SEC Dkt. No. T10-19
Agency Dkt. No. 307-11/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

In the Matter of Kecia Teller,
The John P. Holland Charter School,
Passaic County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that respondent ultimately completed the training after the issuance of its October 25, 2019 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the SEC's November 19, 2019 meeting; however, the SEC notes that respondent was previously reprimanded in 2017 for failing to timely comply with the statutory requirement to complete ethics training. Due to the repeated failure to comply with her statutory obligation, the SEC recommends that respondent be suspended for 30 days. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby suspended from her position, as of the date of this decision, for violating the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: 1/03/20

Agency Dkt. No. 304-11/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

In the Matter of Travis Ally, College Achieve Central Charter School,
Union County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC recommended a sanction of removal effective upon the adoption of the decision the Commissioner. Alternatively, if the respondent completes the required training before the Commissioner issues his final decision, the SEC recommends that respondent be suspended for 30 days. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is removed, as of the date of this decision, from his position as a school official for violating the School Ethics Act.

Agency Dkt. No. 308-11/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of Caroline Clarke, The Village Charter School, Mercer County.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (SEC), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1. The SEC's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The SEC advises that respondent ultimately completed the training after the issuance of its October 25, 2019 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the SEC's November 19, 2019 meeting; therefore, the SEC recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the SEC for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

BEFORE: THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS

Petitioner sought an order declaring S.G. a resident of Bloomfield and that Bloomfield is responsible for the education costs of J.W.

The Department of Education transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 TO 13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on May 17, 2019.

The parties have voluntarily agreed to resolve all disputed matters and have entered into a settlement as set forth in the attached Consent Order for Dismissal with Prejudice.

I have reviewed the terms of the settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signature of their respective representatives on the attached settlement agreement; and,
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement agreement; and

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's petition is withdrawn with prejudice; and

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

CITY OF ORANGE BOARD OF EDUCATION, Petitioner, v. BLOOMFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION and SIMONE GORDON, Respondents.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 06772-19 AGENCY REF. NO. 78-4/19 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") is made by and between Petitioner Orange Board of Education, with a central office located at 451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, New Jersey 07050 ("Orange Board"), and Respondent Bloomfield Board of Education, with a central office located at 155 Broad St., Bloomfield, New Jersey 07003 ("Bloomfield Board"); and

WHEREAS, Orange Board filed a petition against Bloomfield Board and Simone Gordon, mother of J.W, seeking reimbursement for special education and related services provided to J.W. for the period November 2017 through June 30, 2019; and

WHEREAS, Bloomfield Board filed an answer denying liability; and

WHEREAS, Orange Board's homeless liaison issued a letter dated July 11, 2019 to respondent Simone Gordon confirming "the Gordon family's displaced status" from an address in Orange to an address in Bloomfield beginning on December 17, 2017 "which makes Orange Township Public Schools the district of residence," and confirming that from December 17, 2017 to the date of the letter, J.W. "has been enrolled within the Orange Township Public Schools;" and

WHEREAS, to the best of the parties' knowledge, J.W. has resided in Bloomfield since at least December 17, 2017; and

WHEREAS, respondent Simone Gordon has been dismissed from this action; and

WHEREAS, Orange Board has determined that its claim against Bloomfield Board is for expenses it incurred for special education and related services for J.W. for the period January 1, 2019 through June 30, 2019, in the amount of $43,700.00; and

WHEREAS, Orange Board and Bloomfield Board desire to settle this matter amicably, without admitting any liability on behalf of either party; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to enter into this Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") in order to reach a compromise and to avoid the time and expense associated with litigation; and

NOW, THEREFORE, Orange Board and Bloomfield Board agree as follows:

1. Bloomfield Board will pay to Orange Board the sum of $43,700.00 in full and final settlement of the claims and defenses in this matter.

2. Upon receipt of payment of $43,700.00 from Bloomfield Board, Orange Board will voluntarily dismiss the petition against Bloomfield Board without prejudice to future claims regarding the cost of J.W.'s special education, so long as J.W. remains domiciled in Bloomfield and is deemed homeless.

3. This Agreement constitutes full and final settlement as to all claims which were or could have been raised at any time against Bloomfield Board, its current and former members, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, assigns, and affiliates pertaining to the claims in the petition, which claims relate to the 2018-2019 school year only.

4. In consideration for the mutual promises contained in this Agreement, Orange Board, its current and former members, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, assigns, and affiliates, hereby releases, acquits, and discharges Bloomfield Board, its current and former members, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, assigns, and affiliates, of and from any and all claims that Orange Board, its current and former members, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, successors, assigns, and affiliates, may have, or may have had from the beginning of time through the 2018-2019 school year. The parties agree that this Agreement is the compromise of disputed claims and that the payment and consideration set forth in this Agreement is not to be construed as an admission of liability by Bloomfield Board, or of the violation of any law, statute, or regulation, nor shall the Agreement be cited as precedent in any future judicial or administrative proceedings, except as needed for enforcement or interpretation of its specific terms. The Bloomfield Board denies liability and has agreed to settle this matter and pay the amount provided in the Agreement solely to avoid the expense and burden of litigation.

5. This Agreement represents the entire understanding between the parties and shall not be modified in whole or in part except as a mutual subsequent written and signed Agreement.

6. This Agreement shall be governed by the law of the State of New Jersey.

7. This Agreement may be executed in one or more counterparts, all of which shall be one instrument, and all of which shall be considered duplicate originals.

8. Any notices or delivery required by this Agreement shall be provided by hand, or by U.S. First Class Mail, as follows:

To Orange Board: Superintendent, Orange Board of Education
451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, NJ 07050

To Bloomfield Board: Superintendent, Bloomfield Board of Education
155 Broad St., Bloomfield, NJ 07003

9. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Orange Board of Education and the Bloomfield Board of Education. Upon obtaining such approvals, Orange Board will take all steps necessary to withdraw the petition with prejudice. If this Agreement is not approved by both the Orange Board of Education and the Bloomfield Board of Education, the parties shall return to their original positions without prejudice.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 1, 2019, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

I have reviewed the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached document. (J-1.) A copy of the minutes is attached (J-2.) as well as a personnel data sheet which confirms Mr. Raymond as employee number 4621 (J-3.)

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Valerie,

At your request I am attaching the Settlement Agreement in the above referenced matter, which should hopefully show the signature page more legibly. I have also attached the extract from the Board meeting showing the resolution to approve the Settlement Agreement. The second page of that document is a screenshot from the Board's personnel system which shows that Mr. Raymond's employee number is 4621. I have coped Mr. Ricci on this email.

Please let me know if you need anything further to finalize this matter.

Best,
Alicia

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT ("Agreement") is made by and between Michael Raymond, (hereinafter referred to as "Mr. Raymond") and the HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION, 84 Route 31, Flemington, NJ 08822, its predecessors, successors, individual Board members, officers, directors, administrators, representatives, employees, attorneys, agents, and assigns, individually, jointly and severally (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Board") pursuant to the following terms and conditions:

WHEREAS, Mr. Raymond was employed as the Supervisor of Athletics for the 2016-2017 and 2017-2018 school years; and

WHEREAS, at the conclusion of the 2017-2018 school year the Superintendent recommended to the Board that Mr. Raymond's contract be renewed for the 2018-2019 school year, which would have granted him tenure upon his service to the district effective July 1, 2018; and

WHEREAS, the Board approved and then rescinded the renewal of Mr. Raymond's contract as Supervisor of Athletics; and

WHEREAS, subsequent to the Board's failure to renew Mr. Raymond's contract, Mr. Raymond returned to his previous tenured teaching position in District; and

WHEREAS, subsequent to the Board's failure to renew Mr. Raymond's contract, Mr. Raymond filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education, captioned Michael Raymond v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District Board of Education, OAL docket# EDU 12486-2018, and also initiated a suit in the District of New Jersey captioned Michael Raymond v. Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education, et al. Civil Action No. 3:18-cv-17094; and

WHEREAS, the Board and Mr. Raymond wish to amicably resolve the above-referenced matters in the interest of efficiency and finality; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants herein contained and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Mr. Raymond and the Board hereby agree as follows:

1. Mr. Raymond, for and in consideration of the undertakings of the Board, as set forth herein, and intending to be legally bound, does hereby remise, release and forever discharge the Board, its officers, members, employees and agents, and its successors and assigns, heirs, executors and administrators, of and from any and all manner of actions and causes of actions, suits, debts, claims and demands whatsoever in law or in equity, which he ever had, and/or now has, known or unknown, or which his heirs, executors or administrators hereafter may have by reason of any actual or perceived disability, any actual or perceived discrimination, beginning from the onset of Mr. Raymond's employment relationship with the Board and continuing through the date of the Board's approval of this Agreement, including, but not limited to the following:

- All claims of discrimination, harassment and retaliation based upon age, race, color, religion, gender, sex, sexual orientation, handicap, disability, national origin or any other legally protected class, including claims arising under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 U.S.C. § 621 through 29 U.S.C. § 634, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, 42 U.S.C. §2000e et seq., the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §12101, et seq., the Civil Rights Act of 1866, as amended, 42 U.S.C. §1981, et seq., Executive Order 11246, as amended,, the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, 29 U.S.C. §626(f), the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. §1002, et seq., the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1, et seq., the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-1, et seq., the New Jersey Family Leave Act, N.J.S.A. 34:11B, et seq., COBRA, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, 29 U.S.C. §2601, et seq. & 5 U.S.C. §6381, et seq., the National Labor Relations Act, as amended, The Equal Pay Act, as amended, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, as amended, the New Jersey Worker Health and Safety Act, as amended, as well as any other anti-retaliation provision of any statute or law, and any other applicable federal, state or local, constitutional or statutory provision, order or regulation, arising from any event or act of omission or commission;

- All claims for breach of contract, whether express or implied;
- All tort claims, including claims for libel, slander, negligence, invasion of privacy, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, fraud, interference with actual or prospective contractual rights or relations, and violation of public policy;
- All claims for wrongful discharge or termination;
- All claims under any federal, state and municipal laws, regulations, ordinances or court decisions of any kind;
- All claims for wages and benefits (including bonuses, health and welfare benefits, vacation pay, sick pay and/or any other fringe benefits;
- All claims for any type of monetary damages, including back pay, front or prospective pay, compensatory damages, and punitive damages, except as otherwise provided in this Agreement;
- All claims for equitable relief, including injunctive relief and reinstatement; and
- All claims for attorneys' fees, litigation expenses and costs.

The only exceptions to the waivers set forth above are as follows: claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et seq., the indemnity provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1 with regard to civil and criminal actions, claims by third parties, as well as claims arising from any breach of this Agreement. The Board does not waive any rights that it may have to oppose indemnification pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1.

In addition to the above waivers, Mr. Raymond shall execute stipulations of dismissal with prejudice, dismissing both pending matters, with prejudice, within seven (7) days of the Board's approval of this Agreement.

2. In consideration of Mr. Raymond's release of the Board, the dismissal of the pending matters, and the other good, valuable and sufficient consideration recited herein, the Board agrees as follows, subject to the fulfillment of the terms of this Agreement:

a. The Board agrees to pay Mr. Raymond $31,604, which represents a retroactive adjustment to his 2018-2019 salary, equivalent to the difference between what he earned during the 2018-2019 school year as a teacher and what he would have earned as the Supervisor of Athletics. The retroactive payment shall be subject to all applicable withholdings, including but not limited to taxes, pension and Chapter 78 contributions, and is intended by the parties to represent pensionable salary.

b. For the 2019-2020, 2020-2021 and 2021-2022 school years Mr. Raymond shall be placed at Step 15, MA+15, on the salary guide set forth in the Collective Negotiations Agreement ("CNA") between the Board and the Hunterdon Central Education association. For 2019-2020 the applicable salary is $92,565, for 2020-2021, the applicable salary is $92,940 and for 2021-2022, the applicable salary is $93,310. Upon the approval of this Agreement by the Board, Mr. Raymond's 2019-2020 salary shall be retroactively adjusted back to September 1, 2019. Beginning the 2022-2023 school year, Mr. Raymond shall advance to the next Step on the applicable guide. Mr. Raymond's guide placement, set forth herein, is not intended as a waiver of the Board's right to withhold a salary increment and/or an employment adjustment for disciplinary reasons in accordance with the CNA. Further, should Mr. Raymond accrue sufficient graduate credits he will be eligible for horizontal guide movement (i.e. Step 15, MA+30), in accordance with the terms of the CNA.

c. The Board agrees to contribute $7,500 toward Mr. Raymond's attorney's fees, payable directly to Mr. Raymond's attorney, as provided for in the separately executed settlement agreement in the matter captioned Michael Raymond v. Hunterdon Central Regional Board of Education, et al. Civil Action No. 3:18-cv-17094, and subject to the terms set forth therein.

3. Other than as set forth herein, Mr. Raymond confirms as far as he is aware no other charge, complaint, action, or grievance brought by him or on his behalf is pending in any forum or form. Further, Mr. Raymond covenants and agrees not to bring any charge, complaint, action, suit, grievance or administrative proceeding in any forum whatsoever, including before any federal, state, or local administrative agency or in any federal, state or local court against the Board for any actions that could or did arise or accrue prior to and including the date of the Board's approval of this Agreement; provided, however, it does not interfere with or limit either of the Parties protected right to file a charge with or participate in an investigation by or proceeding before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or any similar state or local commission that investigates and enforces anti-discrimination laws. Nothing contained herein shall in any manner be deemed a waiver or extension of any applicable statute of limitations, whether administrative or otherwise. Nonetheless, Mr. Raymond understands that, by signing this Agreement, he is waiving any rights he may have to recover money or other relief in any lawsuit or proceeding he brings bring or that is brought on his behalf by any agency or third party against the Board (including but not limited to its employees, officers, board members, agents and assigns) based on events arising out of Mr. Raymond's employment with the Board, through the date of the Board's approval of this Agreement. Except where otherwise permitted under this paragraph, the Parties agree that any such action shall be dismissed with prejudice upon presentation of this Agreement. Nothing in this paragraph is intended to limit either of the Parties from instituting legal action for the sole purpose of enforcing this Agreement.

4. Both parties agree and acknowledge that this Agreement does not constitute an admission of any kind by either party.

5. The Parties mutually agree not to make, publicly or privately, through any media or medium (including, without limitation, comments on social networking sites), any defamatory, disparaging, or derogatory remarks or otherwise make statements that could injury the business or reputation of any of the Parties to this agreement. In the event that a party is alleged to have breached the non-disparagement provision of Agreement, then the other party may commence appropriate legal action and the prevailing party will be responsible for all attorneys' fees and costs associated with the litigation.

6. The Parties mutually understand and agree that the existence of this Agreement, and the terms herein, are completely confidential. The Parties, including their representatives or agents, further agree that they shall not reveal to anyone, other than as may be mutually agreed upon in writing, any information, facts, or terms and conditions concerning this Agreement. This non-disclosure provision does not bar the following disclosures by Mr. Raymond: (1) disclosures to members of his immediate family; or (2) disclosures for the purpose of obtaining legal, tax, accounting, or financial advice; or (3) disclosures which may be required by law or pursuant to the request of any governmental entity; or (4) disclosure to union representatives or (5) disclosures for the purpose of obtaining or maintaining publicly or privately funded benefits or insurance. This non-disclosure provision does not bar the following disclosures by the Board: (1) disclosures pursuant to a lawful request under the Open Public Records Act; or (2) disclosures as may otherwise be compelled by law or Court Order. The Parties agree to inform those persons with whom they are permitted to share such information as to the confidentiality of this Agreement, and further agree to require such persons to hold information received by them about this Agreement as confidential pursuant to the terms herein. Upon all other inquiries, the Parties shall only respond that the matter has been resolved to the satisfaction of all those concerned. In the event that a party or parties is alleged to have breached the confidentiality provision of this Agreement, then the other party or parties may commence appropriate legal action.

7. It is understood between the parties that neither party has relied upon any representation, express or implied, made by any other party or their counsel or any of their representatives, and that this Agreement constitutes the entire understanding of the parties and cannot be modified except in writing signed by all of the parties hereto.

MR. RAYMOND ACKNOWLEDGES THAT HE HAS BEEN ADVISED THAT HIS LEGAL RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES WILL BE AFFECTED BY EXECUTING THIS AGREEMENT AND HE ACKNOWLEDGES THAT HE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO BE REPRESENTED BY HIS OWN ATTORNEY AND CONSULT WITH HIS ATTORNEY PRIOR TO EXECUTING THIS AGREEMENT.

8. In the event that any section or part of this Agreement shall be found to be void or unenforceable, the Parties will make reasonable efforts to reform that provision to be legal, valid and enforceable. Should the provision remain illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity, and enforceability of the remaining parts, terms, or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal, unenforceable or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed to be surplusage and the remainder of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

9. This Agreement is contingent upon Board approval. In that regard, Mr. Raymond waives any rights he may have under the decisions in Rice v. Union County Regional High School Bd. of Education and Kean Federation of Teachers v Morell et al, to advanced written notice of the Board's consideration of this Agreement at a public meeting, as well as to request a public discussion of this Agreement at a public meeting.

10. The parties agree that this Agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey. All disputes arising under or relating to this Agreement or the breach of this Agreement shall be brought exclusively in the State courts of the State of New Jersey.

11. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, which shall be taken together as the entire agreement of the Parties hereto. This Agreement may also be exchanged by the Parties via electronic mail for the purposes of securing signatures and will be fully enforceable as an original document. Electronic facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

12. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that he or he is a Party or has been duly authorized by a Party to sign on that Party's behalf and that this Agreement is duly authorized, approved and consented to as to terms.

13. Pursuant to the requirement of the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, 29 U.S.C. § 626 et seq., Mr. Raymond acknowledges that he has been given the opportunity, if he so desires, to consider this Agreement for twenty-one (21) days before executing it. In the event that Mr. Raymond executes this Agreement within less than twenty-one (21) days of the date of its delivery to him, Mr. Raymond acknowledges that such decision was entirely voluntary and that he had the opportunity, if he had so desired, to consider this Agreement for the entire twenty-one (21) day period. Mr. Raymond further acknowledges that for a period of seven (7) days from the date of his execution of this Agreement, he shall retain the right to revoke this Agreement by written notice to Alicia D'Anella, Esquire, Comegno Law Group, PC, 521 Pleasant Valley Avenue, Moorestown, NJ 08057, and that this Agreement shall not become effective or enforceable until the expiration of such revocation period.

Intending to be legally bound hereby, Mr. Raymond and the Board execute the foregoing Agreement as indicated below.

Board of Education of the Township of Mount Laurel, Burlington County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed Settlement Agreement (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

A number of paragraphs within the Agreement reference certain actions to be taken by the parties on several specific dates. Some of the time frames referenced in the Agreement have preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on July 2, 2019, 2016, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have executed a Settlement and Release, as well as the Board Resolution, both of which are attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. This Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement") is entered into by and between J.M. o/b/o A.M., and the Mount Laurel Township Public School District Board of Education (hereinafter "District"), with its mailing office located at 330 Mount Laurel Road, Mount Laurel, NJ 08054 ("J.M. o/b/o A.M. and District" hereinafter collectively, "the Parties").

WHEREAS, A.M. is a student currently enrolled in the Mount Laurel Township Public School District;

WHEREAS, A.M. is currently domiciled outside of the Mount Laurel Township Public School District;

WHEREAS, a dispute arose as to A.M.'s current domicile and her enrollment as a student in the Mount Laurel Township Public School District; and

WHEREAS, the Parties in good faith have negotiated concerning the above, and have a desire to settle this matter in an amicable way, and hereby agree as follows:

1. A.M. shall remain enrolled as a student in the Mount Laurel Township Public School District so long as her residency at the claimed address of 2308B Yarmouth Lane, Mount Laurel, NJ, 08054, is verified by the District no later than December 6, 2019.

2. J.M. o/b/o A.M. agrees that completed registration forms (available on the Mount Laurel Township School District website), a full hard copy of a current lease (including the lease term), and two copies of current utility bills for the property, will be delivered in hard copy form to the District Office located at 330 Mount Laurel Road, Mount Laurel, NJ 08054, no later than December 6, 2019.

3. J.M. o/b/o A.M. agrees to confirm the residency of A.M. at the beginning of each school year by delivering no later than September 1st of each school year, a full hard copy of a current lease (including the lease term), and two copies of current utility bills for the property, in hard copy form to the District Office located at 330 Mount Laurel Road, Mount Laurel, NJ 08054.

4. J.M. o/b/o A.M. agrees to pay tuition to the District, for the time in which A.M. did not reside in the District. The full amount of tuition assessed under this agreement is $13,023.36, representing the 168 days school was in session from January 1, 2019 to November 12, 2019, at a cost of $77.52 per day.

5. J.M. o/b/o A.M. agrees to pay the full amount of $13,023.36 to the District over the course of thirty months at a rate of $434.11 per month, beginning on January 1, 2020 and to be paid on the first of each month thereafter.

6. Payment shall be made in cash, certified check, cashier's check or money order only.

7. In the event that J.M. o/b/o A.M. presents documentation that A.M. has been residing in the district as of September 1, 2019, on or before December 6, 2019, the tuition amount owed to the district will be reduced to $7,500.

8. In the event that J.M. o/b/o A.M. complies with Paragraph 7, J.M. o/b/o A.M. agrees to pay the full amount of $7,500 in accordance with the following payment schedule:

a) $1,500 to be paid no later than December 16, 2019; and

b) The balance of $6,000 to be paid over the course of thirty months at a rate of $200.00 per month beginning on January 1, 2020, and to be paid on the first of each month thereafter, until which time the full balance is paid.

9. Payment shall be made in cash, certified check, cashier's check or money order only.

10. Should J.M. o/b/o A.M. fail to deliver the payment on time, in compliance with all terms set forth in this agreement, the District shall be entitled to enter a Judgement against J.M.

less amounts already paid for the entire amount owed by the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law.

11. This Agreement is dispositive of all issues in dispute between the Parties hereto, and is intended to constitute a final resolution of the dispute between the Parties.

12. J.M. o/b/o A.M. acknowledges that he has read and understands the terms of this Agreement, that he has had the opportunity to have the Agreement reviewed by counsel, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly, freely, voluntarily, without coercion and not under the influence of anything or anyone.

IN WITNESS HEREOF, the Parties have set their hands this 14 day of November, 2019.

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Rodney Beaver, School District of the City of East Orange, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 274-10/19.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the record in the contested case entitled In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Rodney Beaver, School District of the City of East Orange, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 274-10/19. The record includes the District's request to withdraw the tenure charges filed in this matter due to Respondent's resignation from the District effective December 2, 2019. In light of this information, I find that no purpose would be served by further proceedings in this matter.

Accordingly, I approve the dismissal of the tenure charges with prejudice and dismiss the matter as a contested case before me.

Sincerely,

Lamont O. Repollet, Ed.D.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Leah Armstrong, School District of the City of Camden, Camden County.

For the Petitioner, Louis R. Lessig, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Leah Armstrong

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on December 6, 2019, through tenure charges of incapacity certified by Katrina T. McCombs, Superintendent of the Camden City School District ("District"), together with supporting evidence against respondent, Leah Armstrong, a tenured teaching staff member in the District's employ. The District provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address, via certified and regular mail, on December 6, 2019.

On December 9, 2019, the Commissioner directed the respondent – via both certified and regular mail – to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from or on behalf of the respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the District in this matter indicate that the respondent was employed by the District as a tenured teacher. Respondent was on a leave of absence for the entire 2015-2016 school year commencing with a paid leave of absence from September 2, 2015 to December 8, 2015. Respondent has remained on an unpaid leave of absence and has not responded to the District's attempts to contact her to determine a return date.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that the respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that the District's charge of incapacity has been proven and overwhelmingly warrants the respondent's dismissal. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the District, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the Camden City School District. This matter will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate(s) as that body deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

C.E., on behalf of minor child K.E.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner did not meet his burden of demonstrating that he was a domiciliary of West Orange for the 2018-19 and 2019-20 school years. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor child was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in West Orange. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $21,205.00 for tuition costs incurred from the beginning of the 2018-2019 school year through October 21, 2019, and $101.51 for each school day following October 21, 2019, during which time petitioner's minor child was ineligible to attend school in West Orange.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $21,205.00, plus $101.51 for each school day following October 21, 2019, for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which K.E. was ineligible to attend school in West Orange. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Frances L. Febres, Esq. for respondent (Cleary, Giacobbe, Alfieri, Jacobs, LLC)

Record Closed: November 24, 2019 Decided: December 6, 2019

BEFORE: NANCI G. STOKES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, C.E., is the father of K.E, who is a minor and student in the West Orange Public School District (District). During the 2018- 19 school year and through the current school year, K.E. was not domiciled in the District. Should public school be free to K.E. in the District for the 2018-19 school year? No. Public school shall be free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, C.E., is the father of K.E, who is a minor and a student in the District.

On December 6, 2016, the West Orang Board of Education (Board) discovered that K.E. was not domiciled within the District and voted to remove K.E. from its schools. Petitioner appealed that determination, and the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). K.E. was found not to be domiciled within the District and therefore, ineligible for free public education in the District. On May 18, 2017, C.E. was ordered to pay $17,069 in back tuition for the 2016-17 school year. See C.E. o/b/o K.E. v. West Orange Public School District, OAL DKT. No. EDU 00494-17, initial decision (May 18, 2017).

On January 10, 2018, the Board again discovered that K.E. was not domiciled within the District, and again voted to remove K.E. from its schools. Petitioner appealed that determination, and the case was transmitted to the OAL. K.E. was found not to be domiciled within the District and therefore, ineligible for free public education in the District, on June 5, 2018, C.E. was ordered to pay $20,000 in back tuition for the 2017-18 school year. See C.E. o/b/o K.E. v. West Orange Public School District, OAL DKT. No. EDU 03717-18, initial decision (June 5, 2018).

In October 2018, C.E. advised the Board that he was closing on a house in West Orange, that he would provide documentation that K.E. was eligible to continue attending school in the District, and that he would remit the remaining $10,000 in back tuition for the 2017-18 school year.

On October 15, 2018, the Board held a residency hearing, determined for a third time that K.E. was not domiciled in the District, concluded that K.E. ineligible to receive a free education from it, and voted to remove K.E. from the District. C.E. paid the remaining $10,000 in back tuition owed for the 2017-18 school year on October 22, 2018, but despite several requests, he did not supply documentation establishing K.E.'s domicile in West Orange for the 2018-19 school year.

On May 29, 2019, the Board notified C.E. that K.E. would be removed from rolls on June 21, 2019, and that C.E. would be assessed tuition for each day of ineligible attendance.

On June 21, 2019, C.E. appealed the determination.

On July 17, 2019, the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the case to the OAL as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On August 6, 2019, I held an initial prehearing conference during which time the parties agreed that discovery would be exchanged by September 20, 2019, and that an additional prehearing conference would be held prior to the October 21, 2019, hearing date. On August 7, 2019, a Prehearing Order was entered memorializing the discussion and scheduling a prehearing conference for September 30, 2019. On September 30, 2019, C.E. advised he had not yet supplied documentation supporting K.E.'s residency in West Orange. I instructed C.E. to provide all discovery to the Board by October 8, 2019.

On October 17, 2019, the Board notified the court that C.E. did not supply any discovery.

On the hearing date of October 21, 2019, the parties agreed that there was no need to conduct a hearing, and that the case could be resolved through a motion for summary decision. On the record, the Board presented its oral argument for summary decision, and C.E. did not dispute the Board's position.

On November 4, 2019, the Board filed its motion for summary decision; C.E. filed no opposition; and on November 24, 2019, I closed the record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the documents the Board submitted in support of the motion for summary decision, and viewing them in the light most favorable to C.E., I FIND the following as FACT:

During the period of April 3, 2019, through May 23, 2019, the Board's residency investigators conducted simultaneous surveillance of the East Orange address identified on C.E.'s 2018 and 2019 court filings, banking records, and residency appeal petition in this case; as well as the West Orange address stated on K.E.'s student registration record, C.E.'s September 2017 application for PSE&G services, and a month-to-month lease signed by C.E. on September 20, 2017. Other than K.E.'s student registration record, no documentation supporting residency in West Orange for 2018 or 2019 was presented to the District.

On ten occasions from April 3, 2019, through May 23, 2019, during the morning hours, the investigator observed K.E. and C.E. entering and exiting the East Orange address, and the presence of C.E.'s vehicle; whereas at no time did an investigator observe K.E. or C.E. entering or exiting the West Orange address. The Board's residency investigators concluded that the East Orange address listed on the residency appeal petition is where K.E. resided with C.E. A prior investigation with simultaneous surveillance of the same East Orange and West Orange addresses in November and December 2017 and January 2018 revealed the same findings.

On May 29, 2019, the Board notified C.E. that K.E. would be removed from rolls on June 21, 2019, and that C.E. would be assessed tuition for each day of ineligible attendance.

In this case, C.E. presents no evidence to establish his domicile or that of his daughter, K.E., in the District.

Despite her domicile with C.E. in East Orange, K.E. continued to attend the West Orange public schools for the 2018-19 school year, and she continues to attend the West Orange public schools for the 2019-20 school year to this day.

Based upon a per diem tuition rate of $101.45, the tuition for general education attendance in District for the 2018-19 school year is $18,566. The per diem tuition rate for the 2019-20 school year is $101.51. Therefore, the tuition for general education attendance in District from September 4, 2019, through the hearing date of October 21, 2019, is $2,639.

To date, C.E. has made no payments to the District for the 2018-19 or 2019-20 school year.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A party may move for summary decision upon any or all substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and may be served with supporting affidavits. Ibid. "The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

Even where a statute calls for a "hearing," where a motion for summary decision is made and supported by documentary evidence, and where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate a genuine issue of material fact, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing and no trial-type hearing is necessary. Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120-21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996).

To determine whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment, the motion judge must consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to demonstrate that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

In this case, no genuine issue of any material fact exists, and I CONCLUDE that this case is ripe for summary decision.

Public school shall be free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A student is domiciled in a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent, and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1); State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). New Jersey has consistently held that the domicile of the child follows the domicile of the parent. Shim v. Rutgers, 191 N.J. 374, 399 (2007). If a student does not have a right to attend the school district, the Commissioner may assess tuition. See N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2.

Where a local board of education seeks removal of a student, the parent may appeal to the Commissioner of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1(b)(2). In the proceeding before the Commissioner, the parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child meets eligibility requirements for a free education. Ibid. If the evidence does not support the parent's claim, the Commissioner shall assess the parent tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Ibid.

In this case, a preponderance of the evidence demonstrates that K.E. is domiciled in East Orange, New Jersey, and was domiciled in East Orange for the 2018-19 school year to the present; and thus, the Board is entitled to prevail as a matter of law given my findings of fact, the tuition C.E. owes the District is clear. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that C.E. owes the Board $18,566 for the period of ineligibility for the 2018-19 school year; $2,639 from September 4, 2019, through the scheduled hearing date of October 21, 2019; and $101.51 for each school day attended beyond October 21, 2019, for the remainder of the 2019-20 school year.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that C.E. owes the Board $18,566 for the period of ineligibility for the 2018-19 school year; $2,639 from September 4, 2019, through the scheduled hearing date of October 21, 2019; and $101.51 for each school day attended beyond October 21, 2019, for the remainder of the 2019-20 school year.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Michael Ettz,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

Synopsis

On June 24, 2019, petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP), that he is permanently disqualified from public school employment. Petitioner was disqualified as the result of a guilty plea in 2017 to a charge of third degree assault by auto, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2). Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. sets forth the rules of procedure for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; in the instant matter, petitioner pled guilty to a third-degree assault by auto on September 22, 2017; petitioner was notified by letter from the respondent on March 2, 2018 that based on his guilty plea, he was permanently disqualified from employment in any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education; the March 2, 2018 letter further notified petitioner of the timeline for challenging the accuracy of his criminal history record; petitioner's attorney at the time confirmed receipt of the March 2, 2018 letter in a writing dated March 15, 2018, and indicated that petitioner challenged his disqualification; respondent replied to petitioner's attorney on March 16, 2018 by letter which included instructions on how to file a formal appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3; petitioner failed to file such formal appeal until June 24, 2019. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's appeal is time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; further, petitioner's related but separate matter regarding an Order to Show Cause from the State Board of Examiners did not toll the running of the ninety-day limitations period for the filing of a petition of appeal. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the respondent's motion to dismiss.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's determination that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Additionally, the petitioner has failed to present any exceptional circumstances that might justify a finding that strictly adhering to the 90-day rule would result in injustice. Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 590 (1993); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. BEFORE KELLY J. KIRK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Michael Ettz, a teacher, appeals the determination of respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP), that he is disqualified from public school employment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 24, 2019, petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education, with a copy to the OSP[1] and the Attorney General of New Jersey. On July 12, 2019, respondent requested an extension of time to respond to the Verified Petition. On August 5, 2019, the respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) of the Department of Education (Department). The Department transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on August 16, 2019. Review of the file revealed that petitioner had not filed a response to the respondent's Motion to Dismiss. A telephone conference was held on September 6, 2019, and petitioner was given until October 7, 2019, to file opposition to the motion to dismiss, and respondent was given until October 21, 2019, to file a reply. Petitioner filed opposition on October 8, 2019, and respondent filed a reply on October 21, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The documents attached to the transmittal, including the Verified Petition, and Motion to Dismiss reflect the following:

On September 22, 2017, petitioner pled guilty to third-degree assault by auto in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:12-1(c)(2) in Bergen County Superior Court. By letter dated March 2, 2018, the Department's Criminal History Review Unit (CHRU)[2] notified petitioner that it had received information concerning a conviction or charge pending for a disqualifying crime or offense documented on his criminal history record, and attached the record as "Addendum: A." The March 2, 2018, letter also stated, in pertinent part, the following:

> Pursuant to state statutes, you are permanently disqualified or ineligible for employment or service as a school board member/trustee in any position with a school or other > educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility. You have 14 days from the date of this written notice to challenge the accuracy of your criminal history record. You must submit documentation from the respective courts to support your claim of an error in the criminal record. If the crime or offense can be expunged and the period of time required by statute has passed, you may re-apply for school employment upon completion of that process.

THE NOTICE OF DISQUALIFICATION OR INELIGIBILITY WILL BE REVIEWED BY THE STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS AND MAY RESULT IN PROCEEDINGS AGAINST YOUR CERTIFICATION.

By letter dated March 15, 2018, petitioner's attorney, Jill Horowitz, Esq, of Cillick & Smith, confirmed petitioner's receipt of the March 2, 2018, letter. Petitioner was incarcerated at that time. The March 15, 2018, letter also stated, in pertinent part:

> On behalf of Mr. Ettz, we are contesting the accuracy of the criminal history information set forth in Addendum A to your letter. Specifically, the employment information is incorrect and the accurate conviction is set forth in the Judgement of Conviction attached hereto.
> Please be advised that we specifically challenge Mr. Ettz's disqualification and/or ineligibility.

The attached Judgement of Conviction & Order for Commitment reflected the final charge as "ASSAULT BY AUTO/VESSEL SBI VIOL 39:4-50 OR 4-50.4A," statute "2C:12-1C(2)," third degree, and a sentence of New Jersey State Prison for four years.

By letter dated March 16, 2018, the Department's CHRU notified petitioner's attorney, Jill Horowitz, Esq. of Cillick & Smith, as follows:

> I am acknowledging receipt of your correspondence of March 15, 2018 regarding an appeal of Mr. Ettz's ineligibility for public school employment. To file a formal appeal with the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3, you must also copy the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes at the Department of Education and the Office of the Attorney General. By letter dated August 9, 2018, the Department's Office of Controversies and Disputes notified petitioner's attorney, Jill Horowitz, Esq. of Cillick & Smith, as follows:

> We are in receipt of your letter dated March 15, 2018 that was just forwarded to our office from the Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit, in which it appears that you challenge Michael Ettz's disqualification from public employment.

The CHRU was copied on the August 9, 2018, letter.

On June 24, 2019, petitioner's attorney, Edward W. Cillick, Esq. of Cillick & Smith, filed the "Verified Petition from Adverse Underlying Action by The Criminal History Review Unit (CHRU) Of The Department of Education." Thereafter, the OSP filed the Motion to Dismiss in lieu of an answer.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. sets forth the rules of procedure for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1(a). N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. does not apply to appeals of decisions or interlocutory decisions of the State Board of Examiners suspending or revoking teaching certificates or interlocutory decisions of the State Board of Examiners, which appeals and requests must be made pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:4. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1(d).

To initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner must prepare a petition of appeal conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4 and serve such petition upon each respondent, together with any supporting papers the petitioner may include with the petition. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a). The petitioner then must file, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(h), proof of service on each respondent, the telephone numbers (and fax numbers and e-mail addresses where available) of the petitioner and each respondent, and the original petition and supporting materials, if any, with the Commissioner c/o the Director, Office of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, 100 River View Plaza, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a).

A respondent must serve an answer upon the petitioner within twenty days after receipt of the petition, unless a shorter period is required by statute, regulation, or court order, or directed by the Commissioner due to the emergent nature of a matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(a). However, respondent is not precluded from filing a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to a petition, provided that such motion is filed within the time allotted for the filing of an answer. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g).

The OSP filed a motion to dismiss and argues that the petitioner's appeal is time-barred and should be dismissed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which states:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

In Kaprow v. Board of Education, 131 N.J. 572, 583 (1991), the New Jersey Supreme Court discussed the ninety-day limitation period, and determined that such period "represents a reasonable procedural requirement," provides "finality in education matters," and has withstood tangential review. Additionally, the court opined:

> Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. Moreover, adequate notice under the regulation must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period. A limitations period has two purposes. The first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims. The second purpose is "'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose'" by giving security and stability to human affairs.

In Kaprow, the petitioner attempted to resolve his claim through negotiations with the Board. However, the Supreme Court found that such attempt did not negate that he had received adequate notice on a date certain, nor did it toll the running of the limitations period. Similarly, in the present matter, petitioner contends that after receipt of the March 2, 2018, letter from the CHRU and after his attorney's March 15, 2018, letter, petitioner was served on or about April 8, 2018, with an Order to Show Cause by the Board of Examiners seeking to revoke his teaching certificate. Petitioner also contends that he properly responded to the Order to Show Cause and admitted that he pleaded guilty to assault by auto, but denied that he was disqualified from public employment. Petitioner further contends that the Board of Examiners entered an Order, dated May 17, 2019, revoking petitioner's teaching certificates, and "indicated it was compelled to treat his conviction as a disqualifying offense because there was no record that he challenged the findings of the CHRU based on the finding of disqualification and the additional circumstances." Accepting petitioner's representation as to the contents of the Board of Examiners' Order, the Board of Examiners correctly pointed out that there was no record that petitioner had challenged the findings of the CHRU. Petitioner omits from his opposition any mention of the March 16, 2018, letter from the CHRU to petitioner's attorney, which letter referenced N.J.A.C. 6A:3, which regulations detail the rules of procedure for an appeal and limit the time to file an appeal to ninety days. Instead, petitioner states only that "counsel never received a letter dated August 9, 2018 as referenced by the [respondent]" and "[i]n fact, the letter was addressed to Jill Horowitz who had left our office earlier in the year." While the August 9, 2018, letter may have been addressed to Jill Horowitz, Esq., it was addressed to her at Cillick & Smith, at the office's current address, and there was no explanation provided for why the mail would not have been opened by Cillick & Smith if the attorney was no longer with the office. Nevertheless, even if petitioner's attorney had never received the August 9, 2018, letter, there was no explanation as to why an appeal was not filed in accordance with the March 16, 2018, letter, and even absent any letter, the petitioner still has an obligation to comply with applicable regulations.

Petitioner also argues that respondent is mistaken in its belief that the appeal was not properly filed within ninety days. In support of its argument that the appeal was timely filed petitioner relies upon the March 15, 2018, "challenge to the disqualification" having been filed thirteen days after the March 2, 2018, letter. However, petitioner's March 15, 2018, letter did not comply with the requirements set forth in the applicable regulations, and there were multiple subsequent letters notifying petitioner that the March 15, 2018, letter was not a proper appeal. Yet, a proper appeal of the CHRU determination still was not filed. In further support of the argument that petitioner properly appealed the CHRU determination, petitioner improperly relies upon arguments alleged to have been made to the Board of Examiners in connection with its revocation of petitioner's teaching certificates – an entirely separate action.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, petitioner also argues that if it is determined that there was not strict compliance with the ninety-day time period that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 should allow for relaxation of the rules. Specifically, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 states:

> The rules in this chapter shall be considered general rules of practice to govern, expedite and effectuate the procedure before, and the actions of the Commissioner in connection with, the determination of controversies and disputes under the school laws. Where such rules do not reflect a specific statutory requirement or an underlying rule of the OAL, they may be relaxed or dispensed with by the Commissioner, in the Commissioner's discretion, in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice.

The circumstances herein provide no basis to dispense with the ninety-day time period. The CHRU—not the Board of Examiners—sent petitioner a letter on March 2, 2018, and sent petitioner's attorney a letter on March 16, 2018, regarding the disqualification. Petitioner was on notice of the action being taken by the CHRU and after it appeared that petitioner intended to appeal, the CHRU's March 16, 2018, letter stated that to file a formal appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3, petitioner must also copy the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes and the Attorney General of New Jersey. Yet, petitioner has no documentation that even a copy of the March 15, 2018, letter, much less a formal appeal, was ever filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes or the Attorney General of New Jersey. Additionally, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes' August 9, 2018, letter stated that to initiate a contested case before the Commissioner, petitioner would have to comply with the rules at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 et seq. and a copy of the petition would have to be served on the Attorney General of New Jersey. Yet, petitioner again has no documentation that a formal appeal was ever served on the Attorney General, for the respondent CHRU, within ninety days. Instead, the within appeal was not filed until June 24, 2019. The related but separate matter of the Order to Show Cause from the Board of Examiners did not toll the running of the ninety-day limitations period within which petitioner was to file a petition of appeal relative to the March 2, 2018, letter, and there is no basis to disregard "a reasonable procedural requirement," more than a year after petitioner was put on notice of the adverse action and further put on notice that a formal petition had to be filed in accordance with the regulations.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that Ettz's Verified Petition is time-barred and should be dismissed.[3] [3] Since the appeal is time-barred, the OSP's additional argument as to an alleged failure to advance a cause of action is not addressed herein.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's Motion to Dismiss be GRANTED, and that Ettz's Verified Petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Revised Order on Emergent Relief

J.M., on behalf of minor child J.M.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Moorestown, Burlington County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Revised Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: 1/14/20

[1] The parties have advised the ALJ that no issues remain once the request for emergent relief is resolved. Therefore, the file should be returned to the Department pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

BEFORE CARL V. BUCK III, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner[1] appealed the action of respondent Moorestown Board of Education (Board) denying him promotion from the seventh grade to the eighth grade at the William Allen Middle School for the 2019-2010 academic year. Notice of the possibility to retain student was given as early as January 2019. Direct notice of intent of the School's principal to retain student was given to petitioner on June 17, 2019. Petitioner requested an appeal to the Superintendent of the Board, who upheld the principal's decision on or about July 15, 2019. Petitioner requested an appeal to the Board which upheld the decision made by the principal and the superintendent.

[1] As the petitioner and his son have the same initials, in the body of this Order the father shall be referred to as "Petitioner" or "Father" and the student shall be referred to as "Student" or "Son".

The State of New Jersey, Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies received a petition for emergency relief on or about September 12, 2019. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case on September 13, 2019, on petitioner's application for emergency relief. The Director of the OAL assigned the undersigned to hear this matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-5.

Oral argument on the matter was scheduled for September 18, 2019. Subsequent to oral argument on that date, both parties requested time to make an additional submission and agreed to the extension of this order so that information could be considered in the Order. Respondent was given until 10:00 am on Friday, September 20, 2019 and made a submission. Petitioner was given until 10:00 am on Monday, September 23, 2019 and did not make a submission. Nothing from petitioner was received by the close of business on Tuesday, September 24, 2019.

For the reasons discussed below, the relief sought by the petitioner is DENIED.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

For the purposes of deciding the application for emergent relief, the following facts are determined to be undisputed:

Respondent Board's policy 5410 deals with retention of students within the Moorestown Township School District. This policy deals with promotion to a subsequent grade and states:

> A pupil in the elementary grades will be promoted to the next succeeding grade level when he/she has completed the course requirements at the presently assigned grade; has achieved the instructional objectives set for the present grade; has demonstrated > the proficiency is required for movement into the educational program of the next grade; and his demonstrated the degree of social, emotional, and physical maturation necessary for a successful learning experience in the next grade.

Beginning with PAARC testing results of May 2018, student's scores indicated that he was below proficient levels in language arts and math. In August 2018 the student was placed in remedial classes for general education students for the subjects of math and language arts. The student was also recommended to the PASS class - that being a class to improve executive functioning for general education students. The petitioner initially refused to consent to these placements.

In September and October 2018, the student's teachers requested that he stay after school for extra assistance due to his low grades. Petitioner did not consent to allow the student to stay after school to accept assistance. On September 25, 2018, the teachers requested a meeting with petitioner. In October 2018 the student was referred to the intervention and referral services team; however, petitioner refused to allow the student access to this assistance. In September and October 2018, the school nurse contacted the petitioner regarding a concern with the student's need for eyeglasses. The student was not provided with eyeglasses for several months.

In November 2018 the principal met with the student to discuss the student's responsibilities to complete his work for the first marking period. Petitioner was notified of that meeting and objected to the meeting. In November 2018 the student was offered a mentor and the school nurse notified petitioner of concerns regarding the student's weight. Petitioner indicated he would not allow a mentor to assist the student nor use the nurse's advice.

In December 2018 the possibility the student joining the wrestling team was discussed with petitioner; however, petitioner failed to follow up.

In January 2019 the child study team (CST) offered to evaluate the student again and the student was recommended for the PASS class. Petitioner refused to consent to either a review or evaluation by the CST or for the student to participate in the PASS class. In January 2019 the principal notified petitioner that the student could be retained or changed to different classes, specifically, the BSI math and the PASS class, if his grades did not improve. Petitioner refused to consent to the PASS class but consented to the BSI math class. In March 2019 petitioner was notified for the second time that the student was in jeopardy of retention if his grades did not improve. In March 2019 the principal met again with petitioner to discuss the possibility that student could be retained. This was the third time petitioner had been made aware of the possibility of his son being retained in seventh grade. Petitioner then agreed to receive weekly updates of student's progress and assignments. The student was again offered extra assistance after school, but petitioner refused to allow the student to receive such assistance.

From March 2019 through June 2019, the student's teachers communicated with petitioner regarding student's failure to complete assignments via the student's agenda book. Petitioner did note that the book was misplaced at least on one occasion. The school asserted that petitioner did not respond to the notations regarding the student's failure to complete assignments.

In March 2019 petitioner agreed he would email the student's teachers every Wednesday and would respond with updates. The teachers forwarded emails to the petitioner with updates regarding the student's progress. In June 2019 the petitioner was requested to schedule a final meeting regarding the student's retention. The petitioner requested a telephone conference for June 17, 2019. However, petitioner did not call at the scheduled time. On June 21, 2019, the principal met with the petitioner and petitioner's mother to discuss the student's retention. This was the fourth time student's retention was mentioned to petitioner.

TESTIMONY

J.M.

J.M. is the father of the student. He requests emergent relief so that his son may be advanced to eighth grade. His position is that he was told during several discussions with the principal that if the student evidenced satisfactory effort that he would be advanced. Petitioner states that the student has tried to advance; therefore, he should be advanced to the eighth grade. Petitioner further states that the harm in retaining the student is far greater than the harm in holding him back for another year. He provided citations to many articles which petitioner stated evidence that position, but petitioner could not provide a succinct analysis of how those articles correlate to the matter at hand. It was his goal to have the student advance, as he will be responsible for the child for another year. As a single parent, he has made efforts to keep the student involved in school but was unable to do so. Petitioner argued that the burden of retaining the student will be placed on himself and the student only, and that it hurts nobody to put the student in the eighth grade.

R.K.

R.K. is the mother of the petitioner (and grandmother of the student). She represented that she possesses a master's degree in higher education and a master's degree in experimental psychology. She testified not as a professional, but simply as a family member with knowledge and involvement in this case. She has done tremendous research and found that it is harmful to not promote a student. There are mental-health ramifications for high school dropouts, and she is concerned that her grandson would ultimately become a high school dropout due to this event. She requested a CST evaluation be done and stated, what harm would it be to have him in the eighth grade while this evaluation is being done. She stated that she does not feel that it would be harmful to promote the student to the eighth grade.

Board

The Board attorney, John Comegno, Esq., reiterated the terms of Board Policy 5410 detailed above. Specifically, he detailed that when and how a promotion occurs is not based on attendance, intentions, etc. but strictly on academic results and emotional readiness to advance. The retention decision was not punitive and was based on the evidence as detailed as well as the student's final report card (R-1). The decision was initially made by the Principal, Matthew Keith. Petitioner requested an appeal to Superintendent Scott McCartney who upheld the principal's decision. Petitioner then requested a further appeal to the entire Board of Education. The Board then upheld the decisions below made by the principal and the superintendent. In their argument, the Board relied on two decisions from the Hon. Joseph Martone ALJ dealing with similar circumstances - but not exact fact patterns. The Board then detailed the four criteria of Crowe v. DeGioia stating that the criteria were not met, and that the contention of the petitioner must ultimately fail.

A secondary issue, regarding standing (in that petitioner withdrew the student from the school system on September 9, 2019) was not heard by the Court. This issue was raised during a telephone conversation before the court date and the court's position was that that issue would not be dealt with but that the appeal would continue as filed.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), an application for emergent relief shall not be granted unless it satisfies the following four standards:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

[See Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132–34 (1982).]

The petitioner must meet all four criteria to prevail on his request. See Crowe, 90 N.J. 126; DEC Electric, Inc. v. Bd. of Educ. of the S. Gloucester Cnty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. and USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 789, 790 (citing DEC Electric, Inc. v. S. Gloucester Cnty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. and USA Elec. Contractors, Inc., EDU 10833-95, Order Denying Emergent Relief (Dec. 6, 1995), adopted, Comm'r (Dec. 26, 1995) (denied unsuccessful bidder's request for emergent relief because it was unable to establish that it would suffer immediate and irreparable harm, although it was able to establish a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits and that the parties opposing the motion would not suffer undue harm). The moving party bears the burden of proving each of the Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt. of N.J. v. Union Cnty. Utils. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

Accordingly, each prong of the test must be analyzed:

1. Whether petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the student is not advanced to the eighth grade for the 2019-2020 school year.

The first principle for emergent relief is that relief should only be ordered to prevent irreparable harm to the petitioner. Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132–33. Harm is irreparable when it cannot be addressed with monetary damages. Ibid. This standard contemplates that the harm also be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Commc'ns, Inc. v. Day, 299 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1997). "In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience can constitute irreparable injury justifying issuance of injunctive relief." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 133. "Pecuniary damages may be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or of the right affected." Ibid.

Here, petitioner claims that no one will be hurt by the student's elevation to eighth grade. Petitioner further states that there will be ongoing harm and trauma to the student should the student not be promoted. Petitioner's mother also states that it is harmful to retain a student.

In opposition, the Board maintains that it is following its adopted Board Policy 5410. In support of its position, the Board avers that the student's grades throughout the year were deficient; with the ultimate result being that the student failed four of the core curriculum courses needed for promotion to the next grade level. (R-1). The student failed language arts for three of the four quarters; math for three of the four quarters, science for all four quarters, cultural geography for three of the four quarters and math support for two quarters. The student's final grades reflect an A- in chorus, a B+ in art, a B in physical education, a C- in health, a P in math support. The student received an A+ and a C for two quarters of Spanish. The Board demonstrated that assistance was offered to the student throughout the course of the year but was, for the most part, rejected by the parent.

Petitioner is seeking to have the student promoted to eighth grade while a CST evaluation occurs. A CST evaluation was recommended by the school last year but was refused by the father at that time. Conducting such evaluation at a time the student in the untenable position of expecting (or hoping) that he will provide satisfactory results in a grade for which he is ill-prepared and unready is not a sound plan and doing so, in the Court's opinion, would be setting up the student for failure.

Accordingly, I FIND that petitioner has not shown neither irreparable harm nor the risk of harm to the student based on the Board's action. The issue of damages remains speculative and therefore does not satisfy the first prong of the four-prong test under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

2. Whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is well settled.

Petitioner claims that the legal right underlying his claim is well settled because the principal, the superintendent, and the Board of Education have made such determination and by his citation to numerous articles citing the harm in retaining students.

Respondent claims that the Board's action is in compliance with Board Policy 5410 and does not violate any legal right of petitioner.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:35-4.9(a), Boards of Education are empowered to develop retention and promotion policies. The policies the Board of Education produce pursuant to this delegated power have the force and effect of law. See P.D.M. o.b.o.

K.M. v Bd. Of Educ. of Somerville, EDU 6706-98, (Aug. 27, 1998); J.Y. and C.Y. o.b.o. M.Y. v. Bridgewater-Raritan Reg. Sch. Dist., EDS 6876-98 (September 17, 1998). It is well settled that decisions of local boards of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness unless they are shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." J. M., by His Guardian, D. M. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 415, 419; R. A. M. and C. A. M. v. Board of Educ. of the OAL DKT. NO. EDU 04389-18 8 Township of Tabernacle, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 573, 576 (citing, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)). Petitioner bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the respondent's action was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." J.M., 96 N.J.A.R.2d at 419.

Respondent claims that the Board's action is in compliance with Board Policy 5410 and does not violate any legal right of petitioner.

The claim before me is unique with sparse reference to caselaw. But, the statute and the Board Policy are plain on their face, and the petitioner has not shown (nor has my review revealed) that the actions here were either "arbitrary" or "capricious". Accordingly, I FIND that the legal issue here is settled as a matter of law.

3. Whether petitioner is likely to be successful on the merits of its claim.

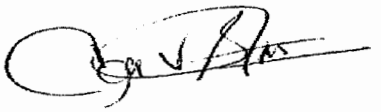
Petitioner's appeal does not assert an argument that supports the contention he will prevail on the merits.

4. Whether petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent if emergent relief is not granted.

Petitioner claims that the student will suffer greater harm than respondent if the requested relief is not granted. Petitioner has not shown that student will suffer greater hardship than respondent and it is the position of the tribunal that if the student is not provided with appropriate assistance in an appropriate classroom setting, that he will, through lack of an appropriate educational foundation, suffer harm here.

While I agree that ensuring the welfare of the student is paramount, I do not FIND that such a correction can be made by way of allowing the student to progress to the eighth grade when he does not have the appropriate educational background to do so.

CONCLUSION



Petitioner has not satisfied the four prongs required to obtain emergent relief. Petitioner has not shown imminent and irreparable harm. He has not shown that that the legal right to petitioner's claim is well settled. He has not shown that he has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits. He has not shown any harm to the student or that the student will be negatively impacted by retention in the seventh grade.

This matter was filed as an Emergent matter only. No filing for a Due Process hearing was made by petitioner. Therefore, this office will retain this file until the final decision by the Commissioner.

ORDER

The application for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

On February 22, 2019 the Belvidere Board of Education ("Board" or "District") served High School Teachers Daniel Dempsey and Andrew Poyer ("Respondents") with tenure charges and advising each of them of their rights to file responses with the Board. At a Board meeting held on March 13, after consideration of the tenure charges, sworn written statement of the District Superintendent and the Respondent's responses, the Board voted to file the tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education. The charges against both teachers were in fact filed with the Commissioner on March 18, 2019. The Board charges that both employees engaged in unbecoming conduct, insubordination and/ other conduct amounting to just cause for dismissal or reduction in salary by (a) operating a fundraiser in which donations were solicited under false pretenses; (b) the two employees/coaches conspired together to raise money specifically for compensation for Poyer's coaching services; and (c) requisitioned and obtained a check for Poyer drawn on that associated student associated account which was then cashed by Poyer all without permission of the Board or the district administration. Additionally, Dempsey and Poyer were charged with attempting to hinder the District's investigation of the matter by being "less than truthful" during their interviews with the Superintendent.[1]

On June 25, 2019, Respondents filed a Motion to Dismiss all charges with me. Respondents argued that Plaintiff's failure to timely submit discovery materials had prejudiced Respondents' ability to adequately prepare their defense prior to the start of the arbitration hearing. Further Respondents argued that because Plaintiff had not produced summaries of each witnesses' testimony, such evidence would not be produced at hearing and therefore the charges should be dismissed. By decision of August 1, 2019, I denied Respondents' motion but gave them an opportunity to move the start date of the hearing back to permit additional preparation time. I noted that even if I had dismissed the Board's tenure charges, it would be without prejudice to its ability to refile the charges and further delay would result.

An arbitration hearing was conducted on November 19, 20, and 21, 2019, at which time eight witnesses testified under oath. By agreement of the parties, witnesses were sequestered during the hearing. The parties also presented documentary evidence. The parties filed post-hearing briefs by December 5. N.J.A.C. 6A:11-6.3 provides that the decision in this matter shall be issued within 45 days of the beginning of the hearing, and that the decision shall be final and binding. On November 12, I requested an extension of time to submit my award. The Department of Education granted my extension request to January 13, 2020.

ISSUE IN DISPUTE

The parties stipulated that the issue in dispute in this matter can be framed as follows:

> Did the Board of Education prove that tenure charges brought against Daniel Dempsey and Andrew Poyer amounted to sufficient cause for termination?

STATUTORY AND REGULATORY CONSIDERATIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10: Dismissal and reduction in compensation of persons under tenure in public school system. No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation, conducted under the supervision of the commissioner, except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this sub article, by the commissioner or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this sub article provided.

> (a) If he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state or
> (b) If he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency as a supervisor, teacher or in any other teaching capacity in the Marie H. Katzenbach school for the deaf, or in any other educational institution

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 Proceedings before commissioner; written response; determination

* * *

... If, however, [the Commissioner of Education] shall determine that such charge is sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary of the person charged, he shall refer the case to an arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of P.L. 2012 Ch. 26 (C.18A:6-17.1) for further proceedings, . . .

18A:6-17.1 Panel of arbitrators

b. The following provisions shall apply to a hearing conducted by an arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, except as otherwise provided pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.):

(1) The hearing shall be held before the arbitrator within 45 days of the assignment of the arbitrator to the case;

* * *

c. The arbitrator shall determine the case under the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules. In the event of a conflict between the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules and the procedures established pursuant to this section, the procedures established pursuant to this section shall govern.

d. Notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-25 or any other section of law to the contrary, the arbitrator shall render a written decision within 45 days of the start of the hearing.

e. The arbitrator's determination shall be final and binding and may not be appealable to the commissioner or the State Board of Education. The determination shall be subject to judicial review and enforcement as provided pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:24-7 through N.J.S.A. 2A:24-10.

RELEVANT BOARD POLICIES

Superintendent Chris Carrubba is responsible for the general oversight of the Belvidere School District and its employees. He has been the Belvidere superintendent for the past seven years. He explained that the Board has a policy committee and that its adopted policies are available on its district website, as well as hardcopy in every building. Carrubba maintained that he expects all the teachers to be familiar with the Board-adopted policies. The Board introduced the following policies as relevant to the tenure charges in this matter.

Board Policy 1314, "Fundraising by Outside Organizations", (B-6) provides in relative part, as follows:

No person or organization may solicit funds on school property without prior permission from the Superintendent.

Funds solicited by organizations, not sponsored by the district, are not to be deposited in any regular or special accounts of the district. The Board disclaims all responsibility for the protection of or accounting for such funds.

Permission to solicit funds will be granted only to those organizations or individuals whose purposes are consistent with the goals of this district and the interests of the community. The Superintendent shall specify when and how solicitation may take place. He/she shall ensure this does not interfere with the orderly operations of the educational program.

Board Policy 3453, "School Activity Funds", concerns the use of funds derived from the pupils' activities. The policy provides in relative part, as follows:

School activity funds shall be audited annually along with other district funds and shall be administered, expended, and accounted for according to the rules of the state board of education.

The pupil activity funds for each school shall be kept in separate accounts, supervised by the building principal.[2] Separate and complete records shall be maintained for each pupil organization. All receipts, from pupil-fundraising projects, athletic events, and other events for which admission is charged will be deposited promptly. Bank deposits shall agree with the receipts in the case receipt book and shall be traceable to definite receipts or groups of receipts.

Disbursements must be made by check signed by the building principal and supported by a claim, bill or written order to persons

[2] Possible cross-references to this policy can be found in the following Board policies: 3280 Gifts, grants and bequests; 3400 Accounts; 3450 Money in school buildings; 3571.4 Audit; and 5136 Fund-raising activities. All of the above policies to include 3453, "School Activity Funds", are included in the Critical Policy Reference Manual.

supervising the fund. Checks shall bear two or more authorized signatures. All disbursements shall be recorded chronologically showing the date, vendor, check number, purpose and amount.

Borrowing from the pupil activity accounts is prohibited.

Board Policy 4112.3, "Code of Ethics" provides in relevant part, as follows:

The Board of Education endorses the code of ethics for professional educators published by the National Education Association:

1. Commitment to the Student

We measure success by the progress of each student toward achievement of his or her maximum potential. We therefore work to stimulate the spirit of inquiry, the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, and the thoughtful formulation of worthy goals. We recognize the importance of cooperative relationships with other community institutions, especially the home.

In fulfilling our obligations to the student, we –

1. Deal justly and considerably with each student.

* * *

6. Refrain from commenting unprofessionally about a student or his or her home.

7. Avoid exploiting our professional relationship with any student.

Board's Policy 4117.50, "Discipline", provides as follows:

The Board of Education directs all teaching staff members to observe statutes of the State of New Jersey, rules of the State Board of Education, policies of this Board, and duly promulgated administrative rules and regulations governing staff conduct.

Violations of these statutes, rules, and policies will be subject to discipline.

The superintendent shall prepare disciplinary rules for violations, discipline measures will include verbal and written warnings as appropriate and will provide, wherever possible, for progressive penalties for repeated violations. Penalties may include suspension, withholding one or more increments, and dismissal.

In the event disciplinary action is contemplated, notice will be given to the teaching staff member in ordinary and concise language of the specific acts and omissions upon which the disciplinary action is based; the text of the statute, policy, or rule that the member is alleged to have violated; a date when the member may be heard and the administrator who will hear the matter; and the penalty that may be imposed.

Board's Policy 4119.22, "Conduct and Dress", provides as follows,

The board of education expects staff conduct to be that of appropriate role models for pupils.

... Unbecoming Conduct
When an employee, either within the schools or outside normal duties, creates conditions under which the proper operation of the schools is affected, the board upon recommendation of the chief school administrator and in accordance with statute shall determine whether such acts or lack of actions constitute conduct unbecoming a school employee, and if so, will proceed against the employee in accordance with law.

Unbecoming conduct sufficient to warrant a board review may result from a single flagrant incident or from a series of incidents.

Board policy #4119.25, "Liability of Staff for Student Welfare", which sets forth in part,

... that teaching staff members are required to maintain a standard of care for supervision control and protection of students commensurate with assigned duties and responsibilities.

Board policy #5131.4, "Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying" (HIB)

provides as follows:

The board of education believes that a safe and civil environment in school is necessary for students to learn and achieve high academic standards. Students learn by example, school administrators, faculty, staff, and volunteers are required to demonstrate appropriate behavior, treating others with dignity and respect, and refusing to tolerate harassment, intimidation or bullying. Harassment, intimidation or bullying, like other disruptive or violent behaviors, is conduct that disrupts both a student's ability to learn and a school's ability to educate its students in a safe environment. Therefore, the school district will not tolerate acts of harassment, intimidation or bullying.

* * *

The board prohibits acts of harassment, intimidation or bullying against any student. School responses to harassment shall be aligned with the board-approved code of student conduct which establishes standards, policies and procedures for positive student development and student behavioral expectations on school grounds, including on a school bus or at school-sponsored functions. ...

Consequences and Remedial Measures for Acts of Harassment, Intimidation or Bullying

...Staff

Consequences and appropriate remedial actions for any staff member who commits an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying may range from positive behavior interventions up to disciplinary charges which could result in suspension or termination. ...

Board policy #5142, "Pupil Safety" provides in part,

The board of education recognizes the safety of its pupils as a consideration of utmost importance. The chief school administrator shall consult law enforcement agencies and social service providers, emergency management planners and other school and community resources in the development of the plans, procedures and mechanisms for school safety. The chief school administrator shall oversee development of a districtwide safety program with emphasis on accident prevention.

* * *

Staff Education and Training

All teachers shall be familiar with the provisions of this program that particularly concern them.

The chief school administrator shall inform all newly-employed staff of school safety rules and regulations within 60 days of the effective date of their employment. All district employees will receive the appropriate in-service training to recognize and respond appropriately to safety concerns including emergencies and crisis, in accordance with the district safety plans, procedures and mechanisms. The district safety plan will be updated annually and all employees will be notified of updates and changes to the safety plan in writing. . . .

School Violence Awareness Week Tolerance...

The school shall observe "School Violence Awareness Week". This week will include discussions, presentations, and training for both school. Law enforcement personnel will be invited to join school teaching staff presenting age-appropriate opportunities for students to discuss issues including, but not limited to conflict resolution, student diversity and tolerance.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

The Board maintains that it had just cause to terminate Dempsey and Poyer for their conduct in conspiring to provide Poyer with monetary compensation for his volunteer coaching position, and for their pattern of breaking multiple policies, rules, and regulations of the Belvidere Board and the State Board of Education.

The Union urges that the Board has not met its burden of proving just cause for any discipline of Dempsey or Poyer, and that each charge against each of them must be dismissed. In addition, the Union maintains that Dempsey and Poyer should be restored to their classroom and coaching duties, provided with back pay, and in the case of Dempsey, the coaching stipend to which he was entitled for the duration of his suspension.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Daniel Dempsey has been an elementary school physical education teacher in the Belvidere School District since 1999. He has served as a head coach for the boys' soccer team and the girls' softball team for 19 years. He is also the ski club's advisor.

Andrew Poyer has been employed by the district as a physical education teacher for the last twelve years. He has been coaching sports' teams since 2007 and has worked with Dempsey as an assistant coach for the past four or five years, both with the boys' soccer team and the girls' softball team.

Chris Karabinus has held the position of principal of the Belvidere Elementary School for approximately four years. Karabinus served as the athletic director from July of 2014 through November of 2018 (2T48). Karabinus testified for the Employer.

Brian Staples served as assistant athletic director under Karabinus for two years and four months and was then promoted in 2018 to athletic director. He is no longer employed in the district but testified for the Employer.

School's Sports' Booster Club

Some, but not all, Belvidere school sports have booster clubs, run by the parents. The booster clubs function mainly as a means for raising extra funds for the programs that go above and beyond what the district has allocated in its budget. The booster clubs are not tied to any of the district's accounts and the clubs operate independently of the school district.

The boys' soccer team has had a booster club for several years. In 2018, the booster club consisted of three parents: Patty Toth, Patti Grafer and Tracy Linder. Toth functioned as the club president, Grafter as the treasurer and Linder as the vice president. Toth was often the spokesperson for the club.

Associated Student Account

Those sports that do not have a booster club have an "associated student account" which is held and maintained by the Board of Education. This account is the repository and payment account for funds raised and student fees, including summer sports camps. According to Carrubba, the Board oversees where the money is placed in its general operating budget for specific clubs. The associated student account is an audited account of the District; and is not a payroll account (1T-46).

Sarah Schiavone is the advisor or custodian of associated student accounts; she receives a stipend for this duty. She testified for the Respondents. Schiavone succeeded Sylvia McInerney as the custodian of student accounts in July 2017. She testified that she has never been made aware of district policy #1314, "Fundraising by Outside Organizations" and she testified that the first time she saw the policy was during this proceeding.

As Custodian of Accounts, Schiavone is responsible for maintaining the student accounts for accuracy, accepting deposits, and writing and signing checks. Schiavone described the following procedures for depositing and withdrawing funds to or from the associated student account. According to Schiavone, upon her receipt of a check for deposit, she stamps it, takes it to the bank for deposit, and writes the transaction in the appropriate account ledger. Schiavone testified that the deposited money goes into a group of accounts such as the soccer account, the student government's account, or the future educators' account, et cetera. She stated that the deposit process occurs two to three times a week and is a common and transparent process. For withdrawing money from the account, the coach, adviser or other requester fills in a request form on the school's website, identifying the requester's name, date, team or activity name, payee, and the dollar amount. (2T15-16) The requester then prints the form and takes it to Schiavone. Schiavone signs the check and has High School Principal Ed Lazzara or another administrator sign it. She indicated that a second signature is always required for the simultaneous co-signing of the request (B14) and the check (B16). The co-signature must be by one of the following four positions: (3T14; 28-29)

- Business Administrator
- Superintendent of Schools
- Vice Principal of Belvidere HS
- Principal of Belvidere HS

Moreover, Schiavone testified that she is audited yearly and the Board reviews her paperwork monthly. (3T20, 22, 24, 25) The custodian stated that it is not her job to analyze whether a check drawn on one of the student accounts is appropriate or inappropriate. She maintained that her job is to be the administrator of the account. (3T27)

Schiavone stated that she is familiar with other teams/organizations that had a check drafted and payable to either a coach or a program administrator within the district. She explained that in her first year as swimming team coach in 2011, a pay-to-play sport, parents were required to pay a hundred dollars which was deposited into the associated student account – Schiavone testified that her stipend was paid from this account. (3T-23)

The associated student accounts are not payroll accounts and there are no payroll deductions made from any of the checks that are issued from the accounts that she oversees. Athletic Director Brian Staples acknowledged that he was aware of the Board's directive that proceeds from fundraisers should not be placed in the associated student accounts wherever a booster club exists. However, there were several teams that had both a booster club account and an associated student account. Staples agreed that the boys' soccer associated student account existed before the Snap fundraiser. (2T29-30; 39) To his knowledge none of the Board's funds were used to compensate Poyer.

History of District Fundraising

The Belvidere High School's athletic teams and/or booster clubs had sponsored several fundraisers in the past. Poyer testified that the first SnapRaise fundraiser was held for the softball team, followed by fundraisers for baseball, boys' and girls' soccer, and the cheerleading squad. He maintained that all of the fundraisers were conducted by Snap. All fundraised monies were either deposited into the teams' booster club account or its student activities account; the latter, if the team was not supported by a booster club. (3T101, 102, 105)

The Events of 2018

In 2018, Poyer applied for a paid position as an assistant coach with the girls' soccer team.[3] Superintendent Carrubba stated that he and Athletic Director Chris Karabinus considered Poyer for the position but did not recommend his appointment because the then current assistant coach had been serving in that position for five years and was better suited to be in the position. Poyer filed a grievance (2T50) over his non-appointment.

While Poyer's grievance was pending, on August 13, Carrubba observed Poyer coaching a boys' soccer scrimmage and asked Karabinus if Poyer had been approved by the Board for the volunteer coaching position. Karabinus responded in the negative. On August 29, 2018, a meeting was held with Karabinus, head boys' soccer coach Dempsey, BEA President Judy Black and Poyer. The same day, after the meeting, Carrubba sent Poyer an interoffice memorandum with the Subject: Unapproved Coach – Soccer (B3). The memo states in part, [3] Poyer testified that he applied for the position of Head Coach of the girls' soccer team when the head coach resigned. (3T-99) However, Carrubba testified that he applied for the position of assistant head coach, a paid position. I credit Carrubba.

> This will confirm our meeting on Wednesday August 29, 2018. Also present at that meeting were Chris Karabinus, Athletic Director, Dan Dempsey, Head Boys' Soccer Coach, and Judy Black, BEA President.
> ... At that time, I spoke with you about your volunteering as a soccer coach, actively coaching during a practice/game, when you had not received approval from the Board of Education to do so.
>
> Coaching and volunteer coaches need to be approved by the Board of Education.

The same day, the superintendent sent head boys' soccer coach Dempsey a memo (B4) repeating the message in Poyer's memo and adding that,

> ... At that meeting, we discussed a volunteer soccer coach who was not approved by the Board of Education but was coaching on the soccer field during a practice/game.
> ... As I stated, better judgment will need to be used. Coaching and volunteer coaches need to be approved by the Board of Education.

The superintendent stated that during a Board meeting of September 12, 2018, to discuss Poyer's grievance, Poyer expressed an interest in being the boys' assistant soccer coach. The Board approved Poyer as a volunteer assistant coach for the 2018-2019 school year for the boys' soccer team. In exchange for this appointment, Poyer withdrew his grievance concerning his non-appointment as the girls' soccer team assistant coach. The Board stated that Poyer's "request" for this assignment was disingenuous as he was already serving as a "volunteer" since at least August 13, 2018, when Superintendent Carrubba witnessed Poyer on the field coaching. (J1, p.5).

Dempsey and Poyer first learned about the SnapRaise fundraising program from Coach Feldman, who then coached the baseball team. Feldman also introduced Poyer to Snap Representative Tim Shonis (3T103) who had managed the baseball fundraiser. Shonis explained to Poyer that Snap fundraising is an email-based program similar to a GoFundMe fundraiser. The superintendent described the online fundraising as a system where parents, grandparents, or anyone is asked to donate funds specifically for this cause. He explained that the idea of Snap is to raise as much money as possible in a very quick time frame. Carrubba testified that the District had conducted a Snap fundraiser by one of its sports teams the previous season – and, to the objection of a few of its Board members because those members did not like the way funds were solicited.

The participating student athletes each supply 20 email addresses to Snap and then Snap does a solicitation via email. Shonis arranged with Poyer to meet with the members of the soccer team on Monday, August 20 after practice. There is no record evidence that either Dempsey or Poyer asked for permission for this meeting from any member of the district administration.

Board Exhibit B-7 is an email sent to Poyer from Snap Raise to be passed along to the team members. The cover page email states, > Attached is the SnapRaise email form. You need to print out this form if you were not at practice today. This is a fundraiser that is very easy and lucrative. All you need to do is collect 20 emails before practice on Monday. . .

Attached to this email was a form to be completed by the soccer player with email addresses. The prefatory language states, "Participants Expectation": "I expect you all to show your effort and support by participating!" Poyer emailed the cover note and attachment to each of the players. Poyer testified that he did not compose the language on the form; it was prepared by SnapRaise! The Superintendent believed that the statement on B-7 stating the coach "expected team members to participate" exploited the "teacher-to-student" relationship -- referring to item #7 of the Board's Code of Ethics policy. Carrubba testified that he would have liked Poyer to delete that sentence (1T-126). But there is nothing in the record that suggests there was an opportunity for Poyer to insist that the sentence be modified or deleted.

A second email, B-8 was distributed to the players (and donors) sometime later. According to B-8, a goal had been set between Poyer and SnapRaise to raise $4,000 for the boys' soccer team in 2018. However, as B8 notes, the actual gross amount raised by the fundraiser was $6,560. The cover page thanks contributors for their support and states that donations "will go towards the end of the year team banquet, awards, and player trophies. Donations are vital for the success of our program." Under the section, "Personal message", the email states,

> Belvidere Soccer family, friends and fans. Thank you each for taking the time to view our fundraiser page. Your support will help us offer a higher quality experience for all our athletes. Your donation is greatly appreciated and you will be getting a receipt for your gift. If you could please spread the word about our fundraiser by sharing it with your friends on Facebook and Twitter we would greatly appreciate it. Our young men here have been working hard to properly represent this great school and Belvidere Soccer. Any support is greatly appreciated. Go County Seaters. Coach Poyer

The second page makes suggestions about how specific given amounts might be used. The suggested benefits include team awards, team spirit-wear, team snacks, etc. Both Poyer and Dempsey denied that Poyer composed the personal messages in B7 or B8 or typed his name on it. Both maintain these were generic statements written by Snap and were also used in the baseball team's fundraiser. The superintendent believed the Snap form was prepared by Snap but then edited by Poyer (1T114; B7). Again, there is no evidence in the record to support this claim.

Carrubba believed that Poyer actually solicited the student athletes and encouraged them to give money to the Snap Fundraiser (1T115). However, there is no evidence in the record to support this theory. Dempsey testified that neither he nor Poyer asked any members of the team for money. Additionally, Carrubba's theory was that Dempsey and Poyer "cooked up" the fundraising scheme specifically so that Dempsey could obtain compensation for Poyer's unpaid coaching assignment. However, according to Dempsey, Poyer never asked him to arrange for compensation for his efforts as the assistant soccer coach. Poyer, for his part, denied any beforehand knowledge that he would receive money until he actually received the check. (2T106-108) He testified that he was surprised and "taken aback" by the booster club's gesture. Poyer and Dempsey impressed me as honest and straightforward witnesses. I credit Dempsey and Poyer. While I do not discredit Carrubba's genuinely held beliefs, the Employer has presented no proofs any that either conspiracy theory is accurate.

SnapRaise raised $6,560 in contributions. However, because the total amount raised is decreased by the percentage that Snap takes for administering the fundraising program, the net given to the team was $4797. In actuality, 26.8% of the proceeds went to Snap ($6,560 – $4,797 = 1763/6560 = 26.8%). Dempsey stated that Snap's administrative percentage of the proceeds was posted on the website (3T116-117).

In August of 2018, the Athletic Director was Chris Karabinus. Carrubba testified that the fundraiser conducted in August of 2018 was not submitted in advance to Karabinus for approval and subsequent approval by the superintendent and ultimately, the Board. However, during direct examination, Karabinus testified that Dempsey told him about the Snap Raise fundraiser on August 16, 2018 (2T56).

Both Patty Toth and Patti Grafer testified that the booster club unanimously supported using SnapRaise to raise funds for the soccer team. The record is unclear about when or how Toth and Grafer first learned about the plan to raise money through SnapRaise or the extent of their involvement in the planning with SnapRaise.

Poyer took the lead in coordinating between the Belvidere soccer team and SnapRaise. Upon completion of its fundraising efforts on behalf of the Belvidere soccer team, SnapRaise contacted Poyer to find out who the check should be made payable to and a tax identification number. Poyer consulted with Dempsey. Dempsey testified that since they did not have the booster club's tax identification information available to them at that time, it would be okay to use the school's identification number. Dempsey explained that that information was readily available because SnapRaise had made the funds check payable to the school for prior fundraisers and there had been no problems. Dempsey told Poyer to tell SnapRaise to make the check payable to Belvidere High School and to use its tax identification number.

Upon receipt of the check from SnapRaise, Dempsey took the check to Schiavone and completed paperwork for its deposit. Schiavone deposited the check into the soccer team's student activities account.

Dempsey told Toth that he had just received the Snap fundraiser check for $4,797.70 – made out to the Belvidere High School. Dempsey informed her that he deposited the check into the boys' soccer associated student account. Toth testified that she contacted Grafer and asked her if she was aware that the money from the Snap fundraiser had been deposited into the school's associated student account. According to Toth, Grafer responded, "Absolutely not, that cannot happen, it's our fundraiser, it needs to go into our account as the booster club account." (3T47).

Toth testified that some parents were accusing Dempsey and Poyer of trying to hide booster funds from the booster club by depositing them in the school activities fund (3T50). Toth maintained that the booster club knew this was untrue as it knew that the money was mistakenly deposited into the student account rather than the booster club.

On or about October 16, 2018, Toth received an email from a parent of a soccer player asking how much money was raised by the fundraiser and what the booster club planned to do with the funds (R5). That same day, Toth sent Dempsey an email regarding dates for the season banquet. Toth also relayed to

Dempsey that parents had begun asking how much the club raised by the SnapRaise and what the club's plans were on allocating the monies. Dempsey suggested the following ideas for the Snap fundraising money: (R5)

> Coach Poyer has volunteered his time to continue being a full-time assistant coach with the boys' soccer team. He is a valuable asset to the boys' soccer program. I think it would be nice to reimburse Coach Poyer for his time.
> Maybe new warmups or team shirts for next season. ...

Toth responded to Dempsey:

> Of course to Coach Poyer. How much would that be? And is that something you will take care of? . . .

Toth and Grafer both testified that the booster club unanimously agreed to provide money to Poyer. Staples testified that he had spoken with Tracy Linder and that she said the booster club had not agreed to give Poyer money. Linder's written statement was not submitted into evidence in this matter and Linder did not testify. Therefore, Staples claim about what Linder told him is merely hearsay. I credit Toth and Grafer that the booster club had agreed to provide a sum of money to Poyer. Toth testified that the club was willing to go to a maximum of $3,000. However, Dempsey informed Toth that he would speak with the athletic director and other coaches before he would recommend a specific amount for Poyer. Dempsey told Toth that there were sufficient funds in the student activities account to cover it and that he would let Toth and the school administrator know of the recommended amount for their approval. (R5)

Dempsey originally thought that $2,500 was an appropriate amount to pay Poyer. However, Dempsey learned from Coach Feldman that the volunteer assistant baseball coach had been paid $3,000 and, after his conversation with Toth, Dempsey decided that somewhere in the middle would be a fair amount -- $2,750. (2T109; 154) Dempsey got back to Toth with that suggested amount and explained his rationale. Toth confirmed the booster club's approval for payment to Poyer in the amount of $2,750.

Toth testified that she considered Poyer's money as a gift from the booster club and not compensation. She stated that she assumed that if it was pay, it would have to be from the school district's payroll account (3T66-67). Toth maintained that none of the remainder of the SnapRaise money was used for other booster club purposes because the remained funds were in the Board's associated student account and the club could not get access to it (3T77).[4] She indicated that if the money had been deposited initially into the booster club account, the booster club would have written Poyer the check for $2,750. (3T78).

[4] Dempsey and Poyer of course could also not get access to the Associated Student Account money after their suspension as they were prohibited from being on school property.

Dempsey testified that, in addition to Assistant Coach Poyer, the boys' soccer team had a second assistant coach who volunteered for the team. Assistant Coach Fred Bartow was not otherwise affiliated with the Belvidere School District and volunteered on a part-time basis. The booster club gave Bartow a gift of $25 at the end of the season. Dempsey explained the disparity between the amount Poyer received ($2,750) and the amount that Bartow received. He maintained that Poyer coached on a full-time basis. Every practice, Poyer worked with his goal-keepers and he also traveled with the team to both their home and away games. Dempsey stated that Bartow, who was not otherwise a district employee, only worked on a part-time basis and was not at every practice and was not at every game. (2T109-110) Dempsey also explained that Bartow had received free ski passes to travel with the ski club, which Dempsey also coaches.

After the booster club approved the money for Poyer, Dempsey filled out the associated student account request form and submitted it, along with an invoice, stating that the purpose of the money was to reimburse Poyer for his time and efforts as the boys' soccer assistant coach. Schiavone printed the system-generated request form which Dempsey signed. Schiavone signed the request form and the check.

Schiavone stated that on a Monday she had had received four checks and companion requests for disbursement forms which required an administrator's signature. One of the four checks was Poyer's check in the amount of $2,750. Schiavone explained that she met Lazzara in front of the basketball court where he was watching a field hockey game. Sitting with Lazzara was Carrubba, Business Administrator Rochelle Tjalma, current and former athletic directors Staples and Karabinus, and Vice-Principal Jesse McKenny. When Carrubba saw her, he laughed and stated, "We know what you're after; you're after signatures." According to Schiavone, she asked all of them, "Who wants to sign?" Carrubba responded, "It's Ed's [Lazzara's] job, he can do it." She handed Lazzara the stack of the four checks and paperwork for his review and signature – the principal signed everything within a couple of minutes. (3T30)

The custodian then delivered Poyer's check to Dempsey. At the end of the soccer season, possibly at the awards banquet, Poyer was presented with the check.[5] (B14; B16; R3; 2T111-112; 2T114-116).

Toth asked Grafer to speak to Tjalma to have the fundraising monies transferred to the right account. Grafer called Tjalma and left a voicemail for her requesting that she write the booster club a check for full amount deposited from [5] Poyer could not recall exactly when he was handed the check, but he recalled that he was surprised by it.

the fundraiser; and, in turn, the club would send the Board a check to cover the cost of what the club gave to Poyer (3T48). Grafer eventually spoke to Tjalma by phone. Grafer explained the whole situation regarding the SnapRaise funds being incorrectly deposited into the Board's associated student account. Grafer told Tjalma,

> If this is an issue, please cut the check that was given to you; I will, in turn, cut you a check for what was given to Coach Poyer, which we agreed to do as an organization.

Grafer said that Tjalma replied, "I'll get back to you."

That was the last time Grafer heard from the Board Secretary (3T88). Toth testified that the Snap fundraising monies were not transferred back to the club. The club then asked for the remainder of the funds to be returned; that did not happen either.

Schiavone confirmed that of the "$4,000-something" that was put into the soccer account from the Snap fundraiser, the remainder of the money has never been withdrawn or given back to the soccer booster club. The money still remains in the boys' soccer association student account.[6] Expenses for the end-of-season banquet and awards were paid for from the booster club's funds.[7] [6] Schiavone maintained that she would not categorize the student-associated accounts as district funds since the district has not paid into the accounts.

[7] The booster club account is a rollover account in which the end-of-year balance is carried over to the following year.

Dempsey explained that the check to Poyer in 2018 was not the first occasion that a Belvidere sports team offered payment to one of its volunteer coaches. In 2015, when Poyer was a volunteer assistant softball coach, funds were raised and deposited into the student activities account. Lazzara and McInerney were the two signatories on the check for Poyer, the latter being the former custodian of the associated student account. Neither one ever expressed any concerns to Dempsey that it was inappropriate to have dedicated funds to compensate a volunteer assistant coach. Dempsey received the signed check from McInerney and turned it over to Poyer. In 2017, the baseball team raised money and $3,000 was given to the assistant coach. (2T59)

Grafer testified that previously the booster clubs had gifted both the volunteer assistant baseball coach and volunteer pitching coach for the season. She testified that the pitching coach was brought in from another school (3T90).

Sometime in the fall of 2018, there was a conversation among administrators in the hallway of the high school. The conversation included Carrubba, Lazzara, Staples, and Karabinus. Karabinus was asked, "Did Andy Poyer get paid?" Karabinus replied, "I do not know if Andy Poyer got paid. Let me go ask Dan (Dempsey)". The former athletic director went to the gym and asked Dempsey. Dempsey confirmed that Poyer had been paid. (2T49)

Carrubba testified that he became aware of a fundraiser for the boys' soccer team in the fall of 2018 when he received a phone call from newly-appointed Athletic Director Brian Staples. Staples reported to Carrubba that he had received a phone call from a concerned parent who had attended the end-of-season banquet for the soccer team. The parent told Staples that she was upset because the banquet was a potluck and there was no formal place to hold the banquet. The parent relayed to Staples that she understood the proceeds from the fundraiser were going to be used to cover part of the expense of the banquet. The parent asked Staples if the school could take a look at the fundraiser.

Staples testified that the parent also wanted to know why a certain coach received a certain amount of money and questioned how the funds were being distributed (2T7). Staples testified that he spoke to outgoing Athletic Director Karabinus along with the superintendent about the phone call. [8]

The superintendent asked Staples to conduct an investigation into the matter. Staples went to Dempsey and asked him about Poyer receiving money from the fundraiser. Dempsey informed Staples that this type of payment had been done in the past. Staples testified that at first Dempsey made no mention of paying the money back; however, sometime later, he told Staples that they would pay the money back if that would help all of this to go away (2T41).

Staples called the members of the boys' soccer booster club – Patty Toth, Patti Grafer and Tracy Linder -- to ask them what they knew about the decision to pay Poyer. He asked the members to email him detailed recollections of what had transpired. Staples stated that he received emails from the boys' soccer booster club[9] and forwarded Toth's, Grafer's and Linder's emails to Carrubba. Staples mentioned that he did not remember speaking with Toth after he received her email. However, on cross-examination, Staples testified that he had spoken to both Toth and Grafer after receipt of their emails (2T21). Staples maintained that he believed the emails to be accurate. (2T14; B25, 26). Staples also collected booster club by-laws and testified that he gave all the information to Superintendent Carrubba.

Booster Club Treasurer Grafer sent an email to Staples on December 17, 2018 regarding the situation with Dempsey and Poyer. Grafer maintained that when she did not receive the 2018 Snap fundraiser proceeds in the form of a check to deposit into the booster club account, she was quite upset and questioned how that had happened. Grafer said that she was informed by Toth that Dempsey had deposited the funds into the associated student activities account. Grafer believed that when the SnapRaise account was set up, Poyer mistakenly gave Snap the school's tax ID instead of the booster club's tax ID. She said that the check was made payable to the Belvidere High School when the rightful payee should have been the BHS Soccer Booster Club. Grafer maintained that the funds were raised by the families and belonged to the booster club to use at its discretion – without need for approval from any member of the school administration or school board. Grafer's email (B26) to Staples read in part:

> My name is Patti Grafer and I am the current treasurer for the BHS Soccer Booster Club. I am writing you in regards to the current situation with Coach Dempsey and Coach Poyer.
> We decided to try the Snap raise fundraiser like other sports teams have done. Plain and simple. Absolutely nothing wrong or dishonest about that. When I did not receive the proceeds in the form of a check to deposit into the booster club account, I inquired where the check was. I was informed by Patti Toth that Coach Dempsey stated the funds were deposited into the student activities account. I was quite upset and questioned how that happened. Apparently when the snap raise account was set up, mistakenly the tax I.D. from the school was used and not the soccer booster club tax I.D. As to which the coaches have now learned to be an absolute mistake. The check was made payable to the school and not the rightful payee the BHS Soccer Booster club. Those funds were raised by the families and belonged to the booster club to be used at our discretion. Without need for approval by any member of the school or school board. When I discussed this situation, I was told not to worry and that the money was earmarked for soccer and checks would be written out at and per our request. I should have fought them to have our funds returned to us at that time and we would not be here now.

We, AS A BOARD, decided unanimously to purchase senior gifts and decorate for senior night, have a banquet free for all players and families/friends, give gifts to all coaches at the banquet, earmark money for new warm ups and t-shirts for next year and pay Coach Poyer for all his time and dedication. There was no fraud committed and no hidden agenda. We are by no means the first club to pay an assistant coach for all their hard work, time and dedication. I can provide proof of that if needed or requested. ...

When I heard of the wrongful accusations made against Coach Dempsey and Coach Poyer on December 14, I reached out to School business Administrator/Board Secretary Rochelle Tjalma to discuss the financial aspect of this problem. I suggested a very simple resolve. Reimburse the booster club our funds from the Snap fundraiser and I, in turn, would write a check to BHS High School for the monies paid to Coach Poyer.

There is NO wrongdoing or ill intent on the part of the coaches. They did what they believed to be the correct process. I further would like to know how all the people involved with the approval process of paying Coach Poyer are not suspended and being held accountable as well. If this was not permissible how was it approved? ...

In closing, I again would like to emphasize the monies were wrongfully deposited into the student-activities account and belong to the booster club. These funds should be used at OUR discretion, not the schools. There was no misuse of these funds by the coaches – just misplacement of the funds. The soccer booster club will gladly refund the school $2,750 as soon as our monies ($4,797.70) are returned to us.

Patti

On December 18, 2018, Staples spoke to Grafer and thanked her for her email. He told Grafer that the information would hopefully resolve the issue quickly. The athletic director asked Grafer if she could provide the booster club minutes which addressed the approval of Poyer's pay and payments for gifts, payments, et cetera. Grafer had no further communication from Staples or any member of the District's administration.

Toth's emailed responses to Staples' questions are as follows:

> At no point did Coach Poyer or Coach Dempsey "assume"or "proceed to request money" for Coach Poyer without going through the proper channels to do so. As one of the chairs of our Boys Soccer Club, I was pointedly asked by Coach Dempsey if it were acceptable for him to provide money to Coach Poyer for his assistance as Coach during our season. My reply, without hesitation,was OF COURSE!! ... In addition, the Senior Night events/gifts were purchased for the boys. The banquet for our boys was also paid for in full for both familiesand players.
> Most of the info (on the Snap Raise form) isprepopulated.
>
> On a personal note, I must say, I am appalled at the domino effect that has transpired over the course of several days. The reputation and integrity of the Head Coach and teacher in your district for over 25 years, is now, in question. He asked us, the Booster Club representatives, he did not assume nor decide on his own to pay Coach Poyer! He went through the proper channels, and got the administration to sign off as well, that was required.
> In addition, I am equally appalled that a coach, who VOLUNTEERS his time cannot be recognized by a booster club that has raised their funds for the betterment of their own organization, in this case our boys' soccer team. ... Coach Poyer showed up every day! Every practice! Every game! Every meeting! Every Screening. Coaching, Advising. Helping. Even in the absence of Coach Dempsey a few times. This is having a direct impact on our team!!! I don't care about soccer balls and beautiful warm ups suits, I care about our players getting the best of the best. ... We may not have the best of seasons, but these coaches brought out the best intheir players. A man of few words, my son said it best during his Captain speech at the banquet ... he thanked ALL his coaches for always being there for him and believing in him since he began playing on the varsity team his freshman year - for helping him become not only a better player, but a better person - not just on the field, but off the field as well. For teaching him the meaning of respect as a player, as a Captain - giving it and receiving it.

You can't put a price tag on that. ... It should be noted here as well that Coach Dempsey had earmarked some of the money raised this year for attire for next year as well. Coaches make a difference. Doesn't matter if they are paid or volunteer. Belvidere needs to get their heads out of the sand. ...

... But, if the need is take good men down – like Coach Dempsey and Coach Poyer - AND then go so far as to question the paying of a volunteer coach, then it will not be just boys soccer! Our sports program(s) APPRECIATE the dedication of all their coaches. ...

... Families are the ones raising the monies, not the school. ... What they don't understand is the monies raised are carried over year to year. As a committee AND with the input of our coaches, we stand by the money we spent: Coach Poyer, Senior Night, Banquet and the knowledge of ear marked funds for next year based upon request from Coach Dempsey for either new warm ups and/or team shirts. (B25)

Sincerely,
Patty Toth

On March 6, 2019, Grafer forwarded the email that she sent to Staples to Board President Shawn McInerney. She told McInerney that she had sent the email to Staples on December 17 and was not convinced that her email was ever received or if McInerney had time to review her comments. Grafter informed

McInerney that her email did not include the fact that the soccer booster club had documentation regarding its approval to pay Coach Poyer. In addition, she stressed the importance of McInerney and the board members reaching out to both her and Toth to access the documentation. (B26)

By email of March 6, 2019, Toth also forwarded her email sent to Staples in December to Board President McInerney. Toth's email to McInerney provides in relative part, as follows: (B25)

> The below is the letter I sent to Staples back in December. After much thought and consideration, I am not fully convinced one or all of you have seen this letter. ... I do believe you should reach out to Patti Grafer and Tracy Linder for their letters as well. In addition, we also have emails throughout the season with exchanges regarding how monies collected would be spent, and where, and lastly and most importantly, the email exchange of Coach Dempsey asking us permission for approving pay for Coach Poyer's time spent with the players during the season. I would also like to note here that the total monies collected from that one email fundraiser – you will see by clicking the below link, the total monies raised NOT the money amount we received after the company took its cut. A PORTION of the final money received actually went to Coach Poyer and the remaining funds from that fundraiser is STILL IN THE SCHOOL ACTIVITIES FUND when it should have been put into the boys' booster club fund. I do know that Patti Grafer reached out to Shelly Taljma to have that money put back into our correct account, but I will leave that for Patti to discuss.
> I respectfully withheld reading it at a public forum based on advisement and basically being shut down by the board attorney. ... But in order to understand what fully transpired, I felt sending this out was the route to take.
> Patti Toth

Staples initially could not understand why, if the booster cub raised the money, it had not deposited the funds into its own account and written checks to distribute the money itself. According to Staples, after he read exhibits B7 and B8, he came to believe that the coaching staff had raised the money.[10] Moreover, Staples asked other coaches if they had a similar practice of giving gifts to volunteer coaches to which they responded, "yes". The director acknowledged that Dempsey had told him that the volunteer assistant baseball coach had received a $3,000 payment in the past (2T23).

According to Staples, during his conversation with Linder about her email in response to his questions, she told him, (2T45)

> We had no idea that it was going to be used to compensate Poyer. We were made aware of it, but didn't have an opinion on it. If it had gone in our booster club account, I can assure you the amount would have been reflective of what the other coaches received.

Staples testified that Dempsey informed him about his decision to pay Poyer $2,750 -- which was in line with what the baseball coach give his assistant coach the year before. He stated that the baseball team has a booster club and that other teams had used SnapRaise to raise funds. Staples maintained that Poyer knew when he accepted the volunteer coaching position that he would not be compensated by the Board of Education; however, Staples believed that Poyer already knew by this point that he would receive compensation at the end of the season from the fundraiser. (2T26) However, there is no direct evidence in the record which supports this claim.

[10] Staples testified that he never received the top email in exhibit B26 which is comments from Grafer sent to Board President McInerney.

Staples was aware that Carrubba was concerned with the disparity in the amount of money that Dempsey recommended the booster club approve to pay Poyer, as opposed to Assistant Coach Bartow. (2T76)

Staples turned over exhibit B7 and B8 to Carrubba, B7 is a copy of Poyer's email to the soccer team members regarding the Snap fundraiser. The second page contained the sentence concerning Poyer's expectations that all of the players would show effort and their support by participating in the fundraiser. Carrubba testified that he was troubled by this as it appeared to exploit the relationship between coach and student. B8 is the email to student athletes and Snap fundraiser contributors detailing some of the things the funds might provide and thanking people for their support. It contains a personal note which ends with "Coach Poyer, 8/18/18." Carrubba felt that this document deceived donors about where the funds would be going. The superintendent observed that he did not see any reference in either email that referred to the booster club.

As part of the superintendent's examination into the associated student accounts, Carrubba learned that a similar check for the amount of $2,500 was issued to Poyer in May of 2015 from the girls' softball account. Carrubba maintained that in 2015, Poyer was a volunteer girls' softball coach. Exhibit B20 is an associated student account check request dated May 22, 2015 from Dempsey to the Belvidere High School and payable to Poyer in the amount of $2,500.[11] The request form is annotated as: "Softball Coach Instructor's Fee." Carrubba maintained that Poyer was not entitled to an instructor's fee since he was a volunteer coach. The superintendent stated that he examined the three-year ledger and the money was disbursed as a check to Poyer (B21).

Staples and Carrubba examined associated student accounts soccer account ledger to determine what had happened to the money. They followed the trail of the requisition for a check and then the check itself through the accounts (B14; 1T66). The request was for a check in the amount of $2,750 from the boys' soccer club associated student account and made payable to Poyer. It was learned that both Dempsey and High School Principal Lazzara signed the request (B14). Carrubba testified that once the form is completed, it is submitted to Associated Student Account Custodian Sarah Schiavone. According to Carrubba, the custodian then prints out the form and Lazzara signs it. Carrubba acknowledged that Dempsey and Lazzara signed off on the form both openly and publicly. Once the form is complete Schiavone writes a check to be signed by Principal Lazzara and herself. (B16) This was done and check #4053 dated November 2 was written as payable to Poyer and signed by Lazzara and Schiavone (B16).

Carrubba agreed that at the time of the check being drafted, that Dempsey had, to the best of Carrubba's knowledge, followed the procedure set forth in the district's policies and did so openly.

Carrubba maintained that neither Dempsey nor Poyer requested permission from him or anyone else in the district's chain of command, to raise the money, deposit the money, and withdraw the money for the purpose that it was used. Carrubba testified that he did not have any reason to believe that Poyer asked Dempsey for the money. Carrubba believed that Dempsey did want to give Poyer some money. The Superintendent stated that he never identified whether any other coaches had paid or given money to volunteer assistant coaches in the past; nor did Carrubba ask the custodian of the associated student account, if she was aware of any other instances within the district where these type of payments occurred. Carrubba testified that he did not take disciplinary action against anyone else who paid a coach or gave money to a coach out of a student funds account.

In 2015, the check for $2,500 to Poyer was signed by Principal Lazzara[12]; in 2018, Lazzara and Schiavone both signed the check for $2,750. Carrubba acknowledged that Lazzara had a letter of reprimand placed in his file – however, no tenure charges were filed and no suspension was mandated. (1T96). Carrubba testified that he had no evidence that Poyer played any role in Dempsey's decision-making process (1T98). The superintendent believed that Dempsey sought approval from specific members of the booster club, but not the entire club.

In the course of Carrubba's investigation, he stated that he had received documents from Toth and Grafer. The superintendent said that the emails he received from Toth and Grafer defended the $2,750 payment to Poyer. Both Toth and Grafer characterized the payment as "pay". Carrubba again stated that Belvidere volunteers do not receive pay; the Board did not authorize the payment to Poyer; and, Poyer never applied for a position with the boys' soccer team for which he would have been paid.

Carrubba testified that the Dempsey and Poyer matter was referred to the Warren County Prosecutor's Office for an investigation. Ultimately, the County determined not to pursue criminal charges.

The Interviews

Carrubba stated that he interviewed both Poyer and Dempsey and made notes contemporaneously with the meetings (B12-13). On December 17, 2018, Carrubba met with Poyer. Other attendees were Principal Lazzara, Athletic Director Brian Staples, and BEA President Judy Black.

Carrubba stated that when he interviewed Dempsey and Poyer, that neither one of them mentioned that Poyer had previously received a check in 2015. In fact, Carrubba maintained that he asked Dempsey if the practice of compensating other coaching volunteers from a student account had occurred in the past – and testified that his question was asked in general, unspecific terms and was not pinned to any one staff employee.

Carrubba initially testified on direct examination that Dempsey had told him that he had never done it. Upon the cross-examination, however, Carrubba, acknowledged that he had asked Dempsey if the policy of giving or paying an assistant coach had happened in the past - - to which Dempsey replied, "Never in soccer, but did in softball." (B12)

The superintendent testified that he asked Dempsey why he thought a contribution should be made to Poyer as compared with the money given to Bartow. Carrubba stated that Dempsey told him that Bartow, one assistant that Carrubba specifically questioned, did not work nearly as much time as Poyer. (1T-84-85) Dempsey told Carrubba that Poyer went to every practice, every game, and every away game; however, the superintendent does not know that to be fact since Poyer was suspended for three weeks and could not attend every game and every practice. Dempsey told the superintendent that once Poyer had served his suspension and was approved as a volunteer coach, he attended all the home and away games and practices.

Carrubba testified that during the interview, Poyer had indicated that a similar baseball team fundraiser had been conducted in the spring of 2018. (B13) Carrubba maintained that Poyer had told him that the Snap fundraising activity was all Dempsey's idea (1T118). Although Carrubba was convinced that Poyer initiated the $2,750 payment to himself and asked for Dempsey's cooperation, he had no factual proof that Poyer had asked Dempsey to write a check from the account and make it payable to Poyer (1T119).

On January 8, 2019, Carrubba met with Dempsey. In attendance was an attorney from the Weiner Law Group and a New Jersey Education Association attorney. Coach Dempsey told Carrubba that he first heard about SnapRaise in the spring during baseball and softball. Dempsey stated that they used the raised softball funds to purchase a new batting cage, new pants for the team and bats. Dempsey maintained that none of the money went to pay coaches. He said that he had paid a softball volunteer prior to the 2017-18 season; but never paid soccer coaches. Dempsey noted that there was no booster club for softball. (B12)

When asked by Carrubba as to why he paid Poyer $2,750, Dempsey replied that originally, he was looking at $2,500; however, since $3,000 was paid to a baseball volunteer this past spring, Dempsey just split the difference and paid him $2,750. Dempsey stated that he had discussed this with Patty Toth, a parent of a school soccer player and a member of the soccer booster club. Dempsey said that Poyer was the only one paid because he was the only full-time volunteer. He mentioned that he did not pay Brad Bartow or other volunteer assistants because Bartow was not a full-time volunteer and did not travel to any away games, as Poyer did. Dempsey mentioned that Bartow also receives ski passes when he goes up to Camelback with the Ski Club. (B12)

Carrubba said that Dempsey informed him that the only parents he communicated with prior to the fundraiser was Toth via email, phone calls and verbal conversations, all done in October of 2018. Dempsey told Carrubba that it was Toth's and his decision to gift Poyer the money during the middle of the season. Dempsey stated that the check was requested at the end of the season and the job description was attached to the back to make sure that everything was "clean". Carrubba maintained that Poyer knew nothing of the money until he was given the check. Dempsey told Carrubba that the SnapRaise check was delivered to the Belvidere school and then was deposited into the associated student account.

Superintendent's Policy Expectations

The superintendent acknowledged that no one from the District administration reviews the District's policies with the faculty unless one of its major policies is updated. Carrubba mentioned the Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) policy and that they spent time reviewing the policy with the staff. Carrubba's stated,

> My expectations is certainly when they [the staff] first come into the position that they should at least make themselves aware of the pertinent policies; and second, as we update the policies, which are on our Board agendas every time we do that, that they will make themselves familiar with that.

Carrubba stated that whenever Board policies are updated, they are listed in the Board's meeting agenda. It was Carrubba's expectation that every teaching member and coach should read every Board agenda. Carrubba testified that although his expectation for the staff and coaches was not put in writing, he relayed his expectation to some of the staff through casual conversation. (1T114). The superintendent acknowledged that when the Board updates or changes a policy, that he sends an email to alert the staff and coaches of the change(s).

Carrubba testified that, to his knowledge, Board Policy 1314, "Fundraising by Outside Activities", was never discussed with the teaching staff or coaches as long as he has been superintendent in the District or for seven years. The Board adopted this policy on September 24, 2014, a little over five years ago. (1T113) Carrubba agreed that both Poyer and Dempsey had been employed in the district for some time and that these policies would not have been published when both men were first employed.

Carrubba believed that there were approximately 5,000 plus District-approved policies on the online portal.[13] The superintendent expects the District staff to be familiar with the Board policies that pertain to the employee's position. Carrubba stated that the teachers should know which policies pertain to them since they are marked specifically as "teacher actions" and "student actions". Carrubba acknowledged that he never sent a memo to any teaching staff instructing them to become familiar with the Board's policies, at least as they apply to teaching staff. The superintendent said that its policies reflect, in part, rules of conduct established by the school district.

Carrubba admitted that he never sits down with his staff or has anyone else sit with his staff to review Board policies and/or the Department of Education's regulations which the superintendent believes are applicable to the teaching staff. Carrubba stated that he believes there are notebooks in every school building that contain the Board-approved policies (1T93).

Poyer stated that he became aware of the policy 1314, "Fundraising by Outside Activities" only through the superintendent's investigation (B6; 3T106). He maintained that during his time as a coach, no one from the administration – including, the athletic director, the building principal or the superintendent ever went over any Board policies with him (3T107).

Dempsey's and Poyer's Employment Contracts

Each of the teachers and staff in the District have annual employment contracts. Exhibit B18 is a copy of Poyer's employment contract for the 2017-2018 school year (September 1, 2017 through June 30, 2018); Exhibit B19 is a copy of Dempsey's employment contract for the same time period. The text of the two contracts are identical except for the employee's name, salary, and any unique features to each person and/or position. The second paragraph of each contract stipulates to the following:

> The Employee hereby accepts the employment aforesaid and agrees to faithfully do and perform duties under the employment aforesaid, and to observe and enforce the rules prescribed for the government of the school by the Board of Education.

Carrubba stated that the staff is required to enforce and uphold all Board-approved policies. He acknowledged that except for new policies or policies of unusual significance, the Board-approved policies are not discussed at its faculty meetings (1T72). Carrubba stated that the Board's policies could be discussed at professional development days but not specifically.

Dempsey stated that he was not aware that the superintendent anticipates the coaches and staff to be familiar with every Board policy by reviewing the policies online. Dempsey said that no superintendent at the District discussed any District policies or even recommended that staff go onto the website to see the policies. (2T122)

Job Descriptions

Carrubba acknowledged that Dempsey's job description (B1) identifies a requirement for a teacher to "Know and carry out the policies, rules, programs and curriculum of his/her school and the district as it may apply to his/her class".

Dempsey acknowledged that he had never seen his job description (B1). And, there is no record evidence that Poyer was ever provided with his job description.

Alleged Previous Discipline

On February 15, 2017, Carrubba informed Poyer via letter that due to an incident between Poyer and a student on or about February 7, 2017, Poyer was instructed to attend an anger management course no later than September 1, 2017. Poyer was warned that his failure to attend the course would result in a loss of increment for the 2017-18 school year. The superintendent stated that it would pay for the anger management course. (B24)

Carrubba also called Poyer in for a discussion about Poyer's future handling of volatile student situations. Carrubba advised Poyer that he must use better judgment and he must report such incidents to the school administrators. However, on February 23, 2017 via letter (B24), Poyer was notified of the Board's executive session findings regarding the incident. The Board made the following decision:

- The HIB incident has been overturned by the Board of Education and will be termed a Code of Conduct incident;

- The two day suspension that was served will become an unpaid suspension;

- You will send a written letter of apology to the student;

- You will attend an anger management program in person, selected by the Administration and paid by you. At the conclusion of the program, you will provide written confirmation of your completion, and;

- You are being placed on a one-year co-curricular probation for any coaching positions that you are holding.

Carrubba testified that in fact, the Board had increased Poyer's penalty.[14] The BEA filed a grievance referring to Poyer's additional discipline as "double jeopardy". Following a Board resolution on May 24, the Board issued Poyer a letter rescinding the discipline in its entirety (B24).

Carrubba acknowledged that Poyer had attended the anger management course in a timely fashion; Poyer had served the two-day "unpaid" suspension – which was ultimately paid by the district; and, the district never moved to withhold Poyer's increment. Poyer also complied with the Board's decision and wrote an apologetic letter to the student concerned in the incident. (B24; 1T119-123) Carrubba agreed that Poyer was never insubordinate and followed the directions of the Board of Education at that time.

Suspension with Intent to Terminate

On September 9, 2018, the superintendent served both Dempsey and Poyer with RICE notices (B9; 1T59-60). In exhibit B9, Poyer was advised that on September 12, the Board would be considering an agenda item that concerned his employment and/or the terms and conditions of his employment. Dempsey's RICE notice was not submitted into evidence.

[14] No evidence was provided substantiating the Board's rationale for increasing Poyer's discipline.

The superintendent stated that he recommended on or about December 14, 2018, that both Dempsey and Poyer be terminated. Carrubba testified that he informed Dempsey and Poyer that they were suspended on December 14, 2018, pending the outcome of its investigation by the Board and the administration, regarding boys' athletics. As a result of their suspension, both employees were denied access to school property. (B17) Carrubba maintained that he suspended both employees for 120 days without pay due to their violations of District's policies.

Tenure Charges

On March 18, 2019, tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination and/or other just cause warranting dismissal and/or reduction in salary, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and NJ.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq were filed against Andrew Poyer and Daniel Dempsey (J1; J2). The tenure charges can be summarized as follows:

The Dempsey Charges:

> Charge 1. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Dempsey conspired with Poyer so that Poyer could profit from his alleged 'volunteer" service.
> Charge 2. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Dempsey failed to obtain approval for payments to be issued to Poyer for his alleged "volunteer" service.

Charge 3. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Dempsey, in a possible attempt to conceal wrongdoing, tried to hinder the District's investigation and/or failed to be truthful during the course of the investigation.

Charge 4. (Cumulative): Dempsey's conduct, when viewed in the aggregate, establishes his unfitness to continue to serve as a teaching staff member because he has exhibited a pattern of wrongful behavior, which includes (at a minimum) conspiring with Poyer for Poyer's personal benefit.

The Poyer's Charges

Charge 1. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Poyer conspired with Dempsey to profit from his alleged "volunteer" service.

Charge 2. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Poyer failed to obtain approval for payments related to his alleged "volunteer" service.

Charge 3. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Poyer, in a possible attempt to conceal wrongdoing, tried to hinder the District's investigation and/or failed to be truthful during the course of the investigation.

Charge 4. (Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause): Poyer conducted himself improperly toward student N.A.

Charge 5. (Cumulative): Poyer's conduct, when viewed in the aggregate, establishes his unfitness to continue to serve as a teaching staff member because he has exhibited a pattern of wrongful behavior, which includes (at a minimum) conspiring with Dempsey for his personal benefit and being deceptive with the District during its investigation.

Charge 22 of Superintendent Carrubba's sworn statement of charges against Dempsey, states,

> As part of said investigation, superintendent met with and questioned the Respondent. During said meeting, Respondent was less than truthful, and attempted to hinder the meeting and overall investigation. In fact, Respondent failed to disclose that he previously provided a similar payment to Mr. Poyer, as set forth in paragraph 19 above, for alleged volunteer services during the 2015 softball program.

Dempsey denied that he was less than candid with the superintendent; did not try to hinder his investigation; and did not conspire with Poyer so that he could profit from his alleged volunteer service. He maintained that he did not, at any time, do anything that was not open and pursuant to Board policy as Dempsey understood the Board policy.

The determination to certify the sworn tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education was authorized by a majority vote of the full membership of the Board of Education. (J1; J2) Each Respondent denied many of the Board's allegations. Poyer and Dempsey were both notified that they had the right to submit written statements of position and evidence, under oath, within 15 days. On March 13, the Board of Education convened a closed executive session meeting and voted to file tenure charges against both Dempsey and Poyer.

ANALYSIS

The relevant events which led to the filing of tenure charges against Dempsey and Poyer began in 2018, when Poyer applied for paid position as an assistant coach with the Belvidere girls' soccer team. When he was not appointed to that coaching position, Poyer filed a grievance. On August 13, 2018, while that grievance was pending, Carrubba observed Poyer coaching a boys' soccer scrimmage. After making inquiries, Carrubba learned that Poyer had not obtained approval from the Board to serve as a volunteer coach prior to assuming that role. Carrubba met with both Poyer and Dempsey, accompanied by their respective representatives, to discuss the issue.

Carrubba memorialized the substance of the meetings in separate memos to each of them (B-3; B-4). The memorandum to Dempsey noted that "better judgment will need to be used" (B-4). Subsequently, on September 12, 2018 the Board approved Poyer's request for appointment as a volunteer assistant coach for the boys' soccer team for the 2018-2019 year and, in exchange, Poyer withdrew his grievance. The Board noted that the request for approval was belated as Poyer had already been coaching at least since August 13, 2018 when Carrubba observed him.

Sometime over the summer of 2018, Dempsey and Poyer learned about a fundraising program called SnapRaise from the coach of the Belvidere baseball team. Like several other sports teams, the boys' soccer team has a Booster Club which functions primarily as a means to raise additional funds for the team. The booster clubs operate independently from the district. The booster club approved the use of SnapRaise to raise money for the soccer team.

Poyer assumed day-to-day responsibility for the SnapRaise fundraiser, and served as primary contact with SnapRaise personnel. Without seeking permission from the school administration, Dempsey and Poyer arranged for a SnapRaise employee to meet with the members of the boys' soccer team after practice on August 20, 2018. Poyer forwarded material about the fundraiser from SnapRaise to the members of the team, including a statement that there was an expectation that every team member would participate (B-7). A second email, which included a "personal message" with "Coach Poyer" at the end was also forwarded; this email stated that donations would be used for "the end of year team banquet, awards, and player trophies" (B-8). The second page of the email made specific suggestions about how specific amounts raised might be used, including team awards, spirit-wear and team snacks.

At the conclusion of the fundraiser, after consultation with Dempsey and Poyer, SnapRaise sent the proceeds by check payable to the Belvidere High School with the district's tax identification number. Dempsey gave the check to Schiavone, who deposited the check in the student associated account for the boys' soccer team.

Dempsey then contacted Toth, the president of the booster club to discuss what to do with the monies which had been raised. As a result of that discussion, Dempsey followed the District's administrative process to have a check for $2,750 issued and made payable to Poyer. Poyer cashed the check.

As the result of a parent's phg9one call to Athletic Director Staples Carrubba learned that Poyer may have been compensated for his role as volunteer coach. He directed Staples to investigate the claim. Staples presented Carrubba with the information he had gathered, including statements from the Booster Club. Carrubba also interviewed Poyer and Dempsey.

The Parties' Arguments

The Board argues that Dempsey and Poyer conspired to provide Poyer with compensation for his "volunteer" coaching activities. In furtherance of their plan, the Board maintains, they set up a fundraiser with SnapRaise, without the involvement of the soccer Booster Club, and positioned Poyer as the intermediary between the fundraising firm and the team. Poyer facilitated a solicitation for the fundraiser which the Board maintains was coercive, and violative of the district's Code of Ethics. In addition, the Board argues, additional communications to the team families and supporters fraudulently stated the purposes for which the monies raised were to be used.

The Board argues that Poyer and Dempsey wrongly deposited the proceeds from the fundraiser into an associated student account, then caused a check to be issued to Poyer from the account, creating potential audit and legal problems for the district. If the monies constituted pay, the Board maintains, then the Board was obligated to withheld taxes and pay employment taxes; and if it was a gift, public funds were used in an inappropriate fashion.

The Board also argues that both men hindered the district's investigation into their activities by failing to be truthful and attempting to conceal their actions. The Board urges that Dempsey and Poyer violated multiple Board policies, which they were obliged to know and follow by the virtue of their job descriptions and employment contracts. The Board maintains that it had just cause, based on the course of conduct of both employers, as well as their lack of remorse for their actions, to dismiss both Dempsey and Poyer from employment. In addition, the Board contends that due to a prior discipline resulting from an incident with a student, Poyer's penalty should be considered in the context of progressive discipline.

The Union maintains that the Board has failed to meet its burden of proving just cause for the dismissal of Dempsey and Poyer. The Union argues that neither Dempsey nor Poyer has any prior discipline in their record. The Union further urges that the Superintendent's credibility is impaired by his action in leaving out critical material relating to the Board's rescission of any disciplinary sanction against Poyer when transmitting the charges to the Commissioner of Education, casting doubt on his motivation for pursuing the charges, as well as his testimony in this proceeding. Additionally, the Union maintains that Dempsey and Poyer did not hinder the investigation, but rather answered the questions which they were asked in a forthright and truthful manner. The Union urges that the District failed to conduct a proper and impartial investigation, and did not consider the statements of Toth and Grafer, which were provided to Staples and eventually to Carrubba and the Board.

The Union notes that the proceeds from the SnapRaise fundraiser were deposited in an associated student account, and although that was a mistake, it was a harmless one. Both Dempsey and Poyer were unaware that the monies should not have been placed in the district's account, but Dempsey's actions in requesting the check and providing it to Poyer were above board, and consistent with what he had done in the past. The Union urges that Dempsey consulted with and obtained approval from the Booster Club President before he requested the issuance of the check, and made a rational decision about how much to give Poyer based on the relative time and efforts of Poyer and other volunteer coaches, as well as gifts made to other assistant coaches.

The Union argues that there was no collusion between Dempsey and Poyer to provide money for Poyer's activities as a volunteer coach, and there was no theft of funds, or fraud committed by either employee. The Union maintains that no discipline is warranted, the charges should be dismissed, and both Dempsey and Poyer should be returned to their teaching and coaching positions. Finally, the Union argues that Dempsey should also be provided with the stipend he would have earned as a coach during the period of his suspension; Poyer, as an assistant coach was not entitled to a stipend from the district, as fully explained above.

DISCUSSION

Charge I

Both Dempsey and Poyer were charged with multiple counts of Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause (J-1 and J-2). Count 1 of Charge I against Poyer specifies that Poyer was aware that he would not be paid for his services as a volunteer coach, that he organized a fundraiser and misrepresented the use to which the funds raised would be applied, and then accepted money for his coaching activities.

Count 2 alleges that Poyer also accepted money for his 2015 service as a volunteer coach for the girls' softball team from the associated student account. At that time, Dempsey was the coach of the girls' softball team (J1).

Charge I against Dempsey is supported by two counts which are identical to Counts 1 and 2 in the Poyer charges, and need not be repeated here (J2).

At the heart of the Board's charges is the allegation that Dempsey and Poyer conceived a plan to provide payment to Poyer for his service as a volunteer coach for the boys' soccer team (J1, Count 1; J2, Count 1). In the Board's view of events, the purpose of the Respondents' actions in conducting a fundraiser was to raise money for Poyer to be paid. The record does not support this assertion, and I decline to infer such a motivation in the absence of any evidence in the record, either direct or circumstantial, of such an objective based on the analysis provided below. Green v. Trenton Psychiatric Hosp., 2006 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 733 (N.J. Adm. 2006).

The record reflects that booster clubs raise funds for athletic teams in order to provide things which are not within the district's budget. Dempsey testified that he learned about SnapRaise from Belvidere baseball coach Feldman, and the record reflects that SnapRaise had previously conducted fundraisers for other teams, including baseball and girls' softball, prior to their activities with the boys' soccer team. It is undisputed that on August 16 2018, Dempsey informed then Athletic Director Karabinus that a fundraiser was being conducted through SnapRaise. I find that this constitutes notice to the administration, since in his capacity as coach, Dempsey would be responsible to report to the athletic director (2T56). The record is unclear about when the booster club knew about the fundraiser, but since Toth and Grafer had sons on the team, they were on notice at least from the time that they received the email fundraiser solicitations which were sent to team members. Both Toth and Grafer maintained that they were aware of and approved of the fundraiser (B25 and 26).

The record also reflects that Poyer took primary responsibility for organizing and facilitating the fundraiser. He signed the contract with SnapRaise, served as the point of contact for them, allowed an email message about participation in the fundraiser with "Coach Poyer" at the signature line to be disseminated, and arranged for a SnapRaise representative to address the team. Poyer's actions, however, are consistent with the goal of the booster club to raise funds to support the team, and are not inconsistent with his role as volunteer coach.

Count 1 of Charge I recites that the solicitation for the fundraiser stated that the donations would be used "towards...[the team's] end of the year... banquet, awards, and player trophies." Count 1 further recites that the solicitation stated that donations would "be used to cover the cost necessary to run a high school program, ...[and] ensure that...[the] athletes get the proper equipment to perform." The allegation is that donations were solicited under false pretenses, because the only money actually distributed from the fundraiser went to Poyer. Carrubba believed the fundraising solicitation was fraudulent in that it specified the things which would be supported by the funds raised, which did not include the payments to volunteer coaches.

Poyer testified that he did not read the solicitations from SnapRaise, including that portion of the email describing what purposes the proceeds would be used for and which ended with a personal message from "Coach Poyer, 8/18/18." (B-8). Additionally, Carrubba felt that the sentence in the solicitation stating Poyer's expectation that "all players would show effort and support by participating in the fundraiser" exploited the relationship between teacher and student, in violation of Board Policy 4112.3 (Code of Ethics).

The pertinent portion of Board Policy 4112.3 provides that:

> In fulfilling our obligations to the student, we ...
> 7. Avoid exploiting our professional relationship with any student.

It was a lapse of judgment for Poyer to allow solicitations from SnapRaise to be sent out with a message which purported to be from him without reviewing the content. However, the unrebutted testimony is that the majority of the information on the solicitation was boilerplate supplied by SnapRaise, and it is unclear that Poyer had an opportunity to make changes in the emails but certainly he could have insisted on such a review. I do not find the statement about expected participation and the need for effort and support by the team to be unduly coercive. Carrubba's concern about the potential conflicts with a teacher's official duties and his/her role as a coach will always be present when one individual occupies both roles. There is nothing in the language of the solicitations, or in the record, that Poyer took any actions which would indicate to the team members that the level of their participation in the fundraiser would be tied in any way to any academic or other assessment which Poyer might make about any individual member.

I do not find that Poyer's failure to review the fundraising documents constitutes conduct which would warrant any disciplinary sanction pursuant to Board Policy 4112.3 (Code of Ethics).

The Board's assertion that the solicitations were fraudulent because the only monies distributed from the fundraiser went to Poyer ignores a significant fact -- after the funds were deposited in the associated student account, the booster club had no access to them. Once they were suspended and barred from school property, neither did Dempsey or Poyer. The fundraising materials stated that the funds would be used for an end of year banquet, awards and player trophies. The record reflects that booster club monies were used for those purposes; however the funds came from those already available to the booster club from their rollover account, since the Board had assumed control of the monies raised in 2018, despite having been advised by Grafer that the Board was holding funds which belonged to the booster club. I also note that Dempsey had raised with Toth in the same conversation about the monies for Poyer's efforts the possibility of purchasing either new warmups or team shirts (B25).

The Board's position also ignores the fact that the boys on the soccer team got the benefit of Poyer's time, efforts and support. The booster club appreciated Poyer's contributions to the team, as Toth indicated, and determined to express their gratitude in the form of a monetary gift. Had they had access to the funds they raised, they might well have also purchased the warmups and/or team shirts that Dempsey alluded to in his conversation with Toth.

The district's action in preventing the booster club from utilizing the proceeds of the fundraiser clearly made it impossible for the club to use those funds in accordance with any of the stated purposes for which they were raised. Although it is true that monetary gifts for members of the coaching staff is not included in the enumerated potential uses for the monies raised in the solicitations, the language that donations would "be used to cover the cost necessary to run a high school program" appears broad enough to include gifts to the coaches (B8). I do not find that the funds raised were the result of a fraudulent solicitation.

The Board also argues that Dempsey and Poyer violated Board Policy 1314 (Fundraising By Outside Organizations) when they permitted a SnapRaise representative to make a presentation to the boys' soccer team without first obtaining the permission of the Superintendent, and further when they deposited the proceeds of the fundraiser in the associated student account.

The pertinent parts of Board Policy 1314 provide as follows:

> No person or organization may solicit funds on school property without prior permission from the Superintendent.
>
> Funds solicited by organizations, not sponsored by the district, are not to be deposited in any regular or special accounts of the district. The Board disclaims all responsibility for the protection of or accounting for such funds. (B6)

Carrubba testified that Dempsey and Poyer were expected to be aware of and required to follow Board policies by virtue of their job descriptions and employment contracts. Dempsey's and Poyer's employment contracts require that they:

> faithfully do and perform all duties under the employment aforesaid, and to observe and enforce the rules prescribed for the government of the school by the Board of Education (B18).

Neither Dempsey nor Poyer could recall having seen their job descriptions (B1; B2).

The question of whether Dempsey and Poyer could reasonably be expected to be familiar with all Board policies, and specifically with Board Policy 1314, must be considered in view of the number and scope of the Board's polices. Carrubba testified that the administration does not review policies with the faculty unless a major policy is updated. Carrubba also testified that there were approximately 5,000 District policies on the online portal, and stated that to his knowledge Policy 1314 was never discussed with teaching staff or coaches during his seven-year tenure as Superintendent. In fact, as Carrubba conceded, Board Policy 1314 was adopted on September 2, 2014, well after Dempsey and Poyer were hired.

Board Policy 1314 does not pertain directly to teaching. However, the requirement contained in the Policy that permission from the administration be obtained when a person or organization solicits on school grounds is a matter of common sense. Whenever a non-employee comes to a school, whether it is a SnapRaise representative speaking to a sports team, or Neil DeGrasse Tyson meeting with the Science Club, security concerns apply. Dempsey and Poyer should have known, as experienced teachers, of the need for such permission regardless of Board Policy 1314. Such permission was not obtained. Although Poyer had assumed the primary responsibility for administration of the SnapRaise fundraiser, I infer that Dempsey would have been aware of the scheduled presence of a SnapRaise representative to address the team after a practice. Dempsey and Poyer thus violated Board Policy 1314 when they permitted a SnapRaise representative to address the boys' soccer team without providing notice to the administration.

There is no evidence, however, that either Dempsey or Poyer knew, or should reasonably be expected to have known, of that provision of Board Policy 1314 which provides that funds "[solicited] by or organizations, not sponsored by the district, are not to be deposited in any regular or special accounts of the district." This prohibition is not one that is a matter of common knowledge. Indeed, based on the fact that Schiavone testified that she was unaware of the Policy, it is evident that even those whose duties involved the payment of funds from school accounts were not award of its existence. I infer that High School Principal Lazzara was apparently also unaware of this policy or was ignoring it when he signed requests and checks to be drawn on the associated student account for the boys' soccer team. The failure of the district to establish that the policy was ever highlighted or disseminated to faculty or coaching staff, or that either Dempsey or Poyer had received the policy, is clearly a mitigating factor. I do not find that either Dempsey or Poyer violated Board Policy 3453 (School Activity Funds) in conducting the fundraiser or by depositing the proceeds of the fundraiser in the ASA account.

The allegation that Dempsey and Poyer committed fraud because the stated purposes for which the funds were raised are at odds with the purposes for which they were used is problematic. The fundraiser proceeds were solicited by SnapRaise for the Booster Club for their use and disbursement. The record amply reflects that the clubs exist to raise additional funding for sports teams which they support. If there were questions about or objections to how the monies raised were spent, the Booster Club, not Poyer and Dempsey were responsible to respond. While Poyer may have effectively managed and supervised the fundraiser, he did so on behalf of the Club.

However, in taking on that responsibility, Poyer should have sought review and approval of the fundraising materials from the club, rather than simply assuming that they were correct and acceptable to the club. To the extent that he failed to do so, he exercised faulty judgment. There is simply no evidence that he committed or was a party to fraudulent fundraising efforts. Poyer did not convert the proceeds of the fundraiser to his own use by having SnapRaise direct the check to him, nor did he solicit monies from either Dempsey or the booster club.

Dempsey appears to have had no direct involvement in the administration of the fundraising drive. While he, like Poyer, should have exercised better judgment by referring the content of the solicitations to the club, his failure to do so is mitigated to a significant degree by his knowledge that SnapRaise had conducted multiple fundraisers for other sports at Belvidere without any reported problems. He did not conceal the fundraiser from the administration, and, in fact, informed the athletic director at or near the inception of fundraising efforts. Although Carrubba testified that some Board members had concerns with prior SnapRaise solicitations, there is nothing in the record that indicates that those concerns were shared with coaches or with the then athletic director.

The proceeds of the fundraiser were sent via check made out to the school district, at the direction of Poyer and with the approval of Dempsey; the check was then mistakenly deposited by Dempsey into a district-controlled student activity account. Dempsey then followed standard Board procedures to request a check for Poyer, after getting approval from Toth to do so.

If, as the Board posits, Dempsey and Poyer devised a scheme to raise funds to compensate Poyer, they could have effectuated that plan by providing the funds to the booster club, as they should have, and having the club provide the check to Poyer. Dempsey's actions in handling the proceeds of the fundraiser were transparent in every respect. Dempsey credibly testified that Poyer never asked him for money for his coaching assistance. Poyer credibly testified that he was surprised to get the check. Even if Poyer had entertained a hope that he might receive some sort of monetary gratuity for his efforts, the fact is that he had no entitlement to such an honorarium, and he could not know that it would be forthcoming.

Count 2 of Charge 1, which is essentially identical in both complaints, specifies that Dempsey and Poyer conspired during the spring of 2015 to provide Poyer with payment in the amount of $2,500 for his services as volunteer coach of the girls' softball team. Dempsey was the coach of the girls' softball team at that time.

The facts surrounding the 2015 payment to Poyer are minimal. The record reflects that on May 22, 2015 Dempsey submitted a check request to the high school administration in the amount of $2,500, payable to Poyer with the annotation "Softball Coach Instructor's Fee" (B20). The check to Poyer was signed by Principal Lazzara and countersigned by another individual whose signature is illegible, but I infer that it may have been the then custodian of accounts, Sylvia McInerney.[15] [15] It is noted that Ms. McInerney and Board President Shawn McInerney share the same last name and may be related in some way.

Poyer was apparently not the only assistant coach who was compensated. In 2018, Coach Feldman arranged for compensation for his volunteer assistant baseball coach in the amount of $3,000. The record does not indicate whether that payment was from a booster club account or from a student associated account. Grafer testified, and stated in an email that booster clubs had provided gifts to both the volunteer baseball coach and the volunteer pitching coach in the past (3T-90). Staples testified that he asked other coaches if they had a practice of providing gifts to volunteer coaches, and was advised that they had done so.

There is no evidence that Dempsey and Poyer conspired to provide this payment to Poyer in 2015. Dempsey utilized the administrative process in place to request a check, made a correct annotation on the check reflecting the purpose of the check, and sent it through the rest of the process. The appropriate signatures were obtained, including that of Lazzara. There is nothing in the record which indicates that any action was taken with respect to the 2018 payment to Feldman's assistant coach.

The handbook Just Cause: The Seven Tests, Adolph Koven and Susan Smith, BNA (2006) outlines and discusses the seven commonly used tests to determine whether discipline was for just cause. The tests are: notice or rule; reasonable rules and orders; investigation; fairness of investigation; proof; equal treatment; and penalty.

For the purposes of evaluating this allegation, test six, "Equal Treatment" is instructive. The test questions whether the employer applied its rules, order and penalties even-handedly and without discrimination to all employees. In this context, the test refers to work rules, and the need for enforcement in a consistent manner unless a reasonable or valid basis exists for a variation in treatment. There is evidence in the record that Belvidere volunteer assistant coaches have been provided in the past with monetary and other gifts in recognition of their contributions to the teams they have coached. In view of what is apparently a sustained practice of such monetary recognition for volunteer coaching of sports teams, the Board has not established that it has a uniform practice of prohibiting such remuneration. In fact, the record reflects that Lazzara's multiple approvals of such payments constitutes de facto permission by the district to issue such payments. An employer cannot approve conduct and then seek to punish an employee for engaging in the same conduct it has ratified. It does not appear that either Dempsey or Poyer could have known that the Board would object to such gifts, especially in light of the administration's prior acquiescence to the same practice. It also appears that the Board's objection to Poyer's receipt of both the 2015 and 2018 checks is inconsistent with the treatment of other volunteer coaches who received monetary gifts. Further, the Board waited almost four years after the 2015 payment to Poyer before it decided to include this event in the tenure charges. This is clearly a mitigating factor against finding wrongdoing on Dempsey's or Poyer's part concerning the 2015 payment.

The Board has sustained its burden of proving that Dempsey and Poyer engaged in Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination and/or Other Just Cause by violating Board Policy 1314 when they permitted a SnapRaise representative to address the team without obtaining permission from the district administration to do so. The Board has not sustained its burden of proving any other element of Charge I of J1 and Charge I of J2, so all other allegations of the charges are dismissed.

Charge II

Dempsey is alleged in Charge II to have engaged in Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination and/or Other Just Cause by failing to obtain the approval of the Board or the Administration to issue monetary payment to Poyer for his services as a volunteer coach. Count 1 refers to the 2018-2019 school year, and Count 2 refers to the 2015 school year. Poyer's Charge II, Counts 1 and 2, parallel those against Dempsey, but are based on Poyer's alleged failure to obtain permission to accept the checks.

The money used to provide the 2018 check to Poyer did not come from public funds; they were funds raised on behalf of the boys' soccer booster club.

Teams which have booster clubs are not supposed to have student associated accounts. However, there was a student associated account for boys' soccer. There is nothing in this record which explains this anomaly. At the point when the booster club fundraiser proceeds were deposited in the student associated account by Dempsey and Poyer, there was a bilateral mistake -- the coaches deposited funds which did not belong to the school district, and the district accepted funds which did not belong to it and placed them in an account which should not have existed.

When Booster Club President Toth became aware that the club's fundraiser money had been mistakenly deposited in a school account, she asked Club Treasurer Patty Grafer to contact Board Secretary Rachelle Tjalma to ask that the money be returned to the club. Grafer testified that she contacted Tjalma and asked that the money be given back to the club, which would in turn reimburse the school account for the $2,750 check given to Poyer (3T-48). Schiavone confirmed that as of the date of her testimony, the proceeds from the SnapRaise fundraiser have still not been given to the booster club and remain in the associated student account.

The significance of these facts is that there is no dispute that the monies which were used to fund the 2018 check to Poyer belong to the booster club, and should not have been placed in the district account. The booster club is independent from, and outside the control of the district. The club had the right to disburse the funds it raised, and is accountable to the donors, not to the district, for what is done with those funds. Dempsey suggested to Toth that some funds be given to Poyer for his work, and that either new warmups and/or team shirts should also be considered (B25). He got approval from the booster club to use the money they raised. He had no obligation or reason to ask permission from the district to request funds from them, because he knew that the money was not the district's to disburse. I note that due to the district's retention of the funds, and Dempsey's suspension, he was prevented from taking any steps to effectuate his request for new warmups and/or team shirts.

However, Dempsey clearly did not appreciate the significance of the mistake which occurred when the wrong taxpayer ID and payee was provided to SnapRaise, and compounded the error in depositing the monies in a district account. He proceeded to follow the administrative procedures he had utilized in the past; filling out the district form to request a check, giving it to Schiavone, who then provided the check for signature to the high school principal -- an authorized signatory -- ironically, in the presence of Carrubba. In a sense, Dempsey did ask for approval to issue the check from the administration when Lazzara signed the check, and he received it.

The charge that Poyer failed to seek approval to accept the 2018 check is misguided. The unrebutted testimony is that Poyer was surprised by the check, and did not anticipate it. For the reasons explained fully with respect to Charge I against Dempsey and Poyer, I do not credit the assertion that they colluded to provide compensation for Poyer from the outset. Moreover, the monies were not funds which belonged to the district, so it is simply illogical to think that Poyer had an obligation to seek permission from the Board or the administration to accept a gift from the booster club. For the reasons articulated above in the discussion of Charge I with respect to the 2015 check to Poyer, I do not find that he had a responsibility to seek approval to accept those funds from the district.

The Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that Dempsey and Poyer engaged in Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination, and/or Other Just Cause) with regard to Charge II. Charge II against Dempsey and against Poyer are dismissed (J1 and J2, Charge II).

Charge III

Dempsey is charged with Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination and/or Other Just Cause by attempting to hinder the district's investigation and/or failing to be truthful with during the course of an investigation in a possible attempt to conceal wrongdoing. Count 1 specifies that when Dempsey met with Carrubba during the investigation, Dempsey concealed the fact that he had previously issued a $2,500 check to Poyer for his volunteer services during the 2015 softball season (J2).

Poyer is also charged with Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination and/or Other Just Cause by attempting to hinder the investigation, and/or failing to be truthful during the course of an investigation in a possible attempt to conceal wrongdoing. Count 1 specifies that when questioned by Carrubba during the investigation, Poyer concealed the fact that he had received a check for $2,500 as a volunteer coach during the 2015 softball season, when Dempsey served as the head coach (J1).

Carrubba testified that during the course of the investigation of the 2018 check to Poyer, he met with both Poyer and Dempsey separately, and took contemporaneous notes at each meeting (B12-13). Carrubba testified that during his interviews with Poyer and Dempsey, neither mentioned the 2015 check to Poyer.

Carrubba also testified initially that Dempsey told him that he had never compensated coaches in the past -- however, he later modified his answer in response to cross-examination when he stated that he had asked Dempsey if the practice of giving or paying an assistant coach had happened in the past that Dempsey replied that it had not occurred in soccer, but it did in softball. I cannot account for the variance between Carrubba's initial testimony and his contemporaneous notes (B12). His acknowledgment under cross examination that Dempsey had indeed responded that payments to assistant softball coaches had occurred in the past, but not to assistant soccer coaches appears to negate the charge that Dempsey failed to be truthful during his investigatory meeting with Carrubba.

Dempsey was asked by Carrubba about the rationale for the amount of the payment to Poyer, as compared to the gift given to another volunteer assistant, and Dempsey explained that Poyer had been present at practices and both home and away games, while other assistants had not. Dempsey also explained how he arrived at the amount of the check given to Poyer, and noted that a baseball volunteer coach received $3,000 in the spring. There is nothing in the record which supports the allegation that Dempsey either hindered the investigation or was less than truthful when questioned by Carrubba.

Poyer met with Carrubba on December 17, 2018. Carrubba's contemporaneous notes of that meeting do not reflect that he asked Poyer about any previous payments he received as an assistant coach, or specifically if he had ever received such payments (B13). His testimony at the arbitration also shows that he denied asking Poyer about prior payments. I cannot account for the difference between Carrubba's testimony and his contemporaneous notes, however I believe that the notes are accurate since they were, by Carrubba's own account, made at a time when his recollection of the meeting was clear. Poyer was participating in an interview about the circumstances surrounding the 2018 payment, and that issue is naturally the one on which Poyer would be expected to focus. In the absence of a direct question about any prior payments as an assistant coach, and an untruthful answer from Poyer, there is no evidence that he hindered the investigation or was untruthful in response to Carrubba's questions.

I note that the investigation itself does not appear to have been conducted in an objective fashion. In Just Cause: The Seven Tests, supra, test four, Fairness of Investigation, is focused on whether the employer conducted the investigation fairly and objectively. Staples began the investigation at Carrubba's direction. He questioned Dempsey, who confirmed the 2018 check for Poyer, and told Staples that the same type of payment had been made in the past. Staples called Toth, Grafer and Linder to ask about their knowledge of the decision to provide Poyer with monies for his coaching, and asked each of them to send him emails with their detailed recollections of what had transpired; he testified that he believed the emails to be accurate (2T14; B-25 and 26). Staples forwarded the emails and the booster club bylaws to Carrubba. He also provided Carrubba with the email solicitations from the fundraiser (B7 and 8). Stapes and Carrubba also examined the associated student accounts, and learned that Poyer had received a check in 2015, and traced the process by which the 2018 check had been requested and issued. As described above, Carrubba also conducted investigatory interviews with Poyer and Dempsey.

It does not appear that the emails from Toth and Grafer were taken into consideration by either Carrubba or the Board, or that there was any recognition by the administration of the district's own shortcomings with respect to the creation and maintenance of appropriate accounts for teams with and without booster clubs, or of its failure to return the funds raised by the booster club to that organization.

The Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that Dempsey or Poyer engaged in Unbecoming Conduct, Insubordination and/or Other Just Cause by hindering the district's investigation, or by failing to be truthful when questioned during the course of the investigation in a possible attempt to conceal wrongdoing. Charge III against Dempsey and Poyer is dismissed (J1 and J2).

Charge IV (Dempsey)

Dempsey is charged with engaging in a pattern of misconduct based upon the charges against him discussed above, which establish his unfitness to continue as a member of the teaching staff. In view of the disposition of the preceding charges, no discussion of this count is necessary. The Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that Dempsey has engaged in a pattern of misconduct which renders him unfit to continue as a member of the teaching staff. Charge IV is dismissed.

Charge V (Poyer)

As noted previously, Charge IV against Poyer was withdrawn by the Board. Poyer is charged with engaging in a pattern of misconduct based upon the charges against him discussed above, which would establish his unfitness to continue as a member of the teaching staff. In view of the disposition of these preceding charges, no discussion of this count is necessary. The Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that Poyer has engaged in a pattern or misconduct which renders him unfit to continue as a member or the teaching staff, Charge V is dismissed.

The Board maintains that despite its withdrawal of Charge IV of the tenure charges against Poyer that the actions which were set forth therein may be considered for the purposes of progressive discipline. The Union disputes that discipline consistent with West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523 (1962) occurred. The question is resolved by the Board's action on May 24, 2017, memorialized in the minutes of the Executive Session, rescinding the Board's sanctions against Poyer (B4). Having rescinded the discipline, the Board cannot invoke it for the purposes of arguing that it be considered for any purpose, including progressive discipline.

The Board has produced no evidence that Dempsey violated Board Policy 4112.3, Code of Ethics, or Policy 4119.22, Conduct and Dress, as enumerated in paragraph 4 of the Facts Common to All Charges of the tenure charges against him (J2).

The Board has produced no evidence that Poyer violated Board Policy 4119,22, Conduct and Dress, Policy 4119.24, Corporal Punishment, Policy 4119.25, Liability of Staff for Student Welfare, Policy 5131.4, Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying, or Policy 5142, Pupil Safety, as enumerated in paragraph 4 of the Facts Common to all Charges of the tenure charges against him (J1).

CONCLUSION

I conclude that the Board has failed to meet its burden of proving that the tenure charges brought against Daniel Dempsey and Andrew Poyer amounted to sufficient cause for termination. Dempsey and Poyer shall be issued written reprimands for their violations of Board Policy 1314 in permitting an outside fundraiser to address the boys' soccer team without first obtaining permission. Here, both employees shall be reinstated to their teaching positions with full back pay. Dempsey shall be reinstated to his position as the boys' soccer coach.

AWARD

Belvidere School District is directed to return Daniel Dempsey and Andrew Poyer to their tenured teaching positions, with full back pay for the period of their unpaid suspensions, less any mitigation based upon earnings during the period of their suspension. The Board is also directed to return Dempsey to his stipended position as the boys' soccer coach for the 2020-2021 school year.[16] The Board is directed to also make Dempsey whole for the loss of any coaching stipends to which he would have been entitled during the period of his suspension. I retain jurisdiction as to remedy.

[16] I decline to return Poyer to his position as assistant soccer coach because this position is not contractually entitled to a stipend; it is a volunteer position and subject to the Board's annual approval of volunteers.

I further direct that the Board issue written reprimands to Dempsey and Poyer for their violation of Board Policy 1314 (Fundraising by Outside Organizations).

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

T.B., on behalf of minor children, I.B., H.H., and S.H.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Ewing, Mercer County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro Se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her children were not domiciled in Ewing and therefore not legally entitled to a free public education in the Ewing School District (District). Petitioner further appealed the tuition assessment levied upon her for the time the children were deemed ineligible to attend school in the District.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a), public schools are free to any person over five and under twenty-five years of age who is domiciled within the school district; T.B. has met her burden of proof to show that she shares custody of S.H. and H.H. with their father, Sa.H., and that Sa.H. is domiciled at an address on Conway Avenue in Ewing; accordingly, S.H. and H.H. were entitled to a free public education in Ewing during the 2018-2019 school year; however, T.B. failed to meet her burden to show that she and I.B. were domiciled at a Ewing address during the 2018-2019 school year. Therefore, as to I.B., the ALJ concluded that the Board demonstrated entitlement to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $13,714.50 for I.B.'s attendance on 150 days during the 2018-2019 school year. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's assessment of tuition for I.B. for the 2018-2019 school year in the amount of $13,714.50, but denied the Board's assessment of tuition for S.H. and H.H.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petitioner was ordered to reimburse the District for tuition costs in the amount of $13,714.50. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

T.B., on behalf of minor children, I.B., H.H. and S.H.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Ewing, Mercer County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the petitioner failed to demonstrate that she resided in the District during the 2018-2019 school year and that I.B. had a right to attend school in the District. Further, the Board has demonstrated an entitlement to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $13,714.50 for the 150 days that I.B. attended school in the District during the 2018-2019 school year. With respect to S.H. and H.H., the Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that there is sufficient evidence in the record to demonstrate that S.H. and H.H. resided in Ewing Township and were entitled to attend school in the District during the 2018-2019 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petitioner is ordered to reimburse the District for tuition costs in the amount of $13,714.50.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

T.B., petitioner, pro se

Joseph I. Roselle, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith and King, LLP, attorneys)

BEFORE SUSAN L. OLGIATI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.B., appeals the determination of the Ewing Township Board of Education (Board or respondent) that her children, I.B., S.H., and H.H. were not domiciled in Ewing and not legally entitled to a free public education in the Ewing School District (District). Petitioner also appeals the resulting tuition assessment for the time the children were deemed ineligible to attend school in the District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

By letter, dated January 30, 2019, the Board advised petitioner of its residency hearing determination. The petitioner timely filed a petition of appeal and the Board filed its Answer and Affirmative Defenses. Thereafter, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 25, 2019, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on August 30, 2019,[1] and the record remained open until September 27, 2019, to allow the parties to submit written summations. On October 17, 2019, the record was reopened for clarification purposes and the parties were given additional time for respondent to produce documentation of the address to which the children were registered to attend school and for petitioner to produce proof of residency. The record reclosed on November 4, 2019, following receipt and review of the post hearing submissions.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Testimony

The following is a summary of the relevant and material testimony given at hearing.

For respondent:

Pete Manetto, (Manetto) is a Residency Investigator for the District. He has held this position for twenty years. He is a retired police officer and private detective. Manetto testified that he conducted a residency investigation of I.B., S.H., and H.H. and prepared a report on same. R-1. He conducted a total of twenty-two (22) surveillances beginning in October 16, 2018. Two (2) surveillances, conducted on October 16, 2018, and December 13, 2018, were initiated at 14xx Parkside Ave., Unit 1x,[2] (Parkside Avenue), Ewing New Jersey. The subjects were not found at that address on either occasion.

Surveillance was also initiated at 15x Girard Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey (Trenton location). Twelve (12)[3] surveillances were conducted at the Trenton location beginning on October 18, 2018, and ending on November 26, 2018. During eight (8) of the surveillances conducted at the Trenton location, S.H. and H.H. were observed exiting the location and being driven by an adult black female to a District school or were later confirmed to have been in school. Manetto testified that according to New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission (NJMVC) records, the "subject" vehicle, a 2013 black Volvo, NJMVC registration number NJN7xxx,[4] is the property of T.B. The address of record for the subject vehicle is 15x Girard Avenue (the Trenton location). During five (5) of the surveillances conducted at the Trenton location, I.B. was observed exiting the location and being driven by the same individual in the subject vehicle to a different District school or later confirmed to have been in school. Neither the subjects nor the subject vehicle were observed during the remaining surveillances at the Trenton location.

Manetto conducted two (2) surveillances at 4x W. Cleveland Avenue, Morrisville, Pennsylvania. Neither the subjects nor the subject vehicle were observed at that location.

Manetto also conducted one surveillance at a District bus stop located at Grafton and Conway streets. This surveillance was initiated based on information that S.H. and H.H. were being dropped off by a District school bus, proceeding to 2x Conway Avenue,

[2] For purposes of confidentiality, complete address information is not listed herein for any of the locations surveilled during the District's residency investigation.

[3] A review of the report reveals that there were eleven surveillances conducted at this location: October 18, 19, 23, 25, and 30, 2018, and November 5, 12, 14 ,19, 21, & 26, 2018.

[4] For purposes of confidentiality, complete vehicle registration information in not listed herein.

Ewing, New Jersey, and then later picked up and driven to an undetermined location. Neither the subjects nor the subject vehicle were observed during that surveillance.

Manetto, also conducted five (5) after-school surveillances at 2x Conway Avenue, Ewing, New Jersey, beginning on December 19, 2018, and ending on January 16, 2019. On each of these occasions, two individuals fitting the description of S.H. and H.H. were observed exiting the school bus and proceeding to 2x Conway Avenue. Later, the two individuals exited the location and were driven by unidentified person(s) towards the area of Lower Ferry Road. Manetto explained that due to traffic conditions, he lost sight of the vehicles observed at that location. During one of these surveillances, Manetto followed the vehicle transporting the two individuals from that location to the Scudders Falls Bridge and observed it heading towards Pennsylvania. That vehicle, a Lexus SUV, was registered to "M.C."[5]

Manetto took seven (7) photographs, of the subject individuals and/or the subject vehicle at the Trenton location. R-1, Photo legend and attachments. The photographs were taken in low light.

On June 16, 2019, Manetto conducted a supplemental surveillance at 1x Conway Avenue, Ewing. [6] The subjects were not observed during that surveillance.

Based on his investigation, Manetto concluded that the subjects did not reside in Ewing.

Manetto acknowledged several errors in his report including:

- An entry in his November 26, 2018, report noting: "A check with subject's respective schools indicated all in school on time." He explained that this sentence was information copied from a prior surveillance report entry in this matter.

[5] For purposes of confidentiality, M.C's full name is not used. The address to which this vehicle is registered is 13xx Parkside Avenue in Ewing.

[6] This surveillance is not reflected in Manetto's report, R-1.

