator and her use of her school computer for personal use. Certain memoranda (R-92) support Giglio's testimony that she had chastised Weil for personal use of the computer and had suggested she receive more technology training. She was warned not to access travel agency and real estate sites. Gil frequently was called upon to perform technology services Weil could not or would not do. Giglio had issued a job description to her in an effort emphasize her technology duties. On one occasion, Giglio and Gil remained at school to update the website Weil was responsible for maintaining. Although Weil received a good evaluation from Giglio on her April 9, 2003 report (P-42), she acknowledged that prior evaluations had been better. She received a satisfactory rather than outstanding grade for "knowledge of the subject matter."

At the time of her 2003 evaluation, Giglio advised Weil of her intention to eliminate her technology coordinator position due to pending District-wide budget constraints. Giglio told her she intended to combine the technology coordinator and test coordinator positions and offer her a 1st grade tutor position. Although Weil admitted that Giglio told her at their evaluation meeting only that some undesignated positions had to be eliminated rather than hers specifically, respondent witness Dr. Stepherson confirmed that she had already been informed by Giglio that the technology coordinator position would be eliminated under a 5%, 10% or 15% budget reduction. (See R-65 submitted to Dr. Stepherson on April 4, 2003). This proposal was in response to a request by Superintendent Duroy to abolish staff positions in the event of possible budget problems. The documented proposed elimination of this position is consistent with Giglio's testimony that she told Weil on April 9 that her decision was based on the fact that Gil was already performing much of her job of maintaining School 16's computer system, performing technical work and maintaining the school's website. Dr. Stepherson further confirmed that she spoke to Weil about this issue.

The loss of the facilitator's position, as well as the job criticisms and the proposed abolition of her technology coordinator position, significantly occurring in close proximity to the May NJ ASK test, provide convincing support for a determination that Weil's testimony was tainted and driven by a bias against Giglio. Undoubtedly, interest, motive, bias or prejudice may affect the credibility of a witness, and I so find regarding Weil. State v. Salimone, supra.

Weil (with the assistance of Harvey[9]) initiated the anonymous telephone call to the Department of Education immediately on May 23, because of her expressed extreme distress over what she perceived to be testing improprieties. This quickly triggered the investigation ultimately leading to the charges against Giglio. She demonstrated a personal mission to support her charges by photographing the test box used in Propersi's room, surreptitiously tape recording several conversations and making unauthorized visits to School 16 during the summer of 2003 before the charges were preferred. Weil testified that she made written notes to keep track of what she did each day of testing which she used to make her written statement. Under these circumstances Weil's recollection of the events of May 23 should have been precise, fresh and detailed. It was not. Except for repetition of facts recited in her written statement, her testimony as to the rest of May 23 was vague, confusing and inconsistent.

As indicated in the summary of testimony, Weil intended to make the anonymous call to the Department of education to advise of "testing improprieties," but, because she started crying, Harvey completed the call. Although she denied that the call indicated Giglio did anything wrong, she testified that she did not hear anything said by Harvey because she was crying. It is implausible that Weil never asked Harvey what she had said since she was the one who had witnessed the alleged improprieties. She testified inconsistently by, on the one hand believing Harvey did not use the word "principal" during the call, and, on the other hand denying hearing any of Harvey's conversation because of the crying. Although she claimed that she did not know what Harvey said on the telephone, in contradiction, she testified that she did not think Harvey mentioned in the call that the principal had taken test booklets home or had changed answers.

Weil's testimony regarding the extra time allegedly given to the first group of students on May 23 was not only inconsistent but was also surprisingly imprecise considering she was the initiator of the charges. At one point in her testimony, Weil stated that Giglio stopped her in the hallway on the Morning of May 23 and advised her that some of the students she had been testing were "504 students" who were not given enough time to finish their language arts tests and instructed that she give the language arts tests back to the students after they finished the math portion[10]. In her written statement (P-19), she indicated that Giglio told her "...the students that I have been testing had not finished working on some of their open ended questions in Language Arts." "She indicated to me ... that these students were 504 students and needed to be given extra time as their accommodations." At one point she testified that Giglio told her to give an extra 15 minutes on the language arts section and that they were given 15 minutes. She later testified that students got about 15 minutes but there was no time frame and as each finished the math section both she and Buccolo collected the books and then gave their language arts books out. (Buccolo denied ever doing this.) Her representation that they got "about" 15 minutes is suspect because all facets of the test were timed with the time remaining for each section posted on the blackboard. She also testified that the language arts test was handed out when the students were "done with math." She contradicted whether the language arts books were handed out after all of the math books were collected or on a case-by-case basis as each student finished. She testified in contradiction to previous testimony that, although she was keeping track of time, it was flexible because they were not given a specific amount of time to give to the students.

Although not previously mentioned to the investigators, Weil's written statement (P-19) stated that "When the students arrived with Mr. Gil they were given the second part of their math test with extra time to complete their test." The written statement failed to claim that Gil or Giglio ever told her to provide extra time for math. However, Weil testified that she gave an extra 15 minutes for math because Giglio specifically told her to do that. She also testified that, when Gil came into the room, he told her not to forget to give extra time on math as he was giving her the language arts books. On cross-examination she again changed her story by stating that, based upon Giglio telling her that the 504 students needed more time on language arts, she "assumed" that the additional time applied to math as well. On cross-examination she did not recall that she had testified on direct-examination that Giglio and Gil had directed her to give additional time for math; then she indicated she may have been confused when she said Giglio instructed her about math; then she said she did know whether she inferred or was told the math instruction but somehow knew the students needed extra time on math as well as language arts. Her claim that she gave 15 minutes extra for math was also not believable when measured against the credible testimony of Aliu's proctor, Paciga, who indicated that the tests of Aliu's five removed students were already at the testing desk each day, including May 23, when he returned the tests from Aliu's class. Paciga was sure of this because he had to put in order all the Aliu tests including those from her removed students.

Weil claimed she asked Gil and Buccolo whether any of the students were 504 students. Buccolo did not confirm this conversation, and Gil denied having such a discussion with Weil on May 23 or any other testing day. Despite the importance placed upon this statement of Weil, she could not recall whether she had the conversation during the first or second group of testing on May 23.

Weil testified that Gil brought the language arts books in a box when the students were finishing with math, and she and Buccolo distributed the language arts books. Buccolo testified that she did not give any test booklets back to the students and denied that she saw any language arts books in Propersi's room on May 23. Gil denied bringing language arts books into the classroom on May 23 or that he ever indicated that students should go back to their language arts books. Weil could not recall if Gil entered the room during the regular math or the extra time math, and in fact suggested that Gil came to the room twice.

Weil's testimony that, when Gil brought the language arts books, he took the math books with him, is contradicted by her testimony that he entered the room while she was still math testing. It is also contradictory to her written statement (P-31) that Gil showed up with the other box during the math testing. She then testified that, when the language arts testing was finished, she must have brought both sets of books back to Gil. She then changed that testimony to say that she did not know if she brought the math books down to Gil but knew she returned the language arts books.

She was not certain whether Buccolo brought the first group of students back to class when their testing was finished or whether students from the first and second groups returned to their regular classes on their own.

Regarding the second group of students, Weil, in her statement, (P-19) indicated that, upon returning to her desk after returning the test books of the first group of students, the security guard informed her that Giglio wanted to see her. When she arrived, Giglio was on the phone with Buccolo. She handed her a written list of six students she wanted her to pick up from Aliu and Aquart's classes to work on their open ended questions. She gave Buccolo the list of the students to pick up. Gil brought the test books into the room and said, "I'm probably going to go to hell for this." Gil denied making this statement, and Buccolo never confirmed that Gil had made the comment. As she started to distribute the books, Gil took them from her and said he knew the students so he would distribute them. Weil instructed the students to look over the language arts test again and see if they would like to add anything to their open ended questions. The students looked through their booklets briefly. Some added statements to their open ended questions while many did not. During this time Buccolo and she were present all of the time while Gil came in and out of the room. During the testing Harvey looked into the room wondering why Weil was still testing, and Weil just made a face so Harvey continued walking. When the test was completed, Gil took the books, the students went back to class and Buccolo and she left. Except that Buccolo was given the list of students and picked them up, neither Buccolo nor Gil support Weil's story about what the second group did in Propersi's room. Although Weil testified that Harvey did not peek her head in the door but was approximately 7½ feet from the doorway, Harvey testified that she peeked her head in the door when Weil made her face. Weil did not confirm Harvey's claim that she mouthed the words, "what are you doing."

Although not included in her statement, Weil testified that Gil was in Giglio's office when she received the list. Her testimony then changed that Gil was not in the office but on the way there. She testified that while she was talking to Giglio, Gil was digging through a box, which she assumed contained the language arts books. She then testified maybe he was not getting the books, and she did not actually see him pull the books out of the box. This information was absent from her statement (P-19). Although her statement indicated a list of six students, she testified that Giglio may have added one name while they were in the office. Investigator Whitt's notes indicated that Weil told her Giglio verbally added two names that Weil wrote on the paper. (Interview notes attached to P-1). When questioned about the version of the story she told Whitt, Weil indicated she thought she had written the two names down but could not recall why she told Whitt she had written the two additional names. The list handed to Weil (R-46) only has six names written on it.

Another inconsistency regarding the second group was Weil's testimony that Gil brought in two or three more students when he brought the books into Propersi's class. This claim was neither in her statement nor any of the interview notes. Although her statement indicated she told the students to add more to the open ended questions, she testified that she told the students to change anything they wanted in the language arts books. She later testified she did not recall making this statement at the hearing. Weil was vague in her recollection of what happened after the students left or if Gil was present when they left or if she or Gil brought the booklets downstairs. She did not recall Gil make a comment through the sliding door to Martinez about testing still going on in contradiction to a claim by Martinez that Gil made such a statement. Additionally, Weil tried to stretch the timeline to fit Harvey's story. She testified that she was testing the second group at the beginning of the second lunch around 11:25 a.m. and was finished about 12:00. Harvey testified that Weil returned after noon and told the investigators it was between 12:15 and 12:30 p.m. Weil testified that the first group was done testing at 10:45 a.m. Todaro approached her in her office five to ten minutes later to see Giglio, and it took five to 10 minutes to get her instructions. If she gave the second group about 15 minutes to work on their language arts test as she claimed, she would not have been in Propersi's room after 11:25 or 11:30 p.m. This is inconsistent with claims that she returned to her desk and spoke with Harvey between 12:00 and 12:30 p.m. Additionally, Paciga testified that I.O, one of the students in the second group, was helping him set up in the hallway for a baseball sale by 11:25 a.m.

After May 23 Weil photographed the box marked "504 accommodations" because it supported her story of the cheating. She testified that the designation on the box which was in Propersi's room on the three days she tested was suspicious because she was given no instructions about 504 accommodations or extra time until May 23. It is therefore puzzling why she never asked Giglio or Gil about accommodations for the small group on May 21 or 22.

Weil claimed that the second group did not work on the tributes for the moving up ceremony on May 23 and that, as chair of the moving up committee, she would have known if any activities were planned on May 23. However, she acknowledged that Filippelli was in charge of the tribute preparation portion of the ceremony. She also admitted that, between May 23 and June 10, there were only ten school days in which to sneak 80 students out during prep periods for the surprise project of writing out adjectives to describe their teachers.

Weil's testimony was inconsistent with regard to her knowledge that Giglio had issued a disciplinary memorandum to Harvey on May 22. She initially claimed that she had no knowledge of the subject of the memorandum, and Harvey did not tell her of the problems she had with Giglio during the testing week until the week of the investigation. However, she subsequently said that it could have been during the testing week that Harvey told her she was upset about not being invited to the Cherry Hill awards ceremony. She also conceded that she had been present on May 22 when Giglio handed Harvey a sealed envelope which was the disciplinary memorandum, that Harvey was upset about it and that her earlier contradictory testimony had been wrong. Weil contended she had forgotten about this because the disciplinary memorandum had been retracted.

Weil led investigators to believe she had not received training on NJ ASK in 2003. However, she had been a test coordinator in the past and had attended local and statewide training. She had trained Gil. She was present at a May 5 meeting where Gil discussed test procedures. Additionally, Giglio gave her a training packet upon assigning her as a test examiner on May 21.

Neither the tape recordings of conversations between Weil and Giglio surreptitiously made by Weil on June 12 and June 13, 2003 nor Weil's testimony support the charges of threats, intimidation and encouraging false and misleading information. The first recording was made just prior to Weil's interview by Dr. Nuccetelli and the second between 7:45 and 8:00 a.m. while on breakfast duty. Curiously, she did not tape a conversation with Giglio following her interview with Dr. Nuccetelli on June 12 because she claimed the tape was full. The tape submitted into evidence was not in fact full. Weil changed her testimony to say that she did not think of turning the tape over and she did not want to tape over anything. She also testified that she did not think that conversation was important to her. The tape recordings were substantially unreliable because parts of the conversations were inaudible even after an attempted enhancement by the State Police, particularly where Weil was speaking. There was also a missing portion of the June 12 conversation to which Giglio testified. Much of Weil's testimony as to what was said during these conversations was either not on the tapes or inconsistent with the tapes.

When put into context, the tapes do not support a claim of coercion or cover up by Giglio. At that point in the investigation, Giglio was concerned that Weil had done something wrong and that Weil was being targeted. Accordingly, she was trying to elicit from Weil what had happened. Giglio did not then know that Weil had caused the investigation. She also believed there had been some technical violations during the testing. The suggestion of seeking counsel and making sure everybody's statements were accurate do not support any wrongdoing. It is routine for attorneys to question or prepare witnesses in an effort to have testimony of multiple witnesses be corroborative. This does not mean that the attorney is attempting to fabricate a story. For instance, Giglio originally thought that Weil had gathered the second group of students from the Aliu and Aquart classrooms because that was the instruction Giglio had given her. When she learned from speaking to Buccolo that she had gotten those students, it would be logical that she would advise Weil to be consistent with that story if it were true. Nowhere on the tapes, is there any directive from Giglio that sets forth a particular story for Weil to follow or an instruction that she not be truthful.

When Giglio said on the tape, "don't stray from that," she was clearly referring to Buccolo's statement to her that she, and not Weil, had gathered the second group of students on May 23. Weil's claim in her testimony that Giglio told her to stick to the story, not only was contrary to what is on the tape of the June 12 conversation, but suggested a scheme of fabrication of all that occurred on May 23, which clearly was not the case. Absent a determination that Giglio's testimony as to the testing week activities was untrue or that she directed Weil to change a version of events she had given to Giglio, I draw no adverse inference from Giglio's suggestion on June 13 to Weil that they review each other's statements in order to be on the same page. The record is devoid of any evidence that any investigator instructed Giglio that she could not speak to her staff regarding the investigation. In fact, investigators used Giglio as the vehicle to locate people to whom they wanted to speak and to bring them to the investigators.

In the context of other determinations, I do not consider the following statement on the June 13 tape to constitute an act of intimidation of Weil: "I am not going down," and "you need to wise up, sharpen up, find out who your friends are cause its not them." When that statement was made, Giglio had no idea that Weil had initiated the investigation or that Weil was disagreeing with what Giglio believed occurred during the testing week. She believed that Harvey was behind the charges. Simply put, an expression of anger against someone does not constitute a threat against someone else. Under these circumstances Giglio's statement did not constitute a threat against Weil even if Weil, armed with the secret of her involvement with bringing the charges, felt it was threatening. In any event, it is doubtful that Weil would have been intimidated by Giglio since they had known each other for over 30 years even though their relationship had cooled.

The undersigned is firmly convinced that Weil was wholly untruthful when trying to explain the record of many non-school related Internet site hits stored on her school computer. This testimony followed her denial that Giglio had had a legitimate basis to criticize her work regarding work time access to Internet sites for personal use or had in fact so criticized her. Her lack of candor undermines her claim that she had no bias against Giglio because of her contention that criticisms of her work were not made. After denying use of the computer for personal use, she was surprised when confronted with the computer records that showed otherwise and appeared desperate to explain the inconsistency by suggesting that other staff members had access to her computer, which was in the teacher's lounge.

After denying that she performed travel agent services, she had to reverse herself and concede that she did visit travel sites.

Giglio credibly testified that Weil's efforts to find a house for Giglio's brother in October 2003 ended with a failed bid on or about November 1, 2003. Thereafter, Giglio had retained another realtor. It is incredible that Weil would have continued to access real estate sites on behalf of Giglio after their relationship admittedly declined after November 2003, and it is beyond doubt that she would not have performed this service for Giglio on May 30, June 23 and June 25, 2003 after she had made the anonymous call against Giglio. (See, R-24).

Any semblance of credibility regarding access to non school-related sites disappeared with her claim that some other staff member, rather than she, must have accessed a website concerning a wedding. The computer records showed that 500 wedding pictures were viewed. When shown the photographs, many of which included Weil's daughter who was a bridesmaid at the wedding, Weil had no choice but to admit that she did indeed view that website from her school computer.

These revelations raise grave concerns regarding Weil's overall credibility in this case since they create doubt not only about her general habit for honesty but specifically about her honesty regarding issues related to this case—namely her denial that any bias against Giglio existed over criticism of Weil's computer use or that such bias influenced the claims she made against Giglio.

Beyond the above reasons for deeming incredible Weil's testimony as it related to the charges against Giglio, the undersigned's determination of her lack of credibility is sealed after weighing Weil's stated reason for initiating the anonymous telephone call to the Department of Education on May 23 against her explanation for the alteration of her Caldwell College report card as well as her behavior after even what she claimed was the sequence of events related to the report card alteration. Weil's contention that Giglio and Gil pushed and intimidated her to change her Caldwell College grade from a "C+" to an "A" so she could obtain tuition reimbursement from the District (emphatically denied by both Giglio and Gil) is devoid of any ring of believability. Weil had no explanation as to why Giglio would participate in such a fraud particularly since their relationship had been deteriorating in January 2003. Giglio had no responsibility for signing off on Weil's paperwork for tuition reimbursement. It is inconceivable that either Giglio or Gil would have risked the consequences of indulging in a fraud for which they would receive no benefit. Weil only raised this issue on her direct examination because she knew that Giglio's counsel had obtained related information during the discovery phase of this proceeding and not because, as she claimed, her conscience would not let her sleep. She only reported the impropriety to the District in February 2004 although it occurred more than one year earlier. Her claim that she atoned for her guilt by not seeking reimbursement for a subsequent course where she received a better grade is likewise unbelievable. Filippelli's testimony, that the District had run out of tuition reimbursement money for the spring semester of 2003, is corroborated by a letter to that affect by respondent's Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction (R-90).

Gil's explanation of his awareness of Weil's actions is more plausible and persuasive. Weil had expressed her distress at a meeting with Giglio and Gil that she had received a grade of "C". Giglio told her not to be a baby. Gil later observed her using the School 16 scanner at his desk with her report card on her screen. He did not suspect any impropriety until the end of the school year when he overheard a conversation between Weil and Filippelli where Weil had indicated that she had been reimbursed for her first semester courses at Caldwell College. I am not persuaded by the introduction of the facsimile from Caldwell College of the grades, which appears to have been transmitted to School 16, that Weil's version of these events is more credible than that of Gil and Giglio. Aside from the fact that suspicions have been raised as to whether the font of the transmission information at the top of this document (P-79) was that used in the School 16 fax machine in January 2003 located in Giglio's office, there is no certainty that Weil could not have secured this document without Giglio's knowledge even if it were sent by Caldwell College to School 16 at Weil's request as she contended.

Even if one were to believe Weil's story that she participated in the grade alteration fraud and obtained $879.00 to which she was not entitled only because of the encouragement of Giglio and Gil, Weil admitted that it was a mistake for her to lie and steal. Although she acknowledged that her conduct was wrong at the time, she testified that she was afraid to say anything after the fact. She never felt compelled or morally bound to report this serious offense to the District until she realized that it would be revealed in this proceeding over one year later. This posture is so overwhelmingly contradictory to her stated reason for reporting the alleged cheating on the NJ ASK test in May 2003, which "...was to clear my conscience and make me feel better because after all these years and I've spent in the district and everything I've done, I could not believe that I allowed myself to do that. And I knew that I couldn't go home and sleep with myself at night knowing that I did that". As her purported motive for reporting the alleged testing improprieties is so profoundly undermined, the more convincing motive to report Giglio was her animosity toward Giglio. In view of this bias, as well as the many inconsistencies in Weil's testimony, the undersigned cannot credit her testimony. I am not persuaded otherwise by petitioner's argument that Weil should be credited because she was incriminating herself when she initiated the anonymous call to the Department of Education reporting testing improprieties in which she allegedly participated. All of her testimony and investigatory statements demonstrated that she was acting, not as a confessor, but as a would-be whistleblower who claimed that her participation in the alleged improprieties was only because of coercion or intimidation by a superior.

Buccolo appeared, not as a witness for petitioner, but rather under subpoena from respondent Giglio, which she was reluctant to accept. She continues to work at School 16 under the direction of the District. Her recollection of the events of May 23 was in some instances vague. However, she was clear that she observed nothing unusual on May 23. Although I draw a negative inference from Weil's lack of clarity due to the nature of her involvement in initiating the charges of test impropriety, I draw the opposite inference from Buccolo's lack of clarity. If she observed nothing unusual on May 23, it is logical that she would not recall specific statements, time frames, the names of students for whom she was proctoring or seemingly insignificant events. She candidly admitted that she could not recall the answers to certain questions. Interestingly, State Investigator Tierney commented in her summary that she was unable to determine if Buccolo was absent minded or playing dumb but nevertheless did not change her story even when pressed by the investigators about the significance and seriousness of the allegations (P-5). Both despite and because of her lack of clarity and based on my observations of her during her testimony, I deem her to be a credible witness. She was not coached in her testimony. Although she lacked detail in her answers, she was neither being intentionally evasive nor playing dumb.

Significantly, Buccolo was certain as to critical facts, which contradict allegations of Weil. She knew that it would be irregular to give extra test time to students who were not 504 or special education. She was only aware of math testing on May 23, and at no time did anyone return to students test booklets from another day's testing. She never saw language arts books on May 23 and never had a discussion with Weil that day about giving students more time on the test. Although she picked up students that day from a list after math testing, she left after delivering them to Weil and did not participate in any testing of them.

(f) Harvey

Despite Harvey's claim that neither her testimony nor her assistance to Weil in reporting the alleged testing improprieties were motivated by a disdain for Giglio, substantial credible evidence was presented of a longstanding loathing of Giglio exacerbated by certain events in close proximity to the May NJ ASK testing. Harvey admitted that she had had a serious problem with Giglio at School 10 and had tried to transfer from School 16 when she learned that Giglio would be the principal there. Harvey was disappointed with the ratings Giglio gave her on her evaluations as librarian. She was unhappy that her enemy at School 10, Filippelli was transferring to School 16 in December 2002. In March 2003, Harvey became angry that Giglio had decided to make Filippelli the librarian for the following school year and designate her to assume Filippelli's facilitator position. She argued to Dr. Stepherson that she could not be transferred from what she considered to be a tenured position.

Most significantly in terms of timing, Harvey admitted being angry that Giglio had not invited her to the Cherry Hill awards ceremony on May 20 despite her work on the application for the award. This led to a confrontation in Giglio's office that day. Although Harvey and Giglio accused only the other of screaming and being unprofessional, Giglio's recitation of this incident was the more credible. Filippelli had filed a memorandum about Harvey's continuing explosive behavior after Giglio had left for Cherry Hill (R-60). This document was prepared on May 20 before the testing allegations and the ensuing investigation and therefore would not have been a self-serving document contrived to undermine Harvey's credibility in the face of her participation in initiating the charges. Additionally Aquart credibly testified that she observed Harvey screaming at Filippelli. LeProtto credibly testified that Harvey angrily and loudly described the confrontation she had had with Giglio and that Harvey said there would be a payback and that "paybacks are a bitch." (LeProtto also testified that, over time, Harvey had told her on several occasions that she hated Giglio). Although Harvey claimed Aquart, Blank, Ruiz and Propersi were in the hallway when Giglio allegedly followed her down the hallway screaming at her, none of them confirmed such activity by Giglio. On May 22 Giglio issued a disciplinary memorandum to Harvey claiming that her behavior regarding the awards ceremony was unprofessional. Harvey admitted that she was shocked and humiliated to receive the memorandum but that she became unconcerned about it after discussions with Dr. Stepherson led her to believe that the memorandum would not become part of her disciplinary file. Harvey's claim that her allegations against Giglio were not fabricated out of anger against her is overborne by the compelling evidence to the contrary of the confrontation surrounding the awards ceremony; Harvey's subsequent behavior; the issuance of the disciplinary memorandum one day before Harvey's anonymous call, and the submission of Harvey's rebuttal to the memorandum hours before the anonymous call.

Harvey's contention that her motive in suggesting to Weil that they call the State Department of Education in order to protect themselves does not have a ring of truth to it. Harvey had not participated in the alleged May 23 activities. Moreover, if the motive was to protect themselves, it would have made more sense to disclose their names rather than remain anonymous. The more believable motive for Harvey's actions was her extreme anger over Giglio's recent treatment of her.

Harvey's testimony, written statement and statements to investigators were replete with inconsistencies and contradictions. According to the May 28, 2003 memo of Rosanne Harris of the Office of Evaluation and Assessment (R-2), an anonymous telephone call to the Director of Evaluation and Assessment provided allegations of testing irregularities at School 16 whereby the principal had removed test booklets from school premises; had changed student answers to multiple-choice questions, and returned test booklets to students so they could extend or otherwise revise their responses to the open-ended questions. However, Harvey, the anonymous caller denied making these specific charges. Although she initially testified that she did not recall using the word "principal", she subsequently indicated that she may have used that word. Harvey told Harris that Giglio had informed examiners and proctors that if children were confused, they can "guide or help them". Harvey testified that she may have reported that Giglio had done something wrong in this regard. However, this allegation was never investigated, supported or made part of the tenure charges thereby suggesting a fabrication by Harvey.

Harvey testified that, on May 20 when she saw the box marked "504 accom", she told proctor Propersi that she knew the students were not 504 and she would not give them extra time. Propersi never corroborated this statement. Moreover, no one ever claimed Harvey had been directed to give more time.

According to Harris [and supported by her May 28 memorandum (R-2)], Harvey told her that, on day three (May 22), the first day of math, several children were pulled out of their regular classroom setting to work on the language arts assessment in the afternoon. The children were told that their responses to the language arts open-ended items were not long enough and they should go back and extend them. She further told Harris that again, on day four (May 23) following the regular test administration, several students were pulled out from their regular classroom setting to work on the language arts assessment in the afternoon. Again, the children were told that their responses to the language arts questions were not long enough, and they should go back and extend them. Harvey also reported to Harris that the examiner that day had a list of these students written by the principal. Harvey testified that she could not recall telling Harris about pulling students out on May 22 to extend language arts answers. This information raises significant questions as to Harvey's credibility. As with Weil since Harvey was an initiator of the allegations against Giglio right at the time of the alleged improprieties, her testimony and recollection of the events should be very consistent and precise. To the contrary, claims of language arts testing on May 22 as well as claims of language arts testing in the afternoon of May 23 were wholly at odds with Weil's story. Harvey had to change her story at the hearing in an effort to square it with Weil's scenario since the tenure charges do not claim an impropriety during an afternoon or on May 22.

In her written statement (P-27) Harvey indicated that, at about 11:25 on May 23, she overheard Aliu tell Propersi that the reason Propersi was no longer proctoring was because Giglio had gone to Aliu and told her that her students had not done well on the language arts portion of the test and would be given back the tests. [11] Harvey indicated that she then walked across the hall through Martinez' classroom and saw children back in Propersi's room with language arts booklets. (Martinez denied that Harvey walked through her classroom on May 23). Harvey was sure the students did not have math books because she saw them reading passages, she saw no math figures[12], and recognized the color of the booklets as being the same as the ones she had used for language arts on May 20 (P-27). Her statement also indicated that Weil and Buccolo were in the room. Harvey made eye contact with Weil. When she raised her eyebrows in question, Weil shrugged her shoulders and closed her eyes. Dr. Nuccetelli's June 12, 2003 interview notes regarding Harvey (R-62) indicated that Harvey told her that, at about 11:25 a.m., she went to find Weil and observed her in Propersi's room testing about 10 students, and that she recognized one to two kids as being the same ones from Tuesday (when Harvey had been the examiner in Propersi's room). She testified that she did not recall telling Dr. Nuccetelli she recognized some of the students and asserted that she in fact had not recognized any of the students. This raises another significant inconsistency since Weil's story was that the students Harvey allegedly observed was the second group from the list Giglio had prepared. These students were all different from Weil's earlier group, which was the same group Harvey had tested on Tuesday. Harvey could not have recognized any of these students if her story was to be in harmony with that of Weil.

Additionally, although absent from Harvey's written statement, her testimony added that she mouthed the words "what are you doing". Harvey testified that she knew the booklets she observed in Propersi's room were language arts because their color [11] Propersi also testified that Aliu told her in the teacher's room that she knew why she (Propersi) was not testing on May 23 because Giglio had said that Aliu's students in that small room were not doing well. However, petitioner's own witness, Aliu, denied that she ever made such a statement in the teacher's room. Also, although Propersi testified that Moscato, Ordonez, and Loftus were present in the teacher's room, none of them testified of this conversation. Also no one has suggested why Propersi would be removed because students were not testing well. Giglio's explanation of returning Propersi to her students because of Buccolo's availability makes more sense. In her testimony Harvey elaborated on the quote from her statement to add that Aliu said that Giglio indicated the students were going to be given extra time to redo the test. Propersi did not describe the statement this way. In view of the contradictions of petitioner's own witnesses, the undersigned is unable to gleam a ring of truth from this alleged statement. Additionally, the attribution of the statement to Giglio, which she denied making, would be double hearsay. Although hearsay testimony is acceptable in an administrative proceeding, it is considered only if supported by a residuum of other credible evidence which is lacking here.

[12] Petitioner witness Gourley testified that the math open-ended section provides for questions in narrative form.

was in the same blue or purple family as were the language arts books she had used on Tuesday. Also, the math and language arts booklets were different colors according to her. In fact, as verified by respondent witnesses Harris and Gourley, the math and language arts booklets were the same color of ivory or cream. Significantly, the booklets Gil and Filippelli allegedly used on May 23 for the tribute preparation were blue. The actual blue-covered tribute booklets were introduced at the hearing (R-89).

Harvey's May 23 timeline was inconsistent. She told the State investigators that Weil did not appear for lunch until 12:15 to 12:30 p.m. (R-48 and R-5). She testified that she heard Aliu's alleged comment to Propersi around 11:35 and then walked to Propersi's room and observed Weil still testing. She then waited about 10 minutes at Weil's desk until Weil returned. Harvey later changed her timeline to indicate that Weil returned to her desk around noon. Her timeline also conflicted with the credible testimony of Paciga who indicated that, at 11:30 a.m., student I.O., who had been with the tribute group of students, was with him setting up for a baseball team sale in the hallway.

Harvey's allegations against Filippelli were contradictory and therefore incredible. She had alleged to Harris that she overheard a teacher, whom she later identified as Filippelli, telling students the answers to a math problem (R-2). In her written statement (P-27), Harvey indicated that on Wednesday, when the first lunch began, she heard Filippelli giving answers. She was sure they were math answers because she heard measurements, rulers and inches. When she realized during her testimony that there was no math testing on Wednesday, she testified variously that she did not recall what day she heard the answers given, that it was Friday, and that it was Thursday or Friday. She finally testified that she made an error on her statement as to the day because she was very stressed. This contention is suspect since this statement was the product of discussions with a union attorney she had visited. It is not surprising that this allegation of Harvey's did not become part of the tenure charges since her failure to identify a day where this event could have possibly occurred imperiled her overall credibility.

Harvey testified that, on the one day she tested with Propersi, she told her that, "we're not going to give these children any more time, even though the box says 504."

However, this statement does not appear in her written statement, and she does not recall if she mentioned this conversation to the investigators. Moreover, Propersi never testified to this conversation. Although not in her statement or in investigator notes, Harvey testified that the week before testing Gil told her that she would be testing a small group that would be considered 504. This statement, if actually made by Gil, would be critical information in support of the tenure charges. It is inconceivable that Harvey would mention it for the first time at the hearing. She then recanted this testimony on cross-examination by saying that she could not recall with certainty that Gil had made this statement.

In support of the propostion that K.O. was not late during testing as Giglio claimed, Harvey claimed that she saw K.O. in LeProtto's class on May 21 between 8:30 and 9:00 a.m. and mouthed the words to LeProtto. "What's she doing here?" She claimed that LeProtto replied, "I don't know." However, LeProtto, who testified clearly and specifically and credibly, absolutely denied that Harvey ever worked with her students during testing or popped her head in that day. Although Moscato testified that she never told Harvey that she had marked K.O. absent and sent her downstairs, the notes of the State investigators indicated that Harvey told them that Moscato marked K.O. absent and sent her downstairs. Harvey did not recall telling this to the investigators. Although Harvey claimed that she was not trained for NJ ASK, she signed in for the training sessions of May 5 and May 14 (R-55 and R-77). Her claim that Gil had excused her from the training because she had participated in testing before is improbable since most of the staff at School 16 had participated in testing before, yet they, nevertheless, participated in the NJ ASK training.

The plethora of inconsistencies in Harvey's testimony as well as in her pre-hearing statements cannot be excused, explained or ignored particularly coming from a witness who was a primary motivator in the initiation of the claims of testing improprieties and who therefore is expected to have a crisp recollection of the events in issue. The undersigned is convinced, upon an analysis of all of the evidence, that Harvey was motivated to fabricate charges against Giglio because of a long term loathing for her that was exacerbated by the recent attempt to have her reassigned from her librarian position and the issuance of a disciplinary memorandum during the week of testing. Harvey's anger during the week of testing was evident from the testimony of credible witnesses, most persuasively that of LeProtto. Harvey's eagerness to give the investigators a stream of specious information both from her own alleged observations as well as allegedly gleaned second hand from others, suggests a determined campaign with Weil to get Giglio in trouble in any way possible. Her initial claims of observing Giglio removing test booklets from her trunk, changing multiple choice questions and telling staff to guide students in their answers were never given any credence by the investigators and never became part of the tenure charges. In view of her proven bias against Giglio and her many inconsistencies and contradictions, and after carefully observing the demeanor of Harvey as a witness, the undersigned is drawn to the determination that Harvey's testimony did not come from the mouth of a credible witness. Her testimony simply did not hang together with the other evidence.

Weil and Harvey were disgruntled employees who seized upon the opportunity of the presence of a box and in-house test roster that suggested a situation which other credible evidence demonstrated was not so.

(g) Martinez

Martinez' testimony suggested that the second small group in Propersi's room on May 23 was being tested rather than preparing tributes. She claimed that Giglio walked by her class around 11:00 and said that testing was over and the children could make noise.[13] About 20 minutes later, Gil stuck half his body through the sliding door between her room and Propersi's and said keep it down because they were still testing. She told Gil that testing was over, and he said it was not. Gil denied having a conversation with Martinez that morning. However, he testified that, while he was with the second small group at the beginning of tribute project, the custodian tried to slide the door open between Martinez' and Propersi's room whereupon he said, "don't do that. We're not ready."

[13] It makes no sense that Giglio would have made that statement to Martinez if she were planning to continue testing the second group of students in Propersi's room by returning their language arts books to them

In Martinez' June 5 interview with Mosely-Whitt (P-1) and June 12 interview with Dr. Nuccetelli (P-17), did not indicate any testing irregularities, although it was unclear whether she was informed of the allegations at that time. Her June 25 statement first mentioned the alleged comment by Gil (P-18) but indicated nothing about a dialogue between her and Gil. Her testimony expanded for the first time upon her statement to include the alleged dialogue with Gil; the claim that Giglio made her comment around 11:00 a.m. about testing being over (her time frame for the Giglio comment even changed to 10:40 to 10:45 a.m.), and that she peeked in the room after Gil's comment and saw students whom she believed were testing. Martinez also added beyond her statement that, after Giglio's announcement, she looked into Propersi's room to ask a question, and it was empty. That supports the testimony of both Gil and Paciga that Weil's test books had been returned to the testing desk before Paciga signed his in at 10:50. This testimony contradicted Weil's claim of giving extra time on the math and returning the language arts to the first small group on May 23 and contradicted Harvey's time line as well.

Although Martinez claimed she saw students testing with white booklets (contrary to Harvey's testimony), she admitted that she peeked in for only 5 seconds; was over 21 feet away; saw only Weil (contrary to Weil's testimony that Buccolo was in the room with her with the second small group), and did not recall the way the children were facing or whether they were writing. Even the blue books used for the tributes would appear white if opened since the interior pages were white.

Her credibility is suspect since her testimony contained so much relevant or important information that she never bothered to put in her written statement after meeting with four investigators. Her contention that she told everything to the State investigators is incredible since they prepared her written statement (P-18), and the additional information did not even appear in the notes of the State investigators (P-5 and P-31). The undersigned found Martinez' demeanor as a witness troublesome. She testified that she saw Harvey after her meeting with Dr. Nuccetelli, at which time she had not reported any irregularities, and, because Harvey thought she appeared nervous, said, "if you know anything, come forward because 'the truth sets you free.'" This testimony did not have a ring of truth to it because Martinez indicated that she had not verbalized or displayed mannerisms of nervousness in front of Harvey. On balance, the undersigned deems the recollection of the Gil as to the second small group activity to be more credible.

(h) Aliu and Aquart

Petitioner, in Charge One, alleged that on or about May 14, 2003 Giglio held a staff meeting related to NJ ASK where she directed certain staff to identify students perceived as "disruptive" or "easily frustrated" for the purpose of labeling them as 504 students entitled to special accommodations even though she knew that no students at School 16 were in fact designated as 504 students. Aliu's notes of a May 14 focus meeting for just 4th grade teachers (P-29) indicated "list- 504 students, -PAC, -disruptive, -easily frustrated". However, curiously, petitioner never called Aliu to testify in its case-in-chief to support Charge One. Instead, petitioner only called her as a rebuttal witness regarding other matters. Absent any testimony from Aliu during the presentation of petitioner's case, the undersigned granted respondent's motion to dismiss as to Charge One under the standard set forth in Dolson v. Anastasia, supra over petitioner's objection that three third grade teachers Moscato, Loftus and Martinez testified of statements made at a different 3rd grade focus meeting. The undersigned determined that Charge One arose from the report of Ray Montgomery, Director Office of Compliance Investigation (P-2), which indicated as follows:

> On or about Wednesday, May 14, 2003, two fourth grade teachers were requested by the school principal, Grace Giglio, to provide a small list of students from their class, about 5 students each, to the test coordinator. These students were to be "504" students and when one teacher questioned what this meant, the principal explained that the students were to be selected based on behavioral or learning disabilities who might benefit from being tested in a small group environment. [emphasis supplied].

The first finding in the P-2 Report was that Giglio directed two fourth grade teachers to identify certain students as Section 504 students for the purpose of giving them additional test time. The words "disruptive" and "easily frustrated" came only from Aliu's notes and not from the testimony of others. The charges themselves (J-1) have attached to them a Statement of Evidence Under Oath with attached documents relied upon to support the Charges. There was no statement by Loftus or Martinez attached. Although there was an attached statement by Moscato, it was silent as to any comment made by Giglio at any staff meeting. Since there was no doubt that Charge One related to an allegation that could only have derived from a meeting with 4th grade teachers and since respondent chose not to call Aliu as a witness in support of that Charge, the undersigned granted the motion to dismiss as to Charge One. It is significant that Charge One refers to "a meeting with staff" on May 14 and that meeting could only have been the 4th grade meeting. Therefore, any testimony by three witnesses who had not attended that meeting could not support allegations of what occurred at that meeting.

Regardless of the dismissal of Charge One at the conclusion of the presentation of petitioner's case-in-chief for the reasons set forth above, the ultimate testimony of all the witnesses who recalled discussions at both focus meetings is so inconsistent that a specific finding that Giglio made improper statements in these meetings to support Charge One cannot be made in any event.

According to Giglio, 504 students were discussed at the 3rd and 4th grade focus meetings on May 14. Because there were still some students in the approval process for 504 status before the commencement of the test, she asked teachers to inform Gil who their special education and 504 students were so proper accommodations could be made because of space limitations. At neither of these meetings did she or Gil ask teachers to designate non-504 students as 504 for the purpose of giving them more time on the test or to designate as 504 children who in the PAC (I&RS) process or easily frustrated. At the 4th grade meeting when Aliu asked her what was a 504 student, Giglio mentioned S.L. as an example of what a 504 student might be since she was in the approval pipeline.

Filippelli claimed to have attended the May 14 focus group meetings and remembered either Gil or Giglio asking the teachers for a list of 504 and special education students so that accommodations could be made. Neither Gil nor Giglio talked about giving students more time on the test or suggested that teachers designate students who might have trouble on the test.

Gil recalled that, at the 4th grade focus meeting on May 14, Aliu had asked Giglio what was a 504 student, and Giglio tried to explain what kind of students they were as possibly disruptive or easily frustrated and what the procedures were to have a student classified as 504. At that time Gil thought there might be some 504 students by test time since some were in the approval process.

Paciga attended the focus meeting on May 14 for specialists as opposed to classroom teachers. He recalled Giglio speaking about 504 students in response to a question someone asked as to what a 504 student might be. Giglio responded that they were students who needed special accommodations. She asked for list from teachers who had 504 students, but she did not say anything improper on this subject.

At the 4th grade focus meeting of May 14, Aquart recalled that Giglio and Gil asked if they had any 504 students who had previously been classified and, if so, to give them a list. At that point Aliu asked what was a 504 and Giglio explained those were students who needed to be accommodated.

Aliu, who, as indicated above, was called only as a rebuttal witness by respondent, testified that she took notes at the May 14 meeting and wrote "list- 504 students, PAC, -disruptive, -easily frustrated, ASAP> Mr. Gil." She did not remember if she asked about 504 students or was told. As to the words "disruptive" and "easily frustrated," she was not sure who used the words and was not sure these words were used. She believed those words struck her because she wrote them down and they were words for the type of students she was supposed to list. She did not remember specifically discussing S.L. She did not recall anyone saying at the meeting that students should be designated 504 students even if they were not official 504's.

Moscoto never mentioned a 3rd grade focus meeting in any of her statements to investigators. However, she testified for the first time that Giglio had told the staff that if anyone felt a student would benefit from extra time on the test because of behavior or focusing to let her know. Giglio never used the term 504, and Moscato did not even know what the term meant.

Loftus, who also attended the 3rd grade focus meeting, never gave a statement to investigators. Although Moscato was sure Giglio never used the term "504", Loftus recalled Giglio mentioning at the meeting that teachers should make a list of students who might be disruptive or benefit from extra time, and they would be taken from class and 504'd.

Martinez attended the 3rd grade focus meeting and recalled that Giglio said that, if they had any 504 students, they could be placed in a room, and they could be labeled as 504. It was not explained what 504 students were. She did not raise this issue to any of the investigators. Her testimony conflicted with Moscato's in that she claims the term 504 was used and conflicts with Loftus' testimony that 504 was described as students who were disruptive or could benefit from extra time.

As indicated above, the various statements of petitioner's witnesses are too internally inconsistent to provide a credible basis for finding that the discussions at the focus meetings were other than as Giglio contended. Not only was Giglio's version supported by Gil and Filippelli, admitted friends of Giglio, but by Paciga and Aquart as well, who exhibited no particular alliance to Giglio and were still employed by petitioner at the time they testified. Giglio's testimony that no improper instructions were given to teachers in the pre-testing meetings is more probable under the circumstances discussed above regarding Giglio's credibility; namely, that the students actually selected for the first small group by Aliu and Aquart were not those likely to benefit from or need special accommodations such as extra time to complete the test.

The best evidence that Aliu was not instructed to select students who might benefit from more time or who might be disruptive or easily frustrated is that, for the most part, she did not select those types of students for the small group. Moreover, as indicated in the discussion of Giglio's credibility, Aliu failed to select several students who might have fit those categories even though Aliu herself had referred them to the I & RS Committee.

Although Aliu recalled giving Gil a list of four to five students by the end of the week prior to testing, Gil denied this and instead contended that Aliu did not give him the list until May 19, the day before testing commenced. This point is important because, Giglio and Gil contended that the lists submitted by Aliu and Aquart were not for disruptive students or ones who needed more time but rather to alleviate overcrowding in the 4th grade classes, which became possible when it became apparent on May 19 that none of the anticipated 504 students had been approved by the District and the classroom reserved for that purpose would be available. In her deposition Aliu did not say she submitted the list at the end of the week before testing but rather within a week of the May 14 focus meeting. She knew she prepared the list before the testing started on May 20. Finally she testified that she may have left the list on Monday, May 19, which would be consistent with the testimony of Giglio and Gil. Aquart's recollection was more precise. She complained to Giglio and Gil about the certain overcrowding in her class for the upcoming test on Monday, May 19. She was sure of that date because she set up for the May 20 test the day before. When she was asked for a small list of students to be tested in a small group, she randomly chose students whose desks were closest to the door and not because any of them were likely to benefit from any special accommodations. As previously indicated, the students actually chosen by both Aquart and Aliu suggested random selection rather than the targeting of particular students who had been identified through the I&RS process as potential problems or whose previous poor test performances were particularly poor. Additionally, Aliu's proctor, Paciga, credibly testified that, on the first testing day, Aliu told him that the four or five students were being removed to alleviate overcrowding. Accordingly, the undersigned deems Aquart's testimony as to the purpose, method and timing of the small group selection as more plausible.

(i) Moscato

Moscato's testimony in some respects was consistent with that of Giglio. Where their testimony conflicted, Moscato's testimony was overborne by that of other credible witnesses.

The undersigned has no doubt that Moscato became upset because she truly thought she was giving false information to investigators to protect Giglio and that she admittedly changed her story to the investigators in order to protect her employment. However, the evidence indicated that Giglio never instructed Moscato to lie or directed a cover up.

Giglio testified that she believed K.O. was a special needs student but, in view of her recent transfer to the school, lacked records to support her concerns. Prior to the commencement of testing, Giglio had instructed Moscato that, in the event they did not test her, to mark K.O. absent for the test on the test roster and, if K.O. were entitled to a special accommodation, she would be able to do that during the make-up week. Giglio admitted that she had decided not to test K.O. during the test week in the absence of her records. The issue then becomes whether Giglio, through Moscato, attempted to cover up the failure to test K.O. because Giglio believed she had done something wrong. Moscato did not mark K.O. absent on the test roster as instructed by Giglio but instead marked her absent on the regular classroom attendance sheet. Moscato testified that it was her "understanding" that Giglio meant to mark K.O. absent on the attendance roster, and she marked nothing on the test roster. However, she admitted that she learned that, if one did not test a student, the student should be marked absent on the test roster. Moscato recalled Giglio stopping her in the hall and telling her that she had marked K.O. absent in the wrong place and that she was supposed to mark her absent on the testing roster, not the attendance sheet but that there was no problem because K.O. would be marked late. Although Moscato claimed that this discussion occurred the week after testing rather than on May 23 as Giglio claimed, other evidence contradicted Moscato. Giglio and Filippelli were both certain this discussion occurred on May 23. Petitioner's witness Loftus confirmed that Moscato informed her during the testing week that Giglio told her K.O. should have been marked late instead of absent. School Secretary Ruiz, a petitioner witness, recalled one conversation with Giglio where she told Ruiz to change the "absent" notations for K.O. to "late." She could not recall if the discussion occurred at the end of the testing week or the following week but could not deny that it was at the end of the test week. The timing of this discussion is important because, if it occurred at the end of the testing week prior to the commencement of any investigation, the change of the attendance sheet would not support the claim of a cover up. Significantly, petitioner witness Loftus acknowledged that there was a form aside from the homeroom attendance forms for test examiners to record that a child was absent on the test so that one knows a makeup test will be necessary. Since Giglio's original statement about marking K.O. absent on the test roster occurred before the investigation, Loftus' testimony in this regard supports Giglio's position that she intended to test K.O. during the makeup week and was not trying to execute a cover up. Under the above circumstances, I am firmly convinced that Giglio's and Filippelli's recollections that this conversation occurred on May 23 are the more accurate ones.

Moscato's claim that K.O. was removed from her room each day and was not late on any of the days was overborne by more credible evidence. She contended that K.O. was in her room on the mornings of May 20, 21 and 22 when she took attendance and testified that she was not late. Her written statement (P-9) however was more equivocal in that she indicated, "I don't think she was late." As previously indicated, Moscato initially told investigators that all students were present for all days of testing. She then told investigators that K.O. was late during the three days of testing. When she decided to tell a different story to investigators on June 20 she indicated she did not know the whereabouts of K.O. during testing and only saw her after testing. Her final version set forth in her typewritten June 24 statement (P-10) was that, on every day of testing, all students, including K.O., were present in the class.

Although not mentioned in her statements or to the investigators, Moscato testified that Giglio picked up K.O. from her class on Tuesday May 20 before testing commenced. Her statement mentioned only that four students including K.O. had been removed. She then contradicted herself by indicating either Gil or Giglio removed K.O., and then finally indicated she did not know who removed her but she recalled both Gil and Giglio were at her door the first day. She believed Giglio removed K.O. on the second day and did not recall who removed her on the third day. Aside from Giglio's denial that she removed K.O. from Moscato's class on any given day, the accuracy of Moscato's testimony on this point is very questionable because of the testimony of two other witnesses whose credibility the undersigned has no basis to dispute. Giglio testified that, at 8:55 a.m. when the announcement was made for proctors to pick up the test booklets for the day, she was summoned to Aquart's class because M.C. was having a Tourette's Syndrome episode. Giglio removed her from the room and tried to calm her down by taking her to the small group room. She then took her downstairs to the library at around 9:10 a.m., at which time, according to her testimony, she saw K.O. by the security guard's desk. Aquart credibly testified that either Gil or Giglio removed M.C. from her room just as testing was about to begin. It could not have been Gil since, not only did he deny removing her, but Moscato testified that Gil removed the special education students from her class at the beginning of testing. School nurse Hennessy, whom I also deemed credible, testified that, shortly after 9:00 a.m. on May 20, Giglio brought M.C. to her because of the Tourette's episode. K.O. was in Hennessy's office when Giglio arrived with M.C. as Hennessy recalled K.O. making fun of M.C.[14] I am persuaded by the credible testimony that Giglio did not remove K.O. from Moscato's room on the first day of testing as Moscato claimed because she was occupied at that time with M.C. The school security checklist for School 16 indicates that Ordonez picked up the test booklets for Moscato's class at 9:00 a.m. on May 20, which suggests that testing must have commenced after 9:00 a.m.

Moscato's testimony was problematic with regard to her claims of K.O.'s location during testing. In her first written statement (P-9A) of June where she admitted that she had not previously been truthful to the investigators, Moscato indicated that she did not know the whereabouts of K.O. during testing. However, during her testimony, she admitted that she lied to the investigators even in her statement of confession because she indeed knew that K.O. had been in LeProtto's classroom on the testing days. She testified that she lied on June 20 because, even though she was trying to tell the truth, she was still trying to protect Giglio.

Regarding the issue of whether Giglio had a basis to reasonably conclude that K.O. was late on the days of testing, Moscato denied that she saw K.O. in a belly shirt on May 22. This position contradicted Giglio's claim that she considered K.O. late on May 22 because she was sent home to change into proper attire. Moscato's testimony was contradicted not only by that of Giglio and Hennessy, whom the undersigned has credited, but also by petitioner's own witnesses guard Todaro and secretary Ruiz. Accordingly, I deem the testimony of Moscato regarding K.O.'s lateness on this day to be overborne by other more credible evidence. In contradiction of Moscato's claim that K.O. was in her seat every day on time, petitioner's witness Todaro also testified that she knew K.O. was late on May 21 because she found K.O. by her guard's desk around 9:00 when she returned from her rounds. She further testified that she brought K.O. to Giglio's office and informed Giglio that K.O was late. This would not have occurred if one were to believe Moscato that K.O. was at her desk in the class at 9:00 or that Giglio had removed her from the class.

LeProtto credibly testified with great certainty that Giglio brought K.O. into her classroom on all three days of 3rd grade testing after 9:15 a.m. She was so sure because K.O. came in on two days when she was conducting silent reading in her class, and she had to give K.O. her seat because of the crowded situation. She conducted her silent reading on a daily basis precisely between 9:15 and 9:25 a.m. On May 22 Giglio brought K.O. in after silent reading was completed. This timeline more accurately supports Giglio's claim that she encountered K.O. in the lobby area each day after 9:00 than Moscato's claim that Giglio removed K.O. from her classroom before the testing began each morning. Moscato's claim would provide no explanation as to what Giglio did with K.O. each morning between 9:00 and 9:15 or, if true, why Giglio would not have brought K.O. immediately to LeProtto's room. It is noted that, according to LeProtto, the State investigators attempted to have her sign a statement with a timeline, which was consistent with Moscato's, but she refused to do so because it would not have been the truth.

Although Ordonez, the proctor in Moscato's room, in an effort to corroborate Moscato's story, testified that she observed Giglio remove K.O. from Moscato's classroom on the first day of testing, the undersigned cannot credit any of her testimony. Neither the County nor State investigators ever interviewed her. Therefore, there is no indication that the importance of recalling the specific events of May 2003 were ever imparted to Ordonez close to the time of those events. In fact, she emphasized that she never spoke to anyone about the investigation. However, one year later she claimed to recall the specific instance of Giglio removing K.O. from the room yet did not recall anything else specifically about the days of the NJ ASK testing or even that May 23 was a half day of school. The testimony suggested that she might have harbored a dislike for Giglio because of an unrelated situation where Giglio had criticized her. Regardless of the possibility that a bias against Giglio caused her to be untruthful, the undersigned deems her incredible based on the testimony itself, her demeanor as a witness, and her general lack of recall of anything but the narrowest of information.

In sum, Giglio's explanation of the treatment of K.O. made more sense than Moscato's explanation. Undoubtedly, Moscato believed that she had done something wrong and, in order to protect her job, she decided to change her story to the investigators. However, Giglio made it clear that she was not going to test K.O. during the regular testing week without her records. If an error occurred regarding the accountability of K.O.'s whereabouts during testing, it was because Moscato misinterpreted Giglio's instructions and marked K.O. absent on the attendance roster rather than the test roster. Since she was not going to be tested, even though present in school, it made more sense to mark her absent on the test roster. When Giglio decided to change the attendance roster for K.O., during the testing week, from "absent" to "late," the evidence supports a finding that Giglio reasonably believed that K.O. had been late. It may be that K.O. was in Moscato's class each day before testing and that Moscato sent her downstairs each day. However, Moscato denied this and contended instead that K.O. was removed each day by someone other than her. However, as indicated above, the weight of the credible evidence draws the undersigned to a determination that Giglio did not remove K.O. from Moscato's room on any day and that on each day of testing, she observed K.O. either inappropriately attired or in what appeared to be a tardy status in the lobby area of School 16. Giglio reasonably concluded from her observations of K.O. that she was tardy on the days in question. In general, Moscato's testimony was too unreliable, when measured against other credible evidence, to form a basis of support for petitioner to meet its burden of proof in this matter.

Moscato's testimony does not support a finding that Giglio threatened or intimidated her or encouraged her to give false or misleading information. Moscato's June 24 statement (P-10), prepared after she consulted her union lawyer, indicated that Giglio intimidated her by saying that whoever made allegations against her would not teach in the state. However, her written statement prepared four days earlier, where she changed her story from earlier information she had given investigators, was devoid of any mention of intimidation. Moreover, Moscato never subsequently testified that Giglio had threatened her that she would not teach in the state if she did not tell investigators certain information, which raises a question as to whether it was actually said. Indeed, Moscato obtained employment in another school district in July 2003 without any interference from Giglio.

Moscato testified that just prior to being interviewed by the state investigators on June 17, Giglio told her that she did not do anything wrong, and she should say that all of her students were present. Although her statement alleged that Giglio told her not to say anything about K.O. to the investigators, her testimony was that, when Giglio told her to say all students were present, she assumed that meant to be silent on K.O. Accordingly, Giglio's testimony was more credible that she told Moscato on June 17 that the investigators wanted to see her but did not tell her not to say anything about K.O. Later that day Moscato approached Giglio and asked her what would happen if she lied to the investigators, and Giglio replied that she could lose her license. Giglio also mentioned that K.O. was not tested because she was late, and her attendance was changed so it should not be a problem. As found above, Giglio was not constructing a lie because she reasonably believed K.O. had been present those days but late. Late students would not have been tested. Again Moscato admitted that, when Giglio made the statement about K.O. being marked late, during the second June 17 conversation, she assumed Giglio meant that she should not mention that she had been instructed to mark K.O. absent. Moscato's testimony was inconsistent in this regard in that she was suggesting on one hand that Giglio did not want her to discuss K.O. at all, and on the other hand that she was supposed to tell the investigators that K.O. was late. Moscato believed she had lied to the investigators when she told them that all students were present for testing and would get in trouble. Her fears were misplaced since they were exacerbated by confusion between "all students being present" and "all students being tested."

Any notion that Giglio interfered with, threatened or encouraged Moscato to lie was dispelled by the fact that Giglio spoke to the investigators as soon as she learned that K.O.'s testing was an issue in the investigation in addition to the extra time allegation. She took responsibility for marking K.O. late and for Moscato marking K.O. absent.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In sum the following findings of fact represent a careful scrutiny of the documentary evidence and of the credibility of the many witnesses weighed against what common sense and rationality would dictate under all of the circumstances present here. In some instances my credibility determinations are at odds with those of the State investigators who had made certain recommendations prior to the filing of the instant charges.[15] However, this is a hearing de novo. Additionally, I have had the benefit of a wealth of information either not sought by or not presented to the [15] Somewhat disturbing was an apparent effort by the investigators to coerce witnesses to tailor their statements to fit the investigators' theory of the case where the recollections of these witnesses did not support the allegations of other people. For instance, LeProtto and Hennessy, both relatively minor and disinterested or neutral witnesses, testified that investigators attempted to pressure them to sign statements containing inaccurate timelines because their timelines conflicted with those of other witnesses. Such conduct raises a question as to how much other witnesses may have been led by investigators while eliciting information from them.

investigators, in particular with regard to the issue of bias or motive of certain primary witnesses. Most importantly, I have had a much more extensive opportunity to observe the demeanor of the various witnesses.

Based upon a consideration of the totality of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had an opportunity to observe and assess the credibility of the witnesses who testified, I FIND the following FACTS:

19. Training Coordinator Gil began training School 16 staff including Weil onexaminer and proctor duties with respect to NJ ASK testing procedures for 3rd and 4th graders on May 5.

20 During the morning of May 14, Gil led several focus meetings in 20-minute intervals for different groups of teachers and specialists. Giglio, Gil and Filippelli attended all sessions. The first meeting was attended by specialists including Harvey. The second meeting was for 1st grade teachers, the third for primarily 3rd grade teachers and the fourth for 4th grade teachers Aliu and Aquart. In addition to the morning sessions, Gil led an afternoon in-service workshop for all staff discussing test security procedures as well as test specifications with regard to language, content, what to expect and list minute preparation.

21 In the morning focus meetings, Giglio asked teachers to give Gil a list of any 504 students and special education students they had so that he could set up the proper testing accommodations. Space was limited, and each 504 student might need a different accommodation. At the 4th grade morning focus meeting, Aliu asked what was a 504 classification, and Giglio, by way of example, pointed out student S.L. in her class who was going through the I & RS process for 504 designation. Neither Gil nor Giglio discussed providing students with extra time, designating non-504 students as 504 students for the purpose of the test or asking for a list of students who were disruptive or easily frustrated. As of May 14 at least two students were awaiting 504 designation.

22. Although in prior years schools received their testing materials well in advance of the commencement of standardized testing, because of massive distribution problems by the State to the various districts in 2003, Gil was unable to pick up School 16's materials until late in the day on Friday May 16. Since he did not return to the school until approximately 2:50 p.m., he did not review the test materials until the morning of Monday, May 19.

23. Because Gil still believed that some students would be approved for 504 accommodations by May 20, he created a computer template on May 16 for the roster of student names, with fields of information including a column for a 504 designation using the letter "Y". He did not enter any actual names on that date. The test roster was for internal School 16 use only, and was not required by the NJ ASK testing requirements. It was intended as a vehicle for knowing what students were in what rooms.

24 Gil also prepared a box on May 16 for Harvey who had been scheduled to be the examiner for what was still anticipated to be at least two 504 students. This box was labeled "NJ ASK Grade 4 Mrs. Harvey 504 Accom."

25 Arrangements had been made for partitions to be used in the room designated for 504 students in the event different accommodations were required.

26 Upon reviewing the testing materials on Monday morning May 19, Gil discovered that 20 students had been mislabeled as 504 students based upon labels prepared, not by him or anyone else at School 16, but by Paterson's district testing coordinator. The District had also mislabeled six special education and four limited English/bilingual designations. Gil made handwritten notations of the labeling errors on the label list provided by the State.

27. In the morning of May 19, Reyes, who was scheduled to proctor the bilingual class, suffered a heart attack at school and Weil, who had been scheduled to be an examiner, was still in Florida tending to an ill relative. This caused some chaos with the planned staff coverage for the testing. That day, guidance counselor Buccolo informed Gil that none of the more than 20 students labeled as 504 were 504 students and that the approval of S.L.'s and T.A.'s 504 status, which had been pending, had not arrived from the District.

28. Both Aliu's and Aquart's 4th grade classrooms were overcrowded in May 2003. Aquart had complained to Giglio about anticipated difficulty of testing in her classroom because of overcrowding and inquired whether some of the children could be removed due to her inability to adequately separate them in the overcrowded classroom. In 2002, when ESPA, the predecessor to NJ ASK, was administered to 4th grade students, a small group of seven to eight students had been pulled from the overcrowded 4th grade classes to alleviate overcrowding and tested in a separate room. Because the test materials had been received in 2002 a week before the testing, there was adequate time to plan for class sizes. There was no claim of irregularities for or arising out of creating this small group in 2002.

29. The Testing Manual distributed by the Department of Education directs that students should not be crowded together and that students should be seated appropriately for testing to eliminate distractions. If an overcrowding condition is discovered before testing commences, an alternate location with another examiner and proctor may and should be used even if the numeric sequencing has been completed on the booklets and security checklist.

30. After Buccolo advised Gil on May 19 that there were no 504 students, Gil and Giglio discussed alleviating the overcrowding in the 4th grade classes by using Propersi's room, which had been previously designated for use for the anticipated 504 students.

31. Both Aquart and Aliu were asked on May 19 to designate approximately five students from their respective classes to be removed to Propersi's room to alleviate the overcrowding. After each teacher provided Gil with a list that afternoon, Gil placed those names on the in-house roster he had set up the previous week for the anticipated 504 class which Harvey was scheduled to examine in Propersi's room. He placed that roster in the box he had labeled the previous week "NJ ASK Grade 4 Mrs. Harvey 504 Accom."

32. Because of the chaotic situation on May 19 (Reyes' heart attack and Weil's absence requiring a change in the examiner/proctor list), the mislabeling of students by the District and pinning down if there were any 504 students), Gil did not have the opportunity to check and correct the rosters and the template once he realized there were no 504 students. Late into the testing week, Gil realized he never changed the template to reflect that the students tested in Propersi's room were not 504 students. He was unable to correct the codes and information prior to returning the tests to ETS because he was instructed by the investigators as of May 27 to cease all activities.

33. Gil's failures to change the testing box label and the template on the in house rosters were innocent errors in the course of a hectic testing week and were not reflective of a scheme to afford accommodations to non-504 students to which they were not entitled.

34. On May 19 Aquart randomly selected four students to be removed from her room based on their location in her room and not because of any "disruptive behavior" or "easily frustrated" criteria.

35. The majority of the students selected by Aquart and Aliu on May 19 were not the poorest scorers on the 2001-2002 tests nor were they children previously selected by the teachers for performance/behavioral review at 2002-2003 I & RS meetings. They were not selected because they were likely to benefit from special test accommodations.

36. Of the five students selected by Aliu on May 19 for the Propersi class only one, S.L., was selected for review at an I & RS meeting. One other selected child, D.L., was placed on the November 21, 2002 I & RS meeting agenda but was later removed and not ultimately reviewed for consideration. Moreover, both S.L. and D.L. had passed both the math and language arts portion of the 2001-2002 test. Of the three remaining students selected by Aliu, M.P. and F.S. passed at least one section of the previous test, and T.D. passed both. There were three Aliu students she did not select for the small group who failed both of the test sections the previous year and four others who failed at least one section. Additionally, there were three Aliu students, D.H., H.A., and S.R. whom Aliu had designated for review on the April 23, 2003 I & RS list but did not select for the overcrowding room. Aliu's selections did not reflect a focus on students who would benefit from special accommodations.

37. Of the four students selected for Propersi's room by Aquart, F.R., K.G., Y.G., and O.S., none had previously been designated for I & RS review. Two students, C.T. and I.O. had been selected by Aquart for I & RS review but were not selected by her for the small group. Only one of the four Aquart selections had failed both portions of the previous year's test. Two others were proficient in one section, and the final one had been in a different school and test scores were not available. Of the students Aquart did not select for the small group, two had failed both sections in 2001-2002 and eight had failed at least one section. N.U., who was also selected by Aquart had no test scores from the previous year.

38. On Tuesday May 20 the language arts section of NJ ASK began for 3rd and 4th grade students.

39 Prior to the commencement of the test on May 20, a breakfast party was held for students from 7:15 to 8:15 a.m. Giglio did not observe student K.O. at the party.

40. As the test was about to begin on May 20, student M.C. had a Tourette's Syndrome outbreak which included making loud audible noises and had to be removed from Aquart's room by Giglio initially to the library. Since M.C.'s continued out outbursts were disturbing the special education students being tested, Giglio again moved M.C. to the nurse's office so that she could be tested there. As Giglio was accompanying M.C. to the library, she observed student K.O. sitting by the security guard's desk at around 9:10 a.m. She directed K.O. to go to see Nurse Hennessy and told her she would be with her. While Giglio walked K.O. from the nurse's office to LeProtto's class, she asked her why she was late, and K.O. responded, "I ain't taking no test.

41. 3rd grade student K.O. was not tested on May 20 or on May 21 or May 22.

42. Giglio did not remove K.O. from Moscato's class on any day of 3rd grade testing. Nor did Gil.

43. On Tuesday morning Gil removed the test booklets from the security closet and disseminated them to proctors from each class who signed them out. He then went to Aquart's class and removed the four students designated for the small class in Propersi's room and their test booklets, which he placed in a box. He did the same for Aliu's class. That day Aquart asked Gil if N.U. could also be removed to the small class because he spoke neither English nor Spanish, and she believed that he would be more comfortable in the small section. Gil agreed to also take N.U. He accompanied them to Propersi's room. The labels for the small group students were not in sequence because the decision to create the overcrowding alleviation group occurred after Gil had affixed the 4th grade labels. Gil then removed three special education students, A.R., I.S. and H.R. from Moscato's class.

44. Harvey was the examiner and Propersi the proctor for the small group in Propersi's room on May 20 for language arts testing.

45. No 504 or special accommodations including extra time were given to any small group student on May 20.[16]

[16] Petitioner presented no evidence or testimony whatsoever to support that part of the allegation of Charge Two that, on May 20, 21 and 22, Giglio directed that certain 4th grade students, approximate[ly] 10, be treated like "504"

46. At the end of testing on May 20, Gil waited for the proctors to return the test booklets to his "test" desk in front of Giglio's office. After each proctor returned the booklets, Gil filled in the date and time of the return. He repeated this procedure on each day of testing. The small group test booklets were returned to the test desk each day before Paciga returned the booklets from Aliu's class. Because the small group booklets were out of sequence, Paciga arranged them each day in order with those of the rest of Aliu's class.

47. After testing was completed on May 20, Harvey confronted Giglio in her office and was upset about not being invited to an awards ceremony that Giglio was attending in Cherry Hill that afternoon with Gil. Harvey was yelling and pointing at Giglio and was visibly upset, and she continued to vocalize her anger in front of other teachers after Giglio left.

48. On the morning of May 21, upon being advised that Harvey was still upset about not being invited to Cherry Hill, Giglio decided to replace Harvey as the examiner for the small group in Propersi's room with Weil who had returned from her absence. Giglio approached Weil and asked her to administer the test.

49. Giglio did not see K.O. at the breakfast party on Tuesday, May 21, and first saw her when Security Guard Todaro brought K.O. over to her at approximately 9:20 a.m. and advised Giglio that K.O. was late. Whereas on regular school days the security guard would issue a late pass and send a late student to class, during testing the procedure was to not issue a late pass because of testing in the classroom but to instead bring that student to the principal. As with the previous day, Giglio brought K.O. to LeProtto's class.

50. Gil delivered the small group students from Aquart's and Aliu's classes to the Propersi classroom on May 21.

students. Accordingly, the undersigned granted Giglio's motion to dismiss at the end of the presentation of petitioner's case as to that part of Charge Two.

51. Weil was the examiner and Propersi the proctor for the small group in Propersi's room on May 21for language arts testing.

52. No 504 or special accommodations including extra time were given to any small group student on May 21.

53. At the conclusion of testing on May 21, proctors returned the booklets to Gil at the testing desk where he recorded their return. Weil, although an examiner, returned the booklets from the small class.

54. Giglio did not remove test booklets from the school on May 21 or on any other day prior to, during or after testing.

55. On Thursday May 22 K.O. attended the breakfast party but was determined by Giglio to be inappropriately dressed with a "belly" shirt. Giglio directed Secretary Ruiz to call K.O.'s foster mother to bring a change of clothes to school. Instead, the foster mother picked K.O. up and brought her home to change. K.O. returned to school late at approximately 9:30 a.m. with her foster mother whereupon Giglio escorted K.O. to LeProtto's classroom.

56. Gil escorted the small group students and their booklets from Aquart's and Aliu's classes to the Propersi classroom on May 22.

57. Weil was the examiner and Propersi the proctor for the small group in Propersi's room on May 22 for math testing.

58. No 504 or special accommodations including extra time were given to any small group student on May 22.

59. At the conclusion of testing on May 22, proctors returned the booklets to Gil at the testing desk where he recorded their return. Weil again returned the booklets for the small group.

60. In the afternoon of May 22, Giglio handed Harvey a disciplinary memorandum for her conduct on May 20 and faxed a copy to Dr. Stepherson. Giglio had never issued a disciplinary memorandum before.

61. Because there was no testing of 3rd grade students on Friday, May 23, guidance counselor Buccolo had completed her assignment as proctor in Lofus' 3rd grade class. Giglio therefore reassigned Buccolo to proctor the small group in Propersi's classroom so that Propersi could service her own students that day who had been dispersed among several lower grade classes for the testing period. Buccolo, as guidance counselor, did not have her own class to service.

62. On May 23, Gil again accompanied the small group 4th graders and their math booklets to Propersi's room.

63. Giglio did not give any instruction to Weil or anyone else on May 23 to treat the students in the small group like 504 students.

64. Giglio did not give any instruction to Weil or anyone else on May 23 to grant the students in the small group extra time on any portion of their test or to review and correct their responses on the language arts section of the test previously completed after she arranged for the return of those booklets to the students.

65. Giglio did not direct Gil to, nor did he, bring language arts booklets to students in the small group on May 23.

66. Gil did not enter Propersi's room on May 23 while math testing was occurring and instruct Weil to give more time on math.

67. Weil returned the math booklets for the small group to Gil's testing desk, prior to the proctors from Aquart's and Aliu's class returning their math booklets on May 23.

68. The small group did not receive extra time to complete the math section of the test on May 23.

69. The small group did not work on the language arts section of NJ ASK on May 23.

70. On the morning of May 23, Giglio advised Weil, that, if students finished testing early enough, they would begin activities to prepare the tributes for the moving up ceremony scheduled for the end of the school year. Giglio decided that since May 23 was a one half day and the students would be tired from testing, work on the tributes would be fun.

71 At approximately 10:40 a.m. on May 23, after Weil had returned the math test booklets to Gil, Giglio asked Weil into her office to discuss the selection of students as leaders for the group tribute. They considered selecting students who had not been selected for other events during the year or had won awards. R.M., J.Q., G.D., J.E. and S.M were all shy and had not previously received honors. I.O. was chosen to do the honor for Paciga who was the baseball coach since I.O. was on his midget baseball team. J.N. was chosen because her father had not allowed her to perform as Snow White in an earlier presentation. I.L. was chosen because her mother was the home/school/community liaison, and Giglio wanted to give her mother special recognition. Giglio prepared a list of eight students in her office but decided not to include J.N. and I.L. on the group tribute since they would be doing special tributes. She then rewrote the list to have only six names on it but changed her mind again as Weil was leaving around 11:00 a.m. and told her to pick up I.L and J.N. as well as the other six from their 4th grade classes and bring them to Propersi's empty classroom.

72 This discussion involved only the tributes and not giving students more time on any portion of the test or redistributing the language arts booklets.

73. Student I.O. was assisting Paciga in the hallway at 11:30 a.m. on May 23 in setting up for a baseball team sale.

74. Gil accessed blank blue-covered test books (not used for NJ ASK) for the students to enter their tribute anagrams and brought them to Propersi's room while he was waiting for the return of bilingual NJ ASK testing books. Filippelli, who was on a lunch break, went to Propersi's room because the overall tribute project was her responsibility.

75. Weil had given the list of students to Buccolo and instructed her to assemble the students from the list in Propersi's room. She brought the students to Propersi's class, returned the list to Weil, and left.

76. When Gil arrived with the bluebooks, Weil left. Filippelli arrived as Gil was distributing the bluebooks, and he told the students that Filippelli would finish explaining what the students should do. While Gil was present the custodian tried to slide the door open between Martinez' room and Propersi's room whereupon Gil said, "Don't do that. We're not ready." Filippelli explained the tributes and that it was to be a surprise for the teachers. She had the students write the letter they were going to use and then instructed them to put their names on the front of their bluebooks and to write "writing assignment" on the cover. The meeting with the students lasted about five minutes. They were then returned to their classrooms.

77. Of the eight students selected to participate in the preparation of tributes for the moving up ceremony, only one, I.O. had been discussed in an I&RS meeting, and he had been removed from consideration at the April 23 I&RS meeting. I.O.'s test performance in 2001-2002 was proficient in language arts and advanced proficient in math. Every student selected for the tribute group, except

R.M. (who did not attend School 16 in the prior year), was proficient in at least one section of the ESPA test. 16 students from Aliu and Aquart's classes, who were not selected by Giglio for the tribute group, had lower or comparable proficiency than those selected.

78. Giglio did not select the second group of students taken to Propersi's room for the purpose of returning their language arts booklets to them for additional work on their essays.

79. Giglio did not select the second group of students because they had not done well on their language arts section earlier in the week.

80. No one returned language arts booklets to the second group of students on May 23 nor did the second group work with their language arts booklets on May 23.

81. Prior to the commencement of testing, Giglio had concerns that new student K.O. needed special accommodations because of her emotional and academic condition and perceived language problem. She could not verify these needs before the commencement of testing because K.O.'s records had not yet been received from her previous schools. Without K.O.'s previous school records, Giglio would not have tested K.O. during the regular testing week. Unless she received the records, she was planning to test K.O. during the following makeup week. Prior to the regular testing, Gil had prepared a handwritten label for K.O.

82. If K.O. had been tested during the regular testing week, her score would have been voided since her records, some of which arrived after the testing week, subsequently showed that she was ESL or a Limited English Proficient student and would have needed the time and one half accommodation accorded to ESL students. Her score would not have counted anyway because she had been in the Disrict less than one year.

83. Prior to the testing Giglio instructed Moscato that, in the event they did not test her, to mark K.O. absent for the test on the test roster. She told Moscato that, if K.O. were entitled to a special accommodation, she would be able to do that during the makeup week.

84. Moscato misunderstood Giglio's instruction and marked K.O. absent on the daily class attendance records rather than the test roster.

85. Just before noon on May 23 Giglio reviewed the class attendance sheets to ascertain how many makeup exams she would need to schedule the following week. She discovered that Moscato had marked K.O. absent on the class attendance sheets rather than the test roster as she had instructed. That day Giglio asked Moscato why she had marked K.O. absent on the attendance sheets rather than the test roster, and Moscato replied that she thought that is what Giglio had instructed. Giglio told her that her intention was to mark K.O. absent on the test roster if she did not take the test, which she had not, and that she would have Secretary Ruiz change the attendance sheets for K.O. from absent to late. Moscato did not then express any disagreement as to whether K.O. had been late on the testing days.

86. On May 23 Giglio instructed Secretary Ruiz to change K.O.'s status on the attendance sheets from absent to late since she believed K.O. had been late on May 20, 21 and 22 based on her good faith observations on each of those days that she did not see K.O. until after 9:00 a.m. on May 20 and 21, and sent her to change her clothes on May 22.

87. On June 17 just prior to Moscato's interview with State investigators, Giglio told her that the investigators wanted to see her. Giglio did not instruct Moscato not to say anything about K.O.

88. Moscato believed that she had lied to the investigators when she told them that all students were present during testing.

89. After the June 17 interview Moscato asked Giglio what would happen if she lied to the investigators. Giglio replied that she could lose her license. Giglio mentioned to Moscato that K.O. was not tested because she was late, and her attendance was changed so it should not be a problem.

90. As soon as Giglio realized that the testing of K.O. had become an issue in the investigation, she told the investigators that she had marked K.O. late and that Moscato had marked K.O. absent at Giglio's direction.

91. Giglio did not instruct Moscato to give information to the investigators that Giglio knew or believed to be untrue. K.O. was present during the testing week but was late on each of the testing days based on Giglio's observations. She was not tested.

92. Weil and Giglio had a conversation on June 12 before Weil was to be interviewed by Dr. Nuccetelli. Giglio told Weil what Buccolo had related to her of her interview with Dr. Nuccetelli. Giglio was surprised to learn from Buccolo that she, rather than Weil, had gathered the second group of students on May 23 since Giglio had asked Weil to get them. When Giglio said to Weil, "don't stray from that," she was referring to Buccolo's comment, which was the truth.

93. Weil and Giglio had another conversation on June 13. Referring to the investigation, Giglio said: "I am not going down" and "you need to wise up, sharpen up, find out who your friends are cause it is not them." At the time of making this statement, Giglio was unaware that Weil had initiated the charges and believed instead that Harvey had caused the investigation to occur. This comment was not in reference to any information Weil had given to Giglio regarding her recitation of what occurred during the testing week.

94. During the June 13 conversation, Weil advised that she was going to see a lawyer. Giglio suggested that Weil not submit a statement until her lawyer ok'd it.

Giglio asked to see her statement and that she would show Weil hers "so we're all on the same page." Nothing was said in this conversation by Giglio to direct Weil to make any particular representations in her statement.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The District bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relied by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, the tribunal must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. D.L. and W.R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). The evidence is found to preponderate if it "established 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consolidated Gas. Co., 124 N.J.L. 420,423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). For reasonable probability to exist, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

Tenure protects teachers from arbitrary dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Spiewak v Rutherford Bd of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). It is designed to aid in the establishment of "a competent and efficient school system" by affording to teachers a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service. Viemeister v Prospect Park Bd of Educ., 5 N.J Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Accordingly, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no tenured teacher shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause." The seven charges brought by the District collectively allege conduct unbecoming an employee through gross misconduct.

"Unbecoming conduct" is an elastic term broadly defined to included any conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." Karins v City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct "need not be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Hartmann v Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992). In the context of a school tenure case, "the touchstone is fitness to discharge the duties and functions of one's office or position." In re Tenure hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974), certif den. 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

Children in New Jersey have a constitutional right to receive a free and appropriate public education. N.J Const., art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1. "It has been said that the purposes of an educational system are to further the best interest of the community at large, the teachers and especially the school children." Zimmerman v Newark Bd of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 69 (1962). The best interests of school children certainly are not met when educators intentionally abrogate their responsibility to accurately and honestly assess the academic performance of the children in accordance with standardized testing mandated by the State Board of Education. While tenure laws are designed to protect teachers against arbitrary action or political favoritism, they were never intended to perpetuate the employment of teachers who are not properly performing their jobs.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner District has failed to prove any of the charges by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. According to the reasonable probability of truth, the weight of the evidence preponderates in favor of Giglio as to all charges. That being so, Giglio has not engaged in any conduct, which has destroyed public confidence in the operation of public services.

As to Charge One, although already determined in the motion to dismiss at the conclusion of the presentation of the District's case, I reiterate that, based on the findings above, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of competent, relevant and credible evidence that Giglio, on or about May 14, 2003, directed staff to identify students perceived as "disruptive" or "easily frustrated" for purposes of labeling them as 504" students entitled to special accommodations knowing that there were no 504 students. The credible evidence disclosed that staff was asked to identify actual 504 students, since several students were awaiting 504 designation as of May 14 and before the commencement of NJ ASK. Giglio did not ask staff to identify students for 504 purposes at a time she knew there would be no 504 students. She did not know that the potential 504 students had not been approved until May 19, the day before the commencement of the NJ ASK testing. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge One.

As to Charge Two, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that, on or about May 20-23, 2003, Giglio directed that approximately 10 4th grade students be removed from their regular classes to another class and be treated as 504 students during the NJ ASK testing while knowing that no students were in fact 504 students entitled to special accommodations. The more credible evidence led to the above findings that Giglio directed that approximately 10 4th grade students be removed from their regular classrooms during the NJ ASK testing for the purpose of relieving overcrowding in each of the regular 4th grade classrooms and not to give them 504 accommodations. She did so because she knew by May 19 that there were no 504 students and that, consequently, the Propersi classroom would not be needed to test 504 students and could be used to alleviate overcrowding. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Two.

As to Charge Three, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that Giglio granted students extra time on the NJ ASK test. The more credible evidence led to the above findings that Giglio did not direct Gil or Weil to allow the ten 4th grade students extra time to complete their math section over and above that scheduled for the test, or to review and correct their responses to the language arts section of the test previously completed on May 21, 2003. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Three.

As to Charge Four, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that, on May 23, 2003, Giglio gave Weil a list of students who "had not written enough on their essays" on the language arts section of NJ ASK or directed Weil to allow the students on that list to re-review and correct their responses on the language arts section of the test completed on May 21. The more credible evidence led to the above findings that Giglio did, indeed, give Weil a list of students on May 23 but for the purpose of assembling certain 4th grade students, after the completion of testing for that day, to start preparing tributes to teachers for the upcoming moving up ceremonies. This second group of students worked on the tributes and did not have their language arts sections returned to them. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Four.

As to Charge Five, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that Giglio engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct involving student K.O. Undisputedly, K.O. was not tested during the regular testing week. The District's charges are based on a theory that Giglio plotted a scheme to cheat on the NJ ASK test in order to enhance School 16's overall performance and that K.O.'s preclusion from the test because she was a predictable or anticipated poor performer would further that plot. As found above, the facts do not support such an intent, and, therefore, Giglio engaged in no unprofessional conduct. The notion of an intent not to test K.O. for this reason is discredited by the fact other potential poor performers, particularly one in the throws of a significant medical episode, were tested. Had Giglio truly intended to preclude K.O. from the entire testing process, the perfect opportunity to hide her presented itself since K.O., having just arrived in the School District, was not even among the preprinted labels prepared by ETS for the testing. Under the District's theory, Giglio should have simply kept K.O. off any official testing records. Instead, Gil prepared a handwritten label for K.O. in anticipation of her being tested.

K.O. enrolled in School 16 a mere few weeks before the NJ ASK administration as a result of a DYFS placement. She had a woeful personal history, readily apparent emotional and academic problems and a possible English language deficiency. Efforts to obtain her student records from her previous schools in other districts before the test were unsuccessful. These records would have disclosed whether K.O. had been entitled to an accommodation due to her perceived deficiencies. Without the records Giglio did not have sufficient information upon which to determine whether or not K.O. was entitled to testing accommodations. Indeed, the partial records received by School 16 only after the NJ ASK testing revealed that K.O. was an ESL student who should have received time and one half to complete the test if she had been tested. Therefore, had she been tested, the score would have been voided. In any event her score would not have counted toward the School 16 score under the NJ ASK rules because she had been in the district less than one year, and moreover, the 2003 test was a field test, which would not have counted. Faced with these conditions, Giglio's decision not to test K.O. during the regular testing week, convincingly does not support an intentional scheme to inappropriately enhance School 16's overall test score.

