Subsequently, on August 27, 2016, Donohue filed an Amended Complaint (i.e., Amended Petition) with the Office of Administrative Law alleging various forms of mismanagement at Paterson Public School Number 25 and seeking relief on behalf of students and the general public, and alleging wrongs perpetrated against her.

The Amended Petition of August 27, 2016, follows the format of the four previously filed Petitions and even reiterates the allegations according to the dates of her previously filed Petitions, as set forth above. The first Petition's ten allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon third parties. The second Petition's two allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue. In the third Petition, twenty-four allegations, numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, all pertain to wrongs allegedly visited upon third parties; three allegations, numbers 8, 15, and 24, pertain to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue. The fourth Petition's two allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue.

In short, Donohue makes the following seven allegations on her own behalf: the two allegations from her second Petition; allegation numbers 8, 15, and 24 from her third Petition; and the two allegations from her fourth Petition. She seeks relief for these wrongs.

The Amended Petition reiterates all of the allegations contained in the four previously filed Petitions. Donohue sets forth allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District and she sets forth requests for relief as follows: (1) an explanation for the denial of her request for non-accumulated sick days in December 2014, an apology for alleged untruthful statements made about her in connection with said request, and the purging from her personnel file of any statements that might malign her character; (2) cash compensation for time spent defending herself from false statements in connection with the denial of her request for non-accumulated sick days and for attending "Back To School Nights" and "Report Card Distribution Nights," and for time spent on "all of the work I had to complete on a daily, weekly basis, after hours, on weekends, and early in the morning"; (3) an explanation for why her name appears on assessment data, evaluation-type documents, Infinite Campus, and other documents for a time period while she was on medical leave; (4) an explanation for why she was not granted an interview when she applied for an ELA on-site supervisor position; (5) an explanation for why her e-mail to Carole Smelter went unanswered; (6) cash compensation for her personal instructional materials in her classroom which were allegedly destroyed or thrown out over the course of the summer of 2013, and to be informed of the results of an investigation into this incident by Luis Rojos, the director of the Labor Relations Office of the Paterson public schools; and (7) an explanation for why she was denied the use of a microphone at a "You Are Special To Me Tea" event in the 2013–2014 school year, as well as an apology.

The matter (Agency Reference Number 123-4/16) was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 13, 2016, and filed on June 14, 2016, as a contested case. Another matter (Agency Reference Number 150-5/16) was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 27, 2016, and filed on June 27, 2016, as a contested case. On June 13, 2016, Robert E. Murray, Esq., filed the respondent's Answer to the first, third and fourth Petitions, and on July 22, 2016, he filed the respondent's Answer to the second Petition. The tribunal held an initial conference by telephone on July 13, 2016. The tribunal issued its Pre-Hearing Order on July 15, 2016, and an Amended Pre-Hearing Order on July 27, 2016. The cases were consolidated by the Order of Consolidation dated July 18, 2016.

At present, this case is before the tribunal for the disposition of three motions:

The first motion is a "Motion to Request Additional Documents" was filed by the petitioner on October 20, 2016.

The second motion is a "Motion to Dismiss" was filed by the respondent on October 20, 2016; and

The third motion is a "Discovery Motion" was filed by the petitioner on November 3, 2016.

While the tribunal was reviewing the motions, it came to its attention that, in regard to the service of the petitioner's August 27, 2016, Amended Complaint (i.e., the Amended Petition) petitioner apparently did not receive the green return receipt card back from the U.S. Postal Service, which would indicate whether or not the respondent has actually received a copy of the Amended Petition. After checking its file and finding no filed Answer to the Amended Petition, the tribunal sent an e-mail to both the petitioner and the respondent on February 27, 2017. In this e-mailed letter the tribunal brought the issue of the service of the Amended Petition to their attention, seeking to find out—one way or the other—if respondent received the Amended Petition. On March 3, 2017, the tribunal received respondent's faxed correspondence and its Answer to the Amended Petition. The tribunal has accepted the Answer to Amended Petition nunc pro tunc, since there are no substantive differences between the allegations contained in the original four petitions and the Amended Petition.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are not in dispute:

1. Donohue served as a teacher in the Paterson School District for approximately twenty-eight years until she retired on September 1, 2015.

2. The events described by Donohue in her Petitions occurred during the period of time encompassed by her dates of her employment.

3. Donohue's Petitions were filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on April 19, 2016 (ten allegations); April 29, 2016 (one allegation); May 23, 2016 (twenty-four allegations); and May 23, 2016 (two allegations).

4. Donohue's Amended Complaint (i.e., Amended Petition) was filed on August 27, 2016.

5. Donohue's Motion to Request Additional Documents, filed on October 20, 2016, asks the Tribunal "to issue an Order requiring Respondent to submit any and all additional documents that the Petitioner requests that are necessary to support the validity of the accusations/violations of regulations."

6. Respondent's (the District's) Motion to Dismiss, filed on November 3, 2016, argues that Donohue lacks standing to bring the Petitions she has filed and also argues that she filed all of same out-of-time.

7. Donohue's "Discovery Motion", filed November 3, 2016, complains that the Respondent did not make "a good faith effort to provide ethical, truthful, complete and certified answers" and impliedly asks the Tribunal to compel same.

8. Although Donohue provided this Tribunal with copies of the Interrogatory Questions that she served on the Respondent, Donohue did not provide this Tribunal with copies of the respondent's answers to the Interrogatories.

9. Various opposition papers and correspondences from the parties were received and reviewed by the Tribunal, including a letter from the Petitioner received December 8, 2016. In this letter, Petitioner enclosed a newspaper article from the (Bergen) Record dated December 3, 2016, entitled "Paterson Schools Fill Lucrative Staff Positions," which petitioner cited in support of her position in the controversy at bar.

ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

The first issue to be decided is whether petitioner Donohue has the requisite standing to bring an action against the District.

The second issue to be decided is whether Donohue filed her petitions in accordance with the time limitations set forth in the regulations.

APPLICABLE LAW

In New Jersey, the Appellate Division, in the case of LDM v. Princeton Regional Health Commission, 336 N.J. Super. 277 (App. Div. 2000), stated:

> Standing is a threshold determination which governs the ability of a party to initiate and maintain a suit before the court. In re Adoption of Baby T., 160 N.J. 332 (1999). Generally, in New Jersey, "[e]ntitlement to sue requires a sufficient stake and real adverseness with respect to the subject matter of the litigation." New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, 82 N.J. 57, 67 (1980) (quoting Crescent Park Tenants Association v. Realty Equities Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971)). Additionally, [a] substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision is needed for purposes of standing. Ibid. (quoting Home Builders League of S. Jersey v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 134-35 (1979))."

The Chancery Division ruled that litigants, generally, have no standing to assert the rights of third parties. Bank of New York v. Raftogianis, 418 N.J. Super. 323, 451-52 (Ch. Div. 2010).

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1(a) states:

> This chapter sets forth the rules of procedure established by the Department of Education for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) states:

> To initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner shall prepare a petition of appeal conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4 [including a statement of the specific allegations and essential facts as well as the section or sections of the school laws under which the controversy has arisen] and serve such petition upon each respondent, together with any supporting papers the petitioner may include with the petition. The petitioner then shall file proof of service on each respondent . . . and the original petition and supporting materials, if any, with the Commissioner . . . .

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) sets forth a ninety-day time limit for the filing of petitions, as follows:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

Case law in New Jersey supports a strict adherence to the ninety-day time limit. In Riley v. Hunterdon Central High Board of Education, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980), the petitioner was notified by letter of the nonrenewal of her contract on April 13, 1976. Rather than filing a petition with the Commissioner of Education, she opted to pursue her grievance through an arbitration process. After receiving an unsatisfactory result from arbitration, she decided to pursue an appeal to the Commissioner by filing a petition on June 20, 1977. Her filing was more than a year after she received the notice of nonrenewal. The Commissioner dismissed the petition as untimely. The Appellate Division upheld the Commissioner's dismissal of the petition as untimely.

In Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), the Supreme Court affirmed the Appellate Division holding that the Commissioner of Education had authority from the Legislature to adopt regulations establishing a ninety-day limitation for school personnel to file disputes under school laws; that administrative regulations were presumptively valid; that a ninety-day limitation afforded an aggrieved school employee a meaningful opportunity to file his/her petition; that ninety days was a reasonable procedural requirement; and, that anyone challenging such a regulation bears the burden of proving its invalidity. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 580-83. The Supreme Court also stated that the reason for a limitation period is twofold: "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend," and "to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose." Id. at 587.

It is therefore settled that when an employee has a grievance with his or her employer arising out of the school laws of New Jersey, his/her petition must be filed within ninety days from the date of the employer's allegedly wrongful act or from the date of the notice of the employer's adverse action.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The threshold question is whether Donohue has standing to bring the allegations contained in her petitions.

In all of her petitions, Donohue alleges that there is ongoing nepotism and favoritism whereby certain employees are not required by their superiors to perform the duties associated with their positions, particularly the instruction of schoolchildren.

Moreover, Donohue alleges that the school's administrative staff fails to perform its duties in regard to properly supervising and evaluating the performance of teachers and other school personnel. Donohue alleges that the school district's financial resources have been wasted because unqualified people have been hired, and that undeserving people have been given promotions. Throughout her petitions Donohue has stated that her complaints are primarily motivated by her belief that the schoolchildren have not received the thorough and efficient education they deserve because of the school administration's squandering of resources and failure to adequately supervise the performance of those responsible to instruct the children.

All of the aforementioned allegations, however sincerely motivated, assert the rights of third parties rather than Donohue herself. However appalled Donohue may feel because of her belief that the children are being shortchanged, it is the children who are the aggrieved parties rather than Donohue. Donohue's allegations of the District's failure to properly teach the children do not demonstrate that she has suffered or is in imminent danger of suffering some harm in the event of an adverse outcome in court. As noted above, in order to have standing Donohue would have to demonstrate that she has a sufficient stake in the subject matter. She has failed to do so. Moreover, as noted above, Donohue cannot gain standing in this case by asserting the rights of third parties. I CONCLUDE that Donohue has no standing to bring any allegations that only assert the rights of others and that do not address allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District.

We now turn to Donohue's allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District. Donohue has asserted that she was unfairly denied use of unaccumulated sick days in December 2014 and that the executive director of labor relations, Louis Rojas, made incorrect and maligning statements about her. These are the types of allegations that Donohue would have standing to bring. Furthermore, Donohue alleged that classroom materials and decorations that she purchased and placed in her classroom were destroyed or disposed of in 2013 and/or 2014. Again, without commenting on the veracity of these allegations, these are things that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that an administrator wrongfully denied her the use of a microphone at a "You Are Special To Me Tea" event. This too is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that her name appears on assessments, evaluations, and other types of documents composed during a period when she was out on medical leave. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that she was unfairly denied cash compensation for her attendance at Back-To-School Nights and various other after-school activities and/or events. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that she was unfairly denied an interview for the position of ELA on-site supervisor. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. I CONCLUDE that all of the above-mentioned wrongs that Donohue alleges were visited upon her by the District are things for which she would have standing to petition the Commissioner and/or the tribunal for relief.

Regarding the timeliness of Donohue's petitions, as noted above, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) states that a petitioner has ninety days from the date of a notice of a final order, the date of a ruling, or the date of some other action by the district to file her petition. A review of all of the facts contained in Donohue's allegations in all of her petitions shows that all of the wrongs allegedly visited upon her by the District occurred at times during her employment. She retired on September 1, 2015. Therefore, all of the wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue by the District were more than ninety days before the filing of any of her petitions. That is to say, Donohue failed to file a petition alleging a wrong visited upon her by the District—a final order, a ruling, or an action—within ninety days of its occurrence. For this reason, I CONCLUDE that all of Donohue's petitions have been filed in an untimely manner. I further CONCLUDE that all of Donohue's petitions must be and hereby are dismissed for failing to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the motion to dismiss filed by the respondent is hereby GRANTED, and all petitions of the petitioner are hereby DISMISSED.

The petitions of the petitioner, having been dismissed as untimely filed, I hereby ORDER that petitioner's motion to request additional documents is DENIED; and I hereby ORDER that petitioner's discovery motion is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS AGREEMENT is entered on this ____ of December, 2016, by and between the Hamilton Township Board of Education ("Board") and Kenette Johnson on behalf of minor children C.M. and N.L.M. in full and final settlement of a student residency matter. The undersigned representatives of the parties enter this Agreement knowingly and with the authority to do so, in consideration of the promises made herein.

NOW THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. This matter arises out of a claim by the Board that minor children C.M. and N.L.M. attended school in the Hamilton Township School District without legal eligibility to do so during certain parts of the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years.

2. In compliance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38 and N.J.A.C. 6A:22, the Board issued Initial and Final Notices of Ineligibility, which Ms. Johnson has disputed, and the parties have both filed Petitions of Appeal which are pending hearing before the Office of Administrative law under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education (the "Litigation").

3. Subsequent to the legal procedures set forth above, the parties, through their authorized representatives, entered into negotiations for the resolution and closure of this matter, resulting in this Agreement.

4. The parties acknowledge the existence of their respective claims and positions, and mutually acknowledge that they could pursue said claims pursuant to the regulations of the New Jersey Department of Education and the Office of Administrative Law, and agree that there is a value in resolving this matter instead of pursuing further litigation, expense, time and uncertainty.

5. Therefore, Ms. Johnson shall pay to the Board, in full and final settlement of all claims related to this matter, the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00), which amount shall be paid as follows via valid and negotiable check or money order, made payable to the

a. $1,500 received by January 31, 2017.
b. $500 received by June 30, 2017, in lump sum or in payments at Ms. Johnson's discretion, but to be fully paid no later than June 30, 2017.

6. The Board accepts this payment in lieu of pursuing further litigation, and in consideration of full and faithful performance by Ms. Johnson of the obligations set forth in herein, for monies claimed due and owing for the 2014-2015 school year. For purposes of settlement, the Board waives its claims for tuition monies owed for the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years.

7. The parties expressly acknowledge and mutually consent that in the event that valid payment is not made and received as set forth above, and upon ten (10) days notice to Ms. Johnson, the Board has the legal authority and intention to resume litigation of this matter, and Ms. Johnson has the right to resume litigation of her defenses and affirmative claims via proceedings in the OAL and before the Commissioner of Education.

8. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, the parties waive all claims related to this matter, provided that C.M. and N.L.M. remain eligible for continued enrollment in the Hamilton School District. Moreover, Ms. Johnson and the Board, in entering this agreement and subject to full performance of all obligations set forth herein, forever waive any and all claims against each other, absolutely and without exception, whether at law, in equity, under the applicable administrative regulations or otherwise, arising out of the Litigation.

9. This Agreement is legally enforceable under New Jersey law, and is binding upon both parties, their heirs, successors and privies.

10. All terms of this Agreement shall be kept strictly confidential except to the degree that disclosure is required by applicable law.

11. Legal counsel enters and executes this Agreement on behalf of the parties with the authority to do so as conferred by their respective clients. The Board's entry of this agreement is subject to approval by the Board in lawful executive session at its December 19, 2016 meeting.

12. This Agreement constitutes the parties' entire understanding and resolution. There are no other promises or obligations established by this Agreement, and none shall be added unless the parties mutually agree to do so via a written and executed document modifying this Agreement.

- Stated he feels if you aren't looking out for the district's best interest then you should not run for a position on the board.
- He feels the price for the bleachers at West is too high. He doesn't think we should spend that kind of money on bleachers when special education programs are struggling.

George Fisher
- Stated that charter schools are to be competitive with districts and show public schools a way to improve.
- He feels it is ridiculous to spend $900,000 on bleachers for West. He feels the money should be used for educational needs.
- He stated his concerns that some of the issues the district is having with repairs could have been avoided if the district had a Strategic Plan in place.

Kate Hamm
- Asked if the sign-up sheet for public comment could be kept outside the boardroom because some people might not feel comfortable walking up to the front of the room to sign in.
- She stated she is very disappointed that $900,000 for the West bleacher project was approved. ADA accessibility should be considered before athletics. Athletics are not a legal obligation but ADA accessibility is.

Christine Reuter
- Very upset over the approval of $900,000 for bleachers at West.
- Asked if the sign-in sheet for Public Comment be moved because she often comes late to meetings and doesn't want to walk to the front of the room disrupt the meeting.

Dr. Ficarra stated that Capital Reserve money can only be used for certain things. The money cannot be used for books, paper, classroom supplies, etc.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on his own behalf, seeking a determination that he is entitled to a free public education in the Black Horse Pike Regional School District. The respondent Board contended that a residency investigation had determined that petitioner resides at an address in Winslow Township, outside of the Black Horse Pike Regional School District.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and a hearing was scheduled for March 21, 2017. Petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The OAL sent a notice of petitioner's failure to appear to the Commissioner on April 4, 2017, and subsequently returned the file to this agency. Petitioner has provided no explanation for his failure to appear, despite having had the opportunity to do so.

Upon review of the record, it was determined that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Commissioner. Accordingly, the Commissioner dismissed the petition with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured teacher, challenged the actions of the respondent Board in failing to pay his salary after he was suspended without pay for 120 calendar days after the certification of tenure charges. Petitioner contended that the Board's action to withhold his pay subsequent to reinstatement to his tenured position, by way of an October 5, 2016 arbitration decision under the TEACH NJ Act, is unlawful pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. The arbitrator's decision found that petitioner had engaged in unbecoming conduct, and determined that the appropriate penalty for his actions would be the forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges. The respondent Board asserted that its actions are a proper exercise of its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, as petitioner collected unemployment compensation during his 120-day suspension without pay, and that his actions in applying for and receiving such compensation are in contravention of the arbitrator's decision that petitioner forfeit 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, petitioner was suspended from his teaching position with pay, pending the Board's investigation of petitioner's alleged unbecoming conduct; on April 28, 2016, the Board certified tenure charges against petitioner, and his suspension converted to a suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14; petitioner's suspension converted back to a paid suspension on September 1, 2016, as more than 120 days had elapsed since the certification of tenure charges; an arbitration award was rendered on October 5, 2016, setting forth petitioner's penalty as the forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges; at the time of the arbitration decision, petitioner was on paid suspension since September 1, 2016; the Board ceased paying petitioner on November 30, 2016, having determined that petitioner was not entitled to his salary because he had collected unemployment benefits during the months of July and August 2016, and was not so entitled as a ten-month employee; however, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 specifically legislates the time period when the Board may exclude payments to a tenured employee and does not regulate the compensation that the employee may receive while he or she is not being paid; and the Board's assertion that there is an exception to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 when an employee receives unemployment benefits is without merit. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the petitioner's motion for summary decision, and ordered that the Board restore petitioner's salary commencing with the pay period ending November 30, 2016.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00311-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 312-12/16

THOMAS STRASSLE,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Edward A. Cridge, Esq., for petitioner (Mellk O'Neill, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 3, 2017 Decided: April 13, 2017

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a tenured teacher challenges the actions of the Old Bridge Board of Education ("the Board") in failing to pay petitioner his salary after he was suspended without pay for one-hundred twenty calendar days (120-day) after the certification of tenure charges. Petitioner contends that the Board's decision to withhold his pay after an arbitrator's decision under TEACH NJ Act and the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, to reinstate petitioner in his tenure positon and without back pay, violates the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and 18A:6-14.

The Board contends that its actions are a legally proper exercise of its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-14, as petitioner collected unemployment compensation during his 120-day suspension without pay. The Board further contends that it is not obligated to pay petitioner his salary, which they have withheld since November 30, 2016, as petitioner's actions are in contravention of the arbitrator's decision that petitioner forfeit 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges.

Petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on December 8, 2016, challenging the actions of the Board and seeking immediate restoration of his salary. Thereafter, on December 29, 2016, petitioner filed a Notice of Motion for Summary Decision with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12. On January 3, 2017, the Board filed an Answer to Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education.

On January 5, 2017, the Commissioner of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing on the merits of the underlying claims raised in the petition. The same was filed with the OAL Clerk's Office on January 9, 2017.

On January 20, 2017, the Board filed with the OAL Clerk's a certification in opposition to petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, a response to statement of material facts and a brief in opposition to the petitioner's motion for summary decision. [1]

[1] Petitioner had initially filed a Motion for Summary Decision with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12. However, once the matter is transferred to the OAL, applications for summary decision shall be filed with the ALJ in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL. Summary decision motions in the OAL are governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Petitioner wrote to the undersigned on January 25, 2017, requesting oral argument in connection with the motion for summary decision. The Board initially opposed petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, urging that material issues of fact necessitated a plenary hearing. However, after a telephonic prehearing conference on February 24, 2017, the parties agreed that this matter would proceed without the need of a plenary hearing and instead, each party would submit supplemental pleadings in connection with the motion for summary decision and a ruling would be made thereafter. On March 3, 2017, petitioner and the board filed their respective pleadings requesting a ruling by summary decision as to the legal issues raised in the petition and answer.

DISCUSSION

The petitioner and the Board seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c) which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary judgment requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have held that the "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Anderson, supra, 477 U.S. at 252.

Conversely, it is critical that a favorable ruling on a summary judgment motion not "shut a deserving litigant from his [or her] trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 77 (1954).

Both parties concede that the factual background which led to the filing of the petition is not in dispute. Petitioner is a tenured teacher employed by the Board as a ten-month employee, receiving twenty bi-weekly paychecks. On or about September 29, 2015, petitioner was suspended from his teaching positon, with pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, pending the Board's investigation of petitioner's conduct. On April 28, 2016, the Board certified tenure charges against petitioner to the Commissioner of Education and petitioner's suspension converted to a suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Petitioner's unpaid suspension took effect on May 1, 2016 and continued through June 2016 and the summer months that followed. On September 1, 2016, petitioner's suspension converted to a paid suspension, as more than one-hundred twenty days had passed since the tenure charges were certified on April 28, 2016 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6A-14).

On October 5, 2016, pursuant to the TEACH NJ Act and the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et. seq., an Arbitration award was rendered adjudicating the tenure charges filed against petitioner by the Board. In a written opinion, the arbitrator ruled that petitioner "shall be reinstated to his positon as tenured teacher in the District. The penalty for the proven allegations as set forth ...above shall be reduced from termination to a forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of the tenure charges. Therefore, there shall be no back pay awarded in connection with this 120 days loss of pay."

This is where the parties' understanding of "suspension without pay" differs and why this matter is in dispute. At the time the Arbitration award was entered on October 5, 2016, petitioner was on paid suspension since September 1, 2016. The Board ceased paying petitioner on November 30, 2016, as it determined that petitioner was not entitled to his salary because he had collected unemployment benefits during the summer months of July and August 2016.[2] The Board opined that petitioner was not entitled to unemployment benefits as he is a ten-month employee and is not paid for the summer months, and in addition, he was on suspended pay for 120 days, for the months of May through August 2016. The Board determined further, that petitioner was not entitled to his salary on November 30, 2016, as it interpreted the Arbitration award as ruling that a "forfeiture of pay" against petitioner included all compensation received by petitioner during his 120 suspension-including the unemployment compensation.

The Board has decided to withhold petitioner's pay effective November 30, 2016, pending a determination by the OAL and the Commissioner of Education, as to the correct amount to release to petitioner, net petitioner's salary that the Board is holding in escrow. The Board acknowledges that under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, the 120-day suspension period "generally" includes, summer months "even" for 10-month employees like petitioner. The Board is of the opinion, however, that petitioner did not comply with the 120-day suspension period by applying for and receiving unemployment compensation during the said period. The Board does not present any exception to the 120-suspenson rule in N.J.S.A. 18A;6-14 as proof, but does cite several cases for the proposition that any delay that negatively impact the 120-day suspension is counted against the employee, and not counted towards the 120-day period. The same are not dispositive of the issue before the OAL as the petitioner did not cause any delay in the accumulation of the 120-day suspension.

The Board also relies upon the Arbitration Award for authority to withhold petitioner's salary. A review of the Award indicates that the arbitrator's ruling was consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14; a "forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following certification of the tenure charges. Therefore, there shall no back pay awarded in connection with this 120 day loss of pay." The Arbitration proceeding is governed by

[2] Petitioner had applied for unemployment compensation on July 10, 2016, and received unemployment benefits through the end of August 2016. Thereafter, petitioner refiled for unemployment benefits in December 2016 (after the Board withheld his November 30 paycheck), and was granted the same. It appears from the pleadings submitted that the Board did not contest the July 10 unemployment filing and did contest the December filing, which initially denied petitioner unemployment benefits. This decision was reversed by the Appeal Tribunal on February 7, 2017, and petitioner was granted unemployment benefits from November 27, 2016 through April 2017. The Appeal Tribunal informed the Board that they can notify the Department of Labor as to any back pay that petitioner received after November 15, 2016.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, and the arbitrator has ruled consistent with the applicable law for said proceedings as allowed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. There is no exception to the 120-day suspension as the Board has carved out for petitioner. The Board argues that the arbitrator had some greater power than allowed by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, as the award was not the typical "suspend and restore" decision but an actual "penalty" imposed by the arbitrator. The Board fails, however, to present regulatory proof or cite a case that substantiates this argument.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, provides specifically that the Board is to pay the employee commencing on "the one hundred twenty-first day [following the 120 calendar days of suspension] until such determination is made [excluding the 120 days]." This statutory language explicitly legislates the time period when the Board may exclude payments to a tenured employee and does not regulate the compensation that the employee may receive while he or she is not being paid. For the Board to now imbue an exception to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 when an employee receives unemployment benefits, or any compensation, is contrary to the statutory language.

The Board also makes an argument that petitioner should not be allowed to collect unemployment as he has abused the system regulating unemployment benefits. The petitioner cites N.J.S.A. 43:21-5(b), regarding the return of unemployment benefits collected when an individual receives back pay during the unemployment period. Moreover, the Appeal Tribunal ruled that the Board was not prevented from notifying the Department of Labor of any back pay issued to petitioner while he received unemployment compensation after November 15, 2016, which is the date of petitioner's last paycheck.

Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision is DENIED. Petitioner's motion for summary decision seeking relief in the form of an order directing his restoration to full paid status to November 30, 2016 is GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's motion for summary decision be DENIED. It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. It is hereby ORDERED that the Board is to restore petitioner's salary commencing with the pay period ending on November 30, 2016 through the date of this decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Petitioner appealed the decision of the respondent Board to terminate his employment as Athletic Trainer when the position was abolished due to a reduction in force (RIF) and the responsibilities of his former position were transferred to an outside vendor. Petitioner alleged that his tenure rights were violated, asserting that the Athletic Trainer position was not abolished and that the vendor was given the position without acknowledgment of the petitioner's recall rights. The RIF occurred following a period when petitioner had been suspended with pay pending the outcome of an IAIU investigation concerning allegations of child abuse, which ultimately determined that the allegations against petitioner were unfounded. Petitioner subsequently filed the within petition, and the parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's motion for summary decision stated that there were no material facts in dispute; however, petitioner contradicted this in his opposition to the Board's motion for summary decision, where he stated that the Board's motives for outsourcing the position of Athletic Trainer were not based solely on reasons of efficiency and economy; further, petitioner alleged that his position was eliminated due to retaliation based on his filing a notice of claim and providing information that another employee had a criminal history; despite this allegation, petitioner failed to provide documents, statements of potential witnesses or anything else to support this position; respondent, on the other hand, has demonstrated that there was a clear economic reason for the Board to abolish the position of Athletic Trainer and to contract the services to an outside vendor, as petitioner's last salary was $100,363, or $40,000 more than the cost of contracting with the outside vendor to provide Athletic Trainer services. The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to provide any evidence that the Board's abolition of the Athletic Trainer position was arbitrary, capricious or done in bad faith, and that the Board's contract with the outside vendor was undertaken for reasons of economy, resulting in a savings of $40,000 for the school district. Accordingly, the ALJ denied petitioner's motion for summary decision and granted the Board's motion for summary decision, thereby dismissing the appeal.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's decision to abolish the Athletic Trainer position was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Further, the Commissioner found that the Board's decision to contract with an outside vendor for economic reasons did not violate petitioner's seniority rights. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Robert Reilly, and the East Orange Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.[1]

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board's decision to abolish the petitioner's athletic trainer position as a result of a reduction in force was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Commissioner also finds that the Board's decision to contract the athletic trainer services to an outside vendor for economic reasons did not violate the petitioner's seniority rights. [2] Despite the fact that the petitioner filed a motion for summary decision at the OAL stating that there are no material facts in dispute, his exceptions suggest that this matter should not have been decided on summary decision and instead there should have been a hearing with witness testimony regarding the Board's intent behind the elimination of his position. The petitioner also attempts to argue in his exceptions that his motion for summary decision only concerned his recall rights and what occurred after his position was abolished, not the Board's conduct before his position was abolished.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Richard Reilly, (Reilly or Petitioner) contests his termination by East Orange Board of Education (Board or respondent) due to a reduction in force. On April 28, 2016, Reilly was informed by the Board that his position as Athletic Trainer was going to be abolished effective June 30, 2016 for reasons of economy. On May 10, 2016, the Board passed a resolution abolishing the position of Athletic Trainer. Petitioner appealed the Board's decision. The appeal was filed with the Office of Administrative Law on September 1, 2016.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision on March 7, 2017. Respondent filed a reply to that motion on March 31, 2017. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on March 10, 2017. Petitioner filed opposition to respondent's motion on March 22, 2017. Respondent replied to the opposition on March 27, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Having reviewed the petitioner and respondent's briefs in support of and opposition to motion for summary disposition, I FIND the following FACTS:

Reilly was a certified, tenured Athletic Trainer at East Orange Campus High School (Campus). He began working for the Board in 2001. Reilly's annual salary for the 2015-2016 school year was $100,363. Reilly was suspended with pay pending an allegation of child abuse and neglect on September 9, 2015. On September 11, 2015, the Board entered a contract with outside vendor SD Gameday to provide a licensed certified Athletic Trainer for Campus due to the suspension of Reilly. On November 3, 2015, petitioner was informed that the investigation was unfounded. He was directed to report to campus on November 9, 2015. Petitioner filed a Notice of Claim against the Board for among other things civil rights violation, retaliation and harassment on December 9, 2015. The Board approved family leave absences for petitioner from November 16, 2015 to November 23, 2015 and January 13, 2016 to June 30, 2016. SD Gameday continued to provide the services of Athletic Trainer at Campus through the end of the 2015-2016 school year.

In March 2016, Dr. Gloria P. Watson, the Acting Superintendent of East Orange School District from March 15, 2015 to June 30, 2016, and the Senior Cabinet began the process to implement a reduction in force due to declining aid from the State, increase in charter schools and the rising cost of goods and services. During this time Dr. Watson, became aware that the contract with SD Gameday was a significant savings in comparison to petitioner's salary.

On April 28, 2016, petitioner was informed that it was recommended that his position among other positions was to be abolished. On May 3, 2016 petitioner was informed that his position as Athletic Trainer was to be abolished due to budgetary restraints and that he would be non-renewed for the 2016-2017 school year. On May 10, 2016, the Board approved a resolution which included non-renewal of Reilly and abolishing the position of Athletic Trainer. On June 28, 2016, the Board passed a resolution to contract with SD Gameday to hire an Athletic Trainer from July 15, 2016 to June 21, 2017, in an amount not to exceed $60,000.

Reilly alleges that the position of Athletic Trainer was not abolished and that S.D. Gameday was given the position, without given him his recall rights. Petitioner also contends that the Board's motives for outsourcing the Athletic Trainer position were not solely based on efficiency and economy in his opposition to respondent's motion. Petitioner did not address motives of the Board in his motion for summary decision. Petitioner did not include any evidence of any type that the position of Athletic Trainer was abolished in retaliation for his filing of a notice of claim or in bad faith.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Both parties are requesting summary decision. The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523

(1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a motion for summary judgment. Therein the Court stated:

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

In Martin v. Rutgers Cas. Ins Co 346 N.J. Super 320, 323 (App. Div. 202) The Court stated "The record is barren of any evidence that plaintiff had such a license other than her own self-serving assertion to that effect. That is clearly insufficient to create a question of material fact for purposes of a summary judgment motion."

In this matter petitioner's motion for summary decision states that there are no material issues of fact in dispute. Petitioner contradicts this in his opposition to respondent's motion for summary decision states that respondent's motives for outsourcing the position of Athletic Trainer were not based solely on reasons of efficiency and economy and therefore questions of motive or intent are not appropriate for summary decision. Petitioner alleges that his position was eliminated due to retaliation based on filing a notice of claim and providing information that another employee had a criminal history. Other than the allegation of petitioner in the petition there is no evidence of this. Petitioner has not provided any documents, statements potential witness or anything to support this position.

I CONCLUDE that Reilly has not presented any evidence to show that the abolition of the position of Athletic Trainer was arbitrary, capricious or done in bad faith.

In his motion for summary decision petitioner's contention is that by outsourcing the position of athletic trainer to SD Gameday instead of re-employing him in the position that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A 28-12. In Impey v. Shrewsbury Bd of Education 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div 1994) Impey was a tenured speech correctionest. Shrewsbury abolished her position and contracted with Educational Services Commission of Monmouth County for speech correction services at a savings of $12,000. Impey alleged that this violated her tenure rights and sought reinstatement. Id. at 431. In Impey the Court stated:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.
> The Board's decision to contract with an ESC to provide the speech correction services previously performed by appellant eliminated the need for the position of speech correctionist within the district. Moreover appellant stipulated that the Board would save more than $ 12,000 per year by contracting with an ESC to provide these services. Therefore, we are satisfied that the Board properly abolished appellant's position of speech correctionist "for reasons of economy" and thus did not violate her tenure rights. Klinger v. Board of Educ. of Cranbury, 190 N.J.Super. 354, 357, 463 A.2d 948 (App.Div.1982) ("[R]eduction in force is entirely within the authority of the board if done for reasons of economy."), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277, 460 A.2d 678 (1983). Id at 434

In this matter like Impey there is a clear economic reason for position of Athletic Trainer to be abolished and the services to be contracted to an outside vendor. Reilly's salary of $100,363 is $40,000 more than the Board will pay SD Gameday for the Athletic Trainer services.

I CONCLUDE that the Board abolished the position of Athletic Trainer on May 16, 2016 and contracting those services to an outside vendor, SD Gameday, with a savings of $40,000.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that Reilly's motion for summary Decision is DENIED.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that East Orange Board of Education's motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 ("TEACHNJ"), tenure charges were brought by the Board of Education, Irvington Public School, Essex County ("Petitioner", "District" or "Irvington") against Belinda Mendez-Azzollini ("Respondent" or "Mendez-Azzollini" or "Azzollini") on August 19, 2016. Respondent filed an Answer of Evidence/Position in Opposition to the Tenure Charges on September 21, 2016. This matter was referred to me by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on October 3, 2016, for hearing and decision. The hearings in this matter were conducted on November 15, 2016, December 16, 2016, February 15, 2017, and March 2, 2017. Final submissions were received by April 11, 2017, whereupon the record was closed.

THE CHARGES

The Sworn Tenure Charges brought against Belinda Mendez-Azzolini in pertinent part state:[1]

"A. Just Cause Termination
The Respondent had been charged with the following conduct and/or other good cause necessitating the need to terminate her employment with the Irvington School District (hereafter 'Petitioner') for Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor:

7. During this same time frame, June 16, 2016, it was discovered by the Supervisor of Guidance, Claire Hamm, during an audit of senior transcripts that J.D. had not obtained a passing grade in Geometry, a requirement for graduation.

8. J.D. had obtained a failing grade in Geometry during the 2013-2014, school year and had never made up the grade. Ms. Hamm informed the Respondent of this at the time of the initial senior transcript review in the beginning of the 2015-2016, school year.

9. On June 17, 2016, Ms. Hamm again reminded the Respondent that J.D had not passed Geometry to which Respondent suggested that she check the Historical Grades screen in Power School and not rely on the student's transcript.

10. Thereafter, Ms. Hamm checked the Historical Grades screen for J.D. and observed a grade of "D" for the 2013-2014 school year. Ms. Hamm was somewhat puzzled by the discovery and questioned how the "D" grade suddenly appeared when the grade on his printed transcript reflected an "F" just two weeks earlier.

11. When questioned, the Respondent could not explain the change, but only mentioned that they should rely on the Historical Grades screen and not the transcript.

12. Thereafter, while reviewing the Historical grades screen, Ms. Hamm discovered that J.D.'s Geometry grade had been changed from an "F" to a "D" on June 15, 2016 at 11:02 am by Belinda Mendez-Azzollini.

13. On June 20, 2016, during the Senior Transcript meeting with the Superintendent, High School Principal, Ms. Hamm and the Respondent, the Respondent was asked directly if she changed J.D.'s. grade, to which she replied "no." Thereafter in a later meeting with her Union President present, the Respondent was again asked whether she changed the grade and again replied "no."

14. At that point, the Respondent was shown a copy of the Historical Grades screen showing that her user code was used to modify the student's grade. She then admitted that she had changed the grade and claimed for the first time that the student had informed her in September 2015, that he had passed Geometry in summer school.

15. Subsequent review of the summer school rosters for 2014 and 2015, did not demonstrate evidence that J.D. ever attended summer school. Additionally, J.D. was questioned on the subject and wrote a statement confirming that he never attended summer school or had a conversation with the Respondent about summer school.

16. The Respondent was unable to produce any documentation to support her action of modifying the student's grade. Her conduct constitutes unbecoming conduct for a public school employee." (R-1, P-2)[2]

ISSUE PRESENTED

Has the School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, met its burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence the tenure charges against Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini?

If so, do the tenure charges warrant dismissal or a lesser discipline?

EVIDENTIARY FINDINGS

At hearing, the parties were zealously represented. Each was given a full opportunity to present testimony, written evidence, cross-examine witnesses and submit post hearing briefs.

Petitioner Irvington proffered:

Claire Hamm - Supervisor of Guidance
Sandra Y. Boone-Gibbs - High School Principal
Bevin Subocz - Director of Technology and Media Services
Dr. Neely Hackett - Superintendent of Schools

Petitioner Belinda Mendez-Azzollini testified on her own behalf in addition to:

Eleanor Gatling - School Counselor - Transcript Coordinator Blue Knights Academy
Eileen Wesley - Irvington High School Social Studies Teacher, President-Irvington Education Association

Based upon a through review of the record, including all relevant exhibits, arguments and observations of the demeanor of each witness, I find the following as fact:[3]

grade district, classified as special needs, referred to as an "SDA District." The Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Neely Hackett attended Irvington Public Schools as a child. With the exception of a short tenure as High School Principal at Franklin High School in Somerset County, Dr. Hackett has been employed by the District as a teacher and in a series of progressive administrative positions. (2T236/21-237/11)

Upon her appointment as Superintendent five (5) years ago, Irvington High School's graduation rate was fifty percent (50%). The District is being monitored; the State is seeking a graduation rate of eighty-five percent (85%). The last school year - 2015/2016, Irvington High School's graduation rate was seventy percent (70%). (2T 242/5-22)

Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini, was hired in 2004 as a Guidance Counselor at the Union Avenue School by its then Building Principal, Dr. Hackett (then known as Nettie Settle). Dr. Hackett was replaced at the middle school by Mr. Joy and ultimately Ronald Bligh. In 2010, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini's contract for employment was non renewed based upon the District's mistaken belief the Petitioner had not worked long enough to obtain tenure. In addition to seeking tenure before the Commissioner of Education, in 2010, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini filed a civil action in Superior Court against Ronald Bligh, then Superintendent Ethel Davion and the Board of Education. On November 7, 2013, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini executed a Settlement Agreement and Release after receiving Eighty

Thousand Dollars ($80,000.00). Neither the District nor the named Defendants made any admission of liability. (J-1)

When Respondent returned to the District, she was assigned to the Blue Knights Academy, a night school program within Irvington Public Schools. When a position opened for a guidance counselor in the high school, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini applied for the transfer which was granted by Dr. Hackett. Thus, Respondent transferred from the night school to Irvington Public High School in or around April 2014. Prior to June 2016, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini was not issued discipline; she earned consistent positive evaluations. (R-10)

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

Claire Hamm was appointed Supervisor of Guidance prior to the 2015/2016 school year. Approximately twenty-two (22) guidance counselors service all schools within the District. As to the duties of a high school guidance counselor in Irvington, Ms. Hamm revealed,

> "Q. What does a guidance counselor do?
> A. A guidance counselor's role is to support their students in a caseload academically, social development and behavioral development. At the high school level, that means ensuring that your student and your caseload have all the required courses to graduate to make sure that they are progressing academically, make sure their attendance is not becoming an issue, make sure there's no behavior issues to prepare them for colleges and applications and careers, so they really have the full circle of responsibilities for high school students." (1T 13/5-17) (See also R-9 - Guidance Counselor Position Description)

At Irvington High School, it is the duty/responsibility of each guidance counselor to ensure students are assigned to courses which fulfill the New Jersey State requirements for graduation. Ms. Hamm disclosed courses required to complete:

> English Language Arts, four years or 20 credits
> Mathematics, three years or 15 credits
> Social Studies, three years
> Science, three years including a lab science - one must be biology
> Physical Education - every year enrolled
> One year of a World Language
> One year of Art
> One year of a career or practical Art
> One half year of financial literacy

The Guidance Supervisor is responsible for assigning duties to each guidance counselor in the high school. Dr. Hackett informed that within the last three (3) years these assignments have been tweaked. One counselor may be assigned all English learning language students, one counselor may be assigned only Freshman students, one counselor may be assigned special education students.

Since her reassignment to the high school in 2014, Respondent was "responsible for between 250-275" students every school year. (3T429/17) Counselors are also assigned additional duties. These include, inter alia, HIB specialist, college and career fairs, college visits, senior awards ceremony, translating transcripts from students of a foreign country. There is an attempt to equalize these roles between the Counselors. (2T319/14 to 321/8) In the school year 2015/2016, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini's additional duties included assignment as the high school HIB specialist (Harassment Intimidation and Bullying).

Counselors meet their students throughout the year and schedule courses for the next school year. In order to ensure seniors have scheduled all required courses to graduate in June, Principal Boone-Gibbs meets in September separately with the Supervisor of Guidance and each Guidance Counselor. Consistent with this process, in September 2015, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Ms. Hamm requested each Guidance Counselor to provide, for their 2016 graduating students, transcripts and schedules. (1T 126/3-13)

Upon receipt, Ms. Hamm reviewed the approximately three hundred (300) graduating student transcripts before the meetings. In the event a student's transcript evidences he or she will have problems with graduation, students can be assigned a credit recovery course embedded during the school day, after school on the premises, and at the Blue Knights Academy. (1T 126/14 to 127/11) This process was designed to ensure graduating seniors are on track to graduate; given an opportunity to take all required courses.

In preparation for the September meeting, Guidance Supervisor Hamm created a form identifying all graduation requirements with a check list for completion to graduate in June 2016. During this process, she discovered that student J.D. had failed "geometry." (P-4)

The meeting on September 29, 2015, was conducted by Principal Boone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm. When Respondent met with them to review her senior case load, she was informed student J.D. had failed geometry and needed to pass this mathematics course in order to graduate in June 2016. (1T 21/2 to 22/18; 3T 452/19 to 453/21)

Upon her transfer to the high school in April 2014, Respondent was assigned Sophomore student J.D. She remained his counselor throughout J.D.'s Junior and Senior years of high school. After J.D. failed geometry during the 2013-2014 school year, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini never addressed this deficiency by scheduling J.D. to another geometry class, credit recovery, or Blue Knights Academy.

Prior to the September 29, 2015, meeting with the Principal and Guidance Supervisor, J.D.'s official transcript evidenced grade F and zero credit for geometry in his Sophomore year. On November 10, 2015, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini changed J.D.'s geometry credit from zero credit to five credits.[4]

Acknowledging she made this change, on cross, Respondent testified,

"Q Now I think I heard your testimony today, it was a little confusing to me but I want to be clear about what you said, I think you said you changed his credits on November 10th, to five credits; is that accurate?

A Yes.
Q On what authority did you do that?
A Because guidance counselors are able to update information.
Q Okay, and what updated information did you get that he had five credits?
A Well, like I said, like I testified before that I don't actually recall it, recall it but if that was the cause and in November we were getting information in to update the audit sheet or their transcripts I may have mistakenly changed it thinking it was summer school grade.
Q Let's stop there, let's stop this.

You know at this point in time in 2014/15, how long have you been a guidance counselor?

ARBITRATOR LASKIN: You mean 15/16?

Q 15/16, how long had you been a guidance counselor?
A Twelve years.
Q You would be considered like a veteran at that point, right, yes, more or less?
A Yeah.
Q It is a very serious thing to change a grade or to give anyone credits that he hasn't earned, you would agree with that statement, wouldn't you?
A Yes. I would never intentionally do that.
Q Let's forget intentionally.
A I would never intentionally fabricate or change any grade.

Q Okay, I think the testimony was in November you changed the credit; is that accurate?
A Yes.
Q Did you change the credit and the grade or just the credit?
A Just the credit.
Q What was the grade that you left, was it an F?
A I don't know." (3T 457/3 to 10)

The final graduating senior review, under the direction of Dr. Hackett, is conducted every June with each guidance counselor, together with the Supervisor of Guidance and the High School Principal. Each Guidance Counselor's case load of graduating seniors is reviewed to confirm all requirements were met; the student(s) had earned their Irvington High School diploma.

In preparation for this meeting, on June 9, 2016, Guidance Supervisor Hamm directed her secretary to print out all senior transcripts and historical grade screens. (1T 65/25 - 66/7) Ms. Hamm reviewed these records for each the approximately three hundred (300) graduating students. On Friday, June 17, 2016, in preparation for the review meeting scheduled on Monday, June 20, 2016, Claire Hamm sent questions to counselors requesting updated information.

At 8:21 a.m., Supervisor Hamm emailed Ms. Mendez-Azzollini as follows,

> On Fri, June 17, 2016 at 8:21 AM, Claire Hamm <chamm@irvington.k12.nj.us> wrote:

both classes at this time?

4) For S. L., I don't see Financial Literacy (or an equivalent) on his transcript. Please advise.

5) For A. M., I don't see an visual/performing art elective. Please advise.

I will need your updates on these five students before you leave for the day today because, as you know, I am meeting with Dr. Hackett tomorrow to review all transcripts.

Thanks so much,
Claire"

Respondent replied, by email:

"From: Belinda Mendez-Azzollini
Date: Fri, Jun 17, 2016 at 1:18 PM
Subject: Re: URGENT: QUESTIONS RE SENIOR TRANSCRIPTS - RESPONSES DUE TODAY FRI JUNE 17, 2016
To: Claire Hamm

can you please call me" (P-11)

Prior to receipt of the Friday email, on Wednesday, June 15, 2016, at 11:02 a.m., utilizing Power School, Respondent modified J.D.'s geometry class grade and credit. To accomplish this task, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini made multiple changes in various quarters of his tenth grade geometry class resulting in the change of the final grade from F to D and credit from zero to five. (P-8)

Complying with Respondent's request, Guidance Supervisor Hamm called asking if J.D. earned a passing grade for Geometry. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini insisted he did. Guidance Supervisor Hamm advised Respondent that J.D. had an F in geometry. Respondent insisted her Supervisor was looking at the wrong computer screen. At hearing, Guidance Counselor Hamm reiterated this conversation

> "I am very worried. Does this student have a passing grade for geometry?
>
> And she said to me: Yes, yes, he is fine. Everything is fine. He has a passing grade.
>
> And I said: Well, how can that be? Because I have a transcript that has an F and zero credits.
>
> And she said: No, no, he is fine. You must be looking at the wrong screens.
> And I said: Well, I am looking at Historical. Is that not what I am supposed to be looking at?
> And she said: Well, yeah, but you must be looking at the wrong thing, because look at it now.
> And so while I was on the phone with Ms. Azzollini I did go into the Power School, I did go into the historical grade screen, and sure enough, I saw something different. I saw a D with five credits. So I was very puzzled at that moment and I kept saying to Ms. Azzollini, I don't understand this. How could I have a transcript that says F with zero credits that was printed out a couple of weeks ago and now I am looking at a screen that says a D with five credits? I am really confused.
> And she just kept saying: No, its right, it's right. You were probably looking at the wrong screen."

During this conversation, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini failed to advise her Supervisor that J.D.'s Sophomore Geometry record was changed by her two (2) days previous, on June 15, 2015.

After speaking to Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, Ms. Hamm immediately contacted Director of Technology Bevan Subocz, communicating her concern of "Big Problems with Power School" believing it was a "computer glitch" which caused the grade change. Ms. Hamm added," I wouldn't have in my wildest dreams thought anybody would have gone in and changed a grade." (1T 34/2 to 35/2)

Director Subocz immediately investigated. Her testimony disclosed, upon clicking the final grade in the Power School data base, an edit stored grade page is opened. Any change in a grade is saved and recorded with the notation of the user. (2T 203/5 to 204/1) Subocz's investigation revealed J.D.'s credit and grade was changed on June 15, 2016. Ms. Subocz relayed her findings; user 3309 made multiple manipulations on J.D.'s transcript. Ms. Hamm requested the identity of user 3309. Upon further investigation, Director Subocz identified 3309 as Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini. (P-8)

Prior to the commencement of the senior transcript meeting, Ms. Hamm informed Dr. Hackett and Principal Boone-Gibbs about the Director of Technology's finding regarding J.D.'s geometry grade. When Ms. Mendez-Azzollini came before the committee, her senior transcripts were reviewed. The final student was J.D. Dr. Hackett's testimony, corroborated by Ms. Hamm, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Respondent exclaimed,

> "We get to J.D. and then she says fine. And Ms. Hamm says are you sure, she says yes, he is fine. So Ms. Hamm says we have an issue because I had a D - there was an F, I am sorry, and now the passing - Ms. Hamm said what did he get in geometry and Ms. Azzollini said a D. And Ms. Hamm said there's a problem because I saw an F when I did my review and now it is a D. So Ms. Mendez-Azzollini said, no, no, he is fine, he is fine. So I believe at that point I said, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, did you change the grade, she said no.
> Q. Who was there when you said that, when you asked the question?
> A. Ms. Boone-Gibbs and Ms. Hamm. So I said again because now I am getting a little nervous, I said Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, did you change the grade. She said, no. I think I might have asked her two or three times.

Q. And her answer was the same?

A. Her answer was the same. At that point I knew something was wrong. I didn't quite know what it was. I knew something was wrong." (2T 247/5 to 24)

After the denials, Dr. Hackett interrupted the meeting directing Respondent to return with a Union representative. President of the Irvington Education Association, Eileen Wesley, a high school social studies teacher, returned to the meeting with Respondent. In the presence of her representative, Dr. Hackett again asked Respondent if she had changed any grades. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini expressed, she "had not." (3T 378/20 to 25) Thereupon, Dr. Hackett showed Respondent and Ms. Wesley a copy of the historical grade screen, researched by Technology Director Subocz evidencing that J.D.'s grade was modified by an individual using Respondent's user code. (P-6, P-8)

Soon thereafter, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini acknowledged she changed J.D.'s grade from F to D. Dr. Hackett asked why the grade change was from an F to a D instead of an A, B or C. The Superintendent sought documentation as to why Respondent changed the grade and why that grade was a D. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini informed she believed J.D. had taken Summer school. Thereupon, Director Hackett requested Ms. Wesley accompany Respondent to her office to find the Summer school documentation.

When they left the room, Dr. Hackett directed the Principal to meet privately the student. J.D. informed the Principal he neither spoke of nor attended Summer school to rectify his geometry failure.

In addition to Ms. Wesley, another counselor and Guidance Secretary assisted to find Summer school lists. Approximately 15 to 20 minutes later, finding no documentation to support her claim, Respondent along with Ms. Wesley returned to the meeting informing the participants of the lack of documentation. Thereupon, Dr. Hackett instructed Ms. Mendez-Azzollini to leave the school grounds, notifying "she would be officially suspended pending further investigation." (2T 225/9 to 10; 3T 467/9 to 469/21)

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

The parties presented argument at hearing and through post hearing submissions; the essence of each is as follows:

School District of the Township of Irvington

The District maintains Respondent's conduct was deliberate and calculated, warranting dismissal from her guidance counselor position at the Irvington Board of Education. She engaged in a series of unethical acts. She had numerous opportunities to cure her failure to provide J.D. a geometry course and/or admit her changes in the Power School data base. Her conduct, the District avers, cannot be rehabilitated by interventions available to a school district.

Irvington views Respondent's defense as lacking genuine candor as she blamed others and feigned confusion.

Arguing her behavior throughout the 2015-16 school year presents a series of deliberate actions, "unbecoming conduct," Counsel reflected upon her deportment during the senior transcript meeting,

> "The meeting of June 20, 2016, was the culmination of all deception demonstrated by the Respondent, but also another failed opportunity to admit her error and accept the consequences. On this occasion, when confronted with what appeared to be an unauthorized grade and credit change, the Respondent chose to lie to her Supervisor, Building Principal and Superintendent of Schools, when asked repeatedly and simply, did you change the grade? The transgression was further enhanced when the Respondent suggested that the Student himself had told her he had taken summer school and passed the class. This myth was quickly dispelled when the student was called and denied her version. The Respondent finally relented and suggested that she changed the grade in June because she was confused when she audited the student's transcript and noticed that he had an F and 5 credits. What she conveniently failed to disclose to the committee was that there was no confusion to her, since it was she who had changed JD's credits to 5 earlier that year on November 10, 2015. At no point in this process did the Respondent simply take a principled stance and admit her fault.
> Here, the Respondent's conduct did not only not meet the high standards expected of public employees, it demonstrated a lack of fundamental honesty and integrity in a position in which guidance is sought by our students. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967)." (Brief pps 14-15)

Moreover, neither Respondent's years of service, positive evaluations, award recognition, or personal story nullify her conduct, avers the district. Trust is lost between the District and Guidance Counselor Belinda Mendez-Azzollini.

Accordingly, Irvington requests this arbitrator sustain the Tenure Charges and determine dismissal is the appropriate discipline.

Respondent maintains the fact pattern in this matter is "not illustrative of the type of nefarious, intentional, misconduct that would warrant loss of tenure." Ms. Mendez-Azzollini argues she held a good faith basis "at least in her mind" to change J.D.'s credit based upon her mistaken belief J.D. passed geometry when she made the credit change in November 2015. (Brief at 2, 3)

Acknowledging she is not free from blame, Respondent contends her "serious error" was unintentional. Counsel cites recent tenure cases arguing the loss of tenure in TEACHNJ decisions are predicated on more egregious conduct than Respondents. (See In re Gilda Nicole Harris, Agency Dkt. Nos. 342-11/14 & 379-12/14, final decision, (October 2, 2015); In re Carol Zepralka, Agency Dkt. No. 162-7/15, final decision, (September 4, 2015))

Comparing her actions to those in the cases cited by counsel, Respondent asserts her missteps do not warrant the forfeiture of tenure. (Brief at page 5) Particularly, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini is aggrieved to face punishment for an act that did not violate any District policy - reasoning the failure of the District to have a written policy for processing grade changes is a "severe, even fatal deficiency in the tenure charge."

In addition, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini claims her $80,000 settlement from the District in 2013, J-1, and Dr. Hackett's lack of knowledge of the settlement raises the inference of a potential

inappropriate factor in the District's decision to file tenure charges. Moreover, Dr. Hackett's failure to initially confront Ms. Mendez-Azzollini about J.D.'s grades without any effort to have her union representative present, violated her Weingarten rights to union representation.

Listing other mitigating factors, Respondent notes she was burdened with a work load disproportionate to that of other guidance counselors. And, reassignment to an elementary school would obviate the District's concern about any future grade changes. Finally, Respondent views the tremendous impact her loss of position on her family as a mitigating factor. Counsel concludes,

> "As a result, were Ms. Mendez-Azzollini to be terminated, her entire family would lose most of its income, its health insurance coverage, and its retirement income and associated benefits. Such a devastating impact is unwarranted given the foregoing fact pattern. Accordingly, Respondent urges the Arbitrator to exercise her discretion to refrain from penalizing Ms. Mendez-Azzollini beyond what would be appropriate for a first-time offender under the circumstances." (Brief at 12)

ANALYSIS OF EVIDENTIARY FINDINGS

Has the School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, met its burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence the tenure charges against Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini?

If so, do the tenure charges warrant dismissal or a lesser discipline?

New Jersey provides protection to tenured guidance counselors such as Belinda Mendez-Azzollini from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982) The Statute expresses, inter alia, tenured staff "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. While "conduct unbecoming" is not defined by statute, it is an "elastic standard" determined on a case by case basis, embracing a wide range of conduct. (In The Matter of Tenure Hearing of Thomas Strassle and the School District of the Township of Ulbridge, Middlesex County, Agency Dk. No. Number 131-5/16 (Biren, October 5, 2016).

At all times, the District maintains the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence Brenda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school guidance counselor. Upon consideration of this record, with emphasis upon resolution of the credibility of the witnesses, I find the District has met its burden.

The evidentiary findings above reveal the District has established Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the conduct outlined in Charges 7 through 16, infra at pages 2-3. Her behavior resulted in the inability of J.D. to graduate with his class in June 2016. J.D. had no knowledge of this possibility until the day the students practiced their graduation ceremony. From June 2014 through June 2016, Respondent failed to provide him opportunity to obtain a passing grade in geometry, a requirement for graduation. While Respondent's conduct affected only one student, J.D., her actions from November 2015 through June 20, 2016 present a series of an intentional deliberate acts establishing conduct unbecoming.

During her testimony, and in argument, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini repeatedly claimed she did not "intentionally fabricate or change any grade"; that she "mistakenly changed" the credits and grade. Reviewing the record and Respondent's demeanor during hearing, I find her position unworthy of belief. Respondent's testimony was not credible.

Even after finally admitting she was "untruthful" to Dr. Hackett, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm at the senior transcript meeting, Respondent attempted to limit her culpability. On direct,

> "Q. Now you heard obviously the testimony from a number of people indicating that you were untruthful during the meeting, did you deny changing J.D.'s grade at all?
> A. At first, yes, I did. My mind wasn't clear in that meeting, I actually was coming back from suspension I was in the rubber room five days prior to that and I panicked, I was scared and I definitely wasn't thinking clearly." (3T 423/18 to 424/1)

Ms. Mendez-Azzollini intentionally, on November 10, 2015, changed J.D.'s geometry credit from zero (0) credits to five (5) credits. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini purposefully made numerous manipulations in Power School on June 15, 2016 resulting in J.D.'s final "D" geometry grade with five (5) credits. Ms. Mendez-

Azzollini deliberately, pre-meditatively, and wantonly lied to Guidance Supervisor Hamm on June 17, 2016 that J.D. had a passing grade, claiming "everything is fine" and the "wrong screen" was being viewed. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, on at least three (3) occasions on June 20, 2016 at the senior transcript meeting, consciously lied to Superintendent Hackett, Principal Bone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm asserting she did not change J.D.'s geometry grade. And, when she finally acknowledged she made the changes, Ms Mendez- Azzollini "lied" on J.D- the student she was charged to protect.[5]

Accordingly, this record is patently clear. Irvington School District has established by a preponderance of the credible evidence Ms. Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the actions expressed in paragraphs 7 through 16 of the Tenure Charges, Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor.

Does the finding of Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor warrant dismissal or a lessor discipline?

Brenda Mendez-Azzollini, prior to the 2015-2016 school year, served both the District and her students in performing the duties of a guidance counselor (R-9). These duties included, inter alia,

> "(GUIDANCE COUNSELOR
> DUTIES
> The Guidance Counselor is responsible for, but not limited to the following duties:
> 1. Assemble, maintain and interpret information regarding

[5] See Dr. Hackett's rationale for seeking dismissal.(3T 264/12 to 267/5)

2. Plan and supervise advance scheduling and orientations as required

3. Counsel pupils individually and in groups

4. Consult with teachers and other school staff members regarding the adjustment of individual pupils

5. Conduct conferences with parents in order to help them better understand and assist in the educational, vocational, personal and social adjustment needs of their children

6. If necessary, adjust the programs of pupils having difficulty in school

7. Identify pupils who require evaluation by the Child Study Team, collate the data necessary for the referral and refer these pupils to the Team after notification to the child's parents

8. Schedule case conferences between the Team and the faculty

9. Coordinate the implementation of the Child Study Team recommendations in the school

10. Participate in the school testing program and assist in interpreting the test results to parents, pupils and teachers" (R-9)

The District views these duties as requiring ethics and the ability to be trusted, reviewing confidential documents and engaging with children, colleagues, supervision, and parents. If she had not changed J.D.'s grade, or had admitted her mistake, the District would not have sought her dismissal. Dr. Hackett, explained,

> "But she changed the grade so she wouldn't get in trouble. In my world and how I believe you take whatever consequence comes your way when you make a mistake but you do not change a grade and possibly allow a child to get a diploma who has not earned it. You do not do that, you say Dr. Hackett, Ms. Hamm, Ms. Boone-Gibbs, I made a mistake, I never made sure this kid was re-enrolled in geometry. And then I would have to scramble and make it happen. I am not saying it wouldn't have been a consequence for her but it wouldn't have been tenure charges. It wouldn't have been my belief that tenure charges. Tenure charges came from the fact I cannot trust her again." 2T 265/16 to 266/3)

Seeking a lesser discipline than dismissal, Respondent raised defenses and requests for this arbitrator to consider mitigating factors as follow:

1. Failure of the Board to have a written policy on grade changes. This failure, Respondent argues, is a fatal flaw to the tenure charges. The record, however, does not support this position. Rather, testimony revealed all employees recognize documentation is necessary to change grades, and prior approval is required.

2. Weingarten Rights. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini claim her statutory rights were violated is not consistent with this record. Dr. Hackett appropriately stopped the senior transcript meeting, directing Respondent to return with Union representation, after Respondent lied about changing J.D.'s grade. She was not obligated to do so at the commencement of the meeting wherein the transcripts of all the seniors' Respondent counseled were reviewed.

3. Bias and Burdens. Respondent did not proffer any corroborative evidence supporting her inference Dr. Hackett held an inappropriate bias toward her due to the 2013 Settlement of her 2010 Civil Action, J-1. Dr. Hackett hired Ms. Mendez-Azzollini as a guidance counselor in 2004 and approved her request for transfer to the high school in 2014, after Respondent received eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) in settlement. Likewise, Respondent failed to present documentary or testamentary evidence in support of the assertion her duties and work burdens were greater than any other guidance counselor and/or affected her behavior.

Finally, Respondent's suggestion that placement in an elementary school could obviate District concern as these students do not receive grades, is not an appropriate request for mitigation. The district cannot be required to limit its ability to assign Guidance Counselors where needed.

Brenda Mendez-Azzollini's conduct in the school year 2015/2016 cannot be rehabilitated by workshops, professional development courses, or any interventions available to Irvington. Her conduct has broken the level of trust the District expects to rely upon for a guidance counselor to perform requisite duties, R-9.

AWARD

The School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County has established Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the actions expressed in paragraphs 7 through 16 of the Tenure Charges, Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor.

There is insufficient evidence in this record to support a discipline less than dismissal. Accordingly, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in unbecoming conduct constituting just cause for dismissal.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF IVONNE SAAVEDRA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BERGEN, HUDSON COUNTY.

SYNOPSIS

In these consolidated cases, the petitioning Board alleged that respondent, a tenured clerical employee, illegally obtained and disclosed student records, improperly obtained free and reduced lunch benefits for her son, and abused sick leave. Tenure charges were filed with the Office of Administrative Law on November 15, 2011 and January 18, 2012; a criminal complaint alleging, inter alia, official misconduct in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2 was filed by the Hudson County Prosecutor on August 30, 2011. The matter was subsequently held in abeyance and placed on the inactive list. A lengthy procedural course culminated in a Superior Court order in May 2016, resulting in respondent's admission into a pre-trial intervention program (PTI) – a condition of which was that Ms. Saavedra forfeit her public employment with the school district, as well as any future right to public employment. Respondent successfully completed PTI, and the criminal complaint against her was dismissed in January 2017.

The ALJ found that the tenure charges against respondent have been rendered moot by the forfeiture of her position via order of the Superior Court. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the charges against respondent dismissed as moot.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusion that the tenure charges against respondent are moot; as such, there is no justiciable controversy before the Commissioner. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the tenure charges were dismissed as moot.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF IVONNE SAAVEDRA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BERGEN, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of these consolidated matters and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the tenure charges filed against respondent are moot. Respondent forfeited her public employment with the District, as well as any future right to public employment, as a condition of her entry into the pre-trial intervention program. As such, there is no longer a justiciable controversy before the Commissioner.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the tenure charges are hereby dismissed as moot.

Record Closed: April 17, 2017 Decided: April 18, 2017

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY FINDINGS OF FACT

In these consolidated cases, the North Bergen School District, (the District) alleged that Ivonne Saavedra, (Saavedra), a tenured clerical employee, illegally obtained and disclosed student records; improperly obtained free and reduced lunch benefits for her son; and abused sick leave. The New Jersey Department of Education transmitted the tenure charges to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where they were filed on November 15, 2011 and January 18, 2012.

On or about August 30, 2011, the Hudson County Prosecutor filed a criminal complaint against Saavedra alleging official misconduct in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2, and further alleging that she unlawfully took or exercised unlawful control over public documents. In light of the pending criminal charges, and upon transmittal to the OAL, the parties asked that the tenure charges be held in abeyance. The matter was placed on the inactive list.

The criminal matter took a lengthy procedural course, with an appeal ultimately being heard in the New Jersey Supreme Court in November 2014. In a decision dated June 23, 2015, the Court determined that the trial court properly denied Saavedra's motion to dismiss the indictment against her, and the matter was remanded to the trial court. See: State v Saavedra, 222 N.J. 39 (2015).

Via order of the Superior Court dated May 12, 2016, Saavedra was admitted into the pre-trial intervention program (PTI). As a condition of entry into PTI, the judge's order stipulated that Saavedra forfeited her public employment with the District, as well as any future right to public employment. (P-1). Saavedra successfully completed PTI, and the criminal complaint against her was dismissed on January 10, 2017. (P-2). Counsel for the District so advised me via letter dated April 14, 2017.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I CONCLUDE that the tenure charges against Saavedra have been rendered moot by the forfeiture of her position via order of the Superior Court. This matter thus should be dismissed. An action is moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues raised have become academic. For reasons of judicial economy and restraint it is appropriate to refrain from decision-making when an issue presented is hypothetical, judgment cannot grant effective relief, or the parties do not have a concrete adversity of interest. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976); Fox v. Twp. of E. Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 10067-98, Initial Decision (March 19, 1999), aff'd, Comm'r (May 3, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; S.J. v. Bd. of Educ. of Mountain Lakes, EDU 07081-03, Initial Decision (October 7, 2003), aff'd, Comm'r (Nov. 17, 2003), aff'd, St. Bd. (Feb. 3, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Saavedra has forfeited her public employment, rendering the issues raised by the pleadings academic.[1]

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the tenure charges against Saavedra are DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[1] The order of the Superior Court was consistent with the spirit and intent of N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, which provides for forfeiture of public employment upon conviction of a crime of the third degree or higher. Public misconduct is a crime of the second degree. N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2. While PTI is a diversionary program that allowed Saavedra to avoid conviction, clearly forfeiture of her employment with the District was the quid pro quo for admission into PTI. See e.g.: State v. Bender, 80 N.J. 84 (1979).

STEVEN BALDWIN,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – who had been employed as Head Custodian in the respondent Board's school district since May 2004 – contended that his tenure rights were violated when he was reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian in January 2016, and his salary was reduced by the elimination of the additional salary/stipend he had previously received as Head Custodian. The Board denied that its action violated petitioner's tenure rights. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the Board's contention that petitioner is barred from seeking relief from the Commissioner because he failed to file a grievance regarding his reduction in salary is without merit, as is the Board's argument that the petition is time-barred; petitioner in this matter has tenure and the rights associated with that status, which include a right not to suffer a reduction in compensation unless guilty of the offenses statutorily defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3; the "stipend" at issue here was not provided for services that were "extra-curricular" or "extra duty", but rather were part and parcel of petitioner's primary custodial duties; the "stipend" here was not distinguished from his base pay in the annual notices provided to petitioner of his salary for the next school year, and pension contributions were deducted based on his total compensation. The ALJ concluded that the contractual designation of a "stipend" does not override the actual treatment by the Board of the amount of money so designated in the contract. Accordingly, the petitioner's motion for summary decision was granted and the Board's cross-motion was denied. The ALJ ordered the Board to restore petitioner's salary to what he was receiving before his reassignment, with the stipulation that he shall receive that difference only until such time as the salary designated for custodians surpasses the current level designated for Head Custodians, including the so-called "stipend".

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

Record Closed: February 23, 2017 Decided: April 19, 2017

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

Steven Baldwin filed a Verified Petition on April 11, 2016, with the Commissioner of Education in which he complained that the Board of Education of West New York reduced his salary, in violation of his tenure rights, as guaranteed by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. According to the Petition, Baldwin was employed by the Board of Education as a Head Custodian, commencing on May 1, 2004. On January 14, 2016, he was notified that he would be reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian, a position he began working on January 15, 2016. According to his Petition, as a Head Custodian Mr. Baldwin received additional salary/stipend above that he would receive as a custodian. When he was reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian his salary was reduced by the elimination of the additional salary/stipend. It is this reduction from which he seeks relief.

The Board of Education denied that its action violated Mr. Baldwin's tenure rights. The Commissioner transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on June 2, 2016. On December 5, 2016, petitioner Baldwin filed a motion for summary decision. The Board filed its own motion for summary decision on that date as well. The case was assigned to an administrative law judge, however, due to the judge's extensive calendar the matter was reassigned to this judge, sitting on recall, on March 15, 2017, for the purpose of resolving the cross-motions for summary decision. The parties each responded to the cross-motions and then filed replies. In addition, the parties filed a Stipulation of Facts and a Supplemental Stipulation of Facts. This Supplemental Stipulation was received on February 23, 2017, at which time the record closed for the purposes of determination of the motion.

The lengthy Stipulation of Facts, consisting of twenty-one numbered items with attached exhibits, and the Supplemental Stipulation of Facts, consisting of four additional numbered items and exhibits, are incorporated in this decision as exhibits. Additionally, each of the numbered stipulations is adopted herein as FINDINGS OF FACT as if recited in full.

According to the stipulated facts, Mr. Baldwin was employed by the Board beginning May 1, 2004 through June 30, 2004, as a Head Custodian. Thereafter, he was employed by the Board in each of the school years from 2004-2005 through 2015-2016. In each of the years he was again employed as a Head Custodian. The parties agree that Mr. Baldwin held tenure with the Board. Additionally, they agree that according to the contractual agreement between the Board and the West New York Education Association, "Individuals assigned to the position of Head Custodian received a stipend in addition to their annual salary." Exhibit J-20, which is a copy of the Agreement for the period July 1, 2012 through June 30, 2015, contains a provision that provides for a "Head Custodian stipend," which is designated at different levels for "High School" and "Elementary." The Stipulation also identifies a series of letters sent by the Board to Mr. Baldwin during various years which simply advise him that his salary for the year identified in the letter is a specific dollar figure. As an example, the letter sent to Baldwin on April 30, 2014, reads as follows: "Dear Stephen Baldwin: This is to inform you that your salary for the 2014-2015 school year is $41,132."

The parties agree that for the 2015-16 school year Baldwin's base salary was $35,042, plus $1,350, an additional amount designated in the Agreement as a "Black Seal" "stipend" because he has a boiler license. In addition, the Head Custodian "stipend" applicable for him was $4,740.

On January 14, 2016, Baldwin was advised of his reassignment from Head Custodian to Second Shift Custodian at PS#4. His salary was then reduced by the "Head Custodian stipend" in the amount of $4,740 (pro rata). Mr. Baldwin continues to be employed as a custodian by the Board for the 2016-2017 school year, with a base salary of $35,042, plus the boiler license "stipend." The applicable head custodian "stipend" for 2016-2017 is $4,740.[1] The Supplemental Stipulation of Facts provides that

1. The contractual stipend paid to Head Custodians employed by the respondent is included and paid as part of their regular salary check. There is no separate check for the Head Custodian contractual stipend.

2. Standard deductions and withholdings such as taxes and pension contributions, are based on the full amount of the salary checks paid to Head Custodians. The full amount includes base salary plus Head Custodian contractual stipend.

It is also noted that the petitioner did not receive a salary notice for the 2015-2016 school year.

In response to the petitioner's motion for summary decision, the Board initially argues that Mr. Baldwin failed to utilize the administrative remedies provided under the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Education Association. Specifically, the Board points to Article IV, subsection C, which reads as follows

> No employee shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank or compensation or deprived of any professional opportunity without just cause. Any such action asserted by the board, or agent or representative thereof, shall be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in Article 3.

As Mr. Baldwin never filed any grievance concerning the reduction in salary, he is barred from seeking relief from the Commissioner. In addition, the Board contends that the claimant is time-barred, because Article 3 of the Agreement provides that such a grievance must be filed within thirty school days from the event or condition, or from the time that the person knew or should have known about same. As no petition has ever been filed, Mr. Baldwin has waived his right to seek relief relating to the alleged claim.

In addition to these grounds, the Board contends that if the Commissioner asserts jurisdiction to decide this matter despite the failure of the petitioner to utilize the grievance procedure, the matter must be dismissed and the Board granted summary decision. This result is dictated because the Head Custodian stipend is not salary and therefore is not subject to the restriction on the reduction of salary contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3.

In responding to the Board's motion, Mr. Baldwin contends that, since tenure rights are statutory, an allegation of a violation of tenure rights falls within the statutory jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. The grievance procedure contained in the collective bargaining agreement is inapplicable to the dispute. As the Verified Petition was filed with Commissioner within the required ninety days following the Board's action, it was timely filed. Finally, Baldwin asserts that the Board paid him a single salary, one which contained the Head Custodian "stipend" and from which deductions, including pension deductions, were made. Under applicable case law, the petitioner's right to receive that full salary without reduction unless such be based upon statutorily defined grounds is protected by the tenure statute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 provides that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over disputes regarding "Controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." It has been held in a number of cases that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over contractual disputes. Board of Education, East Brunswick Township v. Township Council in East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Decisions involving disputes concerning non-tenured employees which arise under provisions of contracts and which do not involve "statutory educational entitlement" have been held to be outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. However in the present matter, while the contractual provision cited by the Board states that an employee asserting that he has been reduced in compensation shall present a grievance, the employee here has tenure and the rights associated with that status are protected by a statute which clearly involves an "educational entitlement." Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides that "every public school janitor . . . hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended reduce compensation . . . or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense. . . ." Mr. Baldwin's position with the Board, whether characterized as "Head Custodian" or merely as "custodian," most assuredly falls within the definition of "janitor." Thus, his right not to suffer a reduction in compensation unless guilty of the statutorily described offenses is protected by statute. The Commissioner most assuredly has jurisdiction over matters arising under the Tenure Act. While the Legislature has determined to provide for arbitration as the means for resolving at least one aspect of the protections accorded by the tenure, that is, the removal of tenure, at present, matters involving the protections associated with the holding of tenure, such as the right to certain positions or the right to be protected against the reduction of salary, have not been the subject of legislative action reassigning the jurisdiction to resolve such disputes. No authority has been cited by the Board suggesting the ability of parties to a negotiated contract between the Board of Education and an Education Association to oust the Commissioner from jurisdiction over a "dispute arising under the school laws." The rights accorded by the Tenure Act, and the protections thereunder, involve matters of educational expertise which absent some other legislative directions, are within the special expertise of the Commissioner. The Tenure Act defines the specific grounds which allow for reduction of compensation for a tenured employee such as a janitor. The collective bargaining agreement uses different language to describe the grounds upon which such action may be taken. While the contractual "just cause" may well encompass the statutory terminology of "during good behavior . . . neglect, misbehavior or other offense," it is entirely conceivable that the contractual term could incorporate conduct and actions falling outside the appropriate definition of the statutory terms. Therefore, it appears that it is for the Commissioner and not an arbitrator to determine whether a tenured janitor may suffer a reduction in compensation that is otherwise protected by tenure rights. Therefore, the Board's application to dismiss the matter for failure to utilize the grievance procedure is DENIED. [2] Further, I FIND that the Petition was filed with the Commissioner in a timely manner.

Petitioner moves for summary decision based upon his tenured status as a custodian and his contention that the elimination of the money he was paid while serving as a Head Custodian is money protected from reduction due to that tenured status. All those holding the position of "janitor," regardless of how the position is styled, come within the statutory protection. In Barnes, et al. v. Bd. of Ed., City of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45-46 (App. Div. 1964), certif. den. 43 N.J. 450 (1964), the court noted

> It is appellant's contention that the statutory coverage does not extend to the entire janitorial and custodial staff but is limited to the positions specified. Thus, appellant argues that an assistant janitorial supervisor is not covered, nor utility men, nor a groundskeeper.

The court rejected this approach

> Our consideration of the statutes in the light of the principle of liberal construction satisfies us that the Legislature used the terms janitor, custodian, etc., in a generic sense with the intent to include all janitorial and custodial employees.

Thus, petitioner does not argue that he had tenure in a position of Head Custodian, but that as a custodian his tenure right protected him from having his compensation reduced without cause as defined by the statute. The Board's contention, however, is that the additional money petitioner earned while acting as a Head Custodian is not part of that compensation protected by the petitioner's tenured status as a janitor.

[2] Of course, no arbitration of this dispute has occurred, so there is no concern that resort to the Commissioner is providing the petitioner with a second chance to avoid the reduction. No issue of collateral estoppel, or any concern about conflicting decisions, affects this case.

In Reinertsen v. Bd. of Ed., Tp. of East Brunswick, www/libweb/collections/oal/final/edu06574-07.pdf, the administrative law judge discussed a similar contention that money paid to Reinertsen as a head custodian was a stipend, and not protected by his tenured status.

> the petitioner has stated that this stipend was actually part of his base salary and was subject to pension payments. (Petitioner's letter brief in opposition to Respondent's Motion, Feb. 12, 1998). If this is shown to be correct, then the additional money is properly included as part of petitioner's compensation, and in order to be reduced the Board of Education must comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 (reduction in compensation allowed only as the result of a reduction in force, or for misbehavior, neglect or other offense) and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq. (hearing with the appropriate due process). The Board did not so comply.
> The Board of Education's argument that the additional money was merely a stipend must fail. A stipend is more closely associated with compensation to employees providing additional services than those normally included within their regular employment duties. For example, a teacher who doubles as a coach of a school's sports team or as a yearbook editor/supervisor is often paid by way of stipend. In these circumstances, the money is not considered part of the teacher's salary and is not subject to pension payments. . . . the petitioner in the present case was provided additional compensation for services directly related to his primary employment as a custodian. . . . the petitioner claims that the extra compensation was subject to pension payments. Pursuant to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et seq., pension payments are deducted from only "salary" of all employees who are members of the fund. See N.J.S.A. 18A:66-107(a). Since it is found that the "stipend" was subject to pension payments, the money should be properly regarded as salary. Any reduction of this salary cannot be imposed by the Board of Education upon the petitioner except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense, or reduction in force, and only then after a hearing. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3.

The Commissioner affirmed the judge's decision. Here too, according to the stipulated facts, standard deductions, including pension contributions, were made based upon the "full amount of the salary check paid to Head Custodians. The full amount includes base salary plus Head Custodian contractual stipend." And the Board made no distinction in its annual letters to Baldwin announcing his compensation for the coming year between the base salary and the stipend.

The Board attempts to distinguish Reinertsen because there is no mention in that decision of any collective bargaining agreement which, as here, sets out a stipend for the Head Custodian position.[3] However, as Judge Reback noted in Reinertsen, and as here, this "stipend" is not paid for activities that are unrelated to or outside of Baldwin's "primary employment as a custodian" and pension deductions were taken from the entire compensation, not only from the "base salary." The letters noticing Baldwin as to the compensation refer only to "salary" and do not separate out from that term, the so-called "stipend." While it is unclear whether there was actually a contract in Reinertsen that established the "stipend," the existence of the agreement here does not support a different outcome from that in Reinertsen.

The Board relies on two cases. Schipman and Zeitz v. Piscataway Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1989 S.L.D. 2010 (May 25, 1989) is not helpful, for the claim there was of tenure in a janitorial supervisor position, but here petitioner does not assert that he has tenure as a "Head Custodian," but only as a custodian. He claims that the salary he received is protected from reduction without resort to the provisions of the statute due to his "custodian" tenure, not through some claim based upon his being able to maintain himself through tenure as a Head Custodian. Dignan v. Bd. of Ed., Rumson-Fair Haven Regional School Dist., 1971 S.L.D. 336, aff'd. 1974 S.L.D. 1376 (State Board of Education); aff'd. 1975 S.L.D. 1083 (App. Div.) involved a claim regarding an extra-curricular assignment as a faculty advisor. The decision determined that there was no tenure protection for such extra duty assignments. Again, here, Baldwin's work as a Head Custodian was not "extra-curricular," was not "extra duty," but was a part of his "primary employment as a custodian." Neither of these cases affects the weight to be given here to the Reinertsen decision.

Based upon the stipulated facts, I FIND that Mr. Baldwin was for many years assigned as a Head Custodian and was paid a salary that included as a part thereof, what the agreement between the Board and the Education Association referred to as a stipend for the Head Custodian position. The Board provided notice yearly to Baldwin of the "salary" to be paid to him for the next school year, without distinguishing between portions of that "salary" such as "base pay" and "stipend." The Board deducted pension contributions from this "salary," again without carving out from that from which said contributions were taken any amount designated as "stipend" or otherwise. The Board determined in January 2016, that Baldwin would be reassigned to a position as Second Shift Custodian PS#4. When he was reassigned, his "salary" was reduced by an amount equal to the "Head Custodian Stipend," pro-rated from $4,740. The Board did so without resorting to the grounds or the process provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 for reduction in compensation of a tenured "janitor." ("neglect, misbehavior or other offense").

I CONCLUDE that the Board's action cannot stand. The contractual designation of a "stipend" does not override the actual treatment by the Board of the amount of money so designated in the contract. Clearly, the case law, Reinertsen, supra, existing at the time that Baldwin was employed by the Board as a Head Custodian, May 1, 2004, and thereafter, taught that a stipend was something other than what Baldwin was given and was intended for services unlike those he provided, services that were neither "extra-curricular" nor "extra duty," but were instead part and parcel of his "primary" custodial duties.

Conclusion and Order

I CONCLUDE that the petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the respondent's cross-motion for summary decision is DENIED. IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Board shall restore to Mr. Baldwin such salary as he has not received since his reassignment, the difference between the custodian salary and the Head Custodian salary, including the so-called "stipend." However, I agree with the Board that Baldwin is not entitled to receive the difference between the salary designated for a custodian and that for a Head Custodian indefinitely. He shall receive that difference until such time as the salary designated for custodians surpasses the current level designated for Head Custodians, including the so-called "stipend." See Potocki v. Bd. of Ed. of the Princeton Reg' Sch. Dist., http//www/libweb/collections/oal/final/edu06574-07.pdf.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

In October 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her daughter, M.S., is not entitled to a free public education in Neptune schools for the 2016-2017 school year. Petitioner contended that she resides in Neptune, but was staying temporarily at one of her rental properties in Asbury Park when the school district conducted a residency investigation. The Board argued that A.P. does not meet the residency requirements to be considered legally domiciled in Neptune Township, and that M.S. should be enrolled in Asbury Park schools. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to the petition.

The ALJ found that: petitioner failed to appear for a scheduled pre-hearing telephone conference on February 21, 2017, despite receiving appropriate notice of same; the matter subsequently proceeded, ex-parte, on the merits through certifications; petitioner failed to demonstrate that she is a resident of Neptune; M.S. still attends Neptune schools; petitioner has not requested a hearing before the Board; as of April 11, 2017, petitioner had attended school for 119 days during the current academic year; and the Board's certification indicates that the reimbursable tuition rate is $70 per day. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is not legally domiciled in Neptune, and M.S. is ineligible to receive a free public education in Neptune schools. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the respondent's motion to dismiss and ordered the petitioner to reimburse the Board in the total amount of $8,330 for tuition owed through April 11, 2017, and $70 per school day attended thereafter.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, and directed the Board to provide petitioner with a board hearing. In so deciding, the Commissioner found that the Board failed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3 when it issued a final notice of ineligibility, removing M.S. from the District without a hearing, rather than the required preliminary notice of ineligibility that must "provide for a hearing before the district board of education prior to a final decision on removal." The Commissioner accordingly dismissed the petition as premature.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1]

Petitioner is challenging the Board's determination that she is not a resident of Neptune, and therefore her daughter is ineligible to attend Neptune Township schools. Petitioner received a final notice of ineligibility from the Board on October 7, 2016, disenrolling M.S. from the District and advising petitioner that she had 21 days to appeal the determination with the Commissioner in order for her daughter to remain enrolled during the pendency of the appeal. Petitioner timely filed the instant residency petition.[2]

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3 explains the procedure for removing a currently enrolled student from a district. Specifically, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3(b)(1) requires the chief school administrator to issue a preliminary notice of ineligibility that must "provide for a hearing before the district board of education prior to a final decision on removal."

[1] Petitioner's exceptions were filed out of time, and there is no indication that petitioner served the Board or copied the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18. Accordingly, petitioner's exceptions were not considered by the Commissioner.

[2] The Commissioner notes that although the ALJ made a determination of tuition owed by the petitioner – which was based on a supplemental certification submitted by the respondent Board during ex-parte proceedings – the Board has never filed a counterclaim for tuition.

In this matter, the Board did not send a preliminary notice of ineligibility providing petitioner with the right to a board hearing. Instead, the Board provided only a final notice of ineligibility, removing M.S. from the District without a hearing.[3] As the Board failed to provide petitioner with the right to a board hearing, petitioner is still entitled to an opportunity to present evidence to the Board regarding her domicile and her daughter's eligibility to attend school in the District.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is rejected. The Board is directed to provide petitioner with a board hearing, and the petition is hereby dismissed as premature.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

[3] The final notice of ineligibility is dated October 7, 2017, the same date that the Superintendent certified that the Board first became aware that petitioner and M.S. were not residing within the District. As such, it is apparent that the final notice of ineligibility is the first communication that the Board sent to petitioner regarding this matter.

[4] The Commissioner reminds petitioner that at the board hearing, it is her burden to prove that she is a domiciliary of Neptune.

[5] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

On January 13, 2017, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On January 31, 2017, the OAL mailed notice of the pre-hearing telephone conference in this matter for February 21, 2017. The OAL dispatched the notice to petitioner's address in Neptune, the address petitioner maintains is her residence for purposes of this residency appeal. The petitioner failed to contact the OAL to provide a telephone number to contact her on the day of the prehearing telephone conference, and did not call or appear on said date. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) noted the failure to appear on February 21, 2017. The petitioner did not request any adjournment. The OAL obtained petitioner's telephone number from the respondent and contacted her on February 21, 2017, leaving a voice mail to contact this office. Petitioner made no contact as of February 23, 2017. On February 23, 2017, the ALJ wrote to petitioner at the Neptune, as well as at an Asbury Park address, paperwork of the investigation revealed as a potential residence. The correspondence advised of the failure of petitioner to contact the OAL with a means to communicate with her; and the fact that petitioner filed no response to respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of answer. The ALJ advised petitioner in the correspondence that if petitioner provided no response by March 3, 2017, respondent's motion would be granted. The ALJ also requested, despite the fact, that the motion called for dismissal on the failure to exhaust administrative remedies, for the respondent to provide a certification as to the amount the respondent sought in recoverable education costs. The petitioner did contact the OAL on March 10, 2017, advising she did not receive the February 23, 2017, letter at either address. Petitioner then advised she did not oppose the motion. The ALJ noted the failure to appear. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1.1-14.4(d), the matter proceed on the merits ex-parte. Additional certifications regarding the number of days and cost per day for student educational reimbursement. The hearing closed on April 18, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I have reviewed the April 11, 2017, certification of Dr. Tami Crader, Superintendent of Schools and I FIND:

1. Petitioner failed to appear for the telephone pre-hearing conference and has represented to the OAL that she does not oppose the position of the respondent. Petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she is a resident of Neptune.

2. Petitioner's child still attends Neptune Township School district as she has not requested a hearing before the board, and accordingly, the board has taken no action. As of April 11, 2017, petitioner has attended 119 days this school year.

3. Respondent's reimbursable tuition is $70 per day, as of April 11, 2017, the total reimbursable tuition is $8,330, accruing at the rate of $70 per school date thereafter.

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, it is on this 19th day of April 2017, ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss the petition in lieu of answer is GRANTED, on default for failure to respond to the motion.

On April 18, 2017 respondent submitted a supplemental certification of the tuition reimbursement amount. It is on this 19th day of April 2017, ORDERED the respondent is entitled to be reimbursed from petitioner the amount of $8,330.00 for tuition at the rate of $ 70.00 per diem for a current total of 119 days as of April 11, 2017; and continuing at the rate of $70.00 per day until petitioner removes her child from the school. This Initial Decision resolves all issues in this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners appealed the determination of the respondent Board that their son, M.K., was ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioners contended that they reside at an address within the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional school district. However, petitioners also asserted that M.K. – the mother of the minor child – frequently stays overnight at the home of her mother, the grandmother of the minor child, in South Bound Brook because the grandmother has chronic health conditions and requires assistance. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner M.K. and her son actually reside in South Bound Brook, which is outside of the respondent's school district. The Board filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the period of M.K.'s ineligible attendance in the district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony of the respondent Board's residency investigator was credible and persuasive, while the testimony of the petitioners and their witnesses was inconsistent and lacked credibility; the Board completed a residency investigation in this matter during the 2015-2016 school year, the results of which indicated that although the petitioners claim to reside in Bridgewater, M.K. – the mother of minor child, M.K. – resides in South Bound Brook in order to care for her ailing mother; M.K. – the father of minor child, M.K. – had substance abuse issues, and was not able to care for his child during the period in question; and the minor child therefore was domiciled in South Bound Brook, with his mother, during the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that M.K. was not entitled to a free public education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and that the Board is therefore entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by the petitioner in the amount of $38,329.20 for the period of M.K.'s ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons expressed therein. The petitioner was ordered to pay tuition in the amount of $38,329.20 for M.K.'s ineligible enrollment in the District for the 2015-2016 school year.

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners M.K. and M.K., are the mother and father of the minor child, M.K., who are challenging the determination made by the Board of Education (Board) of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District (District) that he did not reside in the District. The District filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days that the minor child, M.K., attended school in the District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 16, 2015, the District notified the petitioners that their son, M.K., was ineligible to attend the schools of the District due to non-residency. A hearing was held on November 2, 2015, and the committee recommended that the minor child, M.K., be removed from enrollment in the District. Petitioners appealed the decision. On December 23, 2015, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Throughout 2016, the parties made several attempts to exchange discovery. The difficulties in exchanging discovery required multiple conference calls with the court in an effort to resolve the conflicts. A hearing was held on January 4, 2017, but the record remained open for the parties to submit written closing summations. The record closed on March 8, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

M.K. and M.K. are the parents of minor child, M.K. M.K. and M.K. married in 2005 and resided in his parents' basement in Bridgewater, Somerset County. D.K. is the maternal grandmother of the minor child, M.K., and resides in South Bound Brook, which is outside the District. For the 2015-2016 school year, M.K. was enrolled in second grade in the District. The Board completed a residency investigation and conducted a residency hearing on November 2, 2015. Respondent filed its notice of final determination of ineligibility on November 16, 2015, determining that M.K. does not reside in the District. As a consequence, the parents of minor child ,M.K., appealed the determination. The tuition rate of reimbursement as filed with the State for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

The preceding statements are not in dispute as they are from the records and testimony of the parties and are hereby FOUND as FACT.

TESTIMONY

For petitioner

M.K. is the mother of the minor child, M.K., who is an eight-year-old second grader at Milltown Primary School. She testified that she and her husband have lived on P. Street in Bridgewater, New Jersey since they started dating in 1995. The home is owned by her In-laws. In 2005, they were married and M.K. was born in 2008. They live in the basement which consists of one room, with a kitchen and bathroom. The basement was built and refinished in 2005.

The residence at South Bound Brook is owned by her mother. She testified that she stays at the South Bound Brook address to care for her mother because she has pulmonary edema. She alleges that in the middle of the night, at 3:00 a.m. or 4:00 a.m., the minor child, M.K., wakes up screaming, wanting his mother. She claims that it is a result of separation anxiety. As a result, M.K. is required to go to the Bridgewater address, pick him up and drive to the South Bound Brook address where they would leave to go to school. This happens four to five times a week. The child begins each night with dad and the in-laws in Bridgewater, and then after transport, spends only approximately two hours in South Bound Brook.

On cross-examination, she acknowledged that the answer to interrogatory number twenty-seven, indicates that the separation anxiety happens ten times in two months, not the four-five times per week as she testified. Also, a handwritten correspondence from her, dated October 5, 2015, never mentions the child being transported back-and-forth between residences. (R-5). Additionally, there is a storage rental agreement, dated March 23, 2016, that has mother's address in South Bound Brook not Bridgewater. Finally, her Jeep SUV and a Black Mazda SUV are registered at the South Bound Brook address.

M.K. is the father of the minor child, M.K., and the husband of M.K. He testified that he has lived on P. Street in Bridgewater for forty-three years (his entire life.) He lives in the basement with his wife and child. His uncle finished the entire basement in 2005, so that the family would have a place to live.

He noted that he did not live in the house from June 17, 2015, through December 8, 2015, because of addiction and that he was involved in a court-ordered rehab. Before June 17, 2015, he had addiction "issues" and would not necessarily be home. However, he or his wife brought minor child, M.K., to school. On some occasions, his son would "freak out" at approximately 3:00 a.m. through 6:00 a.m. and his wife would be required to pick him up and transport him to the South Bound Brook address.

On cross-examination he was ordered by Drug Court to attend Integrity House, which is an aftercare drug treatment facility. He explained that he was not home before June 17, 2015, because of the drug addiction. He "was not there mentally or physically."

D.K. is the grandmother of the minor child, M.K. She has lived at the same address in Bridgewater for forty-five years with her husband. She explained that her son and daughter-in-law have lived in the basement since 1996. Sometimes the minor child, M.K., would leave to go to the South Bound Brook address in the middle of the night because he has anxiety for his mother. He would wake-up screaming "I need mommy."

On cross-examination, she testified that the minor child was never at the South Bound Brook residence and the anxiety incidents would occur fourteen to fifteen times a month.

J.K., Jr. is the grandfather of the minor child, M.K., and the husband of D.K. They reside in Bridgewater with their son, daughter-in-law and grandson. He explained that the minor child, M.K., is picked up from school in the afternoon by him, five days a week. Then he does homework and eats dinner and goes to bed in Bridgewater. "His mother would come to get him if there was a problem," but M.K. never goes to school from the South Bound Brook address.

Walter Kalicki (Kalicki) has been with the District for eighteen years as the Attendance Officer. In September 2015, he received an anonymous email regarding the minor child, M.K., and his mother living in South Bound Brook. (R-1). As a result, he started a residency investigation on them for the South Bound Brook address. (R-2).

The investigation consisted of sixty occasions of surveillance. On thirty-five occasions, the mother and minor child were observed at the South Bound Brook address. On each of those occasions, the child was taken directly to the school in Bridgewater. Twelve occasions were during the summer (no school), seven occasions the child was absent from school and on three occasions he was late to school. On two occasions he was able to view a dismissal. On May 9, 2016 and May 10, 2016, the minor child, M.K., was picked-up by his mother and was observed being dropped off at South Bound Brook address. Two family vehicles, a Jeep SUV and a Black Mazda SUV are registered at the South Bound Brook address, not Bridgewater. It is his opinion that the student, M.K., was not domiciled in Bridgewater but at the residence in South Bound Brook.

He recalled an incident when he spoke to the mother of the minor child, M.K., on the phone and she said that she lived in Bridgewater with the family but then received the letter (R-5) which was contrary to her story. He also recalled another incident with the mother of the minor child, M.K., where he was seen during surveillance. He stated that the mother speedily changed lanes and got behind his vehicle and tailgated him for a distance then honked and waved at him. She then proceeded to the Milltown School and dropped him off. It was obvious to him that she recognized him.

Finally, he indicated that the minor child, M.K., attended the entire school year (180 days) and the tuition rate for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

On cross-examination, he conceded that residency is the domicile where the child puts his head down at night. In this case, he does not know where the child puts his head down at night. It is possible that the child slept at Bridgewater because his surveillance started at 7:00 a.m., so he does not know what happened before 7:00 a.m. Also, it was explained that vehicles are registered to M.K.'s mother and leased, so insurance required that the vehicles be registered at the South Bound Brook address.

FINDINGS OF FACT

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J.Super. 1 (App. Div.1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone

Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After hearing the testimony and reviewing the evidence, I make the following findings of fact:

For the 2015-2016 school year, the minor child, M.K., was enrolled in second grade in the District. After receiving an anonymous complaint, the Board completed a residency investigation and conducted a residency hearing on November 2, 2015. The results of which were that the parents of the minor child, M.K., claimed to reside in Bridgewater, Somerset County. M.K., the mother of the minor child, M.K., resides in South Bound Brook which is outside the District. She resides at that location so that she may take care of her ailing mother. The father of the minor child had substance abuse issues and "was not there mentally or physically." As a result, the minor child, M.K., resided with his mother in the South Bound Brook residence because he had separation anxiety and the residence in South Bound Brook provided a more stable environment for the child. The tuition rate of reimbursement as filed with the State for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

The testimony of respondent's witness was especially credible and persuasive. He did not embellish his investigative findings and in fact, conceded the point that it was possible that the child slept at Bridgewater because his surveillance started at 7:00 a.m., so he does not know what happened before 7:00 a.m.

Conversely, the petitioners' witnesses' testimony was not credible in the manner in which it was given. Their own testimony assisted the respondent in proving the facts of the case by a preponderance of the evidence. The witnesses failed to give a concise number of days in which the minor child would experience episodes of "separation anxiety". In fact they all testified to a different frequency and the inconsistency made the testimony by each, suspect.

A logical assembly of piecemeal facts, as testified to by the petitioners, was that due to the father, M.K.'s substance abuse, the mother would keep the minor child with her at the South Bound Brook residence. The undersigned believes that the petitioners brought together the respondent's case quite well in establishing the real facts.

It was obvious that the petitioners attempted to "sell" their version of the facts to the undersigned. On several occasions, the individuals that had already testified were cautioned by the court to not "coach" a witness that was testifying on the witness stand. This detracted from any modicum of credibility.

Therefore, I FIND that the minor child, M.K., was domiciled outside the District in South Bound Brook. Accordingly, I FIND that M.K. became ineligible to attend school in the District for the 2015-2016 school year. I FURTHER FIND, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that respondent filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the days M.K. attended the District ineligible for the 2015-2016 school year. As such, the District must establish the cost of tuition and the number of days M.K. attended the District's schools when he was ineligible to do so. Testimony was uncontroverted and therefore, I FIND that the per-pupil cost for a student to attend school in the district for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day equaling $38,329.20 per annum.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

At issue is whether minor child, M.K., was entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 518 (1999).

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

The record reflects that the minor child, M.K., attended school within the district for the 2015-2016 school year while domiciled outside of the District. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the minor child, M.K., was not entitled to a free public education in the district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition "for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per-pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced." The uncontested record reflects that the actual cost of M.K.'s attendance in-district was $212.94 per day equaling $38,329.20 per annum. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by the petitioner in the amount of $38,329.20. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioners, pay respondent, Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District, Somerset County, tuition in the total amount of $38,329.20 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that the District's determination that the minor child, M.K., was ineligible to attend school while domiciled outside the District is hereby AFFIRMED. Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF PATRICIA FABRIZIO,	:
UNION COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
COMMISSION, UNION COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately filed disclosure statements after the issuance of its February 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's March 28, 2017 meeting, and it therefore recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor instituted an appeal – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4 – of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, the respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF PATRICIA FABRIZIO	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
UNION COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION,* UNION COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO FILE PERSONAL/RELATIVE AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS
	:	DOCKET NO.: D05-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on February 28, 2017, and mailed on March 1, 2017 through regular and certified mail, return receipt requested, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the Order. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a school official who was elected or appointed after April 30, 2016 and, therefore, required to file Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of election or appointment. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated January 10, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by January 25, 2017 would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by January 25, 2017, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on February 28, 2017. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent filed her completed Disclosure Statements on March 7, 2017. Respondent also filed a response to the OTSC, but did not dispute that her Disclosure Statements were not timely filed.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on March 28, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

In December 2016, petitioner S.R. filed a pro-se residency appeal contesting the respondent Board's determination that Z.K. was not entitled to a free public education in South Orange-Maplewood Schools. A hearing date was scheduled for April 25, 2017.

The ALJ reported that prior to the hearing, respondent's attorney advised that Z. K. was withdrawn from the school district on April 6, 2017, and the Board was withdrawing its counterclaim for back tuition. After confirming with petitioner that Z.K. was no longer in the district, the ALJ concluded that this matter was no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Commissioner. Petitioner has withdrawn Z.K. from the District and the Board has withdrawn its counterclaim for back tuition.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. It is therefore ORDERED that this matter be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: S.R. o/b/o Z.K. v. South Orange – Maplewood Board of Education
OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2179-17N
Agency Ref. No. 6-1/17

Dear Judge Candido:

This firm represents the Board of Education of the School District of South Orange and Maplewood in the above-referenced matter. The case is currently scheduled for hearing before Your Honor on April 25, 2017. By way of brief background, S.R., the parent of adult student Z.K., attempted to enroll the student in the District as an affidavit pupil. The enrollment request was denied by the District due to the student's failure to meet the standard for enrollment as an affidavit pupil. This appeal followed.

On April 6, 2017, the student withdrew from the District. He is not currently enrolled in the District nor is he attending the District's schools during the pendency of this appeal. Therefore, it is respectfully requested that Petitioner officially withdraw her Petition of Appeal, and/or Your Honor mark this matter as "withdrawn" or "dismissed," as appropriate, since Petitioner's challenge to the Board's determination is now moot. There is also no need to hold a hearing in this case.

Additionally, in light of the student's withdrawal from the District and, provided that the matter is withdrawn or dismissed, the Board will withdraw its concurrent counterclaim for any back tuition. Note that should the student return to the District or reenroll using a District address, the District reserves its right to investigate Petitioner's residency status in the future, if necessary.

she confirmed that her son is no longer in the District. I asked that she send over a

NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In May 2016, petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that he had not met the requirements for issuance of a Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility (CE). Specifically, petitioner did not achieve a cumulative grade point average of 2.75 in his baccalaureate program, which is required to receive the CE. The SBE filed a motion to dismiss with the Commissioner of Education, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case in June 2016.

The ALJ reported that petitioner failed to respond to a previously scheduled telephone conference in this matter on March 16, 2017. Subsequently, notice was mailed to petitioner, advising that he had missed the telephone conference, and instructing that he had until April 7, 2017 to provide a written explanation of his failure to appear; otherwise, petitioner's appeal would be dismissed. As of the date of the ALJ's Initial Decision, no response had been received. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petitioner no longer wishes to proceed and ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that this matter is appropriately dismissed for failure to attend the scheduled telephone conference without explanation. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner finds that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) appropriately dismissed the matter – in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 – because petitioner failed to attend a prescheduled telephone conference on March 16, 2017, notwithstanding the fact that he received advanced notice of same. Furthermore, petitioner failed to provide any explanation for his failure to participate in the conference call despite being provided the opportunity to do so, and being advised that the petition of appeal would be dismissed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 should he fail to respond to the ALJ's correspondence.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

INITIAL DECISION

DISMISSAL

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9468-16

AGENCY DKT. NO. 140-5/16

CORY PISKIN,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,

Respondent.

Cory Piskin, petitioner, pro se

Kathryn Duran, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Christopher S. Porrino, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 8, 2017 Decided: April 25, 2017

BEFORE LISA JAMES-BEAVERS, ALJ:

This matter arises out of petitioner Cory Piskin's challenge to the decision by respondent New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) to deny his application for a Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility (CE) due to his not meeting all of the certification requirements. On December 10, 2015, the Board considered petitioner's appeal. On January 21, 2016, the Board adopted a written decision unanimously denying petitioner's request and determining that petitioner did not satisfy the minimum GPA requirement. On May 4, 2016, petitioner appealed. The Board filed a motion to dismiss on June 22, 2016 with the Commissioner of Education. On June 27, 2016, the Commissioner transmitted the matter as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Petitioner filed a responsive letter dated August 16, 2016 in opposition to the Board's motion. On October 31, 2016, the Court denied the Board's motion to dismiss and proposed hearing dates to the parties. On November 9, 2016, Heidi Piskin, petitioner's mother, wrote the Court asking that petitioner be permitted to rely on the written documentation already submitted in lieu of a hearing. In a letter to Ms. Piskin dated November 22, 2016, the Court agreed to do so. On November 29, 2016, the Court received a letter from DAG Duran asking if petitioner would be submitting additional evidence and asking permission for the Board to refile its motion. A telephone conference was held on January 13, 2017. The Court scheduled a follow-up conference call for March 16, 2017. Petitioner was provided notice by regular mail at the address provided. On the scheduled date, petitioner could not be reached. The Court sent a letter to petitioner on March 17, 2017 advising that he missed the telephone call and that he had until April 7, 2017 to provide a written explanation for his failure to appear or his appeal may be dismissed. To date, the Court has not received a response.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that petitioner no longer wishes to proceed and ORDER that this petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Discipline Board / Policy 3150

The Board of Education directs all teaching staff members to observe statutes of the State of New Jersey, rules of the State Board of Education, policies of this Board, and duly promulgated administrative rules and regulations governing staff conduct. Violations of those statutes, rules, and policies will be subject to discipline.

National Education Association Code of Ethics / Board Policy 3211

The NEA Code of Ethics has been codified by the Board as Board Policy 3211-Code of Ethics. The policy provides:

COUNT ONE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's retaliatory conduct, as demonstrated in his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he threatened to lower K.P.'s grade due to her mother questioning his lesson planning, violates Standard Eleven[2] by creating an emotionally harassing environment for K.P. Threatening retaliation against students is at odds with his professional obligation to foster a safe and healthy learning environment. As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position to protect the students at HCRHS, and ensure they are free from retaliation.

COUNT TWO-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

When Dr. Allen told Ms. Batista, his direct supervisor, "F you" in his May 6, 2016, email, he violated Standard Eleven by displaying open hostility and disrespect for a supervisor, in the virtual presence of other colleagues, and a parent, D.P. In doing so, he evidenced his refusal to work cooperatively and productively with his colleagues, and conducted himself in a professionally irresponsible manner by copying D.P. on his email tirade.

COUNT THREE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential information regarding K.P. and C.N. to his wife, in his May 6, 2016, email violates Standard Eleven. Dr. Allen failed to maintain student confidentiality, ultimately exposing C.N. to harassment by her peers.

In fact, Dr. Allen purposely and knowingly shared confidential student information to his wife on multiple occasions, knowing full well that the law requires him to keep this information confidential. His behavior in this regard served no purpose other than to spread gossip for his own gratification. Dr. Allen's behavior makes it unreasonable for the Board to continue trusting him with confidential student information.

COUNT FOUR-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen not only disclosed student information in his multiple email communications to his wife, he often spoke in a derisive and pejorative manner about his students, in violation of Standard Eleven. Dr. Allen referred to a student as "annoying" and deserving of a bad grade. He questioned C.L.'s parenting ability and C.N.'s character merely because C.L. questioned her child's progress in his class. Even more troubling is his email to M.W., apparently expressing concern for her son, which he then forwarded to his wife saying "haha" and later seemed to laugh about that student's bad grade.

Dr. Allen's unprofessional behavior in this regard makes it impossible to ask parents to trust Dr. Allen's judgment, and leave their own children's educational well-being in his hands. His behavior deteriorates the safe, healthy, and emotionally protective learning environment that he is obligated to foster, and which HCRHS strives to maintain.

COUNT FIVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his failure to complete lesson plans for AP Chemistry, subsequent to the AP exam, violates Standard Eleven, which tasks him with understanding his professional responsibilities "as reflected in constitutional provisions, statutes, regulations, policies, and collective negotiations agreements." Dr. Allen is the only AP teacher who is refusing to

COUNT TEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3281 - Inappropriate Staff Conduct)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he told Ms. Batista, his direct supervisor, "F you" violates Board Policy 3281-Inappropriate Staff Conduct, which provides "The Board strongly believes that school staff members have the public's trust and confidence to protect the well-being of all pupils attending the school district" and further provides:

- Inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district
- School staff's conduct in completing their professional responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times. School staff shall not make inappropriate comments to pupils or about pupils and shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils

Dr. Allen's palpable disrespect for his supervisor, and his use of profanity multiple times, in the virtual presence of other colleagues, and a parent, D.P., and in response to a mundane parent inquiry demonstrate clearly inappropriate conduct, which should not be tolerated.

Dr. Allen's conduct was knowing and deliberate, as evidenced by his email to Sean Chappe, saying "See you in court" with a smile. Dr. Allen's email demonstrates that his tirade was not the result of a momentary loss of temper or professionalism, but rather a calculated and knowing exposure of his disdain for his colleagues. His behavior undermines the public's trust and confidence, and erodes the professional environment at HCRHS.

COUNT ELEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3150-Discipline)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated in the foregoing paragraphs, violates Board Policy 3150- Discipline.

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential student information violates the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA"), New Jersey Statutes, New Jersey Administrative Code, as well as Board Policy. Dr. Allen's violation of the aforementioned laws has caused exposure and embarrassment to a student, and compromises the public's trust in the Board.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position.

COUNT TWELVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3360-Acceptable Use of District Technology)

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential student information via his HCRHS email, as well as his profane and disrespectful tirade toward his supervisor, violates Board Policy 3360- Acceptable Use of District Technology.

Dr. Allen's conduct violates both State and Federal confidentiality laws, as set forth herein. Further, Dr. Allen used his HCRHS email account to transmit vulgar, rude, inflammatory, threatening, and disrespectful content to Ms. Batista, and D.P., in his May 6th email tirade.

Dr. Allen's conduct in violating Board Policy 3360-Acceptable Use of Technology renders him guilty of unbecoming conduct, and requires his removal from his tenured position.

COUNT THIRTEEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities)

Dr. Allen's refusal to teach AP chemistry after the AP exam, combined with his failure to have emergency lesson plans on file, failure to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refusal to use common assessments violate Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities.

Dr. Allen's conduct in failing to teach or have lesson plans subsequent to the AP Chemistry exam is an abdication of his professional responsibilities. Further, his emergency lesson plans were determined to be non-existent, and contained the name of his 2014-2015 students. Finally, by failing to provide lesson plans and tests to his ICS teacher, Dr. Allen has failed in his professional responsibility to 504 and IEP students, and compromised the Board's ability to fulfill its legal obligations to these students.

Accordingly, Dr. Allen's conduct in violation of Board Policy 3270 constitutes conduct unbecoming, requiring his removal from his tenured position.

BACKGROUND

Dr. Richard (Dan) Allen is a tenured member of the Science Department at Hunterdon Central Regional High School (HCRHS), teaching Advanced Placement Chemistry ("AP Chemistry") and CP (College Prep) Chemistry during the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen began teaching for the school district at the beginning of the 2004-2005 school year. Dr. Allen gained tenure in his position as of October 5, 2007.

Dr. Allen has received a variety of training, including annual training via computer on the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA") for the past four (4) years. Dr. Allen has received satisfactory or better evaluations throughout his career at HCRHS. Dr. Allen received a written reprimand in 2012 after he suggested to parents at a Back to School Night that Superintendent Christina Steffner's motivation for increasing the number of students taking the AP exam was tied to her compensation.

During the 2014-2015 school year, HCRHS changed from a "semester block schedule" to an "A/B block schedule." This resulted in a significant change for AP teachers because they previously taught their courses over either a half year or three quarter year period. Before the 2014-2015 school year, the District's semester block schedule resulted in completion of the AP Chemistry class and curriculum a few weeks before the national AP exam that is given during the first week in May each year. Beginning in the 2014-2015 school year, the District adopted and implemented an A/B block scheduling model that resulted in students continuing in the same class through the entire school year. Under the new schedule, AP courses were taught over the course of the entire school year, including the portion of the school year after the national AP exam. As a result, teachers who taught AP classes were required to develop a curriculum for the classes after the AP exam in early May until the end of the school year. AP teachers were provided with support and training to prepare them for this change. Science Supervisor Karen Batista testified that in preparation for the schedule change, AP science teachers were given first priority at summer curriculum writing money, given access to a teacher forum through the College Board website, and offered the opportunity to observe AP teachers in other districts using the A/B block schedule. Preparing AP teachers for the schedule changes was discussed at faculty meetings in Professional Learning Communities ("PLCs"), as well as at department meetings.

For the 2014-2015 school year, Dr. Allen developed a series of research projects and associated assignments and presentations, but found that most students did not work up to their potential and did not produce good work. So, for the 2015-2016 school year, Dr. Allen planned to show a series of video lectures on chemistry topics that related to those topics covered by the AP Chemistry curriculum. Initially, Dr. Allen had not planned to require graded assignments associated with the lectures, but after showing the first lecture had determined that he needed to do so in order to make sure the class paid attention. As of May 6, 2016, Dr. Allen had not advised the class that there would be graded assignments based upon the video lecture series.

The charges arise primarily out of the events that occurred on and around May 6, 2016 and shortly thereafter.

During the 2015-2016 school year, Students K.P. and C.N. were students in one of Dr. Allen's two AP Chemistry classes. Neither student excelled and both of their parents were in touch with Dr. Allen and Ms. Batista during the school year. C.L., a parent, met with Dr. Allen and her daughter, C.N. in January of 2016 to determine why C.N. did well on homework and labs, but not on tests. According to C.L., she did not find the results of the meeting to be satisfactory. In February, after C.N. continued to struggle in Dr. Allen's class, C.L. met with Ms. Batista and C.N.'s counselor, Casey Roupon.

Similarly, D.P. was in touch with Dr. Allen and Ms. Batista because her daughter, K.P., also struggled in Dr. Allen's AP Chemistry class. D.P. complained that Dr. Allen consistently told K.P. to do homework and attend tutorials but did not offer specific help. During the school year, K.P. consulted with counselors, but did not approach Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen speculated that K.P. went "behind [his] ... back" to counselors because she was looking to drop the course.

In 2016, the national AP Chemistry exam was given on Monday, May 2, 2016. Several students missed class during the remainder of the week as they sat for AP exams in other subjects. For the remainder of classes that week, Dr. Allen showed videos of chemistry lectures and did not give students an assignment regarding those lectures. According to Dr. Allen, K.P. and C.N. were not attentive during those videos and their behavior bordered on disruptive. Apparently, K.P. told her mother, D.P., that Dr. Allen told the class that he did not plan to teach for the rest of the school year since the AP Chemistry exam had now been administered. After K.P. described the classes to her mother, on Friday, May 6, 2016, D.P. sent the following email to Ms. Batista and school counselors, asking about Dr. Allen's lesson plans for the remainder of the school year:

> Good morning all on this very wet, yet again, dreary day! Hope this finds you all well. Question pertaining to K.P.'s Chem class. The students were informed this week by Dr. Allen that he has decided this year "due to lack of interest and effort" on the students part, > that he will no longer be basically teaching them for the rest of the school year. That for the next six weeks, they will be watching videos and having study halls where they can complete their other work. This past Tuesday was free time and yesterday they watched a video. I am fully aware that at the AP level, their finals are over and so is the AP Exam but there is nothing else these kids can be doing? Mini-labs, anything? That does not sound right to me giving the amount of time left. This to me sounds like a perfect opportunity to give assignments to help boost their grades. I understand that these types of lessons don't have to be everyday but to just sit there in a block length course with nothing to do is ridiculous. Other AP classes are slowing down but still giving some type of assignment. I am not trying to ruffle anymore feathers at this point but I do find this academically sad and a waste of school time.

> Thanks for listening to me and hoping that maybe something can be resolved from this.

Upon receiving D.P.'s email during the afternoon of May 6, Ms. Batista responded to her and assured her that Dr. Allen was most likely trying to make a point and that she would speak to him. Ms. Batista forwarded D.P.'s email to Dr. Allen, seeking his response. Ms. Batista's email to Dr. Allen read as follows:

> Do you have a response to this? I'm assuming that you are trying to make a point. If not, understand that you are under contract (even if the new one hasn't been negotiated yet) until June 30th.
> Karen

Ms. Batista expected that she and Dr. Allen would have a discussion about D.P.'s email and she would learn what caused K.P.'s impression. Dr. Allen was angered by Ms. Batista's email and initially sent three brief emails to her during that evening.

> At 6:37 p.m., Dr. Allen sent an email providing:
> Wow. What the f is that? Maybe ask about it me first before you accuse me of violating my f*ing contract?
> A moment later, at 6:38 p.m., he wrote:
> I'm too angry to reply now. Later

Then, at 6:51 p.m., he followed up, again expressing his anger, and listing the Chemistry lectures he was showing in class:

> I am so angry right now. Here is the title of the Eric Smith video I showed on Thurs (Paste it into youtube) & the Robert Hazen one I am showing on Mon. Please watch them (1hr each) before I talk to you again, so you have some background. Just f*ing unbelievable.
> McCloskey Speaker Series – New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith
> ROBERT HAZEN - CHANCE, NECESSITY, AND THE ORIGINS OF LIFE

Dr. Allen testified that he was "upset" and very "angry" when he sent these three emails. Dr. Allen mentioned D.P.'s email to his wife and daughter and then took a walk and did some gardening. Dr. Allen, believing that he had calmed down, then composed, and sent, the following response to Ms. Batista, the two counselors, D.P. and his wife (agape). Dr. Allen's response, at 8:40 p.m. on May 6, 2016, reads as follows:

> Hi Karen.
> Well, first off, that is certainly an interesting version of what goes on in my class. Here is my version:
> There are about 16 class days for each section of AP Chemistry after the final exam & national AP Exam. Last year I gave the students a large list of possible research topics that tied into the course material & that they might find interesting. The assignment was for each student to pick three topics to research -- followed by the submission of a two page summary and a short presentation to the class. Each report/presentation was worth a lab grade. Unfortunately, a majority of the (very grade-savvy) kids realized that three lab grades would not statistically affect their overall course grade and thus did a barely acceptable, low-effort job on the reports. Frankly it was a waste of everybody's time. Just one girl did serious research on a topic she eventually went on to study in college, but the other 59 students basically gave me crap -- just good enough to no drop their overall grade. One obvious option on my part would be to bump up the worth of these assignments so the kids would have a penalty for bad work. But I rejected that option because most would just bump up the quality slightly (still crap) to stay even. Some would do a great job to get a better grade but (from experience) these kids would be mostly kids who already had an A. And in my opinion, the "AP Chemistry" grade at HCRHS should be based solely on the "AP Chemistry" curriculum, which has now ended.

So this year I decided to do something different. I conceived a sort of mini-course of video lectures by college professors that would show the kids real-world & scientific research applications of the things we learned in class. I came up with seven "units" (origin of life, biogeochemistry, climate change, energy, limits to growth, etc.) for which I would devote two class periods each (an hour-long lecture in each block). I am developing this on the fly based on my feel for the material and the kids. At first I was thinking I would just show the videos and that was that. After showing the first video that way and gauging their reaction, I am reconsidering -- now planning a mini-discussion before & after, along with a two-paragraph summary and reflection (with course tie-ins) of the video. I'm feeling my way through this, my first foray into video lectures.

My first video was (search youtube) "McCloskey Speaker Series - New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" I showed this to A-day on Thurs and B-day today. I encourage you to watch it in its entirety. On student applauded after the video ended. My second (and last) video of the first unit will be "Robert Hazen - Chance, Necessity and the Origins of Life". Again, highly recommended. This stuff is the real deal -- a good metric for them to see if science is really what they want to do, and which parts of real-world science do they find most interesting and necessary.

Unfortunately I did have some trouble with two students for most of the block: C------- N-------- and K----- P------ were talking loudly and laughing in the back of the room -- loudly enough that I had to interrupt the video and ask them to quiet down THREE different times during the block. I had to speak to nobody else in either block I showed this video. I suspect this may be partially why K---- P---- did not join in the applause at the end -- I don't think she actually saw the video, which I would consider one of the very best lectures I have ever seen in my life (-- a life where I have seen hundreds of them).

> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?
> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.
>
> Karen, I am deeply disappointed in your handling of this matter. "Understand that you are under contract"???!!! Frankly, f you. I work my fing ass off to be a great teacher and I expect the common courtesy of at least checking in more tactfully (or in person!) when receiving second hand (and erroneous) information you received from the parent. But a threat right off the get go? No thanks.
> Have a great weekend & thank you for ruining mine – Dan

Only moments after sending the 8:40 p.m. May 6th email, Dr. Allen forwarded that email to Sean Chappe, a science teacher who was also an HCEA representative with this note: "See you in court, my friend :-)." Shortly after he sent the email, both Dr. Allen and his wife, Lisa Allen, were concerned about the content of the email and called Mr. Chappe for advice.

Suzanne Cooley, then HCRHS Principal, received the email from one of the counselors and forwarded it to Superintendent Christina Steffner. Over the weekend, Ms. Steffner sought and received permission from the Board President to suspend Dr. Allen, and commence an investigation into his actions.

D.P. replied to Dr. Allen's May 6th email on May 7, 2016, copying Ms. Batista, and asking Dr. Allen to please reconsider lowering K.P.'s grade and promising to speak with K.P. regarding Dr. Allen's contention that she was talking while he was showing the class videos. Also over the weekend, C.L. learned that Dr. Allen named her child, C.N. in his May 6th email, and that he copied "agape" on the email. C.L. emailed Ms. Batista to express her concern. She questioned why C.N. had been brought into the discussion, and asked for the "name and title of the individual with the agape email."

On Monday, May 9, 2016, Superintendent Steffner interviewed Dr. Allen. Director of Curriculum John Fenimore, Manager of Human Resources, Sara Jane Mahan, Shari Calabrese, President of the Hunterdon Central Education Association and Sean Chappe, another HCEA representative were present.

At the May 9th meeting, Dr. Allen was asked about his AP Chemistry lesson plans for the remainder of the 2015-2016 school year. At that time, approximately twenty-six (26) school days, including approximately 15 AP Chemistry classes, remained in the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen responded "[t]hat class is over." Dr. Allen explained that he was not able to give a full answer or explanation, but that he was "outrageously excited" about his planned lecture series for the remainder of the school year. Dr. Allen was also asked about his lesson plans for his CP Chemistry class. Dr. Allen advised that the class was preparing for a test later in the week. Dr. Allen acknowledged that the test had not yet been prepared, and that his ICS (in-class support) teaching partner had not been provided with the test.[3] Dr. Allen explained that his ICS partner did have a collection of unit worksheets and she was aware that the test would "closely mirror" the worksheets.

Dr. Allen's emergency lesson plan folder in Ms. Batista's office contained only class rosters from his classes for the 2014-2015 school year and an instruction to complete an assignment that was not provided. Dr. Allen testified that his emergency lesson plans for the 2015-2016 school year, along with current rosters, were in his mailbox and were easily accessible to any substitute teacher. Some science teachers testified that emergency lesson plans were typically filed with Ms. Batista and other science teachers typically provided necessary information to the substitute when one was needed at the last minute.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Allen was advised that he was being suspended with pay pending the outcome of an investigation into his conduct.

The administration sets aside time designated as "PLC (professional learning community) time" for all teachers within each department, to learn from and collaborate with one another. Mr. Fenimore testified that Dr. Allen did not meet regularly with his PLC. Chemistry Teacher Sharon Cooper recalled that Dr. Allen participated in Chemistry PLCs. Ms. Batista did not recall that there was any issue regarding Dr. Allen's attendance at PLCs.

As part of the investigation, Vice Principals Matthew Thompson, and Michael Carr, interviewed eight students from Dr. Allen's two AP Chemistry courses. Each student was asked the same set of questions: 1) Have you taken any AP tests yet? How have they gone? How many AP classes are you currently taking?; 2) What do you think you'll be doing from now on since you've taken your AP test?; 3) How do you know that?, and 4) What did you do last week after your test?

The AP Chemistry students interviewed generally confirmed that they had watched videos on chemistry topics during the week that began with the AP exam. The students believed that they would continue to watch videos for the remainder of the school year and did not believe that they would be required to complete assignments or otherwise be graded based on the videos.

After the meeting with Dr. Allen, Ms. Steffner asked Mr. Fenimore to speak with the supervisors from each department that offers AP coursework, to ensure that other teachers of AP classes were continuing to teach for the remainder of the school year. In response to Mr. Fenimore's inquiry, the Social Studies, Math, Fine Art, World Language, Science and English Department Supervisors all confirmed that their AP teachers were still teaching, and had lesson plans in place for post AP coursework. Mr. Fenimore also conducted seventeen (17) "drop-ins" of AP courses, to observe that AP instruction was still occurring. The drop-ins confirmed other AP teachers were providing instruction and assessment.

Ms. Steffner was also concerned that Dr. Allen had copied his wife (agape) on the May 6, 2016 email so she reviewed all of Dr. Allen's emails to his wife from his HCRHS email from September 4, 2013 through his May 9, 2016 suspension. At Ms. Steffner's direction, the Board's IT manager, Michael Marron, searched Dr. Allen's email for any other emails between his school email and his wife's email address, agape7769@comcast.net. The search yielded ten (10) additional instances of Dr. Allen disclosing student information to his wife from his HCRHS email account. Eight of these emails were sent during the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen's emails that included his wife are as follows:

On April 3, 2014, Dr. Allen forwarded an email to his wife, containing a string of emails between himself and M.K., the parent of a student, E.K., discussing E.K.'s progress in his class. M.K. expressed concern over E.K.'s stress levels. E.K. is a friend of Dr. Allen's daughter.

On April 23, 2014, Dr. Allen forwarded an email that came directly from a student, who inquired about her grade to his wife. Dr. Allen forwarded the email to his wife stating "Here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. ..."

Hi Dr. Allen,

I logged into Aspen yesterday and noticed that the report card for Marking period 3 was very different from quarters 1 and 2.

I saw that my averages were C+ and C but on the report cards from the beginning of the year, my averages showed as A- and A. I was wondering if we could resolve this problem as soon as possible.

Thank you.

Hey babe. Here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. Tsk tsk tsk. What was she thinking I would do—forger her grades for the whole class & give her a A?! luv u!

On October 8, 2015, Dr. Allen forwarded an email to his wife from D.P., mother of K.P. D.P. emailed Dr. Allen to introduce herself, apparently having missed the opportunity to do so at back to school night. In Dr. Allen's response, he notes that his wife says hello. D.P. returned the greeting, and Dr. Allen forwarded the email to his wife.

Good morning. Hope this finds you well. I unfortunately cannot attend this evening's Back to School night but wanted to touch base to say hi and introduce myself. I am K.P.'s mom, D. If at any time there are any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at your convenience. My information is listed below.

Dr. Allen replied as follows, also copying his wife:

Hi D. Lisa (my wife) says hi. :-) ... K's done better on the past 2 tests, so as long as she keeps up the effort she'll be fine. Make sure she's keeping up with the problem set on a daily basis -- since getting even a day behind is a bit deadly with the amount of content they get each day. Let me know if you have any questions! -- Dan :-)

On November 16, 2015, Dr. Allen forwarded another email containing student information to his wife. Dr. Allen initiated this email exchange with M.W., parent of W.W. Dr. Allen reached out to express concern for W.W.'s response to his latest grade. M.W., who responded, thanking Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen then forwarded the email to his wife with the subject line "haha from M------."

> Hi M. R. seemed bummed out about his last test (84 on Liquids & Solids), but I just wanted to say that he's doing a really great job -- working really hard to understand the material. It's nice to have kids who care about their work as much as R.!! Some units he'll find easier than others, so just tell him to keep up the good work & he'll be fine. -- Dan :-)

> Thanks for the note.