- An entry in his December 12, 2018, report referencing surveillance location in the area of Conway and "Gladstone." The correct location is "Grafton."

- An entry in his January 7, 2019, report containing the same incorrect reference to "Gladstone."

George Cahill, (Cahill), is the Attendance Officer for the District. He conducted a tuition assessment calculation in this matter. R-2. I.B., S.H., and H.H. each attended 150 days of school in the District during the 2018-2019 school year.[7] Cahill's calculation for S.H. and H.H. is as follows: students in grades one through five cost the District $14,948 for a full year/180 days. This equals $83.05 per day. The 150 days attended by S.H. and H.H., multiplied by the daily rate of $83.05 equals $12,457 per child or a total of $24,915. Cahill's calculation for I.B. is as follows: students in grades six through eight cost the District $16,457 for a full year/180 days. This equals $91.43 per day. The 150 days attended by I.B., multiplied by the daily rate of $91.43 equals $13,714.50. The total tuition assessed for all three children is $38,629.50.

For petitioner:

T.B. is the mother of I.B. (a girl), S.H., and H.H. (both boys). She testified that she shares custody of the boys with Sa.H., their father, and L.H., their aunt/Sa.H's sister. T.B. and Sa.H. went to court to address custody issues. See. P-1.[8] L.H. lives at 1x Conway Avenue in Ewing. See, P-8 & R-5. L.H. has lived at this address for approximately four years. Sa.H. lives with L.H. at 1x Conway Avenue. The boys are with their father the majority of the week and with T.B. mainly on the weekends--Friday to Sunday. The boys stay with T.B. during the summer.

[7] The number of school days attended was calculated from the time the Board initiated its residency investigation.

2x Conway Avenue, Ewing, New Jersey, is the address of L.H's neighbor. The boys go to that address after school because L.H. does not get home from work by the time the boys finish school. T.B. does not know the schedule that Sa.H. or his sister worked out for picking the boys up after school. She does not know M.C., the person to whom the Lexus used to pick up the two individuals from 2x Conway Avenue, was registered. L.H. went to the Board hearing and brought the joint custody document but was not permitted to testify and/or told she was not needed.

T.B. testified that she has lived at the following Ewing addresses:

- 5x Dunmore Avenue, she was living at this address when she went to court with Sa.H. [August 23, 2016.] P-1;

- 1x Ronnet Drive, from there, T.B. moved in with her mother; and

- 14xx Parkside Avenue, her mother's address.

I.B. is the only child who should be registered for school at Parkside Avenue. The boys should both be registered for school at 1x Conway Avenue.

The Trenton location is T.B.'s grandmother's address. T.B. took a Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) leave to care for her grandmother, "C.B." P-7[9]. On the dates T.B. was observed at the Trenton location, she was there caring for her grandmother while her aunt was away. T.B. was not at her grandmother's house every day.

T.B's younger sister lived at 4x W. Cleveland Avenue, Morrisville, Pennsylvania. The children never lived at that address. They were not living in Pennsylvania.

In June 2019, T.B. moved to 9xx Poplar Court, Bensalem, Pennsylvania. As of the date of the August 30, 2019, OAL hearing, T.B. had not notified the District of her change of address. T.B. testified that I.B. would not be attending school in the District during the 2019-2020 school year. T.B. testified that I.B. was having problems in the District and would be attending school in Hamilton, New Jersey.

It is the obligation of the fact finder to weigh the credibility of the witnesses before making a decision. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness' testimony. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). To assess credibility, the fact finder should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, motive, or bias. A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp, 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Having had an opportunity to hear the testimony of the witnesses and to observe their demeanor during the hearing, I accept the testimony of investigator Manetto as credible. His testimony as to his actions taken during the course of the investigation including his observations of I.B., S.H., and H.H. and the subject vehicle was straight forward and reasonable. While he acknowledged several errors in his report, these errors were relatively minor and/or administrative in nature and do not affect the reliability of his observations or his testimony.

Similarly, George Cahill's testimony regarding his calculation of the tuition assessment for I.B., S.H., and H.H. was straight forward and reasonable, thus I accept it as credible.

As to petitioner, portions of her testimony relating to her joint custody of S.H. and H.H. and the in-District residence of L.H. was reasonable and supported by the competent documentary evidence in the record. Thus, I accept that portion of her testimony as credible. T.B. testified that the boys stayed with their father during the majority of the week and were with her, mainly on the weekends. While this testimony was called into question by Manetto's observations of the boys at the Trenton location on eight (8) occasions, these limited observations, are insufficient to refute petitioner's testimony and the documentary evidence regarding the custody arrangement. They are also insufficient to refute petitioner's testimony regarding where the boys were living.

In contrast however, T.B.'s testimony regarding her residence/domicile at her mother's Parkside Avenue address, was not fully supported and/or was contradicted by the sparse competent residency evidence presented. As an initial matter, petitioner did not dispute nor explain Manetto's testimony and report indicating that the subject vehicle was registered to T.B. at the Trenton location.

Additionally, T.B.'s explanation that her presence at the Trenton location was due to her FMLA leave to care for her grandmother was contradicted by the fact that the October 23, 2018, leave approval letter sent by or on behalf of her employer was addressed to T.B. at the Trenton location. P-7[10] This letter supports that T.B. was living at the Trenton location during the 2018-2019 school year and not simply there to temporarily care for her grandmother while on leave.

Similarly, petitioner testified that she moved to Bensalem, Pennsylvania in June 2019. Despite this, as part of her post-hearing submission of proof of residency, petitioner provided two October 29, 2019, letters from Navient, Department of Education Loan Servicing regarding: "important loan information" for 2018 and 2017, addressed to her at Parkside Avenue. Aside from the fact that the letters were sent during the 2019-2020 school year, the letters were sent to petitioner after a time she acknowledges moving from the Parkside Avenue address.[11] Thus, the letters do not support her claim that she was living at that address during the 2018-2019 school year. Rather, they create further doubt as to the truthfulness of petitioner's testimony regarding her residency/domicile during that time.

For these reasons, I do not accept petitioner's testimony regarding her residency at Parkside Avenue during the 2018-2019 school year as credible.

Accordingly, based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, I FIND the following as FACT:

Pursuant to an August 23, 2016, Family Part Order, the petitioner shares joint legal and residential custody of her two children, S.H. and H.H, with Sa.H., their father, and L.H., their aunt/the father's sister. Pursuant to this Order, petitioner is to have liberal and reasonable parenting time as agreed upon by the parties.

The August 2016 Family Part Order does not designate the school district of attendance for S.H. and H.H.

L.H. resides/is domiciled at 1x Conway Avenue, Ewing, New Jersey, and was so during the 2018-2019 school year.

During the 2018-2019 school year, I.B. attended middle school in the District. During that time, S.H. and H.H. attended elementary school in the District.

Investigator Manetto conducted a residency investigation of I.B, S.H., and H.H. During the course of the investigation, beginning on October 16, 2018, through January 16, 2019, Manetto conducted twenty-one surveillances at five separation locations in Ewing and Trenton, New Jersey, and Morrisville, Pennsylvania. In June 2019, Manetto conducted one supplemental surveillance. The location of that surveillance was 1x Conway Avenue in Ewing, New Jersey (L.H.'s address).

Petitioner's grandmother, C.B., lives at 15x Girard Avenue, Trenton, New Jersey.

Petitioner was approved for an intermittent FMLA/NJ-FLA leave from her employment to care for her grandmother beginning on September 4, 2018, and running through January 1, 2019.

Manetto conducted eleven surveillances at the Trenton location beginning on October 18, 2018, through November 26, 2019. Of the surveillances conducted at that location, S.H. and H.H. were observed there on eight occasions. Of the surveillances conducted at this location, I.B. was observed there on five occasions.

On the occasions that the children were observed at the Trenton location they were seen being transported by a black female, in a 2013 Volvo, registered to/owned by petitioner. On these occasions, the children were transported to a District school or later confirmed to have been in school. The address on record, with the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission, for the 2013 Volvo is 15x Girard Avenue, Trenton.

Surveillance photos taken by Manetto at the Trenton location on October 25, 2018, and November 14, 2018, are of poor quality and are not self-explanatory. Neither the subject vehicle nor the individuals are clearly identifiable absent Manetto's testimony and/or photo legend contained within his report.

The Parkside Avenue address belonging to petitioner's mother, was surveilled twice during the course of the investigation. On those two occasions, October 16, 2018, and December 13, 2018, no activity was observed.

The tuition assessed for S.H. and H.H.'s attendance of 150 days of school in the District, during the 2018-2019 school year, is $12,457 per child or a total of $24,915 for both.

The tuition assessed for I.B.'s attendance of 150 days of school in the District during the 2018-2019 school year is $13.714.50.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). The question of domicile is one of fact and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955). A person may have multiple residences but may have only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. Id.

In M.K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan Reg'l Sch. Dist., 2019 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1515, the Appellate Division noted that it was legally possible that the petitioner therein and her child could have been found to have had two simultaneous residences, although only one domicile. Id. 6. The court concluded that, "[t]he real question is not where [the child] resides. But where is he domiciled. And that question is answered by examining where [his parents] are domiciled. See NJAC 6A:22-3.1(a)(1)."

The regulations contemplate that parents may not reside in the same school district. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)1.i provides, "When a student's parents are domiciled in different school districts, and there is no court order or written agreement between the parents designating the school district of attendance, the student's domicile is the school district of the parent or guardian with whom the student lives for the majority of the school year. This subparagraph shall apply regardless of which parent has legal custody." The regulations also contemplate that a student may live with both of his parents an equal amount of time. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)1.ii provides:

> When a student's physical custody is shared on an equal-time, alternating week/month or other similar basis so the student is not living with one parent or guardian for a majority of the school year and there is no court order or > written agreement between the parents designating the school district of attendance, the student's domicile is the present domicile of the parent or guardian with whom the student resided on the last school day prior to the October 16 preceding the application date.

Here, the Board argues that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of proof that she resided/was domiciled in the District or that her children were entitled to a free education there. The Board also argues that petitioner failed to credibly refute the investigation report or its findings.

At the conclusion of the August 30, 2019, OAL hearing in this matter, the undersigned gave petitioner an opportunity to submit post-hearing proof of her residency at the Parkside Avenue address. Thereafter, on October 17, 2019, the record was reopened for clarification purposes and petitioner was provided an additional opportunity to provide proof of her residency. In total, the only proof of residency produced by the petitioner consisted of the following:

- An August 13 – September 12, 2018, phone bill from Verizon. P-2

- A February 13 – March 12, 2019, phone bill from Verizon. Id.

- An October 29, 2019, letter from Navient, Department of Education Loan Servicing regarding: important tax information for 2018, and an October 29, 2019 letter from Navient, Department of Education Loan Servicing regarding: important tax information for 2017. P-3.

- A copy of an envelope from the Ewing Public Schools to the Parent of I.B., date stamped May 28, 2019, a copy of an envelope from Central Registration Office to T.B., date stamped June 16, 2019. P-4.

- An October 28, 2019, letter from T.B.'s mother, F.B-H., stating that T.B. and I.B. lived with her at the Parkside Avenue address during the 2018-2019 school year. P-5.

This information is insufficient to meet petitioner's burden of proof to establish residency/domicile in the District during the 2018-2019 school year. As an initial matter the two bills from Verizon are for wireless service.[12] As such, the bills could be forwarded to any address and do not demonstrate residency or domicile at the Parkside Avenue address during the 2018-2019 school year.

Next, for the reasons previously set forth in the credibility determination herein, the two October 2019 letters addressed to petitioner from Navient do not establish residency or domicile at the Parkside Avenue address during the 2018-2019 school year.

Similarly, the copies of the envelopes mailed by the District to T.B./the parent of I.B., do not establish residency or domicile at the Parkside Avenue address during the 2018-2019 school year, but rather reflect only address information provided to the District.

Finally, the letter from petitioner's mother, F.B-H., stating that petitioner and I.B. lived with her at the Parkside Avenue address during the 2018-2019 school year does not constitute competent, reliable, unbiased evidence sufficient to establish residency or domicile at that location. Aside from being hearsay, as the mother of T.B. and grandmother of I.B., F.B-H. has an interest in the outcome of this matter, thus her statement is made with motive and bias.

In sum, the sparse evidence produced by petitioner does not establish residency or domicile in the District during the 2018-2019 school year. Nor is it sufficient to overcome petitioner's failure to refute the testimony and investigative finding that her vehicle was registered to the Trenton location. Nor does the documentation overcome the fact that the October 2018 FMLA approval letter was mailed to petitioner at the Trenton location.

[12] The bills direct recipients with questions to "vzw.com." A Google search of this address brings the searcher to Verizonwireless.com.

For the reasons set forth herein, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet her burden of proof that she resided/was domiciled in the District during the 2018-2019 school year and that I.B. had a right to a free education there. Therefore, as to I.B., I CONCLUDE that the Board has demonstrated an entitlement to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $13,714.50, for the 150 days attended during the 2018-2019 school year.

As to S.H. and H.H., petitioner has through her testimony and the competent evidence in the record established that she shares joint custody of them with their father and L.H. L.H. resides/is domiciled at 2x Conway Avenue, in Ewing. The investigation conducted over the course of twenty-one days beginning on October 16, 2018, and continuing through January 16, 2019, in which S.H. and H.H. were observed at the Trenton location eleven times is insufficient to determine that they were domiciled at the Trenton location or to overcome petitioner's testimony that they stayed with their father the majority of the week. Similarly, the investigative findings that individuals fitting the description of S.H. and H.H. were on six occasions transported from 2x Conway Avenue, in the direction of the New Jersey/Pennsylvania border is wholly insufficient to overcome petitioner's testimony or to establish domicile or residency in Pennsylvania. Moreover, L.H.'s address was surveilled only one time, and at the end of the school year. The fact that the boys were not observed there on that single occasion is similarly insufficient overcome petitioner's testimony or to establish that they were not residing/domiciled there. Finally, T.B.'s testimony that the boys lived with L.H. is supported by the October 29, 2019, letter of L.H. in which she confirms that she shares custody of S.H. and H.H. and that they have lived with her for several years. While the statement is hearsay from an interested party, the investigative findings as to S.H. and H.H. are insufficient to overcome same.

For the reasons set forth herein, I CONCLUDE that there is sufficient evidence to demonstrate that S.H. and H.H. resided/were domiciled in the District during the 2018-2019 school year. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the Board is not entitled to tuition reimbursement for S.H. or H.H. during the 2018-2019 school year.

Finally, as part of respondent's October 29, 2019, post hearing submission and response, counsel for the District noted that despite petitioner's testimony at hearing that I.B. would not be attending Ewing schools in the 2019-2020 school year, she remains enrolled in and is attending school there. Respondent therefore requested that the undersign consider I.B.'s attendance in the District during the current school year when issuing this Initial Decision. Additionally, respondent also provided emails relating to supplemental surveillances conducted by investigator Manetto on October 4, and 14, 2019. As respondent's residency determination related to the children's attendance in the District during the 2018-2019 school year, and the hearing in this matter addressed only facts and evidence relating to their attendance during that school year, I decline at this time to consider information relating to the 2019-2020 school year. If respondent contends there is reason to believe that the children are not domiciled in the District during the current school year, it should conduct a thorough investigation and render a new residency determination.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the Board's assessment of tuition for I.B. during the 2018-2019 school year in the amount of $13.714.50 is GRANTED. I further ORDER that the Board's tuition assessment for S.H. and H.H. during the 2018-2019 school year is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Mary Leonard,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge that the petition should be dismissed for failure to provide timely responses to discovery requests. Petitioner indicated on a conference call that she had no intention of responding to the Board's discovery requests or replying to the Board's motion to dismiss for failure to answer discovery.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

MARY LEONARD,
Petitioner,
vs.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE
CITY OF PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

Mary Leonard, Petitioner, pro se

Amy A. Pujara, Esq., for Respondents, (DiFrancesco, Bateman, Kunzman, Davis, Lehrer & Flaum, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 18, 2019 Decided: December 19, 2019

BEFORE: THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a petition with the New Jersey Department of Education's Office of Controversies and Disputes on May 29, 2019.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on July 2, 2019, as a contested case.

A prehearing conference was held on July 12, 2019. A prehearing order was entered on July 15, 2019.

The matter was scheduled for hearing on October 16, 2019. Respondent requested that the matter be adjourned to permit it to file a motion to dismiss for failure to provide discovery. The adjournment was granted. Respondent filed a motion to dismiss for failure to provide discovery on October 25, 2019. Petitioner failed to provide a response thereto, or otherwise communicate with the OAL or the attorney for respondent.

The undersigned scheduled a telephone conference with the parties for December 4, 2019, at 12:15 p.m. The telephone conference was initiated by the OAL. Petitioner failed to answer the telephone.

Thereafter the undersigned scheduled a second telephone conference for December 18, 2019 at 3:30 p.m. That conference was held and was done on the record.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The prehearing order entered on July 15, 2019 required that all discover be completed on or before August 30, 2019.

Respondent propounded interrogatories and a request for production of documents upon petitioner on August 6, 2019. On September 30, 2019 respondent forwarded a letter to petitioner requesting a response to the discovery request.

Petitioner has not responded to the discovery request of respondent.

Respondent filed a motion for dismissal for failure to answer the discovery request. Petitioner failed to respond to said motion, or otherwise move before the OAL.

During the course of the telephone conference of December 18, 2019, petitioner made it abundantly clear that she had no intention of either providing a response to the discovery request of respondent, or of responding to the motion.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.5 provides:

> By motion of a party or on his or her own motion, a judge may impose sanctions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 and 14.15 for failure to comply with the requirements of this subchapter. Before imposing sanctions, the judge shall provide an opportunity to be heard.

An Administrative law judge has power to impose reasonable monetary sanctions on attorneys as representatives of parties. In re Timofai Sanitation Co., Inc. Discovery Dispute, 252 N.J. Super. 495 (A.D. 1991)

Before an administrative law judge could impose sanctions for violating a discovery order, court was required to conduct evidentiary hearing and make findings of fact. In re Timofai Sanitation Co., Inc. Discovery Dispute, 252 N.J. Super. 495 (A.D. 1991).

N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 states:

> (a) For unreasonable failure to comply with any order of a judge or with any requirements of this chapter, the judge may:
> 1. Dismiss or grant the motion or application;
> 2. Suppress a defense or claim;
> 3. Exclude evidence;
> 4. Order costs or reasonable expenses, including attorney's fees, to be paid to the State of New Jersey or an aggrieved representative or party; or > 5. Take other appropriate case-related action.

A prehearing order was entered in this matter on July 15, 2019. The discovery end date set forth in said order was August 30, 2019.

In the instant matter there was no explanation offered as to why discovery went unanswered. The failure to provide requested discovery has caused the adjournment of the hearing date. It has also caused the instant motion to dismiss to be filed. This, in turn, has caused respondent to incur unnecessary counsel fees.

At the telephone conference of December 18, 2019, the petitioner made it clear she did not intend to either provide discovery or answer the pending motion. The telephone conference was petitioner's "opportunity to be heard" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.5.

Given the above, the undersigned has no choice but to grant the motion to dismiss.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss should be GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion to dismiss for failure to provide timely responses to discovery requests is GRANTED; and,

It is further ORDERED that petitioner's petition is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The Monroe Township School District, Gloucester County, has brought tenure charges against Ronald Becker, an Assistant Principal. I was designated Arbitrator pursuant to the procedures of the State of New Jersey, Department of Education.

Prior to the commencement of the hearings in this matter, the Respondent, Ronald Becker filed a Motion to Dismiss the tenure charges alleging that the Petitioner's Statement of Evidence as sworn to by Interim Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Perry was deficient and failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1b1. Specifically, Perry did not witness the alleged incidents forming the basis of these tenure charges nor did he participate in the investigation conducted by the District related to this incident. Further, the District investigators' reports although signed were not sworn to. The Motion was dismissed in a decision issued on October 16, 2019. See Appendix A.

Hearings were conducted on November 20, 2019 and November 25, 2019. Both parties submitted briefs which were received by December 20, 2019.

ISSUE

Did Ronald Becker, a tenured vice principle in the Monroe Township School District engage in unbecoming conduct?

If so, does such unbecoming conduct warrant dismissal from the Board or some lesser penalty?

The charges against Mr. Becker consisted of:

1. On March 29, 2019, Mr. Becker engaged in unbecoming conduct by making the following threat on the life of Aramark employee, John Sebastiano: "If you call me an amigo again, I will fucking kill you."

2. In connection with the March 29, 2019 incident, describing above paragraph 1, Mr. Becker also engaged in unbecoming conduct making the following racist comment: Mr. Becker was upset at being called a "lazy Mexican."

3. Mr. Becker's unbecoming conduct in making the threat on Mr. Sebastiano's life and in making the racist comment violated District Policy 3351, entitled Healthy Workplace Environment and District Policy 3281 entitled Inappropriate Staff Conduct.

TESTIMONY

Ronald Becker is employed as Assistant Principal of Athletics and Activities and has held this position for ten years and has consistently received positive evaluations. He testified that he was never disciplined before, but on cross-examination admitted that he was found to have acted inappropriately with another staff member. His duties include oversight of all game fields and practice fields in the District.

The District contracts out the maintenance of the fields to the Amarark Corporation. Becker was concerned about the condition of the baseball field and the district contracted with a turf specialist to evaluate the fields. A meeting was held to review the turf specialist's recommendations between Aramark's General Manager, John Baer, the District's Facilities Director, Walter Berglund and Becker on March 29, 2019. The three men were meeting on the baseball field when John Sebastiano approached on an all-terrain vehicle. Sebastiano is an employee of Aramark who maintains the playing fields and is Becker's point of contact with Aramark. Becker testified that he had raised concerns about Sebastiano's grounds keeping knowledge with Baer several times in the past.

As Sebastiano approached the group he said, "Hey, it's the three amigos." According to Becker, it was said in a sarcastic and demeaning way. Becker admits that he responded "if you ever call me an amigo again, I will fucking kill you" and said it multiple times. Becker testified when Sebastiano made the comment he thought of the movie "The Three Amigos" where the three characters were fools who were laughed at throughout the movie. Becker testified that he never meant that he wanted to literally "kill" Sebastiano, but the term "kill" was used as a child would use it to mean fight. Becker maintained that in fact he would never fight Sebastiano.

Baer testified that he did not hear what Sebastiano said but heard Becker say "I don't work for you and if you ever call me an amigo again, I will fucking kill you." Bear testified that Becker said this multiple times but there was no physical contact between Becker and Sebastiano. According to Bear, Becker was in a rage and shouting, his face was red and his arm was extended full length and pointed at Sebastiano as he walked towards him yelling at the top of his lungs. The entire incident lasted no more than 90 seconds. Bear acknowledged that Sebastiano later told him that he did not hear what Becker had said.

Berglund testified that he heard Sebastiano's comment about the three amigos and said that it was made in a jovial way. Becker said, "Are you talking to me?" while pointing at Sebastiano and "started going at it." Berglund immediately turned around, walked away, got into his truck and drove away. He didn't hear anything after that because he was walking away to his truck. Berglan had never seen Becker react the way before.

When Acting Superintendent of Schools Richard Perry heard of the incident, he directed two Assistant Superintendents Greg Capello and Lynn Di Pietropolo to investigate this incident. They interviewed Becker and the witnesses to this incident as well as Becker's supervisor Assistant Principal Caroline Yoder.

Yoder was Becker's immediate supervisor at this time. She testified that she first became aware of the incident, when on Monday, April 1, 2019 she spoke with Mr. Bear about what happened. According to Yoder, Bear said that he did not want the matter to go any further, he did not want her to investigate and that he had taken care of the matter. She then talked to Becker about the incident but in light of Bear's assurance that he took care of the matter, she took no further action.

Yoder was subsequently interviewed by the two investigators. Their report indicates that in Yoder's conversations with Becker, Becker said that he was enraged at Sebastiano because he called him a "lazy Mexican." However, Yoder testified that Becker never actually said "lazy Mexican." She only assumed that was what was inferred by Sebastiano when he called the three men the three Amigos. She never saw the movie "Three Amigos" and thought the movie portrayed Mexicans in a disrespectful light. When she told the investigators that Becker was upset at being called "a lazy Mexican" she was referring to the fact he was upset at being called one of the "three Amigos." Yoder testified that she told Dr. Perry that Becker did not literally say he was upset at being called a lazy Mexican. On cross-examination, Yoder acknowledged that she and Becker are friends.

The investigators issued their report on May 22, 2019. They concluded that Becker violated Board Policy 3351, Healthy Workplace Environment and Policy 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct as well as Regulation 3150 entitled Discipline which includes, inflictions of abuse such as use of derogatory remarks, insults, verbal or physical conduct that a reasonable person would find threatening, intimidating of humiliating. They recommended by way of discipline that Becker be denied an increment and submit to sensitivity training. The District had Becker submit to a psychiatric evaluation to determine if he had anger management problems. The Psychiatrist's report indicates that Becker did not suffer from such a problem.

Acting Superintendent Perry, after reviewing the investigators' recommendations, determined that the conduct charged against Becker merited the filing of the instant tenure charges for dismissal. He believed Becker's statements were repeated and egregious and was alarmed by Becker's comment that he was upset about being called a lazy Mexican. Perry testified that up to ten percent of the District's students are Hispanics or students of Mexican descent included in that group.

ARGUMENT

The Board argues that the testimony of both Bear and Berglund was credible and consistent in establishing that Becker charged at Sebastiano in an unprovoked rage and threatened to fucking kill him if he ever called him an amigo again. There was no basis or justification for Becker's conduct. Sebastino's three amigos comment was made in a jovial and inoffensive way and Sebastino remained silent through most of the incident. Becker's conduct was unbecoming under any definition and qualifies as unacceptable under Policy 3351 Healthy Workplace Environment. It was verbal abuse, combined with physically aggressive conduct that a reasonable person would find threatening, intimidating or humiliating. The fact that Becker engaged in the conduct against someone who is not an employee of the District does make the conduct less unbecoming or less severe.

The evidence suggests that Becker's actions reveal that he was upset because he believed he was being called a lazy Mexican, a term he considered derogatory. Although Yoder tried to change her story at the hearing, she admitted that she told the Assistant Superintendent investigating the matter that Becker was PO'd (because he was upset at being called a lazy Mexican). Dr. Perry corroborates this; Yoder reported the same thing to him. The District has a significant Hispanic population with many students being of Mexican descent and the "lazy Mexican" comment motivated his actions on March 29.th The comment violated the spirit of Policy 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct, as well as the District's reasonable expectation of appropriate conduct from a tenured teaching staff member with direct responsibilities with supervision of students.

Becker's testimony is suspect because he did not tell the truth before this arbitrator. He was asked on direct-examination whether he had any negative interactions with staff or students in any of the years of employment and he responded he did not. When questioned on cross-examination, Becker admitted that a grievance filed against him by a staff member resulted in a finding that he violated the District's Health Workplace Environment Policy, the same Policy involved in these charges. Becker attempted to deceive the arbitrator. His credibility is compromised in that he was not forth right with this tribunal.

Yoder has been protecting Becker. There is no harm in being someone's friend; however, Yoder never reported the March 29th incident to the Superintendent or Assistant Superintendent despite having knowledge of Mr. Becker's highly aggressive behavior. Becker should be dismissed given his aggravating circumstances surrounding his egregious conduct. Becker's conduct was not provoked by Sebastiano, rather the incident was initiated and escalated by Becker. He reacted suddenly, unpredictably and explosively to an innocuous comment made in a jovial manner. As to the psychiatrist evaluation, the psychiatrist did not observe Becker's enraged conduct nor did he review the evidence presented at the hearing which details the scope and intensity of Becker's behavior that day. Becker's comment involved a threat to kill. This is not simply a case of one employee hurling an insult against another.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has held that "progressive discipline can be bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct." In Re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007). Progressive discipline is not applicable when misconduct is severe or when it is unbecoming to the employee's position. Particularly when the employee's position involves safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons. Some infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. In Re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 196 (2011). The totality of aggravating circumstances here makes it unnecessary to follow progressive discipline. Becker should be dismissed from his employment. The aggravating factors attendant to his conduct demand imposition of a lengthy suspension without pay in the event Becker is not dismissed.

The Association argues that the Employer bears the burden of proof in a tenure dismissal case. In order to avail, a Board must prove that it has just cause for termination of the employment of a tenured staff member. Just cause requires that the penalty not be disproportionate given the totality of the circumstances, including mitigating factors. The punishment must fit the crime. Progressive discipline is an integral part of the just cause concept. The charges against Becker state both that he made the statement to Sebastiano "if you call me an amigo again, I will fucking kill you" and that he made a racist comment, telling Yoder that he was upset being called a lazy Mexican. The two incidents, constitute a violation of District principles. The Petitioner did not call Sebastiano as a witness although he was the recipient of Becker's remarks on March 29th. Nor did the Petitioner call the Assistant Superintendents Capello and DiPietropolo despite the fact that they investigated the allegations, on which the tenure charges were based and issued a report of their investigative findings and recommendations. Further, they did not call Caroline Yoder, despite the fact she is the only person with first hand knowledge of the racist comment allegedly made by Becker.

In Hoskins-Nnakwe v. State Operated School District of Newark (Agency Dkt. No. 125-6/17 (Decided 1/17) there were allegations of unbecoming conduct against a teacher including a teacher made disparaging and hurtful comments to students, used derogatory word like "stupid when referring to students, yelled at students, and spoke negatively about their ability to speak English fluently." The tenured charges were dismissed in their entirety primarily because neither the students who submitted written statements about the teacher's conduct nor the principal who instructed the students to prepare the written statements were presented by the school district to testify in the proceedings. The District did not provide a reason why these persons could not testify. Since they were not presented as witnesses, the teacher did not have an opportunity to cross-examine them. In the decision dismissing the tenure charges, the arbitrator noted "the District relied primarily on hearsay evidence to carry its burden of proving these charges." In the present case, neither the affected person Sebastino nor the persons who investigated the allegations against Becker testified.

Becker was unable to cross-examine Sebastino as to what, if anything, he heard on March 29th or anything else. Nor was Becker able to examine the Assistant Superintendents as to exactly how they conducted their investigation. The failure of the District to present Sebastino and the Assistant Superintendents at the hearing without any justification for their absence constitutes a violation of Becker's due process rights and accordingly the tenure charges against him must be dismissed.

In a tenure proceeding, "the nature and gravity of the offenses under all circumstances involved, as well as any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation and any harm or injuries effect which the teacher's conduct had on the maintenance of discipline and proper administration of the school system" must be considered. In Re Fulcomer, 93 NJ Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967). Other factors to be considered include the impact on the teacher's teaching career, Respondent's teaching record and teaching ability and whether the Respondent had been disciplined in any manner by any Board prior to the date of the incidents involved in the charge. Tenure dismissal is reserved for the most serious of offenses committed by tenured teaching staff members typically involving a pattern of unbecoming conduct over an extended period of time and often involving inappropriate conduct towards a student (citations omitted). Conversely, tenure dismissal is not an appropriate remedy for single instances of lesser offenses not involving students. I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Hoskins-Nnakwe, supra. where a teacher verbally abused security guards, a reprimand was found to be appropriate remedy); I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Brenda Bruni v. Bernards Tp. A teacher fled the scene after being pulled over by police for speeding, a two-month suspension without pay found to be appropriate, 2/19/18 Dkt. No. 42-18 ; and In the Matter of the Arbitration of John McEntee, Jr. v. State Operated School District of Paterson, Dkt No. 374-17 (12/27/17) re a tenured staff member engaged in inappropriate interaction with vice-principal on one occasion including becoming verbally and physically aggressive a written warning found to be appropriate penalty). I/M/O Tenure Charges of Bruce Basetti, 8/23/19, Dkt. No. 75-4/19, the Petitioner Penns Grove-Carneys Point School District sought termination of a tenured teacher's employment, alleging unbecoming conduct; alleging that on one occasion in the classroom in the presence of a 7th grade student, the teacher said to himself something to the effect of "I'm done with these niggers or I'm not trying to deal with these niggers" while walking away from certain students who were disruptive. The charges allege that the use of any racial ephitate by a teacher is intolerable. There is no place in a school district for such conduct." The arbitrator dismissed the tenure charges in their entirety and imposed no penalty since the charges were based on a single incident committed by a teacher with a 14-year unblemished record of service in the school district. The arbitrator held, in part, as follows: "the Arbitrator rejects the Board's contention that Mr. Basetti cannot continue in his employment in a spotless record of 14 years with good evaluations. Balancing all these factors, a discharge is too severe or appropriate for the offense." Basetti did not engage in unbecoming conduct and Basetti is not a racist.

On the basis of the decisions cited above, termination of Becker's employment is not warranted. If any discipline is warranted at all, such discipline should be limited to a written warning or reprimand. The charges in the present case pertain to a single verbal dispute for which Becker immediately apologized. Becker's conduct had no impact on the maintenance of discipline or improper administration of the school. Becker's termination would have a devastating impact upon his career.

DISCUSSION

There is no question that Becker made the statement, "call me amigo again and I'll fucking kill you." Accordingly, the Respondent's argument that the District's failure to call certain witnesses is fatal to its case is without merit.

There is no justification for Becker's outburst under any circumstances. However, the Board failed to prove its second allegation that Becker actually said he became upset because he was called a lazy Mexican. Yoder testified that she used that term when talking to the investigators because she misunderstood the nature of the movie the Three Amigos; she inferred that Becker was upset because he was called a lazy Mexican. Yoder testified that Becker never used that term. The Board has tried to discredit Yoder's testimony, claiming that Yoder is lying to protect Becker, who is a friend. While Yoder may have had a reason to lie, such a possibility does not establish that she did testify falsely under oath. The burden is on the District to prove each of its allegations, I find it failed to prove that Becker said that he was called a "lazy Mexican."

There is a dispute in the testimony between Berglund and Becker as to the tone in which Sebastino used the term "the Three Amigos". While Berglund heard the phrase as jovial manner, joviality might be perceived as sarcasm. Regardless, Becker's conduct under the circumstances was inexcusable. However, Superintendent Perry's decision to bring tenure charges against Becker was based at least in part on the "dirty Mexican" comment which Perry believed was alarming. However since it has not been shown that Becker ever used the term "dirty Mexican" a major reason for the tenure charges has not been established.

Given Becker's ten year history of good evaluations and minimal prior disciplinary record[1], Becker's outburst, however egregious, is too isolated of an instance to warrant the loss of tenure. Becker underwent a psychiatric evaluation which did not find that Becker has anger management problems. This isolated, one-time outburst under these circumstances does not rise to an offense so unacceptable that a denial of tenure is warranted.

Nonetheless, Becker has to understand that this type of outburst is completely unacceptable. None of the arbitration awards cited by the respondent where discipline was reduced to a reprimand concerned conduct as serious as that of Becker's. For example, discipline was reduced to a reprimand in In the John McEntee, Jr. v. School District of Paterson supra. In that matter, a teacher and a vice-principal engaged in a heated exchange with raised voices and aggressive posturing but there were no overt threats of violence. By contrast Becker threatened to fucking kill Sebastiano. Such an overt threat cannot be minimized. Becker must reflect on the nature of this outburst . Becker shall serve a 30-day suspension as a direct consequence of his conduct.

AWARD

The Monroe Township School District failed to establish that Ronald Becker should be denied Tenure.

However Ronald Becker shall be suspended for a period of thirty (30) days

Edmund G. Gerber, Arbitrator

[1] While there is some testimony concerning a charge brought against Becker concerning a staff member, which Becker failed to acknowledge on direct testimony it is unclear from the record how serious his conduct was and I cannot assume that it was anything but a minor misstatement on his part which I find to be of minor importance.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY - DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES

In the Matter of

TENURE HEARING of RONALD BECKER/
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MORRIS, GLOUCESTER COUNTY

DECISION ON MOTION TO DISMISS

Before:
Edmund Gerber, Arbitrator

Appearances:
For the Respondent:
Carol Smeltzer, Esq.
New Jersey Principals and Supervisors Association

For the Petitioner:
Robert A. Muccilli, Esq.
Capehart and Scatchard, P.A.

The Respondent, Robert Becker, having filed a Motion to Dismiss the Tenure Charges against him, seeks to require the Petitioner, the Monroe Township Board of Education, to reinstate him to his position as Assistant Principal of Athletics/Activities with full back pay and benefits.

Specifically, the Respondent argues that the Statement of Evidence, sworn to by the Interim Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Perry and submitted by the Petitioner in support of the tenure charges, is deficient and fails to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) (1). Dr. Perry did not witness the alleged incidents forming the basis of these tenure charges, nor did he participate in the investigation conducted by district personnel related to this incident. Rather, in his sworn Statement of Evidence, he relied upon signed but not sworn to reports of school district investigators. The Respondent argues that, since these reports were not sworn to, the Statement of Evidence is fatally flawed.

APPENDIX A

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 states, in pertinent part, that:

> Any charge made against any employee of a board of education under tenure during good behavior and efficiency shall be filed with the Secretary of the Board in writing, and a written Statement of Evidence under oath to support such charge shall be presented to the Board. The Board of Education shall forthwith provide such employee with a copy of the charge, a copy of the Statement of Evidence and an opportunity to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence under oath with respect thereto. ...

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) (1) states that:

> In all instances of the filing and certification of tenure charges, except charges filed against a teacher, principal, assistant principal or vice principal for reasons of inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3, the following procedures and timelines shall be observed:
> 1. Charges shall be stated with specificity as to the action or behavior underlying the charges and shall be filed in writing with the Secretary of the District Board of Education or with the State District Superintendent, accompanied by a supporting Statement of Evidence, both of which shall be executed under oath by the person(s) instituting such charges.

The Respondent relies on three prior arbitration decisions.

In IMO Kevin Karp/Barnegat Township Board of Education Dkt. No. 102-4/16 (5, 20/16) the undersigned dismissed a tenure charge where the Statement of Evidence solely relied upon unsigned reports of the administration members who conducted the investigation. The decision rested upon the fact that the statement of evidence relied solely on unsigned documents, not whether such reports were sworn to.

In IMO Trongone/School District of Gloucester City Dkt. No. 173-6/16 (9/16/16) the Statement of Evidence relied upon an unsigned investigator's report. Although the Arbitrator did note that the report was not sworn to, I am not persuaded that that fact was persuasive in the Arbitrator's decision.

In IMO Brett Fetty/Camden County Technical School Dkt. No. 173-7/19 (9/3/19) the Arbitrator in dismissing the school districts tenure charge did admonish the district that if it sought to re-file its tenure charges it would be expected to submit sworn statements in support of its charge. But that was in response to the conduct of the district which first relied upon anonymous statements in its Statement of Evidence. Then, after the respondent filed a motion to dismiss, the district attempted to amend its charge by submitting the names of staff member who made anonymous statements. Such facts do not exist here.

All these cases turn on the fact that unsigned statements are simply not probative and have little if any value as evidence. Accordingly a sworn Statement of the Evidence based solely upon unsigned statements is essentially meaningless. By contrast, the signed reports referenced by the Statement of Evidence in the instant matter though not sworn are signed and may very well have evidentiary value.[1] Here, the facts alleged by the Petitioner are clear and are supported by signed statements.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b) (1) do not say that every relevant fact alleged by a petitioner must be supported by a sworn statement. Rather, the statue and regulations only require a sworn Statement of the Evidence by the petitioner. Such a statement demonstrates the petitioner has reasonable grounds to believe the allegations of the tenure charge are true. The Statement of Evidence of Richard Perry submitted by the Petitioner satisfies that requirement

The Motion to Dismiss Is denied.

Re: Vallinah O'Neal, on behalf of Octavian Bell v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County, Agency Dkt. No. 107-5/19

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the petition of appeal, as well as the materials filed in connection with the Board's motion to dismiss the petition in the above-referenced matter. Upon review of the submissions, I have determined to dismiss this matter for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

Petitioner contends that her now-22-year-old son who suffers from autism did not receive his high school diploma, despite having graduation pictures and school identification cards indicating his graduation year as 2015. Petitioner claims that by law, her son was supposed to receive his diploma at age 17. The Board advises that, while Octavian Bell completed his 12th grade year in June 2015, he only earned 115 of the 120 credits required by N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 for graduation, including only 15 of the required 20 English Language Arts credits. The Board points out that Mr. Bell's insufficient credits were due in large part to his 62 absences during the 2014-15 school year and his "Incomplete" grades in Language Arts, Math and History. The Board explains that Mr. Bell was permitted to continue attending school for the 2015-16 school year, but did not attend any days, and petitioner disenrolled him on October 8, 2015.

The Commissioner notes that despite petitioner's claims, requirements for graduation are governed by N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 et seq. There is no requirement that a student automatically receive a diploma at age 17, nor do identification cards or cap and gown school pictures indicate that a diploma has been earned. As such, petitioner has failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

Final Decision

A.M.-V. and D.V. on behalf of minor child, M.V.

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Hasbrouck Heights, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioners alleged that the respondent Board violated its Policy 2260, Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices, by failing to respond to petitioners' complaint within 45 calendar days. Policy 2260 governs the equal and bias-free access for all students to school facilities, courses, activities and services regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, etc. Petitioners' Affirmative Action complaint alleged that the Board was not responsive to emails and had instituted a communication protocol to temporarily block petitioners' emails, but did not allege any act by the District that is applicable or relevant to District Policy 2260. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no genuine issues of material fact in dispute in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the issue here is whether the Board violated its Policy 2260, Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices; the Affirmative Action complaint does not allege an actual violation of the District's Affirmative Action Policy, but instead alleges that the Board did not render its decision on the petitioners' appeal within the forty-five day time frame found in the policy; however, the language found in the policy states that the Board will render a written decision no later than forty-five calendar days after the appeal is filed, or the date the hearing was held, whichever occurred later; as the Board's written decision in this matter was issued on the same day as the Board hearing, it was filed well within forty-five days from the date of the hearing; further, the petitioners' complaint did not allege an actual violation of Policy 2260; rather, petitioners were upset with the manner and speed with which their voluminous emails and telephone calls to District staff were answered, and with the communication protocol itself, which was put into place due to the excessive and aggressive nature of petitioners' communications with District staff; nothing in Policy 2260 would prevent the District from imposing a communication protocol unless the protocol was based on one or more of the protected characteristics enumerated in the Policy; the communication protocol imposed on petitioners was not, however, put in place because of any protected characteristic, nor do petitioners allege that it was. The ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and ordered the petitioners' appeal dismissed with prejudice.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this case, and the petition was dismissed with prejudice.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

A.M.-V. and D.V., on behalf of minor child, M.V.,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Hasbrouck Heights, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge that the Board did not violate Board Policy 2260 "Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices" in instituting a communication protocol limiting communications between petitioners and District employees. The protocol was not based on any protected characteristic of petitioners – such as race, gender, or socioeconomic status – and was instead put into place due to the excessive and aggressive nature of petitioners' communications with District staff. Additionally, the Board's written decision was timely rendered in accordance with Board Policy 2260, as it is dated the same day as the Board hearing.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondents.

A.M-V. and D.V., parents of M.V., Petitioners, pro se

Jessica Kleen, Esq., for Respondent (Machado Law Group attorneys)

Record Closed: December 10, 2019 Decided: December 19, 2019

BEFORE: THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners filed a pro se Petition of Appeal, dated September 10, 2019, with New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, alleging that Respondent violated its Affirmative Action Policy.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on October 10, 2019, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was held on October 29, 2019, and a prehearing order, dated October 31, 2019, was entered by the undersigned.

Respondent filed a motion for summary decision in lieu of an answer to the petition of appeal with the Office of Controversies and Disputes on September 30, 2019. Pursuant to the prehearing order, Petitioners filed their reply thereto with the OAL on November 1, 2019. Respondent was given to December 10, 2019 to file any reply. No reply was filed and the record was closed on December 10, 2019.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

1. Petitioners filed a petition alleging that the District Respondent violated District Policy 2260, Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices, by failing to respond to their complaint within 45 calendar days.

2. District Policy and Regulation 2260 governs the equal and bias-free access for all students to all school facilities, courses, programs, activities, and services, regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, gender, gender identity or expression, religion, disability, or socioeconomic status. (Messery Cert., Ex. A)

3. Petitioners had filed an Affirmative Action Complaint with Respondent on July 11, 2019, alleging that Respondent was not responsive to emails and that Respondent had instituted a communication protocol to temporarily block Petitioners' emails. (Petitioners' reply to motion)

4. The Petition and the Affirmative Action Complaint do not allege any act by the District that is applicable or relevant to the District Policy and Regulation 2260. (Messery Cert., Ex. A)

5. The Petitioners underlying complaint concerns the District's use of a communication protocol which temporarily blocked the Petitioners' ability to email certain District staff due to the excessive and aggressive nature of Petitioners' emails to said District staff.

6. Petitioners use of email was excessive and often redundant. A review of the Petitioners' reply to the instant motion documents the extraordinary number of emails sent. (See also Gibbons Cert.)

7. Same had resulted in several teachers feeling threatened and/or harassed by the Petitioners and caused disruptions to the orderly operation of the school.

8. The Communication Protocol was only in place at the end of the 2018-2019 school year and was removed at the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year.

9. During the duration of the Communication Protocol, the Petitioners were permitted to email Dr. Helfant - the Superintendent, Ms. Messery - the Business Administrator, Ms. Gibbons - the Director of Special Education and the entire Board of Education.

10. Due to a technical issue some or all Board members may have been unintentionally blocked for a short period of time. Same was quickly resolved.

11. Petitioners could not email individual teachers during the duration of the Communication Protocol. Petitioners could communicate with the teachers through classroom programs, such as Google and Dojo, as well as by phone and in-person meetings.

12. Every phone call from the Petitioners was returned by the District within an appropriate amount of time. Although some phone calls may not have been returned on the same day, same is not required of staff, unless the call is of an urgent nature.

13. In July of 2019, the Petitioners requested an investigation regarding the Communication Protocol by filing an Affirmative Action Complaint.

14. In response, Lincoln School Principal, Mr. Colangelo, performed an investigation regarding the matter and found same not to violate the District's Affirmative Action Plan.

15. Thereafter, on or about July 22, 2019, the Petitioners requested a meeting with the Board regarding their complaint. (Messery Cert., Ex. B)

16. The following day, on or about July 23, 2019, in response to same, the District proposed a meeting between the Board and the Petitioners on July 25, 2019 at 6:15 p.m. However, on or about July 24, 2019, due to a scheduling conflict, same was rescheduled by the Board to August 29, 2019 at 4:30 p.m. (Messery Cert., Ex. C)

17. On or about July 24, 2019, the Petitioners stated that they will not be able to attend the August 29, 2019 meeting. (Messery Cert., Ex. D)

18. In response, on the same date, the District proposed for the Board to meet with the Petitioners on Thursday, September 26, 2019 at 6:15 p.m. (Messery Cert., Ex. E)

19. Petitioners responded that they are also unable to attend the September 26, 2019 meeting. (Messery Cert., Ex. F)

20. The Board was scheduled to issue a determination regarding the Petitioners' complaint at the August 29, 2019 Board meeting. However, same was postponed until the following Board meeting, on September 26, 2019, due to the unavailability of all Board members at said meeting, and in light of the Petitioners request that all Board members be present when issuing a determination. (Messery Cert., Ex. G)

21. The District, on or about September 26, 2019, as requested by the Petitioners, issued a written decision regarding the complaint filed by the Petitioners. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

22. The Board voted to deny the appeal. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

23. The Board determined that there is no information to suggest that the temporary Communication Protocol was put in place because of any discriminatory reason based on race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, gender, gender identity or expression, religion, disability, or socioeconomic status. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

24. The Board further decided that the information supports a finding that the Communication Protocol was put into place due to the excessive and aggressive nature of Petitioners emails to District staff. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

25. Within their decision, the Board also noted that there is no legal right to email District staff, and the Board has the obligation and authority to take steps to ensure the safe and orderly operations of the schools. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

26. The Board further found that at the time that the Petitioners were required to follow the Communication Protocol, their emails were excessive, caused disruptions to the orderly operation of the school, and were unnecessary in order for Petitioners to have access to their child and his educational programming. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

27. A copy of the Board's decision has been provided to the Petitioners.

28. A review of both Petitioners' Affirmative Action Complaint and the Petition Petitioners do not allege an actual violation of the District's Affirmative Action policy. Rather, Petitioners are upset with the manner and speed with which their voluminous emails are answered; with the speed with which their telephone calls are answered; and, with the communication protocol initiated by the District.

29. The Board rendered its written decision of Petitioners' appeal to the Board on September 26, 2019. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

30. Petitioners filed their appeal of the Superintendent's denial of their Affirmative Action Complaint via email on July 22, 2019. (Messery Cert., Ex. B)

31. Forty-five days from July 22, 2019 is September 5, 2019.

32. The Board's Affirmative Action Policy requires the Board to render a written decision of an appeal within forty-five days after the appeal is filed or the hearing held, whichever is later. (Messery Cert., Ex. A)

33. The hearing on the appeal was held on September 26, 2019, and the written decision on the appeal was the same date. (Messery Cert., Ex. H)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Standard for Summary Decision

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery presented, as well as any affidavits which may have been filed with the application, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). If the motion is sufficiently supported, the non-moving party must demonstrate by affidavit that there is a genuine issue of fact which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, in order to prevail in such an application. Ibid. These provisions mirror the summary judgment language of R. 4:46-2(c) of the New Jersey Court Rules.

The motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . , are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). And even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536 (citation omitted).

The issue herein is whether or not the Board violated its own policy: District Policy 2260, Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices.

Neither the Affirmative Action Complaint nor the petition filed with OSEP allege an actual violation of the District's Affirmative Action Policy, other than alleging the Board did not render its decision on Petitioners' appeal within the forty-five day time frame found in the Policy.

While it is true the written decision was not within forty-five days from the date the appeal was filed, it was well within forty-five days from the date of the hearing. In fact, the written decision is dated the day of the hearing. This is undisputed.

District Policy 2260, Affirmative Action Program for School and Classroom Practices, at C.10 of the District Regulations states:

> The Board will render a written decision no later than forty-five calendar days after the appeal was filed or the hearing held, whichever occurred later. Copies of the decision will be given to all parties. (emphasis added)

Further, nothing in District Policy 2260 would prevent the District from imposing a communication protocol unless said protocol was based upon race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, gender, gender identity or expression, religion, disability, or socioeconomic status. The communication protocol imposed by the District was not put in place because of any of the above, nor do the Petitioners allege it was.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE there are no genuine issues of material facts and Respondent is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED; and

It is further ORDERED that Petitioners' pro se Petition of Appeal is dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Board of Education of the City of Bridgeton, Cumberland County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed General Release (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Paragraph 2 of the Agreement references certain actions to be taken by the parties within ten (10) calendar days of receipt of an executed version of the within release. This time frame has preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

This matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 15, 2019, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a Settlement Agreement (J-1), which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached document and the attached minutes of the Bridgeton Board of Education Public Action Meeting held on October 8, 2019.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

GENERAL RELEASE

1. For good and valuable consideration in the amount of Three Hundred Seventy Five Thousand Dollars ($375,000.00) (the "settlement sum"), and other sufficient consideration stated below, and intending to be legally bound hereby, Dr. THOMASINA JONES, her agents, attorneys, personal representatives, beneficiaries, heirs, successors and assigns (collectively referred to as "Jones" or "plaintiff"), hereby releases and forever discharges the CITY OF BRIDGETON BOARD OF EDUCATION and ANGELIA EDWARDS, its past, current and future board of education members, officers, directors, trustees, board of trustees/directors, shareholders, partners, members, administrators, employees, agents, attorneys, personal representatives, insurance carriers including but not limited to SUMMIT RISK SERVICES, parent, affiliated and/or subsidiary companies, predecessors, successors and assigns (collectively referred to as "Defendant") from any and all claims, demands, damages, sums of money, costs, expenses, attorneys' fees, actions, rights, causes of action, agreements, promises, obligations or liabilities of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, fixed or contingent, suspected or unsuspected, which Jones ever had, now has or hereafter can, shall or may have against any of them for or upon any matter, cause or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the day and date of this Release, including, but not limited to each claim or matter which was asserted or which could have been asserted by Jones relating to her employment with the Defendant and all claims/causes of action which were asserted or which could have been asserted by Jones in her lawsuit filed in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Docketed as No. CUM-L-110-19 and in the Commissioner of Education for the State of New Jersey, Docketed as OAL: EDU 06616-2019 S and/or for any other reason whatsoever (hereinafter the "claims").

2. The settlement sum will be paid as follows: $375,000.00 to "Dr. Thomasina Jones and Gemmel Todd & Merenich, P.A" within ten (10) calendar days of receipt of an executed version of this Release. Jones shall supply Defendant with a typed IRS Form W-9 in conjunction with the Settlement Payment to be made by Defendant. Jones shall be issued an IRS Form 1099 in connection with the payment. Except as otherwise provided herein, Jones agrees to be solely responsible for and legally bound to make payment of the taxes which any taxing authority determines are owed by Jones on the payments noted above. In the event that any claim is made against Jones for taxes, penalties and/or interest due with respect to the payments noted above, except as otherwise provided within this Agreement, Jones agrees to indemnify and hold Defendant harmless against any liability for such taxes, penalties and/or interest which may be due as a result of Jones failure to pay appropriate taxes on such payments. Nothing herein shall be construed to render Jones responsible for any employment taxes, insurance or related payments subsequently determined to be the sole responsibility of the Defendant.

Plaintiff and/or her counsel shall cause to be filed with the Court any and all required documents to withdraw and/or dismiss the claims with prejudice and without costs. Jones understands and agrees that she would not otherwise be entitled to the consideration provided to her as set forth in paragraph above and that her Release of Defendant includes, but is not limited to, any claims which have been asserted or could have been asserted now under any Federal, State or Local Laws or Ordinances as amended, including, but not limited to, any claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, The Civil Rights Act of 1991, 42 U.S.C. §2000(e) et seq. ("Title VII"), 42 U.S.C. §1981, 42 U.S.C. §1983, The Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §12,101 et seq. ("ADA"), The Age Discrimination in Employment Act, 29 U.S.C. §621 et seq. ("ADEA"), all applicable New Jersey Statutes governing discrimination in employment, defamation, overtime compensation, the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq ("CEPA"), the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq ("NJLAD"), The New Jersey Civil Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 10:6-2 et seq ("NJCRA"), the New Jersey Family Medical Leave Act, N.J.S.A. 34:11B-1, et seq ("NJFMLA"), The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. § 1001 et seq. ("ERISA"), The Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. § 201 et seq. ("FLSA"), The Equal Pay Act, 29 U.S.C. § 206(d)(1) ("EPA"), The Family and Medical Leave Act, ("FMLA") any and all Employee/Whistle blower Protection Acts, any applicable Local Ordinance, any contracts between Jones and the Defendant including but not limited to any claims arising from any tenure rights which may have accrued in in Plaintiff's employment with Defendant, all claims for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing and any other law or right created by statutes, regulation or common law now or hereafter recognized, of any nature whatsoever and all claims for counsel fees and costs. Jones understands that by signing this Release, she foregoes any and all rights to sue Defendant and/or to pursue appeals from any adverse judgment for any cause or liability arising on or before the date of this Release for retaliation, race, gender, age, national origin, disability and/or religious discrimination, hostile work environment, sexual harassment, sexual orientation, gender stereotyping any claims under applicable New Jersey laws or ordinances, Title VII, ADA, ERISA, FLSA, EPA, CEPA, NJLAD, NJCRA, NJFMLA, FMLA, whistle blower and/or employee protection statutes, retaliation, contract, tort, defamation, invasion of privacy, negligence and for any other reason whatsoever. Jones covenants that, as of the date of her execution of this Release/Agreement, other than any injury which she has already disclosed which includes emotional distress and anxiety with medical and psychological treatment for same, she does not suffer from any injury or illness related to her employment with Defendant, including any injury compensable under the Workers Compensation Act and that her earning capacity is not impaired by any work-related injury or illness. However, notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph, it is understood and agreed that Jones is not waiving ordinary claims for accrued and vested benefits under any applicable qualified plan(s).

3. Jones hereby acknowledges that she has been advised in writing to seek the advice of counsel prior to signing this Release and that she has obtained the advice of competent, private counsel to advise her in the negotiation and consummation of this Settlement of the claims. Jones also acknowledges that she has been given a reasonable period of time to review this Release and that she has taken all of the time she needs or wants to review the Release. Accordingly, Plaintiff agrees that she has entered into this Release and Settlement of the claims knowingly and voluntarily.

4. Except for the inclusion of same in the amount referenced in the proceeding paragraphs above, Jones and Defendant shall pay their own expenses, including, without limitation, court costs, legal and expert fees, incurred in the prosecution and defense of the claims and incurred in the negotiation, preparation and execution of the Release. Jones specifically acknowledges that her case, having been brought on whistle blowing allegations under CEPA, she is not entitled to an award of attorneys' fees as a prevailing plaintiff under CEPA in addition to the Settlement Sum provided in Paragraph One (1). Plaintiff specifically acknowledges the Settlement Sum is inclusive of legal fees and costs in the amount of $126,132.38 incurred in the prosecution of her CEPA claim.

5. In addition to specifically and unconditionally releasing Defendant from any and all claims which arose up to and including the date of this Release, Jones further acknowledges with respect to her release of claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended, and the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, as amended, (collectively "ADEA") that:

(a) I have waived my claims knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for the consideration, compensation and benefits provided in accordance with this Release, and that I would not otherwise have been entitled to such consideration, compensation and benefits.

(b) I am advised by this Section 5(b) by Defendant to consult with an attorney in connection with this Release and before signing the Release and I have consulted with my attorney of choice.

(c) I have been given a period of a full twenty-one (21) days to review and consider signing the original version of this Release. I understand and acknowledge that I am not required to use that full 21-day period before signing this Release, and that if I elect to sign the Release in less than that time, I do so voluntarily in order to obtain the benefits of the Release sooner.

(d) I understand that I may revoke my waiver of claims under the ADEA for a period of seven (7) days following the date I sign this Release and that my waiver of ADEA claims will not become effective until the seven-day revocation period has expired.

(e) If I revoke my waiver of ADEA claims in accordance with Section 5(d) above, I will not be entitled to any of the compensation or consideration detailed herein in accordance with the Release.

(f) I acknowledge and understand that Defendant agrees that the Release provided by me does not include a release for claims under the ADEA for employment matters arising after the date I sign the Release.

(g) I acknowledge and agree that this Release complies in all respects with Section 7(f) of the ADEA, that is, the waiver provisions of the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act.

6. Jones affirmatively acknowledges and warrants that she has not filed any other complaint or claim against the Defendant with any local, state or federal court regarding her employment with the Defendant and that she will not do so in the future unless it is based on an alleged breach of this Agreement or for any conduct of Defendants which may take place after the execution of this Agreement. Jones understands that nothing in this Release bars her from assisting in an investigation of a charge or complaint of unlawful employment discrimination by an Agency. If any Agency or court has now assumed or later assumes jurisdiction of any complaint or charge on behalf of Jones against the Defendant, Jones will disclaim entitlement to any relief for her personal benefit or the benefit of her heirs or assigns.

7. This Release will not become effective or be enforceable, and Jones will not be entitled to any compensation, consideration or benefits as detailed herein, until Jones has provided this signed Release to Defendant's counsel, the seven-day revocation period has expired and Jones has not revoked this Release during the seven-day revocation period. To be effective, any such revocation must be in writing and delivered to Albert Marmero, Esquire –GRACE MARMERO & ASSOCIATES, 44 Euclid Street, Woodbury, NJ 08096; by the close of business on the seventh day after signing the Release, and such revocation must expressly state Jones's intention to revoke such Release. If Jones revokes this Release, she will not be entitled to any compensation, consideration or benefits detailed in this Release. If Jones does not timely revoke such Release, the eighth day following her signing of the Release shall be deemed the "Effective Date" of the Release. Jones acknowledges and agrees that this Agreement is subject to a vote of approval by the Defendant's Board of Education.

8. It is agreed and understood that the merits, claims and any allegations of the parties and all other matters which have or might have existed as of the date of the filing of Jones's Complaint or have been asserted under any federal, state or local law, decision, ordinance, regulation or contract remain disputed, and the agreement to resolve or settle any disputes or the claim is made on the understanding that in entering a settlement no party concedes the merits of the other party's claims or defenses. Accordingly, the agreement to settle the claim constitutes a compromise and shall not be construed as or offered in any forum or proceeding as evidence of any admission of or acknowledgment of liability or fault of Defendant. Further, it is specifically understood that Defendant denies any and all liability or violation of law in connection with any of the aforesaid claims or matters, or any other matters involving or implicating Jones.

9. Jones affirms she is not a Medicare or Medicaid Beneficiary (defined as any claimant for whom Medicare has paid Conditional Payments for the treatment of injuries arising out of or related to the Released Matters) as of the date of this Agreement and no conditional payment has been made to or in his/her behalf by Medicare or Medicaid. Jones further represents that she is not enrolled in a Medicare program and was not enrolled at the time of her employment or anytime thereafter through the date of this Agreement. Jones further represents and warrants that no Medicaid payments have been made to or on behalf of Jones and that no liens, claims, demands, subrogated interests, or causes of action of any nature or character exist or have been asserted arising from her employment with Defendant. Jones further agrees that she, and not Defendant shall be responsible for satisfying all such liens, claims, demands, subrogated interests, or causes of action that may exist or have been asserted or that may in the future exist or be asserted.

It is understood and agreed that the information provided below will be provided to The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services pursuant to The Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP Extension Act of 2007.

10. This Release shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey with the exception of its choice of law principles, and except as preempted by federal law. Should any provision of this Release be determined by any court to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the validity of the remaining parts, terms or provisions shall not be effected and the illegal, invalid or unenforceable part, term, or provision will be deemed not to be a part of this Release. The language of all parts of this agreement shall in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning, and not strictly for or against any of the parties hereto.

11. While the settlement sum is not classified as a tenure buy out but instead a release of all Plaintiff's claims as described above, Jones agrees that she shall not, at any time in the future, seek, nor accept, any matter of employment with the Bridgeton Board of Education. Jones agrees that she is waiving and relinquishing any and all tenure rights for which she had attained while employed with Defendant for any and all positions including but not limited to Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent. Defendant waives any contractually and/or legally required notice period for Jones to end her employment with Defendant. Jones also agrees that she is waiving, and releasing the City of Bridgeton Board of Education from, any and all claims related to accrued sick time and vacation time, if any.

12. It is further understood that the terms of this settlement and release shall not be affirmatively disclosed to any person or entity unless as otherwise required by law. This requirement shall not prohibit the parties from disclosure to their accountants, financial advisors, and/or attorneys. Jones agrees that neither she nor her spouse, partner, immediate family members, dependents, heirs, executives, administrators, predecessors, successors, assignees, attorneys, or representatives will publish, publicize or disseminate, or cause to be published, publicized or disseminated, to the news, social media, communications media or any agent thereof, or to any online/internet based forum, or to any employees, friends or any other third party, any of the following: the amount of the Settlement Payment described herein, any offers or counteroffers leading to the Settlement Payment, and/or any of the terms or conditions of this Agreement. The only exception to this Paragraph 12 is that Jones may share the amount of the Settlement Payment with her spouse, attorney and/or tax preparer for tax purposes.

13. Jones acknowledges that this Agreement may be subject to disclosure pursuant to New Jersey's Open Public Records Act and that Defendant has no legal authority to negotiate or bargain away any of the statutory requirements of the Open Public Records Act. Jones acknowledges and agrees that whether or not Defendant is required to disclose this Agreement pursuant to the Open Public Records Act in no way diminishes Jones's obligations pursuant to Paragraph 12.

14. Defendant agrees that, if contacted by any third party for a reference, Defendant shall only provide Jones's dates of employment, positions held and salary information. Jones shall refer all third parties seeking reference checks to Defendant's Superintendent.

15. Jones agrees not to defame, disparage, or demean Defendant in any manner whatsoever to third parties including, but not limited to print media, electronic media, television, radio and public social networking websites. Jones further agrees that she will not take any action to impair the good will, business reputation, or good name of Defendant. Similarly, Defendant agrees not to defame, disparage, or demean the Jones to third parties in any manner whatsoever. Mutual non-disparagement

16. This Release may be signed in counterparts and each of which shall be considered an original for all purposes, and all of which taken together shall constitute one and the same written agreement.

17. Entire Agreement. This Agreement represents the sole and entire agreement between the Parties. This Agreement supersedes all prior agreements, representations or understandings, oral or written, express or implied, with respect to the subject matter hereof.

18. Modification and Waiver. No modification or waiver of any of the terms of this Agreement shall be valid unless in writing and executed with the same formality as this Agreement.

FEDERAL AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT, FEDERAL ANTIDISCRIMINATION LAWS, THE FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT, THE FAMILY AND MEDICAL LEAVE ACT, STATE OVERTIME COMPENSATION LAWS, THE NEW JERSEY LAW AGAINST DISCRIMINATION, THE CONSCIENTIOUS EMPLOYEE PROTECTION ACT, THE NEW JERSEY CIVIL RIGHTS ACT, THE NEW JERSEY FAMILY MEDICAL LEAVE ACT AND OTHER FEDERAL, STATE AND LOCAL LAWS PROHIBITING DISCRIMINATION, HARASSMENT, DISCRIMINATION IN PAYMENT OR COMPENSATION OR DISCHARGE FROM EMPLOYMENT.

JONES FURTHER STATES THAT SHE IS SIGNING THIS RELEASE COMPLETELY WILLINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY AND THERE IS NO MEDICAL OR OTHER CONDITION THAT WOULD PREVENT HER FROM DOING SO. NO ONE HAS DONE ANYTHING TO FORCE OR PRESSURE HER TO SIGN THIS RELEASE. IF SHE ASSERTS OTHERWISE IN THE FUTURE SHE WILL NOT THEN BE TRUTHFUL.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

John McAllister and James Gallagher,

Petitioners,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Stone Harbor, Cape May County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1]

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's determination that the petition of appeal was time-barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Additionally, the petitioners have failed to present any exceptional circumstances that might justify a finding that a strict adherence to the 90-day rule would result in injustice. Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 590 (1993); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16.[2] Accordingly, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: 1/24/20

[1] The record does not include a transcript from the hearing held at the OAL on October 24, 2019. Further, the petitioners filed untimely exceptions without requesting an extension; therefore, such exceptions were not considered.

[2] Since the petition of appeal was untimely filed, it was not necessary to evaluate whether the Stone Harbor Board of Education's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF STONE HARBOR,

John McAllister and James Gallagher, petitioners, pro se

James R. Birchmeier, Esq., for respondent (Birchmeier & Powell, LLC, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 24, 2019 Decided: December 9, 2019

BEFORE JOHN S. KENNEDY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners, John McAllister and James Gallagher, challenge respondent's, Borough of Stone Harbor Board of Education (the Board) decision to approve the Chief

School Administrator's (Superintendent) contract at a Board of Education meeting convened on November 8, 2017.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The original petition of appeal was filed with the Department of Education on March 15, 2018. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on April 23, 2018. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was conducted on October 24, 2019, and the record closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On November 8, 2017, the Board voted to rescind the contract of the Superintendent for the period of July 1, 2015, through June 30, 2018, and approve the Superintendent's contract for the period of July 1, 2017, through June 30, 2021. Petitioners were both sitting Board members at the time of the vote and both voted against the action. After the November 8, 2017, Board meeting, petitioners requested a legal opinion from the Board's solicitor to advise whether the action taken was legally permissible. At the next meeting convened on December 13, 2017, the Board's solicitor provided an opinion that the action in question was valid and legally binding. The Board also obtained legal opinions from two additional law firms that contracted to perform various functions for the Board. All three law firms opined that the Board had authority to take the action. (R-2.) In February 2018, petitioners made an inquiry with the Department of Education to determine if the Board had authority to make the changes to the Superintendent's employment contract. On February 27, 2018, petitioners were instructed by the Assistant Commissioner of Field Services, Robert Bumpus (Bumpus) to file a petition of appeal through the Division of Controversies and Disputes at the Department of Education. The petition was mailed from Cape May, New Jersey on March 13, 2018, and received at the Division of Controversies and Disputes on March 15, 2018.

Testimony

John McAllister testified on his own behalf. No attorney for the board of education attended the November 8, 2017 meeting. When the Superintendent's contract was presented to the Board, a motion to go into executive session was made but did not pass. The Board president gave notification in October 2017, that he was not seeking reelection. McAllister feels that the new contract was an attempt by administration to bind the future Board because it was uncertain if the new Board member would support the new contract. The Board attorney did attend the December 13, 2017, meeting and gave the opinion that the Board's action was permissible under the law. The new contract was approved by the Board by a 4-2 vote on November 8, 2017, and no new vote was taken at the December 2017, Board meeting. At the time McAllister received instructions from Bumpus to file the petition, he was unaware that the petition was required to be filed within ninety-days.

James Gallagher also testified on his own behalf and agreed with the testimony of McAllister. Gallagher was concerned why the Board had to take action on the Superintendent's contract in November 2017, if her current contract was not set to expire until June 2018.

Mark Matreale next testified on behalf of petitioners. He was elected to the school board in November 2017, but did not take office until the Board reorganization in January 2018. The Board decision on November 8, 2017, effected his ability to be involved in the decision making process and bound the incoming Board to the new superintendent contract. He was never provided an opportunity to obtain information regarding the new contract.

Linda Fiori testified on behalf of the board. She is now and has been at all times relevant the Business Administrator/Board Secretary for the Board. Stone Harbor and Avalon entered into a shared services agreement wherein they would share the business administrator and the superintendent. All students attend kindergarten through fourth grade in Stone Harbor and fifth through eight grades in Avalon. The current Superintendent began in 2012. In April 2017, the teachers renegotiated their contract with the Board. It was determined at that time that certain benefits were included in the teacher contract that were not included in the Superintendent's contract. Fiori advised the Superintendent of this and the Superintendent negotiated new contract terms with the Board's personnel committee. The contract revisions were reviewed by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA) and the county superintendent. The county superintendent is required to sign off on all new and revised contracts proposed between board of educations and their superintendents. The county superintendent approved the proposed contract and Fiori placed a version of the proposed contract on the Board's computer system. The Superintendent's current contract had a term from 2015 through June 30, 2018. The new Superintendent contract had a start date of July 1, 2017, to be consistent with the newly ratified teacher contract. As a result, the motion made at he November 8, 2017, meeting rescinded the currently existing Superintendent contract and approved the new contract retroactively to July 1, 2017. Fiori was not involved in the contract negotiations between the Superintendent and the Board's personnel committee.

Stacey Tracy next testified on behalf of the board. She has been the Superintendent for both Avalon and Stone Harbor School Boards since 2012. Prior to 2012, Ms. Tracy was the Shared Curriculum Supervisor for both districts since 2005. In April 2017, she was advised by Fiori that the benefits for the teachers had changed as a result of the negotiations to their new contract. The county superintendent advised her at that time that it was permissible to open her contract and make changes. She contacted the personnel committee which consisted of the president and vice president of both the Stone Harbor and Avalon Boards. While they were in agreement that changes should be made to the Superintendent's contract in April 2017, a personnel committee meeting was not conducted until September 2017, as the committee members had seasonal obligations that made it difficult to meet during the summer.

The county superintendent approved the new contract terms in a letter, dated October 26, 2017, (R-7) and after a few minor revisions were made, a second time on November 8, 2017. (R-8.) With her consent, discussion regarding the contract were conducted in public session at the Board meeting on November 8, 2017. McAllister asked for clarification as to weather a lame duck board can take action that will essentially bind the future Board, so Tracy contacted all three of the attorneys that represent the Board. All three attorneys rendered the decision that the Board action approving her new contract was permissible. She was not concerned that her new contract would not pass under the new Board. The timing of the Board action was a result of when the Board received approval from the county superintendent.

Based on the testimony of the witnesses and examination of the documentary evidence, I FIND the forgoing as FACTS.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Board asserts that the petition should be dismissed as a matter of law. The Board took action on the Superintendent's contract at its November 8, 2017, Board meeting. The petition was received at the Department of Education on March 15, 2018, more than ninety-days from the Board action and in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The ninety-day rule has been strictly followed and applied almost without exception. The rule may be relaxed, however, under exceptional circumstances or if there is a compelling reason to do so. M.N. & E.Y. o/b/o K.N. v. State Operated Sch. Dist. Of Jersey City, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11136-03 (June 17, 2004), aff'd (Comm. Ed. July 2004). Petitioners assert that they were instructed by the Assistant Commissioner of Field Services, Robert Bumpus (Bumpus) to file a petition of appeal through the Division of Controversies and Disputes at the Department of Education. That instruction did not occur until February 27, 2018. McAllister concedes that at the time of filing the petition, he was unaware of the ninety-day rule.

It is well settled that a petition of appeal before the Commissioner must be brought within ninety-days of receipt of "notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the board which is the subject of the contested case." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The ninety-day limitation period begins to run once a petitioner learns of the facts that would enable the filing of a claim. Kaprow v. Board of Ed. Of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). In this case, the day that petitioners learned of the facts that would enable the filing of the petition was November 8, 2017. Therefore, the ninety-day limitation period would have expired on February 6, 2018. Even if, as petitioner argues, the facts that would enable the filing of the petition were not known until December 13, 2017, (the date the Board received the legal opinions from the three law firms) the ninety-day limitation period would have expired on March 13, 2018. Petitioners concede that the petition was placed in the mail on that date and not received and filed by the Department of Education until December 15, 2018, ninety-two-days after the December 13, 2017, Board meeting and 122-days after the Board approved the new contract. There has been no evidence presented during this hearing that shows any exceptional or compelling circumstances to relax the ninety-day rule that has consistently been strictly enforced. See Dreher v. Jersey City Bd. Of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 1706 aff'd. 1988 S.L.D. 2439 (St. Bd. 1988) (petition filed only two days after the timeline expired was dismissed as untimely); Taylor v. Bd. Of Ed. Of Twp. Of Hardyston, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1049-05, Agency Dkt. No 366-10/04 (petition filed one week after the timeline expired was dismissed as untimely); Kaprow v. Board of Ed. Of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993) (petition filed two weeks after the timeline expired was dismissed as untimely). Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition filed in this matter is time-barred since it was not filed within the ninety-day limitation period.

It should be noted that petitioners have not meet their burden to show that the actions of the Board were arbitrary and capricious. Where there is room for two opinions, action is not considered arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though the court may believe that an erroneous conclusion has been reached. Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dep't of Envt'l Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199 (App. Div. 1973). Petitioners argue that the Board action was inappropriate because the Commissioner has ruled that a "lame duck" board is only empowered to act in certain circumstances and cannot appoint administrators or other employees to positions in which no vacancy exists. Nowak v. Bd. of Ed. Of Borough of Manville, 1976 S.L.D. 43. Nowak does not bind the action taken by this Board. Here, the Board voted to rescind and grant a new contract to the Superintendent retroactive to July 1, 2017. If the Board had acted to award a new contract that did not take effect until after the new Board was formed in January 2018, that would be a case where Nowak would control. The full Board took action on the Superintendent contract. This contract was previously approved by the county superintendent as well as the NJSBA.

After the vote and because of the question presented by petitioners as to whether the Board had authority to approve the contract, administration obtained a legal opinion from three law firms. All three agreed that the action taken was permissible under the law. Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have not met their burden of demonstrating that the action taken by the full Board on November 8, 2017, was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, and that the petition of appeal must be dismissed.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's decision to approve the Chief School Superintendent contract at a Board's meeting convened on November 8, 2017, is AFFIRMED and the petition of appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Debra Kwapniewski,

Complainant,

v.

Ryan Curioni, Lodi Board of Education, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The School Ethics Commission (SEC) found that respondent Ryan Curioni, a member of the Board of Education of the Borough of Lodi, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) of the School Ethics Act (Act) for posting content on his blog that attacked the complainant, a tenured teacher in the Lodi Public Schools. Respondent was found to have made deliberate, unnecessary and repeated attacks via social media on the complainant, her qualifications, her salary and her general employment in the school district, violating multiple provisions of the Act. Accordingly, the SEC recommended a penalty of suspension for a period of six months. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the penalty recommended by the SEC, finding that the severity, willfulness and frequency of respondent's inappropriate conduct warrant a suspension of six months. Accordingly, the respondent was suspended for six months as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Debra Kwapniewski,

Complainant,

v.

Ryan Curioni, Board of Education of the Borough of Lodi, Bergen County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission have been reviewed. The Commission found that respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) of the School Ethics Act for posting content attacking complainant on his blog, and recommended a six-month suspension. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty.[1]

Respondent filed exceptions to the penalty, arguing that the ALJ accepted false and hearsay testimony from complainant and failed to acknowledge evidence submitted by respondent. Respondent contends that the content he posted was on his personal blog and it is protected by his right to free speech. The exceptions do not include any argument specifically seeking a reduction or elimination of the penalty.

[1] Respondent did not appeal the underlying finding of violations to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission. The arguments advanced by respondent in his exceptions, which might be appropriate as part of an appeal of the underlying finding of violations of the School Ethics Act, are not persuasive in the context of the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commissioner agrees with the Commission that the severity, willfulness, and frequency of respondent's inappropriate conduct warrant a suspension of six months.

Accordingly, respondent shall be suspended for six months as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Final Decision (On Remand)

Debra Kwapniewski,
Complainant

v.

Ryan Curioni,
Lodi Board of Education, Bergen County,
Respondent

I. Procedural History

This matter arises from a Complaint that was filed on July 27, 2017, by Debra Kwapniewski (Complainant), alleging that Ryan Curioni (Respondent Curioni) and Alfonso Mastrofilipo (Respondent Mastrofilipo), both members of the Lodi Board of Education (Board), violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. More specifically, the Complaint alleges Respondent Curioni violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i) in Count 1, and Respondent Mastrofilipo violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) in Count 2.

At its meeting on November 28, 2017, and after considering the Complaint, Respondent Mastrofilipo's Motion to Dismiss, and Complainant's response to the Motion to Dismiss, the Commission adopted a decision granting the Motion to Dismiss. As a result of the Commission's decision, Respondent Mastrofilipo was dismissed from the above-referenced matter, and no longer considered a named Respondent.

Also at its meeting on November 28, 2017, and as to the allegations regarding Respondent Curioni, the Commission voted to find the Complaint not frivolous and, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.8(a), to transmit the allegations in Count 1 to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a plenary hearing where Complainant would carry the burden to prove the alleged violations of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Of note, the Commission did not find probable cause for the allegations set forth in the Complaint, but, instead, simply voted to transmit the matter to the OAL. Complainant and Respondent Curioni were advised of the Commission's decision in a letter decision dated December 1, 2017.

After the matter was transmitted to the OAL, Complainant moved for summary decision, seeking an order finding that Respondent violated the Act and imposing an appropriate penalty.

Initial Decision (On Remand) at 2. On September 20, 2018, the Honorable Michael Antoniewicz, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), denied Complainant's motion. Id.

The matter was subsequently transferred to the Honorable Elissa Mizzone Testa, ALJ (ALJ Testa), on September 27, 2018, and a hearing was scheduled for February 13, 2019. Initial Decision (On Remand) at 2. On the scheduled hearing date, Respondent failed to appear. Id. In light of Respondent's failure to appear, an attempt was made to reach him by telephone and, on the record, "he stated that he was aware of the hearing, that he would not be attending, that he had no objection to ... Complainant putting her proofs on the record, and that he did not wish to have the matter rescheduled." Id. Based on Respondent's statement, the hearing was conducted on February 13, 2019, and the record was kept open to allow Complainant to submit a written summation, which was done on April 15, 2019; thereafter, the record was closed. Id.

On June 27, 2019, ALJ Testa issued an Initial Decision detailing findings of fact, legal conclusions, and a recommended penalty. Initial Decision (On Remand) at 3. At a special meeting on August 30, 2019, and after a thorough review of the record (including ALJ Testa's Initial Decision,) the Commission adopted a decision remanding the matter to the OAL. Id. In remanding the matter to the OAL, the Commission did not find that additional fact-finding (or a hearing) was necessary, or that the record needed to be reopened so that the parties could introduce additional evidence. Id. Instead, the Commission remanded the matter so that (1) the specific facts in the record which support each violation can be more fully explained and (2) the issue of Respondent's entitlement to "free speech" protections can be more fully analyzed. Id.

On October 24, 2019, ALJ Testa issued an Initial Decision (On Remand), and the Commission acknowledged receipt of same; therefore, the forty-five (45) day statutory period for the Commission to issue a Final Decision was December 9, 2019. [1] Prior to December 9, 2019, the Commission requested a forty-five (45) day extension of time to issue its final decision. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, and for good cause shown, the Commission was granted an extension until January 23, 2020.

At its meeting on November 19, 2019, the Commission considered the full record in this matter. Thereafter, and at its meeting on December 17, 2019, the Commission voted to adopt ALJ Testa's findings of fact; to adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); to reject the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d); and to modify the recommended penalty of suspension for "at least six (6) months" to suspension for six (6) months.

II. Initial Decision

In the Initial Decision (On Remand) dated October 24, 2019, ALJ Testa again noted that Respondent did not appear at the hearing on February 13, 2019, and that no witnesses testified on his behalf. Initial Decision (On Remand) at 2, 6. As for Complainant, ALJ Testa found that Complainant credibly testified and, therefore, adopted as fact:

[1] Forty-five (45) days after October 24, 2019, was, technically, Sunday, December 8, 2019.

1) Complainant is a resident of Lodi, and has been employed by the Board for eighteen (18) years as a pre-K teacher. Initial Decision (On Remand) at 3.

2) Complainant is certified to teach pre-K through eighth grade. Id.

3) Complainant became a member of the Lodi Education Association (LEA) when she became employed by the Board. Id.

4) Complainant has held several positions with the LEA during her employment with the Board. More specifically, in 2009, Complainant attended Legislative Action Committee meetings; served as recording secretary for two years around 2011; and served on the LEA's negotiating committee team in 2016. Id.

5) Complainant testified that, as permitted by the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the LEA, she "has been released from school" a few times over the years to conduct union business. Id.

6) Complainant applied for a job with the Board after the Board became eligible for early-childhood funding, and was hiring early-childhood specialists to fill newly created positions. Id. at 4.

7) Complainant was interviewed by the superintendent for her job, and was offered the job after the Board voted to hire her. Id.

8) At the time she was hired, Complainant's brother was also employed by the Board, but he was not "involved at all in her gaining employment." Id.

9) Complainant was appropriately certified to teach pre-K at the time she was hired by the Board. Id.

10) Complainant testified that Respondent is a Board member "who was officially installed in January 2017, and his term is up in January 2020." Id.

11) Respondent is currently Board President. Id.

12) Complainant first met Respondent at a Board meeting in December 2016, at which Respondent made a statement and Complainant responded to his statement during the public comment portion. Id.

13) After this Board meeting, Complainant became aware that Respondent wrote a blog about Lodi, because she appeared on it for the first time. Id.

14) Complainant has appeared on Respondent's blog "multiple times" after the December 2016 meeting. Id.

15) From May through June 2017, which was the timeframe for the at-issue blogs, Respondent was a Board member, but not yet Board President. Id. at 4-5.

16) From May through June 2017, Complainant was a building representative, a member of the negotiating team, and a chairperson of the Government Relations Committee. Id. at 5.

17) Complainant identified several posts that appeared on Respondent's blog and which contained inaccurate or misleading information about contract negotiations (and Complainant's salary), referenced Complainant in a negative manner, depicted a picture of the street where Complainant lives, undermined her credibility with members of the LEA, questioned her qualifications for her teaching position, implied she received her position through patronage, questioned her salary and honesty, and referred to her as a "greedy bastard" and "union bully." Id. at 4-5, and 9-10.

18) Between May and June 2017, Complainant testified that "about forty people came up to her" and commented on Respondent's blogs about her. Id. at 5. The people who made these comments were aware that Respondent was a Board member because "they are members of the school community, Lodi is a relatively small community, and people had direct knowledge that [Respondent] is a member of the Board." Id. at 5-6.

19) Complainant testified that "people questioned her salary based on [Respondent's] blog posts, and also whether she got her teaching job by patronage." Id. at 6. Complainant further testified that "several people questioned her based on the blog post that compared her salary to that of newer teachers." Id.

20) Complainant stated that "she feels the blog posts undermined her credibility with members of the [LEA] because [Respondent's] posts questioned her salary and honesty." Id.

Based on the findings of fact as set forth above, ALJ Testa found that, as a general matter, the evidence at the hearing established that, while serving as a member of the Board, Respondent used his blog to "relentlessly attack" Complainant; called Complainant insulting names, claimed she was hired through patronage, questioned her credentials, posted inaccurate statements about her salary, and attacked her moral character; posted photos of Complainant and her property, including her street on which she lives; and repeatedly referenced and attacked Complainant as an employee of the Board. Id. at 9.

Therefore, ALJ Testa concluded that Complainant has proven by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that Respondent's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). Initial Decision (On Remand) at 13-14. More specifically, and as to the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), ALJ Testa noted that Respondent "inaccurately published Complainant's salary" to "negatively impact the opinions of the [LEA] and its members, specifically, [Complainant]." Id. at 10. In this way, "[Respondent] attempted to effect changes to salaries and policies that govern salaries through the unethical procedure of targeting [Complainant] and misrepresenting her salary, violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a)." Id.

Regarding the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), ALJ Testa explained that Respondent "inaccurately posted [Complainant's] salary and grossly overstated it by over $20,000." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 10. Further, the "Board and [LEA] agree to teacher salaries after duly conducted negotiations," and Respondent "was not a member of the negotiations committee yet acted in a manner unrelated to his duty to develop the general rules and principles that guide the management of the school district." Id. In violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), Respondent's post "contained gross misrepresentations, was meant to interfere with negotiations and 'frame policies and plans' before the 'board has consulted those who will be affected by them.'" Id.

As to the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), ALJ Testa stated that Respondent became "'directly involved in activities ... that are the responsibility of school personnel or the day to day administration of the school district ... ' due to his involvement with the hiring process." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 11. According to ALJ Testa, Respondent "repeatedly discussed the merits of [Complainant's] hiring on his blog," and "relentlessly discussed salaries and overstated [Complainant's] salary." Id. ALJ Testa continued, Respondent's "baseless claims may appear to pressure and influence either Board members or the public to make changes to these matters that affect personnel." Id.

Regarding the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), ALJ Testa found that Respondent, a "sitting Board member, repeatedly and deliberately attacked [Complainant], a teacher hired by the same Board, through numerous blog posts." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 11. Not only did he allege that Complainant was unqualified, that she received her job through patronage, he also suggested, among other things, that Complainant was a "greedy bastard" who did not "put children first." Id. ALJ Testa found that Respondent's "actions on the blog were beyond the scope of his duties as a Board member, and private action of this kind may compromise the [B]oard." Id. ALJ Testa continued, "[i]t is evident that a Board member smearing and verbally attacking a teacher in a publicly accessible forum diminishes the integrity of the Board," and "[t]he aggressive and intense nature of the posts may clearly have 'intimidated the public from coming forward and addressing the Board.'" Id.

As to the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), ALJ Testa found that Respondent "published a post dated May 28, 2017, that stated the fees paid to the [LEA] went towards supporting favorable politicians." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 12. However, this statement was not "backed by evidence and is false," as N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.5(a)-(c) "explicitly prohibits dues paid by non-union members being used for political expenses." Id. According to ALJ Testa, this post, therefore, "provid[ed] inaccurate and baseless information." Id. Complainant "substantiated the falsity of these claims by testifying that direct political claims are not contributed to by union dues and that a political action committee raises money through direct donations that can be used for specific candidates." Id.

Regarding the violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i), ALJ Testa found that Respondent "repeatedly attacked [Complainant] in his blog," including: in one post, he "scornfully referred to Complainant as the Saturday Night Live Charter 'Debbie Downer'"; Respondent "continued to imply she received the job due to her brother's political activities and that she was unqualified for her position"; Respondent also "questioned what [Complainant's] resume looked like when she was 'handed' the job"; Respondent also suggested that Complainant did not "put children first"; Respondent posted a photo of Complainant's home (and street location) and claimed that she (Complainant) had "an irrational obsession with liberal politicians" and "was all about attention seeking and feeling relevant"; Respondent alleged that Complainant did not want to resolve contract negotiations; Respondent referred to Complainant as a "greedy bastard" and implied she was a "bully;" and Respondent again referred to Complainant as a "union bull[y]" in a subsequent blog post." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 12. Despite applying for her position, being interviewed, and then approved by the Board for her position, Respondent "deliberately attacked [Complainant's] qualifications and moral character and this resulted in undermining, opposing, compromising or harming school personnel in the proper performance of their duties." Id. at 12-13. Further, the blog is available to the public, including parents and students within the District, and anyone who reads the blog "would take the inflammatory statements at face value," and this harms Complainant's "reputation and her ability to "properly teach and perform her obligations." Id. at 13.

As for Respondent's rights to free speech, ALJ Testa noted that the Commission previously advised in Advisory Opinion A02-06, (A02-06), that although a Board member does not "surrender the right that they have as citizens such as freedom of speech when they become members of a school board," they must still comply with the Act. Initial Decision (On Remand) at 13. Furthermore, in Advisory Opinion A26-14, (A26-14), the Commission advised that the "use of social media would require a disclaimer and that the use of social media may not be published on a social media representing ... you as a Board member." Id. In this matter, ALJ Testa found that while Respondent claims to be writing as a private citizen and uses a disclaimer, "it also indisputably represents him as a Board member." Id. Therefore, and because Respondent referenced, on several occasions, his status as a Board member (e.g., "...long before I got on the [B]oard" and "[b]efore I got on the [B]oard"), ALJ Testa found that it is "not convincing" that Respondent was speaking "strictly as a private citizen, as demonstrated by his identifying himself as a Board member in at least two blogs." Id.

In terms of a penalty, ALJ Testa noted that Respondent should have "taken greater care" than to post inaccurate information and disparaging comments about Complainant on social media. Id. at 14. The fact that Respondent was a Board member and not Board President does not "diminish the severity, willfulness," and frequency of his inappropriate conduct. Id. In addition, Respondent's decision not to participate in the hearing demonstrates his lack of remorse and lack of acceptance of responsibility for his conduct. Id. Therefore, ALJ Testa concluded that a penalty of suspension for no less than six (6) months is warranted. Id.

III. Exceptions

On November 4, 2019, Respondent filed Exceptions to the Initial Decision (On Remand), and stated that ALJ Testa "did not bother to correct her blatantly false statements beginning with the first sentence of her decision." Respondent also requested that the Commission "reapply [his] previously submitted 'exceptions' to" ALJ Testa's Initial Decision.

In his previously filed Exceptions (on July 7, 2019), Respondent notes that ALJ Testa claims, "The [Commission] issued a Probable Cause Notice ...," but Respondent argues this statement is not true. Respondent maintains the Commission has never issued a probable cause notice against him and although he notified ALJ Testa "multiple times" that this was not a true statement, she has not made a correction. Respondent also argues that ALJ Testa's decision is not evidence based. Respondent claims that on February 13, 2019, he explained that he runs a family business, that he has repeatedly answered the Complaint, and asked ALJ Testa to refer to the answers that he submitted; however, ALJ Testa replied that she would not consider Respondent's answers or evidence, only the testimony at the hearing. Respondent further argues that contrary to what she said to him, ALJ Testa considered the summation submitted on April 15, 2019, from counsel (Oxfeld), which ALJ Testa used as her decision, in addition to counsel's recommended penalty. Respondent further argues that hearings and decisions should not be based on hearsay. Respondent contends that ALJ Testa's personal opinions or personal observations of demeanor does not make something fact. More specifically, when ALJ Testa notes, "Based upon consideration of testimonial and documentary evidence ... and having the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witness ... I FIND the above testimony as Fact." Respondent argues this is not fact when "overwhelming evidence shows otherwise." Respondent maintains his posts are accurate as demonstrated in the exhibits, Complainant did get her job through patronage and he obtained her salary information from the 2017-2018 school budget. Respondent contends that Complainant is an "NJEA activist and political operative," who uses the NJEA to file complaints using union dues against anyone who opposes her. Respondent maintains that none of the allegations have to do with his position as a Board member, they are about his personal blog, which does not contain any confidential information, and which he has the right as a citizen to express.

Finally, in his most recent submission, Respondent noted that he is running for re-election (November 5, 2019) against the New Jersey Education Association (NJEA) endorsed slate, and Complainant's brother is the "treasurer." Further, Respondent maintains that Complainant's brother and sister have used ALJ Testa's decision to attack him on social media. Respondent further maintains that the "timing of [ALJ] Testa's decision and her intentional disregard for the evidence and facts give the appearance of political motivation."

IV. Analysis

Upon careful and independent review of the facts and evidence set forth in the record, the Commission adopts ALJ Testa's findings of fact, and adopts the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i). In adopting these legal conclusions, the Commission finds that there is sufficient credible evidence cited in support of each violation of the Code.

Notwithstanding the above, the Commission rejects the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d). Although ALJ Testa found that Respondent engaged in the "unethical procedure" of targeting Complainant and repeatedly misrepresenting her salary in an effort to negatively impact the opinions that others had of the LEA and its members, especially Complainant, the Commission finds that these facts are insufficient to support a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a).

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)(1), factual evidence of a violation of N.J.S.A.* 18A:12-24.1(a) shall include a copy of a final decision from any court of law or administrative agency of this State demonstrating that Respondent failed to enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education, and/or court orders pertaining to schools or that Respondent brought about changes through illegal or unethical procedures. Despite being required by N.J.A.C. 6A:28-6.4(a)(1), Complainant has not provided, and the underlying record does not contain, a copy of a final decision(s) from any court of law or other administrative agency demonstrating that Respondent violated a specific law, rule, or regulation when he posted the inaccurate and misleading information on his social media page. Absent such a final decision, and even if the accusations may be actionable in another forum, there is insufficient credible evidence in the record to support a finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a).

In addition, because Respondent repeatedly discussed the merits of Complainant's hiring on his blog, and relentlessly discussed and misrepresented Complainant's salary, ALJ Testa found that, in violation of N.J.S.A.* 18A:12-24.1(d), Respondent became "'directly involved in activities ... that are the responsibility of school personnel or the day to day administration of the school district ...' due to his involvement with the hiring process." Initial Decision (On Remand) at 11. Although Respondent's posts and comments were clearly inappropriate, and serve as the basis for other violations of the Code, they had no impact on whether Complainant was actually hired because, at the time they were made, Complainant was already employed in the District. There was also no factual evidence presented that, as a result of Respondent's accusations, an investigation was conducted by the District or its personnel to ascertain whether Complainant should be removed from her position. Consequently, and because Respondent's posts and comments did not actually impact her hiring (or retention), the Commission finds that there is insufficient credible evidence in the record to support a finding that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

V. Decision

For the reasons more fully detailed above, the Commission determines to adopt ALJ Testa's findings of fact; to adopt the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); and to reject the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d).

VI. Penalty

Based upon the conclusion that Respondent violated multiple provisions of the Code, and because she indicated that Respondent should have "taken greater care" than to post inaccurate information and disparaging comments about Complainant on social media, ALJ Testa recommended a penalty of suspension for "not less than six (6) months."

The Commission agrees with ALJ Testa that Respondent's deliberate, unnecessary, and repeated attacks on Complainant, her qualifications, her salary, and her general employment in the District, is worthy of a harsh penalty. The imposition of a harsh penalty is further necessitated by the fact that, by and large, Respondent's comments and posts about Complainant's qualifications, hiring, and salary were not accurate or truthful. However, and only because it rejected the conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), the Commission modifies ALJ Testa's recommended penalty to find that suspension for six (6) months, as opposed to suspension for at least six months, is warranted.[2] But for its rejection of the conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), the Commission would have recommended a suspension for a much longer duration, and possibly removal.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) for review of the Commission's recommended sanctions. Parties may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction and an appeal of the Commission's findings of violations of the Act.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanctions of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's findings of violations may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended sanctions to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's findings of violations must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4, et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanctions will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the findings of violations on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

Whereas, at its meeting on November 28, 2017, and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.8(a), the School Ethics Commission (Commission) voted to transmit the allegations relating to Respondent Curioni to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a plenary hearing; and

Whereas, following a hearing on February 13, 2019, at which Respondent did not appear, the Honorable Elissa Mizzone Testa, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ Testa), issued an Initial Decision dated June 27, 2019; and

Whereas, in the Initial Decision, it was determined that Petitioner had proven, by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, that Respondent's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); and

Whereas, based on these legal conclusions, ALJ Testa recommended a penalty of suspension for no less than six (6) months; and

Whereas, at its meeting on August 30, 2019, and after reviewing and discussing the record at its meeting on July 23, 2019, the Commission voted to adopt a decision remanding the matter to the OAL; and

Whereas, on October 24, 2019, ALJ Testa issued another Initial Decision (On Remand); and

Whereas, in the Initial Decision (On Remand), it was determined that Petitioner had proven, by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence, that Respondent's actions violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); and

Whereas, based on ALJ Testa's legal conclusions, she recommended a penalty of suspension for no less than six (6) months; and

Whereas, on November 4, 2019, Respondent filed Exceptions, but Complainant did not file a reply to Respondent's Exceptions, or otherwise file her own Exceptions; and

Whereas, at its meeting on November 19, 2019, the Commission discussed adopting ALJ Testa's findings of fact; rejecting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(a); adopting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(c); rejecting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(d); adopting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(e); adopting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(g); adopting the legal conclusion that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(i); and modifying the recommended penalty of suspension for "at least six (6) months" to suspension for six (6) months; and

Whereas, at its meeting on December 17, 2019, the Commission reviewed and voted to approve the within decision as accurately memorializing its actions/findings from its meeting on November 19, 2019; and

Now Therefore Be It Resolved, the Commission hereby adopts the within decision as a Final Decision and directs its staff to notify all parties to this action of its decision herein.

Record Closed: October 25, 2019 Decided: December 30, 2019

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 7, 2018, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between Petitioner, Bancroft Neurohealth ("Bancroft"), and Respondent, The New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Policy and Planning ("Department") (collectively "The Parties"), that this action is hereby settled upon the following terms:

RECITALS

WHEREAS, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10 requires Approved Private Schools for Students with Disabilities ("APSSD") to annually submit audited financial statements based on the July 1 to June 30 school year; and

WHEREAS, Bancroft submitted the required audited financial statements for the 2005-2006 school year; and

WHEREAS, the Department reviewed Bancroft's 2005-2006 audited financial statements and identified non-allowable costs of $81,092.73; and

WHEREAS, Bancroft has not submitted the required audited financial statements for any year subsequent to the 2005-2006 school year; and

WHEREAS, Bancroft has submitted draft financial statements for the 2006-2007 through the 2016-2017 school years; and

WHEREAS the Department considered Bancroft's draft financial statements for the 2006-2007 through the 2016-2017 school years and found additional anticipated non-allowable costs; and

WHEREAS the Department has directed Bancroft to file audited financial statements for the 2006-2007 through the 2016-2017 school years; and

WHEREAS the Department recognizes Bancroft's unique situation and the substantial expense Bancroft would incur in preparing and filing audited financial statements for each school year from the 2006-2007 through the 2016-2017 school years, which amount would be an allowable cost; and

WHEREAS the Department notified all school districts that paid tuition to Bancroft between 2005-2006 and 2016-2017 of a potential settlement in this matter and allowed them 30 days to submit any comments to the Department:

NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed by way of this Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") as follows:

1. The Parties acknowledge that the above Recitals are true and correct and are incorporated herein as material to this Agreement.

2. The Department agrees to rely upon the draft financial statements submitted by Bancroft's independent auditor that were not finalized for the 2006-2007 through the 2016-2017 school years.

3. Bancroft agrees that it will file audited financial statements for the 2017-2018 school year and all future years as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10 and in accordance with all applicable regulations and guidance.

4. Bancroft further agrees to accept $1,500,000 as non-allowable costs attributable to the 2005-2006 through the 2016-2017 school years.

   a. The Department has identified the districts that are impacted by this Agreement by reason of having paid tuition to Bancroft during the 2005-2006 through 2016-2017 school years. The amount of the settlement shall be allocated to each district based on the ratio of each sending district board of education's total Average Daily Enrollment ("ADE") in Bancroft for the 2005-2006 through 2016-2017 school years to Bancroft's total ADE for the same period.

b. Each district shall receive its allocation of the $100,000 due in each year of this agreement until its total allocation is repaid. Bancroft agrees to notify each sending district of this settlement within 90 days and to remit each district's share of the settlement amount through actual remittance or through tuition credits, by June 30 of each school year over the next fifteen school years, beginning in the 2019-2020 school year.

   i. It is understood that the purpose of this allocation is to refund to sending districts a portion of the funds previously paid by those districts in respect of the charges disallowed pursuant to this Agreement, not to bestow a windfall on districts who have not yet paid Bancroft the tuition charges for the years related to the refund and at issue in this matter. In such cases, contracted parties should ascertain any net refund due the sending district and take appropriate measures to implement it.

c. Subject to the obligations set forth in subparagraph (b) above, nothing herein shall affect whatever entitlement Bancroft otherwise would have to collect from sending districts any outstanding tuition charges unrelated to the partial disallowances agreed to herein.

d. Nothing in this agreement shall prohibit Bancroft from prepayment, and a shorter repayment term may be negotiated between Bancroft and any school district.

e. Bancroft's payment of the settlement amounts in each year shall be memorialized in a Note Disclosure in that year's audited financial statements.

f. Under no circumstances shall the amount of settlement be included in allowable costs.

5. Bancroft agrees that, in any given school year, it will only charge the salary and fringe benefits of a Teacher Aide/Medical Specialist to "instructional" if it has (1) submitted the required statement of assurance to the Burlington and/or Camden County Offices of Education as provided for in N.J.A.C. 6A:32-4.2, and (2) maintained sufficient documentation to show that the majority of tasks completed by the Teacher Aide/Medical Specialist are instructional, which should include (a) an accurate job description and (b) an up-to-date contract with the vendor that explicitly identifies the job duties of a Teacher Aide/Medical Specialist. The Department agrees that, if Bancroft complies with these requirements, it will not disallow the salary or fringe benefits of any such Teacher Aide/Medical Specialist.

6. The Parties stipulate and agree that this Agreement sets forth the complete and full resolution of all issues between them with regard to audited financial statements for the 2005-2006 through the 2016-2017 school years. This Agreement may not be modified or amended except by a written instrument signed by all parties hereto.

7. The Parties hereby agree that this Agreement shall fully dispose of any and all causes of action and claims that the Parties may have against one another relating to audited financial statements for the 2005-2006 through the 2016-2017 school years. In exchange for, and in consideration of, the payments, benefits, and other commitments described above, each party hereby fully releases, acquits, and forever discharges each other party of and from any and all claims, liabilities, causes of action, damages, costs, attorneys' fees, expenses, and compensation whatsoever, of whatever kind or nature, in law, equity or otherwise, whether known or unknown, vested or contingent, suspected or unsuspected, that the party may now have to the date of this Agreement against each other party related to audited financial statements for the 2005-2006 through the 2016-2017 school years.

8. Petitioners shall file a Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice of OAL Docket No. EDU 06469-2018S with the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law on or before October 31, 2019.

9. This Agreement shall not constitute, be interpreted, be construed, or be used as evidence of any admission of fact, law, responsibility, wrongdoing, or liability on the part of the Department or Bancroft and shall not be referred to in any other proceeding by any party other than to enforce the express terms of this Agreement.

10. Nothing in this Agreement shall preclude an action to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

11. This Agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including but not limited to the New Jersey Contractual Liability Act, N.J.S.A. 59:13-1 et seq. The Parties agree that any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement shall only be brought in the Superior Court of New Jersey.

12. The Parties understand and agree to the terms of this Agreement. It is acknowledged that this Agreement has been entered into freely, willingly, and voluntarily, without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity for the Parties to consult with representation of their choosing and at their option.

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by and between Petitioner, Bancroft Neurohealth ("Bancroft"), and Respondent, The New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Policy and Planning ("Department") (collectively "The Parties"), that the settlement agreement in this action signed by The Parties on September 27, 2019 is hereby amended upon the following terms:

It is hereby agreed by way of this Addendum that Paragraph 3 of the Settlement Agreement shall be amended as follows:

3. Bancroft agrees that it will file audited financial statements for the 2017-2018 school year and all future years as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10 and in accordance with all applicable regulations and guidance, provided, that Bancroft is granted an extension until November 30, 2019, to file its audited financial statements for fiscal years 2018 and 2019 only.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DAVID ZANE

SCHOOL DISTRICT FOR THE TOWNSHIP OF MONROE, GLOUCESTER COUNTY Petitioner	:	Agency Dkt No. 283-10/19
and DAVID ZANE Respondent	:	AWARD APPROVING SETTLEMENT

Before: Carol F. Laskin, Esquire, Arbitrator

APPEARANCES:

For the Petitioner
Dean R. Wittman, Esquire
Zeller and Wieliczko, LLP

For the Respondent
Sanmanthi Dev, Esquire
Capehart Scatchard, P.A.

On October 17, 2019, the Monroe Township Board of Education ("Board") referred certified tenure charges against teaching staff member David Zane ("Respondent" or "Zane"). On November 8, 2019, Zane answered the tenure charge. On November 18, 2019, after review, the Department of Education appointed the undersigned, pursuant to P.L. 2012, c.26 to hear and evaluate the tenure charges.

The parties, determining to amicably resolve all disputes without further litigation while achieving the goals of both parties, entered into a Settlement Agreement and General Release on December 19, 2019, attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

On January 13, 2020, the Board submitted a Certification of the Board Minutes executed by Board Administrative/Board Secretary Lisa Schulz, attached hereto as Exhibit 2. Therein, the parties submitted the Settlement Agreement and General Release for my review, seeking approval.

The New Jersey Administrative Code contains procedures for filing Controversies and Disputes with the Commissioner of Education, N.J.A.C 6A:3-1.1,et seq. The new Subchapter 5 applies to Charges Under the Tenure Employee's Hearing Act. N.J.A.C. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 addresses withdrawal, settlement, or mooting of tenure charges. Section (a), identifies the criteria a panel arbitrator must review prior to approving any settlement, as follows:

> 6A:3-5.6 Withdrawal, settlement, or mooting of tenure charges
> (a) Once tenure charges are certified to the Commissioner, they may be withdrawn or settled only with approval. Any proposed withdrawal or settlement, whether submitted to the Commissioner or to the arbitrator, shall address the following standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.) 842, 846):
>
> 1. Accompaniment by documentation as to the nature of the charges;
>
> 2. Explication of the circumstances justifying settlement or withdrawal;

3. Consent of both the charged and charging parties;

4. Indication the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his or her rights;

5. A showing the agreement is in the public interest; and

6. If the charged party is a teaching staff member, a showing the teaching staff member has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate.

The parties recognized their obligation to comply with this provision and expressed so in explicit terms in the Settlement Agreement and General Release, E-1. Paragraph 10 expresses:

"10. Compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6

The parties agree that settlement of this case is justified by the need for an expeditious and final resolution. As a result of Mr. Zane's acceptance of a suspension without pay, his agreement for salary increment withholding and his agreement to complete an anger management class, the Board will achieve a guaranteed results, in an expeditious manner, at a comparatively low cost and will avoid the uncertainty of litigation before an arbitrator. Additionally, the within matter involves testimony of witnesses, whose interests would be better and permanently served by resolution through this Agreement."

In addition to the above, Respondent also voluntarily consented to a transfer from the position of Spanish Teacher at Williamstown High School to the position of Spanish Teacher at the Williamstown Middle School, E-1, para 3.

Reviewing the instant Settlement Agreement, in light of the Administrative Code, I find the Board's articulation of the circumstances justifying Settlement persuasively establishes the Agreement is in the public interest. Accordingly, based upon this review, the attached executed Settlement Agreement is, hereby APPROVED.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE BETWEEN THE MONROE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT AND DAVID ZANE

WHEREAS, the Monroe Township Board of Education ("Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Monroe Township School District ("School District"); and

WHEREAS, David Zane is employed by the Board as a teacher; and

WHEREAS, on October 1, 2019, Dr. Richard Perry, Superintendent of Schools, filed sworn tenure charges against Mr. Zane together with a sworn statement of evidence in support thereof, and said charges were certified by the Board to the Commissioner of Education on October 17, 2019; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter for hearing and determination by an arbitrator; and

WHEREAS, the parties, now wishing to resolve the within matter amicably without the need for further litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Tenure Charges to be Withdrawn

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") by the parties, the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed to be withdrawn and abandoned by the Board.

2. Acceptance of Suspension Without Pay

Mr. Zane, by signing this Agreement, hereby accepts a one hundred and twenty (120) day suspension without pay from October 18, 2019 through February 14, 2020. It being understood that such a suspension shall not change his status as a tenured teacher. Thereafter, Mr. Zane will be placed back on payroll at full salary beginning February 15, 2020. Mr. Zane agrees not to challenge the suspension through the collective bargaining grievance procedure or in any other forum, whether judicial or administrative.

3. Transfer to Middle School

Mr. Zane, by his signature on this Agreement, voluntarily consents to a transfer from the position of Spanish teacher at the Williamstown High School to the position of Spanish teacher at the Williamstown Middle School effective February 15, 2020. Mr. Zane agrees

WHEREAS, the Monroe Township Board of Education ("Board") is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the Monroe Township School District ("School District"); and

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, they agree as follows:

1. Tenure Charges to be Withdrawn

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") by the parties, the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed to be withdrawn and abandoned by the Board.

2. Acceptance of Suspension Without Pay

Mr. Zane, by signing this Agreement, hereby accepts a one hundred and twenty (120) day suspension without pay from October 18, 2019 through February 14, 2020. It being understood that such a suspension shall not change his status as a tenured teacher. Thereafter, Mr. Zane will be placed back on payroll at full salary beginning February 15, 2020. Mr. Zane agrees not to challenge the suspension through the collective bargaining grievance procedure or in any other forum, whether judicial or administrative.

3. Transfer to Middle School

Mr. Zane, by his signature on this Agreement, voluntarily consents to a transfer from the position of Spanish teacher at the Williamstown High School to the position of Spanish teacher at the Williamstown Middle School effective February 15, 2020. Mr. Zane agrees not to challenge the transfer through the collective bargaining grievance procedure or in any other forum, whether judicial or administrative.

4. Agreement Regarding Increment Withholding

Mr. Zane, by signing this Agreement, hereby agrees to have his salary increment withheld for the 2020-2021 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 and the withholding shall be permanent unless the Board at a future date takes action to restore the increment. It is hereby accepted and understood that the Board has the discretion to restore Mr. Zane's increment at a future time but that such restoration is not mandatory and is left in the sole discretion of the Board. Mr. Zane accepts the increment withholding and agrees not to challenge same through the collective bargaining grievance procedure or in any other forum, whether judicial or administrative.

Mr. Zane understands and agrees that Mr. Zane's salary in the position of Spanish Teacher of the Williamstown Middle School will be $89,170 for the 2020-21 contract year as a result of the increment withholding.

5. Agreement to Complete Anger Management

Mr. Zane, by signing this Agreement, hereby agrees to complete an anger management program no later than April 1, 2020. Mr. Zane is permitted to complete the anger management program during the period of his unpaid suspension. Mr. Zane agrees to provide proof of the program's completion to the Superintendent as soon as practicable.

6. No Admissions

The parties agree that neither the suspension without pay, the increment withholding or the completion of an anger management program by Mr. Zane, nor the Board's approval of this Agreement, constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

7. Mutual Release

In exchange for the above consideration, David Zane, his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waives, releases and forever discharges any and all claims or rights whether known or unknown, which he has or may have, personally or officially, individually or collectively, against past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its attorneys, agents and employees, personally and officially as well as their successors and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorneys' fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this Release and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, Section 1983, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Older Working Benefit Protection Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the

Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Civil Rights Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any and all other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 el seq., the Public Employee Retirement System laws, the indemnity provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1 with regard to civil and criminal actions, for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (referred to as "COBRA") as well as claims arising from any breach of this Agreement. To the extent Mr. Zane pursues any of the exempted claims, the Board's rights to oppose and/or dispute such claims shall be preserved. Mr. Zane represents that he does not have knowledge of any claims or causes of action which would require or implicate the indemnity provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-6 and 6.1

In exchange for the above considerations, the Board hereby releases and forever discharges any and all claims against Mr. Zane which it has as of the date this Agreement is executed. Specifically exempted from this release are any employment claims or causes of action arising directly or indirectly from claims arising from breach of this Agreement. To the extent the Board pursues claims arising from breach of this Agreement, Mr. Zane's rights to oppose and/or dispute such claims shall be preserved.

It is understood that pursuant to this agreement Mr. Zane is to continue as an employee of the Board and therefore nothing herein shall be construed to impact the rights of either party in connection with any future event or occurrence.

8. Public Interest Served

The within settlement will serve the public interest, eliminating potentially costly additional litigation costs.

9. Assent to Terms

The parties hereby acknowledge that they have entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of their rights and obligations and that they were fully informed of the implications of this Agreement by their respective attorneys, and they do so without duress, of their own free will and volition.

Mr. Zane understands and acknowledges that he has had the opportunity to consult his attorney, has been advised of his right to take at least twenty-one (21) days to consider whether or not to execute this Agreement and Mr. Zane has decided to waive this right and sign this Agreement in less than twenty-one (21) days. Mr. Zane further agrees that he has had the opportunity to review this Agreement in its entirety with his attorney, Dean Wittman of Zeller & Wieliczko, LLP.

Mr. Zane may revoke his signature of this Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it by delivering written notice of revocation to Sanmathi Dev, Esq. Capehart & Scatchard, P.A., 8000 Midlantic Drive, Suite 300-S, P.O. Box 5016, Mount Laurel, New Jersey, 08054. If Mr. Zane has not revoked his signature of this Agreement by written notice received within the seven (7) day period, it becomes effective immediately thereafter. In the event of such revocation, this Agreement shall be null and void and the subject tenure proceedings shall be reinstated.

It is understood that this Agreement is subject to formal approval by the Monroe Township Board of Education.

10. Compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6

The parties agree that settlement of this case is justified by the need for an expeditious and final resolution. As a result of Mr. Zane's acceptance of a suspension without pay, his agreement for salary increment withholding and his agreement to complete an anger management class, the Board will achieve a guaranteed result, in an expeditious manner, at a comparatively low cost and will avoid the uncertainty of litigation before an arbitrator. Additionally, the within matter involves testimony of witnesses, whose interests would be better and permanently served by resolution through this Agreement.

The parties further agree that the proposed settlement will serve the public interest. As a result of Mr. Zane's acceptance of a suspension without pay, his agreement for salary increment withholding and his agreement to complete an anger management, the Board will not have to incur any further expenses associated with arbitration of any subsequent action related to this matter.

11. Entire Agreement

This Agreement represents the entire understanding of the parties.

12. Severability

In the event that a court or agency of competent jurisdiction shall deem any part of this Agreement to be contrary to law, then the remaining portions of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect to the extent that they do not materially impair the consideration upon which the parties have mutually relied.

13. Governing Law

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

14. The Parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures as well as electronic signatures through the use of email or .pdf files will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

15. By signing this Agreement, each signatory represents that he is a Party or has been duly authorized by a Party to sign on that Party's behalf and that this Agreement is duly authorized, approved and consented to as to terms.

16. Mr. Zane, by his signature below, acknowledges that he enters into this Agreement voluntarily, and further acknowledges that he has had an opportunity to consult with a representative of his choosing, including an attorney, with respect to this matter and with respect to the terms of this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the signatures and/or seals of the parties or their duly executed authorized representatives have been set forth on the dates indicated below:

Final Decision

Yolanda Greene,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Burch Charter School of Excellence, Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner, formerly employed by the respondent Board as a non-tenured vice principal, appealed the non-renewal of her employment and sought reinstatement to the position of vice principal. Petitioner contended that the Board's handling of a grievance filed against her and her subsequent non-renewal were improper. The Board asserted that petitioner's non-renewal was not arbitrary, discriminatory, retaliatory, or capricious, but was based, inter alia, on a pattern of parental concerns, staff issues, and petitioner's failure to perform a required racial sensitivity training.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner was employed by the Board as a vice principal from January 2016 to June 30, 2018; the two pivotal issues in this case concern the propriety of the Board's decisions to compel petitioner to take a cultural sensitivity class as a result of a grievance filed against her and the propriety of the Board's determination not to renew petitioner's employment for the 2018-2019 school year; as to the grievance, the Board's failure to issue a Rice notice to petitioner regarding the meeting in which petitioner's appeal of the requirement that she take a sensitivity training class was discussed voids the Board's decision to compel her to take the class; as to the Board's non-renewal of petitioner's employment, a board of education has broad discretionary authority to decide whether non-tenured staff are renewed; here, the petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board's refusal to renew her contract was arbitrary, capricious or discriminatory. Accordingly, the ALJ voided the Board's determination as to the grievance filed against petitioner, but affirmed the Board's action in non-renewing petitioner's employment for the 2018-2019 school year.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that a board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in renewing non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. Where a non-tenured staff member challenges a district board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Petitioner herein has not asserted or proven that the Board violated any constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Yolanda Greene,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Trustees of the Burch Charter School of Excellence, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the exceptions filed by the parties pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 have been reviewed. Neither party filed a reply to the other party's exceptions.

These consolidated matters concern allegations by petitioner, a non-tenured vice principal, that the Board's handling of a grievance filed against her and her subsequent non-renewal were improper. After multiple days of hearings, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's decision to require petitioner to attend sensitivity training as a result of the grievance was void, in part because the Board failed to issue a Rice notice to petitioner for the meeting during which petitioner's appeal of the Board's decision to require sensitivity training was discussed. The ALJ further found that petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board's non-renewal was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable and thus affirmed the non-renewal.

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the Board should not have considered the complaints made against her by a parent and by two teachers during their non-renewal exit interviews because she did not have an opportunity to address those complaints before the Board voted. She contends that because the grievance process was flawed, the Board's consideration of her failure to attend sensitivity training as part of the non-renewal decision was also flawed. Finally, petitioner argues that her non-renewal is contrary to public policy, because the Board failed to adhere to the grievance policy and did not honor her requests for public discussion of her employment matters, which she alleges violated the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA).

The Board's exceptions largely reiterate its submissions below, arguing that it complied with the grievance policy. The Board further contends that its determination to require petitioner to undergo racial sensitivity training was made at the November 14, 2017 meeting, for which petitioner received a Rice notice. According to the Board, it was not obligated to have another discussion or board meeting to address petitioner's appeal of the decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and determinations in this matter. Regarding the grievance, an employee is entitled to advance notice when a board of education intends to discuss in closed session a personnel matter that could adversely affect the employee. Rice v. Union County Reg'l High Sch. Bd. of Educ., 155 N.J. Super. 64, 73 (App. Div. 1977). Regardless of whether the grievance policy requires the Board to hold another meeting to address an appeal, here the Board did discuss the appeal in closed session and then took action on the appeal by affirming the decision, at a meeting for which they did not issue a Rice notice to petitioner. The requirement to undergo sensitivity training can be construed as an adverse employment action – indeed, the Board's actions in sending Rice notices to petitioner for the prior meetings discussing the matter suggest that it believed the same – and thus the Board's failure to issue a Rice notice for a meeting in which that requirement was discussed in closed session and then affirmed renders its action void.[1]

With respect to the Board's non-renewal decision, a board of education has virtually unlimited discretion in hiring or renewing non-tenured staff members absent constitutional constraints or legislatively-conferred rights. Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Ed., 185 N.J. Super. 447, 456 (App. Div. 1982). Here, while petitioner expressed her belief that the non-renewal was discriminatory because the grievant is Caucasian and petitioner is African American, she presented no evidence to support that theory. The two Board members who testified regarding the non-renewal denied any discriminatory motive and provided other reasons for the non-renewal that were not based in any way on petitioner's race.

Moreover, while the Board's requirement that petitioner undergo sensitivity training is void, and thus petitioner's failure to do so should be removed from the Board's consideration regarding non-renewal, the complaints against petitioner by a parent and two teachers provided the Board with additional reasons for the non-renewal decision, as testified to by the Board members. Although petitioner disputes the substance of those complaints, when a non-tenured staff member challenges a board's decision to terminate her employment on the grounds that the reasons provided by the board are not supported by the facts, she is entitled to litigate that question only if the facts she alleges, if true, would constitute a violation of constitutional or legislatively-conferred rights. Guerriero v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Glen Rock, decided by the State Board of Education February 5, 1986, aff'd Docket #A-3316-85T6 (App. Div. 1986). Petitioner has not asserted or proven that the Board violated any constitutional or legislatively-conferred right by considering these complaints.

[1] Because the failure to send a Rice notice renders the Board's decision void, the Commissioner need not reach the other issues regarding the grievance raised by petitioner.

Furthermore, while petitioner is dissatisfied with the nature of the public discussion during the board meetings in which her non-renewal was at issue, the Board has fulfilled its OPMA obligations by providing her with the required Rice notices for these meetings and giving her the opportunity to be heard in public. The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized that the practice of discussing personnel matters during subcommittee meetings in advance of taking public action is common practice and that the OPMA does not contain any requirement about the robustness of the discussion that must take place on a topic. Kean Fed'n of Teachers v. Morell, 233 N.J. 566, 587-88 (2018). For these reasons, petitioner has not established a violation of a constitutional or legislatively-conferred right and her non-renewal was therefore within the Board's discretion.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board's decision requiring petitioner to undergo sensitivity training is void. The Board's decision not to renew petitioner's contract is affirmed.

Yolanda Greene, petitioner, pro se

Elizabeth Butler, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 8, 2019 Decided: November 26, 2019

BEFORE ANDREW M. BARON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Yolanda Greene contests the non-renewal of her employment as a vice-principal by the Burch Charter School at the conclusion of the 2018 school year. She also contests the manner in which her former employer handled a grievance which was filed against her by a former teacher at the school.

On or about March 19, 2018, and June 7, 2018, respectively, Yolanda Greene filed two petitions with the Commissioner of Education.

The first petition alleges that respondent failed to provide her with adequate procedural due process in a grievance that was filed against her by a former teacher. The second petitioner alleges respondent acted in an arbitrary, capricious and discriminatory manner against her in making a determination that she should not be offered a contract for renewal for continued service as a vice principal for the 2018–19 school year.

On or about July 6, 2018, respondent filed Answers to the petitions. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case. Hearings were conducted on September 18, 2018, October 29, 2018, November 19, 2018, December 4, 2018, February 22, 2019, March 5, 2019, and oral argument was conducted on October 8, 2019.

Based upon a review of the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses who testified, I FIND the following pertinent FACTS and accept as FACT the testimony set forth below:

Petitioner is an African American woman with a bachelor's degree in political science and communications from Rutgers University. She has a master's degree from Nova Southeastern University in curriculum, instruction, and technology. Her prior experience in the field of education includes positions as a classroom teacher, math coach, education supervisor, district administrator, interim director of professional development, and vice principal.

Respondent Burch Charter School is an alternative to public school for select students whose parents want to give them an opportunity to achieve their dreams and goals. The student body, administration, and faculty are diverse, consisting primarily of African American and Hispanic ethnicity.

Lindsay Fink is a Caucasian physical education teacher who was employed by the respondent from 2012-2018, until she left for another position in another school district. On May 17, 2018, Fink was teaching a class when she heard one of her students say something to the effect of "these white teachers." The comments were directed to Fink after she questioned the student who made the remarks as to why the student was not wearing a gym uniform, which is required.

Disturbed by what she heard, in an effort to secure advice as to how to handle the situation, Fink immediately contacted petitioner to determine the appropriate course of action. Petitioner, who was busy at the time handling another matter, told Fink that she could write the student up if she wanted. In the same conversation, petitioner responded to Fink, "you are white, aren't you?" and told Fink she did not believe the student's comment was racially motivated.

Taken aback by what she perceived to be a muted response to what she had just experienced, Ms. Fink testified that she contacted the principal of the school, and the person to whom Ms. Greene reported to, Theodore Boler. One week after the incident with the student, with no satisfaction that her concerns were being addressed, Ms. Fink filed a grievance against petitioner.

The grievance procedure is memorialized in the Burch Charter School Handbook. At the time of the incident, the 2014 Employee Handbook was in effect, which included a five-step procedure to be used to address complaints and grievances.

Step 1 of the process calls for an informal mediation between the aggrieved party and the accused, overseen by a designated school compliance official, in this case, Patricia Holness, the school social worker and compliance officer.

After meeting with Ms. Fink and the petitioner, Ms. Holness concluded that the matter could not be resolved informally. She then commenced the next step in the process, which was to conduct a formal mediation. The Handbook calls for the entire procedure to be completed within sixty days, unless the person who filed the complaint seeks a written extension. Due to the fact that the matter and subsequent grievance were brought very close to the end of the school year, Ms. Holness concluded the formal mediation would occur in September. (Ms. Fink, who was a ten-month employee, did not want to deal with the matter over the summer when she was not paid to be in school.)

Petitioner contends her due process rights were violated, since the formal mediation was not completed within sixty days of the filing of the grievance, in accordance with the timelines set forth in the Handbook. She did not express this objection at the time both mediations were being conducted.

After school re-opened in September 2017, the Board, at its September 11 meeting, appointed attorney Rashida Hassan to handle the formal mediation. Ms. Hassan was on a pre-approved list for selection as needed. Ms. Hassan is an experienced attorney, with expertise in the area of mediation.

Ms. Hassan testified that she met with the parties separately, but never met with them together. Ms. Fink's position was that before reaching the formal stage of mediation, with an apology or a concession from petitioner that her response was abrupt, Ms. Fink would not have pursued it any further. Ms. Hassan's assessment of Ms. Green was that she was rigid and unwilling to compromise in order to resolve the matter.

Petitioner steadfastly maintained that she did nothing wrong and would do what she did again and saw no harm in her comments to Ms. Fink.

Ms. Hassan then concluded the mediation without a resolution. However, within the report she filed with the Board, she recommended that petitioner consider a cultural-sensitivity training program and acknowledge to Ms. Fink that her comments were inappropriate. For reasons unknown, a copy of the report was not provided to petitioner at the time it was written.

On October 4, 2017, Holness informed petitioner of the mediator's recommendation and told the petitioner it would be discussed at the Board's next meeting on October 16, 2017. The next day, October 5, Mr. Boler sent petitioner the required Rice notice to inform petitioner that something related to her employment would be discussed at the next Board meeting. The discussion of the report was tabled at the October 16 meeting because petitioner had not been provided with a copy of the report. She received the report shortly thereafter.

On November 14, 2017, the Board's personnel services committee reviewed the mediator's report and recommended that it be adopted by the Board as a whole. Later that evening, the entire board met, and after giving petitioner an opportunity to speak, the Board adopted the mediator's report and recommendation.

On November 27, 2017, Mr. Boler informed petitioner in writing that the Board adopted the mediator's report and recommendation, and that, within thirty days she needed to take a racial-sensitivity class and acknowledge that the incident could have been handled differently. That same day, petitioner exercised her right of appeal to the Board requesting consideration.

At the next board meeting on December 12, 2017, the Board considered the appeal and affirmed its decision. (P-11.)

Heather Martindale is a founding member of the Burch Charter School who got involved as a member of the Board because in her own words "she is passionate about kids." She has been a Board member since the inception of the school over fifteen years ago, and serves on the personnel committee together with Mr. Boler, her sister Paulita Martindale, and Carolyn Hee. The personnel committee is responsible for hiring, significant personnel changes, review, renewals, and salaries.

Ms. Martindale's justification for voting to accept the mediation report and later to not to renew petitioner's contract was based on several factors, including her concern that one parent, who at one time had three children in the school, left the school completely due to what the parent felt was indifference by Ms. Greene to a matter involving her child and another student. According to Ms. Martindale, this was a "big deal" to the Board, since the school has a reputation for listening to parents. Ms. Martindale also considered information she received from another teacher, Ms. Dickerson, who left the school due to unfavorable interactions with Ms. Greene. But this information was never shared with Ms. Greene prior to the vote on non-renewal.

A large part of Ms. Martindale's vote to not renew Ms. Greene's contract was based on her disappointment that Ms. Greene never took the recommended sensitivity class. In February 2018, Ms. Martindale asked Mr. Boler if Ms. Greene had completed the class. And this view of the situation was triggered by Ms. Martindale's belief that the way Ms. Greene handled the situation with Ms. Fink showed a lack of understanding of the feelings of the person she was speaking to. She believed Ms. Greene's behavior was intolerant in relation to that particular situation with Ms. Fink; that it was inappropriate and unprofessional as a person. On March 14, 2018, Mr. Boler reminded petitioner of her obligation to take the sensitivity class.

Prior to making the decision not to renew, Ms. Martindale communicated with Mr. Boler seeking a current review of her performance which was supposed to occur twice a year. Upon reviewing the document, Ms. Martindale expressed her opinion to Mr. Boler that it was incomplete, inappropriate, and unprofessional. The evaluation only consisted of a few bullet points and it did not reflect parent or staff complaints about Ms. Greene. Mr. Boler apparently did not document complaints about Ms. Greene, but they were known to the members of the Board, including petitioner's response to the incident with Ms. Fink.

Another Board member, Beverly Canady is a site director and mental health therapist at a school in a community nearby Burch. She is also the co-director of a grief center. Ms. Canady is a licensed professional counselor and has a Bachelor's Degree in sociology from Rutgers and a master's in counseling from Wichita State University, and a post-master's degree from Caldwell College. She is the Board secretary at Burch and serves on the curriculum committee.

Ms. Canady corroborated the Board's thought process discussed by Ms. Martindale about parent voices not being heard, and the manner in which petitioner spoke to people. She expressed concern about petitioner's response to Ms. Fink as not being consistent with the climate the board believes is important for the school to follow. The culture at Burch, according to Canady, is supposed to be one of teachers and administrators working together. She believes petitioner's comments to Ms. Fink were intolerant, and not consistent with the culture and climate expected of staff at Burch. Ms. Canady was disappointed that a family with three children in the school left due in part to their interactions with Ms. Greene.

Ms. Canady also confirmed as Board secretary that when it came time for Ms. Greene to speak at the public meeting on May 14 concerning her employment status, the minutes reflect she remained silent and waived her right to speak.

The final witness was petitioner Yolanda Greene. She too was a credible witness, but she had a different perspective on the events leading to her non-renewal starting with the incident with Ms. Fink. From her perspective, she called the incident a "teachable moment." Busy with another matter at the time of Ms. Fink's call, she did not deem the matter serious enough to stop what she was doing to meet with Ms. Fink. She defended herself by explaining her analytical approach to the situation, that it was an opportunity in a school setting to learn more from the student about why they said what they said to Ms. Fink.

A significant portion of Ms. Greene's testimony focused on her concerns and objections to the manner in which the grievance investigation and mediation was handled. But when it came time to address her concerns about the non-renewal process, she indicated that she decided to remain silent at the May 14 meeting where her employment was being discussed, because of the way the Board handled the mediation process. Essentially, she admitted she remained silent and waived her right to speak in public and waived her right to a Donaldson hearing after she was notified that she would not be renewed. When asked why she never took a cultural-sensitivity class, she first offered that she felt that Ms. Fink should also have been told to take a class. She then indicated that even after Mr. Boler reminded her the Board expected her to take a class by the end of March 2018, she had a hard time finding a class on this subject. While most of Ms. Greene's testimony was credible, her excuse for not locating a class on cultural sensitivity over a period of five months does not seem credible. It will never be known if she had done so if a new contract would have been offered.

In this matter, petitioner was employed by the Burch Charter School from January 2016 to June 30, 2018. The pivotal issues concern the propriety of the Board's decisions to compel petitioner to take a cultural-sensitivity class based on the recommendation of a mediator and the propriety of the board's determination not to renew petitioner's employment for the 2018–19 school year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner of the Department of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to 1.17. sets forth the rules of procedure for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1(a).

The Petition requests that the undersigned set aside the Board's adoption of a mediation recommendation to take a cultural-sensitivity class, and to determine that the Board acted in an arbitrary capricious and discriminatory manner in not renewing her contract to serve as a vice principal at the school for the next calendar school year.

"School Law vests the management of the public schools in each district in the local boards of education, and unless they violate the law or act in bad faith, the exercise of their discretion in the performance of the duties imposed upon them is not subject to interference or reversal."

From a procedural standpoint, the Board complied with all the statutory requirements governing the non-renewal of a teacher. Petitioner contends that the mediation process to which she was a party was faulty in that it was not completed within sixty days, and the mediator took sides when she made a recommendation in the conclusion of her report that petitioner should undergo cultural-sensitivity training.

After the informal mediation failed to produce a resolution towards the end of the 2017–18 school year, school officials determined that the formal mediation cold not be completed prior to the conclusion of the school year. The Personnel Handbook upon which petitioner relies says the procedure must be completed in sixty days, unless the complainant agrees in writing to extend the time. While it was not done in writing, the Board substantially complied with this provision in that when Ms. Fink was consulted, she did not want to be called in over the summer, as she was only a ten-month employee.

As to petitioner's complaint about process, the Board properly sent a Rice notice to petitioner on October 3, 2017, that something related to her employment was going to be discussed at the next Board meeting. Rice notices do not have to specify what will be discussed, just the fact that something related to an individual's employment will be discussed. Petitioner requested that the mater be discussed in public. When it was learned that petitioner had not received a copy of the mediator's report, the conversation was tabled until the next month's meeting. Petitioner admits in her own summation that she knew the matter was tabled; that two weeks later she received a copy of the report; and together with another Rice notice that something related to her employment may discussed at the Board's next meeting.

At the November 14 meeting, the Board did in fact discuss and adopt the mediator's report. There was some discussion during the hearing as to whether or not it was appropriate for the mediator to make a recommendation, a fact to which petitioner strongly objected. Petitioner requested and was given an opportunity to speak.

But the fact that it was a recommendation, and not a mandate, does not mean that the mediator exceeded the scope of her authority. Her report to the Board was just that, a recommendation after she determined that Ms. Fink was somewhat flexible in her position, and petitioner was not, and saw nothing wrong with the undisputed remarks that were made to Ms. Fink. Instead of entering into a dialogue with the Board and her immediate supervisor Mr. Boler about the recommendation, petitioner filed an appeal for the Board to reconsider.

At its December 12, 2017, meeting, the Board affirmed its adoption of the mediator's recommendation and report. Petitioner takes issue with this action as she did not receive another Rice notice concerning discussion of the appeal. She indicated that she was present for the first part of the meeting but had no idea her appeal was on the agenda or she would have stayed for the entire meeting and possibly spoken in public again. By the Board's failure to list the appeal as an agenda item, failure to send her a third Rice notice, and voting to affirm its earlier decision without a public discussion, petitioner contends that by affirming its prior decision and rejecting petitioner's appeal, the board was in violation of the open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 to -21. See also Kean Fed'n of Teachers v. Morrell, 233 N.J. 566 (2018); Caldwell v. Lambrou, 161 N.J. Super. 284 (App. Div. 1978).

During the October 8 argument, school counsel was asked whether the mediator exceeded her authority by including a recommendation in her report which was ultimately adopted by the board. Counsel indicated that this was acceptable under the revised manual which was put in place in October 2018. But as petitioner correctly pointed out, the manual under which the grievance process was commenced was in place effective 2014. She objects to the combination of an adopted mediation recommendation, as well as the fact that the board met a third time to discuss something related to her employment status, without another Rice notice and without it being included on the agenda for the meeting.

As to petitioner's complaint that she did not receive procedural due process in connection with the grievance mediation process, I agree in part as to the contention that though not intentionally, to some extent the mediator exceeded her authority by making a recommendation as to only one of the parties, and the resulting adoption of the recommendation as to only one of the parties, and rejection of the appeal without a Rice notice and agenda item was flawed. This is further evident by virtue of the fact that the grievance procedure also required the compliance officer to submit a report to the board if the formal mediation failed to achieve a resolution, which was not submitted.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that while the informal mediation process and part of the formal mediation process followed the necessary protocol, the incorporation of a recommendation by the mediator as to only one of the one of the parties (in this case the petitioner), the resulting adoption, and the discussion of petitioner's appeal at the December 2017 meeting without a new Rice notice and the Board's failure to include the appeal as an agenda item were flawed. To the extent that a Board directive was issued to petitioner arising from the mediation, as well as the fact that Step 5 in the grievance process was not followed by failing to issue a final report from the compliance officer, this aspect of the relief sought by petitioner is GRANTED, and I CONCLUDE the action of the Board in adopting and implementing the mediator's recommendation which essentially determined petitioner was at fault is deemed VOID.

Turning to the issue of non-renewal, petitioner contends in this matter that when respondent determined in May 2018 that her employment would not be extended, the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and discriminatory. The caselaw in this area is well settled.

Boards have broad discretionary authority to decide whether a teacher, or in this case a vice principal should or should not be re-engaged. Donaldson v. N. Wildwood Bd. of Educ., 65 N.J. 236 (1974). No obligation exists on the part of board to renew non-tenured teachers. Wyckoff Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Wyckoff Educ. Ass'n, 168 N.J. Super. 497 (App. Div. 1979).

There are some limits and procedural safeguards afforded to school employees when their employment status is due to be considered. A board of education is required to send a "Rice notice" any time it has placed on its agenda any matters involving the employment, evaluation appointment, evaluation of performance or discipline. N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)(8). This provides the affected employee with an opportunity to decide whether they desire a public discussion and prepare and present an appropriate request in writing. See Rice v. Union Cty. Reg' High Sch. Bd. of Educ., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977).

On May 8, 2018, the Board issued another Rice notice to petitioner indicating that her employment status would be discussed at its meeting on May 14, 2018. Ms. Martindale indicated in her testimony that may was traditionally the time when the Board would discuss the contract status of several employees whose contracts were under consideration for renewal or non-renewal. As it turned out, petitioner was one of several employees whose status was being discussed that night.

As part of his duties as petitioner's supervisor and as a member of the personnel committee, Mr. Boler supported the continued employment of petitioner, and to that end, although some of his reviews were incomplete, he had written favorable comments about her performance. While petitioner contends, she should have been evaluated twice a year, a board's failure to comply with statutory evaluation procedures is not fatal to a decision to terminate or not renew a contract. See El-Hewie v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bergen Cty. Vocational Sch. Dist., No. A-6310-07T3 (App. Div. Dec. 24, 2009). Both Ms. Martindale and Ms. Canady indicated that while Mr. Boler's position was considered, it was but one factor in the Board's ultimate decision not to renew petitioner's contract.

Board members were concerned about petitioner's interactions with parents and co-workers, in addition to the situation that occurred between Ms. Greene and Ms. Fink. Staff members on exit interviews expressed their dissatisfaction with Ms. Greene. It was stated by at least one other staff member that "petitioner did not know how to talk to people and did not support teachers." And the interaction between petitioner and Ms. Fink that led to the grievance which petitioner did not seem to see the offensive nature of her comments was also considered by the Board in deciding not to renew her contract.

Although petitioner acknowledged receipt of the May 8 Rice Notice, she remained silent at the meeting during the public portion, thus waiving her right to challenge the Board's decision not to renew.

Following the meeting, the next day, May 15, 2018, Mr. Boler notified petitioner in writing that the Board did not renew her contract for the next school year. As was her right, petitioner asked for and received a statement of reasons behind the decision not to renew. But for reasons unknown, despite her emphasis in this appeal on procedure, petitioner did not follow up with a request for a Donaldson hearing which would have afforded her the opportunity to have a formal dialogue with the Board and perhaps convince the Board that it should reconsider its decision.

There is simply no evidence that the Board acted in a discriminatory or arbitrary and capricious manner in deciding not to renew petitioner for the next school year. Petitioner is an African American female with an impressive educational background. The Board for the most part, consists of African American members, and both Martindale and Canady are African American. Mr. Boler is African American. And the student body for the most part and their respective families are African American or other minority groups. So it is hard to understand petitioner's argument that she was the victim of discrimination when all of the decision makers were of the same ethnicity as petitioner.

Petitioner also complained that the board failed to give proper consideration to the favorable reviews she received from Mr. Boler. "In determining whether to renew a teacher's contract, a local board has the right to base its decision not to re-employ on matters outside of a teacher's evaluations." Dore v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Educ., 185 N.J. Super. 447 (App. Div. 1982). A board of education's decision to non-renew the contract of a non-tenured employee should not be disturbed unless it is arbitrary or capricious. See N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.

In this case, petitioner received a Rice notice in advance of the May discussion concerning her employment status. She remained silent during the public portion of the meeting. And after asking for and receiving a written statement of reasons why her contract was not renewed, she waived her right to request a Donaldson hearing.

While the evidence supports petitioner's contention that the Board did not follow proper protocol in part by adopting a recommendation from the mediator that exceeded the scope of the mediator's authority, there is no evidence that the Board of Education violated any law as to the more critical contract renewal process and I therefore CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the Board's refusal to renew her contract was arbitrary, capricious or discriminatory.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the Burch Charter School Board's determination as to the grievance filed against petitioner is deemed void, and it is further ORDERED that the decision by the Burch Charter School Board of Education, the result of which was to not renew petitioner's contract for the 2018–2019 school year, is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If (title of agency head) does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Order on Emergent Relief

Board of Education of the Township of Mansfield, Warren County, Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL, denying petitioner's application for emergent relief, is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This case shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: 2/4/20

participation due to the unwanted stress that it would cause the students and staff, as well as the distrust that would develop within the District's learning environment." (Petitioner's Exhibit B). On the same date, the NJDOE responded to Mr. Giordano's request by indicating that the District must participate. (See Exhibit C, letter from Mr. Steele-Dadzie). In further October 1, 2019 correspondence, the Superintendent made a "formal" request to opt-out.

Again, both parties note that the NJDOE responded in another letter from Mr. Steele-Dadzie citing N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(b) in pertinent part "[which] states that "the Commissioner shall implement a system and related schedule of Statewide assessments to evaluate student achievement of the NJSLS." He added that "the ELA Field test is part of the state assessment program which all public school districts must participate in." See Petitioner's Exhibit E. To that end, the NJDOE denied the District's "formal" request to opt-out for those reasons and I so FIND.

There was follow-up correspondence regarding this issue from the District's attorney to the NJDOE regarding the District's position on October 7, 2019 and no response received until November 25, 2019 after the District's attorney wrote again to the NJDOE. As the District already received an answer at least twice from the NJDOE directly; I FIND this alleged delay is noted but will not give it much weight as the District received an immediate answer from the NJDOE regarding it's inability to opt-out of the field testing.

On November 25, 2019, the attorney for the District, Mr. Zitomer received the same answer with the identical legal authority above noting the NJDOE's responsibility and that the ELA field testing as an "integral component of the Statewide assessment systems, which all public school districts must participate in." (See Petitioner's Exhibits H and J).

It is undisputed as it is published by the NJDOE, that the extra testing time required for the ELA portion of the field test is 90 minutes. (See Petitioner's Exhibit J-NJDOE Statewide Assessment Unit Times)

The District argues, if they cannot opt out; they will suffer irreparable harm regardless of the laws noted above, in pertinent part:

> [b]ecause the field test unit is not identifiable to students, the administering of said unit by the District will cause students to develop a sense of distrust within the District's environment by requiring students to "guess" which units count and which one is merely being proctored by the District for the Respondent's benefit to evaluate their own test questions.

See District's Petition paragraph 25.

Further, the District argues that without opting out, the education of the students will be "unnecessarily interrupted"; "added stress and anxiety will be thrust upon both students and staff, and the District will risk losing the trust of students and parents." The District further adds the assumption that students "may exert less effort on the testing overall by speculating as to which test questions "do not count." (See District's Petition paragraph 26.

However, where petitioner falls short in their argument is whether any of these assumptions or speculations apply specifically to this District. The petitioner has not presented any affidavits or certified exhibits of a certain type of population, a specific student, or anything that distinguishes this District from any other in the state. In short, the District has nothing to point to for irreparable harm other than speculation as to the effect of taking the field test for the ELA for an extra 90 minutes and thus I so FIND.

It should be noted that I have reviewed all corresponding certifications and documentation from both sides in this matter and discussed the matter at length in an attempt to resolve same. I FIND that the District's Superintendent did try to opt-out and that via email, that request was timely denied several times as outlined above. In addition, once the District's attorney wrote to the NJDOE, the same answer was given with additional citations to the relevant law.

This tribunal and both parties concede that my ruling is controlled by state law with regard to NJDOE's statewide assessments and their requirements therein pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(b), as well as, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) and the Crowe v. DeGioia standard which will be explored in detail below.

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and 1:1-12.6, emergency relief may be granted "where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case . . . ." My determination in this matter is further governed by the standard for emergent relief set forth by our Supreme Court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 NJ 126 (1986), as follows:

> The judge may order emergency relief ... if the judge determines from the proofs that:
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.
>
> 2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled.
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the relief is not granted.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The issue before me is whether, based on the disputed, undisputed facts and procedural history before me, the criteria for the granting of emergency relief has been met for the District to opt-out of the ELA field testing for Spring 2020. The applicable regulation incorporates the well-established standard for injunctive relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6]

With respect to the first prong, I FIND that petitioner will not suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief to opt-out of the Spring 2020 ELA field test of the NJSLA is not granted. There is no direct proof or certified allegations of the stress or anxiety that the students will face if they have to take the field test portion of the ELA which as noted above is 90 minutes extra of testing. There is not one certification from a Psychiatrist or Psychologist or any actual alleged evidence other than mere speculation as to what the students will face if they have to take the extra part of the test. I find it especially specious to argue that it will cause "distrust" of the students and the District when that can easily be fixed by citing the regulations that make this mandatory for randomly-selected districts throughout the State. (See Petitioner's Exhibit J)

To that end, this case is not unique. The District's argument about any stress, anxiety, distrust, less time in the classroom is misplaced as there are no facts verified with this petition to distinguish this District from any other in New Jersey as thus I so FIND. That alleged lack of trust can be remedied by the District itself in communicating with the parents and teachers about what to expect on a year their district is randomly selected for a field test and why it's required. In addition, these students will already be taking the test; this is merely adding 90 minutes extra time. If anything, an argument can be made that more time taking the test would add valuable test-taking practice and skills that are required throughout elementary, middle school, high school, college and beyond.

I have reviewed the second and third prongs of Crowe together because the merits and rights are intertwined here. Petitioner has a very high burden on this application with respect to proving that this forum is likely to reverse the determination of the NJDOE and their legal obligation under the NJ regulations to implement the NJSLA testing procedures. To that end, Petitioner's rights are not well-settled. In fact, as Respondent notes, there is no statutory or regulatory authority that permits Petitioner to opt out of routine field testing; nor has any authority been cited by the District. My independent research does not note a case where such emergent relief was granted. Conversely, N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(b) gives the NJDOE the authority and responsibility to create test questions that are appropriate for the evaluation or student achievement. The law does not exclude field testing and I can take Judicial Notice from both submissions and a review of the NJDOE website that field-testing is well-known as part of their building of statewide assessments. In addition, there is no provision in the law that allows a school district to opt-out of this field testing under these circumstances. As there is no case law, but rather regulations that support the State in completing their required task for assessments and no regulation that permits a District to opt out, I FIND the District cannot meet the second or third prongs. Without the law being settled, there is no likelihood of prevailing on the merits of its underlying claim and thus I so FIND.

On the last prong, I FIND that since there is no demonstrated irreparable harm to the District in taking the test field portion of the ELA, the alleged harm certainly does not outweigh the NJDOE's and the public's interest in maintaining, developing and implementing appropriate statewide assessments and to develop test questions that accurately evaluate student achievements. To that end, I agree with Respondent that the administration of field tests will lead to better standardized tests and thus benefit all students regarding an accurate measure of their academic achievement. In fact, as argued in the brief and in oral argument, I am persuaded that there is no better way for the NJDOE to evaluate how students respond to test questions other than in a test-taking environment. Furthermore, to allow this "opt-out" for this District with no noted irreparable harm or special circumstances, it could set a precedent where all schools note that an inconvenience to their students would be enough to shield them from field tests when it's their turn. As a result, it follows logically that there is no authentic way to test the efficacy of the questions other than on students in those grades under test conditions, and thus I so FIND.

In balancing these interests, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not satisfied its burden of proof as to any of the Crowe factors with regards to their desire to "opt out" of the field test portion of the ELA Spring 2020 NJSLA and that as a result, the interests clearly weigh in favor of denying the relief sought herein as all four prongs are needed to meet the District's burden.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the emergent application for relief of the petitioner is hereby DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Deanna DeGraff,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In this case on remand, the petitioner – formerly employed as a tenured Teacher of Dance by the Belleville Board of Education – claimed that her tenure rights were violated when the Board abolished its dance program and her position as the school district's only certificated Teacher of Dance. Petitioner appealed the Board's action in September 2016, alleging that the elimination of the dance program was a violation of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS). The Commissioner issued a decision in this matter in September 2018, holding that the NJSLS require that dance instruction be made available to all students in grades K-12, and remanding the case to the OAL for further proceedings regarding the whether the Board failed to provide dance instruction in violation of the NJSLS and whether petitioner's tenure rights were violated as a result of the Board's actions.

On remand, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Department of Education, through the NJSLS, requires that actual instruction in dance technique be offered to high school students, not just exposure to dance through such things as reading about it in a book or watching someone else dance in a video; the Board failed to meet its obligation under the NJSLS to offer dance instruction, and its action in abolishing its dance program is impermissible; and the Board must restore the program; regarding the petitioner's tenure rights, while the Board had the statutory right to abolish petitioner's position, it did not have the authority to abolish the subject she taught; petitioner's evidence that historical student demand for dance in the school district requires a full-time Teacher of Dance went unrebutted by the Board; and the Board's actions in eliminating the dance program and petitioner's position were improper. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is entitled to reinstatement as a full-time teacher, retroactive to the date of her RIF. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the Board to restore its formal dance program, and to reinstate petitioner as a full-time Teacher of Dance retroactive to the date of her RIF, with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments, less mitigation.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions as thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Deanna DeGraff,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 have been reviewed.[1]

Petitioner in this matter was the school district's only certificated Teacher of Dance. The district abolished its dance program and eliminated petitioner's position. Petitioner appealed, alleging that the elimination of the dance program was, among other things, a violation of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS). The Commissioner issued a decision in this matter on September 20, 2018, holding that the NJSLS require that dance instruction be made available to all students in grades K-12; the Commissioner accordingly remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings regarding whether the Board failed to provide dance instruction in violation of the NJSLS and whether such violation implicated petitioner's tenure rights.