As found above, Giglio did not direct Moscato to exclude K.O. from taking the test by marking her absent. She instructed Moscato that, in the event they did not test her, to mark K.O. absent for the test on the in-house test roster. She did not instruct Moscato to mark her absent on the classroom attendance sheets. The District's proofs were inconsistent with the allegation of Charge Five since Moscato claimed that either Giglio or Gil removed K.O. from Moscato's room each day whereas the Charge alleges that Moscato removed her from class before giving the test at Giglio's direction and sent her to the principal's office, the school nurse and the security officer.

Indeed, the NJ ASK Administration Manual required that all regular 3rd grade and 4th grade students be tested. Although, K.O. was not tested during the regular test week, Giglio credibly testified that it was her expectation that, if K.O.'s records had not arrived before the regular test week, they would arrive at least by the makeup week at which time she would have tested K.O. whether or not the records arrived. Accordingly, a process was in place as well as an intent by Giglio to permit compliance with the requirement that all students be tested. However, without dispute, she was not permitted to test K.O. during the makeup week because the investigators immediately precluded any further activity regarding the testing process. Most significantly, State Department of Education test coordinator Gourley, who created the NJ ASK Administration Manual, acknowledged that, although all students are to be tested under all circumstances and makeup tests are for absent students, if a student's first language is Spanish entitling her to extra test time and the records from her previous school have not arrived at the time of testing, the test may be given on the makeup week. In retrospect Giglio probably should have consulted someone from the District such as Assistant Superintendent Stepherson regarding the unique K.O. situation. However, the failure to do so certainly does not constitute gross misconduct, any misconduct or unprofessional conduct. In view of K.O.'s horrific personal circumstances and in the extraordinary circumstance of the absence of records, it was appropriate not to test K.O. during the regular test week even if she had not been late. Giglio exercised reasonable discretion without malevolent intent as the primary administrator of School 16. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Five.

As to Charge Six, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that Giglio tried to cover up K.O.'s exclusion from the test. As found above Moscato had misunderstood Giglio's instructions when she marked K.O. absent on the regular School 16 attendance sheets rather than the the in-house test roster. Although Charge Six alleged that Giglio directed Moscato to change her attendance records by marking K.O. late, she actually instructed school secretary Ruiz to change the records from "absent" to "late". Giglio simply informed Moscato that the records would be changed to late when she pointed out her error in marking K.O. absent on the wrong document. The claim that Giglio's alteration of the attendance sheets was an attempt at a cover-up is negated by the credible evidence that Giglio's conversation with both Ruiz and Moscato regarding the attendance sheets occurred on May 23 before any allegations of testing irregularities were made or the investigation began. Giglio's changing of the attendance records from absent to late does not support the claim of a cover-up because, based on the credible evidence, Giglio, in good faith, based on her observations, believed that K.O. had been tardy on each of the three days in question. Curiously, Moscato never questioned Giglio upon her announcement that she was having K.O. marked late although Moscato subsequently claimed that K.O. had not been late. If K.O. had been in Moscato's class on time and Moscato sent her downstairs each day (which Moscato denied) logic would dictate that Moscato would have so informed Giglio when Giglio told her of the change to "late" on the attendance roster. The fact remains that, based on what Giglio observed, her alteration of K.O.'s attendance roster was not a cover up. Finally, as to the allegation that Giglio directed Moscato not to mention K.O. when questioned by investigators, Moscato herself testified that she was never actually told this by Giglio. Rather, she "assumed" that she was not supposed to mention K.O. A charge of cover-up must be supported by proof of an affirmative act by the accused. Moscato's "assumption" does not prove any inappropriate affirmative act by Giglio. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Six.

As to Charge Seven, the District failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible, competent and relevant evidence that Giglio engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct involving the investigation conducted by the Department of Education. There was no evidence whatsoever that any investigator instructed Giglio not to speak to any of her staff regarding any allegations or the investigation or any statements made by staff members to the investigators. Inferences by witnesses that they were afraid of or intimidated by Giglio because of her nature as a strict and demanding principal, falls woefully short of proving that, during any time period relevant to the allegations and the ensuing investigation, Giglio made any affirmative statement or committed any affirmative act that constituted a threat or intimidation against any individual. As indicated above, never in her conversations with Weil and Moscato, did Giglio instruct either of them to change facts, which were contrary to any that either of them had expressed to Giglio as different. If one were to state to others what he or she truly believed were the honest and accurate operative facts and even expressed the need for everyone to stay on the same page, there is no improper interference with an investigation unless it was clear that the people being addressed had expressed a different view of the facts. This did not occur here. As found above, Giglio did not encourage staff members to give false and misleading information to investigators. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Giglio did not engage in conduct unbecoming an employee regarding Charge Seven.

In the course of the hearing, the District introduced certain evidence regarding test security, which actually constituted a diversion or distraction from the actual charges against Giglio. For instance, admittedly, for the most part, proctors rather than examiners picked up and returned the test booklets each day of the NJ ASK testing from Gil's test desk, although the Manual directs that examiners should perform that role. Most witnesses testified that this use of proctors had been the practice, not only at School 16 prior to and before Giglio's presence there, but as School No. 10 as well. The expressed reason for limiting the handling of test booklets to examiners is that all handlers must be certified teachers. However, all of the proctors used in School 16 in 2003 were certified teachers. In any event Giglio is not charged with misconduct arising out of the use of proctors. Moreover, there is no nexus between this deviation from test administration rules and the allegation of a scheme to cheat.

I made no findings of fact with regard to whether Propersi, Weil and Harvey were specifically trained to administer for the 2003 NJ ASK because Giglio was not charged with a violation of test security in this regard, and, in any event, Gil rather than Giglio was responsible for training. Aside from the presentation of evidence that they were indeed trained and that they had been specifically trained to administer many similar tests in the past, this claim does not support any of the actual charges against Giglio.

The location of the test booklets in the test closet or locked in the principal's office is also a non-issue. The Manual requires that test booklets be stored in a central location accessible to only the school test coordinator and the principal. Giglio was not charged with a violation of test security regarding the stowing of the booklets, and, in any event, that was Gil's responsibility. A suggestion that the presence of the booklets in Giglio's office gave her an opportunity to review the tests and choose poor performers for additional testing is unavailing since I made no finding that Giglio reviewed the tests.

Also, a question was raised as to whether substitute principal Cathy Blank had secured or had initialed the return of the special education test booklets on the afternoon of May 20 since the initials on the form were "KB" whereas she spells Cathy with a "C." Even if an improper entry was made, the maintenance of this list was not Giglio's responsibility, Giglio was not charged with any misconduct in this regard, and this matter does not otherwise support the specific charges against Giglio or the claim of cheating.

With regard to claims of sloppiness or inaccuracies on the test security checklists, the responsibility for their maintenance was that of the test coordinator and not Giglio. The reasons why the test booklets for the small group where not separately signed out and in each day by Gil or the examiner or proctor in the Propersi room each day was explained above because of the sequencing issue. That is why Paciga and Generals picked up and returned those booklets each day with those of the rest of Aquart's and Aliu's class.

At best these several matters were technical violations of test security procedures. That is not meant to diminish the importance of adherence to all test security procedures. All of the procedures provided in the Manual serve the important purpose of maximizing the security and integrity of the test. However, such violations, standing alone, would not constitute unbecoming conduct because they are not of such import as to destroy public respect for public employees and confidence in the operation of public services. In any event, Giglio was not charged with or responsible for committing any of these potential violations, and they do not provide dispositive support for any of the charges specifically lodged against Giglio.

In sum, I CONCLUDE that Giglio has not engaged in any conduct, which has deviated from the stringent standard of behavior expected of a principal or which constitutes conduct unbecoming an employee.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The New Jersey Department of Education Bureau of Controversies received a petition for emergent relief on or about August 16, 2004. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 3, 2004, to be heard as an emergent contested case. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5o.

The matter was scheduled for hearing on September 10, 2004 at 10:00 a.m. at the OAL office in Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing proceeded on that date.

SUMMARY OF FACTS

K.D. is a 7th grader at the Egg Harbor Township Middle School. He is currently repeating 7th grade. Prior to 6th grade, K.D. was an above-average student. During 1st through 5th grades, K.D. generally received A's and B's. Starting in 6th grade, his academic progress and grades significantly declined. Both petitioners and the District agree that the primary reason for his decline in academic progress was the result of a series of family tragedies.

K.D.'s parents are hardworking individuals and concerned parents. Nevertheless, K.D. spent a significant amount of time with his grandfather. K.D. was similarly close to other family members, including his aunt. Both his grandfather and his aunt passed away during the 6th and 7th grade academic years. These events set K.D. back. They were compounded by other family incidents. K.D.'s father had significant surgeries during this period. The family history and details of these tragedies are outlined in greater detail in petitioner's letters. (P-1 and P-2).

During K.D.'s 6th grade academic year, his performance was substandard relative to his prior years. His final grades were as follows: arithmetic - F; reading - D; language arts - D; science - D; history - D. Additionally, he was absent 33 days. His teacher commented at the conclusion of the 6th grade academic year as follows: "It was recommended that [K.D.] be retained by his 6th grade teacher." (R-3). It is the policy of the elementary school that if a student receives two Fs in any of the core academic areas, they must be retained. K.D. received only one F, but the balances of his grades were D's. Accordingly, it was recommended that K.D. be retained. However, it was not mandated in accordance with the elementary school's policy. K.D. was not retained.

Seventh grade would prove to be not better. K.D received all F's in his core content classes. Based upon K.D.'s substandard performance in 6th grade and his failing performance in 7th grade the District retained him. He is presently in 7th grade for the 2004-2005 school year.

K.D.'s parents, E.D. and N.D. testified at the emergent hearing. Collectively, they urged that K.D. possesses the necessary skills in order to academically achieve and progress in 8th grade. While they did not offer any data, expert reports, psychological reports, testing scores or other information, they did rely upon their parental instincts and gut feelings. They claim that K.D. has come through tough times, but has realized the position that he has placed himself in. He appears to be more motivated this year and willing to put forth the effort to succeed in 8th grade. K.D. performed well on the standardized progress examination offered to 7th graders notwithstanding his poor academic performance in 6th and 7th grade. He received a score of 7.6 denoting that he possesses the skills of a student at grade level 7.6. E.D. and N.D. emphasized that the TerraNova standardized examination illustrates that K.D. is proficient at grade 7.6. (R-1). Thus, even though his in-class performance was poor, he was able to obtain the necessary skills and measure up against his 7th grade peers in standardized testing. Petitioners urged that retaining K.D. in 7th grade would be detrimental. K.D. will become disenchanted with school. He may shut down and want to quit school.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Petitioners assert that K.D. should not be retained in 7th grade. K.D. historically has been a good student with above average grades. The family has experienced several personal tragedies over the past two years, which have adversely impacted K.D. Consequently, his grades have significantly declined.

Petitioner carries the burden in seeking emergent relief. The standard is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), necessary for the awarding of this relief. See also, Princeton Ins. Co. v. 349 Associates, L.L.C. 147 N.J. 337, 340(1997). Crowe requires a showing of each of the four specific criteria:

1. The relief must not be granted except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, or harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy;

2. Relief should not be granted when the legal right underlying the applicant's claim is unsettled;

3. The applicant for relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits; and

4. The relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief must be considered. Id. at 132-34.

Petitioners have not met the abovementioned elements necessary for emergent relief. K.D. performed poorly in 6th grade. His basic skills were, at best, failing, when he completed 7th grade. As explained by Dr. Heery, School Superintendent, each succeeding academic year builds upon the last. Students develop a pyramid of skills. If the skills are lacking from a prior year, it is detrimental to advance a student with sub-standard core skills.

Here, K.D. barely passed 6th grade. K.D. was offered many services by the District including counseling. He did not like the counseling offered by the District therefore, his parents did not push the issue. In 7th grade, K.D. was given a second chance to overcome his poor performance and external obstacles of the prior year. K.D. did not stabilize in 7th grade. In fact he declined further. His final grades were all F's in the core content areas. This performance followed all D's and one F in 6th grade. As explained by Dr. Heery, if the District failed to act and retain K.D. it would be educational malpractice. His last two academic years were notably poor when compared to grades 1 through 5th. The TerraNova examination results of 7.6 may indicate that K.D. is a good test taker on one given day. But this test cannot be viewed in isolation. It has to be measured against his performance for he full school year. This includes class work, class participation, as well with quarterly and final examinations. The District was not insensitive to K.D.'s family history, but his lack of educational progress could not be ignored. Therefore, the District urged that retaining K.D. is in his best interest. Another failing year in 8th grade would be catastrophic. K.D. would have deficient skills from 6th, 7th and 8th grades. He may not recover.

Based upon the evidence and testimony presented, I FIND that petitioners have failed to establish K.D. will suffer irreparable harm if he is retained in 7th grade, pending a plenary hearing. K.D. failed all of the core content areas in 7th grade. (2003-2004 school year). On balance, repeating 7th grade, where he previously failed all of the core content areas, is in his better interest. The school policy mandates that a child be retained if they fail two out of the five core content areas. K.D. failed all five core content areas. I FIND the policy and the decision of the District, at this juncture to reasonable under the circumstances presented.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE and hereby ORDER that petitioner's request for emergent relief be DENIED. A plenary hearing is scheduled for September 23, 2004, for 10:00 a.m., at the OAL office located at 1601 Atlantic Avenue, Atlantic City. New Jersey. I further ORDER that K.D. shall remain in 7th grade, pending a plenary hearing. The District shall continue to offer those services that are necessary to assist K.D. or his family, including counseling, Child Study Team or other evaluations or interventions.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[1] As they did in the Agreement originally proposed, the parties again misapply the terms "petitioner" and "respondent." The petitioner herein is actually the charging party, the Department of Human Services, and the respondent is Ms. Nicholson.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JUNE NICHOLSON, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, OFFICE OF EDUCATION,

Thomas Portelli, Esq., for petitioner

Steven L. Scher, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter C. Harvey, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: August 9, 2004 Decided: August 10, 2004

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 16, 2003 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for December 9, 2003, which was adjourned for settlement purposes. A hearing was rescheduled for December 17, 2003.

On the date of the hearing, the parties were able to resolve the matter. On January 20, 2004, the parties submitted a settlement agreement. On March 8, 2004 the Commissioner of Education filed a decision remanding the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further expansion and revision of the documents consistent with the Cardonick standards. The attorneys appeared before the Administrative Law Judge on August 9, 2004 with a revised Settlement Agreement consistent with the Cardonick standards. The court had the agreement read into the record. The attorney for Ms. Nicholson was questioned regarding her understanding of the terms of the agreement and whether her consent to same was voluntary. The Deputy Attorney General was questioned, as to the reason why the state had agreed to the settlement. He represented that, because of problems with the proofs and the question of admission of hearsay and the need for finality, the State believed that it was in their interest to settle the matter. The attached Settlement Agreement indicates the terms of the agreement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The settlement conforms with the standards set forth in Cardonick v. Brookline BOE, dec'd by the Comm'r, April 7, 1992, aff'd. St. Bd. of Ed., April 6, 1983, 1990 SLD 842, 846.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JUNE NICHOLSON, Petitioner, v. NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, OFFICE OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	Civil Action SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1-18 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-14F -1 to -15 upon petitioner's request for a hearing on board certified charges against a tenured teacher for conduct unbecoming a teacher on July 16, 2003.

The charges set forth in particular that On April 30, 2003, after a jacket had been unclaimed for over a week, an employee at the Passaic Campus searched the jacket pocket for identification. During the search what appeared to be marijuana, pills and drug paraphernalia were discovered and therefore the Human Services Police were notified. Upon arrival the Human Service Police, Office Sullivan questioned Mrs. Nicholson who admitted in front of a witness that the jacket and its contents belonged to her. This led to Mrs. Nicholson being arrested at the Passaic Campus by the Human Service Police and charged by Totowa Boro Court with the following:

N.J.S. 2C:35-10(a)(4)
Within the jurisdiction of this Court, knowingly or purposely obtain or possess a controlled dangerous substance that was not obtained directly from a practitioner or under valid prescription issued by a practitioner, specifically by possessing less than 50 grams of marijuana.

N.J.S. 2C:36-2
Within the jurisdiction of this Court, use or possess with intent to use drug paraphernalia to store, contain, ingest, inhale or introduce into the human body a controlled dangerous substance or controlled substance analog, specifically a film canister(s), brown wooden pipe and a white and pink Tupperware container to hold and ingest marijuana and unknown pills.

N.J.S. 2C:35-10.5
Within the jurisdiction of this Court, knowingly possess with intent to use a prescription drug legend, specifically 87 unknown various types of multicolored pills of unknown medicinal value.

The lab reports indicated that all drugs discovered, with the exception of .72g of THC, were legally possessed by petitioner. On September 15, 2003 the remaining charge was resolved by a conditional discharge without the entry of a guilty plea and the charges were subsequently dismissed.

The facts as to Nicholson's knowledge of the presence of the small amount of THC is disputed by petitioner and no one can testify to seeing petitioner in possession of the jacket ont he day in questions.

Based upon all the facts present and the state police laboratory report, the agency believes it is in the best interest of both the petitioner and the agency to settle this matter in the manner set forth below:

The parties agree to settle this matter in accordance with the following terms:

1. The petitioner will withdraw her request for a hearing on certified charges against a tenured teacher and the respondent-appointing authority agrees to withdraw the disciplinary action contained therein.

2. The petitioner will resign effective December 12, 2003 and agrees not to seek or accept employment with the Department of Human Services in any capacity in the future.

3. Respondent agrees it will respond to any inquiry by any outside person or entity, either prospective employer or other, by stating only that petitioner "resigned". Her record will reflect a resignation from the unclassified position of teacher.

4. The parties hereto stipulate that this agreement shall fully dispose of all issues in controversy between them with regard to this matter.

5. The petitioner shall not receive any back pay for the period of suspension without pay which ended on October 18, 2003, counsel fees, costs, or any other monetary relief as a result of this settlement.

5a. Petitioner is entitled to pay for that period between October 19, 2003 and her date of resignation and any accumulated vacation.

6. Petitioner understands that the Commissioner of Education may still refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of her teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6.

7. This stipulation of settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any other matter involving another employee.

8. Nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party.

9. This agreement will only become effective when it is approved by the Commissioner of Education. Any disapproval by the Commissioner shall operate to return the parties to the status quo pre-agreement.

10. The parties waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

Authorization has been given by the Department of Human Services to agree to this settlement; the parties have read this settlement agreement and freely and voluntarily agree to its provisions.

The parties are, therefore, admonished that settlement agreements of controverted matters are of no force and effect and may not be implemented absent the Commissioner's approval, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1.

DIANE CONFORTI, Petitioner vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY, Respondent	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION – OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL Dkt. No. EDUOT 06417-2003S Agency Ref. No. 237-7/03 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The above-captioned matter having been brought before the Commissioner of Education upon the Petition of Appeal filed by Diane Conforti (the Petitioner) against the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, Monmouth County (the Board) and the parties having agreed to resolve the dispute between them now pending before the Court, subject to the terms and conditions set forth hereinbelow:

1. The Petitioner is the holder of a permanent educational services certificate with an endorsement as a School Social Worker. She was employed by the Board as a contracted service provider rendering services as a School Social Worker on a part-time basis for the period running from May 15, 2000 through June 22, 2000, for which she was compensated at an hourly rate of pay.

2. The Petitioner was thereafter employed by the Board on a full-time basis for the 2000-01, 2001-02 and 2002-03 school years. The Petitioner was paid an annual salary of $55,542 (Step MA-19) for the 2000-01 school year, an annual salary of $58,616 (Step MA-20) for 2001-02 school year, and an annual salary of $71,019 (Step MA-21) for the 2002-03 school year.

3. By letter dated April 28, 2003, Petitioner was notified by the Superintendent that she was not being renewed for the 2003-04 school year and that her employment was terminated, effective June 30, 2003. By a letter dated June 10, 2003, the Petitioner was notified by the Board that it had determined to accept the Superintendent's recommendation that the Petitioner not be rehired for the 2003-04 school year.

4. The parties have agreed to settle this dispute by retaining the Petitioner and reinstating her as a full-time School Social Worker for the 2003-04 school year. The Board agrees to reinstate the Petitioner to the Petition of School Social Worker retroactive to September 1, 2003, and to pay her annual salary of $73,234 (Step MA-21) for the 2003-04 school year.

5. Although, under the terms of the settlement, Petitioner is entitled to a back pay award of $73,234 for the 2003-04 school year, she also had a duty to mitigate her damages. Taking such duty into consideration, the parties have agreed that respondent shall therefore pay to Petitioner the gross amount of ~~$59,780.50~~ $60,034.50, subject to standard and ordinary deductions, which sum represents the annual salary of $73,234 she would have earned during the 2003-04 school year, less the sum of ~~$12,532~~ $12,278.00 which she received in unemployment compensation during this period of time and the sum of $921.50 which she received for consulting work performed during this period of time for entities or employers other than the Board. The Petitioner shall verify the amount of unemployment compensation and other compensation that she received from September 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004 as referenced in this paragraph.

6. This award of back pay shall be made to the Petitioner within thirty days following the execution of this agreement, approval of its terms by action of the Board, and receipt of a duly executed affidavit or certification of the Petitioner, submitted to counsel for the Board of Education, verifying the amount of monies that she was paid in mitigation of her salary claim.

7. During the 2003-04 school year, Petitioner would have received Board-paid health insurance coverage for herself. The Board shall therefore reimburse the Petitioner for her expenses for securing COBRA health insurance coverage for the period running from September 1, 2003 through August 31, 2004, and for the additional sums that Petitioner paid for dental care and for prescription coverage during this period of time. This sum totals $3,355.40 and consists of $2,925.40 which she paid in insurance premiums for COBRA coverage (excluding July and August 2004), the sum of $195 which she paid for dental expenses, and the sum of $210 (estimated) which she paid in prescription charges. The actual figure for reimbursement shall be paid in accordance with the final information stated in a duly executed affidavit or certification of the Petitioner verifying the amounts of payments received by her in mitigation of her salary claim for the period running from September 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004 and verifying amounts to be reimbursed to Petitioner for health insurance coverage, dental expenses and prescription charges as referenced in this paragraph.

8. The parties agree that Petitioner shall pay the employee's share of any pension contributions to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund for the period running from September 1, 2003 through June 30, 2004, based on the Petitioner's gross annual salary for the 2003-04 school year in the amount of $73,234 before any reduction for mitigation of damages. The parties also agree that the employer shall not be liable for the employee's share of pension contributions for the 2003-04 school year and that the State will contribute the employee's share of pension contributions if it agrees to do so. If the State does not contribute the employer's share of pension contributions, the Board shall contribute the employer's share of such contributions.

9. The Board shall reinstate the Petitioner to her position of School Social Worker for the 2004-05 school year at Step MA-21, and will assign the Petitioner to a full-time School Social Worker's position in the discretion of the Superintendent and the Board of Education.

10. The Petitioner shall submit her irrevocable resignation from her position as School Social Worker with the Middletown Township Board of Education as a condition of this Stipulation of Settlement. The Petitioner's resignation shall be effective June 30, 2005, and the Board will act to accept the resignation of the Petitioner at the time that the Board approves this settlement.

11. The parties agree that neither party is responsible for the payment of the other party's attorneys fees in connection with this controversy.

12. The Petitioner shall withdraw the Petition of Appeal presently pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education, with prejudice, when the Petitioner's counsel receives notice and documentation that the Board has approved the terms and conditions of this settlement.

13. This Settlement Agreement resolves any and all claims by the Petitioner arising from the Board's termination of her employment which took effect on June 30, 2003, and regarding the Petitioner's allegations that the Board acted unlawfully in terminating her employment and in failing to retain the Petitioner instead of any other employee in a full-time Social Worker's position.

14. This Stipulation contains all the terms of the agreement between the parties and cannot be modified or changed unless both parties agree to do so in writing. In the event, however, that this Stipulation requires some modification to facilitate its acceptance by the Teachers Pension and Annuity Fund and its approval by the Commissioner of Education, the parties agree to make such modification in a timely fashion in order to effectuate the intent of the parties as stipulated herein.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that J.A.H. and J.I.H. were entitled to attend school in the respondent's district during the period in question. However, the Commissioner does not base this assessment, as does the ALJ, on a conclusion that the students were domiciled in the district during that period pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Rather, the Commissioner finds that, on the facts here presenting, petitioners' entitlement arises under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), since the students were, for reasons of family hardship, living with relatives who were district residents and who supported them gratis.

Accordingly, subject to the clarification set forth above, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

Record Closed: July 28, 2004 Decided: August 10, 2004

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The basic issue here is whether, within the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, after December 1, 2003, and until the end of the 2003-04 school year, petitioners J.A.H. and J.I.H. were "domiciled" within the school district served by the respondent Board of Education of the Township of Ewing (BOE). The BOE held a hearing and determined that they were not so domiciled, so that tuition should be paid for their attendance in its school system. D.M. and

K.M., the boys' uncle and aunt, who kept them in their home in the district and who supported them during that time, allege that the boys were so domiciled, so that no tuition is owed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 1, 2004, the BOE held a hearing relative to the students' domicile and on March 8, 2004, the BOE adopted a resolution stating that it had determined that the boys were not domiciled in the district, etc. R-1. The BOE's attorney's letter notified J.E.H. that the BOE had determined that the students' were not domiciled in the district, etc. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. J.E.H., father of J.A.H. and J.I.H., submitted an appeal, dated April 16, 2004, and showing his address as Trenton. In a letter dated April 19, 2004, the Department cited N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-2.9 and notified J.E.H. that a district resident must file an appeal. D.M. and K.M. (the boy's uncle and aunt) then submitted an appeal, dated May 4, 2004. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. On May 21, 2004, the BOE's answer, defenses and counterclaim for tuition were filed with the Commissioner. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on June 4, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). I heard the case on July 23, 2004, and, at the petitioners' request, the record remained open to allow them to submit a copy of the order granting custody of the boys to D.M. and K.M. P-2.

FINDINGS OF FACT

J.E.H., husband, and L.H., wife, and their sons, J.A.H., born January 13, 1988, and J.I.H., born April 6, 1989, were domiciled in a single-family house they rented in Ewing Township and J.A.H. and J.I.H. attended the BOE's public schools. The boys are excellent students and members of the school system's athletic teams.

J.E.H. has been very active in service to the Ewing community. An African-American, he coached recreational basketball teams with many African-American players (many of whom do not have fathers in their households), teaching them the values of teamwork and partnership. He also participated in organizations in which he served as a mentor and role model for children, developing their self-esteem, encouraging them to stay in school, etc. He is now president of the Metropolitan Trenton African-American Chamber of Commerce.

J.E.H. and L.H. negotiated with the owner of the Ewing house, but were unable to purchase it, so they then contracted to purchase an old house (built around 1910) in Trenton (i.e., not within Ewing Township). It was built as a single-family house, it had been converted into multi-family shelter, and they intended to converted it back to a single-family house. However, it had been abandoned for about six years, it was not in good condition, and it required substantial renovations.

Best Home Inspections of Trenton inspected the Trenton house and submitted a report showing numerous problems, including the following: The house's electrical system had been "mostly updated." Its heating systems needed major servicing and repair. The heating systems fired up, but heat distribution to all rooms was slow, and poor to the second and third floors. The burners burned yellow, instead of the proper blue, and they were rusted and dirty. Carbon monoxide leaked from both furnaces to the enclosed parts of the house, where it was present at "high" concentrations, showing that the boilers were burning at "dangerous levels." There was medium to heavy creosote buildup in the fireplace and in the chimney, which needed to be swept. The house's exterior surfaces needed attention. Its roof drainage system needed attention: metal, gutters and flashings needed to be patched and about twenty slates (shingles) needed to be replaced. The bathrooms needed improvement. Tub faucets were in poor condition and needed to be replaced and the tub had sluggish drainage. The toilet filler valve leaked and the toilet tank was not securely anchored. Lead paint was on all the windows and framing and needed to be removed. The house's plumbing system had leaks that needed repair. The kitchen sink was in unsatisfactory condition with poor flow and rubber hoses from the faucet needed to be replaced with pipes. Friable asbestos in the basement was "very dangerous" and needed to be professionally removed or encapsulated. The grounds needed improvement. P-1.

In the spring of 2003, J.E.H. and L.H. closed and took title to the Trenton house but, given its above-described condition, it was not fit to live in. They continued to rent the Ewing Township house and J.E.H. worked on the Trenton house and retained contractors to repair it. However, because the repairs were so extensive and expensive, e.g., over $7,000 for the heating system, the repairs were not completed immediately and the house continued to be unfit to live in.

In December 2003 their lease on the Ewing Township house ended. Although the Trenton house was not really fit to live in, J.E.H. and L.H. began to stay there, working on and securing the house. They were willing to risk their health, safety and welfare, but not their children's. They were especially concerned about the carbon monoxide and concerned about sewage leaking from pipes in a ceiling and into a room below. Consequently, D.M., who is L.H.'s brother, and K.M. his wife, kept J.A.H. and J.I.H. in their Ewing Township house. D.M., a State employee and National Guard member, and K.M., a BOE employee, supported the boys and J.E.H.'s financial contributions to the boys' care were only incidental.

On December 1, 2003, K.M. left a message for David Mikalauskas, the BOE's attendance and residency officer, requesting that he contact her to discuss the above-described circumstances. However, because of Mr. Mikalauskas's schedule, they did not discuss the matter until December 4, 2003. The BOE has many reports of students domiciled in adjacent Trenton who attend the BOE's schools, and in September 2003 it had opened a residency (domicile) case on this matter. Mr. Mikalauskas assigned a residency officer to perform surveillance: he determined that there was not sufficient evidence of a change in domicile to Trenton before December 1, 2003, but he determined that, after that date, the boys were no longer domiciled in the BOE's district. He directed that a letter be sent notifying the petitioners of the BOE administration's position that J.A.H. and J.I.H. were not domiciled in the district; that they would be disenrolled as BOE students; and that they could request a hearing before the BOE on the matter. In K.M.'s letter dated February 29, 2004, she wrote of her efforts to contact Mr. Mikalauskas and amicably resolve the matter, but it could not be settled. R-3.

On March 1, 2004, the BOE held a hearing on the matter. (The hearing had been adjourned from an earlier date.) J.E.H. appeared and explained the circumstances, e.g., that the Trenton house had been abandoned and that it needed substantial renovations before the boys could move there. He also described his service to the Ewing community. R-1. Nonetheless, on March 8, 2004, the BOE adopted a resolution finding that by December 2003 the H. family had moved from Ewing Township and begun domicile in Trenton; denying the request that the boys be permitted to attend the BOE's schools as district residents; deciding that they should be disenrolled from the BOE's school system; notifying the family of its right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education; and notifying the family that, if the Commissioner does not agree with them, the parents and/or guardians will be assessed for tuition for the boys' attendance. Mr. Mikalauskas, a credible witness, testified that based on costs approved by the Department of Education, for students like J.A.H. and J.I.H., in the district's ninth to twelfth grades, and the number of school days, out-of-district tuition was $50.90 per day. See N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

As written in the procedural history, J.E.H. and D.M. and K.M. appealed for a hearing on the BOE's action (and, consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), the BOE did not remove the boys from its schools, pending the outcome of this case).

On May 19, 2004, in the Superior Court, Chancery Division-Family Part, County of Mercer, a judge entered an order stating that, as agreed between plaintiffs D.M. and K.M. and defendants J.E.H. and L.H., residential custody was granted to the plaintiffs. P-2.

The boys, who are honor students and who have played on teams representing the BOE's schools, continued to stay in D.M. and K.M.'s Ewing house and they finished the 2003-04 school year in the BOE's school system.

J.E.H. testified that a new, safe heating system has still not been installed in the Trenton house; however, by April 2003 the weather was such that, using plug-in electric heaters and extra blankets, he and L.H. were reasonably comfortable sleeping in the Trenton house. After the 2003-04 school year ended, the boys began to stay in the Trenton house. In previous years, J.A.H. and J.I.H. applied to the private Solebury School in New Hope, Pennsylvania, and they have been admitted with aid for the 2004-05 school year. J.E.H and L.H. will move for an order vacating the above-described order, so that the court's records no longer show that D.M. and K.M. have custody of the boys.

Summary

J.E.H. and L.H. and their sons J.A.H. and J.I.H. were domiciled in the BOE's district and the boys attended the BOE's school system for several years before the 2003-04 school year. J.E.H., a credible witness, has been very active in service to the Ewing community. In 2003,

J.E.H. and L.H. purchased a single-family house in Trenton, but the house had been abandoned, had numerous problems including dangerous levels of carbon monoxide, and was not habitable and J.E.H. did not have sufficient funds for repairs to make it a fit home for children. At the start of the 2003-04 school year, the family continued to be domiciled in the BOE's district. In December 2003 the family ended its lease of the house in which it had lived in the BOE's district; J.E.H. and L.H. began to reside in the Trenton house, which they worked on and protected; and D.M. and K.M., the boys' uncle and aunt, kept them in their house in the district and supported them. By March 2004, when the BOE held a hearing on the matter of the boys' domicile, the Trenton house was still not fit for them to stay in, so D.M. and K.M. continued to keep and support the boys in their home in the BOE's district through the end of the 2003-04 school year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) states, in pertinent part:

> If the superintendent . . . of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed > from school during the 21-day period in which the parent may contest the board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). "A person may have several residences or places of abode. However, he can only have one domicile at one time." Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 520 (Law Div. 1959). Between residences, factors used to identify the domicile include: (1) the physical characteristics of each residence, (2) the time spent and things done in each residence, (3) other persons found in each residence, (4) the person's mental attitude about each residence, and (5) whether, when absent, the person has an intention to return. Mercadante, supra, 111 N.J. Super. at 39-40. Acts, statements and documents may be relevant in determining domicile.

The BOE afforded petitioners a hearing and determined that after December 1, 2003, the boys were not domiciled in the district and that they should be removed from its school system, etc. The appeal to the Commissioner stayed the effect of the BOE's determination that they should be removed. Consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioners bear the burden of proof by a preponderance (the greater weight) of the competent and credible evidence that the BOE's determination was incorrect and that the boys were domiciled in the district.

It is true, as the BOE contends, that the domicile of minor children usually is consistent with that of their custodial parents, but the circumstances here are unusual. Petitioners' witnesses were credible and, consistent with the above findings of fact, by March 2004, when the BOE held the hearing, the Trenton house was still not fit for the children, so the boys were not domiciled there and they remained domiciled in the district through the end of the 2003-04 school year.

ORDERS

I GRANT the relief requested in the petition, reverse and vacate the BOE's determination, and DISMISS WITH PREJUDICE the BOE's counterclaim for tuition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CHARLES SORIANO,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOMERSET HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, to which the Board of Education (Board) duly replied. A further submission by petitioner in response to the Board's reply exceptions is not considered herein, since operative procedural rules make no provision for such submissions.

Petitioner argues on exception that the Initial Decision entirely fails to consider his central claims that the Board had no authority to unilaterally change his proffered retirement date and that doing so additionally violated his tenure rights.[1] (Petitioner's Exceptions at 3-8) Petitioner further objects to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) statements to the effect that petitioner acted improperly in obtaining approval for his vacation requests directly from the superintendent, who was, in fact, his ultimate supervisor, and that he was trying to "cheat" the Board by staying on the payroll

while having no intention of providing services to the Board for the remainder of his employment. Petitioner contends that the record contains no factual basis whatsoever for the ALJ's "needless inflammatory conclusory statements" in these regards. (Id. at 9-10, quotation at 10)

The Board replies that the Initial Decision "resonates with clarity and reason" and is "entirely and simply correct." Contrary to petitioner's assertions, the Board contends, this matter has nothing to do with tenure rights since petitioner was leaving the district of his own accord; nor are quasi-contractual arguments relevant, since the cited prior case law deals with situations where the respondent board had previously accepted the complainant's proffered resignation, which did not occur in this instance. Instead, as the ALJ recognized, all the Board did was refuse to accept a resignation date for which it would receive no benefit, causing petitioner no harm other than loss of his ability to take a lengthy paid vacation at the Board's expense. (Board's Reply at 1-4, quotations at 1-2)

Upon review, the Deputy Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, has no alternative but to reverse the decision of the ALJ. The record provides ample explanation as to why the Board (and the ALJ) took a heated view of the circumstances herein, where petitioner, who had already accepted employment in a new district along with the Board's outgoing superintendent, submitted his resignation with an effective date that enabled him to invoke the negotiated agreement's provision for immediate accrual of 28 vacation days upon July 1, 2003, then requested leave for the period from July 2, 2003 through the effective date of his proffered resignation. However, regardless of whether this outcome was the result of outrageous connivance, as contended by the Board, or merely a collateral consequence of the 60-day resignation notice required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, as suggested by petitioner, the fact remains that, by unilaterally changing petitioner's proffered resignation date to an earlier one more to the Board's liking, the Board forced petitioner's premature resignation and terminated his employment without consent. Quite apart from the fact that resignation under any circumstances is a voluntary act with which the employee must be in agreement, here, in view of petitioner's undisputed tenure status, unilateral termination of his employment could not be lawfully accomplished in the absence of proceedings pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Bloomfield, supra (Note 1) Simply put, whatever its feelings may have been about the fairness to the district of petitioner's actions, the Board had no authority to do what it did, and petitioner must prevail on his appeal herein as a matter of law. As petitioner correctly notes, in the context of the claim he has made, other considerations are immaterial and no findings with regard to them can be made on the stipulated facts.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is rejected for the reasons set forth herein. The Board is directed to compensate petitioner consistent with the terms of his collective bargaining agreement, less mitigation, for the period between the effective date of his unlawful termination and his proffered resignation date of August 22, 2003.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner, who did not appear for the hearing in this matter, has failed to carry her burden of proof that her daughter was entitled to a free education in the Ewing Township School District. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $8,627.21 for the 180 days of S.W.'s ineligible attendance in school in the Ewing Township School District between September 8, 2003 through the end of the school year in May 2004.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: August 16, 2004 Decided: August 17, 2004
BEFORE JOSEPH F. FIDLER, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner S. W. has challenged an adverse residency determination of respondent Ewing Township Board of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38.1. Petitioner asserted that she and her daughter reside within respondent school district in Ewing Township and that pupil S.W. is therefore entitled to attend school within the district. Respondent Board by Answer has denied that petitioner resides within its school district, asserting that the pupil resides with her mother in the City of Trenton. The Board has also asserted a counterclaim for tuition expenses incurred, as non-resident students enrolled in the Ewing School District are required to pay tuition. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(2).

On March 23, 2004, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, acknowledged receipt of petitioner's submissions seeking to appeal a residency determination of the Ewing Township Board of Education. Respondent Board's answer and counterclaim were filed with the Department on March 31, 2004. On May 18, 2004, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for an expedited hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38.1, and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

DISCUSSION

The matter was scheduled for hearing at the Office of Administrative Law at 9:00 a.m. on Monday, August 16, 2004. At that date and time, counsel for respondent and its witnesses appeared for the hearing, but petitioner failed to appear. After waiting one hour for petitioner and having heard nothing from her regarding her intention to proceed, the record was opened. Because petitioner did not appear, I CONCLUDE that she has failed to meet her burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that minor child S.W. is eligible for a free education in respondent school district, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Respondent presented brief, undisputed proofs regarding its counterclaim for tuition. David Mikalauskas, Attendance and Residency Officer for the Board since 1989, testified that he has calculated the tuition S.W. owes as the result of her daughter's ineligible attendance in the school district. He obtained the most recent figure for the total annual per pupil cost to the district from the New Jersey Department of Education. For pupils in grades one through five in respondent school district, the applicable amount for annual per pupil cost is $8,771.

To calculate the tuition S.W. owes, Mr. Mikalauskas divided $8,771 by 183 days, representing the length of the district's school year, and obtained a daily tuition figure of $47.92. He then multiplied this amount by the number of days of ineligible attendance from the start of surveillance of S.W.'s residency on September 8, 2003, until the end of the school year in May 2004, which was 180 days. The result of this calculation is tuition owing in the amount of $8,627.21.

I note that if respondent had strictly applied the formula set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38.1, it would have computed the tuition owing on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district of $8,771, multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance, which in this case is 180 days, with a result that the tuition owing would be $8,771. However, counsel for respondent represented on the record that respondent is content with the calculation it used, which results in the somewhat lower figure for tuition owing in the amount of $8,627.21.

In accord with the foregoing undisputed evidence, I FIND that petitioner S.W. owes respondent school district $8,627.21 for the period of ineligible attendance of her daughter S.W. in respondent school district. I CONCLUDE that petitioner's challenge to the Board's adverse residency determination should be DISMISSED for lack of prosecution, and I further CONCLUDE that the Board's counterclaim against S.W. for tuition owing for ineligible attendance in the amount of $8,627.21 should be GRANTED.

I so ORDER.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. 	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his full and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge, for the reasons clearly detailed in his decision, that the Board's determination that K.D. failed his Electrical Construction 1 class, rendering him ineligible for the second year of his vocational educational program, was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, therefore, there is no relief which can be accorded him in this matter.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

K.D.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF GLOUCESTER COUNTY VOCATIONAL DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,

Respondent.

K.D., petitioner, pro se
Louis Capelli, Jr., Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 20, 2004 Decided: August 26, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

In June 2003, K.D. was a senior in respondent's high school, and he attended the first year of a potential two-year course at the respondent's school under a shared time arrangement with his local school district. Although Mr. D. first received a report card dated June 18, 2003, that showed that he had earned a grade of 71 in his Electrical Construction I class, taught by Brain Mattei, he then received a second report card, dated June 23, 2003, which showed that he had only earned a 66, which resulted in a failing grade of "F." Mr. D. filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education on September 16, 2003, requesting that he be "able to go back and complete the course." He also contended that records had been falsified and noted in his prayer for relief that "I feel who ever falsified these records be held accountable for their actions." On November 26, 2003, the Superintendent of the respondent district wrote to the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, addressing Mr. D.'s Petition. However, the Board did not file a formal Answer, and on January 5, 2004, the Director of Controversies and Disputes transferred the Petition for hearing before the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S. A. 52:14F-1 to 21. An Answer was then filed by counsel for the Board, received at the OAL on January 20, 2004. A hearing was conducted before this judge on July 9, 2004, and supplemental material was submitted on July 20, 2004, on which date the record closed.

The issue as to Mr. D.'s grade involves his attendance, or rather, his alleged lack of attendance. Mr. Mattei testified about the school's "Grading Policy," explained in a document distributed to students during the opening days of school. In its opening section, this writing reflects that "Attendance is very important: A student cannot learn while absent from shop. Vocational programs using hands-on experiences cannot teach the student if they are not present to participate. Poor attendance can only hinder learning, skill development, and is considered a negative work trait by prospective employees." Under the policy, a student receives a 10% reduction in the attendance grade for every day missed during the marking period and no credit for shop work that day. Make up work can be requested and if satisfactorily completed the student may receive a shop work grade of 90% for the day missed and removal of the 10% reduction from every day made-up. A note is required for each absence. Three latenesses are considered an absence. Students with less than 90% attendance, which means 18 days, "whether made up or not," "will receive a failing grade for the course." Mattei iterated that attendance is a major concern for prospective employers. The total grade for the course is determined by averaging attendance, tests and shop performance grades.

Mattei presented a summary of Mr. D.'s grades for his senior year. According to this record, D. started the year with no absences during the first marking period, had six absences in the second, but made up all of the work, had seven absences during the third marking period and did not make up the work, and then, in the fourth marking period, had twenty-two absences and made up no work. His average grades for the four marking periods were 88, 81, 65 and 32, resulting in an overall average of 66.5% for the year, a failing grade. The key component of the fourth marking period average was the zero received for attendance. Additionally, the third marking period average was substantially affected by the grade of 30 received for attendance. Mattei described D. as a "good guy," who, when present, was always respectful and asked what he "could do next," even during the last two marking periods. However, in that fourth marking

K.D. did not believe that he had missed even ten days. He insisted that he did several forms of make up work and turned them in. However, he cannot recall if he turned in the notebook in the fourth marking period. He did not contest the accuracy of the attendance numbers listed on the summary for the second and third marking periods, does not recall if he turned in the notebook in the second marking period (the summary indicates that he did not, and he does not recall if he took the safety test), and does not recall missing tests. However, he "always turned in" make up work. As an adult, he agreed that he "had a lot of leeway" as far as missing school, and he had a car. When he left for school in the morning his mother was still at home. He attended vocational school in the morning and the rest of the day he was at his home district in Clayton.

Mr. Mattei was a "great teacher." However, he recalls no conversation with the teacher about a chance to pass the course.

On rebuttal, Mr. Mattei iterated that the conversation about turning in make up work occurred in early June in the classroom, about ten days before the end of the school year. He told D. he was in danger of failing and that he did not want to fail him. While D. promised to turn in the work, that was the last occasion on which Mattei saw him and nothing was produced.

Discussion

The record clearly demonstrates that the school district made known to Mr. D. early in the school year what its grading and attendance policies were and the relationship between the two. Mr. D. claims that the record of attendance maintained by Mr. Mattei incorrectly charges him with many more absences during the fourth marking period than D. believes he accumulated. However, his recollection is suspect. He does not fault Mattei's bookkeeping for other marking periods, but has limited recollection of missed tests and as to whether he turned in make up work. Mr. Mattei, who even D. relates is a fine teacher without a grudge against the student, conceded that he could be off a day or two if he missed a time when a student arrived late after attendance was taken, but there is absolutely no basis for believing that he was as far off in his recording of absences as D. suggests. Instead, after considering the testimony and documents and the credibility of the witnesses, I am convinced, and FIND, that D. was recorded as absent twenty-one times and that even with some minor allowance for a missed late arrival here and there, during that last marking period he was absent far more that the critical number of ten absences. Further, I FIND that D. was offered an opportunity to turn in make up work by Mattei, who did not want to fail the student, but D. once again passed on this chance, turning in nothing. Finally, I FIND that there is no evidence whatsoever that anyone "falsified" any records. As such, I CONCLUDE that the Board of Education acted properly when it determined that D. had failed the course. As a result he was ineligible to attend the second year of the program, and I understand that the tuition money has been returned. There is no relief to be provided to D., and his appeal is therefore DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOMERSET COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FRANKLIN, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

This matter comes before the Commissioner by way of a Petition of Appeal filed by the Board of Education of the Somerset County Vocational-Technical School District (Vocational District) on July 21, 2004. Therein, the Vocational District seeks an Order holding that the Franklin Township Board of Education (Franklin) is violating State statute by refusing to send its students to the Vocational District's shared-time programs, and directing that Franklin students who have been accepted into such programs be permitted to attend them.[1]

Following receipt of Franklin's answer to the petition, by letter dated August 6, 2004, the Department advised the parties that the Commissioner would be amenable to deciding this matter on cross-motions for summary decision, since it appeared that the dispute turned on the legal question of whether a district board of education is required by statute to send eligible students to shared-time county vocational school programs.

[1] The District also seeks access to Franklin students, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(d), for purposes of presenting information about its shared-time, as well as full-time, programs, and a directive that Franklin students be permitted to submit applications to the District's shared-time programs.

On August 16, 2004, the Vocational District moved for summary decision, arguing as set forth more fully below. Proceedings were briefly held in abeyance while settlement discussions were attempted by the parties; when these proved unsuccessful, on September 2, 2004, Franklin filed a cross-motion to which the Vocational District replied on September 13, 2004. These submissions, along with their accompanying certifications and exhibits, constitute the substantive record of this matter.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The central facts operative herein are undisputed, and, where areas of disagreement exist between the parties, they are so noted:

1. On June 13, 2002, the Franklin Township Board of Education resolved that, as of September 2002, it would no longer send new shared-time (as opposed to full-time) students to the Vocational District; currently enrolled students were "grandfathered," allowing them to complete the programs they had begun. In a letter to Franklin parents, students and staff giving notice of the Board's impending discussion, Franklin's then-superintendent explained that he was recommending the discontinuance because 1) additional graduation requirements were making it increasingly difficult for shared-time students to complete high school in four years, 2) significant time during the school day was being wasted in transit to and from the vocational school, 3) students with the staggered schedules necessitated by shared-time programs were at a disadvantage in fulfilling annual credit expectations and in obtaining remedial instruction, specialized class placements and skills labs, and 4) scheduling and operations at Franklin High School were significantly burdened by the demands of trying to accommodate shared-time arrangements.

2. There is no evidence on record suggesting that, during the 2002-03 school year, the Vocational District either accepted new shared-time students from Franklin or objected to Franklin's decision to discontinue sending such students. [2]

[2] The Commissioner takes notice that subsequent to the events narrated in No. 1 above but prior to the events narrated in No. 3 below, both the Vocational District and Franklin experienced a change in chief school administrators.

3. During the spring of 2004, the Vocational District accepted new shared-time students from Franklin for the upcoming school year. However, by letter from the principal of the Vocational District's high school, these acceptances were rescinded based on Franklin's policy of refusing to send its students to shared-time programs. A concurrent letter to the new Franklin superintendent, also from the principal, apologized for the "mistake." The new Vocational District Superintendent wrote to the Franklin Superintendent, stating that, while the principal's letter was well-intentioned, it was at best premature in light of the requirements of law and the Superintendent's concerns about Franklin's policy as expressed in meetings and communications that had occurred during the preceding weeks.

4. Further oral and written communications ensued between the two superintendents. The parties dispute the specifics of these communications, as well as those referenced in No. 3 above, and the degree to which viable solutions to Franklin's concerns were offered by the Vocational District. However, there is no dispute that, whatever discussions occurred between the parties, they resulted in no change to Franklin's policy of not sending shared-time students to the Vocational District.

5. Shared-time students are in attendance at the Vocational District from every K-12 and regional school district in Somerset County; the five students from Franklin are either home-schooled or "grandfathered" because they were accepted prior to Franklin's change in policy. In an allegation that is neither admitted nor denied by Franklin, the Vocational District states that Franklin is the only district in the county that refuses to send students to share-time Vocational District programs.

6. Franklin's current Superintendent of Schools contends that Franklin's shared-time students are unable to meet State graduation requirements because scheduling limitations preclude them from completing the requisite courses in a timely fashion. The Vocational District Superintendent disagrees with this assessment.

7. No tuition is charged to local districts by the Vocational District, other than for a special alternative education program ("TOPS") not at issue herein.

THE VOCATIONAL DISTRICT'S POSITION

The Vocational District argues that, whatever Franklin's view may be with respect to the viability of shared-time programs, it is statutorily obligated to permit its students to attend the Vocational District on a shared-time basis when such students are accepted into shared-time programs. The District points to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, which provides in pertinent part:

> a. The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

According to the Vocational District, this statute is clear on its face, and must, therefore, be read consistent with its plain meaning. Contrary to any contention that the law must be read to exclude shared-time programs because the Legislature did not specifically mention them, the District argues, " 'words should never be supplied or changed [in the construction of such a statute] unless to do so will effect the meaning clearly shown by the other parts of the statute, or to carry out an intent somewhere expressed.' Board of Ed. of Voc. School v. Finne, 88 N.J. Super. 91, 111 (L. Div. 1965)." (Vocational District's Brief on Motion for Summary Decision at 3-5, quotation at 5)

The District proffers that the plain meaning of this statute is reinforced by rules promulgated by the State Board of Education to set forth New Jersey's system of vocational-technical instruction, N.J.A.C. 6A:19. According to the Vocational District, these rules, and the explanatory comments published in the New Jersey Register at the time of their promulgation, make it abundantly clear that vocational programs are viewed as an integral part of New Jersey's educational system and that all qualified students are to be given access to them, without distinction between full-time and shared-time programs. (Id. at 3-7) Similarly, the Vocational District observes, prior Commissioner decisions, such as Jack Jacobs v. Bd. of Ed. Of Northern Valley Regional School District, Bergen County, decided May 4, 1999, have held that all New Jersey students have an independent entitlement to vocational education. (Id. at 7-8)

Because there is no question that Franklin refuses to send any of its students to the Vocational District's shared-time programs, the District urges that the material facts of this matter are not in dispute and that the relief it requests can be summarily granted as a matter of law, Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). (Id. at 8-10)

FRANKLIN'S POSITION AND THE VOCATIONAL DISTRICT'S REPLY

Franklin counters that it has no obligation to send shared-time students to the Vocational District because no statutory authority exists for county vocational schools to provide shared-time programs. Rather, Franklin posits, the enabling legislation for county vocational schools provides only that instruction may be offered in "day, part-time and evening classes." According to Franklin, it is clear from the introductory clause "in order that instruction in the principles and practice may go on together," that, in this context, "part-time" refers to the school employment programs known as cooperative vocational-technical education programs and not to shared-time programs which require Franklin students to study academic subjects at their home school in the morning and vocational subjects at the county school in the afternoon. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-3. Additionally, Franklin avers, the only mention in N.J.A.C. 6A:19 of shared-time programs, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-5.2(i), pertains to maintenance of a medical inspection service for applicants, a reference which is not, in itself, sufficient to overcome the absence of other statute or rule authorizing the existence of shared-time programs. (Franklin's Brief on Cross-Motion for Summary Decision at 2-4)

Alternatively, Franklin argues, even if it is held that the Vocational District may legally conduct shared-time programs without an express grant of statutory authority, Franklin satisfies any obligation it may have under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1[3] by sending full-time students to the District. This is because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 must be read in pari materia with N.J.S.A. 18A:54-3, so that the mandatory language of the former applies only to programs expressly authorized by the latter, and any decision by a local board of education to send students to programs other than those enumerated is purely discretionary. (Id. at 4-5)

Finally, Franklin argues that the Vocational District's shared-time program "interferes" with Franklin's duty to provide a thorough and efficient education (T&E) to its students. Franklin contends, based on the certification of its Superintendent, that the hours spent in vocational instruction, coupled with the significant portion of each day shared-time students must spend on a school bus, create a "severe obstacle" to Franklin's ability to ensure that such students meet Core Curriculum Content Standards as embodied in the minimum Statewide graduation requirements established by the State Board of Education at N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1; indeed, Franklin has experienced instances of shared-time students being "forced" to drop out of vocational programs to take remedial classes in mandated academic subjects at Franklin High School. (Id. at 6) Franklin explains:

> As demonstrated [in the Superintendent's certification], the shared-time program requires ninth and tenth graders to spend their first five periods and lunch at Franklin High School and then travel to the Vo-Tech High School for three periods. Eleventh and twelfth graders spend four periods at the Vo-Tech High School and then travel to Franklin High School for three academic periods and lunch. This schedule provides for the accumulation of ninety academic credits at Franklin High School. However, included in those ninety credits are twenty credits in physical education/health, whereas the state graduation requirement is fifteen credits (3¾ credits per year). 3¾ credits would translate into a 4-day per week physical education course, which is impossible to schedule. Therefore, Franklin students are scheduled for a five-day per week course.
> The result is that, under the shared-time schedule, a incoming freshman in 2004-05 would remain one course short of the mandatory graduation requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 after four years. In the sample schedule attached to [the Superintendent's] certification, that course is social studies. Furthermore, current sophomores, juniors and seniors remain subject to the prior requirement of ten credits in world languages, not the five credits currently imposed on incoming freshmen in 2004-05. The shared-time program does not permit the scheduling of an additional one-year foreign language course. Finally, as noted by [the Superintendent], the shared-time schedule does not accommodate the scheduling of the five-credit course for freshmen, and ten credits for upperclassmen, in visual, performing and/or practical arts, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1.
> The legal conclusion is inescapable; under the shared-time system, it is impossible for [Franklin] to provide its students with a sufficient number of graduation credits in four years. It is for this reason that, as noted by [the Superintendent], at least one other vocational-technical district [Morris County School of Technology] has acted to terminate its shared-time program. (Id. at 7-8)

Franklin concludes that it, rather than the Vocational District, is entitled to summary decision; however, in the alternative, it asks that the District's motion for summary decision be denied in light of the "significant factual issues" Franklin has raised concerning its ability to provide T&E to shared-time students. (Id. at 8)

In reply, the Vocational District counters that Franklin offers no case law contradicting the District's contention that shared-time as well as full-time students are entitled by statute to attend the county vocational school. The District further proffers that its shared-time programs are fully within the authorization of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-3 since they are conducted during the day, are part-time, and offer both theory and "hands on" experience of precisely the type referenced in the statutory language upon which Franklin relies. (Vocational District's Reply Brief at 2) With respect to Franklin's "T&E" argument, the District responds:

> [Franklin] raises arguments regarding scheduling that are red herrings. The main objection raised by [Franklin] to the sending of their students to Shared Time programs is that they will miss one period of gym per week. [Franklin] admits that its current schedule mandates more credits than are necessary for students to graduate in the subject area of gym. Rather than permit [its] students to obtain the benefits of the programs offered at [the Vocational District], Franklin's main objection is that the overscheduling of gym classes [supersedes its] desire to restructure the schedule to give [its] students every opportunity to receive the education suited to their needs.
> The [Vocational District] currently has 292 full-time students and 433 shared-time students who come from all over the county. By way of example, Bridgewater sends 103 students as shared-time students, Hillsborough sends 55 shared-time students, Manville sends 50 shared-time students, North Plainfield sends 33 shared-time students, Somerville sends 10 shared-time students and Watchung sends 30 shared-time students. Certainly [Franklin] does not contend that these students do not meet the requirements necessary to be graduated from high school in 4 years. These school districts created a schedule to suit the needs of their students. They make it work successfully to the benefit of their students.
> [Franklin] also argues that the high school graduation [requirement] for world languages [is] 10 credits. [As demonstrated by the appended April 8, 2004 memorandum from the Commissioner of Education, the] 10-credit total has been suspended for students who entered the 9th grade in the school years 2001 through 2002, 2002 through 2003 and 2003 through 2004. Students who are entering the 9th grade in 2004 through 2005 are subject to 5 credits or testing. Therefore, the argument regarding world language is also a red herring. (Id. at 2-3, footnote omitted)

The Vocational District reiterates its request for summary decision, contending that Franklin has neither presented a genuine issue of material fact nor offered legal argument sufficiently persuasive to defeat the District's motion. (Id. at 3)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the Vocational District that Franklin's position is entirely without merit and that the District is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

Both of Franklin's legal arguments are rooted in the absence of any explicit reference to "shared-time" instruction in the enabling legislation for the establishment of vocational education programs, N.J.S.A. 18A:54-3. However, even if one could, in theory, attempt to argue that the Legislature, upon enactment of the statute in its present form in 1967 or of its predecessor in 1913, might not have specifically contemplated shared-time programs, such interpretation could not be presently sustained in light of State funding laws concurrently in effect since at least 1975.[4]

In that year, the Legislature expressly made formulaic provisions to calculate State aid for "pupils regularly attending both the schools of the district and of a county vocational school district in the same county," P.L. 1975, c. 212 (N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-3, definition of "resident enrollment"). Upon repeal of this provision in 1990, a similar provision was incorporated into the new definition of "resident enrollment" enacted that year, P.L. 1990, c. 52 (N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3). Current law, P.L. 1996, c. 138, enacted upon repeal of c. 52, retains similar provisions in its definition of "resident enrollment" at N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3, and additionally provides, at N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-21, a formula for State aid to county vocational schools that specifically allows for "pupils attending shared-time secondary programs."

Additionally, both the State Board of Education and the Department of Education have recognized shared-time programs as an integral part of New Jersey's educational system through diverse indications ranging from the School Register (N.J.A.C. 6:3-9.1(c)), to the program criteria for special education students (N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.7(e)1ii), to the Application for State School Aid (ASSA), the Report Card, and official Audit Instructions for statutorily required annual audits. That N.J.A.C. 6A:19, Vocational-Technical Education, does not mention shared-time programs, except incidentally, reflects nothing more than the fact that no such differentiation is necessary in that context, since the purpose of the chapter is to regulate vocational instruction, not concomitant academic instruction which a student may, in order to receive a State-endorsed high school diploma, take either at a full-time vocational school or at his or her home high school. Simply stated, shared-time vocational programs have been, and remain, an important part of New Jersey's educational landscape, sanctioned by the Legislature, the State Board and the Department.

Franklin's attempt to argue that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 does not apply to shared-time students is equally disingenuous. That statute plainly entitles students whose own district does not maintain a vocational school to attend the county vocational school if they have applied and have been accepted there, without distinction between full-time and shared-time programs. Even if the Commissioner were to grant, solely for purposes of argument, Franklin's alternative contention that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-3 permits the offering of shared-time programs but does not create an independent student entitlement to attend them, that statute regulates the provision of vocational instruction in general, whereas N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 pertains specifically to county vocational schools and does create such an entitlement, since the right to attend the county school is not contingent on the program attended.

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the Vocational District that any scheduling difficulties Franklin may experience as a result of students attending county vocational programs on a shared-time basis cannot serve to deprive such students of their statutory entitlement to this form of vocational education if they choose and are qualified for it. Even granting every inference to Franklin's factual contentions, the Commissioner does not find them sufficient to support a claim that Franklin cannot provide T&E to shared-time students, particularly in light of the flexibility allowed, indeed encouraged, by the Department and State Board with respect to fulfillment of high school graduation requirements. Nor can it be ignored that such flexibility is expressly provided, at least in part, so that interested students may pursue from shared-time vocational programs.[5]

[5] See, for example, the following exchange from public comments received on proposed amendments to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1:

> 5. COMMENT: The commenter expressed concern that even the five-credit world languages requirement, along with the five-credit requirement in the visual and performing arts, will create a hardship for many students who want to pursue a shared-time vocational-technical program. The commenter concluded that students who are unable to complete these credit requirements plus any required remedial studies in their freshman and sophomore years will not have time in their schedules to attend a shared-time vocational program, and they will be deprived of the opportunity to develop meaningful occupational skills that prepare them for employment after graduation. (8) [Comment from Thomas Bistocchi – President, New Jersey Council of County Vocational-Technical Schools]
> RESPONSE: The department, in recognition of time issues associated with shared-time vocational-technical programs, has endorsed the option of having students take a competency-based assessment in world languages in middle school to satisfy the requirement in lieu of seat time in a high school instructional program. This option is included in the proposed amendments at N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)1i(7). The department also believes that all districts involved in shared-time vocational programs must make every effort to create flexible schedules so that students can participate in vocational programs. (36 N..J. R. 662-663)

See also the following exchange from public comment received by the State Board prior to proposal and the resulting statement included in the summary published by the Department at proposal level:

> 14. Comment: The commenters expressed concern that while some districts utilize option ii in N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)1ii, most county vocational-technical schools and local districts that send students on a shared-time basis to (sic) do not make use of this option, and most parents and students are unaware of the option. The commenters suggested strengthening the code language by specifically defining the ability of vocational-technical students to address world languages and visual and performing arts competencies through option ii and compelling sending districts to recognize and accept option ii alternatives. This would provide alternatives to a full year of "seat time" without eliminating credit requirements. (20) [Comment from William R. Donald, Jr., Supervisor, Fine and Performing Arts, Teaneck Public Schools]
>
> Response: The department agrees that option ii is underutilized and that clarification of the language in N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)1ii might encourage greater utilization of this option by districts, schools, and students. Such clarification is provided in the department's current proposal.
> (http://www.state.nj.us/njded/code/title6a/chap8/amendment2/crform.htm)
> The 110-credit requirement may be met in whole or in part through program completion aimed at achieving the Core Curriculum Content Standards, as described in N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)1ii, commonly referred to as "option ii" or "option two." The proposed amendments will provide additional guidance to help districts take advantage of

Accordingly, the Somerset County Vocational-Technical School District is entitled to prevail in its request for relief as a matter of law. The Commissioner hereby grants summary decision to the District and declares null and void the Franklin Township Board of Education's policy prohibiting the sending of its students to shared-time county vocational programs.[6]

this option. For example, they will provide districts with several possible models for developing option ii activities or programs linked to the Core Curriculum Content Standards. They include interdisciplinary or theme-based programs, independent study, co-curricular or extra-curricular activities, magnet programs, student exchange programs, distance learning opportunities, internships; community service; or other structured learning experiences. The proposed amendments clarify that activities and programs developed in accordance with option ii shall include appropriate assessments and that student achievements may meet or exceed the Core Curriculum Content Standards. Depending on their individual interests, abilities, and career plans, many students will and should develop knowledge and skills that build upon and go beyond the specific indicators in the Core Curriculum Content Standards.

Other proposed additions to the option ii rules empower district boards of education to utilize performance or competency assessment to approve, as fulfilling requirements for high school graduation, the completion of educational programs or activities occurring all or in part prior to a student's high school enrollment.

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner is unable to accept the settlement. Notwithstanding that the agreement was signed by counsel for both parties, the file of this matter contains a letter, dated August 16, 2004, from Board counsel, Joel M. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BERGEN COUNTY VOCATIONAL AND TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RAMAPO-INDIAN HILLS REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, the respondent Board of Education (Ramapo) filed timely exceptions, to which the petitioning Board of Education (Vocational District) duly replied.

In its exceptions, Ramapo objects to the failure of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) to find that Ramapo has, in fact, obtained Department of Education approval and Classification of Instruction Program (CIP) codes for its University Programs, since the record clearly supports such a finding. Ramapo further objects to the ALJ's failure to conclude that such approval, given that Ramapo's University Programs are "of the identical type, with the same CIP codes" as those offered by the Vocational District, qualifies Ramapo as an "approved local secondary vocational-technical education program" meeting the requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) for exemption from the obligation to send students to the county schools. (Ramapo's Exceptions at 2-3, quotations at 3) In this regard, Ramapo protests the ALJ's reliance on the matter of Board of Education of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools v. Board of Education of the City of Linden, Union County, Commissioner of Education decision, December 6, 2002, affirmed State Board of Education, May 7, 2003, contending that that matter is factually and legally distinguishable because Linden's high school merely offered a number of vocational courses, whereas Ramapo offers four-year University Programs bearing Department approval through CIP codes and integrating specialized vocational and comprehensive academic training in a manner identical to the programs offered by the Vocational District. In light of this distinction, Ramapo contends, the fact that its programs are not housed in a separate building is of no import for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). (Id. at 4)[1]

In reply, the Vocational District urges that the Initial Decision be adopted in its entirety, since Ramapo does not maintain a "vocational school" devoted exclusively to vocational education as contemplated by the statutory exemption provision, but rather comprehensive high schools through which vocational education programs are delivered. The District reiterates that the existence of Ramapo's University Programs does not transform its comprehensive high schools into vocational schools, any more than Linden's vocational courses did, and that Ramapo's efforts to cloud the issue with questions of "approval" and "identity" must be rejected, since, for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and its implementing rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1, it does not matter whether Ramapo's programs are approved or CIP-coded; nor does it matter whether their content and structure is similar (or even identical) to that of the Vocational District's academy programs. If a student is accepted at the county vocational school, the District contends, the only basis on which a local or regional board of education may lawfully refuse payment for its resident students in attendance there, as found by the ALJ, is if it operates its own vocational school, which Ramapo clearly does not. (Vocational District's Reply Exceptions at 2-10)

[1] Ramapo did not take exception to the ALJ's conclusion that the Vocational District has standing to pursue this matter.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the analysis and conclusions of the ALJ as set forth in the Initial Decision.

In essence, this matter turns on the question of whether a comprehensive high school may include, within its range of offerings, a distinct curricular track centered on a DOE-approved, CIP-coded vocational program, and by the existence of such track, be considered a "vocational school" within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) so as to enable the operating local or regional board of education to absolve itself from any obligation for tuition and transportation for resident students wishing to attend a county vocational school program in the same CIP approval area.[2] For the reasons expressed by the ALJ and those which follow, the Commissioner holds that it cannot.

As noted by the ALJ in the Initial Decision at 9, the last sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) refers to a "school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes" (emphasis supplied). N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 of that article authorize local and regional districts to establish and maintain vocational schools, but also require the approval of the Commissioner subject to the advice and consent of the State Board in order to do so. There is no claim here that Ramapo has obtained any approval of this type, in contrast, significantly, to boards of education which were denied "vocational school" status notwithstanding their prior approval as Local Area Vocational Schools in recent matters turning on that question, D.M., on behalf of minor child, A.M., v. Board of Education of the City of Long Branch, Monmouth County, and Board of Education of the Red Bank Regional High School District, Monmouth County, Commissioner of Education decision, November 28, 2000, affirmed State Board of Education, July 10, 2001, and Union County Vo-Tech, supra. Indeed, as those matters have made abundantly clear, the present State Plan for Vocational Education has acted, together with the history of State funding laws and the operative State Board of Education regulations, effectively to preclude such status, providing instead for vocational instruction to be delivered either through comprehensive high schools or county vocational schools and approvals to be granted for programs rather than schools.[3]

Neither can Ramapo succeed in its attempt to distinguish its situation from that of the Linden Board of Education in Union County Vo-Tech, supra. Contrary to Ramapo's contention, Linden did not "simply" offer "a number of vocational courses" (Ramapo's Exceptions at 4); indeed, it had a separate high school building specially constructed for, and largely devoted to, vocational programs; prior approval as a Local Area Vocational School District; and Department approval through CIP codes for its entire range of vocational offerings, which was substantial at the time of the Commissioner and State Board decisions holding that Linden was not exempt from the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Nor does it matter whether the programs offered by Ramapo are "identical" to those offered by the Vocational District's academies, either in CIP coding or actual structure and content, both because Ramapo does not operate a "vocational school" within the meaning of the statute and because its arguments with respect to identity are, as correctly noted by the ALJ, based on a regulation pertaining to students seeking vocational instruction in another local or regional school district, not in the county vocational school. (Initial Decision at 10)

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ and herein, the Vocational District is entitled to prevail in its claim for tuition and transportation costs as a matter of law. The Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the ALJ's recommended Orders for relief are to be implemented forthwith. In so holding, the Commissioner, like the ALJ, denies the District's claim for prejudgment interest and counsel fees.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 19, 2004 Decided: August 25, 2004

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

This matter concerns a dispute between the Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational and Technical School District ("petitioner") and the Board of Education of the Ramapo/Indian Hills Regional High School District ("respondent") with respect to respondent's obligation to reimburse petitioner for tuition, transportation and other costs related to the attendance of respondent's pupils at petitioner's Academies program. Petitioner now moves for summary decision, while respondent seeks dismissal of the petition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition for Declaratory and other Relief with the Commissioner of Education on June 13, 2003, invoking the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. After respondent filed an answer on July 3, 2003, the Commissioner advised the parties by letter dated July 11, 2003, that the matter would proceed as a Petition of Appeal. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 3, 2003, for determination as a contested case.

On March 25, 2004, petitioner filed a motion for leave to file an amended petition and for summary decision. Thereafter, respondent submitted a response, and petitioner filed a reply. On June 3, 2004, respondent filed a motion to dismiss for lack of standing, and subsequently, petitioner submitted a response. Petitioner's motion for leave to file an amended petition was granted by Order dated August 19, 2004. Because both motions are based upon substantially the same facts, they will be considered together.

MOTIONS

A. Legal Standard for Summary Decision

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, these circumstances should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

B. Facts

Respondent contends that the motion for summary decision should be denied because there is a genuine issue as to one material fact. This contention will be discussed below. There is no genuine issue as to the balance of the facts, and I FIND as follows:

1. Petitioner operates a county vocational school district created under the authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. and provides vocational education.

2. Respondent provides secondary educational services to pupils domiciled in Franklin Lakes, Oakland and Wyckoff, New Jersey (the "FLOW District" or "regional district").

3. Petitioner offers and operates certain vocational and technical educational programs entitled "Academy" programs. Currently, petitioner offers seven Academy programs as follows: (1) The Academy for Medical Science and Technology ("AMST"); (2) The Academy for Business and Computer Technology ("ABCT"); (3) The Academy for Engineering and Design Technology ("AEDT"); (4) The Academy for the Advancement of Science and Technology ("AAST"); (5) The Power and Transportation Institute ("APT"); (6) The Academy for Visual Arts and Graphic Communication ("AVAGC"); and (7) The Academy for Culinary Arts ("ACA").

4. One or more pupils from the Flow District are enrolled, or will become enrolled, in one or more of petitioner's Academy programs.

5. At least six pupils from the Flow District are enrolled as freshman in petitioner's Academy programs.

6. Respondent operates two comprehensive high schools.

7. Respondent offers and operates certain academic programs entitled the University Program for Science, Mathematics and Research, the University Program for International Studies and Business and the University Program for Information Technology.

8. Any vocational programs offered by respondent are offered through its comprehensive high schools.

9. On March 24, 2003, respondent approved a resolution ("March resolution") which purports to authorize the withholding of all tuition and transportation costs for FLOW District pupils who attend petitioner's AAST and AEDT programs beginning with the incoming 2003-04 freshman class.

10. As support for this action, the March resolution states that respondent has obtained Classification of Instruction Program vocational codes ("CIP codes") to support its University Programs.

11. The March resolution specifically states as follows:

> WHEREAS, these University Programs, based on these CIP Codes and/or their nature, are the exact type of programs offered by the Science and Technology and Engineering and Design Academies operated under the auspices of the Bergen County Vocational Schools, thus prohibiting this Board of Education from paying tuition costs of high school aged students residing in the FLOW District.

12. The March resolution authorized its widespread distribution so that the FLOW Districts and all students affected be immediately notified that they can apply to and attend petitioner's Academies but without tuition from respondent "as such is prohibited by N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b)."

13. In accordance with the March resolution, respondent has failed and refused to pay approximately $35,000 in tuition and transportation costs attributed to six FLOW District pupils who enrolled as freshman in petitioner's AAST program for the 2003-04 school year.

14. Respondent intends to continue to fail and refused to pay tuition and transportation costs for all new pupils enrolling in petitioner's AAST and AEDT programs as freshman beginning in the 2003-04 school year and all successive years.

15. On December 8, 2003, respondent approved a similar resolution ("December resolution") except that it pertains to pupils enrolling in petitioner's ABCT program and a Business and Finance Academy effective for the 2004-05 school year.

16. Respondent disseminated the March and December resolutions to families within the FLOW area school district.

17. Respondent currently pays tuition and transportation costs for fifty-seven students who attend petitioner's Academies.

18. The number of applications to petitioner's Academies from FLOW District pupils trended upward from seven for the class of 1999 to fifty-one for the class of 2007.

19. The corresponding number of applications for the class of 2008 fell to twenty-six.

20. The tuition per pupil at petitioner's Academies for the 2003-04 school year is $5,750.

Respondent maintains that there is a genuine issue of material fact as to whether respondent actually obtained the CIP codes. In its statement of undisputed material facts, petitioner asserted that respondent failed to obtain valid CIP codes for any of its purported vocational programs. This factual assertion is based upon respondent's failure to respond to a request for admissions which stated in part as follows: "None of the educational programs offered by the respondent to its pupils operate pursuant to a valid classification of instruction program ("CIP") code." In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.4(c), the requests for admissions, which were made in November 2003, would be deemed to be admitted, because respondent did not respond within fifteen days.

In response to the motion, respondent submitted copies of four letters from the Acting Director of the Department of Education's Office of Vocational-Technical, Career and Adult Programs granting approval to operate four programs with CIP codes. For reasons set forth below, valid CIP codes for the programs in question would not affect the outcome of the case, and therefore, these facts are not material and do not constitute a reason to deny a motion for summary decision.

C. Analysis

Respondent moves to dismiss the petition in this matter for lack of standing. In support of the motion, respondent argues that petitioner has not demonstrated a sufficient stake in the matter or a substantial likelihood of harm from an adverse decision. More specifically, respondent argues that petitioner interviews about half of the applicants who apply and accepts about two-thirds of those interviewed. The pupils who are rejected include applicants from the FLOW District. Further, a comparison of the number of freshmen from the FLOW District enrolled in the class of 2006 with the number of FLOW District freshmen enrolled in the class of 2007 reveals that the FLOW District enrollment has remained constant at seventeen students. It is especially notable that FLOW District freshmen enrollment in the AAST program actually increased from four students in the class of 2006 to six students in the class of 2007. Thus, despite the drop in the number of applications, the enrollment of pupils from the FLOW District has remained the same. Moreover, there is no evidence that the drop in the number of applications is attributable to the March and December 2003 resolutions. Lastly, petitioner will not suffer a loss of tuition. The only change is that the tuition will be paid by the pupils' families rather than respondent. Respondent concludes that petitioner is not an interested person who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of the controversy.

In response, petitioner argues that it has a specific statutory right pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 to receive the tuition directly from respondent. Petitioner maintains that it has standing to enforce this right. At present, six of respondent's pupils attend the AAST program, while two are enrolled in the ABCT/ABF program. With a tuition of $5,750 per pupil per year and transportation costs of approximately $1,000 per pupil per year, respondent has withheld approximately $54,000 from petitioner.

The basic requirements for standing are a sufficient stake in the matter and a genuine adverseness. Strulowitz v. Provident Life and Cas., 357 N.J. Super. 454, 459 (App. Div. 2003). To have standing, a party only needs to show a substantial likelihood that he or she will experience some harm in the event of an unfavorable decision. Ibid. A financial interest in the outcome ordinarily is sufficient to confer standing. Ibid.

By these standards, it is evident that petitioner has standing in this matter. Petitioner has a financial interest in that it may recover approximately $54,000 from respondent. Further, the amount is likely to increase with each passing school year. The possibility that petitioner could recover the sums from the pupils' parents is of no consequence in view of petitioner's reliance on a statute which specifically obligates the regional school district to pay tuition to the county vocational school district. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the motion to dismiss for lack of standing is without merit and must be denied.

In regard to the motion for summary decision, the pertinent statute is N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a), which provides as follows:

> The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statues.

Petitioner cites this provision as statutory authority for the proposition that a regional school district must send to the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. Further, the regional school district is required to pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district.

Respondent relies on the last sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) for the proposition that this requirement is not applicable to a regional school district which maintains its own vocational school. Respondent maintains that provision of vocational programs in a comprehensive high school equates to operation of a vocational school for purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Respondent's position raises the issue whether respondent maintains a vocational school.

It is noteworthy that the last sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) refers to a "regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes." The key provisions of article 2 for present purposes are N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5, which provides that a regional school district may establish and maintain vocational schools, and N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6, which states that various approvals by the commissioner are required before any such school may be established, subject to the advice and consent of the state board.

One difficulty with respondent's position is that respondent has not demonstrated that it has received any approvals to establish a vocational school. Another difficulty is that respondent's contention concerning provision of vocational programs at a comprehensive high school is directly contrary to the determination in Bd. of Educ. of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Linden, Union County, EDU 11819-99, Initial Decision (October 18, 2002), adopted Comm'r (December 6, 2002), <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, aff'd St. Bd. of Educ. (May 7, 2003) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal/> to the effect that provision of vocational programs in a comprehensive high school does not amount to establishment of a vocational school. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the exemption in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) is not currently applicable to respondent.

Respondent next argues that it is not required to pay tuition to petitioner because respondent offers the identical type of program. As support for this argument, respondent cites N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b), which provides as follows:

> Students shall be permitted to enroll in programs of vocational instruction offered by local district boards of education other than their resident district so long as the resident local district board of education agrees to pay the tuition and transportation costs and does not offer an identical type of program, which is approved and meets or exceeds current program performance standards, with the same Classification of Instructional Programs (CIP) code, and as long as space is available for additional enrollees in the programs offered by the receiving district board of education.

The difficulty with respondent's argument is that this regulation pertains to a situation where a program of vocational instruction is offered by a local district board of education other than the resident district. A county vocational school district is not a local school district. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b) does not provide a basis for respondent's refusal to pay tuition for its pupils attending petitioner's vocational school.

In view of these determinations concerning N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(b), it is immaterial whether respondent had CIP codes for the programs in question. It follows that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact in this matter.

The applicable regulation is N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a), which provides as follows:

> All students shall be guaranteed the right to apply to and, if accepted, to attend a county vocational school. The sending district shall be responsible for the tuition and transportation costs for students admitted to a county vocational school.

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a), respondent is obligated to pay to petitioner tuition and transportation and other costs for each of respondent's pupils attending petitioner's vocational schools. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's motion for summary decision is meritorious and should be granted.

Petitioner seeks six forms of relief. First, petitioner requests a determination that respondent's withholding of tuition, transportation and other costs is contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1. That determination has been made herein, and it follows that the requested relief should be granted.

The second form of relief is an order compelling respondent to rescind the March and December 2003 resolutions authorizing the withholding of tuition, transportation and related cost payments owed to petitioner for the FLOW District students who attend petitioner's Academy educational programs. The March and December 2003 resolutions are unlawful. Additionally, they may still give students and their parents the impression that respondent will not pay tuition and other costs for attendance at petitioner's Academy programs. This circumstance is unacceptable, and therefore, this form of relief requested by petitioner should be granted.

The third form of relief is an order compelling respondent to advise each and every FLOW District student in writing of its violation of State law and its rescission of the March and December 2003 resolutions as required by the Commissioner of Education. Absent this relief, students and their parents may well be unaware of the determinations herein and the rescission of the March and December 2003 resolutions and make their decisions related to petitioner's Academies on the belief that they will be responsible for tuition. This circumstance should be corrected, and therefore, this form of relief should be granted.

The fourth form of relief is an order compelling respondent to immediately tender payment of any and all tuition and transportation and other costs wrongfully withheld by respondent. In accordance with the determinations herein, respondent is obligated to pay these amounts to petitioner. It follows that this form of relief should be granted.

The fifth form of relief is an award of lawful interest on the monies wrongfully withheld by respondent. In order to prevail on a request for an award of interest, a petitioner must request such relief and successfully establish a claim to a money award. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(a). Further, any petitioner seeking an award of prejudgment interest must propose an interest calculation in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(a)1. For prejudgment interest to be awarded, the denial of the monetary claim must be an action taken in bad faith and/or has been determined to have been taken in deliberate violation of a statute or rule. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)1. Here, petitioner has not submitted a proposed interest calculation, and there is no indication that respondent's actions were taken in bad faith or in deliberate violation of a statute or rule. It follows that petitioner's request for prejudgment interest must be denied. Petitioner may apply for postjudgment interest in accordance with the standard set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.17(c)2, if respondent fails to satisfy the claim within sixty days of the final decision in this matter.

Lastly, petitioner seeks an award of counsel fees. The difficulty with this request is that the Commissioner does not have the authority to award attorney's fees. Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ., 117 N.J. 434, 442-43 (1990). Therefore, this form of relief must be denied.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing is denied.

2. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted.

3. Respondent's withholding of tuition, transportation and other costs is contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:19-3.1(a).

4. Respondent shall rescind the March and December 2003 resolutions authorizing the withholding of tuition, transportation and related cost payments for the FLOW District students who attend petitioner's Academy educational programs.

5. Respondent shall advise each and every student in writing that the March and December 2003 resolutions were determined by the Commissioner of Education to be violative of State law and of the rescission of the March and December 2003 resolutions.

6. Respondent shall immediately tender payment of any and all tuition, transportation and other costs wrongfully withheld by respondent as determined herein.

7. Petitioner's request for prejudgment interest is denied

8. Petitioner's request for counsel fees is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge. In so doing, the Commissioner agrees that, prior to the recent adoption of the technical amendment of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(2), the rule lacked clarity. The amended regulation, however, clearly obligates private schools for the disabled to notify sending districts during the year of anticipated increases in final tuition rates in excess of 10 percent above the tentative tuition rates charged, a clarification that should prevent the circumstances herein from arising in the future.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a private school from the denial of an increase in its final tuition rate of more than 10% over its tentative rate for the 2001-2002 school year. Petitioner Youth Consultation Service, Inc. ("YCS") operates the Fort Lee Education Center ("Fort Lee Center"), an approved private school for children with disabilities. Pursuant to statute, the New Jersey Department of Education ("Department") has the responsibility of regulating tuition rates that a private school for the disabled can charge a sending school district.[1] Regulations promulgated by the Department provide that the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") shall approve a tentative tuition rate for the upcoming school year no later than January 1 of the preceding school year.[2] After the close of the pertinent school year, the Commissioner approves the final tuition rate for that year, which must be "equal to or less than the certified actual cost per student."[3]

Recently adopted regulations, effective May 1, 2001, require that, if a private school proposes to charge a final tuition rate in excess of 10 percent of the tentative rate, then it must notify each sending district and the appropriate Department official, "within 45 days after the private school becomes aware of such increase." N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(2). [4] The dispute between the parties involves what event triggers the running of this 45-day notification period.