Four days later, on November 20, 2015, Dr. Allen sent his wife an email that simply stated "there's gonna [sic] be hell to pay—[W.W.] got a 64% on test today :-)."

On December 1, 2015, in an email exchange with his wife, Dr. Allen responded to her inquiry about his day "...going ok...the annoying kid who kept pushing back his makeup test got his deserved bad grade (hee hee)..." The student was not named in the exchange.

> How's your day?

On February 29, 2016, Dr. Allen forwarded emails to his wife from a student's parent, C.L., mother of C.N., and his response. C.L. emailed Ms. Batista to express concern over C.N.'s performance in Dr. Allen's class, and questioned Dr. Allen's teaching skills based on her assessment of C.N.'s efforts as compared to the grades she was receiving. Ms. Batista forwarded the email to Dr. Allen, who wrote a lengthy response. Dr. Allen then forwarded the email to his wife, who responded:

> Wow!! She's a jerk. So her kid is finally being challenged and she is attacking you? What will Karen respond?

Dr. Allen wrote back to her:

> I'm sure Karen will just try to defuse it. I mean, it's the first kid in 10 years of AP to say I don't do it right :-)

Mrs. Allen replied:

> Interesting fact-- lady is friends with D.P. I would hope that Karen has your back bc it's clearly not you with your exemplary track record.
>
> Lis

And Dr. Allen finished the conversation:

> Ha ha. Her and D. (or D.'s kid at least) really laying into me this year. :-) Maybe invite them over for tea so they can fill you in. :-)

Dr. Allen again included information about C.N. in an email to his wife on March 3, 2016. Apparently, Ms. Batista met with C.L. to discuss her email, later providing an email summary of the meeting to Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen responded referencing his opinion on C.L.'s parenting skills and C.N.'s character. He then forwarded Ms. Batista's email, along with his response, to his wife with the message "This is my response to Karen's email—she met with C.N.'s mom yesterday. Bold type is Karen & normal type is mine. :-)."

> This is my response to Karen's email--she met with C.'s mom yesterday. Bold type is Karen & normal type is mine. :-)
> Hi Karen. Lots of stuff, so I'll respond within your text:
>
> *The meeting was actually cordial. She asked me to look at your review sheets as compared to the tests to make sure there was alignment. *
> The review sheets are the problem sets. I'll let you look at them if you want, but it'd be hard to decipher without actually doing all the problems, which would take days. I can tell you that they are COMPLETELY in alignment. One thing I'm very good at is picking out the essence of each unit -- i.e. the key points/skills/ideas that they need to get. I make sure I stress them during class & I pick the key problems from the book (often spanning several chapters) that illustrate them. ...That said, C. has several times approached me after a test & said that the material on the test did not match the problem set. This is a refrain I ONLY ever hear from kids who don't understand the material. Check in with kids who do and you'll hear the opposite of what C. says. It's a "let me blame someone else" tactic, and it's use at this stage is a sign of some really bad parenting. Although I don't say anything, it reflects VERY poorly on the kid's character.

I told her I'd look at C.'s four worst tests. She also asked for a grade distribution, which I did yesterday afternoon. (everything looks well within the norm, btw) She said that they already hired a tutor (Carolyn Wilheim from North Hunterdon). I told her I would contact her to see if there is anything that we could provide to help.

I can speak with (or email) the tutor too if you like.

*She liked the idea of you checking in (with formative assessments) for the remainder of the year with C. to gauge her understanding. *

Fire drill caused B3 test to be postponed until Monday (so observation would be Wed or Fri now).

To be honest, C. mostly just screws around during class. She has her work open, but she's constantly getting sidetracked by her phone or her friends (mostly K.P. who has a D. & is also blaming me for her trouble). I can give her assigned seat, but I think you didn't want me to single her out, right? She asks me token questions & makes token appearances at tutorial. She is just not a serious student in Chemistry for whatever reasons. I usually let the AP kids check in with me as needed, so it would feel weird to check in only for C.

I certainly can do it (& will if you want), but personally I think it's a disservice to the AP kids for me to babysit them at this age because they need to start transitioning to college. They need to start figuring out (1) the work and discipline it takes to master a difficult subject, (2) if they like it (3) if they're good at it.

She did not get personal at all. (Which is good because I was prepared to nip that in the bud.) She was concerned about curves being applied unevenly, but I assured her that you and Leon speak often about lessons, labs, tests and grading. By the end of the meeting, she was looking to get an accurate assessment of C.'s abilities. At one point she said, "look, if she's not a chemistry type, that's okay. It's just that no one has actually said that to me." I told her that I would speak to you, Cindy Fink (her hon chem teacher) and the tutor to try to get an accurate picture for her.

Repeat after me: "My daughter is not the chemistry type" :-) C. doesn't seem like the material much, she doesn't try very hard at understanding it, and she doesn't seem quick to pick up even the simpler concepts that the "chemistry types" absorb immediately. What kind of parent is confused about something like that at this age? Her Dad (a horse breeder) came up to me at BTS and said very jovially, "I heard you like farming -- we'll need to talk about that sometime instead of this boring Chemistry stuff." ...Ummm...Mom...maybe your daughter is a bit more like her Dad?

That's it in a nutshell. I need to take a look at the 4 tests and would like to just speak to you about the latest one to see how you are going to handle the situation (10 failures and a D class average). I don't want to add fuel to the fire. Can you swing by after class, or would you like me to go to you during block 5?

Don't worry about this one. We'll answer some of the questions and let this blow over.

The best thing for C. at this point is to work very hard with her tutor at one of those AP Exam Chemistry review books -- e.g. Princeton Review, Barrons, or the one I lent the students. There is simply no time for her to go back and nitpick over some questions on a few bad tests when an epic twenty-unit test is staring her in the face in 8 weeks. AP Chem is like a firehose of material (that's still going full blast for the next 7 weeks), and her micro-examining a few bad tests is like stopping down to gather a few cupfuls of water that spilled. That said, I understand if the Mom is insistent on this. I fully understand that this is not a good model for education, but that's the requirements of this AP model we're implementing.

So ... let me know if you have any more questions -- Dan

Dr. Allen again forwarded his wife a lengthy email exchange between Ms. Batista and C.L. on March 18, 2016. This email contained C.N.'s test scores, as well as class averages and median grades for several tests.

Finally, on March 21, 2016, Dr. Allen forwarded his wife an email that he sent to HCRHS administrators earlier in the day. Dr. Allen's email to his wife said

"Ugh. One of the General Chemistry students, J.B., released a wildly inappropriate video last night. It's on youtube under "J BloG p*$$y destroyer."

> Ugh. One of my General Chemistry students, J.B., released a wildly inappropriate video last night. It's on youtube under "J BLoG p*$$y destroyer."
>
> Not sure what jurisdiction you have over off-campus-filmed youtube video, but he's waving a fake gun around.
> I really really really like J.B., but he worries me sometimes, and this video is a good example.
> PLESE DO NOT TELL HIM I 'RATTED HIM OUT'!!!!

When asked why he copied his wife on the May 6th email, Dr. Allen testified as follows:

> I didn't know they were FERPA violations at the time. This is not -- even in my -- even in my not quite complete understanding of FERPA at this stage, I would have to know that copying my wife where other people can see she's copied is completely inappropriate. But back to your question, the reason is, because she's my advisor in the sense that she's my better half. She's good under pressure, she's good in emergency situations, she cool-headed, and I'm emotional. And she's my sounding board for things, you know, as we'll get to. Not in the sense where I should pass on names and grades to her. But she's in a true sense, she is my -- she is my -- she is my partner in teaching, you know. So that's why.

Dr. Allen's testimony was similar to his wife's understanding of FERPA. She believed that an educator could not share student information with the public, but believed that there was an exception for one's spouse.

Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email had further repercussions within the school.

On May 12, 2016, C.N.'s mother, C.L., wrote to Ms. Steffner advising that other students were accusing C.N. of being responsible for Dr. Allen getting "fired." C.L. included a social media post by C.N. where she attempted to set the record straight in an effort to end the attacks on her.

On May 15, 2016, D.P. sent a letter to the Board raising concern that K.P. might be exposed to Dr. Allen in the future, as well as questioning his fitness to be in a teacher. D.P. pointed to the vindictive and threatening tone of his email, and noted his inclusion of her on an email wherein he used profanity toward his supervisor. D.P. directed that neither of her children be placed in Dr. Allen's classes in the future.

The Board met on May 16, 2016 to discuss his employment. The meeting was in an open session at Dr. Allen's request. The meeting room was filled mostly with Dr. Allen's supporters. At that meeting, Dr. Allen addressed the Board and apologized for his actions. Many parents and students spoke. The vast majority expressed their support for Dr. Allen. Both before and after the meeting, the Board received many letters of support for Dr. Allen's teaching.

For example, one current student wrote, "AP Chemistry was one of the classes that made coming to school worth it every day..." Another former student wrote, "Dr. Allen's passion for the subject is part of what gave me the drive to pursue a degree in biochemistry..." A parent wrote that Dr. Allen "cares about his students and teachers in an engaging and interesting manner." Another parent, S.P., testified that her daughter had Dr. Allen as a teacher for AP Chemistry and it "was an extremely challenging class ... it was the kind of class I would want for her." That parent described Dr. Allen as "very fair" and always available after school if the kids needed help..." Science teacher Sharon Cooper described Dr. Allen's teaching as "engaging" and using cartoon characters and music to illustrate points and reach students. Ms. Cooper also testified to Dr. Allen's positive interaction with Ms. Batista and Dr. Macai, the previous science supervisor.

In addition to those letters, several students and parents testified to Dr. Allen's skills as a teacher, motivating students to pursue higher education and careers in science. Parents also testified to his good character and his contributions to the community, including a community garden. Had time permitted, numerous additional students, parents, colleagues, former colleague and members of the community were eager to testify to Dr. Allen's skills as a teacher and his good character and reputation. The record reflects that these potential additional character witnesses would have provided testimony that is substantially similar and complementary to the supportive character testimony described above.

After the May 16th Board meeting, many members of the administrative staff, which includes the department supervisors, among others, expressed concern that Dr. Allen's behavior would be viewed as a minor infraction. The Board President received letters from Edward Brandt, President of the Hunterdon Central Administrator's Association, as well as Sandra Chronic, Supervisor of

Dr. Allen admits that there were "so many warning signals to [him] along the way," which should have prevented him from sending the emails. He acknowledged that his wife told him not to send the email until she read it, although he ignored that advice. He further acknowledges that the series of emails he sent only to Ms. Batista in the lead up to the May 6th email were the result of a "gross overreaction." He characterizes his tone in those emails to Ms. Batista as "scolding her like she's a kid" and "ordering" her to watch the videos he references. With respect to his email to Mr. Chappe, Dr. Allen testified that he was not intended to show disdain, but rather was letting Mr. Chappe know he had "screwed up." He further claimed that the ":)" was not intended to be a happy smiley face, but was instead a "rueful" smiley face.

Dr. Allen testified that he was upset because D.P.'s email "grossly misrepresented what was happening in his class." He explained that his anger toward Ms. Batista derived from his perception that she accepted D.P.'s statements as true. Dr. Allen took issue with D.P.'s statement that Dr. Allen told the class that "due to lack of interest and effort" he would not be teaching them for the rest of the year. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he had permitted students to do other work during an AP Chemistry the day after the AP Chemistry exam. Dr. Allen explained that he recognized students had additional AP exams that week and it was time to "pull back a little bit." Dr. Allen denied that he would not be teaching for the rest of the school year and cited his excitement about the lecture series he was developing. Dr. Allen knew that D.P. was "not privy" to his excitement for the lecture series he had planned, but nonetheless was very upset and hurt by D.P.'s email.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no tenured employees of the public school system "shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The District bears the burden to establish that it met this standard.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has defined "unbecoming conduct" as conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010) (quoting Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554

(1998) (citation omitted). The New Jersey Supreme Court further defined "unbecoming conduct" as that which violates "the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Bound Brook Bd. Of Ed. v. Ciripompa, Dkt. No. A-57-15, __ N.J. __ (February 21, 2017) (quoting Karins v. City of Atlantic City).

With this standard in mind, I turn to Dr. Allen's conduct in sending the four emails on May 6, 2016, as well as the remaining charges that arose from the investigation. In evaluating these charges, I have reviewed and considered the testimony, documentary evidence and arguments submitted by both parties. That consideration is incorporated into the discussion of the charges.

COUNT ONE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT NINE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Most troubling is the charge that Dr. Allen expressed an intention to retaliate against K.P. by lowering her grade from a D to an F after her mother D.P., sent the original email to Ms. Batista suggesting that Dr. Allen did not intend to teach AP Chemistry for the remainder of the school year because the AP Chemistry exam had been completed.

That portion of the May 6 email provided as follows:

> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?
> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.

Ms. Steffner, Ms. Batista and D.P. all interpreted this portion of the email to threaten retribution. Ms. Steffner testified that she was "concerned that there was a tone of retribution, that because mother had sent an e-mail apparently asking about the practice of teaching after the AP exam, that we were going to drop a student's grade..." Ms. Steffner cited "the volatile manner in which he responded and his threat of lowering a student's grade because a parent asked a question was deeply concerning..." and created concerns about him returning to the classroom. Ms. Batista also read Dr. Allen's words as threatening retaliation:

> What did become very upsetting to me was the part about K's grade being changed in particular as a result of the e-mail sent by the mom.
> Q. So let's get to that. That's the next paragraph. The next paragraph, so, it reads, quote, So. . .here's the way it'll go. I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video, close quote.
> Q. So what's your reaction to that?
> A. Clearly it's retaliation for something that a parent had written, a parent questioned what was going on in the class, and as a result, he was going to change a grade.

Ms. Batista further stated "As I read through the e-mail, it looked to me like after he gave the explanation of what he was going to do, he still was angry and mentioned that he was going to change a student's grade, which, of course, is the worst thing he could have possibly said."

That D.P. believed that Dr. Allen might retaliate against K.P. is expressed first in a May 7 email to Dr. Allen where she seeks to insulate K.P. from blame for her previous emails:

> ... As for the info I received, I heard not from K.P. or C.N. but another student in your class on Tuesday. I never spoke to K.P. about it until Thursday night. I was just hoping, call it greedy, that maybe she would have the opportunity, not just for her but for others too, to maybe bump up her grade slightly more. My apologies for being presumptuous. As for the talking and disturbing class, they said they were told they could talk. I will speak to her about her volume. She can be loud. Any further questions/ concerns you have please feel free to contact me. I seriously hope you will consider my request and continue in with your plan as you feel necessary.

D.P.'s May 15, 2016 letter to the Board of Education crystalized her concerns that her daughter K.P. might be the victim of retribution by Dr. Allen:

> I recently sent an email questioning if during the last few weeks of school the students might have the opportunity to "lift" their grades slightly. In response, I received a very disturbing reply that I felt not only threatened my child, but myself. The email also contained vulgarities directed towards Dr. Allen's supervisor, which I know you have read. How Dr. Allen believes a response can be sent in that tone makes me even more concerned about his mental equanimity and classroom behaviors.

D.P. continued "I am appalled that he felt he could threaten me and my child in writing instead of reaching out to me to explain the situation."

Ms. Batista also spoke to this specific issue of the apparent threat and the ever present parents' concern that a teacher will retaliate against their child when a parent complains:

> I mean, as a supervisor, one of the things that happens, parents will call about a complaint about a particular teacher, and you'll say to the parent, well, you know, can I speak to the teacher about their complaint, and their first response is well, please don't use my student's name. And, in fact, you know it's not that you don't -- you wouldn't go to a teacher and give the student's name, but, of course that's the first thing the teacher asks when you go to the teacher and say, you know, I've gotten this complaint from a parent. You know, the first question the teacher will ask: Well, which parent? And the implication is that it's a kid that's a problem in class and therefore that's why there's a parent complaint. On the parent's side of that issue is that, you know, if you mention my kid's name, the teacher is going to retaliate against my kid. I mean, this is the exact thing that you don't want to get to a parent, and he's put it in writing now, and has notified people, and so now, you know, every other parent has now got something that they can use to say that a teacher is retaliating against their kid because in fact, here's a teacher that did it.

> ... the trust that has to be placed between parents and teachers was seriously compromised. In the 40 plus years that I've been doing this, I often hear from parents oh, I would never say anything because the teacher will take it out on my child. And I as an administrator have always said that doesn't happen. It won't happen. You know, you have a right, this is your child. You have a right to ask questions. You have a right to be a part of it. A teacher, a professional would never take it out on a child. This e-mail spoke to me about the serious interruption of that trust, the serious breakdown and it reinforced that constant comment that we hear from parents often that I'm afraid to say anything because my child will suffer.
> This e-mail from D. was almost apologetic, not almost, it was apologetic and it was almost pleading please don't take it out on my daughter. I found that very disconcerting, very upsetting and certainly is not the kind of relationship we want with our parents.

Dr. Allen acknowledged that his language was "ambiguous-ish." As such, regardless of his intention, Dr. Allen's words were perceived as threatening to lower K.P.'s grade in response to D.P.'s email. Dr. Allen claims that he did not intend to fail K.P. He testified that when he wrote "I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video..." Rather, this language reflected "a change in strategy." He testified as follows: "This reflects a change in strategy, that I was saying, look, I'm not -- I am not going to be able to, I'm not going to be able to not give grades for the rest of the course and have kids pay attention at all."

Dr. Allen testified that he does not fail students, and that he would have bumped K.P.'s grade back up to a "D" at the end of the course. In other words, Dr. Allen planned to lower K.P.'s grade back to the "F" she had earned to allow her to improve her grade for the remainder of the school year, and if she did not improve her grade on her own, he would then bump K.P.'s grade back to a "D".

To Dr. Allen, if he left K.P.'s grade as a "D" and then allowed her to earn extra credit and perhaps raise her grade to a "C", that would be a "gift onto a gift." Dr. Allen believed that D.P. was trying to get her daughter's grade to improve to a "C", which, to his mind, K.P. had not earned.

Dr. Allen testified that he made it a practice not to fail students and he did not intend the email as retaliation against K.P. Rather, Dr. Allen explained that he had already bumped K.P.'s grade from an F to a "D" because he had not planned additional assignments. Once he determined to grade assignments related to the videos, he no longer needed to bump up K.P.'s grade, because she would have an opportunity to bump her own grade up from an F to a D. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he was "borderline off the rails" when he wrote this but thought it would be a "logical solution to a problem" rather than a "vindictive grade change."

Dr. Allen testified both that he was concerned not to embarrass K.P. and his view of K.P.'s visits to her counselor concerning AP Chemistry:

> So, yeah, I don't want to embarrass K.P. even if she was -- I knew she was coming at me the whole year. I knew she was going to her counselor, I didn't know exactly what she was saying to her counselor, but I knew it probably wasn't true..."

Dr. Allen characterized K.P.'s actions in going to her counselor as "unprecedented" for him in that he had never "had a kid go behind [his] back."

Turning to the question of whether Dr. Allen threatened retaliation against K.P. and, if so, whether this conduct violated Standard Eleven of Professional Standards for Teachers, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3 and/or the National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211, I must look beyond Dr. Allen's intent to his actual words. Dr. Allen did not explain that he intended to knock K.P.'s grade back to the grade she had actually earned, to allow her the opportunity to increase her grade through additional assignments or extra credit assignments as suggested by her mother. Rather, Dr. Allen wrote that K.P. "ended up with an F in AP Chemistry" and he bumped her final exam grade up "until she just barely had a D." He continued:

> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.

Returning to Dr. Allen's words in his email, he stated "I'm bumping her [K.P.'s] grade back down to the original F..." He then indicated that he would grade the class reflections from the video, but did not explain that K.P. would have the chance to improve her grade, and once the school year was completed he would bump her grade back to a passing grade if she did not do so on her own.

Dr. Allen also stated, "I will inform her," lending credence to the thought that he would inform K.P. that she would get an "F" for the class. When taken in context of the entire email, including the angry and disgruntled tone, and the inappropriate language directed at Ms. Batista, it is difficult to interpret his statement that he would lower K.P.'s grade as anything but retaliation for her mother's email. When viewed in light of his testimony that he knew she was coming at him the whole year, the notion that Dr. Allen had a retaliatory motive is reinforced.

Regardless of whether Dr. Allen actually intended to fail K.P., he unquestionably created the impression that he would, and compromised the necessary trust between parents and the Board. In doing so, he has irreparably damaged his own credibility with both the Board and parents. Dr. Allen had made it almost impossible for the Board to ask parents to trust him.

Accordingly, I find that Dr. Allen's statement that he would bump K.P.'s grade back to an F, by itself, leads to the conclusion that Dr. Allen engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee. This statement, on its own, by apparently threatening to lower K.P.'s grade in retaliation for her mother's email, cannot be tolerated from any teacher. Such a statement breaches the trust between teacher and student, teacher and parent, and teacher and Board of Education. That trust is necessary for the teacher to be a successful educator. The charge of retaliation, by itself, is sufficiently serious to sustain tenure charges against Dr. Allen, but must be viewed in light of all of the facts and circumstances, including those supporting Dr. Allen.

COUNT TWO-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT TEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT

I now turn to the charges that Dr. Allen was knowingly and deliberately hostile and disrespectful to his supervisor, Ms. Batista by using profane language in his May 6, 2017 email, by copying both colleagues and D.P., a parent with this disrespectful electronic communication.

In response to Ms. Batista's email forwarding and asking about D.P.'s email, Dr. Allen initially sent three brief emails to her, two of them using some version of "f*" or "fing", but not necessarily directing the profanity at Ms. Batista. For example, in his first email at 6:37 p.m., Dr. Allen wrote, "[W]ow. What the f is that? Maybe ask ... before you accuse me of violating my fing contract?"

Then, in the lengthy email sent to Ms. Batista with copies to colleagues and D.P. at 8:40 p.m., Dr. Allen directed profanity at Ms. Batista as follows:

> Karen, I am deeply disappointed in your handling of this matter. "Understand that you are under contract"???!!! Frankly, f you. I work my fing ass off to be a great teacher and I expect the common courtesy of at least checking in more tactfully (or in person!) when receiving second hand (and erroneous) information you received from the parent. But a threat right off the get go? No thanks.
> Have a great weekend & thank you for ruining mine – Dan

Administration officials, parents, students and other teachers uniformly testified that Dr. Allen's use of profanity, even in its censored state was inappropriate. Ms. Steffner testified to her concern both "about the use of abject profanity" and the "continued escalation of Dr. Allen's anger." John Fenimore, then the Director of Curriculum, testified that use of such language was inappropriate in any professional setting. The profanity was directed at Ms. Batista who testified that she was "offended, shocked and disappointed." Dr. Fink, a science teacher, agreed that Dr. Allen's email was "disrespectful." Another chemistry teacher, Ms. Cooper, thought directing the phrase "fuck you" to a supervisor was "inappropriate." Numerous other colleagues, as well as parents and students supporting Dr. Allen found such language to be unprofessional and/or inappropriate. D.P. cited Dr. Allen's use of profanity in her May 15, 2016 letter to the Board of Education noting that Dr. Allen's response to her email included "vulgarities directed towards Dr. Allen's supervisor." In that letter, D.P. also stated her belief that Dr. Allen needed to "accept full responsibility for his behaviors, threats, outbursts and obscenity laced emails."

Dr. Allen agreed and has apologized both to Ms. Batista and to the Board of Education. There is no dispute that Dr. Allen's use of profanity in his May 6, 2016 emails directed at Ms. Batista was both inappropriate and disrespectful. Such conduct from a teacher meets the definition of conduct unbecoming in that it violates the "implicit standard of good behavior" expected of a teacher. See Karins v. Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554-555 (1998). Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email also violates Board Policy 3281 which provides "[i]nappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated ..."

Dr. Allen's use of profanity directed at Ms. Batista in an email that was also sent to colleagues and a parent is unbecoming conduct. The use of profanity directed at a supervisor in this situation is serious, but on its own might not be sufficient to warrant removal. Dr. Allen's use of profanity cannot be examined in a vacuum but must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

COUNT FIVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Failure to Teach)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT THIRTEEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities)

The Board has charged Dr. Allen with a failure to teach by failing to complete lesson plans, failing to have current emergency lesson plans on file, refusing to teach AP Chemistry after the AP Chemistry exam, failing to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refusing to use common assessments.

Citing Mr. Fennimore's testimony, the Board contends that Dr. Allen failed to complete lesson plans and failed to have current emergency lesson plans on file. Mr. Fennimore testified that he checked Dr. Allen's emergency lesson plan folder in his mailbox in the 11/12 building and found only a class roster from the prior school year and a direction to work on "problem set 912". Mr. Fennimore viewed this and similar instructions as an activity rather than a lesson plan. Mr. Fennimore also expressed concern that Dr. Allen had not supplied lesson plans for CP Chemistry and in particular, had not supplied lesson plans to his ICS teacher.

Dr. Allen's supervisor, Karen Batista recalled that if she asked for lesson plans, Dr. Allen would typically be one of the first teachers to turn them in. Ms. Batista did not recall an issue with Dr. Allen turning in either lesson plans or emergency lesson plans. Ms. Batista also acknowledged that she permitted tenured teachers to submit unit plans but required non-tenured teachers to submit weekly lesson plans. Dr. Allen had provided unit plans to his ICS teacher. Dr. Allen testified that his emergency lesson plans could be found in his mailbox.

Science teachers, including Dr. Leon Copeland and Sharon Cooper, testified that when a science teacher would be absent unexpectedly, the teacher would typically call another teacher and ask that colleague to make sure that the substitute had whatever was necessary for lessons.

The Board contends that Dr. Allen planned simply to show videos during the gap period between the AP Chemistry exam and the end of the school year. It is not disputed that Dr. Allen did show a video lecture "McCloskey Speaker Series – New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" to his AP Chemistry classes between May 2, 2016, the date of the AP Chemistry exam and May 6, 2016, his last day in the classroom. Dr. Allen described his thoughts and plans for the video lecture series in his May 6, 2016 email as follows:

> So this year I decided to do something different. I conceived a sort of mini-course of video lectures by college professors that would show the kids real-world & scientific research applications of the things we learned in class. I came up with seven "units" (origin of life, biogeochemistry, climate change, energy, limits to growth, etc.) for which I would devote two class periods each (an hour-long lecture in each block). I am developing this on the fly based on my feel for the material and the kids. At first I was thinking I would just show the videos and that was that. After showing the first video that way and gauging their reaction, I am reconsidering -- now planning a mini-discussion before & after, along with a two-paragraph summary and reflection (with course tie-ins) of the video. I'm feeling my way through this, my first foray into video lectures.
> My first video was (search youtube) "McCloskey Speaker Series - New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" I showed this to A-day on Thurs and B-day today. I encourage you to watch it in its entirety. One student applauded after the video ended. My second (and last) video of the first unit will be "Robert Hazen - Chance, Necessity and the Origins of Life". Again, highly recommended. This stuff is the real deal -- a good metric for them to see if science is really what they want to do, and which parts of real-world science do they find most interesting and necessary.

However, in his May 6, 2016 email, Dr. Allen, also expressed his opinion on the grading of AP Chemistry and the period between the AP Chemistry exam and the end of the school year:

> And in my opinion, the "AP Chemistry" grade at HCRHS should be based solely on the "AP Chemistry" curriculum, which has now ended.

During the meeting on May 9, Mr. Fenimore asked Dr. Allen about lesson plans for AP Chemistry for the remainder of the year. According to Mr. Fenimore, Dr. Allen reiterated the sentiment from his email and replied, "that class is over." But during his testimony, Dr. Allen testified that he realized after his classes on May 5th and May 6th that he was going to need some sort of "carrot stick" mechanism to keep his students engaged for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Fenimore also asked Dr. Allen about his plans for CP Chemistry and he indicated that students were working on a test review sheet but he had not yet written the test. Mr. Fenimore expressed concern because this meant that Dr.

Allen's ICS partner, who was relatively new, did not have a copy of the test and she was legally bound to work on accommodations. Dr. Allen had not provided a test to be administered at the end of the week to his ICS partner by the morning of May 9, but had provided the unit worksheets and his ICS partner was aware that the test would closely track the problem sets included with the worksheets.

Mr. Fenimore distinguished between Dr. Allen's idea to use a video lecture series and Dr. Allen's implementation of the lecture series. According to Mr. Fenimore, "the actual implementation wasn't occurring." Mr. Fenimore based this conclusion on Dr. Allen's statement at the May 9 meeting as well as the May 6 email.

The Board has not established that Dr. Allen failed to continue to teach AP Chemistry by May 9, 2016. Rather, the AP Chemistry exam was administered on May 2, the previous Monday. The AP Chemistry exam is among the first AP exams administered and many students in AP Chemistry were absent during that week as they took other AP exams. Many students who did attend the class were focused on other AP exams they would take later in the week. Dr. Allen testified that he knew when "to pull back a little bit" as he was after the AP Chemistry exam. So, for the remainder of that week, Dr. Allen had shown the first of the video lectures in the lecture series he had developed. As noted in his May 6 email, he had initially conceived of the lecture series to complement the topics covered in AP Chemistry, but without related assignments. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he was "feeling... [his] way through" his first series of video lectures, but had already determined to add assignments and grades to the lecture series.

There is no doubt that Dr. Allen believed that the AP Chemistry class should end after the AP Chemistry exam, and that he had not developed formal lesson plans for his lecture series. Nonetheless, Dr. Allen was aware that he was required to teach for the remainder of the school year. He had developed a lecture series and was showing the lectures to his students. Given the block scheduling, Dr. Allen had shown only the first video in the lecture series without a graded assignment while students were in the process of completing other AP exams. At this point, Dr. Allen was removed from the classroom and had no further opportunity to develop his anticipated lecture series. Based upon this evidence, I find that the Board has established only that Dr. Allen had a personal belief that AP Chemistry should end with the AP exam. The Board has not established that Dr. Allen failed to teach or intended to stop teaching after the AP exam.

Mr. Fenimore testified that Dr. Allen participated in PLCs (Professional Learning Communities) only occasionally and did not use common assessments that were developed in the PLCs. This testimony was not fully supported. Ms.

Batista did not recall that Dr. Allen failed to attend or participate in PLCs. Ms. Batista recalled only one PLC meeting where Mr. Fenimore attended and had found that Dr. Allen was inattentive. Mr. Fenimore offered no evidentiary support for his allegation that Dr. Allen did not use common assessments in either CP Chemistry or AP Chemistry. Dr. Copeland testified that he and Dr. Allen collaborated on the teaching of AP Chemistry and that he used Dr. Allen's handouts and worksheets with his students.

In sum, I find insufficient evidence that Dr. Allen failed or refused to teach AP Chemistry after the AP exam, failed to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refused to use common assessments. Dr. Allen did have current lesson plans, though the emergency lesson plans in the folder in his mailbox were not current. Dr. Allen attended and participated in PLC meetings and collaborated with his colleagues. Dr. Allen had not provided a single test to his ICS partner one week before the test. Dr. Allen did not fail to meet his professional obligations. To the extent that these charges are supported, they are not sufficient to warrant tenure charges. Charges 5 and 13 are dismissed.

COUNT THREE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT SIX-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

COUNT EIGHT-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violating Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

COUNT ELEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3150-Discipline)

COUNT TWELVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT

These charges allege that Dr. Allen breached student confidentiality, violated the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and Board Policies involving Discipline (3150) and Acceptable Use of Technology (3360) by sharing confidential student information with his wife Lisa Allen for no valid educational purpose. The charges also allege that Dr. Allen breached the confidentiality of student C.N. when she was discussed in the May 6, 2016 email sent to D.P. as well as to Lisa Allen.

The Board contends that Dr. Allen engaged in unbecoming conduct when he sent four (4) unprofessional, insubordinate and hostile emails to his supervisor, including the May 6th email, which included the counselors, D.P., and his wife; violated the confidentiality rights of C.N. and K.P. by virtue of copying his wife, and D.P. on the May 6th email; threatened to lower K.P.'s grade as a result of D.P.'s email; and habitually violated student confidentiality rights by emailing his wife confidential student information.

Dr. Allen copied his wife on a total of ten emails referencing students and/or confidential student information, such as grades in addition to the May 6, 2016 email. That email referenced K.P. and C.N., their conduct in AP Chemistry, and K.P.'s final grade. In addition to confidential information, Dr. Allen demeaned and mocked students in some of the emails to Lisa Allen, referring to a student's "charade" and labeling another student "annoying."

Turning to the May 6, 2016 email, Dr. Allen discussed his difficulties with K.P. and C.N., and then copied D.P., K.P.'s mother, as well as Mrs. Allen on the email. Specifically, Dr. Allen discussed C.N. and K.P.'s lack of focus on the video as follows:

> Unfortunately I did have some trouble with two students for most of the block: C------- N-------- and K----- P------ were talking loudly and laughing in the back of the room -- loudly enough that I had to interrupt the video and ask them to quiet down THREE different times during the block. I had to speak to nobody else in either block I showed this video. I suspect this may be partially why K---- P---- did not join in the applause at the end -- I don't think she actually saw the video, which I would consider one of the very best lectures I have ever seen in my life (-- a life where I have seen hundreds of them).
> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?

As a result of this email, C.N. believed her confidentiality and privacy was violated. C.N.'s mother, C.L., learned of the email on Saturday, May 7, 2016 and promptly sent an email to Ms. Batista asking the identify of "agape" and expressing concern that her daughter "had been brought into this discussion."

Subsequently, C.L., C.N.'s mother, explained that C.N. was concerned about discussion on social media that "plastered" her name everywhere in connection with Dr. Allen's suspension. On May 12, 2016, C.N.'s mother sent an email to Ms. Steffner expressing her concern for her daughter stating:

> My daughter came home today and informed me that members of the senior and junior class have accused her of "getting Dr. Allen fired." She is very upset. She feels helpless and harassed.

The Board would tie C.N.'s concern to a social media post from Dr. Allen's stepdaughter asking students to attend the upcoming Board of Education meeting and to write letters in support of Dr. Allen. The Board bases its conclusion on its assumption that Dr. Allen's stepdaughter sought students' support at his behest. The record does not establish that Dr. or Mrs. Allen urged or directed Dr. Allen's stepdaughter to post this request to social media. Although there is insufficient support for the Board's contention that his stepdaughter's post was at Dr. Allen's behest, this post, which did not include C.N., along with other posts circulated by students seemed to result in C.N. being perceived by other students as the reason for Dr. Allen's suspension. Regardless of the factual basis that led to Dr. Allen's suspension and subsequent tenure charges, Dr. Allen's inclusion of C.N. in his email to D.P., a parent, but not C.N.'s parent, and to his wife, led to C.N.'s name being connected to his tenure charges. Thus, the result of Dr. Allen's violation of C.N.'s privacy and confidentiality under FERPA and Board Policy 3360 may have lead to negative publicity for C.N.

Dr. Allen also violated both K.P.'s and C.N.'s confidentiality as students when he copied his wife on the May 6, 2016 email. That email included specific information about K.P.'s grades and K.P.'s and C.N.'s conduct. While Dr. Allen regards his wife as his "sounding board," "advisor" and "partner in teaching," she is not employed by the District and plays no role in the education of Dr. Allen's students, including K.P., C.N. and the other students specifically referenced in Dr. Allen's emails. By sending emails to his wife that included confidential student information, Dr. Allen violated the privacy rights of these students pursuant to FERPA, and Board Policy 3360 (Acceptable Use of District Technology) which requires users of the Board's email system to comply with FERPA. That policy also provides:

Both Dr. Allen and Mrs. Allen seemed to think their emails were permitted as some sort of spousal privilege or exception to the student privacy requirements included in Board Policy and in FERPA. Dr. Allen acknowledged receiving FERPA training each year for the past five years but did not pay sufficient attention and take the training seriously because it was computer-based training, and thus did not think it applied to communications with his wife.

Dr. Allen explained that the emails "were just between me and my wife and not to be shared further." Dr. Allen testified that he "didn't know they were FERPA violations at the time." Explaining why he copied his wife on emails, Dr. Allen characterized his wife as his "advisor" who is "cool-headed" and his sounding board and "partner in teaching." Yet Dr. Allen acknowledged his error stating that "I would have to know that copying my wife where other people can see she's copied is completely inappropriate."

It is not clear whether Dr. Allen acknowledged that copying his wife on emails is inappropriate or that allowing others to see that she received the email is his mistake. It is troubling that Dr. Allen seemed to focus on whether others were aware that he copied his wife rather than the fact that he did so, thus violating student privacy and confidentiality.

Dr. Allen relies upon what he believed to be spousal privilege to suggest that he had a right to share confidential student information with his wife. Spousal or marital privilege as codified in the New Jersey Rules of Evidence 509 permits spouses to refrain of disclosure of spousal "communications made in confidence" without the consent of the spouse. N.J.S.A. 2A:84A-22. Rule 509 does not address the situation where one spouse presumes that he or she is able to disclose confidential information about another individual, in this case a student, to the other spouse because the information will then be protected from disclosure. Regardless, the Board's policy directs that any student records which are made, maintained, or transmitted technologically must be kept confidential. Additionally, FERPA prohibits the disclosure of student records, which include, but are not limited to, grades and student disciplinary files.

By copying his wife on the May 6, 2016 email which included K.P.'s grade in AP Chemistry, as well as several other emails disclosing student grades, Dr. Allen violated both FERPA and Board Policy 3360. Dr. Allen also violated C.N.'s privacy by disclosing her conduct in his class to both his wife and to D.P. These violations of privacy and confidentiality constitutes unbecoming conduct which violates "the implicit standard of good behavior" expected of a teacher. The charges of violating student privacy and confidentiality on their own might warrant discipline short of removal. Dr. Allen's violation of student privacy and confidentiality, as with other charges, cannot be examined in a vacuum, but it must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

COUNT FOUR-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT SEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disparaging Students)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen is charged with disparaging and disrespecting students by speaking in a derisive and pejorative manner about them. The Board relies upon the series of emails Dr. Allen either forwarded to his wife or copied to her that include unprofessional statements such as calling a student "annoying" or laughing at a bad grade.

The language and tone of Dr. Allen's emails to his wife were, on occasion, derisive. For example, Dr. Allen forwarded one email to his wife on April 23, 2014 where a student asked about her grades. Dr. Allen's comment was "[]here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. Tsk tsk tsk." In another email on December 1, 2015, Dr. Allen referred to a student as annoying, stating "... the annoying kid who kept pushing back his make up test got his deserved bad grade (hee hee)." Dr. Allen also seemed to mock C.L.'s parenting skills and C.N.'s interest in chemistry in a March 3, 2016 email exchange with Ms. Batista.

Standard Eleven of Ethical Practice requires teachers to maintain "professional relationships with students ..." and to "conduct themselves in a sound and professionally responsible manner."

The NEA Code of Ethics as incorporated into Board Policy 3211 provides that teachers "[s]hall not expose the student to embarrassment or disparagement."

While these email exchanges were not public and did not expose students to public disparagement, they were unprofessional and inappropriate in that they mocked, disparaged and laughed at students and suggested that Dr. Allen took pleasure or felt vindicated in his opinions when students who did not excel met his expectations with poor grades, conduct or performance. These exchanges were unprofessional and violate the implicit standard of good behavior expected of a teacher. These emails disparaging students constitute unbecoming conduct. As with each of the charges, the charge that Dr. Allen disparaged students must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

Based upon the foregoing, Dr. Allen engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher when he threatened retaliation against student K.P.; directed profanity at his supervisor, Ms. Batista in an email sent to colleagues, a parent and his wife, as well as Ms. Batista; violated the confidentiality of students K.P. and C.N., as well as others by copying his wife on emails discussing their grades and classroom behaviors; and by disparaging or mocking students in email exchanges with his wife over the District's email server.

As the appropriate penalty for Dr. Allen's misconduct is evaluated, the question of progressive discipline and mitigating factors warrants consideration. The New Jersey Supreme Court explained:

> [T]he concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways: (1) to 'ratchet-up' or 'support imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct'; and (2) 'to mitigate the penalty' for an employee who has a record largely unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions.' On the other hand, progressive discipline is not 'a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question' because 'some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record.'

In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 196 (2011) (citations and internal punctuation omitted). The Court explained the analytic framework to be considered in evaluating the issue of progressive discipline:

> To assure proper progressive discipline, and a resulting penalty based on the totality of the work history, an employee's past record with emphasis on the reasonably recent past should be considered. This includes consideration of the totality of the employee's work performance, including all prior infractions.... Progressive discipline is a flexible concept, and its application depends on the totality and remoteness of the individual instances of misconduct that comprise the disciplinary record. The number and remoteness or timing of the offenses and their comparative seriousness, together with an analysis of the present conduct, must inform the evaluation of the appropriate penalty.

Virtually all of Dr. Allen's misconduct occurred in a series of emails on May 6, 2016 and approximately ten emails with his wife from September 2014 through May 6, 2016. The question of penalty and any circumstances which might mitigate the penalty begins with Dr. Allen's repeated apologies to the Board and to Ms. Batista. Dr. Allen has recognized that he should not have sent the May 6, 2016 emails in anger and that he overreacted to Ms. Batista's inquiry. This acknowledgement of fault is one of the several factors that Dr. Allen cites in support of a penalty short of removal. Dr. Allen also cites Ms. Steffner's alleged grudge against him, disparate treatment when compared to other District teachers, that students did not witness the conduct, his personal circumstances, his relatively clean record and his reputation as a popular and exciting teacher.

Dr. Allen has asserted that Ms. Steffner held a grudge and was out to get him both for his inadvisable comments to parents about her compensation in 2012 and because his mother, a local political force, is asserted to have backed successful board of education candidates Lori Blutfield and Vincent Panico and is asserted to have worked to defeat current Board President Deb Labbadia's candidacy for board of education in another district. Dr. Allen suggests that this family grudge caused Ms. Steffner to recommend termination rather than a lesser penalty. While Dr. Allen's testimony supports his contentions, this testimony is comprised predominantly of suggestion and innuendo rather than direct evidence. Dr. Allen went to great lengths to explain the intricacies of local board of education politics and established that his mother and Ms. Steffner were in opposing political camps, but did not offer direct and credible evidence connecting any possible animosity between Ms. Steffner and Dr. Allen's mother to his removal. Given that the allegation was not proven, it cannot be treated as a mitigating factor when considering the appropriate penalty for Dr. Allen's misconduct.

Similarly, Dr. Allen sought to establish a connection between the present tenure charges and the basis for his 2012 reprimand. In 2012, Dr. Allen received a written reprimand after he opined to parents at a Back to School Night that the push to increase the number of students taking AP exams was tied to Ms. Steffner's compensation. In support of this theory, several teachers testified to their perceived concern or fear that Ms. Steffner might have harmed their careers or make their work life more difficult based upon real or perceived past infractions. There were no examples of Ms. Steffner either disciplining teachers or seeking to enhance negative consequences based upon this testimony. There is insufficient evidence that Ms. Steffner held a grudge against Dr. Allen for his conduct in 2012 or that this influenced her recommendation that the Board terminate Dr. Allen.

To the extent that the Board relies upon the reprimand Dr. Allen received in 2012 and suggests that this reprimand supports removal in this instance, Dr. Allen has been disciplined for his statements to parents in 2012 suggesting that Ms. Steffner's compensation may have been placed ahead of the best interests of students. For purposes of progressive discipline, the issues in dispute in this instance also involve incautious statements. The import of Dr. Allen's 2012 reprimand, however, is limited to the fact that he received it.

Dr. Allen compares his conduct to that in In re Geiger, 2015 WL 721458 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. Nov. 18, 2015) and In re Watson, 2014 WL 2480173 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. June 4, 2014). Specifically, in In re Watson, a teacher called educationally disabled students who were predominantly African American "stupid" and said they were "acting like monkeys." This teacher also grabbed a student's shirt and hit him, cursed at students and snapped a rubber band against a student's wrist. Although profanity was used in both cases, In re Watson is not analogous to Dr. Allen's situation in that there, the totality of the circumstances resulting in dismissal included corporal punishment against middle school age students. Dr. Allen emphasizes that no students witnessed his misconduct. While that is true, a situation where a teacher used profanity, made racially insensitive remarks and hit a student is not analogous to retaliation by lowering a student's grade.

Similarly, Dr. Allen would compare his circumstances, where his inappropriate conduct was not in the presence of students to In re Geiger, where students overheard two teachers making racially insensitive and profane remarks. In that instance, teachers made comments including "[t]hese negros think they're fucking tough shit," and "yeah, that's what they are, they're fucking, negros, negros, negros, negros." The Appellate Division found removal to be too extreme a penalty for Appellants because the "punishment is so disproportionate to the offense, in light of all of the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness." In re Geiger at 7 quoting In the Matter of Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 578 (1982).

Dr. Allen notes that this case does not include racially charged statements, but does include profanity or an edited stand-in for profanity, i.e. f. As noted above, Dr. Allen's situation is not analogous to Geiger, but Dr. Allen suggests that it raises factors that must be considered, including whether the statement at issue were directed at students, whether the statements were intended to be heard by students, his prior record, and disparate treatment of other teachers.

In support of a lesser penalty, Dr. Allen also asserts that removal would amount to disparate treatment. Dr. Allen points to another situation in the District where a tenured teacher allegedly swore at her class, then left the class and the school and abandoned her class. Dr. Allen knew about this incident from a former student who was in the class. Dr. Allen was not aware of any of the circumstances surrounding this incident. In that instance, the teacher received a letter of reprimand for a first infraction similar to the letter Dr. Allen received for his misconduct in 2012. Dr. Allen also points to instances where teachers at HCRHS engaged in misconduct without investigation or charges. These allegations include two different DUIs.

It is difficult to compare the other disciplinary situations that have arisen at HCRHS in recent years because the facts and circumstances are different. It is important to distinguish between these other situations, none of which included retaliation against a student, and the instant case. Those circumstances did not include a teacher's plan to lower a student's grade after a parent sent an email critical of the teacher. I find the other instances of discipline at HCRHS are not comparable and do not support a claim of disparate treatment.

Dr. Allen asserts that his conduct, although regrettable, does not rise to the level of warranting termination in light of all of the circumstances at issue in this case. Dr. Allen cites his distinguished career as a teacher and relatively unblemished disciplinary record. Dr. Allen cites testimony by parents, students and colleagues revealed how Dr. Allen went above and beyond in order to encourage and inspire his students. Dr. Allen also cites the numerous letters of support, as well as the approximately 150 individuals, mostly character witnesses, who were willing and eager to testify on his behalf.

Dr. Allen also sought to put the May 6th email in context by explaining the "stress" he was under both as a result of K.P. and C.N. challenging his teaching and grading all year and stress related to the illness of his eleven year old daughter. Dr. Allen also cites his efforts over the school year to assist C.N., while C.L., her mother continued to complain about his teaching causing him great stress. Dr. Allen emphasizes that the May 6, 2016 email was out of character and an aberration. This helps to explain, but does not excuse, Dr. Allen's conduct on May 6, 2016.

Dr. Allen has offered substantial support for his popularity as a teacher. Indeed, almost 150 individuals, including parents, students and colleagues were prepared to testify to his inspiring teaching ability and good character. Dr. Allen's teaching skills and character are significant and notable, and provide some defense to the pending charges.

The record establishes that Dr. Allen is an exciting and inspiring chemistry teacher who is beloved by many students and parents. Dr. Allen influenced and encouraged many students to pursue a career in science, including many who had been previously discouraged or turned off by science classes. The importance of this teaching skill and character evidence cannot be over emphasized. This evidence might be sufficient to outweigh the angry and disrespectful tone and language of Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email as well as his failure to maintain strict confidentiality of student information. It does not outweigh his apparent threat to retaliate against K.P. for her mother's email to Ms. Batista questioning Dr. Allen's teaching for the remainder of the school year.

Dr. Allen has raised many factors supporting the use of progressive discipline and/or forming a basis to mitigate his termination, most notably his reputation and skills as a science teacher. As noted in In re Stallworth,

Threatening or planning to retaliate against a student as a response to criticism from that student's parent is one such infraction. Retaliation by lowering a student's grade or even suggesting that the grade might be lowered eviscerates the trust necessary for teaching and learning to occur. In this instance, Dr. Allen responded to a parent's email critical of his use of class time with a statement that he would lower the student's grade from a "D" to an "F". There can be no mitigation of such apparent retaliation. Although each of the remaining infractions might be mitigated by Dr. Allen's record of exciting and inspiring teaching, the retaliatory language in his May 6, 2016 email, which was copied to the parent of the student at issue cannot be revoked. Likewise, Dr. Allen's reputation and the ability of the Board, parents and students to trust Dr. Allen cannot be rehabilitated. Threatening retaliation against a student is not suitable for progressive discipline.

In sum, I find that Dr. Allen engaged in unbecoming conduct when he threatened retaliation against student K.P., directed profanity at Ms. Batista, his supervisor; violated the confidentiality and privacy of students K.P., C.N. and others, and by disparaging or mocking students in email exchanges with his wife over the District's email server. The significant mitigating circumstances of Dr. Allen's popularity as a teacher might serve to reduce the penalty for most of the proven charges, but cannot overcome the charge that Dr. Allen threatened to lower K.P.'s grade in retaliation for her mother's email to Ms. Batista which angered him. As a result of his threat, which was sent to K.P.'s parent, there is no basis for the Board, parents or students to trust him as a teacher in the future. Accordingly, I find that the Board has established that Dr. Allen has engaged in unbecoming conduct that supports his dismissal from his position as a tenured teacher at HCRHS.

Re: In the Matter of the Princeton Charter School's Application to Amend its Charter, ~~Appellate~~ Division Docket No. A-2765-16

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the Princeton Board of Education's (Board) Motion to Stay my February 28, 2017 decision granting Princeton Charter School's (PCS) request to amend its charter, pending appeal of the decision to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

The February 28, 2017 decision approved an application submitted by PCS to amend its charter, permitting it to: (1) implement a weighted lottery to provide economically disadvantaged students a 2:1 enrollment preference, and; (2) expand enrollment. Thereafter, on March 10, 2017, the Board appealed the decision to the Appellate Division, and on March 17, 2017, the Board requested a stay to enjoin PCS from implementing the weighted lottery and expansion pending resolution of the appeal.

By way of background, PCS has been operating a charter school in Princeton, New Jersey since the 1997-1998 school year. Prior to the February 28, 2017 amendment, PCS had been serving 348 students in grades K through 8, with principal entry points in Kindergarten and 3rd grade. On November 28, 2016, PCS filed an application to amend its charter to implement a weighted lottery and expand enrollment by 76 students. The integrated plan, designed to achieve the goals of diversity and increased access for disadvantaged students, was proposed to phase in beginning in September of 2017.

According to documents submitted in connection with its application, PCS's Charter mission articulates a goal of bridging the gap in achievement that is based on low socio-economic status, yet it was concerned that it wasn't serving a proportionate share of economically disadvantaged students. PCS requested approval to implement a weighted lottery to directly increase the proportion of economically disadvantaged students at PCS, and encourage a larger pool of economically disadvantaged applicants through public awareness.

In addition, PCS sought to add a second section to its Kindergarten and first grade classes for the 2017-2018 academic year; an additional second grade class in 2018-2019. These changes were proposed to remedy a number of practical issues. PCS has a large number of applicants, and must waitlist many students due to an established sibling preference. By expanding enrollment, more families will be given an opportunity to attend, which may also help to diversify the student body.

After PCS submitted its application, the Board filed a complaint in Superior Court on December 27, 2016, citing violation of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA). PCS subsequently filed a counterclaim.

On January 30, 2017, the Board sent a letter to the Department contesting the amendment application. The same day, PCS filed a supplemental memorandum in further support of its application. Based on my review of all of the submissions by the parties, I approved PCS's application to amend its charter. According to PCS's brief opposing the stay, once the decision was issued, it began taking certain steps toward implementing the amendment. PCS asserts that it engaged in extensive, multi-lingual outreach, and conducted a lottery for admission for the 2017-2018 school year (including the additional newly approved 54 seats). The results of that lottery were shared with the parents of applicants that same day. PCS also represents in its brief that it entered into a contract with a modular building vendor to accommodate the additional students, and began activities to recruit additional personnel.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a motion for stay is considered an extraordinary remedy that may only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met each prong of the four-pronged standard for the granting of interim relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Thus, a stay may be granted where necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Id. at 132-134.

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the Board has failed to meet the standard required for a stay of the February 28, 2017 decision, for the reasons set forth more fully below. Accordingly, the Board's request for a stay is denied.

(1) The Board Has Not Demonstrated That It Is Likely to Prevail on the Merits of its Underlying Claim

The Board suggests that the February 28, 2017 approval decision is "insufficient" to withstand scrutiny on appeal, and thus, it is likely to prevail on the merits. The scope of judicial review of agency action is limited. In the Matter of the Proposed Quest Academy Charter Sch. of Montclair Founders Group, 216 N.J. 370, 386 (2013) (citation omitted). An agency's final decision will be sustained unless there is a clear showing that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Id. Three channels of inquiry inform the appellate review function: (1) whether the agency's action violates express or implied legislative policies; (2) whether the record contains substantial evidence to support the findings on which the agency based its action; and (3) whether in applying the legislative policies to the facts, the agency clearly erred in reaching a conclusion that could not reasonably have been made on a showing of the relevant factors. Id. In this case, as set forth in greater detail below, the record clearly supports the decision to approve PCS's application and so the Board is not likely to prevail on the merits of its appeal.

Many factors are considered in deciding whether to approve a charter school amendment request. Although the overall analysis is holistic, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq., I chiefly consider the charter school's potential to improve pupil learning and increase the educational options available to New Jersey families. My decision to approve PCS's application was specifically informed by a review of student performance on statewide assessments, operational stability, fiscal viability, public comment, and fiscal impact on sending districts.

A. Performance on Statewide Assessments

Student performance at PCS is remarkable. In weighing the amendment request, we analyzed the performance of PCS students on statewide assessments over a four year period. In 2012-13 and 2013-14, PCS received the highest rank possible based on the standards outlined in the Office of Charter and Renaissance School's Performance Framework – a Tier Rank 1. In 2014-15 and 2015-16, based on PARCC results, the school outperformed both the state and home district of Princeton in English language arts (ELA) and mathematics in the elementary grades 3-5 and middle grades 6-8. For the 2015-16 school year, PCS students ranked in the 99th percentile statewide for ELA and the 100th percentile statewide for math on the PARCC. Even though PCS only serves students in grades K through 8, 95 percent met or exceeded expectations in Algebra 1, and 100 percent of them met or exceeded expectations in Geometry. The school-wide median growth scores in both subjects exceeded statewide averages. Student growth in 2015-16 was 67 in ELA and 66 in math, above the statewide median of 50 in both subjects.

B. Operational Stability

PCS's initial charter was granted in 1997 and the school is currently in its 20th year of operation. After the first initial four year charter term, PCS has undergone comprehensive reviews every five years. The most recent comprehensive review was performed in 2015-16, when the school was granted another charter term. There is no record of PCS ever receiving a warning of probation or being placed on probation during its twenty years of operation.

The record reflects a strong community demand for additional enrollment slots. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.2, all charter schools are required to submit an annual report including, among other things, enrollment data and the number of applicants who were placed on a waitlist in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:11-4.5. In considering PCS's amendment application, the Department analyzed the reports submitted by PCS between 2013 and 2015 and found that enrollment has remained at or near maximum each year. Further, the school has maintained a waitlist in each of those years of between 92 to 133 students, suggesting a strong demand for the charter school within the community. PCS has requested an increase of 54 students for the 2017-18 school year, and an additional 22 students for the 2018-19 school year for a total of 76 additional students. According to the most recent annual report (from 2015-16), 122 students were waitlisted that year. That is nearly twice the number of additional seats requested through 2019, indicating that PCS has the potential to easily fill the slots.

PCS's former (pre-amendment) admissions policy allowed for 19 new students in kindergarten, two in first grade, one in second grade, and 24 in third grade. According to the amendment request, and confirmed by the grade delineated waitlist numbers, parents are less inclined to move their children from the Princeton Public School elementary schools in third grade due to disruption in academics, social relationships, and in the case of disadvantaged students, services they may be receiving in the District's schools. The amended enrollment configuration allows for a greater number of students to be enrolled in kindergarten, reducing the number of students who would suffer a break in educational continuity during the elementary school years.

In its amendment request, PCS indicated that there would be no change to the current administrative structure. However, to accommodate the additional students, the school will add instructional and special education positions. PCS's history of successful comprehensive charter reviews, record of outstanding academic results, desirability in the community, and implementation of a weighted lottery, all support the conclusion that the current administrative structure will not only support the expansion request, but also provide the community with a greater opportunity to serve its economically disadvantaged students.

C. Fiscal Viability

Since 2012, PCS has remained at or near maximum enrollment every year. Between 2012 and 2016, final enrollment counts were between 344 and 348. Such consistently high enrollment assists the school in maintaining a fund balance year after year. The school's financial stability is corroborated by a review of the independent audits submitted annually to the Department since 2012 (the review period), none of which resulted in any findings.

D. Public Comment

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6(c), the Board exercised its right to submit comments regarding the amendment request. I also received correspondence from members of the public whose children attend Princeton Public School District. In assessing PCS's request, my staff and I reviewed the public comments that we received both in favor of the amendment request, and opposed to it. I took those opinions into account when making my determination, in conjunction with the other factors, as part of a holistic analysis.

E. Fiscal Impact on Sending Districts

Based on the October 15, 2016 count, there were approximately 348 students enrolled at PCS. The expansion request increased PCS enrollment to the requested 424 students. Assuming stable enrollment in the Princeton Public School district (which has a current resident enrollment of 3,672) this would result in a minor increase of the district's enrollment going to PCS through 2022. The impact on the sending district would be an approximate 2 percent enrollment reduction over the next four years.

Because the February 28, 2017 decision is supported by the record and is not arbitrary or capricious, PPS is unlikely to prevail on the merits of its appeal, and thus, the stay must be denied. Moreover, the February 28, 2017 decision is sufficient. N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6 governs amendments to charters, and provides that the Department shall determine whether amendments are eligible for approval, and evaluate the amendments based on the Charter School Program Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq.

> [N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6(d) (emphasis added)].

The Board's argument that the February 28 decision will be overturned as "insufficient" fails to acknowledge the distinction between the level of detail required in decisions approving amendment or renewal applications, versus decisions to deny initial charter school applications. Decisions approving amendment or renewal applications need not set forth detailed or formalized reasoning, because the school's performance record is available for evaluation. Therefore, the supposition and predictions that necessarily permeate the approval process for initial applications no longer exist. See I/M/O Grant of Renewal Application of the Red Bank Charter Sch., Monmouth Cnty., 367 N.J. Super. 462, 474-75 (App. Div. 2004).

An extensive record was available to support the approval of PCS's request, including standardized test scores, a history of successful comprehensive reviews conducted pursuant to charter term renewals, annual waitlist figures, enrollment data, and audits.

(2) The Board Has Not Shown That It Will Suffer Immediate Irreparable Harm if a Stay Is Not Granted

The Board articulates three alleged harms that would occur if a stay is not granted. First, it asserts that a PCS expansion will require the Board to begin paying more tuition for charter school students, resulting in concomitant budget cuts requiring the elimination of programs and staff. The funding impact of charter school enrollment on public schools was contemplated by the Legislature as an appropriate allocation of resources to foster the policy goals of the Charter School Program Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq. See N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-12; N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-2. Financial impact is only a basis for denying a charter amendment application if the District can make a preliminary showing that the effect of funding a charter school would render the district unable to provide a thorough and efficient education to the pupils it serves. See In Re Grant of the Charter Sch. Application of Englewood on the Palisades Charter Sch., 164 N.J. 316 (2000). Here, the Board has made no such claim. The only issue the Board raises is a concern that a denial of the stay could result in layoffs, and the same teachers that may be laid off may not be available for rehire should the Board ultimately prevail in its appeal. The Board has not suggested that the amendment would impact its ability to provide a thorough and efficient education. Princeton Public Schools are the 5th highest spending district in the state for a district of its size, and one of the top rated school districts in the State. The district spends approximately $24,000 annually per pupil—around 25 percent more than the statewide average of $19,000. The PCS expansion will only result in a two percent reduction in the Board's budget through 2022.

In the absence of showing harm to itself, the Board asserts potential harm on behalf of students, and, remarkably, PCS as a basis for the stay. These alleged harms fail to meet the Crowe standard: whether the movant will suffer irreparable injury. The Board asserts that if a stay is not granted, the additional students enrolled in PCS would suffer from a break in educational continuity if the Board prevails and they must be returned to the District. However, as discussed at length above, the Board is unlikely to prevail on the merits of its appeal. In the unlikely event the Board does prevail, nothing prevents the Appellate Division from fashioning an Order that would prevent a mid-year disruption in affected students' education.

Finally, the Board's suggestion that PCS itself faces a risk of harm if the stay is not granted is meritless. PCS has full knowledge of the risk in implementing an expansion project while an appeal is pending, and chooses to move forward based on its assessment of that risk.

(3) The Board Has Not Established the Remaining Crowe Factors

Balancing the equities, PCS has taken steps in reliance on the decision, and a stay would disrupt the reasonable expectations of families that are planning to send their children to PCS in the upcoming school year. The Board has also failed to demonstrate that the legal right underlying its claims is well-settled. As demonstrated above, the record supports the approval of a weighted lottery in favor of economically disadvantaged students, and expanded enrollment to further goals of diversity.

Accordingly, as the Board has not demonstrated that it is likely to prevail on the merits of its underlying claim, and has not satisfied any of the other Crowe factors, its request for a stay of the February 28, 2017 decision is hereby DENIED.*

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

Procedural History

On July 14, 2014, the Bound Brook Board of Education considered tenure charges against Bound Brook High School math teacher Glen Ciripompa. The charges alleged conduct unbecoming a teacher related to Respondent's inappropriate use of the District's computer network and his District-provided computer and IPad (Count I) and inappropriate interactions with female staff members (Count II). The Board of Education found merit to the charges and certified the charges to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. An arbitrator was assigned to hear the charges, and hearings were conducted in September 2014. On October 20, 2014, the Arbitrator issued an Award finding that the District proved the allegations in Count I, but failed to prove the allegations in Count II because Respondent's interactions with the female staff members did not "meet the generally recognized definition of hostile environment sexual harassment." (emphasis in original) As to Count I, the Arbitrator found that the District had not shown that the charges "justify the removal of Respondent from his tenured teaching position." His finding was based, in part, on the testimony of a psychiatrist, who testified that Respondent "understood his lapse in judgment and was extremely unlikely to engage in the behavior again." He reduced the disciplinary penalty to a suspension without pay of 120 days.

The District filed an action in the Superior Court of New Jersey to vacate the Award. On January 8, 2015, the Court responded affirmatively, vacating the Award because the Arbitrator erroneously considered the conduct under New Jersey's sexual harassment laws, improperly excluded evidence related to a Twitter posting that prompted the District's investigation into Respondent's computer use, and allowed and relied on testimony from the psychiatrist. The Court remanded the case to be heard by a different arbitrator.

The Superior Court was reversed by the Appellate Division on October 29, 2015, and the Award was reinstated. On February 21, 2017, the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed the Appellate Division. The Award was once again vacated and remanded to a different arbitrator.

After the initial remand, the undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to hear the case, but the matter was held in abeyance pending the appeal process. After the Supreme Court decision, the arbitration process resumed. The parties agreed to forego further hearings. Instead, they submitted the transcripts and exhibits from the earlier hearings, excluding the testimony of the psychiatrist and admitting the previously-excluded Twitter post. The parties filed briefs in support of their respective positions, and the matter was submitted to the Arbitrator for a decision.

Statement of Relevant Facts

During the 2013-14 school year, a teacher/coach in the School District reported to then-Assistant Superintendent Daniel Gallagher that a student/athlete had told him about a Twitter posting that indicated Bound Brook teacher "Mr. C" (as Respondent is often called) was "sending out nudes." Dr. Gallagher instructed the Director of Technology to retrieve Respondent's laptop computer. The laptop was turned over to Dr. Gallagher, who conducted a search and found "probably a hundred or more emails with photos attached." The photos included pictures of "[n]aked women, body parts. Sexual body parts."

Dr. Gallagher reported his findings to the Superintendent, who instructed him to contact the Bound Brook Police Department. The police and the local prosecutor's office arrived at the school and took possession of Respondent's laptop and IPad. Dr. Gallagher retrieved copies of the emails and photos from the District's server. The District submitted into evidence 183 pages of emails and photos that were of a sexual nature. Only a few were sent during the school day, but all were sent or received on the District's computer network through Respondent's laptop or IPad.

During the same school year, the District investigated several complaints from female staff members regarding interactions with Respondent that they deemed inappropriate and made them feel uncomfortable.

ESL teacher Kristin Brucia testified that Respondent would "come up behind me and whisper that I looked nice that day or it was a nice dress or something close to my ear quietly." On Valentine's Day two years earlier, he had bought carnations from students for a fundraiser and had them delivered to her by students with anonymous notes. Later in the day, he sent her an email revealing that he had purchased the carnations and wishing her a nice Valentine's Day. She thanked him for the flowers, but told him she had a boyfriend. Before Mother's Day one year, he told her he was sending his wife to a spa for the day and asked if she wanted to bring her sons to a play date with his son. She declined.

Special Education teacher and softball coach Alexandra Shafi reported to the Athletic Director that Respondent, in the presence of two students, asked her if she "wanted to go out with him after the softball game." She refused, and he asked again. She replied no again. Later that day, he attended the softball game for a short period of time, which gave her "an eerie feeling."

Music teacher Marian Stewart testified that Respondent made her "uncomfortable" when he made a joking comment, in the presence of a student, implying that her pants were too tight.

Art teacher Elizabeth Levering testified that Respondent overheard her conversation with a co-worker about her boyfriend's work travel. Respondent approached her and offered his assistance "if I needed anything while the boyfriend was away." Another time, while she was hanging art projects, Respondent "was in my personal space a little bit" and told her "how good I looked in a pair of jeans."

The discovery of sexually related emails on his computer and IPad and the reports from female staff members of inappropriate interactions led the District to file the tenure charges for conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Issue

Has the School District of Bound Brook Borough established the allegations of conduct unbecoming against Respondent Glenn Ciripompa as set forth in the tenure charges? If so, do those charges warrant dismissal? To what remedies are the parties entitled?

A school staff member is always expected to maintain a professional relationship with pupils and school staff members shall protect the health, safety and welfare of school pupils...

Analysis and Decision

Respondent did not testify at the arbitration hearing. Accordingly, the evidence and testimony offered by the School District is uncontroverted. The issue, therefore, is whether the proven conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher; and if so, does it warrant dismissal? In the appeal of the first arbitration award in the present case, the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the standard for unbecoming conduct as follows,

> "A charge of unbecoming conduct requires only evidence of inappropriate conduct by teaching professionals. It focuses on the morale, efficiency, and public perception of an entity, and how those concerns are harmed by allowing teachers to behave inappropriately while holding public employment." Bound Brook Board of Education v. Ciripompa, 288 N.J. 4, 14 (2017)

Count I – Network/Computer Use

There is no real dispute that Respondent's use of the School District computer and IPad and the District's computer network to send and receive emails of a sexual nature, including naked photos, is inappropriate conduct by a teaching professional and constitutes conduct unbecoming. Although Respondent argues that his conduct does not warrant dismissal, he does not challenge the conclusion that he engaged in unbecoming conduct. Even though he does not contest the charge of conduct unbecoming, it is necessary to highlight the number and nature of those emails to appreciate the severity of Respondent's infractions.

The District submitted 183 pages of inappropriate emails and emailed photos. Respondent notes that only 4 emails were sent during the school day (another 13 were received during the school day), and none were sent when Respondent had students in the classroom. But whether they were sent during or outside the school day, the fact remains that all the emails were sent or received on a District computer and IPad and on the District's network in clear violation of the Acceptable Use Policy.

The emails were directed at contacting and engaging sex partners through craigslist or other websites and included Respondent and the potential sex partners exchanging naked or near naked photos. I see no reason to repeat in this Award, which will become public, the exact quotes from the emails. But in many instances, Respondent contacted the potential sex partners, and they asked him to verify his age and identity through certain websites. In at least one case, a woman quoted prices for her services; and in others, the potential sex partners and/or Respondent described the sexual activities in which they wanted to engage. Many of the emails included naked pictures of the potential sex partners and pictures of Respondent.

The District Policy on Acceptable Use of Computer Network(s)/Computers clearly prohibits any use for illegal, inappropriate, or obscene purposes. Although, as noted, at least one potential sex partner quoted prices for her services, the District cannot show that Respondent's computer activities were illegal in any way. The police and prosecutor were called into the case, and the record does not indicate that Respondent was ever charged with criminal activity. The emails, however, are clearly inappropriate and obscene as defined by the Policy.

"Inappropriate activities" indicate any activities "that violate the intended use of the network(s)." The Policy states, "The Board provides access to computer network(s)/computers for administrative and educational purposes only." Solicitation of sex serves no administrative or educational purpose for the benefit of the District or its students.

"Obscene activities" are defined as "a violation of generally accepted social standards for use of publicly owned and operated communication vehicles." (emphasis added) If Respondent engaged in these activities through his own computer, the District would arguably have no basis for discipline absent some greater nexus to the workplace. But Respondent sent these emails and photos on District computers and on the District network for his own purposes. It seems obvious to state that the use of the District computers and network to engage in personal behavior of a sexual nature is in violation of generally accepted social standards, and therefore, constitutes "obscene activities" under the Policy.

Respondent's use of the District's computer network and computers for these purposes is inappropriate conduct for a teaching professional and in violation of the Acceptable Use policy. For these reasons, I find that the District has established the allegation of conduct unbecoming in Count I of the tenure charges.

Count II – Interaction with Female Staff

Respondent challenges the assertion that his interactions with female staff members Brucia, Shafi, Stewart, and Levering were inappropriate and constituted conduct unbecoming.

The Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy requires staff to "be appropriate at all times" when completing their professional responsibilities. It focuses mainly on interaction with students, but cautions that staff "shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils." The Sexual Harassment Policy recognizes "[o]ffensive speech and conduct" as "wholly inappropriate;" and it defines sexual harassment to include "unwelcome sexual advances" and "verbal or physical contacts of a sexual nature."

Respondent violated those policies in his interactions with female staff. Respondent would come up behind Brucia and whisper comments about her physical appearance or dress. If he was simply complimenting her, his behavior may be viewed innocently. But the fact that he came up to her from behind and whispered "close to my ear quietly" is more indicative of contact of a sexual nature. He also sent her carnations with his identity unknown to her but known to the students who sold the carnations and had to deliver them to Brucia – an inappropriate expression in the presence of the students in violation of the Inappropriate Conduct Policy. Finally, he suggested a play date between their sons because he had send his wife away for the day – a suggestion that could reasonably be taken as an unwelcome sexual advance when considered in light of his other inappropriate behavior toward Brucia.

Despite Shafi's "eerie feeling," Respondent's attendance at her softball game does not violate any policy, particularly since he did not engage in any inappropriate activity at the game. But he asked her out on a date in the presence of students – another clear violation of the Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy. It may be acceptable to ask her out, but it was wholly inappropriate to do so in front of students.

Similarly, he made a joking reference to Stewart's tight pants, which should not have been done in front of a student. The student questioned Stewart as to the meaning of Respondent's comment, which drives home the point that the behavior was inappropriate in front of the student and was in violation of the Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy.

Respondent's offer of assistance to Levering while her boyfriend was away is subject to interpretation. It may be a kind offer of help, or it may be an unwelcome sexual advance, depending on how it was said and intended. There is not enough evidence to label it a violation of policy. But his comment about how good she looked in jeans while standing "in [her] personal space" is similar to his quiet whisper into Brucia's ear. The context and substance of the comment suggest an unwelcome sexual advance or contact of a sexual nature in violation of the Sexual Harassment policy.

The policies define and regulate appropriate conduct among and between staff. Violations of the policies, by definition, constitute inappropriate conduct by a teaching professional. Accordingly, I find that the District has established the allegation of conduct unbecoming in Count II of the tenure charges.

Appropriate Disciplinary Penalty

The egregiousness of Respondent's behavior should be evident. Entrusted with the education of high school students and expected to further the mission of the School District, he used District resources and equipment for his own personal use and in a manner that would be offensive to students, parents, and the public. He engaged in personal and private matters on the District's time and over the District's computer network. The exchange of naked pictures and the search for sex partners have no place in an educational setting. He blatantly disregarded and repeatedly violated District policies. His interactions with female co-workers were unwelcome, made them feel uncomfortable, and caused them to try and avoid him during the school day. Because of the number of times he used the computer for inappropriate reasons and the number of times he conducted himself inappropriately with female staff, his behavior cannot be attributed to a lapse in judgment. Rather, his conduct demonstrated a pattern of willful violations of policy and an astounding lack of any sense of boundaries for a teaching professional who is well-trained in the appropriate conduct expected of him.

Respondent cites In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 401 (App. Div. 1967) for its holding that a determination of penalty requires consideration of the nature and gravity of the offense under all the circumstances involved; any extenuating or aggravating circumstances; and the harm or injurious effect the conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. (at 422) The paragraph above adequately captures the serious nature and gravity of the Respondent's infractions. He has offered no mitigating circumstances or other justification or explanation for his behavior. And as the District argues, he has shown no remorse for his actions. The repetitive nature of the violations serve as aggravating circumstances. And his actions had an injurious effect on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school. Respondent's actions led the District to conduct an investigation that led to an embarrassing and shocking discovery, compelled the District to contact local police and prosecutor, would tend to negatively affect the public's view of the District and its administration and staff if it learned of the conduct, and revealed the uncomfortable and humiliating situations in which he placed female staff in the presence of students.

Courts have held that focus in determining the penalty should be on the employee's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his position. In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974); In re Young, 202 N.J. 50 (2010). Respondent's computer activities, repeated numerous times in willful disregard of the Acceptable Use Policy, call into serious question his fitness as a teacher. His lack of any sense of boundaries and his abdication of his

RECITALS

WHEREAS, in or about September of 2016, Respondent Mahwah Board of Education determined that minor student K.G. was not domiciled in the Mahwah School District ("District") and thus not entitled to a free, public education in the District, and therefore denied enrollment for K.G.; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner thereafter commenced an administrative action to challenge the Board's residency determination with regard to K.G.; and

WHEREAS, this administrative action is captioned R.B. and J.B. o/b/o K.G. v. Mahwah Board of Education, and is presently pending before the Commissioner of Education in the Office of Administrative Law and docketed as OAL Dkt. No. EDU 17188-16, Agency

WHEREAS, having carefully reviewed and considered the information provided by Petitioners in connection with the Litigation, and taking all facts presented therein as true, the Board has determined that K.G.'s mother is domiciled in the District as will K.G. once this agreement is approved, and is therefore eligible to receive a free, public education in the District; and

WHEREAS, by this Agreement, Petitioner will voluntarily dismiss the Litigation with prejudice, without costs to any party as against the other;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency and adequacy of which is acknowledged, the parties to this Agreement agree as follows:

3. Petitioners acknowledge and agree that K.G., like all District students, is subject to residency verification to determine whether K.G. and her parent(s) remain domiciled in the District.
4. The Parties further acknowledge and agree that if K.G. is enrolled in the District, but K.G. and her parent(s) are not domiciled in the District, the Board reserves its right to assess tuition for any period of ineligible attendance consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1.

5. Petitioners, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement, and in full, final, and complete settlement of the matter, hereby agree to a withdrawal and/or dismissal, with prejudice, of their Petition of Appeal in this matter.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the recommended Order, that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6 and Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF FACTS

This emergent matter arises from a dispute between petitioner Drew Packard (Packard) and the Board of Education of the Borough of Carteret (Board) in which Packard challenges the Board's decision to suspend him from his position as a Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds and seeks immediate reinstatement to his position. Packard, who has worked for the Board since 1974, is currently employed as Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds. He is a tenured employee.

At a meeting on April 26, 2017, the Board voted to suspend Packard indefinitely and without pay, beginning on April 27, 2017, "for theft of services from the District as well as creating a hostile work environment for the employees in Building and Grounds."[1] Certification of Martin Murray, Board President, ¶ 3. The Board's Superintendent, Kevin Ahern, was present at the meeting, but he neither affirmatively recommended nor opposed Packard's suspension. Id. at ¶¶ 5, 7; Certification of Kevin Ahern, ¶¶ 2-3. After the meeting, Superintendent Ahern notified another Board employee, Jon Toth, that he would assume Packard's duties "until further notice." April 26, 2017, Email from Ahern to Jon Toth, P-1.

On May 3, 2017, Packard filed with the Commissioner of Education a petition of appeal and a request for emergent relief seeking his immediate reinstatement to his position, with pay, retroactive to April 27, 2017. In the petition, Packard argues that he is entitled to reinstatement for two reasons. First, "N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 expressly provides that no school district employee may be suspended without pay other than by reason of indictment or certified tenure charges," but that, at the time of his suspension, Packard had neither been indicted on criminal charges nor subject to tenure charges. Petition of Appeal, ¶¶ 6-8. Second, Packard argues that "N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 expressly provides that a board of education cannot remove a school district employee in the absence of the recommendation of the chief school administrator," but that Superintendent Ahern never recommended Packard's suspension to the Board. Id. at ¶¶ 9, 13.

In its answer, the Board asserts that "[a]s of May 9, 2017, the District has authorized payment to [Packard], inclusive of all back pay due and owed at this time" and that Packard "will receive his salary moving forward while he remains on suspended status." Answer, ¶ 3. The Board denies that its action to suspend Packard violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 or N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.

On May 4, 2017, the Commissioner transmitted Packard's request for emergent relief to the OAL for an immediate hearing. At the hearing, which was held on May 10,

2017, Packard argued that he is entitled to emergent relief in the form of immediate reinstatement to his position, with pay, because, otherwise, his reputation in the community will be irrevocably damaged; because the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 by suspending him without Superintendent Ahern's recommendation;[2] and, because he will suffer more than the Board will suffer if emergent relief is not granted.[3]

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The regulations governing controversies and disputes before the Commissioner of Education provide that "[w]here the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education. . . the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or a stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). The regulations further provide that the Commissioner may "[t]ransmit the motion to the OAL for immediate hearing on the motion." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(c)(3). At such a hearing, the petitioner must show by clear and convincing evidence that he satisfies each of the following four standards:

[2] In light of the fact that he is now suspended with pay and will receive back pay for the period in which he was suspended without pay, Packard no longer maintains that his suspension violates N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, under which,

> [a]ny employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary[.]

However, the Board is reminded that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 does not authorize Packard's indefinite suspension with pay for an unreasonable amount of time. See Migliaccio v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Paterson, 1990 S.L.D. 294 (concluding that a suspension with pay "levied against a tenured employee may not be continued indefinitely in derogation of the employee's tenure rights" and that "as suggested by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, the intendment of any paid suspension is to conduct an investigation, hearing or trial, absent the filing of tenure charges or, perhaps, to await disposition of an indictment").

[3] At the hearing, the Board stated that it has referred the matter involving Packard to the county prosecutor's office.

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) (citing Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982)); Garden State Equal. v. Dow, 216 N.J. 314, 320 (2013) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, the purpose of emergent relief is "to 'prevent some threatening, irreparable mischief, which should be averted until opportunity is afforded for a full and deliberate investigation of the case.'" Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132 (citing Thompson ex rel. Bd. of Chosen Freeholders v. Paterson, 9 N.J. Eq. 624, 625 (Sup. Ct. 1854)).

Irreparable Harm

First, Packard has failed to show that he will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. Under this standard, "harm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages," Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132-33. Here, Packard is now suspended with pay, and will receive back pay for the period in which he was suspended without pay. Thus, in this regard, Packard's continued suspension will not cause him irreparable harm.

Moreover, Packard has failed to show how any damage to his reputation due to his suspension constitutes irreparable harm. In support of this argument, Packard relies on Sanchez, v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Camden, Commissioner's Decision 107-03 (March 6, 2003), affirmed, State Bd. of Educ. (June 4, 2003) <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>, in which the Commissioner found that a tenured principal who was transferred to an acting vice principal position without any loss of salary would, nonetheless, suffer irreparable harm to her reputation if not returned to a principal position to which she was legally entitled, because "the illegal transfer and the consequent de facto demotion to the separate and subordinate position of Acting Vice Principal can never be adequately addressed over time, nor can monetary damages ameliorate the blemish on her professional standing among her peers and her reputation in the school district and in the community."

Here, however, the situation is more akin to Lewis v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park, EDU 8425-09, Comm'r (September 16, 2009), in which the Commissioner determined that the petitioner, a tenured principal whom the school board declined to appoint to a principal position after his superintendent contract had expired, failed to provide any support for his claim that he would suffer irreparable harm to his reputation if was not immediately placed in a principal position. Like in Lewis, Packard has failed to clearly and convincingly show that his reputation will be damaged irreparably if he is not immediately reinstated, but has instead offered vague descriptions of community gossip and rumors about him due to his suspension. And, unlike in Sanchez and as discussed more fully below, it is not apparent that Packard's suspension is illegal.

Settled Legal Right

Second, Packard has failed to show that the legal right underlying his claim is settled. In this regard, emergent relief "should be withheld when the legal right underlying plaintiff's claim is unsettled." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Citizens Coach Co. v. Camden H. R. Co., 29 N.J.Eq. 299, 304-305 (E & A 1878)). Here, it is not settled that, as Packard argues, a school board must act in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 if it seeks to suspend a tenured employee for suspected misconduct, such that a school board cannot suspend a tenured employee without a prior recommendation from its chief school administrator.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a), "[a] board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board." Ibid. The parties do not dispute that the Board, by a majority vote, suspended Packard from his position, but do dispute whether the Board could do so without Superintendent Ahern's recommendation. While N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 prohibits a school board from appointing, transferring, or removing an employee without the chief school administrator's recommendation, that provision does not explicitly address a school board's authority to suspend a tenured employee such as Packard without the chief school administrator's recommendation.[4] Here, Packard was suspended, and not removed, from his position.

Packard's legal right to reinstatement under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 simply is not apparent from a reading of that statutory provision. Nonetheless it is important to note that, while Superintendent Ahern did not affirmatively recommend Packard's suspension, he was not oblivious to, or blindsided by, the Board's action. Instead, Superintendent Ahern was present at the meeting in which the Board voted to suspend Packard and he took action to ensure that someone carried out Packard's duties during his suspension.[5]

Likelihood of Success on the Merits

Under the third emergent relief standard, "a plaintiff must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Ideal Laundry Co. v. Gugliemone, 107 N.J. Eq. 108, 115-16 (E. & A. 1930)), but Packard also fails to meet this standard because he has not shown that the Board did not have the authority to suspend Packard without Superintendent Ahern's affirmative recommendation.

Balancing of the Equities

[4] N.J.S.A. 18A:25-6 specifically addresses the procedure for suspending assistant superintendents, principals, and teachers, but not employees such as Packard. Under that provision, "[t]he superintendent of schools may, with the approval of the president or presidents of the board or boards employing him, suspend any assistant superintendent, principal or teaching staff member, and shall report such a suspension to the board or boards forthwith" and "[t]he board or boards, each by a recorded roll call majority vote of its membership, shall take such action for the restoration or removal of such person as it shall deem proper[.]" Ibid.

Certainly, the chief school administrator plays an important, and in many instances, legal, role in personnel decisions. However, again, Packard has not shown that the Board acted in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 or otherwise did not have the authority to suspend Packard without Superintendent Ahern's prior recommendation.

[5] The Board also suggested, albeit vaguely, at oral argument on Packard's motion for emergent relief that Superintendent Ahern's ability to recommend Packard's suspension may have been compromised as his conduct is under current review as well.

Lastly, Packard fails to meet the fourth emergent relief standard, which involves "the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 134 (citing Isolantite Inc. v. United Elect. Radio & Mach. Workers, 130 N.J.Eq. 506, 515 (Ch.1941), mod. on other grounds, 132 N.J.Eq. 613 (E. & A. 1942)). If emergent relief is denied, Packard will continue to serve a suspension with pay. However, if emergent relief is granted, the Board will be forced to reinstate an employee who has been accused of serious misconduct, including "theft of services" resulting in a referral to the county prosecutor's office as well as creating a hostile work environment. Thus, the equities favor the Board.

CONCLUSION

Emergent relief in favor of Packard is inappropriate because he has failed to show by clear and convincing evidence that he meets any of the four standards for emergent relief.

ORDER

Petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In November 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that his children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner contended that he resides at an address in Monmouth Junction, which is within the South Brunswick school district. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner and his children actually reside in Franklin Township. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, asserting that the petition was late filed. An Initial Decision was issued in this matter on March 8, 2017, wherein the ALJ concluded that the petition was late filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). The ALJ denied the petitioner's appeal and ordered tuition reimbursement for the period of ineligible attendance. The Commissioner subsequently remanded the case to the OAL, finding that the ALJ had failed to include a factual discussion or make any factual findings in his decision, as is required under N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3.

On remand: the ALJ laid out findings of fact related to the timeliness of the petition, and found that the facts of this matter were set forth in respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss and in a certification from the Superintendent of Schools, both of which were incorporated in the decision as attachments; and the tuition cost per pupil for grades 6-8 was $11,873 for the 2015-2016 school year, or $66.00 per day. The ALJ concluded that: petitioner failed to timely file a residency appeal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b); neither petitioner nor his children resided in respondent's school district, and petitioner failed to sustain his burden of proof to establish that J.T., A.T., and B.T. were entitled to attend school in the South Brunswick school district; and the Board is owed tuition in the amount of $66.00 per day, per child, for the period of ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner noted that the ALJ erred in determining that the petition should be dismissed as untimely; further, the ALJ again failed to make factual findings or include the factual discussion that is required under N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3. Accordingly, the Commissioner summarized the facts of the matter in the final decision in order to provide support for the legal conclusion that petitioner was not domiciled in the school district, and therefore his children were not entitled to a free public education in South Brunswick schools. In addition, the Commissioner corrected the amount of tuition due, and ordered that petitioner owes the respondent Board tuition reimbursement in the total amount of $35,462. The petition was dismissed.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON REMAND
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's April 20, 2017 decision remanding this matter for inclusion of a factual discussion. The parties did not file exceptions.

While the Initial Decision contains some findings of fact, such findings relate solely to the timeliness of the petition. The remaining factual findings appear to have been incorporated through a 60 page attachment – including the Board's entire brief in support of its motion to dismiss, the exhibits attached to the brief, and the certification of Gary McCartney and the exhibits attached thereto. As the ALJ did not make specific factual findings regarding the merits of whether petitioner resides in South Brunswick, the facts of this matter are summarized as follows.[1]

Petitioner enrolled his three children in the District's schools for the 2016-2017 school year, and provided a copy of a lease indicating that he lived at a South Brunswick rental

property. (Certification of Gary McCartney, ¶ 3-4) Upon discovering that petitioner did not live at the South Brunswick rental property, the Board initiated a residency investigation. (Id. at ¶ 5-6) The Board's investigator conducted surveillance between September 1 and October 24, 2016, at the South Brunswick rental property, as well as at petitioner's Franklin Township home. (Id. at ¶ 7-8) The investigator observed the South Brunswick rental property on 27 occasions and never saw petitioner or any activity at the home. (Id. at ¶ 10) By contrast, the investigator observed the Franklin Township home on 31 occasions and saw petitioner's cars parked outside and in the garage on 28 occasions, and the same cars were also seen dropping off the minor children at the bus stop near the South Brunswick property several times. (Id. at ¶ 11-12)

On October 13, 2016, the Board informed petitioner of a residency hearing before the Board to be held on October 24, 2016. (Id. at ¶ 13) By letter dated October 25, 2016, the Board informed petitioner of its determination that petitioner resides in Franklin Township and, therefore, the minor children are ineligible to attend the District's schools. (Id. at ¶ 14)

The Commissioner finds as a preliminary matter that the instant petition should not be dismissed as out of time. As the Commissioner previously noted in her April 20, 2017 decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, when an appeal is filed within 21 days of the date of the district's decision, no child shall be removed from the school during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. Nevertheless, appeals may be filed after expiration of the 21-day period, but the student's right to attend school during the pendency of the appeal is not guaranteed by operation of statute. See Attendance at School Based on Domicile or Residency in the School District: Sample Forms, Notices, and Informational Documents, http://www.state.nj.us/education/code/current/title6a/chap22sample.pdf, p. 15.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner notes that the Initial Decision did not contain any support for its legal conclusion except "See Certification of Gary McCartney and the investigator's report attached thereto as Exhibit A." (Initial Decision at 8). There is no explanation as to the facts on which the ALJ is relying for these conclusions of law, and indicating that the Commissioner should refer to a certification is not a substitute for written legal analysis. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3(c). Nevertheless, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of South Brunswick for the 2016-2017 school year. The Board's investigation showed that – over nearly a two month period – on no occasion was petitioner present at his South Brunswick rental property, while on nearly every occasion, petitioner's cars – the same cars that were observed dropping the minor children off at the bus stop in South Brunswick – were at the Franklin Township location. As such, the Board's determination that petitioner did not reside in South Brunswick was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during the 2016-2017 school year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in South Brunswick. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $35,462.00[2] ($11,873.00 each for A.T. and B.T. to attend middle school, and $11,716.00 for J.T.

[2] It appears that the ALJ used the tuition rate for grades 6-8 ($11,873.00) for all three students. The Certification of Gary McCartney indicates that A.T. and B.T. attended middle school and J.T attended high school. (¶ 16-17). The per pupil tuition costs issued by the Department of Education on February 17, 2017 indicates that the annual tuition cost for grades 6-8 is $11,873.00 and the annual tuition cost for grades 9-12 is $11,716.00.

to attend high school – based on the tuition rates for the entire 2016-2017 school year, during which petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend).[3]

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is modified as stated above and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: 6/20/17

[3] The Initial Decision does not indicate the number of days in which the children were ineligible for school during the 2016-2017 school year and does not calculate the total amount of tuition reimbursement owed. It appears from the record that the minor children are still attending school in South Brunswick, and have for the entire school year. As the school year will be concluded by the time the parties receive this decision, the Commissioner assumes that the children attended school in the district for the full 180 days; accordingly, her assessment of tuition owed is based on attendance for the full 180 day school year.

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter is before the undersigned on remand pursuant to the Decision of the Acting Commissioner of Education, dated April 20, 2017, requiring the undersigned to set forth a recitation of facts. (J-1)

Petitioner challenges Respondent Board of Education's residency determination.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 20, 2016, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, bearing OAL Docket No. EDU 19075-16.

A prehearing conference was held on January 6, 2017. A prehearing order, dated January 6, 2017, was entered by the undersigned.

Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petitioner's appeal with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on December 16, 2016, prior to the matter being transferred to the OAL, and before a decision on said motion was made. Respondent simultaneously filed its Answer and Cross Petition with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes.

Pursuant to the pretrial Order entered on January 6, 2017, Petitioner was permitted ten days from the receipt of said motion to respond. No response was submitted.

On February 24, 2017, Respondent filed a certification of Gary McCartney, Superintendent of the South Brunswick Board of Education.

On March 3, 2017, Respondent's counsel provided a letter from the New Jersey Department of Education setting forth Tuition Costs per Pupil for the 2015-2016 school year.

ISSUES

1. Did Respondent err in its determination that Petitioner's three children did not reside in South Brunswick and were ineligible to attend school in the South Brunswick School District; and, is petitioners claim time barred?
2. Are Respondent's entitled tuition reimbursement?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The Preliminary Statement and the Factual Background set forth in Respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss, which are attached hereto and made a part hereof, are adopted herein as if set forth at length. (R-3)

The facts set forth in the Certification of Gary McCartney, which are attached hereto and made a part hereof, are adopted herein as if set forth at length. (R-4)

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The residency decision of Respondent was adopted on October 24, 2016, which determined that petitioner's children did not reside with the District, and a letter setting forth the same was mailed to the petitioner on October 25, 2016. (R-4, pg. 3, paragraphs 13 and 14)

2. Petitioner was advised in said October 25, 2016 letter that should he disagree with the District's decision he had the right to appeal within 21 days of the notice. (Exhibit C of R-3)

3. Petitioner did not file an appeal until November 22, 2016.[1] (P-1)

4. Petitioner's appeal was filed more than twenty-one days after notice of the District's decision.

[1] There are two identical residency appeals, one dated November 22, 2016 and one dated November 25, 2016. For purposes of this decision the November 22, 2016 filing date shall be used.

5. The tuition cost per pupil for grades 6-8 is $11,873 for the 2015-16 school year, or $66.00 per day. (R-5)

6. Petitioner's children did not reside with the District, and have not so resided from the 2015-2016 school year to the present. (R-2, page 2, paragraph 4; R-3; and, R-4)

7. On February 9, 2016, the District determined that neither petitioner or his children resided within the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 4)

8. The District and petitioner had previously entered into a settlement agreement on August 31, 2016, wherein petitioner represented that he was in the process of renting an apartment in the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 5)

9. The District became aware that petitioner and his children were not residing in the District and commenced a residency investigation which determined that petitioner and his children did not reside in the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 6; R-4)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Standard of Review

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g) states, "Nothing in this section precludes the filing of a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to a petition, provided that such motion is filed within the time allotted for the filing of an answer. Briefing on such motions shall be in the manner and within the time fixed by the Commissioner, or by the ALJ if the motion is to be briefed following transmittal to the OAL."

In ruling on a motion to dismiss:

> The judge considers whether all of the evidence together with all legitimate inferences could sustain a judgment in favor of the party opposing the motion. The judge is not concerned with the weight, worth, nature or extent of the evidence. The judge must accept all evidence supporting the party defending against the motion and accord that party > the benefit of all inferences that can and legitimately be deducted therefrom...

Myles Hart v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, 2014 WL 3708621 (citing New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, §5, 19, at 259-60).

Petitioner did not file a response to Respondent's motion to dismiss. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;

b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in > this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. In the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

In the instant matter, Respondent notified Petitioner of the residency hearing by letter dated October 13, 2016. The residency hearing was held on October 24, 2016. By letter dated October 26, 2016, Petitioner was advised of Respondent's determination that his children were not eligible to attend school in the Respondent School District. Petitioner was advised in said letter of his right to contest Respondent School District's decision within twenty-one days. Petitioner did not file the pro se residency appeal until November 22, 2016. Said appeal was dated November 20, 2016. The twenty-one day period in which to file expired on November 15, 2016.

Right to a Free Public Education

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a),

> (a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:
>
> 1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;
>
> 2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;
>
> . . .
>
> 3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;
>
>
> . . .
>
>
> 8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.

> (b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above, and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.
> (c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant, and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

In S.S. ex rel. A.S. and A.S. v. Bd. of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County, EDU 192-12, Initial Decision (August 26, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal, evidence submitted by an investigator hired by the Marlboro New Jersey School District to determine whether certain minor children who were enrolled in the school district in fact were domiciled therein within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) was sufficient to establish that the children in fact were not domiciled in the district during the period in question and, instead, supported a conclusion that the minors resided at their grandmother's home in Edison New Jersey. Even though their mother had submitted documentation of the type described in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a) that supported her claim that the minors were domiciled in Marlboro, the circumstances of the mother's employment, which included late hours, was such that the minors were properly found to be residing with their grandmother. On that basis, the administrative law judge recommended that the Department of Education find the mother liable for tuition for the minors.

In the instant matter, it is clear that neither Petitioner, nor his children, resided within Respondent's school district. (See Certification of Gary McCartney and the investigator's report attached thereto as Exhibit A)

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 states:

> (a) If an appeal to the Commissioner is filed by the parent, guardian, adult student, or school district resident > keeping an "affidavit" student and the petitioner does not sustain the burden of demonstrating the student's right to attend the school district, or the petitioner withdraws the appeal, fails to prosecute, or abandons the appeal by any means other than settlement agreeing to waive or reduce tuition, the Commissioner may assess tuition for the period during which the hearing and decision on appeal were pending, and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal.

> 1. Upon the Commissioner's finding that an appeal has been abandoned, the district board of education may remove the student from school and seek tuition for up to one year of ineligible attendance pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1(a) plus the period of ineligible attendance after the appeal was filed. If the record of the appeal includes a calculation reflecting the tuition rate(s) for the year(s) at issue, the per diem tuition rate for the current year and the date on which the student's ineligible attendance began, the Commissioner may order payment of tuition as part of his or her decision. In doing so, the Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error. If the record does not include such a calculation and the district board of education has filed a counterclaim for tuition, the counterclaim shall proceed to a hearing notwithstanding that the petition has been abandoned.
> 2. An order of the Commissioner assessing tuition is enforceable through recording, upon request of the district board of education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-12, on the judgment docket of the Superior Court, Law Division, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

Cleary, Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof to demonstrate J.T., A.T. and B.T. have the right to attend the Respondent school, and Respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3 states in pertinent part: a) Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with

V.	:	DECISION
GLADYS RIVERA AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former member of the Bloomfield Board of Education (Board) – challenged the eligibility of respondent, Gladys Rivera – currently a member of the Board – to serve in that capacity, based on a residency requirement. Petitioner asserted that Rivera had not been a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the board election as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Petitioner filed an application for emergency relief in this matter, which was denied. A plenary hearing was held in the matter on February 7, 2017, after which the record was closed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the question posed in this matter is when did respondent Rivera become a bona fide resident of Bloomfield; Rivera was elected to the Board in November 2016; petitioner ran for re-election to a third term in the same race, but failed to earn enough votes to continue his service on the Board; soon after the election, questions were raised about the residency of respondent, and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board; petitioner retained the services of a detective agency to conduct a residency investigation on respondent; the resulting detective's report concluded that respondent lived in Elizabeth rather than Bloomfield; on the other hand, respondent provided testimony from herself and others that contradicted the facts and assumptions of the detective's report, and indicated that respondent had relocated to Bloomfield after beginning a romantic relationship with her now-fiancé in April 2015; and the pivotal issue here is whether petitioner has satisfied his burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent did not reside in Bloomfield for the requisite period of time. The ALJ concluded that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to the Bloomfield Board of Education. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

SHANE BERGER,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
GLADYS RIVERA AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Shane Berger. This matter involves a claim by the petitioner that respondent, Gladys Rivera – a current member of the Bloomfield Board of Education (Board) – was not a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the school board election as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.[1] In this case, the relevant school board election was held on November 8, 2016. Following a hearing at the OAL, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petitioner did not present sufficient evidence to establish that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to a seat on the Board. Therefore, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

In his exceptions, the petitioner maintains that the ALJ erred when she concluded that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that the respondent was not a resident in Bloomfield for the requisite one year period prior to the school board election. In successfully challenged. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The respondent maintains that she moved into her fiancé's residence in Bloomfield before November 8, 2015. The ALJ found that the respondent testified plausibly and her fiancé testified credibly in connection with concerns raised by the petitioner regarding where the respondent resided during the relevant period. It is clear that the ALJ's ultimate determination in this matter was dictated by which party had the burden of proof. Notwithstanding the petitioner's contentions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's determinations of witness credibility or her application of the petitioner's burden of proof to find that the petitioner did not present enough evidence to prove that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield as of November 8, 2015.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, Shane Berger, asserts that Gladys Rivera, currently a member of the Board of Education of Bloomfield, Essex County, New Jersey, had not been a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the election as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.

Petitioner filed an application for emergency relief seeking an Order voiding the candidacy of Rivera for a seat on the Board and enjoining Rivera from continuing to occupy a seat and/or removing her from her elected position.

Oral argument was heard on January 5, 2017, and on January 6, 2017, an Order was issued denying the emergent relief sought.

The matter was scheduled for plenary hearing on February 7, 2017, and was heard on that date, at the conclusion of which the record closed.

TESTIMONY

Edward Koster

Edward Koster has been the director of the Spartan Detective Agency for three and a half years. He previously served as a police officer for twenty-five years in the Township of Union. He was asked by petitioner to conduct an investigation of Gladys E. Rivera. He generated two reports, one that was later determined to be related to a different Gladys Rivera, and a second that investigated the correct person. (P-2.) The report, dated January 13, 2017, revealed that as of that date Ms. Rivera's address was 542 South Broad Street, in Elizabeth, N.J. Koster used several databases in his research, and checked telephone numbers and cell-phone numbers, and cross-referenced everything, and nothing came up to suggest that Ms. Rivera resided in Bloomfield, N.J., as of January 13, 2017. Her cell-phone bill does not go to the Bloomfield address, nor do any utility bills.

Jill Fischman

Jill Fischman is in her second term on the Bloomfield Board of Education and served as president from June 2016 until December 2016. She was notified in December 2016 that questions had arisen regarding respondent's residency, and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board of Education. Ms. Fischman testified that she sent respondent a text message indicating that there were concerns about her residency, and asked for proof of residency. In turn, respondent sent Ms. Fischman her New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC) change-of-address form dated March 24, 2016.[1] Respondent indicated that she would provide additional proofs, or a letter from her landlord; however, none of those things were forthcoming, and Ms. Fischman heard nothing further from respondent regarding the request for additional proofs of residency.

As a result, Ms. Fischman asked Nicholas Dotoli, Esq., Board attorney, to seek the assistance of the police department in determining respondent's residency. She does not know what they did and did not receive any reports. She asked for the inquiry because respondent had said that her campaign manager would provide additional proofs of residency, and did not, and so she asked that a police check be undertaken.

Leonardo Marin III

Leonardo Marin has resided at 329 Ampere Park in Bloomfield for four years with his mother and younger brother. He indicated that he has been the building supervisor for those four years, for which he receives no salary, but does receive additional property privileges, including use of the patio and additional parking. The residence is a three-family house and he lives on the second floor. The third-floor tenant is Richard Mendez, who has lived there approximately nine years, and now Gladys Rivera, respondent, who moved in with Mr. Mendez in April 2016. Marin testified that he had just finished a course of physical therapy for a sports injury at the time, and noted her moving boxes in gradually.

[1] This is only eight months before the election.

Vincent Kearney

Lieutenant Kearney has been employed by the Bloomfield Police Department for sixteen years and is the lieutenant in charge of the Internal Affairs Division. He has been a lieutenant since 2014, and prior to that was a sergeant for five years. He was asked by the police director to do an investigation of respondent, and was provided with the Spartan report and the letter from Mr. Marin. He determined that respondent moved to Bloomfield in the spring of 2016, sometime between the dates of March 9 and April 19, 2016, and that prior to that she resided at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth, N.J. An MVC search revealed that on March 9, 2016, the address on her driver's license had been changed to 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield. He checked the voter-registration system, which revealed that respondent changed her voter registration to the Bloomfield address on April 19, 2016. He also found prior voter registrations at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth (until September 2016) and a prior voting address of 527 Morris Avenue, also in Elizabeth, N.J.

Lieutenant Kearney then conducted witness interviews, including of Mr. Marin, who indicated that respondent moved into his building in April, and that at some point, "several months ago," Richard Mendez had asked permission for respondent to move in with him. Marin did not recall exactly when Mendez had sought permission, but indicated that it was several months before Lieutenant Kearney spoke to him in January 2017.

Lieutenant Kearney testified that he did not speak to respondent's prior landlord. He also testified that NJ MVC laws require individuals who move to change their address within fourteen days or they can receive a summons.

Shane Berger

Mr. Berger is self-employed and owns a chain of laundromats. He was elected to the Bloomfield Board of Education in 2010 and reelected in 2013, and has served as chairman of every committee. He has also served as the liaison for every school; however, he was not reelected in the last cycle in 2016, and came in fourth place. He has also previously served on the county school board association, and was the State chairman of the Standards and Assessments Standing Committee.

Mr. Berger testified that many people reached out to him indicating that "someone needs to do something" about the fact that a nonresident had been elected to the Board. He recognized that he would not get the seat if respondent were unseated; however, he felt that residency issues are important matters that the Board has to address, and that if a Board member does not even comply, how can they determine residency compliance by others?

Berger testified that he went to the county superintendent of elections and was advised that the onus is on the district to determine respondent's residency. He then met with the Board attorney, Mr. Dotoli, and the superintendent, Mr. Gonzalez. Soon thereafter, he received a call from the county superintendent's office instructing him how to challenge the election results.

Berger testified that he wants credibility for the Board of Education, and that the residency of Board members cannot be in question. He says he is doing his civic duty. He believes respondent did not live in town for the requisite one year prior to the election, and that she has provided no proof otherwise, despite requests from the then-president of the Board, Ms. Fischman.

Nicholas J. Dotoli

Mr. Dotoli is employed by the Bloomfield Township Board of Education as director of human resources and general counsel. He oversees all employment acts and certification issues and also oversees special education. He advises the Board members and reports to the superintendent.

Residency issues related to respondent came to his attention from members of the community who were concerned whether there had been compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, et seq., and whether respondent actually lived in town. He sent an email to the police director (R-1) at the request of the Board president, Ms. Fischman, to investigate the residency issue. He also spoke to Lieutenant Kearney regarding his report, and was concerned that respondent had moved to Bloomfield in April 2016.

He testified that he has never had to do an investigation of a Board member. He agreed that investigations are conducted of student residency issues, but he does not feel the same standards apply under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. A student may not attend school if not a resident of the district, but he does not believe it is within his jurisdiction to make sure the Board members are qualified to sit, and feels that is the responsibility of the County Board of Elections, which has jurisdiction to determine if Board members have met the requirements.[2]

Amarilis Martinez

Ms. Martinez testified that she lives at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, which is a two-family home that she has owned for thirty-six years. She stated that respondent rented a room from her from early 2015 until June 30, 2015, pursuant to her rent receipts. At the end of June 2015, respondent moved out and moved in with her boyfriend, Richard

[2] Under the school laws governing the qualifications of school-board members, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 to -2.2, "[e]ach member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district . . . and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Moreover, "[w]henever a member of a local or regional board of education shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district . . . his membership in the board shall immediately cease." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3. And, in the event a school-board member is removed because he is not a resident of the district, the county superintendent of schools shall fill the vacancy. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15(a).

The Commissioner of Education has "jurisdiction to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. However, in 1995 the Legislature "transfer[red] responsibility for the conduct of school elections from boards of education to the officials responsible for conducting other elections under New Jersey's election code (Title 19 of the Revised Statutes)," and "jurisdiction over school election-related disputes [was] removed from the Commissioner of Education and State Board of Education, so that such disputes will be handled in the same manner as those arising with respect to other elections." P.L. 1995, c. 278; Statement to Senate Amendments to A1705 (adopted June 12, 1995). As a result of that change, "controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Thus, while the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over the conduct of school elections, the Commissioner still has jurisdiction over post-election challenges to a board member's qualifications, including the residency requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. See, e.g., Bd. of Educ. of Sea Isle v. Kennedy, EDU 2028-05, Comm'r (June 30, 2005) (confirming that the Commissioner is the one "to whom adjudication of board member qualification is reserved in the event of a dispute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9"), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (January 4, 2006), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, aff'd, 393 N.J. Super. 93 (App. Div. 2007) (stating that "[c]laims regarding an individual's qualifications to serve on a local board fall under the Commissioner.s jurisdiction"), aff'd, modified for other reasons, 196 N.J. 1 (2008).

Mendez, in Bloomfield. She believes that they became engaged on July 5, 2015, and moved in together around that time. Her daughter is married to respondent's son, and both her sons now live in the building as of June 2015, when respondent moved out. She testified that respondent paid $300 a month for the room. She stated that respondent still receives mail at her address, and that she comes there every weekend, because "she is family," as they are both grandmothers to the same children.

Aida Ortiz

Ms. Ortiz testified that she lives at 12 Turnbridge Place in Bloomfield, N.J., where she has lived for seventeen years. She has known respondent since Mother's Day 2015, when her son introduced Rivera as his fiancée. Her son resides at 329 Ampere Parkway, Bloomfield, and Ms. Ortiz testified that she was there when respondent moved in with her son at that address. She testified that she helped bring some things upstairs. Respondent was unsure of the security of the mail at the Bloomfield address because she did not trust the residents there, and so she still sends mail to Ms. Ortiz's home in Bloomfield. Respondent asked her almost a year ago if she could use her address to send mail to. She also stated that respondent took a "small bedroom set" into the apartment, and that she unpacked clothes and dishes for about two hours, helping to empty out a small truck they rented.

Richard Mendez

Mr. Mendez testified that he has lived at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield for three and a half or four years, and that respondent is his fiancée. He testified that they met online on April 10, 2015; started dating about a week later; and became engaged on July 5, 2015. He testified that he introduced her to his mother, Ms. Ortiz, on Mother's Day of 2015, and that she moved into his apartment at the end of June or in early July 2015. Mr. Mendez provided a receipt for the engagement ring dated June 8, 2015. (R-2.) He agrees that respondent asked his mother if her mail could go to his mom's house because they felt there was mail tampering since she moved in with him.

Mendez stated that when his mother met respondent in May 2015 she was not yet his fiancée, and so his mother was incorrect when she said that respondent was introduced to her as his fiancée.

He also stated that his mail was tampered with in July 2015, so they began to send their mail to his mother's address, and that his mother's address is on all his bills and checks.[3] The mailboxes at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield do not have locks on them; however, the mailbox at his mother's house does, so all the mail goes here. Mendez confirmed that he asked permission of the landlord for respondent to move in around June of 2015. He also stated that respondent does not pay any of the bills.

Finally, Mendez testified that a joint account with respondent was opened on August 3, 2015. (R-3.)

Gladys Rivera

Ms. Rivera testified that from January 2015 until the end of June 2015 she lived at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth. She then said she had moved there at the end of August 2014. At the end of June 2015 she moved into 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, with Richard Mendez. She arranged at the time for her mail to remain coming to the Fulton Street address until she was comfortable with mail going to Bloomfield. She believed that Leo Marin's younger brother would go through the mailbox, and so arranged for bank statements and certain other mail to go to her mother's address, and other mail to continue to go to Martinez's address.

Rivera testified that she "started off fine" with other tenants at the Bloomfield address; however, relationships changed when the Marins had her daughter's car towed from the driveway one day. It was parked in Mr. Mendez's spot at the time, yet it was towed. The Marin boys continued to visit, as they were friendly with Mendez's son; however, their mother, Teresa, no longer spoke to her.

[3] None were produced and there was no indication they had been requested to be produced.

Ms. Rivera testified that her fiancé's mother, Aida Ortiz, helped a bit with the move. They had an SUV that they used, but did not bring any furniture; they had a futon delivered a few weeks later. She stated that she moved in with Mendez in July 2015 after Ms. Martinez needed the room she had been renting for another son, who moved in when she moved out, and remains living there today. She had nowhere to go back to, and so moved in with Mr. Mendez.

Rivera agreed that she had been asked for proof of residency, and only provided an MVC address-change form from March 2016, and that other address changes slipped her mind because a lot was going on. She stated that her cell-phone bill goes to her son because it is in his name, and that the bank statement for her personal account goes to Ms. Martinez's home at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth. The statements for the joint account with Mr. Mendez go to 12 Turnbridge Place in Bloomfield, Ms. Ortiz's home. She testified that she changed her voter registration in March or April 2016, and agreed that there are no bills or other utilities in her name, and that she is not on the lease. Rivera again stated that she lived at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth from December 2010 until August 2014,[4] and then moved to 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, but she did not change her address because she "didn't see a need."

Based upon consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

Gladys Rivera is a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield in Essex County. An election was held in November 2016 for four seats on the Board. Three seats were for three-year terms and one seat was for a one-year term. Respondent earned 4,258 votes for one of the three-year seats, and thus was seated.

[4] This varies from Ms. Martinez's testimony and the rent receipts she referenced, which she indicated reflected that Rivera rented the room from January 2015 through June 2015.

Petitioner ran in the same election, also seeking a three-year term, and placed fourth, with 2,670 votes.

Soon after the election, questions were raised about the residency of Ms. Rivera and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board. The president of the Board at the time, Jill Fischman, advised respondent of the concerns that had been raised as to her residency and asked for proof that Ms. Rivera did indeed reside in Bloomfield. In response to this inquiry, respondent sent Ms. Fischman the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission address form dated March 24, 2016. Rivera indicated she would provide additional proofs and a letter from her landlord; however, no additional proofs were received by Ms. Fischman.

Ms. Fischman then requested that the Board attorney, Nicholas Dotoli, Esq., ask the police department for help in determining respondent's residency. That was her last involvement with the issue.

Believing that Rivera had not resided in Bloomfield for the one year immediately prior to the election as is required by statute, petitioner retained the services of the Spartan Detective Agency to conduct a search on Rivera. The investigator reported that as of the date of his report, January 13, 2017, all information came back indicating Ms. Rivera's address to be 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth, New Jersey. He concluded that she resided at the address following voter-registration searches, motor-vehicle searches, and cell-phone searches, as more fully detailed in a twenty-five-page report he provided to petitioner. He also determined that Rivera was registered to vote in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and therefore also did not meet the requirement of the statute that she be registered to vote in the district. After receiving the report, petitioner filed his application to have her removed from her position on the Board.

Respondent previously resided at 542 South Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey. She then moved to 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and lived there from either August 2014 or January 2015 until the end of June 2015, when she moved out.

Respondent and Richard Mendez met online on April 10, 2015, and started dating about a week later, becoming engaged on July 5, 2015. Respondent moved in with Mendez at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, New Jersey, sometime between July 1, 2015, and March 9, 2016. Respondent and Mendez opened a joint bank account on August 3, 2015.

On March 9, 2016, Rivera changed the address on her driver's license to 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, New Jersey. Respondent changed her voter registration to Bloomfield, New Jersey, on April 19, 2016.

Respondent has her mail delivered to her mother's address, to Ms. Ortiz's[5] address, and to Ms. Martinez's[6] address.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, Qualifications, provides in salient part as follows:

> Each member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district, or of such constituent district of a consolidated or regional district as may be required by law, and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election, he shall be able to read and write, shall be registered to vote in the district, and, notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S. 2C:51-1 or any other law to the contrary, he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1 . . . .

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.1, Oaths, provides as follows:

> Each member of the board of education shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe:
> > (1) An oath that he possesses the qualifications of membership prescribed by law, including a specific declaration that he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1 and a specific declaration that > he is not disqualified due to conviction of a crime or offense listed in N.J.S. 18A:12-1, and that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office, and also

[5] Aida Ortiz is Mr. Mendez's mother.
[6] Martinez's daughter is married to respondent's son.

> In the case of a Type I school district the oath shall be filed with the clerk of the municipality and in all other cases it shall be filed with the secretary of the board of education of the district.

The question then is, when did Rivera become a bona fide resident of Bloomfield, New Jersey? The petitioner in this matter asserts that respondent is not eligible for membership on the Board for having failed to meet the one-year residency requirement of the statute. Petitioner seeks to have respondent removed from the Board. Respondent contends that she was a resident of Bloomfield for more than one year preceding her election and that the burden is on the petitioner to prove she was not.

As a threshold matter, it must be presumed that respondent met the requirements of the County Board of Elections, because respondent's name was printed on the ballot. The Board of Elections must therefore, have been satisfied that the candidate was qualified by residence, among other things, to be elected to the Board.

It is well settled that a person can have more than one residence, but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 517 (1999). The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959).

Respondent testified that she registered to vote in Bloomfield in March or April of 2016; however, no testimony was offered as to whether respondent did in fact vote in Bloomfield in the following election cycle. However, failure to vote is not proof of lack of residence; indeed, the notion that she was still a resident of Elizabeth would be disproven with the same argument.

The basis of the petition in this matter is primarily threefold: (1) respondent receives no bills or any other mail at the Bloomfield address; (2) respondent was registered to vote in Elizabeth, New Jersey, until March or April 2016; and (3) respondent changed the address on her driver's license in March 2016. When asked by the president of the Board of Education for proof as to her residency, respondent failed to provide any, other than the MVC address change processed less than eight months before the election. While at first blush it appears that respondent had not established domicile in Bloomfield within the requisite one year, she offered the plausible explanation that the mail was not secure at the Bloomfield address, and so all of her bills and bank statements continued to be sent to prior addresses or to her mother's home. The pivotal issue, therefore, in this matter is whether petitioner has satisfied his burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible, competent evidence, that respondent did not reside in Bloomfield for the requisite period of time.

In connection with that determination, it is necessary for me to assess and weigh the credibility of the witnesses for purposes of making factual findings as to the disputed facts. Credibility is the value that a finder of facts gives to a witness' testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible," and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or

"overborne" by the testimony or other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Dep't of Cmty. Affairs, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

It is also necessary to consider the nature of the evidence presented. Hearsay evidence is admissible in administrative proceedings and "shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a). Notwithstanding the admissibility of hearsay evidence, the "residuum rule" requires that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). In the words of the New Jersey Supreme Court:

> [A] fact finding or a legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it.
> [Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, 51 (1972).]

In this matter, the record includes contradictory testimony related almost solely to the failure to submit changes of address. The Spartan Detective Agency report reflects Elizabeth addresses for everything in respondent's name, through the date of the report in January 2017. The preliminary investigation by the police department reflects largely the same information, along with reports of interviews, including that of Mr. Marin, who indicated that respondent had only moved in "several months ago."[7] The testimony of Ms. Martinez was of limited usefulness, and the date she alleges respondent began renting a room from her differs from the testimony of respondent. Additionally, the testimony of Ms. Ortiz conflicted with that of respondent in terms of the furniture purportedly moved into the Bloomfield address. Mr. Mendez testified credibly regarding the issues with the mail that respondent experienced at his address. Respondent's testimony regarding those issues with the mail was plausible.

Notwithstanding the efforts of petitioner to attempt to shift the burden of proof to respondent, ultimately the allegations and testimony of respondent have not been successfully challenged, and the burden of proof rests squarely with petitioner. It is the sworn testimony of respondent that she resided in Bloomfield for more than one year preceding the school-board election in November 2016. Her prior residence in Elizabeth has been occupied by the owner's son since respondent moved out, and she cannot return there. The MVC address change in March 2016 and the voter-registration address change in April 2016 are not, by themselves, sufficient to discredit respondent's testimony that Bloomfield was her residence and domicile from and after July 2015. Petitioner's contention that the failure to file change-of-address forms, or to receive mail at the Bloomfield address, is proof of no change in domicile from Elizabeth, is insufficient to refute the limited testimony to the contrary.

Clearly, significant question remains as to whether respondent was domiciled in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election. However, absent competent, credible evidence of the contrary, no consideration can be given to granting the extraordinary relief sought of removal from the Board.

"The plaintiff's residence will be presumed to be where he alleges it to be, unless the contrary appear." 71 N.J.L. 115 (Sup. Ct. 1904).

[7] Mr. Marin testified on direct examination that he observed Rivera visit the home "on and off" on weekends, commencing in January 2015. This was three months before Rivera and Mendez met. On redirect, he indicated that he began to see her "dating back to July 2015," and that Rivera started moving boxes in around April 2015.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I am constrained to CONCLUDE that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that respondent was not a resident in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to a seat on the Bloomfield Board of Education.

ORDER

The petition to declare that Gladys Rivera was not a bona fide resident of the Township of Bloomfield, Essex County, New Jersey, for one year prior to her election to the Board of Education is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner, O.W., filed a petition on September 1, 2016 on behalf of her minor daughter, I.W., who transferred from Newark Public Schools to West Orange Public Schools in March of 2012. The respondent Boards filed separate motions to dismiss in October 2016, asserting, inter alia, that the petition is time barred as it was filed outside of the 90 day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: it appears petitioner feels that some inappropriate actions were taken by Newark and West Orange school officials with respect to her daughter, I.W., while she was a student in the respondents' school districts; however, the incoherent nature of the petition in the instant case makes it impossible to discern exactly what petitioner's claims are, or what relief she requests; petitioner lists fourteen separate New Jersey statutes under which she requested a declaratory ruling; the dates of the violations alleged by petitioner are also difficult to discern, but all of the claims appear to reference incidents that allegedly occurred between 2008 and 2012; of the fourteen statutes cited by petitioner, six are not school laws; therefore, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction to hear cases arising under them; as to the remaining statutes, the incidents alleged by petitioner occurred well past the 90 day time limitation on such claims. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petition should be dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over any of the allegations that do not arise out of the school laws of this State. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that petitioner's claims are time-barred, as the petition references events that took place between 2008 and 2012, while this petition was filed on September 12, 2016. As such, the matter is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein and the petition is hereby dismissed.

At best, it is possible to gather that the Petitioner feels that some inappropriate actions were taken, in violation of the statutes she cites to, by both Newark and/or West Orange officials with respect to her daughter I.W. while she was a student in the Newark and/or West Orange School Districts. However, due to the incoherent nature of the petition, it is impossible to discern what exactly those inappropriate actions are alleged to have been, or whether they were committed by representatives of Newark or West Orange. For example, the petitioner alleges the following with regard to her accusation of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-29, a statute that addresses truancy:

> Principal Wanda B.-Long noticed Spring 2006 parent habit standing at main entrance beneath posted clock showing correct time, four days alongside entrance meeting with Security. Principal asserted, a call to police to give warning and/or arrest of parent intent continue habitual hourly visits. Principal Long would have exercise right to place child/student with relative(s). The relief Petitioner requests is as follows:

> WHEREFORE, petitioner requests educators power do not abuse public school student having adequate care in aspiration of bad faith arrange an experience of hardship. The educators' courteous and polite professional mannerism on a daily educational experience is civil and a good. Petitioner offers descriptions of similar clarity and construction for all of the statutes she alleges Newark and/or West Orange have violated. Moreover, the dates of these alleged violations are equally difficult to discern, but all of Petitioner's claims appear to reference incidents that allegedly occurred between 2008 and 2012. See generally, Pet.[2]

Petitioner's daughter I.W. was a Newark student until approximately March of 2012, when she transferred to West Orange. LEGAL DISCUSSION

A. Claims subject to dismissal for lack of jurisdiction:

N.J.S.A. 6A:3-2.1(a) establishes the Commissioner of Education's authority to issue declaratory rulings:

> Pursuant to [statutory authority], any interested persons may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling with respect to rights, responsibilities and status arising from any statute or rule within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner.

N.J.S.A. 6A:3-1.1(a) establishes the Commissioner of Education's authority to hear cases:

> This chapter sets forth the rules of procedure established by the Department of Education for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws.

[2] There is one reference to September 1, 2016 which reads: "parent on September 01, -2016 West Orange Board of Education request the names of employee dismissed for specific respondent information, Mr. D. Zacwocki requested student's name to enter in computer." Pet. 10 (errors in original). It is not at all clear what this means. Moreover, this quoted portion of the petition is found under the following heading: "7. N.J.S.A. 2C:13-9. Human trafficking as a crime of second degree: elements; proof; penalties." Pet. 9.

I FIND that statutes 3 through 8 cited by Petitioner are not "school laws" and thus the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction to issue declaratory rulings regarding them or hear cases arising under them. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's claims 3 through 8 should be dismissed.

B. Claims subject to dismissal for timeliness:

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) address time limitations on petitions to the Commissioner of Education:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(b) makes the timeliness standard from petitions to appeal found at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) applicable to petitions for declaratory rulings:

> [T]he rules pertaining to filing, service and answer of petitions as set forth in this chapter shall apply to petitions for declaratory ruling.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(b).]

Of the statutes Petitioner lists that are within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education, the Petition references events taking place between the years of 2008 and 2012. In light of I.W.'s transfer to West Orange in 2012, I FIND that any claims Petitioner might have against West Orange that are subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education are plainly time-barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and I CONCLUDE therefore that they should be dismissed.

Moreover, Newark and West Orange both state that I.W. transferred from Newark to West Orange on March 6, 2012. Newark Memo 4; West Orange Brief 2. The Petitioner's submission also appears to reference March 6, 2012, more specifically as the date I.W. was subjected to "a dishonorable order," as well as "corporal punishment." Pet. 3, 5. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that all of Petitioner's claims against Newark are time-barred as well and should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

The petition warrants dismissal for a multitude of reasons, not the least of which is the fact that it appears that all of the behavior her "claims" address took place in 2008 at the earliest, and in 2012 at the latest. These incidents are well past the 90 day time limitation on such claims.

Of even greater significance is the fact that the Petitioner's submission is incoherent and incomprehensible. Even if the petition did reference actions by Newark or West Orange that were alleged to have occurred within the past 90 days, it remains impossible to decipher what exactly those actions were.

Finally, I FIND that the majority of the statutes cited by Petitioner are not school laws, and thus are not within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that all of Petitioner's claims should be dismissed.

ORDER

Based upon all of the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition in this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this case, the petitioner is challenging the Morris County Vocational School District's (District) admission policy. The petitioner seeks an Order requiring the District to immediately reconsider all of its admission decisions and apply an objective assessment to all applications.[1] The ALJ denied the petitioner's request for emergent relief.[2]

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The party seeking such relief

[1] It should be noted that the petitioner did not file the petition of appeal on behalf of his minor child, who was not accepted to the District's Mathematics, Science and Engineering program for the 2017-2018 school year. Instead, the petitioner named himself in the petition as a parent and taxpayer in the District and sought immediate reconsideration of all admission decisions for every applicant.

[2]The recommended Order does not state any facts or provide any indication whatsoever as to why the petitioner did not satisfy the requirements for emergent relief. Based upon a review of the audio recording from the hearing at the OAL, it appears the ALJ found that the petitioner did not show that he would personally suffer irreparable harm if the relief was not granted because he was not an applicant. Additionally, the ALJ suggests that the petitioner did not establish a likelihood of success on the merits because he did not provide any evidence that the current admission process was unlawful. Although the ALJ's determinations on these Crowe factors can be gleaned from the ALJ's exchange with the parties at the hearing, the ALJ did not issue a verbal Order on the record outlining his reasons for denying petitioner's motion for emergent relief.

must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Upon a review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds that the petitioner has failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief. Most notably, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying appeal. Specifically, the petitioner has not made a preliminary showing that the District's current admission policy is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

In response to the petition of appeal and request for emergent relief, the District submitted an affidavit of the superintendent wherein he states that the District has developed a multiple-measure admissions rubric that is designed to be as fair and equitable as possible to all applicants. Among other factors, the admissions rubric involves the use of an applicant's final 7th grade averages for English, Mathematics, Science and Social Studies, without distinction between honors, traditional or special education courses and without assigning a factor for weighing different school districts. In his petition, the petitioner challenges the District's practice of interviewing the applicants and he maintains that the criteria for admission that is used by the District is unfair to students who take honors courses. The petitioner, however, has failed to present the requisite evidence necessary to show on a motion for emergent relief that the District's multi-discipline approach to the application process is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, or is in violation of any school law. See, Ann Kopera v. Board of Education of West Orange, Essex County, et al., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294-296 (App Div 1960). Therefore, in light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the remaining factors.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed herein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
C. ANN VOLK, EXECUTIVE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, AND E.H., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, K.M.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

In December 2014, the State-Operated School District of Camden (Camden) filed a petition contending that E.H. and minor child K.M. are residents of the City of Camden – despite previously being homeless after losing their home in Voorhees Township – and now live in a Camden home that is "fixed, regular and adequate," thus precluding a determination that they are homeless. Petitioner urged that K.M. is entitled to a free public education in Camden schools, not in Voorhees Township schools. The Executive County Superintendent (ECS) had rejected petitioner's position, concluding that E.H. and K.M. were homeless and, as such, K.M. is entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township at Camden's expense. After E.H. failed to file an answer to the petition, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. An Initial Decision was issued in February 2016, wherein the ALJ found, inter alia, that E.H. and K.M. were no longer homeless as they had lived at a home in Camden that was fixed, regular and adequate for more than four years. Accordingly, summary decision was granted to petitioner. Subsequently, the Commissioner issued a final decision in the matter, which found, inter alia, that the ALJ failed to address all of the issues raised in the petition and the record was devoid of evidence regarding K.M.'s present living conditions; accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

On remand, following a hearing which included testimony from E.H. and others, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Camden home that E.H. shares with family members meets the definition of "fixed, regular and adequate", and therefore K.M. is not homeless; Camden is the district in which K.M. is entitled to receive a free and appropriate education; there is no warrant in the record or circumstances presented to the Commissioner to issue injunctions against a county office; Camden has not presented a basis for any remedy of reimbursement against NJDOE; and the homelessness determination made by the ECS did not fully consider and analyze the entire scenario present in the instant case. The ALJ concluded that the ECS's determination regarding K.M.'s homelessness must be reversed, and Camden's applications for injunctive relief and financial reimbursement must be denied.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, with modification. Specifically, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: the appropriate standard of review for ECS decisions regarding homelessness is de novo; the ALJ properly found the K.M. is no longer homeless, however the ECS's 2014 decision that K.M. was homeless and deemed domiciled in Camden was also proper; the District has no basis for seeking reimbursement from the NJDOE for K.M.'s tuition and transportation costs; petitioner is not entitled to any of the injunctive or declaratory reliefs sought herein; the ECS's process for determining disputes regarding homelessness and financial responsibility for a homeless child's education comports with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq. and the McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C.A. § 11431 et seq; and the ECS's decision in this matter has neither created a new definition of domicile nor a "voucher" system for Camden.