On remand, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the NJSLS require that students be offered actual instruction in dance technique, not just exposure to dance. The Board failed to meet its obligations under the NJSLS to offer dance instruction, and its action in abolishing the dance program was ultra vires. Because the Board did not rebut petitioner's evidence that student demand in the district historically required the full-time employment of a Teacher of Dance, the Board was obliged to offer a dance program that would have necessitated the employment of a full-time dance teacher. The ALJ further concluded that the reduction in force (RIF) that abolished petitioner's position was improper in light of the NJSLS requirement and that petitioner was entitled to reinstatement as a full-time teacher, retroactive to the date of the RIF.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ erred in holding that the district's provision of exposure to dance does not satisfy the NJSLS. The Board contends that students can be taught about dance through relevant reading materials, videos in other classes such as theatre or music, instruction in physical education classes, or activities and events such as competitive cheer, color guard, musical productions and plays, and talent competitions. The district also offers "Option II," which allows students to receive graduation credit for activities in dance outside of school. According to the Board, these opportunities allow students to meet the benchmark levels set forth in the NJSLS. The Board disagrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the historical student demand in the district necessitated the full-time employment of a certificated Teacher of Dance and contends that three of the five daily classes taught by petitioner were classified as physical education courses. The Board argues that it was not asked to address the issue of student demand and requests that, if the Commissioner finds that issue relevant to the inquiry, the matter be remanded to the OAL for additional factual determinations.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and determinations in this matter. As noted in the Commissioner's previous decision, instruction in all four visual and performing arts disciplines – dance, music, theater, and visual arts – must be made available to high school students. The evidence proffered by the Board on remand fails to demonstrate that the Board has met its obligation to offer dance instruction that meets state standards and allows students to fulfill the graduation requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1. While the Commissioner acknowledges that boards of education have a great deal of freedom to implement curricula, none of the activities cited by the Board as providing "exposure to dance" afford students the opportunity to earn graduation credits in the discipline of dance. Moreover, the Board cannot satisfy its obligation to offer dance instruction through the use of Option II, as the purpose of Option II is to allow flexibility for students who are actively engaged in the arts outside of school to earn credit for those outside activities; the choice of whether to utilize Option II belongs to the student, not the district.

The Commissioner further agrees that the Board's failure to provide dance instruction following the RIF implicates petitioner's tenure rights. Petitioner was the only tenured teacher in the district qualified to provide dance instruction at the secondary level, so her retention was necessary for the Board to provide dance instruction. Because the Board's actions leading to petitioner's RIF were improper, they are void. Petitioner must therefore be restored to the position she held at the time of the RIF.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is ordered to reinstate petitioner to her position as a full-time Teacher of Dance retroactive to the date of her RIF, with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments of employment, less mitigation.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, ESSEX COUNTY,

Record Closed: November 7, 2019 Decided: November 15, 2019

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Deanna DeGraff, a tenured Teacher of Dance formerly employed by the Belleville Board of Education (the Board), asserts that the Board improperly terminated her pursuant to a Reduction-in-Force (RIF). New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS) require the Board to offer dance instruction at the high school level and DeGraff urges that, upon her termination, it failed to do so. She asks that an order be entered directing the Board to reestablish its dance program and to reinstate her to a full-time position as a Teacher of Dance. The Board replies that its actions were at all times consistent with applicable law and regulation.

DeGraff filed her appeal on September 28, 2016; an answer was filed, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, on October 27, 2016. An Initial Decision was issued by the Honorable Diana Sukovich, A.L.J., on August 7, 2018. (C-1.) On September 20, 2018, the Commissioner issued a decision remanding the case to the OAL for additional fact finding. (C-2.) The case was reassigned to me on January 16, 2019.

Counsel agreed that the additional information sought by the remand decision could be submitted via certification. These were filed on March 8, 2019, and May 5, 2019. A legal brief was filed by the Board on August 30, 2019; DeGraff chose not to file a legal argument. At my request, counsel for DeGraff supplemented his client's certification on October 17, 2019. I held the record open until November 7, 2019, to allow the Board an opportunity to reply to that certification. I received no reply, and the record closed.

ISSUES PRESENTED ON REMAND

The remand decision presents the following issues for adjudication:

1. Upon RIFing DeGraff, did the Board violate the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS) by failing to offer formal dance instruction to its students; and if so, is it required to restore the formal dance program at its high school?

2. If, subsequent to RIFing DeGraff, the Board failed to meet its obligation to offer formal dance instruction, is DeGraff entitled to reinstatement and back pay?

FINDINGS OF FACT

The factual findings of the Initial Decision (EDU 16478-16) are incorporated herein by reference. The certifications submitted by the parties reveal the following additional uncontroverted facts, and I FIND:

DeGraff was employed by the Board as a Teacher of Dance from September 2002 until the end of the 2015-2016 school year. Throughout her employment, she was the only teacher in Belleville who held an Instructional Certificate with a Teacher of Dance endorsement. DeGraff worked full-time; teaching a class load of five dance classes per day. She indicates via certification that "three [of these classes] were labeled 'Dance' and two were labeled 'Dance/P.E.' classes." Even in DeGraff's last year of employment there were enough dance students and dance classes to support her full-time employment, and she held the same instructional load as any other full-time teacher.

DeGraff was RIFed at the end of the 2015-2016 school year, and Belleville has not offered a formal dance program to its students since. Notwithstanding, Superintendent of Schools Richard Tomko agrees that instruction in all four visual and performing arts, to include dance, must be made available to high school students. He urges that the district meets State requirements because the Physical Education department includes curriculum standards that mention or are related to dance, as follows:

a. HPE.2.5.12.A.3 - Design and lead a rhythmic activity that includes variations in time, space, force, flow, and relationships (creative, cultural, social and fitness dance).

b. HPE.2.5.12.C.3 – Determine the current impact of globalization and technology on the development of, participation in, and viewing of games, sports, dance, and other movement activities, and predict future impact.

c. Exit skills – Explain and perform movement skills that combine mechanically correct movement in smooth flowing sequences in isolated settings (i.e. skill > practice) and applied settings (i.e. games, sports, dance, and recreational activities).

These curricular requirements provide "exposure to dance," and Tomko points to activities that incorporate such exposure; such as yoga, competitive cheerleading, color guard, musical productions, and homecoming dances and proms. Tomko asserts that "students are exposed to dance through other classes, such as theatre and music, in a variety of ways including but not limited to media, reading materials and activities." And the school district offers an alternative called "Option II," through which students can receive graduation credits in outside activities/programs in dance and theatre, with curriculum/program approval and monitoring by the building principal.

The Commissioner cites the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards for the Visual and Performing Arts in his remand decision and confirms that while "the Board is able to develop its own instructional methods . . . any such instruction must be aligned to the NJSLS and core curriculum." The remand decision at footnote 8 references a FAQ document that offers additional clarification about visual and performing arts instruction. That document confirms that "all K-12 students must have regular sequential arts instruction in the four arts disciplines included in the standards of the following: dance, music, theatre, and the visual arts." Relative to high school students, the FAQ page explains that > [i]n grades 9-12, all students are expected to communicate at a basic level in the arts and demonstrate proficiency in at least one arts discipline. This specialization allows for student choice which means that all four arts disciplines must be made available to students. All high school students must successfully complete five credits in at least one visual and performing arts course in order to receive a state-endorsed diploma.

As for who is qualified to provide instruction in dance, the FAQ document advises that a certification exists for each area of the arts, to include specific certification as Teacher of Dance. While Tomko points to several physical education activities that allegedly infuse dance, the answer that the FAQ document offers to the question "Can dance be used as a substitute for physical education?" is noteworthy. The document provides:

> No. The dance standards are very specific and require a high level of dance execution. Therefore, they are not easily aligned with the physical education standards. For example, a standards-based physical education program may utilize dance forms as part of instruction, but its focus is on fitness and wellness, while a dance class may address various dance techniques and styles. While there are some common elements, it is unlikely that the curricular objectives will align sufficiently. Courses in dance should be used to achieve arts credits.

DeGraff points out that New Jersey has adopted the National Core Arts Standards, and attaches a document to her certification entitled "National Core Arts Standards in Dance General Implementation Guidelines." The document discusses alignment of curriculum with all facets of dance, to include artistic creation (choreography), performance and analysis of artistic work.

Relative to Option II, DeGraff shares that while it is technically offered in Belleville, to her knowledge no one has ever availed themselves of this option for dance instruction. The Board has offered nothing to rebut this assertion. And the Department's FAQ document couches this as an opportunity for a student to opt out of in-school arts education; not as a vehicle for the school district to absolve itself of its obligation to provide required curricular offerings. The Department explains that "Option Two (sometimes called Plan B or program completion) is available to high school students. Option Two permits a local board of education to approve alternative activities e.g., participation in a dance company, community theater to achieve the New Jersey Student Learning Standards."

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Does the Board offer dance instruction that aligns with and is compliant with NJSLS?

New Jersey has developed standards for student learning that are intended to ensure that all students exit school equipped to successfully pursue their post-secondary paths. See: N.J.A.C. 6A:8-2.1. Local district boards of education are required to guarantee "that curriculum and instruction are designed and delivered in such a way that all students are able to demonstrate the knowledge and skills specified by the NJSLS..." N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.1. Visual and performing arts are a required course of study in New Jersey schools, and students must earn at least five credits in the arts to earn a State endorsed diploma. N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(vii). As noted in the remand decision, "instruction in all four VPA disciplines [dance, music, theater, and visual arts] must be made available to high school students."

Ever since abolishing its formal dance program, this Board has failed to offer a visual and performing arts curriculum to its students that aligns with NJSLS. I CONCLUDE that the Department of Education, through the NJSLS, requires that actual instruction in dance technique be offered to high school students; not just "exposure to dance;" opportunities to read about it in a book; or opportunities to watch someone else dance in a video. Yoga and physical education are not dance. And Tomko's assertion that students are being provided instruction in dance because they are given opportunities to attend school dances and proms is particularly insulting to anyone serious about dance as a fine art, and is nothing short of preposterous.

Moreover, I agree with DeGraff that the sort of dance instruction contemplated by the NJSLS must be delivered by a properly certificated teacher. She correctly points out that a Teacher of Dance endorsement is required to teach dance in the public schools. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-9.3(a)(1)(ii). DeGraff was the only staff member in Belleville to hold a Teacher of Dance endorsement on her Instructional Certificate. The "exposure" to dance currently being offered in Belleville by physical education or other instructional staff thus does not and cannot meet NJSLS requirements.

The suggestion that this Board has met its obligations in dance instruction by offering Option II is likewise unavailing. As noted above, it is clear that this option is designed to afford flexibility for students who are actively engaged in the arts outside of school. N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(2). It is inconceivable that the drafters of N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a) intended that a local board could meet its obligations to "develop, adopt, and implement local graduation requirements that prepare students for success..." by telling its students to go out and find instruction elsewhere. I CONCLUDE that individual students in Belleville surely can meet their visual and performing arts graduation requirements via Option II, but at their option, not the Board's.

In summary, I CONCLUDE that the Board has failed to meet its obligations to provide dance instruction to its students; that its action in abolishing its dance program was ultra vires; and that the Board must restore the dance program. And having heard nothing to rebut DeGraff's statement that student demand in Belleville historically required the full-time employment of a duly certificated Teacher of Dance, I am compelled to further CONCLUDE that from 2016 to the present, the Board was obliged to offer a dance program that would have necessitated the employment of a full-time dance teacher.

DeGraff's Rights to Recall

The prerogative of the Board to reduce force is well-established. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides that > [n]othing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

RIFs and recalls of tenured staff must be based on seniority according to standards established by the Commissioner. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10; see N.J.A.C. 6A:32-5.1; Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, aff'd, 1983 S.L.D. 1554.

While here, the Board had the statutory right to abolish DeGraff's position, it lacked the authority to abolish the subject she taught; accordingly, under the unique circumstances of this case, I CONCLUDE that DeGraff's RIF was improper. As the Commissioner aptly put it in his remand decision:

> ...petitioner may be able to establish that termination was improper if, following the RIF, the Board did not have qualified teachers to provide dance instruction and/or failed to provide dance instruction (i.e. violated NJSLS), and that petitioner would have been entitled to the position by virtue of her tenure and seniority and/or because she was the only tenured teacher qualified to provide dance instruction at the secondary level (retention of whom would have been necessary for the Board to provide dance instruction).

The Board violated the NJSLS once DeGraff was RIFed by failing to provide dance instruction. DeGraff was the only tenured teacher in Belleville qualified to provide dance instruction at the secondary level; clearly, her retention would have been necessary for the Board to continue to offer such instruction. DeGraff is incontrovertibly entitled to a Teacher of Dance position in Belleville by virtue of her tenure and seniority. And since DeGraff's description of student demand as necessitating a full-time teacher went unrebutted, I CONCLUDE that she is thus entitled to reinstatement as a full-time teacher, retroactive to the date of her RIF.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the Board restore its formal dance program, and that DeGraff be reinstated as a full-time Teacher of Dance retroactive to the date of her RIF, with full back pay, benefits and emoluments of employment, less mitigation.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Janan Wehbeh,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Verona, Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, a tenured teacher in the respondent Board's school district, appealed the Board's decision to affirm the results of a harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) investigation into petitioner's conduct. The HIB investigation summary determined that the petitioner unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior and had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the student. The Board affirmed the findings of the investigation, which stemmed from a meeting petitioner had with a student to discuss the student's desire to enroll in an advanced placement (AP) chemistry course. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's conversation with the student regarding entry into the AP chemistry course concluded with a recommendation that the student not enroll in the course, but left the decision up to the student; petitioner discouraged the student because of the degree of difficulty and the student's prior performance in an honors chemistry course that petitioner taught; the student has been diagnosed with anxiety and panic disorders and has a 504 plan that assists her in meeting her educational goals; the HIB complaint alleged that petitioner made verbal remarks that touched upon the student's disability; and the HIB investigation summary concluded that petitioner had unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior and had no awareness of its potential negative effects upon the classified student. The ALJ concluded, inter alia, that: in order to establish an occurrence of HIB, the actor's intent to harm must be demonstrated, and an actor cannot "unintentionally" commit an act of HIB; because the Board determined that petitioner had unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior, the intent required by the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., was lacking. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner disagreed with the ALJ's conclusion that an act of HIB cannot be "unintentionally" committed, finding, inter alia, that HIB can occur when the victim reasonably perceives that an action was motivated by a desire to do harm. The Commissioner noted that in the Initial Decision, the ALJ stated that there were several disputed issues of material fact in this case, including whether or not petitioner should have known under the circumstances that her words, actions or gestures would have the effect of physically or emotionally harming the student. The Commissioner concluded that these disputed issues of fact must be resolved before reaching a determination regarding whether the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with the Commissioner's decision.

Agency Dkt. No. 154-6/18

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

Janan Wehbeh,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Verona, Essex County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto have been reviewed.

This matter concerns an alleged act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) by petitioner, a high school chemistry teacher. Petitioner met with a student to discuss the student's desire to enroll in an advanced placement (AP) chemistry course. The student, who has been diagnosed with anxiety and panic disorders, filed an HIB complaint regarding comments the student alleges petitioner made during the conversation. Following an investigation, district staff issued an HIB investigation summary that indicated that petitioner had "unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior and had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the victim." The Board later voted to affirm the findings of the investigation, and petitioner appealed.

Following cross motions for summary decision, the ALJ concluded that, in order to establish an occurrence of HIB, the actor's intent to harm must be demonstrated, and an actor cannot "unintentionally" commit an act of HIB. The ALJ further concluded that, because the Board had determined that petitioner unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior, the intent required by the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., was lacking and the Board's decision must be reversed. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision.

The ALJ then went on to address an aspect of the case not argued by either party. The ALJ asserted that the superintendent's letter to petitioner, wherein she was told that the district found evidence of HIB in their investigation, did not address all of the elements required for a determination of an act of HIB. The superintendent only discussed elements of the definition of HIB contained in the statute's first paragraph. The ALJ concluded that because the letter did not address the definition of HIB in its entirety, the superintendent did not consider the elements of HIB defined in the second paragraph to have been satisfied by the evidence. For this reason, the ALJ determined that the contents of the superintendent's letter were inadequate to support a finding of HIB. The ALJ further concluded that since the Board's decision appears to have been based solely on the findings set forth in the superintendent's letter, it was not based on the full definition of HIB, and thus establishes a second basis for the reversal of the Board's decision.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ's holding that the Act requires intent on the part of the actor is in error. The Board cites to the Commissioner's decision in L.K. and T.K., o/b/o minor child A.K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Mansfield, Burlington Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 107-19, decided April 22, 2019, in which the Commissioner affirmed a board's finding of HIB against a seven-year-old child and stated that the child "should have known" that her actions were harming another student. Accordingly, the Board contends that the Act focuses on the reasonable perception of the victim and whether the actor should have known that the action would cause harm. The Board provides an example of a teacher dressing in a KKK costume for Halloween, with no intent to cause harm, and suggests that such an act would constitute HIB because the students could reasonably perceive the action to be motivated by race and a reasonable teacher should know that the action would cause harm. The Board argues that the ALJ's holding sets up the untenable situation wherein HIB could never be proven because everyone accused of HIB would simply state that they did not mean to cause harm. The Board also takes issue with the ALJ's comments regarding a December 2012 publication, entitled Guidance for Parents on the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act and available on the Department of Education's website, which the ALJ interpreted as requiring intent. The Board argues that the Commissioner's recent decision in L.K. and T.K., supra, not a document on the Department's website, should control.

Finally, the Board argues that the ALJ was incorrect in concluding that the Superintendent's letter of March 14, 2018 to petitioner was insufficient to support a finding of HIB. The Board indicates that its decision was based on findings other than those set forth in the letter and that the letter was not intended as the Board's official findings to the exclusion of all other evidence gathered during the HIB investigation process. According to the Board, neither party disputed or briefed this issue, and the ALJ's sua sponte consideration of it is contrary to the record and deprived the Board of the opportunity to provide evidence or testimony to address the question.

In reply, petitioner submits that the Commissioner should adopt the ALJ's analysis in whole. Petitioner distinguishes the holding in L.K. and T.K., supra, because the alleged bully in that case was repeatedly asked to stop her behavior, while petitioner had only one allegedly problematic interaction with the student and was never told that her choice of words might cause harm to the student. Petitioner claims that she had no way of knowing that a conversation she has with her students every year could allegedly cause emotional harm to this particular student. According to petitioner, the statutory language requires "at least" knowledge that one's actions could cause harm to the alleged target, and a reasonable person in her shoes would have no way of knowing that her actions would constitute HIB. Petitioner indicates that the arbiter of facts must determine how a reasonable person in similar circumstances would reasonably perceive the alleged bully's actions.

Further, in response to the Board's example, petitioner agrees that a teacher dressing in a KKK robe for Halloween would constitute HIB, because a reasonable person would know that this action was inappropriate and would cause emotional harm, even if the teacher did not subjectively know that. Petitioner argues that if bullying can be committed unintentionally, teachers would live in fear of developing a rapport with students because their objectively reasonable and unintentional conduct could be deemed bullying. Petitioner also cites to guidance issued by the Department of Education that, according to petitioner, supports a finding that intent is required to commit an act of HIB. Finally, petitioner urges the Commissioner to accept the ALJ's findings regarding the sufficiency of the March 14, 2018 letter, which petitioner claims demonstrates that not all of the elements of the statute were satisfied.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's conclusion that an act of HIB cannot be "unintentionally" committed. The Act defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;

b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or

c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, a finding of HIB requires three elements. First, the conduct must be reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic and, second, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school.[1] The third condition is that one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act regarding the effect of the conduct must also be satisfied.[2]

In defining HIB as an action "that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic . . .", N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added), the statute requires an analysis of how the actor's motivation is perceived and whether that perception is reasonable.[3] It does not require an analysis of the actual motivation of the actor.

[1] The conduct must also take place on school property, at a school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. This requirement does not appear to be at issue in this case.

[2] The Initial Decision incorrectly views subsection (a), that a reasonable person should know the act will have a harmful effect, as the third requirement, with an additional fourth requirement being a choice between subsections (b) and (c). As a matter of standard statutory construction, the term "or" between subsections (b) and (c) also applies to subsection (a), such that a demonstration of any of these three criteria can support a finding of HIB.

[3] This conclusion does not make the Act a strict liability statute, as the ALJ opined it would. The statute is clear that the perception must be reasonable. The Commissioner does not interpret the Board's arguments as suggesting a purely subjective standard in which any perception by an alleged victim is automatically reasonable, as the ALJ did. If the Board was in fact suggesting such an interpretation, the Commissioner rejects it in favor of a standard reasonableness determination common in many types of adjudications. Furthermore, the Commissioner does not agree with the ALJ that, in order to be reasonable, the alleged victim must correctly assess the actor's motivation, as such a requirement would convert the analysis from one about reasonably perceived motivation to one about actual motivation and would inappropriately place the burden on the alleged victim to divine the intent of the actor.

Certainly, evidence that the actor was motivated by a distinguishing characteristic would meet the standard of this section of the Act, but evidence that the actor was not so motivated does not end the analysis. Moreover, an act of HIB is one that "a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student," "has the effect of insulting or demeaning a student," or "creates a hostile educational environment . . .". N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14(a) (emphasis added). None of these criteria require the actor to have actual knowledge of the effect that her actions will have, or to specifically intend to bring about that effect. The first requires only that a reasonable person should know there would be a harmful effect, not that the actor knows there would be such an effect. The second two criteria address only the actual effect of the act, without any reference to what either the actor or a reasonable person does or should know.

While the ALJ found, and petitioner argues, that conduct found to be unintentional cannot reasonably be perceived as being motivated by a distinguishing characteristic, the Commissioner disagrees. Initially, the Commissioner notes that the Board's decision does not state that the conduct was not motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. The language used in the documents in the record suggest that the lack of intentionality was related to the causing of harm, an element distinct from the motivation. However, even if the Board was indicating that petitioner's comments were not motivated by the student's disability, it could have reasonably found that she committed an act of HIB if the student reasonably perceived the comments as being motivated by her disability.

Petitioner also relies, in part, on guidance published by the Department of Education,[4] which states, "Bullying among students is aggressive behavior that is intentional."

[4] The Initial Decision indicates that the ALJ did not review the guidance or make any evaluation or factual finding regarding it. The Commissioner nonetheless deems it appropriate to address the guidance, as it has been part of the arguments made by the parties in both the briefs below and the exceptions.

https://www.nj.gov/education/students/safety/behavior/hib/guidance.pdf (page 44). The Commissioner first notes that guidance, while intended to be instructive for the public, does not replace the Commissioner's decisions as the definitive interpretation of the law. Second, the document containing this statement also explicitly states, "[t]he term 'bullying' is used to refer to general information on this subject and is not limited to the HIB definition in the [Act]." Ibid. at page 5. Therefore, this particular statement defining "bullying" is not useful or applicable in interpreting what constitutes HIB under the Act. Another guidance document describes bullying as "intentionally committing a mean or violent act." https://www.nj.gov/education/students/safety/behavior/hib/ParentGuide.pdf (page 11). However, it goes on to indicate that bullying occurs when the "aggressor's behavior would lead a person to reasonably believe that the aggressor is motivated by a desire to physically or emotionally hurt someone." Ibid. This language clearly tracks the "reasonably perceived" language of the Act, and concludes, as the Commissioner does herein, that HIB can occur when the victim reasonably perceives that the action was motivated by a desire to do harm.

Petitioner's reply to the Board's exceptions appears to misconstrue the Initial Decision and instead agrees, in large part, with the analysis herein. Petitioner acknowledges that the reasonable person test applies when analyzing the actions in question and argues that the ALJ's conclusion should be affirmed because a reasonable person in her shoes would have no way of knowing that her actions would constitute a HIB violation. But the ALJ did not make that finding and, in fact, listed "whether or not Wehbeh should have known under the prevailing circumstances that her words, actions, or gestures would have the effect of physically or emotionally harming" the student as a disputed issue of material fact. Moreover, even if this issue was resolved in petitioner's favor with a finding that a reasonable person would not have known that her action would emotionally harm the student, a finding of HIB could still be supported if either of the other two criteria – that the act had the effect of insulting or demeaning the student or that it created a hostile educational environment for the student – was proven. These questions are also identified in the Initial Decision as disputed issues of material fact. For these reasons, the Commissioner is not able to ascertain whether the petitioner committed an act of HIB. The disputed issues of fact must be resolved before reaching a determination regarding whether the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

Regarding the sufficiency of the March 14, 2018 letter from the superintendent to petitioner, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's conclusion. The decision being appealed in this matter is the Board's decision of March 28, 2018. The only requirement in the Act regarding the Board's decision is that it must be in writing and affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e). The Board satisfied that requirement through its letter of March 28, 2018 affirming the superintendent's decision. Furthermore, there is no basis in the record for the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's decision was based solely on the Superintendent's letter.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is a Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying (HIB) case arising out of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq. Dr. Janan Wehbeh (Wehbeh) appeals the Verona Board of Education's (respondent's or BOE's) affirmance of the school district's HIB Investigation. The school district's investigation found that during a meeting with a student named J.G., Wehbeh unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior and had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the victim.

The background of the matter is as follows. Wehbeh is a chemistry teacher at Verona High School. On February 15, 2018, Wehbeh met with a student referred to herein as "J.G." to discuss J.G.'s desire to enroll in an Advanced Placement (AP) chemistry course. Wehbeh recommended to J.G. that she not enroll in the Advanced Placement chemistry course because of its degree of difficulty and because, in Wehbeh's opinion, J.G. was having a difficult time in the honors chemistry course in which she was currently enrolled. J.G. is a student who has been diagnosed with anxiety and panic disorders and has a 504 plan that assists her in meeting her educational goals.

On or about February 15, 2018, J.G. and her mother filed an HIB complaint against Wehbeh. They claimed that Wehbeh made verbal remarks about J.G.'s ability to handle the requirements of the AP chemistry course. They claimed that Wehbeh's remarks touched upon J.G.'s disability, which was rooted in an anxiety diagnosis, for which J.G. was categorized as a special education student and given a 504 plan.

On or about February 20, 2018, the school district began its investigation into the HIB allegation. The investigator interviewed two people, Wehbeh and J.G. The investigator, utilizing the definition of HIB found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., specifically at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, concluded and wrote in her HIB Investigation Summary, dated March 14, 2018, that Wehbeh unintentionally bullied J.G. when she made demeaning comments to J.G. in the classroom, which minimized J.G.'s mental disability, interfered with J.G.'s right to access education (opportunities), created a hostile educational environment, and caused J.G. emotional harm. (Petr.'s Ex. B and Resp.'s Ex. C.) On March 27, 2018, the Verona Board of Education voted to affirm the findings of the investigation and informed Wehbeh of its decision in its letter dated March 28, 2019. (Petr.'s Ex. C and Resp.'s Ex. G.)

On June 26, 2018, Wehbeh's counsel filed a Petition of Appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes. The Verona Board of Education filed its Answer to Petition of Appeal on July 18, 2018. The Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on August 1, 2018, as a contested case.

The matter was assigned to Ernest Bongiovanni, ALJ on August 8, 2018, but he had a conflict of interest. The case was re-assigned to John P. Scollo, ALJ on August 13, 2018. Judge Scollo held an initial telephone conference with counsel for Wehbeh and counsel for the BOE on August 22, 2018, at which time a plan for discovery was put in place and a Pre-Hearing Order was issued on August 23, 2018.

A telephone conference was held on December 13, 2018, to monitor the progress of discovery and to discuss settlement possibilities. Adjournment of hearing dates were granted twice: once for discovery reasons and once to accommodate the judge's vacation plans. On August 20, 2019, counsel for Wehbeh filed a Motion for Summary Decision limited to Count One of Wehbeh's Petition of Appeal ("HIB cannot be unintentional."). On August 23, 2019, counsel for the BOE filed Opposition papers to the motion and filed a Cross-Motion seeking Summary Decision on both Counts of Wehbeh's Petition of Appeal, for which the petitioner filed Opposition papers on September 27, 2019.

ISSUES

(1) Can an act of HIB be committed unintentionally?

(2) Do the undisputed facts show that Wehbeh unintentionally committed one or more acts of HIB against J.G.?

FINDINGS OF FACT

Each of the following statements was taken from the exhibits presented by the parties. There is no apparent dispute between the parties about the following facts.

(1) In April, 2013, before J.G. started high school, J.G. was diagnosed with both anxiety and panic disorder by psychologist Thomas Hollenbach. Due to these diagnoses, J.G. was determined to be disabled and thus eligible for a 504 Accommodation Plan. (This refers to Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973.) She was given an Individual Accommodation Plan (IAP), which allowed her, among other things, to be granted extended time for taking quizzes and tests. (Resp.'s Ex. A.)

(2) Dr. Janan Wehbeh (Wehbeh) has been a chemistry teacher in the Verona School District since 2011. (Petr.'s Ex. E and Resp.'s Ex. B.)

(3) In the 2017-2018 school year, J.G. was enrolled in honors chemistry, which was taught by Wehbeh. (Petr.'s Ex. E and Resp.'s Ex. F.)

(4) On February 15, 2018, J.G. met with Wehbeh to discuss enrolling in Advanced Placement (AP) chemistry in the 2018-2019 school year. (Petr.'s Ex. E and Resp.'s Ex. F.)

(5) Wehbeh recommended to J.G. that she should not enroll in AP chemistry because J.G. was having difficulty with honors chemistry, but left the decision to enroll or not to enroll in AP chemistry with J.G. All parties agree that the ultimate decision about whether to enroll in the AP chemistry course was J.G.'s. (Petr.'s Ex. E and Resp.'s Ex. C.)

(6) On February 15, 2018, the mother of J.G., Ms. E.D., contacted the principal of Verona High School Joshua Cogdill (Cogdill), and guidance counsellor Jen Gadaleta (Gadaleta), requesting a meeting to discuss the conversation between her daughter, J.G., and Wehbeh, which took place earlier that day. E.D. complained that Wehbeh bullied her students, including J.G., by emphasizing how difficult the AP chemistry course was and by telling them that the course "will kill you." E.D. complained that Wehbeh stated to J.G. that everyone who takes chemistry has anxiety and that J.G. would not be allowed extra time to take quizzes and tests every day. E.D. complained that Wehbeh disrespected J.G. by making disparaging remarks, which E.D. saw as mocking J.G.'s anxiety disorder. E.D. complained that Wehbeh's remarks caused emotional upset to J.G. (Resp.'s Ex. E.)

(7) The school's principal opened an HIB investigation on February 20, 2018. Anti-bullying Specialist and District Director of Counselling Kimberly Ferulato (Ferulato) was assigned to conduct the investigation. During Ferulato's investigation, she interviewed only two people: Dr. Wehbeh on February 21, 2018, and J.G. on February 23, 2018. (Resp.'s Ex. B and Ex. D.) According to the Respondent BOE's answers to Interrogatories, Respondent did not know the date when the HIB investigation ended. (Resp.'s Ex. F, Question 9.)

(8) After conducting the interviews of Wehbeh and J.G., Ferulato concluded that there was evidence supporting the proposition that Wehbeh unintentionally committed an act of HIB against J.G. on February 15, 2018, with J.G.'s anxiety and 504 status being motivating factors. (Petr.'s Ex. A, B, C, D and Resp.'s Ex. C and G.)

(9) An HIB Investigation Summary, dated March 14, 2018, was prepared. (Petr.'s Ex. B and Resp.'s Ex. C.) It was not signed and the author did not affix his or her name. Presumably, it was prepared by the HIB investigator, Ferulato. The HIB Summary contains the opinions, but no findings of the investigator. The HIB Summary reports that it is the opinion of the investigator that: (i) Dr. Wehbeh uttered "demeaning comments" to J.G. in a classroom; (ii) "unintentionally intimidated and bullied" J.G. by "minimizing" J.G.'s mental disability; (iii) interfered with J.G.'s "right to access education"; (iv) caused emotional harm to J.G.; and (v) created a hostile educational environment. The HIB Investigation Summary, containing the investigator's opinions, was submitted to Cogdill and to Dr. Rui Dionisio (Dionisio), the School District Superintendent.

(10) In a letter dated March 14, 2018, which was signed by Ferulato, Cogdill, and Dionisio (referred to herein as the "Superintendent's letter dated March 14, 2018"), Wehbeh was informed that the investigation results "have been reported to the Board of Education at the March 27, 2018 meeting."[i] (Petr.'s Ex. A and Resp.'s Ex. G.)

(11) In the Superintendent's letter dated March 14, 2018, Wehbeh was told that "the district found evidence of the investigated act of [HIB]." (Petr.'s Ex. A and Resp.'s Ex. G.) Using underlining, the letter stated that Wehbeh's conduct met the following elements of the definition of HIB set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14:

(i) [the conduct] "is reasonably perceived as being motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic [such as] mental, physical or sensory disability . . . ."
(ii) [that] "takes place on school property . . . ."
(iii) [that] "substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of . . . the rights of other students."

(12) The matter was presented to the Verona Board of Education (BOE), which voted at its March 27, 2018 meeting. In a March 28, 2018, letter signed by Ferulato, Cogdill, and Dionisio, they told Wehbeh "The Verona Board of Education voted to affirm the findings of the HIB investigation."

(13) Dr. Wehbeh filed a two-count Petition of Appeal dated June 25, 2018, requesting a hearing, seeking to overturn the BOE's decision. (Petr.'s Ex. E.)

(14) From the documents submitted with the motion papers, it is clear there are certain statements of material fact which J.G. and Dr. Wehbeh disagree about. Among them are:

[i] Since March 27 was a date still in the future when this letter was written, it is apparent that the words "and will be considered by the Board of Education" should have been added between the word "Education" and the word "at," but these words were somehow omitted.

(a) whether or not Wehbeh actually made any of the following statements to J.G. that, if J.G. took the AP Chemistry course, she "would die"; she "would get five zeros in a row"; she would "fail the class"; that "all students [including J.G.] would get anxiety" during the AP Chemistry course; that J.G. would "just have to handle it" (or even if this statement referred to J.G.'s anxiety issues); that J.G. would not be allowed extra time for completion of quizzes and assignments in AP Chemistry; and that J.G. "was in the SPED program" (a derogatory term for referring to students enrolled in a special education program), which allegedly brought J.G. to cry hysterically;

(b) whether Wehbeh and J.G. discussed anything about J.G. enrolling in AP Chemistry against Wehbeh's advice and whether Wehbeh would in any way retaliate against J.G. for doing so;

(c) whether or not J.G.'s perception of any of Wehbeh's statements to the class or to her could reasonably be interpreted to have been motivated by an actual or perceived characteristic as listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14;

(d) whether or not Wehbeh should have known under the prevailing circumstances that her words, actions, or gestures would have the effect of physically or emotionally harming J.G. or of placing in J.G. a reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm;

(e) whether or not anything Wehbeh said to J.G. during their meeting was insulting or demeaning on an objective basis;

(f) whether anything Wehbeh said to J.G. during their meeting created a hostile educational environment by interfering with J.G.'s education by severely or pervasively causing her physical harm or emotional harm.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

As noted above, there are quite a few unresolved issues of fact regarding what Wehbeh said to her class regarding the degree of difficulty of the AP chemistry course; regarding what Wehbeh said to J.G. during their conversation about the AP chemistry course on February 15, 2018; regarding whether Wehbeh said anything to J.G. about her anxiety issues, her 504 plan, whether or how J.G.'s anxiety issues would affect her performance in AP chemistry; and other questions of fact.

APPLICABLE LAW

In 2002 the New Jersey Legislature enacted L. 2002, c. 83, this State's first harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) law. In 2007 the Legislature amended the law L. 2007, c. 129, to cover cyber-bullying. In 2010 the Legislature enacted the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, L. 2010, c. 122, which revised and supplemented the prior laws chiefly to cover incidents that occur off school grounds under special circumstances. The legislature also enacted L. 2012, c. 1, which permits a school district to implement bullying prevention and training programs.

Definition of Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB)

The 2010 law refined the definition of HIB to include [bracketed numbers added]:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is [1] reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, [2] that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or takes place off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3, [3] that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging a student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;

> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or be severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student."
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added).]

Comprehensive regulations promulgated by the Department of Education further assist districts in complying with these statutory requirements. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.9.

Local Control of Policy and Required Contents of HIB Policy

The anti-bullying law provides that "[e]ach school district shall adopt a policy prohibiting harassment, intimidation and bullying on school property, at a school-sponsored function or on a school bus." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(a). Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b) each school district has "local control over the content of the policy" but the policy must include twelve enumerated components including a definition of harassment, intimidation, and bullying at least as inclusive as the one provided (see above) in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. The twelve required components of the policy are set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15 and are summarized below.

(1) a statement prohibiting HIB of a student;
(2) a definition of HIB no less inclusive than that set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13;
(3) a description of the type of behavior expected from each student;
(4) consequences and appropriate remedial action for a person who commits an act of HIB;
(5) a procedure for reporting an act of HIB, including a provision that permits a person to report an act of HIB anonymously;
(6) a procedure for prompt investigation of violations and complaints, which procedure shall at a minimum provide that

> [(a) the investigation be initiated within one school day of the report and be completed within ten days of receipt of the written report,
> (b) the results of the investigation be reported to the superintendent within two days of completion,
> (c) the investigation and reports be reported to the board of education no later than the date of the next board of education meeting,

(d) the parents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation be entitled to receive certain information and request a hearing within five days after the results of the investigation are reported to the board,
(e) the board must issue a written decision affirming, rejecting or modifying the superintendent's decision, which can be appealed to the Commissioner of Education, and
(f) a complaint can be filed with the Division on Civil Rights within 180 days of an incident of HIB based on membership in a protected group.][;]

(7) the range of ways in which a school will respond once an incident of HIB is identified, which shall be defined by the principal in conjunction with the school anti-bullying specialist, but shall include an appropriate combination of services that are available within the district such as counselling, support services, intervention services and other programs, as defined by the commissioner. In the event that the necessary programs and services are not available within the district, the district may apply to the Department of Education for a grant from the "Bullying Prevention Fund" established pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-28] to support the provision of out-of-district programs and services;

(8) a statement that prohibits reprisal or retaliation against any person who reports an act of HIB and the consequence and appropriate remedial action for a person who engages in reprisal or retaliation;

(9) consequences and appropriate remedial action for a person found to have falsely accused another as a means of retaliation or as a means of HIB;

(10) a statement of how the policy is to be publicized, including notice that the policy applies to participation in school-sponsored functions;

(11) a requirement that a link to the policy be prominently posted on the home page of the school district's website and distributed annually to parents and guardians who have children enrolled in a school in the school district; and

(12) a requirement that the name, school phone number, school address and school email address of the district anti-bullying coordinator be listed on the home page of the school district's website; and that on the home page of each school's website the name, school phone number, school address and school email address of the school anti-bullying specialist and the district anti-bullying coordinator be listed. The information concerning the district anti-bullying coordinator and the school anti-bullying specialists shall also be maintained on the department's website.

HIB on School Grounds versus off School Grounds

In regard to the location of acts of HIB (on school grounds versus off school grounds), the enactment of the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act now requires that each school district's policy "include provisions for appropriate responses to harassment, intimidation or bullying . . . that occurs off school grounds, in cases where a school employee is made aware of such actions." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. A school district's responses to harassment, Intimidation or bullying occurring off school grounds must "be consistent with the board of education's code of student conduct or other provisions of the board's policy on harassment, intimidation, or bullying." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. Pursuant to the rules governing a board of education's code of student conduct, N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.5(a) states:

> School authorities have the right to impose a consequence on a student for conduct away from school grounds that is consistent with the district board of education's code of student conduct, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1.
> 1. This authority shall be exercised only when it is reasonably necessary for the student's physical or emotional safety, security and well-being or for reasons relating to the safety, security and well-being of other students, staff or school grounds, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-2 and 18A:37-2.
> 2. This authority shall be exercised only when the conduct which is the subject of the proposed consequence materially and substantially interferes with the requirements of appropriate discipline in the operation of the school.
> 3. The consequence pursuant to (a) above shall be handled in accordance with the district board of education's approved code of student conduct, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, and as appropriate, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.2, 7.3, or 7.4. and (b) school authorities shall respond to harassment, intimidation, or bullying that occurs off school grounds, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and 15.3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3, 7.1, and 7.7.

Reporting of HIB

In regard to the reporting of alleged HIB incidents and the investigation of same, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16(a) forbids a member of a board of education, a school employee, a student or a volunteer from engaging in acts of reprisal, retaliation, or false accusation against a victim of HIB or a witness who reports acts of HIB.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16(b) requires that acts of HIB must be reported and states:

> A member of a board of education, school employee, contracted service provider, student or volunteer who has witnessed, or has reliable information that a student has been subject to, harassment, intimidation, or bullying shall report the incident to the appropriate school official designated by the school district's policy, or to any school administrator or safe schools resource officer, who shall immediately initiate the school district's procedures concerning school bullying.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16(c) provides that any school official who promptly complies with the reporting requirement of the law is immune from a cause of action for damages arising from any failure to remedy the reported incident.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16(d) provides that a school administrator who fails to investigate the allegation of HIB or fails to take sufficient action to minimize or eliminate the HIB may be subject to disciplinary action.

HIB Prevention

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-17(a) schools and school districts are required to annually assess their HIB prevention programs, or approaches and other initiatives so as to create school-wide conditions to prevent and address HIB Grants are available from the Department of Education if needed.

N.J.S.A. 18A-37(b) obligates school, districts to provide training related to the district's HIB policies to its employees and volunteers emphasizing the importance of the definition of HIB and of the protected categories found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

N.J.S.A. 18A-37-17(c) obligates individual schools to include the school district's policies against HIB in its employee training, including full and part-time employees, volunteers and anyone who may have significant contact with students.

Comprehensive regulations promulgated by the Department of Education further assist districts in complying with these statutory requirements. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

SECTION ONE

The Tribunal's Ruling on Respondent's Cross-Motion

In its Cross-Motion, the respondent assumes that certain facts are undisputed. (See page 5 of the Cross-Motion.) In Opposition to the respondent's Cross-Motion, the petitioner argues that respondent's assertion that the facts are undisputed is incorrect and that actually several issues of material fact are present and their presence precludes granting Summary Decision in favor of the respondent.

A review of the documents and certifications convinces me that there are unresolved questions of material fact in this case. They pertain to Wehbeh's statements about the rigors of the AP chemistry course to her class, Wehbeh's version of her conversation with J.G., and J.G.'s version of her conversation with Wehbeh. I CONCLUDE that these unresolved fact questions are germane only to the outcome of the respondent's Cross-Motion and must be resolved by an evidentiary hearing. I CONCLUDE that these questions are not germane to the petitioner's Motion on Count One of the Petition of Appeal because the issue therein is a purely legal question:

whether there is or is not an element of intent within the subject statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent is not entitled to an Order granting Summary Decision on its Cross-Motion based on Counts One and Two of the petitioner's Petition of Appeal; and I CONCLUDE that the respondent's Cross-Motion must be and hereby is DENIED.

SECTION TWO

Analysis of the Arguments Presented by the Petitioner and by the Respondent

An analysis of the petitioner's arguments in favor of her motion for Summary Decision on Count One of the Petition of Appeal are set forth below.

The Petitioner seeks a grant of Summary Decision on only Count One of her Petition of Appeal. Petitioner's arguments in favor of her motion for Summary Decision are as follows. The essence of the petitioner's argument is that N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 only applies to intentional conduct. Put another way, petitioner argues that an act of bullying is an inherently intentional action. As such, it would be self-contradictory (i.e., under the laws of logic, namely the classical law of non-contradiction) to assert that two contradictory propositions can be true in the same sense at the same time. Thus, to assert that the intentional act of bullying can be committed "unintentionally" is absurd.

The petitioner also asserts that evidence from the Department of Education's website supports petitioner's assertion that bullying is intentional behavior. (The Tribunal has not reviewed this evidence and makes no evaluation or factual finding regarding it.)

The petitioner notes that the statute focuses on an actor's conduct that is motivated by a receiver's distinguishing characteristics. Petitioner argues that it is impossible to discuss the actor's motive for committing an intentional act, when the BOE admits that there was no intentional act in the first place. In the absence of intent to do harm or to threaten harm, it is meaningless to discuss the actor's motive.

Finally, the petitioner notes that the Superintendent's letter of March 14, 2018, expressly stated that Wehbeh "unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior" and that Wehbeh "had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the victim." The petitioner points to the Superintendent's admissions that Wehbeh's conduct was unintentional and that Wehbeh had no awareness of any potential harm to the student. Therefore, Wehbeh cannot have committed the intentional act of bullying and cannot be said to have intended to harm the student. It follows that Wehbeh is entitled to be exonerated and the decision of the BOE should be reversed.

A summary of the respondent's arguments seeking Summary Decision on Counts One of the petitioner's Petition of Appeal are as follows.

As to Count One, the respondent argues that the statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, does not differentiate between intentional or unintentional conduct by the actor. Respondent unequivocally stated its position that "the entire focus is on the 'reasonable perception' of the victim." In support of this argument respondent cites an OAL decision, the case of L.K. and T.K. ex rel. A.K. v. Mansfield Board of Education, EDU 7067-16, Initial Decision (January 22, 2019), Final Decision (April 22, 2019), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal. In that case, A.K., a girl of only seven years of age, was found by the BOE to have committed an act of bullying. The BOE found that A.K. had asked a second-grade boy several times on the school bus why he was wearing girl's clothing, not understanding [i.e., "not aware" or "not knowledgeable," wording supplied by this Tribunal] that the boy was "transitioning to female." The ALJ vacated the BOE's decision, finding it to be against the weight of the evidence. However, in interpreting the statute, the ALJ focused solely on how A.K.'s questions were "reasonably perceived" by N3 (the boy in question) and the impact on him. The ALJ further wrote that there was no requirement that the BOE find that A.K.'s conduct was actually motivated by the perceived characteristic. (Here, this Tribunal supplied the italics and I must note that the use of the word "motivated" appears to be synonymous with the word "intended".) Respondent notes that the Commissioner of Education reversed the ALJ's vacation of the BOE's decision and dismissed A.K.'s appeal, affirming that seven-year-old A.K. is a substantiated bully and did so without disturbing the ALJ's interpretation of the statute. The Respondent argues that Mansfield is now the ruling case on the interpretation of the HIB statute and that this Tribunal must follow the interpretation of the statute set forth by the ALJ in Mansfield. That interpretation is that the Tribunal must only focus on how the actor's words have been "reasonably perceived" by the receiver and on the impact to the receiver. I do not agree.

The arguments raised in the appeal of A.K. are different from the arguments raised in the case at bar. Here, the petitioner has pointed to evidence from the Department of Education's own website to the effect that the Department itself, despite the Commissioner's decision in Mansfield, may not have finalized its own position on how it interprets the statute. That aside, the facts of the case at bar are vastly different from those in Mansfield. Moreover, the issues and arguments presented in the case at bar are very different from those presented in Mansfield, e.g., the issue of whether intent is an element of the statute. I CONCLUDE the holding in Mansfield is not controlling in the case at bar.

The thrust of the respondent's arguments are, first, the actor's intent is irrelevant, since the words "intent," "intends," or "intentionally" are not expressly stated in the statute and since the element of intent is not referred to in the statute.

The respondent argues, second, (following the Mansfield case) that the Legislature intended that the school investigator's duty was not to pass judgment upon the reasonableness of the receiver's perception of the actor's motivation, but merely to look to whether the receiver felt harmed or threatened (i.e., the impact which the receiver alleges), regardless of the actor's intent.

I perceive several flaws in the respondent's arguments. First, while the statute contains the phrase "reasonably perceived," the respondent simply glosses over the word "reasonably" and merely assumes that J.G.'s perception of Wehbeh's words was a reasonable perception. Apparently, the reason for this approach is the respondent's belief that the statute cloaks the complainant-victim with the authority to determine whether his perception is reasonable. This is a subjective standard and, as will be demonstrated below, it is not justified by the wording of the statute.

Second, the statute's second paragraph is introduced by the conjunctive phrase "and that." The statute's second paragraph, referencing an actor's conduct (here, Wehbeh's words) contains the phrase "a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student." The Respondent's argument, as well as the Superintendent's March 14, 2018, letter both ignore the statute's second paragraph. (Resp.'s Ex. G.) The respondent also failed to address the inclusion of the word "know" in the statute and the support that word lends to the petitioner's argument. As will be demonstrated below, the concept of knowledge, referred to in the statute, is linked to the concept of intent.

Third, the respondent's position is that the victim's perception subjectively governs the meaning of the actor's conduct. However, the wording of the statute makes it clear that the Legislature expressly adopted the standard of the reasonable person, which is an objective standard, for determining whether the receiver's perception of the actor's conduct was accurate or inaccurate.

Basically, the Respondent's argument is that the actor's intent is irrelevant and that it is only the impact of the actor's words on the receiver that decides the question of whether an act of HIB has occurred. This interpretation of the statute means that once an actor makes a statement to a student (like Dr. Wehbeh recommending to J.G. that she should not enroll in AP chemistry), then the actor will be strictly liable for the content of her statement and will be found to have committed an act of HIB (i.e., of being a bully with its attendant stigma and consequences) if the student subsequently claims to have been offended or harmed by the actor's statement (the advice not to enroll in the course). Under this interpretation it would not matter at all if the actor's (teacher's) motives or intent were completely free of any degree of malice. Under the respondent's interpretation of the statute (referencing the Mansfield case) "the statute focuses on the impact of [the actor's] A.K.'s conduct on [the receiver] N3 and what N3 reasonably perceived." If This is so, this means that there is no "reasonable person" test to serve as a check on whether a receiver in N3's position reasonably perceived that he or she was harmed or threatened. Relying on Mansfield, the respondent's interpretation of the statute means that if the student actually feels threatened or harmed by the actor's words or other conduct, it is, per se, a reasonable perception, HIB is established. Under the respondent's interpretation, the receiver's perception would be a reasonable perception because the impact on him/her was created by the actor's words regardless of the actor's intent. This means that the statute makes HIB a strict liability offense. I CONCLUDE that there is no reasonable indication that the Legislature intended to make HIB a strict liability offense.

As noted above, the definition of Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 was re-defined in 2010. [In the following recitation (the "Tribunal's recitation") of the definition, I have added bold print, brackets, numbers, and italics for the purpose of making the analysis of the statute's elements easier to comprehend. I have also employed, throughout this writing, the terms "actor" and "receiver" to denote, respectively, the alleged bully and the alleged victim, the one who receives harm from the bullying. The addition of bold print, brackets, numbers, and italics will be referred to in the "One Additional Observation" section of this Initial Decision.] The 2010 law refined the definition of HIB to include:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is [1A] reasonably perceived as being [1B] motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, [2] that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or takes place off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3, [3A] that substantially disrupts > or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or [3B] the rights of other students and that:

> [4] a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging a student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
> [5] b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or > [6] c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by [6A] interfering with a student's education or [6B] be severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

The above-mentioned definition of HIB is part of a statute that prohibits and seeks to eradicate the despicable conduct commonly referred-to as "bullying," while not infringing or chilling the rights of people whose conduct (physical acts, gestures and speech) is innocent, legitimate and protected.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 seeks to set forth a prohibition against harmful conduct (whether physical acts, gestures or words) in the educational environment. In doing so, the statute employs a variety of words and phrases in its attempt to identify instances of conduct that are harmful. The statute proscribes gestures, physical acts or words which are > "reasonably perceived" as being "motivated" either by any actual or perceived characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic . . . and that a "'reasonable person' 'should know' . . . will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student . . . or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm . . . ."

These words and phrases will be analyzed below.

The Concept of Harmful Conduct

Harmful conduct occurs: (i) when the actor's gestures, physical acts or words are motivated by one or more of the receiver's distinguishing characteristics and reasonably perceived by the receiver as harmful and threatening; and (ii) when a reasonable person in the same or similar circumstances in the actor's position should know that his or her gestures, physical acts or words will have the effect of harming a student or placing the student in reasonable fear or physical or emotional harm; and (iii) when the actor's gestures, physical acts or words have the effect of insulting or demeaning a student or group of students; or (iv) when the actor creates a hostile educational environment for a student by interfering with the student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

The mechanism set forth in the statute to differentiate harmful conduct (that which harasses, intimidates or bullies) from innocent conduct is one of cause and effect. If the actor's conduct is demonstrably harmful or threatening, it is the cause; and if the receiver reasonably perceives the harmful conduct as harmful or threatening, it is the effect. When both cause and effect are present, then the statute has been violated. In the absence of one or the other, then the statute has not been violated. The issue of the reasonableness of the perception will be addressed below.

The Concept of Reasonable Perception

We turn now to an examination of the phrase "reasonably perceived" as it appears in the first paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

If, in the first paragraph of the statute, the word "perceived" stood alone in the text (i.e., without the adjective "reasonably" present to modify it) the statute would establish a purely subjective standard by which to judge whether the actor's gesture, physical act or words constituted an occurrence of HIB. Under such a subjective standard, any gesture, physical act or words which the receiver perceives to be disparaging or threatening and which has been motivated by his or her distinguishing characteristics would be all that is needed to establish an occurrence of HIB. Under such a subjective standard, the school authorities, the Board of Education, or the Commissioner would be compelled to conclude that the statute was violated. The argument offered by the respondent would make sense only if the word "perception" stood alone. However, this is not what the Legislature intended because the Legislature used the word "reasonable' to modify the word "perceived."

The word "perceived" does not stand alone in the text. It is modified by the word "reasonably." As used here, the word "reasonably" denotes a limitation. The use of the word "reasonably" limits the ability of the receiver to assess the actor's action (gestures, physical acts or words) on a purely subjective basis. Before an occurrence of HIB can be established, it must be demonstrated that the receiver's perception of harm or a threat was reasonable.

The use of the word "reasonably" as the modifier of the word "perceived" and the statute's employment of the term "reasonable person" in its second paragraph (N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14a) make it clear that the standard for assessing the actor's conduct is an objective standard, not a subjective standard. In other words, the applicable standard is that of the "reasonable person."

The word "motivated" and the phrase "reasonably perceived" are closely connected in the statute. The receiver's "reasonable perception" refers to his or her assessment of the actor's apparent motivation in making the gesture, performing the physical act or saying the words. As already discussed, a plain reading of the statute requires that the receiver's perception must be a reasonable one. The word "motive" or "motivation," by definition, refers to what tempts or impels the actor to act. The statute looks to the actor's motive and sets it against the background of the receiver's set of distinguishing characteristics.

In order to be sure that a receiver's perception qualifies as a reasonable perception, a reviewing court must be reasonably certain that the receiver accurately assessed the actor's motivation. In other words, the Tribunal in an HIB case must be equipped with some way to verify the receiver's accusation against the actor. The way to test the veracity of the receiver is to resort to the standard of the reasonable person.

The Statute's Employment of the Reasonable Person Standard

The statute's use of the term "reasonable" in its first paragraph signals that the standard that a court must use to determine the accuracy of the receiver's perceptions is that of the reasonable person. It follows that when receiver's perception comports with how a reasonable person would assess the actor's conduct, then his assessment is accurate. If the receiver accurately assesses both the actor's motive and the presence of a real threat or insult to his or her physical or emotional safety, then and only then, is his or her perception a reasonable perception of an improper motivation, and a threat of harm, etc.

The concept of the reasonable person has its origins in the law of torts. Cf. William L. Prosser, The Law of Torts, West Publishing Co., 4th Ed. (1971) pp. 149-52. In tort law it is useful in determining whether a defendant has acted reasonably. In criminal law it is useful in determining whether self defense is a viable defense. In contract law it is useful in determining contractual intent. In the statute under discussion in this case, the Legislature has expressly incorporated the standard of the reasonable person to determine the reasonableness of the receiver's perception and as a measure of the actor's awareness of the probable consequences of his acts, gestures, or words.

After introducing the standard of the reasonable person in its first paragraph, the statute reiterates its use of the reasonable person standard in its second paragraph. This underscores the Legislature's intention to utilize the reasonable person standard in the interpretation and in the application of this statute. The statute states in its second paragraph that a reasonable person (the actor) should be able to know what gestures, physical acts, or words will have the effect of harming a student. The statute's use of the word "know" raises another issue—the meaning of the word. As will be seen below, the discussion of the word "know" and the phrase "should know," inevitably leads to a discussion of the concept of "intent."

The concept of intent is the core of petitioner's Petition of Appeal, Count One. The petitioner's argument is that intent is a necessary element of HIB. The respondent BOE's argument is that intent is not an element of HIB and that HIB can be committed unintentionally.

The Concepts of Knowledge and Intent

Now that it has been established that the statute employs the standard of the reasonable person, we will move on to an analysis of what the phrase "should know" means, as set forth in the second paragraph of N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. The second paragraph refers to what a reasonable person "should know" about the likely consequences of his conduct. The text of the statute says that a reasonable person:

> should know [that his conduct], under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student . . . or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person . . . .

The first paragraph of the definition of HIB refers to gestures, physical acts, and words that are reasonably perceived as being motivated by the receiver's distinguishing characteristics. In the second paragraph of the definition of HIB it refers to what "a reasonable person [in the position of the actor] should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically harming a student . . . or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm." The word "know" means "to have knowledge" or "to be aware." See Merriam-Webster Dictionary. As used in the statute, the term "should know" denotes conscious awareness of one's actions because it is linked to the phrase "will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student." This means that the actor has the capacity to know what will result from his or her actions and therefore it excludes accidental or unconscious insults or other unintended consequences.

This brings us to the issue of whether "intent" is included in the statute. Intent is the state of a person's mind that directs his actions toward a specific object. See The Random House College Dictionary, Revised Edition. The word "intent" expresses mental action and shows the presence of a person's will in the act. See Black's Law Dictionary, West Publishing Company, Revised Fourth Edition. The statute must be read in its entirety. The first two paragraphs of the statute must be read together. A plain reading of the statute shows that the Legislature incorporated the element of intent by using the phrase "should know" and by connecting the phrase "should know" to the phrase "will have the effect." When the statute requires that the actor must or should "know" that his gestures, physical acts, or words "will have the effect of . . . harming a student," then the statute is referring to and focusing on the actor's intent. In other words, a plain reading of the statute shows that it contains the requirement that the actor's intent must be demonstrated in order to establish an occurrence of HIB.

From the foregoing analysis, I CONCLUDE that the Legislature, by using the words "reasonable person" in the statute, incorporated the objective, reasonable person standard for distinguishing harmful conduct from innocent conduct.

I CONCLUDE that the actor's intent is an element in the statute.

I CONCLUDE that in order to establish an occurrence of HIB, it is necessary that the actor's intent to harm or to threaten or to disrupt must be demonstrated.

I CONCLUDE that an occurrence of HIB cannot occur in the absence of intent.

I CONCLUDE that an actor cannot "unintentionally" commit an act of HIB.

I CONCLUDE that by linking the phrase "should know" to the phrase "will have the effect" the Legislature meant that before an act of HIB can be established it must be demonstrated that the actor had a reasonable degree of awareness that his or her gestures, physical acts, or words were likely to cause harm to a student or instill a reasonable fear of harm in a student.

I CONCLUDE that because the Superintendent's letter dated March 14, 2018, states that Wehbeh "unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior" and because Wehbeh "had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the victim," it means that the intent required for a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A-37-14 was lacking. (Petr.'s Ex. A and Resp.'s Ex. G.)

Accordingly, for the aforesaid reasons, the respondent's motion for summary decision is denied and the BOE's determination that Wehbeh violated the HIB statute must be, and hereby is, REVERSED.

Accordingly, for the aforesaid reasons, the petitioner's motion for summary decision on Count One of her Petition of Appeal must be, hereby is, GRANTED.

One Additional Observation

Although it was not directly argued in either side's papers, the Tribunal finds it necessary to address another aspect of this case.

In the Superintendent's letter dated March 14, 2018, Wehbeh was told that "the district found evidence of the investigated act of harassment, intimidation and bullying." (Petr.'s Ex. A and Resp.'s Ex. G.) Using underlining, Superintendent stated that "Wehbeh's conduct met the following elements of the definition of HIB set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. Specifically, the Superintendent stated:

> According to the definition of HIB, the incident met the following: Harassment, Intimidation or bullying means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communications, whether it be single or a series of incidents that:
> (i) is reasonably perceived as being motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic [such as] mental, physical or sensory disability . . .
> (ii) [that] "takes place on school property . . .

(iii) [that] "substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other student(s).

It is noteworthy that the evidence referred to by the Superintendent supported elements contained in the statute's first paragraph but does not mention whether the evidence supports any of the elements contained in the statute's second paragraph. Utilizing this writer's recitation of the statute employing bold print, brackets, and italics, in the section of this Initial Decision titled "Analysis of the statutory definition of HIB found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14," found on pages 18 to 19, we see that that first paragraph of the statute contains elements [1A], [1B], [2], [3A], and [3B]. The second paragraph of the statute contains elements [4], [5], [6], [6A], and [6B]. The underlined portions of the Superintendent's March 14, 2018, letter, cited above, cover only elements [1A], [1B], [2], [3A], and [3B]. They do not cover elements [4], [5], [6], [6A], and [6B].

Referring again to the Superintendent's March 14, 2018, letter, it subsequently informs Wehbeh that she "unintentionally engaged in bullying behavior and had no awareness of the potential negative impact on the victim."

The letter made no other findings. In the same paragraph, immediately following these words, the Superintendent wrote dicta (i.e., "[t]hat the effects of HIB can substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of a student"), which is clearly not a set of findings.

It is noteworthy that the Superintendent's March 14, 2018, letter does not state that Wehbeh had substantially interrupted or interfered with J.G.'s rights. It did not state that Wehbeh interfered with J.G.'s education. It did not state that Wehbeh had created a hostile educational environment. It did not state that Wehbeh had caused physical or emotional harm to J.G. Indeed, the letter's findings were not as broad as the opinions expressed by the investigator in the HIB Summary. (Petr.'s Ex. B and Resp.'s Ex. C). Had the Superintendent intended to adopt all the investigator's opinions, he would have said so.

The Superintendent did not cite the text of the second paragraph of the statute (elements [4], [5], [6], [6A], and [6B]) and did not underline them as he did with elements [1A], [1B], [2], [3A], and [3B]. If he had done so, then he would have been stating his conclusion that the evidence demonstrated that Wehbeh was aware of (i.e., had knowledge of) the effect of her words. If Wehbeh had been aware of the potential effects of her words, then the Superintendent would not and could not have characterized Wehbeh's conduct as "unintentional." The fact that the Superintendent did not cite and underline elements from the second paragraph of the statute indicates that he did not consider the elements of the second paragraph to have been satisfied by the evidence.

From the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the contents of the March 14, 2018, Superintendent letter are inadequate to support a finding of HIB. Since it appears that the BOE's decision was based only upon the findings set forth in the letter, then the BOE's decision was not based on the entire definition of HIB set forth in the statute and therefore it must be, and hereby is, REVERSED.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that respondent's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED; and I further ORDER that petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED and that the BOE's determination that Wehbeh violated the HIB statute is hereby REVERSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioners – tenured teachers in the respondent Board's employ – challenged the Board's decision to reduce their salaries based on Policy 3151 "Assessment of Pay," which among other things, requires the punctual commencement of assigned teaching duties, and imposes a list of penalties to be imposed upon staff who routinely fail to timely report for work each day. Petitioners contended that the collective bargaining agreement (CBA) between the Board and the Roselle Education Association (REA) does not authorize the Board to impose minor disciplinary action in the form of fines or reduction of compensation, and further argued that they and the REA never accepted, negotiated, or agree to adhere to Policy 3151, and the Board's actions were in violation of petitioners' tenure rights. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after the filing of tenure charges and subsequent hearing; all petitioners herein are tenured teachers and had a reduction in salary based on Policy 3151 without charges or a hearing as provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; Policy 3151 was not negotiated between the REA and the Board, the previous CBA did not address excessive tardiness, and there was no CBA in effect when the reductions in petitioners' salaries were enforced; there is no evidence that Policy 3151 was applied prior to the petitioners' salaries being reduced; and petitioners did not waive their rights to challenge Policy 3151. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the Board's action in reducing petitioners' salaries based on Policy 3151 must be reversed.

Upon comprehensive review of the record, the Initial Decision of the OAL, and the exceptions thereto, the Commissioner determined that this matter must be remanded to the OAL to allow the parties to submit reply briefs regarding the cross motions for summary decision. In so deciding, the Commissioner noted that the parties and the ALJ had agreed to a briefing schedule that included due dates for reply briefs; however, the ALJ issued the Initial Decision based solely on the motion papers, prior to the due date for the filing of reply briefs. While the Commissioner acknowledged that the ALJ has discretion to permit the filing of reply briefs, in the instant matter, the parties had agreed to a briefing schedule that included the filing of reply briefs during a telephone conference with the ALJ – which was subsequently memorialized in writing by the ALJ's staff. The parties consequently expected to have the opportunity to respond to each other's arguments. Accordingly, the matter was remanded for further proceedings consistent with the within decision.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto by petitioners have been reviewed.

This matter concerns a challenge by petitioners, who are tenured teachers, to the Board's decision to reduce their salaries pursuant to the Board's policy regarding tardiness. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's action in reducing petitioners' salaries must be reversed, and accordingly granted petitioners' motion for summary decision and denied the Board's motion for summary decision.

In its exceptions, the Board argues, among other things, that the parties and the ALJ agreed to a briefing schedule that included due dates for cross motions for summary decision and reply briefs. However, the ALJ issued the Initial Decision based solely on the motion papers, prior to the due date for the filing of reply briefs. In reply, the petitioners argue that reply briefs are within the discretion of the ALJ and that it was appropriate to issue the Initial Decision based on the motion submissions.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines that the matter should be remanded to the OAL to allow the parties to submit reply briefs regarding the cross motions for summary decision. While the Commissioner acknowledges that the ALJ has discretion to permit the filing of reply briefs, here the parties agreed to a briefing schedule that including the filing of reply briefs during a telephone conference with the ALJ, which was subsequently memorialized in writing by the ALJ's staff. The parties consequently expected to have the opportunity to respond to each other's arguments.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE: KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

Petitioners challenge the Board's decision to reduce their salary due to respondent's policy regarding tardiness. Petitioners assert that the reduction in pay is a violation of their tenure rights. These matters were filed at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 8, 2019. A telephone prehearing was conducted on July 22, 2019, before the undersigned, regarding OAL Docket number EDU 09004-19. During the pendency of the prehearing the parties advised that there were similar cases that were transmitted that should be consolidated with EDU 09004-19. A telephone status conference was conducted August 27, 2019. An order consolidating the matters was issued on August 28, 2019. Telephone status conferences were conducted September 11 and 17, 2019. On October 31, 2019 both parties filed a motion for summary decision. Both parties state that there were no material questions of fact.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following are uncontested facts:

Luis Vasquez (Vasquez) is a tenured member of the teaching staff that has been employed by the Borough of Roselle Board of Education (Board) for twelve years. Audley Bridges (Bridges) is a tenured member of the teaching staff that has been employed by the Board for twenty years. Rebecca Richardson (Richardson) is a tenured member of the teaching staff that has been employed by Board for sixteen years. Danaayaal Salaam (Salaam) is a tenured member of the teaching staff that has been employed by the Board for five years. Mary Repousis (Repousis) is a tenured member of the teaching staff that has been employed by the Board for sixteen years.

On or About January 6, 2014, the Board adopted District Policy 3151 "Assessment of Pay" (Policy 3151) which acknowledges the proper performance of a teaching staff member's professional duties, requires the punctual commencement of his/her assigned duties to properly discharge his/her professional duties, imposes a list of penalties to be imposed against a staff member who routinely fail to timely report for work each day.

The Roselle Education Association (REA) is a duly organized employee representative and the negotiation representative for all teachers. The Board and REA were parties to collective negotiation agreement from July 1, 2014 through June 30, 2017. The successor agreement which would extend from July 1, 2017 to June 30, 2021 has not been finalized.

In accordance with Policy 3151 on March 15, 2019 and March 30, 2019, Vasquez salary was reduced by $266.30 and $56.06 respectively because he was tardy fourteen times during the 2018-2019 school year. In accordance with Policy 3151, On March 29, 2019 and April 15, 2019, Bridges salary was reduced $1,243.09 for each pay period because she was tardy eighty-five times during the 2018-2019 school year. In accordance with Policy 3151, on March 29, 2019, Richardson's salary was reduced by $521.65 because she was tardy nineteen times during the 2018-2019 school year. In accordance with Policy 3151, on March 29, 2019 and April 15, 2019 Salaam's salary was reduced by $329.34 and $232.50 respectively, because he was tardy twenty-four times during the 2018-2019 school year. In accordance with Policy 3151 on March 15, 2019, Repousis' salary was reduced by $151.18 because she was tardy twenty-four times.

Petitioners contend that the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the Board and REA does not authorize the Board to impose minor disciplinary action in the form of fines or reduction of compensation. Petitioners contend that they and REA did not accept, negotiate for or agree to adhere to Policy 3151. Petitioners also content that they were not afforded a hearing or an opportunity to challenge or dispute the fines imposed upon them. They were not brought up on tenure charges or subject to criminal indictment.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. When there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the moving party demonstrates that it is entitled to judgement as a matter of law, its motion for summary judgment should be granted. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954) Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of American, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a motion for summary judgment. Therein the Court stated:

The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party... are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

To avoid entry of summary judgment, the non-moving party must come forward with legally competent facts essential to proving an element of its cause of action. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. at 536-537. If non-movant fails to do so, the moving party is entitled to summary judgment. Moreover, even if the non-movant comes forward with some evidence, the Courts must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one-sided that [movant] must prevail as a matter of law." Brill If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998). The New Jersey Supreme Court's standard for summary judgment is thus designed to "liberalize the standards so as to permit summary judgment in a larger number of cases" due to the perception that we live in "a time of great increase in litigation and one in which many meritless cases are filed. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 536, 539 (1995). Even where a statute calls for a "hearing," where a motion for summary decision is made and supported by documentary evidence and where the objector submits no evidence to demonstrate a genuine issue of material fact, the motion procedure constitutes the hearing and no trial-type hearing is necessary. Contini v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 286 N.J. Super. 106, 120-21 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996); see also South Brunswick Asphalt v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., No. A-693-98T5 (App. Div. April 10, 2000), certif. denied, 165 N.J. 487 (2000).

An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences therefrom favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issues to the trier of fact.

Based upon documentation presented by petitioners, as well as the respondent's, I CONCLUDE that there are no genuine issues of material fact in this matter.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides:

No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,

(a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public-school system of the state, or

(b) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency as a supervisor, teacher or in any other teaching capacity in the Marie H. Katzenbach school for the deaf, or in any other educational institution conducted under the supervision of the commissioner; except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided

Nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the number of any such persons holding such offices, positions or employments under the conditions and with the effect provided by law.

I CONCLUDE that all petitioners are tenured teachers and had a reduction in salary based on Policy 3151 without a hearing being held.

N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24 provides:

a. Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, and if negotiated with the majority representative of the employees in the appropriate collective bargaining unit, an employer shall have the authority to impose minor discipline on employees. Nothing contained herein shall limit the authority of the employer to impose, in the absence of a negotiated agreement > regarding minor discipline, any disciplinary sanction which is authorized and not prohibited by law.

> b. The scope of such negotiations shall include a schedule setting forth the acts and omissions for which minor discipline may be imposed, and also the penalty to be imposed for any act or omission warranting imposition of minor discipline.
> c. Fines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S. 18A:6-10.

Policy 3151 was not negotiated between the majority representative of the employees, REA in the appropriate collective bargaining unit with the Board. The facts in this matter can be distinguished from Guadalupe Ferreiro v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, EDU3865-19 Initial Decision (June 11, 2019) adopted Comm'r (July 22, 2019) < http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. In Ferreiro, the petitioner alleged that the respondent Board violated her rights by docking her salary for excessive tardiness. Further, in Ferreiro there was a collective bargaining agreement (CBA) that addressed excessive tardiness. There was no such provision in the agreement between the Board and the REA.

I CONCLUDE that the previous CBA did not address excessive tardiness and there was no collective bargaining agreement in effect when the reductions in the petitioners' salaries were enforced.

Respondent argues that petitioners' rights to object to Policy 3151 were waived. The CBA between REA and the Board did not address excessive tardiness. Policy 3151 became effective on or about January 6, 2014. This was prior to the CBA between REA and the Board which ran from July 1, 2014 thru June 30, 2017. There is presently no successor CBA agreement. Respondents rely on the cases of In the Matter of Upper Saddle River Board of Education 2004 NJ PERC LEXIS 252 and In the Matter of the Township of Middletown PERC NO 98-77. In Upper Saddle River, the association wanted mid-contract negotiations over the Board unilaterally implementing a sick leave policy. The unilateral sick leave policy had been applied seven times before the association demanded the renegotiation of the CBA.

In Middletown, the township unilaterally changed the practice of placing new police officers with academy training and one-year police experience at step three of the salary guide. In that case, it was alleged that the township violated the duty to negotiate in good faith. It lists three types of cases involving allegations of employment conditions being changed, which are as follows:

> 1. Cases where the majority representative claims an express or implied contractual right to prevent a change
> 2. Cases where an existing working condition is changed and neither party claims an express or implied right to prevent to impose the change
> 3. cases where the employer alleges that the representative has waived any rights to negotiate, usually expressly or impliedly giving the employer the right to impose change.

In Middletown the township alleged that the Middletown PBA waived its right to negotiate by its acquiescence. However, when the township previously deviated from the practice of placing new officers with academy training and one year of experience at step three, the PBA filed an unfair practice charge which was settled.

In this matter, there is no evidence that Policy 3151 was applied prior to the petitioners' salaries being reduced. There presently is no CBA between the REA and the Board. This matter analogous to the Middletown case since once Policy 3151 was enforced against petitioners, they contested its application.

In both Middletown and Upper Saddle River, the organized employee representative brought the charges. In this matter, the petitioners are teaching staff members in Roselle.

I CONCLUDE that petitioners did not waive their rights to challenge Policy 3151. Accordingly, respondent's action in reducing petitioners' salaries due to respondent's policy regarding tardiness must be REVERSED.

Based on the foregoing, it is ODERED that petitioners' motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED and respondents' Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

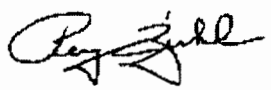
ARBITRATOR APPROVAL

The School District of the City of East Orange (Petitioner) filed Sworn Tenure Charges against tenured teacher Al Jefferson (Respondent) in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10, and served them on Respondent with notice of opportunity to submit evidence and argument in opposition. Thereafter, the Commissioner of Education, following review of the Charges and Respondent's answer, found the Charges were sufficient for referral to an arbitrator. On December 4, 2019 the Office of Controversies and Disputes appointed me as the arbitrator to hear and decide this tenure dispute. At a status conference with the parties, we agreed on hearing dates of January 8–9, with deadlines of December 6 for the Respondent's motion for partial dismissal and December 31 for the Petitioner's reply brief. On January 2, I issued an interim decision denying the Respondent's motion for partial dismissal. Upon the parties' joint motion for postponement based on settlement discussions, I agreed to new hearing dates of January 16–17. On January 15, the parties notified me of their settlement of the case. On January 23, the Commissioner's office approved my request for an extension until February 15, 2020. On February 3, the parties submitted to me the fully executed settlement agreement along with a joint statement explaining its compliance with the Cardonick standards.

After a careful review of the Agreement, I hereby conclude that it satisfies the statutory requirements for withdrawal and settlement of tenure charges, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 based on the following findings:

1. The Petitioner specified the charges and provided them to the Respondent with the requisite accompanying documentation. The recitals section of the Agreement confirmed his receipt of the charges.

2. The Agreement and the accompanying joint statement sufficiently explain the circumstances justifying the settlement.



3. ¶¶ 23 and 30 and the signature page of the Agreement attest to the consent of both parties.

4. ¶¶ 23, 26, and 30 of the Agreement along with the Respondent's signature at the end assure and confirm that he fully understood his rights upon entering into the Agreement.

5. The Agreement is in the public interest by saving the notable transaction costs of the detailed statutory proceedings, while removing the Petitioner from any further conduct that is contrary to the District's effective working and educational environment. Moreover, the ¶ 12 of the Agreement show adherence to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6 et seq. (Pass the Trash law).

In light of the Respondent's voluntary resignation, the absence of a tenure determination resulting in loss of position renders the Cardonick standard #6 inapplicable. In compliance with the remaining requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, ¶ 17 confirms adherence to N.J.S.A 47:1A-1 (Open Records law), the signature page shows the Petitioner's consent, and the Commissioner retains discretion for referral to the State Board of Examiners.

Thus, I approve the attached Agreement in full resolution of Agency Docket No. 296-11/19.

SEPARATION, SETTLEMENT, AND GENERAL RELEASE AGREEMENT

This Separation, Settlement, and General Release Agreement ("Agreement") is made and entered into by and between Al Jefferson ("Jefferson"), the East Orange Board of Education (the "Board") (collectively, the "Parties").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on or about _____, an incident involving Jefferson resulted in the Board investigating his conduct; and

WHEREAS, as a result of the investigation in combination with other incidences amounting to a pattern of conduct, on _____, the Board filed tenure charges against Jefferson, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 (the "Charges") and Jefferson was suspended pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:14; and

WHEREAS, at prior to the arbitration the parties agreed it was mutually beneficial to amicably resolve the Charges in dispute in order to avoid further protracted adjudication and expense.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained herein and for other good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties agree as follows:

1. The Board shall accept Jefferson's irrevocable general resignation of employment effective immediately and attached hereto.

2. The Board shall withdraw the Charges.

3. The Board agrees to provide only what Jefferson is entitled to according to the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) with regard to sick days and any retro-active increases based upon raises resulting from the ratification of a labor agreement that he may be entitled to upon receipt of his resignation. The CBA and entitlements set forth therein will govern these entitlements.

4. Jefferson shall waive all any and all additional claims to back-pay, front-pay, health benefit coverage, sick leave, and accrued time off terminal payouts.

5. Jefferson waives all other claims against the Board regarding or arising from this matter, including counsel fees or other monetary relief, except as provided herein.

6. The Parties expressly agree that this Agreement shall have no mitigating precedential effect on any other pending or future disciplinary actions. Jefferson, with full understanding of his legal rights, voluntarily and unconditionally releases and forever discharges the Board, as well as the Board's past and present employees, officers, insurers, reinsurers, directors, agents, attorneys, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Releasees") from all contracts, agreements, promises, liabilities, claims, causes of action, charges, complaints, grievances, obligations, costs, losses, damages, injuries, attorneys' fees and other legal responsibilities (collectively, the "Claims") of any form whatsoever arising from the beginning of time through the date Jefferson signs this Agreement, whether known, unknown, unforeseen, unanticipated, unsuspected or latent, which Jefferson ever had or now has against any of the Releasees.

7. Jefferson's release of Claims against the Releasees includes but is not limited to: any and all Claims arising out of and/or related to Jefferson's employment with the Board; any and all Claims under any federal, state and/or local statutory, constitutional, common law or tort cause of action for battery, assault, pain and suffering, lost wages, bonus, sick leave, vacation leave and other paid-time-off, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, defamation, breach of collective bargaining agreement, breach of contract or implied contract, breach of public policy, wrongful discharge and/or for benefits owed (except for vested benefits); any and all Claims under the National Labor Relations Act, the Labor Management Relations Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1866 and/or 1991, the federal False Claims Act, the Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Acts, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, the Internal Revenue Code, the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Immigration Reform and Control Act, the federal Whistleblower Protection Statutes, the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Constitution, the Millville Dallas Airmotive Plant Job Loss Notification Act, and the New Jersey Wage and Hour Laws and any and all amendments to each of the foregoing laws; and any and all Claims under any other federal, state and/or city laws, codes, rules or regulations. This Agreement applies to all Claims through the date of Jefferson's execution of this Agreement and not to Claims arising thereafter. The release of Claims in this Paragraph does not apply to Claims that cannot, as a matter of law, be waived by private agreement.

8. Jefferson represents he has not filed any Claims against the Board. To the extent any such Claims have been filed, Jefferson agrees to promptly withdraw and/or direct the pertinent court or agency to dismiss their respective matters with prejudice. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to interfere with (a) the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's ("EEOC") or any comparable state or local agency's ability to enforce any anti-discrimination law within their jurisdiction, or (b) Jefferson's ability to participate in an investigation, file a charge, or otherwise communicate with the EEOC or comparable state or local agency responsible for enforcing anti-discrimination laws. Jefferson has not filed and shall not hereafter file any claim, charge or complaint of any nature with the New Jersey Public Employment Commission (PERC) or with any Federal, State or local court or agency against the Board or the Releasees.

9. If Jefferson violates the General Release detailed herein by filing any claim, charge or complaints as prohibited above, Jefferson agrees to pay all costs and expenses of defending against the suit incurred by the Board and/or the Releasees, including reasonable attorney's fees and costs.

10. NON-PRECEDENTIAL. The Parties agree that this Agreement shall be non-precedential, is limited to specific and unique facts and circumstances, and is not intended to create a past practice nor shall it be binding with respect to any other Board employee.

11. MUTUAL NON-DISPARAGEMENT. Jefferson agrees that, in any communications with the press, other media or any other individual, he shall not criticize, ridicule or make any statement which disparages or is derogatory of the Board or its employees, elected officials, directors or senior officials. Likewise, the Board and its senior officials shall not criticize, ridicule or make any statement which disparages or is derogatory of Jefferson. Nothing herein shall infringe upon the Parties' respective rights to express constitutionally protected-speech.

12. INQUIRES FROM PROSPECTIVE EMPLOYERS. In the event of any inquiries into this matter, the Parties shall respond that Jefferson resigned from his employment, except as otherwise required by law, including but not limited to the New Jersey Pass the Trash Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.7. Should a prospective employer that is subject to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.7 contact the Board, the Board shall accurately and truthfully fill out any required forms and provide any requested information in lieu of further explanation. As such, the Board agrees not to make any representation that the circumstances involving the allegations against Al Jefferson rise to the level of "sexual misconduct" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6.

13. ASSIGNMENT. The Parties shall not assign or transfer any of its rights under this Agreement.

14. SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the heirs, assigns, and successors in interests of the Parties hereto.

15. NO ADMISSIONS. The Parties expressly agree that by settling the matter referenced herein neither party admits or accepts any guilt or liability for any claims made or that could have been made by Jefferson or the Board arising from their employment relationship. No statement made or agreed to by either Party in this Agreement shall be deemed an admission by said Party.

16. NO WAIVER. No failure or delay on the part of any Party in exercising any right, power, or remedy under this Agreement will operate as a waiver thereof, nor will any single or partial exercise of any such right, power, or remedy preclude any other or further exercise thereof of the exercise of any other right, power or remedy hereunder. The rights and remedies provided in this Agreement are cumulative and are not exclusive of any other rights, powers, or remedies existing in law, in equity or otherwise.

17. CONFIDENTIALITY. The Parties acknowledge that this Agreement is considered a government record subject to the New Jersey Open Public Records Act ("OPRA"), N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq., and that nothing herein shall exempt this Agreement from being made publicly accessible pursuant to an appropriately filed OPRA request subject to any lawfully permitted redactions.

18. SEVERABILITY. Should any provisions of this Agreement be declared or determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity, and enforceability of the remaining parts, terms, or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal, unenforceable or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not part of this Agreement.

19. GOVERNING LAW. This Agreement has been negotiated and entered into in the State of New Jersey, and shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey, without regard to any principles of choice of law that may otherwise be applicable.

20. VENUE. Any controversies or disagreements arising out of, or relating to this Agreement or breach thereof, shall be resolved in the Essex County Vicinage of the Superior Court of New Jersey.

21. COMPLETE AGREEMENT. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between the Parties with respect to the subject matter referenced herein and supersedes all other prior agreements, understandings, and/or dealings whether written or otherwise with respect to the same subject matter. There is no agreement on the part of the Board to anything other than what is expressly stated in this Agreement. Jefferson represents and acknowledges that in executing this Agreement, he has not relied upon any representation or statement made by the Board regarding the subject matter, basis, or effect of this Agreement other than as specifically stated in this Agreement. The terms in this Agreement can only be modified in a written document signed by Jefferson and the Board's authorized representative.

22. NEUTRAL CONSTRUCTION. In the event of any dispute concerning the construction or interpretation of this Agreement, this Agreement shall be construed neutrally and without regard to events of authorship or negotiations, each Party having been represented by independent legal counsel.

23. ATTESTATION. The Parties represent and warrant that they have carefully read each and every provision of this Agreement and that they fully understand all of the terms and conditions contained in each provisions of this Agreement. The Parties further represent and warrant that they have entered into this Agreement voluntarily, of their own free will, without any pressure or coercion from any person or entity including, but not limited to, a Party to this Agreement.

24. PRECATORY PHRASES. The precatory phrases ("whereas clauses") are not mere recitals, but are specifically agreed to by the parties and are incorporated herein by reference.

25. HEADINGS. The headings contained in the Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not in any way affect the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

26. CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY AND/OR UNION REPRESENTATION. Jefferson has consulted with his attorney and/or Union representatives with respect to this Agreement and has reviewed with his attorney and/or Union representatives all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement.

27. AUTHORIZATION. By executing this Agreement, each signatory represents that she or he is a party or has been duly authorized by a party to sign on that party's behalf.

28. REVOCATION PERIOD. Jefferson may revoke this Agreement within seven (7) days after the date this Agreement is signed by Jefferson. This revocation must take the form of written notice by Jefferson that he intends to revoke this Agreement. This revocation must be provided directly to the Board. This seven (7) day revocation period may not be waived by Jefferson.

29. REASONABLE CONSIDERATION PERIOD. Jefferson agrees that he has been given a reasonable period of time of at least twenty-one (21) days within which to review and consider this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement, but that he may knowingly and voluntarily waive this twenty-one (21) day period by signing and dating in the space provided at the end of this Agreement.

30. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT. Al Jefferson affirmatively agrees to and acknowledges the following:

a. I have read this Agreement completely.

b. I have had the opportunity to consider the terms of this Agreement.

c. I agree and acknowledge that I was represented by and consulted with counsel throughout both the negotiation and execution of this Agreement. I further acknowledge and agree that I was given a reasonable and sufficient amount of time within which to consider the Agreement before signing it. Jefferson further acknowledges and agrees that he has been fully and fairly represented by counsel in the negotiation of this Agreement.

d. I understand and agree to all of the terms of this Agreement.

e. I have not relied upon any representation, written or oral, not set forth in this Agreement.

f. I have signed this Agreement voluntarily and entirely of my own free will.

g. I represent and agree that I am not under the influence of any illness, including mental or emotional illness, medical condition, disability or impairment, or of prescription or other medication that would affect my ability to review this Agreement in its entirety, understand it and knowingly and voluntarily agree to it.

31. COUNTERPARTS. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which will be deemed an original, but all of which will constitute one and the same agreement. A signature affixed by a party to a counterpart of this Agreement and delivered by electronic transmission is valid, binding and enforceable against such party.

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Al Jefferson, School District of the City of East Orange, Essex County
Agency Dkt. No.: 296-11/19

Dear Arb. Zirkel:

As you had requested via e-mail dated January 22, 2020, please accept this letter as a joint statement of consent and explanation as to the legal validity of the settlement agreement[1] entered into by the parties in the above-captioned matter. More specifically, for the reasons that follow, the agreement satisfies the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 (a)(1)-(a)(5) and (b):

(a)(1) – the nature of the charges is described in the "RECITALS" section of the agreement, specifically, "incidences" that formed a "pattern of conduct," which resulted in an investigation and Respondent's suspension;

(a)(2) – the circumstances justifying settlement are also stated in the "RECITALS" section of the agreement: "prior to the arbitration, the parties agreed it was mutually beneficial to amicably resolve the Charges in dispute in order to avoid further protracted adjudication and expense;"

(a)(3) – consent of the parties is expressly provided in ¶ 23 of the agreement;

(a)(4) – ¶ 23 of the agreement also provides that Respondent entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights;

(a)(5) – public interest is accounted for in the "RECITALS" section of the agreement, which provides that the settlement will help avoid "protracted adjudication and expense," a significant portion of which would be borne by the public; also ¶ 12 ensures strict adherence to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6. As set forth in the agreement, with regard to disclosures, the District only agrees not to make an affirmative representation that the circumstances involving the allegations against Al Jefferson rise to the level of "sexual misconduct" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.6; and

(b) - ¶ 17 of the agreement expressly states that it is a government record subject to the New Jersey Open Public Records Act ("OPRA"), N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq., and it was personally signed and dated by the Board president.

For the foregoing reasons, the parties jointly stipulate that the settlement agreement is legally-valid and complies with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. It further satisfies the requirements of the "Pass the Trash" law, as provided in ¶ 12 of the agreement.

Re: Tatiana Charapova v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County, Agency Dkt. No. 251-9/19

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the petition of appeal, as well as the materials filed in connection with the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition in the above-referenced matter. Upon review of the submissions, I have determined to dismiss this matter as it was filed outside of the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Petitioner contends that respondent Edison Board of Education discriminated against students she taught in the school district's English as a Second Language (ESL) program, and failed to provide them with an equal educational opportunity. Petitioner's allegations appear to stem from actions that occurred in 2005, around the time that her teaching contract had not been renewed due to a reduction in force. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) sets forth a 90-day filing deadline for matters filed before the Commissioner. As the petitioner's allegations relate to conduct that occurred approximately 14 years prior to the filing of this matter, they are significantly out of time. As such, the petition should be dismissed.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that in a prior matter involving the parties, the petitioner challenged her non-renewal, claiming that the Board discriminated against her. The New Jersey Superior Court – Appellate Division affirmed the dismissal of the petition as out of time, and the New Jersey Supreme Court denied petitioner's petition for certification. Tatiana Charapova v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County, 2008 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1685 (App. Div. July 21, 2008), certif. denied, 196 N.J. 598 (2008). The Commissioner finds that, to the extent the instant petition challenges petitioner's non-renewal, this matter is also barred by the doctrine of res judicata.

Accordingly, the Board's motion to dismiss the petition is GRANTED, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

Re: S.B., on behalf of minor child, S.F. v. Board of Education of the Morris School District, Morris County, Agency Dkt. No. 60-3/19, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 05507-19, Commissioner's Decision No. 321-19

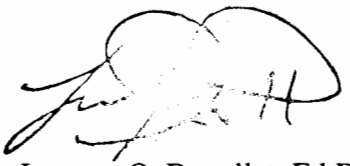
Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the Morris School District Board of Education's (Board) Motion for Reconsideration of my decision, dated December 3, 2019, remanding the within matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for calculation of tuition owed to the Board and supplementation of the record as warranted.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2, a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.



Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that the Board has failed to satisfy any of the requisites for granting such relief specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2. In its papers, the Board argues that the decision mistakenly rejected the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings by relying on a typographical error in the conclusions of law rather than relying on the findings of fact regarding the dates of ineligible attendance in the 2018-19 school year. In addition to rejecting the ALJ's finding of the per diem tuition rate for the 2019-20 school year, the Board also argues that the decision wrongfully required a particular end date for the calculation of tuition for the 2019-20 school year, as the minor child continues to attend school in the District.

The December 3, 2019 decision did not reject the ALJ's findings of fact, but rather it noted inconsistencies in the Initial Decision that need to be clarified by the ALJ in order to calculate the exact tuition amount due. Additionally, the decision did not require a particular "end date" for the 2019-20 school year. The decision requested a calculation for some "defined portion" of the 2019-20 school year as the Initial Decision included no calculation; nothing prevents the ALJ from finding that tuition can be assessed beyond that date based on a per diem tuition rate, should the record include an academic calendar or some way to determine the number of days of ineligible attendance. Although couched as a mistake, the Board is instead expressing its disagreement with the December 3, 2019 decision, which does not equate to a mistake warranting reconsideration of the matter.

Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.

Sincerely,

Lamont O. Repollet, Ed.D.

Re: O.W., on behalf of minor child, I.W. v. Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County and Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 144-6/19

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the petition of appeal, as well as the materials filed in connection with the motions to dismiss the petition filed by the Newark Board of Education and the West Orange Board of Education in the above-referenced matter. Upon review of the submissions, I have determined to dismiss this matter as it was filed outside of the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Additionally, this matter is barred by the doctrine of res judicata.

Petitioner contends that both Boards of Education took inappropriate actions with respect to her daughter, I.W., while she was a student in the respondents' school districts, and alleges violation of ten New Jersey statutes. While it is impossible to determine the precise nature of the actions alleged due to the incomprehensible nature of the petition, it appears that all of the allegations stem from actions said to have occurred between 2008 and 2012. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) sets forth a 90-day filing deadline for matters filed before the Commissioner. As the events referenced occurred years prior to the filing of this matter, they are significantly out of time. As such, the petition should be dismissed.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that a final agency decision in a prior case involving the parties and addressing the same incidents was issued in June 2017. O.W., on behalf of I.W. v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County and Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County, Commissioner's Decision No. 170-17, decided June 20, 2017. Thereafter, petitioner filed a motion for reconsideration, which was denied on October 23, 2017. The Commissioner finds that, as the issues in this matter were previously raised and decided in a prior Commissioner decision, this matter is barred by the doctrine of res judicata.

Accordingly, the motions to dismiss the petition are GRANTED, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Final Decision

Greta-Marie Scott,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro-se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that she had not met the requirements for issuance of a P-3 Standard Certificate, the standard certificate for Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three. The Board denied petitioner's application for certification due to her failure to satisfy the P-3 endorsement requirement under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2), which provides that "provisional teachers holding a CE [certificate of eligibility] with a P-3 endorsement shall choose to complete either 350 hours of formal instruction pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9A-5.4(a)1 or 24 semester-hour credits of P-3 pedagogy at a Department-approved New Jersey college or university program." The SBE filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner conceded that she has not completed the educator preparation program required for P-3 certification pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2), but argued that she had availed herself of the SBE's internal appeals process under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12, which allows a candidate for certification to "provide the Board of Examiners with evidence of alternative education and/or experience that he or she believes is equivalent to the area(s) of deficiency"; petitioner provided the SBE with information about her undergraduate and graduate coursework, other teaching certificates that she holds, and her teaching experience; after review of these credentials, the SBE denied petitioner's appeal, stating that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(c)(2), it is precluded from permitting a candidate to substitute education and/or experience for an approved educator preparation program, nor may it simply waive the requirement. The ALJ concluded that petitioner had failed to advance a claim upon which her request for a P-3 endorsement may be granted. Accordingly, the SBE's motion for summary decision was granted, and the petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination of the ALJ herein; accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 17464-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. 178-7/18

GRETA-MARIE SCOTT,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Greta-Marie Scott, petitioner, pro se

Jaclyn M. Frey, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: November 18, 2019 Decided: January 8, 2020

BEFORE: MARY ANN BOGAN, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Greta-Marie Scott (Scott) appeals the denial of her application for a preschool through grade three (P-3) endorsement by respondent New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board). The Board denied Scott's application due to her failure to satisfy the P-3 endorsement requirement under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2), which provides that "provisional teachers holding a CE [certificate of eligibility] with a [P-3] endorsement shall choose to complete either 350 hours of formal instruction pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9A-5.4(a)1 or 24 semester-hour credits of [P-3] pedagogy at a Department-approved New Jersey college or university program." The three required areas of instruction are "child development and learning," "understanding family and community," and "curriculum and assessment." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2)(i)(ii)(iii).

Scott appealed the Board's decision to the Commissioner of Education, as permitted under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.18. In response, the Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of answer to Scott's petition, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and received on December 6, 2018, where it was filed for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14 B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Oral argument was heard on September 17, 2019. The record remained open for the submission of post-hearing briefs and closed on November 18, 2019.

Based upon the credible documentation submitted by the parties, and oral argument, I FIND the following FACTS:

Scott earned an undergraduate degree in special education/elementary education in 2004, Magna Cum Laude, and a master's degree in Special Education and Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA), with 1500 hours of ABA training for early childhood through adulthood, in 2008 both from East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania. Scott holds a Standard NJ Teacher Certificate in Elementary (K-6) regular education, Teacher of Students with Disabilities (Special Education), and Middle School Arts/Literacy (grades 5-8). Scott has been a special education teacher for fifteen years in the Belvidere School District and in 2016-2017, Scott was selected "Teacher of the Year". Scott passed the P-3 Praxis and obtained a Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three Certificate of Eligibility (CE). In February 2014, Scott established and started the Belvidere School District's preschool ABA program. Scott applied for a P-3 Standard Certificate, and on June 29, 2018, the Board denied petitioner's application for a Teacher of Preschool through Grade Three standard certificate. (Exhibit A.)

Scott concedes that she has not completed an educator preparation program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2). However, Scott availed herself of the Board's internal appeals process under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12, which allows a certification candidate to "provide the Board of Examiners with evidence of alternative education and/or experience that he or she believes is equivalent to the area(s) of deficiency." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(b). As part of that appeal, Scott provided the Board with information about her undergraduate and graduate coursework, other teaching certificates she holds, and her teaching experience. Board's Brief, Ex. C.

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(d), the Board reviewed the information provided by Scott, and thereafter issued a written decision denying her appeal. In its decision, the Board stated that Scott "has been denied certification because she has not shown evidence of completion of an approved [P-3] program of study culminating in student teaching or through an approved New Jersey Department of Education alternate route program of [P-3] pedagogy," as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2). Board's Brief, Ex. A. The Board stressed that "[t]he three distinct areas of study required by [N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2)] are considered unique and critical elements of the knowledge and skills necessary for [P-3] instruction." Ibid. The Board carefully considered and recognized both Scott's undergraduate and graduate coursework and the fact that Scott "has extensive experience as an educator and, more recently since February 2014, as a teacher of an autistic support program and preschool disability program both for ages three through seven," but concluded that Scott did not provide a one-to-one correspondence between her deficiency, i.e. evidence of successful completion of a P-3 program of study and her education and experience for issuance of a standard P-3 certificate" and concluded that "[t]he Board . . . is precluded from permitting a candidate to substitute education and/or experience for an approved educator preparation program nor may it simply waive the requirement," pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(c)(2). Ibid.

While the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR) governing motions, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.1 to -12.7, do not specifically limit the types of motions that may be made in administrative hearings or otherwise preclude a "motion to dismiss," the more common method for resolving a case on the papers without a plenary hearing is by a motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits" and "[t]he decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). However, a motion for summary decision shall be denied if, by responding affidavit, an adverse party "set[s] forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

Summary judgment is analyzed in accordance with the principles established by the Supreme Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995):

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial."

See also Nat'l Transfer, Inc. v. N.J. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 347 N.J. Super. 401, 408–09 (App. Div. 2002).

The Board argues that dismissal is appropriate because Scott has failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. In particular, the Board asserts that Scott has no cause of action because she concedes that she has not completed an educator preparation program pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2), and despite her other education and experience, N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(b)(2) prohibits the Board from "[p]ermit[ting] a candidate to substitute education and/or experience for any test, GPA, degree, or approved educator preparation program completion requirements." (Emphasis added).

Although the Board (and I) recognized both Scott's undergraduate and graduate coursework and her extensive experience as an educator, Scott has not completed an educator preparation program required by N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a), and for that reason, this omission – her failure to complete such a program – is a deficiency that cannot be remedied by evidence of alternative education or experience pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.12(c)(2). On that basis, unless and until Scott completes an educator preparation program under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.2(a)(2), the Board cannot issue her a P-3 endorsement. Accordingly, I am constrained to CONCLUDE that Scott has failed to advance a claim upon which her request for a P-3 endorsement may be granted.

Therefore, having considered the parties' submissions, I CONCLUDE that the Board's motion for summary decision should be GRANTED.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter, the proposed Settlement Agreement and General Release (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In doing so, however, the Commissioner notes that Paragraph 1 of the Agreement makes reference to an action that was to take place in a time frame that preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

Additionally, with respect to Paragraph 14 of the Agreement, the Commissioner notes that the Board must comply with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq., with respect to information concerning this matter, notwithstanding any agreement the parties may have between themselves to keep the terms of their settlement confidential.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon a mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement") is entered into by and between C.I. & C.G. o/b/o Y.I., and the Maple Shade Township Board of Education (hereinafter "Board"), with its mailing office located at 170 Frederick Avenue, Maple Shade, NJ 08052 (C.I. & C.G. o/b/o Y.I. and Board hereinafter collectively, "the Parties").

WHEREAS, Y.I. is a student currently enrolled in the Maple Shade Township School District;

WHEREAS, C.I. and C.G. are currently domiciled in Maple Shade, New Jersey,

WHEREAS, a dispute previously arose as to Y.I.'s domicile and his enrollment as a student in the Maple Shade Township School District; and

WHEREAS, the Parties in good faith have negotiated concerning the above, and have a desire to settle this matter in an amicable way, and hereby agree as follows:

1. While C.I. and C.G. continue to be domiciled in Maple Shade, NJ, Y.I. shall remain enrolled as a student in the Maple Shade Township School District.

2. The Board will waive any entitlement to payment of tuition by C.I. and C.G. o/b/o Y.I. for Y.I.'s previous and current attendance in the Maple Shade School District.

3. This Agreement is dispositive of all issues in dispute between the Parties hereto, and is intended to constitute a final resolution of the dispute between the Parties.

4. C.I. and C.G. o/b/o Y.I. acknowledge that they have read and understand the terms of this Agreement, that they have had the opportunity to have the Agreement reviewed by counsel, that they are satisfied with the advice of their respective counsel, and that they are entering into this Agreement knowingly, freely, voluntarily, without coercion and not under the influence of anything or anyone.

IN WITNESS HEREOF, the Parties have set their hands this 16 day of October, 2019.

WHEREAS, Petitioner, New Jersey Department of Education, School Ethics Commission ("SEC") and Respondent, Michael C. Gorski ("Respondent"), have mutually agreed to settle the above-captioned matter, with GURBIR S. GREWAL, Attorney General of New Jersey, by Aimee Blenner, Deputy Attorney General, appearing on behalf of the SEC, and Beth L. Finkelstein, Esq., appearing on behalf of Respondent; and

WHEREAS, this matter arose from the SEC's decision of February 26, 2019 (C44-18), finding probable cause to credit the allegations that Respondents violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), N.J.S.A. 18:12-24(d), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f); and

WHEREAS, the SEC strongly admonishes the conduct as outlined the attached affidavits. Respondent's failure, though inadvertent, to meet ethical standards in this instance led to a undesired outcome, and the SEC maintains concerns regarding the nature of this ethical conduct by school board employees;

WHEREAS the settlement of this matter shall not constitute precedent in other pending or future litigation or be considered an admission of any conduct beyond that specifically described in the attached affidavit of Respondent.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereto agree to settle the above-captioned matter upon the following terms:

1. Respondent acknowledges that the conduct described in the attached affidavits, incorporated herein by reference, constitute a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(b), N.J.S.A. 18:12-24(d), and N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1(f) as alleged in C44-18.

2. The parties agree that the SEC will recommend that the Commissioner impose the penalty of a reprimand.

3. The Commissioner agrees that he will adopt the SEC's recommendation and impose the penalty of a reprimand for the conduct described in the attached affidavit.

4. By accepting the penalty of a reprimand, Respondent agrees to waive any and all hearings to which they are entitled pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.7, and Respondent further agrees that he will not oppose the reprimand.

5. The parties agree that this Consent Order fully resolves all issues between them arising from the SEC's February

Final Decision

Catherine Parsells,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Somerville, Somerset County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner filed an appeal alleging that the respondent Board violated her tenure and seniority rights by depriving her of full-time employment after she voluntarily transferred to a new part-time position with benefits for the 2016-17 school year. Petitioner subsequently took an approved maternity and childcare leave and sought to continue in her part-time position with benefits for the 2017-18 school year. When she was told that she would need to return to a full-time position in order to keep her health care benefits, petitioner opted to extend her maternity leave through the 2017-18 school year. When petitioner sought to return for the 2018-19 school year, she was told that she was entitled to a part-time position with no benefits, but not to a full-time position with benefits, and if such a position opened up, she would need to apply for it. The matter was transmitted to the OAL as a contested case.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, a tenured teacher may be dismissed through a reduction in force (RIF) for economic reasons; when a teacher has been subject to a RIF, she has the right to return to her prior position when a vacancy occurs; a reduction of a full-time teacher's hours to part-time constitutes a RIF; however, fundamental to a finding that a RIF occurred is a determination that the action at issue was initiated by the school board, not by the impacted teacher; it is undisputed that in this case, petitioner voluntarily moved to a part-time position because it suited her family's needs; and petitioner's contention that she should be entitled to return to a full-time position because the Board failed to warn her of the consequences of her decision to move to a part-time position is without merit, as she has cited no statutory provision that could require the notice she claims ought to have been provided. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner is not eligible to return to her full-time position because she was not the subject of a RIF and had voluntarily accepted her part-time position; accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: petitioner did not knowingly and voluntarily waive her right to a full-time teaching position, and her choice to continue her maternity leave for the 2017-18 school year did not constitute a waiver of her tenure rights. Accordingly, the Commissioner reversed the Initial Decision of the OAL, and ordered the Board to reinstate petitioner to her position as a full-time teacher retroactive to the 2018-19 school year, with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments of employment, less mitigation.

Final Decision

Catherine Parsells,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Somerville, Somerset County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the Board's reply thereto have been reviewed.

Petitioner was employed by the Board as a full-time preschool teacher for six years before voluntarily taking a part-time position with health benefits for the 2016-17 school year. In February 2017, just before beginning a maternity leave and child care leave of absence that was planned to extend through June 2017, petitioner expressed her interest in continuing as a part-time teacher for the 2017-18 school year, provided that the position continued to include health benefits. In July 2017, petitioner was informed by the outgoing superintendent that the part-time position no longer offered health benefits, so petitioner had to choose between a part-time position with no benefits or a full-time position with benefits. Petitioner chose to extend her maternity leave for another year. In April 2018, the new superintendent spoke with petitioner regarding her return to school for the 2018-19 school year and informed her that she was entitled to a part-time position with no benefits and that if a full-time position were to become available, she would need to apply for it.

Petitioner completed an application and participated in interviews, but the Board did not select her for either of the two full-time positions that were open and instead hired non-tenured individuals who had not previously worked in the district.[1] Petitioner appealed, arguing that the Board violated her tenure rights by hiring untenured teachers for the full-time positions and that she had not voluntarily relinquished her tenure rights by accepting a temporary placement in a part-time position. The ALJ found that the job change was voluntarily undertaken by petitioner and not mandated by the Board, so petitioner was not the subject of a reduction in force (RIF), and she was therefore not eligible to return to her full-time position.

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ improperly framed the issue as whether she voluntarily reduced her hours rather than whether she voluntarily waived tenure rights to her full-time position. Petitioner cites to cases holding that the waiver of tenure rights must be voluntary and intentional to be effective. According to petitioner, the facts are clear that she never knowingly or voluntarily waived her tenure rights to her full-time position, but instead moved to part-time status on what she believed and intended to be a temporary basis. Petitioner argues that although she was not RIF'd when she initially moved to part-time status, she was effectively RIF'd when the Board denied her the opportunity to return to full-time status after her leave of absence. Petitioner contends that the ALJ incorrectly held that the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of Bridgewater-Raritan School Dist., Somerset Cty., 221 N.J. 349 (2015), requires the petitioner to identify a statutory provision obligating the Board to provide her with notice of the tenure consequences of her decision to move to part-time status. Petitioner points out that the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education argued in that case that notice could not be required because the statute did not expressly require it, but the Court rejected that argument. Petitioner cites to the Court's statement that "keeping teachers in the dark" is inconsistent with the broader purpose of the tenure statute and argues that this principle should apply to prevent the school board and administrators – who have training and experience in tenure and seniority law that she lacks – from depriving her of tenure rights to her full-time position.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner was not subject to a RIF and the Board did not take any action that would have triggered her tenure rights, as her move to a part-time position was voluntary. The Board further contends that the ALJ correctly interpreted the decision in Bridgewater-Raritan, supra, to require petitioner to identify a statutory provision obligating the Board to give teachers notice regarding their tenure status. According to the Board, because petitioner did not identify any such statutory provision, it had no notice obligation to petitioner.

Upon review, the Commissioner reverses the Initial Decision and finds that petitioner did not knowingly and voluntarily waive her right to a full-time position and the compensation associated with it; she is therefore entitled to return to a full-time position. The Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq., "should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends." Spiewak v. Board of Education of Rutherford, 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). That liberal construction has resulted in a long line of cases holding that tenure rights can only be waived knowingly and voluntarily through a clear, unequivocal, and decisive act. See, e.g., O'Toole v. Forestal, 211 N.J. Super. 394, 402 (1986); Rieder v. Bd. of Educ. of Caldwell-West Caldwell, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 70-99, decided March 10, 1999, aff'd State Bd. of Educ, July 7, 1999. The Initial Decision is based on the fact that petitioner's move to a part-time position was voluntary and thus not a RIF. But by framing the issue around whether a RIF occurred, the Initial Decision fails to answer the critical question of whether petitioner knowingly and voluntarily waived her tenure rights to her full-time position.

The New Jersey Supreme Court recently cautioned against "the ability of labels to cloud an analysis." Melnyk v. Bd. of Educ. of the Delsea Reg'l High School Dist., Gloucester Cty., slip op. at 1 (2020). In that matter, labeling a position as "extracurricular" and finding that the position was not tenurable based on that label resulted in "short-circuiting" the analysis and improperly ignoring the statutory criteria for obtaining tenure. Id. at 4. Here, the Initial Decision ended the analysis by labeling petitioner's decision to move from a full-time position to a part-time position as "voluntary," thereby disregarding the circumstances surrounding her decision – which clearly demonstrate that she did not knowingly and voluntarily waive her right to a full-time position. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, compensation for a tenured position cannot be reduced "without compliance with the procedural protections of the Tenure Act." Id. at 27. Those procedural protections must include a determination regarding whether any alleged waiver of petitioner's right to compensation associated with a full-time position was voluntary.

In finding that petitioner did not waive her tenure rights, the Commissioner distinguishes the facts of this case from those of DeFrehn v. Bd. of Educ. of Wildwood Crest Sch. Dist., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 194 (December 30, 1993), in which a teacher who had voluntarily transferred from a teaching position to a learning disabilities teacher-consultant position was not entitled to return to her original position when the transfer was voluntary and "lacking in any indication of temporary intent."[2] Here, petitioner made her temporary intent clear, writing in her first letter to the administration that she was interested in a part time position "until my family decides that full-time work would be in our best interest again" and referring to her son's "precious first few years." It was also clear from this letter that the availability of health benefits was critical in petitioner's decision to move to the part-time position, and she reiterated this information in her second letter later that year in which she indicated that she would be interested in continuing in the part-time position if it continued to provide health benefits. Moreover, the ALJ found as fact that petitioner assumed that the part-time position would include health benefits beyond the first year and found credible her testimony that she would not have pursued the part-time position if it did not offer health benefits. Even the choice presented to petitioner at the end of her original period of maternity leave was one between a part-time position without benefits or a full-time position with benefits, reinforcing her belief that she could return to a full-time position.

[2] There is also no indication in DeFrehn that the transfer involved a reduction in compensation, as the move from full-time to part-time did for petitioner here, so the analysis did not implicate the protection against reduction in compensation provided for by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

The Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's interpretation of the Court's holding in Bridgewater-Raritan, supra. The teachers in Bridgewater-Raritan argued that time served as replacement teachers should count toward their acquisition of tenure because they had been told by high-level district administrators that it would. The Board contended that other school-related statutes expressly require notice to teachers, but the replacement teacher statute did not, so the Legislature did not intend to require notice to replacement teachers. The Supreme Court held that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 requires a board of education to "designate" the replacement employee, and that the plain meaning of "designate" includes an obligation to give the replacement employee notice that time serving in the position will not count towards the acquisition of tenure. Here, the ALJ interpreted the Bridgewater-Raritan decision to mean that boards of education must only provide notice if a statute requires such notice. But this interpretation ignores the fact that the Court rejected essentially the same argument from the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education, stating, "[w]e are unpersuaded that the specific type of notice required in [other] statutes compels the conclusion that the Legislature intended to forgo any notice obligation under" the statute at issue. Bridgewater-Raritan, supra, at 362.

Here, the Commissioner is similarly unpersuaded that the Board has no notice obligation in the circumstances at issue. Petitioner made clear that her interest in a part-time position was temporary and contingent on the continued inclusion of health benefits. In the face of that information, the Board approved her transfer to a part-time position that included benefits, only to take away those benefits one year later; it then offered her a full-time position with benefits, only to take away that option one year later. The Court in Bridgewater-Raritan noted that "keeping teachers in the dark as to their employment status effectively negates what the Legislature has endeavored to address by the tenure statute, namely, 'prevent[ing] school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power over teachers in contract negotiations.'" Id. at 361. Petitioner knowingly moved to a part-time position, but it is evident that she did not know that the Board would refuse to allow her to return to her full-time position. The Board, on the other hand, had all of the information and nonetheless kept petitioner in the dark. The fact that the Legislature has not enacted a statute to define a board of education's notice obligations regarding changes from full-time to part-time employment is not dispositive in light of the broad protective purpose of the Tenure Act.

Finally, the Board argued below that petitioner relinquished her tenure rights when she declined the offer to return to a full-time position for the 2017-18 school year.[3] The ALJ did not reach this issue because the case was resolved by the conclusion that petitioner was not the subject of a RIF and thus was not entitled to return to the full-time position. However, as the Commissioner has reversed that portion of the decision, it is necessary to address the question of whether a waiver occurred at the time the superintendent offered petitioner a full-time position for the 2017-18 school year. The Commissioner finds that petitioner's choice to continue her maternity leave for the 2017-18 school year does not constitute a waiver of her tenure rights.[4] While an employee who has been placed on a recall list can waive her tenure rights if she is offered a position and declines it, those circumstances are simply not equivalent to an employee choosing to continue a maternity leave, which she has a right to do under her contract. A leave of absence is, by definition, a temporary situation, and petitioner expressly stated her intention to return to employment with the district

[3] It is not clear from the testimony whether a full-time position was available for the 2017-18 school year. The outgoing superintendent informed petitioner in a voicemail that she had to "be full-time [with benefits] or part-time without the benefits." The incoming superintendent informed petitioner that the district might add a full-time position but that he would not know for two weeks. Because the Board has argued that petitioner declined an offer, the Commissioner presumes that a full-time position was available and was offered to petitioner. However, if no offer was actually made to petitioner, then she could neither be deemed to have rejected an offer of employment nor found to have knowingly waived her tenure rights. Tribbett v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Willingboro, Burlington Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 301-12, decided August 1, 2012.

[4] However, having chosen to continue her maternity leave for the 2017-18 school year, petitioner is limited for that school year to the pay, benefits, and emoluments to which she is entitled under her contract or applicable law during a period of leave. There is no indication in the record that the Board has outstanding obligations to the petitioner during the time of her leave.

following her leave. She had no reason to believe that she would not have the same options upon her return for the 2018-19 school year as those offered to her for the 2017-18 school year: a full-time position with benefits or a part-time position without benefits.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is reversed. The Board is ordered to reinstate petitioner to her position as a full-time teacher retroactive to the 2018-19 school year, with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments of employment, less mitigation.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

CATHERINE PARSELLS,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF SOMERVILLE, SOMERSET COUNTY,
Respondent.

Keith Waldman, Esq., for petitioner (Selikoff and Cohen, attorneys)

Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith and King, LLP, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 11, 2019 Decided: November 25, 2019

BEFORE JUDITH LIEBERMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Catherine Parsells, filed a petition in which she alleged that the respondent, Somerville Borough Board of Education, violated her tenure and seniority rights by depriving her of full-time employment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner was notified of the respondent's determination concerning her employment status on April 6, 2018. She filed an appeal on May 15, 2018, and the Office of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on July 9, 2018, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to-15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13. On April 8, 2019, the respondent filed a motion for summary decision. Petitioner filed an opposition brief on May 6, 2019, and the respondent filed a reply brief on May 23, 2019. An Order Denying Summary Decision was issued June 28, 2019.

A hearing was held on August 5, 2019, and August 7, 2019, and the record was held open for parties to receive transcripts and submit post-hearing briefs. All briefs were received by October 11, 2019, and the record closed that day.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The parties jointly stipulated to the following. Accordingly, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. The Somerville Public School District ("District") is a pre-K to 12 district located in Somerset County, New Jersey.

2. Dr. Timothy Teehan has served as Superintendent of Schools for the District since July 1, 2017. Prior to that time, Teehan served as the District's Academic Achievement Officer for approximately five years.

3. Dr. Timothy Purnell was the prior Superintendent of Schools. He commenced employment in February 2011, and separated from employment on or about June 30, 2017.

4. Petitioner Catherine Parsells has been employed by the Somerville Board of Education ("Board") as a full-time preschool teacher serving under her pre-K endorsement from September 2010 to June 2016 and as a part-time preschool teacher at Van Derveer Elementary School from June 2016 to the present.

5. On or about May 2, 2016, petitioner, who was a full-time preschool teacher at the time, wrote to then-Superintendent Purnell to express her interest in a part-time preschool position with benefits that the District had posted. In her letter, petitioner explained that she, "would be interested in this position for as long as it is available, or until my family decides that full-time work would be in our best interest again" and stated that she was, "very appreciative of being given the opportunity to be considered for a position that would allow me to continue working as a teacher pursuing my career goals while also being able to spend time with my son during his precious few years." JT[1]-A.

6. Petitioner was not expressly told by any Board member or administrator that she would be entitled to return to her full-time position once she voluntarily took the part-time preschool position, nor was petitioner told by any Board member or administrator that she would be waiving her right to a full-time position by taking the part-time position.

7. At the Board meeting on May 17, 2016, the Board approved petitioner's transfer from the position of full-time preschool teacher to the position of part-time (.5) preschool teacher for the 2016-17 school year. JT-B.

8. At the Board meeting on July 26, 2016, petitioner was also appointed as a Preschool Team Leader for the 2016-17 school year. JT-C.

9. On or about November 18, 2016, petitioner requested and was subsequently granted maternity leave followed by a child care leave of absence, effective February 2, 2017 to June 30, 2017. JT-D.

10. On February 1, 2017, petitioner expressed her interest in continuing to work as a part-time teacher during the 2017-18 school year, provided the position continued to include benefits. JT-E.

11. On or about July 5, 2017, former Superintendent Purnell left a voicemail for petitioner that addressed her position during the upcoming school year (i.e. 2017-18). He stated she had to either be full-time with benefits or part-time without benefits. JT-F.

12. On or about July 6, 2017, Superintendent Teehan left a voicemail for petitioner explaining that the Board could no longer justify offering benefits with the part-time position and that a full-time position might be added shortly. JT-G.

13. Petitioner ultimately declined the full-time position because she was nursing and the baby would not take a bottle. Therefore, she could not be away from her home from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m.

14. On July 13, 2017, petitioner wrote to Teehan to extend her maternity leave for the entire 2017-18 school year based on the fact that she would no longer receive health benefits as a part-time employee, and the needs of her family. JT-H. The extension was granted.

15. In mid-April 2018, Teehan spoke to petitioner regarding her work status for the 2018-19 school year. He told petitioner that she was entitled to a part-time position with no benefits and that if a full-time position were to become available, she would need to apply for it.

16. On April 17, 2018, Teehan sent an email about his conversation with petitioner to her Principal, Susan Haynes. In the email, he stated in pertinent part:

> So, I spoke with Katie the other day as a return to the call she had made to me. I am not sure why, but she was under the impression that she had the option of coming back full-time if she wanted to. I had never stated any such thing when I told her in the beginning of July that she would not > have benefits anymore. During this recent conversation, I explained as best as I could that she is entitled to the same type of position, which she left - P/T and no benefits. I explained that the position doesn't need to be even preschool - it just needs to be something that she is certified to teach. However, I did explain that an individual was hired to be her replacement until June 30. The person knows that her time in the position will come to an end at that time. It is this position which she would be returning to since the position remains in our preschool structure.

I understand that as a part-time employee you are not entitled to benefits and shouldn't have them. He explained that [petitioner] was originally given benefits because you [Haynes] and he had discussed how the preschool staff was new, [petitioner] was the team leader, and there was a concern about consistency for the students. It was expected that she would work beyond the normal day to attend to team leader responsibilities, which he justified as the reason why she was more than part-time and would have the benefits. However, when she was no longer the team leader, she no longer would be working extra and would not be entitled to benefits. He said the providing of benefits for the part-time position was not a forever guarantee.

She stated that if she had known all of this before changing to part-time, she would not have made the change.

20. Petitioner returned to her part-time teaching position on or about September 1, 2018.

Testimony

For petitioner:

Petitioner, Catherine Parsells, became a tenured teacher with the Somerville Board of Education in September 2013. She was a full-time preschool teacher in 2016, when Principal, Susan Haynes, told the preschool teachers the school intended to reduce the number of full-time preschool teachers and add two part-time teachers. Petitioner expressed interest in a part-time position, as long as it offered health benefits. Haynes confirmed that the part-time position would offer health benefits.

Petitioner voluntarily sought the part-time position because she had a four-month old son. A part-time position would enable her to care for her son while continuing with her career. She would not have pursued the part-time position if it did not offer health benefits.

No one discussed tenure with petitioner and she was not advised that she would be unable to return to her full-time position. She would not have pursued the part-time position had she known there was a risk that she would be unable to return to her full-time position.

Petitioner took an extended maternity leave during the 2017-2018 school year. She did not initially plan to do this, as she intended to return to work at the beginning of that school year. However, in July 2017, Purnell advised, by way of a voice mail message, that she would not receive health benefits if she remained in her part-time position. He told her she could apply for a full-time position, which would provide health benefits. Based on Purnell's message, she believed she had the option of returning to a full-time position with benefits or a part-time position without benefits, in September. He did not indicate in his message that she would waive her right to return to the full-time position if she took the part-time position.

Teehan left petitioner a voice mail message in which he explained why the part-time position no longer offered health benefits. He also referenced a possible full-time position. Based on this, petitioner believed she had the option to return to either a full-time position with benefits or a part-time position without benefits.

Based on these messages, petitioner opted to extend her maternity leave, as her infant daughter was not taking a bottle and additional leave time was authorized. She, thus, planned to return to work as a full-time employee in September 2018. She did not believe she had waived her right to a full-time position.

After her maternity leave, Haynes and Teehan told petitioner she could not return to the full-time position and she would need to apply for a full-time position. She was told employees who move between full-time and part-time positions must apply for new positions. She was "blindsided" and shocked, as she believed she had tenure in a full-time position and because her family relied upon her for health benefits.

Petitioner applied online for her former position and all other positions for which she was certified. She was interviewed and gave a demonstration lesson. She was not selected for a full-time position. Instead, two people were hired from outside the district for preschool positions. She applied for approximately six full-time positions each year and was not selected for any of them. She also applied for positions in other districts but none was offered to her. Consequently, petitioner and her family have incurred substantial medical expenses, including monthly premiums for health insurance. P-1.

On cross-examination, petitioner acknowledged that her February 1, 2017, letter, in which she expressed interest in continuing as a part-time position, did not specify an end date. She did not believe she was required to provide an end date. She explained that she would have stayed in a part-time position indefinitely if it offered health benefits. She acknowledged that, for the 2017-2018 school year, she was able to choose between the full-time position and part-time position, and she chose to extend her maternity leave. In her July 13, 2017, letter to Teehan, in which she advised that she would extend her maternity leave, she did not write that she wished to return to a full-time position.

Petitioner also acknowledged that no one from the Board promised her that she would be able to automatically return to a full-time position whenever she wanted. Further, she did not ask anyone, including her union, whether she would be able to automatically return to her prior job.

Petitioner did not think that she had applied for the part-time position in 2016. She did not submit an application by way of the official online application system or other application process. She, thus, thought she merely transferred to a new position. She did not believe that tenured, full-time employees should be removed from their positions to create an opening for her. However, she believed she had seniority over the untenured teachers who were hired for the full-time positions she sought. She also believed that several positions had openings such that no one would need to be removed.

For respondent:

Dr. Timothy Teehan, Superintendent, became Superintendent on July 1, 2017. He explained that petitioner's move from full-time to part-time status was not the result of a reduction in force (RIF). Rather, she applied for the part-time position by way of her letter of interest to Purnell. Her move to the part-time position was voluntary.

Over the preceding "couple" of years, approximately seventeen staff members had moved between full-time and part-time positions. T1[2] 62:3. Such moves were treated as a "brand new hires" and the employees were not asked how long they intended to remain in the new position. T1 61:2. Teehan did not advise those employees that they would not have an automatic right to return to their prior position and would be required to submit an application to return to the prior position. Rather, the Somerville Education Association, an entity associated with the New Jersey Education Association, advised staff concerning leaves of absences, maternity leaves, health, and pension benefits, among other issues.

[2] "T1" refers to the transcript of the August 5, 2019, hearing in this matter. "T2" refers to the transcript of the August 7, 2019, hearing. The citations include the page and line number(s) of the transcripts referenced in this Initial Decision.

If the school district were required to retain petitioner's full-time position for her until the time she decides to return to it, the district could be required to remove a tenured teacher from that position. The district would be required to "at the very least pay that person sixty days, the only other option we would have would be to add on a position which we wouldn't have budgeted." T1 65:9-12. Alternatively, a leave replacement teacher, who may not earn tenure, could be placed in a temporarily vacant position if there are stated start and end dates for that position. In that instance, the position would be posted as a "leave replacement" position and the hired person would be advised of the start and end dates.

If a teacher who changed from a full to part-time position, or part to full-time position, were permitted to return to his prior position at any time, the district would lose the benefit of candidates who are committed to serving the district. Hired teachers would have an incentive to move to other districts.

With respect to the hiring process for teachers, a personnel committee comprised of teachers screened applicants and selected the applicants to be interviewed. Two rounds of interviews are conducted. A member of the Personnel Committee and an administration representative participate. The applicants also conduct a demonstration lesson. One to three candidates are selected for an interview by the superintendent, who makes a recommendation concerning the selected candidate to the Board of Education, which determines whether a job offer will be extended to the candidate. Petitioner's applications for full-time positions were not referred to him for his review.

On cross-examination, Teehan clarified that, at the time of the hearing, there were seventeen staff members who had moved between full and part-time positions. Eight teachers made this type of change while he was superintendent. Other staff members did so before he became superintendent. While he was superintendent, he did not advise any of the teachers that this type of change would cause them to waive tenure rights. The teachers who moved from full to part-time would have been told by an administrator, if the teacher did not already know, that the change would impact their health benefits, and health benefits were not associated with part-time positions. With respect to those teachers who moved from full to part-time, none, other than petitioner, inquired about returning to their full-time positions.

Dr. Timothy Purnell was the District Superintendent until June 30, 2017. He served in that capacity for seven and one-half years. Haynes told him she discussed restricting of the preschool staff with the teachers and that petitioner wanted to move from her full-time position to a part-time position. Purnell did not interview petitioner for the part-time position; his understanding of the transaction was limited to his conversation with Haynes and a brief conversation he had with petitioner when she delivered her May 2, 2016, letter. Their conversation was limited to an exchange of "pleasantries." T2 28:10. He understood from her letter that her goal was to spend time with her infant son.

This, "was a restructuring of the preschool positions so, to my knowledge, we didn't post any new positions, but rather, used internal personnel to shift that personnel to best meet the needs of the community, based on their interest and the conversations that Susan Haynes had with her team." T2 22:10-15. Purnell explained, "This was not a new position posted for external applicants, so our regular application procedures would not apply to this situation."[3] T2 23:7-10.

Had petitioner not already been a district employee, the district's application and vetting procedure would have been implemented. The procedure involved an application acceptance period, after which a personnel committee would evaluate the applications and select some applicants for interviews. One or two rounds of interviews would be conducted. Selected candidates would next be interviewed by the principal, and demonstration lessons may be required. Two candidates would be selected for the last round, which involved an interview by the superintendent. The superintendent recommends the selected candidate to the Board of Education, which must approve or reject the selection.

[3] Each year, around the time of petitioner's May 2, 2016, letter, school administrative staff inquired, by email, whether staff members were interested in switching positions.

Purnell did not discuss with petitioner whether the move to part-time employment would impact her ability to return to her full-time position. He did discuss with her that she would receive health benefits while in the part-time position because she would serve as team leader. He did not "[look] towards her not having" benefits. This exchange occurred briefly during their conversation when they mostly exchanged pleasantries. Otherwise, petitioner's conversations about the move were with Haynes. Purnell did not know about the nature of Haynes' conversation with petitioner and whether it was considered an interview. He was not aware that petitioner was ever told she would need to reapply to return to her full-time position. He would not opine about the impact of petitioner's move on her full-time employment.

Because the action at issue was a "restructuring of personnel," Purnell was required to present the "recommendation of the building principal to the Board of Education for approval of the restructuring." T2 26:19-22. He presented and recommended petitioner's move to a part-time position to the Board. He recommended "to the Board, with no end of time, for her to be part-time and have benefits and serve as team leader." T2 30:23-25. The benefits associated with the part-time position were linked to her status as team leader.

Before his employment with the district ended, he learned Haynes or her team determined petitioner would no longer serve as team leader. Purnell left petitioner a phone message in which he explained she would no longer be entitled to health benefits but could take a full-time position that would provide health benefits. He characterized his communication as an "offer" of a "full-time [position], which would include the benefits." T2 37:17-18. Although he "offered" her the position, he did not know that she wanted to return to a full-time position. T2 38:2. He "offered her a position because – out of concern of well-being, that she may want health benefits, so I offered her a full-time position. I didn't have any discussions with her at all." T2 38:4-8. He did not speak with her after he left the message.

On cross-examination, Purnell clarified that petitioner's May 2, 2016, letter was an application or expression of interest in a transfer. He further clarified that, in May of each year, the district asked employees if they wished to transfer positions within the district. Such transfers were not guaranteed. An employee who fills a position on a temporary basis – who holds a leave replacement position – would be approved in that position for a specific period of time, subject to Board-approved extensions. Purnell never told an employee who moved from full to part-time or from part to full-time that he would have an automatic entitlement to return to their prior position at any time.

On re-direct examination, Purnell testified that approximately ten to fifteen employees transferred from full to part-time positions while he was superintendent. Tenure was not discussed with any of those staff members. He assumed Haynes discussed health benefits with petitioner. He did not know who "initiated that." T2 47:15.

He was unaware of any other employee who retained health benefits after transferring to a part-time position. He was also unaware of any case in which a move to a part-time position was considered to be temporary. He did not make personnel changes that were temporary. He was also unaware of a circumstance in which an employee initiated a discussion about returning to a full-time position.

Additional Findings

It is the obligation of the fact finder to weigh the credibility of the witnesses before making a decision. Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness' testimony. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). To assess credibility, the fact finder should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, motive, or bias. A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp, 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

As the fact finder, I had the ability to observe the demeanor, tone, and physical actions of the petitioner during the hearing. She testified in a clear and straightforward manner. Her demeanor suggested that she sought to relay all facts honestly. She was not unduly emotional but appeared appropriately upset, given the impact this matter has had on her and her family's life.

Petitioner acknowledged that she did not seek the advice of administrators, other Board personnel, or the Somerville Education Association about the consequences that might flow from her voluntary move to a part-time positions. She also acknowledged that no one from the Board guaranteed that she would be able to return to a full-time position when she wanted. She was also candid about the motivation for her decisions and she recognized that she was offered an opportunity to return as a full-time teacher for the 2017-2018 school year yet chose instead to extend her maternity leave.

Fundamentally, petitioner credibly conveyed that she made decisions based on her understanding of the process, whether that understanding was correct or incorrect, and in response to her family's needs at the time. I find her testimony to be credible.

Teehan testified credibly. He relayed the relevant facts and his involvement in the matter in a straightforward manner. His testimony was consistent with the documentary and other evidence produced during the hearing.

Purnell relayed a reluctance to answer questions. He sought clarification of questions that were concise and clear. Nonetheless, his testimony was credible as it was consistent internally and with the documentary and other evidence produced during the hearing.

Additional Findings

Having considered the testimony and documentary evidence, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

1. Petitioner voluntarily requested to be transferred to a new, part-time teaching position with benefits.

2. Petitioner was not asked by anyone from her school district to resign or otherwise leave her full-time position.

3. The Board approved petitioner's transfer to the new, part-time teaching position.

4. The Board also approved petitioner's appointment as team leader for the 2016-2017 school year.

5. Petitioner accepted the new position as a part-time teacher.

6. Petitioner assumed she would be able to return to her former full-time position when she no longer wanted to have a part-time schedule.

7. Petitioner assumed the part-time position would be accompanied by health benefits after the 2016-2017 school year.

8. On July 5, 2017, and July 6, 2017, the former and current superintendents advised petitioner that she was no longer eligible for health benefits through her part-time position. This was because there was no longer a need for her to serve as team leader. They advised her she was eligible for a full-time position at that time.

9. On July 13, 2017, petitioner advised the current superintendent, in writing, that she would extend her maternity leave through the 2017-2018 school year.

10. Petitioner did not ask her supervisors or other personnel how her voluntary transfer to a part-time position would impact her ability to return to a full-time position.

11. Petitioner did not ask her union representative or other representative of the Somerville Education Association how her voluntary transfer to a part-time position would impact her ability to return to a full-time position.

12. None of petitioner's supervisors or other Board personnel advised petitioner how her voluntary transfer to a part-time position would impact her ability to return to a part-time position.

13. None of petitioner's supervisors or other Board personnel promised petitioner that she would be able to return to a full-time position when she requested.

14. Petitioner did not accept the full-time position that she was offered in July 2017.

15. Rather than accept the offered full-time position, petitioner opted to extend her maternity leave.

16. Petitioner understood that she was authorized to extend her maternity leave through September 2018, and intended to return to work then.

Parties' Arguments

The Board contends the petitioner was not entitled to return to a full-time position because she was not the subject of a RIF. Her tenure and seniority rights would have been at issue had the Board instituted a RIF or taken other adverse action. However, because she was not subject to a RIF or other adverse action, she was not entitled to return to her full-time position. The Board also argues that petitioner's failure to accept an offer for a full-time position constitutes abandonment of any right she might have had to such employment.

Petitioner contends that she could only relinquish her tenure rights voluntarily and that she did not do so. She did not know that changing from a full-time to a part-time position would impact her tenure rights and the Board did not inform her of this consequence, notwithstanding its obligation to do so. She also argues that she did not request or accept a permanent job change and she was merely placed temporarily in the part-time position rather than hired for a new position. Finally, she claims she did not abandon her position when she extended her maternity leave and she was effectively subject to a RIF when she was told she could not return to a full-time position.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The purpose of the teaching staff tenure laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, is "to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording teaching staff members 'a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service.'" Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 528–29 (App. Div. 1999) (quoting Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949)). Our courts have held that "the widest range should be given to the applicability of the [tenure statutes] law." Sullivan v. McOsker, 84 N.J.L. 380, 385 (E. & A. 1913). See also Barnes v. Bd. of Educ. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964). "[B]ecause of its remedial purpose, the Tenure Act should be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends. Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 74-75 (1982).

In order to acquire tenure, a teaching staff member "must comply with the precise conditions articulated in the [tenure] statute." Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). Thus, a teaching staff member "is entitled to tenure if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time." Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 74. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides:

> [t]he services of all teaching staff members employed . . . in the position[ ] of teacher . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this Title, after employment in such district or by such board for:
> > (1) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or

> (2) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (3) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

The Tenure Act provides two ways a tenured teacher may be dismissed: 1) for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming, or other just cause, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; and 2) by a RIF for economic reasons, pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:28-9.

The latter provision provides that boards are permitted to "reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. When a teacher has been subject to such a RIF, he will have a right to return to his prior position when a vacancy occurs:

> If any teaching staff member shall be dismissed as a result of such reduction, such person shall be and remain upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified and he shall be reemployed by the body causing dismissal, if and when such vacancy occurs and in determining seniority, and in computing length of service for reemployment, full recognition shall be given to previous years of service[.]
> N.J. S. A. 18A:28-12.

Seniority is a "mechanism for ranking all tenured teaching staff members so that reductions in force can be effected in an equitable fashion and in accord with sound educational practices." Lichtman, 93 N.J. at 368, n.4.

A reduction of a full-time teacher's hours to that of a part-time teacher constitutes a RIF. See Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987)(school board reduced a tenured teacher's schedule to part-time; because the teacher had not volunteered for the reduction in hours, the Board's action was deemed a RIF and the teacher was entitled to a position held by a non-tenured teacher).

Fundamental to a finding that a RIF occurred is a determination that the action at issue was caused by the school board, not by the impacted teacher. See Carpenito v. Bd. of Educ. of Borough of Rumson, Monmouth Cty., 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999)(A teacher may be dismissed by a RIF only if "her school board reduces her tenure rights through dismissal or a reduction in tangible employment benefits."); Alfieri and Mezak v. Board of Education of the Township of Saddle Brook, 2003 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 1114, *5-6 (2003), EDU No. 11677-98 and 1161-99 (consolidated) (teachers "did not have a tenure entitlement to the full-time positions they seek because they were not subject to a reduction in staff under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9").

A part-time teacher may be tenured and have an entitlement to move to a full-time position if he is subject to a RIF. In Lichtman v. Board of Education, 93 N.J. 362 (1983), the teacher was a tenured, part-time librarian. When the part-time position was to be eliminated, she applied for a full-time librarian position, for which she was also certified. The Board determined she held no seniority rights for a full-time position and instead hired a non-tenured applicant for the full-time librarian position. The New Jersey Supreme Court rejected this conclusion, holding that "a tenured part-time teaching staff member with proper certification can claim, as against a non-tenured applicant, seniority rights in seeking appointment to a full-time position that is within the specific categories covered by the certification and that has responsibilities identical to those of the part-time position in which employment was actually held." 93 N.J. at 364.

Here, it is undisputed that the school principal presented petitioner with the option of moving to a part-time position. Neither the principal nor anyone else on behalf of the District mandated the change. Petitioner volunteered for the position, as it suited her family's needs. She submitted a request for approval of the new position, which the superintendent and Board reviewed and approved.[4] The job change at issue, therefore, was voluntarily undertaken by petitioner and not mandated by the Board. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE petitioner was not the subject of RIF.

[4] Petitioner contends she did not effectuate a permanent job change but, rather, only changed jobs temporarily. However, the Board approved her application for a new position with no reference to a temporary position or approval.

Petitioner contends she should be entitled to return to a full-time position because respondent failed to warn her of the consequences of her decision. Petitioner has not cited, nor have I discovered, any authority for the proposition that school boards must notify tenured employees of the consequences of such actions The Legislature has required notice in specific contexts: See N.J.S.A 18A:6-4.15 (requiring notice for criminal history background check results); N.J.S.A 18A:6-11 (requiring written notice for dismissals or reductions in salary); and N.J.S.A 18A:27-10 (requiring notice for renewal or non-renewal of employment contracts). Had the Legislature wanted to impose a notice requirement in matters such as this, it would have done so explicitly. See In re Plan for the Abolition of the Council on Affordable Housing, 214 N.J. 444, 470 (2013)(When "the Legislature has carefully employed a term in one place and excluded it in another, it should not be implied where excluded")(citations omitted).

This maxim, however, was not endorsed by the New Jersey Supreme Court in Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Ass'n v. Board of Educ. of Bridgewater-Raritan School Dist., Somerset County, 221 N.J. 349 (2015). In that case, the Court found that the language of the controlling statute, N.J.S.A 18A:16-1.1, "must be given its plain meaning." 221 N.J. at 361. The statute created an exception to the general tenure eligibility statute and also required designation of temporarily-assigned replacement teachers. This compelled a finding that its plain meaning required districts to provide teachers notice of the designation. Petitioner has not identified a statutory provision that could similarly require the notice she claims ought to have been provided. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE petitioner is not eligible to return to her full-time position because she was not the subject of a RIF and she voluntarily accepted her part-time position.[5]

[5] I note that respondent also contends petitioner relinquished her tenure right when she rejected an offer to return to a full-time position. As the question at issue has been resolved for the reasons stated above, I need not address this argument.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that petitioner is not entitled to the relief she seeks. It is further ORDERED that the petition be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

D.W., on behalf of minor child, Y.T.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Millville, Cumberland County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

In June 2019, pro se petitioner filed an appeal for due process on behalf of her foster child, Y.T., in which she sought an order directing the respondent Board to allow Y.T. to participate in her eighth-grade promotion ceremony. The emergent matter was heard on June 19, 2019, and emergent relief was granted. The file was retained by the OAL for additional proceedings as needed.

Following a conference call in October 2019, the ALJ found that no issues remain open in this matter, as the final emergent decision had resolved the controversy. The ALJ further concluded that the petition should be dismissed, and the file returned to the transmitting agency.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this case, and the petition was dismissed.

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

D.W. (petitioner) filed a petition for due process on behalf of her foster child, Y.T., a minor, seeking an order directing the Millville Board of Education (respondent) to allow Y.T. to participate in her eighth-grade promotion ceremony.

On June 17, 2019, petitioner's petition of appeal was filed with the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education, along with a request for emergent relief. On June 18, 2019, the emergent matter was filed along with the due process request with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The emergent relief request was scheduled for oral argument, which was held on June 19, 2019. Petitioner's emergent relief request was GRANTED. An order on emergent relief was issued and ADOPTED by the Commissioner of Education. The file was retained at the OAL for determination of what if any proceedings the parties and the undersigned felt were necessary to bring the matter regarding the underlying petition to closure.

A conference call was held on October 15, 2019. At that time the parties agreed that no issues remained open or before this tribunal, and that the emergent hearing held on June 19, 2019 and the ensuing initial and final emergent decisions had resolved all issues. It was further agreed that the matter should be returned to the transmitting agency.

Counsel for respondent provided a confirming letter to that effect later that same date, and no further communication or objection has been received.

The preceding statements are not in dispute and are hereby FOUND as FACT.

Considering the foregoing, I FIND that no issues remain open in the current matter and CONCLUDE that the petition in this matter should be DISMISSED and the file returned to the transmitting agency.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the petition in this matter be DISMISSED and that the file be returned to the transmitting agency.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

C.B., on behalf of minor child, J.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner appealed the respondent Board's decision to retain her son in the seventh grade for the 2017-2018 school year. C.B. was informed that J.B. would be held back during a meeting on September 12, 2017. The class placement determination was made after J.B. was removed from special education classes at the end of the 2016-2017 school year, at the insistence of C.B. and against the advice of school district personnel. The within appeal was filed on February 20, 2019. Petitioner had filed an earlier petition on the same topic, but withdrew it after appearing for an emergent hearing in October 2018. The Board filed a motion for summary decision, contending that the within petition is time-barred under the 90-day rule, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.2(i) and should be dismissed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are is no genuine issue as to any material fact here, and the case is ripe for summary decision; under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency that is the subject of the case; it is uncontested that the petition herein was filed on February 20, 2019, some 17 months after petitioner was informed that her son would be retained in the seventh grade; further, the matter is moot as J.B. is now in the 9th grade for the 2019-2020 school year. The ALJ concluded that the petition should be dismissed in its entirety. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition.

Upon careful and independent review of the record and the ALJ's recommended decision, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determinations and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this case. The petition was dismissed.

C.B. on behalf of J.B, petitioner pro se

Bernard Mercado, Esq. for respondent

Record Closed: December 20, 2019 Decided: January 16, 2020

BEFORE ERNEST M. BONGIOVANNI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the NJSP, where it was filed on April 1, 2019, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. I held a prehearing conference at the OAL with both parties attending on June 5, 2019, and entered a prehearing order on June 12, 2019. A hearing date was scheduled for September 30, 2019. The parties attempted to resolve the matter which resulted in the hearing being adjourned to December 20, 2019.

Newark Public Schools submitted a Motion for Summary Decision, Certification and Brief in support of same on December 6, 2019. Petitioner C.B. filed a timely response on December 12, 2019, and argument on the motion was heard on December 20, 2019. Testimony by C.B. and by J.B, which would be permitted to be supplemented at the continued hearing, was also given. The record on the motion was closed that date.

MOTION UNDER CONSIDERATION

The respondent requests that summary decision be granted and that the petition of C.B. on behalf of J.B. be dismissed for the following reasons; the petition which complains that J.B. was wrongfully retained at elementary school 7th grade for the 2017-2018 year is time barred under the 90-day rule, and C.B. contributed to J.B. being retained that year because, in June 2017,[1] she removed J.B. from special education which he had been receiving from Newark Public Schools since 2012. The Prehearing Order records that the issues to be resolved at the hearing were: 1) Was J.B., currently 16, wrongfully denied advancement to the 8th grade for the 2017-2018 school year? 2) Was C.B.'s petition on behalf of J.B. timely? 3) What effect did C.B.'s revocation of consent for Special educational services have on J.B.'s ability to advance? 4) Are there any other rights of J.B. that were violated? 5) What has J.B.'s status as an 8th grader in 2018-2019 and if graduated as a 9th grader in 2019-2020 have to the issues complained of?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based on the pleadings of the petitioner and upon facts up of the motion papers as to facts that are not contested, or are incontestable, and argument and testimony of the petitioner on the motion, I rely upon the following relevant facts.

[1] Petitioner claims she did so in May 2017, not June 2017.

J.B. was removed from Special education classes provided for at J.B.'s elementary school at C.B.'s insistence in either May or June or 2017. C.B. was informed at a meeting at the school held September 12, 2017 that C.B. was being retained in the seventh grade for the duration of the 2017-2018 school year. C.B. and representatives of the elementary school discussed in the Fall of 2017 the possibility of J.B. advancing to the 8th grade in February of 2018; however, the advancement did not take place.

On or about July 19, 2018, C.B. on behalf of J.B. filed a Petition of Appeal ("first Petition") with the Department of Education, (Respondent's motion, Exhibit A, Notice of Filing), which was referred to the OAL on or about September of 2018. After appearing for an emergent hearing on that petition in October,2018 C.B. withdrew the petition. She insists she did so without knowing she was doing so, and that she was told by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that her withdrawal would be without prejudice. Further she believes she was "tricked misled manipulated" by the ALJ, along with the attorney for the Newark School Boards, which induced her to withdraw her claims. She claims she was "taken advantage of" because of her "ignorance." When she realized that her withdrawal was with prejudice, C.B. filed another petition ("current petition") with the Commissioner of Education on February 20, 2019 (Respondent's Exhibit B, Notice of Filing) wherein she repeated the allegations of the first petition.

Because the respondent does not argue that this matter has already been litigated, and therefore cannot be heard again, I shall not address that possibility. For the same reason, I shall also not address the possibility that the petitioner does not state a claim upon which proper relief may be granted (except for certain ancillary issues which I shall address) because J.B. is now in the middle of the 9th grade and C.B.'s claim addresses his failure to advance from the seventh grade. Further, because it is not at all clear to what extent C.B.'s decision to withdraw J.B. from special education had on the decision to retain him in 7th grade, and not enough facts have been advanced upon on which it could be decided, I shall not address respondent's second theory that C.B. had no right to complain about the decision. Therefore, I shall only address the narrow question of whether the current petition filed in February 2019 is a time bar to C.B.'s complaint that J.B. was wrongfully retained in the seventh grade for the 2017-2018 year.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

If there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail on a motion for summary disposition as a matter of law. Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. The motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party...are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Brill, 142 N.J. at 523. And even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, the forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law. Id. at 536 (citation omitted).

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency that is the subject of the case.

As case law makes clear, such a time limitation confers due process, is both meaningful and reasonable, and provides finality in education matters, which negotiations do not toll. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 583–88 (1983). As such, this time limitation has long withstood challenge. See, e.g., Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 381–82 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 137 N.J. 315 (1994) (where the court stated that the time limitation is not inherently arbitrary or capricious, and to rule otherwise would deprive district boards of education the security of the rule). Moreover, negotiations do not toll this time limitation. See, e.g., Giannetta et al. v. Bd. of Educ. of Egg Harbor, No. #147-05, Comm'r Decision (April 25, 2005), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/ (where the Commissioner of Education explicitly stated, citing Kaprow, 131 N.J. at 588, that attempts to resolve a claim through negotiation with a board of education do not negate receipt of adequate notice or toll the running of the time limitation).

The above-recitation of the uncontested or indisputable essential facts make this matter ripe for summary decision. J.B. was held back in the seventh grade by action taken between the time J.B. was removed from special education in May or June 2017 and September 12, 2017 when C.B. by her own claims she was first informed of that decision. Assuming arguendo, that the "first petition" is relevant in its first raising the claim that J.B was wrongly retained, I FIND that C.B. would have had to have filed that claim with the Commissioner of Education on or before December 11, 2017. However, petitioner did no such thing. In fact, her own petition and response to the motion for summary decision indicate she used the time between the original decision to retain J.B. in the 7th grade to attempt to negotiate with the school's representatives to have J.B. advance to the 8th grade by February 2018. However, as indicated in the above cited case law, negotiations to not toll this time limitation. Thus, even if there was any validity to C.B.'s claim that she was "tricked" into withdrawing that petition it was time barred as it was filed on July 19, 2018, seven months after the 90-day time limitation.

Turning to the current petition, which again repeats the claim that J.B. was wrongfully retained in the seventh grade for the 2017-2018 year, it is uncontroverted that it was filed with the Commissioner of Education on February 20, 2019, 17 months after C.B. was informed on September 12, 2017 that J.B. was being retained in the seventh grade. Petitioner has no special right or privilege to file a petition 14 months beyond the 90-day limitation simply because she feels she "was taken advantage of" or for whatever reason, didn't know that she had to act within the governing law on the subject matter. I FIND that petitioner's claim against Newark Public schools for their decision to retain C.B. in the seventh grade for the 2017-2018 year violated J.B.'s rights or was otherwise unlawful, is plainly time barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Further, this claim should be dismissed because it is moot. It is uncontroverted that J.B. was retained in the seventh grade for the 2017-2018 school year. J.B. is now in the 9th grade of the 2019-2020 school year. A hearing on this matter cannot have any practical effect since it would not be reasonable to promote him to the 10th grade by "skipping" a year without the benefit of the academics that other 9th graders are getting. I also FIND this matter is not appropriate for hearing based on the limited and narrow exception to the general doctrine of mootness since promotion and retention issues are challenged with sufficient regularity to reserve judicial review for live controversies where such relief is available.

There remains the ancillary issues which can be gleaned from C.B.'s pleadings. They are at best a jumble of vague ideas and notions, and like the claim of wrongful retention issue, appear, if they are cognizable claims, to be time barred at well. These ancillary claims are best summarized in C.B.'s description of the relief she seeks on page 4 of her written response to the motion for summary decision. As stated therein 1. J.B. "did not receive the aggressive counseling" and J.B.'s school transcripts that he was classified for special education be changed to general education as he was misclassified" 2. All parties should be "held accountable for their actions." 3. Her petitions took "so long to be heard." 4. J.B. should "receive the aggressive counseling." 5. C.B. says "no" to J.B. attending "small group instructions or a reading intervention".

Claims 2 and 3 both fail to state a claim or cause of action upon which relief may be granted and must therefore any portion of the Petition which restates this claim must be dismissed. The first part of claim 1, and claims 4 and 5 do not relate to anything in the Second Petition, but rather involve issues that were discussed during settlement negotiations after this matter was referred to the OAL. The second part of claim 1, wherein petitioner seeks to have the special education classification in J.B.'s student records removed is also clearly time barred for the same reasons as stated above as the classification for J.B. concerned actions taken by respondent between 2012, when he first started receiving special education and May or June of 2017, when he was removed from that classification.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE as a matter of undisputed fact and law that the Petition in its entirety should be DISMISSED.