The Department takes the position that the notice requirement must be read in harmony with N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.4(a)(11), which obligates a private school to prepare quarterly financial reports, in a format prescribed the Commissioner, at least every quarter of the school year. While the regulation is silent as to the date of submission, an instruction sheet accompanying the form prescribed by the Department specifies that the quarterly ending dates are September 30, December 31, March 31 and June 30 and "the report should be completed no later than 30 days" after the quarterly ending date. Reading the two regulatory sections together, the Department contends that petitioner "knew or should have known" of the increased costs no later than July 30, 2002, which is thirty days after the close of the fourth quarter, and, therefore, that the 45-day notification period runs from that date. Alternatively, the Department alleges that YCS's internal accounting staff had sufficient knowledge of the increase by mid-August 2002 and that the 45-day notice period runs, at the very latest, from that time.

Relying on the literal terms of the regulation, YCS maintains that the 45-day notification period runs from October 31, 2002, when management received the final audit report from its certified independent auditor and first learned of the cost overruns. YCS challenges the Department's interpretation as contrary to the language of the regulations and as arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Moreover, YCS asserts that the Department's attempt to start the notification period running from the time when management "should have known" of the increase, as opposed to when it actually knew of the increase, constitutes illegal rulemaking without following the proper procedures.

The parties stipulate that YCS served the required notice on December 4, 2002. If the Department's interpretation is correct, YCS should have served the notice by September 15, 2002 (45 days from July 30, 2002) or September 29, 2002 (45 days from August 15, 2002) and its notice was out-of-time. If YCS is correct, the deadline for service of the notice did not expire until December 15, 2002 (45 days from October 31, 2002) and its notice was timely.

Procedural History

On December 10, 2002, the Department notified YCS that its final tuition rate could not exceed 10 percent of the tentative tuition rate for the 2001-2002 school year. YCS quantifies its loss as $164,600. Nearly three months later, on March 3, 2003, YCS filed an appeal to Assistant Commissioner Richard Rosenberg, contending that the "YCS management only became aware of the excess over the 10% threshold by our certified independent audit." By letter dated March 31, 2003, Assistant Commissioner Rosenberg reaffirmed the Department's denial of any increase above 10 percent, noting that "a school's accounting records must be maintained on a current basis to provide management with the most up-to-date financial information possible, particularly in the 3rd and 4th quarters" and that inadequate record-keeping does not excuse failure to comply with the 45-day notice requirement.

Shortly thereafter, on or about June 27, 2003, YCS filed an appeal to the Commissioner, naming Assistant Commissioner Rosenberg in his official capacity as respondent. Respondent filed an answer on July 31, 2003. Subsequently, on September 3, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

Since all of the material facts are undisputed, the parties agreed to submit the matter for disposition on cross-motions for summary decision. Both parties filed notices of motion for summary decision, together with briefs and supporting papers, on July 1, 2004. They filed reply briefs on or before July 15, 2004. The OAL held oral argument on July 19, 2004. Exhibits considered in deciding this case are listed in the appendix.

Findings of Fact

From the pleadings and the affidavits and exhibits attached to the moving papers, I FIND the following facts:

Youth Consultation Services, Inc. is a not-for-profit social service organization that provides educational and therapeutic programs at multiple site locations. Fort Lee Educational Center is an approved private school for the disabled operated by YCS in New Jersey. Fort Lee Center's tentative tuition rate for the 2001-2002 school year, expressed as the daily cost per student, was set at $153.23. YCS prepared timely financial reports for the second and third quarters of the 2001-2002 school year, which included a year-to-date tuition rate. Its financial report for the second quarter ending December 31, 2001 shows a tuition rate of $150.85 or a decrease of l.5% from the tentative tuition rate. Its financial report for the third quarter ending March 31, 2002 shows a tuition rate of $164.54 or an increase of 7.38% above the tentative tuition rate. Because these numbers are under the 10% threshold, YCS was not required to notify the school districts and the Department of an excess tuition charge.

Due to a variety of factors, YCS did not prepare its fourth quarter report by the filing date of July 30, 2002. Philip DeFalco, YCS's senior vice president, cites a number of reasons for this delay, including adjustments for increased employee benefits and health costs that were unknown until after the close of the fiscal year, a modification in the agency' accounting system and the leaving of YCS's chief financial officer. DeFalco notes that, if the fourth quarter report had been prepared using information available at the time, the increase would only be 7.8% over the tentative rate. Therefore, it would have been unnecessary to comply with the notice requirement.

There is some disagreement as to when YCS's management should have learned of the existence of excess costs bringing its expenses above the 10% threshold. YCS's own documents reveal that the adjustments were not the result of the year-end outside audit, but rather were generated by YCS's internal accounting staff sometime in mid-August 2002.[5] Accordingly, the Department contends that YCS was in possession of sufficient information in August 2002 to realize that Fort Lee Center's costs exceeded the 10% limit.

YCS's board of directors did not hold meetings over the summer. Consequently, Vice President DeFalco avers in a sworn affidavit that YCS management first had knowledge of the excess costs when he received the completed certified independent audit "on or about October 31, 2002." Nick Magone, the certified public accountant personally involved in performing the outside audit, corroborates that on October 31, 2002 he "signed the completed Certified Independent Audit and first conveyed the certified cost per student figure to Mr. DeFalco based on the final audit." Further, Magone confirms that "[t]he audit reflected adjustments which were made from information received subsequent to the end of the final quarter." Thus, YCS maintains that the 45-day notification period began on October 31, 2002.

[5] Rosenberg's letter of March 31, 2003 recites that "one adjustment was posted on August 6, 2002 and the others after August 8, 2002." YCS's fourth quarter report shows one adjustment was posted on August 6, 2002 and the others after August 15, 2002.

Not having received any notification of a rate increase, a Department representative telephoned DeFalco on December 4, 2002 to advise that the proposed increase above 10% of the tentative tuition rate was disapproved. Immediately upon receipt of this call, DeFalco served notice of the higher tuition rate on all sending school districts and the Department via facsimile and certified mail.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that YCS served notice of the tuition increase within 45 days of the date that management became "aware" that its costs were in excess of the 10% threshold.

N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(2), as written in 2002, provided that:

> If the private school for the disabled proposes to charge a final tuition rate in excess of 10 percent of the tentative tuition rate charged, the private school shall notify each sending district board of education and the Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance that such an increase will be charged and the reason for the increase within 45 days after the private school becomes aware of such increase.[6] (Emphasis added).

Insight into the reasons for adoption of this amendment can be gleaned from the Department's response to public comments concerning the new requirement:

> This section refers to increases in costs above the estimated tuition rate that are incurred during the year due to an increase in unanticipated instructional and other allowable costs. Currently, private schools are not required to notify the Department or the sending districts during the year of any anticipated increases in tuition which will result in back-billing the sending districts for the > differences at year-end. The notification of increases over 10 percent during the year should encourage better budgeting and tracking of expenditures at the private schools and provide public schools more timely notice of anticipated tuition adjustments.

[6] In order to clarify its regulatory intent, the Department recently adopted a "technical" amendment, which took effect on August 4, 2004. As currently worded, N.J.A.C. 23:2.4(a)(2) provides the notice must be given "on or before the following dates: December 15, for the first quarter, March 15th for the second quarter, June 15th for the third quarter and September 15th for the fourth quarter, or the next business day when applicable." 36 N.J.R. 1313(a) (March 13, 2004); 36 N.J.R. 3895(a) (Aug. 16, 2004).

> 33 N.J.R. at 1417.

YCS urges that notification is not due until the final audit is complete and the final rates are struck, but that interpretation would render the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(2) meaningless. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.9 already requires that each private school must submit its final audited statements to the Commissioner by November 1 of each year. If the Department had intended the same timeframe for notification of anticipated increases in tuition, all that would be necessary is to require private schools to notify local school districts no later than 45 days from November 1 of each year. Instead, the Department added new language requiring notification whenever the private school "proposes" to increase rates by more than 10% of the tentative rates. Use of the word "proposes" connotes that the regulation requires notice of any anticipated or proposed increases, not merely the actual rates.

Of course, a rule must be clear enough to enable the regulated community to understand what standard it will be required to meet. Words will be given their ordinary and well-understood meaning, unless a contrary meaning is expressly indicated. In re Schedule of Rates for Barnert Mem. Hosp., 92 N.J. 31, 40 (1983); Stevenson v. Keene Corp., 254 N.J. Super. 310, 317-18 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd 131 N.J. 393 (1993). By its terms, the notice requirement of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.2(a)(2) is triggered whenever a private school becomes "aware" of the excess costs rather than by any specific date. The dictionary definition of "aware" is "having or showing realization, perception or knowing." Webster's Collegiate Dictionary, 120 (9th ed. 1998).

While the Department seeks to link the notice requirement to the schedule for filing quarterly reports, nothing in the regulation itself would alert a private school to such undeclared purpose. If the Department had wanted to tie the notice requirement to receipt of the quarterly reports, it should have said so. Without such cross-reference, YCS had no way of knowing what it was expected. It would be fundamentally unfair to deny the cost of providing educational services because YCS failed to divine the Department's unexpressed intent.

Confusion is further compounded by the fact that the deadlines for filing the quarterly reports are directory in nature, and the regulations do not impose any negative sanction for failure to meet them. Compare the precatory language in the instruction sheet for filing quarterly reports (the report "should be completed" within thirty days of the close of the quarter) with the definite consequence set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:23-4.2(a)(2)(i) (if proper notice is not served, "the private school shall charge only the 10 percent increase.").

Uncontested proofs establish that the management of YCS became aware of the extra costs only after receipt of the final audit on October 31, 2004. YCS notified the sending districts and the Department within 45 days of first learning of the revised figures. Although lower-level clerical staff may have posted these costs sometime earlier, upper management did not learn of the additional costs until that date. The Department does not suggest that clerical staff purposely withheld any information from management or that management deliberately sought to remain ignorant so as not to trigger the 45-day notice period. Insofar as the record discloses, the newly discovered costs were the result of innocent error. Even if YCS had prepared its 4th quarter financial report on time, the outcome would have been no different. Information that was available to the school on July 1, 2002 did not show that the projected tuition increase was likely to exceed the 10% threshold.

In light of this analysis, one may quickly dispose of YCS's other contentions that the regulation is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable or that the Department failed to follow the statutory procedures for rulemaking. Suffice it to note that regulations are presumed valid and that a challenger bears a heavy burden of proving otherwise. Smith v. Ricci, 89 N.J. 514 (1982), appeal dismissed 459 U.S. 962 (1982).. Certainly the state has a legitimate interest in assuring that sending public school districts have advance notice of anticipated increases in tuition rates of private schools for the disabled and have sufficient time to collect funds for payment. Any administrative difficulties caused by fluctuating expenses do not detract from that overriding concern.

Lastly, this is not a situation where a state agency sought to implement a new policy of general applicability without adopting a rule. See Metromedia, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313 (1984). Rather, the Department went through the correct procedures in adopting a rule, which unfortunately did not achieve its desired purpose.

Hopefully, this case presents a problem that will not be repeated in the future. Now that the Department has amended its rule to incorporate specific dates for giving notice of increased tuition rates, private schools for the disabled will no longer be able to plead ignorance of the standard to which they will be held.

Order

It is ORDERED that summary decision is granted in favor of YCS approving its request for an increase of 17.23% for the final tuition rate of Fort Lee Education Center for the 2001-2002 school year.

And it is further ORDERED that the Department's motion of summary decision is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ:

Procedural History

On or about August 17, 2004, petitioners J.M. on behalf of J.M. filed a petition of appeal with a motion for emergent relief due to J.M.'s denial of admission to McNair Academic High School contending 1) child required accommodation in taking essay portion of entrance exam consistent with classification; 2) child was improperly penalized because counselor did not explain excused absences; and 3) admission determinations are based on impermissible "quota" system.

The case was assigned to the undersigned on August 18, 2004. A pre-hearing conference was held on August 20, 2004, when the issues were isolated. It was agreed by the parties that a hearing be held on August 26, 2004 for purposes of presenting oral arguments and testimony on respondent's motion to dismiss the petition. The parties requested that the motion to dismiss be heard and ruled on an expedited basis because of the opening of school on September 9, 2004, keeping that in mind an oral decision on record was rendered on August 30, 2004.

Issue

At issue is whether petitioner is barred from pursuing this appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), and whether the ninety day limitation period in this case be tolled.

Facts

It is clear from a review of the certification of R.M., the testimony of the witnesses, and the exhibits that the following facts are essentially undisputed:

1. J.M. was attending the Hudson School in Hoboken, New Jersey.
2. J.M. applied for admission to the McNair Academic High School in Jersey City. He applied and took the entrance exams in October 2003.
3. Amongst other things the entrance exam included a written essay.
4. The entrance exams were graded sometime between December 2003 and mid January 2004.
5. On or about January 23, 2004 the petitioner learned that J.M. was not accepted at the McNair School.

A factual dispute arises between the parties as to when the essay written by the applicant child was graded. According to the petitioners they were allegedly told that the written essay would only be read and graded if the child makes the initial cut. Petitioners contend that because J.M. has a fine motor deficit his handwriting is eligible making it difficult for the examiners to read his essay thus giving him a low score, which impacted on his overall scores. The petitioner further contends that she was told on June 2, 2004 that her son's essay was read sometime during the examination scoring process which occurred sometime between December 2003 and January 23, 2004 therefore, the statute of limitations began to run ninety days from June 2, 2004 making this claim timely.

The respondents contend that the petitioner's claim should be dismissed because it was not filed within the ninety days of the objectionable action of the school district that date being on or about January 23, 2004.

R.M.

R.M. is the mother of J.M. She testified she was told that the entrance exam included an essay when her son returned home following the examinations one Saturday in October of 2003. She said she never received a brochure telling her the examination process included an essay. She said she went to the McNair School the Monday, after the Saturday of the exam, and met with Mr. Roggenstein, the principal of McNair School. R.M. testified she told Mr. Roggenstein that J.M.'s essay would probably be illegible and had she known in advance that an essay was included she would have requested an accommodation for him and he would have typed his essay. According to R.M. this initial conversation took place sometime in October of 2003. R.M. said Mr. Roggenstein told her the essay would be read only if he made the first cut.

R.M. said she met Mr. Roggenstein for the second time on December 3, 2003 when she and her husband, J.M. (father) went to the school to see how the grading process was going. They wanted to discuss the process because J.M. (child) had not received an optimum recommendation from his principal at the Hudson school and the issue of unexplained absences reported by the Hudson school.

R.M. testified that had she known that her son's handwritten essay was going to be read in December she would have filed a claim back in December of 2003. R.M. said the first time she heard about the essay being read and considered was on June 2, 2004 at a meeting with the principals of the McNair School.

Paul Barna

Mr. Barna testified on behalf of the petitioner. He testified that he has a child that is about to enter McNair in September. He said his daughter took the entrance examination the same time as J.M.(son). He said that he went to McNair to pick up the application packet. He said a security person sitting at a desk handed him the packet. Mr. Barna was shown exhibit marked R-A, which is a brochure of McNair High School outlining the admission requirement; he did not recognize it. Mr. Barna testified that he never knew that part of the entrance examination process included writing an essay. The application does not say anything about an essay. Mr. Barna said he was given the application with no envelope and nothing else.

Robert Roggenstein

Robert Roggenstein has been the principal of McNair School for the past 14 years. He testified all application packets include a brochure with a description of all of the entrance requirements. The witness pointed to exhibit R-A. Mr.

Roggenstein testified that the first meeting he had with the petitioner and his wife was on December 3, 2003. He said he remembered the date because the petitioner's signature appeared on the sign-in book at the security desk at the McNair School. Mr. Roggenstein testified that at the December 3, 2003 meeting there was a discussion of the legibility of J.M.'s handwriting on the essay portion of the entrance exams. However, he said that at that meeting he would not have been able to say much about the essay or the rest of the examinations because the exams had not yet been scored and the entire application process had not been completed. He further stated that he did not tell the petitioners that the essays were not read.

Mr. Roggenstein said that if the exam readers had a problem reading the handwritten essay the examiners would not have scored it and reported the matter as a legibility issue and other measures would have been taken to properly grade the essay. The principal testified that the legibility issue was discussed on December 3, 2003.

Dr. Roxanne Johnson

Dr. Johnson testified on behalf of the respondent school district. Dr. Johnson is the director of the district's Special Education Department. Dr. Johnson said she spoke with R.M. for the first time on January 27, 2004, she returned R.M.'s call. She stated R.M. inquired about McNair High School's special education program. R.M. talked about McNair having discriminated against students with a disability. Dr. Johnson said that she began looking into this allegation with respect to R.M.'s child, as she was not familiar with R.M. and her child. She said that in investigating the matter she spoke with either Mr. Roggenstein or Mr. Slattery, the assistant principal of McNair. Dr. Johnson testified that the issue of J.M.'s legible handwriting was discussed in a conversation on January 27, 2004, however, she could not recall if it was discussed with either R.M. or Mr. Slattery or both. She said that she recalls someone telling her about J.M. injuring his hand just prior to taking the entrance exam or something to that effect.

Arguments of Counsel

Petitioners contend that respondent's motion to dismiss on the basis that their petition is barred by the ninety-day limitations period as outlined in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d) should be denied because the ninety-day limitation period was tolled. According to the petitioners the ninety-day limitation period began running on June 2, 2004 when they first discovered that J.M.'s essay was read sometime during the exam scoring process.

Respondents contend that the petition is barred by the ninety-day limitations period since the period began to run from on or about January 23, 2004, when petitioners received notice from the district that J.M. was not accepted to the McNair School; therefore, this petition should have been filed no later than on or about April 23, 2004.

Legal Discussion

The threshold issue here deals with whether the petitioner's claim was timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d), which governs the filing of an action arising under the school laws. It states in part that:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The New Jersey Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993), held that the Commissioner and the State Board of Education have the authority to establish a time limitation for the resolution of disputes arising under the school laws and addressed the public policy reasons behind the ninety-day rule:

> The limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential Element in the proper and efficient administration of school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration...The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days... N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 (c) represents a fair and reasonably necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws.

The ninety-day requirement has been strictly followed and applied almost without exception. Specifically, in Dreher v. Jersey City Board of Education, EDU 2777-87, (December 18, 1987), adopted, Commissioner (February 2, 1988), aff'd, State Bd. (July 8, 1988), a petition filed just two days after the ninety day period expired was dismissed. In this particular case I FIND that the petitioner did not know prior to the child taking the entrance exams that an essay was part of the entrance examination requirements. However, I FIND that the petitioners knew about the handwritten essay when R.M. overheard J.M. (child) and friends discussing the essay portion of the entrance exams the afternoon of the exam morning. I FIND and the petitioner testified that she went to the school the Monday following the Saturday of the exam and discussed with school personnel the problem her child may have had with legible handwriting. I FIND that on December 3, 2003, in a meeting with Mr. Roggernstein and others from McNair the issue of the handwritten essay was discussed. I FIND that after January 23, 2004 the petitioner had conversations with school district personnel over the entrance requirements and among the concerns discussed was whether or not the handwritten essay legible.

I FIND that the petitioner had retained counsel and said counsel had communications with the school district regarding the child's denial of admission into McNair on the basis of the test results and the other entrance requirements. See exhibit P-A.

I FIND that Dr. Johnson and the petitioner and/or Mr. Slatterly had a telephone conversation on January 27, 2004 about the child's handwriting on the essay possibly being illegible due to an injury. In CONCLUSION I FIND that the petitioner at the very least suspected that the handwritten essay may be a problem as early as October of 2003 and that she herself brought that possibility to the attention of district personnel prior to April 23, 2004.

The petitioner also wants this court to determine that because they made attempts between late January 2004 through late July 2004, to have the district reverse its decision denying J.M. admission to McNair tolled the running of the ninety day limitations period, the applicable case law clearly establishes that such attempts to resolve a dispute by means other than filing a petition of appeal do not toll the limitations period. Again, as clearly stated in Kaprow, supra, attempts to resolve a claim do not toll the running of time limits for filing a petition of appeal.

The ninety-day rule may only be relaxed under exceptional circumstances or if there is a "compelling" reason to do so. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 590. Certain cases are excepted from this rule. Such cases are: 1) when the issue involves an important and novel constitutional question; 2) informal or ex parte determinations of legal questions by administrative officials; and 3) important public rather than private interests which require adjudication or clarification. None of these are applicable in the instant case.

Furthermore, there is no evidence nor was testimony provided to support the fact that the petitioner was led to believe that if they continued to informally seek relief they did not have to be concerned about the time limitation for filing their petition.

Finally, I am compelled to point out that in essence the claim asserted by the petitioner is that J.M. should be admitted to the McNair School. J.M. was not admitted into McNair not just because of an alleged eligible handwritten essay but due to the total score he received on all of the entrance tests and requirements. He did not receive optimum recommendation(s) from certain individual(s) from his prior school. This is not a situation in which the "equities" call for relaxation of the rule.

Conclusion and Order

Based upon all of the above, I GRANT respondent's motion to dismiss and petitioner's appeal is hereby ORDERED, DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: August 27, 2004 Decided: September 7, 2004

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ t/a:

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law on June 4, 2004, by the Commissioner of Education in his decision of May 14, 2004. In the remand, the Commissioner indicated that since the Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release, attached to the Initial Decision Settlement, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6589-03, decided March 30, 2004, was not signed by the Board attorney and there was no Board Resolution designating Cassandra Brown, Superintendent, to sign the agreement, the settlement agreement could not be approved. Additionally, Item Number iii (Exhibit A, Reference Letter) referred to in the agreement was also not attached to that agreement.

The parties have modified the settlement agreement, and an executed Settlement Agreement and Mutual Release, together with the Board Resolultion and Exhibit A, are attached and the terms fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions,[1] which were fully considered by the Commissioner in his determination in this matter.

Upon his full and independent review,[2] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons comprehensively detailed in his decision, that the within petition is properly dismissed since petitioner has failed to meet the limited standard entitling non-tenured, non-renewed teaching staff members to relief, as established by the Appellate Division in Dore and Kopera, supra.

[1] Petitioner George Watson, Jr. and petitioner Yara Martin, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6349-04, Agency Dkt. No. 173-5/03(b), filed joint exceptions to the Initial Decision. It is noted that there is no indication that such exceptions were copied to Board counsel or the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

[2] The record of this matter includes transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL on June 11, 14, 18 and 30, and July 2 and 8, 2004.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 173-5/03

GEORGE WATSON, JR.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY,
Respondent.

George Watson, Jr., petitioner, pro se

Lester E. Taylor, Esq., for respondent Board of Education (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)[i]

Record Closed: July 8, 2004 Decided: September 13, 2004[ii]

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

George Watson, Jr., was employed by the respondent school board ("Board"), serving as a librarian, first at the Bangs Avenue School ("Bangs") during the 2000-2001and 2001-2002 school years and then at Thurgood Marshall School ("Thurgood Marshall") for the 2002-2003 school year. He also worked in a teaching position in the adult evening school in Asbury Park. On May 23, 2003, Watson, together with another teacher, Yara Martin, filed a joint Petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), in which they each alleged that the Board improperly denied them tenure as teachers in the district. They asserted that in fact they had

---

[i] By order dated July 1, 2004, Lester E. Taylor, Esq., represented the respondent Board "through the completion of the actual hearing and the presentation of any legal briefs in connection with the preparation of this initial decision." A Substitution of Attorney was submitted on July 29, 2004, for Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys) as superceding counsel for the respondent.

[ii] The record was reopened to allow the Board time to submit a certification identifying missing information from exhibit R-1, and to supply copies of exhibits R-10 and R-11, which were missing from the judge's file. See footnote vii.

"accepted the employment" of the Board based upon N.J.S.A. 18A:27-12. [iii] The Petition made many allegations and assertions of supposed wrongdoing by the Board, its employees and representatives of the union that served as the bargaining agent for the teachers. The respondent Board filed an answer to the Petition, which it characterized as a Petition of Appeal, on June 23, 2003. An answer was also filed by counsel representing Catherine Ahl and Winston Leveille, who were subsequently dismissed as respondents upon the entry of an interlocutory order dated June 8, 2004.

While the joint petition asserts Watson and Martin claim that they accepted employment for a fourth year with the Board and therefore acquired tenure, the Board takes a very different position as to their status. It contends that it gave each timely notice that their contract of employment would not be renewed for the upcoming 2003-2004 school year and that, as non-tenured employees, the petitioners had no legal expectation of renewed employment and certainly did not attain tenure status. Relying upon the "nearly unlimited" discretion afforded to school boards to determine whether to reemploy non-tenured employees from year to year, the Board seeks dismissal of the petitioners' appeals. Dore v. Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County, 185 N.J. Super. 447 (1982).

The Petition filed by the pro se petitioners contained sixteen pages of wide ranging allegations, some directly related to the issue of tenure rights and employment status, and others touching on these issues, but alleging civil rights, Open Public Meetings, harassment and labor union representation issues. During a prehearing conference conducted by Administrative Law Judge Caridad F. Rigo on October 8, 2003, many of the counts of the Petition were withdrawn by the petitioners, with each reserving the right to pursue charges in other appropriate forums. The judge issued a prehearing order dated October 16, 2003, noting therein the numbers of the various withdrawn counts and by whom each was withdrawn.[iv]

[iii] Both Martin and Watson filed a "Notice of Acceptance of Teaching Contract with the Asbury Park Board of Education School Year 2003-2004." These were each dated May 19, 2003. In his Notice, Watson accepted "the employment contract for the school year 2003-2004 as a teacher and for the following positions: 1. Teacher of Adult School 2003-2004, 2. Summer School Teacher 2003-2004 and 3. Teacher-Librarian 2003-2004." He added, "It must be noted that this would be my third year in Summer School Asbury Park District, my fourth year as a Teacher-Librarian, my third year as a evening school ESL Teacher at Asbury Park High School Evening School and my tenure year with Asbury Park School District. However I never had a written Teachers Contract for the employment of Summer School or Adult School as required by law as :19A:27-5 et al."

[iv] The Order noted that if the petitioners sought to file a claim in the United States District Court for these withdrawn counts and the District Court refused to accept the "counts/petition," the petitioners could then file an appropriate motion seeking to reinstate the designated withdrawn counts. The judge established a deadline for the filing of any such motion, keyed to the deadline she established by which date either or both petitioners could file such claims with the District Court. "If the petitioners have not filed their petition with the U.S. District Court by November 12, 2004, they are foreclosed from seeking reinstatement before the OAL."

Following the withdrawal of counts of the petition, Judge Rigo then listed the issues remaining to be determined in the administrative hearing. These were: (1) Were the non-renewal of the petitioners' teaching contracts in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and 18A:27-4; (2) Was procedural due process rendered to the petitioners with respect to notice of the April 28, 2003 board meeting; (3) Were there violations of the Open Public meetings Act on April 28, 2003, April 29, 2003, July 17, 2003 and August 21, 2003, by the respondents not providing the required notices for these meetings; hence, these meetings were conducted in violation of the act.

In their joint Petition Watson and Martin state a series of, in some instances, separate, and in some instances, joint or mutual, allegations of fact and assertions of wrongdoing. For reasons that are not revealed by the record, the Department of Education did not sever the individual petitioners' cases prior to transmitting the contested case(s) to the OAL under one docket number and the judge originally assigned to the case did not sever the matters either. By the time this judge received the case there had been a good deal of activity involving discovery, motions and disputes, and at the late date that this judge first entered into the matter he deemed it best not to try to sever the claims and proceed with two entirely separate hearings. Thus, with each petitioner fully advised that their cases constituted individual appeals of the action of the Board denying non-renewal as to each separately, and also to the extent that each claimed that he or she had accepted employment for the coming school year of 2003-2004 pursuant to statute and therefore had a right to the teaching position, the case proceeded as one hearing, with each petitioner presenting his or her witnesses and arguments and conducting his or her examination and cross-examination individually. While it is recognized that Mr. Watson and Ms. Martin have each raised concerns that mutually trouble them about the conduct of the Board and its employees, as was carefully explained to each, their employment status vis a vis the Board must be determined independent of the other, judged in accordance with the applicable law. Further, at the close of the hearing I advised the parties that in order to treat each matter separately and to allow for a more efficient presentation of the decision, as well as to prepare written initial decisions that could be more appropriately reviewed throughout the administrative, and perhaps, judicial process, that I intended to sever the matters for purposes of the written decisions. A separate order severing the cases has been issued.

In addition to the dispute relating to Mr. Watson's status as a full-time teacher in the district's system, during the hearing he asserted that he was denied rights with respect to his employment in the adult school. He contends that the Board improperly denied him employment therein as well, and interfered with his attaining tenure in that employment. The Board disputes the idea that tenure is applicable to employment in the adult school, arguing that its employees are hired on a yearly basis subject to advertising of positions that is based upon the needs of the program, dictated largely by the varying size of the program.

The prehearing and trial portions of this case must, in fairness, be characterized as contentious. Over the course of the case petitioners sought discovery and in some instances made motions to enforce discovery. It must in fairness be stated that at times the board was lax in its responses. One of the ongoing controversies was in regard to the petitioners' demand for the production of the tapes of Board meetings held on numerous dates in 2003. Ultimately, after attempting to determine what the alleged problem was that prompted the petitioners to seek discovery of the tapes for the meetings held on July 17 and August 21, 2003, dates that were significantly subsequent to the Board's notice to the petitioners of April 29, 2003, regarding the non-renewal decision and the Board's May 15 meeting, at which the non-renewal decision was adopted, or for the much broader number of tapes sought of meetings through most of 2003, and considering also the board's contention that the transcription of these tapes would be extremely burdensome given the time and effort necessary to exclude privileged materials such as personnel issues involving other employees, I concluded that this discovery demand was unwarranted. Additionally, to the extent that the prehearing identified as an issue the question of whether the board had violated the Open Public Meetings Act, attempts to identify exactly how any such alleged violations might impact upon the rights of the petitioners vis a vis their contention that the Board had denied them tenure, or that the decisions not to renew their contracts were arbitrary, were unsuccessful. To that extent, I concluded that the Open Public Meetings issues were not relevant to this proceeding.

Prior to the hearing, I advised the parties that, although the burden of proof which rested upon the petitioner was to demonstrate that the Board's decision of non-renewal was arbitrary and unreasonable, I would nevertheless require that the Board first present at least a modicum of evidence to explain to me the basis for its decision, so that I could then more intelligently assess the petitioner's proofs as he attempted to meet his burden. This reversal of the general course of testimony, in which the party bearing the ultimate burden of proof first presents evidence seeking to meet that burden and the party seeking to support its action against the petition then responds, was required so that the petitioner's proofs could be understood against something other than a vacuum. Of course, the burden of proof never left Mr. Watson throughout the case. After the Board presented some limited evidence and its witnesses were cross-examined by Watson, he proceeded to present his individual case and then, after he concluded, the Board presented additional evidence to seek to meet the evidence and charges offered by the petitioner.

The Board's initial presentation

The Board offered evidence that by letter dated April 29, 2003, Dr. Antonio N. Lewis, Superintendent of the Asbury Park School District, notified Mr. Watson that "I will not be recommending the renewal of your employment for the upcoming year. Accordingly, your employment with the Asbury Park School District will terminate at the close of business on June 30, 2003." When served with this notice, the petitioner signed it, but wrote that he did so "under duress and protest." Watson then exercised the statutory right to request a statement of reasons for non-renewal. In response, the Board provided him with a written statement of "Non Renewal Rationale," listing the following

1. Unsatisfactory planning and organization
2. Weak instructional methods and techniques
3. Failure to maintain updated lesson plans, attendance records, and gradebook
4. Failure to maintain complete and updated substitute plans
5. Poor evaluation techniques for assessing student learning
6. Failure to maintain an organized learning environment
7. Failure to submit required lesson plans, gradebook and other requested documents on time

On May 23, Dr. Lewis issued a memorandum to Mr. Watson, in which he responded to Mr. Watson's May 19 memo "regarding your Acceptance of a Teaching Contract for 2003-2004." Dr. Lewis advised that, as Mr. Watson had already received a letter of "non-renewal" on April 29, his "letter of acceptance of a contract is moot." Additionally, the Superintendent noted, "Summer School and Adult School positions are advertised each year based on enrollment. Staff is not automatically renewed."

The Board presented documentary and testimonial evidence of evaluative materials that purportedly served as the basis for the several performance deficiencies that were listed for

Watson in the "Non Renewal Rationale." According to Andrea Bates, who serves as the administrative assistant to the Superintendent and who holds a Masters Degree in Administration and Supervision and is a certified school administrator, teachers are evaluated a minimum of three times per year, as well as informally at other times. Principals, vice-principals and supervisors can evaluate. Findings are then placed upon a district evaluation form, which contains a narrative, suggestions and comments. A package of such evaluation documents were presented regarding Mr. Watson. These begin with an evaluation conducted by Joseph Romano on November 22, 2000, Mr. Watson's first year in the district. The form contains a series of ratings for twelve skills and techniques (plus two "other" categories) that encompass "Instructional and Management Skills" and "Personal Characteristics." Teachers are rated as either "S" for "satisfactory, "N.I." for needs improvement, and ""U" for "Unsatisfactory." They are also rated as to "Standards," in which they may be either "meeting Asbury Park standards," "progressing toward Asbury Park standards" or "does not meet Asbury Park standards." In this particular evaluation, Watson was satisfactory in all categories but one, "Methods and Techniques," in which he received a "N.I." In a narrative comment, Mr. Romano included some suggestions in respect to this category, such as "avoid repeating" student answers and "avoid paraphrasing both what children tell you (in their answers) and what you read to the class." On March 29, 2001, Watson was observed and evaluated by Sharon Gail Harris, who rated him satisfactory in all categories. Among her comments concerning this review of his teaching of a 5th grade class were that he "was well prepared for this lesson. His lesson plan and core curriculum content standards were indicated in his lesson plan book for this period class." In each of these two evaluations, Watson was rated as "progressing toward Asbury Park standards." Ms. Harris again evaluated Mr. Watson on November 19, 2001. Again she rated him as satisfactory in all categories and meeting Asbury Park standards.

The next evaluation occurred on December 5, 2001. The evaluator was Howard Mednick. Mr. Mednick characterization of Watson's performance in connection with this "library science" class was, it is fair to say, harsh. He rated the teacher as unsatisfactory in seven categories under the general topic of instructional and management skills, including methods and techniques, evaluation of students, student time on task, student teacher rapport, classroom control and room environment. He also rated Watson as needing improvement in interest and enthusiasm and attitude/adjustment. The teacher was only satisfactory in two categories. Mednick characterized part of the lesson as "confusing and disjointed." He referred to a lack of discipline, with students talking to each other and calling out phrases, which he attributed to "a direct result of poor pedagogical techniques and ineffective questioning skills." He found that students did not know what they were doing when broken into cooperative learning groups. Mednick adds, "In our post observation, you became very agitated and said, 'I know why you were sent here, you are on a mission. I want you to release me.' " Mednick listed several areas that he advised Watson were unsatisfactory about the lesson he had just observed, including that it was "unrelated to the subject area you were teaching," and "your questioning skills were unsatisfactory" for two reasons listed on the evaluation form. Mr. Watson signed this form "under duress and protest Harrassment."

The next evaluation form relates to an evaluation conducted on January 4, 2002. The evaluator, Paul Banik, then a Vice Principal at Bangs, rated Watson as unsatisfactory in such categories as planning and organization, methods and techniques, evaluation of students, student time on task, classroom control. He was satisfactory in several other areas, but the overall "standards" rating was that he was not meeting Asbury Park standards. The evaluator wrote extensive comments on the form, detailing deficiencies that were observed. Among the comments is that "there was no record of success (high, medium, or low) observed by this writer. The teacher needs to keep a record for every student in the grade book at each session. There was no evidence of a grade book or a facsimile thereof." The writer also reports that when he asked Watson for the daily lesson plan book, he was advised "he forgot it and that he would have it available for review at the end of the period." The writer also noted, "He must address the specific areas noted above to be an acceptable teacher in the Asbury Park School District." Mr. Watson again signed this evaluation form "under duress and protest Harrassment."

The next evaluation of performance occurred on January 29, 2002. Ms. Harris was the evaluator. She rated Watson as satisfactory in seven categories and needing improvement in five. He was "progressing toward Asbury Park standards." The areas needing improvement included planning and organization, methods and techniques, knowledge of subject matter, student time on task and classroom control. The overall comments made by Harris are positive and note some distractions for the students that were not the fault of Mr. Watson. She also noted that whereas the lesson dealt with music, Watson was "an experienced librarian not an experienced music teacher."

On November 22, 2002, Janice Anderson evaluated Watson. He was teaching library science to a 5th grade class. Anderson rated his performance as satisfactory in four categories, needing improvement in two and unsatisfactory in four. These latter were planning and organization, methods and techniques, student time on task and classroom control. She noted that he did not meet Asbury Park standards. A lengthy commentary about Anderson's observations during the class and her detailed recommendations is attached to the evaluation form. Watson again signed each page, "under duress and protest."

A December 19, 2002, evaluation by Dr. Patricia Moran included ratings of needs improvement for methods and techniques, student time on task, student/teacher rapport, personal attitude and adjustment and unsatisfactory for evaluation of students. Watson was "progressing" toward district standards. The Appraisal contained several commendations for a thorough knowledge of the subject matter, the use of proper English with the students, Watson's interest in the topic and use his of manipulatives (toy trucks) to add to the story telling. The form also contained thirteen recommendations, generally addressed to methodology and style.

Finally, an evaluation performed on March 26, 2003, by Albert J. Reinoso, the principal of Thurgood Marshall, indicated unsatisfactory performance for planning and organization and evaluation of students. The decision to not recommend renewal of a contract followed after this last evaluation. Bates explained that this action was intended to address only the full-time teaching position held by Watson, as the Board did not conceive that the adult school position was a tenurable position. Persons seeking to teach in the adult school had to re-apply each year for a position.

Ms. Bates acknowledged during cross-examination by Mr. Watson that, to her knowledge, no supervisor or administrator in the district is certified as a librarian supervisor or as an educational media specialist, only as a supervisor. Nor did any of these persons hold a masters degree in library science or a masters in education media. A Mr. Springer had been employed by the district as its supervisor of technology and media for a "couple of months."

During questioning of Ms. Bates, Mr. Watson touched upon topics that were to re-occur throughout the hearing. One of these was his question to her as to whether she was aware that he had filed a complaint regarding the theft of his plan book. Bates "was not aware" of the complaint.

Mr. Watson also questioned Bates, and other witnesses, about their knowledge of the conditions in the library, the space of which was divided up to allow for a number of other activities to occur therein besides purely library activities, such as space given over for reading programs, a guidance counselor's office, storage and the like. He also asked her if she recalled that on a day when Superintendent Lewis was out of the district, she recalled that an issue had arisen because Watson wanted to bring an outside consultant into the library to evaluate it and he was told that there were district procedures that had to be followed before any such outside persons could do such an evaluation.

Dr. Antonio N. Lewis testified that the decision not to renew Ms. Watson's contract was reached after he consulted with administrators and received information such as performance evaluations.

Mr. Watson's presentation

George Watson, Jr.'s testimony explored a number of circumstances regarding his employment and the conditions under which he functioned that he believes establish that the Board and its employees acted arbitrarily towards him.[v] These actions purportedly started during his first year with the district and thereafter continued up to the time of the non-renewal notice. When he first applied for a librarian's position in the Asbury Park district he met Janice Anderson. His first application was "lost," and he had to file a second one, which was again "lost." A third application led to an interview with Ms. Anderson, a Ms. Burford and Sharon Harris. He expected to be fairly and decently treated, but he was never called after this interview. However, he did get hired as a summer school teacher during the summer of 2000. He ultimately received an appointment as a full time librarian. When he first arrived at Bangs, he determined that problems existed in its library. In addition, Ms. Anderson, who was the district's supervisor of elementary education at the time, came to the school and was not pleased that he was working there. She began to "harass[ed] him in her official capacity." He could not get the union to file grievances about this harassment. He continually asked for a curriculum for the 5th grade, but one was never produced during his three years in the district. Yet, despite not having received a curriculum for the 5th grade, when he was evaluated he received negative remarks and ratings from evaluators.

[v] Mr. Watson's testimony was very lengthy and touched upon many issues of concern to him. He had many issues as to how he had been treated or how the district operated and the testimony was at times disjointed. I have tried to relate those matters that he raised, to the extent that they appear to have any reasonable relationship to the issues in this case.

Mr. Watson noted that when he wrote up students for disrupting class, nothing ever happened to them. If they were sent to the office, they would be sent back to the classroom. Children would laugh when he disciplined them because they knew that nothing would happen to them. Watson also noted that while he was serving at Bangs there was an incident in which he became aware of the abuse of a Black child in a kindergarten class and that child's name was "exposed" by DYFS to the principal and then to the staff at a meeting, actions that Watson believed were in violation of confidentiality laws protecting the identity of children. He claimed that while Mr. Mednick had given out the name, "everyone" said that Watson had done so.

Watson claimed that during his second year at Bangs, he was required to teach music, although he was not trained in that area. He taught children how to dance and to hold a note. Again he had no curriculum until he finally received one from the music person on staff.

During his second year he filed an EEOC petition regarding the promotion of Janice Anderson, who was placed over him as his supervisor. He believes that as a result of the filing of this petition, the district retaliated and sent him to another school, Thurgood Marshall, where he was alone in the library, as opposed to Bangs where there was another librarian. This transfer occurred in August 2002, just prior to the start of his third year with the district. No one told him anything except that he was to go there and he was not told how the library functioned and what was expected of him. He had no aide, whereas he had one at Bangs. At Marshall, Anderson was his supervisor and she conducted his first evaluation.

Watson also contended that in September 2002, while he was assigned to Marshall, he advised the administration that he needed training on the Sagebrush system from the company that produced the software. The prior librarian had received this training at Board expense, although Watson contended that the documentation of this had been stolen. Despite "asking every month," he did not receive this training until May 13, 2003. He noted that he had to check books in and out for twenty-five to thirty students and could not do this as well as teach a class, all within forty minutes. Library computers were not all tied into the database. Students could not do research unless they used his computer. If thirty students wanted to use the data base there was "chaos." The other computers "only had games."

The witness explained that he had been in the habit of turning in his plan book to Dr. Patricia Moran, who served as an interim vice principal. She had a form that she utilized to show any deficiencies in the plans. These forms were placed inside of the plan book. He contended that Janice Anderson told him that she did not want him to give the book to Moran for her approval. Shortly after this occurred the plan book was stolen. This led to Watson filing a complaint with the police about the theft of the book. As Mr. Deemer, Watson's predecessor at Marshall, advised that Reinoso had a key to the lock where the plan book was kept, Watson believed that the book was stolen in order to support and "fabricate" the recommendation of "termination." At this administrative hearing, Watson claimed that the theft was linked to an attempt to prevent him from showing that he had complied with Dr. Moran's requirement that he show her the plan book. He also submitted as further evidence of alleged harassment a memo received from Reinoso on March 13, 2003, in which the principal, among other items, "reminded" Watson that

> 1. You have submitted your lesson plans once this whole marking period. Grades are supposed to be in the same planbook as your plans. We have seen NO GRADES. Please submit this documentation IMMEDIATELY, no later than 3:30 on March 13, 2003,

Watson noted that as of that date he had already contacted the police about the stolen plan book.[vi]

In testimony given during the present hearing, Mr. Reinoso acknowledged that he had "confiscated" one of Mr. Watson's plan books after the first marking period of the 2002-2003 year. He did this because he had received letters from parents who complained that grades received by their children were not justified. In fact, in that first marking period, Watson had given every student in the whole school a "B" and parents with students on the High Honor Roll complained. When he spoke to Watson about this and said that there was no reason to give [vi] It should be noted that Supervisor P. Moran had sent a memo to Watson on March 3, PW-9, in which she noted that lesson plans were to be submitted bi-weekly, and "your lesson plans have not been received for weeks. You have received many reminders in writing and verbally. In addition to the submission of lesson plan, up to date grades should also be submitted, as you know."

everyone a "B," Watson replied that then everyone should get an "A." He examined the plan book and determined that they contained no grades, a violation of the policy regarding the measurement of student progress and the use of instruments of measurement. He confiscated the book, as he has others from other teachers. He sometimes has returned these after showing them to the superintendent, and after he determined that only the plan book was missing from Watson, he advised Dr. Lewis of this fact. He thinks that he returned pages of the book to Watson. Dr. Lewis testified that Watson told him that his plan book was stolen, but Lewis knew that administrators would sometimes take the books "if something is missing."

Also, some sixty tapes were taken out of the building by Mr. Deemer, his predecessor, and as a result, Watson signed a complaint against Deemer. Dr. Lewis promised to discuss these thefts at a meeting, but did not do so and "did not care."

In April 2002, Howard Mednick prepared a Professional Improvement Plan with Watson. That plan called for Mednick to do a demonstration lesson if he had a complaint about the manner in which Watson taught. However, this never occurred. According to Watson, when Janice Anderson gave him an unsatisfactory, "she and two others argued as to whether they had to do that" which is outlined at 11.1 on the Professional Improvement Plan, and they then said that "if the attorney (apparently the Board attorney) said that they did not have to they would not." "Despite" Watson's request, no grievance was ever filed about the failure to carry out this requirement. In addition, Watson claimed that when Mednick did an evaluation of his performance, he gave Watson an unsatisfactory and yet, in the case of a white female teacher, Mednick simply tore up an evaluation that graded her unsatisfactorily. In support of this allegation, the witness produced a letter, purportedly from Janet Tartanella of Bangs Avenue School, attesting to the fact that Mednick had discarded an unsatisfactory evaluation of a lesson that she had taught and allowed her to redo the lesson on another date. Ms. Tartanella did not appear as a witness.

The witness also complained that during his year at Marshall, a book fair came to the school unannounced. Apparently, Mr. Watson's predecessor ordered this program, but despite this fact, school principal A.J. Reinoso was going to write up Watson for ordering the fair without approval. Watson also was harassed about a bank deposit procedure, with Mr. Reinoso's secretary "insinuating" that Watson might have acted in violation of banking procedures regarding deposits received from students at the book fairs.

Watson alleged that at the beginning of his last year with the District, 2002-2003, he asked Mr. Reinoso how many observations he would receive and was told that there would be six, with a follow-up to each evaluation. However, only three were conducted, by three different persons.

For two years, Mr. Watson had participated in the Neptune Library Cooperative and had been released from school by Mr. Mednick in order to attend its meetings for professional development purposes. Yet shortly after the preparation of the Professional Development Plan, the head of the Neptune Library barred Watson from attending the meetings and Mr. Reinoso questioned him about where he was on some of the days that had been approved for his attendance at the Cooperative. Watson thought all of this was "odd." He believes that it is "obvious" that he was "set up" by Asbury Park.

In early 2003, Watson filed a Notice in Lieu of Complaint in Asbury Park Municipal Court charging that Mr. Reinoso had harassed him. This matter, which was apparently mediated, came before Judge Mark T. Apostolou on April 4, 2003, at which time, according to the transcript offered as evidence by Mr. Watson, Reinoso agreed to review Watson's prior job evaluations in exchange for a dismissal of the complaint "and there will be above recommendations within one week of the date of the agreement provided Mr. Watson, in fact - - and provide Mr. Watson with a letter to that effect." Mr. Reinoso testified that as far as he could recall this "arbitration" only involved an agreement regarding training that Watson wanted to receive.

The petitioner did not know exactly what the concerns were about his planning and organization, as he did the best he could with what he had. He was placed in positions without assistance or support and was never given a teacher to assist him. He only received a job description during the middle of his last year with the district. He planned "as best he could." As for the criticisms that he had weak instructional methods and techniques, he functioned with his classes and they received and enjoyed his instruction. Not one administrator who was a supervisor or anyone from central office who decided upon the non-renewal of his contract ever observed him during the entire three years. He did not fail to maintain updated lesson plans, insisting that he did everything possible that he could, but that his plan book was stolen. At Bangs he had noticed that some adverse things happened, but his plan book was not stolen, as it was at Thurgood Marshall. He commented, "People evidently had a plan in motion." As for criticisms that he did not have plans available for a substitute teacher, he insisted that he did have a substitute folder, but he had no desk in which to lock up items at Thurgood Marshall. Substitutes were to drill students on the Dewey Decimal System or to have students work on assigned projects.

Watson asserted that the district only wanted libraries for "window dressing," and that Mr. Richard Springer, who had been hired to supervise the libraries, left the district with harsh words. As far as he could see, library skills had not previously been taught. No instruction had occurred at either school and library time was spent watching movies, which was all that was required to obtain A's. Principals used the libraries for storage. At Thurgood Marshall students "resisted totally" when he started to teach the basics of the Dewey System. Most students failed this work. Teachers then complained that this kept their students off of the honor roll. Reinoso called him in about complaints that were received from parents. One parent told him "you're the problem." Reinoso "almost encouraged this behavior." A teacher told Watson that Reinoso was asking students whether they were frightened of Watson. The principal tried to create situations to incite students.

Reinoso testified that he did ask some students whether they were traumatized by comments allegedly made by Watson about the end of the world coming and not having much time left to live as a result of the 9/11 tragedy.

As for the learning environment in Thurgood Marshall, Watson charged that when he first was provided with an aide, she quickly told him that he needed a girlfriend and that she could call him at night. He told her that she was there to work in the library. She then told Reinoso she hurt her back and did not come to work.

The petitioner summed up his response to the criticisms of his performance by arguing, "all things said were not valid." He "put his best foot forward" and "tried to comply." Referring to his treatment by the district, Watson explained that he was "railroaded." During cross-examination regarding the series of evaluations that he received from various persons, Watson characterized these as part of a "conspiracy," with supervisors acting "in collusion" under Dr. Lewis.

As further evidence of harassment, he presented PW-8, a memo from Reinoso dated March 13. In the memo, the principal thanked Watson for his "understanding of the necessity to curtail the explanation of your question by Ms. Nancy Manning at the Roots Implementation Visit Feedback." Reinoso noted the "very strict time constraints for after school Faculty Meetings and there was less than ten minutes left for the very important safety feature . . . . I'm glad you were able to get a full explanation from Ms. Manning for library alignment of the Success For All Reading program." Watson characterized this memo as an "apology" for conduct by Reinoso at the meeting that had publicly embarrassed the petitioner. In his testimony, Reinoso confirmed the basics, but did not agree that he did anything to embarrass Watson or that the memo was an "apology." Instead, it simply acknowledged Mr. Watson's cooperation at the meeting.

The witness cited other alleged acts of harassment, including a complaint that he had not locked doors during a "Code Red," which is a procedure utilized when there was an armed intruder in the building. He claimed that he was never told what to do in such an incident and that maintenance personnel advised that the door(s) could not be locked. He insisted that this write-up was done simply to "add to the paper trail." He was being written up for things he was not trained in and for "whatever went wrong." In addition, in 2003, he was also purposely assigned to duties requiring that he pick up the duties of a teacher, Ms. Perrier, if she were late in the morning, which assignment prevented him from having time to work on his rooms and organize classes, as other teachers had. He was relieved of this duty on April 1, 2003, as an accommodation to allow him to complete other duties of the job description.

Mr. Reinoso testified that it was common practice to have a certified teacher escort students to their classroom at the beginning of the day. Usually where coverage is needed, the request is made to staff that are not themselves assigned to a homeroom.

As proof of his activities regarding curriculum, Watson presented directions for reports issued by him. He asserted that this was done despite the lack of any curriculum and it had to be signed by parents. This was just one of the things that students did in his library classes.

Watson noted that in February 2003, professional librarian Connie Paul came to the library at Marshall to review it and offer suggestions, but she concluded that the school did not really have a library, as the space was shared with the SFA reading program, a vice-principal's office, room for math facilitators, storage for math and reading materials and a guidance counselor's office. Paul did not know how to recommend changes because the facility was not really a library.

Ms. Paul, Director of the Central Jersey Library Cooperative, a state funded non-profit organization, holds a Masters Degree in Library Sciences and served as a school librarian for twenty-five years. As part of her responsibilities she visits many school libraries. On April 28, 2003, she visited Thurgood Marshall at the invitation of Mr. Watson. This visit was made after she had notified Mr. Reinoso, with whom she met after her visit to the library. Paul explained that when she walked in to the library, she did not have the feeling that she was walking into a functioning library program. The library was divided into three sections, one for reading, one for books and one a bare room. There was a circulation desk, computers and a table. There was a need to make more efficient use of the space and to put things in the front of the room. The setup was not one that invited research. Despite her concerns about the deficiencies and limitations of the space, Ms. Paul nevertheless agreed that there could be a functional library program.

Responding to a question from Mr. Watson regarding his expressed concerns as to the nature of the qualifications held (or not held) by those who supervised or evaluated him, Ms. Paul stated that while it might be the ideal, in fact it was "pretty unusual" for the person who supervised the librarian to have a Masters in Library Science. Indeed, in her many years of service she never had a supervisor with such credentials, yet she was never "encumbered" by this fact in the performance of her duties as a librarian. She also could not identify any series of books for the teaching of library skills.

Called to testify by Mr. Watson, Albert Reinoso testified that when he conducted an evaluation of Mr. Watson in the library on March 27, 2003, he did not require that Mr. Watson stand. He recalled that there had been a discussion earlier in the school year about Mr. Watson's need to sit and that a chair was provided for him.

Reinoso explained that there is a procedure in place for the ordering of materials and supplies needed in the library, with a central office supervisor performing this task. All supplies and materials are ordered based upon the recommendations of instructors. He was sent a copy of a memo dated October 28, 2002, in which Scott Henry, the district's business administrator, discussed with Watson an "unauthorized purchase" of materials made by Watson that, as per the memo, resulted in the district overpaying for laminating materials. He was familiar with the process for the book fairs held at Thurgood Marshall and believed that the librarian was responsible to account for the money taken in. Reinoso does not recall that he ever wrote Watson up about having no right to bring books into the library. He did recall that there had been a delivery of books to the library that was unexpected by either he or Watson, as it had been set up by the previous librarian. When they were delivered Watson asked about them, and Reinoso thought that they had something to do with the Book Fair, but they actually were donated books. He also recalled that he had written about banking procedures because there had been some questions regarding these in connection with past book fairs, although the money for these had all been justified.

The principal explained that at Thurgood Marshall everyone teaches reading during the first one and one-half hours of school. The library was restructured "years ago" to close off into three classrooms. The dividers are closed during the reading period. After the ninety minutes are up, then the front and one side of the library is used for library skill instruction, while another section is used for the storage of SFA materials. A guidance office is adjacent to the library, as is an office for the vice-principal, and a speech therapist utilizes the library office for one-on-one teaching. The librarian has counter space and the use of one-half of the back office to store materials. Math and reading books are stored in the library.

Reinoso did not know of any library skills books, but he "has seen library skills taught," such as how to go to the different sections of the library. The witness is "aware" that there is a library curriculum, but is not aware that the curriculum for the 5th graders is any different than that in place for other grades. The unsatisfactory ratings that he gave to Mr. Watson were not related to issues regarding curriculum or whether curriculum guides were purchased for the library. If a teacher were brand new to the district, then "you might need" a guide, but after two years in the district at another elementary school it would be expected that a librarian would not need such a guide, and it would not be needed for the evaluation of students.

Richard Springer was called to testify by Mr. Watson regarding his observations of the library conditions in which Watson functioned. Springer began his educational career in 1967 with the Neptune schools and worked in that district until 1989. He then worked for the Morris-Union Jointure Commission until 1992 and then the Greater Egg Harbor district until 2000 when he went to work in Asbury Park for a short time in September and October before retiring. Mr. Springer started as a science teacher and later became a media coordinator and then an assistant superintendent for technology. He later supervised twenty-two districts for the Jointure Commission and in this and his later positions he supervised technology uses and traveled to many schools, assessing the state of the libraries and reading programs and how the district functioned. He met Watson during a visit to Bangs School. He observed the multiple uses to which the so-called library space was put, including the use of space to accommodate a much-needed reading program. There was "great disturbance" in the library due to other uses and competing areas of concern and responsibility. He spoke to Mrs. McDavid, the director of curriculum, and they discussed the concerns about the libraries and the district's need to make serious decisions as to how to meet its shortcomings. Springer also related that from his examination there was "very little in the way of library curriculum." However, despite his concerns, Springer agreed that while the library situation was "challenging and far from perfect," this did not make the job impossible.

The Board's rebuttal

Dr. Antonio Lewis explained that he made his recommendations regarding the renewal of contracts based upon his discussions with the supervisor of elementary education and the building principal. Based upon these discussions and the evaluations conducted, he felt that Mr. Watson's contract should not be renewed.

Dr. Lewis was personally concerned about the condition of the library. He spoke to Watson in January about the need to correct a situation which he described in a memo, prepared after a subsequent visit of March 3 as, "utterly disgraceful." Books were "all over the place" and the library section itself was "rather cluttered." Lewis characterized the space dedicated for library use as "enough" and "more than adequate." As the district is an Abbott district, every space in the building is utilized for reading instruction. The memo dated March 7, 2003, reflects that Dr. Lewis was "dismayed, horrified and appalled at the condition(s) of the media center." He added, "I found it difficult to believe that you would allow our students to be subjected to such mess."

Lewis recalled that he had observed Watson teaching a class on at least five occasions. Two of these involved blackboard instruction by Watson, the others may have involved students working on projects. However, Lewis never formally evaluated Watson. He had some concerns about what he saw during these visits, and when he had any serious concerns about what he saw during an informal observation he would communicate these concerns to the school principal. In response to this testimony, Mr. Watson denied that Lewis had ever observed him, calling such testimony a "lie." He never saw Lewis in any of his classrooms and was in the hospital on the day that Lewis came to the Marshall library in March. Lewis agreed that he recalled this fact and that the visit that he wrote about in his memo might have occurred earlier than March 3, because as he recalled, Watson was present on the day of this visit.

Discussion

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that teachers acquire tenure upon the completion of "three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 requires that "every board of education . . . shall cause each nontenure teaching staff member employed by it to be observed and evaluated in the performance of his or her duties at least three times during each school year . . . Said evaluations are to take place before April 30 each year. . . . Each evaluation shall be followed by a conference between that teaching staff member and his or her superior or superiors. The purpose of this procedure is to recommend as to reemployment, identify any deficiencies, extend assistance for their correction and improve professional competence." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 b. provides, "A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or noncertificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator. . . A nontenured officer or employee who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator shall be deemed nonrenewed. . . An officer or employee whose employment contract is not renewed shall have the right to a written statement of reasons for nonrenewal . . . and to an informal appearance before the board."

A local school board has "virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing the contracts of nontenured teachers." Dore v. Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County, 185 N.J. Super. 447 (1982). The board is not limited to acting where the statements presented in its reasons for nonrenewal are supported by evaluations, for indeed the board may reach its conclusion about a nontenured teacher "on a broad base of input received from a variety of people, including members of the public . . . ." Id. at 454. The breadth of the board's discretion is so great that the Appellate Division has said, "absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." Id. at 456. The board's decision will only be vacated where it acts in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

The record presented by the respondent contains a series of evaluations performed over the three years during which Mr. Watson was employed by the district. Taken at face value, they reflect initial impressions that Watson was performing satisfactorily, followed by later evaluations that he either needed improvement in several areas or even that he was performing unsatisfactorily and was not meeting the standards expected of a teacher in the district. In addition to these evaluations, the record presented includes additional indications of less than satisfactory performance, such as Dr. Lewis' memorandum concerning the condition of the library and his subsequent visit that revealed continued unsatisfactory conditions, as well as evidence that Mr. Watson failed to include any grades in his plan book. Given the vast discretion vested in the school board under the statute, this record of documented performance at less than satisfactory levels over a period of time would, without question, be more than sufficient to insulate the board against any claim that its decision not to renew Watson's contract was arbitrary or unreasonable.

Of course, as this decision notes and as the full record of the case will amply display far more than can be reasonably related in even a decision of this detail, Mr. Watson argues vehemently that the records and the testimony produced by the board cannot be taken at face value. For reasons that he has explained and for other reasons he may not have fully revealed, Watson sees the actions of the board, its superintendent and supervisory employees, and indeed apparently also its attorneys, as part of a grand conspiracy, a collusive "mission" to act contrary to his interests, to negatively affect his job performance, to interfere with his rights and to ultimately deny him tenure within the district. This concerted effort apparently started when his first two applications were, "lost," and continued, first apparently due to the perceived animus of Janice Anderson and then through the efforts of others, including Mr. Mednick, Mr. Reinoso and Dr. Lewis. In his attack upon the board's decision, Mr. Watson has focused upon a laundry list of issues, incidents, perceived examples of harassment and mistreatment that he believes reflect what really is at issue here, that is, that everything that this board and its supervisory personnel have done with respect to him has been arbitrary, improper and illegal. Further, it is also clear that he has strong, and I am sure, honest concerns about how the district is, or is not, properly educating its largely minority students. Indeed, this was the theme of the last statements in his closing remarks.

There is absolutely no denying that the conditions within which Mr. Watson was called upon to perform his job as a librarian were considerably less than ideal. Mr. Springer and Ms. Paul noted this, although each agreed that while this was so, it did not mean that the job was impossible. And despite Watson's repeated complaint at hearing that he was never supervised or evaluated by someone holding a Masters in library science, Ms. Paul denied that this was unusual. Indeed, she never had such supervision and the lack thereof never prevented her from functioning properly as a librarian over a lengthy career. While the lack of better working conditions and the clear and undisputed fact of a library environment that was less than what it no doubt should have been do mean that Watson might be given some "break" due to having to work in difficult circumstances, nevertheless the observations of his teaching performance and the deficiencies noted in the reports, as well as such matters as the lack of grades, appear to demonstrate some fundamental weaknesses that transcend the difficult environment. Indeed, even if the petitioner might perform satisfactorily in a different environment more conducive to a true "library" experience, that possibility, even if taken as true, does not mean that a decision by this board that he could not function effectively enough in the environment in which he was required to work was arbitrary.

Having listened very carefully to Mr. Watson present his version of the truth, and his analysis of the actions and motivations of those who criticized him in one manner or another, I am thoroughly convinced that, despite the passion of his opinions, he is simply seeing only what he wants to see, only seeing and no doubt believing, that others who do not agree with him are not simply entitled to their opinions, but that they are lying, conniving and conspiring to "get him." I have carefully considered the credibility of his testimony and of his allegations, as well as the testimony of those called by the board, or called by Watson, but otherwise arguably identified with the board, who presented evidence that was adverse to Watson's asserted positions. Given that consideration, I CONCLUDE that the record simply does not "come within a mile" of proving that the decisions of those who either advised or made the decision to recommend against renewal were so motivated. Indeed, I simply cannot credit his conspiracy theories. While Watson might have been perceived as a difficult employee by some, while his actions might have "put off" some persons, in the end, I FIND that the evaluations and assessments of his work performance were legitimate expressions of reasonable and qualified persons who concluded that he was not performing in a satisfactory manner in respect to at least some of his required areas and ultimately determined that he was a less than satisfactory employee, who, for legitimate, work related reasons, was not a person that the district should keep on after he had failed to prove himself as a satisfactory teacher over an extended period of three school years. The record amply demonstrates that he was not progressing as the board was entitled to expect and that the evaluation that he was not meeting standards was by no means arbitrary. Under the statute and the case law, there is absolutely no basis whatsoever for the Commissioner to interfere with the local board's vast discretion in this matter and the appeal is therefore DISMISSED.

The Adult School Issue

As has been noted above, Mr. Watson also claims that the board improperly denied him renewal of a teaching position in the evening adult school operated by the district. He also seems to argue that, to the extent that he would achieve tenure upon the renewal of the contract for the mandatory public school term for 2003-2004, renewal improperly denied him by the board, he would likewise be assured of a position in the Adult School. The board, which of course argues that the decision to deny this renewal was properly made within its discretion, further argues that no tenure status can be achieved in the Adult School position. In Capella v. Board of Education of the Camden County Vocational Technical School, 145 N.J. Super. 209 (App. Div. 1976), guidance counselors employed for more than three academic years in an adult evening high school, working three hours a night for two evenings a week, argued that they had achieved tenure in their positions, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The court relied upon several grounds to conclude that the school laws "cannot be construed so as to confer tenure in these part-time positions." Id. at 215. Among these were its analysis that the school laws "indicate that tenure was to attach only in those school programs which are required to be provided by a school system, and not in optional programs as an adult evening high school which a board of education "may" maintain." Id. at 214. However, following upon the later case of Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), which critically assessed the Capella ruling, subsequent cases decided by administrative law judges and the Commissioner have determined that Capella is no longer good law and that even the "mandatory" or "optional" nature of the program did not matter. See, Trenton Education Association v. Trenton Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 777; Bergen County Vocational-Technical Schools Education Association, Inc. v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational School District, OAL DKT. EDU 5971-82 (August 15, 1983), aff'd, Commissioner of Education (October 3, 1983). Thus, teachers who serve even in a non-mandatory night adult high school may obtain tenure if they meet the test of the statute, which requires that they have served for (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years. In addition, the teacher must hold a state-issued teaching certificate that is appropriate for the position held.

Given the current state of the law, tenure might be achieved by a teacher in the adult school. But in order to attain that status, the teacher must have served the required time under the three alternatives offered by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The petitioner has not shown that he meets this requirement. His "acceptance" of employment, stated in his letter of May 19, 2003, that Dr. Lewis addressed in his letter of May 23, 2003, provides no basis for a conclusion that tenure was obtained in the adult school, any more than in the regular school program where Watson's contract was clearly not renewed. The credible evidence here is that teachers were not automatically retained in the adult school from year to year. They served on a one-year basis. Despite the fact that if they received a sufficient number of yearly appointments they would be eligible for tenure, Mr. Watson has not shown that he served for three academic years and then did so at the beginning of the following academic year, nor has he asserted that he meets the other time factors that are alternatives under the statute. Further, as his attempt to overturn the board's decision not to renew his contract has failed, he cannot achieve tenure in the Adult School on the basis that the board wrongly deprived him of his fourth, or tenure, year, in the district. Thus, to the extent that he claims tenure in the adult school, that claim must fail.

I CONCLUDE that the Superintendent had ample reasonable grounds to determine that non-renewal was appropriate due to Mr. Watson's demonstrated deficiencies. Mr. Watson has failed to meet his burden of demonstrating that the decision was unreasonable. Therefore, his request that the Commissioner overturn that decision must be DENIED and the appeal DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions,[1] which were fully considered by the Commissioner in his determination in this matter.

Upon his full and independent review,[2] the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons comprehensively detailed in his decision, that the within petition is properly dismissed since petitioner has failed to meet the limited standard entitling non-tenured, non-renewed teaching staff members to relief, as established by the Appellate Division in Dore and Kopera, supra.

[1] Petitioner Yara Martin and petitioner George Watson, Jr., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4990-03, Agency Dkt. No. 173-5/03(a), filed joint exceptions to the Initial Decision. It is noted that there is no indication that such exceptions were copied to Board counsel or the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

[2] The record of this matter includes transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL on June 11, 14, 18 and 30, and July 2 and 8, 2004.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 06349-04S
AGENCY DKT. NO. 173-5/03

YARA MARTIN,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ASBURY PARK, MONMOUTH COUNTY,
Respondent.

Yara Martin, petitioner, appeared pro se

Lester E. Taylor, Esq., for respondent Board of Education (Hunt, Hamlin & Ridley, attorneys)[i]

Record Closed: July 8, 2004 Decided: September 13, 2004[ii]

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Yara Martin was employed by the respondent school board ("Board") as a special education teacher in its school system. She also worked in a teaching position in the adult evening school in Asbury Park. On May 23, 2003, Martin, along with a fellow Asbury Park teacher, George Watson, Jr., filed a joint Petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), in which they alleged that the Board had, among other things, improperly

[i] Throughout these proceedings, Lester E. Taylor, Esq., represented the Board. However, prior to the final day of hearings, he advised that the Board had determined not to renew its contract with his law firm for the upcoming year, beginning on July 1, 2004. Due to the delay and confusion that a last minute substitution of counsel would have necessitated, I entered an Order dated July 1, 2004, mandating that Mr. Taylor remain as counsel "through the completion of the actual hearing and the presentation of any legal briefs in connection with the preparation of this initial decision." With the hearings completed and closing arguments having been presented orally, a Substitution of Attorney has now been submitted on July 29, 2004, for Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys) as superceding counsel for the respondent.

[ii] The forty-five (45) day statutory period within which to file the Initial Decision with the Department of Education expired on August 23, 2004. The undersigned judge requested additional time to complete the Initial Decision in the instant matter because of the complexity of the case and his pending, pre-planned vacation, which began on August 9, 2004, and continued through the expiration of the forty-five day statutory period. Therefore, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, the time limit for filing the Initial Decision was extended until October 7, 2004.

18A:27-12.[ii] The Petition made many allegations and assertions of supposed wrongdoing by the Board, its employees and representatives of the union that served as the bargaining agent for the teachers. On June 23, 2003, the Board filed an answer to the Petition, which it characterized as a Petition of Appeal. Catherine Ahl and Windsor Leveille also filed Answers. They had been named as respondents along with the Board. However, they were dismissed as respondents upon the entry of an interlocutory order dated June 8, 2004.[iii]

While the joint petition asserts that the petitioners accepted employment for a fourth year with the Board and therefore acquired tenure, the Board takes a very different position as to their status. It contends that it gave each timely notice that their contracts of employment would not be renewed for the upcoming 2003-2004 school year and that, as non-tenured employees, the petitioners had no legal expectation of renewed employment and certainly did not attain tenure status. Relying upon the "nearly unlimited" discretion afforded to school boards to determine whether to reemploy non-tenured employees from year to year, the Board seeks dismissal of the petitioners' appeals. Dore v. Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County, 185 N.J. Super. 447 (1982).

As filed by the pro se petitioners, their petition contained sixteen pages of wide ranging allegations, some directly related to the issue of tenure rights and employment status, and others touching on these issues, but alleging civil rights, Open Public Meetings, harassment and labor union representation issues. During a prehearing conference conducted by Administrative Law Judge Caridad F. Rigo on October 8, 2003, the petitioners withdrew many of the counts of the Petition with each petitioner reserving the right to pursue charges in other appropriate forums. The judge issued a prehearing order dated October 16, 2003, noting therein the numbers of the various withdrawn counts and by whom each was withdrawn.[iv] Judge Rigo then listed the issues remaining for determination in the administrative hearing. These were: (1) Were the non-renewal of the petitioners' teaching contracts in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and 18A:27-4;

[ii] Both Martin and Watson filed a "Notice of Acceptance of Teaching Contract" with the Asbury Park Board of Education School Year 2003-2004. These were each dated May 19, 2004. In this Notice, Martin first advised that she accepted employment for a position as 1. Teacher of Adult School 2003-2004 and 2. Teacher K-8 or Special Education Teacher. She added, "this will be my tenure year at the Asbury Park School District, my fourth year as a teacher at Thurgood Marshall and my second as evening school ESL Teacher at Asbury Park High School Evening Program. However I have never had a written Teacher's Contract for the employment of my third year at Thurgood Marshall or for my first year at Adult School as required by law as 19A:27-5 et al."

[iii] Their dismissal was based upon a determination that, as the focus of this dispute concerns the tenure status of teachers or the non-renewal of teaching contracts, no relief could lie against them as union officials or representatives.

[iv] The Order noted that if the petitioners sought to file a claim in the United States District Court for these withdrawn counts and the District Court refused to accept the "counts/petition," the petitioners could then file an appropriate motion seeking to reinstate the designated withdrawn counts. The judge established a deadline for the filing of any such motion, keyed to the deadline she established by which date either or both petitioners could file such claims with the District Court. "If the petitioners have not filed their petition with the U.S. District Court by November 12, 2004, they are foreclosed from seeking reinstatement before the OAL."

(2)Was procedural due process rendered to the petitioners with respect to notice of the April 28, 2003, board hearing; (3) Were there violations of the Open Public Meetings Act on April 28, 2003, April 29, 2003, July 17, 2003, and August 21, 2003, by the respondents not providing the required notices for these meetings; hence, these meetings were conducted in violation of the act.

In their joint Petition Watson and Martin state a series of, in some instances separate, and in some instances, joint or mutual, allegations of fact and assertions of wrongdoing. For reasons that are not revealed by the record, the Department of Education did not sever the individual petitioners' cases prior to transmitting the contested case(s) to the OAL under one docket number and the judge originally assigned to the case did not severe the matters either. By the time this judge received the case there had been a good deal of activity involving discovery, motions and significant disputes, and at the late date that this judge first entered into the matter he deemed it best not to attempt to sever the claims and instead decided to proceed with one combined hearing at which both petitioners would present their claims. Thus, with each petitioner fully advised that their cases constituted individual appeals of the action of the Board denying non-renewal as to each separately, and also to the extent that each claimed that he or she had accepted employment for the coming school year of 2003-2004 pursuant to statute and therefore had a right to the teaching position, the case proceeded as one hearing, with each petitioner presenting his or her witnesses and arguments and conducting his or her examination and cross-examination individually. While it is recognized that Mr. Watson and Ms. Martin have each raised concerns that mutually trouble them about the conduct of the Board and its employees, as was carefully explained to each, their employment status vis a vis the Board must be determined independent of the other, judged in accordance with the applicable law. Further, at the close of the hearing I advised the parties that in order to treat each matter separately and to allow for a more efficient presentation of the decisions, as well as to prepare written initial decisions that could be more appropriately reviewed throughout the administrative, and perhaps, judicial process, that I intended to severe the matters for purposes of the written decisions. A separate Order severing the cases has been issued.

In addition to the dispute relating to the petitioner's employment status as full-time teachers in the district's system, during the hearing the petitioners also asserted that they were each denied rights with respect to their employment in the adult school. They contend that the Board improperly denied them employment therein as well, and therefore interfered with their ability to attain tenure in that employment. The Board disputes the idea that tenure is applicable to employment in the adult school, arguing that its employees are hired on a yearly basis subject to advertising of positions that is based upon the needs of the program, dictated largely by the varying size of the program.

The prehearing and trial portions of this case must, in fairness, be characterized as contentious. Over the course of the case petitioners sought and, in some instances, made motions to enforce discovery. It must in fairness be stated that at times the board was lax in its responses. One of the ongoing controversies was in regard to the petitioners' demand for the production of the tapes of Board meetings held on numerous dates in 2003. Ultimately, after attempting to determine what the alleged problem was that prompted the petitioners to seek discovery of the tapes for the meetings held on July 17 and August 21, 2003, dates that were significantly subsequent to the Board's notice to the petitioners of April 29, 2003, regarding the non-renewal decision and the Board's May 15 meeting, at which the non-renewal decision was adopted, or for the much broader number of tapes sought of meetings through most of 2003, and considering also the board's contention that the transcription of these tapes would be extremely burdensome, given the time and effort necessary to exclude privileged materials such as personnel issues involving other employees, I concluded that this discovery demand was unwarranted. Additionally, to the extent that the prehearing identified as an issue the question of whether the board had violated the Open Public Meetings Act, attempts to identify exactly how any such alleged violations might impact upon the rights of the petitioners vis a vis their contention that the Board had denied them tenure, or that the decisions not to renew their contracts were arbitrary, were unsuccessful. To that extent, I concluded that the Open Public Meetings issues were not relevant to this proceeding.

Prior to the hearing, I advised all parties that, although the burden of proof rested upon the petitioners to demonstrate that the Board's decision of non-renewal was arbitrary and unreasonable, I would nevertheless require that the Board first present at least a modicum of evidence to explain to me the basis for its decision, so that I could then more intelligently assess the petitioners' proofs as they attempted to meet their burden. This reversal of the general course of testimony, in which the party bearing the ultimate burden of proof first presents evidence seeking to meet that burden and the party seeking to support its action against the petition then responds, was required so that the petitioners' proofs could be understood against something other than a vacuum. Of course, the burden of proof never left Ms. Martin throughout the case. After the Board presented some limited evidence and its witnesses were cross-examined by Martin, she then proceeded to present her case and, after she had concluded, the Board presented additional evidence, seeking to meet the evidence and charges offered by the petitioner.

The Board's Initial presentation

The Board offered evidence that, by letter dated April 29, 2003, Dr. Antonio N. Lewis, Superintendent of the Asbury Park School District, notified Ms. Martin that "I will not be recommending the renewal of your employment for the upcoming year. Accordingly, your employment with the Asbury Park School District will terminate at the close of business on June 30, 2003." When served with this notice, Martin signed it, but she wrote that she did so "under duress and protest." She then exercised her statutory right to request a statement of reasons for non-renewal. In response, the Board then provided her with a written statement of "Non Renewal Rationale," identifying the following:

1. Poor classroom management
2. Incomplete lesson plans
3. Weak planning and organization
4. Lack of effective instructional methods and techniques.

Dr. Lewis testified that the district had conducted evaluations of Ms. Martin's performance and the evaluating supervisory personnel had prepared documents setting forth their "Appraisal of Teacher Performance," beginning with an evaluation conducted on December 14, 2000, by Deidre Calderon, the district's supervisor of special education for pre-kindergarten through 5th grade. Ms. Calderon reported that Martin performed satisfactorily in each of the twelve areas assessed (the form also contains two "other" categories not reported on in this evaluation). These twelve covered various issues within two broad categories, "Instructional and Management Skills" and "Personal Characteristics." Overall, Martin was characterized as, "meeting Asbury Park standards." On February 15, 2001, Calderon again evaluated Martin, and this time she reported that the teacher was satisfactory in most areas, but "needed improvement" in the categories of "planning organization," "methods and techniques" and "knowledge of subject matter." At the time Martin was a Grade One inclusion teacher, working with Ms.

Maneff. The appraisal form contains comments that are generally favorable, but also two "suggestions/comments," one a "second reminder" to "please include CCCS [Core Curriculum Standards] to lessons in your plan book" and "Need to increase knowledge of the subject area i.e. Attend Workshops." Calderon now reported that Martin was "progressing toward Asbury Park standards."

Calderon next evaluated Martin on October 2, 2001. This report indicated satisfactory performance in all areas, that Martin was meeting standards and that her "lesson plan is right on the mark." Calderon added, "Keep up the good work." The April 9, 2002, evaluation was a bit less strong. Here, evaluator Y. Lockley reported that Martin needed improvement in planning and organization, methods and techniques and classroom control. She was progressing toward standards. A series of ten "recommendations" were listed, along with three "commendations."

Ms. Calderon again evaluated Martin as a Grade Three inclusion teacher on April 17, 2002, just a week after Lockley's April 9 report. Here, Calderon reported that all areas were satisfactory and Martin was meeting standards. A recommendation was to "continue to improve in your instructional and management skills." Dr. Lewis testified that this note was "cautionary."

By the time of the next evaluation report, early in her third year with the district, dated October 23, 2002, Martin was teaching in a self-contained "SLD-M class." The report prepared by Ms. Calderon states that Martin had a para-educator to assist her. In this report, Calderon found Martin to need improvement in the areas of planning and organization, methods and techniques and knowledge of subject matter. She was progressing toward standards. Comments addressed means of assisting with student feedback and a recommendation "for greater professional growth, [she should] consider visiting other classrooms, and incorporate at least one new idea from each visit into your teaching and/or classroom environment." Lewis testified that the comment about student feedback referred to "almost rudimentary" concepts. Interestingly, the Appraisal form notes that Martin "refused to sign" this report.

Ms. Calderon issued her next appraisal report on February 3, 2003. The only area less than satisfactory was planning and organization. Martin was progressing toward standards. Recommendations were that her plan book "should include accommodations and modifications for all of your students and should be readily accessible at all times" and "your lesson plan should be more descriptive."

The next appraisal report, dated March 17, 2003, presents a very different assessment from those previously produced. Here, Ms. Calderon found that Martin, still a self-contained SLD teacher, was in need of improvement in methods and techniques, knowledge of subject matter, student time on task, classroom control and room environment. Her planning and organization was unsatisfactory. Calderon ranked her, for the first time, as not meeting Asbury Park standards. In her commentary, Calderon noted that there were eight students in this class, in which a Ms. Barnes assisted. She mentioned, "the classroom atmosphere was very chaotic at times. The students had a hard time staying on task." Additionally, "Upon observation of her lesson plan book, it was noted that there was no change from her last observation which stated it needed improvement. Her plans are still not complete even after giving, for the second time, more information on how to do a lesson plan." Calderon recommended that Martin "secure and maintain student's attention and participation, take advantage of professional development opportunities to enhance professional abilities, visit other classrooms to observe different learning styles and seek help and instruction when planning for your classroom."

A subsequent evaluation was conducted on March 20, 2003, by the school's principal Mr. Albert J. Reinoso. This report lists Martin as needing improvement in the areas of knowledge of subject matter, student/teacher rapport and voice projection. Unsatisfactory performance was noted for planning and organization, methods and techniques and classroom control. Comments included reference to her performance in presenting a "day two" lesson for the SFA Reading Wings curriculum. She "did not box and underline the starred words for section one. There was no reference to the use of the starred words in the context of the story. At this point the 'Day Two' schedule calls for showing predictions with evidence. This important element was omitted by Ms. Martin." Martin also "awarded team points with no reference to the cooperative learning standard," "did not model the meaningful sentence process with a graphic organizer," did not mention other elements, but "did a very effective job of using the Treasure Hunt as a guide for answering questions." She "did not have a pre-planned 'Two minute edit' sentence prepared." There was also "no evidence of the use of SFA classroom management strategy or the numbered heads classroom management strategy." The document contained five recommendations, including that the teacher > follow-up on the many conferences which you have had with administrators, implement all of the many suggestions and remedies for deficiencies that have been given to you and documented by the SFA facilitators, incorporate into your lesson preparation and instruction the ideas, concepts and methods that were presented at the numerous trainings which the district has provided for you, and review the objectives in the corrective action plan which you received on October 11, 2002, paying particular attention to the plan and substitute plans.

Dr. Lewis explained that the SFA lesson is a prescribed program where "every second of time is prescribed" as to what to do, and if the teacher varies from this plan then she is not following the continuity of the instruction. If a teacher can justify a variance from the prescribed plan, then this may be all right, but certainly not on a daily basis, as the history of the program is that it will not work if not presented within the model.

Dr. Lewis had discussions at various times with building principals, the supervisor of special education, parents and classroom aides who voiced concerns about aspects of Ms. Martin's performance. He also had repeated discussions with the director of pupil personnel services. Ms. Martin was not following the SFA instruction program. He also visited her class just prior to recommending against renewal of her contract. In his view, she did not seem to understand that if she did something out of the ordinary, her students would react to this change of routine. He observed this when he came into her classroom.

The witness recalled that during her last year in the district, complaints were received that Ms. Martin would close the shades in her classroom and keep the room dark, with all, or at least most, of the lights turned off. It was reported that students could not work on their lessons. She was told two or three times to open the shades and turn the lights on. She claimed that she had to take these steps due to the bright sun that came into her classroom, however, he recalled that this happened when the sun was actually on the other side of the room. On cross-examination, Lewis claimed that he was not aware whether any of the children's Individual Educational Plans ("IEPs") requested or required that half of the lights be turned off.

Another area of concern was that Ms. Martin had repeated difficulties interacting with staff. This problem started in her first year, 2000-2001. She was assigned to a special education inclusion class and had difficulty interacting with the other teacher in the room, so much so that it became necessary to transfer Martin out of that class. Lewis denied any knowledge that she had been approached to transfer because she was told by Mr. Reinoso that he needed a favor from Martin because two teachers in the class into which she transferred could not get along and were fighting. Later on in her teaching service, she was given her own class and clashed with an aide assigned to her.

Acknowledging on cross-examination that he was aware that Ms. Martin had signed a complaint in the Asbury Park Municipal Court charging Mr. Reinoso with harassment, the superintendent denied any knowledge on his part prior to his recommendation of non-renewal that Ms. Martin had signed an EEOC complaint charging Reinoso with sexual harassment.[v] He was never contacted about this by any NJEA representative and only learned of this after the recommendation was made. Lewis also denied personal knowledge that Ms. Martin taught English as a Second Language ("ESL") in the district's night school.

Andrea Bates, who has served as the district's affirmative action officer since 2000, similarly denied any knowledge of Martin having complained about harassment by Reinoso. Postings regarding the procedure for filing complaints are sent out from her office to the various schools two or three times a year. She did not conduct any workshops to instruct persons how they should file complaints.