C. ANN VOLK, EXECUTIVE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT, NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, AND E.H., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, K.M.,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the parties, and the replies thereto. In this matter, petitioner[1] challenges the homeless determination of the Executive County Superintendent ("ECS") for Camden County, C. Ann Volk, in reference to minor child, K.M. Petitioner seeks reversal of Volk's determination from September 2014 and October 2014 that K.M. was homeless, and that the District was financially responsible for her education.[2] Furthermore, petitioner requests various declaratory and injunctive reliefs from the Commissioner. Finally, petitioner seeks reimbursement for the cost of K.M.'s education, as well as attorney's fees, from the New Jersey Department of Education ("NJDOE"). Respondent[3] contends that her determination was proper and that K.M. remains homeless; thereby, Camden is required to continue providing tuition and transportation costs for K.M. Respondent further contends that petitioner's requests for declaratory and injunctive relief are improper and must be denied. Additionally, respondent submits that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement or attorney's fee from the NJDOE.

[1] Petitioner shall also be referred to as "Camden" and "District."

[2] K.M. was enrolled in Eastern Regional High School in Voorhees, New Jersey, where she remained enrolled for the time period relevant to this case.

Following transmittal of this matter to the OAL, the parties filed a motion and cross-motion for summary decision before the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"). The ALJ granted summary decision to petitioner on Count One of the petition – finding that K.M. is not homeless because she presently resides in a fixed, adequate, and regular dwelling – but did not address Counts Two through Five of the petition or Camden's request for reimbursement. In a decision dated March 18, 2016, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL, finding that the ALJ failed to address all of the issues raised within the petition and erred in granting summary decision. The Commissioner explained that, given the lack of information contained in the record, a plenary hearing centered upon a comprehensive, fact-specific examination of the family's circumstances was necessary to determine K.M.'s status.

On remand, the ALJ concluded that K.M. lives in a "fixed, regular and adequate residence" and therefore, she is not homeless.[4] The ALJ further concluded that there is no basis for the Commissioner to issue any injunctions in this matter, and that Camden is not entitled to reimbursement from the NJDOE.

Petitioner's exceptions substantially recast and reiterate the arguments made below. Specifically, petitioner argues: 1) Camden is entitled to reimbursement of tuition and transportation costs from the 2012-2013 through the 2016-2017 schools years since K.M. is not homeless, and the NJDOE is responsible for such reimbursement; 2) Camden is entitled to injunctive relief permanently enjoining and requiring Volk to apply the law in making homelessness determinations; 3) Volk's decision has created a new definition for domicile, which permits a general education student from the District to attend an out-of-district school at Camden's expense; 4) Volk has created a "voucher" system by directing Camden to pay for the cost of K.M.'s education in another school district; and 5) as such, the NJDOE must declare that it will not penalize Camden for incurring the cost of tuition and transportation to send its general education students to another school district.

In her reply, respondent expresses her disagreements with petitioner's specific exceptions, and also argues that the ALJ's decision leaves open the question of when K.M.'s homeless status changed. Respondent submits that petitioner cannot assume that K.M. was no longer homeless beginning in the 2012-2013 school year merely because that is the point at which Camden became financially responsible for K.M.'s education. Respondent further argues that the ALJ did not find Volk's decision incorrect; rather, the ALJ reached a different determination based on de novo review of the record and the additional information gathered subsequent to Volk's decision. Respondent also uses this opportunity to reassert her position that a "more-appropriate" standard of review is "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, or whether subsequently-received information requires the decision be reversed."

Respondent's exceptions similarly advance her arguments below. Specifically, respondent argues that the ALJ erred in determining that K.M. is no longer homeless. Respondent submits that K.M. lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence as demonstrated by the family's particular living situation and E.H.'s financial difficulties. Additionally, Respondent argues that the inability of a homeless person to realistically obtain their own residence in the foreseeable future due to economic hardship, together with their long-term residence in a family member's home, does not change their homeless status. Respondent also seeks modification of the ALJ's decision to clarify that there is no temporal limit to homelessness, and a homeless student has the right to attend school in their district of origin even after they are deemed domiciled in another district, so long as they remain homeless. Lastly, respondent further reiterates arguments in support of the ALJ's determination that petitioner is not entitled to the injunctive relief or declaratory relief sought in its petition.

Petitioner argues in its reply that the District is entitled to injunctive relief because "if the Commissioner felt that [s]he was not authorized to issue injunctive relief, then [s]he would not have remanded that portion of the case to the [ALJ]." Petitioner also argues that the Initial Decision creates a new definition of domicile because Camden is "required to pay for tuition and transportation to an out of district school for a general education student who lives in and is domiciled in the City of Camden." Lastly, petitioner reasserts that the ALJ's finding that K.M. is not homeless is proper because K.M. and her family live in a home that has "running water, a kitchen, a bathroom, living areas and bedrooms." Petitioner further notes in its reply, > Respondents would have the Commissioner issue a decision that permits a family to declare itself "homeless" for the entire length of a child's education, spanning 12 years, simply because the family is living in a home that is either not the family's own home or is not where they would prefer to live . . . Respondents are redefining homelessness by creating a situation where [K.M.]'s family, who lives in a stable house for years and years, with the usual amenities found in a regular home, and that specifically fits the definition of "fixed, adequate and regular" is still considered homeless, simply because some people in the home share a bedroom and because this is not where [K.M.]'s mother would prefer to live.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's decision, as modified herein. Specifically, the Commissioner finds that the appropriate standard of review for ECS decisions regarding homelessness is de novo (without deference to the decision below). Additionally, the ALJ properly found that K.M. is no longer homeless; however, Volk's decision in 2014 that K.M. was homeless and deemed domiciled in Camden – and, therefore, the District was responsible for the cost of K.M.'s education – was also proper. Furthermore, the District has no basis for seeking reimbursement from the NJDOE for K.M.'s tuition and transportation costs. The Commissioner also finds that petitioner is not entitled to any of the injunctive and declaratory reliefs sought in this matter.[5] Indubitably, Volk's process for determining disputes regarding homelessness and the financial responsibility for a homeless child's education comports with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq. and the McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C.A. § 11431 et seq. (McKinney-Vento Act), and the decision has neither created a new definition for domicile nor a "voucher" system for Camden.[6]

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.7, "[i]f an appeal of a determination of district of residence also includes an appeal of the determination of homelessness and/or school district of enrollment, the appeal shall be submitted to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3, Controversies and Disputes." The regulations do not specify the standard of review for appeals from ECS decisions in matters of homelessness; however, both parties seek review of this case under the "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" standard. This limited scope of review is the standard used by appellate courts in considering final agency decisions. See Campbell v. Dept. of Civil Service, 39 N.J. 556 (1963). The decisions below are not disturbed "in the absence of a showing that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, or that it lacked fair support in the evidence." Id. at 562. Similarly, in matters where the Commissioner serves as the appellate entity, the "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable" standard is applied to determine whether a previous ruling was improper on the basis that it was made on unreasonable grounds or without appropriate consideration of circumstances. In making such determinations, deference is given to the decision below. See T.R v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan Reg'l Sch. Dist., Commissioner Decision No. 144-15 (May 6, 2015) (citing Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966)) ("[i]t is well established that when a local school board acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable").

[5] Petitioner's request for injunctive and declaratory relief do not merit extensive discussion, as petitioner has no basis in law for same. The Commissioner notes the following, however: 1) Even if petitioner had a right to seek such relief in this matter, Camden cannot establish irreparable harm. More importantly, the Commissioner's decision to remand the matter to the OAL had nothing to with the merits of Camden's claims; rather, it was a procedural action – the matter had already been transmitted to the OAL for a hearing so the ALJ's failure to complete fact-finding and consider all the issues raised in the case rendered the matter incomplete, and 2) Petitioner's request for a declaration from the Commissioner that Camden will not be penalized for paying for the educational costs of "general education students" to attend school in another school district is, simply put, far-fetched. Petitioner has conflated the rights of a "homeless" child – which will be discussed below – with that of "non-homeless" children domiciled/residing in the District.

[6] Petitioner has again misconstrued the law as it applies to homelessness. The Commissioner does not deem it necessary to address Camden's arguments relating to "a new definition of domicile" and "establish[ment] of a voucher system," in detail, as the law is sufficiently clear, and petitioner's arguments are devoid of any legal support. Instead, the Commissioner directs the petitioner's attention to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.5, and corresponding decisional law – which will be discussed below – as they clearly set forth the education of homeless children and the school districts' responsibilities.

Moreover, when the Department has decided to limit the Commissioner's scope of review of specific subordinate divisions or offices, it has expressed that limitation by regulation. E.g., N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1 (decisions of the State Board of Examiners), N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5 (decisions of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association); see also In the Matter of the Certificates of Gail Wunsch, Commissioner Appeal No. 421-16A (December 14, 2016) ("the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of the Board [of Examiners] so long as . . . the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record . . . the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable"), Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp. v. NJSIAA, Commissioner Decision No. 476-12 (December 14, 2012) ("[t]he Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner"). As noted above, no such regulation similarly restricts the scope of review from an ECS determination of homelessness. Significantly, "the agency head is not legally required to give any deference to the staff of the agency, but as the head of an administrative agency is instead required to decide the matter as the agency head deems legally appropriate." Bd. of Trustees of the Passaic Cnty. Elks Cerebral Palsy Center v. NJ Dept. of Educ., OAL Docket. No. EDU 16074-12, Commissioner Decision No. 334-14 (Aug. 14, 2014) (citing Liberty House Nursing Home v. Dep't of Health and Senior Servs., OAL Dkt. No. HLT 7275-09, adopted, Commissioner (Sept. 23, 2010), aff'd, A-1069-10 (App. Div. Mar. 5, 2012) (slip op.), cert. denied, 210 N.J. 478 (2012)).

Accordingly, "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" is not the appropriate standard of review as this matter is not an appeal from a final agency decision, and petitioner has requested the Commissioner's review of a subordinate office within the Department where the Commissioner's scope of review is not limited.

It bears noting that appeals from a determination of homelessness are not solely a request to review and reverse an ECS's decision: the Commissioner must also decide – based on the facts available to her at the conclusion of the hearing at the OAL – whether the child is homeless. Such adjudications are fact-sensitive, and individual circumstances must be thoroughly considered. See M. O'K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Boro of Cresskill, et al, Commissioner Decision No. 325-14 (August 12, 2014), aff'd, A-0828-14T4 (App. Div. Sept. 8, 2016) (slip op.) (Finding "[t]he reasons for a child's homelessness, the child's living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians" are relevant considerations in the evaluation of homelessness). During the time between an ECS's decision (which is ordinarily made within a short period of time and without the convenience of fact-finding or an extensive record) and the Commissioner's review of the appeal, the child's living conditions, and/or the resources and intentions of the family may change. Consequently, the Commissioner's review of the appeal is based on "the facts as they may exist at the conclusion of the hearing held in the OAL and the proper application [of] those facts [to] the existing law." Initial Decision at 13. As such, the Commissioner's independent determination of a student's homeless status is de novo.

In New Jersey, it is well-settled that homelessness determinations are dictated by Federal and State law. Under the McKinney-Vento Act, homeless children are defined as "individuals who lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence," which includes "children sharing housing with other persons due to loss of their own housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason." 42 U.S.C.A. § 11434a. Similarly, under state law, homeless children are defined as "child[ren] or youth who lack[] a fixed, regular and adequate residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2," which includes children living in the "residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2 (emphasis added). As discussed above, determination of homelessness is not temporal, i.e., there is no maximum duration of homelessness, and therefore, the determination must be made on the specific facts and circumstances of the case. The facts in this case support a finding that K.M. is not homeless pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq., and the McKinney-Vento Act because she does not lack a "fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence" and her family's continued residence at her grandmother's home can no longer be considered "resid[ing] out of necessity" due to "economic hardship." See N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2; 42 U.S.C.A. § 11433 and 11434a. See also M. O'K, supra; Bd. of Educ. of the Boro. Of Englewood Cliffs v. E.S. and W.S., o/b/o A.S. and E.S., et al, Commissioner Decision No. 196-10 (June 30, 2010); L.C. o/b/o B.C. v. Bd.of Educ. of the Twp. of Branchburg, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU 1003).

A review of the record indicates that K.M.'s family moved from Voorhees to Camden in 2011 due to loss of residence and economic hardship. The record also reveals that E.H. has been gainfully employed since September 2012 and receives a salary of $65,000, and her two adult children are employed in part-time positions.[7] E.H. testified that she is unable to receive approval for a mortgage or a rental apartment due to debt and poor credit. E.H. also testified that there are default judgments entered against her for which she makes monthly payments.[8] Finally, E.H. testified that she does not pay rent to live in the Camden residence, but she contributes towards the household expenses by paying for the bills when her mother asks her to pay for a particular bill, which varies from month to month.[9] Respondent has argued that the family's economic hardship has prevented E.H. from being able to find a residence of her own, and the shared residence cannot be considered "fixed, regular, and adequate" because of the sleeping arrangements,[10] and the family's previous short-term relocations to hotels due to conflict between E.H. and her mother on several occasions.[11]

[7] It is observed from the transcript of the hearing that E.H. was hesitant to disclose the exact amount of her annual income and questioned the relevance of such information.

[8] There is no record of how much E.H. is paying on a monthly basis, and in response to the ALJ's request for an approximate amount, E.H. claimed that it is a substantial portion of her income without providing a specific amount.

In M. O'K., supra, the Commissioner found, and the Appellate Division affirmed, that the O'K family – two parents and three children – become homeless due to the foreclosure of their home in Cresskill, and although they had been deemed domiciled in Little Ferry as a result of their residence in the district for over one year, the O'K family continued to remain homeless due to their shared living conditions and the parents' economic hardship.[12] The O'K family initially moved into S. O'K's parents' house in Little Ferry, but after a year of living in that home, they were temporarily displaced from the residence due to flooding caused by Hurricane Sandy. At that point, they were forced to relocate to a relative's home in New York. After a few months, the O'K family returned to Little Ferry and resumed living in S. O'K's parents' house. At the Little Ferry residence, the O'K family occupied the bottom floor of the house, which consisted of one small bedroom and a common area. There was no bathroom or kitchen on that floor. The parents and two of the children – a teenage daughter and the ten year old son – shared the bedroom, while the older son slept in the [9] E.H. also testified that she pays for food but it is not clear from the transcript whether she pays for all of the food for the household or just her family, or contributes towards the total cost of food for the household.

[10] E.H. testified that she sleeps in the living room, the two daughters share one bedroom, while her son has his own room, and her mother has her own room. E.H.'s brother sleeps in the unfinished basement. E.H. also testified that her brother, who lived in the home prior to their move in 2011, voluntarily relocated to the basement.

[11] It is not clear from E.H.'s testimony the exact number of times the family left the Camden residence and stayed at a hotel, but E.H. testified that it was between five and ten times over the last six years. E.H. also testified that in some years, the brief relocation occurred more frequently than in others. It is also not clear whether such incidents have occurred in recent years, but the ALJ did not find this to detract from his conclusion because of the number of years that the family has occupied the Camden residence and the fact that they have moved back to the Camden residence after every hotel stay. The Commissioner agrees – to the extent that the family returned to the Camden residence and has continued their occupancy of the home – that such relocations do not impact the family's present status as there is no indication that the family is in imminent or foreseeable risk of losing their place in the home.

[12] Neither parent was employed at the time of the litigation, and the family's sole income consisted of Social Security Disability benefits.

common area. The O'K family lived in those conditions out of necessity, especially considering the family's financial challenges. Prior to their displacement, the O'K family had always lived in Cresskill and they expressed a desire to return to Cresskill and continue to raise their children in that community. During the pendency of the litigation, the O'K family represented that they were actively searching for a house in Cresskill. In fact, at the time of the Appellate Division proceedings, the O'K family still had not acquired housing of their own and moved into a two-bedroom apartment in Little Ferry being rented by the adult, emancipated son, while continuing to seek permanent housing.

In the instant matter, the living conditions of K.M. and her family, as well as E.H.'s financial situation, are distinguishable from those of the O'K family. First, K.M. and her family enjoy occupancy and use of the entire Camden residence, as they are not relegated to a portion of the home that would otherwise be considered inadequate. Moreover, although the sleeping arrangements may be less than ideal, it is not uncommon for siblings to share the same room.[13] Second, E.H. is presently employed; notably, she has been employed for over four and a half years. Additionally, her two adult children are also employed in part-time positions. While E.H. has testified that she has outstanding debt and judgments against her – which she claims has resulted in economic hardship – she has not been forthcoming about the amounts of such judgments and debts, and the extent to which they have prevented her from finding alternate housing for her family. Without such proofs, the Commissioner is not persuaded that E.H., who is gainfully employed and earns an annual salary of $65,000, is unable to find an apartment that is suitable for her family in Voorhees, while making payments for the alleged judgments and debt.[14] Third, E.H.'s testimony reveals that she stopped [13] The Voorhees apartment also had three bedrooms, and at least five occupants at one point. As such, it is probable that the two sisters were also sharing a room in the Voorhees apartment.

[14] E.H. has not indicated where she has been looking for an apartment; however, based on her desire to have K.M. remain enrolled in Eastern Regional, it would be reasonable to expect that E.H. has been looking for an apartment in Voorhees for the last four and a half years. There is also nothing barring E.H. from looking for adequate housing in looking for apartments in June 2016.[15] While the Commissioner is certainly sympathetic to E.H.'s predicament, the Commissioner is not persuaded – based on the facts in this case – that K.M. and her family continue to remain in the Camden residence out of necessity and economic hardship. Furthermore, since the Camden residence qualifies as a "fixed, regular, and adequate" nighttime dwelling-place, K.M. is deemed not homeless.[16]

Homelessness, particularly in cases like the present matter, is best viewed in a continuum. For instance, a family may move into a relative's home out of necessity and hardship, but over time, that home may become a regular, albeit temporary, dwelling-place where the members of the household seamlessly co-habit and share the expenses and amenities of the home. See L.C., supra (finding "while [petitioner's] living arrangements with her brother may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness"). In L.C., supra, the C. family was evicted from their home in Branchburg, causing them to move into L.C.'s brother's apartment. The apartment was small and did not have room for the C. family's belongings, which were placed in storage. At the time of the hearing, L.C. testified that the C. family had continued to remain in the brother's apartment and that L.C. was paying half of the rent for the apartment. L.C. also indicated her desire to move back to Branchburg.

Here, E.H. similarly contributes to household expenses at the Camden residence, but – unlike in L.C., supra – her circumstances appear less temporary, as there is no indication that any

Camden or in its vicinity, as the S. Family did in Teaneck when they could not find a home in Englewood Cliffs. See E.S., supra.

[15] It is also unclear whether E.H. has attempted to find housing where she is not required to submit a rental application or undergo a credit check: E.H. testified that she would not be approved for an apartment due to her credit as she has been rejected in the past.

of the family's possessions had to be placed in storage until such time as the family moves to a different home. E.H. may consider the Camden residence temporary, and her intention may be to eventually move back to Voorhees (or to a different home in Camden) in the future. However, while intention is a factor to be considered in determining homelessness, the totality of the facts and circumstances in this case renders a finding that K.M. is no longer homeless. Significantly, E.H. stopped looking for another home in June 2016; her financial situation is not typical of the economic hardships usually related to homelessness; and the Camden residence is fixed, regular, and adequate. See E.S., supra, where the ALJ found, and the Commissioner concurred, that the S. family – who had been evicted from their rental home of two years in Englewood Cliffs, which precipitated their move to Teaneck in November 2008 – was not homeless despite their representation that the small home in Teaneck was temporary, and that they were forced to remain there because of issues with their credit.[17] The ALJ noted that the parents were steadily employed for many years, and the S. family did not suffer from the typical financial hardships that are often related to homelessness.

It is important to distinguish between a family's decision to remain in a relative's home or temporarily settle elsewhere out of necessity – i.e., they do not have the resources or the ability to find alternate housing – and a situation in which a family remains in the relative's home out of choice, e.g., they have not found the home that they desire, even when other suitable housing is available to the family, or one where a family – like E.S., supra – claims homelessness just because they do not live in the community of their preference. As such, when a homeless family moves into a relative's home that is adequate – and the adults in the family are sufficiently employed with the financial means to find alternate housing, and the family continues to live in the home for an extended period of time without any imminent or foreseeable risk of losing their place in that home, and they share the space as a cohesive unit – a finding of homelessness would be improper.

[17] The ALJ also found that the home was in need of repairs but habitable.

As conceivable as it may be that a child could be homeless for the duration of their education (in limited circumstances), such determination must not be based on broad application of the governing statutes and regulations, as respondent has proposed. The purpose of the law is to ensure that a homeless child is not denied a free public education; it is not meant to enable a child to receive an education in a school district of preference by circumventing residency requirements. For that reason, the notion that homelessness has no maximum duration must be applied with caution, taking into consideration the totality of the circumstances. Consequently, when a child's circumstances change such that the child is no longer homeless, the finder of fact must also determine the point at which the child's homelessness ceased. A child's homeless status may change well before the case concludes, and it would be inequitable to hold a school district responsible for a child's education until a final decision is rendered if that district is not in fact responsible for the cost of the child's education. In this case, the Commissioner finds that K.M. stopped being homeless in June 2016, because that is when E.H. stopped looking for another place to live, despite having the resources and claiming that her intent was to move. The Commissioner finds that implicit in E.H.'s actions is the intent to remain in her mother's home for the foreseeable future – a home that is fixed, regular and adequate, and where she no longer resides out of necessity. Therefore, K.M. was homeless when she moved to Camden in 2011; she was properly found homeless in 2014 by ECS Volk; she is presently not homeless (as of June 2016); and therefore, K.M. was not entitled to a free public education in Voorhees for the 2016-2017 school year.

With regard to Camden's demand for reimbursement from the NJDOE for the cost of K.M.'s education,[18] and its request for attorney's fees, the Commissioner finds that there is no legal basis for same. Notwithstanding petitioner's failure to cite to any legal authority and convincingly argue why the District is entitled to such relief, it appears that Camden also seeks to change how the district of residence and the responsibility for the cost of a homeless child's education is determined. As such, the Commissioner will clarify the ALJ's finding in this matter. It is undisputed that a homeless child's district of residence – when the parent or guardian temporarily moves out of one district to another – is the district where the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. In this case, K.M.'s district of residence was Voorhees when she moved from Voorhees to Camden in 2011. The district of residence is responsible for the educational costs of the child, which includes determining where the child shall be enrolled, paying the cost of tuition if the child is enrolled in another school district, and providing transportation as necessary. See N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. Therefore, during the 2011-2012 school year, Voorhees was responsible for K.M.'s education and the associated costs. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(c) further provides, "[f]inancial responsibility will remain with the homeless child's school district of residence until the family is deemed domiciled in another jurisdiction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.d." In other words, if a homeless child moves to another school district and is deemed domiciled in that district, then for the purposes of the homeless child's education, the new school district is the child's district of residence, and the last school district is no longer financially responsible for the child's education.

Entitlement to a free, public education can be established once "[a]ny person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed domiciled within the district . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). It follows that the child is then entitled to a free, public education in that district. It is important to reiterate that when a child is "deemed domiciled in another jurisdiction" it does not mean that the child is no longer homeless, because the conditions of homelessness may still persist. Additionally, throughout the duration of a child's homelessness, they have a conditional right to continue education in the last school district.[19] In this case, when K.M. and her family lived in Camden for a year, she was deemed domiciled in the District, and the District then became financially responsible for her education. Since K.M. was deemed homeless at the time, Camden had the option of continuing her enrollment in Voorhees, which the District decided was in K.M.'s best interest during the school years between 2012 and 2016. To now seek reimbursement for the 2012-2013, 2013-2014, 2014-2015, and 2015-2016 schools years from the NJDOE or any other similar entity for Camden's calculated decision to enroll K.M. in Voorhees, is improper.

With regard to the 2016-2017 school year, however, K.M. was not entitled to attend school in Voorhees as she was no longer homeless. Neither Voorhees nor the NJDOE is legally responsible for K.M.'s education as her present domicile is Camden. As K.M. was not homeless during the 2016-2017 school year, Camden may seek reimbursement from E.H. for: 1) the cost of K.M.'s transportation to Voorhees (deducting any cost of transportation Camden may have incurred had K.M. attended school in the District); and 2) the difference between the cost of K.M.'s tuition at Voorhees for the 2016-2017 school year and Camden's per pupil cost for the 2016-2017 school year (should Camden's cost of tuition be higher than Voorhees, the difference shall be credited towards the cost of transportation from Camden to Voorhees).

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is hereby adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter. Volk's determination in September 2014 and October 2014 that K.M. was homeless was proper given the totality of the family's circumstances at that time. K.M.'s status changed in June 2016 when E.H. – who has been satisfactorily employed for four and a half years – stopped looking for another place to live and decided to continue her residence in a fixed, regular and adequate home in Camden despite having the resources and ability to move. Petitioner's request for reimbursement for tuition from the 2012-2013 school year through to the 2016-2017 school year, attorney's fees, injunctive relief and declaratory relief are denied on the basis that Camden has no legal right to same. Petitioner may, however, seek reimbursement of K.M.'s educational costs for the 2016-2017 school year from E.H., as outlined above.

Record Closed: February 15, 2017 Decided: March 22, 2017

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

This initial decision is the result of a remand of a prior decision issued concerning a dispute between the petitioner, State-Operated School District of Camden City (Board or SOSD Camden), and respondents, the State Department of Education, C. Ann Volk, formerly the Executive County Superintendent ("ECS") for Camden County, and E.H., the mother of a student, K.M. The dispute concerned a decision made by Volk regarding the alleged homelessness of K.M., and of her family. Volk had determined that the family was homeless and that as such, K.M. was entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township, New Jersey—the district of origin—at the expense of the SOSD Camden. The Board filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner, which was referred for hearing to the Office of Administrative Law. The Initial Decision, issued on February 5, 2016, found that E.H., who, despite clear warnings concerning the possible consequences, had never responded to the original Petition or to the ongoing proceedings concerning a motion for summary decision filed by the Board, had defaulted. On the merits, the decision granted summary decision to the Board, concluding that E.H. and K.M. were not homeless, and thus Camden was both responsible for providing the student with a free and appropriate education and for determining the location where such education would be provided, with due consultation with the parent as to the latter issue.

On March 18, 2016, the Commissioner of Education issued a Decision, remanding the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further proceedings. The Commissioner found the Initial Decision had not addressed all of the issues raised by Camden in its Petition of Appeal, specifically Counts Two through Five, as well as petitioner's request for reimbursement from the State.[1] Additionally, the Commissioner found that the record had not provided sufficient evidence to support the determination that K.M. "presently resides in a fixed, adequate, and regular residence and is, therefore, not homeless." Thus, the remand Order sought additional information to assist in assessing this issue. The Commissioner's Decision did not address the issue of whether E.H. had defaulted, or what, if anything, a default on her part meant regarding the search for additional evidence. Camden asserts that the default has consequences for the record, but as will be explained, given the Commissioner's mandate, it is likely that he did not view the lack of response by E.H. as consequential, and she did testify in the remand hearing.

[1] The Petition of Appeal does not contain any claim for reimbursement. However, the Commissioner has noted this as an issue to be considered on this remand.

It is important to note that at the hearing on remand, SOSD Camden expressly stated that it did not seek to require that K.M., now a high school senior still attending Eastern Regional High School, which serves students from Voorhees Township, actually attend school in Camden, regardless of whether the District prevailed on its claim that she is not homeless. Therefore, the dispute is now focused on the Board's request to correct what it views as an incorrect decision as to the student's homelessness made by the then Executive County Superintendent, and on the financial consequences of the student's actual status, as well as the Board's claims for injunctive relief.

As the previous Initial Decision related, and the current testimonial record confirms, before 2010, E.H. and her family, consisting of her children and until 2009, her then husband, lived in a rental property in Voorhees Township, New Jersey. The parents separated and ultimately divorced, and according to E.H., when she could no longer meet the income requirements for the lease, the family was forced to relocate. They moved into E.H.'s mother's home in Camden in 2011. Since that time, they have not lived in any other rented or purchased location, either in or outside of Camden. K.M. continued to attend school in Voorhees and at Eastern Regional High School.

The Board has for some time contended that E.H. and her family, including K.M., are residents of the City of Camden, and that while in the past the family may have been homeless, they have for some time and are now not homeless. As a result, the student's right to a free education entitles her to attend school in Camden, not in Voorhees Township. The Executive County Superintendent twice rejected this position and concluded that E.H. and K.M. were homeless, and as such, the child was entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township at the expense of Camden, which was responsible for both the educational tuition and the costs of transportation. See letter decision dated September 23, 2014, and second decision letter dated October 15, 2014. In her first written decision, Executive Superintendent Volk made the following determinations:

1. The family was displaced from their home.
2. The family is living in a "doubled up" situation with a relative," and
3. The family is experiencing financial hardship.

Based upon these determinations, and without other written analysis, Superintendent Volk found that the family was homeless and therefore, under N.J.A.C. 6A:17 and the Federal "McKinney-Vento" legislation, 42 U.S.C. 11434, the Camden Board was responsible for tuition and transportation costs. The Superintendent's second decision letter of October 15, 2014, simply iterated the determination of eligibility for Camden to bear these costs. In neither decision did the Executive Superintendent discuss the evidence upon which she relied to make her decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides > Public schools shall be free to the following persons under 20 years of age:

> > d. Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section;

During the remand hearing, Sandra Cintron, who performs services as a homeless liaison for the Camden School District, testified that she was familiar with K.M., and her family, having first been advised that they were being displaced from the Eastern Regional School District and wanted the children to stay in school in that district. Ms. Cintron was unsure whether this occurred in 2012 or 2013, but documentation from 2012 indicates that the reason for the displacement was the "nonrenewal of lease." In April 2012, the family requested that the District provide transportation to Eastern Regional. Ms. Cintron would provide information to the Camden District's business office about such requests. The address provided for the family after its displacement was on Bradley Avenue in Camden, where the family was residing with K.M.'s grandmother.[2] The witness reviewed other documentation previously discussed in the prior initial decision, including intake packets, school residency forms and McKinney-Vento forms. All information gathered would be provided to the District's legal counsel. In August 2014, a letter was sent to E.H., advising that as the family had resided within the City of Camden since April 2012, a period of over twelve months from the date of the letter, "New Jersey law deems your child domiciled in the Camden City school district. Your child is entitled to a free public education within the Camden City school district." In response to this letter, E.H. e-mailed, advising that having received the letter, she appreciated, "[H]aving the option to enroll K. in the Camden City Public School District." However, she added, "it is my opinion that her interest is best served at Eastern Regional High School(school of origin)."

Ms. Cintron testified that she had never been in the home at Bradley Avenue, but had reviewed tax records which showed the number of bedrooms in the home and which showed that M.H., the mother of E.H. and the grandmother of K.M., was the owner of the property. She had also looked at the Zillow website, which showed the square footage of the property and described a single family home. After considering the information available, the District decided that the family was not homeless. According to the information available to her, the family still resided at the time of the hearing at the Bradley Street address. The District has paid bills for educational services provided the family since its displacement, but has not done so during the 2016-17 school year. During the time that the District has been considering the family's situation, there have been several meetings with E.H., attended first by Ms. Cintron's predecessor, Mr. Smith, and at least twice by Miss Cintron herself.

Richard Farr, a licensed private investigator, testified that he performs investigative services for the SCSD Camden concerning residency issues. He described observations of E.H. exiting from the Bradley Avenue address on several occasions and of a teenage female getting on a school bus early in the morning. As there is no real dispute regarding the fact that the family does live at Bradley Avenue address, this testimony was of limited significance. Although Mr. Farr never entered the home, he described it as a brick row house, with an open front porch, apparently built in the 1930s. He also confirmed that E.H. worked at an insurance firm in Evesham Township, again a matter which is not in dispute as E.H. herself testified to this employment.

E.H. testified that she and her family live on Bradley Avenue in Camden. Currently living in the house are her mother, her three children and her brother. Her mother owns the home. Her brother is sixty years old. The house has two stories and an unfinished basement. The first floor consists of a living room, dining area and kitchen. On the second floor are three bedrooms and a bathroom. E.H.'s two daughters share a bedroom on the second floor. Her son has a bedroom by himself on the second floor, and her mother has her own bedroom on second floor. E.H. sleeps on a sofa bed in the living room on the first floor. Her brother lives in the basement.

When the family resided in Voorhees Township they had a three-bedroom apartment. Although a bit shaky on dates, E.H. recalled that she had become unemployed in 2009. She received severance pay and/or unemployment benefits until 2011. When the lease renewal came due in 2011, her husband had already left the home. Even before his departure from the home he had not provided financial support and this situation has continued after the separation and subsequent divorce, with E.H. receiving neither spousal nor child support. In 2011, E.H. no longer met the income requirements for the Voorhees rental and her lease was not renewed. Having no other options at the time, her family went to Camden to live in her mother's home. E.H. is currently employed as a compliance analyst for a firm in Marlton, New Jersey, earning approximately $65,000 a year. She is supporting her two adult children, who have part-time jobs. A significant portion of her income goes to pay civil judgments that accumulated over the years and other debts.

According to E.H., her family has resided in her mother's home on Bradley Avenue ever since arriving in 2011. The children have always been there with her. However, there have been times when due to the stress of living with her mother, who is ill, and with whom she has not always had the best relationship, it has been requested that the family leave the house. On these several occasions, perhaps five to ten times, they have relocated to hotels or motels for at least three to four days, at most for seven to ten days, all of these being relatively short stays away from Bradley Avenue. On each occasion, the family has then returned to that home. E.H. spoke of her attempts to find more permanent housing, indeed, noting that she does not consider her present living arrangement as "permanent." She has tried without any success to find apartments to rent or to obtain mortgages, but has been unable to make other living arrangements for her family. She described looking for other living arrangements once or twice a year, having last attempted to do so in June 2016. She described herself as "always looking mentally for another situation." At the same time, she is "not trying to beat the system." It is necessary for her to rebuild her credit. It has been very hard for her to dig out of the significant debt that she accumulated over time, including several civil judgments. While living with her mother she has contributed toward the household, but has not paid any fixed amount over any period of time. The payments she makes depend upon the bills she is asked to cover and she also pays for her family's food. Utilities are in her mother's name. E.H. has no credit cards. She pays a cell phone bill. Her driver's license lists her address as Bradley Avenue, She receives her mail at that location. She acknowledged that her mother could ask her to leave the home at any time. She does not know if her brother contributes anything to the home's expenses.

Arenda Fleming, a planning associate with the Camden County Board of Education, testified that one of her responsibilities is to perform evaluations concerning families that may be homeless. She collects and reviews information and discusses the material collected with the Executive County Superintendent. On September 11, 2014, the County Superintendent received a letter from the General Counsel for the Camden City School District concerning a dispute "regarding the determination of homelessness," concerning the family of E.H. and K.M. In order to review the matter, Ms. Fleming contacted Ms. Cintron, reviewed documents that had been developed over time by the Eastern Regional School District, and she "may have reached out to mom." Among the documents reviewed was an "Affidavit as to Homeless Status," prepared in April 2012 and signed by E.H., which noted that the family had left its Voorhees home due to "nonrenewal of the lease." She also saw a "Student Residency Form," prepared in April 2011 for student E.M., another of the family's children. Additionally, she reviewed a McKinney-Vento education program form prepared by the Gloucester County Special Services School District in April 2011 for E.M., and an "Affidavit as to Homeless Status," prepared in August 2013 and signed by E.H., which noted that the departure from the Voorhees home was due to "annual lease not renewed, separation from spouse" and reported the Bradley Avenue address as the place where the family was residing. According to Ms. Fleming's certification, provided as part of the documentation regarding the motion for summary decision, she did speak to E.H. Ms. Fleming recalled that E.H. had advised her that they had lived for a number of years at the Bradley Avenue address, but that they had lived in one hotel or motel during that same period of time. In addition to all this, Ms. Fleming spoke to the State monitor for homelessness and reported the information received from this source, along with the other material she gathered with the Executive County Superintendent, Ms. Volk, who was to make the decision regarding the homeless status of the family.

On cross-examination, Ms. Fleming advised that other than gathering information and speaking to the persons noted, no independent investigation was conducted concerning the status of the family. She could not recall the details of her conversation with E.H., did not know how long the family had stayed in a hotel and was not sure whether she had asked E.H. what her intentions were regarding her living arrangements. As for the letter issued on September 23, 2014, by Ms. Volk to the Superintendent of the Camden School District, in which Ms. Volk provided her decision that the family remained homeless, Ms. Fleming described the form of the letter as a "template," in which the necessary information is filled in. In respect to the determination of homelessness, Ms. Fleming mentioned a "guidance document" from the Department of Education, which referred to living with a friend or relative as a factor to be considered. With regard to Ms. Volk's having noted in her decision, as one of the factors upon which the determination was based, that the "family is experiencing financial hardship," Ms. Fleming was unable to recall "offhand" what documents might have been available, if any, from which this conclusion was drawn.

C. Ann Volk, now serving as the County School Business Administrator for the Camden County Superintendent's Office, services as the Interim Executive County Superintendent from June 2013 until April 2014, and again from June 2014 to August 2015. Ms. Volk testified that prior to making her decision regarding the family's status, she spoke with Ms. Fleming on more than one occasion. She described the information regarding the family's financial hardship as "limited." This was the only decision regarding a family's homelessness that she had to make during her time as the Interim ECS. She considered that the family was living in a "doubled-up" situation.

Ms. Volk commented that there is no process for fact-finding hearings at the County level in regard to these determinations of homelessness. The County Superintendent depends largely upon information provided by the school district, including affidavits. Questions regarding what the family's intent was with respect to its living arrangements were not discussed with Ms. Fleming and there was no independent verification of intent or even a question about intent, as according to Ms. Volk, such was "not within our purview." Ms. Volk further commented that "[T]he question that we do ask, 'is this temporary,' that we can ask and we depend on the school district that they're in and the other affidavits that we get from other sources." Asked to define what "temporary" meant to her, Ms. Volk said that "Whatever temporary means to the person that's there. They don't intend to stay there." Asked whether her interpretation of temporary, "Is determined by each individual . . . temporary for K.M. is different for somebody else maybe," Ms. Volk explained that "each situation is different and would have a different intent." Asked if "five years" was temporary, Ms. Volk explained that it could be. Given that answer she was asked if, "Based on that logic, a student could become homeless in kindergarten and the parents move in with another family—with a relative for the next twelve years and that's temporary," Volk responded, "I have seen that happen. I didn't say it was right. I just said that I have observed that that has happened in other counties, that even has occurred over several years." As for the determination of financial hardship, Ms. Volk had no conversations with E.H. about her finances. Her determination regarding homelessness was based solely on the conversations Ms. Fleming had with E.H., with the State monitor Ms. Thomas, and the documents identified in the record.

Discussion

In a recent decision, the Commissioner of Education discussed factors relevant to determining if a child is "homeless."

> A "homeless child" is one who lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2. Not every child residing temporarily with a relative is "homeless." Rather, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)3, such a child is homeless when he or she resides in "[t]he residence of relatives or friends with whom the homeless child is temporarily residing out of necessity because the family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." An examination of the conditions that precipitated the family's relocation is critical to ascertaining whether the living arrangement arose "out of necessity," and whether the family is without access to a "regular or permanent residence of its own."

As the Commissioner noted, regulations adopted by the Department of Education define "homeless" children. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2.

> (a) A district board of education shall determine that a child is homeless for purposes of this subchapter when he or she resides in any of the following:
> 1. A publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations, including:
>
> i. Hotels or motels;
>
> ii. Congregate shelters, including domestic violence and runaway shelters;
>
> iii. Transitional housing; and
>
> iv. Homes for adolescent mothers;
>
> 2. A public or private place not designated for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation, including:
>
> i. Cars or other vehicles including mobile homes;
>
> ii. Tents or other temporary shelters;
>
> iii. Parks;
>
> iv. Abandoned buildings;
>
> v. Bus or train stations; or
> vi. Temporary shelters provided to migrant workers and their children on farm sites;

3. The residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own;
4. Substandard housing; or
5. Any temporary location wherein children and youth are awaiting foster care placement.

The Federal Government has adopted a similar set of definitions as part of what is known as the McKinney-Vento legislation.

For purposes of this subtitle [42 USCS §§ 11431 et seq.]:

(1) The terms "enroll" and "enrollment" include attending classes and participating fully in school activities.
(2) The term "homeless children and youths"--
(A) means individuals who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence (within the meaning of section 103(a)(1)) [42 USCS § 11302(a)(1)]; and
(B) includes--
(i) children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason; are living in motels, hotels, trailer parks, or camping grounds due to the lack of alternative adequate accommodations; are living in emergency or transitional shelters; are abandoned in hospitals; or are awaiting foster care placement;
(ii) children and youths who have a primary nighttime residence that is a public or private place not designed for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings (within the meaning of section 103(a)(2)(C)) [42 USCS § 11302(a)(2)(C)];
(iii) children and youths who are living in cars, parks, public spaces, abandoned buildings, substandard housing, bus or train stations, or similar settings; and
(iv) migratory children (as such term is defined in section 1309 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 [20 USCS § 6399]) who qualify as homeless for the purposes of this subtitle [42 USCS §§ 11431 et seq.] because the children are living in circumstances described in clauses (i) through (iii).

In her September 23, 2014, decision finding that the student K.M. was homeless, County Superintendent Volk cited three factors upon which her determination was based. The first of these was that a student's family "was displaced from their home." As to this, the evidence clearly demonstrates that E.H. and her family were in fact displaced from their residence in Voorhees Township, New Jersey, due to their inability to obtain a new lease for the rental property in which they resided. This situation appears to have arisen from a combination of factors, including E.H.'s loss of employment, the departure of her husband from the family residence and his lack of any financial support for his family after his departure, and the termination of severance pay and unemployment benefits that E.H. had been receiving. Superintendent Volk's determination regarding this first factor, regarding as it does the originating cause for the family's presence in Camden and not in Voorhees, was thus fully supported by the information available to her. Nothing presented during this hearing has changed the appropriateness of that conclusion. That said, and before considering the other factors relied upon by the Superintendent, as well as the factors identified in statute and case law, it is necessary to consider the standard of review to be applied regarding the issue currently before this forum and the Commissioner.

In their briefs both parties appear to consider the appropriate standard of review to be whether the determination made by the ECS was "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable." The language, "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" is typically the formula used by appellate courts when reviewing determinations made by administrative agencies. In limited circumstances, the same standard is utilized by agency heads when reviewing certain actions of local administrative bodies, such as reviews by the Commissioner of Education of the determinations by local school boards in disciplinary proceedings against students. However, the use of the "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" standard when an agency head is reviewing determinations made by constituent elements of that same agency would be quite unusual. Here, the Commissioner of Education is asked to consider whether K.M. is homeless. It may well be that the decision of the ECS, who holds a position within the structure of the very Department that the Commissioner heads, made based on the information available to her at the time, was a reasonable one based upon the application of the existing law to the facts as they were known to her. If nothing produced during this hearing has materially changed that factual setting such as to require a change in determination after applying the applicable legal standards for determining homelessness, then it can be fairly said the ECS's decision was not arbitrary or unreasonable. However, reference to cases in which it has been noted that a decision by the ECS concerning homelessness was reasonable must note that that characterization was used where nothing produced at the hearing on appeal necessitated a change in the decision, again given the applicable law. Indeed, in his brief, the Deputy Attorney General, while first suggesting that review should be under the arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard, notes that, "[T]he only way that the ECS's decision should be reversed now, is if subsequently-received information requires its reversal." This recognition that subsequently-received information is to be used in deciding the question of homelessness proves the point. If the only thing we were concerned with was whether the ECS's decision was reasonable, based on what Ms. Volk had before her at the time, there would be no reason to receive "subsequent information." The true test is not whether the ECS was "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable," but whether, given all the facts produced at the hearing, the student is or is not homeless based on the application of the applicable law to those facts. In the end, if the facts existing in the record at the time of the decision made by the administrative law judge, and subsequently by the Commissioner, do not require that the ECS's decision be changed, that decision may be seen as neither arbitrary nor capricious and certainly as reasonable. But the appellate review standard is not the proper standard for considering the issue. Instead, the review on what is termed an "appeal" is effectively a de novo consideration, first by the judge and then by the Commissioner, of the facts as they may exist at the conclusion of the hearing held in the OAL, and the proper application to those facts of the existing law.

Returning to the merits, again, in addition to noting the family's displacement from their home as a basis for the finding of homelessness, Ms. Volk identified two other bases. These were that the family was living in "a 'doubled-up' situation with a relative" and that it was "experiencing financial hardship." The Board contends that these stated grounds are not proper criteria for determining if a family/student is homeless.

N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2 defines a "homeless child" as one who lacks a "fixed, regular and adequate" residence. This regulation further identifies several circumstances in which children may live that the statute deems to be indicative of "homeless" status. Many are obvious, children living in cars, shelters, motels, parks, etc. None of these apply to the current case. But the statute, and the Federal enactment known as the McKinney-Vento legislation, also identify a circumstance in which a child lives in what is likely a more traditional living setting, but where the child lives in "[T]he residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." The federal provision also includes "children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, . . ." In this case, it is undeniable that E.H. and her family first came to her mother's home in Camden due to economic necessity and that K.M. shares the housing of "other persons," i. e., the home owned by her grandmother, and came to that home "due to loss of housing" and "economic hardship." The Board has not suggested otherwise. It has not challenged the description provided by E.H. of the reasons for her having to vacate the Voorhees Township residence; it has not suggested that at the time the family had any viable way to maintain that residence. It does not dispute that she lives in a home with other family members besides her children, a home that she does not have any ownership in or lease for. What it does argue, though, is that after so many years residing in the Bradley Avenue home, the family is no longer "homeless." And it appears to suggest, at least implicitly, that E.H. no longer has to live there due to ongoing financial hardship, pointing out her now over four years of steady employment at a salary which she herself described as between $55,000-70,000 a year, currently at $65,000. Thus, what the Board really seems to contend is that while Ms. Volk may have cited as bases for her determination factors that properly relate to the total picture of the family and student's circumstances, she did not properly assess the significance of these factors in the ultimate, statutorily-grounded consideration of whether K.M. lives in a "fixed, regular, and adequate residence."

If the home in which the family resides is not "adequate," then a child living in that home is, by definition, "homeless." Is the home in which student K.M. living on Bradley Avenue in Camden "adequate?" The evidence reveals that this structure is a row home, typical in Camden and many other localities, in which there are living a grandmother, a mother and her three children, and the mother's brother. The home has kitchen facilities, a living room, a dining area, three bedrooms on the second floor, and a bathroom. There is a basement. The home is serviced by standard utilities. The grandmother has her own bedroom on the second floor, the two female children share a bedroom and their brother has a separate bedroom, these two latter bedrooms also being located on the second floor. E.H. sleeps in the living room on a pull-out sofa. Her sixty-year-old brother sleeps in the basement. The evidence does not indicate that the student and her siblings, as well as E.H.'s mother, are limited in regard to use of the kitchen and bathroom facilities. E.H. testified that she paid for her family's food, and there is no indication that there is any deprivation with respect to cooking facilities. While the home may only have one bathroom, there is no evidence that this presents any significant difficulties for the student or her family.

In M.O'K & C.O'K, o/b/o minor children K.O'K, A.O'K, & C.O'K v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Cresskill, Bergen Cnty., and Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Little Ferry, Bergen Cnty., EDU 14830-13N (Final Dec. August 12, 2014)(adopting in part, rev'g in part initial dec. of June 13, 2014), the Commissioner considered a situation in which > petitioners returned to S.O'K.'s parents' home in Little Ferry, where the two parents and three children occupy the bottom floor of the house, which floor has no shower, sink or kitchen. Because there is only one small bedroom on that floor, the 13-year old daughter and ten-year old son share a bunk-bed in the parents' bedroom and the oldest son, 18, sleeps in the common area.

The Commissioner determined that these conditions did not constitute an adequate residence. While the case involved other factors as well which led the Commissioner to conclude that the children were homeless, clearly the living conditions described in the quoted section of the decision differed in some marked degree from the conditions in which the children in this case, most particularly K.M., live. In Cresskill, two children, a boy and a girl, shared a bunk bed in the same bedroom as their parents. Another child slept in a common area. Here, two girls share one bedroom, not at all an uncommon situation for children of the same sex. The male child resides in a separate bedroom. Their grandmother has her own bedroom; their uncle sleeps in a totally separate part of the home. There is no indication that these children have any difficulty accessing the bathroom facilities. The children sleep in separate bedrooms from their mother. The fact that she sleeps on a pull-out sofa in the living room hardly suggests that the home is not adequate. The statutory provision certainly does not aim at perfection. Based upon the evidence here, I CONCLUDE that there is no basis for concluding other than the Bradley Avenue residence is "adequate."

That said, is the residence "fixed" and "regular?" The Commissioner reviewed applicable legal provisions in Cresskill.

> The regulation N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(3), for example, provides that children are homeless when they stay in the home of relatives or friends, with whom they are temporarily residing because the family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own. Similarly, 42 U.S.C. sec. 11434a(2)(A) and (B)(i) describe homeless children as those "who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence . . .," including, inter alia, "children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason . . . ." Thus, an evaluation of "homelessness" cannot rest upon a simple calculation of the amount of time that children have spent in a particular location or municipality. The reasons for the children's homelessness, their living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians are relevant.

Here, E.H.'s family, having been forced to vacate their Voorhees Township residence due to financial hardship, reside with relatives. The home in which they reside is owned by E.H.'s mother. Thus, I FIND that this is a family that are living, at least initially due to economic hardship, in housing they share, that is not their own, but, in the case of the children, in their grandmother's home.[3] As Cresskill notes, the fact that, as here, the family has spent a number of years at Bradley Avenue is not in and of itself determinative of the lack of homeless status. In addition to the time factor, the Commissioner notes the significance of living conditions, resources and parent intentions. Again, here, the residence, that is, the "living conditions," is "adequate." As for the "resources" of the parent, E.H. testified, credibly, that although she has had a steady job for over four years, which now pays a salary of about $65,000 a year, given her financial history, accumulation of debt, including court judgments, and her support of her adult children who continue to live with her in the home while working part-time, she has been unable to obtain either appropriate leased premises or to obtain a mortgage for her family of four. It is not clear exactly how aggressive she has been in seeking some alternative housing arrangement. Nevertheless, the record indicates that her finances are limited, and given the need for at least a three-bedroom home so long as the mother and her children all stay together, her difficulty in locating adequate housing is not suspicious. As for her "intentions," she clearly stated did she did not consider the present residence at Bradley Avenue to be permanent. She certainly has in mind the idea of moving to some other housing. Nevertheless, at least based on the experience she testified about and her financial limitations, it is entirely unclear how realistic such a change of residence may be, at least in any foreseeable timeframe.

Thus, the case presents a picture of a child living in adequate housing, but in a shared home that she was taken to by her mother out of economic necessity that continues to limit the mother's ability to relocate to her own home, whether rented or purchased, and in a home her mother, not unreasonably, does not consider to be a "permanent" home, but "temporary" in the sense that she has the intention to relocate.

This case then appears to present a classic situation where the law may define something in a way that might not be obvious to the casual observer, or make sense to the average taxpayer. As the home in which this child is residing, now for a period of about six years, where she lives with her family, which is her grandmother's home, is adequate housing, and is not remotely akin to living in cars, shelters, parks, motels, buses, or any of the other places identified in the federal and state legislation, it certainly does not seem as if E.H. and K.M. are "homeless." Yet they came there due to economic hardship, they remain economically challenged, at least as far as obtaining "adequate" alternative housing of their own, and the place they live in is, legally, someone else's which they "share." And the law defines a child whose housing situation is defined by these conditions as "homeless." But does the existence of these facts dictate that the "homeless" label must remain fixed regardless of the full circumstances existent at any given time?

If the key to determining whether a child living in an otherwise adequate home ("living conditions") is still to be considered homeless is, as the Commissioner notes in Cresskill, a consideration of "resources and intentions," then the question is whether once a family is forced by economic hardship to live in such a shared circumstance in another's home that status of "homelessness" is fixed and ongoing, even if the understandable intention of the parent is that she "intends" to move and does not consider the current residence as "permanent" but instead as "temporary." As the Board's question to Ms. Volk as to her understanding of the definition of who is "homeless," and her response thereto pointed out, it is conceivable to her that a child could be considered "homeless" for an entire educational "career," if the family was forced to relocate to a shared housing situation when the child was in kindergarten and economic realities worked to foil the parental "intent" to obtain housing of the family's own for so many years. Yet it is hard to imagine that anyone would see that child as homeless, at least in the sense that children living in all of the other conditions listed in the state and federal definitions exist.

Possibly then this case presents the question of when the realities of long-term economic hardship, or at least of long-term economic limitations, shared by so many families, and the reality that hoped-for intentions are not realistic, at least for any foreseeable time, again a circumstance no doubt common, work to convert a state of "homelessness" to one where the child is no longer "homeless." The definitions do not assist in understanding the limits that may apply in such circumstances. But to the extent that homeless status is identified as one without a "fixed, regular and adequate" living place, here, given the very lengthy period of residence, the adequacy of the living place and the regularity of occupation, I FIND that she does live in a "fixed, regular, and adequate residence" and CONCLUDE that K.M. is not homeless. See L.C. on behalf of her Minor Child B.C. v. Bd of Educ. of the Twp. of Branchburg, Somerset County, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d(EDU)1003 (Commissioner found that "while her living arrangements with her brother [in his apartment] may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular, and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness.")[4] As such,

[4] The short periods where the family had to stay in a motel due to conflict between E.H. and her mother do not detract from this conclusion, as they do not appear to have been of substantial length and each time,

Camden is the district wherein the student is entitled to receive a free and appropriate education, and in the normal course, it is Camden that would be responsible for selecting the school in which that education would be provided. That said, it is again noted that in regard to this student, the Board, quite wisely, does not seek to have her finish her senior year of high school in the Camden schools and does not seek to have her leave Eastern Regional High School. As Camden is the district responsible for educating K.M., it must of course pay for that education. This outcome, however, is limited to the circumstances of this student and this case, and is not meant to suggest that in other cases, the Board would not be authorized to seek to have students found to be domiciled in Camden and not homeless placed in schools within the Camden District.

The Board's Petition of Appeal seeks several remedies besides a declaration that K.M. is not homeless. Primarily, the Board asks for injunctive relief, more specifically defined as a permanent injunction to require that the Executive County Superintendent's Office "must use proper and legal criteria for determinations of homelessness." More specifically, the Petition requested injunctive relief to compel the use of "only proper legal citations for informing potential litigants of their appeal rights"; "to refrain from asserting the wrong legal citations in homeless determinations"; to analyze legally relevant criteria in making homeless determinations . . . to state its findings of fact and conclusions in its homeless determination letters based on legally relevant criteria . . . to refrain from making homeless determinations that do not include an analysis of legally relevant criteria . . . to refrain from making homeless determinations based on legally irrelevant criteria . . . to cease and desist from directing the CCSD to violate the law in directing CCSD to fund out-of-district placements of non-classified students domiciled with the City of Camden who are not the subject of sending-receiving relationships or the Inter-district Public School Choice program . . . from placing the CCSD in an untenable, Catch 22 situation, whereby it must decide whether to violate the law or a NJDOE directive that is contrary to the law . . ." and "to not fine, sanction, penalize, or reduce the State aid of CCSD" if it follows "ECS Volk's directive and funds" such placements. Finally, the District requests that if the family has returned to the home and remained. Given the many years of that occupancy, these familial difficulties are insufficient proof that E.H. and her children have not established a regular, fixed and adequate residence.

the Department affirms Ms. Volk's decision, it "declares" that the NJDOE has "effectively changed the historical consequences, effects of domicile . . . " "no longer recognizes that entitlement to a free public education within the district is a consequence/effect of domicile . . . no longer recognizes that the district of domicile has educational decision-making responsibility over students domiciled within district . . . " and "has recognized CCSD's ability and authority to fund the out-of-district placements of non-classified . . . non-sending-receiving relationships."

The Board concedes that the K.M. case is the only example of a homelessness decision made by the ECS Office in this record.

Initially, it is important to note exactly what the Board proposes. The ECS is an official of the State's Department of Education. The Commissioner is the head of that agency. Despite common references to it as a "court," the OAL is not a court, and unlike a judicial-branch forum, it has absolutely no independent judicial, or quasi-judicial authority. The OAL cannot on its own issue injunctions, even where the test for injunctive relief might otherwise be met. Thus, the only source for the issuance of an injunction is the agency head, to the extent that the agency has the authority to issue such relief. But here, the request, or demand, is that the Commissioner issue an injunction against a member, as it were, of her own staff. It is, to say the least, unusual to seek what is in effect an internal injunction. Should the Commissioner be persuaded that the ECS is not using appropriate standards or is relying on incorrect factors to assess homelessness, she can issue new regulations, internal guidance, provide legal assistance to the Office, and provide additional training. In individual cases, she can reverse a decision if persuaded that the proper standards were not utilized, or, even where they were utilized, where the outcome is at variance with a reasoned assessment of the facts and the applicable law. The Board has not provided any authority or reasoning as to why, given all this, the Commissioner should enjoin her subordinate. And, besides this concern, it would be highly unusual to issue such an injunction based upon the example of one case. There is no record here upon which to conclude that there is any real danger that the Camden County ECS, who it must be noted is no longer Ms. Volk, will continue to utilize improper procedures or standards in future assessments of homelessness. And to the extent the Board is concerned about cases similar to this one, where long-term presence in Camden by students claiming homelessness may be presenting the District with similar funding concerns as with K.M., the Commissioner has the power to provide guidance to her staff through the mechanisms just listed, including even in her final decision in this case. Assessments of homelessness must of necessity be made on a case-by-case basis. If the Board does believe that a case can be made concerning a systemic failure of the County Executive Superintendent's Office, then it may wish to initiate a more global proceeding in order to present the necessary record to sustain more general relief against the DOE and its subordinate Office. But it has not done so here. I CONCLUDE that there is no warrant in this record, or in the circumstances presented, for the Commissioner to issue any injunctions.

In regard to a request for reimbursement, it is noted that the Board has not presented any authority for the proposition that the DOE, or its constituent office, has any responsibility to it to pay for the educational and/or transportation costs it has expended in funding K.M.'s education at Eastern Regional. Perhaps there may be a claim against that district for reimbursement, but the Board never initiated a Petition before the Commissioner against Eastern, which is not a party to these proceedings and cannot be impleaded under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules. Again, it is noted that the request for reimbursement was not made in the Petition of Appeal here, but added as a remedy sought by the Board later in the proceedings. I CONCLUDE that the Board has not presented a basis for any remedy of reimbursement against the DOE or the ECS.

For the reasons stated, I CONCLUDE that K.M. is not homeless. I CONCLUDE that the determination made by Ms. Volk, while identifying certain factors properly considered in determining whether homelessness exists, did not fully consider and properly analyze the entire picture in assessing that issue. Her decision is therefore REVERSED. The Board's applications for injunctive relief and reimbursement are DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." AGENCY DKT. NO. 299-11/16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATES OF VINCENT J. VITIELLO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by petitioner (Edison Board of Education or Board), seeking suspension of respondent's (Vincent J. Vitiello) teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. The Board alleged that respondent resigned from his teaching position without providing the requisite notice to petitioner. Following transmittal of the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the parties proposed a Settlement Agreement and Release (Agreement), which the Administrative Law Judge sent to the Commissioner with a recommendation for approval.

Upon review of the terms of the proposed Agreement, the Commissioner rejects same because the parties wish to apply a six-month suspension retroactively – from October 5, 2016 to April 7, 2017 – and the record below is devoid of affirmation from the parties that the respondent was not employed as a teacher elsewhere during the proposed suspension period above. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the Commissioner may suspend a teacher's certificate for up to one year for wrongful cessation of performance of her duties. The central purpose of the statute is to ensure proper notice to the school to deter the disruption of services and adverse impact on the students when teachers abruptly resign. See Penns Grove-Carney's Point Board of Education v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 405, 407. As the parties in this matter have agreed to retroactive suspension of respondent's certificate, the Commissioner may – at her discretion – consider the proposed suspension, provided that respondent remained unemployed as a teacher for the duration of the suspension, and has attested to same by way of an affidavit. In the absence of any affirmation from the respondent in this regard, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the Agreement or for further proceedings consistent with the concerns set forth above.

To the extent that Mr. Vitiello is authorized by law to file a claim or complaint with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or any other such institution, Mr. Vitiello additionally and specifically waives any right to receive monetary damages as a result of such claim or complaint. With respect to his waiver of any and all potential age discrimination or similar claims hereunder, Mr. Vitiello understands that he has twenty-one (21) days to consider this Agreement and shall have seven (7) days after signing the agreement to reconsider and revoke his signature, though such revocation shall relieve the Board of any duty to abide by its obligations herein.

Re: Board of Education of the Red Bank Regional High School District, Monmouth County v. A.B., on behalf of minor child, T.B., Agency Dkt. No. 59-3/17

Dear Parties:

Upon review of the Petition of Appeal filed in connection with this matter and based upon the respondent's failure to submit an Answer to the Petition that complies with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5, I have determined to grant summary decision in favor of the petitioner.

On March 28, 2017 the Board filed its Petition of Appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1 seeking an order assessing tuition and claiming that minor child, T.B., was not entitled to attend school in the district for 92 days – between September 6, 2016 and January 31, 2017 – during the 2016-2017 school year, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. A copy of the petition was served upon respondent on March 28, 2017 via certified mail, regular mail, and hand delivery, to both known addresses for respondent. An acknowledgment of filing and notice – dated March 28, 2017 – that an Answer to the Petition was due within 20 days was also sent to the respondent. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5.

When A.B. failed to respond to the initial notice, a second notice was sent on April 19, 2017, via certified and regular mail, clearly indicating that – absent receipt of an Answer to the Petition within 10 days – each count in the Petition would be deemed admitted and the matter may be decided on a summary basis pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e). According to information obtained from the U.S. Postal Service, the copy sent via certified mail was not claimed, but the copy sent via regular mail was never returned to this office. A.B., nevertheless, failed to respond to the second notice. A third and final notice was sent to A.B. via certified and regular mail on May 23, 2017, reiterating the information contained within the prior notice. Again, the certified mail was returned as "unclaimed", but the regular mail was never returned to this office.

To date, no Answer has been filed on behalf of respondent. Accordingly, petitioner's claim that T.B. was not entitled to attend school in the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. is deemed admitted. It is hereby ordered that respondent reimburse the petitioner $7,099.64[1] in tuition costs for T.B.'s ineligible attendance in the district for 92 days – from September 6, 2016 through to January 31, 2017 – during the 2016-2017 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Sincerely,

Kimberly Harrington

VIA REGULAR MAIL & CERTIFIED MAIL

[1] The tuition is assessed based on the number of days T.B. attended school as an ineligible student. The Board has certified that the annual cost of tuition is $14,200 and there are a total of 184 school days, which makes the per day cost $77.17. Therefore, $7,099.64 is the total tuition owed for 92 days.

Re: J.S., on behalf of minor child, A.S. v. Board of Education of the Township of Monroe, Middlesex County, Agency Dkt. No. 92-4/15, Commissioner Decision No. 127-16.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with petitioner J.S.'s Motion for Reconsideration of the Acting Commissioner's April 5, 2016 decision ordering the petitioner to reimburse the Monroe Township Board of Education $18,706.47 in tuition costs for her minor child A.S.'s period of ineligible attendance in the district.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2), a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that petitioner's request for reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision was filed significantly out of time, which alone serves as sufficient basis for denying petitioner's request.[1]

Notwithstanding, petitioner has also failed to satisfy any of the requisites for granting such relief specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2). The petitioner does not argue that she has satisfied any of the requirements for reconsideration, nor has she provided new evidence to refute the finding that she was not domiciled in Monroe Township during the period in question – the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years.

Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.[2]

Sincerely,

Kimberly Harrington

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sabino Valdes, Board of Education of the City of Union, Hudson County, Agency Dkt. No. 328-9/00.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with Sabino Valdes' motion to reopen the above referenced matter. The Commissioner notes that this is Mr. Valdes' third motion to reopen the tenure charges that were filed against him by the Union City Board of Education in September 2000.[1] Mr. Valdes filed his first motion to reopen in April 2014, which was denied by the Commissioner in a decision dated June 14, 2014. Mr. Valdes then filed his second motion to reopen in August 2016, which was denied by the Commissioner in a decision dated November 3, 2016. The Commissioner's November 3, 2016 decision is pending appeal before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Pursuant to New Jersey Court Rule 2:9-1(a), "the supervision and control of the proceedings on appeal or certification shall be in the appellate court from the time the appeal is taken or the notice of petition for certification is filed." As Mr. Valdes has filed a Notice of Appeal with the Appellate Division relating to his second request to reopen the tenure matter, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to consider Mr. Valdes' duplicate motion to reopen.

[1] The third motion to reopen contains substantially the same facts and issues raised in Mr. Valdes' previous motions.

Even if the Commissioner was deemed to have jurisdiction in this matter, upon review and consideration of the parties' submissions, I find that Mr. Valdes has failed to establish good cause to reopen the tenure charges filed against him by the Board, and he did not make such request with reasonable time or diligence. It is well-established that administrative agencies have an inherent authority to reconsider, reopen or revise a prior decision made by the agency. A motion to reopen, however, will only be granted when good cause is shown and the motion is made with reasonable time or diligence. See Duvin v. State of New Jersey, Dep't of the Treasury, Public Employees' Retirement System, 76 N.J. 203, 207 (1978); see also Skulski v. Nolan, 68 N.J. 179 (1975) and Ruvoldt v. Nolan, 63 N.J. 171 (1973).

As a preliminary matter, Mr. Valdes' first motion to reopen was filed 12 years after the State Board of Education's August 4, 2004 decision was issued, affirming the decision to remove Mr. Valdes from his tenured employment with the District for insubordination and unbecoming conduct. Significantly, his subsequent submissions asserted the same arguments and unsubstantiated claims of fraud, collusion, and conspiracy.[2] In his present motion, Mr. Valdes has not provided any new evidence nor has he alleged the existence of any new information that was not previously argued throughout the protracted litigation of this matter. Mr. Valdes has, however, raised a "new" issue relating to an old document – the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Interlocutory Order of August 9, 2001. Mr. Valdes argues that the Order is "void" because the Commissioner and the State Board affirmed the ALJ's Initial Decision without reviewing and affirming the Order.[3]

When the Commissioner reviews an initial decision from the OAL, the entire record below is also reviewed. The Commissioner, therefore, reviews any orders or rulings entered by an ALJ – such as a denial of a motion to dismiss – after an initial decision has been rendered. This, however, does not mean that the Commissioner is required to independently or separately "affirm" such orders or rulings. Significantly, review and affirmation (or rejection) of any orders or rulings made by the ALJ during the pendency of the litigation is subsumed in the Commissioner's final decision in the matter. Implicit in the Commissioner's adoption of the ALJ's Initial Decision in this matter – based on the review of the record below, as indicated in the Commissioner's June 24, 2003 decision – is the fact that the Commissioner was in accord with the ALJ's August 9, 2001 ruling on Mr. Valdes' motion to dismiss. Notwithstanding, the August 9, 2001 Order had no bearing on the ultimate outcome of the case; therefore, the arguments raised by Mr. Valdes in his current motion do not amount to new evidence or information that would suggest a need to revisit the tenure charges filed against him in 2000. Accordingly, it is evident that no good cause has been shown to compel the reopening of this case after more than a decade.

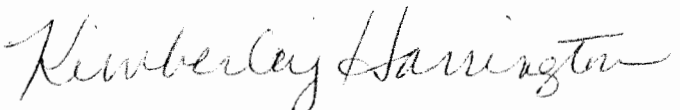
[2] Over the course of the last 17 years, the various allegations and issues raised by Mr. Valdes – including his persistent reliance on the 45-day argument – have been exhaustively addressed and rejected by different tribunals.

[3] The August 9, 2001 Order and decision of the ALJ denied Mr. Valdes' motion to dismiss the tenure charges filed against him. No review was sought with the Commissioner – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 – of the ALJ's August 9, 2001 Order. Consequently, the matter proceeded to hearing and an initial decision was issued by the ALJ at the conclusion of the case before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the third motion to reopen the tenure charges filed against Mr. Valdes by the Union City Board of Education is hereby DENIED.[4]

Sincerely,



Kimberley Harrington

C.E., on behalf of minor child, K.E.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se petition appealing the determination of the respondent Board that his daughter, K.E., was not domiciled in West Orange, and therefore not entitled to a free public education in the West Orange school district. Petitioner contended that he had leased a property in West Orange where he and his daughter were domiciled; further, the petitioner testified that he had purchased a home in West Orange on May 10, 2017, six days before the hearing in this matter. The Board alleged that a residency investigation had shown that C.E. and K.E. live at an address in East Orange. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of K.E.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony provided by the Board's witnesses was credible, while that of petitioner was not; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1), a student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district; the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of her parent or guardian; in the instant case, C.E. contested the Board's decision that K.E. was not properly domiciled in West Orange; the testimony of the Board's residency inspector and the results of the investigation were credible and indicated that K.E. and her father were domiciled out-of-district in East Orange, but continued to attend school in West Orange during the 2016-2017 school year; and the cost of tuition for K.E. in West Orange schools for the 2016-2017 school year was $17,069. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner was not a domiciliary of West Orange for the 2016-2017 school year and was therefore ineligible to attend West Orange public schools; accordingly, the respondent Board is entitled to reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $17,069.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

AGENCY REF. NO. 324-12/16

v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WEST ORANGE,
Respondent.

C.E., pro se

Frances Febres, Esq., for respondent (Cleary Giacobbe Alfieri Jacobs, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 16, 2017 Decided: May 18, 2017

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, C.E. filed an appeal on behalf of his daughter K.E. from the determination of the respondent, West Orange, Board of Education (West Orange) that she is not domiciled in its district. West Orange counterclaims for tuition reimbursement.

Petitioner filed an appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) on December 20, 2016. West Orange filed an Answer on January 13, 2017.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on January 12, 2017. Respondent filed a motion to amend its answer to include a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement on February 23, 2017. The motion was granted without opposition on March 6, 2017. The hearing was held on May 16, 2017 at which time I closed the record.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are not in dispute. Based upon the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, I FIND the following FACTS:

Gerard Drappi is a residency investigator for West Orange. He was previously a police officer for thirty years. He began an investigation on whether K.E. was a resident of West Orange because a letter was received by West Orange questioning K.E.'s residency. K.E.'s address was listed as 2 Seaman Road, West Orange, NJ on her student registration. A letter signed by D.E. the brother of C.E. dated August 19, 2015 stated that K.E. and C.E. lived with him at 2 Seaman Road, West Orange. The certificate of residency included the letter from D.E., a PSE&G bill and a pay stub.

Drappi began his investigation on October 7, 2016. He went to the Seaman Road address on that day and did not see K.E. leave the house. From October 7, 2016 to December 1, 2016, Drappi did not see K.E. enter or exit the Seaman Road address. During this time, he saw petitioners exiting the address on Norwood Street in East Orange before school.

A postal Freedom of Information request for C.E. showed his address as --- Norwood Road, East Orange, NJ. A record search of C.E.'s email address and the address connected to his phone number revealed C.E.'s address as --- Norwood Street, East Orange, NJ. A motor vehicle search on a vehicle with a license plate number of --- 5-5 which Drappi had seen C.E. primarily use revealed that the vehicle was registered to A.G. of Clifton, NJ. A subsequent motor vehicle search of license plate number P— E-X showed the vehicle to be owned by C.E. and registered at the same Norwood Street in East Orange.

Drappi went to the Seaman Road address on December 1, 2016 to deliver a letter regarding a residency hearing. At that time the house was vacant. Drappi contacted the sheriff's foreclosure unit and determined that the 2 Seaman Road address had been foreclosed on by the bank on September 1, 2015, which made the bank the owner of the property as of September 1, 2016. C.E. admitted that he left the Seaman Avenue address in September 2016 due to his brother being forced out of the house because of the foreclosure.

The notice of the meeting was given to K.E. at school with C.E.' s consent. At the December 6, 2016 Board meeting regarding K.E.'s residency, C.E. told Drappi that they had moved to East Orange. He also stated that he leased an apartment in West Orange at -- Washington Street, Unit One and provided a copy of a lease.

West Orange removed K.E. contingent on proof that petitioners were residing in West Orange. The removal letter stated, among other things, that if in his appeal C.E. could not sustain the burden of demonstrating entitlement of K.E. to attend school in West Orange, he would be required to pay tuition. K.E. was in the seventh grade during the 2016-2017 school year. The tuition rate for a student in the seventh grade during the 2016-2017 school year is $17,069.

The lease provided by C.E. stated that the owner of the property was Reggie Scott/ Transcon Bay Group. Drappi contacted the property manager at -- Washington Street and was informed that the property was in foreclosure. The bank appointed Blue Asset Management to manage the property. James Boyle a representative of Blue Asset Management was the actual property manager. Drappi spoke to Boyle who informed him the Reggie Scott was a tenant who leased a garage and a storefront. Scott did not have the authority to sublet. In addition, Unit One was a commercial unit, and was in disrepair and uninhabitable in and around December 2016.

Blue Asset Management did not lease any unit to C.E. Blue Asset Management did not draft the lease agreement that C.E. gave Drappi on December 6, 2016. Boyle never saw C.E. at the Washington Street address in West Orange. Petitioner never moved into the Washington Street address because he was informed by West Orange that Reggie Smith/ Transcon Bay Group did not own the property.

Drappi did a search with the New Jersey Department of the Treasury Division of Revenue Enterprise Services because C.E. stated that he had several businesses. The search showed that C.E. had approximately six businesses, all of which listed his address as the Norwood Avenue in East Orange, NJ.

C.E. testified that he had purchased a house at 12 Wildwood Avenue in West Orange, NJ on May 10, 2017. He stated that the seller was Wildwood Associates with the agent being Oscar Meurma. He stated that he knew Meurma through Reggie Scott and through real estate deals. He did not do a title search or a home inspection. No attorney assisted him with the purchase. C.E. further testified that he changed his driver's license to list his address as 12 Wildwood Avenue in West Orange. C.E. provided West Orange with documents regarding 12 Wildwood Avenue. He stated that the Notice to Buyer and Seller was prepared by the title company whose name he does not know. Page thirteen of the contract has a signature of C.E. as the buyer but no signature of the seller. C.E. acquired the tax record from the city, which lists Steve Tischler as the owner of the property. C.E. stated that Steve Tischler sold the property to Meurma, but there is no record of that.

The Actual owner of 12 Wildwood Avenue per the tax assessor's office is Steve Tischler, who purchased the property on April 12, 2010. A MLS listings for 12 Wildwood Avenue, West Orange, NJ showed that the property was listed for sale and the agent was James Boyle. Drappi spoke to James Boyle who was the listing agent for the property. James Boyle told Drappi that the property was under contract but not to C.E. Boyle had never heard of C.E.

Considering the contradictory testimony presented by respondent's witness and petitioner, the resolution of this matter requires that I make credibility determinations regarding the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witness's testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 60 N.J. 546 (1974); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness even though not contradicted when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521-22 (1950); see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses it is my view that Drappi and Boyle were credible. Their testimony was truthful and accurate. They did not have anything to gain by their testimony. Their testimony was consistent with the documents that were presented. C.E. was not credible. He testified that he knew Meurma from real estate business but testified that he did not know the name of the title company he contracted to purchase a house from just five days before the hearing. He did not do a title search on the property that he was about to purchase although he has a real estate background. At the December 6, 2016 residency hearing and at the present hearing C.E. provided what he stated were leases to premises he was going to rent or own in West Orange. Both documents were dated a few days before the hearing dates and neither of the documents were accurate. The owners of both premises had never heard of C.E. and did not lease or sell the properties to C.E.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

In support of its claim for tuition, respondent produced residency inspector Drappi, who testified in its behalf. The results of the investigation supported the finding that K.E. and her father, C.E. are domiciled out-of-district, but continued to attend public schools in the district for the 2016-2017 school year. The cost of tuition for K.E. for the 2016-2017 school year is $17,069.

West Orange asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the period of K.E.'s ineligible enrollment the 2016-2017 school year. Whereas here, the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b) likewise requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners were not a domiciliary in the West Orange School District for the 2016-2017 school year and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of audited tuition in the amount of $17,069.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and his daughter were not residents and domiciliary in West Orange, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within its school district during the 2016-2017 school year is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent be reimbursed tuition from petitioner in the amount of $17,069.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	ORDER
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On December 15, 2016, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found G.P. and I.R.-P. liable for tuition in the amount of Five Thousand Eight Hundred Ninety One Dollars and Seventy Cents ($5,891.70), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by their child, A.P., in the Board's school district between October 26, 2015 and March 16, 2016. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that G.P. and I.R.-P. had failed to comply with the decision, and requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessments on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. G.P. and I.R.-P. offered no reasons why the judgment against them should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Gaetano Pensavalle and Irma Rivera-Pensavalle are now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $5,891.70, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION :

OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE : DECISION

TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :

SYNOPSIS

In October 2016, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order to Show Cause requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, for resigning his position without giving the required 60 day notice. The respondent – a non-tenured teacher – contended that he did not have a contract for the 2016-2017 school year, and was therefore not obligated to provide a 60 day notice. The Board contended that – while no formal contract for the 2016-2017 school year was offered to Mr. Baeza – a June 20, 2016 letter rescinding respondent's non-renewal created an implied contract.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides, in pertinent part, that any teaching staff member "who shall, without the consent of the board...cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year"; in this case, respondent was initially employed by the petitioning Board as a middle school science teacher in March 2016, under a "Contingency Employment Contract" which expired on June 30, 2016; in May 2016, respondent received a letter from the Board informing him that his employment would not be renewed for reasons of economy; in June 2016, respondent received a second letter from the Board stating that his non-renewal was rescinded, but he received no formal contract for his review and signature; respondent received two letters in August of 2016 regarding the beginning of the school year and classroom setup, but again did not receive a written contract; the second of these letters clearly indicated that respondent's employment was contingent upon Board approval at a scheduled meeting on August 17; since respondent had still not received a formal contract for the 2016-2017 school year by late August, he accepted an offer of employment in the Paterson School District. The ALJ concluded that the respondent had no formal offer of employment for the 2016-2017 school year, but rather received a flurry of mixed messages, including: a non-renewal letter, a rescission of that letter, and a letter advising that his reemployment remained contingent on board approval. Respondent's conduct in accepting a formal contract offered by another school district was reasonable and did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Accordingly, the petitioning Board's request that the Commissioner suspend the respondent's teaching certificate was denied.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION	:
OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that respondent did not enter into an employment contract with the Board for the 2016-2017 school year, and therefore acted reasonably in accepting new employment. As such, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ that respondent's certificate should not be suspended pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 because he is not guilty of unprofessional conduct.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 18362-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 282-10/16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.

Yadira Duran, Esq., for petitioner (Hunt Hamlin and Ridley, attorneys)

Carlos Baeza, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: May 25, 2017 Decided: May 25, 2017

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Irvington School District (Irvington), seeks an order suspending respondent's teaching certificate for a period of one year, contending that he resigned from his teaching position with inadequate notice. Respondent, Carlos Baeza, replies that he had not been given a contract of employment for the 2016-2017 school year, and thus accepted alternative employment. Baeza asserts that his actions in no way violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

On or about October 3, 2016, at the request of Irvington, the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) entered an Order directing Baeza to show cause why his teaching certificate should not be suspended for unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Baeza filed an answer on December 2, 2016. On December 5, 2016, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. A hearing was conducted on May 25, 2017, at which time the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts are not in dispute and I FIND:

Baeza holds certification issued by the Department of Education as a teacher of elementary and middle school science. He was initially employed by Irvington in March 2016 to serve as science teacher in the seventh and eighth grades at University Middle School. He was employed pursuant to a "Contingency Employment Contract" dated February 17, 2016; his contract expired on June 30, 2016.

On May 11, 2016, Baeza and every other non-tenured staff member received an email from the Superintendent of Schools advising that their employment would not be renewed. The email cited budgetary constraints, and urged that the non-renewal was not performance related. Superintendent Neely Hackett explained that a proposed move to a new health plan could potentially ease these budgetary restrictions; that the legality of the proposed change was under review; and that she hoped to be able to rescind the non-renewals in the coming weeks.

Baeza again heard from the district via a letter from the Human Resources Department dated June 20, 2016, advising that his non-renewal had been "rescinded as of the date of this letter." But Baeza received no formal contract for his review and signature. By letter dated August 12, 2016, the principal of University Middle School shared information about the coming year; indicated that staff were required to report on September 6, 2016; and would be able to set up their classrooms during the week of August 29, 2016. Baeza received this letter, but again, received no contract of employment. By letter dated August 17, 2016, the Irvington Schools Office of Government Programs advised that there would be a two-day orientation on August 31 and September 1, 2016. Baeza received this letter, but again, no contract of employment. And this latter letter states, quite unequivocally, "that [his] employment is contingent on Board approval at the scheduled Board of Education meeting on August 17, 2016."

Counsel for the school district confirmed that no formal contract was ever offered to Baeza, urging that the June 20, 2016, letter rescinding his non-renewal created an implied contract. As for whether Baeza's employment was approved by the Board on August 17, 2016, as noted in the letter of the same date, counsel had no knowledge whether his employment was approved by the Board that night, or any night before or after.

As a science teacher, Baeza's services are in demand. Late in August 2016, he was approached with an offer of employment by the Paterson Schools. Having not yet received a contract, or any indication that the Board had approved his employment for the 2016-2017 school year, he accepted the position in Paterson. Via email sent on August 30, 2016, Baeza advised that, "as I had received no formal notice of my continuance at University Middle School, please be advised that I will not be returning to teach this academic year, as I had to make other arrangements for employment." Hackett replied that he "most certainly did receive notice and...will be held to [his] 60-day requirement." She asked for a letter of resignation. By reply email sent September 6, 2016, Baeza stated he had no intention of resigning as there was no employment from which to resign. He pointed out that his contract expired June 30, 2016, and he had not received a successor contract.

The district called Baeza himself as its only witness, and offered no evidence that Baeza's conduct caused any inconvenience or disruption to the public schools.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year." See also N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9. The Commissioner has held that the central purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is "to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." Penns Grove-Carneys Point Bd. of Educ. v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 405, 407. The decision to suspend a teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is discretionary and the Commissioner has historically evaluated all circumstances specific to an individual case. Black Horse Pike Reg'l Sch. Dist. v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 821; In re Capshaw, EDU 12318-06, Initial Decision (April 30, 2007), modified, Comm'r (June 12, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; East Amwell Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803.

For a non-tenured staff member like Baeza, the inquiry regarding whether there has been a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 must commence with an understanding of the "the term of his employment." The contractual understanding between the parties thus becomes the critical reference point. A binding contract is formed between two parties when there is a meeting of the minds evidenced by a written offer and an unconditional written acceptance. Morton v. 4 Orchard Land Trust, 180 N.J. 118, 129–30 (2004) (citing Johnson and Johnson v. Charmley Drug Co., 11 N.J. 526, 538–39 (1953)). Here, Baeza did not terminate his employment before the expiration of the term of his employment, because he had no contract, and thus, no term of employment. Irvington's argument that an implied contract was created by the rescission of its non-renewal notice is devoid of merit.

Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5 makes it clear that a contract of employment must be in writing. And N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6 requires that such contracts specify a start date; the kind of certificate required; the salary; and "such other matters as may be necessary to a full and complete understanding of the contract." These statutory provisions echo the well accepted view that a contract must evidence the mutual understanding by the parties of its essential terms. A letter simply stating that an employee's non-renewal has been rescinded meets none of these requirements, and cannot be held to form a binding contract, as Irvington suggests.

Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A: 27-10 required the school district to non-renew Baeza on or before May 15, or give him a contract by that date. And Irvington did timely non-renew him. Only if it had not, would Baeza have had any absolute expectation of continued employment, as N.J.S.A. 18A: 27-11 provides that in the absence of timely notice of non-renewal the school district "shall be deemed to have offered to that teaching staff member continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions but with such increases in salary as required by law or policies of the board of education."

I thus agree with Baeza that he had no formal offer of employment for the 2016-2017 school year and instead, a flurry of mixed messages, to include, a non-renewal letter; a recession of that letter; and a letter advising that his reemployment remained contingent on board approval. Like most Americans, Baeza needed a job, so he did what anyone under the circumstances would have done, he accepted a formal contract offered by another school district. I CONCLUDE that his conduct was eminently reasonable, and did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A: 26-10.

I fully recognize that teaching is a unique occupation where a change in personnel can affect many young lives.[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 confirms that a dedicated teacher must always put his students first, and resigning teachers must afford as much notice as administration feels is needed to ensure that education will continue uninterrupted. But the statute makes it plain that the non-tenured employee's professional obligations are those established by the "term of employment" agreed upon by the parties, and not by any intrinsic notion of professionalism. An employing school is thus obliged to offer a non-tenured staff member an actual contract, and not an implied one, if it expects that staff member to feel obliged to report to work at the start of a new school year.

[1] While I am willing to take judicial notice of the fact that a change in teacher creates added work for administration, the school district is cautioned for the future that it is obliged to offer evidence of actual disruption to the district and its students in a proceeding of this kind. Each circumstance is unique. Here, Baeza left before he met his students, and it is surely possible that the district immediately found a replacement, thus causing little or no disruption to the classroom. Or conversely, it might have taken the district months to replace him. The burden is on the school district to prove disruption. And the penalty imposed may vary, based on the disruption created by the teacher's conduct.

Finally, I am compelled to point out that both the administrative law judge and the Commissioner roundly rejected the identical arguments when they were previously raised by Irvington in In Re Canela, Irvington School District, EDU 17209-16, Initial Decision (January 12, 2017), aff'd Commissioner (February 23, 2017), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. It is noteworthy that there too, the district cited N.J.S.A. 18:28-8 in it petition, which was inapplicable there, and is likewise inapplicable here, as that statute governs the obligations of tenured staff members.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the request by the Irvington Public Schools that the Commissioner suspend the teaching certificate of Carlos Baeza pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 26-10 is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT	:

On June 10, 2016, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein, the Commissioner dismissed the petition of appeal with prejudice, finding that dismissal of the petition was proper due to T.G.'s failure to appear and prosecute on the rescheduled hearing date of April 14, 2016.[1] The Commissioner assessed petitioner, Tracy Green, $46,998.62 in tuition costs for T.S. and T.S. for the period of ineligible attendance, plus each day beyond April 14, 2016 that T.S. and T.S. remained enrolled in the District's schools. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner had failed to reimburse respondent as directed in the final decision, and has requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Petitioner offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity to do so by this agency.

[1] Petitioner had previously failed to appear for the original hearing date of January 4, 2016, and subsequently requested that the hearing be rescheduled. However, petitioner again did not appear at the April 14, 2016 hearing, and also failed to provide an explanation for her non-appearance and lack of prosecution.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Tracy Green is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $46.998.62,[2] which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

Re: West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District, Mercer County v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No. 113-6/17

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief filed by the petitioner, West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District (District), in the above-captioned matter. The District is appealing the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying its request for a hearing before the Executive Committee in connection with the May 23, 2017 Board Resolution, permitting West Windsor-Plainsboro students to participate in co-curricular and/or athletic programs at the other District high school when such programs are not offered at their school of residence.

The District contends that it began having concerns that it may not be able to maintain separate football programs at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School North (HSN), which is classified as Group III school, and West Windsor-Plainfield High School South (HSS), which is classified as Group IV school. As a result, the District sought to establish a cooperative agreement for football whereby there would be one football team for the 2017-2018 school year that would be comprised of students from both HSN and HSS.[1] However, Article III, Section 10 of NJSIAA's Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations prohibits cooperative football agreements by a Group III football program. Therefore, the District applied to the West Jersey Football League (WJFL) to request a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation and the approval of a cooperative football agreement between HSN and HSS for the 2017-2018 school year.[2] The WJFL denied the District's request, citing various reasons why the waiver would not only impact other schools in the WJFL conference but also all schools in the state.

[1] The District contends that it was seeking a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation based upon several factors, including: the lack of a robust feeder program; decreasing enrollment; decreasing student interest; fear of sports injury and concussions; and the District's inability to run sub-varsity programs.

[2] The District also appeared before the NJSIAA Executive Committee to present its request to advance proposed legislation regarding a formal change to the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws to allow Groups III, IV, and V to enter into a cooperative agreement for football under specific provisions.

The District appealed the WJFL's decision to the NJSIAA League and Conference Committee. Following a hearing on May 23, 2017, the League and Conference Committee denied the District's request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation. The District could have appealed that decision to the Executive Committee in accordance with Article XII, Section 5 of the Bylaws.[3] Instead, later that day, the District passed a Board Resolution that permitted District students to participate in co-curricular and/or athletic programs at the other District high school when such programs are not offered at their school of residence. The Board Resolution effectively allowed the cooperative agreement for football that is expressly prohibited by the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws and was the subject of the waiver request that was denied by the League and Controversies Committees.

On May 24, 2017, the Board informed the NJSIAA's Executive Committee of the Board Resolution and requested a hearing before the Executive Committee on the Resolution's immediate enactment. The District sought to have an immediate decision from the Executive Committee under Article XII, Section 6 of the Bylaws, which permits the Executive Committee to hear a controversy and render a decision in "emergent circumstances where time will not permit a controversy to be heard by the Controversies Committee." The NJSIAA denied the District's request for another hearing, stating that the substance of the Board Resolution was already the subject of a hearing before the League and Conference Committee.[4] The NJSIAA also noted that the District's desire to have the Executive Committee act on the Board Resolution does not amount to a "complaint, protest or dispute" that would entitle the District to review by the Executive Committee under Article XII, Section 4 of the NJSIAA's Bylaws.

The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1).

Additionally, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the District has failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief because the District has not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits.[5] More specifically, the District has not made a preliminary showing that the NJSIAA applied its rules in an arbitrary or unreasonable manner when it denied the District's request for a hearing and immediate action on the Board Resolution based on the fact that the substance of the resolution was already decided by the League and Conference Committee after an extensive hearing.

[3] Pursuant to Article XII, Section 5 of the Bylaws, "[a]ny party [that] is aggrieved by any decision of the Controversies Committee ... may appeal to the Executive Committee ... [whereby] the Executive Committee shall serve as an appellate body, and the appeal shall be limited to the record developed before the Controversies Committee."

[4] The League and Conference Committee is a sub-committee within the Controversies Committee.

The District contends that the NJSIAA has failed and/or refused to take action with respect to the Board Resolution that would establish one football team comprised of students from both HSN and HSS for the 2017-2018 school year. Although the District has attempted to characterize the Board Resolution as a separate action from its request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation, it is evident that the application of the Board Resolution to football has already been decided and denied by the League and Conference Committee.[6] Certainly without the NJSIAA granting a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation, the adoption of the Board Resolution is meaningless with respect to football.[7] A board of education cannot simply pass a resolution as a mechanism to circumvent the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws; and it is undisputed that the NJSIAA Bylaws prohibit Group III schools from entering into a cooperative agreement for football. There is also nothing in the record to suggest on emergent relief that the NJSIAA's determination that the District's desire to have the Executive Committee act on the Board Resolution does not amount to a "complaint, protest or dispute" under Article XII, Section 4 of the NJSIAA's Bylaws.

In light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors. Accordingly, the District's request for emergent relief and an Order granting the immediate enactment of the Board's Resolution is hereby denied.

Sincerely,

Peter Shulman
Deputy Commissioner[8]

[5] This is not a decision on the merits of the NJSIAA's denial of the District's request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation, but rather a decision on the NJSIAA's denial of the District's request for a hearing before the Executive Committee and the immediate enactment of the Board Resolution.

[6] The District was afforded the requisite due process in connection with the waiver request. Not only did the WJFL review the waiver request, but the League and Conference Committee also held a hearing during which the District had an opportunity to present testimony and thoroughly present its arguments in favor of the waiver.

[7] Not all sports are treated the same in the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 08155-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 114-6/17

S.R., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.G.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST ORANGE ESSEX COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this case, the petitioner is appealing the decision of the East Orange Board of Education (Board) not to allow J.G. to participate in her 8th grade promotional ceremony. The ALJ denied the petitioner's request for emergent relief.*

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe. Ibid. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

* The recommended Order states that the petitioner's motion for emergent relief is denied under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, but it does not explain the relevant facts, nor does it specifically state why one or more of the Crowe prongs were not established.

In this case, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in determining that J.G. is ineligible to participate in the 8th grade promotional exercises. The Board advised petitioner on May 31, 2017 that J.G. would be ineligible to participate in the promotional exercises due to chronic absenteeism, excessive tardiness, multiple infractions against the code of conduct and multiple violations of the 8th grade contract. (Exhibit R14) Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(d)(1), "[a] district board of education may deny participation in extracurricular activities, school functions, sports, graduation exercises or other privileges as disciplinary sanctions when designed to maintain the order and integrity of the school environment."

Judging from the testimony at the emergent hearing in this matter, it is clear that the Board took the position that J.G. was ineligible to participate in the promotional exercises because she continued to violate school policy. Specifically, J.G. was absent 18 times, was tardy 51 times, and had numerous disciplinary infractions, including cell phone violations, entries into unauthorized areas of the school, and a physical altercation with other students. The Board informed J.G. via a "redemption contract agreement" that she was ineligible to attend the class field trip to Dorney Park due to a January 18, 2017 cell phone violation, but that she could earn her privileges back through maintaining positive relationships, completing all class assignments, and refraining from receiving any discipline referrals. (Exhibit R6) Thereafter, following an unauthorized area violation on March 2 and a group fight on March 23, 2007, J.G. received two more redemption contracts indicating that she lost her privileges to attend not only the Dorney Park trip, but also the 8th grade social and the promotional exercises. (Exhibits R7 and R8)

Following those incidents, J.G. received another unauthorized area violation on April 28, threw student binders on the floor on May 3, and had a verbal altercation with another student on May 11, 2017. (Exhibits R4, R9, and R10) Considering J.G.'s behavior, especially after she was informed that she would be ineligible to attend the promotional exercises absent displaying positive behavior and avoiding any disciplinary referrals, it is clear that the school did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in refusing to allow J.G. to participate in the 8th grade promotional exercises. Therefore, in light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted as modified. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner notes with respect to paragraph 16 of the Agreement that the Board must comply with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq. in regard to information concerning this matter, notwithstanding any agreement the parties may have between themselves to keep the terms of their settlement confidential. Additionally, with respect to paragraphs 8 and 9, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b), parties seeking enforcement of agency judgments must bring action in the Superior Court as provided in New Jersey Court Rules at R.4:67-6. Therefore, the parties may not seek enforcement of the Agreement with the Commissioner of Education.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement consistent with applicable public records law and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b).

C.H., on behalf of minor child, M.H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's disciplinary determination with respect to his son, M.H. Petitioner contended that the Board's determination that M.H. had made "terroristic threats" – and the subsequent imposition of a four-day out-of-school suspension, forty-five demerits, and placement in an alternative education program – was improper because the District failed to conduct a manifestation determination in accordance with its policy and applicable law. Concurrent appeals challenging the Board's determination were filed before the Commissioner and the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP). Based on the ALJ's determinations in the OSEP matter – wherein the ALJ found that M.H.'s behavior did not meet the definition of "terroristic threats" and the District failed to conduct a manifestation determination, as well as establish the existence of any special circumstances for removing M.H. from school – petitioner sought expungement of the four-day suspension and the forty-five demerits. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the District's own policy with respect to classified students requires that "prior to disciplining a classified student, it must be determined that the student's behavior is not primarily caused by his disability and the program provided meets the student's needs"; while the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act requires a manifestation determination before a student is removed from his/her current placement, the District's policy requires such a determination prior to any discipline being imposed upon a classified student; in this case, the District made no determination as to whether M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability; the District's assertion that the suspension was warranted, based on M.H.'s actions in writing a rap song that makes reference to guns while at school, was determined to be baseless in the OSEP matter; and the forty-five demerits assessed upon M.H. were never reported in his record, and therefore render that issue moot. The ALJ concluded that the imposition of the four-day suspension was improper, but since it has already been served, the only remedy is to remove the suspension from his disciplinary record. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that any reference to the suspension in M.H.'s disciplinary record, or other school record, be expunged.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

C.H., on behalf of minor child, M.H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by respondent, and petitioner's reply thereto. In this matter, petitioner challenges the Board's disciplinary determination pertaining to M.H. Specifically, petitioner contends that the Board's determination that that M.H. made "terroristic threats against staff; students; and/or faculty" and its subsequent imposition of forty-five demerits and a four-day out-of-school suspension on M.H., followed by placement in an alternative education program, were improper because the District failed to conduct a manifest determination in accordance with its policy and applicable law; and therefore, M.H.'s permanent record should be expunged.[1]

Petitioner had filed concurrent appeals before the Commissioner and the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) challenging the Board's determination. In the OSEP matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that the Board improperly placed M.H. in an alternative education program because the District failed to conduct a manifest determination and establish the existence of any special circumstances for removing M.H. from school. The ALJ also found that

[1] This particular disciplinary action was triggered by a staff member's discovery of rap lyrics referencing guns in M.H.'s journal. The parties agree that M.H. was previously advised not to discuss guns in school.

M.H.'s behavior did not meet the definition of "terroristic threats."[2] Based on the ALJ's findings in the OSEP matter, petitioner now seeks expungement of the four-day suspension and the forty-five demerits from M.H.'s records.

In the matter before the Commissioner, the ALJ found that M.H. did not receive the forty-five demerits, thereby rendering the issue moot. The ALJ also found that the District – in violation of its own policy – failed to conduct a manifestation determination before imposing disciplinary action on M.H. The ALJ concluded that imposition of the four-day suspension was improper because the tribunal had already determined that M.H.'s behavior did not rise to the level of "terroristic threats" – which was the Board's sole basis for its disciplinary action in this matter – and as such, any reference to the four-day suspension in M.H.'s records should be removed.

The Board takes exception to the ALJ's determination that the suspension was unmerited and that any reference to same must be expunged from M.H.'s records. The Board argues that irrespective of whether the behavior rose to the level of "terroristic threat," the behavior nonetheless occurred – notably, M.H. defied previous warnings about such behavior. The Board contends that the four-day suspension was, therefore, imposed for good cause, and should be upheld. In reply, petitioner argues that the Board violated its own policy by failing to perform a manifestation determination before imposing the four-day suspension, and therefore, it should not be allowed to maintain a record of the suspension for "terroristic threats," especially when the ALJ found that M.H. did not make terroristic threats.

Upon consideration and review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7, expungement of the four-day suspension from M.H.'s permanent record is proper because the specific misconduct – terroristic threats – did not occur. The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ's determination that the District failed to adhere to its own policy when it did not conduct a manifestation determination prior to imposing disciplinary action on M.H.

Board Policy No. 5131 provides, in pertinent part, "before disciplining a classified pupil, it must be determined that: A. The pupil's behavior is not primarily caused by his/her educational disability"; and "B. The program that is being provided meets the pupil's needs." In other words, in accordance with its policy, the Board must conduct a manifestation determination before imposing any form of discipline on a classified student. Here, the Board admittedly did not conduct a manifestation determination before suspending M.H. for four days. The Board now seeks to bypass its policy requirements and maintain the disciplinary action in M.H.'s records, which is improper. More importantly, when the sole basis for the four-day suspension – terroristic threats – is found not to have occurred, there is no justification for upholding such discipline.[3] Therefore, expungement of any reference to the four-day suspension – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 – is proper.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted in part and denied in part. The Board is hereby directed to expunge the record as to M.H.'s four-day suspension in December 2015; however, expungement is moot as regards the demerits, since they were never recorded. The Board's cross-motion for summary decision is denied.

[3] In its exceptions, the Board attempts to argue that the suspension was imposed as a result of M.H.'s defiance of authority and pattern of behavior, which clearly contradicts the substance of the Board's notice of suspension – which was issued in relation to a specific incident that the Board considered to be an act of "terroristic threat."

SALEM CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Corey E. Ahart, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: May 19, 2017 Decided: May 31, 2017

BEFORE JOHN S. KENNEDY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, C.H. on behalf of his minor son, M.H. challenges the Board of Education of the City of Salem's (Board) disciplinary determination and suspension of M.H. from school. The Board disciplined M.H. for allegedly making terroristic threats.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 15, 2016, petitioner, C.H., filed with the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), New Jersey Department of Education, an expedited petition for due process, seeking an order overturning Board's decision to place his son, M.H., in an alternative interim placement due to terroristic threats alleged to have been made by M.H. On January 20, 2016, the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for expedited hearing, which was held before this tribunal on February 9, 2016. A decision was rendered in the special education matter on March 1, 2016. Petitioner simultaneously filed this matter seeking the removal of Board's disciplinary determination from M.H.'s record. This matter was filed with the OAL on February 3, 2016. On August 11, 2016, petitioner filed a motion for Summary Decision. Due to the passing of the District's solicitor, a response and Cross Motion for Summary Decision was not filed until December 15, 2016. Oral argument was originally scheduled for January 20, 2017, but on January 17, 2017, both parties agreed to have the matter decided on the papers.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

M.H. is a fifteen-year-old student who resides within the Salem City School District (District). He is eligible for special education and related services under the classification of Specific Learning Disability (SLD) and the district has prepared an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) to assist him with disabilities in basic reading skills, mathematical problem solving and written expression. He is a Junior at Salem City High School.

On December 12, 2015, M.H. was subjected to discipline by the District for alleged terroristic threats when district employees discovered lyrics to a rap song written in M.H.'s school journal. The Board conducted a hearing on January 6, 2016, and affirmed the recommendations of the Superintendent that M.H. be suspended for four-days, receive forty-five demerits and be placed in an alternative school program at Salem Middle School. As the aforementioned statements are not in dispute, I hereby FIND them as FACT.

After having had an opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, and consider the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing on February 9, 2016, I made the following additional FINDINGS of FACT:

1. M.H. wrote in a class journal a rap song that had the following lyrics: "U better dip like a chip because I got a new gun with 2 clips I can't wait to use it better yet shoot it roll up in your club like a blunt we smoke it can't comprehend no more we baking like hot cakes."

2. At the hearing conducted by the Board, the Board affirmed this action after hearing testimony and M.H.'s attorney was given an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses.

3. The term "terroristic threats" is not defined in the District student handbook.

4. M.H. had been warned in November 2015, that this is not appropriate when his father was called in to school after M.H. was taking about shooting a gun at a gun range. M.H. was advised at that time that he cannot talk about guns in school. Both M.H. and his father understood and agreed.

5. District staff secured M.H., checked his bags and locker and found no weapons of any kind. The rap lyrics were not given to anyone or performed in school by M.H. They were discovered by a teacher that was reviewing M.H.'s journal to check his work as required by his IEP.

6. The District's Child Study Team was not consulted as part of the discipline process. In December 2014, the Child Study Team had recommended a psychiatric evaluation be conducted upon M.H., but his father refused the evaluation. The Child Study Team wanted him evaluated because his last psychiatric evaluation was conducted when M.H. was in second grade. At that time, M.H. drew pictures of guns and stated that he was mad at another child and would shoot him if he had a gun.

7. M.H. does not own a gun, has never shot a gun or even touched a gun in his life.

8. The District recommended a change in placement, primarily based upon a perceived threat to the safety and welfare of the District's staff and students.

I concluded in my March 1, 2016, decision, that the Board cannot remove M.H. to an alternative educational setting because the Board has failed to prove any special circumstance for removal of a child whose conduct has not been determined to be a result of his disability or that maintaining M.H.'s current placement is substantially likely to result in injury to himself or others. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3)(B)(ii); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(b)(2) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(e). No determination regarding petitioner's claim that M.H.'s due-process rights were violated at the Board's hearing on January 6, 2016, was rendered in the special education matter. I further made no determination whether the four-day suspension or the demerits imposed upon M.H. were appropriate. It is clear and I FIND as FACT that M.H. was suspended for four-days for making terroristic threats. I further FIND as FACT that the District made no determination that M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability.

In his response and Cross Motion for Summary Decision the District for the first time advises that the forty-five demerits assessed upon M.H. were never recorded and are, therefore not on his permanent record. I therefore FIND as FACT that M.H. did not receive forty-five demerits and thereby render that issue moot.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"), 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 1400–1482, and its implementing regulations, a school district "may remove a student to an interim alternative educational setting for not more than forty-five school days without regard to whether the behavior is determined to be a manifestation of the child's disability", if the child brings a weapon to school, inflicts serious bodily injury on another person at school, or "knowingly possesses or uses illegal drugs, or sells or solicits the sale of a controlled substance, while at school, on school premises, or at a school function." 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(1)(G); 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(g) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8(d), (f). If the school district believes that maintaining the child's current placement is substantially likely to result in injury to the child or others, the school district may request an expedited due-process hearing. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3), (k)(4)(B); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(a) and (c) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(n); N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(a). In such a case, a hearing officer may "return a child with a disability to the placement from which the child was removed" under certain circumstances or "order a change in placement of a child with a disability to an appropriate interim alternative educational setting for not more than forty-five school days if the hearing officer determines that maintaining the current placement of such child is substantially likely to result in injury to the child or to others."[1] 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3)(B)(ii); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(b)(2) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(e).

Under State Law, the school district bears the burden of proof and the burden of production in any due-process hearing held in accordance with the IDEA with respect to "the identification, evaluation, reevaluation, classification, educational placement, the provision of a free, appropriate public education, or disciplinary action, of a child with a disability." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1.1. In a due-process hearing before the OAL, "[t]he judge's decision shall be based on the preponderance of the credible evidence, and the proposed action of the Board of Education or public agency shall not be accorded any presumption of correctness." N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.1(d).

The District's own policy with respect to classified students requires that "prior to disciplining a classified student, it must be determined that the student's behavior is not primarily caused by his or her disability and the program provided meets the student's needs. (See, J-1 attached to petitioners Brief in Support of Summary Decision at page

[1] The child shall remain in the interim alternative educational setting until an administrative law judge (ALJ) renders a decision or until the expiration of the forty-five-day removal period, whichever occurs first. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(4)(A); 34 C.F.R. § 300.533 (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(u); N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8(f).

44.) While the IDEA requires a manifestation determination before a student is removed from his/her current placement, District policy requires such a determination prior to any discipline being imposed upon a classified student. Here the District made no determination if M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability.

The District asserts that the suspension is warranted based on M.H's actions of writing a rap song making reference to guns while in school. The District also concedes that since my March 1, 2016, decision concluded that M.H. did not make "terroristic threats" pursuant to neither District policy nor N.J.S.A. 2C:2-3, any reference to "terroristic threats" will be removed from his Disciplinary Record. In a letter, dated December 11, 2015, the District advised petitioner that the reason for the suspension is "Terroristic threats against staff; students; and or faculty." (See, P-1 attached to petitioner's Brief in Support of Summary Decision.) This is the only reason given for the discipline. It has already been concluded by this tribunal that no "terroristic threats" were made. Although New Jersey Law permits a District to suspend a student for good cause, which includes many various acts of misconduct, the specific act of misconduct alleged to have occurred by M.H., based on my March 1, 2016, decision, did not occur. I therefore CONCLUDE that the imposition of the four-day suspension was improper. N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 permits a parent or adult student to seek to expunge inaccurate, irrelevant or otherwise improper information from a student record. M.H. has already served the suspension. The only remedy is to remove the suspension from his disciplinary record. For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that any reference made to the four-day suspension served by M.H. on December 10, ,11, 14 and 15, 2015 should be expunged.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that any reference made in M.H.'s disciplinary record or any other record maintained by the District to the four-day suspension served by M.H. on December 10, 11, 14 and 15, 2015, shall be expunged.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

On January 7, 2016, Helga Hugelmeyer, Superintendent for the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth ("the Board"), filed Sworn Tenure Charges against Respondent Jerry Pascher in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, and also on January 7, 2016, same were served on Respondent with notice of opportunity to submit evidence and argument in opposition to the Charges. Thereafter, the Board, following its review of the Charges and any opposition thereto at a duly convened meeting on February 18, 2016, found probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the Charges and it consequently determined to certify the Charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing pursuant to law. Thereafter, Harold E. Kennedy, Jr., the Board's Business Administrator and Secretary, signed a Certification of the Board's actions and same was served upon Pascher.

On or about February 29, 2016, Respondent, through counsel, filed his Answer denying all counts set forth in the Charges, and on March 14, 2016, I was appointed Arbitrator to hear and decide this tenure matter. A Status Conference was scheduled for March 28, 2016, and subsequently adjourned to April 7, 2016, and reconvened on April 25, 2016. On May 9, 2016, counsel advised me the parties had agreed upon the terms of a stipulation settling the Charges and same was signed on May 11, 2016. It received final Board approval on August 4, 2016.

Thereafter, the parties informed me they had reached agreement settling this case, and on March 28, 2017, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, they forwarded to me for review and approval a fully executed copy of their Employment Separation Agreement and Release ("Agreement"), which is attached and incorporated herein.

I have carefully reviewed the Agreement and I determine it satisfies the statutory requirements for withdrawal and settlement of tenure charges, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. In particular:

1. The nature of the Charges are part of the record of this proceeding and were known to all parties to the Agreement;

2. The circumstances justifying settlement and withdrawal are incorporated into the Agreement. For the Respondent, the Board agreed to withdraw the Charges and to extend his employment until an agreed-upon retirement date of June 30, 2016. For the Board, Pascher's retirement is irrevocable, and he has agreed in perpetuity to waive any rights to re-employment or to a consultant relationship with the Board. The Board has promised to cooperate with the Pension Board and/or any other State or Local government body promptly and completely with respect to Pascher's pension application, and Pascher has provided the Board with a broad release which irrevocably and unconditionally waives and discharges any and all claims or rights stemming from the facts and circmstances that gave rise to the instant Charges. The release broadly extends to the Board's members, officers, administrators, agents, attorneys and employees, and includes without limitation claims under common law as well as federal, state and local labor laws and regulations. The Board has promised it will provide to Pascher neutral references in response to any future employment inquiries, and both parties are protected by a broadly worded non-disparagement provision.

3. The Agreement advised Respondent of his rights under the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, in particular of his right to review and consider the Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and of his right revoke and rescind his execution of the Agreement within seven (7) calendar days after he signed it on May 11, 2016.

4. The Agreement is signed by the parties and their representatives, and incorporates the May 12, 2016, Board Resolution accepting Pascher's resignation and its authorization the Board President and it authorizes the Business Administrator/Board Secretary to execute the Agreement and carry out the actions of the Board stipulated therein. Pascher has averred he entered into the Agreement freely and voluntarily, with a full understanding of his rights following satisfactory and unimpeded discussions with his representative which were conducted without duress or coercion. I find it complies with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(b)

5. The Agreement, I find, does not contain terms which restrict access to information or records deemed public by law, accurately represents the circumstances of Respondent's resignation and is in the public interest.

I approve the Agreement.

TENURE CHARGES TO BE MOOT/NO FURTHER BOARD ACTION

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Agreement by the parties and Mr. Pascher's fulfillment of the obligations as set forth herein, that the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed withdrawn, and that no further action shall be initiated by the Board regarding the underlying charges. The Board reserves all rights in the event this Agreement is breached by Mr. Pascher, as well as with respect to any third party claims that may be made against the Board as a result of any acts and/or omissions by Mr. Pascher during his employment with the Board. Mr. Pascher retains his rights to enforce this agreement should the Board breach same.

Mr. Pascher agrees that he will not seek any future employment or consultant relationship with the Board in perpetuity and that the Board has no obligation, contractual or otherwise, to re-hire or re-employ him.

NO ADMISSIONS

This Agreement is entered into for the sole purpose of resolving issues related to Mr. Pascher's employment, and neither the execution, delivery, nor performance of this Agreement, nor Mr. Pascher's retirement shall constitute or be construed at any time or for any purpose to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by any of the parties; the parties further agree that neither this Agreement and Release nor Mr. Pascher's retirement shall be used as evidence in any judicial, administrative, or quasi-judicial proceedings, except to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

NO FURTHER COMPENSATION/BENEFITS

Prior to the effective date of Mr. Pascher's resignation for the purposes of retirement, he shall be entitled to salary and benefits during the period April 1, 2016 through June 30, 2016. He shall be entitled to no further compensation or fringe benefit of any kind with the exception of any summer pay to which he is entitled and pay for unused sick days to which he is entitled. Mr. Pascher specifically waives his right to any additional pay and benefits, except for any benefits to which he may lawfully be entitled under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"). Mr. Pascher represents that as of the date of this agreement, he has not filed and does not intend to file any Workers' Compensation claim related to his employment with the Board.

The parties recognize that during the period February 23, 2016 through March 31, 2016, Mr. Pascher was on unpaid administrative leave.

RELEASE

In exchange for the above consideration, Mr. Pascher, his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights stemming from the facts and circumstances which gave rise to the tenure charges referred to herein or the basis for same, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its attorneys, agents and employees, personally and officially, as well as their successors, and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorney's fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this Agreement, and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New

NON-DISPARAGEMENT

The parties and their agents shall refrain from public negative comments regarding each other, and each other's employees and/or agents. SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's practices for identifying, investigating, and resolving allegations of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) at the Ethical Community Charter School. Petitioner had filed a grievance seeking improvement in these practices, after which her claims were investigated by the Board. The Board communicated the findings of that investigation to the petitioner on July 15, 2015. Petitioner filed her appeal on October 27, 2015. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, based upon the failure of the petitioner to file an appeal within ninety days pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner filed her appeal on October 27, 2015, 105 days after notice of the Board's decision; in order to relax the ninety-day rule, the circumstances must be exceptional or the reason compelling, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; there is no basis herein by which the petitioner is entitled to relax the ninety-day rule. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) from bringing her appeal out of time. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 18839-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 350-11/15

T.N. ON BEHALF OF L.C., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ETHICAL COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL, HUDSON COUNTY,
Respondent.

T.N., petitioner, pro se

Thomas O. Johnson, Esq., for respondent (Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 1, 2017 Decided: June 9, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.N. on behalf of L.C., filed a grievance with the respondent Board of Trustees of the Ethical Community Charter School (Board) on June 8, 2015.

Respondent acknowledged receipt of the grievance and an investigation was conducted by the respondent regarding the allegations contained therein. After the completion of the investigation, the respondent gave notice of the findings of that investigation to the petitioner, T.N., on July 15, 2015.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 27, 2015, the petitioner filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education regarding the decision. Respondent raises grounds for the dismissal of the petition herein based upon a failure of the petitioner to file a petition within ninety days of the action of Ethical, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i) via a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Respondent maintains that it processes applications based upon a procedure authorized under N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3(b). The only submission made by the petitioner was submitted on February 29, 2016, and no additional submissions were made by the petitioner despite requests for same.

The New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2 where it was filed on November 24, 2015, and assigned to Administrative Law Judge Tiffany Williams. Thereafter, Judge Williams resigned and the case was reassigned to the undersigned. The respondent moved for a dismissal based on a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Petitioner opposed said motion based on previously submitted documents.

DISCUSSION

Initially, I note that petitioner provided no certification or affidavit in opposition to the respondent's motion in this matter or no follow up reply to the respondent's motion. For this record, the undersigned will rely on respondent's motion for dismissal and the submission by the petitioner T.N. without any certification or affidavit. The petitioner stated that she was going to file opposition paperwork, after a telephone conference; however, no such submission was ever filed by the petitioner. I will rely extensively on the fully briefed motion submitted by the respondent, along with a supporting certification.

FACTS

The following FACTS are not disputed, and I FIND:

1. The Ethical Community Charter School in Hudson County is a charter school established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1.

2. Petitioner is a parent and a student enrolled in the Ethical School and filed a grievance seeking improvement in the practices for identifying, investigating, and resolving HIB allegations at the Ethical School.

3. Respondent investigated the claims of the petitioner and communicated its final decision to the petitioner on July 15, 2015.

4. Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal on October 27, 2015

ADDITIONAL FACTS FOUND

Based upon the review of respondent's certification and moving papers, including excerpts of the certified answers to interrogatories, and the request for hearing, I FIND the following as additional FACTS:

5. Petitioner's submission stated that she filed a grievance that was not about the bullying investigation.

6. L.C. is a gender non-conforming student at the respondent school with allegations of bullying other student from March 2014 until the end of the school year.

7. The allegations of bullying include hitting L.C. and telling L.C. that he was a "freak, gay and had no friends."

8. After the investigation, the respondent found that the incident between L.C. and the other student was a back-and-forth situation and L.C. was required to apologize to the other student.

9. T.N., L.C.'s mother, had difficulty with the manner in which the HIB investigation was conducted.

10. As a basis to the above, T.N. requested that the respondent open another investigation.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

A motion to dismiss the petitioners' appeal is a well-recognized procedure for resolving cases in which the facts that are crucial to the determination of the matters at issue are not actually in dispute and the application to that set of material facts of the applicable law and standard of proof lead to a determination of the case without the necessity of a hearing at which evidence and testimony need be taken. The procedure is equally applicable in judicial and executive-branch administrative cases. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Petitioner acknowledged that the petition was received from the respondent on July 15, 2015. Based on the document submitted by the respondent, the petitioner clearly filed the petition on October 27, 2015, 105 days after notice of the decision.

There is no basis for which the petitioner is entitled to relax or otherwise not apply the ninety-day rule. In order to relax the ninety-day rule the circumstances must be exceptional or the reason must be compelling. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. Respondent cites Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572,590 (1993) in support of their position that the petitioner has failed to file the petition within ninety days. The adequate notice to trigger the ninety-day statute of limitations is from the day the petitioner learns of the existence of facts that would enable one to file a timely claim. Ibid. The Kaprow Court stated that "[t]he limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days." Id. at 582. This limitation is put in place in order "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims" and "to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs." Ibid. In addition, the Kaprow Court found that "unofficial or informal notice is sufficient to trigger the ninety-day limitations period." Id. at 588.

The Commissioner of Education promulgated N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i), as requiring a petition be brought within ninety days of notice of the action. T.N. did not do that here. Furthermore, T.N. did not substantiate any exceptional or compelling reasons for the failure to file.

The ninety-day rule must be strictly applied and has been strictly followed by the Commissioner of Education. Markalin v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 406. In addition, New Jersey courts have strictly construed the ninety-day requirement. Riely v. Bd. of Educ. of Hunterdon Central Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980). As argued by the respondent and supported by caselaw, this ninety-day rule represents a fair and necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws and expresses a public policy of giving school districts the security of knowing that decisions regarding the administrative operations of the school district cannot be challenged after the time period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 582.

In this case, the evidence clearly confirms that the petitioner was given notice of the respondent's findings as to their grievance on July 15, 2015. The evidence also confirms that the petitioner filed the appeal on October 27, 2015, which exceeds the ninety-day rule as the October date is 105 days from the date of the respondent's decision.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE petitioner is barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i), from bringing this petition out of time. I CONCLUDE petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she is entitled to a waiver of the time period of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i).

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED, and petitioner's petition is DISMISSED and DENIED in all respects. This Initial Decision disposes of all issues in controversy in this matter.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FRANKLIN LAKES, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to *Crowe v. Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

M.K. ON BEHALF OF M.K., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FRANKLIN LAKE, BERGEN COUNTY
Respondent.

M.K., petitioner, pro se

Stephan Fogarty, Esq. for respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 27, 2017 Decided: June 27, 2017

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

Petitioner, M.K., brings this action seeking an order to compel Franklin Board of Education (District) to document and incorporate a process for students to achieve the standards in the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS) that are outside of the regular school offering of the school and require the District to approve and grant credit for established group programs outside of the District based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding NJSLS in the same manner that in-district curriculum is approved.

On June 22, 2017, the Office of Special Education Programs transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) under Docket No. EDU 08838-17. Oral arguments were held on June 27, 2017, on which date the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

After carefully considering the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony, I FIND the following FACTS:

M.E.K. has recently completed the seventh grade at Franklin Avenue Middle School. He is a general education student. Students attending the seventh grade in the district are placed into one of three mathematics courses: Math 7, Math Advanced 7, or Algebra 7. Placement is determined by seven factors: Math in focus assessment, basic math knowledge test, Terranova results, Cog AT 5 results, Iowa Algebra, students final grade in the sixth grade and work habit scores. M.E.K satisfied his math requirement by completing Math 7 Advanced. Petitioner filed for a Due Process hearing on January 10, 2017 requesting that M.E.K. be immediately moved from Math 7 Advanced to Algebra 7. The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) returned the due process request to petitioner for failure to follow substantive requirements. Petitioner filed a second due process petition with OSEP on February 8, 2017 again requesting that M.E.K. be moved from the Math Advanced 7 to the Algebra 7. Mediation was held on March 7, 2017 and the petition was withdrawn.

On June 6, 2017 Petitioner advised the District that M.E.K. would be enrolled in a summer algebra program and requested that the district give M.E.K. credit for the course. Petitioner proposed M.E.K. take the course at one of the following: Bergen Community College New Work for Credit, Mountain Lakes High School Summer Academy, Montclair Kimberly Academy Summer Skills for Success or the New Jersey

Virtual School. These programs will begin on either June 27, 2017 or July 5, 2017. Leisel McDonnell Steines, the District's Director of Curriculum and Instruction responded by email on June 7, 2017 stating:

> Essentially there is no circumstance in which courses that are already among the districts offerings are considered for credit (and thus appearing on the student's transcript) from an outside institution. The one exception would be remediation situations in which the student is taking summer school course for the purpose of credit recovery, which is not the case with your child.

Petitioner alleges that the District violated N.J.A.C. 8-5.1.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The standards for the granting of emergent relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Emergent relief may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 provides:

> 6A:8-5.1 Graduation requirements
> (a) For a State-endorsed diploma, district boards of education shall develop, adopt, and implement local graduation requirements that prepare students for success in post-secondary degree programs, careers, and civic life in the 21st century, and that include the following:

1. Participation in a local program of study of not fewer than 120 credits in courses designed to meet all of the NJSLS, including, but not limited to, the following credits:

i. At least 20 credits in English language arts, aligned to grade nine through 12 standards, effective with the 2009-2010 grade nine class;

ii. At least 15 credits in mathematics, including algebra I or the content equivalent effective with the 2008-2009 grade nine class; geometry or the content equivalent effective with the 2010-2011 grade nine class; and a third year of mathematics that builds on the concepts and skills of algebra and geometry and that prepares students for college and 21st century careers effective with the 2012-2013 grade nine class;

iii. At least 15 credits in science, including at least five credits in laboratory biology/life science or the content equivalent effective with the 2008-2009 grade nine class; one additional laboratory/inquiry-based science course, which shall include chemistry, environmental science, or physics effective with 2010-2011 grade nine class; and one additional laboratory/inquiry-based science course effective with 2012-2013 grade nine class;

iv. At least 15 credits in social studies, including satisfaction of N.J.S.A. 18A:35-1 and 2; five credits in world history; and the integration of civics, economics, geography and global content in all course offerings;

vii. At least five credits in visual and performing arts;

viii. At least five credits in world languages or student demonstration of proficiency as set forth in (a)2ii(2) below;

ix. Technological literacy, consistent with the NJSLS, integrated throughout the curriculum; and

x. At least five credits in 21st century life and careers, or career-technical education;

2. The 120-credit requirement set forth in (a)1 above may be met in whole or in part through program completion of a range of experiences that enable students to pursue a variety of individualized learning opportunities, as follows:

i. District boards of education shall establish a process to approve individualized student learning opportunities that meet or exceed the NJSLS.

(1) Individualized student learning opportunities in all NJSLS areas include, but are not limited to, the following:

(A) Independent study;

(B) Online learning;

(C) Study abroad programs;

(D) Student exchange programs; and

(E) Structured learning experiences, including, but not limited to, work-based programs, internships, apprenticeships, and service learning experiences.

(2) Individualized student learning opportunities based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding the NJSLS shall:

(A) Be based on student interest and career goals as reflected in the Personalized Student Learning Plans;

(B) Include demonstration of student competency;

(C) Be certified for completion based on the district process adopted according to (a)2ii below; and

(D) Be on file in the school district and subject to review by the Commissioner or his or her designee.

(3) Group programs based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding the NJSLS shall be permitted under this section and shall be approved in the same manner as other approved courses.

ii. District boards of education shall establish a process for granting of credits through successful completion of assessments that verify student achievement in meeting or exceeding the NJSLS at the high school level, including standards achieved by means of the individualized student learning opportunities enumerated at (a)2 above. Such programs or assessments may occur all or in part prior to a student's high school enrollment; no such locally administered assessments shall preclude or exempt student participation in applicable Statewide assessments at grades three through 12.

(1) District boards of education shall choose assessments that are aligned with or exceed the NJSLS and may include locally designed assessments.

(2) District boards of education shall choose from among the following assessment options to determine if students have achieved the level of language proficiency designated as Novice-High as defined by the ACTFL and recognized as fulfilling the world languages requirement of the NJSLS:

(A) The STAMP online assessment;

(B) The OPI or MOPI; or

(C) Department-approved locally designed competency-based assessments;

iii. District boards of education shall establish a process to approve post-secondary learning opportunities that may consist of Advanced Placement (AP) courses, CLEP, or concurrent/dual enrollment at accredited higher education institutions.

(1) District boards of education shall award credit for successful completion of an approved, accredited college course that assures achievement of knowledge and skills that meets or exceeds the NJSLS.

3. Local student attendance requirements;

4. Any other requirements established by the district board of education;

5. Any statutorily mandated requirements for earning a high school diploma;

6. The requirement that all students demonstrate proficiency in the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I, or through the alternative means set forth at (f) through (i) below;

7. Students graduating from an adult high school shall demonstrate proficiency in the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I, or through the alternative means set forth at (f) through (i) below.

(b) In the development of Personalized Student Learning Plans according to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.2(a), district boards of education shall actively encourage all students who have otherwise met the requirements for high school graduation according to (a)1 through 3 above, to include in their programs of study the following additional credits:

1. Five credits in mathematics during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers;

2. Five credits in a laboratory science during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers;

3. Five credits in social studies during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers; and

4. Five credits in world languages during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers.

(c) Through the IEP process and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.11, district boards of education may specify alternate requirements for a State-endorsed diploma for individual students with disabilities as defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3.

1. District boards of education shall specifically address any alternate requirements for graduation in a student's IEP, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.11.

2. District boards of education shall develop and implement procedures for assessing whether a student has met the specified alternate requirements for graduation individually determined in an IEP.

(d) District boards of education shall provide to the executive county superintendent their graduation requirements each year they are evaluated through QSAC and update the filed copy each time their graduation policies are revised.

(e) District boards of education shall provide each student entering high school and his or her parents or legal guardians with a copy of the district board of education's requirements for a State-endorsed diploma and the programs available to assist students in attaining a State-endorsed diploma, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7C-5.