ORDER

For the reasons set forth above, the motion for summary decision filed by the respondent Newark Public Schools is and the same be hereby GRANTED and the Petition of Appeal DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Environmental Protection does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Petitioner,

v.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP), that he is permanently disqualified from public school employment. Petitioner was disqualified as the result of information revealed during a criminal history background check pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A-6.7.1. Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner's criminal history background check revealed that in 1985, he was convicted of two disqualifying offenses in the State of North Carolina; at the time, petitioner was 17 years old; petitioner acknowledged that the findings from 1985 are accurate, and did not attempt to challenge the accuracy of his criminal history record; however, petitioner requested that the Commissioner consider the facts surrounding his past crimes and his rehabilitation since that time; further, petitioner sought to demonstrate his rehabilitation through mitigating evidence of his subsequent educational and career achievements; however, the controlling statute here mandates permanent disqualification and does not provide any leniency or discretion in regard to its application. The ALJ concluded that petitioner has failed to advance any basis for relief and the appeal must be dismissed. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the OSP's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition with prejudice.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

Record Closed: December 18, 2019 Decided: January 15, 2020

BEFORE: JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Timothy Vandergast, challenges the action of the New Jersey Department of Education Office of Student Protection (respondent/OSP), decision that permanently disqualified him from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility as a result of information revealed during a criminal background check under N.J. Stat. § 18A:6-7.1.

On June 29, 2019, petitioner filed a response to respondents' disqualification notice of June 26, 2019. On September 13, 2019, the Board filed a Motion to Dismiss the Petition of Appeal. Petitioner requested oral argument on the Motion to Dismiss (that will be addressed as a summary decision motion) that was held on December 18, 2019, on which date the record closed.

The Board seeks relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." These provisions mirror the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J 67 Agency Final Decision (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. For the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co. of American,142 N.J 520, 523 (1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a motion for summary judgment. Therein the Court stated:

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party... are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

Petitioner sought a license to teach in the State of New Jersey. The Board sent a notice to Petitioner dated June 26, 2019, that stated his fingerprint search returned results of a felony conviction and in turn he is permanently disqualified from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility. The Board attached Addendum A, which displays that Petitioner was convicted of crimes in North Carolina in 1985.

Petitioner was convicted of larceny of a firearm, and a crime considered to be disqualifying in nature, breaking and entering a vehicle, which is akin to burglary under N.J. Stat. § 2C:18-2. Petitioner initiated a pro se appeal of the Board's decision on August 1, 2019. Petitioner acknowledged that "the findings from 1975 are accurate" and does not attempt to challenge the accuracy of his criminal history record. See Ex. C. In his appeal, Petitioner simply requests that the Commissioner of Education consider the facts surrounding his past crimes and his rehabilitation since then.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. There are no material disputed facts which require a plenary hearing, and the respondent is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

Petitioner has failed to set forth any grounds to contest the decision in this matter since he does not challenge the accuracy of his criminal record, nor the Department of Education's classification of his offenses being akin to burglary under N.J.S.A. 2C:18-2 and therefore disqualifying. This mandates permanent disqualification of any public-school employee who has regular contact with pupils where that person has been convicted of a third-degree crime as set forth in Chapter 20 of Title 2C of the NJ Statutes. Burglary, a third-degree crime under the statute, is specifically listed as a disqualifying offense under N.J.S.A. 18A:7-7.1(c)(2). The statute only provides for the petitioner to appeal the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal history record. Here, petitioner does not challenge the accuracy or OSP's determination that he was convicted of the crime so stated, nor does he contest that those crimes are substantially equivalent to those enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(c)(2). The petitioner instead requests a review of his case and a chance to demonstrate his rehabilitation by using mitigating evidence. The statute mandates permanent disqualification and does not provide any leniency or discretion in regard to its application. Therefore, because Petitioner has failed to advance any basis for relief, the appeal must be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, respondent's motion for summary decision is hereby GRANTED. Accordingly, the petition filed in this matter is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Carmen Thomas-Henderson,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro-se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that she had not met the requirements for issuance of a Supervisor Certificate. The SBE denied petitioner's application for certification due to her failure to complete the required number of credits in curriculum design and development pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a)(2)(ii)(2). A hearing was held in this matter on January 8, 2020.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-3.2, the New Jersey State Board of Examiners is responsible for issuing appropriate certificates to teach or to administer, direct, or supervise, the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of pupils in public schools operated by district boards of education; here, the SBE determined that petitioner fell short of completing all requirements for the Supervisor Certificate because she is missing three credits in curriculum design and development required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a)(2)(ii)(2); petitioner holds both a master's and a doctorate degree in education; petitioner provided testimony as to the education that she completed and why she believes that her coursework meets the requirement of the regulations; petitioner provided a syllabus of several courses she completed at Gwynedd Mercy University, which she claimed involved curriculum development in preschool through grade 12; petitioner was not able to indicate where in any of the detailed syllabus there was mention of curriculum development, but argued that program development, planning, evaluations, and placement were words synonymous with curriculum; the SBE maintained that the coursework completed by petitioner did not satisfy the requirement for three graduate elective credits in curriculum design and development, and pointed to a description for a course in the same program at Gwynedd Mercy University that petitioner had completed, entitled "Curriculum and Instructional Supervision"; petitioner did not take this course, which would have counted towards the requirement. The ALJ concluded that petitioner had not met her burden by a preponderance of evidence, and the SBE's denial of petitioner's application for the Supervisor Certificate was appropriate. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the SBE's decision to deny the issuance of the certificate.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination of the ALJ herein; accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Carmen Thomas-Henderson,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the New Jersey State Board of Examiners did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner when it denied petitioner's application for a Supervisor Certificate. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that petitioner did not meet the requirements for a Supervisor Certificate because she failed to complete the required number of credits in curriculum design and development pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a)(2)(ii)(2).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 104-5/19

CARMEN THOMAS-HENDERSON,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
Respondent.

Carmen Thomas-Henderson, petitioner, pro se

Michal Czarnecki, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: January 8, 2020 Decided: January 21, 2020

BEFORE SARAH G. CROWLEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner appeals the denial of her request for the issuance of a Supervisor Certificate by the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, State Board of Examiners (Board) because the petitioner did not satisfy the requirement of three graduate elective credits in general principles of curriculum design and development for preschool through grade twelve, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a)(2)(ii). The petitioner asserts that she is qualified for certification based upon master course work equivalent to the deficiencies stated by the Board.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner filed an appeal of the denial of her request for the issuance of a Supervisor Certificate and requested a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The matter was transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed on July 5, 2019, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

The respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision on July 1, 2019, and due to the failure of the pro se petitioner responding and the scheduling of the hearing, the motion was not ruled on until January 8, 2020. The undersigned denied the motion and ruled that a factual question as to the sufficiency of the coursework to satisfy the requirement of the regulations existed and a hearing was necessary to determine this factual issue. The fair hearing was conducted on January 8, 2020, and the record closed at that time.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The petitioner filed an application for Supervisor Certificate with the New Jersey Department of Education, State Board of Examiners (Board). The Board reviewed the petitioner's application and determined that the petitioner had not completed the required three graduate level elective credits in staff supervision and three credits in curriculum design and development. Upon reconsideration of certain coursework, the Board approved the course work in the staff supervision. However, the Board maintained the petitioner had not completed three credits of graduate course work in the area of curriculum design and development.

Testimony

For petitioner:

Carmen Thomas-Henderson, Ph.D. is employed as an education consultant. She also teaches at Rowan University. She has received her masters as well as her doctorate in education. She provided testimony as to the education that she has completed and why she believes that the coursework that she has successfully completed meets the requirement of the regulations. Specifically, she provided a syllabus of several courses that she completed at Gwynedd Mercy University, which she claims involved curriculum development in the preschool through grade 12. Specifically, she produced and testified about the following courses:

> EDU 844: The Neuroscience of Learning: A re-examination of programs and services for diverse learning form the viewpoint of cognitive neuroscience of learning. Viewing learning as essentially a process of neurological change, neurological research about learning offers practicum and a policy makers insights and perspectives to change educational practice. (P-1.)
> EDU 841: Designing intervention and assessment: Through a review of research and local practices, this course offers an in-depth study, analysis, and discussion of intervention programs and outcomes for students with special needs. Students will examine the organization and administration of special education programs with emphasis on the role of the special education leader within the local agency. A review of the development, implementation and evaluation of effective program designs will prepare students to make recommendations for future practice. (P-2.)
> EDU 808: Technology, Data & Program Evaluation: Further focused exploration of learning technology, gathering and using data to drive instructional improvement, and evaluation of educational programs. (P-3.)
> EDU 801: Educational Policy in Research & Practice in the US: The course provides an analysis of educational programs and research as it relates to the organizing, governance, and delivery of educational services in the US. Students shall examine the role of the federal government, state department > of education, intermediate education units, local school districts, charter schools, private schools, higher education, nonprofit organizations and schools for profit with an emphasis on identifying the underlying influence that drive them. Models for the organization and delivery of educational services with be analyzed. Major issues explored and analyzed in this course include school finance and equitable school funding, trends in Pre-K -12 and higher education policy and practice, and the changing role of large and small school districts, private schools, charter schools, colleges and universities and educational providers of all sorts. (P-4.)

> EDU 848: Special Education Practicum 1: The course provides field experience in a school setting to perform the function required of a special education supervisor in local education agencies (LEAs) including charter schools, private schools, and intermediate units. The student enrolled in this course will be supervised by/or by and approved mentor. The students will be provided with experience in the self-evaluations and reflection, administrative shadowing, departmental and school improvement plans, student evaluation land placement process in special education, staff observation and supervision, clinical supervision of a peer and development and planning for staff professional development. (P-5.)

The petitioner testified that all of these classes involve general curriculum development. However, she could not indicate in any of the detailed syllabus where there was a mention of curriculum development. She argued that program development, planning, evaluations, and placement were words that were synomous with curriculum. The petitioner also provided a letter from the Program Director for Graduate Education at Gwynedd Mercy University which indicated that she has successfully completed the Ed Leadership program, and that same follows standards and is aligned with NJAC 6A:9-3.4. The final exhibit entered into evidence was the petitioner's transcript indicating her classes from Gwynedd Mercy University.

For respondent:

The respondent did not provide any direct witnesses but submitted R-1 though R-5 into evidence without objection. The documents were the departments file in connection with the application for supervisors' certificate. The final document which was entered into evidence during the petitioner's case as R-5, was a list of Classes at Gwynedd Mercy University. The petitioner was questioned about EDU 572, which was entitled "Curriculum and Instructional Supervision." The Course description is as follows: "instructional leadership is critical to school success. It includes curriculum development and implementing, staff development and instruction supervision. The course will deal with curriculum trends, new approaches to organizing schools, professional learning communities, instructional methodologies, and research on improving student performance." (20 hours embedded field experience required.) (R-5.)

The Board determined that the petitioner had satisfied all requirements toward certification except for three graduate elective credits in curriculum design and development. They maintain that the coursework provided including the foregoing P-1 through P-5 did not satisfy the requirements of curriculum development. Accordingly, the denial of the Supervisor Certificate was proper.

The foregoing is found as FACT.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-3.2, the New Jersey State Board of Examiners is responsible for issuing appropriate certificates to teach or to administer, direct, or supervise, the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of pupils in public schools operated by district boards of education.

N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a) provides, in pertinent part, to be eligible for the standard administrative certificate with a supervisor endorsement, a candidate shall:

1. Hold a master's or higher degree from a regionally accredited college or university;

2. Successfully complete one of the following:

    i. A Commissioner-approved college curriculum that specifically prepares the candidate for the endorsement;

ii. Twelve graduate-level semester-hour credits, including the following:

(1) Three credits in general principles of instructional staff supervision in preschool through grade 12;

(2) Three credits in general principles of curriculum design and development for preschool through grade 12;

(3) Three elective credits in curriculum design and development; and

(4) Three elective credits in instructional staff supervision and/or curriculum design and development; or

iii. A Commissioner-approved training program that is implemented by a Commissioner-approved provider and specifically prepares the candidate for the endorsement; and

3. Hold a standard New Jersey instructional or educational services certificate, or its out-of-State equivalent, and complete three years of successful, full-time teaching and/or educational services experience. Teaching and/or educational services experience completed in a New Jersey school district must have been under an appropriate New Jersey certificate.

Here, the Board determined that the petitioner did not satisfy the requirement for three graduate elective credits in principles of curriculum design and development for pre-school through grade 12, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-12.6(a)(2)(ii)(2). The petitioner has argued that certain courses that she took at a Gwynedd University satisfy the requirement for certification. There was no expert testimony on the definition of the term curriculum. However, the term did not appear anywhere in the lengthy course descriptions of the courses which petitioner argues satisfy this requirement. Moreover, there is a course taught by Gwynedd in the same program for which petitioner was enrolled in which is described as "curriculum instruction" and contains the term "Curriculum" in its title as well as throughout the course description. Accordingly, I am not satisfied that the courses for which the petitioner refers to in P-1 though P-5, include curriculum development or satisfy the New Jersey State requirements for curriculum development. Moreover, I must defer to the expertise of the Board, and there was no evidence that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not met her burden by a preponderance of the evidence, and I CONCLUDE that the Board's denial of the petitioner's request for the issuance of a Supervisor Certificate was appropriate.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's denial of the petitioner's request for the issuance of a Supervisor Certificate be AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Re: Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No.15-1/20

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief filed by the petitioner, the Newark Board of Education, in the above-captioned matter. The petitioner is appealing the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying the petitioner's request for a waiver of the NJSIAA's decision to disqualify the University High School girls basketball team (University) from participating in the NJSIAA Girls State basketball tournament (post season tournament).[1]

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

[1] The NJSIAA issued a parallel decision disqualifying the Essex County Vocational Technical Schools Newark Tech (Newark Tech) girls basketball team from the tournament. Newark Tech joined the petitioner in seeking a waiver before the Executive Committee and likewise has requested to join the petitioner in its current appeal.

Athletic competition in New Jersey's public schools is overseen by respondent, NJSIAA – a voluntary, non-profit organization which promulgates the rules and regulations governing high school athletics that are adopted annually by the member schools. Section 19 of the Specific Sport Regulations states:

> f. Any varsity team accumulating three or more player or coach disqualifications for flagrant unsportsmanlike conduct prior to the team's participation in an NJSIAA tournament will not be permitted to participate in same. Seeded teams forfeit their right to compete if a disqualified limit is reached prior to the start of the tournament for the team.

In appropriate cases, the NJSIAA may grant a waiver of its rules if the overall objectives of the association and its member schools will not be undermined. See generally, Board of Education of the City of Union, Union County v. New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association, Commissioner Decision No. 455-04, decided November 10, 2004.

In this case, it is undisputed that an incident occurred on January 9, 2020 during a game between University and Newark Tech in which there was pushing between players after a jump ball, followed by several adult fans running onto the court and causing a chaotic scene. All players from both teams left the bench during the incident. That night, the officials filed disqualification reports for the two players involved in the initial fight; the following day, the officials filed disqualification forms for the players who had left the bench. The disqualification notices for those athletes stated, "Reason: Unsportsmanlike flagrant misconduct, Explanation: Left the bench and went on the court during the fight." Since University accumulated more than three player disqualifications, the team was disqualified from participating in the post season tournament. Thereafter, the petitioner sought a waiver from the NJSIAA to enable University to participate in the post season tournament. The members of the Executive Committee voted 28-0 to deny the waiver request.

On appeal, the petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's team disqualification rule requires that the individual disqualifications be for conduct which is both flagrant and unsportsmanlike. Despite the language used in the disqualification notice, the individual disqualifications given to the athletes who left the bench cannot form the basis for team disqualification because they did not commit unsportsmanlike conduct. In support of its argument, the petitioner cites to the NJSIAA Rule/Policy set forth in Article IX of the NJSIAA By-Laws which defines "unsportsmanlike conduct." The petitioner also refers to the National Federation of State High School Associations Basketball Rules to emphasize that leaving the bench during a fight or when a fight occurs is a "flagrant foul," but it is not necessarily unsportsmanlike conduct. As such, the petitioner argues that the individual disqualifications for leaving the bench should be treated as a flagrant foul with no finding of unsportsmanlike conduct. With no such finding, the team disqualification may be appropriately waived.

The petitioner also contends that the team disqualification is contrary to the intent and spirit of the NJSIAA rules. Unlike in Union City, supra, the disqualifications here were not for serious fighting, and the players who left the bench did not join the brawl. It was not until the players witnessed adult spectators charge the court and attack one of their teammates that they reasonably left the bench and went to the locker room. To apply the team disqualification rule under such circumstances would broaden its application far beyond that intended in its adoption. Therefore, the failure to issue a waiver of the rule in this case would be arbitrary and capricious.

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the petitioner has not met the standard required for emergent relief. Most notably, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying appeal. It is well established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, I may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may I substitute my own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1). Additionally, New Jersey courts have spoken as to the narrow scope of arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, noting that "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974) (citations omitted).

Based on the record before me and the standard of review that I am required to adhere to, I cannot find that the Executive Committee applied its rules in a patently arbitrary or unreasonable manner. The disqualification forms executed by the officials clearly state that the players were disqualified for "unsportsmanlike flagrant conduct." After reviewing these forms and the video evidence and affording the petitioner the opportunity to present its case, the Executive Committee found that both teams were appropriately disqualified from the post season tournament and denied the petitioner's waiver request. The petitioner's arguments regarding the meaning of "unsportsmanlike conduct" demonstrate only a disagreement with the decision and are insufficient to prove that the Executive Committee was arbitrary or unreasonable in the interpretation of its own rules. Accordingly, I find that the petitioner has not presented the requisite evidence that would enable me to overturn the Executive Committee's decision to deny the petitioner's waiver request.

Since all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors. Accordingly, the petitioner's request for emergent relief and an Order permitting the University girls basketball team to participate in the post season tournament is hereby DENIED.

Sincerely,

Introduction

This matter arises from tenure charges of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct sufficient to warrant dismissal against Rene Chakmakian, (Respondent) certified by the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, (the District) and an October 10, 2019 referral of the tenure charges to the undersigned by the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

By Order dated November 9, 2019, the undersigned denied Respondent's Motion to Dismiss. Thereafter, a hearing in the matter was conducted on November 12, 15, 20, 22, December 3 and 13, 2019 in Hackensack, New Jersey and December 12, 2019 in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. All parties were afforded the opportunity for argument, examination and cross-examination of witnesses and the introduction of relevant exhibits. Respondent Rene Chakmakian was present for the entire hearing and testified on her own behalf. A transcript of the hearing was taken, At the close of the hearing on December 13, 2019, the parties elected to submit written closing argument, upon the receipt of which by the arbitrator on January 23, 2019 the matter was deemed submitted.

This Decision and Award is made following my careful consideration of the entire record in the matter, including the undersigned's observations of the demeanor of all witnesses.

Issues

The issues presented in this matter may be accurately stated as follows:

> Has the District met its burden of establishing the truth of its tenure charges against Respondent, and if so, what is the appropriate discipline, if any?

The Tenure Charges

The tenure charges in this matter were filed by Dr. Jennifer Brower, Superintendent of Schools, of the District on September 12, 2019. The six Charges filed by the Board (less their respective included statements/allegations of fact) provide:

Charge No. 1

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, engaged in unprofessional and unbecoming conduct throughout the 2014-2015, 2015-2016, 2016-2017 and 2017-2018 school years when she repeatedly violated students' rights under the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act, and intentionally memorialized disrespectful and abhorrent comments about students, community members, and her colleagues in emails to another staff member, on the Englewood Cliffs School District's server, which warrants her dismissal according to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10 based on conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

Charge No. 2

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, failed to meet the standards set forth in the new Jersey Professional Standards for Teachers, N.J.S.A. 6A:9-3.3, specifically Standards One, Three, Nine, Ten and Eleven, as evidenced by her inability to address the performances, essential knowledge, and critical dispositions embedded within those standards, when she wrote emails to Staff Member containing deplorable comments about her students, parents of students, and her colleagues, which warrants her dismissal as a teaching staff member pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Charge No. 3

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, willfully violated Board Policy 3281. "Inappropriate Staff Conduct," by disregarding her professional responsibility to a student's health, safety, and welfare when she knowingly blind copied Staff Members on emails containing confidential and sensitive information about specific students, warranting her dismissal as a teaching staff member pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Charge No. 4

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, willfully violated the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act, 20 U.S.S. 1232g; 34 C.F.R. 99.31; N.J.S.A.18A:36-19; N.J.AC. 32-7.5; and Board Policies 8330 "Pupil Records" and 8335 "Family Education Rights and Privacy Act" when she blind copied Staff Member on emails she wrote to colleagues regarding shared students, despite the fact that Staff Member did not have educational interest over the students, thereby inappropriately infringing upon each student's privacy rights, thus warranting her dismissal according to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 based on conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

Charge No. 5

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, engaged in unprofessional and unbecoming conduct throughout the 2015-2016, 2016-2017 and 2017-2018 school years when she repeatedly violated Board Policy 3321, "Acceptable Use of Computer Network(s)/Computers and Resources by Teaching Staff Members," when she used the District computer server, during the District school day to draft and send emails to a fellow staff member's District-issued email address containing deplorable comments about District supervisors, District staff members, students and parents, which warrants her dismissal according to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 based on conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

Charge No. 6

Rene Chakmakian, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education, engaged in unprofessional and unbecoming conduct throughout the 2015-2016, 2016-2017 and 2017-2018 school years when she repeatedly violated

Board Policy 3211, "Code of Ethics," by disclosing pupil information, and by making malicious statements about colleagues, which warrants her dismissal according to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-10 based on conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.

Summary of the Facts[1]

These Tenure Charges concern the content of thirteen (13) emails and the manner in which they were sent or received by Respondent to her fiancé Dr. Mark Delcalzo – another teacher in the District – over a period of six school-years from 2012 to 2018, using District teacher-email accounts to either send or receive the emails. The District asserts that all of the emails violated the District's acceptable use policy relating to the District server and District owned computers[2] and that certain of the emails violated

[2] District Board Policy 3321 Acceptable Use of Computer Network(s)/Computers and Resources by Teaching Staff Members provides in relevant part:

The Board recognizes that as telecommunications and other new technologies shift the manner in which information is accessed, communicated and transferred that those changes will alter the nature of teaching and learning. Access to telecommunications will allow teaching staff members to explore databases, libraries, internet sites, bulletin boards and the like while exchanging information with individuals throughout the world. The Board supports access by teaching staff members to information sources but reserves the right to limit in-school use to materials appropriate to educational purposes. The Board directs the Superintendent to effect training of teaching staff members in skills appropriate to analyzing and evaluating such resources as to appropriateness for educational purposes.

The Board also recognized that telecommunications will allow teaching staff members access to information sources that have not been pre-screened using Board approved standards. The Board therefore adopts the following standards of conduct for the use of computer network(s) and declares unethical, unacceptable, inappropriate or illegal behavior as just cause for taking disciplinary action, limiting or revoking network access privileges, instituting legal action or taking any other appropriate action as deemed necessary.

The Board provides access to computer network(s)/computers for administrative and educational purposes only. The Board retains the right to restrict or terminate teaching staff access to the computer network(s)/computers at any time for any reason. The Board retains the right to have the superintendent or designee, monitor network activity, in any form necessary, to maintain the integrity of the network(s) and ensure its proper use.

Standards for Use of Computer Network(s)

Any individual engaging in the following actions declared unethical, unacceptable or illegal when using computer network(s)/computers shall be subject to discipline or legal action:

1. Using the computer network(s)/computers for illegal, inappropriate or obscene purposes, or in support of such activities. Illegal activities are defined as activities which violate federal, state, local laws and regulations. Inappropriate activities are defined as those that violate the intended use of the network(s). Obscene activities shall be defined as a violation of generally accepted social standards for use of publically owned and operated communication vehicles.

Violations

Individuals violating this policy shall be subject to appropriate disciplinary actions as defined by Policy No. 3150, Discipline which includes but are not limited to:

1. Use of computer network(s) computers only under direct supervision.
2. Suspension of network privileges;
3. Revocation of network privileges;
4. Suspension of computer privileges;
5. Revocation of computer privileges;
6. Suspension;
7. Dismissal;
8. Legal action and prosecution by the authorities; and/or
9. Any appropriate action that may be deemed necessary as determined by the Superintendent and approved by the Board of Education.

[3] District Policy No. 8335 provides that the District's policies and regulations shall be in compliance with FERPA. In relevant part, the Policy states that; "FERPA permits disclosure of pupil records without consent if the disclosure is to school officials with legitimate educational interests." The policy also notes that N.J.A.C.6A-32-7 incorporates the requirements of FERPA.

Events Leading to the Charges

The District provides education to approximately 434 students, pre-K through eighth grade in two schools located in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey; the Upper School for 3rd through 8th grades and the North Cliff school for K through 2nd grades. The District school board has nine members. The District employs approximately 50 teachers and five administrators. The District's administration is composed of Superintendent Dr. Jennifer Brower (Brower), Principal of Schools Siobhan Tauchert (Tauchert), Supervisor of Special Education Dawn Smith, Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction Nicole Ferlise and Supervisor of Guidance Colin Winch.

Respondent is a tenured teacher and has been employed by the District as a full-time teaching staff member since August 2002. She is certified in elementary education and special education and has served the District as a general education teacher and a special education/resource center teacher. At the time of the Tenure charges, she was employed as a special education teacher.

Prior to the circumstances of the instant Tenure Charges, Respondent had no discipline in her record and consistently received good evaluations and observation results, (effective or highly effective). Respondent received the "Teacher of the Year" award for her work during the 2017-2018 school year. Respondent worked primarily at the North Cliff school. Respondent and her fiancé Dr. Mark Delcalzo (Delcalzo) have been together as a couple for 12 years. They live together. At all times relevant, Delcalzo has taught physical education in the District. Delcalzo performs his job in both District schools, although primarily at the North Cliff School.

In late March 2019 District teacher Therese Najarian reported to Principal Tauchert that Delcalzo was not present for a scheduled responsive classroom professional development training and that another teacher had reported observing Delcalzo lying down on the couch in Respondent's classroom during the training. Tauchert looked into the matter and learned from the professional developer presenter that Delcalzo had signed into the training session, said his neck hurt and left the room saying he would be back, but that Delcalzo did not return to the training. The presenter also informed the principal that Delcalzo had also missed a full day of professional development in January 2019. Tauchert spoke with Delcalzo about both professional development days and the physical education teacher told her that on one of the days his neck hurt and on the other day he had a stomachache. The principal asked Delcalzo why he had not reached out to an administrator, that if he had come to her she would have told him to go home. Tauchert reported her findings to Brower. Brower responded by saying she would look into the District computer to see what Delcalzo's search histories were on the two days involved.

Brower thereafter had the District's network specialist grant the Superintendent access to Delcalzo's internet and email accounts on the District owned computer network. Brower reviewed Delcalzo's emails and internet usage on the dates of the development meetings, in her words; "to see if he was able to utilized his computer while he was supposed to be so sick." As a result of her search, Brower discovered that Delcalzo, a licensed chiropractor, had spent significant time on the days in question looking up facts relating to chiropractic issues, performing on-line banking and receiving and sending emails. While reviewing Delcalzo's email activity, Brower noticed that Delcalzo was emailing Respondent a lot. By policy, District email accounts are supposed to be used for District purposes. Brower then performed a search in Delcalzo's account for emails to and from Respondent and discovered that the two staff members had emailed one another consistently over a long period using District accounts to send and/or receive emails. In addition to the number of emails involved, Brower became concerned that the two teachers were using the email service for what she believed were inappropriate purposes, including communications about students and what she felt were inappropriate comments. As a consequence, Brower determined to conduct an investigation into Respondent's email use.

Brower thereafter had the network specialist gain her access to Respondent's District email account. Between March 27 and April 1, 2019 Brower personally reviewed Respondent's email account including between 100 and 500 emails between the two teachers; some originating from or going to, one of the teacher's District email accounts and others originating from or going to one of the two teacher's personal Gmail accounts. As a result of her search, Brower became concerned that some of the emails sent to or from Gmail accounts addressed school-related and student-related matters that according to District policy and governing law should be kept exclusively on the District's confidential server and that other of the emails contained content that Brower found to be inappropriate; offensive; demeaning or derogatory of staff, students, or parents; unprofessional and at times abhorrent. Of the up to 500 emails she reviewed covering a period from the 2012-2013 school year to the 2017-2018 school year, Brower identified thirteen emails upon which the instant Tenure Charges are based.

The Emails

The emails[7] identified by Brower included: (1) a blind copy of an email to Delcalzo of an email that forwarded a behavior chart of a student in Delcalzo's class; (2) a blind copy of an email to Delcalzo of an email to a parent concerning disruptive behavior of the parent's student/child and asking the parent to speak with the student; (3) an email to Delcalzo containing Respondent's response to a group email blind copied her by Delcalzo about a challenging student and –using vulgar and derogatory language about the student - recommended that if the student acted up Delcalzo should remove the student from his class; [8] (4) in an email to Delcalzo referred to a group of mothers of students in a pejorative manner and to their conduct in a vulgar way; (5) an email from Respondent's District account in reply to a blind copy from Delcalzo at his personal email referring to the Principal in an offensive and vulgar manner; (6) a blind copied email to Delcalzo of an email to the parent/guardian of a student explaining Respondent's intended strategies for tutoring the student; (7) a blind copied email to Delcalzo of an email to the parent/guardian of a student offering Respondent's available times for tutoring the student; (8) an email to Delcalzo that disparaged Delcalzo's supervisor[9] and [7] Due to privacy considerations and a desire to avoid the potential of further impact of the emails, these are very generalized descriptions of the emails. They however do contain my relevant findings as to the character of the emails.

[8] Brower and District witnesses Tauchert and School Board President Shanna Jafri testified that they considered the content of this email to be "violent" in nature. I find that although the choice of words used by Respondent were forceful, they cannot be reasonably interpreted to communicate either an intent or a recommendation toward violence of any sort.

concluded; "I can't wait til serve her head on a platter;" (9) an email to Delcalzo that disparaged another teacher and the teacher's children/district students; (10) a blind copied email to Delcalzo of a group email about a classified student's unpacking routine; (11) a reply to an email from Delcalzo about a grade question from a parent disparaging the parent and advising that he answer the email and move on, to which she added, "hate this place and kids and parents --- like my --- will never get additional help;" (12) a response to an email copied Respondent by Delcalzo about his potential training on a computer program by another staff member by mocking the staff member and disparaging the staff member's ability to do the training; (13) an email to Delcalzo that two teachers whom she described with unflattering nick-names were being two-faced in their treatment of another staff member.

Post Investigation Events

Brower conducted her review of the emails and thereafter concluded that Respondent should be subject to discipline. Brower informed the president of the School Board of the general findings of the investigation and of Brower's intention to suspend Respondent pending further consideration. On April 8, 2019 Respondent was asked to meet with the superintendent following a meeting of the staff. Respondent was told to bring her union representative. Respondent had no prior notice or knowledge of the subject of the unscheduled meeting. After the staff meeting, Respondent and her NJEA representative met with Brower and Tauchert. Brower handed Respondent a five-page "Evaluative Memorandum" written by Brower to:

> ...memorialize my serious concerns, profound disbelief, and deep disappointment with the content of emails you exchanged with another staff member during school hours on the District's server. These emails are in no uncertain terms shockingly > inappropriate, vituperative, and completely antithetical to the respect and professionalism expected of teachers in our District. As a result of your conduct, I am placing you on a Professional Improvement Plan [PIP] for the remainder of the 2018-2019 school year and the first half of the 2019-2020 school year.

The Memorandum summarized seven of the subject emails (emails between Respondent and Delcalzo), then referenced Board Policy 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct, and advised that inappropriate conduct outside of a staff members professional responsibilities may be considered conduct unbecoming, and that Respondent's conduct was unacceptable. Next, the Memorandum notified that Respondents' conduct was inconsistent with certain of the State of New Jersey Professional Standards for Teachers as well as the District's Acceptable Use of Computer Networks/Computer and Resources, Policy 3321 and notified Respondent that as a part of her Performance Improvement Plan (PIP), she would be required to attend two professional development courses; one relating to creation of a safe and supportive environment and another on effective workplace interactions.

The Memorandum then reviewed four emails relating to students that Respondent blind copied to Delcalzo, and asserted that; (1) the emails violated the state's Teacher Standards, and (2) because Delcalzo had no "legitimate educational interest' in the involved students and Respondent had not received parental consent to forward the emails, the emails also violated FERPA. The Memorandum advised Respondent that if she had any question as to who may have a legitimate educational interest, she was encouraged to "seek guidance from your immediate supervisor before sending such emails."

The Memorandum concluded by informing Respondent:

> In closing, please be advised that this evaluative memorandum will be included as a component of your 2018-2019 annual summary evaluation. Pursuant to Board Policy No. 3152, "Withholding an Increment" this is formal notice that the within evaluative memorandum is a reasonable effort to inform you that the concerns expressed herein may result in the withholding of your increments for the 2019-2020 school year pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:29-14 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-4.1.

Respondent signed an acknowledgement of receipt of the Memorandum and wrote: "I am not in agreement with the memorandum," and on the advice of her Union representative, did not orally respond to the memorandum.

At the April 8 meeting, Brower then handed Respondent a letter notifying the teacher of her immediate suspension with pay. The letter provides, in relevant part:

> This is to advise you that, as a result of your unprofessional, inappropriate, contemptuous and vituperative email correspondence with another staff member on the District's server during school hours, you are being suspended with pay pending further action by the Englewood Cliffs Board of Education. More information regarding the administration's concern with your email correspondence is set forth in the Evaluative Memorandum provided to you on April 8, 2019.
> Please be advised that this action is being taken with the approval of the Board President pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A.18A:25-6. During the period of your suspension, you are not to be present on the District's campus for any reason without prior written authorization from me. Your suspension shall be reported to the Board forthwith and the Board shall determine what further action is appropriate.

Brower testified that at the time she served the April 8, 2019 Evaluative Memorandum upon Respondent, Brower had no intention to work with Respondent on the PIP or give Respondent the opportunity to comply with the PIP. Brower wrote the Evaluative Memorandum and PIP "as part of progressive discipline" and gave

Respondent the suspension to give herself "more time to think about the process due to the seriousness pending further action."

Respondent has not worked in the District since the April 8, 2019 meeting. In her July 23, 2018 to July 1, 2019 Annual Evaluation Respondent received a composite score of 3.42. Her Domain 4, components 4a, 4b, 4c, and 4d reflected ratings of "Effective." However, in each of those four components Brower noted: "Although the score in this area is warranted for 'effective', it was noted that Ms. Chakmakian demonstrated profound lack of judgement and professionalism this year as noted in 4f." In Component 4f Respondent received an "Ineffective" rating. In the "Notes and Evidence" section of the component, Brower wrote:

> During this school year, certain emails developed that demonstrated profound lack of judgement and professionalism.
> Due to lack of professionalism toward students, staff, and community, Ms. Chakmakian is being recommended for non-renewal/dismissal as indicated in the composite score report.

In the "recommendation" portion of the composite score report, the Evaluation states:

> Recommended for Dismissal/Non-renewal. (This teacher has failed to make progress on a Corrective Action Plan, or the educator consistently performs below the established standards, or in a manner inconsistent with the school's mission and goals.

By letter dated August 1, 2019, Brower notified Respondent that the Superintendent was recommending that the school board withhold Respondent's employment and adjustment increments for the 2019-2020 school year. By letter dated August 7, 2019 Respondent was notified that the Superintendent had filed tenure charges against Respondent. By letter dated August 13, 2019 the District notified Respondent that the school board had approved the withholding of Respondent's employment and adjustment increments for the 2019-2020 school year. By letter dated September 5, 2019 the District notified Respondent that the school board had certified tenure charges against Respondent on September 4, 2019.

Brower testified that even if she saw only one violation of FERPA by Respondent, she would have filed tenure charges against Respondent.

The Intentions of Respondent and Delcalzo

Both Respondent and Delcalzo were familiar with the District's acceptable use policy. However, both teachers had the impression that their emails to one another using their private email accounts were private notwithstanding that the sender or recipient may have used their District-issued computer. Respondent was told by the District's then superintendent Kravitz when she first received a computer that she was permitted to put her private email account on the computer. Prior to the March/April 2019 events relevant here, Respondent knew of no other teacher who had his or her emails reviewed by the District administration. Both Respondent and Delcalzo expected their emails to remain private and neither intended that anyone else would ever view the emails.

Prior Email Monitoring by the District's Superintendents

The record discloses prior monitoring of computer use by the District's superintendent limited to Brower's review of emails of two teaching staff members and one secretarial staff member. Each of the three staff members received a written memorandum with one also suffering a loss of pay for falsifying sick days. None of the three faced tenure charges because, according to Brower, the staff members had not made outrageous comments about students.

The Dissemination of the Emails

In addition to Respondent; Delcalzo; counsel, the arbitrator and the court reporters involved in this Tenure matter, the emails at issue have been seen by Brower, Tauchert the nine members of the District's School Board and possible Supervisor of Curriculum Dawn Smith.

Admissions of Respondent

Respondent admitted to having knowledge that the Superintendent had authority to access the District's network to monitor compliance with District Policy, but that she was not aware of such occurring before. Respondent admitted that in some of the emails at issue she made inappropriate comments about colleague and staff in violation of the District's Policy; that she engaged in the use of inappropriate language and made malicious statements about staff members in violation of the District's Code of Ethics; and that her forwarding student records to Delcalzo at his private email address violated FERPA. Much of what she wrote were expressions of her frustration; she knows she was wrong, "100 percent wrong" in expressing herself as she did.

Respondent wrote Brower an apology dated May 2, 2019.

Delcalzo's Discipline History

Delcalzo was also disciplined for his email conduct, conduct that included the demeaning and mocking of staff, inappropriate use of the District's computer netweork, inappropriate language - conduct described by Brower as "outrageous" - and FERPA violations. Delcalzo received an April 3, 2019 Evaluative Memorandum from principal Tauchert withholding the teachers' annual increment and placing Delcalzo on a PIP. The April 3, 2019 discipline was based upon: (1) Delcalzo's FERPA violations; (2) critical emails directed toward district personnel, (3) failure to attend mandatory professional development meetings, (4) his absence from almost 50 percent of "extended faculty meetings" and (5) raising his voice to a colleague in front of a student. Prior to his April 2019 discipline, Delcalzo had received two warnings; a February 4, 2016 Evaluative Memorandum concerning his shouting at a student, and a May 21, 2018 Warning relating to his cell phone use.

Arguments of the Parties

The parties submitted lengthy and detailed post hearing briefs presenting factual and legal arguments on the Tenure Charges; briefs that have been fully and carefully considered by the undersigned and will only be summarized herein.

Position of the School District

The District asserts that the evidence supports its tenure charges. The District has shown, and to a large degree Respondent admits, that Respondent sent the emails in question and that her emails violated Board policies. Respondent showed little or no remorse for her conduct at the time she was presented her evaluative memorandum on April 8 or thereafter. The District has shown that: (1) the five emails alleged to have violated federal and state privacy law and related Board policy were confidential pupil records; (2) that Delcalzo did not have a "legitimate educational interest" in the records such that he needed to review the records to fulfil his professional responsibility; (3) that Respondent emailed the records to Delcalzo's private email address thereby exposing the student records to public dissemination and (4) Respondent disclosed confidential information without the appropriate parental written consent for disclosure.

Respondent was trained on the Board's privacy policies and FERPA and admitted at the hearing that she had an understanding of the law during the relevant period. Although Respondent asserted in regard to most of the FERPA related emails that Delcalzo had previously, or at the time of the emails had the child as his student, or that the two teachers were attempting to coordinate their schedules, such is insufficient to establish a legitimate educational interest within the meaning of the law, regulations and policy. If Respondent had honestly believed that it was necessary to share student information with Delcalzo, she should have sought guidance and permission from the administrator with the authority to grant permission for disclosure. Respondent did not do so.

The evidence establishes that in her emails to Delcalzo Respondent violated Board Policy 3281 related to Inappropriate Staff Conduct, Board Policy 3211 Code of Ethics and New Jersey Professional Teacher Standards by making malicious statements and using inappropriate language. Respondent's email language was antithetical to the collaborative, professional development, ethical and professional-relationship requirements of the Teacher Standards.

In certain of her emails Respondent made inappropriate comments about District pupils that undercuts the public's trust to protect the well-being of students. Some of Respondent's emails contained inappropriate statements about colleagues in violation of Board Policy 3211. All of the emails at issue were in violation of the Board's Acceptable Use of Computer Networks(s)/Computers and Resources Policy 3321 as Respondent used

District computers and the District's network to either send or receive the emails and the emails either violated disclosure law or –considering their content- were for shameful, inappropriate and obscene purposes.

Contrary to the argument of Respondent, she did not have an expectation of privacy in her email communications with Delcalzo. Both teachers were subject to the Board's Policy 3321 which provides, in pertinent part that:

> The Board provides access to computer network(s)/computers for administrative and educational purposes only. The Board retains the right to restrict or terminate teaching staff members access to the computer network(s)/computers at any time, for any reason. The Board retains the right to have the Superintendent or designee, monitor network activity, in any form necessary, to maintain the integrity of the network(s) and insure its proper use…

The District's Policy clearly put Respondent on notice that the District Superintendent could monitor Respondent's network activity at any time. Thus, Respondent was clearly put on notice that her use of the District's network was not private. Respondent used the network either to send or receive her emails. As consequence, the District Superintendent had authority to review emails sent from, or received by, Respondents' District email account. Considering her emails were not otherwise confidential or privileged, Respondent did not have an expectation of privacy using her District email account.

Respondent did not exhibit contrition about her conduct. When first presented with the results of the district's investigation, Respondent chose to write that she did not agree with the Superintendent's evaluative memorandum and said nothing; made no apology. In fact, the only written apology made by Respondent was a narrow one, addressing only her harm to the Superintendent and making no apology to the other staff members, students or parents who were subjects of her emails. As further evidence of Respondent's insincerity, her written apology was sent a full month after her suspension and only at a time when the employee realized her continued employment was in jeopardy.

Termination is appropriate here. It is well settled that a teacher's unfitness for employment may be demonstrated by a single incident, if such is sufficiently flagrant. Here, each of the several emails involved are sufficient to warrant termination. Prior cases have established that even when the teaching ability of an involved teacher is well regarded, where the teacher's statements engender a lack of faith on the part of parents, teachers or administrators results in the loss of trust and that trust cannot be rehabilitated, dismissal is warranted. Additionally, it is also well established that where a respondent initially denies wrongdoing – such a theft - a later admission and willingness to cooperate in a district's investigation does not mitigate an employee's misconduct.

As for the Fulcomer test for determining whether termination is appropriate when a staff member is determined to be guilty in a tenure charge matter, the facts here support the termination of Respondent. Respondent's acts – the language she wrote - were "premeditated, cruel and vicious." Respondent used a written medium and such establishes that there was always some degree of premeditation in her conduct of writing, and there is no evidence that she was ever compelled to say anything. Respondent would be able to find employment elsewhere. The District has not sought to revoke Respondent's teaching certificates. The District admits that Respondent has a generally good history of performance; has demonstrated that she is a capable teacher who has achieved positive results for her students and has no notable disciplinary history. But, the District here asserts only that she can no longer be effective in this district considering the gravity of the damage she has done to the trust previously placed in her.

Finally, it is well settled in labor arbitration that there are circumstances where an employee's offense is so serious that progressive discipline is not required and the employee may be terminated based solely upon a single serious offense. Respondent's actions here fall within such a category. This is particularly so where, as here, Respondent is held to a very high standard of conduct; a standard that reflects the high level of public trust and confidence afforded public school teachers.

Respondent cannot be permitted to continue to teach in a district she has so often maligned, teach students she has denigrated and work alongside staff and administrators she has ruthlessly mocked and criticized. Respondent is beyond rehabilitation and should be dismissed. Dismissal is a reasonable and proportionate response by the District. The tenure charges should be sustained.

Position of Respondent

Respondent maintains that the District has failed to support its tenure charges. Applying the well-recognized test for determining the appropriateness of termination of a tenured teacher's employment for unbecoming conduct articulated in In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), and cases citing Fulcomer, the arbitrator should consider a number of factors, including: the potential impact on Respondent's teaching career; the longevity of Respondent's teaching career; Respondents overall teaching record; Respondent's teaching ability; Respondent's attitude and whether the acts at issue were premeditated, cruel or done with an intent to punish; Respondent's disciplinary record; the nature and gravity of the offenses under all of the circumstances; evidence of provocation, extenuation or aggravation; any harm or injuries Respondent's conduct may have had on maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system; the likelihood of such behavior recurring and whether the discipline is generally fair and proportional to discipline imposed for similar offenses by other public employees. It is also well established that where an incident of conduct unbecoming is found to have occurred, in most cases progressive discipline should be used.

Applying the Fulcomer standards, there is no reasonable basis for the District to take any disciplinary action against Respondent aside from the Professional Improvement Plan issued to her on April 8, 2019. If Respondent is terminated, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.5 the District would be required to report such to the New Jersey State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of her teaching certificates. Such could potentially end her eighteen year, unblemished teaching career. Respondent has an outstanding teaching record with no prior discipline and has unquestioned ability. Her 13 emails were sent over a seven-year period and were intended to be private. The five emails identified by the District as FERPA violations all related to students about whom Respondent and Delcalzo had legitimate educational interests. As none of the emails have been disseminated beyond a very few – members of the Board and three administrators – Respondent's conduct did not harm nor have injurious effect on the maintenance of discipline and proper administration of the District.

Of the hundreds of emails over a seven-year period reviewed by Brower, the emails raised in the Tenure Charges are thirteen, all of which were between Respondent and her fiancé Delcalzo. Five of the emails identified by the district as FERPA violations actually related to legitimate educational interests of the two teachers in the students involved. The remaining eight emails that contained certain unprofessional and obscene comments were private communications and do not justify the termination or a long-term suspension. Numerous Commissioner decisions and arbitration awards have found termination inappropriate in circumstances involving significantly worse conduct and disciplinary histories than involved here.

Respondent's performance as a teacher in the District has been exceptional. She received "highly effective" observations and evaluations for almost two decades, during which she performed as a 4th grade teacher, a Kindergarten teacher, a Basic Skills teacher and a Special Education teacher. She performed work with other teaching staff (including then-teacher Dr. Brower) on various areas of curriculum and individually developed the District's first Basic Skill curriculum, a curriculum still used by the District. Respondent went above and beyond in the 2017-2018 school year when she voluntarily added the regular education duties to her special education duties for her classroom following the resignation of her classroom's regular education teacher. As a consequence of her work and in the words of Brower, for being the ultimate team player, Respondent was awarded the Teacher of the Year Award.

Respondent is an outstanding teacher with 18 years of experience in the District with a heretofore unblemished record. She sent five emails to her fellow teacher and fiancé concerning the education of students. Both teachers had legitimate educational interests in the students involved. She sent eight other emails to her fiancé during a seven-year period - emails that she believed were private – using the District's server. Respondent's conduct does not warrant termination, particularly where, as here, Dr.

Delcalzo was accused by the District of FERPA related emails to Respondent and multiple violations of the District's Acceptable Use policy that included criticism of District staff that Brower characterized as "outrageous," but despite the fact that Delcalzo had been disciplined twice before, the District issued only an increment withholding to Delcalzo. The District has treated Respondent disparately.

The District has also failed to apply progressive discipline to Respondent and has inappropriately subjected her to double jeopardy. The District has made an effort to apply different levels and incidents of discipline for the very same acts by Respondent. Such is not progressive discipline and has resulted in Respondent being disciplined multiple times for the same conduct; having first received an Evaluative Memorandum, then a PIP, then a suspension and then a termination. There is nothing "corrective" about the District's disciplining Respondent a number of time for the same conduct.

Finally, contrary to the District's assertion, Respondent did have remorse for her conduct. She followed the advice of her Union representative on April 8, 2019 when she was subjected to an unexpected meeting with the Superintendent and did not say anything. She later wrote a letter of apology to the Superintendent who had personally read Respondent's emails and she truthfully expressed remorse during the hearing. Termination of the outstanding teacher that is Respondent is grossly disproportional to the conduct in which Respondent engaged. What would be fair is to give Respondent the opportunity to comply with the PIP provided her on April 8, 2019 and thereby allow the District to positively address its concerns while maintain the employment of a wonderful teacher.

Discussion

A. Summary

The parties present differing narratives about the nature and impact of the Superintendent's discovery of the emails involved herein on the District's important interests, and the degree, if any, to which they should be considered violations of law and District policy. The allegations of the Tenure Charges themselves presented by the District are sweeping and severe in nature; they allege conduct throughout many years that amounted to willful and intentional violations of Board policy and conduct that was abhorrent and deplorable that will have a continuing impact upon the District's important mission. In contrast, Respondent asserts that the content of the emails should not be subject to judgment by the District as they were intended to be private between Respondent and her fiancé and were few in number and written over the course of many years; that to the extent they addressed specific students, Respondent and Delcalzo had legitimate educational interests in the students; and because the emails have not been disseminated, they represent no harm. Neither party is entirely correct in its narrative. However, it is the District that bears the burden of supporting its Tenure Charges and here I find that it has established the truth of only some of its allegations.

Based upon careful consideration of the record as a whole, including all testimony and other admitted evidence and the arguments of the parties, as well as my observation of the demeanor of all witnesses, I find that Respondent engaged in conduct that warrants significant discipline, but does not warrant termination. I find that Respondent violated the District's Policies by: (1) using her private email to send information about students to her fiancé and doing so without parental permission; (2) using the District's email account for private emailing, (3) using inappropriate and unprofessional language on emails sent from her District account and (4) making demeaning and at times vile statements in emails about her administrators, coworkers and students. I find that the District has failed to establish the truth of its assertions that Respondent willfully violated law and policy, did so on an ongoing basis, cannot be rehabilitated, or is a risk to students. I also conclude that the District has failed to establish that termination is an appropriate level of discipline.

B. Notwithstanding that Respondent was on Notice that her Computer Use Could be Reviewed, Respondent's Expectation of Privacy was not Unreasonable Under the Circumstances

Although I find that Brower's review of Respondent's emails was permitted by published District policy, I am not persuaded that Respondent had no basis upon which to expect that her emails to her fiancé would remain private. The District's Acceptable Use Policy Number 3321, establishing the right of the Superintendent to monitor network activity was adopted by the District in March 2004. The record establishes that although the right was so given to the District's Superintendent, monitoring has not been a consistent practice of the District and there is no evidence in the record that it was done during the approximately eleven years of the Policy's existence prior to Dr. Brower becoming superintendent in 2015. Additionally, the evidence of any monitoring of network activity since 2015 is limited to reviews by Brower involving two teaching staff and one non-teaching staff and the reviews of Respondent and Delcalzo.

A close examination of the language of the Policy itself establishes that rather than focusing upon staff email use, the Policy is primarily focused upon use of the internet generally, including inappropriate internet searches, misappropriation of accounts, violations of law, etc. The policy is also confusing as it uses ambiguous language such as "inappropriate activities" and then offers a circular definition of the phrase as activities that violate the Policy. The Policy references email only within the context of forging electronic mail messages or using an account owned by others. The catch-all example of unauthorized use provides; "k. Engages in other activities that do not advance the educational purposes for which computer networks/computers are provided," but does not clearly prohibit employees from using the District network for their personal email accounts.

Additionally, Respondent testified without contradiction that when she was first issued her computer, then-Superintendent Kravitz told her she could use the computer for her personal email account. Respondent also offered un-contradicted testimony, testimony I credit, that she was never told that she could not use her District-issued computer for personal emails. Other than directing staff to read the Board's Policies, there is little evidence of any education of staff on the question of privacy of their personal email accounts on the District server.

Although the Policy does plainly provide that the Superintendent may monitor the network at any time, considering the language of the Policy itself focusing on non-email use of the network, the infrequency of prior monitoring of the network, the statements by the District's former superintendent, the content of the emails themselves – content that on their face suggest that they were not intended to be seen by anyone besides the addressee - I find that Respondent intended her emails to be private and that her belief that her email communications to her fiancé were, and would remain, private was not unreasonable. As a result of such considerations, to the extent that the Tenure Charges suggest that Respondent willfully, intentionally or carelessly violated District policy and that she should have known or assumed her emails would be susceptible to dissemination either within the District or to the public, I find such is not supported by the evidence.

C. In Context, the Emails Were Isolated

I find the emails at issue cannot fairly be described, as the Tenure Charges assert, as statements made "throughout" the school years involved. Respondent did not constantly send emails over a seven-year period expressing disgruntlement at her administrators, coworkers, students and parents. Instead, given the time span involved, the emails at issue were rare. They became known to the District's Superintendent when the Superintendent was reviewing the internet use of another teacher. As such, Respondent's emails were revealed only as the result of a chance discovery by the Superintendent of isolated artifacts of Respondent's communications to a single, intimate colleague, the majority containing Respondent's private feelings and opinions, some as old as seven years. They were few and far between and there is no dispute that if Respondent had such thoughts and kept them to herself, and/or orally communicated with Delcalzo the subject information about students in private, there would be no basis for the Tenure Charges.

D. The Nature of Violations Found

The content of Respondent's expressions, some made long ago, caused hurt and concern and two or three of them could rightly be considered statements of betrayal to the Superintendent who spent many years working closely with Respondent. But, notwithstanding these scattered, yet disturbing glimpses of Respondent's frustrations, expressed at times with vulgar and at times with vitriolic words, the evidence fails wholly to show that such feelings of Respondent were made manifest in any conduct by Respondent toward her students, her coworkers, her administrators or the parents of children in the District. In fact, the evidence establishes just the opposite. Respondent has a long history of high performance in her professional responsibilities and good relations with all.

I find the content of some of Respondent's emails did disparage and were in instances vile. As such, Respondent violated the District's Policies relating to professionalism and Code of Ethics. However, as a result of considerations described above, I find that there is insufficient evidence to establish that Respondent intentionally violated any policy or law or had any intent to do harm to anyone. Instead, I credit her testimony that she was frustrated and find that her motivation in sending many of the emails was to vent. In her doing so, her choice of words reflected poor judgment and at times a poor attitude. But, her venting did not result in any contemporaneous harm whatsoever to the District or its students.

On the witness stand, Respondent admitted that her five emails relating to students copied to Delcalzo amounted to violations of District privacy policies, and I find that considering the emails were either sent from or to private email accounts, Respondent did not comply with District policy requirements on confidentiality.

E. Is Discharge is not an Appropriate Level of Discipline Under the Circumstances.

Having found merit to a portion of the allegations contained in the tenure Charges, I make the following conclusions based upon the Fulcomer and Just Cause standards:

1. Applying the Fulcomer Test

I find that Respondent has a significantly long teaching career of eighteen years, that she has a very good overall teaching record, she has no prior record of discipline and the record well establishes that Respondent has very good teaching ability. The potential impact of termination on Respondent's teaching career would be substantial. Some of Respondent's language in her emails reflected a poor attitude, but the record is insufficient to establish any intent on her part to punish anyone. In such regard, as found above, the evidence fails to show that any poor attitude evidenced in her emails was reflected or otherwise made manifest in any conduct by Respondent toward her students, her coworkers, her administrators or the parents of children in the District. As for the nature and gravity of the Respondent's offenses under all of the circumstances, I find they are significantly mitigated by the fact herein found that Respondent intended the emails to be private and expected that they would remain so. The emails have been disseminated only to District Board members and administrators. Although both Superintendent Brower and Principal Tauchert have read the emails, both administrators exhibited a high degree of professionalism on the witness stand and both are aware of their own requirements to comply with Board policies governing their conduct to treat staff, including Respondent, appropriately in the future. I find there is no significant likelihood of harm or injury that Respondent's conduct may have on maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. Finally, I am persuaded that, considering the very significant disciplined of Respondent ordered herein, it is unlikely that Respondent will repeat her problematic behavior.

Although the District asserted that her lack of contrition upon being served with the April 8, 2019 Evaluative Memorandum is evidence of Respondent's lack of remorse, I find such is not the case. During her eighteen years of employment with the District, Respondent had never been disciplined and she had no prior warning that she was going to be suddenly subject to an Evaluative Memorandum, a notice of withholding of increment, a PIP and a notice of suspension. It is beyond reasonable expectations to assume that anyone in such circumstances would take everything in, analyze the claims made - some of them relating to events many years old - and simply accept her punishment and offer remorse. She was subjected to an unanticipated and significant event in her life and career and it is reasonable under the circumstance that she would follow the advice of her representative at the meeting and say nothing. Respondent has since expressed her remorse.

Applying the Fulcomer considerations, I find that termination is unwarranted in this matter.

2. Just Cause

The TEACHNJ Act incorporates the just cause standard wherein it provides that a school district shall not dismiss or reduce the compensation of a tenured teachers except for "inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming ...or other just cause," (emphasis added). An analysis of whether or not Respondent's discharge was for just cause under generally recognized standards requires consideration of all of the circumstances in determining whether the issuance of discipline was "fair." Some of the several factors often considered when applying the just cause standard include whether or not: (1) the rule or policy being enforced is reasonable; (2) there was prior notice to the employee of the rule and the consequences for its violation; (3) the disciplinary investigation was adequately and fairly conducted and the employee was afforded an appropriate level of due process under the circumstances; (4) the employer was justified in concluding that the employee engaged in the conduct as charged; (5) the rule has been consistently and fairly enforced and (6) whether or not the discipline issued was appropriate given the relative gravity of the offense, the employee's disciplinary record and considerations of progressive discipline and due process.

In the instant matter, I find the District failed to show that the Policies it relies upon were consistently and fairly enforced and that the discipline of discharge was appropriate given the relative gravity of the offense, Respondent's disciplinary record and considerations of progressive discipline and due process.

a. Consistent Application of the Rule

I am persuaded by the argument of Respondent that the District has applied a different standard of discipline to Respondent than it did to Delcalzo. Although it is true that some of Respondent's emails were derogatory, vile and unprofessional, some of Delcalzo's emails were – albeit in some instances to a lesser degree – derogatory, outrageous and unprofessional. But, importantly, Delcalzo's April 2019 discipline was not only for his unprofessional email comments and personal use of the District's network. Delcalzo was additionally disciplined for failing to attend professional development meetings, failing to attend extended staff meetings and inappropriate conduct toward a fellow staff member in front of a student. Yet, notwithstanding that he had a record of two prior disciplines and was found to have violated many and various District policies, Delcalzo was subject to discipline limited to an increment withholding and PIP. Delcalzo was not subject to tenure charges seeking termination.

The primary reason offered by the superintendent at the hearing for her different discipline-related treatment of Respondent and Delcalzo was the allegedly violent character of Respondent's emails; a violent character I have found was not communicated by Respondent's emails. Additionally, the superintendent further testified that had she discover only a single violation of FERPA by Respondent, she would have recommended tenure charges; a position at odds with the District's lesser discipline of Delcalzo who was also disciplined for violating FERPA. Relying upon the above considerations, I find that the District applied a different standard to Respondent than it did to Delcalzo.

b. The Corrective Nature of Progressive Discipline

In is widely recognized that in all but the most egregious cases, discipline in the employment context is primarily intended to be corrective in nature; discipline is an effort by an employer to correct questionable conduct or poor performance by employees. Under the just cause standard, discipline is not a means to punish an employee or gain retribution for an employee's conduct. Only when efforts to correct have failed through reasonable efforts under the circumstances, is discipline justly used to terminate the employment relationship. Consistent with the principle of progressive discipline, the District's own Policy 3321 relating to appropriate use of computers provides a list of progressively more sever discipline for violations of the Policy; a list that includes seven steps of discipline before discharge for violation of the Policy.

Necessary to any effort to correct conduct is the understanding that once the employee has received corrective discipline, the employee actually be given the opportunity to correct his or her conduct. It is fundamentally contrary to any concept of justice in the workplace for an employee to receive further discipline for conduct before the employee has had a fair opportunity to reform his or her conduct.

I find that Respondent's conduct was not of such an egregious character as to warrant immediate termination of the long tenured teacher. In her eighteen years of employment with the District, Respondent was never previously disciplined, her conduct the subject of her tenure charges was sporadic and her communications were intended to be private.

Nor has Respondent been given the opportunity to correct her conduct relating to her emails. Instead, I find that the District's decision to terminate Respondent was primarily punitive in character. In this regard, the evidence establishes that on the same day, within a matter of 20 minutes, the District's Superintendent; (1) issued Respondent first an Evaluative Memorandum that concluded by informing Respondent that the District would be considering withholding her 2019-2020 increment, (2) then served Respondent with a contemporaneous PIP and (3) then served Respondent with a contemporaneous suspension. In regard to these multiple levels of discipline, the superintendent testified that; (1) she never intended that Respondent have the opportunity to complete her PIP, and that (2) in addition to notifying the teacher that she was suspended and that the superintendent intended to seek the withholding of the teacher's increment, she was also keeping-her-options-open for further discipline by notifying Respondent that the matter was being forwarded to the Board for possible further action.

I find the superintendent's witness stand explanation for her multi-discipline approach – that she did so because she wanted to "follow progressive discipline," - confusing. There was nothing "progressive" about such a contemporaneous four-pronged discipline. I find the District's piling on of multiple levels of discipline on Respondent for the same conduct akin to "a death by a thousand cuts."

Respondent was given no opportunity to correct her conduct and I find insufficient evidence to support the District's claim that Respondent will not reform her conduct in the future. Respondent's record of good performance and expressed interest in continuing her position and reforming her conduct establishes just the contrary. The District's discipline of Respondent was punitive in nature rather than corrective and I find in such regard that the District failed to satisfy the standard of just cause.

c. Due Process / Double Jeopardy

The statement contained in the April 8, 2019 letter of suspension given Respondent - that notice of the suspension would be forwarded to the School Board for potential further action - was inconsistent with the notice already given Respondent that the discipline for her conduct would be a withholding of her increment. Not only is the statement inconsistent with the principles and corrective goals of progressive discipline, by later exposing Respondent to further discipline in her annual summative evaluation for conduct for which she was already disciplined amounts to double jeopardy. Respondent here received five different disciplines for the same conduct; an Evaluative Memorandum, a PIP, a suspension, a withholding of increments and the instant effort to terminate. I find the District's multiplicitous discipline of Respondent amounted to double jeopardy and was contrary to basic concepts of due process.

d. Appropriate Discipline

Having found that termination of Respondent is disproportionate to the conduct found, I nevertheless find that Respondent's conduct was serious and warrants a comparative level of discipline, while giving her an opportunity to correct her conduct. Considering the entire record in this matter, I consequently will order that Respondent be promptly reinstated, that Respondent's increment be withheld for the 2019-2020 school year, that Respondent be given adequate time and support to successfully complete her PIP, and that Respondent serve a suspension of time served, said suspension to include any period when she was suspended without pay of no more that 120 days.

Conclusion

The Tenure Charges are sustained in part and dismissed in part.

Award - IMO Tenure Charges of Rene Chakmakian
Agency Docket Case No. 238-9/19

The subject tenure charges against Respondent are sustained in part and dismissed in part.

The District is ordered to:

1. Promptly offer Respondent reinstatement to her former position;

2. Reduce Respondents termination to a suspension from the date of her suspension to the date of this Award, said suspension to include the period of suspension already served without pay of no more than 120 days;

3. Withhold Respondent's increments for the 2019-2020 school year; and

4. Provide Respondent adequate support and time to successfully complete her Professional Improvement Plan.

v.

New Jersey State Board of Examiners,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro-se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that she had not met the requirements for issuance of a Teacher of Computer Science Technology Certificate (CTE). The SBE filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of a response.

The ALJ found that: prior to the hearing date, a status conference was scheduled; during the conference, petitioner advised that after her review of new Department guidelines for issuance of the CTE, she was withdrawing her appeal. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that this matter is no longer a contested case and ordered the case dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the determination of the ALJ herein; accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Mindy Propseri, challenges respondent's denial of her application for issuance of a Teacher of Computer Science Technology Certificate. In lieu of an answer respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss on August 16, 2019. Shortly thereafter the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On September 6, 2019, the undersigned sent correspondence to petitioner requesting that she submit a response to respondent's motion by September 16, 2019. A telephone prehearing was conducted on September 17, 2019, wherein the parties agreed on a hearing date of November 15, 2019.

Prior to the hearing date, respondent's counsel requesting an adjournment to allow petitioner to review the new guidelines regarding the Computer Science Technology Certificate. The November hearing date was cancelled and a status conference was December 12, 2019. During the pendency of the conference, petitioner advised that she would be withdrawing her appeal. A letter was submitted from petitioner stating:

> "I am writing to request that we cancel the hearing about the above-referenced matter. I am pleased that the Department of Education released new guidelines regarding the CTE certificate I was previously denied." . . . .

INTRODUCTION

The Petitioner, Paterson Board of Education ("Board" or "District") brought tenure charges against Respondent, Blanca Godinez, an elementary physical education teacher, for unbecoming conduct, incompetency, failure to perform duties, and other just cause within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. In accordance with Public Law 2012, Ch. 26, known as "Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey Act" ("TEACHNJ")", once the Tenure Charges have been certified, the Commissioner of Education then determines if the Charges are sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary of the person charged and, if so, refers the case to an Arbitrator for further proceedings. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. Pursuant to such a referral in this case, the undersigned was designated as arbitrator to hear and decide this dispute.

THE SWORN TENURE CHARGES

1. Blanca C. Godinez ("Godinez" or "Respondent"), is employed by the Paterson Board of Education ("District" or "Petitioner") as a teacher holding tenure in that position.

2. During the 2018-19 school year, Godinez was assigned to work as a physical education teacher at two elementary schools, School Number 28 and Edward W. Kilpatrick School. Both schools house kindergarten through eighth (8^{th}) grade students.

3. As a Teacher in the District, Godinez's job functions and responsibilities include, but are not limited to: (1) "[d]isplay[ing] the highest ethical and professional behavior and standards when working with students . . . associated with the school[;]" (2) "[a]ssum[ing] responsibility for all students within the school, beyond those specifically assigned, [and] supervising in a fair and constructive manner to ensure the safety and well-being of all students[;]" (3) "[e]nsuring the safety and health of all students, notifying the administration of any unsafe conditions, following established procedures[;]" (4) "[s]erv[ing] as a role model for students[;]" and (5) "[a]dher[ing] to New Jersey school law, State Board of Education rules and regulations, Board of Education policies and regulations, school regulations and procedures, and contractual obligations."

SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES

CHARGE I

UNBECOMING CONDUCT AND/OR OTHER JUST CAUSE, INCLUDING WITHOUT LIMITATION INAPPROPRIATE USE OF PHYSICAL FORCE AND PHYSICAL CONTACT WITH A STUDENT, IMPROPER CORPORAL PUNISHMENT, INAPPROPRIATE LANGUAGE, PUTTING STUDENTS AT RISK OF HARM, AND VIOLATION OF RELATED STATE LAW AND BOARD POLICIES/REGULATIONS INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 AND BOARD POLICIES/REGULATIONS 3150, 3217, 3280, AND 3281.

4. All of the foregoing facts and allegations are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein.

5. On or about Wednesday, February 20, 2019, Godinez was teaching a third-grade physical education class at School No. 28 during 7th period. A substitute teacher and an aide were also in the gym during this class. When the class was ending and students were lining up to leave, at approximately 12:20 p.m., Respondent got into an altercation with J.W., a male special education student in the class. The altercation occurred in the presence of the remaining students in the class, all of whom witnessed the incident.

6. The video of the incident shows Godinez lying down on top of the student with her back facing the floor and the student on his stomach. Godinez had her arms on the child's legs and head area. The video further shows Godinez rolling on the floor to stay on top of the young man. Godinez was on top of the student for approximately one to two minutes.

7. The student was crying and yelling "you hurt me." In response, Godinez yelled "I did not touch you." She then asked the student to show her a red mark or a scratch.

8. The student continued to cry while on line and until he got to his next class.

9. Godinez had previously told the substitute teacher that when students are fighting or misbehaving, she tells them that if they do not stop, she will lay on them or tackle them. If the students continue, she lays on them.

WHEREFORE, the foregoing unbecoming conduct and other just cause warrant Respondent's dismissal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

CHARGE II

INCOMPETENCY, FAILURE TO PERFORM DUTIES, UNBECOMING CONDUCT AND OTHER JUST CAUSE INCLUDING, WITHOUT LMITATION, FAILING TO INTERVENE IN A STUDENT FIGHT,THUS PUTTING STUDENTS AT RISK OF HARM AND VIOLATION OF RELATED STATE LAW AND BOARD POLICIES/REGULATIONS INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 AND BOARD POLICIES/REGULATIONS 3150, 3217, 3280, AND 3281.

10. All of the foregoing facts and allegations are incorporated by reference as if fully set forth herein.

11. On or about Monday, February 25, 2019, a fight among two (2) male third-grade students occurred in the gym locker room at the Edward W. Kilpatrick School in Godinez's presence.

12. Reports were filed and the students were suspended.

13. Godinez failed and refused to intercede and/or attempt to break up the fight.

14. When Godinez was spoken to by Derrick Hoff, the principal of the Edward W. Kilpatrick School, she asserted that she was approximately five (5) feet from the altercation and that she was yelling at the students. She further stated that she did not attempt to intervene due to spinal issues that prevent her from breaking up a fight.

15. Godinez further asserted her belief that breaking up fights is not a teacher's responsibility.

WHEREFORE, the foregoing unbecoming conduct and other just cause warrant Respondent's dismissal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

THE ARBITRATION HEARING

A hearing was held at the Paterson Board of Education's Office on December 3, 2019, December 12, 2019, and December 13, 2019. The following witnesses appeared and gave testimony:

Board Witnesses

Nicholas Vanderlofske

Mr. Vanderlofske is employed as an elementary physical education teacher at Paterson School No. 28. This is his second year at School No. 28 and only his second year as a teacher. As of February 20, 2019, he had only been employed at School No. 28 for a few weeks. Mr. Vanderlofske testified to the February 20, 2019 incident (Tenure Charge I).

Nancy Castro

Principal Castro is the principal of School No. 28, a pre-K to 8th grade school. This is her eighth year as a principal, all at School No. 28. Principal Castro is tenured in the position. Since 1992, she has been employed by the Paterson School District in various capacities, including principal, vice principal and substance awareness coordinator. Principal Castro testified as to her involvement in the February 20, 2019 incident (Tenure Charge I).

Joaquin Perez

Mr. Perez is employed as a District Security Supervisor. He has been employed in Paterson for twenty-four (24) years and he has been in the role of supervisor for three years. Mr. Perez testified that he is in charge of the surveillance for the District. In that role, he is responsible for all of the video cameras throughout the district, including those in the gym at School No. 28. Mr. Perez produced a video recording capturing most of the February 20, 2019 incident (Tenure Charge I).

Anita Fulmore

Ms. Fulmore has been teaching in Paterson for twenty (20) years. She is a special education resource teacher at Edward W. Kilpatrick ("EWK") School. She services students from kindergarten through third grade through both in-class support and pullout support. She is also the HIB ("harassment, intimidation and bullying") specialist for the building. Ms. Fulmore testified as to the February 25, 2019 incident (Tenure Charge II).

Derrick Hoff

Principal Hoff is the principal of EWK Elementary School. He has served as principal of EWK since 2009/2010. He is tenured as a principal. He was first hired by the District in 2011. Principal Hoff testified regarding the February 25, 2019 incident (Tenure Charge II).

Luis Rojas

Mr. Rojas is the Assistant Superintendent for Human Resources, Labor Relations and Affirmative Action for the Paterson School District. Assistant Superintendent Rojas has been employed in Paterson since 2005. He has been in his current role as Assistant Superintendent since the fall of 2017. Assistant Superintendent Rojas testified to his investigation and other input regarding both the February 20 and 25, 2019 incidents (Tenure Charges I and II).

Respondent Witness

Blanca Godinez

Ms. Godinez is the Respondent in this matter. She is a physical education teacher in the Paterson School District. She has been employed in Paterson since 1999. She was assigned to teach fifty percent (50%) of her time at School No. 28 and fifty percent (50%) of her time at EWK School. She worked every other day at each school. Ms. Godinez testified as to both incidents and her overall employment record.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES IN DISPUTE

Has the Paterson Board of Education established, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that it has reason to terminate Blanca Godinez's employment pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10? If not, what, if anything, shall be the remedy?

SUMMARY OF THE PARTIES' POSITIONS

The Position of the Board

The Paterson School District has proven that they have good reason and/or "just cause" to terminate Blanca Godinez's employment in the District. As the Arbitrator knows, a "just cause analysis" for purposes of determining whether an employee should be terminated from his/her employment has two components: is the employee "guilty as charged" of the charges instituted against the employee by the employer, and, if so, is termination the appropriate remedy for the employee's actions? In this case, the answer to both questions is a resounding yes, and the Arbitrator must terminate Blanca Godinez's employment in the Paterson School District.

Tenure Charge I. The February 20, 2019 Incident Involving Student J.W.

In terms of whether Ms. Godinez is guilty as charged with regard to the February 20, 2019 incident in the gym at School No. 28, the video evidence is more than persuasive. Regardless of the excuses and finger pointing offered by Ms. Godinez, the fact remains that she was rolling around on the floor on top of a slightly built second grade special education boy for approximately two minutes. She continued to restrain and stay on top of the boy despite the young boy struggling to get out from under her and despite the young boy repeatedly saying she was hurting him. She can be seen at one point laying back side down on top of the boy, who was in a prone position, with her legs crossed as if she was relaxing on the beach. Her full weight appears to be on the young boy at that point, as well as at other points during the incident. Given her size, which is admittedly at least three times that of the young boy, she is lucky she did not seriously injure him. The video evidence is indisputable.

Quite frankly, absent any additional evidence or testimony, there can be no question that Ms. Godinez is guilty as charged with regard to Count I of the Tenure Charges. There is no universe where her conduct could possibly be deemed appropriate. As an experienced educator, Principal Castro testified that she has never seen anything like this during her lengthy career. She testified "honestly, I've dealt with every disability for special ed. including behavior disability and I've never witnessed an incident like this before. Assistant Superintendent Rojas also testified that in his years of experience, he has never seen a teacher engaging in such egregious conduct. Thus, two seasoned and experienced educators with over thirty years of experience both found this conduct beyond egregious and something they had never before seen.

On cross-examination, counsel for Ms. Godinez attempted to place blame on Mr. Vanderlofske and/or Ms. Thomas for failing to intercede. However, regardless of the actions or inaction of Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas, the fact remains that Ms. Godinez was rolling round on the floor on top of the young, slightly built special education boy for approximately two minutes. There is no justification for her launching herself on top of the boy in the first place and there is certainly no reason why she remained on top of him for such a lengthy period. Similarly, Ms. Godinez's attempts to justify her actions by alleging that J.W. was swinging his backpack, that he threw his backpack and/or that he threw something else are unpersuasive. As both Assistant Superintendent Rojas and Principal Castro testified, there are no circumstances that would justify Ms. Godinez's actions as depicted in the video.

Ms. Godinez also faulted the District for not providing adequate training. Again, regardless of training, Ms. Godinez's actions were egregious and inappropriate. No training should be necessary to know that it is inappropriate for a teacher to throw herself on top of young slightly built special education second grader.

Finally, while it is the District's position that the video evidence, alone, is sufficient to find Ms. Godinez guilty of conduct unbecoming a public employee, her conduct clearly violated several State statutes, District job descriptions, policies and regulations and her removal is consistent with existing case law (citations omitted). Accordingly, the District asks the Arbitrator to sustain the allegations of Tenure Charge I.

Tenure Charge II. The February 25, 2019 Incident at EWK

It is the District's contention that they have proven that Ms. Godinez failed and refused to intervene in a fight in the gym at EWK School on February 25, 2019, less than a week after she is seen on a video rolling around on top of a young student at School No. 28. A preponderance of the credible evidence demonstrates that Ms. Godinez failed to intervene in a fight between two third-grade boys on February 25, 2019. Despite her assertion that she was yelling at the students to stop and that she was not seated in a chair when teachers Dana LeGarde and Anita Fulmore entered the gym, it is respectfully submitted that her testimony is wholly lacking in credibility. The fact that Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde had to enter the gym to break up the fight in the first place discredits Ms. Godinez's testimony that the fight lasted only a couple of seconds. While common sense would dictate that a teacher is responsible to intercede when students are engaged in a fight, multiple district policies, regulations and job descriptions explicitly require a teacher to intervene to stop or break up a fight among students.

As Assistant Superintendent testified, the following policies/regulations were violated by Ms. Godinez when she failed to intercede in the fight at EWK: Policy and Regulation 3280, B-3 and B-17 in evidence; Policy and Regulation 3281, B-4 and B-5 in evidence; and, Policy 3217, B-2 in evidence. District Policy 3217, Corporal Punishment, B-2 in evidence, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> . . . .
>
> - Permits pupils to harm one another by fighting . . .
> Will be subject to discipline by this Board and may be dismissed. (Emphasis provided).

Similarly, District Regulation R3280, Liability for Pupil Welfare, B-17 in evidence, provides in pertinent part that "Teaching staff members are responsible for preventing and stopping pupil fights and assaults, whatever the cause or intent; if necessary, responsible assistance must be quickly summoned." (Emphasis provided).

Aside from the documentary evidence, both Principal Derrick Hoff and Assistant Superintendent Luis Rojas testified that it is a teacher's responsibility to break up or intercede in student altercations. When asked if based on his education and 20 years of experience, a teacher is responsible to intercede if students are fighting, Principal Hoff responded "absolutely." He testified that:

> There are a number of things that they can do. They can call for security. They can physically intervene and try to restrain the students. They also can summon another teacher who's in the gym to help them break up a fight.

He went on to note that he was concerned with Ms. Godinez's failure to intercede,

> Well, when you're talking about children fighting and you're talking about children's welfare, when you have an alteration, something – I mean building protocol calls for, you know, either intervene, call security, somehow some way – what we didn't want was a situation where based on what the kids described and the staff member described that the kids were in a circle observing this fight. Someone could have got very seriously hurt.

Similarly, Assistant Superintendent Rojas testified that he was absolutely concerned about the incident at EWK School on February 25, 2019:

> Because it's the responsibility of all adults no matter who you are, whether it's me all the way down to the cafeteria, if I'm in a building and see two students or I see a group of students fighting, it is my duty and my responsibility as an adult in district, as an employee of the Paterson Public School District to intervene and break up the fight to the best of my abilities.

The fact that this incident occurred less than a week after the altercation at School No. 28 makes it all the more troubling. On February 20, 2019, Ms. Godinez had no difficulty launching herself on top of a young special education second grader and rolling around on the floor on top of him for two minutes, purportedly because he posed a threat. Five days later, she asserts that it is not her responsibility and she is not capable of interceding to break up a fight between two third-grade boys. The incongruity of these two situations raises serious concerns about Ms. Godinez's ability to deal with difficult situations, not to mention her judgment.

For all of the foregoing reasons, the District maintains that it has proven that Ms. Godinez is guilty of the allegations set forth under Tenure Charge II.

The Appropriateness of the Removal Penalty

The District notes that whether or not termination is appropriate must be decided on the facts and circumstances of each case. Factors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the teacher's prior record, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among students and staff and the likelihood of such behavior recurring. Arbitrators widely apply the following standard of review when asked to judge the appropriateness of a disciplinary penalty: If a preponderance of the evidence supports the disciplinary allegations, an employer must also show that the penalty imposed is just in light of factors, such as: [1] the gravity of the offense; [2] the employee's overall record and length of service; [3] the provision of proper notice of rules and penalties; [4] an employer's adherence to progressive discipline, if applicable; [5] whether there has been lax enforcement of rules; and [6] whether the employer's actions or failure to act contributed to the disciplinary offense(s). Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 5th Edition, pages 930, et. seq.

Applying the criteria to the current case must result in Ms. Godinez's termination. The first criteria, the gravity of the offense, is particularly relevant here. The egregious nature of Ms. Godinez's conduct on February 20, 2019 cannot be understated. It is difficult to comprehend any teaching professional acting in such a manner. In fact, two experienced and seasoned educators, Principal Castro and Assistant Superintendent Rojas, both testified that they were beyond appalled by her actions and that they had never encountered anything at all like this over the course of their lengthy careers. Ms. Godinez's failure to take responsibility for her actions, instead trying to place the blame on her colleagues, as well as her lack of remorse for her actions, only serves to underscore the fact that she is not fit to continue teaching. The discrepancies in her testimony were frequent and significant, casting serious doubt on her overall credibility.

Compounding matters, Ms. Godinez's failure to take any action to quell a fight between two of her students on February 25, 2019 was also an egregious act of misconduct. Similar to the February 20, 2019 incident, Ms. Godinez, this time through inaction, created a similar risk of harm to her students.

With regard to the remaining factors, the District does not dispute that Ms. Godinez's overall record of observations is good; however, it should be pointed out that she did have three prior increment withholdings based on attendance.

Applying factor 3, even absent any policies or regulations, common sense should dictate that the type of conduct exhibited by Ms. Godinez on February 20 and 25, 2019 here is inappropriate and unprofessional. Nonetheless, in this case, there are relevant and applicable policies and regulations, as well as State law which Ms. Godinez violated. Similarly, there is no question that Ms. Godinez was aware of the District's policies and regulations. In fact, she acknowledged on both direct and cross-examination that it was and is her responsibility to be familiar with and to abide any such policies and regulations.

Applying factor 4, it is the District's contention that given the egregious nature of Ms. Godinez's collective actions and inactions, progressive discipline is not necessary. Board Policy 3217, Use of Corporal Punishment, B-2 in evidence, explicitly provides that a teacher who "uses force or fear to discipline a pupil" and/or "touches a pupil in an offensive way even though no physical harm is intended" "may be dismissed." B-2. The policy clearly contemplates dismissal without regard to progressive discipline in a case involving corporal punishment. Regulation 3280 prohibits a teaching staff member from allowing students to fight without interceding. Ms. Godinez violated these important policies on both February 20 and 25, 2019 thereby justifying the District's removal action.

As to factors 5 and 6, there has been no lax enforcement of the rules. Despite Ms. Godinez's belated attempt to attribute her actions to a lack of training, the District's actions in no way contributed to the conduct at issue. One should not need training to know that it is inappropriate and gross misconduct to launch oneself on top of a second-grade boy with special needs or to sit idly by while two students are fighting.

Ms. Godinez's February 20, 2019 conduct at School No. 28 was harmful not only to J.W., the student she launched herself on top of, but to the remaining students in that class, all of whom had to witness the altercation. These are young special needs students. As such, they are particularly vulnerable. No student should have to be subjected to such conduct by a teacher and no student should have to witness his or her friends being subject to such conduct. It would be difficult for any of those students to have any respect for Ms. Godinez after witnessing that altercation. In fact, they would likely be afraid of her. A similar concern exists with respect to the February 25, 2019 incident whereby Ms. Godinez inexplicably allowed two of her students to fight.

Finally, Ms. Godinez's actions in both instances were harmful to the reputation of the Paterson School District as well as to the morale of the remaining staff.

The District concludes: "Given the seriousness of the behavior, however, and the very real risk of injury to a student, as well as the risk of ridicule and embarrassment for the Paterson School District and its employees, there is simply no other sanction that can be imposed in this matter other than termination."

The Position of Blanca Godinez

Tenure Charge I. The February 20, 2019 Incident Involving Student J.W.

A teacher may not inflict corporal punishment on a student. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1. However, a teacher may use such force as is reasonably necessary (1) to quell a disturbance, threatening physical injury to others; (2) to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within control of a pupil; (3) for the purpose of self-defense; and (4) for the protection of persons or property. Similarly, Policy 3217, Use of Corporal Punishment, states that a teacher who uses force in violation of the policy will be subject to discipline and may be dismissed, "except as such force or fear may be necessary to quell a disturbance threatening physical injury to others . . ." [emphasis supplied].

In this case, Ms. Godinez is a long-term, 23-year employee with years of positive evaluations and discipline only for attendance. She testified that on February 20, 2019, she observed J.W.'s erratic behavior. He was screaming and yelling and proceeded to flip up a ride-on tiny tyke car and throw it at a group of toddlers. She told him no, and he screamed and yelled and ran out of the doors. Upon exiting the locker room/storage area, Ms. Godinez saw a boy up against the bleachers screaming as J.W. was pushing and beating him with the backpack.

In the seconds that it took Ms. Godinez to approach, J.W. saw her, turned, screamed and flung the book bag at the bleachers, right past the face of the classroom aide seated and in the direction of other children. At that point, Ms. Godinez was afraid that one of the children was going to be knocked in between the benches and snap their necks, so when J.W. flung the book bag, she took him by the wrist. He took two big steps away from her, flung himself on the ground and took her down to the ground with him.

Despite the emphasis on cross-examination on the skip of the tape prior to Ms. Godinez on the ground with J.W., Ms. Godinez stated that it was a matter of seconds. She intimated that a lot had occurred, not in the sense of time – but rather a lot happened that she witnessed in those seconds.

On the ground, Ms. Godinez did not want him to get up and throw anything else and his behavior was escalating, so she turned and took hold of his lower body and his upper body on the ground. She reacted immediately to prevent any other danger to the students. When challenged about how she got to the floor, Ms. Godinez clarified that J.W. pulled me down with him. She further explained that what the report says about being on floor with back toward him described her position, not the act of getting to the floor. She reiterated that she "fell and then sat with her back towards him." Not one witness could identify any evidence to contradict Ms. Godinez's account of how she ended up on the floor.

These facts demonstrate that Ms. Godinez's behavior does not constitute corporal punishment. She acted in a manner necessary to quell a disturbance threatening physical injury to others in accordance with the policies. Corroborating the intention of Ms. Godinez's conduct is Ms. Thomas's statement. She observed Ms. Godinez "trying to restrain J.W. to hopefully calm him down" because "Ms. Godinez noticed how J.W. was acting and quickly tried to restrain him to avoid any other student to be potentially hurt." It was admitted by Principal Castro that she has no information to contradict Ms. Thomas' statement. Arguably the length of time Ms. Godinez restrained J.W. was too long, however, had the other teachers in the room intervened, it would not have been.

While on the ground, Ms. Godinez tried to hold her body in a way so that her weight was not resting on him. She did admit that there were times her weight may have been on him, but she did not intentionally or purposely rest her weight on him and made efforts to move around to redistribute her weight as he was moving on the ground.

When Principal Castro was asked what Ms. Godinez could have done differently, she stated that Ms. Godinez should have reached out to another adult or got security, or got an administrator. Ms. Godinez reacted immediately to an escalating dangerous situation. Was it the fault of Ms. Godinez that the two other adults kept their head down and did not come to her aid? Rather, Mr. Vanderlofske stared at his watch for the entirety of the incident, never actually moving from his spot against the wall. His and Ms. Thomas' inaction allowed the incident to continue.

Moreover, when shown Policy 3217 during her testimony, Principal Castro stated that physical restraint is appropriate only in an "emergency," but that she did not qualify the February 20 event as an emergency. The language of the policy, however, does not use the word emergency. Rather, force is appropriate in a threat of physical injury to others. With respect to Principal Castro's testimony, generally, she was often evasive and unresponsive. In response to the question of "so your opinion is that if a teacher sees a fight and they yell stop or don't do that, that's appropriate, correct?" Principal Castro did not respond. Rather, she claimed that this was not a fight, that a child swinging a throwing a backpack at a group of students was not a fight. However, she finally admitted that a child could be injured being hit with a backpack, that it is not okay for kids to throw backpacks at each other, and that if a child was hit with a backpack and fell through the bleachers they could be injured. Nonetheless, her evasiveness, failure to concede that the policy does actually provide for instances where restraint or force is appropriate, and her overall failures relative to the investigation including not speaking with Ms. Godinez or Ms. Thomas demonstrate her lack of credibility.

The testimony of all witnesses is clear that Ms. Godinez never intended to inflict any harm on J.W. Ms. Godinez testified multiple times that she had absolutely no intent to injure J.W. In answering the question as to whether the conduct rises to the level of corporal punishment or what is the appropriate penalty, corporal punishment cases look to the intent of the teacher. And, unlike many of the cases which involve unjustified physical responses from teachers, here, the evidence shows that a response to the situation with J.W. was required and justified. At worst, this is a case of a "mistaken and misguided notion that restraint was called for." There is no evidence presented that the actions of Ms. Godinez constitute unbecoming conduct.

Rather, the actions of Ms. Godinez demonstrate a lack of training. Ms. Godinez has no prior instances of improper contact with a child in approximately twenty years. Ms. Godinez had returned to her teaching position for several days prior to being suspended, so there does not exist any issue with her being in the classroom or around children. Thus, neither Ms. Godinez's actions nor her reinstatement has any tendency to destroy public respect for government employees' confidence in the operation of public services. Accordingly, Ms. Godinez should be returned to her position of employment and provided with necessary training.

Tenure Charge II. The February 25, 2019 Incident at EWK

Principal Hoff admitted that Ms. Godinez said she did intervene in the fight – she yelled, which constitutes a verbal intervention. He agreed that one of the appropriate methods to stop a fight would be to yell. Surprisingly, when asked whether the policy requires that a teacher has to get "physically involved," Principal Hoff could not even recall what the policy said, though he apparently expects his teachers to know. He then said he believed that a physical response was implied. It was asked, "so your position is that teachers are required to physically intervene in fights, not call security, not tell them to stop fighting; is that correct" – to which he answered "when children are at risk, teachers have a responsibility to intervene." However, he admitted that he was not aware whether the fight was serious or whether there were injuries. In fact, he stated he was not aware of the details of the fight at all. Therefore, it is obvious that Principal Hoff does not believe that teachers have to physically intervene in every student altercation. And he clearly did not have enough information to know one way or the other if physical intervention in this particular fight was required on February 25, 2019.

Principal Hoff further acknowledged that nowhere in the job description of a physical education teacher does it say that you have to have the strength to break up a fight. He admitted that Ms. Godinez told him that she did intervene by yelling. He admitted that Ms. Godinez did not say, nor imply, that she did not have a responsibility to intervene, but rather was referring to physically intervening a fight; and that getting physically involved was not in her job description, which he conceded the job description does not state. In fact, Principal Hoff conceded on numerous occasions that even though he wrote that she refused to intervene in fights between students, he meant that it was that Ms. Godinez may not physically intervene. The testimony concedes that she did intervene in some fashion on February 25.

Ms. Fulmore's testimony about maybe seeing Ms. Godinez sitting or that she was not able to recall if Ms. Godinez was standing (whichever may be the truth) does not contradict Ms. Godinez's account that she verbally intervened. As the record demonstrates, Ms. Godinez did intervene. Ms. Godinez observed the boys in a "scuffle." She was seated about five feet away from the boys when the fight started and Ms. Grundman was about ten to twelve feet away from the boys, both about the take attendance. Ms. Godinez got up, went to where the boys were, stood there and yelled at them to stop. In a matter of seconds, two other teachers, Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde came in from outside of the gym, and the boys stopped without physical intervention.

Ms. Godinez credibly explained that she did not feel that a physical intervention was warranted. She explained that in her opinion, it warranted no more than a verbal intervention as the fight had not escalated to a point where there was a danger in that room for any child. Moreover, the entirety of the fight lasted only a few seconds before it was easily ended by the presence of multiple teachers. With regard to the actions of the boys, Ms. Godinez did not observe the boys make real contact, they swung at each other but there was no punch. Ms. Godinez acknowledges, however, that she did tell Principal Hoff that she did not think she should take punches as "that situation didn't merit it."

Ms. Fulmore testified that she walked into the gym, said "what are you guys doing" and they all separated. Ms. Fulmore believes that when the boys saw her coming, they stopped fighting as she serves as a disciplinarian in the building. She said that no physical intervention was required to stop the fight, they easily separated. But she did recall that she put her hand on one of the boys fighting and Ms. LeGarde put her hand on the other and walked them to the office. To emphasize, it was not a physical intervention that was required to, or that did, end the fight. With three adults standing around the two boys, they stopped. Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde and Ms. Godinez screamed at the students to stop. Right away, they stopped. No physical intervention ever occurred to break up the fight. Furthermore, nothing from Ms. Fulmore's testimony indicates that Ms. Godinez did not yell at the boys to stop. Verbal responses are considered interventions and the report prepared on the incident does not contradict that. The Report prepared indicates that "the fight broke up only when three teachers intervened, A.F., D.L. and B.G.

Whether the report submitted was in fact authored by her or not is not significant. Ms. Godinez agreed with the report's description of the incident. She does not recall submitting the report. Moreover, Ms. Grundman had told her that she could access Ms. Godinez's login to the system. Ms. Godinez believes that Ms. Grundman filled out the report. However, no one ever spoke to Ms. Grundman. In fact, the administrators did not even know that Ms. Grundman was in the room. That fact should so emphasize the inadequacy of the investigation – and thus, inadequacy of the tenure charges. And despite no mention of Ms. Grundman in the report, no witness testimony that Ms. Grundman did anything to intervene at all, when it was learned that she was in the room, she was never disciplined for failing to intervene.

For these reasons, Ms. Godinez submits that Tenure Charge II should be dismissed.

The Board's Decision-Making Process is Internally Inconsistent

The Board's position is inconsistent and they are singling out Ms. Godinez yet failing to discipline others involved in these matters. The Board's positions do not make sense and are inconsistent with the very policies it claims apply to this case. It is:

1. Admitted that physical intervention is appropriate if a child is beating another with a backpack and then throws a backpack at a group of children on the bleachers, but that Ms. Godinez's restraint to calm J.W. constitutes corporal punishment even though she was not disciplining him, had no intent to injure him, and he was not injured.

2. Claimed that Ms. Godinez's presence on the ground for one to two minutes with J.W. was too long, however, had Mr. Vanderlofske or Ms. Thomas not failed to intervene, it would not have been.

3. Admitted that Ms. Godinez intervened in the February 25 incident, but her level of physical response was too little and she should have physically broken the boys apart from each other – even though that ended up not being necessary.

4. Claimed that Ms. Godinez said she outright refuses to physically get involved in a situation between students due to her back problem, when she had restrained J.W. a few days prior to prevent serious injury because that situation, not the February 25 incident, warranted.

5. Implied that Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas were excused in not intervening or assisting Ms. Godinez and J.W. since Ms. Godinez did not ask call out for help – though they have no proof that she didn't.

6. Asserted that it is justified that Mr. Vanderlofske was not disciplined because he had no training – but it is not justified that Ms. Godinez had no training.

7. Argued that the other teacher in the room on February 25 did not fail to intervene because "she was taking attendance."

None of these positions make sense. The conduct attributed to Ms. Godinez does not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct, corporal punishment or any violation of policy. Moreover, the lack of uniformity in how the Board has determined culpability of Ms. Godinez as compared to her peers that were also involved in these two incidents undermines the validity of the tenure charges. Thus, the charges should be dismissed.

The Board's Failure to Train Employees in the Use of Physical Restraints Must be Considered

Not one administrator could identify any training that was given to its employees on the policies it claims were violated by Ms. Godinez. Specifically, Principal Hoff could not identify any specific training provided to Ms. Godinez and stated that he was not aware if she was ever trained with regard to how to break up a fight. Assistant Superintendent Rojas testified that there are absolutely no records of any training – that the department of professional development was dismantled due to budget cuts. Therefore, there is no documentation of any training given to Ms. Godinez in her twenty years of teaching.

Moreover, Ms. Godinez testified that she was not given training relevant to these incidents: "I don't have the training I see now that would have helped with this situation with that child." Ms. Godinez testified that she had never received any training from the Board of Education with regard to proper way to restrain a student, had never received training from the principals, nor was she ever sent to any instructional training on restraining a student. Most shocking is the fact that Mr. Vanderlofske testified that he has not ever received any training by the district before or following the February 20, 2019 incident. The very reason stated by the administrators as to why Mr. Vanderlofske was not disciplined in this case is because he may not have known what to do. He apparently still does not. But we do know that had he intervened, this event would not have gone on so long.

Because the Board cannot prove that Ms. Godinez had the proper training on the Policies alleged to have been violated, the tenure charges must be dismissed.

The District Violated the Same Policies Alleged to Have Been Violated By Ms. Godinez

Policy 3281 was admittedly violated by the School District. The violation by the District to do a proper investigation as required by the law not only presents itself as a clear violation of the law, but also affects Ms. Godinez's rights. Policy 3281 requires a full and impartial investigation. It is evident that the investigation in this matter was cursory, partial and incomplete. Assistant Superintendent Rojas admits that security was not involved in any investigations. And though he claims to have been designated to conduct an investigation per this Policy, he admits to not interviewing all witnesses, not preparing an independent report, never speaking to witnesses who could – or actually do – provide corroboration of Ms. Godinez's account of what happened, and did not even know that there was another teacher in the room on February 25 who witnessed the entirety of the event along with Ms. Godinez. Moreover, Mr. Vanderlofske was not disciplined for failing to intervene, Ms. Thomas was not disciplined for failing to intervene and Ms. Grundman was not disciplined for failing to intervene.

Policy R-3281, Exhibit B-5, states "the Director of Security will begin a prompt and thorough investigation of every report." Assistant Superintendent Rojas testified that security was not involved in the investigation and that no witness statements were taken by security. On page six of the policy, it says that "the Director of Security or designee will begin a prompt thorough and impartial investigation." Page 8 of the Policy continues that "the Director of Security or designee finding that an inappropriate staff conflict may have occurred after the preliminary investigation, requires a full investigation," "A full investigation will include, but not limited to interviews with the staff members."

Assistant Superintendent Rojas acknowledged the requirements of these policies in his testimony. However, he denied that he had a responsibility to conduct interviews but instead just gathered the others' information. Assistant Superintendent Rojas failed to conduct interviews in accordance with the policy.

The Policy further states on page six that "upon the conclusion of the interviews and review of information, testimony, evidence, the Director of Security or designee will prepare a written report to the Superintendent of Schools. The following is his testimony.

> Q. Did you write a written report about your investigation of both incidents to the Superintendent of Schools.
> A. No..."
>
> Q. All right, so this would be a violation of the policy, correct?
> A. I don't know that it's a violation. I think its de minimus, but okay.

The very person appointed to ensure that an adequate and impartial investigation was conducted, and who failed to conduct that investigation, justified his admitted violation and failure by stating that it was de minimus. The District's violation of this policy is not de minimus. Its' violation led to tenure charges which seek the removal of Ms. Godinez's employment and impacts Ms. Godinez future.

The District's violation has tainted the investigation and the process through which the instant tenure charges have issued. For that reason, the tenure charges must be dismissed.

In the Alternative, the Penalty Should Be Reduced Substantially

Whether an incident is sufficient to warrant removal requires application of the following factors: whether the teacher's acts were premeditated, cruel or vicious, or done with intent to punish or to inflict corporal punishment, the nature and gravity of the offenses under all of the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, the teaching record and ability, the disciplinary record, and any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system (citations omitted).

The evidence in this case shows that there was no premeditation or prior animus between Ms. Godinez and J.W. While the allegation is that Ms. Godinez's actions may have gone too far, there is no charge that she acted in a cruel or vicious manner. Further, as set forth above, the testimony was consistent that Ms. Godinez did not act with the intent to punish or to inflict corporal punishment.

There has been no proffer that the return of Ms. Godinez to her teaching position would have any negative impact on the maintenance of discipline or proper administration of the school. In fact, Ms. Godinez had returned to work after the February 20, 2019 incident and taught her classes for several days without issue.

Further mitigating circumstances are evident in Ms. Godinez's disciplinary history. In her many years of teaching, the only discipline consists of increment withholdings which solely resulted from attendance issues related to her recovery for injuries she suffered at work. Those injuries resulted in contested workers compensation cases which were ultimately resolved by way of monetary settlement to Ms. Godinez.

Ms. Godinez's teaching evaluations are nothing but positive with absolutely no reports that Ms. Godinez had ever acted in an inappropriate, improper or in a harsh manner to students in her twenty years of teaching.

In light of the foregoing, Ms. Godinez submits that the Board has failed to prove the tenure charges and, therefore, the tenure charges must be dismissed. In the alternative, should there be a finding against Ms. Godinez, she respectfully requests that only a minimal penalty be imposed.

SYNOPSIS OF FACTS

1. During the 2018/2019 school year, Blanca Godinez was employed as an elementary physical education teacher assigned to work fifty percent (50%) of her time at School No. 28 and fifty percent (50%) at EWK.

2. In February 2019, Nicholas Vanderlofske was a permanent physical education substitute assigned to School No. 28. He was hired in late January 2019.

3. School No. 28 serves approximately 450-500 students divided by a gifted and talented program (grades 2-8); a pre-K to K program for local residents; and a special education program for grades K-2.

4. On or about February 20, 2019, it is alleged that Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Godinez were teaching two groups of K-2 special education students in the gym at School No. 28. Combined, the two groups totaled anywhere from 25-30 students. Ms. Godinez was responsible for her class of Kindergarten students who started gym class before Mr. Vanderlofske arrived with his first and second graders. Mr. Vanderlofske testified that he and Beverly Thomas (paraprofessional) were responsible for his students, including J.W. February 20, 2019 was a half day in Paterson. The class at issue was the last period of the day prior to dismissal, so the children had their coats and backpacks with them.

5. The incident in question began with Ms. Godinez's concern about J.W.'s alleged aggression toward other students. First, it appears that J.W. pushed a Little Tykes car into the equipment/locker room where other students were potentially in harm's way. Ms. Godinez allegedly admonished him inside the room. Second, after almost one minute of no acting out by J.W., a different student swings his backpack at J.W., hitting him in the back and causing him to fall down on top of a bleacher bench. Ms. Godinez does not see this happen. Instead, Ms. Godinez only observes J.W. tossing his backpack at the student who is trying to run away up the bleachers. The backpack does not come close to hitting any other student or staff member.

6. In response to observing J.W.'s second act of misbehavior, Ms. Godinez, employing a technique she previously shared with Mr. Vanderlofske, physically restrains J.W. for about two minutes by laying on top of him with her back facing his back, her knees bent and, at times, holding his leg with one hand and his shoulder/arm area with the other as he was laid out on the gym floor. The incident also extends to Ms. Godinez verbally addressing J.W. in animated fashion for almost one minute after the physical restraint had ended. The incident also involves several students who approached Ms. Godinez and J.W., one or two of them trying to help him and two ostensibly attempting to calm him afterward. Most of the incident, with one important gap (i.e., how Ms. Godinez ended up on the floor with J.W.) is captured by video surveillance, a DVD of which was played at the hearing and introduced in evidence as Exhibit B1.

7. Mr. Vanderlofske spent most of his time during the incident looking at his apple watch - trying to pair it with a speaker for the first time. He was not actively supervising or co-supervising the combined class immediately before or during the incident. Prior to the incident, he was not supervising his students as they gathered in the bleachers ahead of student dismissal. And, he did not intervene at all in the incident between Ms. Godinez and J.W. However, Mr. Vanderlofske did hear J.W. say his stomach hurt and observed J.W. crying.

8. Ms. Thomas did not testify at the arbitration hearing. She is observed on the video recording exercising control over her students who were seated in the bleachers awaiting student dismissal; however, she did not intervene in the incident between Ms. Godinez and J.W.

9. After the class ended, Mr. Vanderlofske spoke to his mentor, physical education teacher, Brian Olsen, regarding the incident he had witnessed. Mr. Olsen advised Mr. Vanderlofske that he should report what he observed to Principal Castro. Mr. Olsen and Ms. Godinez were not on good terms with one another at that time.

10. On February 21, 2019, Mr. Vanderlofske reported two incidents to Principal Castro: (1) that Ms. Godinez had emailed him a video clip of his performance (for reasons unclear) and (2) the February 20, 2019 incident involving Ms. Godinez and J.W. On the same date, Vanderlofske submitted to Principal Castro, by email, a brief description of his observations (Ex. B11).

11. Shortly after February 21, 2019, Vanderlofske met with Assistant Superintendent/HR Luis Rojas regarding the incident. Pursuant to Rojas' request, Vanderlofske submitted a handwritten incident report to him (Ex. B12). In both reports, Vanderlofske states that J.W. was crying and saying "you hurt me" to Ms. Godinez after Godinez got off of him. No one took J.W. to the nurse on February 20, 2019. Ms. Godinez did not report the February 20, 2019 incident involving J.W. to anyone.

12. In both Vanderlofske's report to Rojas and in his testimony, Vanderlofske states that Ms. Godinez – prior to February 20, 2019 – informed him that she will threaten to lay on students if they do not stop acting out and if they don't stop, she will lay on them. On cross-examination, Vanderlofske acknowledged that he never witnessed Ms. Godinez take any such action prior to February 20, 2019.

13. After meeting with Vanderlofske and hearing his depiction of the incident, Principal Castro requested the video from the gym during the time at issue. She was "mortified" by what she saw. Immediately after viewing the video, Castro took J.W. to the nurse; reported the incident to her supervisor, Assistant Superintendent Cicely Warren; called J.W.'s aunt, who is his guardian because his mother passed away; and, called Child Protective Services. No action was taken by the Institutional Abuse Unit of Child Protective Services.

14. Principal Castro had her assistant principal interview J.W. and another student, J.L., who is seen on the video trying to assist J.W. get out from under Ms. Godinez. Both statements were entered into evidence as Exhibit B13.

15. Pursuant to Principal Castro's request, Security Supervisor Joaquin Perez downloaded the February 20, 2019 video of the gym at School No. 28. He did not alter the video in any manner. The jumps in the video are attributed to a bandwidth issue at School No. 28. A critical frame is missed due to a fifteen-second skip, i.e.; the video does not capture how Ms. Godinez and J.W. ended up on the gym floor.

16. On February 25, 2019, at EWK School, Ms. Godinez was supervising her gym class and sharing the gym with Katherine Grundman, who was supervising her class. The EWK gym in question was described as the "small gym"; i.e., about the size of a dance studio. Both classes involved general education third-grade students.

17. Two staff members in the hallway heard a commotion inside the gym. Anita Fulmore also heard the commotion as she was standing by a nearby elevator. Ms. Fulmore and teacher Dana LeGarde, who also heard the commotion, entered the gym and found two young students engaged in an awkward fight (pushing or wrestling and throwing errant punches). Many students were gathered around watching.

18. Ms. Grundman, who was supervising her class and sitting further away from the incident than Ms. Godinez, did nothing verbally or physically to quell the conflict. It is alleged that Ms. Godinez, who was sitting closer to the two students did nothing either. Ms. Fulmore testified that to no avail, she twice asked Ms. Godinez to get up and write an incident report. For a third time Ms. Godinez was requested to do so – this time by Ms. LeGarde. Ms. LeGarde allegedly informed Ms. Fulmore that Ms. Godinez replied to her that she "does not have a computer". It is alleged that the remaining students were chanting and yelling that Ms. Godinez did not do anything. One of the participating students being escorted to the main office by Ms. Fulmore informed her that Ms. Godinez "just let us fight".

19. Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde broke up the fight by way of verbal commands and slight physical contact, i.e., holding an arm of each student.

20. Ms. Godinez claims that she got up from her chair while taking attendance and verbally commanded them to stop. She further claims that due to an exacerbation of an injured back (stemming from the February 20, 2019 incident) she could not physically intervene. Ms. Godinez further testified that she worked with both teachers to quell the fight.

21. EWK Principal Derrick Hoff subsequently met with the parents of the students involved in connection with the School's student discipline procedures. The parent of that student complained, based on information from her son, that Ms. Godinez just sat there and watched them fight.

22. There is a phone in the gym at EWK. The phone is located in the gym office which was adjacent to the area where the students were fighting. Security was not called to the gym on February 25, 2019.

23. On February 27, 2019, Principal Hoff met with Ms. Godinez regarding this incident. At that time, Ms. Godinez asserted that she was five feet away from the fight and that she was yelling at the students to stop.

24. Ms. Godinez also told Principal Hoff that she did not physically break up the fight due to her ADA accommodations and her back issues. She told him that she did not believe that breaking up fights was part of her responsibility as a teacher. Principal Hoff took this to mean that Ms. Godinez did not believe she was responsible at all to take any action. Ms. Godinez insists that she was referring to taking physical action to break up fights. Principal Hoff testified as to his concerns over Ms. Godinez's alleged failure to intervene in the fight.

25. Board Policies, Board Regulations as well as the Job Descriptions for an elementary teacher and a physical education teacher all require adult staff to intervene in student altercations.

26. Principal Hoff was not aware of the February 20, 2019 incident when he reported the February 25, 2019 incident at his school to Assistant Superintendent Rojas.

27. After conducting his meetings, Principal Hoff prepared an email to Rojas "requesting guidance in creating a safety plan indicated for a teacher that would not break up an altercation" due to physical restrictions, i.e., he was asking for guidance on a corrective action plan.

28. Rojas investigated both the February 20, 2019 incident at School No. 28 and the February 25, 2019 incident at EWK School.

29. Rojas interviewed Ms. Godinez with regard to both incidents. When asked why she did not intervene in the fight at EWK School on February 25, 2019, she related that she did not want to get hurt, that she had an ADA accommodation and that she did not believe it was her responsibility to intervene. Ms. Godinez was then shown the video of February 20, 2019 for the first time to refute Ms. Godinez's claim of physical incapacity to break up a fight.

30. In explaining why she was on top of J.W. for so long, Ms. Godinez faults J.W. and the inactions of Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas – both of whom were in charge of J.W. that day. Ms. Godinez's statement relates that J.W. threw himself on the ground and was flailing around, at which point she sat down with her back facing him and began to restrain him. Ms. Godinez further explained that J.W.'s continuing aggression toward her, kicking, hitting, etc. led her to believe that he would be a danger to other students if she had let him go sooner than she did. Once J.W. released tension, Ms. Godinez explained, she let him up. Ms. Godinez added that she was aware of a technique whereby a teacher can calm a student by way of a reverse bear hug.

31. Both Principal Castro and Assistant Superintendent Rojas testified as to their jointly held belief that nothing justified Ms. Godinez's conduct toward J.W. on February 20, 2019.

32. Based on both the February 20 and 25, 2019 incidents, Assistant Superintendent Rojas made a recommendation that the Board certify tenure charges against Ms. Godinez. Rojas testified that 95% of his decision was based on the video of the February 20, 2019 incident.

33. Ms. Godinez has had three prior increment withholdings related to absenteeism.

34. Ms. Godinez has received satisfactory evaluations from 2001 through 2018 (Ex. R2-R12). The Board provided no evidence to suggest that Ms. Godinez committed any misconduct toward students in the past.

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

PART I

Tenure Charge I
The February 20, 2019 Incident Involving Student J.W.

The Board Has Demonstrated
That Ms. Godinez Engaged In Conduct Unbecoming in Violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and Corresponding Board Policies.

In this case, the best evidence of what actually transpired between Ms. Godinez and J.W. on February 20, 2019 is captured by the video evidence and by the testimony and statements of witnesses deemed consistent with the video evidence. To begin with, divided into frames for ease of reference, the following findings of fact are set forth in the form of a summary of the relevant video evidence:

EXHIBIT B1 VIDEO 11:50 – 12:07[1]
Frame No./Time	Depiction
1. 11:57:53	Prior to this timeframe, Ms. G. is observed supervising her own class of students believed to be of kindergarten age.[2] There are approximately nine such students riding tricycles and one student playing basketball. There are two other adults in the gymnasium. --- There is no sign of student conflict.
2. 11:57:54	A second class consisting of older students including J.W. enters the gymnasium. This is Mr. V's class.
3. 11:59:12	Ms. G.'s kindergarten class continues to ride tricycles. One student is observed riding in a "Little Tikes" Car. Mr. V's class are viewed sitting down peacefully on the side of the gym in front of the bleachers. Three adults (not Ms. G.) are observed supervising the larger students who are sitting on the sidelines. J.W. is dressed in dark clothing wearing dark/black sneakers. He is observed as a comparatively slight or small student within this grouping.
4. 11:59:24 – 11:59:57	J.W. gets up from being seated with the rest of his class and walks toward the teachers' table. One of the adults, believed to be a classroom teacher who ushered the larger class of students in, directs J.W. to be seated with the rest of his group and he complies.
5. 12:00:11	The classroom teacher walks into the gym equipment/locker room and Ms. G heads toward the teachers' table. The classroom teacher is no longer captured by the video. It is presumed she left the gym.
6. 12:01:15	Ms. G is observed sitting in a fold up chair next to the bleachers with the two other adults seated next to her on a bleacher bench. Ms. G. continues observing her class of younger students as they ride around on tricycles, one on a scooter, and another in a Little Tikes car. The student on a scooter is observed stopped and saying something to J.W. from approximately five feet away.
7. 12:01:55	Mr. V. and the classroom teacher enter the gymnasium. In addition, three other adults, including Ms. G. are seated at the sidelines. --- It appears a total of at least five adults are in the gymnasium at this point. Mr. V.'s class continues to sit on the sidelines in front of the bleachers and Ms. G.'s class continues riding tricycles.

[1] It may be necessary to look back and/or ahead by a few seconds in order to view the depiction in full.
[2] Mr. Vanderlofske is referred to as "Mr. V.", Ms. Godinez is referred to as "Ms. G." and Ms. Thomas is referred to as "Ms. T.".

8. 12:02:31	Mr. V. is instructing his class. Ms. G.'s student who is riding the scooter is once again observed saying something to J.W. and another student.
9. 12:02:17	Ms. G.'s students continue to ride around the gymnasium on tricycles, one student on a scooter and one in a Little Tikes car. Mr. V's class continues to sit on the sidelines of the gym supervised by two adults. Ms. G. is observed still seated next to the two adults while talking to a larger-sized student wearing a yellow shirt.
10. 12:03:15	Mr. V. begins walking toward the opposite end of the gym and his students get up from sitting on the sidelines.
11. 12:03:29 – 12:03:36	J.W. is observed running across the gymnasium by himself toward the direction of Mr. V. J.W. is viewed walking behind Mr. V on the opposite side of the gym from left to right until both are out of video range. Ms. G and two other adults are still seated.
12. 12:04:40	Mr. V.'s students are out of the video frame, presumably playing on the other side of the basketball court. Ms. G.'s students are observed continuing to ride the tricycles, one student riding a scooter and another student in a Little Tikes car. Ms. G. and the two other adults are still seated observing the class. Mr. V. is observed walking into what is believed to be an office and he is not supervising students.
13. 12:06	Mr. V. is observed sitting down on the court near the bleachers speaking to one student who is not participating in any of the activities. Ms. G. and the two adults continue to be seated by the bleachers observing the combined class. J.W. has not yet reappeared in view of the surveillance camera.
14. 12:06:55	Mr. V. is observed still talking to the student who is not participating in the activities. J.W. appears in the frame chasing a stray basketball from the other side of the court.
15. 12:07:17	Mr. V. appears to have convinced the student to begin to get up to participate in gym activities. END OF FIRST VIDEO CLIP.
VIDEO CLIP TWO 12:07 – 12:23
16. 12:08:24	Mr. V. is viewed at the teachers' table attempting to do something. His back is toward the student activities. Ms. G. and two other adults are still seated by the bleachers conversing with one another. The students are interacting without incident. J.W. is not captured by this camera. Presumably, he continues to play basketball with the other students on the opposite side of the gym.
17. 12:09:15	Ms. G. changes her positioning from sitting in a chair squared up with her back supported to a 45° angle, legs straight and feet crossed (a more relaxed position with no lumbar support). Mr. V. continues standing at the teachers' table with his back facing the student activities. The two other adults continue to be seated next to Ms. G. as the three continue to talk with one another.

18. 12:10:06	Mr. V. has now turned his body toward the class while still standing at the teachers' table. Ms. G. and the two other adults remain in the same position. Ms. G. is still seated in a slanted position in the chair with her legs straight, feet crossed.
19. 12:11:01	One of the adults seated at the bleachers is witnessed taking another student out of the gymnasium. Ms. G. stands up and begins to walk around the basketball court. Mr. V. is still standing at the teachers' table with his back now facing the student activities. J.W. is not depicted by this camera.
20. 12:11:10	Mr. V. is now facing the student activities. Ms. G. has been walking around stretching. Another adult walks toward the opposite end of the gym and then returns to the teachers' table where Mr. V and Ms. G are conversing with one another. J.W. is still not depicted in this video.
21. 12:13:12	Mr. V. is standing in front of the teachers' table looking at his watch and facing the class. Ms. G. and two other adults coordinate the lineup of her students sitting on tricycles by the equipment/locker room. J.W. does not appear in this video frame.
22. 12:14:18	Ms. G. is still in the equipment/locker room. Students are bringing their tricycles into that room. Another adult is viewed standing outside of that room. Mr. V. is viewed slightly before the half-court line pointing his finger toward the equipment/locker room.
23. 12:14:30- 12:14:39	Ms. T. enters the gymnasium and sits in the bleacher row immediately next to Ms. G's chair.
24. 12:14:41	After several seconds of Mr. V. directing students from the opposite end of the basketball court to head toward the locker room, J.W. is viewed running behind the Little Tikes car and jumping on top of it.
25. 12:14:43	J.W. is viewed with both feet on the Little Tikes car frame and gliding along the basketball court.
26. 12:14:46 – 12:14:57	J.W. is riding in the direction of a girl wearing white pants with an off-white shirt. She jumps out of the way from J.W.'s path in order to avoid a potential collision. J.W. circles back and starts quickly pushing the Little Tikes car toward the equipment/locker. He jumps on the back of it and heads toward the equipment/locker room at a fast clip. He almost hits a girl who is taking a drink from the water fountain. Ms. G. is still inside the same equipment/locker room.
27. 12:15:35	A student wearing a reflective yellow/green and grey shirt is witnessed knocking another student over as he runs out of the equipment/locker room and onto the basketball court. Ms. G. and J.W. are still inside the equipment/locker room with other students as well.

28. 12:15:49 – 12:16:12	A skip in the video.
29. 12:16:12- 12:16:15	J.W. is observed walking toward the bleachers and talking to other students. He is not running toward the bleachers. It appears that J.W. was inside the equipment/locker room from 12:14:57 to 12:16:05 or thereabout. Ms. G is still inside the equipment/locker room.
30. 12:16:15- 12:16:22	Ms. G. comes out the equipment/locker room. J.W. is beginning to sit on the bleachers. Mr. V. is facing the bleachers talking to one of the teachers in the direct vicinity of J.W.
31. 12:16:23- 12:16:32	Ms. G. walks out of the equipment/locker room and begins to look around the basketball court. Mr. V. is still facing the bleachers by the students. J.W. has just climbed up to the top of the bleachers. Other students begin lining up for dismissal. The student with the yellow shirt is observed putting his jacket on.
32. 12:16:33	Ms. G. is now standing next to the students who are lined up for dismissal (by the teachers' table). Mr. V. continues to talk to a student facing the bleachers. J.W. is out of sight. --- Ms. G. is clearly not looking for J.W. at this time.
33. 12:16:44	Ms. G. walks up to the teachers' table with her back facing the students and picks up a cup. Other students are getting ready to leave for dismissal. Mr. V. is standing on the basketball court talking to the student in the yellow shirt who is putting on his coat. Ms. T. remains in the view of the camera. J.W. is not captured by this camera.
34. 12:16:47	Ms. G. is observed putting on the coat which she picked up from the teachers' table. J.W. is now seated on the third bleacher row next to a student wearing a light-blue hooded jacket or sweatshirt. He is not causing any trouble. Mr. V. is facing Ms. G., Ms. T. is seated in the bleachers and students continue to prepare for dismissal.
35. 12:16:54	J.W. has just walked to the end of the bleacher row and stepped down toward the line for student dismissal. Ms. G. is observed talking to Ms. T. Mr. V. is observed walking away from the bleachers toward the office.
36. 12:17:03	J.W. comes back into the picture and is standing several feet in front of the teachers' table facing the students who are still sitting in the bleachers. Ms. G. is standing with her back facing J.W. speaking to Ms. T. Mr. V. is off by the equipment/locker room looking at his watch.
37. 12:17:17- 12:17:23 and 12:17:23.05 to 12:17:38	A larger student wearing a light-blue sweatshirt (described before) is viewed hitting J.W. with his backpack. J.W. falls on top of the bleachers as a result of the impact. It does not appear that Ms. T. or Ms. G. witnessed J.W. being hit. J.W. stands up with a grey backpack in his left hand. The student begins to scramble up the bleachers as

	J.W. stares at him (12:17:23:014). Ms. G's testimony that J.W. threw the backpack (most likely at this student) is supported by frame 12:18:21 which shows a female student wearing a green winter cap and green backpack picking up J.W.'s backpack in between the third and fourth rows of the bleachers. Notably, this is precisely where the boy who hit J.W. with his backpack is viewed sitting at the time Ms. G is first observed on top of J.W. (12:17:39). At the time J.W. likely threw his backpack at the student in the area described, there did not appear to be any other student sitting above the second row of the bleachers (12:17:23). Also, Ms. T. was standing in front of the bleachers at the time that J.W. likely threw his backpack. As to the weight of the backpack, at 12:19:44:15 and 12:21:14:09, a good view of J.W.'s backpack shows it is relatively empty after he removes a denim jacket and a lightweight jacket.
12:17:23- 12:17:39	There is a skip in video surveillance from the point where Ms. G. is first observed walking toward the site of the interaction between J.W. and the student who hit him with the backpack to the point where Ms. G is witnessed on top of J.W. The video does not show how Ms. G. or J.W. wound up on the floor together.
38. 12:17:39- 12:17:41	Ms. G. is depicted in a kneeling/leaning forward position covering J.W.'s entire body and holding onto him. J.W. appears to be initially lying on his stomach or side. J.W.'s backpack is not in the frame. (Note: It does not appear until after a break in footage at 12:18:43:15). Ms. T. is standing approximately seven feet away speaking to the class and paying no attention to Ms. G. and J.W. Mr. V. continues to look at his watch and is standing by the teachers' table facing the bleachers with his head down. J.W. has nothing in his hand or any object close to him for that matter while Ms. G. is laying on him.
39. 12:17:42- 12:17:44	Ms. G. is now covering J.W.'s bottom half as he attempts to squirm out on his stomach. Mr. V. is standing at the teachers' table with his head down looking at his watch. Ms. T. is speaking to the students who are seated in the bleachers. It appears that a couple of students are now glancing at the activity between Ms. G and J.W.
40. 12:17:45	In response to J.W. squirming out from under Ms. G., Ms. G. rolls over onto her back and pins J.W. face down so that she is now fully covering him back to back. While her left hand is holding J.W.'s leg, her right arm is still up in the air and the full weight of Ms. G.'s upper body is likely on top of the middle of J.W.'s back. J.W. has nothing in his hand while Ms. G. is laying on him.
41. 12:17:46-	Ms. G. is laying back on top of J.W. J.W. is still face down, but he's trying to push up with his arms. Ms. G. now has her legs straight and

42. 12:17:55-12:18:02	Ms. G. appears to be momentarily bracing herself up by her elbows so as not to put her full weight on J.W. Ms. T. is standing inattentive by the student dismissal area. Mr. V. remains by the teachers' table while still holding his watch. All of the students who were still seated in the bleachers are now looking at the interaction between Ms. G. and J.W. J.W. appears to be more on his side than his stomach at this point.
43. 12:18:03	Ms. G. is still in the same position on top of J.W. She does appear to be bracing her weight with her elbows. J.W. is still on his side. A young female student now walks over to Ms. G. and J.W. She is looking directly at them as if trying to decipher what is going on. Other students in the bleachers are observing the same thing. Ms. T. appears to be caught up with student dismissal and is standing next to Mr. V at the teachers' table. Mr. V. is not focused on Ms. G. Instead, he is looking down at his watch.
44. 12:18:10-12:18:11	J.W. weakly swats at Ms. G. with his right hand as Ms. G is observed in a more upright position while still bracing J.W. with some of her body weight. Two male students walk toward the bleachers and observe Ms. G and J.W. The aforementioned female student is still seated in the bleachers and still looking on. Ms. T. is at the opposite end of the bleachers near the teachers' table. It is not certain whether she is looking at the incident. Mr. V. has his head down and is looking at his watch.
45. 12:18:12-12:18-20	J.W. appears to almost make a brief escape by crawling out from under Ms. G. on his stomach. However, Ms. G. responds by rolling over J.W.'s lower half with her back to keep him pinned down. J.W.'s face is toward the bleachers. Two students are still observing the interaction of Ms. G. and J.W. Mr. V. is still at the teachers' table looking down at his watch and another device. Ms. T. is by the student dismissal line. She now appears to be directly observing the incident. There is no sign that Ms. G. asked for help or that help was offered.
46. 12:18:21-12:18:24	Ms. G., on her side, manages to slide up more on top of J.W. so as not to allow him to escape. At this time, three students, including the female student and the other student who have been observing the incident for quite some time are standing close to Ms. G. and J.W.

	Ms. T. is looking at Mr. V. Mr. V. has his head down by the teachers' table and is looking at his watch.
47. 12:18:24-12:18:36	At 12:18:24, a girl wearing a green winter hat and green backpack is observed bringing J.W.'s backpack to him. The student who was wearing the yellow shirt is now wearing a blue jacket with a backpack. He walks over and sits down in the chair that Ms. G. was sitting in earlier. Ms. G. is partially off and partially on J.W. J.W. is reaching his hand out towards the student wearing the blue jacket. Approximately six students in total are now standing in proximity to the interaction of Ms. G. and J.W. and observing them. Other students are observing from afar. Mr. V. is still standing by the teachers' table looking at his wristwatch while occasionally glancing at the incident. Ms. T. is observed standing by the teachers' table and dismissal line without showing much interest in the incident.
48. 12:18:36-12:18:46	For the first time since the incident began, after a six second skip from 12:18:36-12:18:42, J.W.'s backpack appears next to him. Approximately six students are observing Ms. G. and J.W. directly. J.W. almost squirms out from under Ms. G. who, in turn, rolls more to her right so as to pin down J.W.'s legs. At this point, Mr. V. looks up while still holding his wristwatch. Ms. T. is not looking at the scene of the incident. Just about all of the remaining students are observing the incident.
49. 12:18:52	Ms. G. is now sitting adjacent to J.W. while holding him down with her left arm. Ms. G.'s left leg is extended out straight. Her right leg is bent underneath her weight. It cannot be determined for certain whether Ms. G.'s body weight is still on J.W. Approximately five students continue to watch this incident. Ms. T. is still far removed from the incident by the teachers' table. She is not looking at the incident. Mr. V., although not looking down holding his watch, is looking away from the incident while still standing at the teachers' table.
50. 12:18:54	Ms. G. is observed moving into a full kneeling position while holding J.W.'s leg with her right hand and his upper torso with her left hand. J.W. is in a side position while Ms. G. holds him to the floor. She's observed admonishing/yelling at J.W. while he is still on the floor. Ms. T. is by the teachers' table no longer observing the incident. Mr. V. is looking away from the incident and doing nothing. The same students, give or take, are still standing in proximity to Ms. G. and J.W. while continuing to observe the incident.
51. 12:18:57 – 12:19:13	Skip in the video surveillance.
52. 12:19:13-12:19:19	Ms. G. is observed now in a standing position crouching over J.W. The student with the yellow shirt and backpack is still standing directly by J.W. and Ms. G. J.W. is looking up at the student.

53. 12:19:20 – 12:19:29	Skip in the video surveillance.
54. 12:19:29- 12:19:52	Ms. G. is observed walking away from J.W. with her back facing him. She does not confiscate, let alone show any concern over J.W.'s backpack which is now next to him. In fact, J.W. is holding his backpack in the immediate presence of three students. Ms. G. walks closer to the teachers' table and speaks briefly with Ms. T. Mr. V. is still looking down at the table. However, back by the scene of the incident, the student with the yellow shirt appears to be holding/consoling J.W. or keeping him from doing something else. Another student with a light blue sweatshirt and flannel shirt tied around his head is speaking with J.W. and the other student. After the student with the yellow shirt finishes speaking to J.W., J.W. leaves his backpack on the basketball court, puts on his coat and walks toward the student dismissal line. Ms. G. is at the head of the student dismissal line facing toward Ms. T. and Mr. V (who continues to look at his watch).
55. 12:19:52 – 12:20:04	Lapse in the video surveillance.
56. 12:20:05- 12:20:13	Ms. G. is observed demonstratively speaking to J.W. with her arms stretched outward. J.W. is viewed speaking back to her in an overt manner and the student with the yellow shirt is standing somewhat in between J.W. and closer to Ms. G. Mr. V. is now facing Ms. G. and J.W. while leaning against the teachers' table. Students who are in line for dismissal and Ms. T. are all looking at Ms. G as she verbally confronts J.W.
57. 12:20:13	Ms. G. now takes two or three steps toward J.W. and appears to still be yelling at him. At this point J.W. turns his head toward the teachers' table as if to shy away. Mr. V. and Ms. T. are both looking at J.W. at this point. All of the students are still looking at Ms. G. and J.W. at this point.
58. 12:20:14	J.W. is observed wiping his eyes and/or nose with the sleeve of his sweatshirt.
59. 12:20:18	J.W. takes a step back away from Ms. G. Ms. G. takes a step back away from J.W. but continues to yell at him.
60. 12:20:22- 12:20:49	As J.W. sits down on a bleacher seat, Ms. G. aggressively approaches him. Both of her hands are on the back of her hips and she's leaning in closely toward him and speaking to him in an animated fashion. J.W. is viewed putting his head down as Ms. G. continues to address him with her hands on her hips. It appears that J.W., still seated in the bleachers, is simply trying to put a shirt or jacket on as Ms. G continues to address him in an aggressive manner.
61.	J.W. gets out of the bleachers and walks away from Ms. G. towards

12:20:49- 12:21:02	the opposite end of the basketball court. Ms. G. starts to walk toward the student dismissal line and appears to be saying something to Ms. T. Mr. V is still standing by the teachers' table facing the student dismissal line. The students are still in line for dismissal. J.W. is still putting on his shirt or jacket. The student with the light blue sweatshirt and flannel wrapped around his head is still talking to J.W.
62. 12:21:02- 12:21:13	J.W. is viewed with his back toward the surveillance camera rubbing his eyes with his hands as Ms. G. approaches him once again. The student that was standing next to J.W. is now several feet away toward the foul line of the basketball court. As J.W. continues to rub his eyes with his fists, Ms. G. approaches him and makes a sweeping motion with her arms toward the student dismissal line.
63. 12:21:13- 12:21:16	After an exchange of words between Ms. G. and J.W., J.W. picks up his jacket and backpack and begins walking toward the student dismissal line.
64. 12:21:17	J.W. is observed walking out of the frame with the students.[3]

In my opinion, as will be discussed in greater detail below, the aforementioned summary of the video evidence, even with the fifteen second skip, is more reliable than any countervailing witness testimony. By the same token, testimony and documents which are consistent with the video evidence are deserving of significant weight. The totality of the evidence does support conclusions that Ms. Godinez's engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school teacher by unnecessarily restraining and verbally lashing out at J.W. in response to an incident which clearly did not warrant her responses. Common sense would dictate that the more prudent course would have been for Ms. Godinez to have either let the unarmed J.W. flail on the floor until he tired out and/or enlist the help of Mr. Vanderlofske and/or Ms. Thomas. As a result of the choice(s) made by Ms. Godinez, I find, J.W. unnecessarily suffered pain in his stomach as well as evident emotional harm, albeit temporarily, and, other students potentially could have been emotionally harmed. As will be discussed in more detail, I will sustain Tenure Charge I, to the extent Ms. Godinez exhibited Conduct Unbecoming a public school teacher in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and related Board Policies. Tenure Charge I will be dismissed in all other respects.

[3] Although the video surveillance recording continues for a few more minutes, nothing of relevance to this matter is observed.

Ms. Godinez, as she acknowledges, works under Job Description 3001, Elementary Teacher (Ex. B21), which requires a teacher to, among other things:

> 2. Display the highest ethical and professional behavior and standards when working with students. . .
>
> 13. Establish a professional rapport with students that earns their respect.
>
> 15. Assess and diagnose the learning, social and emotional needs and styles of students . . .Plan and adjust the learning experiences accordingly . . .
>
> 18. Assume responsibility for all student within the school, beyond those specifically assigned, supervising in a fair and constructive manner to ensure the safety and well-being of all students.
>
> 21. Ensure the safety and health of all students . . .
>
> 23. Complete in a timely fashion all records and reports as required by law and regulation or requested by the Principal . . .
>
> 26. Maintain positive, cooperative and mutually supportive relationships with . . students . . .
> 35. Adhere to New Jersey school law, State Board of Education rules and regulations, Board of Education policies and regulations, school regulations and procedures, and contractual obligations."

She also acknowledged that she is required to adhere to all related Board Policies and Regulations and state laws pertaining to her supervision of students in her care.

In explaining how her actions depicted in the video are not inconsistent with her job description and Board policies, Ms. Godinez's testimony and February 28, 2019 statement (Ex. B24) – authored prior to seeing the video evidence - starts off with some credibility, even if it is somewhat exaggerated. Ms. Godinez writes in her statement to Assistant Superintendent Rojas: "I heard/saw a student pick up a tiny tike car and throw it at the other students. I told him "Stop! You cannot do that. He screamed "no" and then ran out of the locker room toward the gym" (Ex. B24, first paragraph). The video evidence of J.W. riding the Little Tykes in the moments before he entered the equipment/locker room, and as he entered that room, shows that J.W. was acting somewhat reckless, and that his actions did present a risk of harm to students (Frames 24-26). Here, I credit at least the gist of Ms. Godinez's testimony that J.W. presented a risk or harm to other students inside the equipment/locker room in connection with the Little Tykes car.

However, from that point forward, I observe, Ms. Godinez's testimony and statement begin to precipitously lose credibility in relation to the video evidence and the credible testimony of others. In her statement, for example, Ms. Godinez writes that, after J.W. exited the equipment/locker room, she followed him into the gym "where I observed him pick up a backpack and fling it towards a group of students sitting in the bleachers" (Ex. B24, second paragraph). Contrary to Ms. Godinez's statement, however, the video evidence does not depict her following J.W., as if she was still concerned with whatever happened inside the equipment/locker room. Rather, the video evidence clearly shows J.W. appropriately interacting with his classmates for over one minute by, and in, the bleachers. In fact, during that time, Ms. Godinez is observed engaged in a number of activities by the bleachers none of which even remotely involved observing J.W. (Frame 29 [12:16:12] to Frame 37 [12:17:17]). To me, this means that Ms. Godinez could not have been genuinely concerned that J.W. posed an immediate risk of harm to himself or to others as he left the equipment/locker room.

Having said this, I do not completely discount Ms. Godinez's prior concern over J.W.'s behavior inside the equipment/locker room. In fact, it is entirely possible and reasonable that Ms. Godinez may have become extra concerned after she eventually witnessed J.W.'s second act of misbehavior, i.e., tossing his backpack a few rows into the bleachers. To that point, I find, segments of the video combined corroborate, in part Ms. Godinez's testimony that J.W. did toss his backpack into the third or fourth row of the bleachers (Frame 37, second paragraph). Indeed, even J.W. admits that he threw his backpack at the other student after the other student had hit him with a backpack (Ex. B13; BATES 000055).[4] Having said this, however, it does appear that Ms. Godinez felt a need to exaggerate certain facts related to J.W.'s behaviors which, in my opinion, only served to detract from her credibility as a witness.

For example, Ms. Godinez, in complaining about the fifteen second gap in video, filled in that gap on cross-examination:

> I heard a child screaming. I walked over by the bench. There were two boys scuffling. I went over to see. One of the boys ran away. The other boy has a bookbag, took it, flung it. It went past the aide's head, who was sitting on the bench into a group of children. At that point in time I was afraid that one of the children was going to be knocked in between the benches and actually snap their neck. So when he flung the bookbag, I took him by the wrist. You don't see any of that (Tr. 3, 464:8-18; 465:13-18).

However, the video evidence contradicts Ms. Godinez's testimony and written statement that two boys were scuffling. In fact, at one point in her testimony, Ms.

[4] It is evident that Ms. Godinez did not see the first student hit J.W. with his backpack prior to J.W. tossing his backpack at that student.

Godinez claimed she observed J.W. "beating" on another boy with his backpack (Tr. 3, 454:24-25). In stark contrast, the video evidence clearly shows no such activity on the part of J.W. Nor does the video show that J.W. flung his backpack at "a group of students seated in the bleachers" or that the backpack passed nearby the aide's head. Rather, it appears from the video evidence, as corroborated by J.W.'s input to Principal Castro on February 22, 2019, that J.W. tossed his backpack at the one student who hit him first, as that student was attempting to escape by running up the bleachers (Frame 37; Ex. B13, BATES 000053). In the same video segment, no other student and/or staff member is viewed in harm's way (Frame 37, third paragraph).[5] Thus, I observe, Ms. Godinez clearly exaggerated the magnitude of J.W.'s bleacher behavior.

In addition, Ms. Godinez's claim that she was concerned about J.W. throwing another object is belied by the video evidence. In fact, during most of the physical restraint, J.W. had no other object nearby to throw, even if he was so inclined. Indeed, only after Ms. Godinez finally got off of J.W. is it apparent that J.W.'s backpack is present. (Noting that it was brought to him by a female student wearing a green hat while J.W. was restrained; see, Frame 47). Completely contrary to Ms. Godinez's claim that she was concerned that J.W. may throw another object, Ms. Godinez is observed walking away from J.W. while actually leaving him with the only object that he could have thrown, i.e., the same backpack which he tossed in the first place (Frame 54). Thus, in my opinion, Ms. Godinez's claimed concern over J.W. throwing additional objects is contradicted by the video evidence.

[5] The video evidence would later reveal that J.W.'s backpack contained two jackets, one denim and one a light weight winter jacket (Frame 37, third paragraph, third sentence).

Next, I find, Ms. Godinez's physical description of the incident in relation to her alleged physical limitations are not borne out by the video evidence. Ms. Godinez testified that she grabbed J.W. by the arm; he escaped her grasp; and he pulled her down to the floor with him where he began flailing about. Of course, if J.W. had physically pulled Ms. Godinez to the floor, this may have legitimized Ms. Godinez's initial decision to try and physically restrain J.W. As such, the importance of such an occurrence cannot be understated. In fact, in my view, it was perhaps the most important fact that Ms. Godinez could have conveyed to those who subsequently questioned her actions. This notwithstanding, Ms. Godinez did not assert this alleged fact until answering the Board's demand for interrogatories. Importantly, she made no such commentary to Assistant Superintendent Rojas when he interviewed her, or in her written statement (Tr. 2, 297:13-14; 298:15-299:1-4; Ex. B24). Notably, but for the somewhat fortuitous gap in the video, Ms. Godinez would not have even had an opportunity to raise such a post hoc justification.[6]

In Ms. Godinez's contemporaneous written statement to Rojas, she writes: "He removed his arm from my hand and immediately flung himself on the floor and flailing about . . . Because of my back condition, I sat down on the floor with my back towards him" (Ex. B24). Notably, Ms. Godinez, by way of her written statement, attests to five distinct actions in sequence: (1) Ms. Godinez grabbing J.W. by the hand; (2) J.W. breaking free of Ms. Godinez's grasp; (3) J.W. flinging himself on the floor; (4) J.W.

[6] It is also observed that no allegation that J.W. attempted to injure Ms. Godinez is contained in her Answer to the Tenure Charges (Ex. J2). In paragraph 5, however, Ms. Godinez does fault the Board's Tenure Charge for failing to "indicate that J.W. had attempted to injure his fellow classmates on two occasions moments before Godinez interceded for the safety of J.W. and other students."

flailing about; and, (5) Ms. Godinez sitting down on the floor with her back towards J.W. Conversely, Ms. Godinez makes no mention whatsoever of J.W. pulling her to the ground. Thus, the belated assertion by Ms. Godinez of this important fact leads me to discredit her testimony in this regard.[7]

I further find and conclude that the initial and follow-up written statements of Beverly Thomas do not credibly add justification for Ms. Godinez's actions. While Ms. Thomas' written statements allege that J.W. was laying on the floor, disruptively kicking and screaming (Ex. B14-B15), the video evidence does not depict this as occurring; Ms. Thomas is viewed in the video, for the most part, barely paying attention to the incident; and Ms. Thomas curiously includes a fact which is not even seconded by Ms. Godinez, i.e., that J.W. was acting out "because Ms. Godinez did not ask him to help clean up" (Ex. B15). Lastly, due to her substantial inattentiveness to the confrontation, while I find Ms. Thomas' written statements are not entitled to much weight, it is noteworthy that even she did not assert that J.W. pulled Ms. Godinez to the floor. For all these reasons, I do not credit Ms. Godinez's assertion that J.W. pulled her down to the floor with him which may have given her justification to initially restrain him.

Additionally, I do not find credible Ms. Godinez's assertions in her statement and related testimony that her back condition influenced her response to J.W. On the contrary, Ms. Godinez is observed in the video lying in a chair on a 45-degree angle, with legs straight, feet crossed and no lumbar support (Frames 17-18). Moreover, for over two minutes (and not 30 seconds, as asserted by Ms. Godinez in her statement), Ms. Godinez is observed down on all fours, leaning forward while covering J.W., rolling over and around J.W., holding him down with her hands while leaning forward on her knees with her lumbar extended, and crouching over him in a standing position. In short, contrary to someone suffering from back pain, regardless of an underlying injury, Ms. Godinez is essentially observed engaged in a two-minute wrestling match with an undersized second grade student without once asking for assistance from two nearby co-workers (Frames 37-53). She is also observed getting off J.W., walking toward the teachers' table, verbally confronting J.W. for over one minute, and then completing her duties for the remainder of the class without any sign of physical discomfort (Frames 54-64). Thus, I do not credit Ms. Godinez's testimony that her physical actions toward J.W. were influenced in any way by a manifestation of a previously injured back.

In addition, even assuming, for the sake of discussion, that Ms. Godinez had reason to restrain J.W., which I do not find, nonetheless, the choice that she made to employ this particular physical restraint technique is baffling even in the absence of training. This is so because teachers stand in loco parentis. Put simply, I cannot fathom any parent doing this to his/her child in response to a tantrum. Compounding matters, I find, this record reveals that Ms. Godinez did not even spontaneously decide to use this over-the-top technique. According to the testimony of Mr. Vanderlofske, and more contemporaneous written statement to Assistant Superintendent Rojas, both of which I credit, Vanderlofske spoke with Ms. Godinez prior to February 20, 2019 about how to control difficult students who were acting out: "Ms. Godinez told me that she uses – or threatens the students with sitting on them or laying on them as a method of classroom management and it makes them stop doing whatever they're going to do or are doing"

(Tr. 1, 38:1-12; 71:17-25 to 72:1-9; Ex. B12).[8] In the end, I find that the Board has demonstrated that Ms. Godinez unjustifiably decided to physically restrain J.W. in the first instance, and then she unjustifiably tried out a risky restraint technique that she had previously contemplated.

As to the riskiness of Ms. Godinez' restraint technique, I find, the greater weight of the credible evidence shows that Ms. Godinez caused both temporary physical and emotional harm to J.W. and she created the potential for undue emotional harm to other students, especially those with special needs. Mr. Vanderlofske credibly testified to the physical and emotional harm caused by Ms. Godinez to J.W. According to Vanderlofske, once Ms. Godinez got off of J.W., he "was hysterically crying and pretty upset and he was saying that she hurt him" (Tr. 1, 29:16-19; 30:6-8; 36:20-24). Consistent with Vanderlofske's testimony and statements, J.W. told Principal Castro on February 22, 2019 that Ms. Godinez hurt his stomach and that as a result he cried "all the way to class" (Ex. B13; BATES 000055-000056). Conversely, I do not credit Ms. Godinez's testimony that she did not significantly put her weight on J.W. while he was lying face down. Consistent with certain segments of the video evidence (Frames 40, 41, 45, 46 and 48), Vanderlofske's testimony, and J.W.'s contemporaneous and subsequent articulation of pain to his stomach while he was crying, I find that Ms. Godinez did rest her weight on [8] Mr. Vanderlofske admitted that he never witnessed Ms. Godinez employ such a technique prior to February 20, 2019. However, I found Vanderlofske to be a credible witness. The video does show Vanderlofske attentive to J.W. and Ms. G. as the two were speaking to one another (Frame 56). Vanderlofske admitted to having new teacher paralysis, i.e., freezing during the incident and not doing anything to help J.W. He spontaneously reported the incident to Mr. Olsen and then gave statements to Principal Castro and Assistant Superintendent Rojas (Ex. B11 and B12). Here, I find it highly unlikely that Vanderlofske, a new teacher with no axe to grind, would submit falsified reports to such higher level school officials. Accordingly, for all these reasons, I credit Vanderlofske's testimony.

the back portions of J.W.'s body. Therefore, for all these reasons, I conclude that Ms. Godinez did temporarily hurt J.W. both physically and emotionally.

Compounding matters, in my opinion, the reason why J.W. was not sent to the nurse has much to do with the ensuing improper actions of Ms. Godinez. Specifically, the video evidence shows that Ms. Godinez's inappropriate conduct toward J.W. did not end with the undue physical conflict. Rather, it continued for over one minute in the form of verbal hostility. In fact, the video evidence shows that Ms. Godinez verbally jabbed at J.W. four separate times (Frames 56-63). Ms. Godinez is viewed, at times, with her hands on her hips, leaning forward and yelling at J.W. and, at other times, standing over and admonishing him while he is seated in a bleacher row (Frames 58 and 62). I further credit Mr. Vanderlofske's contemporaneous written statements and related testimony which collectively confirm that Ms. Godinez angrily addressed J.W., while he was crying, and after he had been physically restrained for two minutes.

More specifically, Mr. Vanderlofske testified that, after Ms. Godinez got off J.W., she asked him if he had any scratches or red marks and "if he wanted to go to the nurse in a more like threatening manner towards him." (Tr. 1, 29:15-16). In his email to Principal Castro of February 21, 2019, Vanderlofske similarly writes: ". . . the student cried and was yelling 'you hurt me.' Ms. Godinez then said 'show me a red mark or a scratch' to the student as well as 'you want to go to the nurse? The student was upset and got in line" (Ex. B11). Similarly, in his contemporaneous handwritten statement, Vanderlofske states: "the student was crying and yelling 'she hurt me.' Ms. Godinez then came up to the student and yelled, 'I did not touch you, show me a scratch or red mark'. Ms. Godinez then yelled at the student, 'let's go to the nurse then.' The student said 'no' and left crying" (Ex. B12). Frankly, I am not surprised that J.W. did not want to go to the nurse with Ms. Godinez, especially after she physically and emotionally hurt him and then, in essence, challenged his claim that he was even hurt.[9]

In light of the foregoing credible evidence, I do not credit Ms. Godinez's countervailing version of what she said to J.W.: "[I] speaking to him, asking him to show where he was hurt and telling him that we don't hurt our friends. . . . "I put my hands behind my back because I don't want him to feel any kind of threat from, especially because of what just happened and I make sure that I just talk with him. I want to make sure he is okay. I want to make sure he calms down. I don't want him to look at me as a person who is a threat to him. I want him to see me as what I was – believed to be doing, which was helping him" (Tr. 3, 485:9-17; 522:23-25). Simply stated, whereas Ms. Godinez's testimony is clearly not supported by the video evidence or any other corroborating evidence, Mr. Vanderlofske's testimony and written statements are supported by the video evidence and J.W.'s interview responses. In the end, I find, Ms. Godinez's unnecessary physical restraint of J.W., followed by undue verbal hostility toward him, when a calming demeanor was most needed, caused J.W. to suffer both temporary physical and emotional harm.

I next find that Ms. Godinez, by way of her actions, also created an appreciable risk of potential emotional harm to the numerous young special education students who observed the incident. These students include a girl who walked over to Ms. Godinez and J.W. and quizzically stared at them (Frame 43); two male students doing the same [9] I do not credit Ms. Godinez' testimony that she told Ms. Thomas to take J.W. to the nurse. Not only did Ms. Godinez fail to report this incident but, Ms. Thomas, in her statements, acknowledges no such direction from Ms. Godinez. Since Ms. Thomas did not testify, I find that Ms. Godinez failed to provide any corroboration to her attempt to ameliorate her own actions. Therefore, I do not credit her testimony.

(Frame 44, second sentence); a female student who joins the two male students (Frame 46, second sentence); a girl wearing a green hat, who brings J.W. his backpack (Frame 47, first sentence); a male student who walks over and sits down in Ms. Godinez's chair, hovering above J.W. as he lays on his stomach reaching out for help (Frame 47, first through fourth sentences)[10]; approximately six students who are observed standing nearby in a semi-circle watching what was happening to J.W. (Frame 47, fifth sentence to Frame 50, sixth sentence); and, the same student who sat down in the chair is observed trying to calm and console J.W. while a second student is also talking to him (Frame 54, fifth and sixth sentences). Unfortunately, all of these students witnessed Ms. Godinez's misconduct and the resulting impact on J.W., especially his crying both inside of, and on his way out of, the gym. Consequently, I find, Ms. Godinez's reckless behavior also created an appreciable risk of harm to numerous other students.

Also, I observe, that Ms. Godinez failed to report the incident to the administration is not challenged. Nor is there any genuine dispute that reporting this type of an incident is required by Board Policy 3280 (Ex. B3). While it is true that Ms. Godinez is not charged with such a violation, it does go to her credibility in that it gives the appearance that she did not wish to draw attention to the incident. The same may be said about her manner of "asking" J.W. if he wanted to go to the nurse, as discussed previously. Also, in PART II of this Opinion, a discussion of the February 25, 2019 incident at EWK notes that Ms. Godinez twice failed to even respond to Anita Fulmore's requests that she write up an incident report and, only after the third time, did she try to extricate herself from the request by claiming that she did not have a computer. Collectively, I find, the above evidence and inferences to be drawn therefrom suggest that even Ms. Godinez realized that her actions were improper and, for that reason, she did not wish to draw attention to her conduct by submitting standard or requested reports.

[10] In his statement to Principal Castro, J.W. described the same interaction: "And then Jimmy came and sit on a chair by her and she said, 'Go away' and Jimmy said, 'Never.' And then he was trying to help me. He was holding my hand. I wanted him to help me so he could pull me out." (Ex. B13; BATES 000055).

Lastly, I do not consider the inactions of Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas to have a significant bearing as to Ms. Godinez' fault. I agree that the two, or at least one of them should have intervened at some point for J.W.'s sake. However, although Ms. Godinez would testify that she was not responsible for supervising Mr. Vanderlofske's class, which encompassed J.W., she elected to handle J.W. herself when he tossed his backpack at his fellow student. Ms. Godinez did not ask or motion for assistance at any time during the two minutes when she was physically restraining J.W. Mr. Vanderlofske was a new teacher who admittedly froze in response to what was occurring and continued to attempt to pair his apple watch with a speaker. Ms. Thomas' state of mind cannot be ascertained because neither party called her as a witness. Accordingly, while I do not find that Mr. Vanderlofske's and/or Ms. Thomas' inattentiveness to the incident excuses Ms. Godinez's misconduct, in my opinion, further discussion is set forth under PART III of this Opinion, pertaining to penalty.