Albert J. Reinoso served as the principal at Thurgood Marshall School for seven years before he became the principal at Asbury Park High School. Reinoso testified that he had seen Ms. Martin teach many times, however his observation of her on March 20, 2003, may have been the first formal evaluation that he ever conducted of her. He denied any recollection of his ever questioning students about her teaching capacities, but he does recall that he asked about "what happened when he was not there."

Reinsoso has received training in the SFA Program and he "usually" tries to observe teachers as they present this work.[vi] When it became apparent that Martin was having difficulties with the program, he offered to provide an SFA facilitator to demonstrate for her.

[v] This complaint, sworn to on March 27, 2003, alleged that on March 20, 2003, Reinoso "did harass the complainant by making unwanted remark toward her and caused her to be uneasy." The statutory violation noted was of N.J.S.A. 2C:33-4A. It is apparent from the testimony in this case that the date of the alleged harassment does not relate to any one specific event, as opposed to what Martin explained was a history of harassment.

[vi] He has attended four national workshops and received training at an "institute" in Baltimore. Although he has never taught the program, he has presented demonstration lessons.

However, he believes that on the day that it was planned for this to occur, Martin was absent. She said that she would call to arrange another date, but she never did. However, he acknowledged that he "might" have seen a memo from Martin, dated April 15, 2003, in which, despite her disagreement with his recent evaluation of her reading class, she requested that he teach an SFA class to her class "at your earlier convenience." He also acknowledged receipt of a two page "Rebuttal letter," written in response to his evaluation of that class. In this document, Martin defended herself, disagreeing that she had omitted "showing predictions with evidence," as the "story was not a story, but rather a description of the sounds of each musical instrument and the kinds of feelings we have when listening to them," that she did present a model of the meaningful sentence process with a graphic organizer without implementing circles around the steps, in order to provide a varied method of learning to the students, that she wrote the two minute edit on the board because the overhead projector was not working, that "classroom management strategy" was effectively used, with the names of disruptive students written on the blackboard as necessary, that "numbered heads classroom management strategy" was utilized, that "my extensive knowledge of the lesson was demonstrated repeatedly throughout the class" and that the class was "fully planned and organized" and "methods and technique were carried out" "according to SFA standard." She also denied that her voice projection was anything other than "loud and clear enough for the entire class to hear," and defended her classroom control, noting that there were two disruptive students, whose behavior had previously been called to the attention of "Mrs. Ahl several times, but her only response was, 'I don't know what to tell you about it, I have no answers. . . .' "

The witness identified Ms. Barnes, an aide who was working with Ms. Martin at the time, as the source of the complaints about the lights and shades. He personally observed shades closed and lights turned off. He directed that the room was not to be darkened unless audio-visual equipment was in use, and opined that turning off the lights and pulling down the shades was a "negative" for special education students, unless such equipment was in use. He did not recall that Martin had asked that Barnes be removed from Martin's class due to her allegation that Barnes was "watching" her for Reinoso. He only recalled that Martin asked that Barnes be removed, but not why she made that request. Barnes, who had been with the students in that class for two years, told him that she wanted out of the class, but staffing issues and issues concerning pupil/teacher bonding caused him not to move Barnes. He recalled that Ms. Martin alleged that Barnes was causing discipline problems, ate in the classroom all day except when she disappeared for extensive periods of time, and used students for errands and that the students wanted her removed. He spoke to the students about these issues, but he could not corroborate these charges. Reinoso acknowledged that due to the fact that Martin and Barnes did not get along, he did speak to students during 2002-2003 about how comfortable they were in the class. These discussions did not touch upon Martin's teaching ability.

Reinoso did not recall any request by Martin for a job description and did not remember providing one to her. He knew that teachers were entitled to one, but he was unsure who was responsible for providing it.

Questioned as to whether Ms. Martin's accent ever became an issue regarding the performance of her job, Reinoso acknowledged that during her first year students did complain that they had trouble understanding her, as did her co-teacher, Ms. Ownes. He spoke to Martin about this, in a meeting with Ms. Anderson and a union representative. The principal acknowledged that he eventually had to transfer Martin from Ownes' class, as Ownes' was insisting that she be removed, and that in order to make it easier to transfer her, he told Martin that he needed a favor from her. He said that it would be in the best interests of both classes if she transferred.

Mr. Reinoso was aware that prior to her employment by the district, Ms. Martin had a business cleaning the communal areas of the building in which he lived. He denied that she cleaned his apartment, at least to his knowledge. He does not recall that after she was employed by the district, he ever offered to help Martin with her accent at his apartment. He also never told her that no one would believe her about such meetings due to his influence. He denied telling her during her second year at Marshall that many requests had been made to terminate her, but that he really liked her and was doing everything he could to help her and that all she had to do was to accept his help. However, aware of her performance problems during that second year, he did say that he would arrange to help her, but he never told her he was a very powerful man in Asbury Park. He told her that she was having problems getting along with other staff and that this was a concern to him, but he recalls no invitations to his apartment. He never heard any conversation from her about buying a unit in his apartment building and only learned of a sale after it had occurred. He does not recall asking her to go out with him. As for the problems she had with other staff, this occurred each year that she was in the district, and it was a factor in her evaluations and observations. Ownes complained not only about the difficulty that students had understanding Martin, but that Martin did not follow the shared teaching assignment plans.

Deidra Calderon testified that new teachers received an orientation prior to the start of school. Referring to her evaluation of Martin's performance on February 15, 2001, she noted that her directive from the very first day of school was that CCCS were to be put in the plan books. While in the main she had rated Martin as either progressing toward or meeting district standards, by Martin's third year she did not see any improvement in performance. She had reviewed with Martin the need to modify the SFA program to meet IEP requirements for particular student's needs, and referred her to the case manager to discuss how the goals of the IEP could be reached if modifications to systemic programs were not working. Concerns about this were brought to the attention of SFA monitors, but Martin would not modify. She does not recall that Martin ever asked her for any other reading program.

Queried by Ms. Martin about how Martin could have found the opportunity to observe any other class, as recommended in the October 23, 2002, appraisal, Calderon said that she could have requested coverage for her class from the building administration, or done so on her lunch or her prep time. As for the statement in the March 17, 2003, appraisal regarding the lesson plan book, the book was missing references to pages and exercises that were to be done. She had previously reviewed these informally with Martin and recommended that she look at other special education teachers' plan books.

The witness identified a memo of November 21, 2002, regarding grades that Martin turned in late despite having received an announcement from the main office as to the deadline. She was aware of problems between Ms. Martin and Ms. Barnes, and, despite Martin's oft-repeated testimony that Barnes claimed that she and Calderon were related, Calderon steadfastly denied any such relationship. As for her criticisms in the November 21, 2002, appraisal, she explained that Martin was not implementing the SFA program as directed and was not using adaptations. She was acting more as a paraprofessional than as a team teacher. Indeed, similar concerns were reflected in a memo issued to Martin on February 27, 2001, regarding the February 15, 2001, observation. Despite any claims to the contrary, Martin had in fact received training in SFA, but did not seem to reflect a grasp of the program or of team teaching.

Ms. Martin's Presentation

Yara Martin testified that prior to working in the Asbury Park school district, she was attending Georgian Court College and also operated a maintenance cleaning service, working at the building in which Mr. Reinoso lived with his then girlfriend. Martin cleaned the communal areas of the building and also some of the apartments. She always had at least one employee with her. Reinoso's girlfriend hired Martin to clean their apartment and while she did so she never spoke to Reinoso, other than to say "hi" and "bye."

When she first interviewed with the Asbury Park district, Ms. Martin met with Janice Anderson, who was a school principal. Anderson was "aggressive" and "offensive" and made Martin "scared." Martin did not get the job and she felt "terrified" and "like a criminal." Subsequently she applied again, at a job fair, and this time dealt with a Mr. Jackson, a vice-principal at Thurgood Marshall, who was very nice and professional. She was hired.

When she started at Thurgood Marshall, Martin continued to clean and worked at that job from 3:00 am to 7:00 am and then started at Marshall at 8:00 am. She no longer cleaned any apartments. Mr. Reinoso called her in to his office and told her that he needed someone to take care of children in the 7:00 am breakfast program. She told him that she could not because she had to clean, but he said that she should do as he asked, as "she had not been there too long." She felt that she had no choice. This caused her to start cleaning at 2:00 am. In conversations with Ms. Ownes, who had been a teacher for twenty years, she was told of "gossip" about Reinoso that later turned out to be true, but which at the time she ignored.

The petitioner acknowledged that at first there were some problems with Ms. Ownes, who was insulted that she had to work with someone with no experience. Martin told Reinoso that she was treated as a helper and that Ownes would not let her teach. Reinoso then told Ownes that she had to allow Martin to teach, and, while this insulted Ownes, over time the situation settled down so that there was no conflict after the first month. After about six months Reinoso came to Martin and told her that he had a problem that required that he transfer her to another class where two teachers were fighting in front of their students. Martin did not want to leave her class, where things were "fine," but Reinoso said that she had no choice. This meant that the ties that Martin had with her students were broken and she had to start all over with another group of children and integrate into another teacher's system. She was very disturbed by this, and when she left, the children and Ms. Ownes cried. The teacher with whom she was now assigned, Ms. Maneff, did not want any other teacher in her class and did not want to share. This made the adjustment harder and it took a while for her to be accepted in this first grade class. Maneff never did accept her, did not let her do anything and made many complaints about her. Martin felt like an intruder and had many meetings with Reinoso about these issues. At the same time she was dealing with the SFA program. The first graders were utilizing the Roots program, and the Wings program started in the second grade. Martin had been trained in the Wings program. The programs require many workshops and the formats have to be followed closely. She received only one training session on Roots and really did not know the program. She spoke to Reinoso about this and he told her that, as the school year was significantly advanced and the students were "almost passing to Wings," she should help Maneff with it, alternating classes with her. Ms. Calderon observed and realized that she was not really teaching the class and wrote her up for this, then said that she was lying about not being trained for Roots. She showed Martin a copy of an attendance sheet for training. Martin was "overpowered as to what to do." Reinoso told her not to worry, "all was fine. Everything will be in place." He told her that she had obtained the job at Asbury Park because he liked her very much and that he appreciated what she was doing for the breakfast program. Reinoso insisted that she "got the job and was hired because of ' me.' " He told her that she needed to work on her accent. He then told her that she was placed in Maneff's class because of Ms. Ownes' complaint regarding her accent. This surprised Martin, who had been in the United States for twenty-one years and had never heard any complaint about her accent before. He told her that there had been complaints by parents and students about the accent, but she did not believe this. He said he would supply her with proof of the complaints and told her that the accent impacted strongly upon first graders. He told her that she should come to his apartment on nights or weekends or after school for help with the accent. She felt that this would be okay, that they were "friends," but she was naïve and when she mentioned this to friends, she felt "ridiculous" and "awkward." On many occasions Reinoso called her to his office to discuss whether a student had misbehaved, but he would then refer to the accent problem and ask her why she would not come to his apartment for help. Later on, he started to ask her inappropriate questions about her private life and she was very upset about this, unsure of what to do about it.

Martin had asked Reinoso and the board for a job description, but she was "ping-ponged" and never received one in three years.

Martin eventually discussed her problems with Reinoso with a union representative, Mr. Leveille, who said that the union would help her and mentioned the possibility of grievances. She thought such would be filed, but she did not really understand it all. Her problems with Reinoso continued into the second year of her employment, 2001-2002. Again, she was in an inclusion class, this time with Ms. Furlong, also a special education teacher.[vii] One was to act as the regular teacher, the other as the special education teacher. Reinoso asked her what she wanted to do and she told him "whatever he decides." He told her to act as the regular teacher and this very much upset Furlong. Furlong kept a diary as the year proceeded, and the two clashed at times, each prevailing on some matters[viii]. Furlong would interrupt her in front of the class, correct her and then make notes in the diary. Martin met with Reinoso to complain about Furlong. Mr. Leveille and Janice Anderson were present. She said that she could not teach "like this" and that it was not good for the teachers to disagree in front of the class. Lesson plans were not being prepared together. Each teacher had her different ways. Anderson, who was the supervisor, was "against her in that meeting." Anderson had been in the class many times, and she now agreed with Furlong. Martin was "wrong." Anderson commented that one time when she was in the class she saw Martin going to specific students throughout the entire class time instead of helping the whole class. Martin retorted that these students needed specific instruction on a one-on-one basis in order to understand what was being taught. Another comment dealt with Martin's having attempted to translate for a student who did not speak English. Anderson said that she was not in class to serve as a bilingual teacher and that she should be directing her attention to the special education students. Martin questioned why she should not try to help a student who needed assistance. Anderson then "yelled and screamed" at her, "Ms. Martin, you don't understand what I am saying." This was the same manner in which Anderson had spoken to her before, when she had "terrified" Martin. She started to cry, as she was being told that she was not a good teacher and was not following SFA, but she knew that this was not right. After the meeting she contacted professors at her college, who assured her that she was doing the right things. The day after this meeting occurred Reinoso called her into his office and said that the outcome of the meeting was not good. Martin said that she wanted a grievance, as that was "no way to treat her." She asserted that she was teaching the correct way. Reinoso was "sympathetic." However, he told her that no one at the school liked her, mentioned her accent again and said that she was Hispanic, which she is not. Indeed, Ms. Martin was well aware that other teachers also had accents. Reinoso then said that he "loves her," which at the time did not seem all that odd, as he often hugged the children and asked teachers to tell the children that they loved them. Reinoso asked that she reconsider accepting his help. She told him that was not going to happen, that she was not looking for a relationship with anybody. Reinoso told her that if she talked about what was said in his office that no one would believe her. "Everybody does what I want. I can make life very easy or dismiss her."

[vii] She identified Furlong as a long time friend of Reinoso's, whose mother had grown up with him. Furlong had taught for ten years, but had started in Asbury Park as a permanent substitute. This class was her first job as a full time teacher in the district.
[viii] Martin knew of the diary because Reinoso showed it to her.

The petitioner explained that, despite the existence of some "needs improvements," her evaluation reports were generally good and she was either progressing toward or meeting standards. Nevertheless, she was upset, cried every day and felt that "everything was against her." By the middle of her second year, 2001-2002, she was still working with Ms. Furlong. She told Mr. Jackson, who was a vice-principal, that she could not continue to work with Furlong. Jackson was "supporting her" professionally, but said he had to be discrete so as not to jeopardize his position. She told him, "they're working against me." He arranged to transfer Furlong out of her classroom and replace her with another good teacher. However, when she went on a field trip with the class and with this new co-teacher and returned from the trip, she found that her classroom had been stripped of filing cabinets and everything from the walls. She called Jackson and found out that Reinoso had allowed Furlong to take everything to her new classroom. This caused a big battle, with Jackson in the middle. She eventually got her filing cabinets back, with the IEPs inside. Jackson soon departed for another district.

At the start of her third year, 2002-2003, Calderon told Martin that she would have her own class and therefore would no longer have problems with other teachers. As Martin did not see herself as the cause of conflict, she found this statement, "remarkable." Calderon then wrote negative reports on Martin. The petitioner acknowledged that she did sometimes forget to put CCCS in her lesson plans, but Reinoso told her that no one did and she did not have to do so either. As Calderon said that she had to, Martin did not know whom to follow, and she started to do it, then talked to others and found out that they did not include the standards. She believes that this indicates the totally bad faith, arbitrary manner of her treatment by the district. There was "no rationale basis, no notice."[ix]

Martin had sixteen students in her self-contained class, a number well in excess of the other such class. The number varied over time as students went in and out of the class, but the disparity was never resolved. Some were highly classified, with serious behavior disorders. She had "3, 4, 5 grades in the same class," as many could not function at grade level, but were kept together due to their similar age. She had to group them by functional level and consulted with the social worker and psychologist on this. The students and parents were "happy." Nevertheless, some of the students were provocative and fought. They would frequently curse and throw things. Students got hurt. There were two or three whom she could not calm down. Eventually, Ms. Ahl of the SFA program told her that the students had to be in class, not in the discipline office. She was told to just "deal with," these pupils, she and her aide, for that is what a special education teacher is to do. However, the aide, Ms. Barnes, knew some of the students and she totally worked against the petitioner. Martin denied that she was keeping the room dark all day, as Barnes alleged. She only darkened the room during the first hour of the day, when the sunlight and heat in the room were problematic and disturbed students. She claimed that three of the student's IEP's said that luminosity disturbed them and they could not concentrate, so she dropped half of the lights and shades. Reinoso told her that she could not do this, and that he did not care what the IEPs said. Barnes complained when Martin locked the doors, but Martin acted in accordance with instructions from Reinoso, who told her that the law required that she do so at all times. Martin felt harassed and wanted Barnes removed from the class. Martin claimed that the children did not like Barnes, that she yelled at them, ate in class all day and could not move around the room due to her size. Barnes told Martin that Martin was doing everything wrong and claimed that she was related to Calderon and was updating her on all of Martin's wrongdoing. Martin felt that "everything was against me." When she tried to spark an investigation by sending material to the union and the board, the union told her that Affirmative Action Officer Bates would investigate, but nothing happened. All of this led to Martin becoming stressed, physically sick and visiting the hospital. She felt that "nothing at school was working for me." She finally filed a "criminal" complaint against Reinoso, which, when she saw how it had been written by the court personnel, found that it did not say exactly what she had wanted it to say. Ultimately, the matter was mediated. The next day Dr. Lewis came to her class, failed to identify himself to her and walked around while she discussed with the students what professions they wanted to enter. At the end of the day Reinoso came to the class and asked her what materials had been stolen from the room. She asked why Lewis had been there and Reinoso replied that he wanted to check regarding stolen materials. Since the superintendent had not asked her about this, she found Reinoso's comment, "weird." After this, the NJEA representative told her that she could file an EEOC complaint, and she did so, although the complaint was not filed until May 12, 2003, a date that is subsequent to the receipt of the notice that her contract would not be renewed.

[ix] Martin further explained that she did not write CCCS in the plan book "maybe three times in three years."

Martin testified that Reinoso did not understand how SFA worked. He would question students about whether she followed the schedule on a daily basis, something that she contended they would not know, and about what she was doing. During her last year he "manipulated" students against her. Students would tell her what she was not supposed to do and became defiant.

Referring to a memo dated October 1, 2002, that Calderon wrote to her regarding a lack of "sufficient plans" available in the classroom on September 30, 2002, when Calderon visited the class and Martin was absent, she noted that she did have such plans, but that "supposedly Ms. Barnes misplaced" them. As for Calderon's offers of help, these were only offered in memos, but when Martin called her she never returned the calls or actually helped.

George Watson, Jr., a fellow teacher at Marshall during Martin's third year in the district, who, as previously noted, filed the joint Petition with Martin challenging the board's failure to renew either of their contracts, testified on her behalf that he overheard a conversation in January or February 2003 between Reinoso and Barnes in which the principal told the aide not to worry because the decision had already been made that Martin was "gone." He also had observed Martin teaching during that year and noted that Barnes was talking out loud and being very disruptive. Watson felt that Martin was "professional, had a lot of respect and dedication and cared about the results and the students."

The Board's rebuttal

Dr. Lewis testified that the decision not to renew Martin's contract was made after discussions with the building principal, the director of pupil personnel services, the vice-principal and after assessment of the evaluations carried out over the three years of her work. He personally never spoke to Martin and did not know her personally. He denied that he did not identify himself when he came to her classroom, as it is his habit to acknowledge teachers and students. He was unaware of any alleged harassment of Martin by Reinoso until after the decision not to renew was made, when he first learned of the May filing of the EEOC complaint. The filing of the municipal court complaint played no role in the decision, although he did have some awareness that they had been to court. Reinoso "was not convicted" of anything, and as far as Lewis knew the matter was dismissed.

Lewis opined that Martin always had an excuse about the need for her to implement a curriculum strategy. She simply did not do it, and seemed unwilling to try any strategies to accomplish what was necessary. Her inability to co-exist with other staff was also a problem. She would not follow the district's discipline plan, giving the students candy, which brought these matters to his attention when several parents complained to the principal. As for a job description, he found it hard to believe that she did not have one. This should have been supplied to her by the school principal.

Discussion

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that teachers acquire tenure upon the completion of "three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.1 requires that "every board of education . . . shall cause each non-tenure teaching staff member employed by it to be observed and evaluated in the performance of his or her duties at least three times during each school year . . . Said evaluations are to take place before April 30 each year. . . Each evaluation shall be followed by a conference between that teaching staff member and his or her superior or superiors. The purpose of this procedure is to recommend as to reemployment, identify any deficiencies, extend assistance for their correction and improve professional competence." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 b. provides, "A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator."

A local school board has "virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing the contracts of nontenured teachers." Dore v. Board of Education of the Township of Bedminster, Somerset County, 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453 (1982). The board is not limited to acting where the statements presented in its reasons for non-renewal are supported by evaluations for, indeed, the board may reach its conclusion about a non-tenured teacher "on a broad base of input received from a variety of people, including members of the public . . . ." Id. at 454. The breadth of the board's discretion is so great that the Appellate Division has said, "absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." Id. at 456. The board's decision will only be vacated where it acts in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960).

On its face, the board has presented evidence that documents Ms. Martin's three years as a teacher in the district and shows that while at times she appeared to be on the right track, at other times her performance was somewhat less impressive. The appraisals vary to some degree, and it is fair to say that they do not overwhelmingly demonstrate that Ms. Martin could not teach. On a number of occasions even Ms. Calderon gave her decent, even good ratings. Yet, according to Calderon's testimony, as the time for the decision on renewal approached that would have given Martin a contract for a fourth year and with it tenured status, Calderon, the person responsible for special education instruction, concluded that Martin simply was not meeting the standards expected, particularly in the areas identified by the district in its rationale for non-renewal. In her evaluative comments, she noted that some of these problems presented continuing issues, such as the lack of complete plans. Mr. Reinoso's appraisal, performed just a few days after Calderon's, criticized Martin for the way in which she taught the SFA lesson, and noted that she had received prior assistance to help her and remedy deficiencies that she had apparently not utilized. Thus, as the date of decision approached, the last evaluations of Martin's in-class performance were certainly not glowing, clearly documenting problems observed that, given the board's great discretion, could, even if standing by themselves, support its decision. Further, several of the areas were found deficient at various times throughout Martin's three years in the district. However, as the record reveals, if the board's evidence is believed, the board's decision is supported by much more. Specifically, the petitioner seemed to have a disturbing problem with interacting successfully with other staff members with whom she was required to work, whether it was Ms. Barnes, Ms. Ownes or Ms. Furlong. If it is accepted that she did in fact not get along with these persons, and that as a result of this discord, substantially traceable to her as opposed to the others, the district was required to continually referee disputes, change assignments and, not incidentally, that such turmoil had some negative impact on the classroom settings in which children were expected to learn, then, either coupled with, or separate from the appraisals, the board's decision would surely pass the reasonableness standard.

It is recognized that the issue of Martin's alleged difficulties in interpersonal relationships was not identified by the Board as a stated rationale for non-renewal in its formal reply to Martin's demand for reasons. It no doubt would have been appropriate for the Board to have included this in its reply, although it must be clearly emphasized here that the evidence presented in support of the stated rationale, if ultimately credited, would be readily sufficient to pass the test of reasonableness. However, I do not believe that the failure to list this additional ground is fatal to the board's ability to rely, at least in part, on this factor as well. No doubt the statute intends that the Board advise the teacher of the reasons for non-renewal, but, as the court in Dore noted, the board could rely upon a reason for non-renewal, such as the failure of the employee to maintain a deportment appropriate to a public meeting of a local governmental body, and could in fact rely on this as the sole reason for its decision, even though an examination of the decision indicates that this reason was not listed in the board's rationale provided in accordance with the statute. Dore, supra, at 451-456.

Kopera places an extremely high burden on someone seeking to overturn a board decision not to renew. In her attempt to meet that standard, Ms. Martin must demonstrate that the board's decision not to renew her contract was so far afield, so outside the realm of rational, evidentially based decision-making as to fail to even stand as a reasonable determination. To do that she contends that from the beginning Mr. Reinoso displayed an unusual interest in her, sought to develop a relationship with her outside the school building, and attempted to "persuade" her to do his bidding, at least in school if not also outside of school, by telling her of his power and influence within the district and community of Asbury Park. Ultimately, her allegations led to an EEOC complaint charging sexual harassment, but as this charge was not filed at EEOC until after the documented date on which Dr. Lewis notified her of the non-renewal recommendation, the filing of the complaint cannot, in itself, be given any weight as a motivation for a retaliatory action by the district or as otherwise playing a part in the recommendations that Reinoso made to Lewis before that notice was issued to Martin. The allegation that Reinoso might have been attempting to develop a sexual relationship with Martin, or even that he otherwise may have harassed her, is troubling. He completely denies any such misconduct, and as Dr. Lewis correctly noted, Reinoso was never "convicted" of anything. But in assessing the question of whether the board's non-renewal decision was arbitrary and unreasonable, it must be remembered that the evidential basis upon which the superintendent's recommendation was made is broader than merely Reinoso's unfavorable appraisal. Ms. Martin clearly believed that others were acting in concert with Reinoso, and therefore Calderon's 2003 appraisal must be dismissed as tainted. However, having reviewed the documentation and assessed the credibility of the testimony, I FIND no evidence that would support any conclusion that Ms. Calderon gave anything but her honest appraisal of Martin's work. Further, despite Martin's claim that Ms. Barnes stated that she was related to Calderon, I FIND that Calderon testified truthfully that they were not related. I FIND no evidence to support any suggestion or implication that the problems that arose between Ms. Barnes and Ms. Martin, or between Ms. Furlong and Ms. Martin, or, despite her suggestions otherwise, the problems between Ms. Ownes and Ms. Martin, were the result of any plot, conspiracy or collusion between these individuals and Reinoso, or that Dr. Lewis was working with Reinoso to drum up reasons to support non-renewal or that he was a part of any conspiracy.

Decisions related to the competence of teachers to perform their work within a school district are necessarily affected by subjective reactions and sometimes by differing views on effective methods. Interpersonal relationships are an important aspect of employment, and in situations where teachers are required to work together in a classroom, it is essential that they at least maintain a calm, cooperative environment in which children can learn. The record here is replete with information that supports the conclusion that in Ms. Martin's case, she could, or would, not do this. As much as she tried to throw the blame for these interpersonal problems on others, I am not convinced that they were at fault. That is not to say that in some instances problems arose between Martin and her fellow teachers that could not be laid at the doorstep of the other person involved. Martin may well not have been wholly to blame for each and every problem. But there is enough credible evidence to support the conclusion that she was a difficult member of the staff and that each year she could not get along with someone she had to work with in the classroom. A board of education confronting a decision as to whether to continue to employ a teacher who has not yet attained tenure can of course consider whether retaining that person will likely promote continued tension and disruption within the staff. This is a completely legitimate factor that can reasonably lead to the conclusion that it is best to avoid such future turmoil. In this case, the evidence is that these interpersonal problems started very early in Martin's career in Asbury.

The Adult School Issue

As has been noted above, Ms. Martin also claims that the board improperly denied her a new contract for a position teaching in the evening adult school operated by the district. Further, she apparently claims that renewal of her contract with the district for a fourth year as a teacher in the mandatory daytime school program operated by the district would grant her tenure that would secure her position in the Adult School as well. The board, which of course contends that its decision not to renew her contract with the district effectively terminated her employment before she acquired tenure, additionally argues that no tenure status can be achieved in the Adult School teaching position. In Capella v. Board of Education of the Camden County Vocational Technical School, 145 N.J. Super. 209 (App. Div. 1976), guidance counselors employed for more than three academic years in an adult evening high school, working three hours a night for two evenings a week, argued that they had achieved tenure in this positions, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The court relied upon several grounds to conclude that the school laws "cannot be construed so as to confer tenure in these part-time positions." Id. at 215. Among these were its analysis that the school laws "indicate that tenure was to attach only in those school programs which are required to be provided by a school system, and not in optional programs as an adult evening high school which a board of education "may" maintain." Id. at 214. However, following upon the later case of Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982), which critically assessed the Capella ruling, subsequent cases decided by administrative law judges and the Commissioner have determined that Capella is no longer good law and that even the "mandatory" or "optional" nature of the program does not matter. See, Trenton Education Association v. Trenton Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 777; Bergen County Vocational-Technical Schools Education Association, Inc. v. Board of Education of the Bergen County Vocational School District, OAL DKT. EDU 5971-82 (August 15, 1983), aff'd,

Commissioner of Education (October 3, 1983). Thus, teachers who serve even in a non-mandatory night adult high school may obtain tenure if they meet the test of the statute, which requires that they have served for (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year, or (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years. In addition, the teacher must hold a state-issued teaching certificate that is appropriate for the position held.

Given the current state of the law, tenure might be achieved by a teacher in the adult school. But in order to attain that status, the teacher must have served the required time under one of the three alternatives offered by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The petitioner has not shown that she meets this requirement. The credible evidence here is that teachers were not automatically retained in the adult school from year to year. They served on a one-year basis. Despite the fact that if she had received a sufficient number of yearly appointments she would be eligible for tenure, Ms. Martin has not shown that she served for three academic years and then did so at the beginning of the following academic year, nor has she asserted that she meets the other time factors that are alternatives under the statute. Further, as her attempt to overturn the board's decision not to renew her contract has failed, she cannot achieve tenure in the Adult School on the basis that the board wrongly deprived her of her fourth, or tenure, year, in the district. Thus, to the extent that she claims tenure in the adult school, that claim must fail.

I CONCLUDE that the superintendent had ample reasonable grounds to determine that non-renewal was appropriate due to Ms. Martin's demonstrated difficulties in meeting the standards expected of a teacher in Asbury Park, as well as her demonstrated difficulties with interpersonal relationships with staff members, problems that affected the school environment for children and staff as well. Ms. Martin has failed to meet her burden of demonstrating that the decision not to renew her contract was unreasonable. Therefore, her request that the Commissioner overturn that decision must be DENIED and the appeal DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner charged that, in violation of law, the Board reduced his salary for the 2003-2004 school year. As shown on the attached Stipulation of Settlement, the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 22, 2003, the verified petition was filed with the Department of Education (DOE). N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. The DOE transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on August 19, 2003. N.J.S.A.52:14B-2(b). On December 10, 2003, the attorneys and I engaged in a telephone conference. The case was scheduled for a hearing to begin on May 3, 2004, but at petitioner's attorney's request the hearing was adjourned from that date. The case was scheduled for a hearing to begin on July 14, 2004, but at respondent's attorney's request the hearing was adjourned from that date. On July 22, 2004, petitioner's attorney moved for a decision on the pleadings and the attorneys and I engaged in a settlement conference. On July 26, 2004, respondent's attorney notified the OAL that the case had been settled, conditioned on approval by the Board of Education (BOE). On September 23, 2004, the parties submitted the executed Stipulation of Settlement and BOE Resolution approving the settlement. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The petitioner understood the Stipulation of Settlement and the parties voluntarily entered in to it.

2. The Stipulation of Settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

The case involved substantial issues of fact. The Stipulation of Settlement avoids the time and expense of full hearing and further litigation. The terms of the Stipulation of Settlement are reasonable and in the public interest.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This Stipulation of Settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and should be approved. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 352-10/04

IN THE MATTER OF ANNE PIRILLO, :
WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY. : DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission"), including the recommended penalty of censure, have been reviewed.

This matter comes before the Commissioner to impose a sanction upon Respondent Anne Pirillo, former member of the Washington Township Board of Education, based upon findings of fact and conclusions of law by the Commission that she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) of the School Ethics Act when she was present at, and participated in, discussions during the October 15, 2003 meeting of the Business Affairs Committee. At that meeting, bids for the purchase of new copiers were discussed, and one of the bidders was a company in which respondent's husband possessed a financial interest. The Commission found that respondent's statements at the meeting could have had a beneficial impact on the bid offered by her husband's company, and stressed that respondent had an obligation under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) not to act in her official capacity in any matter involving her husband's company, including being present during the aforementioned discussions.

Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, respondent was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration. No comments, however, were submitted by respondent, or on her behalf.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that censure is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that, in recommending a penalty for the violations found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offenses and weighed the effects of aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Anne Pirillo be censured as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
ANNE PIRILLO	:	Docket No. C12-04
WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION	:
GLOUCESTER COUNTY	:	DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Complainant, Ray Montgomery, filed a complaint against Anne Pirillo, who, at the time of the complaint, was a member of the Washington Township Board of Education (Board). The complaint was filed on February 26, 2004, alleging violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a), (c) and (f) of the School Ethics Act (Act). Specifically, Mr. Montgomery alleged that Ms. Pirillo attended and participated in discussions during the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting when bids for the purchase of new copiers were discussed and one of the vendors that had submitted a bid was a company in which her husband possessed a financial interest. On March 5, 2004, the Commission sent the complaint to Ms. Pirillo notifying her that she had 20 days from receipt of the complaint to file an answer with the Commission. On March 30, 2004, the Commission sent a letter to Ms. Pirillo notifying her that, per a conversation with Greg Santori, Esq., she had been granted a 10 day extension to file an answer. On April 16, 2004, the Commission received a letter from Mr. Santori that confirmed his representation of Ms. Pirillo and notified the Commission that Ms. Pirillo elected not to submit a written statement in opposition to the complaint since she intended to resign from the Board.

On April 27, 2004, the Commission sent a letter to Mr. Santori indicating that Ms. Pirillo's resignation did not make the complaint moot, but only made certain penalties moot. It further provided notification that the Commission, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.10(e), deemed each allegation in the complaint as admitted due to Ms. Pirillo's failure to answer the complaint and would discuss the complaint at its May 25, 2004 meeting.

At the May 25, 2004 meeting, the Commission heard testimony from Kim Belin and Karl Feltes, both from the Office of Compliance Investigation in the Department of Education. The Commission tabled the complaint until the June meeting in order to obtain further information from the complainant. The complainant submitted additional information to the Commission on June 17, 2004. At its public meeting on June 22, 2004, the Commission voted to dismiss the allegation that Ms. Pirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(a) and voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Ms. Pirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (f). The reasons for this decision were set forth in a probable cause decision dated July 9, 2004.

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised Mr. Santori that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Mr. Santori was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission within 30 days of the date of the probable cause decision and set forth why the Commission should not find Anne Pirillo in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (f) for attending and participating in discussions during the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting when bids for the purchase of new copiers were discussed and one of the vendors that had submitted a bid was a company in which her husband possessed a financial interest. He was also told that his written submission should include the respondent's position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated.

Mr. Santori submitted a timely response on August 9, 2004, which included a written statement from Ms. Pirillo. Ms. Pirillo set forth in her statement that because of her experience in the business, she thought that her presence in the deliberations would be helpful for the Board. She noted that in filing her ethics disclosure statement that she had disclosed her husband's interest to the Board. Ms. Pirillo further set forth that the business administrator was told by the counsel for the Board that it was not a conflict of interest if the contract was bidded upon or awarded to her husband due to the fact that she did not hold an interest in Panasonic of Southern NJ/Tri State Office Solutions (Panasonic), a company in which her husband possessed a financial interest. She also argued that she did not make any statements regarding her husband's company and the statements she did make did not shed any favor on her husband's bid. She denied giving her husband information to cause him to resubmit his bid and explained that it was a conversation with the business administrator that caused her husband to resubmit his bid. She stated that she had no intentions to further her husband's business or to gain privileged information or contacts. Mr. Santori requested the Commission to seriously consider imposing a reprimand in the event that the Commission determines that a violation of the Act has occurred, especially given that Ms. Pirillo has resigned from the Board. He argued that Ms. Pirillo made a full disclosure of her husband's interest in the company and she reasonably believed that her attendance at the October 15, 2003 meeting would assist the Business Affairs Committee in reaching a decision.

The Commission discussed Ms. Pirillo's response at its August 24, 2004 meeting. The Commission voted to find Ms Pirillo in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (f) and recommended a penalty of censure in light of the fact that she is no longer a Board member.

FACTS

The Commission was able to discern the following facts based on the pleadings, documents submitted and testimony.

In October 2002, Ms. Pirillo was appointed to the Board and, subsequently, in April 2003, she was elected to the Board. She resigned from the Board effective April 20, 2004. Up until May 2003, she was employed in the photo-copying industry by Panasonic of Southern NJ/Tri State Office Solutions (Panasonic), a company in which her husband possesses a financial interest. Following her election to the Board, Ms. Pirillo was appointed to serve on the Business Affairs Committee.

During the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting, Ms. Pirillo was present during a review and discussion of bids submitted from commercial vendors in response to a solicitation from the district for photo-copying equipment to replace the district's copiers. One of the four bids that were reviewed and discussed was from Panasonic. Based on Ms. Pirillo's written statement that was included in a response from Mr. Santori to the Commission's probable cause determination, Ms. Pirillo made two statements during the October 15, 2003 meeting. The first statement was regarding the reputation of one of the companies that submitted a bid because "...it was well known throughout the industry that they had several issues regarding service." The second statement was about an aspect of a contract submitted by another company that may have thrown off the figures in comparison to the other companies.

During the Business Affairs Committee meeting, the district's purchasing agent discussed with the committee the district's preference for the configuration of copier models submitted by Xerox. The district's purchasing agent adjusted the bid amounts for the bids from the three other vendors to correspond to the bid offered by Xerox. The vendors were not notified by the district of this adjustment. Meanwhile, Panasonic submitted a modified quotation dated October 17, 2003, two days after the Business Affairs Committee meeting. Based on the bid amount adjustment, Panasonic's price quotation became the lowest bid. On October 28, 2003, the Board approved the award of a contract to Panasonic. In the public meeting, Ms. Pirillo abstained from the vote awarding the contract to Panasonic.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause to credit the allegation that Anne Pirillo's attendance at and participation in discussions during the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and (f) of the Act.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) sets forth:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

In order to find that a board member has violated subsection 24(c), the Commission looks to whether a school official or a member of his immediate family has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. Ms. Pirillo's husband falls within the definition of "member of immediate family," pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23. The Commission must next determine if Ms. Pirillo's husband had a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair Ms. Pirillo's objectivity or independence of judgment in acting in her official capacity. In this case, Ms. Pirillo's husband has a direct financial involvement in Panasonic since he possessed a financial interest in Panasonic. This direct financial involvement on the part of her husband might reasonably be expected to impair Ms. Pirillo's objectivity or independence of judgment because the contract could result in increased income to her husband and thus the household. Although Ms. Pirillo abstained from the Board vote to award the contract to Panasonic, she was present at and participated in discussions during the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting when a bid submitted by Panasonic was reviewed and discussed. The Commission noted in SEC v. Michael Kilmurray, C12-94 (January 27, 1998) that "when a school official has a conflict of interest of which the public is aware, and that school official goes behind closed doors when that item is discussed, the situation creates a justifiable impression among the public that their trust is being violated." In Kilmurray, the Commission noted that the public may believe that a board member that sits in on a private session discussion regarding his sister-in-law is actively participating in the discussion behind closed doors, that the board member will tell his relative what was said, or at the least, that the other board members will be inhibited in their discussion of the matter because of his presence.

In the present case, Ms. Pirillo was present at and participated in a discussion related to a bid submitted by the company in which her husband had a financial interest. She made two comments during those discussions regarding two of the other companies that had also submitted bids. The first comment was about the bad reputation of one of the four companies that had submitted bids to the Board. The second comment was about an aspect of a contract offered by one of the four companies that would have thrown off the figures in comparison to the other companies. In Ms. Pirillo's statement in response to the Commission's probable cause determination, Ms. Pirillo argues that she never made any statements regarding her husband's company and that none of the statements she made shed favor on his bid. The Commission disagrees that her statements did not shed favor on her husband's company. By commenting on one of the other companies in comparison to her husband's company and by commenting on the bad reputation of one of the other companies, Ms. Pirillo did make statements in violation of subsection 24(c) that could have had a beneficial impact on the bid from her husband's company.

Ms. Pirillo also argues that the business administrator was told by the counsel for the Board that it was not a conflict of interest if the contract was bidded upon or awarded to her husband due to the fact that she did not own an interest in her husband's company. The Commission agrees that the Board could have accepted a bid from her husband's company and could have entered into a contract with that company. However, Ms.

Pirillo had an obligation under subsection 24(c) not to act in her official capacity in any matter involving her husband's company, including being present during discussions related to her husband's company and participating in those discussions. For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Ms. Pirillo's attendance at and participation in the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Finally, both Mr. Santori and Ms. Pirillo argue that Ms. Pirillo made a full disclosure of her husband's interest in the company and reasonably believed that her attendance at the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting would be helpful in assisting the committee in reaching a decision. The Commission notes that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(b), the School Ethics Commission disclosure forms are required to be filed with the County Superintendent with an additional copy maintained on file by the local school district. There is no evidence that Ms. Pirillo's disclosure statement was disseminated to the entire Board. Thus, there is no evidence that Ms. Pirillo made a full disclosure of her husband's interest in the company to the members of the Business Affairs Committee or the entire Board. While Ms. Pirillo may have thought that her attendance at the October 15, 2003 meeting would be helpful to the Business Affairs Committee in making a determination, she still had the duty to comply with the Act and not act in her official capacity on any matter where a member of her immediate family has a direct financial interest. Her attendance may have been helpful if her husband's company was not a bidder, but since her husband's company was a bidder, her attendance only raised suspicions that she was there to help her husband.

The Commission also found probable cause to credit the allegations that Anne Pirillo violated of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f) of the Act, which sets forth:

> No school official shall use, or allow to be used, his public office or employment, or any information, not generally available to the members of the public, which he receives or acquires in the course of and by reason of his office or employment, for the purpose of securing financial gain for himself, any member of his immediate family, or any business organization with which he is associated;

Panasonic's resubmission of a bid to the Board just two days after the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting created the appearance that Ms. Pirillo violated subsection 24(f) by providing her husband with information from that meeting to assist in development of the resubmitted bid. Panasonic was the only company of the four bidders to resubmit a bid to the Board. However, in Ms. Pirillo's statement, she denies that she gave her husband any information that caused him to resubmit his bid. She states that it was a conversation with the business administrator that caused her husband to resubmit his bid. Under subsection 24(f), an appearance of a violation is not enough to sustain the finding of a violation, especially in this case where Ms. Pirillo has denied that she gave her husband any information that caused him to resubmit his bid. Therefore, the Commission cannot find a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(f).

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Anne Pirillo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when she was present at and participated in discussions during the October 15, 2003 Business Affairs Committee meeting when bids for the purchase of new copiers were discussed and one of the bidders was a company in which her husband possessed a financial interest. Mr. Santori argues that the sanction should be a reprimand in light of the fact that Ms. Pirillo resigned from the Board. The Commission is not persuaded that the sanction should be a reprimand simply because of the fact that Ms. Pirillo has already resigned from the Board. She was not only present during the discussions at the October 15, 2003 meting, but she made two statements during that meeting. Therefore, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose the highest sanction that he is capable of imposing on a former board member, a penalty of censure.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. Santori may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

CHRISTINE CUTHBERTSON,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,[1]	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the parties' submissions on exception, have been reviewed.

In her exceptions, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the analysis and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), taking issue with the ALJ's characterization of her claim and stating that she is not asking to be paid for non-work days, but rather that she not be docked for non-work days. Petitioner explains:

> [Petitioner] is not claiming that she should be paid for the days in June that followed June 24 (the last day of school in the 2002-2003 school year). In fact, if petitioner were claiming that she should be paid for the non-work days remaining in June 2003, she would be requesting $800 since there were four days in June 2003 that would normally be work days if school had not ended on June 24, 2003 -- that is, June 25, 26, 27 and 30. However, petitioner did not claim that she should be paid for non-work days. She is asserting that she should not be docked for non-work days. The ALJ saw this as "a distinction without a difference." Petitioner asserts that there is a difference. She was forced to request a leave without pay because she had run out of sick days. The respondent requires employees who have run out of sick days to request a leave of absence and grants such a leave without pay.

Petitioner was not on a long-term leave of absence, such as someone on a maternity leave. She had worked the entire year until her surgery on May 22, 2003. As stated in petitioner's initial brief, she is paid on a yearly basis. She is paid an annual salary which is distributed in twenty equal installments over the course of a ten (10) month school year (N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6). The number of working days varies as to each such installment period, but the amount paid does not vary. The only exception is when a deduction of salary is required by virtue of an unauthorized absence on a day when work is scheduled. Therefore, petitioner requests that her pay be docked only for the days that she should have been at work and not for the entire month of June because her contract ran to June 30, 2003. The ALJ notes that, "If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the teachers would have been required to work until then." (Initial Decision, page 8). However, that did not occur. In fact, as stated in the Stipulation of Facts, the last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003.

(Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-3, emphasis in text)[2]

In reply, the Board of Education (Board) counters that petitioner's insistence on using the word "docked" (which has disciplinary connotations) is misplaced, and that the ALJ did, in fact, understand the issue correctly; indeed, in characterizing it as a claim by petitioner to be paid salary totaling $600 for three days beyond the end of the work year, the ALJ has stated precisely what petitioner seeks. The Board also objects to petitioner's claim that she was "forced" to take unpaid leave, when the stipulated facts clearly show that, after being fully advised of her options upon exhaustion of her sick days, petitioner chose to take a leave in order to protect her pension benefits and job status. Finally, the Board objects to petitioner's attempt to argue that she was not on a long-term leave of absence, noting that petitioner was absent approximately six weeks, an extended leave by any standard. The Board states:

[2] Petitioner also notes an incorrect factual statement in the Initial Decision (at 3), pointing out that $1,200 was withheld from petitioner's June 15, 2003 pay while her June 30, 2003 pay was withheld altogether. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) However, it is clear from the ALJ's Findings of Fact and Conclusions (at 8) that the ALJ's "misstatement" reflects nothing more than a lacuna in the transcription of Items 10 and 11 of the parties' joint Stipulation of Facts into the Initial Decision, and that the error had no impact on the ALJ's decision.

> [Petitioner], like any employee on a maternity leave or other leave without pay was not paid for non-work days. As the ALJ noted, the Board was under no obligation to treat [petitioner] differently. [Petitioner] argues that her contract ran through June 30, 2003 and, therefore, she should be paid for the days after the work year ended, after June 24, 2003, as the school year was not extended past June 24, 2003, and other teachers were not required to work. However, unlike other employees who were paid through June 30, the Board could not have required her to work had the school year been extended because she was on leave.
> [Petitioner] argues that the amount paid does not vary and that the only exception is when there is an unauthorized absence. The Board disagrees. Since [petitioner] did not work the full year, her distribution will be different from those employees who worked the full year. [Petitioner] claims to have worked "the entire year..." (citation omitted) and in the same breath states that she began her leave on May 22, 2003. May 22, 2003, was not the end of the school year, as such [petitioner] did not work the "entire year" as other employees.
> [Petitioner] also argues that although teachers would have been required to work had the school year been extended through June 30, 2003, that such should be discounted because it did not occur. However, it is significant because such an extension is always real in school districts and had it occurred, [petitioner], unlike other teachers, could not have been required to work because she made herself unavailable. [Petitioner] requested unpaid leave from May 22, 2003 through the end of her contract year and beyond. The Board agrees with the ALJ that she received exactly what she requested. [Petitioner] is not entitled to pay for a period in which she was unavailable to work and placed on an unpaid leave. (Board's Reply at 3-5)

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks. However petitioner attempts to characterize her situation, the fact remains that the days for which she asks "not to be docked" occurred at a time during which petitioner was on an extended, pre-arranged leave of absence, unpaid as of the date (June 6) on which petitioner exhausted all of her accumulated sick, personal and family days. Once her paid leave was exhausted, petitioner's status by its very nature precluded any entitlement to or expectation of pay for the duration of the leave; it is of no import whatsoever that events transpired so that active teachers, i.e., those not on leave, were not required to report to work on three days falling within the unpaid leave period. In effect, with respect to the days at issue, petitioner is demanding that the Board treat her as an employee not on leave, a position which is simply not tenable under the factual circumstances of this matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [3]

CHRISTINE CUTHBERTSON,
Petitioner,
v.
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL BOARD OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH,
Respondent.

Mary J. Hammer, Esq., for petitioner (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Mary E. Hennessy-Shotter, Esq., for respondent (The Murray Law Firm, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 27, 2004 Decided: September 21, 2004

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 24, 2003, Christine Cuthbertson filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) alleging that respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County (Board), docked her pay for three days at the end of the 2002-2003 school year in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6. On October 14, 2003, the Board filed its answer and affirmative defenses. On November 21, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After a series of telephone conferences with the parties, it was determined that the hearing in this matter could proceed upon the papers. The parties submitted a joint stipulation of facts and exhibits and cross-motions for summary decision. The record closed on August 20, 2004, when the final submissions were received from the parties.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties stipulated the following facts:

1. Petitioner, Christine Cuthbertson, was employed by the respondent, Board, as a teacher for the 2002-2003 school year.

2. Petitioner's annual salary for the 2002-2003 school year was $40,000.

3. As of June 5, 2003, petitioner had exhausted her sick, personal and family illness days for the 2002-2003 school year.

4. Petitioner was advised by the Human Resources staff that she should request a leave of absence since she had exhausted her sick days.

5. Petitioner requested, and was granted, a family medical leave of absence beginning on May 22, 2003, and ending July 18, 2003. The leave of absence was approved without pay from June 6, 2003, to June 30, 2003.

6. The original 2002-2003 school calendar scheduled school to begin for all staff on September 4, 2002, and end on June 18, 2003.

7. The calendar was extended to June 24, 2003, to make up for instruction days missed due to emergency closings throughout the year.

8. The last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003.

9. Petitioner missed thirteen days of work during her unpaid leave of absence in June 2003 on the following dates: June 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 23, 24, 2003.

10. Respondent withheld $1,200 from petitioner's June 30, 2003, pay of $2,000 (gross) due to her absences.

11. Petitioner's payroll record for the 2002-2003 school year is stipulated into the record.

THE APPLICABLE LAW

This appeal is based upon the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, Prolonged Absence Beyond Sick Leave Period, which states:

> When absence, under the circumstances described in section 18A:30-1 of this article, exceeds the annual sick leave and the accumulated sick leave, the board of education may pay any such person each day's salary less the pay of a substitute, if a substitute is employed or the estimated cost of the employment of a substitute if none is employed, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case. A day's salary is defined as 1/200 of the annual salary.

Sick leave is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 as follows:

> Sick leave is hereby defined to mean the absence from his or her post of duty, of any person because of personal disability due to illness or injury, or because he or she has been excluded from school by the school district's medical authorities on account of a contagious disease or of being quarantined for such a disease in his or her immediate household.

This is a statutory managerial prerogative that the Board can not bargain away. Board of Educ. of Piscataway v. Piscataway Maint. and Custodial Ass'n, 152 N.J. Super. 235, 244 (App. Div. 1977). The payment of salary for prolonged absence beyond a sick leave period is clearly a matter within the Board's discretion to determine on a case-by-case basis:

> Our concern is over the payment of salary, in whole or in part, for prolonged absence beyond the allowable annual or accumulated sick leave. As to such payment, the controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, plainly leaves the matter to the discretion of the local board of education, which may pay any such person each day's salary, less the pay or estimated cost of a substitute, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case.
> [Id. at 246.]

As a result, I CONCLUDE that the discretionary action of the Board in this matter is subject to review only to determine whether it was arbitrary and capricious. Matawan Reg. Teachers Ass'n v. Board of Educ. of the Matawan-Aberdeen Reg. Sch. Dist., 202 N.J. Super. 142, 148 (App. Div. 1985).

THE POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's argument is basically that she did not have to work from June 24 to June 30, 2003, because no teachers were required to work during that period and, therefore, she should not be docked for those days even though she requested, and received prior approval for, unpaid sick leave "through the end of the school year." She seeks to recover three days' salary, or $600, for the additional time her pay was docked beyond the end of the actual work year. The amount of recovery sought is not in dispute.

Respondent replies that Cuthbertson requested unpaid leave through June 30, 2003, and even beyond. The school year was originally scheduled to end on June 18, 2003, but had to be extended because of emergency closings during the year.

Although no teacher was called upon to work after June 24, 2003, had the school year been extended further because of closings, Cuthbertson would not have been available for work because of her approved unpaid leave. The Board further points out that, if she were absent on an approved unpaid leave at any other time during the school year, she would not have been paid for snow days and holidays during her leave period even though these were non-work days; at most, her leave time might have been extended. Respondent further states that Cuthbertson never requested that her paid sick leave benefits be extended past June 24, 2003, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6.

Petitioner cites Oteri v. Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia, 1980 S.L.D. 954, in support of her application for reimbursement of salary for the three docked days. In that case, the petitioner, a teacher, was out sick, not on a requested unpaid leave, during the final days of the school year. The Magnolia Board withheld her salary for the period from June 15 through June 30, when school was not in session, on the grounds that she had received benefits from a private insurance carrier based upon her absence from work due to illness. Oteri argued that the final days of the school year are no different from other days of the year, such as holidays, when absent teachers are not required to work, and, therefore, she should be paid for them. The administrative law judge who held the hearing determined under the circumstances of that case that Oteri could not be denied salary through June 30 for the reasons expressed by the Magnolia Board. His Initial Decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education.

Respondent argues that Oteri does not govern the outcome in the present matter since Oteri never asked for nor received an unpaid leave of absence as Cuthbertson did. The Board did not pay Cuthbertson for the remainder of June 2003 because she requested unpaid leave in advance through, and after, June 30, 2003. In this way, Cuthbertson, unlike Oteri, made herself unavailable to work during the final days of her contract year. The analysis in Oteri of payment for snow days and holidays is irrelevant to the present matter because the instant case deals with a requested and approved unpaid leave. The situations are not analogous.

Cuthbertson suggests that the Board required her to request the leave of absence since she had exhausted all of her paid leave time. However, as respondent points out, had she not done so she would have been absent without permission which could have caused her to lose her job.

The Board states that all leaves granted run until the return date for the employee or the last date of their contract. No employees on unpaid maternity leave were paid for holidays and vacations as other, active, employees were. None of them were paid after the last day of school because of their leave status. Petitioner should not be treated any differently than these employees. Cuthbertson did not dispute these facts in any of her papers; she simply claims that they are irrelevant to her situation.

REVIEW OF DOCUMENTS

On May 29, 2003, Cuthbertson wrote a memorandum to Margaret Alago concerning a "Payroll Change." The memorandum states:

> I will be out of work through the end of this school year due to a surgical procedure. My leave began on May 22, 2003. I will return for the new school year in September 2003.
>
> Kindly use the balance of my sick days, personal days and family illness day to pay me.
>
> [Emphasis added.]

Cuthbertson submitted a second memorandum to Alago on the same date requesting family leave. It states:

> This is a request to take 6 weeks of family leave, due to a surgical procedure I recently had. The leave would begin on May 22, 2003 and last for 6-8 weeks. Thank you.

It should be mentioned at this point that a leave for six to eight weeks from May 22, 2003, would have ended on July 3, or July 17, 2003, respectively. Both dates fall after June 30, 2003, the end of her contract year.

A note from Cuthbertson's surgeon, dated June 3, 2003, states that she would be unable to return to work after surgery before July 18, 2003.

On June 4, 2003, Thomas G. Dunn, Jr., superintendent of schools, recommended to the Board that Cuthbertson be granted a medical leave of absence, without pay, from June 6, 2003, through June 30, 2003. The unpaid leave was to begin on June 6 because petitioner exhausted all of her paid leave as of June 5, 2003. The leave ended on June 30, 2003, because Cuthbertson's contract year ended on that date, even though she actually requested unpaid leave into July 2003.

Cuthbertson's leave without pay from June 6 through June 30, 2003, was approved by the Board on June 26, 2003, and presented in the Personnel Report of the superintendent of that date.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS

Based upon the stipulated facts, the documentary evidence and the briefs of the parties, I FIND the following facts:

1. Cuthbertson asked for an unpaid leave of absence from June 6 through July 3 or July 17, 2003.

2. At the time of her request, she indicated that she would not return to work until September 2003, the beginning of the next school year. Therefore, there is no merit to her suggestion that she actually asked for unpaid leave until the end of the school year as opposed to the end of her contract year.

3. The Board granted her request although it terminated her leave as of June 30, 2003, the last day of her contract.

4. The school year was supposed to end on June 18, 2003, but teachers were required to work through June 24 to make up for days missed on account of weather. If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the teachers would have been required to work until then.

5. Cuthbertson was not available to work after June 24, 2003, because she was on sick leave. The Board could not have required her attendance under any circumstances. She specifically informed the Board in May 2003 that she would not return to work until the start of the next school year.

6. Cuthbertson says that her final pay period was the last two full weeks of June and she is not asking to be paid for June 30, 2003. She claims that she should not have been docked for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because none of the other teachers had to work on those three days.

7. Petitioner attempts to distinguish her situation, in which she appeals having her pay docked for three days, from the situation covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, by claiming that she is not asking the Board to pay her for those three days. Since the end result is the same in both cases, this is a distinction without a difference.

8. Petitioner received exactly what she requested when she sought her unpaid leave of absence. She had every reason to know from the outset that she would not be paid for the remainder of her contract year because that is precisely what she asked for.

9. The Board has no obligation to treat her any differently than it treats other teachers in similar circumstances.

10. There is no equitable reason to require the Board to pay Cuthbertson for June 25, 26, and 27, 2003.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that it was reasonable, not arbitrary and capricious, for the Board to deny Cuthbertson's request to be paid for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because she was on a requested unpaid leave at the time. The petitioner can not circumvent the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6 by characterizing discretionary payments as "docking."

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board's decision not to pay Cuthbertson for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, is hereby AFFIRMED and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and advisement of petitioner's failure to appear transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4, along with a copy of the notification sent to the parties by OAL on September 8, 2004, providing petitioner ten days to submit an explanation for such nonappearance, have been reviewed. There being no explanation filed by petitioner, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice due to petitioner's failure to appear at hearing or provide an explanation for his nonappearance.

Notwithstanding the dismissal of the petition, the Commissioner notes that the Board's Answer in this residency matter contained a counterclaim for tuition which was left unresolved by the Administrative Law Judge. In that the record before the Commissioner contains no affidavit of a responsible Board official attesting to the amount of tuition claimed by the Board as a consequence of the ineligible attendance of petitioner's two children in its schools, this matter is hereby remanded to the OAL for supplementation of the record in this regard and an appropriate recommended order regarding the payment of tuition.

IN THE MATTER OF REMOND PALMER,	:
ASBURY PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") finding that Asbury Park Board of Education (Board) member Remond Palmer violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and (e) of the Code of Ethics for School Board Members of the School Ethics Act (Act), and recommending a penalty of removal from his position as a member of the Board, have been reviewed. Upon issuance of the decision of the Commission, Mr. Palmer was provided 13 days from the mailing date of the decision to file written comments on the recommended penalty for the Commissioner's consideration.

No comments were filed by Mr. Palmer.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon a finding of a violation by the Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that removing Remond Palmer from his position as a member of the Board is the appropriate penalty in this matter for the reasons expressed in the Commission's decision. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that, in recommending a penalty for the violations it found, the Commission fully considered the nature of the offense and weighed the effects of aggravating circumstances.[1] Therefore, the Commission's recommended penalty in this matter will not be disturbed.

Accordingly, IT IS hereby ORDERED that Remond Palmer be removed from his position as a member of the Board as of the date of the filing of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Thomas R. Kobin, Esq. (Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello, P.C.)

For Respondent, Michael J. Herbert, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter originally came before the Commissioner of Education on November 5, 2004 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal and Motion for Injunctive Relief by the petitioning Board of Education of the City of Union seeking to enjoin the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) from issuing high school playoff brackets for football on Monday, November 8, 2004. On that date, the NJSIAA Executive Committee was also scheduled to hear petitioner's appeal of its disqualification from participating in the football playoffs because three of its players had been disqualified for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct. Following a conference call including the parties and the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, it was agreed that the NJSIAA Executive Committee would issue two playoff brackets, one with and one without petitioner's participation so that, in the event petitioner was not successful in its appeal before the NJSIAA Executive Committee, petitioner would have the time to pursue an appeal to the Commissioner. (Letter on Behalf of Petitioner, dated November 5, 2004) Accordingly, the Commissioner did not issue a ruling on the Board's motion.

On November 8, 2004, the NJSIAA Executive Committee denied petitioner's appeal. Accordingly, on November 9, 2004, petitioner filed an Amended Petition and a brief in support thereof seeking reversal of the November 8, 2004 final decision of New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) which concluded that Union Hill High School (Union Hill) may not participate in the football playoffs because it had three player disqualifications for "flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct," pursuant to NJSIAA Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., p. 92. On November 10, 2004, the NJSIAA submitted a Brief in Opposition to the Motion for Emergent Relief, along with the underlying record of proceedings before the NJSIAA, in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.1 et seq. In that petitioner's motion sought to enjoin NJSIAA from establishing playoff brackets prior to the hearing of its appeal before the NJSIAA Executive Committee and that aspect of petitioner's motion was addressed by the establishment of the contingency brackets as noted above and the hearing of its appeal before the NJSIAA Executive Committee, and in that the parties have provided sufficient information for the Commissioner to proceed on the merits, the Commissioner has determined to render a determination on the merits in this matter.

The material facts and procedural history of this matter are as follows: On September 10, 2004, Union Hill participated in a football game with Dickinson High School. Union Hill was winning the game 47-0 and, therefore, petitioner's coach put many of the junior varsity players into the game. A physical altercation, lasting 34 seconds, occurred between the players of the two teams. As a result, three of the petitioner's junior varsity players, two of whom were special education students with aggressive behavior issues, and two of Dickinson's players, were ejected from the game for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct. This was the only time since Coach Joseph Rotondi became coach in 1998 that petitioner's players have been disqualified for flagrant unsportsmanship violations. Although NJSIAA rules require only that a school impose a one-game suspension for such offense, petitioner subsequently gave a two-day suspension to two of its disqualified players and a one-day suspension to the other.

On September 14, 2004, the game's officials filed a "Disqualification Form" with the NJSIAA indicating that three of petitioner's players had been ejected from the game for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct. As a result, NJSIAA barred petitioner from participating in the upcoming football playoffs, pursuant to a new rule, Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., p.92, adopted for the 2004-05 school year. Petitioner states that it became aware it had been barred from the playoffs through a newspaper article and, by letter of November 1, 2004 notified NJSIAA that it wished to appeal the NJSIAA's decision. On or about November 1, 2004, petitioner was notified that its appeal before the NJSIAA Executive Committee would occur at 10:00 a.m. on November 8, 2004. Following a hearing on November 8, 2004, the Executive Committee determined that petitioner was barred from participating in the football playoffs because three of its players had been disqualified for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct.

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Petitioner contends that the NJSIAA's application of Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., p. 92, under these facts, is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. (Brief in Support of Petition of Appeal at 6) Petitioner points out that the Regulation at issue states:

> Any varsity team accumulating three or more player or coach disqualifications for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct prior to the start of an NJSIAA tournament will not be permitted to participate in same. Seeded teams will forfeit their right to compete if a disqualification limit is reached prior to the start of the tournament for the team. (Amended Verified Petition, Ex. 2, Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., p. 92)

Petitioner contends that the above rule clearly applies to a situation where there are three separate incidents and that the clear purpose of the rule in allowing two disqualifications before being barred from tournament play was to allow coaches and players to correct egregious conduct as in a "three strikes you are out" concept. (Brief in Support of Petition of Appeal at 6) Petitioner notes that it did act to take corrective action by suspending two of the three students for two games and the other one for one game and that there have been no subsequent incidents. (Id. at 7) Since all three disqualifications occurred in a single incident in this case, petitioner argues that three disqualifications should count as one chance because by "merging" these three disqualifications, Union Hill, in essence, was only given one chance. (Ibid. at 7)

Petitioner further contends that, since the present coach became head coach in 1998, the team has had no other flagrant disqualifications and that it is an injustice for such a team to be so severely sanctioned for one incident. (Id. at 8) Petitioner asserts that the videotapes show that the number of Dickinson players involved in the altercation exceeded the number of Union Hill players, and it claims that Union Hill players were the victims, not the aggressors. (Id. at 9) Petitioner finds it ironic that the player it alleges started the fight was not ejected. (Ibid.)

Petitioner also argues that it should not be barred from the playoffs because the rule in question applies to varsity teams and that, at the time of the altercation, the entire varsity team had been taken out and replaced by junior varsity players because Union Hill was ahead 47-0. (Id. at 10) Moreover, petitioner takes issue with the NJSIAA's Executive Committee finding that the intent of the rule is to cover situations such as the one herein, arguing that the rule, which is new, is impermissibly vague in attempting to portray that intent and, thus, to apply the rule in this manner to the facts of this case is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. (Ibid.) Petitioner also contends that the rule, on its face, applies only to varsity teams. (Id. at 11) In addition, petitioner points out that two of the students disqualified were special education students with aggressive behavior issues, which, petitioner argues, provides an additional reason why a team should be given an opportunity to take corrective action. (Ibid.) Petitioner also notes that, in the event that the NJSIAA decision is reversed, it will participate in the playoffs as the number 8 seed and would play the number one seed, which is currently scheduled for a "bye." (Amended Verified Petition, number 35 at 6-7) Thus, petitioner contends, if it gets into the playoffs, no other team will be bumped from the playoffs. (Id. at 7)

Finally, petitioner avers that NJSIAA failed to provide due process and failed to consider all the facts when it did not view the videotapes petitioner provided and when it did not allow the referee to be questioned by petitioner. (Brief in Support of Petition of Appeal at 14) Petitioner contends that there was clearly a disagreement between petitioner and the referee and that reviewing the tapes would have conclusively resolved the discrepancies. (Id. at 13) Moreover, in that the referee's testimony was very damaging to its case, petitioner submits, "[f]or the Committee to hear the referee's version of the facts, without viewing the videotape, constitutes a lack of due process, and a patent failure to consider all the available evidence." (Ibid.) Additionally, petitioner contends that the Executive Committee asked the referee questions, but would not allow it to do so. (Id. at 14) Accordingly, petitioner concludes, the NJSIAA Executive Committee acted arbitrarily and capriciously and the NJSIAA's decision, therefore, must be reversed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4 so that Union Hill will be entered into the playoffs. (Id. at 15)

NJSIAA'S POSITION

The NJSIAA contends that the rule in question, Specific Sport Regulation 4.f., p. 92, "arose out of a genuine crisis that was occurring with serious fighting and injuries to players in three separate incidents during the 2003-04 school year." (NJSIAA Brief at 9) All of these serious episodes were reported to the NJSIAA and hearings were conducted by the Controversies Committee in April 2003, which issued detailed decisions and penalties against the affected schools and some of the student athletes. (Id. at 2) After the hearings were concluded, the Controversies Committee recommended to the NJSIAA Policy Committee that it consider more substantial penalties against any varsity team accumulating three or more player or coach disqualifications for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct during any season. (Ibid.) The NJSIAA Policy Committee made a number of recommendations, including the adoption of a new rule, known as Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., which provided that "[a]ny varsity team accumulating three or more player or coach disqualifications for flagrant unsportmanlike conduct prior to the start of an NJSIAA tournament will not be permitted to participate in same," and that "Seeded teams will forfeit their right to compete if a disqualification limit is reached prior to the start of the tournament for the team." (Id. at 3) On May 5, 2004, the Executive Committee considered the proposed regulation and on June 2, 2004, the Executive Committee adopted it on second reading. (Ibid. at 3)

In compliance with Article V, Sections 5 and 6, NJSIAA contends, notice was given to all member schools and the regulation was published on the NJSIAA website. (Ibid.) NJSIAA maintains that the new regulation was also included in all tournament regulations issued for each sport, and that mailings, clinics and sectional meetings were conducted throughout the state on the new rule. (Ibid.) NJSIAA submits that, at the November 8 hearing before the Executive Committee, petitioner's Athletic Director acknowledged that he had attended such a clinic and acknowledged his awareness of such a rule. (Id. at 4) NJSIAA further points out that petitioner also signed a Tournament Regulation Card in September 2004, which stated, as follows:

> We verify that our team will have played at least six games against New Jersey Schools prior to the cutoff (70% Rule) and understand that three disqualification (Coaches/Athletes) will disqualify our team. (Ibid., referencing Sands Certification, Exhibit E.)

Additionally, NJSIAA avers that the new rule was included in the 2004-05 NJSIAA Handbook which was distributed to all member schools and their athletic staffs. (Ibid.) NJSIAA contends that it was made clear during the discussions in clinics and sectional meetings about this new rule that multiple disqualifications in one contest would be cumulative, and specific references were made to the Controversies Committee decisions rendered during the 2003-04 school year, all of which involved multiple infractions, wherein several athletes were disqualified. (Ibid.)

NJSIAA submits that "[a]s a direct result of the new rule, disqualifications for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct have been reduced by approximately 40% from the Fall 2004 sports season." (Ibid., emphasis in text) With respect the incident that occurred in the within matter, NJSIAA points out that the head referee described the September 10, 2004 altercation as "the closest thing I came to an all out riot." (Id. at 4)

NJSIAA explains that the Executive Committee conducted a full hearing on November 8, 2004, at which time presentations were given by petitioner's attorney, the Head Coach and the Athletic director. (Ibid.) NJSIAA further avers that it considered petiitoner's brief, and that, after the one-hour presentation and discussions on petitioner's application for a waiver of the Disqualification Rule, the Executive Committee unanimously determined not to grant petitioner's request. (Ibid.) Therefore, petitioner remained disqualified for the 2004 NJSIAA tournament. (Ibid.)

With respect to the Executive Committee's decision not to review the videotape submitted, the NJSIAA reasons that disqualifications cannot be revisited since they were judgment calls by game officials, which are not reviewable under Note 4, and reviewing a videotape would not be relevant to the issue of a waiver. (Id at 7) NJSIAA argues that, aside from the video, petitioner's interpretation of the rule is belied by its plain language and that it was clear that the disqualification rule would apply even if the ejections of players for flagrant misconduct occurred in only one contest. (Id. at 8)

NJSIAA further submits that the rule in question was adopted by the NJSIAA members themselves, and that, when petitioner adopted its resolution joining NJSIAA for this year, it agreed that Specific Sports Regulation, Note 4.f. would be part of its own rules and regulations and that it would be bound by this rule as a voluntary member of NJSIAA. (Id. at 10)

Finally, the NJSIAA points out that the Commissioner has consistently held in cases of tournament disqualification that he will not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA with respect to its rules and regulations unless there is a clear violation of those rules or NJSIAA has acted in a patently arbitrary manner in interpreting or enforcing its regulations. (Id. at 11) In that the rule at issue had a rational basis and was clearly communicated to petitioner and all NJSIAA members, and in that petitioner signed a Tournament Entry Card acknowledging the application of the rule and petitioner was provided with due process in terms of notice and a plenary hearing, none of those factors are present in this instance. (Ibid.)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

The NJSIAA is a voluntary association of public and nonpublic schools, organized pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, to oversee athletics for its member schools in accordance with its Constitution, Bylaws, rules and regulations, which are approved by the Commissioner of Education and adopted annually by the member schools. Upon adoption by the member schools, these rules and regulations are deemed school policy and are enforced by the internal procedures of the NJSIAA.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA determinations is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he would decide differently in a de novo hearing, where due process has been provided and where there is adequate basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA Committees. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259; see, also, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4(a). The scope of the Commissioner's review in NJSIAA matters has also been codified to provide notice of this standard to the public and regulated parties:[1]

> 1. If the NJSIAA has granted a petitioner due process and its decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole, the Commissioner shall not substitute his judgment > for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge otherwise in a de novo review.

> 2. The Commissioner shall not overturn NJSIAA's application of its own rules absent a demonstration by the petitioner that such rules were applied in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7(a).

Moreover, the burden of proof that an action was thus improper rests with the person or entity challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). It must be remembered that the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review is extremely narrow in its scope and, consequently, imposes a heavy burden on those who challenge determinations of the NJSIAA. The standard, as defined by the New Jersey courts, provides:

> In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis.  Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. (citations omitted) Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Upon careful consideration of the record of this matter, and mindful of the applicable standard of review, the Commissioner is satisfied that the decision of the NJSIAA was not arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or violative of law. Initially, in this regard, the Commissioner determines that petitioner was provided with the full measure of due process to which it was entitled. Notwithstanding petitioner's complaint that it was not afforded due process because the Executive Committee did not review the tapes it provided, the Commissioner agrees with NJSIAA that the tapes have no relevance to the interpretation of the rule which is at issue in this manner. Moreover, the Commissioner has reviewed the tapes in question and finds that the NJSIAA's determination denying a waiver of Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f. is only strengthened by such review in that they reflect precisely the type of melee that the regulation seeks to address. Likewise, the Commissioner is not convinced that petitioner's questioning of the referee would have any relevance in this matter in that calls by game officials are not reviewable under Note 4 of the Handbook. Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner was afforded the due process to which it was entitled.

Turning to whether NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, the Commissioner notes that the rule at issue states:

> Any varsity team accumulating three or more player or coach disqualifications for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct prior to the start of an NJSIAA tournament will not be permitted to participate in same. Seeded teams will forfeit their right to compete if a disqualification limit is reached prior to the start of the tournament for the team. (Amended Verified Petition, Ex.. 2, Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., p. 92)

The Commissioner does not find this rule ambiguous as petitioner contends, but, instead, finds that the rule clearly applies to any three disqualifications whether they occur on one occasion or over several occasions. Moreover, petitioner was clearly on notice as to how this rule would be applied.

Additionally, the Commissioner rejects petitioner's contention that the rule should not be applied because the varsity players were not on the field at the time the altercation occurred. Whether the players are on the field are varsity, junior varsity players or a combination of both, when such players are representing the school in a varsity game, they are part of the varsity team. The Commissioner concludes, therefore, that the NJSIAA's decision was reasonable, consistent with Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f., and made after due consideration of the facts in this matter.[2]

Accordingly, having concluded that petitioner was provided the due process to which it was entitled and that petitioner has failed to sustain its burden of establishing that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or violative of law, the Commissioner upholds the NJSIAA's decision and dismisses the Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

[2] Although petitioner briefly references the special education status of two of the students involved, urging that such status is another reason why the team should be given an opportunity to reform its conduct before being disqualified from Tournament play, the Commissioner does not find arguments pertaining to the circumstances of the individual students involved germane to the central question on appeal, that is, whether Specific Sport Regulation, Note 4.f. was properly applied by the NJSIAA to three offenses within a single contest.

BEFORE JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ:

On March 10, 2003 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was scheduled for hearing on several occasions and during that time the parties agreed to settle the matter. On June 21, 2004, the parties submitted a signed Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement. An Initial decision incorporating the settlement terms was also signed by the ALJ on June 21, 2004 and the file was returned to the Agency as a settled case. Upon reviewing the file, the Director of Controversies and Disputes remanded the matter back to the OAL because a signed copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement was not attached. A copy of the resolution is attached hereto and is made apart of the Stipulation of Settlement that was signed by the parties on May 10, 2004.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the Signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs that this matter is properly dismissed, inasmuch as petitioner failed to appear for the hearing and carry her burden of proving that J.W. was entitled to a free public education in respondent's district.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Commissioner directs that petitioner remit to the Board the amount of $2,978.50 for tuition from March 1, 2004 until June 17, 2004, the period of J.W.'s ineligible attendance in the district.

Record Closed: October 4, 2004 Decided: October 5, 2004

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal brought on behalf of a child seeking continued enrollment in the Bloomfield, New Jersey school system. Although the family moved from Bloomfield to Springfield, New Jersey prior to March 1, 2004, the mother sought permission for her child to remain in the Bloomfield school system through the end of 2003-2004 school year. Respondent Bloomfield Board of Education ("Board") filed a counterclaim seeking assessment of tuition prorated to the time of the child's ineligible attendance in the school district.

Procedural History

On April 20, 2004, the mother filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") seeking emergent relief. Thereafter, on May 11, 2004, the Board filed its answer and counterclaim. Meanwhile, on May 4, 2004, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for consideration of petitioner's application for emergent relief.

The OAL held a hearing on May 21, 2004 limited to petitioner's application for emergent relief. By order entered on May 25, 2004, the administrative law judge determined that petitioner "is not legally entitled to attend the Bloomfield school district" and should "be immediately disenrolled from the Bloomfield school district and relocated to the district in which petitioner now resides[.]" The OAL scheduled a full hearing on petitioner's underlying complaint and the Board's counterclaim for October 4, 2004.

Findings of Fact

All of the relevant facts are undisputed. I FIND:

1. During the course of the 2003-2004 school year, the Board obtained information that the student's mother, with whom the student resided, had moved out of Bloomfield to Springfield, New Jersey.

2. At the emergent relief hearing held on May 21, 2004, the mother admitted having moved from Bloomfield to Springfield at the end of February 2004.

This testimony is consistent with information compiled by the school district.

3. Tuition for a 180-day school year at the Franklin School is $7,245.00 or $40.25 per day.

4. Between March 1, 2004 and June 17, 2004 (the last day of school), there were 74 school days.

5. Despite the prior administrative order directing the mother to remove her child from the district, the parent failed to register the child in the Springfield school district. Instead, the child remained in the Bloomfield district throughout the 2003-2004 school year.

6. Accordingly, the amount of tuition owed on the district's counterclaim is 74 times $40.25 or a total of $2,978.50.

7. A transfer card has been sent to the Springfield school district. The mother has not registered her child to attend the Bloomfield public schools for the 2004-2005 school year.

8. On September 28, 2004, the Board advised the OAL that the family had recently moved to an unknown address in another state. Board records contain the Springfield address as the last known address.

9. On September 29, 2004, Anna Leggett, a secretary at the Office of Administrative Law, had a telephone conversation with the mother. Although the mother admitted that she had moved to North Carolina, she was unwilling to reveal her current address.

10. Ms. Leggett reminded the mother that a hearing was scheduled for October 4, 2004 and that attendance was mandatory.

11. Nonetheless, the mother responded that she would not attend the hearing and "would not be back until next year."

12. At the hearing on October 4, 2004, Mr. Wenczel appeared on behalf of the Board. The OAL waited one-half hour before determining that the petitioner had abandoned the request for a hearing.

Conclusions of Law

N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1(a) provides that the public school shall be free to any person over five and under twenty years of age "who is domiciled within the school district." As minor child, petitioner has the same domicile as his custodial parent. When the family moved from Bloomfield to Springfield, petitioner was no longer eligible to attend the Bloomfield public school district free of charge.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1(b), a child must be allowed admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. If, however, the evidence does not support the claim of residence, the Commissioner must assess tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Such tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Previously, on May 21, 2004, the administrative law judge had determined that petitioner was ineligible to attend the Bloomfield school district and must transfer to his new district as of May 21, 2004. Notwithstanding this clear order, the mother continued to send her child to the Bloomfield school district for the remainder of the 2003-2004 school year.

Order

It is ORDERED that petitioner has abandoned the request for a hearing.

And it is further ORDERED that judgment is hereby entered in favor of the Bloomfield Board of Education against petitioner's mother, L.W., in the amount of $2,978.50.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DOLORES I. RABENOU,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF CLIFFSIDE PARK, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner filed timely exceptions pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, to which the Board of Education (Board) duly replied. Petitioner's further submission in response to the Board's reply is not considered herein, since applicable rules make no provision for such submissions.

In her exceptions, Petitioner points to the finding of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), in the Initial Decision at 2, that petitioner requested a leave of absence for maternity purposes, and, from this, concludes that this "factual determinationresolves the matter in favor of the Petitioner.Upon reaching this conclusion as a finding of fact, the Petitioner is now entitled to apply to the TPAF [Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund] to purchase creditfor purposes of her pension. In effect there need be no further proceedings since the Petitioner is now entitled to apply directly to the TPAF for the relief which she has requested. This was a finding of fact which was questioned by the TPAF and is now resolved." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2, quotation at 2) Petitioner further opines that the above-noted finding renders moot the subsequent conclusion that Petitioner's appeal was untimely filed, but in the alternative, reiterates her argument before the ALJ that the 90-day limitation period did not begin until October 28, 2003, when the Board denied petitioner's request to amend its minutes. Petitioner states that she "followed a logical course of action by requesting the local district to amend its erroneous conclusion which the [ALJ] has now determined to be inconsistent with the facts in this matter.Petitioner was pursuing an administrative remedy by requesting the local district to amend its minutes as requested by the TPAF which had denied the Petitioner's request to purchase credits because[the Board] would not correct their mistake in the minutes.Therefore an exception to the [ALJ's] decision is in order as the Petitioner was in the process of attempting to comply with the TPAF request to seek the amendment of the local district's minutes." (Id. at 3-4)

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner is fixing on one finding, i.e., that she requested a leave (Finding No. 1), while ignoring another, i.e., that the Board granted a resignation (Finding No. 3). The Board notes that petitioner's request for a leave is undisputed; the issue of concern to TPAF was not what she requested, but rather what the Board granted. Moreover, the Board observes, the Initial Decision does not even address the merits of petitioner's claim, having been decided solely on the issue of untimely filing; therefore, petitioner cannot claim the ALJ's "conclusions" on the merits render the untimeliness issue moot. (Board's Reply at 2-3) In this latter regard, the Board reiterates its argument, made before the ALJ, to the effect that petitioner's cause of action is not the Board's refusal to amend its minutes, but rather the error they purportedly reflect. (Id. at 3-5)

Upon consideration of the record and the parties' arguments on exception, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the instant matter must be dismissed as untimely filed. Although petitioner couches her complaint as an appeal from the Board's refusal to amend the minutes of its March 13, 1969 meeting, what petitioner is actually appealing, as recognized by the ALJ, is the district's underlying determination to deem her to have resigned by letter of that same date, and not, as she contends, merely to have arranged for a leave of absence which ultimately extended until September 30, 1971, although she did not return to the district thereafter. Clearly, petitioner had notice of the district's official characterization of her status by June or July 2003 at the latest; what she is attempting to overcome by identifying her cause of action as the Board's subsequent refusal to amend its minutes is the unfortunate fact that she did not move to dispute such characterization until she realized its impact on her ability to purchase pension credit, and then waited to file her appeal with the Commissioner until she failed in her attempts to negotiate with the Board. That such attempts do not toll the statute of limitations is by now well established. See, Kaprow, supra; also, Riely v. Hunterdon Central Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109, 413 *A.*2d 628 (App. Div. 1980).[1]

[1] The undisputed documentary record in this matter clearly demonstrates that: petitioner was provided with a copy of her district personnel record by memo from the payroll department dated May 28, 2003; in her response to Interrogatory No. 14, petitioner states that she became aware of the district's "error" on June 15, 2003; a letter from the TPAF dated June 16, 2004 clearly advised that the records provided to the TPAF indicated that petitioner was not employed during the period in question; and petitioner by her own admission received a copy of the Board minutes on July 22, 2003.

Additionally, attempting to plead this matter solely as a challenge to the Board's refusal to amend its meeting minutes would appear to raise a question of jurisdiction, since the Commissioner may hear claims arising under the Open Public Meetings Act only when they are ancillary to a primary school law dispute. Sukin v. Northfield Board of Education, 171 N.J. Super. 184 (App. Div. 1979), Jenkins v. Newark Board of Education, 166 N.J. Super. 357 (Law Div. 1979), aff'd. 166 N.J. Super. 300 (App. Div. 1979) However, that consideration was neither pled nor briefed herein, and need not be addressed given the Commissioner's holding on the timeliness of the Petition.