(f) To ensure adequate transition to the new Statewide assessment system, district boards of education shall provide students who have not demonstrated proficiency on the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I with the opportunity to demonstrate such competence through one of the alternative means set forth below:

1. For the graduating classes of 2016, 2017, 2018, and 2019, students who did not take both the ELA 10 and the Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessment or who take, but do not achieve a passing score on both assessments, as required by (a)6 above, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics in one of the following ways:

i. Achieve a passing score, as determined by the Commissioner, on a corresponding substitute competency test in English language arts and/or mathematics, as applicable, or substitute a passing score on another end-of-course PARCC assessment, including ELA 9, ELA 11, Geometry, or Algebra II; or

ii. Meet the criteria of the portfolio appeals process; and

2. For the graduating class of 2020, students who take all applicable high school end-of-course PARCC assessments for all courses in which they are enrolled, including those students who received a waiver for ELA 11 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(c)3i, as of September 6, 2016, and thereafter, but do not achieve a passing score on both the ELA 10 and Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessments pursuant to (a)6 above, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics in one of the following ways:

i. Achieve a passing score, as determined by the Commissioner, on a corresponding substitute competency test in English language arts and/or mathematics, as applicable, or substitute a passing score on another end-of-course PARCC assessment, including ELA 9, ELA 11, Geometry, or Algebra II; or

ii. Meet the criteria of the portfolio appeals process.

(g) Beginning with the graduating class of 2021, students who take all applicable high school end-of-course PARCC assessments for all courses in which they are enrolled, including those students who received a waiver for ELA 11 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(c)3i, as of September 6, 2016, and thereafter, but do not achieve a passing score on both the ELA 10 > and Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessments pursuant to (a)6 above, by the conclusion of their senior year and after multiple opportunities to take the assessments, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics by meeting the criteria of the portfolio appeals process.

> (h) All ELLs shall satisfy the requirements for high school graduation, except ELLs may demonstrate they have attained State minimum levels of proficiency through passage of the portfolio appeals process in their native language, when available, and passage of a Department-approved English fluency assessment.
> (i) Students with disabilities as defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3 or eligible under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act who participate in the alternative assessment for students with disabilities are not required to participate in repeated administrations of high school end-of-course PARCC assessments.

In this case, after hearing the arguments of petitioner and respondent and considering the documentation submitted, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because the proofs submitted have failed to establish the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

The District did not violate N.J.A.C. 6A:-8-5.1 in this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 addresses graduation requirements for high school students, not elementary or middle school students. Throughout the regulation there are references to ninth grade class, grade nine to twelve standards, NJSLS high school level, requirements for high school graduation, and high school end of course PARCC. This regulation does not apply to elementary or middle schools. Petitioner has not shown the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled. Petitioner has not shown that there is a legal right underlying her claim. Petitioner has not shown that she has a likelihood of success on the merits. The regulation that she sites does not apply to students in elementary or middle school.

Petitioner has not shown that M.E.K. will suffer irreparable harm if he is not allowed to take the math class over the summer, since the district has that class and M.E.K. would not be taking the course for the purpose of credit recovery. He completed the requirements for the seventh grade.

I note that the requirements are stated in the conjunctive and, consequently, the moving party must meet all four requirements in order to prevail. Failure to sustain even one of the requirements defeats the application.

After hearing arguments of petitioner and respondent, and considering all the affidavits, certifications and documents submitted, it is ORDERED that Petitioner's motion for emergent relief is therefore DENIED.

This decision on application for emergency relief resolves all of the issues raised in the due process complaint; therefore, no further proceedings in this matter are necessary. This decision on application for emergency relief is final pursuant to 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(1)(A) and is appealable by filing a complaint and bringing a civil action either in the Law Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey or in a district court of the United States. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(2). If the parent or adult student feels that this decision is not being fully implemented with respect to program or services, this concern should be communicated in writing to the Director, Office of Special Education.

This matter comes before me on tenure charges brought under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, 6-11, 6-16, 6-17.1, 6-17.2 AND N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 by Petitioner State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (the "District) against Respondent Ursula Whitehurst. The tenure charges at issue here were filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on September 29, 2016. I was appointed the arbitrator to adjudicate this matter on October 27, 2016.

In this proceeding, I heard testimony from 9 witnesses over 8 days. The District presented the testimony of Principal John Weinstein, VPs Lori Ween and Curtis Adair from Bard Early College High School (Bard), and Principal Larry Ramkissoon, VP Henry Ogele, and Edith Battle, a veteran teacher and "Academic Interventionist," all from Westside High School (Westside), and Brad Haggerty, the District's Chief Academic Officer, and Homere Breton from the office of the District's General Counsel as well as two large binders containing a total of 66 exhibits. The Respondent testified in her own behalf and placed in evidence a single large binder with 64 exhibits. All witnesses were sworn and their testimony was recorded by a court reporter. The parties submitted post-hearing briefs on Monday, March 20, 2017, and the District requested and was granted leave to file a responsive brief by Thursday, March 13, 2017. No objection has been made to the fairness of this proceeding.

CHARGE TWO: AND OTHER JUST CAUSE

1. The District restates the allegations contained in Charge One and re-alleges and incorporates them by reference as if fully set forth at length herein.
2. The Respondent has failed to properly adhere to the District's protocol for overseeing students and improving her teaching skills.
3. The Respondent has consistently failed to follow instructions and violated the District's policies and procedures.
4. The cumulative effect of Respondent's misconduct and inefficiency as set forth above constitutes other sufficient cause sufficient to warrant dismissal.

WHEREFORE, Respondent has shown that she is unfit to discharge the duties and functions of the position in which she holds tenure in the School District, and she should be dismissed.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Respondent is a tenured teacher of mathematics. She has been employed in that capacity in the District since September 1990. She holds certificates in elementary education and secondary mathematics. During her teaching years, she taught middle school math to 8th graders at Lewis Munoz Marin for 6 years; and high school mathematics at University High School for 4 years, Barringer High School for 10 years and Malcolm X/Shabazz for 2-3 years. She was released from Shabazz High School, because the school was eliminating staff positions. Starting the next year, 2011-2012, Respondent became EWPS (educator without placement site). For the 2012-13 she was placed at Westside High School. For the 2013-14 school year, Respondent remained EWPS and was assigned to Bard

Early College High School (Bard). At the end of that year, she was served with tenure charges for the preceding two years and temporarily suspended from teaching. Those charges were dismissed, and in the middle of the 2014-2015 school year she was returned to Bard, again as EWPS.[1] For the 2014-2015 school year, Respondent was assigned to a position teaching mathematics at Westside High School (Westside). The present tenure charges were served upon Respondent after the end of the 2015-2016 school year.

The District has adopted guidelines for teachers and administrators to be followed in evaluating teachers and improving instruction for Newark's students in compliance with the mandates of New Jersey education law, TEACH NJ. The guidelines for the years at issue are embodied in the Framework for Effective Teaching ("Framework"). (D. 50, 51, 53) This document is regularly updated and administrators receive training on it each August and throughout the school year. (See, e.g., Tr. 29-30) Administrators are required to review expectations with faculty as well. (Tr. 30) The document identifies four teaching "competencies" and multiple indicators within each competency. The competencies are: (1) Lesson sequence; (2) Rigor and inclusiveness; (3) Culture of achievement; and (4) Demonstration of Learning. A fifth competency, "Commitment to Personal and Collective Excellence" gets reviewed in the mid-year and year-end summary evaluations. Under the Framework, administrators must observe teachers at least three times each year, and at least four times for teachers who are under a Corrective Action Plan (CAP). The Framework specifies not only the number of such observations, but the length of the observations, and that they should be a mix of long, short, announced and unannounced. The current set of charges are based upon administration's conclusion at the end of the 2015-2016 school year that Respondent had been repeatedly evaluated as only "partially effective and "failed to demonstrate adequate growth" within the Framework, even after receiving assistance through one-on-one coaching and participation in: Professional Learning Communities (PLC), school-wide professional development, and the school's improvement panel (SIP). (D. 1)

Specifically, the present tenure charges (Charge I) are based upon Respondent's teaching performance during three academic years, when she was assigned to two schools: Bard for the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 years and Westside for the 2015-2016 year. The remaining tenure charges (Charge II) are based on "other" conduct during the same years.

2013-2014. Bard High School Early College. Respondent was notified on August 26, 2013 that she was assigned to Bard, effective September 3, 2013 as an "additional support staff member for the 2013-2014 school year." She arrived on the first day of school in time to attend the school's beginning-of-the-year faculty meetings. (Tr. 1088) While at Bard, Respondent remained in EWPS status. (R. 58) For the fall semester of that year, Respondent did not have an assignment for the first approximately two weeks. (Tr. 1093-4) She was then assigned, not to be the teacher of record for any class, but to assist and support two teachers: Ms. Nagarsheth, who taught two 10th grade algebra and geometry classes, and Dr. Schnidman, who taught one physics class. Principal Weinstein (Tr. 607-8) and VP Ween (Tr. 690, 724-5) described the assignment with Ms.

Nagarsheth as "co-teaching." However, VP Ween was not sure that anyone at the school formally advised Respondent that she was team-teaching that fall. (Tr. 736) Respondent was not the teacher of record in PowerSchool, the District's computer database, and she had no access to PowerSchool; she had no student roster; she provided no lesson plans or assessment tests; and she administered no grades. (Tr. 1105) When either teacher was absent, she did not substitute-teach the class; rather a sub was brought in. (Tr. 1101-2)

Respondent testified that her duties, as described by Principal Weinstein, consisted of supporting both teachers in the classroom and working with students. (Tr. 1095) Each of the teachers "would tell me to help certain students when they were in groups or they had independent work, then I would circulate around the class giving students some support, students that needed some reassurance on what they were doing." (Tr. 1102) Respondent also sat in the library and tutored students, some of whom were in the classes she supported, as well as others who simply signed up for assistance. (Tr. 1099-1100) Principal Weinstein was aware of her tutoring activities, because his office was also in the library, and he saw her working with students (Id.), as did VP Ween (Tr. 728).

In the spring semester, Respondent was again assigned to support Ms. Nagarsheth teaching 10th grade students in algebra and geometry and Dr. Schnidman teaching physics, and she began supporting Dr. Beridze, who taught college algebra. She also attended district-wide Math Olympics meetings. Tr. 1107-114. Both Dr. Weinstein and Dr. Ween testified that Respondent taught 4 college algebra students and was the teacher of record. (Tr. 609; Tr. 703, 731-2, 748) However, Respondent testified that in the spring, just as in the fall, she had no roster of students, was not the teacher of record for anyone. (Tr. 114) Dr. Weinstein, in his letter recommending tenure charges, appears to agree with Respondent, because he describes her spring assignment as working with 6 students "within a larger class," only four of whom showed up. (D. 27, p. 416) One again, Respondent did not have access to PowerSchool to input grades. (Tr. 114) Dr. Ween testified that at some point Respondent did get access to PowerSchool, but could not say when that was. (Tr. 786-7) Dr. Beridze asked her to work particularly with four students, but for the most part she worked with them in Dr. Beridze's classroom. (Tr. 1112) In addition she worked with a particular student in Ms. Nagarsheth's class for one-on-one tutoring at least twice a week the whole semester. That student did pass the class. (Tr. 1109) As in the fall, Respondent did not substitute teach when the teachers she was supporting were absent. (Tr. 1117)

CAP. On October 15, 2013, Respondent met in the school library (Tr. 1121) with Dr. Dumaine Williams, one of the Vice Principals at Bard, and signed a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) (D. 31). The CAP contains no reference to any Student Growth Objectives (SGOs). Respondent testified:

- She did not prepare any part of the CAP (Tr. 1120, 1127);
- On its face, the CAP refers to a year-long "College Algebra" class (D. 31, p. 1), yet Respondent was never assigned to teach such a class; her only relationship to college algebra took place in the spring semester, when she supported Dr. Beridze, who assigned her to assist specific students. (Tr. 1163, 1112);

- The CAP was identical to the IPDPs that she worked on with other teachers in the math department (Tr. 1124, 1130);
- All of the text was drafted by the other two math teachers, based upon data provided from prior years (Tr. 1125, 1128-29);
- She never received coaching from any mentors or teachers, nor was she ever directed to observe a highly effective teacher (T. 1117-8).

Dr. Williams did not testify in this proceeding. Principal Weinstein testified:

- He does not know if Respondent wrote any part of her CAP (Tr. 835); some departments at BARD have written IPDPs and CAPs together – he does not know if that happened with the math department in 2013 (Tr. 835-7); he never met with Dr. Williams specifically about Respondent's CAP (Tr. 830); he believed that Respondent worked with Dr. Beridze on the CAP that year, even though she did not teach with Dr. Beridze until the spring (Tr. 812);
- He regarded a faculty meeting on September 20, 2013 that Respondent attended as her training on creating a CAP. (Tr. 611)
- The CAP, which was drawn up and signed in October 2013, refers only to College Algebra, but Respondent did not teach that subject until the spring; he reviewed the CAP before he performed an observation of Respondent on May 8, 2014 (Tr. 831);
- He believed that Dr. Williams had one coaching session with Respondent in the 2013-2014 school year (Tr. 821);

- He relied upon the goals contained in Respondent's CAP in his annual evaluation to rate her on Competency 4 (Student Growth) (Tr. 643); Respondent's submissions to him in terms of a portfolio of student material did not provide enough information to evaluate whether the students were achieving the goals he believed she had set (Tr. 644).

Observations and Evaluations. During the 2013-2014 school year, Respondent was observed 4 times; she received midyear and end of year evaluations.[2]

First, Long Observation by VP Lori Ween on a date in November 2013, shortly before Thanksgiving. (Tr. 689) No formal pre-observation meeting; Post-observation conference on December 23, 2013. (Tr. 757-8) Rating: Partially effective.

The lesson observed was a jeopardy-type math game. Dr. Ween approved the lesson in advance: since Respondent was not instructing students Dr. Ween told her, "Okay, I'll observe you doing that [the game] because I have to observe you" (Tr. 1149). Respondent planned the game with the two math teachers she supported. (Tr.1144) VP Ween was critical of: (a) how long it took to get the game started; (b) Respondent was late to class, and Ms. Nagarsheth had to start the class; (c) the game included both physics and math questions which confused the students; (d) Respondent did not know some of the answers and was unable to help the students recognize when the answers were correct; (e) instruction was not differentiated; and (f) not all students participated. (D. 32, Tr. 690-694) On the plus side, the students enjoyed and were engaged by the game. (D. 32, p.1589) Respondent filed a response to this observation, explaining that it was standard practice for Ms. Nagarsheth to open class by reviewing homework; and the game had been planned to use some math-related physics questions, both to challenge the students and fulfill the need for interdisciplinary teaching. (D. 32, p. 1594)

Mid-year Review by VP Ween, conference on February 14, 2014. Rating: partially effective. VP Ween testified that Respondent failed to submit a portfolio until after the deadline and it was incomplete, which affected Dr. Ween's ability to assess progress on CAP goals in the midyear review. (Tr. 697) VP Ween, quoting extensively from her long observation in the fall, was critical of Respondent's failures to show coherent planning or understanding growth of her students. Although Dr. Ween testified that she based the midyear on informal observations of Respondent in addition to the one formal observation of the Jeopardy lesson, she was unable to identify a single date or class that she had observed and she took no notes of any such informal observations. (Tr. 702-3, 53)

VP Ween also noted that Respondent's attendance and punctuality were a problem. (D. 32, p. 1575) Respondent testified that she was often tardy due to the special needs of a teenage child who lived with her. (Tr. 1157) Dr. Ween did not give a specific student growth objective score in her midyear examination of Respondent, testifying that it was not part of the review process. (Tr. 768)

Second, short observation, by VP Ween, signed on February 27, 2014. Unannounced. Rating: Effective.

VP Ween observed Respondent as she proctored an examination. She made no notations about evidence of strengths or growth. She does not remember how or why she chose to observe a proctoring session, although, as part of a teacher's duties, "it is up for evaluation." (Tr. 772) Respondent is the only teacher she has ever evaluated performing proctoring duties. Respondent testified that she was unaware she was being observed. VP Ween did not discuss the observation with her other than to inform her that it was rated "effective." (Tr. 1162-3)

Third, long Observation, by Principal Weinstein on May 8, 2014, signed May 23, 2014. (D. 39) Pre-observation conference May 7, 2014. (D. 39, p. 1519, Tr. 633-34) Rating: Partially effective.

This was an observation of Respondent teaching college algebra to the four students assigned to her for assistance. Principal Weinstein was critical of: (a) Respondent's unfamiliarity with some of her students' names; (b) the lesson could have been better connected to prior learning; (c) when students were confused, some of the adjustments she tried to make did not work; (d) not all of the students participated, indicating that some were not mastering the subject matter (Tr. 635-7); and she had the same lesson objective for three days in a row (D. 39, p. 1541).

Fourth, short observation, by VP Ween on May 12, 2014, unannounced, with the post-observation conference and signing on May 28, 2014. (D. 40) Rating: Partially effective.

VP Ween was critical of: (a) the pacing of the lesson; uneven participation by the students; not enough time for independent student work.

Annual Evaluation, by Principal Weinstein, conference with Respondent on May 14, 2014, signed May 23, 2014. Rating: Partially effective.

Principal Weinstein testified that he based the annual evaluation on "all of the observations that were done at that point." (Tr. 639)

Other issues. Bard's administration was concerned about aspects of Respondent's performance other than her teaching competence. Only two of those issues, however, resulted in any form of reprimand or memo to Respondent's file.

Attendance. In March, 2014, Respondent received a standard letter advising her that he had accumulated 5 absences. (D. 28) She received a second letter identified as a "Warning Letter" on June 3, 2014 advising her that she had by then accumulated 9 absences and that continued absenteeism could result in "further disciplinary action." (D. 41, p. 1494) The District took no further action. In his recommendation for tenure charges, Principal Weinstein mentioned Respondent's tardiness. (D. 27) However, there is no evidence that Respondent was warned or reprimanded during the year for tardiness.

Reprimands. VP Ween placed a letter in Respondent's file for improperly proctoring the ACT Explore exam on April 23, 2014 and speaking in a disrespectful way to her co-proctor. (D. 35) Dr. Weinstein placed another letter in her file for being AWOL on April 24, 2014 (D. 36, p 1557) , although Respondent in fact was attending a Math Olympics event on that day in the district. (Tr. 1166-7)

Tenure Charges. At the close of the 2013-2014 academic year, Bard notified District administration that Respondent had received a rating of partially effective for the year and recommended the filing of Tenure Charges. (D. 27) Those charges were in fact brought in August 2014. (R. 59)

2014-2015. Bard High School Early College. Because of pending tenure charges, Respondent was put on leave before the fall semester of 2014-2015. After those charges were dismissed,[3] Respondent was informed of her return assignment to Bard via email dated January 13, 2015. (R. 3) The administration of Bard was not initially notified that she had been reassigned and was surprised when she arrived at school. (Tr. 1246) Respondent sat in the library or in Dr. Morris' tenth grade geometry class until the start of the second semester (Tr. 1247), at which time she was assigned her own tenth grade geometry class. She was also assigned to assist Mr. Bonnett with his Algebra II class and she subbed for Dr. Silverman, a chemistry teacher. (Tr. 1249, 1253) That semester her supervisor was Dr. Adair, a new Vice Principal at Bard in charge of the math department. (Tr. 1255)

CAP. Bard administrators advised Respondent that she had to have a CAP for the 2014-2015 school year. On March 27, 2015, the day before spring break, VP Adair met with Respondent and presented her with a copy of a draft CAP that he had prepared. (D. 42, Tr. 1258, Tr. 1509) He prepared the draft because he had made more than one request of Respondent to draft the document, but "I was not getting the draft or getting the response" and "I wanted to make certain that I did not interfere with the process." (Tr. 1510) VP Adair believed "I was helping her in a process that was already uncomfortable for her." (Id.)

[3] The charges covering the 2013-14 school year that were brought in 2014 are the subject of an appeal that is pending in the Appellate Court. (R. 60) In the meantime, those proceedings are stayed. (R. 62)

At the meeting, VP Adair asked her to review and modify the document. (Tr. 1261, TR. 1511) Respondent characterized the conversation as brief, perhaps five minutes long; there was no collaboration between them. (Tr. 1263-4) Respondent did write in one portion of the CAP after she returned from spring break (Tr. 1261), namely, the students' starting point that she obtained from their teacher in the fall semester. (D. 42, p. 1490, Tr. 1262) On May 5, 2015 Respondent met with VP Adair again. At that time he presented her with a version of the CAP that he subsequently claimed they had "drafted together;" he also claimed she had refused to sign the CAP. (R. 8) Respondent rejected that characterization of how the document had been developed, but said in an email that she was "open to a discussion resolving this matter." (Id., Tr. 1278) Respondent also discussed the matter of a CAP with Principal Weinstein in a meeting with her union representative that took place later in May. (Tr. 1271)

Sometime in April or early May Respondent sought guidance from the state Department of Education as to whether she was supposed to be on a CAP; she felt that since the previous charges against her had been dismissed, she was starting over and therefore should just have an IPDP (Individual Professional Development Plan). A Ms. Wright at the state department and her union both told her that she should not have a CAP. (Tr. 1273-1275) She conveyed that information to Principal Weinstein (Tr. 1276), but the guidance he got from the District was that she did have to have a CAP. (Tr. 939-47) The matter was not resolved, and Respondent never signed that or any other version of a CAP for the 2014-2015 academic year, although she testified that she would have signed the proposed CAP at the May meeting with Dr. Weinstein if she had been given an opportunity to do so. (Tr. 1280) Her annual evaluation took place three weeks after her meeting with Dr. Weinstein regarding the CAP. (Tr. 1280)

Observations and Evaluations. In the spring semester of 2015, the only semester that Respondent taught at Bard during that school year, she was observed three times, two short and one long observations, by two administrators and a fourth time by a peer evaluator. She received mid-year and end of year evaluations.

First, short observation, March 25, 2015 by Principal Weinstein, announced, with pre-observation conference also on March 25, 2015 and post-observation conference on April 14, 2015. Rating: Partially effective. (D. 43, R. 31) This was a 30 minute observation of her 10th grade math class. Principal Weinstein was critical of Respondent's difficulty using the SmartBoard, some unnecessary delays, tailoring instruction to meet some student needs, and joking about a student who spoke slowly. (Tr. 655-6) He referred to the CAP, although it was not completed at the time. (Tr. 658) Respondent filed a written response, objecting to comments about a CAP that had not yet been agreed upon, the short notice of a pre-conference only 35 minutes before the observation, and a post-conference so long after the observation as to be unhelpful. (R. 31, p. UW 40) Respondent also explained that she had a routine for the beginning of each class to help her students get focused; she had good rapport with her students and her students were all participating with the majority demonstrating enthusiasm toward learning. (Id.)

Second, long observation, May 5, 2015 by VP Adair, announced, pre-observation conference May 4, 2015, and post-observation conference on May 8, 2015. Rating: Effective. (R. 32) This was a lesson for her 10th grade geometry class on how to use the Inscribed Angle Theorem to develop relationships between circles, chords and arcs. It was a subject that the class had begun in a previous lesson. Adair found that most students were able to get correct answers and that the pacing and momentum seemed appropriate for most. He noted that there were opportunities to go deeper into the material. (R. 32, p. UW48)

Mid-year Review by VP Adair, dated May 15, 2015. Rating: Partially effective. (D. 45) Since Respondent only arrived and started teaching at Bard that academic year in February, the "mid-year" was actually a mid-semester review. VP Adair was critical of deficiencies in the inclusiveness and rigor of Respondent's lesson planning (Tr. 1524-5), of failing to get all of her students involved (Tr. 1526), not correcting students when their answers were not completely accurate (Tr. 1527), and not using data to determine if students were progressing toward mastery (Tr. 1527-8). Respondent asked Adair to model a lesson for her, but that never occurred, according to Adair, because Respondent never gave him the lesson she wanted him to model. (Tr. 1530) Adair acknowledged that the time spent observing Respondent was "short," but he attributed that to fact that even a draft CAP was not presented until late in the semester. (Tr. 1531)

Third, short observation, May 29, 3015 by VP Adair, unannounced, with post-observation conference on June 12, 2015. Rating: Effective. (D. 46, R. 34) This was a 25 minute observation of Respondent's 10th grade geometry class.

Respondent had completed a "Do Now" activity, but the observation itself took place when the students had relocated to the computer lab for independent work. (R. 34, p. UW64) Adair noted that Respondent made herself available to students as they requested her assistance, and she was able to assist them, tailoring strategies that reflected her knowledge of her students and that would lead to mastery. The students were enthusiastic as they worked collaboratively to solve the problems. (Id., p. UW 65) The few comments that Adair seemed to have as "growth areas" had to do with the program the students were using, The Khan Academy, rather than deficiencies in Respondent's assistance to students (Tr. 1533-36), although he observed that she was not moving around the room to see if students needed her help before they came to her. (Tr. 1538)

Peer Evaluation, June 1, 2015 by Amy Tepper. Long observation. Rating: Highly Effective. An outside teacher performed a long, peer observation of Respondent's 10th grade geometry class. She found "nearly all students demonstrated enthusiasm;" Respondent tailored her instruction and that led to success; Respondent moved around the room, providing feedback on different groups of students. (R. 35, p. UW 71, 72)

Coaching. Respondent was provided some degree of coaching during this abbreviated academic year. VP Adair held back on offering coaching until the CAP was agreed upon, or at least a proposed CAP was presented to her. (Tr. 1531) Thereafter he coached her in the context of providing feedback on his observations. (Tr. 1632) At the mid-year review meeting, Respondent asked VP Adair if he would model a lesson for her; he never did that because the opportunity never came up: "she never gave me the lesson that she wanted me to model." (Tr. 1530) He testified that Respondent did not attend meetings of her colleagues where she could have collaborated on student growth and on her own development. (Tr. 1529)

Annual Evaluation, June 15, 2015 by VP Adair. Rating: Partially effective. On June 9, 2015, about one week after his short observation of Respondent, but before he had reviewed his findings with her, VP Adair completed an annual evaluation. (D. 47) In preparing this evaluation, he relied upon the other evaluations that had been conducted as well as any evidence that Respondent had shared with him or uploaded. (Tr. 1540) He was critical of Respondent in the areas of differentiating instruction (Tr. 1541), not modeling or demonstrating what she expected of her students (Tr. 1542), not discussing with students why they had picked correct or incorrect answers when they did so (Tr. 1543, 1544), not using data effectively to guide instruction during the semester (Tr. 1543), although he acknowledged that Respondent's students in fact performed well on their final exam with a passing rate better than 80%, which indicated that in fact the students mastered the material. (Tr. 1545) Adair noted that during both of his observations, "the lessons were standards-based and grade-level appropriate," but he faulted that there was no written lesson plan, even though he acknowledged that written lesson plans were not required at Bard. (Tr. 1626) Mr. Adair placed emphasis on Respondent's failure to draft a CAP or IPDP, although he acknowledged that she uploaded a document in which she set goals for herself. (D. 47, p. 1421) He also faulted her for not attending weekly department meetings more than once per month. (Id., Tr. 1422) He found no fault with her attendance or punctuality. (Id.)

As to his findings with regard to the portions of Competency 4 where objective, quantifiable student growth should be reported, Mr. Adair wrote the following, in relevant part:

"(4d) There is still no evidence [Respondent] is using data to help her plan instruction. ***

(4e) [Respondent] is confident she understands her students and their abilities. However, she has not been able to provide evidence to support her claims

((4f) [Respondent gave her students multiple assessments that she has been using to help determine progress. She administered a district Geometry final consisting of 25 questions where the class mean was better than 80%. The challenge with data occurred throughout the semester when data was not being used to track and assess student progress. It was difficult to determine if students were mastering objectives because there was no data available that measured student progress as the data that has been shared at the end of the course."

Other issues. The District presented evidence that the Bard administration was concerned about aspects of Respondent's performance other than her teaching competence. None of those issues, however, resulted in any form of reprimand or memo to Respondent's file.

Failure to cooperate. According to VP Adair, Respondent did not cooperate with him in their discussions about her CAP or other matters, refusing to meet with him unless she could have a union representative present. (Tr. 1519-20) She was "not receptive" to VP Adair's coaching or comments, "she received it as my criticizing her performance, as opposed to an opportunity for us to work together to grow in her performance." (Tr. 1531) She did not upload data or provide portfolio materials to demonstrate her students' progress. (Tr. 1543-4) In addition, she did not participate in the school's professional learning community:

> [Respondent] did not involve herself in the collaboration that took place with the other employees in the department. And that was based primarily on the fact that [Respondent] was not present whenever her colleagues would meet, and that I was not aware of her meeting with any of the colleagues at any time that might have been convenient for her to collaborate on student growth and development.

Aftermath of 2014-2015 school year. No tenure charges were filed against Respondent at the conclusion of the 2014-2015 school year.

2015-2016. West Side High School. Over the summer of 2015, Respondent assumed she would be returning to Bard, and reported there on September 2, 2015. The administration was surprised to see her, because she wasn't on the school's budget. Later in the day, VP Ween handed Respondent a letter from the District, directing her to report on September 8, 2015 to Newark Vocational, one of the schools on the Westside campus. (R. 9, Tr. 1337-9) Respondent's principal for the 2015-2016 school year was Larry Ramkissoon; her VP and immediate supervisor was Henry Ogele.

Respondent's status at Westside was no longer that of a teacher without position (EWPS); instead she was in a regular budgeted position. (Tr. 1346) On September 10, she was given a schedule to teach three classes: two twelfth grade pre-calculus and one ninth grade Algebra 1. (TR. 1341-5) She also volunteered before and after school to tutor students, putting out a sign-up sheet. Students from her own and other classes came to her for help. (Tr. 1358-60)

The school's schedule provided for blocks of 80 minutes instruction. Respondent told VP Ogele via email dated September 13, 2015 (D. 3, p. 1405) that she had never taught an 80-minute block before, and asked for his guidance.

He met with her (Tr. 318) and arranged for her to observe a class taught by the lead math teacher, Mr. Bhatt. (Tr. 316)

Respondent initially had about 30 students in each of her pre-calculus classes and over 40 in the Algebra 1 class. (Tr. 1348) All of the students she was assigned to teach were enrolled in Newark Early College, another of the schools on the Westside campus. (Tr. 1344) In the spring, she continued to teach the same pre-calculus classes, although the number of enrolled students dropped to around 20 in each (Tr. 1354-6); she did not teach the Algebra I class in the spring. (Tr. 1352)

Respondent testified in this proceeding, and complained to the administration, of the difficulty in managing her students, particularly in the Algebra I class. Some of the students were not listed in PowerSchool, the District's computer database. (Tr. 1350) Three of the Algebra students had IEPs that required extra in-class support in the form of another teacher or an inclusion teacher (Tr. 1353). In November the administration assigned a second teacher, Mr. Douglas, to her class (Tr. 1353); he was certified in special education but not in math. (Tr. 1372) Three of the pre-calculus students in her afternoon class were also special needs students, and Mr. Douglas helped with these as well, including throughout the spring semester. (Tr. 1372-3) In addition, she had significant problems with disruptions to her class. These are discussed below.

CAP. For the academic year 2015-2016, Respondent was on a CAP. She participated in a "goal-setting conference" on October 14, 2015 with both her principal, Larry Ramkissoon, and her VP, Henry Ogele. She and Principal Ramkissoon signed the CAP on October 15, 2015. (D. 4) Principal Ramkissoon testified that there were other meetings regarding the CAP in addition to the one on October 14, although he didn't remember how many. (Tr. 103) VP Ogele testified that the CAP was created "in collaboration with the teacher and immediate supervisor, principal" (Tr. 326); Principal Ramkissoon characterized the process as "Absolutely" collaborative (Tr. 107); and Respondent agreed that the process was collaborative (Tr. 1390).

During the goal-setting conference, her supervisors agreed with Respondent's assessment of where her students were in terms of readiness to learn the prescribed materials. They then agreed upon goals for the two pre-calculus classes Respondent was assigned to teach. Although Respondent was also assigned to teach an algebra class, the CAP was limited to the two pre-calculus classes, because, according to Principal Ramkissoon, the administration's goal "is not to make the Corrective Action Plan burdensome so it's unattainable. Quite the opposite, it tried to provide an opportunity to verify that the teacher has grown in this." (Tr. 43)

For the students in one pre-calculus class, they agreed upon the goal "By the midyear, at least 10/30 students would be able to factor polynomials where a>1 and find the root of a polynomial using the quadratic formula." (D. 4, p. 1398, Tr. 37) For the other class, they agreed upon the goal "By the midyear, at least 15/30 students would be able to factor polynomials where a>1 and find the root of a polynomial using the quadratic formula." (Id, p. 1400, Tr. 38) Principal Ramkissoon identified the goals in the CAP as the Student Growth Objectives required by Achieve NJ. (Tr. 96) Both VP Ogele and Respondent also equated student learning goals with the SGO required of a teacher. (Tr. 447, 1390)

The CAP identified specific action steps for Respondent (using assessment data to identify students needing additional support; analyzing the assessment data to develop action plans; designing lessons with a co-teacher; developing plans to work with individual students and small groups; consistently submitting planning documents) and for the administration (coaching Respondent, scheduling a teacher coach to support and co-plan with her; providing her with feedback on her planning documents). (D. 4, p. 1401)

At the mid-term evaluation, Principal Ramkissoon testified that VP Ogele determined Respondent did not meet either goal. (Tr. 111, 115, 449) VP Ogele testified, with respect to the first goal, that he based his conclusion on his January 28 observation of the class, and on student work Respondent provided to him after the class was completed, which showed that 3/13 students met the objective, rather than 10/30. (Tr. 449-51) VP Ogele was unsure whether there were still 30 students in the class at that point. (Tr. 449) With respect to the second goal, VP Ogele did not recall whether Respondent reached that goal. (Tr. 453) Respondent testified that in fact she did meet the first goal. She placed in evidence student work (R. 52, 53), including student scores on mid-term examinations on quadratic equations and trinomials, showing her students successfully passed these examinations. (R. 52, p. UW213, 214) The test scores were available to VP Ogele because they were in PowerSchool and Agile Mind. (Tr. 1715-17) Respondent also presented the documents to VP Ogele during a meeting with him, and he "kind of looked through them and then he pushed them aside." (Tr. 1713-14)

The charges drafted by Principal Ramkissoon include findings that Respondent was "not successful in getting the majority of her Algebra or Pre-'Calculus students to demonstrate mastery of the Common Core Standards for Mathematics." He goes on to cite the PowerSchool records of end-of-year testing as showing only 76% of Algebra students earned an "F" or "D," while 58% of Pre-Calculus students earned an "F" or "D". (D. 1, p. 1154)

Coaching. Respondent was provided with extensive coaching during the school year to help her improvement. Her primary coach was VP Ogele, who met with her in one-on-one sessions in September, October, January, February, March, April and May. (D. 1, p. 1152) She also received personal coaching from Edith Battle, a member of the school's SIP (School Improvement Panel) and "academic interventionist" at Westside, who, though not a math teacher, has won accolades for her teaching and is used by the school to assist teachers on such issues as planning, lesson design and sequence. (Tr. 191, 193) Ms. Battle was assigned to work with Respondent beginning in January 2016, (D. 11) as was Mr. Bhatt, the Lead Math Teacher. (D. 13, p. 1313) Ms. Battle had an initial session with Respondent, which VP Ogele also attended on January 11, 2016. She then accompanied Respondent as they observed another teacher's algebra class on January 15, 2016, after which she "debriefed" Respondent on January 19, 2016. She also observed Respondent teach an Algebra class in March; she found Respondent executed every component of the entire lesson design and focus, within the suggested time frame (Tr. 197); it was an effective lesson (Tr. 200). Although Respondent asked Ms. Battle to meet again, at the scheduled time Ms. Battle found Respondent was absent. (Tr. 202-3)

Another master teacher, Ms. Ragoo, was assigned by VP Ogele to assist Respondent, particularly with classroom management issues. This occurred in September of 2015 after Respondent reported problems with student behavior, and VP Ogele and Ms. Ragoo visited her classroom and intervened. (D. 5, p. 1379) Respondent testified that Ms. Ragoo never coached her (TR. 1402); however Respondent acknowledged turning to Ms. Ragoo for guidance after a classroom incident in February 2016. (R. 19, Tr. 1702) Respondent also went with Ms. Ragoo to observe a class taught by Mr. Bhatt on September 17, 2015, after Respondent asked VP Ogele for assistance since she had never taught an 80 minute block. (D 3, p. 1405-7) In addition, Respondent worked with Mr. Bhatt in January and attended a workshop he gave on instruction. (Tr. 1412-3)

All of these coaching activities were coordinated through the formal work of the School Improvement Panel (SIP), whose members (Ogele, Battle) met with Respondent three times in January 2016. (D. 11)

Observations and Evaluations. In the 2015-2016 school year, Respondent was observed five times, three short and two long observations, by two administrators. Only one of the five, in the fall semester, was announced, and preceded by a pre-conference. She received mid-year and end of year evaluations. Feedback for her last two observations took place the day before and the same day as her year-end evaluation.

First Short Observation, November 13, 2015 by VP Ogele, unannounced, post observation conference on November 12 or 13, 2015. (Tr. 1426, cf. 506) Both parties signed the document on November 13, 2015. (D. 7, p. 1360) Rating: partially effective. This was an hour and 19-minute observation of Respondent's morning pre-calculus class. VP Ogele was critical of Respondent's organization of the lesson, its pacing and momentum, lack of tailored instruction; several times the students were confused about what she expected of them. (D. 7)

Second, Long Observation, January 28, 2016 by VP Ogele, announced, with pre-conferences on January 20 and 27, 2016, and post-conference on February 2, 2016. (D. 15) Both parties signed the document on February 4, 2016. (D. 15, p. 1276) Rating: Partially effective. This was an hour and a half observation of Respondent's twelfth grade morning pre-calculus class. VP Ogele praised Respondent for the clarity of her instruction, her positive interactions with her students and the enthusiasm her students demonstrated, but was critical of the lesson sequence, her modeling of the methodology, the pacing and momentum of the lesson, insufficient tailoring of instruction, insufficient checking to be sure her students, most of whom were somewhat confused, understood the material. (D. 15)

Respondent submitted a detailed six-page response to this observation. (R. 40) She countered specific observations with a detailed explanation of how she had in fact demonstrated the competencies questioned. Rather than post the rebuttal on BloomBoard, because it was too long to fit in that format, she informed her principal that she was submitting a rebuttal and sent it to the Evaluation Committee. (Tr. 1435-6)

Mid-Year Review, February 9, 2016 by VP Ogele. Rating: Ineffective. (D. 16) Although VP Ogele had rated Respondent "partially effective" on each of his two observations of her work in the classroom, in this review, he rated her as "ineffective." He noted only one strength: communicating content more effectively. (D. 16, p. 1255) He reported on actions she had taken to respond to her CAP, steps she would need to continue to take, and the steps taken by administration. (Id., p. 1259) In the review, he criticized her, inter alia, for not consistently submitting planning documents, for the pacing and momentum of her lessons, for not collaborating sufficiently with her colleagues, for insufficiently tailoring instruction, for lack of precision in what she required from students, for not having high enough expectations from her students and not submitting sufficient assessment data.

With respect to the section on Competency 4, where the administration is supposed to enter its findings on Student Growth Objectives, VP Ogele entered the following comments, among others:

4c. "Demonstration of learning: There is inconsistent or no evidence that students master the objective as evidenced from formal observations on 11/9 and 1/28. The most recent observation indicates that students were helping each other during independent practice which compromised the integrity of the artifacts. As a result, there is no evidence to support if students mastered lesson objective."

4d. "Teacher has not submitted any assessment data or corrective action plan as requested; that help provide insight as to each student's progress toward mastery as evidenced from write-up on 10/20 and 1/5. As a result, teacher does not have any baseline data to help guide planning an instruction."

4e. "Understanding of Growth: Teacher's failure to create assessment data results in her inability to articulate whether students has internalized grade-level standards. As a result, teacher is unable to provide differentiated assignments that will move each students [sic] toward grade-level standards."

4f. "Progress Toward Goals: There is no assessment data created by teacher. As a result, there is no evidence that students are progressing towards goals."

(Ex. 16, p. 1257)

In answer to the question whether the teacher is on track to meet the goals that were set, VP Ogele wrote

> The teacher is not on track.
> The teacher must submit planning documents on time.
> Create assessment data and corrective action plan for each unit and use it to guide instruction.
> Regularly attend weekly coaching session.
> Continue working with SIP Panel.

In response, Respondent gathered together a large number of documents that she felt refuted his conclusions. She offered the documents (R. 53) to VP Ogele at a meeting in the principal's office, but he "ignored it." (Tr. 1442) She also made sure VP Ogele saw documents in the nature of journaling that she had her students prepare to track their progress. (R. 52, Tr. 1444)

Third Short Observation, March 30, 2016 by VP Ogele, unannounced, with post-observation conference on April 1, 2016. Rating: Partially effective. (D. 19) This was a 32 minute observation of one of Respondent's twelfth grade pre-calculus classes. VP Ogele noted as positives that Respondent connected the lesson to previous learning, unit objectives and long-term goals, so that the students understood why the skill they were learning was beneficial. He also noted that she required her students to provide a well-structured rationale for their responses, and most students read mathematical terms fluently and accurately. On the negative side, VP Ogele was critical of the pacing and momentum of the lesson, lack of preparation, inadequate planning and tailoring instruction, inadequate feedback, leading to student confusion. He noted that only 5 students out of 12 were able to complete assigned work.[4]

Respondent prepared a detailed rebuttal to this observation. (R. 42) Noting that even VP Ogele had observed the connection of the lesson to prior learning, unit objectives and long-term goals, Respondent stated she should have been given a highly effective rating since that she had met the framework's requirements. (Id., p. UW 115) She noted in other sections that she was moving her students toward mastery, actively circulating through the class, and celebrating with students who mastered difficult challenges. To Ogele's criticism that a student did not have a calculator, she answered that no calculator was needed for the given activity. (Id, p. UW 116) As before, she did not give VP Ogele a copy of the rebuttal, but sent it to the Evaluation Committee as specified in the Framework. (Tr. 1460)

Fourth Short Observation, May 5, 2016, unannounced, by Principal Ramkissoon. There was a post-observation conference that is recorded on the District form as taking place on May 11, 2016, but which Respondent testified took place on May 12, 2016 (Tr. 1486), the day they both signed the form. (D. 23, p. 1180) Rating: Partially effective. This was a thirty-five minute observation of one of Respondent's pre-calculus classes. On the positive side, Principal Ramkissoon observed that the lesson was organized and students were working productively, participating in the "we do" part of the lesson, some in collaboration with their peers. He also noted that Respondent had appropriately tailored strategies to help her students move to mastery, and the students were enthusiastic about learning, with an overall positive atmosphere in the classroom. Nonetheless he found that sometimes her instructions were unclear; she did not challenge students to explain their solutions, be precise, or present supporting evidence; she did not verify student understanding or give adequate feedback to her students. (D. 23)

Respondent prepared a detailed rebuttal to this observation (R. 44), which she sent to the Evaluation Committee. (Tr. 1487) Respondent testified that she asked Principal Ramkissoon to reevaluate her, and that he said he would come and observe her once more, but that never happened. (Id.)

Fifth Long Observation, May 10, 2016 by VP Ogele, unannounced, with post-observation conference on May 11, 2016. Rating: Partially effective. (D. 22) This was an observation of one of Respondent's twelfth grade pre-calculus classes; it lasted an hour and 14 minutes. VP Ogele praised Respondent's lesson for her pacing, spending an appropriate length of time on each lesson component. He also praised the fact that she challenged her students and they showed enthusiasm for learning and supported community values and norms. He observed that she could have done a better job of using questions to guide the students toward mastery and to avoid confusion, and he criticized her for not adequately addressing student questions so they left class without adequate knowledge, and she had difficulty keeping students on task. (D. 22)

Respondent did not agree with VP Ogele's conclusions and prepared a lengthy and detailed rebuttal (R. 46), which she provided to the Evaluation Committee (Tr. 1488-9).

Annual Evaluation, May 12, 2016. (D. 24) This evaluation was prepared by VP Ogele and delivered to Respondent on the afternoon of May 12, 2016, the same day that Principal Ramkissoon held a post-observation conference with her for the observation he conducted on May 5, 2012 and the day after VP Ogele held a post-observation conference with her for the observation he conducted on May 10, 2016 (Tr. 1490-1) Rating: Partially effective.

VP Ogele recorded positive comments in only two areas: competency 5, where he noted Respondent collaborated with her peers and met expectations for attendance and competency 3 (D. 24, p. 1165), for fostering enthusiasm for learning and a positive learning community (Id., p. 1164). He was critical of her performance in connecting lessons to objectives (Id., p. 1162); in pacing, momentum, clarity of instruction, tailoring instruction, demanding precision from her students (Id., p. 1163); in guiding her students to be persistent and strive to meet high expectations, in using data to asset and adjust her lesson planning (Id., p. 1164); and for failing to submit diagnostic assessment data to the administration and inconsistently reporting on student progress (Id., Tr. 1165).

In the sections devoted to assessing student growth, VP Ogele, made the following comments:

4.c. "Demonstration of learning: Evidence from formal observations on 11/9 1/28, 3/30, 5/5 & 5/10 indicates that over the course of the year, there is inconsistent or no evidence that students master lesson objective. As a result, most students are not moved to grade-level standards."

4.d. "Using data: Teacher sometimes submits 'End of Unit' assessment analysis spreadsheet and corrective action plan as required; as evidenced from write-up on 10/20 & 1/15. As a result, teacher is unable to track each student's progress toward mastery and to adjust planning and instruction – Teacher did not submit correction action plan/intervention plan for Unit 3: Rational Functions as requested from email sent to all math teachers on November 9th 2015.

-- Teacher submitted analysis sheet (Unit 4) on 4/11. However, teacher did not submit corrective action plan for Unit 4.

As a result of inconsistent submission of assessment analysis spreadsheet and corrective action plan, there is no evidence of teacher using data to guide planning and instruction."

4e. "Understanding of Growth: Teacher can sometimes articulate whether or not each student has internalized grade-level standards. As a result of teacher's inconsistent submission of end of unit assessment analysis spreadsheet, there is little evidence to demonstrate student growth."

4f. "Progress Toward Goals: Data reflect that sometimes students are mastering the objectives of the focus areas.

- Evidence from End of Unit assessment (Unit 3-Ratoinal Functions) indicates that most students did not master grade-level standards. Class mean indicates that 37% mastered grade-level standards.
- Evidence from End of Unit assessment, Block 1, (Unit 4 – Exponential/log functions indicates that 45% mastered grade-level standards.
- Evidence from end of Unit assessment, Block 3, (Unit 4 – Exponential/log functions) indicates that 57% mastered grade-level standards."

(Ex. 24, p. 1164)

In a later section, VP Ogele repeated one of the two goals Respondent had set in her CAP, namely that at least 10/30 students would be able to factor polynomials where a>1 and find the root of a polynomial using the quadratic formula. In response to the question of what progress students demonstrated around these learning goals, he wrote:

"Observation conducted on 1/28 indicates that most students were not able to factor polynomials/factor trinomials; and as a result could not complete assigned task of finding the vertical asymptote of a function."

(Ex. 24, p. 1165)

Other Issues. Throughout the school year, Principal Ramkissoon was made aware of complaints from students about Respondent's teaching and conduct in the classroom. Sometimes complaints came directly to him, while others were brought to his attention by guidance counselors, parents, and other school personnel. In early October, for example he received a complaint from a senior in Respondent's pre-calculus class, written ostensibly on behalf of other classmates, complaining that Respondent is always late for class; was "holding us back from our learning in various ways;" jumps from one subject to another before the students can understanding the previous topic; lacks control of the class; and does not treat the class with respect." (D. 6, p. 1366) This complaint was followed by six others that same month, complaining variously about Respondent ignoring some of the students, while focusing all her attention on a small group (D. 6, p. 1371) ; yelling at and arguing with students (D. 6, p. 1367-8, 1374); and continuing to jump from one topic to another without helping her students reach understanding (D. 6, p. 1376, 1375, 1373). Principal Ramkissoon met with some of the students and their guidance counselors, and had VP Ogele to follow up with visits to the classroom. (Tr. 57) He told the students that he was not going to replace their teacher, and that they needed sometimes to work out answers to math problems by themselves. (Tr. 56)

In December 2015, Principal Ramkissoon received more student complaints, this time from Respondent's algebra class as well as her pre-calculus class. The gist of these complaints was that Respondent ignored students and did not help them learn (D. 9, p. 1335, 1336, 1339), or wastes student time by teaching below the level of the class (D. 9, p. 1342). (Tr. 58) Principal Ramkissoon and VP Ogele met with Respondent about these student concerns. (D. 10, p. 1332)

In January 2016, the administration received yet another complaint about Respondent, this time from a parent whom respondent had informed that her son was failing math. The parent wrote to the Principal, after she found Respondent to be unprepared for their meeting together, unresponsive to the mother's concerns, and unable to justify the student's poor grade. (D. 12, p. 1320-1 Tr. 59-60)

Finally, on May 5, 2016, Respondent had a confrontation with a student who walked into her classroom without permission and took a friend's phone. Respondent told the student, in effect, "You don't just walk into my classroom." There is dispute about exactly what was said next, but four students wrote statements about the incident. (D. 20) At least three students reported that Respondent told the student, "I'll break your face;" (D. 20, p. 1203, 1205,1206) while another said Respondent exchanged "fighting words" with the student. (D. 20, p. 1204) Principal Ramkissoon had a social worker investigate the incident and interview students. (Tr. 63) He did not necessarily believe the students who complained, since they were friends with one another. (Tr. 66) He suspended the student, because he believed she had been wrong to walk into the classroom and had used disrespectful language to Respondent. He imposed no formal discipline upon Respondent (Tr. 63-64), although VP Ogele sent her an admonishing email referring to her having used "fighting words" about "breaking" the student's face. (D. 25, Tr. 402)

Recommendation for tenure charges. Toward the end of the academic year, on June 3, 2016, Principal Ramkissoon wrote a memorandum to the District Superintendent recommending that tenure charges be brought against Respondent. He discussed at some length Respondent's deficits in teaching, and her failure to make improvements in the areas identified in Respondent's CAP, noting these same areas had been identified by administrators during the immediate two prior teaching years. Principal Ramkissoon made no recommendation based upon any of the other issues referred to above.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

The District argues that it has met its burden to prove the charges against the Respondent warranting dismissal, in that:

1. The role of the arbitrator in this tenure proceeding is limited by law to determining whether: the District's evaluation failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process, including by providing a corrective action plan; or if there is a mistake of fact in the evaluation; or the charges would not have been brought but for considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination or other prohibited conduct; or if the District's actions were arbitrary and capricious.

2. The evidence proves that during each of the three years in question, Respondent was provided with a Corrective Action Plan, the proper number of observations by appropriate administrators, mid-year and annual summative evaluations, and extensive professional development and personal coaching, both on a one-on-one basis and in a group or collaborative setting. Nevertheless, she failed to make any significant improvement. The District properly determined that Respondent had not met her established Student Growth Objectives in mid-year and end of year evaluations of Competency 4, using the method approved by the Department of Education through the granting of the District's application for waivers.

3. Respondent has offered no evidence of any kind, of any of the defenses provided by law, such as discrimination or bias. Accordingly, the arbitrator must uphold the educational decision made by Respondent's supervisors as to her inefficiency as a teacher.

4. The District has also proven the charges in Charge II of other just cause, having produced credible evidence that Respondent neglected her duty as a tenured teacher and had a pattern of poor classroom management and insubordination toward her supervisors. Over the past three years, she was reprimanded several times for failing to abide by District policies when she was insubordinate to her VP during the proctoring of an exam; when she was AWOL to attend a Math Olympics event; for failing to collaborate with her departmental colleagues; for her frequent tardiness; for ignoring students, improperly grading them, and displaying temper and insulting comments toward them.

For these reasons, the District's decision to revoke Respondent's tenure and terminate her employment within the District should be upheld.

The Respondent, on the other hand, argues that the charges against the Respondent must be dismissed and Respondent must be restored to her teaching position with full benefits and seniority, for the following reasons:

1. The evaluations in each of the three years at issue failed to include statutorily mandated Student Growth Objectives (SGO); SGOs form the core of the new data-driven approach to evaluating teachers on student progress; by ignoring the need for SGOs and substituting subjective criteria for objective data, the District has failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process and acted arbitrarily and capriciously;

2. No growth objectives were identified at all in year 2013-14 or 2014-15 and the administrators responsible for evaluating Respondent appeared to have no understanding of that component of the evaluation process; the next year, there were two growth objectives identified by Respondent and the District, but the mid-year evaluation made reference to only one of those, and that reference was factually erroneous; the annual evaluation made no reference to objectives at all; for those reasons, all of the annual evaluations of Respondent are void substantively as well as procedurally;

3. To the extent that Respondent had what may be considered goals in 2015-2016, her supervisors ignored evidence that Respondent, in fact met those goals;

4. The District's evaluations of Respondent failed to adhere substantially to the evaluation process in other ways, notably, (a) each of the three years, administrators conducted observations late in the school year, often just before the final evaluation, with post-observation feedback in some cases the same day as the final evaluation, so that Respondent had no meaningful opportunity to digest the feedback and improve, which is, after all, the purpose of observations; (b) a CAP was imposed on Respondent for 2013-2014 for which she had no input, and referenced a class she did not teach; a proposed CAP was imposed on Respondent for 2014-2015 long after the deadline for developing CAPs, and despite advice she received from the Department of Education that she should not have been on a CAP at all; Respondent understandably resisted signing the CAP;

5. All charges related to the 2013-2014 school year were disposed of in a prior decision by Arbitrator Simmelkjaer in an order dated January 5, 2015, which is the law of the case; the District refiled those charges and they are currently being held in abeyance by Arbitrator Simmelkjaer pending the outcome of an appeal; accordingly all charges regarding that year should be held in abeyance until the appellate division and Arbitrator Simmelkjaer can consider the matter.

6. The "catch all" pleading in Charge Two of "Other Just Cause" should be dismissed, as Respondent requested at this hearing, because (a) it is vague and unspecific; (b) to the extent it repeats allegations about inefficiency in teaching, it is duplicative of Charge One; and (c) the few incidents raised by the District were either factually refuted, or had been handled at the time with either no discipline or in one case, a note to file; certainly these incidents do not amount to cause for removal of tenure.

DISCUSSION

Both parties were represented by counsel in this proceeding and had full opportunity to present evidence and make arguments in support of their respective positions. In the preparation of this Opinion and Award, I have given careful consideration to the testimonial and documentary evidence, the legal authorities cited, and the positions and arguments set forth by the parties. I find the District has proven Charge I of inefficiency against the Respondent for the years 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 for the reasons set forth below. I find the District has failed to prove Charge I of inefficiency for the year 2013-2014. With respect to Charge II, I find the charges must be dismissed.

My authority in this matter is limited. As set forth by statute, my purview is to determine whether the District has substantially followed the legal framework for evaluating a tenured teacher. I must also consider whether the District was motivated to bring these charges due to considerations of political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, unlawful discrimination or any other unlawful conduct. Finally, I must consider whether the District's actions were arbitrary and capricious.

PROCEDURAL ISSUES

Both sides, at different times and for different reasons, have requested me to stay the issuance of my decision and order in this matter.

Charges for the 2013-2014 academic year were dismissed by Arbitrator Simmelkjaer on January 5, 2015. (R. 60) The District refiled, and the case was reassigned to Arbitrator Simmelkjaer. Respondent has appealed the assignment of the case to the same arbitrator who heard it earlier, and it is that issue that is the subject of an appeal pending in the appellate court. In the meantime, Arbitrator Simmelkjaer has stayed the proceedings before him. Respondent urges me to regard Arbitrator Simmelkjaer's decision as res judicata and dismiss these charges. In the alternative, Respondent urges me to stay my findings for that year until the pending proceedings in the appellate court and before Arbitrator Simmelkjaer are resolved.

On Friday, March 24, 2017, the District filed a request for stay because it had learned of a pending court challenge to one of the arbitral decisions relied upon by the Respondent that deals with the issue of the District's obligations under statute to evaluate teachers on Student Growth Objectives. No date is currently set for the disposition of that court case.

For reasons of judicial economy, I decline to grant either request. The parties expended considerable time and resources to place the facts before me and make legal arguments based upon them. And I have used considerable time to review and reflect upon the record. It seems expedient to me to share my findings and conclusions with the parties at this time. To the extent that my decision touches on either of the issues noted above, I discuss those in the appropriate sections of my Discussion. Naturally, the parties are entitled to pursue whatever appeals or stays of my decision they deem appropriate after it has been issued.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

As a preliminary matter, I note that there was absolutely no evidence presented, nor argument made by Respondent that these charges were due to any prohibited motivation. Indeed, throughout these proceedings, I observed polite, even at times cordial, relations between the administrators and the Respondent. I therefore limit my review of the evidence to issues of process – whether the administrators in each charged year substantially followed the District's mandated evaluation system. My review, however, necessarily includes not only what administrators did each year, but what Respondent did as well. Respondent has been on notice for the past four years that her supervisors found her only partially effective as a teacher. The District had the obligation to offer her professional development, mentoring, guidance, and fair and timely observations and evaluations; she, in turn, had the obligation to work with her appointed supervisors and mentors and try to improve her teaching.

In the first year I am asked to review, 2013-2014, I find, as set forth in detail below, that the District did not substantially adhere to the required protocol for observing and evaluating a tenured teacher. Its actions that year were arbitrary and capricious and cannot be the basis for any adverse ruling on tenure. During the two subsequent years, however, the administrators supervising Respondent did substantially follow protocols. As set forth below, they met the requirements for observing, mentoring and evaluating a teacher in danger of losing tenure due to multiple "partially-effective" ratings. Respondent, however, did not cooperate with her supervisors: she did not do her part. Among other failings, she resisted and ultimately declined to sign a corrective action plan during 2014-2015; she resisted meeting with her supervisors; and she failed to submit data and artifacts both years to show that her students might be progressing to meet the growth objectives established in one year by the administrators alone and the final year by Respondent in collaboration with her supervisors.

CHARGE ONE: INEFFICIENCY

2013-2014 School Year. Bard High School Early College. The District failed to comply substantially with its own established evaluation framework. I find the following irregularities nullify Charge I for that year:

Teaching assignment. Respondent was never assigned a class to teach during the entire academic year. She was, instead, assigned to assist other teachers in various classes, and to mentor and tutor students both in the classroom and in the library. Although school administrators testified that Respondent was assigned to "co-teach" that year, I find otherwise. There is simply no evidence that she was in any way a partner with the classroom teachers of record. Yet she was evaluated and rated as if she were.

CAP. On October 15, 2013, the day established in the Framework for completing a CAP (D. 50, p. 246), Bard's VP Williams met with her and presented her with a draft CAP, which she signed the same day. This CAP was fatally defective because it was built around a class that Respondent never taught, namely, college algebra. Respondent was never the teacher of record for such a class. In fact, Respondent had nothing to do, either in a teaching or supportive role, with college algebra for the entire fall semester. It was only in the spring that she met with some college algebra students and that was solely for tutoring/support purposes. Additionally, it is undisputed that Respondent had nothing to do with drafting any portion of the CAP.

Observations. Bard's administrators conducted the necessary number of observations for a teacher on a CAP – namely, four – and two different administrators observed her, as required. Nevertheless, the observations were fatally defective both in timing and in the choice of lessons to observe. The only observation before the mid-year review was of the game of "Math Jeopardy" on the day before Thanksgiving. While Respondent participated in the planning of this game and led the game during the observation, the activity was planned as well, by the class teachers; it was not a normal instructional period; and Respondent was not the teacher for those students. The post-observation conference took place on December 23rd, a month after the observation, rather than within 10 days as required in the Framework.

Of the three observations after the mid-year, one was of Respondent proctoring an exam – not teaching. The other two – the only two that can be considered observations of Respondent instructing students – took place on May 8 and May 12, at the end of the second semester and far too late in the term to have any benefit to Respondent as guides for improvement. Indeed, the post-observation conferences for those conferences took place after her annual evaluation, which was held on May 14. The point of observations and post-observation conferences, obviously, is to give the struggling teacher feedback on what she is doing well, what needs to be improved, and to give suggestions in time for the teacher to work on improving her instruction. Clearly, the timing of these observations was such that the District gave no meaningful guidance to Respondent throughout the entire year.

Mentoring and Coaching. The only evidence that Respondent received one-on-one mentoring and coaching was Principal Weinstein's testimony that he thought VP Williams had one coaching session with her that year. Principal Weinstein also testified to group sessions held by the School Improvement Panel, weekly faculty meetings and professional development. None of these group sessions comes close to satisfying the District's obligation to provide "specific support and periodic feedback." (C. 26, 18A-6-119 (3))

2014-2015 School Year. Bard High School and Early College. As Respondent points out, this year was shortened: Respondent was suspended from teaching for the entire fall semester because of the tenure charges referred to above that were ultimately dismissed. However, Respondent was returned to Bard in time to teach the entire spring semester and at that time, unlike the prior year, she was given her own class. She also had a new supervisor, VP Adair, who not only supervised her, but also offered her support, as mandated by the Framework.

The law and regulations clearly anticipate that in some circumstances a teacher may not be in the classroom for the entire year; nevertheless, the evaluation and other protocols apply, on a pro-rated basis. See, for example, N.J.A.C. 6A: 10- 4.4 (e) l, which provides:

> If a teacher is present for less than 40 percent of the total student school days in an academic year, he or she shall receive at least two observations to earn a teacher practice score.

See also, Framework (D. 50, p. D. 243):

> If a teacher hasn't been in your school for the entire year, the number of evaluations can be reduced proportionally based on the amount of time the teacher has been in your school. This is true for teachers new to the district and/or new to the school, as well as teachers who have been out on an extended leave.

I find that the District did effectively and substantially meet the requirements for evaluating Respondent during the spring semester. To be sure, there were aspects of the evaluation process that were not completed. However, I find Respondent, rather than the District, responsible for those failings. The evaluation and review process requires input and work on the part of the teacher as well as her supervisors. Where a teacher fails to cooperate, for example, in the drafting of a CAP or the submission of evidence of student progress, as I review below, she cannot fault the District.

CAP. Relatively early in the spring semester, VP Adair requested, more than once, that Respondent draft a CAP, but she did not respond. So he drafted a proposed CAP and discussed it with her on March 26. Eventually, Respondent did write in one portion of the document (D. 1489), but despite many meetings, emails, and cautions from Principal Weinstein and VP Adair, Respondent never signed the document. She testified that she relied on advice she obtained from the Department of Education in April or early May that she was not required to be on a CAP, and said in this proceeding that she would have signed the CAP in May when she met with Principal Weinstein, but was not given that opportunity. This dispute about the CAP, then, consumed at least two months out of the spring semester.

Notwithstanding Respondent's resistance to the CAP, VP Adair did his best to work with Respondent throughout the year, offering her coaching and being sensitive, for example, by approaching her when she was by herself, not in front of students or colleagues, in the hope that she would not feel he was being antagonistic. (Tr. 1519) Her supervisors ended up treating the proposed CAP that Adair had drafted as Respondent's CAP for the year.

Respondent argues forcefully that because she did not sign the CAP, and should not have been required to do so, the entire evaluation process for the academic year should be void. I cannot agree. She knew that she was obligated to cooperate in the preparation of some kind of action plan for the year, whether an IPDP or a CAP. Instead, she spent months resisting the finalization of any kind of action plan. I cannot fault the administration for proceeding, as best it could, on the basis of a CAP that it proposed to Respondent, especially when it gave her two months in which to engage and make modifications.

Observations. Respondent has challenged the schedule of observations in this, as in the other years at issue. In this year, the observations took place in the compressed time frame of a single semester, but they were, nevertheless, spaced to provide Respondent with feedback in time for her to make improvements, if she chose to do so. There were three observations by two administrators within the shortened time available, more than sufficient, since the Framework mandates only two if a teacher teaches for less than 40% of the school year.

Before the mid-year (which in this case was a mid-term) review, which took place on May 15th, there were two observations of Respondent teaching her 10th grade math class. The first, on March 25th, was a short, 30-minute observation, conducted by Principal Weinstein, with pre-observation and post-observation conferences; the second, on May 5th, was a long observation by VP Adair, also announced, with pre and post observation conferences. Respondent objected to the first because the pre-observation conference was immediately prior to the observation itself, and because the post-observation conference was 17 calendar days after the observation. Under the Framework, however, those dates are not necessarily non-compliant: a pre-observation conference "should occur within the seven days before the observation" (D. 51, p. 1060), which this did; the post-observation conference "must" follow an observation "within 10 calendar days;" however the 10 days may be extended by the number of days that either party is absent. (D. 51, p. 1061) The record is unclear about whether either party was absent due to a school break or other cause. In any event, I find the timing of those conferences to be substantially compliant with the Framework and spaced in a fair way to give Respondent time to reflect upon the observations and make adjustments in her teaching. And, it is clear that these observations were thoughtful, and fair. Indeed, VP Adair gave Respondent a rating of "Effective" on his evaluation of the lesson on May 5th.

Before the final evaluation, which took place on June 15th, there was one more observation by VP Adair that was unannounced on May 29, with a post-observation conference on June 12. This, too, resulted in a rating of "effective." In addition, there was a peer evaluation by an outsider on June 1, 2015 that was rated highly effective.

In sum, I find no basis to fault the number or timing of the observations during the academic term. I note that the District did not press tenure charges after the conclusion of the 2014-2015 school year, but gave Respondent a fresh chance, at a new school, with a real teaching assignment the following year, to continue work on improving her performance.

Evaluations. Respondent has challenged the year-end rating of partially effective that she received for the 2014-2015 school year. In addition to the objections noted above, she objected to the scoring of the ratings. The crux of her objection appears to be that she should not have received a partially effective overall rating when she had received two effective observations out of three in the spring term: she is being unfairly penalized for her failure to execute a CAP.

I find that the administration properly considered Respondent's lack of cooperation – on the CAP and in other respects – in rendering a final evaluation for the academic year. VP Adair included in his year-end comments on Competency 5 that Respondent "has not seemed comfortable receiving constructive feedback during evaluation conferences. This has made it difficult to assist her as desired with her professional development." Further, he noted that she does not attend math department meetings more often than once a month, although the meetings are held weekly, and there was no evidence that she was collaborating with her colleagues. (D. 47, p. 1422) These, too, are valid considerations supporting a rating of "partially effective."

2015-2016 School Year. Westside High School. I find that throughout this academic year, the administration was in substantial compliance with the District's evaluation protocol.

CAP. In this year, Respondent was placed in a budgeted position and assigned her own classes to teach. She collaborated with her supervisors, VP Ogele and Principal Ramkissoon, to draft a CAP that included two specific and quantifiable student growth objectives, after she obtained baseline assessment data on her students. The CAP included specific action steps for Respondent to take and for the administration to support her. It was signed on October 15, 2015, the last day set aside for completing CAPs in the Framework. In short, the CAP contained all required elements.

Observations. During the year, Respondent was observed five times by two administrators. The observations were spaced throughout the year, with two occurring before the mid-year review, and three before the year-end evaluation. The last two observations took place shortly before the year-end summative evaluation, with the fourth post-observation conference taking place the day before and the last post-observation conference on the same day as the annual evaluation. While the timing of feedback for the last observation, in particular, was less than ideal, it also represented the fifth observation of the year: by that time, the administration had given Respondent a great deal of timely feedback so that she knew where she was falling short and what she had to do to improve.

Coaching. During this academic year, Respondent received extensive personal coaching. VP Ogele, a careful and conscientious supervisor, met with her one-on-one every month and the school's "academic interventionist," Edith Battle, an award-winning educator, worked with her beginning in January. Respondent also worked with both Ms. Ragoo, a teacher coach on issues of classroom management, and Mr. Bhatt, the Lead Mathematics teacher. Her development was overseen by the School Improvement Panel, as required by the Framework. In short the District met its obligation to provide "specific support and periodic feedback." (C. 26, 18A-6-119 (3))

Evaluations. Respondent has urged me to find the entire evaluation process defective for the academic year 2015-2016 because the District failed to calculate an SGO score and include that in the mid-year review or year-end summative evaluation. She cites other arbitrators who found evaluations fatally deficient for lack of a quantitative SGO score. I cannot agree with Respondent for several reasons.

I have reviewed the decisions by Arbitrator Simmelkjaer in the Carroll case and Arbitrator Bluth in the Dawkins case. Both of those cases are factually inapposite in a number of ways. Both concern teachers of the elementary grades where the rules require calculation of a Student Growth Percentile (SGP) rather than the SGO required in high schools. But that is not the only difference.

In Dawkins, there were many deficiencies in the evaluation process, not only the lack of SGOs. To name a few of those deficiencies: much of one year Mr. Dawkins was out due to injuries; he had only 3 months of teaching; all observations and few evaluations were compressed into a two-month period, with two observations occurring on consecutive days, and another year, twice on the same day, so that he had no opportunity to learn from whatever feedback the administration had to give him. In addition, the goal that was set was not a "growth" goal – there was no attempt to obtain base-line data against which to measure achievement – but a "mastery goal." In other words, the administration did not attempt to measure "growth" or progress.

In Carroll, the administration made a "terse statement" that the teacher had not met student learning goals; there was no effort to review metrics as against the baseline data she and the administration had agreed upon. In one of the years at issue, the administration made its annual summative evaluation in April – at least one month earlier than the Framework recommends.

In other words, there were multiple errors in both cases that led the Arbitrators to conclude the District had not followed mandated protocols for teacher evaluation.

The other concern is how the District must include quantitative student progress data in the evaluation. The District applied for and was granted a waiver for the years 2014-2015, 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 to "combine the CAP setting conference with the process for developing student growth objectives."

(D. 52, p. D. 1093) The District's approved application for that waiver specifically considered SGOs and SGP as "additional evidence while calculating the rating for Competency 4 (Student Progress toward Mastery)." (Id., p. 1095) Progress on goals, then, is to be included in the scoring of Competency 4. And, as the District explained to the State, Competency 4 counts for 6 out of 19 points or 32% of the rating, and thus is in compliance with TEACH NJ's requirement that growth be 20% of a teacher's evaluation score. (Id., p. 1096)

Since the State has granted the District a waiver to consider SGOs within the context of observing and evaluating Competency 4, I do not find the failure to separately calculate and score SGO to be a fatal defect in the evaluation process. The District may not ignore student growth measurements, however: the State and District have mandated inclusion of quantitative information about student progress on specific growth objectives chosen by the Respondent in collaboration with her supervisors. That information must be included in Competency 4. The question remains whether the analysis undertaken by the District in 2015-2016 regarding Respondent's work with her students was substantially compliant with that mandate.

In the fall of 2015, Respondent developed two specific and quantifiable growth objectives for two classes, building on base-line data concerning those students. In the mid-term review, VP Ogele noted that Respondent had not provided assessment data. "As a result, there is no evidence that students are progressing toward goals." In the year-end VP Ogele made reference to only one of the two goals. He also noted, in pertinent part:

- "...over the course of the year, there is inconsistent or no evidence that students master lesson objective." (4c)
- "...over the course of the year, there is inconsistent or no evidence that students master lesson objective. As a result, most students are not moved to grade-level standards." (4.c.)
- "As a result of teacher's inconsistent submission of end of unit assessment analysis spreadsheet, there is little evidence to demonstrate student growth." (4.e.)
- "Evidence from End of Unit assessment...indicates that most students did not master grade-level standards. (4f)

In other words, Respondent did not provide the data necessary for the administration to calculate progress on CAP goals. This conclusion was repeated in a number of places in the documents and in the testimony.

Yes, the District must set goals and objectively and fairly observe and evaluate Respondent and calculate student progress. The District must also offer Respondent meaningful, one-on-one support. But, as I noted above with respect to the prior year, Respondent also must cooperate and submit data to prove her students are meeting the goals set in her CAP. Respondent presented testimony and documents in the form of sheaves of paper to show that her students were doing well, and she presented evidence that over 80% passed her final exam. I am not an educator; I cannot look at those test sheets or scores and conclude that the students did meet the CAP goals. Nor is that my role. The educators entrusted with that role were Principal Ramkissoon and VP Ogele. They looked at the data presented and the data that was absent and concluded that Respondent had not demonstrated progress toward the SGOs. Their conclusions were reflected in their assignment of numerical values to Competency 4. In so rating the Respondent, they met their obligation to incorporate an objective, quantitative measurement into their evaluation of her efficiency as a teacher.

Conclusion. I find the District has proven the charge of inefficiency against Respondent for the school years 2014-2015 and 2015-2016. I decline to make findings with regard to each and every subparagraph (a) through (s). Instead, I have reviewed the evidence as weighed against the key components of the state's mandated protocols for reviewing tenured teachers. The District met its responsibility with respect to those protocols and has proven the charges. As to the charge of inefficiency for the year 2013-2014, that charge is not proven and is dismissed for the reasons set forth above.

CHARGE TWO: AND OTHER JUST CAUSE

To the extent that Charge Two, Paragraph 1 "restates" and "re-alleges" the allegations in Charge One, those allegations have been addressed. Paragraph 2, which alleges Respondent has failed to adhere properly to District protocols for "overseeing students and improving her teaching skills," similarly is a restatement of matters covered in Charge One. Accordingly, both Paragraphs 1 and 2 of Charge Two are stricken as duplicative.

As to the charges in Paragraph 3 of failure to "follow instructions" and violation of District policies and procedures, the District has not pled with any specificity what conduct it considers as under that umbrella. During the course of this lengthy proceeding, the Department introduced testimonial and documentary evidence regarding such matters as unprofessional conduct toward students, tardiness and absence on one occasion without leave. It is not up to the arbitrator to parse the evidence and tease out what particular actions the District regards as failing to follow instructions or violating policies and procedures; that is the District's duty in its pleadings. Paragraph 3 is dismissed as vague.

Finally, Paragraph 4 charges "The cumulative effect of Respondent's misconduct and inefficiency as set forth above constitutes other sufficient cause sufficient [sic] to warrant dismissal." This is nothing more than an effort to sweep up an unidentified quantity of evidence to fill the bucket of "sufficient cause to warrant dismissal." The reference to "inefficiency," as noted above, is duplicative of Charge One, while the District has not identified what it considers "misconduct." Such vague pleadings are manifestly unfair to the Respondent and must be stricken.

In sum, the entirety of Charge Two is dismissed.

AWARD

The District has established Charge I with respect to academic years 2014-2015 and 2015-2016. Accordingly, Respondent's dismissal for inefficiency is upheld. The remaining charges are dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE	:
CERTIFICATE(S) OF CHAE HYUK IM,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF	:	DECISION
WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought an order suspending respondent's teaching certificate for a period of one year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 for voluntarily leaving his tenured position as a high school chemistry teacher with less than a 60-day notice to pursue a career with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). The ALJ issued a Partial Order on Summary Decision in May 2016 finding the respondent guilty of unprofessional conduct, which Order was adopted by the Commissioner in a decision dated June 30, 2016. The matter herein involves a determination on the penalty for such conduct. Respondent contended that the Board denied his request for a leave of absence to complete his FBI training, and he therefore had no alternative but to resign immediately because he could not delay the start of training. Respondent argued that an unprofessional conduct finding and any resulting action suspending his certificate would have an adverse effect on his ability to carry out his duties as an FBI agent because the Department of Justice's stated policy of disclosure to prosecutors of potential impeachment information could preclude his future ability to function as a witness.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: respondent is currently employed as a special agent by the FBI; initially, respondent had requested and been approved for a one year leave of absence for the 2014-2015 school year to enable him to pursue training as an FBI agent; however, respondent failed the required physical fitness test prior to the start of the school year and informed the Board that he would be starting the 2014-2015 school year as usual; subsequently, respondent was unexpectedly offered opportunities to enter later training classes, contingent on passing the fitness test; respondent opted to take the fitness test again in October 2014, passed it, and was accepted to begin FBI training on October 19, 2014; respondent again requested a one year leave of absence from the Board, which was denied because the school year was already in session and respondent was teaching four high school chemistry classes; respondent submitted a letter of resignation and informed fellow staff that he was leaving behind his teaching materials for use by whoever was assigned to take over his classes, and left his teaching assignment on incredibly short notice; respondent made his decision based on his own self-interest; the school district did not suffer financial harm due to respondent's departure, but the continuity of teaching was disrupted; and that disruption was somewhat mitigated by the fact that seasoned teachers in the Board's employ were able to take over many of respondent's responsibilities until a permanent replacement could be found. The ALJ concluded that, given the mitigating factors, a six-month suspension of respondent's certificate was warranted. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered Mr. Im's certificate suspended for a period of six months.

Upon review, the Commissioner found that the circumstances herein do not dictate a penalty less than the general imposition of a one-year suspension of respondent's teaching certificate. Accordingly, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's conclusion that a lesser penalty is appropriate, and ordered the suspension of respondent's certificate for the period of one year from the date of this decision – a copy of which has been forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating same.

Issued 4/06/17

suspend the teaching staff member's certificate for a period of up to one year for failure to comply with its provisions.[2] It is well recognized that "[t]he obvious purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 [and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8] is to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." Penns Grove-Carneys Point Board of Education v. Regina Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 405, 407 (citations omitted). In the instant matter, it is undisputed that respondent resigned without providing the requisite notice to the Board. It is similarly uncontroverted that the Board refused to release respondent from his 60-day obligation.

The decision to suspend a teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 is discretionary and the Commissioner has historically evaluated all attendant circumstances on a case-by-case basis. As a general rule, however, given the underlying purpose of the statute, teachers who have been found guilty of unprofessional conduct for failing to provide the requisite 60-day notice receive a one-year certificate suspension. The one year suspension is routinely issued where the facts demonstrate that individuals have violated the 60-day notice requirement for strictly personal reasons, putting their own self-interest above the interests of students and their professional obligation to provide adequate notice to the board. See, e.g. East Amwell Township Board of Education v. Patricia Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Vincent Montalbano, School District of Ridgefield Park Township, Bergen County, Commissioner Decision No. 186-01, decided June 11, 2001; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Mary Elizabeth Farran, School District of the Chathams, Morris County, Commissioner Decision No. 308-05, decided March 29, 2005; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Mary Savino, Rahway Board of Education, Union County, Commissioner Decision No. 305-05, decided August 30, 2005; In the Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Maximilian Capshaw, Upper Freehold Regional School District, Monmouth County, Commissioner Decision No. 225-07, decided June 12, 2007.

[2] It is noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is a companion statute applicable to non-tenured teaching staff members.

July 2014 to pursue a position with the FBI, however – because the respondent failed his physical fitness test in August – he could not start the FBI training that was scheduled for September 2014.

Shortly thereafter, and before the school year commenced, the respondent was offered a chance to begin a FBI training class in October 2014 – on the condition that he pass the September 2014 fitness test. This time, the respondent choose not to take the test for personal reasons and instead began teaching as usual at the beginning of the 2014-2015 school year. The respondent ultimately passed the fitness test in October 2014, at which point he again requested a one-year leave of absence; the Board denied this request on October 17, 2014. The respondent then submitted his resignation, dated October 15, 2014. All of respondent's decisions in connection with his effort to secure a position with the FBI were made for the respondent's own personal gain, and with his own best interests in mind – without consideration for his professional obligation to the Board and to his students.

The Commissioner recognizes the respondent's goal of becoming an FBI agent and his concern that if he did not begin training in October 2014, he may have missed out on his opportunity. However, there is no question that respondent violated the statute, and his departure resulted in a disruption to his classes – which is the very consequence that the statute seeks to minimize when a teacher resigns from a school district. Nor should it be overlooked that the Board originally granted the respondent a one-year leave of absence when he made the request prior to the start of the 2014-2015 school year; it was only because of respondent's own actions, i.e. failing the August 2014 physical fitness test and deciding not to take the test again in September 2014, that respondent declined the proffered leave of absence and began teaching at the beginning of the 2014-2015 school year. Further, the circumstances here are not analogous to several cases where a lesser penalty was imposed, because in this case there was not a replacement teacher available to ensure a smooth transition and to minimize the impact on students. See, e.g. Mooney, supra,; Rogers, supra, and Burgess, supra. Additionally, resigning without providing the requisite notice to seek an alternate career is not akin to resigning without the requisite notice because of a debilitating heath issue. See, Borden, supra.

were suspended because of his unprofessional conduct is not a compelling mitigating circumstance, especially coupled with the fact that his unprofessional conduct was self-serving and adversely impacted his students. Therefore, the Commissioner is not compelled to exercise her discretion by ordering an exception to the customary one-year suspension.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8, the respondent's teaching certificates are hereby suspended for a period of one year, effective upon the date of this decision. A copy of this decision is being forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for the purpose of effectuating this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 01019-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 357-12/14

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF CHAE HYUK IM, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WAYNE, PASSAIC COUNTY.

Christine Bernacki Smith, Esq., for petitioner Wayne Board of Education (Machado Law Group, attorneys)

Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., for respondent Chae Hyuk Im (Bucceri & Pincus, Esqs., attorneys)

Record Closed: December 6, 2016 Decided: February 24, 2017

BEFORE CAROL I. COHEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Board of Education of the Township of Wayne (the Board), seeks an order suspending the respondent's teaching certificate for a period of one year, contending that he resigned from his teaching position with inadequate notice. Respondent, Chae Hyuk Im, replies that he resigned because he was appointed as a Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agent and had to begin his training immediately.

When he asked the Board for a leave of absence, it denied his request. He therefore had no alternative but to resign immediately.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 1, 2014, at the request of the Board, the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) entered an Order directing Im to show cause why his teaching certificate should not be suspended for unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. Im filed a pro se answer on December 29, 2014. On January 21, 2015, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On February 6, 2015, the matter was assigned to Judge Irene Jones. On August 13, 2015, the petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. On September 3, 2015, the respondent filed his responsive brief. On September 10, 2015, the petitioner filed a reply brief. On April 4, 2016, this matter was transferred to the undersigned. On May 11, 2016, I issued an oral decision from the bench granting partial summary decision to petitioner on the issue of unprofessional conduct. Questions of fact remained that required testimony on the issue of mitigation. On May 18, 2016, I issued Partial Summary Decision.

On May 17, 2016, Im filed a request for interlocutory review of the oral decision. On May 27, 2016, the Commissioner declined to hear an application for interlocutory review of the partial summary decision Order. On June 30, 2016, the Commissioner issued a decision in which he concurred with the administrative law judge that the respondent was guilty of unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8. On July 15, 2016, Im filed a Notice of Appeal with the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division. On September 2, 2016, the Appellate Division declined to hear the interlocutory appeal. Testimony on the issue of penalty was heard at the OAL on November 17, 2016, and counsel submitted their summation briefs on December 6, 2016. The record closed that day.

Due to unforeseen family medical reasons, the undersigned submitted to Acting Director Laura Sanders a request to extend the time to file the initial decision. The Extension was granted allowing for the initial decision to be extended until March 6, 2017.

ISSUE

What penalty should be imposed for Im's failure to give sixty days' notice prior to his leaving his teaching position?

TESTIMONY

For the Board

Two witnesses testified for the Board, Mark Toback, the superintendent of schools, and Kenneth Palczewski, the principal of Wayne Valley High School, where Mr. Im had taught prior to his departure.

Mark Toback testified that he had become Superintendent in August 2014. He was aware that Mr. Im had made a request for leave prior to the Superintendent's arrival in the District. The request had been discussed at the committee level, but then was withdrawn. J-8 was the Board Committee report dated August 5, 2014. It stated that Mr. Im was requesting leave in order to go to the FBI, but he was not sure if he could successfully complete the program. Therefore, he wanted to take a leave of absence from his teaching position. The Report said that it was agreed that Mr. Im was an excellent teacher and it would be prudent to allow him the year to determine if he wanted to make the career change. The Superintendent said that he was aware of the prior request. Mr. Toback said that he had a meeting with Mr. Im in mid-October 2014, at which time respondent wanted to discuss requesting a leave in order to take a position with the FBI. Mr. Toback said that he advised Mr. Im of the sixty-day requirement under the statute, but Im said that he would be leaving the District under any circumstance. Mr. Im did not volunteer to find a replacement and he did not say that he was leaving materials for a replacement teacher, or that he would notify his fellow teachers that he was leaving. Also, Im did not discuss any student issues with Mr. Toback. However, Mr. Toback said that these issues were usually dealt with by the school principal.

The superintendent said that the second leave request was discussed by the Board but denied because of concerns about finding a replacement for a chemistry teacher and the fact that they would be setting a pattern if other teachers sought leave in order to explore other career options. Superintendent Toback stated that it was especially difficult to find chemistry teachers because there was a lot of competition from private industry. It was even harder to find a quality replacement mid-year because a permanent position was uncertain and tenure could not accrue right away. When questioned why he had referred the matter to the Department of Education, he said that he was not sending a message of punishment, but rather was just following the law.

Kenneth Palczewski was the principal of Wayne Valley High School for four years. He said that prior to his October 2014 request for leave, Mr. Im had discussed the fact that he might have an opportunity to join the FBI, and if he got it, he would take it. Mr. Palczewski told Im that if he did leave, it would be the principal's responsibility to cover the classes,[1] and Mr. Im should follow the career path for which he had a passion. Mr. Palczewski said that he did not advertise for a replacement for Mr. Im in August, because the District did not advertise for positions until they were actually available. The principal said that after Mr. Im left he looked for opportunities to cover his classes. He used in-house staff and a substitute teacher, who was a retired science teacher, whom he knew.[2] Mr. Palczewski did not recall Mr. Im offering to find a replacement teacher for him. Nor did he recall Mr. Im telling him that he had left materials for the classes. He also did not think that Mr. Im talked to him about any concerns he had with any students. The District advertised for a replacement for Im in October and hired someone, who was a friend of another teacher, in November. However, this teacher could not begin teaching the chemistry classes until January, because he had to give his district sufficient notice.

[1] According to Mr. Palczewski, Mr. Im taught four classes, with approximately twenty to twenty-four students per class.

[2] He did not know if the substitute was specifically trained in chemistry.

Mr. Palczewski said that it is hard to find chemistry replacements because people trained in this field often work in non-educational settings. Also, it is hard to find substitute teachers who have the proper certification. When asked if there were any problems caused as a result of Mr. Im's leaving, he said that some parents complained that the level of instruction of the substitute teacher was not equal to that of the regular teachers, who took on extra classes to cover Mr. Im's classes. He said that he had to speak to the substitute teacher about the situation, and he made sure that the substitute spoke to other staff members to improve his teaching methods. In addition, Mr. Palczewski said that while they were able to cover all the classes with in-house staff and a substitute, because of the schedule conflicts for the chemistry labs, the students might have had three to four different teachers during the period from October through December 2014.

For Im

Chae Hyuk Im testified that he always wanted to help people. In college he looked into a number of science-oriented courses and then decided to become a teacher. He worked in the Wayne school system and became tenured. In 2011 a college friend said he had applied for a position at the FBI, and Im began thinking about pursuing a new career. He described a rigorous FBI application process, which he was initially able to pass. He stated that he had informed his immediate supervisors and the local union president of the progress of the application process. However, in 2011 he suffered two herniated discs that sidelined him from taking the physical-fitness portion of his testing. Then, as a result of government sequestration, there was a freeze on all job hiring. This remained in effect until 2014, when his application was reactivated. Mr. Im was informed that he would be considered for the July 2014 entry class. It was at that time that he submitted his leave request. He stated that he asked for leave because he did not know if the career change would suit him and if he would complete the training process. He wanted to leave his options open. In August 2014 he was informed that he had failed the physical portion of the job requirement. That is when he told the Board of Education that he would not be taking a leave. The next physical test was scheduled for September 11, 2014. However, he decided not to take that test, because he did not think that his body would be in the proper condition to pass the test. If he did not pass, he would have had to wait one full year to take another physical exam. Then, in September 2014 he was informed that another physical-fitness exam would be conducted in October. Mr. Im explained the situation to the building principal, the science supervisor, and someone in Human Resources (HR). He said that they wished him good luck and asked that he keep them abreast of the situation. Mr. Im took the physical and was told that he had passed on October 9, 2014. He was told that he had to arrive for training at Quantico on October 19, 2014. He said that on October 9 he informed the principal, someone from HR, and the science vice principal of the results of the test and that he would be leaving to start training. He said that he asked how his classes would be handled, and that Mr. Palczewski wished him good luck and told him that he should not worry, because it was the principal's job to find a teacher replacement, and that he should get his personal life in order. He got the same reaction from HR and the science vice principal. Mr. Im's last day of teaching was October 17, 2014. Mr. Im was informed by either the HR person or his union president that his leave request was denied by the Board.

Mr. Im said that he spoke to his FBI mentor to question him about whether he could wait to start at the Academy. His mentor said that he should not decline the appointment because there was no guarantee that he would get another entry date, and that his failure to begin the Academy at once could be taken as a sign of lack of dedication.

Mr. Im testified as to how he felt he had mitigated the harm done to the students by his leaving early. He said that it was the practice of the Chemistry Department to have weekly meetings. The people in the department knew how to proceed if an emergency developed. The teachers would take over for each other. He said that over the course of his teaching career he had compiled worksheets for his students and had teacher notes. In 2008 he put these notes into binders. During the weekly meetings he would discuss the information in the binders. Since he did not have a classroom of his own, he would bring the binders to the different rooms he taught in. Therefore, the other chemistry teachers were aware of the binders. He explained that the CD of his notes for class (J-15) was organized by chapter. Mr. Im left all of his teaching notes.

Presumably he would not need them because he would be following a different career path. Before he left he spoke to Linda Wills, who had been his in-class support teacher, about these notes.[3] He said that sometime before he left, he mentioned to Ms. Potts, a biology teacher, that he had left chemistry binders in the office for use by the teachers. He also talked to Diane Marturano, a primary chemistry teacher, about the notes. However, neither Ms. Wills nor Ms. Potts was teaching the same chemistry courses as Mr. Im was teaching at the time of his departure. Mr. Im stated that he did not know who was going to be replacing him when he left. However, he knew that three of the teachers who filled in for him had many years of experience and had taught the same or different levels of the classes that he had been teaching, and the substitute teacher was a retired science teacher. He stated on cross-examination that he had proposed a potential replacement teacher, but she was not hired.[4]

Mr. Im stated that he did have contact with some of the students after he left because they had asked him to write letters of recommendation for college, which he did provide.

Mr. Im testified that in his present position as a special agent for the FBI, he earned $55,000 during his first year of employment. Now that he is working in the New York area, there has been a salary adjustment and he earns $62,000 per year. Before he joined the FBI he was a tenured teacher in Wayne and earned about the same as what he is earning now. However, the salary at the school district included health benefits, which were not included at the FBI.

Mr. Im said that he informed the FBI that charges had been filed against him by the District. They said that he should keep them informed, and that if the ruling of unprofessional conduct were sustained, then any time he was working on a case that went to trial he would have to notify the assistant U.S. attorney, so that they could disclose the information to the defense. Mr. Im said that the people he spoke to at the FBI did not know of the specific unprofessional conduct, but if he were unable to testify

[3] At the time of Im's departure, Ms. Wills was teaching lower-level chemistry courses.

[4] It was pointed out that prior to this testimony, Mr. Im had never mentioned in discovery that he had proposed a potential replacement.

as a criminal investigator, then he would be switched to an analyst role as a special agent. Mr. Im said that the people he spoke to at the FBI referred him to the policy annunciated in Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 92 S. Ct. 763, 31 L. Ed. 2d 104 (1972).

Diane Marturano was a longtime chemistry teacher in the District. She said that she knew Mr. Im since 2005. She stated that chemistry teachers were a close-knit group, who met at least one time per week to discuss issues and curriculum. They gave common mid-terms and finals. The teachers agreed on the same labs that would be done by each of the classes. She said that she learned a few days before his departure that Mr. Im would be leaving. Mr. Im was teaching high-level chemistry classes that year, and she was also teaching high-level and AP chemistry. She said she knew that all of Mr. Im's notes had always been kept and were available in the chemistry office. She did not use his materials because she had been a teacher for a long time and actually had given him some of her materials. She recalled telling the other teachers that Mr. Im had left his binders in the chemistry office. She stated that Mr. Im's leaving was not a problem because there was a common curriculum for chemistry and the teachers had access to Mr. Im's materials. When the new teacher came in to replace Mr. Im in January, she did not hear any complaints that the children from Mr. Im's class were behind. She was the senior teacher, and no one came to her with concerns about the students or their learning after Mr. Im left. When asked whether she felt that it was disruptive to have a teacher leave mid-term, she said that there are adjustments when there is a new relationship, but if you spend a day or two and have the students express their concerns and reassure them that even though there is a different teacher they will get the same education, this will allay their fears and they can move on. She felt that, in fact, it would have been more difficult for the students if Mr. Im had waited the sixty days and then left, because they would have established a stronger relationship with him.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties stipulated to the following FACTS:

1. Im was employed by the Board from September 2005 into October 2014 as a chemistry teacher. He has standard teaching certifications in physical science and biological science. (J-1.) He was recommended for tenure as a teacher (J-2) and became tenured in September 2008. His individual contracts for 2006–07, 2007–08 and 2008–09 are attached as J-3, J-4 and J-5.

2. Im is currently employed as a special agent by the FBI.

3. Im is a naturalized citizen who has resided in this country since the age of three. His application to the FBI was first submitted in 2011. The application was inactive for several years during a period of federal hiring freezes. On May 15, 2014, Im received a letter from the Board stating his salary for the 2014–15 school year. In that letter he was also informed that if he should have reason to believe he would be unable to serve for the 2014–15 school year he should inform the District immediately. (J-6.)

4. Part of the FBI application process involved a background investigation and a physical fitness test (PFT). Around May 2014, agents of the FBI contacted both his high school (Wayne Valley High School) and the District (Wayne Board of Education) as part of his background investigation. The administration at building level and district level were aware of the application process at that time. At that time there was a different superintendent of schools. The new superintendent, Dr. Mark Toback, took over on or about August 11, 2014.

5. In July 2014 Im was informed that he was listed for a September 2014 training start date—the last such date in the federal fiscal year (October–September). In anticipation of entering the Academy he wrote a letter to the Board on July 23, 2014, requesting a one-year leave of absence. (J-7.) The Board and superintendent agreed to grant the leave, if it was needed. (J-8.)

6. On August 7, 2014, Im had his pre-training PFT. If he had passed, he would have begun to serve in September 2014, the September FBI class training date.

7. Im did not pass the PFT, and was removed from the September training start date.

8. As a result of the test failure, Im advised the Board's administration that he would be starting the 2014–15 school year as usual.

9. Later in August 2014, Im was informed that he was unexpectedly added to the roster for the first training class of the new fiscal year (October 2014), but this was contingent on retaking and passing the PFT.

10. Failing the PFT a second time requires a mandatory one-year wait time before a new application can be processed. (J-9.) Im decided not to take the September PFT and to wait for the October PFT because he did not have time to train sufficiently to pass the September fitness test. (J-10; J-11.)

11. In or about September 2014 Im informed his building administrators and the HR department of the District that there was a new possibility of his entering the FBI Academy for training in October 2014. He approached the superintendent about seeking a one-year leave because he wanted to preserve the opportunity to return to Wayne Valley High School in 2015–16 if he failed to qualify for the FBI. The new superintendent said that it would not be likely that a one-year leave would be granted since the school year had already started.

12. On October 9, 2014, Im again took the pre-training PFT and was told that day that he had passed. This was later confirmed in writing under date of October 10, 2014. (J-12.) On the afternoon of October 9 Im drove from the PFT to Wayne Valley High School and the Wayne Board office to inform them that, with the passing of the PFT, he was expected at the Academy on October 19. Mr. Im was given a "Rice" notice on October 9, 2014, stating that the terms of his employment might be discussed in executive session at the Board meeting on October 16, 2014. (J-13.) The Board of Education had its meeting on October 16, 2014.

13. Mr. Im learned the next day, October 17, 2014, that he was definitively denied a one-year leave by the Board. Im submitted his letter of resignation, which he had prepared and signed on October 15, 2014. (J-14.)

14. At the time of his resignation Im was teaching four sections of high-school chemistry.

15. As part of his teaching process throughout his employment at Wayne Valley High School he had been compiling binders of documents which included class-procedure lists, chemistry worksheets and handouts for student use, quizzes linked to textbook chapters, lab-equipment sign-out sheets, and other materials. These items had been collected and supplemented and updated by Im, with contributions from other teachers, continuously since approximately 2006. (J-15.)

16. At the time of his departure from the District on October 17, 2014, Im was not aware of which teachers would take over his classes. He advised Diane Marturano of the fact that his materials in the binders and on a thumb drive would be left behind for use by whoever was assigned.

17. The classes taught by Im were taken over by currently employed staff members in the Wayne School District's science department, namely, Diane Marturano, Katherine Cofer, Katie Poremba, and Fred Vafaie, who were paid a contractually specified stipend for accepting an extra period in addition to their current class schedule. Al Ruffini, a per-diem substitute, was also hired to cover Mr. Im's classes. This form of coverage continued until a replacement teacher, Thomas Villa, began teaching in January 2015. (J-16.)

18. Due to their work covering Mr. Im's classes, Katherine Cofer was paid $456.08; Diane Marturano was paid $2,280.32; Katie Poremba was paid $2,487.89; and Fred Vafaie was paid $310.95. Al Ruffini was paid $100.00 per day to teach one of respondent's classes. For forty days of coverage, the cost of the per-diem substitute was $4,000.00 before taxes.

19. Had Mr. Im given the District sixty days' notice prior to his resignation, that notice period would have expired on December 20, 2014. The costs expended by the Board to replace him during the sixty-day period were less than the amount the Board would have expended in providing salary and benefits to Mr. Im if he had worked during that same period.

20. At the next Board meeting, November 13, 2014, Mr. Im's resignation was formally accepted for the effective date of October 17, 2014. The teachers covering his classes were also approved for their additional stipend with an effective date of October 20, 2014. Further, at that meeting, Mr. Im's replacement, Thomas Villa, was approved for hire, with a start date of January 19, 2015, or sooner. (J-17.)

21. Attached are true copies of Im's annual teaching evaluations from the Wayne School District from 2007–08 through 2012–13, and two 2013 observations. (J-18 through J-23; J-24; J-25.)

22. Attached is a true copy of Wayne District Policy #3141, "Resignation." (J-26.)

LEGAL ARGUMENTS

Arguments of the Board

Wayne argued that Mr. Im should receive a penalty of a full year's suspension. It cited the decision in In re Teaching Certificate of Capshaw, EDU 12318-06, Comm'r (June 12, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, in which the Commissioner stated:

> the Commissioner has historically evaluated all attendant circumstances specific to each case. As a general rule, > however, given the underlying purpose of the statute, this evaluation—with rare exception—has resulted in suspension of any and all certificates for the maximum one-year period, particularly where the facts demonstrate that individuals have violated the 60-day notice requirement for strictly personal reasons, putting their own self interest above the interests of students and their professional obligation to provide adequate notice to the Board.

The District pointed out that Im had been looking for other employment since 2011, but had not given the Board notice until 2014. It argued that to decide that certain jobs are more worthy of exemption from the statute (i.e., FBI agent) than others is a slippery slope. Not to impose a suspension would remove any power or security of the District to maintain teaching operations and would render the statute on sixty days' notice meaningless. It would eviscerate any ability of the Board to ensure that teachers give the requisite notice. The statute was designed to protect students from unnecessary disruption caused by an abrupt resignation and departure. Wayne pointed out that in In re Certificate of Montalbano, EDU 3588-00, Initial Decision (April 24, 2001), adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 2001), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, a one-year suspension was imposed on a teacher who left after twelve days' notice to become a police officer. The teacher tried to make a schedule of coverage and discussed classroom duties with the replacement teachers; he completed the marking-period grades; and he sent notice of an opening to surrounding colleges. Still, the Commissioner saw fit to impose the full penalty. This was based on the disruption to the students caused by his departure.

The Board distinguished Board of Education of Clinton v. Burgess, 1983 S.L.D. 183, by pointing out that in that matter, the board failed to fulfill its promise to hire an immediate replacement when there was one available. It also distinguished Board of Education of Black Horse Pike Regional v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 810, where the Board had secured a replacement at the time of the respondent's departure from the district.

The District asserted that it was the District, rather than the respondent, who mitigated the damages. The respondent chose to start the school year because he failed the FBI physical. Mr. Im chose to wait until October to retake the physical, rather than September, because he thought he would be more physically ready to pass. The assertion that he left his teaching materials was of no moment, since he had no need for them, having left the profession. He did not find a replacement for himself, nor is it clear that he talked to the replacement teachers before he left. His assertion that the Board was on notice because of his prior request for leave was of no consequence, since he did not leave at that time. The District argued that it was the District that mitigated the damages by having the remaining teachers teach an extra course and hiring a retired substitute teacher to teach one of the chemistry sections. It was the high-school principal who managed to find a replacement for Mr. Im. However, because of the sixty-day requirement, he could not begin until January. As a result of Mr. Im's departure, the students had three to four different teachers during the period from October to January. Even the respondent's witness, Ms. Marturano, conceded that the departure of a teacher always has an impact on students.

As to the admissibility of the computer printout from the U.S. Department of Justice website that Im has sought to introduce into evidence, "9-5.100—Policy Regarding the Disclosure to Prosecutors of Potential Impeachment Information Concerning Law Enforcement Agency Witnesses ('Giglio Policy')," the District puts forth several arguments. The District asserts that introduction of the printout would cause undue prejudice and confusion, as it is entirely irrelevant to the issue of mitigation, which is the subject of the hearing. Further, Wayne asserts that the "[r]espondent had two years to produce a case, a witness, testimony, anything to support the allegation that an adverse finding would impact his potential ability to testify on behalf of the FBI," but all it has done is to produce this printout, which is pure hearsay and irrelevant to the issue of penalty. The District distinguished Giglio v. United States, supra, 405 U.S. 150, 92 S. Ct. 763, 31 L. Ed. 2d 104, which was relied upon by the respondent. It pointed out that Giglio dealt with a criminal matter in which it was determined that the credibility of a witness was in question. The Government's case depended entirely on the co-conspirator's testimony and, therefore, his credibility was at issue. The printout cited by respondent states that a Government witness would have to reveal, for possible impeachment purposes:

> (a) specific instances of conduct of a witness for the purpose of attacking the witness' credibility or character for truthfulness;
> (b) evidence in the form of opinion or reputation as to a witness' character for truthfulness;
>
> (c) prior inconsistent statements; and
> (d) information that may be used to suggest that a witness is biased.

The printout also states, "[t]his policy is not intended to create or confer any rights, privileges, or benefits to prospective or actual witnesses or defendants. It is also not intended to have the force of law. United States v. Caceres, 440 U.S. 741[, 99 S. Ct. 1465, 59 L. Ed. 2d 733] (1979)."

The District argues that the only effect of the statement in the printout is that the respondent would have to disclose to the prosecutor in a case that he had failed to give appropriate notice to his prior employer when he joined the FBI. It would be pure speculation to deduce from this document that revelation of his failure to give sixty days' notice would affect Mr. Im's ability to testify.

Further, the District argued that the document should be excluded under the residuum rule. Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b), hearsay is admissible only if there is some legally competent evidence to support each ultimate finding of fact. According to the District, the respondent has provided absolutely nothing to support his allegation that imposing a penalty on him will have any impact on his ability to perform his job as an FBI agent.

Arguments of the Respondent

The respondent countered the District's argument on the admissibility of the website printout by saying that its objection to admissibility on hearsay grounds was completely baseless. According to the respondent, the residuum rule has nothing to do with the admissibility of evidence. Rather, it relates to the circumstances under which admitted evidence can support an ultimate finding of fact. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a) gives the judge the right to exclude hearsay evidence, it does not authorize exclusion of hearsay evidence pursuant to the residuum rule, N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). Instead a judge may exclude any evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the risk that its admission will either necessitate undue consumption of time, or create substantial danger of undue prejudice or confusion. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15-1(c). The respondent argued that since neither of these circumstances exists, the document is admissible. In addition, since the respondent testified as to the existence of the "Giglio Policy" and its impact on his ability to function in his job, the testimony serves to satisfy the residuum rule.

Further, Mr. Im argued that the policy sought to be admitted is publicly published on the Justice Department's website. As such, it would be admissible in a Superior Court proceeding because it falls within an exception to the hearsay rule. N.J.R.E. 803(c)(8) "prevents the exclusion of public records from evidence based on the Hearsay Rule." There can be no argument that the document generated from the website is not a public record. In addition, the respondent argued that the exhibit qualifies as a business record under N.J.R.E. 803(c)(6) and 801(d) and is therefore admissible under those rules as well.

Mr. Im made a number of arguments to demonstrate that it would be inappropriate to impose a penalty on him. The respondent asserted that > the issue before this agency is NOT whether Mr. Im's mid-year departure can be shown to have caused some harm which cannot be mitigated by the circumstances of his leaving. The only issue is whether his leaving with less than 60 days' notice caused more harm than if he had left after 60 days, and if so, whether that harm is mitigated by the circumstances of his leaving.

Mr. Im pointed out that, contrary to the District's initial position, Wayne did not lose any money as a result of Im's departure. In fact, if one compared the cost of paying Mr. Im his salary and benefits versus paying the permanent teachers for one additional class per day and hiring one substitute, the District suffered no financial loss.

Further, the students did not suffer any detriment by the respondent leaving before sixty days, as opposed to his staying until the statutory deadline. Mr. Im asserted that there was only one complaint from a parent, and that student would have suffered more had he developed a stronger bond with the resigning teacher. Mr. Im pointed out that he left all of his teaching materials in good order, and in fact almost all the teachers did not even need the materials, since they were using their own materials to teach the chemistry courses.

As for Mr. Im, he actually lost financially by taking the position with the FBI. He also pointed out that the administrators at the school and fellow teachers supported his decision to join the FBI. The respondent questioned the superintendent's position that it was necessary to enforce the sixty-day rule because of his concern that other teachers might also leave early if there were no consequences. He asserted that leaving by teachers mid-year is rare, and that the decision to pursue charges was an unreasonable punishment by a new superintendent bent on intimidation.

Im cited Burgess, supra, 1983 S.L.D. 183, and Mooney, supra, 1984 S.L.D. 810, to support his position that sanctions should not be imposed. In Burgess no penalty was imposed even though Burgess left his teaching position to earn more money in private industry. The only distinction was that Mr. Im, because he was at Quantico, could not be available to consult with the teachers who took over for him. Im sought to distinguish Montalbano, supra, EDU 3588-00, Initial Decision (April 24, 2001), adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 2001), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, by saying that Montalbano could have waited until another position at the police department became available, rather than leaving without proper notice. Here, Mr. Im argued, he would have jeopardized his chance of entering any future class at the FBI training center, or sequestration could have occurred again before he got an opportunity to begin his training.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The evidentiary rules applicable to hearings before the Office of Administrative Law are outlined at N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1 to -15.12. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1, entitled "General rules," provides in pertinent part:

> (b) Evidence rulings shall be made to promote fundamental principles of fairness and justice and to aid in the ascertainment of truth.
>
> (c) Parties in contested cases shall not be bound by statutory or common law rules of evidence or any formally adopted in the New Jersey Rules of Evidence except as specifically provided in these rules. All relevant evidence is admissible except as otherwise provided herein. A judge may, in his or her discretion, exclude any evidence if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the risk that its admission will either:
>
> 1. Necessitate undue consumption of time; or
> 2. Create substantial danger of undue prejudice or confusion.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5, entitled "Hearsay evidence; residuum rule" provides:

> a. Subject to the judge's discretion to exclude evidence under N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1(c) or a valid claim of privilege, hearsay evidence shall be admissible in the trial of contested cases. Hearsay evidence which is admitted shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability.
> b. Notwithstanding the admissibility of hearsay evidence, some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness.

Therefore, the initial criterion for the admission of evidence before the Office of Administrative Law is a determination of the relevancy of the proposed evidence.

Relevant evidence is defined in the rules as meaning "evidence having any tendency in reason to prove any material fact." N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1. "To determine relevancy, a judge must focus 'on the logical connection between the proffered evidence and a fact in issue. If the evidence offered makes the inference to be drawn more logical, then the evidence should be admitted unless otherwise excludable by a rule of law.'" State v. Goodman, 415 N.J. Super. 210, 225 (App. Div. 2010) (citation omitted). However, although all relevant evidence is admissible, relevant evidence may be excluded if its probative value is substantially outweighed by the risk that its admission will either (1) necessitate undue consumption of time or (2) create the danger of undue prejudice or confusion. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1(c). Moreover, although hearsay evidence is admissible before the Office of Administrative Law, there must be some legally competent evidence to support each ultimate finding of fact. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b); DeBartolomeis v. Bd. of Review, 341 N.J. Super. 80 (App. Div. 2001). The underlying rationale of the rule is that an administrative determination should "not rest upon evidence which the unsuccessful party was incapable of impeaching or rebutting." In re Application of Howard Sav. Bank, 143 N.J. Super. 1, 8–9 (App. Div. 1976).

Petitioner objects to the admission of the Giglio Policy into evidence because it avers that its admission would cause undue prejudice and confusion, as it is entirely irrelevant to the issues of mitigation, and because it contends that the document has no foundation and is completely speculative. Respondent, on the other hand, avers that the petitioner's objection to the admissibility of the Giglio Policy on hearsay grounds is completely baseless. Respondent argues that admitting the Giglio Policy would not result in any undue consumption of time and there is nothing prejudicial or confusing about it. Respondent seeks its admission as evidence of the impact that an adverse sanction ruling would have on his duties as an FBI agent. Respondent also avers that the Giglio Policy is a policy of the Justice Department that is publicly published on its website. As such, respondent argues that the document falls within the accepted public-records exception to the hearsay rule pursuant to N.J.R.E. 803(c)(6) and (8).

Initially, it is important to recognize that the question of relevancy must be distinguished from that of sufficiency and weight. Evidence, though weak, may be relevant if it tends to prove the issue. The purpose of the hearing is to give the respondent a full opportunity to present evidence of mitigation to determine whether a certificate suspension is appropriate. Respondent asserts that the Giglio Policy should be admitted and relied upon (together with other evidence, such as his testimony) as evidence of the impact that an adverse sanction ruling will have on his duties as an FBI agent. Petitioner objects to its admission based upon its claim that the Giglio Policy is irrelevant on the issue of mitigation. Petitioner's position fails to recognize that the impact a disciplinary action has on a teacher's career has been held to be a valid consideration in determining the proper penalty to be imposed when disciplining teachers. Although it concerned a tenured teacher that was appealing his dismissal for conduct unbecoming a teacher, the Appellate Division's admonition to the Commissioner regarding the penalty warranted by the teacher's actions in In re Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967), is germane to the present matter. The court stated:

> We hold no brief for the teacher's conduct in this case. . . .
> Although such conduct [restraining a student] certainly warrants disciplinary action, the forfeiture of the teacher's rights after serving for a great many years in the New Jersey school system is, in our view, an unduly harsh penalty to be imposed under the circumstances. . . . However, consideration should be given to the impact of the penalty on appellant's teaching career, including the difficulty which would confront him, as a teacher dismissed for unbecoming conduct, in obtaining a teaching position in this State . . . .
>
> . . . We observe that the local board recognized that Fulcomer's teaching record was good and his teaching ability unquestioned. He had not been disciplined in any manner by the board prior to the date of the incidents involved in these charges, and he had consistently received pay raises each year.
>
> The matter is therefore remanded to the Commissioner of Education for the purpose of making an affirmative decision as to the proper penalty to be imposed. Such penalty should be based upon the Commissioner's findings as to the nature and gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, and should take into consideration any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had > on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system.

Therefore, the issue presented by respondent's attempt to introduce the Giglio Policy into evidence is not one of relevance, but instead one of the sufficiency and weight to be accorded the policy. This issue is related to petitioner's objection to the admission of the Giglio Policy based upon its claim that it is hearsay. Respondent argues that petitioner's objection on hearsay grounds is completely baseless. He argues that the document falls within the accepted public-records exception to the hearsay rule pursuant to N.J.R.E. 803(c)(6) and (8).

As defined by the New Jersey Rules of Evidence, hearsay is "a statement, other than one made by the declarant while testifying at the trial or hearing, offered in evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted." N.J.R.E. 801. Respondent argues that the Giglio Policy should be admitted as evidence of the impact that an adverse sanction ruling will have on his duties as an FBI agent.

N.J.R.E. 803(c)(6) provides that the following statements are not excluded by the hearsay rule, whether or not the declarant is available as a witness:

> Records of regularly conducted activity. --A statement contained in a writing or other record of acts, events, conditions, and, subject to Rule 808, opinions or diagnoses, made at or near the time of observation by a person with actual knowledge or from information supplied by such a person, if the writing or other record was made in the regular course of business and it was the regular practice of that business to make it, unless the sources of information or the method, purpose or circumstances of preparation indicate that it is not trustworthy.

And N.J.R.E. 803(c)(8) provides that the following statements are not excluded by the hearsay rule, whether or not the declarant is available as a witness:

> Public records, reports, and findings. --Subject to Rule 807, (A) a statement contained in a writing made by a public official of an act done by the official or an act, condition, or event observed by the official if it was within the scope of the official's duty either to perform the act reported or to observe the act, condition, or event reported and to make the written statement, or (B) statistical findings of a public official based upon a report of or an investigation of acts, conditions, or events, if it was within the scope of the official's duty to make such statistical findings, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate that such statistical findings are not trustworthy.

The Giglio Policy was adopted by the Justice Department in the regular course of its business. The Rules of Evidence provide that a "business includes activities of governmental agencies." N.J.R.E. 801(d). Both N.J.R.E. 803(c)(6) and (8) are "intended to cover admissibility of documents that are objectively reliable, were not prepared for a specific defendant, and have a sufficient guarantee of trustworthiness. State v. Hix, No. A-4616-05 (App. Div. May 29, 2009), <https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>. Under both N.J.R.E. 803(6) and (8), any objection to the admissibility of a business or public record must be supported by some evidence that the record is not trustworthy. Ibid. Petitioner contends that the document has no foundation. However, pursuant to N.J.R.E. 902, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required of official publications, books, pamphlets, or other publications "purporting to be issued by public authority." N.J.R.E. 902(e). Because the Giglio Policy was adopted by the Justice Department in the regular course of its business and within the scope of its duties; it was not prepared for a specific defendant; it is publicly published on its website; and petitioner is not challenging its accuracy, the Giglio Policy falls within the hearsay exceptions for public records. N.J.R.E. 803(6) and (8). And it is self-authenticating. N.J.R.E. 902(e).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Petitioner objects to the admission of the Giglio Policy as being irrelevant to the issue of mitigation. The question of relevancy, however, must be distinguished from that of sufficiency and weight. Evidence, though weak, may be relevant if it tends to prove the issue. The purpose of the hearing is to give the respondent a full opportunity to present evidence of mitigation to determine whether a certificate suspension is appropriate. Respondent seeks the policy's admission as evidence of the impact an adverse sanction ruling would have on his duties as an FBI agent. In Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. 404, the impact a penalty would have on a teacher's career was recognized as being a valid consideration in determining the appropriate sanction. Therefore, respondent should have the opportunity to introduce the Giglio Policy on the issue of what sanction should be imposed. However, it will be accorded little weight, because respondent failed to introduce any additional evidence to buttress his assertion that the imposition of a one-year penalty will have any different effect on his ability to testify or perform his job than a shorter suspension period. The Certification of Eric Parisi, besides being hearsay, does not mention the Giglio Policy. All it states with regard to the effect that a penalty would have on Im's ability to perform his duties as an FBI agent is:

> I am advised that the suspension of Special Agent Im's teaching license would require a finding of "unprofessional" conduct. It would appear that such a consequence should be avoided in the absence of overwhelming proof of the alleged existence of truly unprofessional conduct.[5]

Mr. Im's testimony did nothing to shed light on the effect that a lesser penalty, or no penalty at all, would have on his ability to testify or to keep his job as a criminal investigator. Im testified that he was advised that under Giglio, if he had to testify in a criminal trial he would have to disclose to the government attorney that he had been found to have acted unprofessionally by leaving his job without proper notice.[6] Why a finding of "unprofessional conduct" would require him to disclose under Giglio is questionable, since it has nothing to do with credibility. But even if his testimony were to be believed, there is absolutely no evidence that a lesser penalty would impact his ability to testify or to retain his job as a criminal investigator. Therefore, there is no

[5] The respondent did not call Agent Parisi to the stand to be questioned as to what he meant by his statement.

[6] Besides being hearsay, Mr. Im's testimony on this issue is completely self-serving.

credible evidence to substantiate the assertion that the imposition of a lesser penalty or no penalty at all would affect his ability to remain an FBI criminal investigator.

The Commissioner has discretion pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 to impose an appropriate sanction of up to a one-year suspension of a teacher's teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct in resigning their position without giving the required sixty days' notice.

It was clear from the testimony of the District's witnesses that, while the disruption to Mr. Im's students was not catastrophic, there were definitely consequences to his leaving early. While permanent teachers took on all but one of Mr. Im's classes, because of scheduling difficulty for labs, each student had three to four teachers from September until January.[7] While it is true, as the respondent argued, that there would have been a disruption no matter when Im left, the District would have had more time to try to find a replacement for Im and some of the disruption could have been alleviated had he waited the sixty days. In addition, at least one parent complained that the quality of the teaching of the substitute teacher was not up to the standards of the permanent teachers, and the principal had to talk to the substitute about the quality of his teaching. Mr. Im argued that he left all of his materials for the replacement teachers, and therefore credit should be given for his efforts. It appears that Mr. Im was a very capable and organized teacher. However, there was testimony that Mr. Im did not tell either the principal of the school or the replacement teachers that he had left the materials for them. While there was testimony that Mr. Im's materials were available to all the chemistry teachers, this was not due to any special effort on his part to help the teachers at the time of his precipitous departure. Rather, it was a result of his organization throughout the years. As far as his communicating with the students prior to his departure, Mr. Im said that he kept contact with some of the students because he wrote college letters of recommendation for a few of them. There was no testimony that he spoke to his classes before his departure to explain what was happening. The principal of the school, Mr. Palczewski, who was sympathetic toward Im, acknowledged that Im did not find a replacement for himself, nor did he recall Im offering to do so. A replacement was found because a newly hired teacher had a friend who decided to apply for the opening. Mr. Palczewski also testified that at the time Im left, he was not aware that the respondent had left his materials for the replacement teachers. Nor did Im talk to the principal about the students and any special needs.

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides that "[a]ny teaching staff member employed by a board of education . . . who shall, without the consent of the board . . . , cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year." See also N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9. The Commissioner has held that the central purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is "to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." Penns Grove-Carneys Point Bd. of Educ. v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 405, 407.

The decision to suspend a teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is discretionary and the Commissioner has historically evaluated all circumstances specific to an individual case. As a general rule, however, with rare exception, the Commissioner has imposed suspensions for the one-year maximum period. Mooney, supra, 1984 S.L.D. at 821; In re Suspension of the Teaching Certificate of Capshaw, EDU 12318-06, Initial Decision (April 30, 2007), modified, Comm'r (June 12, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; East Amwell Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803. In this matter, there are factors that weigh on both sides of the ledger. While the District had had prior notice of the possibility of Mr. Im's leaving, those notices were vitiated by his subsequent disclosure that he had failed the physical and therefore would not be leaving. As the principal pointed out, the District could not advertise to fill a position until it was actually available. While the respondent's argument that the superintendent brought the charges out of vindictiveness or an attempt to assert his own power as the new administrator may have some validity, the fact is that the statute permits the bringing of charges in situations like this one. Mr. Im left on incredibly short notice, leaving the District to scramble for replacements. While Mr. Im was free to do so, that did not mean that there were not consequences to his actions. Mr. Im could have chosen to retake the physical in September and not begin the school year. However, he chose to wait, for his own benefit, until he felt that he would be more likely to pass. He also could have chosen to wait until the following year to take the physical. It is true that another freeze could have been instituted and he might not have been able to get the FBI job. He made the decisions he made based on his own self-interest. While it is true that the District did not suffer financial harm due to Mr. Im's departure and Mr. Im did not receive a windfall from his new job, the impact on the students also has to be considered. The purpose of the statute was to protect the students from unnecessary disruption caused by the precipitous departure of a teacher. Here, while the disruption was somewhat mitigated by the fact that seasoned teachers, who were teaching the same curriculum as Mr. Im, took his place in all but one section, there was still disruption, as Mr. Im's own witness testified. Ms. Marturano testified that she thought the disruption would have been greater for the students if Mr. Im stayed the sixty days because the students would have developed a bond with him. On the other hand, if he had stayed sixty days, it could have given the District time to make a smooth transition to a new teacher.

Mr. Im has relied on Burgess, supra, 1983 S.L.D. 183, and Mooney, supra, 1984 S.L.D. 810, for the proposition that sanctions should not be imposed. However, as the District pointed out, these cases can be distinguished from the present matter. In Burgess the school district failed to fulfill its promise to hire an immediate replacement when one was available. Similarly, in Mooney the Board had a candidate for replacement of the respondent on his anticipated release date. This case more closely mirrors Montalbano, supra, EDU 3588-00, Initial Decision (April 24, 2001), adopted, Comm'r (June 11, 2001), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, where a tenured teacher accepted a position with the Ridgefield Police Department and gave twelve days' notice. The respondent tried to distinguish Montalbano by saying that Montalbano could have waited sixty days and sought a position at that time. In fact, we do not know if the position would have been available for Montalbano in sixty days. Likewise, while Mr. Im might have worried that another sequestration might have arisen, there is nothing in the record to demonstrate that a sequestration was contemplated by the agency.

Weighing all of the mitigating factors, I CONCLUDE that a six-month suspension of the respondent's teaching certificate is warranted at this time.

ORDER

Based on the above findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the respondent's teaching certificate be suspended for a period of six months.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record, proposed settlement agreement and release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's January 23, 2017 determination that the prior settlement agreement did not comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13, as it was neither signed by the Board's attorney, nor contained a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement and designating the Board President to sign the agreement on its behalf. Since the settlement agreement now contains a copy of the Board resolution approving the settlement, the Commissioner can approve the within agreement in its present form.

Additionally, the Commissioner notes that the settlement makes reference to a monthly payment intended to begin on August 15, 2016. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the proposed terms.

Subject to the foregoing, the Commissioner approves the parties' settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, which is hereby dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the recommended Order.

The ALJ denied petitioner's request for emergent relief and dismissed the matter on the merits by way of an Order on Emergent Relief, finding that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to hear the case. The Commissioner afforded the parties the opportunity to file exceptions pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. The parties did not file exceptions.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL, denying petitioner's application for emergent relief and dismissing the case for lack of jurisdiction, is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. This case is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

v.

CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Steven J. Edelstein, Esq., for petitioner (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein & Celso, attorneys)

Robert L. Tarver, Jr., Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: February 27, 2017 Decided: February 28, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board of Education of the City of Orange Township (petitioner) filed an emergent motion in connection with the adoption of a Referendum question which was and did not play a role in the ultimate decision on this application. The attorney for the City of Orange Township was permitted to speak at the hearing on February 27, 2017, but agreed that he would not add anything different from the arguments presented by Mr. Edelstein on behalf of the City of Orange Township Board of Education. Both Mr. Edelstein and Mr. Tarver agreed that despite the error in the caption, the true parties of interest in this matter are the City of Orange Township Board of Education and the City Council of Orange Township.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The Orange School District (District) is comprised entirely of the City of Orange Township. Prior to November 8, 2016, the District was a Type 1 school district. As such, when it was necessary to bond for capital projects, an appropriate Resolution would be passed by the Board of School Estimate and thereafter, the City would enact an appropriate Bond Ordinance, relying on the credit of the City.

On July 6, 2016, the Council passed a resolution calling for a referendum at the next general election to be held on November 8, 2016, for the City of Orange Township to change from that of an appointed school board to an elected school board effective immediately. With the first school board election to be held during the November 2017 general election.

The Resolution also contained this language in the main body of the Resolution: "BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that upon the commencement of the November, 2017, general election, this resolution shall take full force and effect forthwith." On November 8, 2016, the following question appeared on the ballot in the City:

CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP
MUNICIPAL PUBLIC QUESTION

> Shall the Board of Education of the City of Orange Township be changed from a board that is appointed by the Mayor, to a Board that is elected by the residents of Orange, effective immediately, with the first school board election to be held during the November 2017 general election.

The minutes indicate that the Clerk read the Ordinance with an amended amount of $2,506,000. On December 20, 2016, the Ordinance was passed by the Council unanimously on its second reading.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Jurisdiction by the Commissioner of Education

A necessary preliminary issue which must be addressed is whether the Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to hear this matter. Respondent, the City Council of the City of Orange Township, argues that the Commissioner of Education lacks such jurisdiction and the petitioner, the City of Orange Township Board of Education, argues that the Commissioner of Education has such jurisdiction.

The applicable statute addressing jurisdiction is N.J.S.A. Title 18A:6-9 which provides in part:

> Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioners.

However, when defining what actions constitute controversies and disputes under the school laws, the statute specifically excludes the conduct of school elections by stating:

> For purposes of this Title, controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Thus the issue as presented is whether the Referendum switching the Board of Education from a Type I school district to a Type II school district arises under the exception of jurisdiction under Title 18A.

Based on the plain reading of the above definition of an election and the exclusion regarding the conduct of school board elections, it is clear that the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction to hear this case and, instead, it should be brought in the Superior Court of New Jersey. Even accepting as true the allegations of errors in the Referendum process, the petitioner is clearly with a remedy by application in the Superior Court despite its argument that it is without any remedy. I am also concerned about the petitioner's failure to act in a timely matter. The Resolution was considered and passed by the City Council of Orange Township on July 6, 2016, calling for a Referendum question to be placed on the ballot for the voters to express their will regarding a change of the type of school district in Orange. The general election was held on November 8, 2016 and the voters passed the Referendum and approved the change of form. This matter was not filed with the Office of Administrative Law until February 8, 2017 with no other action being taken by the petitioner prior to this or any other venue.

Based on the finding reached in this case, there is no need to fully address the standard for emergent relief (N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6) and further set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and argued by the respective parties in their submissions in favor and opposed to the relief requested in the petitioner's petition and application for emergent relief.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that this venue has the proper jurisdiction to hear this case. Consequently, the petitioner's request for emergency relief is denied and this matter if dismissed.

ORDER

Having concluded that petitioners are not entitled to the requested emergent relief, it is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner's request for emergency relief be DENIED and that the Commissioner of Education does not have jurisdiction to hear this appeal and thus this matter if hereby DISMISSED.

SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her children, W.Y. and D.Y., are not entitled to a free public education in North Arlington schools. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that she has three separate residences in New Jersey, but is legally domiciled in North Arlington. The respondent Board of Education of North Arlington argued that Y.Y. is not legally domiciled within the school district, and filed a motion for summary decision, as well as a counterclaim for tuition. Petitioner filed opposition to the motion for summary decision, asserting that there are genuine issues in dispute which warrant an evidentiary hearing. The Board of Education of the Vocational Schools of Bergen County filed a motion to intervene, as one of petitioner's children attends vocational school at the expense of the North Arlington school district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this matter, and the case is ripe for summary decision; written certifications submitted by the Board in support of its motion for summary decision – from the Board's Superintendent of Schools, the Business Administrator for the district, and a former neighbor who lived near petitioner's residence in Kearny, Hudson County – all attested to the apparent residency of petitioner and her sons in Kearny; and petitioner failed to submit anything to refute the factual assertions of the Board or the documentary evidence contained in the Board's certifications. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that petitioner is a resident of Kearny, not North Arlington, awarded summary decision to the Board, and ordered that petitioner reimburse the Board for tuition in the total amount of $21,883.94 for the 2014-2015, 2015-2016, and 2016-2017 school years.