In light of the foregoing, I find that the Board has sufficiently demonstrated that Ms. Godinez's actions constitute Conduct Unbecoming a public school teacher within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. See, e.g., In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010) (Unbecoming conduct involves a different standard than the Title 9 abuse-or-neglect standard and has been defined as conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services");

Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998) (Unbecoming conduct may include "any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the [department.); In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App.Div.1974) ("Such misconduct need not necessarily 'be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct.' [Citation omitted]); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Courtney Watson, School District of Franklin Township, 2014 WL 2480173 *5 (App. Div. 2014)("tenure charges may be sustained based on a pattern of unprofessional conduct or even a single incident that is found to be 'sufficiently flagrant); In re Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967)(while [Fulcomer] was teaching an eighth grade arithmetic class, a girl's pocketbook was passed among several pupils until it came to rest beside the desk of Donald Yowell. The teacher, becoming aware of inattention and discovering its source, dropped his textbook on the first pupil's desk, went to Donald and laid hands upon him. When released, the boy went to the front of the room, was directed to resume his seat by the teacher, made as though to do so, but instead ran toward the door in the rear to leave the classroom. The teacher pursued the boy, again laid hands upon him, and both of them fell to the floor); and, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edith Craft, 2012 WL 2579497 (App. Div. 2012)(found guilty of conduct unbecoming when she slapped a special education student after the student slapped her). Accordingly, I sustain Tenure Charge I with respect to the Conduct Unbecoming a public school teacher.

Also, in light of the foregoing findings related to Conduct Unbecoming, I am satisfied that the Board appropriately relies upon item #4 of Board Regulation 3280, "Liability for Pupil Welfare" (created in 2009), which addresses a teacher's right to physically restrain a student or students as part of a teacher's responsibility to prevent and stop pupil fights and assaults (Ex. B17). Board Regulation 3280 permits a teacher to restrain a pupil only with the reasonable amount of force necessary to a. Quell a disturbance; b. Obtain possession of weapons or dangerous objects; c. offer self-defense; or d. protect persons or property. In my opinion, Ms. Godinez's non-compliance with Regulation 3280 on February 20, 2019 is demonstrated because J.W.'s observed conduct did not present any justification for Ms. Godinez to restrain him in the first instance.

Conversely, I do not find that the Board has sufficiently demonstrated that Ms. Godinez's conduct amounted to a violation of state law prohibiting corporal punishment, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 and corresponding Board Policy 3217 (Ex. B2), at least not as the standard has been interpreted to require an intent to punish or inflict bodily harm, cruel or vicious behavior, etc. See, e.g., In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edith Craft, 2012 WL 2579497 (App. Div. 2012) and cases cited therein. Rather, I have previously determined that Ms. Godinez's actions were ill conceived from the beginning and even reckless, in my opinion. However, the Board has failed to demonstrate that Ms. Godinez was motivated by an intent to inflict corporal punishment on J.W. Accordingly, while I will fully address the seriousness of Ms. Godinez's actions, and the harm caused thereby, under a determination of penalty, I dismiss Tenure Charge I insofar as Ms. Godinez is accused of inflicting corporal punishment on J.W. in violation of state statute.

In addition, I do not find that the Board has demonstrated the applicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5 and related Board Policy 5561/Regulation 5561 (Ex. B6 and B7, respectively). Specifically, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.4 states, that "Physical restraint' means the use of a personal restriction that immobilizes or reduces the ability of a student to move all or a portion of his or her body." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5 (1) states, physical restraint is used only in an emergency in which the student is exhibiting behavior that places the student or others in immediate physical danger; (2) a student is not restrained in the prone position, unless the student's primary care physician authorizes, in writing, the use of this restraint technique. As the Board concedes in its initial brief, District Policy 5561, Use of Physical Restraint and Seclusion Techniques for Students with Disabilities (Ex. B6); and District Regulation R5561, Use of Physical Restraint and Seclusion Techniques for Students with Disabilities (Ex. B7) mirror N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5. In my opinion, the authorities cited above are not applicable to the facts of this matter.

N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5, in pertinent part states:

> staff members who are involved in the restraint of a student receive training in safe techniques for physical restraint from an entity determined by the board of education to be qualified to provide such training, and that the training is updated at least annually. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5

Further, District Regulation R5561, Use of Physical Restraint and Seclusion Techniques for Students with Disabilities (Ex. B7) requires:

> C. Physical Restraint Training Requirements The training requirements on the use of physical restraint shall be as follows: 1. Building level administrators and school staff members designated > by the Principal likely to be confronted with the need to use physical restraint shall be trained on the use of physical restraint. a. If, in the event of an emergency, a person(s) who has not received training uses physical restraint, training for the person(s) that used such restraint shall occur within thirty days of the incident.

Notably, both the statutory and Board policy versions recited above address the use or misuse of learned techniques to restrain and/or place in seclusion a special education student with a disability in the event of "an emergency in which the student is exhibiting behavior that places the student or others in immediate physical danger." In order for the statute and policies to be applicable, in my opinion, a teacher must apply learned techniques to a situation where he or she believes physical restraints and/or seclusion are justified. In this case, I note, Ms. Godinez clearly was not misapplying or misusing any learned physical restraint technique. On the contrary, she was never taught any technique contemplated by the statute and/or by related Board policies. Having possessed no learned technique of restraint or seclusion prior to February 20, 2019, I find, the Board cannot seek to impose discipline on Ms. Godinez for her untrained actions on that date.[11] Due to the Board's failures in this regard, I must dismiss Tenure Charge I, insofar as Ms. Godinez is accused of violating N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5 and related Board policies.

Additionally, while I acknowledge that the Board accuses Ms. Godinez of violating several other policies, I find that such policies either do not unambiguously address the subject matter of Ms. Godinez' February 20, 2019 conduct, or they add little to the undersigned's previous finding of Conduct Unbecoming a school teacher.[12]

Based on the foregoing, I find and conclude that the Board has sufficiently demonstrated Ms. Godinez's Conduct Unbecoming a public school teacher on February 20, 2019 in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and Board Policy 3280. Tenure Charge I is sustained, to that extent and is dismissed in all other respects.

PART II

Tenure Charge II

The February 25, 2019 Incident at EWK

The Board Has Demonstrated
That Ms. Godinez, Through Inaction
Engaged In Conduct Unbecoming a Teacher
And Failure to Perform Duties in Violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and Corresponding Board Policies.

Initially, I am satisfied that a teaching staff member who allows two or more students to fight by failing to intervene is liable under a Conduct Unbecoming and Failure to Perform Duties analysis within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. This is so because a teacher is responsible for his or her actions or inactions that unnecessarily bring about harm or create the potential for harm to students entrusted to his/her care. To that point, I observe, Board Regulation 3280, "Liability for Pupil Welfare" (discussed previously) provides, in pertinent part, "A. A teaching staff member must maintain a standard of care for supervision, control and protection of pupils commensurate with the member's [12] Board Policies 3280 (2002) and 3281 (Ex. B3-B4) address the general responsibilities of a teaching staff member to supervise and protect students and to maintain appropriate boundaries. Regulation 3281 (Ex. B5) clearly pertains to inappropriate touching of a sexual nature and corresponding reporting requirements and procedures. Lastly, I observe, Board Policy 3150, "Discipline" (Ex. B8) is of general applicability only.

assigned duties and responsibilities". Under item A.4., the regulation specifically states "Pupils shall not be allowed to inflict bodily harm on one another. Teaching staff members are responsible for preventing and stopping pupil fights and assaults, whatever the cause or intent; if necessary, responsible assistance must be quickly summoned. Teaching staff members may restrain a pupil only with the reasonable amount of force necessary to a. Quell a disturbance; b. Obtain possession of weapons or dangerous objects; c. offer self-defense; or d. protect persons or property", e.g., stopping two students from fighting with one another.

For the reasons which follow, I am satisfied that the Board has demonstrated, by the greater weight of the credible evidence, that Ms. Godinez did not take any affirmative action on February 25, 2019 to quell a fight between two juveniles at EWK; and that, by failing to so act, she placed two of her own students at risk of harm. I am also persuaded that the inaction of Katherine Grundman, who was supervising her own class in the same gym, and seated further away from the site of the altercation, does not serve as a mitigating factor.

Initially, EWK is primarily a general education, pre-K to grade 3 school with a predominantly Hispanic population (Tr. 2, 190:10-15). Anita Fulmore is a special education resource teacher at EWK School (Tr. 2, 156:3-6). She teaches students from kindergarten through third grade providing both in-class support and pullout support (Tr. 2, 158:20-25). She is also the HIB ("harassment, intimidation and bullying") specialist for the building (Tr. 2, 156:5-7). Ms. Fulmore has taught in the Paterson school district for twenty (20) years (Tr. 2, 156:8-10). She has been at EWK for six (6) years (Tr. 2, 156:11-13; 158:10-15). Ms. Fulmore has known and worked with Ms. Godinez for approximately three (3) years (Tr. 2, 159:3-10). Consistent with a finding of lack of bias, I observe, Ms. Fulmore did not have any prior conflict, issue, or incident with Ms. Godinez or any other reason to bear false testimony against her (Tr. 2, 159:17-20).

In addition to being an unbiased witness, I found Ms. Fulmore's testimony to be consistent with both her contemporaneous statements to Principal Derrick Hoff and with a contemporaneous and unprompted statement made by one of the students involved in the February 25, 2019 incident. As to the incident, Ms. Fulmore testified:

> I recall approaching the gym door, which I was actually waiting to catch the elevator to my floor where my class is located. Upon approaching the gym, I heard a commotion. As I reached the gym, the elevator door, two other teachers approached, came out of their classroom and stated to me there's a commotion going on inside the gymnasium. When I walked into the gymnasium, I saw like a crescent of students crowding around an incident and I walked directly to the students that were involved and I basically did not even have to apply any pressure to break the fight up. I actually said what are you guys doing. They all separated on their own and when the students separated, that's when I observed Ms. Godinez sitting seated in a chair (Tr. 2, 160:2-16).

Ms. Fulmore identified the two preschool teachers whom alerted her to the commotion as Natalie Cruz and Erica Mann. Their classroom is adjacent to, and shares a wall with, the gym (Tr. 2, 160:22-161:4). Ms. Fulmore testified that Dana LeGarde, a building technology teacher, entered the gym with her (Tr. 2, 161:8-13). She also testified that approximately 18 students were standing around the altercation and the two participants were situated approximately ten (10) feet from the gym/hallway door (Tr. 2, 162:8-162:16; 171:8-10). She described the two students involved in the fight as third-grade boys, about four feet tall (Tr. 2, 161:15-23). Later she added that the two were general education students (Tr. 2, 174:4-7).

Ms. Fulmore testified that she and Ms. LeGarde were able to quell the dispute by saying, in a calm but assertive manner, "what are you guys doing" and "cut it out" (Tr. 2, 170:24-25 and 171:1-3). When asked if she had to physically grab the students in order to break up the fight, Ms. Fulmore responded that she recalled "touching one of the student's arms and then Ms. LeGarde touched the other student and they easily separated" (Tr. 2, 163:3-5). Ms. Fulmore further testified that from the time she entered the gym until she turned around and saw Ms. Godinez sitting 20 feet away (or ten feet away from the altercation), she did not hear Ms. Godinez say anything to the boys engaged in the fight (Tr. 2, 164:7-8 165:1-6).

On cross-examination, Ms. Fulmore was asked to describe the commotion that prompted her to enter the gym. She replied, "yelling, screaming, chanting, cheering, bubbling, bumping" (Tr. 2, 180:21-24). When asked if it could have been a teacher screaming at the students to stop, Ms. Fulmore responded, "The elevator door is at least maybe arm's length away from the gym. So, I heard children" (Tr. 2, 181:4-5). When pressed as to whether she heard a teacher screaming to stop, Ms. Fulmore responded that she did not (Tr. 2, 181:6-8).

Also, Ms. Fulmore did not "recall seeing Ms. Godinez get up. I know as I entered I was – I approached one student. I had his arm, Ms. LeGarde had the other student's arm and I remember turning around and stating you need to get up and write this up" (Tr. 2, 164:18-22). In fact, Ms. Fulmore told Ms. Godinez twice to get up and write this up. "The third time I told Ms. LeGarde to tell Godinez she needs to write this up" (Tr. 2, 165:25-166:1). Ms. Fulmore, apparently relying upon what Ms. LeGarde told her, testified that Ms. Godinez replied after the third time she was asked to write up an incident report that she did not have a computer (Tr. 2, 167:6-167:12).

Ms. Fulmore acknowledged the presence of another physical education teacher, Katie Grundman. However, she observed Ms. Grundman on the other side of the gym at the time. When asked what Ms. Grundman was doing during the fight, Ms. Fulmore responded:

> I basically was focused in on the two students that were involved in the fight and basically when we separated them, focusing on the teacher that was responsible for their supervision. I don't recall her [referring to Ms. Grundman] saying anything but her body – her body language was almost like she was trying to restrain her students or basically encourage them not to get involved or run over there (Tr. 2, 172:15-22).

Ms. Fulmore was certain that Ms. Grundman was watching her own class on the "other side of the gym" at all material times.

Ms. Fulmore further testified that, as she and Ms. LeGarde were leaving the gym with the two boys, Ms. Fulmore's student said, "she just let us fight, I'm telling my mother" (Tr. 2, 170:8-12). Ms. Fulmore said that she did not ask the students if it was true that Ms. Godinez did not do anything; she did not respond at all - she just listened as she was walking him to the office[13] (Tr. 2, 170:15-20).

[13] At the hearing, Counsel for Ms. Godinez objected to the admissibility of what students were saying. The concern raised was that it was not part of the proffer. The Board replied that such testimony was consistent with the proffer provided by the Board: The following is the summary of expected testimony by Ms. Fulmore and/or Ms. LeGarde provided to Mr. Ricci: "the facts/circumstances that led them to enter the gym; their observations of the scene and the student altercation; their observations of Ms. Godinez including any action or inaction by her; their actions to break up the student altercation; any communications they had with Ms. Godinez regarding the February 25, 2019 incident; any communications they had with the students regarding the February 25, 2019 incident; and, any communications they had with Edward W. Kilpatrick school administration regarding the incident. Here, I am satisfied that admitting the hearsay testimony of what Ms. Fulmore's student said to her on the way to the principal's office is consistent with the highlighted parameters of the Board's disclosure. However, I am not convinced that the commentary made by the remaining students to one another was properly disclosed. Thus, I will not consider same.

Lastly, Ms. Fulmore testified that she subsequently spoke with Principal Hoff about the incident. In essence, according to Ms. Fulmore, she relayed her observations of the altercation to Principal Hoff "somewhat" mirroring her arbitration hearing testimony (Tr. 2, 176:18-22).

Principal Hoff has worked with Ms. Godinez at EWK since 2013. This record contains no credible evidence that Hoff had an axe to grind with Ms. Godinez or that he ever sought disciplinary action against her based on her conduct. In addition to a lack of bias, I find, Hoff's testimony adds consistency to Ms. Fulmore's overall testimony. As to shoring up Ms. Fulmore's overall testimony, Hoff relied upon his notes of meeting with the student ("HC") on February 27, 2019 (Ex. B18, page 1); and his notes of meeting with Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde on February 28, 2019 (Ex. B18, page 3). Hoff confirmed the grade and age of the two students and that they were Ms. Godinez's students (Tr. 2, 194:5-13).

Immediately after the altercation had ended, as Hoff testified, Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde generally informed him that "there was a fight, the teacher did not intervene and they had told the teacher – they had told the teacher to put it in Infinite Campus, which is our student information system" (Tr. 2, 193:25-194:4). On February 28, 2019, after dealing with the parents and the disciplinary issues, Hoff testified that he had a more in-depth conversation with Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde (Tr. 2, 195:9-18; 196:4-7). Hoff asked Ms. Fulmore to tell him what happened in the gym on February 25, 2019. Hoff described Ms. Fulmore's response, which I find to be consistent with her testimony, as follows:

> She said that she was standing by the elevator, her and Ms. LeGarde. They heard a loud noise coming from the gym. They immediately entered into the > gymnasium and they observed, as they called – as Anita told me, the students had formulated a circle and that the two students who were fighting were in the middle of the circle fighting, and I said to them, where was Ms. Godinez, and they said Ms. Godinez was in the corner sitting in a chair by the window. . . Ms. Fulmore followed up with telling me that when she intervened and she broke it up, her and Ms. LeGarde, that they told Ms. Godinez two or three times to please put that information in Infinite Campus, and then they proceeded to take the kids out of the gym to my office (Tr. 2, 196:9-25).

Principal Hoff further stated that he asked Ms. Fulmore about how far away Ms. Godinez was from the fight, to which Ms. Fulmore responded approximately 20 feet (Tr. 2, 197:3-8). He also added that there was a phone inside the gym office that, as Ms. Fulmore explained, Ms. Godinez was not using to call security (Tr. 2, 197:3-11).

Later, on cross-examination, Hoff would testify that, based on his discussion with Ms. Fulmore, it was his impression that the fight had just begun at the time she and Ms. LeGarde interceded (Tr. 2, 227:10-21). This testimony, I note, must be construed in harmony with the indisputable fact that the fight lasted at least as long as it took staff members in the hallway to hear and react to a commotion, and for Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde to thereafter enter the gym and separate the two students.

Principal Hoff's testimony also lends credibility to the hearsay statement of the student who informed Ms. Fulmore on the way to the main office that Ms. Godinez let them fight. Hoff related, "during the disciplinary hearing the parent of one of the students indicated to me that she understood her child was wrong for fighting in the gym, but her son told her that evening that the teacher just sat there and watched them fight and did not intervene" (Tr. 2, 194:20-25; 198:21-25). Hoff's notes of his contemporaneous meeting with HC confirm that HC informed him that Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde "broke it up" and that the "teacher was sitting down and did nothing" (Ex. B18, page 1). This hearsay statement is consistent with what was contemporaneously told to Ms.

Fulmore by one of the students, likely the same student, as she was escorting him to the main office.[14] Thus, the testimony of Ms. Fulmore and Principal Hoff and the contemporaneous and unprompted hearsay statement from one of the participants in the fight collectively support a finding that Ms. Godinez did not at all intervene in the altercation.[15]

Also, referring to his notes, Principal Hoff testified as to his interview with Ms. Godinez:

> Q. And can you give us -- and refer to your notes if you need to, but can you give us a description of that meeting.
>
> A. Yeah. I called her in because I want to get her side of the story because I'm hearing different sides about what happened in that fight, and so I make a note that Ms. Godinez shared with me that she was five feet, she was only five feet from the fight. She was yelling. This is her testimony. She was yelling for the students to stop and I may --I asked her a question when she told me she was yelling. I said, well, did you break up the fight, and she said no, and I said why, and she said, well, it's due to my ADA accommodation and she talked about her spine issues, prevented her from breaking up fights. She also added to me that she believed, in this meeting, that breaking up fights was not -- not a part of her duties as a teacher and that she physically just can't do it, and these were things that she had shared with me when I interviewed her as to what happened in the incident and why did she not intervene (Tr. 2, 202:20-25 and 203:1-17).

Principal Hoff testified that prior to his meeting with Ms. Godinez she never informed him that she was physically unable to break up a fight (Tr. 2, 222:16-23). And, in any [14] Principal Hoff explained the disciplinary process, noting that whenever there is a fight, he reaches out to both parents, they have a disciplinary hearing and then there is a penalty imposed since fighting is a violation of the Student Code of Conduct (Tr. 2, 195:21-196:3).

[15] To the extent there are discrepancies between Ms. Fulmore's and Principal Hoff's testimony as to Ms. Fulmore's observations, it is, at the very least understandable that what got lost in the translation was (1) whether the students gathered around the fight formed the shape of a crescent or circle and (2) whether Ms. Godinez was seated 20 feet away from the door or 20 feet away from the fight. In my opinion, neither discrepancy warrants discrediting the overall, unbiased testimony of Ms. Fulmore describing the involvement of both she and Ms. LeGarde in quelling a fight between two of Ms. Godinez's students, while Godinez passively observed seated in a chair 10-20 feet away.

event, nothing prohibited Ms. Godinez from yelling at the students and/or from calling security (Tr. 223:2-20).[16]

Principal Hoff was asked based on his education, experience and position within the school district for some 20 years whether teachers are responsible to intercede if students are engaged in a fight? He replied: "Absolutely". . . . They can call for security. They can physically intervene and try to restrain the students. They also can summon another teacher who's in the gym to help them break up a fight." He concluded his remarks to this line of questioning by noting that no other witness supported Ms. Godinez's testimony that she intervened and helped quell the confrontation. Rather, Ms. Fulmore, Ms. LeGarde and the student informed him that Ms. Godinez took no action (Tr. 2, 219:13-24).

Principal Hoff was asked to review a "Behavioral Detail Report" of the incident ("Incident Report") which he believed was completed and submitted by Ms. Godinez, consistent with what Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde thrice asked her to do at the end of the February 25, 2019 incident (Ex. B19). Ms. Godinez would ultimately testify that Ms. Grundman prepared and submitted the Incident Report because she did not have a computer. In a voire dire exchange with Ms. Godinez's attorney, Principal Hoff denied that Ms. Godinez lacked access to a computer. On the contrary, he testified that the gym office computer was for all teachers to use (Tr. 2, 216:11-16). Counsel for the Board then elicited the following testimony from Principal Hoff:

Q. Are you aware of Ms. Godinez ever reporting that someone had filed [16] Principal Hoff testified that he was previously made aware of Ms. Godinez's requests to him for a parking accommodation due to her back condition and he was aware that she could not climb stairs (Tr. 2, 229:3-21).

something by using her pass code?

A. No.

Q. Are employees and staff supposed to keep their pass code confidential and to themselves?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, who did she indicate in this report broke up the fight?

A. "The fight broke up only when three teachers intervened, A.F., D.L. and B.G."

Q. And who did you understand A.F., D.L. and B.G. to be?

A. A.F. is Anita Fulmore, D.L. is Dana LeGarde, and B.G. is Blanca Godinez.

Q. And was that consistent or inconsistent with what Ms. Fulmore told you?

A. That was inconsistent.

Q. Was that consistent or inconsistent with what Ms. LeGarde told you?

A. Inconsistent.

Q. Was it consistent or inconsistent with what Ms. Godinez told you?

A. Inconsistent.

Q. Was it consistent or inconsistent with what the students told you?

A. Inconsistent.
(Tr. 2, 218:20-25 to 219:1-6).[17]

[17] After he concluded his interviews of Ms. Fulmore, Ms. LeGarde and Ms. Godinez, Principal Hoff testified that he prepared an email to Assistant Superintendent Rojas because he "needed some guidance in terms of I had this incident that was confirmed by the witnesses, as to what should be my next steps, and the reason why I wanted to know next steps is because assuming that the ADA accommodations are real, then I need to know what I can put in place to be able to protect kids if another altercation occurs in the gym" (Tr. 2, 220:3-11). Hoff confirmed that B20 in evidence was the email he sent to Assistant Superintendent Rojas requesting guidance to create a safety plan (Tr. 2, 220:12-22).

Ms. Godinez testified that she was getting ready to take attendance as the class was coming in. There was a boy standing and "barking" and another boy came into the class late and made a comment to the boy who was barking. The boy barking swung at the boy who commented and they both then starting swatting at each other (Tr. 3, 425:18-428:14). Ms. Godinez claims she was seated about five feet away from the boys when the fight started and Ms. Grundman was about ten to twelve feet away (Tr. 3, 434:7-11). The two teachers were seated because they were about to take attendance (Tr. 3, 527:3-8). According to Ms. Godinez, when the scuffle began, her back was bothering her from the incident on February 20, 2019, so she looked to Ms. Grundman, who was not called as a witness by either side, to react. However, Ms. Grundman allegedly did not respond to the fight (Tr. 3, 528:2-11). Because Ms. Grundman did not respond, as Ms. Godinez testified, she got up, went to where the boys were, stood there and yelled at them to stop. In a matter of seconds, notes Ms. Godinez, two other teachers, Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde arrived. Contrary to Ms. Fulmore's testimony, the spontaneous statement of the student participant to Ms. Fulmore, and what the parent of a student participant conveyed to Principal Hoff, Ms. Godinez testified that all three of them collectively quelled the fight by yelling at the students. According to Ms. Godinez, Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde walked out with the students because she had a class waiting.

In contrasting the February 20 and 25, 2019 incidents, Ms. Godinez believed that the February 20th incident could have resulted in a very bad injury, even the death of a child. This is so despite, as noted previously, that J.W. had no object nearby to throw after he tossed his lightweight backpack at the student who had just hit him with his backpack, and that Ms. Godinez walked away from J.W. leaving him with the same backpack after she decided he had had enough. Meanwhile, in my opinion, Ms. Godinez disingenuously downplayed the risk of harm created by two third-grade boys wrestling and throwing punches at each other without adult intervention.

According to Ms. Godinez, although she acknowledged that a fight can be dangerous, she did not think that particular incident warranted more than a verbal intervention because the fight had not yet escalated to a point where there was a danger in that room for any child (Tr. 3, 435:4-12). However, I observe, the duration of the fight belies Ms. Godinez's attempt to downplay the risk. Clearly, significant time passed from the point other staff members heard and reacted to a commotion inside the gym to the time that Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde entered the gym and convinced the two students to cease and desist (Tr. 3, 527:25-528:1). In fact, but for the relatively timely intervention of Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde, it appears obvious that the fight could have escalated to the point that Ms. Godinez herself feared.

Ms. Godinez also attempted to add support to her version of events by claiming that Ms. Grundman authored the Incident Report requested by Ms. Fulmore. That report identifies "A.F., D.L., and B.G." as breaking up the fight (Ex. B19). Obviously, this testimony serves Ms. Godinez's interests. Ultimately, in my opinion, the burden to clarify such an unusual development concerning the writing of the Incident Report properly rests with Ms. Godinez. Ms. Godinez did not call Ms. Grundman as a witness or even attempt to produce a corroborating statement from her. Standing alone, for the following reasons, I do not find Ms. Godinez's testimony to be credible.

To begin with, the two students involved belonged to Ms. Godinez. Additionally, Ms. Godinez's name is listed as the person submitting the report. Also, it was established that each teacher has their own passcode to access the computer. Contrary to Ms. Godinez's testimony, I do not find any reason why only Ms. Grundman would be permitted to use the gym office computer at EWK. Rather, as Principal Hoff testified, both gym teachers have access to that computer. Lastly, it is noted that Ms. Godinez remained silent after Ms. Fulmore twice asked her to write up an incident report. Only after the third such request (interjected by Ms. LeGarde) did Ms. Godinez claim that she did not have a computer. Collectively, I find, Ms. Godinez, more likely than not, had access to a computer, she was responsible for the report submitted in her name and concerning her students and she submitted a report which inaccurately included herself as one of the three staff members who intervened and stopped the fight.

Nonetheless, Ms. Godinez insisted that Ms. Grundman told her that she would write the report and that she [Grundman] could access Ms. Godinez's login to the system. But, here, I must ask the 64,000 question, that is, why would Ms. Grundman volunteer to do the report? Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde thrice asked Ms. Godinez to complete and submit the report? No one asked Ms. Grundman to submit a report. Also, as this record bears out, not only did the students belong to Ms. Godinez, but Ms. Godinez was closer to the altercation. In fact, Ms. Fulmore observed Ms. Grundman significantly further away from the altercation and trying to keep an eye on her own students. Why Ms. Grundman would volunteer to write a report thrice requested of Ms. Godinez, concerning Ms. Godinez's students, and when Ms. Godinez was clearly the better eyewitness, makes little to no sense to me.

Having said this, however, even if I believe that, for whatever reasons, Ms. Grundman typed the report for Ms. Godinez, I cannot conclude that Ms. Grundman would take responsibility for the content of the report while submitting the report under Ms. Godinez's name. Rather, the much more likely explanation, even if I believed that Ms. Grundman typed the report, is that Ms. Godinez provided the substantive input for Ms. Grundman to type. Therefore, for all these reasons, I cannot credit Ms. Godinez's assertion that Ms. Grundman independently generated the content of the report concerning Ms. Godinez's students and then submitted the report under Ms. Godinez's name.

In sum, I find that a preponderance of the credible evidence demonstrates that the Board has sufficiently proven that Ms. Godinez knowingly failed to intervene in a fight between two third-grade boys on February 25, 2019. The Board has also adequately shown that by knowingly failing to intervene, she placed both students at risk of physical injury. But for the fortuitous intervention of Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde, that risk could have been much higher. Also, I observe, the fact that Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde were able to quell the dispute primarily by way of verbal commands with only minimal physical effort relegates Ms. Godinez's physical incapability defense to the sidelines in this matter. Accordingly, I sustain Tenure Charge II with respect to the charges of Conduct Unbecoming and corresponding Board Regulation 3280. Tenure Charge II is dismissed in all other respects.

PART III

The Appropriateness of the Removal Penalty

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that a tenured teacher may not be dismissed "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." A school district bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence its charges seeking removal of a tenured employee. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962); In re Tenure Hearing of Ziznewski, A-0083-10T1, 2012 WL 1231874 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. Apr. 13, 2012) (unreported). In addressing the appropriateness of the penalty in cases involving tenure charges, relevant factors "include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, any evidence as to provocation, the teacher's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct in the maintenance of discipline among the students and staff, and the likelihood of such behavior recurring." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Erroll Goodwater, School District of the City of Camden, Agency Docket Nos. 185-7/11 and 187-7/11 (April 27, 2012). The Commissioner has previously stated that "unfitness to remain a teacher is best demonstrated by a series of incidents but might be shown by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant". In the Matter of Norma Pollard, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 170 at 190.

For the reasons which follow, I find that the Board has demonstrated that, notwithstanding Ms. Godinez's long-term employment, removal is an appropriate penalty based upon the severity of Ms. Godinez's collective misconduct on February 20 and 25, 2019.

Initially, I acknowledge that both parties have flooded this record with a plethora of administrative and arbitral decisions addressing the propriety of removing a long-term teacher for actions allegedly analogous to Ms. Godinez's conduct in this case. Although I have carefully studied each and every one of them, as a caveat, I note, this case rests on its own unique and troubling facts. It involves two alarming incidents within a short period of time that reflect polar opposite, egregious actions on the part of Ms. Godinez. Specifically, on February 20, 2019, Ms. Godinez recklessly, but not intentionally overreacted and unduly restrained a special education student causing him temporary physical and emotional harm, and potentially harming other students. Then, just five days later, Ms. Godinez knowingly took no action as two of her third-grade students engaged in a physical altercation which, but for the intervention of two other staff members, could have resulted in significant physical harm.

Although the severity of Ms. Godinez's February 20 and 25, 2019 misconduct combined has been determined de novo by the undersigned, I have considered as part of that determination the reactions and opinions of Principals Castro and Hoff and Assistant Superintendent Rojas. Regarding the February 20, 2019 incident involving J.W., after viewing the video, Principal Castro opined: "I was mortified. I was mortified. I'm a parent and the only thing I could think was what if it was my child" (Tr. 1, 86:21-23). When asked if she had ever been aware of that type of action by a teacher, Principal Castro responded, "Absolutely not. Not during my tenure in Paterson" (Tr. 1, 87:1-2). Watching the video during the hearing, Principal Castro had a similar reaction. She testified "it's like reliving it after - - it's mortifying. It's like my initial thought was what if that's my child and I am responsible for five -- approximately 500 children and my reaction was my duty is to these children and I immediately thought of my son" (Tr. 1, 88:13-18).

Assistant Superintendent Rojas, who was influential in the decision below, described the severity of Ms. Godinez's misconduct as follows:

> I saw Ms. Godinez, the way I can describe it, is manhandling a – – you know, a small – – a small student. At that time, I didn't know he was special ed. but clearly a student that was maybe one-third her size, putting all her weight on him, really, you know, and a manner that was just totally inappropriate (Tr. 2, 260:1-8).

When asked if he was bothered by what he saw, Assistant Superintendent Rojas responded "100 percent" (Tr. 2, 260:16-18). Rojas went on to testify:

> I thought it was disgraceful that you have an adult – – and I put myself in the situation that if that was my child, I would be irate having a teacher with the audacity to roll and put her weight on my child and then especially that he was – and knowing that he was a special ed student, I was infuriated. I mean that student regardless of what had occurred that precipitated, for her to be on top of him, her keeping her weight on top of him, rolling around on the ground while I watched and the more times I watched it, it was just infuriating (Tr. 2, 260:20-261:5).

> There's absolutely nothing that she could have justified rolling on the ground with a special ed. student who was one-third her size who at the end of the day wasn't hurting anyone in the video, wasn't hurting her. If he was such a threat, he would have been – his hands were free. He could have punched her. He could have slapped her. He could have pulled her hair. I mean and he would have probably rightfully so been justified in trying to get this woman off of him and he did nothing of the sort (Tr. 2, 291:19-292:4).

When asked if it concerned him that the entire class was watching this, Assistant Superintendent Rojas responded:

> Absolutely. It was – – you know, it had to have been – – again, put myself in the situation of one of those kids, it would have been shocking to see, you know, one of my students, one of my co--fellow students, you know being manhandled by a teacher on the ground and watching her just be, to my opinion, very comfortable doing what she was doing, which was really just disheartening, but the other students and putting those individuals and those students, you know, into that situation where they had to observe, you know, one of their students or one of their co-students or friends, you know, being thrown and manipulated on the ground that way was just uncalled for (Tr. 2, 261:13-262:1).

> .....

> Well, I mean it's in front of the whole class and not only did--after watching the video not only did you, you know, watch the young man, you know, have to have Ms. Godinez on top of him for two minutes and if that wasn't shocking enough, after he gets up and tries to collect his, you know wit's [sic] about him, you know, she's in his face yelling. At one point she's bent over, you know, yelling in his face. You can see those gestures and that body language where she's screaming at him, you know, and she > could care less that he's wiping tears, you know, away from his eyes, you know. It was heartless. To me it was cold hearted" (Tr. 2, 266:24-267:11).

With respect to the February 25, 2019 incident at EWK, Principal Hoff testified that he was concerned with Ms. Godinez's response:

> Well, when you're talking about children fighting and you're talking about children's welfare, when you have an alteration, something – I mean building protocol calls for, you know, either intervene, call security, somehow some way – what we didn't want was a situation where based on what the kids described and the staff member described that the kids were in a circle observing this fight. Someone could have got very seriously hurt (Tr. 2, 204:13-21).

Assistant Superintendent Rojas added:

> "because it's the responsibility of all adults no matter who you are, whether it's me all the way down to the cafeteria, if I'm in a building and see two students or I see a group of students fighting, it is my duty and my responsibility as an adult in district, as an employee of the Paterson Public School District to intervene and break up the fight to the best of my abilities" (Tr. 2, 280:25-281:7).

Frankly, after a de novo review of the record, I find that, more or less, the reactions and concerns expressed by the two administrators and Assistant Superintendent Rojas above coincide with my own.

In addition to considering Ms. Godinez's long-term employment, I did fully consider other defenses raised by Ms. Godinez including, but not limited to a lack of intent to punish regarding the February 20, 2019 incident, the inactions of Ms. Godinez' co-workers, her lack of training on the use of physical restraints, and the alleged lack of a full and fair investigation by the administrators and Assistant Superintendent Rojas, etc. Ultimately, for the reasons which follow, I did not find these additional defenses persuasive or persuasive enough to override the severity of Ms. Godinez' dual offenses.

Initially, I generally agree with the cases submitted by Counsel for Ms. Godinez which distinguish the severity of corporal punishment type offenses based on the intent of the teacher. Here, it is true that Ms. Godinez did not intend to inflict punishment on J.W. Rather, she acted with a misguided mindset to restrain J.W. in the first instance and then employed a risky and bizarre form of physical restraint which she had previously contemplated. While I agree that Ms. Godinez cannot be fairly found guilty of intentionally harming J.W., i.e., statutory corporal punishment, I do find that she acted recklessly and did temporarily harm J.W. both physically and emotionally, and she also created an appreciable risk of emotionally harming the other students who closely witnessed the incident. Here, even adopting and applying one of the more pertinent cases offered by Ms. Godinez, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Edith Craft, 2012 WL 2579497 (App. Div. 2012) and applying the Fulcomer test, I still find and conclude that Ms. Godinez' reckless conduct of February 20, 2019 leaves her at the edge of removal; and that her February 25, 2019 misconduct pushes her over that ledge.

In this case, unlike Craft, Ms. Godinez's misconduct did not involve a reflexive slap or isolated grab of J.W. Rather, on February 20, 2019, Ms. Godinez clearly had time to choose a course of action and she chose to unjustifiably subject J.W. to two minutes of physical and emotional stress and an additional one minute of hostile verbal treatment when calm and consolation were most needed. Also, unlike Craft, Ms. Godinez's February 25, 2019 inaction was not reflexive. On the contrary, in the absence of any evidence suggesting Ms. Godinez was not lucidly observing her class, I must conclude that her inactions were deliberate.

Also, in Craft, referring to other cases, the ALJ held that respondent's interaction with D.S. represented a single, isolated incident in a teaching career otherwise unmarked by wrongdoing. Here, however, the Board has sufficiently demonstrated Ms. Godinez's commission of comparatively more egregious misconduct on two separate occasions within just five days of one another.

The ALJ in Craft also observed that the Board presented no evidence showing that respondent's conduct had an injurious effect on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. Here, conversely, the Board is understandably concerned that Ms. Godinez cannot properly maintain discipline or earn the respect of students as exhibited by way of a confluence of two separate, but extremely close in time incidents whereby she plainly gave students and administrators ample reasons not to trust her in the classroom. Such lack of trust over important matters of student safety is reinforced by Ms. Godinez' failures to report the J.W. incident and to take J.W. to the school nurse and by her attempts to twice avoid responding to Ms. Fulmore's requests that she submit a report concerning the EWK incident. Accordingly, for these additional reasons, this matter is distinguishable from Craft.

Also, the ALJ in Craft, referring to two other cases, noted that the incident did not appear to have any immediate impact on D.S. According to Duffy, after respondent slapped D.S., D.S. simply returned to his seat. Duffy stated that D.S. did not appear agitated or injured, and he did not cry. Instead, according to Duffy, D.S. went back to his seat and he sat there and sucked his thumb as he normally did on any other day. Clearly, here, the facts are opposite. J.W. spontaneously complained of stomach pain and cried from the time Ms. Godinez got off of him and past the time he left the gym. The potential harm Ms. Godinez's actions caused to the two students on February 25, 2019 only compounds matters.

The ALJ in Craft noted evidence of provocation. That factor does not even exist in this case.

Finally, the ALJ in Craft noted that the teacher was truly remorseful for her actions. Here, I find, Ms. Godinez was not genuinely remorseful. Instead, she faulted others and disingenuously exaggerated J.W.'s conduct and conversely downplayed the risk of harm to the students who were fighting at EWK.

In light of the foregoing, I agree with Counsel for Ms. Godinez that she did not intentionally inflict corporal punishment on J.W. However, as demonstrated above, whether it is determined that Ms. Godinez acted intentionally or recklessly, the negative impact caused by her actions on February 20, 2019 is the same. Also, I have previously found that Ms. Godinez knowingly allowed two students to fight in her presence without intervention. It is the combination of her misconduct and the collective severity of same that, in my opinion, brings her over the edge.

I also agree, in part that the Board should have implemented some form of discipline or corrective action against Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas. However, I disagree that the failure of the Board to do so requires a modification of the removal penalty herein. Put simply, the comparison is not apples to apples. It is true that the same obligations imposed on Ms. Godinez to have intervened in the February 25, 2019 incident generally applied to Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas on February 20, 2019 when they witnessed their student, J.W. unnecessarily being restrained by Ms. Godinez. Having said this, however, Ms. Godinez was the antagonist on both February 20 and 25, 2019 and, unlike Ms. Godinez' conduct on February 25, 2019, Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas did not sit by and watch two students fight. Rather, Vanderlofske, a new teacher and Ms. Thomas, his aide, did not witness the incident until it was significantly underway and, from what can be gleaned from this record, they deferred out of fear and/or bewilderment of the actions being taken by a much more experienced teacher for the remaining one minute or so until she stood up. For these reasons, while I believe the Board should have taken some form of corrective action against Mr. Vanderlofske and Ms. Thomas, I do not believe that its failure to do so warrants a reduction in the removal penalty.

As to the February 25, 2019 incident at EWK, I do not find that the inaction of Ms. Grundman is relevant to either Ms. Godinez's liability or the propriety of the removal penalty. Ms. Grundman was situated further away from the scene of the students fighting on February 25, 2019 than Ms. Godinez; the two students belonged to Ms. Godinez; and Ms. Grundman was watching her own students for the brief period of time it took Ms. Fulmore and Ms. LeGarde to respond. Thus, I do not find that Ms. Godinez' misconduct is in any way explainable by an examination of Ms. Grundman's conduct.

Next, I will briefly address Ms. Godinez' lack of training defense. I have previously dismissed Tenure Charge I, to the extent that the Board incorrectly, in my opinion, relied upon N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13.5, and related Board Policies. However, I observe, a lack of training was not at issue when Ms. Godinez elected to respond in the manner which she did to a diminutive second grade student who no longer presented any realistic threat of harm. Common sense, regardless of training, should have told her not to do what she did due to the obvious prospect of causing physical injury to J.W. Finally, a lack of training had nothing to do with Ms. Godinez knowingly allowing two of her students to fight on February 25, 2019. In fact, during the EWK incident, it is obvious that Ms. Godinez, if she chose to, could have forcefully verbally directed an end to the fight. This is so because, as noted previously, Ms. Godinez had no difficulty forcefully admonishing J.W. on February 20, 2019. Thus, for these reasons, I do not credit a lack of training as a factor as to liability and/or penalty mitigation.

Ms. Godinez also claims that the investigations into the incidents did not comply with Board Policy, e.g., Principal Castro did not interview certain witnesses, Principal Hoff did not interview Ms. Grundman, the Director of Security, instead of Assistant Superintendent Rojas, should have investigated both matters, etc. In my opinion, regardless of the adequacy of the investigation(s) below, I have been provided with no reason to believe that the outcome of this proceeding would be any different had the investigation been conducted precisely as Ms. Godinez' claims it should have been.

In this de novo proceeding, both parties, represented by skilled attorneys, had essentially two opportunities – one before the Board of Education and the second this proceeding - to develop and present their respective cases, e.g., to engage in discovery, to interview any and all relevant witness, to call any and all relevant and available witness, to introduce any and all documentary evidence, etc. In short, nothing in this record convinces me that either party benefitted or was prejudiced by the nature of the Board's investigation which led to the initial certification of tenure charges against Ms. Godinez.

Lastly, Ms. Godinez has referred to no authority requiring the dismissal of tenure charges or the exclusion of any evidence based upon the conduct of the administration's investigation which led to the initial filing of tenure charges. Accordingly, I do not credit the adequacy, or lack thereof of the investigation below as a reason to alter any finding of fact or conclusion of law in this de novo proceeding.

Based on the foregoing, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, I find and conclude that the Board had just cause to remove Ms. Godinez from her position of employment as a public school teacher in the City of Paterson School District for committing two serious Conduct Unbecoming offenses pertaining to student safety.[18] [18] Nothing herein should be construed as addressing whether or not Ms. Godinez is fit to continue teaching in another school district. That determination if left to the State Board of Examiners.

AWARD

For the reasons more fully set forth herein, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, I find and conclude that the School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County had just cause to remove Blanca Godinez from her position of employment as a teacher for committing two serious Conduct Unbecoming offenses pertaining to student safety on February 20 and 25, 2019, respectively.

Respectfully submitted,

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 4, 2019, for resolution as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. A telephone prehearing was conducted on November 25, 2019, wherein the parties engaged in settlement discussions. A telephone status conference was scheduled for January 27, 2020. During the conference call, respondent's counsel advised that the matter is tentatively settled. A follow up conference was scheduled for February 27, 2020. Prior to that date, the parties submitted a fully executed settlement agreement which is attached hereto for reference.

Having reviewed the contents of the attached Settlement Agreement and General Release, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the stipulation should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with. PETER KOWALSKY, Petitioner, NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF NEW JERSEY OAL Docket No. EDU-15490-2019 N Agency Ref. No. 268-10/19 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties involved herein have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") that fully disposes of all issues in controversy between Peter Kowalsky ("Kowalsky") and the Board of Education of the City of Newark, County of Essex (the "Board"):

1. Kowalsky hereby agrees to retire from his tenured position effective March 1, 2020. Attached is a copy of Kowalsky's signed Letter of Retirement. (Exhibit A). Kowalsky's separation from employment will be deemed a voluntary resignation and retirement in good standing. Other than as required by law, upon inquiry from any third parties, the Board will only confirm Kowalsky's employment, position, title, salary and dates of employment.

2. Kowalsky also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that he may have previously filed against the Board that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers' compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the Board and Kowalsky, including this Petition, challenging Kowalsky's withholding of increment. Should Kowalsky fail to submit letters of withdrawals for any such pending claims or suits, this Settlement Agreement will serve as Kowalsky's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers' compensation claims.

3. In exchange, upon final execution of this settlement agreement by the Board, the Board will restore Kowalsky's salary increment that had been withheld for the 2019-20 school year, and Kowalsky will be entitled to the higher rate of pay from the start of the 2019-20 school year through his date of retirement on March 1, 2020.

4. As of the date of his resignation, all of Kowalsky's employment rights, including but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.

5. Kowalsky agrees that he will not apply for reemployment with the Board at any time. Specifically, Kowalsky will be considered to have permanently resigned from his tenured position as a result of this Settlement Agreement. If Kowalsky does apply for reemployment with the Board and is approved for employment in any capacity, the terms of this Settlement Agreement shall control and be grounds for immediate termination of Kowalsky's employment.

6. This Settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

7. Except as noted above, Kowalsky waives all claims of any nature against the Board with regard to his employment with and/or his separation from the District, including fees, or other monetary relief, with the exception of workers' compensation claims.

8. By entering into this Settlement Agreement, and in exchange for good consideration as set forth above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, Kowalsky releases and discharges the Board, the Board Superintendent, its Board of Education and its Board members, and any and all other Board officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") with respect to all claims or rights that he has or may have against the Board regarding his employment with the District. This includes without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Kowalsky's employment with the Board and separation from the Board except for workers' compensation claims. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Kowalsky may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the Federal False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensation laws, disability benefits laws, the retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law (and including any and all amendments to the above), the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance, common law and/or contract or implied contract or collective bargaining/ contractual claim or tort law or public policy or whistleblower claim, having any bearing whatsoever on his employment by and the termination of his employment with the District, including, but not limited to, any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, front pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wage, commission or bonus payment, attorneys fees, costs, and/or future wage loss, except for workers compensation claims. Kowalsky agrees to save, hold harmless and indemnify the Board for any legal costs and attorneys' fees associated with the enforcement of the terms of this Settlement Agreement should enforcement become necessary.

9. It is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the Board based upon any of the above-released claims, Kowalsky agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

10. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, if applicable, this Agreement advises Kowalsky of the legal requirements of the Act, and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Settlement Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Settlement Agreement, Kowalsky acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Settlement Agreement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given twenty one days within which to consider this Settlement Agreement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Settlement Agreement to revoke it. Kowalsky understands that he may rescind this Settlement Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the Board either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

11. The parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement Agreement and that each is signing this Settlement Agreement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

12. This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full agreement between the parties, and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law.

13. If any provision or portion of a provision of this Settlement Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction, or determined under applicable federal or state law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions or remaining portions of a provision will continue and remain in full force and effect.

14. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the Board and will only become effective upon the approval of the Board. Any disapproval by the Board shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

The East Orange Board of Education ("Board") and the East Orange Education Association ("Association") hereinafter jointly referred to as "the Parties," set forth the terms upon which the Parties have mutually agreed to permanently resolve the civil action of East Orange Educational Association v. East Orange Board of Education, OAL Docket No. 16273-18, Commissioner of Education Docket No. 240-9/18.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Board is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of the East Orange Public School District; and

WHEREAS, the Association is a collective negotiations representative for Board employees, including Board teachers; and

WHEREAS, Fatima Belal worked as a teacher for the Board during the 2017-2018 school year; and

WHEREAS, the Association served as Fatima Belal's collective bargaining representative throughout her employment with the Board; and

WHEREAS, the Association, acting on behalf of Fatima Belal, filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, which was subsequently transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing;

WHEREAS, the Parties mutually acknowledge that it is in their best interests to amicably resolve the matter

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board and the Association, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the Parties, hereby agree as follows:

(1) CONSIDERATION.

a. The Board shall issue a check payable to Fatima Belal, for the pre-tax value of $517.44. This amount represents the calculated value of one day salary for Belal during the 2017-2018 school year. The Board shall send this check to Oxfeld Cohen, P.C., at 60 Park Place, Suite 600, Newark, New Jersey 07102.

b. The Parties further agree that the terms set forth in this agreement are binding only on the parties herein and that this agreement does not constitute a waiver of any future claims or future defenses by either party.

(2) RELEASE. In exchange for the consideration provided above, the Association hereby releases and hereby surrenders any and all claims and rights which they may have against the Board including the Board of Education's employees, elected officials, officers, its agents and/or its assigns not named above in connection the subject matter of East Orange Educational Association v. East Orange Board of Education., filed in the Administrative Office of the Courts Docket No. OAL Docket No. 240-9/18, including any claims not pleaded therein or any claims cognizable or allowable pursuant to amendment against this Board, including but not limited to, any and all past, present or future claims, demands, obligations, actions, causes of action, rights, damages, costs, loss of services, expenses, and compensation of any nature which have occurred up to and including the date of this Settlement Agreement and Release ("Agreement").

(3) UNDERSTANDING OF THE PARTIES. . This lawsuit is being settled, and the Association hereby agrees it will not seek anything further for itself or any of its members, including any other payment from the Board as to the claims made in the Complaint.

(4) NON-ADMISSION. This Agreement is not, and shall not in any way be considered or construed as, an admission of liability by either party of discrimination, retaliation, tortious conduct, or of any violation of any law, common law, or federal, state or local statute or regulation, or of any education policy, practice, contract or agreement, or of any alleged duty owed, or of any unlawful or wrongful acts whatsoever by either party. Both parties specifically deny any wrongdoing of any kind.

(5) TAXABILITY. The Association hereby agrees that no representations have been made by the Board or his own legal counsel, who has instructed him to consult with a Certified Public Accountant, as to either the taxability or non-taxability of this settlement, and the Association hereby waives any and all claims against the Board in the event that Federal or state authorities deem this settlement or any portion thereof to be taxable, and upon such an occurrence the Association alone, is solely responsible for the payment of any such taxes that may have incurred.

(6) LIENS. It is specifically agreed by the PETITIONER that it is solely responsible for any and all liens arising from this claim which may exist, including but not limited to, Workers' Compensation liens, welfare liens and/or liens for medical bills. The PETITIONER expressly agrees to defend and hold harmless the releasees against any and all claims for payment of liens.

(7) ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the Parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings between the Parties.

(8) REVIEW OF AGREEMENT. The Parties hereby agree and certify that they have read the entire agreement, that they fully understand the terms and conditions as outlined in the Agreement, and that they have conferred with their attorney and has asked all relevant questions of their attorney concerning the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the settlement of their claims, and that they have voluntarily signed said Agreement with all the provisions contained herein.

(9) SEVERABILITY. If any portion of this Agreement shall be held to be invalid or unenforceable for any reason, the remaining provisions shall continue to be valid and enforceable. If a court finds that any provision of this Agreement is invalid or unenforceable but that by limiting such provision the Agreement would become valid or enforceable, then such provision shall be deemed to be written, construed and enforced as so limited.

(10) COSTS AND ATTORNEY'S FEES. Each party's costs and attorneys' fees, if any, will be borne by the respective party.

(11) SIGNATURES. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts and it is subject to Board's receipt of the Association's signed Agreement.

(12) EFFECTIVE DATE. The Effective Date shall be the date of the final decision by the Commissioner of Education, approving this Agreement. If either the Office of Administrative Law or the Commissioner of Education rejects this Agreement, the Parties will maintain the same rights as prior to this Agreement, including the right to proceed with East Orange Educational Association v. East Orange Board of Education, OAL Docket No. 16273-18, Commissioner of Education Docket No. 240-9/18.

I understand and agree to the terms of this Agreement. If this Agreement is made by a corporation its proper corporate officers sign and its corporate seal is affixed.

SEPARATION OF SERVICE AGREEMENT

This Agreement is hereby effective Jan. 14, 2020, by and between BARBARA POPP (hereinafter "Ms. Popp") and the MANVILLE SCHOOL DISTRICT (hereinafter the "Board") (collectively the "Parties") according to the following:

1. VOLUNTARY RETIREMENT: Ms. Popp hereby submits an irrevocable notice of resignation for retirement purposes effective at the close of business on June 30, 2020 (Exhibit A). The Board shall approve the resignation by resolution at its next scheduled Board meeting following receipt of Ms. Popp's resignation.

2. MEDICAL LEAVE: Ms. Popp shall submit written request to the Board for a medical leave for the period commencing the date of this agreement and ending June 30, 2020 (Exhibit B). The Board shall approve Ms. Popp's request for a medical leave of absence by resolution, and Ms. Popp shall be placed on a paid leave of absence with full salary and health benefits, subject to required payment and/or contributions as provided by law, effective the date of this agreement and ending June 30, 2020.

3. COMPENSATION: For good and valuable consideration and in consideration of this Agreement, Ms. Popp will earn her annual salary prorated from the date of this agreement through June 30, 2020, utilizing her accrued sick days. Upon the Board's approval of the resolution, Ms. Popp will have her 2019-2020 increment returned to her current salary, effective July 1, 2019, and she be entitled to all any relevant longevity or other provisions included in the Collective Bargaining Agreement. On June 30, 2020, Ms. Popp shall have her remaining sick and unused vacation days, for which she will be compensated in accordance with the Agreement. With the exception of the aforementioned payments for unused sick and vacation days Ms. Popp is entitled to compensation at retirement, Ms. Popp forever waives any and all claims for any additional compensation or benefits or reimbursement of any kind not otherwise specified in this Agreement.

4. RELEASE: Ms. Popp hereby releases, waives and forever discharges any and all past, present or future claims that relate to any action that predates this Agreement that she may have against the Board, including but not limited to OAL Docket No. EDU 14370-2019 and any and all claims for back pay or any other claim related to her employment with the Board, with the exception of the sick, personal and vacation days Ms. Popp is entitled through June 30, 2020 in accordance with this Agreement. Ms. Popp acknowledges that she has the opportunity to consult with legal counsel and representatives of her choice regarding this Agreement and the General Release and Waiver that accompanies it prior to executing it; and that she represents that she has read this Agreement and the General Release and Waiver and fully understands them and agrees to be bound by them. Ms. Popp also acknowledges that she has been given a reasonable period of time within which to consider this settlement and the terms of this Agreement and General Release and Waiver prior to executing them.

5. WAIVER: Ms. Popp agrees to accept the compensation referred to in Paragraph 3 in full and final settlement and waiver of any and all claims against the Board, specifically included in this waiver are Ms. Popp's claims as contained in OAL Docket No. EDU 14370-2019.Such compensation and health benefits shall be in full satisfaction and settlement and waiver of any and all claims or demands which Ms. Popp now has or may have had against the Board; and in recognition of and consideration for Ms. Popp's promise to provide the Board with a Release of all claims against it.

6. OLDER WORKER BENEFIT PROTECTION ACT OF 1990: To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, this Agreement advises Ms. Popp of the legal requirements of the Act, and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Agreement as follows:

a. Ms. Popp fully understands the terms and conditions of this Agreement;

b. Ms. Popp has been advised to consult with an attorney to review the Agreement;

c. Ms. Popp specifically waives her right to pursue any claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act;

d. Ms. Popp does not waive any rights or claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act that may arise after the date the waiver is executed.

e. Ms. Popp is receiving consideration above and beyond anything of value to which he already is entitled;

f. Ms. Popp has been given at least seven (7) days within which to consider this Agreement.

g. Ms. Popp has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this waiver to revoke it.

7. ENTIRE AGREEMENT: This Agreement and General Release and Waiver contain the entire Agreement and understanding between the Parties and constitute a full and final agreement in any and all issues relating to this matter, except that the Parties reserve their right to enforce this Agreement, if necessary.

8. CONFIDENTIALITY: This Agreement shall remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law and neither party shall disclose the terms of this Agreement to third parties.

9. CHOICE OF LAW: This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

10. SEVERABILITY: If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of the Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of the Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

11. BINDING EFFECT: The Parties shall be bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement, finding it to be in the best interests of the public, consistent with public policy, fair and equitable under all circumstances surrounding this matter.

12. VOLUNTARY AGREEMENT: The Parties have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily with a full understanding of their rights and the contents of this Agreement.

13. ADMISSION OF LIABILITY: The Parties' entry into this Agreement shall not constitute nor shall it be interpreted as an admission of wrongdoing or guilt, or liability in any manner on either of the Parties' part. Any such obligation or liability on either Party's part is expressly denied. The Parties have entered into this Agreement solely to compromise disputed claims.

14. OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT WITH COUNSEL: The Parties acknowledge that each has been given the opportunity to consult with an attorney or a representative of their own choosing with respect to this Agreement and reviewed with their attorney or representative all the terms and conditions of this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement. Each Party signs this Agreement freely and voluntarily and without coercion or duress. The Parties further acknowledge that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein and have been informed of their legal rights and obligations.

15. BREACH: If either party breaches this Agreement, the breaching party shall bear the costs of the non-breaching party of any litigation or efforts to have such breach corrected or compensated for, including but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees.

16. RATIFICATION: The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Agreement and bind the Board to its terms.

17. GOOD FAITH: The Parties expressly agree that they shall act in good faith to ensure implementation of this Separation of Service Agreement and General Release and Waiver. The Parties mutually agree to refrain from retaliation, in any manner, against the other party (or, their families, members, agents and employees). The Parties further mutually agree not to make any derogatory comments, statements or misrepresentations about the other (or, their families, members, agents and employees).

18. COBRA: Nothing contained within this Separation of Service Agreement shall alter Ms. Popp's rights, if any, to continuation of any health insurance through Federal law, i.e. the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA") upon separation from employment with the Board.

19. OTHER TERMS: Letters placed in Ms. Popp's personnel file by the superintendent will be removed upon her retirement.

20. MODIFICATIONS: This Agreement may not be altered, amended or modified except in writing, signed and duly authorized by all Parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties hereunder set their hands and seals to this Agreement effective on this _____ day of _____, 2020.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Scott Baron,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE), Office of Student Protection (OSP), that he is permanently disqualified from employment as a private school bus driver. Petitioner had driven a school bus for a non-public school since 2012; the school was fully aware at the time of his hiring that in 2008, he had pled guilty to two second-degree felonies for misappropriating a former employer's money. Petitioner was granted a school bus license and several subsequent renewals by the Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC), despite the fact that his background checks revealed his 2008 guilty plea. Petitioner was disqualified by OSP in 2019 after submitting to a criminal history background check through the NJDOE pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, which revealed his 2008 guilty plea; OSP subsequently notified the MVC of the disqualification, and the MVC revoked petitioner's school bus license. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; an analysis of applicable statutes indicates that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 applies only to public school bus drivers; private schools have the discretion to employ a person who would be disqualified from public school employment; the Commissioner's powers and responsibilities regarding background checks of nonpublic school employees are limited to determining whether such persons could work in a public school; these powers and responsibilities do not extend to persons employed in non-public schools; and the statutory provisions regarding background checks of nonpublic school employees do not require the Commissioner to notify the MVC regarding revocation of the license of a non-public school employee with a disqualifying offense on his record. The ALJ concluded that a private school has the discretion to employ a bus driver even if that person would be disqualified from public school employment; further, OSP should notify the MVC that petitioner's school bus driver credentials must be restored so that he may resume his employment as a private school bus driver. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the petitioner's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the OSP's cross motion.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, the Commissioner found that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 applies only to bus drivers employed by public schools or other educational entities under the supervision of the NJDOE. With regard to nonpublic school bus drivers, the Commissioner's authority is limited to reporting whether a criminal history record check reveals offenses that would be disqualifying in a public school. The OSP was ordered to notify the MVC to restore petitioner's school bus driver license.

Agency Dkt. No. 207-8/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Scott Baron,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and petitioner's reply thereto have been reviewed.

In 2008, petitioner pled guilty to two second-degree felonies for misappropriating his former employer's money. In 2012, a nonpublic school, which was aware of his criminal history, hired him as a bus driver. He applied for a school bus driver license through the Motor Vehicle Commission, and he was granted a license and several subsequent renewals even though his background checks revealed his 2008 guilty plea. In 2019, petitioner submitted to a criminal background check through the Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP). The OSP, upon receiving information about petitioner's criminal history, issued a letter stating that petitioner was permanently disqualified from employment as a school bus driver pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1. The OSP notified the Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC) of the disqualification and the MVC revoked petitioner's school bus driver license.[1]

[1] The MVC has represented that the license will be restored if the Department of Education determines that petitioner is qualified to operate a commercial vehicle for the purpose of transporting school children.

The ALJ analyzed the applicable statutes and concluded that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 applies only to public school bus drivers and that a private school has the discretion to employ a person who would be disqualified from public school employment. The Commissioner's powers and responsibilities with respect to background checks of nonpublic school employees are limited to determining whether such persons could work in a public school, not whether such person may work in a private school. Moreover, the statutory provisions pertaining to background checks of nonpublic school employees do not require the Commissioner to notify the MVC to revoke the license of a private school employee with a disqualifying offense on his or her record. The ALJ further found that, because petitioner had obtained a certificate under the Rehabilitated Convicted Offenders Act (RCOA), he could not be disqualified from employment as a bus driver.

In its exceptions, the OSP argues N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 does not limit the background check requirements to drivers employed by public schools, and that petitioner's disqualification under that statute is mandatory. The OSP further contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 define only what a private school employer may do, while the issue here is what the OSP is required to do following a background check. Regarding the RCOA, the OSP argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 permanently disqualifies individuals convicted of the listed offenses from being a bus driver and that petitioner has not offered any proof to support the assertion that the RCOA negates that requirement.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner is not disqualified from employment as a bus driver for a nonpublic school, for the reasons thoroughly explained in the Initial Decision. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 provides that nonpublic schools may require prospective employees, including bus drivers, to demonstrate that they have no criminal history that would disqualify them from employment in a public school. Following a criminal history record check, the Department shall provide written notification to the nonpublic school of the "determination as to whether the candidate would be qualified or disqualified for employment in the public schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15. This provision stands in stark contrast to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-

19.1, which provides that following a criminal history record check for a school bus driver, the Department shall notify the applicant "of the applicant's qualification or disqualification as a school bus driver." Applying the mandatory disqualification provision of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 to nonpublic school bus drivers would render N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15 meaningless. The Legislature, which enacted both of these statutes in the same year, cannot be presumed to have intended such a result. The Commissioner therefore finds that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 applies only to bus drivers employed by public schools or other educational entities under the supervision of the Department of Education. With regard to nonpublic school bus drivers, the Commissioner's authority is limited to reporting whether a criminal history record check reveals offenses that would be disqualifying in a public school.[2]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed as modified herein. Petitioner is not disqualified from operating a school bus for a nonpublic school. The OSP shall notify the MVC to restore petitioner's school bus driver license.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 3/13/20
Date of Mailing: 3/16/20

[2] As the relief requested in the Petition of Appeal pertained solely to petitioner's ability to operate a school bus for a private school not under the jurisdiction of the Department, the Commissioner does not reach the RCOA issue.

[3] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11417-19
AGENCY DKT. NO. 207-8/19

SCOTT BARON,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF STUDENT PROTECTION,
Respondent.

Scott Baron, petitioner, pro se

Sydney Finkelstein,[1] Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: January 21, 2020 Decided: January 29, 2020

[1] Geoffrey Stark. Deputy Attorney General, submitted both the opposition to the motion for summary decision and cross-motion, but has since left the Division of Law.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 12, 2019, Scott Baron, (petitioner or Baron), filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education. He challenges respondent Department of Education's (DOE) determination that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, he is disqualified from employment as a private school bus driver as a result of his two second-degree felony convictions, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 required the DOE to notify the Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC) of Baron's employment disqualification so that the MVC could immediately revoke his school bus driver credentials.

As part of this matter, Baron seeks to amend his petition to add the MVC as a party, and the parties have filed cross-motions for summary decision on the issue of whether the school and motor vehicle laws requiring public school bus drivers' disqualification from employment and loss of licensure for certain criminal offenses also apply to private school bus drivers.

It was subsequently transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 19, 2019, as an application for emergent relief. However, after discussing the matter with the parties the application was withdrawn.

On November 15, 2019, Baron filed a motion for summary decision challenging his disqualification from employment as a private school bus driver. The DOE filed a cross-motion for summary decision. The undersigned provided the parties time for briefs. Oral argument was not requested, and on January 21, 2020, the record closed with respect to the motions for summary decision.

The question for me to decide is whether a private school bus driver is disqualified from employment or subject to license revocation if his criminal history includes an offense that would otherwise disqualify him from employment and subject him to license revocation if he were a public-school bus driver.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The essential facts of this case are not in dispute and as such I FIND AS FACT that Baron is a former attorney who, in 2008, pled guilty to two second-degree felonies for misappropriating his employer's money for his personal use. He served several months in prison for his crimes.

In 2012, Baron started a new career as an office clerk and a school bus driver for The Hebrew Academy (THA), which is a toddler through grade eight private school in Marlboro that his own children attended.

In July of that year, Baron applied to the MVC for the commercial driver's license (CDL) and P (Passenger) and S (School Bus) endorsements that he needed to work as a school bus driver for THA. The application stated that "an applicant must be fingerprinted as part of the background records check" under either the procedure for "school bus operators under the jurisdiction of the Dept. of Education (N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1)" or for "school bus drivers for private/parochial school . . . not under the jurisdiction of the Dept. of Education (N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1)." Petitioner's Ex. D. Because THA is a private school, Baron selected the latter option—that he would not "be transporting school-age children under the jurisdiction of the Department of Education"—and submitted his fingerprints for a criminal background check by the MVC under N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1. Ibid.

In support of his application, THA's Head of School, Yoti Golan, advised the MVC that THA is a private school that is not under the jurisdiction of DOE and that she intended to employ Baron as a school bus driver once he was properly licensed. Petitioner's Ex. E. After completing a background check, MVC issued Baron a CDL with P and S endorsements. Petitioner's Exs. F, F1, and G. In 2013, and again in 2017, the MVC renewed Baron's school bus driver credentials upon a background check in accordance with the procedures for bus drivers for schools not under the jurisdiction of the DOE. Petitioner's Exs. H, I, J, K, L, M, and N.

In 2019, all THA employees, including Baron, submitted to criminal background checks through the DOE. As a result of that background check, the DOE's Office of Student Protection advised Baron by letter dated July 5, 2019, that, due to his second-degree convictions in 2008, and pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, he was "permanently disqualified from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility." Petitioner's Exs. A and R. The DOE also advised THA of the results of Baron's background check and asked THA to "[p]lease notify this office in writing as to the final disposition of [Baron's] employment." Petitioner's Ex. S.

In response, Ms. Golan advised the DOE that THA is a private school that does not receive support from state appropriations and that, therefore, THA is not under the jurisdiction of the DOE and "disqualification of Mr. Baron from employment with a public school is not applicable to THA, a private school." Petitioner's Ex. T. She further advised the DOE that, despite Baron's criminal history, "it is my intention to retain Mr. Baron as an employee of THA." Despite Ms. Golan's protest, the DOE, by letter dated July 22, 2019, notified her that, while the DOE did not object to Baron's continued employment as an office clerk for THA, "[b]y law this office has advised the [MVC] of the DOE's disqualification [of Baron as a school bus driver] and the MVC will be suspending the 'S' endorsement." Petitioner's Exs. T and U.

On or about July 31, 2019, the MVC notified Baron that the agency "has received information from [the DOE] that you have been disqualified as a school bus operator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 because . . . you have been convicted of one of the disqualifying crimes specified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1." Petitioner's Ex. B. The MVC further notified Baron that, as a result, "pursuant to authority under N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1, 39:5-30 and N.J.A.C. 13:21-14.5(a) and (c), the Commission has suspended your privilege to operate school buses . . . used in the transportation of school children in New Jersey as of 07/29/2019, for an indefinite period." Ibid. Finally, the MVC advised Baron that "[i]f at some future time the [DOE] determines that you are qualified to operate commercial vehicles for the purpose of transporting school children, the [DOE] will notify the Commissioner in writing of their decision and your privilege may be restored." Ibid.

On August 14, 2019, Baron challenged his disqualification from employment as a school bus driver by filing with the Commissioner of Education a petition of appeal, including a separate motion for emergent relief, seeking an order compelling the DOE to vacate his permanent disqualification from driving a school bus for a private school not under the DOE's jurisdiction, and compelling the DOE to advise the MVC to reinstate his school bus driver credentials. On August 19, 2019, the Commissioner transmitted the petition and motion for emergent relief to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing.

Subsequently, Baron withdrew his motion for emergent relief, but filed with the OAL an amended petition to add the MVC as a party to this matter. The parties have also filed cross-motions for summary decision.

In support of his motion for summary decision, Baron argues that public school bus drivers and private school bus drivers are subject to different school and motor vehicle laws and that, although he is disqualified from employment as a public school bus driver as a result of his second-degree felony convictions, his criminal history does not disqualify him from employment as a private school bus driver and the DOE should not have notified the MVC to revoke his school bus driver credentials. In the alternative, Baron argues that, even if the laws requiring a public school bus driver's employment disqualification and license revocation for certain offenses also apply to private school bus drivers, he has, pursuant to the Rehabilitation of Convicted Offenders Act (RCOA), N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-1 to -16, received from the Superior Court of New Jersey Intensive Supervision Program a certificate suspending any and all disabilities, forfeitures and/or bars that would impede his ability to operate a school bus for employment purposes. In opposition to Baron's motion and in support of its cross-motion, the DOE maintains that "[t]he statutes governing school-bus-driver licensing and criminal background checks are not conditioned upon a licensee's employer[;] they apply to all school bus drivers in the state, in part because licensees have the ability to change jobs, or may be employed by a bus contractor that does business with both public and private schools."

DOE's December 11, 2019, Brief, p. 8. Thus, according to the DOE, because Baron "was convicted of two second-degree felonies, which are disqualifying offenses under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, . . . the Commissioner must [pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1] disqualify [him] from working as a school bus driver, regardless of whether he is currently employed by a public school district, a bus contractor, or, as in [Baron's] case, a private, religious school" and, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1, "the Chief Administrator of the MVC must immediately revoke the school-bus-driver special license" upon notification of a school bus driver's employment disqualification. Ibid.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

First, I will address the procedural issues and concerns with Baron's attempt to amend his petition to add the Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC). Generally, under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR), N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, parties may freely amend their pleadings in contested cases "unless precluded by law or constitutional principle." N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2. However, because N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3 specifically precludes third-party joinder in contested case hearings in the absence of statutory authority, and because the school laws, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 to -76-4, do not specifically authorize third-party joinder in hearings arising thereunder, Baron cannot amend his pleadings to join the MVC as a party to this matter.

Besides, the MVC is not a necessary party to this matter. When the MVC notified Baron of his license revocation, the agency advised him that "[i]f at some future time the [DOE] determines that you are qualified to operate commercial vehicles for the purpose of transporting school children, the [DOE] will notify the Commissioner in writing of their decision and your privilege may be restored." Thus, if Baron ultimately prevails in this matter, the DOE, which is a party to this matter, can provide Baron the relief he seeks without the MVC's involvement as a party.

Under the UAPR, the standards for summary decision are that "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits" and "[t]he decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). When the motion "is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

In 1989, the Legislature passed two separate laws concerning criminal history checks of school bus drivers. Under one law, L. 1989, c. 104, the Legislature made criminal history checks of public school bus drivers mandatory. Under the other law, L. 1989, c. 229, the Legislature made criminal history checks of private school bus drivers optional.

First, through L. 1989, c. 104, the Legislature created procedures at N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 for background checks of public school bus drivers and required their disqualification from public school employment for certain offenses. Specifically, under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, "[p]rior to employment as a school bus driver, and upon application for renewal of a school bus driver's license, a bus driver shall submit to the Commissioner of Education the driver's name, address, and fingerprints" for a criminal history check by the FBI and the State Police. The law further dictates that "[a] school bus driver . . . shall be permanently disqualified from employment or service if the individual's criminal history record reveals a record of conviction for which public school employment candidates are disqualified pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1], which includes "any crime of the first or second degree." N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1(a); N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 also requires the Commissioner to notify the MVC and "[t]he local board of education or the school bus contractor and the County Superintendent of Schools" of the bus driver applicant's disqualification from employment. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1(d). Finally, the MVC "shall, upon notice of disqualification from the Commissioner of Education, immediately revoke the applicant's special license issued pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1] without necessity of a further hearing." Ibid.

Through L. 1989, c. 104 the Legislature also amended N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 to account for the new procedures at N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, which requires criminal record searches for all prospective public school employees whose jobs would involve regular interaction with pupils and lists the criminal offenses that permanently disqualify such individuals from public school employment, was amended to specifically state that "[a]n individual employed by a board of education or a school bus contractor holding a contract with a board of education, in the capacity of a school bus driver, shall be required to meet the criminal history record requirements pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1]." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

And N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1, which is a motor vehicle law governing licensure of school bus drivers, was also amended by L. 1989, c. 104 to reflect the license revocation requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, such that "[n]otwithstanding the provisions of any law to the contrary, the chief administrator shall, upon notice of disqualification from the Commissioner of Education pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1], immediately revoke the special license . . . without the necessity of a further hearing."[2] N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1.

Second, under L. 1989, c. 229, the Legislature gave nonpublic schools the choice of requiring candidates for employment, including bus drivers, to undergo criminal history checks facilitated by the Commissioner. That law, which is now codified as N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17, provides that "[a]ny nonpublic school may require all final candidates for employment or service under contract with the school as a . . . bus driver . . . to demonstrate that no criminal history record information exists . . . which would disqualify that individual from employment in the public schools of this State pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1]." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13.

[2] The law originally referred to "the director," but was subsequently amended to refer to "the chief administrator" to reflect a change in title for the head of the MVC.

Based on the results of the check, the Commissioner shall "determin[e] whether the applicant would be qualified or disqualified for employment in the public schools and shall inform the applicant of his determination in writing" and "[t]he commissioner shall also provide written notification to the chief administrator of the nonpublic school, which requires the criminal history record check as a condition of employment, of his determination as to whether the candidate would be qualified or disqualified for employment in the public schools." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15.

Thus, in the same year, the Legislature created procedures for mandatory criminal history checks of public school bus drivers under one law, and optional criminal history checks of nonpublic school bus drivers under a separate law. Moreover, that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 applies exclusively to public school bus drivers, while N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 applies exclusively to private school bus drivers, seems obvious. First, the opening sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 states that, "[p]rior to employment as a school bus driver, and upon application for renewal of a school bus driver's license, a bus driver shall submit to the Commissioner of Education the driver's name, address, and fingerprints" for a background check. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1(a) (emphasis added). While this sub-provision does not modify "school bus driver" with public or nonpublic, it is clear that this requirement applies only to public school bus drivers, because prospective private school bus drivers are not required to submit to criminal history checks through the Commissioner unless the private school so chooses under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17.

Second, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 is rife with specific references as to public schools, which are governed by local boards of education, but makes no mention of nonpublic schools, which are not governed by local boards of education. See, e.g., N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1(a) ("the commissioner shall notify the employing board of education or contractor, and the board or contractor shall take appropriate action;" "[t]he commissioner shall notify the employing board of education or contractor that the driver is no longer eligible for employment"); N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1(d) ("[t]he local board of education or the school bus contractor and the County Superintendent of Schools shall also be notified of the disqualification").

Finally, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 specifically lists bus drivers among the nonpublic school employment candidates who may be required to undergo a background check, and cross-references N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 for the procedures the Commissioner shall follow to conduct such checks, but neither N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 nor any of the other provisions governing criminal history checks of nonpublic school employment candidates references N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1.

And although there are similarities between the separate laws, there are also important differences. Unlike N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, the provisions governing private school background checks, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17, do not explicitly state that a school bus driver whose criminal history includes an offense listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 cannot be hired by a nonpublic school, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 do not include MVC notification or license revocation requirements.

The differing language in these related laws that were enacted in the same year is important because "a comparative analysis of the language of contemporaneous statutes may, because of contrasting language applicable to similar subject matter, be indicative of an intent or purpose on the part of the Legislature to provide different treatment." Malone v. Fender, 80 N.J. 129, 136 (1979) (citing Smith v. Twp. of Hazlet, 63 N.J. 523, 527 (1973)).

Thus, in Smith v. Twp. of Hazlet, 63 N.J. 523, the Supreme Court addressed the difference between two contemporaneous statutes—one providing for the creation of police departments in cities (L. 1899, c. 135) and the other providing for the creation of police departments in townships (L. 1899,c. 169)—and concluded that:

> Where two comprehensive statutes are enacted by the same legislative body in the same year, one dealing with a certain class of cities and the other dealing with townships, and where the former designates the office of chief of police and accords the holder of the office some measure of statutory authority, while on the same subject the latter is silent, the inference is permissible that the distinction is a purposeful one.
> [id. at 527.]

Like in Smith, the fact that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 requires the Commissioner to notify the MVC if a public school bus driver applicant has a disqualifying criminal record and requires the MVC to revoke the bus driver's license, but N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 are silent on the same subjects (and do not reference N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1), leads to the permissible inference that the distinction between public school bus drivers and private school bus drivers is a purposeful one, and that the Legislature intended to treat the two classes of drivers differently. Specifically, there is a permissible inference under the laws governing background checks of private school bus drivers that the Commissioner is not required to notify the MVC of an offense that would be disqualifying for public school employment, the MVC is not required to revoke the license of a private school bus driver applicant for such an offense, and a private school has the discretion to employ a bus driver even if such person would be disqualified from public school employment.

This conclusion is reinforced by the fact that, unlike the mandatory criminal background checks of public school employment applicants under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 ("a bus driver shall submit" to a background check) and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 (a public school bus driver "shall be required to meet the criminal history record requirements pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1]"), criminal history checks of applicants for private school employment, including bus drivers, are optional, such that "[a]ny nonpublic school may require" criminal background checks.[3] N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 (emphasis added). And if the private school so chooses, and the Commissioner determines that a private school bus driver applicant "would be . . . disqualified for employment in the public schools," N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15 (emphasis added), there is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 that prohibits the private school head from nonetheless employing that person as a school bus driver (unless, of course, that person had previously applied for public school employment and had his driver's license revoked pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1).[4] And again, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 requires the MVC to revoke the school

[3] The only caveat under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 is that a private school that elects to require background checks must apply the requirement uniformly to all applicants.

[4] The fact that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15 is written in the conditional tense with reference to public school employment—"would be . . . disqualified for employment in the public schools"—is also indicative of the bus driver license of a public school applicant or employee with a disqualifying criminal offense on his record, while N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 do not. Thus, unlike a public school, a private school does not have to run background checks on prospective employees and may hire a school bus driver even if a criminal history check would reveal that he had been convicted of an offense listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

And there is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 that prohibits a private school that does require background checks of its employment candidates or employees from hiring a candidate or continuing to employ an individual whose criminal history includes an offense listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15 simply requires that, after the results of a criminal history search are known, the Commissioner "provide written notification to the chief administrator of the nonpublic school, which requires the criminal history record check as a condition of employment, of his determination as to whether the candidate would be qualified or disqualified for employment in the public schools." (Emphasis added).

Thus, the Commissioner's powers and responsibilities with respect to background checks of nonpublic school employment candidates and employees is limited to a determination of whether such persons could work in a public school, not whether such person may work in a private school.[5] That decision is left to the head of a private school, who may choose to employ an individual even if he or she "would be . . . disqualified for employment in the public schools" due to a criminal history that includes a disqualifying offense under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. And, in the case of a private school bus driver, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 do not require or direct the Commissioner to notify the MVC to revoke the license of an applicant or employee with a disqualifying criminal offense on his or her record.

Legislature's intent to refrain from requiring permanent disqualification from private school employment for offenses that would disqualify a person from public school employment.

[5] These provisions may also apply to employees pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.15, which states that "[f]ollowing qualification for employment pursuant to this section, the State Bureau of Identification shall immediately forward to the Commissioner of Education any information which the bureau receives on a charge pending against an employee of the nonpublic school which requires a criminal history record check as a condition of employment" and that "[i]f the charge is for one of the crimes or offenses enumerated in section 1 of P.L. 1986, c.116 (C.18A:6-7.1), the commissioner shall notify the chief administrator of the nonpublic school."

The motor vehicle laws implicated by the education laws regarding criminal history checks of school bus drivers further supports the conclusion that public school bus drivers and private school bus drivers are treated differently with respect to permanent employment disqualification and license revocation. N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 provides that "any person applying for a special license and any person who is the holder of a special license . . . for the transporting of children to and from schools, pursuant to N.J.S.18A:39-1 et seq., shall comply with the provisions of . . . [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1]" and "[n]otwithstanding the provisions of any law to the contrary, the chief administrator shall, upon notice of disqualification from the Commissioner of Education pursuant to . . . [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1], immediately revoke the special license granted under authority of this section without the necessity of a further hearing." That is, N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 specifically references N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, which only applies to public school bus drivers, and not N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17, which governs private school bus drivers. Thus, by its terms, N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 only applies to public school bus drivers, and the Commissioner is only required to notify the MVC, and the MVC shall only revoke a school bus driver's license, in the event the driver has a disqualifying criminal offense and applies for a job with a public school or the driver commits a disqualifying offense while employed by a public school.

The motor vehicle regulation implementing N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 also distinguishes between public and private school bus drivers. Under N.J.A.C. 13:20-30.14(b), "[a] school bus driver shall submit to a criminal history record check at the time of his or her initial application and any renewal application for a Commercial Driver License with School Bus Endorsement authorizing the driver to operate a school bus by providing to the Department of Education his or her name, address, and fingerprints[.]"

In contrast, under N.J.A.C. 13:20-30.14(c), "[a] school bus driver who provides services only to a nonpublic school shall not be required to undergo a criminal history record check through the Department of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 provided that the chief administrator of the nonpublic school provides written documentation indicating that the school bus driver is not required to undergo a criminal history record check as a condition of employment or service under contract." And while, regardless of the education laws, both public and private school bus drivers must undergo criminal record checks through the MVC, N.J.A.C. 13:20-30.14(d), the standards for revocation under the motor vehicle laws and the education laws are different.

In this regard, while N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1 provides that "the chief administrator shall, upon notice of disqualification from the Commissioner of Education pursuant to [N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1], immediately revoke the special license . . . without the necessity of a further hearing," the same provision leaves the chief administrator with discretion in all other instances, such that "[t]he chief administrator may suspend or revoke a license granted under authority of this section for a violation of any of the provisions of this subtitle, or on other reasonable grounds, or where, in the chief administrator's opinion, the licensee is either physically or morally unfit to retain the same."[6] (Emphases added). The inference here is that the Chief Administrator must revoke a license pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, but that, in the absence of any reference to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17, he or she does not necessarily have to revoke the license of a private school bus driver who would be disqualified from public school employment. And again, there is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 that requires or directs the Commissioner to notify the MVC of a disqualifying offense or that requires the MVC to revoke a license.

Based on the foregoing analysis of the school and motor vehicle laws governing school bus drivers, and because there are no genuine issues of material fact, Baron is entitled to summary decision because the DOE improperly determined that, under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, Baron is permanently disqualified from working as a school bus driver for a private school due to his second-degree felony convictions, and the DOE should not have, under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1, notified the MVC to revoke Baron's school bus driver credentials.

In 1989, the Legislature decided to disparately treat public school bus drivers and private school bus drivers with respect to criminal background checks and the employment and licensure consequences for those drivers whose criminal histories include any offenses listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Through N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, the Legislature provided for mandatory criminal background checks, and for employment disqualification and license revocation, for public school bus drivers convicted of any of the criminal offenses listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1; through N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17, the Legislature provided for optional criminal background checks, but no mandatory employment disqualification and license revocation, for private school bus drivers convicted of any of the criminal offenses listed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

Baron's appeal arises from DOE's determination that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, he is "permanently disqualified from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility," and his school bus driver credentials had to be revoked.

As already discussed, N.J.S.A. 18:6-4.13 to -4.17, not N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1, governs private school bus drivers such as Baron, and those provisions do not authorize the Commissioner or DOE to permanently disqualify Baron from private school employment or advise the MVC to revoke his license. However, it is also important to note that the DOE's determination letter suffers from another contradiction. Baron does not dispute that he is permanently disqualified from working for "any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education." Instead, the problem with the DOE's determination is that THA is not under the supervision of the DOE.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23, "[t]he commissioner shall have supervision of all schools of the state receiving support or aid from state appropriations, except institutions of higher education[.]" Ms. Golan explained to the DOE that, as a private school that does not receive support from state appropriations, THA is not under the supervision of the DOE. Moreover, there is nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.13 to -4.17 that suggests that a private school that avails itself of the DOE's background check services consequently becomes an educational institution over which the Commissioner has supervision and cedes its hiring or firing discretion.

Instead, in light of the above discussion, summary decision in favor of Baron is appropriate, and I CONCLUDE that the DOE should notify the MVC to restore Baron's school bus driver credentials so that he may resume his employment as a private school bus driver.[7]

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 apply to private school bus drivers, such that Baron's criminal history disqualifies him from employment as a private school bus driver, Baron received a certificate removing the bar from his employment as a school bus driver. Assuming for argument's sake that, due to his criminal record, N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 require the Commissioner to permanently disqualify Baron from employment as a school bus driver for both public schools and private schools and to notify the MVC to revoke his school bus driver credentials, Baron has, pursuant to the RCOA, received a certificate that removes the bar to his employment as a school bus driver under N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1. Specifically, on January 2, 2020, Ernest M. Caposela, A.J.S.C., and Joseph Rosa, J.S.C., of the Superior Court of New Jersey Intensive Supervision Program, issued Baron a certificate that, under N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7, is presumptive evidence of his rehabilitation and relieves him of "any and all disabilities, forfeitures and/or bars that would impede [his] ability to operate a school bus for employment purposes."

Although the Commissioner held in In re Krupp, EDU 5196-03, Initial Decision (May 10, 2004), adopted with modification, Comm'r (June 24, 2004), affirmed, State Bd. of Educ. (October 6, 2004), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal, that the RCOA does not apply to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, the RCOA was amended after that 2004 decision. Now, under N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7, which became effective in 2008, and "[n]otwithstanding any law to the contrary, a certificate may be issued in accordance with the provisions of this act [C.2A:168A-7 et seq.] that suspends certain disabilities, forfeitures or bars to employment or professional licensure or certification that apply to persons convicted of criminal offenses." N.J.S.A. 2A:168-7(a).

[7] Importantly, there is no indication that the MVC would have independently revoked Baron's credentials. Instead, the facts of this case reveal that the MVC originally licensed Baron as a school bus driver in 2012, and renewed his credentials in 2013 and 2017, and that prior to each instance, the MVC ran a criminal history check on him in accordance with N.J.S.A. 39:3-10.1. Thus, even though the MVC was aware of his criminal history, the agency nonetheless granted him a school bus driver license, and twice renewed his license. And as Ms. Golan told the DOE, "it is my intention to retain Mr. Baron as an employee of THA" despite his criminal history.

The law further provides that "[a] certificate issued pursuant to this act shall have the effect of relieving disabilities, forfeitures or bars" to, for example, "public employment" and "qualification for a license or certification to engage in the practice of a profession, occupation or business," and defines "public employment" as "employment by a State, county, or municipal agency, but shall not include elected office, or employment in law enforcement, corrections, the judiciary, in a position related to homeland security or emergency management, or any position that has access to sensitive information that could threaten the public health, welfare, or safety." N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7(b) and (c).

Relevant to this matter, the Legislature specifically excluded from the definition of "public employment" certain occupations, but not others. Critically, a certificate issued pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7 cannot relieve a convicted offender of any bar to "employment in law enforcement, corrections, the judiciary, in a position related to homeland security or emergency management, or any position that has access to sensitive information that could threaten the public health, welfare, or safety," but there is no similar restriction on pursuing employment in the public schools. And, with respect to Baron's employment as a school bus driver, it is doubtful that such a position could be considered a "position that has access to sensitive information that could threaten the public health, welfare, or safety."

The Legislature is presumed to be cognizant of its prior enactments when passing new laws, Mahwah v. Bergen Cnty. Bd. of Taxation, 98 N.J. 268, 279 (1985), such that, in this case, the Legislature was aware of the permanent disqualification and license revocation requirements under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 when N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7 became law. While as the Commissioner pointed out in Krupp, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 allowed for evidence of rehabilitation until 1998, at which point disqualification became permanent regardless of any potential showing of rehabilitation, it appears that, through N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7, the Legislature reopened the doors to employment in the public schools for certain rehabilitated offenders, notwithstanding any law to the contrary, including N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1.

Certainly, there is an incongruity to a discussion about Baron's disqualification from public school employment as a school bus driver and the subsequent removal of his bar from such employment in the public schools when Baron, in fact, does not seek employment in the public schools, and instead seeks to resume his employment as a school bus driver for a private school.[8] However, because the DOE determined that Baron is "permanently disqualified from serving in any position, paid or unpaid, with any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education, or with a contracted service provider under contract with said school or educational facility," and notified the MVC to revoke his license, it is important to note that, even if the DOE correctly asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 applies to a private school bus driver like Baron, any impediments to his employment as a school bus driver, based solely on his criminal history, have been removed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7.

Therefore, I FIND AS FACT that there are no genuine issues of material fact requiring a hearing. I CONCLUDE that Baron's motion for summary decision is hereby GRANTED. I FURTHER CONCLUDE that the DOE's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED.

As such, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is entitled to summary decision, it is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner's request for summary decision be GRANTED. Having CONCLUDED that respondent is not entitled to the requested summary decision, it is hereby ORDERED that the respondent's request for summary decision be DENIED.

[8] There is also a certain irony to this situation because the N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-7 certificate Baron obtained is inapplicable to private employment and "[a] private employer may, in its sole and complete discretion, consider a certificate issued under this statute in making employment decisions," N.J.S.A. 2A:168A-12, and yet, even before Baron obtained the certificate, THA—a private employer—exercised its discretion to employ Baron despite his criminal history, and wishes to continue to employ Baron as its bus driver despite the DOE's insistence that he is disqualified.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Final Decision

Bergen Center for Child Development,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education,
Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner Bergen Center for Child Development (Bergen Center) – an approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSD) – challenged the action of respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC), disallowing a portion of the compensation paid to School Accounting Professionals (SAP) during the 2015-2016 school year. OFAC determined that Bergen Center had retained the services of Mary Bawarski (Bawarski), a certified public accountant affiliated with SAP, under the unrecognized administrative position of "School Accountant," and therefore the maximum salary for the title is restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(19). OFAC found that the maximum allowable salary paid to SAP was exceeded by $37,594.43; therefore, the allowable amount was $21,875.57. The matter was heard at the Office of Administrative Law on May 15, 2019 and June 4, 2019.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.3(q) is inapplicable to the business relationship between SAP and Bergen Center; Bawarski is not an employee of Bergen Center, nor did she receive a "salary" from Bergen Center; as such, the "maximum salary" limitation of the regulation is not applicable; there is no other basis contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.6 upon which to disallow the costs; accordingly, OFAC improperly applied the regulation to disallow a portion of the funds paid to SAP. The ALJ concluded that the compensation paid to SAP by Bergen Center is an allowable cost and should be included in the tuition calculation for the 2015-2016 school year. The ALJ ordered the Department to restore the disallowed funds that are the subject of the within appeal.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner, inter alia, concurred with the ALJ's comprehensive analysis of why N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.3(q) is inapplicable to the relationship between SAP and Bergen Center, and with the ALJ's conclusion that OFAC improperly applied N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.3(q) to disallow certain costs that Bergen Center paid to SAP. Accordingly, the Commissioner concluded that the expenses associated with the services provided to Bergen Center by SAP are allowable costs, and the costs shall be included in the tuition rate for the 2015-2016 school year.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Bergen Center for Child Development,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC), and the Bergen Center for Child Development (Bergen Center), as well as Bergen Center's reply to OFAC's exceptions.

In this matter, petitioner Bergen Center – an approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSDs) – challenges OFAC's determination disallowing a portion of the compensation paid to School Accounting Professionals (SAP) during the 2015-2016 school year. As part of the routine oversight of APSSDs, OFAC reviewed Bergen Center's business services and tuition charges for the period from July 1, 2015 through June 30, 2016. OFAC found that Bergen Center paid fees to SAP for the services of Mary Bawarski – a certified public accountant – in the amount of $59,470.00, billed at an hourly rate of $190.00 per hour. OFAC further determined that "School Accountant" was an unrecognized administrative position and as such the maximum salary for the title is restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(9).[1] Ultimately, OFAC found that the maximum allowable salary paid to SAP was exceeded by $37,594.43; therefore, the allowable amount was $21,875.57.[2]

Following a hearing at the OAL, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the compensation Bergen Center paid to SAP is an allowable cost and should be included in the tuition calculation for the 2015-2016 school year. In so doing, the ALJ determined that N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.3(q) is inapplicable to the business relationship between SAP and Bergen Center. The ALJ stressed that Bawarski is not an employee of Bergen Center nor did she receive a "salary" from Bergen Center; as such, the "maximum salary" limitation of the regulation is inapplicable. The ALJ also concluded that there is no other basis contained in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6 upon which to disallow the costs. Therefore, the ALJ found that OFAC improperly applied the regulation to disallow a portion of the money paid to SAP.

In its exceptions, OFAC reiterated the substance of its post-hearing submission at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support its contention that the Initial Decision should be rejected. Although the ALJ considered all of the relevant facts, she erroneously found that OFAC's decision to disallow certain costs paid to SAP was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. OFAC emphasizes that its decision to disallow certain costs was based strictly on the plain meaning of the mandating statutes and regulations. In fact, rather than completely disallowing all fees associated with Bawarski's unrecognized position, OFAC took further steps to determine if the unrecognized position could fall under an exception to the mandating regulation. Despite any opinion that OFAC may hold with respect to Bergen Center's business decisions, the record is clear that its findings were in full accord with the statutory mandates and regulatory scheme.

[1] OFAC relied on various regulations which were re-codified, but not in any way material to this controversy. The Commissioner cites to the current regulations in this decision.

[2] The specific details regarding OFAC's decision and the calculations are outlined in the Initial Decision.

Moreover, the ALJ erred in applying the regulations to the fees associated with Bawarski because she "was not an employee at Bergen Center." Initial Decision at 6. Essentially, the ALJ concluded that because Bawarski was a consultant rather than an employee with a fixed salary, the fees associated with her services were not subject to the regulations. In reaching that conclusion, the ALJ erred in her analysis of the plain reading of the regulations and failed to look at the overall intent of the regulations. The regulations cover all costs that are included in the tuition rates that APSSDs may charge sending districts. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6 Nowhere in the regulations is it stated that they are inapplicable to fees associated with consultants and a conclusion to the contrary would allow APSSDs to skirt the regulations by hiring consultants rather than employees. OFAC reasonably determined that Bawarski's position was an unrecognized administrative position and that the portion of her fees that exceeded the lowest maximum allowable amount permissible for unrecognized administrative position titles were non-allowable costs. The ALJ's narrow interpretation of the applicable regulations was erroneous and therefore the Initial Decision should be rejected.

In its exceptions, Bergen Center contends that the ALJ appropriately found that the fees paid to SAP were allowable costs; however, the ALJ failed to address all of the issues presented by the petitioner. Bergen Center takes exception to the following legal and factual questions within the Initial Decision: (1) whether OFAC intentionally withheld damning evidence, including evidence supporting the existence of a personal vendetta against Bawarski, warranting an adverse inference; (2) whether OFAC personnel held and acted in furtherance of a personal vendetta, effecting an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable disallowance of SAP's service fees; (3) whether OFAC substituted its own judgment as to the value of SAP's services, absent formal rule-making; (4) whether OFAC applied a policy limiting APSSDs to exclusive reliance on business office personnel for fiscal oversight and accountability, absent formal rule-making; (5) whether Bergen Center was given a fair and proper internal appeal; and (6) whether OFAC acted arbitrarily and outside of the rule-making process in creating a pay distinction between auditors and school accountants. Bergen Center outlined why each of the above cited issues should have been addressed by the ALJ, as well as the need for a determination that OFAC personnel had a vendetta against Bawarski and used improper means to disallow all of the costs paid to SAP without formal rule-making. In the absence of an adoption of the Initial Decision, Bergen Center urges the Commissioner to address the issues that were not decided by the ALJ.

In reply to OFAC exceptions, Bergen Center reiterated the positions advanced in its submissions at the OAL, arguing that the ALJ properly determined that OFAC's decision to disallow certain costs that were paid to SAP was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Bergen maintains that the disallowance of certain payments made to SAP was thoroughly contradicted by the ALJ's sound regulatory analysis and the evidence adduced at the hearing, both of which OFAC has failed to rebut. Specifically, OFAC failed to address the ALJ's finding that the plain language of the regulations did not permit application of a salary limit to an outside service provider. Further, OFAC ignored the uncontroverted evidence that is has not interpreted the regulations to apply a maximum salary limitation to all professional service providers.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that OFAC improperly applied N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q) to disallow certain costs that Bergen Center paid to SAP.[3] In the Initial Decision, the ALJ outlined the applicable provisions and provided a comprehensive analysis as to why N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q) was inapplicable to the relationship between SAP and Bergen Center. The objections raised in the exceptions filed by OFAC were [3] It is important to note that when there is a challenge to a finding by OFAC, the Commissioner is not legally mandated to give deference to his staff but instead determines if the finding was legally appropriate. A decision by OFAC is not akin to appellate review of a final agency decision, which is entitled to an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard of review. See, Board of Trustees of the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Center v. New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance, Commissioner Decision No. 334-14, decided August 14, 2014.

previously made to the ALJ and were clearly considered by her in reaching her decision. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's declaration regarding the tangential issues raised by Bergen Center during the proceedings at the OAL as well as in its exceptions. As the ALJ succinctly stated, "it is unnecessary to address the arguments raised by Bawarski that she was the victim of a personal vendetta; or the argument raised by counsel that a negative inference should be made because the Department of Education failed to produce certain documents. Nor does it matter that OFAC personnel may have questioned the prudence of using SAP's services as opposed to retaining a business manager." Initial Decision at 12.

Accordingly, the expenses associated with the services provided by SAP are allowable costs and the costs shall be included in the tuition rate for the 2015-2016 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Bergen Center for Child Development, (Bergen Center), an approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSD), challenges the action of the Department of Education, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC), disallowing a portion of the compensation paid to School Accounting Professionals (SAP) during the 2015-2016 school year. [1]

Bergen Center filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on June 26, 2018. OFAC filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer on August 27, 2018, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 29, 2018. Bergen Center opposed the motion; OFAC's moving papers included submissions beyond the pleadings, and at its request, I converted its application to a Motion for Summary Decision. Via Order dated October 31, 2018, the Motion was denied.

The matter proceeded to hearing on May 15, 2019, and June 4, 2019. Post-hearing submissions were filed on October 7, 2019. Although counsel had initially sought leave to file reply submissions, on November 20, 2019, counsel for Bergen Center advised she wished to rest on the submissions previously filed. On November 26, 2019, counsel for OFAC advised that she too would rest on her prior submissions, and the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Bergen Center has served multiply disabled students in kindergarten through age 21 since 1968. During the 2015-2016 school year, Bergen Center had an enrollment of about fifty students, and employed some seventy staff members. As part of its routine process of overseeing APSSDs, OFAC monitored Bergen Center onsite that year, reviewing the school's business services and tuition charges for the period from July 1, 2015, through June 30, 2016. It summarized its findings in a report dated January 19, 2018. Finding One of that report is the subject of the current appeal:

> The approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSD) paid fees to a consultant which exceeded the associated maximum allowable established by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r). The excess costs > of $37,594.43 are deemed to be non-allowable in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5(a)(9).

[1] OFAC relied on various regulations which were recodified, but not in any way material to this controversy. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-8.1 is now N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-8.2; N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(r) is now N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q); N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.5(a)(9) is now N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.6(a)(9).

The "consultant" at issue is Mary Bawarski, a Certified Public Accountant (CPA) who provided services to Bergen Center via her company, SAP.

Onsite monitor Nicholas Morfogen submitted the data he collected to his manager, Lisa McCormick. Upon review, McCormick noted an expenditure of $190 per hour for SAP's services. She asked for copies of invoices so that she could delve further, and she reviewed the contract between Bergen Center and SAP. It revealed that Bergen Center had retained Bawarski's services as "School Accountant" for the 2015-2016 school year. It is uncontroverted, and I FIND, that School Accountant is not a title that appears on the list of recognized position titles issued annually by the Department of Education.

McCormick explained that the fees associated with an unrecognized title are allowable only under two exceptions. Special approval can be obtained from the Executive County Superintendent. Or the APSSD can use an unrecognized title, but is then subject to the lowest maximum allowable salary in the County in which the APSSD is located. The regulations do not preclude APSSDs from hiring or engaging the services of anyone in a position that does not meet these requirements, but the associated fees are deemed non-allowable. It is uncontroverted, and I FIND, that Bergen Center did not receive special County approval for the unrecognized title of School Accountant.

But before disallowing all the fees attributable to Bawarski's work for Bergen Center, McCormick wished to consider whether the position of School Accountant could be viewed as an unrecognized administrative position title, and thus fall under the second exception. She consulted with Division of Finance Supervising Auditor Elise Sadler-Williams. Per Sadler-Williams, in order to determine if a position is an unrecognized administrative position, the Department of Education reviews the functions of the position in conjunction with the Chart of Accounts. This is a collection of accounts created by the Department that APSSDs are required to use to classify and record their expenses. Accounting services are recorded under account number 290. Department personnel consulted Bergen Center's annual independent audited financial statements to determine what function account 290 was classified under; all "290" accounts were classified as administrative under column number five. It was on this basis that McCormick and Sadler-Williams determined that School Accountant was an unrecognized administrative position.

The lowest maximum allowable salary for Bergen County was $127,193.00 in 2015-2016; that was the salary attributable to a vocational teacher.[2] McCormick did some simple mathematical computations to determine an hourly rate based on that salary; her calculations yielded $69.89 per hour. Applying this rate to the work performed by Bawarski, McCormick determined that of the $59,470 SAP billed at the rate of $190 per hour, the maximum allowable amount was exceeded by $37,594.43. The amount allowable was thus $21,875.57. Both Sadler-Williams and McCormick urged that in reaching this determination they relied exclusively on the applicable regulations. But their testimony left the impression that value judgments about the approach Bergen Center used to operate its business office may have colored their decision-making. They appeared to strongly disagree with Bawarski's contention that her services were cost effective. And the arguments of their counsel in her post-hearing submission belie any contention that OFAC personnel made no judgments about the usefulness of SAP's services.

One of the services provided by SAP was the creation of compilation reports. These are management tools that permit analysis of the variance between budgeted and actual costs and include a balance sheet that may be required by banks. Compilation reports also include a percentage schedule that allow the Board of Trustees to monitor, in real time, its compliance with the spending percentages established by the Department of Education. Counsel for OFAC argued at length that "nothing in the testimony provided indicates that [Bergen Center] had a need for ... compilation reports," noting that rather, they were "a preference by the President of the Board of Directors." And while Bawarski urged that using her services efficiently met the fiscal needs of Bergen Center, OFAC replied that this arrangement was not cost effective, asserting that a business manager would work at a lower hourly rate. I am thus hard pressed to accept that judgments about [2] It would seem to me that McCormick should have compared Bawarski's compensation to that paid to an administrator in Bergen County, rather than a teacher. This was never clarified by the record, but my concern is rendered unimportant by my ultimate ruling below.

Bergen Center's business model factored not at all into OFAC's thinking when it disallowed the fees at issue.

Bawarski has been an accountant for about forty years. She started her own firm in or about 1985, and specializes in accounting work for private schools. Her company provides services to some thirty private schools and includes four employees. SAP reviews and adjusts books, to include a monthly review of the general ledger, and assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Bawarski's firm verifies and reconciles financial accounts and ensures that items are in the appropriate accounts. She described this as "taking an outside look at the internal operations and performing tasks during the year that help with the transparency for management." SAP personnel prepare schedules, train staff, and on occasion review auditor's reports. Bawarski explained that the Department has not permitted the School Auditor and School Accountant to perform the same tasks since the early 1990's; for this reason she refers to herself as the School Accountant.

The relationship between Bergen Center and SAP began during the 2006-2007 school year. A prior CPA had left abruptly, and SAP assisted by connecting Bergen Center with an outside payroll company and creating a new set of books. Thereafter, the services provided by SAP evolved and changed based on need. SAP supported Bergen Center employees and supplemented their work effort, delivering services that a business manager could not perform; for example, preparation of compilation reports and implementation of internal controls. Bawarski and Bergen Center entered into a letter agreement dated July 1, 2015, that confirmed Bawarski's "engagement as the School Accountant and for the preparation of quarterly financial statements of The School for the year ended June 30, 2016." Bawarski indicated in the agreement that > I expect the total fee for 2015-2016 to approximate $50,000. Should I anticipate an amount in excess of my estimate, I will advise you immediately. I will bill my fee for my services for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2016 at the rate of $190.00 per hour.

The letter agreement was signed by both parties. SAP's services were relied upon for a range of functions during the 2015-2016 school year, including facilitating Quick Book entries, preparing quarterly financial reports, preparing schedules, preparing a set of books, interfacing with school auditors, and conducting trainings.

But Bawarski stressed that SAP did not duplicate the work effort of either Bergen Center employees, or would-be employees. She explained that N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2 outlines roughly ten business manager functions; SAP performed "approximately one and a half" of these functions. Indeed, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2 provides that a business manager is an individual "whose job function includes a majority of the following: financial budget planning and administration, insurance/risk administration, purchasing, financial accounting and reporting, facility planning, construction and maintenance, personnel administration, administration of transportation and food services, and data processing."[3] It is thus clear that Bawarski correctly indicated that she performed very little of what a business manager does; the financial and accounting area of this job's responsibilities were the only area in which she assisted Bergen Center. I FIND that Bawarski was not functioning in the role of the business manager for Bergen Center. The parties have agreed, and I further FIND that she was likewise not engaged as an Independent Auditor for the 2015-2016 school year.

Bawarski primarily performed her work offsite during the 2015-2016 school year; estimating that her staff appeared onsite not more that 15% of the time. When SAP staff did work at the school facility, there was no office space designated for their use. They were not required to sign in and out like Bergen Center employees. They did not receive salary, benefits, W-2's or a formal employment contract. SAP professionals did not receive any training from Bergen Center staff, nor did that staff supervise or direct Bawarski's work effort, or that of her SAP team. Payment checks were not made out to Bawarski personally, but rather to SAP. Payment was made monthly or quarterly, rather than weekly or bi-weekly as is typical with payroll. I FIND that Bawarski was not an employee of Bergen Center.

Bawarski was familiar with the Chart of Accounts discussed by McCormick and Sadler-Williams. Bawarski explained that the salaries of business office staff, such as the school business administrator, business manager, assistant business manager, accountant, bookkeepers and support staff are reflected in line 260. Line 263 includes "purchased professional services," which is described as "expenditures for purchased professional services other than professional-educational services." SAP's services were always charged to this latter account; with no disallowances having been made by the Department of Education in over 35 years of providing services to dozens of APSSDs. [4] Bawarski understood the two payment categories to differentiate between individuals who worked directly with children (salaried employees) and those who provided non-educational services (paid via a service fee).

Bawarski stressed that she was sought after by the Department of Education and had drafted a manual for private school accounting that was approved by representatives of the Division of Finance. She described her relationship with the Department of Education as one of mutual respect when Jim Verner was the supervisor of the Finance Section. She likewise had a good relationship with the OFAC monitors, to include Morfogen. Bawarski indicated that Morfogen enjoyed working with her schools because their books were in order. Bawarski noticed a shift in the attitude of the Finance Section's staff once Verner retired. And she felt that resentment of her work was a motivator in the OFAC decision to disallow her fees at Bergen Center. OFAC of course disagrees. As will be more fully discussed below, the clear regulatory language answers the question raised by this appeal, thus obviating the need to resolve this factual dispute.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Bergen Center is approved to receive public school special needs students pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:46-15. As such, it must comply with complex statutory and regulatory provisions which govern the tuition it may charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21 states that Bergen Center may determine a tuition rate to be paid by its sending boards of education, "but in no case shall the tuition rate exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined under rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State Board of Education." The statute recognizes that tuition is paid to schools like Bergen Center with public funds, and that these funds are utilized to educate public school students with multifaceted needs that cannot be met within their home school districts. Council of Private Sch. for Children with Special Needs v. Cooperman, 205 N.J. Super. 544 (App. Div. 1985). Accordingly, the clear intent of the statute is that the tuition charged be fair and reasonably related to the educational services actually provided by the private school. Regulations promulgated by the Department are designed to implement this statutory intent. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1 to -18.16. The Department of Education, through OFAC, is responsible for monitoring APSSDs to ensure that the tuition rates they charge sending districts comply with these regulatory mandates. As part of this obligation, OFAC conducts periodic onsite fiscal monitoring of APSSDs. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.13.

Bergen Center bears the burden of demonstrating that the Department's disallowance of certain expenditures in its calculation of actual cost per pupil was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Titusville Acad. v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., EDU 00651-06, Initial Decision (May 21, 2007), adopted, Comm'r (July 6, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; Catholic Family and Cmty. Servs. v. N.J. Dep't of Educ., EDU 01051-01, Initial Decision (January 14, 2003), adopted, Comm'r (March 3, 2003), adopted, State Bd. (July 2, 2003), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/>. I CONCLUDE that Bergen Center has met its burden.

The amount of tuition that an APSSD may charge is limited by regulation as follows:

> The board of directors of an APSSD located in New Jersey shall determine the final tuition rate charged to be an amount less than or equal to the certified actual cost per student as determined by an independent school auditor. The board of directors shall identify the certified actual cost per student and the final tuition rate charged in the audited financial statements submitted to the Department pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(a)].[5]

The regulation outlines the tuition rate procedure at length, making it clear that tuition should include expenditures needed for student instruction. Costs must be "reasonable;"

[5] At the time the facts pertinent to this matter arose, N.J.A.C. 6A;23A-18.2(a) contained almost identical language; the requirement that the auditor certify the actual cost per student was added upon recodification.

a term defined by the regulation as "ordinary and necessary and not in excess of the cost that would be incurred by an ordinarily prudent person in the administration of public funds." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(a)(1)(iv). A separate regulation outlines at length those "costs that are not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per student." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6.[6] In seventy-three paragraphs, this latter regulation sets out with specificity those expenditures that cannot be included in calculating the "per student cost." As Bawarski was not an employee, but rather, a consultant, she persuasively urges that the moneys paid to her company were akin to moneys paid to other professional service providers, such as an attorneys, auditors or architects. I CONCLUDE that N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6 nowhere lists such fees as nonallowable costs.[7]

OFAC contends that it properly disallowed the moneys paid to Bawarski, urging that the payments made to SAP ran afoul of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q), which requires an approved private school of the disabled to use > the recognized position title list published annually by the Commissioner...to employ staff whose position requires certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B or a bachelor's or master's degree, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2. An APSSD shall hire only staff or consultants in job titles that require certification or a bachelor's or master's degree if the titles are included on the recognized job titles list, or if such titles are unrecognized job titles that are approved annually by an executive county superintendent in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.5. The APSSD may use unrecognized administrative job titles, but maximum salaries for the titles are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(9).[8]

See also: N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(8) and (a)(9). I disagree. It is well-established that an administrative regulation is subject to the same canons of construction as a statute. In re N.J.A.C. 14A:20-1.1, 216 N.J. Super. 297, 306 (App. Div. 1987). When interpreting a [6] During the school year at issue, the regulation was N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5. It contained fewer listed exclusions, but again, not any additions or other changes pertinent to this controversy.

[7] N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(11) does disallow such costs, but only when attributable to a "frivolous challenge to a State audit or financial review."

[8] N.J.A.C. 6A: 23A-18.2(r) read a bit differently as follows: "An approved private school for students with disabilities shall employ staff pursuant to the list of recognized job titles in accordance with N.J.A.C.6A:9B that require certification and N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1 that require a bachelor's degree..." Again, the change in language is not substantive for purposes of this controversy.

statute or regulation, our courts assume that the framers intended to ascribe to words their ordinary meaning. Jablonowska v. Suther, 195 N.J. 91, 105 (2008). The intent of a statute or regulation should be gleaned from a view of the whole and of every part of the statute, with the real intention prevailing over the literal sense of its terms. Schierstead v. City of Brigantine, 29 N.J. 220, 230 (1959). And while an agency's interpretation of its own regulations is entitled to deference. Matturri v. Bd. of Tr. of the Judicial Ret. Sys., 173 N.J. 368, 381 (2002), the agency's action here is simply inconsistent with the plain regulatory language. This can be best demonstrated by analyzing the regulation in parts as follows:

1. The requirement to use "the recognized position title list published annually by the Commissioner…to employ staff whose position requires certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B or a bachelor's or master's degree, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2."

This part of the regulation does not apply to the services supplied by Bawarski via SAP. She was not employed as a member of Bergen Center's "staff." Nor did her position "[require] certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B." This latter code provision addresses the requirements for certification for educators, providing that "the licensure system shall function along a continuum of rigorous pre-professional preparation, certification, and professional development to better prepare educators to support improved student achievement of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-1.2. Bawarski was not a certificated educator, nor did she provide pedagogical or other educational services to Bergen Center. Bawarski's position likewise did not require a bachelor's or master's degree, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2. A review of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2 reveals that only two positions are noted to require degrees, to include the business manager and director. Bawarski did not serve in either role.

2. The requirement that "[a]n APSSD shall hire only staff or consultants in job titles that require certification or a bachelor's or master's degree if the titles are included on the recognized job titles list, or if such titles are unrecognized job titles that are approved annually by an executive county superintendent in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.5."

With this phrase, the regulation now expands its scope to individuals serving as consultants, like Bawarski. It provides that an APSSD can retain consultants in "job titles that require certification [or a degree]" if the title is on the approved list, or specially approved by the Executive County Superintendent. But again, as noted above, Bawarski was not retained in a title requiring certification or a degree; hence the requirements of this part of the regulation are inapplicable to her employment arrangement with Bergen Center.

3. The requirement that "[t]he APSSD may use unrecognized administrative job titles, but maximum salaries for the titles are restricted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(9)."

This provision is inapplicable to Bawarski as well. It restricts salary amounts in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(9), a regulation that by its express language applies only to employees, providing that "[a] salary of an employee not covered by (a)6 above in excess of the lowest maximum allowable salary in the same county," is a non-allowable cost. But Bawarski was not an employee of Bergen Center.

Moreover, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(9) references N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(6), which provides that the following is likewise a non-allowable cost:

> The salary of a professional staff member, consultant, or subcontractor, including a member of a management company, who is not certified but is functioning in, or contracted to perform the duties of, a position requiring certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B or bachelor's or master's degree under this subchapter.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(6)].[9]

As noted earlier, "business manager" is such a position, but Bawarski did not function in the role of the business manager. Nor did she perform the duties of "a position requiring certification in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B."

[9] After recodification, the phrase "or contract to perform the duties of" was added. See the original version at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5. The original version referenced only a bachelor's degree, "master's degree" was added after recodification.

And Bawarski did not receive a salary. The "maximum salary" limitation of the regulation is thus likewise inapplicable. OFAC's attempt to define "salary" to include any form of recompense is unavailing. According to Merriam-Webster.com, salary is "fixed compensation paid regularly for services." This does not describe the arrangement with SAP, which was paid for services rendered via invoice. Likewise, Black's Law Dictionary defines "salary" as a "fixed periodical compensation to be paid for services rendered; a stated compensation, amounting to so much by the year, month, or other fixed period..."[10]

In summary, the administrative code language relied upon by OFAC simply does not support its action here. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(q) is inapplicable to the business relationship between SAP and Bergen Center, and I CONCLUDE that OFAC improperly applied the regulation to disallow a portion of the money payed to SAP. And I scoured N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6 for any other basis upon which to disallow these costs. I could find none. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.6(a)(12) does discuss fees paid to a consultant, disallowing such fees if the work is not detailed in a written agreement signed by both parties that describes the anticipated outcome of the project and includes fee information. SAP and Bergen Center were parties to such a contract.[11]

In light of my ruling, it is unnecessary to address the argument raised by Bawarski that she was the victim of a personal vendetta; or the argument raised by counsel that a negative inference should be made because the Department of Education failed to produce certain documents. Nor does it matter that OFAC personnel may have questioned the prudence of using SAP's services as opposed to retaining a business manager. But it should be noted that a decision to disallow the payments to Bawarski based on such value judgments would improperly constitute regulating without formal rulemaking. Indeed, the decision to allow, or disallow certain costs, must be based upon a standard that "is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(e). In Metromedia v. Div. of Taxation, 97 N.J. 313, 331 (1984) our Supreme Court held that an administrative rule is one that [10] Black's Law Dictionary Online, https://thelawdictionary.org>salary.

[11] The earlier version of this regulation did not require a contract signed by both parties; again the change is of no moment as both parties signed the letter agreement that retained SAP. The prior version was codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.5(a)(12).

> (1) is intended to have wide coverage encompassing a large segment of the regulated or general public, rather than an individual or a narrow select group; (2) is intended to be applied generally and uniformly to all similarly situated persons; (3) is designed to operate only in future cases, that is, prospectively; (4) prescribes a legal standard or directive that is not otherwise expressly provided by or clearly and obviously inferable from the enabling statutory authorization; (5) reflects an administrative policy that (i) was not previously expressed in any official and explicit agency determination, adjudication or rule, or (ii) constitutes a material and significant change from a clear, past agency position on the identical subject matter; and (6) reflects a decision on administrative regulatory policy in the nature of the interpretation of law or general policy.

In accordance with this standard, OFAC's feeling that compilation reports were an unneeded expense, should not and could not factor into the decision to disallow moneys paid to Bawarski, absent regulatory guidance. The choice to hire an outside consultant, rather than a business manager, likewise is something that is nowhere expressly noted to be a non-allowable cost in the regulatory scheme. And while the regulations do require that expenditures be those that would be incurred by a reasonably prudent person, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(a)(1)(iv), I heard no evidence that would suggest that any of the moneys paid to SAP rose to a level of being inconsistent with that standard. While the Department of Education can extend its regulatory powers to include making compilation reports and school accountant services non-allowable costs, it cannot do so without clear written rules that allow the regulated community to understand the parameters of its local spending authority.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, together with the record as whole, the relief sought by the petition of appeal is GRANTED. The Department of Education is ORDERED to restore the disallowed funds that are the subject of this appeal.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Revocation of the Certificates of Robert Klein, State Board of Examiners, New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, September 19, 2019

For the Respondent-Appellant, James J. Uliano, Esq..

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Jennifer Hoff, Deputy Attorney General (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with appellant Robert Klein's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners, dated September 19, 2019, revoking his Teacher of Physical Education Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, Teacher of Physical Education Certificate, and Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificates. Following the issuance of an Order to Show Cause by the Board and a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that appellant engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and recommended that appellant's certificates be revoked. The ALJ found that appellant unknowingly participated in a videotaped interview in his hotel room while attending the 2015 New Jersey Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City, during which he made comments portraying himself as a participant in drug culture and offering cocaine to the interviewers. The ALJ further found that his comments displayed a disregard of his professional obligations as a health teacher by appearing to promote the use of controlled dangerous substances, were inconsistent with the conduct of any educational professional, and constitute conduct unbecoming a teacher. Thereafter, the Board adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ and revoked appellant's teaching certificates.

On appeal, appellant maintains that he was not criminally charged for any of his actions, there were no drugs present in the video, and his conduct did not involve students or other members of the school community. He argues that he was duped by Project Veritas and that the "shock video" they created to embarrass him would not exist if the school district had not allowed a Project Veritas member into the school. He contends that his comments were made in private and were hyperbole for dramatic and/or comedic effect. For these reasons, he argues this his conduct was not unbecoming and, if it was, suspension would be the appropriate penalty.

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a).

After a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the record adequately supports the Board's determination that appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct and that the revocation of appellant's certificates was the appropriate penalty. Appellant does not dispute that he made comments that appear to promote drug use and evasion of drug detection. While appellant characterizes his comments as exaggerations made to impress his companions, as the ALJ found and the Board affirmed, these arguments are attempts to rationalize his actions after the fact, and they do not negate the extremely poor judgment he demonstrated in making the comments. Moreover, the actions of Project Veritas in making the comments public are irrelevant, as a private exchange that included the same comments would be no less unbecoming conduct.

There is also nothing in the record to suggest that the Board's decision to revoke appellant's certificates – based on the nature of the unbecoming conduct proven during the hearing at the OAL – was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.[1]

IN THE MATTER OF	:	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
THE CERTIFICATE OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS
ROBERT KLEIN	:	ORDER OF REVOCATION
_____	:	DOCKET NO: 1617-214

At its meeting of April 6, 2017, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information provided by the Howell Public School District (Howell) regarding Robert Klein. Howell reported that Klein resigned from his position in the district, effective December 31, 2016, following allegations that, at the 2015 New Jersey Education Association Conference in Atlantic City, he invited undercover journalists to his room and was filmed offering cocaine, describing how he keeps cocaine in his home and how he avoids being caught. In the video, which was posted on multiple news and social media sites worldwide, Klein can be heard making the following statements: "If you want blow you can have a bump. You can have whatever you want;" "Dude, if you want some I'll give you a taste, don't be embarrassed;" "Have some;" "You come to my home at night, you come to my room now. I have booze, I have water, I have blow at the house, whatever it is, whatever anybody wants, I have it there;" "Yes I'm a good host and I have this s at my house when you come;" "Like I work with the police in the school district with the drug dogs and they teach us, and they teach our kids how the drug dogs sniff out drugs;" "We're not putting drugs in my car. Blow-different. You put it in your pocket, it's nothing;" "Blow, people mix it with different things so it has different scents."

Klein is the holder of a Teacher of Physical Education Certificate of Eligibility With Advanced Standing, issued in December 1994, a Teacher of Physical Education certificate, issued in January 1999 and a Teacher of Health and Physical Education certificate, issued in June 2000. After reviewing the above information, at its May 12, 2017 meeting, the Board voted to issue Klein an Order to Show Cause as to why his certificate should not be revoked.

The Board sent Klein the Order to Show Cause by regular and certified mail on May 15, 2017. The Order provided that Klein must file an Answer within 30 days. Klein responded on June 12, 2017. In his Answer, Klein admitted to attending the 2015 NJEA Convention in Atlantic City, but denied offering cocaine to the journalists. (Answer ¶3). He stated that the people he met and brought up to his hotel room began discussing drug use and that any comments Klein made, which was heard on the video, were in response to statements made by the male who implied he had some in his possession. (Answer ¶ 6). Klein stated that there were never any drugs in his hotel room and that he was "joking around" about having drugs at his house. did not receive a reply to his "numerous attempts to meet with authorized personnel and obtain documentation of credibility and completion of professional educational course work." (Answer, ¶ 6).

Since there were material facts in dispute, on June 30, 2017, the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Joseph A. Ascione heard the matter on July 25, 2018. The record closed on January 8, 2019 and ALJ Ascione issued an Initial Decision on May 21, 2019. In the Matter of the Certificate(s) of Robert Klein, Dkt. No. EDE 09566-17 (Initial Decision, May 21, 2019).

The Board's witness was Mr. Joseph J. Isola, Howell Superintendent. Klein testified on his own behalf. (Initial Decision, slip op. at 11). ALJ Ascione found that Klein attended the November, 2015 NJEA Convention and unknowingly participated in a videotaped interview at his hotel room during the convention. Id. at 5. Klein's statements made during the interview portray him as aware of, and a participant in, drug culture. Id. at 6. Moreover, ALJ Ascione found that Klein's statements during the interview appear to promote the use of controlled dangerous substances and that Klein's statements are inconsistent with the conduct of any educational professional. Ibid.

In his testimony, Klein acknowledged his poor judgment and stated that his motivation was the pursuit of a romantic opportunity. Id. at 4. Although ALJ Ascione finds Klein to be credible, he found that his admission and statements were self-serving in an attempt to rationalize what he had done/said. Ibid.

After reviewing the testimony and the record, ALJ Ascione found that it is "Klein's blatant lack of judgment which provides the exclusive basis for this tribunal's determination that the actions are 'conduct unbecoming a teacher' and provide more than 'just cause' for the Examiners determination to terminate Klein's certificates." Id. at 7.

In assessing the appropriate penalty, ALJ Ascione acknowledged that Klein had no disciplinary history, but that lack of prior discipline did not impact the determination because his actions clearly demonstrate conduct unacceptable by any teacher. The suggestion that he had drugs available is "an anthemia to a prior educator" and is the basis for the revocation of certificates. Ibid. ALJ Ascione therefore ordered that Klein's certificates should be revoked. Ibid.

On June 3, 2019, Klein submitted exceptions. Klein argued that the statements made in the video were hyperbole and made for dramatic effect. Respondent acknowledges that the statement were "utterly ridiculous" but that since there was laughter in the background it was clear that Klein's statement were made for comedic effect. (Exceptions at p. 2). Further, Klein argues that ALJ Ascione failed to consider the circumstances and selected the most severe sanction possible. Id. Klein contrasts the facts of this case with another case wherein an ALJ found revocation to be too severe a penalty. Id.

In its reply exceptions, the Deputy Attorney General (DAG) assigned to the case argued that Klein presents no basis upon which to reject ALJ Ascione's initial decision. (Reply Exceptions at p. 2). The DAG argues that ALJ Ascione made a credibility determination, finding that Klein was not credible and that he offered only self-serving statements to rationalize his actions. Id. at p. 5, 6. Moreover, Klein's conduct demonstrated an extreme lapse in judgment in which he failed to think about his words or actions. Such conduct cannot be tolerated from an educator. Id. at p. 8.

The Board must now determine whether to adopt, modify or reject the Initial Decision in this matter. At its meeting of August 1, 2019, the Board reviewed the Initial Decision. After full and fair consideration of the Initial Decision the Board voted to adopt it in its entirety.

"Teachers ... are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of ... school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. There is no doubt that the ALJ is in the best position to render credibility determinations in this matter. Accordingly, the Board will defer to those findings.

As noted above, after assessing the evidence and credibility of the witnesses, ALJ Ascione concluded that Klein unknowingly participated in a videotaped interview at his hotel room wherein he offered controlled substances to others, indicated he knew about drug culture, and promoted the use of controlled substances. Although Klein tries to rationalize and excuse the statements he made, his conduct indicates a serious lapse in judgment and convinced the ALJ that revocation was warranted here. After reviewing the entire record, the Board agrees with the ALJ's assessment regarding both the nature of Klein's conduct and the penalty to be assessed.

Accordingly, on August 1, 2019, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision and ordered the revocation of Klein's certificate. On this 19th day of September, 2019, the Board formally adopted its written decision to adopt the Initial Decision and it is therefore ORDERED that Robert Klein's Teacher of Physical Education Certificate of Eligibility With Advanced Standing, Teacher of Physical Education Certificate, and Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificate is hereby revoked, effective immediately. It is further ordered that Klein return his certificate to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Certification and Induction, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDE 09566-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 1617-214

IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATE(S) OF ROBERT KLEIN.

James M. Esposito, Deputy Attorney General, for New Jersey State Board of Examiners, petitioner (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of the State of New Jersey, attorney)

James J. Uliano, Esq., for Robert Klein, respondent (Chamlin, Rosen, Uliano & Witherington, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 8, 2019 Decided: May 21, 2019

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter involves an Order to Show Cause (OSC) issued by petitioner State Board of Examiners, New Jersey Department of Education (the Examiners) against the respondent Robert Klein (Klein), a middle school physical education teacher. As reflected in that OSC, the respondent settled prior to the Hopewell Township (District) filing of tenure charges, by voluntarily resigning. The bizarre incident which lead to the resignation, relates to a November 2015 interview which published on June 15, 2016. The situs of the interview is Klein's Borgata hotel room during the New Jersey Teachers' Convention. The Examiners found just cause for consideration of the revocation of respondent's certificates based upon Klein's conduct. The Examiners ordered that respondent show cause as to why his Health and Physical Education Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing (12/94), Teacher of Physical Education (1/99) and Teacher of Health and Physical Education (6/00) should not be revoked. On or about June 12, 2017, respondent, through his counsel, filed an Answer to the OSC, and the Examiners transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 30, 2017, for determination as a contested case, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The OAL conducted a hearing on July 25, 2018. The parties requested the opportunity to submit the transcript, closing summation and brief the law. The record closed January 8, 2019. The Acting Director granted an extensions of time to file the Initial Decision on February 19, 2019 and April 5, 2019.

TESTIMONY

Joseph J. Isola (Isola)

Isola is the superintendent of schools for the Howell Township Board of Education. He has served in this position for the last four years. He holds a Bachelor's degree and a Masters' degree in Special Education, and a Professional Diploma in School Administration and Leadership. He testified he prepared with counsel the tenure charges (Exhibit P-1) against Robert Klein for an incident at the New Jersey Teachers' Convention in November 2015. The tenure charges resolved by a settlement stipulation between the District and Klein providing for his resignation (Exhibit P-2). He described the video he watched (Exhibit P-3) is an eight and a half minute portrayal of Klein discussing with two other individuals, not identified, drug use and the transportation of drugs. Klein's also boasted of his intimate knowledge, to avoid drug detection by law enforcement agencies, due to his work as a health teacher working closely with the police department. See, T 16:16-17:18.

Isola's discussion with Klein resulted in Klein admitting his unknowing participation in the video, and that his actions were motivated to impress the woman interviewer. See, T 18:15-19:10.

Robert Klein (Klein)

Klein acknowledged attending the November 2015 New Jersey Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City (T 61:17-62:10). During the convention he met a woman claiming to be Laura Elizabeth of New Star Learning Group, an alleged textbook salesperson. He talked with her for a time, then advised her he was on the textbook committee, and was going out that evening, inviting her to come. He was suspicious because she had no convention credentials and professed to have no display booth. They exchanged cell phone numbers and parted (T 62:24-64:14). Later that evening, they met at Klein's hotel, the Borgata. A man by the name of Cory accompanied Ms. Elizabeth. Klein claimed to want to change his shirt and the two allegedly invited themselves up to his room. On the elevator up he claims Laura and Cory started talking about partying, drinking and drugs. Klein testified he sensed they enjoyed drugs and started to "show off" and was "boisterous" about drugs, at no time did he participate in or provide them with drugs (T 65:18-66:20). They eventually left the room and the three went to a bar/dance club on the boardwalk. Klein mentioning that he paid for the cab, the $40 entrance fee for all three of them and drinks (T 72:15-24). He did not see Ms. Elizabeth again though he kept in contact with her for a few months.

The District requested Klein to prepare a drug awareness presentation. Klein did so and at the presentation on April 20, 2016, he unexpectedly received an award for Drug Awareness Education. Then in June 2016, he became aware of the November 2015 video tape and after discussions with Isola, received tenure charges and resigned his position by early July 2016. He denies he was aware of the taping of the video and had no participation in the publication of the video.

The Video

Exhibit P-3 is the video of Klein's interview with Ms. Elizabeth and Cory in Klein's Borgata hotel room. It portrays Klein as bragging about his ability to obtain marijuana and cocaine and his reluctance to transport marijuana due to detection by police dogs. The interview portrayed his lack of reticence regarding cocaine, as the dogs are not as sensitive to that smell. He portrayed his knowledge of police dogs and how to avoid detection. He discusses his reticence to travel with drugs by air. He talks about his availability of drugs at home, where they can be delivered to the door, and his prowess in being a good host having it available to guests who visit. There are no exposed drugs in the video.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On June 16, 2015, representatives of Project Veritas, conducted an interview of Klein at the New Jersey Teachers' Convention. The interviewers, Ms. Elizabeth and Cory represented themselves as engaged by New Star Learning, text book salespersons. Months subsequent to that interview, Klein received an unexpected drug awareness award from New Star Learning. This, however, was all part of an anticipated journalistic sting. The video interview from Klein's Borgata hotel room was internet published on June 15, 2016. It was picked up on national network broadcasts. It embarrassed and exposed Klein and the District to public ridicule.

The knowledge of the interview and publication lead to the commencement of tenure charges against Klein by the District. The charges were resolved by a resignation. See, P-2.

The within OSC to revoke the teaching licenses of Klein ensued. Isola testimony is credible and confirms the facts which occurred subsequent to the publication of the interview and following tenure proceeding.

Klein's testimony is believable that the events transpired. He acknowledges his extremely poor judgment, and his motivation pursuit of a romantic opportunity. No evidence was produced that a crime had been committed. Klein's credibility, other than his admission that he was the interviewee, are self-serving statements attempting to rationalize his actions after the fact. The motivation has nothing to do with his blatant exercise of bad judgment. He attempts to exonerate himself by professing a limited knowledge of the drug culture and his professed innocence. This also lacks credibility. But that lack of credibility has no significance to the findings below and the findings below are limited to Klein's exercise of extremely poor judgment. This tribunal also ignores the expansive national coverage of the interview. Klein is not responsible for the subsequent actions of Project Veritas. Nor is he responsible for the District allowing a company to come and tape a drug awareness program and provide Klein an award. In the absence of the existence of the videotaped interview, Klein's actions would be an exchange of word between three people but no less unbecoming conduct. Klein's poor judgment would not be public. Project Veritas' distribution of the tape made Isola and the public aware of Klein's poor judgment.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the documentary evidence, the testimony presented, and having had an opportunity to observe the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Klein possesses the following teaching certifications: Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificate, with a Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing (CEAS) in Health and Physical Education (12/94); Teacher of Physical Education (1/99) and Teacher of Health and Physical Education (6/00).

2. In November 2015, Klein attended the New Jersey Teachers' Convention in Atlantic City.

3. In November 2015, he unknowingly participated in a videotaped interview at his Borgata hotel room during the convention.

4. Klein's discussions during the interview portrays himself as aware of and a participant in the drug culture. He states he is a good host providing guests at his home with the availability of marijuana and/or cocaine.

5. Klein's conduct offers cocaine to the interviewers.

6. There is no evidence that Kline had cocaine or marijuana with him at the Borgata.

7. Klein's discussions during the interview display a disregard of his professional obligations as a health teacher by appearing to promote the use of marijuana and cocaine, controlled dangerous substances.

8. Klein's discussions during the interview are inconsistent with the conduct of any educational professional. The actions are subject to severe criticism as he is an educational professional who teaches health sciences.

9. Klein's conduct constitutes conduct unbecome a teacher.

10. Klein's conduct constitutes just cause to revoke his teaching certificates.

11. Klein's prior performance is not addressed by the Examiners other than the incident of November 2015.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The State Board of Examiners may revoke or suspend the certification of any certificate holder on the basis of demonstrated inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher or other just cause. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3 .4. "Teachers . . . are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of . . . school children. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321.

The NJEA Teachers' Convention provides, according to their informational webpage, "More than 300 professional development seminars, workshops, and programs designed to help teachers and educational support professionals hone their skills and stay current in their subject areas and chosen fields." The school districts in the State of New Jersey are closed on the dates of the convention. Teachers' and educational professional attend as continuing professional self- improvement. What occurred here fails to reach that lofty goal! Rather the discussions held by Klein, regardless of publication, reflect a severe lack of judgment. If it had not been videotaped, at best would be the word of Ms. Elizabeth and Cor, against Klein's word as to what happened. If it had not been videotaped, arguably proof of what transpired would have been more difficult to prove. There is no question that Project Veritas duped Klein.

However, it is Klein's blatant lack of judgment which provides the exclusive basis for this tribunal's determination that the actions are "conduct unbecoming a teacher" and provide more than "just cause" for the Examiners determination to terminate Klein's certificates.

The Examiners provided no additional evidence of Klein's prior disciples and if any prior disciplines exist, they in no way affect the determinations herein. The actions of Klein in November 2015 are sufficient to provide by a preponderance of the evidence he violated conduct unbecoming a teacher. The fact that he is a middle school health and physical education teacher, exacerbates this tribunal's view of his conduct. The actions on November 2015, clearly demonstrates conduct that is not acceptable by any teacher. Just the suggestion that Klein has drugs available by itself, is an anthemia to a proper educator and is conduct unbecoming, or just cause for a revocation of the certificates. Unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be shown by one incident if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. Of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (1943).

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" has been described as any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a department; conduct which has a tendency to destroy respect for public employees and their departments; or conduct which destroys confidence in public service. See In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140–42 (App. Div. 1960); cf. Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). This tribunal clearly holds that Klein's conduct destroys respect for the educational system.

The State Board of Examiners is authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38 to revoke certificates issued by it to teachers pursuant to rules and regulations prescribed by the State Board. These regulations are found at N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.5 through 17.8. The Examiners are authorized to revoke or suspend on the basis of demonstrated inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher of other just cause. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.5. Generally, proceedings to consider revocation are initiated by the issuance by the Examiners of an order to show cause. N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.6(a). The Examiners bear the burden of proving their claims by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962); In re Papadaniil, EDE 8821-00, Initial Decision (March 13, 2002), adopted, Exam'rs (May 9, 2002) (citations omitted), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. It has been held that "[e]vidence is found to 'preponderate' if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact alleged and generates a reliable belief that the tendered hypothesis . . . is true." State Bd. of Exam'rs v. Ferreira, EDE 3390-04, Initial Decision (July 5, 2005), adopted, Exam'rs (Sept. 22, 2005), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (April 5, 2006), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

CONCLUSION

Based on all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Examiners have met their burden of proof that respondent's actions constitute conduct unbecoming and just cause to warrant the revocation of Klein's Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificate, with a Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing (CEAS) in Health and Physical Education (12/94), Teacher of Physical Education (1/99) and Teacher of Health and Physical Education (6/00).

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the Examiners's petition to revoke the respondent's Teacher of Health and Physical Education Certificate, with a Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing (CEAS) in Health and Physical Education (12/94), Teacher of Physical Education (1/99) and Teacher of Health and Physical Education (6/00) certificates is GRANTED in all respects.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the State Board of Examiners does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the SECRETARY OF THE STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, 100 Riverview Plaza, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Suspension of the Certificates of Craig Forte, State Board of Examiners, New Jersey Department of Education.

Order of Suspension by the State Board of Examiners, September 19, 2019

For the Respondent-Appellant, Samuel Wenocur, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Geoffrey Stark, Deputy Attorney General (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Commissioner has reviewed the record and the papers filed in connection with appellant Craig Forte's appeal of the Order of the State Board of Examiners, dated September 19, 2019, suspending his Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, Teacher of Students with Disabilities Certificate of Eligibility, Teacher of Elementary School Certificate, and Teacher of Students with Disabilities Certificate for a period of one year. Following the issuance of an Order to Show Cause by the Board and a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that appellant engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher and recommended that appellant's certificates be suspended for a period of six months. The ALJ found that petitioner, a middle school special education teacher, breached security protocols when administering the Alternate Proficiency Assessment (APA) because there were too many instances of similar or verbatim responses to open-ended questions across the student portfolios and writing tasks. Thereafter, the Board adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ and increased the penalty to a one year-suspension of appellant's teaching certificates, finding that appellant's unbecoming conduct was more than a technical oversight and directly impacted the security of the test, such that a longer suspension was warranted.

On appeal, appellant maintains that he used the discrete trial intervention (DTI) method of instruction, an accepted method of instruction for students with autism, and that DTI can result in students memorizing model essays and generalizing them in their assessment responses. Appellant argues that the similarity in the responses results from his method of instruction rather than any inappropriate prompts by him and notes that there was no firsthand testimony that he engaged in any wrongdoing. Appellant further asserts that the APA guidelines do not prohibit the use of DTI and reading them to do so inappropriately subjects him to a rule that is unclear and vague. Finally, appellant argues that a one-year suspension is excessive, citing to his performance in the eight years since the incidents at issue.

In reviewing appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board so long as the appellant received due process and the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record. Further, the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a).

After a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the record adequately supports the Board's determination that appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct and that a one-year suspension of appellant's certificates was the appropriate penalty. The ALJ found Elizabeth Celentano of the Department of Education's Office of Assessments to be credible when she testified that it was not possible for so many students to have the same answers without assistance, and further found appellant not credible when he testified that he did not notice the similarity among the responses, or between the responses and his own model essay – which he had been using for six years. The Board appropriately adopted these credibility findings. Moreover, appellant's arguments regarding his method of instruction are unpersuasive. The issue before the Board was not how the appellant instructed his students; rather, the Board considered whether the appellant engaged in unbecoming conduct when he allowed nearly identical responses on student submissions for the APA assessment. It is axiomatic that assessments must be completed independently and that students cannot merely recite responses written by the teacher, which would demonstrate only their ability to memorize a response and not the underlying skill that the assessment was designed to measure.

There is also nothing in the record to suggest that the Board's decision to suspend appellant's certificates for one year – based on the nature of the unbecoming conduct proven during the hearing at the OAL – was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.[1]

IN THE MATTER OF	:	NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
THE CERTIFICATES OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS
CRAIG A. FORTE	:	ORDER OF SUSPENSION
_____	:	DOCKET NO: 1112-212

At its meeting of June 25, 2012, the State Board of Examiners (Board) reviewed information it had received regarding Craig A. Forte. The Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC) forwarded its March 23, 2012 report titled "East Orange School District – APA Security Breach" to the State Board of Examiners (Board). OFAC was asked to investigate the Cicely Tyson Middle School (Tyson School) by the Office of Assessments due to an evaluation completed by Pearson, the company that scores the APA, disclosing similarities in Language Arts Literacy (LAL) writing tasks across multiple student portfolios at the school. The LAL assessments were administered by special education teacher, Forte.

In the report, which is incorporated herein by reference, OFAC concluded that Forte breached security protocol when administering the APA because there were too many instances of similar or verbatim Language Arts Literacy responses across 22 student portfolios and four writing tasks. Forte was the only teacher responsible for the student portfolios in question.

Forte currently holds a Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility With Advanced Standing, Teacher of Students With Disabilities Certificate of Eligibility and Teacher of Elementary School, and Teacher of Students With Disabilities certificates. After reviewing the above information, at its June 21, 2012 meeting, the Board voted to issue an Order to Show Cause (OSC) to Forte as to why his certificates should not be revoked.

The Board sent Forte the OSC by regular and certified mail on July 25, 2012. The OSC provided that Forte must file an Answer within 30 days. Forte responded on July 23, 2012. In his Answer, Forte denied all the allegations from the OFAC report, indicating that he never received a copy of the report, but acknowledges receipt of the Order to Show Cause. (Answer, ¶¶ 2-5).

Since there were material facts in dispute, on August 10, 2012, the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. On June 25, 2019, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Leslie Z. Celentano issued an Initial Decision in the case. In the Matter of the Certificates of Craig Forte, Dkt. No. EDE 10823-12 (Initial Decision, June 25, 2019).

After reviewing the record, ALJ Celentano found that Forte's conduct had a "tangible impact upon the administration of the 2010-2011 APA." (Initial Decision, slip op. at 21.) After noting that Forte received training on how the test should be administered, the ALJ noted Forte's testimony that he did not notice that "numerous students produced nearly identical or identical essays strains credulity." Ibid. ALJ Celentano stated that Forte's conduct was similar to that which had been found previously to constitute "unbecoming conduct" and for which a revocations and suspension were imposed and, therefore, a suspension was appropriate here. Ibid. Specifically, ALJ Celentano stated that "[t]he results achieved by the students would not be possible without substantive assistance." Ibid.

The ALJ further opined that Forte's conduct is distinguishable from the facts of cases where certificates were revoked for test breaches. Specifically, the ALJ indicated that Forte's conduct did not result in a re-administration of the testing. Balancing the above, the ALJ determined that a suspension of six (6) months was appropriate. Id. at 19. The Deputy Attorney General (DAG or Deputy) representing the Board filed Exceptions and Forte filed reply exceptions.

In the Exceptions, the DAG argues that the length of the suspension is not a sufficient penalty for the unbecoming conduct. Specifically, the ALJ found that Forte's conduct was "somewhat distinguishable from the facts supporting the harsher penalties given in Mascuch and Radzik." (Exceptions, p. 2). The only factor used to distinguish the cases was that there was no re-administration of the test. However, reliance upon re-administration as a factor is misplaced. Ibid. The DAG indicates that there is nothing in the record regarding the possibility of re-administration such that it should be used as a basis for weighing the severity of the penalty.

The DAG further argued that there are other facts which lean towards revocation. Specifically, Forte's testimony was "inherently unbelievable" and "strained credulity." (Exceptions, p. 3). Despite using the same sample essays, Forte claimed to not recognize the words of the samples when the students submitted identical copies. Additionally, Forte claimed that he did not notice the identical essays. The DAG states that "[t]here is no reasonable, innocuous explanation for having a dozen or more students hand in identical work on a State assessment." Ibid.

In his Reply Exceptions Forte argued that the cases cited by the DAG to support revocation are distinguishable from the facts in this case. (Reply Exceptions, p. 1). Specifically, Forte was using an acknowledged method of instructing students with autism – discrete trial instruction (DTI). (Reply Exceptions, p. 2). This intervention method was not prohibited in the training materials for testing and thus Forte did not engage in a knowing defiance of testing procedure. Id.

Forte also filed his own Exceptions (noted as Forte Exceptions). Forte argued hat the ALJ failed to properly consider the discrete trial instruction method he used with the autistic students. (Forte Exceptions, p. 3). Forte presented an expert clinical psychologist and Board certified behavior analyst, Dr. Lisa Spano, to support his contention that the teaching model Forte used during the instructional period of the APA was similar to the DTI method. Ibid. Dr. Spano testified that the student's responses lacked variety and creativity which "one would generally expect from individuals with autism." Ibid.

Forte further argues that the APA Procedure Manual or Elizabeth Celentano's PowerPoint presentation does not specifically prohibit the use of the DTI method such that it would be considered a breach of the APA. (Forte Exceptions, p. 6). Moreover, Forte argued that Celentano's testimony indicates she has no experience with autistic children and therefore her testimony lacks probative value. (Forte Exceptions, p. 8). Forte also goes to great lengths to specifically compare the differences in the APA samples. Those comparisons are noted by the Board in its review of this initial decision. (Forte Exceptions, p.10-19).

The Board must now determine whether to adopt, modify or reject the Initial Decision in this matter. At its meeting of August 1, 2019, the Board reviewed the Initial Decision, both Exceptions and Reply Exceptions. After full and fair consideration of the Decision and submissions, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision, but modify the penalty in this matter.

The ultimate issue in this matter is the nature and degree of assistance Forte provided to her students during the assessment. As noted above, ALJ Celentano found that Forte breached testing protocols during the exam but determined that a six-month suspension of his certificates was appropriate given the mitigation he presented. After reviewing the entire record, the Board agrees with the ALJ's assessment regarding Forte's unbecoming conduct but disagrees with the appropriate resultant penalty. Forte's conduct was more than a mere technical oversight and his conduct directly impacted the security of the test, as indicated by ALJ Celentano in the initial decision. The ALJ noted that the results achieved by the student would not have been possible without substantive assistance.

The Board has found unbecoming conduct where the certificate holder breached a rule or regulation governing standardized test security. The penalty for such conduct has ranged from a two-month suspension to revocation. See I/M/O the Licenses of Mark Jacob, Dkt. No. 398-06/96-126 (November 20, 1997) (suspending certificates for two months where teacher duplicated portions on the HSPA); I/M/O the Certificates of Nelson Evans, Dkt. No. 1112-111 (December 6, 2013) (suspending certificates for one year where teacher helped at least one student during the administration of the NJASK and conducted a review prior to the test); I/M/O the Certificates of William Mascuch, Dkt. No. 0607-134 (January 17, 2008) (revoking certificates where teacher read aloud the test questions on the NJASK, allowed extra time and provided one student an answer).

The Board agrees that Forte's conduct does not warrant a revocation as in Mascuch above. However, given that the ALJ found Forte's conduct to be more than a technical oversight, but rather a direct impact to the security of the test, the Board believes that this matter requires a lengthier suspension. A one year suspension is consistent with the decision in I/M/O the Certificates of Nelson Evans, Dkt. No. 1112-111 (December 6, 2013) wherein Evans directly impacted the test by helping at least one student during the test and conducting a review prior to the test. Accordingly, a more fitting penalty in this matter is a one-year suspension of his certificates.

Accordingly, on August 1, 2019, the Board voted to adopt the Initial Decision and ordered a one-year suspension of Forte's certificates. On this 19th day of September 2019, the Board formally adopted its written decision to adopt the Initial Decision in this matter and it is therefore ORDERED that Craig Forte's Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, Teacher of Students with Disabilities Certificate of Eligibility, Teacher of Elementary School Certificate, and Teacher of Students with Disabilities certificates are hereby SUSPENDED for a period of one year, effective immediately. It is further ordered that Forte return his certificates to the Secretary of the State Board of Examiners, Office of Certification and Induction, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, NJ 08625-0500 within 30 days of the mailing date of this decision.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDE 10823-12
AGENCY DKT. NO. 1112-212

IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATES OF CRAIG FORTE.

Geoffrey Stark, Deputy Attorney General, for petitioner State Board of Examiners (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Sheldon H. Pincus, Esq., for respondent Craig Forte (Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 13, 2019 Decided: June 25, 2019

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This case was commenced by Order to Show Cause (OSC) issued by the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), State Board of Examiners (Board). The OSC directs respondent Craig Forte (Forte) to show cause why the certificates and credentials he holds should not be revoked.

On June 25, 2012, the Board issued the OSC to Forte, which stems from the Board's receipt of a report by the DOE, Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC), concerning an investigation of a reported security breach during the 2010–2011 administration of the New Jersey Alternate Proficiency Assessment (APA) in the East Orange School District. The investigation followed the discovery of many instances of verbatim responses across twenty-two student portfolios and four writing tasks. At the time of the 2010 APA test, Forte was the administrator of the language arts portion of the testing.

As reflected in the OSC issued to Forte, the OFAC reported that he > breached security protocol when administering the APA because there were too many instances of similar or verbatim language arts literacy responses across 22 student portfolios and four writing tasks.

The OSC also reflects that OFAC investigators determined that respondent was the only teacher responsible for the portfolios in question. The OSC memorialized the Board's finding that respondent's "inappropriate conduct" as outlined in the March 2012 OFAC report provides "just cause for consideration of the revocation of his certificates." It also directs respondent to show cause why all certificates and credentials held by him should not be revoked.

Respondent filed an answer to the OSC and the Board transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed for determination as a contested case on August 10, 2012. The matter was scheduled for hearing and adjourned multiple times for discovery issues; issues related to illnesses; witness unavailability; unavailability of experts, including the withdrawal of Forte's original expert and a search for a replacement; and the assignment and reassignment of multiple deputy attorneys general. The parties also requested additional time for the preparation of voluminous joint-exhibit binders and for multiple discovery motions. Several prehearing telephone conferences were held and an Order on Motion to Compel Discovery was entered on February 1, 2013. The matter was commenced on January 22, 2016, and continued on April 20, 2016. The parties were unavailable on multiple dates throughout 2017 and 2018, and the final day of hearing was January 25, 2019. At the conclusion of the hearing, the parties requested the opportunity to submit briefs in support of their respective positions, and following receipt of the briefs and all exhibits, the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

At the hearing the Board offered the testimony of Elizabeth Celentano, and respondent offered Lisa Spano and also testified on his own behalf. The parties also entered into a Joint Stipulation of Facts (J-1) as follows:

1. Craig Forte is the holder of a teacher of elementary school certificate of eligibility with advanced standing issued March 2004.

