Justice Involved Clients

If you have been incarcerated, or have an arrest or misdemeanor conviction, and are in need of employment assistance, we can help. Each One-Stop Career Center has trained staff available to assist you.

Training and Employment Referrals

Our staff provide justice involved clients employment referrals. In many cases, we refer individuals to labor demand occupations, improving justice involved client chances of obtaining employment. We also partner with the construction industry, school construction projects, and union-sponsored job training programs, as well as the automobile industry, which has welcomed candidates into training programs for mechanic assistants and related jobs.

Removing Barriers to Employment

Our staff can help remove some of the common barriers to employment for justice involved clients, assisting with issues such as driver's license restoration, referrals to community mental health programs, job search preparation classes that take place at halfway house facilities, and community release programs under Parole supervision.