Upon review, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: there are genuine issues of material fact herein; therefore, summary decision is not appropriate; petitioner submitted numerous documents to support her claim of residency in North Arlington, and filed an affidavit certifying that she "...has three residences in the state of New Jersey and is domiciled in North Arlington, New Jersey"; and the ALJ failed to consider the evidence in the light most favorable to petitioner, the non-moving party. Accordingly, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision and remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NORTH ARLINGTON, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT,	:
AND	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS OF BERGEN COUNTY, BERGEN COUNTY,	:
INTERVENOR.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioner and the North Arlington Board of Education (Board) – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and the petitioner's reply thereto. The Board's reply was untimely filed and was therefore not considered by the Commissioner. Petitioner's reply to the Board's reply was also not considered, as N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 does not allow such a filing.

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ erred in granting summary decision to the Board because there are genuine issues of material fact, which render summary decision inappropriate. Petitioner contends that the ALJ viewed the facts in the light most favorable to the Board, rather than the non-moving party, and made numerous credibility determinations. Petitioner contends that through a hearing, the ALJ would have been able to hear testimony and make credibility determinations, but petitioner did not have the opportunity for a hearing. Additionally, petitioner points out that the ALJ failed to consider the documents she submitted, including tax bills, certificate of occupancy, voter registration, utility bills, W-2 statement, and bank statements. Petitioner maintains that while she has three residences, her domicile is in North Arlington; yet the ALJ failed to mention that she owns property in North Arlington, and avoided using the term "domicile" in his Initial Decision. The ALJ instead considered evidence of petitioner using her Kearny residence, but petitioner maintains that she has the right to use that property. Petitioner further emphasizes that the ALJ failed to consider case law involving the domicile of individuals who own multiple residences.

Petitioner also argues that the ALJ's assessment of tuition was incorrect. For example, petitioner contends that D.Y. only attended sixth grade for ten days, rather than the 127 days found by the ALJ. Petitioner contends that the information relied upon by the ALJ in the Marano Certification, Exhibit 4, is unclear as to how many days D.Y. attended school. Finally, petitioner challenges the ALJ's denial of her motion to suppress the Board's evidence, and argues that the ALJ has a conflict of interest.

In its exceptions, the Board argues that the ALJ correctly found that petitioner is not a resident of North Arlington and, as such, is liable for tuition for the period of her children's ineligible attendance. However, the Board contends that the ALJ failed to factor into consideration the payments that the Board has made to the Bergen County Technical School for W.Y.'s attendance for the months since the Board submitted its motion. Specifically, the Board contends that it is entitled to reimbursement for the additional payments made on February 28 and March 27, 2017.

In reply to the Board's exceptions, petitioner argues that the Board's calculation of tuition is false.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with petitioner that there are genuine issues of material fact herein, and summary decision should not be granted in this circumstance. A motion for summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). In evaluating such a motion, the ALJ must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).

The ALJ found that there was no material fact in dispute. "Petitioner did not submit anything to refute the factual assertions, or the documentary evidence" in the certifications submitted by the Board. (Initial Decision, at 10) The ALJ noted that "[p]ointedly, there is no rebuttal at all to the observations of the North Arlington Police Department, Mr. Gilmore, Mr. O'Connor, or to the Kearny Police Department incident reports, all of which amply demonstrate that Petitioner is a resident of Kearny, New Jersey." (Initial Decision, at 10-11)

The Commissioner notes that in opposition to the Board's motion for summary decision, petitioner submitted the following evidence to support her position that her domicile is in North Arlington: (1) the deed to her North Arlington property; (2) property tax bills; (3) a certificate of occupancy; (4) electric/gas bills and Verizon bills; (5) voter registration; (6) grand juror summons with payment stubs for grand jury service; (7) home health aide certification; (8) photos of her North Arlington property; (9) correspondence regarding Verizon Fios service; (10) W-2; and (11) bank statements. Petitioner subsequently submitted an affidavit, certifying that – among other things – "Petitioner has three residences in the state of New Jersey and is domiciled in North Arlington, New Jersey." (Petitioner's affidavit, dated January 17, 2017, at ¶5)

Considering the standard for summary decision, petitioner's certified statement that she is domiciled in North Arlington – in addition to the documentary evidence that petitioner submitted – creates a genuine issue of material fact as to petitioner's domicile. Although the Board submitted certifications and evidence in support of its position that petitioner is domiciled in Kearny, the ALJ was required to consider the evidence in the light most favorable to petitioner, as the non-moving party. When viewing the evidence in that manner, there is a genuine issue of material fact that prevents this matter from being decided by way of summary decision. Instead, at a hearing on the merits, the ALJ will be able to make credibility determinations as to the witnesses and weigh all of the evidence presented before deciding the matter.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected – for the reasons expressed herein – and the matter is remanded to the OAL for further proceedings.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Respondent, in support of its motion for summary decision, filed the following:

1. Certification of Dr. Oliver W. Stringham, Superintendent of the North Arlington Public Schools (District), wherein Dr. Stringham asserts he sent a letter, dated November 2, 2015, to Petitioner at xxx Park Place, Kearny, New Jersey, and xx Union Place, North Arlington, New Jersey. (Exhibit 1.) In said letter Dr. Stringham advised Petitioner that her children, D.Y. and W.Y., could continue their enrollment in the District until the Board of Education (Board) could review evidence and make a determination as to residency. (Exhibit 1, p. 1.) Petitioner was invited to a closed hearing before the Board on November 16, 2015. (Exhibit 1, pp. 2-3.)

2. Certification of Kathleen Marano, Business Administrator for the District, wherein Ms. Marano outlined the District's concern over Petitioner's residency. Part of her duties includes attending all Board meetings and record minutes of the meetings. Petitioner was requested to provide proof of residency by North Arlington Middle School Principal Nicole Russo, at the instruction of Dr. Stringham. The Board reviewed documents provided by Petitioner, including a utility bill for the North Arlington house in the amount of $54, which the Board believed to be too low. (Exhibit 1.) The Board also reviewed a police report prepared by North Arlington Police Department Detective Anthony Scala. (Exhibit 2.) Detective Scala, on September 16 and 17, 2015, observed a vehicle registered to Petitioner parked in the same spot for two consecutive days in front of the North Arlington house. On September 17, 2015, at 6:30 a.m. Detective Scala observed Petitioner and a teenage male leave 105 Park Place in Kearny, New Jersey, and enter a vehicle registered to Petitioner and travel to an unknown location. (Exhibit 2.) Approximately an hour later he observed D.Y. exit the Kearny residence and enter a Toyota Sienna with an elderly man, who dropped D.Y. off at school in North Arlington. Detective Scala informed Petitioner of his observations and Petitioner admitted that she drove W.Y. to school from the Kearny residence. Ms. Marano also states the Board was advised of surveillance video taken in February and April 2016 showing Petitioner and her sons engaging in activities of daily living at the Kearny residence, including departing for school in North Arlington. The Board also reviewed screen shots of the video. (Exhibit 3.) At the residency hearing on December 14, 2015, the Board requested that Petitioner allow a Board member, the Board attorney, with Petitioner and her attorney, to visit her residence in North Arlington. Petitioner refused and requested another hearing date. The new date was May 2, 2016. After fifteen minutes, Petitioner left the meeting as the Board was not immediately available to her. This determined that Petitioner and her sons did not reside in North Arlington. D.Y. and W.Y. were dis-enrolled on May 4, 2016. W.Y. continues to attend Bergen County Technical Schools at the District's expense. Mr. Marano then outlined tuition costs for both W.Y. and D.Y. (Exhibits 5, 6, and 7.)

3. Certification of Matthew Gilmore, who resided at xxx Park Place, Kearny, New Jersey, the house adjacent to Petitioner's Kearny residence. Mr. Gilmore no longer resides at this address, but his mother continues to reside there. Mr. Gilmore reviews the surveillance video obtained from the Park Place address. The video shows Petitioner, her husband, and two sons engaging in activities of daily living at Petitioner's Kearny residence. The undersigned viewed the video in its entirety. Additionally, Mr. Gilmore sets forth his personal observations of Petitioner during the time he resided at xxx Park Place, where he consistently saw Petitioner and her two sons leave their Kearny residence early in the morning at various times during the year.

Respondent, in opposition to the motion for summary decision, filed the following:

1. Affidavit of Petitioner wherein Petitioner merely states there are genuine issues in dispute which warrant an evidentiary hearing.

19. The District informed Petitioner via letter from Dr. Stringham that the District does not believe she resides in North Arlington and afforded her the opportunity to appear before the Board. Said letter also informed Petitioner of her right to appeal to the Commissioner of the Department of Education, and that D.Y. and W.Y. could remain in the District pending the outcome of the appeal. (Stringham Certification, Exhibit 1.)

20. The District, also via letter from Dr. Stringham, informed Petitioner that she may be assessed the costs of tuition for D.Y. and W.Y. should she not prevail on the residency appeal. (Stringham Certification, Exhibit 1.)

A residency hearing was held on December 14, 2015, at which time a Board requested of Petitioner that a Board member, the Board attorney, Petitioner and Petitioner's attorney visit the North Arlington residence. Petitioner refused. Petitioner requested another hearing date. (Marano Certification, ¶13, ¶14, and ¶15.)

22. A residency hearing was held before the Board on May 2, 2016, wherein the Board determined that Petitioner did not reside in North Arlington. (Marano Certification, ¶15, ¶19.)

23. Petitioner left before the residency hearing commenced, approximately fifteen minutes after arriving. (Marano Certification ¶16 and ¶17.)

24. D.Y. and W.Y. were dis-enrolled on May 4, 2016. (Marano Certification, ¶20.)

25. Petitioner had previously filed a Residency Appeal on October 6, 2015. (Herrmann Certification, Exhibit A.)

26. Petitioner resides in Kearny, New Jersey, Hudson County, and has since at least the 2014/2015 school year to the present.

27. During the 2014/2015 school year there were twenty-three days of compensable ineligible attendance (May 23, 2015, through June 24, 2015) for a total of $1,385.52 for D.Y. and $1,094.80 for W.Y. (Marano 2nd Supp. Cert. ¶3.)

28. During the 2015/2016 school year there were 129 days of compensable ineligible attendance (September 2015 through May 2, 2016) for a total of $8,808.12. (Marano Certification, Exhibit 4.)

29. During the 2015/2016 school year Respondent paid Bergen County Technical Schools $7,081.00 on behalf of W.Y. (Marano Certification, Exhibit 6.)

30. During the 2016-2017 school year Respondent paid Bergen County Technical Schools $3,514.00 to date on behalf of W.Y. (Marano 2nd Supp. Cert., Exhibit 8.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner's Motion to Suppress

Initially, I will address the Petitioner's motion to suppress evidence. The concept of suppressing evidence, called the exclusionary rule, is found in criminal proceedings, and is used where law enforcement runs afoul of the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution. See Mapp v. Ohio, 367 U.S. 643, 81 S. Ct. 1684, 6 L. Ed. 2d 1081 (1961); Wong Sun v. United States, 371 U.S. 471, 83 S. Ct. 407, 9 L. Ed. 2d 441 (1963).

The Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution states:

> The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

The exclusionary rule is rare in administrative proceedings. See New Brunswick v. Speights, 157 N.J. Super. 9 (App. Div. 1978). I cannot find anything that would invoke the exclusionary rule in the instant matter. The evidence complained of consists mostly of video surveillance obtained from Petitioner's neighbor in Kearny, New Jersey, and a North Arlington Police Department report. Both were obtained without need for a warrant. The other evidence Petitioner seeks to suppress, outlined in the brief in support of the motion, and also did not violate any rights of Petitioner.

Petitioner raises four additional points in the motion to suppress, all of which are without basis and do not merit discussion herein.

It must be noted herein that this matter is an administrative proceeding where the rules of evidence are relaxed. In an administrative hearing all relevant evidence is admissible. See Delguidice v. New Jersey Racing Comm'n, 100 N.J. 79 (1985).

I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's motion to suppress evidence should be denied.

Standard for Summary Decision

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery presented, as well as any affidavits which may have been filed with the application, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). If the motion is sufficiently supported, the non-moving party must demonstrate by affidavit that there is a genuine issue of fact which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, in order to prevail in such an application. Ibid. These provisions mirror the summary judgment language of R. 4:46-2(c) of the New Jersey Court Rules.

The motion judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . , are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). And even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536 (citation omitted).

In the instant matter there is no material fact in dispute. Petitioner did not submit anything to refute the factual assertions, or the documentary evidence in Certifications of Kathleen Marano, Dr. Oliver Stringham, Matthew Gilmore, and Jennifer Herrmann, Esq. Pointedly, there is no rebuttal at all to the observations of the North Arlington Police Department, Mr. Gilmore, Mr. O'Connor, or to the Kearny Police Department incident reports, all of which amply demonstrate that Petitioner is a resident of Kearny, New Jersey.

Further, Petitioner does not dispute what is clearly shown on the video evidence obtained from home surveillance camera of her neighbor in Kearny. Rather, Petitioner sought to have the same excluded.

I CONCLUDE that there is no dispute as to a material fact and that Respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted.

Right to a Free Public Education

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a),

> (a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:
>
> 1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;
>
> 2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;
> 3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;

> 4. Receipts; bills; cancelled checks; insurance claims or payments; and other evidence of expenditures demonstrating personal attachment to a particular location or to support the student;
>
> . . .
>
> 6. Affidavits, certifications and sworn attestations pertaining to statutory criteria for school attendance, from the parent, guardian, person keeping an "affidavit student," adult student, person(s) with whom a family is living, or others as appropriate;
>
> . . .
>
> 8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.
>
> (b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above, and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.
> (c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant, and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

In S.S. ex rel. A.S. and A.S. v. Board of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County, EDU 192-12, Initial Decision (August 26, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal, evidence submitted by an investigator hired by the Marlboro New Jersey School District to determine whether certain minor children who were enrolled in the school district in fact were domiciled therein within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) was sufficient to establish that the children in fact were not domiciled in the district during the period in question and, instead, supported a conclusion that the minors resided at their grandmother's home in Edison New Jersey. Even though their mother had submitted documentation of the type described in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a) that supported her claim that the minors were domiciled in Marlboro, the circumstances of the mother's employment, which included late hours, was such that the minors were properly found to be residing with their grandmother. On that basis, the administrative law judge recommended that the Department of Education find the mother liable for tuition for the minors.

In the instant matter the District provided substantially more than the report of an investigator hired by the District. Submitted were a North Arlington Police Department report wherein the police observed Petitioner at the Kearny residence; several Kearny Police Department incident reports involving Petitioner and a neighbor at the Kearny residence; and, video surveillance showing Petitioner, her husband, and her two sons coming and going from the Kearny residence and performing activities of daily living. The inescapable conclusion is that Petitioner resides in Kearny.

If a school district discovers that a non-resident child is attending one of its schools, the district may act to remove the child. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3. If so, the chief school administrator must first issue a notice of ineligibility. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.2, -4.3. The notice shall inform the parent of the right to a hearing before the school district and the right to appeal the school district's decision to the Commissioner of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-5.1. The notice shall also inform the parent whether the district's policy allows for continued attendance, with or without tuition, for students who move out of the district during the course of the school year. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.2(b)(7)(i). If, on appeal to the Commissioner, the parent fails to demonstrate his child's entitlement to attend the schools of the district, the parent may be liable for tuition for any period of ineligible attendance. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.2; N.J.A.C.6A:22-6.2, -6.3. Petitioner received adequate notice via a letter from the District Superintendent, Dr. Stringham. Petitioner's claim of a denial of due process must fail.

According to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(a), "[t]uition assessed pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be calculated on a per student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23-3.1."

Petitioner alleges that the District acted in an arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner in her appeal to the Commissioner of Education.

An action by a board of education "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965). Thus, in order to prevail, Petitioner "must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it." G.H. and E.H. ex rel. K.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bor. of Franklin Lakes, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014) (citation omitted), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, adopted, Comm'r (April 10, 2014). Also, a board's decision may be overturned if its determination violates the legislative policies expressed or implied in the governing act. J.A.H. ex rel. C.H. v. Twp. of Pittsgrove Bd. of Educ., EDU 10826-12, Initial Decision (March 11, 2013) (citing Campbell v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 39 N.J. 556, 562 (1963)), adopted, Comm'r (April 25, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Petitioner asserts nothing in the brief addressing these issues. Moreover, I cannot ascertain anything remotely arbitrary, unreasonable or capricious in the record regarding District's actions in this matter.

I CONCLUDE that Petitioner failed to demonstrate that D.Y. and W.Y. are entitled to attend the District's schools, that Petitioner is liable for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance and that Petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

ORDER

Based upon the forgoing, it is ORDERED that Respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's motion to suppress evidence is DENIED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED with prejudice; and,

- 2016-2017 school year, $3,514.50 for W.Y.

Total tuition to be reimbursed by Petitioner to Respondent totals $21,883.94.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. THE BANYAN SCHOOL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF SCHOOL FINANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – the Banyan School (Banyan), a private school for children with disabilities – appealed the determination of the respondent Office of School Finance (OSF) to classify certain employee payments in the 2012-2013 school year as "non-allowable bonuses". Banyan additionally sought to alter its tentative tuition rates to address the budgetary shortfall created by these disallowed 2012-2013 payments. Banyan filed its appeal with the Department of Education on April 23, 2015. The Department contended that the appeal must be dismissed for failure to file within the 90-day timeframe required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this matter, and the case is ripe for summary decision; OSF issued its final decision regarding the disallowance at issue here in a letter to petitioner dated June 30, 2014; petitioner's contention that this letter invited Banyan to pursue further discussions on the matter – and that no other communication was received prior to a March 18, 2015 letter that could be construed as notice of a final determination or Banyan's right to appeal – is without merit; no compelling circumstances exist in this case to relax the 90-day rule; additionally, petitioner failed to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petition must be dismissed with prejudice.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition is appropriately dismissed for failure to adhere to the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). In so deciding, the Commissioner found that the petitioner was required to file its appeal no later than 90 days from the date of receipt of respondent's final determination, which in this case was communicated to Banyan in a letter from OSF dated June 30, 2014. Banyan did not file its petition until April 23, 2015. Accordingly, the appeal was dismissed.

THE BANYAN SCHOOL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF SCHOOL FINANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed, along with petitioner The Banyan School's (Banyan) exceptions – filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and respondent New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of School Finance's (OSF) reply thereto.

In its exceptions, Banyan argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in failing to address the merits of its claims – i.e., the correctness of respondent's determination regarding allowable costs. Banyan reasons that the ALJ's failure to address the merits of Banyan's case is reversible error because the employee's payments were improperly treated as bonuses when they were instead made pursuant to the employee's contracts. Further, Banyan contends that that the 90-day limitations period should be relaxed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, because strict adherence would result in injustice as OSF failed to respond to Banyan's inquiries. Banyan argues that the ALJ's reliance on Polaha v. Buena Regional School District, 212 N.J. Super. 628 (App. Div. 1986) – for the proposition that when parties are engaged in ongoing conversations, the limitations period may be tolled – was misguided, as the case law does not specify the number of contacts parties must have, but rather the nature of the communications. Here, Banyan maintains that it reasonably expected OSF to respond to its communications and understood that the parties were engaged in ongoing discussions, which should have warranted the relaxation of the 90-day limitations period.

In reply, OSF argues that the ALJ correctly found that OSF's June 30, 2014 letter was a "clear-cut refusal" to revise its determination, and therefore Banyan's petition was time-barred. (Initial Decision at 7) OSF contends that the ALJ properly found that the circumstances did not warrant a relaxation of the limitations period as Banyan and OSF were not engaged in ongoing discussions. OSF disputes Banyan's argument that it understood the parties to be engaged in ongoing discussions, pointing out that Banyan made no attempt to discuss the matter with OSF for seven months, nor did OSF's June 30, 2014 letter invite any further discussion on the matter. Additionally, OSF argues that the ALJ correctly did not address the legal merits of Banyan's claims because the matter was filed out of time and failed to state a claim. OSF also maintains that the ALJ correctly refused to relax the limitations period because Banyan does not have a right to appeal the 2014-2015 tuition rate, as the regulations only permit such an appeal where the tentative tuition rate would cause undue financial hardship on the school. Accordingly, OSF argues that the Initial Decision should be adopted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the instant petition is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that OSF's June 30, 2014 letter was a definitive refusal to revise its published 2014-2015 tentative tuition rate. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ that there is no compelling reason to relax the 90-day limitations period. As such, according to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), Banyan had 90 days from June 30, 2014 to file a petition of appeal and failed to do so until April 23, 2015.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision – to the extent that it dismisses the petition as untimely – is adopted as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons stated therein. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 08696-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 89-4/15

THE BANYAN SCHOOL,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF SCHOOL FINANCE,
Respondent.

Vito A. Gagliardi, Jr., Esq., and Janelle Edwards-Stewart, Esq., for petitioner (Porzio, Bromberg, and Newman)

Caroline Jones, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Christopher S. Porrino, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 19, 2016 Decided: January 18, 2017

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, The Banyan School (Banyan), a private school for children with disabilities, appeals a determination by respondent the Office of School Finance (OSF) within the Department of Education, to classify payments made to one employee in the 2012-2013 school year as a non-allowable bonus. Additionally, if the Department's determination is not affirmed, Banyan seeks to alter its tentative tuition rates to address the budgetary shortfall then created.

The Department contends that petitioner failed to file the appeal within the ninety-day timeframe required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), and that as there is no mechanism for granting the relief that petitioner seeks, the appeal also should be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner's appeal was received at the Department of Education on April 23, 2015. The Department determined to treat the matter as a contested case, and was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 15, 2015. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge John F. Russo, Jr. The parties filed cross-motions for summary decision, which had not been addressed at the time that ALJ Russo left the OAL for the Superior Court in late December 2015. On January 4, 2016, the matter was transferred to the undersigned. Oral argument, which was adjourned from April 21, 2016, at the parties' request, occurred on July 18, 2016. The record then closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The parties disagree on which of the communications from the OSF counts as a final ruling. They also differ on the correctness of the OSF determination regarding allowable costs, and the related question of tuition treatment of those costs.

With regard to the "final ruling," the parties agree on the following facts. In general, as an approved private school for students with disabilities, petitioner charges tuition fees to public school districts that send students with learning disabilities to Banyan's lower school (for children in kindergarten through eighth grade) and its high school. The regulatory scheme set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2 provides for recovery of actual costs incurred by approved schools during the school year. The regulations provide a projected cost, known as a "tentative tuition rate," because an approved school cannot know its actual costs before the year begins. Thus, for each school year, the OSF sets the maximum tentative tuition rate for each approved school. These rates typically are established in January of the preceding school year, based upon the audited financial statements of the prior year. For example, the school year 2013-2014 rate would be established in January 2013, based on the audit of school year 2011-2012. The tentative rate is calculated by inflating the prior year's audit information by twice the spending-growth limitation of 2.5 percent. However, if the OSF is challenging any portion of the prior year's audit, the rate for that particular school is not released in January. Instead, the OSF issues a letter to the school, outlining its issues and requesting revisions. On receiving the revisions, the OSF provides a certified rate letter.

By letter dated April 30, 2014, the OSF issued a letter to petitioner stating that payment made to one employee during the 2012-2013 school year constituted a non-allowable bonus. Banyan was directed to file a revised audit report within thirty-five days, or have the OSF place it on conditional approval and preclude it from accepting new students. By letters dated May 8, 2014, and May 27, 2014, petitioner's accountant, Ronald Zuckerman, responded with a justification of the costs, asking the OSF to reverse its determination and to adjust the tentative 2014-2015 tuition rates accordingly. In a letter dated June 30, 2014, the OSF stated:

> As of April 30, 2014, the Department of Education published the 2014-2015 maximum tentative tuition rate for Banyan's Lower School ("Lower School").

It went on to note:

> . . . The information presented by Mr. Zuckerman does not change the determination of those non-allowable costs. . . . Absent compelling information, the Office of School Finance does not 'revise' its published 2014-2015 tentative tuition rate.
>
> Additionally, as you are aware a tentative rate is an interim rate, and may increase upon year end calculation of the certified actual cost per student. If the tentative tuition rate is less than the final tuition rate charged, the Lower School's management may charge each sending district board of education all or part > of the difference; thereby allowing the recovery of the difference between the tentative and final tuition rates charged.

> [Gagliardi Certif., Exh. B.]

The letter says nothing about a right of appeal.

Later, in response to a letter of March 11, 2015, from Vito A. Gargliardi, Jr., Esq., counsel to the petitioner, the OSF stated that it received his letter:

> . . . regarding the 2014-2015 tentative tuition rate for Banyan School (Lower) and seeking information on a formal appeal. In response to your May 27, 2014, inquiry on this matter, I issued a letter on June 30, 2014, on behalf of former Assistant Commissioner Corso, which detailed the Office of School Finance's position. The provisions regarding a formal appeal of this decision are contained in applicable code and specifically, N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10.
> [Id., Exh. C.]

As regards the substance of Banyan's appeal—whether the employee payments constituted unreimbursable bonuses—the respondent has not offered any information to rebut the certification of Ronald Zuckerman, the Board's accountant, regarding the circumstances surrounding the payments. (Zuckerman Certif., Exh. C.) Therefore, all of the following constitutes undisputed FACT.

The employee whose compensation was challenged by the OSF was given notice that her employment would be terminated at the close of the 2012-2013 school year. In response, the employee indicated to school personnel that she would begin to exhaust all her available leave time, which amounted to nine personal days and forty-three vacation days, which together had a value of $22,389.12. (Id., ¶¶ 11, 12, and 14.) Had she done so, Banyan would have been forced to hire a substitute administrator for the remainder of the year. As recorded in the minutes of the Banyan Board of Trustees, the employee was paid for her leave "as a concession for . . . remaining at the school through June 30, 2013." (Zuckerman Certif., Exh. A.) Her contract stated that either party could terminate without cause, upon sixty days' written notice of intention to terminate. The Banyan minutes also noted that if termination is not for cause, the employee "shall be entitled to either the notice required hereunder or the applicable pro rata compensation and benefits for the notice period at Banyan's option." (Id., Exh. C.) Banyan's employee handbook stated that staff members could bank up to fifteen days of personal leave, and depending on their status, would receive between eight and twelve days of personal leave annually. It allowed the banking of "unlimited vacation time," but also stated that "vacation time will only be reimbursed upon retirement or for medical reasons." (Zuckerman Certif., Exh. B.)

In its initial letter of April 30, 2014, the OSF noted that the employee received the $22,389.12, in addition to her regular salary, and that the handbook stated that vacation time was reimbursed upon retirement or for medical reasons. Since neither of the conditions for vacation reimbursement was met, the OSF took the position that payment of those funds constituted a bonus. (Console Certif., Exh. A.)

Additionally, the OSF said the per-diem payment amount was in error—it was $430.56, when it should have been $360.92. Thus, "the amount of $19,140.81 has been considered non-allowable costs when calculating the 2014-2015 tentative tuition rate." (Id., Exh. B.) In his letter of May 8, 2014, to the OSF, Zuckerman took issue with the per-diem payment, noting that the Essex County per diem, which was appropriate to use, was $612.27, well above the $430.56 the school had used. (Zuckerman Certif., Exh. AA). The OSF appears never to have addressed this particular argument.

According to Zuckerman, although the OSF letter made no mention of a second faculty member, who was paid $16,393.50, in the 2012-2013 year, and $21,858.00, in the 2013-2014 year, in connection with a retirement related to medical reasons, "it appears that its mislabeling of her payout has not been fully resolved, as no notice, corrected report, or monies have been properly forwarded." (Zuckerman Certif., ¶19.) Altogether, this meant that "Banyan's unrestricted funds must necessarily be reduced by $36,248.00 in order to cover the [unapproved] expenses for year ended June 30, 2013, and $22,795.00 for year ended June 30, 2014," or a total of $59,043.00. (Id., ¶21.) Additionally, "Banyan will be required to refund $19,228.00 to schools for year end June 30, 2013, and $41,775.00 for year end June 30, 2014," or a total of $61,003.00. (Id., ¶22.) With regard to Zuckerman's concerns about the second employee, the OSF appears never to have responded in writing to this concern—it neither verified the existence of a disagreement, nor stated that it had not disapproved that payment.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Summary decision may be granted when "the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The rule further provides that an adverse party must respond by affidavit setting forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined at an evidentiary hearing. Ibid. The OAL rule is modeled on New Jersey Court Rule 4:46-2. The New Jersey Supreme Court has explained that when deciding a motion for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2,

> . . . a determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.
> [Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995).]

Here, the parties have agreed on all the facts, although they dispute their legal significance. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the matter is appropriate for summary decision.

The OSF argues that Banyan failed to appeal timely, and therefore its petition must be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10(a), which address appeals of decisions regarding the calculation and approval of the tentative tuition rate, and conditional approval status pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.9(i), states that these determinations may be appealed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) states that to initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws,

> [t]he petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. This rule shall not apply in instances where a specific statute, regulation or court order provides for a period of limitation shorter than 90 days for the filing of a particular type of appeal.

The OSF issued its decision to petitioner on or about June 30, 2014. Therefore, the OSF argues, Banyan was required to file a petition of appeal on or before September 29, 2014, to meet the time requirements.

Banyan contends that the OSF letter of June 30, 2014, "invites Banyan to pursue further discussions and specifically indicates that these discussions should be had within its forum." It further contends that no communication prior to the March 18, 2015, letter gave notice of either final determination or Banyan's right to appeal. Therefore, the operative date for final decision was March 18, 2015, and Banyan filed within the ninety-day time frame.

Additionally, Banyan argues that the Commissioner should use his authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 to relax or dispense with procedural rules "in any case where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice."

With regard to the adequacy of notice, in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), the Supreme Court held that an unofficial and informal note stating that two positions had been created and filled was sufficient to trigger the start of the ninety-day period in which Kaprow could assert his tenure rights. The Court explained that "adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 587. Here, the June 2015 letter from the OSF said that the information presented by Mr. Zuckerman did not change its determination on non-allowable costs, and that the lower school rate was posted in April. It also said that "[a]bsent compelling information the Office of School Finance does not 'revise' its published 2014-2015 tentative tuition rate." I CONCLUDE that this was a clear-cut refusal, fulfilling the notice requirement.

In relation to relaxing the ninety-day rule, the case law makes clear that this occurs only under exceptional circumstances or if there is a compelling reason to do so. Id. at 590. In Polaha v. Buena Regional School District, 212 N.J. Super. 628, 635 (App. Div. 1986), the Appellate Division relaxed the ninety-day rule where evidence demonstrated that the petitioner and the respondent engaged in ongoing discussion in an attempt to "agree on an acceptable position."

Here, Banyan offered no evidence of numerous phone calls or communications between June 30, 2014, and February 2015. There is only the letter of February 2015, which mentioned the appeal information in a routine letter, answering a question from the District, that included a question on appeal rights. Thus, I CONCLUDE that because petitioner waited six months to make further inquiry, and nearly seven months, until April 23, 2015, to file its appeal, the petition must be dismissed as out of time.

Although dismissal for lack of timeliness is sufficient to decide the dispute, for completeness' sake, the issue with the mechanism for relief is addressed below.

The regulatory structure for determining tuition rates has two distinct pieces. The first, which is prospective, is the tentative tuition rate. The second is retrospective, occurring at the conclusion of the school year on June 30, when actual costs are known. The appeal language for tentative tuition rates in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10 states:

> (a) The decision of the Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance regarding the calculation of the tentative tuition rate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(j), regarding the approval of a tentative tuition rate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3 and regarding conditional approval status pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.9(i), may be appealed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3.
> (b) The decision of the Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance in regard to certification may be appealed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3.

The OSF contends that the language "calculation of the tentative tuition rate" only allows for complaints that the school faces undue financial hardship because "calculation" is limited by "pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(j)," which states, "The Commissioner may approve a higher tentative tuition rate for any year in which the approved private school for students with disabilities can prove to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the maximum tentative tuition rate for the year is not adequate and would cause an undue financial hardship on the private school." The section goes on to require such claims to be made by "no later than January 31 preceding the beginning of the ensuing school year." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(j)(1). It also states:

> 1. In the event of such hardship claim, the approved private school for students with disabilities shall submit its request for a higher tentative tuition rate for the entire school year to the Assistant Commissioner, Division of Finance no later than January 31 preceding the beginning of the ensuing school year. The approved private school for students with disabilities shall submit such request with appropriate documentation, which shall include, but may not be limited to, the following information:
> i. A budget reflecting projected costs, working capital fund or surcharge, estimated enrollment and the requested tuition rate based on this information;
>
> ii. A detailed explanation of the need for increases in excess of those already provided in the tentative tuition rate calculation; and
>
> iii. A financial report which is properly completed and in the format prescribed by the Commissioner for the six months of operations ending December 31 immediately preceding the school year. This report format is available at the Division of Finance, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500.

Banyan argues that even if it failed to demonstrate a hardship by January 31, that does not mean it has no remedy for the disputed amount. Petitioner points to the OSF's own explanation of the retrospective part of the process. At the close of the school year, which is June 30, approved schools have until November to provide audited financial statements that "reflect the certified actual cost(s) per students." N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.9(c).

> Once the year-end audit is complete, [the] OSF reviews the financial statements provided by the [approved schools] to > ensure compliance with applicable regulations. If the [school's] financial statements are compliant [the] OSF issues . . . 'a Certified Rate Letter' identifying the CACPS [certified actual cost per student] rate for the prior year. N.J.A.C. 6A:23-18.2(k). The [school] can either bill the sending school districts for the difference between the CACPS rate and the tentative rate, or if the CACPS is lower than the tentative rate already paid, the [school] issues refunds to the sending districts. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.2(m).

> [Resp. Br. at 2-4.]

This language, however, refers to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.10(b), which is an appeal of the certified rate letter, which is not the subject of this particular appeal. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petition must be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, as there is no appeal of tentative rates outside of the hardship provision, the school's two May submissions do not use the word "hardship," and the submissions do not include all of the information necessary to make a hardship claim. Moreover, a hardship application was due no later than January 31, 2016, and must have included a financial report for the six months of operations ending December 31, immediately preceding the school year.

ORDER

For both of the reasons cited above—failure to comply with the ninety-day rule for appeals, and failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted—the petition is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner in November 2014, seeking permission to enter Trenton Central High School to collect recyclable junk trash prior to the demolition of the school. The matter was transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed in January 2015.

The ALJ to whom the case was reassigned on January 23, 2017 placed a telephone call to the petitioner, and received the information that the school had already been demolished and there was no recyclable junk trash to collect. The ALJ sent a letter to the petitioner on January 23, 2017, outlining the history of the matter, attaching a withdrawal form for petitioner to sign and return. The ALJ's letter made clear that if petitioner did not respond by March 1, 2017, the matter would be dismissed as moot. As no response was received as of March 7, 2017, the ALJ ordered the matter dismissed on the grounds of mootness.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein.

Clinton Barlow, III, petitioner, pro se

Adam S. Herman, Esq., for respondent Board of Education of the City of Trenton (Adams, Guitierrez & Lattiboudere, L.L.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: March 7, 2017 Decided: March 7, 2017

BEFORE LAURA SANDERS, Acting Director & Chief ALJ:

On November 17, 2014, petitioner Clinton Barlow, III, filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking permission to enter Trenton Central High School to collect recyclable junk trash prior to the schools demolition. Respondent's answer to the verified complaint was received by the Department of Education on January 30, 2015. The Department of Education transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on January 29, 2015. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to

-15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was originally assigned to Administrative Judge Sarah G. Crowley, who on April 27, 2015, held a telephone prehearing conference and issued a prehearing order. It was determined on that call that Judge Crowley may recuse herself concerning a law suit brought against Mercer County by Mr. Barlow, unrelated to this matter, as Judge Crowley had worked for the Mercer County Counsel's office prior to her appointment as an ALJ. Judge Crowley did recuse herself and the matter was then re-assigned to Judge Schuster on May 4, 2015. As Judge Schuster is preparing to retire on April 1, 2017, the matter was then reassigned to the undersigned on January 23, 2017.

A telephone call made to petitioner yielded the answer that the high school had already been demolished and there was no recyclable junk trash to collect. The undersigned wrote to petitioner on January 23, 2017, outlining the history of the matter to date and asked that he sign and return the withdrawal form that was attached thereto. The letter stated that if I did not hear from him by March 1, 2017, I would dismiss the matter as moot. As of March 7, 2017, there has been no further communication from petitioner. Therefore, it is ORDERED that the appeal by Clinton Barlow, III, is DISMISSED on grounds of mootness.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This is a Decision on the Respondent's Motion for Summary Dismissal. On April 11, 2016, Dr. Mario Santos, Principal of the Petitioner's East Side High School, served the Respondent (James) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, with a Notice of Tenure Charges. Santos alleged that the Respondent was guilty of being chronically absent, being absent without leave, and being chronically tardy, all of which he claimed warranted James' dismissal or reduction of salary. Santos also alleged that James is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member for refusing to follow the Petitioner's (District) "sign in" procedures and for failing to fulfill her proctor responsibilities for State required testing. Santos claimed such conduct constituted insubordination.

On or about May 15, 2016, Respondent submitted a response to those charges. On June 27, 2016, the Petitioner's State District Superintendent having considered the charges, supporting evidence and the Respondent's submission, concluded that the charges, if credited, were sufficient to warrant Respondent's dismissal or reduction of salary, and he (the Superintendent) certified the charges to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 for a hearing in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

Based upon the Superintendent's June 27, 2016 certification, the Respondent was suspended pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 effective June 28, 2016. That suspension was without pay for 120 calendar days from that date. It is unclear whether the suspension continued with pay beginning on the 121st day after such certification and/or whether or when James returned to work.

On July 25, 2016, the Department's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) determined that the charges, if true, were sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary and it referred the matter to Arbitrator David Gregory pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

Although the sequence of events is not entirely clear thereafter, apparently, Arbitrator Gregory preferred to consider the matter through motion rather than conduct a hearing which prompted the Respondent to file its original Motion for Summary Dismissal on or about September 19, 2016. By letter of October 21, 2016 to the Bureau, the Petitioner expressed its reluctance to proceed by "motion only" and requested the case be transferred to another arbitrator.

Apparently, subsequent to the Petitioner's October request the parties engaged in settlement discussions. By January 25, 2017, however, the Petitioner notified the Bureau that settlement had not been reached and it renewed its request that the case be assigned to a new arbitrator.

This matter was formally assigned to me on February 16, 2017. On or about that date I received the Respondent's revised Motion for Summary Dismissal. After a request for an extension of time to which the Respondent consented, the Petitioner filed its response to that Motion on March 20, 2017.

BACKGROUND

The Respondent was a tenured social worker with the District in 2016 when on January 15, 2016, the Petitioner filed tenure charges against her alleging chronic absenteeism, tardiness and conduct unbecoming for allegedly failing to follow District signing in and out procedures encompassing the 2007-2008, 2008-2009 and 2014-2015 academic years. The District alleged that during the 2008-2009 and 2014-2015 school years James was warned several times about her excessive absenteeism and tardiness, and that her conduct could lead to disciplinary action. The District also alleged James engaged in conduct unbecoming by failing to appear to fulfill her proctor responsibilities for scheduled testing. The District's allegation included a claim that James was tardy 31 times by June 1, 2009 in the 2008-2009 school year; that she was tardy approximately 20 days by January 2015 in the 2014-2015 school year; and, that by May 2015 she had 18 absences in the 2014-2015 school year.

On February 18, 2016, the Respondent filed her answer to the January 2016 tenure charges. The Respondent alleged that since her hire in 2001, she never earned less than a "satisfactory" or "effective" annual evaluation or observation rating. The Respondent's answer alleged James stays late after class and performs volunteer work and it labeled the charges as arbitrary and capricious. It argued that the claims of James' alleged excessive absenteeism, tardiness and unbecoming conduct during 2014-2015 should be excluded from the tenure charges because all such issues were previously resolved between the parties. It also argued that the allegations of absences and tardiness in 2007-2008 and 2008-2009 were trivial and too far removed to support tenure charges.

The Petitioner did not certify the January 2016 tenure charges to the Commissioner and no further proceedings or action were taken on those charges. The charges giving rise to the Respondent's February 2017 Motion in this case were filed on April 11, 2016, which were similar to but more expansive than the charges filed against her in January 2016 which were not certified. In the April 2016 charges the Petitioner essentially alleged the same charges as it had in the January or original charges, that

James was chronically absent and chronically tardy, but it also added allegations covering the 2007-2008 through the 2015-2016 school years up to and including March 17, 2016. The Petitioner alleged that by March 2008 James had been absent 9 days to that point in the 2007-2008 school year and was warned about excessive absenteeism and not following proper sign in procedures in 2008. The April 2016 charges also alleged that in 2009 James was tardy 31 times by June of that year and that she had been warned about "unauthorized punching", or signing in at a different location without permission that same year.

The April 2016 charges alleged that James was absent 351 days or an average of 39 days per year since 2007. In those charges the Petitioner included the following list of days tardy for James:

School Year	Days Tardy	School Year	Days Tardy
2007-2008	44	2012-2013	13
2008-2009	71	2013-2014	56
2009-2010	70	2014-2015	38
2010-2011	106	2015-2016	20 (until 3/17/16)
2011-2012	101

Those charges further alleged that James was late 38 days in the 2014-2015 school year and was warned in January 2015 about being tardy 20 days. The Petitioner alleged that after a March 2, 2015 agreement to fine James one days pay for excessive absenteeism and tardiness it warned her again for excessive absenteeism

The April 2016 charges also alleged that on May 14, 2015, James was warned about both excessive absenteeism and tardiness and she was docked a day's pay for allegedly being absent without leave (AWOL) on that day. The charges noted that James was warned discipline, including tenure charges would be filed against her.

The Petitioner concluded its April 2016 charges alleging that: James was warned about failing to comply with sign-in and out procedures in 2008 and 2009; she was warned on November 24, 2014 that her unauthorized punches could lead to discipline; and, that she had failed to fulfill her proctor responsibilities on April 30 and May 5, 2015.

In its May 13, 2016 Answer to the April charges, the Respondent argued that the number of absences and days tardy alleged by the Petitioner were misleading and inaccurate. It claimed that many of the alleged absences actually were summer days and it claimed that 286 of the 351 days of alleged absences were incorrect.

The Respondent also claimed that many of the absences alleged by the District included time not subject to discipline such as FMLA time. The Respondent alleged James had 126 occasional absences from 2007-2008 through 2015-2016 or an average of 14 absences per year.

The Respondent also noted that 204 of the alleged days tardy from 2007-2008 through 2015-2016 were within 5 minutes of the start of school. Respondent acknowledged 31 days tardy during 2008-2009, but claimed James needed to provide care for her mother prior to the start of classes. Respondent also claimed that most of her absences in 2014-2015 were taken for legitimate medical reasons and she denied being AWOL on May 14, 2015.

Finally, the Respondent denied she failed to fulfill the proctor assignment and she denied being insubordinate.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES ON THE MOTION

RESPONDENT

The Respondent presented five arguments to support its Motion. In Point I it argued that all of the tenure charges be dismissed with prejudice because the Petitioner failed to comply with *N.J.S.A.*18A:6-13.

That statute provides as follows:

> Dismissal of charge for failure of determination by board.
> 18A:6-13. If the board does not make such a determination within 45 days after receipt of the written charge, the charge shall be deemed to be dismissed and no further proceeding or action shall be taken thereon.

The Respondent contends that pursuant to the above statute the District is prohibited from pursuing the April tenure charges against James because it took no action on the charges filed in January 2016 within the time provided by the Statute. Noting that the initial charges were filed on January 15, 2016 and answered on February 18, 2016, the Respondent argued that the District was required to certify charges by April 4, 2016.

Arguing that the District simply disregarded the original tenure charges, the Respondent contends that the District was attempting to circumvent the rules by refilling tenure charges in April 2016 based upon the same underlying allegations of excessive absenteeism, tardiness and conduct unbecoming that it alleged in the January 2016 charges. According to the Respondent, the TEACH NJ statutory requirements must be strictly followed and enforced, and it claims that arbitrators have enforced such compliance with the statute's deadlines. Noting that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 uses the word "shall"; the Respondent argues its wording indicates a mandatory intent that charges be dismissed when no further proceedings were taken thereon.

The Respondent argues that based upon the statute's wording her rights were violated by the District's re-filing of charges in April. Therefore, it contends that those charges should now be dismissed with prejudice by operation of law.

In Point II of its Motion the Respondent, relying upon the Doctrine of Industrial Double Jeopardy, argued that since James' salary was docked on March 2, 2015 by a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) between the parties, and because her pay was docked again on May 14, 2015 for allegedly being AWOL, that she cannot be punished a second time for the same offenses that have already resulted in discipline. The Respondent relied upon arbitration decisions governed by TEACH NJ to support its argument. See, In re Jill Buglovsky, Agency Docket No. 265-9/12, final decision (12/21/12) confirmed, Buglovsky v. Randolph Twp. B.E., Docket No. MRS-C-13-13 (7/16/13); In re Nikita Clarke-Huff, Agency Docket No. 290-9/15, final decision (11/16/15); and, In re John Carlomagno, Agency Docket No. 180-8/13, final decision (12/20/13).

The MOA referred to above was an agreement between the District and James and the Newark Teachers Union signed on March 2, 2015. It noted that James had (to that point) arrived late on 27 occasions during the 2014-2015 school year and had been conferenced and warned regarding her excessive tardiness. The parties to the MOA agreed that James would be fined one days pay ($458.32) which was for March 2, 2015, which would constitute full and final resolution of all issues regarding James' unsatisfactory attendance during the 2014-2015 school year. The docking of her pay for allegedly being AWOL on May 14, 2015 obviously occurred after the MOA was signed.

The Notice provision near the end of the MOA puts James on notice that future excessive tardiness:

> . . . will result in more harsh disciplinary consequences up to, and including, withholding of increments, tenure charges and removal from employment.

The MOA concludes with a paragraph explaining the "Binding Nature of Agreement" which states that neither James nor her Union can appeal the MOA and that Section concludes with the following pertinent language:

> . . . all issues encompassed by the within Agreement are fully and forever resolved by and between the parties.

In the Buglovsky case the teacher had been charged with inappropriate conduct and misuse of a board computer and internet during work time over a period of years. For conduct occurring during the 2008-2009 school year she received a written reprimand on April 27, 2009. Additional charges alleged similar and continued misconduct through 2011-2012. Relying on the decision in Desly Getty, OAL Docket No. EDU 08750-08 (6/14/09), and with support found in Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 5th Ed. pp. 923-925 (1997), the Arbitrator applied a double jeopardy theory and dismissed the 2008-2009 charges for which the teacher had already been disciplined. The Arbitrator in Buglovsky also found that certain employee conduct that the Board allowed to continue without discipline was no longer actionable due to the passage of time and the employee's subsequent good behavior.

In the Clarke-Huff case a teacher's increment was withheld in 2011 based upon absenteeism extending between 1996 and a point in 2011. The teacher's absenteeism continued from a point in 2011 through the 2014-2015 school year and the Board filed tenure charges in part based upon all of her absenteeism. The Arbitrator sustained the Respondent's Motion to Dismiss the charges related to the absenteeism for which she had already been disciplined based upon a double jeopardy theory and barred the Board from seeking additional discipline on those matters.

In the Carlomagno case, charges were filed and certified during 2013 based upon the employee's conduct during the 2011-2012 and 2012-2013 school years. Relying upon both Brand and Biren, Discipline and Discharge in Arbitration, 2nd Ed. p.54 (2008) and Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, 7th Ed., Ch. 15.3F and the decisions in Buglovsky, and I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Frank Flood, Cumberland County Technical Education Center, Docket No. 95-5/13 (7/29/13), the Arbitrator held that under the double jeopardy theory the teacher could not be disciplined again for certain aggressive and unprofessional conduct in December 2012 for which he had already been disciplined. The Arbitrator in the Flood case noted that while the prior disciplined conduct could be considered for progressive discipline purposes for future discipline, the prior disciplined conduct could not be subject to additional discipline.

Emphasizing that the District's withholding of James' salary on March 2 and May 14, 2015 was a significant form of discipline covering 2014-2015, and because the Respondent noted that the District did not claim any infractions subsequent to James' May 14, 2015 suspension, it argued that charges focusing on her attendance record must be dismissed.

In Point III of her Motion, Respondent argues that all the claims of excessive absenteeism and tardiness preceding the MOA signed in March 2015 must be dismissed with prejudice based upon the Doctrine of Res Judicata. Basically, the Respondent is arguing that by entering into the MOA, James agreed to an unpaid suspension in exchange for not being further disciplined for any attendance issues preceding its ratification, and that since any prior attendance issues have been resolved, then res judicata prevents the District from pursuing any more discipline of James based upon her prior attendance/tardiness issues.

The Respondent further argued in its brief that based upon the wording of the MOA "James would be subject to disciplinary action only for future instances of excessive absenteeism and tardiness". The language the Respondent appears to refer to near the end of the MOA is as follows:

> Ms. James is placed on notice that future excessive tardiness will result in more harsh disciplinary consequences up to, and including, withholding of increments, tenure charges and removal from employment.

In Point IV of her Motion the Respondent argues that the tenure charges must be dismissed with prejudice based upon the Doctrines of Estoppel, Laches and Waiver because the District failed to address James' alleged attendance issues from 2008-2009 through the 2013-2014 school years contemporaneously to when the alleged offenses were allegedly committed. The Respondent argues that too much time has passed for James to be able to defend her record back to 2008. It claims she would be unable to recall or prove the circumstances of every alleged tardy or absence issue which would prejudice her ability to defend against the charges.

Relying on Buglovsky, supra, the Respondent argued that the Arbitrator in that case dismissed attendance related charges dating back five years that were not previously prosecuted because those charges were too far removed from the alleged offense.

Finally, in Point V of her Motion the Respondent argued that the tenure charges must be dismissed with prejudice based upon the Doctrine of Unclean Hands because the District failed to follow the disciplinary protocol under the Attendance Improvement Plan regarding James' alleged excessive absenteeism and tardiness. The Respondent explained that the District mostly failed to hold conferences, issue warning notices or recommend disciplinary action as the Plan provided. Respondent alleges that despite the District's claim that James was tardy 348 times from 2009-2010 to 2013-2014, no conferences were held, no warning letters issued and no disciplinary action was recommended. By failing to take such timely action in accordance with the Plan the Respondent argues that the District denied James her due process protections.

The Respondent seeks dismissal of all charges with prejudice and an order reimbursing James for salary and benefits that had been withheld.

PETITIONER

The Petitioner presented four arguments in opposition to the Respondent's Motion. In Point I of its response the Petitioner addressed the procedural argument the Respondent made regarding the impact in this case of the 45 day rule in 18A:6-13 on the District's failure to certify the original charges filed against James in January 2016. The Petitioner explained that after the original charges were filed it uncovered a history of poor attendance and, therefore, expanded its charges.

The Petitioner argued that the original charges simply were not litigated and that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 did not prevent the filing of the new charges. It cited two cases to support its argument. In The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Debra Suitt-Green, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, OAL Docket No. EDU 7071-96 (October 14, 1997), the District did not find probable cause to certify charges against a teacher. The District subsequently filed charges against the same teacher based upon both the incidents listed in the prior charges in combination with new incidents. The Respondent moved to dismiss the case relying on N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 and arguing that based upon the Statute the District could not re-file charges based upon incidents previously considered and not certified. The ALJ rejected the Motion and found such prior incidents could be reconsidered. The Commissioner affirmed.

In The State Operated School District of the City of Newark v. Victoia Jakubiak, OAL Docket No. EDU 3961-97 (December 22, 1998), charges were initially filed on December 9, 1996 but were not certified. The charges were re-filed – same as before – on February 19, 1997. The Respondent sought to dismiss those charges based on its reading of 18A:6-13. The ALJ, citing to Suitt-Green, denied the Respondent's Motion in that case. The Petitioner here seeks the same result here.

In Point II of its response to the Motion, the Petitioner here argued that the limited release language contained in the MOA does not prevent the 2014-2015 charges from being considered in this case. The Petitioner noted that the parties' collective agreement permits fines and penalties and that the MOA language expressly contemplates potential future disciplinary action including termination. Petitioner further argued that James was disciplined in May 2015, subsequent to the MOA and that there was no basis to conclude that the totality of James' attendance record could not be reviewed in a tenure case merely because a minor penalty had been previously agreed upon.

In Point III of its response to the Motion, the Petitioner emphasized that this case is about excessive absenteeism and that there are many cases by the Commissioner and arbitrators holding that even legitimate absences when numerous can be the basis for termination. The Petitioner cited Commissioner decisions: In the Matter of the Tenure

Hearing of Alicia Dugan, School District of the City of Jersey City 6/14/12 (#244-12); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Lisa Rosa, School District of the City of Jersey City 9/1/11 (#368-11); In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frances R. Metallo, School District of the City of Union City 5/12/03 (#244-03); and, arbitration decisions: Burke and the State Operated School District of the City of Camden, Docket No. 5-1/13 (March 30, 2015); Stapleton and the Jersey City Board of Education, Docket No. 284-9/12 (March 20, 2013); and, Lenore Francis and the Jersey City Board of Education, Docket No. 285-9/12 (January 10, 2013) to support its position that excessive absenteeism, even if based upon legitimate reasons, are grounds for termination.

The Petitioner also cited to well known treatises used in arbitration to support that position. Elkouri and Elkouri, How Arbitration Works, p. 822 (6th Edition); and Brand and Biren, Discipline and Discharge in Arbitration, 2nd Edition, p. 124 (2008).

In the presentation of Point III the Petitioner appears to argue that I should consider the merits of James' absences and how she reacted and communicated concerning those absences.

In Point IV of its response to the Motion, the Petitioner emphasized the strong public interest in monitoring teacher attendance and it argued that a full factual hearing is warranted here despite the asserted legal defenses in order to consider and weigh the facts and legal issues.

DISCUSSION

In considering all the above arguments, I remind the parties that currently the merits of the allegations against James – no matter how egregious they may appear – are not before me for determination. Rather, based upon the Respondent's Motion my jurisdiction at this time is limited to determining what if any allegations in the April tenure charges may proceed to a hearing de novo. Consequently, despite the Petitioner's specific allegations, many of which the Respondent has disputed, I will not resolve the viability of those allegations in this Decision. I will, instead, only determine which, if any, allegations may proceed to hearing.

In Point I of its Motion the Respondent argued that all of the charges filed by the District in April 2016 be dismissed because the District allegedly violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 by failing to certify to the Commissioner within 45 days all the original charges it filed against James in January 2016. In its brief, the Respondent argued that tenure charges along with an employee's response must be presented to a board of education to decide whether probable cause exists to warrant the employee's dismissal or reduction in salary and if so, the charges must be certified to the Commissioner. The language in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13, however, does not contain such specific requirements.

In fact, the language in that Statute does not require a board to make any determination. It merely says that if a board does not make a determination – presumably whether or not to certify charges to the Commissioner – within 45 days (of when the charges were filed), then the charges that were filed be deemed dismissed and no further proceeding or action be taken thereon – presumably on the charges filed at that time. The pertinent statutory language appears to be a mechanism to automatically dismiss tenure charges if a board has not acted on them within 45 days – presumably to prevent such charges from lingering for an extended period of time. The ending language in that Statute "no further proceeding or action shall be taken thereon" appears to refer back to the charge(s) that was (were) dismissed and appears to have been intended to ensure that no further action be taken on that which was dismissed, once again to prevent those charges from lingering and creating doubt for the respondent. But the language in 18A:6-13 does not say a board cannot re-file previous charges. That is, the Statute does not say a board cannot serve a new filing on a respondent which includes charges that had been contained in an earlier dismissed filing.

The Suitt-Green and Jakubiak decisions support that view, holding that charges previously dismissed by operation of 18A:6-13 may be re-filed and reconsidered in subsequent charges particularly if the new charges are filed in close proximate time to the original charges. The same result was reached in I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Sabino Valdes, Union City School District, OAL Docket No. EDU 3620-1 (8/9/01), confirmed Valdes v. City of Union City Board of Education, Docket No. A-1337-04T3 (App. Div. 1/22/07), certification denied (5/15/07).

In Valdes the ALJ held that the Board's failure to certify charges within the time provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 required those charges be dismissed. But he also held that lacking any judicial decisions to the contrary and based upon Department of Education decisions, such dismissals are without prejudice to the right of the Board to re-file such charges. The Appellate Division agreed. Noting that the Board did not rule on the merits of the initial charges and the re-filing occurred within a reasonable time, the Court held:

> We conclude that so long as an employee has not been prejudiced by a re-filing of charges within a reasonable period of time, the passage of the statutory time period from the filing of the initial charges should be viewed as a dismissal without prejudice. (slip opinion p. 5).

That same result is appropriate here. After the initial tenure charges were filed on January 15, 2016, the District continued to examine James' records and re-filed the charges on April 11, 2016. I find that the January charges were dismissed by operation of law (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13) but without prejudice, and that the re-filing in April occurred within a reasonable time of the initial filing. Other than the fact that the Respondent needed to continue to litigate over this matter, and noting that James has either continued to work or at least been paid (after 120 days of suspension) the Respondent did not demonstrate that it was otherwise prejudiced by the re-filing of charges.

Consequently, based upon the above discussion I find that the January 2016 tenure charges were dismissed without prejudice. Thus, the District did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 by re-filing tenure charges in April 2016. Accordingly, the Respondent"s Motion for Summary Dismissal based upon its first Point is denied.

In Point II of its Motion the Respondent, relying on a theory of double jeopardy, vigorously argued that tenure charges based upon any of her conduct in the 2014-2015 school year be dismissed because she has already been disciplined for such conduct as evidenced by: 1) the MOA signed on March 2, 2015 which docked her pay; and, 2) the subsequent additional docking of her pay on May 14, 2015. The Respondent essentially made the same argument relying on a res judicata theory in Point III of her Motion. Respondent relied upon Buglovsky; Clarke-Huff and Carlomango to support her argument.

The concept of double jeopardy in the labor relations context has been frequently applied. Discipline and Discharge in Arbitration at p. 54 explains:

> Fundamental concepts of justice and fairness require that once an employee has been disciplined for misconduct, the employee will not again be subject to discipline for the same offense. ...Double jeopardy concepts also preclude increasing the penalty for a violation after discipline has been imposed.

In its response to the Motion, the Petitioner argued that the MOA contained "limited release language" which it claims does not prevent consideration of all tenure charges. The Petitioner's argument appears to be based on several things: 1) the language in the Notice Section of the MOA that future excessive tardiness will result in more harsh disciplinary consequences; 2) the fact that James was disciplined for conduct on May 14, 2015, subsequent to the MOA; and 3) apparently because – in the Petitioner's words – the "minor penalty" (presumably the one day docking of pay) could not block the review of the totality of James' attendance record.

Although the MOA seems to primarily concern tardiness, I find that the third specific agreement listed therein broadened the purpose of the MOA to include absenteeism. The pertinent language provides:

> 3. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement constitutes full and final resolution of all issues regarding Ms. James unsatisfactory attendance during the 2014-2015 school year.

The Petitioner seemed to dismiss the Respondent's double jeopardy argument by claiming that the MOA language was limited and that the Respondent's argument was unsound for several reasons. First; because the collective negotiations agreement presumably covering James, permits fines or penalties as an exception to tenure charges; second, because the MOA expressly contemplates potential future discipline; third, because James was disciplined again in May 2015; and fourth, because the agreed upon penalty was minor.

Those arguments are not persuasive to defeat Respondent's Motion. Although the MOA does state that future excessive tardiness will result in more harsh discipline, that document clearly and unequivocally also states that said Agreement:

> . . .constitutes full and final resolution of all issues regarding Ms. James unsatisfactory attendance during the 2014-2015 school year.

If the District did not intend that Agreement to cover all of James' attendance issues for the entire 2014-2015 school year, which I believe was intended to cover tardiness and absenteeism, I would think it would not have agreed to that specific language in that Agreement. The discipline for May 14, 2015 while "attendance" related, was for allegedly being AWOL which differs from tardiness or approved absenteeism, it did not negate the "attendance" language in the MOA. In fact, the discipline in May 2015 demonstrated that the District was willing and capable of taking action against James contemporaneously with an alleged infraction, something it clearly choose not to do in the years preceding 2014-2015.

The Petitioner in its brief also spent considerable time arguing why excessive absenteeism is a legitimate basis for dismissing a teacher even when the absences were "justified" and "approved". I don't doubt the Petitioner's argument in that regard or the cases cited in support thereof, but that is more an argument over the merits of the allegations in the charges and potential discipline therefrom, none of which is before me at this time. As explained earlier, I am only determining here, what, if any, allegations may proceed to hearing.

Having considered the parties' positions as well as the decisions and legal treatises cited above I find the double jeopardy concept as well as res judicata apply in this case, at least with respect to all attendance - tardy and absentee - allegations against James for all of the 2014-2015 school year as specifically stated in the MOA. Similarly, double jeopardy applies for the alleged AWOL event of May 14, 2015 for which James was docked a full days pay.

Double jeopardy and res judicata, however, do not apply to alleged sign-in or out procedures or proctor failures that may have occurred in the 2014-2015 school year because the MOA was, by its own terms, limited to attendance issues for that year which, I find, only included absenteeism and tardiness. Nor did those legal concepts apply to the 20 alleged tardy days in the 2015-2016 school year alleged in the April tenure charges because the MOA was limited to 2014-2015.

Consequently, based upon the MOA and the docking on May 14, 2015, the Motion is sustained regarding all attendance – absentee and tardy – allegations and the AWOL allegation against James for the 2014-2015 school year. The District may not proceed to hearing on any of those charges/allegations. However, the Motion is denied regarding: 1) the alleged November 24, 2014 warning about unauthorized punches; 2) James alleged failure to perform proctor duties on April 30 and May 5, 2015; and, 3) the allegation that James was tardy 20 times during the 2015-2016 school year. The Petitioner may proceed on those charges/allegations but may not expand on those specific charges.

Based upon its application of Buglovsky, the Respondent in Point IV of its Motion essentially argued that the District's inaction until 2016 waived any right it may have had to proceed on the 2008-2009 through 2013-2014 charges/allegations against James. I agree for the same reasons expressed in that decision. Although the Petitioner in Point IV of its response to the Motion argued public interest considerations for wanting a hearing on all of the charges it filed in April 2016, I note it was the District's burden to proceed with timely charges which would have protected both the public interest and James' due process rights.

In this case the District has sought to litigate over absenteeism and tardiness allegedly occurring as much as eight years before the filing of the 2016 tenure charges. Here, one could infer that if James had as poor an absence/tardy record as alleged – and one which the District determined was unacceptable – the District would have taken vigorous action against James much sooner, certainly at various times during the 2008-2009 through 2013-2014 time period. But other than warning James, it does not appear that the District thought James' record serious enough to take further action during that time. James was allowed to continue working even during the time when she was allegedly continuing to accumulate an absence and tardy record. Either the District was derelict in its duty to earlier file tenure charges, or it had determined that James' conduct – though troublesome – did not justify such action. I tend to believe the latter. In either case, it appears to me that James' conduct in 2014-2015 was the catalyst for the 2016 charges and that the allegations of excessive absences/days tardy prior thereto was merely added for effect.

When considering the fact that the District, through the 2015 MOA, resolved what was alleged to have been a significant number of absences and days tardy during the 2014-2015 school year with only a one day salary penalty, and did not even address any of the alleged absenteeism and tardiness occurring prior thereto, I infer that the District did not appear to consider that such prior conduct justified serious discipline. With that in mind, and noting the significant delay between the alleged prior absences and days tardy and the filing of the instant charges, it appears to me that it would be fundamentally unfair and violate James' due process to proceed now on conduct arising prior to the 2014-2015 school year. The District had amply opportunity between 2008-2009 and 2013-2014 to contemporaneously proceed on charges concerning conduct during those years. Having failed to do so during the appropriate time period, it waived the right to add charges from those years to the 2014-2015 charges in this case. I, therefore, sustain the Motion with respect to all allegations of conduct occurring prior to the 2014-2015 school year. The Petitioner may not proceed on any charges prior to that year.

Accordingly, based upon all of the above I issue the following:

The parties have entered into an Employment Separation Agreement (copy enclosed) in resolution of the above referenced matter. I have reviewed the Agreement and found it to be in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. As indicated in Item 3 of the Agreement, page two, "The parties mutually irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights, whether known or unknown which they have or may have against each other, personally and officially, individually and collectively…."

The Separation Agreement came about after extensive discussions at which the nature of the charges were fully presented and known to Ms. Smith. Both parties have freely entered into this Agreement and both have signed the Agreement. As noted on page five (5) of the Agreement, Ms. Smith acknowledged her understanding of the agreement which had been negotiated by her attorney with her knowledge and consent. Both parties have acknowledged, page one (1) of the Agreement, that the Agreement is in their mutual interest and I find it to be in the public interest.

EMPLOYMENT SEPARATION AGREEMENT

This Employment Separation Agreement (the "Agreement") is made by and between JOANN SMITH ("SMITH") and the STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF PATERSON (the "BOARD"). The signatories to this Agreement will be referred to collectively and/or jointly, as appropriate, as the "Parties."

WHEREAS, the BOARD and SMITH have consulted with each other, and with their respective counsel, and have determined that it would be in their mutual best interest that SMITH and the BOARD end their employer-employee relationship; and

WHEREAS, on the basis of the foregoing, SMITH will resign her tenured position, as a teaching staff member with the BOARD, effective April 30, 2017 and the BOARD, in turn, agrees to provide certain consideration to SMITH in connection with her transition from employment with the BOARD.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises, covenants and obligations contained herein, the Parties agree as follows:

1. At the time of execution of this Agreement, SMITH will submit a letter of resignation of her position with the BOARD to be effective April 30, 2017. The letter of resignation shall be in the form attached hereto as Appendix A and is made part of this Agreement. It is understood that Smith's resignation from her position with the Board is final, binding and irrevocable. The Board will maintain SMITH on paid administrative leave under the terms of the CBA with the Paterson Education Association until April 30, 2017, including back pay for the period of her unpaid suspension. Her contractual health benefits shall continue through April 30, 2017. Thereafter, SMITH may obtain health coverage through COBRA.

2. Neither the BOARD nor SMITH, nor anyone acting on behalf of SMITH, shall take any adversarial action against each other arising out of SMITH's employment with the BOARD, whether by grievance, complaint, litigation, investigation or otherwise. To that end, the parties mutually release each other from and against any and all claims and potential claims arising out of or in connection with their mutual employment relationship except for any workers compensation, unemployment or disability related claims that SMITH may have. By signing this Agreement, SMITH represents that she is unaware of any facts that would give her a basis for a claim for workers' compensation or disability benefits.

3. The parties mutually irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against each other, personally and officially, individually and collectively, against past and present Board members, officers and administrators, its agents and employees, personally and officially, as well as their successors and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorney's fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this settlement, and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal

Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any and all other claims for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (referred to hereinabove as "COBRA"), the New Jersey Workers Compensation Act, any claim to unemployment benefits to which a party may be entitled and her right to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

4. The BOARD will also grant SMITH permission to make arrangements with the building administration to enter her place of employment for the purpose of removing any of her personal records and belongings and returning any property belonging to the BOARD. SMITH agrees that on or before March 1, 2017, she will return to the BOARD all BOARD property including, but not limited to, keys, identification cards, computers, etc.

5. The BOARD shall continue to provide contractual medical, dental, prescription and vision health insurance benefits to SMITH through April 30, 2017. SMITH will be eligible to continue health insurance benefits thereafter at her expense through COBRA.

6. SMITH agrees that she will not seek reemployment with the BOARD now or in the future, and if she does, she understands that the BOARD will not be obligated to consider her for re-employment. SMITH further agrees that she and/or anyone acting on her behalf has no right to challenge and will not challenge or otherwise institute an action over the BOARD's failure to process or consider any such application for reemployment or reinstatement.
7. SMITH agrees that she is not owed any further monies or benefits from the BOARD, whether by way of collective bargaining agreement, BOARD policy or otherwise, and the BOARD is not obligated to make any further payments to SMITH, except as expressly provided herein.
8. The Parties acknowledge that they have read the agreement and understand all of its terms, that they have consulted with counsel, and that their agreement is executed voluntarily, without duress, and with full knowledge of its legal significance.
9. This Agreement constitutes the complete agreement between the parties. It may not be altered or amended, except in writing, with the same formality as this agreement. SMITH acknowledges and agrees that this Agreement will not be enforceable until formally approved by Resolution of the Board of Education.
10. SMITH acknowledges that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 17:1-6.3, the BOARD may be required to disclose this agreement to the Division of Pensions.

11. SMITH acknowledges that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.3 and Child M. v. Fennes, 2016 WL 4473253 (App. Div. 2016) (unreported), this matter must be referred to the State Board of Examiners.

12. Employee acknowledges that she is releasing all rights and claims arising under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act. To satisfy the requirements of the Older Workers' Benefit Protection Act, 29 U.S.C. § 626(f), the parties agree as follows:

a. Employee acknowledges that she has read and understands the terms of this Agreement.

b. Employee is hereby advised to consult with an attorney prior to executing this Agreement. Employee represents that she has consulted with her attorney of record in the Action, Gail Oxfeld Kanef, Esq., and has received all advice she deems necessary concerning this Agreement.

c. Employee acknowledges that she has twenty-one (21) days to consider this Agreement, although she may, in the exercise of her own discretion, sign or reject it at any time before the expiration of the twenty-one (21) day period. Employee acknowledges that she has taken as much time as necessary to consider whether to enter into this Agreement, and has chosen to enter this Agreement freely, knowingly, and voluntarily.

d. For a seven (7) day period following the execution of this Agreement, Employee may revoke this Agreement by delivering a written revocation to the law firm of Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, attorneys for Employer, 25 Independence Blvd, Warren, NJ 07059. This Agreement will not become effective or enforceable until after the end of this revocation period.

WHEREFORE, having fully read and understood the terms of this Agreement, the Parties sign their names below with the intention that they shall be bound by it.

THE ISSUE:

The issue for arbitral determination is:

Has the District established that Mr. Masullo engaged in misconduct alleged in the charge brought against him? If so what shall be the penalty?

THE CHARGE[1]

> Christopher J. Masullo, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the South Hackensack Board of Education, engaged in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member when he disconnected a loudspeaker in his Computer Lab classroom without permission, thus jeopardizing the health and safety of students and staff, since he could not hear emergency notifications (such as a school security drill or actual bomb threat, active shooter situation, etc.), and such action alone (and certainly when combined with Mr. Masullo's attempt to cover up his actions and his prior incidents of misconduct), justifies dismissal from his teaching position.

(Emphasis in the original).

[1] There are numerous specifications to the Charge which will not be set forth herein.

BACKGROUND

A. Mr. Masullo's History in the District

Mr. Masullo, a teacher for twenty years, was hired by the District in 2007. Mr. Masullo is a sixth-grade math teacher and is a computer teacher for students in grades Pre-K through 8. He teaches at the District's Memorial School.

Throughout most of Mr. Masullo's employment in the District, Dr. William DeFabiis ("DeFabiis") served as both District Superintendent of Schools and Principal of Memorial School. Dr. DeFabiis retired in June 2013, and was succeeded by the present District Superintendent and Principal, Dr. Gregorio Maceri.

Dr. DeFabiis testified that Mr. Masullo was an excellent teacher, and an invaluable staff member who took initiative and worked with staff members to solve problems with electronic technology. As Mr. Masullo's supervisor, Dr. DeFabiis prepared observation reports (Respondent Exs. 1, 2, 3 and 6), and performance reports concerning Mr. Masullo. (Respondent Exs. 4 and 5). These observation reports and performance reports were uniformly positive. Each of the observation reports concluded with the phrase "Keep up the good work!" The performance reports had three possible ratings for 38 separate criteria. These ratings were: satisfactory, needs improvement and unsatisfactory. In both 2013 and 2012, Dr. DeFabiis rated Mr. Masullo as satisfactory in each of the 38 criteria. In both years, Dr. DeFabiis recommended that Mr. Masullo receive a salary increment. (Respondent Exs. 4 and 5).

Dr. DeFabiis' testimony was not uniformly positive regarding Mr. Masullo's performance. Dr. DeFabiis testified that on two separate occasions he had a strict talk with Mr. Masullo about the teacher's interactions with other staff members[2].

On May 10, 2016, Dr. Maceri prepared a Teacher Summary Rating form for Mr. Masullo. That form contains twenty-seven different criteria concerning teacher performance. Dr. Maceri rated Mr. Masullo as proficient in one category, accomplished in sixteen categories, and distinguished in ten categories. There were no comments in the section entitled "Recommended Actions for Improvement." The final comment on the document stated in pertinent part: "Mr. Masullo is encouraged to continue his approach of locating and implementing new and innovative methods of improving student achievement." (Respondents Ex. 9).

B. Mr. Masullo's Classroom and the Loudspeaker

Because Mr. Masullo is a computer teacher for the District's Pre-K to 8th grade students, his primary classroom is the Computer Lab. The Computer Lab is in a glass enclosed room that adjoins the Memorial School Library. There are low ceilings in the Computer Lab, and there is no sound buffering or dampening system in the room.

Each classroom and office in the Memorial School has a loudspeaker embedded in the ceiling of the room. The loudspeaker is used to make school announcements, and to announce security drills including "bomb drills" and "active shooter drills." (There is a separate alarm system for fire drills). Security drills are announced in "plain language" over the loudspeaker. The person making the announcement would state "active shooter" or "bomb threat[3]." In addition, during the school day, if a visitor incorrectly rings the night bell, the sound of the bell is transmitted through the loudspeaker system into each classroom including the Computer Lab.

Mr. Masullo testified that, because of the configuration of the Computer Lab, sounds emanating from the loudspeaker are extremely loud and disruptive. Mr. Masullo testified that he had chronic ear infections, and that because of a surgical procedure in 2013 to get rid of fluid in his ears, he was very sensitive to sounds. (A medical record detailing Mr. Masullo's auditory problems was introduced as Respondent's Ex. 10).

Mr. Masullo also testified that some of his students were on the autism spectrum, and that they reacted poorly to noises from the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo testified that it took time to calm his students down after hearing the jarring noises of the loudspeaker.

On March 21, 2013, Mr. Masullo sent an email to Dr. DeFabiis concerning the loudspeaker. The email stated in pertinent part: "Can we do anything about the volume of the ceiling speakers? The sound of the bells and such are deafening in the Library and Computer Lab." (Respondent Ex. 7).

Dr. DeFabiis did not remember receiving the email, but did remember speaking to Mr. Masullo about the noise in the Computer Lab. Dr. DeFabiis testified that he made some inquiries and determined that because there was no volume control on the speaker there was no way to adjust the volume in the Computer Lab. Mr. Masullo also complained to Head Custodian James Parisi ("Parisi") and to Custodian Carmine Barricella ("Barricella") about the excessive noise in the Computer Lab. Mr. Parisi testified that he would not disconnect the loudspeaker unless he was authorized to do so by Dr. DeFabiis.

After Dr. Maceri became District Superintendent and Principal a meeting was held in his office with Mr. Masullo and Jeff Badre ("Badre"), an information technology consultant, to discuss certain computer contracts. Mr. Masullo testified that at the meeting he observed Mr. Parisi disconnect the loudspeaker in Dr. Maceri's office because it was too loud. Mr. Parisi admitted that he had disconnected the loudspeaker in Dr. Maceri's office, but he did not remember if Mr. Masullo observed him performing that task.

At some point in 2015, after Mr. Masullo learned that Mr. Parisi disconnected the loudspeaker in Dr. Maceri's office, Mr. Masullo unilaterally decided to disconnect the loudspeaker in the Computer Lab. Mr. Masullo claimed that he was still able to hear the monthly security alarms even after the loudspeaker was disconnected. Mr. Masullo also testified that he told Anne Turtoro ("Turtoro") the Library/Media Specialist and Gifted and Talented Teacher whose work area in the library adjoined the Computer Lab, and Mr. Barricella that he disconnected the loudspeaker. Both Ms. Turtoro and Mr. Barricella testified and denied knowing that Mr. Masullo had disconnected the loudspeaker[4].

Ms. Turtoro testified that on two occasions in the Spring of 2015 and in September 2016 she alerted Mr. Masullo to an ongoing security drill. Ms. Turtoro testified that as she was leaving for these drills, she could see Mr. Masullo through the glass walls and that he did not seem to be preparing to take part in the security drills. Ms. Turtoro alerted Mr. Masullo to the drills, and Mr. Masullo and his classes took part in those drills without incident.

C. The Events of October 19, 2016 and the Aftermath

On October 19, 2016, Dr. Maceri initiated a security drill by announcing over the loudspeaker the phrase "bomb threat" three times. Except for Mr. Masullo's class, the entire building was evacuated and moved to staging areas adjacent to the school. Ms.

[4] There is no indication that Mr. Masullo ever told Dr. Maceri that he disconnected the loudspeaker.

Turtoro heard the alarm but, because of the configuration of the library, she left with a student she was working with without observing that Mr. Masullo and his class remained in the Computer Lab[5].

At the time of the drill, Mr. Masullo was working with Teacher Jessica Carroll's ("Carroll") third grade class. When Ms. Carroll noticed that her class had not come down for the drill, she alerted Dr. Maceri. After trying to determine if Mr. Masullo utilized a different staircase and was perhaps delayed, Dr. Maceri went into the building to look for Mr. Masullo. Fifteen minutes after the drill began, Dr. Maceri found Mr. Masullo teaching his class of nineteen students. When confronted by Dr. Maceri, Mr. Masullo said that he had not heard the drill. Dr. Maceri left to conclude the drill and arrange for the students to return to the building. Dr. Maceri then directed Mr. Parisi to check on the loudspeaker in the Computer Lab.

Teacher Assistant Gina Jiries ("Jiries") was working with Mr. Masullo at the time of the security drill. Ms. Jiries testified that she did not learn about the drill until Dr. Maceri came to the Computer Lab. Ms. Jiries testified that Dr. Maceri directed her to stay in the Computer Lab until the other students returned to the school. Ms. Jiries said some of the students were upset about missing the drill, and that she calmed them down. Ms. Jiries stated that Mr. Masullo asked her if she was going to escort the students to their next class. Ms. Jiries stated that, at that point, she told Mr. Masullo that she would be remaining in the Computer Lab as directed by Dr. Maceri. Ms. Jiries testified that she then observed Mr. Masullo leave the Computer Lab and return with a ladder. Mr. Masullo then placed the ladder under the loudspeaker and Ms. Jiries observed Mr. Masullo remove a tile from the ceiling. Ms. Jiries testified that she was not sure what Mr. Masullo was doing on the ladder. When Ms. Turtoro returned to the Library, Ms. Jiries determined that the drill had concluded as such Ms. Jiries escorted her students to their next class. Later that day, Ms. Jiries escorted another class to the Computer Lab, and noticed that Mr. Masullo was on the ladder again.

Dr. Maceri informed Mr. Parisi that Mr. Masullo's class never heard the drill announcement. Dr. Maceri directed Mr. Parisi to correct the problem. When Mr. Parisi got to the Computer Lab accompanied by Dr. Maceri, the ladder left by Mr. Masullo was under the loudspeaker. Mr. Parisi climbed the ladder, removed the ceiling tile and discovered that the loudspeaker had been disconnected. Mr. Parisi informed Dr. Maceri that the loudspeaker had been disconnected, and Dr. Maceri directed Mr. Parisi to call the vendor to have it repaired.

Later, on October 19th, Mr. Masullo called Mr. Parisi's cell phone and informed Mr. Parisi that he reconnected the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo called Mr. Parisi once more and asked if Mr. Parisi knew who disconnected the loudspeaker. On October 20, 2016, Mr. Masullo called Mr. Parisi and inquired about what was going on. Mr. Parisi testified that he told Mr. Masullo that, "some people" had seen Mr. Masullo on the ladder, and Mr. Parisi counseled Mr. Masullo to tell the truth to Dr. Maceri.

Also on October 20, 2016, Dr. Maceri made further inquiries concerning the events of the previous day and Mr. Masullo's failure to respond to the drill. Dr. Maceri spoke to Ms. Jiries and Ms. Turtoro. Dr. Maceri then convened a meeting attended by Mr. Masullo, South Hackensack Education Association ("Association") President Lori Murphy ("Murphy") and Association Vice-President Kelly Marella ("Marella")[6]. Dr. Maceri questioned Mr. Masullo about the disconnection of the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo initially denied that he disconnected the loudspeaker, and suggested that he received permission from Dr. DeFabiis to disconnect the loudspeaker. Upon hearing this, Dr. Maceri said that he would call Dr. DeFabiis to confirm whether, Dr. DeFabiis gave Mr. Masullo permission to disconnect the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo testified that he brought up Dr. DeFabiis only to indicate that Dr. DeFabiis was aware of the issue with the loudspeaker. Eventually, Mr. Masullo admitted that he did not have Dr. DeFabiis's permission to disconnect the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo confessed that he had disconnected the loudspeaker.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Maceri demanded that Mr. Masullo resign and stated that if Mr. Masullo did not have tenure he would fire Mr. Masullo immediately. Mr. Masullo refused to resign. Dr. Maceri immediately suspended Mr. Masullo. On November 2, 2016, NJEA/Uniserv Field Representative Richard Lockke ("Lockke") met with Mr. Masullo, Ms. Murphy, Ms. Marella, and Dr. Maceri in an effort to convince Dr. Maceri to reinstate Mr. Masullo to his position. This effort was not successful.

Mr. Masullo testified that he understood the seriousness of his actions, and expressed a great deal of remorse. Mr. Masullo said he would never deliberately put his students at risk.

[6] The meeting was transcribed by Elizabeth Schaefer the School Secretary.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

A. The District's Position

The District vigorously argues that the only acceptable penalty for Mr. Masullo's actions is termination. In reviewing the record evidence, the District notes that "Mr. Masullo disconnected the loudspeaker in the Computer Lab without authorization from, or notification to, the school administration."

The District also contends that, once Mr. Masullo realized he missed the drill on October 19, 2016, he compounded his errors by trying to cover up his actions. The District posits that Mr. Masullo tried to have Ms. Jiries leave the Computer Lab so that he could reconnect the loudspeaker. In addition, the District maintains that when Mr. Parisi first climbed the ladder in the Computer Lab to determine what was wrong, Mr. Masullo could have admitted that he disconnected the loudspeaker, but Mr. Masullo said nothing. In addition, even though Dr. Maceri directed Mr. Parisi to reconnect the loudspeaker, Mr. Masullo took that task upon himself. The District contends that this is further evidence that Mr. Masullo hoped that no one would find out who disconnected the loudspeaker. The District maintains that Mr. Masullo panicked and tried to cover up his actions.

The District goes on to argue that at the October 20, 2016 meeting with Dr. Maceri, Mr. Masullo tried to deflect his guilt by initially asserting that Dr. DeFabiis was aware that he had disconnected the loudspeaker. The District contends that Mr. Masullo only admitted his guilt when Dr. Maceri threatened to call Dr. DeFabiis. The District portrays disconnecting the loudspeaker as being done in secret, without authorization and states that Mr. Masullo's actions endangered the lives of students and staff.

The District characterizes the testimony of Mr. Masullo's treating therapist and social worker Dr. James Silvestri ("Silvestri") as damning[7]. Dr. Silvestri testified that Mr. Masullo had a personality that liked to solve problems. The District characterized this personality trait as being consistent with Mr. Masullo's decision to take matters into his own hands and to disconnect the loudspeaker.

The District also strenuously contends that, in the event of a real bomb threat or shooting incident, the lives of Mr. Masullo's students would have been in jeopardy.

In applying the facts to the legal standards governing this proceeding, the District argues that termination is the only acceptable penalty. The District states that any teacher that puts students and staff members lives at risk does not deserve a second chance. The District concedes that there are not many cases on point but argues that:

> Behavior rising to the level of unbecoming conduct 'need not be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct.'

(District Brief at 3, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of Motley, No. EDU 7421-97 (Initial Decision May 5, 1999), aff'd as modified, No. 252-99 (Comm'r Aug. 4, 1999), aff'd o.b., No. 38-99 (State Bd. Dec. 1, 1999) (slip op. at 15-16).

The District also notes that conduct unbecoming can embrace a wide range of conduct, and that unfitness for tenure may be shown by a single egregious incident. The District argues that a teacher "forfeits his/her protection of tenure when 'by his own acts or failures, he creates conditions under which the proper operation of the schools is adversely affected'." (District Brief at 4, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of Bradley, 1990

[7] Dr. Silvestri has been treating Mr. Masullo for anxiety issues since 2008.

S.L.D. 790, 816 (Initial Decision), (internal cite omitted) adopted, 1990 S.L.D. 818 (Comm'r 1990), aff'd as modified, 1991 S.L.D. 2521 (State Bd. 1991).

The District argues that an award upholding Mr. Masullo's termination would be consistent with other cases. The District points to one case where a teacher, like Mr. Masullo, disconnected a loudspeaker. The teacher's termination was upheld by the Commissioner[8].(District Brief at 38, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of Thomas, No. EDU 05594-02 (Initial Decision August 14, 2002), aff'd, No. 361-02 (Comm'r Oct. 9, 2002). The District also notes that the Commissioner has upheld terminations of teachers for conduct unbecoming based on a single instance of egregious behavior; see, e.g. (District Brief at 39-40, citing, In re Tenure Hearing of Chaki, No. EDU 1529-11 (Initial Decision Oct. 24, 2011), aff'd as modified, No. 542-11 (Comm'r Dec. 12, 2011) (making derogatory remarks to a student; (District Brief at 43-42, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of Cooper EDU 6550-00 (Initial Decision Feb. 2, 2001), aff'd, No. 104-01 (Comm'r March 22, 2001) (teacher terminated for telling student to kiss the teacher's "butt"). (District Brief at 43-44, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of O'Brien, No. EDU 5600-11 (Initial Decision Oct. 11, 2011), adopted, No. 544-11(Comm'r Oct. 28, 2011), aff'd, No. A-2452-11 (App. Div. Jan. 11, 2013) (teacher terminated for calling students criminals on Facebook page). The District also notes that an arbitrator upheld terminations for a single instance of conduct unbecoming; see, e.g. (District Brief at 44, quoting, In re Tenure Hearing of Bringhurst, No.236-8/12 (Nov. 30, 2012) (Gifford Arb.) (teacher terminated for streaking)).

The District argues that under well settled labor arbitration principles an employee may be terminated for placing others at risk. Accordingly, the District asks that Mr. Masullo's termination be upheld.

[8] As will be discussed below, the teacher in question also wore earplugs and had a history of excessive absenteeism.

B. Mr. Masullo's Position

Mr. Masullo contends that his actions did not have an "injurious effect" upon the school or its administration, and therefore his actions did not constitute "conduct unbecoming." Mr. Masullo notes that, under similar factual circumstances a school principal's license was suspended but not revoked. (Respondent's Brief at 3-4 citing, In re Suspension of the Certificates of Steven Kramer, No. A-4573-08T2, 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2588 (Super. Ct. App. Div., 2010)). In the Kramer case, the principal of a school had a malfunctioning fire alarm system that went off several times per month and disrupted the school. Without board approval, the principal switched the alarm to "test" which had the effect of disabling the alarm system's ability to alert the fire department. A fire occurred and because of changes to the alarm, notification to the fire department was delayed. Tenure charges were filed against the principal. The State Board of Examiners did not revoke the principal's license, but imposed a suspension of two and a half months.

Mr. Masullo contends that the holding in this case is instructive, and maintains that he acted reasonably to rectify a difficult situation. He asserts that the loudspeaker caused "pain, annoyance and disruption," and affected Mr. Masullo's ability to teach and, also had a deleterious impact on his students. Mr. Masullo notes that he had complained to Dr. DeFabiis and Dr. Maceri, and to the custodial staff. Mr. Masullo also justifies his actions because he has suffered auditory damage and the loudspeaker was making his hearing difficulties worse.

Mr. Masullo points to Dr. Silvestri's testimony which generally supports the contention that Masullo lacked malicious intent, and that Mr. Masullo was trying to protect his students from the disruption caused by the loudspeaker.

Mr. Masullo notes that prior to October 19, 2016, he never previously missed a security drill, and that he believed that because there existed other loudspeakers were outside of the Computer Lab, he would have been alerted to the drill on October 19, 2016. Mr. Masullo states that previously Ms. Jiries had heard the drills and announcements. In addition, Mr. Masullo contends that Ms. Turtoro's testimony in which she stated that she had previously alerted Mr. Masullo to other security drills lacks credibility, and notes in this regard that prior to the October 19, 2016 incident, Ms. Turtoro never spoke about issues concerning the loudspeaker with either Mr. Masullo or school administrators. Mr. Masullo also contends that the announcement for the bomb drill lasted only a few seconds and that the record was unclear concerning who made the announcement.

Mr. Masullo points to the fact that he was generally regarded as a superior teacher who freely gave his time and money to help the Memorial School. Mr. Masullo notes that his record is devoid of any serious discipline. Mr. Masullo characterizes the events of October 19, 2016 as unique unfortunate occurrence and that there has never been any other instance where Mr. Masullo jeopardized the health and safety of students or staff. Mr. Masullo contends that the health and safety of his students was his paramount concern.

Regarding the events of October 19, 2016, Mr. Masullo denies that he was surreptitiously trying to hide the fact that he disconnected the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo states that he admitted to Mr. Maceri and Mr. Parisi that he disconnected the loudspeaker. Mr. Masullo maintains that he never would have left the ladder out in plain sight if he had been trying to hide the fact that the loudspeaker was disconnected. Mr. Masullo maintains that he never implied that Dr. DeFabiis gave him permission to disconnect the loudspeaker, and contends that he mentioned Dr. DeFabiis at the October 20, 2016 meeting to indicate that Dr. DeFabiis was aware of Mr. Masullo's complaints regarding the loudspeaker.

Mr. Masullo states that he has shown remorse for his actions. He also points to the testimony of Mr. Lockke, the NJEA/Uniserv representative, concerning the devastating impact that an adverse finding in this proceeding would have on Mr. Masullo's career. Mr. Masullo contends that an examination of his overall record should mitigate any penalty that might be imposed. (Respondent's Brief at 11-12 citing, In re Tenure Hearing of Leslie Ann Ramos, School District of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, DOE Docket No. 261-9/14 at 18 (Jan. 5, 2015); In re Tenure Hearing of John Vingara, Somerset County Vocational Technical School District, Somerset County, DOE Docket No. 121-4/16 at 56 (Jan. 17, 2017)).

Mr. Masullo notes that if the ultimate penalty is imposed there is a very good chance that his teaching license would be revoked, and that all of his training, including doctoral level courses in Instructional Technology, would be rendered useless.

Mr. Masullo also maintains that the penalty of discharge is too severe because he was not subjected to progressive discipline. Mr. Masullo concedes that on occasion a teacher's behavior may be so egregious that a single incident might justify the ultimate penalty of termination. However, he contends that the events of October 19, 2016 merited progressive discipline and not termination. (Respondent's Brief at 13 citing, In re Tenure Hearing of Leonard Yarbourough, State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, New Jersey, DOE Docket No. 259-9/15-12/14 at 15 (May 24, 2016)).

Finally, Mr. Masullo argues that, if his actions constitute conduct unbecoming, dismissal is not the appropriate remedy and that he should be reinstated and made whole for his loss in pay, seniority, benefits and emoluments. Mr. Masullo, conceded that his conduct may have constituted a lapse in judgment but he contends it should be analyzed as a single incident. Mr. Masullo contends that he has recognized his wrongdoing and expressed his remorse, and that this should have a bearing on any penalty that might be imposed (Respondent's Brief at 18 citing, In re Tenure Hearing of Maryellen Lechelt, Edison Township Board of Education, DOE Docket No. 360-12/14 at 84 (June 30, 2015)). Mr. Masullo cites to numerous cases where arbitrators and administrative law judges have reduced the penalties of teachers for conduct that is more egregious than Mr. Masullo's. (Respondent's Brief at 18-20 and the cites therein).

In the alternative, Mr. Masullo asks that his suspension be reduced to 120 days or less.

DISCUSSION

A. The Legal Standard

The Education Tenure Act governing teacher tenure provides in pertinent part:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,
>
> (a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state . . .
>
> except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

N.J.S.A. 18a:6-10.

Tenure is a "statutory right that may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982). Tenure is designed to protect employees from dismissal "for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons". Wright v. Bd. of Educ. Of E. Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 quoting Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). Although an employee's lack of fitness may be "demonstrated by a series of incidents" it is well established that a single "flagrant" act may be sufficient to remove a tenured teacher from his or her position. In re Tenure Hearing of Harriman, No. EDU 3510-12 (Initial Decision Aug. 31, 2102), adopted, No. 408-12 (Comm'r Oct. 12, 2012) citing, Redcay v. State Bd. of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L. 326, 327 (E. and A. 1944).

In order to find that an employee engaged in conduct which merits removal, that employee is "entitled to an evaluation of the conduct in terms of its relationship to the nature of the office itself, and in that context, an appraisal of the actual or potential impairment of the public interest which may be expected to result from the conduct in question." Sch. Dist. Of Parsippany-Troy Hills v. Hess, 97 N.J.A.R. 2D (EDU) 34, 45 (citations omitted). Charges of unbecoming conduct are determined on a "case-by-case basis." Santiago v. Bd. of Educ. Of Elizabeth, No. EDU 7135-98 (Initial Decision Aug. 16, 2000) (slip op. at 4), aff'd sub nom. In re Tenure Hearing of Santiago, No. 330-00 (Comm'r Oct. 2, 200d), aff'd o.b., No. 54-00 (State Bd. Mar 9, 2001).

In In re Tenure Hearing of Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (Super. Ct. App. Div. 1967), the Court established a number factors that should be considered when deciding whether a teacher should be dismissed for unbecoming conduct. Those factors include: 1) the nature and gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved; 2) the teacher's attitude – i.e. whether the acts were premeditated, cruel, or done with intent to punish; 3) any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation. In Fulcomer, the Court recognized that there may be circumstances which should be considered which may mitigate any penalty to be imposed on a respondent teacher. These factors include: 1) the teacher's ability, record and length of service[9]; 2) the teacher's disciplinary record; and 3) the "impact of the penalty on the [teacher's] career, including the difficulty which would confront him as a teacher dismissed for unbecoming conduct, in obtaining a teaching position in the State."

[9] Fulcomer involved allegations of corporal punishment. The Court noted that the Respondent's "teaching record was good and his teaching ability unquestioned. [The Respondent] had not been disciplined in any manner by the Board prior to the date of the incidents" in question.

B. The Fulcomer Factors Applied to Mr. Masullo

Although there is no case precisely on point, both the District and Mr. Masullo were able to locate cases where pedagogues tampered with alarm systems. The District relies in part on In re Tenure Hearing of Thomas, No. EDU 05594-02 (Initial Decision August 14, 2002), aff'd, No. 361-02 (Comm'r Oct. 9, 2002). In Thomas, the teacher in question not only disconnected the loudspeaker in her classroom endangering students, but on three separate occasions wore earplugs, on one occasion failed to follow proper procedures in a fire drill, was insubordinate, and was frequently absent. The administrative law judge sustained the tenure charges and dismissed the teacher.

On the other hand, Mr. Masullo relies on the case of In re Suspension of the Certificates of Steven Kramer, No. A-4573-08T2, 2010 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2588 (Super. Ct. App. Div., 2010). As noted above, in Kramer, a school principal altered a fire alarm system which had malfunctioned and was disrupting the operation of a school. The alteration of the alarm prevented the fire department from learning that that the alarm was triggered. Having analyzed the actions of the principal and having concluded that it constituted conduct unbecoming, the State Board of Examiners weighed those actions against the difficult circumstances that the principal faced, together with his long and distinguished career, and suspended the principal for sixty-nine days. The principal appealed his loss of back pay to the Appellate Division. The Court held that the Board of Examiners' decision was supported by substantial credible evidence and was neither arbitrary nor capricious.

A comparison of Thomas, supra and Kramer, supra supports the premise that tenure issues must be determined on a case-by-case basis. While a tenured pedagogue may have engaged in unbecoming conduct, that conduct must be weighed against that pedagogue's career and record. In Thomas, the teacher in question was guilty of far more than merely disconnecting an alarm in her classroom. Her overall record revealed behavior which combined with the conduct in disconnecting the alarm, in the aggregate, were considered by the Commissioner and provided the basis for upholding her dismissal. In Kramer by contrast, the principal's overall record as an excellent employee limited his discipline to a sixty-nine-day suspension.

The lesson drawn from these cases is that the record must be analyzed to determine if there are enough mitigating factors to reduce the ultimate penalty of dismissal. In this proceeding, Mr. Masullo's conduct in disconnecting the loudspeaker in the Computer Lab constituted a grave offense which may have endangered students and staff. Under well settled principles, this act was flagrant enough that a serious penalty is merited. It is of no moment that this might have been the only time that Mr. Masullo failed to participate in a security drill pursuant to an announcement by school administration. I credit Ms. Turtoro's testimony that on at least two previous occasions she believed that she successfully alerted Mr. Masullo to the fact that a security drill was taking place and Mr. Masullo followed protocol and participated in the drill. Once the loudspeaker in the Computer Lab was disconnected by Mr. Masullo, there existed a continuing danger to Mr. Masullo's students. It is of no significance that Mr. Masullo believed that he could hear the loudspeakers outside of the Computer Lab. Clearly, on October 19, 2016, Mr. Masullo did not hear the loudspeaker. If there had been an actual shooter or bomb scare on October 19, 2016, Mr. Masullo's students would have been in grave danger.

Nevertheless, termination is not an appropriate penalty in Mr. Masullo's case. In reviewing the Fulcomer factors as applied to this case, I conclude that the penalty of termination should be reduced. While I conclude that Mr. Masullo acted recklessly when he disconnected the loudspeaker, I do not believe that he intentionally sought to endanger either his students, other staff members or himself. His testimony demonstrated a tremendous amount of remorse, and I believe that if he is reinstated he will not engage in such reckless behavior again.

I credit Mr. Masullo's testimony that he felt justified in disconnecting the loudspeaker because he became sensitive to the sounds emanating from the loudspeaker. I also credit Mr. Masullo's testimony that the loudspeaker sounds disrupted Mr. Masullo's classroom and that the sounds disturbed students on the autism spectrum.[10] Mr. Masullo's sensitivity to the sounds does not excuse his actions and he could certainly have been more forceful in pressing for an accommodation to this problem.

Mr. Masullo's conduct in this matter must be weighed against his entire record as a teacher. Although there is some evidence of poor interactions with other staff members, Mr. Masullo's disciplinary record is generally a good one, and he has shown himself to be an active participant in school activities. The testimony of both Dr. DeFabiis and Dr. Maceri establish that Mr. Masullo took leading roles in extracurricular activities, and spent his own time and money in support of the school. In addition, the record evidence established that, overall, Mr. Masullo is an excellent teacher. The District's observation and evaluation reports entered into the record support this conclusion.

[10] As set forth below in this decision, I have concluded that Mr. Masullo shall be reinstated to his position. If he is reassigned to the Computer Lab, I make no finding regarding any accommodation, if any which should be made regarding the volume of the loudspeaker. See, e.g. The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-12.

Finally, I am mindful that, if Mr. Masullo was to be terminated, there is a very strong likelihood that his license to teach within the state of New Jersey would be revoked. While this is obviously true of all teachers faced with a loss of tenure, given Mr. Masullo's overall record, I conclude that he is deserving of one more chance. I do not believe that the actions proven in this case render Mr. Masullo unfit to teach.

It is my view that if Mr. Masullo is returned to the classroom, he will continue to be an effective teacher. Mr. Masullo is cautioned that he may not engage in any activity that could be perceived as endangering the safety and wellbeing of his students and fellow staff members. In lieu of termination, I direct that Mr. Masullo be suspended for the remainder of the 2016-2017 school year, that his increment for the 2016-2017 school year (if any) be withheld upon his return in the 2017-2018 school year, and that he receive no payments for time lost from the date of his suspension to the date of his reinstatement.

Based on the above, I render the following:

AWARD

The undersigned Arbitrator having been designated pursuant to N.J.S.A., 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109 ("TEACHNJ") hereby issues and AWARDS as follows:

1. The Allegation of the Charge has been proven, with such conduct constituting conduct unbecoming and providing just cause for discipline;
2. Christopher Masullo shall remain suspended for the remainder of the 2016-2017 school year;
3. Christopher Masullo shall be reinstated to his position as a tenured teacher in the South Hackensack Public School District and resume his duties in the District at the appropriate time for teachers to return to work for the 2017-2018 school year;
4. There shall be no back pay for the period of Christopher Masullo's suspension, and his increment for the 2016-2017 school year (if any) shall be withheld upon his return to employment;
5. The undersigned shall retain jurisdiction for the limited purpose of resolving any disputes concerning the remedy herein.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a non-tenured second grade teacher employed by the respondent Board through the Provisional Teacher Program Alternate Route for the 2015-2016 school year – appealed the non-renewal of her contract following notification, by letter received on or about May 11, 2016, that she would not be renewed for the 2016-2017 school year based upon her performance and conduct. Petitioner filed a petition for emergent relief on August 24, 2016, alleging that she was terminated as a result of ineffective and partially effective performance ratings. Petitioner asserted that funds were withheld from her paycheck to pay for required mentoring services that were never provided to her, and therefore her evaluations should be viewed as unfair and considered null and void. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue herein, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner had notice of the Board's decision to non-renew her contract as of May 11, 2016; the time for filing a petition is clearly set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides that a petition of appeal before the Commissioner must be filed no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order or ruling; in this case, the petitioner filed her appeal on August 24, 2016, which was 106 days after she received notice of non-renewal; and jurisdiction over whether respondent had a contractual obligation to provide mentoring services or failed to provide such services does not rest with the Commissioner or with the OAL. The ALJ concluded that the within petition was not timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the within petition was untimely filed and must be dismissed on those grounds. In so determining, the Commissioner clarified that petitioner's allegations related to teacher mentoring services implicate New Jersey school law, as all novice teachers are required to enroll and successfully complete the respective district's mentoring program in order to become eligible for a standard teaching certificate. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-8.4, 8.7. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL was adopted with modification. The petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the petition of appeal was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i)[1] because, consistent with well-settled law, the ninety-day time period accrues from the employee's receipt of the board of education's notice of nonrenewal.[2] Furthermore, a Donaldson hearing – an "informal appearance" before the board "to permit the staff member to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment"[3] – does not toll the time for an employee to file a petition of appeal with the Commissioner because the Donaldson hearing occurs after the board has already made its decision to not renew the employee's contract and has acted on that decision by providing notice of nonrenewal to the employee. Therefore, the day that petitioner received the notice of nonrenewal from the

[1] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides in relevant part: "The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education . . . ." (emphasis added).

[3] See N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.

District – May 11, 2016 – is the date from which petitioner had ninety days to file her cause of action. Additionally, requesting a statement of reasons and a Donaldson hearing does not provide "constructive notice" to a board that its former employee intends to file a petition of appeal with the Commissioner at a later time. There is simply no legal basis for such assertions made by the petitioner.

The Commissioner clarifies that the petitioner's allegations related to teacher mentoring services do implicate New Jersey school law. All novice teachers – irrespective of whether they are participants in the Alternate Route Program – are required to enroll in and successfully complete the respective district's mentoring program in order to become eligible for a standard teaching certificate. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-8.4, 8.7. Therefore, whether petitioner received proper mentoring services (or allegedly failed to take advantage of the mentoring services offered to her by the District) falls within the purview of the Commissioner. The record in this matter, however, is insufficient to consider the merits of petitioner's allegations regarding the District's mentoring program. More importantly, petitioner's appeal is time barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).[4]

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ – as modified herein – is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Petitioner Patricia McRae was hired as a non-tenured second-grade teacher at First Avenue Elementary School through the Provisional Teacher Program Alternate Route (Alternate Route) for the 2015-2016 school year.

Throughout the school year, McRae received teacher evaluations. In her "Teacher Mid-Year Review 15-16" dated February 16, 2016, McRae received a rating of overall ineffective. (Pet'r Pet. for Emer. Relief at Appendix A.) The mid-year review also noted that McRae had not had any issues with tardiness or absenteeism. (Ibid.)

On April 15, 2016, McRae received her "Teacher Annual Evaluation 15-16," dated April 14, 2016, where McRae was rated as overall partially effective. (Ibid.) The annual evaluation indicated that McRae had no issues with tardiness or absenteeism and that McRae had taken two personal days. (Ibid.) This evaluation also noted that McRae had been paired with a mentor and has not used that opportunity to her full advantage. (Ibid.) The evaluation did not specify the name of the mentor or the date that the mentor was appointed to provide guidance to McRae.

On or about May 11, 2016, McRae received notice that her employment as a teacher at First Avenue Elementary would be terminated as of June 30, 2016. (Pet'r Opp. to Summ. Decision at 2.) The letter indicated that McRae's non-renewal was based on teacher performance evaluations and professional conduct. The letter was sent on or before May 15, 2016, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. The letter did not indicate any specific instances of conduct that were considered to lead to McRae's non-renewal.

On May 18, 2016, Petitioner McRae requested a Donaldson hearing to take place prior to June 30, 2016, to determine why her employment with the District was not renewed. In a letter dated June 16, 2016, McRae was granted a Donaldson hearing, which took place on June 27, 2016, at 10 a.m. at the District's administrative offices located at 2 Cedar Street, Room 802, Newark, New Jersey. On June 29, 2016, McRae received a letter from the Board advising her that the non-renewal was upheld following the Donaldson hearing. The District based its non-renewal of McRae's employment on the above-referenced evaluations and unspecified conduct.

On August 29, 2016, McRae filed a Petition for Emergent Relief. The Petitioner alleges that her employment with the Newark Public School District was terminated as a result of ineffective and partially-effective performance ratings and conduct unbecoming. (Pet'r Pet. for Emer. Relief at 1.) McRae asserts that she has the legal right to be mentored pursuant to the state alternate route program requirements and her employment contract. (Id. at 2.) McRae further asserts that she paid one thousand ($1,000) dollars for mentor services through paycheck deductions and that such services were never provided to her. (Ibid.) There are no records of her meeting with a mentor, being observed by a mentor, receiving mentorship during her time teaching in the classroom, or of a mentoring plan. (Ibid.) McRae asserts that this lack of mentoring was intentional and deliberate. (Ibid.) As stated above, the annual performance evaluation notes that she had been assigned a mentor but failed to take full advantage of that opportunity. (Pet'r Pet. for Emer. Relief at Appendix A.) Petitioner asserts that because she never received any mentoring services, her evaluations should be viewed as unfair and considered null and void. (Pet'r Pet. for Emer. Relief at 2.) However, Petitioner never contested her evaluations at or after the time she received them.

The District asserts that McRae's employment contract did not contain any provision or requirement on its face obligating the District to provide specific "mentoring services" to McRae during the 2015-2016 school year as part of the contract. (Resp't Mot. for Summ. Decision at 3.). The District asserts that McRae was the subject of an incident related to unbecoming conduct during the 2015-2016 school year but does not cite any details of the incident, does not offer any disciplinary record, or other information to support this allegation. (Resp't Mot. for Summ. Decision at 2.) McRae argues that any allegations of conduct unbecoming are unfounded as she never had an incident relating to tardiness, absenteeism, behavioral misconduct or interpersonal conflict with a colleague, parent or otherwise. (Pet'r Pet. for Emer. Relief at 1.)

According to an audio file from the New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development (DLWD), when McRae applied for unemployment benefits after her non-renewal, the Board indicated that the reason she was terminated was a reduction in force, rather than poor performance or conduct issues contrary to her letter of non-renewal. (Pet'r Opp. to Mot. for Summ. Decision at 14.) As a result, DLWD did not conduct any fact finding with respect to Petitioner's performance or conduct and McRae was granted unemployment benefits. No date was provided for the unemployment benefit application or when Petitioner began receiving benefits.

On September 22, 2016, the undersigned denied Petitioner's application for Emergent Relief.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

"Ninety-day" Rule

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a "Petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing (ninety-day rule)." As the New Jersey Supreme Court explained, > Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. See Burns v. West Am. Corp., 137 N.J. Super. 442, 446 (Dist. Ct. 1975). Moreover, adequate notice under the regulation must be sufficient to further the purpose of the ninety-day limitations period. See Apex Roofing Supply Co. v. Howell, 59 N.J. Super. 462, 467 (App.Div.1960). A limitations period has two purposes. The first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims. Ochs v. Fed. Ins. Co., 90 N.J. 108, 112 (1982). The second purpose is "'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose'" by giving security and stability to human affairs. Ibid. (quoting Farrell v. Votator Div., 62 N.J. 111, 115 (1973)).

Thus, "[w]hen a plaintiff knows or has reason to know that he has a cause of action against an identifiable defendant and voluntarily sleeps on his rights so long as to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, the pertinent considerations of individual justice as well as the broader considerations of repose, coincide to bar his action." Farrell, supra, 62 N.J. at 115.

The ninety-day time period for filing a petition is to be strictly construed and claims that are not timely filed are precluded from review. Raymond v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of River Edge, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 203, aff'd, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 431. If compliance with the ninety-day rule is disputed, that procedural matter should be decided prior to any decision on the merits. Nissman v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Long Beach Island, 272 N.J. Super. 373, 380-81 (App. Div. 1994).

An agency regulation that focuses on the date of the employer's act as the accrual date for a cause of action, rather than the date on which the consequences of the act is directly felt by the employee (termination), is not inherently arbitrary or capricious. Id. at 381; see Nissman, supra, at 379 (cause of action accrued when principal "knew or should have known" that they were not going to be offered a new contract for the following year); Chardon v. Fernandez, 454 U.S. 6, 8, 102 S. Ct. 28, 29, 70 L. Ed. 2d 6, 9 (1981), rehearing denied, 454 U.S. 1166, 102 S. Ct. 1042, 71 L. Ed. 2d 322 (1982) (Where non-tenured administrator was notified by letter on or before June 18, 1977, that he would be terminated at a specified date between June 30 and August 8, 1977, his cause of action accrued on the date he received the letter, not the date on which his appointment ended.); Delaware State College v. Ricks, 449 U.S. 250, 259-61, 101 S. Ct. 498, 504-06, 66 L. Ed. 2d 431, 440-42 (1980) (Cause of action accrued on the date Ricks was advised that he would be denied tenure rather than on the date when his employment terminated.); Suarez v. State-operated School District of Jersey City, EDU 11077-04, Initial Decision (September 13, 2005), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (where a teacher was not permitted to toll the ninety-day rule while awaiting a statement of reasons pursuant to Donaldson).

It is undisputed that Petitioner received a notice of non-renewal on or about May 11, 2016. As of May 11, 2016, McRae was on notice that the Board did not intend to offer her employment for the 2016-2017 school year. Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), August 9, 2016, was the ninetieth (90^{th}) and final day that McRae could have timely filed her petition. I CONCLUDE that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and existing case law, the ninety-day rule began to run when Petitioner received notice of non-renewal on or about May 11, 2015.

A request for a Donaldson hearing does not provide the Board with constructive notice of Petitioner's intent to file a petition opposing the non-renewal and does not fulfill the requirements of the ninety-day rule under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). In Lauchenaur v. State-operated School District of the City of Newark, EDU 11820-08, Initial Decision (February 3, 2009), partially adopted, Comm'r (March 18, 2009), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/edu11820-08.pdf>, the Honorable Jesse Strauss, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) held that in a non-renewal or a termination, a teacher is required to file his petition within ninety days of the notice of non-renewal, not within ninety days of the exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms. Ibid. (citing LeMee v. Bd. of Educ. of the Village of Ridgewood, 1990 S.L.D. 663, 667) (the day Petitioner received notice that her contract was not renewed was the date the ninety-day timeline commenced, notwithstanding any efforts to appear before the board to change its decision).

Court decisions in cases similar to the present case have established that it is the first notice of non-renewal—not the letter confirming non-renewal after a hearing or review—that triggers the ninety-day limitation period. See Pacio v. Bd. of Educ. of Lakeland Reg'l '1 High School Dist., 1989 S.L.D. 2060, 2069 (the first written communication provided to a staff member of an action by the Board initiates the ninety-day timeline); Wise v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Trenton, decided by the Commissioner (September 11, 2000), aff'd, State Bd. (January 4, 2001) (when a teaching staff member receives notice that his contract will not be renewed is when the ninety-day period is initiated).

In the case at bar, the Board issued a letter of non-renewal on May 10, 2016. Thus, Petitioner's cause of action accrued on the date McRae received the letter, which was on or about May 11, 2016. Petitioner's cause of action did not accrue on the date her employment ended nor did it accrue on the date that she requested a Donaldson hearing or when she received notice of non-renewal after the Donaldson hearing. McRae filed her petition on August 24, 2016, one hundred and six (106) days after she received the notice of non-renewal. As such, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's claim is time barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Jurisdiction

The Commissioner and the OAL do not have jurisdiction to decide contractual issues that do not arise under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 states, "[t]he commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine, without cost to the parties, all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws, excepting those governing higher education, or under the rules of the State board or of the commissioner."

The "Non-Tenured Alternate Route Program" is mentioned in two places in the New Jersey Statutes. One mention is in N.J.S.A. 18A-36A:14(c) which states that, "[a]ll classroom teachers and professional support staff shall hold appropriate New Jersey certification. The commissioner shall make appropriate adjustments in the alternate route program in order to expedite the certification of persons who are qualified by education and experience." Second, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-22 states that participants in the Alternate Route Program must satisfactorily complete a program on harassment, intimidation, and bullying prevention within one year of being employed. Neither statute specifies any mentoring requirement or that districts should contract to provide mentoring services as part of the Alternate Route Program.

In general, contractual disputes do not fall within the Commissioner's jurisdictional mandate unless they arise under the school laws or otherwise implicate the agency's special expertise. Dolan v. Centuolo, A-2470-10T4, A-2710-10T4 (App.

Div. July 9, 2012), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/ (quoting Archway Programs, Inc. v. Pemberton Twp. Bd. of Educ., 352 N.J. Super. 420, 425-26 (App. Div. 2002). The Appellate Division has held that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to decide certain contractual issues. See Picogna v. Bd. of Educ. of Cherry Hill, 249 N.J. Super. 332, 334-35 (App. Div. 1991) (holding that jurisdiction over a purely contractual claim of wrongful termination of non-tenured assistant superintendent was properly venued in Superior Court and not before the Commissioner); S. Orange-Maplewood Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of S. Orange and Maplewood, 146 N.J. Super. 457, 462-63 (App. Div. 1977) (holding that the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction over a dispute involving interpretation of sabbatical leave provisions of an agreement entered into by the school board and the teachers' association as there was nothing in the dispute involving interpretation of any specific statute).

In the present case, McRae's claim that she did not receive proper mentoring services pursuant to either the Newark Public School's Mentor handbook or the Non-Tenured Alternative Route Program is a contractual issue that does not arise under the school laws as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. As a result, I CONCLUDE that jurisdiction over whether Respondent had a contractual obligation to provide mentoring services or failed to provide such services does not rest with the Commissioner of Education or with the OAL. Petitioner may be entitled to remedies in a proper venue.

N.J. Department of Labor

Following the non-renewal, Petitioner applied for unemployment insurance benefits with the N.J. Department of Labor and Workforce Development. Petitioner asserts that the DLWD maintained an audio recording of the application process that indicates the reason for Petitioner's termination other than what appears in her non-renewal letter. Petitioner asserts that the audio recording states that the reason she was let go was a result of a reduction in force. This is contrary to the reason stated in the non-renewal letter. The undersigned is persuaded that the audio recording is not germane to the substance of this proceeding. For the Commissioner to have jurisdiction over a controversy or dispute, it must arise under the school laws or under the rules of the New Jersey Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Issues related to unemployment compensation generally arise under N.J.S.A. 43:21. Specifically N.J.S.A. 43:21-11 grants DLWD the duty and power to adopt and amend regulations related to the administration of, appeals, and other issues involving unemployment benefits. As such, the DLWD has jurisdiction over unemployment benefits and any relevant determinations regarding the reasons for termination. This proceeding is not the appropriate venue to revisit the unemployment determination regarding Petitioner. If she wishes to appeal DLWD's determination regarding her benefits, or alternatively to contest the reason that the District provided as to her termination, she must do so through the appropriate DLWD appeals process.

Finally, the issue of why Petitioner was terminated as provided by the Board to DLWD was not raised in McRae's original Petition. Unemployment Insurance Benefits determinations are not properly within the jurisdiction of this proceeding. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that McRae's assertion regarding DLWD's determination must be dismissed as a matter of law.

Petitioner Barred From Future Employment

The "non-renewal notice" dated May 10, 2016, states that "your employment with Newark Public Schools will be terminated on June 30, 2016, and you will not be considered for future employment within the district." (Emphasis added.) The Board has not offered any evidence of misconduct by McRae. There is no evidence of a disciplinary record with the District, her evaluations indicate timeliness, and there is no issue of absenteeism. Respondent has not offered any legal basis to support its decision to permanently bar Petitioner from employment within the district. N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(1) states that, "A person holding any public office, position, or employment, elective or appointive . . . who is convicted of an offense shall forfeit such office or position if: [h]e is convicted . . . of an offense involving dishonesty or of a crime of the third degree or above." Similarly, a teacher may be permanently barred from public employment if they are convicted of, "an offense involving or touching on his public office, position or employment shall be forever disqualified from holding any office or position of honor, trust or profit under this State or any of its administrative or political subdivisions." N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(d). "Involving or touching on his public office, position or employment" means that the offense was related directly to the person's performance in, or circumstances flowing from, the specific public office, position or employment held by the person. Ibid. "The Legislature intended wide latitude in the employing authority to determine fitness for permanent employment. It is clear that public employment may not be refused upon a basis which would violate any express statutory or constitutional policy." Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 80 (1962) (where the New Jersey Supreme Court upheld dismissal of a teacher who had not completed three calendar years of employment as required to be considered tenured).

In the present case, the Board has not alleged any facts regarding McRae's conduct except that her teaching evaluations did not indicate her performance was at the desired level. District evaluations explicitly indicate that McRae had no problems with tardiness or absenteeism and do not mention a single issue of conduct. The District has simply alleged that McRae was the subject of an incident related to unbecoming conduct during the 2015-2016 school year. However, it has not provided any details of any incident, or evidence of a disciplinary record, or any additional information to support this allegation. (Resp't Mot. for Summ. Decision at 2.) It is undisputed that McRae has not been convicted of a crime of dishonesty or involving her position as a teacher that would disqualify her from teaching pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(1) or N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(d). As there is no relevant conviction at issue and respondent District has put forth an allegation with no background or evidence, I CONCLUDE that the District may not permanently bar McRae from future employment within the District.

Summary Decision

Under the New Jersey Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, a party may move for summary decision regarding all or any substantive issues in a case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Motions for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery, together with any supporting affidavits, show there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). A motion for summary decision is almost identical to the standard used for summary judgment under the New Jersey Rules of Court, which provides that summary judgment should be granted if:

> the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to judgment or order as a matter of law. An issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences there from favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact.

In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520, 536 (1995), the New Jersey Supreme Court further refined the standard for summary decision with this analysis: "whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Thus, a court should deny a motion for summary judgment only where the party opposing the motion has come forward with evidence that creates a genuine issue of material fact. Id. at 529. The Brill Court stated:

> A determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The 'judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.'

The Brill standard contemplates that the analysis performed by the trial judge in determining whether to grant summary judgment should comprehend the evidentiary standard to be applied to the case or issue if it went to trial. "To send a case to trial, knowing that a rational jury can reach but one conclusion, is indeed worthless and will serve no useful purpose." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 541.

For a party opposing summary decision to prevail, that party must file a responding affidavit setting forth specific facts demonstrating the existence of a genuine issue that can only be determined by an evidentiary proceeding. Ibid. The opposing party must demonstrate, moreover, that the disputed issue of fact is material to the adjudication. See Frank v. Ivy Club, 120 N.J. 73, 98 (1990). The genuinely disputed material fact must be essential to the decision in the case. Ibid. In addition, the opposing party must establish the issue with competent evidential materials. Robbins v. Jersey City, 23 N.J. 229, 240-214 (1957). "Bald allegations or naked conclusions" are insufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing. J.D. ex rel. D.D.H. v. N.J. Div. of Developmental Disabilities, 329 N.J. Super. 516, 525 (App. Div. 2000). If the opposing party fails to raise a material factual issue with competent proofs, then the issue should be resolved on summary decision. Frank, supra, 120 N.J. at 98-99.

A contested case can be summarily disposed of before an ALJ without a plenary hearing in instances where the undisputed material facts indicate that a particular disposition is required as a matter of law. In re Robros Recycling Corp., 226 N.J. Super. 343, 350 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 113 N.J. 638 (1988). A summary decision must be based on an examination of the totality of circumstances, mitigating and aggravating factors, adequate factual findings and conclusions of law. Ibid.

Respondent Board issued a letter to McRae on May 10, 2016, indicating that her employment would not be renewed for the 2016-2017 school year. McRae received that letter on or about May 11, 2016. It is not disputed that Petitioner filed her petition for emergent relief on August 24, 2016. She filed her petition 106 days later in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The latest that McRae could have filed a claim would have been August 9, 2016. There is no genuine dispute of the fact that the Petition was filed after August 9, 2016, and outside the ninety-day requirement.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that Respondent is entitled to Summary Decision as a matter of law.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's Motion to Dismiss is GRANTED and Petitioner's requests for relief are hereby DENIED except as otherwise decided below.

It is hereby ORDERED that Respondent may not permanently bar Petitioner from future employment within the District based upon the Finding of Facts of this proceeding.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

J.T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, J.T., A.T., AND B.T.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In November 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that his children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner contended that he resides at an address in Monmouth Junction, which is within the South Brunswick school district. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner and his children actually reside in Franklin Township. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, asserting that the petition was late filed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the facts of this matter were set forth in respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss and in a certification from the Superintendent of Schools, and the tuition costs for the 2015-2016 school year were contained in a letter from the New Jersey Department of Education dated February 17, 2017; the facts contained therein were adopted as if set forth at length within the Initial Decision. The ALJ concluded, inter alia, that: petitioner failed to timely file a residency appeal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b); respondent's motion to dismiss should be granted as petitioner failed to file a response thereto; and respondent is entitled to tuition for the period of ineligible attendance. Accordingly, the ALJ denied the petitioner's residency appeal and ordered tuition reimbursement at a rate of $71 per day per child for the period of ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL, finding that the ALJ failed to include a factual discussion or make factual findings in this case. As N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3 requires that Initial Decisions include a factual discussion and make factual findings, the Commissioner remanded the matter for inclusion of a factual discussion.

Issued 4/20/17

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected, and the matter is hereby remanded for the reasons expressed above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

AGENCY REF. NO. 298-11/16

J.T.. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, J.T., A.T. AND B.T., Petitioners,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDLLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

J.T., Petitioner, pro se

Adam S. Herman, Esq., for Respondent (Adams, Gutierrez & Lattiboudere, LLC, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 3, 2017 Decided: March 8, 2017

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenges Respondent Board of Education's residency determination.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 20, 2016, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was held on January 6, 2017. A prehearing order, dated January 6, 2017, was entered by the undersigned.

Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petitioner's appeal with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on December 16, 2016, prior to the matter being transferred to the OAL, and before a decision on said motion was made. Respondent simultaneously filed its Answer and Cross Petition with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes.

Pursuant to the prehearing Order entered on January 6, 2017, Petitioner was permitted ten days from the receipt of said motion to respond. No response was submitted.

On February 24, 2017, Respondent filed a certification of Gary McCartney, Superintendent of the South Brunswick Board of Education.

On March 3, 2017, Respondent's counsel provided a letter from the New Jersey Department of Education setting forth Tuition Costs per Pupil for the 2015-2016 school year.

ISSUES

1. Did Respondent err in its determination that Petitioner's three children did not reside in South Brunswick and were ineligible to attend school in the South Brunswick School District; and, is petitioners claim time barred?

2. Are Respondents entitled to tuition reimbursement?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The Preliminary Statement and the Factual Background set forth in Respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss are adopted herein as if set forth at length.

The facts set forth in the Certification of Gary McCartney are adopted herein as if set forth at length.

The tuition costs per pupil for the 2015-2016 school year contained in the letter from the New Jersey Department of Education, dated February 17, 2017, are adopted herein as if set forth at length.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Standard of Review

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g) states, "Nothing in this section precludes the filing of a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to a petition, provided that such motion is filed within the time allotted for the filing of an answer. Briefing on such motions shall be in the manner and within the time fixed by the Commissioner, or by the ALJ if the motion is to be briefed following transmittal to the OAL."

In ruling on a motion to dismiss:

> The judge considers whether all of the evidence together with all legitimate inferences could sustain a judgment in favor of the party opposing the motion. The judge is not concerned with the weight, worth, nature or extent of the evidence. The judge must accept all evidence supporting the party defending against the motion and accord that party the benefit of all inferences that can and legitimately be deducted therefrom... Myles Hart v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, 2014 WL 3708621 (citing New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, §5, 19, at 259-60).

Petitioner did not file a response to Respondent's motion to dismiss.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. In > the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

In the instant matter, Respondent notified Petitioner of the residency hearing by letter dated October 13, 2016. The residency hearing was held on October 24, 2016. By letter dated October 26, 2016, Petitioner was advised of Respondent's determination that his children were not eligible to attend school in the Respondent School District. Petitioner was advised in said letter of his right to contest Respondent School District's decision within twenty-one days. Petitioner did not file the pro se residency appeal until November 22, 2016. Said appeal was dated November 20, 2016. The twenty-one day period in which to file expired on November 15, 2016.

Right to a Free Public Education

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a),

(a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:

1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;

2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;

3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;

4. Receipts; bills; cancelled checks; insurance claims or payments; and other evidence of expenditures demonstrating personal attachment to a particular location or to support the student;

6. Affidavits, certifications and sworn attestations pertaining to statutory criteria for school attendance, from the parent, guardian, person keeping an "affidavit student," adult student, person(s) with whom a family is living, or others as appropriate;

8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.

(b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above, and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.

(c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant, and > shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

In S.S. ex rel. A.S. and A.S. v. Bd. of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County, EDU 192-12, Initial Decision (August 26, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal, evidence submitted by an investigator hired by the Marlboro New Jersey School District to determine whether certain minor children who were enrolled in the school district in fact were domiciled therein within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) was sufficient to establish that the children in fact were not domiciled in the district during the period in question and, instead, supported a conclusion that the minors resided at their grandmother's home in Edison, New Jersey. Even though their mother had submitted documentation of the type described in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a) that supported her claim that the minors were domiciled in Marlboro, the circumstances of the mother's employment, which included late hours, was such that the minors were properly found to be residing with their grandmother. On that basis, the administrative law judge recommended that the Department of Education find the mother liable for tuition for the minors.

In the instant matter, it is clear that neither Petitioner, nor his children, resided within Respondent's school district. (See Certification of Gary McCartney and the investigator's report attached thereto as Exhibit A)

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 states:

> (a) If an appeal to the Commissioner is filed by the parent, guardian, adult student, or school district resident keeping an "affidavit" student and the petitioner does not sustain the burden of demonstrating the student's right to attend the school district, or the petitioner withdraws the appeal, fails to prosecute, or abandons the appeal by any means other than settlement agreeing to waive or reduce tuition, the Commissioner may assess tuition for the period during which the hearing and decision on appeal were pending, and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal.

> 1. Upon the Commissioner's finding that an appeal has been abandoned, the district board of education may remove the student from school and seek tuition for up to one year of ineligible attendance pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1(a) plus the period of ineligible attendance after the appeal was filed. If the record of the appeal includes a calculation reflecting the tuition rate(s) for the year(s) at issue, the per diem tuition rate for the current year and the date on which the student's ineligible attendance began, the Commissioner may order payment of tuition as part of his or her decision. In doing so, the Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error. If the record does not include such a calculation and the district board of education has filed a counterclaim for tuition, the counterclaim shall proceed to a hearing notwithstanding that the petition has been abandoned.
> 2. An order of the Commissioner assessing tuition is enforceable through recording, upon request of the district board of education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-12, on the judgment docket of the Superior Court, Law Division, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

Cleary, Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof to demonstrate J.T., A.T. and B.T. have the right to attend the Respondent school, and Respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3 states in pertinent part:

> a) Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

Respondent calculates tuition reimbursement for the 2016-2017 school year at $71 per day. (Certification of Gary McCartney, Exhibit C)

I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to timely file a residency appeal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), and therefore the same is time barred.