2. Mr. Forte is the holder of a teacher of students with disabilities certificate of eligibility issued October 2006.

3. Mr. Forte is the holder of a teacher of elementary school certificate issued September 2008.

4. Mr. Forte is the holder of a teacher of students with disabilities certificate issued September 2008.

5. In the 2010–2011 school year, Mr. Forte was a special-education teacher at Cicely Tyson middle school in East Orange, New Jersey.

6. Mr. Forte administered the 2010–2011 language arts/literacy (LAL) Alternate Proficiency Assessments (APA) for the students in his classroom and the classroom of Patrice Thompson.

7. Prior to administering the APA in the 2010–2011 school year, Mr. Forte reviewed all of the training modules for the APA available on the New Jersey Department of Education website.

8. Mr. Forte's review of the training modules was prior to his administration of the 2010–2011 LAL APA for his students and Ms. Thompson's students.

9. None of the students for whom Mr. Forte administered the 2010–2011 LAL APA required scribing.

10. None of the students for whom Mr. Forte administered 2010–2011 LAL APA required prompts.

11. None of the students for whom Mr. Forte administered the 2010–2011 LAL APA required physical prompts.

12. On June 2011, representatives from the New Jersey Department of Education interviewed Mr. Forte.

Elizabeth Celentano

Ms. Celentano testified that she is employed by the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE or Department), in the Office of Assessments. She serves as an educational program development specialist for all alternative assessments. She has held this position since 2011, and previously worked on the general assessment for grades four and five for all subject areas since 1995.

Ms. Celentano has a bachelor's degree in elementary education and is a certified teacher of K–8. She also has a master's in educational psychology in the area of psychometrics (educational statistics and measurement), and a master's in educational statistics.

Prior to working for the Department, Ms. Celentano was a social scientist with the Division of Human Services working on a statistical-analysis project for approximately six months. Prior to that position she was employed in Pennsylvania working with domestic-violence and sexual-assault victims and on designing and delivering school curriculum for child-abuse prevention. She also did outreach programs for colleges, designing their curriculum. In that position she worked directly with teachers and school psychologists. Prior to that position she worked with Educational Testing Service as a statistical associate doing statistical analysis and assessment work for teacher exams. Prior to that she worked with the Department of Personnel, now known as Civil Service, doing statistical analysis as a project specialist working with subject-matter experts. She directed the activities of and conducted statewide subject-matter-expert panels.

In her current position in educational assessment, she works with subject-matter-expert panels four times a year to determine, along with educators and teachers, what is appropriate to be tested.

Before the Department of Personnel position, Ms. Celentano was an elementary-school teacher and taught special education in high school, as well. She also taught first grade and fourth grade, and did tutoring. Prior to that she worked for the College of New Jersey in the child study behavior group as a research assistant, performing data collection and analysis and producing reports related to students with autism and/or savants. She has done presentations for the State Board of Education; to principals and supervisors conferences; to State administrators of tests; and to the New Jersey Education Association.

In 2010 to 2011, the APA was the method used by teachers to assess students with the most significant cognitive disabilities, allowing them to take instruction in class and build a portfolio of work for them. This allowed teachers to fashion their own tests and prepare a binder. The design of the APA began in 1999, and the first year it was scored was 2001, when she came on. She came in to help manage and review the process to determine how the scoring would be implemented and what the design should be.

In her current position Ms. Celentano is in charge fully of the test design, test delivery, training the administrators and teachers, preparing the PowerPoints, overseeing the scoring and the teachers scoring. She also deals with the vendor, and does the statistical analysis of all scores, eventually meeting with teachers over the summer to advise what was gleaned in the scoring process and to determine what the testing revealed and whether any changes are needed to the design. Rotating groups of experts are brought in to offer their opinions, as well.[1]

In identifying security breaches, most binders are reviewed at scoring centers out of state. If something is noted that seems out of order, she is notified, and then has others who assist in reviewing the materials. Examples of test security breaches would include not following the directions given, not having a name or date on everyone's work, or if whiteout was used. All these things would be considered errors and security breaches. Once there is a determination that there is a significant breach, the information is sent to Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance for an investigation. The purpose of the APA, pursuant to the federal guidelines, is that every student be assessed regardless of intellectual ability. Schools and districts are held accountable for program performance and student performance, and some students taking the APA also take the NJ ASK if they have strength in other areas, but very few take both assessments.

Ms. Celentano testified that she has been involved with hundreds of breaches over the years, likely exceeding 400, and that four or five of those have gone to OFAC. The district test coordinator is notified in late August to make sure teachers receive the training they need in order to do the assessment. There is a step-by-step process which demonstrates how to score, including if a student did a test with or without prompting. Instructions are also posted online to train teachers and the modules are up all year for teachers to review.

The teacher training module (P-2) on page four explains what the APA is. Page five is a reminder of the purpose of the APA, that it is a part of the accountability system and not just a New Jersey requirement. Page six explains the participation guidelines for the alternate assessment.

[1] The Board offered Ms. Celentano as an expert in the Alternate Proficiency Assessment (APA). After initially reserving and following arguments of counsel, the witness is deemed qualified to testify as an expert witness.

An example of a completed copy of participation guidelines appears in Exhibit J-5, page three (NJDOE 324), which reflects the four main questions that address the student's cognitive disability. All four questions would have to be answered in the affirmative for a student to be allowed to take the assessment. If any question cannot be answered in the affirmative, then the student has to take the general assessment, which the federal government indicates is about 1 percent of the total population, and so a very small number of students have the most significant cognitive disabilities. The students are typically those that need repeated and intensive instruction with lots of support modifications and the use of pictures, objects, and prompting to get to the answer. Sometimes gesturing and physical prompting is required, meaning the student is being shown what the answer is.

To determine whether a student is eligible to take the APA, an IEP team needs to look at the general assessment test (P-2 at 9). For example, some autistic children take the general assessment for math and the alternate assessment for language arts.

The second module regarding the APA test (P-3) explains the format of the test and the test design. The entry cover sheet indicates what is being tested, and there is one cover sheet per entry. The APA itself is based upon instruction throughout the year. The first period of collection of information ends on November 12, and a teacher can put something in a binder anytime or replace something that they had put in earlier. They are pulling materials from instruction happening throughout the year. The teacher chooses the activity and the skills based upon their knowledge of the student and what's in the IEP.

There is also a module that outlines common mistakes (P-4).

The outline of what is accepted as evidence for the APA is reflected in module IV (P-5), which includes requirements for contents of the entry, the entry cover sheet, and the evidence requirements. Whether the student answered questions accurately or not has to be documented, as does whether the student answered independently. Items need to be marked accordingly. "V" would indicate a verbal prompt, "G" a gestural prompt, and "M" a module prompt. "P" would indicate a physical prompt; however, the answer needs to be marked wrong since it was provided to the student. Part five of the module (P-6) is a continuation of Acceptable Evidence.[2] The scoring rules are covered in part six of the module (P-7), and include requiring the correct amount of evidence and the percentage of independent scores.

Module VII (P-8) is the module reminding teachers that they need different instructional activities. Module VIII (P-9) covers independence and what percentage of the time the student was independent or required supports or prompts. Module IX (P-10) is entitled Performance, and on page six address scoring for accuracy. For example, if an indirect prompt was received and the student got the answer right, then the answer is marked correct with the prompt noted. If there is a physical prompt, meaning the student was given the answer, then the answer needs to be marked wrong with a P next to it.

Module X (P-11) concerns steps to developing entries and selecting what would be used. Page two provides the six steps to develop an entry. Page 15 outlines instructional supports that do not work for the APA, such as giving support that basically shows the student what the answer is without showing they understood the skill or concept. That cannot be used to assess the student on the APA.

The remaining module XI (P-12) provides information about teacher instructional resources; module XII (P-13) consists of example entries; and module XIII (P-14) discusses proficiency levels, score reports, and administrative topics.

After the teachers' and school districts' work is done, the portfolios are collected and shipped to the vendor (Pearson Education). Scoring is done at the Pearson site, and about 60 percent of the scorers return annually. Pearson staff are trained on a scoring handbook. Pearson is aware of how to identify breaches in accordance with the brochure. There are identifying features in the handbook, and all are trained to identify a breach.

[2] P-6 in the joint binder has no content other than the cover page.

Ms. Celentano testified that she knows petitioner from interviews regarding the security breach, and as someone who had produced a set of binders that were the subject of a breach investigation. Petitioner's interview was conducted by Joanne Griffith from OFAC, which completed an investigation and report. (J-1.) The final report from OFAC is dated in 2012 because that is when the write-up was concluded. The investigation was commenced after Pearson notified her that there were twenty-two test booklets from the same school that had a large number of answers that were exactly the same. (J-3.) After reviewing the document that reflected the names of two teachers, and interviewing supervisors, administrators, petitioner, and the other teacher, they were able to determine who had done which part of the binders, and that Ms. Thompson, the other teacher, had done only the mathematics entries. Petitioner had done the language arts sections at issue.

One part of the information highlighted was that ten students had identical answers to a question regarding the story "A Christmas Carol." Also, there were thirteen students with the exact same answer to a question regarding the story "Jimmy's Car."[3] There were six students with the same answer to the following story, and six with the same answer to the story after that. There were five identical answers to the story "Superhero Cat," and two identical stories that started out, "My house is big." The significance of identical responses is that it is an indication that the information being received is inaccurate. Identical answers to open-ended questions are "not only improbable, but practically impossible," without an intervening event. Ms. Celentano testified that she has encountered other breaches on a smaller scale where portfolios had the same answers. Assessments have to be based on things not already taught, and need to be done by the student independently or with prompting.

In this case, Ms. Celentano reviewed the actual physical portfolios when they were shipped back to her. She identified this as a clear security breach because it was obvious that the tests had not been independently done. Many cases were identical, and while a few have an extra sentence or one less sentence, many answers were exact replicas of others. The question posed was an open-ended question, and it is not possible for all of these students to have identical replies. She also identified the answers to the questions about "A Christmas Carol" as breaches because some were identical and others had very minor differences. She testified that a significant difference in a student's abilities might indicate a breach, such as when students who could barely list or spell words had perfect punctuation and spelling just eight weeks later. The special education office and the district educator said there is no way to make this kind of progress when there are intellectual disabilities, and that the exact or extreme overlap of words in the same order to an open-ended question is clearly a breach.

Ms. Celentano testified as to many of the entries and cover sheets, all of which were marked as written independently and without assistance, yet the comparisons from the students' responses two months earlier was staggering. In many cases, a student who could not formulate a full sentence and could not do what the instructions asked, but merely strung together words, was, two months later, with Thanksgiving and Christmas break in between, writing fully formed paragraphs, transitions, and full sentences; had developed accurate spelling; and had the ability to incorporate complex sentences and emotion in their writing, as well as conflict resolution. In that period of time there had been a mastery of the use of words and proper punctuation, and very well developed stories written.

In reviewing the actual portfolios, Ms. Celentano identified J-5 as a portfolio of a student whose initials are A.R.[4] The barcode identifying the student is the same one on the plastic bag that the test is placed into, so the barcode connects all of the items with the portfolio. In this case the barcode was 761400020. The cover sheet is incomplete because the student's name is missing. In this case the skill that was being tested in this section of the APA is "recognize and understand historical and cultural biases and different points of view." Students were to read the book "A Christmas Carol" and then write a descriptive essay to discuss the cultural and moral biases in Victorian England in 1845 as compared to today. The first collection entry for this student for the same skill appears on the previous page, marked NJDOE 330. Students were asked to write a descriptive essay about the book "White Fang" discussing cultural and historical biases towards Native Americans in the 1800s. The student's initial evidence in this case has a few words on the left side indicating "1850's Indians nice people. Indians hunt food with . . . "; nothing is written after that, and on the right side under the heading of Today, it is blank. Ms. Celentano then read what the student had written on the next page, NJDOE 331, and noted punctuation, formatting, and content and described those as all different ways to look at whether information is similar or different.

J-6 is the portfolio of another student who met the APA guidelines. On the barcode page the initials appear to be backwards and indicating W.A.; however, on subsequent sheets, the initials are noted to be A.W. The cover sheet is again missing the student's name (NJDOE 379), and the essay regarding the book "A Christmas Carol" appears at NJDOE 382. Comparing page 382 in J-6 to page 331 in J-5, Ms. Celentano noted that the responses are similar but not exactly the same.

Another example of the many comparisons undertaken is of DOE 450 and 452 within J-7, and DOE 550 and DOE 552 within J-9, where the original entry of November 24, 2010, earned a score of "1" and reflected two sentences with words misspelled, some of which made no sense. A second entry two months later reflected a full story, with full sentences and accurate punctuation, and was marked as having been independently done. Other examples among many were DOE 1189 through DOE 1192 within J-21; DOE 486 through DOE 489 within J-8; and DOE 586 through DOE 589 within J-10. DOE 495 within J-8, DOE 595 within J-10, and DOE 1336 within J-24 are all identical, yet were prepared by three different students. Ms. Celentano noted that if DOE 495 is held up to a light with DOE 1336 behind it, everything about them is identical, including the date stamp, which lines up, and the circles around the scores, which also line up. The only way to perfectly match like this would be to photocopy it.

Ms. Celentano testified that she was present for respondent's interview and that he did not offer an explanation as to how responses would be verbatim. She testified that the same essay word-for-word in a large amount of text is an absolute breach. Teachers are not allowed to teach the students answers to questions, and the tests are trying to see if a student learned the skill that the training materials were intended to teach. She testified that it is not possible to have the same ten identical, elaborate, complex answers in this population, especially with the limitations these students have.

Ms. Celentano testified that she works in educational assessments and evaluation of educational programs, and is in charge of the APA to ensure that those students with cognitive issues are assessed correctly and accurately for schools, parents, teachers, and the federal government. The question becomes whether the student has learned a skill over the time frame that was selected to teach them, and whether they generalize it and demonstrate that skill. The APA does not measure IQ and is not designed to do so. She testified that she has worked for twenty-three years in classrooms with special-education students, observing their instruction and making recommendations. She described discrete trial as focusing students over and over on something and collecting data. Here, there were twenty-two students, and some of the verbatim answers were between students in the same group, and in other cases were from students in different groups. If a paper of a student with significant cognitive deficits had the same exact answers as the paper of another student, the paper could not possibly have been done independently. Multiple students with the exact same answers across multiple groups is not possible. If answers were somewhat similar it could be said to be subjective, but here there were many identical answers, and therefore no subjective elements.

Ms. Celentano testified on redirect that nothing that transpired in the hearing changes the conclusions drawn in the OFAC investigation—that the children did not write these essays independently.

Lisa Spano

Dr. Spano has been a clinical psychologist in private practice since May 2015, providing consulting for parents, teachers, and children with behavior issues. She holds a bachelor's degree in psychology, a master's degree in educational psychology, a master's degree in applied psychology, and a doctorate degree in clinical psychology. She is a board-certified behavior analyst, and can teach children with autism or behavior disorders. She did multiple externships and has provided individual, family, and couples therapy to adults and children in various departments of hospitals. She was accepted as an expert in clinical psychology and behavior analysis.

Dr. Spano stated that she has never administered the APA test and never been on an expert panel for the Department of Education. She has never been a teacher. Her instruction is in the area of behavior, and includes home-based and preschool settings. The more severe the autism is, the more she is involved in the academics. She has never worked with standardized testing.

Dr. Spano testified that children with autism need to be taught different responses to the same stimuli, and that the teaching strategy uses repetition in order for students to learn, but they also need to be taught to be flexible. Their memories are often very specific. In conducting her review, she researched the methods utilized and heard respondent's explanation of what he did, and reviewed the records. After understanding the description of the class, she determined that it was made up of twenty-two students with high-functioning autism. She found respondent to be very direct and forthright and not evasive. She testified that the essays were used as models during the instructional period, and students repeatedly practiced writing these essays. They then recalled them and generated similar writing passages.

Dr. Spano opined that it would be expected that students' passages would be similar to each other, since students imitated the models used during the instructional period.

On cross-examination, Dr. Spano was asked about item "m." on page two of her report, which lists "Forte analysis of portfolios" as part of her records review. She testified she is "not sure what that is." When asked the difference between "similar" and "variable," she described similar as almost the same, and variable as different ideas and opinions which may not start and end the same way. When asked whether some of the students' essays were exactly the same, she responded that she could not say that she found any identical to another, and that, "there were so many." Dr. Spano testified that respondent told her his students had "high functioning autism" with "mild cognitive impairment," and she understood that those students with mild cognitive impairment cannot do regular standardized tests, so they take the APA. The New Jersey Alternate Proficiency Assessment Teacher Training (P-2 at 4) indicates that the APA is specifically designed for students with the "most significant cognitive disabilities," and Dr. Spano agreed that this is different from what respondent said about "mild cognitive impairment." She stated, however, that while mild and severe are not the same, the distinction is subjective.[5]

Dr. Spano testified that her experience regarding student memorization is that students do not memorize multiple paragraphs, but often remember all the scenes from a movie, for example, if they have a particular area of interest like dinosaurs or something particular to the student. She has not seen memorization of multiple full paragraphs in her practice and experience. She also testified that she would have expected these students to ask "why not?" when told there would be no help.

Dr. Spano's report (R-4) also indicates on page three in the last paragraph that "records indicate" that respondent did not "advocate dishonesty or cheating" during the assessment, but when asked what records she was referring to, she indicated she got that from his responses to her questions, and quoted what he said, and that was his statement.

Craig Forte

Craig Forte has been with the East Orange School District since 2008, originally teaching the sixth to eighth grades at the middle school. He began in a behavioral class, and then in the 2010–2011 school year was a remedial English teacher at the high school. Prior to working in East Orange he was employed with the West Orange Public Schools. He has a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's in elementary education, and a student-with-disabilities certification. During the 2010–2011 school year he administered the language arts section of the APA to twenty-two students in the sixth to eighth grades. He described those students as disabled and on the autism spectrum. He testified that there were three levels of students. He described level one as those requiring many supports, with some who could not speak; level two as those students requiring fewer supports; and level three as those requiring almost no supports and able to do most things on their own. There were three full-time aides in the class. The aides supported the learning environment and what he was teaching.

The APA is based upon portfolios of students' work. There were two collection periods—the first one to collect the baseline data between September and November, when students were expected to achieve 39 percent mastery, and then a teaching period, after which there would be a second collection period, where students had to achieve 80 percent or higher mastery. There was a language arts portion and a math portion to the test. He administered the language arts portion and Ms. Thompson did the math section. He had both sets of students when administering the language arts portion, and she had both when administering the math portion.

Forte testified that he had online training for administering the test and that he adhered to all the security procedures, assuring that everything was accurate. He testified that he never altered or fabricated any of the portfolios. Prior to receiving the Order to Show Cause no administrator ever suggested he had breached security.

The first collection period was September 1 through November 13, 2010, and the second one was December 14, 2010, through February 28, 2011. The initial activity was to determine how close students could come to an actual essay, and then go from there; for example, teach them how to create paragraphs, and create flow using discrete trials. Once the final activity is given to the students, no help is given. He offered his lesson plans and the essay examples he had written as examples of a good story. The essays were visible to students during the lesson but were not up during the APA testing; however, the final activity was based upon the samples.

Forte testified that he did not see any of the aides offer help to the students. He indicated that materials were selected based upon each student's IEP and the skills they could and could not do. He used the lesson plans (R-1, a–i), to bring scores up to the 80 percent required.

In the case of the "Jimmy's Car" story, that was up on a huge chart in the classroom. The story is dated February 21, 2006, and he used it from year to year as an example of a good story. A repetitious teaching method is what it is utilized because many students do not comprehend how things "flow." Some students were moved away from others and separated, especially if it was thought that one would try and copy another's work.

At some point he met with the State for an hour and was asked about his process and whether he cheated or copied answers. Ms. Griffith and Ms. Celentano both questioned him. When asked how to explain the similarities in the students' essays, he said he responded that the repetitious method is how autistic kids learn, and that he acted ethically and should not have his certificates revoked or suspended.

On cross-examination Forte testified that the scoring on the initial assessments told him how to handle the next assessment. A score of 39 percent is required by the State and is considered to be an acceptable piece of baseline evidence. Each IEP indicated what a student needed to do to prepare to understand the concept they were going for, and the second assessment shows the growth between the initial collection and the final. The work could be done 100 percent independently or not, and if a letter "V" appears it means verbal assistance was needed.

By way of example, Forte testified that student A.R. did the work independently. He agreed that Ms. Celentano said she found significant similarities and identical language across many students' work, but said that was because students reproduced his example. He disagreed that language was verbatim, and indicated that he would have to compare them. He agreed that what student A.R. had written was virtually identical to his sample paragraph (R-2), but when asked whether he recognized it as his essay, Forte responded that he did not, yet he had used that essay for six years at that point, since 2006. He indicated, however, that he did not "note the order of the words," and indicated that he does not compare the essays but grades them randomly, stating, "no, I didn't notice." Forte testified that he did not notice that thirteen students produced nearly identical answers to his own essay. Forte also testified that he did not recall if he was asked about this in the investigation. When reminded that OFAC said in the report that he had offered no explanation for the number of similar answers, Forte replied that he did not recall the questions, but has no reason to disagree with the report. Forte added that when an autistic student reproduces something they will add something to it, and that they learn by what they hear from others. He testified that he has never been investigated before, but has never had an occasion where more than ten students reproduced an essay, which he indicated happened "just this time."

Respondent's contention that he did not recognize his own essay, and didn't notice that multiple students had produced identical or nearly identical essays, strains credulity. The testimony of petitioner's witness was consistent and credible, and no competent evidence was presented to dispute any of her testimony. Accordingly, I FIND and adopt the entirety of the testimony of Ms. Celentano as FACT.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The Board of Examiners is entrusted with the issuance and revocation of certificates to teach pupils in public schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4, "[t]he Board of Examiners may revoke or suspend the certificate(s) of any certificate holder on the basis of demonstrated inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, or other just cause." The Board of Examiners bears the burden of proving its claims against respondent by a preponderance of the competent, credible evidence. See In re Certificate of Papadaniil, EDE 8821-00, Initial Decision (March 13, 2002), adopted, State Bd. of Exam'rs (May 9, 2002), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). The intendment of the hearing "is to permit [the certificate holder] to demonstrate facts or circumstances that might counter the charges set forth in the Order to Show Cause," State Bd. of Exam'rs v. Brown, 91 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) 5, 7, and an opportunity to present mitigating circumstances toward the determination regarding what licensing sanction, if any, is appropriate, In re Certificates of Mantone, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) 5, 6.

Conduct unbecoming includes a broad range of behavior that impacts a certificate holder's ability to perform his or her duties or otherwise renders the certificate holder unfit to have the responsibility for the custody and care of students. See State Bd. of Exam'rs v. Charlton, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) 18; In re Certificate of Fargo, 91 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) 1. Although "conduct unbecoming" a teacher or other public employee is not defined in the statutes or regulations, it has been described as an "elastic" phrase that includes "'conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency'" of the public entity or "'which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [public] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services.'" In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960) (citation omitted). The touchstone of the charge is a certificate holder's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his position. See Laba v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 23 N.J. 364, 385–88 (1957). It is well settled that "teachers are held to a high standard of conduct because of the influence they exercise over the students." Charlton, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) at 21. Teachers "hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils." In re Tenure Hearing of Tordo, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98–99. They "are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of . . . school children," and "[t]his heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment." Tenure of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321. "'That the school authorities have the right and the duty to screen the officials, teachers, and employees as to their fitness to maintain the integrity of the schools as a part of ordered society, cannot be doubted.'" In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 30 (App. Div.) (citation omitted), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

There are no statutory or regulatory guidelines addressing when revocation or suspension is the appropriate remedy. In re Certificate of Fargo, 91 N.J.A.R.2d (EDE) 1, 3. Plainly, "[t]hat decision is discretionary, on a case-by-case basis, after considering the individual facts and circumstances." Ibid. Unfitness to hold a position in a school system may be demonstrated by a series of incidents or a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). Relevant factors in the equation of whether revocation or something less is appropriate include the nature and gravity of the offense, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, and any harm or injurious effect that the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967).

There are multiple decisions from the Board of Examiners and the Commissioner of Education concerning a certificate holder's breach of security measures governing standardized testing that illustrate whether the teachers' respective courses of conduct constitute "unbecoming conduct" warranting discipline.

In In re Certificates of Radzik, EDE 02911-14, Initial Decision (January 29, 2016), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, modified, State Bd. of Exam'rs (April 14, 2016), http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, a teacher was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct during the administration of the 2010 and 2011 NJ ASK. Radzik allowed students to discuss the test and interact with each other during the administration of the test. He also repeated the correct answer to a question, and told stories to his students suggesting they remember them. During the test, after reading the writing prompts, he alluded to the stories to be used in answering the question. He also drew a shape on the board immediately prior to the math testing and demonstrated how smaller shapes could be assembled into the larger shape. One of the math problems in that section was the exact one that he had drawn on the board. During the testing, he also read numerous sample questions to his students, and provided answers, in the beginning of the math section even though only one sample question was allowed, and he encouraged a newly hired teacher to use non-verbal cues during testing. Based on this conduct, the Board of Examiners revoked Radzik's certificates.

In In re Certificates of Mascuch, EDE 458-07, Initial Decision (October 29, 2007), adopted, State Bd. of Exam'rs (January 17, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, the Board of Examiners issued an OSC following a report from the OFAC that concluded that a teacher had violated testing procedures in administering the NJ ASK. Mascuch was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct by reading aloud reading-comprehension passages, by not abiding by test-time requirements, and by providing substantive assistance to a student while she was taking the test. As a result of Mascuch's actions, the district was required to retest all seven students in Mascuch's room. Based on Mascuch's conduct, the Board of Examiners revoked his certificates.

In In re Certificates of Kelley, EDE 8144-12, Initial Decision (January 30, 2014), adopted, State Bd. of Exam'rs (April 4, 2014), http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, the Board of Examiners issued an OSC following a report from the OFAC that concluded that a teacher had breached NJ ASK5 test protocol. Kelley was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct by touching and pointing to students' test booklets during the test in response to students' questions and providing four students with assistance regarding test questions. Based on this conduct, the Board of Examiners suspended Kelley's certificates for three months.

In In re Licenses of Jacob, Dkt. No. 398-06/96-126, State Bd. of Exam'rs (November 20, 1997), http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, a teacher was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct by breaching security in the administration of the High School Proficiency Test by removing a test booklet and duplicating two pages of the math portion for his own use in instructing his pupils. Based on this conduct, the Board of Examiners suspended Jacob's licensure as a teacher for two months.

In In re Certificates of Evans, Jr., EDE 7017-12, Initial Decision (August 8, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, adopted, State Bd. of Exam'rs (December 6, 2013), aff'd, Comm'r (September 30, 2014), http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, the Board of Examiners issued an OSC following a report from the OFAC that concluded that a teacher had breached the NJ ASK4 test protocol. Evans was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct by providing hints and clues to students during the administration of the test, and his "interference with the students taking the test compromised the validity of the test scores such that they had to be discarded." Based on this conduct, the Board of Examiners suspended Evans's certificates for one year.

In In re Certificates of Karis, EDE 1564-07, Initial Decision (November 2, 2007), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, modified, State Bd. of Exam'rs (January 17, 2008), reversed, State Bd. of Educ. (June 18, 2008), http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, the Board of Examiners issued an OSC following information from the Office of Compliance that a teacher had breached security procedures in administering the Grade Eight Proficiency Assessment test. Karis was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct by giving students prior information about the picture writing prompts for the language arts literacy test, which would give her students an unfair advantage on the test, and required the retesting of ninety-five students. Although the Board of Examiners revoked Karis's certificates, the State Board of Education reversed this penalty and imposed a suspension for the remainder of the school year (approximately six months).

In the present matter, the OSC reflected that the Board is seeking revocation of Mr. Forte's teaching certificates; however, the post-hearing submission argues that respondent's breach in testing protocol requires revocation or suspension of his certificates for an unspecified period of time. Mr. Forte's conduct had a tangible impact upon the administration of the 2010–2011 APA. Additionally, he received training on how the test should be administered. The credible testimonial and documentary evidence amply demonstrates that breaches of testing and security protocols occurred during respondent's administration of the 2010–2011 APA. Respondent's testimony that he "didn't notice" that numerous students produced nearly identical or identical essays strains credulity. His testimony that he did not "note the order of the words," and as such, did not recognize that the students had reproduced his own essays which he had used for years, is inherently unbelievable. This conduct is similar to that which has been found to constitute "unbecoming conduct" and for which revocations and suspensions have been imposed in the above-mentioned cases. The results achieved here would not be possible without substantive assistance.

Forte's conduct is somewhat distinguishable from the facts supporting the harsher penalties given in Mascuch, and Radzik, as unlike those cases, Forte's conduct did not result in a determination to re-administer testing. Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that a suspension is warranted in the matter of Mr. Forte's teaching certificate. His conduct is within the realm that past decisions of both the Board of Examiners and the Commissioner of Education have deemed "unbecoming."

The Board no longer seeks only revocation in this matter. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that a suspension of six months be imposed.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher is sustained, and that respondent's teaching certificate be suspended for a period of six months.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the State Board of Examiners does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the SECRETARY OF THE STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, 100 Riverview Plaza, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Archange Antoine,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner contested his removal as a member of the respondent Roselle Board of Education (the Board) based upon his alleged failure to attend three or more consecutive Board meetings. Petitioner contended that his removal was improper and in violation of the Board's own policy, as he had missed only one regular meeting, and argued that the Board's decision to remove him was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no genuine issue as to any material fact here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; it is undisputed that petitioner failed to attend four consecutive meetings of the Board, though petitioner argued that he only missed one regular meeting that appeared on the Board's "Regular Public Meeting" schedule; N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 explicitly addresses a board of education's authority to remove a board member for failure to attend three consecutive meetings of the board without good cause; the statute does not limit missed meetings to "regular" meetings; and the Board's Policy 0145 "Board Member Resignation and Removal" cannot override the authority afforded to it by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3. The ALJ concluded that the Board properly removed petitioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 based on his failure to attend four consecutive meetings of the Board. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion in this matter. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Archange Antoine,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board properly removed petitioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 based on his failure to attend more than three consecutive meetings of the Board. The statute does not limit missed meetings to "regular" meetings, and the Board's policy cannot override the authority afforded to it by the statute.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Archange Antoine (petitioner) contests his removal from respondent Roselle Board of Education (the Board) predicated on his alleged failure to attend three or more consecutive Board meetings.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 31, 2018, petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner), accompanied by a motion for emergent relief. Petitioner alleges that his "removal from the board was improper, unlawful and in violation of the [Board's] own policy, since he only missed one regular meeting," and that the Board's decision to remove him was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.[1] Petitioner seeks an order enjoining the Board from enforcing its resolution removing him as a member of the Board, requiring his immediate reinstatement, and voiding the Board's actions to remove him. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing. On September 12, 2018, oral argument was entertained on petitioner's emergent-relief motion, which was denied by Order dated September 27, 2018. The Commissioner issued a Decision on Application for Emergent Relief on October 12, 2018, adopting the Order denying emergent relief. On May 9, 2019, I issued an Order permitting Jonathan Spearman, who holds the Board seat formerly held by petitioner, to participate in the within matter. The hearing scheduled for February 26, May 14, and May 17, 2019, was adjourned at the parties' request, and the parties ultimately filed cross-motions for summary decision. In this regard, the parties filed a Joint Stipulation of Facts accompanied by various exhibits. Petitioner filed a brief in support of his motion. The Board submitted a brief in support of its motion; a brief in opposition to petitioner's motion; and a certification by counsel (Roth Cert.), which attached, among other documents, a certification by the District's business administrator/board secretary, Anthony Juskiewicz (Juskiewicz Cert.), and certifications by five Board members, Donna Eleazer (Eleazer Cert.), Patricia Fabrizio (Fabrizio Cert.), Sherise Pollard (Pollard Cert.), Richard Villeda

[1] Although the Verified Petition included three counts, petitioner is proceeding only as to count one and has voluntarily withdrawn count two (which contested the adequacy of the Board's notice) and count three (which asserted that petitioner had good cause for missing the meetings).

(Villeda Cert.), and Courtney Washington (Washington Cert.).[2] Mr. Spearman was afforded the opportunity to respond to the cross-motions. No response was received by the required deadline, on which date the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties stipulated to the majority of the facts. Based upon a review of the documentary evidence presented, including the Joint Stipulation of Facts (Stip.) and the certifications submitted by the Board, I FIND the following pertinent undisputed FACTS:

Petitioner was duly elected for a three-year term to the Board commencing on January 1, 2018. (Stip. at ¶ 1.) The Board is a public-school board of education organized under N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1 et seq. (Stip. at ¶ 2.) Pursuant to Board Policy 0141, the Board consists of nine members who serve a term of three years. (Stip. at ¶ 3.)

The Board posts its 2017–2018 "Board Agendas and Minutes" on its website. (Stip. at ¶ 7.) Items II(D) and II(E) on the Board's January 8, 2018, "Reorganization Meeting Agenda" detailed a proposed resolution announcing the "Legal Notice of Scheduled Meetings for the Year 2018" in order for the Board to be in compliance with the Open Public Meetings Act. (Stip. at ¶ 8.) According to District Policy 0154, "[t]he Board of Education shall at the organizational meeting . . . [r]eadopt existing bylaws and policies for the Board's operation and the operation of the school system." (Stip. at ¶ 9 and Exhibit C.) The Board's "Reorganization Meeting Minutes" for January 8, 2018, reflect that Items II(D) through (I) were tabled to the next Board meeting scheduled for Monday, January 29, 2018. (Stip. at ¶ 10 and Exhibit D.) The Board did not meet on January 29, 2018, due to inclement weather. (Stip. at ¶ 11.)

The Board held a "Special Meeting" on February 8, 2018. (Stip. at ¶ 12.) On the "Special Meeting Agenda" were items that had been tabled at the "Reorganization Meeting" on January 8, 2018. (Ibid.) The Board did not address these items on the February 8, 2018, "Special Meeting Agenda," as the minutes reflect that the Board took public comments and posed questions to the superintendent. (Ibid.)

On the Board's February 26, 2018, "Regular Meeting Agenda" was "Reorganization Item[ ] A. Designation of Annual Meeting Schedule," specifically stating:

> [Stip. at ¶ 13.]

The Board's "Regular Meeting Minutes" for February 26, 2018, indicate that the resolution passed by a vote of 8-0. (Ibid.) At the time of adopting this resolution, the Board had a total of ten "Regular Public Meetings" scheduled for 2018. (Ibid.) These ten meetings were meetings noticed as voting meetings. (Ibid.) Any other meeting of the Board was advertised and public notice was given if a vote of the whole Board was to be taken. (Ibid.)

On May 17, 2018, petitioner failed to attend the Board's "Workshop Meeting." (Stip. at ¶ 14.) This meeting was not set forth in the Board's annual meeting schedule. (Ibid.) The May 17, 2018, "Workshop Meeting Minutes" show that the "Workshop Meeting" began at 7:06 p.m. and ended 8:46 p.m. and was attended by five of the nine Board members.

"Workshop Meetings" were instituted for the express purpose of addressing Board agenda items prior to the scheduled monthly meetings so as to minimize the length of the scheduled monthly meetings and address issues of efficiency and timeliness during the monthly meeting. (Stip. at ¶ 15.) These Workshop Meetings were regularly held monthly meetings and not usually voting sessions. (Ibid.)

Petitioner attended the Board's "Regular Meeting" on May 21, 2018. (Stip. at ¶ 16.)

On May 24, 2018, petitioner failed to attend the Board's "Special Meeting." (Stip. at ¶ 17.) This meeting was not set forth in the Board's annual meeting schedule. (Ibid.) The only business on the "Special Meeting Agenda" was "District Goal Setting." (Ibid.; see Roth Cert. at Exhibit 6.) The "Special Meeting" minutes reflect that the special meeting was attended by six of the nine Board members. (Stip. at ¶ 17.) The "Special Meeting" minutes further reflect that neither the superintendent nor the assistant superintendent were in attendance. (Ibid.) Accordingly, the Board determined that it could not achieve the special meeting's business and "another [meeting] would need to take place." (Ibid.)

On June 11, 2018, petitioner failed to attend the Board's "Special Meeting." (Stip. at ¶ 18.) This meeting was not set forth in the Board's annual meeting schedule. (Ibid.) The only business on the "Special Meeting Agenda" was "District Goal Setting for 2018–19." (Ibid.; see Roth Cert. at Exhibit 6.) The "Special Meeting" minutes reflect that the special meeting was attended by seven of the nine Board members. (Stip. at ¶ 18.)

On June 20, 2018, petitioner failed to attend the Board's "Workshop Meeting." (Stip. at ¶ 19.) This meeting was not set forth in the Board's annual meeting schedule.

(Ibid.) The June 20, 2018, "Workshop Meeting" Agenda was the June 25, 2018, "Regular Meeting Agenda." (Ibid. and Exhibit E.) According to the "Notice of Roselle Board of Education Workshop Meeting Change," the Board "determined that there is a need to conduct workshop sessions for the purpose of preparing Board business and the presentation of Board Committee reports prior to the regularly advertised Board meetings." (Stip. at ¶ 19; see Roth Cert. at 6.) Public comments were not taken at the June 20, 2018, "Workshop Meeting," as members of the public were not present. (Stip. at ¶ 20.)

On June 25, 2018, petitioner failed to attend the Board's "Regular Public Meeting." (Stip. at ¶ 21.) This meeting was set forth in the Board's annual "Regular Public Meeting" schedule. (Ibid.)

Petitioner did not notify Business Administrator/Board Secretary Juskiewicz that he would not be in attendance at any of the above scheduled meetings. (Stip. at ¶ 23.) The Board's bylaws, policies, and regulations do not place an affirmative duty upon a Board member to alert the Board of a planned or unplanned absence from a meeting. (Ibid.) Past practice demonstrates that Board members can notify the business administrator/board secretary if a Board member is unable to attend a meeting. (Ibid.) Board members do appear telephonically at scheduled meetings. (Stip. at ¶ 24.) The Board has a practice of permitting Board members who give advance notice to the business administrator/board secretary to appear at Board meetings telephonically. (Stip. at ¶ 25.) The Board has not formally adopted a bylaw, policy, or regulation that recognizes the attendance of a meeting by a Board member via telephone, nor has the Board defined the exact practice and standard for telephonic attendance at meetings. (Stip. at ¶ 24.) Past practice demonstrates that Board members are aware that telephonic appearances are treated as attendance at the Board meeting. (Ibid.) Petitioner telephonically attended the "Special Meeting" scheduled for May 7, 2018. (Stip. at ¶ 25.)

The duties of Business Administrator/Board Secretary Juskiewicz include advertising to the public all meetings of a quorum of the Board. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶ 2.) He does not advertise committee meetings, which are not considered regular meetings of the entire Board. (Ibid.)

Business Administrator/Board Secretary Juskiewicz also maintains and updates the records regarding Board members' attendance at each meeting. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶ 6.) Petitioner failed to attend four consecutive Board meetings on May 24, June 11, June 20, and June 25, 2018, which were advertised meetings of the entire Board, where a quorum of the Board existed. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶¶ 2, 8-9; see Roth Cert. at Exhibit 6.) The meeting on June 25, 2018, was listed as a regular meeting on the Board's annual meeting schedule; the meetings on May 24, 2018, and June 11, 2018, were special meetings; and the meeting on June 20, 2018, was a workshop meeting. (See Roth Cert. at Exhibit 6.)

At the Board's meeting on August 16, 2018, a motion and a second were made to give notice to petitioner that the Board would be considering removing him from the Board for missing more than three consecutive meetings of the Board consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶ 13.) The audio recording of the "Workshop Meeting" held on August 16, 2018, reflects a consensus of the Board to have the Board attorney provide notice to petitioner that his removal as a Board member would be discussed at the subsequent Board meeting. (Stip. at ¶ 22.) On or about August 21, 2018, Business Administrator/Board Secretary Juskiewicz sent a chart, via e-mail, to each Board member, including petitioner, indicating all of the Board members' attendance at meetings since January 2018. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶¶ 7, 18.)

On or about August 22, 2018, the Board's attorney, Allan C. Roth, Esq., sent correspondence to petitioner which states:

> Please be advised that pursuant to Board Policy 145, the Board has requested that you be provided notice that at its Monday, August 27, 2018 meeting, beginning at 7:00 p.m. in the Abraham Clark High School auditorium, the Board will discuss your removal from the Board for missing three consecutive meetings, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 and Berg v. Blackhorse Pike Regional School District, 1981 S.L.D. March 3.
> [Stip. at ¶ 26 and Exhibit F.]

The notice did not specify the exact meeting dates missed by petitioner. (Stip. at ¶ 27.) No Board policy requires specific notice to a Board member of meeting dates missed by said member. (Ibid.)

Prior to the August 27, 2018, Board meeting, petitioner requested that, if the Board would be attempting to remove him from the Board, he wanted the discussion to be held in public session. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶ 14.)

On August 27, 2018, at the next meeting of the full Board, a motion and a second were made to remove petitioner for missing three or more consecutive meetings of the Board. (Juskiewicz Cert. at ¶ 15.) Following the motion to remove petitioner, petitioner was given the floor to present evidence of whether he had good cause to miss the meetings. (Id. at ¶ 16.) Petitioner presented evidence and handed out documents to the Board members. (Ibid.) Thereafter, a discussion was held by the Board and, following the Board's discussion, petitioner was given additional time to respond to the Board members' discussion. (Ibid.) At the conclusion of all discussion regarding the matter, the vote was taken to remove petitioner from the Board. (Id. at ¶ 17.) A majority of the Board voted to remove petitioner from the Board. (Ibid.) Petitioner was removed from his position on the Board by a 5-4 vote. (Stip. at ¶ 28.) The five votes for removal were cast by Board members Patricia Fabrizio, Donna Eleazer, Richard Villeda, Sherise Pollard, and Courtney Washington. (Ibid.; see also Fabrizio Cert. at ¶¶ 9, 11–13; Eleazer Cert. at ¶¶ 9–12; Villeda Cert. at ¶¶ 9–12; Pollard Cert. at ¶¶ 9–12; Washington Cert. at ¶¶ 5–8.)

On or about January 6, 2014, the Board adopted District Policy 0145, entitled "Board Member Resignation and Removal," which states in relevant part:

> A member who fails to attend three consecutive regular meetings of the Board without good cause may be removed from office on the affirmative votes of a majority of the remaining Board members, provided that
>
> 1. The member's removal was proposed at the immediately previous Board meeting; and
>
> 2. Notice of the proposed removal was given to the affected member at least forty-eight hours in > advance of the meeting at which the vote will be taken.

[Stip. at ¶ 4 and Exhibit A.]

District Policy 0000.02, entitled "Introduction (M) Bylaws, Policies & Regulations," states in pertinent part:

> Definitions
>
> The following terms used in these bylaws, policies, and regulations shall have the meanings set forth below unless the context requires a different meaning or a different definition is supplied:
>
> . . . .
>
> "Meeting" means a gathering that is attended by or open to all of the members of the Board of Education, held with the intent on the part of the Board members present to discuss or act as a unit on the specific public business of the Board of Education.

[Stip. at ¶ 5 and Exhibit B.]

The policy further defines the rules of construction applicable to the Board's bylaws, polices, and regulations as follows:

> 1. Wherever possible, language shall be given its clear and ordinary interpretation;
>
> 2. Language shall be construed to have a meaning that complies with law;
>
> 3. In the event bylaws, policies and regulations conflict with one another, the later adopted bylaw, policy or regulation shall take precedence over the earlier, and the more specific bylaw, policy or regulation shall take precedence over the more general;
>
> 4. Except as otherwise provided by the context, the auxiliary verbs "shall," "will," and "must" indicate a mandated action, and the auxiliary verb "may" indicates an action that is permitted but is not mandated.

[Stip. at ¶ 6 and Exhibit B.]

During their respective tenures on the Board, Board members Fabrizio, Eleazer, Villeda, Pollard, and Washington have always understood regular Board meetings to mean a meeting of a quorum of the Board that was advertised and consistent with the Open Public Meetings Act, as opposed to a committee meeting which does not consist of a quorum of the Board and is not advertised, and that any advertised meeting of the entire Board is considered to be a regular meeting of the Board, including, but not limited to, scheduled monthly calendar meetings, special meetings, emergency meetings, workshop meetings, or any other full meeting of the Board. (Fabrizio Cert. at ¶ 4; Eleazer Cert. at ¶ 4; Villeda Cert. at ¶ 4; Pollard Cert. at ¶ 4; Washington Cert. at ¶ 4.)

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This rule is substantially similar to the summary-judgment rule embodied in the New Jersey Court Rules. See Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the appropriate test to be employed in deciding the motion:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2.
> [Citations omitted.]

In evaluating the merits of the motion, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Judson, 17 N.J. at 75. However, "[w]hen a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The parties agree, and I CONCLUDE, that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the matter is ripe for summary decision.

Against this backdrop, it is undisputed that petitioner failed to attend four consecutive meetings of the Board. Petitioner argues, however, that he "only missed one (1) regular meeting that appeared on the [Board's] 'Regular Public Meeting' schedule—the June 25, 2018 regular meeting."

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 explicitly addresses a board of education's authority to remove a board member for failure to attend meetings. The statute directs in pertinent part:

> Cessation of membership.
>
> Whenever a member of a local or regional board of education shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district, or of any constituent district of a consolidated or regional district which he represents, or shall become mayor or a member of the governing body of a municipality, his membership in the board shall immediately cease; and, any member who fails to attend three consecutive meetings of the board without good cause may be removed by it.
> [Emphasis added.]

The principles governing statutory construction are well settled. The "overriding objective in determining the meaning of a statute is to 'effectuate the legislative intent in light of the language used and the objects sought to be achieved.'" McCann v. Clerk of Jersey City, 167 N.J. 311, 320 (2001) (citation omitted). The general rule of statutory construction requires an examination of the language of a statute to determine whether the language is clear or ambiguous and susceptible to more than one interpretation. The Supreme Court explained in Murray v. Plainfield Rescue Squad, 210 N.J. 581, 592 (2012) (citations omitted):

> The objective of all statutory interpretation is to discern and effectuate the intent of the Legislature. To achieve that objective, we begin by looking at the statute's plain language, ascribing to the words used "their ordinary meaning and significance." We do not view the statutory words in isolation but "in context with related provisions so as to give sense to the legislation as a whole." If the Legislature's intent is clear on the face of the statute, then we must apply the law as written. It is not our function to rewrite a plainly written statute or to presume that the Legislature meant something other than what it conveyed in its clearly expressed language.

Pursuant to the plain and unambiguous language of the statute, the Legislature did not limit the discretionary authority of boards of education to remove a member to situations where the member has missed only "regular" meetings of the board. Rather, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 provides that a board of education is authorized to act if a board member fails to attend three consecutive meetings of the board, without any limitation regarding the meeting's designation as a "special," "regular," or "workshop" meeting.

In Berg v. Black Horse Pike Regional School District Board of Education, EDU 0875-80 and EDU 1007-80, Initial Decision (January 19, 1981), adopted, Comm'r (March 3, 1981),[3] the petitioner, who had missed two regular meetings, one special meeting and two work sessions, asserted that the board was barred by the statute from removing him since he missed only two regularly scheduled monthly meetings. In rejecting this contention, the administrative law judge (ALJ) observed that the precursor of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 was N.J.S.A. 18:6-11, which provided that "[a] board member who shall fail to attend three consecutive regular meetings of the board without good cause may be removed by the board" (emphasis added), and that the new statute eliminated any reference to the type of meeting held by boards of education. The ALJ held that the "statute refers only to three consecutive meetings and not three consecutive regular monthly meetings as interpreted by petitioner, [and] [t]he plain meaning of the words supports the former interpretation." The Commissioner agreed and found the omission of the designation "regular" when the

[3] A copy of this unpublished decision is attached to the Roth certification as Exhibit 4.

Legislature revised the statute to be "significant," and that "if the revised version of the statute had intended to mean 'regular' the Legislature would have so stated."

The same rationale applies with equal force to the within matter. It is well settled that "[t]he Legislature is presumed familiar with prior legislation." N.J. Coal. of Health Care Prof'ls v. N.J. Dep't of Banking & Ins., 323 N.J. Super. 207, 256 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 162 N.J. 485 (1999). The Legislature's deletion of the designation "regular" in the current statute reasonably evidences an intent on the part of the Legislature to expand the ability of a board of education to remove a board member for poor attendance.

The crux of petitioner's argument is that, notwithstanding the statutory language, District Policy 0145 limits the Board's authority to remove him unless he "fail[ed] to attend three consecutive regular meetings of the Board . . . ." Petitioner relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 and Matawan Regional Teachers Association v. Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District Board of Education, 223 N.J. Super. 504 (App. Div. 1988), in support of the binding nature of bylaws adopted by a local board of education.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized that "[l]ocal boards of education are creations of the State and, as such, may exercise only those powers granted to them by the Legislature—either expressly or by necessary or fair implication." Fair Lawn Educ. Ass'n v. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ., 79 N.J. 574, 579 (1979). A board of education derives the authority to adopt bylaws and policies from N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c), which directs:

> The board shall . . . [m]ake, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees, subject, where applicable, to the provisions of Title 11, Civil Service, of the Revised Statutes . . . .
> [Emphasis added.]

In Matawan Regional Teachers Association, the Appellate Division addressed the issue of whether a local school board may lawfully adopt a plan, which included the closing and sale of a school building by a majority vote of its full membership after consideration at a single public meeting, even though its bylaws required adoption by a two-thirds vote of its full membership after consideration at two public meetings. Although the court concluded that the board was bound by the bylaw that requires two public meetings for adoption of the plan, it explained that "the bylaw requiring that action on non-emergent matters of policy be considered at two public meetings does not conflict directly or indirectly with any statute [and] [i]ts purpose is not to remove the responsibility and authority to act from those members of a local board who are authorized by state law to act." Matawan Reg'l Teachers Ass'n, 223 N.J. Super. at 509. Accordingly, the court held that, "[i]n the absence of any statute to the contrary, the board's bylaw requiring two public meetings to adopt the plan is binding." Id. at 510. However, the court also held that the board was not bound by the bylaw that limits the authority of the majority of the board. The court reasoned that "N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 is silent with respect to the number of votes necessary to adopt rules and to govern and manage the district," and "[i]t must be assumed that by its silence the Legislature intended the common-law rule to apply, i.e., a majority vote of the members of the board constituting a quorum shall be sufficient." Id. at 507. Accordingly, the court held that "the Legislature has empowered a majority of the majority of a local board to adopt bylaws and conduct the board's business" and rejected "the argument that the Legislature has merely established a minimum number of affirmative votes necessary for local board action, which the board may increase in its bylaws to assure a broader consensus." Ibid. In other words, a board of education is not bound by a bylaw that limits the authority of the board in a manner that is otherwise inconsistent with the law.

Similarly, in the context of a municipal regulation, it is well settled that "[a] municipality may not contradict a policy the Legislature establishes" and a "local government may not act contrary to State law." Summer v. Teaneck Twp., 53 N.J. 548, 554 (1969); see Auto-Rite Supply Co. v. Mayor of Woodbridge, 25 N.J. 188 (1957). A pertinent question for consideration in determining whether the State has preempted an area from municipal regulation is whether "the ordinance conflict[s] with state law, either because of conflicting policies or operational effect (that is, does the ordinance forbid what the Legislature has permitted or does the ordinance permit what the Legislature has forbidden)." Overlook Terrace Mgmt. Corp. v. Rent Control Bd. of W. New York, 71 N.J.

451, 461 (1976). And, "an ordinance will fall if it . . . forbids what a statute expressly authorizes." Summer, 53 N.J. at 554.

Turning to the within matter, if petitioner's asserted interpretation and binding nature of the Board's policy are accepted, the policy would in effect forbid the Board from removing a member for missing three consecutive meetings unless they were "regular" meetings, notwithstanding that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 unambiguously authorizes boards of education to take such action. Stated differently, petitioner's position would limit the discretionary authority of the Board in a manner that is otherwise inconsistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3.

I CONCLUDE that the Board had the authority to remove, and properly removed, petitioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 based on his failure to attend more than three consecutive meetings of the Board.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Borough of Maywood, Bergen County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, Bergen County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner Maywood Board of Education (Maywood) sought severance of its sending-receiving relationship with respondent Hackensack Board of Education (Hackensack) that provides for Maywood's high school students to be educated in Hackensack. The parties requested that the Commissioner consider the matter as an uncontested case. The Commissioner directed the parties to comply with the procedural requirements in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1 for severance of a sending-receiving relationship.

Upon review and consideration of the record of this matter, including public comments, a feasibility study, and the submissions of the parties, the Commissioner found that: the criteria for withdrawal from a sending-receiving relationship at the high school level is set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13; the proposed severance of the relationship between Maywood and Hackensack will have no substantial negative impact upon either school district; and the withdrawal of Maywood students will alleviate overcrowding at Hackensack High School, improve conditions for remaining students, and have little or no negative financial or demographic impact on the school districts. Accordingly, the Commissioner granted the petitioner's application for severance, subject to establishment of a sending-receiving relationship with the Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional School District for a minimum duration of five years.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Agency Dkt. No. 195-8/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education
Final Decision

Board of Education of the Borough of Maywood, Bergen County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Hackensack, Bergen County,

Respondent.

In this matter, petitioner Maywood Board of Education filed a petition seeking a severance of the sending-receiving relationship with respondent Hackensack Board of Education that provides for Maywood's high school students to be educated in Hackensack.[1] The parties requested that the Commissioner consider the matter as an uncontested case, and the Commissioner directed the parties to comply with the procedural requirements in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-6.1.

Subsequently, the Commissioner received sixty comments from the public regarding the proposed settlement – fifty-seven in favor of severing the sending-receiving relationship and three opposed.[2] The opponents argue that the quality and number of educational and extracurricular opportunities are greater at Hackensack High School than at Becton; Maywood students will have a longer commute along a busy highway if they attend Becton, creating safety risks and decreasing

[1] Maywood proposes to enter into a sending-receiving relationship with the Carlstadt-East Rutherford Regional School District to allow its students to attend Henry P. Becton Regional High School (Becton).

[2] The Commissioner received an additional comment in opposition to the severance following the close of the comment period, which was not considered.

students' sleep time, family time, and time available for engaging in other activities. Further, opponents argue that the removal of Maywood students will negatively impact both Hackensack students – whose school will become less racially and economically diverse – and Maywood students – who will lose exposure to students of other races and socioeconomic backgrounds.

In response, petitioner argues that Hackensack High School is severely overcrowded, while Becton is underutilized. If the severance is approved, Hackensack students will benefit from having a high school that is no longer overcrowded, Maywood students will benefit by attending a school that is not overcrowded, and East Carlstadt-Rutherford will benefit from being able to fully utilize their high school, which will increase educational and extracurricular opportunities for its high school students. For these reasons, severing the agreement will have a positive educational impact on all three groups of students. Petitioner further contends that the financial impact on Hackensack and other districts currently sending students to Hackensack is de mininimus. Finally, because Hackensack and Maywood have similarly diverse demographic compositions, there will be no negative racial impact if the agreement is severed.

The record of this matter has been reviewed, including the public comments, the feasibility study, and the parties' submissions. The criteria for withdrawal from a sending-receiving relationship at the high school level is set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, and establishes that prior to severance of a relationship, the Commissioner will make an equitable determination based on the circumstances, "including the educational and financial implications for the affected districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of the districts." If there is no substantial negative impact, the Commissioner will grant the requested severance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

Upon review, the Commissioner is satisfied that the record establishes that there will be no substantial negative impact upon severing the sending-receiving relationship between Maywood and Hackensack. An overwhelming number of public comments support ending the agreement, and the Hackensack Board of Education – the party in the best position to demonstrate any potential negative impacts on its district – does not oppose its severance. The withdrawal of Maywood students will alleviate the problem of overcrowding at Hackensack High School, which appears likely to improve educational opportunities for the remaining students, while having little or no negative financial or racial impact on the district.

Accordingly, petitioner's application for severance of its sending-receiving relationship with Hackensack is hereby granted, subject to establishment of a sending-receiving relationship with the Carlstadt-East Rutherford School District for a minimum duration of five years.[3]

Re: Deanna DeGraff v. Board of Education of the Township of Belleville, Essex County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 16478-16; Agency Dkt. No. 265-9/16; Commissioner Decision No. 50-20R.

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the Respondent Belleville Board of Education's Motion for Reconsideration of the Commissioner's February 4, 2020 decision, reinstating Petitioner Deanna DeGraff to her full-time position as a Teacher of Dance.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2), a motion for reconsideration shall be determined based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that the Board has failed to satisfy the factors set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2). The Board argues that it was a "mistake" for the ALJ to grant summary decision because there are material facts in dispute regarding how much of petitioner's time was actually dedicated to dance and whether student demand supported the need for a full-time dance teacher. However, the Board made these same arguments in its exceptions, which were duly considered by the Commissioner. It is clear that the Board's disagreement is with the outcome of the decision, which is not a sufficient basis for the decision to be reconsidered. Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.[1]

The Board also asks the Commissioner to clarify whether all school districts must employ a full-time certificated Teacher of Dance, solely for the purpose of teaching dance classes, regardless of the demand and need for same. The Commissioner's February 4, 2020 decision in this matter is based on the facts at issue in the Belleville school district, which improperly abolished its dance program. Having found that the Board improperly abolished the program, the consequences of that abolishment – namely, the RIF of petitioner – were reversed. These circumstances may not be present in other school districts in New Jersey and the Commissioner would evaluate any questions regarding these issues on a case-by-case basis.[2]

Sincerely,

Lamont O. Repollet, Ed.D.

Record Closed: February 12, 2020 Decided: February 13, 2020

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, F.P., on behalf of M.P. (student), seeks an order by way of emergent relief, that the student be reinstated at McKinley Elementary School (School), resulting from a wrongful suspension imposed by the petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Newark, (the Board), on November 27, 2019. In his emergent moving papers, F.P. alleges that the Board violated his due process rights in failing to notifying him of the student's suspension and failing to provide him with a hearing before the Board regarding the same.

On January 29, 2020, M.P. filed a petition of appeal with the Office of Special Education Policy and Procedure (OSEPP), seeking emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A-31.6. The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and received at the OAL on January 31, 2020, as an emergent and contested matter.

On February 4, 2020, the OAL Clerk's Office notified the parties that the petition for emergent relief had been filed, and that oral argument was scheduled for February 7, 2020. [1] On February 6, 2020, a telephonic status conference was held, at which time the counsel for the Board requested an opportunity to file opposition papers on February 7, 2020. The Board's request was granted, and oral argument held on February 11, 2020.

The emergent hearing was held on February 11, 2020. M.P., testified and presented evidence in support of his claim for emergent relief. The Board presented Sabrina Styza, Esq., Associate Counsel for the Board, (Styza) and Tito Rodriguez, Certified Teacher for the Board (Rodriguez), to testify and also submitted documents along with their opposition papers filed on February 7, 2020.

Following the emergent hearing, on February 12, 2020, M.P. wrote to me by email, which communication I will deem to be "closing summation". The record therefore closed on February 12, 2020.

FACTUAL SUMMARY

M.P. is an 11-year-old student, currently in the 6th grade. He was transferred to McKinley at the beginning of the 2018-2019 school year. Since entering McKinley, M.P. has had several physical incidents that resulted in out-of-school suspensions of varying lengths. The Board alleges that multiple efforts had been made to evaluate M.P. by the

[1] The matter was adjourned to February 11, 2020, due to a previously scheduled dental procedure for the undersigned on February 7, 2020, which the Clerk's office was unaware of when initially scheduling this matter.

Child Study Team (CST) to determine an appropriate program and that F.P. refused to consent to any evaluations.

After M.P.'s most recent incident on or about November 25, 2019, the Board suspended M.P. four (4) days).[2] Thereafter, on or about December 2019, F.P. filed an emergent relief application (December emergent), bearing OAL Docket No. EDU-17349-19, and petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). . An Emergent Relief hearing was scheduled for December 17, 2019 (Styza Certification ¶ 6). Simultaneous to M.P.'s filing, the Board filed a due process petition (due process petition) with a request for emergent relief to compel F.P., to consent to evaluations of M.P. by the CST.

On or about December 15, 2019, the Board was notified by Bradly Flynn, Esq, (Flynn) of Montgomery Law, LLC, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, that he represented F.P. on the December emergent and due process petition (open matters), before the OAL. The Board asserts that F.P., and the Board, by way of their attorneys, entered into negotiations to settle the open matters. This culminated in the preparation and execution of a Stipulation of Agreement (Agreement) by Dr. Shirley Fonseca, (Fonseca) Supervisor S.F. Office of Special Education, on behalf of the Board, and F.P. The document was signed one hour before the scheduled emergent relief hearing. The Board asserts that having secured the terms of the Agreement with M.P. on December 17, 2019, the December emergent was settled and the Board then withdrew its due process petition.

F.P. testified that he did not know what was contained in the Agreement and that Flynn did not explain to him the terms of the Agreement. F.P. testified that he fired Flynn as his attorney in early January 2020, prior to filing the within petition. F.P. acknowledges his signature on the Agreement. F.P. now asserts that he did not agree to the terms contained in the Agreement. The Agreement provides that F.P. agrees to comply with the Board conducting a full CST evaluation on M.P. The Agreement also provides that the Board would provide M.P. home instruction amounting to ten (10) hours per week pending the completion of the CST evaluation. The Parties agreed to withdraw their respective petitions.

[2] Contrary to Petitioner's allegation in the petition of appeal that M.P. was "expelled", the Board has stipulated that M.P. has not been expelled from school.

Styza testified that she was the attorney representing the Board in the open matters and that she had extensive communications with Flynn regarding the terms of the Agreement, culminating in the signature of F.P. and Fonseca on behalf of the Board. Styza testified further that Flynn informed her that he was in discussion with F.P. regarding the terms of the Agreement as the parties were negotiating the same.

After the December emergent was settled and the due process petition was withdrawn, the Board contracted a certified teacher, Rodriguez, who arranged to begin home instruction with M.P. after the winter holidays. Per his communications with F.P., Rodriguez made, and continues to make, arrangements to work with M.P. during the hours of 3:30PM-5:30PM Monday-Friday at the Library in the Marion A. Bolden Center ("Bolden Center Library"). In addition, Mr. Rodriguez has provided electronic lessons and instructions to M.P. through the clever Resources Portal available to M.P. on his Chrome Book, provided to him by the District.

Rodriguez testified that he contacted F.P. on December 18,2019, following the signing of the Agreement, to discuss providing home instruction to M.P., in accordance with the terms of the Agreement. F.P. testified that he requested the Board provide home instruction in the morning and not later afternoon, as proposed by the Board. However, the Board informed F.P. that it could not accommodate his request because Rodriguez was teaching during school hours and could only provide home intrusions after school hours.

Rodriguez testified that commencing January 8, 2020, through February, he has appeared at the Bolden Center Library, between the hours of 3:30PM and 5:30 PM, to provide M.P. home instructions, and that M.P. has failed to appear. Rodrigues testified further that M.P. has not substantially participated in any of the electronic lessons provided by Rodriguez to supplement M.P.'s in person instruction.

F.P. testified that the student has not appeared at the Bolden Center Library because he cannot take him there in the afternoon hours provided by Rodriguez. F.P. stated that the Assistant Principal, Perry Samuels (Samuels) agreed to provide the student with home instruction in the morning hours requested by F.P. However, both Styza and Rodriguez testified that Samuels cannot provide home instruction to students. F.P. testified further that the student could not access the lessons and instructions online, as there was an issue in "logging in" to the program. Rodriguez testified that, while there may have been log-in issues, the same could have been addressed with M.P. had he appeared for instruction at Bolden Center Library. Moreover, Rodriguez testified that he had access to when the student logged into the program, and his review of the same showed very few attempts at logging in.

F.P. argues that his son should be allowed to return to McKinley school as he has served his four day suspension and he did not agree to the terms of the Agreement, which provides that the student is to receive home instructions and is to be evaluated by the CST. [3]

The Board argues that instead of cooperating with the clear terms of a mutually agreed upon Agreement, F.P. has now filed the within emergent application – over one (1) month later – on substantially the same facts as his prior petition and request for emergent relief, without regard to the operative Agreement that is currently binding upon both parties.

DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief. The regulation instructs in salient part:

> A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

[3] Board counsel and Styza represented to the undersigned that the Board would fast track the four evaluations so that the same could be completed within thirty-days, or sooner.

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has the likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

[N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).]

Petitioner has the burden of establishing each of the above requirements in order to warrant relief in his favor.

Turning to the first criteria, it is well settled that relief should not be granted except "when necessary to prevent irreparable harm." Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132. In this regard, harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages. Id. at 132-33. In other words, it has been described as "'substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.'" Judice's Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. v. General Motors Corp., 418 F. Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976) (citation omitted). See New Jersey Dep't of Environmental Protection v. Circle Carting, Inc., 2004 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 968 (April 2, 2004) (finding no irreparable harm in connection with the revocation of respondent's solid waste license in that financial loss is generally insufficient to demonstrate this requirement). The moving party bears the burden of proving irreparable harm. More than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. Continental Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). The requisite for injunctive relief is a "clear showing of immediate irreparable injury," or a "'presently existing actual threat; (an injunction) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law.'" Ibid. (citation omitted.)

In the within matter, there has not been a showing of "immediate irreparable injury" or a "presently existing actual threat". The Pro Se Petition of Appeal (Petition) completed by F.P.in his emergent application, requests that his son "be returned to school" and that he "has been fighting to get help for my son, no resources were given to him." His Petition also states that the school has not provided his son with "tutoring" and denies that he has he denied "resources" provided by the Board.

However, the record and testimony provided at the emergent hearing contradicts F.P.'s request for emergent relief. I FIND that F.P. did enter into the Agreement in December 17, 2019, wherein, he agreed to home instruction for the student and allow the CST to conduct the stated evaluations so that the Board could determine what "resources" to provide the student, if any. I FIND that F.P.'s testimony affirms that he was aware that the student was to receive home instructions, as the only issue concerned the hours of instructions, and not lack of knowledge of the same or denial of instruction by the Board.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that F.P. has not demonstrated that the student will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted as F.P.'s failure to comply the Agreement is the reason the student is not receiving school instruction.

I CONCLUDE that since F.P. has failed to establish that M.P. will suffer irreparable harm a discussion concerning the remaining criteria set forth in Crowe, 90 N.J. at 132, is not necessary.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that Petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because the proofs submitted fail to establish all of the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Specifically, there has been no showing of irreparable harm by F.P. The OAL Docket No. EDU-17349-19. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that F.P. has not met the burden of proof that he is entitled to such relief in this emergent application.

Record Closed: February 3, 2020 Decided: February 5, 2020

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners allege that the respondent denied access to the student records of their three children. Petitioners request that the records be released at no cost to the petitioners.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The petitioners filed an appeal of the denial of access to the student records of their three children and requested a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The matter was transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed on February 26, 2018, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The petitioners filed a motion for summary decision on June 10, 2018. (P-1.) The respondent filed its cross-motion for summary decision and response on June 21, 2018. (R-1.) The petitioners filed a reply brief on July 2, 2018. (P-2.) On October 1, 2018, the petitioners filed a motion to supplement the record. (P-3.) On October 8, 2018, the respondent filed it's brief in opposition to the motion to supplement the record. (R-2.) Those cross-motions for summary decision were denied by Order dated June 12, 2019.

By Order dated September 24, 2019, petitioners' attorney was relieved as counsel. Since that date, the petitioners continue self-represented. On October 21, 2019, a telephone status conference was held and this matter was scheduled to be heard on February 18 and February 19, 2020.

At the request of the parties, an in-person settlement conference was held on December 26, 2019. At that time, the parties reached a settlement agreement that was placed on the record. During voire dire, the pro se petitioners, C.H. and S.H., affirmed that they understood the terms of the agreement and entered into the agreement freely, voluntarily and without coercion or duress. Counsel for the respondent was directed to reduce the agreement to a writing and provide it to the petitioners to execute.

By letter, dated January 14, 2020, counsel for the respondent informed this Administrative Law Judge that the petitioners returned the signed agreement with additions and deletions unilaterally made by them. (R-3.) Counsel for the respondent did not agree with the petitioners' amendments.

On January 16, 2020, this Administrative Law Judge sent a letter to the parties and acknowledged that clearly there was no meeting of the minds and that there was no settlement of the case. (C-1.) In said letter, the parties were directed to participate in a telephone conference on January 23, 2020, to address outstanding issues. During the January 23, 2020, telephone conference, the parties still could not reach an agreement as to the petitioners' amendments and the petitioners were directed to provide respondent's counsel with a draft of their understanding of the agreement on or before January 27, 2020. The petitioners complied however; respondent's counsel was not in agreement with their submission.

On January 28, 2020, counsel for the respondent filed a motion to enforce the December 26, 2019, settlement agreement. (R-4.) The petitioners acknowledged receipt of the motion on January 30, 2020. (C-2.) By Letter Order, dated January 30, 2020, the respondent's motion was denied and it was ordered that the matter would proceed to a fair hearing, as scheduled, on February 18 and February 19, 2020. (C-3.) It was further ordered that a mandatory telephone conference would be held on February 3, 2020, at 4:00 p.m. to address prehearing issues. It was noted that if any party failed to participate in this telephone conference, the file would be returned to the transmitting agency for the appropriate action which may include imposition of the proposed penalty or granting the relief requested by the opposing party.

CONCLUSION

To date, the petitioners have not provided a request for an adjournment of the February 3, 2020, status conference or an explanation for their nonappearance for the same. Neither has this office received notice of legal representation on behalf of the petitioners. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioners have failed to appear and abandoned their appeal.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that this matter is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Final Decision

German Rojas,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner claimed that the respondent Board violated his tenure and seniority rights by transferring him from a twelve-month teaching position to a ten-month teaching position, which allegedly resulted in a reduction of petitioner's salary. The petitioner sought an order requiring that the Board restore him to a twelve month-position, restore his salary to the appropriate twelve-month amount, and reimburse him for back pay and other emoluments.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; it is well-settled that a board of education has the managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members within the scope of the endorsements on his or her Instructional Certificate; prior to the 2017-2018 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach at the school district's Adult Learning Center, an assignment that required an extended school year; under the collective bargaining agreement, a teacher assigned to work in an extended year program receives an additional 10 percent over the negotiated ten-month salary; in August 2017, the district superintendent recommended that petitioner be reassigned and transferred from his twelve-month position as an ESL Teacher of Spanish in the Adult Learning Center to a ten-month position as a Computer Teacher in the district's Alternative Design Academy, due to a poor evaluation and resulting corrective action plan as an ESL teacher; the petitioner did not suffer a reduction in compensation from his twelve-month position in 2016-2017 to his ten-month position in 2017-2018 because the Board ultimately restored petitioner to the same salary he had been paid for the 2016-2017 school year, $75,053; and the Board's deduction of $284.29 from one of petitioner's paychecks – which corrected a mistake on a previous paycheck – did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's tenure and seniority rights were not violated. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision to the Board, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions as thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Agency Dkt. No. 278-11/17

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

German Rojas,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, German Rojas, and the Union City Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto. In this matter, the petitioner alleges that the Board violated his tenure and seniority rights by transferring him from a twelve-month teaching position to a ten-month teaching position which resulted in a reduction in salary. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board did not violate the petitioner's tenure and seniority rights and granted summary decision in favor of the Board. In so doing, the ALJ determined that the petitioner did not suffer a reduction in compensation from his twelve-month position in 2016-2017 to his ten-month position in 2017-2018 because the Board paid him $75,453.00 for the 2017-2018 school year, which was the same salary he had earned during the 2016-2017 school year. Finally, the ALJ found that the Board's deduction of a $284.29 overpayment from the petitioner's second paycheck of the 2017-2018 school year did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation.

The petitioner's exceptions substantially reiterated the substance of his submissions at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support the contention that the ALJ erroneously granted summary decision in favor of the Board. Specifically, the petitioner maintains that the Board did not pay him the amount that it agreed to pay the petitioner in the August 15, 2017 letter and that the ALJ improperly relied on the Board's language in the August 15, 2017 letter. Moreover, petitioner contends that the board reduced his compensation when it transferred him to a ten-month position and his immediate salary for the 2017-2018 school year was simultaneously reduced from the first pay period to the second pay period. In support of his argument the petitioner distinguishes the circumstances in this case from the issues raised in Williams v. Plainfield Board of Education, 176 N.J. Super. 154, 162 (App. Div. 1980), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981), where the Appellate Division found that "tenured employees have no vested right in any future increases in salary."

The petitioner also contends the cases cited by the ALJ that address clerical errors for simply overpayments do not apply here because the petitioner is entitled a salary of $79,453.00, which his first paycheck of the school year properly reflected, but which was subsequently reduced. Therefore, the petitioner asserts that the Board improperly reduced his compensation in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 when it transferred him from a twelve-month position to a ten-month position. In reply, the Board reiterated the positions advanced in its submissions at the OAL and responded to the arguments made in the Petitioner's exceptions, stressing that the ALJ properly granted its motion for summary decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board did not violate the petitioner's tenure and seniority rights and properly granted summary decision in favor of the Board. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the Board's deduction of the $284.29 overpayment from the petitioner's second paycheck of the 2017-2018 school year did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation. The Commissioner also finds the petitioner's exceptions to be unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments previously raised before the ALJ and thoroughly considered by her in determining that the petitioner's compensation was not wrongfully reduced when he was transferred from a twelve-month position to a ten-month position.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION CITY, HUDSON COUNTY,

Susanne Lavelle, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 16, 2019 Decided: December 18, 2019

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner German Rojas claims that respondent, the Board of Education of Union City (the District), violated his tenure and seniority rights by transferring him from a twelve-month teaching position to a ten-month teaching position, which petitioner asserts resulted in a reduction of his salary. The District controverts petitioner's claims.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal contesting his transfer from a twelve-month teaching position to a ten-month teaching position and the resulting reduction in his salary. Petitioner seeks an Order declaring that the District violated his tenure and seniority rights and requiring the District to restore him to the twelve-month position, to restore his salary to the appropriate twelve-month amount, and to reimburse petitioner for back pay and other emoluments of employment. The District filed an Answer to the Petition of Appeal, and the Department of Education transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing. Following the adjournment of earlier hearing dates, the matter was scheduled for a hearing on May 21 and May 22, 2019. Prior to the hearing, the District filed a motion for summary decision, which petitioner opposed. I entertained oral argument on the motion on June 28, 2019, after which the record remained open to afford the parties additional time toward an amicable resolution of the matter. Subsequently, counsel for petitioner sent an e-mail on October 16, 2019, confirming the parties' request that the motion proceed to disposition, and the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In support of its motion, the District submitted a certification of its superintendent, Silvia Abbato (Abbato Cert.), and an Affidavit of its payroll coordinator, Uranka Petric (Petric Aff.), along with various documents (R-1 to R-25). Petitioner submitted a brief in opposition to the motion. Based upon a review of the documentary evidence presented, including the certification and affidavit submitted, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS:

Petitioner is a tenured teacher employed by the District. (See R-10 at No. 1.) He was initially employed by the District in 2002 as a substitute teacher and then hired as a teacher's aide effective February 3, 2003. (See R-1; R-2.) Subsequently, petitioner was hired as a Spanish teacher effective September 9, 2003. (See R-3.)

Petitioner held or currently holds the following Certifications: Teacher of Spanish, Certificate of Eligibility (issued March 12, 2002); Teacher of Spanish, Certificate of Eligibility (issued December 2003); Teacher of Spanish, Non-Citizen Standard Certificate (issued December 14, 2004); Teacher of Spanish, Standard Certificate (issued May 17, 2006, June 2006); Teacher of English as a Second Language (ESL), Certificate of Eligibility (issued February 1, 2007); Supervisor, Standard Certificate (issued July 7, 2010); Teacher of ESL, Certificate of Eligibility (issued February 2015); Teacher of ESL, Provisional (issued April 21, 2015); Teacher of ESL, Standard Certificate (issued January 5, 2016); and Teacher of ESL, Standard Certificate (issued February 9, 2016). (See R-4 to R-9.)

Prior to the 2017–2018 school year, petitioner was assigned to teach at the District's Adult Learning Center (ALC). (See R-10 at No. 2.) The assignment to this school required an extended school year. Although the parties disagree as to whether the extended year consisted of an eleven-month or twelve-month assignment, the resolution of this issue is not material to the within matter.

In accordance with the collective bargaining agreement, teachers assigned to work the extended school year receive an additional 10 percent over their negotiated ten-month salary at their step (which is paid in twenty-four pay periods). (See R-12, Article 11 at B4; R-10 at No. 4.)

For the 2016–2017 school year, petitioner was an MA15 at Step 11 on the Instructional Salary Guide (ISG). Accordingly, petitioner earned a total annual base salary of $75,053; i.e., $68,230 (for MA15, Step 11 on the ISG) plus $6,823 (10 percent for the extended school year). (See R-13; R-10, No. 5; R-14 at 3, lines 2 and 5.)

By letter dated August 15, 2017, the superintendent of schools, Silvia Abbato, provided petitioner with an accounting of his sick, vacation, and personal days, along with a summary of his benefits. (R-15.) The letter further notified petitioner of his salary for the 2016–2017 school year and the salary for his tentative assignment in the 2017–2018 school year.[1] Specifically, the letter states in pertinent part:

> As of June 30, 2017[,] your records indicated the following:
>
> 16–17 Salary: $75,053.00 Degree Level MA+15 Step 11
> 17–18 Salary: $79,453.00 Degree Level MA+15 Step 12

The letter further informed petitioner, "This is not a promise of employment."

At its meeting on August 31, 2017, the Board approved petitioner's transfer to the Alternative Design Academy [ADA]. (See R-10 at No. 6.) By letter dated September 1, 2017, Human Resources informed petitioner that "at a regularly scheduled meeting of the Union City Board of Education held on Thursday, August 31, 2017[,] the Board approved your transfer as an ESL Teacher—Adult Education to Computer Teacher—Alternative Design Academy, effective September 1, 2017." (R-18.) Petitioner had been previously advised of his transfer by a telephone call on August 31, 2017. (See Exhibit 16, No. 14.)

According to the certification of superintendent Silvia Abbato, she recommended to the Board at its August 31, 2017, meeting that petitioner "be reassigned and transferred" from the ALC to the ADA effective September 1, 2017, "due to a poor evaluation of [petitioner] and a resulting corrective action plan as an ESL teacher." (R-21, Abbato Cert. at ¶ 3; R-22 to R-24.) The superintendent further certified that petitioner "was one of many employees that were reassigned and transferred at the August 31, 2017 meeting." (Ibid.) According to the certification, "the District has not had a reduction in force" since she became the superintendent in July 2014; "[t]he last time a reduction in force occurred in the District was in 2010, when [she] was Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction"; and she understood that "the reduction in force only affected IT and transportation departments and employees." (Id. at ¶ 4.)

[1] Pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement, "[a]ll teachers shall be given written notice of their tentative class and/or subject assignments, building assignments and room assignments for the forthcoming year not later than June 1st." (R-12, Article 12 at A1.)

Petitioner's transfer to the ADA resulted in the resumption of a ten-month position.[2] Pursuant to the 2017–2018 ISG, the salary for a ten-month teacher at MA15, Step 12, was $72,230. (R-13.)

During the first pay period in September 2017, petitioner was paid his regular salary of $3,611.50 and a 10 percent additional amount of $284.29. (See R-19.) Specifically, petitioner was paid as an MA15 at Step 12 on the 2017–2018 ISG ($72,230) on a twenty-pay-period schedule. He also received the 10 percent additional pay, or $284.29, that he was receiving the previous year (i.e., $6,823 on a twenty-four-pay-period schedule, or 10 percent of the $68,230 salary for an MA15, Step 11, teacher on the 2016–2017 ISG).

During the second pay period in September 2017, petitioner's pay was corrected. He was paid as an MA15 at Step 12 on the 2017–2018 ISG ($3,611.50) with no additional 10 percent pay. The 10 percent amount of $284.29 that petitioner had received in the first pay period was deducted from petitioner's pay for the second pay period. (See R-10 at No. 10; R-19.) This made petitioner's rate of pay commensurate with an MA15 teacher at Step 12 on the 2017–2018 ISG ($72,230).

On or about November 29, 2017, petitioner filed his Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education. The District filed its Answer to the Petition on or about January 10, 2018.

By letter dated January 31, 2018, counsel for the District notified petitioner's attorney that petitioner's salary would be corrected to reflect an annual salary of $75,053 effective the first pay period in February 2018 (February 15, 2018). The letter further advised that the District would be providing payment for the difference between what petitioner would have received at the annual salary of $75,053 and what petitioner did receive at the annual salary of $72,230 for the period September 2017 through January 2018. (See R-20.)

[2] Petitioner subsequently worked as a Spanish teacher.

On February 15, 2018, petitioner received back pay for the period September 2017 through January 31, 2018. (R-17.) Accordingly, for the 2017–2018 school year, petitioner received an annual salary of $75,053 (R-17 at 2, line 1), which was the same salary that petitioner had received in his twelve-month assignment during the 2016–2017 school year.

The District's payroll coordinator, Uranka Petric, submitted an affidavit addressing the payments made to petitioner in September 2017. On September 1, 2017, the Payroll Department received an updated salary record from Human Resources for petitioner for a total annual salary of $72,230 effective September 1, 2017. (R-25, Petric Aff. at ¶ 3 and Exhibit A.) The updated salary record also indicated that petitioner was moved to a ten-month assignment effective September 1, 2017, and that the 10 percent additional pay should be discontinued. (Ibid.) On the same date, petitioner's salary was updated and the 10 percent additional earnings for the 2017–2018 school year were inactivated. (R-25, Petric Aff. at ¶ 4 and Exhibit B.) Despite this inactivation, the 10 percent code from the previous school year (2016–2017) apparently remained active and, "due to this system error, the ADP [system] applied the additional earnings code" on the September 15, 2017, pay date, resulting in petitioner being paid the additional amount of $284.29, i.e., the pay-period amount of his 10 percent additional salary from the prior school year. (R-25, Petric Aff. at ¶ 5; see R-19.) Petric corrected the error for the next pay date and the amount of $284.29 was deducted from petitioner's earnings. (Petric Aff. at ¶ 6; see R-19.)

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This rule is substantially similar to the summary-judgment rule embodied in the New Jersey Court Rules. See Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the appropriate test to be employed in deciding the motion:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2.

In evaluating the merits of the motion, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Judson, 17 N.J. at 75. However, "[w]hen a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). In this regard, "[re]liance on argument in a brief and the bare allegations of the complaint, unsupported by fact and merely stating bare conclusions, are insufficient . . . to create a fact issue [and] [m]ore is required than mere denials without supporting affidavits or proofs." Harris v. Passaic Bd. of Educ., EDU 1835-98, Initial Decision (July 8, 1998), adopted, Comm'r (August 10, 1998), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; see Borough of Franklin Lakes v. Mutzberg, 226 N.J. Super. 46, 57 (App. Div. 1988). In the within matter, petitioner submitted no supporting affidavits to contradict the facts submitted by the District and relies instead simply on the arguments advanced in his brief. Based upon a review of the documentation submitted, including the certification and affidavit submitted by the District, I CONCLUDE that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the matter is ripe for summary decision.

It is recognized that "[t]enure protects an employee in a particular position, and having acquired tenure in a position, a tenured teaching staff member may not be 'dismissed or reduced in compensation' except for cause in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause), N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 (after certification of charges and a full due process hearing) or N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 (as a result of a reduction in force)." Howley v. Ewing Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1982 S.L.D. 1328, 1339, adopted, Comm'r, 1982 S.L.D. 1356, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 1983 S.L.D. 1554.

"Seniority is a concept which only applies to certain rights of tenured personnel and only has meaning when a reduction in employment force is necessary." Howley, 1982 S.L.D. at 1340. In this regard, a board of education is vested with the right "to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause . . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. In situations involving a reduction in force (RIF), the board of education must determine the seniority of the persons affected, dismissals must be made on the basis of seniority, and tenured teaching staff members who suffer a loss of employment as a result of a RIF are entitled to be placed upon a preferred eligible list in the order of seniority for reemployment whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such individual shall be qualified. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

It is well settled that a board of education has the managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members. Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 529 (App. Div. 1999); see N.J.S.A. 18A:25-1. "The power of a board of education to transfer teachers is limited only to the extent provided by the Tenure law." Howley, 1982 S.L.D. at 1339. "No teacher, in acquiring a tenure status, is guaranteed continuity of assignment or thereby acquires a vested right to any particular assignment, class, or school." Bigart v. Paramus Bd. of Educ., 1979 S.L.D. 123, 131. Rather, "[s]ince tenure attaches to position, and the position specified in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 is 'teacher,' a tenured teacher may be 'transferred' or reassigned within the scope of the endorsements on his or her Instructional Certificate." Carpenito, 322 N.J. Super. at 520. In other words, "a tenured employee may be transferred to another assignment within his position but may not be transferred involuntarily from one position to another." Id. at 521.

Against this backdrop, petitioner contends that the reduction of his salary as a result of his transfer from a twelve-month position to a ten-month position violates his tenure rights. Petitioner asserts that he received a salary in accordance with the August 15, 2017, letter ($79,453) during the first pay period of the 2017–2018 school year, and that the District cannot reduce and must maintain that salary until such time as his salary guide "catches up" to the $79,453 he was paid. The pivotal issue is whether the District reduced petitioner's compensation in contravention of the prohibition set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

In Williams v. Plainfield Board of Education, 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981), a tenured high-school principal challenged the determination of the State Board of Education that the local school district could properly transfer her to the position of elementary-school principal. At the time of the transfer, the petitioner's salary was frozen at the amount that she was earning as principal of the high school. Id. at 156–57. The petitioner contended that, although she initially suffered no reduction in salary, there was a reduction in her future salary expectancy because the formula used to determine the annual salary increments for elementary-school principals was lower than for high-school principals. Id. at 156. The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's determination that the petitioner suffered no reduction in salary since she retained the same salary that she had been earning as high-school principal when she was transferred to the elementary-school position. The court also concurred with the State Board's conclusion that the prohibition against reduction in salary for tenured employees did not contemplate future increases in salary or salary expectancy, but rather referred only to the amount of compensation paid to the tenured employee at the time of the transfer. In so ruling, the Appellate Division held that the case law "support[s] the position that future increases in salary, or salary expectation, is not an appropriate factor to be considered when determining the validity of a transfer since tenured employees have no vested right in any future increases in salary." Id. at 162. The court further stated that "there is no suggestion much less an express statement" in the tenure statutes "that future salary increases or adjustments are to be considered in determining the validity of a transfer which is otherwise proper." Ibid.

In Avery v. Trenton Board of Education, EDU 8316-93, Comm'r (November 3, 1997), appealed on other grounds and aff'd as modified, State Bd. (July 10, 2001), https://www.state.nj.us/education/legal/, the petitioners were employed in twelve-month positions as "teacher specialists." In April 1993 their positions were abolished, and the petitioners were informed that they would be placed in ten-month positions as classroom teachers, effective for the 1993–94 school year, and that they would not be employed or compensated during July or August 1993. The Commissioner determined that the petitioners were subjected to a reduction in salary, and their respective tenure rights were, therefore, violated by the transfer. Accordingly, the Commissioner held that the board must "reinstate petitioners to their respective salaries as of April 1993, and must reimburse them for the salary differential between what they actually received in the 1993–94, 1994–95, 1995–96, and 1996–97 school years, and what they would have received had they been compensated with the same salaries and emoluments they enjoyed in their roles as 'teacher/specialists.'" Ibid. The Commissioner further noted that, "[i]n that petitioners have 'no vested right in any future increases in salary,' Williams, supra, at 162, they are not entitled to salary and emoluments beyond that which they had received as of April 1993."

Similarly, in East Rutherford Education Association ex rel. Dolinsky v. East Rutherford Board of Education, EDU 12709-08, Initial Decision (February 13, 2009), adopted, Comm'r (March 30, 2009), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, the ALJ followed Williams in determining the salary a tenured secretary was entitled to receive when her 212-day secretarial position was abolished in June 2008 and she was retained as a twelve-month secretary.[3] The ALJ concluded that, even though the petitioner had an overall increase in salary as a twelve-month secretary for the 2008–2009 school year over that which she had earned in 2007–2008 as a ten-month secretary because she was working more days, her compensation was reduced because her per-diem rate from 2007–2008 to 2008–2009 was reduced from $192.57 to $184.64. The ALJ further held:

[3] The tenure statute governing tenured secretaries, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, similar to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, provides that any person who has acquired tenure in any secretarial or clerical position with a school district shall hold her position under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be reduced in compensation.

> The District satisfies . . . [the statute's] requirement by paying [her] at her 2007–2008 212-day secretary per diem rate rather than at the higher per diem rate she would have received if she had remained a 212-day secretary in 2008–2009. Future increases in salary, or salary expectation, is not an appropriate factor to be considered when determining the validity of a transfer or reassignment since tenured employees have no vested right in any future increases in salary. Williams v. Bd. of Educ. of Plainfield, 176 N.J. Super 154 (App. Div. 1980). The District abolished [her] 212-day secretary position by the end of the 2007–2008 school year. Although the District could not reduce [her] 2007–2008 compensation upon moving her to the twelve-month secretary position, it was not obligated to award her what would have been the 2008–2009 [10-month] secretary's compensation level when she never worked in a position that paid that level of compensation.

Turning to the within matter, it is undisputed that the District restored petitioner to the same salary that he was earning in his twelve-month position during the 2016–2017 school year ($75,053) and that the District reimbursed petitioner the salary differential between what he was paid for the period of September 2017 through January 2018 and what he should have received for those pay periods had his salary been $75,053. Petitioner avers that he is entitled to the annual salary that he would have received for the 2017–2018 school year had he not been reassigned to the ten-month teaching position ($79,453). (See R-16, No. 15.) In support of this stance, petitioner relies upon the District's August 15, 2017, letter. According to the District, the August 15, 2017, letter is computer generated and is required pursuant to the terms of the collective bargaining agreement to advise employees of their tentative assignment and salary for the upcoming year, as well as the number of sick, vacation, and/or personal days they used and have remaining, along with the expected cost of their health-benefit contribution. (See R-12, Article 12 at A1.)

The above decisional law makes clear that future increases in salary, or salary expectation, is not an appropriate factor to be considered when determining the validity of a transfer or reassignment since tenured employees have no vested right in any future increases in salary. Further, petitioner's reliance on the District's August 15, 2017, letter is misplaced; the letter unambiguously informed petitioner, "This is not a promise of employment."

Petitioner further asserts that he received a salary in accordance with the August 15, 2017, letter during the first pay period of the 2017–2018 school year. Petitioner contends that the District cannot reduce his salary and must maintain that salary until such time as his salary guide "catches up" to the $79,453 salary that he was paid.

The record, however, does not support petitioner's claim that he began receiving the $79,453 salary during the first pay period of the 2017–2018 school year. Rather, as certified by the District's payroll coordinator, petitioner was paid in accordance with the 2017–2018 Step 12 MA15 salary guide ($72,230) and petitioner was also erroneously paid the 10 percent additional amount of $284.29 that he received for the 2016–2017 school year. The 10 percent payment was made due to a system error that applied the additional earnings code even though it had been inactivated. The error was corrected in the next pay period and the $284.29 was deducted from that paycheck. Simply put, petitioner's position that the District must maintain petitioner at $79,453 until his salary guide "catches up" is based on petitioner's erroneous calculation, as petitioner was never paid based on the salary referenced in the August 15, 2017, letter.[4]

Equally unavailing is any claim that the District must continue to pay petitioner the additional $284.29 that he was paid during the first pay period due to a system error and that the District cannot reduce his salary to recoup this amount. In Trenton Education Association v. Trenton Board of Education, EDU 7507-93, State Board (December 1, 1999), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, the Trenton Board of Education adjusted six

[4] The salary in the August 15, 2017, letter, which petitioner did not receive, was calculated as follows: $72,230 (MA15, Step 12 on the 2017–2018 ISG), plus $7,223 (which would have been petitioner's additional 10 percent of salary had he remained as a twelve-month employee), for a total of $79,453. If the 10 percent additional amount of $7,223 is divided by twenty pay periods ($361.15) or twenty-four pay periods ($300.95), neither calculation equals the 10 percent amount that petitioner received ($284.29). Similarly, if the total amount petitioner received during the first pay period ($3,895.75) is multiplied by twenty pay periods, the annual salary is $77,915. If the total amount petitioner received during the first pay period ($3,895.75) is multiplied by twenty-four pay periods, the annual salary is $93,498.95.

bi-weekly paychecks issued to tenured custodians to recoup overpayments made as a result of errors in calculating their pay. Specifically, the bi-weekly rate paid to each employee was calculated in error by using a 260-day work year rather than a 261-day work year and an additional two days of pay was erroneously included in their paychecks because of the board's miscalculation. The employees' union alleged that the board's action constituted a reduction in compensation in violation of its members' tenure rights and that, although the board could freeze the custodian's salaries in order to recoup an overpayment, it was prohibited from reducing their regular salary payments. The State Board disagreed and held that the board did not violate the custodians' tenure rights when it reduced their paychecks to recoup the overpayment. It noted that the overpayment "did not result from action by the Board in which it erred in placing the employees on the negotiated salary guide or incorrectly established such employees' annual salaries under the terms of that guide [but] . . . [r]ather, the Board erred in calculating the specific amounts to be included in the custodians' bi-weekly paychecks based on their established annual salaries." The State Board emphasized that there was no indication that the "employees received compensation for the 1992–93 school year which was less than the amount established by the Board under the terms of the district's negotiated guide or as set forth in that guide." Nor was it alleged that the "Board erred in placing these employees on the negotiated guide or that it had incorrectly established their annual salaries under the terms of that guide."

Similarly, in Sklute v. Trenton Board of Education, EDU 9852-94, State Board (February 2, 2000), https://www.nj.gov/education/legal/, the State Board held that the board of education's action in deducting the amount of an overpayment from subsequent paychecks issued to the petitioners did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation. The State Board noted that the overpayments did not result from the incorrect establishment of the petitioners' salaries in their part-time evening-school assignments but, instead, the district's payroll office erroneously used a time-and-a-half rate in calculating the petitioners' earnings in those assignments for one two-week period. Accordingly, the State Board concluded that, "[p]ursuant to our determination in Trenton Education Association . . . , the tenure laws do not prohibit the Board from recovering such an overpayment by reducing the petitioners' paychecks."

More recently, in Elson v. New Brunswick Board of Education, EDU 7092-10, Initial Decision (June 28, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (August 15, 2013), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination that the board of education did not violate the petitioner's tenure rights when it reduced her paychecks to recoup an overpayment. The Commissioner found that the cases cited by the petitioner respecting salary-guide errors were distinguishable and that the facts were more closely analogous to the situation in Trenton Education Association. In Elson the overpayments did not result from the incorrect establishment of the petitioner's salary, but, instead, the district's payroll department erroneously double-paid the stipend amount owing to the petitioner. Accordingly, the Commissioner held that, "[p]ursuant to the decision in Trenton Education Association . . . , the tenure laws do not prohibit the Board from recovering such an overpayment by reducing the petitioner's paychecks."

In short, the same rationale applies with equal force to the within matter.

Finally, petitioner contends that his reassignment from a twelve-month position to a ten-month position constitutes a RIF and that the District's employment of less senior or non-tenured individuals in twelve-month positions violates his seniority rights. Petitioner relies on the State Board's decision in Avery in support of this argument. Succinctly stated, the facts in Avery are markedly distinguishable from the within matter. In Avery the State Board of Education concluded that the abolishment of the petitioners' twelve-month teacher specialist positions, and their reassignment to ten-month teaching assignments, with a corresponding reduction in salary, constituted a RIF that triggered the petitioners' tenure and seniority rights. By contrast, petitioner's twelve-month ESL teacher position was not abolished, and the record is bereft of any evidence that a RIF occurred. Rather, as certified by Superintendent Abbato, the District has not had a reduction in force since she became the superintendent in July 2014. (R-21, Abbato Cert. at ¶ 4.) Additionally, the undisputed evidence establishes that, upon the recommendation of Superintendent Abbato, the Board determined to reassign petitioner effective September 1, 2017, due to a poor evaluation and a resulting corrective action plan as an ESL teacher. (R-21, Abbato Cert. at ¶ 3.)

In Carpenito, the court recognized that seniority rights are triggered when a tenured teaching staff member is transferred to another position and suffers a loss of tangible employment benefits. Carpenito, 322 N.J. Super. at 533. In holding that Carpenito's reassignment from a full-time teaching position teaching social studies to another full-time position teaching other subjects after the abolishment of his former position did not trigger his tenure or seniority rights, the court stated, "Carpenito was neither dismissed nor was his salary reduced as a result of the Board's decision to assign him to a different position; he suffered no loss of employment . . . [and] [h]is seniority relative to non-tenured or tenured employees teaching social studies is irrelevant." Id. at 534. Similarly, petitioner's transfer from one full-time position as an ESL teacher due to poor work performance, to another full-time position within his certifications did not result in a loss of salary, as respondent continued to compensate him at the same annual salary ($75,053) that he was earning prior to his transfer.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the District properly exercised its managerial prerogative to transfer or re-assign petitioner to another position. I CONCLUDE that the District did not violate petitioner's tenure rights by virtue of a reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not suffered a reduction in compensation from his twelve-month position in 2016–2017 to his ten-month position in 2017–2018 since the District restored petitioner to the salary he received during the 2016–2017 school year ($75,053). I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to the $79,453 referenced in the August 15, 2017, letter. I CONCLUDE that the District's deduction of the $284.29 overpayment from petitioner's second paycheck did not constitute an impermissible reduction in compensation. I CONCLUDE that the District did not violate petitioner's seniority rights.

ORDER

I ORDER that respondent's motion for summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED and that the Petition of Appeal be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.P. on behalf of minor child, D.P.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the respondent Board's determination that D.P. committed an act of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) in violation of New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., when he called A.G., a fellow student, "gay". Petitioner admitted to calling A.G. "gay," but contended that he used the term in a joking manner and did not intend it in a demeaning way. The Board argued that D.P.'s actions constituted an act of HIB, and that its imposition of an in-school suspension was appropriate discipline for the infraction. Petitioner sought a reversal of the Board's determination and the resulting discipline. A hearing in this matter was conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in December 2019.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the definition of HIB in the Board's HIB policy does not mirror the definition found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14; the statute requires a finding that the actor knew or should have known that the conduct at issue would cause harm; the Board failed to consider whether D.P. knew or should have known that his conduct would have the effect of harming A.G.; and the Board failed to consider D.P.'s motivation in making the statement at issue here. The ALJ concluded that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner when it determined that D.P. had committed an act of HIB based upon his own admission, without considering his explanation of the circumstances surrounding the comment and the fact that D.P.'s comments "were not motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as sexual orientation..." of the targeted student. Accordingly, the ALJ reversed the Board's determination that D.P. committed an act of HIB, and instead found that D.P.'s conduct constituted a violation of the Student Code of Conduct.

Upon review, the Commissioner reversed the Initial Decision of the ALJ and affirmed the Board's determination of HIB. In so doing, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; no evidence was provided to overturn the Board's finding of HIB other than D.P.'s alleged lack of subjective ill intent; the record contained sufficient credible evidence to support the Board's decision that commenting on or misstating another student's sexual orientation could reasonably be perceived as being motivated by that characteristic; D.P.'s comments substantially disrupted A.G.'s education; and such comments were reasonably considered to be insulting or demeaning. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

J.P., on behalf of minor child, D.P.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the exceptions filed by the respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 have been reviewed.[1]

This matter concerns an alleged act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) by D.P., who admitted to calling another student, A.G., "gay." The Board found that D.P. had committed an act of HIB and imposed an in-school suspension. Following a hearing, the ALJ found that the Board's decision should be overturned because the Board did not consider D.P.'s motivation in making the statement or whether a reasonable person should have known that calling a student "gay" would cause harm. The ALJ further found that the definition of HIB in the Board's HIB policy did not conform to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that its HIB policy is consistent with the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. The Board cites to case law establishing that the subsections of the statute dealing with the effect of the alleged act of HIB are alternate criteria and that any of the three alternatives are sufficient to satisfy the statute. The Board disagrees that its decision finding that D.P. committed an act of HIB was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The Board indicates that it is undisputed that A.G. suffered emotional harm because of the comments made by D.P., pointing to testimony that A.G. was in counseling and did not want to attend school due to the comments. Therefore, according to the Board, two of the criteria regarding the effect of D.P.'s comments were met: 1) they had the effect of insulting or demeaning A.G., and 2) they created a hostile educational environment by severely or pervasively causing emotional harm to A.G. The Board contends that it is not necessary to establish that a reasonable person would know that the act would cause harm. However, the Board also argues that a reasonable person should know that purposely misstating another student's sexual orientation would cause emotional harm or that the victim would reasonably perceive the comment as insulting, and that D.P.'s subjective intent or motivation is irrelevant to the analysis. Furthermore, the Board disputes the finding in the Initial Decision that the comments could not have been construed by A.G. to be truthful because A.G. had a girlfriend, since the comments were made in an open school setting – where anyone could have heard them, including individuals who may not have known anything about A.G's sexual orientation.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's conclusions that the Board's policy did not conform to the Act and that the Board's decision finding that D.P. committed an act of HIB was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The Act defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, > ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, a finding of HIB requires three elements.[2] First, the conduct must be reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic and, second, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school. The third condition is that one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act regarding the effect of the conduct must also be satisfied. Wehbeh v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Verona, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 51-20 (decided February 4, 2020).

The Initial Decision incorrectly views subsection (a) – that a reasonable person should know the act will have a harmful effect – as the third requirement, with an additional fourth requirement being a choice between subsections (b) and (c). As a matter of standard statutory construction, the term "or" between subsections (b) and (c) also applies to subsection

[2] The statute also requires that the conduct take place on school property, at a school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. The parties do not dispute that this element has been satisfied in this case.

(a), such that a demonstration of any of these three criteria can support a finding of HIB. Ibid. Accordingly, the Board's use of the term "or" between subsections (a) and (b) in the definition of HIB in its policy conforms entirely to the Act. The Commissioner therefore reverses the ALJ's conclusion on this issue.

Turning to the Board's decision that D.P. committed an act of HIB, the ALJ found that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable because the Board did not consider whether D.P. knew or should have known under the circumstances that his conduct would have the effect of harming A.G. However, the Board was not required to consider this factor, because it is only one of three alternate criteria outlined in the statute, so its failure to do so does not render its decision arbitrary or unreasonable. [3, 4]

The Initial Decision also finds fault with the Board's decision because D.P. stated that he did not intend to harm A.G. This, too, is an incorrect interpretation of the Act.[5] In defining HIB as an action "that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic . . .", N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added), the statute requires an analysis of how the actor's motivation is perceived and whether that perception is reasonable. It does not require an analysis of the actual motivation of the actor.[6] Wehbeh, supra. Certainly, [3] The Board's decision was instead based on the criteria outlined in subsection (b), because it found that the comments were insulting and demeaning.

[4] To the extent that the ALJ found the testimony of HIB specialist Edward Ferrari not credible regarding what a reasonable person should have known, that finding is based on the ALJ's erroneous legal interpretation of the Act. Because the Board was not required to consider what D.P. knew or what a reasonable person should have known, Mr. Ferrari's credibility on this topic is irrelevant. Mr. Ferrari testified that D.P.'s comments were insulting or demeaning – an appropriate basis for a finding of HIB – and the ALJ did not take issue with Mr. Ferrari's credibility in making this statement. Indeed, to the contrary, the ALJ also characterized the comments as insulting and demeaning.

[5] The ALJ found Mr. Ferrari not credible on the question of D.P.'s motivation but, again, this finding was based on the ALJ's erroneous legal interpretation of the Act. Mr. Ferrari testified that he considered A.G.'s perception of the comments – which is appropriate, as explained herein – and the ALJ did not take issue with Mr. Ferrari's credibility in making this statement.

[6] This conclusion does not make the Act a strict liability statute, as the ALJ opined it would. The statute is clear that the perception must be reasonable.

evidence that the actor was motivated by a distinguishing characteristic would meet the standard of this section of the Act, but evidence that the actor was not so motivated does not end the analysis. Moreover, an act of HIB is one that "a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student," "has the effect of insulting or demeaning a student," or "creates a hostile educational environment . . .". N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14(a) (emphasis added). None of these criteria require the actor to have actual knowledge of the effect that his actions will have, or to specifically intend to bring about that effect. The first requires only that a reasonable person should know there would be a harmful effect, not that the actor knows there would be such an effect. The second two criteria address only the actual effect of the act, without any reference to what either the actor or a reasonable person does or should know. Wehbeh, supra. As such, a board of education can find that an individual committed an act of HIB even if the individual did not intend to cause harm.

When a local board of education acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be disturbed unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration[,]" and the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board. Bayshore Sewerage Co. v. Dep't. of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Based on the evidence in the record, the Commissioner finds that petitioner did not meet her burden of demonstrating that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Petitioner has provided no evidence to overturn the Board's finding other than D.P.'s alleged lack of subjective ill intent. On the other hand, the record contains sufficient credible evidence to support the Board's decision that commenting on or misstating another student's sexual orientation could reasonably be perceived as being motivated by that characteristic, that D.P.'s comments substantially disrupted A.G.'s education, and that D.P.'s comments were insulting or demeaning.[7]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is hereby reversed and the Board's decision finding that D.P. committed an act of HIB is affirmed. The petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 3/13/20
Date of Mailing: 3/16/20

[7] The petition of appeal raised procedural concerns about the Board's decisions, but the Initial Decision did not address those concerns. However, the Commissioner finds that the Board followed the procedures required by the Act by making the petitioner aware of the charges and the evidence on which they are based and by offering the petitioner the opportunity to present evidence to the Board – an opportunity of which she availed herself. Following those procedures, the Board determined that the petitioner had committed an act of HIB. Nothing in the record indicates that the Board, in making that determination, operated in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner.

[8] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE GLOUCESTER COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,

Respondent.

J.P., petitioner, pro se

Jay Branderbit, Esq., on behalf of respondent (Kent McBride, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: January 13, 2020 Decided: February 5, 2020

BEFORE CATHERINE A. TUOHY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, J.P., on behalf of D.P., appeals the respondent, Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District's Board of Education (the Board) determination that D.P. committed an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying (HIB) in violation of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.2 et seq. and the resulting discipline. At issue is whether D.P. committed an act of HIB.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 19, 2018, petitioner, on behalf of her minor child, D.P., filed an appeal with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, seeking the reversal of respondent's determination that D.P. had committed an act of HIB and the withdrawal or reduction of the discipline imposed. On October 15, 2018 respondent filed an answer. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on October 19, 2018 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. A pre-hearing telephone conference was conducted on December 5, 2018 and the matter was scheduled for a hearing on April 4, 2019.

Prior to the scheduled hearing date, respondent filed a motion for summary decision on February 27, 2019. Petitioner filed opposition to respondent's motion for summary decision on April 2, 2019. Respondent filed a reply on April 16, 2019. By Order dated May 15, 2019, respondent's motion for summary decision was denied. A hearing was conducted on December 5, 2019 and the record remained open to allow for closing submissions. The record closed on January 13, 2020 following receipt of closing statements.

FACTUAL DISCUSSIONS AND FINDINGS

Edward Ferrari testified on behalf of the respondent. He has a master's degree in educational school counselling and is employed by respondent as a school counsellor. He has worked for respondent for ten years and was the HIB specialist for a two-year period for the 2017-2018 and the 2018-2019 school years.

The HIB specialist works as part of a team and when a complaint is received, they conduct an investigation and the group determines if a violation of HIB has occurred. This complaint came in during Mr. Ferrari's first year as the HIB specialist. Other members of the team were Mrs. White, the school psychologist and Dr. Heicken, Director of Special Education and the HIB Director. This was not Mr. Ferrari's first HIB investigation. Mr. Ferrari prepared a certification in support of respondent's motion for summary decision to which he was referred to refresh his recollection (R-X). In early March 2018, Mr. Ruiz of School Based Youth Services approached Mr. Ferrari and advised him that A.G. was having some problems with other students and that Mr. Ruiz referred him to Robin's Nest for crisis counselling. There was no mention of any harassment comments at that time. Thereafter, on or about March 27, 2018, Mr. Ferrari received an email from A.G.'s mother that read:

> "Good Afternoon: A few weeks ago, several students went to Guidance concerned with my son that he was not himself and seemed down. He and I met with Mr. Ruiz and Ms. Glazer. I was then advised to call Robin's Nest for an evaluation. After a few days A.G. finally opened up to me and Mr. Ruiz of what was going on. He was being bullied by a boy in his electrical program and two - three other boys would laugh and join in the comments that were being made. For example, you're "gay", bowling is not a sport, you will never get anywhere with that. No girl would like you rumors spread to other kids that would comment in the halls that he doesn't even know etc. . . . He has been working with an in-home therapist named Jenny. Mr. Ruiz as well who has suggested that A.G. and the boy meet to discuss the issues which A.G. does not feel comfortable doing and neither does Jenny his therapist. It was also brought up again today and I do not feel comfortable with how this is being handled. I clearly feel this is a case of bullying and should be addressed in a different manner and Jenny the therapist agrees along with A.G. If someone can get back to me in this regard that would be great."

The first page of exhibit R-V is the Initial Report of HIB with a copy of the March 27, 2018 email from A.G.'s mom attached. This was the first notice that there was an HIB incident (R-V). Prior to this date there was no indication that A.G. was being bullied. Based on this email an investigation was commenced. He was charged with conducting the interviews for the investigation and interviewed A.G. Exhibit R-L is a hand-written copy of the statement provided by A.G. The interview took no more than ten to fifteen minutes. During the interview, A.G. said he did not want to go to shop anymore, which Mr. Ferrari considered adverse to his educational experience since he did not want to go to class. He continued to interview the other students involved, including D.P. Exhibit R-J is a handwritten statement provided by D.P. during his interview. D.P. admitted to calling A.G. gay but stated that he did not mean it in a demeaning way but in a joking manner. Mr. Ferrari allowed the students to make additions to their statement and on April 6, 2018 D.P. added to his original statement taken on March 28, 2018. D.P. added that they had an inside joke and would say to each other "Dude your gay". Exhibit R-P contains written statements from three other students, J.M., M.A. and G.C. Theses statements were given as a result of interviews Mr. Ferrari conducted. J.M. admitted that D.P. called A.G. gay, but J.M. did not admit to calling A.G. gay. J.M. also stated that he could not tell if D.P. was joking or not. This is significant because he did not know what the intent was or could not tell the intent based on the nature of the comments. J.M. said that G.C. also called A.G. gay.

M.A.'s statement does not admit to calling A.G. any names. G.C. did not admit in his statement that he called A.G. gay. Mr. Ferrari interviewed two other students, A.U. and A.R. who were also in the same class, but not in the same friend group, in order to get another perspective from a neutral party. Neither heard nor saw anyone pick on A.G. (R-Q).

Mr. Ferrari's certification at paragraph 8 references a meeting held March 28, 2018, the day after A.G.'s mother sent the email. In attendance were the shop teacher in the electrical program, Mr. McCoy, Mr. Ruiz, A.G., A.G.'s mother, Jenny the therapist and Mr. Ferrari. Mr. McCoy had stated during the meeting that if he had heard students making comments to A.G., he would have interceded and would have also reported the students (R-X). Mr. Ferrari did not take a written statement from Mr. McCoy because he knew from the meeting that Mr. McCoy did not witness anything, and Mr. Ferrari believed the best witnesses would be the students involved. The fact that D.P. admitted that he made the statements also effected Mr. Ferrari's decision that it was not necessary to take a statement from Mr. McCoy. Regardless of D.P.'s intent, he admitted to making the statements. Also, one of the accused indicated he did not know if D.P. was joking or not. Mr. Ferrari felt he did a thorough investigation. None of the other members of the HIB team advised him to do anything further in his investigation.

As a result of the investigation, there was a finding that D.P. violated the HIB policy. There was a report prepared by Mrs. White based on Mr. Ferrari's investigation. The results of his investigation were discussed with Ms. White and Dr. Heiken (R-F). There were three separate findings:

1. No HIB finding against M.A. and J.M.
2. G.C. did not commit a HIB violation, but violated the Student Code of Conduct
3. D.P. committed an act of HIB

The HIB behavior committed by D.P. was "insulting or demeaning comments" based on his calling A.G. gay. The actual or perceived characteristic that motivated the behavior was "Perceived Sexual Orientation". The report indicated that this was a series of incidents. The report also indicated that the students had not previously committed an act of HIB and that A.G. had not previously been a target of HIB while attending school in the district (R-F, page 2, paragraphs 3 - 6). Ms. White signed off on the report.

D.P. received an in-school suspension as a result of the HIB finding and G.C. received an after-school detention from 3:00 – 6:00 p.m. (R-F, page 3). An in-school suspension involves staying in a room all day in school and not attending any classes. Discipline could have been more severe such as an out of school suspension or expulsion. Mr. Ferrari does not impose discipline, the administrator does.

There have been no further issues involving D.P. or A.G. or any of the students involved. Mr. Ferrari has interacted with D.P. as he is his guidance counsellor and they have discussed classes and grades. At no time did D.P.'s parents request that Mr. Ferrari be changed as D.P.'s guidance counsellor. He has had a normal relationship with D.P. since the investigation. D.P.'s performance has been averaged since the 2017-2018 school year. D.P. has done well in shop but struggles with some of his classes. Mr. Ferrari has not noticed any significant changes in his performance. D.P. has not complained to him about any emotional problems. He has not said heard from anyone that D.P. feels that he has been stigmatized by the HIB investigation.

On cross-examination, Mr. Ferrari was a shop teacher in the past and familiar with how students talk to each other and has heard students call each other gay in the past. After Mr. Ferrari spoke to A.G. his position was to move forward with the investigation.

When he first spoke with D.P. on March 28, 2018, he does not recall being upset with D.P. but rather being disappointed with the whole group. Mr. Ferrari did not refuse to extend a handshake to D.P. when he first met with him. When he met with D.P. again on April 6, 2018, he advised D.P. to add to his statement because it would help. When he met with all of the witnesses, he told them to write as much information as possible to explain that if they were joking to write it all down because the more information provided would help them. Initially, D.P. wrote down that he admitted he called A.G. gay. Mr. Ferrari was his counsellor and wanted to make sure D.P. got a fair shake. He did advise D.P. about the process and that if he felt strongly about it, his parents should appeal the finding.

J.M.'s statement that he could not tell if they were joking or not could mean both, that either they were joking, or they were not. Out of the four boys who were accused, the fact that D.P. admitted to calling A.G. gay, was the basis for finding D.P. in violation of the HIB policy and not the others.

Mr. Ferrari was not aware of a significant change in D.P.'s performance as far as grades go from the 2017-2018 school year until now and that he actually failed two classes last year when he has never even come close to failing, which J.P. claims was as a direct result of him being falsely accused.

Mr. Ferrari's recollection was that when they met as a team to discuss the case none of the others involved admitted to saying the comments other than D.P. and that is why they were not found in violation of the policy. Out of the four interviewed only D.P. admitted to calling A.G. gay. Mr. McCoy is the shop teacher and had them every day and did not notice anything. A statement should have been taken from him. Although D.P.'s admission was used against him, his explanation that they were joking with each other was not considered. Mr. Ferrari stated that students sometimes speak to each other in ways they should not. It was not commonplace in Mr. Ferrari's shop. He is training students to go into the carpenters' union and to go into peoples' houses. He cannot speak to what goes on in Mr. McCoy's shop class because he is not there every day. However, the language was not something he would accept in his class or as a counsellor. He did not interview Mr. McCoy because at the meeting he said he did not witness anything.

After he conducted the investigations, he was not instructed by any of his supervisors to go and interview Mr. McCoy. Mr. Ferrari has a decent relationship with D.P. and as the HIB specialist and D.P.'s counsellor, Mr. Ferrari was never looking to file a HIB charge on D.P. and being part of that was a very hard part of his job.

On redirect examination, Mr. Ferrari stated that if D.P. had not admitted making the statements, the outcome would be different.

Mr. Ferrari was part of the group of three people discussing whether D.P.'s conduct violated HIB. There was not enough evidence against the other students, but D.P. admitted it although his intent was different. The Board believed they could defend their decision in finding HIB against D.P. because of his admission. Mr. Ferrari explained that they took into consideration D.P.'s explanation of the circumstances surrounding the comments and D.P.'s intent, but it was perceived differently by A.G. When they spoke to people during the course of the investigation, there seemed to be an imbalance of power between D.P. and A.G., rather than a conflict. In his HIB training, with no imbalance of power, you can go back and forth making comments to the other person and that is considered a conflict. However, if comments are made and the other person is perceiving them differently because one person has power over the other and the comments are causing school avoidance, that is the reason the group recommended the finding of a HIB violation to the Board. The imbalance of power is the sexual orientation of the student. D.P. had more power over A.G. It was Mr. Ferrari's understanding that it was not a back and forth between D.P. and A.G. D.P. just made comments to A.G. and A.G. did not respond.

They have HIB training in-district each year. He and Ms. White also went to an additional one-day training for HIB at the firm of Strauss Esmay.

On re-cross examination, D.P.'s April 6, 2018 written statement stated:

> "In the beginning of the year our shop class had an inside joke 'Dude, you're gay' and we all made sure no one would be offended by it. We all said to each other all the time knowing that it was a joke. A.G. would > say it as much as everyone else. I don't understand why people would be offended if they are saying it too." (R-J).

Although D.P. did say that in his statement, but Mr. Ferrari did not have any evidence that that was going on.

The comment that he made, 'Dude you're gay', disrupted A.G.'s education that he did not want to come to school to the point that he went to crisis intervention. The evidence was that it significantly disrupted A.G.'s educational process and he did not want to come to school anymore. The outside therapist was working with A.G. and revealed this information. Mr. Ferrari does not know A.G.'s sexual orientation and does not care either way. Mr. Ferrari took D.P.'s admission that yes, D.P. called A.G. gay, regardless of intent and that violates the policy. If D.P. did not admit it, then there probably would have to have been more investigation and additional individuals brought in.

Mr. Ferrari does not think D.P. believes A.G. is gay. However, it is the perception of the person accusing D.P. Mr. Ferrari did not know and could not say whether D.P., under the circumstances of this case, knew or should have known that his comments would cause harm to A.G. He thinks D.P. is a really nice kid and knows better than to say those words to someone. Mr. Ferrari admitted that he really did not know how to answer that question.

On re-direct, J.M. said G.C. also called A.G. gay. No one else corroborated D.P.'s statements that A.G. also called D.P. gay.

On re-cross examination, Mr. Ferrari did not know that A.G. had a girlfriend. He does not get involved in relationships. He admitted that sometime other students know students better than staff.

In Mr. Ferrari's opinion, if there was other evidence that there was a back and forth between A.G. and D.P. saying "Dude, your gay", as the HIB specialist at the time, there would not have been an imbalance of power, it would have been a code of conduct violation through the administration for them using inappropriate language pursuant to the policy. The imbalance of power would have been D.P. calling A.G. gay. It is only a HIB violation if it is reported as an imbalance of power by the person targeted. It is the perception of the person being targeted. In Mr. Ferrari's opinion, D.P. is truthful. However, he has to have some corroboration. Even though he feels that D.P. is a truthful kid, he has to go with what he was instructed to do.

D.P. should have known that the comments would have harmed A.G. He believes D.P. made a mistake and this was a learning lesson and he would not do this again.

According to Mr. Ferrari, it was A.G.'s perception that D.P.'s comments were motivated by an actual or perceived characteristic of his and that was A.G.'s sexual orientation.

Philip Nicastro testified on behalf of the respondent. He has a B.A. from Glassboro State College; a Masters' degree in educational administration from Monmouth University; a doctorate in education from Temple University; and a Law degree from Widener University School of Law. He is licensed to practice law in Pennsylvania and New Jersey since 1994. He is a principal and employed by Strauss Esmay Associates, a New Jersey School Policy and Regulation Consulting firm. They work with about 480 public school districts in New Jersey; twenty-five charter schools and forty private schools for students with disabilities. There are about 550 – 560 public school districts in New Jersey and they have contracts with 480 of them to provide school policy and regulation consulting services. The firm has been in existence since 1972, but his wife, a former school teacher acquired the firm in 2001. He has worked as a legal consultant to Strauss Esmay since 1994. Usually a school district comes to the firm realizing they need to update their policies and then they work with the school district to develop a customized policy manual. Thereafter they have an annual contract with school district to provide them updates as the statutes, code and decisions come out that impact school policy. Mr. Nicastro retired after twenty years as a school business administrator and five years as a superintendent. He retired as the Superintendent of the Brick Township school district in 2003.

The current HIB law came into effect for the 2011 school year. The firm does professional development programs on the HIB law. Since 2011 he has trained ten-thousand people on the HIB law. They run training programs for HIB specialists and teachers. One of the services they provide to their clients is if they have questions, they can call them. Mr. Nicastro was accepted as an expert to address the respondent's HIB policy and whether it conforms to the New Jersey HIB statute. Strauss Esmay wrote respondent's HIB policy 5512. Strauss Esmay provides a policy guide to school districts and it's the school districts decision whether to adopt it or not.

Mr. Nicastro recalls Superintendent Dicken reaching out to him in May 2019 regarding a question involving the school's HIB policy. Mr. Dicken had received the order denying the Board's motion for summary decision wherein it was pointed out that the Board's HIB policy was not consistent with the statute. Mr. McCastro sent an email dated May 21, 2019 to Michael Dicken in response (R-Y).

Mr. Nicastro stated to have HIB you need four things: motivation; location; it has to create substantial harm or effect the rights of other students; and there has to be harm. There have been lots of cases that if there is no motivation, you may have a code of conduct violation, but you do not have a HIB violation. There has to be motivation, the conduct has to be motivated by an actual or perceived characteristic. Location is an easy one. It has to affect the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students. The last component is harm and the harm components are three. 1. that a reasonable person would know under the circumstances that whatever they did would cause harm; 2. The act had the effect of insulting or demeaning; or 3. The act created a hostile educational environment where the child did not want to come to school anymore. Those three elements in everything he and his firm have read was that only one of those items was required. In his opinion, you only need one of those three items to satisfy the statute.

His firm publishes a monthly school law digest where they report all major educational law decisions, eight a month for eleven months, eighty-eight a year. He has read every one since 2011. There has never been a requirement that you need as a threshold to find that a reasonable person would know under the circumstances that the conduct would cause harm before you went to the other sections. It has always been interpreted that you need any of the three – that is, a reasonable person would know under the circumstances or has the effect of insulting or demeaning or creates a hostile educational environment.

The New Jersey Department of Education has issued a publication entitled "Guidance for School on Implementing the Ant-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (R-Y,3). This document on page three supports Mr. Nicastro's opinion that the statute was meant to be read with an "or" between the three sections.

In Mr. Nicastro's opinion, respondent's HIB policy in March 2018 comported with the statutory requirements and all the guidance put out by the Department of Education.

On cross-examination, Mr. Nicastro said they must have motivation. This is the hardest part to determine what is the motivation. Two kids are in a playground playing kickball and a disagreement breaks out on a call of an out on base. One of the children says not only were you out but proceeds to use a racial epithet. The motivation for using the racial epithet was not the race of the child, but the call out on base. It was a conflict, not a HIB. In Mr. Nicastro's opinion, the hardest thing for anti-bullying specialists to determine is what was the motivating factor.

Looking on page two of R-Y,3 under HIB definition, Mr. Nicastro indicated if you were required to meet all six bullet points, the number of HIB cases would be drastically reduced. Although Mr. Nicastro was not here to discuss the facts of this case, he indicated that in 90% of these cases, the ALJ and the Commissioner of Education have deferred to the school districts. Any interpretation that would limit a finding of bullying would be contrary to the policy of stopping the HIB conduct. Intent does not really matter as it is whether a reasonable person would conclude it would be harmful.

Mr. Nicastro does agree that the statute N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 does not contain an or between sections (a) and (b). The statute as written demonstrates the legislative intent and is controlling. He does not know why it has not been amended if it is incorrect.

Michael Dicken testified on behalf of the respondent. He is the Superintendent of the Gloucester County Vocational-Technical School District. He has a B.S. degree from Westchester State College with a certificate in health and physical education; a Masters' degree from Rowan University in School Business Administration. He spent five years working at Glen Mill School for Boys, which is a juvenile delinquent facility in Pennsylvania as a teacher and a counsellor. He was a teacher and administrator at the Yale school, which is a private school for the handicapped. He was employed in 1999 by the Gloucester County Special Services School District school as a program manager. He later served as assistant principal and later principal of that program. He has been the Assistant Superintendent of both school districts for three years. This is his ninth year as Superintendent of both programs, the Gloucester County Special Services School District and the Gloucester County Vocational and Technical School District. As Superintendent he oversees all operations of both school districts including finances, curriculum, students and faculty. He supervises all employees of the school districts, including Mr. Ferrari.

Mr. Dicken is familiar with the HIB complaint filed by the mother of A.G. Mr. Ferrari conducted the HIB investigation under the direction of Dr. Susan Heiken, the Director of Clinical Services and the HIB Coordinator. Mr. Ferrari's testimony was accurate as far as processing and procedure. As Superintendent, he reviewed the final HIB report after it was reviewed by the principal, Mr. James Dundee. He affirmed the HIB finding and Mr. Dicken then approved the HIB finding. A letter from the principal to D.P.'s parents regarding the HIB complaint involving their son was sent on March 29, 2018 (R-C). This was two days after the email sent by A.G.'s mother. Also, on March 29, 2018 a letter was sent to the parents of A.G. advising that A HIB investigation was being conducted concerning their son being the target of an act of HIB (R-G). A letter of April 20, 2018 was also sent to the parents of A.G. advising them of the results of the investigation. The results of the investigation were that a violation of the schools' code of conduct had taken place and that interventions and remedial measures were put into place (R-H). The final results of the investigation that Mr. Dicken signed off on were contained in exhibit R-F which bears his signature.

Mr. Dicken approved the in-school suspension punishment for D.P. An April 23, 2018 letter was sent out to D.P.'s parents alerting them to the findings and advising them of their rights to appeal (R-D). These are the standard letters the District uses advising the parties of the investigation and outcome. D.P.'s parents requested a hearing before the Board of Education and Mr. Dicken sent them a letter dated April 30, 2018 advising them that the hearing was scheduled for May 9, 2018 (R-B). The minutes of the Executive Session of the Board of Education for May 9, 2018 reflect that D.P.'s mother had a hearing in front of the Board regarding a HIB violation against her son. J.P. had a written statement that she read to the Board. Some questions were asked of her and she thanked the Board (R-N). After J.P. left the Board meeting, the HIB team including Mr. Ferrari, Ms. White and Dr. Heiken spoke and answered questions of the Board and Mr. Dicken reviewed the HIB policy with the Board as to what qualified as HIB. He does not remember the discussion between the Board and the HIB team, but it took a few minutes longer than J.P.'s presentation. A decision was not reached by the Board at the May 9, 2018 meeting. The Board revisited the matter at the June 20, 2018 meeting which was the next board of education meeting. The Executive Session meetings for June 20, 2018 indicated that Mr. Dicken recommended affirming the HIB determination for D.P.(R-W). Mr. Dicken sent a letter to D.P.'s parents on June 25, 2018 advising them that the Board affirmed the results of the HIB investigation and further advised them of their right to appeal to the Commissioner of Education (R-E). The next thing Mr. Dicken received regarding this dispute was the due process petition.

D.P. received an in-school suspension which was not the most severe punishment. The fact that D.P. was found to have violated the school HIB policy and received an in-school suspension does not become a part of his school record and would not be provided to anyone requesting his school records including employers or colleges.

On cross-examination, the Board voted on Mr. Dicken's recommendation to find a HIB violation. The Board was not provided with all of the witnesses' statements. Mr. Dicken briefly reviews the facts of the case in open session without identifying the students. His recollection was that J.P. was asked questions by the Board when she said she was not asked any questions by the Board. The Superintendent is the last one to review the investigation and he reviewed it all. He was comfortable with the materials presented to him and his discussions with the HIB team. He was okay with the teacher not being interviewed based on what was presented to him.

D.P. testified on his own behalf. He admitted that he called A.G. and others in his shop class 'gay'. A.G. called D.P. and others 'gay' also. He did not think A.G. was gay. A.G. had a girlfriend at the time. D.P. did not call A.G. 'gay' with intent to cause him harm.

Discussion

Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App Div. 1958).

In general, I believe all of the witnesses testified credibly, however Mr. Ferrari's testimony regarding the existence of an imbalance of power due to A.G.'s sexual orientation was not supported by the record. A review of the record indicates that the respondent basically found D.P. to have committed a HIB violation because D.P. admitted that he called A.G. gay. There was no consideration given to D.P.'s motivation in making the statement. He was not motivated to make the statement based on an actual or perceived characteristic such as sexual orientation because D.P. knew A.G. was straight. Mr. Ferrari admitted he did not think D.P. believed A.G. was gay. There can be no HIB finding without the required motivation. Mr. Ferrari testified that had D.P. not made the admission there would have been a different outcome. It is interesting to note that G.C. who did not admit to calling A.G. gay, but was said to have called A.G. gay by another witness J.M., was only found to have violated the Student Code of Conduct. J.M. also stated in his written statement that he did not know if the statements were made in jest. Mr. Ferrari also initially testified candidly that he did not know and could not say whether D.P., under the circumstances, knew or should have known that his comments would cause harm to A.G. and he really did not know how to answer that question. Respondent's HIB policy, as written, did not require an initial finding that D.P. knew, or should have known, under the circumstances that his conduct would cause harm to A.G.

Although Mr. Nicastro was called as an expert to defend respondent's HIB policy as conforming to the statute, I was not persuaded by his explanation, since he admitted that the school policy does not mirror N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and that the statute controls and is the best evidence of the legislative intent.

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at this hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following as FACTS:

A.G., a classmate of D.P., had given a written statement dated March 27, 2018 indicating that in the last couple of months, students in his shop class had been making rude remarks/comments to him, including D.P., G.C., J.M. and M.A. (R-L). Petitioner's son, D.P. gave a written statement dated March 28, 2018 to his guidance counsellor and the schools HIB specialist, Edward Ferrari, wherein D.P. wrote,

> "Yes, I called him gay but in a joking matter. We all know we are straight and mess with each other. I never meant it to be in a serious matter and truly apologize that it was taken the wrong way."

D.P. further added to his statement on April 6, 2018, following the suggestion of Mr. Ferrari, that:

> "In the beginning of the year, our shop class had an inside joke, "Dude, you're gay" and we all made sure no one would be offended by it. We all said to each other all the time knowing it was a joke. A.G. would say it as much as everyone else. I don't understand why people would get offended if they are saying it too." (R-J).

Written statements were also taken from the other accused students G.C., J.M. and M.A., none of whom admitted to making any rude comments to A.G. (R-P). J.M.'s statement corroborated that G.C. also called A.G. gay. Other independent witnesses, A.U. and A.R., were also interviewed and stated that they did not notice anyone picking on A.G (R-Q). No statement was taken of the shop teacher, Mr. McCoy, in whose class the incidents occurred because Mr. McCoy had advised Mr. Ferrari that he did not hear or observe any HIB conduct in his classroom, or he would have prevented and reported same.

J.M. and M.A. were exonerated. G.C. was found not to have committed an act of HIB, but to have violated the Student Code of Conduct and received a 3:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m. detention. D.P. was found to have committed an act of HIB by making insulting and demeaning comments and received an in-school suspension (R-F).

Out of the four boys who were accused, the fact that D.P. admitted to calling A.G. 'gay' was the basis for respondent's finding that D.P.'s conduct was in violation of respondent's HIB policy and not the others.

D.P. did not believe that A.G. was gay.

D.P.'s statements to A.G. that "Dude, you're gay" were not motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic such as sexual orientation. The statements were motivated by D.P. and other students joking around with each other.

D.P. did not know, nor reasonably should have known that his comments would cause harm to A.G. as they were made in jest and that D.P. knew A.G. was not gay and had a girlfriend.

I further FIND as FACT that the Board's HIB definition as set forth in its Policy 5512 B and also as set forth in its HIB Investigation Report (R-F) does not conform to the HIB definition set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 does not contain an or between sections (a) and (b). The statute as written demonstrates the legislative intent and is controlling.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

New Jersey enacted the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act) to strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying of students that occur in school and off school premises. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1(f). Definitions relative to adoption of harassment and bullying prevention policies are found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, which states in part:

> "Harassment, intimidation or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

The Commissioner of Education will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) (citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966)), adopted, Comm'r (April 7, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. Further, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). New Jersey courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Thus, in order to prevail, the petitioner must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it. T.B.M., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; See W.C.L. and A.L. ex rel L.L. v. Tenafly Bd.

Petitioner bears the burden of proof by a preponderance of the credible. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962); DYFS v. M.R., 314 N.J. Super. 390, 414 (App. Div. 1998); In re Allegations of Sexual Abuse at E. Park High Sch., 314 N.J. Super. 149, 168 (App. Div. 1998). This tribunal has the duty to decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to a reasonable probability of truth. Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna and W. R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E.&A. 1933). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958).

A close review of respondent's HIB Policy 5512 B, "Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying," indicates that the Board's definition of HIB does not mirror the New Jersey law in that respondent's policy contains an "or" between 3(a) and 3(b) whereas N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14(a) and (b) does not. The plain reading of the statute is that a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances that the conduct will have the effect of harming a student and the conduct has the effect of insulting or demeaning a student or creates a hostile educational environment for the student. The legislature, in enacting the statue, did not choose to insert an "or" between N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14(a) and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14(b). Therefore, the statute should be read in the conjunctive which requires an initial finding that a reasonable person knew or should have known that the conduct would have the effect of harming a student. The statute was not written to be a strict liability statute and first requires a finding that the actor knew or should have known that the conduct would cause harm. To the extent that respondent has implemented HIB Policy 5512 B which sets forth a broader definition of HIB than set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, I CONCLUDE that respondent has acted in a manner that is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

It is clear that in determining whether a HIB violation took place, respondent did not consider whether D.P. knew or should have known under the circumstances that his conduct would have the effect of harming A.G. Mr. Ferrari initially indicated that he did not know and that it was difficult for him to answer that question. Later in his testimony he indicated that D.P. was a smart boy and should have known his comments would cause harm. However, when finding a HIB violation according to their policy 5512 B as written, the respondent only had to satisfy one of the three prongs, either 3(a) or 3(b) or 3(c). Their focus was that D.P. admitted to making the comments and that the comments insulted, and demeaned A.G. Mr. Ferrari testified that the outcome would have been different if D.P. had not admitted to calling A.G. gay.

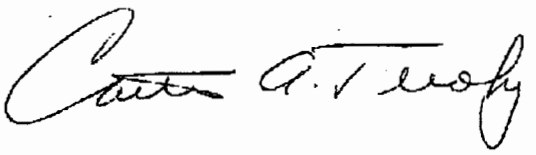
D.P. admitted that he called A.G. gay, however explained that it was a joke and that they all called each other gay, even though they all knew they were all straight. D.P. did not know, or should he have known, under the circumstances, that his comments to A.G. would have the effect of causing him harm, since he did not believe him to be gay and the boys were all joking with each other. D.P. did not believe that A.G. was gay and knew he had a girlfriend. D.P.'s comments were not motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as sexual orientation, because D.P. knew A.G. was straight, had a girlfriend, was not gay and the boys were all joking with each other in calling each other 'gay'.

Since D.P.'s comments were not motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as sexual orientation, his conduct does not rise to the level of a HIB violation. His comments, although certainly not condoned by this tribunal, at most would be more appropriately characterized as constituting a violation of the school code of conduct for making insulting and demeaning comments to A.G. D.P. was candid and truthful in admitting to calling A.G. gay. He also explained the circumstances surrounding the comments. I CONCLUDE that the respondent found D.P. in violation of the HIB policy because of D.P.'s admission yet acted in utter disregard of the facts in failing to consider D.P.'s explanation of the circumstances surrounding the comments and the fact that

D.P.'s comments were not motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as sexual orientation of A.G.

A.G. had accused three other students of making rude remarks to him. There was corroboration by at least one other student, J.M., (in addition to A.G. and D.P.) that G.C. also called A.G. 'gay' (R-P). G.C. was charged with a code of conduct violation and received a 3:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m. detention, whereas D.P. was found to have committed a HIB violation and received a one day in-school suspension. I further CONCLUDE that respondent's disparate treatment of D.P. in sustaining a HIB violation against him and imposing more severe punishment for the same conduct as G.C., is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Based on the whole of the credible evidence presented, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has met her burden of proof that the respondent acted in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner in finding that D.P.'s conduct constituted an act of HIB as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.



ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the petition be GRANTED. The Board's decision finding D.P. to have committed an act of HIB is REVERSED and AMENDED to a finding that D.P.'s conduct constituted a violation of the Student Code of Conduct.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

M.B., on behalf of minor children,
D.B. and M.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Union,
Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that D.B. and M.B. did not reside within the Union Township School District during the 2018-2019 school year. The Board alleged that D.B. and M.B. were not residing at either of the two addresses provided by the petitioner, and sought payment of tuition for the period of their ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency; the residency investigation in this matter demonstrated that the children were not present at either of the addresses in Union Township provided by petitioner and were instead seen repeatedly at an address in Roselle; and based on the evidence submitted by the petitioner in support of his residency claim, D.B. and M.B. were not domiciled in the District while attending school there during the 2018-2019 school year. The ALJ concluded that D.B. and M.B. were not entitled to receive a free public education in the Union Township School District; accordingly, the respondent Board is entitled to reimbursement for tuition costs in the amount of $28,046 for the 2018-2019 school year.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion. The Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petitioner was ordered to reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $28,046; the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

M.B., on behalf of minor children,
D.B. and M.B.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Union for the 2018-2019 school year. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in Union. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $14,023 for M.B. and $14,023 for D.B. for the 2018-2019 school year, during which time petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend school in respondent's district.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the January 31, 2020 hearing at the OAL.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $28,046 for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which M.B. and D.B. were ineligible to attend school in Union. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [2]

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner M.B. challenges the Board of Education of the Township of Union's (Respondent or Board) residency determination that petitioners do not reside and/or not domiciled in Union.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 26, 2019, for hearing as a contested case. The hearing was scheduled and heard on January 31, 2020. The respondent submitted a closing brief and certification on February 11, 2020, at which time I closed the record.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

Daniel Hodge

Daniel Hodge is employed by respondent as a residency inspector. On February 23, 2018, he was assigned to investigate whether M.B. and D.B. lived in the Union. The reason for the investigation was that either M.B or D.B. stated that they lived in Roselle.

Hodge began the investigation on February 23, 2018, at the address of XXXX Hawthorne Avenue, Union. This is the address that the Board had on record for petitioners. On February 23 and February 26, 2018, no one exited the Hawthorne Avenue address between 7:15-9:00 a.m. On February 26, 2018, the principal of Hanna Caldwell School, where D.B. and M.B were registered, pointed out the children's father as he was picking them up from school to Hodge. Hodge followed petitioner's car to Roselle. A Honda Odyssey and a Jeep were registered to petitioner. Petitioner drove a white Ford Explorer when he picked up the children. On February 28, 2018, no one exited the Hawthorne Avenue address. On March 1, 2018, the Odyssey dropped the children at school and picked them up. Hodge followed the Odyssey after it picked the children up from school but lost it in traffic.

On March 12, 2018, there were no cars at the Hawthorne Avenue address at 7:30 a.m. The Odyssey driven by the children's mother dropped them at school. Hodge followed the Odyssey, which made several stops before finally stopping at the Oak Park apartments in Roselle. On March 13, 2018, both cars registered to petitioner were at the Oak Park Apartments. The mother dropped the children at school and returned to the Oak Park apartments. Hodge never saw the children at the Hawthorne Avenue address.

A residency hearing was held which resulted in the children staying in school. Hodge was told to check on the residency. From September 4, 2018, through September 27, 2018, Hodge conducted surveillance to determine if the children lived at the Hawthorne Avenue address. He did no surveillance from September 27, 2018, to May 2, 2019.

In March 2019 petitioner informed the Board that they moved to Vauxhall Road in Union. Hodge did not see the Odyssey or the Explorer at the Vauxhall Road address until May 2, 2019. At that time Hodge questioned the crossing guard on Vauxhall Road, who stated that he had not seen any grammar school aged children coming out of the residence on May 7, 2019. Hodge knocked on the door of the Vauxhall Road residence at 7:00 p.m. There was no answer. He went by at 10:00 p.m. and the house was dark.

On May 13, 2019, May 14, 2019, and May 15, 2019, no cars were at the Vauxhall Road address in the morning. On May 16, 2019, Hodge again questioned the crossing guard at 7:15 a.m. who stated that he had seen high school children coming out of the Vauxhall Road residence, but he believes that they moved. On May 17, 2019, Hodge knocked on the door of the Vauxhall residence at 7:00 p.m. and there was no answer. A college-age neighbor told him that the premises were vacant.

On May 20, 2019, Hodge saw petitioner cutting the grass at the Vauxhall Road address at 10:00 a.m. On May 21, 2019, Hodge saw the Jeep at the Roselle address in the morning. On May 22, 2019, there were no cars at the Vauxhall Road address at 6:00 p.m. On May 23, 2019, the jeep was parked in Roselle at 7:00 a.m. On May 25, 2019, Hodge went past the Vauxhall Road address five different times and no cars were parked at the address.

On May 28, 2019, the Jeep and the Explorer were parked at the Roselle address at 7:15 a.m. On May 29, 2019, Hodge saw the Jeep and Explorer parked at the Roselle address at 7:00 a.m. at 8:15 a.m. the children entered the Explorer, at 3:00 p.m. the children were picked up from school in the Explorer and taken to Roselle. On May 30, 2019, the Jeep and the Explorer were seen at Roselle at 7:30 a.m. The children at 8:20 a.m. came out of the Roselle address and entered the Explorer.

Hodge never saw the children at either Union address. He saw the children at the Roselle address. Hodge never saw the petitioner drive any car other than the Explorer. The Odyssey was driven by the children's mother. Hodge had driven by the Hawthorne Avenue address as late as 10:00 p.m. and did not see the Explorer.

M.B.

M.B. is the father of M.B. and D.B. He stated that he told the Board in March 2018 that they could not stay at the Hawthorne Street address. The children stayed with their mother due to a family issue. When the children were staying in Roselle with their mother, he would take them to school. After school he picked up the children and returned them to their mother in Roselle and went back to work. He drove the Explorer. The children's mother drove the Jeep and the Odyssey.

Petitioner's primary residence was on Hawthorne Avenue in Union. He moved to the Vauxhall Road, Union address in March 2019. If someone is looking in the driveway of the Vauxhall Road address, the yard cannot be seen. He enters and exits through the rear door at the Vauxhall Road address. When he leaves the Vauxhall Road address, he sees the crossing guard coming on duty. He signed the lease for the Vauxhall Road address on March 1, 2019.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In light of the contradictory testimony presented by respondent's witness and petitioner, the resolution of this matter requires that I make credibility determinations with regard to the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witness's testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 60 N.J. 546 (1974); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness even though not contradicted when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521-22 (1950); see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND Hodge to be credible. He was truthful and accurate. He testified clearly and directly. He did not have a bias against petitioner. I found M.B. to be less credible. He testified that the children could not stay at the Hawthorne Avenue address due to family issues, but he later testified that the children did live at the Hawthorne Avenue address. He was vague on the reason that the children could not stay at the Hawthorne Avenue address. He did not expound on what the family issues were for the children not living at the Hawthorne Avenue address.

Based on the credible testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND the following as FACTS in this matter:

Petitioner M.B. is the father of M.B and D.B. During the 2017-2018 school year a residency investigation was commenced to determine if M.B and D.B. lived at the Hawthorne Avenue address in Union. The Board believed that the children lived in Roselle. A hearing was held before the Board on April 10, 2018. At that meeting the Board allowed the children to remain in school for the remainder of the school year.

M.B. primarily drove a Ford Explorer. The children's mother drove a Honda Odyssey or a Jeep. On various dated in July 2019, Hodge saw the Odyssey parked in Roselle. On August 1, 2018, August 8, 2018, and August 22, 2018, Hodge saw the Explorer parked in front of the Hawthorne Avenue address in Union. He did not see the children on any of the July or August surveillances.

On September 4, 2018, and September 10, 2018, Hodge saw the Odyssey parked in Roselle at 7:30 a.m. On September 11, 2018, and September 12, 2018, Hodge saw petitioner drive the children to school from Roselle at 7:30 a.m. and 7:45 a.m. On September 12, 2018, the children's mother picked them up from school and drove them to Roselle. On September 13, 2018, Hodge saw the children in Roselle at approximately 8:15 a.m. The car was parked in a lot near the Roselle address. On September 14, 2018, September 15, 2018, and September 18, 2018, Hodge saw the children enter the Explorer in Roselle at approximately 8:20 a.m. On September 20, 2018, the Odyssey and Explorer were seen at the Roselle address at 8:15 a.m. The children were taken to school at 8:45 a.m. in the Explorer. On September 21, 2018, the Explorer picked the children up from school and took them to Roselle. On September 24, 2018, the Explorer was seen at the Hawthorne address at 6:45 a.m. It was seen at the Roselle address at 7:30 a.m. The children were taken to school on September 25, 2018, from Roselle. On the same date the children were picked up from school and taken to the Roselle address. On September 26, 2018, the Explorer and Odyssey were at the Roselle address at 8:00 a.m. The children were taken to school in the Explorer from Roselle. They were picked up after school and taken to Roselle. Hodge never saw the children at the Hawthorne Avenue, Union address. There was no surveillance from September 27, 2018, to March 2019.

On or about October 29, 2018, petitioner received a letter from the Board stating that the children do not reside in the district because they reside with him in Roselle. The letter stated that the children would be removed from the district on November 7, 2018. Petitioner appealed the Board's residency decision on or about November 6, 2018. A residency hearing was scheduled for December 11, 2018. On January 3, 2019, the Board determined that the children no longer reside in Union, therefore they are not eligible to attend school in Union. Petitioner filed an appeal on January 23, 2019. On March 15, 2019, signed a one-year lease starting on April 1, 2019, to March 31, 2019, for property located on Vauxhall Road in Union.

In March 2019 petitioner informed the Board that they moved to Vauxhall Road in Union. Hodge did not see the Odyssey or the Explorer at the Vauxhall Road address until May 2, 2019. At that time Hodge questioned the crossing guard on Vauxhall road, who stated that he had not seen any grammar-school-aged children coming out of the residence. On May 7, 2019, Hodge knocked on the door of the Vauxhall Road residence at 7:00 p.m. There was no answer. He went by at 10:00 p.m. and the house was dark. On May 8, 2019, at 7:00 p.m. there was a box truck with the words Brother's Furniture on its side in the driveway at the Vauxhall Road address. The front door was open and there were people inside.

On May 13, 2019, May 14, 2019, and May 15, 2019, no cars were at the Vauxhall Road address in the morning. On May 16, 2019, at 7:50 a.m. Hodge again questioned the crossing guard, who stated that he had seen high school children coming out of the Vauxhall Road residence, but he believes that they moved. On May 17, 2019, Hodge knocked on the door of the Vauxhall residence at 7:00 p.m. and there was no answer. A college-age neighbor told him that the premises were vacant.

On May 20, 2019, Hodge saw petitioner cutting the grass at the Vauxhall Road address. On May 21, 2019, Hodge saw the jeep at the Roselle address in the morning. On May 22, 2019, there were no cars at the Vauxhall residence at 6:00 p.m. On May 23, 2019, the jeep was parked in Roselle at 7:00 a.m. On May 25, 2019, Hodge went past the Vauxhall Road address five different times and no cars were parked at the address.

On May 28, 2019, the Jeep and the Explorer were parked in Roselle at 7:00 a.m. At 8:15 a.m. the students came out of the Roselle address. At 2:45 p.m. Hodge went to the Vauxhall Road address and knocked on the door, but there was no answer. On May 29, 2019, Hodge saw the Jeep and Explorer parked at the Roselle address at 7:00 a.m. At 8:15 a.m. the children entered the Explorer in Roselle at 3:00 p.m. the children were picked up from school in the Explorer and taken to Roselle. On May 30, 2019, the Jeep and the Explorer were seen at Roselle at 7:30 a.m. At 8:20 a.m. the children came out of the Roselle address and entered the Explorer.

Hodge never saw the children at either Union address. He saw the children at the Roselle address. Hodge never saw the petitioner drive any car other than the Explorer. The Odyssey was driven by the children's mother. Hodge had driven by the Hawthorne Avenue address as late as 10:00 p.m. and did not see the Explorer.

M.B. testified that the children did not stay at the Hawthorne Avenue address because of a family issue. He did not address the substance of the family issue and why the children could not live at Hawthorne Avenue address. He also stated that his and the children's residence was at Hawthorne Avenue prior to moving to Vauxhall Road. He stated that he took title to the Vauxhall property on March 1, 2019. He also stated new furniture for the children was purchased for the children. Although he states that he took title to the premises on March 1, 2019, the lease has the April 1, 2019, as the beginning of the lease.

The daily rate for tuition for M.B. for the 2018-2019 school year was $77.91. The yearly rate for M.B.'s tuition for 2018-2019 was $14,023. The daily rate for tuition for D.B. for the 2018-2019 school year was $77.91. The yearly rate for D.B.'s tuition for 2018-2019 was $14,023.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. ex rel. minor child E.Y. v. Board of Educ. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001).

Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

In this matter, petitioner provided no documentation that he resided at the Hawthorne Avenue address. There were no bills addressed to him at that address, he did not provide a copy of his driver's license with the Hawthorne Avenue address. In addition, petitioner stated that he the children resided at the Hawthorne Avenue address yet testified that the children could not stay at the Hawthorne Avenue address because of a family issue. The family issue was never explained in any terms other than there was a family issue. Hodge saw the children on numerous occasions leave from the Roselle address.

The children were never seen at the Vauxhall Road address from March 2019 when the lease was signed through May 30, 2019. On two occasions in May 2019, Hodge knocked on the door of the Vauxhall address at 7 p.m. and there was no answer. On two occasions in May 2019, Hodge drove by the Vauxhall Road address at 10:00 p.m. and there were no lights on in the house. Hodge never saw the children at the Vauxhall Road address in May 2019, but he did see them at the Roselle address in May 2019.

The daily rate for tuition for M.B. for the 2018-2019 school year was $77.91. The yearly rate for M.B.'s tuition for 2018-2019 was $14,023. The daily rate for tuition for D.B. for the 2018-2019 school year was $77.91. The yearly rate for D.B.'s tuition for 2018-2019 was $14,023.

