Virtual Presentation: Jersey City Parking Plan

The public is invited to view a presentation on the Jersey City Parking Plan study during the City Council's Caucus Meeting. The meeting will be streamed live at jcnj.org/vcm.

Draft final recommendations will be presented for improving parking management in the city. This study is being funded through the NJTPA's Subregional Studies Program.

This presentation follows six public listening sessions held between August and October 2019 as well as a public workshop held in February. Input received through these events, as well as the results of a public survey will be shared.

The public is invited to tune into the meeting and provide input. Comments can also be sent to cityplanning@jcnj.org.

For additional information visit the study webpage.

Parking studies examine how parking works in a specific geography, whether it be for a site, neighborhood, or entire city. This public presentation follows six listening sessions held between August and October 2019 as well as a public workshop held in February 2020. Input received from those meetings as well as the results of the public survey will be shared.