I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's motion to dismiss should be GRANTED as Petitioner failed to file a response thereto, and the facts set forth in Respondent's motion to dismiss are adopted herein.

I further CONCLUDE neither Petitioner, nor his children, resided within Respondent's District during the 2016-2017 school year and Respondent is entitled to the relief requested in its Answer and Cross Petition: reimbursement for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance for each child.

I further CONCLUDE that Respondent is entitled to an order excluding Petitioner's children from the Respondent school district

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing it is ORDERED that Respondent's motion to dismiss Petitioner's residency appeal is granted: and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's residency appeal is dismissed with prejudice; and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's children, J.T., A.T. and B.T. are not entitled to attend school in the Respondent school district and are excluded therefrom; and,

It is further ORDERED that Respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement from Petitioner in the amount of $71 per day per child for each day J.T., A.T. and B.T. attended school in the Respondent school district.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: Christopher Lombardi v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No. 73-4/17

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief filed by the petitioner, Christopher Lombardi, in the above-captioned matter. The petitioner is appealing the decision of the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying the petitioner's request for a waiver of the eligibility rules to allow him to participate in baseball at New Providence High School.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the petitioner has failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief. Most notably, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying appeal. The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions, including determinations made by the EAC, is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute her own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1).

Athletic competition in New Jersey's public schools is overseen by respondent, NJSIAA, a voluntary, non-profit organization which promulgates the rules and regulations governing high school athletics. Article V, Section J of NJSIAA's Bylaws, Rules and Regulations restricts a student's eligibility to play sports to four years. Specifically, the provision known as the Eight Semester Rule provides that, "[n]o student shall be eligible for high school athletics after the expiration of eight consecutive semesters following his or her entrance into the 9th grade. A student becomes ineligible for high school athletics when the class in which he/she was originally enrolled has graduated." The NJSIAA Guidelines set forth the reasons for the Eight Semester Rule in the NJSIAA Handbook:

> This rule is intended to prohibit "red shirting," and is also aimed at preventing athletically gifted pupils who are not meeting academic standards from replacing other students who are maintaining their academic standards but who might not have the same athletic prowess. The rule is also aimed at maintaining a uniform progression among all member schools within a four-year cycle and equalizing competition within these schools.

In appropriate cases, the NJSIAA may grant a waiver of the eligibility rules if the overall objectives of the association and its member schools will not be undermined. The Eight Semester Rule can be waived when a student proves that he cannot comply with the rule due to circumstances beyond his control.

It is undisputed that the petitioner herein was scheduled to graduate high school in June 2016, and as such he is ineligible to participate in interscholastic athletics based on the Eight Semester Rule. The petitioner therefore applied to the NJSIAA for a waiver of the Eight Semester Rule so that he could participate on the New Providence baseball team this spring.[1] Previously, petitioner had participated in baseball at New Providence during the 2012-2013, 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years, but did not play during the 2015-2016 school year. The petitioner did not play baseball in 2016 because he had been placed on extended home instruction and was not permitted on school grounds as the result of several behavioral incidents that the New Providence School District deemed to be threatening.[2] In reaching its decision to deny the waiver request, the

[1] The petitioner is currently enrolled in his 5th year of high school at the Shepard School pursuant to an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and his education is financed by the New Providence School District. The petitioner received special education services pursuant to an IEP during 9th and 10th grade at New Providence but was declassified for 11th grade. In June 2016 the district re-classified the petitioner and provided him with an IEP and a 5th year of educational services to address his academic deficiencies.

[2] In one incident, petitioner took a "selfie" with a gun. In a second incident, petitioner told another student that he wanted "to shoot up the school," and advised the student to wear red so that petitioner could easily identify him and avoid taking aim at him.

EAC recognized that the petitioner may have academic difficulties that have been exacerbated or caused by his ADHD; however, what led to petitioner not playing baseball in the spring of 2016 were his disciplinary problems. As such, the EAC concluded that the circumstances were not entirely beyond the petitioner's control and, accordingly, he was not eligible for a waiver. The EAC also noted that because disciplinary problems contributed to the petitioner's inability to play baseball in 2016, it would not be appropriate to displace another student by giving the petitioner a waiver to play baseball.

The petitioner asserts that his behavioral issues are directly tied to his diagnosis of severe ADHD as well as other academic and psychological factors. Thus, the petitioner did not have the requisite control over his ability to graduate high school on time and should in turn be granted an eligibility waiver. The petitioner's IEP for 2017 specifically notes that his placement at the Shepard School was to accommodate his behavioral disability. Unlike other cases in which waiver requests have been denied by the NJSIAA, the petitioner stresses that he has not played four years of high school baseball. Finally, the petitioner points out that he does not start on the varsity team, he is not a difference maker, and his ability to play would not pose any safety concerns as baseball is not a contact sport.[3]

Petitioners seeking to overturn decisions of the NJSIAA bear a heavy burden, and – considering the record of this matter in light of the prescribed standard of review – I find that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits. Specifically, the petitioner has not made a preliminary showing that the EAC applied its rules in a patently arbitrary or unreasonable manner when it determined that the circumstances that caused the petitioner to miss a season of baseball in 2016 were not beyond his control. The NJSIAA has a duty to ensure fairness and integrity in athletic competition statewide, and there is not enough evidence in the record to establish that the decision to deny petitioner's waiver request was unreasonable.[4]

In light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors. Accordingly, the petitioner's request for emergent relief and an Order permitting him to participate in the New Providence baseball program is hereby DENIED.

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

[3] Although petitioner argues that baseball is not a contact sport, NJSIAA rules specifically limit non-contact sports to: bowling, cross-country, fencing, golf, gymnastics, skiing, swimming and diving, tennis, track and volleyball.

[4] Since the petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief in connection with his request for a waiver of the Eight Semester Rule, for purposes of this motion it is not necessary to also analyze the credit rule and its potential applicability to the circumstances in this case.

MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:

The record, proposed stipulation of settlement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's October 6, 2016 determination that the prior stipulation of settlement could not be approved because it was devoid of affirmation from the parties that the respondent was not employed as a teacher elsewhere during the proposed suspension period. Since the stipulation of settlement now contains a certification of respondent attesting that she has not worked as a teacher during the suspension period, the Commissioner can approve the within settlement agreement in its present form.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision recommending approval of the parties' settlement as the final decision in this matter is hereby adopted, and the matter is dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OF THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of

JENNIFER ROME

and

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN
CAMDEN COUNTY

Agency Docket No. 32-2/17

The above-entitled matter was submitted to the undersigned Arbitrator by letter dated March 10, 2017 from the Commissioner of Education through the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26. Following a preliminary conference on March 14, 2017, a hearing was held on March 27, 2017 at the office of Brown and Connery, Esqs. in Westmont, New Jersey, during which hearing the parties successfully engaged in settlement discussions and executed a Settlement Agreement and General Release governing the instant tenure dispute and several other ancillary controversies involving Respondent Jennifer Rome; her brother, Stan T. Stanford III, a/k/a/ Stan Skyrm; the State-Operated School District of the City of Camden; and several named employees of the District. Subsequent scheduled hearings were adjourned pending ratification of the Settlement Agreement and General Release by the State District Superintendent on behalf of the Camden City School District, which ratification occurred on March 31, 2017.

At the arbitration hearing on March 27, 2017, the Arbitrator examined Respondent Jennifer Rome as to her understanding and acceptance of the terms of the Settlement Agreement and General Release. Respondent and her brother Stan T. Stanford III, a/k/a/ Stan Skyrm affirmatively acknowledged on the record in response to questioning by Matthew B. Wieliczko, Esq., of Zeller and Wieliczko, Esqs., counsel for Respondent; by Louis R. Lessig, Esq., of Brown and Connery, Esqs., counsel for the Camden School District in this tenure matter and in the Superior Court action; and by the Arbitrator that they understood that Ms. Rome's attorneys in the tenure matter, Matthew B. Wieliczko and Amy L. Gillette, did not represent either Ms. Rome or Mr. Stanford in the proceedings in Superior Court, Law Division, or before the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights; that they understood and accepted that the Superior Court and New Jersey Division on Civil Rights proceedings, as well as the instant tenure dispute, would be definitively determined by the global settlement they were signing; that they were aware of their right to seek legal representation regarding the pending Superior Court action and the pending New Jersey Division on Civil Rights proceeding; that they were knowingly waiving their right to engage other counsel regarding these proceedings; that they understood what they were gaining and what they were conceding in the global Settlement Agreement and General Release; and that they were fully satisfied with the representation afforded to them in this tenure proceeding by Zeller and Wieliczko, Esqs. The Arbitrator is satisfied that these acknowledgements by Respondent Jennifer Rome and by Mr. Stan Stanford III that they fully understood and accepted the consequences of their accepting the terms of and signing the Settlement Agreement and General Release and ancillary documents attached as exhibits to the Settlement Agreement and General Release were sincere and constituted informed consent.

On April 4, 2017, the parties submitted to the undersigned Arbitrator for examination and consideration an executed Settlement Agreement and General Release covering any other current proceedings or potential future causes of action arising from any act or failure to act by the Camden School District or its agents or employees that may have occurred before March 27, 2017, and four Exhibits, including a Stipulation of Dismissal with prejudice involving an action pending in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Camden County. I have carefully considered each of these documents, as well as the transcript of the tenure hearing of March 27, 2017 as the basis for issuing the following Award.

AWARD OF ARBITRATOR

After duly evaluating the nature of the tenure charges over which I had jurisdiction, the Respondent's record of service to the State-Operated School District of the City of Camden, the absence of proven harm to any student for whom the Respondent was responsible, and the advantages and factors cited by the Board as the bases for its decision to enter into the Settlement Agreement and General Release resolving the instant tenure matter and also resolving ancillary proceedings involving the same parties, I hereby find that the terms and conditions agreed upon by the State-Operated School District and by Respondent Jennifer Rome, each of whom has been advised by counsel regarding these tenure proceedings, to resolve the tenure dispute before me to be reasonable and in the best interest of both the parties and the public.

There being no charge against the Respondent of any moral turpitude, the terms and conditions negotiated under the parties' Settlement Agreement and General Release serve the best interests of the public and of the students of the Camden City School District and satisfy the criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:P3-5.6 (a). Consequently, I accept the Settlement Agreement and General Release as proposed by the parties, and hereby issue this Consent Award incorporating the terms of the Settlement Agreement and General Release executed by the parties, effective March 31, 2017, provided that Respondent has not revoked her execution of the Settlement Agreement within the statutory time periods described in the Settlement Agreement and General Release.

Based on the facts elicited by the evidentiary record in the instant matter regarding the tenure charges brought by the State-Operated School District of the City of Camden against Respondent Jennifer Rome, and having examined the terms of the Settlement Agreement and General Release executed by Respondent Jennifer Rome on March 27, 2017, I find that the terms and conditions set forth in the parties' Settlement Agreement dated March 27, 2017, ratified by the State District Superintendent on behalf of the Camden City School District on March 31, 2017, appear to me to be reasonable, to be consistent with the terms and intent of the TEACHNJ Statute and applicable regulations, and to reflect that Respondent has not committed any conduct unbecoming a tenured teacher.

I hereby endorse and approve the parties' Settlement Agreement and General Release as appropriate under the circumstances and as satisfying the requirements of the TEACHNJ statute.

This Agreement applies to claims resulting from anything which has happened up to the execution of this Agreement.

(c) The District. In exchange for the valuable consideration provided in this Agreement, the District hereby waives, relinquishes, and forever releases Rome and Stanford from any and all rights or claims, known or unknown, asserted or unasserted, from the beginning of time up to and including the date of full execution of this Agreement, including, but not limited to, the Counterclaim against Rome and the Third Party Complaint against Stanford in the Lawsuit, and those claims asserted by the District or which could or should have been asserted by the District in the Lawsuit. This releases all claims, including those for counsel fees and/or costs related to any of the pending litigation and/or other matters, and the Parties shall bear their own attorneys' fees and costs. This Agreement applies to claims resulting from anything which has happened up to the execution of this Agreement.

4. COVENANT NOT TO SUE

Rome and Stanford hereby warrant that as of the date this Agreement is signed that they have not filed any other legal complaint, counterclaim, claim, charge, or lawsuit against the District except for the Lawsuit and the DCR Verified Complaint. Further, Rome and Stanford agree that they will not file, charge, claim, sue or cause or permit to be filed any civil action, suit, or legal proceeding seeking personal, equitable, or monetary relief on their behalf in connection with any and all claims, known or unknown, asserted or unasserted, from the beginning of time up to and including the date of full execution of this Agreement. Rome and Stanford further agree that should any person, organization, or other entity file, charge, claim, sue, or cause or permit to be filed any such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding, they will not seek or accept any personal relief in such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding. In the event of a violation of this paragraph, Rome and Stanford agree that the District shall be entitled to immediate dismissal of such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding and that they shall be responsible for the payment of the reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by the District's defense. Rome and Stanford further agree that they will not file nor permit any other party to file charges with any governmental agency relating to any matter alleged in the Lawsuit.

Notwithstanding Sections 4 and 6 of this Agreement, it is understood and agreed that Rome and Stanford are not waiving claims filed under any state workers' compensation or unemployment law or challenges to the validity of this Agreement including under the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act or other mandate under law.

Nothing in this Agreement shall preclude the District from forwarding the relevant materials to the Board of Examiners as directed by the applicable Regulations, etc.

5. NO ADMISSION OF LIABILITY

The Parties understand that by entering into the Agreement, the District, Rome and Stanford do not admit any liability and expressly deny that they have committed any wrongdoing whatsoever, and that the parties have entered into this Agreement to avoid additional expenses and cost and the aggravation of defending the Lawsuit and/or the DCR Action and/or the Tenure Charge proceeding.

6 CONFIDENTIALITY

Rome and Stanford agree that the terms, amount, and fact of this Agreement, and the nature of all claims that were or could have been raised against the other, as well as any information disclosed by the Parties in the negotiations and mediation leading to this Agreement, are confidential. Rome and Stanford agree that they will not, as of the date of execution of this Agreement, communicate or disclose the terms of this Agreement to any person other than their attorney, accountant, or members of their immediate family, each of whom must first be advised of this duty of confidentiality. In the event Rome and Stanford are asked about the Litigation or the incidents which gave rise to the Lawsuit by any person or entity, they agree that they will state only that the matter has been settled and/or resolved to the Parties' satisfaction. Rome and Stanford recognize and agree that the representations, promises, and covenants set forth in this paragraph constitute a material and significant part of this Agreement and the District would not have entered into this Agreement absent such agreement and, therefore, any violation of this paragraph will constitute a material violation and breach of this Agreement. In the event of a judicial finding of a breach of this provision of the Agreement, the District shall have the right to seek liquidated damages in the full amount of the Payment and the value of the Medical Coverage in Section 2 of the Tenure Charge Agreement and to recover all costs and reasonable attorneys' fees incurred related to any such action.

08108 at least fourteen (14) days prior to any return date of any subpoena or upon receipt of any court order. If either is served or receives any notice or court order within the fourteen (14) day period prior to the return date, they agree to immediately notify the other party.

Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prevent Rome and Stanford from testifying truthfully as a witness in any other litigation matters which may be pending against the District if compelled to do so in response to a duly issued subpoena.

7. AGREEMENT NOT TO DISPARAGE

In further consideration, the District, Superintendent and Bourne, acting in their official capacity, and Rome and Stanford agree to refrain from making any disparaging remarks or comments whatsoever about the District, including, with respect to the District, any of its current or former employees, officers, agents, attorneys, or representatives, and/or its work, schools, facilities, operations, activities, programs, or services. This Agreement includes, but is not limited to, any statements or postings made online, on the internet, or on any social media platform, including but not limited to, any blog, Twitter, MySpace, Facebook, Instagram, Snapchat, Yelp, Tumblr, Flickr, LinkedIn, YouTube, Periscope, or Facebook Live. To the extent such postings exist as of the date of this Agreement, Rome and Stanford hereby agree to immediately and permanently delete or remove such postings at or before the time of their execution of this Agreement. To verify this has been done a Google or similar search may be done by the District or its representatives and must reveal no such information. This is a material part of the Agreement, subject to Paragraph 14 below.

8 AGREEMENT NOT TO CONTACT OR COMMUNICATE WITH THE DISTRICT

In further consideration, Rome and Stanford agree upon the execution of the Agreement to refrain from making any contact or communications of any kind with the District, including any of their current or former attorneys (for any reason other than one related to this Agreement), employees, officers, agents or representatives, either personally; face to face contact; by written correspondence, letters, notes or memos; by mailing, delivering, sending and/or forwarding any tangible thing or object; by telephone; or through any electronic form of communication, including, but not limited to, email, text messaging, or any contact or communication through any social media platform, except as may be necessary in the performance of the Parties duties and obligations under the Agreement and/or the Tenure Charge Agreement. This is a material part of the Agreement, subject to Paragraph 14 below. An express exception to this provision of the Agreement allows and permits both Rome and Stanford to remain friends with current employees, maintain Facebook contact with current friends/acquaintances that are employees and communicate by phone, text or in person with current friends/acquaintances that are employees but are prohibited from discussing anything regarding the settlement topics or terms with these individuals.

9. OVERT PROHIBITION ON SPECIFIC IMPROPER ACTIVITY

Rome and Stanford agree and understand that a portion of the claims raised by the District involve assertions related to the alleged improper use of email addresses, software and servers that are District property. Further, assertions were made that Rome and Stanford utilized agents to contact, make representations and take actions against the District. Additionally, there was allegedly improper access to District records for staff as well as students. Rome and Stanford agree that this Agreement and the compensation related to the same is based in part on an absolute prohibition on engaging in, promoting others to engage in or otherwise disclosing any information allegedly obtained via any of the avenues discussed in this paragraph or these Agreements. This includes the directives under section 4 of the Tenure Charge Agreement and a mandate that Rome and Stanford return any and all information, in any form that was allegedly obtained using the above mentioned methods. Further, Rome and Stanford agree that this section includes a mandate to delete any such materials from any and all devices, servers, etc. in either person's possession. This is a material part of the Agreement, subject to Paragraph 14 below.

10. NOT ELIGIBLE FOR RE-HIRE

In further consideration, Rome hereby acknowledges and agrees that her employment with the District shall be deemed irrevocably severed and that she is ineligible for rehire by the District in any position. Rome agrees that she will not apply for, nor accept employment with, the District and, that if she is offered employment that she will refuse the offer. Should she re-apply for employment, the District shall have no obligation to consider or review her application, and rejection of such application shall not be deemed to constitute any form of retaliation or other claim by the District against Rome. This is a material part of the Agreement.

11. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT BY ROME

The releases in Section 3(a) above shall include a waiver and release of all claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act ("ADEA") and the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act ("OWBPA"); and, pursuant to the requirements of the ADEA and OWBPA, Rome specifically acknowledges that:

(a) She has been advised to consult with an attorney of her choosing concerning the legal significance of the Agreement and has had the opportunity to do so;

(b) The Agreement is written in a manner that she understands;

(c) The consideration set forth the Agreement set forth in Section 1(a) of the Agreement consists of benefits to which she is not otherwise arguably entitled and is adequate and sufficient to support her promises, covenants and releases as set forth in Section 3(a) of this Agreement;

(d) She has been afforded twenty-one (21) days to consider the Agreement before executing it, that any changes thereto subsequently agreed upon by the parties, whether material or immaterial, do not restart this period for consideration, and that by signing and returning the Agreement before the end of the twenty-one (21) day period she will have knowingly and voluntarily waived the right to consider the Agreement for the full consideration period; and

(e) She has been advised that during the seven (7) day period following her execution of the Agreement, she may revoke her acceptance of the Agreement by delivering written notice to counsel for the District (set forth below) with a courtesy copy to her counsel (see below), and that the Agreement and the Tenure Charge Agreement shall not become effective or enforceable until after the revocation period has expired:

12. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT BY STANFORD

Stanford acknowledges that he has read all of the terms of this Agreement; he has had an opportunity to discuss it with individuals of his own choice who are not associated with the District. He has been advised to consult with an attorney of his own choosing and acknowledges that Zeller & Wieliczko, LLP is not his attorney and has not provided him with legal advice or representation. Stanford understands that by signing this Agreement and accepting the terms set forth above, he is receiving benefits to which he would not otherwise be entitled. Stanford understands that he is receiving such benefits as a result of entering into and complying with the terms and provisions of this Agreement. He hereby acknowledges that he signs this Agreement voluntarily and knowingly in exchange for the consideration described therein, which he acknowledges is adequate and satisfactory; and that he has been provided an opportunity to review and consider this Agreement prior to signing it.

13. CONTINGENT AGREEMENT

The terms and conditions of this Agreement are contingent upon the execution by Rome of the Tenure Charge Agreement, and the terms and conditions of the Tenure Charge Agreement are incorporated into this Agreement as if fully set forth herein.

14. RESTRAINTS FOR ROME AND STANFORD

Rome and Stanford both acknowledge that compliance with this Agreement and the Tenure Charge Agreement is necessary to protect the parties, but more specifically to protect the District and its employees and representatives as well as those specifically identified in this Agreement and that any actual or prospective breach will irreparably cause damage to the District for which money damages may not be adequate. Consequently Rome and Stanford both agree that if either or both breaches or attempts to breach this Agreement, the District shall be entitled to obtain temporary, preliminary and permanent equitable relief, without bond, to prevent irreparable harm or injury, and to money damages, together with any and all other remedies available under the law. Rome and Stanford acknowledge that the damage to the District from a breach of this Agreement would be difficult to value and hereby agrees that five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) per breach is a reasonable amount to compensate the District for such damages, unless the District is able to prove otherwise. Rome and Stanford further understand and agree that both shall be liable to pay the District's reasonable attorney's fees and costs in any successful action to enforce this Agreement

Rome and Stanford agree and understand that if one or both of them breach this Agreement, that the District and/or B&C, shall have the right to apply to the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law or Chancery Division, Camden County, to obtain a "Order for Restraints" against one or both of them, in the form attached hereto as "Exhibit 4" to enforce the above restraints in their entirety.

15. GOVERNING LAW AND CONSTRUCTION

This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey. Any disputes arising out of and/or relating to this Agreement shall be filed only in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law or Chancery Division, Camden County, New Jersey and the Parties consent to personal jurisdiction in such courts for any such actions.

16. ENTIRE AGREEMENT AND HEADINGS

This Agreement embodies the entire agreement and understanding between the Parties and supersedes all prior agreements and understandings related to the subject matters hereof. The headings in this Agreement are for purposes of reference only and shall not limit or otherwise affect the meaning of this Agreement or its provisions.

17. NOT ADMISSIBLE

This Agreement is not intended to be used and shall not be used as evidence or for any other purpose in any other action or proceeding, other than evidence of the Parties' compromise as set forth herein, or to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

18. MODIFICATIONS AND AMENDMENTS

This Agreement shall not be modified or amended except by writing duly executed and signed by the Parties to this Agreement.

19. SEVERABILITY

In the event that any such provision of this Agreement is deemed invalid, illegal, void, or unenforceable, such provision shall be regarded as stricken from this Agreement and will not affect the validity or enforceability of the remainder of this Agreement.

20. COUNTERPARTS

This Agreement may be exercised in more than one counterpart and each counterpart shall be considered an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same.

IN WITNESS THEREOF, the Parties have executed this Agreement.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE OF TENURE CHARGE PROCEEDINGS

This Settlement Agreement and Release of Tenure Charge Proceedings ("this Tenure Charge Agreement") is entered into by and between Jennifer Rome ("Rome") and the Camden City School District (the "District"). Together, Rome and the District may be referred to herein as "the Parties."

WHEREAS, Rome is a Computer Teacher with the District;

WHEREAS, the District commenced proceedings with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education by certifying and filing tenure charges against Rome (the "Tenure Charges");

WHEREAS, Rome wishes to resign from her position effective December 30, 2017;

WHEREAS, the Parties mutually desire to resolve this matter;

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY AGREED by and between the Parties as follows:

1. Effective Date: This Tenure Charge Agreement shall take effect on the date it is fully executed by the Parties, and as such, deemed ratified by the State Superintendent as the authorized representative of the District in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35.

2. Separation from Employment:

(a) Rome shall provide the District immediately, through its counsel, Brown & Connery, LLP, with an irrevocable letter of resignation effective December 30, 2017 (hereinafter, the "Resignation Date"), which shall be attached as Exhibit "A" to this Agreement (hereinafter, the "Resignation Letter");

(b) Rome shall be placed by the District on paid administrative leave retroactive to February 28, 2017 through her Resignation Date and with her current salary, but without any increases for the 2017-2018 school year, to be paid in the normal course of the District's payroll operations subject to all applicable payroll deductions, by direct deposit with the first regular pay on or before April 15 and retro payment on or before May 15, including as set forth in Section 2(c) below (the "Payment"). This includes payroll payments to be made during July and August of 2017;

(c) Rome shall remain eligible for all District medical benefits through her Resignation Date. Her portion of the premium for those benefits shall be deducted from her wages in the normal course of the District's payroll operations. Rome will then be eligible for and offered COBRA insurance coverage in the normal course (hereinafter, the "Medical Coverage"); and

(d) In the event that Rome owes any outstanding sums for her portion of the premium for her Medical Coverage, Rome will be required to reimburse the District for same, in the event that the funds exceed the amount of the final payroll check, otherwise any outstanding amount will be deducted from the same;

(e) The District shall take all steps with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education or their designee to withdraw and/or dismiss the Tenure Charges against Rome bearing agency reference number 32-2/17; and

(f) The District shall provide Rome with a neutral reference including only her position as a teacher, dates of employment, where she was employed, and her final annual salary.

(g) The District reserves its right to object and pursue any appeals, suits, disputes or challenges to any claim or filing by Rome for unemployment benefits compensation at the conclusion of this Agreement. Rome reserves the right to preserve and pursue same benefits.

(h) During Rome's administrative leave she is to have no contact, in accordance with this Agreement with anyone at the District, with the exception of support or information needed by Rome concerning only her continued medical coverage and only if two (2) people are on the call with Rome, which may require advanced scheduling. To facilitate communication, Rome must first email with specific questions and then call if a response is not received within ten (10) business days. Additionally, if Rome is contacted directly by the State Superintendent or his designee and in that event shall make herself reasonably available to complete the requested task. Otherwise Rome is prohibited from being on District property or at any District event, with the exception of attending sporting or other events hosted by the District in which Rome's children are participants. Even in this instance, Rome is precluded from discussing any topics or items in these Agreements.

(i) Nothing in this Agreement shall preclude the District from forwarding the relevant materials to the Board of Examiners as directed by the applicable Regulations, etc.

3. Contingent Agreement: The terms and conditions of this Tenure Charge Agreement are contingent upon the execution by the Parties, and by Stan T. Stanford, III, a/k/a Stan Skyrm, of a Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement"), and the terms and conditions of the Agreement are incorporated into the Tenure Charge Agreement as if fully set forth herein.

4. Safe Return of all District Property: Rome's receipt of the wages as set forth in this Tenure Charge Agreement is expressly contingent upon her safely returning all District property in her possession without damage and in properly working order. The District reserves the right to recoup from Rome the total loss for any District property that is not returned or returned in damaged condition.

5. General Release: Rome releases the District from all known and unknown charges, complaints, claims, grievances, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, controversies, damages, actions, causes of action, suits, rights, demands, costs, losses, debts, penalties, fees, and expenses (including attorneys' fees and costs actually incurred) of any nature whatsoever that Rome has, ever had, or may have had, against the District, whether or not apparent or yet to be discovered, or which may hereafter develop, for any acts or omissions relating to or arising from anything that has happened up to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This includes, but is not limited to, any claims Rome asserted, or may have asserted, under the following: the National Labor Relations Act; the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Employment Retirement Income Security Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Age Discrimination & Employment Act; the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Occupational Safety & Health Act; the Family & Medical Leave Act; the Equal Pay Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Wage Payment Law; The New Jersey Minimum Wage Law; the Equal Pay Law for New Jersey; the New Jersey Worker Health & Safety Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; N.J.S.A. 18A; The Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey (TEACHNJ) Act; N.J.A.C. 6A; any constitution, statute, regulation, ordinance, executive order, public policy or common law; any written, verbal or implied contract; and any other authority or basis for seeking damages or relief of any kind. This release is intended to be broadly construed and applies to any and all claims and potential claims whatsoever, including those of which Rome is not aware, resulting from anything that has happened up to the Effective Date of this Agreement.

6. Covenant Not to Sue: Rome hereby warrants that as of the date this Agreement is signed that she has not filed any other legal complaint, counterclaim, claim, charge, or lawsuit against the District except for the Lawsuit and the DCR Verified Complaint. Further, Rome agrees that she will not file, charge, claim, sue or cause or permit to be filed any civil action, suit, or legal proceeding seeking personal, equitable, or monetary relief on her behalf in connection with any and all claims, known or unknown, asserted or unasserted, from the beginning of time up to and including the date of full execution of this Agreement. Rome further agrees that should any person, organization, or other entity file, charge, claim, sue, or cause or permit to be filed any such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding, she will not seek or accept any personal relief in such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding. In the event of a violation of this paragraph, Rome agrees that the District shall be entitled to immediate dismissal of such civil action, suit, or legal proceeding and that she shall be responsible for the payment of the reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by the District's defense. Rome further agrees that she will not file nor permit any other party to file charges with any governmental agency relating to any matter alleged in the Lawsuit.

Notwithstanding Sections 5 and 6 of this Agreement, it is understood and agreed that Rome is not waiving any claims filed under any state workers' compensation or unemployment law or any claim arising from a breach of this agreement; or challenges to the validity of this Agreement under the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act.

7. Older Workers Benefit Protection Act: The releases in section 5 above include a waiver and release of all claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act ("ADEA") and the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act ("OWBPA"). Therefore, pursuant to the requirements of the ADEA and OWBPA, Rome specifically acknowledges that:

(a) She has been advised to consult with an attorney of her choosing concerning the legal significance of the Settlement Agreement and Release and has done so;

(b) The Settlement Agreement and Release are written in a manner that she understands;

(c) The consideration set forth this Settlement Agreement consists of benefits to which she is not otherwise entitled and is adequate and sufficient to support her promises, covenants and releases as set forth in this Release;

(d) She has been afforded twenty-one (21) days to consider the Settlement Agreement and Release before executing it, that any changes thereto subsequently agreed upon by the parties, whether material or immaterial, do not restart this period for consideration, and that by signing and returning the Settlement Agreement and Release before the end of the twenty-one (21) day period she will have knowingly and voluntarily waived the right to consider the Settlement Agreement and Release for the full consideration period; and

(e) She has been advised that during the seven (7) day period following her execution of the Settlement Agreement and the Release, she may revoke her acceptance of this Agreement by delivering written notice to counsel for the District (as identified below) and courtesy notice to Zeller & Wieliczko, LLP, and that the Settlement Agreement and the Release shall not become effective or enforceable until after the revocation period has expired:

Rome agrees not to apply for re-employment with the District. If, for some reason, the District receives an application for Rome's employment, the District shall have no obligation to consider or review her application for employment.

SYNOPSIS

In June 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her daughter, T.N., was ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner contended that she resides at an address within the Ocean City school district. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner and her daughter actually reside at an address in Margate, New Jersey – outside of the respondent's school district. The Board filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the period of T.N.'s ineligible attendance in the district. A hearing in this matter was held on December 27, 2016. However, petitioner failed to appear and offered no explanation for her non-appearance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the facts of this matter indicate that petitioner applied through the school choice program to have T.N. attend Ocean City Schools for the 2015-2016 school year; when T.N. was not accepted into the program, petitioner enrolled her in the Ocean City school district using an apartment address in Ocean City; subsequently, a residency investigation revealed that the lease for the Ocean City apartment had expired, and that petitioner and her daughter were actually living in Margate, at the home of petitioner's mother; as petitioner failed to appear at the hearing, the testimony and evidence presented by the respondent Board was uncontroverted; and the tuition cost for the period of T.N.'s ineligible attendance totaled $15,537. The ALJ concluded that T.N. was ineligible to attend school in Ocean City for the 2015-2016 school year, ordered petitioner to pay respondent in the total amount of $15,537, and dismissed the petition.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons expressed therein. The petitioner was ordered to pay tuition as set forth above. The petition was dismissed.

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.F., the mother of T.N., challenges the determination made by the Board of Education of the City of Ocean City (District) that she did not reside in the City of Ocean City School District. The District filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days T.N. attended school in the district.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 7, 2016 and May 19, 2016, the District notified the petitioner that her daughter, T.N., was ineligible to attend the schools of the district due to non-residency. Petitioner appealed the decision. On July 13, 2016, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A conference call was held on September 2, 2016, in an attempt to settle the case between the parties. A hearing was thereafter scheduled on December 27, 2016, and the petitioner did not appear. Petitioner was marked as "Failed to Appear". The District presented its proofs for the counterclaim but the record remained open for the petitioner to explain her nonappearance. When no explanation was received from petitioner regarding her failure to appear, the record was closed on February 1, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The facts of this case are not in dispute as they are reflected in the exhibits and as such, I FIND the following facts:

1. Petitioner's daughter, T.N., was being schooled by the District for the 2015-2016 school year.

2. Ocean City is a school choice school and T. F. who applied for T.N. to attend as a school choice student for the 2015-2016 school year, but T.N. was not accepted into the program.

3. After not being accepted in the school choice program, T.N. then enrolled in the District using an apartment address in Ocean City, New Jersey.

4. Thereafter, the District received information that T.N. was not actually residing and domiciled at the Ocean City address, but was actually residing at a Margate address.

5. The District engaged the services of DiJoseph Investigations, L.L.C. to conduct an investigation into T.N.'s actual residence.

6. Surveillance was conducted on the Margate address. It was determined at the conclusion of the investigation that petitioner and T.N. did not reside at the Ocean City address. (R-3).

7. On May 19, 2016, a Notice of Request for Disenrollment, along with the supporting documents, was delivered to plaintiff, at both the Ocean City and Margate addresses, via regular mail, Certified Return Receipt mail and hand delivery.

8. On May 25, 2016, a residency hearing was conducted before the Board of Education (Board).

9. The Board determined that T.N. was not domiciled or a resident of Ocean City, which would have entitled her to attend a school with the District without a tuition obligation.

10. On June 20, 2016, petitioner filed an appeal from the District's determination of ineligibility.

11. Tuition for the 2015-2016 school year was $86.38 per day for 180 days, equaling $15,537 per annum.

TESTIMONY

Investigator Lou DiJoseph testified on behalf of the respondent. Prior to becoming a private investigator, he spent twenty-five years in the Intelligence Unit of the New Jersey State Police. He has participated in thirty to forty prior residency hearings.

In this case, on April 22, 2016, he initiated an investigation from a complaint that the Board received indicating that T.F. resided outside of the sending district. The information was that although there was a lease from an Ocean City residence, she actually resided at 29 South B. Avenue in Margate.

His initial investigation involved looking at all of the documents for the 2015-2016 year pertaining to T.F. and her family. He was provided with student registration information sheets from the District regarding the student. Several searches were conducted with emphasis on the student's parent's residency.

According to the student information sheet provided by the District, the student's parent and legal guardian is identified as T.F. with an apartment address in Ocean City, New Jersey. The student information sheet lists it as her primary address. The owner of record for this property is listed as H.A and C.A. of Margate, New Jersey.

He also reviewed other documents including the student information sheet, an expired rental lease agreement between T.F. and H.A., as well as an account agreement between T.F. and H.A. from Cape Bank in Linwood, New Jersey.

T.N.'s father is not listed on the student information sheet and his name remains unknown to the investigator. T.N.'s grandmother is identified as R.F. R.F. resides at South B. Avenue in Margate. An internet based searches for T.F. and R.F. showed a listed address of Doylestown, Pennsylvania and the South B. Avenue address in Margate.

Surveillance was conducted from April 24, 2016 through May 14, 2016, on the South B. Avenue address in Margate. On those occasions, a silver Ford Focus registered to R.F. was observed parked in the driveway. During the course of this surveillance, T.F., R.F. and T.N. were consistently observed at the residence. T.N. was observed letting two small dogs inside the residence and assisting R.F. bringing groceries into the residence. Also, landscapers cut the grass and prior to leaving, spoke with T.F.

It was his conclusory opinion that T.F. is the biological mother of T.N. R.F. is T.N.'s grandmother. The three are living together at South B. Avenue in Margate. As such, she resides outside the confines of the sending district for the District.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Therefore, based upon the uncontroverted testimony and evidence, I FIND that T.N. and her mother were domiciled in Margate, which is outside the District. Accordingly, I FIND that T.N. was ineligible to attend school in the District for the 2015-2016 school year. I FURTHER FIND, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the days T.N. attended the District while she was ineligible for the 2015-2016 school year.[1] As such, the District must establish the cost of tuition and the number of days T.N. attended the District's schools when she was ineligible to do so. The testimony was uncontroverted and therefore, I FIND that the per-pupil cost for a student to attend school in the district for the 2015-2016 school year was $86.38 per day multiplied by days of attendance, which was 180, equaling $15,537 per annum.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

At issue is whether T.N. was entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

[1] Although the Respondent's Answer does not include a titled "Counterclaim", the Wherefore clause clearly requests relief for tuition reimbursement. As such, the undersigned believes that the Appellants have been afforded proper notice of the request for tuition reimbursement.

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

The record reflects that T.N. attended school within the district for the 2015-2016 school year while domiciled outside of the District. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that T.N. was not entitled to a free public education in the district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition "for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per-pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced." The uncontested record reflects that the actual cost of T.N.'s attendance in-district was $86.38 per day equaling $15,537 per annum. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to reimbursement for tuition by the petitioner in the amount of $15,537. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioner, T.F., pay respondent, Board of Education of the City of Ocean City, tuition in the total amount of $15,537 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that the District's determination that T.N. was ineligible to attend school while domiciled outside the district is hereby AFFIRMED. Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

The petitioning Board of Education of the Wayne Township Public Schools (Board) sought to remove and disqualify the respondent as a member of the Board for alleged breaches of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, which – in pertinent part – provides that no member of a board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board. The Board based its claim against respondent upon an alleged inconsistent interest involving Ms. Kazan's ongoing support for a full day kindergarten program within petitioner's school district after a proposal for funding the program was defeated in a public referendum. Specifically, respondent was among a group of citizens who petitioned the Superior Court to review and invalidate the election results, alleging that the outcome of the vote was tainted by illegal political activity at the polling places. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner sought to disqualify and remove the respondent from the Board for holding an opinion on a public issue over which reasonable people could disagree, and for speaking in defense of her position while sitting in Board meetings; while the Board argued that words spoken and actions taken by the respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 because of an alleged inconsistent interest, it has failed to support its argument with evidence that respondent was involved in any contract with or claim against the Board; respondent did not sue or file a complaint against the Board, but rather was among a group of citizens who sought a Superior Court review of the election process in the referendum, only the subject matter of which implicated Board interests. The ALJ concluded that the respondent has the right to remain on the Board on behalf of the citizens who voted for her, and for her platform in favor of full day kindergarten. Accordingly, the ALJ granted respondent's motion for summary decision and denied the Board's cross motion for summary decision.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that respondent has no conflict of interest pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 that precludes her from serving on the Board. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the Office of Administrative Law was adopted as the final decision for the reasons expressed therein. The petition was dismissed.

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about June 17, 2016, petitioner Board of Education of the Township of Wayne (Board) filed an action with the Commissioner of the Department of Education against respondent Catherine Kazan (respondent) seeking her removal and disqualification as a member of the Board for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.

The matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on July 11, 2016, for plenary hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On or about September 23, 2016, the Board filed an Amended Ethics Complaint with the School Ethics Commission (SEC) within the Department of Education, which alleged ten violations under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. The petitioners in the latter matter are six of the other members of the Board. The SEC did not transmit that matter over but is retaining the matter until this action is decided by the Department.[1]

I convened a telephonic case management conference with the parties on September 29, 2016, to discuss the potential issues in the case, scheduling, and other case management concerns. It became apparent that the matter was amenable to dispositive motion practice and a briefing schedule was agreed upon. Respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision on or about October 18, 2016. On or about January 13, 2017, petitioner filed a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision. Responses and replies were thereafter submitted. Those motion submissions having been received, the matter is now ripe for decision.

[1] I initially was under the impression that the matters were to be consolidated and entered my Initial Decision accordingly. While I am no longer in possession of the physical record filed, I do not recall ever being provided with the SEC Letter of October 25, 2016, until the "clarification" letter filed by Isabel Machado, Esq., on March 16, 2017. I note that in one of her briefs, she wrote:

> While we recognize that this instant petition concerns Respondent's qualifications to continue to serve on the Board of Education and not her ethics, the same principals apply. Respondent's First Amendment freedoms do not allow her to act on behalf of her personal interests, when such interests conflict with the will of the majority of the voters of Wayne Township and are inconsistent with the Board's interests.
>
> [Cross-Motion Brief at 15]

This Amended Initial Decision is intended to correct the jurisdictional error.

ISSUE PRESENTED ON THE MOTION

Whether respondent should be found disqualified and removed from her elected position on the Board of Education due to alleged breachs of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, because of an alleged inconsistent interest. That statute provides in pertinent part: "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board, . . ."

UNDISPUTED MATERIAL FACTS

1. In 2013, Respondent ran on a political platform pledging to institute a Full Day Kindergarten Program within the District. See Certification of Isabel Machado, Esq. ("Machado Cert."), Exhibit A.

2. Respondent has been a sitting member of the Wayne Township Public Schools Board of Education since January 2, 2014.

3. On or about November 3, 2015, a public question was posed to the residents of Wayne Township asking whether, if a Full Day Kindergarten were to be established in the District, they would support raising the 2% cap. The public question was defeated 5,071 to 4,500. See Machado Cert., Exhibit D and F.

4. In or about November 2015, respondent donated $100 to a GoFundMe page in support of Full Day Kindergarten. See Machado Cert., Exhibit B.

5. On or about December 3, 2015, fifteen citizens, including respondent filed suit naming the Township Clerk, Paul V. Margiotta, as the official responsible for certifying the election results of the township as the respondent and sought to have the results of the public question set aside due to alleged illegal electioneering on the part of poll workers. See Machado Cert., Exhibit C ("Complaint").

6. On January 7, 2016, at the Board Organizational Meeting, six of the eight Board members voted to approve a motion to implement full-day kindergarten in all nine elementary schools for the 2016/2017 school year within the 2016/2017 budget. The motion was offered by Christian Smith and seconded by respondent. In stating her reasons for supporting the motion, respondent advised that it "is our job, that is what you voted for us to do, and that is the administration's job to find a way" to implement Full Day Kindergarten and cut "whatever we need to cut" to keep the program within the 2% tax levy cap. Id. Furthermore, she stated "it is our job to inform the administration the needs and wants of the community, as boards and trustees." See Machado Cert., Exhibit D.

7. At the January 21, 2016, Board meeting, both the Wayne Superintendent and the Interim Executive County Superintendent spoke to the members concerning budgetary constraints. Both expressed opinions that full-day kindergarten could not be implemented within the cap without impacting mandatory and other programs.

8. At the March 3rd and 14th meetings of the Board, the budget was presented and debated. There was concern expressed about some loss of State funding. Respondent questioned the priorities within the budget and some specific line items. See Machado Cert., Exhibits F and G.

9. After hearing administration's concerns, at the March 14th meeting, the Board voted seven to two to rescind the earlier vote to implement full-day kindergarten within the then-current proposed school budget. See Machado Cert., Exhibit G.

10. On March 17, 2016, the Board ultimately agreed to again place a question on the ballot regarding adding the cost of full-day kindergarten above the then-current school budget funding limit, by a unanimous vote. See Machado Cert., Exhibit H.

11. On or about April 16, 2016, Robert DeGroot, Esq., filed an Order to Show Cause, Certification, and accompanying Petition, identical to the December 2015

Petition, seeking redress to invalidate the November 2015 election results. Prior thereto, DeGroot had concluded that the Complaint was moot as a result of the January vote. The Order to Show Cause was filed because of the vote of the Board rescinding that action. Respondent did not have direct knowledge that an Order to Show Cause would be filed.

12. On or about June 8, 2016, the Board was served with a copy of the Complaint and a Summons. See Machado Cert., Exhibit I. Several days later, the Board was served with a copy of the Order to Show Cause and Petition, filed by the Superior Court under a separate docket number. See Machado Cert., Exhibit K. The service of these court papers was undertaken at the request of the Court Clerk. See Certification of Roger DeGroot, Esq., ¶ 7.

13. At no time relevant to these events did respondent advise the Board that she had been a signatory on the original Complaint to rescind the prior full-day kindergarten ballot question due to improper electioneering.

14. At a June 16, 2016, the Board passed a resolution directing counsel to file a complaint with the School Ethics Commission and a Petition with the Commissioner of Education to disqualify respondent from membership on the Board. Respondent notes that the resolution was passed without giving an opportunity for the respondent to answer any concerns or accusations of the Board members. Additionally, it appears the vote was taken under the mistaken premise that respondent filed an action against the Board.

15. On or about June 17, 2016, a Petition for Disqualification was filed with the Commissioner of Education, which was then transmitted to the OAL as the within matter.

16. Plaintiffs voluntarily withdrew the Complaint on June 26, 2016, after the decision was made to place the question again on the ballot. See Machado Cert., Exhibit O.

17. Respondent filed an answer to said Petition to Disqualify on July 6, 2016. See Machado Cert., Exhibit N.

18. On or about June 24, 2016, respondent was photographed with members of a Facebook group named "Wayne Say OK to Full Day K" at a fundraising event open to the public at an art studio named "Pinot's Palette." See Machado Cert., Exhibit M.

To the extent that the parties have not expressly admitted to all the material facts, I add the following which are material but are established as a matter of documentation and public record and should not be deemed in dispute:

1. The Board of Education of the Township of Wayne was not a party to nor named in the complaint filed to set aside the results of the public ballot question.

2. Neither respondent nor her counsel have any control over the Superior Court's Clerk Office or automated case management system.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

It is well-established that if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Brill guides us thusly:

> [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential > materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

> [Id. at 540]

In explaining the standard to be applied in summary motion practice, the Brill Court explained:

> The same standard applies to determine whether a prima facie case has been established by the party bearing the burden of proof in a trial. . . . If a case involves no material factual disputes, the court disposes of it as a matter of law by rendering judgment in favor of the moving or non-moving party.
> [Id. at 536-37]

As a result of the agreement on the material facts, I CONCLUDE that the issue of any disqualifying offense by respondent can be decided as a matter of law.

The Board asserts ethics violations in the companion dispute, of which it has also provided supporting documentation notwithstanding that it was not consolidated herein, under two statutory provisions applicable to Board members, which provide as follows:

> N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24. Conflicts of interest
> a. No school official or member of his immediate family shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business, transaction, or professional activity, which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest;
>
> b. No school official shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges, advantages or employment for himself, members of his immediate family or others;
> c. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment. No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he or a member of his immediate family has a personal involvement that is or creates some benefit to the school official or member of his immediate family;

d. No school official shall undertake any employment or service, whether compensated or not, which might reasonably be expected to prejudice his independence of judgment in the exercise of his official duties;

e. No school official, or member of his immediate family, or business organization in which he has an interest, shall solicit or accept any gift, favor, loan, political contribution, service, promise of future employment, or other thing of value based upon an understanding that the gift, favor, loan, contribution, service, promise, or other thing of value was given or offered for the purpose of influencing him, directly or indirectly, in the discharge of his official duties. This provision shall not apply to the solicitation or acceptance of contributions to the campaign of an announced candidate for elective public office, if the school official has no knowledge or reason to believe that the campaign contribution, if accepted, was given with the intent to influence the school official in the discharge of his official duties;

f. No school official shall use, or allow to be used, his public office or employment, or any information, not generally available to the members of the public, which he receives or acquires in the course of and by reason of his office or employment, for the purpose of securing financial gain for himself, any member of his immediate family, or any business organization with which he is associated;

g. No school official or business organization in which he has an interest shall represent any person or party other than the school board or school district in connection with any cause, proceeding, application or other matter pending before the school district in which he serves or in any proceeding involving the school district in which he serves or, for officers or employees of the New Jersey School Boards Association, any school district. This provision shall not be deemed to prohibit representation within the context of official labor union or similar representational responsibilities;

h. No school official shall be deemed in conflict with these provisions if, by reason of his participation in any matter required to be voted upon, no material or monetary gain accrues to him as a member of any business, profession, occupation or group, to any greater extent than any gain could reasonably be expected to accrue to any other member of that business, profession, occupation or group;

And:

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.1. Code of Ethics for School Board Members

A school board member shall abide by the following Code of Ethics for School Board Members:

a. I will uphold and enforce all laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education, and court orders pertaining to schools. Desired changes shall be brought about only through legal and ethical procedures.

b. I will make decisions in terms of the educational welfare of children and will seek to develop and maintain public schools that meet the individual needs of all children regardless of their ability, race, creed, sex, or social standing.

c. I will confine my board action to policy making, planning, and appraisal, and I will help to frame policies and plans only after the board has consulted those who will be affected by them.

d. I will carry out my responsibility, not to administer the schools, but, together with my fellow board members, to see that they are well run.

e. I will recognize that authority rests with the board of education and will make no personal promises nor take any private action that may compromise the board.

f. I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends.

g. I will hold confidential all matters pertaining to the schools which, if disclosed, would needlessly injure individuals or the schools. In all other matters, I will provide accurate information and, in concert with my fellow board > members, interpret to the staff the aspirations of the community for its school.

> h. I will vote to appoint the best qualified personnel available after consideration of the recommendation of the chief administrative officer.
>
> i. I will support and protect school personnel in proper performance of their duties.
> j. I will refer all complaints to the chief administrative officer and will act on the complaints at public meetings only after failure of an administrative solution.

Frankly, I am shocked at the level of vitriol that has been on display just in the papers filed in this matter. I am also shocked at the suggestion that a citizen who has been elected to a Board is expected to leave his or her opinions at the door notwithstanding he or she campaigned on specific concerns and issues, and notwithstanding the retention of free speech rights under the First Amendment. Respondent is passionate about full-day kindergarten for Wayne's children. Petitioner is correct that this case is not about the correctness of that position; nor will this matter reach any conclusion on that local subject. Yet, no member who is part of a minority of persons holding a certain viewpoint on an issue of local concern is stifled from expressing those views by any ethical code so long as those views are expressed in an appropriate manner, i.e., without profanity or libelous speech, or for an inappropriate reason, i.e., personal gain.

Petitioner seeks to disqualify and remove respondent from the Board for holding an opinion on a public issue over which clearly reasonable people could disagree, and for speaking her mind on that issue while sitting in Board meetings. Query what was the point of being elected to the Board if holding the minority or even an unpopular point of view is prohibited? No other Board member who voted similarly to respondent has been subjected to charges of unethical behavior before the Commission so far as I can discern. For example, the allegations of the Amended School Ethics Complaint would have findings of violations entered for the acts of debate and vote as a Board member during a Board meeting – Violations Four, Five, Six, Seven, and Eight. Other allegations split hairs or puff up repetitive charges, including Violations Two, Three and

Six. Violation One alleges unethical conduct on the part of respondent because she privately contributed money for a campaign to support full-day kindergarten; she visited a booth in support of full-day kindergarten at Wayne Day; and she was at a public art studio for a fundraising event for full-day kindergarten and was photographed with a pro-full-day kindergarten group of citizens. None of those actions is alleged to have occurred as a result of respondent representing herself as a Board member as opposed to acting as a private citizen. Violation Ten cites hearsay contained in newspaper reports of the dispute between the parties hereto and statements of her attorney as evidence of negative comments attempting to smear other members of the Board. Violation Nine is an allegation that she failed to properly serve her pro se request for an advisory opinion from the Commission (after this dispute had already ripened).[2]

While the Board argues that the enumerated words spoken and actions taken by respondent violates N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, because of an alleged inconsistent interest. That statute provides in pertinent part: "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board, . . .," it has failed to support its argument with evidence of any contract with or claim against. In fact, the ethics proscriptions in Section 24.1 includes the statement "I will refuse to surrender my independent judgment to special interest or partisan political groups or to use the schools for personal gain or for the gain of friends." Respondent retained her independent judgment and nothing to the contrary presented by the Board indicates that she abdicated it for her gain or the gain of others. The only change respondent was seeking to make was to establish full-day kindergarten in Wayne and she tried to do so by exercising her right to lobby her fellow members through debate and discussion.

With respect to the issue of respondent signing on to the Complaint, petitioner has also exaggerated both the facts and their significance. Respondent correctly asserts that she was just one of the fifteen citizens who signed the Complaint, the number needed to mount an election challenge under Title 19. She is also correct in stating that the Board was not a party to that litigation, no matter what a clerk might say or a computerized summary might display. This was not a lawsuit filed to force the Board to install full-day kindergarten. This was a lawsuit to invalidate the results of a public question on the ballot. That the subject matter of the public question involved the school budget and its 2% cap is not relevant to that lawsuit or this one.

I could reach the conclusion that respondent should have erred on the side of caution and not become a signatory plaintiff to the Complaint, but in no other manner or fashion did she violate the ethical restraints upon Board members. The Commission has recognized that "board members do not surrender the rights that they have as citizens such as freedom of speech" due to their board membership but, in exercising those rights, a board member must comply with the standards set forth in the School Ethics Act. SEC Advisory Opinion, A02-06 (March 10, 2006). I CONCLUDE as a matter of law and undisputed facts that petitioner has failed to support these allegations. Moreover, even if it had, the relief sought by petitioner should be seen as extreme and extremely inappropriate.

Again, the Board seeks to disqualify and remove respondent on the basis of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2, because of alleged inconsistent interests. That statute provides in pertinent part: "No member of any board of education shall be interested directly or indirectly in any contract with or claim against the board, . . ." The Supreme Court of New Jersey has interpreted Section 2 to require a "substantial conflict" in order to support a removal of a duly-elected member of a Board of Education:

> Accordingly, the Commissioner's decisions examining claims by board members have discussed the relevance of determining whether the member was pursuing a claim in the public interest rather than "personal aggrandizement and enrichment," Bd. of Educ. of Newark v. Brown, 1984 S.L.D. 671, 680 (Comm'r of Educ.), aff'd, 1984 S.L.D. 683 (St. Bd. of Educ.), and such other considerations as whether the claim giving rise to the conflict of interest promised "substantial and material benefit" to the claimant. Id. at 681 (internal quotation marks omitted). We note further that, in one decision, the Commissioner specifically rejected the argument that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 requires automatic > disqualification for "any" claim against a board. See id. at 679, 681 (citing Hogan v. Bd. of Educ. of Kearny, 1982 S.L.D. 329(ALJ), aff'd, 1982 S.L.D. 354 (Comm'r of Educ.) (permitting abstention to remedy circumstances where "claim" against board involved reimbursement of legal fees incurred in Open Public Meetings Act lawsuit filed by member), aff'd, 1982 S.L.D. 356 (St. Bd. of Educ.)).

> In sum, we find that the Commissioner's applications of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2 demonstrate a willingness to engage in a careful examination of a board member's asserted conflicting interest in a claim against a board and, further, to find that not all claims in which a board member has an interest constitute a "substantial conflict" requiring removal from office as the sole remedy.
> [Bd. of Educ. of City of Sea Isle City v. Kennedy, 196 N.J. 1, 15-16 (2008)]

Here, respondent did not sue or file a complaint against the Board of which she was a member. She and fourteen other citizens sought Superior Court review of the election process on the public question. She gained nothing and had no pecuniary interest, such as a family business, adverse to the Board. Nothing I have read requires respondent to sit home from Wayne Day or other cultural events in the community. Moreover, a more careful inquiry by the Board would have revealed that the Complaint was an election law challenge to obtain an order to the municipal clerk to void the election results. Only the subject matter of the public question implicated Board interests. Nevertheless, respondent might have appeared to be challenging her Board in this litigation by the general public of Wayne. It is a very weak claim by petitioner that I CONCLUDE should be thrown out entirely. Respondent has every right to remain on the Board on behalf of the citizens who voted for her, no doubt because they agree with her passionate stance about kindergarten.

I would remind all parties that "[d]iscussion in America means dissent." James Thurber. We should welcome different views on important school policies such as full-day kindergarten because "[f]reedom is hammered out on the anvil of discussion, dissent, and debate." Hubert H. Humphrey

It is ORDERED that the motion of respondent Catherine Kazan for an Order Granting Summary decision is hereby GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the cross-motion of petitioner Board of Education of the Township of Wayne for an Order Granting Summary Decision is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

V.	:	ORDER
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On July 8, 2015, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found S.L. liable for tuition in the amount of Sixty Four Thousand Four Hundred Ninety Nine Dollars and Forty Cents ($64,499.40), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by her children, J.L., J.L., and O.L., in the Board's school district during the 2013-2014 and 2014-2015 school years. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that S.L. had failed to comply with the decision and it requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessments on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. S.L. offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Sayoka Lewis is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $64,499.40, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

Attorneys for State-Operated School
District of the City of Newark

IN RE LAURITHA LANE and the STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK,	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties involved herein have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement") that fully disposes of all issues in controversy between Lauritha Lane ("Lane") and the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("the District"):

1. Lane hereby agrees to resign from her tenured position effective February 10, 2017. Attached is a copy of Lane's signed Letter of Resignation (Exhibit A). Lane's separation from employment will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third parties, the District will only confirm Lane's employment, position, title, salary and dates of employment.
2. Lane also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that he may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies, with the exception of workers compensation claims. The Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the District and Lane. Should Lane fail to submit letters of withdrawals for any such pending claims or suits, this Settlement Agreement will serve as Lane's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers' compensation claims.

3. In exchange, commencing November 1, 2016, Lane will be placed on administrative leave with pay until the date of her effective resignation. Should Lane obtain employment with another entity prior to her date of effective resignation, the District will remove Lane from administrative leave with pay status and process her resignation to be effective the date she obtained subsequent employment and Lane will cease receiving any salary from the District thereafter. Other than the salary that she receives until the date of her resignation, Lane will not receive any further monies from the District in exchange for this Settlement Agreement.
4. The District also agrees not to pursue any disciplinary action, including termination of Lane's employment so long as this Settlement Agreement remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. However, if the Settlement Agreement is voided, the District retains the right to pursue disciplinary action against Lane including termination from the District.
5. As of the date of her resignation, all of Lane's employment rights, including, but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.
6. Lane agrees that she will not apply for reemployment with the District at any time. Specifically, Lane will be considered to have permanently retired from her tenured position as a result of this Settlement Agreement. If Lane does apply for reemployment with the District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Settlement shall control and be grounds for immediate termination of Lane's employment.
7. This Settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.
8. Except as noted above, Lane waives all claims of any nature against the District with regard to her employment with and/or separation from the District including fees, or other monetary relief, with the exception of workers' compensation claims.

9. By entering into this Settlement, and in exchange for the good consideration set forth in Paragraph 3 and 4 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, Lane releases and discharges the District, the State District Superintendent, its Advisory Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") with respect to all claims or rights that he has or may have against the District regarding her employment. This release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Lane's employment with the District and separation from the District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Lane may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964; as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employment Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employment Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the Federal False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, the retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law (and including any and all amendments to the above), the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance, common law and/or contract or implied contract or collective bargaining/contractual claim or tort law or public policy or whistleblower claim, having any bearing whatsoever on her employment by and the termination of her employment with the District, including, but not limited to, any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, front pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wage, commission or bonus payment, attorneys fees, costs, and/or future wage loss, except for worker compensation claims.

10. Notwithstanding Paragraph 9 of this Settlement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 9, Lane agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

11. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, if applicable, this Agreement advised Lane of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Agreement, Lane acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Agreement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Agreement to revoke it. Lane understands that she may rescind this Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the District either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

12. The parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement and that each is signing this Settlement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

13. This Settlement constitutes the full agreement of the parties and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law.

14. If any provision or portion of a provision of this Settlement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable federal or state law to be invalid, void or unenforceable, the remaining provisions or remaining portions of a provision will continue and remain in full force and effect.

15. This Settlement is subject to final approval by the State District Superintendent of the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark and will only become effective upon the approval of the Superintendent. Any disapproval by the Superintendent shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release (hereinafter referred to as the "Agreement") is entered into this 7th day of December 2016, between the Union County Educational Services Commission (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission") and Sergio Calafiore (hereinafter referred to as "Calafiore").

WHEREAS, Calafiore was employed as a Teacher of Food Services by the Commission prior to the abolishment of his position effective July 1, 2014; and

WHEREAS, Calafiore filed a retirement application with the Division of Pensions and Benefits that became effective on November 1, 2014; and

WHEREAS, on August 13, 2014, Calafiore filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education to challenge the Commission's reduction in force and abolishment of his position [OAL Docket No. EDU 12005-14, Agency Ref. No. 223-8/14]; and

WHEREAS, on April 15, 2015, Calafiore moved to amend his Petition to include a seniority rights claim; and

WHEREAS, on June 16, 2016, the Hon. Irene Jones, ALJ granted the Commission's Motion for Summary Decision upholding the Commission's decision to abolish Calafiore's position, and denied Calafiore's motion to amend his Petition to include a seniority rights claim; and

WHEREAS, on July 28, 2016, the Commissioner of Education affirmed Judge Jones's decision regarding the Commission's abolishment of Calafiore's position, but reversed Judge Jones's determination on Calafiore's motion to amend his Petition, and remanded Calafiore's claim to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as to whether Calafiore is entitled to a position with the Commission by virtue of his seniority rights; and

WHEREAS, on remand the matter was assigned to the Hon. Danielle Pasquale, ALJ [OAL Docket No. EDU 11405-16, Agency Ref No. 223-8/14]; and

WHEREAS, on September 16, 2016, Calafiore resubmitted his Amended Petition for Relief; and

WHEREAS, on November 8, 2016, Calafiore filed his Second Amended Petition; and

WHEREAS, the Commission disputes Calafiore's claim of entitlement to a position with the Commission by virtue of his alleged seniority rights; and

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous to amicably resolve the matter without further litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration for the premises and conditions set forth herein, the Commission and Calafiore agree as follows:

1. TERMS.

A. Calafiore will immediately dismiss with prejudice the Second Amended Petition currently pending against the Commission [OAL Docket No. EDU 11405-16, Agency Ref No. 223-8/14]. Calafiore further agrees not to file a new claim, in any forum, regarding any of the allegations raised in his original and/or amended petitions against any individuals or entities affiliated with the Commission, as further detailed in the "Complete Release" section below.

B. Calafiore will receive the total sum of $3,750.00, inclusive of attorneys' fees in settlement of this matter. The Commission's payment to Calafiore will be subject to applicable tax withholdings, and the Commission will issue a W-2 form to Calafiore for this payment.

C. The parties agree that they are only responsible for their respective attorneys' fees incurred to date. Calafiore agrees that if he should file a claim in a court of competent jurisdiction and/or administrative action relating to the terms set forth in this Agreement (with the exception of any action necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement), the Commission may seek reasonable attorneys' fees incurred in defending against said litigation, as further provided for in subsection 2b below.

D. The Commission agrees to provide Calafiore with a neutral letter of reference by providing his title and dates of service only.

E. The terms of this Agreement are subject to formal acceptance and ratification by the Commission.

10. NON-PRECEDENTIAL.

It is understood between and among all parties hereto that the terms of this settlement shall not have any precedential effect or constitute binding practice by the Commission.

11. REVOCATION.

Calafiore may revoke this Agreement within seven days after the date this Agreement is signed by Calafiore. This revocation must take the form of written notice by Calafiore that he intends to revoke the Agreement. The revocation must be provided directly to the Commission. This seven day revocation period may not be waived by Calafiore.

12. REASONABLE PERIOD OF TIME.

Calafiore agrees that he has been given a reasonable period of time of at least 21 days within which to review and consider this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement, but that Calafiore may waive this 21 day period by signing in the space provided at the end of this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound hereby, I, Sergio Calafiore, execute the foregoing Agreement this 7th day of December, 2016.

The record, proposed settlement agreement and release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's March 17, 2017 determination that the settlement agreement previously submitted did not comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.13, as it was neither signed by the Board's attorney, nor contained a copy of the Board's resolution approving the settlement. Since there is now a Board resolution approving the settlement, the Commissioner can approve the within settlement agreement in its present form.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision recommending approval of the parties' settlement as the final decision in this matter is hereby adopted, and the matter is dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

WHEREAS the Student has filed a Petition for review with the Commissioner of Education against District, with the Petition bearing Agency Docket No. 188-7/16; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to resolve their differences rather than proceeding forward with any further litigation, or incurring any further attendant costs of any litigation as well as any hearing and appeal, and without any admissions of wrongdoing by either Party; and

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on behalf of her son, E.J.G., seeking a determination that E.J.G. is entitled to a free public education in the Lakeland Regional High School District. The respondent Board alleged that petitioner resides in Lincoln Park, which is not a part of the Lakeland Regional High School District.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and a pre-hearing conference was scheduled for March 28, 2017. Petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The OAL sent a notice of petitioner's failure to appear to the Commissioner on March 30, 2017, and subsequently returned the file to this agency. Correspondence from petitioner explaining her failure to appear was received by the Commissioner on April 13, 2017.

Upon review, the Commissioner found that the petitioner asserted that she had called the OAL on March 28 when she did not receive a call from the OAL for the 3:30 prehearing telephone conference. Petitioner asserted that she was told that she would receive a notice by mail with a new prehearing conference date. When no notice was received, she contacted the OAL and was told the file had been returned to the Department of Education. Based on the petitioner's timely written explanation for her nonappearance and her assertion that she had called regarding the status of the conference, the Commissioner determined to re-transmit the matter to the OAL for further disposition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b).

The record of this matter and the advisement by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 – of petitioner's failure to appear at a March 28, 2017 prehearing conference have been reviewed.

Petitioner filed a hand-written explanation asserting that she called the OAL on March 28, 2017 at 3:38 when she did not receive a call from the OAL for the 3:30 prehearing conference. The petitioner contends that someone from the OAL informed her that the OAL was experiencing problems with the phone system and that she would receive a notice in the mail with a new date for the prehearing conference. When the petitioner did not receive a notice with a new prehearing conference date, she contacted the OAL and was told that the file had been returned to the Department of Education (Department). The petitioner further states the Administrative Law Judge Bedrin Murray advised the petitioner that she should contact the Department and request that the file be returned to the OAL.

Based upon the petitioner's timely written explanation for her nonappearance and her assertion that she called the OAL on the date of the prehearing conference to inquire about the status of the conference, this matter is being retransmitted to the OAL for further disposition, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b).

V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

On December 5, 2016, T.M. – the mother of J.R. – filed a pro se petition appealing the determination of the respondent Board that her son is not entitled to a free public education in West Orange schools. Petitioner contended that J.R. resided in West Orange with his stepfather, M.M., during the school year and resided with her in East Orange during the summer months. Subsequently, T.M. was informed that the appeal must be initiated by M.M., since it is his home in which J.R. was allegedly domiciled. On December 9, 2016, M.M. filed a pro se petition asserting that J.R. lives with him, but visits his mother at her East Orange residence. The respondent argued that the Board had not received any legal papers or court orders that appointed petitioner M.M. as J.R.'s legal guardian or parent/legal guardian of primary residence; accordingly, the Board requested that the petition be dismissed with prejudice. The Board did not seek tuition reimbursement from petitioner.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.2(a)(1), a student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district; the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian; in the instant case, M.M. contested the Board's decision that J.R. was not properly domiciled in West Orange; based on the testimony and evidence, T.M. and J.R. lived with petitioner M.M. in West Orange when J.R. was registered for school in August 2015; M.M. and T.M. described their relationship as boyfriend and girlfriend when they resided together in West Orange, and believed that this was enough to establish M.M. as J.R.'s legal guardian; however, M.M. is neither a parent or legal guardian of the J.R., nor does he have any written agreement giving him permission to have J.R. reside with him in West Orange. The ALJ concluded that J.R. has not been a domiciliary of West Orange since July of 2016, and is therefore ineligible for continued attendance in the West Orange public schools.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision – that J.R. is no longer domiciled in the district and that the Board's decision denying J.R. the ability to attend school in the district was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 5, 2017, T.M. the mother of J.R., filed a residency petition on behalf of J.R., a student at Kelley Elementary School, West Orange. On December 9, 2017, the State Department of Education (DOE), advised T.R. that because she was alleging J.R. resided with his stepfather, M.M. in the West Orange School District, M.M. would have to initiate the appeal of the Board's residency determination. On December 9, 2016, M.M. filed the residency petition on behalf of J.R. On December 27, 2016, the BOE filed an Answer with the State Department of Education (DOE). The pleading did not seek reimbursement from the Petitioner for the tuition incurred by the attendance of the minor child in the BOE's district. On December 30, 2016, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A hearing was held on March 20, 2017, on which date the record was closed. It was confirmed on the record with Ms. Fabres, counsel for the BOE, that her client is not seeking tuition reimbursement from Petitioner, M.M.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND:

On August 25, 2015, T.M. registered her minor son, J.R. in the West Orange School District. (R1). Pursuant to the testimony of T.M., she and her son J.R. were residing with M.M. in West Orange. Thereafter, in or about July of 2016, T.M. moved to East Orange. Respondent's residency inspector, David Zawacki, credibly testified that the first notice that was received by the BOE that J.R. was not residing in West Orange was at the end of the 2015-2016 school year. This original investigation was never completed since the school year had ended. The investigation was re-initiated in October of 2016. On at least fifteen occasions between October and November of the 2016-2017 school year, the minor child, J.R. was observed leaving a residence in East Orange and being driven to a West Orange school bus stop. The student was never observed leaving in the morning from the West Orange address on file with the West Orange School District (R2) or any other West Orange address. A residency hearing was conducted on November 14, 2016, wherein the West Orange BOE voted to remove J.R. from the West Orange School District. Notice of the BOE's action was forwarded and addressed to T.M., the mother of J.R. (R4).

Mr. Zawacki further testified that all documents presented to the West Orange School District upon J.R.'s registration on August 25, 2015 list T.M. as "Legal Guardian 1" and C.R. (the biological father), as "Legal Guardian 2." (R1). These forms were never modified to add and/or change any of the information provided. The address of residency provided for the minor child J.R. at that time was a West Orange address. Mr. Zawacki further produced a Statement of Landlord which was provided on August 25, 2015 to the West Orange School District. M.M. was not listed as an owner and/or tenant at that property. (R1).

M.M. averred in his petition that he is J.R.'s step-father, and he referred to the minor child J.R. as his son. But it was established through the testimony of M.M. and T.M. that M.M. is not J.R.'s step-father, biological parent or legal guardian nor does he have any written agreement with T.M. and/or C.R. giving him permission to have J.R. reside with him in West Orange. M.M. stated that T.M. and J.R. lived with him in West Orange when J.R. registered for school in the West Orange School District on August 25, 2015 and they then subsequently moved to East Orange. Both M.M. and T.M. described their relationship as boyfriend and girlfriend when they were residing together in West Orange. They believed this was enough to establish M.M. as J.R's legal guardian.

T.M. corroborated Mr. Zawacki's investigative findings by indicating that because of M.M.'s work schedule during the months of September through December, J.R. had to sleep at her house in East Orange every night and then he would get picked up by M.M. in the morning and get dropped off at the bus stop in West Orange.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001).

Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

In the case at hand, M.M. contested the Board's decision that J.R. was not properly domiciled in the West Orange school district, having filed the Petition with the Board. Based on the testimony provided and the evidence submitted, I CONCLUDE that

M.M. is neither a parent or legal guardian of the minor child J.R. Moreover I CONCLUDE that J.R.'s biological mother and legal guardian is a domiciliary of East Orange, and that in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, J.R.'s education is the responsibility of the East Orange school district. Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that the minor child J.R. was not a domiciliary of the West Orange School District since July of 2016, and is thus ineligible for continued attendance in the West Orange public schools.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that the minor child J.R. is not a resident and domiciliary in West Orange, New Jersey, and was not domiciled within its school district and should be removed is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
C.P., on behalf of minor child, E.V.,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On February 3, 2016, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found that E.V. was not a domiciliary of Hamilton for the 2014-2015 school year and was, therefore, not entitled to a free education in the District's schools during that time period. The Commissioner assessed respondent, Cristina Pineda, $13,113.28 in tuition costs, to be reimbursed to the Hamilton Board of Education for E.V.'s period of ineligible attendance in the District's schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that respondent had failed to reimburse petitioner as directed in the final decision, and requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Respondent offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Cristina Pineda is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $13,113.28, which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

In the matter of	:
RICHARD CHAMBERS	:	AGENCY REFERENCE NO.: 46-3/17
CAMDEN CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The Camden City Public Schools (the "Board"), whose principal office is located at 201 North Front Street, Camden, New Jersey, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives (collectively, "School Board"), and Richard Chambers, residing at 83D Bellhaven Court, Whiting, New Jersey 08759 ("Respondent") (collectively, the "Parties") have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Stipulation of Settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them in full and complete settlement of all outstanding issues as detailed below.

WHEREAS Respondent is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the Board as a teacher; and

WHEREAS the State District Superintendent ("Superintendent") certified tenure charges of conduct unbecoming and other just cause to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey, captioned In the Matter of Tenure Charges Against Richard Chambers, State-Operated School District of the City of Camden ("Tenure Charges"), under Agency Reference Number 46-3/17-12/14; and

WHEREAS, Respondent filed an answer opposing the charges; and

WHEREAS the Commissioner of Education, having reviewed the charges and Respondent's answer, determined that the charges were sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in compensation, and accordingly referred the matter to Arbitrator Joel Weisblatt ("Arbitrator") for a hearing; and

WHEREAS, Respondent has denied the allegations set forth in the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the Parties are aware of the uncertainty of the outcome of arbitration; and

WHEREAS, the Board with stringent budget limitations and due to the expenditure of resources due to multiple days of hearings with numerous witnesses; the concern that school personnel will be removed from their educational duties and responsibilities during that time; and the concern of having several young pupils participate in the litigation and being removed from instructional time, the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with arbitration; and

WHEREAS the proposed Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because Respondent resigns from his employment without litigation and avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Arbitrator, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Concurrent with the execution of this Stipulation, Respondent shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation to the Board, which shall provide for his resignation from the Board effective June 30, 2017, ("Effective Date"). (See Exhibit "A," to the Stipulation, a copy of Respondent's signed letter of resignation).

2. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, the Board shall and hereby does withdraw the instant Tenure Charges. The Board agrees to not pursue the subject Tenure Charges against Respondent as long as this Stipulation remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. In the event the Stipulation is voided, the Board retains the right to file and consider for certification, tenure charges against Respondent, including those tenure charges which have been previously filed against him by the Board, and Respondent reserves the right to defend same.

3. Upon final approval of the signed Stipulation by the Arbitrator, Respondent will be returned to the payroll retroactively to March 6, 2017 and will remain on the payroll through June 30, 2017. All salary paid for said period shall be subject to all applicable and mandatory salary withholdings and deductions, including, but not limited to health insurance premium contributions. Respondent will be recorded as an employee on administrative leave with pay between March 6, 2017 and June 30, 2017.

4. The Board shall provide Respondent with health insurance coverage until August 31, 2017. Pursuant to Chapter 78, Respondent shall be responsible for his employee contribution for all health insurance provided pursuant to this Stipulation of Settlement. Respondent's required Chapter 78 contributions shall be deducted from the payments he will receive pursuant to Paragraph 3 of this Stipulation of Settlement.

5. This Stipulation is based upon the understanding that Respondent's separation from employment with the Board, effective June 30, 2017, will be deemed a voluntary resignation-in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third party to authorized employees or representatives of the Board, those employees or representatives will provide no information other than to confirm Respondent's employment, position, salary and dates of employment, and state that the reason for his separation from employment was his voluntary resignation.

6. The Board expressly reserves the right to oppose any application by Respondent for unemployment benefits. Notwithstanding any other term or condition of this Agreement, Respondent does not waive or release his right to seek unemployment compensation, his entitlement to which shall be determined by the State of New Jersey, Department of Labor and Workforce Development.

7. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 (a) 6, Respondent has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners. Additionally, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.4(a)1, Respondent has been advised of the Board's duty to notify the State Board of Examiners he has resigned. The Board is legally required to participate in proceedings initiated against Respondent's license by the State Board of Examiners resulting from the Commissioner's referral. Aside from such requirements, pursuant to the above-referenced regulation, the Board agrees to not independently seek the suspension or revocation of Respondent's teaching certification or license or seek to prevent him from applying for or receiving pension benefits on any grounds related to the Tenure Charges or his resignation pursuant to this Stipulation of Settlement.

8. As of the Effective Date, except as specifically provided in paragraph 5, all of Respondent's rights of employment with the Board, including but not limited to accrued salary, benefits, tenure and seniority, will permanently end.

9. Respondent will not apply for reemployment with the Board at any time. If Respondent does apply for reemployment with the Board and is approved for employment, the terms of this Agreement shall control and shall be grounds for termination of Respondent's employment.

10. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraphs 2, 3, 4 and 5 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Respondent, through the date of his resignation, hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that he has or may have against the Board, the Superintendent, its Board of Education and its Advisory Board members, and any and all other Board officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Respondent's employment with the Board or separation from employment with the Board. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Respondent may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey

Respondent agrees to withdraw any and all other pending complaints or actions that have been filed against the Board or any of its employees or representatives.

11. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Stipulation of Settlement advises Respondent of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Stipulation of Settlement. Accordingly, by executing this Stipulation, Respondent acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Stipulation of Settlement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Stipulation of Settlement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement to revoke it. Respondent understands that he may rescind this Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the Board either by hand or by certified mail within the seven (7) day period.

12. Respondent warrants that he has not commenced any legal proceedings of any type (including but not limited to charges filed with any governmental agency) against the Board or School Board. Further, Respondent agrees that he will not commence any legal proceedings against the Board or School Board arising from or relating to anything that has happened up to his date of resignation. Should any such legal proceedings be commenced on Respondent's behalf, Respondent agrees that he will not seek or accept any relief or recovery therefrom. In the event of a violation of this paragraph, Respondent agrees that the Board and School Board shall be entitled to immediate dismissal of the legal proceedings, and that he shall be responsible for the Board and School Board's attorneys' fees and costs incurred in connection with those legal proceedings. Should any entity, agency, commission, or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the Board or School Board based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 3, Respondent agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever, in accordance with this paragraph.

13. This Stipulation and all of its terms, are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et al. Respondent is expressly forbidden from discussing this Stipulation with any person, other than his accountant, tax advisor and attorney ("permitted disclosures") and any other individual or entity as necessary to implement the Stipulation or to which he is legally obligated to respond ("legally-required disclosures"). In making any permitted disclosure, Respondent agrees that he will inform the person to whom it is making the permitted disclosure that the existence and substance of this Stipulation, the settlement giving rise to this Stipulation and the sum of money paid pursuant to this Stipulation are to be held strictly confidential to the fullest extent permitted by law. Respondent specifically agrees not to discuss the nature, terms, conditions of this Stipulation with others, any representative of the media, or any past, present, or prospective employee of the Board, or its agents or attorneys. Respondent understands that this provision is not a simple recital but is an important, integral part of this Stipulation. The Board agrees that it will keep this Stipulation confidential to the extent permitted by law, including the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1, et seq. ("OPRA"). In the event that the Board receives an OPRA request, for which this Stipulation would be responsive to, the Respondent understands that the Board is legally obligated to disclose same under OPRA and that such disclosure would not be a breach of this Stipulation.

14. This agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other Board employees.

15. The Parties each acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Stipulation and that each is signing this Stipulation freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party, with full understanding of its terms and conditions and consents to the terms contained herein.

16. Each signatory to this Stipulation understands, acknowledges and agrees that this Stipulation constitutes the full agreement of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified, or otherwise changed in any respect whatsoever except by a duly executed writing signed on behalf of both Parties.

17. This Stipulation shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law. The Commissioner of Education and/or federal and state courts of the State of New Jersey, as applicable in accordance with such law, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over any dispute arising from, in connection with, or related to this Stipulation.

18. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts with the same effect as if the signatures hereto and thereto were upon the same instrument. Each counterpart will be deemed an original, which taken together shall constitute a single instrument. Facsimile signatures or signatures in electronic Portable Document Format ("PDF") shall be construed and have the same force and effect as original signatures.

19. This Stipulation or any uncertainty or ambiguity therein shall not be construed against any party, but shall be construed as if both Parties to this Stipulation jointly prepared this Agreement.

20. Each party acknowledges that this is the entire agreement of the Parties concerning the subject matter of the foregoing paragraphs, and that there are no written or oral representations, understandings or agreements directly or indirectly connected with this Stipulation.

21. If any provision of this Stipulation is held by a court of competent jurisdiction or determined under applicable law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions will continue and remain in full force and effect.

23. Additionally, this Stipulation is subject to final approval by the Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(c), and will become effective only upon approval by the Arbitrator. Counsel for the Parties shall jointly request the Arbitrator's approval of this Agreement and each shall take any and all necessary steps to effectuate dismissal of the Tenure Charges.

For the Respondent:

By: Kaitlyn Dunphy, Esq.

This matter arises out of tenure charges filed with the Commissioner of Education by the Freehold Regional High School District against the Respondent, Brett D. Holeman, dated September 15, 2016. After determination that the charges warranted further action, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes forwarded the applicable documents to me on or about October 11, 2016. Shortly thereafter, the parties were officially notified of my selection.

The first hearing via a conference call occurred on October 22, 2016. A second conference call with attorneys Aileen O'Driscoll, Jeffrey Caccese and James Zazzali took place 12, 2016. In addition to the attorneys of record, the meeting also included Superintendent Charles Sampson , Director of Human Resources, Dr. Jennifer Sharp and Dr. Brett Holeman. The meeting failed to bring about a settlement.

In response to the tenure charges, Attorney O'Driscoll contended that the Petitioner was unable to show just cause. Ms. O'Driscoll argued that the Petitioner had failed to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17. Namely, the Petitioner's submission of evidence and a complete list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony was deficient. In addition, the parties had disagreed over the Petitioner's intent to issue subpoenas. The Respondent argued that the Board had not adhered to the timelines prescribed under the Statute and asked that the charges be dismissed. Based upon the positions of the parties, I concluded the matter should proceed. Attached is my decision concerning the dismissal of the Tenure Charges and the Petitioner's attempt through subpoena to obtain information from Respondent's previous employer.

Hearings were held on January 12, 2017, January 19, 2017, January 24, 2017, January 30, 2017, February 6, 2017, February 17, 2017, February 22, 2017, February 27, 2017, March 1, 2017, March 2, 2017, March 11, 2017 and March 16, 2017. A transcript was prepared for each hearing. Both parties elected to submit post-hearing briefs after receipt of the transcripts.

BACKGROUND

The Respondent, Brett D. Holeman, began his employment as a school psychologist with the Freehold Regional High School District in 2004. He holds a Doctorate in Psychology (Psy D) from New York University. In his capacity as a school psychologist, Dr. Holeman provided counseling, cognitive testing and individual educational plans as a case manager. A school psychologist also serves as a member of child study teams and interacts with administrators, parents and colleagues.

In the Spring 2016, the administration was made aware of allegations concerning Dr. Holeman's behavior. The issues brought to the attention of Respondent's superiors were cited in an April 25, 2016 memorandum sent to Dr. Holeman by Director of Personnel Sharp. The memorandum was in reference to an April 26, 2016 investigatory conference which listed six (6) allegations made against Dr. Holeman. Dr. Sharp listed the following:

- Engaged in inappropriate behavior (inappropriate comments, language and expressions), including the use of profanity, reference to sexual activity in front of students; as well as the use of extreme volume with students and parents within a confidential counseling environment;
- Made repeated derogatory and demeaning remarks about and to colleagues and supervisors;
- Engaged in erratic and concerning behaviors that intruded into and unnecessarily disrupted the workplace of colleagues;
- Jeopardized the State mandated testing environment to which he was assigned;
- Demonstrated an overall lack of respect for authority; and
- Disregarded the District's organizational plan and failed to observe or use proper chain of command when raising issues or concerns.

A summary of the April 26, 2016 conference was drafted by Dr. Sharp (Board Exhibit 8) and submitted to Superintendent Sampson. In her summary, the Director of Personnel questioned Dr. Holeman regarding the District's concerns. Also in attendance were the Freehold Education Association President (FREA), the FREA Vice President and Mrs. Linda Jewell, Principal, Freehold Boro High School.

The April 26th meeting dealt with the allegations made against the Respondent. Dr. Holeman responded to several of the allegations and emphasized that he had received very positive evaluations during his thirteen (13) years with the District. He refuted the validity of the allegations and commented he was "very passionate about his work."

Dr. Sharp informed Dr. Holeman that "given his erratic and concerning behaviors" he was advised to get a full psychiatric and medical evaluation that included appropriate blood tests to ascertain the presence of any mood altering drugs or metabolic steroids. The directive concerning medical and psychiatric examination reflected suspicion that Dr. Holeman may have used metabolic steroids, an inference denied by the Respondent. Director Sharp thought it best that Dr. Holeman initiate testing immediately. Although it was noted that a final decision regarding his status had not been made, the Respondent was placed on administrative leave. A similar directive was contained in a letter from Superintendent Sampson dated April 26, 2016. Dr. Holeman was informed his employment status would be discussed at the May 16, 2016 meeting of the Freehold Regional High School District Board of Education.

On August 12, 2016, Sworn Tenure Charges and a Written Statement of Evidence for conduct unbecoming an employee....were filed by the Board Secretary pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A: 6-11 et seq. One month later, on September 12, 2016, the Board reviewed and considered the evidence in support of the Sworn Tenure Charges against Dr. Holeman and determined there was sufficient evidence, "if true in fact, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary."

In both email and regular mail dated September 12, 2016, Counsel for Dr. Holeman urged the Board to abstain, if considering the Notice of Tenure Charges, from voting on the charges. As an alternative, a request to approve a transfer to a different position within the District was made in behalf of Dr. Holeman.

The Board referred to a number of incidents which it alleged warranted suspension and further investigation into his conduct. In particular, the District characterized Dr. Holeman's behavior prior to his suspension as troubling. It was alleged that Dr. Holeman had raised his voice during a counseling session prompting a supervisor to interrupt the session "to ensure the student's safety." Dr. Holeman, it was alleged, repeated this behavior with another student and parent. The Petitioner also referred to a due-process petition initiated by a parent against the Board in reaction to Dr. Holeman's management of a case and his interaction with the parent.

Dr. Holeman is also alleged to have spoken inappropriately to a student distraught over his break up with a girlfriend. The Board contended Dr. Holeman told the student the girlfriend was a "slut" and that he would soon leave for college and could "fuck 40 girls." The student had also allegedly conveyed to a staff member that Dr. Holeman had recommended a book titled, "F*ck Feelings," which is described as a "profanity-filled self-help book" that argues one should "value your actions over your emotions." It should be noted that Dr. Holeman denied these allegations.

Another accusation concerned Dr. Holeman's actions and demeanor during the administering of the state mandated PARCC test. The Petitioner described the Respondent's manner during the test session as disruptive. He allegedly was "cursing, talking loudly" to the extent he made his colleagues "uncomfortable." He supposedly expressed dissatisfaction with the "administration" and showed considerable annoyance when the test was delayed because computers for the students were not in the test room. The Petitioner contended that Dr. Holeman's behavior had a potential negative impact while the students were taking the PARCC test.

Apart from behavioral matters, the Board had also expressed dissatisfaction with Dr. Holeman's alleged failure to complete IEP's (Individual Education Plan) in a timely manner. It was charged that a number of reports were delinquent at the time Dr. Holeman was placed on suspension.

The Petitioner's investigation included a review of Dr. Holeman's email account. An examination of the Respondent's email account, the Board charged, revealed that Dr. Holeman had spent "a substantial amount of time nurturing his private counseling practice." It was also alleged that Dr. Holeman accepted pay for time counseling current and former students. It was noted Board policy prohibits accepting payment from a current student for services due to a teacher's employment in the District

In regard to Dr. Holeman's private practice, the Petitioner contended that Freehold Boro High School had been used as his official and registered business address. It was alleged that Dr. Holeman created a separate email address for his emails to private clients that were sent through the District system.

An additional charge proffered by the Petitioner concerned the allegation Dr. Holeman "solicited" students for private counseling from internal and administration confidential lists that identified students withdrawing from school. It was alleged that Dr. Holeman directly solicited these students for private counseling. Although some of these actions took place in 2013, if the Administration had known of this at the time, they would have initiated tenure charges. The Petitioner indicated it did not have knowledge if this solicitation has continued.

The Board identified emails that it charged violated confidential student information. One email cited was sent to Dr. Holeman's wife. The Petitioner alluded to the nature of this email as a violation of Board policy as well as disrespectful of the student and his family.

Additional allegation raised by the Board was the nature of emails sent to students which were interpreted as "overly familiar, even intimate." While there was no evidence of improper behavior, the Petitioner believed Dr. Holeman had failed to maintain an appropriate boundary with past and present students.

Petitioner also made reference to an incident concerning a student who was suspected of drug dealing. It was alleged that Dr. Holeman advised the student when confronted not to answer any questions concerning the matter. The Administration believed the advice not to cooperate was interference of the investigation. This 2013 incident was considered an example of previous "insubordinate and inappropriate conduct toward District Administration...."

The Board's submission to the Department of Education included a charge that Dr. Holeman had failed to disclose his previous employment with the West Morris Regional High School District as an interim School Psychologist and his abrupt termination from this position effective April 10, 2004. Freehold Regional High School's Professional Employment Application required a list of prior teaching and administrative experience. Dr. Holeman's failure to list his employment in the West Morris Regional High School District negated the opportunity to investigate the circumstances that resulted in his termination.

The Administration had taken into consideration the concerns expressed by Dr. Holeman's colleagues. Staff members stated that Dr. Holeman was "unprofessional and uncomfortable to be around." Dr. Sharp's Summary of the Investigatory Conference included comments submitted by colleagues that he "seemed erratic lately, speaking loudly in the office.... I feel like I have been walking on eggshells around him.... I feel very uneasy around him."

Among the charges were that Dr. Holeman had made derogatory and demeaning remarks about both colleagues and supervisors. According to the Administration, he ignored and disregarded the chain of command and the District's organizational plan. He was described as an individual who did not respect authority.

The District's submission to the Department of Education stated that Dr. Holeman was not truthful when asked about yelling incidents while counseling a student. The District's submission contended that when the student was asked by the Guidance Supervisor if he was OK he did not respond, as claimed by Dr. Holeman, "Of course, I am OK. Why would you think I am not OK?" Furthermore, the Petitioner did not accept Dr. Holeman's assertion that the student commented that he "loved Dr. Holeman."

The Respondent denied that he demonstrated the behavior described by the Petitioner. Dr. Holeman, through his legal counsel, essentially contended the charges were not accurate and, in some instances, a misinterpretation of his counseling tactics. In certain situations, Dr. Holeman explained, it is necessary and appropriate to raise your voice.

Dr. Holeman contended his conference with Dr. Sharp on April 26, 2016, did not provide a "true opportunity to respond" to the allegations. He also denied he fabricated his responses to any questions put forth by Dr. Sharp.

In response to the reference to steroid use, the Respondent disputed the allegation that he told a colleague "that his wife asked him if he was using steroids again." Dr. Holeman's lab tests did not reveal any trace of steroids.

Dr. Holeman denied that he had admitted recommending the book the administration considered inappropriate. He also did not agree with the Petitioner's rendition of the distraught and suicidal student's counseling experience with Dr. Holeman.

The PARCC testing outcome was never in jeopardy as suggested by the Petitioner. The reference to a colleague being uncomfortable around him was something Dr. Holeman was unable to address.

Dr. Holeman disputed that he used school time or facilities in his private practice. He also denied privately counseling current District students for a fee and acknowledged he was familiar with Board Policy. Dr. Holeman indicated that he understood he was not able to offer private counseling for pay until after a student had graduated. Furthermore, he denied directly soliciting students for professional services.

Dr. Holeman admitted temporarily registering 2 Robertsville Road, Freehold, NJ (District address) with the State Board of Examiners for his private business. However, this was only for a brief period of time while relocating his private practice. He always provided a private work phone number with the Board of Examiners as his official business contact number and never provided the school address for purposes of private counseling.

In one instance, the Petitioner charged, Dr. Holeman utilized the Board issued email account to contact a non-school related recipient. Board policy stipulates that its email system is restricted to messages that are school related. Dr. Holeman did not agree with the charge.

Dr. Holeman acknowledged being employed as an interim School Psychologist at the West Morris Regional High School District. In Dr. Holeman's submission to the Department of Education, Controversies & Disputes, he denied being terminated abruptly from this interim position. The Respondent also denied that he intentionally withheld employment information on his application to the Freehold Regional High School District. A newspaper article (Observer-Tribune) that stated he was asked to leave the West Morris Regional High School District was described as opinion or conjecture by the Respondent.

In many of the charges put forth by the Petitioner, the Respondent's legal counsel responded they were legal questions their client was unable to answer. A number of the charges, it was argued, were described as redundant.

POSITION OF THE PETITIONER

After the administration became aware of Dr. Holeman's inappropriate, insubordinate, erratic and volatile behavior in the Spring of 2016, it was determined that a thorough investigation of both his behavior and performance was warranted. The investigation in the Spring of 2016 revealed "a trail of lies, willful deceit, manipulation and frightening conduct...."

In spite of the statements submitted and testimony of co-workers and administrators, Dr. Holeman "steadfastly refused to acknowledge that his conduct either occurred or was inappropriate." Dr. Holeman, the District argued, has shown an inability to work collaboratively with colleagues.

In formulating the Tenure Charges, the Board considered a number of incidents and occurrences that supported removal from the District. Dr. Holeman was deemed to have violated several Board policies including the "Code of Ethics of the Education Profession along with elements of the New Jersey Administrative Code." Given these violations, the District can no longer trust him or his judgment.

Among the allegations was the charge Dr. Holeman after school hours, in late February/early March, sent text messages to Supervisor Rosalia Minervini. Ms. Minervini reported her concerns about the texts to Principal Linda Jewell. Ms. Minervini found Dr. Holeman's texts inappropriate. "For example, he would refer to colleagues as 'mentally ill' and 'not stable to work with children.' He called them evil and sick. He once labeled staff members 'fucking bitches.' "

In an IEP team meeting with a parent around March 23, 2016, Dr. Holeman became 'noticeably volatile.' Marla Reich, the District's Speech Language Pathologist testified that Dr.

Holeman inappropriately raised his voice during the meeting. Dr. Sharp testified Dr. Holeman advised the parents on "working around" the administration. Superintendent Sampson testified Dr. Holeman's conduct in the March 23rd meeting escalated an already uneasy situation with the parents and ultimately led to litigation.

District Guidance Counselor Holly Fabian testified that a student informed her Dr. Holeman told him that he would go to college and fuck many girls. Dr. Holeman also told the student his ex-girlfriend was a slut banging other guys. Ms. Fabian testified that Dr. Holeman's comments were "extremely inappropriate" and she would no longer refer students to Dr. Holeman.

The Petitioner's concerns included Dr. Holeman's volatile behavior directed toward students. "On April 18, 2016, Student QH reported to Principal Jewell that Dr. Holeman yelled at her." Dr. Holeman did admit he "raised" or elevated his voice when he spoke to QH on the telephone. While Dr. Holeman explained he had served as the student's counselor for a long period of time and believed it was necessary to be firm. Although Dr. Holeman suggested QH call him back, she never called back and complained about Dr. Holeman's behavior to Principal Jewell.

District Supervisor Suzanne Gallo testified that on the same day as the QH incident she found it necessary to instruct Dr. Holeman to lower his voice because students and parents outside his office were able to hear him. After leaving his office, Dr. Holeman resumed speaking in a loud voice that prompted Ms. Gallo to report the matter to Ms. Jewell.

Principal Jewell testified that she spoke to the student who had been in Dr. Holeman's office at the time Ms. Gallo had asked that the Respondent to lower his voice. The student told

Ms. Jewell that "he deserved to be yelled at," a comment that Principal Jewell found disturbing. In her opinion, Ms. Jewell felt "she was sitting across from a battered woman."

When Principal Jewell addressed the matter with Dr. Holeman, he admitted he spoke in a raised voice but not loud enough for others to discern what he said. Dr. Holeman testified that it was sometimes necessary to speak in a loud voice to inspire students and to convey his passion. However, Dr. Holeman's own witness and mentor Samuel Grove, a retired Freehold Boro psychologist, testified that raising one's voice was not something he would recommend.

The District had regarded Dr. Holeman's behavior during the PARCC test and his interaction with colleagues as inappropriate and disruptive. Talking in an elevated and loud voice while complaining about the administration was not conducive to a test environment.

The Board also gave weight to the tone and substance of emails sent by Dr. Holeman. In particular, the Respondent's criticism of the administration and colleagues was unprofessional. Dr. Holeman had accused Ms. Minervini of "caving" in to a parent and used profanity in his email to her. Dr. Holeman had expressed to Ms. Jewell that he was disappointed in her. The Petitioner characterized the emails as "insubordinate, inappropriate, and disparaging of other professionals."

When Supervisor Minervini had addressed in a meeting Dr. Holeman's loud voice with a student, she described Dr. Holeman's reaction as uncooperative. He told Ms. Minervini that the administration did not have "a clue as to what effective counseling is." Ms. Minervini testified that Dr. Holeman was very "disrespectful, inappropriate and volatile toward her and, as such, she had to end the meeting."

The District had stressed the importance of completing IEP reports on a timely basis. Dr. Holeman shifted responsibility and blame for the backlog in submission of the IEP's to others and took no responsibility for not having his IEP's completed. When questioned about the submission of IEP's, Dr. Holeman told Ms. Minervini he was up to date. Despite the fact he was informed in a 2013 performance review that he was not in compliance with IEP timeliness, he expressed surprise the issue (Exhibit 12) was raised by the Petitioner.

In a meeting with Ms. Jewell and Freehold Regional Education Association President Deborah Gates-Kane, on or about April 22, 2016, Dr. Holeman was informed there were concerns about his behavior. Told that he would be placed on administrative leave, he became very upset. Ms. Gates-Kane testified in a telephone conference call that at one point Dr. Holeman stood up and was alarmed there was going to be a physical confrontation with Ms. Jewell. Ms. Gates-Kane confirmed that Dr. Holeman also "threatened" Principal Jewell stating, "You better sleep with one eye open."

Dr. Sampson testified that he would have sought tenure charges in 2013, if he had known at the time Dr. Holeman had accepted a counseling fee of $130 from the parents of a student enrolled in the District. Although the student was on home instruction, Dr. Holeman failed to ask a supervisor or administrator if accepting a fee was permissible. The student's parents had informed Dr. Holeman that they were waiting to meet with Superintendent Sampson. The Respondent did not admit that he was in violation of a policy that prohibited accepting a fee for counseling a student on home instruction.

The charges also listed the use of the District's resources to advance his private counseling business. Dr. Holeman admitted he used the District email for his private business. He acknowledged that he signed the District email using his company's name, "Psyched Up," rather than creating a separate business email address.

In correspondence to the New Jersey State Board of Examiners, Dr. Holeman used the address of Freehold Borough High School. Dr. Holeman explained that he did not want to use his home address for privacy reasons, yet was willing to provide an address where students are located.

Staff member Lindsay Pantaleo testified she was "uncomfortable" when she learned Dr. Holeman had placed her name and school email address on a pregnancy website without her consent.

In the course of the investigation, the District discovered inappropriate emails sent to parents of students and current and former students. Dr. Holeman revealed confidential information in an email to his wife. Dr. Holeman had referred to a former student as "my little girl." In another email exchange with a former student, he discussed a then current student. Superintendent Sampson alluded to student privacy as a "sacred trust" that had been violated by Dr. Holeman.

The District made reference to Dr. Holeman's interference with a prior investigation involving a student discipline matter. In the course of the investigation for alleged drug involvement, Dr. Holeman advised the student not to answer any questions. The accusation was confirmed by credible witnesses who observed the incident.

Superintendent Sampson stated that Dr. Holeman does not respect authority. In addition, he does not take responsibility for his behavior, blames others and "exhibits narcissism in the extreme." The Superintendent testified that he did consider Dr. Holeman's employment history, but concluded the Respondent's "other behaviors were too extreme," to be overlooked. The District cannot trust Dr. Holeman as a professional, cannot expect he will keep student confidentiality, or maintain "appropriate ways with staff members, with school community members and follow rules and procedures." Superintendent Sampson concluded that there is no way that Dr. Holeman will be fit to return to either the Freehold Regional High School or any position in the District.

POSITION OF THE RESPONDENT

The Respondent argued that the charges were flawed on several levels. These included a failure to interview individuals who were identified and quoted by the Petitioner. Director of Personnel, Dr. Jennifer Sharp, failed to provide Dr. Holeman with the opportunity to adequately respond to the allegations and speak directly with colleagues and administrators who were regarded as central to the decision reached by the Board. Furthermore, Dr. Holeman's many years of exemplary service and excellent evaluations were ignored.

Doubt concerning Dr. Sharp's expertise to conduct the investigation was called into question by the Respondent's legal representative. "Other than learning 'general interviewing,' and 'affirmative action investigation'... her training was limited to classes taken in 2004 for her Principal's certificate." Neither Dr. Sharp or Principal Linda Jewell interviewed staff members or students connected to the allegations. Instead, they relied upon written statements requested by Ms. Jewell. Dr. Sharp never "truly attempted to find additional witnesses" or corroborate statements.

Dr. Sharp testified that the first time she was alerted to a concern regarding Dr. Holeman was on or after April 18, 2016. Those concerns were brought to her attention by Principal Jewell who had questions about Dr. Holeman's conduct in the guidance suite. Ms. Jewell specifically stated that colleagues informed her Dr. Holeman was erratic and loud with students. Shortly thereafter, Dr. Sharp put Dr. Holeman on suspension.

At this point Dr. Sharp reported her concerns to Superintendent Charles Sampson who authorized her to look into Dr. Holeman's emails. Ms. Jewell was instructed to collect statements from staff prior to a meeting on April 21, 2016 between the Principal, Union Vice-President Debbie Gates Kane and Dr. Holeman. A second meeting was convened on April 26th that included Dr. Sharp and Union President James Huebner. It was from the April 26th meeting that Dr. Sharp wrote her Investigation Summary (Exhibit 8).

In answer to the charge Dr. Holeman had failed to complete IEP's in a timely fashion, the Respondent noted the heavy caseload he was assigned. He also argued that the IEP's identified could not be completed since he had been placed on Administrative Leave. In addition, the completion of IEP's were dependent on the input and collaboration of other staff members in addition to Dr. Holeman. The Respondent explained that as the School Psychologist there were occasions when he had to deal with emergencies and crises.

One such crisis was the death of a Freehold Boro High School student. In response to the tragedy, Dr. Holeman visited classrooms and spoke to staff members. The time spent in grief counseling diverted him from preparation of reports. His efforts in providing support to the school community were recognized by Principal Jewell as well as others.

Supervisor Rosalin Minervini commended Dr. Holeman for the emotional support he provided. Ms. Minervini wrote that Dr. Holeman's classroom visits were well received. "She wrote that she was personally settled and calmed by Dr. Holeman's approach."

Dr. Holeman contended when employed at the District, Secretary Fran Ellner was the only person authorized to submit IEP's. Ms. Ellner was responsible for the "final step" for over 400 students in two high schools. Apart from Ms. Ellner's clerical burdens, delays could occur due to rescheduling meetings with parents or conflicts with staff members.

Ms. Minervini never discussed non-compliance of IEP reports with Dr. Holeman nor did she issue him any warning that he was delinquent in the completion of reports. Ms. Minervini testified that it was her practice, if a problem persists, to issue a written memo and, if necessary, prepare a corrective action plan.

Dr. Holeman did bring the extended lunchtime taken by guidance counselors to the attention of Principal Jewell. The extended lunchtime counselors had taken was addressed by the administration.

The inappropriate behavior charge was without merit. The characterization of 'overly familiar, even intimate' emails was misinterpreted. A number of the emails were from former students who had reached out to Dr. Holeman. These former students used their private email addresses and sent messages to Dr. Holeman's Freehold Boro High School address, the only address they possessed. Any purported policy violations were under a policy that was enacted after those identified by the Petitioner. Principal Jewel conceded that the content of certain emails, in her opinion, did not violate District policy.

The allegation concerning a lunch invitation to a student at the on-campus, Five Star student culinary restaurant was with his two daughters. Dr. Holeman wanted to recognize the "very quiet" student who had won a "Senior of the Month" award. When accompanied by a faculty member, students are permitted to have lunch at the Five Star restaurant.

One email identified by the Petitioner was sent after Dr. Holeman was suspended. Dr. Holeman had counseled the student for a few years and he thought she should understand why he could no longer work with her. The Petitioner contended that Dr. Holeman was instructed not to have contact with students. Dr. Holeman believed the student would have regarded his disengagement as another rejection in her difficult life and wanted her to be aware of the reason he no longer could offer counseling.

Dr. Sharp testified that Dr. Holeman had identified his FRHS email account as "Psyched Up LLC Company" in an effort to acquire a "Labrada" shirt. "This was the sole email or evidence produced by the District to reflect Dr. Holeman spending a 'substantial' amount of time during his school day regarding his private practice." Dr. Sharp was unable to ascertain if this email was written on school time or during the Respondent's lunch period. Dr. Holeman testified that the shirt he requested from a nutrition/health company was a possible motivational influence for athletic teams he worked with at Freehold.

The emails in Exhibit 25 purported to have been sent during the workday in 2014 and 2015 were mostly transmitted during the summer or during non-work hours. Dr. Sharp acknowledged the emails were not likely violations of Board Policy. In fact, several emails were parent initiated and dealt with student related issues.

Both Superintendent Sampson and Principal Jewell acknowledged staff often worked during the time they were not scheduled to be on duty. Dr. Holeman testified he often worked during his lunch period and break time in addition to evenings and weekends. It was not uncommon for Dr. Holeman to work beyond his contractual hours.

Dr. Holeman explained that the one private patient (although without pay) he counseled on school grounds was Ms. Jewell's niece. Dr. Holeman was asked to counsel Principal Jewell's niece at her request and the session was held at the school due to a transportation problem. The niece was not a student at Freehold Boro Regional High School. However, Dr. Holeman saw the niece pro bono at the school after his scheduled workday until she was able to meet him in his Springfield office. As a private patient in Springfield, the Respondent received payment for his services. Ms. Jewell's request to him was a reflection of her confidence in Dr. Holeman's professional competence. Furthermore, Superintendent Sampson stated there was no Board policy that prohibited counseling students who did not attend Freehold Boro Regional High School.

The charge Dr. Holeman accepted a counseling fee in regard to a student on suspension and home instruction, identified as A.V., was not improper. The student was suspended for allegedly putting visine into a staff member's drink. Mr. Sampson stated he did not know if A.V. returned to the District. Ms. Jewell claimed not to have any recollection of the student. Dr. Holeman stated that previous school administration had informed him that he was not prohibited from seeing a student who was on home instruction or designated as an out-of-district placement. Only, if a current student was on campus was he prohibited from counseling a student in his private practice.

Dr. Holeman testified that A.V. was awaiting a pending expulsion hearing, a situation known to both Dr. Sharp and Superintendent Sampson. It was understood that A.V. would not return to the school. Furthermore, A.V.'s parents were in accord with Dr. Holeman's private counseling role.

The hearing record confirmed that Dr. Holeman did not violate the prohibition against accepting compensation for services provided in behalf of students enrolled at Freehold Regional. Exhibit 22 shows that Dr. Holeman informed a parent that he could not accept a fee until after the student graduates. As an alternative, he offered the parents a referral to another therapist. The offer to provide the name of other therapists was made to parents who requested private counseling when there was a question of violating Board Policy.

Three witnesses with knowledge of Dr. Holeman as a therapist testified that he never suggested private counseling. One witness was not even aware Dr. Holeman had a private practice until after her son graduated.

The charge that Dr. Holeman had used his position as a School Psychologist to promote or profit in his private practice was unsubstantiated. The suggestion Dr. Holeman had access to confidential lists that he used for personal gain was neither documented nor supported by any evidence. In addition, the Petitioner did not establish such a list even existed.

The Respondent addressed the allegation that he had omitted a previous position on his application to the District in 2004. Dr. Sharp testified that the Respondent's application that a prior employment section had been whited out. The application was 14 years old and described by Respondent's legal counsel as stale. Dr. Holeman denied he had been terminated from a previous, short-term position. The Board witnesses had acknowledged that applications submitted by current employees were never examined.

The reference to the Due Process Complaint filed by a parent was prompted by the legitimate decision to declassify her child. The decision to declassify the student was based upon valid reasons and supported by Dr. Holeman's colleagues. Contrary to Dr. Sharp's incorrect assertion, a formal Due Process complaint had not been filed against the District by the parent.

An additional erroneous charge was the accusation Dr. Holeman was yelling at the meeting with the parent. Ms Minervini admitted declassification meetings are often difficult. Furthermore, the Due Process complaint letter to the State was "type written, unsigned, undated and no author or parent was ever produced to authenticate or verify" the conclusions reached by Dr. Sharp.

The Respondent disputed the insubordination charge. It was not uncommon for staff members to express their frustrations and criticisms of administrators to each other. However, at no time did Dr. Holeman refuse to perform his duties. Ms. Jewell did not file a complaint or report alleging that Dr. Holeman was insubordinate. He testified that he had a good relationship with Ms. Jewell who "welcomed open discussion." On occasions Ms. Jewell and others would come into Dr. Holeman's office to discuss personal issues. Yet this positive relationship changed just prior to Dr. Holeman's suspension.

Dr. Holeman denied that he had made a "threatening gesture" toward Ms. Jewell in a meeting attended by former Union President Gates-Kane. The Respondent denied he threatened Ms. Jewell and testified that as a psychologist and father of two daughters he would never threaten a woman.

Legal counsel for the Respondent identified and submitted numerous positive evaluations that he received throughout his "unblemished 13 year career in the District." His evaluations refer to professionalism, cooperation, dedication and enthusiasm. Despite the absence of any negative evaluations, Dr. Holeman was not afforded the benefit of progressive discipline.

In its Legal argument, the Respondent's representative alluded to the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A., 18A: 28-1 through 18. A tenured teacher may be dismissed or reduced in compensation only for "inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The District failed to meet its burden of proof by a preponderance of credible evidence that these stipulations applied to Dr. Holeman.

The Respondent further argued that the credibility of the witnesses was questionable. Dr. Sharp failed to properly interview witnesses and present their statements and allegations to Dr. Holeman. Dr. Sharp was inconsistent in her testimony and showed a lack of understanding of Dr. Holeman's duties. The Administration did not take into account the possibility Guidance staff colleagues may have been disturbed when Dr. Holeman reported their extended lunch period to Ms. Jewell.

Principal Jewell was unable to remember facts, dates and reference to certain students. Ms. Jewell's reliance on "uncorroborated, non-supported, hearsay by unproduced witnesses" discredited her testimony.

Although Superintendent Sampson signed the tenure charges, he demonstrated a lack of familiarity of the facts. Mr. Sampson acknowledged he was not personally familiar with Dr. Holeman or the events that constituted his removal.

The charges and allegations were considered minor by Respondent's counsel. Except for the use of an elevated voice, none of the charges amounted to just cause.

Upon instructions from the District, Dr. Holeman submitted to both a psychological exam and a blood test. The laboratory report found no evidence of steroids. A Psychiatric Consultant, Daniel Gollin, M.D. concluded that Dr. Holeman was fit to resume his duties as a School Psychologist. After requiring an employee to undergo a fitness for duty examination, the Board cannot "arbitrarily reject both the physician's conclusion" and the result of the blood test.

"The District investigation was never about determining the truth of a matter or ascertaining both sides of a story. Rather, the investigation was about tailoring its process, its collection of selective 'facts' and framing its results for one simple objective: "remove Dr. Holeman from the District."

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The matter addressed in this award differs from many of the tenure decisions arbitrated under the TEACHNJ Act. The intent of the Statute is to "raise student achievement by improving instruction through the adoption of evaluations that provide specific feedback to educators, inform the provision of aligned professional development, and inform personnel decisions:"

The Statute addresses the development of a corrective action plan "to correct deficiencies and improve a teacher's effectiveness" in the classroom. Under the Act the employee receives an annual summative evaluation rating of "ineffective, partially effective or effective." Since Dr. Holeman is not a classroom teacher, the provisions regarding classroom effectiveness are not applicable. However, one might argue that a counselor has an impact on student achievement.

The responsibilities of a School Psychologist include providing counseling services, obtaining appropriate services for student mental problems, diagnostic assessment of pupils with educational disabilities, individual and group therapy, preparation and submission of required reports and interaction with school personnel and community mental health and social welfare agencies.

Under the District's job description, the School Psychologist reports to his or her Appropriate Supervisor, Principal and, or Central Administrator as designated by the Superintendent. The duties of the School Psychologist specify that he or she "upholds and enforces school rules, administrative regulations, and Board policies." The requirements of the School Psychologist include "makes an effort to establish and maintain cooperative working relationships with students, parents, peers, employees and community."

The Petitioner charged that Dr. Holeman's behavior was in violation of several requirements for that of a School Psychologist and that of a District staff member.

Charge 1. Dr. Holeman engaged in inappropriate behavior as a school counselor and a professional, habitually made disparaging and demeaning remarks about colleagues, staff members, and administration, and failing to meet his professional obligations to special education students.

The hearing record supports the charge. While the Respondent contended that it was not uncommon for the staff to criticize administrators it does not negate the fact that he made disparaging comments about his superiors and colleagues. Principal Jewell and Supervisor Minervini cited comments that were inappropriate and considered disrespectful by both administrators.

Although Ms. Jewell believed AV reminded her of a "battered woman," the student's state of mind cannot be confirmed. However, Psychologist Samuel Grove, a counselor with considerable experience, testified he would not recommend yelling when counseling a student. Thus, I have determined this charge had been sustained.

Charge 2. Dr. Holeman engaged in inappropriate and unethical conduct by soliciting former and current students for his private practice.

The evidence did establish that Dr. Holeman accepted a counseling fee from the parents of a then current student in 2013.

Dr. Holeman's explanation he was told that receiving a fee for counseling a student on home instruction was acceptable is not credible. At a later date he informed a parent he could not accept a fee if a student was currently enrolled at Freehold Boro Regional High School. There was no evidence, except for the 2013 fee, that established Dr. Holeman received a fee for counseling a current District student. Furthermore, There is no policy prohibiting the acceptance of a counseling fee for services rendered in behalf of a former student.

Charge 3. Dr. Holeman spent a substantial amount of time during the school day working at his private counseling practice, and even utilized his school office for his private practice; all of which resulted in a severe dereliction and failure to complete his assigned responsibilities and obligations to the students he was assigned to evaluate and/or case manage.

The District was unable to prove that Dr. Holeman spent a substantial amount of time conducting private business on school time. The Respondent testified that he often sent emails before his workday began or on lunch break or during non-assigned periods. While the allegation may have merit, the District did not establish Dr. Holeman utilized "substantial" work time when conducting non-school activities.

The Respondent did use the school mailing address in his correspondence with the New Jersey State Board of Examiners. Dr. Holeman admitted he did use his Freehold Borough High School email address on occasion to set up or manage appointments for his private counseling practice. It is understandable why for numerous reasons, including liability, the District would prohibit the use of its email system for non-school activities. Dr. Holeman's use of the District's email system both during and after school hours in the conduct of his private counseling practice was ill advised.

The District had also charged that Dr. Holeman had been delinquent in the completion and submission of IEP's. Ms. Minervini testified that she was led to understand that the Respondent's IEP's were compliant with State requirements. This ceased to be correct after January 2016.

Dr. Holeman stated that he was not the only staff member responsible for completion of IEP's. He testified that other members of the Child Study Team had time restraints and that the final button was "pushed" by the guidance department secretary. This reference to the secretary was not accurate in that he actually "pushed" the button. Although it was correct that the student load had increased over time, the secretary was not responsible for the delay. Dr. Holeman had an obligation to apprise Ms. Minervini of any delay in submission of IEP's.

Charge 4. Dr. Holeman inappropriately and unethically shared confidential student information outside the District.

Dr. Holeman did share information concerning a student with his wife. His wife is a social worker employed in a neighboring school system. There is no evidence the email was read by any other individuals. While it is a violation of confidentiality and according to confidentiality requirements should not have been shared. If sensitive information is shared with a spouse, it is more prudent not to email this information.

Charge 5. Dr. Holeman interacted with students in an inappropriate and unethical manner.

While there is no evidence that Dr. Holeman had an inappropriate relationship with any student the content of emails could have been more carefully thought out. One might conclude that Dr. Holeman did not always exercise good judgment, especially in regard to comments concerning colleagues and administrators.

Although the Petitioner signaled out emails exchanged with former students, contact with former students is not addressed by District Policy.

Charge 6. Dr. Holeman failed to disclose a former employer on his application, ostensibly because he was terminated from his position.

The charge that Dr. Holeman omitted his brief employment with the West Morris Regional High School on his application is correct. On examination of the application, it appears that a section listing previous experience may have been covered with white out liquid. It is difficult to ascertain why the Freehold District did not explore the question of any omissions at the time Dr. Holeman submitted his application.

Dr. Holeman testified he was not terminated by the West Morris District. The evidence obtained through a local newspaper and West Morris District Board of Education minutes confirm that he was abruptly dismissed from the District. Given the failure on the part of the Freehold District to question Dr. Holeman when he submitted his application in June of 2004, and the number of years that he had been employed by the District, I believe the application matter is "stale."

An additional concern dealt with suspicion Dr. Holeman had taken steroids. Staff member Lindsay Pantaleo stated that Dr. Holeman had told her that his wife had expressed concern about his use of steroids. Ms. Pantaleo repeated Dr. Holdman's comment to Susan Guercio. The result of a blood test required by the Petitioner revealed no evidence of substance abuse.

The District requested that Dr. Holeman also undergo a psychiatric exam. The psychiatrist concluded that Dr. Holeman could return to his position as a School Psychologist.

However, of particular concern are the repercussions generated by Dr. Holeman's behavior. The statements and testimony contained in the hearing record show a breakdown in Dr. Holeman's relationship with colleagues and administrators.

As previously noted, several individuals testified that in his interaction with students and parents Dr. Holeman was excessively loud to the extent he was asked to lower his voice.

Supervisor Gallo testified that although she asked Dr. Holeman to lower his voice he continued to be heard outside his office by both parents and students.

Ms. Pantaleo alleged that during the PARCC exam Dr. Holeman talked negatively about administrators in a voice she believed could be heard by students. She noted in her written statement that she found Dr. Holeman visibly agitated and erratic. Ms. Pantaleo commented that she also found Dr. Holeman's language inappropriate.

It is important that the guidance department, teaching staff and administration maintain a cooperative relationship. The hearing record reveals the relationship between Dr. Holeman and others had been damaged.

Dr. Holeman sent an email containing profanity to Supervisor Minervini stating that she "caved." He also "inappropriately and insubordinately" told Ms. Minervini in an email to tell a co-worker, Lisette Salguero, not to refer him any cases. Para professional Susan Guercio alleged that Dr. Holeman had mistreated and talked down to her. Supervisor Minervini stated she found it necessary to abruptly end a meeting with Dr. Holeman due to his "disrespectful, inappropriate and volatile[behavior] told her...."

Dr. Holeman testified that he had a very good relationship with Principal Jewell. After Ms. Jewell was informed that Dr. Holeman's behavior had become erratic, their relationship changed. It became especially tenuous in a meeting attended by Freehold Boro Regional High School Union President Debbie Gates-Kane and Principal Jewell. Ms. Gates-Kane stated that she found it necessary to move in between Ms. Jewell and Dr. Holeman for concern of a physical confrontation. Ms. Gates-Kane testified she was "called in" because his colleagues "were afraid of him...." She also stated that Dr. Holeman said to Ms. Jewell that she should "sleep with one eye open." Rarely does an Association representative provide potentially negative testimony. It is also unusual for colleagues to criticize a fellow staff member in writing and through testimony.

There is reason to conclude that it would be inadvisable to reinstate Dr. Holeman. The record indicates irrevocable differences between the administration, staff members and Dr. Holeman. In order to effectively serve the needs of students it is important the school Guidance Department function free of conflict.

AWARD:

For the reasons described above, the Tenure Charges submitted by the Freehold Boro Regional School District against Dr. Brett Holeman are sustained.

Ruling on Respondent's Motion to Dismiss

For the Petitioner: Comegno Law Group, P.C.

Background:

The matter concerns the dismissal of Brett D. Holeman, Psy.D., a tenured psychologist employed by the Freehold Regional School District and assigned to the system's high school.

At its September 12, 2016 meeting, the Board of Education considered allegations made against Dr. Holeman and voted to support the Sworn Tenure Charges submitted by Superintendent of Schools, Charles B. Sampson. The Board decided that Dr. Holeman's behavior warranted removal and revocation of his tenure status.

As required under New Jersey law, the allegations were forwarded to the Commissioner of Education. After review of the allegations, the Commissioner of Education determined that the matter should be referred to arbitration.

Specifically, the Board identified a number of allegations that were contained in its submission to the Commissioner. The Board characterized Dr. Holeman as unprofessional, unethical and engaging in illegal activities. The contentions prepared by Superintendent Charles B. Sampson included the following accusations:

a) Dr. Holeman engaged in inappropriate behavior as a school counselor, and a professional, habitually made disparaging and demeaning remarks about colleagues, staff members, and the Administration, and failing to meet his professional obligations to special education students.

b) Dr. Holeman engaged in inappropriate and unethical conduct by soliciting former and current students as patients for his private counseling practice.

c) Dr. Holeman spent a substantial amount of time during the school day working at his private counseling practice, and even utilized his school office for his private counseling practice; all of which resulted in a severe dereliction and failure to complete his assigned responsibilities and obligations to the students he was assigned to evaluate and/or case manage.

d) Dr. Holeman inappropriately and unethically shared confidential student information outside of the District.

e) Dr. Holeman interacted with students in an inappropriate and unethical manner.

f) Dr. Holeman intentionally failed to disclose a former employer on his application, ostensibly because he was terminated from his position.

g) Dr. Holeman does not suffer from any psychological defect or condition that explains or justifies his conduct.

h) Dr. Holeman does not have a substance abuse problem that contributed to his conduct.

The submission filed by the Board contained very specific allegations that it argued justified Respondent's removal from his tenured position.

Through his attorneys, Respondent answered each of the Tenure Charges filed by the Board. Dr. Holeman denied the accusations made against him by the Board through his legal counsel Aileen O'Driscoll, Esq. In response to the Tenure Charges, Attorney O'Driscoll contended that the Petitioner had failed to sufficiently show just cause. Ms. O'Driscoll argued that based upon deficiencies in the Board's case the charges be dismissed.

In addition to the failure to establish just cause, the Respondent charged the Petitioner had failed to comply with the provision of N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17. The language cited by the Petitioner is that the District:

> "shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses."

Attorney O'Driscoll argued in the instant matter the District "produced a wholly deficient witness list which includes a large number of individuals, and unacceptable summaries of the testimony each person will offer." The intent of the statute, Ms. O'Driscoll stated, requires hat pertinent documents held by the Petitioner are to be forwarded as soon as the case is referred to the arbitrator. The Legislature intended that tenure charges be decided expeditiously.

Also noted in Respondent's argument for dismissal was a reference to IMO Ebert and State Operated School District of New Jersey, Agency DKT. No. 49 – 3/15. The citation emphasized the necessity of full disclosure of witnesses and a summary of their testimony. Respondent's attorney considered this not only a requirement of the Statute but also an entitlement given that the "teacher is in a reactive posture."

The list was described by Respondent's counsel as "wholly deficient." The list identified more than twenty-five (25) names with vague summaries of their testimony. Respondent also argued the list had been delayed and not produced until requested by counsel. Ms. O'Driscoll contended that this delay alone warranted dismissal of the charges.

An additional matter contested by the Respondent concerned Petitioner's issuance of subpoenas. In preparation of the charges, the Petitioner sought to obtain, through subpoenas, the personnel records of two other school districts. The districts, West Morris Regional School District and Marlboro Regional Township, were considered pertinent by the Petitioner for purposes of credibility and ethics. West Morris Regional School District was identified as Dr. Holeman's previous employer. The Marlboro Township School District Administration had been contacted by the Petitioner in regard to a recent application for employment submitted by Dr. Holeman after the tenure charge process commenced. The Petitioner speculated that the Marlboro application might contain false information.

Respondent's attorney argued the issuance of subpoenas was improper. Ms. O'Driscoll contended the subpoenas were untimely since they were not issued until October 28, 2016, two days after the parties' conference call on October 26, 2016. Ms. O'Driscoll also argued that the issuance of subpoenas rests solely with the arbitrator. Neither N.J.S.A. 18A: 16-17 and AAA rules allude to the issuance of subpoenas by an attorney. Omission of subpoena authority, Respondent's attorney argued, reflects her position regarding the issuance of subpoenas.

In my opinion, an attorney of record in New Jersey can issue a subpoena. This view is based on interpretation of the following:

> A subpoena may be issued by either: „ The clerk of the court. „ An attorney. „ A party in the name of the clerk. (N.J. Ct. R. 1:9-1). Practitioners most commonly issue subpoenas by signing the subpoena in the name of the clerk. In certain specialized proceedings, the following may also issue subpoenas: „ Judicial officers and sometimes law enforcement officers in municipal proceedings (N.J. Ct. R. 7:7-8). „ Judges and non-lawyer representatives in administrative proceedings (N.J. Admin. Code ξ 1:1-11.1). „ Arbitrators in arbitration proceedings (N.J. Stat. Ann. ξ 2A: 23B-17).

Under its Labor Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association:

> 27. Evidence and Filing of Documents
>
> The parties may offer such evidence as is relevant and material to the dispute, and shall produce such evidence as he arbitrator may deem necessary to an understanding and determination of the dispute. An arbitrator or other person authorized by law to subpoena witnesses and documents may do so independently or upon request of any party....

Discussion of Motion to Dismiss

As indicated, it is my opinion that the State of New Jersey allows an attorney to issue subpoenas. However, the weight to be given to the information sought by the Petitioner is questionable. The Marlboro Regional School District subpoena is not relevant to the tenure charges since it represents a post termination document. Furthermore, the Petitioner does not know with certainty that its suspicions are valid.

The West Morris Regional School District subpoena has limited weight given that the Respondent has been in the employ of the Freehold District for approximately thirteen (13) years. During the years of Dr. Holeman's employment, the Freehold Regional District did not investigate or question his previous experience.

The release of personnel records is resisted by employers. Thus, the Petitioner's efforts to obtain personnel records have limited chance of success without a directive from the Court.

The witness list was acknowledged by Petitioner to be longer than the actual number of individuals who would likely be called to testify. The summary of witness statements is vague. While the relationship of possible witnesses can be culled from the tenure charge filed with the Commissioner of Education, I have instructed Petitioner to forward a more accurate list of witnesses and a more precise synopsis of their anticipated testimony.

The Respondent had taken issue with the failure on the part of Petitioner to adhere to the timelines prescribed under N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17.1. As described below:

> (3) Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses. At least 10 days prior to the hearing, the employee shall provide all evidence upon which he will rely including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employing board of education or its representative. The employee shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses.

I have taken into consideration the above and other issues raised by Respondent's attorney and do not believe they warrant dismissal of the Tenure Charges.