Additionally, in view of petitioner's statements on exception, the Commissioner stresses that no determination is made herein, or in the Initial Decision, regarding the merits of petitioner's underlying claim; indeed, the ALJ expressly states that her findings of fact are for purposes of deciding the Board's motion to dismiss on grounds of untimely filing, and the Board itself does not dispute petitioner's contention that, by her letter of March 13, 1969, her intent was to request a leave of absence, although that is not what the Board granted.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty against the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, and/or an annual financial disclosure statement, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2004 for school officials in office since January 30, 2004, or 30 days from swearing-in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on August 20, 2004, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 10, 2004, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 17, 2004 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the above-named school official filed the completed disclosure statement thereafter; and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 26, 2004 to recommend a censure of the above-named school official in light of his failure to respond to the Commission's letter before the September 10, 2004 deadline, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated October 28, 2004 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending censure; and

Whereas, no response was received from the above-named school official; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds that the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Denise Irvin-Johnson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner February 11, 2004 and In the Matter of Joel Pabon, Sr., Perth Amboy Board of Education, Middlesex County, decided by the Commissioner February 5, 2004, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official completed and submitted the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause, but did not provide any reasons for failure to comply within the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the appropriate penalty was a reprimand); and

Whereas, the penalty of reprimand has additionally been recommended and imposed under circumstances where noncompliance with the filing requirement was egregious, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Beverly Evenson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington Township, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003 and In the Matter of Lynel Dunkins, Gateway Charter School, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official did not complete the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause and did not provide any reasons for failure to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the school official was suspended until such disclosure statement was filed and automatically removed from the Board if he/she failed to file the required statement within 30 days, but was reprimanded if he/she filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of the Commissioner's decision); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasoning in recommending the imposition of the more severe penalty of censure in this instance; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that a reprimand is the proper penalty in that it is consistent with the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature, and

Whereas, the Commissioner nevertheless admonishes the school official for his/her failure to timely file the requisite statement in that such delay has caused administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named school official be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

A.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, A.MC. AND J.MC., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

A.M., petitioner, pro se

John P. Harrington, Esq., for respondent
(Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 8, 2004 Decided: October 8, 2004

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Procedural History

This school residency case was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law on April 27, 2004, as a result of a challenge by A.M., the mother of twins A.MC. (a boy) and J.MC. (a girl), to a determination by the respondent, Board of Education of Union Township (Board), that during the 2003-2004 school year A.MC. attended Franklin School in Union and J.MC. attended an out-of-district special education placement in Livingston, with tuition paid by Union, when neither child was a legal resident of Union. The Board's answer denied the allegations of the petition and included a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement for the period of their illegal attendance. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on May 25, 2004, and a telephone prehearing conference was held on July 15, 2004, when the issues were isolated. A plenary hearing was conducted by the undersigned on August 27, 2004, and the record closed at the conclusion of the agreed schedule for my receipt of proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. No submission was filed by petitioner. The witnesses who testified and the exhibits marked into evidence are listed in the Appendix.

Issue

At issue is whether A.M.'s two minor children, A.MC. and J.MC., are "domiciled" within the Union Township school district for purposes of entitlement to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. If not, what is the proper tuition reimbursement owed to Union for their illegal attendance in the district, or, as to J.MC., for her attendance in Livingston at Union's expense?

Testimony for the Board

Although the burden of proof to establish domicile in Union by a preponderance of the credible evidence is on petitioner, it was agreed that respondent would present its case first. First to testify was James Ford, a part-time "residency investigator" in the employ of the Board for about three years. Previously, he was a lieutenant in the Chatham Police Department, for which he worked for thirty years and where he conducted many police investigations. On or about November 10, 2003, he was directed to begin an investigation to determine the residency of minor children A.MC. and J.MC. Ford first visited the Franklin School to meet with the kindergarten teacher to observe A.MC. and D.M., A.M.'s nephew, and receive pertinent documentation. Thereafter, he conducted several surveillances at 45 M. Avenue in the Vauxhall section of Union, New Jersey, which A.M. claimed was the place where she lived with both of her children. To conduct this surveillance, Ford parked on M. Avenue between the house and the school bus stop. The surveillances were conducted from approximately 6:30 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. on ten separate occasions, November 19, 20, 21, 24, 25 and 26 and December 1, 2, 3 and 4, 2003. On none of these days did either of A.M.'s two children, or another child also the subject of this investigation, D.M., A.M.'s nephew, exit the 45 M. Avenue residence to attend school. Instead, the students were dropped off at the school bus stop on V. Street and M. Avenue, exiting from either a 1998 Hyundai, registered to M.H., mother of D.M., or from a 2004 Mercedes SUV registered to D.M., father of D.M., who reside at 20 A. Lane, Newark. On November 19, 20 and 21, 2003, Ford observed the children get on the school bus to go to school. After school, their grandmother met them at the bus stop and walked them to 45 M. Avenue. They did not enter the house; rather, they got in the Hyundai and were driven by petitioner to Newark.

In order to follow A.M.'s car, Ford enlisted the services of another residency investigator, William Sheridan. On the afternoon of November 24, 2003, Ford and Sheridan observed the children enter the Hyundai at 45 M. Avenue and followed them to 20 A. Lane in Newark. From then on, Ford continued his surveillance in Union while Sheridan's surveillance was at 20 A. Lane. Ford recounted that on November 25 and 26, 2003, the children were dropped off in Union and in the afternoon left from 45 M. Avenue in the Hyundai to return to Newark. Ford explained that Sheridan observed the situation at 20 A. Lane in the morning and called him by cell phone to advise when the children left the house. Ford observed them arrive at the school bus stop in Union. Although Ford was particularly referring only to D.M. and A.MC., Sheridan saw all three children leave the house in Newark.

On November 26, 2003, Ford was told that A.M. requested that J.MC. be picked up on M. Street rather than M. Avenue. At his next observation on December 1, 2003, he observed D.M. arrive in his Mercedes SUV at approximately 8:10 a.m. and place observed. On December 2, 2003, J.MC. was not observed on the school bus. Ford and Sheridan went to the 45 M. Avenue house and were advised by the "grandmother" that J.MC.'s mother, A.M., had dropped J.MC. there before going to work, because J.MC. was ill that day. When Ford asked her where J.MC. lived, she noticeably hesitated before replying, "She lives here."

On December 3 and 4, 2003, J.MC. was present in school, but according to Ford was not picked up by F&S Transport, the provider bus company. On December 4, Ford was advised by Sheridan that the two boys (A.MC. and D.M.) had left Newark at 8:05 a.m. and would not make it to the bus stop on time. The two investigators then met at Franklin School and asked the teacher to question the two boys as to how they got to school that day. Although D.M. stated that they came by bus, A.MC. jumped up and corrected him, stating, "Your daddy drove us here."

Ford also testified that he never observed A.M. leave 45 M. Avenue in the morning, or return to stay there in the afternoon. He also stated that while he was parked at V. Street and M. Avenue, observing the boys get out of the Mercedes, two neighbors told him that the students do not live in Union but do go to school there. He did not record the neighbors' names.

Based on his investigative activities, Ford concluded that A.MC. and J.MC. did not live in Union, but lived at 20 A. Lane in Newark. Although Ford noticed that petitioner's sister, M.H., wife of D.M., sometimes dropped the children off in Union in the Mercedes, he stated that usually D.M., J.MC.'s and A.MC.'s uncle, dropped them off there. In the afternoon, petitioner usually met them and drove back to A. Lane in Newark in the Hyundai. Finally, according to Ford, an affidavit of residency submitted by A.M. indicated that she and the children were "tenants" at 45 M. Avenue and the landlord was her sister, M.H. Ford also agreed that he did not see anyone else other than D.M. put J.MC. on the bus, and this was only on one occasion.

William Sheridan, the other part-time investigator who testified for respondent, has conducted approximately forty residency investigations. He recently retired as a sergeant from the Essex County Sheriff's Office, where he had served for thirty-two years. He recalled that Ford asked for his assistance in this investigation on November 21 or November 22, and on November 24, 2003, Ford asked him to meet him on M. Avenue at 3:40 p.m. He observed a black female, later identified as petitioner A.M., pick up three young children outside 45 M. Avenue in her Hyundai and followed the vehicle as she drove to 20 A. Lane, Newark, where they entered a townhouse.

Thereafter, on November 25 and 26, December 1, and December 23, 2003, Sheridan conducted a surveillance of 20 A. Lane. He usually began his investigation at 6:00 a.m. and remained until about 7:40 a.m., when the children left in the 2004 Mercedes driven by D.M. He reported this information to Ford by cell phone.

On December 2, 2003, only the two boys left the house in Newark. At 9:30 a.m., Sheridan met Ford at the Board office, where they learned that J.MC. was not in school that day. They then proceeded to 45 M. Avenue, where an elderly woman answered the door. J.MC., the young girl, stood behind her and called her "Grandmother." They told the woman they were concerned that J.MC. was not in school since the office had not received a phone call. The woman replied that J.MC. had been dropped off there by her mother that morning. The "grandmother," apparently taken aback at their question as to whether petitioner also lived at 45 M. Avenue, first said, "no," then "yes," and then "sometimes."

On December 4, 2003, the children left the house in Newark at 8:05 a.m. Since it was not the usual time, Sheridan called Ford and both went to the Franklin School. Sheridan was present in the classroom when the boys were asked how they got to school that day and responded as previously testified to by Ford. Sheridan also testified that the mailbox at 45 M. Avenue only has the name "Thomas" on it; he thinks that "Thomas" is the name of a part-owner of the house.

Testimony for Petitioner

R.M. is a resident at 49 M. Avenue in Union. He testified that petitioner has always lived at 45 M. Avenue, even prior to her children being born. He claimed that since she worked at night, and therefore did not leave home in the morning, it was difficult for him to know when she was home. He also claimed that petitioner and her sister, M.H., baby-sit for each other's children and he sees the sister come and go as well. M.H. moved from 45 M. Avenue when she got married.

On cross-examination, R.M. could not recall when petitioner's sister was married and did not know where she now lives. He contended that he was just "[at the hearing] to support [petitioner]."

On questioning by the undersigned as to who now lives at 45 M. Avenue, R.M. indicated someone named "Kenny," who he assumed was petitioner's father. He did not know the name of the "grandmother," but said he knows her when he sees her.

The next witness, G.Z., has known petitioner for three or four years and thinks of her as "family." She first met petitioner when they both worked the 6:00-a.m.-to-2:30-p.m. shift at Fellowship Village in Basking Ridge, a nursing home and retirement community. G.Z. knew petitioner's three children, A.M.'s sister, M.H., and her brother-in-law, D.M.

G.Z., questioned by petitioner as to whether petitioner lived anywhere other than on M. Avenue, stated, "Not that I know of." G.Z. also claimed that petitioner and her sister baby-sit each other's children, and that since petitioner had to be at work so early, either her sister or brother-in-law would put her children on the school bus. She also claimed that at times petitioner dropped the children at "Danielle's" house on M. Street, and "Danielle" then took the children to kindergarten, where she worked, and dropped them off at 5:30 p.m. Although she stated that petitioner's schedule has not changed, she then stated that petitioner has not been working for at least three months. G.Z.

claimed that she has also picked up the children for petitioner, and dropped them off at either M. Street or at petitioner's sister's house on A. Lane.

G.Z. also stated that to her knowledge petitioner does not live at 20 A. Lane in Newark. She agreed, however, that the children could spend the week there with their "auntie" and petitioner could spend the weekend there too. Although G.Z. confided that she barely listens to what petitioner says, she knew that sometimes D.M. "drops the children off" and that the children may stay at 20 A. Lane for that reason. She maintained that J.MC. is dropped off at the school bus stop by either D.M. or Danielle.

On cross-examination, G.Z. said that as far as she knows, M.H. has always lived on A. Lane.

On questioning by the undersigned, the witness indicated that she left her job at Fellowship Village in 2001 to become a professional driver. Petitioner worked there until 2004. She also said that she has visited petitioner at 45 M. Avenue and sometimes slept there. She also has spent a weekend at A. Lane. Questioned as to who she believes lives at 45 M. Avenue, she indicated that petitioner's father lives downstairs, while an "aunt" ("Aunt B."), petitioner and her two children live upstairs. She claimed that a niece and petitioner's brother no longer live there. She did not know petitioner's brother's name and said that she saw him only once. She thought his name might be "Thomas."

Petitioner, A.M., then testified. She did not deny that since she had to be at work at 6:00 a.m., her brother-in-law takes A.MC. to the school bus. She explained that A.MC. then goes home with her sister, M.H., basically every night, to be dropped off at 8:30 a.m. the next day by her brother-in-law. She contended, however, that she brings her daughter, J.MC., to Danielle R.'s home on M. Street at 5:30 a.m., and Danielle puts J.MC. on the bus to go to Livingston. (Danielle's mother is an aide on the bus.)

In further testimony, petitioner alleged that on the day J.MC. was sick, J.MC. had first been at Danielle's. Although 45 M. Avenue is only about thirty feet from the

M. Street house, A.M. contended that on that day she left work in Basking Ridge to go back to Union to pick J.MC. up from Danielle's and take her to her "aunt's" house on M. Avenue so Danielle could go to work. She then testified that D.M. sometimes drops J.MC. at the bus stop and J.MC. also slept at her sister's house at night. She admitted that she, too, stays at her sister's house on weekends and sometimes spends the night there during the week. In fact, she lived there from June 2002 to October 2002 when her son, A.MC., underwent chemotherapy while her father was redoing the house at 45 M. Avenue. After the apartment was finished, they returned to live on M. Avenue. She claimed that she does not associate with the neighbors who presumably told Ford that she does not live at 45 M. Avenue. Indeed, she contended that she has been living there for fourteen years. Her twins are now six years old and have only been in school in Union for one year.

On cross-examination, petitioner revealed that she left her employment at Fellowship Village on January 18, 2004, and now is attending school in South Orange. J.MC. receives Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits and A.M.'s sister is helping her with finances. In further testimony, she stated that M.H. and a brother, L.T. (who lives in Irvington), own the 45 M. Avenue house. Her sister lets her use the apartment there and petitioner claimed that she pays half the mortgage, about $425 a month, and half the water bill. She explained that her father lives on the first floor, she lives on the second floor and a tenant lives "in the back." Her sister, M.H., and brother-in-law, D.M., moved to Piscataway three weeks ago and tenants now live at 20 A. Lane. She was unsure where another sister lives, but indicated that another sister lives in New York.

On cross-examination, petitioner agreed that in September 2003 her sister, M.H., lived at 20 A. Lane in Newark, but had enrolled her own children in Union schools, too. Petitioner contended that her sister did not know this was improper. Although petitioner had applied to have her son attend a school in Newark, she was told the school was full. Although A.M. contended that her sister told her it was a good school, she could not recall its name or even if it was a public or private school. Therefore, both sisters went to Franklin School to enroll their children there. Petitioner alleged that when she went to the Board meeting to discuss residency, she did not know that the Board was conducting an investigation. Although she received a letter from the Board, she could not identify it and claimed that she did not present evidence at the Board meeting because she was not asked to do so.

In further testimony, A.M. agreed that her sister, M.H., who was not present at the hearing before me, provided no written statement either. In fact, she admitted that M.H.'s name is not on the petition, which she prepared, and had various people sign (R-4). She also provided no written statement from her brother, L.T., nor did she call him to testify. She agreed that her sister did not contest the Board's decision and removed her own child, D.M., from the Union school, and enrolled him in a Catholic school.

Questioned as to what she pays M.H. to live at 45 M. Avenue, A.M. said she pays "half," which varies from month to month. She estimated it to be about $650 per month, but not less than $600 per month. Referring to her answers to interrogatories, which included "rental receipts," she admitted that the amount of the "rental" was the same amount each month (R-6). Her sister, not she, maintains a receipt book.

A.M. also testified as to the affidavit from M.H. that was used to enroll the children in Union and as to various documents that she provided to support her case. She points out that her earnings statements for the periods ending February 15, 2003, April 26, 2003, May 10, 2003, June 21, 2003, and December 20, 2003, all indicate her address to be 45 M. Avenue, as does an unemployment check for March 2004. On cross-examination, she agreed that she files tax returns each year and maintains a copy of them, but forgot to bring them to court. Questioned as to how she will get the children to school this year, she contended that her school would be over in two weeks and she would "figure something out for the fall."

On questioning by the undersigned, A.M. pointed out that the amount she pays for rent ($650) was written on the rental receipt by her sister because it was supposed to be that amount. However, since her sister gives her money while she is in school, she agreed that she actually pays only $400.

Discussion

Petitioner claims that her twin children, her son, A.MC., and her daughter, J.MC., are entitled to a free public education in Union because she lives there and thus her children are "domiciled" in respondent's school district. Respondent asserts that in actuality A.M. and her two children lived with M.H. and D.M. in Newark during the 2003-2004 school year.

To be entitled to a free public education in New Jersey, a student must be a domiciliary of the particular school district where admission is sought. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (Educ. 1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. New Jersey State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (indicating that New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, for a pupil to receive a free education). As such, at issue is whether A.MC. and J.MC. are entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 as local domiciliaries in respondent's school district. In other words, a determination of the children's domicile is necessary in order to resolve the instant dispute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." Petitioner claims that she and her children A.MC. and J.MC. are domiciliaries of Union, thus requiring this tribunal's determination in her favor. Respondent argues that petitioner and her children actually live in Newark, thereby precluding them from receiving a free education within the Union school district.

Generally speaking, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58

N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have multiple residences, but only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955).

"In a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving." In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991) (quoting Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944)); see also Mercadante, supra, 111 N.J. Super. at 39. Thus, domicile is what is regarded as an individual's true and permanent home. In re Jaffe, 74 N.J. 86, 90-91 (1977). Intent is the touchstone of domicile, and the manifestation of a person's intent converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile. Benny, supra, 20 N.J. at 251.

The question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). Thus, "the concept of 'domicile' may have different content and shades of meaning depending upon the context in which it is used." In re Estate of Gillmore, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 86-87 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 52 N.J. 175 (1968). Nevertheless, "[e]very person has a domicile at all times, and no person has more than one domicile at any one time." Id. at 87 (citation omitted). There are three possible ways by which an individual may acquire domicile: (1) through birth or place of origin; (2) through the choice of a person legally capable of choosing his or her domicile; or (3) through operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice. Ibid.

Since the instant case involves minor children who lack the capacity to choose their own domicile, this tribunal must look to the operation of law. Traditionally, the domicile of a child for school attendance purposes under Title 18A is that of the natural father. Board of Educ., Little Egg Harbor Township v. Board of Educ. of Galloway Township, 145 N.J. Super. 1, 12 (App. Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting) (citing Mansfield Township Bd. of Educ. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925)), rev'd per curiam, based on dissent below, 71 N.J. 537 (1976); V.R., supra, 2 N.J.A.R.

283. Although the facts in V.R. are not on all fours with the instant matter, the discussion of the "traditional domicile concept" by Judge Lefelt is useful here:

> The law establishing an infant's domicile seems based on the rationale that an unemancipated person receives his or her custody, support and maintenance from the father, regardless of the child's physical location. Changing times should, therefore, affect the domicile law only when the factual situation presented undercuts this rationale.
> [V.R., supra, 2 N.J.A.R. at 286 (citations omitted).]

Since there is no allegation that A.M.'s two children reside with their father, the current dispute entails a determination as to whether petitioner's children live with A.M. in Union, rather than as respondent contends in Newark with petitioner's sister, brother-in-law and their child, D.M.

As noted, the question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Thus, the facts of this matter must closely be considered in reaching a determination as to the actual domicile of A.M. and her children. The concept of domicile is not constant since it is designed to assure fairness in a given setting. Thus, "[i]ts ingredients therefore will vary, depending upon what is just and useful in a given context." Worden v. Mercer County Bd. of Elections, 61 N.J. 325, 349 (1972) (Weintraub, C.J., concurring). What is relevant here is a determination as to whether the children are actually living with their mother, A.M., in Union, or whether the family as a whole, including A.M., actually lives in Newark.

The burden in this matter rests with A.M., the petitioner, who must prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the children meet the eligibility requirements. Evidence is found to "preponderate" if it establishes the reasonable probability of the facts alleged and generates a reliable belief that the tendered hypothesis, in all human likelihood, is true. See, e.g., Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 31 N.J. 75 (1959), overruled on other grounds, 36 N.J. 487 (1962). "Preponderance" is not necessarily dependent on which party offers the most witnesses, but refers to the greater convincing power. See State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). So too, a trier of fact may reject any testimony as inherently incredible or inconsistent either with other testimony and/or common experience. See Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). In other words, to be deemed credible, testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but must be inherently credible in itself and be of such a nature as the common experience and observation of man can approve as likely or probable under particular circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6 (App. Div. 1955). Simply put, credibility is derived from an assessment of the rationality, internal consistency and manner in which testimony "hangs together" with other evidence. See Carbo v. U.S., 314 *F.*2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). In this case, in light of the disparate nature of the critical testimony, not everyone can be telling the truth.

Based upon my review and consideration of the testimony, the documentary evidence and my experience, I am compelled to conclude that petitioner's version of her family's living situation simply cannot be believed. Her testimony was inconsistent, unreliable and changed at various points to suit the situation. As such, it was not worthy of belief.

It is hard for me to believe that since, as A.M. admits, A.M.'s children stayed in Newark with her sister and brother-in-law during the week, and petitioner actually drove them there after school each day, petitioner did not also live in Newark with them. Petitioner admitted that her children often stayed in Newark with her sister and brother-in-law, who also drove them to the school bus in Union in the morning. Although A.M. attempted to establish that she brought her daughter to "Danielle's" at 5:30 a.m., this testimony also was inconsistent. In fact, she later conceded that actually it was her brother-in-law who took her daughter from Newark to the school bus in Union in the morning. It is difficult to believe that her six-year-old daughter lives with her in Union and is dropped off by her at a babysitter's at 5:30 a.m., while her son lived with her sister and brother-in-law in Newark. This is especially so in light of the fact that petitioner consistently was observed by the investigators driving her son, daughter, and nephew to Newark after school on a number of occasions. Moreover, petitioner incredibly contended that she dropped her daughter off at "Danielle's" one day, and after her daughter became sick, A.M. traveled all the way from work in Basking Ridge back to Union just to walk J.MC. a short distance to her "aunt's house." This flies in the face of common experience. Clearly, either Danielle or her aunt (or mother) could have taken J.MC. from Danielle's the short distance to 45 M. Avenue. The notion that petitioner would drive back home from work just to take her daughter essentially across the street, only to then drive all the way back to work miles away, is absurd. Moreover, it is undisputed that both cars used to transport the children from Newark to Union to the bus in the morning by petitioner's brother-in-law, and to transport them from 45 M. Avenue in Union back to 20 A. Lane in Newark by petitioner in the afternoon, are registered to petitioner's sister and brother-in-law.

Although a number of documents admitted into evidence reflected that A.M. uses the 45 M. Avenue address as a location for receiving some mail (Exhibits P-2; P-3; R-3; R-6), neither singularly nor in combination did they prove that she actually lived there. First, a number of these documents did not even refer to the time period at issue. In fact, a number of them were mailed in 2004, subsequent to the investigation, and several contained a different floor as part of her address. Moreover, even though petitioner's mother (or aunt), father and a tenant allegedly reside at 45 M. Avenue, none were called to testify on her behalf to corroborate the fact of her residence. Further, neither her sister M.H., nor her brother-in-law D.M., nor her brother L.T. was called to corroborate her residence. No explanation for their absence was even offered. Thus, petitioner's case rises and falls on her and her tangential witnesses' credibility in the face of the Board's testimony.

In my view, it defies all reason and logic that there were over ten random surveillances of the residences at 45 M. Avenue in Union and at 20 A. Lane in Newark on regular school dates and on not even one of those occasions were the children ever observed leaving the M. Avenue premises to go to school, nor were they observed entering 45 M. Avenue upon returning from school. Rather, on every single occasion when the Newark premises were observed, the children were seen leaving there at about 7:40 a.m. and being driven by petitioner's brother-in-law either to the bus stop in Union from which they would then be transported to school, or directly to school by car if they were too late to catch the bus. Moreover, after returning from school by bus, although they were walked to 45 M. Avenue, they never entered the premises, but were transported instead by petitioner to 20 A. Lane in Newark, where they entered the premises and remained overnight. These situations cannot reasonably be described as accidents or coincidence. Moreover, it is at odds with petitioner's assertion that she took her daughter at 5:30 a.m. to "Danielle's" house and Danielle put J.MC. on the school bus. Quite clearly, the two children were living in Newark with petitioner at petitioner's sister's house and were taken daily to Union to board the bus to school. The contrary testimony from A.M., uncorroborated by her mother, father, sister, brother-in-law or brother, some of whom purportedly resided at 45 M. Avenue, was substantially lacking in credibility. In E.C. on behalf of minor, D.B. v. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, EDU 7229-02 (January 9, 2004), adopted, Commissioner (February 23, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, aff'd, State Board (June 4, 2004) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal/index.html>, Administrative Law Judge Stephen G. Weiss pointed out that "[i]t does not matter that bills, notices, etc., had 375 Carnegie Place as E.C.'s address. Mail can be sent wherever the addressee directs." Here, not once in all the surveillances were the children ever observed leaving from Union to go to school. Yet, every time the address in Newark was surveyed, the children were seen leaving from there in the morning and driven to Union by petitioner's brother-in-law in time to get on the bus to go to school there, or if late were driven directly to school. Further, in the afternoon, they were observed being picked up at the bus stop and even though taken to 45 M. Avenue, they did not enter the premises, but instead were driven by petitioner to the Newark address, where they all stayed. In light of this evidence, the documentation simply does not support in any meaningful manner petitioner's allegation that she lives in Union.

The testimony of petitioner's witnesses was not believable either. First, although R.M. claimed that petitioner lived at 45 M. Avenue, he also stated that since she had night jobs and did not leave early in the morning, it was difficult for him to know when

The Acting Commissioner of Education, on July 20, 2004, dismissed the petition of appeal with prejudice because the petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled hearing date and provided no explanation regarding the nonappearance. That petition was assigned docket number EDU 2730-04. The Acting Commissioner of Education's decision on July 20, 2004, also remanded the matter to address the counterclaim for tuition. The Acting Commissioner noted that the record contained no affidavit of a responsible Board official attesting to the amount of tuition owed. The remanded issue was received by the Office of Administrative Law on August 3, 2004, and is addressed in this Initial Decision.

By certification dated September 24, 2004, David Mikalauskas, attendance and residency officer for the Board, certified to the amount of tuition owed by Petitioner. The certification is admitted into the record and provides reliable evidence attesting to the amount of tuition owed by Petitioner.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER Petitioner to pay $20,186.40 to the Ewing Township Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

IN THE MATTER OF ALPHONSE A. DE MEO,	:
BELLEVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission ("Commission") recommending that former Belleville Board of Education member Alphonse A. DeMeo be reprimanded for having violated, during his term of office as a Board member,[1] section N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b) of the School Ethics Act. Prior to expiration of the applicable regulatory time frame, Mr. DeMeo filed written comments for the Commissioner's consideration.

In his comments, Mr. DeMeo reiterates his arguments, made before the Commission, that reliance on mailing envelopes prepared by others is inappropriate in determining whether violations were committed by Mr. DeMeo, and that any conclusion holding actions of the type taken by Mr. DeMeo to constitute a violation of the School Ethics Act has the "potential for grave consequences," in that it implicates protected rights of free speech which board members retain as individuals notwithstanding their board membership; thus, in Mr. DeMeo's view, the Commissioner should not accept the Commission's conclusion that he violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(b). Further, Mr. DeMeo urges that the recommended penalty of reprimand is "too harsh under the circumstances" and "will serve nothing further than to tarnish the good name and record of an individual who has dedicated himself to serving the public." (Respondent's Comments at 1-2) [1] As noted in the Commission's decision at 2, Mr. DeMeo was not reelected to the Board at the April 2004 school election.

Initially, it must be emphasized that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-9.1, the determination of the Commission as to violation of the School Ethics Act is not reviewable by the Commissioner herein. Only the Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred; the Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed based upon the Commission's determination. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the Commission's recommended penalty.

Upon a thorough review of the record, the Commissioner finds that Mr. DeMeo's comments largely apply to the School Ethics Commission's underlying determination of violation, which the Commissioner may not disturb. With respect to the Commission's recommended penalty in light of the violation found, the Commissioner is satisfied that the Commission fully considered the nature of Mr. DeMeo's offense and the circumstances surrounding it. Therefore, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that reprimand is the appropriate penalty in this matter.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that Alphonse A. DeMeo be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
ALPHONSE A. DeMEO BELLEVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION WARREN COUNTY	:	Docket No. C09-04 DECISION

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Complainant, Mario J. Pettineo, Jr., filed a complaint against Alphonse A. DeMeo, on February 17, 2004, alleging that Mr. DeMeo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e) of the School Ethics Act (Act) when he endorsed a candidate for the Belleville Municipal Council through a mailing where the envelopes and letterhead bore his official title as President of the Belleville Board of Education (Board). On April 1, 2004, Greg Vitali, Esq., filed an answer on behalf of Mr. DeMeo after a ten-day extension of the time to file an answer denying any violation of the Act.

On May 18, 2004, the Commission notified both parties that the complaint had been scheduled for a hearing at the June 22, 2004 Commission meeting, and the parties were advised of their right to appear and present witnesses. The Commission heard the complaint at the June 22, 2004 Commission meeting. The complainant did not appear. The respondent appeared with his attorney and testified before the Commission. At the July 22, 2004 meeting, the Commission voted to find probable cause to credit the allegations that Mr. DeMeo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b). However, the Commission voted to find no probable cause and dismissed the allegations that Mr. DeMeo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e).

The Commission found that the material facts were not in dispute with respect to the issue upon which it found probable cause and, therefore, the Commission advised Mr. Vitali that it would decide the matter on the basis of written submissions. Mr. Vitali was invited to provide a written submission to the Commission within 30 days of the date of the probable cause decision to set forth why the Commission should not find Mr. DeMeo in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) for mailing letters to members of the community endorsing a candidate for the Belleville Municipal Council with letterhead and envelopes that bore his official title as President of the Board in a manner that could mislead the recipients. Mr. Vitali was also told that his written submission should include the respondent's position on an appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated. Mr. Vitali submitted a timely response on August 6, 2004, arguing that Mr. DeMeo did not prepare the envelopes or the return address stamp for the mailings, that the contents of the letter do not suggest that the Board of Education is endorsing Mr. Kennedy, and that the letterhead provided factually accurate information that was not misleading. Since he concluded that Mr. DeMeo should not be found in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), he did not provide a position on the appropriate sanction should the Commission determine that the Act was violated.

FACTS

The Commission was able to discern the following facts based on the pleadings, documents submitted, the testimony presented, and the submission of Mr. Vitali in response to the Commission's probable cause determination.

At all times relevant to this complaint, Mr. DeMeo was President of the Board. He served as a Board member for six years and was not reelected to the Board in April 2004. Mr. DeMeo is also a part-time assistant public defender in the Belleville Municipal Court. During the November 2003 elections for the Belleville Municipal Council, Mr. DeMeo publicly endorsed a candidate named Kevin Kennedy through a mailing to the Belleville community. Mr. DeMeo did not prepare the envelopes or the return address stamps. The envelope bore Mr. DeMeo's official title, "President, Board of Education" under his name followed by his law office address. The letterhead of the letter that was sent bore the words "From the Desk of" in a light font. Those words were above and to the left of Mr. DeMeo's name "Alphonse A. DeMeo, Esq." The words "Board of Education President" appeared below the name in a regular size black font similar to the font in the letter. The fourth paragraph in the body of the letter follows:

> "As president of the Board of Education, I believe that Kevin will be able to work with the school district to solve some of the common problems shared by the Board of Education and the Council. Over the last year, the working relationship between the Board and the Council has improved dramatically. Based on my conversations and experience with the current candidates, it is my feeling that Kevin is the best candidate to continue this spirit of cooperation, or as Kevin put it '...finding common solutions for common problems'"

During the November 2003 elections, other Board members publicly endorsed the opposition candidate through the mailing of political flyers. On the political flyers, the Board members were listed along with other community leaders as endorsing the opposition candidate. There were also pictures on one of the flyers of two Board members along with four other pictures of various community leaders. The flyers contained short quotes from Board members along with quotes from various community leaders. The Board members' quotes were about the candidate and made no reference to the Board, such as the following quote by a Board member, "Tom Giblin represents the future of Essex County, not only Belleville but all of Essex County will benefit once he is in office."

During the June 22, 2004 Commission meeting, a Commission member asked Mr. DeMeo to explain his purpose in identifying his official position as Board president in the mailings. Mr. DeMeo responded that after the other Board members endorsed the opposing candidate and stated that they were Board members, Kevin Kennedy came to him and asked him to issue something in response as a Board member. He issued the mailing upon the request of Mr. Kennedy. Mr. DeMeo also testified that there are two other individuals in Belleville with the same name and he used his official position as Board President to distinguish himself from the other two individuals.

Mr. Kennedy was elected to the Belleville Municipal Council in November 2003. Councilman Fuscaldo proposed an ordinance in December 2003 to raise the salaries of the Assistant Prosecutor, the Public Defender, and the Assistant Public Defender. On January 13, 2004, in the absence of Mr. Fuscaldo, Mr. Escott moved to adopt the salary ordinance and Kevin Kennedy voted in favor of the motion. The motion failed. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Fuscaldo both certify that Mr. DeMeo never approached them for a raise.

ANALYSIS

The Commission found probable cause that Mr. DeMeo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) of the Act when he mailed letters to members of the community endorsing a candidate for the Belleville Municipal Council with letterhead and envelopes that bore his official title as President of the Board in a manner that could mislead the recipients.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) provides:

> No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others;

Since the allegations did not involve a situation involving employment or Mr. DeMeo's immediate family, the Commission considered whether Mr. DeMeo used his official position as a Board member to secure unwarranted privileges or advantages for himself or for Mr. Kennedy, the candidate he endorsed. The Commission notes that Mr. Kennedy voted in favor of an ordinance to raise the salary of the Assistant Public Defender, a position held by Mr. DeMeo. However, Mr. Kennedy certified that Mr. DeMeo never approached him for a raise and the motion never passed. Thus, there is no evidence that Mr. DeMeo used his position to secure an unwarranted privilege or advantage for himself. The Commission then considered whether Mr. DeMeo used his official position as a Board member to secure unwarranted privileges or advantages for Mr. Kennedy.

Mr. DeMeo admitted that he endorsed Mr. Kennedy in the November 2003 elections through a mailing to the Belleville community. Mr. Vitali argues, in his response to the Commission's probable cause determination, that Mr. DeMeo's endorsement of a political candidate is clearly an activity protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution. The Commission notes that Mr. DeMeo had a right to endorse Mr. Kennedy. However, in that endorsement, he must abide by the School Ethics Act; N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) restricts a Board member from using his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for others.

Mr. DeMeo testified that Mr. Kennedy came to him and asked for his endorsement in response to the endorsement of Mr. Kennedy's opponent by two other members of the Board. Mr. DeMeo indicated that he issued his endorsement and used his title as President of the Board in response to Mr. Kennedy's request. The Commission finds that Mr. DeMeo intended to use and did use his official position as President of the Board as a favor to Mr. Kennedy when he endorsed him in the November 2003 elections.

The Commission next determined whether Mr. DeMeo's use of his position through an endorsement secured an unwarranted privilege or advantage for Mr. Kennedy. The endorsement consisted of a mailing that included an envelope with an enclosed letter. The letterhead included the words "From the Desk of," which were aligned to the left and above Mr. DeMeo's name. The words were in a light, mostly white font, which was thinly outlined in black. Those words faded into the background, while the words "Belleville Board of Education President" stood out since they were centered and directly under Mr. DeMeo's name, in black ink and in the same font as the body of the letter. This type of a format, which emphasized Mr. DeMeo's official title of Board President, could reasonably lead a member of the public to believe that Mr.DeMeo was acting in his official position as Board President when he endorsed Mr. Kennedy in the body of the letter, especially given the nature of the endorsement and the return address on the envelope. When Mr. DeMeo in his official capacity as Board President, as opposed to his individual capacity, endorsed Mr. Kennedy, he attempted to use his official position to secure an unwarranted advantage for Mr. Kennedy in the election.

Mr. Vitali argues that the contents of the letter are written in the first person and thus no one could reasonably believe that the Board was endorsing Mr. Kennedy. Given the contents of the body of the letter, even though the letter is written in the first person, someone could reasonably believe that it is written in Mr. DeMeo's capacity as Board President, and in that capacity, he was endorsing Mr. Kennedy.

Mr. Vitali also argues that the letterhead was not misleading since it provided factually accurate information. He further argues that the recipient should not have been mislead since Mr. DeMeo signed the letter in his individual capacity with no notable mention of the Belleville Board of Education. The Commission agrees that the information in the letterhead was factually correct. However, the presentation of the information in the letterhead emphasized Mr. DeMeo's role as Board President. That coupled with the content of the letter and the nature of the return address was such that someone reading the letter could reasonably believe that the letter was written in Mr. DeMeo's official capacity as Board President. The fact that there was no notation of the Belleville Board of Education beneath Mr. DeMeo's signature does not compensate for the combined effect of the letterhead, the content of the letter and the nature of the return address on the envelope.

Mr. Vitali argues that, in the body of the letter, Mr. DeMeo identifies himself as the President of the Board for the purpose of informing the reader that he had the opportunity, in his capacity as Board President, to witness Mr. Kennedy in action first hand. However, the statements in the letter do not provide any information regarding Mr. DeMeo's first hand experience, as Board President, with Mr. Kennedy. In the body of the letter, Mr. DeMeo states that he believes "that Kevin (Mr. Kennedy) will be able to work with the school district to solve some of the common problems shared by the Board of Education and the Council." He goes on to note that the working relationship between the Board and the Council has improved over the last year and that it was his feeling that "Kevin is the best candidate to continue this spirit of cooperation..." These statements relay his belief that Mr. Kennedy would work well with the Board and continue the recently evolved cooperation between the Board and Council. Because these statements refer directly to the Board in relationship to the Council and Mr. Kennedy's abilities in relation to the Board should he become a council member, someone reading the letter could reasonably believe that Mr. DeMeo's comments were made in his official capacity as Board President.

Mr. Vitali further argues that, since Mr. DeMeo did not prepare the envelopes or the return address stamp, he should not be found in violation of the Act on the basis of the actions of others. The envelope contains a return address that identifies Mr. DeMeo as an attorney and under his name the words "President, Board of Education" appear. A general member of the public may be more inclined to open an envelope containing a letter, which indicates that it is from the Board President rather than a political flyer from various community leaders. Even if Mr. DeMeo did not prepare the envelopes or the return address stamp, it was his intention for the endorsement to go out as a mailing. He prepared and signed the letter for the purpose of a mailing. It is immaterial whether he personally inserted the letters into the envelope and affixed the return address.

The totality of the endorsement including the design of the letterhead, the content of the letter, and the nature of the return address on the envelope, could lead someone reading the letter to reasonably assume that the endorsement was made by Mr. DeMeo in his official capacity as President of the Board. Therefore, the Commission finds that Mr. DeMeo attempted to use his position to give Mr. Kennedy an unwarranted privilege and an advantage in the November 2003 elections.

DECISION

For the reasons discussed above, the Commission finds that Alphonse A. DeMeo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b) when he endorsed a candidate for the Belleville Municipal Council through a mailing of letters to members of the Belleville community where the letterhead, envelope and contents of the letter could mislead recipients to believe that the endorsement was made in Mr. DeMeo's official capacity as Board President. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

This decision has been adopted by a formal resolution of the School Ethics Commission. This matter shall now be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction only, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. Within 13 days from the date on which the Commission's decision was mailed to the parties, Mr. Vitali may file written comments on the recommended sanction with the Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the School Ethics Commission and all other parties.

DAVID M. SHERIDAN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PITMAN, GLOUCESTER COUNTY, ROBERT CAMPBELL, SUPERINTENDENT, ESTHER PACITTI, ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT, AND MICHELLE ROEMER, BOARD SECRETARY,	: COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION : DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and the petitioner's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board presents the following exceptions, inter alia, to the Initial Decision: (1) Petitioner at no time received a "distinguished" narrative on his teacher evaluations, notwithstanding that he was rated as "proficient"; (2) Inducting the additional 15 students into the National Honor Society (NHS) was not an error, but, rather, was required by the rules of the organization; (3) Petitioner was not, as the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) observed, "the fall guy" in the situation, but was merely being held accountable for his actions; (4) The Board followed the proper procedures for the nonrenewal of a non-tenured teaching staff member, as per N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b); (5) Petitioner was advised to resign his position by his union, not by the Board, the Superintendent or anyone else; (6) The Superintendent did not recommend petitioner for renewal and "[t]he Board of Education only in [the] most exceptional of circumstances" can override his recommendation; (7) The ALJ improperly substituted his judgment for that of the Board; (8) The Board neither "fired" petitioner, nor "terminated" him, as indicated in the Initial Decision at pages 13 and 14, respectively, but, instead, did not renew his teaching contract, as evidenced by the facts that petitioner worked until the last day of the 2002-2003 school year; and (9) Petitioner did not display the qualities and attributes of a professional, responsible teacher. (Board's Exceptions at 2-11)

In reply, petitioner affirms that the ALJ's findings, in large part, were based on uncontroverted evidence, and were fully supported by case law, as well as the ALJ's ability to determine the credibility of the witnesses and the "feel for the case." (Petitioner's Reply)[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to modify the Initial Decision, as set forth below.

As the ALJ correctly notes, the review of a local board's decision to nonrenew a non-tenured staff member is guided Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447 (App. Div. 1982). The court therein determined that, "absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board." Dore, supra, at 456 (emphasis added)

Notably, in none of the papers submitted by petitioner, neither initially as a pro se litigant, nor, later, by petitioner's counsel, does petitioner assert such a constitutional or legislative right, notwithstanding that the Petition of Appeal alleges that the Board made procedural errors in the course of its nonrenewal actions. Therefore, as the ALJ's Prehearing

[1] In his letter filed on November 12, 2004, petitioner's counsel indicates that he "will be submitting a more detailed response" to the Board's exceptions. However, inasmuch as the Board's exceptions, which were duly copied to petitioner's counsel, were dated November 3, 2004 and filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on November 5, 2004, further response beyond November 12, 2004 is prohibited by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d).

Order appropriately sets forth, the issues to be resolved herein were: whether petitioner was properly and timely notified by the district that it intended not to renew his teaching contract or position for the 2003-2004 school year and, if such notice was untimely or the district improperly "terminated" petitioner, what is the appropriate remedy? (Prehearing Order, January 6, 2004) In addition, even assuming, arguendo, that the ALJ reasonably deduced from this record that "Sheridan is asserting, in effect, his right pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b),"[2] such a claim must fail for the reasons set forth below.

There appears to be no dispute that petitioner was duly notified on May 1, 2003 that his contract for the 2003-2004 school year would not be renewed. (Exhibit P-34) Thereafter, by letter dated May 2, 2003, petitioner requested a statement of reasons for the nonrenewal. (Exhibit P-35) The Superintendent responded in writing on May 6, 2003, setting forth the reason for the nonrenewal: "You have not met district professional performance expectations." (Exhibit P-37) To the extent petitioner claims that this statement is vague or otherwise improper, however, the Commissioner underscores that although a non-tenured teacher is entitled to a statement of reasons for the board's decision not to reemploy him, "the requirement that it provide such reasons does not limit its broad discretion in deciding whether to retain non-tenured teachers." Guerriero v. Board of Education of the Borough of Glen Rock, decided by the State Board of Education, February 5, 1986, slip. op. at 7 Furthermore, although a Board should provide a nonrenewed teacher with the true reasons for its decisions, if it fails to do so, there is "no authority to impose a penalty for a board's failure to provide accurate reasons

[2] Petitioner made the following legal arguments before the OAL: (1) That the Board breached his employment contract when it "terminated" him for reasons connected to his NHS activities, which were purely extracurricular and not included in his contract; (2) That the Board breached its obligation of good faith and fair dealing when it "terminated" him and accepted a "smear letter" written by the Superintendent prior to his informal appearance, yet denied petitioner the opportunity to show a videotape from his immediate supervisor at his informal appearance before the Board; and (3) That the Board violated petitioner's due process rights by denying him a fair and impartial hearing when it failed to comply with the requirement to notify him, in writing, within three days following the informal appearance, of the Board's determination, as per N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2. (Petitioner's Post-Hearing Brief at pp. 7-19) unless it is established that the real reasons for the board's action [are] in violation of constitutional or legislatively conferred rights." (Id.) (citation omitted) Here, even assuming the statement of reasons is insufficient or inaccurate, there simply has been no such showing by petitioner.

Following receipt of the statement of reasons, by letter dated May 5, 2003, petitioner requested a private hearing before the Board. (Exhibit P-36) The Superintendent informed petitioner by letter dated May 12, 2003 that the Board agreed to meet with him. (Exhibit P-38) Prior to that meeting, the Superintendent prepared a memorandum to Board members which addressed "rumors" that were circulating regarding petitioner's appearance scheduled for June 10, 2003. That memorandum also set forth the Superintendent's reasons for recommending nonrenewal of petitioner's contract, noting that there were complaints "from respected parents about his teaching" and further noting that "while perhaps 'proficient', [petitioner's teaching] is not up to the high academic standards that we hold for all professional staff members. "[3] (Exhibit P-39) Clearly, under these circumstances, because the Superintendent did not recommend the renewal of petitioner, petitioner's sole purpose for an informal appearance before the Board of Education could only be to attempt to convince the members of the board to offer him reemployment, which he failed to do. Angelo Velasquez v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brielle, Monmouth County, State Board, August 6, 1997; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b); N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2(c)

After petitioner's informal appearance before the Board on June 10, 2003, he was advised of the Board's decision not to overturn the Superintendent's recommendation to nonrenew him, albeit that such notice was not yet provided in writing. (Initial Decision at 6;

[3] The Commissioner acknowledges that petitioner disputes the truth of the statements made by the Superintendent in his memorandum to the Board. (Petitioner's Post-Hearing Brief at 16) However, the Commissioner relies on this memorandum, not for the veracity of the Superintendent's statements, but rather to show that: (1) the Superintendent did not recommend petitioner for renewal and (2) the reasons for the recommendation of nonrenewal are not prohibited by Dore, supra.

Petition of Appeal at paragraph 12) The next day, June 11, 2003, petitioner tendered his resignation. (Exhibit P-41) That letter of resignation was acknowledged by the Superintendent on June 17, 2003 (Exhibit P-42), and accepted by the Board at is meeting on July 15, 2003. (Exhibit P-43)[4] In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2(i) provides:

> Within three days following the informal appearance, the board shall notify the affected teaching staff member, in writing, of its final determination. Such notification may be delegated by the board to its superintendent or board secretary.

Under these circumstances, however, where petitioner readily admits that he was timely advised by the Superintendent of the Board's decision subsequent to his informal appearance and where petitioner tendered his resignation the day after that appearance, the Commissioner declines to find that that the Board's failure to notify petitioner of its decision, in writing, within three days of the appearance, constitutes the "due process violation" that petitioner so urges. (Petitioner's Post-Hearing Brief at 15)[5]

Quite simply, even accepting that petitioner's nonrenewal was solely and directly attributable to the NHS controversy, and further accepting that the Superintendent's actions in connection with the controversy were tainted by "small town politics" (Initial Decision at 10), factual findings that are not wholly supported by even petitioner's exhibits,[6] the Commissioner

[4] The Board's acceptance of petitioner's resignation may fairly be read as its "consent" to permit petitioner to resign from his employment, notwithstanding that the terms of his contract require that he provide the Board with 60 days' notice of intent to terminate the agreement. (Exhibit P-47) See, Victoria Carrelle v. Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Bloomingdale, Essex County, Commissioner Decision February 29, 2004.

[5] In this connection, the State Board has further instructed that "a non-tenured teacher does not have any protected interest in continued employment under the United States Constitution and, therefore, no right to due process protection under the Fourteenth Amendment. Board of Regents of State Colleges et al. v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 92 S. Ct. 2701 (1972). Nor do such teachers have a right to due process under the New Jersey Constitution. Donaldson, supra. " Lydia Anderson v. State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, State Board Decision, February 7, 2001, slip op. at 1-2.

[6] Notably, the record indicates that the Superintendent informed the Board of Education by memorandum dated January 7, 2003 that, following an extensive review of parental concerns, NHS publications and district guidelines, the district's NHS selection committee, notwithstanding its honorable intent, had not been following NHS guidelines. The Superintendent therein states, in pertinent part, "The mistake that was made was that the selection team arbitrarily set a cutoff based on scores reported by teaching staff members. The cutoff varied from year to must conclude that, pursuant to Dore, supra, petitioner fails to state a claim which would warrant any relief, let alone, the relief he seeks, which is reinstatement. Indeed, even assuming, arguendo, that: (1) Petitioner had sufficiently pled the applicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b) and (2) Dore permits such a statutory provision, which establishes procedural standards for the renewal or nonrenewal of non-tenured employees, to suffice as "legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers," Dore, supra at 456, petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the Board's actions violated this statute.[7]

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

year. This gave the unfortunate perception that there was a quota placed on the number of students allowed to be in the NHS. The NHS guidelines indicate a specific cutoff which does not change from year to year and allows for any number of students to qualify to enter the NHS. This means that the number of inductees will vary from year to year. The arbitrary setting of this standard is clearly the mistake made by the committee but it must be pointed out that they were merely repeating a process that had been used for many years. At no point was there any intent to eliminate certain students from induction. There are students who, if the NHS guidelines had been followed, would have been admitted this year." (Exhibit P-17 at pp. 1-2) Indeed, later that month, Principal Grennor recommended amendments to the district's NHS selection guidelines, which included, inter alia, establishing "a consistent set of standards for academics and teacher evaluations." (Exhibit P-23)

Petitioner's exhibits also include a memorandum confirming a conference held on April 7, 2003 with petitioner, his representative and the Superintendent. The Superintendent therein noted that they discussed "aspects of [petitioner's] professional employment." He states, "I did discuss concerns with you about statements which you apparently made at a meeting of the National Honor Society. I also echoed concerns which had been expressed by parents regarding the use of sparksnote.com in testing." (Exhibit P-32)

[7] Having so ruled, the Commissioner determines that it is not necessary to reach the ALJ's finding that petitioner's resignation "lacked factual and legal intent" so as to effectively render it a nullity. (Initial Decision at 15)

[8] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, received a complaint on September 3, 2003. David Sheridan, a non-tenured teaching staff member, asserts that respondent Pitman Board of Education (PBOE, Board or District) and/or its agents, arbitrarily, improperly or unfairly refused to renew his teaching contract for the 2003-2004 school year. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1 to 18A:27-11. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 21, 2003. The undersigned was assigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing telephone conference was held on January 5, 2004. A plenary hearing was conducted on August 4, 2004. The evidentiary hearing concluded on that date. Post-hearing briefs were submitted, and the record closed on October 8, 2004.

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT FACTS

David Sheridan testified on his own behalf. Mr. Sheridan is fifty-three years old and currently unemployed. He lives in close proximity to his former employer, the PBOE. Sheridan graduated from Villanova University with a Bachelor of Science degree in education and English in 1972. He also attended Rowan University, formerly Glassboro State College, where he took courses towards a degree in administration. Sheridan possesses a New Jersey Department of Education certification as a teacher of English. He holds a similar certification from the Pennsylvania Department of Education, and is seeking certification from the Delaware Department of Education. Additionally, Mr. Sheridan served in the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Army National Guard during the period 1972 through 1978. (P-2; P-3).

In January 1974 Sheridan was employed by Conestoga High School in Berwyn, Pennsylvania. He was an instructor of Basic Communications/Writing, as well as a varsity girls' track coach. He also served as advisor to the variety and talent show. Starting in September 1975 Sheridan was employed by Williamstown High School. His area of instruction included basic language art skills for grades 9-12 and public speaking. He coached varsity boys' and girls' track.

In or around June 1978, Sheridan took a leave from teaching. Sheridan sought employment as a business professional. He operated a marketing and insurance company during the period 1978 through 1993.

In 1992 Sheridan decided to return to teaching. He initially accepted employment as a long-term substitute teacher for Glassboro High School. His area of instruction included English, Honors English, and Journalism. He resumed participating in extracurricular student services, including serving as yearbook advisor, assistant track coach and assistant cross country coach, and mentoring.

In September 1996 Sheridan was hired as a full-time teacher by Salem High School. His area of instruction included Advanced Placement Literature for grade 12, Honors English for grades 9 and 10, College Prep, Regular English, Public Speaking/Journalism, and HSPT I Studies. Sheridan also continued his extracurricular services, wherein he coached boys' varsity soccer, and boys' and girls' varsity track. He also served as a class advisor and chairman of the Student Intervention Referral Services. In 2000 he became a tenured teaching staff member.

During his employment at Salem High School, Sheridan developed a close relationship with Joel Grennor, the principal of Salem High School. In September 2000 Mr. Grennor left Salem High School and became the assistant principal of Pitman High School. During the ensuing months in 2000, Grennor encouraged Sheridan to seek employment with the PBOE. Grennor respected Sheridan's capabilities as an English teacher and coach. Grennor suggested that Sheridan follow his path to the PBOE school system. Grennor observed that Pitman High School had very few coaches that were also in-district teachers. Most of the coaches were recruited from outside the school district. Grennor opined that Sheridan's teaching skills, along with his substantial interest in extracurricular activities, including coaching, would serve Pitman High School well. Additionally, Sheridan resided within three miles of Pitman High School, whereas his commute to Salem High School was approximately thirty-five miles. Based upon Grennor's recommendation and the substantial reduction in commuting time, Sheridan sought employment with the PBOE. He was hired in January 2001.

While at Pitman High School, Sheridan's instructional area included Honors English for grade 10, Advanced Placement Language for grade 11, Communications Lab, Accelerated English for grades 10 and 11, and Standard English for grade 12. Sheridan also resumed his extracurricular services and was appointed as the girls' varsity soccer coach, boys' varsity track coach, National Honor Society advisor, Student Council advisor, and SAT Prep Course instructor. (See P-1, Summary of Educational Experience.)

The PBOE employed Sheridan from January 2001 through June 2003. He received ten teacher observations or teacher annual performance reports during his period of employment. (P-4 through P-13.) On the annual performance reports, a teacher can receive a performance level rating of 1) not applicable, 2) needs improvement, or 3) meets standards. The intermittent teacher observations are conducted two or three times during the academic year, and on the rating forms used for those observations a teacher receives marks of 1) not applicable, 2) unsatisfactory, 3) basic, or 4) proficient. In every instance, except for the teacher observation dated April 21, 2003 (P-13), Sheridan received the highest rating permitted on the evaluation forms (P-4 through P-12). As explained by Sheridan, performance appraisals must be conducted by staff members who hold supervisory positions. In Sheridan's case, the evaluations were conducted by Patricia Denholm; Principal Joel Grennor; Assistant Principal Jay Stillman; and John Ricketts.

On April 21, 2003, Sheridan received his first negative teacher observation report, which was prepared by assistant superintendent Esther Pacitti. Notably, this performance appraisal was conducted only a few days before the superintendent's decision not to renew Sheridan's teaching contract. The events preceding this evaluation period were turbulent and emotionally charged as a result of a controversy involving the National Honor Society (NHS). In addition to his extracurricular services as a boys' and girls' track, soccer and cross-country coach, Sheridan served as advisor to the NHS. The District's NHS consists of five voting teaching staff members, as well as an advisor, which was Sheridan. The school principal oversees the entire process. Sheridan explained that as advisor, he has no voting capacity and that the actual voting members make all final decisions. Sheridan became advisor to the NHS when his predecessor resigned or retired. Upon being hired by Pitman High School, he assumed the position of advisor to the NHS by default.

In his first year as advisor (school year 2001-2002), the selection of candidates for consideration to the NHS progressed smoothly. The NHS followed the same procedures that it had employed over the past several years in selecting candidates. Approximately twenty-two students were inducted into the NHS without controversy. The District's methodology for selection and induction consists of inviting any student whose grade point average is over 90% to submit an application for consideration. The committee, consisting of the five teaching staff members, as well as others, initially reviews all of the applications. The committee then votes on which candidates should be nominated for consideration out of those candidates whose grade point average exceeds 90%. In addition to grades, the reviewing committee looks for extracurricular involvement, character, scholarship, leadership, and community service. Accordingly, grades, as well as these other criteria, are evaluated before a candidate is nominated. The final decision to nominate the respective candidates is solely the responsibility of the voting members of the committee. In other words, neither the principal nor Sheridan as counsel to the committee can vote on a candidate's selection.

During school year 2002-2003 a controversy ensued regarding the selection process. Parents of five children who were not selected to the NHS complained vigorously to the principal, superintendent and Board of Education. These parents directed a significant number of their complaints towards Sheridan, although he is not a voting member of the NHS committee. At the direction of Superintendent Campbell, the committee engaged in a reevaluation of the inductees to the NHS. Notably, the parental complaints and the superintendent's directions came well after the initial induction ceremony in December 2002. In other words, based upon the parental complaints, the superintendent had directed the committee to engage in an entire new induction process commencing in the spring of 2003. The committee found the superintendent's directive insulting to the NHS tradition and process. Nevertheless, the committee again reviewed all sixty of the initial NHS candidates. The committee reached the conclusion that the initial twenty-two inductees should remain and that no further candidates should be inducted. Superintendent Campbell, frustrated by the committee's action, directed that Principal Grennor take over the process and re-review the candidates himself. Moreover, Superintendent Campbell specifically stated that any student who was initially considered for induction into the National Honor Society and who filed a complaint and sought induction must be inducted. Ultimately, at the insistence of Superintendent Campbell, an additional fifteen students were inducted into the NHS and a second ceremony for these additional fifteen inductees was held in or around April or May 2003.

In February 2003, Principal Grennor had advised Sheridan that Superintendent Campbell was "gunning" to fire Sheridan as the "fall guy" for the controversy involving the NHS. Grennor attempted to negotiate a "deal" to save Sheridan's job. Grennor discussed the matter with Superintendent Campbell and requested that if Sheridan resigned as the NHS advisor and resigned as a soccer, track and cross-country coach, he would be able to keep his teaching job. Superintendent Campbell advised Grennor that this resolution was agreeable. Accordingly, Principal Grennor advised Sheridan that his job was at risk because of the NHS confusion, but that he could save his job by stepping down or not seeking to hold these extracurricular positions in the upcoming 2003-2004 school year. Accordingly, Sheridan tendered his resignation as advisor to the Pitman High School Chapter of the National Honor Society effective February 13, 2003. (P-25.) However, Sheridan recalls that Principal Grennor was reluctant to accept his resignation effectively immediately. Both Grennor and Sheridan were unclear as to whether the resignation was effective immediately or effective at the end of the school year. Principal Grennor's reluctance to accept Sheridan's resignation was due, in part, to his belief that Sheridan had done nothing improper. In fact, Superintendent Campbell had issued a memorandum dated January 7, 2003, stating, "There is absolutely no evidence of any intent to discredit any students or any evidence of impropriety." (P-17.)

On April 10, 2003, Superintendent Campbell provided Sheridan with a Rice notice (P-33) indicating that the Board of Education intended to discuss Sheridan's employment at its meeting scheduled for April 22, 2003. On May 1, 2003, Superintendent Campbell dispatched a letter to Campbell advising as follows: "Please be advised that your contract for the 2003/2004 school year will not be renewed." (P-34.) On May 2, 2003, Sheridan requested notification of the reasons for the non-renewal of his teaching contract. (P-35.) On May 6, 2003, Superintendent Campbell responded by stating: "The reason is that you have not met district professional performance expectations." (P-37.) Subsequently, on May 12, 2003, Sheridan was advised that his request to appear before the Board of Education on June 10, 2003, was granted. (P-38.) Sheridan appeared before the Board of Education on that date, and after making his presentation to the Board, Sheridan was advised of the Board's decision. Superintendent Campbell advised Sheridan that the Board agreed with Campbell that Sheridan's teaching contract should not be renewed for the 2003-2004 school year. On June 11, 2003, Sheridan submitted his resignation to the superintendent and Board. Sheridan stated that, pursuant to the advice of his union representative, it would be to his benefit to resign rather than be deemed a non-renewed teacher. His resignation would benefit him in applying for other teaching positions. The union representative advised Sheridan that if he were not renewed, it would carry a stigma and possibly discourage other districts from employing him.

During cross-examination, the District raised two other events related to Sheridan's service. One involved girls' soccer practice. The senior girls' soccer team made the freshman girls perform a "traditional right of passage." They had to roll on the ground in front of the boys' soccer team and make silly comments. This was initiated exclusively by the senior soccer girls outside the presence of Sheridan. Sheridan did not condone it. When he was advised of the incident, he stopped it and authored a policy against student hazing. The girls also created, paid for and ordered their own soccer shirts. They copied a slogan from another high school girls' soccer team that stated, "We can do it in eighty minutes – in eleven positions." Some parents complained. Sheridan did not sanction, order or purchase the shirts. He directed the soccer members to have the shirts reprinted, even though they had been purchased with private student funding. Sheridan was not complicit in or disciplined for either of these events. There was no written proof offered identifying these incidents as problematic for Sheridan. They were not mentioned in any performance review. Sheridan noted that he created a new school policy against hazing. These issues were not raised on or before his contract non-renewal. These events were non-classroom student situations that teachers are called upon to address.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

A board of education has broad discretionary authority in regard to the granting of tenure. Donaldson v. Board of Educ. of North Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236, 240-41 (1974). A board's discretionary authority is not unlimited, and its action will be set aside if it was taken for arbitrary or capricious reasons. Id. at 247; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). A determination not to grant tenure need not be grounded on unsatisfactory classroom or professional performance, as there are many unrelated but equally valid reasons. Donaldson, supra, 65 N.J. at 241. Thus, evaluations of classroom performance are not necessarily the controlling factor. Dore v. Bedminster Board of Educ., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 453-54 (App. Div. 1982).

A determination within a board's discretionary authority is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable if it is without a rational basis or is induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). A rational basis for a determination is lacking where the board's beliefs or assertions as to the underlying facts prove to be untrue, or if the facts are true, they do not warrant the board's conclusion or action. Id. at 296-97. The party challenging the board's action has the burden of proving unreasonableness. Id. at 297.

The transmittal of this matter from the Commissioner of Education states that this matter is to be reviewed under the limited standard applicable to non-tenured staff as set forth in the cases cited. The controlling case, and one of the cases referred to in the transmittal, is Dore, supra, 185 N.J. Super. 447. In that matter, the local board voted not to renew the contract of teacher Stephen Dore, resulting in the denial of tenure. Dore requested a statement of the reasons for the non-renewal and the Bedminster Board of Education informed him of failings in his teaching effectiveness, poor teaching methods, poor grading procedures, lack of a structured classroom, and lack of assessment of student progress. Significantly, these criticisms were not contained in Dore's formal evaluations. They were based on personal observations of board members and knowledge acquired through students' parents. Dore was granted an informal appearance before the board to rebut these assertions, but the board did not change its decision.

The Commissioner reversed the non-renewal decision because the reasons were not supported by the evaluations and no other reasons were given to explain the board's decision. However, the Commissioner rejected the argument that local boards are bound to predicate renewal decisions of non-tenured teaching staff members on evaluations conducted pursuant to the law and regulations.

The State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision and emphasized the considerable discretion afforded to local boards in employing teaching staff members. The State Board determined that the local board had sufficient information to support its decision not to reemploy Dore and its statement of reasons for doing so. It concluded that the local board's action was not so arbitrary and capricious as to warrant the extraordinary remedy of overriding the managerial prerogative of a local board and requiring it to employ a teacher it does not want on its staff.

The Appellate Division concluded that the State Board's decision was correct. It stated:

> The decision of the Commissioner recognized a local board's right to base its decision not to re-employ on matters outside of a teacher's evaluations due to a board's virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing nontenured teachers.

[185 N.J. Super. at 453.]

The court went on to say:

> The State Board's decision properly recognized the board's right to reach its conclusion about a nontenured teacher on a broad base of input received from a variety of people, including members of the public, parents of students and a board member's own knowledge of a teacher even if that knowledge is acquired through having a child in the teacher's class.

The court then referred to the Donaldson case, and indicated that in the language of that decision is a recognition by the Court that absent constitutional constraints or legislation affecting the tenure rights of teachers, local boards of education have an almost complete right to terminate the services of a teacher who has no tenure and is regarded as undesirable by the local board. Id. at 455. The Commissioner also cites in the transmittal of this case Anderson v. State-Operated School District of Newark, State Board (February 7, 2001); Kufel v. Union County Vocational-Technical School District, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 446; and Pratt v. Board of Education of the Borough of Butler, Morris County, State Board (January 6, 1999), in support of the limited nature of review for this matter.

Similarly, in Guerriero v. Board of Education of Glen Rock, State Board (February 5, 1985), aff'd, No. A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. 1986), the State Board held that under Dore, the only substantive ground that was available to contest the local board decision was a claim of deprivation of a constitutional or statutory right. In Wise v. Board of Education of Trenton, State Board (January 3, 2001) <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal/sboe>, the State Board held that a district board has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or non-renewing non-tenured teachers, citing the Dore case and quoting language therein. The Board, citing Guerriero, stated:

> Thus, where a non-tenured teacher challenges a district board's decision to terminate his employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the Board are not supported by the facts, he is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts he alleges, if true, > would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights.

> [Wise, supra, <http://www.nj.gov/njded/legal/sboe> (emphasis added).]

In his petition (prepared pro se), Sheridan claims that the Board's actions were unfair, improper, inequitable and unethical. Sheridan is asserting, in effect, his right pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). It protects Sheridan from adverse actions that are arbitrary and capricious. The "legislatively conferred right" asserted by Sheridan provides, in part:

> A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b).]

Sheridan is entitled to have his appeal, and, consequently, the Board's decision not to grant him tenure, reviewed against the arbitrary and capricious standard, since he has been conferred a legislative right. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b).

This matter has much more to do with small town politics than it has to do with fairly and impartially evaluating a probationary teacher. Sheridan was a tenured teacher at Salem High School. He has been teaching for approximately fourteen years in several different school systems. His teaching skills are not in question. He received ten evaluations during the period January 2001 to June 2003. Nine of those evaluations were excellent and one was average. Former principal Grennor testified that Sheridan was one of his top teaching staff members. He was a "go-to guy." He would fill in or substitute for other teachers on a minute's notice. He participated in numerous extracurricular sports and academic activities. He was dedicated and well liked by his peers and students. It is obvious from the testimony and documentary evidence that had Sheridan not been involved in the NHS, a job he inherited from his predecessor, his teaching contract would have been renewed in 2003-2004. The narrow issue, therefore, is whether a small town parental-political controversy, involving an extracurricular program, provides a sufficient basis not to renew a non-tenured teaching contract? If it does not form a sufficient basis to terminate the contract, is the District's decision unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious?

It is a well-settled principle that policy, legislative and quasi-legislative determinations are committed to the judgment of local governmental bodies. Riggs v. Long Beach Township, 109 N.J. 601, 610-11 (1988); United Advertising Corp. v. Metuchen, 42 N.J. 1, 8 (1964). Such determinations enjoy a distinct presumption of validity, First Peoples Bank of N.J. v. Medford Township, 126 N.J. 413, 418 (1991); Hutton Park Gardens v. West Orange Town Council, 68 N.J. 543, 564 (1975), and will remain undisturbed absent a showing of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action on the part of the governmental agency. Palamar Constr., Inc. v. Pennsauken Township, 196 N.J. Super. 241, 250 (App. Div. 1983). These principles apply to policy determinations made by local boards of education. See Parsippany-Troy Hills Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ. of Parsippany-Troy Hills, 188 N.J. Super. 161, 167 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 94 N.J. 527 (1983); Kopera, supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294; Quinlan v. Board of Educ. of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); Schinck v. Board of Educ. of Westwood Consol. Sch. Dist., 60 N.J. Super. 448 (App. Div. 1960).

In the law, "arbitrary" and "capricious" means having no rational basis. Bicknell v. United States, 422 *F.*2d 1055, 1057 (5th Cir. 1970). The terms "arbitrary" and "capricious" embrace a concept that emerges from the due process clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution and operate to guarantee that acts of government will be grounded on established legal principles. See Canty v. Board of Educ., City of New York, 312 F. Supp. 254, 256 (D.C.N.Y. 1970). Arbitrary and capricious action of administrative bodies means willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. State v. Jones, 401 *P.*2d 841, 842 (Wash. Sup. Ct. 1965). Moreover, the court should not substitute its judgment for that of an administrative or legislative body if there is substantial evidence to support the ruling. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Comm'n, 223 *So.*2d 132, 136 (La. Sup. Ct. 1969).

I FIND that the District's motivation and basis for firing Sheridan were not grounded in good-faith reasons involving teaching skills and performance. The evidence does not support the reason articulated by the District, which was that Sheridan had "not met district professional performance expectations." (P-37.) This is simply a vague catch-all phrase. The real motivation stemmed from a conflict with the superintendent and political pressure from influential parents over voluntary extracurricular activity with the NHS. The facts sufficiently support this conclusion. Sheridan was employed in January 2001. The teacher he replaced was the NHS advisor. Sheridan inherited this position, although it was a voluntary one. The District's NHS had preexisting bylaws, procedures and a core faculty membership. Sheridan was only an advisor to the NHS faculty, not a voting member. The NHS selection process was without controversy in 2001-2002. An investigation by the principal and superintendent confirmed that Sheridan and the voting members of the NHS followed the bylaws and procedures for school years 2001-2002 and 2002-2003. On January 21, 2003, Superintendent Campbell reported as follows:

> The intentions of the NHS selection committee, its advisor, and the high school administration are clearly honorable and there is no evidence of any deliberate or malicious intent to harm students in any way. In fact, the committee has spent many hours in this process, making every attempt to be fair and impartial. The selection committee used exactly the same format for selecting that has been used for many years. That format was apparently not correct when compared to the official NHS Handbook.
> [P-21 (emphasis added).]

In 2002-2003, approximately five parents complained about their children not getting nominated for or inducted into the NHS. This became the catalyst for Sheridan's termination. The parents were vocal and influential members of the community. Pressure was exerted on the Board and the superintendent to induct the children of these parents. An investigation of the admission process followed. It revealed that the NHS advisory staff and council did not violate any NHS standard or have improper motives. In fact, the investigation confirmed that the 2002-2003 nomination process followed the blueprint used by Pitman High School for numerous prior years. Nor was any favoritism found. Nevertheless, Superintendent Campbell and the Board were entrenched in a local controversy. Superintendent Campbell wanted the parents' complaints addressed and their children inducted, notwithstanding that it would violate the NHS rules, criteria, and local traditions. The NHS had already inducted its 2002-2003 members in December 2002. The NHS staff re-reviewed the applicants, as directed by the superintendent. In the spring of 2003, the NHS staff found that its original list of inductees should not be disturbed. Of the five voting staff members, three tenured staff members voted against opening up the process and the two non-tenured members voted the way Superintendent Campbell wanted. Sheridan suggests that the non-tenured members were intimidated and feared retaliation. In accordance with the rules, Sheridan, in his capacity as advisor, did not vote. The superintendent's demand to induct more students failed by a 3-2 vote. The NHS faculty believed that opening up the admission process after the original candidates had already been inducted was disingenuous to the original inductees. It diluted the meaning and purpose of the NHS. The NHS would be transformed into a social club rather than an honor society. Parents of those students originally inducted in December 2002 objected to a reopened admission process for these reasons.

Superintendent Campbell did not take no for an answer. He met with Principal Grennor and directed that Principal Grennor take over the NHS admission process. His marching orders were to induct all students who reapplied to be admitted into the NHS. Moreover, Campbell told Grennor that he was going to fire Sheridan over this incident. Grennor tried to save Sheridan's job. He suggested to Campbell that Sheridan resign from the NHS and coaching. Subsequent to meeting with Campbell, Grennor indicated to Sheridan that his job was at risk because of the 2002-2003 NHS controversy. Campbell assigned Esther Pacitti, assistant superintendent, to perform Sheridan's last performance review. Not surprisingly, on April 21, 2003, Pacitti authored an average review of Sheridan. (P-13.) All other reviews were above average. This was approximately one week before Sheridan was terminated.

Sheridan resigned from the NHS on February 12, 2003. Grennor and Sheridan debated whether a resignation was the appropriate response. Sheridan's resignation from the NHS was loosely tendered. Sheridan continued to provide input to the NHS until the conclusion of the school year.

On June 10, 2003, the Board fired Sheridan based upon Campbell's recommendation. Sheridan requested reasons for his non-renewal. The reason was, "you have not met the district's professional performance standards." (P-37.) After the Board had already publicly met and determined not to renew his contract, Sheridan submitted his resignation on June 11, 2003. (P-41.) This was done for cosmetic reasons. Sheridan's union advisor suggested that if he resigned, it would make obtaining future employment easier than if Sheridan was fired. Sheridan has a family and children. He was in his early fifties. He was very concerned about the ability to earn a living. Therefore, by resigning after having already been fired, Sheridan tried to put the best face on a dire situation.

Once the Board had officially terminated Sheridan on June 10, 2003, the legal significance of his resignation diminished. The Commissioner has held that a tenured employee cannot be terminated by resignation until the school board accepts that resignation. Kozak v. Board of Educ., Waterford Township, 1976 S.L.D. 633. There was evidence offered that the Board accepted Sheridan's resignation on July 15, 2003. (P-43). On this basis, the Board urges that it followed all of the procedural requirements necessary to terminate petitioner. But, it was the arbitrary and capricious actions of the Board that generated Sheridan's resignation. Thus, the legal significance of Sheridan's resignation is analogous to a constructive discharge. In Daniels v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 340 N.J. Super. 11, 17-18 (App. Div. 2001), the court described a constructive discharge:

> A constructive discharge occurs when the employer has imposed upon an employee working conditions "so intolerable that a reasonable person subject to them would resign." Muench v. Township of Haddon, 255 N.J. Super. 288, 302, 605 *A.*2d 242 (App. Div. 1992). Thus, in a constructive discharge situation, a violation occurs at the point where a reasonable employee is compelled to resign due to the employer's action. At that point, the employer has engaged in a retaliatory action. The employee cannot change the intolerable conditions imposed by the employer by demonstrating loyalty or excellent work performance. The employer cannot rescind a constructive discharge. The harm has been done when the employee feels compelled to resign. In short, in an actual termination situation, the retaliatory action which starts the running of the period of limitations is the separation from work. In a constructive discharge situation, the retaliatory action is the creation of intolerable conditions which a reasonable employee cannot accept. The conditions become intolerable when the employee tenders his or her resignation. Thus, by definition, the act of discrimination cannot occur any later than the date of resignation.

Therefore, I FIND petitioner's resignation was triggered by the District's improper actions. It was tendered after the Board voted to terminate petitioner. The purpose of the ex post facto resignation was to improve his hiring prospects. It was the result of duress or panic. Petitioner's age, family and future employment become a pressing concern. Sheridan's written resignation was intended as a means to offset his non-renewal and did not serve as a formal resignation. Thus, it lacked factual and legal intent. McAleer v. Jersey City Incinerator Auth., 79 N.J. Super. 142, 147 (App. Div. 1963). Finally, Sheridan appealed the Board's June 10, 2003, decision on September 5, 2003. The Board did not assert as an affirmative defense, Sheridan's resignation.

Having reviewed the panoply of documents and testimony surrounding the NHS controversy, it is impossible not to conclude that Sheridan was the "fall guy" for this incident. There was no other plausible reason to terminate Sheridan. The District's stated reason that Sheridan "did not meet the district's professional performance standards" is not supported in the record. He had outstanding reviews. Sheridan displayed all of the qualities and attributes of a professional and responsible teacher. His extracurricular involvement was exemplary. He was well liked and rated very high by his supervising staff. Prior to the Board's June 10, 2003, decision, Robert Eck, English Department chairman, wrote:

> I am writing this letter to oppose the decision not to rehire Mr. David Sheridan as an English teacher at Pitman High School. I have been the English Department Chairperson since September, and in that time I have been able to assess and observe Mr. Sheridan to be a competent teacher of English. Although I have never had the opportunity to observe Mr. Sheridan in a classroom setting, I can assure you that he has adhered to the curriculum of the Pitman School District. He has used innovative techniques in his classroom, and has provided his students with the opportunity to utilize the most recent technological advances.
> Not only has Mr. Sheridan satisfactorily achieved in the classroom, but he has also helped in the SRA process as well. He is an accurate scorer of holistically scored essays which are an important part of the SRA process. He also teaches a section of the SAT Prep class, and I have heard no complaints about his inability to teach that class. He has developed a rapport with his students, and seems to interact well with them. In short, I am certain that Mr. David Sheridan possesses the skills necessary for success in the classroom. Once again, I urge that he be rehired.

This ALJ is mindful that the Board's decision not to renew a teaching contract need not be grounded in unsatisfactory performance reviews. Donaldson, supra, 65 N.J. at 241. Nevertheless, the decision must be rationally based and not induced by improper motives. Kopera, supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. The testimony of the school principal, the comments from the English Department chairman, and the ten performance reviews confirm 1) that Sheridan was a qualified, experienced and professional teacher, and 2) that he was caught in the crossfire of a political controversy involving the NHS, an extracurricular activity. The probationary period must be utilized to review a teacher's skills. His skills were not lacking in any respect. Therefore, I FIND the June 10, 2003, decision of the Board to be unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious.

There must be some minimal due process reserved for non-tenured teachers. While school boards have virtually unlimited discretion in hiring and renewing non-tenured teacher contracts, Dore, supra, 185 N.J. Super. 447, the Legislature did not cloak school boards with complete, unbridled authority to dismiss non-tenured teaching staff members for frivolous reasons. There remains some limited right of review for a non-tenured teacher. The Board's decision must meet the standards set by the Legislature. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). School boards must exercise their discretion honestly and in due consideration of the relevant factors. And, when the school board's action conflicts with the legislation, and is a product of improper motive or is otherwise arbitrary and capricious, it must be overturned. I so CONCLUDE.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that petitioner, David M. Sheridan be reinstated to his position as a teacher for the Borough of Pitman, Board of Education. It is further ORDERED that petitioner receive back pay, benefits and all other emoluments, including tenure, if otherwise eligible for same, subject to mitigation from other earnings.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The Board did not file reply exceptions.

On exception, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision, contending that Board counsel and the Board's witness made dishonest, deceitful statements, and that she has met the requisite burden of proof for demonstrating her children's entitlement to attend school in the Board's district. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2-3) In support of these contentions, petitioner references appended "sustaining credentials" consisting of copies of an April 20, 2004 log for petitioner's home fax, showing that several pages were sent to the Board's fax number on that date ("P-1"); an envelope from the Board's attorney addressed to Petitioner at her fiancé's apartment in Newark, marked "Return to Sender" ("P-2"); a copy of the Board's Answer to the Petition of Appeal ("P-3"); a June 2004 envelope from the Board's attorney addressed to Petitioner at her mother's Orange apartment ("P-4"); the Board's final notice of ineligibility for Y.C. ("P-5"); the Board's February 3, 2004 notice of district-wide school re-registration ("P-6"); a completed Landlord/Owner Affidavit from the Orange Township Public Schools, dated August 11, 2004 and notarized on August 28, 2004, purporting to show that petitioner and her children reside at her mother's apartment in Orange ("P-7"); a current auto insurance card issued in March 2004 ("P-8"), a current vehicle registration issued in March 2004, and a current driver's license issued in November 2003 ("P-9"), all listing petitioner's address as her mother's apartment in Orange; petitioner's voting record, listing her address as her mother's apartment in Orange and showing her to have last voted in 2002 ("P-10"); an August 11, 2004 phone bill for the Orange apartment, in her mother's name ("P-11"); an undated photograph of the mailbox for the Orange apartment, showing petitioner's name taped on the box along with her mother's ("P-12"); a July 2004 utility bill for the Newark apartment addressed to petitioner's fiancé ("P-13"); an undated memorandum from the "management" of the Newark apartment complex noting that apartment 4B is leased to petitioner's cousin and 4K to petitioner's fiancé ("P-14"); and a November 3, 2004 letter from Noverlys R. Dominguez of Realty Management Systems, noting "slight confusion" with respect to her conversation with someone at the school district office regarding verification of the occupants of the Orange apartment and advising that the "main account holder" on the apartment was petitioner's mother but that petitioner and her children also reside there ("P-15").

It must be stated at the outset that applicable procedural rules preclude consideration of petitioner's documents, in that all but one of them ("P-15") were brought to the record for the first time as attachments to petitioner's post-hearing brief, not as evidence to be presented and assessed at hearing in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1 et seq. Because they were submitted in this manner, neither the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) nor the Board attorney had the opportunity to question petitioner about the documents, nor to assess their relevance or establish their validity; indeed, consistent with OAL rules, the record shows the ALJ to have expressly rejected petitioner's labeling of her documents as "Exhibits P-1 through P-14," not only omitting them from the Initial Decision's list of exhibits, but actually striking the "P-" designation from each. Moreover, even granting that the ALJ might have, in light of petitioner's pro se status, construed her submissions as a motion to reopen the record pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.5(c), petitioner offered the ALJ no reason whatsoever, let alone the "extraordinary circumstances" required by rule, as to why these documents—all but one of which, the undated "P-14," unquestionably pre-date the hearing—could not have been produced there; instead, she simply appended the documents to her brief. The remaining document, "P-15," is dated several weeks subsequent to the Initial Decision and presented to the Commissioner contrary to the clear proscription, at N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), against introducing new evidence through exceptions; just as at the OAL, petitioner offered no explanation as to why her documents were not produced at hearing, nor any reason why "P-15" could not have been timely procured and introduced.[1]

Notwithstanding the above, the Commissioner finds that no purpose would be served by rejecting petitioner's exceptions on procedural grounds and omitting any consideration whatsoever of her proffered documents, or by remanding this matter to the OAL so as to protract proceedings still further. Rather, the Commissioner finds that, even assuming the authenticity of the documents and granting every favorable inference to petitioner—both concessions solely for purposes of this discussion[2]—petitioner has not met her burden of establishing domicile in the

[1] In this regard, the Commissioner notes that petitioner has been given numerous opportunities, beginning in early April 2004, to present documentary proof of her claim of residency and that she did not appear at the Board hearing convened to assess that claim (Board's Answer; Exhibit R-3). Additionally, she received a two-week extension within which to make her post-hearing submission, so that she could consult legal counsel. (Letter of September 23, 2004, from petitioner to ALJ; letter of September 24, 2004 from Board to ALJ; letter of September 27, 2004 from ALJ to parties)

[2] The Commissioner notes that "P-7," "P-12" and "P-14" in particular appear suspect on their face, while "P-15" would appear to require both authentication and elaboration in light of other testimony and evidence submitted in this matter.

Board's district. Petitioner may not merely produce a handful of documents from the regulatory list of acceptable proofs and expect a finding of domicile without regard to the existence of compelling evidence to the contrary and a finding by the ALJ as the trier of fact, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), that petitioner was not credible in her testimony; at most, all petitioner's documents might prove is that she did at one time live at the Orange apartment, and that she still maintains some official attachments there. Neither of these conclusions is inconsistent with the ALJ's finding that petitioner is now domiciled with her fiancé in Newark along with her children. Similarly, those of petitioner's "exhibits" provided in an apparent attempt to undermine the credibility of the Board's witness and impugn the truthfulness of its attorney do not suffice for this purpose.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the OAL, finding that Y.C. and S.C. are ineligible to attend school in the Orange Township School District and directing petitioner to remit tuition in the amount of $24,286.00 for the 2003-04 school year plus, $68.26 per child per diem for the period from September 1, 2004 to the date of their removal, as his final decision in this matter.

L.C., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN,

Petitioner,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

L.C, parent of Y.C. and S.C., petitioner, pro se

Chandra Rainey Cole, Esq., for respondent (Love & Randall, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 12, 2004 Decided: October 20, 2004

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner L.C. challenges the determination made by respondent Board of Education of City of Orange ("Board" or "District") that minor children Y.C. and S.C. were not domiciled in the district and thus where not entitled to a free public education in the district. The Board has counterclaimed for tuition.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 6, 2004, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on August 30, 2004, and a deadline of September 27, 2004, was set for post-hearing submissions. Thereafter, petitioner requested a one-month extension of the deadline for post hearing submissions which was denied, however a two week extension was granted. The parties were advised by correspondence dated September 27, 2004, that the deadline for post-hearing submissions had been extended to October 12, 2004, and on that date the record closed.

TESTIMONY

Carlos Hawkins

Testifying for the district was Carlos Hawkins who is employed by the Orange Board of Education as the Attendance Officer at the middle school. He has been so employed for three years and his duties include all student attendance issues. Hawkins testified that if he suspects a student does not live in the district, he conducts an investigation, including a home visit, a five-day notice to the parent for proof of residency to be submitted, and telephone calls to the home. He may also attempt to contact someone else in the family. On April 6, 2004, the principal of the middle school, Dr. Gayles, advised Hawkins that Y.C. had indicated he lives in Newark. At the time Y.C. was thirteen or fourteen years old and was in eighth grade. Y.C. told Dr. Gayles that he lives at 10 Osborne Terrace in Newark. Y.C. also indicated at the time that his grandmother lives at 466 Highland Avenue in Orange, and gave Hawkins his telephone number in Newark. As a result of the information provided by Y.C. on April 6, 2004, an investigation was commenced. Hawkins' investigation revealed that the telephone number provided by Y.C. as his home number is listed to L. Calloway at 10 Osborne Terrace, Newark, New Jersey.