The Board asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the 2018-2019 school year for M.B and D.B.'s ineligible enrollment. Whereas here, the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b) likewise requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners were not a domiciliary in the Union School District for the 2018-2019 school year and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of tuition in the amount of $14,023 for M.B. and $14,023 for D.B. for a total of $28,046.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and her children were not residents and domiciliary in Union, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within its school district during the 2018-2019 school year is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent be reimbursed tuition from petitioner in the amount of $28,046.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Synopsis

Petitioner appealed a suspension without pay imposed by the respondent Board. Petitioner was charged with the disorderly persons offense of possession of hashish and was suspended by the Board with pay. Following petitioner's receipt of a six-month conditional discharge, the Board changed the suspension to one without pay.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: no genuine issues of material facts existed, and the matter was ripe for summary decision; N.J.SA. 18A:6-8.3 provides that tenured employees may be suspended without pay only if they are indicted or if tenure charges have been certified against them; and petitioner had not been indicted and the Board had not certified tenure charges against him. The ALJ concluded that the suspension without pay was in contravention of N.J.SA. 18A:6-8.3. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision and ordered the Board to reinstate petitioner's suspension with pay.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusion. The Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In February 2019, petitioner Klein,[1] a special education teacher, was charged with the disorderly persons offense of possession of hashish and suspended with pay by the Board. In May 2019, after Klein received a six-month conditional discharge that did not require him to plead guilty, the Board changed his suspension to one without pay. The ALJ found that under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, a tenured employee may be suspended without pay only if the employee was indicted or if tenure charges were certified against him. Neither of those circumstances were present here, so the ALJ found that the suspension without pay was improper.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that, in the absence of tenure charges or an indictment, the Board was not permitted to suspend Klein without pay. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. The Board is directed to reinstate Klein's suspension with pay, retroactive to May 2, 2019.

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners, Jeffrey Klein (Klein), and Michelle Owens, allege that respondent, Board of Education of the Passaic County Technical Institute, (PCTI), decision to suspend them without pay is in violation of their respective tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Klein filed his Verified Petition (Petition) with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education (Commissioner), on May 10, 2019, contesting PCTI's decision to suspend him without pay on May 2, 2019. Owens filed her Petition with the Commissioner on June 21, 2019, contesting PCTI's decision to suspend her without pay on June 14, 2019. PCTI filed an Answer to Klein's Petition with the Commissioner on June 17, 2019, and PCTI filed an Answer to Owens' Petition with the Commissioner on June 24, 2019.

The two matters were transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), as a contested cases under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, as follows: Klein's matter was filed on June 27, 2019, and Owens' matter was filed on August 7, 2019. Thereafter, on September 17, 2019, an Order of Consolidation was entered.

On August 23, 2019, Klein filed a motion for summary decision. On October 3, 2019, PCTI filed its opposition to Klein's motion for summary decision, and on October 9, 2019, Klein filed a reply to PCTI's opposition.

On September 19, 2019, Owens' filed her motion for summary decision, and on September 26, 2019, Owens withdrew her Petition pursuant to an agreement with PCTI and her motion for summary decision was withdrawn.

On January 29, 2020, oral argument was held, at which time the record closed.

DISCUSION

The following facts are undisputed, and I FIND them to be FACTS of this case:

Klein was hired by PCTI as a special education teacher in 2007 and received tenure in 2011. On February 9, 2019, Klein was charged with possession of hashish under 5 grams. This was in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10a (4), a disorderly persons offense. As a result of the charge and arrest, PCTI suspended Klein with pay on February 11, 2019.

On April 29, 2019, Klein appeared in municipal court on the disorderly persons offense and received a six-months conditional discharge under. N.J.S.A. 2C:36A-1 On May 2, 2019, the Board changed the suspension from with pay to without pay, as a result of Klein entering into conditional discharge. Klein has not been indicted nor has he been notified of tenure charges against him.

The conditional discharge concluded on October 31, 2019, at which time the original charge of N.J.S.A. 2C:35-10a (4), would be dismissed, provided Klein complied with the terms of his conditional discharge. [1] As part of his conditional discharge, Klein was not required to enter a guilty plea, but did have to pay mandatory fines and assessments.

Klein seeks relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c) which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

[1] During oral argument on January 29, 2020, counsel for Klein represented that Klein had complied with the terms of his conditional discharge and the underlying misdemeanor charge was dismissed.

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary judgment requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have held that the "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 252. Conversely, it is critical that a favorable ruling on a summary judgment motion not "shut a deserving litigant from his [or her] trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 77 (1954).

No genuine issues of material fact exist in this case. For the reasons set forth in greater detail below, Klein is entitled to summary decision ordering his suspension be with pay and awarding back pay. As the underlying facts are not in dispute in this matter, the fundamental issue to be decided is whether Klein's suspension without pay is proper, and whether he is entitled to backpay.

The relevant statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, provides:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in Chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement . . . "
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3].

Klein moves for summary decision claiming that he should be placed on suspension with pay and additionally, that he is entitled to back pay for the period he has been suspended without pay. In support of his argument, he relies on a variety of cases; the most decisive is the seminal case of Slater v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Reg. High Sch. Dist., 237 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1989). In Slater, a tenured school employee was arrested for the sale of marijuana. He was immediately suspended without pay. Months later, he was indicted and convicted, which led to his forfeiture of employment. The court held that "a tenured employee may be suspended without pay only if indicted or if tenure charges have been preferred and certified to the Commissioner of Education. In all other circumstances, a suspension must be with pay." Id. at 246. Further, since the employee was not indicted at the time of suspension, nor were tenure charges certified against him, the suspension should have been with pay up until he was indicted. Accordingly, the court remanded for entry of an order requiring backpay to the date of indictment.

PCTI contends that Klein behaved inappropriately and that his possession of hashish in addition to improperly securing his illicit drugs amounts to conduct unbecoming of a teacher.[2] However, the appropriateness of Klein's conduct is not the dispositive issue. In fact, it is well settled law that a tenured school employee may be suspended without pay only if indicted or if tenure charges were certified [emphasis supplied], neither scenario which exists herein. Furthermore, PCTI relies on In the Matter of Tenure Charges of Brenda Bruni (No. 207-9/17) (February 9, 2018), where a "teacher inter alia had drug charges that were dismissed, and a two-month suspension without pay was imposed" to support the assertion that withholding Klein's salary is proper during this probationary period. [3] The Bruni decision is distinguishable herein as Bruni was suspended with pay for several months pending investigation. Before her penalty of suspension without pay was levied, tenure charges were brought against her [emphasis supplied].

[2] PCTI refers to an alleged incident where a fourteen-year-old classmate of Klein's daughter received a marijuana edible and began vomiting.
[3] PTCI, Br. at 5

In the present matter, Klein is a tenured employee. He has not been indicted and tenure charges have not been certified against him. While he was arrested and charged with a misdemeanor drug offense, he entered a conditional discharge term that did not require him to plead guilty. Conditional discharge in misdemeanor drug offenses is set forth in N.J.S.A. 2C:36A-1, which states in pertinent part:

> Whenever any person who has not previously been convicted of any offense under section 20 of P.L.1970, c.226 (C.24:21-20), or a disorderly persons or petty disorderly persons offense defined in chapter 35 or 36 of this title . . . . and who has not previously participated in a program of supervisory treatment . . . or conditional dismissal . . .or a Veterans Diversion Program . . . is charged with or convicted of any disorderly persons offense or petty disorderly persons offense under chapter 35 or 36 of this title, the court upon notice to the prosecutor and subject to subsection c. of this section, may on motion of the defendant or the court:
> (1) Suspend further proceedings and with the consent of the person after reference to the State Bureau of Identification criminal history record information files, place him under supervisory treatment upon such reasonable terms and conditions as it may require; or
> (2) After a plea of guilty or finding of guilty, and without entering a judgment of conviction, and with the consent of the person after proper reference to the State Bureau of Identification criminal history record information files, place him on supervisory treatment upon reasonable terms and conditions as it may require, or as otherwise provided by law.

A guilty plea is not required under N.J.S.A. 2C:36A-1, in every case, and it was not required of Klein when he entered into his conditional discharge for a six-month term. In addition, PCTI has not certified tenure charges against Klein for his conduct. As such, I CONCLUDE that Klein's initial suspension with pay was appropriate under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and should not have been converted to a suspension without pay.

In addition, I CONCLUDE that since Klein was neither indicted nor facing tenure charges, he is entitled to backpay commencing May 2, 2019 when his penalty was modified to suspension without pay. I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Robert G. Morton, EDU 0253-97, Initial Decision (06/11/99), adopted, Comm'r (07/30/99) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/ search.html>. In Morton, a tenured teacher was indicted on numerous drug offenses, to which he pled guilty and was sentenced to probation. Thereafter, Morton was suspended without pay for one month before tenure charges were certified against him. He was eventually granted backpay for the time between his conviction and the certification of his tenure charges.

Also, in Adrian McConney v. Twp of Piscataway Bd. of Educ. Middlesex Cty, EDU 0576 (2017), McConney was a tenured teacher who was indicted on "official misconduct" charges. He was subsequently suspended without pay. The indictment was eventually dismissed and McConney was placed on payroll a month after. The court in McConney grants him backpay for the month between the dismissal of his indictment and his reinstatement on payroll.

Accordingly, Klein's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and PCTI's opposition to said motion is DENIED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Klein's motion for summary decision that PCTI's decision to suspend him without pay since May 2, 2019, is in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, is GRANTED.

It is hereby further ORDERED that since Klein was neither indicted nor facing tenure charges, he is entitled to backpay commencing May 2, 2019, when PCTI modified Klein's suspension from with pay to a suspension without pay, and it is hereby further ORDERED that PCTI is to reinstate Klein's suspension with pay retroactive to May 2, 2019.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Final Decision

South Harrison Township Education Association,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of South Harrison, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner, the South Harrison Township Education Association (Association), filed a petition of appeal against the respondent Board for violations arising under the school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, violation of Board policy, and arbitrary and capricious conduct for improperly withholding wages from Heidi Wagner, a former Association member who retired on January 1, 2019. The Association contended that the Board unilaterally changed the terms of Wagner's employment to a per diem employee in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6 and reduced the salary of a tenured employee in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The Board maintained that the retired teacher received an appropriately pro-rated final paycheck based on the number of days she worked prior to her retirement. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the issue in this matter is whether the Board's action in deduction $1,146.86 from the final paycheck of a retiring teacher constituted a reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that teachers who are under tenure shall not have their compensation reduced except for inefficiency, incapacity or unbecoming conduct; N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3) provides that salary payments must be made in equal semi-monthly installments; and the Board's policy did not provide any basis for prorating Wagner's final paycheck. The ALJ concluded that the Board's recalculation of Wagner's semi-monthly salary by deducting $1,146.86 to reflect a per diem basis of pay constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3), N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision to petitioner.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions as thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Commissioner ordered the Board to compensate Wagner for the difference between her full semi-monthly salary and what she received in her final paycheck.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

South Harrison Township
Education Association,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of South Harrison, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

In this matter, the South Harrison Township Education Association represents the interests of its member, Heidi Wagner, who had been employed by the Board as an elementary school teacher for thirty years. In August 2018, the Board approved Wagner's notice of retirement, effective January 1, 2019. From September 2018 to the first pay period of December 2018, petitioner received her salary of $76,594 in semi-monthly installments of $3,829.70. For the final paycheck in the second pay period of December 2018, the Board deducted $1,146.86 from Wagner's paycheck and indicated that her salary had been prorated based on the number of days she had actually worked, relying upon a Board policy that authorizes the withholding of salary or wages for services not provided.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board improperly reduced Wagner's salary in violation of her tenure rights. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3), teacher salaries, including those of tenured teachers and teachers who work less than a full year, must be calculated on the basis of monthly or semi-monthly pay periods. See Tucker v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Montgomery, Somerset Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 277-05 (decided August 3, 2005). The Board is therefore precluded from adjusting the contracted salary installment for a teacher not on leave status who has worked each day during the period that teaching staff members were required to report to work. Ibid. The Commissioner reiterates the ALJ's statement in the Initial Decision that there is nothing discretionary or ambiguous about N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3). There is no indication in the record that Wagner failed to report to work on any day that schools were in session during the second pay period of December 2018.[1] The Board's decision to reduce her salary is therefore a violation of her protection against reduction in compensation under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is directed to compensate Heidi Wagner for the $1,146.86 difference between the salary payment she was owed for the second pay period of December 2018 and what she actually received, together with such additional pension contributions as are necessitated by this action.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: March 17, 2020

[1] The ALJ found that, for this reason, the Board could not use its policy regarding "services not rendered" as justification for withholding earned wages. While the Commissioner bases this decision on the Board's statutory obligations, which the Board cannot abrogate through its policy, the Commissioner also concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the policy does not provide sufficient justification for the Board's decision.

Record Closed: February 12, 2020 Decided: February 20, 2020

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, South Harrison Township Education Association (petitioner or Association), filed a petition of appeal against the South Harrison Township Board of Education, Gloucester County (respondent or Board) for violations arising under school laws pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, violation of Board policy, and arbitrary and capricious conduct for improperly withholding wages from a former Association member who retired on January 1, 2019. The Board maintained that the retired teacher received an appropriately prorated final paycheck based on the number of days she worked prior to her retirement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arose with the Association's March 21, 2019, filing of its petition of appeal with the Office of the Commissioner of Education. On April 10, 2019, the Board filed a notice of motion to dismiss the petition in lieu of answer or, in the alternative, to compel arbitration. The Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administration Law (OAL) where it was filed on April 18, 2019.

By Order, dated August 20, 2019, I denied the Board's motion to dismiss and scheduled the matter for a telephone conference. During the telephone conference, the parties agreed that there were no material facts in dispute and the matter could be resolved summarily. On December 4, 2019, I received the Association's brief and certification in support of its motion for summary decision. On January 8, 2020, I received the Board's opposition, cross-motion for summary decision, and supporting certification. On January 27, 2020, I received the Association's letter brief in reply. On February 12, 2020, I received the Board's letter brief in reply to the Association's opposition. Thereafter, I closed the record.

ISSUES PRESENTED

The petition raises the following issues for determination:

1. Whether the Board's action in deducting $1,146.86 from the final paycheck of a retiring tenured teacher constituted a reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10?

2. Whether the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable, when it prorated the final paycheck of a tenured teacher who retired on January 1, 2019, to reflect the actual number of days she worked?

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts pertinent to the cross-motions for summary decision are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

On July 1, 2017, the Association and the Board entered into a Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA), effective July 1, 2017 through June 30, 2020. Certification of Cosmas P. Diamantis, Esquire (CPD Cert.), Exhibit 2.

Heidi Wagner (Wagner) was employed with the South Harrison School District (District) for thirty years as an elementary school teacher and was a member of the Association. At the Board's August 20, 2018 meeting, the Board approved Wagner's notice of retirement, effective January 1, 2019. Wagner's last day of work was December 31, 2018.

The CBA, at Article 11 (B) (1), provides for teachers employed on a ten-month basis to be paid in twenty equal semi-monthly installments. (CPD Cert, Exhibit 2.) Wagner's salary for the 2018-2019 school year was $76,594, as set forth in the CBA. Id. Starting in September 2018, and continuing through the first pay period in December 2018, Wagner received $3,829.70 in semi-monthly installments. Rather that receiving her semi-monthly installment for the second pay period in December 2018, Wagner received a paycheck that was $1,146.86 less than the $3,829.70 she had been receiving since September 2018.

On behalf of Wagner, the Association filed a grievance requesting that the "docked" pay of $1,146.86 be returned to Wagner. (CPD Cert., Exhibit 1 at B.)

In a letter, dated February 12, 2019, Dr. James J. Lavender, (Lavender), Superintendent of Schools, denied the Association's request to reimburse Wagner the money that had been deducted from her last paycheck. (CPD Cert., Exhibit 1 at C.) His written response was as follows:

> Mrs. Wagner was employed and provided a salary based on a complete contract year of 187 days. However, Mrs. Wagner worked 72 days during the 2018-2019 school year, constituting an early separation from her contract. Therefore, Mrs. Wagner's salary was prorated based on the number of days she actually worked. In Mrs. Wagner's case, her annual salary was $76,595. By dividing 187 contract days into her salary, Mrs. Wagner's daily rate of pay was equal to $409.59. To prorate her salary correctly, the payroll administrator multiplied her daily rate by the number of days she worked.

The Board calculated Wagner's entitlement based on the 72 days she worked against the 187 contract days in the school year. Public holidays and other school closures from the first full staff day of school on September 4, 2018 through December 31, 2018, were not included in the Board's prorated calculation. According to the 2018-2019 South Harrison school calendar, the teachers had 72 working days from September 4, 2018 through December 31, 2018. The school was closed to both students and staff for 13 days: November 5, 2018 through November 9, 2018; November 22 and 23, 2018; and December 24, 2018 through December 31, 2018. (CPD Cert., Exhibit 1 at A.)

In support of its decision to prorate Wagner's wages, the Board relied upon Board Policy 6510 which authorizes withholding of salary or wages for services not provided. (CPD Cert., Exhibit 1 at D.)

The Association maintains that the Board unilaterally changed the terms of Wagner's employment to a per diem employee in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6 and reduced the salary of a tenured employee in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Summary decision may be rendered in an administrative proceeding if the pleadings, discovery and affidavits "show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The standard to be applied in deciding a motion pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) is essentially the same as that governing a motion under R. 4:46-2 for summary judgment in civil litigation. Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121, (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996).

A court should grant summary judgment when the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 528-529 (1995). The Supreme Court of New Jersey has adopted a standard that requires judges to "engage in an analytical process to decide whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533.

A court should deny a motion for summary decision when the party opposing the motion has produced evidence that creates a genuine issue as to any material fact challenged. Brill, 142 N.J. at 528-29. When making a summary decision, the "judge's function is not to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Id. at 540.

Here, the parties agree that there are no material issues of fact in dispute, and both have filed cross-motions for summary decision. After careful review of the record, I am satisfied that the material facts giving rise to this matter are not in dispute and that this matter can be decided as a matter of law. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that it is appropriate to decide this matter by way of summary decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18 defines the conditions under which teaching staff members are entitled to the security of tenure. Tenure is a "statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment status." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962), certif. denied, 371 U.S. 956 (1963). These statutory provisions supersede contractual terms. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). They are "designed to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording to principals and teachers a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service." Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949).

Wagner's claim springs from N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which provides as follows:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> > (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state, or
> >
> > . . . .
> except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Similarly, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that teachers who are under tenure shall not have their compensation reduced except for inefficiency, incapacity, or unbecoming conduct.

Wagner was a tenured teacher with thirty years' experience. At its August 20, 2018 meeting, the Board approved Wagner's notice of retirement, effective January 1, 2019. At the start of the 2018-2019 school year, Wagner's salary was $76,594. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3), Wagner was required to be paid in equal semimonthly or monthly installments. As stated, Wagner was paid in semimonthly installments through the first installment in December 2018. Without prior notification, Wagner's paycheck for the second installment in December 2018, was reduced by $1,146.86.

Without addressing the requirement set forth in N.J.S.A 18A:27-6(3) that a teacher's salary be payable in equal semimonthly installments, the Board maintained that Wagner was appropriately paid for services rendered in accordance with Board Policy, 6510, Payroll Authorization. (CPD Cert., Exhibit 1 at C.) The Board relied on one sentence in the policy which states that "[t]he School Business Administrator/Board Secretary is authorized to withhold salary or wages for services not rendered, in accordance with Board policy." The next sentence in the policy states that "[s]taff members shall be paid in accordance with the provision in their collective bargaining agreement and/or in accordance with a schedule provided to all employees prior to the beginning of the contract or school year." There is nothing in the record to suggest that Wagner failed to perform teaching services on each day that school was in session from the beginning of the school year until December 31, 2018. The Board never articulated what services Wagner failed to render. The Board is attempting to use Board Policy 6510 as justification for changing the terms of Wagner's contract of employment from a salary paid on equal installments to per diem. Without articulating which services Wagner failed to render, the Board cannot use this policy as a justification for withholding earned wages. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Board Policy 6510 did not provide any basis for the Board's action in prorating Wagner's final paycheck.

The Board simply ignored the statutory language requiring salary payments to be paid in equal semimonthly installments. There is nothing discretionary or ambiguous about N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3) and its requirement. The Board did not maintain that its prior installment payments of $3,829.70 were in error. Rather, the Board maintained that its actions were justified because of Wagner's early termination from her contract. Yet, the Board approved Wagner's retirement date in August 2018, and issued semimonthly installment payments based on her contract amount for the next three and one-half months. In contradiction to the Board's argument, Wagner was paid her full salary installments for the month of November 2018, when there were only fifteen teaching days. Wagner received her full contractual pay for each month that she worked until her last payment when she was docked for the days when school was not in service.

To accept the Board's reasoning would lead to illogical results. Would a tenured teacher who had to resign mid-year for health or personal reasons be required to pay back the money she already earned? The Board's actions herein, interfered with Wagner's earned contractual rights not a prospective right. Consequently, the Board's reliance on New Jersey Ass'n of Sch Adm'rs v. Schundler, 211 N.J. 353 (2012), is unfounded. In Schundler, the New Jersey Supreme Court reiterated a well settled principal that the Legislature and the Commissioner of Education may enact prospective legislation that modifies the terms and conditions of public service. Such reasoning has no bearing on the Board's actions herein. The Board's decision affected Wagner's contractual right to her earned salary. This modification to her existing salary did not stem from a policy, was not negotiated through a collective bargaining agreement, and cannot be justified under exiting law.

The Legislature made the policy decision to limit how compensation could be reduced when it enacted the tenure statutes. N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5 provides that tenured teachers during good behavior and efficiency, shall not have their compensation reduced without just cause. Likewise, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that a tenured teacher's compensation shall not be reduced during good behavior and efficiency.

As sited by the Association, the Commissioner of Education reviewed a similar issue in the matter of Diane M. Tucker, Petitioner, v. Board of Education of Montgomery Township, Somerset County, Respondent, 234-7/03, 2005 WL 1794528 (N.J. Adm. June 20, 2005). In Tucker, the Commissioner of Education adopted the initial decision and concurred with the ALJ that the applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, required that teachers' salaries, including those of tenured teachers and teachers who work less that a full year, be calculated on the basis of monthly or semimonthly pay periods. The Board of Education of Montgomery Township had recalculated Mrs. Tucker's semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis which caused her to suffer a reduction in compensation. The issue in Tucker was not retirement but maternity leave, however, the reasoning by the ALJ and the Commissioner is illustrative. With Board approval, Ms. Tucker had structured her maternity leave so that she would return to work on April 16, 2003, the first day of the pay period and the day before spring recess. Following the school recess, Ms. Tucker returned to work on April 28, 2003, for the last three days of the pay period. Consequently, Ms. Tucker worked every single day the school was open. The ALJ concluded that the Board's recalculation of Ms. Tucker's semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis by failing to pay her for the spring recess constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The Commissioner of Education agreed. The Commissioner ordered the Board to pay Ms. Tucker $1,310.40, representing the difference between the salary payment she was owed and what she received on a per diem basis. Further, the Commissioner stated that N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6(3) precludes a board from adjusting the contracted salary installment for a teacher who has worked each day during the period that teaching staff members were required to report to work. There is no difference between what the Board attempted to do in Tucker and what the Board is attempting to do herein. Wagner worked each day from the start of the school year until December 31, 2018, that teaching staff members were required to work and she should be compensated accordingly. The Board adjusted her salary while she was still employed so the argument that Wagner was in the process of retiring is of no import.

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that the Board's recalculation of Wagner's semi-monthly salary by deducting $1,146.86 to reflect a per diem basis of pay constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10. I further CONCLUDE that Wagner was entitled to receive her full semi-monthly salary of $3,829.70 for the second pay period in December 2018.

The Board's actions in unilaterally converting Wagner's salary from equal semimonthly installments to a per diem rate of pay violated N.J.S.A. 18A-27-6(3) and constituted an improper reduction in compensation in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10. In this instance, I CONCLUDE that the Board's actions were arbitrary and capricious. The Board acted to reduce a retiring tenured teacher's salary without any basis in law, policy, or agreement.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board's recalculation of Wagner's semi-monthly salary on a per diem basis constituted an improper reduction in compensation and must be overturned.

CONCLUSION

The Association's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the Board's cross-motion for summary decision is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter, the proposed Settlement Agreement and Release of Claims (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In doing so, however, the Commissioner notes that Paragraph 3 of the Agreement makes reference to an action that was to take place in a time frame that preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms or have agreed upon a mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the terms of the Agreement. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

OFFICE OF ADMIN LAW

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement") has been stipulated to and agreed upon by and between Deborah Moore individually, and the Hamilton Township School District (the "Board" or "District") as a resolution to a controversy submitted in the form of a due process petition that was filed before the Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes, and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing captioned under OAL Docket Number EDU 20771 - 16 / Agency Ref. No.: 15-1/16 (Petitioner, and the Board, hereinafter the "Parties").

This Agreement is the written form of the material terms of the agreement between the parties to resolve any and all disputes founded in the referenced Petition, and all other issues between the parties from the beginning of time through the date of this Agreement.

1. The District agrees to resolve the instant litigation, including all claims ever brought by the Petitioner against the Respondent, by payment of nineteen thousand dollars ($~~$19,000~~.00) to the Petitioner, Deborah Moore.

2. In consideration of the payment made to Petitioner, Deborah Moore, she agrees to the dismissal with prejudice of the instant litigation, and the terms of the release and settlement agreement set forth herein

3. Payment of the settlement funds referenced in paragraph 19 will take place after the Board of Education ratifies this agreement at its next regularly scheduled Board of Education meeting. This agreement is made without prejudice to either party should the Board reject the contents of the agreement.
4. The settlement check will be forwarded by the District to the Petitioner and will include in the memo portion of the check "settlement of litigation."
5. The Parties waive and release any claims they may have including but not limited to bodily injury, personal injury, sick time, accrued vacation time, any other wage loss or other loss stemming from her employment with the Hamilton Township Board of Education from the beginning of time until the date of the execution of this agreement by all parties.
6. This Agreement is made without any admission of liability or responsibility by any Party hereto and shall not be construed as an admission by the District that its actions were not at all times appropriate.
7. The parties agree they are responsible for their own attorney' fees and legal expenses. The parties agree there is to be no prevailing party or other attorney's fee claim made in reference to this matter.

8. Liens. It is further understood that as a condition of the settlement, all claims and/or liens, past, current and/or future arising out of the settlement or asserted against the proceeds of the settlement are to be satisfied by Releasor and/or their Attorneys, including but not limited to any Medicare or Medicaid claims and/or liens, Worker's Compensation claims and/or liens, Social Security claims and/or liens, hospital/healthcare insurer claims and/or liens, physician or attorney claims and/or liens, or any of the statutory, equitable, common law or judgment claims and/or liens, including but not limited to claim based on subrogation or any other legal or equitable theory. Releasor(s) therefore agrees, upon prompt presentation of any such claims and/or liens, to defend Releasees against any such claims and/or liens, and to indemnify and hold Releasees harmless against any judgment entered against Releasees based on such claims and/or liens, including the payment of any fines, charges and attorneys fees incurred as a result of any such lien. Failure to satisfy any such lien shall be considered a breach of the Agreement and Releasor(s) and their Attorneys agree to pay all costs, interest and attorneys fees relative to any such lien.

9. The Parties acknowledge they have read and understand the terms of this Agreement, and that they are entering into this Agreement knowingly, freely, voluntarily, without coercion and not under the influence of anything or anyone.

10. Petitioner represents she has the sole authority to enter into this Agreement on her behalf.

11. This Agreement shall be interpreted, enforced, and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The language of all parts of this Agreement shall in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning, and not strictly for or against any of the Parties.

12. This Agreement may only be amended in writing by way of a document signed by all Parties.

Record Closed: January 31, 2020 Decided: February 28, 2020

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a Petition with the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes on October 24, 2019. Respondent, Board of Trustees of the Achieve Community Charter School (respondent or Board) filed a Motion to Dismiss In Lieu of an Answer on December 5, 2019. The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 10, 2019 as a contested case.

A prehearing conference was held on January 15, 2020, at which time a briefing schedule was established to allow petitioner an opportunity to file an opposition to the respondent's Motion to Dismiss. During the prehearing conference, petitioner was given until January 24, 2020 to file an opposition to respondent's Motion to Dismiss. While he was offered additional time to file an opposition, he declined and insisted on the January 24, 2020 deadline. Respondent was given until January 31, 2020 to file a reply to any opposition to the motion. As of the date this order was signed, petitioner has not filed an opposition to the respondent's Motion to Dismiss and never contacted the undersigned to request additional time to file an opposition.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer seeking to dismiss the Petition on the basis that the Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction to address petitioner's claims.

Petitioner's son, T.D., is a student at Achieve Community Charter School (Achieve). Petitioner alleges that the Board improperly filed in T.D.'s school record a custody order dated April 17, 2019. According to respondent, this custody order was provided to the Board by T.D.'s mother, D.Q. Petitioner essentially alleges in the Petition that respondent improperly filed the custody order in T.D.'s school record "without due process and not with probable cause." The Petition asserts that the respondent's handling of the child custody order (referenced in the petition as "a petition") violates "New Jersey State and Supreme Law 18 U.S.C. § 241 as well as NJ Judiciary Rules of court." The Petition also appears to allege that the custody order is invalid and "excluded validated proof of registry of a certified issuance of a lawful judicial order furnished and stamped by an Essex County New Jersey clerk, a court issued affidavit signed by an Hon. Essex County Superior Court Judge in Support of such issuance in a court of record to be used after due process of law as probable cause for filing of such a claim."

The April 17, 2019 custody order attached to respondent's motion was signed by a New Jersey Superior Court Judge and reads in part: "NF shall not remove minor child from school or after school program without the consent of NM. NM shall notify the school on the day that NF can pick-up or remove the minor child from school."[1] The Order indicates that petitioner did not present to the hearing that resulted in the Order but was properly notified.

Respondent moves to dismiss this Petition on the basis that the Commissioner of Education lacks jurisdiction over this matter because the school laws do not bestow on the Commissioner authority to decide child custody matters, or to enforce child custody orders, and petitioner's claim is that the Board is not correctly complying with a child custody order. Moreover, the Board does not have the authority to disregard a custody order that is valid on its face, and the Commissioner does not have the authority to enforce or amend an order issued by the Superior Court. Respondent, therefore, asserts that the Petition should be dismissed.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 3:1.10 provides, in relevant part:

> At any time prior to transmittal of the pleadings to the OAL, in the Commissioner's discretion or upon motion to dismiss filed in lieu of answer, the Commissioner may dismiss the petition on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason. Id.

"To exercise jurisdiction over a dispute, an administrative agency must have specific legislative authority." Dolan v. Centuolo, Nos. A-2470-10T4, A-2710-10T4, at *11 (App. Div. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner of Education

[1] Respondent maintains that NF refers to petitioner and NM refers to the student's mother, D.Q. A copy of the custody order was attached to respondent's Motion to Dismiss.

> shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioner . . .
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 (emphasis added).]

The issue here is whether the Petition advances a cause of action that falls within the Commissioner's jurisdiction if I accept petitioner's factual allegations (as expressed in the Petition) as true. Here, the Petition challenges respondent's handling of, and compliance with, a child custody order that, in part, limits his ability to pick up or remove his son, T.D., from school. The legal controversy here is not one that arises under the school law or State Board regulations, and the Petition does not cite to any school law that governs custody orders. While the Commissioner has broad authority over school-related matters, he does not have jurisdiction over child custody disputes, nor the authority to interpret, enforce, or determine the validity of child custody orders. Therefore, based on my review of the Petition, respondent's Motion to Dismiss, and applicable law, I CONCLUDE that, even if accepting as true all of petitioner's factual allegations, the Petition does not suggest any claim for which relief can be granted by the Commissioner of Education. For the foregoing reasons, I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the respondent's Motion to Dismiss should be GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's Motion to Dismiss should be GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the Petition is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

This Agreement is made by and between Petitioner, HariKrishan Lal, and the Respondent, Fair Lawn Board of Education ("Board").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on June 27, 2019, the Board determined, based on the results of a residency investigation, that minor student O.C. was not domiciled in the Fair Lawn School District ("District") and thus not entitled to a free, public education in the District. The Board passed a resolution ordering the removal of the student from the District; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner denied the Board's conclusion concerning O.C.'s residency in the District and appealed the Board's determination; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the expense, inconvenience, distractions and inherent uncertainties associated with continuation of this dispute, and the fees and expenses that inevitably would result therefrom, the Parties, by this Agreement, agree to adopt a full and final settlement of any and all claims, lawsuits, complaints, and/or disputes between Petitioner and Respondent in connection with any and all damages and losses arising from the Litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency and adequacy of which is acknowledged, the parties to this Agreement agree as follows:

1. Petitioner shall pay the Board the sum of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) in full and final settlement of all claims by the Board regarding O.C.'s eligibility for a free public education in the Fair Lawn School District.
2. The $500 payment will be made within fifteen (15) days after approval of this Agreement by the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education. Payment shall be made in the form of a check made payable to the "Fair Lawn Board of Education," hand-delivered or mailed to the office of Ms. Brooke Bartley, School Business Administrator/Board Secretary, at the District administrative offices, 37-01 Fair Lawn Avenue, Fair Lawn, New Jersey 07410.
3. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement, and in full, final, and complete settlement of the matter, hereby agrees to a withdrawal and/or dismissal, with prejudice, of the Petition of Appeal in this matter.
4. Petitioner further agrees to indemnify the Board for any and all costs, including court costs and attorneys' fees, associated with any action instituted by the Board to enforce the terms of this Agreement should Petitioner fail to make payment as required hereunder.
5. The Board agrees that, so long as Petitioner and O.C. continue to reside in Fair Lawn, O.C. will be permitted to continue attendance in the Fair Lawn School District with the full rights and privileges of a Fair Lawn Public School District student, and upon completion of graduation requirements will be eligible for a Fair Lawn High School diploma and to participate in the graduation ceremony.

6. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Fair Lawn Board of Education. If approved, the Board President and/or Business Administrator is/are fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board.

7. This Agreement is entered into for purposes of resolving contested claims and shall not constitute an admission of wrongdoing by any party.

8. This Agreement is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

9. Petitioner hereby represents that he is freely entering into this Agreement, that he was advised of his right to obtain counsel of his choosing and has knowingly waived that requirement, and that he has read and fully understand the contents of this Agreement.

10. This Settlement may be subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education. In the event that such approval is necessary, the terms of this Agreement shall not be binding until said approvals are received.

11. This Agreement shall be binding upon all parties hereto, and shall inure to the benefit of each of them, as well as their respective estates, heirs, legal representatives, successors, predecessors, parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, owners, directors, officers, shareholders, members, employees, agents and assigns.

12. This Agreement constitutes the entire understanding and agreement by the parties with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement, and there are no agreements, undertakings, restrictions, representations or warranties as between the parties other than those set forth herein. This Agreement supersedes all previous arrangements or understandings, whether written or oral, and contains the entire agreement of the parties with respect to its subject matter. This Agreement may be modified or amended only by written agreement jointly executed by the Petitioner and Respondent.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Agreement on the dates set forth below.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

N.U., on behalf of minor child, M.U.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Town of Mansfield, Burlington County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1]

This matter concerns an alleged act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB) by M.U. The Board found that M.U. had committed an act of HIB and imposed an in-school suspension. Following the presentation of petitioner's case at a hearing, the ALJ granted the Board's oral motion to dismiss.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's motion for summary decision should be granted. The Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (the Act) defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender > identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, a finding of HIB under the Act requires three elements.[2] First, the conduct must be reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic and, second, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school. The third condition is that one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act regarding the effect of the conduct must also be satisfied. Wehbeh v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Verona, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 51-20, decided February 4, 2020.

The letter to N.U. from the school's principal, which the Board affirmed in its decision, indicates that the investigation found evidence of the first element – that M.U.'s conduct was reasonably perceived as being motivated by another student's distinguishing characteristic. However, the letter does not provide any information regarding the remaining elements required to prove an act of HIB. Nor does the Initial Decision address these elements of the statute.

[2] The statute also requires that the conduct take place on school property, at a school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3. This element appears to have been satisfied in this matter.

The Commissioner is mindful that when a local board of education acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be disturbed unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). However, in the instant case, the Commissioner cannot determine whether the decision was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable based on the current record.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 16045-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. 253-9/18

N.U. ON BEHALF OF M.U.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF MANSFIELD, BURLINGTON COUNTY,
Respondent.

Megan A. Oduyela, Esq. appearing for petitioner

Marc G. Mucciolo, Esq. appearing for respondent, (Methfessel & Werbel, P.C. attorneys)

Record Closed: March 3, 2020 Decided: March 10, 2020

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, N.U. on behalf of her minor child, M.U., challenges respondent's, Board of Education of the Town of Mansfield, Burlington County (Board) Harassment Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) determination relative to M.U.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner filed a challenge of the Board's HIB determination and requested a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The matter was transmitted to the OAL on November 2, 2018, where it was filed on November 5, 2018, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The petitioner filed an amended petition with the OAL on February 21, 2019. The Board filed its answer to the amended petition on March 11, 2019. The fair hearing was conducted on March 3, 2020. At the close of the petitioner's case, counsel for the respondent made an oral motion to dismiss the petition.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The following facts of this case are not in dispute; therefore, I FIND as FACT that on December 11, 2017, M.U. was eleven years old and in the sixth grade. On that date, he approached a fellow classmate who had just gotten a haircut and said that he looked like Donald Trump. The classmate took offense to the comment and the incident was reported. A HIB investigation was conducted at it was determined that M.U.'s conduct towards his classmate constituted HIB.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Administrative Code does not provide guidelines for a motion to dismiss. However, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3, in the absence of a specific rule, an administrative law judge may proceed in accordance with the New Jersey Court Rules, provided that the rules are compatible with the matter at hand.

Pursuant to N.J. Ct. R. 4:37-2(b), the test on a motion for involuntary dismissal has been characterized as follows: whether the evidence and legitimate inferences therefrom could sustain a judgment in favor of the claimant, that is, whether reasonable minds could differ on the evidence. If so, the motion must be denied. Dolson v. Anastasia, 55 N.J. 2, 258 A.2d 706 (1969).

A motion for involuntary dismissal under N.J. Ct. R. 4:37-2(b) is also comparable to a motion for directed verdict or judgment of acquittal under N.J. Ct. R. 3:18-1, and the standard for deciding both motions is the same. Accepting as true all the evidence that supports the position of the claimant and affording the benefit of all inferences that can be deduced therefrom, if reasonable minds could differ the motion must be denied.

Pursuant to N.J. Ct. R. 3:18-1, at the close of the State's case or after the evidence of all parties has been closed, the court shall, on defendant's motion or its own initiative, order the entry of a judgment of acquittal of one or more offenses charged in the indictment or accusation if the evidence is insufficient to warrant a conviction. As to the standard to be applied in determining such a motion, the following classic statement found in State v. Reyes, 50 N.J. 454 (1967) remains fully viable:

> . . . the question the trial judge must determine is whether, viewing the State's evidence in its entirety, be that evidence direct or circumstantial, and giving the State the benefit of all its favorable testimony as well as all of the favorable inferences which reasonably could be drawn therefrom, a reasonable jury could find guilt of the charge. . . .

Petitioner challenges the determination of the Board that M.U.'s conduct towards his classmate constituted HIB.

New Jersey enacted the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act) to "strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying" occurring both on and off of school grounds. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1(f). Definitions relative to adoption of harassment and bullying prevention policies are found in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, which states in part:

> "Harassment, intimidation or bullying" means any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing > characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:

> > (a) a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
> >
> > (b) has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or
> > (c) creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

Petitioner alleges that the HIB investigation was conducted improperly and was incomplete. Petitioner urges this tribunal to conclude that there was no HIB and that the HIB investigation was conducted improperly and was incomplete therefore the determination should be reversed.

The Board urges this tribunal to conclude that the Board was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable in its determination that the HIB investigation was conducted properly and that M.U.'s conduct did constitute HIB.

The Commissioner of Education will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) (citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966), adopted, Comm'r (April 7, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. Further, the Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). New Jersey courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Thus, in order to prevail, the petitioner must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it.

Based on the whole of the credible evidence presented, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden of proof that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in concluding that M.U.'s actions constituted harassment, intimidation or bullying under the Act. Furthermore, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner failed to demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Order on Emergent Relief

B.B., on behalf of minor child, A.S.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County,

Respondent.

The record of this emergent matter and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

B.B. (petitioner) on behalf of her minor daughter, A.S. brings an action for emergent relief against the Board of Education of the Borough of Paulsboro, Gloucester County (respondent), seeking an order for all of her daughters to attend another school, of the petitioner's choice, where they can participate in spring track and be able to start competing immediately. Petitioner argues that the HIB investigation was conducted improperly and was incomplete therefore the determination will be flawed.

The respondent opposes the relief requested and asserts that the petitioner's application is legally defective as none of the arguments in their petition provide a basis to grant the requested emergent relief. The respondent argues that the petitioner cannot satisfy any of the mandatory prerequisites outlined in Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a request for emergent relief on March 10, 2020, at the New Jersey Department of Education (NJDOE). On March 10, 2020, the NJDOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case seeking emergent relief for the petitioner. A telephonic status conference was held on March 12, 2020.

Pursuant to Executive Order 104, Issued by Governor Philip D. Murphy on March 16, 2020, relative to the outbreak of coronavirus COVID-19:

> All public, private, and parochial preschool program premises, and elementary and secondary schools, including charter and renaissance schools, shall be closed to students beginning on Wednesday, March 18, 2020, and shall remain closed as long as this Order remains in effect.

Accordingly, Paulsboro Public Schools closed March 17, 2020, and the Gloucester County Institute of Technology closed March 16, 2020. Therefore, the parties presented oral argument on the emergent relief application telephonically, on March 17, 2020, and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner, B.B., is the mother of A.S. A.S. is one of three sisters. Although they all reside in Paulsboro, New Jersey, neither A.S. nor her sisters attend school at the Paulsboro High School. They all attend Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT). Because GCIT does not have a girl's track team, A.S. participates in the Paulsboro High School track program.

In her Petition of Appeal, the petitioner avers that on October 22, 2019, she received a letter from her daughter, A.S., in which A.S. stated she wanted to kill herself due to the alleged actions of her track coach/teacher during the previous school year's track season. On October 30, 2019, the petitioner informed the Superintendent of A.S.'s letter and expressed her concerns relative to the track team's coaching personnel. The Superintendent related that he would investigate the situation.

During this time, A.S. was removed from school on two occasions for psychiatric evaluation due to her suicidal ideations. Mobilization services were secured through PerformCare[1]. A.S. continues to receive weekly sessions with her licensed therapist.

On or about January 21, 2020, the Superintendent informed the petitioner that a "HIB-like" investigation had been conducted. Not satisfied with this response, on January 23, 2020, the petitioner submitted a written request for a full HIB investigation. The HIB investigation was not completed until February 21, 2020. The petitioner was informed that she will receive the formal results of the investigation after the Board's meeting on March 30, 2020; however, she was informed verbally that HIB was unfounded. The petitioner contends that though HIB may have been unfounded, the aforementioned conduct of the track coach/teacher constitutes conduct unbecoming a coach/teacher. No student should be made to feel negative about themselves to the extent that they want to commit suicide.

The petitioner argues that if completed pursuant to the ten-day rule, the HIB investigation should have appeared on the Board's February 10, 2020, agenda because other HIB investigations were listed on the Board's agenda with incident dates close in time to the date of her request for a HIB investigation.

[1] PerformCare partners with the New Jersey Children's System of Care (CSOC) to coordinate the care of children with behavioral, mental health or emotional challenges to gain access to the services they need.

The petitioner urges that emergent relief must be granted because the spring track season is about to commence. Her children should not have to miss out on opportunities to participate due to the coach/teacher remaining in that position.

The petitioner and her family are seeking a unilateral, out-of-district placement for all of petitioner's daughters and a waiver of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association's[2] (NJSIAA) transfer rules that would permit her daughters to participate in a full season of spring track a program at the school they select.

The respondent opposes the relief requested and asserts that the petitioner's application is legally defective as none of the arguments in their petition provide a basis to grant the requested emergent relief.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The standards for emergent relief are set forth in Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. These standards for emergent relief include 1.) that the party seeking emergent relief will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2.) the existence of a settled legal right underlying the petitioner's claim; 3.) that the party seeking emergent relief has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4.) a balancing of the equities and interests that the party seeking emergent relief will suffer greater harm than the respondent. The petitioner bears the burden of satisfying all four prongs of this test. Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. at 132–34.

The petitioner argues that irreparable harm is established because she will not receive the formal results of the HIB investigation until after the Board's meeting on March 30, 2020. By that time, the spring track season will be two-thirds completed. This would impact all of her children, not just A.S. It would impact their psychological well-being and all aspects of their lives. It would impact her children's' ability to fully participate in track events which will result in the loss of opportunities for colleges to evaluate and assess their athletic potential on the next level versus immediate participation in a full season.

[2] The New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) is an association of hundreds of New Jersey high schools that regulates high school athletics and holds tournaments and crowns champions in high school sports

Here, there has been no showing of irreparable harm to the petitioner, A.S. or any of the petitioner's other children. A.S. and her siblings have not been precluded from trying out for and/or participating in the Paulsboro spring track program. Furthermore, pursuant to Executive Order 104, there may not be any spring sports programs at the high school level in the State.

The petitioner alleges that the Board was derelict for the perceived delay in completing its HIB investigation; but it must be noted that the petitioner waited more than a week after receiving her daughter's letter to contact the superintendent. It was not until three months after receiving her daughter's letter that she filed a formal HIB complaint. In light of the aforementioned, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not met her burden of establishing irreparable harm.

The next prongs of the Crowe test to be addressed are the existence of a settled legal right underlying the petitioner's claim and that the party seeking emergent relief has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. Here, the petitioner's petition fails because she failed to demonstrate a well settled right to the requested emergent relief. Because there is no well settled right to the request emergent relief, there is no likelihood of the petitioner prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

In light of the aforementioned, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not met her burden of establishing the existence of a settled legal right underlying her claim and that the she has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim.

The final prong of the Crowe test requires a balancing of the equities and interests that the party seeking emergent relief will suffer greater harm than the respondent. The petitioner failed to demonstrate any harm she or A.S. would suffer if the requested emergent relief is not granted. In contrast, the harm to the District if the requested relief is granted would be considerable. The District has a significant interest in ensuring their investigations are fulsome and complete while ensuring students' continued participation in HIB investigations and encouraging victims to come forward and to speak candidly.

Thus, I CONCLUDE that the respondent would suffer greater harm than the petitioner if the requested relief was granted.

I CONCLUDE that the petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because the proofs submitted fail to establish the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Specifically, there is no showing of an irreparable injury, a settled legal right, the likelihood to prevail on the merits, or that the balance of harm favors the petitioner. The parties have advised me that no other issues remain once the emergent relief is resolved.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

I. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

The School District of the Camden County Technical Schools, Camden County ("District" or "Employer") initiated and the Camden County Technical Schools Board of Education ("Board") certified to the Commissioner of Education tenure charges ("Tenure Charges") seeking the demotion of Brett Fetty ("Respondent" or "Mr. Fetty"), who holds tenure as a Principal within the District. In lieu of an Answer, Respondent on December 10, 2019, timely submitted a Motion to Dismiss ("Motion"). Thereafter, by letter dated December 23, 2019, the Commissioner of Education, through the Office of Controversies and Disputes, referred the charges to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. The Arbitrator conducted a conference call with counsel on December 20, 2019, at which time the parties agreed that full briefing and consideration of the Motion would proceed before further scheduling was undertaken. In anticipation of this process and with the agreement of the parties, the Arbitrator secured approval from the Office of Controversies and Disputes for an extension to June 30, 2020, of the statutory deadline for completion of this proceeding.

In accordance with the schedule agreed to by the parties, Respondent submitted his brief in support of the Motion, the District filed a response, followed by Respondent's brief reply. The District also provided a short sur-reply. All were timely conveyed to the Arbitrator and opposing counsel. In reaching the conclusions and decision herein regarding the Motion, the Arbitrator has given full, fair, and careful consideration to all arguments presented by the parties, the charges and all supporting documents provided by the District, and all authorities and citations offered by the parties.

II. THE CHARGES

The Camden County Technical Schools Board of Education on November 20, 2019, voted to certify to the Commissioner of Education that it had determined that the instant Tenure Charges and the evidence adduced in support by the Superintendent were sufficient, if true, "to warrant the demotion of Brett Fetty from his position as Principal at the Pennsauken Campus of the Technical Schools to an Assistant Principal position and reassignment to the Gloucester Township Campus." The Board conveyed same to the Commissioner of Education, with certification dated November 21, 2019. By letter dated December 23, 2019, the Commissioner, through the Office of Controversies and Disputes, referred the Tenure Charges to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A.18A:6-16 for further proceedings and for a final determination.

The Board previously, on October 16, 2019, had certified tenure charges based on the same allegations set forth in the instant Tenure Charges, asserting, as here, that demotion and reassignment were warranted. Respondent in that proceeding also had submitted a motion to dismiss, although that motion was based upon various technical, procedural shortcomings. Those charges were referred to Arbitrator Arnold H. Zudick, who granted the motion, dismissing the charges without prejudice to the District's right to re-file. In the Matter of the Tenure Charges of the Camden County Technical Schools against Brett Fetty, Agency Docket No. 173-7/19. In the Decision on Motion to Dismiss, Arbitrator Zudick held as follows: "The District shall reinstate the Respondent with full back pay and benefits consistent with the above Conclusion." The Conclusion referenced was as follows: "The District shall immediately reinstate the Respondent with full back pay and benefits, as if he were in a principal position, but this Decision is not intended to require the District to return the Respondent to the principal position at the Pennsauken (or at the Gloucester) Campus." Arbitrator Zudick did not hold, as incorrectly described in the District's Introductory Statement to the instant Statement of Charges, that Respondent "was not to be returned to duty as a Principal at either the Pennsauken or Gloucester Township Campus or the Technical Schools." The difference is the subtle but important distinction between what is directed by an arbitrator's ruling versus that which is simply "not required." The dismissal directed that, if the charges were refiled, "the District must provide sworn statements from those staff members it chooses to rely upon." In the Statement of Charges submitted in this proceeding, the District has complied with that directive. These Tenure Charges now are before this Arbitrator.

The District asserts one charge of "unbecoming conduct" and alleges that said conduct was in violation of the District's Policy 3351 – Healthy Workplace Environment as well as Policy 3211 -- Code of Ethics. The District also references "failure in his performance," citing various domains of the Multidimensional Principal Performance Rubric. The District in its Statement of Charges asserts that the allegations constitute "just cause, warranting [Respondent] to be removed from his position as Principal of the Pennsauken Campus with CCTS and re-assigned as an assistant principal at the Gloucester Township Campus with mandatory employee assistance program counseling, as assigned by the manager of human resources/affirmative action officer." The Statement of Charges also states that the conduct unbecoming "warrants an increment withholding for" Respondent. The District, however, clarified in its briefing on the Motion that it had already effectuated this step through a Board resolution and was not seeking a ruling in this forum regarding the increment. Indeed, the increment withholding is not referenced in the Board's certification of the charges, and the Board voted only that the charges should be preferred against Respondent "for conduct unbecoming and to demote Mr. Fetty from the position of Principal at the Pennsauken Campus of the Technical Schools to an Assistant Principal positions and reassignment to the Gloucester Township Campus of the Technical Schools."

III. THE MOTION TO DISMISS

In the pending Motion to Dismiss, Respondent asserts two arguments. First, Respondent argues that the District failed to follow the investigative protocols of its Healthy Workplace Environment policy, thereby violating its own policy, and thus should have no recourse in this forum. Second, Respondent contends that the District, in seeking to implement a demotion, is inappropriately attempting to use the formal processes of N.J.S.A. 18A-6-10 et seq. ("Tenure Law") for "what amounts to be an internal personnel decision."

As to Respondent's first argument, the Arbitrator finds that, while the District relies in large part upon the Healthy Workplace Environment policy in its charges against Respondent, the Tenure Charges do not rest entirely on that policy. Further, whether the processes articulated in the policy were or were not followed is a question of fact that cannot be disposed of without the taking of evidence. For these and other reasons, addressed below, the Arbitrator provides no ruling regarding the use of the processes under that policy and any effect they may have on proceedings under the Tenure Law.

Before turning to Respondent's second, more availing argument, the Arbitrator notes that much of Respondent's Motion is based upon his contentions that the actions alleged in the charges would not, even if true, constitute conduct unbecoming. Conduct unbecoming, argues the Respondent, contemplates actions that are "so egregious fair warning to the employee that such conduct is prohibited is not required." He cites a number of Tenure Law decisions in which conduct unbecoming was found, and each involves actions of arguably greater severity than what is alleged here. Yet Respondent's contention that conduct unbecoming is limited only to egregious action that would warrant discharge disregards the specific terminology of the statutory scheme. The Tenure Law provides protection by establishing the limited grounds and strict procedures through which tenured employees may be subject to either of two actions: "dismissal or reduction in compensation." The statute then specifies the grounds for either action, to wit: "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. By its very terms, therefore, the processes of the Tenure Law are not limited only to instances in which a school district seeks – and alleged conduct is so egregious as to warrant – termination of a teacher or principal's employment. The element of unbecoming conduct can be a basis for the other available action, which is reduction in compensation. Thus, the specific structure of the statute precludes Respondent's theory that unbecoming conduct is only that which would support discharge from employment. By the same token, however, this statutory specificity, which undercuts Respondent's characterization of unbecoming conduct, operates to support Respondent's second argument, to which the analysis now turns.

A district's use of the Tenure Law proceedings to address issues such as unbecoming conduct is limited by the clear and stark terms of the statute. Tenure Law proceedings in this forum are available in instances in which a district has determined that "dismissal or reduction in compensation" is warranted. Here, the District has concluded that a step less severe than dismissal is warranted. It thus does not seek Respondent's dismissal, nor does it seek the other available action, which is reduction in compensation. The Arbitrator has contemplated whether a reduction in compensation may be implicit in the District's effort to demote Respondent to Assistant Principal, but the District has not made that argument and, in fact, has noted in its brief instances in which the post of Assistant Principal garners higher compensation than that of Principal. Thus, nothing offered by the District enables the Arbitrator to construe the effort to demote Respondent as the operational equivalent of a reduction in compensation.

Respondent argues that the proper and exclusive mechanism by which the District may take action in response to the allegations against him is the internal complaint process set forth in the Healthy Workplace Environment policy. While certainly that policy provides a means by which some of these concerns may be addressed, the Arbitrator does not conclude and this ruling is not to be construed as a holding that the Healthy Workplace Environment procedures provide the only forum through which a demotion could be achieved or that the policy articulates a step that must be exhausted before tenure charges may be preferred.[1] The Arbitrator does not and need not address those issues in reaching her holding in this matter.

The District argues that, because Respondent holds tenure as a Principal, there is no way for the District to move him to a lesser position other than through Tenure Charges adjudicated in this forum. Yet the District cites no precedent and no reading of the statute or regulations that supports the use of this forum for that purpose. The District also argues that the demotion "is clearly a disciplinary matter affecting Respondent's employment," yet the Tenure Law did not establish this forum as a general system for imposition of corrective discipline. In this regard, the District likens the Tenure Act processes to the provisions regarding civil service protection under Title 11A – Civil Service. Specifically, the District emphasizes that N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6 provides specifically for "disciplinary demotion" in addition to suspension, fine, or removal. This does not support the District argument. In fact, it illustrates how a statute would be worded if it were intended to provide for a means by which districts could implement options such as demotion. The Tenure Act, in its specificity, contains no option for a district to seek demotion or action other than dismissal or reduction in compensation. As required by the canon of statutory construction expressio unius es exclusio alterius, one must conclude that the legislature, by specifically articulating only two forms of action, with no additional or general options, intended this forum to be available for adjudication of only those charges in which a district asserts that an employee's actions warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation.

[1] Policy Number 3351 Healthy Workplace Environment: cites the importance of a healthy workplace environment; describes the characteristics of such an environment; identifies "unacceptable conduct"; specifies that "unacceptable conduct" under the policy does not include conduct based upon protected class or activity (which is addressed through various laws); sets forth a procedure for employees to report unacceptable conduct; provides that the Superintendent or designee will conduct an investigation and then inform the reporting person of completion; allows the Superintendent/designee latitude in determining what will be revealed to the reporting person; and concludes that, if the investigation determines that conduct prohibited by this policy has taken place, the Superintendent or designee "will meet with the offender(s) and the victim(s) to review the investigation results and to implement remedial measures to ensure such conduct does not continue or reoccur." The policy also states, "Appropriate disciplinary action may be taken depending on the severity of the conduct."

This limitation also is reflected in the regulations governing this proceeding. As Respondent notes, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.2(a)(1) hews closely to the statutory terminology and requires that the certificate of determination accompanying tenure charges "shall contain a certification by the district board of education secretary" that the board "has determined the charges and the evidence in support of the charges are sufficient, if true in fact, to warrant dismissal or a reduction in salary. . . ." In this case, the Board has certified not that the charges are sufficient to warrant dismissal or a reduction in salary, but, rather, that they are sufficient to warrant only demotion. Thus, the Board's certification does not comport with the regulations or the Tenure Law and seeks to use this forum for a purpose that is beyond its strict and specific statutory scope.

The Arbitrator does not opine on how or whether a demotion may be effectuated. She holds only that this forum, through its enabling statute and the applicable regulations, is available only in those instances in which a board of education has found that evidence exists that warrants one of two actions: dismissal or reduction in compensation. As neither is sought in this instance, the Tenure Charges against Respondent must be dismissed.[2]

[2]As Respondent has noted, arbitrators adjudicating charges under the Tenure Law can fashion remedies other than discharge or reduction in compensation. Nothing in this Decision is intended to suggest that the statutory restrictions on the purposes for which a district may invoke these processes imposes any limitation on the remedies found by arbitrators following adjudication of properly posed charges.

DECISION

For the reasons stated in this Decision on Motion to Dismiss, the Arbitrator finds that the Tenure Charges brought by the District against Respondent must be dismissed. As provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, Respondent is to be reinstated immediately with full pay from the first day of his suspension.

I. Procedural Background

The Perth Amboy Board of Education, Bergen County ("Board," "District," or "Employer") has initiated charges against Vincent Cinquina ("Respondent" or "Mr. Cinquina"), who is employed by the Board as a tenured teacher of special education. The charges at issue seek dismissal from employment on the grounds of inefficiency, conduct unbecoming, incapacity, and other just cause and were certified to the Commissioner of Education on November 15, 2018. The Commissioner of Education's Office of Controversies and Disputes, by correspondence dated November 19, 2018, notified Respondent and his then-counsel that it had received the certified tenure charges. Respondent had changed legal counsel, effective January 4, 2019, and thereafter began proceeding pro se, so an extension of the deadline to file an answer was extended for Respondent "while he obtains new counsel." Respondent thereafter requested and was granted a final extension, to March 6, 2019, for submission of his answer. Respondent's Answer, which he prepared and submitted without legal counsel, gave rise to a Motion to Dismiss. On March 13, 2019, the Office of Controversies and Disputes referred the charges to this Arbitrator to hear and decide pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

Through a number of email communications with the parties, the Arbitrator and her Office Administrator attempted to arrange for a conference call to address scheduling and information exchange. Respondent, who continued to function pro se at that time, argued that it was not appropriate for the charges to be heard but eventually agreed to discuss scheduling. Respondent thereafter requested and was granted two postponements of scheduled conference calls to allow time to secure counsel. On March 29, 2019, Respondent reported and counsel confirmed that he had retained the firm of McLaughlin & Nardi, LLC. From that point, throughout this proceeding, both Respondent and the District were ably and vigorously represented by legal counsel.

Through subsequent conference calls, the parties agreed to a schedule for submission of briefs regarding the District's Motion for Summary Decision ("Motion") and also agreed to initial hearing dates to be used if the Motion were denied. Detailed papers were submitted by both parties regarding the Motion, and, following oral argument held on May 30, 2019, the Arbitrator on June 24, 2019, issued a ruling denying the Motion and confirmed same with a full opinion issued on July 17, 2019, which is incorporated herein by reference.

While the Motion was pending, the Arbitrator submitted a request to the Office of Controversies and Disputes, seeking an extension of the statutory hearing and decision deadlines in light of the delay that had occurred while Respondent sought counsel and to allow time for consideration of the District's Motion for Summary Decision. An extension was granted to November 30, 2019.

Evidential hearings on the charges were held on July 22, September 4, September 18, September 30, December 11, 2019, and January 17, 2020. By agreement of the parties, hearings were held at the Administrative Offices of the Board, at the High School, and at the offices of the Machado Law Group. As hearings progressed, it became clear that additional time would be required to accommodate schedules and witness availability. Therefore an extension of time was requested and approved to March 31, 2020, as the deadline for conclusion of the proceedings and issuance of the Award.

In the course of the hearings, each party was given a full and fair opportunity to present evidence through documents and testimony of witnesses. All witnesses, except Mr. Cinquina and the District's party representative, were sequestered and all testimony was provided under oath and was subject to direct, cross, redirect, and re-cross examination.[2] At the commencement of the hearing, it was agreed that a court reporter would prepare a transcript that would be provided to both parties and the Arbitrator. When the presentation of evidence was concluded, the parties agreed to a schedule for post-hearing briefs. Same were timely submitted to the Arbitrator, and exchange copies were forwarded by the Arbitrator's Office Administrator, whereupon the record was closed.

[2] The Arbitrator notes that, as to some witnesses, the transcript of this proceeding indicates that the witness "was sworn/affirmed by the Notary Public." This is not correct. The oath/affirmation for each witness was administered by the Arbitrator.

II. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Background

Respondent holds tenure as a special education teacher in the District. He was educated at Rutgers and, for graduate-level work, William Paterson University, and he holds teaching certifications in business administration and special education. Mr. Cinquina began his career as an educator teaching severely disabled youths. He then worked for a number of years as a substitute teacher, which he combined with his work in other industries not associated with the education field. Respondent initially was hired by the District in October 2004 as a long-term substitute teacher. In May 2005, however, the Principal of the McGinnis School asked that Respondent be taken off the list for assignment as a substitute teacher at that school.

Effective September 2005, Respondent was hired as a full-time special education teacher for the 2005-2006 school year. The charges at issue in this case in some respects cover his entire career at the District, but the more specific issues relate to actions taken by Respondent in the school years 2016-17 and 2017-18 and, even more significantly, in May 2018. Relevant circumstances, however, date back to 2012, during which time Respondent was assigned to the High School and the Adult High School.

B. 2011-2012 and 2012-2013 School Years

Respondent in March 2012 received a Letter of Reprimand for an incident in which students in a class Respondent was co-teaching used an offensive and inappropriate group label, posted on a classroom board, for their activity team. The Letter of Reprimand, which was not challenged by Respondent, indicated that even if Respondent had not been aware of the use of the term, it was his responsibility to become aware of the students' activities and to correct them when needed and when the students were in need of guidance. He was advised in the Letter that he was to become "immediately familiar with the lesson being taught and immediately attempt to remedy an inappropriate situation." He was notified that "Any future deviation will result in withholding of increment or termination." Respondent did not grieve or otherwise challenge the Letter of Reprimand, but at hearing he testified that the inappropriate team name had been on the board from the prior class, that he entered the room after his co-teacher had begun a movie, when the room was dark, and he therefore had not noticed it.

Soon after the 2012-2013 year began, a student alleged and submitted a written statement indicating that, when he asked Respondent if he could play some music he had selected, Respondent answered with a derogatory, racist description of the music and a remark that the student viewed as a comment on his sexual orientation. The student told an English teacher about the conversation and his reaction. The English teacher mentioned it to Respondent, to let him know that she had forwarded the information to the Principal, and she advised Respondent and the Principal that she had no direct knowledge of the conversation the student cited. The Principal of the Adult High School issued a letter to Respondent on October 24, 2012, directing him to "arrange to meet with me at your earliest convenience" and that he should attend with his Union representative. Respondent replied by returning the letter with the handwritten note that said, "Call my lawyer for a conference time," providing the name and telephone number of the attorney. Ultimately, at the direction of the Superintendent, a meeting with Respondent and a Union representative was held on November 15, 2012. Documentation of the meeting indicates that Respondent denied all wrongdoing, at which time Respondent was shown the student's written statement and that of the teacher to whom the student spoke. Respondent was advised to be careful with the "vocabulary he uses when students are present and to behave in a professional manner at all times."

On December 21, 2012, an incident occurred that resulted in Respondent being placed on paid administrative leave, effective that day. Respondent testified that a plan was underway to hold an ice cream party for the students and that, on December 20, he purchased items needed for the party, which he loaded in his personal vehicle. On December 21, he arrived early at the school to unload the items from his car, taking them to the basement. He said that, by the time he finished, the parking spot he usually used was taken. As he drove by, he saw a sign for faculty parking and parked there in an open space. Later, while Respondent was preparing for the party, a security guard approached him and told him he would have to move his car, as the spot he was in was reserved for another employee. According to the guard's written statement, the space had been reserved for an employee of the Business Office. Respondent refused to move his car and told the security guard not to have him towed. At hearing, Respondent explained that, even though there was a vacant spot next to where he was parked, he refused because he believed the guard was giving the space to a non-faculty member, whose position Respondent did not know; Respondent believed that he was entitled to the space on a "first come first served" basis. Respondent explained that he had concluded that the spaces were public because he had noticed that they were numbered, which, he said, had to have been done by the municipality.

The Principal of the Adult School was alerted and had Respondent come to the office, at which time he instructed Respondent to move his car. Respondent refused, asserting that the parking was public and cars did not have permits indicating assigned spaces. The Director of Buildings and Grounds also met with Respondent, in the presence of the Principal, and told Respondent that he had five minutes to move his car or it would be towed. Respondent still refused. He testified that the Director of Buildings and Grounds called him an idiot and stormed out of the meeting. At some point, Respondent's vehicle was towed. The Superintendent was notified of the situation and directed that Respondent be sent home. Security guards found Respondent in the main office and told him he was to be escorted from the building. Respondent reportedly proceeded nonetheless to visit two classrooms. Eventually, he was escorted from the building. Respondent had called the local Police Department but was told that there was nothing they could do. The Police Officers, however, did provide Respondent with a ride to retrieve his car.

By letter dated that same day, December 21, 2012, the Human Resources Manager notified Respondent that he had "been placed on paid administrative leave effective immediately. Central Administration will be contacting you." The letter notes that copies were sent to the Superintendent, the Principal, and the Union representative.

C. Paid Administrative Leave: December 2012 – February 2016

It is peculiar that Respondent then remained off duty, on paid leave, through the remainder of the 2012-2013 school year, all of the 2013-2014 school year, and the remainder of 2014. While the details of the December 2012 incident and the actions taken by the District and by Respondent are not at issue in the Arbitrator's resolution of the charges in this matter, Respondent contends that the events of December 21, 2012, gave rise to Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder ("PTSD") and, combined with the lengthy period of paid administrative leave, created a lens through which his subsequent actions as a teacher will be forever framed, creating the specter of concern about violence or danger. Respondent argues also that, following three years on paid administrative leave, he returned to a system with new administrators, new lesson place systems, and computer software.

In March 2014 the District prepared a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) for Respondent that provided, among other steps, for him to attend anger management sessions. The stated goals of the CAP included "exercise good judgment regarding interactions with and among students, as well as with staff members and administrators" and "plan appropriately for instruction." Respondent was summoned to a meeting and was told that he needed to follow the steps in the CAP to be able to return to work. With the help of the District's Employee Assistance Program ("EAP"), Respondent located a recommended therapist and attended several sessions with her. He also continued to see a therapist with whom he had begun sessions before the CAP was created.

In May 2014, following notice to Respondent, the Board of Education met in closed executive session to address Respondent's employment status. Respondent thereafter was sent to Rajeswari Muthuswamy, M.D., a psychiatrist, for a medical evaluation. That examination was conducted on May 21, 2014, and the doctor's report indicates that the examination resulted from a recommendation from the District's Employee Assistance Program (EAP). The recommendation was made for continuation of service through EAP to address interpersonal conflicts and for Respondent to be permitted to resume "his work related activities after being cleared by EAP."

With the beginning of the 2014-2015 school year, Delvis Rodriguez was retained by the District as Director of Personnel and Evaluation.[3] Director Rodriguez testified that, immediately upon learning that a teacher was on long-term administrative leave, he reviewed Respondent's file and took steps to address the situation. In October 2014, Director Rodriguez wrote to Respondent regarding the above-referenced medical recommendation that he return to EAP to receive further treatment. He advised Respondent that information regarding such compliance would help the District assess his ability to return to work, and he requested that Respondent "provide copies of any documentation that serves as proof that you have been participating in and completed anger management counseling with EAP since the time of the request in May of 2014." The letter at one point included a typographical error and referred to a medical examination of May 21. 2004, rather than 2014, although later in the letter it referred to 2014. Respondent's then-attorney responded to Director Rodriguez, arguing that the request was out of date, since it referred to a medical report dated 2004 and noting that Respondent had worked from 2004 to December 2012. The attorney also noted that Respondent had been seen by a physician who had advised that his was "not a case of anger management." Counsel for the Board then responded, citing the May 21, 2014, findings and asking that, if Respondent had complied with the treatment and referrals, documentation of same be provided.

Director Rodriguez wrote to Respondent on January 29, 2016, confirming receipt of "documentation stating that you are able to return to work" and stating that he was expected to return to work on Monday, February 8, 2016, and would be assigned at the South Campus of the High School.

[3] At the time of hearing, Mr. Rodriguez had been promoted to Assistant Superintendent of Administration. During times relevant to this proceeding, however, he held the position of Director of Personnel and Evaluation. In the interest of clarity and brevity, he is referred to herein as "Director Rodriguez."

D. Return to Work

Respondent returned to work as assigned, on the South Campus, which was a location at which he had not previously taught. Within days, issues with coworkers and administrators began. On Saturday, February 20, 2016, Respondent sent an email to Director Rodriguez seeking to "initiate a complaint" against an English teacher he identified by name, noting that she was "Hispanic." (This teacher had been involved in the matter in 2012, cited above, in which a student alleged that Respondent had used inappropriate terms and comments in referring to his preferred music.) Respondent's email recounted an exchange in which Respondent had told another colleague that he would find and show her a video of a former student and that the English teacher, having begun a conversation with the co-teacher, stopped to tell Respondent "do not video me," which Respondent construed as an unfounded accusation. Later, alleged Respondent, she accused him of various acts associated with his administrative leave and called him "an animal." Respondent sent Director Rodriguez another email, that evening, offering to allow him to examine his cell phone and asserting that the English teacher's comments would not have been made had he been young, female, and Hispanic.

Director Rodriguez met with the English teacher and also met with Respondent, both of whom conveyed their accounts of the interactions. The English teacher submitted a detailed written report of her interactions with Respondent, denying the account Respondent had conveyed and describing the interaction as one in which Respondent had been on a "rant" and that "his behavior scared me." Based upon his exploration of the allegations, Director Rodriguez wrote to Respondent on March 18, 2016, thanking him for having raised the issue but stating that, having investigated the matter, he could not "say that there was any definitive harassment on her part." He noted that Respondent had asked only that Director Rodriguez have a conversation with the teacher, which he had done. He wrote that he would call upon Respondent's professionalism to ensure that both he and the other teacher are "cordial and amicable with each other during times you are asked to interact." Director Rodriguez also submitted a report to the Superintendent indicating that both teachers currently are in PLC together but that he would explore with the Vice Principal the possibility of placing the teacher in a different PLC to avoid any uncomfortable interactions between the two.

Also in March 2016, only a few weeks after having returned to work, the Vice Principal met with Respondent to address a situation in which Respondent had appeared to have been asleep. Respondent referenced having PTSD but explained that he was not sure if that had caused him to doze off or if it was because of inactivity, which he attributed to lack of access to the computer system.

E. 2016-2017 School Year

For the 2016-2017 school year, Respondent continued his assignment at the High School, which had just come under the direction of a new Principal of the High School South and East Campuses, Ninth Grade Programs.[4] On October 5 and 6, 2016, she met with Respondent to review several performance issues. Respondent requested training with technology but also informed the Principal, as Respondent later commemorated in an email, that he had PTSD and that this condition made it impossible for him to respect supervisors.[5]

Training sessions were set up for Respondent with the District Instructional Leader. In addition, Director Rodriguez communicated with Respondent in October regarding his desire for accommodation, explaining that documentation of a disability that requires accommodation was needed before steps could be taken with regard to requested accommodations.

On November 25, 2016, Respondent sent to the Principal an email with the subject line "My well being." In it, he wrote: "In order for my mental well being and to overcome trauma. [sic] I am requesting the removal of the following personnel from the South Campus or from any building

[4] While the actions at issue involve at times several individuals holding the title of "principal," the content that follows uses, for economy of wording, the term "Principal" to refer to the Principal of the South Campus Ninth Grade. All others are specified by their full titles.

[5] Many months later, in August 2017, Respondent wrote a brief email to Director Rodriguez regarding the October 6, 2016, meeting. In it he confirmed the forgoing and stated that the Principal responded that she demanded respect. Respondent argued, in the email, "I consider this to be a threat to my mental well being and safety."

in which I will be present." He listed eight names. Among them were a Vice Principal, the Director of Buildings and Grounds, the English teacher referenced above, the Supervisor of Special Services, the Principal of the Adult School, and an attorney for the Union. The Principal testified that a number of the people identified were not assigned to the South Campus and several others were names she did not recognize. She forwarded the email to Director Rodriguez.

On December 16, 2016, the Principal and the Instructional Leader met with Respondent and a Union representative, with the intention of providing Respondent with a written reprimand regarding a failure to complete lesson plans. The Principal testified that, during that meeting, Respondent compared himself to a rape victim who was working for the rapist. He also explained that it was difficult for him to be in the building and that he had "flashbacks" sometimes when walking down the hall. He told them, "I want to do things to people; things I won't discuss here but I've been talking with my doctor." When the Instruction Leader asked Respondent if the remark was a threat, Respondent replied that it was not. The Principal and the Instructional Leader conveyed their concerns in emails to Director Rodriguez, recounting the Respondent's remarks. Respondent does not deny having made these comments but has cited them as notification of his need for accommodations and an effort to educate the administrators regarding PTSD.

When school resumed on January 3, 2017, Director Rodriguez notified Respondent by letter that he was being placed on paid.administrative leave. Respondent promptly was sent for medical evaluation by Dr. Muthuswamy, who had conducted the examination prior to Respondent's return to work in 2016. Dr. Muthuswamy wrote, with regard to Respondent's assertion of having developed PTSD from having been escorted out of the building in 2012, as follows: "From a strict diagnostic criterion, it is not considered a criterion for PTSD since it did not involve, 'The person was exposed to: death, threatened death, actual or threatened serious injury, or actual or threatened sexual violence,' as noted in [the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Psychiatric Disorders, 5th Edition]." The physician noted that Respondent acknowledged that his relationship with administrators was negative and that hostility gave rise to safety concerns. As he denied any plans, thoughts or intent of harm, the physician recommended Respondent's return to work but recommended that he have ongoing therapeutic services, which Respondent had indicated he was undergoing through a therapist and a psychiatrist. Accordingly, Respondent was taken off paid administrative leave and was permitted to return to work.

On March 28, 2017, Respondent submitted a request for accommodations, but he did not supply medical documentation. Respondent testified that he did not convey his personal therapist's letter and diagnosis because he wanted first to see if he could handle working without accommodations. Yet, in October 2017, he was requesting accommodations. Some were addressed. Many were not options because of undue burden and would result in neglect of certain job responsibilities. Respondent was asked at some point by Director Rodriguez for documentation regarding Respondent's representation that he suffered from PTSD.

Respondent also told Director Rodriguez about his interaction with the Principal regarding a cross that she wore on a necklace. Respondent reported that his religion was special to him and that he felt that it was not "being shown the respect it deserves." He therefore told the Principal to remove the necklace. Respondent has asserted the Principal thereafter had written him up and had threatened him, which he viewed as discrimination against him on the basis of his religion. [6]

At the end of the school year, a CAP was put in place for Respondent, under the supervision of the Instructional Leader. The goals included developing and implementing appropriate modifications for students specific to both the lesson and the student, developing strategies for formative assessments throughout lessons, and updating gradebooks and submitting modifications to lessons on time. It called for monthly meetings with the Instructional Leader as well as classroom observations. Respondent signed the CAP document on June 23, 2017, noting, "Impossible to achieve – no special ed sup[port] + no mod[ification] poss."

[6] Respondent raised this issue again, more than a year later, when, on May 13, 2018, he wrote to the Superintendent, in an email bearing the title, "[The Principal] disrespects Christianity," as follows: "I am Christian and have instructed [the Principal] to remove the Cross (religious symbol) from her sweaty neck. She has not."

F. 2017 – 2018 School Year

During the next school year, Respondent resumed his assignment on South Campus. In October 2017, Respondent wrote to Director Rodriguez asking for a transfer. He wrote: "With all the evidence, complaints and lawsuits that I have been presented to your office in regards to [the Principal, the Assistant Principal ….] and the Hostile workplace they created why would you in God's name expect these people to train me? Please remove me from the situation and place me in a situation I can thrive and not fail." Dr. Rodriguez denied the request for transfer, assuring Respondent that the administrative team would be professional in their support. Respondent replied via email that they had not answered his questions or provided support "and you still have not provided me with the ways they have supported me in the past. You are placing people who don't like each other in a difficult situation, that should be very concerning for you. I see you as the problem and your lack of motivation to make this situation better for all."

Respondent also was resistant to the CAP and believed that it had not been properly imposed. On October 16, 2017, the Principal reminded Respondent that he was scheduled for a CAP Support Meeting that coming Friday and she reminded him of the required monthly meetings. She asked him to bring a copy of his lesson plans to the meeting. Respondent replied via email, as follows: "To Whom it may concern, Because I believe that my Administrators [sic] unethical behavior will lead to my termination I will not participate. Thank you." The Principal, in her reply, notified Respondent that she was forwarding his response to Human Resources. Respondent then wrote, two days later, "I do not see the purpose of working with a bigot who sees men as less than women." Respondent acknowledged at hearing that he perhaps should not have used the term "bigot," and he testified that he spoke with Director Rodriguez and apologized. A few days later, Respondent received a letter from Director Rodriguez cautioning him that use of the term was unprofessional and that "inflammatory comments such as these are not acceptable in the workplace." He wrote that the Principal and her administrative team have gone beyond the scope of their responsibilities in an effort to help him "acclimate to the culture and climate of the 9th grade program" but that he has resisted and had resorted to making unnecessary and unprofessional comments. In the letter, Director Rodriguez told Respondent that his behavior must "cease and desist immediately" and that further negative comments toward school leaders or any co-worker would result in further disciplinary action. Respondent viewed the letter as retaliation for efforts to challenge actions that he felt were discriminatory on the basis of sex and disability.

With regard to the issue of disability and accommodation, Respondent had been making references to PTSD and expected accommodations since his return to duty, but he had not provided documentation of the diagnosis to the District, even though same had been requested. The District's only relevant information had been the results of the examination by the Board-selected psychiatrist who, citing the DSM, had noted that Respondent was not experiencing PTSD. Ultimately, however, in November 2017, Respondent provided Director Rodriguez with a document from his personal psychiatrist (the document was dated March 28, 2017, but Respondent at that time provided no explanation for not having provided the document earlier). The document confirmed that Respondent had been diagnosed with PTSD and outlined a series of modifications needed for his job. They included "restructure job to include only essential functions"; provide written as well as visual instructions; provide written checklist; provide a wall calendar; use a daily or weekly task list; allow to record messages; provide printed minutes of meetings; allow additional training time; make daily check or to do list; assign a mentor; modify attendance policy; day to day feedback."

On February 12, 2018, a written reprimand was issued by the Vice Principal for the East Building for failure to complete lesson plans for English and History classes. The reprimand indicates, as does the Vice Principal in the cover email, that Respondent had refused to meet formally with him and the Principal. It noted that the Principal, another Vice Principal, and a supervisor had met with Respondent in November 2017 to discuss lesson plans and modifications, and Respondent was shown how to modify objective and procedures, which is an important step in preparing plans for special education students.

On February 14, 2018, a technology coaching meeting was held for Respondent regarding accessing MS outlook email and uploading lesson plans, and an observation was conducted by a Vice Principal. Respondent wrote to Director Rodriguez asserting that the Vice Principal had engaged in disability discrimination during the observation. He asserted that she had falsely accused him of not submitting lesson plans after he gave her a list of accommodations that require him only to perform the essential functions of his job. Respondent wrote, "She essentially looked at my Accommodations/Modification list and selected an essential function like lesson plans and lied about me furnishing them because I have a disability not because it was true." Director Rodriguez responded that he had not been aware that disability accommodations had been made regarding lesson planning, adding: "Lesson plans are expected to be submitted via google docs as every other teacher. Please make note of that." He also provided a longer email in which he stated that he had again reviewed the March 2017 request for accommodations.

G. May 2018

1. Truth or Dare

Matters that moved the District to proceed with these charges arose in May 2018. Central to these charges are allegations regarding the events of May 1, 2018, in the class to which Respondent was assigned. He usually was the cooperating teacher in this English class but, on May 1, the English teacher was absent and Respondent was supervising the Ninth Grade students for Periods 8 and 9 (from 1:33 to 3:00 p.m.) It is not clear exactly how many students were in the class, but the record indicates that it is likely that there were 18 students in the class. Respondent asserts that the class was larger than it should have been, and the District contends that Respondent allowed students who were not assigned to the class to enter and remain in the classroom during these two periods.

The main teacher had left activities for the students to do. Respondent recalls that it was a series of questions based upon their reading. Some students, Respondent testified, did not wish to perform the assignment and told him that they wanted to play truth or dare instead. Truth or dare, Respondent testified, is commonly played by the students and is incorporated in some sub-lesson plans. In the game, he testified, dares might include things like saying something nice about the teacher, doing something crazy with their hair, etc. The students, he said, can make up their own questions or dares, if they are reasonable. He testified that he gave the students a list of questions to use for the game but that they were permitted to create their own. Respondent put on music and then walked around, he said, to help those students who were performing their assignments.

Three students from the class testified at hearing. One student had little recollection and, while aware of the game, had not participated or observed it. One male student expressed reticence about testifying because, he said, he was sorry that the situation had created problems for Respondent. He testified that it had been the students' fault, as they should not have been playing the game. The student recalled that, at the beginning of class, Respondent took attendance and handed out an activity sheet that involved reading a story. He said, however, that only a few of the students proceeded with the assignment. Most of the students, he said, were playing Truth or Dare, using a bottle to spin to identify the person who would have to either tell the truth or take the dare. He also noted that there were approximately three students participating who did not belong in the class but had simply walked in. Respondent has acknowledged that he was aware that other students in the past had asked to come in his class but he denied knowing that they were in his class on May 1.

The students who were working on the assignment were off to the side and the others had turned their desks into a circle for purposes of the game. Throughout the two periods, the witness said, Respondent was walking around the class and, when he came to stand near their desks, they did not stop the game. The dares to be performed by the students, this witness testified, were things like kissing a girl or hugging someone. As the game progressed, he testified, there were boys and girls kissing as part of the dare and also at least one girl took a dare to perform a lap dance with a boy and another girl performed a lap dance with a girl. This student believed that Respondent observed this activity, although he did not elaborate on why he believed this. He testified that Respondent said nothing. This student, with hesitance and expressing remorse, testified that he had taken a dare to touch a girl on her breast. He did not think that Respondent had seen him do this. He testified that one other boy had taken a dare to "grab" a body part of a girl.

Another student from the class testified. She confirmed that there were students from outside their class in the room that day. She had chosen not to participate in the game, having observed, she said, that it was mostly the "popular kids" and, while she had been invited and was tempted, she declined, especially, she said, when she saw the things they were doing. This student, however, observed the game, which she said she found interesting. In fact, she lent the group her metal water bottle for use in spinning. The configuration of desks described by this witness was the same as that of the young man who also testified. One of the dares, she recalled, was for the student to lick the floor and another was to run around the hallway screaming (although she recalled that the student taking that dare just walked out and closed the door, appearing to leave, which prompted Respondent to ask who had left the room). Other dares, she said, were to kiss, to twerk, and to provide lap dances. The dares were, she said, "mainly sexualized things that I didn't want to get involved with, so that's exactly why I said no." She recalled the instance described above, when the male student touched the female student's breast. It was, this witness felt, consensual between the two children, as she would have said something if it had not been. She observed Respondent looking up from his phone to observe the activities, walking around, and going to the side of the room. This witness also recalled that, with one of the lap-dance dares, someone started playing club music on their phone, and Respondent instructed them to turn down the volume, which the students did. Then, she said, the girl "started dancing on" the male student. This witness recalled that the game was played "nonstop" for both class periods until the bell rang and everyone left, with someone indicating that they would continue the game at one of their homes.

After the class ended, another student who had been there told the Vice Principal what had happened, and an investigation was undertaken. Students were interviewed, separately, and written statements were taken. The Department of Children and Families was notified. Students, Respondent, and other employees cooperated with that investigation, which resulted in an investigative finding that neglect/inadequate supervision was not established.

2. Observation by the Principal

This student cited above, who had not participated in but recalled the details of the game, was a witness to the other event that forms a primary basis for the charges at issue. That event occurred on May 11 when the Principal entered the History class for which Respondent was the inclusion teacher. As recalled by the student, the Principal came to the classroom and Respondent "called the cops on her in class because he was getting quote, unquote harassed, and the police came up." She was, she testified, unnerved by the presence of police who had come up the stairs and into the classroom. As this was unfolding, she said, the regular teacher instructed the students to look at the board and to not watch what was happening. Respondent, she said, was loudly saying the school was harassing him.

The record contains an audio recording of the interaction, which the Principal made, she testified, because of Respondent's "unpredictable" behavior. The Principal entered the classroom to conduct what was to be a fourth observation of Respondent pursuant to the CAP. Moments after the Principal entered the classroom, Respondent approached her and asked why she was there. She responded only that he should continue with the classroom activities. He then raised his voice and told her to leave, saying:

> No, you need to leave. You need to leave. Get up and leave. That's go. I'm asking you to go out the door. Get your stuff and get out the door now. You are not coming into this classroom unannounced. Leave. I'll call the police on you. I will call the police on you for harassing me. Out the door. You are stopping this kid from getting an education. Out the door.

The Principal responded by telling Respondent, "Mr. Cinquina, do what you need to do," and he responded:

> We're not doing anything. We're going to wait for you to leave. Put that away. You need to leave. I don't think you've got that in your head. You need to leave. All right, take a seat. I'm going to call the police on you right now.

Respondent left the room and telephoned the police, and the Principal remained in the classroom. The regular teacher resumed instruction.

When the police arrived, they told the Principal that Respondent had complained that the past week he had been trying to teach but that she had been taking ten of his students out at a time to her office. The Principal explained that she was conducting an investigation of an unrelated matter but that she was in the classroom at that time to conduct Respondent's evaluation. The officers asked to speak to the Principal and Respondent together and, as they were gathering, Respondent called a nearby Union representative to join them. The Principal explained that she can enter any classroom and the officer noted to Respondent that the Principal obviously does observations. Respondent attempted to argue with the officer, saying that all observations for the year already had been completed and that the Principal was harassing him. Ultimately, the officer commented that if Respondent felt that it was not right, it was not a police matter, with which Respondent expressed agreement, but then continued to assert that the Principal was "impinging upon my freedom to do my job." The officers suggested to Respondent that this was a matter to take up with the Union. They left, and Respondent and the Principal returned to the classroom.

The Principal later that day forwarded the recording of the interaction to Director Rodriguez. Thereafter, Director Rodriguez placed Respondent on paid administrative leave, with written instructions not to report to his work location(s) until further notice.

The following day, Saturday, Respondent submitted to the Superintendent an email citing the Principal's conduct as "one of the most unfortunate examples of leadership. . . during my fourth observation." He questioned the basis for commencing the fourth observation and stated that, during the observation, the Principal "demonstrated to myself and the students unfortunately a level of incompetence, hippocracy [sic] and frankly childishness." He alleged that, during the observation, she had positioned herself with her back to the teacher, which he surmised was for the purpose of shielding her social media texting.

The next day, Sunday, March 13, Respondent wrote to Director Rodriguez, asking "Who is the person who contacted Dyfs? What involvement do you believe I have?" He then wrote to the Superintendent telling him that he had "instructed" the Principal to remove the cross from "her sweaty neck," noting that "She has not." This was followed by an email to the Superintendent, with copies to Director Rodriguez and the Principal criticizing the quality of the proofreading of the Principal's doctoral dissertation, with a link to access the paper on line. This was followed that afternoon by an email to the same recipients criticizing the focus of the Principal's dissertation, which he described as inquiring why "woman [sic] are leaving the teaching profession after five years." On Monday at 2:51 a.m., he again emailed, alleging that the Principal had "someone else tell her what to right [sic]" in her dissertation, as it appeared to him that she had failed to remove comments from the final draft. On Monday afternoon, he wrote to Director Rodriguez: "Btw if you would like to see the WORK my students completed on this so called period of abuse (lol)/investigation done with my assistance just let me know. Also if someone calls Dyfs on me I will sue you!"

Respondent's flurry of emails on Monday included a message to Director Rodriguez, as follows: "Consider the school notified that I plan on returning to work tomorrow." Director Rodriguez responded that Respondent was not permitted to return to the building until advised to do so. Respondent replied that he was going to come to the administration building the following day to pick up his credentials and would have a police escort. Director Rodriguez responded again, reminding Respondent that he was not permitted to enter any district building. This led Respondent to write that the District and the administrators are afraid of people with PTSD, that such people are not more violent "than anyone else" and, "You are being notified for the last time to return me to work immediately." He then forwarded that message to the Principal, Vice Principal, and a supervisor, stating "This is why you are about to be personally and collectively sued if I'm not returned to work tomorrow. It's a very good time for you to take care of yourselves."

III. ANALYSIS

In seeking the dismissal of Respondent, the District asserts four charges: unbecoming conduct; inefficiency; incapacity; and other just cause. Any one of these grounds, if established, could support dismissal under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. In support of all four charges, the District poses 114 assertions of fact that are common to all charges, with two additional assertions of fact relating to inefficiency, incapacity, and other just cause. The factual allegations incorporate information regarding the full range of performance evaluations and disciplinary actions that began soon after Respondent's employment in 2005. The facts associated with years 2005 through 2011, however, are addressed here only generally, for the Arbitrator finds that the central charge in this proceeding is that of unbecoming conduct, and the action sought by the District is warranted by the most recent developments, without reliance on any prior shortcomings or misconduct. Thus, other aspects of Respondent's service need be examined only as to his defenses to the charge of unbecoming conduct.

As to shortcomings associated with the content and timeliness of lesson plans, Respondent has asserted that, when he returned to work in 2016, the entire system had changed, requiring access to a computer and use of a program with which he was not familiar, and the administration, too, was populated with entirely different personnel. Respondent has noted that he had been accustomed to conveying hard-copy lesson plans. Also, as a special education teacher, his lesson plans were dependent upon those of the main teachers, so that he then could develop the appropriate modifications for each student, as envisioned by N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.6(i). [7]

Respondent argues that the references in the record to failures to prepare proper and timely lesson plans were unjustified under the circumstances and were pursued pursuant to discriminatory motives and, thus, must be disregarded. For purposes of this analysis, the Arbitrator accepts Respondent's explanation for what the District has described as shortcomings in his preparedness and compliance, but she also notes that Respondent's pre-2012 employment with District also was marked by documentation of late submission of lesson plans. While Respondent may have a legitimate explanation for what was happening in recent years, the record does indicate that similar issues existed before 2012 and under entirely different systems and administrators. Nonetheless, upon reviewing all the facts and arguments in this proceeding, the Arbitrator finds that this matter may be decided without findings regarding the alleged failure of Respondent to prepare and submit lesson plans as required or expected.

Similarly, while the District submits a detailed analysis of Respondent's performance evaluations throughout the years and while both parties rely to some extent upon the CAP plans (Respondent asserting that they were improperly imposed and implemented and the District arguing that Respondent failed to cooperate and comply), the Arbitrator finds that those issues need not be reached to resolve the charges.

Ultimately, the proofs adduced by the District establish through credible evidence far beyond a preponderance that Respondent engaged in multiple instances of unbecoming conduct and that those actions, standing alone, warrant dismissal from service. As a preliminary matter, however, the Arbitrator notes Respondent's argument that the District has created and perpetuated a campaign to demonize him, creating the impression that he is potentially violent and has posed threats of violence. The Arbitrator does not see the District's case as such, but she nonetheless wishes to address any such impression. After careful scrutiny of the extended direct and pointed cross examination of Respondent, of the pages of evidence documenting Respondent's actions, and days of testimony from administrators as well as students, the Arbitrator concludes that it is appropriate to dispel any suggestion that Respondent poses a risk to the safety of others. It was, however, appropriate for the District to be concerned and to take the steps it did for medical evaluations and to require EAP involvement. Respondent's frequent commentaries have contained ambiguities that could be construed as red flags, and all involved were justified in expressing concern. Yet through a detailed examination of the evidence, the Arbitrator notes that Respondent, even in his sometimes concerning and anxious flurries of emails, consistently has conveyed and exhibited a genuine, if sometimes oddly focused, concern for and caring about the students.

What is problematic and what the evidence shows, however, is that Respondent has a total disregard for the structure of administration and supervision necessary for an educational institution to fulfill its purpose. While having generous intent toward the welfare of the students, Respondent had demonstrated a continuing unwillingness to abide by supervisory structures, to accept responsibility for his specific obligations within the educational institution, and to adhere to fundamental standards of conduct that are essential for the efficient and effective functioning of the District. In short, Respondent has shown a remarkably poor judgment as to his responsibilities and a stunning disregard for the role of administrators and the standards of professionalism required of any educator.

These failings are shown through the objective evaluation of Respondent's actions, aside from any evaluation or interpretation applied by those with whom he has continually been in conflict. Respondent asserts that he was discriminated against on the basis of a disability, which he describes as PTSD sparked by his removal from school property in December 2012 and for which he argues he had been requesting but has been denied reasonable accommodation. Yet the record reveals that it was not until November 2017 that Respondent provided documentation of the disability and insight into the nature of the accommodations that were medically recommended. Further Respondent's requests and demands for accommodations for his then un-documented condition were understandably viewed by the District as unmanageable and questionable, such as Respondent's assertion that it was not possible for him to respond to supervision and his exhortation that eight people, including a lawyer for the Union and the District's Director of Buildings and Grounds, be removed from the buildings in which Respondent would be present. Ultimately, when presented with a list of potential reasonable accommodations prepared by Respondent's personal physician, the District did provide meaningful compliance and explained why they viewed other requested accommodations as being unduly burdensome. Accordingly, the record does not support a conclusion that Respondent was discriminated against through denial of reasonable accommodations.

The Respondent also has argued that he was discriminated against on the basis of disability by having been characterized as violent, but in those few instances in which the District responded as if a threat were posed, the actions were based upon justifiable concerns, such as Respondent's statement that he had thoughts of "doing things to people" and, later, his expression of irrational outrage and efforts to order the Principal out of the classroom when she sought to perform an observation. There is no evidence that, in dealing with Respondent's sometimes peculiar and concerning approaches to communication, the administrators at any time portrayed Respondent to the community of educators, administrators, and students as a danger. The Arbitrator sees nothing the record to indicate that the adverse employment actions at issue here were motivated by discriminatory animus based on disability.

Respondent also asserts that he has been subject to retaliation for asserting his rights with regard to disability and for highlighting practices that he alleges are discriminatory on the basis of sex and national origin. He contends that adverse employment actions, including these charges, are in violation of the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, N.J.S.A. 34:19-3(a). Respondent is correct in his argument that an employee is protected from retaliation when he discloses a policy or practice he reasonably believes to be in violation of law, even if the employee ultimately is wrong about the violation. The employee's belief, however, must be reasonable, and, based upon this record, the Arbitrator cannot conclude that Respondent's many oblique and some pointed references to what, to him, in moments of anger, appeared to be examples of sex or national origin discrimination were reasonable.

In his brief, Respondent also emphasizes the issue of religious discrimination that he contends was associated with his "instruction" to the Principal to remove her cross from "her sweaty neck." Respondent asserts that his complaint in this regard was based upon a perceived violation of the First Amendment/Establishment Clause by the wearing of a religious symbol in a public school. While this is a worthy effort by counsel to cast Respondent's actions and comments in a favorable and legally sound light, the evidence, including Respondent's own testimony, establishes that Respondent found the situation offensive to his personal religious sensibilities, without regard to those of the Principal, and that he was not seeking to advance any First Amendment protections or restrictions relating to religious garb in public schools.

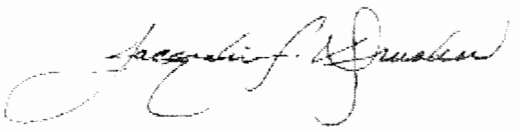
Ultimately, as noted above, the central elements of this case turn on Respondent's actions in May 2018, and those actions are so thoroughly based upon Respondent's choices and judgment and action that there can be no suggestion of any discriminatory ore retaliatory motivation in pursuit of these charges. The record associated with these two events amply establishes, by more than a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming and that this conduct warrants dismissal from employment.

As both parties have noted in their briefs, there is no binding definition of "unbecoming conduct." Respondent argues that case law developed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 show actions such as theft, assault, and fraud. that are far worse than any version of the allegations against Respondent, some of which resulted in penalties less than dismissal. While conduct unbecoming can be found to have included a litany of egregious acts that arguably are more serious than those of Respondent, the facts of record establish several startling and unacceptable actions and failings of profound significance. Looking to only the events of May 2018 and disregarding any assertions of prior misconduct, the Arbitrator must find that Respondent has been shown to have knowingly allowed children under his supervision to engage, during two classroom periods, in a game that led to boys and girls openly kissing, to girls performing lap dances for boys, and to one now chastened and regretful boy touching a female student's breast. Respondent acknowledged that he allowed the game to proceed but he has denied that any unwholesome "dares" were undertaken and, in the alternative, he asserts that, if they were, he was not aware of them.



First, the direct and highly credible accounts of the students establish that these troubling actions indeed occurred. Moreover, the evidence establishes that Respondent must be regarded as having been aware of the nature of the students' interactions. The student witnesses, who expressed fondness for Respondent and thus offer accounts untainted by personal bias, also established that no attempt was made to hide the actions from Respondent. Moreover, the final witness in this proceeding recalled that, with the commencement of one of the lap dances, Respondent instructed the students to lower the volume on the "club music" they were playing. He also was aware that a student left the classroom. It is implausible that Respondent would have been attentive to a student leaving the room but would have remained unaware of a girl gyrating on a boy's lap, students kissing, and other actions that continued for the duration of two class periods. The Arbitrator thus cannot disregard the powerful, compelling evidence establishing that Respondent was aware of these actions. Even if Respondent's assertions that he was unaware of any of this conduct were credited, however, he then must be found to have engaged in a woefully deficient level of supervision of these classroom activities. This action, standing alone, is, without question "unbecoming conduct" for an educator responsible for teaching and protecting 18 ninth graders.

Further, Respondent's reaction to the Principal's effort to conduct an observation on May 11, established by incontrovertible and powerful evidence, was disruptive and disconcerting to students and so contrary to the level of professionalism and decorum expected of a teacher that it is a profound instance unbecoming conduct warranting dismissal from employment. Respondent's actions constituted insubordination writ large, disrupted the teaching environment to the extent that the main teacher instructed students to avert their eyes, challenged the authority of the school's primary administrator in the presence of faculty and students, and drew law enforcement into a fracas caused by his own inability to find a professional, non-disruptive way to convey his displeasure with the situation.

Respondent has argued that unbecoming conduct generally requires intentional acts. See e.g., In the Matter of the Certificate of Sandra Kearney, 2005 WL 2261018, OAL DKT. No. EDE 03866-04 (August 22, 2005). Yet Respondent's actions with regard to the Principal were clearly, openly, and stunningly intentional. Further, given the level of awareness the evidence shows regarding the activities of the students on May 1, that, too, must be regarded as having involved an intentional and extraordinarily poor choice to allow such actions. Respondent has benefited from superb legal representation in his matter, but ultimately it is not possible to minimize the profound degree to which this conduct is unbefitting that of a teacher or to disregard the manner in which Respondent has revealed an inability to adhere to fundamental standards of professional conduct required within an educational institution and to exercise the restraint and sound judgment essential for any educator. For these reasons the Arbitrator must conclude that the evidence of record establishes unbecoming conduct that warrants dismissal from employment.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dawn Tardif, School District of the Township of Florence, Burlington County.

For the Petitioner, Geoffrey N. Stark, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Dawn Tardif

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on March 20, 2020, through tenure charges of incapacity certified by Donna Ambrosius, Superintendent of the Florence Township School District ("District"), together with supporting evidence against respondent, Dawn Tardif, a tenured custodian in the District's employ. The District provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address, via email and overnight delivery, on February 28, 2020.

On March 3, 2020, the Commissioner directed the respondent, via regular and certified mail, to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from or on behalf of the respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the District in this matter indicate that the respondent received a comprehensive Functional Capacity Evaluation on November 26, 2019. It was determined that the respondent is unable to perform the essential functions of her job with or without restrictions. Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that the respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that the District's charge of incapacity has been proven and warrants the respondent's dismissal. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the District, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District.

MOTION TO DISMISS

APPEARANCES:

For the Petitioner:

Comegno Law Group
521 Pleasant Valley Avenue
Moorestown, New Jersey 08057

For the Respondent:
Edward A. Cridge, Esquire

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Respondent Jill Maria was employed as a sixth (6^{th}) grade, Special Education teacher by the Lawrence Township School District Board of Education for the last three (3) years. However, she was granted tenure on approximately September 1, 2005. The record reflects that on December 18, 2018, she was placed on administrative leave after the School District was told she had been arrested. The record further reflects that she had been arrested on January 7, 2017 in Pennsylvania. In addition, she was stopped again on December 3, 2018 by police for a traffic violation. Subsequently, she was detained for a violation of her earlier plea agreement which required her to meet her probation officer as scheduled. The failure to comply with this agreement brought about a bench warrant for her arrest. In sum, the Respondent did not report either arrest, as required.

Based upon the foregoing, the Board of Education brought three (3) charges against Respondent Maria on February 22, 2019 upon the following grounds as set forth in NJSA 18A: 6-10:

> (1) Other Just Cause for tenure removal because Ms. Maria failed to report her arrest and conviction of the 2017 offense and, by the District's information and belief, also failed to report her 2018 detention as required by law;
>
> (2) Conduct Unbecoming by being insubordinate in refusing to answer Mr. Fry's questions on December 19, 2018; (b) having a prior disciplinary history that included insubordinate conduct with the District; and, (c) being untrustworthy in regard to her obligation to be truthful and her overall professional judgment.
> (3) Incapacity by virtue of the previously stated acts of nonfeasance and malfeasance.

The record further reflects that on March 13, 2019, the Board upheld these charges and suspended Respondent Maria without pay, pursuant to NJSA 18: 6-14. Subsequently, the Board delivered these charges accompanied by the Statement of Evidence, Certificate of Determination and Proof of Service upon Respondent Maria to the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Controversies and Disputes. Thereafter, Arbitrator Colflesh, Esquire was appointed this case. A hearing was held on May 13, 2019 in Lawrence, New Jersey. An award was issued on July 22, 2019. Arbitrator Colflesh suspended Respondent Maria without pay or benefits "until the first day of the 2019-2020 school year" on July 22, 2019. In sum, the suspension was for one hundred and twenty (120) days without pay, as well as the withholding of adjustment salary increments. It is important to note that within Arbitrator Colflesh's award he also noted the following caveat:

> Nothing herein should be construed as denying the District the right to bring charges based on unbecoming conduct grounded in the conduct that led to Ms. Maria's arrest in January 2017. That conduct was not the subject of the instant charges, most likely because Ms. Maria refused to disclose it when questioned in December 2018, and the District's desire to promptly act on that refusal and the other allegations presented in the above charges.

Based upon this language, the Board of Education brought Amended Charges upon Respondent Maria. On March 14, 2020, Director Killough-Herrera appointed this Arbitrator to hear this dispute. A conference call was held on March 17, 2020 pursuant to this Motion to Dismiss which was received on March 13, 2020. The Amended Charges consisted of: Charge One, Unbecoming Conduct, Charge Two, Incapacity, and Charge Three, Other Just Cause. Details of these charges will be discussed in the Positions of the Parties and in the Findings and Discussion.

ISSUES

(1) Whether or not the Entire Controversy Doctrine (ECD) is applicable to these subsequent tenure Amended Charges?

(2) Should the Amended Charges, based upon identical fact situation in the prior arbitration hearing, should again be adjudicated?

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

It is the Board's position that the Amended Charges center upon the Respondent Maria's conduct which occurred well after the arbitration award issued on July 22, 2019. Most importantly, the Board asserts that the Entire Controversy Doctrine (ECD) is not implicated. Moreover, the Board vigorously argues that the Entire Controversy Doctrine does not bar the Board from pursuing the Tenure Charges related to any of the underlying conduct at issue.

Specifically, the Board points out the underlying conduct which resulted in the Respondent's arrests were not addressed in the Initial Charges. The Board further explains that the Respondent refused to provide the Board with details about the arrest. Thus, the Board maintains that it was not aware of the underlying facts that gave rise to the charges.

Most importantly, the Board strongly asserts that these Amended Charges were brought due to conduct that occurred well after the arbitrator's award on July 22, 2019. That is, Respondent Maria was interviewed several months later in September and October 2019. The Board further contends that it was during these interviews that Respondent Maria's history of drug possession, abuse and the usage of cocaine, methamphetamines and oxycodone, that this information was revealed. In addition, the Board further asserts that the Respondent's probation had been extended due to her failed drug test; in violation of the terms of her probation. It was also pointed out by the Board that the Respondent assured the Administration that she no longer used drugs or alcohol, but it was later learned that that was untrue.

In sum, the Board strongly argues that the Respondent's lack of professional judgment, deceptiveness and insubordination, in the Initial Charges, had not yet occurred. Moreover, the Board concludes that this delineated misconduct occurred approximately two (2) to three (3) months after the arbitrator's award on July 22, 2019.

Lastly, the District further contends that even if the Respondent's conduct had not occurred until after the award for the Initial Charges, the Entire Controversy Doctrine does not bar the Board from pursuing the Tenure Charges at issue in this proceeding. The Board cited several decisions, which it claims, supports these contentions that the Entire Controversy Doctrine cannot be utilized in a "wholesale" manner in its applicability to arbitration proceedings. Based upon the foregoing, the Board argues that the Respondent's motion to be dismissed must be denied.

On the other hand, the Respondent disagrees with the Board's assessment. In particular, the Respondent points out that the Initial Charges alleged that Respondent Maria engaged in unbecoming conduct by failing to report both arrests only. That is, the Respondent explains that the Board did not charge her with unbecoming conduct in her relationship with substantive behavior which was the underpinning events underlying those arrests. Specifically, the Respondent notes that Respondent Maria was not charged with unbecoming conduct for having committed an assault nor for being in possession of any controlled dangerous substance, as alleged in the criminal charges.

Contrary to the Board's position, the Respondent vigorously points out that the Board was well aware of precisely what Respondent Maria had been arrested for because it was in their possession through the docket report from Bucks County, Pennsylvania which detailed Respondent Maria's arrests, charges and disposition of the case. Moreover, the Respondent asserts that the Board did have the right to charge her specifically for the assault and drug possession at that juncture, but failed to do so. However, this substantive unbecoming conduct was not included in the Initial Charges. Thus, the Respondent further asserts that the Board is now barred from doing so by the Entire Controversy Doctrine. Based on the foregoing, the Respondent reasons that this Motion to Dismiss is applicable to prevent relitigation and it must be granted.

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

After a careful review of the briefs in support of the Board's and Respondent's positions regarding the Motion to Dismiss, this Arbitrator finds that this motion must be granted, but without prejudice pursuant to the Board's right to pursue charges not barred by the Entire Controversy Doctrine (ECD) for the following reasons.

First, the Entire Controversy Doctrine is premised upon the concept that only one (1) action involving all claims and all parties should be adjudicated in a sole consolidated action, involving the same common nucleus of operative facts. Should a second action be brought, then it must be precluded. (See Cogdell v. Hospital Center at Orange, 116 NJ 7, 15-16 (1989); Aetna Insurance Co. v. Gilchrist Brothers, Inc., 85 NJ 550, 556-557 (1981); Bennun v. Rutgers State Union, 941 F2d, 165 (3rd); 502 US 1066, 117 Ed 2d 124, 112 S. Ct. 956 (1992).

Second, contrary to the Board's argument, the Entire Controversy Doctrine is applicable to administrative proceedings. In our situation, this arbitration involves the same identical parties and the charges evolved from the same forum and statute, the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, NJSA 18A: 6-10, etc. Thus, this doctrine is applicable under these circumstances (see J.T. v. Dover Ed of Ed, No: EDS 00491-17, Agency Docket No: 2017-25390; Thorton v. Potamkin Chevrolet, 94 NJ 1, 5 (1983).

Although the Board, on the other hand, points to Yarborough v. State Operated School District of the City of Newark, 455 NJ Super 136 (2018), as being dispositive of the Entire Controversy Doctrine as being inapplicable, this Arbitrator must disagree. The Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division found it "unnecessary to address the merits of both the trial court and the arbitrator" that the Entire Controversy Doctrine was inapplicable because of prior tenure hearings were not fully arbitrated. That is, the matter was dismissed regarding Plaintiff Yarborough's motion and argument for the Entire Controversy Doctrine. Specifically, that arbitrator dismissed the January 26, 2015 charges which invoked the Entire Controversy Doctrine determination. Moreover, that arbitrator found that "an [another] action regarding the identical facts [as in the October 9, 2014 matter] which would deny him [Yarborough] of his position a second time" should not be invoked. Thus, the premise of the Entire Controversy Doctrine argument was successfully utilized and analyzed by that arbitrator, not the New Jersey Superior Court who found it to be an unnecessary determination to address for the foregoing reasons.

Third, although the Board claims not to know of the underlying issues involving the arrests until September and October 2019, after Arbitrator Colflesh's issuance of the award on July 22, 2019, but this is simply not true. Specifically, let's examine Exhibit 4. This Exhibit comprises the "Bucks County Court of Common Pleas Court Summary." Within this summary is the following information: the prior arrest, dated January 7, 2017, the Bench Warrant Hearing, December 4, 2018. Most importantly, this summary delineates the specific description of charges and the disposition: "Simple Assault (nolo contendere; Probation: 24 months; Possession of Controlled Substance (nolle prossed); Use/Possession of Drug Paraphernalia (nolle prossed); Harassment, Subject to Physical Contact (nolle prossed)." All of these charges were known prior to the arbitration hearing of Arbitrator Colflesh on May 13, 2019. Moreover, this information contained in this Exhibit was known to the Board prior to the certification of the Initial Charges on March 18, 2019.

Fourth, although the Board argues that the underlying causes of the two (2) arrests were not known nor analyzed at the adjudication, this is again incorrect. In the transcript between the parties on May 13, 2019, the Respondent's attorney at page 97 says the following in relationship to the underlying causes of the arrests:

> You've known it [this information] before 2019 before the charges were filed because it was all on the docket sheet. They [the Board] could have written a tenure charge that said we charge you with unbecoming conduct because she committed an assault .... They could have put all of that in a set of charges. It wasn't done. We are not here on that.

Thereafter, Arbitrator Colflesh responded as follows:

> I think Counsel [Respondent's attorney] is right. ...

On page 98 in the transcript on May 13, 2019, Arbitrator Colflesh followed with this remark, addressing the opposing counsel:

> But you did know because you did an investigation, you determined that in fact she [Respondent Maria] had been arrested and you had the dockets, you had Exhibit 5 at the time you filed the charges. It's attached to the charges.

Subsequent to this discussion in the transcript, this arbitrator ruled on the sole issue of: whether or not Respondent Maria engaged in conduct unbecoming by failing to report arrests and by her insubordinate behavior. Stated differently, he did not decide on the underlying substantive charges of: assault nor use or possession of drugs, the charges in the docket because those issues were not before him.

Fifth, the Respondent rightly notes that an arbitrator must respond solely to the issue requested. One cannot modify nor expand the issue (see Bound Brook Board of Education v. Ciripompa 228 NJ 4 (2017)). Thus, Arbitrator Colflesh correctly responded to this narrow issue, as delineated in the charges before him only.

Sixth, based on the foregoing, the Entire Controversy Doctrine is applicable under these circumstances. These underlying substantive issues based upon both arrests were known prior to the actual arbitration hearing, yet also analyzed and disallowed at the hearing, as noted. This doctrine precludes another hearing or an adjudication involving the same or related issues.

As to other issues that arose outside of these issues later discovered in the September and October 2019 interviews with Respondent Maria, not covered by this doctrine, that subsequent information could be the subject of future charges. Arbitrator Colflesh specifically addressed that option would be available to the Board in his caveat, mentioned in the Statement of Facts by this Arbitrator.

RULING FOR THE MOTION TO DISMISS

This Motion to Dismiss is hereby granted for the reasons stated herein. Accordingly, the Entire Controversy Doctrine is applicable to these Amended Charges pursuant to NJSA 18A: 6-10 which must be dismissed. That is, the Board knew before the Initial Charges were brought against Respondent Maria by way of the investigation the underlying substantive conduct connected to her arrests, before there was the subsequent arbitration, as noted by the transcript, dated May 13, 2019, and docket summary (December 4, 2018) attached to the Initial Charges. All subsequent, new information acquired from the September-October 2019 interviews may be brought by the Board, subject to their discretion, not covered by the Entire Controversy Doctrine.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

N.J.-B., on behalf of minor child, I.T.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Pro Se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her child was not domiciled in Union and therefore not legally entitled to a free public education in the Township of Union School District (District). Petitioner further appealed the tuition assessment levied upon her for the time her child was deemed ineligible to attend school in the District. The Board contended that petitioner was domiciled in Irvington, not Union, and sought reimbursement in the total amount of $52,711.32, representing tuition for the entire 2018-2019 school year, including ninety-eight days of general education, eighty-two days of special education following the implementation of an IEP in the middle of the school year, transportation, behavioral intervention services, and counseling services.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a), public schools are free to any person over five and under twenty-five years of age who is domiciled within the school district; I.T. was enrolled in the Board's schools for the entirety of the 2018-2019 school year; petitioner testified that she had resided in Union during the relevant time period and that in order to obtain her New Jersey driver's license bearing the Lafayette Avenue address, she had to provide proof of residence to the Motor Vehicle Commission; petitioner further testified that because of her work schedule and childcare needs, I.T. sometimes stayed with relatives in Irvington overnight. The ALJ concluded that, based on her unstable living situation during the 2018-2019 school year, petitioner was domiciled for a portion of the year in Irvington, and a portion of the year in Union; petitioner was notified by the Board that she would be liable for $85 per day, or $15,321 for the entire school year; and that petitioner's liability to the Board is limited to the amount for which she had notice. The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay tuition to the Board in the amount of $8,341.76, representing the total amount of general education tuition claimed by the Board.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's ability to recover tuition from the petitioner is limited pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), which does not specify that assessed tuition be equal to the actual costs incurred by the district for educating a particular student; rather, it uses the measure of annual per pupil cost which is based on the district's overall costs and enrollment, and is not specific to any individual student. However, the Commissioner also found that the Initial Decision requires clarification regarding the exact amount of tuition owed to the District since the ALJ did not specify what portion of the school year petitioner resided in Union. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for clarification of the precise time periods in which petitioner resided in Union and Irvington.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

N.J.-B, on behalf of minor child, I.T.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Union, Union County,

Respondent.

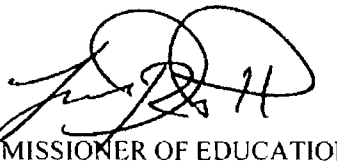
The record of this matter, the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 have been reviewed.[1]

In this matter, petitioner challenged the Board's determination that she did not reside in the Union school district. After a hearing, the ALJ found that – based on her unstable housing situation during the 2018-19 school year – petitioner was domiciled for a portion of the year in Irvington and a portion of the year in Union. The Board sought tuition in the amount of $52,711.32, which included general education tuition, special education tuition, and related costs. The ALJ found that the notice sent to petitioner by the Board indicated that she would be liable for $85 per day, or $15,321 for the entire school year. The ALJ therefore concluded that petitioner's liability to the Board was limited to the amounts for which she had notice. The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay tuition to the Board in the amount of $8,341.76, representing the total amount of general education tuition.

[1] Petitioner did not file exceptions or a reply to respondent's exceptions.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ did not consider all of its evidence in rendering the final decision, indicating that its hearing binder was not listed as one of its exhibits in the Initial Decision. The Board also contends that neither petitioner nor her witnesses were credible and that the ALJ erred in finding that petitioner resided in both Union and Irvington during the 2018-19 school year. Finally, the Board argues that there is no notice requirement for the amount of tuition due for a period of ineligible attendance and that costs can change during the pendency of a residency matter.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board's ability to recover tuition from petitioner is limited. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that if a parent loses a residency appeal, the Commissioner shall assess tuition "computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance." The statute does not specify that the assessed tuition be equal to the actual costs incurred by the district for educating the student at issue. Instead, it uses the measure of annual per pupil cost, which is based on the district's overall costs and enrollment and is not specific to any individual student. Here, the annual per pupil cost to Union was $15,321. The Board's recovery is therefore limited to 1/180 of that amount for each day of ineligible attendance, or $85.12 per day.



While concurring with the ALJ's primary finding in this matter, the Commissioner additionally determines that the Initial Decision requires clarification regarding the exact amount of tuition due to the school district. Specifically, while the ALJ found that petitioner resided in Union for a "portion of the year," the Initial Decision does not specify which portion of the school year.[2]

[2] The Board sought tuition at the general education rate for 98 days and at the special education rate for 82 days. The ALJ, in focusing on the Board's inability to recover special education costs, appears to have simply accepted the total general education tuition claimed by the Board and rejected the special education tuition and related costs. However, in order to properly calculate the amount due from petitioner, the Commissioner requires a finding of fact regarding the number of days of ineligible attendance. While the "portion of the year" in which the student was ineligible to attend may equal the same 98 days that the student was a general education student, the ALJ did not make such a factual finding.

Accordingly, the matter is remanded for clarification of the precise time periods in which petitioner resided in Union and Irvington.[3]

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03247-19
AGENCY DKT. NO. 23-1/19

N.J.-B., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, I.T., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

N.J.-B., petitioner pro se, on behalf of I.T.

Afshan T. Ajmiri Giner, Esq., for respondent (Florio Perucci Steinhart & Cappelli, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 17, 2020 Decided: February 11, 2020

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Union (the Board) seeks reimbursement of tuition and associated costs from petitioner, N.J.-B., parent of minor child I.T., in the amount of $52,711.32. This amount represents tuition for the entire 2018-2019 school year, including ninety-eight days of general education, eighty-two days of special education (an IEP was implemented in the middle of the school year), transportation, behavioral intervention services, and counselling services The Board asserts that petitioner and her children were not domiciled within the School District at any point during the period in question.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 6, 2019, for hearing as a contested case. An in-person settlement conference was conducted on July 31, 2019. The parties failed to reach an amicable resolution and the matter was set down for a hearing on October 29, 2019. The hearing was conducted, and the final submissions were received from the Board on December 3, 2019, and from the petitioner on December 30, 2019. A Certification signed by the business administrator for the district was received via regular mail on January 17, 2020, at which point the record was closed.

ISSUE

The issue in this matter is whether minor child I.T. is eligible to attend Union's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and, if not, whether respondent's request for tuition reimbursement should be granted.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

R.L.

R.L. is the sister of petitioner, N.J.-B. She resides at xx Headley Terrace, Irvington. R.L. testified that petitioner came to live with her for approximately one month from July to August of 2018, after which petitioner went with her two minor children to live with their brother (Mr. R.J.-B.) at his home in Union. R.L further testified that petitioner had an older, adult-male son that had already been living with her for some time. R.L. stated that she rents a two-bedroom apartment and that the quarters were too small to accommodate petitioner, her two minor children, her adult son, plus R.L. and her family.

R.L. testified that the two minor children spent "a lot of time" at her home even after they moved to Union. She stated that the two minor children would sleep over her house from time to time, but she could not testify as to the frequency of the sleepovers.

N.J.-B.

N.J.-B. is the petitioner in the foregoing matter, and she testified on her own behalf. She testified that during the time period in question, she held two full-time jobs; one from 5:15 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and another from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. Due to these long working hours, she relied on help from her family to care for her minor children, including I.T. At times, I.T. would be at his aunt's house in Irvington and would already be asleep by the time N.J.-B. was done with work. N.J.-B. testified that instead of waking I.T. up and transporting him to Union, I.T. would spend the night in Irvington and she would sleep in Union and retrieve him from Irvington in the morning.

On cross-examination, N.J.-B. testified that a bus was provided by the district at some point during the 2018-2019 school year, but she could not state with specificity exactly when the bus was provided or the dates, if any, said bus service was utilized by I.T. She did note that at times, she would take I.T. to and from school and sometimes her brother would accompany the child to school.

Petitioner presented a driver's license issued by the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission on November 9, 2018, which reflected her address as xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union, N.J. See P-1. Same was admitted into evidence. N.J.-B. further testified that she no longer resides in Union and her son, I.T., has not been enrolled in the Union School District since June of 2019.

Mr. R.J.-B.

Mr. R.J.-B. is the brother of the petitioner and the owner of xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union, N.J., where he resides with his family. Mr. R.J.-B. testified that his sister and her two young children came to live with him for a period of approximately one year, starting in August of 2018. He further testified that at times, petitioner and I.T. would not sleep at his home but would spend the night at his sister's house in Irvington. He could not approximate how frequently this would occur but noted that this would happen from time to time due to petitioner's work schedule.

On cross examination, Mr. R.J.-B. testified that his sister had received mail at his home during the period in question and continues to receive mail at the Union address from time to time even though she has since moved to West Orange.

John Matos

John Matos (Matos) appeared telephonically. He is a residency investigator for the Union Township Board of Education. He has been so employed by the district since January 22, 2015. Matos conducted an investigation during the 2018-2019 school year and compiled a report regarding the residence of I.T. See R-1. Mr. Matos testified that he commenced his investigation from October 9, 2018, to October 23, 2018, with a follow-up investigation from November 5, 2018, through the November 30, 2018. Matos began his investigation by surveilling I.T.'s purported Union Township address on Lafayette Avenue, Union. He testified that on the morning of on the morning of October 9, 2018, he witnessed several children exiting the subject address, but not I.T.

Matos subsequently conducted an afternoon surveillance on October 15, 2018, wherein he followed I.T. home after I.T. was dismissed from school early due to a disciplinary infraction. Matos testified that he was contacted by the Board and notified that I.T. would be leaving school early that day. Matos further testified that he observed I.T. leaving the school accompanied by his mother (the petitioner). Matos followed them to xx Headley Terrace, Irvington. Matos testified that he remained at the Irvington address briefly to conclude his surveillance and returned early the next morning to observe. He witnessed I.T. leaving the premises along with his mother early the next morning. The pair proceeded to drive to the child's school in Union.

Matos testified that he performed a follow-up investigation later in the year, from June 6, 2018, to June 21, 2018, (with exception of June 17, 2018). He noted that at this time, I.T. had changed schools from Connecticut Farms School to Battle Hill Elementary School.

Matos testified that he had performed surveillance on I.T. for a total of eight weeks, excluding weekends, between October of 2018 and June of 2019. His report did not indicate, and Matos, himself, could not attest, to his specific observations for each day he performed surveillance on petitioner and I.T. Matos could only attest with specificity to the October 9, 2018, and October 15, 2018, dates. Matos did attest, however, that at all times relevant, he witnessed I.T. exiting and returning to xx Headily Terrace, Irvington and never witnessed the child exit or return to xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union. Matos further testified that he observed N.J.-B.'s vehicle, a black Acura, regularly parked outside the Irvington address, often overnight, and never observed the vehicle parked overnight at the Union address.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had an opportunity to consider all the evidence and to observe the witnesses and make credibility determinations based on the witnesses' testimony, I FIND the following FACTS in this case:

1. Petitioner and her minor child, I.T., came to live at her sister's residence located at xx Headley Terrace, Irvington in July of 2018.

2. I.T. enrolled as a pupil in the Township of Union School District in September of 2018, where he remained throughout the 2018-2019 academic year (the time period reimbursement is sought.)

3. A letter dated October 31, 2018, was sent to N.J.-B. by the district informing N.J.-B. that she was found to be residing out of district and her child, I.T., was therefore not entitled to a free education in the district. The letter further informed N.J.-B. that she may be responsible for tuition of $85 per day, or up to $15,321 per year if, on appeal, she was found to be residing out of district while I.T. was enrolled as a pupil in the Union School District. See R-2.

4. An investigation was conducted by investigator John Matos regarding the residence of I.T. during the 2018-2019 school year. Mr. Matos surveilled I.T.'s purported Union Township address of xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union and conducted surveillance at xx Headley Terrace, Irvington.

5. Matos performed surveillance on I.T. and N.J.-B. between October of 2018 and November of 2018, after which Matos concluded that I.T. was, at all times relevant, living at xx Headily Terrace, Irvington and not xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union.

6. As of November 9, 2018, N.J.-B. held, and continues to hold, a New Jersey driver's license that shows her address as being xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union. P-1.

7. I.T. has not been enrolled in the Union School District since on or about July 1, 2019.

8. I FIND that petitioner, N.J.-B., had an unstable housing situation from July of 2018 to June of 2019 and, as a result, both petitioner and her son, I.T., spent substantial time at xx Headily Terrace, Irvington and xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parents or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. ex rel. minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419. 427 (App. Div. 2001).

Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

Petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency ineligibility N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Here petitioner disputes the ultimate finding of the district and the corresponding investigative report that concludes that for a substantial time during the 2018-2019 school year, both N.J.-B. and I.T. were occupying the residence located at xx Headily Terrace, Irvington and that I.T. was regularly taken to the school from this out-of-district address.

Notwithstanding the above-cited investigation, N.J.-B. was able to produce a valid New Jersey State motor vehicle license that showed her address to be xxx Lafayette Avenue, Union. She also testified that she did, in fact, reside at that Union address at all times relevant and that in order to obtain the license, she had to provide proof of residence to the Motor Vehicle Commission. In addition, N.J.-B. produced two additional witnesses that testified that N.J.-B. was living with her son, I.T., at the Union address at all times relevant. In light of the above, I CONCLUDE that, based on her unstable housing situation during the 2018-2019 school year, petitioner N.J.-B. was domiciled for a portion of the school year at xx Headily Terrace, Irvington and a portion of the school year at xxx Lafayette Terrace, Union.

DAMAGES

Where the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) likewise requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

In the case at bar, the district is seeking an order against the petitioner assessing the tuition amount owed the district in the amount of $52,711.32. No testimony was offered at the hearing regarding this amount, but the Board provided the undersigned with a certification (R-3) itemizing the amount sought in their closing submissions. Based on the certification, the amount sought consists of general education tuition of $8,341.76 (prorated for ninety-eight days); special education tuition of $10,706.92 (prorated for eighty-two days); personal aid costs (including benefits) of $26,445.69 (prorated for eighty-two days); door-to-door transportation of $929.65 (estimated); behavioral intervention services of $6,050; and counseling services in the amount of $237.30.

In the notice sent to N.J.-B. by the district dated October 31, 2018, (R-2) it is clearly indicated that the amount petitioner would be liable for if she were found not to be domiciled in district, would be $85 per day or $15,321 for the entire school year. The notice makes no reference to special education tuition, related costs, or transportation expenses. At the hearing, no testimony was offered with regard to special education tuition/costs or transportation costs. Thus, I FIND petitioner had no notice of any charges or costs beyond the $85 per day and I, therefore, CONCLUDE that petitioner's liability for the 2018-2019 school year is limited to the $15,321 sought via the district's October 31, 2018, letter. R-2. In addition, since I have already found that petitioner was domiciled for a portion of the year in the district, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's liability to the district is limited to the amount of $8,341.76; which represents the total amount of general education tuition (pro-rated at $85 per day) certified to by the Business Administrator. R-3. Therefore, the Board is entitled to payment of tuition in the amount of $8,341.76 for the entire 2018-2019 school year.

Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's child, I.T., was not a domiciliary in the Union Township Board of Education School District for a portion of the days sought and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of audited tuition in the amount of $8,341.76.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and her child are not residents and domiciliary in Union, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within its school district during the 2008-2009 school year is hereby AFFIRMED in part. It is further ORDERED that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner for the total cost of audited tuition in the amount of $8,341.76.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date of which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATT: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Synopsis

In this consolidated matter on remand, the petitioners – all tenured teachers – challenged salary reductions imposed upon them by the respondent Board as a penalty pursuant to the Board's policy regarding tardiness. Petitioners asserted that the reduction in pay violated their tenure rights. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision. An Initial Decision was issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in November 2019. Subsequent to a review of the case, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL in February 2020 to allow the parties to submit reply briefs regarding their cross motions for summary decision.

On remand, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; all petitioners are tenured teachers and were reduced in salary without any hearing based upon the Board's Policy 3151 regarding tardiness; such action violated the requirements of N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24, as Policy 3151 was not negotiated with the appropriate collective bargaining unit; and the Board's action in reducing petitioners' salaries must be reversed. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the petitioners' motion for summary decision and denied respondent Board's cross motion.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision of the OAL and granted summary decision to the Board. In so doing, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that the docking of petitioners' salaries was consistent with the law, as N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24(c) provides that "[f]ines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10," and this provision is not limited to minor discipline defined by a negotiated collective bargaining agreement. The Commissioner further found that, consistent with Ferreiro v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Elizabeth, Union Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 185-19 (July 22, 2019), the docking of petitioners' pay is the type of minor discipline contemplated by N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24; as such, the docking of petitioners' pay for excessive tardiness was not a violation of their tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter, the March 26, 2020 Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto by petitioners have been reviewed.[1] This matter concerns a challenge by petitioners, who are tenured teachers, to the Board's decision to reduce their salaries pursuant to a Board policy regarding tardiness. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Board's action in reducing petitioners' salaries must be reversed because there was no collective bargaining agreement addressing excessive tardiness; accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioners' motion for summary decision and denied the Board's motion for summary decision.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the relevant statute specifically provides that fines for minor discipline do not constitute a reduction in compensation under the Tenure Act and that such fines are permissible. The Board further contends that the statute's plain language allows these fines even in the absence of a negotiated collective bargaining agreement. The Board cites to Ferreiro v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Elizabeth, Union Cty., Commissioner Decision No. 185-19 (July 22, 2019), which held that the docking of pay for excessive tardiness is the type of minor discipline contemplated by the statute. According to the respondent, the ALJ improperly relied on the fact that the petitioner in Ferreiro was subject to a negotiated collective bargaining agreement that addressed excessive tardiness as a reason to distinguish that matter from the one at issue here.

In reply, petitioners argue that fines for minor discipline are only permissible when derived from a collectively negotiated agreement. According to petitioners, because there is no agreement in place, the Board may only impose discipline that is not prohibited by law; here, because reductions in compensation are prohibited by tenure law, the Board cannot impose any fines.

Upon review, the Commissioner disagrees with the ALJ and concludes that the Board's action in docking the petitioners' salaries was consistent with the law. N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24(c) provides that "[f]ines and suspensions for minor discipline shall not constitute a reduction in compensation pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10." This provision is not limited to minor discipline defined by a negotiated collective bargaining agreement. Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 defines minor discipline as including "various forms of fines and suspensions, but does not include tenure charges . . . or the withholding of increments . . . letters of reprimand, or suspensions with pay[.]" Consistent with the Ferreiro decision, supra, the Commissioner finds that the docking of the petitioners' pay is the type of minor discipline contemplated by N.J.S.A. 34:13A-24. As such, the docking of the petitioners' pay for excessive tardiness is not a violation of their tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.[2]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected; summary decision is granted in favor of the Board and petitioners' motion for summary decision is denied. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Agency Dkt. No. 85-4/20

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Nicole Palazzo, School District of the Township of Middlesex, Middlesex County.

For the Petitioner, Ari D. Schneider, Esq.

No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Nicole Palazzo

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on April 9, 2020, through tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause certified by Fredrick D. Williams, Superintendent of the Middlesex Township School District ("District"), together with supporting evidence against respondent, Nicole Palazzo, a tenured teacher in the District's employ. The District provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address, via hand delivery and certified mail, on April 7, 2020.

On April 29, 2020, the Commissioner directed the respondent, via regular to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from or on behalf of the respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the District in this matter indicate that the respondent has a history of excessive absenteeism dating back to the 2001-2002 school year. The respondent has not reported for work since November 20, 2019 and she has failed to respond to the District's request for information concerning her whereabouts. Deeming the allegations to be admitted and noting that the respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her, the Commissioner finds that the District's charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause have been proven and warrants the respondent's dismissal. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the District, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District.

Final Decision

Christopher Wong,

Petitioner,

v.

New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the July 2019 determination of the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Student Protection (OSP), that he is permanently disqualified from any employment with a Department of Education contracting unit in the State of New Jersey. Petitioner was disqualified as the result of a 2014 guilty plea in New York State (NYS) to a charge of attempted unlawful surveillance in the second degree, a class E felony under NYS's Penal Law 110-250.45 sub 1; this offense mirrors invasion of privacy under New Jersey's N.J.S.A. 2C:14-9(b)(1). The respondent filed a motion to .dismiss the petition.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.S.A. 18A:7-7.1(c)2 requires permanent disqualification following a violation or attempted violation of any offense under N.J.S.A. 2C Title 14; petitioner submitted psychological evaluations purportedly showing that he is a minimal risk to recommit the acts at issue in this matter; petitioner has not presented any evidence disputing the criminal charges he pled guilty to in NYS; rather, petitioner seeks to have the Commissioner reject his mandatory disqualification based on the facts and circumstances of petitioner's individual situation and the documentation of his mental state following his commission of the crime; the Commissioner is, however, bound by the statutory language, which states that petitioner "shall be permanently disqualified." The ALJ concluded that the law is settled against the petitioner and denied his request for relief.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings of the ALJ and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the . It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed and considered. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner is permanently disqualified from employment in any educational institution under the supervision of the Department of Education. Petitioner does not challenge the accuracy of his criminal history record but seeks only to present evidence of his individual circumstances. However, his disqualification is mandatory pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed.

Agency Dkt. No. 3-5/18A

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Decision

In the Matter of the Revocation of the Certificates of Andrea Giuffrida, State Board of Examiners

Order of Revocation by the State Board of Examiners, April 18, 2018

For the Respondent-Appellant, Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, Laurie Fichera, Deputy Attorney General (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey)

This matter was referred to the State Board of Examiners (Board) after the Point Pleasant Borough School District dismissed the appellant from her non-tenured position as a result of allegations that she had acted inappropriately toward several of her male colleagues. Following a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the appellant's behavior toward her male colleagues constituted unbecoming conduct.[1] The ALJ recommended that the appellant's certificates be suspended for one year, and that she receive counseling on sexual harassment and professionalism in the workplace in order to address the seriousness of her offenses. Thereafter, the Board adopted the Initial Decision of the ALJ, but modified the penalty to include the revocation of the appellant's certificates. The Commissioner affirmed the Board's decision on appeal.

[1] The case was tried before ALJ John Schuster on April 15, 2013 and February 18, 2014 and the record closed on July 17, 2014. However, ALJ Schuster did not issue a decision before he retired in 2017. In April 2017, the case was transferred to ALJ Lisa James-Beavers, who subsequently issued an Initial Decision on October 13, 2017.

Appellant subsequently appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court, which reversed the decision because the Initial Decision of the ALJ – on which the Board and the Commissioner relied – improperly made credibility findings based on transcripts alone, when the ALJ had not heard the testimony of the witnesses. The Appellate Division remanded the matter to the Commissioner to determine whether the redacted record, devoid of the evidence based on the ALJ's credibility findings, sufficiently supports the revocation of appellant's certificates.

Following the Appellate Division's decision, appellant submitted information to the Commissioner. She argued that her behavior since these events occurred in 2011 has been beyond reproach and should be considered as a mitigating factor. Appellant notes that the recipients of her actions did not view them as sexual harassment, and none of the conduct involved students. Appellant further contends that, because she has been unable to teach since the revocation in April 2018, a period of over two years, a sufficient penalty has already been imposed against her.

In reply, the Board argues that the redacted record supports the Board's decision to revoke appellant's certificates. Specifically, the Board points to testimony in which appellant admitted to kissing and hugging colleagues. The Board contends that appellant's good behavior since 2011 does not alleviate it of its responsibility to impose a penalty for her actions and urges the Commissioner to reaffirm its decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner is mindful of the standard of review for appeals from decisions of the State Board of Examiners, under which the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). At this stage in the proceeding, the only decision available for the Commissioner's review is one that is no longer valid. As there is no Board decision based solely on the redacted record or based upon a new record that includes appropriate credibility findings from an ALJ who has heard the testimony, there is no longer a decision in this case for the Commissioner to review.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the State Board of Examiners for further proceedings consistent with this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Corrected Final Decision

Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County, Petitioner,

v.

A.V. and S.V. on behalf of minor children, N.V. and T.V.,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by respondent pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the Board's reply thereto.

In this matter, respondents are challenging the Board's determination that they did not reside in Piscataway from September to December 2010, and that the minor children were therefore ineligible to attend school in the district. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioners did not meet their burden of demonstrating that they were residents of Piscataway from September to December 2010. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered tuition reimbursement in the amount of $8,830.08.

In their exceptions, respondents argue that the Board incorrectly handled the family's situation and did not focus on their homelessness in 2009. In reply, the Board contends that the evidence in the record, including the ALJ's credibility findings, amply supports the conclusion that respondents' children were not eligible for enrollment in the district.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that respondents failed to sustain their burden of establishing that they were domiciled in Piscataway from September to December 2010, for the reasons thoroughly detailed in the Initial Decision. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the witnesses who appeared before her and make findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record.
> [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The Commissioner finds no basis in the record to disturb the ALJ's credibility assessments.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Respondents are directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $8,830.08 for tuition costs incurred during the period in which N.V. and T.V. were ineligible to attend school in Piscataway.

Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County,

Petitioner,

v.

A.V. and S.V., on behalf of minor children, N.V. and T.V.,

Respondent.

Synopsis

The petitioning Board of Education (Board) sought tuition reimbursement from the respondents for a period of alleged ineligible attendance by their children, N.V. and T.V., from September to December 2010. The respondents disputed the Board's allegations and claimed they were homeless.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a), public schools are free to any person over five and under twenty-five years of age who is domiciled within the school district; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), in proceedings before the Commissioner, the parent or guardian bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the children are eligible for a free public education under the statutory criteria; if the evidence does not support the residency claim, the Commissioner shall assess tuition for the period of ineligible attendance; in the instant case, witnesses for the petitioning Board presented credible testimony and evidence establishing that N.V. and T.B. were domiciled in Raritan, not Piscataway, during the period at issue; the testimony of A.V. as to his family's residency for the same period was not credible or consistent; and although the V family had been homeless previously, they were not homeless during the period in question here. The ALJ concluded that petitioners did not meet their burden to show that they were residents of Piscataway from September to December 2010; accordingly, the ALJ ordered tuition reimbursement in the amount of $8,830.08.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. Respondents were ordered to reimburse the Board in the amount of $8,830.08. The petition was dismissed.

FINDINGS and OPINION

Background;

On/about March 24, 2020, Acting Director Jennifer Killough-Herrera, Office of Controversies & Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education [hereafter, the "Agency"] appointed this Arbitrator to hear and decide the above referenced tenure related matter. Due to certain operating restrictions forced upon the Agency because of the 'Covid-19' Pandemic; the "Agency" delegated its usual responsibility for transmittal of the official 'file' to the Arbitrator to the Parties. Accordingly, by Conference call between the Arbitrator and Parties' Counsel [March 25, 2020; held for multiple reasons] an alternative method of providing an accurate, but duplicate, "Agency" file to the Arbitrator was achieved. Thus, the "Agency's" file transmittal task was accomplished. It was received in/ around March 27, 2020.

During the March 25th conference, several preliminary matters were addressed by the Arbitrator in accordance with his authority under P.L. 2015, c. 109. This included a 'Wavier' of the time limits imposed under the Act, being mutually agreed upon between the respective Parties 'Counsel. Also, a detailed discussion occurred relative to their schedule for completion of "Discovery"; as a condition precedent to holding in-person Hearing(s) as required under the Act.

Moreover, a schedule of Hearings to permit completion of "Discovery" was agreed upon and set as June 3, 4, and 5, 2020. Counsel for the Parties also agreed that this schedule would provide sufficient time to prepare for the Hearings and thus allow for a full and fair adjudication of the Teacher Tenure process. Notice of the above was transmitted to the Parties.

Another Conference Call was scheduled for May 13, 2020, in order to allow for a 'status' check, i.e., that all appropriate pre-Hearing discovery [requests/ responses] had been satisfied. In the meantime, receipt and review of the duplicate "Agency" file had occurred by Arbitrator. Notice of the above was transmitted to the Parties.

On April 3, 2020, the Arbitrator wrote Party's Counsel to confirm review of the Agency file and to ascertain the status of their progress in discovery proceedings. Also, to remind of the upcoming Conference Call scheduled for May 13, 2020.

Subsequently, on May 6, 2020, School Board Counsel, Attorney Febres wrote to advise that a settlement had been reached between the Parties jointly. Purportedly, the settlement process had been ongoing; and was only announced after the Arbitrator had written, on the same day, to the Parties seeking further status, as above.

In Consequence:

All of the above contributed to the process contemplated by the Act. Further, the extended time frame resulted in apparent settlement discussions between the named Parties during the hiatus between discovery and scheduled hearings.

Attorney Febres and subsequently, Attorney Hunter's contributions [correspondence and documentation] foreshadowed a successful settlement. Included were the initial pronouncement of, and a previously executed / notarized, "SETTL (E) MENT, SEPARATION AND MUTUAL RELEASE AGREEMENT" [hereafter, 'Settlement Agreement' or, 'Agreement']:

"... the parties have reached an amicable resolution and have entered into a settlement agreement that is subject to your review and approval. Enclosed is such agreement. If you approve of the parties' settlement, please advise whether the Board may withdraw the charges that have been filed in this matter and whether this matter is deemed closed. If you have any questions or require additional information, ...contact me... "

The complete and fully executed, "Settlement Agreement" [attached to the Arbitrator's transmittal of this, "Final Award, by Consent" document] was incorporated, along with several other documents referenced below, as attachments to this 'Award'. They include the following, as attached hereto, forwarded by Attorney Hunter and which are also referenced in the 'Agreement', as noted below:

"Exhibit A"; an irrevocable letter of resignation and retirement, executed by 'Elyss Frenkel' [Agreement. at Par. 1c.]

"Exhibit "B"; an irrevocable waiver of the right to consider the 'Separation and Release Agreement' for the full [i.e., 21 day] consideration period; executed by Elyss Frenkel [Agreement, at Par. 16, c.

"Resolution #L5 Settlement Agreement"; a document reflecting adoption of and approval by, the "Elmwood Park Board of Education", executed by John DiPaola, Board Secretary.

As part of the requested review by the Arbitrator, certain aspects of the 'Agreement' raised inquiries and, discussed with Party Counsel, were promptly resolved. In relevant part of my consideration for this, "Final Award, by Consent" are the following, related portions:

"1. TERMS
a. Frenkel acknowledges that, at the time of this Agreement, she has been placed on leave since, at least, March 13, 2018 and placed on unpaid leave since, at least, January 23, 2019. Frenkel further acknowledges that, since being on unpaid leave, the Board has not been contributing to her pension through the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund ("TPAF").

b. As a result of this Agreement, the Board will continue Frenkel on unpaid administrative leave through and ending on June 30, 2020.

c. Simultaneous with executing this Agreement, Frenkel will submit an irrevocable letter of resignation effective July 1, 2020 (Exhibit "A"), which the Board shall immediately accept upon approval and execution of this Agreement.

d. Should Frenkel apply for retirement with the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund ("TPAF"), she shall provide the Board with any application that may require its input or response, as soon as practicable. In turn, the Board shall complete and submit its respective portion to the TPAF within seventy-two (72) hours, notwithstanding any technical or administrative difficulties that may be beyond its control.

e. In exchange for the promises and Releases set forth herein, the Board will pay Frenkel a lump sum payment of Fourteen Thousand Four Hundred Dollars ($14,400.00) which will hereinafter be referred to as the "Settlement Sum."

i. Frenkel acknowledges and agrees that she does not have any accrued, unused leave nor is she entitled to nor will she receive any financial payout upon separation from employment, other than the Settlement Sum.

ii. Within fifteen (15) days of this Agreement being fully-executed by all parties, and approved by the Commissioner of Education-assigned Arbitrator who has been assigned to the pending tenure charges to the captioned matter: IMO the Tenure Hearing of Elyss Frankel, School District of the Borough of Elmwood 3 Park, Bergen County, Agency Docket # 67-3/20, payment by the Board of the Settlement Sum shall be issued to Frenkel.

iii. Payment shall be issued without deductions for, and not limited to, pensions contributions, payroll taxes and/or health benefits contributions. Accordingly, the Settlement Sum shall be subject to IRS reporting using Form 1099.

iv. Frenkel shall be solely responsible for the payment of all taxes related to the Settlement Sum and shall indemnify and hold harmless the Board, including the Board's officers, employees, agents, representatives and insurers, for any amounts found due and owing to any tax authorities for any tax liabilities for which Plaintiffs may be or are found liable.

f. Following the full-execution of this Agreement and approval of this Agreement by the assigned arbitrator to the tenure charges herein referenced, the Board shall withdraw its tenure charges against Frenkel. Thereafter, it shall segregate the tenure charges from Frenkel's personnel file.

g. As a result of Frenkel's irrevocable resignation effective July 1, 2020, Frenkel's last day of employment with the Elmwood Park Board of Education shall be June30, 2020.

i. Accordingly, and unless otherwise agreed to in writing by the Board, Frenkel shall not be considered an employee of the Board following June 30, 2020.

ii. Frenkel further understands and agrees that by entering into this Agreement, she is voluntarily foregoing her tenure and seniority rights effective July 1, 2020.

h. All Board equipment and property in the possession of Frenkel, including, but not limited to communication devices, keys, identification cards, and/or equipment will be returned to the Board within five (5) days of executing this Agreement."

['Settlement Agreement', 'Exhibit(s) A and B' and the, 'Resolution #L5' documents; shall be known hereafter as, the "Settlement" package]

As stated above in covering correspondence and included within the terms of the "Settlement Agreement" document was an appropriate request for the Arbitrator's approval and to: "advise whether the Board may withdraw the charges that have been filed in this matter and whether this matter is deemed closed." [Par.1, f.] Further, and based upon prior conventions under the NJ Teacher Tenure Act, this Arbitrator continues the practice of incorporating the terms of the parties' settlement into an award, i.e., this "Final Award, by Consent.

Review and Approval of Settlement Reached and Documentation Submitted:

Consequently, the fully executed / notarized "Settlement Agreement", previously copied by Ms. Febres' to opposing Counsel [Stephen P. Hunter, Esquire] and several School District officials is now deemed to be approved after review by the undersigned Arbitrator and, along with the other documents referenced [i.e., the "Settlement" package] are incorporated herein.

All of the documents appear, by their terms, to describe an 'arms-length' transaction entered into without duress by either Party and with each of the principle signatories relying upon the advice of counsel. Moreover, Counsel for the Teacher confirmed his role in the above when he wrote to this Arbitrator, on May 18, 2020, "This letter will also serve to confirm that Ms. Frenkel, consistent with Par. 9 of the Agreement has consulted with me, as her attorney, with respect to the Agreement and has reviewed with me all of the terms and conditions of this Agreement prior to execution of same".

Further, the 'School Board' has demonstrated its part by providing a document, "Resolution #L5" which by its terms effectively, "approves the settlement 'Agreement'. Consequently, the entirety of these documents, including this "Final Award, by Consent, effectively completes the matter and thus terminates the Tenure charge proceedings against this Teacher.

Accordingly, the parties having negotiated a successful and amicable resolution of the charges pending and the documentation resultant thereto appear to be in the mutual best interest of maintaining ongoing and harmonious relationships in the Parties environment. The transaction also appears to be in the public interest and consistent with the settled law of the jurisdiction.

The 'Settlement' encompasses all outstanding issues of this matter, achieving School Board approval and thus, the approval of this Arbitrator after review of the entire matter. The Arbitrator has fully considered whether the settlement represents an appropriate resolution of the issues, taking into account the relevant law and the best interests of the parties. On the basis of that review the Arbitrator finds the Parties' settlement of their differences to be an appropriate compromise of their respective positions.

Taking all of the above into consideration, the following Decision under the form of a, "Final Award, by Consent" is issued:

DECISION

The underlying record of this 'Final Award, by Consent' matter encompasses the entire, "Settlement" of Tenure charges filed against Tenured Teacher, Elyss Frenkel by the Borough of Elmwood Park School District. [Agency Docket No. 67-3/20] The documents covering the "Settlement" are referenced more specifically above here; and are included and incorporated herein as: the fully executed "Separation of Employment Agreement" [between Teacher and Board of Education], "Letter of Resignation" [by the Teacher, "Exhibit A"], Teacher's "Waiver" ["Exhibit B", and, "Resolution #L5 Settlement Agreement" [School Board's adoption / approval]

All of the above has been carefully reviewed by this Arbitrator. As a result, the Arbitrator believes and thus finds that this "Settlement" is consistent with established standards governing settlement of tenure matters in this jurisdiction. Moreover, the terms agreed to by the Parties are consistent and in conformity with the principles established by, "In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

Moreover, all terms of the "Settlement Agreement" and accompanying supporting documents referenced above shall be enforced and deemed enforceable by the Parties to them. Furthermore, upon 'segregating' these charges from the Teacher's personnel file consistent with the 'Agreement' this matter is concluded, and thus deemed final and binding. Consequently, this Settlement is hereby approved and the tenure matter discharged, subject to full compliance with the terms of all the "Settlement" documents referenced hereunder.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

S.B., on behalf of minor child, S.F.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Morris School District, Morris County,

Respondent.

Synopsis

Petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her child, S.F., was ineligible to receive a free public education in respondent's school district. S.F. divides her time equally between the Morris County School of Technology and the Morristown High School (MHS). The Board contended that S.B. and S.F. moved from Morristown to Boonton early in the 2018-19 school year, and from that point forward was ineligible to receive a free public education in the Morris School District. The Board filed a motion for summary decision, and a counterclaim for tuition. The ALJ issued an October 2019 Initial Decision finding that petitioner owed the Board tuition for a period of ineligible attendance from October 19, 2018 through June 30, 2019 totalling $11,290.05, plus $73.70 for each school going forward since the start of the 2019-20 school year. The Commissioner remanded the case to the OAL in December 2019, finding that additional information was necessary to accurately calculate the total amount of tuition due to the Board.