The Bureau of Controversies and Disputes forwarded the applicable file to me on or about October 11, 2016. The parties were informed of my selection a few days later and preferred to delay selection of hearing dates until they were officially notified of my appointment. This has resulted in delay of the process. The first hearing date was convened with the attorneys and arbitrator via a conference call on October 26, 2016. A second conference call was initiated on November 22, 2016. Hearing dates have been selected and various issues and concerns were expressed by both attorneys on November 22, 2016. A meeting to discuss a possible settlement is scheduled for December 12, 2016.

Selection of hearing dates has been complicated by the prior commitments of both representatives. Strict adherence to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17.1 timelines has been unavoidable. Neither party has deliberately delayed selection of hearing dates.

Given the above conclusions, I have determined that Dismissal of the Tenure Charge should not be granted.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former Paterson school teacher who retired on September 1, 2015, after teaching for approximately 28 years – filed multiple petitions with the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, beginning in April of 2016. The allegations in all of the petitions relate to events that occurred during Ms. Donahue's prior service as a teacher in the Paterson school district, and involve charges of nepotism and favoritism by district administrators, as well as various wrongs she claims to have been subjected to – including being denied use of sick days. The respondent school district filed a motion to dismiss, contending that the petitions were late filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: many of the allegations – which petitioner stated were motivated by her belief that Paterson school children have not received the thorough and efficient education they deserve because resources have been squandered by the administration, and because of inadequate supervision of the performance of teaching staff – assert the rights of third parties rather than those of petitioner herself; petitioner does not have standing to bring allegations that only assert the rights of others and not wrongs allegedly visited upon her; further, those allegations that do relate directly to wrongs against petitioner occurred during her employment in the school district, which ended September 1, 2015; the earliest petition of the several filed by Ms. Donahue was not filed until April 29, 2016. The ALJ concluded that all of the petitions were untimely and must be dismissed for failure to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, along with petitioners' exceptions – filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – and the District's reply thereto.

In her exceptions, petitioner expresses dissatisfaction with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Initial Decision. Petitioner argues that this matter is not out of time because many of her allegations continued after her employment with the District and are still ongoing. Petitioner also argues that she has standing because she was a teacher in the District, but could not bring her claims while working out of fear of retaliation.

In reply, the District argues that petitioner's exceptions simply air her grievances, rather than taking exception to specific findings of fact or conclusions of law. The District argues that the ALJ's decision is well reasoned and urges the Commissioner to affirm the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner does not have standing to bring allegations that only assert the rights of others. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that any allegations of wrongdoing by the District aimed at the petitioner are out of time – as petitioner retired on September 1, 2015, and the first petition was not filed until April 2016. As such, the matter is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter – for the reasons thoroughly expressed therein – and the petition is hereby dismissed.

KATHLEEN DONOHUE,
Petitioner,
v.
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC COUNTY,
Respondent.

Kathleen Donohue, petitioner, pro se

Robert Murray, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: March 3, 2017 Decided: April 6, 2017

BEFORE JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Kathleen Donohue (Donohue or Petitioner), is a former Paterson school teacher who retired on September 1, 2015. Donohue filed four Petitions in the form of letters with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes. The first Petition, containing ten allegations, is dated April 21, 2016, and was filed on April 29, 2016. The second Petition, containing two allegations, is dated April 26, 2016, and was filed on April 29, 2016. The third Petition, containing twenty-four allegations, is dated May 16, 2016, (with a notarized signature dated May 13, 2016) and was filed on May 23, 2016. The fourth Petition, containing two allegations, is dated May 16, 2016, and was filed on May 23, 2016. Many of the allegations are repetitive.

Subsequently, on August 27, 2016, Donohue filed an Amended Complaint (i.e., Amended Petition) with the Office of Administrative Law alleging various forms of mismanagement at Paterson Public School Number 25 and seeking relief on behalf of students and the general public, and alleging wrongs perpetrated against her.

The Amended Petition of August 27, 2016, follows the format of the four previously filed Petitions and even reiterates the allegations according to the dates of her previously filed Petitions, as set forth above. The first Petition's ten allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon third parties. The second Petition's two allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue. In the third Petition, twenty-four allegations, numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23, all pertain to wrongs allegedly visited upon third parties; three allegations, numbers 8, 15, and 24, pertain to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue. The fourth Petition's two allegations pertain only to wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue.

In short, Donohue makes the following seven allegations on her own behalf: the two allegations from her second Petition; allegation numbers 8, 15, and 24 from her third Petition; and the two allegations from her fourth Petition. She seeks relief for these wrongs.

The Amended Petition reiterates all of the allegations contained in the four previously filed Petitions. Donohue sets forth allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District and she sets forth requests for relief as follows: (1) an explanation for the denial of her request for non-accumulated sick days in December 2014, an apology for alleged untruthful statements made about her in connection with said request, and the purging from her personnel file of any statements that might malign her character; (2) cash compensation for time spent defending herself from false statements in connection with the denial of her request for non-accumulated sick days and for attending "Back To School Nights" and "Report Card Distribution Nights," and for time spent on "all of the work I had to complete on a daily, weekly basis, after hours, on weekends, and early in the morning"; (3) an explanation for why her name appears on assessment data, evaluation-type documents, Infinite Campus, and other documents for a time period while she was on medical leave; (4) an explanation for why she was not granted an interview when she applied for an ELA on-site supervisor position; (5) an explanation for why her e-mail to Carole Smelter went unanswered; (6) cash compensation for her personal instructional materials in her classroom which were allegedly destroyed or thrown out over the course of the summer of 2013, and to be informed of the results of an investigation into this incident by Luis Rojos, the director of the Labor Relations Office of the Paterson public schools; and (7) an explanation for why she was denied the use of a microphone at a "You Are Special To Me Tea" event in the 2013–2014 school year, as well as an apology.

The matter (Agency Reference Number 123-4/16) was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 13, 2016, and filed on June 14, 2016, as a contested case. Another matter (Agency Reference Number 150-5/16) was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 27, 2016, and filed on June 27, 2016, as a contested case. On June 13, 2016, Robert E. Murray, Esq., filed the respondent's Answer to the first, third and fourth Petitions, and on July 22, 2016, he filed the respondent's Answer to the second Petition. The tribunal held an initial conference by telephone on July 13, 2016. The tribunal issued its Pre-Hearing Order on July 15, 2016, and an Amended Pre-Hearing Order on July 27, 2016. The cases were consolidated by the Order of Consolidation dated July 18, 2016.

At present, this case is before the tribunal for the disposition of three motions:

The first motion is a "Motion to Request Additional Documents" was filed by the petitioner on October 20, 2016.

The second motion is a "Motion to Dismiss" was filed by the respondent on October 20, 2016; and

The third motion is a "Discovery Motion" was filed by the petitioner on November 3, 2016.

While the tribunal was reviewing the motions, it came to its attention that, in regard to the service of the petitioner's August 27, 2016, Amended Complaint (i.e., the Amended Petition) petitioner apparently did not receive the green return receipt card back from the U.S. Postal Service, which would indicate whether or not the respondent has actually received a copy of the Amended Petition. After checking its file and finding no filed Answer to the Amended Petition, the tribunal sent an e-mail to both the petitioner and the respondent on February 27, 2017. In this e-mailed letter the tribunal brought the issue of the service of the Amended Petition to their attention, seeking to find out—one way or the other—if respondent received the Amended Petition. On March 3, 2017, the tribunal received respondent's faxed correspondence and its Answer to the Amended Petition. The tribunal has accepted the Answer to Amended Petition nunc pro tunc, since there are no substantive differences between the allegations contained in the original four petitions and the Amended Petition.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are not in dispute:

1. Donohue served as a teacher in the Paterson School District for approximately twenty-eight years until she retired on September 1, 2015.

2. The events described by Donohue in her Petitions occurred during the period of time encompassed by her dates of her employment.

3. Donohue's Petitions were filed with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on April 19, 2016 (ten allegations); April 29, 2016 (one allegation); May 23, 2016 (twenty-four allegations); and May 23, 2016 (two allegations).

4. Donohue's Amended Complaint (i.e., Amended Petition) was filed on August 27, 2016.

5. Donohue's Motion to Request Additional Documents, filed on October 20, 2016, asks the Tribunal "to issue an Order requiring Respondent to submit any and all additional documents that the Petitioner requests that are necessary to support the validity of the accusations/violations of regulations."

6. Respondent's (the District's) Motion to Dismiss, filed on November 3, 2016, argues that Donohue lacks standing to bring the Petitions she has filed and also argues that she filed all of same out-of-time.

7. Donohue's "Discovery Motion", filed November 3, 2016, complains that the Respondent did not make "a good faith effort to provide ethical, truthful, complete and certified answers" and impliedly asks the Tribunal to compel same.

8. Although Donohue provided this Tribunal with copies of the Interrogatory Questions that she served on the Respondent, Donohue did not provide this Tribunal with copies of the respondent's answers to the Interrogatories.

9. Various opposition papers and correspondences from the parties were received and reviewed by the Tribunal, including a letter from the Petitioner received December 8, 2016. In this letter, Petitioner enclosed a newspaper article from the (Bergen) Record dated December 3, 2016, entitled "Paterson Schools Fill Lucrative Staff Positions," which petitioner cited in support of her position in the controversy at bar.

ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

The first issue to be decided is whether petitioner Donohue has the requisite standing to bring an action against the District.

The second issue to be decided is whether Donohue filed her petitions in accordance with the time limitations set forth in the regulations.

APPLICABLE LAW

Standing

In New Jersey, the Appellate Division, in the case of LDM v. Princeton Regional Health Commission, 336 N.J. Super. 277 (App. Div. 2000), stated:

> Standing is a threshold determination which governs the ability of a party to initiate and maintain a suit before the court. In re Adoption of Baby T., 160 N.J. 332 (1999). Generally, in New Jersey, "[e]ntitlement to sue requires a sufficient stake and real adverseness with respect to the subject matter of the litigation." New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce v. New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission, 82 N.J. 57, 67 (1980) (quoting Crescent Park Tenants Association v. Realty Equities Corp. of N.Y., 58 N.J. 98, 107 (1971)). Additionally, [a] substantial likelihood of some harm visited upon the plaintiff in the event of an unfavorable decision is needed for purposes of standing. Ibid. (quoting Home Builders League of S. Jersey v. Berlin Twp., 81 N.J. 127, 134-35 (1979))."
> [See also New Jersey Citizen Action v. Riviera Motel Corp., 152 N.J. 361 (1998).]

The Chancery Division ruled that litigants, generally, have no standing to assert the rights of third parties. Bank of New York v. Raftogianis, 418 N.J. Super. 323, 451-52 (Ch. Div. 2010).

Time Limits for Filing

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1(a) states:

> This chapter sets forth the rules of procedure established by the Department of Education for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a) states:

> To initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner shall prepare a petition of appeal conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4 [including a statement of the specific allegations and essential facts as well as the section or sections of the school laws under which the controversy has arisen] and serve such petition upon each respondent, together with any supporting papers the petitioner may include with the petition. The petitioner then shall file proof of service on each respondent . . . and the original petition and supporting materials, if any, with the Commissioner . . . .

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) sets forth a ninety-day time limit for the filing of petitions, as follows:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

Case law in New Jersey supports a strict adherence to the ninety-day time limit. In Riley v. Hunterdon Central High Board of Education, 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980), the petitioner was notified by letter of the nonrenewal of her contract on April 13, 1976. Rather than filing a petition with the Commissioner of Education, she opted to pursue her grievance through an arbitration process. After receiving an unsatisfactory result from arbitration, she decided to pursue an appeal to the Commissioner by filing a petition on June 20, 1977. Her filing was more than a year after she received the notice of nonrenewal. The Commissioner dismissed the petition as untimely. The Appellate Division upheld the Commissioner's dismissal of the petition as untimely.

In Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), the Supreme Court affirmed the Appellate Division holding that the Commissioner of Education had authority from the Legislature to adopt regulations establishing a ninety-day limitation for school personnel to file disputes under school laws; that administrative regulations were presumptively valid; that a ninety-day limitation afforded an aggrieved school employee a meaningful opportunity to file his/her petition; that ninety days was a reasonable procedural requirement; and, that anyone challenging such a regulation bears the burden of proving its invalidity. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 580-83. The Supreme Court also stated that the reason for a limitation period is twofold: "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend," and "to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose." Id. at 587.

It is therefore settled that when an employee has a grievance with his or her employer arising out of the school laws of New Jersey, his/her petition must be filed within ninety days from the date of the employer's allegedly wrongful act or from the date of the notice of the employer's adverse action.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The threshold question is whether Donohue has standing to bring the allegations contained in her petitions.

In all of her petitions, Donohue alleges that there is ongoing nepotism and favoritism whereby certain employees are not required by their superiors to perform the duties associated with their positions, particularly the instruction of schoolchildren.

Moreover, Donohue alleges that the school's administrative staff fails to perform its duties in regard to properly supervising and evaluating the performance of teachers and other school personnel. Donohue alleges that the school district's financial resources have been wasted because unqualified people have been hired, and that undeserving people have been given promotions. Throughout her petitions Donohue has stated that her complaints are primarily motivated by her belief that the schoolchildren have not received the thorough and efficient education they deserve because of the school administration's squandering of resources and failure to adequately supervise the performance of those responsible to instruct the children.

All of the aforementioned allegations, however sincerely motivated, assert the rights of third parties rather than Donohue herself. However appalled Donohue may feel because of her belief that the children are being shortchanged, it is the children who are the aggrieved parties rather than Donohue. Donohue's allegations of the District's failure to properly teach the children do not demonstrate that she has suffered or is in imminent danger of suffering some harm in the event of an adverse outcome in court. As noted above, in order to have standing Donohue would have to demonstrate that she has a sufficient stake in the subject matter. She has failed to do so. Moreover, as noted above, Donohue cannot gain standing in this case by asserting the rights of third parties. I CONCLUDE that Donohue has no standing to bring any allegations that only assert the rights of others and that do not address allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District.

We now turn to Donohue's allegations of wrongs visited upon her by the District. Donohue has asserted that she was unfairly denied use of unaccumulated sick days in December 2014 and that the executive director of labor relations, Louis Rojas, made incorrect and maligning statements about her. These are the types of allegations that Donohue would have standing to bring. Furthermore, Donohue alleged that classroom materials and decorations that she purchased and placed in her classroom were destroyed or disposed of in 2013 and/or 2014. Again, without commenting on the veracity of these allegations, these are things that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that an administrator wrongfully denied her the use of a microphone at a "You Are Special To Me Tea" event. This too is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that her name appears on assessments, evaluations, and other types of documents composed during a period when she was out on medical leave. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that she was unfairly denied cash compensation for her attendance at Back-To-School Nights and various other after-school activities and/or events. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. Donohue alleges that she was unfairly denied an interview for the position of ELA on-site supervisor. This is an allegation that Donohue would have standing to allege in a petition. I CONCLUDE that all of the above-mentioned wrongs that Donohue alleges were visited upon her by the District are things for which she would have standing to petition the Commissioner and/or the tribunal for relief.

Regarding the timeliness of Donohue's petitions, as noted above, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) states that a petitioner has ninety days from the date of a notice of a final order, the date of a ruling, or the date of some other action by the district to file her petition. A review of all of the facts contained in Donohue's allegations in all of her petitions shows that all of the wrongs allegedly visited upon her by the District occurred at times during her employment. She retired on September 1, 2015. Therefore, all of the wrongs allegedly visited upon Donohue by the District were more than ninety days before the filing of any of her petitions. That is to say, Donohue failed to file a petition alleging a wrong visited upon her by the District—a final order, a ruling, or an action—within ninety days of its occurrence. For this reason, I CONCLUDE that all of Donohue's petitions have been filed in an untimely manner. I further CONCLUDE that all of Donohue's petitions must be and hereby are dismissed for failing to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the motion to dismiss filed by the respondent is hereby GRANTED, and all petitions of the petitioner are hereby DISMISSED.

The petitions of the petitioner, having been dismissed as untimely filed, I hereby ORDER that petitioner's motion to request additional documents is DENIED; and I hereby ORDER that petitioner's discovery motion is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS AGREEMENT is entered on this ____ of December, 2016, by and between the Hamilton Township Board of Education ("Board") and Kenette Johnson on behalf of minor children C.M. and N.L.M. in full and final settlement of a student residency matter. The undersigned representatives of the parties enter this Agreement knowingly and with the authority to do so, in consideration of the promises made herein.

NOW THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. This matter arises out of a claim by the Board that minor children C.M. and N.L.M. attended school in the Hamilton Township School District without legal eligibility to do so during certain parts of the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years.

2. In compliance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38 and N.J.A.C. 6A:22, the Board issued Initial and Final Notices of Ineligibility, which Ms. Johnson has disputed, and the parties have both filed Petitions of Appeal which are pending hearing before the Office of Administrative law under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education (the "Litigation").

3. Subsequent to the legal procedures set forth above, the parties, through their authorized representatives, entered into negotiations for the resolution and closure of this matter, resulting in this Agreement.

4. The parties acknowledge the existence of their respective claims and positions, and mutually acknowledge that they could pursue said claims pursuant to the regulations of the New Jersey Department of Education and the Office of Administrative Law, and agree that there is a value in resolving this matter instead of pursuing further litigation, expense, time and uncertainty.

5. Therefore, Ms. Johnson shall pay to the Board, in full and final settlement of all claims related to this matter, the sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00), which amount shall be paid as follows via valid and negotiable check or money order, made payable to the

Hamilton Board of Education, and received at 90 Park Avenue, Hamilton, NJ 08690 as follows:

a. $1,500 received by January 31, 2017.
b. $500 received by June 30, 2017, in lump sum or in payments at Ms. Johnson's discretion, but to be fully paid no later than June 30, 2017.

6. The Board accepts this payment in lieu of pursuing further litigation, and in consideration of full and faithful performance by Ms. Johnson of the obligations set forth in herein, for monies claimed due and owing for the 2014-2015 school year. For purposes of settlement, the Board waives its claims for tuition monies owed for the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years.

7. The parties expressly acknowledge and mutually consent that in the event that valid payment is not made and received as set forth above, and upon ten (10) days notice to Ms. Johnson, the Board has the legal authority and intention to resume litigation of this matter, and Ms. Johnson has the right to resume litigation of her defenses and affirmative claims via proceedings in the OAL and before the Commissioner of Education.

8. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, the parties waive all claims related to this matter, provided that C.M. and N.L.M. remain eligible for continued enrollment in the Hamilton School District. Moreover, Ms. Johnson and the Board, in entering this agreement and subject to full performance of all obligations set forth herein, forever waive any and all claims against each other, absolutely and without exception, whether at law, in equity, under the applicable administrative regulations or otherwise, arising out of the Litigation.

9. This Agreement is legally enforceable under New Jersey law, and is binding upon both parties, their heirs, successors and privies.

10. All terms of this Agreement shall be kept strictly confidential except to the degree that disclosure is required by applicable law.

11. Legal counsel enters and executes this Agreement on behalf of the parties with the authority to do so as conferred by their respective clients. The Board's entry of this agreement is subject to approval by the Board in lawful executive session at its December 19, 2016 meeting.

12. This Agreement constitutes the parties' entire understanding and resolution. There are no other promises or obligations established by this Agreement, and none shall be added unless the parties mutually agree to do so via a written and executed document modifying this Agreement.

- He stated his concerns that some of the issues the district is having with repairs could have been avoided if the district had a Strategic Plan in place.

Kate Hamm
- Asked if the sign-up sheet for public comment could be kept outside the boardroom because some people might not feel comfortable walking up to the front of the room to sign in.
- She stated she is very disappointed that $900,000 for the West bleacher project was approved. ADA accessibility should be considered before athletics. Athletics are not a legal obligation but ADA accessibility is.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on his own behalf, seeking a determination that he is entitled to a free public education in the Black Horse Pike Regional School District. The respondent Board contended that a residency investigation had determined that petitioner resides at an address in Winslow Township, outside of the Black Horse Pike Regional School District.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and a hearing was scheduled for March 21, 2017. Petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The OAL sent a notice of petitioner's failure to appear to the Commissioner on April 4, 2017, and subsequently returned the file to this agency. Petitioner has provided no explanation for his failure to appear, despite having had the opportunity to do so.

Upon review of the record, it was determined that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Commissioner. Accordingly, the Commissioner dismissed the petition with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured teacher, challenged the actions of the respondent Board in failing to pay his salary after he was suspended without pay for 120 calendar days after the certification of tenure charges. Petitioner contended that the Board's action to withhold his pay subsequent to reinstatement to his tenured position, by way of an October 5, 2016 arbitration decision under the TEACH NJ Act, is unlawful pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. The arbitrator's decision found that petitioner had engaged in unbecoming conduct, and determined that the appropriate penalty for his actions would be the forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges. The respondent Board asserted that its actions are a proper exercise of its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, as petitioner collected unemployment compensation during his 120-day suspension without pay, and that his actions in applying for and receiving such compensation are in contravention of the arbitrator's decision that petitioner forfeit 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, petitioner was suspended from his teaching position with pay, pending the Board's investigation of petitioner's alleged unbecoming conduct; on April 28, 2016, the Board certified tenure charges against petitioner, and his suspension converted to a suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14; petitioner's suspension converted back to a paid suspension on September 1, 2016, as more than 120 days had elapsed since the certification of tenure charges; an arbitration award was rendered on October 5, 2016, setting forth petitioner's penalty as the forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges; at the time of the arbitration decision, petitioner was on paid suspension since September 1, 2016; the Board ceased paying petitioner on November 30, 2016, having determined that petitioner was not entitled to his salary because he had collected unemployment benefits during the months of July and August 2016, and was not so entitled as a ten-month employee; however, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 specifically legislates the time period when the Board may exclude payments to a tenured employee and does not regulate the compensation that the employee may receive while he or she is not being paid; and the Board's assertion that there is an exception to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 when an employee receives unemployment benefits is without merit. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the petitioner's motion for summary decision, and ordered that the Board restore petitioner's salary commencing with the pay period ending November 30, 2016.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00311-17

THOMAS STRASSLE,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

Edward A. Cridge, Esq., for petitioner (Mellk O'Neill, attorneys)

Christopher B. Parton, Esq., for respondent (Kenny, Gross, Kovats & Parton, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 3, 2017 Decided: April 13, 2017

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a tenured teacher challenges the actions of the Old Bridge Board of Education ("the Board") in failing to pay petitioner his salary after he was suspended without pay for one-hundred twenty calendar days (120-day) after the certification of tenure charges. Petitioner contends that the Board's decision to withhold his pay after an arbitrator's decision under TEACH NJ Act and the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1, to reinstate petitioner in his tenure positon and without back pay, violates the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and 18A:6-14.

The Board contends that its actions are a legally proper exercise of its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-14, as petitioner collected unemployment compensation during his 120-day suspension without pay. The Board further contends that it is not obligated to pay petitioner his salary, which they have withheld since November 30, 2016, as petitioner's actions are in contravention of the arbitrator's decision that petitioner forfeit 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of tenure charges.

Petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education on December 8, 2016, challenging the actions of the Board and seeking immediate restoration of his salary. Thereafter, on December 29, 2016, petitioner filed a Notice of Motion for Summary Decision with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12. On January 3, 2017, the Board filed an Answer to Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education.

On January 5, 2017, the Commissioner of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing on the merits of the underlying claims raised in the petition. The same was filed with the OAL Clerk's Office on January 9, 2017.

On January 20, 2017, the Board filed with the OAL Clerk's a certification in opposition to petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, a response to statement of material facts and a brief in opposition to the petitioner's motion for summary decision. [1]

[1] Petitioner had initially filed a Motion for Summary Decision with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.12. However, once the matter is transferred to the OAL, applications for summary decision shall be filed with the ALJ in accordance with applicable rules of the OAL. Summary decision motions in the OAL are governed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Petitioner wrote to the undersigned on January 25, 2017, requesting oral argument in connection with the motion for summary decision. The Board initially opposed petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision, urging that material issues of fact necessitated a plenary hearing. However, after a telephonic prehearing conference on February 24, 2017, the parties agreed that this matter would proceed without the need of a plenary hearing and instead, each party would submit supplemental pleadings in connection with the motion for summary decision and a ruling would be made thereafter. On March 3, 2017, petitioner and the board filed their respective pleadings requesting a ruling by summary decision as to the legal issues raised in the petition and answer.

DISCUSSION

The petitioner and the Board seek relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c) which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary judgment requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have held that the "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995), citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Anderson, supra, 477 U.S. at 252.

Conversely, it is critical that a favorable ruling on a summary judgment motion not "shut a deserving litigant from his [or her] trial." Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 77 (1954).

Both parties concede that the factual background which led to the filing of the petition is not in dispute. Petitioner is a tenured teacher employed by the Board as a ten-month employee, receiving twenty bi-weekly paychecks. On or about September 29, 2015, petitioner was suspended from his teaching positon, with pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, pending the Board's investigation of petitioner's conduct. On April 28, 2016, the Board certified tenure charges against petitioner to the Commissioner of Education and petitioner's suspension converted to a suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. Petitioner's unpaid suspension took effect on May 1, 2016 and continued through June 2016 and the summer months that followed. On September 1, 2016, petitioner's suspension converted to a paid suspension, as more than one-hundred twenty days had passed since the tenure charges were certified on April 28, 2016 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6A-14).

On October 5, 2016, pursuant to the TEACH NJ Act and the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et. seq., an Arbitration award was rendered adjudicating the tenure charges filed against petitioner by the Board. In a written opinion, the arbitrator ruled that petitioner "shall be reinstated to his positon as tenured teacher in the District. The penalty for the proven allegations as set forth ...above shall be reduced from termination to a forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following the certification of the tenure charges. Therefore, there shall be no back pay awarded in connection with this 120 days loss of pay."

This is where the parties' understanding of "suspension without pay" differs and why this matter is in dispute. At the time the Arbitration award was entered on October 5, 2016, petitioner was on paid suspension since September 1, 2016. The Board ceased paying petitioner on November 30, 2016, as it determined that petitioner was not entitled to his salary because he had collected unemployment benefits during the summer months of July and August 2016.[2] The Board opined that petitioner was not entitled to unemployment benefits as he is a ten-month employee and is not paid for the summer months, and in addition, he was on suspended pay for 120 days, for the months of May through August 2016. The Board determined further, that petitioner was not entitled to his salary on November 30, 2016, as it interpreted the Arbitration award as ruling that a "forfeiture of pay" against petitioner included all compensation received by petitioner during his 120 suspension-including the unemployment compensation.

The Board has decided to withhold petitioner's pay effective November 30, 2016, pending a determination by the OAL and the Commissioner of Education, as to the correct amount to release to petitioner, net petitioner's salary that the Board is holding in escrow. The Board acknowledges that under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, the 120-day suspension period "generally" includes, summer months "even" for 10-month employees like petitioner. The Board is of the opinion, however, that petitioner did not comply with the 120-day suspension period by applying for and receiving unemployment compensation during the said period. The Board does not present any exception to the 120-suspenson rule in N.J.S.A. 18A;6-14 as proof, but does cite several cases for the proposition that any delay that negatively impact the 120-day suspension is counted against the employee, and not counted towards the 120-day period. The same are not dispositive of the issue before the OAL as the petitioner did not cause any delay in the accumulation of the 120-day suspension.

The Board also relies upon the Arbitration Award for authority to withhold petitioner's salary. A review of the Award indicates that the arbitrator's ruling was consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14; a "forfeiture of the 120 days of pay already withheld following certification of the tenure charges. Therefore, there shall no back pay awarded in connection with this 120 day loss of pay." The Arbitration proceeding is governed by

[2] Petitioner had applied for unemployment compensation on July 10, 2016, and received unemployment benefits through the end of August 2016. Thereafter, petitioner refiled for unemployment benefits in December 2016 (after the Board withheld his November 30 paycheck), and was granted the same. It appears from the pleadings submitted that the Board did not contest the July 10 unemployment filing and did contest the December filing, which initially denied petitioner unemployment benefits. This decision was reversed by the Appeal Tribunal on February 7, 2017, and petitioner was granted unemployment benefits from November 27, 2016 through April 2017. The Appeal Tribunal informed the Board that they can notify the Department of Labor as to any back pay that petitioner received after November 15, 2016.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, and the arbitrator has ruled consistent with the applicable law for said proceedings as allowed under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. There is no exception to the 120-day suspension as the Board has carved out for petitioner. The Board argues that the arbitrator had some greater power than allowed by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, as the award was not the typical "suspend and restore" decision but an actual "penalty" imposed by the arbitrator. The Board fails, however, to present regulatory proof or cite a case that substantiates this argument.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, provides specifically that the Board is to pay the employee commencing on "the one hundred twenty-first day [following the 120 calendar days of suspension] until such determination is made [excluding the 120 days]." This statutory language explicitly legislates the time period when the Board may exclude payments to a tenured employee and does not regulate the compensation that the employee may receive while he or she is not being paid. For the Board to now imbue an exception to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 when an employee receives unemployment benefits, or any compensation, is contrary to the statutory language.

The Board also makes an argument that petitioner should not be allowed to collect unemployment as he has abused the system regulating unemployment benefits. The petitioner cites N.J.S.A. 43:21-5(b), regarding the return of unemployment benefits collected when an individual receives back pay during the unemployment period. Moreover, the Appeal Tribunal ruled that the Board was not prevented from notifying the Department of Labor of any back pay issued to petitioner while he received unemployment compensation after November 15, 2016, which is the date of petitioner's last paycheck.

Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision is DENIED. Petitioner's motion for summary decision seeking relief in the form of an order directing his restoration to full paid status to November 30, 2016 is GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's motion for summary decision be DENIED. It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. It is hereby ORDERED that the Board is to restore petitioner's salary commencing with the pay period ending on November 30, 2016 through the date of this decision.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the respondent Board to terminate his employment as Athletic Trainer when the position was abolished due to a reduction in force (RIF) and the responsibilities of his former position were transferred to an outside vendor. Petitioner alleged that his tenure rights were violated, asserting that the Athletic Trainer position was not abolished and that the vendor was given the position without acknowledgment of the petitioner's recall rights. The RIF occurred following a period when petitioner had been suspended with pay pending the outcome of an IAIU investigation concerning allegations of child abuse, which ultimately determined that the allegations against petitioner were unfounded. Petitioner subsequently filed the within petition, and the parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioner's motion for summary decision stated that there were no material facts in dispute; however, petitioner contradicted this in his opposition to the Board's motion for summary decision, where he stated that the Board's motives for outsourcing the position of Athletic Trainer were not based solely on reasons of efficiency and economy; further, petitioner alleged that his position was eliminated due to retaliation based on his filing a notice of claim and providing information that another employee had a criminal history; despite this allegation, petitioner failed to provide documents, statements of potential witnesses or anything else to support this position; respondent, on the other hand, has demonstrated that there was a clear economic reason for the Board to abolish the position of Athletic Trainer and to contract the services to an outside vendor, as petitioner's last salary was $100,363, or $40,000 more than the cost of contracting with the outside vendor to provide Athletic Trainer services. The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to provide any evidence that the Board's abolition of the Athletic Trainer position was arbitrary, capricious or done in bad faith, and that the Board's contract with the outside vendor was undertaken for reasons of economy, resulting in a savings of $40,000 for the school district. Accordingly, the ALJ denied petitioner's motion for summary decision and granted the Board's motion for summary decision, thereby dismissing the appeal.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's decision to abolish the Athletic Trainer position was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Further, the Commissioner found that the Board's decision to contract with an outside vendor for economic reasons did not violate petitioner's seniority rights. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Robert Reilly, and the East Orange Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.[1]

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board's decision to abolish the petitioner's athletic trainer position as a result of a reduction in force was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Commissioner also finds that the Board's decision to contract the athletic trainer services to an outside vendor for economic reasons did not violate the petitioner's seniority rights. [2] Despite the fact that the petitioner filed a motion for summary decision at the OAL stating that there are no material facts in dispute, his exceptions suggest that this matter should not have been decided on summary decision and instead there should have been a hearing with witness testimony regarding the Board's intent behind the elimination of his position. The petitioner also attempts to argue in his exceptions that his motion for summary decision only concerned his recall rights and what occurred after his position was abolished, not the Board's conduct before his position was abolished.

BEFORE: KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ

Record Closed: March 27, 2017 Decided: April 11, 2017

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Richard Reilly, (Reilly or Petitioner) contests his termination by East Orange Board of Education (Board or respondent) due to a reduction in force. On April 28, 2016, Reilly was informed by the Board that his position as Athletic Trainer was going to be abolished effective June 30, 2016 for reasons of economy. On May 10, 2016, the Board passed a resolution abolishing the position of Athletic Trainer. Petitioner appealed the Board's decision. The appeal was filed with the Office of Administrative Law on September 1, 2016.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision on March 7, 2017. Respondent filed a reply to that motion on March 31, 2017. Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on March 10, 2017. Petitioner filed opposition to respondent's motion on March 22, 2017. Respondent replied to the opposition on March 27, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Having reviewed the petitioner and respondent's briefs in support of and opposition to motion for summary disposition, I FIND the following FACTS:

Reilly was a certified, tenured Athletic Trainer at East Orange Campus High School (Campus). He began working for the Board in 2001. Reilly's annual salary for the 2015-2016 school year was $100,363. Reilly was suspended with pay pending an allegation of child abuse and neglect on September 9, 2015. On September 11, 2015, the Board entered a contract with outside vendor SD Gameday to provide a licensed certified Athletic Trainer for Campus due to the suspension of Reilly. On November 3, 2015, petitioner was informed that the investigation was unfounded. He was directed to report to campus on November 9, 2015. Petitioner filed a Notice of Claim against the Board for among other things civil rights violation, retaliation and harassment on December 9, 2015. The Board approved family leave absences for petitioner from November 16, 2015 to November 23, 2015 and January 13, 2016 to June 30, 2016. SD Gameday continued to provide the services of Athletic Trainer at Campus through the end of the 2015-2016 school year.

In March 2016, Dr. Gloria P. Watson, the Acting Superintendent of East Orange School District from March 15, 2015 to June 30, 2016, and the Senior Cabinet began the process to implement a reduction in force due to declining aid from the State, increase in charter schools and the rising cost of goods and services. During this time Dr. Watson, became aware that the contract with SD Gameday was a significant savings in comparison to petitioner's salary.

On April 28, 2016, petitioner was informed that it was recommended that his position among other positions was to be abolished. On May 3, 2016 petitioner was informed that his position as Athletic Trainer was to be abolished due to budgetary restraints and that he would be non-renewed for the 2016-2017 school year. On May 10, 2016, the Board approved a resolution which included non-renewal of Reilly and abolishing the position of Athletic Trainer. On June 28, 2016, the Board passed a resolution to contract with SD Gameday to hire an Athletic Trainer from July 15, 2016 to June 21, 2017, in an amount not to exceed $60,000.

Reilly alleges that the position of Athletic Trainer was not abolished and that S.D. Gameday was given the position, without given him his recall rights. Petitioner also contends that the Board's motives for outsourcing the Athletic Trainer position were not solely based on efficiency and economy in his opposition to respondent's motion. Petitioner did not address motives of the Board in his motion for summary decision. Petitioner did not include any evidence of any type that the position of Athletic Trainer was abolished in retaliation for his filing of a notice of claim or in bad faith.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Both parties are requesting summary decision. The rules governing motions for summary decision in an OAL matter are embodied N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. These provisions mirror the language of Rule 4:46-2 and the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Company of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), the determination to grant summary judgment should be based on the papers presented as well as any affidavits, which may have been filed with the application. In order for the adverse, i.e., the non-moving party to prevail in such an application, responding affidavits must be submitted showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. The Court in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523

(1995), set the standard to be applied when deciding a motion for summary judgment. Therein the Court stated:

> The determination whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the Motion Judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party . . . are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

In Martin v. Rutgers Cas. Ins Co 346 N.J. Super 320, 323 (App. Div. 202) The Court stated "The record is barren of any evidence that plaintiff had such a license other than her own self-serving assertion to that effect. That is clearly insufficient to create a question of material fact for purposes of a summary judgment motion."

In this matter petitioner's motion for summary decision states that there are no material issues of fact in dispute. Petitioner contradicts this in his opposition to respondent's motion for summary decision states that respondent's motives for outsourcing the position of Athletic Trainer were not based solely on reasons of efficiency and economy and therefore questions of motive or intent are not appropriate for summary decision. Petitioner alleges that his position was eliminated due to retaliation based on filing a notice of claim and providing information that another employee had a criminal history. Other than the allegation of petitioner in the petition there is no evidence of this. Petitioner has not provided any documents, statements potential witness or anything to support this position.

I CONCLUDE that Reilly has not presented any evidence to show that the abolition of the position of Athletic Trainer was arbitrary, capricious or done in bad faith.

In his motion for summary decision petitioner's contention is that by outsourcing the position of athletic trainer to SD Gameday instead of re-employing him in the position that the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A 28-12. In Impey v. Shrewsbury Bd of Education 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div 1994) Impey was a tenured speech correctionest. Shrewsbury abolished her position and contracted with Educational Services Commission of Monmouth County for speech correction services at a savings of $12,000. Impey alleged that this violated her tenure rights and sought reinstatement. Id. at 431. In Impey the Court stated:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.
> The Board's decision to contract with an ESC to provide the speech correction services previously performed by appellant eliminated the need for the position of speech correctionist within the district. Moreover appellant stipulated that the Board would save more than $ 12,000 per year by contracting with an ESC to provide these services. Therefore, we are satisfied that the Board properly abolished appellant's position of speech correctionist "for reasons of economy" and thus did not violate her tenure rights. Klinger v. Board of Educ. of Cranbury, 190 N.J.Super. 354, 357, 463 A.2d 948 (App.Div.1982) ("[R]eduction in force is entirely within the authority of the board if done for reasons of economy."), certif. denied, 93 N.J. 277, 460 A.2d 678 (1983). Id at 434

In this matter like Impey there is a clear economic reason for position of Athletic Trainer to be abolished and the services to be contracted to an outside vendor. Reilly's salary of $100,363 is $40,000 more than the Board will pay SD Gameday for the Athletic Trainer services.

I CONCLUDE that the Board abolished the position of Athletic Trainer on May 16, 2016 and contracting those services to an outside vendor, SD Gameday, with a savings of $40,000.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that Reilly's motion for summary Decision is DENIED.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that East Orange Board of Education's motion for Summary Decision is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 ("TEACHNJ"), tenure charges were brought by the Board of Education, Irvington Public School, Essex County ("Petitioner", "District" or "Irvington") against Belinda Mendez-Azzollini ("Respondent" or "Mendez-Azzollini" or "Azzollini") on August 19, 2016. Respondent filed an Answer of Evidence/Position in Opposition to the Tenure Charges on September 21, 2016. This matter was referred to me by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on October 3, 2016, for hearing and decision. The hearings in this matter were conducted on November 15, 2016, December 16, 2016, February 15, 2017, and March 2, 2017. Final submissions were received by April 11, 2017, whereupon the record was closed.

THE CHARGES

The Sworn Tenure Charges brought against Belinda Mendez-Azzolini in pertinent part state:[1]

"A. Just Cause Termination
The Respondent had been charged with the following conduct and/or other good cause necessitating the need to terminate her employment with the Irvington School District (hereafter 'Petitioner') for Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor:

7. During this same time frame, June 16, 2016, it was discovered by the Supervisor of Guidance, Claire Hamm, during an audit of senior transcripts that J.D. had not obtained a passing grade in Geometry, a requirement for graduation.

8. J.D. had obtained a failing grade in Geometry during the 2013-2014, school year and had never made up the grade. Ms. Hamm informed the Respondent of this at the time of the initial senior transcript review in the beginning of the 2015-2016, school year.

9. On June 17, 2016, Ms. Hamm again reminded the Respondent that J.D had not passed Geometry to which Respondent suggested that she check the Historical Grades screen in Power School and not rely on the student's transcript.

10. Thereafter, Ms. Hamm checked the Historical Grades screen for J.D. and observed a grade of "D" for the 2013-2014 school year. Ms. Hamm was somewhat puzzled by the discovery and questioned how the "D" grade suddenly appeared when the grade on his printed transcript reflected an "F" just two weeks earlier.

11. When questioned, the Respondent could not explain the change, but only mentioned that they should rely on the Historical Grades screen and not the transcript.

12. Thereafter, while reviewing the Historical grades screen, Ms. Hamm discovered that J.D.'s Geometry grade had been changed from an "F" to a "D" on June 15, 2016 at 11:02 am by Belinda Mendez-Azzollini.

13. On June 20, 2016, during the Senior Transcript meeting with the Superintendent, High School Principal, Ms. Hamm and the Respondent, the Respondent was asked directly if she changed J.D.'s. grade, to which she replied "no." Thereafter in a later meeting with her Union President present, the Respondent was again asked whether she changed the grade and again replied "no."

14. At that point, the Respondent was shown a copy of the Historical Grades screen showing that her user code was used to modify the student's grade. She then admitted that she had changed the grade and claimed for the first time that the student had informed her in September 2015, that he had passed Geometry in summer school.

15. Subsequent review of the summer school rosters for 2014 and 2015, did not demonstrate evidence that J.D. ever attended summer school. Additionally, J.D. was questioned on the subject and wrote a statement confirming that he never attended summer school or had a conversation with the Respondent about summer school.

16. The Respondent was unable to produce any documentation to support her action of modifying the student's grade. Her conduct constitutes unbecoming conduct for a public school employee." (R-1, P-2)[2]

ISSUE PRESENTED

Has the School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, met its burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence the tenure charges against Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini?

If so, do the tenure charges warrant dismissal or a lesser discipline?

EVIDENTIARY FINDINGS

At hearing, the parties were zealously represented. Each was given a full opportunity to present testimony, written evidence, cross-examine witnesses and submit post hearing briefs.

Petitioner Irvington proffered:

Claire Hamm - Supervisor of Guidance
Sandra Y. Boone-Gibbs - High School Principal
Bevin Subocz - Director of Technology and Media Services
Dr. Neely Hackett - Superintendent of Schools

Petitioner Belinda Mendez-Azzollini testified on her own behalf in addition to:

Eleanor Gatling - School Counselor - Transcript Coordinator Blue Knights Academy
Eileen Wesley - Irvington High School Social Studies Teacher, President-Irvington Education Association

Based upon a through review of the record, including all relevant exhibits, arguments and observations of the demeanor of each witness, I find the following as fact:[3]

grade district, classified as special needs, referred to as an "SDA District." The Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Neely Hackett attended Irvington Public Schools as a child. With the exception of a short tenure as High School Principal at Franklin High School in Somerset County, Dr. Hackett has been employed by the District as a teacher and in a series of progressive administrative positions. (2T236/21-237/11)

Upon her appointment as Superintendent five (5) years ago, Irvington High School's graduation rate was fifty percent (50%). The District is being monitored; the State is seeking a graduation rate of eighty-five percent (85%). The last school year - 2015/2016, Irvington High School's graduation rate was seventy percent (70%). (2T 242/5-22)

Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini, was hired in 2004 as a Guidance Counselor at the Union Avenue School by its then Building Principal, Dr. Hackett (then known as Nettie Settle). Dr. Hackett was replaced at the middle school by Mr. Joy and ultimately Ronald Bligh. In 2010, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini's contract for employment was non renewed based upon the District's mistaken belief the Petitioner had not worked long enough to obtain tenure. In addition to seeking tenure before the Commissioner of Education, in 2010, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini filed a civil action in Superior Court against Ronald Bligh, then Superintendent Ethel Davion and the Board of Education. On November 7, 2013, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini executed a Settlement Agreement and Release after receiving Eighty

Thousand Dollars ($80,000.00). Neither the District nor the named Defendants made any admission of liability. (J-1)

When Respondent returned to the District, she was assigned to the Blue Knights Academy, a night school program within Irvington Public Schools. When a position opened for a guidance counselor in the high school, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini applied for the transfer which was granted by Dr. Hackett. Thus, Respondent transferred from the night school to Irvington Public High School in or around April 2014. Prior to June 2016, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini was not issued discipline; she earned consistent positive evaluations. (R-10)

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

Claire Hamm was appointed Supervisor of Guidance prior to the 2015/2016 school year. Approximately twenty-two (22) guidance counselors service all schools within the District. As to the duties of a high school guidance counselor in Irvington, Ms. Hamm revealed,

> "Q. What does a guidance counselor do?
> A. A guidance counselor's role is to support their students in a caseload academically, social development and behavioral development. At the high school level, that means ensuring that your student and your caseload have all the required courses to graduate to make sure that they are progressing academically, make sure their attendance is not becoming an issue, make sure there's no behavior issues to prepare them for colleges and applications and careers, so they really have the full circle of responsibilities for high school students." (1T 13/5-17) (See also R-9 - Guidance Counselor Position Description)

At Irvington High School, it is the duty/responsibility of each guidance counselor to ensure students are assigned to courses which fulfill the New Jersey State requirements for graduation. Ms. Hamm disclosed courses required to complete:

> English Language Arts, four years or 20 credits
> Mathematics, three years or 15 credits
> Social Studies, three years
> Science, three years including a lab science - one must be biology
> Physical Education - every year enrolled
> One year of a World Language
> One year of Art
> One year of a career or practical Art
> One half year of financial literacy
> (IT 15/16 to 16/6)

The Guidance Supervisor is responsible for assigning duties to each guidance counselor in the high school. Dr. Hackett informed that within the last three (3) years these assignments have been tweaked. One counselor may be assigned all English learning language students, one counselor may be assigned only Freshman students, one counselor may be assigned special education students.

Since her reassignment to the high school in 2014, Respondent was "responsible for between 250-275" students every school year. (3T429/17) Counselors are also assigned additional duties. These include, inter alia, HIB specialist, college and career fairs, college visits, senior awards ceremony, translating transcripts from students of a foreign country. There is an attempt to equalize these roles between the Counselors. (2T319/14 to 321/8) In the school year 2015/2016, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini's additional duties included assignment as the high school HIB specialist (Harassment Intimidation and Bullying).

SEPTEMBER 2015

Counselors meet their students throughout the year and schedule courses for the next school year. In order to ensure seniors have scheduled all required courses to graduate in June, Principal Boone-Gibbs meets in September separately with the Supervisor of Guidance and each Guidance Counselor. Consistent with this process, in September 2015, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Ms. Hamm requested each Guidance Counselor to provide, for their 2016 graduating students, transcripts and schedules. (1T 126/3-13)

Upon receipt, Ms. Hamm reviewed the approximately three hundred (300) graduating student transcripts before the meetings. In the event a student's transcript evidences he or she will have problems with graduation, students can be assigned a credit recovery course embedded during the school day, after school on the premises, and at the Blue Knights Academy. (1T 126/14 to 127/11) This process was designed to ensure graduating seniors are on track to graduate; given an opportunity to take all required courses.

In preparation for the September meeting, Guidance Supervisor Hamm created a form identifying all graduation requirements with a check list for completion to graduate in June 2016. During this process, she discovered that student J.D. had failed "geometry." (P-4)

The meeting on September 29, 2015, was conducted by Principal Boone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm. When Respondent met with them to review her senior case load, she was informed student J.D. had failed geometry and needed to pass this mathematics course in order to graduate in June 2016. (1T 21/2 to 22/18; 3T 452/19 to 453/21)

NOVEMBER 2015

Upon her transfer to the high school in April 2014, Respondent was assigned Sophomore student J.D. She remained his counselor throughout J.D.'s Junior and Senior years of high school. After J.D. failed geometry during the 2013-2014 school year, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini never addressed this deficiency by scheduling J.D. to another geometry class, credit recovery, or Blue Knights Academy.

Prior to the September 29, 2015, meeting with the Principal and Guidance Supervisor, J.D.'s official transcript evidenced grade F and zero credit for geometry in his Sophomore year. On November 10, 2015, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini changed J.D.'s geometry credit from zero credit to five credits.[4]

Acknowledging she made this change, on cross, Respondent testified,

"Q Now I think I heard your testimony today, it was a little confusing to me but I want to be clear about what you said, I think you said you changed his credits on November 10th, to five credits; is that accurate?

[4]This change was not discovered by the District until the Fall of 2016, after Respondent's suspension. Director of Technology Bevin Subocz, upon request of Dr. Hackett, conducted an in depth review of all grade changes made by Respondent in Power School during the 2015-2016 school year.

A Yes.
Q On what authority did you do that?
A Because guidance counselors are able to update information.
Q Okay, and what updated information did you get that he had five credits?
A Well, like I said, like I testified before that I don't actually recall it, recall it but if that was the cause and in November we were getting information in to update the audit sheet or their transcripts I may have mistakenly changed it thinking it was summer school grade.
Q Let's stop there, let's stop this.

You know at this point in time in 2014/15, how long have you been a guidance counselor?

ARBITRATOR LASKIN: You mean 15/16?

Q 15/16, how long had you been a guidance counselor?
A Twelve years.
Q You would be considered like a veteran at that point, right, yes, more or less?
A Yeah.
Q It is a very serious thing to change a grade or to give anyone credits that he hasn't earned, you would agree with that statement, wouldn't you?
A Yes. I would never intentionally do that.
Q Let's forget intentionally.
A I would never intentionally fabricate or change any grade.

(3T 453/22 to 455/4)

...
Q Okay, I think the testimony was in November you changed the credit; is that accurate?
A Yes.
Q Did you change the credit and the grade or just the credit?
A Just the credit.
Q What was the grade that you left, was it an F?
A I don't know." (3T 457/3 to 10)

JUNE 2016

The final graduating senior review, under the direction of Dr. Hackett, is conducted every June with each guidance counselor, together with the Supervisor of Guidance and the High School Principal. Each Guidance Counselor's case load of graduating seniors is reviewed to confirm all requirements were met; the student(s) had earned their Irvington High School diploma.

In preparation for this meeting, on June 9, 2016, Guidance Supervisor Hamm directed her secretary to print out all senior transcripts and historical grade screens. (1T 65/25 - 66/7) Ms. Hamm reviewed these records for each the approximately three hundred (300) graduating students. On Friday, June 17, 2016, in preparation for the review meeting scheduled on Monday, June 20, 2016, Claire Hamm sent questions to counselors requesting updated information.

At 8:21 a.m., Supervisor Hamm emailed Ms. Mendez-Azzollini as follows, both classes at this time?

4) For S. L., I don't see Financial Literacy (or an equivalent) on his transcript. Please advise.

5) For A. M., I don't see an visual/performing art elective. Please advise.

I will need your updates on these five students before you leave for the day today because, as you know, I am meeting with Dr. Hackett tomorrow to review all transcripts.

Thanks so much,
Claire"

Respondent replied, by email:

"From: Belinda Mendez-Azzollini
Date: Fri, Jun 17, 2016 at 1:18 PM
Subject: Re: URGENT: QUESTIONS RE SENIOR TRANSCRIPTS - RESPONSES DUE TODAY FRI JUNE 17, 2016
To: Claire Hamm

can you please call me" (P-11)

Prior to receipt of the Friday email, on Wednesday, June 15, 2016, at 11:02 a.m., utilizing Power School, Respondent modified J.D.'s geometry class grade and credit. To accomplish this task, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini made multiple changes in various quarters of his tenth grade geometry class resulting in the change of the final grade from F to D and credit from zero to five. (P-8)

Complying with Respondent's request, Guidance Supervisor Hamm called asking if J.D. earned a passing grade for Geometry. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini insisted he did. Guidance Supervisor Hamm advised Respondent that J.D. had an F in geometry. Respondent insisted her Supervisor was looking at the wrong computer screen. At hearing, Guidance Counselor Hamm reiterated this conversation

as follows:

> "I am very worried. Does this student have a passing grade for geometry?
>
> And she said to me: Yes, yes, he is fine. Everything is fine. He has a passing grade.
>
> And I said: Well, how can that be? Because I have a transcript that has an F and zero credits.
>
> And she said: No, no, he is fine. You must be looking at the wrong screens.
>
> And I said: Well, I am looking at Historical. Is that not what I am supposed to be looking at?
>
> And she said: Well, yeah, but you must be looking at the wrong thing, because look at it now.
>
> And so while I was on the phone with Ms. Azzollini I did go into the Power School, I did go into the historical grade screen, and sure enough, I saw something different. I saw a D with five credits. So I was very puzzled at that moment and I kept saying to Ms. Azzollini, I don't understand this. How could I have a transcript that says F with zero credits that was printed out a couple of weeks ago and now I am looking at a screen that says a D with five credits? I am really confused.
>
> And she just kept saying: No, its right, it's right. You were probably looking at the wrong screen."
> (1T 28/20 to 29/23)

During this conversation, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini failed to advise her Supervisor that J.D.'s Sophomore Geometry record was changed by her two (2) days previous, on June 15, 2015.

After speaking to Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, Ms. Hamm immediately contacted Director of Technology Bevan Subocz, communicating her concern of "Big Problems with Power School" believing it was a "computer glitch" which caused the grade change. Ms. Hamm added," I wouldn't have in my wildest dreams thought anybody would have gone in and changed a grade." (1T 34/2 to 35/2)

Director Subocz immediately investigated. Her testimony disclosed, upon clicking the final grade in the Power School data base, an edit stored grade page is opened. Any change in a grade is saved and recorded with the notation of the user. (2T 203/5 to 204/1) Subocz's investigation revealed J.D.'s credit and grade was changed on June 15, 2016. Ms. Subocz relayed her findings; user 3309 made multiple manipulations on J.D.'s transcript. Ms. Hamm requested the identity of user 3309. Upon further investigation, Director Subocz identified 3309 as Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini. (P-8)

JUNE 20, 2016

Prior to the commencement of the senior transcript meeting, Ms. Hamm informed Dr. Hackett and Principal Boone-Gibbs about the Director of Technology's finding regarding J.D.'s geometry grade. When Ms. Mendez-Azzollini came before the committee, her senior transcripts were reviewed. The final student was J.D. Dr. Hackett's testimony, corroborated by Ms. Hamm, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Respondent exclaimed,

> "We get to J.D. and then she says fine. And Ms. Hamm says are you sure, she says yes, he is fine. So Ms. Hamm says we have an issue because I had a D - there was an F, I am sorry, and now the passing - Ms. Hamm said what did he get in geometry and Ms. Azzollini said a D. And Ms. Hamm said there's a problem because I saw an F when I did my review and now it is a D. So Ms. Mendez-Azzollini said, no, no, he is fine, he is fine. So I believe at that point I said, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, did you change the grade, she said no.
> Q. Who was there when you said that, when you asked the question?
>
> A. Ms. Boone-Gibbs and Ms. Hamm. So I said again because now I am getting a little nervous, I said Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, did you change the grade. She said, no. I think I might have asked her two or three times.

Q. And her answer was the same?

A. Her answer was the same. At that point I knew something was wrong. I didn't quite know what it was. I knew something was wrong." (2T 247/5 to 24)

After the denials, Dr. Hackett interrupted the meeting directing Respondent to return with a Union representative. President of the Irvington Education Association, Eileen Wesley, a high school social studies teacher, returned to the meeting with Respondent. In the presence of her representative, Dr. Hackett again asked Respondent if she had changed any grades. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini expressed, she "had not." (3T 378/20 to 25) Thereupon, Dr. Hackett showed Respondent and Ms. Wesley a copy of the historical grade screen, researched by Technology Director Subocz evidencing that J.D.'s grade was modified by an individual using Respondent's user code. (P-6, P-8)

Soon thereafter, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini acknowledged she changed J.D.'s grade from F to D. Dr. Hackett asked why the grade change was from an F to a D instead of an A, B or C. The Superintendent sought documentation as to why Respondent changed the grade and why that grade was a D. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini informed she believed J.D. had taken Summer school. Thereupon, Director Hackett requested Ms. Wesley accompany Respondent to her office to find the Summer school documentation.

When they left the room, Dr. Hackett directed the Principal to meet privately the student. J.D. informed the Principal he neither spoke of nor attended Summer school to rectify his geometry failure.

In addition to Ms. Wesley, another counselor and Guidance Secretary assisted to find Summer school lists. Approximately 15 to 20 minutes later, finding no documentation to support her claim, Respondent along with Ms. Wesley returned to the meeting informing the participants of the lack of documentation. Thereupon, Dr. Hackett instructed Ms. Mendez-Azzollini to leave the school grounds, notifying "she would be officially suspended pending further investigation." (2T 225/9 to 10; 3T 467/9 to 469/21)

POSITION OF THE PARTIES

The parties presented argument at hearing and through post hearing submissions; the essence of each is as follows:

School District of the Township of Irvington

The District maintains Respondent's conduct was deliberate and calculated, warranting dismissal from her guidance counselor position at the Irvington Board of Education. She engaged in a series of unethical acts. She had numerous opportunities to cure her failure to provide J.D. a geometry course and/or admit her changes in the Power School data base. Her conduct, the District avers, cannot be rehabilitated by interventions available to a school district.

Irvington views Respondent's defense as lacking genuine candor as she blamed others and feigned confusion.

Arguing her behavior throughout the 2015-16 school year presents a series of deliberate actions, "unbecoming conduct," Counsel reflected upon her deportment during the senior transcript meeting,

> "The meeting of June 20, 2016, was the culmination of all deception demonstrated by the Respondent, but also another failed opportunity to admit her error and accept the consequences. On this occasion, when confronted with what appeared to be an unauthorized grade and credit change, the Respondent chose to lie to her Supervisor, Building Principal and Superintendent of Schools, when asked repeatedly and simply, did you change the grade? The transgression was further enhanced when the Respondent suggested that the Student himself had told her he had taken summer school and passed the class. This myth was quickly dispelled when the student was called and denied her version. The Respondent finally relented and suggested that she changed the grade in June because she was confused when she audited the student's transcript and noticed that he had an F and 5 credits. What she conveniently failed to disclose to the committee was that there was no confusion to her, since it was she who had changed JD's credits to 5 earlier that year on November 10, 2015. At no point in this process did the Respondent simply take a principled stance and admit her fault.
> Here, the Respondent's conduct did not only not meet the high standards expected of public employees, it demonstrated a lack of fundamental honesty and integrity in a position in which guidance is sought by our students. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967)." (Brief pps 14-15)

Moreover, neither Respondent's years of service, positive evaluations, award recognition, or personal story nullify her conduct, avers the district. Trust is lost between the District and Guidance Counselor Belinda Mendez-Azzollini.

Accordingly, Irvington requests this arbitrator sustain the Tenure Charges and determine dismissal is the appropriate discipline.

Belinda Mendez-Azzollini

Respondent maintains the fact pattern in this matter is "not illustrative of the type of nefarious, intentional, misconduct that would warrant loss of tenure." Ms. Mendez-Azzollini argues she held a good faith basis "at least in her mind" to change J.D.'s credit based upon her mistaken belief J.D. passed geometry when she made the credit change in November 2015. (Brief at 2, 3)

Acknowledging she is not free from blame, Respondent contends her "serious error" was unintentional. Counsel cites recent tenure cases arguing the loss of tenure in TEACHNJ decisions are predicated on more egregious conduct than Respondents. (See In re Gilda Nicole Harris, Agency Dkt. Nos. 342-11/14 & 379-12/14, final decision, (October 2, 2015); In re Carol Zepralka, Agency Dkt. No. 162-7/15, final decision, (September 4, 2015))

Comparing her actions to those in the cases cited by counsel, Respondent asserts her missteps do not warrant the forfeiture of tenure. (Brief at page 5) Particularly, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini is aggrieved to face punishment for an act that did not violate any District policy - reasoning the failure of the District to have a written policy for processing grade changes is a "severe, even fatal deficiency in the tenure charge."

In addition, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini claims her $80,000 settlement from the District in 2013, J-1, and Dr. Hackett's lack of knowledge of the settlement raises the inference of a potential inappropriate factor in the District's decision to file tenure charges. Moreover, Dr. Hackett's failure to initially confront Ms. Mendez-Azzollini about J.D.'s grades without any effort to have her union representative present, violated her Weingarten rights to union representation.

Listing other mitigating factors, Respondent notes she was burdened with a work load disproportionate to that of other guidance counselors. And, reassignment to an elementary school would obviate the District's concern about any future grade changes. Finally, Respondent views the tremendous impact her loss of position on her family as a mitigating factor. Counsel concludes,

> "As a result, were Ms. Mendez-Azzollini to be terminated, her entire family would lose most of its income, its health insurance coverage, and its retirement income and associated benefits. Such a devastating impact is unwarranted given the foregoing fact pattern. Accordingly, Respondent urges the Arbitrator to exercise her discretion to refrain from penalizing Ms. Mendez-Azzollini beyond what would be appropriate for a first-time offender under the circumstances." (Brief at 12)

ANALYSIS OF EVIDENTIARY FINDINGS

Has the School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County, met its burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence the tenure charges against Respondent, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini?

If so, do the tenure charges warrant dismissal or a lesser discipline?

New Jersey provides protection to tenured guidance counselors such as Belinda Mendez-Azzollini from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982) The Statute expresses, inter alia, tenured staff "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause...." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. While "conduct unbecoming" is not defined by statute, it is an "elastic standard" determined on a case by case basis, embracing a wide range of conduct. (In The Matter of Tenure Hearing of Thomas Strassle and the School District of the Township of Ulbridge, Middlesex County, Agency Dk. No. Number 131-5/16 (Biren, October 5, 2016).

At all times, the District maintains the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the credible evidence Brenda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in conduct unbecoming a public school guidance counselor. Upon consideration of this record, with emphasis upon resolution of the credibility of the witnesses, I find the District has met its burden.

The evidentiary findings above reveal the District has established Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the conduct outlined in Charges 7 through 16, infra at pages 2-3. Her behavior resulted in the inability of J.D. to graduate with his class in June 2016. J.D. had no knowledge of this possibility until the day the students practiced their graduation ceremony. From June 2014 through June 2016, Respondent failed to provide him opportunity to obtain a passing grade in geometry, a requirement for graduation. While Respondent's conduct affected only one student, J.D., her actions from November 2015 through June 20, 2016 present a series of an intentional deliberate acts establishing conduct unbecoming.

During her testimony, and in argument, Ms. Mendez-Azzollini repeatedly claimed she did not "intentionally fabricate or change any grade"; that she "mistakenly changed" the credits and grade. Reviewing the record and Respondent's demeanor during hearing, I find her position unworthy of belief. Respondent's testimony was not credible.

Even after finally admitting she was "untruthful" to Dr. Hackett, Principal Boone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm at the senior transcript meeting, Respondent attempted to limit her culpability. On direct,

> "Q. Now you heard obviously the testimony from a number of people indicating that you were untruthful during the meeting, did you deny changing J.D.'s grade at all?
> A. At first, yes, I did. My mind wasn't clear in that meeting, I actually was coming back from suspension I was in the rubber room five days prior to that and I panicked, I was scared and I definitely wasn't thinking clearly." (3T 423/18 to 424/1)

Ms. Mendez-Azzollini intentionally, on November 10, 2015, changed J.D.'s geometry credit from zero (0) credits to five (5) credits. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini purposefully made numerous manipulations in Power School on June 15, 2016 resulting in J.D.'s final "D" geometry grade with five (5) credits. Ms. Mendez-

Azzollini deliberately, pre-meditatively, and wantonly lied to Guidance Supervisor Hamm on June 17, 2016 that J.D. had a passing grade, claiming "everything is fine" and the "wrong screen" was being viewed. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini, on at least three (3) occasions on June 20, 2016 at the senior transcript meeting, consciously lied to Superintendent Hackett, Principal Bone-Gibbs and Guidance Supervisor Hamm asserting she did not change J.D.'s geometry grade. And, when she finally acknowledged she made the changes, Ms Mendez- Azzollini "lied" on J.D- the student she was charged to protect.[5]

Accordingly, this record is patently clear. Irvington School District has established by a preponderance of the credible evidence Ms. Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the actions expressed in paragraphs 7 through 16 of the Tenure Charges, Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor.

Does the finding of Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor warrant dismissal or a lessor discipline?

Brenda Mendez-Azzollini, prior to the 2015-2016 school year, served both the District and her students in performing the duties of a guidance counselor (R-9). These duties included, inter alia,

> "(GUIDANCE COUNSELOR
> DUTIES
> The Guidance Counselor is responsible for, but not limited to the following duties:
>
> 1. Assemble, maintain and interpret information regarding

[5] See Dr. Hackett's rationale for seeking dismissal.(3T 264/12 to 267/5)

pupils

2. Plan and supervise advance scheduling and orientations as required

3. Counsel pupils individually and in groups

4. Consult with teachers and other school staff members regarding the adjustment of individual pupils

5. Conduct conferences with parents in order to help them better understand and assist in the educational, vocational, personal and social adjustment needs of their children

6. If necessary, adjust the programs of pupils having difficulty in school

7. Identify pupils who require evaluation by the Child Study Team, collate the data necessary for the referral and refer these pupils to the Team after notification to the child's parents

8. Schedule case conferences between the Team and the faculty

9. Coordinate the implementation of the Child Study Team recommendations in the school

10. Participate in the school testing program and assist in interpreting the test results to parents, pupils and teachers" (R-9)

The District views these duties as requiring ethics and the ability to be trusted, reviewing confidential documents and engaging with children, colleagues, supervision, and parents. If she had not changed J.D.'s grade, or had admitted her mistake, the District would not have sought her dismissal. Dr. Hackett, explained,

> "But she changed the grade so she wouldn't get in trouble. In my world and how I believe you take whatever consequence comes your way when you make a mistake but you do not change a grade and possibly allow a child to get a diploma who has not earned it. You do not do that, you say Dr. Hackett, Ms. Hamm, Ms. Boone-Gibbs, I made a mistake, I never made sure this kid was re-enrolled in geometry. And then I would have to scramble and make it happen. I am not saying it wouldn't have been a consequence for her but it wouldn't have been tenure charges. It wouldn't have been my belief that tenure charges. Tenure charges came from the fact I cannot trust her again." 2T 265/16 to 266/3)

Seeking a lesser discipline than dismissal, Respondent raised defenses and requests for this arbitrator to consider mitigating factors as follow:

1. Failure of the Board to have a written policy on grade changes. This failure, Respondent argues, is a fatal flaw to the tenure charges. The record, however, does not support this position. Rather, testimony revealed all employees recognize documentation is necessary to change grades, and prior approval is required.

2. Weingarten Rights. Ms. Mendez-Azzollini claim her statutory rights were violated is not consistent with this record. Dr. Hackett appropriately stopped the senior transcript meeting, directing Respondent to return with Union representation, after Respondent lied about changing J.D.'s grade. She was not obligated to do so at the commencement of the meeting wherein the transcripts of all the seniors' Respondent counseled were reviewed.

3. Bias and Burdens. Respondent did not proffer any corroborative evidence supporting her inference Dr. Hackett held an inappropriate bias toward her due to the 2013 Settlement of her 2010 Civil Action, J-1. Dr. Hackett hired Ms. Mendez-Azzollini as a guidance counselor in 2004 and approved her request for transfer to the high school in 2014, after Respondent received eighty thousand dollars ($80,000) in settlement. Likewise, Respondent failed to present documentary or testamentary evidence in support of the assertion her duties and work burdens were greater than any other guidance counselor and/or affected her behavior.

Finally, Respondent's suggestion that placement in an elementary school could obviate District concern as these students do not receive grades, is not an appropriate request for mitigation. The district cannot be required to limit its ability to assign Guidance Counselors where needed.

Brenda Mendez-Azzollini's conduct in the school year 2015/2016 cannot be rehabilitated by workshops, professional development courses, or any interventions available to Irvington. Her conduct has broken the level of trust the District expects to rely upon for a guidance counselor to perform requisite duties, R-9.

AWARD

The School District of the Township of Irvington, Essex County has established Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in the actions expressed in paragraphs 7 through 16 of the Tenure Charges, Conduct Unbecoming a Public School Guidance Counselor.

There is insufficient evidence in this record to support a discipline less than dismissal. Accordingly, Belinda Mendez-Azzollini engaged in unbecoming conduct constituting just cause for dismissal.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In these consolidated cases, the petitioning Board alleged that respondent, a tenured clerical employee, illegally obtained and disclosed student records, improperly obtained free and reduced lunch benefits for her son, and abused sick leave. Tenure charges were filed with the Office of Administrative Law on November 15, 2011 and January 18, 2012; a criminal complaint alleging, inter alia, official misconduct in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2 was filed by the Hudson County Prosecutor on August 30, 2011. The matter was subsequently held in abeyance and placed on the inactive list. A lengthy procedural course culminated in a Superior Court order in May 2016, resulting in respondent's admission into a pre-trial intervention program (PTI) – a condition of which was that Ms. Saavedra forfeit her public employment with the school district, as well as any future right to public employment. Respondent successfully completed PTI, and the criminal complaint against her was dismissed in January 2017.

The ALJ found that the tenure charges against respondent have been rendered moot by the forfeiture of her position via order of the Superior Court. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the charges against respondent dismissed as moot.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusion that the tenure charges against respondent are moot; as such, there is no justiciable controversy before the Commissioner. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the tenure charges were dismissed as moot.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY FINDINGS OF FACT

In these consolidated cases, the North Bergen School District, (the District) alleged that Ivonne Saavedra, (Saavedra), a tenured clerical employee, illegally obtained and adversity of interest. Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976); Fox v. Twp. of E. Brunswick Bd. of Educ., EDU 10067-98, Initial Decision (March 19, 1999), aff'd, Comm'r (May 3, 1999) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>; S.J. v. Bd. of Educ. of Mountain Lakes, EDU 07081-03, Initial Decision (October 7, 2003), aff'd, Comm'r (Nov. 17, 2003), aff'd, St. Bd. (Feb. 3, 2004) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. Saavedra has forfeited her public employment, rendering the issues raised by the pleadings academic.[1]

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the tenure charges against Saavedra are DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

[1] The order of the Superior Court was consistent with the spirit and intent of N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2, which provides for forfeiture of public employment upon conviction of a crime of the third degree or higher. Public misconduct is a crime of the second degree. N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2. While PTI is a diversionary program that allowed Saavedra to avoid conviction, clearly forfeiture of her employment with the District was the quid pro quo for admission into PTI. See e.g.: State v. Bender, 80 N.J. 84 (1979).

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – who had been employed as Head Custodian in the respondent Board's school district since May 2004 – contended that his tenure rights were violated when he was reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian in January 2016, and his salary was reduced by the elimination of the additional salary/stipend he had previously received as Head Custodian. The Board denied that its action violated petitioner's tenure rights. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the Board's contention that petitioner is barred from seeking relief from the Commissioner because he failed to file a grievance regarding his reduction in salary is without merit, as is the Board's argument that the petition is time-barred; petitioner in this matter has tenure and the rights associated with that status, which include a right not to suffer a reduction in compensation unless guilty of the offenses statutorily defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3; the "stipend" at issue here was not provided for services that were "extra-curricular" or "extra duty", but rather were part and parcel of petitioner's primary custodial duties; the "stipend" here was not distinguished from his base pay in the annual notices provided to petitioner of his salary for the next school year, and pension contributions were deducted based on his total compensation. The ALJ concluded that the contractual designation of a "stipend" does not override the actual treatment by the Board of the amount of money so designated in the contract. Accordingly, the petitioner's motion for summary decision was granted and the Board's cross-motion was denied. The ALJ ordered the Board to restore petitioner's salary to what he was receiving before his reassignment, with the stipulation that he shall receive that difference only until such time as the salary designated for custodians surpasses the current level designated for Head Custodians, including the so-called "stipend".

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

[1] The Board shall restore to petitioner the salary he has not received since his reassignment from Head Custodian to Second Shift Custodian, i.e., the difference between the Head Custodian salary – including the "stipend" – and the custodian salary. Furthermore, petitioner shall only receive the difference in salary until such time as the salary designated for custodian surpasses the current salary for Head Custodian (inclusive of the "stipend").

v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF WEST NEW YORK, HUDSON COUNTY,

Record Closed: February 23, 2017 Decided: April 19, 2017

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

Steven Baldwin filed a Verified Petition on April 11, 2016, with the Commissioner of Education in which he complained that the Board of Education of West New York reduced his salary, in violation of his tenure rights, as guaranteed by N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. According to the Petition, Baldwin was employed by the Board of Education as a Head Custodian, commencing on May 1, 2004. On January 14, 2016, he was notified that he would be reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian, a position he began working on January 15, 2016. According to his Petition, as a Head Custodian Mr. Baldwin received additional salary/stipend above that he would receive as a custodian. When he was reassigned to the position of Second Shift Custodian his salary was reduced by the elimination of the additional salary/stipend. It is this reduction from which he seeks relief.

The Board of Education denied that its action violated Mr. Baldwin's tenure rights. The Commissioner transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law on June 2, 2016. On December 5, 2016, petitioner Baldwin filed a motion for summary decision. The Board filed its own motion for summary decision on that date as well. The case was assigned to an administrative law judge, however, due to the judge's extensive calendar the matter was reassigned to this judge, sitting on recall, on March 15, 2017, for the purpose of resolving the cross-motions for summary decision. The parties each responded to the cross-motions and then filed replies. In addition, the parties filed a Stipulation of Facts and a Supplemental Stipulation of Facts. This Supplemental Stipulation was received on February 23, 2017, at which time the record closed for the purposes of determination of the motion.

The lengthy Stipulation of Facts, consisting of twenty-one numbered items with attached exhibits, and the Supplemental Stipulation of Facts, consisting of four additional numbered items and exhibits, are incorporated in this decision as exhibits. Additionally, each of the numbered stipulations is adopted herein as FINDINGS OF FACT as if recited in full.

According to the stipulated facts, Mr. Baldwin was employed by the Board beginning May 1, 2004 through June 30, 2004, as a Head Custodian. Thereafter, he was employed by the Board in each of the school years from 2004-2005 through 2015-2016. In each of the years he was again employed as a Head Custodian. The parties agree that Mr. Baldwin held tenure with the Board. Additionally, they agree that according to the contractual agreement between the Board and the West New York Education Association, "Individuals assigned to the position of Head Custodian received a stipend in addition to their annual salary." Exhibit J-20, which is a copy of the Agreement for the period July 1, 2012 through June 30, 2015, contains a provision that provides for a "Head Custodian stipend," which is designated at different levels for "High School" and "Elementary." The Stipulation also identifies a series of letters sent by the Board to Mr. Baldwin during various years which simply advise him that his salary for the year identified in the letter is a specific dollar figure. As an example, the letter sent to Baldwin on April 30, 2014, reads as follows: "Dear Stephen Baldwin: This is to inform you that your salary for the 2014-2015 school year is $41,132."

The parties agree that for the 2015-16 school year Baldwin's base salary was $35,042, plus $1,350, an additional amount designated in the Agreement as a "Black Seal" "stipend" because he has a boiler license. In addition, the Head Custodian "stipend" applicable for him was $4,740.

On January 14, 2016, Baldwin was advised of his reassignment from Head Custodian to Second Shift Custodian at PS#4. His salary was then reduced by the "Head Custodian stipend" in the amount of $4,740 (pro rata). Mr. Baldwin continues to be employed as a custodian by the Board for the 2016-2017 school year, with a base salary of $35,042, plus the boiler license "stipend." The applicable head custodian "stipend" for 2016-2017 is $4,740.[1] The Supplemental Stipulation of Facts provides that

1. The contractual stipend paid to Head Custodians employed by the respondent is included and paid as part of their regular salary check. There is no separate check for the Head Custodian contractual stipend.

2. Standard deductions and withholdings such as taxes and pension contributions, are based on the full amount of the salary checks paid to Head Custodians. The full amount includes base salary plus Head Custodian contractual stipend.

It is also noted that the petitioner did not receive a salary notice for the 2015-2016 school year.

In response to the petitioner's motion for summary decision, the Board initially argues that Mr. Baldwin failed to utilize the administrative remedies provided under the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Education Association. Specifically, the Board points to Article IV, subsection C, which reads as follows

[1]The Board's notice to Baldwin of January 11, 2017, states that his salary "effective June 1, 2016 to March 30, 2017 will be "Step 16—$38,863.00." This amount does not reflect a salary that includes the "so-called "Head Custodian stipend."

> No employee shall be disciplined, reprimanded, reduced in rank or compensation or deprived of any professional opportunity without just cause. Any such action asserted by the board, or agent or representative thereof, shall be subject to the grievance procedure set forth in Article 3.

As Mr. Baldwin never filed any grievance concerning the reduction in salary, he is barred from seeking relief from the Commissioner. In addition, the Board contends that the claimant is time-barred, because Article 3 of the Agreement provides that such a grievance must be filed within thirty school days from the event or condition, or from the time that the person knew or should have known about same. As no petition has ever been filed, Mr. Baldwin has waived his right to seek relief relating to the alleged claim.

In addition to these grounds, the Board contends that if the Commissioner asserts jurisdiction to decide this matter despite the failure of the petitioner to utilize the grievance procedure, the matter must be dismissed and the Board granted summary decision. This result is dictated because the Head Custodian stipend is not salary and therefore is not subject to the restriction on the reduction of salary contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3.

In responding to the Board's motion, Mr. Baldwin contends that, since tenure rights are statutory, an allegation of a violation of tenure rights falls within the statutory jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. The grievance procedure contained in the collective bargaining agreement is inapplicable to the dispute. As the Verified Petition was filed with Commissioner within the required ninety days following the Board's action, it was timely filed. Finally, Baldwin asserts that the Board paid him a single salary, one which contained the Head Custodian "stipend" and from which deductions, including pension deductions, were made. Under applicable case law, the petitioner's right to receive that full salary without reduction unless such be based upon statutorily defined grounds is protected by the tenure statute.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 provides that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over disputes regarding "Controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." It has been held in a number of cases that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over contractual disputes. Board of Education, East Brunswick Township v. Township Council in East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Decisions involving disputes concerning non-tenured employees which arise under provisions of contracts and which do not involve "statutory educational entitlement" have been held to be outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. However in the present matter, while the contractual provision cited by the Board states that an employee asserting that he has been reduced in compensation shall present a grievance, the employee here has tenure and the rights associated with that status are protected by a statute which clearly involves an "educational entitlement." Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides that "every public school janitor . . . hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended reduce compensation . . . or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense. . . ." Mr. Baldwin's position with the Board, whether characterized as "Head Custodian" or merely as "custodian," most assuredly falls within the definition of "janitor." Thus, his right not to suffer a reduction in compensation unless guilty of the statutorily described offenses is protected by statute. The Commissioner most assuredly has jurisdiction over matters arising under the Tenure Act. While the Legislature has determined to provide for arbitration as the means for resolving at least one aspect of the protections accorded by the tenure, that is, the removal of tenure, at present, matters involving the protections associated with the holding of tenure, such as the right to certain positions or the right to be protected against the reduction of salary, have not been the subject of legislative action reassigning the jurisdiction to resolve such disputes. No authority has been cited by the Board suggesting the ability of parties to a negotiated contract between the Board of Education and an Education Association to oust the Commissioner from jurisdiction over a "dispute arising under the school laws." The rights accorded by the Tenure Act, and the protections thereunder, involve matters of educational expertise which absent some other legislative directions, are within the special expertise of the Commissioner. The Tenure Act defines the specific grounds which allow for reduction of compensation for a tenured employee such as a janitor. The collective bargaining agreement uses different language to describe the grounds upon which such action may be taken. While the contractual "just cause" may well encompass the statutory terminology of "during good behavior . . . neglect, misbehavior or other offense," it is entirely conceivable that the contractual term could incorporate conduct and actions falling outside the appropriate definition of the statutory terms. Therefore, it appears that it is for the Commissioner and not an arbitrator to determine whether a tenured janitor may suffer a reduction in compensation that is otherwise protected by tenure rights. Therefore, the Board's application to dismiss the matter for failure to utilize the grievance procedure is DENIED.[2] Further, I FIND that the Petition was filed with the Commissioner in a timely manner.

Petitioner moves for summary decision based upon his tenured status as a custodian and his contention that the elimination of the money he was paid while serving as a Head Custodian is money protected from reduction due to that tenured status. All those holding the position of "janitor," regardless of how the position is styled, come within the statutory protection. In Barnes, et al. v. Bd. of Ed., City of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45-46 (App. Div. 1964), certif. den. 43 N.J. 450 (1964), the court noted

> It is appellant's contention that the statutory coverage does not extend to the entire janitorial and custodial staff but is limited to the positions specified. Thus, appellant argues that an assistant janitorial supervisor is not covered, nor utility men, nor a groundskeeper.

The court rejected this approach

> Our consideration of the statutes in the light of the principle of liberal construction satisfies us that the Legislature used the terms janitor, custodian, etc., in a generic sense with the intent to include all janitorial and custodial employees.

Thus, petitioner does not argue that he had tenure in a position of Head Custodian, but that as a custodian his tenure right protected him from having his compensation reduced without cause as defined by the statute. The Board's contention, however, is that the additional money petitioner earned while acting as a Head Custodian is not part of that compensation protected by the petitioner's tenured status as a janitor.

[2] Of course, no arbitration of this dispute has occurred, so there is no concern that resort to the Commissioner is providing the petitioner with a second chance to avoid the reduction. No issue of collateral estoppel, or any concern about conflicting decisions, affects this case.

In Reinertsen v. Bd. of Ed., Tp. of East Brunswick, www/libweb/collections/oal/final/edu06574-07.pdf, the administrative law judge discussed a similar contention that money paid to Reinertsen as a head custodian was a stipend, and not protected by his tenured status.

> the petitioner has stated that this stipend was actually part of his base salary and was subject to pension payments. (Petitioner's letter brief in opposition to Respondent's Motion, Feb. 12, 1998). If this is shown to be correct, then the additional money is properly included as part of petitioner's compensation, and in order to be reduced the Board of Education must comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 (reduction in compensation allowed only as the result of a reduction in force, or for misbehavior, neglect or other offense) and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq. (hearing with the appropriate due process). The Board did not so comply.
> The Board of Education's argument that the additional money was merely a stipend must fail. A stipend is more closely associated with compensation to employees providing additional services than those normally included within their regular employment duties. For example, a teacher who doubles as a coach of a school's sports team or as a yearbook editor/supervisor is often paid by way of stipend. In these circumstances, the money is not considered part of the teacher's salary and is not subject to pension payments. . . . the petitioner in the present case was provided additional compensation for services directly related to his primary employment as a custodian. . . . the petitioner claims that the extra compensation was subject to pension payments. Pursuant to the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:66-1 et seq., pension payments are deducted from only "salary" of all employees who are members of the fund. See N.J.S.A. 18A:66-107(a). Since it is found that the "stipend" was subject to pension payments, the money should be properly regarded as salary. Any reduction of this salary cannot be imposed by the Board of Education upon the petitioner except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense, or reduction in force, and only then after a hearing. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3.

The Commissioner affirmed the judge's decision. Here too, according to the stipulated facts, standard deductions, including pension contributions, were made based upon the "full amount of the salary check paid to Head Custodians. The full amount includes base salary plus Head Custodian contractual stipend." And the Board made no distinction in its annual letters to Baldwin announcing his compensation for the coming year between the base salary and the stipend.

The Board attempts to distinguish Reinertsen because there is no mention in that decision of any collective bargaining agreement which, as here, sets out a stipend for the Head Custodian position.[3] However, as Judge Reback noted in Reinertsen, and as here, this "stipend" is not paid for activities that are unrelated to or outside of Baldwin's "primary employment as a custodian" and pension deductions were taken from the entire compensation, not only from the "base salary." The letters noticing Baldwin as to the compensation refer only to "salary" and do not separate out from that term, the so-called "stipend." While it is unclear whether there was actually a contract in Reinertsen that established the "stipend," the existence of the agreement here does not support a different outcome from that in Reinertsen.

The Board relies on two cases. Schipman and Zeitz v. Piscataway Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1989 S.L.D. 2010 (May 25, 1989) is not helpful, for the claim there was of tenure in a janitorial supervisor position, but here petitioner does not assert that he has tenure as a "Head Custodian," but only as a custodian. He claims that the salary he received is protected from reduction without resort to the provisions of the statute due to his "custodian" tenure, not through some claim based upon his being able to maintain himself through tenure as a Head Custodian. Dignan v. Bd. of Ed., Rumson-Fair Haven Regional School Dist., 1971 S.L.D. 336, aff'd. 1974 S.L.D. 1376 (State Board of Education); aff'd. 1975 S.L.D. 1083 (App. Div.) involved a claim regarding an extra-curricular assignment as a faculty advisor. The decision determined that there was no tenure protection for such extra duty assignments. Again, here, Baldwin's work as a Head Custodian was not "extra-curricular," was not "extra duty," but was a part of his "primary employment as a custodian." Neither of these cases affects the weight to be given here to the Reinertsen decision.

Based upon the stipulated facts, I FIND that Mr. Baldwin was for many years assigned as a Head Custodian and was paid a salary that included as a part thereof, what the agreement between the Board and the Education Association referred to as a stipend for the Head Custodian position. The Board provided notice yearly to Baldwin of the "salary" to be paid to him for the next school year, without distinguishing between portions of that "salary" such as "base pay" and "stipend." The Board deducted pension contributions from this "salary," again without carving out from that from which said contributions were taken any amount designated as "stipend" or otherwise. The Board determined in January 2016, that Baldwin would be reassigned to a position as Second Shift Custodian PS#4. When he was reassigned, his "salary" was reduced by an amount equal to the "Head Custodian Stipend," pro-rated from $4,740. The Board did so without resorting to the grounds or the process provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 for reduction in compensation of a tenured "janitor." ("neglect, misbehavior or other offense").

I CONCLUDE that the Board's action cannot stand. The contractual designation of a "stipend" does not override the actual treatment by the Board of the amount of money so designated in the contract. Clearly, the case law, Reinertsen, supra, existing at the time that Baldwin was employed by the Board as a Head Custodian, May 1, 2004, and thereafter, taught that a stipend was something other than what Baldwin was given and was intended for services unlike those he provided, services that were neither "extra-curricular" nor "extra duty," but were instead part and parcel of his "primary" custodial duties.

Conclusion and Order

I CONCLUDE that the petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and the respondent's cross-motion for summary decision is DENIED. IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Board shall restore to Mr. Baldwin such salary as he has not received since his reassignment, the difference between the custodian salary and the Head Custodian salary, including the so-called "stipend." However, I agree with the Board that Baldwin is not entitled to receive the difference between the salary designated for a custodian and that for a Head Custodian indefinitely. He shall receive that difference until such time as the salary designated for custodians surpasses the current level designated for Head Custodians, including the so-called "stipend." See Potocki v. Bd. of Ed. of the Princeton Reg' Sch. Dist., http//www/libweb/collections/oal/final/edu06574-07.pdf.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In October 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her daughter, M.S., is not entitled to a free public education in Neptune schools for the 2016-2017 school year. Petitioner contended that she resides in Neptune, but was staying temporarily at one of her rental properties in Asbury Park when the school district conducted a residency investigation. The Board argued that A.P. does not meet the residency requirements to be considered legally domiciled in Neptune Township, and that M.S. should be enrolled in Asbury Park schools. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to the petition.

The ALJ found that: petitioner failed to appear for a scheduled pre-hearing telephone conference on February 21, 2017, despite receiving appropriate notice of same; the matter subsequently proceeded, ex-parte, on the merits through certifications; petitioner failed to demonstrate that she is a resident of Neptune; M.S. still attends Neptune schools; petitioner has not requested a hearing before the Board; as of April 11, 2017, petitioner had attended school for 119 days during the current academic year; and the Board's certification indicates that the reimbursable tuition rate is $70 per day. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is not legally domiciled in Neptune, and M.S. is ineligible to receive a free public education in Neptune schools. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the respondent's motion to dismiss and ordered the petitioner to reimburse the Board in the total amount of $8,330 for tuition owed through April 11, 2017, and $70 per school day attended thereafter.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, and directed the Board to provide petitioner with a board hearing. In so deciding, the Commissioner found that the Board failed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3 when it issued a final notice of ineligibility, removing M.S. from the District without a hearing, rather than the required preliminary notice of ineligibility that must "provide for a hearing before the district board of education prior to a final decision on removal." The Commissioner accordingly dismissed the petition as premature.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1]

Petitioner is challenging the Board's determination that she is not a resident of Neptune, and therefore her daughter is ineligible to attend Neptune Township schools. Petitioner received a final notice of ineligibility from the Board on October 7, 2016, disenrolling M.S. from the District and advising petitioner that she had 21 days to appeal the determination with the Commissioner in order for her daughter to remain enrolled during the pendency of the appeal. Petitioner timely filed the instant residency petition.[2]

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3 explains the procedure for removing a currently enrolled student from a district. Specifically, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-4.3(b)(1) requires the chief school administrator to issue a preliminary notice of ineligibility that must "provide for a hearing before the district board of education prior to a final decision on removal."

[1] Petitioner's exceptions were filed out of time, and there is no indication that petitioner served the Board or copied the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), as required by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18. Accordingly, petitioner's exceptions were not considered by the Commissioner.

[2] The Commissioner notes that although the ALJ made a determination of tuition owed by the petitioner – which was based on a supplemental certification submitted by the respondent Board during ex-parte proceedings – the Board has never filed a counterclaim for tuition.

In this matter, the Board did not send a preliminary notice of ineligibility providing petitioner with the right to a board hearing. Instead, the Board provided only a final notice of ineligibility, removing M.S. from the District without a hearing.[3] As the Board failed to provide petitioner with the right to a board hearing, petitioner is still entitled to an opportunity to present evidence to the Board regarding her domicile and her daughter's eligibility to attend school in the District.[4]

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is rejected. The Board is directed to provide petitioner with a board hearing, and the petition is hereby dismissed as premature.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

[3] The final notice of ineligibility is dated October 7, 2017, the same date that the Superintendent certified that the Board first became aware that petitioner and M.S. were not residing within the District. As such, it is apparent that the final notice of ineligibility is the first communication that the Board sent to petitioner regarding this matter.

[4] The Commissioner reminds petitioner that at the board hearing, it is her burden to prove that she is a domiciliary of Neptune.

[5] This decision may be appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

Record Closed: April 18, 2017 Decided: April 19, 2017

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

On January 13, 2017, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On January 31, 2017, the OAL mailed notice of the pre-hearing telephone conference in this matter for February 21, 2017. The OAL dispatched the notice to petitioner's address in Neptune, the address petitioner maintains is her residence for purposes of this residency appeal. The petitioner failed to contact the OAL to provide a telephone number to contact her on the day of the prehearing telephone conference, and did not call or appear on said date. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) noted the failure to appear on February 21, 2017. The petitioner did not request any adjournment. The OAL obtained petitioner's telephone number from the respondent and contacted her on February 21, 2017, leaving a voice mail to contact this office. Petitioner made no contact as of February 23, 2017. On February 23, 2017, the ALJ wrote to petitioner at the Neptune, as well as at an Asbury Park address, paperwork of the investigation revealed as a potential residence. The correspondence advised of the failure of petitioner to contact the OAL with a means to communicate with her; and the fact that petitioner filed no response to respondent's motion to dismiss in lieu of answer. The ALJ advised petitioner in the correspondence that if petitioner provided no response by March 3, 2017, respondent's motion would be granted. The ALJ also requested, despite the fact, that the motion called for dismissal on the failure to exhaust administrative remedies, for the respondent to provide a certification as to the amount the respondent sought in recoverable education costs. The petitioner did contact the OAL on March 10, 2017, advising she did not receive the February 23, 2017, letter at either address. Petitioner then advised she did not oppose the motion. The ALJ noted the failure to appear. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1.1-14.4(d), the matter proceed on the merits ex-parte. Additional certifications regarding the number of days and cost per day for student educational reimbursement. The hearing closed on April 18, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I have reviewed the April 11, 2017, certification of Dr. Tami Crader, Superintendent of Schools and I FIND:

1. Petitioner failed to appear for the telephone pre-hearing conference and has represented to the OAL that she does not oppose the position of the respondent. Petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she is a resident of Neptune.

2. Petitioner's child still attends Neptune Township School district as she has not requested a hearing before the board, and accordingly, the board has taken no action. As of April 11, 2017, petitioner has attended 119 days this school year.

3. Respondent's reimbursable tuition is $70 per day, as of April 11, 2017, the total reimbursable tuition is $8,330, accruing at the rate of $70 per school date thereafter.

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, it is on this 19th day of April 2017, ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss the petition in lieu of answer is GRANTED, on default for failure to respond to the motion.

On April 18, 2017 respondent submitted a supplemental certification of the tuition reimbursement amount. It is on this 19th day of April 2017, ORDERED the respondent is entitled to be reimbursed from petitioner the amount of $8,330.00 for tuition at the rate of $ 70.00 per diem for a current total of 119 days as of April 11, 2017; and continuing at the rate of $70.00 per day until petitioner removes her child from the school. This Initial Decision resolves all issues in this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners appealed the determination of the respondent Board that their son, M.K., was ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioners contended that they reside at an address within the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional school district. However, petitioners also asserted that M.K. – the mother of the minor child – frequently stays overnight at the home of her mother, the grandmother of the minor child, in South Bound Brook because the grandmother has chronic health conditions and requires assistance. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner M.K. and her son actually reside in South Bound Brook, which is outside of the respondent's school district. The Board filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the period of M.K.'s ineligible attendance in the district.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony of the respondent Board's residency investigator was credible and persuasive, while the testimony of the petitioners and their witnesses was inconsistent and lacked credibility; the Board completed a residency investigation in this matter during the 2015-2016 school year, the results of which indicated that although the petitioners claim to reside in Bridgewater, M.K. – the mother of minor child, M.K. – resides in South Bound Brook in order to care for her ailing mother; M.K. – the father of minor child, M.K. – had substance abuse issues, and was not able to care for his child during the period in question; and the minor child therefore was domiciled in South Bound Brook, with his mother, during the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that M.K. was not entitled to a free public education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, and that the Board is therefore entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by the petitioner in the amount of $38,329.20 for the period of M.K.'s ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons expressed therein. The petitioner was ordered to pay tuition in the amount of $38,329.20 for M.K.'s ineligible enrollment in the District for the 2015-2016 school year.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners M.K. and M.K., are the mother and father of the minor child, M.K., who are challenging the determination made by the Board of Education (Board) of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District (District) that he did not reside in the District. The District filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days that the minor child, M.K., attended school in the District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 16, 2015, the District notified the petitioners that their son, M.K., was ineligible to attend the schools of the District due to non-residency. A hearing was held on November 2, 2015, and the committee recommended that the minor child, M.K., be removed from enrollment in the District. Petitioners appealed the decision. On December 23, 2015, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Throughout 2016, the parties made several attempts to exchange discovery. The difficulties in exchanging discovery required multiple conference calls with the court in an effort to resolve the conflicts. A hearing was held on January 4, 2017, but the record remained open for the parties to submit written closing summations. The record closed on March 8, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

M.K. and M.K. are the parents of minor child, M.K. M.K. and M.K. married in 2005 and resided in his parents' basement in Bridgewater, Somerset County. D.K. is the maternal grandmother of the minor child, M.K., and resides in South Bound Brook, which is outside the District. For the 2015-2016 school year, M.K. was enrolled in second grade in the District. The Board completed a residency investigation and conducted a residency hearing on November 2, 2015. Respondent filed its notice of final determination of ineligibility on November 16, 2015, determining that M.K. does not reside in the District. As a consequence, the parents of minor child ,M.K., appealed the determination. The tuition rate of reimbursement as filed with the State for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

The preceding statements are not in dispute as they are from the records and testimony of the parties and are hereby FOUND as FACT.

TESTIMONY

For petitioner

M.K. is the mother of the minor child, M.K., who is an eight-year-old second grader at Milltown Primary School. She testified that she and her husband have lived on P. Street in Bridgewater, New Jersey since they started dating in 1995. The home is owned by her In-laws. In 2005, they were married and M.K. was born in 2008. They live in the basement which consists of one room, with a kitchen and bathroom. The basement was built and refinished in 2005.

The residence at South Bound Brook is owned by her mother. She testified that she stays at the South Bound Brook address to care for her mother because she has pulmonary edema. She alleges that in the middle of the night, at 3:00 a.m. or 4:00 a.m., the minor child, M.K., wakes up screaming, wanting his mother. She claims that it is a result of separation anxiety. As a result, M.K. is required to go to the Bridgewater address, pick him up and drive to the South Bound Brook address where they would leave to go to school. This happens four to five times a week. The child begins each night with dad and the in-laws in Bridgewater, and then after transport, spends only approximately two hours in South Bound Brook.

On cross-examination, she acknowledged that the answer to interrogatory number twenty-seven, indicates that the separation anxiety happens ten times in two months, not the four-five times per week as she testified. Also, a handwritten correspondence from her, dated October 5, 2015, never mentions the child being transported back-and-forth between residences. (R-5). Additionally, there is a storage rental agreement, dated March 23, 2016, that has mother's address in South Bound Brook not Bridgewater. Finally, her Jeep SUV and a Black Mazda SUV are registered at the South Bound Brook address.

M.K. is the father of the minor child, M.K., and the husband of M.K. He testified that he has lived on P. Street in Bridgewater for forty-three years (his entire life.) He lives in the basement with his wife and child. His uncle finished the entire basement in 2005, so that the family would have a place to live.

He noted that he did not live in the house from June 17, 2015, through December 8, 2015, because of addiction and that he was involved in a court-ordered rehab. Before June 17, 2015, he had addiction "issues" and would not necessarily be home. However, he or his wife brought minor child, M.K., to school. On some occasions, his son would "freak out" at approximately 3:00 a.m. through 6:00 a.m. and his wife would be required to pick him up and transport him to the South Bound Brook address.

On cross-examination he was ordered by Drug Court to attend Integrity House, which is an aftercare drug treatment facility. He explained that he was not home before June 17, 2015, because of the drug addiction. He "was not there mentally or physically."

D.K. is the grandmother of the minor child, M.K. She has lived at the same address in Bridgewater for forty-five years with her husband. She explained that her son and daughter-in-law have lived in the basement since 1996. Sometimes the minor child, M.K., would leave to go to the South Bound Brook address in the middle of the night because he has anxiety for his mother. He would wake-up screaming "I need mommy."

On cross-examination, she testified that the minor child was never at the South Bound Brook residence and the anxiety incidents would occur fourteen to fifteen times a month.

J.K., Jr. is the grandfather of the minor child, M.K., and the husband of D.K. They reside in Bridgewater with their son, daughter-in-law and grandson. He explained that the minor child, M.K., is picked up from school in the afternoon by him, five days a week. Then he does homework and eats dinner and goes to bed in Bridgewater. "His mother would come to get him if there was a problem," but M.K. never goes to school from the South Bound Brook address.

For respondent

Walter Kalicki (Kalicki) has been with the District for eighteen years as the Attendance Officer. In September 2015, he received an anonymous email regarding the minor child, M.K., and his mother living in South Bound Brook. (R-1). As a result, he started a residency investigation on them for the South Bound Brook address. (R-2).

The investigation consisted of sixty occasions of surveillance. On thirty-five occasions, the mother and minor child were observed at the South Bound Brook address. On each of those occasions, the child was taken directly to the school in Bridgewater. Twelve occasions were during the summer (no school), seven occasions the child was absent from school and on three occasions he was late to school. On two occasions he was able to view a dismissal. On May 9, 2016 and May 10, 2016, the minor child, M.K., was picked-up by his mother and was observed being dropped off at South Bound Brook address. Two family vehicles, a Jeep SUV and a Black Mazda SUV are registered at the South Bound Brook address, not Bridgewater. It is his opinion that the student, M.K., was not domiciled in Bridgewater but at the residence in South Bound Brook.

He recalled an incident when he spoke to the mother of the minor child, M.K., on the phone and she said that she lived in Bridgewater with the family but then received the letter (R-5) which was contrary to her story. He also recalled another incident with the mother of the minor child, M.K., where he was seen during surveillance. He stated that the mother speedily changed lanes and got behind his vehicle and tailgated him for a distance then honked and waved at him. She then proceeded to the Milltown School and dropped him off. It was obvious to him that she recognized him.

Finally, he indicated that the minor child, M.K., attended the entire school year (180 days) and the tuition rate for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

On cross-examination, he conceded that residency is the domicile where the child puts his head down at night. In this case, he does not know where the child puts his head down at night. It is possible that the child slept at Bridgewater because his surveillance started at 7:00 a.m., so he does not know what happened before 7:00 a.m. Also, it was explained that vehicles are registered to M.K.'s mother and leased, so insurance required that the vehicles be registered at the South Bound Brook address.

FINDINGS OF FACT

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J.Super. 1 (App. Div.1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone

Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After hearing the testimony and reviewing the evidence, I make the following findings of fact:

For the 2015-2016 school year, the minor child, M.K., was enrolled in second grade in the District. After receiving an anonymous complaint, the Board completed a residency investigation and conducted a residency hearing on November 2, 2015. The results of which were that the parents of the minor child, M.K., claimed to reside in Bridgewater, Somerset County. M.K., the mother of the minor child, M.K., resides in South Bound Brook which is outside the District. She resides at that location so that she may take care of her ailing mother. The father of the minor child had substance abuse issues and "was not there mentally or physically." As a result, the minor child, M.K., resided with his mother in the South Bound Brook residence because he had separation anxiety and the residence in South Bound Brook provided a more stable environment for the child. The tuition rate of reimbursement as filed with the State for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day.

The testimony of respondent's witness was especially credible and persuasive. He did not embellish his investigative findings and in fact, conceded the point that it was possible that the child slept at Bridgewater because his surveillance started at 7:00 a.m., so he does not know what happened before 7:00 a.m.

Conversely, the petitioners' witnesses' testimony was not credible in the manner in which it was given. Their own testimony assisted the respondent in proving the facts of the case by a preponderance of the evidence. The witnesses failed to give a concise number of days in which the minor child would experience episodes of "separation anxiety". In fact they all testified to a different frequency and the inconsistency made the testimony by each, suspect.

A logical assembly of piecemeal facts, as testified to by the petitioners, was that due to the father, M.K.'s substance abuse, the mother would keep the minor child with her at the South Bound Brook residence. The undersigned believes that the petitioners brought together the respondent's case quite well in establishing the real facts.

It was obvious that the petitioners attempted to "sell" their version of the facts to the undersigned. On several occasions, the individuals that had already testified were cautioned by the court to not "coach" a witness that was testifying on the witness stand. This detracted from any modicum of credibility.

Therefore, I FIND that the minor child, M.K., was domiciled outside the District in South Bound Brook. Accordingly, I FIND that M.K. became ineligible to attend school in the District for the 2015-2016 school year. I FURTHER FIND, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that respondent filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the days M.K. attended the District ineligible for the 2015-2016 school year. As such, the District must establish the cost of tuition and the number of days M.K. attended the District's schools when he was ineligible to do so. Testimony was uncontroverted and therefore, I FIND that the per-pupil cost for a student to attend school in the district for the 2015-2016 school year was $212.94 per day equaling $38,329.20 per annum.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

At issue is whether minor child, M.K., was entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 518 (1999).

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

The record reflects that the minor child, M.K., attended school within the district for the 2015-2016 school year while domiciled outside of the District. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the minor child, M.K., was not entitled to a free public education in the district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition "for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per-pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced." The uncontested record reflects that the actual cost of M.K.'s attendance in-district was $212.94 per day equaling $38,329.20 per annum. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by the petitioner in the amount of $38,329.20. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioners, pay respondent, Board of Education of the Bridgewater-Raritan Regional School District, Somerset County, tuition in the total amount of $38,329.20 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that the District's determination that the minor child, M.K., was ineligible to attend school while domiciled outside the District is hereby AFFIRMED. Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF PATRICIA FABRIZIO,	:
UNION COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission), finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately filed disclosure statements after the issuance of its February 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's March 28, 2017 meeting, and it therefore recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty, nor instituted an appeal – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4 – of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, the respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on February 28, 2017, and mailed on March 1, 2017 through regular and certified mail, return receipt requested, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the Order. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a school official who was elected or appointed after April 30, 2016 and, therefore, required to file Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of election or appointment. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated January 10, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by January 25, 2017 would result in the

IN THE MATTER OF TINA REEVES,	:
PAUL ROBESON CHARTER SCHOOL FOR	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
THE HUMANITIES, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and -26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that the respondent failed to file her disclosure statements despite the issuance of its February 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby suspended for 30 days as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act, effective from the date of this decision. If respondent fails to file her disclosure statements during the 30-day suspension period, she will be removed from office on the 31st day.

IN THE MATTER OF TINA REEVES	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
PAUL ROBESON CHARTER SCHOOL FOR THE HUMANITIES*, MERCER COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO FILE PERSONAL/RELATIVE AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS
	:	DOCKET NO.: D04-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on February 28, 2017, and mailed on March 1, 2017 through regular and certified mail, return receipt requested, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the Order. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a school official who was elected or appointed after April 30, 2016 and, therefore, required to file Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of election or appointment. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated January 10, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by January 25, 2017 would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by January 25, 2017, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on February 28, 2017. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent still failed to file her completed Disclosure Statements.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on March 28, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to file her Disclosure Statements within the period of her thirty (30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In December 2016, petitioner S.R. filed a pro-se residency appeal contesting the respondent Board's determination that Z.K. was not entitled to a free public education in South Orange-Maplewood Schools. A hearing date was scheduled for April 25, 2017.

The ALJ reported that prior to the hearing, respondent's attorney advised that Z. K. was withdrawn from the school district on April 6, 2017, and the Board was withdrawing its counterclaim for back tuition. After confirming with petitioner that Z.K. was no longer in the district, the ALJ concluded that this matter was no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioner has withdrawn Z.K. from the District and the Board has withdrawn its counterclaim for back tuition.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

OAL Dkt. No. EDU 2179-17N
Agency Ref. No. 6-1/17

Dear Judge Candido:

This firm represents the Board of Education of the School District of South Orange and Maplewood in the above-referenced matter. The case is currently scheduled for hearing before Your Honor on April 25, 2017. By way of brief background, S.R., the parent of adult student Z.K., attempted to enroll the student in the District as an affidavit pupil. The enrollment request was denied by the District due to the student's failure to meet the standard for enrollment as an affidavit pupil. This appeal followed.

On April 6, 2017, the student withdrew from the District. He is not currently enrolled in the District nor is he attending the District's schools during the pendency of this appeal. Therefore, it is respectfully requested that Petitioner officially withdraw her Petition of Appeal, and/or Your Honor mark this matter as "withdrawn" or "dismissed," as appropriate, since Petitioner's challenge to the Board's determination is now moot. There is also no need to hold a hearing in this case.

Additionally, in light of the student's withdrawal from the District and, provided that the matter is withdrawn or dismissed, the Board will withdraw its concurrent counterclaim for any back tuition. Note that should the student return to the District or reenroll using a District address, the District reserves its right to investigate Petitioner's residency status in the future, if necessary.

CORY PISKIN,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In May 2016, petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent – the State Board of Examiners (SBE) – that he had not met the requirements for issuance of a Teacher of Elementary School Certificate of Eligibility (CE). Specifically, petitioner did not achieve a cumulative grade point average of 2.75 in his baccalaureate program, which is required to receive the CE. The SBE filed a motion to dismiss with the Commissioner of Education, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case in June 2016.

The ALJ reported that petitioner failed to respond to a previously scheduled telephone conference in this matter on March 16, 2017. Subsequently, notice was mailed to petitioner, advising that he had missed the telephone conference, and instructing that he had until April 7, 2017 to provide a written explanation of his failure to appear; otherwise, petitioner's appeal would be dismissed. As of the date of the ALJ's Initial Decision, no response had been received. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petitioner no longer wishes to proceed and ordered the petition dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that this matter is appropriately dismissed for failure to attend the scheduled telephone conference without explanation. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

- Inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district

- School staff's conduct in completing their professional responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times. School staff shall not make inappropriate comments to pupils or about pupils and shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils

Acceptable Use of District Technology / Board Policy 3360

V. Unacceptable Use

Unacceptable use shall include, but not be limited to, the following.

...

5. Use of the school district system to transmit, receive, access, review, upload, download, store, print, post, or distribute pornographic, prurient, obscene, abusive, profane, lewd, vulgar, rude, inflammatory, threatening, disrespectful, or sexually explicit language, images or other material that is lacking educational merit, socially redeeming value or that is disruptive to the educational process.

VI. State and Federal Compliance

State and federal laws may impact or limit the use of technologies. Users of those technologies must be aware of and comply with requirements of the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) and the Children Internet Protection Act (CIPA). Except in instances as specifically provided by law, any student records which are made, maintained, or transmitted technologically must be kept confidential.

CHARGES

The tenure charges brought against Dr. Richard Allen on June 14, 2016 alleging that he engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee are voluminous and include both factual allegations and argument. This statement of the charges includes the charges, but not the extensive supporting factual allegations and argument.

COUNT ONE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's retaliatory conduct, as demonstrated in his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he threatened to lower K.P.'s grade due to her mother questioning his lesson planning, violates Standard Eleven[2] by creating an emotionally harassing environment for K.P. Threatening retaliation against students is at odds with his professional obligation to foster a safe and healthy learning environment. As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position to protect the students at HCRHS, and ensure they are free from retaliation.

COUNT TWO-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disrespect for Supervisor)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

When Dr. Allen told Ms. Batista, his direct supervisor, "F you" in his May 6, 2016, email, he violated Standard Eleven by displaying open hostility and disrespect for a supervisor, in the virtual presence of other colleagues, and a parent, D.P. In doing so, he evidenced his refusal to work cooperatively and productively with his colleagues, and conducted himself in a professionally irresponsible manner by copying D.P. on his email tirade.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position, so that the Board can maintain a community of respect and integrity amongst the students, parents and staff at HCRHS.

COUNT THREE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential information regarding K.P. and C.N. to his wife, in his May 6, 2016, email violates Standard Eleven. Dr. Allen failed to maintain student confidentiality, ultimately exposing C.N. to harassment by her peers.

In fact, Dr. Allen purposely and knowingly shared confidential student information to his wife on multiple occasions, knowing full well that the law requires him to keep this information confidential. His behavior in this regard served no purpose other than to spread gossip for his own gratification. Dr. Allen's behavior makes it unreasonable for the Board to continue trusting him with confidential student information.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position, so that the Board can ensure the confidentiality of student information at HCRHS.

COUNT FOUR-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disrespect for Students)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen not only disclosed student information in his multiple email communications to his wife, he often spoke in a derisive and pejorative manner about his students, in violation of Standard Eleven. Dr. Allen referred to a student as "annoying" and deserving of a bad grade. He questioned C.L.'s parenting ability and C.N.'s character merely because C.L. questioned her child's progress in his class. Even more troubling is his email to M.W., apparently expressing concern for her son, which he then forwarded to his wife saying "haha" and later seemed to laugh about that student's bad grade.

Dr. Allen's unprofessional behavior in this regard makes it impossible to ask parents to trust Dr. Allen's judgment, and leave their own children's educational well-being in his hands. His behavior deteriorates the safe, healthy, and emotionally protective learning environment that he is obligated to foster, and which HCRHS strives to maintain.

COUNT FIVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Failure to Teach)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his failure to complete lesson plans for AP Chemistry, subsequent to the AP exam, violates Standard Eleven, which tasks him with understanding his professional responsibilities "as reflected in constitutional provisions, statutes, regulations, policies, and collective negotiations agreements." Dr. Allen is the only AP teacher who is refusing to teach after the AP exam, in violation of the terms of the collective bargaining agreement between that governs the terms of his employment.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position, so that the Board can ensure its students receive the full amount of instructional time to which they are entitled.

COUNT SIX-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen's conduct violates the National Education Association's ("NEA") Code of Ethics, which sets forth the high ethical standards to which teachers are held.

Dr. Allen's conduct in habitually disclosing student information to his wife via his HCRHS email account, for no compelling professional purpose, rather only in pursuit of his own gratification, violates the NEA's Code of Ethics, as set forth above.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position, so that the Board can ensure the confidentiality of student information at HCRHS.

COUNT SEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disparaging Students)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen's conduct in mocking struggling students to his wife via his HCRHS email account, violates the NEA's Code of Ethics, as set forth above, in that he has intentionally exposed his own students to embarrassment and disparagement.

COUNT EIGHT-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violating Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he disclosed confidential student information regarding K.P. and C.N. to his wife, violates the NEA Code of Ethics. By failing to maintain C.N.'s confidentiality, Dr. Allen exposed C.N. to harassment by her peers, who came to believe that C.N. and C.L. were trying to get him fired. In doing so, Dr. Allen failed to protect C.N. from conditions that are harmful to learning, health and safety, and further exposed her to embarrassment and disparagement.

Dr. Allen's disclosure, or his failure to prevent additional disclosure, was done in a completely self-serving context, namely to garner support in opposition to disciplinary action against him. His actions make it unreasonable for the Board to return him to a position of trust with respect to confidential student information. By prioritizing his personal campaign over the rights of his students, Dr. Allen has made it impossible for the Board to expect parents to trust his judgment, and objectivity, and to leave their own children's educational well-being in his hands.

COUNT NINE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he threatened to lower K.P.'s grade in retaliation for her mother questioning his lesson planning, violates the NEA Code of Ethics. Dr. Allen has exposed K.P. to conditions that are harmful to learning, health and safety, and has caused her mother to fear retaliation for simply inquiring about Dr. Allen's lesson plans after the AP exam, an inquiry which turned out to be well-justified.

Dr. Allen's behavior makes it untenable to expect prospective parents to trust Dr. Allen's judgment, and objectivity, and to leave their own children's educational well-being in his hands.

COUNT TEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3281 - Inappropriate Staff Conduct)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated by his May 6, 2016, email, wherein he told Ms. Batista, his direct supervisor, "F you" violates Board Policy 3281-Inappropriate Staff Conduct, which provides "The Board strongly believes that school staff members have the public's trust and confidence to protect the well-being of all pupils attending the school district" and further provides:

- Inappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated in this school district
- School staff's conduct in completing their professional responsibilities shall be appropriate at all times. School staff shall not make inappropriate comments to pupils or about pupils and shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils

Dr. Allen's palpable disrespect for his supervisor, and his use of profanity multiple times, in the virtual presence of other colleagues, and a parent, D.P., and in response to a mundane parent inquiry demonstrate clearly inappropriate conduct, which should not be tolerated.

Dr. Allen's conduct was knowing and deliberate, as evidenced by his email to Sean Chappe, saying "See you in court" with a smile. Dr. Allen's email demonstrates that his tirade was not the result of a momentary loss of temper or professionalism, but rather a calculated and knowing exposure of his disdain for his colleagues. His behavior undermines the public's trust and confidence, and erodes the professional environment at HCRHS.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position, so that the Board can maintain a community of respect and integrity at HCRHS.

COUNT ELEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3150-Discipline)

Dr. Allen's conduct, as demonstrated in the foregoing paragraphs, violates Board Policy 3150- Discipline.

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential student information violates the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA"), New Jersey Statutes, New Jersey Administrative Code, as well as Board Policy. Dr. Allen's violation of the aforementioned laws has caused exposure and embarrassment to a student, and compromises the public's trust in the Board.

As such, Dr. Allen is guilty of unbecoming conduct, and should be removed from his tenured position.

COUNT TWELVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3360-Acceptable Use of District Technology)

Dr. Allen's disclosure of confidential student information via his HCRHS email, as well as his profane and disrespectful tirade toward his supervisor, violates Board Policy 3360- Acceptable Use of District Technology.

Dr. Allen's conduct violates both State and Federal confidentiality laws, as set forth herein. Further, Dr. Allen used his HCRHS email account to transmit vulgar, rude, inflammatory, threatening, and disrespectful content to Ms. Batista, and D.P., in his May 6th email tirade.

Dr. Allen's conduct in violating Board Policy 3360-Acceptable Use of Technology renders him guilty of unbecoming conduct, and requires his removal from his tenured position.

COUNT THIRTEEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities)

Dr. Allen's refusal to teach AP chemistry after the AP exam, combined with his failure to have emergency lesson plans on file, failure to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refusal to use common assessments violate Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities.

Dr. Allen's conduct in failing to teach or have lesson plans subsequent to the AP Chemistry exam is an abdication of his professional responsibilities. Further, his emergency lesson plans were determined to be non-existent, and contained the name of his 2014-2015 students. Finally, by failing to provide lesson plans and tests to his ICS teacher, Dr. Allen has failed in his professional responsibility to 504 and IEP students, and compromised the Board's ability to fulfill its legal obligations to these students.

Accordingly, Dr. Allen's conduct in violation of Board Policy 3270 constitutes conduct unbecoming, requiring his removal from his tenured position.

BACKGROUND

Dr. Richard (Dan) Allen is a tenured member of the Science Department at Hunterdon Central Regional High School (HCRHS), teaching Advanced Placement Chemistry ("AP Chemistry") and CP (College Prep) Chemistry during the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen began teaching for the school district at the beginning of the 2004-2005 school year. Dr. Allen gained tenure in his position as of October 5, 2007.

Dr. Allen has received a variety of training, including annual training via computer on the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA") for the past four (4) years. Dr. Allen has received satisfactory or better evaluations throughout his career at HCRHS. Dr. Allen received a written reprimand in 2012 after he suggested to parents at a Back to School Night that Superintendent Christina Steffner's motivation for increasing the number of students taking the AP exam was tied to her compensation.

During the 2014-2015 school year, HCRHS changed from a "semester block schedule" to an "A/B block schedule." This resulted in a significant change for AP teachers because they previously taught their courses over either a half year or three quarter year period. Before the 2014-2015 school year, the District's semester block schedule resulted in completion of the AP Chemistry class and curriculum a few weeks before the national AP exam that is given during the first week in May each year. Beginning in the 2014-2015 school year, the District adopted and implemented an A/B block scheduling model that resulted in students continuing in the same class through the entire school year. Under the new schedule, AP courses were taught over the course of the entire school year, including the portion of the school year after the national AP exam. As a result, teachers who taught AP classes were required to develop a curriculum for the classes after the AP exam in early May until the end of the school year. AP teachers were provided with support and training to prepare them for this change. Science Supervisor Karen Batista testified that in preparation for the schedule change, AP science teachers were given first priority at summer curriculum writing money, given access to a teacher forum through the College Board website, and offered the opportunity to observe AP teachers in other districts using the A/B block schedule. Preparing AP teachers for the schedule changes was discussed at faculty meetings in Professional Learning Communities ("PLCs"), as well as at department meetings.

For the 2014-2015 school year, Dr. Allen developed a series of research projects and associated assignments and presentations, but found that most students did not work up to their potential and did not produce good work. So, for the 2015-2016 school year, Dr. Allen planned to show a series of video lectures on chemistry topics that related to those topics covered by the AP Chemistry curriculum. Initially, Dr. Allen had not planned to require graded assignments associated with the lectures, but after showing the first lecture had determined that he needed to do so in order to make sure the class paid attention. As of May 6, 2016, Dr. Allen had not advised the class that there would be graded assignments based upon the video lecture series.

The charges arise primarily out of the events that occurred on and around May 6, 2016 and shortly thereafter.

During the 2015-2016 school year, Students K.P. and C.N. were students in one of Dr. Allen's two AP Chemistry classes. Neither student excelled and both of their parents were in touch with Dr. Allen and Ms. Batista during the school year. C.L., a parent, met with Dr. Allen and her daughter, C.N. in January of 2016 to determine why C.N. did well on homework and labs, but not on tests. According to C.L., she did not find the results of the meeting to be satisfactory. In February, after C.N. continued to struggle in Dr. Allen's class, C.L. met with Ms. Batista and C.N.'s counselor, Casey Roupon.

Similarly, D.P. was in touch with Dr. Allen and Ms. Batista because her daughter, K.P., also struggled in Dr. Allen's AP Chemistry class. D.P. complained that Dr. Allen consistently told K.P. to do homework and attend tutorials but did not offer specific help. During the school year, K.P. consulted with counselors, but did not approach Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen speculated that K.P. went "behind [his] ... back" to counselors because she was looking to drop the course.

In 2016, the national AP Chemistry exam was given on Monday, May 2, 2016. Several students missed class during the remainder of the week as they sat for AP exams in other subjects. For the remainder of classes that week, Dr. Allen showed videos of chemistry lectures and did not give students an assignment regarding those lectures. According to Dr. Allen, K.P. and C.N. were not attentive during those videos and their behavior bordered on disruptive. Apparently, K.P. told her mother, D.P., that Dr. Allen told the class that he did not plan to teach for the rest of the school year since the AP Chemistry exam had now been administered. After K.P. described the classes to her mother, on Friday, May 6, 2016, D.P. sent the following email to Ms. Batista and school counselors, asking about Dr. Allen's lesson plans for the remainder of the school year:

> Good morning all on this very wet, yet again, dreary day! Hope this finds you all well. Question pertaining to K.P.'s Chem class. The students were informed this week by Dr. Allen that he has decided this year "due to lack of interest and effort" on the students part, > that he will no longer be basically teaching them for the rest of the school year. That for the next six weeks, they will be watching videos and having study halls where they can complete their other work. This past Tuesday was free time and yesterday they watched a video. I am fully aware that at the AP level, their finals are over and so is the AP Exam but there is nothing else these kids can be doing? Mini-labs, anything? That does not sound right to me giving the amount of time left. This to me sounds like a perfect opportunity to give assignments to help boost their grades. I understand that these types of lessons don't have to be everyday but to just sit there in a block length course with nothing to do is ridiculous. Other AP classes are slowing down but still giving some type of assignment. I am not trying to ruffle anymore feathers at this point but I do find this academically sad and a waste of school time.

> Thanks for listening to me and hoping that maybe something can be resolved from this.

Upon receiving D.P.'s email during the afternoon of May 6, Ms. Batista responded to her and assured her that Dr. Allen was most likely trying to make a point and that she would speak to him. Ms. Batista forwarded D.P.'s email to Dr. Allen, seeking his response. Ms. Batista's email to Dr. Allen read as follows:

> Dan,
>
> Do you have a response to this? I'm assuming that you are trying to make a point. If not, understand that you are under contract (even if the new one hasn't been negotiated yet) until June 30th.
>
> Karen

Ms. Batista expected that she and Dr. Allen would have a discussion about D.P.'s email and she would learn what caused K.P.'s impression. Dr. Allen was angered by Ms. Batista's email and initially sent three brief emails to her during that evening.

> At 6:37 p.m., Dr. Allen sent an email providing:
>
> Wow. What the f is that? Maybe ask about it me first before you accuse me of violating my f*ing contract?
>
> A moment later, at 6:38 p.m., he wrote:
>
> I'm too angry to reply now. Later

Then, at 6:51 p.m., he followed up, again expressing his anger, and listing the Chemistry lectures he was showing in class:

> I am so angry right now. Here is the title of the Eric Smith video I showed on Thurs (Paste it into youtube) & the Robert Hazen one I am showing on Mon. Please watch them (1hr each) before I talk to you again, so you have some background. Just f*ing unbelievable.
>
> McCloskey Speaker Series – New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith
>
> ROBERT HAZEN - CHANCE, NECESSITY, AND THE ORIGINS OF LIFE

Dr. Allen testified that he was "upset" and very "angry" when he sent these three emails. Dr. Allen mentioned D.P.'s email to his wife and daughter and then took a walk and did some gardening. Dr. Allen, believing that he had calmed down, then composed, and sent, the following response to Ms. Batista, the two counselors, D.P. and his wife (agape). Dr. Allen's response, at 8:40 p.m. on May 6, 2016, reads as follows:

> Hi Karen.
>
> Well, first off, that is certainly an interesting version of what goes on in my class. Here is my version:
> There are about 16 class days for each section of AP Chemistry after the final exam & national AP Exam. Last year I gave the students a large list of possible research topics that tied into the course material & that they might find interesting. The assignment was for each student to pick three topics to research -- followed by the submission of a two page summary and a short presentation to the class. Each report/presentation was worth a lab grade. Unfortunately, a majority of the (very grade-savvy) kids realized that three lab grades would not statistically affect their overall course grade and thus did a barely acceptable, low-effort job on the reports. Frankly it was a waste of everybody's time. Just one girl did serious research on a topic she eventually went on to study in college, but the other 59 students basically gave me crap -- just good enough to no drop their overall grade. One obvious option on my part would be to bump up the worth of these assignments so the kids would have a penalty for bad work. But I rejected that option because most would just bump up the quality slightly (still crap) to stay even. Some would do a great job to get a better grade but (from experience) these kids would be mostly kids who already had an A. And in my opinion, the "AP Chemistry" grade at HCRHS should be based solely on the "AP Chemistry" curriculum, which has now ended.

So this year I decided to do something different. I conceived a sort of mini-course of video lectures by college professors that would show the kids real-world & scientific research applications of the things we learned in class. I came up with seven "units" (origin of life, biogeochemistry, climate change, energy, limits to growth, etc.) for which I would devote two class periods each (an hour-long lecture in each block). I am developing this on the fly based on my feel for the material and the kids. At first I was thinking I would just show the videos and that was that. After showing the first video that way and gauging their reaction, I am reconsidering -- now planning a mini-discussion before & after, along with a two-paragraph summary and reflection (with course tie-ins) of the video. I'm feeling my way through this, my first foray into video lectures.

My first video was (search youtube) "McCloskey Speaker Series - New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" I showed this to A-day on Thurs and B-day today. I encourage you to watch it in its entirety. On student applauded after the video ended. My second (and last) video of the first unit will be "Robert Hazen - Chance, Necessity and the Origins of Life". Again, highly recommended. This stuff is the real deal -- a good metric for them to see if science is really what they want to do, and which parts of real-world science do they find most interesting and necessary.

Unfortunately I did have some trouble with two students for most of the block: C------- N-------- and K----- P------ were talking loudly and laughing in the back of the room -- loudly enough that I had to interrupt the video and ask them to quiet down THREE different times during the block. I had to speak to nobody else in either block I showed this video. I suspect this may be partially why K---- P---- did not join in the applause at the end -- I don't think she actually saw the video, which I would consider one of the very best lectures I have ever seen in my life (-- a life where I have seen hundreds of them).

> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?
>
> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.
>
> Karen, I am deeply disappointed in your handling of this matter. "Understand that you are under contract"???!!! Frankly, f you. I work my fing ass off to be a great teacher and I expect the common courtesy of at least checking in more tactfully (or in person!) when receiving second hand (and erroneous) information you received from the parent. But a threat right off the get go? No thanks.
>
> Have a great weekend & thank you for ruining mine – Dan

Only moments after sending the 8:40 p.m. May 6th email, Dr. Allen forwarded that email to Sean Chappe, a science teacher who was also an HCEA representative with this note: "See you in court, my friend :-)." Shortly after he sent the email, both Dr. Allen and his wife, Lisa Allen, were concerned about the content of the email and called Mr. Chappe for advice.

Suzanne Cooley, then HCRHS Principal, received the email from one of the counselors and forwarded it to Superintendent Christina Steffner. Over the weekend, Ms. Steffner sought and received permission from the Board President to suspend Dr. Allen, and commence an investigation into his actions.

D.P. replied to Dr. Allen's May 6th email on May 7, 2016, copying Ms. Batista, and asking Dr. Allen to please reconsider lowering K.P.'s grade and promising to speak with K.P. regarding Dr. Allen's contention that she was talking while he was showing the class videos. Also over the weekend, C.L. learned that Dr. Allen named her child, C.N. in his May 6th email, and that he copied "agape" on the email. C.L. emailed Ms. Batista to express her concern. She questioned why C.N. had been brought into the discussion, and asked for the "name and title of the individual with the agape email."

On Monday, May 9, 2016, Superintendent Steffner interviewed Dr. Allen. Director of Curriculum John Fenimore, Manager of Human Resources, Sara Jane Mahan, Shari Calabrese, President of the Hunterdon Central Education Association and Sean Chappe, another HCEA representative were present.

At the May 9th meeting, Dr. Allen was asked about his AP Chemistry lesson plans for the remainder of the 2015-2016 school year. At that time, approximately twenty-six (26) school days, including approximately 15 AP Chemistry classes, remained in the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen responded "[t]hat class is over." Dr. Allen explained that he was not able to give a full answer or explanation, but that he was "outrageously excited" about his planned lecture series for the remainder of the school year. Dr. Allen was also asked about his lesson plans for his CP Chemistry class. Dr. Allen advised that the class was preparing for a test later in the week. Dr. Allen acknowledged that the test had not yet been prepared, and that his ICS (in-class support) teaching partner had not been provided with the test.[3] Dr. Allen explained that his ICS partner did have a collection of unit worksheets and she was aware that the test would "closely mirror" the worksheets.