Hawkins testified that on April 6, 2004, he sent a letter to petitioner at 466 Highland Avenue (R-1) advising that L.C. was to contact the school within five days or her children would be dropped from the register. L.C. was advised to bring in three proofs of residency.

After an intervening spring break, on April 20, 2004, a Notice of Final Ineligibility was issued (R-2). Thereafter, petitioner appeared at the school and indicated that she had never received the April 6 letter (R-1). Hawkins asked L.T. for a copy of her lease and two utility bills or bank statements to verify her residency and indicated that petitioner never provided any of these documents.

Hawkins testified that he visited 466 Highland Avenue, apartment 309 in Orange before sending the April 6 letter to petitioner and after tracing petitioner's telephone number to the Newark address. There was no answer at the apartment at 9:15 p.m. when Hawkins was on his way home from his night job. Hawkins' survey of the area revealed no mailbox with petitioner's name on it. Hawkins also telephoned the realty group that manages the 466 Highland Avenue property and spoke to Noverlyn in the management office, who indicated that the particular apartment is in the name of Carol Bell and that it is a one-bedroom apartment in which no one other than Ms. Bell resides. Noverlyn advised Mr. Hawkins that there is no lease on file.

Hawkins visited the Newark address on either June 1 or 2, 2004, between 11:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. while on his lunch break. He took five pictures of the doorbell with the name L. Calloway. He also spoke to four teenagers, aged 14 to 16 who were outside the building, and who indicated that Y.C. resides in the building and also has a younger sister.

Hawkins indicated that a residency hearing was held on June 3, 2004, however petitioner did not appear for that hearing and a finding of no residency was sustained. The letter notifying petitioner of the hearing was unclaimed from 466 Highland Avenue, Orange, New Jersey.

Hawkins testified that Y.C. was never excluded from school.

L.C.

Petitioner testified that her son Y.C. has been referred to the Child Study Team for evaluations. She testified that she asked the District what she needed to provide to prove her residency and testified that on April 21, 2004, she gave a package to the District.[1] Petitioner also testified that the residency questions coincided with her request for the referral of Y.C. to the Child Study Team in February.

On cross-examination L.C. testified that her fiancé, who is her daughter's father, resides at 10 Osborne Terrace. She indicated that the utility bills were in his name at that address. When asked why her name was on the doorbell, petitioner testified that her fiancé could not get a phone bill in his own name so the bill was placed in her name. She stated that her name is on the mailbox so that the phone bill can be received there. She also testified that her cousin resides in the same building and her cousin's first initial is "S." L.C. testified that her fiancé and his daughter reside in the apartment and that she is there two to three times a week, although some weeks she is there every day. She indicated that her children go there if she is working late and stay there sometimes. She testified that her children's clothes are at the 466 Highland Avenue address in Orange however they have some clothes in Newark as well, and that they "spend summers there". L.C. indicated that she has lived with her mother since approximately 1987 at the Highland Avenue address in Orange, but that she goes back and forth between the two residences on weekends and during vacations. She indicated that she is never at 10 Osborne Terrace for long periods of time. L.C. also testified that she never advised the telephone company that she lives at 10 Osborne Terrace and indicated that they never asked her where she lives or for her address. L.C. stated that when her fiancé applied for telephone service he did not want to pay his overdue balance and so the new phone line was put in her name. Petitioner also testified that on April 21st, the date of the Final Ineligibility Letter, her son was excluded from school and did not attend that day.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based upon consideration of the totality of the evidence presented, both testimonial and documentary, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses who testified, I FIND the following FACTS in this case.

[1] None of the documents purportedly given to the district on that date were provided at the hearing.

1. Petitioner has two children who have attended district schools, Y.C. who was an eighth grade student at Orange Middle School during the 2003-04 school year and S.C. who was a second grade student during the 2003-04 school year.

2. On April 6, 2004, the principal of Orange Middle School, Dr. Gayles had occasion to speak with Y.C. regarding an incident that had occurred at the school. During his conversation with Dr. Gayles, Y.C. indicated that he did not live at 466 Highland Avenue in Orange, New Jersey, rather he stated that he resides at 10 Osborne Terrace in Newark, New Jersey. Dr. Gayles revealed this information to Carlos Hawkins, the Attendance Officer for Orange Middle School and asked that he investigate the information provided by Y.C.

3. Mr. Hawkins telephoned the number contained within the school files for Y.C. Y.C. advised Hawkins that the number on file was not his home phone number and provided a second number to Hawkins. Further investigation revealed that the telephone number provided by Y.C. was the telephone number at 10 Osborne Terrace, Newark, New Jersey.

4. The district then advised L.C. by letter dated April 6, 2004, that as it appeared L.C. was no longer residing in the district, adequate proof of residency was to be provided within 5 days. No response to that letter (R-1) was received by the district.

5. Hawkins visited the address in Newark provided by Y.C. as his home address and observed the name of L.C. next to one of the doorbells. During that visit Hawkins also spoke to four teenagers who were outside of the building and who indicated that Y.C. lives in the building and has a younger sister.

6. Hawkins visited the Orange address at 466 Highland Avenue and found no indication that petitioner or her children reside there. Hawkins telephoned the management company and was advised that the apartment in question, number 309, is a one bedroom apartment. The management company had no knowledge of L.C. or her children occupying the premises.

7. On April 20, 2004, a Notice of Ineligibility (R-2) was hand-delivered to petitioner at the Orange Middle School.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The Board has asserted that Y.C. and S.C. were not domiciled within the district during the 2003-2004 school year and, consequently, are not entitled to a free public education in Orange.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that the public schools of a district are free to persons domiciled within the district who are over five and under twenty years of age. Domicile is the place of a person's abode, where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile, which is that place that the person regards as his or her true and permanent home. Board of Educ. of Middle Township, Cape May County v. K.K., 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 461.

In a proceeding such as this, the parent has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the children meet the eligibility requirements. Here, L.C. has failed to meet that burden. Petitioner offered nothing more than an unsupported assertion that she is domiciled in Orange, with her two children, in a one bedroom apartment leased by her mother, and that therefore her children are entitled to a free public education in the district. Petitioner's testimony was implausible at best and thoroughly unconvincing. She provided no documentary or testimonial evidence at the hearing to indicate residency.

Based upon the undisputed facts and circumstances, I FIND that Y.C. and S.C. are not domiciled within the district, and therefore do not meet the requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). I therefore CONCLUDE that Y.C. and S.C. are not entitled to a free public education in the Orange school district. I further CONCLUDE that the tuition costs set forth by respondent are uncontradicted. Therefore petitioner is assessed tuition in the based amount of $24,286.00 for the 2003-2004 school year, and at a per diem rate of $68.26 per child for the period of September 1, 2004 to the date of removal from respondent's school district.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's appeal of respondent's determination is DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that Y.C. and S.C. are ineligible for attendance in respondent's school district. It is further ORDERED that petitioner be assessed tuition costs as set forth above for the period of Y.C. and S.C.'s ineligible attendance in respondent's school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10. deceiving

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF REGINALD DAVIS, :
EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ESSEX COUNTY. : DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty against the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, and/or an annual financial disclosure statement, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2004 for school officials in office since January 30, 2004, or 30 days from swearing-in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on August 20, 2004, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 10, 2004, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 17, 2004 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 26, 2004 to recommend a censure of the above-named school official in light of his failure to respond to the Commission's letter before the September 10, 2004 deadline, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated October 28, 2004 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending censure; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds that the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Denise Irvin-Johnson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner February 11, 2004 and In the Matter of Joel Pabon, Sr., Perth Amboy Board of Education, Middlesex County, decided by the Commissioner February 5, 2004, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official completed and submitted the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause, but did not provide any reasons for failure to comply within the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the appropriate penalty was a reprimand); and

Whereas, the penalty of reprimand has additionally been recommended and imposed under circumstances where noncompliance with the filing requirement was egregious, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Beverly Evenson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington Township, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003 and In the Matter of Lynel Dunkins, Gateway Charter School, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official did not complete the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause and did not provide any reasons for failure to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the school official was suspended until such disclosure statement was filed and automatically removed from the Board if he/she failed to file the required statement within 30 days, but was reprimanded if he/she filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of the Commissioner's decision); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasoning in recommending the imposition of the more severe penalty of censure in this instance; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that a reprimand is the proper penalty in that it is consistent with the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature, and

Whereas, the Commissioner nevertheless admonishes the school official for his/her failure to timely file the requisite statement in that such delay has caused administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on January 9, 2003 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was scheduled for September 24, 2003, which was adjourned by the respondent's attorney because of the unavailability of a witness. A hearing was rescheduled for March 10, 2004.

On the date of the hearing, the parties were able to resolve the matter. On May 4, 2004, the parties submitted the attached Settlement Agreement. On July 13, 2004 the Commissioner of Education filed a decision remanding the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) based on the fact that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contained a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating individuals to sign the agreement on its behalf. In addition, the agreement was not signed by the Board attorney. A telephone conference was scheduled for September 10, 2004 to discuss the remand. The settlement was revised and a Board Resolution attached, which complied with the Remand Order. The attached Settlement Agreement indicates the terms of the agreement. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signature of the parties and/or signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

RESOLVED, that the Superintendent of Schools and Special Counsel have resolved an Administrative Law proceeding commenced against the District by Kathleen Temple. By her petition, Ms. Temple sought to restore 31 days to her sick bank on the basis that the sick days were the result of a work related injury. Both parties were willing to compromise to avoid the costs and uncertainty of a hearing. It has been agreed that 20 days will be restored to the sick bank. The balance of 11 days will not be restored. The Office of the Commissioner seeks a Board resolution approving the settlement.

The above is a true copy of a resolution approved by the Hoboken Board of Education at the Stated Session held on Tuesday, August 31, 2004.

IN THE MATTER OF ARTHUR WRIGHT, :

EAST ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

ESSEX COUNTY. : DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty against the above-named school official for failure to file a personal/relative disclosure statement, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and/or an annual financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26;

Whereas, the deadline to file these disclosure statements was April 30, 2004 for school officials in office since January 30, 2004, or 30 days from swearing-in or start of service for newly elected or appointed board members and administrators; and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with his school district and the County Superintendent's office, as required by the Act; and

Whereas, the Commission sent a reminder letter to the above-named school official on August 20, 2004, indicating that if the completed statement was not filed by September 10, 2004, the Commission would issue an Order to Show Cause that could result in disciplinary action; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.5(j), the Commission issued an Order on September 17, 2004 directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file the necessary statement(s); and

Whereas, the Commission found that failure to file a disclosure statement within the designated timeline constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide an answer to the Order or any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 26, 2004 to recommend censure of the above-named school official in light of his failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 10, 2004 deadline, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated October 28, 2004 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending censure; and

Whereas, no comments were received from the above-named school official; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds that the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Denise Irvin-Johnson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner

February 11, 2004 and In the Matter of Joel Pabon, Sr., Perth Amboy Board of Education, Middlesex County, decided by the Commissioner February 5, 2004, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official completed and submitted the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause, but did not provide any reasons for failure to comply within the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the appropriate penalty was a reprimand); and

Whereas, the penalty of reprimand has additionally been recommended and imposed under circumstances where noncompliance with the filing requirement was egregious, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Beverly Evenson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington Township, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003 and In the Matter of Lynel Dunkins, Gateway Charter School, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official did not complete the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause and did not provide any reasons for failure to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the school official was suspended until such disclosure statement was filed and automatically removed from the Board if he/she failed to file the required statement within 30 days, but was reprimanded if he/she filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of the Commissioner's decision); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasoning in recommending the imposition of the more severe penalty of censure in this instance; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that a reprimand is the proper penalty in that it is consistent with the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature, and

Whereas, the Commissioner nevertheless admonishes the school official for his/her failure to timely file the requisite statement in that such delay has caused administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named school official be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2868-04

AGENCY REF NO. 120-4/04

M.N., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, D.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

EAST BRUNSWICK TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

M.N., petitioner, pro se

Robin T. McMahon, Esq., for respondent East Brunswick Township Board of Education

Record Closed: September 10, 2004 Decided: October 25, 2004

BEFORE DANIEL B. MCKEOWN, ALJ, (t/a)

INTRODUCTION

Under date of April 2, 2004, M.N., who is identified as the "petitioner" in this matter, filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal with the Commissioner of Education by which she claims D.B., who is a minor child of 15 years of age, is her godchild. She further claims D.B. resides with her in East Brunswick and is entitled to attend the East Brunswick public school district under N.J.S.A. 38-1 but that school officials refuse to allow his attendance. The East Brunswick Township Board of Education (Board) filed an Answer to the Appeal on April 12, 2004 and included a counterclaim for tuition due in the amount of $9,018 from D.B.'s parents for the unlawful attendance by D.B. in its schools between November 2003 and June 2004. While according to an affidavit filed by Board counsel's secretary, proof of service of the counterclaim was made upon the parents no other filings in this matter were served upon them. Other than an indirect allegation by the board that the identified petitioner, M.N., is party to an unlawful criminal conspiracy and seeks authorization from the Commissioner to refer the matter to the Middlesex County Prosecutor for further proceedings, the Board seeks no other relief from M.N. The Board requests tuition solely from the D.B.'s parents, "jointly and severally".

The Commissioner of Education transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law Office as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. After notice to petitioner, M.N., a hearing was scheduled for August 27, 2004. Despite notice being mailed petitioner by the Office of Administrative Law, she failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The hearing proceeded in the absence of petitioner and solely on the Board's counterclaim for a tuition claim against the parents.

The conclusions are reached in this initial decision that petitioner failed to establish the truth of the claim that D.B. is eligible for a free education at the Board's schools under the criteria at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 but that a judgment cannot be entered here against mother without a separate petition, with proper notice, being filed against her.

FACTS

A preponderance of credible evidence in this record establishes the following facts. On November 11, 2003, D.B.'s mother, L.B., filed a form dated entitled Affidavit of Temporary Residence with the East Brunswick Board of Education to establish eligibility D.B. to attend a its school under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Mother attested that her family, including her son, D.B., was temporarily residing with petitioner M.N. in East Brunswick until she and her family found a residence "in area". It appears that mother and father do not live together. Mother asserts she lives with M.N.; father resides in Monmouth Junction, which is part of the South Brunswick school district. As proof of her family living with M.N. in East Brunswick, mother submitted to the Board a letter from M.N., a utility bill, a telephone bill, and a bank statement all in M.N.'s name, who does indeed reside in East Brunswick.

The Board advised mother on December 16, 2003 that her request to enroll her son, D.B., in its schools was defective and additional evidence was necessary to establish domicility or residency at the street address where M.N. resides. The Board attached examples of the kinds of proof necessary to enroll D.B. Mother did submit on January 5, 2004 a letter addressed to her regarding her financial aid awards to attend Middlesex County Community College at the street address in East Brunswick. It is noted that D.B. was allowed to attend the Board's school during this entire process of application.

It appears that on January 13, 2004 an anonymous telephone call was made to the guidance office at the Board's school stating that D.B. actually resides in South Brunswick, and is driven to East Brunswick every day to be dropped off at school. On January 14, 2004, the Board notified mother that due to lack of submitted documentation that either she or her son D.B. were resident in the district, he is not entitled to a free education in its schools. The notice was sent to father's Monmouth Junction address. On January 17, 2004 mother submitted a bank statement in her name and listing the East Brunswick address of petitioner as her address. Another anonymous telephone call from mother's office was made to the Board's guidance office on February 10, 2004 reporting that mother lives in Monmouth Junction, not East Brunswick, and that another child of hers attends South Brunswick schools.

A memorandum dated April 13, 2004 from the principal of the Monmouth Junction School to the assistant superintendent of the Board's schools reports that mother's daughter does indeed attend the Monmouth Junction elementary school for the entire 2003-2004 academic year.

An application for a hearing in New Jersey Superior Court, Family Division, signed by petitioner M.N. seeking custody of D.B. so that he could attend the East Brunswick schools until his residence is established in East Brunswick. M.N. identifies herself as Godmother, and asserts she has held that status for the past three months. There is no explanation in this record what petitioner M.N. intends to convey by claiming the status of 'Godmother', but three months before February 2004 is when the initial application to allow D.B. into the Board's school was filed by mother. The application itself appears to be countersigned by a probation officer.

On March 24, 2004 the Board , in a letter addressed to the East Brunswick address of petitioner, advised mother that it determined her son, D.B. was not eligible to attend its schools free of charge because of insufficient documentation to establish parental domicility in East Brunswick, that contradictory information was submitted by petitioner M.N. and mother regarding the district of residence, and a specific address in Monmouth Junction continues to be used as the address of record for D.B. and mother. The Board asserts that that petitioner M.N. listed mother's address in the application filed in Superior Court on February 13, 2004 Monmouth Junction, not with her in East Brunswick. Nevertheless, D.B. continued to attend the East Brunswick schools because petitioner filed the instant appeal before the Commissioner of Education on April 2, 2004. There is in the record an Order signed by Barbara C. Stolte, JSC, granting petitioner M.N. "residential" custody of D.B. until he completes high school.

After the appeal was filed, the Board received anonymous telephone calls on April 21 and April 27 reporting that D.B. lives in South Brunswick but was expelled from that school for misconduct South Brunswick and that his father drives him to and from East Brunswick, and that both mother and D.B. live in South Brunswick. Documents submitted by the Board in this case do support as fact that D.B. was suspended 10 days from South Brunswick in May 2003 for vandalism; that he was arrested in May 2003 for initiating a fire alarm in the South Brunswick school; that h had had an argument with petitioner M.N. who would no longer allow mother or D.B. to list her address as theirs; and, that while D.B. lived in her house between November 2003 and May 14, 2004 petitioner M.N. he was no longer invited to do so because of an incident. D.B. was enrolled at the Middlesex County Vocational Technical High School for 2004-2005.

Finally, the Board submitted a certification from its Business Administrator/Board Secretary who calculates that based on the per pupil cost in East Brunswick, together with the number of days D.B. attended its school without being eligible, mother owes it $5911.80 for attendance between through May 31, 2004 or $6613.20 for attendance through June 18, 2004, the end of the academic year.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides in part:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
>
> 1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child . . .
> 2) If the superintendent . . . of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided . . . the superintendent . . . may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent of guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child . . . the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner . . . and shall have the burden of proof > by a preponderance of credible evidence that the child is eligible for a free education . . . If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district...

It is recognized that N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-2 allows for free attendance at school by nonresidents placed in the home of another person who is resident in the district. In this case, there is a court order for "residential" custody for the sole purpose of allowing D.B. to attend East Brunswick schools even though his mother has not established residence in the district. That is not, in my view, the intent of the N.J.S.A. 18A:8-2 but, and despite what I may have stated at hearing, the jurisdiction of Superior Court must be recognized. Even though the evidence fails to establish residency in East Brunswick for purposes of D.B.'s free attendance at the Board's school, and even though there may be some indication mother and petitioner M.N. stretched the truth by claiming mother and D.B. live with petitioner in East Brunswick, the order of a judge of New Jersey Superior Court must be acknowledged.

But even if there were no such order and mother was found to have failed in her burden of proof, and the conclusion reached that D.B. attended the Board's school improperly, tuition cannot be awarded against the parent because mother is in this case by being named in the Board's counterclaim. The Office of Administrative Law does not engage in third party practice. Mother did not file the petition; M.N. did. M.N. is not a named guardian in the case. A separate petition, with proper notice to mother, would have to be filed against mother in order for the Board to be awarded tuition against her.

Accordingly, and despite the failure of mother to appear at hearing or petitioner herself to appear at hearing, the counterclaim against mother must be and is DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Whereas, the above-referenced school official did not provide an answer to the Order or any reason why he failed to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26; and

Whereas, the Commission voted on October 26, 2004 to recommend censure of the above-named school official in light of his failure to respond to the Commission's reminder letter before the September 10, 2004 deadline, memorializing such decision through a resolution forwarded to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29; and

Whereas, by letter dated October 28, 2004 from the School Ethics Commission, the above-named school official was afforded an opportunity to submit to the Commissioner a response to said resolution recommending censure; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds that the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Denise Irvin-Johnson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington County, decided by the Commissioner

February 11, 2004 and In the Matter of Joel Pabon, Sr., Perth Amboy Board of Education, Middlesex County, decided by the Commissioner February 5, 2004, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official completed and submitted the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause, but did not provide any reasons for failure to comply within the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the appropriate penalty was a reprimand); and

Whereas, the penalty of reprimand has additionally been recommended and imposed under circumstances where noncompliance with the filing requirement was egregious, (See, e.g., In the Matter of Beverly Evenson, Willingboro Township Board of Education, Burlington Township, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003 and In the Matter of Lynel Dunkins, Gateway Charter School, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003, where the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that where a school official did not complete the required disclosure statement after the issuance of an Order to Show Cause and did not provide any reasons for failure to comply with the requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, the school official was suspended until such disclosure statement was filed and automatically removed from the Board if he/she failed to file the required statement within 30 days, but was reprimanded if he/she filed the necessary statement prior to the filing date of the Commissioner's decision); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasoning in recommending the imposition of the more severe penalty of censure in this instance; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that a reprimand is the proper penalty in that it is consistent with the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature, and

Whereas, the Commissioner nevertheless admonishes the school official for his/her failure to timely file the requisite statement in that such delay has caused administrative and adjudicative time to be wasted by local, county and state education officials; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named school official be reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.*

ROBIN SKIDMORE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Primary exceptions of both parties and reply exceptions of the Board, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.[1]

Petitioner excepts solely to that portion of the Initial Decision which found the 60-day termination clause applicable and, notwithstanding the renewal of petitioner's contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 through 12, permitted the Board to terminate her employment. In this regard, petitioner again contends, as she did below, that acceptance of this outcome operates to frustrate the clear language and intent of the renewal/nonrenewal statutes and she, therefore, urges that "the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 through 12 should apply here to the exclusion of the termination provision." (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2)

[1] It is noted that during the course of the Commissioner's review of the instant recommended Initial Decision, Melissa R. Vance, Esq. filed a motion to participate in this matter, on behalf of the New Jersey Association of School Administrators. Although there is regulatory authorization for an individual or entity to intervene in a case prior to its initial transmission to the OAL (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.8), or during hearing of the matter at the OAL (N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.1), there is no such authority for intervention at this late stage in the proceedings. Counsel's motion, therefore, was denied.

December 1, 2004

The Board's exceptions charge that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in his factual interpretation and application of law in holding that the Board failed to notify petitioner of the nonrenewal of her contract as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10(b). In so finding, it avers, he failed to recognize that when petitioner received the final copy of her year-end evaluation on May 7, 2003, indicating that the Superintendent recommended nonrenewal of her employment, her contract was, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b), deemed nonrenewed. (Board's Exceptions at 1) The Board proffers that the "crux" of the ALJ's analysis in this regard is that the Board failed to take "formal" action to accept the Superintendent's recommendation of nonrenewal of petitioner's employment and did not inform petitioner whether it was accepting or rejecting the Superintendent's recommendation. What such an analysis fails to recognize, it avers, is that the Board is not legally required to take such actions. (Id. at 6) Specifically, it advances:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 states that on or before May 15 of each year non-tenured teachers must receive either a written offer of a contract for employment or a written notice from the chief school administrator (i.e. the superintendent; see N.J.A.C. 6:3-2.1) that such employment will not be offered. A non-tenured teacher who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator is deemed non-renewed. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). Thus, once a non-tenured teacher is notified that the chief school administrator has recommended non-renewal, that teacher's contract is deemed non-renewed by operation of law.
> Upon receiving notification that the teacher's contract will not be renewed, the teacher may request in writing a statement of reasons for non-renewal from the board of education. See N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b) and N.J.A.C. 6:3-3-4.2. See also N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2. After requesting and receiving the statement of reasons, the teacher may request in writing an informal appearance before the board of education, whereby the teacher can present witnesses in support of renewal. Id. The board of education is required to notify a teacher of its final determination only after the teacher has requested and participated in the informal appearance known as a Donaldson hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.2 See also Donaldson v.

> Board of Education of North Wildwood, 65 N.J. 236 (1974). The board of education is not required to notify the teacher of non-renewal if the teacher never requests and participates in a Donaldson hearing. If a Donaldson hearing is not requested, once the teacher is notified that the chief school administrator has recommended non-renewal of the teacher's contract, that teacher, as a matter of law, is on notice that the teacher's contract will not be renewed since a chief school administrator's recommendation of non-renewal is deemed non-renewal. Additionally, regardless of whether or not the teacher requests a Donaldson hearing, the board of education is never required to take formal action to accept or reject the chief school administrator's recommendation of non-renewal. See Velasquez v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brielle, EDU #8276-95 (State Board of Ed., April 4, 1996).
> (Board's Exceptions at 6-7)

Applying this law to the facts of this matter, the Board submits the following: On March 14, 2003 petitioner was shown a copy of her year-end evaluation which indicated that non-renewal was recommended. She received a Rice notice[2] advising her that on March 18, 2003 the Board would be discussing her employment and petitioner attended this meeting. On May 7, 2003, petitioner received the final copy of her year-end evaluation, signed by the Superintendent, which stated that her nonrenewal was recommended. Notwithstanding that the ALJ properly recognized, it avers, that petitioner received notice that the Superintendent recommended non-renewal of her contract, he "failed to recognize that as of May 7, 2003, by operation of law, [petitioner] knew that her contract would not be renewed since a non-tenured teacher who is not recommended for renewal by the Superintendent is deemed non-renewed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b)." (Board's Exceptions at 7) (emphasis in text) The Board further asserts, while the ALJ was correct in stating that, irrespective of the Superintendent's recommendation, the Board could still offer re-employment to an individual recommended for nonrenewal, if that individual can convince the Board that he or she deserves a contract, the facts of this matter belie such a result here as this petitioner neither requested a statement of reasons for her nonrenewal nor did she request a Donaldson hearing with the Board, prerequisites to a written Board response indicating acceptance or rejection of the Superintendent's recommendation. Thus, the Board argues, contrary to the conclusion of the ALJ, under the applicable statute, the Board is never required to take any "formal" action to accept or reject the Superintendent's recommendation of nonrenewal. In fact, it proffers, the only time the Board would be required to take any action whatsoever with respect to the nonrenewal of petitioner's employment is if petitioner, upon receipt of notice of the recommendation of her nonrenewal by the Superintendent, had requested a statement of reasons and a Donaldson hearing, whereupon the Board would have been required to notify her of its decision in writing. (Board's Exceptions at 7-8) The Board, therefore, urges reversal of the ALJ's decision.

[2] If a board of education intends to discuss the nonrenewal of specific employees for performance or other reasons, it must issue a Rice notice to those employees. This requirement, which derives its name from Rice v. Union Co. Regional High School Board. Of Education, 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977), cert. den. 76 N.J. 238 (1978) is not to be confused with a Donaldson hearing, which a non-tenured teaching staff member may request in writing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2, subsequent to requesting and receiving a written statement of reasons for his/her non-reemployment.

Upon his full and independent review of the record, Initial Decision and the parties' exception arguments, finding the Board's exception discussion of the applicable law and legal principles applicable to the factual circumstances here to be correct, the Commissioner is compelled to reject the Initial Decision.

Initially, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's discussion and analysis, on pages 6-12 of his decision, with respect to the method or sufficiency of petitioner's notice of nonrenewal, the Board's failure to take action to formally nonrenew her contract and the chief school administrator's underlying role in the nonrenewal process. The Commissioner concludes that the ALJ's misinterpretation of the applicable statutes may, to some extent, be attributable to his reliance on case law supporting his analysis which predated the creation/amendment of these statutory provisions in 1995.

The Commissioner observes that on June 19, 1995 the Governor signed into law P.L 1995, c. 125 (N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1), a new provision intended to clarify the role of chief school administrators in employment decisions. This law, often referred to as the "Rotondo Bill," was enacted in response to a decision of the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division, Rotondo v. Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional High School District, 276 N.J. Super. 36 (App. Div. 1994), which had the effect of rendering uncertain the role of these individuals in such decisions. Section a. of this new provision addressed the appointment, transfer or removal of employees and specifies:

> A board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove[3] a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons.

Section b. of this law deals specifically with the renewal/nonrenewal of non-tenured employees and specifies:

> A board of education shall renew the employment contract of a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. The board shall not withhold its approval for arbitrary and capricious reasons. A nontenured officer or employee who is not recommended for renewal by the chief school administrator shall be deemed nonrenewed. Prior to notifying the officer or employee of the nonrenewal, the chief school administrator shall notify the board of the recommendation not to renew the officer's or employee's contract and the reasons for the recommendation. An officer or employee whose employment

[3] It is noted that the term "removal," in the context of this provision, means dismissal by virtue of tenure charges for a tenured individual or termination of a non-tenured employee's contract during the course of its term. This term is wholly distinguishable from nonrenewal which is explicitly addressed in section b. of this provision.

> contract is not renewed shall have the right to a written statement of reasons for nonrenewal pursuant to section 2 of P.L. 1975, c.132 (C.18A:27-3.2) and to an informal appearance before the board. The purpose of the appearance shall be to permit the staff member to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment. The chief school administrator shall notify the officer or employee of the nonrenewal, pursuant, where applicable, to the provisions of section 1 P.L. 1971, c.436 (C.18A:27-10). (emphasis supplied)

Also on June 19, 1995, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 was amended to reflect the above new addition to the law. Prior to amendment, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 specified:

> 1. On or before May 15 in each year, every board of education in this State shall give to each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by it since the preceding September 30 either > a. A written offer of a contract for employment for the next succeeding school year providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment but with such increase in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or > b. A written notice that such employment will not be offered.
>

Subsequent to amendment, this provision, in pertinent part, specifies:

> 1. On or before May 15 in each year, each nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by a board of education since the preceding September 30 shall receive either > a. A written offer of a contract for employment from the board of education for the next succeeding school year providing for at least the same terms and conditions of employment but with such increases in salary as may be required by law or policies of the board of education, or
>
>
> b. A written notice from the chief school administrator that such employment will not be offered.
> (emphasis supplied)

Thus, the Commissioner concludes that, with the advent of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 in June 1995, the process for the renewal of a non-tenured employee's contract is: Prior to May 15, 1) the superintendent must recommend to the board that the employee be renewed; 2) the board must vote by a recorded roll majority vote of its full membership to renew the employee (the board may reject the superintendent's recommendation and decline to renew the employee, as long as it does not act in an arbitrary or capricious manner); and 3) the board must notify the employee of reemployment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. In contrast, the procedure for nonrenewal is: Prior to May 15, 1) the superintendent must inform the board of his decision not to renew the employee; 2) the superintendent must provide the board with reasons for his nonrenewal recommendation; and 3) the superintendent must notify the employee, in writing, of the nonrenewal decision. The employee is then deemed nonrenewed by operation of law, and no formal board action is required.

With the requirements of the applicable law clearly in mind, the Commissioner finds, under the circumstances existing here, a conclusion that petitioner's contract of employment was not timely and appropriately nonrenewed is untenable. Rather, he finds and concludes that the facts in this matter confirm that the procedures dictated by the above applicable statute for the nonrenewal of non-tenured teaching staff members were followed and that petitioner's employment with the Board was appropriately terminated, by operation of law, as of June 30, 2003. To the extent petitioner may be challenging the Superintendent's notice to her via a signed, written evaluation form as insufficient to satisfy N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, the Commissioner disagrees. As recognized by the ALJ, "[t]he primary purpose of [N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10] is to provide teachers with timely notice when they are not going to be reemployed so that they may seek other employment." (citation omitted) Initial Decision at 6. Although N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10 does not address the type of written notice which would constitute "adequate" notice, guidance in this regard may be gleaned from the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 wherein the Court stated:

> [a]dequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. (citations omitted) at 587

Here, the notice received by petitioner from the Superintendent on May 7, 2003 was unambiguous and unconditional in light of the clear language of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b). At this point in time, petitioner could have no question as to her employment status. Because she chose not to exercise her statutory right to request a statement of reasons for her nonrenewal and a subsequent informal meeting with the Board to attempt to persuade them to overturn the Superintendent's recommendation, the Commissioner finds and determines that petitioner received the full measure of the process due her.

Finally, given the Commissioner's determination on the underlying merits of this matter as outlined above, he finds it unnecessary to reach to the ALJ's discussion of the procedural question of untimeliness or the propriety of the Board's subsequent termination of petitioner pursuant to the 60-day termination provision of her employment contract.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected. Summary decision is granted to the Board and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon a thorough review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs that, in light of respondent's resignation from the District and her retirement on an ordinary disability pension, there is no basis upon which this matter can be ordered to proceed and it is, therefore, dismissed as moot. The Commissioner also agrees that petitioner has no obligation to notify the Board of Examiners of respondent's resignation and retirement. As set forth by the Administrative Law Judge, excessive absenteeism charges alone, without accusations of conduct unbecoming or wrongdoing, generally do not concern the State Board of Examiners. Moreover, the code provision which provides for the chief school administrator of a district to notify the State Board of Examiners whenever a teacher retires or resigns prior to adjudication of tenure proceedings, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.4,[1] applies only in cases involving allegations of criminal conduct or conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

[1] It is noted that N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5, to which the ALJ refers, was repealed effective January 20, 2004 and re-codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.4.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision dismissing the within tenure charges as moot is adopted for the reasons set forth therein.

Record Closed: September 13, 2004 Decided: October 27, 2004

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter involves tenure charges filed against Deborah Robinson (Respondent), a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Board of Education of the Jersey City School District (Petitioner). The charges were certified by the State District Superintendent of the Jersey City School District and filed with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-11. Petitioner charged Respondent with chronic and excessive absenteeism, which had adversely affected her ability to continuously teach, and affected the students' ability to benefit from a continuous learning experience. Respondent's salary increment was withheld four times and ultimately she was terminated.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law on December 8, 2003 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. An In-Person Pre-Hearing occurred on January 7, 2004, a telephonic status conference was held on March 29, 2004, a de novo hearing commenced on May 18, 2004 at the Administrative Law Court, 33 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the completion of hearing, exhibits appearing in the Appendix were marked and the record remained open for the purpose of counsel ordering transcripts and preparing briefs. Thereafter, on September 13, 2004 and prior to the date an Administrative Decision was due, a letter was received at the Office of Administrative Law from General Counsel for the Jersey City Board of Education, which advised that Respondent had submitted her letter of resignation. Respondent's resignation letter and Petitioner's letter accepting the resignation have been included with the exhibits appearing in the Appendix. The parties contend that the tenure charges before the Administrative Law Court became moot upon the Court's receipt of documentation regarding Respondent's resignation.

ISSUES

The issues to be resolved in this matter regarding the Board and Superintendent of the State-Operated School District of Jersey City charges against a tenured teacher for alleged excessive absenteeism, resulting in a determination that withholding of salary increments and termination of employment is warranted, are:

(1) Whether the charges are supported by evidence, which establishes probable cause?

(2) Whether there are reasons for the alleged chronic and excessive absences, which could be considered good cause(s) or reasons for excused absences?

SUMMARY OF UNDISPUTED FACTS

The facts are undisputed regarding Respondent's chronic and excessive absenteeism. She has worked for the Jersey City School District since November 3, 1980. Respondent's attendance record commencing in 1995 and performance reports commencing in 1997 are undisputed. (Exhibits P-1 thru P-27).

Respondent alleges that an illness prevents her from maintaining a satisfactory attendance record. Her illness and the legitimacy of it are undisputed.

The arguments and case law regarding the validity of the grounds for dismissal of a tenured teacher for excessive absenteeism, even where excessive excused absences exist, has been established. In this case the impact of the inability for continuum of instruction was given every consideration and procedural guidelines required by the State Commissioner of Education and the local Board of Education were followed.

After the Administrative hearing on the instant matter, the Respondent resigned her teaching position. (Exhibit R-1). Petitioner thereafter accepted the letter of resignation. (Exhibit P-28). Both counsel contend that upon Petitioner's acceptance of Respondent's resignation letter, a decision on the merits of the tenure charges before the Administrative Law Court would be "moot".

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Respondent, Deborah Robinson, resigned her teaching position with the State Operated School District of Jersey City, effective November 1, 2004, and has retired from teaching. Her letter of resignation indicates that she is retiring on an ordinary disability pension. Both Petitioner and Respondent contend that the tenure charges brought to remove her from a tenured teaching position are therefore moot and should be dismissed.

An issue is "moot" when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy since there remains no conflict between the parties. In re Conroy, 190 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983); Barshatky v. Freehold Regional High School Board of Education, 95 NJAR.2d (EDU) 71. The courts and the Commissioner of Education usually refuse to review questions, which become academic prior to the issuance of a decision, due to a reluctance to render a legal decision in the abstract and a desire to conserve Judicial and/or Administrative resources. In re Conroy, supra., Carolyn Henry v. Board of Education of the City Wildwood, 1975 S.L.D. 1. The relief sought by Petitioner in the tenure charges filed with the Commissioner requesting the removal of Respondent from her tenured teaching position, can no longer be granted. The Commissioner has on many occasions approved settlements in tenure cases involving only inefficiency charges as consistent with the public policies articulated in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, EDU 7093-81, 7094-81 and 100-82. Further, the charges against Respondent do not present novel issues such that a decision on the merits would further clarify the body of law concerning excessive absenteeism and inability to perform duty charges. The tenure charges contain no allegations of wrongdoing or misconduct, which might nevertheless require determination by the Commissioner of Education for the imposition of a sanction or reprimand.

Any determination on the merits in this matter, however, would be totally irrelevant to the payment of salary and the accrual of additional pension credit, since no provision exists for repayment upon a determination adverse to the teacher. Likewise, N.J.A.C. 17:3-4.1(f), a regulation adopted by the Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund, provides:

> A member under 62 years of age will receive service credit for that base salary received during the period of his suspension in which he is awaiting a determination by the Commissioner of Education as provided under N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-14. (sic) Service credit will not be granted for such salary after the first of the month following his attainment of age 62 when that salary will no longer be covered by Social Security.

Regardless of any determination on the merits, Respondent is entitled to receive service credit in the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund for the monies paid pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-14 up until her 62nd birthday, and not thereafter. A decision on the merits would have no impact on either salary payments or pension credit, and therefore neither of those factors provides any reason for determining a moot case.

Excessive absenteeism charges, standing alone without accusations of wrongdoing or conduct unbecoming are not generally something which concerns the State Board of Examiners. This is apparent from the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5, a regulation governing teacher certification which reads:

> In cases in which teaching staff members accused of misdemeanors, crimes or conduct unbecoming which might warrant revocation or suspension, resign or retire from their positions, either before tenure proceedings have been brought or prior to the conclusion of such proceedings, it shall be the responsibility of the chief school administrator of that district to notify the State Board of Examiners of the alleged conduct pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(2). Should the Board of Examiners issue an Order to Show Cause, it shall be the responsibility of the district, which reported the conduct to cooperate with the Board of Examiners in ascertaining and presenting the facts underlying such allegations.

Accordingly, in cases such as the present where the charges are inefficiency due to absenteeism, Petitioner has no obligation to notify the Board of Examiners of Respondent's resignation and retirement. Respondent is retiring on an ordinary disability pension and has retired from the teaching profession. Routinely the courts dismiss moot cases even after extensive litigation at the trial and appellate levels when there is no compelling reason to issue a decision. See, e.g., Oxfeld v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners of Education, 68 N.J. 301 (1975), Degnan v. Curcio, 87 N.J. 372 (1981).

Exceptions to the "mootness doctrine" which may warrant the issuance of a decision on the merits do not exist in this matter. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the request of Respondent and Petitioner for dismissal of the charges is appropriate.

ORDER

Respondent's resignation validly terminated her employment with the Petitioner and rendered the tenure charges by Petitioner moot. Therefore it is ORDERED that Respondent's appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner, who did not appear for the hearing in this matter, has failed to carry his burden of proof that his two children were entitled to a free education in the Bayonne School District for the 2002-03 and 2003-04 school years. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition in the amount of $7,554.40 for the 2002-03 school year and $20,300.40 for the 2003-04 school year, for a total of $27,854.80 tuition for the days of Z.M.'s and J.M.'s ineligible attendance in school in the Bayonne School District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Petitioner,

Record closed: October 15, 2004 Decided: October 26, 2004

BEFORE ROBERT J. GIORDANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, A.M., appealed the determination by respondent, Board of Education of the City of Bayonne (Board/District), that his minor children Z.M. and J.M. were not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on October 29, 2003, claiming that the minor children were entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Respondent filed an answer, affirmative defenses and counterclaim for tuition with the Commissioner of Education on November 19, 2003.

On December 26, 2003, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on January 20, 2004, and a hearing was scheduled for February 27, 2004. After several adjournments[1], the matter was rescheduled for hearing on June 11, 2004. At the hearing, the parties entered into a tentative settlement. The terms of the tentative settlement were placed on the record, and the parties were directed to submit a written agreement signed by the parties.

Counsel for the respondent advised the undersigned by telephone on July 16, 2004, that the petitioner had not returned the signed agreement prepared by counsel. As such, the parties were advised by letter dated July 20, 2004, that the matter would be relisted for hearing on October 14, 2004. In the event the parties had not submitted the signed agreement to the undersigned by that date, the matter would be heard. On October 14, 2004, the counsel for the respondent appeared. There was no appearance or explanation for nonappearance by the petitioner. The respondent moved for a dismissal of the petitioner's appeal, and a default on the counterclaim of the respondent. The undersigned permitted the submission of ex parte proofs as to the tuition due.

As there was no appearance by the petitioner and no contact from the petitioner within 24 hours of the hearing, the record closed on October 15, 2004.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUE

Whether the respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement for the attendance of the two minor children, Z.M. and J.M.

[1] The matter was scheduled for hearing on March 26, 2004. The request by petitioner for an adjournment was denied. Nonetheless, he failed to appear. The matter was rescheduled for hearing on May 12, 2004. Again the petitioner failed to appear. A telephone call to the petitioner confirmed to him that the matter would be again adjourned. The matter was rescheduled for a peremptory hearing date of June 11, 2004.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On the scheduled hearing date, the petitioner failed to appear or otherwise contact the undersigned as to the reason for his failure to appear. As such, the application by the respondent, to offer evidence ex parte was granted. The respondent proffered evidence regarding the attendance of the two minor children, Z.M. and J.M., in the Bayonne School, District, as well as the cost of tuition per pupil for each of the school years in question. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c).

William Bodayle, the supervisor of the attendance department, testified on behalf of the respondent. He testified that Z.M. was enrolled in the Bayonne School District on November 1, 2002 (R-1). Z.M. attended Bayonne High School from November 2002 through June 2003 for a total of 140 school days. Bodayle testified that the per diem cost per pupil for the 2002-2003 school year was $53.96.

Bodayle testified that J.M. was enrolled in the District on August 27, 2003. (R-2). Both Z.M. and J.M. attended Bayonne High School from September 2003 to June 2004 for a total of 180 school days. He testified that the per diem cost per pupil for the 2003-2004 school year was $56.39.

Petitioner, the father of the two minor children, resided in Jersey City during the period of enrollment of the children in the Bayonne School District. The petitioner, who was divorced from the mother of the minor children, had residential custody. Bodayle testified that no tuition has been paid for either of the two minor children for the period of enrollment in the Bayonne School District.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the undisputed testimonial and documentary evidence, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

1. At all relevant times, the petitioner, A.M. was a resident of Jersey City, New Jersey. He is the father of and residential custodian of his two minor children, Z.M. and J.M.

2. Z.M. attended Bayonne High School for 140 days during the 2002-2003 school year.

3. The per diem cost of education in the Bayonne School District for the 2002-2003 school year was $53.96.

4. The cost of tuition for Z.M. for the 2002-2003 school year is $7,554.40.

5. Z.M. attended Bayonne High School for 180 days during the 2003-2004 school year.

6. The per diem cost of education in the Bayonne School District for the 2003-2004 school year was $56.39.

7. The cost of tuition for Z.M. for the 2003-2004 school year is $10,150.20.

8. J.M. attended Bayonne High School for 180 days during the 2003-2004 school year.

9. The cost of tuition for J.M. for the 2003-2004 school year is $10,150.20.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The Administrative Procedure Rules provide general guidance for the conduct of a hearing. Specifically, in the event of a failure by a party to appear for the hearing, the appearing party may request an initial decision on the merits and request permission to present ex parte proofs. In appropriate cases, the judge may enter an initial decision on the merits based on the ex parte proofs. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(c). New Jersey Real Estate Commission v. Grennor, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (REC) 29.

The State of New Jersey provides that "public schools shall be free to ... any child who is domiciled within the school district." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). The domicile of a minor child generally follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286. There are circumstances under which the child is not residing with the parent, and may be in the home of another who is domiciled in the school district. Under the appropriate circumstances, the resident, parent or guardian will not be charged tuition. If the situation does not comport with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the resident, parent or guardian may be assessed tuition for the period of ineligible attendance in the school district. In such case, the district may collect tuition from the resident, parent or guardian. The statute states in pertinent part:

> If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the [resident, parent or guardian] he shall assess the [resident, parent or guardian] tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner;

CONCLUSIONS

In the instant matter, the initial determination was whether to admit ex parte proofs regarding the tuition due and owing. Considering the protracted nature of the matter, and the numerous adjournments in the case, the undersigned determined that there was good cause for the offer of ex parte proofs. The petitioner had been granted several adjournments to address circumstances whereby he would be able to offer evidence of a change in the guardianship of the two minor children. He failed to appear on several occasions, resulting in the rescheduling of the matter. When he did appear on June 11, 2004, the matter was tentatively settled between the parties. Not having received the signed settlement agreement from the parties, the undersigned rescheduled the matter for hearing, advising both parties of the new date by letter dated July 20, 2004. The petitioner failed to appear at that time. Based on the circumstances and history of the matter, I CONCLUDE that the offer of ex parte proofs was appropriate.

The undisputed evidence establishes that the petitioner was at all relevant times a resident of Jersey City. As such, and with no evidence to the contrary, I CONCLUDE that his two minor children, Z.M. and J.M., both were properly domiciled in Jersey City. Z.M. was ineligible for attendance free of charge at the Bayonne School District for the school years 2002-2003 and 2003-2004. J.M. was ineligible for attendance free of charge in the Bayonne School District for the school year 2003-2004.

I therefore CONCLUDE form the evidence adduced regarding tuition costs, that the tuition due and owing from the petitioner to the Bayonne School District is $7,554.40 for the 2002-2003 school year, and $20,300.40 for the 2003-2004 school year, for a total tuition charge of $27,854.80.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the appeal of the petitioner is and shall be DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that the petitioner is and shall be directed to pay tuition in the total amount of $27,854.80 for the ineligible attendance of his two minor children in the respondent district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BORDENTOWN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,[1] BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions were submitted by the Board in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In its exceptions, the Board contends that, although the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) correctly relied on Kopera, supra, in citing the legal standard to be applied in reviewing the actions of a local school board, he erred in applying that standard. (Board's Exceptions at 1) The Board avers that the ALJ's conclusion, that the penalty imposed by the Board was inappropriate, and thus, arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable because there was a lack of evidence that B.B. prevented other students from learning or presented a danger to the safety of students and staff, is not supported by case law or the evidence presented at hearing. (Id. at 2) In support of its contention, the Board submits that, as stated in the Student Handbook, the three-day, in-school suspension imposed on B.B. has punitive, remedial and counseling components and allows students to both maintain their academic progress and to modify unacceptable behavior. (Ibid.)

The Board reasons that it is hard to imagine how the ALJ concluded that the imposition of a three-day, in-school suspension was arbitrary and capricious given his finding that B.B.: 1) was grossly disrespectful toward a member of the teaching staff; 2) violated the school's discipline plan with conduct constituting willful disobedience and open defiance of a teacher; and 3) violated the Student Code of Conduct which prohibits obscene, vulgar and profane expressions. (Ibid.) The Board, therefore, concludes that the ALJ exceeded his authority when he impermissibly substituted his judgment for that of the Board, and it urges that the ALJ's determination rescinding B.B.'s three-day, in-school suspension should be reversed. (Ibid.)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, and mindful that the ALJ's credibility determinations are entitled to the Commissioner's deference, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that B.B. used profane language and was disrespectful to Mr. Misselhorn, and that B.B. disobeyed Ms. Misselhorn's demand to B.B. to get away from C.D. Moreover, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that B.B. demonstrated willful disobedience and open defiance of the authority of a teacher in violation of the school's discipline plan, and that she also violated the Student Code of Conduct, which prohibits vulgar and profane expressions of any kind.

The Commissioner does not agree, however, with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in regard to establishing the penalty for B.B.'s infractions or that the penalty assessed by the Board, three days of in-school suspension (Exhibit R-7), should be modified because "respondent's action was not based upon a finding that B.B. prevented other students from learning or that B.B. represented a danger to the safety of the students and the staff of Bordentown Regional High School – the ground the respondent established in its Student/Parent Handbook for imposing a suspension." (Initial Decision at 7) As fully explicated in the Initial Decision, it is well established that when a board acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset useless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

As set forth by the ALJ, the section of the Student/Parent Handbook entitled "Suspension" states that "[a] student excluded from the classroom has demonstrated that he/she has prevented other students from learning or represents a danger to the safety of the other students and to the staff of Bordentown Regional High School." (Exhibit R-2, at 19) The Commissioner observes that section entitled "In-School Suspension" additionally states, however, that "[i]n-school suspension will allow students who have demonstrated behavior that disrupts the educational process of others, yet does not warrant removal from school, to have that behavior modified" (ibid.) and lists "[r]efusing to follow the directive of an administrator" and "[i]ntention to violate the rights and dignity of another student or staff member (for example, racial slurs)" as examples of infractions where in-school suspension may be imposed. (Id. at 19-20)

Given the Board's responsibility to maintain control and to ensure an atmosphere conducive to learning for all its students, the Commissioner cannot conclude that B.B.'s physical reaction to C.D.[2] and her willful disobedience, open defiance of authority, and use of inappropriate, hostile language towards a teacher were not disruptive of the educational process of others, notwithstanding that the incident herein occurred in the cafeteria. Instead, the Commissioner finds the Board's decision to impose a three-day, in-school suspension on B.B. is consistent with its obligation to create a learning environment where students and staff are not physically accosted or subjected to profanity. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that the penalty imposed by the Board is in accordance with the grounds established in its Student/Parent Handbook for the imposition of such suspension.

[2] The Commissioner notes that B.B. claims she reacted towards C.D. as she did because he stole her purse and used some of her money, a situation which should have been taken to the supervising school official, rather than handling the situation in the manner she did.

Additionally, the Commissioner points out that B.B. has seven prior disciplines on her disciplinary record, five of which were for inappropriate behavior. B.B. was disciplined once for "being disruptive," once for calling another student "bitch," twice for being disrespectful on the school bus and once for throwing trash in the cafeteria. As set forth in the District's Parent/Student Handbook, in-school suspension has punitive, remedial and counseling components and is designed to allow suspended students to maintain their academic progress while modifying unacceptable behavior. Given the unacceptable behavior exhibited by B.B. in this incident, as well as B.B.'s prior record of discipline for unacceptable behavior, the Commissioner concludes that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in imposing the penalty of a three-day, in-school suspension on B.B. in an effort both to punish her for her unacceptable behavior in this incident and to address her pattern of unacceptable behavior.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the Commissioner concludes that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in imposing a three-day, in-school suspension on B.B. The Board's action will, therefore, not be disturbed. The within petition is hereby dismissed.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2447-04

AGENCY DKT. NO. 118-3/04

B.B. on behalf of B.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

BURLINGTON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

B.B., petitioner, pro se

Frank P. Cavallo, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 13, 2004 Decided: October 22, 2004

BEFORE ANTHONY T. BRUNO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appeals the 3 day suspension from classes imposed against her daughter, B.B., for alleged willful disobedience, use of profanity, disrespect to teacher, insubordination, harassment, and inappropriate behavior on March 3, 2004 (ExhibitR-1). B.B. denies the factual basis of the charges.

On April 4, 2004 petitioner's application for emergent relief enjoining the enforcement of disciplinary action pending appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing of oral argument on petitioner's request was scheduled for May 12, 2004. Because petitioner filed no certification or affidavits in support of her motion and the respondent [BOE] represented that there would be no suspension until a final decision was entered, the request for emergent relief was denied, the matter converted into a plenary hearing, and the hearing scheduled for July 13, 2004.

The matter was heard on July 13 at Mercerville, New Jersey. Witnesses who testified and exhibits admitted into evidence are listed in the Appendix. The hearing record closed on July 13, 2004

FACTUAL CONSIDERATIONS

This matter arises from events which occurred at the Bordentown Regional High School Cafeteria on March 3, 2004 during the lunch period of the junior class. David Misselhorn, a teacher of health, physical education and driver training at the high school, was on lunchroom duty monitoring cafeteria activity in general, and especially, student behavior on the cafeteria line. Misselhorn testified that he observed C.D., a male student, getting change from the lunchroom aide at a cash register. B.B. was behind C.D. and had her arms and hands around C.D.'s back and was addressing C.D. in a "loud and boisterous" manner. B.B. was "flailing" her arms and hands, reaching around C.D.'s body, "almost hugging" C.D. Misselhorn testified that he considered B.B.'s body-to-body contact with C.D. to be "inappropriate touching." B.B. was trying to grab the money C.D. held in his hand. Misselhorn did not see a handbag or wallet in the vicinity of C.D. and B.B. Misselhorn told B.B. 3 times to stop. Misselhorn testified that B.B. next put her hand up, stopped grabbing at C.D., and told Misselhorn, "get the fuck out of my face." B.B. walked away protesting in a "loud and boisterous" manner, obviously "very angry."

B.B. testified that C.D. had purchased a soft drink at a vending machine, brought the drink to the table where B.B. was seated, then C.D. left to get his lunch. When C.D. returned to the table he noticed that someone had drank some of his drink. C.D. took B.B.'s purse, took the wallet from the purse leaving the purse on a railing, and told a $5 bill from B.B.'s wallet. B.B. put her hands around C.D. to get the $5 bill back. Misselhorn told B.B. to stop and B.B. stopped. When C.D. did not return B.B.'s purse and money, B.B. again put her arms around C.D. C.D.'s girlfriend, D.M., then approached C.D. and B.B., and B.B. told D.M., "get out of my face."

B.B.'s sister (also B.B.) was in the cafeteria when the incident in question occurred. B.B. testified that C.D. saw D.M. sip at C.D.'s drink. C.D. then demanded B.B. buy a new drink. B.B. watched C.D. and her sister as they entered the food line. C.D. held B.B.'s purse, removed a wallet from the purse, and money from the wallet. Misselhorn was behind C.D. and B.B. in line.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Student Behavior Referral form completed by Misselhorn (Exhibit R-1) lists six reasons for referring B.B. for discipline. Two of the reasons relate to B.B.'s interaction with C.D. The remaining four reasons arise from Misselhorn's attempts to separate B.B. from C.D. Based upon the hearing record I CONCLUDE that the charges of "harassment" and "inappropriate behavior" must be dismissed.

Respondent did not contradict B.B.'s testimony that C.D. took B.B.'s purse, removed B.B.'s wallet from the purse, and extracted money from the purse. Respondent totally ignored not only C.D.'s explanations of the incident, but also the charge of B.B. that C.D. pilfered money and other personal property from B.B. Respondent does not address whether it disciplined C.D. for "taking, or attempting to take, personal property from another pupil by force or fear," a violation of item six of the School Discipline Plan set out on page 18 of the school's Student/Parent Handbook (Exhibit R-2). Respondent's refusal to consider C.D.'s conduct not only deprives B.B. of reliance upon mitigating factors for her initial conduct, it also makes a farce of the "Philosophy" of respondent for effective discipline. In the Pupil Discipline Handbook states, "effective discipline is synonymous with effective instruction" and "maintaining good discipline is a necessary precondition to establishing a school or classroom climate that is conducive to learning" I question what B.B. and her lunchroom friends learned from Misselhorn's selectively enforcing the School Discipline Plan.

By ignoring C.D.'s larceny Misselhorn became oblivious to the reason for B.B.'s intuitive reaction to C.D.'s conduct. Had another teacher taken Misselhorn's wallet and was removing currency from the wallet, I am very confident that Misselhorn would have reacted at least as physically as B.B. did as she reacted to C.D. I am also very confident that Misselhorn also would have resented the characterization of his recovery efforts as sexual in nature. I Conclude that Misselhorn's determination that B.B.'s reaction was harassment – defined in the Student/Parent Handbook as "inappropriate behavior of a sexual nature . . . " – was arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious, an opinion not justified by his testimony.

My conclusions relative to B.B.'s reaction to Misselhorn are quite different. I Conclude that B.B. disobeyed Misselhorn's command to leave C.D. alone and was disrespectful to Misselhorn when B.B. profanely told Misselhorn to "get the fuck out of her face." Misselhorn's testimony concerning the incident giving rise to the charges in this matter is disputed as untrue by the testimony of B.B. Therefore, it is my obligation and responsibility to weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make a factual findings. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to the testimony of a witness. The word contemplates an overall assessment of a witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F. 2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). The term has been defined as testimony which must proceed from the mouth of the credible witness and must be such as our common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955); See, also, Gilson v. Gilson, 116 N.J. Eq. 556, 560 (E. & A. 1934). A fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837 (1973). 37 L.Ed 2d 380. I find that Misselhorn's account of his confrontation with B.B. "hangs together" more readily that the testimony of B.B. B.B.'s sister was, in her words, "2 or 3 tables away from Misselhorn and B.B. and did not hear the conversation of B.B. and Misselhorn.

Having concluded that B.B. was profane and disrespectful to Misselhorn and disobeyed Misselhorn's demand to get away from C.D., I CONCLUDE that B.B. violated the school's discipline plan with conduct constituting "Continued and willful disobedience" and "open defiance of the authority of any teacher . . .". I further CONCLUDE that B.B. violated the Student Code of Conduct which prohibits "obscene vulgar, and profane expressions of any kind. . .".

B.B.'s disciplinary record (Exhibit R-3) discloses seven prior disciplines. As a freshman B.B. was twice reported for attendance violations and once for being "disruptive." In her sophomore year B.B. had a dress code violation and a citation for calling another student a "bitch." The two disciplines in B.B.'s junior year included "horse play" and disrespectful behavior on the school bus, and, one month before the March 3 incident, a trash throwing incident in the cafeteria. B.B. was "warned" after both junior year disciplines and advised after the cafeteria episode that the "next incident will result in C.D." (presumably "central detention").

Referring again to Bordentown Regional High School Student/Parent Handbook (Exhibit R-2), "Suspension," "exclusion from the classroom", is a serious consequence (page 19). The Handbook further states, "A student excluded from the classroom has demonstrated that he/she has prevented other students from learning or represents a danger to the safety of the other students and staff of Bordentown Regional High School."

In assessing the propriety of a suspension, the scope of review of the Commissioner of Education is circumscribed. As noted by Administrative Law Judge Metzger in M.G. v. Monmouth Regional High School Board of Education, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 38, 40, aff'd in part, rev'd in part, State Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 364: "[The Board's] decisions in this matter carry a presumption of validity and [it is the] petitioners who must show that the actions taken were arbitrary and unreasonable, if they are to be disturbed." In adopting the administrative law judge's decision, the Commissioner of Education likewise noted the limited scope of review:

> . . . it is not a proper exercise of a judicial function for the Commissioner to interfere with local boards in the management of > their schools unless they violate the law, act in bad faith (meaning acting dishonestly), or abuse their discretion in a shocking manner. Furthermore, it is not the function of the Commissioner in a judicial decision to substitute his judgment for that of the board members on matters which are by statute delegated to the local boards.

There are many judicial decisions expressing the same concepts, such as Quinlan v. Board of Education of North Bergen Township, 73 N.J. Super. 40, 46-47 (App. Div. 1962); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960); Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581 (1966); and Boyle v. Ritti, 175 N.J. Super. 158, 166 (App. Div. 1980). In Boyle, the court declared:

> It is well established that a presumption of reasonableness attaches to the action of an administrative agency and the party who challenges the validity of that action has the burden of showing that it was arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious. . . . Also, where the administrative record discloses a reasonable basis for findings and accordant administrative action, [the reviewing court's] duty is ordinarily to uphold such action.
> [175 N.J. Super. At 166 (citations omitted).]

Based upon the foregoing, it is clear that in a matter such as this, the burden of proof is on the petitioners, and the legal standard to be applied is that an action of a local school board that lies within the area of its discretionary powers may not be upset, unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives, Kopera, supra, 60 N.J. Super. at 294. Mere disagreement, if any, with the Board is insufficient legal grounds for substituting one's own judgment for that of the Board. The Board must first be found to have arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable for reversal or modification to occur. Se K.L. v. Bd. Of Educ. Of Matawan/Aberdeen High Sch. Dist., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU)74. The rationale for this deference to local boards of education appears to be twofold: (1) the ability of the local board of education as the fact-finder in the first instance to see and hear the witnesses and to determine credibility, and

(2) the expertise of the local board with respect to its knowledge of local conditions and circumstances.

Respondent's notification to B.B.'s parents that B.B. was to be suspended (Exhibit R-4) states, "This action [the suspension] was necessitated by the fact that B. was grossly disrespectful towards a member of our teaching staff by directing profanity at that faculty member." I agree with that finding of fact, however, I cannot agree with the penalty imposed. The respondent's action was not based upon a finding that B.B. prevented other students from learning or that B.B. represented a danger to the safety of the students and the staff of Bordentown Regional High School – the grounds the respondent established in its Student/Parent Handbook for imposing a suspension. For this reason I CONCLUDE that the action taken by the respondent was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable and must be modified in accordance with respondent's policies set forth in its Student/Parent Handbook; namely, central detention.

ORDER

Accordingly it is ORDERED that the three day suspension imposed upon B.B. for gross disrespect toward a faulty member is Rescinded. It is further ORDERED that B.B. shall be subject to the discipline provided in respondent's Student/Parent Handbook for gross disrespect and profanity directed at a faculty member.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: October 28, 2004 Decided: November 3, 2004

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioner J.S. on behalf of C.S. from a residency determination by respondent Board of Education of the Township of Caldwell-West Caldwell (the "Board"). Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal on October 16, 2002 and the Board filed an Answer and Counterclaim on November 15, 2002,. The Department of Education subsequently transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on January 9, 2003, it was filed under Docket No. EDU 1084-03 for determination as a contested case. The matter was scheduled to be heard on December 8, 2003. Counsel for the parties appeared at the OAL on December 8, 2003 and engaged in discussions toward an amicable resolution of the matter. Under setting forth the terms of agreement and submitted a certified copy of the minutes of the executive session of the Board on January 5, 2004 relating to this matter, which the undersigned received on March 18, 2004.

On March 22, 2004 the undersigned issued an Initial Decision approving the aforesaid settlement. In a Decision dated May 7, 2004, the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) remanded the matter to the OAL for revision of the Stipulation of Settlement. Specifically, the Commissioner observed that the Board attorney did not sign the Settlement Agreement, and no resolution was supplied approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on the Board's behalf. The matter was remanded to the OAL where, on June 24, 2004, it was filed under Docket No. EDU 5994-04. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on July 26, 2004. The undersigned held telephone status conferences with counsel for the respective parties on August 23 and October 1, 2004. On October 28, 2004, the undersigned received a letter from counsel for the Board, dated October 27, 2004, enclosing the attached revised Stipulation of Settlement, which includes the signature of the Board attorney. The correspondence also forwarded the attached certified copy of the minutes of the regular public monthly meeting of the Board on October 11, 2004 reflecting that a resolution was adopted approving and accepting the Stipulation of Settlement and authorizing the Board President to sign the Stipulation of Settlement on the Board's behalf.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of the settlement, I FIND that the attached Stipulation of Settlement and certified minutes address the concerns set forth in the Commissioner's Decision remanding the matter to the OAL. I further FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 409-11/04

IN THE MATTER OF YESSENIA RIOS,	:
MARION P. THOMAS CHARTER SCHOOL,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF TRUSTEES, ESSEX COUNTY.	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was appointed to the Marion P. Thomas Charter School Board of Trustees in April 2003; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board of trustee members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 3, 2003 and February 3, 2004; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2003 and March 2004 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 26, 2004, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member replied that she had been unable to attend training due to personal family matters, but that she would attend the October 2004 training session; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its October 26, 2004 meeting, that she had the right to attend, that she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act, and that she could receive a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member registered for the October 2004 training but did not attend that training session; and

Whereas, the Commission has found that this failure to attend board member training from April 2003 until October 2004 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, at its meeting on October 26, 2004, the Commission voted to recommend that all charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the October training be suspended from the board until such time as they attended training; and

Whereas, on November 18, 2004, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, , wherein the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the requisite training well in excess of one year from their election to the Board should be: 1) suspended from office; 2) remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; and, 3) summarily removed from office in the event they failed to complete the training session in January of the next year (See, e.g., In the Matter of John Frohling, Learning Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; In the Matter of Veronica Sutton, Jersey City Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; and In the Matter of Wentford Gaines, Jersey City Community Charter School, Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 23, 2003); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasons for not recommending the removal, absent attendance at a training session by a date certain, of Board of trustee members who had not attended training by October 2004; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that immediate suspension, with subsequent removal if training is not completed by the date specified, is the proper penalty in this matter based upon the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing date of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; provided, however, that, in the event she fails to complete one of the two training sessions offered in January 2005, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of January 30, 2005.*

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11428-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 361-9/03

JODI BERKOWITZ,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the parties' submissions on exception, have been reviewed.

In her exceptions, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the analysis and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). She argues:

> Petitioner was forced to request a leave without pay because she had run out of sick days. The respondent requires employees who have run out of sick days to request a leave of absence and grants such a leave without pay. Petitioner was not on a long-term leave of absence, such as someone on a maternity leave. She worked until early June, 2003. As stated in petitioner's initial brief, she is paid on a yearly basis. She is paid an annual salary which is distributed in twenty equal installments over the course of a ten (10) month school year (N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6). The number of working days varies as to each such installment period, but the amount paid does not vary. The only exception is when a deduction of salary is required by virtue of an unauthorized absence on a day when work is scheduled. Therefore, petitioner requests that her pay be docked only for the days that she should have been at work and not for the entire month of June because her contract ran to June 30, 2003. The ALJ notes that, "If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the teachers would have been required to work until then." (Initial Decision, page 6). However, that did not occur. In fact, as stated in the Stipulation of Facts, the last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003. In spite of that fact, respondent withheld petitioner's full pay of June 30, 2003even though she only missed seven days of work during that pay period.

In reply, the Board of Education (Board) counters that petitioner's insistence on using the word "docked" (which has disciplinary connotations) is misplaced, and that the ALJ did, in fact, understand the issue correctly. It objects to petitioner's claim that she was "forced" to take unpaid leave, when in fact she exercised an option provided to employees in order to protect their pension and job status, and further disagrees with Petitioner's salary distribution argument, contending that where an employee does not work a full year and takes an unpaid leave, his or her salary distribution will be different from that of employees working a full year. The Board then states:

> [Petitioner] argues that her contract ran through June 30, 2003 and, therefore, she should be paid for the days after the work year ended, after June 24, 2003, as the school year was not extended past June 24, and other teachers were not required to work after that date. However, unlike other employees who were paid through June 30, the Board could not have required her to work had the school year been extended because she was on leave.
> [Petitioner] also argues that because the school year was not extended, it is insignificant that had the school year been extended through June 30, 2003, that teachers would have been required to work. However, it is significant because such an extension is always real in school districts and had it occurred, [petitioner], unlike other teachers, could not have been required to work because she made herself unavailable. [Petitioner] requested unpaid leave from June 16, 2003 through June 30, 2003. The Board agrees with the ALJ that she received exactly what she requested. [Petitioner] is not entitled to pay for a period in which she was unavailable to work and placed on an unpaid leave. (Board's Reply at 1-3)

Upon careful review and consideration, and consistent with his recent decision in the matter of Christine Cuthbertson v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, decided November 3, 2004, and with his decision in Dawn Rodriguez v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, decided concurrently with the instant matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks. However petitioner attempts to characterize her situation, the fact remains that the days for which she asks "not to be docked" occurred at a time during which she was on a pre-arranged leave of absence, unpaid because she had exhausted all of her accumulated leave. Petitioner's status from June 16 onward by its very nature precluded any entitlement to or expectation of pay for the duration of her leave, which extended through the remainder of the school year (June 30); it is of no import whatsoever that events transpired so that active teachers, i.e., those not on leave, were not required to report to work on three days falling within the unpaid leave period. In effect, with respect to the days at issue, petitioner is demanding that the Board treat her as an employee not on leave, which she clearly was not. Cuthbertson, supra

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11428-03
AGENCY DKT. NO. 361-9/03

JODI BERKOWITZ,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH,
Respondent.

Mary J. Hammer, Esq., for petitioner (Bucceri and Pincus, attorneys)

Mary E. Hennessy-Shotter, Esq., for respondent (The Murray Law Firm, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 12, 2004 Decided: October 29, 2004

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 30, 2003, Jodi Berkowitz filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) alleging that respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County (Board), did not pay her the salary she was owed for end of the 2002-2003 school year, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6. On October 20, 2003, the Board filed its answer and affirmative defenses. On December 2, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After telephone conferences with the parties, it was determined that the hearing in this matter could proceed upon the papers. The parties submitted a joint stipulation of facts and exhibits, together with briefs in support of their positions. Following receipt of final submissions and a status telephone conference, the record was closed.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties stipulated the following facts:

1. Petitioner, Jodi Berkowitz, was employed by the respondent Board, as a teacher for the 2002-2003 school year.

2. Petitioner's contract for the 2002-2003 school year required her to be able to perform services from September 1, 2002 to June 30, 2003.

3. Petitioner's annual salary for the 2002-2003 school year was $50,685.

4. As of June 13, 2003, petitioner had exhausted her sick, personal and family illness days for the 2002-2003 school year.

5. The collective bargaining agreement between the Elizabeth Education Association and the Elizabeth Board of Education permits employees to take unpaid extended leaves of absences for prolonged illness or injury.

6. Petitioner was advised by Human Resources staff that she should request a leave of absence because she had exhausted her sick leave.

7. Petitioner requested, and was granted, a medical leave of absence beginning on June 16, 2003. The leave of absence was without pay.

8. The original 2002-2003 school calendar scheduled school to begin for all staff on September 4, 2002, and end on June 18, 2003.

9. The calendar was extended to June 24, 2003, to make up for instruction days missed due to emergency closings throughout the year.

10. The last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003.

11. Petitioner missed seven (7) days of work during her unpaid leave of absence in June 2003 on the following dates: June 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 23, 24, 2003.

12. Petitioner is paid bi-monthly on the 15th and 30th of the month.

13. Respondent withheld petitioner's June 30, 2003 pay of $2,534.25 (gross) because of her unpaid leave of absence which commenced June 16, 2003.

14. Petitioner's payroll record for the 2002-2003 school year is stipulated into the record.

THE APPLICABLE LAW

This appeal is based upon the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, Prolonged absence beyond sick leave, which states:

> When absence, under the circumstances described in section 18A:30-1 of this article, exceeds the annual sick leave and the accumulated sick leave, the board of education may pay any such person each day's salary less the pay of a substitute, if a substitute is employed or the estimated cost of the employment of a substitute if none is employed, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case. A day's salary is defined as 1/200 of the annual salary.

Sick leave is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 as follows:

> Sick leave is hereby defined to mean the absence from his or her post of duty, of any person because of personal disability due to illness or injury, or because he or she has been excluded from school by the school district's medical authorities on account of a contagious disease or of being quarantined for such a disease in his or her immediate household.

In Board of Educ. of Piscataway v. Piscataway Maint. and Custodial Ass'n, 152 N.J. Super. 235, 244 (App. Div. 1977), the Court held that the payment of salary for prolonged absence beyond a sick leave period is clearly a matter within the Board's discretion to determine on a case-by-case basis; and is a statutory managerial prerogative that the Board can not bargain away.

> Our concern is over the payment of salary, in whole or in part, for prolonged absence beyond the allowable annual or accumulated sick leave. As to such payment, the controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, plainly leaves the matter to the discretion of the local board of education, which may pay any such person each day's salary, less the pay or estimated cost of a substitute, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner urges that she did not have to work from June 24 to June 30, 2003, because no teachers were required to work during that period and, therefore, she should have received a paycheck on June 30, 2003 and simply been docked for those days which she missed through June 24, the last day of school and the last day that any teacher worked. This is despite the fact that she requested and received prior approval for, unpaid sick leave through June 30, 2003. Petitioner seeks to recover three days' salary, or $760.27, for the difference between the final paycheck she claims she is owed and the seven (7) days during that pay period that she concedes she should be docked for, prior to the end of the actual work year on June 24, 2003. The amount of recovery sought is not in dispute.

Respondent replies that petitioner requested unpaid leave through June 30, 2003. The school year was originally scheduled to end on June 18, 2003, but had to be extended because of emergency closings during the year. Although no teacher was called upon to work after June 24, 2003, had the school year been extended further because of closings, petitioner would not have been available for work because of her approved unpaid leave. The Board further points out that, if she were absent on an approved unpaid leave at any other time during the school year, she would not have been paid for snow days and holidays during her leave period even though these were non-work days; at most, her leave time might have been extended. Respondent further states that petitioner never requested that her paid sick leave benefits be extended past June 24, 2003, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6.

Petitioner cites Oteri v. Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia, 1980 S.L.D. 954, in support of her application for reimbursement of salary until the end of June. In the Oteri case, the petitioner, a teacher, was not on a requested unpaid leave, during the final days of the school year but was merely out sick. The Magnolia Board withheld her salary for the period from June 15 through June 30, when school was not in session, on the grounds that she had received benefits from a private insurance carrier based upon her absence from work due to illness. Oteri argued that the final days of the school year are no different from other days of the year, such as holidays, when absent teachers are not required to work, and, therefore, she should be paid for them. The administrative law judge who held the hearing determined under the circumstances of that case that Oteri could not be denied salary through June 30 for the reasons expressed by the Magnolia Board. His Initial Decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education.

Respondent argues that Oteri is distinguishable from the present matter since Oteri neither requested nor received an unpaid leave of absence as petitioner did. The Board did not pay petitioner for the remainder of June 2003 because she requested unpaid leave in advance through June 30, 2003. As a result, petitioner, unlike Oteri, made herself unavailable to work during the final days of her contract year. The analysis in Oteri of payment for snow days and holidays is irrelevant to the present matter because the instant case deals with a requested and approved unpaid leave. The circumstances are distinguishable.

Petitioner suggests that the Board required her to request the leave of absence since she had exhausted all of her paid leave time. However, as respondent points out, had she not done so she would have been absent without permission which could have caused her to lose her job and jeopardized her status for pension purposes.

The Board states that all leaves granted run until the return date for the employee or the last date of their contract. No employees on unpaid maternity leave were paid for holidays and vacations as other, active, employees were. None of them were paid after the last day of school because of their leave status. Petitioner should not be treated any differently than these employees.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS

Based upon the stipulated facts, the documentary evidence and the briefs of the parties, I FIND the following facts:

1. Petitioner requested and was granted a medical unpaid leave of absence from June 16 through June 30, 2003.

2. The school year was supposed to end on June 18, 2003, but teachers were required to work through June 24 to make up for days missed on account of weather. If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the teachers would have been required to work until then.

3. Petitioner was not available to work after June 24, 2003, because she was on sick leave. The Board could not have required her attendance under any circumstances.

4. Petitioner says that her final pay period was the last two full weeks of June and she is not asking to be paid for June 30, 2003. She claims that she should not have been docked for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because none of the other teachers had to work on those three days.

5. Petitioner received exactly what she requested when she sought her unpaid leave of absence. She had every reason to know from the outset that she would not be paid for the remainder of her contract year because that is precisely what she asked for.

6. The Board has no obligation to treat her any differently than it treats other teachers in similar circumstances.

7. There is no equitable reason to require the Board to pay petitioner for June 25, 26, and 27, 2003.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that it was reasonable, not arbitrary and capricious, for the Board to deny petitioner's request to be paid for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because she was on a requested unpaid leave at the time. The petitioner can not circumvent the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6 by characterizing discretionary payments as "docking."

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board's decision not to pay petitioner for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, is hereby AFFIRMED and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and petitioner's submission on exception, have been reviewed.

In her exceptions, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the analysis and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). She argues:

> Petitioner was forced to request a leave without pay because she had run out of sick days. The respondent requires employees who have run out of sick days to request a leave of absence and grants such a leave without pay. Petitioner was not on a long-term leave of absence, such as someone on a maternity leave. She worked until early June, 2003. As stated in petitioner's initial brief, she is paid on a yearly basis. She is paid an annual salary which is distributed in twenty equal installments over the course of a ten (10) month school year (N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6). The number of working days varies as to each such installment period, but the amount paid does not vary. The only exception is when a deduction of salary is required by virtue of an unauthorized absence on a day when work is scheduled. Therefore, petitioner requests that her pay be docked only for the days that she should have been at work and not for the entire month of June because her contract ran to June 30, 2003. The ALJ notes that, "If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the teachers would have been required to work until then." (Initial Decision, page 6). However, that did not occur. In fact, as stated in the Stipulation of Facts, the last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003. In spite of that fact, respondent withheld petitioner's full pay of June 30, 2003even though she only missed seven days of work during that pay period.
> (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1-2, emphasis in text)

Upon careful review and consideration, and consistent with his recent decision in Christine Cuthbertson v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, decided November 3, 2004, and with his decision in Jodi Berkowitz v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, decided concurrently with the instant matter, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks. However petitioner attempts to characterize her situation, the fact remains that the days for which she asks "not to be docked" occurred at a time during which she was on a pre-arranged leave of absence, unpaid because she had exhausted all of her accumulated leave. Petitioner's status from June 16 onward by its very nature precluded any entitlement to or expectation of pay for the duration of her leave, which extended through the remainder of the school year (June 30); it is of no import whatsoever that events transpired so that active teachers, i.e., those not on leave, were not required to report to work on three days falling within the unpaid leave period. In effect, with respect to the days at issue, petitioner is demanding that the Board treat her as an employee not on leave, which she clearly was not. Cuthbertson, supra Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and above, the Initial Decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED. *

DAWN M. RODRIGUEZ,

v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH,
Respondent.

Record Closed: October 12, 2004 Decided: October 29, 2004

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 1, 2003, Dawn M. Rodriguez filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) alleging that respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County (Board), did not pay her the salary she was owed for end of the 2002-2003 school year, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6. On October 21, 2003, the Board filed its answer and affirmative defenses. On November 21, 2003, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After telephone conferences with the parties, it was determined that the hearing in this matter could proceed upon the papers. The parties submitted a joint stipulation of facts and exhibits, together with briefs in support of their positions. Following receipt of final submissions and a status telephone conference, the record was closed.

STIPULATION OF FACTS

The parties stipulated the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner, Dawn M. Rodriguez, was employed by the respondent Board, as a classroom assistant for the 2002-2003 school year.

2. Petitioner's annual salary for the 2002-2003 school year was $10,555.

3. As of June 10, 2003, petitioner had exhausted her sick, personal and family illness days for the 2002-2003 school year.

4. The collective bargaining agreement between the Elizabeth Education Association and the Elizabeth Board of Education permits employees to take unpaid extended leaves of absences for prolonged illness or injury.

5. Petitioner was advised by Human Resources staff that she should request a leave of absence because she had exhausted her sick days.

6. Petitioner requested, and was granted, a medical leave of absence from June 11, 2003 to June 30, 2003. The leave of absence was without pay.

7. The original 2002-2003 school calendar scheduled school to begin for all staff on September 4, 2002, and end on June 18, 2003.

8. The calendar was extended to June 24, 2003, to make up for instruction days missed due to emergency closings throughout the year.

9. The last day of work for petitioner for the 2002-2003 school year was June 24, 2003.

10. Petitioner missed ten (10) days of work during her unpaid leave of absence in June 2003 on the following dates: June 11, 12, 13, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 23, 24, 2003.

11. Respondent withheld $153.34 from petitioner's June 15, 2003 pay (gross) and also withheld petitioner's June 30, 2003 pay of $527.75 (gross) because of her absences.

12. Petitioner's payroll record for the 2002-2003 school year is stipulated into the record.

THE APPLICABLE LAW

This appeal is based upon the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, Prolonged absence beyond sick leave, which states:

> When absence, under the circumstances described in section 18A:30-1 of this article, exceeds the annual sick leave and the accumulated sick leave, the board of education may pay any such person each day's salary less the pay of a substitute, if a substitute is employed or the estimated cost of the employment of a substitute if none is employed, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case. A day's salary is defined as 1/200 of the annual salary.

Sick leave is defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 as follows:

> Sick leave is hereby defined to mean the absence from his or her post of duty, of any person because of personal disability due to illness or injury, or because he or she has been excluded from school by the school district's > medical authorities on account of a contagious disease or of being quarantined for such a disease in his or her immediate household.

In Board of Educ. of Piscataway v. Piscataway Maint. and Custodial Ass'n, 152 N.J. Super. 235, 244 (App. Div. 1977), the Court held that the payment of salary for prolonged absence beyond a sick leave period is clearly a matter within the Board's discretion to determine on a case-by-case basis; and is a statutory managerial prerogative that the Board can not bargain away.

> Our concern is over the payment of salary, in whole or in part, for prolonged absence beyond the allowable annual or accumulated sick leave. As to such payment, the controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6, plainly leaves the matter to the discretion of the local board of education, which may pay any such person each day's salary, less the pay or estimated cost of a substitute, for such length of time as may be determined by the board of education in each individual case.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner urges that she did not have to work from June 24 to June 30, 2003, because no teachers or assistants were required to work during that period and, therefore, she should have received a paycheck on June 30, 2003 and simply been docked for those days which she missed through June 24, the last day of school and the last day that any teacher or assistant worked. This is despite the fact that she requested and received prior approval for, unpaid sick leave through June 30, 2003. Petitioner seeks to recover three days' salary, or $158.50, for the difference between the final paycheck she claims she is owed and the seven (7) days during that pay period that she concedes she should be docked for, prior to the end of the actual work year on June 24, 2003. The amount of recovery sought is not in dispute.

Respondent replies that petitioner requested unpaid leave through June 30, 2003. The school year was originally scheduled to end on June 18, 2003, but had to be extended because of emergency closings during the year. Although no teacher or assistant was called upon to work after June 24, 2003, had the school year been extended further because of closings, petitioner would not have been available for work because of her approved unpaid leave. The Board further points out that, if she were absent on an approved unpaid leave at any other time during the school year, she would not have been paid for snow days and holidays during her leave period even though these were non-work days; at most, her leave time might have been extended. Respondent further states that petitioner never requested that her paid sick leave benefits be extended past June 24, 2003, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6.

Petitioner cites Oteri v. Board of Education of the Borough of Magnolia, 1980 S.L.D. 954, in support of her application for reimbursement of salary until the end of June. In the Oteri case, the petitioner, a teacher, was not on a requested unpaid leave, during the final days of the school year but was merely out sick. The Magnolia Board withheld her salary for the period from June 15 through June 30, when school was not in session, on the grounds that she had received benefits from a private insurance carrier based upon her absence from work due to illness. Oteri argued that the final days of the school year are no different from other days of the year, such as holidays, when absent teachers are not required to work, and, therefore, she should be paid for them. The administrative law judge who held the hearing determined under the circumstances of that case that Oteri could not be denied salary through June 30 for the reasons expressed by the Magnolia Board. His Initial Decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board of Education.

Respondent argues that Oteri is distinguishable from the present matter since Oteri neither requested nor received an unpaid leave of absence as petitioner did. The Board did not pay petitioner for the remainder of June 2003 because she requested unpaid leave in advance through June 30, 2003. As a result, petitioner, unlike Oteri, made herself unavailable to work during the final days of her contract year. The analysis in Oteri of payment for snow days and holidays is irrelevant to the present matter because the instant case deals with a requested and approved unpaid leave. The circumstances are distinguishable.