On remand, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue herein and the case is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), public school is free to a minor who is domiciled within the school district; if a student is not domiciled within the school district, she is not entitled to attend district schools free of charge, and the Commissioner may assess tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b; in the instant case, it is uncontroverted that S.B. and S.F. moved from Morristown to Boonton on September 30, 2018, but S.F. continued to attend MHS for the remainder of the 2018-19 school year; S.F. remains a student at MHS for the 2019-20 school year; and the respondent Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement for the period of S.F.'s ineligible attendance. The ALJ concluded that S.B. owes the Board $15,980.85 for the combined periods from October 19, 2018 through June 30, 2019, and September 1, 2019 through December 13, 2019.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision, with modification to reflect October 1, 2018 as the correct date upon which S.F. became ineligible to attend school in the district; further, the Commissioner noted that the technique used by the ALJ to calculate tuition due did not comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, which requires that tuition be "computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local school district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance." Based on these modifications, the Commissioner directed petitioner to reimburse the Board in the amount of $16,611.15, plus $73.29 for each day beyond December 13, 2019 that S.F. remained enrolled in the district. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision on Remand

S.B., on behalf of minor child, S.F.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Morris School District, Morris County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's December 3, 2019 decision remanding this matter for calculation of tuition due to the Board.

In his December 3, 2019 decision, the Commissioner determined that the petitioner failed to sustain her burden of demonstrating that she was a domiciliary of Morristown for the majority of the 2018-19 school year, as she admitted moving to Boonton on or about September 30, 2018. Thus, the minor child was not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools, or at the Morris County School of Technology, which S.F. attended part time. The Commissioner explained that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 18A:38-1b, he shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in the district, but noted that it was unclear which date – October 1 or October 19, 2018 – the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) used in his calculation of tuition. The Commissioner also found that additional information was necessary in order to calculate the total tuition owed to the Board, such as the number of school days on which the minor child attended school ineligibly during both the 2018-19 and 2019-20 school years. The Commissioner therefore remanded the matter to the OAL for calculation of tuition and supplementation of the record as warranted.

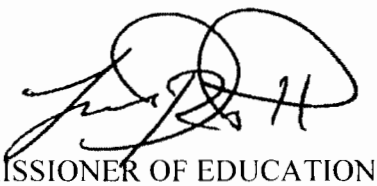
Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the minor child was ineligible to attend school in the district from October 1, 2018 to the present.[1] The total cost per day for S.F. to attend half-days at the Morristown High School and half-days at the Morris County School of Technology was $69.69 for the 2018-19 school year and $73.29 for the 2019-20 school year. As such, the Commissioner finds that the Board is entitled to reimbursement in the amount of $16,611.15 for the period from October 1, 2018 through December 13, 2019 ($69.69 per day for 170 days during the 2018-19 school year and $73.29 per day for 65 days during the 2019-20 school year), plus $73.29 for each day beyond December 13, 2019 that the minor child remains enrolled in the district's schools.[2]

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that according to school policy, the minor child was permitted to remain in the district for the remainder of her junior year free of charge and attend as a tuition student for her senior year. Petitioner also expresses her frustration with



[1] The Initial Decision concludes that the minor child was ineligible to attend school in the district beginning on October 19, 2018, but also calculates the number of school days remaining in the 2018-19 school year beginning on October 1, 2018. Notwithstanding the ALJ's use of two different dates in his calculation of tuition, the Commissioner finds that the date the minor child became ineligible to attend school in the district should be October 1, 2018, as it is the first day following September 30, 2018, when petitioner admitted that she moved to Boonton.

[2] The ALJ calculated tuition for the 2018-19 school year by reducing the total annual tuition by 1/10, as the minor child was eligible to attend school for one month of the school year. (Initial Decision at 5). The Commissioner notes that such an approximation of tuition costs does not comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, which requires that tuition be "computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local school district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance."

the process, including her disappointment that the District failed to resolve this matter by setting up a payment plan. The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. The minor child was determined to be ineligible for a free public education in the District's schools in the Commissioner's decision dated December 3, 2019, and the only issue remaining in this matter is the amount of the tuition owed by the petitioner. Whether the parties reached a settlement by way of a payment plan does not impact the Commissioner's calculation of tuition due to the Board.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, as modified herein. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $16,611.15 – plus $73.29 for each day beyond December 13, 2019 that the minor child remains enrolled in the district's schools – for tuition costs incurred during the time period for which S.F. was ineligible to attend school in the Morris School District. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

OAL Dkt. No. EDU 15927-19
Agency Dkt. No. 261-9/19

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Amended Final Decision

H.C., on behalf of minor children,
J.C., J.C., J.C., and J.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County,

Respondent.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioner, and the reply thereto by the Board.[1]

Petitioner challenges the Board's determination that he did not reside in Elizabeth for the entire 2018-2019 school year and the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year, through November 1, 2020, and that his minor children were therefore ineligible to attend school in the district. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner did not meet his burden of demonstrating that he was a resident of Elizabeth during the relevant time period. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered tuition reimbursement in the amount of $69,440.

[1] The Commissioner issued a decision in this matter on June 1, 2020, which stated that the parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision. After receipt of the Commissioner's decision, petitioner filed a motion to re-open this case because he had not received the Initial Decision and was therefore unable to file exceptions. By order dated July 17, the Commissioner re-opened this matter to consider the exceptions filed by petitioner.

In his exceptions, petitioner argues that his family lived in Elizabeth for ten years before being forced to move out when a new landlord increased their rent on short notice, so they moved in with his wife's mother. He alleges that they looked for a residence in Elizabeth, but prices were too high. Petitioner notes that he worked in Elizabeth and has paid taxes there. Petitioner also submitted copies of utility bills showing the address of his new residence in Elizabeth.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner submitted documents that were never entered into evidence. Moreover, the Board contends that the documents do not overcome H.C.'s own testimony that he did not reside in Elizabeth during the relevant period of time, an admission which he made again in his exceptions.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of Elizabeth for the entire 2018-2019 school year and the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year, through November 1, 2020. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during that time. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c), evidence not submitted at a hearing shall not be submitted as exceptions. As the documents submitted with petitioner's exceptions were not submitted at hearing, the Commissioner did not consider those documents. The Commissioner does not find the remainder of petitioner's exceptions persuasive, given his admission that he did not reside in Elizabeth during the relevant time period.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in Elizabeth. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the total amount of $69,440 for the 2018-2019 school year and the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year, through

November 1, 2020, during which time petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend school in respondent's district.[2]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $69,440 for tuition costs incurred during the time period in which J.C., J.C., J.C., and J.C. were ineligible to attend school in Elizabeth. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

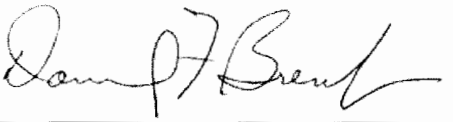
Agency Docket No. 209-8/19

AWARD OF ARBITRATOR



The undersigned Arbitrator, having been designated pursuant to NJSA 18A:6-16, and having been duly sworn, and having duly heard the proofs and allegations of the parties, AWARDS as follows:

Based on the evidence submitted, the tenure charges brought by the School District of the City of Orange against the Kevin Cushing cannot be sustained. The evidentiary record mandates that the annual rating of Respondent Cushing's teaching and job performance in the 2017-2018 School Year as Partially Efficient be discounted as a basis for revoking his tenure because of substantial procedural flaws that rendered the annual rating arbitrary and that materially affected the rating. Respondent Cushing's annual rating of Partially Efficient for the 2018-2019 school year shall remain valid and undisturbed.

Respondent Cushing shall be entitled to another year of employment by the School District of the City of Orange as a teacher, subject to a new Corrective Action Plan to be developed collaboratively with Respondent before the commencement of the 2020-2021 school year. This CAP shall be tailored to Respondent's teaching assignment for the 2020-2021 school year. Respondent's specific grade level and school assignment shall be conveyed to Respondent not less than thirty calendar days before the first day that Respondent is scheduled to report back to work at the beginning of the school year so that he can adequately prepare for such assignment. Respondent Cushing shall be afforded ample support as contemplated by the TEACHNJ statute, including periodic personal coaching specific to his assignment on an ongoing basis by supervisors and master teachers.

The Arbitrator hereby retains jurisdiction to resolve any dispute that may arise regarding the implementation of this Award or the remedy ordered pursuant to this Award.

ISSUE SUBMITTED

What shall be the disposition of the tenure charges against Kevin Cushing?

RELEVANT STATUTORY PROVISIONS

NJSA 18A:6-17.2-- Considerations for arbitrator in rendering decision.

23. a. In the event that the matter before the arbitrator pursuant to section 22 of this act is employee inefficiency pursuant to section 25 of this act, in rendering a decision the arbitrator shall only consider whether or not:

(1) the employee's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including, but not limited to providing a corrective action plan;

(2) there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation;

(3) the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination as prohibited by State or federal law, or other conduct prohibited by State or federal law; or

(4) the district's actions were arbitrary and capricious.

b. In the event that the employee is able to demonstrate that any of the provisions of paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection a. of this section are applicable, the arbitrator shall then determine if that fact materially affected the outcome of the evaluation. If the arbitrator determines that it did not materially affect the outcome of the evaluation, the arbitrator shall render a decision in favor of the board and the employee shall be dismissed.

c. The evaluator's determination as to the quality of an employee's classroom performance shall not be subject to an arbitrator's review.

d. The board of education shall have the ultimate burden of demonstrating to the arbitrator that the statutory criteria for tenure charges have been met.

e. The hearing shall be held before the arbitrator within 45 days of the assignment of the arbitrator to the case. The arbitrator shall render a written decision within 45 days of the start of the hearing.

NJSA 18A:6-17.3 Evaluation process, determination of charges.

25. a. Notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S.18A:6-11 or any other section of law to the contrary, in the case of a teacher, principal, assistant principal, and vice-principal:

(1) the superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency whenever the employee is rated ineffective or partially effective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated ineffective in the annual summative evaluation;

(2) if the employee is rated partially effective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations or is rated ineffective in an annual summative evaluation and the following year is rated partially effective in the annual summative evaluation, the superintendent shall promptly file with the secretary of the board of education a charge of inefficiency, except that the superintendent upon a written finding of exceptional circumstances may defer the filing of tenure charges until after the next annual summative evaluation. If the employee is not rated effective or highly effective on this annual summative evaluation, the superintendent shall promptly file a charge of inefficiency.

b. Within 30 days of the filing, the board of education shall forward a written charge to the commissioner, unless the board determines that the evaluation process has not been followed.

c. Notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S.18A:6-16 or any other section of law to the contrary, upon receipt of a charge pursuant to subsection a. of this section, the commissioner shall examine the charge. The individual against whom the charges are filed shall have 10 days to submit a written response to the charges to the commissioner. The commissioner shall, within five days immediately following the period provided for a written response to the charges, refer the case to an arbitrator and appoint an arbitrator to hear the case, unless he determines that the evaluation process has not been followed.

d. The only evaluations which may be used for purposes of this section are those evaluations conducted in accordance with a rubric adopted by the board and approved by the commissioner pursuant to P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.).

18A:6-119 Definitions relative to the TEACHNJ Act.

3. As used in sections 12 through 17, 19 through 21, and 24 of P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.):

"Corrective action plan" means a written plan developed by a teaching staff member serving in a supervisory capacity in collaboration with the teaching staff member to address deficiencies as outlined in an evaluation. The corrective action plan shall include timelines for corrective action, responsibilities of the individual teaching staff member and the school district for implementing the plan, and specific support that the district shall provide.

"Evaluation" means a process based on the individual's job description, professional standards and Statewide evaluation criteria that incorporates analysis of multiple measures of student progress and multiple data sources. Such evaluation shall include formal observations, as well as post conferences, conducted and prepared by an individual employed in the district in a supervisory role and capacity and possessing a school administrator certificate, principal certificate, or supervisor certificate.

"Individual professional development plan" means a written statement of goals developed by a teaching staff member serving in a supervisory capacity in collaboration with a teaching staff member, that: aligns with professional standards for teachers set forth in N.J.A.C.6A:9-3.3 and the New Jersey Professional Development Standards; derives from the annual evaluation process; identifies professional goals that address specific individual, district or school needs, or both; and grounds professional development activities in objectives related to improving teaching, learning, and student achievement. The individual professional development plan shall include timelines for implementation, responsibilities of the employee and the school district for implementing the plan, and specific support and periodic feedback that the district shall provide.

"Ineffective" or "partially effective" means the employee receives an annual summative evaluation rating of "ineffective" or "partially effective" based on the performance standards for his position established through the evaluation rubric adopted by the board of education and approved by the commissioner.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Kevin Cushing (hereafter, Respondent) has been employed by the Orange School District (hereafter, the Employer or the District) since the 2007-2008 school year. He was subsequently granted tenure, and successfully taught without incident until the 2015-2016 school year, following which he was rated Ineffective. As a result, the District was obligated under applicable New Jersey Education law to provide Respondent Cushing with an appropriate Corrective Action Plan (CAP) for the 2016-2017 school year. Respondent met with his District supervisors to create a Corrective Action Plan applicable to the teaching assignment he had been given for the 2016-2017 school year. This plan, developed in collaboration with Respondent, was designed to address his documented performance shortcomings and to improve his classroom teaching and administrative compliance. Shortly after the beginning of the 2016-2017 school year, Respondent applied for and was granted a leave of absence pursuant to the Family Medical Leave Act. He did not teach for the District for the balance of the 2016-2017 school year.

When the Respondent returned to work at the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year, he was assigned immediately before the opening of school to teach a kindergarten class for the first time in his career. The CAP implemented by the parties a year earlier was "carried over" into the 2017-2018 school year. At the end of the 2017-2018 school year, the annual evaluation produced by the Respondent's supervisors and District administrators was based on their collective evaluation using the Danielson Rubric to calculate an Annual Summative score of 2.41. This score categorized Respondent Cushing as a Partially Effective teacher for the 2017-2018 school year.

The District concluded that the Respondent had "failed to make appropriate progress towards the goals outlined in his CAP. As a result, Respondent's CAP was again carried over into the 2018-2019 school year." According to the District, Respondent's performance deteriorated during 2018-19, resulting in an Annual Summative Score of 2.08, which also mandated an annual rating of Partially Effective. Respondent did not exercise his right to submit a written rebuttal of the allegations underlying his Partially Effective rating in 2017-2018 or in 2018-2019. Because he received Partially Effective ratings in two consecutive school years, the District filed tenure charges dated August 2, 2019 pursuant to NJSA 18A:6-17.3(a)(2).

After the tenure charges were filed, the Respondent asserted that the charges were improperly predicated on animus created because the Respondent had spoken out repeatedly at Orange Board of Education meetings, publicly describing the flaws he saw in the manner in which educational services were provided to the District's students and protesting the stagnant wage rates paid to teachers. The District denied these allegations, contending that the two consecutive annual summative evaluations were consistent with the rating of Ineffective that the Respondent had received in the 2015-2016 school year, and were based solely on the number of formal observations mandated by the statute, properly augmented by periodic informal evaluations of his teaching performance. The District also cited multiple written and oral admissions by the Respondent in interviews and other interactions with District supervisors expressing his recognition that his job performance was substandard. Mr. Cushing did not deny having made these remarks.

The undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to adjudicate the propriety of the tenure charges and to evaluate Respondent's assertion that the tenure charges were inaccurate and unfounded. Hearings were held in the above-entitled matter on November 5, 2019, January 13, 2020 and February 24, 2020 at the Administrative Offices of the Orange Board of Education. The parties submitted sixty-five joint exhibits. Respondent Cushing submitted seventeen exhibits, and the District submitted one additional exhibit.

In assessing whether the criteria set forth in NJSA 18A:6 for revoking tenure have been satisfied by the District, and thus determining that Respondent Cushing's tenure should be revoked and his employment terminated, the Arbitrator thoroughly examined and carefully considered all of these exhibits, the testimony adduced at the three arbitration hearings, and the arguments propounded during the arbitration hearings and presented in the parties' post-hearing briefs as the basis to apply the applicable statutory criteria.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The documentary evidence and testimony submitted by the District chronicling the Respondent's shortcomings in the two years at issue, 2017-2018 and 2018-2019, demonstrated persuasively that the Respondent's performance during the three evaluations mandated each academic year by New Jersey statute accurately portrayed his teaching performance during these evaluations as inadequate. Although the Respondent achieved tenure in the District and thereafter taught elementary grades 3 and 5 without incident until the 2015-2016 school year, his performance during periodic formal evaluations conducted in 2017-18 and 2018-2019 was insufficient to satisfy the District's reasonable teaching standards.

The District further established that Respondent did not adequately comply with reasonable District requirements that he submit detailed lesson plans in a timely manner. Nor did Respondent avail himself of the ongoing professional education materials available to him and his colleagues until well into in the 2018-2019 school year. Respondent also had persistent attendance issues.

As a consequence of his annual evaluation of Ineffective for 2015-2016, the Respondent was placed on a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) for 2016-2017. Shortly after the beginning of the school year, the Respondent was granted a leave of absence in order to attend to a family situation. His approved leave extended to the end of the school year.

Almost immediately before he returned to work in September 2017, Respondent was told that, for the first time in his teaching career, he would be assigned as a kindergarten teacher. Respondent testified credibly and without refutation that he was told of his new kindergarten assignment only days before the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year; that he was assigned to teach his class in an empty classroom, completely devoid of appropriate furniture and kindergarten teaching or supplemental materials; and that he struggled to locate and obtain the necessary materials to furnish his classroom well after the school year began. The evidentiary record established persuasively not only that Respondent was expected to assume a wholly foreign area of specialized teaching at the kindergarten level, but also that the Respondent was not provided materials, meaningful peer or supervisory support, or supplemental in-person coaching to help him succeed in this new and challenging assignment at the beginning of the year or on a continuing basis throughout the school year.

District officials testified that the Corrective Action Plan that had been implemented at the beginning of the 2016-2017 school year, under which the Respondent had ostensibly worked for only a few weeks, was simply "rolled over" into the next school year. No effort was made to tailor the plan to his new and unprecedented kindergarten assignment or to recast the support and guidance necessary to comply with the minimal levels of appropriate resources and remedial coaching or supervisory support tailored for a tenured teacher on a CAP. These arbitrary and capricious omissions materially and adversely affected Respondent's teaching performance, especially early in the school year when he foundered coping with inadequate orientation or assistance, insufficient age-appropriate equipment and resources, cursory ongoing supervisory support, and professional development coaching and modeling that was sparse at best. The first two of the mandatory three formal observations occurred in October and November 2017.

Read in isolation from the other documents and testimony comprising the evidentiary record, the annual evaluations of the Respondent's teaching performance for the two contiguous school years at issue in the instant matter at first appear to substantiate the District's conclusion that Respondent failed to respond to the remedial intervention provided by the District under the Corrective Action Plans implemented after the 2015-2016 school year, which commenced in September 2016 and was subsequently carried over without material alteration or updating after Respondent's protracted leave of absence, into the 2017-2018 school year. Although Respondent failed to achieve a satisfactory level of job performance, the reality of the Respondent's situation is more complicated and nuanced, requiring additional scrutiny to achieve a comprehensive and accurate analysis of the record to determine if the annual ratings form a valid basis to revoke Respondent Cushing's tenure.

While the District was entitled to require that Respondent work an additional year under an appropriately crafted Corrective Action Plan in 2017-2018 because he was absent for almost all of the 2016-2017 school year, the District did not engage in meaningful collaborative dialogue with Respondent to modify or create a Corrective Action Plan reasonably tailored for a novice kindergarten teacher. Nor did the District provide sufficient or meaningful ancillary professional development support to Respondent at the outset or throughout 2017-2018.

Whether his assignment to a specialized kindergarten teaching position, for which Respondent was technically qualified on paper by virtue of his K-6 elementary teaching license, and the subsequent failure to provide access to appropriate materials, furniture, and supplies were retaliatory need not be definitively addressed, as the pertinent statutory criteria mandate analysis of whether the assistance provided under a properly formulated and administered CAP satisfied the fundamental balance between providing a Partially Efficient teacher on a CAP with remedial aid and relevant coaching and the dire consequence of losing tenure if teaching performance does not achieve the requisite level of competence after ample, sustained and focused coaching and feedback.

The substantial defect in not redesigning the holdover Corrective Action Plan implemented in 2017-2018 and not providing in-person guidance and remediation by a supervisor and/or a master teacher with expertise in teaching kindergarten created an adverse material impact on Respondent's teaching performance throughout 2017-2018. Simply rolling over a Corrective Action Plan to a subsequent year with a radically different teaching assignment, coupled with the minimal assistance to a teacher acclimating to an unfamiliar role, materially exacerbated the ineffectiveness of a teacher assigned at the last minute to teach kindergarten. The absence of a reformulated CAP and accompanying meaningful in-person support must be considered together with the circumstances raised by Respondent when he finally disputed the propriety of the decision by the Orange School District to terminate his employment following the 2018-2019 school year.

Several aspects of Respondent's defense must be addressed in order to separate perceived mistreatment from potentially material improper factors, and thus focus the statutory and factual analysis on the crucial relevant elements underpinning the outcome of the instant case. During Respondent Cushing's employment by the Orange School District as an elementary school teacher since 2007, he was moved from grade or subject assignment to a different assignment and from school to school almost every year of his employment. Respondent testified that he was moved ten times in ten years. This lack of continuity may have impeded his achieving proficiency in teaching a particular grade level upon which Respondent could build from year to year. However, the Respondent's contention that his reassignment from school to school and from grade level to grade level constituted retaliation for his critical and disparaging public comments at School Board meetings regarding the manner in which the District was administered, his allegation that teachers were underpaid, and his assertion children were not adequately served by the District was not supported by a preponderance of credible evidence linking them to the annual summative ratings, withholding of increments, or the District's decision to file tenure charges to Respondent's activism.

Respondent correctly asserted that he has a legally guaranteed right to express his opinions publicly without fear of retaliation. Respondent was entitled to convey directly to the Board of Education his observations about the manner in which children were educated in his school based on his front-line experience. However, as the old aphorism says, "You catch more flies with honey than with vinegar."

The wisdom of his making these public criticisms is irrelevant to the outcome of the instant case, as there is no evidence of direct official retaliation in response to Respondent's admitted candor. Although Respondent's contention that he was repeatedly moved, assigned to empty classrooms without adequate supplies, and left to fend for himself accurately described his circumstances over several years, the evidentiary record did not support a finding of a causal relationship between his earnest critical comments at School Board meetings and subsequent actions, or failure to act, by District administrators.

The record established that the District retained and exercised the managerial prerogative of re-assigning not only Respondent, but also other teachers, to fill vacant positions at different grade levels as the District's needs changed from year to year. Nevertheless, the lack of continuity in grade and building assignments, plus the absence of meaningful support under the 2017-2018 CAP admittedly tainted the Respondent's attitude towards his Employer. These challenges were exacerbated by the absence of adequate advance notice of changes in his teaching assignment, particularly being assigned for the first time as a kindergarten teacher; his shuffling annually among job assignments and schools within the District; and a District's failure to devise or implement suitably supportive and relevant remedial Corrective Action Plans reasonably designed to identify and rectify Respondent's manifest shortcomings as a teacher.

Respondent's testimony describing the manner in which he handled his frustrations after he returned from his extended leave of absence in 2016-2017 provided a reasonable basis to characterize the Respondent as a wounded teacher who did not adequately cope with the professional challenges he confronted. His resentful attitude leached into his teaching performance, adversely affecting his attendance and sapping the vigor of his preparation and performance, particularly in 2018-2019. Respondent's frustration was credibly described by District witnesses and recorded in the written evaluation forms in evidence.

Mr. Cushing did not dispute the accuracy of the District's portrayal of his comments at post-observation conferences or during meetings to review his annual evaluations, particularly in 2018-2019. This evidence supported the District's portrayal of Respondent as substantially less effective than he was earlier in his career teaching in Orange.

Respondent admitted that he floundered as a kindergarten teacher for much of the 2017-2018 school year and that he did not assertively seek more assistance. Teaching kindergarten requires specialized skills and experience significantly different from teaching elementary grades such as third and fifth grades. Thrown with only a few days notice into an empty classroom without prior opportunity to prepare himself during the summer for teaching kindergarten; left to scrounge for furniture, books, and educational resources to furnish his empty room; Respondent essentially was abandoned by his school and District administrators at the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year while he sought to accumulate the resources and skills necessary to be an effective kindergarten teacher. Even if not demonstrably retaliatory, these circumstances constituted capricious and arbitrary action to the demonstrated material detriment of Respondent in the performance of his duties in 2017-2018 as reflected in his annual summative evaluation. These circumstances have been established clearly and convincingly by the testimony end the evidentiary record in the instant case.

NJSA 18A:6 requires school districts to evaluate teachers periodically with a minimum number of observations and to predicate the evaluation of a teacher's performance in annual summative scores derived by applying approved rubrics. Tenured teachers on a CAP must be evaluated formally three times during a school year in which a CAP is in effect. The District did evaluate Respondent three times in each of the two school years at issue-2017-2018 and 2018-2019.

The District defended its evaluation of the Respondent in the 2017-2018 school year as complying with the statutory requirements regarding assistance and evaluation. Careful perusal of the documents in evidence, including sixty-five documents placed in evidence by the District, including domain by domain examination of Respondent's pedagogic skills and teaching performance, supports a conclusion that the District reasonably applied the proper Danielson rubric and accurately computed a score based on the three observations performed by District administrators during the 2017-2018 school year and the 2018-2019 school year. Respondent's tepid responses during pre- and post-evaluation conferences, and the Respondent's repeated failure to exert himself sufficiently to submit timely lesson plans or to participate in the available professional educational resources provided by the District throughout the school year to all teachers was reasonably considered in the summative evaluations, which were based primarily on Respondent's performance during his three annual observations.

Respondent Cushing is culpable for his failure to protest the absence of suitable intervention and coaching by master teachers and supervisors on an ongoing basis or to document the paucity of supplies and other resources with which he was provided. Furthermore, the interval between initial formal observations in October 2017 and 2018 and subsequent follow up observations many months later contributed materially to the Respondent's anger and dismay at his professional circumstances, particularly during the 2018-2019 school year, during which his attitude and attendance further declined.

This analysis, however, would be incomplete without also focusing on the reciprocal obligations imposed by the TEACHNJ Statute (NJSA 18A:6-119) on both school districts and teachers in formulating and implementing a collaboratively derived Corrective Action Plan providing a yearlong remedial program of support and guidance. The District secures the right to revoke tenure not simply by accurately recording three observations or sitting briefly with a teacher to formulate a CAP outlining a theoretical plan to guide and remediate a teacher's previous inefficiency and manifest teaching deficiencies. More support and involvement is required to satisfy the threshold for revoking an experienced teacher's tenure other than for proven misconduct or conduct unbecoming.

The District admitted that it simply "rolled over" the Corrective Action Plan formulated for the Respondent at the beginning of the 2016-2017 school year and applied it again at the outset of the 2017-2018 school year, when the Respondent was assigned to teach kindergarten for the first time. This new teaching assignment required training to apply a substantially new set of pedagogical skills. Simply providing training videos and general reference works would not cure the patent defect of failing to implement a valid CAP under which Respondent's rehabilitation and remediation were to occur and thereafter to provide Respondent with reasonable coaching and support.

The District's summative annual evaluation of the Respondent's performance in 2017-2018, his first year as a kindergarten teacher, can be accepted as an accurate reflection of his teaching proficiency during the three observations. However, given the substantive and material adverse impact of the procedural defects in the implementation of a valid CAP, the summative annual score did not provide an accurate, fair, and not arbitrary or capricious annual summative evaluation justifying rating Respondent Cushing as Partially Effective for 2017-2018.

Moreover, the TEACHNJ Statute provides two other standards that the District failed adequately to address. NJSA 18A:6-23 explicitly contemplates special circumstances. Testimony adduced at the arbitration hearing demonstrated clearly and convincingly that the Respondent was left to forage for supplies, to learn a new kindergarten curriculum and associated pedagogic techniques, and to deal for the first time in his career with the challenge of teaching a grade level where incoming students included many children who could not read. He did this without advance notice sufficient to study the kindergarten curriculum and absorb age appropriate techniques during the summer in order to prepare for substantially different duties. His resulting lack of preparedness to achieve the core goals of the Orange School District's kindergarten curriculum impaired his attempts to learn as he went along, especially given the evidence that the Respondent was not supplied with ongoing coaching by a master teacher.

Unrefuted testimony that Respondent sought help to provision his classroom, and documentation describing the cavalier manner and timing with which the mandated annual evaluations were conducted unambiguously supported a conclusion that the circumstances under which the Respondent taught during the 2017-2018 school year, particularly regarding the first evaluation early in the school year and the substantial intervals between his receipt of meager useful feedback, particularly from January to May 2018, qualified as special circumstances. The CAP requirement cannot be satisfied by ignoring Respondent's changed circumstances. The manner in which the CAP was implemented and administered created a substantial procedural defect with clear material impact regarding Respondent's Partially Effective annual evaluation rating in 2017-2018 that cannot be ignored or discounted. The District's failure properly to consider these factors constituted additional arbitrary and capricious action that further supports the Arbitrator's determination that the totality of circumstances established by the evidentiary record outweighs an annual summative score that technically was correctly computed.

The rightful paramount concern of parents, professional educators, and citizens at large is that school children not be deprived of a thorough and efficient education by teachers who have objectively demonstrated their inability to perform successfully in this highly specialized and critical profession. Teachers such as the Respondent may achieve tenure and thereafter deteriorate in their job performance over a period of years. The Legislature addressed this circumstance by imposing a balanced system of evaluation and by further providing a process for removing tenured teachers whose job performance declined to the detriment of their students. The TEACHNJ Act, NJSA 18A:6 created clearly defined mechanisms for weeding out inadequate tenured teachers.

A tenured teacher whose performance is judged Partially Efficient based on the application of an approved rubric for two consecutive years may have tenure revoked if the District not only evaluated the teacher with reasonable objectivity, but also implemented and supervised a Corrective Action Plan, collaboratively constructed with the teacher in each school year, that was reasonably designed to identify and address the tenured teacher's shortcomings and to provide relevant periodic assistance and guidance. This standard has not been met in the instant case.

The third element of the legislated process permitting revocation of tenure is that the procedural integrity of the mandated professional observations and evaluations and of the CAP development and implementation be assessed by an objective impartial professional arbitrator charged with independently determining whether arbitrary and capricious actions by a school district materially interfered with a fair evaluation of a teacher's performance or the provision of requisite CAP remediation.

A Corrective Action Plan that is not specifically designed to address and foster improvement in a tenured teacher's current teaching assignment during each academic year at issue cannot satisfy the requirement that tenured teachers be alerted to the specifics of their unacceptable performance, that they actively and repeatedly be afforded meaningful and appropriate guidance by professional teacher educators, and that they be provided ample timely feedback so that the teacher can improve his or her classroom performance. By simply "rolling over" a Corrective Action Plan based on the Respondent's teaching assignment in the 2016-2017 school year to govern his evaluation in his new and unfamiliar kindergarten assignment at the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year without revamping, supplementing and adjusting the Corrective Action Plan to support him while teaching kindergarten for the first time, the District acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner.

The District's assertion that any experienced teacher with a K-6 license should be able to step into a kindergarten class without prior notice and teach effectively was unpersuasive, as the skills described in testimony offered both by Respondent and by District witnesses, and the detailed observation documents in evidence, established the specialized pedagogical skills necessary to organize individuated lessons suitable for kindergarten students and to select and present materials for effective teaching in accordance with elaborately detailed standards of pedagogy and sequences of teaching techniques particular to kindergarten level students described by District testimony.

The Arbitrator does not dispute the evaluators' scoring of their observations. A teacher who is provided with adequate corrective action--more than just a written plan and three evaluations--and who still cannot achieve a reasonable level of improvement through the course of the school year does not deserve to continue imposing an adverse impact on the lives of the children entrusted to the teacher's care. Conversely, a school district cannot assign a teacher to a novel and unfamiliar situation, as different from the teacher's prior experience as kindergarten is from other elementary grades, and essentially abandon the teacher to the vagaries of periodic observations halfway through the school year or near the end of the school year without meaningful coaching or other rehabilitative efforts.

To do so was arbitrary and capricious as contemplated under applicable statutory criteria. Respondent essentially was left on his own to create a suitable kindergarten classroom environment, to familiarize himself with the curriculum, and to adapt to the novel demands of teaching kindergarten without specialized training or on-the-job experience. Moreover, the District failed to offer Respondent a master teacher or learning supervisor to visit him in his classroom and offer assistance, to review his lesson plans other than for timeliness and sufficiency, or to provide the level of supplemental assistance contemplated on a regular basis as the predicate for implementing a valid CAP and thereafter for declaring a tenured teacher unfit for future service. Thus, the rating of Partially Efficient for 2017-2018 cannot stand.

This situation was compounded after the District changed the Respondent's assignment for the 2018-2019 school year to second grade, again without sufficient prior notice to the Respondent for him adequately to prepare materials and curriculum for his new assignment. Removing Respondent following a substandard year as a kindergarten teacher was not demonstrably arbitrary or retaliatory. Respondent's new assignment afforded the District an opportunity to re-craft a valid Corrective Action Plan and to re-evaluate Respondent throughout the course of the 2018-2019 school year to determine whether his tenure should be revoked.

The evidentiary record, including Respondent's testimony, confirmed the District's assertion that Respondent was not without fault in exacerbating his teaching situation during 2018-2019. Respondent's attendance record, his spotty compliance with deadlines for submitting lesson plans, and his flagging dedication to improving his craft fell short of the District's reasonable expectations. In his testimony, the Respondent earnestly and candidly described his bitterness about the manner in which he had been treated by the District and its administrators over the recent past and the impact of these circumstances on his professional performance. For reasons that appear to be a mixture of personal and professional, the Respondent was unable to rally his enthusiasm and to revamp his attitude sufficiently for him to participate as an equal partner in the formulation and implementation of the Corrective Action Plan for 2018-2019 or to achieve an Effective rating.

His testimony describing the reasons that his lessons plans were late, that he did not partake of the requisite level of professional education reasonably expected of teachers in the Orange School District until relatively late in the school year, and that he did not properly utilize his preparation periods provided ample evidence of an unprofessional attitude that cannot be countenanced by the District or ignored by the Arbitrator. Respondent Cushing may have ample reasons he views as justifying his response to the multiple assignments and chronic lack of meaningful support, but his job performance in the 2018-2019 school year, when he was assigned for the first time as a second grade teacher, was not unreasonably analyzed and scored by the District.

The TEACHNJ Statute provides that tenure may be revoked by a teacher who has properly been evaluated as Partially Efficient for two consecutive years of teaching performance. The Respondent's evaluation for the 2015-2016 school year is not at issue in the instant case. The Respondent left early in the 2016-2017 school year for approved leave to deal with a family situation.

The analysis of the District's evaluation regarding Respondent's performance as a kindergarten teacher during the 2017-2018 school year set forth above mandates disqualification of the District's evaluation for 2017-2018. However, the District's evaluation of Respondent's performance in 2018-2019 as Partially Effective was reasonable and accurate. Thus, the Respondent must be deemed to be a teacher who has demonstrated Ineffective or Partially Effective performance in alternate school years.

Given this conclusion, the Respondent is entitled by application of the standards set forth in TEACHNJ to one additional year of employment during which he shall be provided with a teaching assignment far enough in advance for him to prepare materials, study curriculum, and ready himself to be an effective teacher during the 2020-2021 school year. Respondent Cushing is hereby placed on notice not only that an evaluation as Inefficient or Partially Efficient during the 2020-2021 school year will result in the revocation of his tenure, but also that he is expected to participate fully in formulating a valid Corrective Action Plan for the 2020-2021 school year; to ask for and accept help from his colleagues, including master teachers and supervisors; to provide feedback by advising building or District supervisors if he feels the resources committed to him pursuant to the new CAP are not consistently being provided in a timely manner. Moreover, Respondent is hereby placed on notice that his attitude should be manifestly and consistently professional as he interacts with colleagues and students, complies with applicable deadlines, and seeks to improve his job performance to an acceptable level.

The District must unequivocally meet its obligation to provide continuing meaningful coaching, supervision, and guidance under a Corrective Action Plan for 2020-2021 so that the Respondent can ascertain and satisfy applicable standards of effective teaching and assure the thorough and efficient educational experiences that all the children of Orange School District so richly deserve. To achieve this goal, both parties will need to adjust their conduct.

Based on the evidence submitted, the tenure charges against the Respondent Kevin Cushing cannot be sustained. The evidentiary record mandates that the summative annual rating of Respondent's teaching and job performance in the 2017-2018 School Year as Partially Efficient be discounted because of substantial procedural flaws that render the annual rating arbitrary and that materially affected the rating. Respondent Cushing's rating of Partially Efficient for the 2018-2019 school year shall remain valid.

Respondent Cushing shall be entitled to another year of employment as a teacher, subject to a new Corrective Action Plan to be developed collaboratively with Respondent before the commencement of the 2020-2021 school year. This CAP shall be tailored to Respondent's teaching assignment for the 2020-2021 school year. Such specific grade level and school assignment shall be conveyed to Respondent not less than thirty calendar days before the first day that Respondent is scheduled to report back to work at the beginning of the school year. Respondent Cushing shall be afforded ample support as contemplated by the TEACHNJ statute, including coaching by supervisors and master teachers specific to his assignment on an ongoing basis.

The Arbitrator hereby retains jurisdiction to resolve any dispute that may arise regarding the implementation of this Award or the remedy ordered pursuant to this Award.

FOR RESPONDENT

MELLK O'NEIL
Edward A. Cridge, Esq.

BEFORE: Earl R. Pfeffer, Arbitrator

BACKGROUND

These proceedings emanate from an incident in the cafeteria of the Belhaven School in Linwood, New Jersey, on February 9, 2017. Belhaven music teacher, Kimberley Peschi ("Respondent"), while on lunch duty, lifted her right foot to initiate contact with the chair of a 12 year old 6th grade boy, M.M., who had rocked backwards while eating at a school cafeteria table and talking with his friends.[1] The child then fell to the floor. It is the nature of that contact, whether it caused M.M.'s fall, his impact with the floor, and Respondent's actions in the wake of that incident that are in dispute. The District maintains the contact was intentional, forceful, unnecessary, excessive and punitive, and constituted conduct unbecoming a school teacher, in particular because it endangered the child and in fact caused him injury, embarrassment and humiliation. Respondent insists her contact with M.M.'s chair was meant simply to right it from an unsteady and dangerous position, and that he rolled sideways off the chair as he lost his balance when Respondent inadvertently "tapped" the chair's back instead of the seat, which she had intended merely to push forward.

Following an investigation of the incident, Michelle Cappelluti, Ed.D., Interim Superintendent for the Linwood Board of Education ("Board" or "School District"), by Certification sworn on March 24, 2017, filed a Statement of Charges and Specification Regarding the Employment of Kimberley Peschi, A Tenured Faculty Member Within the Employ of the City of Linwood Board of Education ("Tenure Charges" or "Statement of Charges" or "Charges and Specifications") against Respondent, and same were served by Board Secretary (and School Business Administrator) Terri J. Weeks, along with fifteen (15) day Notice the Tenure Charges and any Response timely received from Ms. Peschi would be presented to the Board.

The Board, thereafter, met in Executive Session during a special meeting convened on April 12, 2017, and as stated in a Certificate of Determination sworn to by Weeks pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6A:3-5.2 for the purpose of transmitting the Tenure Charges to the Commissioner of Education, "[t]he Board determined by a majority vote of its full membership that there is probable cause to credit the Statement of Charges and the Certificate of Superintendent Michelle Cappelluti in support thereof and, that such charges are sufficient, if credited, to warrant dismissal of Kimberley Peschi." As further stated by Weeks in the Certification of Determination, the Board suspended Respondent without pay pending disposition of the Tenure Charges. The Certificate of Determination along with the Statement of Charges were thereupon submitted to the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, and served upon Respondent's counsel.

By correspondence to the Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on April 17, 2017, Respondent, through her attorneys, asked that the Tenure Charges be held in abeyance and the tenure hearing be stayed pending resolution of criminal charges against Ms. Peschi arising from the same incident. Respondent cited Ott v. Board of Ed'n of the Twp of Hamilton, 160 N.J. Super. 333 (App. Div. 1978) in support of her request. By letter dated April 18, 2017, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes advised the parties this matter had been placed in abeyance.

Thereafter, following a criminal trial in Linwood City Municipal Court, and a subsequent appeal by way of trial de novo before the Atlantic County Superior Court, Law Division, the criminal charges were resolved in Respondent's favor, and pursuant to a request from Respondent the Office of Controversies and Disputes restored the Tenure dispute to active status on May 14, 2019. On May 15, 2019, Respondent filed her answer to the Tenure Charges.

Thereafter, and following a review of the Charges for sufficiency, the matter was referred to arbitration before me pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16. By letter dated May 28, 2019, I was appointed to hear and decide the dispute.

The parties subsequently presented to me various pre-hearing issues, most notably, upon motion by the Board, unopposed by Respondent, I issued an Order on July 18, 2019, to the New Jersey Department of Children and Families ("DCF"), in particular its Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit ("IAIU"), directing same to supply to me for in camera review a complete copy of its files and records pertaining to its investigation of Ms. Peschi and the incident at Belhaven Middle School on February 9, 2017, which is the subject matter of these Tenure Charges. On or about August 12, 2019, I received DCF's response to my Order and on October 21, 2019, following my review of same, I forwarded the redacted IAIU records to counsel.

Also pertaining to document production in this case, the parties jointly presented to me for signature a Consent Confidentiality Order which I and counsel signed on or about July 24, 2019. Said Order set forth the parties' joint agreement on the use of certain Board files and records, as well as files and records maintained by IAIU, in connection with the February 9, 2017, incident, in particular the confidentiality of those files and records and their use solely for the prosecution and defense of the Charges and Specifications (and any related administrative appeal).

Following the resolution of these and other pre-hearing matters, hearings before me were convened at the Offices of Cooper Levenson in Atlantic City, New Jersey, on October 28, October 30, November 11, November 22 and December 16, 2019. At the hearings, which were transcribed, the parties each presented evidence and argument in support of their respective positions.[4] All witnesses were sworn. Following completion of the proceedings, the parties on February 12, 2020, submitted post-hearing briefs. Following my receipt of same, the arbitration record was closed.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The Charges and Specifications

The Charges and Specifications consist of three (3) numbered Charges containing fifty-eight (58) unnumbered Specifications (which I have numbered sequentially for ease of reference in this Decision) spelled out in five (5) pages of text. The gravamen of the allegations is the Board's contention Respondent, on February 9, 2017, while she was assigned to monitor student lunch in the Belhaven cafeteria, "intentionally and purposefully pulled down with her foot and leg, the back of a cafeteria chair in which [M.M.] was seated, causing him to suddenly, unexpectedly and violently fall to the floor." The Charges allege the incident, which was captured on a school cafeteria security video ("the video") and also witnessed by M.M.'s peers as well as staff, caused him to "suffer physical injury, personal embarrassment, and public embarrassment."

The Tenure Charges base the wrongfulness of Respondent's conduct in the school cafeteria on February 9, 2017, upon allegation she breached multiple Board policies and regulations, as well as New Jersey law. Charge 1 asserts she violated Board Policy No. 3281, and recites same in Specification 11. Policy No. 3281 states, in relevant part:

> INAPPROPRIATE STAFF CONDUCT
>
> The Board of Education recognizes its responsibility to protect the health, safety and welfare of all pupils within this school district. Furthermore, the Board recognizes there exists a professional responsibility for all school staff to protect a pupil's health, safety and welfare. The Board strongly believes that school staff members have the public's trust and confidence to protec the well-being of all pupils attending the school district.
>
> In support of this Board's strong commitment to the public's trust and confidence of school staff, the Board of Education holds all school staff to the highest level of professional responsibility in their conduct with all pupils. In appropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district.
>
> The Board recognizes and appreciates the staff-pupil professional relationship that exists in a school district's educational environment. This Policy has been developed and adopted by this Board to provide guidance and direction to avoid actual and/or the appearance of inappropriate staff conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member toward pupils.

School staff's conduct in completing their professional responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times. School staff shall not make inappropriate comments to pupils or about pupils and shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils. School staff shall not engage in inappropriate conduct toward or with pupils. . . .

* * *

A school staff member is always expected to maintain a professional relationship with pupils and to protect the health, safety and welfare of school pupils. A staff member's conduct will be held to the professional standards established by the New Jersey State Board of Education and the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. Inappropriate conduct or conduct unbecoming a staff member may also include conduct not specifically listed in this Policy, but conduct determined by the New Jersey State Board of Education, the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, an arbitration process, and/or appropriate courts to be inappropriate of conduct unbecoming a school staff member.

School personnel, compensated and uncompensated (volunteers), are required to report to their immediate supervisor or Building Principal any possible violations of this Policy. . . .

Charge 1 includes the allegation in Specification 8, that Respondent, after "intentionally and purposefully" pulling M.M.'s chair to the floor with him seated in it, failed to help him get up, declined to render first aid, provide care or apologize, and told him she had pulled his chair down to the ground with him in it to teach him a lesson. Charge 1, Specification 9 alleges she explained, "that's what happens when you lean back in your chair." Charge 1, Specification 11, recites Board Regulation No. 3281 for its definition of "Inappropriate Staff Conduct," which includes "corporal punishment." According to Specification 9, that comment "demonstrates the willful and malicious intent" of Respondent's acts towards M.M.

Charge 1, Specification 12, alleges that when Respondent on February 9, 2017, the day of the incident, was asked to explain why she had raised her leg and used her foot to bring down M.M.'s chair while he was seated in it, thereby knocking him "suddenly, unexpectedly, and violently" to the cafeteria floor, she answered, "it was a joke gone bad." Charge 1, Specification 13 alleges that the following day, February 10, 2017, after she was shown school security video, she claimed she did not knock M.M. to the floor, "but rather he fell when she went to right his chair, and he lost his balance."

According to Charge 1, Specifications 14, Respondent, with or without training, could not believe it would ever be appropriate discipline, regardless of the infraction, "to pull a child's chair down to the cafeteria floor with the child seated in it." Specification 15 asserts her intentional and purposeful act of knocking M.M. "suddenly, unexpectedly, and violently" to the cafeteria floor "was inimical to the welfare and emotional well-being of the District's Students." Specification 16 alleges her actions were "inimical to the public's confidence and trust in the District."

Charge 2 repeats most of the factual allegations set forth in the various specifications contained in Charge 1, and asserts that Respondent's act of intentionally and purposefully raising her leg and using her foot to pull down the chair on which M.M. was seated and thereby knocking him "suddenly, unexpectedly, and violently to the Cafeteria floor which caused him injury," constituted corporal punishment prohibited under New Jersey Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, and Board Policy No. 3217, "Use of Corporal Punishment."

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, recited in Charge 2, Specification 9, states:

> No person employed or engaged in a school or educational institution, whether public or private, shall inflict or cause to be inflicted corporal punishment upon a pupil attending such school or institution, but any such person may, within the scope of his employment, use and apply such amount of force as is reasonable and necessary:
>
> (1) to quell a disturbance, threatening physical injury to others;
> (2) to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within the control of a pupil;
> (3) for the purpose of self-defense; and
> (4) for the protection of persons or property;
>
> and such acts, or any of them, shall not be construed to constitute corporal punishment within the meaning and intendment of this section. . . .

Board Policy No. 3217, recited in Charge 2, Specification 10, states:

> The Board of Education cannot condone an employee's resort to force or fear in the treatment of pupils, even those pupils whose conduct appears to be open defiance of authority. Each pupil is protected by law from bodily harm and from offensive bodily touching.

Teaching staff members shall not use physical force to maintain discipline or compel obedience except as permitted by law, but may remove pupils from the classroom or school by the lawful procedures established for the suspension and expulsion of pupils.

A teaching staff member who:

1. Uses force or fear to discipline a pupil except as such force or fear may be necessary to quell a disturbance threatening physical injury to others, to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects upon the person or within the control of a pupil, to act in self-defense, or to protect persons or property;

*** * ***

4. Punishes pupils by means that are cruel or unusual; will be subject to discipline by this Board and may be dismissed.

Charge 3, repeats most of the factual allegations set forth in the various specifications of Charges 1 and 2, and alleges same constituted violations of Board Policy No. 3280, Liability for Pupil Welfare, which provides, in pertinent part:

Teaching staff members are responsible for supervision of pupils and must discharge that responsibility with the highest levels of care and prudent conduct. All teaching staff members of this district shall be governed by the following rules in order to protect the well-being of pupils and to avoid any assignment of liability to this Board of Education or to a staff member personally in the event a pupil is injured.

The Superintendent shall prepare such regulations as may be required to enforce the following rules:

1. A teaching staff member must maintain a standard of care fo supervision, control, and protection of pupils commensurate with the member's assigned duties and responsibilities.

The Positions of the Parties

Position of the Board

The Board argues "[t]his is a straightforward case." It contends the hearing evidence, which is undisputable, demonstrates Respondent, while on lunch duty on February 9, 2017, crossed from the 7th grade side of the cafeteria, to which she was assigned, over to the 6th grade side where, upon reaching the table where M.M. and his friends were conversing and eating, she encountered M.M. leaning back in his chair and, rather than verbally cautioning him to bring the chair upright or, as she had done with another student that very lunch period, gently push the chair forward to a safe position, she instead intentionally, inappropriately, dangerously and without warning "stomped down" on the exposed backrest of the chair, causing M.M. to fall violently to the ground and injure his head on the floor.

According to the Board, Respondent engaged in this "egregious action" to punish M.M. for leaning back in his chair and teach him a lesson. She made no effort to help the child up from the ground, and showed no interest in providing him care or concern, but simply walked away, later that day not even asking him how he was feeling when she passed him in the school hallway as he was applying an icepack to his head. The Board argues Respondent's intentional act of corporal punishment and inappropriate staff behavior violated Board policies and New Jersey law, and was conduct unbecoming a public school teacher in this State. It insists she should be terminated from her position as a teacher in the School District.

In its brief, the Board observes that the entire incident was captured by a cafeteria security camera, and the resulting video recording ("the video") substantiates the intentional, inappropriate, unjustifiable and punitive nature of Respondent's actions. It also highlights the testimony of its witnesses and of Respondent, which it argues supports her culpability for the charged misconduct as well as her dismissal.

The Board recalls the testimony of two former Belhaven staff members, Lauren Muffley, at the time a substitute counselor at the school, and Ashley Popa, at the time a substitute mathematics teacher, both of whom were on duty in the cafeteria and nearby M.M.'s table when Respondent walked over to push down the child's chair and cause him to fall backwards to the floor. The Board asks that I credit Muffley's recollection that she observed Respondent, during the February 9, 2017, 6th and 7th grade lunch period, walk over to M.M.'s table, "put her foot on the front of the back of the chair [on which M.M. was sitting and leaning back] and kind of stomped the chair to the ground . . . and then walked out of the room." 10/28 at 94.

The Board asks that I also credit Popa's memory that M.M. was leaning back in his chair despite being told "a couple of times . . . to sit right," and then was "pushed" and "kicked" out of his chair. 10/28 at 155. Both Muffley and Popa credibly described Respondent as visibly upset, according to the Board, citing 10/28 108-110, 165-66, and Popa remembered Respondent, after pushing M.M.'s chair to the ground, said, "that's why we don't lean back," and then walked away. 10/28 at 164.

Popa's recollection of that statement, which the Board argues demonstrates Respondent's punitive intention, is consistent with M.M.'s memory that Respondent told him, while he was still on the ground, "that's why chairs are for sitting in, not leaning in." 11/11 at 63. The Board notes that although Muffley, in her hearing testimony did not recall such a statement, 10/28 at 108, she confirmed her entry in a contemporaneous email to Principal Speirs, written approximately fifteen (15) minutes after the incident, P-11, in which she reported that M.M. told her that Respondent had said to him after she put her foot on the back of his chair and pulled him to the ground, "[t]hat's why you don't rock back in your chair." Id. The Board further notes that L.C., a student who was seated at M.M.'s lunch table when the incident occurred, testified that Respondent told the entire table of children words to the effect,

"that's why you shouldn't lean back in your chairs." 10/28 at 196.

The Board additionally highlights Muffley's recollection there was no disturbance or threat which might have required Respondent to push M.M. and his chair to the floor. 10/28 at 106-7. So, too, according to the Board, Muffley and Popa each recalled that Respondent simply walked out of the cafeteria without apologizing to M.M., or offering him help.

The Board argues that the incident was appropriately investigated before Cappelluti decided to suspend Respondent the following day, February 10, 2017. Speirs, it points out, credibly recalled that she obtained a copy of the video as soon as she became aware of the incident from Muffley's email, and then, upon Cappelluti's direction, she met with Respondent and her Union representative in the afternoon of February 9th, after having reviewed the video. According to the Board, Respondent's sole explanation for her actions was that the incident "was a joke gone bad," a comment which Speirs documented in a memo to Cappelluti the following day. P-17. That memo, the Board argues, confirms Respondent's failure, even the following day, February 10, 2017, to show remorse or provide a meaningful explanation that might justify her actions. Speirs noted that Respondent explained for the first time on February 10, 2017, that the video shows she was merely seeking "to right M.M.'s chair," and he then "lost his balance." P-17.

The Board argues that Respondent's action of pushing M.M. and his chair to the cafeteria floor was not remotely part of her training. The Board asserts Respondent was trained on how to handle student disciplinary issues and was aware of the appropriate actions available to her, and it stresses Speirs' testimony that Respondent did not assert the occurrence of any events or the existence of any conditions which might have justified a physical intervention. 10/30 at 52. The Board highlights Cappelluti's testimony Respondent received training on all of the policies and regulations it alleges, in the Tenure Charges, that she violated. 10/30 at 173. See also 11/11 at 10 and P-23.[3]

With regard to the testimony of M.M., the Board stresses his recollection that on February 9, 2017, while he was at a lunch table leaning back in his chair he "felt a pushing force in the back of [his] chair bringing it down." 11/11 at 62. The Board notes M.M.'s memory he was confused, angry and surprised because [3]Cappelluti's February 17, 2014, letter, P-23, detailing to Peschi her responsibility each year to review District Policies 3280, 3281 and 3217, although obviously written after the subject incident, asserts the Board's determination Respondent was familiar with those policies and their mandates. The letter invited Respondent to contact Cappelluti if she had any "questions or concerns," and there is no record evidence any were raised. Indeed, Respondent does not contend in this proceeding that she did not know and/or understand her obligations under the law, policies and regulations which she is alleged in the Charges to have violated.

he had no idea why Respondent had pushed him down. It recounts his testimony, "I didn't even know what happened because it happened so fast." 11/11 at 64. The Board recounts his recollection Respondent did not offer to help him up, and simply chastised him, as noted above, "that's why chairs are for sitting in, not leaning in." 11/11 at 63. It further recites his testimony that when he passed Respondent in the hallway later that day, she avoided eye contact and again refused to apologize. 11/11 at 64. Indeed, the Board highlights Respondent's admission she saw M.M. in the hallway, as he recounted, and he was applying an icepack to his head, but she nevertheless made no inquiry about his welfare. 12/16 at 94-95.

The Board emphasizes Respondent's testimony that she went to M.M.'s table on February 9, 2017, because the students were throwing food and was "simply going to yell at them." 11/11 at 153. She testified she observed M.M. rocking back in the chair and "I figured if I just pushed him back up I can kill two birds with one stone by pushing him up and still handling the table and, you, which is instinctive." 11/11 at 154. She did not verbally correct M.M. because she "was yelling at the rest of the table." Id.

The Board details many portions of Respondent's testimony on cross examination:

- immediately after the incident, Respondent wrote an email to Speirs complaining about disciplinary issues in the cafeteria, but made no mention of the incident involving M.M. P-15

- she testified she did not mention the M.M. incident because she does identify students by name in such emails, 11/11 at 159, but then she was shown an email she wrote to Speirs on January 10, 2017, in which she complained about two (2) students by name. P14.

- Respondent repeatedly denied M.M.'s claim, corroborated by Popa, that she chastised him that it would be the last time he would lean back in his chair, or words to that effect, but then was confronted with a memo she wrote to herself on February 10, 2020, in which she records that she told M.M., "this was probably going to be the last time he didn't keep his chair flat on the floor." P-27.

- Respondent, rather than acknowledge her wrongdoing and accept responsibility for pushing M.M. and his chair to the cafeteria floor, cast blame on M.M. for being overly dramatic and on Muffley for making a big deal about the incident and giving M.M. an icepack. P-27.

- Respondent's testimony that it was "instinctive" for her to use her foot to right a chair in which a child is leaning backwards, 12/16 at 36-38, is refuted by the fact she gently corrected with her hands a different child who at 11:50 a.m. on February 9, 2017, was leaning back in his chair, just minutes before Respondent used her foot to push M.M. to the floor.

- the video evidence is inconsistent with Respondent's contention she sought to push M.M. forward to a safer position in his char, and rather shows clearly a forceful, downward push by Respondent with her right foot on the top of the back of M.M.'s chair.

According to the Board, the legal issues are as straightforward as the facts in establishing Respondent's culpability for conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, corporal punishment and otherwise inappropriate behavior, and it insists she should be terminated. Conduct unbecoming a teacher, according to the Board, "includes a broad range of behavior that impacts a teacher's ability to perform his duties and otherwise renders him unfit to have the responsibility for the custody and care of students." Citing State Bd. of Exam'rs v. Charlton, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDE) 18; In re Certificate of Fargo, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDE) 1. It asserts "conduct unbecoming" is an "elastic" phrase which includes, "conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency" of the public entity, or "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for public employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." In re Emmons, 63 N.J.Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960).

According to the Board, the "touchstone" of the charge of conduct unbecoming "is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his position," and it may be demonstrated by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. Citing Redcay v. State Bd. of Ed'n, 130 N.J.L. 369, 372 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). "Relevant factors in the equation of whether revocation or termination or something less is appropriate," according to the Board, include the nature and gravity of the offense, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, and any harm or injurious effect that the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system." Citing In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J.Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967).

The Board contends the gravity of Respondent's actions on February 9, 2017, "are apparent to anyone who watches the security video." According to the Board, "Respondent walked from the complete opposite side of the cafeteria to a table of students she was not in charge of, and intentionally lifted her leg off the ground and stomped M.M.'s chair, sending M.M. to the floor. Respondent did not offer to help M.M., she did not help M.M., she simply made a 'snarky' remark, shrugged her shoulders and left the lunchroom before her lunch duty was over." The Board insists Respondent was not provoked and has shown no signs of remorse, and in fact sought to conceal that her stated purpose at the time was to teach M.M. a lesson about what can happen if he leans back in his chair.

The Board argues that the harm and injurious effect of Respondent's actions on the proper administration of the school cannot be debated. All the witnesses to the incident were shocked, no less the child who suddenly and surprisingly found himself falling to the floor where he painfully hit his head. Instead of offering M.M. an apology and lending him assistance, Respondent chastised him, the Board points out. According to the Board, Respondent was irritated with the misbehaving students, and annoyed at the fact Popa was not correcting their behavior, and she then took her frustration out on M.M., intentionally pushing him to the floor. The forcefulness of her actions, shown on the video, according to the Board, reveals her intention was to pull M.M. to the ground, and her lack of regard for his safety and welfare is shown by her lack of concern in the wake of the incident. As noted by the Board, Respondent's only apparent concern when she wrote to Speirs right after the incident was that there should be a shorter lunch period because of the students' tendency to misbehave.

The totality of Respondent's conduct, the Board argues, establishes her violation of the prohibition in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 on corporal punishment. Likewise, the Board argues, Respondent on February 9, 2017, violated Board Policies 3281, 3217, 3280 and Board Regulation 3281. There was no justification for pushing M.M. to the cafeteria floor. So, too, it asserts, she exposed M.M. to bodily harm by her inappropriate resort to force. Her actions were cruel and unusual, wholly inappropriate, and subject her properly to dismissal, according to the Board. It asserts her termination "is the only way to guarantee the health, safety and welfare of current and future District students."

Position of Respondent

Respondent, on the other hand, insists the Board's proofs and arguments in support of the Tenure Charges fail to establish unbecoming conduct or other just cause for discipline, and fall far short of justifying Respondent's removal from her tenured teaching position. Respondent points out that conduct unbecoming which must be specifically pled in the tenure charges served upon a teacher, "is a broad term which may include any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the public entity, or has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of government services." Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). It requires more than simple negligence, according to Respondent. Citing IMO Certificates of Featherson, OAL Dkt. No. EDE 05829-05, Agency Dkt. No. 0405-177, 2006 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 163, Adopted, Bd. of Examiners, Ord. of Dismissal No. 0405-177. And if conduct unbecoming is charged as a neglect of duty, Respondent asserts it "implies nonperformance of some official duty imposed upon a public employee, and not merely the commission of an imprudent act." Citing Burlap, Camden County Dept. of Corr., OAL Dkt. No. CSV 10834-12, Agency Dkt. No. 2013-231, 2013 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 64.

Respondent adds that conduct unbecoming does not mandate a teacher's removal. Rather, it points out, "the law requires the arbitrator to evaluate a number of relevant factors in determining whether removal, or a lesser penalty, is appropriate." Respondent Brief at 9. Citing In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974) and In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010), Respondent asserts "[t]he fundamental question when imposing penalty is whether the teacher may be returned to his position without harm or injurious effect on the proper administration of the school district," and "[t]]he touchstone of the determination lies in the teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of her position." Respondent identifies the four "relevant factors" enumerated in In re Fulcomer, and which it argues must be evaluated by the arbitrator: (1) the nature and gravity of the offense; (2) the impact on the teacher's career; (3) any extenuating or aggravating circumstances; and (4) the harm or injurious effect the conduct may have had on the proper administration of the school system.

According to Respondent, progressive discipline is generally applied to findings of unbecoming conduct, even though a single "flagrant incident" may be sufficient to sustain termination. Citing West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962); In the Matter of Arnold Borrero, City of Newark, 2009 WL 3816616 (N.J. Admin). And citing Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 7th Ed., 15-40, Respondent asserts, "[i]t is said to be 'axiomatic that the degree of penalty should be in keeping with the seriousness of the offense." She contends, again based on Elkouri and Elkouri, that "[i]n less serious cases, arbitrators are very likely to change or modify an employer's discipline if it is excessive, disproportionate to the offense, inconsistent with principles of progressive discipline, punitive rather than corrective, or inconsiderate of mitigating circumstances." And, she adds, "[e]ven in serious cases, such as theft, mitigating circumstances . . . and a long, discipline-free record may render termination too harsh a penalty."

Thus, according to Respondent, even unjustified physical contact with a student does not mandate removal from tenure. Even in such serious cases, she argues, factors which must be considered include "[t]he circumstances under which the episode occurred, its provocation, the nature of the incident itself, the age of the pupil, the teacher's record, [her] attitude and the prognosis for [her] continued effective performance and usefulness in the school system. . . [E]ach such matter must be judged in light of all the circumstances." Quoting IMO Tenure Hearing of Eddie Lee Harrell, 1979 S.L.D. 479, citing IMO Tenure Hearing of Ostergren, 1966 S.L.D. 185, 188.

Thus, Respondent argues that in cases where a teacher's contact with a pupil "is not of a punitive nature," the matter is less serious and requires "a more measured response in terms of penalty." Citing Board of Ed. of City of New Brunswick v. Murphy, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 527. She points out that the appropriate penalty for a teacher who slapped an eight year old, special education student in the face was a suspension, rather than removal. IMO Tenure Hearing of Edith Craft, Commissioner of Ed. Dec. No. 366-11. She argues "[r]emoval of a tenured teacher is a draconian penalty, not always warranted even in the face of significant misconduct."

Respondent contends that a teacher's wrongful actions, even those involving inappropriate physical contact with a student, may not mandate removal where they are not cruel, premeditated or vicious. Based on her review of numerous tenure cases, Respondent alleges "conduct far more serious or potentially dangerous than anything alleged by the Board in this case" has not warranted removal from tenure. Respondent Brief at 12-14. She asserts, "[i]n light of these well-established principles . . . it is clear that neither [her] actions, nor the totality of the circumstances as per Fulcomer, . . . warrant the draconian penalty of removal from her tenured teaching position.

Respondent argues, as well, that I must consider her nearly two decades of service, during which she "has been a pillar of the Belhaven Middle School Community, and her community at large." Respondent Brief at 15. She recites with specificity her record of "outstanding evaluations, letters of support and commendation, service awards, and letters of appreciation." See Respondent Brief at 15-21, and references the positive character appraisals provided on her behalf in the criminal trial. Respondent Brief at 21-22, citing R-8 at 92-105.

Specifically with respect to the issues before me, and in support of her argument these proceedings have been unfair, Respondent contends she did not receive meaningful predisciplinary due process. The procedural due process rights that were violated cannot properly be minimized, she argues, given her property interest in her public employment position. As a "vested employee," she asserts she "cannot be terminated without the opportunity to respond to the employer's reasons for dismissal and to rebut the charges on which the dismissal is based." Respondent Brief at 23.

Acknowledging that these arbitration proceedings have afforded her the protections under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law ("TEHL"), N.J.S.A. 18A-6-10 et. seq., Respondent contends her due process rights were lessened during a pre-disciplinary process that denied her a full opportunity to present her side of the case before the Board's position "may have hardened." Respondent Brief at 23. According to Respondent, Cappelluti made up her mind to suspend and charge her solely upon watching the video, and without having given her an opportunity to "tell her side of the story." Respondent Brief at 24. Respondent contends the Board's haste in reaching its conclusions about what happened in the Belhaven cafeteria during lunch on February 9, 2017, "discredits its ferventness in these proceedings," and the fact it now is being sued by M.M.'s parents in connection with the incident, "can only amplify its desire to portray [Respondent's] actions as willful and malicious - thereby absolving itself of any legal responsibility in connection with M.M.'s civil suit." Id.

In any case, Respondent argues, the Board's evidence does not prove "[t]he gravamen of the tenure charges," which is that she intended to knock M.M. out of his chair, that she did so with malicious intent, that her actions constituted corporal punishment or that she caused M.M. physical injury, personal embarrassment and public embarrassment. Respondent Brief at 25.

Respondent does not dispute what can be seen on the video: that while M.M. was leaning back in his chair during lunch on February 9, 2017, she approached him from behind and placed her foot on the chair, and the chair together with M.M. then fell to the ground. Respondent Brief at 25. What the video does not prove, she argues, is the Board's claim she intended to knock M.M. to the floor. In fact, she argues, she has "always maintained" she only placed her foot on the chair in an effort to push it and M.M. to an upright position. Respondent insists the Board has not proved she had a different intention, and in fact, she contends that the Board, in order to prevail in this case, must prove what it charged, "that [Respondent's] purpose in knocking M.M. to the ground was to willfully and maliciously inflict corporal punishment upon him." Respondent Brief at 25-26. "This the Board cannot do," she argues. Id. at 26.

Preliminarily, Respondent argues the video should not have been admitted into evidence. She recites and incorporates into her brief an application she filed on July 25, 2019, asking that I deny a Board motion to allow the use in these proceedings of the video. In its motion, the Board had pointed out the use of the video in the tenure hearing was possibly contrary to an Order issued in the criminal case by Honorable Timothy P. Maguire, J.M.C. Respondent, through counsel, opposed the Board's motion, asserting, "the appropriate course of action would be for the Board to direct its application either to Judge Maguire, or to the Atlantic County Superior Court, which last exercised jurisdiction over Ms. Peschi's criminal case." When Respondent joined the Board in fashioning a Consent Confidentiality Order for me to enter for the purpose of regulating the use of the video as well as ensuring the confidentiality of the video and other records and files identified therein, she reserved her objection to use of the video in this case without authorization from Judge Maguire or a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

In any case, Respondent argues, the video is not dispositive of the issues of conduct unbecoming and corporal punishment that are before me pursuant to the Tenure Charges. She observes, in particular, reciting Judge Rauh's May 10, 2019, decision finding her not guilty of simple assault, R-1, "[r]easonable neutrals can, and have already expressed divergent opinions on the nature of precisely what is depicted in [the video]." Respondent Brief at 27. She quotes from Judge Rauh's decision, and although acknowledging it "may not be binding," argues "it is well-considered and persuasive. Certainly it belies the Board's assertion, repeated at least 9 times in the Board's opening statement, that this is a 'straightforward case.'" Respondent Brief at 28.

Respondent, further, contends, the witness testimony in this arbitration, does not compel a different outcome from the criminal trial verdict. Regarding the testimony of student witnesses L.C. and A.M., along with the testimony of M.M., Respondent notes Judge Maguire's observation in the Municipal Court trial that these same students gave "at time contradictory" and "somewhat rehearsed or coached" testimony. R-17 at 15. She contends that 18 months after that trial, and nearly 3 years removed from the incident in question, those concerns continue and must prevail. She asserts the testimony of the three (3) students "has little, if any, value." Respondent Brief at 28. Respondent argues none of them have specific knowledge of her intent, and most likely their testimony is from viewing the video, rather than from first hand knowledge of what actually occurred.

According to Respondent, the testimony of staff members Muffley and Popa is equally unhelpful. Indeed, while Muffley testified she saw Respondent's foot contact the inside of the back of M.M.'s chair, Popa, who was much closer, recalled Respondent made her contact with the top of the seat. Respondent Brief at 32. Neither observed an injury, Respondent argues.

Respondent's hearing testimony, in contrast, has been consistent, is first hand, and is reliable, she argues. She admits she "instinctively" put her foot on M.M.'s chair, but insists she did not have any intention to push it, or M.M., to the ground. Indeed, she testified she did not approach the table because of how M.M. was seated, but rather to "yell at" the other students at the table who were throwing food and otherwise being rowdy. In the process she noticed the dangerous position of M.M.'s chair and reflexively attempted to right its position. As she did so, the chair rocked backwards, causing her foot to come into contact, inadvertently, with the backrest. Respondent Brief at 33-34. She insists that the fact she used her foot rather than her hand in making the correction to M.M.'s position proves nothing about her intent. Respondent Brief at 38.

Respondent contends that she immediately asked M.M. if he was alright, and repeated her question when he did not answer. He told her he was "okay." Respondent Brief at 34. In short, Respondent argues, the incident was an accident, and the fact she may have told him in the wake of his fall, "guess you won't do that again," is neither surprising nor incriminating. She asserts it is the kind of lighthearted comment "[e]very parent has benignly and unthinkingly said to a child, following an unserious mishap." Respondent Brief at 35.

Respondent has consistently and credibly maintained that she did not see the incident as serious because she had not attempted to hurt M.M., and in fact he did not appear to be hurt or upset. Respondent insists it was entirely reasonable she minimized the incident and did not remove M.M. from the cafeteria. Respondent Brief at 36. She insists her possible insensitivity in writing in a memo that Muffley was "making a big deal about the incident," P-27, and thus "babying" M.M. is not a chargeable offense. Respondent Brief at 36. It certainly does not establish the intentionality and malice the Board has charged, she argues. Id.

Nor is there relevance to the fact she did not apologize to M.M., and thereby show, purportedly a quantum of remorse required to rebut the Board's claims about her malicious purpose. Not only was she not charged with failing to apologize, and not only was she specifically instructed against contacting M.M. or his family, but, she insists, she "did not intend to knock M.M. out of his chair and, frankly, has nothing to apologize for," as she did not believe M.M. was injured or was otherwise in any distress. Respondent Brief at 40.

Respondent insists I evaluate the evidence from her perspective. She was "stunned" at Speirs' allegation she intentionally had attempted to hurt M.M., id. at 37, just as she is incredulous that her reaction, "oh my gosh, this is like a bad joke," has been misrepresented and misconstrued as her having said it was all a "joke gone bad." Id. Respondent remains dismayed at how she instantly went from being a respected educator to a pariah. Id. She argues there is nothing in her history that even suggests problems with classroom or student management, self-control or anger, issues which would have manifested had they existed. Respondent Brief at 39. She is an experienced teacher who has disciplined students effectively and within existing guidelines over the course of her multi-decade career, she argues. There is nothing in her prior record which might support a conclusion she would overreact to a student leaning back in his chair by intentionally knocking him to the floor. Respondent Brief at 39.

In short, Respondent asks the Tenure Charges be dismissed and she be reinstated to her position with all lawful back pay, benefits and emoluments.

Opinion

The Video

Preliminarily, I address Respondent's argument the video is inadmissible under the Consent Order entered by Linwood Municipal Court Judge Timothy Maguire on August 16, 2017, ("Municipal Court Order"), and should be stricken from the arbitration record. I reject the argument. I find it is without merit, for several reasons.

The video was generated by the Board's security equipment at Belhaven School on February 9, 2017. The video was and remains the property of the Board. Although the Municipal Court Order might on its face appear to bind the Board to the limitation, stated in the Order, that "the Security Video and any and all copies thereto will only be used by the Parties for their prosecution and defense [of] the above-captioned litigation," in the context of the criminal case and of the obvious circumstances under which the Board agreed to release the video to the Atlantic County Prosecutor and to Ms. Peschi based upon their agreement to be bound by certain court ordered confidentiality stipulations, it is plain to me upon my careful review of the Municipal Court Order, as amended by Judge Maguire, that the Order regulates the use of the video by the Atlantic County Prosecutor and by Ms. Peschi, and not by the Board.

To uphold Respondent's objection to the Board's use of the video in this Tenure Hearing without authorization from Judge Maguire, I would have to conclude that the Board, in agreeing to provide the video to the prosecution and defense in the Matter of New Jersey v. Peschi, and in insisting that the prosecution and defense agree to maintain the confidentiality of the video under terms satisfactory to the Board, gave up its control of the video and its right to use the video as evidence in a disciplinary proceeding under the Education Law, N.J.S.A. 18:6-10. There is nothing in the Municipal Court Order which takes away that right, and Respondent has not identified any law or precedent which give a Municipal Court authority to limit the Board's ability to use its own security video as evidence in a tenure hearing. If Respondent had an identifiable legal right to preclude the use of the video in her Tenure Hearing without the imprimatur of Judge Maguire, it was her obligation to raise that right to Judge Maguire, rather than wait until after the completion of these proceedings.

The Charges

Turning to the Charges and Specifications, I find, based upon my careful review of the hearing record and the arguments of the parties, that Respondent is culpable for the misconduct and violations alleged in Charges 1, 2 and 3.

With respect to Charge 1, I find Respondent did engage in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member in violation of Board Policy No. 3281, when she exposed M.M. to unnecessary harm, when she intentionally, and purposefully, pulled down with her foot and leg, the back of a cafeteria chair in which M.M. was seated, causing him suddenly, unexpectedly, and violently, to fall to the cafeteria floor in front of his peers and Board staff, and suffer physical injury, personal embarrassment, and public embarrassment among his peers and Board Staff. I find that by said conduct, she also violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 and Board Policy No. 3217,

"Use of Corporal Punishment," as alleged in Charge 2. I further find that by said conduct, she violated Board Policy No. 3280, "Liability for Pupil Welfare," as alleged in Charge 3.

My conclusions are drawn substantially from my careful and detailed viewing the video. I watched and re-watched the incident dozens of times, at regular speed and frame-by-frame. Each viewing led me to the same conclusion. Respondent walked up to a spot just behind the cafeteria chair in which M.M. was seated while he was leaning back and balancing himself on the chair's back supports, with the front supports suspended in the air. The top of the backrest of the chair was approximately two (2) feet above the ground. (A frame-by-frame analysis shows that M.M. was rocking very slightly, but so slightly it is only perceptible in the frame-by-frame analysis.) When Respondent reached a spot behind and just to the left of the chair, she bent her right leg at the knee and raised her right knee to a point where her right foot was higher than the back of M.M.'s chair. Respondent then placed her raised foot on the top of the backrest of the chair and in one very quick and forceful motion, she pushed the backrest of the chair to the floor, which caused M.M. to fall backwards onto the floor.

The video shows that Respondent's right foot makes contact with the backrest of M.M.'s chair at 12:04:19.723. Her downward push extends until 12:04:20.324, at which point M.M.'s chair back hits the floor. The video frame at 12:04:20.657 shows M.M.'s legs and feet straight up in the air, which convinces me he landed on his back when he hit the floor, as he testified. His contact with the floor was hard, I find, as it took substantial force to cause M.M. to roll back and flip over so his legs and feet were pointing straight up. At 12:04:20.791 he has rolled over onto his side.

At 12:04:21.124, M.M. is still rolling on the floor as Respondent stands over him watching. At 12:04:21.926, M.M. starts to bring himself up as Respondent leans down from her waist. At 12:04:23.060, he has sat up, but is still on the ground looking up at her. At 12:04:24.862, M.M. has begun to right the chair and has lifted himself up onto one knee. Respondent continues to stand next to him with her arms firmly at their sides. There is no hint of any motion by her to help him up.

At 12:04:27.131, M.M. is standing and bringing his chair all the way up. Respondent moves closer to him, but her arms still remain at their sides. At 12:04:28.398, as M.M. brings his chair all the way up and prepares to sit back in it, Respondent turns to her left and begins to walk around to the other side of the table where, at 12:04:34, she stops to face and address the other children at M.M.'s table. At 12:04:34.873 Respondent is gesturing with the palms of both her hands facing up, as she looks at the children at M.M.'s table. At 12:04:36.341, she leaves that table. At 12:04:40.345 Respondent is turned towards Muffley, and gesturing with her palms up as she walks sideways off camera.

I watched the video very closely from 11:47:42 a.m. until 12:06:43 p.m. It corroborates hearing evidence that Respondent was assigned to lunch duty on the 7th grade side of the cafeteria. In fact, she has no apparent interaction with the 6th grade side (except to retrieve what appear to be paper towels) until she crosses through the opening in the barrier between the 7th grade side and the 6th grade side at 12:04:15, approximately four (4) seconds before she engages contact with M.M.'s chair.

Respondent testified she crossed over to the 6th grade side to address misbehavior she observed at M.M.'s table. 11/11 at 152. She stated she saw children throwing food and observed one of the children at M.M.'s table get out of his seat, throw a bag of chips on the floor and stomp on it. 11/11 at 152. She recalled that as she approached M.M.'s table, she was yelling at the children seated at that table on account of their misbehavior. 11/11 at 153-54. She testified that M.M.'s position in his chair was not the reason she approached the table. 11/11 at 153.

In fact, the video corroborates that testimony, as it shows that M.M.'s chair is upright at 12:04:14.051, the point at which Respondent first crosses over to the 6th grade side. The video further shows that it is after Respondent crosses to the 6th grade side, the moment she recalls she had decided to walk over to M.M.'s table to correct their misbehavior, that he leans back in his chair. This is at 12:04:15.052.

The video evidence persuades me Respondent's contact with M.M.'s chair, when she placed her foot on the top of the backrest and pushed it squarely to the floor, was not an accidental occurrence. Her movement is fluid and deliberate. There is nothing in the movement of her right leg or any other part of her body which suggests she lost her balance or for some other reason inadvertently ended up pushing M.M.'s chair to the floor instead of pushing the back of the chair forward. Her actions appear purposeful. The video shows her purpose was to push the chair's backrest down rather than to push the back of the chair up so M.M. would not fall.

Respondent's purpose is further revealed, I find, by the fact there is nothing in her body language which indicates an effort to help M.M. up, which is not what one would expect if a teacher has just accidentally knocked a child to the floor, which is what Respondent contends happened here. If a teacher has inadvertently caused a child to fall backwards from his chair onto the floor, especially if the fall is forceful, as it was here, I would expect to see at least some reaction by the teacher revealing she did not intend to cause the fall or was concerned about the welfare of the child. Minimally I would expect to see her extend a hand to help him up. But here, Respondent offered no such assistance. She has never claimed she gave him any. This evidence persuades me that knocking M.M. and his chair to the cafeteria floor is precisely what she wanted to do.

In ruling that her actions were intentional, I am not making a finding they were premeditated. On the contrary, the video evidence, combined with Respondent's testimony she was disciplining the children at M.M.'s table and "yelling" at them when she noticed M.M. leaning back in his chair, persuades me she acted impulsively against M.M. while she was angry at other children.

Respondent used the word "instinctive" to describe her impulsivity. 11/11 at 154. Regardless of which word best indicates her internal process, the fact remains that when she saw M.M. leaning back in his chair, she abandoned her capacity to respond in a professional, responsible, proportional and safe manner, as she had done earlier that lunch period when, at 11:50:58, on the 7th grade side, she encountered a child leaning back in his chair and she gently righted the chair with her hands. P-29.

Respondent's lack of candor about the incident, in particular her claim she did not intend to push the back of the chair to the floor, and her persistent denial, until confronted with her memorialization of the incident, P-27, that she told M.M. when he looked up at her from the floor that he now will have learned his lesson about leaning back in his chair, persuades me she has not been honest about her level of anger, and even the existence of rage, she experienced when, while yelling at other children, she saw M.M. leaning back in his chair.

Respondent's lack of candor about the purposefulness of her action, in particular the fact she immediately blamed M.M. for the incident as she explained to him her purpose in knocking him over was to teach him a lesson, persuades me that M.M. is the more credible recounter of the event, and that he has honestly and accurately recalled that Respondent never asked him if he was hurt, or needed any help.

I thus further believe M.M.'s testimony that he was hurt and embarrassed. At 12:06:43 on the video, he is shown, as he is being escorted from the cafeteria by Muffley, wiping his eyes with the right sleeve of his sweater or shirt. At 12:06:44, he continues to wipe his eyes. This corroborates Muffley's testimony M.M. was crying when she approached him after the incident. The evidence persuades me M.M. was crying as he left the cafeteria because he was hurt and embarrassed, as he claims, by Respondent's purposeful and punitive act of pushing him and his chair to the ground without warning. Indeed, I find it is preposterous for Respondent to claim that when M.M., who was then 12 years old, walked the hallways of the school, in front of other children, with an icepack applied to his head, he was being dramatic. I am convinced he was using the icepack because his head hurt and he was seeking to relieve the pain.

Respondent insists her recollection of the incident as a mere accident is truthful, and her version, at the very least, as Judge Rauh found, is "plausible." Her contention that she inadvertently "tapped" M.M.'s chair and never intended for him to fall to the floor, 11/11 at 156, is only plausible if I ignore what is undeniable: her failure immediately, or even at all, to help M.M. up from the floor; her failure to ask him if he was hurt; her failure to ensure he received a medical evaluation; her comment revealing her purpose was to teach him a lesson; her failure to report the incident to Speirs; her ongoing dissimulation about what happened and the her actions in the wake of the incident to conceal it; the fact that the incident happened while she was angry and "yelling" at other children; that earlier, when she was not disciplining and "yelling" at children, and encountered another child similarly leaning back in his chair, she responded by gently righting the child to an upright position; that she did not inquire how M.M. was feeling even when later that day she saw him with an icepack, because she believed he was being dramatic; that she believes a teacher, like Muffley, who gave personal attention to a 12 year old child who had fallen backwards to the floor after being pushed down by another staff member, was coddling the child.

Indeed, Judge Rauh, in finding insufficient proof (albeit under a criminal law standard) that Respondent had intention to push M.M. and his chair to the ground without regard for the child's welfare, apparently did not consider these important factors relevant to Respondent's purposefulness or lack thereof. His decision does not consider Respondent's failure to respond to M.M.'s fall with care and support, and that she walked away without offering him any help or showing concern about anything other than the lesson about proper chair use he shall have learned from the experience.

What is undeniable is Respondent's lack of any reaction to a child tumbling hard to the floor with sufficient force it upended him and caused him to land on his back. Although Respondent is certain M.M. did not hit his head, what possible justification did she have for not helping him up and at least asking him if he was hurt? She now of course realizes she had none, and has claimed here she asked him if he was "okay." If M.M.'s fall was an accident, as Respondent contends, I would expect she would have responded at the time as if she inadvertently had just caused a child to accidentally flip over onto the floor, and thus show concern. Respondent instead, explained to M.M. the lesson she was seeking to teach him when she flipped him over, and she walked away.

Respondent's actions, I find, were unprofessional, irresponsible, dangerous, punitive, purposeful, and amounted to prohibited corporal punishment. Her actions constituted conduct unbecoming a teacher.

As alleged in Charge 1, Respondent violated Board Policy No. 3281. She failed her responsibility to protect M.M.'s health, safety and welfare. She failed to conduct herself at the highest level of professional responsibility when she flipped a child out of his chair, told him she did so to teach him a lesson, and then walked away without providing him any care or support, and then failed to report the incident. By her treatment of M.M. on February 9, 2017, Respondent engaged in inappropriate conduct unbecoming a school staff member which is prohibited under the Policy. Her admitted punitive purpose in flipping M.M. out of his chair to teach him a lesson about the dangers of leaning back in chairs, constituted corporal punishment prohibited under Board Policy No. 3281, as edified by the definition of "inappropriate staff conduct" set forth in Board Regulation No. 3281.

By imposing corporal punishment upon M.M., Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 and Board Policy No. 3217, as alleged in Charge 2. There is not even a scintilla of evidence that Respondent needed to upend M.M. as a reasonable and necessary use of force, as spelled out in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1. He was not disturbing or threatening anyone; he did not have a weapon; he was not threatening anyone's person or property; he was not being disobedient. The proscription in Policy No. 3217 could not be clearer: no teacher may resort to force in her treatment of a pupil, even pupils who are openly defying authority (which was not the case with M.M.), as "[e]ach pupil is protected by law from bodily harm. . . Teaching staff members shall not use physical force or the threat of physical force to maintain discipline or compel obedience except as permitted by law, but may remove pupils from the classroom or school by the lawful procedures established for the suspension and expulsion of pupils." Plainly, within this proscription, Respondent fairly could not possibly have determined there was justification to push M.M. and his chair to the floor.

Respondent likewise violated Board Policy No. 3280, as alleged in Charge 3. She failed to discharge her responsibility towards M.M. with the highest level of care and prudence. Instead of prioritizing M.M.'s safety, which she might have done by protecting him from falling as he leaned back in his chair, she intentionally caused the very thing she should have been protecting him from, falling backwards and exposing himself to possible serious injury.

Penalty

This record persuades me that Respondent's actions towards M.M., although impulsive, were nevertheless punitive, and that she has demonstrated a lack of professionalism and maturity that might have allowed her to reflect upon her actions, understand them, and give credible assurance she has the ability to exercise her good judgment, restraint, proportionality and adherence to governing rules and regulations the next time she might be angered by and yelling at children.

I thus do not see this incident through the same lens as Judge Rauh, as a very brief event which reveals little about Respondent's state of mind. Her actions against M.M. were undertaken with no evident consideration of the immediate danger they presented to M.M., and the possible cerebral and neurological damage, perhaps permanent, he potentially could have suffered by a surprise move by which caused him to flip backwards, without warning, onto his head. Respondent has effectively admitted she lacked the capacity, while on duty charged with the care and safety of children, properly and responsibly to assess those risks.

Disturbingly, Respondent testified she considers a teacher, like Muffley, who offered comfort to a child who had just been flipped out of his chair by another teacher to be "overreacting." She unambiguously stated her view that M.M. should have accepted her mistreatment of him, instead of crying, complaining of pain, and otherwise being "dramatic." In short, even now she shows no remorse for her inappropriate, unjustified, punitive, irresponsible and dangerous treatment of M.M. on February 9, 2017. Even now, years removed from the incident, Respondent demonstrates her inability and refusal to understand the seriousness of her misconduct.

No parent who entrusts their child to the care of the School District should expect that if their child does something unsafe, like lean back in his chair, a school staff member will punitively teach him a lesson by having him actually experience the very danger that the unsafe action creates.

I hasten to add these would be serious charges if the allegations were only that Respondent observed a child who was leaning back in his chair lose his balance, fall forcefully onto his back and head, do nothing to assist the child, ignore the possibility of a serious injury, chastize the child for his unsafe conduct and then walk away. The actual wrongdoing is far worse where as here Respondent intentionally pushed the child to the floor, and is aggravated further by her lack of candor and refusal to acknowledge the gravity of her wrongdoing.

I have deliberated carefully on whether Respondent here might properly be penalized with a consequence less serious than dismissal. In doing so, I have considered whether she has provided sufficient assurance she knows the wrongfulness of her misconduct, understands the unacceptable risks it presented, recognizes the circumstances, thinking and emotions which prompted her to lose her ability to act in an appropriate and proportionate way when she saw M.M. putting himself at danger. I must be persuaded that Respondent will not again act impulsively to punish a child, as she did here, unconcerned about the obvious dangers and grave risks of physical harm her decision to flip a child over had created, like the very real risks of brain injury and paralysis.

True, Respondent made her decision to push down on M.M.'s chair almost instantaneously, but as an experienced teacher, she had enough time even in that instant to reflect upon the impropriety and danger of her impulse, and control it. Indeed, Respondent has admitted that what she did here was make a "choice." 12/16 at 51. In this proceeding, she has not presented evidence to convince me she has the awareness, or even the capacity, if again angered and forced to "yell at" children in a disciplinary setting, to control her violent impulses.

For all of the above reasons, I find the appropriate penalty for Respondent's conduct unbecoming and act of corporal punishment against M.M. when she pushed him and his chair to the floor on February 9, 2017, is dismissal.

AWARD

1. Respondent Kimberley Peschi is culpable for the violations and misconduct alleged in the Charges and Specifications, in particular, as discussed hereinabove, she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member and committed corporal punishment in violation of Board Policy and Regulation, and of New Jersey Law.

2. For the reasons stated, her penalty for engaging in said misconduct and violating the law, policies and regulations indicated shall be the termination of her employment.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County and Board of Education of the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, Respondents.

Synopsis

Petitioner, Delaware Valley Regional High School District, sought an order relieving it of the obligation to pay for the tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend the respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District's (HCVSD) Biomedical Sciences Academy (Academy). Petitioner contended that its high school provides an equivalent biomedical sciences program which has been approved as a Career and Technical Education (CTE) program, and which has the same Classification of Instruction Code (CIP) as HCVSD's Academy, however is not an approved vocational school and has not applied for such status.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the two issues to be determined, 1) whether the approval for a CTE program is equivalent to being an approved vocational school, and if this relieves the petitioner from the obligation to pay for students to go to the respondent vocational school, and 2) whether the location of the vocational school at a regional high school disqualifies it from receiving students and tuition from the petitioning district; N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) requires school districts to pay tuition for student who are accepted into a county vocational school, and the statute makes no distinction regarding the location of the program; the location of the HCVSD's Academy on the campus of North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School is irrelevant because it is a separate, approved vocational school with its own school code; N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, which provides districts with discretion to pay the tuition for their students to attend another district that offers a course of study not offered by the home district, does not apply here because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) already creates the mandatory obligation to pay; further, petitioner is not exempt from N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because its approved CTE program in biological sciences is not the equivalent of a vocational school.

Upon review the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner is required to pay tuition costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Academy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Finding petitioner's exceptions to be without merit, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County and Board of Education of the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Delaware Valley Regional High School District Board of Education (petitioner), and the reply thereto filed by the respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District Board of Education (HCVSD).[1]

Petitioner seeks an order declaring that it is not required to pay tuition or transportation costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Biomedical Sciences Academy

[1] Respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education also filed exceptions to point out that the Initial Decision failed to make conclusions with respect to its motion to dismiss but contends that in granting HCVSD's motion for summary decision, the ALJ intended to dismiss the petition as to both respondents. The Commissioner agrees.

(Academy). By way of background, HCVSD operates six vocational schools in Hunterdon County, including the Academy, which is located in a leased classroom on the campus of respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education (North Hunterdon-Voorhees). Students who attend the Academy take classes that are provided either directly by HCVSD, or pursuant to a contract between HCVSD and North Hunterdon-Voorhees. Petitioner operates a Career and Technical Education (CTE) program in biomedical sciences that has the same classification of instructional program (CIP) code as HCVSD's biomedical sciences CTE program, but has not been approved as a vocational school.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner is required to pay tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Academy, even though the Academy is housed at another regional high school. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) requires districts to pay tuition for their students who are accepted into a county vocational school, and the statute makes no distinction regarding the location of the program. Despite petitioner's arguments, the ALJ found that the location of the Academy on the campus of North Hunterdon-Voorhees is irrelevant because it is a separate vocational school with its own school code and is approved by the Department. The ALJ also found that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 – which provides districts with the discretion to pay the tuition for their students to attend another district that offers a course of study not offered at the home district – does not apply to this matter because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) already creates the mandatory obligation to pay. Moreover, petitioner is not exempt from N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because its approved CTE program in biomedical sciences - while considered a vocational-technical program - is not the equivalent of a vocational school.

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ erred by concluding that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 requires petitioner to pay tuition for its students to attend the Academy. Petitioner maintains that the plain language of the statute only requires tuition payment when a student attends a CTE program that is housed on the campus of "any of the schools of the county vocational school district," which does not include programs that are located at another high school. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4). Instead of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, petitioner argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 - which gives districts the discretion to pay tuition when students attend programs at another school - should apply. Petitioner further argues that the Academy can hardly be considered a "school," as it is just a four-course CTE program, and all other aspects of education are provided by North Hunterdon-Voorhees.

Petitioner also contends that the ALJ erred in finding that it does not operate a vocational school. Petitioner maintains that since it has an approved CTE program, it meets the definition of "vocational school" for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Further, the Department's regulations "strongly indicate" that approval of a CTE program is also approval to operate a vocational school. For example, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) authorizes boards of education to apply the terms "career and technical" or "vocational-technical" to their schools or programs once they have been approved. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 12-13). Petitioner also relies on the unpublished Appellate Division decision in Board of Education of the Bergen Vocational and Technical School District v. Board of Education of the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District, No. A-3572-04, 2006 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 355 (App. Div. Mar. 6, 2006), to support its argument that obtaining a CIP code is the functional equivalent of an approved vocational school. Accordingly, petitioner maintains that because it operates a vocational school, it should be exempt from the obligation to pay tuition under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a).

Finally, petitioner argues that HCVSD does not have the authority to operate a vocational school in another district's high school. Petitioner claims that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20, which sets forth the powers of a county vocational school board, does not permit a county vocational school to admit students beyond the capacity of its campus and send those students to a vocational program at an existing high school. Although N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20 permits vocational schools to lease school buildings, petitioner maintains that the statute does not contemplate leasing a classroom for a CTE program and contracting with an existing high school for the remainder of the classes. Accordingly, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision and declare that petitioner is not required to pay tuition for students attending the Academy.

In reply, HCVSD contends that the Initial Decision should be affirmed in its entirety. HCVSD disagrees with petitioner's argument that the location of the Academy at North Hunterdon-Voorhees or the provision of non-CTE classes by that high school means that the Academy is not a vocational school. HCVSD emphasizes that the Academy is a separate and distinct school with its own school code that is run by HCVSD. HCVSD maintains that it was expressly permitted to open the Academy in a local school as it was created pursuant to a grant by the Commissioner, and - at that time - the Legislature encouraged vocational schools to establish programs in existing facilities. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-132 et seq. HCVSD further argues that the ALJ correctly concluded that the petitioner does not operate a vocational school. A CIP code for a CTE program is not the same as operating a vocational school, which requires separate approval by the Department. Accordingly, petitioner is obligated to pay for its students to attend the Academy, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a).

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner is required to pay tuition costs for its students to attend the HCVSD's Academy. N.J.S.A. 18:54-20.1(a) provides:

> The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

As the Academy is one of the schools of the county vocational school district, the petitioner is obligated to send any of its students who are accepted into the program and pay for their tuition. Petitioner does not fall into the exception outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because it does not operate a vocational school since it has never applied or been approved to do so. Operating a CTE program is not the same as operating a vocational school. Additionally, the location of the vocational school program in a regional high school does not violate the statute. Accordingly, there is no basis for petitioner to be discharged of its obligation to pay the tuition costs for its students to attend the Academy.

The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive as they substantially reiterate arguments that were already addressed by the ALJ. The plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, specifically the use of "any of the schools of the county vocational school district," does not support petitioner's interpretation that the tuition requirement only applies to vocational schools that are located on their own campus and not those that are housed on the campus of another high school. Instead, the plain language applies to any vocational school and does not differentiate between programs based on their location. Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, does not supersede petitioner's obligation to pay tuition for its students to attend vocational schools under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. Contrary to petitioner's arguments, the Department's regulations do not establish that the approval of a CTE program is the same as an approval to operate a vocational school.[2] Finally, the Commissioner disagrees with petitioner that HCVSD did not have the authority to create the Academy.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: January 17, 2020 Decision: April 24, 2020

BEFORE SARAH G. CROWLEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District ("HCVSD"), operates six schools in Hunterdon County, New Jersey. Respondent operates Career and Technical Education Programs ("CTE programs") at each of its six schools. Two of HCVSD's CTE schools are located at its campuses, Central Campus and Bartles Campus. Respondent operates three HCVSD Academies at other locations in Hunterdon County. These Academies are: The "Biomedical Sciences Academy" ("BSA"), the academy at issue, located at the North Hunterdon High School in a leased and remodeled classroom; The Environmental Sustainability & Engineering Academy located at Hunterdon County Educational Services Commission; and The Computer Science and Engineering Academy located at a leased space at both Delaware Valley Regional High School and Voorhees High School.

Each of respondent's Academies include non-CTE academic and other required courses provided pursuant to contract with a local high school or regional high school other than HCVSD. The BSA offers a four-year, full-time curriculum, and all CTE classes and all academic and other classes are provided either directly by HCVSD or pursuant to contract with the local comprehensive school district. In May 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") approved petitioner Delaware Valley Regional High School ("DVRHS") to operate a CTE program in biomedical sciences. DVRHS's newly approved biomedical sciences CTE program was assigned the CIP code of 260102. The BSA's CTE program CIP Code is identical to DVRHS's biomedical sciences CTE program CIP Code. However, DVRHS is not an approved vocational school, and has not applied for such status with the State Department of Education.

The petitioner filed an action seeking to be relieved of the obligation to pay for students at DVRHS's BSA program on the grounds that they provide an equivalent biomedical program which has received CTE approval. In addition, the petitioner argues that because the BSA program is housed at a different regional school, and not a vo-tech school, they are not obligated to pay tuition for their students under the statute.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. The respondent filed a motion for summary decision on October 15, 2019. Petitioner filed opposition to the motion and a cross-motion for summary decision on November 18, 2019. The respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School filed a motion to dismiss this matter, as they have no relationship, contractual or otherwise with the petitioner, and merely house the program at issue in one of their regional high schools. Oral Argument was heard on January 13, 2020, and the record closed on that date.

FINDING OF FACT

1. Respondent, HCVSD, operates six vocational schools in Hunterdon County, New Jersey.

2. HCVSD operates Career and Technical Education Programs at each of its six schools.

3. Two of HCVSD's CTE schools are located at its campuses, Central Campus and Bartles Campus.

4. HCVSD operates three Academies at other locations in Hunterdon County.

5. The Biomedical Sciences Academy is located at the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School in a leased classroom.

6. The Environmental Sustainability & Engineering Academy is located at Hunterdon County Educational Services Commission.

7. The Computer Science and Engineering Academy is located at leased space at both Delaware Valley Regional High School and North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School.

8. Each of respondent's Academies include non-CTE academic and other required courses provided pursuant to contract with a local high school or regional high school other than HCVSD.

9. The BSA offers a four-year, full-time curriculum, and all CTE classes and all academic and other classes are provided either directly by HCVSD or pursuant to contract with the local comprehensive school district.

10. In May 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") approved petitioner Delaware Valley Regional High School ("DVRHS") to operate a CTE program in biomedical sciences.

11. DVRHS's newly approved biomedical sciences CTE program was assigned the CIP code of 260102.

12. The BSA's CTE program CIP Code is identical to DVRHS's biomedical sciences CTE program CIP Code.

13. DVRHS is not an approved vocational school and has not applied for such status with the State Department of Education.

LEGAL ARUGMENT AND CONCLUSION

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In this matter, there are no genuine issues of material fact. The respondent has a vocational program in Biomedical Sciences that it houses at a regional high school in its district. The petitioner has students attending this program and pays their tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-20.1(a). The petitioner recently received CTE approval for a program in Biomedical Science. However, the petitioner does not operate a vocational school and has not applied or received approval to run a vocational school.

There are two issues before me on this motion. The first is whether the approval for a CTE program by the petitioner school district is analogous to approval for a vocational school, thus relieving them of the obligation to pay for students to go to the respondent vocational school. The other issue is whether the location of the vocational program at a regional high school disqualifies them from receiving students and tuition from the petitioner.

1. Issue: Does the housing of a vocational program by HCVSD preclude them from collecting tuition for students attending the program?

The petitioner has argued that the fact that HCVSD houses its Biomedical Academy in a regional high school renders null DVRHS's obligation to pay tuition for its students attending the academy. Petitioner argues that the plain language of the statute does not compel regional high schools to pay the tuition for students who attend a vo-tech program that is held at another regional high school, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-

20.1(a) only mandates tuition payments to situations where the student attends the vo-tech school's campus. However, the language of the statute makes no such distinction, nor can such an interpretation be implied by the language, case law or statutory intent. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) states:

> The board of education of each . . . regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the . . . regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district.

The program at issue is run by the respondent vocational school, which has received approval by the state to run the program. There is nothing in the statute which would mandate where the program is to be held.

Petitioner has argued that the fact that the respondent's Biomedical Academy is hosted at another regional high school negates petitioner's obligation to pay the tuition of its resident students attending the Biomedical Academy. The plain language of the statute contradicts this understanding. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) states:

> The board of education of each . . . regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the . . . regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district . . . The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a . . . regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) (emphasis added).]

The statute states that the board of education of each regional school district shall send resident pupils to any of the schools of the county vocational school district for each resident pupil who has applied to and been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) (emphasis added). There are three important features of the language of this provision. First, it is important to note that the regional school district must send their students to any of the schools of the county vo-tech school district, as noted by the mandatory language "shall." This shows that regional school districts have no discretion to prevent their resident students from attending any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The regional school district must send their resident students to those schools. Next, the provision makes clear that the regional school district must send those students to "any" of the schools of the county vocational school district. There is no specification that the pupils must be restricted to attending only classes hosted at some main campus. There is no mention of a campus, main school, headquarters, or any narrowing language that would support petitioner's argument. Instead, the broad language "any" was used, implying that of the many schools within a county vocational school district, the regional schools must send their pupil to whichever of those schools to which their resident pupils were accepted for attendance. Finally, the provision includes the word "schools," plural, implying that it was contemplated that county vocational school districts may have multiple schools. Again, the word "schools" is not clarified or modified except by "of the county vocational school district."

The petitioner also argues that allowing county vo-tech schools to collect tuition for students taught in non-campus locations, such as a local regional high school, is contrary to legislative intent. Specifically, petitioner argued that reading the statute to allow tuition payments to county vo-tech schools for students attending vo-tech classes at other regional high schools would encourage a county vo-tech school "to scavenge for empty classroom space in nearby high schools to increase its tuition revenue." Petitioner pointed to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 for support to show that the Legislature intended local school districts to have to pay the tuition of students attending vo-tech courses hosted at another regional high school. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 provides that a local school board has discretion to pay the tuition of a resident student wishing to take a course of study at another high school if the home district does not offer the course of study. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15. Petitioner argued this provision's discretion should be carried over to a student attending another regional high school for the vo-tech courses hosted there if the home district does not offer the course of study. Also, petitioner goes as far as to say that DVRHS would not need to pay tuition under the N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 because it offers instruction in the same vo-tech course of study as the other regional high school. In sum, petitioner argued that the home district should have discretion to pay tuition for a resident student who takes vo-tech courses taught by a county vo-tech school at a different regional school district, and even applying that standard, petitioner would not have to pay the tuition because petitioner offers the same course at the home district. However, the statute in question is not discretionary and the analogy to the N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, is not appropriate.

Petitioner's final argument is that HCVSD has no statutory authority to accept students beyond the capacity of its schools and send those students and an instructor to a high school operated by another school district. Petitioner relies upon N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20, which outlines the powers of vo-tech schools, for the lack of authority to set up the relationship present in this case. HCVSD responds that the Biomedical Science Academy is a properly approved vo-tech school and the fact that it is hosted on the North Hunterdon-Vorhees Regional High School campus is irrelevant. First, respondent HCVSD argued that its Biomedical Sciences Academy located at the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School ("disputed vo-tech school") is a separate and distinct vocational school operated by HCVSD. Moreover, the disputed vo-tech school was specifically approved by the DOE, has a separate school code, the classes are hosted by HCVSD, attending students receive their diploma from HCVSD, and those students are counted on roll with the HCVSD by the DOE. Accordingly, the disputed vo-tech school is duly authorized under the relevant statutes and regulations, and the location of the program at a local school does not vitiate the obligation to pay tuition.

2. Is the approval of a CTE program in Biosciences by the petitioner the equivalent of maintaining a vocation school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5?

DVRHS argues that it qualifies for the exemption under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a), since DVRHS operates its own program that is the same as the one operated by HCVSD. However, such an exemption is permitted only where there is an approved vocational school in the district. The DOE's approval of a career and technical education program ("CTE program") is not the equivalent to the DOE's approval of a school district operating a vocational school. The exemption from tuition payments is limited to regional school districts which maintain a vocational school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6 found in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Having a CTE approved program is not the equivalent of operating a vocational school. Moreover, discretionary obligation under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 is not mirrored in the vocational statute, and the language in the vocational status is clear.

Petitioner argues that approval for a CTE program is equivalent to approval to operate a vocational school under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6, relying upon N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) for support of this equivalence. N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) provides:

> A district board of education shall not apply the term "career and technical" or "vocational-technical" to any of its schools, programs, or programs of study unless those schools, programs, or programs of study are approved by the Department and meet the general requirements included in the approved State Plan for Career and Technical Education.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c)]

Petitioner interprets this regulation to mean that a district board of education, if permitted to refer to its school as vocational-technical once it obtains program approval, should then be considered a vo-tech school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). However, before a vocational school can be established, "the location and rules for management of the school, the course or courses of study to be pursued therein, and all changes in such courses shall be approved by the commissioner, subject to the advice and consent of the state board. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6. No such approval was obtained by the petitioner Board of Education and they are not recognized or approved as a vocational school.

The petitioner's CTE program is not a vocational school for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and the two programs are not "the same" per that statute. The statute requires that a local school district is only exempt from making tuition payments for its students attending a county vo-tech school if the local district is operating its own vo-tech school established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 requires that the location and rules for the management of vo-tech school, the course or courses of study, and all changes in such courses shall be approved by the Commissioner of Education, subject to the advice and consent of the state board, before the local district can establish a vo-tech school. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6; petitioner never sought or attained approval from the Commissioner of Education to operate a vo-tech school. Moreover, the establishment of a CTE program within a regional high school does not equate to the establishment of a vocational school. See Bd. of Educ. of Bergen County Vocational and Tech. Sch. Distr. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional High Sch., EDU 7891-03, Final Decision (October 13, 2004). And, although there seems to be some movement by the NJDOE away from designated vo-tech schools to in-district CTE programs, there has been no change in the law regarding the establishment of same.

The language of the statue provides that a regional high school that may apply the term "career and technical" or "vocational technical" to any of its schools, programs, or programs of study only if the school, program, or program of study is approved by the Department and meet the general requirements included in the approved State Plan for Career and Technical Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c). Petitioner does not have an approved "school." Petitioner only offers an approved "program." Just because petitioner is permitted by statute to apply the term vocational-technical to its approved program does not mean that it has met the requirements for approval for a vocational school. Additionally, the regulation distinguishes between "schools, programs, or programs of study." N.J.A.C. 1A:19-2.1(c). If an approved program was equivalent to an approved school, there would be no need for the regulation to distinguish between the two ideas. If the agency desired to equate CTE programs and vocational schools, it could have simply stated so. In sum, the petitioner may apply the term career and technical or vocational-technical to its approved CTE program; however, this does not mean that the approved CTE program is a vocational school.

CONCLUSION

For these reasons, I CONCLUDE that DVRHS is not exempt from paying for the tuition and transportation of its resident students who wish to attend HCVSD's BSA because DVRHS does not operate or maintain a vocational school. I further CONCLUDE that a CTE program approval is not equivalent to approval of a vocational school. And finally, I CONCLUDE that housing the approved vo-tech program at another school does not violate the statute or relieve the petitioner from paying tuition for such students.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED and the petitioner's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED, and the petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County and Board of Education of the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, Respondents.

Synopsis

Petitioner, Delaware Valley Regional High School District, sought an order relieving it of the obligation to pay for the tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend the respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District's (HCVSD) Biomedical Sciences Academy (Academy). Petitioner contended that its high school provides an equivalent biomedical sciences program which has been approved as a Career and Technical Education (CTE) program, and which has the same Classification of Instruction Code (CIP) as HCVSD's Academy, however is not an approved vocational school and has not applied for such status.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the two issues to be determined, 1) whether the approval for a CTE program is equivalent to being an approved vocational school, and if this relieves the petitioner from the obligation to pay for students to go to the respondent vocational school, and 2) whether the location of the vocational school at a regional high school disqualifies it from receiving students and tuition from the petitioning district; N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) requires school districts to pay tuition for student who are accepted into a county vocational school, and the statute makes no distinction regarding the location of the program; the location of the HCVSD's Academy on the campus of North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School is irrelevant because it is a separate, approved vocational school with its own school code; N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, which provides districts with discretion to pay the tuition for their students to attend another district that offers a course of study not offered by the home district, does not apply here because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) already creates the mandatory obligation to pay; further, petitioner is not exempt from N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because its approved CTE program in biological sciences is not the equivalent of a vocational school.

Upon review the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that petitioner is required to pay tuition costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Academy pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Finding petitioner's exceptions to be without merit, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

Final Decision

Board of Education of the Delaware Valley Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Hunterdon County Vocational School District, Hunterdon County and Board of Education of the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District, Hunterdon County,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Delaware Valley Regional High School District Board of Education (petitioner), and the reply thereto filed by the respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District Board of Education (HCVSD).[1]

Petitioner seeks an order declaring that it is not required to pay tuition or transportation costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Biomedical Sciences Academy

[1] Respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education also filed exceptions to point out that the Initial Decision failed to make conclusions with respect to its motion to dismiss but contends that in granting HCVSD's motion for summary decision, the ALJ intended to dismiss the petition as to both respondents. The Commissioner agrees.

(Academy). By way of background, HCVSD operates six vocational schools in Hunterdon County, including the Academy, which is located in a leased classroom on the campus of respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School District Board of Education (North Hunterdon-Voorhees). Students who attend the Academy take classes that are provided either directly by HCVSD, or pursuant to a contract between HCVSD and North Hunterdon-Voorhees. Petitioner operates a Career and Technical Education (CTE) program in biomedical sciences that has the same classification of instructional program (CIP) code as HCVSD's biomedical sciences CTE program, but has not been approved as a vocational school.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner is required to pay tuition and transportation costs for its students to attend HCVSD's Academy, even though the Academy is housed at another regional high school. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) requires districts to pay tuition for their students who are accepted into a county vocational school, and the statute makes no distinction regarding the location of the program. Despite petitioner's arguments, the ALJ found that the location of the Academy on the campus of North Hunterdon-Voorhees is irrelevant because it is a separate vocational school with its own school code and is approved by the Department. The ALJ also found that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 – which provides districts with the discretion to pay the tuition for their students to attend another district that offers a course of study not offered at the home district – does not apply to this matter because N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) already creates the mandatory obligation to pay. Moreover, petitioner is not exempt from N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because its approved CTE program in biomedical sciences - while considered a vocational-technical program - is not the equivalent of a vocational school.

In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ erred by concluding that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1 requires petitioner to pay tuition for its students to attend the Academy. Petitioner maintains that the plain language of the statute only requires tuition payment when a student attends a CTE program that is housed on the campus of "any of the schools of the county vocational school district," which does not include programs that are located at another high school. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4). Instead of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, petitioner argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 - which gives districts the discretion to pay tuition when students attend programs at another school - should apply. Petitioner further argues that the Academy can hardly be considered a "school," as it is just a four-course CTE program, and all other aspects of education are provided by North Hunterdon-Voorhees.

Petitioner also contends that the ALJ erred in finding that it does not operate a vocational school. Petitioner maintains that since it has an approved CTE program, it meets the definition of "vocational school" for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Further, the Department's regulations "strongly indicate" that approval of a CTE program is also approval to operate a vocational school. For example, N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) authorizes boards of education to apply the terms "career and technical" or "vocational-technical" to their schools or programs once they have been approved. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 12-13). Petitioner also relies on the unpublished Appellate Division decision in Board of Education of the Bergen Vocational and Technical School District v. Board of Education of the Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional School District, No. A-3572-04, 2006 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 355 (App. Div. Mar. 6, 2006), to support its argument that obtaining a CIP code is the functional equivalent of an approved vocational school. Accordingly, petitioner maintains that because it operates a vocational school, it should be exempt from the obligation to pay tuition under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a).

Finally, petitioner argues that HCVSD does not have the authority to operate a vocational school in another district's high school. Petitioner claims that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20, which sets forth the powers of a county vocational school board, does not permit a county vocational school to admit students beyond the capacity of its campus and send those students to a vocational program at an existing high school. Although N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20 permits vocational schools to lease school buildings, petitioner maintains that the statute does not contemplate leasing a classroom for a CTE program and contracting with an existing high school for the remainder of the classes. Accordingly, petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision and declare that petitioner is not required to pay tuition for students attending the Academy.

In reply, HCVSD contends that the Initial Decision should be affirmed in its entirety. HCVSD disagrees with petitioner's argument that the location of the Academy at North Hunterdon-Voorhees or the provision of non-CTE classes by that high school means that the Academy is not a vocational school. HCVSD emphasizes that the Academy is a separate and distinct school with its own school code that is run by HCVSD. HCVSD maintains that it was expressly permitted to open the Academy in a local school as it was created pursuant to a grant by the Commissioner, and - at that time - the Legislature encouraged vocational schools to establish programs in existing facilities. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-132 et seq. HCVSD further argues that the ALJ correctly concluded that the petitioner does not operate a vocational school. A CIP code for a CTE program is not the same as operating a vocational school, which requires separate approval by the Department. Accordingly, petitioner is obligated to pay for its students to attend the Academy, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a).

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner is required to pay tuition costs for its students to attend the HCVSD's Academy. N.J.S.A. 18:54-20.1(a) provides:

> The board of education of each school district or regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the school district or regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district pursuant to subsection c. of this section. The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a school district or regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.

As the Academy is one of the schools of the county vocational school district, the petitioner is obligated to send any of its students who are accepted into the program and pay for their tuition. Petitioner does not fall into the exception outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) because it does not operate a vocational school since it has never applied or been approved to do so. Operating a CTE program is not the same as operating a vocational school. Additionally, the location of the vocational school program in a regional high school does not violate the statute. Accordingly, there is no basis for petitioner to be discharged of its obligation to pay the tuition costs for its students to attend the Academy.

The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive as they substantially reiterate arguments that were already addressed by the ALJ. The plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, specifically the use of "any of the schools of the county vocational school district," does not support petitioner's interpretation that the tuition requirement only applies to vocational schools that are located on their own campus and not those that are housed on the campus of another high school. Instead, the plain language applies to any vocational school and does not differentiate between programs based on their location. Further, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, does not supersede petitioner's obligation to pay tuition for its students to attend vocational schools under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. Contrary to petitioner's arguments, the Department's regulations do not establish that the approval of a CTE program is the same as an approval to operate a vocational school.[2] Finally, the Commissioner disagrees with petitioner that HCVSD did not have the authority to create the Academy.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE SARAH G. CROWLEY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent, Hunterdon County Vocational School District ("HCVSD"), operates six schools in Hunterdon County, New Jersey. Respondent operates Career and Technical Education Programs ("CTE programs") at each of its six schools. Two of HCVSD's CTE schools are located at its campuses, Central Campus and Bartles Campus. Respondent operates three HCVSD Academies at other locations in Hunterdon County. These Academies are: The "Biomedical Sciences Academy" ("BSA"), the academy at issue, located at the North Hunterdon High School in a leased and remodeled classroom; The Environmental Sustainability & Engineering Academy located at Hunterdon County Educational Services Commission; and The Computer Science and Engineering Academy located at a leased space at both Delaware Valley Regional High School and Voorhees High School.

Each of respondent's Academies include non-CTE academic and other required courses provided pursuant to contract with a local high school or regional high school other than HCVSD. The BSA offers a four-year, full-time curriculum, and all CTE classes and all academic and other classes are provided either directly by HCVSD or pursuant to contract with the local comprehensive school district. In May 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") approved petitioner Delaware Valley Regional High School ("DVRHS") to operate a CTE program in biomedical sciences. DVRHS's newly approved biomedical sciences CTE program was assigned the CIP code of 260102. The BSA's CTE program CIP Code is identical to DVRHS's biomedical sciences CTE program CIP Code. However, DVRHS is not an approved vocational school, and has not applied for such status with the State Department of Education.

The petitioner filed an action seeking to be relieved of the obligation to pay for students at DVRHS's BSA program on the grounds that they provide an equivalent biomedical program which has received CTE approval. In addition, the petitioner argues that because the BSA program is housed at a different regional school, and not a vo-tech school, they are not obligated to pay tuition for their students under the statute.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. The respondent filed a motion for summary decision on October 15, 2019. Petitioner filed opposition to the motion and a cross-motion for summary decision on November 18, 2019. The respondent North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School filed a motion to dismiss this matter, as they have no relationship, contractual or otherwise with the petitioner, and merely house the program at issue in one of their regional high schools. Oral Argument was heard on January 13, 2020, and the record closed on that date.

FINDING OF FACT

1. Respondent, HCVSD, operates six vocational schools in Hunterdon County, New Jersey.

2. HCVSD operates Career and Technical Education Programs at each of its six schools.

3. Two of HCVSD's CTE schools are located at its campuses, Central Campus and Bartles Campus.

4. HCVSD operates three Academies at other locations in Hunterdon County.

5. The Biomedical Sciences Academy is located at the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School in a leased classroom.

6. The Environmental Sustainability & Engineering Academy is located at Hunterdon County Educational Services Commission.

7. The Computer Science and Engineering Academy is located at leased space at both Delaware Valley Regional High School and North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School.

8. Each of respondent's Academies include non-CTE academic and other required courses provided pursuant to contract with a local high school or regional high school other than HCVSD.

9. The BSA offers a four-year, full-time curriculum, and all CTE classes and all academic and other classes are provided either directly by HCVSD or pursuant to contract with the local comprehensive school district.

10. In May 2019, the New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE") approved petitioner Delaware Valley Regional High School ("DVRHS") to operate a CTE program in biomedical sciences.

11. DVRHS's newly approved biomedical sciences CTE program was assigned the CIP code of 260102.

12. The BSA's CTE program CIP Code is identical to DVRHS's biomedical sciences CTE program CIP Code.

13. DVRHS is not an approved vocational school and has not applied for such status with the State Department of Education.

LEGAL ARUGMENT AND CONCLUSION

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to R. 4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In this matter, there are no genuine issues of material fact. The respondent has a vocational program in Biomedical Sciences that it houses at a regional high school in its district. The petitioner has students attending this program and pays their tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-20.1(a). The petitioner recently received CTE approval for a program in Biomedical Science. However, the petitioner does not operate a vocational school and has not applied or received approval to run a vocational school.

There are two issues before me on this motion. The first is whether the approval for a CTE program by the petitioner school district is analogous to approval for a vocational school, thus relieving them of the obligation to pay for students to go to the respondent vocational school. The other issue is whether the location of the vocational program at a regional high school disqualifies them from receiving students and tuition from the petitioner.

1. Issue: Does the housing of a vocational program by HCVSD preclude them from collecting tuition for students attending the program?

The petitioner has argued that the fact that HCVSD houses its Biomedical Academy in a regional high school renders null DVRHS's obligation to pay tuition for its students attending the academy. Petitioner argues that the plain language of the statute does not compel regional high schools to pay the tuition for students who attend a vo-tech program that is held at another regional high school, and that N.J.S.A. 18A:54-

20.1(a) only mandates tuition payments to situations where the student attends the vo-tech school's campus. However, the language of the statute makes no such distinction, nor can such an interpretation be implied by the language, case law or statutory intent. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) states:

> The board of education of each . . . regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the . . . regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district.

The program at issue is run by the respondent vocational school, which has received approval by the state to run the program. There is nothing in the statute which would mandate where the program is to be held.

Petitioner has argued that the fact that the respondent's Biomedical Academy is hosted at another regional high school negates petitioner's obligation to pay the tuition of its resident students attending the Biomedical Academy. The plain language of the statute contradicts this understanding. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) states:

> The board of education of each . . . regional school district in any county in which there is a county vocational school district shall send to any of the schools of the county vocational school district each pupil who resides in the . . . regional school district and who has applied for admission to and has been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The board of education shall pay tuition for each of these pupils to the county vocational school district . . . The provisions of this section shall not apply to the board of education of a . . . regional school district maintaining a vocational school or schools pursuant to article 2 of chapter 54 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) (emphasis added).]

The statute states that the board of education of each regional school district shall send resident pupils to any of the schools of the county vocational school district for each resident pupil who has applied to and been accepted for attendance at any of the schools of the county vocational school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) (emphasis added). There are three important features of the language of this provision. First, it is important to note that the regional school district must send their students to any of the schools of the county vo-tech school district, as noted by the mandatory language "shall." This shows that regional school districts have no discretion to prevent their resident students from attending any of the schools of the county vocational school district. The regional school district must send their resident students to those schools. Next, the provision makes clear that the regional school district must send those students to "any" of the schools of the county vocational school district. There is no specification that the pupils must be restricted to attending only classes hosted at some main campus. There is no mention of a campus, main school, headquarters, or any narrowing language that would support petitioner's argument. Instead, the broad language "any" was used, implying that of the many schools within a county vocational school district, the regional schools must send their pupil to whichever of those schools to which their resident pupils were accepted for attendance. Finally, the provision includes the word "schools," plural, implying that it was contemplated that county vocational school districts may have multiple schools. Again, the word "schools" is not clarified or modified except by "of the county vocational school district."

The petitioner also argues that allowing county vo-tech schools to collect tuition for students taught in non-campus locations, such as a local regional high school, is contrary to legislative intent. Specifically, petitioner argued that reading the statute to allow tuition payments to county vo-tech schools for students attending vo-tech classes at other regional high schools would encourage a county vo-tech school "to scavenge for empty classroom space in nearby high schools to increase its tuition revenue." Petitioner pointed to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 for support to show that the Legislature intended local school districts to have to pay the tuition of students attending vo-tech courses hosted at another regional high school. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 provides that a local school board has discretion to pay the tuition of a resident student wishing to take a course of study at another high school if the home district does not offer the course of study. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15. Petitioner argued this provision's discretion should be carried over to a student attending another regional high school for the vo-tech courses hosted there if the home district does not offer the course of study. Also, petitioner goes as far as to say that DVRHS would not need to pay tuition under the N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 because it offers instruction in the same vo-tech course of study as the other regional high school. In sum, petitioner argued that the home district should have discretion to pay tuition for a resident student who takes vo-tech courses taught by a county vo-tech school at a different regional school district, and even applying that standard, petitioner would not have to pay the tuition because petitioner offers the same course at the home district. However, the statute in question is not discretionary and the analogy to the N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15, is not appropriate.

Petitioner's final argument is that HCVSD has no statutory authority to accept students beyond the capacity of its schools and send those students and an instructor to a high school operated by another school district. Petitioner relies upon N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20, which outlines the powers of vo-tech schools, for the lack of authority to set up the relationship present in this case. HCVSD responds that the Biomedical Science Academy is a properly approved vo-tech school and the fact that it is hosted on the North Hunterdon-Vorhees Regional High School campus is irrelevant. First, respondent HCVSD argued that its Biomedical Sciences Academy located at the North Hunterdon-Voorhees Regional High School ("disputed vo-tech school") is a separate and distinct vocational school operated by HCVSD. Moreover, the disputed vo-tech school was specifically approved by the DOE, has a separate school code, the classes are hosted by HCVSD, attending students receive their diploma from HCVSD, and those students are counted on roll with the HCVSD by the DOE. Accordingly, the disputed vo-tech school is duly authorized under the relevant statutes and regulations, and the location of the program at a local school does not vitiate the obligation to pay tuition.

2. Is the approval of a CTE program in Biosciences by the petitioner the equivalent of maintaining a vocation school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5?

DVRHS argues that it qualifies for the exemption under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a), since DVRHS operates its own program that is the same as the one operated by HCVSD. However, such an exemption is permitted only where there is an approved vocational school in the district. The DOE's approval of a career and technical education program ("CTE program") is not the equivalent to the DOE's approval of a school district operating a vocational school. The exemption from tuition payments is limited to regional school districts which maintain a vocational school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6 found in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). Having a CTE approved program is not the equivalent of operating a vocational school. Moreover, discretionary obligation under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 is not mirrored in the vocational statute, and the language in the vocational status is clear.

Petitioner argues that approval for a CTE program is equivalent to approval to operate a vocational school under N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6, relying upon N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) for support of this equivalence. N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c) provides:

> A district board of education shall not apply the term "career and technical" or "vocational-technical" to any of its schools, programs, or programs of study unless those schools, programs, or programs of study are approved by the Department and meet the general requirements included in the approved State Plan for Career and Technical Education.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c)]

Petitioner interprets this regulation to mean that a district board of education, if permitted to refer to its school as vocational-technical once it obtains program approval, should then be considered a vo-tech school pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a). However, before a vocational school can be established, "the location and rules for management of the school, the course or courses of study to be pursued therein, and all changes in such courses shall be approved by the commissioner, subject to the advice and consent of the state board. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6. No such approval was obtained by the petitioner Board of Education and they are not recognized or approved as a vocational school.

The petitioner's CTE program is not a vocational school for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1(a) and the two programs are not "the same" per that statute. The statute requires that a local school district is only exempt from making tuition payments for its students attending a county vo-tech school if the local district is operating its own vo-tech school established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-5 and -6. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6 requires that the location and rules for the management of vo-tech school, the course or courses of study, and all changes in such courses shall be approved by the Commissioner of Education, subject to the advice and consent of the state board, before the local district can establish a vo-tech school. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-6; petitioner never sought or attained approval from the Commissioner of Education to operate a vo-tech school. Moreover, the establishment of a CTE program within a regional high school does not equate to the establishment of a vocational school. See Bd. of Educ. of Bergen County Vocational and Tech. Sch. Distr. v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional High Sch., EDU 7891-03, Final Decision (October 13, 2004). And, although there seems to be some movement by the NJDOE away from designated vo-tech schools to in-district CTE programs, there has been no change in the law regarding the establishment of same.

The language of the statue provides that a regional high school that may apply the term "career and technical" or "vocational technical" to any of its schools, programs, or programs of study only if the school, program, or program of study is approved by the Department and meet the general requirements included in the approved State Plan for Career and Technical Education. N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.1(c). Petitioner does not have an approved "school." Petitioner only offers an approved "program." Just because petitioner is permitted by statute to apply the term vocational-technical to its approved program does not mean that it has met the requirements for approval for a vocational school. Additionally, the regulation distinguishes between "schools, programs, or programs of study." N.J.A.C. 1A:19-2.1(c). If an approved program was equivalent to an approved school, there would be no need for the regulation to distinguish between the two ideas. If the agency desired to equate CTE programs and vocational schools, it could have simply stated so. In sum, the petitioner may apply the term career and technical or vocational-technical to its approved CTE program; however, this does not mean that the approved CTE program is a vocational school.

CONCLUSION

For these reasons, I CONCLUDE that DVRHS is not exempt from paying for the tuition and transportation of its resident students who wish to attend HCVSD's BSA because DVRHS does not operate or maintain a vocational school. I further CONCLUDE that a CTE program approval is not equivalent to approval of a vocational school. And finally, I CONCLUDE that housing the approved vo-tech program at another school does not violate the statute or relieve the petitioner from paying tuition for such students.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED and the petitioner's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED, and the petition is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." New Jersey Commissioner of Education

J.B., on behalf of minor children,
T.G. and C.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County, and Board of Education of the Borough of Milltown, Middlesex County, Respondents.

Synopsis

Pro se petitioner challenged the determination of the respondent Board of Education of the Borough of Milltown that his children – who became homeless after they were evicted in May 2018 from their Milltown home – were no longer eligible for a free public education in Milltown because they had moved in with extended family in Edison and must therefore attend school in the Edison School District. Petitioner also challenged Edison's determination that such action was in the best interest of the children. Both respondents filed motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this matter, and summary decision is appropriate to resolve the issues of 1) whether the undisputed facts support the conclusion that T.G. and C.G. are not homeless, but reside in a fixed, regular and adequate home in Edison, and 2) who is obligated to pay the tuition and transportation costs for the children for the 2019-2020 school year; petitioner did not meet his burden to prove that T.G. and C.G. are entitled to be educated in Milltown; although the family was homeless when they were first evicted from their home in Milltown, by the 2019-2020 school year their residence in Edison had become sufficiently fixed, regular, and adequate to deem them domiciled in Edison and no longer homeless; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), the children became the financial responsibility of Edison once they had resided there for one year; Edison, however, failed to notify petitioner that the district had determined the children were no longer homeless and continued to treat the family as if they were homeless. The ALJ ordered Edison to reimburse Milltown for the cost of the children's tuition and transportation in the total amount of $80,515.60, and further ordered that, in the best interests of T.G. and C.G., they will remain in their Milltown schools for the remainder of the 2019-2020 school year.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the family was not homeless and were residents of Edison during the 2019-2020 school year. In so determining, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that while Edison is the district where the children were domiciled during the current school year and is therefore the district responsible for their education, Edison is not responsible for paying any excess cost of sending the children to another district. Accordingly, Edison must pay Milltown the cost of educating the children in that district but is also entitled to seek reimbursement from petitioner for any costs in excess of what Edison would have incurred to educate the children in their own schools. The Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision with this modification.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

New Jersey Commissioner of Education

Final Decision

J.G., on behalf of minor children, T.G. and C.G.,

Petitioner,

v.

Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County, and Board of Education of the Borough of Milltown, Middlesex County,

Respondents.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by respondent Edison Board of Education (Edison) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and the reply thereto filed by respondent Milltown Board of Education (Milltown).

The issues in this matter are whether petitioner's children are eligible to attend school in Milltown, and which party is responsible for the cost of their education. Petitioner and his family resided in Milltown for approximately seven years before being evicted in May 2018, at which time they moved in with petitioner's mother in Edison. The children continued to attend school in Milltown.[1] In June 2019, Milltown sent petitioner a disenrollment notice

[1] In addition to T.G. and C.G., petitioner has a third child. At the time of the eviction, the third child was too young to attend school. She now attends preschool in Edison based on an IEP developed by Edison. Her eligibility to attend school in Edison and Edison's financial responsibility for her education are not at issue in this case.

because petitioner could not provide proof of the children's residence in Milltown. In July 2019, Edison's Homeless Liaison sent petitioner a letter, stating that Edison – in mutual agreement with Milltown – had determined that Edison was responsible for the children's education and that it would be in their best interests to attend school in Edison. Petitioner appealed, and the children continued to attend school in Milltown for the 2019-2020 school year, during the pendency of this appeal. Milltown sought reimbursement from Edison for the costs of tuition and transportation for the 2019-2020 school year.[2]

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner did not meet his burden of proof to show that the children should be educated in Milltown. The ALJ found that the children were homeless when the family was initially evicted from their home in Milltown, but their residence in Edison had become sufficiently fixed, regular, and adequate by the 2019-2020 school year, such that they were no longer homeless and were instead residents of Edison. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that the children became the financial responsibility of Edison once they had resided there for one year, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). The ALJ further found that Edison failed to notify petitioner that the district had determined that the children were no longer homeless; in fact, Edison continued to treat the children as if they were homeless by engaging in a "best interests" analysis regarding the children's enrollment and by providing information to petitioner about appeal rights in homelessness matters. Therefore, the ALJ ordered Edison to reimburse Milltown for the costs of the children's tuition and transportation. The ALJ also ordered that, in the best interests of the children, they remain in their Milltown schools for the rest of the 2019-20 school year.

[2] Milltown has not made any claim for reimbursement for costs incurred during the 2017-2018 and 2018-2019 school years.

In its exceptions, Edison argues that the ALJ improperly found that it continued to treat the children as if they were homeless, pointing to the petition of appeal, in which petitioner references at least four occasions on which he was told by Edison employees that he was considered a resident of Edison. Edison contends that because the ALJ found that the children were not homeless at the beginning of the 2019-20 school year, Edison is not responsible for the cost of the children's attendance in another district. According to Edison, its only obligation was to provide a free and public education to the children once they became residents in the district, and it fulfilled that obligation by offering to enroll them in Edison schools.

In reply, Milltown argues that Edison is the district financially responsible for the students, and thus Edison should be required to reimburse Milltown for the cost of tuition and transportation. Milltown contends that petitioner should not be responsible for the costs because Edison did not provide any notice to petitioner that he could bear that responsibility.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusions that the children were not homeless and were residents of Edison during the 2019-2020 school year. Under the McKinney-Vento Act, homeless children are defined as "individuals who lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence," which includes "children sharing housing with other persons due to loss of their own housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason." 42 U.S.C.A. § 11434a. Similarly, under state law, homeless children are defined as "child[ren] or youth who lack[] a fixed, regular and adequate residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2," which includes children living in the "residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2 (emphasis added).

The Commissioner has previously addressed the fact-specific nature of a homelessness inquiry. In M. O'K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Cresskill, et al, Commissioner Decision No. 325-14 (August 12, 2014), aff'd, A-0828-14T4 (App. Div. Sept. 8, 2016), following the foreclosure of their home in Cresskill, the O'K family occupied the bottom floor of their relatives' house in Little Ferry, which consisted of one small bedroom and a common area, without a bathroom or kitchen. The parents and two of the children shared the bedroom, while their third child slept in the common area. At the time of the litigation, neither parent was employed, and the family's sole income consisted of Social Security Disability benefits. During the pendency of the litigation, the O'K family represented that they were actively searching for a house in Cresskill. The Commissioner found, and the Appellate Division affirmed, that the O'K family became homeless due to the foreclosure of their home in Cresskill, and although they had been deemed domiciled in Little Ferry as a result of their residence in the district for over one year, they continued to remain homeless due to their shared living conditions and the parents' economic hardship.

In contrast, in State-Operated School District of the City of Camden, Camden County v. Ann C. Volk, Executive County Superintendent, New Jersey Department of Education, and E.H., on behalf of minor child, K.M. (Commissioner Decision No. 172-17R, June 20, 2017), the family relocated from Voorhees to Camden due to economic hardship that prevented them from continuing their lease. In the Camden residence, the family was able to use the entire residence and was not relegated to a portion of the home that would otherwise be considered inadequate. E.H., the children's mother, argued that the residence was inadequate because the siblings had to share a room, which the Commissioner found was not uncommon. Furthermore, given E.H.'s ongoing employment at an annual salary of $65,000, the Commissioner was not persuaded that she was unable to find suitable housing in Voorhees, particularly in light of her testimony that she had stopped looking for apartments. The Commissioner found that the family was not residing in the Camden residence of out necessity and that it qualified as a "fixed, regular, and adequate" nighttime residence, such that the family was not homeless. Ibid.

Homelessness, particularly in cases like the present matter, is best viewed in a continuum. Ibid. For instance, a family may move into a relative's home out of necessity and hardship, but over time, that home may become a regular residence. Petitioner may consider the Edison residence temporary, and his intention may be to eventually move back to Milltown in the future. However, while intention is a factor to be considered in determining homelessness, the totality of the facts and circumstances in this case, as thoroughly detailed in the Initial Decision, demonstrate that the family is no longer homeless.

Petitioner and his wife are both employed, and have been since before they moved to Edison, with an income of $71,000 per year. In their current residence with petitioner's mother, they do not pay rent or contribute to housing costs other than food, and the only monthly bill petitioner testified about was for a storage facility. Accordingly, their situation is not typical of the financial hardships usually associated with homelessness. They enjoy the use of the entire home, including three of the four bedrooms,[3] kitchen, bathrooms, all common areas, and utilities. Petitioner argues that the family wishes to move back to Milltown but has been unable to find affordable housing. However, the ALJ found that there was no documentation of petitioner's search and, in fact, petitioner admitted that he had not submitted a rental application in at least six months. Moreover, petitioner and his wife changed the addresses on their drivers' licenses to the Edison residence and took advantage of the benefits of that address when they enrolled their youngest child in preschool in Edison in accordance with an Individualized Education Program developed by Edison's special education department. Based on these facts, the Commissioner is not persuaded that the family was homeless for the 2019-2020 school year.

[3] The family's previous residence in Milltown also had three bedrooms.

As petitioner's children were neither homeless nor residents of Milltown, they were not entitled to a free public education in Milltown's schools for the 2019-2020 school year. However, as the children did attend Milltown schools, the Commissioner must determine who bears the financial responsibility for their attendance. Milltown is clearly not the responsible party, as its obligation to provide the children with a free public education ceased when the family became domiciled in Edison in May 2019, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. Between Edison and petitioner, each argues that the other is the responsible party. Edison agrees that it became responsible for the children's education for the 2019-2020 school year. However, Edison contends that, having offered the children enrollment in its schools, its obligation to provide them with a free public education was fulfilled. But Edison does not address the fact that, if the children had been enrolled in Edison's schools – as the district itself determined to be in their best interests and repeatedly encouraged petitioner to do – Edison would have incurred a cost for their education. On the other hand, the purpose of the McKinney-Vento Act and the related state law is to ensure that a homeless child is not denied a free public education; it is not meant to enable a child to receive an education in a school district of preference by circumventing residency requirements. Camden, supra. In Camden, once the Commissioner determined that children were not homeless, but rather resided in Camden, Camden was held responsible for paying tuition to Voorhees, where the children attended school. However, Camden was permitted to recover from the parent the difference between the per pupil cost of education and transportation in Camden and the costs paid to Voorhees for the children. Ibid. This case presents a similar scenario. Edison is the district where the children were domiciled for the 2019-20 school year and is therefore the district responsible for their education. However, Edison is not responsible for paying any excess cost of sending the children to another district. Therefore, while Edison must reimburse Milltown for the cost of educating the children in Milltown, it is also entitled to seek reimbursement from petitioner for any costs that exceed the cost Edison would have incurred to educate the children in its own schools.[4]

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that it is in the children's best interests to remain in Milltown's schools for the rest of the 2019-20 school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as modified herein. Edison is directed to reimburse Milltown in the amount of $80,515.60 for tuition and transportation costs incurred during the period in which T.G. and C.G. were ineligible to attend school in Milltown. Edison may seek reimbursement from petitioner as outlined herein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

[4] This amount shall be calculated as the total of: 1) the cost of the children's transportation to Milltown (deducting any cost of transportation Edison may have incurred had the children attended school in Edison); and 2) the difference between the cost of the children's tuition in Milltown for the 2019-2020 school year and Edison's per pupil cost for the 2019-2020 school year. Should Edison's cost of tuition be higher than Milltown's, the difference shall be credited towards the cost of transportation from Edison to Milltown).

Record Closed: February 13, 2020 Decided: March 17, 2020

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner J.G., on behalf of minor children, T.G. and C.G., challenges: (1) the decision of respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Milltown, Middlesex County (Milltown), that his children, who became homeless while living in the Borough of Milltown school district (Milltown District), are no longer domiciled in Milltown District and, therefore, must be transferred to the Township of Edison school district (Edison District), where they are now living; and (2) the decision of respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County (Edison), that the best interests of T.G. and C.G. are served by attending the Edison District schools. Respondent Milltown filed a cross-petition by way of answer seeking a finding that respondent Edison is responsible to provide a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) to minor children T.G. and C.G. and/or must reimburse Milltown for all tuition and transportation costs.

Respondent/cross-petitioner Milltown now seeks summary decision (1) dismissing petitioner J.G.'s claim that his children are entitled to re-enroll in the Milltown District schools for the 2019-2020 school year in accordance with the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 11431 to 11435 (McKinney-Vento Act), and the New Jersey regulations governing the education of homeless children, N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.1 to 2.8; and (2) granting the claim of Milltown against respondent Edison for the costs of education and transportation for T.G. and C.G. for the 2019-2020 school year.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 21, 2019, petitioner filed with the Office of Controversies and Disputes of the New Jersey Department of Education (Department) a pro se petition of appeal and a request to re-enroll his minor children T.G. and C.G. in the Milltown District schools on an emergent basis. On August 26, 2019, the emergent matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and scheduled for oral argument, which was held on August 30, 2019. During oral argument, petitioner introduced an email dated August 28, 2019, from Kyle M. Anderson (Anderson), Interim Executive County Superintendent for Middlesex County, stating that he had advised Milltown to re-enroll T.G. and C.G in the Milltown District schools. Given that Anderson had already provided J.G. the relief he was seeking on an emergent basis, J.G. withdrew his emergent petition.

On October 17, 2019, a telephone prehearing conference was held to schedule further proceedings, including the hearing on February 5, 2020. A prehearing order was issued on October 24, 2019. Both respondents failed to appear for a telephone prehearing conference scheduled for December 3, 2019; a preemptory prehearing conference was held on December 16, 2019, during which the parties were directed to submit dispositive motions, if any, on or before January 6, 2020.

On January 6, 2020, respondent/cross-petitioner Milltown filed a motion for summary decision. By letter dated January 6, 2020, I notified the parties of the schedule for response briefs and that the hearing scheduled for February 5, 2020, was adjourned and rescheduled to allow time to address this motion. With Milltown's consent, I agreed to the joint request of petitioner and respondent Edison for a one-week extension for response briefs. Petitioner and respondent Edison submitted response briefs on February 3, 2020; respondent/cross-petitioner Milltown replied on February 13, 2020, and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Most of the salient facts in this case are not in dispute. Between May 2011, and May 4, 2018, J.G. and his wife, A.G., and their three children (the G. family) lived in rental housing within the Milltown District. J.G. and/or A.G. have never owned a residence in Milltown. At the beginning of the 2017-2018 school year, two of the children were in school in Milltown, T.G. in seventh grade and C.G. in second grade. The third child, also J.G. (J.G., Jr.), had yet to begin school.

Since September 2015, J.G. has been continuously employed as a teacher at a school in East Brunswick, New Jersey.[1] He currently is also employed as head softball coach by Edison, and as a summer camp counselor at a school in Morristown, New Jersey. Since September 2013, A.G. has been continuously employed as a teacher at a school in New Brunswick, New Jersey.

On May 4, 2018, the G. family was evicted from the three-bedroom house they were renting in Milltown. (The family had previously been evicted from another rental unit in Milltown.) They moved in with J.G.'s mother (J.G., Sr.) in Edison and have resided there since. J.G., Sr. owns a four bedroom, one and one-half bathroom house. The G. family occupies three of the four bedrooms and has unrestricted access to the entire house, including the bathrooms, kitchen, and common areas.[2] J.G., Sr,. and J.G. purchased a bed for C.G. to use in what had been J.G., Sr.'s office. J.G. does not pay rent to J.G., Sr. nor does he contribute to any of the household expenses other than food. The only monthly bill he described is for a storage facility.

Based on J.G.'s response to interrogatories, Milltown contends that J.G. has not made efforts to secure alternative housing, having not submitted an application for rental housing for at least six months. Br. of Resp't Milltown in Support of Motion for Summary Decision (January 3, 2020), at 11, citing Ex. 2. J.G. responds that he has been unable to find a residence in Milltown with at least three bedrooms in his price range and he is inhibited in his search by his financial record. Response Br. of Pet'r, at 3-4. He also stated that the family has now "turned our attention to Spotswood," where they are searching for rentals "door to door." Id. at 3, 4.

Both J.G. and A.G. changed their New Jersey drivers' licenses to show their address in Edison. Between July 1 and August 9, 2019, minor child C.G. attended the Edison Township Recreation Department summer program. On July 24, 2019, J.G. and A.G.

[1] In his response to interrogatories, J.G. refused to provide any information regarding the income earned by J.G. and/or A.G. Br. of Resp't Milltown in Support of Motion for Summary Decision (January 3, 2020), Ex. 2. In his response brief, however, J.G. stated that the G. family income for 2019 was approximately $71,000. Ltr. Br. of Pet'r in Opposition to Motion for Summary Decision (February 3, 2020), at 2. J.G. did not, however, provide documentary proof of the family's income or expenses.

[2] In his brief, J.G. describes conditions in his mother's home that are not "adequate," such as that C.G.'s bedroom is also used as an office and he and A.G. must continuously pick up after their youngest child. Response Br. of Pet'r, at 3, 4.

enrolled their youngest child in preschool in Edison. Br. of Resp't Milltown, Ex. 4. J.G., Jr. has an Individualized Education Program (IEP) that was developed for her by the Edison District special education department. See, Response Br. of Pet'r, at 6. The G. family sought the special education services of Edison and raised no challenge to the IEP which places J.G., Jr. in the Edison District schools.[3]

T.G. and C.G. attended school in the Milltown District during the 2018-2019 school year. In February 2019, in preparation for enrollment in Spotswood High School, Spotswood Borough Public School District (SHS),[4] Middlesex County, for the 2019-2020 school year, T.G. met with her guidance counselor to select classes. The G. family intended that in the 2019-2020 school year, T.G. would attend SHS and C.G. would attend Joyce Kilmer Elementary School (JK Elementary) in Milltown.

On March 7, 2019, Milltown District asked petitioner for proof of residency. Given that the G. family was living with J.G., Sr. in Edison, J.G. could not provide proof of residency in Milltown. On June 24, 2019, Milltown District sent a Disenrollment Notice to J.G. and A.G. stating that because they had not provided proof of residency in Milltown District, T.G. and C.G. were no longer enrolled in the Milltown District schools, but could be re-enrolled with proof of residency. A description of the documents required to prove residency in Milltown District was included in this notice. Br. of Resp't Milltown, Ex. 5.

By letter dated July 31, 2019, Richard Benedict (Benedict), Edison Manager of Enrollment and Data Systems and Homeless Liaison, notified J.G. and A.G. that Edison in "mutual agreement with Milltown, [had] determined that [T.G. and C.G. were] the educational responsibility of Edison" and it would be in the best interests of the G. children to attend the Edison schools. Ibid. The factors considered by the two districts included that neither T.G. nor C.G. had previously attended the school in which their parents requested they be enrolled; transportation from Edison to both SHS and JK Elementary would require the G. children to be

[3] J.G. appears to argue that J.G., Jr.'s enrollment in Edison should be disregarded as she did not "have a school of origin" at the time of the eviction and Milltown does not have a program such as that which J.G., Jr. is attending in Edison. Id. at 6.

[4] SHS is the receiving school for high school students from Milltown. The Milltown District serves only grades K-8.

on buses close to one hour each day; the G. family had resided in Edison for over one year and stability would be found in enrolling the children in the same district in which they are living; and the parents had already enrolled their youngest child in the Edison District, meaning that they were requesting that each of their children be enrolled in a different school district, each with different schedules, calendars, and policies.

In his due process petition, J.G. stated that he began the process of appealing Benedict's decision with telephone calls to Interim Executive County Superintendent Anderson. Pro Se Petition of Appeal (August 21, 2019), ¶ 23. J.G. spoke with Anderson by telephone on August 20, 2019, and Anderson stated that he agreed with Edison's decision but that Milltown should not have disenrolled T.G. and C.G. Id., ¶ 28. As described in the procedural history, above, by emails dated August 28 and 30, 2019, Anderson directed Milltown to permit J.G. to register his children in Milltown District schools, stating that failure to do so would be a violation of the McKinney-Vento Act. Br. of Pet'r, Exs. A and B.

T.G. and C.G. attended the Milltown District schools during the 2017-2018 school year and the 2018-2019 school year. Milltown makes no demand for tuition and/or transportation costs for the 2017-2018 school year or for the 2018-2019 school year.

Minor child T.G. has attended SHS at cost to Milltown since the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year. The per pupil cost for her tuition is $14,940.00/school year or $83.00/day. The cost of transportation for T.G. is $145.60/day. Minor child C.G. has attended JK Elementary at cost to Milltown since the beginning of the 2019-2020 school year. The per pupil cost for his tuition is $11,662.00/school year or $64.79/day. The cost of transportation for C.G. is $153.92/day.

The preceding is not in dispute; accordingly, I FIND the preceding as FACTS.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

In its motion for summary decision, respondent/cross-petitioner Milltown first takes the position that the G. family is not homeless under federal and state law and is domiciled in Edison, where the family has resided for over one year. Second, even if the G. family was deemed homeless during the 2019-2020 school year, the best interests of the children are served by having them attend school in Edison, not Milltown (and Spotswood). Finally, regardless of the family's status, it is Edison, not Milltown, which is financially responsible for the education of the G. children pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). Accordingly, Edison must reimburse Milltown for tuition and transportation costs for T.G. and C.G. as of and following May 4, 2019.

Respondent Edison joins respondent/cross-petitioner Milltown in arguing that petitioner's children are not homeless and were not homeless for the entirety of the 2019-2020 school year. Edison, however, takes the position that it is petitioner who must reimburse Milltown for all tuition and transportation costs incurred by Milltown with respect to T.G. and C.G. for the 2019-2020 school year. Edison disclaims any responsibility for the tuition and transportation costs incurred by Milltown with respect to T.G. and C.G. as of and after May 4, 2019.

Petitioner does not dispute the above-described facts, but does draw different conclusions with respect to his family's situation, both with respect to their current housing and their financial position.[5] He then appears to make the following argument in support of his opposition to Milltown's motion for summary decision. First, his family has not moved since Milltown initially confirmed that they were homeless, in May 2018. Therefore, the G. family is still protected by the McKinney Vento Act, which provides for children who have become homeless to remain in the school district in which they were enrolled at the time of homelessness. However, J.G. now agrees that as of May 2019, his family became domiciled in Edison and financial responsibility for the education of his children shifted to Edison. In fact,

[5] For example, J.G. admits that he and his wife are employed, but he adds that they are at-will employees on annual contracts and that their financial means is inadequate to find alternate housing. While Milltown describes J.G.'s failure to look for housing for at least the past six months, J.G. states that he has "made every effort" to search the rental market but admits that he cannot document these efforts. Finally, while Milltown describes the family's current housing as "fixed and adequate," J.G. describes it as uncomfortable, inadequate, and subject to the pending decision of J.G.'s mother to move.

J.G. contends that for this reason, Edison "engaged Milltown to 'agree' that it was in the best interests of [T.G. and C.G.] to be enrolled in Edison." Response Br. of Pet'r, at 5. Because the family is still "homeless," petitioner contends that it remains in the best interests of his children for Edison to finance their continued enrollment in the Milltown schools.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

It is well-established that if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill guides us thusly:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.
> [Id. at 540.]

In explaining the standard to be applied in summary motion practice, the Brill Court explained:

> The same standard applies to determine whether a prima facie case has been established by the party bearing the burden of proof in a trial. . . . If a case involves no material factual disputes, the court disposes of it as a matter of law by rendering judgment in favor of the moving or non-moving party.
> [Id. at 536-3.7.]

What began in August 2019 as a dispute over the eligibility of T.G. and C.G. to attend the Milltown schools is now also a dispute over whether Edison is obligated to keep the children in the Milltown schools. Either way, the burden of proof rests with petitioner to show that his children should be educated in Milltown, where the family lived in May 2018, as opposed to in