Dr. Allen's emergency lesson plan folder in Ms. Batista's office contained only class rosters from his classes for the 2014-2015 school year and an instruction to complete an assignment that was not provided. Dr. Allen testified that his emergency lesson plans for the 2015-2016 school year, along with current rosters, were in his mailbox and were easily accessible to any substitute teacher. Some science teachers testified that emergency lesson plans were typically filed with Ms. Batista and other science teachers typically provided necessary information to the substitute when one was needed at the last minute.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Allen was advised that he was being suspended with pay pending the outcome of an investigation into his conduct.

The administration sets aside time designated as "PLC (professional learning community) time" for all teachers within each department, to learn from and collaborate with one another. Mr. Fenimore testified that Dr. Allen did not meet regularly with his PLC. Chemistry Teacher Sharon Cooper recalled that Dr. Allen participated in Chemistry PLCs. Ms. Batista did not recall that there was any issue regarding Dr. Allen's attendance at PLCs.

As part of the investigation, Vice Principals Matthew Thompson, and Michael Carr, interviewed eight students from Dr. Allen's two AP Chemistry courses. Each student was asked the same set of questions: 1) Have you taken any AP tests yet? How have they gone? How many AP classes are you currently taking?; 2) What do you think you'll be doing from now on since you've taken your AP test?; 3) How do you know that?, and 4) What did you do last week after your test?

The AP Chemistry students interviewed generally confirmed that they had watched videos on chemistry topics during the week that began with the AP exam. The students believed that they would continue to watch videos for the remainder of the school year and did not believe that they would be required to complete assignments or otherwise be graded based on the videos.

After the meeting with Dr. Allen, Ms. Steffner asked Mr. Fenimore to speak with the supervisors from each department that offers AP coursework, to ensure that other teachers of AP classes were continuing to teach for the remainder of the school year. In response to Mr. Fenimore's inquiry, the Social Studies, Math, Fine Art, World Language, Science and English Department Supervisors all confirmed that their AP teachers were still teaching, and had lesson plans in place for post AP coursework. Mr. Fenimore also conducted seventeen (17) "drop-ins" of AP courses, to observe that AP instruction was still occurring. The drop-ins confirmed other AP teachers were providing instruction and assessment.

Ms. Steffner was also concerned that Dr. Allen had copied his wife (agape) on the May 6, 2016 email so she reviewed all of Dr. Allen's emails to his wife from his HCRHS email from September 4, 2013 through his May 9, 2016 suspension. At Ms. Steffner's direction, the Board's IT manager, Michael Marron, searched Dr. Allen's email for any other emails between his school email and his wife's email address, agape7769@comcast.net. The search yielded ten (10) additional instances of Dr. Allen disclosing student information to his wife from his HCRHS email account. Eight of these emails were sent during the 2015-2016 school year. Dr. Allen's emails that included his wife are as follows:

On April 3, 2014, Dr. Allen forwarded an email to his wife, containing a string of emails between himself and M.K., the parent of a student, E.K., discussing E.K.'s progress in his class. M.K. expressed concern over E.K.'s stress levels. E.K. is a friend of Dr. Allen's daughter.

On April 23, 2014, Dr. Allen forwarded an email that came directly from a student, who inquired about her grade to his wife. Dr. Allen forwarded the email to his wife stating "Here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. ..."

Hi Dr. Allen,

I logged into Aspen yesterday and noticed that the report card for Marking period 3 was very different from quarters 1 and 2.

I saw that my averages were C+ and C but on the report cards from the beginning of the year, my averages showed as A- and A. I was wondering if we could resolve this problem as soon as possible.

Thank you.

Hey babe. Here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. Tsk tsk tsk. What was she thinking I would do—forger her grades for the whole class & give her a A?! luv u!

On October 8, 2015, Dr. Allen forwarded an email to his wife from D.P., mother of K.P. D.P. emailed Dr. Allen to introduce herself, apparently having missed the opportunity to do so at back to school night. In Dr. Allen's response, he notes that his wife says hello. D.P. returned the greeting, and Dr. Allen forwarded the email to his wife.

Good morning. Hope this finds you well. I unfortunately cannot attend this evening's Back to School night but wanted to touch base to say hi and introduce myself. I am K.P.'s mom, D. If at any time there are any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at your convenience. My information is listed below.

Dr. Allen replied as follows, also copying his wife:

Hi D. Lisa (my wife) says hi. :-) ... K's done better on the past 2 tests, so as long as she keeps up the effort she'll be fine. Make sure she's keeping up with the problem set on a daily basis -- since getting even a day behind is a bit deadly with the amount of content they get each day. Let me know if you have any questions! -- Dan :-)

On November 16, 2015, Dr. Allen forwarded another email containing student information to his wife. Dr. Allen initiated this email exchange with M.W., parent of W.W. Dr. Allen reached out to express concern for W.W.'s response to his latest grade. M.W., who responded, thanking Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen then forwarded the email to his wife with the subject line "haha from M------."

> Hi M. R. seemed bummed out about his last test (84 on Liquids & Solids), but I just wanted to say that he's doing a really great job -- working really hard to understand the material. It's nice to have kids who care about their work as much as R.!! Some units he'll find easier than others, so just tell him to keep up the good work & he'll be fine. -- Dan :-)

Four days later, on November 20, 2015, Dr. Allen sent his wife an email that simply stated "there's gonna [sic] be hell to pay—[W.W.] got a 64% on test today :-)."

On December 1, 2015, in an email exchange with his wife, Dr. Allen responded to her inquiry about his day "...going ok...the annoying kid who kept pushing back his makeup test got his deserved bad grade (hee hee)..." The student was not named in the exchange.

> How's your day?

On February 29, 2016, Dr. Allen forwarded emails to his wife from a student's parent, C.L., mother of C.N., and his response. C.L. emailed Ms. Batista to express concern over C.N.'s performance in Dr. Allen's class, and questioned Dr. Allen's teaching skills based on her assessment of C.N.'s efforts as compared to the grades she was receiving. Ms. Batista forwarded the email to Dr. Allen, who wrote a lengthy response. Dr. Allen then forwarded the email to his wife, who responded:

> Wow!! She's a jerk. So her kid is finally being challenged and she is attacking you? What will Karen respond?

Dr. Allen wrote back to her:

> I'm sure Karen will just try to defuse it. I mean, it's the first kid in 10 years of AP to say I don't do it right :-)

Mrs. Allen replied:

> Interesting fact-- lady is friends with D.P. I would hope that Karen has your back bc it's clearly not you with your exemplary track record.
>
> Lis

And Dr. Allen finished the conversation:

> Ha ha. Her and D. (or D.'s kid at least) really laying into me this year. :-) Maybe invite them over for tea so they can fill you in. :-)

Dr. Allen again included information about C.N. in an email to his wife on March 3, 2016. Apparently, Ms. Batista met with C.L. to discuss her email, later providing an email summary of the meeting to Dr. Allen. Dr. Allen responded referencing his opinion on C.L.'s parenting skills and C.N.'s character. He then forwarded Ms. Batista's email, along with his response, to his wife with the message "This is my response to Karen's email—she met with C.N.'s mom yesterday. Bold type is Karen & normal type is mine. :-)."

> This is my response to Karen's email--she met with C.'s mom yesterday. Bold type is Karen & normal type is mine. :-)
> Hi Karen. Lots of stuff, so I'll respond within your text:
>
> *The meeting was actually cordial. She asked me to look at your review sheets as compared to the tests to make sure there was alignment. *
> The review sheets are the problem sets. I'll let you look at them if you want, but it'd be hard to decipher without actually doing all the problems, which would take days. I can tell you that they are COMPLETELY in alignment. One thing I'm very good at is picking out the essence of each unit -- i.e. the key points/skills/ideas that they need to get. I make sure I stress them during class & I pick the key problems from the book (often spanning several chapters) that illustrate them. ...That said, C. has several times approached me after a test & said that the material on the test did not match the problem set. This is a refrain I ONLY ever hear from kids who don't understand the material. Check in with kids who do and you'll hear the opposite of what C. says. It's a "let me blame someone else" tactic, and it's use at this stage is a sign of some really bad parenting. Although I don't say anything, it reflects VERY poorly on the kid's character.

I told her I'd look at C.'s four worst tests. She also asked for a grade distribution, which I did yesterday afternoon. (everything looks well within the norm, btw) She said that they already hired a tutor (Carolyn Wilheim from North Hunterdon). I told her I would contact her to see if there is anything that we could provide to help.

I can speak with (or email) the tutor too if you like.

*She liked the idea of you checking in (with formative assessments) for the remainder of the year with C. to gauge her understanding. *

Fire drill caused B3 test to be postponed until Monday (so observation would be Wed or Fri now).

To be honest, C. mostly just screws around during class. She has her work open, but she's constantly getting sidetracked by her phone or her friends (mostly K.P. who has a D. & is also blaming me for her trouble). I can give her assigned seat, but I think you didn't want me to single her out, right? She asks me token questions & makes token appearances at tutorial. She is just not a serious student in Chemistry for whatever reasons. I usually let the AP kids check in with me as needed, so it would feel weird to check in only for C.

I certainly can do it (& will if you want), but personally I think it's a disservice to the AP kids for me to babysit them at this age because they need to start transitioning to college. They need to start figuring out (1) the work and discipline it takes to master a difficult subject, (2) if they like it (3) if they're good at it.

She did not get personal at all. (Which is good because I was prepared to nip that in the bud.) She was concerned about curves being applied unevenly, but I assured her that you and Leon speak often about lessons, labs, tests and grading. By the end of the meeting, she was looking to get an accurate assessment of C.'s abilities. At one point she said, "look, if she's not a chemistry type, that's okay. It's just that no one has actually said that to me." I told her that I would speak to you, Cindy Fink (her hon chem teacher) and the tutor to try to get an accurate picture for her.

Repeat after me: "My daughter is not the chemistry type" :-) C. doesn't seem like the material much, she doesn't try very hard at understanding it, and she doesn't seem quick to pick up even the simpler concepts that the "chemistry types" absorb immediately. What kind of parent is confused about something like that at this age? Her Dad (a horse breeder) came up to me at BTS and said very jovially, "I heard you like farming -- we'll need to talk about that sometime instead of this boring Chemistry stuff." ...Ummm...Mom...maybe your daughter is a bit more like her Dad?

That's it in a nutshell. I need to take a look at the 4 tests and would like to just speak to you about the latest one to see how you are going to handle the situation (10 failures and a D class average). I don't want to add fuel to the fire. Can you swing by after class, or would you like me to go to you during block 5?

Don't worry about this one. We'll answer some of the questions and let this blow over.

The best thing for C. at this point is to work very hard with her tutor at one of those AP Exam Chemistry review books -- e.g. Princeton Review, Barrons, or the one I lent the students. There is simply no time for her to go back and nitpick over some questions on a few bad tests when an epic twenty-unit test is staring her in the face in 8 weeks. AP Chem is like a firehose of material (that's still going full blast for the next 7 weeks), and her micro-examining a few bad tests is like stopping down to gather a few cupfuls of water that spilled. That said, I understand if the Mom is insistent on this. I fully understand that this is not a good model for education, but that's the requirements of this AP model we're implementing.

So ... let me know if you have any more questions -- Dan

Dr. Allen again forwarded his wife a lengthy email exchange between Ms. Batista and C.L. on March 18, 2016. This email contained C.N.'s test scores, as well as class averages and median grades for several tests.

Finally, on March 21, 2016, Dr. Allen forwarded his wife an email that he sent to HCRHS administrators earlier in the day. Dr. Allen's email to his wife said

"Ugh. One of the General Chemistry students, J.B., released a wildly inappropriate video last night. It's on youtube under "J BloG p*$$y destroyer."

> Ugh. One of my General Chemistry students, J.B., released a wildly inappropriate video last night. It's on youtube under "J BLoG p*$$y destroyer."
>
> Not sure what jurisdiction you have over off-campus-filmed youtube video, but he's waving a fake gun around.
>
> I really really really like J.B., but he worries me sometimes, and this video is a good example.
>
> PLESE DO NOT TELL HIM I 'RATTED HIM OUT'!!!!
>
> Thanks, Dan

When asked why he copied his wife on the May 6th email, Dr. Allen testified as follows:

> I didn't know they were FERPA violations at the time. This is not -- even in my -- even in my not quite complete understanding of FERPA at this stage, I would have to know that copying my wife where other people can see she's copied is completely inappropriate. But back to your question, the reason is, because she's my advisor in the sense that she's my better half. She's good under pressure, she's good in emergency situations, she cool-headed, and I'm emotional. And she's my sounding board for things, you know, as we'll get to. Not in the sense where I should pass on names and grades to her. But she's in a true sense, she is my -- she is my -- she is my partner in teaching, you know. So that's why.

Dr. Allen's testimony was similar to his wife's understanding of FERPA. She believed that an educator could not share student information with the public, but believed that there was an exception for one's spouse.

Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email had further repercussions within the school.

On May 12, 2016, C.N.'s mother, C.L., wrote to Ms. Steffner advising that other students were accusing C.N. of being responsible for Dr. Allen getting "fired." C.L. included a social media post by C.N. where she attempted to set the record straight in an effort to end the attacks on her.

On May 15, 2016, D.P. sent a letter to the Board raising concern that K.P. might be exposed to Dr. Allen in the future, as well as questioning his fitness to be in a teacher. D.P. pointed to the vindictive and threatening tone of his email, and noted his inclusion of her on an email wherein he used profanity toward his supervisor. D.P. directed that neither of her children be placed in Dr. Allen's classes in the future.

The Board met on May 16, 2016 to discuss his employment. The meeting was in an open session at Dr. Allen's request. The meeting room was filled mostly with Dr. Allen's supporters. At that meeting, Dr. Allen addressed the Board and apologized for his actions. Many parents and students spoke. The vast majority expressed their support for Dr. Allen. Both before and after the meeting, the Board received many letters of support for Dr. Allen's teaching.

For example, one current student wrote, "AP Chemistry was one of the classes that made coming to school worth it every day..." Another former student wrote, "Dr. Allen's passion for the subject is part of what gave me the drive to pursue a degree in biochemistry..." A parent wrote that Dr. Allen "cares about his students and teachers in an engaging and interesting manner." Another parent, S.P., testified that her daughter had Dr. Allen as a teacher for AP Chemistry and it "was an extremely challenging class ... it was the kind of class I would want for her." That parent described Dr. Allen as "very fair" and always available after school if the kids needed help..." Science teacher Sharon Cooper described Dr. Allen's teaching as "engaging" and using cartoon characters and music to illustrate points and reach students. Ms. Cooper also testified to Dr. Allen's positive interaction with Ms. Batista and Dr. Macai, the previous science supervisor.

In addition to those letters, several students and parents testified to Dr. Allen's skills as a teacher, motivating students to pursue higher education and careers in science. Parents also testified to his good character and his contributions to the community, including a community garden. Had time permitted, numerous additional students, parents, colleagues, former colleague and members of the community were eager to testify to Dr. Allen's skills as a teacher and his good character and reputation. The record reflects that these potential additional character witnesses would have provided testimony that is substantially similar and complementary to the supportive character testimony described above.

After the May 16th Board meeting, many members of the administrative staff, which includes the department supervisors, among others, expressed concern that Dr. Allen's behavior would be viewed as a minor infraction. The Board President received letters from Edward Brandt, President of the Hunterdon Central Administrator's Association, as well as Sandra Chronic, Supervisor of Health and Physical Education, Sara Jane Mahan, Human Resources Manager, Don Thornton, Operations Manager, Sue Cooley, HCRHS Principal, and Gymlyn Corbin, School Business Administrator/Board Secretary. These letters urged the Board's to support appropriate consequences commensurate with Dr. Allen's actions.

Dr. Allen admits that there were "so many warning signals to [him] along the way," which should have prevented him from sending the emails. He acknowledged that his wife told him not to send the email until she read it, although he ignored that advice. He further acknowledges that the series of emails he sent only to Ms. Batista in the lead up to the May 6th email were the result of a "gross overreaction." He characterizes his tone in those emails to Ms. Batista as "scolding her like she's a kid" and "ordering" her to watch the videos he references. With respect to his email to Mr. Chappe, Dr. Allen testified that he was not intended to show disdain, but rather was letting Mr. Chappe know he had "screwed up." He further claimed that the ":)" was not intended to be a happy smiley face, but was instead a "rueful" smiley face.

Dr. Allen testified that he was upset because D.P.'s email "grossly misrepresented what was happening in his class." He explained that his anger toward Ms. Batista derived from his perception that she accepted D.P.'s statements as true. Dr. Allen took issue with D.P.'s statement that Dr. Allen told the class that "due to lack of interest and effort" he would not be teaching them for the rest of the year. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he had permitted students to do other work during an AP Chemistry the day after the AP Chemistry exam. Dr. Allen explained that he recognized students had additional AP exams that week and it was time to "pull back a little bit." Dr. Allen denied that he would not be teaching for the rest of the school year and cited his excitement about the lecture series he was developing. Dr. Allen knew that D.P. was "not privy" to his excitement for the lecture series he had planned, but nonetheless was very upset and hurt by D.P.'s email.

DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no tenured employees of the public school system "shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The District bears the burden to establish that it met this standard.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has defined "unbecoming conduct" as conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [government] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services." In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010) (quoting Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554

(1998) (citation omitted). The New Jersey Supreme Court further defined "unbecoming conduct" as that which violates "the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Bound Brook Bd. Of Ed. v. Ciripompa, Dkt. No. A-57-15, __ N.J. __ (February 21, 2017) (quoting Karins v. City of Atlantic City).

With this standard in mind, I turn to Dr. Allen's conduct in sending the four emails on May 6, 2016, as well as the remaining charges that arose from the investigation. In evaluating these charges, I have reviewed and considered the testimony, documentary evidence and arguments submitted by both parties. That consideration is incorporated into the discussion of the charges.

COUNT ONE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT NINE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Retaliation)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Most troubling is the charge that Dr. Allen expressed an intention to retaliate against K.P. by lowering her grade from a D to an F after her mother D.P., sent the original email to Ms. Batista suggesting that Dr. Allen did not intend to teach AP Chemistry for the remainder of the school year because the AP Chemistry exam had been completed.

That portion of the May 6 email provided as follows:

> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?
>
> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.

Ms. Steffner, Ms. Batista and D.P. all interpreted this portion of the email to threaten retribution. Ms. Steffner testified that she was "concerned that there was a tone of retribution, that because mother had sent an e-mail apparently asking about the practice of teaching after the AP exam, that we were going to drop a student's grade..." Ms. Steffner cited "the volatile manner in which he responded and his threat of lowering a student's grade because a parent asked a question was deeply concerning..." and created concerns about him returning to the classroom. Ms. Batista also read Dr. Allen's words as threatening retaliation:

> What did become very upsetting to me was the part about K's grade being changed in particular as a result of the e-mail sent by the mom.
>
> Q. So let's get to that. That's the next paragraph. The next paragraph, so, it reads, quote, So. . .here's the way it'll go. I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video, close quote.
>
> Q. So what's your reaction to that?
> A. Clearly it's retaliation for something that a parent had written, a parent questioned what was going on in the class, and as a result, he was going to change a grade.

Ms. Batista further stated "As I read through the e-mail, it looked to me like after he gave the explanation of what he was going to do, he still was angry and mentioned that he was going to change a student's grade, which, of course, is the worst thing he could have possibly said."

That D.P. believed that Dr. Allen might retaliate against K.P. is expressed first in a May 7 email to Dr. Allen where she seeks to insulate K.P. from blame for her previous emails:

> ... As for the info I received, I heard not from K.P. or C.N. but another student in your class on Tuesday. I never spoke to K.P. about it until Thursday night. I was just hoping, call it greedy, that maybe she would have the opportunity, not just for her but for others too, to maybe bump up her grade slightly more. My apologies for being presumptuous. As for the talking and disturbing class, they said they were told they could talk. I will speak to her about her volume. She can be loud. Any further questions/ concerns you have please feel free to contact me. I seriously hope you will consider my request and continue in with your plan as you feel necessary.

D.P.'s May 15, 2016 letter to the Board of Education crystalized her concerns that her daughter K.P. might be the victim of retribution by Dr. Allen:

> I recently sent an email questioning if during the last few weeks of school the students might have the opportunity to "lift" their grades slightly. In response, I received a very disturbing reply that I felt not only threatened my child, but myself. The email also contained vulgarities directed towards Dr. Allen's supervisor, which I know you have read. How Dr. Allen believes a response can be sent in that tone makes me even more concerned about his mental equanimity and classroom behaviors.

D.P. continued "I am appalled that he felt he could threaten me and my child in writing instead of reaching out to me to explain the situation."

Ms. Batista also spoke to this specific issue of the apparent threat and the ever present parents' concern that a teacher will retaliate against their child when a parent complains:

> I mean, as a supervisor, one of the things that happens, parents will call about a complaint about a particular teacher, and you'll say to the parent, well, you know, can I speak to the teacher about their complaint, and their first response is well, please don't use my student's name. And, in fact, you know it's not that you don't -- you wouldn't go to a teacher and give the student's name, but, of course that's the first thing the teacher asks when you go to the teacher and say, you know, I've gotten this complaint from a parent. You know, the first question the teacher will ask: Well, which parent? And the implication is that it's a kid that's a problem in class and therefore that's why there's a parent complaint. On the parent's side of that issue is that, you know, if you mention my kid's name, the teacher is going to retaliate against my kid. I mean, this is the exact thing that you don't want to get to a parent, and he's put it in writing now, and has notified people, and so now, you know, every other parent has now got something that they can use to say that a teacher is retaliating against their kid because in fact, here's a teacher that did it.

Ms. Steffner also emphasized the importance of being able to maintain parents' trust:

> ... the trust that has to be placed between parents and teachers was seriously compromised. In the 40 plus years that I've been doing this, I often hear from parents oh, I would never say anything because the teacher will take it out on my child. And I as an administrator have always said that doesn't happen. It won't happen. You know, you have a right, this is your child. You have a right to ask questions. You have a right to be a part of it. A teacher, a professional would never take it out on a child. This e-mail spoke to me about the serious interruption of that trust, the serious breakdown and it reinforced that constant comment that we hear from parents often that I'm afraid to say anything because my child will suffer.
> This e-mail from D. was almost apologetic, not almost, it was apologetic and it was almost pleading please don't take it out on my daughter. I found that very disconcerting, very upsetting and certainly is not the kind of relationship we want with our parents.

Dr. Allen acknowledged that his language was "ambiguous-ish." As such, regardless of his intention, Dr. Allen's words were perceived as threatening to lower K.P.'s grade in response to D.P.'s email. Dr. Allen claims that he did not intend to fail K.P. He testified that when he wrote "I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video..." Rather, this language reflected "a change in strategy." He testified as follows: "This reflects a change in strategy, that I was saying, look, I'm not -- I am not going to be able to, I'm not going to be able to not give grades for the rest of the course and have kids pay attention at all."

Dr. Allen testified that he does not fail students, and that he would have bumped K.P.'s grade back up to a "D" at the end of the course. In other words, Dr. Allen planned to lower K.P.'s grade back to the "F" she had earned to allow her to improve her grade for the remainder of the school year, and if she did not improve her grade on her own, he would then bump K.P.'s grade back to a "D".

To Dr. Allen, if he left K.P.'s grade as a "D" and then allowed her to earn extra credit and perhaps raise her grade to a "C", that would be a "gift onto a gift." Dr. Allen believed that D.P. was trying to get her daughter's grade to improve to a "C", which, to his mind, K.P. had not earned.

Dr. Allen testified that he made it a practice not to fail students and he did not intend the email as retaliation against K.P. Rather, Dr. Allen explained that he had already bumped K.P.'s grade from an F to a "D" because he had not planned additional assignments. Once he determined to grade assignments related to the videos, he no longer needed to bump up K.P.'s grade, because she would have an opportunity to bump her own grade up from an F to a D. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he was "borderline off the rails" when he wrote this but thought it would be a "logical solution to a problem" rather than a "vindictive grade change."

Dr. Allen testified both that he was concerned not to embarrass K.P. and his view of K.P.'s visits to her counselor concerning AP Chemistry:

> So, yeah, I don't want to embarrass K.P. even if she was -- I knew she was coming at me the whole year. I knew she was going to her counselor, I didn't know exactly what she was saying to her counselor, but I knew it probably wasn't true..."

Dr. Allen characterized K.P.'s actions in going to her counselor as "unprecedented" for him in that he had never "had a kid go behind [his] back."

Turning to the question of whether Dr. Allen threatened retaliation against K.P. and, if so, whether this conduct violated Standard Eleven of Professional Standards for Teachers, N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3 and/or the National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211, I must look beyond Dr. Allen's intent to his actual words. Dr. Allen did not explain that he intended to knock K.P.'s grade back to the grade she had actually earned, to allow her the opportunity to increase her grade through additional assignments or extra credit assignments as suggested by her mother. Rather, Dr. Allen wrote that K.P. "ended up with an F in AP Chemistry" and he bumped her final exam grade up "until she just barely had a D." He continued:

> So...here's the way it'll go: I'm bumping her grade back down to the original F (I will inform her). And from now on I'll collect and grade the class reflection on each video.

Returning to Dr. Allen's words in his email, he stated "I'm bumping her [K.P.'s] grade back down to the original F..." He then indicated that he would grade the class reflections from the video, but did not explain that K.P. would have the chance to improve her grade, and once the school year was completed he would bump her grade back to a passing grade if she did not do so on her own.

Dr. Allen also stated, "I will inform her," lending credence to the thought that he would inform K.P. that she would get an "F" for the class. When taken in context of the entire email, including the angry and disgruntled tone, and the inappropriate language directed at Ms. Batista, it is difficult to interpret his statement that he would lower K.P.'s grade as anything but retaliation for her mother's email. When viewed in light of his testimony that he knew she was coming at him the whole year, the notion that Dr. Allen had a retaliatory motive is reinforced.

Regardless of whether Dr. Allen actually intended to fail K.P., he unquestionably created the impression that he would, and compromised the necessary trust between parents and the Board. In doing so, he has irreparably damaged his own credibility with both the Board and parents. Dr. Allen had made it almost impossible for the Board to ask parents to trust him.

Accordingly, I find that Dr. Allen's statement that he would bump K.P.'s grade back to an F, by itself, leads to the conclusion that Dr. Allen engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee. This statement, on its own, by apparently threatening to lower K.P.'s grade in retaliation for her mother's email, cannot be tolerated from any teacher. Such a statement breaches the trust between teacher and student, teacher and parent, and teacher and Board of Education. That trust is necessary for the teacher to be a successful educator. The charge of retaliation, by itself, is sufficiently serious to sustain tenure charges against Dr. Allen, but must be viewed in light of all of the facts and circumstances, including those supporting Dr. Allen.

COUNT TWO-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disrespect for Supervisor)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT TEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3281-Inappropriate Staff Conduct)

I now turn to the charges that Dr. Allen was knowingly and deliberately hostile and disrespectful to his supervisor, Ms. Batista by using profane language in his May 6, 2017 email, by copying both colleagues and D.P., a parent with this disrespectful electronic communication.

In response to Ms. Batista's email forwarding and asking about D.P.'s email, Dr. Allen initially sent three brief emails to her, two of them using some version of "f" or "fing", but not necessarily directing the profanity at Ms. Batista. For example, in his first email at 6:37 p.m., Dr. Allen wrote, "[W]ow. What the f is that? Maybe ask ... before you accuse me of violating my fing contract?"

Then, in the lengthy email sent to Ms. Batista with copies to colleagues and D.P. at 8:40 p.m., Dr. Allen directed profanity at Ms. Batista as follows:

> Karen, I am deeply disappointed in your handling of this matter. "Understand that you are under contract"???!!! Frankly, f you. I work my fing ass off to be a great teacher and I expect the common courtesy of at least checking in more tactfully (or in person!) when receiving second hand (and erroneous) information you received from the parent. But a threat right off the get go? No thanks.
> Have a great weekend & thank you for ruining mine – Dan

Administration officials, parents, students and other teachers uniformly testified that Dr. Allen's use of profanity, even in its censored state was inappropriate. Ms. Steffner testified to her concern both "about the use of abject profanity" and the "continued escalation of Dr. Allen's anger." John Fenimore, then the Director of Curriculum, testified that use of such language was inappropriate in any professional setting. The profanity was directed at Ms. Batista who testified that she was "offended, shocked and disappointed." Dr. Fink, a science teacher, agreed that Dr. Allen's email was "disrespectful." Another chemistry teacher, Ms. Cooper, thought directing the phrase "fuck you" to a supervisor was "inappropriate." Numerous other colleagues, as well as parents and students supporting Dr. Allen found such language to be unprofessional and/or inappropriate. D.P. cited Dr. Allen's use of profanity in her May 15, 2016 letter to the Board of Education noting that Dr. Allen's response to her email included "vulgarities directed towards Dr. Allen's supervisor." In that letter, D.P. also stated her belief that Dr. Allen needed to "accept full responsibility for his behaviors, threats, outbursts and obscenity laced emails."

Dr. Allen agreed and has apologized both to Ms. Batista and to the Board of Education. There is no dispute that Dr. Allen's use of profanity in his May 6, 2016 emails directed at Ms. Batista was both inappropriate and disrespectful. Such conduct from a teacher meets the definition of conduct unbecoming in that it violates the "implicit standard of good behavior" expected of a teacher. See Karins v. Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554-555 (1998). Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email also violates Board Policy 3281 which provides "[i]nappropriate conduct and conduct unbecoming a school staff member will not be tolerated ..."

Dr. Allen's use of profanity directed at Ms. Batista in an email that was also sent to colleagues and a parent is unbecoming conduct. The use of profanity directed at a supervisor in this situation is serious, but on its own might not be sufficient to warrant removal. Dr. Allen's use of profanity cannot be examined in a vacuum but must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

COUNT FIVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Failure to Teach)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT THIRTEEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3270-Professional Responsibilities)

The Board has charged Dr. Allen with a failure to teach by failing to complete lesson plans, failing to have current emergency lesson plans on file, refusing to teach AP Chemistry after the AP Chemistry exam, failing to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refusing to use common assessments.

Citing Mr. Fennimore's testimony, the Board contends that Dr. Allen failed to complete lesson plans and failed to have current emergency lesson plans on file. Mr. Fennimore testified that he checked Dr. Allen's emergency lesson plan folder in his mailbox in the 11/12 building and found only a class roster from the prior school year and a direction to work on "problem set 912". Mr. Fennimore viewed this and similar instructions as an activity rather than a lesson plan. Mr. Fennimore also expressed concern that Dr. Allen had not supplied lesson plans for CP Chemistry and in particular, had not supplied lesson plans to his ICS teacher.

Dr. Allen's supervisor, Karen Batista recalled that if she asked for lesson plans, Dr. Allen would typically be one of the first teachers to turn them in. Ms. Batista did not recall an issue with Dr. Allen turning in either lesson plans or emergency lesson plans. Ms. Batista also acknowledged that she permitted tenured teachers to submit unit plans but required non-tenured teachers to submit weekly lesson plans. Dr. Allen had provided unit plans to his ICS teacher. Dr. Allen testified that his emergency lesson plans could be found in his mailbox.

Science teachers, including Dr. Leon Copeland and Sharon Cooper, testified that when a science teacher would be absent unexpectedly, the teacher would typically call another teacher and ask that colleague to make sure that the substitute had whatever was necessary for lessons.

The Board contends that Dr. Allen planned simply to show videos during the gap period between the AP Chemistry exam and the end of the school year. It is not disputed that Dr. Allen did show a video lecture "McCloskey Speaker Series – New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" to his AP Chemistry classes between May 2, 2016, the date of the AP Chemistry exam and May 6, 2016, his last day in the classroom. Dr. Allen described his thoughts and plans for the video lecture series in his May 6, 2016 email as follows:

> So this year I decided to do something different. I conceived a sort of mini-course of video lectures by college professors that would show the kids real-world & scientific research applications of the things we learned in class. I came up with seven "units" (origin of life, biogeochemistry, climate change, energy, limits to growth, etc.) for which I would devote two class periods each (an hour-long lecture in each block). I am developing this on the fly based on my feel for the material and the kids. At first I was thinking I would just show the videos and that was that. After showing the first video that way and gauging their reaction, I am reconsidering -- now planning a mini-discussion before & after, along with a two-paragraph summary and reflection (with course tie-ins) of the video. I'm feeling my way through this, my first foray into video lectures.
> My first video was (search youtube) "McCloskey Speaker Series - New Theories on the Origin of Life with Dr. Eric Smith" I showed this to A-day on Thurs and B-day today. I encourage you to watch it in its entirety. One student applauded after the video ended. My second (and last) video of the first unit will be "Robert Hazen - Chance, Necessity and the Origins of Life". Again, highly recommended. This stuff is the real deal -- a good metric for them to see if science is really what they want to do, and which parts of real-world science do they find most interesting and necessary.

However, in his May 6, 2016 email, Dr. Allen, also expressed his opinion on the grading of AP Chemistry and the period between the AP Chemistry exam and the end of the school year:

> And in my opinion, the "AP Chemistry" grade at HCRHS should be based solely on the "AP Chemistry" curriculum, which has now ended.

During the meeting on May 9, Mr. Fenimore asked Dr. Allen about lesson plans for AP Chemistry for the remainder of the year. According to Mr. Fenimore, Dr. Allen reiterated the sentiment from his email and replied, "that class is over." But during his testimony, Dr. Allen testified that he realized after his classes on May 5th and May 6th that he was going to need some sort of "carrot stick" mechanism to keep his students engaged for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Fenimore also asked Dr. Allen about his plans for CP Chemistry and he indicated that students were working on a test review sheet but he had not yet written the test. Mr. Fenimore expressed concern because this meant that Dr.

Allen's ICS partner, who was relatively new, did not have a copy of the test and she was legally bound to work on accommodations. Dr. Allen had not provided a test to be administered at the end of the week to his ICS partner by the morning of May 9, but had provided the unit worksheets and his ICS partner was aware that the test would closely track the problem sets included with the worksheets.

Mr. Fenimore distinguished between Dr. Allen's idea to use a video lecture series and Dr. Allen's implementation of the lecture series. According to Mr. Fenimore, "the actual implementation wasn't occurring." Mr. Fenimore based this conclusion on Dr. Allen's statement at the May 9 meeting as well as the May 6 email.

The Board has not established that Dr. Allen failed to continue to teach AP Chemistry by May 9, 2016. Rather, the AP Chemistry exam was administered on May 2, the previous Monday. The AP Chemistry exam is among the first AP exams administered and many students in AP Chemistry were absent during that week as they took other AP exams. Many students who did attend the class were focused on other AP exams they would take later in the week. Dr. Allen testified that he knew when "to pull back a little bit" as he was after the AP Chemistry exam. So, for the remainder of that week, Dr. Allen had shown the first of the video lectures in the lecture series he had developed. As noted in his May 6 email, he had initially conceived of the lecture series to complement the topics covered in AP Chemistry, but without related assignments. Dr. Allen acknowledged that he was "feeling... [his] way through" his first series of video lectures, but had already determined to add assignments and grades to the lecture series.

There is no doubt that Dr. Allen believed that the AP Chemistry class should end after the AP Chemistry exam, and that he had not developed formal lesson plans for his lecture series. Nonetheless, Dr. Allen was aware that he was required to teach for the remainder of the school year. He had developed a lecture series and was showing the lectures to his students. Given the block scheduling, Dr. Allen had shown only the first video in the lecture series without a graded assignment while students were in the process of completing other AP exams. At this point, Dr. Allen was removed from the classroom and had no further opportunity to develop his anticipated lecture series. Based upon this evidence, I find that the Board has established only that Dr. Allen had a personal belief that AP Chemistry should end with the AP exam. The Board has not established that Dr. Allen failed to teach or intended to stop teaching after the AP exam.

Mr. Fenimore testified that Dr. Allen participated in PLCs (Professional Learning Communities) only occasionally and did not use common assessments that were developed in the PLCs. This testimony was not fully supported. Ms.

Batista did not recall that Dr. Allen failed to attend or participate in PLCs. Ms. Batista recalled only one PLC meeting where Mr. Fenimore attended and had found that Dr. Allen was inattentive. Mr. Fenimore offered no evidentiary support for his allegation that Dr. Allen did not use common assessments in either CP Chemistry or AP Chemistry. Dr. Copeland testified that he and Dr. Allen collaborated on the teaching of AP Chemistry and that he used Dr. Allen's handouts and worksheets with his students.

In sum, I find insufficient evidence that Dr. Allen failed or refused to teach AP Chemistry after the AP exam, failed to provide tests and lesson plans to his ICS teacher, and refused to use common assessments. Dr. Allen did have current lesson plans, though the emergency lesson plans in the folder in his mailbox were not current. Dr. Allen attended and participated in PLC meetings and collaborated with his colleagues. Dr. Allen had not provided a single test to his ICS partner one week before the test. Dr. Allen did not fail to meet his professional obligations. To the extent that these charges are supported, they are not sufficient to warrant tenure charges. Charges 5 and 13 are dismissed.

COUNT THREE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT SIX-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

COUNT EIGHT-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violating Student Confidentiality)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

COUNT ELEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3150-Discipline)

COUNT TWELVE-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Violation of Board Policy 3360-Acceptable Use of District Technology)

These charges allege that Dr. Allen breached student confidentiality, violated the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and Board Policies involving Discipline (3150) and Acceptable Use of Technology (3360) by sharing confidential student information with his wife Lisa Allen for no valid educational purpose. The charges also allege that Dr. Allen breached the confidentiality of student C.N. when she was discussed in the May 6, 2016 email sent to D.P. as well as to Lisa Allen.

The Board contends that Dr. Allen engaged in unbecoming conduct when he sent four (4) unprofessional, insubordinate and hostile emails to his supervisor, including the May 6th email, which included the counselors, D.P., and his wife; violated the confidentiality rights of C.N. and K.P. by virtue of copying his wife, and D.P. on the May 6th email; threatened to lower K.P.'s grade as a result of D.P.'s email; and habitually violated student confidentiality rights by emailing his wife confidential student information.

Dr. Allen copied his wife on a total of ten emails referencing students and/or confidential student information, such as grades in addition to the May 6, 2016 email. That email referenced K.P. and C.N., their conduct in AP Chemistry, and K.P.'s final grade. In addition to confidential information, Dr. Allen demeaned and mocked students in some of the emails to Lisa Allen, referring to a student's "charade" and labeling another student "annoying."

Turning to the May 6, 2016 email, Dr. Allen discussed his difficulties with K.P. and C.N., and then copied D.P., K.P.'s mother, as well as Mrs. Allen on the email. Specifically, Dr. Allen discussed C.N. and K.P.'s lack of focus on the video as follows:

> Unfortunately I did have some trouble with two students for most of the block: C------- N-------- and K----- P------ were talking loudly and laughing in the back of the room -- loudly enough that I had to interrupt the video and ask them to quiet down THREE different times during the block. I had to speak to nobody else in either block I showed this video. I suspect this may be partially why K---- P---- did not join in the applause at the end -- I don't think she actually saw the video, which I would consider one of the very best lectures I have ever seen in my life (-- a life where I have seen hundreds of them).
>
> One other note about K----- P------: after entering the final exam grades, she actually ended up with an F in AP Chemistry. I understand that she was exempted into the class -- an error of judgement for which I don't think she deserves blame. So I bumped up her final exam grade until she just barely had a D. I did not inform her of this because I didn't want to embarrass her. Nice guy, huh?

As a result of this email, C.N. believed her confidentiality and privacy was violated. C.N.'s mother, C.L., learned of the email on Saturday, May 7, 2016 and promptly sent an email to Ms. Batista asking the identify of "agape" and expressing concern that her daughter "had been brought into this discussion."

Subsequently, C.L., C.N.'s mother, explained that C.N. was concerned about discussion on social media that "plastered" her name everywhere in connection with Dr. Allen's suspension. On May 12, 2016, C.N.'s mother sent an email to Ms. Steffner expressing her concern for her daughter stating:

> My daughter came home today and informed me that members of the senior and junior class have accused her of "getting Dr. Allen fired." She is very upset. She feels helpless and harassed.

The Board would tie C.N.'s concern to a social media post from Dr. Allen's stepdaughter asking students to attend the upcoming Board of Education meeting and to write letters in support of Dr. Allen. The Board bases its conclusion on its assumption that Dr. Allen's stepdaughter sought students' support at his behest. The record does not establish that Dr. or Mrs. Allen urged or directed Dr. Allen's stepdaughter to post this request to social media. Although there is insufficient support for the Board's contention that his stepdaughter's post was at Dr. Allen's behest, this post, which did not include C.N., along with other posts circulated by students seemed to result in C.N. being perceived by other students as the reason for Dr. Allen's suspension. Regardless of the factual basis that led to Dr. Allen's suspension and subsequent tenure charges, Dr. Allen's inclusion of C.N. in his email to D.P., a parent, but not C.N.'s parent, and to his wife, led to C.N.'s name being connected to his tenure charges. Thus, the result of Dr. Allen's violation of C.N.'s privacy and confidentiality under FERPA and Board Policy 3360 may have lead to negative publicity for C.N.

Dr. Allen also violated both K.P.'s and C.N.'s confidentiality as students when he copied his wife on the May 6, 2016 email. That email included specific information about K.P.'s grades and K.P.'s and C.N.'s conduct. While Dr. Allen regards his wife as his "sounding board," "advisor" and "partner in teaching," she is not employed by the District and plays no role in the education of Dr. Allen's students, including K.P., C.N. and the other students specifically referenced in Dr. Allen's emails. By sending emails to his wife that included confidential student information, Dr. Allen violated the privacy rights of these students pursuant to FERPA, and Board Policy 3360 (Acceptable Use of District Technology) which requires users of the Board's email system to comply with FERPA. That policy also provides:

> Except in instances as specifically provided by law, any student records which are made, maintained, or transmitted technologically must be kept confidential.

Both Dr. Allen and Mrs. Allen seemed to think their emails were permitted as some sort of spousal privilege or exception to the student privacy requirements included in Board Policy and in FERPA. Dr. Allen acknowledged receiving FERPA training each year for the past five years but did not pay sufficient attention and take the training seriously because it was computer-based training, and thus did not think it applied to communications with his wife.

Dr. Allen explained that the emails "were just between me and my wife and not to be shared further." Dr. Allen testified that he "didn't know they were FERPA violations at the time." Explaining why he copied his wife on emails, Dr. Allen characterized his wife as his "advisor" who is "cool-headed" and his sounding board and "partner in teaching." Yet Dr. Allen acknowledged his error stating that "I would have to know that copying my wife where other people can see she's copied is completely inappropriate."

It is not clear whether Dr. Allen acknowledged that copying his wife on emails is inappropriate or that allowing others to see that she received the email is his mistake. It is troubling that Dr. Allen seemed to focus on whether others were aware that he copied his wife rather than the fact that he did so, thus violating student privacy and confidentiality.

Dr. Allen relies upon what he believed to be spousal privilege to suggest that he had a right to share confidential student information with his wife. Spousal or marital privilege as codified in the New Jersey Rules of Evidence 509 permits spouses to refrain of disclosure of spousal "communications made in confidence" without the consent of the spouse. N.J.S.A. 2A:84A-22. Rule 509 does not address the situation where one spouse presumes that he or she is able to disclose confidential information about another individual, in this case a student, to the other spouse because the information will then be protected from disclosure. Regardless, the Board's policy directs that any student records which are made, maintained, or transmitted technologically must be kept confidential. Additionally, FERPA prohibits the disclosure of student records, which include, but are not limited to, grades and student disciplinary files.

By copying his wife on the May 6, 2016 email which included K.P.'s grade in AP Chemistry, as well as several other emails disclosing student grades, Dr. Allen violated both FERPA and Board Policy 3360. Dr. Allen also violated C.N.'s privacy by disclosing her conduct in his class to both his wife and to D.P. These violations of privacy and confidentiality constitutes unbecoming conduct which violates "the implicit standard of good behavior" expected of a teacher. The charges of violating student privacy and confidentiality on their own might warrant discipline short of removal. Dr. Allen's violation of student privacy and confidentiality, as with other charges, cannot be examined in a vacuum, but it must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

COUNT FOUR-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disrespect for Students)
(Violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:9-3.3, Standard Eleven)

COUNT SEVEN-UNBECOMING CONDUCT
(Disparaging Students)
(Violation of National Education Association Code of Ethics/Board Policy 3211)

Dr. Allen is charged with disparaging and disrespecting students by speaking in a derisive and pejorative manner about them. The Board relies upon the series of emails Dr. Allen either forwarded to his wife or copied to her that include unprofessional statements such as calling a student "annoying" or laughing at a bad grade.

The language and tone of Dr. Allen's emails to his wife were, on occasion, derisive. For example, Dr. Allen forwarded one email to his wife on April 23, 2014 where a student asked about her grades. Dr. Allen's comment was "[]here's the email the student sent to me before her charade was revealed. Tsk tsk tsk." In another email on December 1, 2015, Dr. Allen referred to a student as annoying, stating "... the annoying kid who kept pushing back his make up test got his deserved bad grade (hee hee)." Dr. Allen also seemed to mock C.L.'s parenting skills and C.N.'s interest in chemistry in a March 3, 2016 email exchange with Ms. Batista.

Standard Eleven of Ethical Practice requires teachers to maintain "professional relationships with students ..." and to "conduct themselves in a sound and professionally responsible manner."

The NEA Code of Ethics as incorporated into Board Policy 3211 provides that teachers "[s]hall not expose the student to embarrassment or disparagement."

While these email exchanges were not public and did not expose students to public disparagement, they were unprofessional and inappropriate in that they mocked, disparaged and laughed at students and suggested that Dr. Allen took pleasure or felt vindicated in his opinions when students who did not excel met his expectations with poor grades, conduct or performance. These exchanges were unprofessional and violate the implicit standard of good behavior expected of a teacher. These emails disparaging students constitute unbecoming conduct. As with each of the charges, the charge that Dr. Allen disparaged students must be considered in light of all of the facts and circumstances present in this case.

Based upon the foregoing, Dr. Allen engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher when he threatened retaliation against student K.P.; directed profanity at his supervisor, Ms. Batista in an email sent to colleagues, a parent and his wife, as well as Ms. Batista; violated the confidentiality of students K.P. and C.N., as well as others by copying his wife on emails discussing their grades and classroom behaviors; and by disparaging or mocking students in email exchanges with his wife over the District's email server.

As the appropriate penalty for Dr. Allen's misconduct is evaluated, the question of progressive discipline and mitigating factors warrants consideration. The New Jersey Supreme Court explained:

> [T]he concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways: (1) to 'ratchet-up' or 'support imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct'; and (2) 'to mitigate the penalty' for an employee who has a record largely unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions.' On the other hand, progressive discipline is not 'a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question' because 'some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record.'

In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 196 (2011) (citations and internal punctuation omitted). The Court explained the analytic framework to be considered in evaluating the issue of progressive discipline:

> To assure proper progressive discipline, and a resulting penalty based on the totality of the work history, an employee's past record with emphasis on the reasonably recent past should be considered. This includes consideration of the totality of the employee's work performance, including all prior infractions.... Progressive discipline is a flexible concept, and its application depends on the totality and remoteness of the individual instances of misconduct that comprise the disciplinary record. The number and remoteness or timing of the offenses and their comparative seriousness, together with an analysis of the present conduct, must inform the evaluation of the appropriate penalty.

Id. at 199.

Virtually all of Dr. Allen's misconduct occurred in a series of emails on May 6, 2016 and approximately ten emails with his wife from September 2014 through May 6, 2016. The question of penalty and any circumstances which might mitigate the penalty begins with Dr. Allen's repeated apologies to the Board and to Ms. Batista. Dr. Allen has recognized that he should not have sent the May 6, 2016 emails in anger and that he overreacted to Ms. Batista's inquiry. This acknowledgement of fault is one of the several factors that Dr. Allen cites in support of a penalty short of removal. Dr. Allen also cites Ms. Steffner's alleged grudge against him, disparate treatment when compared to other District teachers, that students did not witness the conduct, his personal circumstances, his relatively clean record and his reputation as a popular and exciting teacher.

Dr. Allen has asserted that Ms. Steffner held a grudge and was out to get him both for his inadvisable comments to parents about her compensation in 2012 and because his mother, a local political force, is asserted to have backed successful board of education candidates Lori Blutfield and Vincent Panico and is asserted to have worked to defeat current Board President Deb Labbadia's candidacy for board of education in another district. Dr. Allen suggests that this family grudge caused Ms. Steffner to recommend termination rather than a lesser penalty. While Dr. Allen's testimony supports his contentions, this testimony is comprised predominantly of suggestion and innuendo rather than direct evidence. Dr. Allen went to great lengths to explain the intricacies of local board of education politics and established that his mother and Ms. Steffner were in opposing political camps, but did not offer direct and credible evidence connecting any possible animosity between Ms. Steffner and Dr. Allen's mother to his removal. Given that the allegation was not proven, it cannot be treated as a mitigating factor when considering the appropriate penalty for Dr. Allen's misconduct.

Similarly, Dr. Allen sought to establish a connection between the present tenure charges and the basis for his 2012 reprimand. In 2012, Dr. Allen received a written reprimand after he opined to parents at a Back to School Night that the push to increase the number of students taking AP exams was tied to Ms. Steffner's compensation. In support of this theory, several teachers testified to their perceived concern or fear that Ms. Steffner might have harmed their careers or make their work life more difficult based upon real or perceived past infractions. There were no examples of Ms. Steffner either disciplining teachers or seeking to enhance negative consequences based upon this testimony. There is insufficient evidence that Ms. Steffner held a grudge against Dr. Allen for his conduct in 2012 or that this influenced her recommendation that the Board terminate Dr. Allen.

To the extent that the Board relies upon the reprimand Dr. Allen received in 2012 and suggests that this reprimand supports removal in this instance, Dr. Allen has been disciplined for his statements to parents in 2012 suggesting that Ms. Steffner's compensation may have been placed ahead of the best interests of students. For purposes of progressive discipline, the issues in dispute in this instance also involve incautious statements. The import of Dr. Allen's 2012 reprimand, however, is limited to the fact that he received it.

Dr. Allen compares his conduct to that in In re Geiger, 2015 WL 721458 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. Nov. 18, 2015) and In re Watson, 2014 WL 2480173 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. June 4, 2014). Specifically, in In re Watson, a teacher called educationally disabled students who were predominantly African American "stupid" and said they were "acting like monkeys." This teacher also grabbed a student's shirt and hit him, cursed at students and snapped a rubber band against a student's wrist. Although profanity was used in both cases, In re Watson is not analogous to Dr. Allen's situation in that there, the totality of the circumstances resulting in dismissal included corporal punishment against middle school age students. Dr. Allen emphasizes that no students witnessed his misconduct. While that is true, a situation where a teacher used profanity, made racially insensitive remarks and hit a student is not analogous to retaliation by lowering a student's grade.

Similarly, Dr. Allen would compare his circumstances, where his inappropriate conduct was not in the presence of students to In re Geiger, where students overheard two teachers making racially insensitive and profane remarks. In that instance, teachers made comments including "[t]hese negros think they're fucking tough shit," and "yeah, that's what they are, they're fucking, negros, negros, negros, negros." The Appellate Division found removal to be too extreme a penalty for Appellants because the "punishment is so disproportionate to the offense, in light of all of the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness." In re Geiger at 7 quoting In the Matter of Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 578 (1982).

Dr. Allen notes that this case does not include racially charged statements, but does include profanity or an edited stand-in for profanity, i.e. f. As noted above, Dr. Allen's situation is not analogous to Geiger, but Dr. Allen suggests that it raises factors that must be considered, including whether the statement at issue were directed at students, whether the statements were intended to be heard by students, his prior record, and disparate treatment of other teachers.

In support of a lesser penalty, Dr. Allen also asserts that removal would amount to disparate treatment. Dr. Allen points to another situation in the District where a tenured teacher allegedly swore at her class, then left the class and the school and abandoned her class. Dr. Allen knew about this incident from a former student who was in the class. Dr. Allen was not aware of any of the circumstances surrounding this incident. In that instance, the teacher received a letter of reprimand for a first infraction similar to the letter Dr. Allen received for his misconduct in 2012. Dr. Allen also points to instances where teachers at HCRHS engaged in misconduct without investigation or charges. These allegations include two different DUIs.

It is difficult to compare the other disciplinary situations that have arisen at HCRHS in recent years because the facts and circumstances are different. It is important to distinguish between these other situations, none of which included retaliation against a student, and the instant case. Those circumstances did not include a teacher's plan to lower a student's grade after a parent sent an email critical of the teacher. I find the other instances of discipline at HCRHS are not comparable and do not support a claim of disparate treatment.

Dr. Allen asserts that his conduct, although regrettable, does not rise to the level of warranting termination in light of all of the circumstances at issue in this case. Dr. Allen cites his distinguished career as a teacher and relatively unblemished disciplinary record. Dr. Allen cites testimony by parents, students and colleagues revealed how Dr. Allen went above and beyond in order to encourage and inspire his students. Dr. Allen also cites the numerous letters of support, as well as the approximately 150 individuals, mostly character witnesses, who were willing and eager to testify on his behalf.

Dr. Allen also sought to put the May 6th email in context by explaining the "stress" he was under both as a result of K.P. and C.N. challenging his teaching and grading all year and stress related to the illness of his eleven year old daughter. Dr. Allen also cites his efforts over the school year to assist C.N., while C.L., her mother continued to complain about his teaching causing him great stress. Dr. Allen emphasizes that the May 6, 2016 email was out of character and an aberration. This helps to explain, but does not excuse, Dr. Allen's conduct on May 6, 2016.

Dr. Allen has offered substantial support for his popularity as a teacher. Indeed, almost 150 individuals, including parents, students and colleagues were prepared to testify to his inspiring teaching ability and good character. Dr. Allen's teaching skills and character are significant and notable, and provide some defense to the pending charges.

The record establishes that Dr. Allen is an exciting and inspiring chemistry teacher who is beloved by many students and parents. Dr. Allen influenced and encouraged many students to pursue a career in science, including many who had been previously discouraged or turned off by science classes. The importance of this teaching skill and character evidence cannot be over emphasized. This evidence might be sufficient to outweigh the angry and disrespectful tone and language of Dr. Allen's May 6, 2016 email as well as his failure to maintain strict confidentiality of student information. It does not outweigh his apparent threat to retaliate against K.P. for her mother's email to Ms. Batista questioning Dr. Allen's teaching for the remainder of the school year.

Dr. Allen has raised many factors supporting the use of progressive discipline and/or forming a basis to mitigate his termination, most notably his reputation and skills as a science teacher. As noted in In re Stallworth,

> [P]rogressive discipline is not 'a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question' because 'some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record.'

Threatening or planning to retaliate against a student as a response to criticism from that student's parent is one such infraction. Retaliation by lowering a student's grade or even suggesting that the grade might be lowered eviscerates the trust necessary for teaching and learning to occur. In this instance, Dr. Allen responded to a parent's email critical of his use of class time with a statement that he would lower the student's grade from a "D" to an "F". There can be no mitigation of such apparent retaliation. Although each of the remaining infractions might be mitigated by Dr. Allen's record of exciting and inspiring teaching, the retaliatory language in his May 6, 2016 email, which was copied to the parent of the student at issue cannot be revoked. Likewise, Dr. Allen's reputation and the ability of the Board, parents and students to trust Dr. Allen cannot be rehabilitated. Threatening retaliation against a student is not suitable for progressive discipline.

In sum, I find that Dr. Allen engaged in unbecoming conduct when he threatened retaliation against student K.P., directed profanity at Ms. Batista, his supervisor; violated the confidentiality and privacy of students K.P., C.N. and others, and by disparaging or mocking students in email exchanges with his wife over the District's email server. The significant mitigating circumstances of Dr. Allen's popularity as a teacher might serve to reduce the penalty for most of the proven charges, but cannot overcome the charge that Dr. Allen threatened to lower K.P.'s grade in retaliation for her mother's email to Ms. Batista which angered him. As a result of his threat, which was sent to K.P.'s parent, there is no basis for the Board, parents or students to trust him as a teacher in the future. Accordingly, I find that the Board has established that Dr. Allen has engaged in unbecoming conduct that supports his dismissal from his position as a tenured teacher at HCRHS.

Re: In the Matter of the Princeton Charter School's Application to Amend its Charter, ~~Appellate~~ Division Docket No. A-2765-16

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the Princeton Board of Education's (Board) Motion to Stay my February 28, 2017 decision granting Princeton Charter School's (PCS) request to amend its charter, pending appeal of the decision to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

The February 28, 2017 decision approved an application submitted by PCS to amend its charter, permitting it to: (1) implement a weighted lottery to provide economically disadvantaged students a 2:1 enrollment preference, and; (2) expand enrollment. Thereafter, on March 10, 2017, the Board appealed the decision to the Appellate Division, and on March 17, 2017, the Board requested a stay to enjoin PCS from implementing the weighted lottery and expansion pending resolution of the appeal.

By way of background, PCS has been operating a charter school in Princeton, New Jersey since the 1997-1998 school year. Prior to the February 28, 2017 amendment, PCS had been serving 348 students in grades K through 8, with principal entry points in Kindergarten and 3rd grade. On November 28, 2016, PCS filed an application to amend its charter to implement a weighted lottery and expand enrollment by 76 students. The integrated plan, designed to achieve the goals of diversity and increased access for disadvantaged students, was proposed to phase in beginning in September of 2017.

According to documents submitted in connection with its application, PCS's Charter mission articulates a goal of bridging the gap in achievement that is based on low socio-economic status, yet it was concerned that it wasn't serving a proportionate share of economically disadvantaged students. PCS requested approval to implement a weighted lottery to directly increase the proportion of economically disadvantaged students at PCS, and encourage a larger pool of economically disadvantaged applicants through public awareness.

In addition, PCS sought to add a second section to its Kindergarten and first grade classes for the 2017-2018 academic year; an additional second grade class in 2018-2019. These changes were proposed to remedy a number of practical issues. PCS has a large number of applicants, and must waitlist many students due to an established sibling preference. By expanding enrollment, more families will be given an opportunity to attend, which may also help to diversify the student body.

After PCS submitted its application, the Board filed a complaint in Superior Court on December 27, 2016, citing violation of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA). PCS subsequently filed a counterclaim.

On January 30, 2017, the Board sent a letter to the Department contesting the amendment application. The same day, PCS filed a supplemental memorandum in further support of its application. Based on my review of all of the submissions by the parties, I approved PCS's application to amend its charter. According to PCS's brief opposing the stay, once the decision was issued, it began taking certain steps toward implementing the amendment. PCS asserts that it engaged in extensive, multi-lingual outreach, and conducted a lottery for admission for the 2017-2018 school year (including the additional newly approved 54 seats). The results of that lottery were shared with the parents of applicants that same day. PCS also represents in its brief that it entered into a contract with a modular building vendor to accommodate the additional students, and began activities to recruit additional personnel.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a motion for stay is considered an extraordinary remedy that may only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met each prong of the four-pronged standard for the granting of interim relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Thus, a stay may be granted where necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Id. at 132-134.

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the Board has failed to meet the standard required for a stay of the February 28, 2017 decision, for the reasons set forth more fully below. Accordingly, the Board's request for a stay is denied.

(1) The Board Has Not Demonstrated That It Is Likely to Prevail on the Merits of its Underlying Claim

The Board suggests that the February 28, 2017 approval decision is "insufficient" to withstand scrutiny on appeal, and thus, it is likely to prevail on the merits. The scope of judicial review of agency action is limited. In the Matter of the Proposed Quest Academy Charter Sch. of Montclair Founders Group, 216 N.J. 370, 386 (2013) (citation omitted). An agency's final decision will be sustained unless there is a clear showing that it is arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. Id. Three channels of inquiry inform the appellate review function: (1) whether the agency's action violates express or implied legislative policies; (2) whether the record contains substantial evidence to support the findings on which the agency based its action; and (3) whether in applying the legislative policies to the facts, the agency clearly erred in reaching a conclusion that could not reasonably have been made on a showing of the relevant factors. Id. In this case, as set forth in greater detail below, the record clearly supports the decision to approve PCS's application and so the Board is not likely to prevail on the merits of its appeal.

Many factors are considered in deciding whether to approve a charter school amendment request. Although the overall analysis is holistic, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq., I chiefly consider the charter school's potential to improve pupil learning and increase the educational options available to New Jersey families. My decision to approve PCS's application was specifically informed by a review of student performance on statewide assessments, operational stability, fiscal viability, public comment, and fiscal impact on sending districts.

A. Performance on Statewide Assessments

Student performance at PCS is remarkable. In weighing the amendment request, we analyzed the performance of PCS students on statewide assessments over a four year period. In 2012-13 and 2013-14, PCS received the highest rank possible based on the standards outlined in the Office of Charter and Renaissance School's Performance Framework – a Tier Rank 1. In 2014-15 and 2015-16, based on PARCC results, the school outperformed both the state and home district of Princeton in English language arts (ELA) and mathematics in the elementary grades 3-5 and middle grades 6-8. For the 2015-16 school year, PCS students ranked in the 99th percentile statewide for ELA and the 100th percentile statewide for math on the PARCC. Even though PCS only serves students in grades K through 8, 95 percent met or exceeded expectations in Algebra 1, and 100 percent of them met or exceeded expectations in Geometry. The school-wide median growth scores in both subjects exceeded statewide averages. Student growth in 2015-16 was 67 in ELA and 66 in math, above the statewide median of 50 in both subjects.

B. Operational Stability

PCS's initial charter was granted in 1997 and the school is currently in its 20th year of operation. After the first initial four year charter term, PCS has undergone comprehensive reviews every five years. The most recent comprehensive review was performed in 2015-16, when the school was granted another charter term. There is no record of PCS ever receiving a warning of probation or being placed on probation during its twenty years of operation.

The record reflects a strong community demand for additional enrollment slots. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.2, all charter schools are required to submit an annual report including, among other things, enrollment data and the number of applicants who were placed on a waitlist in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:11-4.5. In considering PCS's amendment application, the Department analyzed the reports submitted by PCS between 2013 and 2015 and found that enrollment has remained at or near maximum each year. Further, the school has maintained a waitlist in each of those years of between 92 to 133 students, suggesting a strong demand for the charter school within the community. PCS has requested an increase of 54 students for the 2017-18 school year, and an additional 22 students for the 2018-19 school year for a total of 76 additional students. According to the most recent annual report (from 2015-16), 122 students were waitlisted that year. That is nearly twice the number of additional seats requested through 2019, indicating that PCS has the potential to easily fill the slots.

PCS's former (pre-amendment) admissions policy allowed for 19 new students in kindergarten, two in first grade, one in second grade, and 24 in third grade. According to the amendment request, and confirmed by the grade delineated waitlist numbers, parents are less inclined to move their children from the Princeton Public School elementary schools in third grade due to disruption in academics, social relationships, and in the case of disadvantaged students, services they may be receiving in the District's schools. The amended enrollment configuration allows for a greater number of students to be enrolled in kindergarten, reducing the number of students who would suffer a break in educational continuity during the elementary school years.

In its amendment request, PCS indicated that there would be no change to the current administrative structure. However, to accommodate the additional students, the school will add instructional and special education positions. PCS's history of successful comprehensive charter reviews, record of outstanding academic results, desirability in the community, and implementation of a weighted lottery, all support the conclusion that the current administrative structure will not only support the expansion request, but also provide the community with a greater opportunity to serve its economically disadvantaged students.

C. Fiscal Viability

Since 2012, PCS has remained at or near maximum enrollment every year. Between 2012 and 2016, final enrollment counts were between 344 and 348. Such consistently high enrollment assists the school in maintaining a fund balance year after year. The school's financial stability is corroborated by a review of the independent audits submitted annually to the Department since 2012 (the review period), none of which resulted in any findings.

D. Public Comment

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6(c), the Board exercised its right to submit comments regarding the amendment request. I also received correspondence from members of the public whose children attend Princeton Public School District. In assessing PCS's request, my staff and I reviewed the public comments that we received both in favor of the amendment request, and opposed to it. I took those opinions into account when making my determination, in conjunction with the other factors, as part of a holistic analysis.

E. Fiscal Impact on Sending Districts

Based on the October 15, 2016 count, there were approximately 348 students enrolled at PCS. The expansion request increased PCS enrollment to the requested 424 students. Assuming stable enrollment in the Princeton Public School district (which has a current resident enrollment of 3,672) this would result in a minor increase of the district's enrollment going to PCS through 2022. The impact on the sending district would be an approximate 2 percent enrollment reduction over the next four years.

Because the February 28, 2017 decision is supported by the record and is not arbitrary or capricious, PPS is unlikely to prevail on the merits of its appeal, and thus, the stay must be denied. Moreover, the February 28, 2017 decision is sufficient. N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6 governs amendments to charters, and provides that the Department shall determine whether amendments are eligible for approval, and evaluate the amendments based on the Charter School Program Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq.

> [N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.6(d) (emphasis added)].

The Board's argument that the February 28 decision will be overturned as "insufficient" fails to acknowledge the distinction between the level of detail required in decisions approving amendment or renewal applications, versus decisions to deny initial charter school applications. Decisions approving amendment or renewal applications need not set forth detailed or formalized reasoning, because the school's performance record is available for evaluation. Therefore, the supposition and predictions that necessarily permeate the approval process for initial applications no longer exist. See I/M/O Grant of Renewal Application of the Red Bank Charter Sch., Monmouth Cnty., 367 N.J. Super. 462, 474-75 (App. Div. 2004).

An extensive record was available to support the approval of PCS's request, including standardized test scores, a history of successful comprehensive reviews conducted pursuant to charter term renewals, annual waitlist figures, enrollment data, and audits.

(2) The Board Has Not Shown That It Will Suffer Immediate Irreparable Harm if a Stay Is Not Granted

The Board articulates three alleged harms that would occur if a stay is not granted. First, it asserts that a PCS expansion will require the Board to begin paying more tuition for charter school students, resulting in concomitant budget cuts requiring the elimination of programs and staff. The funding impact of charter school enrollment on public schools was contemplated by the Legislature as an appropriate allocation of resources to foster the policy goals of the Charter School Program Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq. See N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-12; N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-2. Financial impact is only a basis for denying a charter amendment application if the District can make a preliminary showing that the effect of funding a charter school would render the district unable to provide a thorough and efficient education to the pupils it serves. See In Re Grant of the Charter Sch. Application of Englewood on the Palisades Charter Sch., 164 N.J. 316 (2000). Here, the Board has made no such claim. The only issue the Board raises is a concern that a denial of the stay could result in layoffs, and the same teachers that may be laid off may not be available for rehire should the Board ultimately prevail in its appeal. The Board has not suggested that the amendment would impact its ability to provide a thorough and efficient education. Princeton Public Schools are the 5th highest spending district in the state for a district of its size, and one of the top rated school districts in the State. The district spends approximately $24,000 annually per pupil—around 25 percent more than the statewide average of $19,000. The PCS expansion will only result in a two percent reduction in the Board's budget through 2022.

In the absence of showing harm to itself, the Board asserts potential harm on behalf of students, and, remarkably, PCS as a basis for the stay. These alleged harms fail to meet the Crowe standard: whether the movant will suffer irreparable injury. The Board asserts that if a stay is not granted, the additional students enrolled in PCS would suffer from a break in educational continuity if the Board prevails and they must be returned to the District. However, as discussed at length above, the Board is unlikely to prevail on the merits of its appeal. In the unlikely event the Board does prevail, nothing prevents the Appellate Division from fashioning an Order that would prevent a mid-year disruption in affected students' education.

Finally, the Board's suggestion that PCS itself faces a risk of harm if the stay is not granted is meritless. PCS has full knowledge of the risk in implementing an expansion project while an appeal is pending, and chooses to move forward based on its assessment of that risk.

(3) The Board Has Not Established the Remaining Crowe Factors

Balancing the equities, PCS has taken steps in reliance on the decision, and a stay would disrupt the reasonable expectations of families that are planning to send their children to PCS in the upcoming school year. The Board has also failed to demonstrate that the legal right underlying its claims is well-settled. As demonstrated above, the record supports the approval of a weighted lottery in favor of economically disadvantaged students, and expanded enrollment to further goals of diversity.

Accordingly, as the Board has not demonstrated that it is likely to prevail on the merits of its underlying claim, and has not satisfied any of the other Crowe factors, its request for a stay of the February 28, 2017 decision is hereby DENIED.*

Kimberley Harrington

Procedural History

On July 14, 2014, the Bound Brook Board of Education considered tenure charges against Bound Brook High School math teacher Glen Ciripompa. The charges alleged conduct unbecoming a teacher related to Respondent's inappropriate use of the District's computer network and his District-provided computer and IPad (Count I) and inappropriate interactions with female staff members (Count II). The Board of Education found merit to the charges and certified the charges to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education. An arbitrator was assigned to hear the charges, and hearings were conducted in September 2014. On October 20, 2014, the Arbitrator issued an Award finding that the District proved the allegations in Count I, but failed to prove the allegations in Count II because Respondent's interactions with the female staff members did not "meet the generally recognized definition of hostile environment sexual harassment." (emphasis in original) As to Count I, the Arbitrator found that the District had not shown that the charges "justify the removal of Respondent from his tenured teaching position." His finding was based, in part, on the testimony of a psychiatrist, who testified that Respondent "understood his lapse in judgment and was extremely unlikely to engage in the behavior again." He reduced the disciplinary penalty to a suspension without pay of 120 days.

The District filed an action in the Superior Court of New Jersey to vacate the Award. On January 8, 2015, the Court responded affirmatively, vacating the Award because the Arbitrator erroneously considered the conduct under New Jersey's sexual harassment laws, improperly excluded evidence related to a Twitter posting that prompted the District's investigation into Respondent's computer use, and allowed and relied on testimony from the psychiatrist. The Court remanded the case to be heard by a different arbitrator.

The Superior Court was reversed by the Appellate Division on October 29, 2015, and the Award was reinstated. On February 21, 2017, the New Jersey Supreme Court reversed the Appellate Division. The Award was once again vacated and remanded to a different arbitrator.

After the initial remand, the undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to hear the case, but the matter was held in abeyance pending the appeal process. After the Supreme Court decision, the arbitration process resumed. The parties agreed to forego further hearings. Instead, they submitted the transcripts and exhibits from the earlier hearings, excluding the testimony of the psychiatrist and admitting the previously-excluded Twitter post. The parties filed briefs in support of their respective positions, and the matter was submitted to the Arbitrator for a decision.

Statement of Relevant Facts

During the 2013-14 school year, a teacher/coach in the School District reported to then-Assistant Superintendent Daniel Gallagher that a student/athlete had told him about a Twitter posting that indicated Bound Brook teacher "Mr. C" (as Respondent is often called) was "sending out nudes." Dr. Gallagher instructed the Director of Technology to retrieve Respondent's laptop computer. The laptop was turned over to Dr. Gallagher, who conducted a search and found "probably a hundred or more emails with photos attached." The photos included pictures of "[n]aked women, body parts. Sexual body parts."

Dr. Gallagher reported his findings to the Superintendent, who instructed him to contact the Bound Brook Police Department. The police and the local prosecutor's office arrived at the school and took possession of Respondent's laptop and IPad. Dr. Gallagher retrieved copies of the emails and photos from the District's server. The District submitted into evidence 183 pages of emails and photos that were of a sexual nature. Only a few were sent during the school day, but all were sent or received on the District's computer network through Respondent's laptop or IPad.

During the same school year, the District investigated several complaints from female staff members regarding interactions with Respondent that they deemed inappropriate and made them feel uncomfortable.

ESL teacher Kristin Brucia testified that Respondent would "come up behind me and whisper that I looked nice that day or it was a nice dress or something close to my ear quietly." On Valentine's Day two years earlier, he had bought carnations from students for a fundraiser and had them delivered to her by students with anonymous notes. Later in the day, he sent her an email revealing that he had purchased the carnations and wishing her a nice Valentine's Day. She thanked him for the flowers, but told him she had a boyfriend. Before Mother's Day one year, he told her he was sending his wife to a spa for the day and asked if she wanted to bring her sons to a play date with his son. She declined.

Special Education teacher and softball coach Alexandra Shafi reported to the Athletic Director that Respondent, in the presence of two students, asked her if she "wanted to go out with him after the softball game." She refused, and he asked again. She replied no again. Later that day, he attended the softball game for a short period of time, which gave her "an eerie feeling."

Music teacher Marian Stewart testified that Respondent made her "uncomfortable" when he made a joking comment, in the presence of a student, implying that her pants were too tight.

Art teacher Elizabeth Levering testified that Respondent overheard her conversation with a co-worker about her boyfriend's work travel. Respondent approached her and offered his assistance "if I needed anything while the boyfriend was away." Another time, while she was hanging art projects, Respondent "was in my personal space a little bit" and told her "how good I looked in a pair of jeans."

The discovery of sexually related emails on his computer and IPad and the reports from female staff members of inappropriate interactions led the District to file the tenure charges for conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Issue

Has the School District of Bound Brook Borough established the allegations of conduct unbecoming against Respondent Glenn Ciripompa as set forth in the tenure charges? If so, do those charges warrant dismissal? To what remedies are the parties entitled?

Analysis and Decision

Respondent did not testify at the arbitration hearing. Accordingly, the evidence and testimony offered by the School District is uncontroverted. The issue, therefore, is whether the proven conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher; and if so, does it warrant dismissal? In the appeal of the first arbitration award in the present case, the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the standard for unbecoming conduct as follows,

> "A charge of unbecoming conduct requires only evidence of inappropriate conduct by teaching professionals. It focuses on the morale, efficiency, and public perception of an entity, and how those concerns are harmed by allowing teachers to behave inappropriately while holding public employment." Bound Brook Board of Education v. Ciripompa, 288 N.J. 4, 14 (2017)

Count I – Network/Computer Use

There is no real dispute that Respondent's use of the School District computer and IPad and the District's computer network to send and receive emails of a sexual nature, including naked photos, is inappropriate conduct by a teaching professional and constitutes conduct unbecoming. Although Respondent argues that his conduct does not warrant dismissal, he does not challenge the conclusion that he engaged in unbecoming conduct. Even though he does not contest the charge of conduct unbecoming, it is necessary to highlight the number and nature of those emails to appreciate the severity of Respondent's infractions.

The District submitted 183 pages of inappropriate emails and emailed photos. Respondent notes that only 4 emails were sent during the school day (another 13 were received during the school day), and none were sent when Respondent had students in the classroom. But whether they were sent during or outside the school day, the fact remains that all the emails were sent or received on a District computer and IPad and on the District's network in clear violation of the Acceptable Use Policy.

The emails were directed at contacting and engaging sex partners through craigslist or other websites and included Respondent and the potential sex partners exchanging naked or near naked photos. I see no reason to repeat in this Award, which will become public, the exact quotes from the emails. But in many instances, Respondent contacted the potential sex partners, and they asked him to verify his age and identity through certain websites. In at least one case, a woman quoted prices for her services; and in others, the potential sex partners and/or Respondent described the sexual activities in which they wanted to engage. Many of the emails included naked pictures of the potential sex partners and pictures of Respondent.

The District Policy on Acceptable Use of Computer Network(s)/Computers clearly prohibits any use for illegal, inappropriate, or obscene purposes. Although, as noted, at least one potential sex partner quoted prices for her services, the District cannot show that Respondent's computer activities were illegal in any way. The police and prosecutor were called into the case, and the record does not indicate that Respondent was ever charged with criminal activity. The emails, however, are clearly inappropriate and obscene as defined by the Policy.

"Inappropriate activities" indicate any activities "that violate the intended use of the network(s)." The Policy states, "The Board provides access to computer network(s)/computers for administrative and educational purposes only." Solicitation of sex serves no administrative or educational purpose for the benefit of the District or its students.

"Obscene activities" are defined as "a violation of generally accepted social standards for use of publicly owned and operated communication vehicles." (emphasis added) If Respondent engaged in these activities through his own computer, the District would arguably have no basis for discipline absent some greater nexus to the workplace. But Respondent sent these emails and photos on District computers and on the District network for his own purposes. It seems obvious to state that the use of the District computers and network to engage in personal behavior of a sexual nature is in violation of generally accepted social standards, and therefore, constitutes "obscene activities" under the Policy.

Respondent's use of the District's computer network and computers for these purposes is inappropriate conduct for a teaching professional and in violation of the Acceptable Use policy. For these reasons, I find that the District has established the allegation of conduct unbecoming in Count I of the tenure charges.

Count II – Interaction with Female Staff

Respondent challenges the assertion that his interactions with female staff members Brucia, Shafi, Stewart, and Levering were inappropriate and constituted conduct unbecoming.

The Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy requires staff to "be appropriate at all times" when completing their professional responsibilities. It focuses mainly on interaction with students, but cautions that staff "shall not engage in inappropriate language or expression in the presence of pupils." The Sexual Harassment Policy recognizes "[o]ffensive speech and conduct" as "wholly inappropriate;" and it defines sexual harassment to include "unwelcome sexual advances" and "verbal or physical contacts of a sexual nature."

Respondent violated those policies in his interactions with female staff. Respondent would come up behind Brucia and whisper comments about her physical appearance or dress. If he was simply complimenting her, his behavior may be viewed innocently. But the fact that he came up to her from behind and whispered "close to my ear quietly" is more indicative of contact of a sexual nature. He also sent her carnations with his identity unknown to her but known to the students who sold the carnations and had to deliver them to Brucia – an inappropriate expression in the presence of the students in violation of the Inappropriate Conduct Policy. Finally, he suggested a play date between their sons because he had send his wife away for the day – a suggestion that could reasonably be taken as an unwelcome sexual advance when considered in light of his other inappropriate behavior toward Brucia.

Despite Shafi's "eerie feeling," Respondent's attendance at her softball game does not violate any policy, particularly since he did not engage in any inappropriate activity at the game. But he asked her out on a date in the presence of students – another clear violation of the Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy. It may be acceptable to ask her out, but it was wholly inappropriate to do so in front of students.

Similarly, he made a joking reference to Stewart's tight pants, which should not have been done in front of a student. The student questioned Stewart as to the meaning of Respondent's comment, which drives home the point that the behavior was inappropriate in front of the student and was in violation of the Inappropriate Staff Conduct Policy.

Respondent's offer of assistance to Levering while her boyfriend was away is subject to interpretation. It may be a kind offer of help, or it may be an unwelcome sexual advance, depending on how it was said and intended. There is not enough evidence to label it a violation of policy. But his comment about how good she looked in jeans while standing "in [her] personal space" is similar to his quiet whisper into Brucia's ear. The context and substance of the comment suggest an unwelcome sexual advance or contact of a sexual nature in violation of the Sexual Harassment policy.

The policies define and regulate appropriate conduct among and between staff. Violations of the policies, by definition, constitute inappropriate conduct by a teaching professional. Accordingly, I find that the District has established the allegation of conduct unbecoming in Count II of the tenure charges.

Appropriate Disciplinary Penalty

The egregiousness of Respondent's behavior should be evident. Entrusted with the education of high school students and expected to further the mission of the School District, he used District resources and equipment for his own personal use and in a manner that would be offensive to students, parents, and the public. He engaged in personal and private matters on the District's time and over the District's computer network. The exchange of naked pictures and the search for sex partners have no place in an educational setting. He blatantly disregarded and repeatedly violated District policies. His interactions with female co-workers were unwelcome, made them feel uncomfortable, and caused them to try and avoid him during the school day. Because of the number of times he used the computer for inappropriate reasons and the number of times he conducted himself inappropriately with female staff, his behavior cannot be attributed to a lapse in judgment. Rather, his conduct demonstrated a pattern of willful violations of policy and an astounding lack of any sense of boundaries for a teaching professional who is well-trained in the appropriate conduct expected of him.

Respondent cites In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 401 (App. Div. 1967) for its holding that a determination of penalty requires consideration of the nature and gravity of the offense under all the circumstances involved; any extenuating or aggravating circumstances; and the harm or injurious effect the conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. (at 422) The paragraph above adequately captures the serious nature and gravity of the Respondent's infractions. He has offered no mitigating circumstances or other justification or explanation for his behavior. And as the District argues, he has shown no remorse for his actions. The repetitive nature of the violations serve as aggravating circumstances. And his actions had an injurious effect on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school. Respondent's actions led the District to conduct an investigation that led to an embarrassing and shocking discovery, compelled the District to contact local police and prosecutor, would tend to negatively affect the public's view of the District and its administration and staff if it learned of the conduct, and revealed the uncomfortable and humiliating situations in which he placed female staff in the presence of students.

Courts have held that focus in determining the penalty should be on the employee's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his position. In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974); In re Young, 202 N.J. 50 (2010). Respondent's computer activities, repeated numerous times in willful disregard of the Acceptable Use Policy, call into serious question his fitness as a teacher. His lack of any sense of boundaries and his abdication of his professional responsibilities as an educator make his judgment suspect. Respondent's absence of remorse does not offer any reason to conclude that he will not engage in similar behavior in the future. His interactions with his female colleagues reinforce the questions about his judgment, sense of responsibility and propriety, and ultimately, his fitness as a teacher.

Respondent contends that the Acceptable Use Policy mandates progressive discipline. But its reference to the sanctions that may be imposed for computer/network misuse is not couched in terms of a progressive disciplinary approach; but rather, it is a listing of the possible sanctions for such misuse from supervised computer privileges to criminal prosecution, depending on the nature or severity of the conduct. It makes clear that "any appropriate action" may be taken by the District.

In the present case, due to the egregiousness of Respondent's conduct and the repeated nature of the violations in willful disregard of District policies, dismissal is an appropriate penalty.

For these reasons, I find that the tenure charges in Counts I and II warrant dismissal.

Award

The School District of Bound Brook Borough has established its allegations of conduct unbecoming in Counts I and II of the tenure charges against Respondent Glenn Ciripompa. The charges are sufficient to warrant dismissal.

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF FACTS

This emergent matter arises from a dispute between petitioner Drew Packard (Packard) and the Board of Education of the Borough of Carteret (Board) in which Packard challenges the Board's decision to suspend him from his position as a Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds and seeks immediate reinstatement to his position. Packard, who has worked for the Board since 1974, is currently employed as Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds. He is a tenured employee.

At a meeting on April 26, 2017, the Board voted to suspend Packard indefinitely and without pay, beginning on April 27, 2017, "for theft of services from the District as well as creating a hostile work environment for the employees in Building and Grounds."[1] Certification of Martin Murray, Board President, ¶ 3. The Board's Superintendent, Kevin Ahern, was present at the meeting, but he neither affirmatively recommended nor opposed Packard's suspension. Id. at ¶¶ 5, 7; Certification of Kevin Ahern, ¶¶ 2-3. After the meeting, Superintendent Ahern notified another Board employee, Jon Toth, that he would assume Packard's duties "until further notice." April 26, 2017, Email from Ahern to Jon Toth, P-1.

On May 3, 2017, Packard filed with the Commissioner of Education a petition of appeal and a request for emergent relief seeking his immediate reinstatement to his position, with pay, retroactive to April 27, 2017. In the petition, Packard argues that he is entitled to reinstatement for two reasons. First, "N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 expressly provides that no school district employee may be suspended without pay other than by reason of indictment or certified tenure charges," but that, at the time of his suspension, Packard had neither been indicted on criminal charges nor subject to tenure charges. Petition of Appeal, ¶¶ 6-8. Second, Packard argues that "N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 expressly provides that a board of education cannot remove a school district employee in the absence of the recommendation of the chief school administrator," but that Superintendent Ahern never recommended Packard's suspension to the Board. Id. at ¶¶ 9, 13.

In its answer, the Board asserts that "[a]s of May 9, 2017, the District has authorized payment to [Packard], inclusive of all back pay due and owed at this time" and that Packard "will receive his salary moving forward while he remains on suspended status." Answer, ¶ 3. The Board denies that its action to suspend Packard violated N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 or N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.

On May 4, 2017, the Commissioner transmitted Packard's request for emergent relief to the OAL for an immediate hearing. At the hearing, which was held on May 10,

[1] The Board notified Packard of the meeting beforehand. Murray Cert., ¶ 2.

2017, Packard argued that he is entitled to emergent relief in the form of immediate reinstatement to his position, with pay, because, otherwise, his reputation in the community will be irrevocably damaged; because the Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 by suspending him without Superintendent Ahern's recommendation;[2] and, because he will suffer more than the Board will suffer if emergent relief is not granted.[3]

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The regulations governing controversies and disputes before the Commissioner of Education provide that "[w]here the subject matter of the controversy is a particular course of action by a district board of education. . . the petitioner may include with the petition of appeal, a separate motion for emergent relief or a stay of that action pending the Commissioner's final decision in the contested case." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). The regulations further provide that the Commissioner may "[t]ransmit the motion to the OAL for immediate hearing on the motion." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(c)(3). At such a hearing, the petitioner must show by clear and convincing evidence that he satisfies each of the following four standards:

[2] In light of the fact that he is now suspended with pay and will receive back pay for the period in which he was suspended without pay, Packard no longer maintains that his suspension violates N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, under which,

> [a]ny employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary[.]
> [Ibid.]

However, the Board is reminded that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 does not authorize Packard's indefinite suspension with pay for an unreasonable amount of time. See Migliaccio v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Paterson, 1990 S.L.D. 294 (concluding that a suspension with pay "levied against a tenured employee may not be continued indefinitely in derogation of the employee's tenure rights" and that "as suggested by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, the intendment of any paid suspension is to conduct an investigation, hearing or trial, absent the filing of tenure charges or, perhaps, to await disposition of an indictment").

[3] At the hearing, the Board stated that it has referred the matter involving Packard to the county prosecutor's office.

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) (citing Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982)); Garden State Equal. v. Dow, 216 N.J. 314, 320 (2013) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, the purpose of emergent relief is "to 'prevent some threatening, irreparable mischief, which should be averted until opportunity is afforded for a full and deliberate investigation of the case.'" Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132 (citing Thompson ex rel. Bd. of Chosen Freeholders v. Paterson, 9 N.J. Eq. 624, 625 (Sup. Ct. 1854)).

Irreparable Harm

First, Packard has failed to show that he will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. Under this standard, "harm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages," Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132-33. Here, Packard is now suspended with pay, and will receive back pay for the period in which he was suspended without pay. Thus, in this regard, Packard's continued suspension will not cause him irreparable harm.

Moreover, Packard has failed to show how any damage to his reputation due to his suspension constitutes irreparable harm. In support of this argument, Packard relies on Sanchez, v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Camden, Commissioner's Decision 107-03 (March 6, 2003), affirmed, State Bd. of Educ. (June 4, 2003) <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>, in which the Commissioner found that a tenured principal who was transferred to an acting vice principal position without any loss of salary would, nonetheless, suffer irreparable harm to her reputation if not returned to a principal position to which she was legally entitled, because "the illegal transfer and the consequent de facto demotion to the separate and subordinate position of Acting Vice Principal can never be adequately addressed over time, nor can monetary damages ameliorate the blemish on her professional standing among her peers and her reputation in the school district and in the community."

Here, however, the situation is more akin to Lewis v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Asbury Park, EDU 8425-09, Comm'r (September 16, 2009), in which the Commissioner determined that the petitioner, a tenured principal whom the school board declined to appoint to a principal position after his superintendent contract had expired, failed to provide any support for his claim that he would suffer irreparable harm to his reputation if was not immediately placed in a principal position. Like in Lewis, Packard has failed to clearly and convincingly show that his reputation will be damaged irreparably if he is not immediately reinstated, but has instead offered vague descriptions of community gossip and rumors about him due to his suspension. And, unlike in Sanchez and as discussed more fully below, it is not apparent that Packard's suspension is illegal.

Settled Legal Right

Second, Packard has failed to show that the legal right underlying his claim is settled. In this regard, emergent relief "should be withheld when the legal right underlying plaintiff's claim is unsettled." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Citizens Coach Co. v. Camden H. R. Co., 29 N.J.Eq. 299, 304-305 (E & A 1878)). Here, it is not settled that, as Packard argues, a school board must act in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 if it seeks to suspend a tenured employee for suspected misconduct, such that a school board cannot suspend a tenured employee without a prior recommendation from its chief school administrator.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(a), "[a] board of education shall appoint, transfer or remove a certificated or non-certificated officer or employee only upon the recommendation of the chief school administrator and by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board." Ibid. The parties do not dispute that the Board, by a majority vote, suspended Packard from his position, but do dispute whether the Board could do so without Superintendent Ahern's recommendation. While N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 prohibits a school board from appointing, transferring, or removing an employee without the chief school administrator's recommendation, that provision does not explicitly address a school board's authority to suspend a tenured employee such as Packard without the chief school administrator's recommendation.[4] Here, Packard was suspended, and not removed, from his position.

Packard's legal right to reinstatement under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 simply is not apparent from a reading of that statutory provision. Nonetheless it is important to note that, while Superintendent Ahern did not affirmatively recommend Packard's suspension, he was not oblivious to, or blindsided by, the Board's action. Instead, Superintendent Ahern was present at the meeting in which the Board voted to suspend Packard and he took action to ensure that someone carried out Packard's duties during his suspension.[5]

Likelihood of Success on the Merits

Under the third emergent relief standard, "a plaintiff must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133 (citing Ideal Laundry Co. v. Gugliemone, 107 N.J. Eq. 108, 115-16 (E. & A. 1930)), but Packard also fails to meet this standard because he has not shown that the Board did not have the authority to suspend Packard without Superintendent Ahern's affirmative recommendation.

[4] N.J.S.A. 18A:25-6 specifically addresses the procedure for suspending assistant superintendents, principals, and teachers, but not employees such as Packard. Under that provision, "[t]he superintendent of schools may, with the approval of the president or presidents of the board or boards employing him, suspend any assistant superintendent, principal or teaching staff member, and shall report such a suspension to the board or boards forthwith" and "[t]he board or boards, each by a recorded roll call majority vote of its membership, shall take such action for the restoration or removal of such person as it shall deem proper[.]" Ibid.

Certainly, the chief school administrator plays an important, and in many instances, legal, role in personnel decisions. However, again, Packard has not shown that the Board acted in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1 or otherwise did not have the authority to suspend Packard without Superintendent Ahern's prior recommendation.

[5] The Board also suggested, albeit vaguely, at oral argument on Packard's motion for emergent relief that Superintendent Ahern's ability to recommend Packard's suspension may have been compromised as his conduct is under current review as well.

Lastly, Packard fails to meet the fourth emergent relief standard, which involves "the relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 134 (citing Isolantite Inc. v. United Elect. Radio & Mach. Workers, 130 N.J.Eq. 506, 515 (Ch.1941), mod. on other grounds, 132 N.J.Eq. 613 (E. & A. 1942)). If emergent relief is denied, Packard will continue to serve a suspension with pay. However, if emergent relief is granted, the Board will be forced to reinstate an employee who has been accused of serious misconduct, including "theft of services" resulting in a referral to the county prosecutor's office as well as creating a hostile work environment. Thus, the equities favor the Board.

CONCLUSION

Emergent relief in favor of Packard is inappropriate because he has failed to show by clear and convincing evidence that he meets any of the four standards for emergent relief.

ORDER

Petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

J.T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, J.T., A.T., AND B.T.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

In November 2016, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that his children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner contended that he resides at an address in Monmouth Junction, which is within the South Brunswick school district. The Board contended that a residency investigation revealed that petitioner and his children actually reside in Franklin Township. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, asserting that the petition was late filed. An Initial Decision was issued in this matter on March 8, 2017, wherein the ALJ concluded that the petition was late filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). The ALJ denied the petitioner's appeal and ordered tuition reimbursement for the period of ineligible attendance. The Commissioner subsequently remanded the case to the OAL, finding that the ALJ had failed to include a factual discussion or make any factual findings in his decision, as is required under N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3.

On remand: the ALJ laid out findings of fact related to the timeliness of the petition, and found that the facts of this matter were set forth in respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss and in a certification from the Superintendent of Schools, both of which were incorporated in the decision as attachments; and the tuition cost per pupil for grades 6-8 was $11,873 for the 2015-2016 school year, or $66.00 per day. The ALJ concluded that: petitioner failed to timely file a residency appeal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b); neither petitioner nor his children resided in respondent's school district, and petitioner failed to sustain his burden of proof to establish that J.T., A.T., and B.T. were entitled to attend school in the South Brunswick school district; and the Board is owed tuition in the amount of $66.00 per day, per child, for the period of ineligible attendance.

The Commissioner noted that the ALJ erred in determining that the petition should be dismissed as untimely; further, the ALJ again failed to make factual findings or include the factual discussion that is required under N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3. Accordingly, the Commissioner summarized the facts of the matter in the final decision in order to provide support for the legal conclusion that petitioner was not domiciled in the school district, and therefore his children were not entitled to a free public education in South Brunswick schools. In addition, the Commissioner corrected the amount of tuition due, and ordered that petitioner owes the respondent Board tuition reimbursement in the total amount of $35,462. The petition was dismissed.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON REMAND
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's April 20, 2017 decision remanding this matter for inclusion of a factual discussion. The parties did not file exceptions.

While the Initial Decision contains some findings of fact, such findings relate solely to the timeliness of the petition. The remaining factual findings appear to have been incorporated through a 60 page attachment – including the Board's entire brief in support of its motion to dismiss, the exhibits attached to the brief, and the certification of Gary McCartney and the exhibits attached thereto. As the ALJ did not make specific factual findings regarding the merits of whether petitioner resides in South Brunswick, the facts of this matter are summarized as follows.[1]

Petitioner enrolled his three children in the District's schools for the 2016-2017 school year, and provided a copy of a lease indicating that he lived at a South Brunswick rental

property. (Certification of Gary McCartney, ¶ 3-4) Upon discovering that petitioner did not live at the South Brunswick rental property, the Board initiated a residency investigation. (Id. at ¶ 5-6) The Board's investigator conducted surveillance between September 1 and October 24, 2016, at the South Brunswick rental property, as well as at petitioner's Franklin Township home. (Id. at ¶ 7-8) The investigator observed the South Brunswick rental property on 27 occasions and never saw petitioner or any activity at the home. (Id. at ¶ 10) By contrast, the investigator observed the Franklin Township home on 31 occasions and saw petitioner's cars parked outside and in the garage on 28 occasions, and the same cars were also seen dropping off the minor children at the bus stop near the South Brunswick property several times. (Id. at ¶ 11-12)

On October 13, 2016, the Board informed petitioner of a residency hearing before the Board to be held on October 24, 2016. (Id. at ¶ 13) By letter dated October 25, 2016, the Board informed petitioner of its determination that petitioner resides in Franklin Township and, therefore, the minor children are ineligible to attend the District's schools. (Id. at ¶ 14)

The Commissioner finds as a preliminary matter that the instant petition should not be dismissed as out of time. As the Commissioner previously noted in her April 20, 2017 decision, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, when an appeal is filed within 21 days of the date of the district's decision, no child shall be removed from the school during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. Nevertheless, appeals may be filed after expiration of the 21-day period, but the student's right to attend school during the pendency of the appeal is not guaranteed by operation of statute. See Attendance at School Based on Domicile or Residency in the School District: Sample Forms, Notices, and Informational Documents, http://www.state.nj.us/education/code/current/title6a/chap22sample.pdf, p. 15.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner notes that the Initial Decision did not contain any support for its legal conclusion except "See Certification of Gary McCartney and the investigator's report attached thereto as Exhibit A." (Initial Decision at 8). There is no explanation as to the facts on which the ALJ is relying for these conclusions of law, and indicating that the Commissioner should refer to a certification is not a substitute for written legal analysis. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.3(c). Nevertheless, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of South Brunswick for the 2016-2017 school year. The Board's investigation showed that – over nearly a two month period – on no occasion was petitioner present at his South Brunswick rental property, while on nearly every occasion, petitioner's cars – the same cars that were observed dropping the minor children off at the bus stop in South Brunswick – were at the Franklin Township location. As such, the Board's determination that petitioner did not reside in South Brunswick was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during the 2016-2017 school year.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in South Brunswick. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $35,462.00[2] ($11,873.00 each for A.T. and B.T. to attend middle school, and $11,716.00 for J.T.

[2] It appears that the ALJ used the tuition rate for grades 6-8 ($11,873.00) for all three students. The Certification of Gary McCartney indicates that A.T. and B.T. attended middle school and J.T attended high school. (¶ 16-17). The per pupil tuition costs issued by the Department of Education on February 17, 2017 indicates that the annual tuition cost for grades 6-8 is $11,873.00 and the annual tuition cost for grades 9-12 is $11,716.00.

to attend high school – based on the tuition rates for the entire 2016-2017 school year, during which petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend).[3]

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is modified as stated above and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

ACTING COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 6/19/17

Date of Mailing: 6/20/17

[3] The Initial Decision does not indicate the number of days in which the children were ineligible for school during the 2016-2017 school year and does not calculate the total amount of tuition reimbursement owed. It appears from the record that the minor children are still attending school in South Brunswick, and have for the entire school year. As the school year will be concluded by the time the parties receive this decision, the Commissioner assumes that the children attended school in the district for the full 180 days; accordingly, her assessment of tuition owed is based on attendance for the full 180 day school year.

[4] This decision may be appealed to the Superior Court, Appellate Division, pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1).

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter is before the undersigned on remand pursuant to the Decision of the Acting Commissioner of Education, dated April 20, 2017, requiring the undersigned to set forth a recitation of facts. (J-1)

Petitioner challenges Respondent Board of Education's residency determination.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 20, 2016, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13, bearing OAL Docket No. EDU 19075-16.

A prehearing conference was held on January 6, 2017. A prehearing order, dated January 6, 2017, was entered by the undersigned.

Respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petitioner's appeal with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on December 16, 2016, prior to the matter being transferred to the OAL, and before a decision on said motion was made. Respondent simultaneously filed its Answer and Cross Petition with the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes.

Pursuant to the pretrial Order entered on January 6, 2017, Petitioner was permitted ten days from the receipt of said motion to respond. No response was submitted.

On February 24, 2017, Respondent filed a certification of Gary McCartney, Superintendent of the South Brunswick Board of Education.

On March 3, 2017, Respondent's counsel provided a letter from the New Jersey Department of Education setting forth Tuition Costs per Pupil for the 2015-2016 school year.

ISSUES

1. Did Respondent err in its determination that Petitioner's three children did not reside in South Brunswick and were ineligible to attend school in the South Brunswick School District; and, is petitioners claim time barred?
2. Are Respondent's entitled tuition reimbursement?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The Preliminary Statement and the Factual Background set forth in Respondent's brief in support of its motion to dismiss, which are attached hereto and made a part hereof, are adopted herein as if set forth at length. (R-3)

The facts set forth in the Certification of Gary McCartney, which are attached hereto and made a part hereof, are adopted herein as if set forth at length. (R-4)

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The residency decision of Respondent was adopted on October 24, 2016, which determined that petitioner's children did not reside with the District, and a letter setting forth the same was mailed to the petitioner on October 25, 2016. (R-4, pg. 3, paragraphs 13 and 14)

2. Petitioner was advised in said October 25, 2016 letter that should he disagree with the District's decision he had the right to appeal within 21 days of the notice. (Exhibit C of R-3)

3. Petitioner did not file an appeal until November 22, 2016.[1] (P-1)

4. Petitioner's appeal was filed more than twenty-one days after notice of the District's decision.

[1] There are two identical residency appeals, one dated November 22, 2016 and one dated November 25, 2016. For purposes of this decision the November 22, 2016 filing date shall be used.

5. The tuition cost per pupil for grades 6-8 is $11,873 for the 2015-16 school year, or $66.00 per day. (R-5)

6. Petitioner's children did not reside with the District, and have not so resided from the 2015-2016 school year to the present. (R-2, page 2, paragraph 4; R-3; and, R-4)

7. On February 9, 2016, the District determined that neither petitioner or his children resided within the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 4)

8. The District and petitioner had previously entered into a settlement agreement on August 31, 2016, wherein petitioner represented that he was in the process of renting an apartment in the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 5)

9. The District became aware that petitioner and his children were not residing in the District and commenced a residency investigation which determined that petitioner and his children did not reside in the District. (R-2, pg. 2, paragraph 6; R-4)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Standard of Review

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g) states, "Nothing in this section precludes the filing of a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer to a petition, provided that such motion is filed within the time allotted for the filing of an answer. Briefing on such motions shall be in the manner and within the time fixed by the Commissioner, or by the ALJ if the motion is to be briefed following transmittal to the OAL."

In ruling on a motion to dismiss:

> The judge considers whether all of the evidence together with all legitimate inferences could sustain a judgment in favor of the party opposing the motion. The judge is not concerned with the weight, worth, nature or extent of the evidence. The judge must accept all evidence supporting the party defending against the motion and accord that party > the benefit of all inferences that can and legitimately be deducted therefrom...

Myles Hart v. New Jersey State Board of Examiners, 2014 WL 3708621 (citing New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice, §5, 19, at 259-60).

Petitioner did not file a response to Respondent's motion to dismiss. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides that public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:

a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;

b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in > this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. In the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

In the instant matter, Respondent notified Petitioner of the residency hearing by letter dated October 13, 2016. The residency hearing was held on October 24, 2016. By letter dated October 26, 2016, Petitioner was advised of Respondent's determination that his children were not eligible to attend school in the Respondent School District. Petitioner was advised in said letter of his right to contest Respondent School District's decision within twenty-one days. Petitioner did not file the pro se residency appeal until November 22, 2016. Said appeal was dated November 20, 2016. The twenty-one day period in which to file expired on November 15, 2016.

Right to a Free Public Education

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) sets forth the right of a student to a free public education, which in pertinent parts states:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district[.]

Consideration in proving residency for purposes of establishing eligibility for school district placement is found at N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a),

> (a) A district board of education shall accept a combination of any of the following or similar forms of documentation from persons attempting to demonstrate a student's eligibility for enrollment in the school district:
>
> 1. Property tax bills, deeds, contracts of sale, leases, mortgages, signed letters from landlords and other evidence of property ownership, tenancy or residency;
>
> 2. Voter registrations, licenses, permits, financial account information, utility bills, delivery receipts, and other evidence of personal attachment to a particular location;
>
> . . .
>
> 3. Court orders; State agency agreements; and other evidence of court or agency placements or directives;
>
>
> . . .
>
> 6. Affidavits, certifications and sworn attestations pertaining to statutory criteria for school attendance, from the parent, guardian, person keeping an "affidavit student," adult student, person(s) with whom a family is living, or others as appropriate;
>
> . . .
> 8. Any other business record or document issued by a governmental entity.

> (b) A district board of education may accept forms of documentation not listed in (a) above, and shall not exclude from consideration any documentation or information presented by a person seeking to enroll a student.
> (c) A district board of education shall consider the totality of information and documentation offered by an applicant, and shall not deny enrollment based on failure to provide a particular form of documentation, or a particular subset of documents, without regard to other evidence presented.

In S.S. ex rel. A.S. and A.S. v. Bd. of Education of the Township of Marlboro, Monmouth County, EDU 192-12, Initial Decision (August 26, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal, evidence submitted by an investigator hired by the Marlboro New Jersey School District to determine whether certain minor children who were enrolled in the school district in fact were domiciled therein within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a) was sufficient to establish that the children in fact were not domiciled in the district during the period in question and, instead, supported a conclusion that the minors resided at their grandmother's home in Edison New Jersey. Even though their mother had submitted documentation of the type described in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.4(a) that supported her claim that the minors were domiciled in Marlboro, the circumstances of the mother's employment, which included late hours, was such that the minors were properly found to be residing with their grandmother. On that basis, the administrative law judge recommended that the Department of Education find the mother liable for tuition for the minors.

In the instant matter, it is clear that neither Petitioner, nor his children, resided within Respondent's school district. (See Certification of Gary McCartney and the investigator's report attached thereto as Exhibit A)

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 states:

> (a) If an appeal to the Commissioner is filed by the parent, guardian, adult student, or school district resident > keeping an "affidavit" student and the petitioner does not sustain the burden of demonstrating the student's right to attend the school district, or the petitioner withdraws the appeal, fails to prosecute, or abandons the appeal by any means other than settlement agreeing to waive or reduce tuition, the Commissioner may assess tuition for the period during which the hearing and decision on appeal were pending, and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal.

>
> 1. Upon the Commissioner's finding that an appeal has been abandoned, the district board of education may remove the student from school and seek tuition for up to one year of ineligible attendance pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.1(a) plus the period of ineligible attendance after the appeal was filed. If the record of the appeal includes a calculation reflecting the tuition rate(s) for the year(s) at issue, the per diem tuition rate for the current year and the date on which the student's ineligible attendance began, the Commissioner may order payment of tuition as part of his or her decision. In doing so, the Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error. If the record does not include such a calculation and the district board of education has filed a counterclaim for tuition, the counterclaim shall proceed to a hearing notwithstanding that the petition has been abandoned.
> 2. An order of the Commissioner assessing tuition is enforceable through recording, upon request of the district board of education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-12, on the judgment docket of the Superior Court, Law Division, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

Cleary, Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof to demonstrate J.T., A.T. and B.T. have the right to attend the Respondent school, and Respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3 states in pertinent part: a) Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

Tuition for the 2015-2015 school year is $11,873.00, or $66.00 per day.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to timely file a residency appeal in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), and therefore the same is time barred.

I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's motion to dismiss should be GRANTED.

I further CONCLUDE neither Petitioner, nor his children, resided within Respondent's District during the 2015-2016 school year to the present and Respondent is entitled to the relief requested in its Answer and Cross Petition: reimbursement for tuition for the period of ineligible attendance for each child.

I further CONCLUDE that Respondent is entitled to an order excluding Petitioner's children from the Respondent school district.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing it is ORDERED that Respondent's motion to dismiss Petitioner's residency appeal is granted: and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's residency appeal is dismissed with prejudice; and,

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's children, J.T., A.T. and B.T. are not entitled to attend school in the Respondent school district and are excluded therefrom; and, attended school in the Respondent school district up to one year in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3.

It is further ORDERED that Respondent is entitled to tuition reimbursement from Petitioner in the amount of $66 per day per child for each day J.T., A.T. and B.T.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
GLADYS RIVERA AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a former member of the Bloomfield Board of Education (Board) – challenged the eligibility of respondent, Gladys Rivera – currently a member of the Board – to serve in that capacity, based on a residency requirement. Petitioner asserted that Rivera had not been a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the board election as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Petitioner filed an application for emergency relief in this matter, which was denied. A plenary hearing was held in the matter on February 7, 2017, after which the record was closed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the question posed in this matter is when did respondent Rivera become a bona fide resident of Bloomfield; Rivera was elected to the Board in November 2016; petitioner ran for re-election to a third term in the same race, but failed to earn enough votes to continue his service on the Board; soon after the election, questions were raised about the residency of respondent, and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board; petitioner retained the services of a detective agency to conduct a residency investigation on respondent; the resulting detective's report concluded that respondent lived in Elizabeth rather than Bloomfield; on the other hand, respondent provided testimony from herself and others that contradicted the facts and assumptions of the detective's report, and indicated that respondent had relocated to Bloomfield after beginning a romantic relationship with her now-fiancé in April 2015; and the pivotal issue here is whether petitioner has satisfied his burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that respondent did not reside in Bloomfield for the requisite period of time. The ALJ concluded that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to the Bloomfield Board of Education. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

SHANE BERGER,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
GLADYS RIVERA AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Shane Berger. This matter involves a claim by the petitioner that respondent, Gladys Rivera – a current member of the Bloomfield Board of Education (Board) – was not a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the school board election as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.[1] In this case, the relevant school board election was held on November 8, 2016. Following a hearing at the OAL, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petitioner did not present sufficient evidence to establish that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to a seat on the Board. Therefore, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

In his exceptions, the petitioner maintains that the ALJ erred when she concluded that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that the respondent was not a resident in Bloomfield for the requisite one year period prior to the school board election. In support of his argument, the petitioner offers witness testimony that he contends demonstrates by a preponderance of the evidence that it is more likely than not that the respondent did not live in Bloomfield one year prior to the election. The petitioner stresses that the respondent is "a literal ghost" when it comes to evidence that she resided in Bloomfield on or before November 8, 2015. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4) The petitioner also emphasizes that the ALJ herself stated: "[c]learly, significant question remains as to whether respondent was domiciled in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election." (Id. at 2) Based on the totality of the circumstances, the competent, credible evidence contradicts the respondent's assertion that she lived in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election. Therefore, the petitioner argues that he has met his burden of proof, and the respondent should be removed from her position on the Board.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner did not present sufficient evidence to establish that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to a seat on the Board. In this case, the petitioner alleges that the respondent was not a bona fide resident of Bloomfield for one year prior to the election, while the respondent maintains that she was in fact a resident of Bloomfield. Importantly, it is the petitioner who carries the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield as of November 8, 2015.

Although there may be questions regarding the respondent's residency[2], based on her overall assessment of the evidence and witness testimony, the ALJ found that the respondent's testimony that she was a resident of Bloomfield for the requisite period was not successfully challenged. The ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The respondent maintains that she moved into her fiancé's residence in Bloomfield before November 8, 2015. The ALJ found that the respondent testified plausibly and her fiancé testified credibly in connection with concerns raised by the petitioner regarding where the respondent resided during the relevant period. It is clear that the ALJ's ultimate determination in this matter was dictated by which party had the burden of proof. Notwithstanding the petitioner's contentions to the contrary, the Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's determinations of witness credibility or her application of the petitioner's burden of proof to find that the petitioner did not present enough evidence to prove that the respondent was not a resident of Bloomfield as of November 8, 2015.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

GLADYS RIVERA, AND BOARD OF EDUCATION OF BLOOMFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY,

Respondents.

Ciro Spina, Esq., for petitioner (Law Offices of Jef Henninger, attorneys)

James A. Key, Jr., Esq., for respondent Gladys Rivera (Key Law Firm, attorneys)

Jonathan M. Busch, Esq., for respondent Bloomfield Board of Education (Busch Law Group, LLC, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 7, 2017 Decided: May 8, 2017

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, Shane Berger, asserts that Gladys Rivera, currently a member of the Board of Education of Bloomfield, Essex County, New Jersey, had not been a resident of Bloomfield for one year immediately preceding the election as is required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.

Petitioner filed an application for emergency relief seeking an Order voiding the candidacy of Rivera for a seat on the Board and enjoining Rivera from continuing to occupy a seat and/or removing her from her elected position.

Oral argument was heard on January 5, 2017, and on January 6, 2017, an Order was issued denying the emergent relief sought.

The matter was scheduled for plenary hearing on February 7, 2017, and was heard on that date, at the conclusion of which the record closed.

TESTIMONY

Edward Koster

Edward Koster has been the director of the Spartan Detective Agency for three and a half years. He previously served as a police officer for twenty-five years in the Township of Union. He was asked by petitioner to conduct an investigation of Gladys E. Rivera. He generated two reports, one that was later determined to be related to a different Gladys Rivera, and a second that investigated the correct person. (P-2.) The report, dated January 13, 2017, revealed that as of that date Ms. Rivera's address was 542 South Broad Street, in Elizabeth, N.J. Koster used several databases in his research, and checked telephone numbers and cell-phone numbers, and cross-referenced everything, and nothing came up to suggest that Ms. Rivera resided in Bloomfield, N.J., as of January 13, 2017. Her cell-phone bill does not go to the Bloomfield address, nor do any utility bills.

Jill Fischman

Jill Fischman is in her second term on the Bloomfield Board of Education and served as president from June 2016 until December 2016. She was notified in December 2016 that questions had arisen regarding respondent's residency, and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board of Education. Ms. Fischman testified that she sent respondent a text message indicating that there were concerns about her residency, and asked for proof of residency. In turn, respondent sent Ms. Fischman her New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission (MVC) change-of-address form dated March 24, 2016.[1] Respondent indicated that she would provide additional proofs, or a letter from her landlord; however, none of those things were forthcoming, and Ms. Fischman heard nothing further from respondent regarding the request for additional proofs of residency.

As a result, Ms. Fischman asked Nicholas Dotoli, Esq., Board attorney, to seek the assistance of the police department in determining respondent's residency. She does not know what they did and did not receive any reports. She asked for the inquiry because respondent had said that her campaign manager would provide additional proofs of residency, and did not, and so she asked that a police check be undertaken.

Leonardo Marin III

Leonardo Marin has resided at 329 Ampere Park in Bloomfield for four years with his mother and younger brother. He indicated that he has been the building supervisor for those four years, for which he receives no salary, but does receive additional property privileges, including use of the patio and additional parking. The residence is a three-family house and he lives on the second floor. The third-floor tenant is Richard Mendez, who has lived there approximately nine years, and now Gladys Rivera, respondent, who moved in with Mr. Mendez in April 2016. Marin testified that he had just finished a course of physical therapy for a sports injury at the time, and noted her moving boxes in gradually.

[1] This is only eight months before the election.

Vincent Kearney

Lieutenant Kearney has been employed by the Bloomfield Police Department for sixteen years and is the lieutenant in charge of the Internal Affairs Division. He has been a lieutenant since 2014, and prior to that was a sergeant for five years. He was asked by the police director to do an investigation of respondent, and was provided with the Spartan report and the letter from Mr. Marin. He determined that respondent moved to Bloomfield in the spring of 2016, sometime between the dates of March 9 and April 19, 2016, and that prior to that she resided at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth, N.J. An MVC search revealed that on March 9, 2016, the address on her driver's license had been changed to 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield. He checked the voter-registration system, which revealed that respondent changed her voter registration to the Bloomfield address on April 19, 2016. He also found prior voter registrations at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth (until September 2016) and a prior voting address of 527 Morris Avenue, also in Elizabeth, N.J.

Lieutenant Kearney then conducted witness interviews, including of Mr. Marin, who indicated that respondent moved into his building in April, and that at some point, "several months ago," Richard Mendez had asked permission for respondent to move in with him. Marin did not recall exactly when Mendez had sought permission, but indicated that it was several months before Lieutenant Kearney spoke to him in January 2017.

Lieutenant Kearney testified that he did not speak to respondent's prior landlord. He also testified that NJ MVC laws require individuals who move to change their address within fourteen days or they can receive a summons.

Shane Berger

Mr. Berger is self-employed and owns a chain of laundromats. He was elected to the Bloomfield Board of Education in 2010 and reelected in 2013, and has served as chairman of every committee. He has also served as the liaison for every school; however, he was not reelected in the last cycle in 2016, and came in fourth place. He has also previously served on the county school board association, and was the State chairman of the Standards and Assessments Standing Committee.

Mr. Berger testified that many people reached out to him indicating that "someone needs to do something" about the fact that a nonresident had been elected to the Board. He recognized that he would not get the seat if respondent were unseated; however, he felt that residency issues are important matters that the Board has to address, and that if a Board member does not even comply, how can they determine residency compliance by others?

Berger testified that he went to the county superintendent of elections and was advised that the onus is on the district to determine respondent's residency. He then met with the Board attorney, Mr. Dotoli, and the superintendent, Mr. Gonzalez. Soon thereafter, he received a call from the county superintendent's office instructing him how to challenge the election results.

Berger testified that he wants credibility for the Board of Education, and that the residency of Board members cannot be in question. He says he is doing his civic duty. He believes respondent did not live in town for the requisite one year prior to the election, and that she has provided no proof otherwise, despite requests from the then-president of the Board, Ms. Fischman.

Nicholas J. Dotoli

Mr. Dotoli is employed by the Bloomfield Township Board of Education as director of human resources and general counsel. He oversees all employment acts and certification issues and also oversees special education. He advises the Board members and reports to the superintendent.

Residency issues related to respondent came to his attention from members of the community who were concerned whether there had been compliance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, et seq., and whether respondent actually lived in town. He sent an email to the police director (R-1) at the request of the Board president, Ms. Fischman, to investigate the residency issue. He also spoke to Lieutenant Kearney regarding his report, and was concerned that respondent had moved to Bloomfield in April 2016.

He testified that he has never had to do an investigation of a Board member. He agreed that investigations are conducted of student residency issues, but he does not feel the same standards apply under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. A student may not attend school if not a resident of the district, but he does not believe it is within his jurisdiction to make sure the Board members are qualified to sit, and feels that is the responsibility of the County Board of Elections, which has jurisdiction to determine if Board members have met the requirements.[2]

Amarilis Martinez

Ms. Martinez testified that she lives at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, which is a two-family home that she has owned for thirty-six years. She stated that respondent rented a room from her from early 2015 until June 30, 2015, pursuant to her rent receipts. At the end of June 2015, respondent moved out and moved in with her boyfriend, Richard

[2] Under the school laws governing the qualifications of school-board members, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 to -2.2, "[e]ach member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district . . . and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. Moreover, "[w]henever a member of a local or regional board of education shall cease to be a bona fide resident of the district . . . his membership in the board shall immediately cease." N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3. And, in the event a school-board member is removed because he is not a resident of the district, the county superintendent of schools shall fill the vacancy. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15(a).

The Commissioner of Education has "jurisdiction to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. However, in 1995 the Legislature "transfer[red] responsibility for the conduct of school elections from boards of education to the officials responsible for conducting other elections under New Jersey's election code (Title 19 of the Revised Statutes)," and "jurisdiction over school election-related disputes [was] removed from the Commissioner of Education and State Board of Education, so that such disputes will be handled in the same manner as those arising with respect to other elections." P.L. 1995, c. 278; Statement to Senate Amendments to A1705 (adopted June 12, 1995). As a result of that change, "controversies and disputes concerning the conduct of school elections shall not be deemed to arise under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

Thus, while the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over the conduct of school elections, the Commissioner still has jurisdiction over post-election challenges to a board member's qualifications, including the residency requirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1. See, e.g., Bd. of Educ. of Sea Isle v. Kennedy, EDU 2028-05, Comm'r (June 30, 2005) (confirming that the Commissioner is the one "to whom adjudication of board member qualification is reserved in the event of a dispute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9"), aff'd, State Bd. of Educ. (January 4, 2006), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, aff'd, 393 N.J. Super. 93 (App. Div. 2007) (stating that "[c]laims regarding an individual's qualifications to serve on a local board fall under the Commissioner.s jurisdiction"), aff'd, modified for other reasons, 196 N.J. 1 (2008).

Mendez, in Bloomfield. She believes that they became engaged on July 5, 2015, and moved in together around that time. Her daughter is married to respondent's son, and both her sons now live in the building as of June 2015, when respondent moved out. She testified that respondent paid $300 a month for the room. She stated that respondent still receives mail at her address, and that she comes there every weekend, because "she is family," as they are both grandmothers to the same children.

Aida Ortiz

Ms. Ortiz testified that she lives at 12 Turnbridge Place in Bloomfield, N.J., where she has lived for seventeen years. She has known respondent since Mother's Day 2015, when her son introduced Rivera as his fiancée. Her son resides at 329 Ampere Parkway, Bloomfield, and Ms. Ortiz testified that she was there when respondent moved in with her son at that address. She testified that she helped bring some things upstairs. Respondent was unsure of the security of the mail at the Bloomfield address because she did not trust the residents there, and so she still sends mail to Ms. Ortiz's home in Bloomfield. Respondent asked her almost a year ago if she could use her address to send mail to. She also stated that respondent took a "small bedroom set" into the apartment, and that she unpacked clothes and dishes for about two hours, helping to empty out a small truck they rented.

Richard Mendez

Mr. Mendez testified that he has lived at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield for three and a half or four years, and that respondent is his fiancée. He testified that they met online on April 10, 2015; started dating about a week later; and became engaged on July 5, 2015. He testified that he introduced her to his mother, Ms. Ortiz, on Mother's Day of 2015, and that she moved into his apartment at the end of June or in early July 2015. Mr. Mendez provided a receipt for the engagement ring dated June 8, 2015. (R-2.) He agrees that respondent asked his mother if her mail could go to his mom's house because they felt there was mail tampering since she moved in with him.

Mendez stated that when his mother met respondent in May 2015 she was not yet his fiancée, and so his mother was incorrect when she said that respondent was introduced to her as his fiancée.

He also stated that his mail was tampered with in July 2015, so they began to send their mail to his mother's address, and that his mother's address is on all his bills and checks.[3] The mailboxes at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield do not have locks on them; however, the mailbox at his mother's house does, so all the mail goes here. Mendez confirmed that he asked permission of the landlord for respondent to move in around June of 2015. He also stated that respondent does not pay any of the bills.

Finally, Mendez testified that a joint account with respondent was opened on August 3, 2015. (R-3.)

Gladys Rivera

Ms. Rivera testified that from January 2015 until the end of June 2015 she lived at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth. She then said she had moved there at the end of August 2014. At the end of June 2015 she moved into 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, with Richard Mendez. She arranged at the time for her mail to remain coming to the Fulton Street address until she was comfortable with mail going to Bloomfield. She believed that Leo Marin's younger brother would go through the mailbox, and so arranged for bank statements and certain other mail to go to her mother's address, and other mail to continue to go to Martinez's address.

Rivera testified that she "started off fine" with other tenants at the Bloomfield address; however, relationships changed when the Marins had her daughter's car towed from the driveway one day. It was parked in Mr. Mendez's spot at the time, yet it was towed. The Marin boys continued to visit, as they were friendly with Mendez's son; however, their mother, Teresa, no longer spoke to her.

[3] None were produced and there was no indication they had been requested to be produced.

Ms. Rivera testified that her fiancé's mother, Aida Ortiz, helped a bit with the move. They had an SUV that they used, but did not bring any furniture; they had a futon delivered a few weeks later. She stated that she moved in with Mendez in July 2015 after Ms. Martinez needed the room she had been renting for another son, who moved in when she moved out, and remains living there today. She had nowhere to go back to, and so moved in with Mr. Mendez.

Rivera agreed that she had been asked for proof of residency, and only provided an MVC address-change form from March 2016, and that other address changes slipped her mind because a lot was going on. She stated that her cell-phone bill goes to her son because it is in his name, and that the bank statement for her personal account goes to Ms. Martinez's home at 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth. The statements for the joint account with Mr. Mendez go to 12 Turnbridge Place in Bloomfield, Ms. Ortiz's home. She testified that she changed her voter registration in March or April 2016, and agreed that there are no bills or other utilities in her name, and that she is not on the lease. Rivera again stated that she lived at 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth from December 2010 until August 2014,[4] and then moved to 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, but she did not change her address because she "didn't see a need."

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based upon consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

Gladys Rivera is a member of the Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield in Essex County. An election was held in November 2016 for four seats on the Board. Three seats were for three-year terms and one seat was for a one-year term. Respondent earned 4,258 votes for one of the three-year seats, and thus was seated.

[4] This varies from Ms. Martinez's testimony and the rent receipts she referenced, which she indicated reflected that Rivera rented the room from January 2015 through June 2015.

Petitioner ran in the same election, also seeking a three-year term, and placed fourth, with 2,670 votes.

Soon after the election, questions were raised about the residency of Ms. Rivera and whether she had lived in town for the requisite one year prior to running for the Board. The president of the Board at the time, Jill Fischman, advised respondent of the concerns that had been raised as to her residency and asked for proof that Ms. Rivera did indeed reside in Bloomfield. In response to this inquiry, respondent sent Ms. Fischman the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission address form dated March 24, 2016. Rivera indicated she would provide additional proofs and a letter from her landlord; however, no additional proofs were received by Ms. Fischman.

Ms. Fischman then requested that the Board attorney, Nicholas Dotoli, Esq., ask the police department for help in determining respondent's residency. That was her last involvement with the issue.

Believing that Rivera had not resided in Bloomfield for the one year immediately prior to the election as is required by statute, petitioner retained the services of the Spartan Detective Agency to conduct a search on Rivera. The investigator reported that as of the date of his report, January 13, 2017, all information came back indicating Ms. Rivera's address to be 542 South Broad Street in Elizabeth, New Jersey. He concluded that she resided at the address following voter-registration searches, motor-vehicle searches, and cell-phone searches, as more fully detailed in a twenty-five-page report he provided to petitioner. He also determined that Rivera was registered to vote in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and therefore also did not meet the requirement of the statute that she be registered to vote in the district. After receiving the report, petitioner filed his application to have her removed from her position on the Board.

Respondent previously resided at 542 South Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey. She then moved to 511 Fulton Street in Elizabeth, New Jersey, and lived there from either August 2014 or January 2015 until the end of June 2015, when she moved out.

Respondent and Richard Mendez met online on April 10, 2015, and started dating about a week later, becoming engaged on July 5, 2015. Respondent moved in with Mendez at 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, New Jersey, sometime between July 1, 2015, and March 9, 2016. Respondent and Mendez opened a joint bank account on August 3, 2015.

On March 9, 2016, Rivera changed the address on her driver's license to 329 Ampere Parkway in Bloomfield, New Jersey. Respondent changed her voter registration to Bloomfield, New Jersey, on April 19, 2016.

Respondent has her mail delivered to her mother's address, to Ms. Ortiz's[5] address, and to Ms. Martinez's[6] address.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1, Qualifications, provides in salient part as follows:

> Each member of any board of education shall be a citizen and resident of the district, or of such constituent district of a consolidated or regional district as may be required by law, and shall have been such for at least one year immediately preceding his appointment or election, he shall be able to read and write, shall be registered to vote in the district, and, notwithstanding the provisions of N.J.S. 2C:51-1 or any other law to the contrary, he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1 . . . .

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.1, Oaths, provides as follows:

> Each member of the board of education shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe:
>
> (1) An oath that he possesses the qualifications of membership prescribed by law, including a specific declaration that he is not disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1 and a specific declaration that

[5] Aida Ortiz is Mr. Mendez's mother.
[6] Martinez's daughter is married to respondent's son.

> he is not disqualified due to conviction of a crime or offense listed in N.J.S. 18A:12-1, and that he will faithfully discharge the duties of his office, and also
>
> (2) The oath prescribed by R.S. 41:1-3.
> In the case of a Type I school district the oath shall be filed with the clerk of the municipality and in all other cases it shall be filed with the secretary of the board of education of the district.

The question then is, when did Rivera become a bona fide resident of Bloomfield, New Jersey? The petitioner in this matter asserts that respondent is not eligible for membership on the Board for having failed to meet the one-year residency requirement of the statute. Petitioner seeks to have respondent removed from the Board. Respondent contends that she was a resident of Bloomfield for more than one year preceding her election and that the burden is on the petitioner to prove she was not.

As a threshold matter, it must be presumed that respondent met the requirements of the County Board of Elections, because respondent's name was printed on the ballot. The Board of Elections must therefore, have been satisfied that the candidate was qualified by residence, among other things, to be elected to the Board.

It is well settled that a person can have more than one residence, but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 517 (1999). The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959).

Respondent testified that she registered to vote in Bloomfield in March or April of 2016; however, no testimony was offered as to whether respondent did in fact vote in Bloomfield in the following election cycle. However, failure to vote is not proof of lack of residence; indeed, the notion that she was still a resident of Elizabeth would be disproven with the same argument.

The basis of the petition in this matter is primarily threefold: (1) respondent receives no bills or any other mail at the Bloomfield address; (2) respondent was registered to vote in Elizabeth, New Jersey, until March or April 2016; and (3) respondent changed the address on her driver's license in March 2016. When asked by the president of the Board of Education for proof as to her residency, respondent failed to provide any, other than the MVC address change processed less than eight months before the election. While at first blush it appears that respondent had not established domicile in Bloomfield within the requisite one year, she offered the plausible explanation that the mail was not secure at the Bloomfield address, and so all of her bills and bank statements continued to be sent to prior addresses or to her mother's home. The pivotal issue, therefore, in this matter is whether petitioner has satisfied his burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible, competent evidence, that respondent did not reside in Bloomfield for the requisite period of time.

In connection with that determination, it is necessary for me to assess and weigh the credibility of the witnesses for purposes of making factual findings as to the disputed facts. Credibility is the value that a finder of facts gives to a witness' testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible," and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or

"overborne" by the testimony or other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Dep't of Cmty. Affairs, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).