Petitioner suggests that the Board required her to request the leave of absence since she had exhausted all of her paid leave time. However, as respondent points out, had she not done so she would have been absent without permission which could have caused her to lose her job and jeopardized her status for pension purposes.

The Board states that all leaves granted run until the return date for the employee or the last date of their contract. No employees on unpaid maternity leave were paid for holidays and vacations as other, active, employees were. None of them were paid after the last day of school because of their leave status. Petitioner should not be treated any differently than these employees.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS

Based upon the stipulated facts, the documentary evidence and the briefs of the parties, I FIND the following facts:

1. Petitioner requested and was granted a medical unpaid leave of absence from June 11 through June 30, 2003.

2. The school year was supposed to end on June 18, 2003, but teachers and assistants were required to work through June 24 to make up for days missed on account of weather. If the school year had to be extended through June 30, 2003, the employees would have been required to work until then.

3. Petitioner was not available to work after June 24, 2003, because she was on sick leave. The Board could not have required her attendance under any circumstances.

4. Petitioner says that her final pay period was the last two full weeks of June and she is not asking to be paid for June 30, 2003. She claims that she should not have been docked for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because none of the other employees had to work on those three days.

5. Petitioner received exactly what she requested when she sought her unpaid leave of absence. She had every reason to know from the outset that she would not be paid for the remainder of her contract year because that is precisely what she asked for.

6. The Board has no obligation to treat her any differently than it treats other employees in similar circumstances.

7. There is no equitable reason to require the Board to pay petitioner for June 25, 26, and 27, 2003.

I, therefore, CONCLUDE that it was reasonable, not arbitrary and capricious, for the Board to deny petitioner's request to be paid for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, because she was on a requested unpaid leave at the time. The petitioner can not circumvent the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-6 by characterizing discretionary payments as "docking."

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the Board's decision not to pay petitioner for June 25, 26 and 27, 2003, is hereby AFFIRMED and the petition herein is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President of the Pleasantville Board of Education signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within Settlement Agreement.

Moreover, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that appear to have been effectuated prior to approval of the settlement by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The ALJ and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in a controverted matter that has been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

Additionally, Item Number (c) refers to a "Stipulation and Order of Dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Exhibit A." Although an original of a Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice, presumably the "Exhibit A" document to which Item Number (c) refers, is contained in the record, the Initial Decision/Settlement provided by the OAL does not contain a copy of this document nor any document identified as "Exhibit A."

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

Any substantial or material breach of this Agreement shall entitle the non-breaching party to an injunction to remedy the breach and an award of reasonable attorney's fees, other professional fees, costs and expenses incurred to remedy and defend against said breach.

(c) Ms. LaFrennie agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Administrative Action. In that regard, Ms. LaFrennie's Counsel, in accordance with the New Jersey Rules of Administrative Practice, shall, simultaneous with the execution of this Agreement, execute the Stipulation and Order of Dismissal With Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Exhibit A, dismissing the case with prejudice for the reason of the settlement reached by the Parties. It is acknowledged and understood by Ms. LaFrennie that any and all rights and obligations set forth in this Agreement are conditioned completely and entirely upon the Court's dismissal of the Administrative Action with prejudice.

(d) Ms. LaFrennie agrees to withdraw fully and finally and to dismiss with prejudice any and all administrative, state or federal court actions, which have been filed by her against the Board which have not already been closed or otherwise terminated. Ms. LaFrennie will ask each agency or court with which she has filed an action to enter an order, without appearance by either Party, withdrawing and dismissing the action with prejudice. Any such orders shall be attached to and become a part of this Agreement. It is acknowledged and understood by Ms. LaFrennie that any and all obligations set forth in this Agreement are conditioned completely and entirely upon the withdrawal and dismissal with prejudice of any and all administrative, state and federal court actions.

(e) Ms. LaFrennie agrees that she will not talk about, discuss or consult with, advise, counsel or otherwise cooperate with or assist any employees or former employees of the Board in the pursuit of any legal or administrative action(s) against the Board, including, but not limited to, any action(s) in connection with any matters relating to her employment or the termination of her employment, unless compelled to do so by court order or lawful subpoena. Ms. LaFrennie further agrees that she will not participate, directly or indirectly, as a party, witness or otherwise, in any action at law, proceeding in equity or in any administrative proceeding in which the Board or Board personnel are Parties, unless compelled to do so by force of law.

(f) Ms. LaFrennie acknowledges and agrees that other than the consideration provided for herein, she is not entitled to and will not receive any additional compensation or benefits of any kind from the Board and that no representations have been made to her regarding any such additional compensation or benefits. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to or should be construed to affect Ms. LaFrennie's receipt of the benefits in which she is vested or to which she is entitled under the Board's current pension, disability and/or other vested plans or policies.

3. Ms. LaFrennie agrees to maintain the confidentiality of, and refrain from disclosing, making public, or discussing in any way whatsoever, the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is understood that as the sole exception to this Confidentiality Provision, Ms. LaFrennie may discuss or disclose this Agreement (i) with her immediate family; (ii) with her attorney(s) or tax advisor(s); and (iii) in response to inquiries from, any governmental, regulatory or self-regulatory body or agency with jurisdiction over the activities Ms. LaFrennie or the Board.

(a) Ms. LaFrennie agrees that she shall not issue any communication, written, verbal or otherwise, that disparages, criticizes or otherwise reflects adversely upon the Board or which encourages any adverse action, provided that Ms. LaFrennie is permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to a subpoena.

(b) With respect to any inquiries regarding Ms. LaFrennie, the Board shall have responsibility only as provided below or only insofar as Mr. LaFrennie has directed inquiries to Mr. Skender T. Avrami, or his successor, of the Board's Human Resources Department. If any inquiries are made to Dr. Gail D. Brooks, Dr. Brooks will direct those inquiries to Mr. Avrami, or his successors, they will be responded to with a neutral reference consisting of Ms. LaFrennie's name, dates of employment and position held while employed with the Board.

5. This Agreement is not and shall not in any way be deemed to constitute an admission or evidence of any wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Board, nor of any violation of any federal, state or local statute, rule, regulation or principle of common law or equity. Rather, this Agreement constitutes the good faith settlement and release of disputed claims, and it is acknowledged and agreed by the Parties that this Agreement is being entered into by the Parties solely to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of further litigation and to fully and finally resolve, settle and dismiss with prejudice, any and all claims of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Ms. LaFrennie has ever had or now has against the Board arising out of or relating to his employment with the Board, the termination of her employment, her compensation and benefits with the Board or the Administrative Action. The Board expressly denies any wrongdoing of any kind in regard to Ms. LaFrennie's employment, the termination of her employment, her compensation and benefits with the Board and the Administrative Action.

6. This Agreement may not be changed orally and no modification, amendment or waiver of any provision contained in this Agreement, or any future representation, promise or condition in connection with the subject matter of this Agreement shall be binding upon any party hereto unless made in writing and signed by such party.

7. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and complete settlement between the Parties and supersedes any and all previous agreements of any kind whatsoever between them, whether written or oral. All prior and contemporaneous discussions and negotiations have been and are merged and integrated into, and are superseded by, this Agreement. This is an integrated document.

8. In the event that any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof should be held to be void, voidable, unlawful or, for any reason, unenforceable, the remaining portion shall remain in full force and effect, and, to that end, the provisions of this Agreement are declared to be severable.

This Agreement is made and entered into, and shall be subject to, governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the state of New Jersey and shall be fully enforceable in the courts of that state, without regard to principles of conflict of laws. The Parties agree that any suit, action or other legal proceeding arising out of this Agreement shall be brought in Superior Court for the State of New Jersey, County of Atlantic.

9. Ms. LaFrennie and her Counsel agree that Ms. LaFrennie is responsible for her own attorneys' fees and costs incurred in connection with the Administrative Action and her claims against the Board and warrant that both Ms. LaFrennie and her Counsel waives and release any claims against the Board for attorneys' fees and costs, statutory or otherwise, related in any way to the matters covered by this Agreement, and covenant not to sue or otherwise proceed against the Board with respect to any such claims for attorneys' fees and/or costs. By signing this Agreement, Ms. LaFrennie and her Counsel affirm that they are waiving and releasing any claims they may have against the Board for attorneys' fees.

10. Ms. LaFrennie agrees that neither this Agreement nor any portion hereof is assignable. Ms. LaFrennie represents, warrants and covenants that she has not previously assigned or transferred, or purported to assign or transfer, to any individual or entity, any of the rights, claims, demands or causes of action being released herein, and agrees that no such assignment or transfer may occur without a written consent executed by the Board, and any attempt to do so shall be void.

11. Ms. LaFrennie certifies that she has read the terms of this Agreement, they have been explained to her by an attorney of her choice and that she understands them in full. The execution hereof by Ms. LaFrennie shall indicate that this Agreement conforms to Ms. LaFrennie's understandings and is acceptable to her as a final agreement. It is further understood and agreed that Ms. LaFrennie has been advised of the opportunity to consult with counsel of his choice and that she has been given a reasonable and sufficient period of time of no less than twenty-one (21) days in which to consider and return this document. It is further agreed and understood that, upon Ms. LaFrennie's execution and return of this Agreement, she is thereafter permitted to revoke the Agreement at any time during a period of seven (7) days. To be effective, the revocation must be in writing and hand-delivered or telecopied to counsel for the Board within the seven (7) day period.

WHEREFORE, intending to be legally bound, the Parties have agreed to the aforesaid terms and indicate their agreement by signing below.

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY. THIS AGREEMENT IS A LEGAL DOCUMENT AND INCLUDES A RELEASE OF ALL KNOWN AND UNKNOWN CLAIMS, INCLUDING, WITHOUT LIMITATION, ALL CLAIMS ARISING UNDER THE AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT, THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT, TITLE VII OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE RIGHTS ACT OF 1964, THE EQUAL PAY ACT, THE EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT INCOME SECURITY ACT, THE FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT, THE OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH ACT, THE NEW JERSEY LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, THE NEW JERSEY CONSCIENTIOUS EMPLOYEE PROTECTION ACT, STATE AND FEDERAL FAMILY LEAVE LAWS, STATE AND FEDERAL WAGE AND HOUR LAWS AND ANY OTHER FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL OR COMMON LAW CLAIM.

BY SIGNING THIS AGREEMENT MS. LAFRENNIE ACKNOWLEDGES AND AFFIRMS THAT SHE IS COMPETENT, THAT SHE HAS BEEN AFFORDED A TIME PERIOD OF NO LESS THAN 21 DAYS TO REVIEW AND CONSIDER THIS AGREEMENT AND HAS BEEN ADVISED TO DO SO WITH AN ATTORNEY OF HER CHOICE, THAT SHE HAS READ AND UNDERSTANDS AND ACCEPTS THIS DOCUMENT AS FULLY AND FINALLY WAIVING AND RELEASING ANY AND ALL CLAIMS, DEMANDS, DISPUTES AND ANY DIFFERENCES OF ANY KIND WHATSOEVER WHICH SHE MAY HAVE HAD OR NOW HAS AGAINST EMPLOYER ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO HER EMPLOYMENT WITH EMPLOYER, THE TERMINATION OF HER EMPLOYMENT, HER COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS WITH THE BOARD, THE ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION, OR OTHERWISE, THAT NO REPRESENTATIONS, PROMISES, OR INDUCEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO HER EXCEPT AS SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT, AND THAT SHE HAS SIGNED THESE DOCUMENTS FREELY AND VOLUNTARILY, INTENDING TO BE LEGALLY BOUND BY ITS TERMS, AND WITH FULL UNDERSTANDING OF ITS CONSEQUENCES.

IN THE MATTER OF SANTIAGO	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PANIAGUA, NEW HORIZONS	:	DECISION
CHARTER SCHOOL, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was appointed to the Charter School Board of Trustees in April 2003; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board of trustee members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 3, 2003 and February 3, 2004; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2003 and March 2004 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 26, 2004, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why he had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the order; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its October 26, 2004 meeting, that he had the right to attend, that he could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act, and that he could receive a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member registered for the October 2004 training session but did not attend; and

Whereas, the Commission has found that this failure to attend board member training from April 2003 until October 2004 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, at its meeting on October 26, 2004, the Commission voted to recommend that all charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the October training be suspended from the board until such time as they attended training; and

Whereas, on November 18, 2004, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on his behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, wherein the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the requisite training well in excess of one year from their election to the Board should be: 1) suspended from office; 2) remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; and, 3) summarily removed from office in the event they failed to complete the training session in January of the next year (See, e.g., In the Matter of John Frohling, Learning Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; In the Matter of Veronica Sutton, Jersey City Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; and In the Matter of Wentford Gaines, Jersey City Community Charter School, Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 23, 2003); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasons for not recommending the removal, absent attendance at a training session by a date certain, of board of trustee members who had not attended training by October 2004; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that immediate suspension, with subsequent removal if training is not completed by the date specified, is the proper penalty in this matter based upon the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing date of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; provided, however, that, in the event he fails to complete one of the two training sessions offered in January 2005, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of January 30, 2005.*

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that his failure to attend board member training from April 2003 to October 2004 constitutes a clear violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension until such time as he attends training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Santiago Paniagua violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension until such time as she attends training.

OAL DOCKET NO. EDUTH 08061-2003S
AGENCY REF. NO. 53-2/03

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("BOARD") and counsel for its tenured employee Darin McDonald ("McDONALD") join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 (1983), as incorporated in N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the BOARD be withdrawn and this matter dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of charges certified by the BOARD to the Commissioner on February 6, 2003 against a tenured teaching staff member on grounds of unbecoming conduct and inefficiency. The tenure charges were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") as a contested case on May 9, 2003. A hearing concerning the BOARD's tenure charges commenced before the Honorable Judge Ana C. Viscomi on February 3, 2004, and continued on October 5, 2004. On October 5, 2004, counsel informed Judge Viscomi that the parties had reached a tentative settlement agreement. Although the material terms of the settlement were placed upon the record, the settlement was expressly conditioned upon the drafting of mutually satisfactory settlement documents to be submitted for approval by the Camden Board of Education, for review by the Governor pursuant to Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64 and by the Commissioner so that the tenure charges might be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that, among other terms, McDONALD will be suspended without pay for thirty (30) days, will participate in treatment in a 30-day in-patient substance abuse and rehabilitation program, will agree to submit to drug testing on a random basis for a two year period, and, that should he test positive for drug use during that two year period, he will be subject to termination of tenure in accordance with the principles articulated by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), aff'd. S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), aff'd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96T1 (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported) (Commissioner ruled employee and local school board may enter into binding return to work agreement providing for second chance and, under terms of agreement, Commissioner rejected employee's claim to "third strike" under New Jersey Law Against Discrimination). In exchange for these and other terms, once McDONALD provides the BOARD with proof of treatment (on or after December 15, 2004), the BOARD will reinstate McDONALD to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher at the salary step to which he would have been assigned had the tenure charges not been brought against him.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attache hereto as Exhibit A that the BOARD's withholding of his increments for the 2004-05 school year will be a permanent increment withholding, subject to the BOARD's ability to restore the increments in its sole discretion at a future date as is its prerogative under Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127 N.J. 518 (1992).

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that conditioned upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against McDONALD shall be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet his objections.

THE JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

As to the charge of unbecoming conduct, the BOARD's justification for withdrawal of the charge includes the existence of a controverted factual record, the existence of extraordinar mitigating circumstances, and the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation requirements of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10-5-1 et seq. as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, supra, and as affirmed by the Appellate Division in that case. As to the charges of inefficiency (termed "neglect of duty" and "insubordination"), the BOARD's justification for withdrawal of the charges is that a genuine question exists as to whether the BOARD should have provided the procedure and notice required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1. The BOARD's decision to request the withdrawal of the charges is further reinforced by the fact that the BOARD has had an opportunity to fully investigate and assess the allegations and confer with witnesses during the discovery phase, and in preparation for hearing, and that the BOARD conducted a detailed and full independent investigation of the allegations an the BOARD obtained all relevant information and documentation. It is for these reasons and the reasons expressed in the recitals of the Settlement Agreement that the BOARD has decided to withdraw the charges upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner.

CONCLUSION

The Settlement Agreement was negotiated between counsel after certain facts became known during the course of discovery and preparation for hearing. Counsel, as well as McDONALD and the BOARD which unanimously approved it, are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and therefore upon such approval dismiss with prejudice the tenure charges in this matter.

EXHIBIT A

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("BOARD") and its tenured employee Darin McDonald ("McDONALD").

WHEREAS, McDONALD has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a teacher of elementary art since January 1, 1995; and

WHEREAS, on February 6, 2003 the BOARD certified tenure charges against McDONALD to the Commissioner under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, which charges were captioned:

> IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DARIN MCDONALD, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.
>
> OAL DKT NO. EDUTH 08061-2003S
> AGENCY REF. NO. 53-2/03;

WHEREAS, McDONALD filed an answer contesting the tenure charges;

WHEREAS, hearing of the consolidated proceeding began on February 3, 2004, and continued on October 5, 2004;

WHEREAS, due to the fact that the criminal charges at issue in this matter which serve as the basis for the Charge No. 1 arise from a controverted factual record and resulted in a guilty plea in Camden Municipal Court as to a disorderly persons offense that does not constitute grounds for disqualification from employment, that does not result in automatic forfeiture and that is not a conviction which, in and of itself, constitutes unbecoming conduct. Specifically, the Camden Municipal Court plea was not based upon any proof that McDONALD at any time possessed or used any controlled dangerous substance;

WHEREAS, genuine questions of law and fact exist as to whether the BOARD should have provided the procedure and notice required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 before bringing Charges No. 2 and 3 (charges of inefficiency termed "neglect of duty" and "insubordination");

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge that a number of serious mitigating factors exist including the live birth and death of McDONALD's daughter, Tatyanna Dianna McDonald in 2000, the ensuing dissolution of McDONALD's marriage and an incident in which McDONALD was struck in the head with a brick by a student at the workplace and the parties further recognize that none of these circumstances are likely to recur in the future;

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge and recognize the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation provisions of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yaniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), aff'd. S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), aff'd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96T1 (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported). More specifically, the BOARD recognizes that under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, an employer is required to consider the possibility of reasonable accommodation before firing an employee with disabilities. Likewise, McDONALD recognizes that notwithstanding BOARD's obligation to provide reasonable accommodation to an employee w disabilities, the employee must still be capable of performing his duties, including but not limite to maintaining sobriety and having a satisfactory record of attendance and that, consistent with Yaniello, supra, the BOARD may lawfully hold McDONALD to the terms of a return to work agreement;

WHEREAS, the BOARD and McDONALD have each retained independent counsel of their own choosing, and have been advised of their respective rights and responsibilities under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law and the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; and

WHEREAS, notwithstanding BOARD's right to pursue the tenure charges before the Commissioner and McDONALD's right to contest such charges and be afforded full procedural due process under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, the parties have knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily agreed to waive such rights.

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made a part of this Settlement Agreement by reference;

2. The BOARD will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, ask the Commissioner to allow the tenure charges against McDONALD to be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice;

3. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void, the parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for a tenure hearing and the parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

4. McDonald's suspension with pay will continue until November 14, 2004. Commencing on November 15, 2004, the BOARD will suspend McDONALD for thirty (30) days without pay;

5. Commencing on or before November 15, 2004, McDONALD will attend an in-patient program for substance abuse and rehabilitation at a reputable facility for a minimum of thirty (30) days. McDONALD may choose the facility subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Schools; such approval will not be unreasonably withheld. The BOARD will maintain health benefits for McDONALD in accordance with the terms of the current collectively negotiated agreement to enable McDONALD to have the health coverage in place to facilitate his attendance. McDONALD will be responsible for all co-pays and deductibles;

6. As early as December 15, 2004, upon completion of the treatment program and upon McDONALD's providing the BOARD with proof of treatment, the BOARD will reinstate McDONALD to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher. The BOARD may assign McDONALD at an elementary school of the BOARD's choice.

7. For a period of two years from the full and final execution of this agreement by McDONALD and the BOARD, McDONALD consents in advance to submit to blood testing upon request by the BOARD or its administrators for the presence of controlled dangerous substance ("CDS") in his body. Blood testing is to take place at a licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory or clinic utilizing a split sample method, with the sample to be split into three parts. In the event that the first part of the sample tests positive utilizing the then-current standards accepted by the United States Department of Transportation, the BOARD may immediately suspend McDONALD in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., and the second part of the sample will be forwarded promptly and directly by the licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory c clinic to a facility operated by Quest Diagnostics or its successor by merger or acquisition (which McDONALD agrees, in advance, is an independent laboratory of his choice). McDONALD will pay for the analysis of the second part of the sample. In the event that the second part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by McDONALD . In the event that the second part of the sample tests negative, the third part will be tested by Laboratory Corporation of America or its successor by merger or acquisition at the expense of the BOARD. The third test shall be conclusive. In the event that the third part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by McDONALD. In the event of a violation of this agreement by McDONALD , following the principles articulated in Yaniello, McDONALD acknowledges that he will be subject to the termination of his employment and tenure and he will not be enitiled to a "third strike."

8. In addition to the 30-day suspension without pay as outlined in ¶ 4 above, McDONALD also agrees to an additional 30-day loss of pay to be effectuated by the reduction of his salary for the remainder of the 2004-2005 school year to a prorated salary 125/155 of his full salary. The BOARD will pay McDONALD this pro-rated salary on both pay days in October and, following his return from suspension, commencing on the December 15, 2004 pay day or upon his presentation of proof of treatment (whichever is later) and continuing through the end of the 2004-05 school year.

9. McDONALD acknowledges that the BOARD's withholding of his increments for the 2004-2005 school year are and will be permanent increment withholdings. Provided, however, that nothing prevents the BOARD from restoring the increments at some time in the future pursuant to its discretionary power as acknowledged in Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127 N.J. 518 (1992).

10. Commencing in September of 2005, the BOARD will resume paying McDONALD his full salary on a non-prorated basis. Commencing on September 2005, McDONALD will be placed at Step 10 of the BA+30 column of the guide. The BOARD acknowledges that McDONALD claims to have earned his Masters degree and, providing that McDONALD can provide the BOARD with proof that he has, in fact, received this degree, commencing on September 2005, McDONALD will be placed at Step 10 of the MA column of the guide.

11. Within 2 weeks of December 15, 2004 or within 2 weeks of McDONALD's return to work following December 15, 2004 (whichever is later), McDONALD and the principal at the school to which he will be assigned will jointly prepare a Professional Improvement Plan ("PIP") with the express goal of limiting lateness and absenteeism. The PIP may provide for enhanced sick leave verification and will provide for disciplinary action in the event that McDONALD's absenteeism from December 15, 2004 through the end of the 2004-05 exceeds the maximum absenteeism rates established by the Education Laws. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement is intended to in any way limit McDONALD's rights arising under the Family Medical Leave Act or the New Jersey Family Leave Act.

12. McDONALD agrees that he has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that he is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that he is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of his rights and the ramifications of this Settlement Agreement entering into it on his own accord. McDONALD fully understands that this Settlement Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

13. The signatory for the BOARD acknowledges that the BOARD has ratified this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting and that the Governor of the State of New Jersey has indicated that he will not exercise his right to veto this Settlement Agreement pursuant to the Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64.

14. The parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements concerning the reasons they believe this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DARIN McDONALD, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

OAL DOCKET NO. EDUTH 08061-2003S
AGENCY REF. NO. 53-2/03

JOINT REQUEST FOR APPROVAL OF SETTLEMENT, INCLUDING WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

INTRODUCTION

Counsel for the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("BOARD") and counsel for its tenured employee Darin McDonald ("McDONALD") join in moving for an order declaring that the Settlement Agreement between the parties, attached hereto as Exhibit A, meets the requirements of In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842 (1983), as incorporated in N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommending that the Settlement Agreement be approved by the Commissioner of Education, and on condition that the Commissioner approves without modification the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A, ordering that the Settlement Agreement be implemented, and that the tenure charges filed by the BOARD be withdrawn and this matter dismissed with prejudice.

PROCEDURAL STATEMENT

This matter arises out of charges certified by the BOARD to the Commissioner on February 6, 2003 against a tenured teaching staff member on grounds of unbecoming conduct and inefficiency. The tenure charges were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") as a contested case on May 9, 2003. A hearing concerning the BOARD's tenure charges commenced before the Honorable Judge Ana C. Viscomi on February 3, 2004, and continued on October 5, 2004. On October 5, 2004, counsel informed Judge Viscomi that the parties had reached a tentative settlement agreement. Although the material terms of the settlement were placed upon the record, the settlement was expressly conditioned upon the drafting of mutually satisfactory settlement documents to be submitted for approval by the Camden Board of Education, for review by the Governor pursuant to Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64 and by the Commissioner so that the tenure charges might be withdrawn.

The parties have agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that, among other terms, McDONALD will be suspended without pay for thirty (30) days, will participate in treatment in a 30-day in-patient substance abuse and rehabilitation program, will agree to submit to drug testing on a random basis for a two year period, and, that should he test positive for drug use during that two year period, he will be subject to termination of tenure in accordance with the principles articulated by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), aff'd. S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), aff'd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96T1 (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported) (Commissioner ruled employee and local school board may enter into binding return to work agreement providing for second chance and, under terms of agreement, Commissioner rejected employee's claim to "third strike" under New Jersey Law Against Discrimination). In exchange for these and other terms, once McDONALD provides the BOARD with proof of treatment (on or after December 15, 2004), the BOARD will reinstate McDONALD to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher at the salary step to which he would have been assigned had the tenure charges not been brought against him.

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that the BOARD's withholding of his increments for the 2004-05 school year will be a permanent increment withholding, subject to the BOARD's ability to restore the increments in its sole discretion at a future date as is its prerogative under Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127 N.J. 518 (1992).

The parties have further agreed under the terms of the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A that conditioned upon the Commissioner's approval of the Settlement Agreement without modification, the tenure charges against McDONALD shall be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice. Furthermore, should the Commissioner fail to approve the Settlement Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit A without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform their Settlement Agreement to meet his objections.

THE JUSTIFICATION FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TENURE CHARGES

As to the charge of unbecoming conduct, the BOARD's justification for withdrawal of the charge includes the existence of a controverted factual record, the existence of extraordinary mitigating circumstances, and the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation requirements of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10-5-1 et seq. as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yanniello, supra, and as affirmed by the Appellate Division in that case. As to the charges of inefficiency (termed "neglect of duty" and "insubordination"), the BOARD's justification for withdrawal of the charges is that a genuine question exists as to whether the BOARD should have provided the procedure and notice required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1. The BOARD's decision to request the withdrawal of the charges is further reinforced by the fact that the BOARD has had an opportunity to fully investigate and assess the allegations and confer with witnesses during the discovery phase, and in preparation for hearing, and that the BOARD conducted a detailed and full independent investigation of the allegations an the BOARD obtained all relevant information and documentation. It is for these reasons and the reasons expressed in the recitals of the Settlement Agreement that the BOARD has decided to withdraw the charges upon approval of this settlement by the Commissioner.

CONCLUSION

The Settlement Agreement was negotiated between counsel after certain facts became known during the course of discovery and preparation for hearing. Counsel, as well as McDONALD and the BOARD which unanimously approved it, are satisfied with the Settlement Agreement and believe that it fulfills the public interest with respect to these matters. For the reasons outlined above, and for good cause shown, this tribunal should conclude that the Settlement Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, recommend that the Settlement Agreement be adopted without modification by the Commissioner, order that the Settlement Agreement be implemented on condition that it is so approved, and therefore upon such approval dismiss with prejudice the tenure charges in this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

EXHIBIT A

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT REGARDING ACTIONS PENDING BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

This Settlement Agreement is entered into by and between the Board of Education of the City of Camden ("BOARD") and its tenured employee Darin McDonald ("McDONALD").

WHEREAS, McDONALD has been continuously employed by the BOARD as a teacher of elementary art since January 1, 1995; and

WHEREAS, on February 6, 2003 the BOARD certified tenure charges against McDONALD to the Commissioner under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, which charges were captioned:

> IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DARIN MCDONALD, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY.
>
> OAL DKT NO. EDUTH 08061-2003S
> AGENCY REF. NO. 53-2/03;

WHEREAS, McDONALD filed an answer contesting the tenure charges;

WHEREAS, hearing of the consolidated proceeding began on February 3, 2004, and continued on October 5, 2004;

WHEREAS, due to the fact that the criminal charges at issue in this matter which serve as the basis for the Charge No. 1 arise from a controverted factual record and resulted in a guilty plea in Camden Municipal Court as to a disorderly persons offense that does not constitute grounds for disqualification from employment, that does not result in automatic forfeiture and that is not a conviction which, in and of itself, constitutes unbecoming conduct. Specifically, the Camden Municipal Court plea was not based upon any proof that McDONALD at any time possessed or used any controlled dangerous substance;

WHEREAS, genuine questions of law and fact exist as to whether the BOARD should have provided the procedure and notice required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 before bringing Charges No. 2 and 3 (charges of inefficiency termed "neglect of duty" and "insubordination");

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge that a number of serious mitigating factors exist including the live birth and death of McDONALD's daughter, Tatyanna Dianna McDonald in 2000, the ensuing dissolution of McDONALD's marriage and an incident in which McDONALD was struck in the head with a brick by a student at the workplace and the parties further recognize that none of these circumstances are likely to recur in the future;

WHEREAS, the parties acknowledge and recognize the BOARD's commitment to the letter and spirit of the handicap accommodation provisions of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq., as previously adopted by the Commissioner in In re Yaniello, CD 203-95 (Jun. 12, 1995), aff'd. S.B. 78-95 (Jan. 8, 1997), aff'd App. Div. Dkt. No. A-3482-96T1 (Apr. 2, 1998)(unreported). More specifically, the BOARD recognizes that under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, an employer is required to consider the possibility of reasonable accommodation before firing an employee with disabilities. Likewise, McDONALD recognizes that notwithstanding BOARD's obligation to provide reasonable accommodation to an employee with disabilities, the employee must still be capable of performing his duties, including but not limited to maintaining sobriety and having a satisfactory record of attendance and that, consistent with Yaniello, supra, the BOARD may lawfully hold McDONALD to the terms of a return to work agreement;

WHEREAS, the BOARD and McDONALD have each retained independent counsel of their own choosing, and have been advised of their respective rights and responsibilities under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law and the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; and

WHEREAS, notwithstanding BOARD's right to pursue the tenure charges before the Commissioner and McDONALD's right to contest such charges and be afforded full procedural due process under the Tenure Employees' Hearing Law, the parties have knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily agreed to waive such rights.

NOW THEREFORE, the matters in dispute having been amicably adjusted by and between the parties, it is hereby stipulated and agreed as follows:

1. The above recitals are repeated and made a part of this Settlement Agreement by reference;

2. The BOARD will seek the Commissioner's approval for this Settlement Agreement, and if the Commissioner approves the Settlement Agreement without modification, ask the Commissioner to allow the tenure charges against McDONALD to be withdrawn and dismissed with prejudice;

3. Should the Commissioner fail to approve this Settlement Agreement without modification, the parties have agreed to make every reasonable effort to reform this Settlement Agreement to meet any objections. In the event that such reformation is not possible, this Settlement Agreement will become null and void, the parties will return to the status quo as it existed before this Settlement Agreement was drafted, the matter will be listed for a tenure hearing and the parties agree, in advance that neither the settlement, this Settlement Agreement, the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement, nor any representations of fact set forth in the settlement, this Settlement Agreement or the Joint Request for Approval of Settlement will be admissible for any purpose in the hearing or any appeals arising therefrom.

4. McDonald's suspension with pay will continue until November 14, 2004. Commencing on November 15, 2004, the BOARD will suspend McDONALD for thirty (30) days without pay;

5. Commencing on or before November 15, 2004, McDONALD will attend an in-patient program for substance abuse and rehabilitation at a reputable facility for a minimum of thirty (30) days. McDONALD may choose the facility subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Schools; such approval will not be unreasonably withheld. The BOARD will maintain health benefits for McDONALD in accordance with the terms of the current collectively negotiated agreement to enable McDONALD to have the health coverage in place to facilitate his attendance. McDONALD will be responsible for all co-pays and deductibles;

6. As early as December 15, 2004, upon completion of the treatment program and upon McDONALD's providing the BOARD with proof of treatment, the BOARD will reinstate McDONALD to a position consistent with his certification as a teacher. The BOARD may assign McDONALD at an elementary school of the BOARD's choice.

7. For a period of two years from the full and final execution of this agreement by McDONALD and the BOARD, McDONALD consents in advance to submit to blood testing upon request by the BOARD or its administrators for the presence of controlled dangerous substance ("CDS") in his body. Blood testing is to take place at a licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory or clinic utilizing a split sample method, with the sample to be split into three parts. In the event that the first part of the sample tests positive utilizing the then-current standards accepted by the United States Department of Transportation, the BOARD may immediately suspend McDONALD in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., and the second part of the sample will be forwarded promptly and directly by the licensed, BOARD-designated hospital, laboratory or clinic to a facility operated by Quest Diagnostics or its successor by merger or acquisition (which McDONALD agrees, in advance, is an independent laboratory of his choice). McDONALD will pay for the analysis of the second part of the sample. In the event that the second part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by McDONALD . In the event that the second part of the sample tests negative, the third part will be tested by Laboratory Corporation of America or its successor by merger or acquisition at the expense of the BOARD. The third test shall be conclusive. In the event that the third part of the sample tests positive, it will be considered as a violation of this agreement by McDONALD. In the event of a violation of this agreement by McDONALD , following the principles articulated in Yaniello, McDONALD acknowledges that he will be subject to the termination of his employment and tenure and he will not be enititled to a "third strike."

8. In addition to the 30-day suspension without pay as outlined in ¶ 4 above, McDONALD also agrees to an additional 30-day loss of pay to be effectuated by the reduction of his salary for the remainder of the 2004-2005 school year to a prorated salary 125/155 of his full salary. The BOARD will pay McDONALD this pro-rated salary on both pay days in October and, following his return from suspension, commencing on the December 15, 2004 pay day or upon his presentation of proof of treatment (whichever is later) and continuing through the end of the 2004-05 school year.

9. McDONALD acknowledges that the BOARD's withholding of his increments for the 2004-2005 school year are and will be permanent increment withholdings. Provided, however, that nothing prevents the BOARD from restoring the increments at some time in the future pursuant to its discretionary power as acknowledged in Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127 N.J. 518 (1992).

10. Commencing in September of 2005, the BOARD will resume paying McDONALD his full salary on a non-prorated basis. Commencing on September 2005, McDONALD will be placed at Step 10 of the BA+30 column of the guide. The BOARD acknowledges that McDONALD claims to have earned his Masters degree and, providing that McDONALD can provide the BOARD with proof that he has, in fact, received this degree, commencing on September 2005, McDONALD will be placed at Step 10 of the MA column of the guide.

11. Within 2 weeks of December 15, 2004 or within 2 weeks of McDONALD's return to work following December 15, 2004 (whichever is later), McDONALD and the principal at the school to which he will be assigned will jointly prepare a Professional Improvement Plan ("PIP") with the express goal of limiting lateness and absenteeism. The PIP may provide for enhanced sick leave verification and will provide for disciplinary action in the event that McDONALD's absenteeism from December 15, 2004 through the end of the 2004-05 exceeds the maximum absenteeism rates established by the Education Laws. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement is intended to in any way limit McDONALD's rights arising under the Family Medical Leave Act or the New Jersey Family Leave Act.

12. McDONALD agrees that he has been fairly and adequately represented and advised at all stages of these proceedings, that he is fully satisfied with the services of counsel and that he is voluntarily and without coercion with a full understanding of his rights and the ramifications of this Settlement Agreement entering into it on his own accord. McDONALD fully understands that this Settlement Agreement is subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

13. The signatory for the BOARD acknowledges that the BOARD has ratified this Settlement Agreement at a duly-noticed meeting and that the Governor of the State of New Jersey has indicated that he will not exercise his right to veto this Settlement Agreement pursuant to the Municipal Rehabilitation and Economic Recovery Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27BBB-64.

14. The parties further agree in consideration of this Settlement Agreement that if it is approved by the Commissioner, that they will not assert in any judicial or administrative proceeding that any statements concerning the reasons they believe this settlement is not inconsistent with the public's interest are admissions, admissions against interest or competent evidence of any fact.

IN THE MATTER OF XIOMA TORRES,	:
MARIA L. VARISCO-ROGERS CHARTER	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was appointed to the Charter School Board of Trustees in April 2003; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board of trustee members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 3, 2003 and February 3, 2004; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2003 and March 2004 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 26, 2004, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member did not reply to the order; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its October 26, 2004 meeting, that she had the right to attend, that she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act, and that she could receive a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member registered for the October 2004 training but did not attend that training session; and

Whereas, the Commission has found that this failure to attend board member training from April 2003 until October 2004 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, at its meeting on October 26, 2004, the Commission voted to recommend that all charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the October training be suspended from the board until such time as they attended training; and

Whereas, on November 18, 2004, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, wherein the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the requisite training well in excess of one year from their election to the Board should be: 1) suspended from office; 2) remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; and, 3) summarily removed from office in the event they failed to complete the training session in January of the next year (See, e.g., In the Matter of John Frohling, Learning Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; In the Matter of Veronica Sutton, Jersey City Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; and In the Matter of Wentford Gaines, Jersey City Community Charter School, Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 23, 2003); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasons for not recommending the removal, absent attendance at a training session by a date certain, of Board of trustee members who had not attended training by October 2004; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that immediate suspension, with subsequent removal if training is not completed by the date specified, is the proper penalty in this matter based upon the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing date of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; provided, however, that, in the event she fails to complete one of the two training sessions offered in January 2005, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of January 30, 2005.*

WHEREAS, Ms. Torres registered for the October 2004 training, but did not attend that training session; and

WHEREAS, at its October 26, 2004 meeting, the Commission voted to suspend until such time as they attended training all charter school trustees who had failed to attend the October training; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that the appropriate penalty for the violation is suspension until such time as she attends training;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Xioma Torres violated the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension until such time as she attends training.

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) has acted pursuant to the authority granted to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. to recommend a penalty for the above-named Board member for failure to attend the board member training sessions required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1; and

Whereas, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 requires new board members to attend training within one year of election or appointment to the board to gain skills and knowledge necessary to serve as a school board member; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member was appointed to the Charter School Board of Trustees in April 2003; and

Whereas, the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) mails correspondence to all new board of trustee members who have failed to register for or attend training and did mail such correspondence to the above-named Board member on December 3, 2003 and February 3, 2004; and

Whereas, the NJSBA conducted seven training sessions between April 2003 and March 2004 at varying locations and continuously published the dates and times of the sessions in its publication, School Board Notes; and

Whereas, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(e), on May 26, 2004, the Commission, via certified mail, issued to the above-named Board member an Order to Show Cause why she had not attended a training up until that time; and

Whereas, the registered mail having been returned as unclaimed, on June 23, 2004, the Commission again issued the Order to Show Cause by regular mail; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member responded to the order by letter stating that she was unaware of the order because she had not received it by registered mail; and

Whereas, the Commission notified the above-named Board member that it would discuss this matter at its October 26, 2004 meeting, that she had the right to attend, that she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act, and that she could receive a penalty up to removal; and

Whereas, the above-named Board member registered for the October 2004 training but did not attend that training session; and

Whereas, the Commission has found that this failure to attend board member training from April 2003 until October 2004 constitutes a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33; and

Whereas, at its meeting on October 26, 2004, the Commission voted to recommend that all charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the October training be suspended from the board until such time as they attended training; and

Whereas, on November 18, 2004, the above-named Board member was afforded an opportunity to submit written comments on the recommended sanction to the Commissioner; and

Whereas, neither the above-named Board member nor anyone on her behalf submitted comments; and

Whereas, the Commissioner of Education has carefully considered the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission and finds the Commission's recommendation is inconsistent with the penalty recommended in previous matters of this nature with substantially similar facts, wherein the Commission recommended, and the Commissioner concurred, that charter school board of trustee members who had failed to attend the requisite training well in excess of one year from their election to the Board should be: 1) suspended from office; 2) remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; and, 3) summarily removed from office in the event they failed to complete the training session in January of the next year (See, e.g., In the Matter of John Frohling, Learning Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; In the Matter of Veronica Sutton, Jersey City Community Charter School Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 22, 2003; and In the Matter of Wentford Gaines, Jersey City Community Charter School, Board of Trustees, Hudson County, decided by the Commissioner December 23, 2003); and

Whereas, the School Ethics Commission did not articulate its reasons for not recommending the removal, absent attendance at a training session by a date certain, of Board of trustee members who had not attended training by October 2004; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, in the absence of such explanation, cannot concur with the Commission's recommendation and, instead, determines that immediate suspension, with subsequent removal if training is not completed by the date specified, is the proper penalty in this matter based upon the penalty imposed in prior matters of this nature; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named Board member is suspended from office as of the filing date of this decision and shall remain suspended pending completion of the requisite training; provided, however, that, in the event she fails to complete one of the two training sessions offered in January 2005, the above-named Board member shall be summarily removed from office as of January 30, 2005.*

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 1147-99
AGENCY DKT. NO. 546-12/98
STATE BOARD NO. 12-01

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MINE HILL, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON REMAND
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT	:

For the Petitioner: Paul H. Green, Esq., (Schwartz Simon Edelstein Celso & Kessler)

For Respondent: Lester Aron, Esq., (Sills Cummis Radin Tischman Epstein & Gross)

This matter is considered on remand from the State Board of Education for the purpose of identifying the criteria which should apply to applications for withdrawal from sending/receiving relationships at the elementary school level formed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8. That statute provides:

> The board of education of any school district having the necessary accommodations may receive, or may be required to receive by order of the state board, pupils from another district not having sufficient accommodations, at rates of tuition fixed as in this article provided.

Noting that, in contrast to those high school level relationships formed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11, the Legislature has not established any statutory criteria for withdrawal from elementary sending/receiving relationships formed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8, the State Board reversed the Commissioner's determination that the criteria set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13[1] were applicable to sending/receiving relationships at the elementary level and remanded the within matter for articulation of applicable criteria and for review under the appropriate standard.

Following the issuance of the State Board's decision, the parties were afforded an opportunity to propose the components of the applicable standard. Both filed briefs proposing standards upon remand on February 26, 2003. Each then replied to the other's submission. When the Appellate Division issued its opinion on May 15, 2003, in In the Matter of the Petition for Authorization to Conduct a Referendum on the Withdrawal of North Haledon Sch. Dist. from the Passaic County Manchester Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 363 N.J.Super. 130 (App. Div. 2003), the parties were offered an opportunity to submit additional commentary. Respondent Board of Education of the Town of Dover (Dover) filed a supplemental letter memorandum, dated June 16, 2003. Thereafter, the parties were advised that the Department of Education had filed a memorandum with the Supreme Court supporting North Haledon's petition for certification and that the within matter would be held in abeyance pending a determination from the Supreme Court. After the Court issued its decision in North Haledon on August 11, 2004 (In re Petition

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, the statute which governs applications to the Commissioner for change of designation or allocation and apportionment of pupils to high schools, provides in pertinent part, ". . . [t]he commissioner shall make equitable determinations based upon consideration of all the circumstances, including the educational and financial implications for the affected districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of the districts. The commissioner shall grant the requested change in designation or allocation if no substantial negative impact will result therefrom."

for Authorization, 181 N.J. 161 (2004), each party filed a supplemental memorandum in September 2004.

In its brief proposing standards upon remand, Dover urges the adoption of the same criteria as those set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, not because they are statutorily required, but because they reflect the public policy of this State:

> Here, the State Board has made it clear that the standards contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 do not apply as a matter of law. That is understandable in light of the precise statutory language. Nonetheless, there is nothing which prevents the Commissioner from creating as his own the same standards to apply to an elementary sending/receiving relationship if he believes that they are appropriate, even though not obligatory.
>
> The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized the logic of such an approach where a Court is looking to apply public policy in circumstances where there are statutes which parallel but don't directly govern a factual matter. In its decision of Carr v. Carr, 120 N.J. 336 (1990), the Court held that
>
> > [i]n the exercise of their common-law jurisdiction, courts should seek to effectuate sound public policy and mold the law to embody the societal values that are exemplified by such public policy. In this process, courts should be responsive to legislation as expressive of public policy, which can serve to shape and add content to the common law, even though such legislative expressions may not be directly applicable or binding in the given matter. * * *
>
> Carr, 120 N.J. at 350 (emphasis added) (internal citations omitted). (Dover brief at 7)

Dover points to the statement of the Supreme Court in Booker v. Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, 45 N.J. 161 (1965) as further evidence that it is both the public policy and the law of this State to treat younger children with no less care than older children when it comes to the issue of integration.

> In a society such as ours, it is not enough that the 3 R's are being taught properly for there are other vital considerations. The children must learn to respect and live with one another in > multiracial and multi-cultural communities and the earlier they do so the better. It is during the formative school years that firm foundations may be laid for good citizenship and broad participation in the mainstream of affairs. Recognizing this, leading educators stressed democratic and educational advantages of heterogeneous student populations and point to the disadvantages of homogeneous student populations, particularly when they are composed of a racial minority whose separation generates feelings of inferiority. Booker, 45 N.J. at 170-71 (emphasis added).

Dover then concludes that the articulated standards compel the conclusion that permitting Mine Hill to withdraw would, as previously determined by the ALJ and the Commissioner, result in a substantial negative impact on the racial balance in both districts. Even without considering that thirty-two percent of the students graduating from Mine Hill's elementary school do not go on to Dover Middle School, in every year projected by Dover's experts, who were credited by the ALJ, the effect of the actual withdrawal would be a 7-8 percent reduction annually in white students at Dover Middle School. Dover also suggests that the substantial percentage of students who do not attend Dover Middle School after elementary school in Mine Hill, together with the fact that, at the time the within petition was filed, three of the seven Board members in Mine Hill sent their students to private school after they completed elementary school, is evidence that the petitioner is racially motivated.

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Borough of Mine Hill (Mine Hill), in its brief on remand, argues that there are significant differences between elementary and secondary pupils and programs, such that an identical standard is not necessary. It urges adoption of "an equitable balancing test weighing the financial and educational implications of the proposed withdrawal, giving due weight to the sending district's right to educate its own pupils." (Mine Hill brief at 3.) In support of this standard, Mine Hill cites, as did the State Board, Board of Education of the Township of Haddon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Collingswood, 1966 S.L.D. 207, wherein the hearing officer pointed out that the statute is silent as to the continuance of such relationships at the elementary school level, in contrast to the provisions which the Legislature has established for such relationships at the high school level. The Commissioner permitted the withdrawal, finding no financial hardship would result and the withdrawal would not be contrary to the educational interests of the pupils involved. In advocating for a balancing test, Mine Hill recognizes that such an approach could not be applied under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13:

> In fact, even under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, the State Board had applied a balancing test prior to the Appellate Division's decision in Englewood Cliffs Bd. of Educ. v. Englewood Bd. of Educ., 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd substantially on o.b., 132 N.J. 327 (1993), cert. denied. 510 U.S. 991, 114 S. Ct. 547 (1993). The State Board held that under the statute:
> > . . . the Commissioner must make equitable determinations based upon consideration of all the circumstances, including those which the statute requires to be addressed in the feasibility study. While requiring that termination be granted where there will be no substantial negative impact, the terms of the statute do not mandate that the negative impact, even a substantial negative impact, will result. Thus, termination may be granted where negative impact will result in some area but such impact is outweighed by the benefits that will result from the change sought. (emphasis in text)
>
> Board of Education of the Borough of Merchantville, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield, Camden County, State Bd. of Educ., #78-89 (Sept. 7, 1990) at page 4 of slip opinion.
>
> The Appellate Division, in its decision in Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood, supra, 257 N.J. Super. at 462, held to the contrary; since the Commissioner is required to review an application with respect to a high school sending-receiving relationship in accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, that ruling is binding on the Commissioner and the State Board of > Education. But, as the State Board has implicitly recognized, there is no basis for applying the high school standard to analysis of an elementary level severance request. In his prior decision, the Commissioner held that

> > . . . the only rational approach to deciding identical, important educational issues is to impose uniform standards, irrespective of the grade level involved, and, therefore, the Commissioner directs that the requirements contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 are applicable here. (Commissioner's decision at 74).
> Had the State Board been in agreement with this position, it could have simply affirmed the Commissioner's decision. The State Board of Education's decision rejected such an approach, requiring instead a careful individualized consideration of those circumstances in which elementary level severance should be permitted. Mine Hill's brief at 6-7. [2]

In balancing the equities, Mine Hill concludes that any impact on pupil ethnic/racial diversity resulting from withdrawing Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students from Dover Middle School is insufficient to outweigh Mine Hill's right to educate its own elementary pupils. Mine Hill asserts that analysis under such a balancing test would not prohibit severance since, although Mine Hill is less diverse than Dover, its student population is by no means homogeneous. It distinguishes the within matter from the facts in Englewood Cliffs, supra, by denying that there is any indication of racial motivation herein, noting that its high school students attend Dover high school and will continue to do so.

In the letter memoranda submitted by Dover following issuance of the opinions by the Appellate Division and the Supreme Court in the North Haledon case, Dover notes that in the absence of a specific articulation of racial impact as a standard in N.J.S.A. 18A:13-56, the statute governing withdrawal from a regional school district, the court concluded: 1) maintenance of a diverse student population is a critical element in the delivery of a thorough and efficient education; 2) the present racial and ethnic composition of the student body, as well as trends in the student population are valid factors to be considered by a board of review in considering the effect of the proposed withdrawal and the granting or withholding of permission to present the issues to the voters; and, 3) the immediate 9% diminution of the white population and the projected racial and ethnic imbalance in the near future cannot be characterized as insubstantial or negligible. Indeed, the court found, the 9% loss in the white population is a substantial negative impact. Dover continues:

> In the Mine Hill v. Dover dispute there are no statutory standards available upon which the Commissioner can rely. In the Manchester Regional there are specific statutory standards, none of which include the issue of racial balance. One could argue, that where there are stated criteria and racial balance is not one of them, then that standard is specifically not applicable because the legislature could have included it if it had so intended. Arguably, therefore, the consideration of race in the context of this effort to withdraw from a limited purpose regional school district would be even less likely to be subject to the consideration of race then (sic) would be a withdrawal from an elementary sending/receiving relationship where there are no specified standards in the statutes.
> Nonetheless, the Appellate Division had no problem identifying the State's public policy strongly supporting the concept of racial balance in our schools as a critical component to the maintenance of a thorough and efficient education. In fact, it specifically directs the educational policy makers to consider the issue of racial balance when it makes decisions involving the separation of school districts. In overturning the Board of Review's conclusion that a nine percent drop in the white population was not significant, the Appellate Division stated: "This finding is out of step with the recognized public policy of this state which seeks to promote equal educational opportunity and to avoid the adverse effect of racial and ethnic imbalance in schools, and which requires educational policy makers to anticipate imbalance and to take action to blunt perceived demographic trends which will lead to racial or ethnic imbalance."(Dover's letter memorandum, June 16, 2003, at 3-4)

[2] Although Mine Hill initially suggested that the record should be supplemented with up-dated information, it later reconsidered and advised that supplementation was not necessary.

Following North Haledon, Dover argues, it is settled that race must be considered in any petition to withdraw regardless of the grade level, and accordingly, race must be incorporated into the standard adopted by the Commissioner attendant to Mine Hill's request to withdraw. The Court, it notes, did not rely on any specific statute in reaching its conclusion in North Haledon, and rather, recognized that there is an "abhorrence of discrimination and segregation in the public schools [in New Jersey]" and that there are countless benefits to be derived from interacting with diverse populations. Dover urges that this reasoning cannot be, and was not, limited to any specific grade level, and, in fact, race should be emphasized even more in the younger grades where students have a greater opportunity to benefit from interaction with diverse populations for the remainder of their lives. If this standard did not apply to elementary withdrawals, it would continue the tradition of "[paying] lip service to the idea of diversity in our schools" criticized by the Court. North Haledon, 181 N.J. at 179. As such, Dover concludes, whatever standard the Commissioner adopts in connection with the State Board's remand, it must include the racial impact of withdrawal as a primary consideration. (Dover's letter memorandum, September 14, 2004, at 5-6)

Mine Hill takes the position that the North Haledon decision, which it describes as being of very limited application, does not prevent the severance it seeks herein. Recognizing that racial imbalance is a factor which must be taken into account, it argues that, under the circumstances of this case, the impact of severance is not sufficient to override Mine Hill's right to educate its own seventh and eighth graders. Mine Hill describes the impact as "modest" and asserts that it is offset by the fact that the students will commence attendance in Dover at ninth grade, unlike the situation in North Haledon where the students would have been lost to the district for all grades of instruction. This case is also distinguishable from North Haledon, it asserts, because in this case the Mine Hill population is not homogeneous; Mine Hill's student population is more diverse, it asserts, and the demographic trend is in the direction of an increase in that diversity.

Having carefully considered the suggestions, positions and arguments of the parties, the Commissioner concludes that the appropriate standards for evaluating requests for withdrawals at the elementary school level are the same standards which are applicable at the high school level. In this regard, the Commissioner again specifically rejects Mine Hill's suggestion that elementary level severance requests should be reviewed on some less restrictive standard than is required for all other severance request matters. Although Mine Hill has argued that there are significant differences between elementary school students and high school students which warrant such a standard, no such differences have been articulated by Mine Hill, nor has any standard been offered other than replacement of the high school statute's "substantial negative impact" with a "weighing" of the statutorily enumerated factors against a "district's right to educate its own children." The Commissioner has previously determined, and Mine Hill does not appear to dispute, that severance could not occur in an elementary relationship if it were found to result in financial hardship or damage to the educational interests of pupils, Haddon, supra. The Commissioner finds this standard, which is tantamount to the statuory high school standard of "no substantial negative impact" in these areas, essential for the maintenance of a thorough and efficient system of public education regardless of the grade level of the schools in question.

With respect to racial composition, there can be no question that where a negative impact is shown, severance cannot be granted. As a threshold reference, the remarks of Justice Jacobs in Booker, supra, quoted hereinabove, merit repeating:

> In a society such as ours, it is not enough that the 3 R's are being taught properly, for there are other vital considerations. The children must learn to respect and live with one another in multiracial and multicultural communities and the earlier they do so, the better. It is during their formative school years that firm foundations may be laid for good citizenship and broad participation in the mainstream of affairs.

While the Legislature specifically recognized the importance of race/ethnicity as a factor in evaluating requests for severance of sending/receiving relationships at the high school level, this factor is perhaps even more significant at the elementary school level when students are most impressionable. As noted by the Appellate Division in Englewood Cliffs, supra, 257 N.J. Super. 413, 452-453, "when children of all races learn to live with and respect each other in school at an early age, education is enhanced and the groundwork is laid for future participation of all in the mainstream of human affairs."

The Commissioner can find no reason for analyzing requests for severance of sending/receiving relationships at the elementary level any differently than other such requests involving high school relationships when it comes to matters of race/ethnicity. In so holding, the Commissioner recognizes this conclusion is not required by statute, but rather determines that it is compelled by common sense and the New Jersey Constitution. The same logic which caused the Appellate Division in North Haledon to focus on Article

VIII, Sect. 4, para. 1[3] of the New Jersey Constitution in conjunction with considering the effect of the proposed withdrawal upon the educational and financial condition of the withdrawing and remaining districts requires consideration of the impact of withdrawal on racial and ethnic balance in both districts in determining whether to permit severance of any sending/receiving relationship.

In the North Haledon case the Court reviewed the decision of a Board of Review to permit a referendum in order to determine whether or not North Haledon should remain part of the limited purpose regional school district. The Board of Review, despite acknowledging the fact that the intended withdrawal would have the adverse effect of reducing the white population in the regional district by nine percent, had determined that the change was not significant enough to prevent the holding of a referendum. The Appellate Division rejected the Board's finding that the nine percent loss would have a negligible impact on the regional high school district, stating:

> This finding is out of step with the recognized public policy of the state which seeks to promote equal, educational opportunity and to avoid the adverse effects of racial and ethnic imbalance in schools, and which requires education policy-makers to anticipate imbalance and to take action to blunt perceived demographic trends which will lead to racial or ethnic imbalance. 363 N.J.Super. at 139.

Relying upon Jenkins v. Township of Morris Sch. Dist., 58 N.J. 483 (1971), Booker, supra, and Englewood Cliffs, supra, the Appellate Division required the Commissioner and the State Board to exercise their powers to prevent racial imbalance in the schools

[3] Known as the Education Clause, or the Thorough and Efficient Provision, Article VIII, Section 4, para. 1 states:

The Legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

and to refrain from actions that exacerbate racial imbalance. The Supreme Court, recognizing that "racial balance and education are 'different sides of the same coin,'" rejected North Haledon's argument that the principles of Booker, Jenkins, and Englewood are limited to "white flight" contexts or de facto segregation and concluded that, notwithstanding the absence of any racial motivation, North Haledon's withdrawal would deny the benefits of the educational opportunity offered by a diverse student body to both the students remaining at Manchester Regional and to the students from North Haledon. Likewise, in the present matter, although the Commissioner rejects Dover's suggestion that Mine Hill's request for withdrawal is racially motivated as not supported by the evidence, nevertheless the impact of withdrawal on racial and ethnic balance in both Mine Hill and Dover must be a factor in considering the request. North Haledon, although not controlling, is instructive for two reasons: 1) It establishes that substantial negative impact on racial balance is an inherent factor in any determination regarding termination of relationships, and 2) it considers a nine percent decrease in the white population "substantial." Here, as with factors constituting "any other reason" in the context of de-regionalizing, each factor, educational quality, finances and diversity, implicates the State's constitutional obligation for the maintenance of a thorough and efficient education.

Given the foregoing conclusions, there is no need to revisit or reanalyze the evidence in the record herein, which is discussed extensively in the Commissioner's 2001 decision. The factual findings of its proposed severance decision preclude acceptance of Mine Hill's description of the racial/ethnic impact as "modest." The Commissioner therefore reiterates the conclusion previously reached in 2001 that, although it had not been established that there would be a substantial negative financial impact or a substantial negative impact on educational programming, the substantial negative impact on the racial balance in both districts and, consequently on the quality of education in both districts, precludes granting the severance request. [4]

Accordingly, for the foregoing reasons and those expressed in the analysis of the facts in the 2001 Commissioner decision, Mine Hill's application for severance of its sending/receiving relationship with respect to its seventh and eighth grade middle school students is hereby denied and this matter is hereby returned to the State Board which has retained jurisdiction.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

[4] Even if an equitable balancing test such as that suggested by Mine Hill were to be adopted, the withdrawal requested by Mine Hill could not be approved; North Haledon makes clear that if the substantial negative impact is in the racial/ethnic category, it cannot be outweighed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CARLSTADT-EAST RUTHERFORD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were duly considered by the Commissioner in making his determination herein.

In their exceptions, petitioners reiterate the same arguments advanced below, claiming that:

1) There was not a true reduction in force within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 in that there was an increased need for child study team services, rather than a decrease, and that work was not eliminated, but merely transferred to another provider in a manner circumventing tenure status contrary to Viemeister, supra, which prohibits such transfer of duties (Petitioners' Exceptions at 1-2);

2) The Commissioner's decisions in Trigani, supra, and Anders, supra, are a misinterpretation and overbroad application of the Appellate Division decision in Vicenzino, supra, and are flawed in their analysis in that they ignore the specific language of the applicable statutory and regulatory mandates regarding child study teams (id. at 5-10); and

3) "[T]he anticipated savings did not come to pass and that any alleged savings do not justify the abrogation of tenure rights" (id. at 10).

In response, the Board avers that the Initial Decision was factually sound, legally supported and correctly recognized the propriety of the reduction in force. (Board's Reply at 1) The Board further submits that the Vicenzino decision was appropriately applied to this case and in prior decisions. (Id. at 3)

Upon a thorough and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, the Commissioner has determined to adopt the Initial Decision in this matter granting the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissing the within petition with prejudice. In so concluding, the Commissioner rejects the arguments set forth in petitioners' exceptions, which were previously advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and thoroughly considered and addressed in the Initial Decision, and notes his concurrence with the well-reasoned analysis and conclusions of law articulated by the ALJ.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision in this matter is hereby adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF CARLSTADT-EAST RUTHERFORD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for petitioners (Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Joanne Butler, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith & King, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 5, 2004 Decided: November 3, 2004

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners Scott Sigmon and Janice Wehrle are former members of respondent's Child Study Team (CST) and were employed as a School Psychologist and a Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant, respectively. Petitioners allege that respondent violated their tenure rights when it eliminated their positions and contracted with the South Bergen Jointure Commission (SBJC) for the provision of basic CST services for the District's students.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Becton Education Association (the Association) is the recognized collective bargaining representative of the certified and non-certified staff employed by the Board of Education of Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional School District (the Board). On or about July 13, 2001, the Association, Scott Sigmon and Janice Wehrle filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) seeking reinstatement of the individual petitioners to their tenure positions with back pay and benefits. Petitioners allege that the Board's termination of petitioners Sigmon and Wehrle violated their tenure rights and constituted an invalid reduction in force. Petitioners further claim that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in that the termination of petitioners' tenured employment for economy and efficiency was not factually supported. It is also averred that the Board's subcontracting arrangement with the SBJC contravenes N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1. On or about July 30, 2001, the Board filed a Response to the Verified Petition.

The Department of Education (the Department) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on August 6, 2001, it was filed for determination as a contested case. The matter was initially assigned to Administrative Law Judge Michael L. Ravin. Following Judge Ravin's appointment to the New Jersey Superior Court, the matter was reassigned to Administrative Law Judge William S. Jeremiah. On March 31, 2003, the matter was assigned to the undersigned for disposition. The undersigned held telephone status conferences with counsel on April 16, May 12, May 29, June 27 and August 4, 2003. The hearing was scheduled for December 1, 2 and 3, 2003. Prior to the hearing, counsel for the parties agreed that the dispute involved questions of law that should be decided on cross-motions for summary decision. Toward this end, the parties submitted "Joint Stipulations of Fact" with attached exhibits and subsequently filed respective cross-motions for summary decision. Petitioners filed a brief in support of their position. The Board submitted a brief, a reply brief and an Affidavit of the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, Nicholas Annitti. Oral argument on the motion was held on May 3, 2004. Thereafter, the parties submitted supplemental submissions and the record was closed on August 5, 2004.[1] [1]An Order was entered extending the time within which to file this Initial Decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to the issues presented are not in dispute. Based upon a review of the Joint Stipulations of Fact, the attached exhibits, coupled with the Affidavit of Nicholas Annitti, which petitioners did not contest through the submission of an opposing affidavit, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS:

The Board is charged with the responsibility to provide suitable facilities and programs of education for all handicapped children. Consistent with this requirement, the Board is responsible to provide for basic CST services. Prior to the 2001-2002 school year, petitioners Dr. Scott Sigmon and Janice Wehrle were tenured members of the Board's basic CST.

Petitioner Sigmon was employed by the Board as a Psychologist and provided psychological services for disabled students at Becton Regional High School. Petitioner Sigmon was employed as a 3/5 (.6) employee, working Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and Thursday 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Petitioner Wehrle was employed by the Board as a Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant (LDTC) and provided services for disabled students at Becton Regional High School. Petitioner Wehrle was employed as a 3/5 (.6) employee, working Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon and Thursday 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Ms. Kellie Berkoff, who was not tenured and is not a petitioner in this matter, was employed by the Board as a Social Worker and provided services for disabled students at Becton Regional High School. Ms. Berkoff was employed as a 3/5 (.6) employee, working Wednesday, Thursday and Friday 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Had Dr. Sigmon, Ms. Wehrle and Ms. Berkoff continued to work their 3/5 (.6) work schedules during the 2001-2002 school year, Dr. Sigmon's salary would have been $52,704, plus $675 longevity. His benefits would have been worth $4,169. Ms. Wehrle's salary would have been $49,318, with benefits worth $10,639. Ms. Berkoff's salary would have been $31,640, with benefits worth $4,169. The total anticipated cost of the Board's 3/5 CST for the 2001-2002 school year would have been $153,314.

The Board considered entering a contract with the SBJC to maintain a 3/5 basic CST during the 2001-2002 school year. The Board also considered obtaining other services (speech therapist and transition counselor) from the SBJC, which services are not at issue in this case. The Board received a proposal from the SBJC for the basic CST (3/5 positions for Psychologist, LDTC and Social Worker), with two examples of anticipated costs ($108,000 and $101,493), depending upon the level of experience of the individuals assigned to the Board. The anticipated savings to the District for the 3/5 services equaled approximately $51,821.

By letters dated April 5, 2001, the District's Superintendent, Dr. Samuel Feldman, notified petitioners Sigmon and Wehrle that the Board may take action at its public meeting on April 11, 2001, which may affect their employment status in the District. At its April 16, 2001 public meeting, the Board voted to eliminate Dr. Sigmon's, Ms. Wehrle's and Ms. Berkoff's positions, not to offer them employment contracts for the 2001-2002 school year, "due to contracting out of Child Study Team services for reasons of economy and efficiency." By letters dated April 17, 2001, Dr. Feldman notified petitioners Sigmon and Wehrle that they were not offered employment contracts for the 2001-2002 school year due to the Board's contracting out of the services for reasons of economy and efficiency.

In May 2001, the Board entered into contracts with the SBJC for the 2001-2002 school year pursuant to which the SBJC would supply, and the Board would pay, the costs of a School Psychologist, Social Worker and LDTC working three days per week. The precise costs of such services were "to be determined." The Board also entered into agreements for the provision of a speech therapist and a transition counselor for the 2001-2002 school year. On August 22, 2001, the Board approved a contract with the SBJC to provide CST services for the 2001-2002 school year at a cost of approximately $108,000.

The anticipated SBJC 2001-2002 (3/5) salaries were as follows: School Psychologist, $32,590.04; LDTC, $37,830.81; and Social Worker, $33,123.21. Use of the SBJC's 3/5 basic CST, rather than maintaining its own 3/5 team, was anticipated to result in a savings to the Board of $49,769.94.

Based upon the savings for the 3/5 CST from the SBJC, compared to 3/5 for Dr. Sigmon, Ms. Wehrle and Ms. Berkoff, Dr. Feldman recommended, and on September 19, 2001 the Board authorized, changing the use of the SBJC's CST as follows: 5/5 for the Psychologist, 5/5 for the LDTC and 1/5 for the Social Worker. On September 19, 2001, the Board voted to "concur with the actions of the Superintendent in employing the services of the South Bergen Jointure Commission for Child Study Team services for the 2001-2002 scull (sic) year in the amount of $128,410. This includes the services of a full-time LTD-C (sic) and School Psychologist and a 1/5 FTE School Social Worker."

The 5/5, 5/5 and 1/5 costs for the SBJC employees for the 2001-2002 school year were $129,543.15 and were attributed as follows: School Psychologist Dr. Annarella Valdivia, $54,316.73; LDTC Nancy Epstein, $63,051.35; and School Social Worker Tricia Smith, $12,175.07. The 3/5 salary of the SBJC social worker actually providing services during the 2001-2002 school year would have been $36,525.21.

The cost of the SBJC's 5/5, 5/5, 1/5 basic CST was $23,770.85 less than the cost of maintaining the Board's 3/5 team. The SBJC team provided two more days of service (i.e., 2 more days from the Psychologist, 2 more days from the LDTC and 2 less days from the Social Worker). Dr. Valdivia and Ms. Epstein worked full days on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Ms. Smith worked a full day on Wednesday. Dr. Valdivia, Ms. Epstein and Ms. Smith were employed by the SBJC and supervised by Dr. Joseph Cardella and Ms. Mary Sosnowski, who are administrators employed by the SBJC.

Had the Board's CST worked full-time during the 2001-2002 school year, their full-time (5/5) salaries would have been as follows: Dr. Sigmon $87,840, plus longevity stipend of $675 and plus benefits worth $4,169; Ms. Wehrle $82,196, plus benefits worth $10,639; and Ms Berkoff $52,735, plus benefits worth $3,169. Had Ms. Berkoff worked only part-time (1/5), her salary would have been $10,547, plus possible benefits worth $4,169. If Ms. Berkoff had not received benefits, the total cost of the Board's 5/5, 5/5, 1/5

CST would have been $196,066 for the 2001-2002 school year.[2] The Board saved, at a minimum, $66,522.85 utilizing the SBJC's 5/5, 5/5, 1/5 team, rather than petitioners (as 5/5) and Ms. Berkoff (as 1/5) employees.

During the 2001-2002 school year, no employee of the Board performed the duties previously performed by petitioners. The District had approximately 70 to 80 classified students enrolled for the 2001-2002 school year. The Board's decision to terminate petitioners' positions and to contract with the SBJC for basic CST services has had no adverse impact on the program needs of the District for special education services. The contractual relationship between the Board and the SBJC for the provision of CST services was renewed for the 2002-2003 and 2003-2004 school years.[3]

On or around May 15, 2001, petitioners sent a written request to the Department to conduct a complaint investigation. Petitioners maintained that the Board had terminated all CST positions for the 2001-2002 school year and contracted with an agency that was noncompliant with State and/or federal statutes and/or regulations in providing special education services. The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) investigated whether the District was contracting with an appropriate agency to provide full CST services. The OSEP issued a Complaint Investigation Report dated May 21, 2001, which quoted the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a) and found the District to be compliant. More particularly, the OSEP made the following findings of fact:

> 1. Document review confirmed that child study team positions were eliminated "for reasons of economy and efficiency" on April 16, 2001.

[2]Although Paragraph 23 of the Joint Stipulations of Fact submitted by the parties states that the total cost of the Board's 5/5, 5/5, 1/5 CST would have been $196,066 for the 2001-2002 school year or $191,897 if Ms. Berkoff had not received benefits, this appears to be an error. The sum of the salaries and benefits stipulated by the parties in Paragraph 22 of the Joint Stipulations and as further set forth on Exhibit A to the Joint Stipulations reveals that the cited $196,066 figure reflects the costs if Ms. Berkoff had not received benefits. Similarly, while the Affidavit of Nicholas Annitti provides that the Board saved $66,522.85 (or, at a minimum, $62,353.85 if Ms. Berkoff did not receive benefits), this calculation is predicated on the above figures stated in the Joint Stipulations.

[3]The contracts between the Board and the SBJC dated May 2001 reflect that the Board is to provide timely notification if the services shall not be continued in the following school year. See Exhibits G, H and I attached to the Joint Stipulations of Fact.

> 2. District personnel stated the district is contracting with the South Bergen County Jointure Commission to maintain child study team services. The district will have approximately 70-80 classified students enrolled for the 2001-2002 school year and will maintain a 3/5 child study team which will be available during the summer months to provide services.[4]

The OSEP concluded: "The district is contracting with a jointure commission to provide full child study team services. Therefore, the district is determined to be compliant."[5]

ISSUES PRESENTED

The pivotal issues presented concern (1) whether respondent may lawfully eliminate all of the positions on its own basic CST and contract with the SBJC to provide such services and (2) whether, in so doing, respondent violated petitioners' tenure rights. Also in issue is whether respondent's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable under the circumstances.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The Summary Decision Standard

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This rule is substantially similar to the summary judgment rule embodied in the New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:46-2. The summary judgment procedure is designed to provide a "prompt" and "inexpensive" method of disposing of a case, which does present any genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at a hearing. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). In connection therewith, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Id. at 75. To defeat the motion the non-moving party must "come forward with evidence that creates [5]Petitioner Sigmon filed a contractual grievance challenging the Board's actions in eliminating in-house CST services and ending his employment. The Board denied his grievance on June 13, 2001. A request to arbitrate this dispute is pending and has been held in abeyance pending the outcome of the present action.

a 'genuine issue as to any material fact challenged.'" Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (citations omitted). See N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Disputed issues of fact that are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature will not suffice. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 529. The New Jersey Supreme Court has instructed:

> [A] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The 'judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial'. . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by jury and not the judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a 'genuine' issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . .
> [Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540.] (citations omitted.)

In the instant case, the parties have stipulated to the majority of the facts relevant to the issues presented. There are no material facts in dispute and the matter is ripe for summary disposition. The crux of the impasse between the parties implicates issues of law amenable to resolution without an evidentiary hearing.

Reduction in Force

It is beyond debate that tenured employees, such as petitioners, are entitled to certain statutory protections. A tenured employee shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause, and then only after compliance with dictated hearing requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Equally settled is the ability of a board of education to effectuate a reduction in force for reasons of economy and efficiency. The controlling statute directs:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.]

The courts have consistently recognized that a "[r]eduction in force (RIF), whether of tenured or nontenured teachers, if done for reasons of economy, is entirely within the authority of the board." Maywood Bd. of Educ. v. Maywood Educ. Assoc., 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div. 1979), certif. denied, 81 N.J. 292 (1979). See Jamison v. Morris School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 198 N.J. Super. 411, 414-415 (App. Div. 1985); Klinger v. Cranbury Twp. Bd. of Educ., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277 (1983). The New Jersey Supreme Court has guided that "[t]he determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions." Impey v. Borough of Shrewsbury Bd. of Educ., 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div. 1994), aff'd, 142 N.J. 388, 399 (1995). See Klinger, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 357.

Special Education Requirements

A board of education is charged with the statutory "duty . . . to provide suitable facilities and programs of education" for all handicapped children. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13. In furtherance of this objective, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 states that "[e]ach board of education and State operated program shall separately or jointly with one or more boards of education or State agencies provide for basic child study team services." The basic CST must consist of a school psychologist, a learning disability teacher consultant and a school social worker. Ibid.

A district board of education has "considerable latitude in providing essential educational services." Impey, supra, 142 N.J. at 392. A board may discharge its responsibility to provide facilities and programs of special education in a myriad of different ways. Ibid. See N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14. By statute, "[t]he facilities and programs of education required" for handicapped pupils may be provided by "[a] jointure commission program." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14d. Similarly, the "general requirements" of the special education regulations governing the provision of "educational and related services" explicitly sanction agreements between a district board of education and a jointure commission for CST services:

> Each district board of education, independently or through joint agreements, shall employ child study teams, speech correctionists or speech-language specialists and other school personnel in numbers sufficient to ensure provision of required programs and services pursuant to this chapter.

1. Joint agreements for child study team services may be entered into with local education agencies including other local school districts, educational services commissions, jointure commissions and county special services school districts.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a)1.] (emphasis added.)

The Legislature has authorized the creation of a jointure commission. "[T]he purpose of a jointure commission is to provide educational facilities and programs for handicapped children." Colantoni v. Twp. of Long Hill Bd. of Educ., 329 N.J. Super. 545, 551 (App. Div. 2000). A jointure commission is established "[w]hen two or more boards of education determine to carry out jointly by agreement the duties imposed upon them in regard to the education and training of disabled pupils, and counseling, inclusionary, and child study team services for . . . disabled pupils. . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-25. Local boards may establish a jointure commission "for the purpose of providing such services" in accordance with the rules and regulations of the State Board and with the approval of the Commissioner. Ibid. In the present context, no controversy exists that a jointure commission has been established in Bergen County, i.e., the SBJC, and the Board contracted with that jointure commission to provide CST services during the years in issue.

The special education regulations also provide that "[a]ll child study team members shall be employees of a district board of education, have an identifiable, apportioned time commitment to the local school district and shall be available during the hours students are in attendance." N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b).

The Parties' Positions

Petitioners challenge that the Board effectuated a valid reduction in force. Petitioners assert that "the Board's action was not a reduction of force in the true sense of the phrase" in that "there appears to have been an increase in the amount of work performed by the School Psychologist and LDTC for the 2001-2002 school year" and "[w]ork was not eliminated but merely transferred to another provider, the South Bergen Jointure Commission." Petitioners further argue that the arrangement between the Board and the SBJC is inconsistent with the applicable statutes and regulations, which "do not support turning over all employment and authority to a subcontractor." Finally, it is urged that "a review of the cost projections, estimates, contracts, etc., reveals that the anticipated savings did not come to pass and that any alleged savings do not justify the abrogation of tenure rights." Simply put, the Board maintains that it undertook a valid reduction in force and its arrangement with the SBJC does not contravene any statutory or regulatory standard governing the provision of basic CST services.

The Decisional Law

The courts and the Commissioner have addressed arguments similar to those advanced by the petitioners in this matter. In support of their stance, petitioners principally rely upon the decisions rendered in Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div 1949), Cochran, et al v. Watchung Hills Regional High School Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 1878 (State Board of Educ.), aff'd, No. A-2327-85 (App. Div. December 22, 1986), and Elson v. Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 229. A review of the cited decisions, along with other court and administrative decisions implicating issues analogous to those raised in the present case, is instructive.

In Viemeister, the Board of Education of the Borough of Prospect Park abolished the position of principal, terminated the services of the principal who had acquired tenure and assigned his duties to an 8th grade teacher whose new position was called "teaching principal." The Appellate Division affirmed the decision of the State Board upholding the principal's reinstatement. In so ruling, the Court stated that "[t]he fact that the formal resolutions adopted by the Board speak in terms of abolition of the position of principal and creation of a new position of 'teaching principal,' which finds no recognition in the tenure statutes, does not appear to be significant." Viemeister, supra, 5 N.J. Super. at 218. Instead, "[w]e look to the substance rather than the form and, in substance, the principalship was continued but transferred to [the newly appointed "teaching principal"]". Ibid.

Cochran involved action by a local board, which reduced its CST team composed of tenured members to half time and contracted with the Somerset County Educational Services Commission for the provision of CST services, including some of the services previously performed by the petitioners. Citing the requirements then codified in N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(a), the State Board stated that the basic CST was "expected to be employees of the local board of education." Cochran, supra, 1985 S.L.D. at 1880.[6] The State Board further noted that N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(f) authorized outside contractors "in limited circumstances" with prior approval of the County Superintendent and "only for the purpose of supplementing existing team members." Id. at 1880-1881.[7] Finding that the board's action fell within the prohibition of Viemeister in that its "intention was not an actual abolishment of positions, but a mere reorganization and transfer of duties to a less expensive provider," the State Board upheld the determinations of the Commissioner and the administrative law judge voiding the reduction in force as violative of the petitioners' tenure rights. Id. at 1881.[8]

In Elson, the Commissioner agreed with the administrative law judge's conclusion that the local board violated the tenure rights of a school psychologist on the CST whose services were terminated as a result of a reduction in force. The board subsequently contracted certain services, including those of the CST psychologist, to an outside private CST. Predicated on the then provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c), the administrative law judge observed that "[o]nly specified services may be contracted." Elson, supra, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 234. Additionally, the administrative law judge stated that "[a] local board cannot subcontract the services of its child study team to outside individuals" and, while "[a] board may supplement such services..., this situation presupposes an existing team with members who are employed by the district." Ibid. The contracted services

[6]The State Board referred to the 1982 version of the New Jersey Administrative Code. As quoted in the administrative law judge's decision, N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(a) provided that "[a]ll members of the basic child study team shall be employees of the local board of education. . . ." 1983 S.L.D. 953, 957 (emphasis added.) As previously noted, the language now incorporated in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b) states that "[a]ll child study team members shall be employees of a district board of education. . . ." (emphasis added.)

[7]N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(f), as cited in the administrative law judge's decision in Cochran (1983 S..L.D. at 958), provided:

> Prior approval by the Office of the County Superintendent of Schools and the Bureau of Special Education and Pupil Personnel Services shall be obtained for the purchase by any local school district of services of eligible, approved diagnostic clinics; agencies; or professionals in private practice representing a basic child study team discipline to supplement members of the basic child study team. When such approval is granted to a local school district for the purchase of external diagnostic or professional services, the local school district's basic child study team shall develop and coordinate the appropriate individualized education program.

[8]The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's determination in an unpublished decision. See No. A-2327-85 (App. Div. December 22, 1986).

were determined not to constitute supplemental independent CST evaluations and/or CST diagnostic services contrary to N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)(1)(i). Id. at 236. The administrative law judge further reasoned that the facts were akin to those presented in Cochran and distinguishable from Impey (addressed below) "in which the court found broad statutory and regulatory authority for a local board to enter and to join agreements with the other school districts for the provision of special education services." Id. at 235.

In this regard, the Appellate Division in Impey held that a board of education has the statutory authority to contract with an Education Services Commission (ESC) to provide speech correction services. It rejected the contention that Viemeister precluded the local board from abolishing the position of a tenured speech correctionist and contracting with the ESC of Monmouth County to provide equivalent speech correction services as a cost saving measure. The Court found that "a facility or program of special education provided by an ESC, such as speech correctional services, is a '[j]oint facilit[y]...provided by agreement between one or more school districts' within the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14(c), as well as an 'educational service' authorized pursuant to rules of the State Board within the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-5.1(a)," and that "the State Board's rules expressly authorize a local school district to contract with an ESC to provide educational services for communication to handicapped pupils." Impey, supra, 273 N.J. Super. at 432- 433. As to the employee's contention that even if the board had the authority to contract with an ESC to provide educational services for handicapped pupils it violated her tenure rights, Judge Skillman disagreed:

> The Board's decision to contract with an ESC to provide the speech correction services previously performed by appellant eliminated the need for the position of speech correctionist within the district. Moreover, appellant stipulated that the Board would save more than $12,000 per year by contracting with an ESC to provide these services. Therefore, we are satisfied that the Board properly abolished appellant's position of speech correctionist 'for reasons of economy' and thus did not violate her tenure rights....
> The Board's decision to contract with an ESC to provide speech correction services is significantly different from the administrative action involved in Viemeister . . . in which a local board abolished the position of school principal, terminated the incumbent, and established a position of 'teaching principal' which it appointed one of the school's teachers to fill. . . .
> [W]hile Viemeister involved the re-titling of the position of principal in order to remove a tenured incumbent, this case involves a statutorily authorized administrative change in the method of providing an educational service for the sole purpose of saving money.

> In sum, a local board has the authority both to contract with an ESC to provide educational services for the handicapped and to abolish a teaching position 'for reasons of economy.' We are satisfied that the Board's decision to contract with the Monmouth County ESC to provide speech correction services and its consequent abolition of appellant's tenured position constituted a proper exercise of these statutory powers.

The Supreme Court concurred with the Appellate Division's determination. In its words, the "enactments clearly authorize a local board of education to enter into a contract with an educational services commission to obtain speech correction services for its eligible pupils." 142 N.J. at 396. The Court rejected the claim alleging a violation of the employee's statutory tenure rights finding that "[t]he board acted in good faith and complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 in reducing the number of employees within the district for reasons of economy." Id. at 400. The Court noted that the subcontracting agreement with the ESC had no adverse impact on the program needs of the school district. Id. at 399. It also found that "[c]learly, the Board's decision to abolish the speech correctionist position held by petitioner, and to contract for the speech correction services with the Monmouth County ESC, has resulted in a more economical delivery of those services in the district." Id. at 399-400. Further observed was the absence of any indication that the services to be rendered by the ESC were in any way inadequate or did not conform with the standards authorized by the Commissioner. Ibid. Although the petitioner in Impey, similar to the petitioners in this case, claimed that her replacement by the ESC consisting of non-district personnel violated the requirement embodied at N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) (providing that "[a]ll members of the child study team shall be employees of a district board of education"), the Supreme Court did not address the impact of the regulation. Rather, the Court noted that "the ALJ, Commissioner, and State Board of Education determined that petitioner, who served a K through 8 school, was not a member of the basic child study team referred to in N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1." Id. at 395.

More recently, in Vicenzino v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Educ., 312 N.J. Super. 243 (App. Div. 1998) the Appellate Division affirmed action by the Commissioner directing the Bedminster Board to reinstate a tenured social worker. The Appellate Division concluded that the district could not eliminate petitioner's social worker position while maintaining a CST and contract with the Hunterdon Educational Services Commission (ESC) to provide services undertaken by the former employee. More particularly, the Court held that "where a school district elects to maintain its own Child Study Team (CST), the school social worker must be an employee of the district." Id. at 244.

The Appellate Division affirmed the employee's reinstatement essentially for the reasons set forth in the administrative law judge's decision. There, Administrative Law Judge Masin reviewed many of the same cases cited by the petitioners in this matter and, as quoted by the Appellate Division, explained:

> Under the provisions of the statute which both mandates the maintenance and the composition of CST's, a board of education is not required to employ its own CST, but may provide for CST services in a multi-district arrangement so long as identifiable apportionment of time and responsibilities to the districts involved is provided. However, where a board has provided its own CST, and then seeks to change the arrangements for the provision of such services, examination of the several decisions discussed herein demonstrates that the particular facts of each case have played a significant role in the conclusions reached as to legality of the modifications. Factors which appear to be important may include such matters as whether the termination of the petitioner and the abolition of the petitioner's position eliminated all of the persons in the district filling that position [i.e., Cochran], or whether the district continues to employ a full basic CST even after the RIF, or whether the abolition is of all positions on the basic team and the contract entered into provides for all CST services to be performed by employees of a board of education operating for a multi-district group, or only of one of the basic positions with the other two positions continuing to be filled by employees of the individual board which abolished the position (as in the present matter), or whether the contract services were with a public entity such as a multi-district cooperative or ESC [i.e., Impey] or with a private group [i.e., Elson], and whether the extent of the work performed by the outside contractor is minimal or involves significant amounts of work. In the present matter, the certification of Ms. Vicenzino indicates that she was the sole social worker employed by the district, and it appears that all of the needed social histories which she prepared as a portion of her CST work were contracted out and that none would be performed by a board employee, as the CST-related social histories which the ESC contractor is to perform constitute all of the social histories anticipated for the district's special education needs for the coming year. The contract was awarded to an ESC.
>
> While it is quite conceivable that Impey's support for legitimate, good faith economic based decisions involving the abolition of positions and the contracting of work with the expectation of savings could be extended to permit such actions in regard to the members of the basic CST, as the regulations now stand, in those instances where a district chooses to maintain its own CST the school social worker, the school psychologist and the LDTC must be employees of the district and cannot be outside contractors.
> [Vicenzino, supra, 312 N.J. Super at 249-250.] (internal references omitted.)[9]

[9] See Vicenzino, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 356, adopted, Comm'r. 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 361, aff'd, State Board, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 565.

The Appellate Division agreed with Judge Masin's conclusions stating:

> The local board of education is required to provide special educational services for handicapped pupils. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5. The basic CST 'shall consists of a school psychologist, a learning disability teacher and a school social worker.' N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1. The board of education is authorized to undertake programs 'separately or jointly with one or more boards of education or State agencies [to] provide for basic child study team services.' N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1. The regulations of the Commissioner and the State Board of Education implementing the statutory authority for a CST expressly provide that 'all members of the [CST] shall be employees of a district board of education ...' N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b). Further, approved clinics and agencies may be used by the board of education to supplement existing services in defined areas. N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c).
>
> Interpreting these requirements in pari materia with a district board of education's authority to eliminate a position for economic reasons, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, we conclude that where a board establishes a CST with employees of the district, the board may not eliminate one of those positions and contract out for those services. To be sure, if the Board were in good faith to eliminate the CST for reasons of economy and instead, 'join with one or more boards of education or State agencies [to] provide for basic [CST] services,' under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, that would be an appropriate decision to make. In that event, the board of education would have complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.
>
> However, so long as the board elects to maintain its own CST, consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), each basic member, consisting of psychologists, learning disability specialists, and social workers, 'shall be employees of a district board of education.' Consequently, the board's decision to abolish petitioner's social worker position while maintaining the CST and contracting outside to replace petitioner's position, did not comply with N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1.
> [Id. at 250-251.] (emphasis added.)

Although the Appellate Division's language in Vicenzino addressing the elimination of all positions on the CST is technically dicta in that the Bedminster Board had not taken such action,[10] the Commissioner subsequently has reached a similar conclusion. See Anders, et al v. Lakewood Twp. Bd. of Educ. and Monmouth-Ocean Educ. Services Comm., EDU 6329-99 and EDU 6330-99, Partial Initial Decision (November 16, 2000), adopted, Comm'r. (January 2, 2001) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; Trigani, et al. v. Borough of Monmouth Beach Bd. of Education and Bd. of Educ. of the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services

[10]Judge Masin also observed in Vicenzino that "the law would permit Bedminster to abolish its CST entirely if it entered into a proper multi-district arrangement for such services. . . ." 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 360.

Commission, EDU 8644-00 and 8645-00, Initial Decision (October 11, 2002), adopted, Comm'r (December 2, 2002) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

In Anders, the Commissioner adopted the decision of Administrative Law Judge Duncan dismissing the petitioners' claim that the Lakewood Board of Education violated their tenure rights by eliminating petitioners' social worker, LDTC and psychologist positions on the CST and entering into a contract with the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission to provide basic CST services to the district's students. The Commissioner found "the ALJ's reliance upon the court's language in Vicenzino, supra, appropriate in reaching the determination that a local board of education which acts in good faith to eliminate its CST(s) for reasons of economy may join with one or more boards of education or State agencies to provide basic CST services, including an ESC . . . ." The Commissioner was not persuaded by the petitioners' argument that the administrative law judge erred in reaching this determination because an ESC is neither a board of education nor a State agency. After quoting the "clear[ ]" language of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a)1, the Commissioner articulated his full agreement with the administrative law judge's analysis and conclusion that:

> Definitionally, however, an educational services commission is a public agency established pursuant to provisions of State statute when five or more boards of education in any county or in any two or more counties and the Commissioner seek and receive permission from the State Board of Education to establish such a commission. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-52. Educational services commissions are established specifically for the purpose of providing to public school districts 'such educational and administrative services as may be authorized pursuant to rules of the State Board of Education.' N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51. If there had been any question concerning the authorization of boards of education to provide basic child study team services through an educational services commission, that question was definitively resolved with the adoption in 1998 of the State Board Rule N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.l....

The Commissioner also rejected the petitioners' contention that N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a) "permits only the contracting of supplemental CST services" (emphasis in original). Rather, as the Commissioner observed, "[u]nlike N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(c)1ii, which permits a board of education to subcontract with private clinics and agencies for provision of CST services to public school students only to supplement the local district services, there is nothing set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a) which would similarly limit joint agreements by boards of education for CST services." (emphasis in original.) The Commissioner further concurred with the administrative law judge's determination that:

> In the within matter the tenured positions have, in fact, been eliminated. No employee of the Lakewood Board of Education is performing the duties previously performed by the tenured child study team members. The Board has opted for reasons of economy to provide basic child study team services through a statutorily and regulatory authorized administrative change in the method of providing those services. At some point in the future Lakewood may determine to again provide basic child study team services with board employees, and should that happen, the tenured petitioners in the within matter will be entitled to their tenured protections from the employment list. (footnote omitted.)

Similarly, in Trigani, supra, the administrative law judge denied relief to the petitioners, who were formerly employed by the Monmouth Beach Board of Education as a tenured psychologist, social worker and speech therapist. The board terminated the petitioners' employment for economic reasons and entered into a contract with the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission to provide CST services. In holding that the respondents were entitled to summary decision, the Commissioner concluded that, as aptly stated by the administrative law judge, "[t]he accumulated case law, culminating in Anders, which is on point with the circumstances of both the instant consolidated cases, leads only to the conclusion . . . that petitioners have not been unlawfully terminated from their positions. . . ."

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Against this backdrop, the facts of the within matter parallel those presented in Anders and Trigani. Succinctly stated, the comprehensive and well-reasoned analysis that led to the conclusions reached in those cases applies with equal force to petitioners' claims. Petitioners have offered no additional factual evidence warranting a different result. In addition, the undersigned is not persuaded by petitioners' contention that the cited Commissioner decisions are "flawed in their analysis in that they ignore the specific language of the applicable statutory and regulatory mandates governing child study teams."

A review of the applicable statutes and regulations supports the type of arrangement undertaken by the Board in this case. The statutory provisions expressly authorize a district board of education to provide for basic CST services "separately or jointly with one or more boards of educations or State agencies. . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1. Toward fulfilling its statutory mission, the facilities and programs of education required for handicapped pupils may be provided by a jointure commission. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14d. Consistent with the statutory directives, the Board entered into a contract with the SBJC, a public entity approved by the Commissioner to provide CST services. See Miller v. Klagholz and Twp. of New Hanover Bd. of Education, State Board Number 93-96 (where the State Board stated that "N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 provides the authority under which district boards must provide basic child study team services, and the terms of that statute require that such services must be provided through its own employees, in combination with another board of education, or by another public entity.") (emphasis supplied.) Indeed, any question concerning the authorization of a board of education to provide basic CST services through a jointure commission has been squarely answered with the adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a)1. See Anders, supra.

The decisions rendered in Cochran and Elson, which were decided before the promulgation of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a)1 and, as to Elson, involved a private entity, do not compel a different conclusion. Nor does the undersigned embrace petitioners' argument that the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:46.5.1 is limited to "the sharing of services by school districts in which child study team members would be in the joint districts at different times" and does not authorize a local board to provide basic CST services solely through a jointure commission. And, the plain language of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(a) does not support petitioners' stance that the Board must employ CSTs directly.

Although N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b) specifies that all CST members "shall be employees of a district board of education," the regulation must be read in a manner that comports with the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 (which allows basic CST services to be provided "jointly with one or more boards of educations or State agencies"), N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14d (which authorizes the required facilities and programs of education for handicapped students to be provided by a jointure commission), and N.J.S.A. 18A:46-25 (which permits a jointure commission to provide CST services). The statutory and regulatory framework does not limit joint agreements with a local education agency, including a jointure commission, for CST services only to supplement services provided by district employees. Contrast N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1(c)1ii. The decisional law culminating in Anders and Trigani further supports the conclusion that, although a district board of education may not eliminate the position of one CST member while maintaining its own CST, the board may abolish its entire CST and enter into a proper multi-district arrangement for such services, such as the arrangement in issue. The undersigned concurs with the administrative law judge's observation in Anders that the statutory and regulatory provisions would be rendered meaningless if districts which originally opted to employ their own CST members were required to continue that arrangement until each tenured member of the team either resigned or retired. Plainly, the purpose of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b) was not to provide tenure protection to basic CST members over and above that provided by statute. Rather, the probable intendment of the regulation was to ensure that basic CST services would be provided by public employees of one local education agency in order to avoid supervisory and management difficulties which may be presented by a "split team." See Anders, supra; Vicenzino, supra, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 360.

Apart from this, the record does not reveal that the SBJC has taken over or assumed the operation of the Board's special education program versus simply providing specific educational services. The Board continues to be legally responsible for its special education program and retains the authority to discontinue the SBJC's services. Further bereft from the record is any evidence suggesting that the services rendered by the SBJC are inadequate or do not conform with the standards authorized by the Commissioner. Indeed, the evidence reveals that the challenged arrangement has had no adverse impact on the program needs of the District for special education services.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that a board of education possesses the authority to contract with a jointure commission for the provision of CST services. I further CONCLUDE that the Board's agreement with the SBJC for basic CST services does not run afoul of the statutory and regulatory requirements governing special education services.[11]

I further CONCLUDE that the Board conducted a valid reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and its actions did not violate petitioners' tenure rights.

[11]As previously noted, the OSEP also concluded that the District's arrangement with the SBJC to provide full CST services complied with the statutes and regulations governing the provision of special education services.

Clearly, the Board has the power to engage in a reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 for reasons of economy and efficiency. This would permit the elimination of petitioners' positions notwithstanding their tenured status.

Here, petitioners' positions have, in fact, been eliminated. In contrast to the circumstances in Viemeister, no Board employee is performing the duties previously undertaken by the tenured CST members. The record supports that the Board acted in good faith in abolishing petitioners' positions based upon permissible economic concerns. In other words, the Board opted to provide basic CST services through a statutorily and regulatory authorized administrative change in the method of providing those services for the purpose of saving money. That the cost numbers changed and the Board did not know the specific amount of money it would save at the time it contracted with the SBJC (which was dependent upon the persons assigned to the SBJC's CST) do not impugn the action taken. In short, what was known to the Board when it took the action it did was that there would be a substantial savings. Beyond this, the conceived plan to save money ultimately attained that purpose. The arrangement with the SBJC has resulted in a more economical delivery of CST services in the District. During the 2001-2002 school year, the Board saved over $23,000 from the use of the SBJC's 5/5, 5/5, 1/5 CST arrangement, rather than maintaining its own 3/5 team, and also received two more days of service from the SBJC. It would have cost the Board over $60,000 more had the petitioners provided the same 5/5, 5/5, 1/5 services.

In sum, based upon the foregoing facts and authorities cited, I CONCLUDE that the Board did not unlawfully terminate petitioners and its contract with the SBJC complies with the statutory and regulatory requirements. Inasmuch as the Board acted within the scope of its authority and pursuant to applicable statutes and regulations, its actions cannot be viewed as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.[12] [12]Should the Board choose in the future to again provide CST services through its own employees, petitioners' statutory tenure and seniority rights would be triggered.

The record in this matter and the Amended Initial Decision[1] of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Exceptions filed by each party were considered by the Commissioner in making the determination herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner was not and is not homeless, nor has she been domiciled in the Madison School District since July 2001. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has failed in her burden of establishing that her two children were entitled to a free education in the Madison School District for the 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04 school years. The Commissioner further agrees with the grant of the Board's counterclaim for tuition for the 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04 school years as required

A.B. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, K.B. AND A.B., Petitioner/Appellant,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MADISON, MORRIS COUNTY

Respondent.

A.B., Petitioner pro se

Vito Gagliardi, Jr., Esq., for Respondent
(Porzio, Bromberg and Newman, PC)

Record Closed: September 8, 2004 Decided: October 15, 2004

BEFORE SANDRA ANN ROBINSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner (A.B.) contests the Respondent's (Madison Board of Education) determination that her two children K.B. and A.B., are not school district resident's and therefore not entitled to a free public education in the Respondent's district schools or in "out-of-district" educational facilities paid for by Respondent's district. Petitioner also alleges homelessness in solidification of her residency argument. Respondent seeks reimbursement of $ 253,730.29 plus costs and fees for educational services provided to Petitioner's children, for the period Petitioner no longer resided in Madison and failed to qualify for the homelessness exception under N.J.A.C. 18A: 38-1 and N.J.A.C. 6A: 28-2 ... a free public education will be provided to any student between the ages of 5 and 20 who is: " The child of a parent or guardian who moves to another district as a result of being homeless."

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 16, 2003, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. A pre-hearing conference was scheduled for February 13, 2004, but was adjourned due to Respondent's counsel's conflict with an appearance on a District X proceeding. De novo hearing dates were scheduled for June 24 and July 14, 2004. The June 24, 2004 hearing was adjourned due to the unavailability of Respondent's counsel. On June 25, 2004 Respondent submitted a Motion for Summary Decision to OAL. The motion for Summary Decision was held in abeyance pending the outcome of the De Novo hearing. Petitioner appearing pro se contends via written correspondence that a major factual issue exists in that her residency continues in Madison due to homelessness and also that her right to a hearing should not be forfeitable during her continued search and need for legal representation. Case status conferences were scheduled for July 27, 2004 and August 4, 2004. The hearing dates were on July 14 and August 16, 2004. The request for a Summary Decision was denied. The record remained open until completion of the review of the Private Investigation Report and the review of the surveillance Video Tape, which was entered into evidence by Respondent with the support of testimony from the Investigator; the record was closed on September 8, 2004.

BURDEN OF PROOF

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1, the challenger to a Board's decision to deny a free public education within its district has the burden to prove to the Commission of Education by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in the statute. The statute also provides that no child shall be denied admission while the proceeding is pending before the Commissioner and in the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school while the proceedings are continuing. If, however, in the judgment of the Commissioner, the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he/she shall assess the resident tuition for the student, prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district.

As a result of the law cited above, the burden rests on the Petitioner by a preponderance of the evidence to show that domicile did in fact exist in the district in which the child attended school.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

1. The Madison Board of Education is a body politic of the State of New Jersey charged with operating the public schools in the Borough of Madison, New Jersey;

2. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1, the Board is obligated to provide a free public education to all children between the ages of 5 and 20 years of age who are domiciled in the Borough of Madison;

14. Respondent filed a Complaint, dated October 22, 2003, against Petitioner in Morris County, Superior Court, Law Division to recover the costs of educating her children, on the grounds that her misrepresentations to the Board constituted racketeering in violation of NJ.S.A. 2C: 41-1b, fraud and equitable fraud.

15. Petitioner failed to answer the Civil Complaint and a default was entered against Petitioner on December 26,2003.

16. Respondent served Petitioner on January 19, 2004 with a request for discovery, pursuant to *N.J.A.*C. 1: 6A-I 0.1. Petitioner has never produced responses to discovery requests.

17. Petitioner sought free legal assistance and was denied free service because of Petitioner's inability to prove financial need or to otherwise qualify for pro bono or reduced fee legal services at the location(s) contacted.

22. The proof hearing to determine homelessness and the amount of compensatory and consequential damages, attorneys fees and costs of suit owed by Petitioner was concluded at OAL on August 16, 2004; and the record closed on September 8, 2004.

BACKGROUND AND SUMMARY OF TESTIMOMY

Until July 2001 Petitioner resided in Madison with her twins, one girl and one boy, who are special needs children. Petitioner said she lost her job, lost her apartment lease, started using a cell phone and a Madison post office mailing address. The children were receiving special education courses in a day placement paid for by Madison Board of Education. But, when Petitioner reported her children to DYFS alleging that her son had sexually abused her daughter, DYFS commenced relocation in another placement. Petitioner did not want both of the children in the same location therefore one placement was obtained in Pennsylvania and another in South Jersey. The Madison Board of Education pays the cost for the residential out-of-district placement. Once the children were placed it became increasingly difficult for the Madison Board of Education to find Petitioner and suspicion grew about her residency.

The following is a summary of the testimony in evidence, which was found by the undersigned to be relevant to the issues in this matter.

FOR RESPONDENT

CHARLES R. MILEWSKI: Certified School Board Business Administrator/School Board Secretary for Madison, has been in the profession for twenty-six years and with Madison since September 2002. He holds a B.A. degree from University of Bridgeport and a M.A. degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University.

The Madison Director of Special Services approached Mr. Milewski, with a concern about Petitioner's residency, when it became increasingly difficult to contact Petitioner. The means of contacting Petitioner was on a cell phone or through a post office address and usually no reply was forthcoming when contact attempts were made. The school district was concerned about paying the special residential education tuition of $85,000.00 per year, for two children who were not the responsibility of the Madison school district. Mr. Milewski explained the Educational Agreements and Contracts entered into by the Madison Board of Education on behalf of Petitioner's children. (Exhibits R-1, R-2, R-3, R-4, R-5, R-6). In March 2003, Mr. Milewski was successful in making contact with Petitioner to schedule a meeting at the school. When Petitioner was told that her residency was under suspicion, she said she was living out of her car. She explained that she had lost job and was living various places with friends in Ringwood and North Bergen. Petitioner came to the meeting very well dressed. Mr. Milewski wrote the license plate number of the Mercedes Benz, which Petitioner drove. He then checked on the license plate and learned that the vehicle was owned by a former company in Madison.

Respondent hired a private Investigator to check on Petitioner's residency. An "Investigation Report" (Report) was submitted which concluded that Petitioner resided in North Bergen. (Exhibit R-8). The Investigator took photographs and video-taped the surveillances, which occurred over a one (1) month period at the North Bergen residence of Petitioner. (Exhibits R-8, R11). The Report disclosed that Petitioner owns 92 acres of property in upstate New York with a Mr. Joseph Stadler, and as of June 30, 2004 Petitioner still held ownership of the property. (Exhibits R-12, R-13).

The Investigator presented the Report and answered inquiries at the August 12, 2003 Closed Session of the Madison Board of Education meeting. Petitioner made an oral presentation during which she admitted to living in North Bergen. She told the Board that the bottom floor consisted of: kitchen table and chairs, leather coach/sofa bed, television, computer, fax machine; and the top floor contents was bedroom furnishings. Petitioner also told the Board that she owns two vehicles (including the Mercedes Benz). Petitioner presented no documents at the Board meeting. Petitioner claimed that she had stayed in a shelter but could not remember the name of the shelter, the location of the shelter or dates she stayed at the shelter. The Board voted unanimously to disenroll Petitioner's two children because Petitioner no longer resided in Madison. (Exhibit R-7).

WILLIAM (BILL) KELLY: is a New Jersey licensed Private Investigator hired by the Madison Board of Education on April 1, 2003 to handle a "Residency Verification Case" on Petitioner. Investigator Kelly (Kelly) prepared and submitted a written Report, Photographs and Video Tape of his surveillance. (Exhibits R-8, R-11).

For one month the Investigator conducted a surveillance on numerous days and at varying times, but usually an early morning watch (5:45AM, 8AM, 8:30AM) is and was used to determine if persons exit a house or apartment regularly and proceed to work, then return at the end of the work day (6PM, 8PM, 9:45PM). Kelly's Report indicates what time both vehicles were usually at the 6415 Liberty Avenue address and provides pictures of Petitioner and/or Mr. Stadler coming or going at various times and dates. Even though the building provides underground secured parking, the vehicles were always parked on the street. At all time during the surveillance Kelly observed Petitioner entering and driving vehicles, which matched the description of the vehicles registered to her.

Kelly learned that both of Petitioner's vehicles had been registered to Intellectual Advertising, Inc. (an active corporation as of October 27, 1997 with no annual reports filed and Joseph Stadler of Madison named as the registrant); after the business closed, the registrations were changed to Petitioner's name. Kelly inquired of the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, as to the address of the registered owner of the vehicles. The reply from Motor Vehicles indicated Petitioner's address at 6415 Liberty Avenue in North Bergen. (Exhibits R-9, R-10).

Kelly investigated Petitioner's allegation (made at the Board meeting) that she had applied for public housing in Madison. On September 8, 2003 he spoke with Pat Cummings, a housing authority representative in charge of resident applications, who told him that Petitioner never inquired or made an application for public housing.

Kelly investigated Petitioner's allegation (made at the Board meeting), that she no longer owned property in New York State. Kelly made an inquiry of the Town of Hammond, New York Tax Collector and learned that as of June 30, 2004 Petitioner had not relinquished ownership of her property in New York. (Exhibit R-13).

PETITIONER

Petitioner did not refute the Investigative Report, Video Tape, Photographs or the Testimony of Mr. Kelly, except to question the exact number of times he observed her in North Bergen; and to note that she bought the New York property at a 1994 Tax Sale.

Petitioner did not refute the testimony of Charles R. Milewski (Madison Board of Education Business Administrator) regarding her statements at the office meeting or the School Board meeting, nor did she contradict the explanation of circumstances surrounding the Agreements and Contracts for Educational Services provided for her children. Petitioner said she had no documentation to offer in support of her claim of homelessness.

CREDIBILITY

The credibility of the witnesses is of paramount concern in this case. Petitioner would have the undersigned to believe that after she lost her job and lease that she had nowhere to live. However, the weight of all testimony, including disclosures made by Petitioner indicates that when Petitioner moved from Madison she commenced residency in North Bergen. The information she provided to the school board about living with an older child immediately after loosing her lease was never verified. Many of Petitioner's other stories about no longer owning property in New York, applying for public housing, living with "other" friends and relatives, staying in a shelter, being destitute, without money and homeless – were not credible and were proven to be false after the professional investigation on Petitioner was completed. It appears that Petitioner provided information and documentation in various forms, which was intentionally false and designed to mislead the school officials as to her true residence.

It appears that Petitioner fabricated the truth about her residency, so as to be freed from the parental and educational responsibilities of her children and to have the Madison Board of Education continue paying for residential out-of-district placements.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

PROOF OF DOMICILE TO QUALIFY FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION:

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1, public schools shall be free to persons over five and under 20 years of age who are domiciled within the school district. While there are certain exceptions, this case is not a case of exceptions but instead a case of questioned domicile and/or homelessness. It is the position of Petitioner that she at all times pertinent to this case, was domiciled in the district of Madison because that is the last district of attendance by her children, before she became homeless.

The burden of proving that the Petitioner is domiciled in the school district of Madison falls squarely upon Petitioner. It is Petitioner's burden to show that she was domiciled in the Borough of Madison and that her children were appropriately attending school there. The proof in this case by Petitioner falls very short of meeting the burden. As noted above, her testimony that she was homeless during the relevant time period lacked proof and credibility. Petitioner did not submit documents in support of her claim, which made her testimony appear even more incredible.

HOMELESSNESS:

While *N.J.S.A.*18A: 7B-12 provides that if a parent of a pupil temporarily moves from one school district to another as the result of being homeless, the district in which the parent last resided prior to becoming homeless shall be responsible for the pupil's education. An individual is deemed "homeless" if he/ she "temporarily lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence." See J.S. olblo D.S. v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Township Board of Education, OAL Docket No. EDS 1676-01 (2001).

Except for exploring the issue and possibility of homelessness, this case is repetitive of the outcome in the Superior Court. The doctrine of res judicata is applicable to administrative actions and is applied to "prevent wasteful and unnecessary fragmentation of causes of action and duplication of proceedings," and in order to protect the integrity of the adjudicative process by avoiding contradictory judgments on the same factual issues. City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1,31 (1980). Also, Fortunato v. Del Corio, 91 NJ.A.R. 2d(INS) 1, 18 (l991). In the instant case, the transmittal documents from the Department of Education Bureau of Controversies and Disputes cited the possibility of homelessness as an issue for exploration and transferred the matter to the OAL for a hearing.

Petitioner does not dispute that she moved from the Borough of Madison in July 2001 and at some point thereafter commenced living in the Township of North Bergen; nor does she dispute that she testified before the Board of Education on August 12, 2003 and disclosed that her permanent living residence was in North Bergen where she also worked. Petitioner's disclosure that she has personal belongings, furnishings, at least one vehicle and lists North Bergen as her permanent address on her driver's licenses and vehicle registrations is an indication that homelessness does not exist. Petitioner's assertion that she has "been homeless and has for three years temporarily lacked a fixed, regular and adequate residence", is not credible and is unbelievable. I CONCLUDE that Petitioner has not been domiciled in Madison for three years. I ALSO CONCLUDE, that Petitioner was not and is not homeless. I FURTHER CONCLUDE, that Petitioner has not met the preponderance of the evidence to show that domicile did in fact exist in the Madison school district.

TUITION REIMBURSEMENT:

As a result of the Conclusions, the next question presented is that of tuition reimbursement. N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1 permits the assessing of a parent, for tuition of a student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district commenced. Respondent has submitted certified Agreements and approved "New Jersey State Department of Education Mandated Tuition Contracts" for the years 2001-2002, 2002-2003, 2003-2004 for both of Petitioner's children. The Business Administrator and Secretary for the Borough of Madison School District testified in regard to the terms, conditions and funding language of the Agreements and Contracts at the hearing. The three school years of tuition totaled $253,730.29 and were broken down as follows:

STUDENT	SCHOOL YEAR	TUITION
K.B.	2001-2002	$45,625
K.B.	2002-2003	$47.450
K.B.	2003-2004	$49,410
A.B.	2001-2002	$30,384
A.B.	2002-2003	$30,528
A.B.	2003-2004	$33,072

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's claim be and is hereby DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that for the days K.B. and A.B. attended the schools of Respondent, Borough of Madison and/or attended out-of-district specialized educational facilities in southern New Jersey and Pennsylvania, that Petitioner shall pay Respondent tuition in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b)(2), in the sum of $253,730.29, and as set forth in Agreements and Contracts to provide Education Programs for K.B. and A.B. and as appears on Respondent's Statement of Itemized Claims, with costs, and interest in favor of the Petitioner Madison Board of Education.

I hereby FILE this Initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner observes that the President of the Linden Board of Education signed the Settlement Agreement on behalf of the Board. In that neither the file nor the Settlement Agreement contains a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf, and the agreement is not signed by the Board attorney, who is the Board's duly authorized representative in litigation, the Commissioner cannot approve the within Settlement Agreement.

Moreover, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that appear to have been effectuated prior to approval of the settlement by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The ALJ and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in a controverted matter that has been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

Accordingly, the Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the Settlement Agreement consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing.

WHEREAS, on or about May 15, 2002, Shteingradt was notified that the Board did not renew his contract for the 2002-2003 school year; and

WHEREAS, Shteingradt's last day of employment coincided with the last day of school in June of 2002; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 6, 2002, the Board advised Shteingradt that he would be suspended through July 15, 2002 without pay; and

WHEREAS, on or about August 9, 2002, Shteingradt, by and through the Linden Education Association ("Association"), filed a Demand for Arbitration with the Public Employment Relations Commission ("PERC"), claiming that Shteingradt's suspension without pay violated his rights under the Agreement, and seeking reversal of the disciplinary action and back pay; and

7. Shteingradt expressly agrees and understands that his departure is final and irrevocable no matter what and regardless of any other circumstances. 8. Shteingradt and the Association hereby agree that they shall not contest the conditions set forth in Paragraph 1 through 7, inclusive, before any tribunal, court, administrative body or arbitration. The parties further agree and understand that this Agreement is a full and final waiver and release between them covering the above claims before the Office of Administrative Law.

9. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall not be construed as an admission of any kind to any charge delineated in the within referenced actions.

10. Each party hereby release, acquit and forever discharge the other and from any and all actions or causes of action, suits, debts, claims, complaints, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, damages, cross-claims, claims for contribution and/or indemnity, claims for costs and/or attorney's fees, judgments and demands whatsoever, in law or equity, which it ever had, now has or may have, as of the date of this Settlement Agreement and General Release arising from or relating to the incidents as set forth in the actions known as David Shteingradt v. 17. The parties shall bear all costs and expenses arising from the actions of their own counsel in connection with the Settlement Agreement and General Release. Any additional attorneys fees, which may arise from the actions of the Association's attorneys in connection with the incidents set forth and any incidents related thereto to the action known as EDUOR 09067-02N is to be borne by Shteingradt or the Association. The Board shall bear its own costs.

18. This Settlement Agreement and General Release contains the entire Agreement between Shteingradt and the Board with regard to the matters set forth in it, and shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of their officials, officers, directors, representatives, employees, agents, servants, administrators, successors and assigns of each, except as set forth herein or as may be agreed to in writing between the parties.

19. In entering into this Settlement Agreement and General Release, Shteingradt has relied upon the legal advice of his union representative and/or attorney, as to the terms of this Settlement Agreement and General Release which have been completely read and explained and those terms are fully understood and voluntarily accepted.

20. This Settlement Agreement and General Release shall become effective immediately following execution by all the following parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, Shteingradt and the Board have hereunto set their hands.

Record Closed: November 30, 2004 Decided: November 30, 2004

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Millstone Township Board of Education (BOE) petitioned for an order requiring respondent E.B., a student classified for Special Education and related services, to remain on home instruction and to refrain from attending school until the district determines that E.B. can return to school without endangering his health. As shown on the attached Stipulation of Settlement Agreement and General Release, the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 15, 2004, the BOE's papers were filed with the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on September 16, 2004. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On September 16, 2004, the attorneys and I conferred, the parties represented that they expected to settle the case and a hearing was scheduled for September 29, 2004. Prior to that date, the parties advised that the case had been settled and that they were preparing the Stipulation of Settlement and General Release. On the record closed date, I received the Stipulation of Settlement and General Release with the last of the signatures and a certification showing that the BOE accepted the settlement. I note that the parties have also settled the related case docketed as EDS 6963-04.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The petitioner understood the Stipulation of Settlement and General Release and the parties voluntarily entered in to it.

2. The Stipulation of Settlement and General Release fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

The case involved substantial issues of fact. The Stipulation of Settlement and General Release avoids the time and expense of full hearing and further litigation. The terms of the Stipulation of Settlement and General Release are reasonable and in the public interest.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

This Stipulation of Settlement and General Release meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and should be approved. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

ORDER

I ORDER that the parties comply with the Stipulation of Settlement and General Release and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

MILLSTONE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, PETITIONER, v. G.B. & A.B. o/b/o E.B., RESPONDENTS.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION Agency Docket No. 325-9/04 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

The Millstone Board of Education, (the "District") with principal offices at 18 Schoolhouse Road, Clarksburg, New Jersey; and George Brunath (G.B.) and Andrea Brunath (A.B.), (the "Respondents" or the "Parents"), on behalf of their minor son, E.B. (the "student" or "E.B."), domiciled at 13 Sugar Loaf Hill, Clarksburg, New Jersey, desiring to settle this contested matter in an amicable and mutually satisfactory way, hereby set forth their full and complete agreement, as follows:

WHEREAS, E.B., is an educationally disabled student as defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.1 et seq.; and

Attach to ID Settlement

WHEREAS, the Millstone Board of Education is the local educational authority with the responsibility of providing E.B. with a free, appropriate public education; and

WHEREAS, as a result of an IEP meeting held on May 6, 2004, the parties agreed that E.B.'s Individualized Education Program (IEP) should be implemented in a self-contained, first grade classroom at the District's Millstone Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, on or about June 30, 2004, E.B.'s neurologist, Dr. Robert Clancy, wrote the District requesting that E.B. be placed on home instruction; and

WHEREAS, the District's physician, Dr. Howard Cohen, thereafter approved and verified the home instruction request in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9; and

WHEREAS, throughout the summer of 2004, E.B. did indeed receive medical home instruction from Mr. Joshua DeSantos, a certified teacher of the handicapped; and

WHEREAS, on or about August 12, 2004, Dr. Clancy wrote to the District indicating that E.B. was cleared to return to the Millstone Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, at the commencement of the 2004-05 school year, the Respondents were advised by the District's representatives that E.B. would remain on medical home instruction until such time that Dr. Cohen determined E.B. was medically fit to return to the Millstone Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, on or about September 3, 2004, the Respondents' attorney filed an application for Emergent Relief seeking, among other things, an Order from an Administrative Law Judge requiring that E.B. be permitted, under the "stay put" provisions of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), to immediately enter to his first grade, self-contained program at the Millstone Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, on or about September 14, 2004, the District filed a Petition of Appeal and Request for Emergent Relief before the Commissioner of Education (Agency Dkt. No.: 325-9/04);

WHEREAS, the District's Petition of Appeal maintains that, in accordance with Title 18A and N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9, it is vested with the authority to determine, based upon consultation with the District's physician, when a student is medically fit to return to the general education setting; and

WHEREAS, the District maintains that E.B. should not come off medical home instruction until such time that Dr. Howard Cohen determines that he is medically fit to return to Millstone Elementary School; and

WHEREAS, as a result of settlement discussions on September 16, 2004, the parties have agreed to settle all issues in dispute as set forth in the Petitioners' Petition of Appeal and Request for Emergent Relief (Agency Docket No. 325-9/04);

NOW, THEREFORE, for the considerations specified below, the parties set forth the following mutual covenants and agreement as follows:

1. Effective Monday, September 20, 2004, E.B. shall receive in the family home 2.0 hours per day of medical home instruction to be provided by a certified teacher of the handicapped.

2. E.B.'s medical home instruction in the family home shall continue through and including Monday, September 27, 2004.

3. Effective Tuesday, September 28, 2004, E.B.'s medical home instruction shall be increased to 2.5 hours per day with medical home instruction being provided by a certified teacher of the handicapped to be hired by the Board of Education at its meeting scheduled for Monday, September 27, 2004. Additionally, E.B. will receive from a District speech therapist the related service of speech therapy as specified in his IEP dated May 6, 2004. The medical home instruction and the speech therapy will be provided at the Millstone Elementary School. The instruction will take place either from 9:05 – 11:35 a.m. or from 1:30 – 4:00 p.m.

4. In order to receive medical home instruction and speech therapy, it will be the Petitioners responsibility to provide E.B. with transportation to and from the Millstone Elementary School.

5. The parties anticipate that E.B. will undergo surgery at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia in October or November, 2004, with the hope that this surgery will have a positive impact on the severity of E.B.'s ongoing seizure disorder. Accordingly, within sixty (60) days of the commencement of E.B.'s medical home instruction after surgery, the parties agree to convene an IEP meeting in order to satisfy the requirement of an IEP review as set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9, in order to review the results of E.B.'s reevaluation, in order to determine if E.B. is medically fit to return to school at the Millstone Elementary School, and in order to develop an appropriate program for E.B. The issue of an occupational therapy evaluation will be addressed at this IEP meeting..

6. Upon E.B.'s return to school, a functional behavioral assessment will be updated and a behavior intervention plan will be created by the Children's Center of Monmouth County.

7. In consideration for the foregoing, Petitioner hereby withdraws, without prejudice, its Petition of Appeal and Request for Emergent Relief with a Agency Docket No. of 325-9/04.

8. No later than 30 days after the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement, this Stipulation of Settlement shall be filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes.

9. This Stipulation of Settlement shall not constitute, be interpreted, construed or used as evidence of any admission of fact, law, responsibility, wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Petitioner or the parents. In the event that this Stipulation of Settlement is not fully executed and approved by all parties hereto, this Stipulation of Settlement shall become null and void and shall neither constitute an admission of any party not be referred to by any party in any subsequent legal proceeding for any purpose whatsoever.

10. The Respondents acknowledge that they have been represented by and consulted with legal counsel throughout the negotiations of this Stipulation of Settlement and that they have reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement in detail with their counsel and that they fully understand its requirements and limitations. The parents further expressly state that they are fully satisfied with the representation provided by their legal counsel.

11. The Respondents hereby state that they are signing this Stipulation of Settlement voluntarily of their own free will and not under duress or coercion of any kind.

12. This Stipulation of Settlement shall be construed fairly according to the plain language of its terms and not for or against any party hereto.

13. If, during the term of this Stipulation of Settlement, it is found that a specific clause(s) of the Stipulation of Settlement is/are illegal under Federal or State Law, then the remainder of the Stipulation of Settlement not affected by such a ruling shall remain in full force and effect.

14. All parties are bound by this Stipulation of Settlement and each of its provisions. Anyone who succeeds to their rights and responsibilities, such as their successors and assigns, are also bound. This Stipulation of Settlement is made for the benefit of all the parties hereto and all who succeed to their rights and responsibilities, and expressly includes their officials, representatives, employees, agents, attorneys, successors and assigns.

15. The Respondents understand and agree that the terms and conditions of this settlement shall become null and void in the event that they and/or E.B. are no longer domiciled in the Township of Clarksburg.

16. This Stipulation of Settlement constitutes the full and complete agreement of the parties hereto with respect to its subject matter, that it supercedes any prior or contemporaneous representations, whether oral or written, and that it may not be modified or amended except by a written instrument signed by all parties hereto. a27 October 25 & November

Dear Counsel:

Upon review of the papers filed in connection with petitioner's Motion for Stay, pending appeal to the State Board, of my November 17, 2004 decision in the matter entitled A. McA., on behalf of minor children, A. McA. and M. McA. v. Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County, Agency Dkt. No. 50-2/04, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3805-04, Commissioner decision No. 466-04, I have determined that there is no basis upon which to grant the requested relief.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(a), a motion for stay shall be decided upon the criteria set forth for the granting of interim relief as established by Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Thus, a stay may only be awarded when the party seeking such relief demonstrates the existence of each of four separate conditions: 1) that in the absence of such a stay, the movant will suffer irreparable injury; 2) that there is a clear probability the movant will prevail on the merits of the underlying controversy; 3) that the probability of harm to other persons will not be greater than the harm the movant will suffer in the absence of such a stay; and 4) that the public interest will not be adversely affected by such a stay. Crowe, supra. Here, I determine that petitioner has failed to satisfy her burden of demonstrating any of these required standards. Most notably, however, she has failed to establish irreparable harm or even a preliminary facial showing that she will ultimately succeed on the merits of this matter.

My November 17, 2004 decision found that petitioner and her children, A. McA. and M. McA., were not domiciliaries of Union Township during the 2003-2004 school year, thereby entitling the children to a free public education in this district, but, rather, they were domiciled with petitioner's sister and her husband in Newark during this time. My decision further assessed petitioner tuition, in the amount of $40,254.60, for this period of her children's ineligible school attendance at Union Township's expense. Petitioner's submitted materials here allude to a change in the factual scenario on which this matter was based, specifically, that petitioner's sister and her husband have moved from their home in Newark and now live in Piscataway. I do not find this factual circumstance pertinent to my determination which dealt with the 2003-2004 school year. If, however, as a result of this change, petitioner's children are being denied school attendance in whatever district they now reside, petitioner should file a new Petition of Appeal. To the extent that the instant motion could be considered one for reconsideration of my prior decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b), it must, similarly, be denied for failure to satisfy the necessary requisites for consideration.

Accordingly, petitioner's Motion is hereby DENIED.

Sincerely,

William L. Librera, Ed.D.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CLIFTON, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that K.M. and her children, K.G., T.G. and K.P., were homeless during the time that they lived in Delran Township following their eviction from their residence in Clifton in that they had no "fixed, regular, and adequate residence." The Commissioner, therefore, agrees that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.4.,[1] the Clifton Board must pay a total of $3,944 in tuition to the Delran Board for the twenty-nine days that K.G., T.G. and K.P. were homeless and attended school in the Delran Township School District.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: October 1, 2004 Decided: November 15, 2004

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter involves a dispute in which the Delran Board of Education demands that the Clifton Board of Education pay tuition to it to cover the attendance of three children in Delran's school system. The dispute goes back many years. Delran first asserted its claim sometime prior to May 8, 1996, on which date the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"). The matter was then assigned to a judge who has since retired. For reasons unknown, it seems that the case "fell between the cracks" for all concerned, the judge and the lawyers, and was never resolved. A recent audit of cases at the OAL revealed that this matter remained unresolved and inquiries to counsel revealed that the matter, which had been the subject of a motion for summary decision filed by counsel for Delran on October 17, 1996, was still a live controversy despite the passage of time. The case was reassigned to this judge and counsel resubmitted their briefs.

Delran's bases its claim for tuition for the attendance in its schools of three children, "K.G.," "T.G.," and "K.P.," for the period between November 20, 1995, and January 18, 1996, upon a then existing regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.3.[i] This regulation addresses the continuing responsibility placed upon certain districts for the education of children who have left the district and been enrolled in other districts.

In a Certification In Lieu of Affidavit dated October 10, 1996, submitted with the motion for summary decision, Matt Wideman states that prior to November 1996, he owned property located at 166 Center Street, Clifton, New Jersey, and rented the dwelling to K.G. and her three children, the aforementioned students, for at least twenty-five months. He was forced to evict them in November due to a failure to pay rent. Alan Elstein filed a Certification, in which he asserted that he was the Director of Pupil Personnel Services and Curriculum for Delran. He conducted an investigation regarding the three students in question and determined that when K.M. was evicted by Mr. Wideman, she took her three children and stayed at the apartment of J.M., in an apartment complex located in Delran. They remained at this address from approximately November 20, 1995, until January 18, 1996, when K.M. moved to Hackensack. According to the Certification, neither Ms. G. nor the children were listed on the lease for this apartment and he claims that management of the complex had not granted any approval for them to reside there. He states that "the management office informed me that they were not legally residing there," . . . "management also informed me that the legally approved occupancy rating was exceeded by the temporary presence of Ms. G. and her three children in the apartment." According to Elstein, the children were enrolled in the Delran school district during their "temporary stay" at the Delran apartment.

In his response to the motion for summary decision, counsel for the respondent states that the board "cannot dispute any of the factual assertions raised by Delran except that the certification of Alan Elstein . . . does not establish whether the Hunter's Glen apartment living arrangements actually exceeded legally approved occupancy, and if so, what legal approvals were referred to in that Certification."

The governing regulation at the time that this controversy began was N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.3(b)(6). This regulation designated that when a child becomes "homeless" and the child is enrolled in a school district other than the district in which he or she was enrolled prior to becoming homeless, the district of origin is responsible for payment of tuition to the district in which the homeless student is enrolled. The key to this regulation is the question of whether a child is "homeless."

In this matter there is no dispute of fact about the three children having resided for at least twenty-five months in Clifton, about the eviction of the family from the Clifton residence, about its move into an apartment in Delran in which they resided with a man who was the tenant therein, and about their eventual departure to another living arrangement in Hackensack. Nor is there any dispute as to the enrollment and attendance of the children in the Delran school district. While counsel for Clifton is not prepared to accept the assertions in Mr. Elstein's certification regarding the legal infirmities affecting the family's presence in the Delran apartment, no evidential materials have been provided to refute Mr. Elstein's assertions, and therefore no genuine dispute of material fact regarding this issue has been demonstrated. Thus, the sole issue is whether these children were "homeless."

In support of its claim, Delran cites the language of the regulation, which provides "a child or youth shall be considered homeless if he or she is . . .[t]he child of a homeless family which is out of necessity living with relatives or friends[.]" As there is no dispute that these children were living "out of necessity . . . with relatives or [a] friend," Delran claims that they were indeed homeless. But Counsel for Clifton notes that the "complete sentence" in the regulation reads, "(b) . . . A child or youth shall be considered homeless if he or she is: . . . (6) The child of a homeless family which is, out of necessity, living with relatives or friends" (emphasis supplied). In Clifton's understanding of the case and the regulation the key is whether the "family" is homeless. It cites the decision in Board of Education of the Township of Maurice River vs. Board of Education of the City of Wildwood, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 895 ("Maurice River") in support of that interpretation. There, in May 1991, a mother, B.P., left the family home in Wildwood with her children due to marital discord. She and the children moved in with B.P.'s mother in Maurice River Township, remaining with her mother until November 1991. In August 1991, the mother enrolled A.P. in the Wildwood Elementary School. She did so because she hoped for a reconciliation, but in October 1991 she withdrew the child from Wildwood and enrolled A.P. in Maurice River's school. She filed a registration form with that district, listing the family as "out of necessity living with relatives or friends." Maurice River demanded tuition payments from Wildwood, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-7.3. In November 1991 the mother moved with her children into a duplex in Maurice River. The county welfare board paid a portion of her rent, a subsidy that ended in November 1992. Maurice River determined that A.P. was homeless because of information received from welfare board personnel who said that the mother was homeless and because of the signed registration form listing the mother as "out of necessity living with relatives or friends."

In his decision, Administrative Law Judge Edgar Holmes concluded that merely because one lives "out of necessity" with family or friends does not automatically render one "homeless." "This paragraph covers a typical situation in which a family, already homeless, places one or more of its children with relatives or friends. It is not intended to make all children who reside with relations and friends out of necessity, homeless. Especially when they are living with their mother." Maurice River, ibid. at 897. The receipt of temporary rental assistance did not automatically define the family as "homeless," because the purpose of such assistance was, in part, to address cases of "imminent homelessness," as well as cases of "actual homelessness." The Welfare Board properly provided assistance when there was a danger that the family, which had been notified by B.P.'s mother that they could no longer reside with her, would become homeless. It was, however, the case that the family was not actually homeless. The judge added that the child's father "continued to reside in Wildwood to whom the child may have returned."

In his conclusion, the judge determined that A.P. had not lost shelter "so that he lacked 'a fixed, regular and adequate residence.' " Therefore, he dismissed Maurice River's claim for tuition. The Commissioner concurred with the judge's decision. Id. at 897.

Clifton argues that the present case is governed by the reasoning of Maurice River. Here, the children remained with their mother throughout the period during which they attended school in Delran. The children were not separated from their mother and they did not lack a "fixed, regular and adequate residence," even though there may have been a legal impediment to the family remaining at the Delran apartment for a long period of time. The regulation simply does not apply to this case.

In a reply to Clifton's position, Delran contends that the language of the regulation is unambiguous and clearly applies to these three children, who were without doubt, "each a 'child of a homeless family.' " Given their involuntary eviction from the Clifton residence, their stay in the apartment in Delran was out of necessity." Maurice River is distinguishable. There the mother "voluntarily" removed from the marital home. Further, the family received rental assistance while residing in Maurice River. These two factors distinguish the cases, as in the present matter the mother and her children were "involuntarily evicted" and the mother was not receiving any rental assistance while she and the children resided with a friend "out of necessity."

A review of the regulation existing at the time that this controversy became ripe and the facts of this case demonstrates that Delran is entitled to receive tuition for the attendance of these children in its schools. N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.2 defined a "homeless" child as one who "lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate residence." N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.3 further defined those children or youths considered to be homeless as those residing in any of several varieties of shelter. These included 1. A supervised publicly or privately operated shelter . . . i. Welfare hotel; ii. Congregate shelters; iii. Transitional housing for families; and iv. Transitional housing for the mentally ill; 2. An institution that provides a temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized; or 3. A public or private place not designed for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings. Additionally, the regulation identified as other indicia for considering a child homeless as (b) 1. Living with a parent in a domestic violence shelter; 2. A runaway living in a shelter; 3. A school-aged mother residing in a home for adolescent mothers; 4. Sick or abandoned and residing in a hospital and would otherwise be released if he or she had a permanent residence; 5 Abandoned and therefore has no permanent residence; 6. The child of a homeless family which is out of necessity living with relatives or friends; or 7. The child of a migrant worker who lacks adequate housing. Of all of these categories only one arguably applies to the children in this case. That is "(b) 6, the child of a homeless family which is out of necessity living with relatives or friends." Each of the other categories involves a child living in a location that in no sense can be viewed as a normal or "regular" place of residence for children. These locations are hotels for welfare recipients, shelters, or other such non-traditional public or private places purposely intended as "way-stations" for those without normal, regular, fixed places of residence, and institutions and facilities for those voluntarily or involuntarily cast off or adrift. But category (b) 6 represents a different sort of situation, one in which a child of a homeless family lives with relatives or friends in a physical setting, a residence, that is, at least seemingly a regular, fixed and normal one. However, here the record indicates that the home to which the family went after its eviction from its Clifton home was one in which it had no legal right to be. Thus, here is a family, clearly staying with family or friend(s) "out of necessity," with no other "fixed, regular and adequate" place for its children to go. It can hardly be argued that residence in a home in which one has no legal right to remain is "regular" or "fixed." And while for purposes of public assistance, emergency shelter assistance might well be unnecessary for this family while it resided in this "temporary" residence since the concern there is largely to assure that the family, and particularly the children, have a roof over their head rather than having to live "on the street," for purposes of this tuition issue the concern is whether the district in which the family stays, in an unauthorized arrangement, should bear the costs for educating the children, rather than that district which was responsible for them before they became adrift, albeit here with their mother.

The decision in Maurice River does not describe the exact circumstances that led the mother to remove herself from the marital home. Her removal may well have been "voluntary," as opposed to one forced by domestic violence that could well be classified as "involuntary." The father retained the family home, and as Judge Holmes noted, the children could have possibly returned there (again the report does not indicate any conditions that would have precluded such return, such as a violent father). The decision also does not indicate precisely why the child's grandmother signed a letter advising the welfare authority that the family had to vacate her home. We do not know if the residence of the mother and children created an illegal situation, or there simply was a parting of the ways. At any rate, as reported, the circumstances in Maurice River differ enough from those existing in the present case such that the prior decision is not a persuasive indicator of the outcome of this contested case.

Given the response filed by the Clifton Board, there are no disputed material facts here that need to be resolved by testimony and summary decision is appropriate to resolve the case. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). I CONCLUDE that the children herein were homeless. I FIND that they had no "fixed, regular, and adequate residence," at the time that they lived in Delran Township. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the Clifton Board of Education, as the "district of residence" is required to pay tuition to the Delran Board for the attendance of the three children for the days in question. N.J.A.C. 6:3-8.4.

In support of its motion, Delran has submitted demand letters issued to the Clifton Board for payment of tuition for the three students for six days in the month of November, fifteen days in December 1995 and for eight days in the month of January 1996, up through the removal of the family to Hackensack on January 18. These letters, which contain certifications as to their correctness issued by the Board Secretary, are unopposed by any contrary evidence. As the amount of the tuition that would be due to Delran if it prevailed in this case does not appear to be in dispute, I CONCLUDE that the Clifton Board must pay a total of $3,944. to the Delran Board.[ii]

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[ii] The amounts due are a total of $816 for six days each for three students in November; $2,040 for three students for fifteen days in December and $1,088 for three students for eight days in January.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were fully considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner has failed to meet her required burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that her grandson, S.J.L., was entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during the 2003-2004 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Petition of Appeal is dismissed and petitioner is hereby directed to pay the Board tuition, in the amount of $7,130, for the period of S.J.L.'s ineligible attendance in the District's schools.

Linda B. Henderson, petitioner, pro se

Kenneth B. Fitzsimmons, Esq., for respondent (Sinn, Fitzsimmons, Cantoli, West and Pardes, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 3, 3004 Decided: December 10, 2004

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

In this matter, petitioner asserts that respondent board of education, which is a sending district, has made a change in the designated high school receiving districts without approval of the Commissioner of Education in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. Specifically, respondent changed its policy for assignment of its students to the two receiving high schools from a lottery system to a system based on length of residency. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 23, 2004, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on August 6, 2004 to discuss the issues and the possibility of settlement. Following this, the matter was scheduled for hearing to be held on November 16, 2004. In addition, the parties agreed to attend an in-person settlement conference on September 16, 2004.

On September 16, 2004, the parties met with me and engaged in settlement discussions. Those settlement discussions continued thereafter, and on November 1, 2004, the parties advised me that a settlement had been reached. Accordingly, the parties have prepared a Stipulation of Dismissal Without Prejudice and a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms of the settlement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. BOARD OF EDUCATION

5411 HIGH SCHOOL ASSIGNMENT

State law provides that it is the responsibility of the board of education to make assignments of our students entering public high school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-12.

In order to accomplish this assignment, the following procedures shall apply:

1. The Superintendent of schools shall determine the number of eighth grade pupils to be assigned to each receiving high school by apportioning 37.5% of those pupils to Asbury Park High School and 62.5% to Manasquan High School.

2. Pupils shall have the right to choose to attend either high school based upon seniority, which shall be determined by the number of years a pupil has been enrolled in the Avon Elementary School or any private school, starting with kindergarten, while a resident of Avon. In the case of more than one student entering at the kindergarten level, seniority shall be determined by the date of entrance in kindergarten. Any student enrolled in kindergarten between the commencement of the school year and September 15th shall be deemed enrolled on September 15th that year. A student enrolled in kindergarten after September 15th shall be deemed to have entered kindergarten on the student's actual date of enrollment. If a school does not record the actual date of enrollment in any month, the date of entrance shall be deemed the 30th day of the month. In the event two or more students have equivalent seniority at the kindergarten entry level, seniority shall be determined by a random form of selection made on a lottery basis. The number of drawings in the lottery shall be equal to the number of students having equivalent seniority. Lottery numbers shall begin with number one and end with a number equal to the total number of students in the lottery pool. Students receiving the lowest numbers in the lottery drawing shall be deemed to have more seniority for high school placement purposes.

At such point when the ratio of assignment is met in one high school, all other eighth grade students and any pupils subsequently entering or reentering the public high school system after completion of the assignment process shall be assigned to the remaining high school.

3. The Superintendent shall notify the parents of students attending a private school that the assignment process will commence. It is anticipated that this information will be available to the Superintendent based upon a list of students receiving non-public textbook and/or transportation aid. Notwithstanding this provision, it is the parents responsibility to notify the Superintendent on or before November 1 of the year preceding the pupil's entry into high school that the parents plan to send their child to public school, and they must submit an affidavit attesting to their years of residency in Avon supported by official documents such as a certificate of occupancy. These documents will be verified through the Avon School District or municipal officials.

4. Once a pupil has been assigned to a receiving high school, the pupil may not transfer to the other receiving high school.

5. If a pupil assigned to a high school chooses to attend private school or another public high school program on a tuition basis and later reenters the public sector, the pupil will be placed in the originally assigned high school.

6. This assignment policy shall pertain to all publicly enrolled high school pupils regardless of whether the receiving high school shall place the pupils outside of the receiving high school's district for special education programs (e.g. vocational educational programs or programs for handicapped pupils).

7. The assignment of Avon pupils will be made to coordinate with the registration periods for the receiving high schools.

5411 HIGH SCHOOL ASSIGNMENT

State law provides that it is the responsibility of the board of education to make assignments of our students entering public high school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-12.

In order to accomplish this assignment, the following procedures shall apply:

1. The Superintendent of Schools shall determine the number of eighth grade pupils to be assigned to each receiving high school by apportioning 37.5% of those pupils to Asbury Park High School and 62.5% to Manasquan High School.

2. Pupils shall have the right to choose to attend either high school based upon a random form of selection made on a lottery basis. The total number of eighth grade students residing in the community, regardless of whether such students attend public or private school, shall constitute the "lottery pool". Lottery numbers shall be publicly drawn and shall begin with number one and end with a number equal to the total number of students in the lottery pool. Students receiving the lowest numbers in the lottery drawing shall have the right to select either one of the receiving high schools. At such point when the ratio of assignment is met in one high school, all other eighth grade students and any pupils subsequently entering or reentering the public high school system after completion of the assignment process shall be assigned to the remaining high school.

3. The Superintendent shall notify the parents of students attending a private school when the assignment process will commence. It is anticipated that this information will be available to the Superintendent based upon a list of students receiving non-public textbook and/or transportation aid.

Notwithstanding this provision, it is the parents responsibility to notify the Superintendent on or before November 1 of the year preceding the pupil's entry into high school that the parents plan to send their child to public school.

4. Once a pupil has been assigned to a receiving high school, the pupil may not transfer to the other receiving high school.

5. If a pupil assigned to a high school chooses to attend private school or another public high school program on a tuition basis and later reenters the public sector, the pupil will be placed in the originally assigned high school.

6. This assignment policy shall pertain to all publicly enrolled high school pupils regardless of whether the receiving high school shall place the pupils outside of the receiving high school's district for special education programs (e.g. vocational educational programs or programs for handicapped pupils).

7. The assignment of Avon pupils will be made to coordinate with the registration periods for the receiving high schools.

Jennifer Mazawey, Esq., for Respondent (Genova, Burns & Vernoia, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 8, 2004 Decided: November 22, 2004

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner seeks to compel the District to admit his son, J.M.H., into a seventh grade Algebra class without J.M.H. taking the District required screening test. Petitioner proceeded by way of application for emergent relief because classes were to begin on September 9, 2004. The date on which the application for emergent relief was heard was September 14, 2004. Petitioner sought an order compelling Respondent to enroll J.M.H. in the District's seventh grade Algebra course. At the hearing on the application, Respondent asserted J.M.H. had been enrolled; Petitioner agreed that was the case. Accordingly, the application for emergent relief was rendered moot.

With regard to the remainder of Petitioner's claims, Respondent asserts the enrollment of J.M.H. in the District's Algebra course and attendance of that class has partially satisfied Petitioner's request for relief. Moreover, J.M.H. was admitted to the Algebra pursuant to the written request of Petitioner in compliance with District policy to waive the four criteria for admission into certain tests. Respondent relies on the certification of Terry Trigg Scales in which Ms. Scales certified the Board uses an open enrollment policy for enrollment into classes pursuant to a written request of the parent. Petitioner has provided no rebuttal to this statement; indeed, J.M.H. was admitted to the Algebra class pursuant to the open enrollment policy.

Upon the determination that the application for emergent relief was rendered moot by J.M.H.'s enrollment and attendance in the Algebra class, Respondent made an application for dismissal of the petition based on Petitioner's for lack of standing. A briefing schedule was set and the record closed on October 5, 2004.

Petitioner requested five forms of relief:

1. an injunction preventing the use of test as a requirement and/or prerequisite for enrollment into Algebra;

2. a declaratory judgment, finding the Board's test, policies, practices and procedures violates state law;

3. an injunction preventing the Board from denying J.M.H. access to the Algebra course;

4. a declaratory judgment that the Board's testing policy is discriminatory; and

5. an order allowing J.M.H. to enroll in the District's Algebra course.

It is undisputed that J.M.H. has been enrolled in the District's seventh grade Algebra course. He had, at the time, of hearing been attending classes. His enrollment was pursuant to the written request of D.H. in compliance with the Board's policy. Respondent asserts the undisputed fact that the Board utilizes an open enrollment policy for enrollment into classes renders Petitioner's other request for relief moot as well. In addition, Respondent asserts Petitioner lack standing to challenge the legality of the Board's policies and procedures without articulating a personal injury to himself or J.M.H.

Petitioner asserts that he is the father of a minor child challenging the Board's policy of establishing and having prerequisites as requirements for admittance into classes. He notes that all classes are within a public school setting and regulated by N.J.S.A. 18A:36-20.

Petitioner then asserts New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act permits "any interested person" to challenge the applicability of a statute or rule enforced or administered by an agency. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8. Further he asserts he has real and clear interest in the outcome of the hearing and should be granted standing so that the case might be heard on its merits. He also asserts the case concerns issues of public as it seeks to prohibit the use of testing interest to populate certain classes.

Moreover, according to Petitioner, under New Jersey law, any interested person may challenge any rule administered by an agency, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8 and further notes that New Jersey has a tradition of liberal application of criteria regarding standing.

Petitioner further asserts that he sought to have his son enrolled in the Algebra course because the Board has a policy that the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights, expressly forbids the Board to use, as a prerequisite for higher math at the high school. Failure to enroll in seventh grade Algebra would have foreclosed J.M.H. from enrollment in higher math courses in high school.

Petitioner, himself, in his brief dated October 21, 2004, noted that Respondent Board has agreed to no longer use the policy, although he did not specify the policy to which he was referring, and his son has been enrolled in the class for which Petitioner was seeking admission.

Petitioner asserts a matter of public interest but presents no clear statement as to what the public interest he seeks to protect.

Respondent, on the other hand, asserts Petitioner's claim to standing pursuant to the administrative procedure act is simply unsupported by law. To have standing pursuant to the administrative procedure act, asserts Respondent, a party must demonstrate he is an "interested person" which is defined as someone who is a direct party to the administrative action or someone who would affected or aggrieved in fact by the decision in that administrative action. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-8. Camden County v. Board of Trustees of the Public Employees Retirement System, 170 N.J. 439, 446 (2002). Petitioner incorrectly relies on this case because he failed to consider the requirement that an interested person is either a direct party to the action or someone who would be aggrieved by the decision. Instead, he relied solely on the Court's statement ". . . 'only' substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the Petitioner in the event of an unfavorable decision is needed for the purposes of standing." Id. at 446. The Court went on to find the mere assertion of a public interest is not sufficient to seek judicial review of an administrative agency decision. Id. at 448.

To be an interested party Petitioner must be directly affected by the challenged policy and suffer some harm in the event of an unfavorable decision. Davis v. Board of Medical Examiners, 497 F. Supp. 525 (D.N.J. 1980); Atlantic City Showboat, Inc. v. Department of Community Affairs of State, 331 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 2000); Mortgage Bankers Association of New Jersey v. New Jersey Real Estate Commission, 200 N.J. Super. 584 (App. Div. 1985); Ridgewood Education Association v. Ridgewood Board of Education, 284 N.J. Super. 427 (App. Div. 1995).

Because J.M.H. is already enrolled in the Algebra class, neither petitioner nor his son, J.M.H., is someone who will be directly affected by the challenged policy nor will either be harmed by an unfavorable decision.

Petitioner's further claim that the public interest is sufficient to confer standing on him is simply incorrect. The Court may consider public interest when determining whether standing exists; however, public interest on its own is not enough to confer standing on a party. The Court must be able to identify a specific connection between the Petitioner and the public interest he alleges he represents. Silverman v. Board of Education of the Twp. of Millburn, 134 N.J. Super 253 in which the court determined that plaintiffs who had originally approved the use of tax dollars in a referendum to build a school represented "both their personal interest and the public interest of the community" when they challenged a proposed plan to close an elementary school and lease it to the state for use as a school for the deaf.

In a second case Ridgewood Education Association v. Ridgewood Board of Education, 284 N.J. Super. 427 (App. Div. 1995), the Court found an association representing employment rights of Ridgewood teachers had standing to bring a declaratory judgment action to challenge the school board policy limiting certain employment policy of the Respondent board of education. In Ridgewood, the Appellate Division found although Petitioner, REA, had no members currently working for the Ridgewood Board of Education in the capacity being challenged, REA satisfied the requirement of a substantial likelihood of harm visited upon plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision because future members who would be employed as supplemental teachers would be denied tenure under the challenged policy and would therefore be substantially harmed by an unfavorable decision. Id. at 779.

Consequently, it is clear that the courts have held that a moving party cannot rely only upon a public interest; he must assert a personal interest as well. In the case before me Petitioner no longer has a personal interest of the outcome of this matter because his son is already enrolled in the Algebra class. He cannot have standing solely based on the public interest of the taxpayers of Montclair, whom Petitioner does not represent. It should be noted the Ridgewood case states that the moving party's interest may be a potential injury that will be avoided by favorable decision. Here, Petitioner cannot demonstrate a potential injury as a result of an unfavorable decision again because J.M.H. is already in the Algebra class. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner does not have standing to bring this action; I further CONCLUDE that his action should be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED, in its entirety, WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BARNEGAT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in his Order of May 27, 2004, adopted by the ALJ as the Initial Decision in this matter. Such Order found that the Board had violated petitioner's tenure rights and, therefore, ordered petitioner reinstated to her former position of principal, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments. The Commissioner further concurs that the effect of correspondence from petitioner's counsel, dated June 30, 2004, September 8, 2004 and November 9, 2004, is to withdraw petitioner's claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments relating to that position.[1]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

Record Closed: November 9, 2004 Decided: November 23, 2004

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner is a teaching staff member at respondent's school district, and contends that she was improperly transferred from the position of Principal to the position of Director of Special Projects effective July 8, 2002, and that her salary was reduced in violation of her tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:28-6, and that this action was taken without a recorded roll call majority vote in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1. She seeks a determination that these actions are ultra vires and null and void, and reinstatement to the position of Principal with retroactive salary, benefits and emoluments. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 9, 2002, for hearing as a contested case.

The matter was assigned to me on January 2, 2003, and a prehearing conference was scheduled for March 20, 2003. On March 20, 2003, a prehearing conference was conducted and the matter was scheduled for hearing on October 1 and 2, 2003. I also prepared a draft Prehearing Order which I forwarded to the attorneys on March 24, 2003. Status conferences were held on May 27, 2003, following which the Prehearing Order was entered. On August 18, 2003, the attorneys agreed to finalize a Stipulation of Facts by September 15, 2003, and a Scheduling Order was entered. The time for the submission of the Stipulation of Facts was later extended and the Stipulation of Facts was filed on October 1, 2003, thus obviating the need for a hearing. Accordingly, the hearing scheduled for October 1 and 2, 2003, was adjourned. After the submission of briefs, the record was closed on February 25, 2004. By an Order of Extension, the time limit for filing the Initial Decision was extended until May 27, 2004.

On May 27, 2004, I entered an Order requiring that petitioner be reinstated to her former position as Principal together with any back pay, benefits and other emoluments. I further ordered that the record in this matter be reopened for the scheduling of additional proceedings with respect to petitioner's claim that respondent violated her tenure rights and that she is entitled to reinstatement to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments relating to that position.

By subsequent correspondence dated June 30, 2004, September 8, 2004 and November 9, 2004, attorney for petitioner indicated that petitioner has elected not to proceed with her claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, and in his letter of September 8, 2004 and November 9, 2004, attorney for petitioner requested that the matter be transmitted to the Commissioner.

I FIND that, notwithstanding petitioner's appointment to a principal position by respondent effective August 26, 2004, the matter is not moot and petitioner is entitled to a final administrative decision in this matter. In addition, I FIND that the effect of the correspondence from attorney for petitioner referred to hereinabove is to withdraw petitioner's claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments relating to that position.

Accordingly, I ORDER that petitioner's foregoing withdrawal of her claim to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments relating to that position, is hereby ACCEPTED. I further ORDER that the Order Determining that Petitioner is Entitled to Reinstatement as Principal entered on May 27, 2004, is hereby ADOPTED as the Initial Decision in this matter, and that these proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

(b)Minutes dated June 24, 2002 memorializing petitioner's reassignment from the position of Principal to the position of Director of special projects (J-27).

Also attached to the Stipulation of Facts is the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the Barnegat Township Board of Education and the Association of Barnegat Administrators (J-28). The parties stipulated that petitioner's gross bi-weekly salary for the 2001- 2002 school term was $3,670.97. Also attached to the Stipulation of Facts is petitioner's "earning statement" for the pay period ending June 30, 2002 (J-29). Commencing with the 2002-2003 school year petitioner's gross bi-weekly salary was $3,729.38. Also attached is the earning statement for the pay period ending July 15, 2003 (J-30).

The parties stipulated and agreed that the petitioner continued to receive the bi-weekly gross salary of $3,729.38 through June 30, 2003. The petitioner was never requested nor did she provide her consent for the re-assignment voted upon by the respondent on or about June 24, 2002.

Finally, attached to the Stipulation of Facts are the job descriptions for the titles "Principal," (J-31) "Supervisor of Basic Skills" (J-32), and the Director of Special Projects (J-33) position to which petitioner was assigned, effective June 24, 2002.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

1. Issues to be resolved

As stated in the Prehearing Order entered on May 27, 2003, and the Scheduling Order entered on August 18, 2003, the issues to be resolved in this matter are the following:

1. Whether petitioner was improperly transferred from the position of Principal to the position of Director of Special Projects effective July 8, 2002, in violation of her tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and -6?
2. Whether petitioner was improperly transferred from the position of Principal to the position of Director of Special Projects effective July 8, 2002, without a recorded roll call majority vote in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1?
3. Whether petitioner's salary was reduced in violation of the school and tenure laws?
4. If respondent has violated petitioner's tenure rights and school laws as aforesaid, to what remedy or remedies is she entitled?

2.Petitioner's legal arguments

Petitioner's legal arguments are fully set forth in petitioner's brief and petitioner's reply brief. The following is intended to be a short summary of these arguments.

Petitioner argues that the position of Director to which petitioner was transferred and the position of Principal are separately tenurable, citing Kaprow v. Board of Education, 255 N.J. Super. 76, 92 (App. Div. 1992); affirmed 131 N.J. 572 (1993), and Nelson v. Old Bridge Board of Education, 148 N.J. 358 (1997). Petitioner argues that the positions enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are separately tenurable, meaning that tenure accrued within one of the enumerated positions does not transfer to another enumerated position. Petitioner argues that a 1996 amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 confirms this interpretation. Thus, petitioner contends that she unquestionably had tenure as a Principal and as a Supervisor of Basic Skills at the time of her transfer in July 2002, and that she did not have tenure as a Director because she has never before served in the position of Director.

Petitioner argues that respondent's transfer of petitioner to the position of Director, made without her consent, violated her rights of tenure under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6. Petitioner asserts that she cannot be transferred or removed from these positions absent a showing of inefficiency, incapacity or unbecoming conduct or other just cause after being provided with a hearing.

Petitioner contends that respondent's position that it is permitted to transfer petitioner from a Principal title to a Director title because the two positions are covered by the same Principal endorsement, is an argument that has been rejected by the Supreme Court in the Nelson case. Finally, petitioner contends that she not only accrued tenure as a Principal, but she also accrued tenure as a Supervisor of Basic Skills, and that when she was removed from the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, it was a violation of her tenure rights.

3.Respondent's legal arguments

Respondent argues that under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18:A:28-4 and N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(b), a Principal endorsement is required for positions which include assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, Principal, assistant Principal, vice-Principal and Director. Thus, respondent contends that the transfer of petitioner from the position of Principal to the position of Director is within the bounds of her endorsement. Respondent cites a number of cases, including Williams v. Board of Education of Plainfield, 176 N.J. Super. 254 (App. Div. 1980) in support of its contention that a local board of education can properly transfer an individual from one position to another within the school district within his or her certification where there is no loss of salary or other reduction in tangible employment benefits, and where the teacher is not singled out for the transfer on a prohibited basis. Carpenito v. Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999). Respondent relies on Carpenito in arguing that a transfer is not a demotion or dismissal when there is no loss or salary or benefits and the new position is one that is within the individual's certification. Thus, respondent contends that petitioner is being transferred from one position, Principal/Supervisor of Basic Skills, to another position, Director of Special Projects, which is within the same endorsement for Principals, referring to N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(b). Moreover, she is suffering from no loss in salary to the tenured position held before the transfer. Thus, respondent contends that it has not violated any of petitioner's rights.

Respondent contends that its transfer of petitioner was in full compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1. Finally, it contends that petitioner's position as Supervisor of Basic Skills was a stipend position, and that it is a position which is notably absent from the list of positions as to which tenure is available pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Respondent contends that the board eliminated this position in its entirety and that the authority of a board of education to reduce teaching staff for good cause, including reasons of economy, is established by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Respondent further argues that the unpublished opinions relied upon by petitioner in his submissions do not constitute binding precedent. Respondent further argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, relied upon by petitioner, has no application in this matter, but deals with only the requirements for obtaining tenure after a transfer or promotion. Respondent contends that Viemiester v. Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949) did not involve a transfer, but concerned the abolition of a position and the appointment of the individual to a newly-created position. Finally, respondent asserts that the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills was, in fact, abolished after petitioner's transfer.

4.Analysis

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of teacher, Principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, . . . serving in any school district or under any board of education, . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this Title, after employment in such district or by such board for:

(a) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
(b) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
(c) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

For purposes of this chapter, tenure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position. Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position and nothing herein shall limit or restrict tenure rights which were or may be acquired pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:28-6 in a position in which the individual actually served.

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-6 provides that,

Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:

(a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period is fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
(b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
(c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years;

provided that the period of employment in such new position shall be included in determining the tenure and seniority rights in the former position held by such teaching staff member, and in the event the employment in such new position is terminated before tenure is obtained therein, if he then has tenure in the district or under said board of education, such teaching staff member shall be returned to his former position at the salary which he would have received had the transfer or promotion not occurred together with any increase to which he would have been entitled during the period of such transfer or promotion.

At the time of the filing of the petition herein, the implementing regulations were found at N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(b)[1] and provided:

> Principal: This endorsement is required for any position that involves service as an administrative officer of a school or other comparable unit within a school or school district. Such positions shall include assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, principal, assistant principal, vice principal and director.

Other than specifying the positions for which a principal endorsement is required, this regulation is silent as to the issue present in this matter.

In Kaprow v. Berkeley Tp. Bd. of Educ., 255 N.J. Super. 76 (App. Div. 1992), affirmed 131 N.J. 572 (1993), the Appellate Division stated that the position of > "Assistant Superintendent" is a separately tenurable position under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and that Kaprow's tenure protection extends to any Assistant Superintendent assignment within the scope of his certificate.

> [255 N.J. Super. at 92.]

The significance of the above quoted language is that it makes clear the Court's interpretation that each position covered by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is a separately tenurable position. Thus, in Kaprow's case, his tenure protection only extended to any Assistant Superintendent assignment within the scope of his certificate.

The decision of the Supreme Court in Nelson v. Board of Educ. of Tp. of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358 (1997) appears to be binding precedent in this matter. In that case, Nelson had achieved tenure in the position of Supervisor of Industrial Arts. The position was abolished by the local board and Nelson was reassigned to a teaching position. When a vacancy occurred in the position of Elementary School Principal, Nelson asserted a tenure claim to that position even though he had never served as a principal. His claim was that he achieved tenure as a supervisor and that his tenure was transferable to any position within his administrative certificate. In its decision, the Supreme Court stated (at pp. 366-367) that the Appellate Division should be reversed because it would obviate as a tenure requirement actual service in a position included under a certificate. In reaching this conclusion, the Supreme Court relied on the State Board's assertion that permitting an educator to transfer tenure rights to a separately-tenurable position, such as principal, is unsound public policy. If the Appellate Division opinion were to apply, a tenured school business administrator concerned with purchasing, would be eligible for a principalship after a reduction in force and the tenure achieved under the finance manager endorsement would be transferable to the principal endorsement even if the individual had no prior experience in that position. The Court considered Nelson's duties as a Supervisor of Industrial Arts and contrasted them with the duties of an elementary school Principal, and concluded that the two positions are not significantly similar even though both endorsements fall under the administrative certificate. Based on this reasoning, the Supreme Court concluded that such appointments would promote unsound education policy.

[1] These regulations were repealed by R.2004, d.28, effective January 20, 2004. See, 35 N.J.R. 4352(a), 36 N.J.R. 469(a). Comparable implementing regulations are now found at N.J.A.C. 6A:9-12.3(b).

The Supreme Court then pointed out that after the Appellate Division decision, the Legislature amended N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 to make it clear that the positions listed therein are separately tenurable. It reasoned that because of this, deference to the State Board's long-standing interpretation of this provision is even more compelling. Finally, the Court concluded that the State Board's determination was neither unreasonable, unsupported by the record, nor violative of any legislative rule.

Petitioner relies on several administrative decisions to establish that the acquisition of tenure in one position does not give to the employee tenure in another position. In Brenner v. Board of Education of the Township of Middlesex, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 81 (1995), Hon. Kathleen Duncan, ALJ, stated that a petitioner's acknowledged tenure as a director did not make her a tenured principal simply because she holds the principal endorsement. The endorsement of principal permits the holder to serve in the positions of assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, assistant principal, vice principal. However, to say that the director equals principal is no more supportable than to say the director equals the assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, or any of the other designated position titles.

I have reviewed a number of the cases cited by respondent in support of its position. Respondent contends that the circumstances in Williams v. Board of Education of Plainfield, 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), are closely analogous to the present matter. However, in Williams, the claim by the transferred-Principal was not that her transfer was an invalid reduction in rank because she had attained tenure as a high school Principal, but because the transfer would cause a reduction in her future salary expectancy. The Court affirmed a determination by the State Board of Education that a local board could properly transfer a tenured high school Principal to the position of elementary school Principal, and that the Principal had no vested right in any future increases in salary. The Court relied on the fact that the transfer did not result in a reduction of the Principal's current level of compensation and that the applicable tenure statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, merely prohibits dismissal or reduction in compensation, except for the reasons stated and in the manner prescribed. Thus, the decision in Williams does not support the validity of the transfer of Mazzeo merely because she suffered no reduction in that part of her salary which was attributable to her position as Principal. Williams does not deal with the circumstance in which a Principal is transferred to another position, which is not a Principal, position and in which the transferred employee has no tenure rights.

Respondent also relies on Carpenito v. Board of Education of Borough of Rumson, 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999). In Carpenito, a teacher was transferred from a social studies teaching position to a computer applications teaching position. Both were teaching positions within his certification. The Court held that the transfer was permissible because the transferred-teacher lost no salary or other tangible benefits of employment. I interpret the phrase "loss of tangible benefits of employment" to also include a loss of tenure rights. See, Id., at 533. Therefore, since Carpenito suffered no loss in his tenure rights, he had no seniority rights to the former teaching position.

Respondent also relies on Greenway v. Board of Education of City of Camden, 129 N.J.L. 46 (Sup. Ct. 1942), affd, 129 N.J.L. 461 (1943). In that case, a teacher was transferred from high school to junior high school, with no loss of salary and without impacting tenure rights. (Emphasis added.) It was ruled that this transfer gave the teacher no cause of action (citations omitted.)

In another case relied on by respondent, Stranzl v. Board of Education of City of Patterson, 2 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 16, 21 (1980), it was held that a local board could transfer an elementary school Principal to a position as Principal of a secondary school in the same district without his consent so long as his tenure in the general position of Principal is protected and his salary is not reduced.

Respondent also refers to Seyfarth v. Board of Education of Township of Cranford, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 160, affirmed by State Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554 (1996). In that case it was held that the local board did not act improperly in transferring a high school Principal position to a middle school Principal position as long as the salary is not reduced. The Commissioner stated that this was a proper transfer to a position of equivalent rank. Id., 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d at 167.

Finally, in Ivey Avery et al. v. Board of Education of City of Trenton, Comm'n decision 573-97 (Nov. 3, 1997) (unreported), tenured teaching staff members held "teacher-specialist" positions which were abolished for reasons of economy and efficiency. The Commissioner found that the board had acted within its managerial prerogative when it transferred the former teacher-specialists into positions as classroom teachers, with the same salary and emoluments. However, it is significant that the transfers were to positions requiring the same endorsement.

Respondent contends that as the court reasoned in Carpenito v. Board of Education, 322 N.J. Super. at 530, a transfer is not a demotion or dismissal when there is no loss of salary or benefits and the new position is one that is within the individual's certification. In fact, "transfers of teaching staff members are often advisable in the administration of schools for a variety of reasons." Id.

I agree with respondent that in this case petitioner Mazzeo does not allege that she was transferred on a prohibited basis. However, I disagree with respondent's interpretation of the foregoing cases on which it relies. In virtually every one of those cases, it was made clear that a transfer who negatively impacts on an employee's tenure rights is prohibited in the absence of tenure charges or employee consent.

Based on the foregoing discussion, I agree with petitioner that the question of tenure distinction between the positions of principal and director has been settled. The positions are separately tenurable and service in one does not give rise to tenure in the other. Service in either position is a prerequisite for tenure acquisition in either position. Thus, while petitioner herein unquestionably had tenure at the time of her transfer as a Principal, and perhaps as a Supervisor, it is clear that she did not have tenure as a Director because she has never served in the position of Director. Each of the positions requires expertise in different areas and are separately tenurable. Tenure is achieved only in a position which has been held by a teaching staff member. Once tenure is achieved, removal of the teaching staff member from the tenured position, by transfer or otherwise, is a violation of the protections to be afforded by tenure. Veimeister v. Prospect Bd. of Educ., 57 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App Div. 1949).

5.Findings and Conclusion

In the present matter, I FIND that petitioner was first appointed to the position of Principal effective April 27, 1993 (J-11). I FIND that petitioner's appointment as Principal continued until her transfer effective July 8, 2002. I FIND that petitioner attained tenure as a Principal on April 27, 1996, based on three consecutive calendar years of service pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a). I FIND that, despite the absence of petitioner's consent, she was transferred from the position of Principal to the position of Director of Special Projects, effective July 8, 2002. It is also undisputed that petitioner has not acquired tenure in the position of Director of Special Projects under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 and the case law since she has never held a director's position, and I so FIND. Therefore, I FIND that the actions taken by respondent had the effect of removing petitioner from a position or positions in which she had tenure to a position in which she lacked tenure. I FIND that in the absence of petitioner's consent to this transfer, and in the absence of tenure charges establishing inefficiency, incapacity, or unbecoming conduct or just cause after a hearing, respondent took actions which are violative of petitioner's tenure rights. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to reinstatement to her former position as Principal together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments, if any.

5.Alleged violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1

In the Second Count of her petition, petitioner alleges that the respondent Board of Education did not act by a recorded roll call majority vote of its full membership when it transferred her to the position of Director of Special Projects, and this omission makes the transfer ultra vires, and null and void.

In this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1 provides that

> No teaching staff member shall be transferred, except by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education by which he is employed.

In Title 18A, "teaching staff member" is broadly defined as including members of the professional staff holding a position requiring a certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners.

The minutes of the June 24, 2002 meeting of the Board of Education (J-27) at which petitioner's transfer was approved reflect a recorded roll call majority vote in favor of the transfer. The proposed transfer of Mazzeo, which was part of item 26 on the Board's agenda, received a "yes" vote by seven Board members, and an abstention by one Board member. In her submissions in this matter, petitioner does not dispute the foregoing arguments or factual assertions.

I FIND that on June 24, 2002, the respondent Board of Education did act by a recorded roll call majority vote of its full membership when it transferred petitioner to the position of Director of Special Projects, and that this action complied with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the transfer is neither ultra vires, nor null and void on this basis.

6.Supervisor of Basic Skills

With respect to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, respondent asserts that this position is absent from the list of positions as to which tenure may be attained. Respondent further asserts that it eliminated this position entirely and that this elimination of the "stipend position" of Supervisor of Basic Skills is permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. Unfortunately, I failed to realize until now that these assertions raise both factual and legal issues which must be decided in order to determine whether petitioner is entitled to reinstatement to this position together with any back pay, benefits and other emoluments.

I FIND that these are factual and legal issues which remain in dispute in this matter. I make this finding because the assertions by respondent concerning the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills is not the subject of any stipulation, nor was any affidavit or certification supplied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.4(a) to establish these assertions as a matter of record in conformity with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). Under these circumstances, I FIND it to be inappropriate to enter an initial decision since there are disputed issues to be resolved in this matter. Accordingly, I have determined that I will issue the rulings set forth herein in the form of an Order. With respect to the undecided issues concerning the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, I intend to arrange a telephone conference with counsel to discuss the scheduling of additional proceedings in order to finalize this matter.

ORDER

Based on the Findings and Conclusions set forth above, I hereby ORDER that petitioner shall be reinstated to her former position as Principal together with any back pay, benefits and other emoluments. I further ORDER that the record in this matter is hereby REOPENED, and I shall schedule additional proceedings with respect to petitioner's claim that respondent violated her tenure rights and is entitled to reinstatement to the position of Supervisor of Basic Skills, together with any and all back pay, benefits and other emoluments relating to that position.

This order may be reviewed by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.
